FOREIGN.—Queen Victoria will visit Germany early in April.—Spurgeon, the great London preacher, has been left a fortune by Joseph Pool, of Leicester, England.—A dispatch from Mandalay, the capital of Burmah says: "The Shans native hill tribe of North Burmah, have revolted and are devastating the lower plains. They have infested the town of Bhamo, from which English and American missionaries have fled."—American Consul at Dundee has asked the captains of whaling vessels to keep a lookout for Lieutenant Greely in Baffin's Bay, in view of the possibility of his drifting from Smith's Sound on an ice floe.—Archduke John, of Austria, has published a pamphlet on Spiritualism. He recounts unmasking of the Spiritualist Bastian. The Archduke says spiritualism is cherished in huts and palaces, and its adherents number two million.—The funeral services over the remains of the late minister Hunt, took place on Tuesday of last week at the American Church in St. Petersburg. The coffin wrapped in the stars and stripes, was conveyed to the church in a hearse drawn by six horses. The coffin was then laid in the vault of the church, where it will remain until preparations are made for transporting it to the United States.—The London police are doing their utmost to discover the authors of the dynamite plans; but the clues are not promising. Organizations between England and the Continental Powers against Americans and dynamiters has been agreed upon without any special treaty. The European press continues to assert that it is the duty of America to suppress conspiracy. The French police are giving active help, and expect soon to soon disperse the dynamite colony in France.

me, the more vigorously I should oppose it. Truth is to be vindicated, not because my party holds it, and some other party opposes it; but because truth is truth, and helps every man who holds to truth. As man approximates the divine appreciation of truth and error, he clings the more firmly to the truth. He defends it more earnestly, as those nearest him reject or trample it under foot; he fights error more vigorously, as those nearest him embrace it.

The true Christian as he comes to the standard of truth, becomes like Paul, determined to know no man after the flesh, but only as they stand for truth and for God. The simple truth in these matters is this, sometimes we, in arguing, mistake and substitute hard words for strong arguments. But much oftener those pressed in argument, mistake strong arguments for hard words, and think they are personally abused, when in truth, only the falsity of their position is shown.

A kind of effeminate sentimentalism demands that in maintaining truth, and in exposing error, especially if that error has gotten a foothold in the church, soft and pointless words should be used. Does not this desire for special tenderness toward error in the churches come from a partizanship that is inimical to truth? Will it not blunt the edge and break the force of truth, excuse and so foster error in the church, where it is most important to keep clear of it? While all personal bitterness to wound those without and within ought to be carefully avoided, no man of decided convictions is willing to express himself in pointless words, nor ought any earnest man be called upon to break the force of his argument, by an over-sensitiveness of those opposed. The Savior clothed strong arguments in vigorous words to expose error, so did Paul, and Peter and John, and Luther and Campbell, and every earnest man of earth. D. L.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

We direct attention to the new advertisements, and renewal of old ones.

J. W. McCullough is one of the most reliable manufacturers of the city.

G. C. Terry, manufacturer of show cases, cedar chests, wardrobes, etc., stands high in his line.

Geo. E. Cooper & Co. renew their advertisement as finners. We have traded with them, and found them fair and accommodating dealers.

A. B. Payne & Co., dealers in stationery and writing materials, are the largest dealers in that line in the city. We commend them to all needing articles in their line.

Campbell & Bro., Druggists, give an advertisement of certain medicines. We have no knowledge of the medicines, but they are reliable and trustworthy business men. We commend them as excellent brethren, and good business men.

We ask our friends to give these advertisers a call, and let them know they saw their advertisements in the ADVOCATE. It helps us for them to advertise with us, and we wish the advertisements to benefit them, and wish them to know they benefit them. We will try to present only fair and reliable dealers.

The Legislature of New York has passed a bill to promote the welfare of the city of New York, allowing the Mayor to appoint men to office, without the approval of the Board of Aldermen. This is done on the ground that the Aldermen are the slaves of the whisky ring and city roughs, and never allow a man to be appointed that will not subserve the ends of the saloon men and their friends.

Some Reading.

The Maister an' the Bairns.

The Maister sat in a wee cot house
To the Jordan's waters near,
And the fisher fowk crushed an' crooded roon'
The Maister's words to hear.
An' even the bairns frae the near-haun' streets
War mixin' in wi' the thrang, Laddies an' lassies wi' wee bare feet
Jinkin' the crood amang.
An' ane o' the Twal' at the Maister's side Raise up an' cried aloud—
"Come, come, bairns, this is nae place for you, Rin awa' hame oot the crood."
But the Maister said, as they turned awa
"Let the wee bairns come to me?"
An' he gathered them roon' him whar he sat,
An' lifted ane up on his knee.
Ay, he gathered them roon' him whar he sat,
An' straitit their curley hair,
An' he said to the won'erin' fisher fowk
That croodit aroon' him there—
Sen'na the weans awa' frae me,
But rather this lesson learn—
That name'll won in at heaven's yett
That isna as pure as a bairn!"
An' he that wisna oor Mith an' kin,
But a Prince o' the Far Awa',
Gathered the wee aunes in his arms,
And blessed them ane an' a'.
O thou who watchest the ways o' men
Keep our feet in the heavenly airt,
An' bring us at last to thy bame abune
As pure as the bairns in he'rt.

—William Thompson.

BILLY'S PAT OF BUTTER.

You never can know how delighted Billy was to get out to Uncle Joe's farm for a visit, because you have no idea how nice it was out there. There were no children at Cherry Grove ("That's the reason they want to borrow me," thought Billy;) but there were chickens and ducks and kittens and a puppy, and two colts, and pigs and pigeons, and everything that was little except little people.

Aunt Judy thought it was very dangerous for Billy to ride behind Uncle Joe on the big bay horse; and it is true his little fat legs stuck right straight out, so that his feet couldn't touch anywhere, but Uncle Joe said it was a long way safer than cherry pie for supper, and as Uncle Joe and Aunt Judy never came to any agreement about this matter, lucky little Billy got the rides and the cherry pie too—and wasn't hurt by either.

One reason Billy was so happy at Cherry Grove was that he was allowed to help about things. It is a pity that grown folks don't always know how much little ones like to help; at Billy's home there were lots of big brothers and sisters, and they always said, "Oh, you go ride a stick horse, Billy." But at Uncle Joe's he helped to drive the sheep, and carried little buckets of slop to the pigs, and held Uncle Joe's horse by a rope, when he wanted him to eat the front yard grass; and always, every morning and every evening he carried up the printed pat of butter, from Aunt Judy's dairy, at the foot of the hill. That was one of his very nicest jobs; for the dairy was the sweetest smelling place in the world, and Billy was never tired of seeing the water fall into the trough at one side, and gurgle out through the opening at the other.

As Billy started up the hill one fresh, early morning, with the butter on a saucer, and a little wet napkin over it, Uncle Joe's man let the sheep out of the fold, and Billy stopped to watch them run, and push past each other, to see which could get to the meadow first, when, the first thing he knew the old ram, with the broken horns, ran right at him, and sprawled him over, butter and all. He fell on the grass, and didn't mind, and the saucer and napkin he held tight in his hand; but ah, the nice pat of butter, with the cow printed on top! it rolled and rolled, and flopped down in the dust. Billy stood and looked at it a minute, and then he suddenly thought of something. The dust was only on the under side. He sat down on the grass, took out his barlow knife, with the broad, dull blade, and smoothed it all over, turning the dirt inside! Then up he jumped, and was soon at Aunt Judy's breakfast table, impatient to begin on the muffins.

"Hallo!" said Uncle Joe; "what's the matter with the butter?"

"Well," said Aunt Judy, her face getting red, "what's the matter with it?"

"You might as well lower your flag, old woman," said he; "there's dirt in it."

Aunt Judy ran at the print as if he had said that there was a young alligator in it; there was the dirt sure enough, and she couldn't have looked more horrified if the alligator had been a full grown one.

Meantime, Billy was clearing his throat of muffins, and of something else that seemed to stick there, and getting ready to own up.

"It's me Aunt Judy," he said in a rather squeaky voice; and then he told all about it.

Uncle Joe laughed until the cup and saucers rattled; but Aunt Judy shook her head, and looked sorry about something else than the butter.

"Never mind," said Uncle Joe; Billy's got to have a sermon about this, and I'm going to preach it, help yourself to another muffin, Billy, and listen: My sermon is to have two heads and my text is the butter; and firstly, dearly beloved brethren, when you are in the business of bringing up butter, don't stop to look after any fellow's business; and, secondly, when you get any dirt on your butter or hands, or your heart, or your conscience, don't you ever think about covering it up; the only thing to do, my friends, and especially Billy my lad, is to get rid of it.

Now, whether it was the pat of butter, that made Billy remember the sermon, or the sermon that kept him from forgetting the pat of butter, I can't say; but I have known him for fifty years, and he hasn't done a sly thing all this time.—S. S. Times.

"NO CROSS, NO CROWN."

There is a great gulf fixed between the teachings of the world and the teachings of the gospel, on the subject of easy living. According to the popular view, the one thing worth living for is to have money to spend, fine pictures to admire, pleasant books to read, soft carpets for the feet, easy couches for tired limbs and delicate dishes for the palate; and yet the God whom we believe in and worship has only revealed himself to human eyes and hands as one who was crucified, whose brow was wounded with thorns and whose side was pierced through with a spear; and the gospel which he brought teaches that all pampering of the body and all undue indulgence of its desires, so far from being the supreme object of life, may be a snare and stumbling-block to the soul. If there are any of us who really believe in our hearts that personal enjoyment is the true object of our lives, let us honestly acknowledge to ourselves that we are lovers of pleasure rather than lovers of God, and so go back to crown with roses the forgotten statues of the kindly pagan gods who loved not life and the beauty of sense. There ought not to be room in one house for both the cross of Christ and the ivy-crown of the wine-god, or the myrtle of the goddess of pleasure. "No man can serve two masters," so runs the old saying, but the lesson is hard to learn. Nevertheless it is one which must be learned sooner or later, when every man must make the deliberate choice whether he will count his own pleasure the chief object of his life, or whether he will yield his will, for pleasure or for pain, to the will of God. And on that one decision hangs every man's destiny for both here and hereafter.—S. S. Times.

A GOOD PLACE FOR A NEST.

John Burroughs describes in the Century "The Tragedies of the Nests," and commends the shrewdness of the bobolink: "If I were a bird," he says, "in building my nest I should follow the example of the bobolink, placing it in the midst of a broad meadow, where there was no grass, or flower, or growth unlike another to mark its site. I judge that the bobolink escapes the dangers to which I have adverted as few or no other birds can do. Unless the mowers come along at an earlier date than she has anticipated—that is, before July 1—or a skunk goes nosing through the grass, which is unusual, she is as safe as a bird well can be in the great open of nature. She selects the most monotonous and uniform place she can find amid daisies or the timothy and clover, and places her simple structure upon the ground in the midst of it. There is no concealment, except as the great conceals the little, as the desert conceals the pebble, as the myriad conceals the unit. You may find the nest once, if your course chances to lead you across it, and your eye is quick enough to note the silent brown bird as she darts swiftly away; but step three paces in the wrong direction, and your search will probably be fruitless."

LETTERS FROM THE YOUNG FOLKS.

Dear Uncle Minor: I am a little girl thirteen years old, daughter of J. F. Rogers. My father takes the ADVOCATE and I read all your letters in the ADVOCATE. We have a large church house, and Elder N. B. Wallace is our preacher; he preaches there every Lord's day with the exceptions of one, and Elder T. L. Weatherford preaches on that day. Fearing my letter will be too lengthy, I will close.—[Belle Rogers, Athens, Limestone County, Ala.]

Dear Uncle Minor: I see you are writing to the little boys and girls. I love to hear what you say. When you tell us that you have been a little boy and have stumped your toe, I know how to feel for you when you were a little boy with a stumped toe. I have two sisters and one brother. Papa says he saw you last fall. Now Uncle Minor I want you to write to me in the ADVOCATE; I never got a letter in my life, and if you have time please write one to me. Won't you publish a "letter ADVOCATE" for the little folks? It would be so nice.—[Gideon Moss Alsop, Jr.]

P. S.—The reason I wrote to-day, (March 3rd) it is mama's birthday.—[G. M. A., Wilford, Wilson Co, Tenn.]

Dear Uncle Minor: I have read your letters in the ADVOCATE with interest, and especially your ten rules to children; and I have wanted to write to you, and have written two or three times and did not send my letters. I am eleven years old. I have been going to school this winter. My pa takes the GOSPEL ADVOCATE, and has been taking it for eight or nine years. My oldest brother takes the Youth's Companion. I have five brothers and two little sisters. Mr. Ballinger told me he knew you at Denton, and said you was a good Sunday-school superintendent. Now Mr. Ballinger is our neighbor, and I think he is a good man; he loves to go to Sunday-school. We have a Bible class and meet at our school house every Sunday. I have undertaken to answer some of Mr. Poe's questions in the ADVOCATE, but pa thinks my answers will be incorrect. I have many other things I would like to write to you, but as I know I am restricted in the length of my letter, I will close, hoping you will write often.—[Alice R. Dewees, Aurora, Texas.]

LOOK FOR THE GOOD.

There is a great deal of good in the world. But there would be even more, if that which is there were recognized, appreciated and used more. And this is especially true of individuals. It is very seldom that a man's character will be bettered by our continually picking out its flaws and faults and throwing them at him. Usually it only serves to harden him and confirm him in his evil. But look for the good in him, no matter how little it be, and how hard to find. Show him that it is recognized, and that it in so far gains him respect; and it will soon reach out, spread, and perhaps eventually encompass the whole character. It is in this sense, too, that we are to "overcome evil with good," by discovering the grain of good that is in a man, cultivating, airing, developing it, until it gradually crowds out the evil by the vigor of its own growth. Planting and watering is always more profitable than weeding.—Moravian.

A LITTLE COMFORTER.

A lady who had charge of young persons not of kindred blood, became on one occasion perplexed with regard to her duty. She retired to her own room to meditate, and being grieved in spirit, laid her head upon a table and wept bitterly. She scarcely perceived her little daughter seated quietly in a corner. Unable longer to bear the sight of her mother's distress, she stole softly to her side, and taking her hand in both of her own, said:

"Mamma, once you taught me a pretty hymn:

"If e'er you meet with trials
Or troubles on the way,
Then cast your care on Jesus,
And don't forget to pray."

The counsel of the little monitor was taken, and relief came. The mother was repaid for rightly training her child by having her become her blessed teacher.

"Out of the mouths of babes and sucklings God hath ordained praise."

A Prominent Minister Writes

Dr. Mosley—Dear Sir: After ten years of great suffering from indigestion or dyspepsia, with great nervous prostration and biliousness, disordered kidneys and constipation. I have been cured by four bottles of your Lemon Elixir, and am now a well man.
REV. C. C. DAVIS, Elder M. E. Church South.
No. 28 Taitnall St. Atlanta, Ga.

From Two Prominent Ladies.

I have not been able in two years to walk or stand without suffering great pain. Since taking Dr. Mosley's Lemon Elixir, I can walk half mile without suffering the least inconvenience.
Mrs. R. H. BLOODWORTH, Griffin, Ga.

Dr. H. Mosley: After years of suffering from indigestion, great debility and nervous prostration, with the usual female irregularities and derangements accompanying such condition of a woman's health I have been permanently relieved by the use of your Lemon Elixir.
Mrs. E. DENNIS,
Mo. 48 Chapel St., Atlanta, Ga.

J. Pratt, druggist, Wright City, Missouri, writes: Lemon Elixir gives the greatest satisfaction. It has cured a case of chills and fever of four years standing.

Dr. Mosley's Lemon Elixir, prepared at his Drug Store, 114 Whitehall Street Atlanta, Ga.

It cures all biliousness, constipation, indigestion, headache, malarial, kidney disease, fever, chills, impurities of the blood, loss of appetite, debility and nervous prostration and all other diseases caused from diseased Liver and Kidneys.

Fifty cents for one pint bottle, one dollar for pint and a half bottle. Sold by druggist generally, and all wholesale druggist, Louisville, Ky.

Miscellaneous.

No man can be brave who considers pain to be the greatest evil of life; nor temperate who considers pleasure to be the highest good.—Cicero.

Poverty and Distress.

That poverty which produces the greatest distress is not of the purse but of the blood. Deprived of its richness it becomes scant and watery, a condition termed anemia in medical writings. Given this condition, and scrofulous swelling and sores, general and nervous debility, loss of flesh and appetite, weak lungs, throat disease, spitting of blood and consumption, are among the common results. If you are a sufferer from thin, poor blood employ Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, which enriches the blood and cures the grave affections. It is more nutritive than cod liver oil, and is harmless in any condition of the system, yet powerful to cure. By druggists.

Do not wish to be anywhere but where you are. It is want of communion with God that makes our thoughts run a-gadding. Daily beseech the Lord to make your way plain; and then leave it to him to direct your steps.

Marianna, Fla.—Dr. Theo. West, "I consider Brown's Iron Bitters the best tonic that is sold."

Death makes a beautiful appeal to charity. When we look upon the dead form, so composed and still, the kindness and the love that are in us all come forth.—Chapin.

Dr. KLINE's Great Nerve Restorer is the marvel of the age for all Nerve Diseases. All fits stopped free. Send to 981 Arch Street, Philada., Pa.

Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar overpowers the most troublesome cough.

Pike's Toothache Drops cure in one minute.

Glenn's Sulphur Soap cures skin diseases.

Catarrh Cured.

A Clergyman, after suffering a number of years from that dreadful disease Catarrh, and after trying every known remedy without success, at last found a prescription which completely cured and saved him from death. Any sufferer from this dreadful disease sending a self-addressed stamped envelope to Dr. J. A. LAWRENCE, Brooklyn, N. Y. will receive the recipe free of charge.

Microscopic holiness is the perfection of excellence. If a life will bear examinations in every hour of it, it is pure indeed. To live by the day and watch each step is the true pilgrimage method.—C. H. Spurgeon.

As a tonic and nerve for debilitated women nothing surpasses Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription." By druggists.

There is, I know not how, in the minds of men a certain presage, as it were, of a future existence, and this takes the deepest root and is most discoverable in the greatest geniuses and most exalted souls.

Charlottesville, Va.—Mr. C. H. Harman, President of the Peoples' Bank, testifies to the value of Brown's Iron Bitters for relieving indigestion.

Take your stand on the Rock of Ages. Let death. Let the judgment come; the victory is yours through him.

For sufferers of Chronic Diseases, 36 pp, symptoms, remedies, helps, advice. Send stamp—Dr. Whittier, St. Louis, Mo., (oldest office.) State case your way.

SANITARIUM, Riverside, Cal. The dry climate cures. Nose, Throat, Lungs, full idea, 36p, route, cost free.

Extract of Report from the Celebrated Physicians, Erasmus Wilson, of London, Eng.: "Several severe cases of incipient Consumption have come under my observation that have been cured by the timely use of Golden's Liquid Beef Tonic. (Remember the name, Golden's—take no other.) Of druggists.

AN ONLY DAUGHTER CURED OF CONSUMPTION.

When death was hourly expected, all remedies having failed, and Dr. H. James was experimenting with the many herbs of Calcutta, he accidentally made a preparation which cured his only child of Consumption. His child is now in this country, and enjoying the best of health. He has proved to the world that Consumption can be positively and permanently cured. The Doctor now gives this recipe free, only asking two 2-cent stamps to pay expenses. This Herb also cures Night Sweats, Nausea at the Stomach, and will break up a fresh Cold in twenty-four hours. Address Craddock & Co., 1032 Race St., Philadelphia, naming this paper.

Sawing Made Easy

Monarch Lightning Sawing Machine!
Sent on 30 Days Test Trial. A Great Saving of Labor & Money.

A boy 15 years old can saw logs FAST and EASY. Miles MURRAY, Portage, Mich., writes: "I am much pleased with the MONARCH LIGHTNING SAWING MACHINE. I saved a 30-inch log in 2 minutes." For sawing logs into suitable lengths for family stove-wood, and all sorts of log-cutting, it is peerless and unrivalled. Illustrated Catalogue, Free. AGENTS WANTED. Mention this paper. Address: MONARCH MANUFACTURING CO., 163 E. Randolph St., Chicago, Ill.

Gold Watch Free.

The publishers of the Capitol City Home Guest, the well-known Illustrated Literary and Family Magazine, make the following liberal offer for the New Year: The person telling us the longest verse in the Bible, before March 1st, will receive a Solid Gold, Lady's Hunting Cased Swiss Watch, worth $50; if there be more than one correct answer, the second will receive an elegant Stem-winding Gentleman's Watch; the third, a key-winding English Watch. Each person must send 50 cts. with their answer, for which they will receive three months' subscription to the Home Guest, a 50 page Illustrated New Year Book, a case of 25 articles that the ladies will appreciate, and paper containing names of winners. Address: PUBL. OF HOME GUEST, HARTFORD, CONN.

The GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER

Dr. Samuel Hodges' Alterative Compound Sarsaparilla with Iodide Potash. This compound is purely vegetable, each article of ingredient is perfectly harmless in itself, having been selected from roots and herbs possessing great medicinal properties, when combined forms a most powerful, efficient, and pleasant medicine for the removal and permanent cure of ALL diseases, arising from an impure state of system, viz.: Rheumatism, Scrofula or King's evil, Scald-head or Tetter, Chronic Sore Eyes, Old or Chronic Sores of all kinds, Boils, Pimples, Syphilitic Rheumatism, Primary and Secondary Syphilis, Nervous Debility, Liver Complaints, Inflammation of the Kidneys and Bladder, renovates and invigorates the system; acts gently on the bowels. As an appetizer and for general debility, it is a most excellent remedy.

CAMPBELL BROS., Druggists, Sole Manufacturers.
For Sale by all druggist. Price $1.00 per bottle, or 3 for $5.00. Liberal discount to the trade.

ALSO MANUFACTURERS OF

ETHIOPIAN PILE OINTMENT

A never failing remedy for External, internal or Itching Piles. Ask your Druggist for it. None genuine without the Trade Mark. Price $1.00 per Bottle.

TESTIMONIAL.

This is to certify that I was afflicted with Piles for twenty years. I tried every Remedy offered me. Finally used the Ethiopian Pile Ointment, and found it the very best preparation I ever used. It will give almost immediate relief and will finally effect a permanent cure.
Ed. A. IRELAND,
Formerly of Gallatin, now of Breen, Phillips & Co., Nashville, Tennessee.

CAMPBELL BROS., Druggists,
Cor. Broad and Summer Sts.,
NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE.

F. H. STICKLEY. MRS. C. W. LEWIS

STICKLEY & LEWIS,

Having moved to our elegant store-room,
NO. 34 NORTH SUMMER STREET,

We will carry a large stock of fine Millinery and Fancy Goods, the light-running New Home Sewing Machines, Needles, Oil and Attachments for all machines. Fine imported German Canary Birds, good singers, $3 each. Bird Cages, Food and Tonic always on hand. Mrs. Lewis is also prepared to do Fashionable Dress Making, Dying, Plumes, Cleaning, Gloves and Stamping. Old Machines of any kind repaired or taken in part pay for the New Home.

Southern Business College,

LOUISVILLE, KY.

REAL PRACTICAL BOOK-KEEPING NO TEXT BOOKS.

OVER TWENTY-FIVE YEARS A PRACTICAL ACCOUNTANT.

Endorsed by all the Prominent Merchants of Louisville.

For terms, etc., also information as to board, etc., send for circulars, or address

BEN C. WEAVER, Principal.

PATENTS Hand-Book FREE.
R. S. & A. P. LACEY,
Patent Att'ys, Washington, D. C.

AGENTS Wanted for handsome illustrated standard Books & Bibles works of character; great variety; low in price; selling fast; needed everywhere; Liberal terms. Wm. Garretson & Co., 30 College St., Nashville, Tenn.

THE FATHER OF FISH-CULTURE.

Seth Green's Ideas About the Finny Tribe and Some of His Varied Experiences.

(Turf, Field and Farm.)

"How did you ever come to devise this scheme?"

"I have been working at it ever since I was large enough to bend a pin."

The above remark was addressed to Mr. Seth Green, the veteran fish culturist, who is known to the entire world, and his reply indicates the extent of his labors.

"When I was quite young," he continued, "I would lie on the limbs of trees that reached out over the water entire afternoons watching the movements of the fish and studying their habits. In this way I discovered many characteristics which were before unknown. I saw, as every observer must see, the destructive elements that are warring against fish, and I realized that unless something were done, the life in the streams of this country would become extinct. To counteract this disastrous end became my life work, and I am happy to say I have seen its accomplishment."

"Were you successful on the start?" "No, indeed. Up to that time all artificial attempts to raise and hatch fish from the spawn had failed, and I was compelled to experiment in an entirely new manner. The work was a careful and tedious one, but I finally succeeded, and to-day I am able to hatch and raise fully seventy five per cent of all spawn."

"Enormous! Why, that is a larger percentage than either the vegetable or animal kingdoms produce in a natural condition."

"I know it, but we exercise the greatest care in the start, and guard the little fellows until they become able to care for themselves."

The foregoing conversation occurred at Caledonia where the representative of this paper was paying a visit to the state fish hatcheries. It has been his privilege to report very many interesting sights within the past twenty-five years, but the view presented here exceeds in interest anything ever before attempted.

"How many fish are there in those ponds, Mr. Green?"

"As we have never attempted to count them it will be impossible to say. They extend way up into the millions though. We shipped over three millions out of these ponds this year and there seemed to be as many afterward as before. We have nearly every variety of the trout family and many hybrids."

"You speak of hybrids, Mr. Green. What do you mean by that?"

"I have experimented for years in crossing the breed of the various fish and am still working on it. We cross the female salmon trout with the male brook trout, and thus produce a hybrid. Then we cross the hybrid with the brook trout, which gives us three-quarter brook trout and one-quarter salmon trout. This makes one of the finest fishes in the world. He has all the habits of the brook trout, lives in both streams and lakes, and develops vermilion spots on his sides, rises readily to a fly, is far more vigorous and fully one-third larger than ordinary brook trout of the same age. The possibilities of development in the fish world are great and we are rapidly ascertaining what they are."

As the man of news watched the countenances of Mr. Green while he was giving the above account, he could not help but feel that he was in the presence of the few investigators who, from a rich and lifelong experience, bring great benefit to the world. Let the reader imagine a strong and stalwart frame, surmounted by a head strongly resembling that of Socrates, and covered with a white silky beard and luxuriant gray hair. Seth Green the father of fish culture, is a picture of health, and the reporter could not help remarking so.

"If you had seen me the last winter and spring, young man, you might have thought differently," said the veteran.

"How is that? One would think, to look at you, that sickness was something of which you knew nothing."

"And so it was until last winter. I went down into Florida in the fall to see what kind of fish they had in that state and study their habits and was attacked with malaria in its severest form, and when I realized for the first time in my life, that I was sick. My symptoms were terrible. I had dull, aching pains in my head, limbs and around my back. My appetite was wholly gone, and I felt a lack of energy such as I had often heard described but had never experienced. Any one who has ever had a severe attack of malaria can appreciate my condition. I went to bed and remained there all the spring and if there ever was a sick man I was the one."

"It seems hardly possible. How did you come to recover so completely?"

"My brother, who had been afflicted by a severe kidney trouble and threatened with Bright's disease was completely cured by a remedy in which I had great confidence. I therefore tried the same remedy for my malaria and am happy to say I am a well man to-day and through the instrumentality of Warner's Safe Cure, which I believe to be one of the most valuable of medicines. Indeed, I see it endorsed by the United States medical college of New York, and that Dr. Gunn, dean of that institution, has written a long article concerning its value."

"And are you now as well as formerly?"

"Apparently so. I keep the remedy on hand all the while though and do not hesitate to recommend it to others."

"One question more. How many ponds of fish have you here and how are they divided?"

"Well, we have 43 ponds which are divided up as follows: 22 ponds of brook trout, 2 ponds of salmon trout, 4 of McCloud river or rainbow trout, 2 ponds of German trout, 3 of California mountain trout, 2 ponds of hybrids, 4 of one-quarter and three-quarters brook trout, 2 ponds of gold fish, and one pond of Carp. Then we have what we call the centennial pond or 'happy family,' consisting of crosses of different fish, including Kennebec salmon, Land Locked salmon, California salmon, brook trout, salmon trout and hybrids. These fish range in size from minnows to 18 pounders, and in age from one-and-one-half months to 11 years. I forgot to say, also, that we have a 'hospital' pond, which is entirely empty, which speaks pretty well for a community of many millions. Indeed the whole secret of fish culture can be summed up in four things. Immigration,—using no water. Plenty of pure water and cleanliness.

The numerous fish exhibitions which are taking place in all parts of Europe and the unusual interest which is being manifested in this subject throughout the world all owe their origin the process above described as originated and conducted by Seth Green. It is certainly cause for congratulation to every American that this country produces so many men whose genius brings value to the world, and it is proof positive of the greatest merit even with such high standing as Warner's Safe Cure is known to have should be so strongly endorsed and recommended by one so reputable and reliable as Seth Green.

D. C. Hall, formerly with Shields & Hall, wishes his friends to know that he is in the millinery business with New York Palace, 56 North College Street, Nashville, Tenn.

Dr. Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets" are sugar-coated and inclosed in glass bottles, their virtue thereby preserved unimpaired for any length of time, in any climate, so that they are always fresh and reliable. No cheap wooden or pasteboard boxes. By druggists.

Those who have finished by making all others think with them have usually been those who began by daring to think for themselves.—Colton.

Enrich and revitalize the blood by using Brown's Iron Bitters.

Peters' Eclectic Piano Instructor.

COMPILED BY W. C. PETERS, PRICE $3.25.

Among the great and successful Piano Methods of the day, "PETERS' ELEUTIC" has always held an honorable place. The sale of a QUARTER of a MILLION COPIES is proof tangible of its worth, and of the favor with which it is regarded, especially in a large number of educational institutions, in which it has long been used. A practical, well graded and thorough book!

Dobson's Universal Banjo Instructor.

By H. C. and G. C. DOBSON. PRICE $1.00.

The Banjo is now a fashionable instrument, and the best ones are elegant enough to go anywhere. A good book, destined to be very popular. Contains Elements, 57 bright Reels, Jigs, Hornpipes, etc., and 22 Popular Songs, such as "Old Folks at Home," "Over the Garden Wall," the songs of Dave Branham, etc.

Winner's Popular Ideal Methods.

For Violin, For Guitar, For Piano, For Cornet, For Flute, For Tub. Organ, For Clarinet, For Banjo, For Flautolet, For Fife, For Accordeon, For Boehm Flute.

Price of each Book 75 cts.

Immensely popular, cheap instructions, with brief instructive course, and each with about one hundred neatly arranged popular airs for practice.

OLIVER DITSON & CO., BOSTON. O. H. DITSON & CO., 267 Broadway, N. Y.

DONT purchase your CHRISTMAS PRESENTS until you have seen our IMMENSE HOLIDAY CATALOGUE of Toys, Novelties, Fancy Goods, &c., mailed free. Address Eureka T. & N. Co., 87 Warren St., New York.

McSHANE BELL FOUNDRY.

Manufacture those celebrated Chimes and Bells for CHURCHES, ACADEMIES &c. Price-list and circulars sent free. HENRY McSHANE & CO., Baltimore, Md.

Baltimore Church Bells

Since 1844 celebrated for Superiority over others, are made only of Purest Bell Metal (Copper and Tin) Rotary Mountings, warranted satisfactory. For Prices, Circulars, &c. address BALTIMORE BELL FOUNDRY, J. REGESTER & SONS, Baltimore, Md.

BUCKEY BELL FOUNDRY.

Bells of Pure Copper and Tin for Churches, Schools, Fire Alarms, Farms, etc. FULLY WARRANTED. Catalogue sent Free. VANDUZEN & TIFT, Cincinnati, O.

GEO. E. COOPER & CO.

Wholesale Manufacturers and Dealers in

TINWARE, STOVES, FURNACES

And House Furnishing Goods.

Tin and Slate Roofing and Galvanized Iron Cornice Work a Specialty.

Also our Patent Chimney Top for smoky chimneys, has no equal. Write for prices and address.

GEO. E. COOPER & CO.,

22 North Market Street,

Nashville, - - - Tennessee.

SHOW CASES,

CEDAR CHESTS, CEDAR WARDROBES.

Cabinet Work, and all kinds of Glass.

G. C. TERRY, Manufacturer,

46 N. Front Street. - NASHVILLE

B. S. RHEA & SON,

PROPRIETORS RHEA'S ELEVATOR,

AND DEALERS IN

Grain, Hay, Flour.

AND BURLAP SACKS,

No. 32 South Market Street,

NASHVILLE, - - - TENN.

(Correspondence Solicited.)

C. F. HUDSON.

S. G. STRATTON

C. F. HUDSON & CO.,

Merchant Tailors & Clothiers,

EAST SIDE PUBLIC SQUARE,

LEBANON, TENN.,

Are now receiving one of the largest, best and cheapest stock of clothing and piece goods, ever offered to the public. We are agents for the Charlottesville, Va., woolen goods, which cannot be surpassed for beauty and durability.

Call and examine our goods. We will save you money.

THE EASTER ANGELS

A BEAUTIFUL

Easter Service

With Responsive Recitations and Music prepared expressly for it.

By GEO. F. ROOT and H. BUTTERWORTH.

The Responses are so arranged that they may be used by classes or individuals, thus giving additional variety and interest. The Service is arranged under the following heads:

First Subject, THE EASTER ANGELS; Second Subject, CHRIST COMFORTETH MANY; Third Subject, MIGHTY TO SAVE; Fourth Subject, PAUL'S TESTIMONY; Fifth Subject, ALL POWER IS GIVEN UNTO ME. Each Subject has appropriate music and readings.

Price, 5 cts. Fifty cents per doz. by mail; $4.00 per 100 by express.

Published by JOHN CHURCH & CO., CINCINNATI, O.

CHICAGO: ROOT & SONS MUSIC CO. NEW YORK: J. CHURCH & CO. 200 Wabash Ave. 5 Union Square.

FOR SALE BY Booksellers and Music Dealers Generally.

Is the BEST. No preparation. Used with any clean pen for marking any fabric. Popular for decorative work on linen. Received Centennial MEDAL & Diploma. Established 45 years. Sold by all Druggists, Stationers & News Agents.

Special Offer
For 90 days

THE BEST ELECTRIC BELT EVER MADE ONLY $1

$1

A Positive Cure for RHEUMATISM, LIVER, STOMACH AND KIDNEY DISEASES, DISEASES OF THE BLOOD, SKIN DISEASES, FEMALE COMPLAINTS, PARALYSIS, NEURALGIA, CATARRH, LAME BACK, AND NERVOUS DEBILITY.

ORDER AT ONCE from this Advertisement. Nothing saved by correspondence. Good Agents Wanted. Circulars in German and English. Address, naming this paper, FORREST & CO., Sole Agents, 130 Flatbush Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Having obtained the sole right to sell the German Electro-Galvanic Belt in America from the inventor, Prof. Conrad Ziegenfuss of Berlin, we are determined, whatever may be the cost, to introduce them here at once. The price of the Belt has always been Six Dollars ($6.00), but to induce invalids to give it a trial we will, for the next ninety days, send the German Electro-Galvanic Belt for ONE DOLLAR, provided you will cut out and send us this annexed coupon and give us your written promise to recommend the Belt if you find it as represented. This Belt is without doubt the best, strongest, and most scientifically constructed Electric Appliance ever introduced, being the invention of the great German Electrician, Prof. Ziegenfuss, and has met with the most marvelous success in Europe, being recommended and endorsed by the entire Medical Profession of Germany. The inventor has in his possession letters from Prince Bismarck and several members of the Royal Family. A quarter of a million of them were sold in the German Empire last year. These Belts, unlike many so-called electric appliances, are very light and not disagreeable to wear, and generate a current that can be immediately felt. Their action is stimulating and at the same time soothing; causing the Stomach, Liver, Kidneys and Nervous System to act as nature intended they should. Curing thousands of cases that internal medicines failed even to relieve. Under no circumstances can it do any harm and must do good no matter what is the complaint. They are made of cloth, silk lined, and the Electric Discs are so arranged that they retain their strength 20 years.

This Coupon is worth $5.00.

If you will cut out this Coupon and send it to us with ONE DOLLAR in a registered letter we will send you postpaid by return mail, One GERMAN ELECTRO-GALVANIC BELT with full directions in both English and German. Write Name and Post Office Address very plainly and give your waist measure in inches.

FORREST &amp; CO., Sole Agents, Flatbush Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

CUT THIS OUT.

DR. C. P. DUNCAN'S LIVER AND KIDNEY MEDICINE.

The great preventive and cure of all malarial diseases, and a pure cure for all forms of dyspepsia and indigestion; it acts directly upon the Liver and all the secretory glands of the stomach and bowels, it cures the disease by removing the cause from the system that produces or brings on the disease, hence it is unsurpassed for the cure of Constipation, sour stomach, heartburn, headache, and all those symptoms indicating the wants of a proper action of those glands situated in the stomach and bowels. Two or three bottles of Dr. Duncan's Liver and Kidney Medicine is positively recommended to relieve and cure any of the above diseases if taken as directed. Price 75 cents.

Cure for Croup!

Dr. Duncan's Cough Balsam is the best remedy known to the medical profession for the prompt and sure cure of croup in children; it is pleasant and harmless. No mother should be without a bottle in their house. Price 50 cents.

Bad Colds and Sore Throats

Promptly cured with Dr. Duncan's Cough Balsam; it is a sure cure for sore throats, coughs and colds. It is unsurpassed for WHOOPING COUGH, and all bronchial diseases in children.

Chapped Hands, Lips,

Sore Eyes, Piles, and all abrasions of the skin cured promptly with Duncan's Ointment.

DR. DUNCAN'S BLOOD SYRUP,

the great alternative, will remove any and all impurities from the blood, and cure all eruptions of the skin. For Scrofula it never fails to cure.

CHILDREN CRY FOR

DUNCAN'S WORM SYRUP.

It is sure, safe, pleasant and cheap. Try it.

"THE BEST IS CHEAPEST."
Engines, THRESHERS, SAW-MILLS,
Horse Powers, Clover Haulers

Suited to all sections. Write for FREE Illustrated Pamphlet and prices to The Aultman & Taylor Co., Mansfield, Ohio.

CAPITOL PLANING MILL,

Corner Line and Vine Streets, near Northwest Corner Capitol Grounds,
NASHVILLE, TENN.

J. W. McCULLOUGH,

Manufacturer and Dealer in

FRAMES, SASH, DOORS, BLINDS,

Scroll Sawing, Dressed Flooring, Weatherboarding and Ceiling.

Country Orders Solicited, and Promptly Attended To.

Burritt College,

SPENCER, TENN.

THIS INSTITUTION, Chartered in 1848, has now been favorably known for more than thirty years, for its discipline, both as regards education and government. Located on the Cumberland Plateau, it is free from epidemics. The water is pure freestone and chalybeate. The breezes of summer are delightful and invigorating, and the gales of winter not too severe. The College buildings, recently enlarged by the Christian Brotherhood of Tennessee, are sufficiently commodious to accommodate a large class of young Ladies and Gentlemen. Spence is ten miles South-east of Manchester & McMinnville Railroad.

TERMS:

Tuition, Primary Dep't'm't, per S's'n, $ 7 50	Tuition, Commercial Dep't'm't per S's'n, $20 00
Preparatory " " 15 00	Lessons Instrumental Music from $15 to $20
Collegiate, " " 20 00	" in Art Department from 2 50 to 10

Board and washing for males, per week, from $2.00 to $2.50; Fuel, light, and incidental expenses, per session, $10.00; Board (including washing, fuel, and light) for females, per week $3.00.

The Spring Session of 1884, begins on the Last Monday in February.

For further particulars address,

Prof. A. T. SEITZ, President,

Or W. H. SUTTON, Sec. Board Trustees.

OUR $10.00 BIBLE FOR $4.50

We are filling orders for elegant Family Bibles at less than one-half former retail prices. Bibles contain both Versions of New Testament, nearly 200 additional features, 2,500 illustrations; handsomely and durably bound. The cheapest Bibles ever sold. Send for circulars at once. AMERICAN FAMILY BIBLE PUBLISHING CO., Cincinnati, OHIO. Bibles can be sent by mail. Cut this Out. It will not appear again.

ILLUSTRATED CIRCULAR SENT FREE

PARSONS' PURGATIVE PILLS

And will completely change the blood in the entire system in three months. Any person who will take ONE PILL EACH NIGHT FROM ONE TO TWELVE WEEKS, may be restored to sound health, if such a thing is possible. For curing Female Complaints these Pills have no equal. Physicians use them in their practice. Sold everywhere, or sent by mail for 25 cents in stamps. Send for pamphlet, I. S. JOHNSON & CO., Boston, Mass.

CHILDS' CATARRH

Treatment For

Easter Cards

From 1c. to 75 cts. Fringed and plain. Send for large illustrated catalogue, free. DAVID C. COOK, 46 Adams St., Chicago.

MILL OWNERS SEND FOR PAMPHLET.
PUREINE WATER WHEELS
MANUFACT'D AT MOUNT HOLLY N.J.

CHILD'S CATARRH

EASTER EGG BREAKING.

To raise money for the Sunday-school; collecting money in little earthen money eggs, selling tickets to the breaking, etc.; receipts as high as egg tickets, concert exercise, and full particulars, 15c. Full particulars, without sample egg, free on application. DAVID C. COOK, 46 Adams Street, Chicago.

CATALOGUE of Best Books for Agents sent free, including Mother, Home and Heaven, $2.75. Please everybody. 128,000 sold, $150 monthly. E. B. TRENT, Publisher, New York.

Blessed Benefactors.

When a board of eminent physicians and Chemists announced that by combining some well-known valuable remedies the most wonderful medicine was produced, which would cure such a wide range of diseases that most all other remedies could be dispensed with, many were skeptical; but proof of its merits by actual trial has dispelled all doubt, and to-day the discoverers of that great medicine, Hop Bitters, are honored and blessed by all as benefactors. These Bitters are compounded from Hops, Buchu, Malt, Mandrake, Dandelion, and other oldest, best, and most valuable medicines in the world and contain all the best and most curative properties of all other medicines, being the greatest, Blood Purifier, Kidney and Liver Regulator, and Life and Health Restoring Agent on earth. No disease or ill-health can possibly long exist where these Bitters are used, so varied and perfect are their operations.

They give new life and vigor to the aged and infirm. To all whose employments cause irregularity of the bowels or urinary organs, or who require an Appetizer, Tonic and mild Stimulant, these Bitters are invaluable, being highly curative, tonic, and stimulating without intoxicating.

No matter what your feelings or symptoms are, what the disease or ailment is, use Hop Bitters. Don't wait until you get sick, but if you only feel bad or miserable, use the bitters at once. It may save your life. Hundreds have been saved by so doing. $500 will be paid for a case they will not cure or help.

Do not suffer yourself or let your friends suffer, but use and urge them to use Hop Bitters.

Remember, Hop Bitters is the purest and best medicine ever made; the "Invalid's Friend and Hope." No person or family should be without them.

"I was troubled for many years with serious Kidney and Liver Complaint, Gravel etc.; my blood became thin; I was dull and inactive: could hardly crawl about, and was an old worn-out man all over, and could get nothing to help me, until I got Hop Bitters, and now I am a boy again. My blood is pure, kidneys are all right, and I am as active as a man of 30, although I am 72"—FATHER.

"For ten years my wife was confined to her bed with such a complication of ailments that no doctor could tell what was the matter or cure her, and I used up a small fortune in humbug stuff. Six months ago I saw a U. S. flag with hop-bitters on it, and I thought I would be a fool once more, and I tried it; but my fully proved to be wisdom, and two bottles cured her. She is now as well as any man's wife, and it cost me only $2.

H. W. —, Detroit, Mich.

AGENTS wanted for the History of Christianity, by Abbott. A grand chance. A $4 book at the popular price of $1.75. Liberal terms. The religious papers mention it as one of the few great religious works of the world. Greater success never known by agents. Terms free. STINSON & Co., Publisher, Portland, Maine.

WANTED A WOMAN

of sense and energy for our business in her locality, middle-aged preferred. Salary $35 to $50. References exchanged. GAY BROS. & CO., 14 BARCLAY ST., NEW YORK.

PENSIONS for any disability; also to Heirs. Send stamps for New Laws. COL. L. KINGHAM, Attorney, Washington, D. C.

IT PAYS to sell our Hand Rubber Stamps. Samples free. FOLJAMES & Co., Cleveland, O.

WHEN YOU WANT
WRITING DESKS,
Photograph Albums,
AUTOGRAPH ALBUMS,
GOLD PENS, PENCILS,
PORT-MONNIES,
CARD CASES, Etc.

OR ANYTHING IN THE WAY OF
Staple and Fancy Stationery,
Call upon us. We can suit you in
VARIETY, QUALITY, AND PRICE.
A. B. Payne & Co.,
61 UNION STREET.

Orders by Mail receive Prompt Attention.

A. C. & J. C. March.

SUCCESSORS TO

J. D. MARCH & SONS

Manufacturers and Dealers in

SADDL, HARNESS, BRIDLES, COLLARS,

TRUNKS, BAGS, HAMES, VAL-
LISE, WHIPS, CHAINS, &c.

50 NORTH MARKET STREET
NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE.

Repairs Done at Short Notice

NASHVILLE, CHATTANOOGA & ST. LOUIS
RAILWAY.

BUSINESS MEN, TOURISTS, REMEMBER
EMIGRANTS, FAMILIES,

The Best Route to St. Louis and the West
via McKennie.

The Best Route to West Tennessee and Kentucky, Mississippi, Arkansas, and Texas points is via McKennie.

The Best Route to the Summer Resorts and
Mountain Retreats of Tennessee, Virginia and the Carolinas, via McKennie and Nashville.

The Best Route to the celebrated Colleges, Universities, Seminaries and other Educational Institutions in the Southeast, via McKennie
and Nashville.

The Best Route to points in East Tennessee,
Virginia, the Carolinas, Georgia and Florida is via Chattanooga.

DON'T FORGET IT!

—By this line you secure the—

MAXIMUM OF SPEED, SAFETY,
COMFORT, SATISFACTION,

—AT THE—

MINIMUM OF EXPENSE, ANXIETY, BOTH HERE, FATIGUE.

Be sure to Buy your Tickets over the

N., C & ST. L. RAILWAY!

you are going to Washington City, Baltimore,
Philadelphia, or New York.

The Inexperienced Traveler need not go amiss; few changes are necessary, and such as are unavoidable are made in union Depots.

THROUGH SLEEPERS!

—BETWEEN—

Nashville and Atlanta, and Atlanta and Jacksonville, Fla., Nashville and Martin (to connect with Sleeper service via Cairo to St. Louis and Chicago).
Nashville and Columbus, Nashville and Memphis
(Sleeper Humboldt to Mobile, and Milan to New Orleans), McKennie and Little Rock, and Little Rock and Texas points.

Call on or address

J. H. PEEBLES, T. A., Chattanooga, Tenn.
W. W. KNOX, T. A., Nashville, Tenn.
S. B. FINLEY, Ticket Agent, Memphis, Tenn.
A. B. WREN, Trav. A., Atlanta, Ga.
W. L. DANLEY, G. P. & T. A., Nashville, Tenn.

W. A. LANNOM,
The Cash Clothier,
18 PUBLIC SQUARE, NASHVILLE, TENN.,

Has the largest and best selected stock of Clothing, Hats, and Gents Furnishing Goods, in the city. Also the most complete line of Piece Goods, which will be made to order on short notice;
this department is in charge of Col. P. G. Duffer. Goods will be sent to parties, at a distance, C. O. D., with privilege to examine. Our terms are strictly cash; consequently our prices are the lowest. A call will convince the most skeptical.

W. A. LANNOM,
18 PUBLIC SQUARE, - - - NASHVILLE, TENN.

Mars Hill College.

With pleasure we lay before our readers the following extracts from the Fourteenth Annual Announcement of Mars Hill College, an institution perpetually wielding a wonderful and wide-spread influence for truth, refinement and righteousness.—EDITORS.

POSITIONS PROCURED FOR OUR PUPILS.

We make a specialty of preparing pupils for

(1.) PREACHING; (2.) TEACHING; (3.) PREACHING and TEACHING.

Many educated here—among whom are successful lawyers, physicians, merchants, salesmen, mechanics, farmers, editors, authors, teachers and preachers—have so demeaned themselves, that the humility, fidelity, integrity, accuracy and ability of "Mars Hill students" have become proverbial. There is, consequently, such a demand for the services of our pupils, that we deem it perfectly safe to promise to procure pleasant, profitable and honorable positions for all who qualify themselves here for usefulness. Indeed, for several years we have been able to fill comparatively few of the positions tendered.

HEALTHFULNESS!

Mars Hill as a Health Resort.

Our school was founded in 1870. "All the doctor bills," for services rendered our pupils, from then till now, do not we think, amount to twenty-five dollars—probably not to one dollar a year. Those who have come here pale and puny, from malarial districts, have, without an exception, we believe, returned to their homes enjoying health.

What "Watering Place," or "Health Resort," then, can justly claim more, as a health-
preserver and health-restorer, than Mars Hill? Address,

T. B. LARIMORE, President.

FLORENCE, ALABAMA

HAYNES INSTITUTE,

FORMERLY

Murfreesboro Female Institute,

THIRTEENTH SESSION.

THE SPRING TERM BEGINS MONDAY, JANUARY 21, 1884.

Pupils received at any time. A number one school for girls. EIGHT TEACHERS.

Regular Collegiate course of study, including Latin, OPTIONAL STUDIES, French, German, Music—both Vocal and Instrumental—Drawing and Painting. Every facility requisite for first class instruction. The very best school furniture. Single seats and desks; five Globes and "aps. Pupils entering January 1st, 1884, receive extra inducements. For Catalogues, terms, and further information, address

JAMES E. SCOBEEY, PRES'T.,

Or E. C. COX, Sec.,

BOX 156, MURFREESBORO, TENN.

PEOPLE'S

Tobacco and Cotton Warehouse,

D. K. MASON & CO., Proprietors,

Nos. 906, 908, 910, and 912 West Main Street,

LOUISVILLE, KY.

R. Averitt, formerly with Gordon, Bro. & Co., of Nashville, Tenn., will give special attention to consignments from up Cumberland and West Tennessee.

AGENTS Our new war book, DEEDS
OF DARING by Blue and
Grey, is outselling all other books. Illustrated circular and terms free.
FORSHEE & McMAKIN,
Cincinnati, O.

Good Pay for Agents. $100 to $200 per mo., made selling our fine Books & Bibles. Write to J. C. McCurdy & Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.

TRADE-MARKS, PATENTS, COPY-
RIGHTS, DESIGNS, RE-ISSUES.
Send description of your Invention. L. BINGHAM,
Patent Lawyer and Solicitor, Washington, D. C.

AGENTS WANTED for our new Religious book,
the greatest success of the year. Send for illustrated circular if you want to make money. FORSHEE & McMAKIN, Cincinnati.

WE HAVE JUST RECEIVED A LARGE STOCK OF
DRY GOODS AND NOTIONS,
BOUGHT FROM
THE BEST FACTORIES EAST.

We don't advertise goods lower than we can sell them to deceive the people and get them to our store. But our expenses are small and we are going to sell everything in our line as low as the lowest, you can depend on that;
and will try to make it pleasant for all to patronize us, by having polite salesmen to wait on you, and one price, and that the lowest.

We are Southern agents for a large Eastern Manufacturer of

Dress Goods, Flannels, Linsey, Jeans, Dosskins, Cassimeres, Cheviot
Shirtings.

All the best Goods, and prices can't be beat in any market.

Be sure you see our cloaks and other specialties before you buy. Thanking you for past favors, and hoping to have frequent calls from you soon, We are Respectfully,

DODD BROTHERS,

(103 Union Street.)

NASHVILLE, - - - TENN.

F. A. BADGER,
DENTIST.

OFFICE.

ODD FELLOWS' TEMPLE,
(Cor Church & High Sts.,)

Nashville, Tennessee.

SOME OF THE
THINGS WE BUY TO SELL.

CHINA IN ALL OF ITS GRADES,
GLASSWARE OF EVERY DESCRIPTION,

QUEENSWARE OF ALL KINDS,

Bracket Lamps, Hall Lamps,
Study Lamps, Chandeliers,

Knives and Forks, Spoons, Waiters,
Tea Trays,

Looking-Glasses, Ice Cutting
Machines,

Eureka Coffee and Teapots,
Castors.

And a great variety of housekeeping goods too numerous to mention, all of which we offer at reasonable rates. Call and see us, or send your orders to

HICKS, HOUSTON & CO.,

51 N. College & 54 N. Market Sts.,

NASHVILLE, - - - TENN.

THE GOSPEL ADVOCATE.

VOLUME XXVI.
NUMBER 13.

NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE, MARCH 26, 1884.

{ $2.00 YEARLY IN ADVANCE.
POSTAGE PREPAID.

EDITORS:

D. LIPSCOMB,

E. G. SEWELL.

Is He at the Door?

Oh! Great Master, are thy footsteps
Even now upon the mountains?
Art thou walking in thy wheatfield?
Are the snowy winged reapers
Gathering, in the silent air?
Are thy signs abroad, the glowing
Of the distant sky blood-reddened,
And the near fields trodden, blighted,
Choked by gaudy tares triumphant,
Sure it must be harvest time!
Who shall know the Master's coming?
Whether it be dawn or sunset,
When night dews weigh down the wheat ears
Or while noon rides high in heaven,
Sleeping lies the yellow field?
Only may thy voice, Good Master,
Peal above the reaper's chorus,
And dull sounds of sheaves slow falling,
"Gather all into my garner,
For it is my harvest time!"

Miss Muloch.

WHO ARE THE DISCIPLES OF CHRIST?

The word disciple is used a great many times in the New Testament, but never in a denominational sense, never to give a name to a body of people to distinguish them from any other body or bodies of professed Christians: The word disciple simply means a follower. The disciples of Plato were those who were taught by him, and who embraced and practiced what he taught. A disciple of Christ is one who has learned from Christ, and who practices what he has learned. One who learns from Christ, but does not practice what he learns, cannot scripturally be called a disciple of Christ. Only those who hear and learn from Christ, and practice what they learn, can properly be called followers of Christ. But this word only distinguishes such from all those who do not follow him, who do not do his will.

It has, however, come to pass now, that very many of the religious world use the word disciple in a denominational sense, to distinguish them from Methodists, Baptists, and such like. And sometimes even disciples themselves use the word in this sense. Those who are disciples indeed, who may in all truthfulness be called disciples, should be very careful never to use the term in any denominational sense, as if they were only a denomination, to be distinguished from "other denominations." Those who are truly on the Lord's side can scripturally be called disciples of Christ, followers of the Lamb. But those who claim to be followers, and yet reject many of the plain precepts and ordinances of the Lord's house, have no divine right to the appellation, disciples of Christ.

The word Christian also means a follower of Christ, and none are entitled to that name except those who actually follow him by doing his will in all things. The word Christian is too often applied as a professional term, to signify one that has made a profession of religion, when, in many instances, those to whom the term is applied have never obeyed the gospel of Christ at all, and have no scriptural right whatever to the term Christian. It is a false use of the word to apply it to such. The purest and noblest relationship to be enjoyed on this earth, is to be a follower of Christ. Hence the highest appellation that can be given a man, is for him to be deservedly called Christian.

But the word disciple is not a word to be applied to a man all the days of his life, whether he deserves it or not. No man can scripturally be called a disciple of Christ any longer than he faithfully follows the teaching of Christ. The Savior settles this question in the following words: "Then said Jesus to those Jews which believed on him, If ye continue in my word, then are ye my disciples indeed." John viii: 31. This is a final decision of the matter, expressed in unambiguous words. We must continue in the words of Christ, in his teaching, that we may continue to be his disciples. The man who obeys the gospel, and then does not continue to obey the word of the Lord by keeping his ordinances, loses at once all right and claim to be called a disciple of Christ. Such a one ceases to follow him, and it would be unscriptural and wrong to call such a one a disciple, when he is not such. It is not enough, therefore, for us to make the start for heaven; we must keep on, by continuing to do what the word of God requires at our hands. Jesus says again, "Whosoever does not bear his cross, and come after me, cannot be my disciple." Therefore no man has any just claim to be called a disciple of Christ any longer than he continues to do his will. No half way sort of service will make any man a follower of Christ. If we pretend to follow him, we must continue by day and by night to do his will, to do just the things he requires in his word. It is not enough that we do that which seems right in our eyes. Nothing is right, nothing is service to God, only the doing of what he requires of us. A disciple of Christ is one who is disciplined or trained by Christ, through his word. The church is Christ's school, in which his pupils are to receive their discipline, their training. If we make faithful pupils, listen well to his instruction, and yield constant and faithful compliance with his requirements, no one can then dispute our right to be called disciples of Christ. And if on any other principle we can, the word of God has failed to record how.

When Christ appeared to John in the isle of Patmos, and through him sent letters to the seven churches of Asia, he let them know in every one that the promise was only to those that would hold out faithfully to the end. We forfeit all right and title to discipleship when we turn away from the word of the Lord, and cease to do the work that he requires. When the church at Ephesus had left its first love, the Spirit said, "Repent and do the first work, or I will come unto thee quickly, and will remove thy candlestick out of his place, except thou repent." The word disciple then, so far from being a denominational appellation, simply expresses what those do who do the Lord's will. And it belongs alike to all of God's children, to all who are denying ungodliness and worldly lusts, and are living soberly, righteously and godly in this present world, and to none others. There is no distinction needed to distinguish one part of God's people from another part. All such distinctions are heresies, and are utterly wrong. They are dishonoring to God, and injurious to men, and hurtful to the church our Redeemer built. These unlawful distinctions among those claiming to be God's people, are keeping up disturbances, bitternesses, strifes, contentions, and unending prejudices. No use to even dream that these bickerings will ever end while human names are used to distinguish one body, party, or denomination, from another, when all ought to be one. The religious world, those who make up and maintain these party names, these names of human invention, have no conception of the great wrong done to the cause of the Master, by thus dividing, sub-dividing, rending, and severing into parties and heresies, the body of Christ. The very first step in that direction is rebellion against God.

The words disciple, Christian, can with equal fitness be applied to all the Lord's people, on earth, and simply indicates them as the servants of God, and only marks a distinction between those who are the Lord's people, and those who are not. But so far as the Lord's people themselves are concerned, it expresses the most perfect unity among them. It indicates them to be all one people, having one God, the Father of all, one Lord and Savior Jesus Christ, and as having the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace. The names Methodist, Baptist, Presbyterian, and such like human names, necessarily indicate parties, divisions, differences, dissensions. A Methodist is not willing to be called a Presbyterian, and there is no union between these two parties, no oneness, no unity, and never can be while these human names are worn, and while men adhere to human creeds, based on different doctrines and politics, that never can be reconciled. The prayer of Jesus for the unity of his people can never be fulfilled while these human platforms exist. These names and these creeds, as platforms and rules for the work of the church as laid down in them, are purely human in every particular. They all originated in human wisdom, and are carried on in human wisdom, and will ultimately die with human wisdom. While the name Methodist can only signify a follower of the system called Methodism, the word disciple of Christ signifies one who is governed and controlled wholly by the divine system of which Christ is the author, and which is revealed to us in the New Testament. And there is no possibility of a doubt about this divine system taking every man to heaven that will live by it, will be governed and controlled by it in his thoughts, purposes, words and actions. It is a grand thing to be a disciple of Christ in the full import of that term. It covers all the ground of good, comprehends every good thing that is necessary to educate and train men for heaven, everything needed to purify, elevate, and ennoble humanity, and prepare it for the society of the pure and the good that will inhabit that pure and happy home above. This human wisdom, rules and laws devised by human wisdom, can never do. Those who are spending their time in working by rules and regulations invented and formulated by uninspired men, are worse than wasting their time: they are making void the commands of God, by the doctrines and commandments of men.

E. G. S.

The Mormons have made a number of settlements in adjoining territories to Utah. In the Territory of Dakota some three hundred converts, chiefly from the South, settled in a colony. These led by a man of influence formerly a deacon in a Baptist Church in Lincoln County, Tenn., are in revolt against the authorities of the Mormon church. They charge deception in the claim to miraculous powers, and gross immorality in the lives of the leading Mormons. I am not sure but if outward pressure against the Mormons, were withdrawn, that internal dissension and revolt would not soon weaken and destroy their power. Nothing so cements bodies as outward pressure. Persecution is the power to bind religious associations.

LYING.

A lie is not only an uttered falsehood, but anything which intentionally misleads or deceives; to exhibit a false representation; to do that which deceives another when he should know the truth. A lie may be told by action as well as by tongue. It may be by the wink of the eye, a nod of the head, a motion of the hand. Silence itself may be a lie. A lie may be told by keeping back part of the truth. People keep silent when silence makes the wrong impression, shun the truth when they should tell it, insinuate and prevaricate and think they are not guilty of lying.

Lying is a plain expression, but it is a Bible one. Jesus said hypocrite, fool, murderer, drunkard, liar as the case required. It is right to use this word in speaking of this so great sin.

Lying has been a sin common to all generations. The devil is the father of lies and thus deceived our fore parents into partaking of the forbidden fruit. (Gen. iii: 4-5; John viii: 44.) Liars are called children of the devil, and whosoever lies pleases him. God is the author of truth, and those who tell the truth and walk in its light are his children. A member of the first family, Cain, lied to God. (Gen. iv: 9-10.) We read of lying prophets all through the different dispensations. In the first church set in order by the apostles there were such sinners. Ananias and Sapphira lied to God and he instantly struck them dead. This should be a fearful warning to people thus guilty. Some members in the churches at Ephesus and Colosse were given to this evil practice. Paul tells them of it and warns them to cease. "Wherefore putting away lying, speak every man truth with his neighbor, for we are members one of another. (Eph. iv: 25.) Lie not one to another, seeing ye have put off the old man with his deeds, and have put on the new man, which is renewed in knowledge after the image of him that created him." (Col. iii: 9-10.)

False doctrines are called lies. False prophets in olden times lied, it is said, to the people (1 Kings xiii: 18; and Jer. xxviii: 15.) All false teaching now is so called in the word of truth. "I have not written unto you because ye know not the truth, but because ye know it. Who is a liar but he that denieth that Jesus is the Christ. He is anti-christ that denieth the Father and Son." (1 John. ii: 21-22.) The beloved disciple here says he who denies Jesus as the Christ in his doctrine is a liar if there is such a thing as a liar. "No lie is of the truth." God's word is truth. So every doctrine contrary to God's word is false. A lie. The word of God itself by cunning craftiness may be changed into a lie. (Rom. i: 25; Gal. i: 7-9) The very father of lies transforms himself into an angel of light the truth that he may the better deceive. (2 Cor. xi: 12-15) That lie is most calculated to deceive, which comes thus robed in the garments of truth.

Why do people lie? Some lie for money and think they are justifiable in it. They boast of doing well in a trade by misrepresentation. They work upon the principle, get as much as you can for as little as possible. They never have an inferior horse, a defective mule, or aged cow. All of these are of best quality. You go into a great many stores and every article is better than anything of the kind in town. Some merchants never have an inferior article and their stock never grows old. Everything is the latest." The usual price is so much, but, "bein' as its you, you can have it at this if you'll say nothing about it." This is sometimes from the heart and therefore true. But generally the salesman who makes frequent use of this speech lies, for he sells his goods no cheaper after saying he will. A great deal of the work going out from various shops bears on its surface a lie. We see on nearly everything "The best," "Superior," "Excelsior," "Surpassed by none." Everybody knows these are not true, and cares but little for such expressions. We read some most glaring lies in advertisements whose name is legion. It is a wide spread expression, "people like to be humbugged." Gehazi, Ananias and Sapphira, lied for money, and are held up as fearful warnings in their punishment to those following the practice now. Such punishment to them is God's solemn, most impressive warnings.

Again, some lie, it seems, for their own amusement and for the amusement of others. Some lie because society does frequently and they dislike to be out of the fashion. There are quite a number of society lies too numerous to mention and too common to need mention. Others lie from the force of habit; they have been lying so long that the habit is almost second nature. They lie, it seems, because they cannot help it, for tell them of it and they will confess, perhaps weep over it and promise never more to do so, but they go right on still lying. How to stop them I am at a loss to know. And yet others lie just for the sake of lying and I can't tell why. People who steal everything they can get their hands on are called kleptomaniacs. It is said to be a disease if they are well-to-do (?) But what disease have they who continually lie, and lie about almost everything, has not been named.

People live lies. They live lies when they are straining and maneuvering to appear in society what they are really not. They go in debt beyond their means for various extravagances to keep up appearances. They promise a dozen times to pay and perhaps never do. Pretensions to anything you are not, are false. "He that saith, I know him (God) and keepeth not his commandments, is a liar, and the truth is not in him." 1 John ii: 4.

Many have the very bad habit of using extravagant expressions, which may not be lying, but is quite a step in that direction. "It is the prettiest thing I ever saw;" "Tis the hottest day I ever felt, or it is the coldest one that ever was;" "I just know Mr. A. is the meanest man in the world;" "It liked to kill me, I thought I would die." Everything is described by the superlative degree. We soon learn to believe not more than half such people say. Others from a habit of misrepresenting everything and nearly every body. Misrepresentation can be done in various ways. To emphasize the wrong word in a sentence, to put a wrong construction on it, to add one little word or leave out one, to use a different tone of voice from the one in which the sentence was uttered, to have a different expression of countenance, are all common ways of misrepresentation and slander.

There are parents who thus talk and act daily. Sometimes they only imagine things to be true and tell them as though they were. Imagination goes a great way in this respect. They know more news than all others and all about every body's business, the whys and wherefores of everything. Their children follow right along in their footprints, and they wonder where Susan, John and Bettie learned to lie. Nearly all of a family are given to this sinful, soul-condemning practice. They do not believe each other and their neighbors do not believe them. Every one says, "A or B told me, I do not know whether it is true or not." Such an unenviable reputation! Reader are you guilty? Then I repeat Paul's language. "Lie not one to another." Learn to look at things as they really are. Take people at what they mean. Follow the golden rule. Look twice and think thrice before you speak. Read God's condemnation of such sins. "Six things doth the Lord hate, seven are an abomination unto him. A lying tongue, a false witness that speaketh lies and he that soweth discord among brethren are three of them. Prov. vi: 16-19. "He that hideth hatred with lying lips, and he that uttereth slander, is a fool. Prov. x: 18. Lying lips are abomination to the Lord. Prov. xii: 22. "And there shall in nowise enter into the New Jerusalem, anything that defileth, neither whatsoever worketh abomination, or maketh a lie. Rev. xxi: 27. "For without are dogs, and sorcerers; and whoremongers, and murderers, and idolaters, and whosoever loveth and maketh a lie." Rev. xxii: 15. What corrupt and fearful company the liars must keep. E. A. ELAM.

Lebanon, Tenn.

NOTES FROM JONES' HISTORY.

Brother M.—We wish to add another extract to what has already been given. In the 12th article of the Waldensian (Baptist) church, we have the following:

"We consider the sacraments as signs of holy things, or as visible emblems of invisible blessings. We regard it as proper and even necessary that believers use these symbols or visible forms when it can be done. Notwithstanding which, we maintain that believers may be saved without these signs when they have neither place nor opportunity to observe them."

Jones' Church History, page 249, Jones tells us that De Vignaux says of the doctrine of these people, "That the Scriptures contain all things necessary to our salvation, and that we are called to believe only what they teach, without any regard to the authority of man—that nothing else ought to be received by us, except what God had commanded—that baptism and the Lord's supper are the only standing ordinances in the Church of Christ * * * and that the true Church of Christ consists of those who hear the word of God and believe it." Ibid, page 266.

"They said that the prelates and doctors ought to imitate the poverty of the apostles, and earn their bread by the labor of their hands. They contend that the office of teaching, confirming, and admonishing the brethren, belonged, in some measure, to all Christians, etc. Their discipline was extremely strict and austere, for they interpret Christ's discourse on the mount, according to the literal sense of the word, and they condemned war, lawsuits, the acquisition of riches, capital punishment, oath and even self defense." Ibid, page 266.

I wish to call your attention to the theory, for many years pressed upon the attention of the public, that there is a regular succession of Baptist churches back to the apostles' day.

In the first place, let me say, that we accept the ground which Messrs. Orchard and Jones (Baptist historians) put forward in their histories on the establishment of the church. Mr. Jones, in speaking of the transactions on the day of pentecost, says: "And here we contemplate the beginning of the establishment of Christ's kingdom in the world; or, which is the same thing, the erection of the first Christian church." Jones' Church History, page 42.

"As the Church at Jerusalem was the first Christian church established by the ministry of the apostles, so it was designed to serve as a pattern, in its faith and order to all succeeding churches, to the end of the world." Ibid, page 44.

This is substantially Mr. Orchard's testimony. Is there a succession of churches back to the apostles? We will let the Baptist historians tell the tale.

Jones says: "It may be proper to remark, that not long before the times of which we now treat, some Christians had seen it their duty to withdraw from the communion of the Church of Rome. The first instance of this that we find on record, if we except that of Tertullian, is the case of Novatian, who, in the year 254, was ordained by the pastor of a church in the city of Rome, which maintained no fellowship with the Catholic party, page 141.

On page 152, Mr. Jones says: "We have already adverted to the rise of the Novatianist churches." If these Novatianists were Baptist churches, and if Jones is right when he says that the first Christian church began on first pentecost after the death of Christ; why talk of "rise of the Novatianists." "The Donatists appear to have resembled the followers of Novatian, more than any other class of professors in that period of the church of whom we have any authentic record; but their origin was at least half a century later, and the churches in this connection appear to have been almost entirely confined to Africa." Jones' Church History, page 173.

To talk of the origin of the Donatist Baptist churches in A. D., 211, looks real queer.

Again, "At a moment when darkness seemed to cover the earth, and gross darkness the people," it is pleasing to contemplate a ray of celestial light across the gloom. About the year 160, a new sect arose in the east, under the name of PAULICIANS, which is justly entitled to our attention: Ibid, page 185.

Mr. Robinson says that the Waldenses were in communion with the Catholics fifty years before they withdrew from them: Ibid, page 195.

Again, be it known, they say, to all in general, and to every one in particular, that these are the reasons of our (Waldenses) separation from the church of Rome: Ibid, page 254.

Again, "If we could depend with certainty upon the correctness of the date of this manuscript, it would be a very important document in the history of the Waldensian churches, because it bears internal evidences of having been written for the express purpose of exhibiting a public declaration of their reasons for separation from the communion of the church of Rome." Ibid, page 251.

A. ALSUP, JR.

Obituaries.

We are very sorry to have to record the death of one more of our dear sisters. Jennie R. Brown, the wife of A. W. Brown, of this city, died on Sunday, March 10th, 1884. One by one they are crossing over; one by one they are gathering home. Sister Brown was forty-seven years of age at her death. She has been a member of the church for more than twenty years. She was a true Christian, a good wife, and a kind mother. She leaves a husband, three beautiful little girls, and a host of friends to mourn her loss. 25 Portland Avenue congregation loses a good member. She was such a noble woman it is hard to give her up, but she has gone to her reward in heaven. May all who read this commit themselves to God, and to the word of his grace. That we may meet in heaven is the prayer of one that loved her. J. HARDING.

Died, on February 6th, 1884, at her home in Nashville, Sister Mary M. Burnett, aged 21 years and 9 months. The deceased was the daughter of Mr. Wm. Bartlett, and wife of Mr. Buford B. Burnett. Though young, she was rich in the graces of the gospel; and now that she rests from her labors, her works follow her, and by these she speaks forcibly to us urging us to a pure and holy life. She was a faithful member of Church-street congregation, a good Christian woman, loving and dutiful as a daughter, true and affectionately devoted as a wife. And since she has gone from us so well prepared to meet and enjoy the Lord and Savior, let the bitterness of our sorrow be sweetened with Christian hope; "The hope when days and years are past, we all may meet in heaven." Let us try and feel and say of all our loved dead, "Not lost, but only gone before."

"I long for household voices gone,
For vanished smiles I long;
But God hath led my dear ones on,
And he can do no wrong."

Being requested by our dear sister, wife of our much beloved but now departed brother, M. A. Beal, I will try to say a few words as a tribute of respect to his worthiness. In a letter received to-day, sister Beal says: "Knowing the true Christian love that existed between you and Mr. Beal, I thought it my duty to write you." Oh, yes, my dear sister, I loved Bro. Beal; and now my eyes fail to be dried, because I know we shall never meet again on the plain of earth. Shall I say it? Bro. Beal is dead! I will also say that he was a good man, a Christian, a brave soldier. Bro. Beal was a good, plain, logical preacher. He was a deep thinker. Bro. Beal was a fine singer. It is to him and his worthy name I shall ever feel thankful for what I know about vocal music. I am sure that I have never enjoyed my preaching brethren any more, in our labors together in the vineyard of the Lord, (according to the time I was with him,) than Bro. M. A. Beal. He was a very cheerful man. Sister Beal also says: "He had not been confined at all, but ate his dinner at the table, walked back to his room, and enjoyed himself with company all the evening. Never lost one particle of his cheerfulness. After eating a hearty supper, he took up Tommie's life and played 'Sweet By-and-By.' He then retired just before nine, went to sleep, woke up with a smothering sensation, (with which he was troubled before,) and found that he was gone. He laid himself on his pillow, folded his hands on his breast, and commenced laughing, almost as natural as life. He died a few minutes before ten." Farewell, dear brother, farewell, till, "In the sweet by-and-by, we shall meet on that beautiful shore." Bro. Beal died on the 4th of March, 1884, in the 39th year of his age. Dear sister, you have our sympathies and prayers. And now let me say to those who read this, that Sister Beal is among strangers, and needing help, having spent all, or most all, in doctor bills. Who will send one dollar, fifty cents, or even twenty-five cents, to sister D. A. Beal, Lyles Station, Hickman county, Tenn. Just think how it would cheer her wounded heart to receive something from those whose sympathy is with her. Her devoted husband had a heart that could be "touched with the feeling of our infirmities." Dear sister, trust it all to the Lord. Dear little Tommie and Bennie, I do hope you will be good little boys. Treat your poor broken-hearted mother kindly, obey the good book, and "when the mists have cleared away," your dear papa you will see. J. R. BRADLEY.

OUR INDIAN MISSION.

Three years ago Bro. R. W. Officer emigrated from Tennessee. Staying temporarily in the Chickasaw Nation, finding that we, as a brotherhood had no representation in said nation, then and there was born, in the brain of Bro. Officer, our Indian Mission, and from that hour he has never ceased to work for the establishment and support of our mission. First, being in possession of the fact that he had a friend and brother, tried and true, in the person of Bro. M. Askew, then living in Lauderdale county, Alabama; closely related by blood to the natives of said territory, wrote him at once and induced him to emigrate to the nation. Bro. Askew and family, seven in number, were enabled to make the move by the assistance given by Bro. Officer. Bro. Officer advanced to Bro. Askew of his own means $35, to enable him to make the move, and on his arrival, $40 more as support, and has given him $50 a year for two years toward his support; also $203 in cash to secure Bro. Askew's head right in the nation, as a citizen of said territory, making a total expenditure of his own hard earnings, of $378. Bro. Officer has received of Gov. B. F. Overton, twenty dollars; church at Paris, ten dollars; Col. Harkins, ten dollars, making a total of forty dollars he has received to defray his traveling expenses, leaving Bro. Officer's expenditure of hard earned money, $338. Besides this Bro. Officer has done an untold amount of hard riding, preaching and work, all of which has been for the good of the cause, for which we should work, the elevation of and final salvation of souls. With the assistance of Bro. Askew and family, who, by virtue of their blood relationship to the tribe, have done much good and effective work, and Gov. B. F. Overton—Governor of the tribe—and a true friend of Bro. Officer's and other true and tried friends of the cause in the nation, Bro. Officer has accomplished a good and noble work, not, however, without sacrifice. He has worked hard and faithfully for Our Mission. Not one cent of the means contributed by friends and brethren has been spent for traveling expenses, salaries or any other purpose. It is all here, except the forty dollars before mentioned, which was a special donation for that purpose.

Brethren, rest assured that every dollar you contribute will be expended for the purpose contributed, and for no other. When there are sufficient funds on hands, then the work will have assumed a shape that can plainly be seen. The means on hand are as follows: Cash on hand, one hundred dollars; two hundred acres of land deeded in trust for the work, and one patent right deeded to said work, the profits of which are to go to the work, from which we hope to derive some profits. It is hoped that the day is not far distant when we will have established an industrial school and prosperous mission church in the Chickasaw nation.

Brethren, will you help us—will each individual, who feels himself or herself able, help us? Will the brethren bring the matter before the State meetings, especially Tennessee and Texas, and all co-operative meetings, and give us some aid, or do so much as to report any action in reference to the matter? Bro. Askew, one of the laborers, for twenty years with the Baptist, who came out six years ago and joined the ranks of the reformation with Bro. Officer, and has since given his time and labored hard preaching, has gone to his reward. He died in January of the present year, leaving his family in the work, three sons and his wife; with renewed energy and souls filled with love for the work, making more effort on account of the love of their departed father and husband for the cause. Bro. Overton soon followed Bro. Askew to his reward. He died in the present month, leaving a wife devoted to the cause. Thus, as a leader, Bro. Officer is left alone, and for this reason we urge the necessity of all who have any love for the advancement of the work, help us. Shall we let the work dwindle and die? No, never. There are too many noble, generous souls in our ranks for this. We know that the work, so well commenced, and that has cost so much hard labor and care, will not dwindle for want of means, when the brotherhood fully understands the objects in view, or what may or can be accomplished. If the many generous readers of the ADVOCATE could visit the field of labor, we would not have to ask for aid—it would be offered in abundance. We know that there are those in our ranks that, if they would only think for a moment of the importance of this work, would accomplish much towards advancing the same. Just think of it; one hundred of our brethren or sister, in soliciting aid, could each raise from ten to fifty dollars, in ten and fifty cent contributions, and never lose the time. Count it up, and see what it would amount to. A few good workers could soon get up the required amount to make the institution self-sustaining. Help us, we ask you. Moneys sent to Bros. Lipscomb and Sewell, of the ADVOCATE, or Bro. Srygley, of the Old Path Guide, or any of our church papers, will reach the desired place; or, friends and brethren can, if preferred, send direct to R. W. Officer, W. H. Sluden, or to L. Dohoney, or the undersigned, at Paris, Texas.

JAMES D. ELLIOTT.

Literature is a mere step to knowledge, and the error often lies in our identifying one with the other. Literature, may, perhaps, make us vain; true knowledge must render us humble.—Mrs. Sanford.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Since Bro. Joe Harding's advent into the Portland Avenue Christian church, last December, up to date, one hundred and two persons have been added to that congregation.

This church, though weak financially, employed him as evangelist until the first of May. At the end of that time, without the churches here make some arrangements to continue him in evangelistic labors in the city, in which work Portland Avenue will contribute liberally, Bro. Harding will have to spread himself as heretofore over several other states, for he could not, and should not, if he could, settle down to regular pastoral work. He is qualified, both by nature and grace, for the evangelistic field, and the churches ought to see that he is kept constantly at work in it. His methods are peculiar, and the man is peculiar, and no doubt many reasonably object to his methods and manner. But few could adopt his methods, or could pattern after his manner. But this point is to be emphasized; he preaches the gospel fully, faithfully, and preaches only the gospel. Those who come in under his labors, come understandingly. His crowded houses and many additions draw the masses. The more thoughtful brethren on the Avenue assert that the average number, if not more, of his additions, will make active, faithful members of the church. I want to state as my best judgment for the advancement of our cause among the masses in this city, that all of our congregations should form a "pony-purse" of one thousand or twelve hundred dollars, and sustain Bro. Harding for at least one year longer in this city. He should be sent from point to point, and I believe that he would duplicate the recruiting work on the Avenue at any point in the city. A protracted meeting, with him, means not days, but months of hard, constant labor. I commend this to the churches in full knowledge of the man—his ability and character, his manner and methods. My knowledge of the field, gained by an experience of seven years, backs my opinion. When he ends his labors at Portland Avenue, I propose to put this in a practical way before the different congregations. Ere this is read Bro. Harding will have moved his family to the city. If not employed to evangelize in the city, he proposes to make it headquarters for evangelistic work elsewhere.

Bros. Lowber and Butler are in a good meeting at Fifteenth and Jefferson street Church.

R. B. NEAL.

A CORRECTION.

Last week we published Bro. McGary's article on re-baptism. In it occurred a typographical error, that changes the sense. It reads, Now those who reject Peter's word and accept "the commandments of him." It ought to be "commandments of men." Bro. M. made two or three mistakes in his article. He said we speak when the Bible is silent, and is silent when the Bible speaks. We require exactly what Christ and the Holy Spirit required—that the men shall believe with all the heart in Christ as the Son of God, as the condition of all acceptable disobedience. If Bro. M. sees that each one believes what he regards as essential, he will be compelled to ask, any one demanding baptism, Do you believe with all the heart that baptism is for the remission of sins? This would be speaking where the Bible is silent. His position requires this of him. He was only mistaken as to who was in this condition. He says we accept those who are baptized "because their sins are forgiven." We said, "they must be baptized because God commanded it, and in order to honor him." Of course he was mistaken too, when he said we receive those "who have dishonored his name." Excepting these mistakes, we believe his article, but do not see in it any proof of his position. We hope he will give us all he has on the subject. If we are wrong, we wish to be right. D. L.

TEXAS WORK AND WORKERS.

CONDUCTED BY JOHN T. POE, LONGVIEW, TEXAS,
TO WHOM ALL CORRESPONDENCE RELATING TO
THIS DEPARTMENT MUST BE ADDRESSED.

TRIP TO WEATHERFORD.

On Friday before fourth Lord's day in February, I took the train for Weatherford, Texas, where our well beloved co-laborer, H. D. Bantam, lives and labors. On arrival there same night, found him at the depot, and in a peck of trouble. His son, thirteen years old, had left him the day before and left but slight trace behind by which to find him. A telegram had announced a boy near Fort Worth suiting description. Bro. B. had sent out, and he was to take next train East to see about it. We went to bed at the hotel near the depot to await Bro. B.'s train, and as we had not seen each other for twelve years, we talked until one o'clock in the morning. We renewed our battles, fought them over again—planned for new crusades against sin; reviewed the course of many leading brethren, thanking God for the steadfastness and firmness of some, while deplored the babylonish tendency of others. It was a grand treat for me to listen to the wisdom and experience of my old brother and companion in arms. He pointed me to the house of our good sister Thompson next morning, where I found a welcome and a good breakfast, and he himself took train for station near Fort Worth, where he found his boy, on his way back to mamma—foot-sore and heart-sick. He had not found the world what he thought it was. The great busy, bustling world was all intent upon matters more important than playing hide-and-seek to please small boys. He was a stranger, in a strange land, and his heart yearned for mamma. The dearest, best friend he may ever know on earth, and when the kind mother is at last laid away, and he must take his place among the crowds of busy, hurrying men, he will often long for mamma's caress. Boys, make the most you can of your mother while you have her; she will not be yours long, and no one on earth can ever fill mother's place.

But I must tell of the meeting. Began preaching Saturday night; preached, nights, until Thursday night. Audiences good and attentive, and we had some seven or eight accessions to the congregation there. I had the honor of cutting some of Bro. B.'s wheat; or rather of getting some into the church who have felt the influence of the life and teaching of this noble brother at Weatherford.

Bro. W. Y. Taylor is superintendent of public schools here, and is on his feet from morn till night each school-day in the week, and so does not preach during his school term. He is a most indefatigable worker. Bro. Hart and his wife are most excellent workers in the church, especially in the Sunday-school. Bro. Hart is one of the best Bible class teachers I have ever met. I have but one objection to him. He would not take the ADVOCATE, and so will miss this notice. Bro. Rider, my Irish brother, I liked very much, for his broad Christian views, and for his work in the Lord. He is using his money freely in the good cause. He took me in a buggy, and carried me out to the high points about Weatherford, and showed me the country for many miles. Bro. Stanger and wife felt especially near me, since she was raised in the same settlement in Alabama that I was. This made them feel akin to me indeed. In fact, I told sister Stanger I was surely related to her, for I used to court her aunt. But to tell of all the pleasing incidents, and happy acquaintances made here, would consume too much space. I met here—among others—a friend of other days. F. A. Lallier, a man who was a Methodist with me in our young days. His daughter made the good confession in Weatherford some few years ago, and he positively refused to let her be immersed. He became a bitter persecutor of the church, and would have nothing to do with it. I met him, asked him to church; for old acquaintance sake he went, heard the truth, believed it, and obeyed it. As he came forward and gave me his hand, he said, "I have been in midnight darkness for fifty-nine years, but my eyes are open—I see." On the next night his wife came forward and united with her husband—from the Baptists—taking her stand with him upon the Bible, as their only rule of faith and practice. In doing this, she sacrifices no principle or conscience. To take the Bible as a rule is admitted right by all.

I found the brethren here anxious for the spread of the truth abroad. There are many points adjacent to Weatherford, where the gospel ought to be preached. Bro. Huffman, an old pioneer preacher in this country, is doing good work still, so are the Clarks, Jacksons, Sikes, and others; but there is room for many others. Sister Soward, who has been largely instrumental in building up the church at Weatherford, has moved to Decatur, where we have no congregation. I greatly desired to visit her, preach there, and aid her, if possible, in building up the church there. Hope to do so yet. But I must close. Got twelve new subscribers here for ADVOCATE.

OUR BIBLE CLASS.

Many new members have been added to our class. Many of our leading brethren have written me commending it. I publish below a postal card received from Bro. R. B. Neal. He has a Bible reading alliance which he wants our class to join. If any of them will send him their address, he will send cards. We are sorry that more boys and men have not joined. The girls are sending in names and answers every mail. Come on, boys, I want to get acquainted with you.

Mary E. McMurray asks, (17) "How many quotations did Paul use in writing to Timothy?"

Dear Bro. Poe: I liked your Bible Class idea from the very start. I note the growing success with gladness. Bible reading and Bible study are the Jachen and Boaz that support the Christian temple. We have formed a Bible Reading Alliance that is rapidly growing. We have over 15,000 cards in circulation. I send you specimens of reading cards. Will supply members of your class, if desired.—[R. B. Neal, Louisville, Ky.]

Here comes one too good to be lost, but written on both sides of the sheet. Don't write on but one side of your paper.

Dear Bro. Poe: I will endeavor to answer the questions in the ADVOCATE of February 20th. Answer to Bro. Elliott's question, "When did the ministry of John the Baptist cease?" At the death of Christ. Acts 19: 1-5. Question 10: "How many books in the New Testament give an answer to the question, 'What must I do to be saved?'" Answer, one; namely, the Acts of the Apostles. Answer to Mary Sugg's question, "What is it that man cannot tame?" The tongue. James iii: 8. Answer to the question asked by E. L. L., "To how many things in the New Testament is salvation ascribed?" Answer, ten. We are saved by hope, (Rom. viii: 24.) by grace, (Eph. ii: 5.) by the blood of Christ, (Rom. v: 9.) by works, (James ii: 26.) by Christ, (John iii: 17.) by the name of Christ, (Acts iv: 12.) by the washing of regeneration and renewing of the Holy Ghost, (Titus iii: 5.) by belief, (Acts xvi: 31.) by the life of Christ, (Rom. v: 10.) by belief and baptism, (Mark xvi: 16.) Answers to the queries from Noblett Chapel class: (1) Ahaz succeeded Jotham; 2 Kings xv: 38. (2) Character bad; 2 Kings xvi: 2-3. (3) He made his sons pass through the fire, and adulterated the uses of the furniture of the Lord's house; 2 Kings 16. (4) His brethren. (5) "Even from his mother's womb;" Luke i: 13. (6) Matthew i: 20. (7) Six months; Luke i: 26. (8) Two hundred and forty-four. The number of quotations from each book are as follows: Genesis, 17; Exodus, 18; Leviticus, 8; Numbers, 1; Deuteronomy, 24; Joshua, 1; 2 Samuel, 1; 1 Kings, 2; Job, 1; Psalms, 63; Proverbs, 8; Isaiah, 58; Jeremiah, 9; Ezekiel, 4; Daniel, 1; Hosea, 6; Joel, 2; Amos, 3; Jonah, 2; Micah, 2; Nahum, 1; Habakkuk, 1; Haggai, 1; Zacharia, 5; Malachi, 5.—[Ada Thurman, McMinnville, Tenn.]

OUR MISSION.

The sculptor looks upon his marble, pure and white; but it is only a block in the rough. The artist with an inward sight looks beyond the hard rude stone and sees a beautiful statue. So he sets to work, and with care chisels a form of grace.

"Men, are only blocks at best,
Till the chiseling brings out the rest."

We, brethren, with God's chisel keen, are called upon to go into the quarry amid the rough unpolished stone, half civilized, and bring out a christian community in honor to our King immortal.

Shall we go? The Lord Jesus says "go" they say "come over and help us." I don't think I have ever seen a better field for a good and lasting work, and now is the time to send up your contributions and let us make our Indian Mission in the Chickasaw Nation, Ind. Ter. self sustaining. If each one who reads this will send one dollar to Paris Texas, to swell the Indian Mission fund, our Mission will be self-sustaining. All money sent here will go right into the work, no leak sprung anywhere. Every dollar goes for the purpose for which you send it, and reported as received. In the near future all who have contributed to that work will remember it with joy. The first mission ever planted in the Indian Territory in the name of the Lord Jesus calls upon you, dear reader for help. Bro. Askew who was there at my request, has gone to rest, he did a good work. It makes it more important that we push forward. We have some money, but not enough to build a house and put a man to work. There can be more accomplished with less money in this work than any I know. We want to add just as soon as we can an industrial school. It is hard to cultivate morals among an idle people, but we will only ask your prayers in that. Land is no object over there, and it is good.

I feel sure we can create a fondness on the part of the Indian boys to work it. And the girls are anxious to mix work with their studies, and the older ones are anxious that their children be taught the Industrial arts. Don't lay this matter aside, and forget it, let us do what we do quickly.

Your brother in hope.

Paris, Texas.

R. W. OFFICER.

R. W. Officer:—Dear Brother, I commenced work for the the brethren here on the first Lord's day in this month. Had full house both morning and night. At night there was hardly standing room. Did not intend to preach at night, but was waited on by a committee of citizens in the afternoon and prevailed upon to do so. I spoke in the large Academy building both morning and night. Have been called upon to speak at Prairie Chapel, six miles from this place, on third Lord's day in this month; which I expect to do, the Lord willing.

Have been notified that the congregation at McGregor, wants a portion of my time. Have all the work that I can do. Found the brethren here badly scattered and demoralized, and completely out of heart; but thanks be to God, the fires of Christian love are being kindled anew and a zeal for the Master's work manifested. Prejudice has run riot here for some time to the great disadvantage of Gospel truth. May the Gospel truth dispel the lowering clouds of persecution until the day-star of hope shines forth in all its resplendent glory, and peace and good will reign supreme among men. My wife and I are well and join in love to you and yours

Crawford, Texas.

WM. KITCH.

Rates of Advertising in Gospel Advocate.

One inch, one insertion.....	$ 60
One inch, one month.....	2 00
One inch, three months.....	5 00
One inch, six months.....	7 50
One inch, twelve months.....	12 50

A discount of 10 per cent. on these rates for order of $25.00; 20 per cent. for order of $50.00; 30 per cent. for order of $100.00.

Queries.

Dear Bro Sewell: Please explain the following verses: Matthew xxiv: 40-41: "Then shall two be in the field; the one shall be taken, and the other left. Two women shall be grinding at the mill; the one shall be taken, and the other left." Also who was God speaking to when he said, "Let us make man in our image after our likeness." Gen. i: 26.—[Obadiah Hudson, North Springs, Jackson, county, Tenn.]

In the two verses above the Savior was simply showing that at this wind up, some of the people will be servants of the Lord and will be saved, while others, their earthly companions in business, will be lost. 2 The Hebrew word for God is itself in the plural number. Christ also speaks of himself as having been with the Father before the world was. God, and Christ as the word, and Holy Spirit were present, and this being true, it would be very fitting for God to say let us. Beyond this, we know nothing of the matter.

Bro Sewell.—To what baptism does the writer refer in Heb. vi: 2? — [T. M. Sweeney, Fosterville, Texas.]

It is not a very easy matter to determine with certainty what baptism is referred to. Some claim one thing, and some another. From the entire connection, we are inclined to think it refers to the ordinance of baptism as given in the new institution. The apostle has just been upbraiding them for not having advanced in the Christian life. He tells them that at the time they ought to be teachers they had need to be taught again the first principles of the oracles of God. Then in the first part of this, the sixth chapter, he says, "Therefore leaving the first principles of the doctrine of Christ," etc. That is, ceasing to teach or remain alone in first principles, let us go on to perfection. "Not laying again the foundation." Foundation of what? In the "Life and Epistles" of Paul, the rendering is such as to make Paul say "let me that is in my teaching to you, the first principle, and go on to the full practical development of the work of Christians not going back to dwell upon the foundation; that is, of repentance from dead works of faith toward God of baptism resurrection from the dead, and of eternal judgement. And this will I do, God permitting; that is, I will teach you the importance of going on with the work. For if you fall away after being enlightened, there is no chance for you to be renewed again. You must go on with the work, or be lost. In the version of the Epistles of Paul as referred to above, the word us is used as refer ring to the writer let me etc. Also it has the word baptism in the singular number, referring to the ordinance of baptism as required in our obedience to the gospel. And we are inclined to regard this as about the last salvation of the passage we have seen.

The apostle was writing to the Hebrew Christians who had obeyed the gospel, but had failed to grow; to advance in the divine life and he was in this passage trying to induce them to go on to the practical work, and grow stronger, and not remain always upon the foundation, but on up with the building of Character, lest they should apostatize and be lost.

If any one has a better solution, he is at liberty to give it.

E. G. S.

When old Bishop Beveridge was about to die, and one asked him if he knew those about his head, he said, "No." His wife bowed over his pillow and asked, "Do you know me?" "No." Another asked, "Do you know Jesus Christ?" And the venerable prelate folded his hands and said, "I have known him for forty-four years. He is my best friend." When Jonathan Edwards was dying, after he had dismissed all his family, he gathered his limbs up in bed, and said, "And now where is Jesus, my faithful friend?"

Sometimes "the heaviest wheat of all" may spring up from seed dropped in an incidental way. What a motive to the maintenance of a personal holiness! The incidental is a shadow of the international. Influence is the exhalation of character.—W. M. Taylor.

God never calls a man into his service without giving him something to do. Happy indeed is he that looks for the purpose of God concerning himself, and having ascertained it, willingly and cheerfully acquiesces in His will without hesitation and delay. Let every one put himself where God can use him.

The mind of the scholar, if you would have it large and liberal, should come in contact with other minds. It is better that his armor should be somewhat bruised by rude encounters even, than hang forever rusting on the wall.

Religion, or Bible righteousness, is morality with sentiment, with feeling, with emotion; morality spring from a heart filled with love. It is not a cold living by law, but a glad living to God and man.—Rev. Dr. Thomas.

Prof. Huxley says that in his voyage around the world, and in all his studies of savage life, he found no people so miserable, wretched degraded as those who exist in the poorer quarters of London.

Most notorious thieves, true-bred, care nothing about prisons; pauper-born, forward to make their homes in work-houses; and murderers can assemble and jest under the shadow of the gallows.

AMERICAN NATIONAL BANK.

CASH CAPITAL,

$1,000,000.

Board of Directors.

E. W. Cole,
John G. Houston,
J. F. Demoville,
John Orr,
Byrd Douglass, Jr.,

John M. Lea,
J. Kirkman,
Rev. Dr. R. A. Young,
V. L. Kirkman,
R. L. Weakley,

A. W. Harris,
M. Burns,
T. A. Atchison,
W. G. Bush,
W. H. Jackson,

John Woodard,
J. A. Pigue,
C. E. Hillman,
W. W. Berry,
Wm. Porter,
Edgar Jones.

This Bank has united with it the THIRD NATIONAL BANK of this city, and has increased its Capital Stock to $1,000,000. With increased facilities in every particular, it can confidently assert that it will offer superior advantages in all departments of Banking to its patrons and friends.

JOHN KIRKMAN, President,
A. W. HARRIS, Cashier.
E. W. COLE, Chairman Executive Committee.

EDGAR JONES, Vice-President,
JOHN M. LEA, Vice-President.

GOSPEL ADVOCATE

PRINTING AND PUBLISHING COMPANY,

JAMES F. &amp; HARRY LIPSCOMB, Managers,

98 Union Street,

Nashville, Tenn.

Letter Heads, Note Heads, Bill Heads, Statement Heads, Circulars, Catalogues, By-Laws, Bills Lading, Receipts, Coal Tickets, Milk Tickets, Tags, Business Cards, Visiting Cards, Horse Bills, Etc.

Good work at reasonable rates. Send for prices. Give us your orders and be pleased.

WE RESPECTFULLY CALL YOUR ATTENTION TO THE FOLLOWING EXCELLENT BOOKS KEPT BY US:

Popular Hymns, word edition.....	single copy 15 cts; per dozen, by express, $1 50; by mail, $1 70
Popular Hymns, Note edition, (Boards).....	single copy 30 cts; per dozen, by express, 3 00; by mail, 3 60
Popular Hymns, Note, (with rudiments).....	single copy 40 cts; per dozen, by express, 4 20; by mail, 4 80
Popular Hymns, Note edition, (cloth).....	single copy 40 cts; per dozen, by express, 4 00; by mail, 4 75
New Life (character notes).....	single copy 75 cts; per dozen, by express, 8 00; by mail, 4 00
Songs of Glory, numbers 1 and 2.....	single copy 35 cts; per dozen, by express, 3 60; by mail, 4 00
Life of Raccoon John Smith, (very readable,) postpaid.....	2 00
Voices of Seven Thunders, (interesting, entertaining, and instructive,) postpaid.....	1 50
Gospel Plan of salvation, by T. W. Brents, postpaid.....	2 00
Gospel Preacher, volumes 1 and 2, by Ben. Franklin, each, postpaid.....	2 00
Campbell and Owen Debate (splendid book for lawyers) postpaid.....	1 75
Dictionary of Bible, (complete,) by Dr. Smith, postpaid.....	1 50
House-keeping in the Blue Grass, (splendid,) postpaid.....	4 50, smaller 3 00
First Principles, by Isaac Errett, postpaid.....	15
Offerings to the Lord, by David Lipscomb, postpaid.....	10
Christian Experience, by Ben. Franklin, postpaid.....	10
Review of Dr. T. O. Summers' Tract, by Isaac Errett, postpaid.....	10
Union Movement, by Ben. Franklin, postpaid.....	10
Brown's Pocket Concordance to Bible, postpaid.....	10
Cruden's New Concordance (complete) postpaid.....	50
Bibles, Testaments, in all styles and bindings, at low rates.....	1 50

We will furnish any Book published in United States at retail price. WE SOLICIT YOUR orders. We pay postage only. All kinds of Job Printing.

S. B. HOGAN.

J. S. HOPKINS.

HOGAN & HOPKINS,

BOOTS & SHOES,

HATS, TRUNKS, UMBRELLAS, ETC., ETC.

We have just received our Fall and Winter Stock, which has been purchased at the very lowest prices, and we are determined not to let any one sell good Boots or Shoes cheaper than we do. Come and see us, and we will do our best to please you.

20 Public Square,

Nashville, Tennessee.

SALESMEN.—Sam. R. Hopkins, L. D. Simmons, William Mayer,

TO MAKE ROOM

For our Plow business, we offer bargains in the Celebrated Mitchell Spring Wagons as follows:

1½-inch axle Platform Spring Wagon, two seats, and pole $90.00.

1½-inch axle Platform Spring Wagon, two seats and pole, $95.00.

1½-inch three spring Delivery Wagon, with shafts, $85.00.

1½-inch three spring Pleasure Wagon, two seats and shafts, $90.00.

Two extra size bed, 1½ Platform Spring Wagon, suitable for drummer's hacks, at $100.00 each.

Above warranted for one year, and guaranteed in style, finish and durability; 10 per cent better than best shop made work.

DUDLEY BROS. &amp; LIPSCOMB.

Gen'l Agents Mitchell, Lewis &amp; Co.,

84 &amp; 86 Broad Street,

Nashville, Tenn.

PASCHALL, FALL &amp; CO.,

WHOLESALE

HARDWARE, Cutlery, Iron, WAGON MATERIAL, Etc.

FISHING TACKLE.

Nos. 57, 59 &amp; 61 S. Market St.,

NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE.

Our Prices are Very Low.

Agents for Chicago Scale Co.'s Platform &amp; Wagon Scales.

THE GOSPEL ADVOCATE.

NASHVILLE, TENN., MARCH 26, 1884.

CONTENTS:

Is He at the Door?	193
Who are the Disciples of Christ?	193
Lying	194
OBITUARIES	194
Our Indian Mission	195
QUERIES	195
CONTENTS	197
Innovations by Bro. Roulhac Considered	198
The Gospel of Christ No. 5	200
ITEMS, PERSONALS, ETC.	203
GENERAL NEWS	203
KENTUCKY CONTRIBUTIONS & CORRESPONDENCE.
Are the Churches Missionary Societies?	202
TAXAS WORK AND WORKERS.
Trip to Weatherford	198
Our Bible Class	196, 199
Our Mission	196
Book Notice	199
Progress of the Gospel	199
HOME READING.
Would Ye Bring Them Back Again?	204
A Queer Little Fellow	204
Christian Luxury	204
The Last Day	204
An Encouraging Incident	204
Birds Cannot Smell	204

INNOVATIONS BY BRO. ROULHAC, CONSIDERED.

We suggest a clear and distinct meaning of the terms used would be helpful. The term "expediency" is something used, or that may be used, by persons to assist them in accomplishing certain ends. If this be true, an expediency seldom refers to persons, unless they be regarded as things used by some other persons higher in power and authority; especially persons individually or collectively cannot by any fair use of language, call themselves an "expediency" in doing the work they are specially called to do. They are the essentiality, not the "expediency" of the work. We deny utterly that these societies fall within the realm of "expediency." When Bro. R. so assumes he is guilty of the fallacy known in logic as "begging the question."

"Innovation" is a change or novelty introduced into an established order. In religion we regard nothing as established, save that ordained by God. Then "innovation" as used by those who oppose innovation as wrong, is a change in the order established by God. Nor have we ever seen where the word "innovation" as applied to things not ordained, has ever been made in the Advocate, nor have we seen it in other papers as an argument against any thing. God ordained nothing in reference to meeting house or hymn books. So a change is not innovation. Still they were used in the apostolic age as expediences. "Method" is a manner of doing things. I deny that there is the least difference in the manner of preaching the gospel, by those who preach it, whether going in connection with the society or without it. The manner, the method is the same. The question is, shall it be done by the individual Christians and the churches as God ordained, or by a society unknown to the Bible, and having no other authority for existence among us than "a heritage from the Baptist?" which Bro. R. says should be guarded against. We frequently give soft names to things and deceive ourselves in reference to their nature.

Bro. R. says, "if the examples of primitive preaching is to be taken as determining the plan, then I should say that a multiplicity of methods seemed far more apparent than any single plan." Well why not from that great number of plans, select one, instead of adopting this heritage from the Baptists? If any one plan out of that multiplicity is adopted, opposition ceases. It is strange that when God has given so many plans as our brother represents, all of them should be rejected, and one from those corrupting the church should be followed. Is it wiser than any of those having divine sanction?

Our brother thinks that a religious newspaper and a society for spreading the gospel are very much alike. They bear the same resemblance to each other that a political newspaper and the congress of the United States do. One is an authoritative, controlling power, gradually usurping the authority and powers of the bodies forming it; the other an "expediency," a lifeless thing used to disseminate thoughts and facts among the people, and so may gain influence by force of truth and reason, but never authority. One is a thing an "expediency" to be used, lifeless, spiritless, the other is a person, a combination of persons to use and direct things and persons. Bro. Sewell and I concluded we could do some good writing the truth as well as speaking it. We had divine precedent for this. We concluded a multiplication of copies would multiply the good done. We used the facilities at command for doing it. Others thinking we would do good to them and extend the good, send us means to make copies for them and send it to them.

This corresponds not to the society in any of its characteristics, but to the preacher using the railroad or other means of transportation, and receiving help to get his teaching to the people. But ours is supported largely by the money of unbelievers. Does Bro. R. never receive help from an unbeliever? If an unbeliever over in Arkansas wanted to hear the truth, believed Bro. R. could teach it to him, but Bro. R. had no means to go, and he were to send him money to pay his way in getting the truth to him, would he not accept it? If so, he does or would do just what we do. If so, he is trying to excite prejudice against us for that which he does himself, and believes to be right. Is that in accord with the exhortations of his article? We have no means of knowing how many unbelievers desire to read the Advocate, and pay us to enable us to send them what is written. But we only regret there are not a hundred for every one now doing it. Bro. R. says we work for pay, and the societies are organized to enable them to preach the gospel free. We thought the societies were organized to pay the preacher.

This all comes with bad grace from a friend of the society, when the leading society at Lexington year before last violated its constitution and took in infants, and one reputed a sceptic as life members and life directors to control a Christian Missionary Society. We propose this, if Bro. R. will pay for all the free work we have done on the Advocate in the last twenty years, we will pay a good salary for all the preaching he has ever done. If he will pay for Advocates we have sent free to those not able to pay during any year of its existence, we will pay him for every sermon he ever preached without pay.

But we turn to the main question. "Expediency" as here used is of the force of nonessential as used by our religious neighbors. When a pædo-baptist tells Bro. Roulhac the form of baptism is a non-essential, and sprinkling, as a convenient expediency, may be used, he replies, what you substitute as an expediency for baptism, destroys baptism, is not baptism. I believe just as firmly that the societies, one and all, destroy the church of God, substitute something for that church which is no church, as Bro. R. believes that sprinkling destroys baptism, by substituting something for baptism that is not baptism.

In primitive times there was not a vestige of organization between the different churches, nor between members of different churches. There was just as much demand then as now for the gospel to be preached in all the world. The churches were just as poor, and the preachers needed help just as badly then as now. But no organization occurred during the apostolic days to help in this work.

Mosheim says of them, in the first century, "Nothing, on the contrary, is more evident than the perfect equality that reigned among the primitive churches; nor does there even appear, in this first century, the smallest trace of that association of provincial churches, from which councils and metropolitans derive their origin." Of the second century he says, "During a great part of this century the Christian churches were independent with respect to each other, nor were they joined by association, confederacy or any other bonds than those of charity. * * * But in process of time, all the Christian churches of a province were formed into one ecclesiastical body, which, like Confederate States, assembled at certain times in order to deliberate about the common interests of all." "These councils of which not the smallest trace existed before the middle of this century, changed the whole face of the church, and gave it a new form, for by them the ancient privileges of the people were considerably diminished, and the power and authority of the bishops greatly augmented."

This was the result of this first combination or association, voluntary association, to consider the general good. We affirm not only was this true of this first voluntary association of churches in a province to consult of the general good, but it is true of every successful effort at a general organization of churches in a province, from the first to the nineteenth century, without a single exception. They have resulted in changing the whole character of the churches, have deprived the people and the churches of their God-given functions, and have clothed the leaders with the power and authority to subvert the faith and destroy the true characteristics of the churches of God. We challenge Bro. Roulhac or any living man to produce an exception.

It will be remembered, too, that the apostle near the close of the first century, warned that "the mystery of lawlessness doth already work, only there is one that restraineth now, until he be taken out of the way." (2 Thes. 2-8—revision.) Now what is that mystery of lawlessness? It is generally interpreted by protestants to refer to the Romish hierarchy. But if it refers to the Romish hierarchy it must embrace this voluntary association of churches out of which the hierarchy grew; for without this, the hierarchy with its papal head never could have existed. The hierarchy is the outgrowth of this voluntary association of churches, but it did not attain this growth for several hundred years. The principle was at work during the life of the apostles and clearly had lower degrees of development, before it reached the climax of the papacy. What was the principle, what was its early development? The principle was one of lawlessness—acting without law. Without law, guided by "sanctified common sense," they formed themselves into a general organization (voluntary) to consider the common good. That is certainly the principle, the disposition was exhibiting itself in the days of the apostle. His authority restrained it until after his death. Under the plea of the common good, the churches then formed voluntary associations, and in regular progressive steps can be easily traced the principle at work until it reached the papacy in the sixth century. Now if the papacy is sinful, the principle that produced it is sinful. The stream never rises higher than the fountain. The fruit is no worse than the tree that produced it.

Not only did this principle lead to the first apostacy, but it has been fatal to every effort to return to the true faith and the primitive order of God. These organizations growing out of efforts to maintain a voluntary organization for the common good, have subverted the churches in Episcopacy, in Lutheranism, in Presbyterianism, in Methodism and in Baptistism. These organizations the outgrowth of this principle, stand today the chief hindrance to the acceptance of truth of God. They prevent the union of Christians in Christ. Baptists and Baptist churches are deterred from the truth for fear of denominational ostracism exerted through these associations. Witness the effect of this authority on Dr. J. L. Burrus and his church for worshiping with Christians. Numbers of Baptist preachers and churches we know of, that would be glad to associate with other churches simply as Christians, but are deterred by the Baptist conventions and associations. Do you say there is no danger among those now seeking a return to apostolic order?

The convention in Iowa demanded that it be allowed to appoint the preachers for each church, that the preacher should obligate himself to go where the convention sent him, and the church obligate itself to accept the preacher sent. In Missouri some of the chief advocates urged the society should take charge of all the schools of the brethren. At Island Park, a crowd collected as a Sunday-school association, led by Isaac Errett, the most influential man among the disciples, ordained missionaries, set at defiance all, Scripture authority or example, had women to lay hands on women without sanction of any church. They laid violent hands on the ordinance and struck out of the process of ordination, the fasting, so rejecting one act of the process ordained by God. (I am not saying that this process is binding on us to-day.) But if it is observed, it must be observed as God ordained it. It is presumptuous rebellion against God to pretend to do a thing in his name by his authority, and yet strike out a portion of it, that portion that is disagreeable to us. Isaac Errett justifies it as the most satisfactory to the greatest number, practically setting aside divine authority by the popular vote.

He in defence of this course denies that a church of God, the only organization ordained of God, has the right to send out a preacher. Claims it as the right of these associations; stripping the church and the people of the rights and duties God lays on them, and exalts the mystery of lawlessness. The claim is, we may act without law, that is lawless. In further justification of this, he published an article with compliments to the author, claiming that this setting aside of divine order was by the authority of the Holy Spirit, inasmuch as the Holy Spirit dwells in the church, and these who did this were members of the church. This is a claim of infallibility to the church and its right to set aside the appointments of God. Bro. Munnell is claiming the right of the convention to send out an authoritative evangelist to look after the churches. The mystery of lawlessness with all the opposition we have been able to bring to bear on them, within fifty years from the birth of the effort to restore the ancient order of things, so works.

Who dare say these things are not innovations upon the establishment of God. And as such are to be opposed, repudiated, and resisted by every one who would be faithful to God? This is a stab at the church of God itself. A stab that will destroy it, if not warded off. It is the working of the principle that will change the form, the nature, the work of the church, which is the body of Christ, will destroy the church by changing it into a denomination. And if the body of Christ be destroyed, what is the ordinance by which we enter that body worth? What need I care for the law of induction into that body, when the body is destroyed? This innovation upon the church itself, is as much more to be deprecated than the change of baptism as the destruction of the church is more hurtful to the world than ignorance of the way to enter that church.

Oh, no, my brother, it is not a question of innovation on something not established, which is no innovation, not a question of mere expediency; it is a question of the life of the true church of God on earth. Shall it be preserved intact, or shall we give way to the mystery of lawlessness, working without and beyond divine law in the name of God?

This mystery of lawlessness, acting without law, is called the man of sin, that sitteth in the place of God. The place of God is the head of the church. Every organization has a head. The head of the church is God. But God is not the head of any organization that he never organized. He never organized these voluntary combinations of the churches. He is not the head of these. They have a head. It is an earthly head. They are over the churches. Hence they are in the place of God. And they will be slain by the breath of the mouth of Jesus. These assumptions of this age, are just as sinful as any assumptions of the ages of the past, and if allowed to grow, will grow into just as great perversions of the church, and are as destructive of its essential features as any that have preceded them.

Does our brother think that faith, repentance and baptism the only things established by God—the only things of God that are fixed, that it is in a sin for men to touch? Does he think that the Romish Church, or the Episcopal Church, or the Methodist Church, or the Baptist Church, would be a true and acceptable church of God if it would teach faith, repentance, and baptism for the remission of sins? The way we seem to be willing to relegate other appointments of God, even the church itself, to the realm of expediency and to maintain this order as the one inviolable decree of heaven, would seem to indicate this.

Bro. Roulhac insists that we have never given a plan having divine sanction. We insist in this he is mistaken. We have repeatedly done it. Bro. Harding presented it recently. Bro. J. B. Jones, the secretary of the Kentucky Association, said it was clearly the apostolic mode. We understand Bro. Allen admits the same. We will not take space to repeat it here.

The only point they raise, is, is it binding on us? Are we bound by it, or can we by our "sanctified common sense" do better now? "Sanctified common sense" is substituted for divine authority. We deny any common sense that is not satisfied with God's appointments—is sanctified. We believe firmly that the Christian religion is a cast-iron affair—incapable of expansion beyond its original mould. But that mould is sufficiently broad and strong and deep to meet all the necessities of any civilization that is not unchristian, and that any demand for its expansion beyond the mould cast by God, is the outgrowth of a spirit of the world, and not of the Spirit of Christ or his religion.

There never can be agreement about the Societies. Were the opposition to their existence to be withdrawn, the controversy would be just as sharp between the different kinds of societies. Elder Errett agrees with me in declaring conventions of church representatives, except within very narrow limits, dangerous. Bro. Allen agrees with me that associations of individuals from different churches, without the approbation of the churches, are violative of the law of God. I have high approval in opposition to both forms of societies, from society men.

More than once the friends of these two different societies have whetted their swords—well sharpened their pencils, is more literal—to engage in discussion of the respective merits of the two societies. Only the pressure of the opposition to both has caused them to defer their conflict. When we get away from the Bible, there are confusion and endless strife.

D. L.

TEXAS WORK AND WORKERS—Continued.

CONDUCTED BY JOHN T. POE, LONGVIEW, TEXAS,
TO WHOM ALL CORRESPONDENCE RELATING TO
THIS DEPARTMENT MUST BE ADDRESSED.

OUR BIBLE CLASS.

Dear Bro. Poe: In 2 Cor. iii: 16, we read: "But whenever it turns to the Lord, the veil is taken away." (B. U. translation.) What does it personate? Again, does the personal pronoun I ever apply to whales or caves? If not, tell Bro. Gowen that he had better be careful how he asks questions that I cannot answer, or I might get after him again.—[E. L. L., Pleasant Retreat.]

Hurrah for Noblitt's Chapel class! Wish other classes would join us. We almost wish we lived at Noblitt's Chapel.

Answer to Bro. Poe's query No. 10.—To the alien to be saved from past sins, one. That the acts of apostles, from Romans to Jude, tells us how to live a godly life, in order to obtain an honorable resurrection, to be saved at God's right hand.

Answer to Bro. Elliott's query.—From what we can gather, John's ministry ceased in the latter part of the year 29, or early in 30.

Will answer Mary Sugg that it is the tongue. We could condense Bro. E. L. L.'s answer, and say, six: Father, Son, and Spirit, on the divine side; faith, repentance, and baptism, upon the human. He doubtless would not receive it. So we answer sixteen, the following: Father—(1) Grace: Rom. iii: 24; Eph. ii: 5. (2) Love: 1 John iii: 1; John iii: 16. Son—(3) "No other name." Acts x: 43; Acts iv: 12. (4) His life: Rom. v: 10; John xiv: 19. (5) Delivered and (6) raised: Rom. iv: 25; 1 Cor. xv: 17. (7) His blood: Rom. v: 9; 1 John i: 7. (8) He commanded man to preach the gospel: Mark xvi: 16; Rom. x: 14. (9) Why and for what purpose? 1 Cor. i: 21; Rom. i: 16. Spirit—(10) To convince the world of sin: John xvi: 8; Acts 2. Man's part—(11) Repent and (12) be baptized: Acts ii: 38; Mark xvi: 16. (13) Believe on the Lord; Acts 16: 31. (14) Confession: Rom. x: 10. (15) Hope: Rom. viii: 24. (16) Love: John xiv: 23; 1 Cor. xvi: 22.

NOBLITT'S CHAPEL CLASS.

BOOK NOTICE.

THE LIFE OF PAUL. By D. H. Taylor. Boston: D. Lothrop & Co. Price $1.50. The author has in this volume given us what we have so long waited for—a popular history of the life of St. Paul—clear, connected and fascinating in the manner of narrative, condensed in form and yet comprehensive in detail. There have been other larger and more important biographies of the great apostle written, but their size and cost have kept them out of popular reach. The first part takes up and describes the youth and school-days of the apostle, and gives a vivid picture of the scenes among which his early life was spent. It tells the story, too, of his conversion, and of the first six years which followed it. The second part describes his first missionary journey, while the third and fourth are devoted to his subsequent journeys. This portion of the work is illustrated by a folding map in colors which is of great service to the reader. The fifth and closing part narrates the incidents of his arrest, trial and imprisonment at Rome, and gives an account as gathered from tradition, of his work in later years. The author has taken care to secure historical as well exegetical accuracy, and his book deserves immediate place among the standard religious biography. In addition to the map it contains important illustrations. It is handsomely printed and bound.

We cheerfully commend it.

PROGRESS OF THE GOSPEL.

Dear Bro. Poe: Bro. John McCoy, of Kentucky, came into our midst the last of January, and on the first Sunday night in February began a meeting at Earl's Chapel, Cherokee county, Texas. He was with us about two weeks, and preached ten discourses. Two, by confession and baptism, were added to the church of God. Bro. McCoy has been a student of the Bible, and a preacher for upwards of thirty years.

K. B. WYATT.

THE GOSPEL OF CHRIST.

NUMBER 5.

The second proof of Jesus' revival from among the dead, is the testimony of his apostles and other disciples—about five hundred of these saw him at one time, over two hundred and fifty of whom were living witnesses of his resurrection, twenty six years after this time (Pentecost).

"Peter standing up with the eleven," in the midst of one hundred and twenty disciples, and in the presence of thousands of hearers, some of whom had been instrumental in the death of Jesus, boldly affirmed on this subject, "We all are witnesses." They claim to have seen him, conversed with him, ate with him, and handled him, after he arose from the dead.

That such witnesses once lived, at this period, and that they believed and preached these things, are fact beyond the possibility of a reasonable doubt. One could with as much reason deny there were armies under Alexander, Hannibal, Cæsar, or deny any other well accredited historical event remote from the present, as to question the fact that Jesus Christ had numerous followers preaching his resurrection, just after his disappearance from this earth. After considering the testimony, one making such denial, must indeed "love darkness rather than light," or be of those who could hardly be held accountable at the bar of men, or court of heaven.

However, it may be of some interest to the reader, here to note briefly some of the testimony to these witnesses and what they suffered for their faith, furnished by profane historians of the two first centuries of the Christian era.

Tacitus, a Roman historian of the first century, himself an unbeliever, would not write in favor of Christians if he could avoid it, felt bound as an historian, to give some account of this people in that age. He says: "But neither all human help, nor the liberality of the Emperor, (Nero) nor all the atonements offered to the gods, availed to abate the infamy he lay under of having ordered the city to be set on fire. To suppress, therefore, this common rumor he so procured others to be accused, and inflicted exquisite punishment upon those people, who were in abhorrence for their crimes, and were commonly known by the name of Christians. They had their denomination from Christus, who in the reign of Tiberius was put to death as a criminal by the procurator Pontius Pilate. This pernicious superstition, thought checked for a while brake out again and spread, not only over Judea, the source of the evil, but reached the city (Rome) also; whither flow, from all quarters all things vile and refuse and they find shelter and encouragement. At first they were only apprehended, who confessed themselves of this sect; afterwards a vast multitude discovered by them, all of which were condemned, not so much for the crime of burning the city as for their enmity to mankind. Their executions were so contrived as to expose them to derision and contempt. Some were covered over with the skins of wild beasts, and torn to pieces by dogs; some were crucified, others having been daubed over with combustible materials, were set up as light in the night time, and thus burned to death. Nero made use of his own garden as a theater upon this occasion, and also exhibited the diversions of the circus, sometimes standing in the crowd as a spectator, in the habit of a Charioteer, at other times driving a chariot himself, till at length these men through really criminal and deserving exemplary punishment began to be commiserated as a people who were destroyed, not out of regard to the public welfare but to gratify the cruelty of one man." See Lardner, Vol. vi, pages 628-9. The facts concerning Christ and his followers, and the opinions of the historians here interwoven, the fair minded reader will be able to separate. The facts are the foregone incontrovertible truths of history, the opinions are the calumnies of the historian. Tacitus as a Roman statesman felt bound to honor polytheism, the national religion, and for this reason decry Christianity which in its very nature is aggressive, and destructive of all opposing religions. It is worthy of remark that Tacitus though writing of Christ and his disciples as criminals, failed to specify any crime against him or them in any of his writings. The various facts of the gospel history so clearly adverted to in this letter, the reader will be able to collate. Sufficiently is it here to note the genuineness of this letter is unquestioned and it states that Christ was put to death by Pontius Pilate, under Tiberius, that from him the people called Christians derived their name and sentiments. The number of Christians, and their sufferings also, must have been very considerable in the sixty-fourth year of Christ, thus to have attracted the attention and even the commiseration of an unbelieving heathen historian.

It is hoped the reader's patience will allow the introduction of some additional testimony of this character. In the year of Christ 107 during the reign of Trajan, Emperor of Rome, the younger Pliny then active governor of Bythnia wrote the Emperor Trajan the following letter, asking advice and counsel as to the course he should pursue toward those who were guilty of being Christians. "Pliny to the Emperor Trajan, wishes health and happiness. It is my constant custom, sir, to refer myself to you in all matters concerning which I have any doubt. For who can better direct me where I hesitate, or instruct me where I am ignorant? I have never been present at any trials of Christians; so that I know not well what is the subject matter of punishment, or of inquiry, or what strictness ought to be used in either. Nor have I been a little perplexed to determine whether any difference ought to be made on account of age, or whether the young and tender and full grown and robust ought to be treated all alike: whether repentance should entitle to pardon or whether all who have once been Christians ought to be punished, though they are now no longer so: whether the name itself, although no crimes be detected, or crimes only belonging to the name, ought to be punished. Concerning all these things I am in doubt.

In the meantime I have taken this course with all who have been brought before me and have been accused as Christians. I have put the question to them, whether they were Christians? upon their confessing to me that they were I repeated the question a second and a third time threatening also to punish them with death. Such as still persisted I ordered away to be punished; for it was no doubt with me whatever might be their opinion that contumacy and inflexible obstinacy ought to be punished. There were others of the same infatuation whom because they are Roman citizens I have noted down to be sent to the city.

In a short time the crime spreading itself, even whilst under persecution as is usual in such cases, divers sorts of people came in my way. An information was presented to me without mentioning the author, containing the names of many persons, who upon examination denied that they were Christians, or had ever been so: who repeated after me an invocation to the gods, and with wine and frankincense made supplication to your image which for that purpose I have caused to be brought and set before them together with the statues of the deities. Moreover they reviled the name of Christ. None of which things as is said, they who are really Christians can by any means be compelled to do, these therefore I thought proper to discharge.

Others were named by an informer, who at first confessed themselves Christians and afterwards denied it. The rest said they have been Christians, but had left them; some three years ago, some longer, and one, or more, above twenty years. They all worshiped your image and the statues of the gods; these all reviled the name of Christ. They affirmed that the whole of their fault or error lay in this, that they were wont to meet together on a stated day before it was light, and sing among themselves alternately a hymn to Christ as a God, and, bind themselves by an oath not to the commission of any wickedness, but not to be guilty of theft, or robbery, or adultery, never to falsify their word, nor to deny a pledge when committed to them when called upon to return it. When these things were performed, it was their custom to separate, and then to come together again to a meal, which they ate in common, without any disorder: but this they have foreborne since the publication of my edict, by which according to your commands I prohibited assemblies.

After receiving this account I judged it the more necessary to examine, and that by torture, two maid-servants which were called ministers. But I have discovered nothing besides a bad and excessive superstition. Suspending therefore all judicial proceedings, I have recourse to you for advice for it appeared unto me a matter highly deserving consideration, especially upon account of the number of persons who are in danger of suffering. For many of all ages, and every rank, of both sexes likewise are accused and will be accused. Nor has the contagion of this superstition seized cities only, but the lesser towns also the open country. Nevertheless it seemed to me that it might be restrained and corrected. It is certain that the temples which were almost forsaken, begin to be frequented. And the sacred solemnities, after a long intermission are revived. Victims likewise are everywhere bought up, whereas for sometime there were few purchasers. Whence it is easy to imagine what numbers of men might be reclaimed, if pardon were granted to those who shall repent." So writes Pliny.

The Emperor thus briefly replied: Trajan to Pliny wisheth health and happiness: You have taken the right method my Pliny, in your proceedings with those who have been brought before you as Christians; for it is impossible to establish any one rule that shall hold universally. They are not to be sought. If any are brought before you, and are convicted, they ought to be punished. However, he that denies his being a Christian, and makes it evident in fact, that is try supplicating to our gods, though he be suspected to have been so formerly, let him be pardoned upon repentance. But in no case of any crime whatever, may a bill of information be received without being signed by him who presents it: for that would be a dangerous precedent, and unworthy of my government. Lardner, Vol. vii, 22-25 pages.

One conversant with the New Testament, "between the lines," as well as in the very words of the letters, can read again the account of those fiery trials the early Christians passed, and though from another and heathen source, tell the same story of suffering and martyrdom for Christ's sake, and by agreement of the historical persons, places and events mentioned, mutually confirm both these letters and the New Testament documents. While perusing the accounts of persecutions heaped upon these Christians, one can hardly refrain ejaculating the dying petition of Jesus, "Father, forgive them, they know not what they do." Since many of these civil rulers manifested a willingness to conform to justice in their administrations, and yet came so far short of it as to put to death those whose fault or error lay in this, that they were accustomed to meet together and bind themselves to a righteous course of conduct, "Who, while they declined the active cares of war and government," as Gibbon says, "yielded the most passive obedience to the laws."

"This learned, but sceptical historian, (Gibbon,) thus avouches for the above testimony from Tacitus: "The most sceptical criticism is obliged to respect the truth of this extraordinary fact, and the integrity of this celebrated passage of Tacitus." He also admits the letter of Trajan and Pliny. For himself, in behalf of Christianity, Gibbon was constrained thus to depose: "A candid but rational inquiry into the progress and establishment of Christianity, may be considered as a very essential part of the history of the Roman Empire. While that great body was invaded by open violence or undermined by slow decay, a pure and humble religion gently insinuated itself into the minds of men, grew up in silence and obscurity, derived new vigor from opposition, and finally erected the triumphant banner of the cross on the ruins of the capitol. Nor was the influence of Christianity confined to the period or to the limits of the Roman Empire. After a revolution of thirteen or fourteen centuries, that religion is still professed by the nations of Europe, the most distinguished portion or the human kind in arts and learning, as well as in arms. By the industry and zeal of the Europeans, it has been diffused to the most distant shores of Asia and Africa, and by means of their colonies, has been firmly established from Canada to Chili in a world unknown to the ancients. Our curiosity is naturally tempted to inquire, by what means the Christian faith obtained so remarkable a victory over the established religions of the earth. To this inquiry on obvious but satisfactory answer may be returned, that it was owing to the convincing evidence of the doctrine itself, and to the ruling providence of its great author, "Gibbon's Roman History, Vol. 1, pages 504-5.

G. LIPSCOMB.

ROYAL

BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

This powder never varies. A marvel of purity strength and wholesome mess. More economical than the ordinary kinds, and cannot be sold in competition with the multitude of low test, short weight alum or phosphate powders. Sold only in cans.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 106 Wall St., New York.

DYSPEPSIA.

Sedentary habits, mental worry, nervous excitement, excess or imprudence in eating or drinking, and various other causes, induce Constipation followed by general derangement of the liver, kidneys, and stomach, in which the disorder of each organ increases the infirmity of the others.

The immediate results are Loss of Appetite, Nausea, Poul Breath, Heartburn, Flatulence, Dizziness, Sick Headaches, failure of physical and mental vigor, distressing sense of weight and fullness in the stomach, and increased Costiveness, all of which are known under one head as Dyspepsia.

In every instance where this disease does not originate from scrofulous taint in the blood, AYER'S PILLS may be confidently relied upon to effect a cure. Those cases not amenable to the curative influence of AYER'S PILLS alone will certainly yield if the PILLS are aided by the powerful blood-purifying properties of AYER'S SARSAPARILLA.

Dyspeptics should know that the longer treatment of their malady is postponed, the more difficult of cure it becomes.

Ayer's Pills

Never fail to relieve the bowels and promote their healthful and regular action, and thus cure Dyspepsia. Temporary palliatives all do permanent harm. The fitful activity into which the enfeebled stomach is spurred by "bitters," and alcoholic stimulants, is inevitably followed by reaction that leaves the organ weaker than before.

"Costiveness, induced by my sedentary habits of life, became chronic; AYER'S PILLS afforded me speedy relief. Their occasional use has since kept me all right." HERMANN BRINGHOFF, Newark, N. J.

"I was induced to try AYER'S PILLS as a remedy for indigestion, Constipation, and Headache, from which I had long been a sufferer. I found their action easy, and obtained prompt relief. They have benefited me more than all the medicines ever before tried." M. V. WATSON, 152 State St., Chicago, Ill.

"They have entirely corrected the costive habit, and vastly improved my general health." REV. FRANCIS B. HARLOWE, Atlanta, Ga.

"The most effective and the easiest physic I have ever found. One dose will quickly move my bowels and free my head from pain." W. L. PAGE, Richmond, Va.

"A sufferer from Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, and Neuralgia for the last twenty years, AYER'S PILLS have benefited me more than any medicine I have ever taken." P. R. ROGERS, Needmore, Brown Co., Ind.

"For Dyspepsia they are invaluable." J. T. HAYES, Meza, Texas.

AYER'S PILLS,

PREPARED BY
Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.
Sold by all Druggists.

THE SUGAR HAND BOOK

A NEW AND VALUABLE TREATISE ON SUGAR CANES, (including the Minnesota Early Amber) and their manufacture into Syrup and Sugar. Although comprised in small compass and furnished free to applicants, it is the BEST PRACTICAL MANUAL ON SUGAR CANES that has yet been published.

ELYMYER MANUFACTURING CO
Cincinnati, O.
Manufacturers of Steam Sugar Machinery, Steam Engines
Victor Cane Mill, Cook Sugar Evaporator, etc.

PREWITT, SPURR & CO.,

MANUFACTURERS OF

WOODEN WARE AND LUMBER,

NASHVILLE, TENN.

Poplar and Pine Flooring, Ceiling, Weatherboarding, Sash, Doors, Blinds, Door and Window Frames Brackets, Laths, Cedar Posts Etc., Always on hand.

FACTORY AND MILLS IN EDGEFIELD.

NATHANIEL BAXTER, JR.,
President.

THOS. PLATER,
Vice President.

J. P. WILLIAMS,
Cashier.

W. F. BANG, JR.,
Asst. Cashier.

THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK,

OF NASHVILLE, TENN. (Reorganized.)

Designated Depository and Financial Agent of the United States.

CAPITAL STOCK, - - - - - $500,000 00
UNDIVIDED PROFITS, - - - - - 186,200 00

Receives Deposits, Deals in United States Bonds and Local Securities, and Foreign and Domestic Exchange. Drafts drawn on all European points. Our facilities for making collections at all accessible points are unsurpassed.

P. A. SHELTON,

DEALER IN

STAPLE AND FANCY GROCERIES,

FLOUR, BACON, LARD, TOBACCO AND CIGARS, COUNTRY PRODUCE,

QUEENSWARE, GLASSWARE, TINWARE, LAMPS AND TRIMMINGS.

No. 96 BROAD STREET, - (Second door from College,) - NASHVILLE, TENN.

Special Attention Given to Filling Orders.

SOLE AGENT FOR "RINGLEADER" FLOUR.

ALEX. HOGAN.

JO. B. HALL.

HOGAN & HALL,

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALERS IN

GROCERIES, BACON, LARD,

—AND—

PURE WHISKIES AND WINES

For Medicinal Purposes.

106 Broad Street, - - - NASHVILLE, TENN.

PEOPLE'S

Tobacco and Cotton Warehouse,

D. K. MASON & CO., Proprietors,

Nos. 906, 908, 910, and 912 West Main Street,

LOUISVILLE, KY.

R. Averitt, formerly with Gordon, Bro. & Co., of Nashville, Tenn., will give special attention to consignments from up Cumberland and West Tennessee.

GEO. E. COOPER & CO.,

Wholesale Manufacturers and Dealers in

TINWARE, STOVES, FURNACES,

And House Furnishing Goods.

Tin and Slate Roofing and Galvanized Iron Cornice Work
a Specialty.

Also our Patent Chimney Top for smoky chimneys, has no equal. Write for prices and address,

GEO. E. COOPER & CO.,

22 North Market Street,

Nashville, - - - Tennessee.

SHOW CASES,

CEDAR CHESTS, CEDAR WARDROBES,
Cabinet Work, and all kinds of Glass.

G. C. TERRY, Manufacturer,

46 N. Front Street. - NASHVILLE.

AGENTS wanted for the History of Christianity, by Abbott. A grand chance. A $4 book at the popular price of $1.75. Liberal terms. The religious papers mention it as one of the few great religious works of the world. Greater success never known by agents. Terms free. STINSON & Co., Publisher, Portland, Maine.

IT PAYS to sell our Hand Rubber Stamps. Samples free. FOLJAMER & Co., Cleveland, O.

Owing to the continued warm weather, we are overstocked of

Woolen Goods,

and not wishing to pack them till another season, have made great reductions. We offer—

20 pcs all wool Scarlet Twill Flannel at 20c, former price 30c.

10 pcs Medicated Twill Flannel at 25c, former price 35c.

15 pcs extra heavy fine Shaker, twill or plain, at 35c, 40c and 45c former price 45c, 55c and 65c.

35 pcs White Wool Flannel at 15c former price 25c.

20 pcs White Wool, 30 inches wide 20c.

15 pcs fine white all woo. Flannel at 25c, reduced from 40c.

Blankets! Blankets

Notwithstanding the great quantity of Blankets we have sold, we find we have too many unless it turn much colder. Our prices now are

Our $2.00 a pair Blankets now	$1.50
Our 2.75 " " "	2.00
Our 3.50 " " "	2.50
Our 4.00 " " "	3.00
Our 4.50 " " "	3.50
Our 5.25 " " "	4.50
Our 6.00 " " "	5.25
Our 7.50 " " "	6.25
Our 9.00 " " "	7.50

These are not imaginary reductions, but positive mark down.

Dolmans! Russian Circulars, Jackets and Cloaks.

We have just fitted up an elegant Cloak Parlor, and can show the largest variety of Dolmans, Russian Circulars, etc., etc., in this city. If in need of a winter wrap do not fail to see our line, as we will positively save you from two to three dollars on your purchase.

LEBECK BROS.,

17 Public Square,

NASHVILLE, - - - TENN.

KENTUCKY CONTRIBUTIONS AND CORRESPONDENCE.

BY J. A. HARDING, OF WINCHESTER, KY., TO WHOM
ALL COMMUNICATIONS FOR THIS DEPARTMENT
SHOULD BE ADDRESSED.

ARE THE CHURCHES MISSIONARY SOCIETIES?

In the Old Path Guide of Feb. 15th, Bro. Allen publishes an article, under the above heading, in reply to a certain question that I asked him. A pressure of other matters has prevented me from giving it the consideration it deserves until now. Omitting some introductory matters that are not relevant to the question in debate, his article is as follows:

But, now, to Bro. Harding's question.

"Are not the churches, with their elders and deacons, divine organizations?" Certainly; the only divine organization on earth. At least so we think.

"Do they not exist by divine enactments?" This is our understanding.

"Are not the teachings of God, by which he makes the churches, and indicates that for which they were made, 'matters of faith and authority?'" Yes, sir; at least we so understand it.

"Shall we 'stop where he stops in these matters of faith and authority?'" Certainly we shall. In establishing and organizing churches, we are working in the department of faith; hence, we should begin where God begins, and stop where he stops. There is no provision for human wisdom in such work.

But what is Bro. Harding's point in all these questions? He makes no logical landing. We are left to gather his idea from the context. In it he claims that the churches are divine missionary societies. This, then, is the difficulty with which he expects us to grapple: God established the churches as missionary societies. They are matters of faith. In matters of faith we are to stop where God stops. In the establishment of missionary societies, God stopped with the churches. Therefore we are to stop with the churches.

The pivotal point in this argument, that upon which everything else turns, is the assumption that the churches of Christ are divinely appointed missionary societies. This, then, is the point claiming attention.

It is claimed that this point is admitted by the friends of missionary societies. We know not how much has been admitted, nor are we concerned to know. We are not governed in our investigations by what men have admitted. We have admitted things that we now know were not true, and we think it probable that others have done the same. The question, then, is not what has been admitted? but what does the word of God teach?

We know of but two ways by which we may determine that an institution, human or divine, is a missionary society. First, by its being so called; and, second, by its sending out and sustaining missionaries. An institution of which neither of these is true, is certainly a strange kind of a missionary society.

The New Testament churches are nowhere called missionary societies; and since they are not so called, we have no "thus saith the Lord" for so calling them. Since they are matters of faith, we may not give them a name which God has not given them; but, on the contrary, we must "stop where he stops."

Moreover, we do not call to mind any church in the New Testament that sent out and sustained a missionary. The church at Antioch set apart Barnabas and Saul to a missionary work, but the Holy Spirit called them to it, and sent them forth. Paul's necessities were sometimes supplied by churches where he was not laboring, but no one of them sent him out and sustained him as a missionary. The fact is, we do not find the evangelists of the New Testament laboring under the appointment and control of the churches as such.

But it is useless to augment proof on this point, since Bro. Harding admits it. In the Advocate of January 9th, while defending the "plan" of going without being sent by anybody, the plan on which he works, Bro. Harding says: "Jesus commanded the eleven to preach, and they obeyed. There is no record that any of them, at any time afterwards, was sent by a church or co-operation to preach the gospel."

"When we look carefully into the matter, we do not find proof that any apostle was ever sent on any mission by a church." "There is no unmistakable proof that any church in the apostolic age sent out a preacher to preach the gospel. It seems that the commission of our Lord was deemed sufficient in so far as sending evangelists was concerned. Nor do we find the churches directing the labors of the evangelists in their preaching."

It seems rather strange that these churches which, up to January 9th, 1884, never sent out a missionary, nor had one under direction, should, on January 30th, 1884, be divinely appointed missionary societies, than which we may have none others for the conversion of the world!

On the same principle that we may call churches missionary societies—because mission work, in a certain sense, is one feature of them—we may say they are Bible societies, Bible schools, benevolent societies, poor houses and a dozen other things. May we, therefore, convert a church into a dozen different institutions, beyond none of which we may go in our efforts to bless the world? May we make no united effort to publish and distribute the word of God, have no Bible College teach it, no orphan school, no widows' and orphans' home, because all these things were done in a certain way and to a certain extent in the New Testament churches?

We are not at liberty to convert the Church of God into an institution suggested by some one feature of it. This is the work and the life of sectarianism. It takes a name from some feature of Christianity, builds a system around it, and then shouts, "This is the Lord's doings, and marvelous in our eyes!"

The question, then, is not what is some feature of the churches of Christ? but what was the purpose of their establishment? What is the central idea in their existence?

The divine purpose in congregating the disciples into local churches seems to have been twofold: Their spiritual upbuilding by mutual instruction and exhortation, with the influence of association, and the conversion of sinners in their vicinity. For these they were qualified by spiritual gifts. Of these two works much is said; of their being missionary societies, nothing.

We cannot see, therefore, that the churches are missionary societies in a sense, that beyond their efforts as such, we may not go in our desire to convert the world.

Missionary societies do not belong to the department of faith, in the system of redemption, as do the churches. They do not exist, therefore, by virtue of a "thus saith the Lord;" but by the law of Christian liberty, which covers the whole territory of the kingdom of God not pre-empted by some other divine law. If a missionary society contravenes any law of God, it has no divine right to exist; otherwise it has. If such contravention is claimed, the burden of proof falls on him who so affirms. These societies, we think, sometimes do things that contravene divine law, just as churches sometimes do; but if the simple fact of their existence and work is a contravention of any law of God revealed in the Bible, we have not seen its proof.

In conclusion we ask: If evangelists in New Testament times voluntarily went, as Bro. Harding does now, without infringing on the rights of the churches, may they not now be voluntarily sent, without such infringement? If there is no infringement in the going, where is the infringement in the sending?

Bro. Jones frankly admitted, in the discussion which I had with him recently on this question, that the churches are missionary societies. But Bro. Allen sees that this admission, were he to make it, would require him to give up the human societies, since he teaches that when God legislates we must "stop where he stops."

If God therefore has established missionary societies, and has given explicit instructions as to their government and work, showing how they are to sustain evangelists, we must go according to the instructions and examples. "We must stop where he stops." But he is not yet ready to give up the human societies; after a careful survey of the ground he concludes that the churches are not missionary societies. "We know of but two ways, 'by which we may determine that an institution, human or divine, is a missionary society. First, by its being so called; and, second, by its sending out and sustaining missionaries. An institution of which neither of these is true, is certainly a strange kind of a missionary society.'"

Missionary means "relating to missions;" did the churches of apostolic times have no relation to missions? Paul was a missionary sent forth by the Lord to preach the gospel; the church at Philippi time and again sent unto him and supported him in his work; had that church no relation to, no connection with, no partnership in his mission? It was a divine organization, Bro. Allen tells us; it spent its money freely in sustaining Paul in his missionary work; it was "the pillar and ground of the truth" in that region; but, says Bro. A., it was not a missionary society. The Kentucky Christian Missionary Society is properly named, forsooth, although it only spends $3000 or $4000 per annum for missions, and makes but a few scores of converts; while the churches of God in the state are not missionary societies, although they spend many thousand dollars in sustaining evangelists, and make thousands of converts every year. If Kentucky does her proportional part of the work that is done, and from her liberality and energy I presume she does more, there are about 800 people converted through the disciples of the state each year.

The churches of the United States make about 60,000 converts each year; the missionary societies, all together, make from 3,000 to 6,000 per year. Yet the latter are properly dubbed missionary; the former are not! "The Lord's plan" is a failure, and the human societies are the hope of the world!

By the way, Bro. Allen has gotten over the fence with a vengeance. A few weeks ago he was contending that the churches must do this work of sending out and sustaining missionaries; and that the societies are radically wrong in not being co-operations of churches: but now the churches are not missionary societies at all, nor can they lawfully send out and sustain evangelists, since they exist by divine enactment, and must therefore go strictly according to the letter of the law. Indeed, according to Bro. Allen's exposition of matters, they can only take part in missionary work by contributing to evangelists who are in the field at work; for so they did in the ancient days.

Now if he will just drop his humanisms, which have been invented since the days of Christ and the apostles, he will stand with me, holding to this position, viz.

All missionaries operate under the Great Commission; Christ is the sender. It is the duty of Christians and of churches to have partnership in the work by contributing to the support of those who go about it.

If I understand him, Bro. Allen agrees with me, that in this way the work was done in the primitive church.

I would like for him to show, if he can, what it is that makes other methods necessary now.

END OF KENTUCKY DEPARTMENT.

Congress has passed a bill declaring much of the lands appropriated to build railroads in the Western Territories forfeited by the companies, and restoring the lands to the public domain, subject to entry and settlement. Under this bill over 30 millions of acres are opened to settlement and entry.

ITEMS, PERSONALS, ETC.

Dr. Brents spent the day on Saturday of last week in the city. He is looking well.

Bro. E. H. Rogers' address will be Lafayette Macon County, Tenn., until further notice.

Bro. Granville Lipscomb has been holding meetings at night at Fain's Hall, in South Nashville, during the past week. His audiences have been fair when the weather was fair. One young man was baptized.

BOOK OF SERMONS.

The sermons of J. L. Sewell, as published in GOSPEL ADVOCATE, will make a book about the size of "The Gospel Preacher," by B. Franklin, and the price would be the same, $2.00 each.

We had a call from Elder S. Whitney, Cooper, Hopkins Co., Texas. He has been spending some months in Indiana, his old home, is now traveling South. Spoke of visiting Elder Cargile, Adventist, of Stevenson, Ala., with whom he once held a debate in Texas.

APPOINTMENTS.

E. G. Sewell, the Lord willing, will preach at Bellbuckle the fifth Lord's day of this month, and Saturday night previous, if the brethren think fit. At Fosterville Monday night, and perhaps Tuesday night. At Old Rock Springs the first Lord's day of April, and at Laverne Monday night, following April 7.

Sister Charlton, of Wingo Station, Ky., nee Miss Weisenbaker, of Valdosta, Ga., gave us a call in passing to her old home. We were sorry to learn that her father, W. H. Weisenbaker, of Valdosta, an old and true friend of the ADVOCATE, is feeble. We trust he may be restored to health, and that the blessing of the Lord may be with him.

"Our Orthodoxy," advertised in this number of the ADVOCATE, by James F. and Harry Lipscomb, is a very readable work, and well worth the price. It comes nearer putting sectarianism and denominationalism to the test, than it does our distinctive faith, wherever the Bible is taken as a standard of correct thinking. Those who take it as their motto have nothing to fear, when this Orthodoxy is put to the test. The book will be well read.

Bro. F. B. Srygley, Lebanon, Tenn., writes: "It was my privilege to attend the prayer-meeting at Wednesday night. The crowd was good, the devotion fine, and at the close one lady was baptized. I like the way the prayer-meeting is conducted here. They began with the year on the first chapter of second Corinthians, and after reading the chapter, some one appointed for that purpose, asks question. In this way all are interested and benefitted. I regret very much that I can't be here oftener."

Bros. L. & S.: I have just received a letter from Bro. Vanhook, saying that the fourth Lord's day in April will suit the brethren at Northport, for a meeting. I expect to be there, and, Lord willing, I shall. All who are interested in preaching the gospel in our State now go to work. Forward your money, and all you can do, to that point. Go yourself, if you can, and all means let us awaken an interest in the head of the gospel in Alabama. We will see who is interested in this work. We do not want anything so much as money, unless it is for preaching, and the money is intended to have been done. I call upon the brethren in South Alabama to help in this work. I have said you would; now let us see. I do not know whether Poe will be there or not. He will see this answer. I think it is the best time he could spend in the State. We have some good men working to support their families, who might be set free and put to work for the Lord by proper effort. Who is ready to work? Let every disciple in Alabama do something. Some can give one hundred dollars, some fifty dollars, and some ten dollars; all can give a nickel. J. M. BARNES.

General News.

On Monday, the 3rd, Dr. Edward G. Love, a State chemist, testifies that he had analyzed samples of butter purchased from thirty grocers in New York City and Brooklyn, and found that all but ten of them were imitation. In fifteen of the samples no proportion at all of genuine butter was to be found, and in the remainder the pure article was only from 2 to 15 per cent. James H. Seymour, a former President of the New York Mercantile Exchange, has testified that full 40 per cent. of the butter sold in New York City is not genuine. A Mr. Stege, a produce dealer, testified that many grocers buy a tub of genuine butter to keep on show, but sell five of the imitation to one of the genuine. In the New York Assembly at Albany, February 20th, was passed, 70 to 51, the Roosevelt bill taking away from the New York City Board of Aldermen power to confirm the Mayor's nominees. On Wednesday, March 5th, this bill passed the Senate by a vote of 24 to 7. This giving the Mayor of that badly governed city sole power in appointing heads of departments may be highly beneficial in its results. Ex-Postmaster General James testified before the investigation Committee of the House Representatives, his belief that Garfield would not have been murdered, had it not been for the prosecution of the Star Route robberies. Advices from Morristown, Tenn., say two more children of Joe Guthrie's family, who were poisoned by eating canned blackberries at Rogersville Junction, died to-day, making three in all. Mrs. Guthrie, the mother, is unconscious, and cannot recover. All the family with the exception of Mr. Guthrie ate the berries for supper, and were taken suddenly ill a few hours afterward; and despite every antidote known, the mother and her children suffered excruciating pain. The eldest child required two men to hold her in bed before she died. On Tuesday the 4th, a prohibition bill went through the Iowa Senate, which had been passed by the House on the preceding Saturday, and will become a law. This statutory enactment will stand till the will of the people as once expressed in favor of constitutional prohibition is granted in spite of adverse decisions of judges whom the vote will displace "one by one." The deserted appearance of Charles Schneider's house in Erie, Pa., prompted the citizens to force open the door at noon on Sunday the 2d. All the inmates were lying on the floor insensible, having been suffocated by gas from an improperly covered coal-stove. The physicians worked several hours, and saved all but Louise Schneider. Mail advices from Fort Benton, Mont., relate that the ice in the Missouri River broke up last Monday and spread over a portion of the bottom on which Fort Benton is located. Many business houses were flooded, and the families on the two streets facing the river were compelled to abandon their homes without saving anything. The white manufacturers in San Francisco, Cal., on Monday, the 2d, locked out 3,500 Chinese cigar-makers. It is proposed to substitute 2,500 whites from New York. The Chinese packers struck on learning that their countrymen had been locked out. Sometime ago a young man in Lafayette, Ind., named Geary, shot himself, and it was thought to have been suicide. The authorities of the Catholic Church, of which Geary was a member, refused, under the direction of Bishop Livenger, to allow the body to be buried in the church cemetery. The father of young Geary sought redress in the courts, and defeated the church authorities. The body of the young man was interred in the cemetery, and on Sunday, the 2d, the elder Geary was officially excommunicated and the ground declared desecrated so long as the body of young Geary remained in the cemetery. A strong guard was at last account patrolling the cemetery, as threats have been made to remove the remains by violence. A really good and honest dairyman says that milk can be tested by dipping a knitting needle in it. If the article is pure, a little will adhere, but if there has been adulteration, it will all run off and leave the needle clean. Marlboro' Mass., voted license, 704 to 635, in spite of the fact that the temperance women stood at the polls and distributed coffee. The saloon-keepers were also out in force, but didn't bring out their refreshments with them, —An English journal of mechanics declares that "the American locomotive of to-day is one of the most perfect pieces of mechanism wrought by the hand and mind of man."—Greece has removed its prohibition against American pork.—There are thirty-one synagogues in New York, and the Jewish population is estimated at over 80,000.—The House at Washington, on Monday, the 3rd, by vote of 227 to 46, passed a bill pensioning the survivors of the Mexican War.—The United States Supreme Court on Monday, the 3rd, in the well known Ku-Klux cases, decided that the Federal Government has power to pass laws to prevent fraud and intimidation at elections.—An explosion in a coal mine in Va. killed one hundred and fifty miners.—In Memphis the opposition to the Sunday law is bitter, all seem to acquiesce in Nashville.—Osman Digma has suffered a severe defeat at the hands of the British. The rebel loss is about 4,000 killed and 5,000 wounded.—Senator Jackson submitted a joint resolution for the submission to the states of a constitutional amendment, making the Presidential term six years, and making the President ineligible for re-election.—Senator Plumb called up a joint resolution appropriating $25,000 for the extirpation of the foot and mouth disease.—Mr. Hawley introduced in the Senate a resolution offering a reward of $25,000 to any ship which rescued or ascertained the fate of the Greeley party. The Grand Levee, protecting the richest sugar producing section of Louisiana, is reported entirely washed away. If the whole levee is gone, a volume of water a mile wide and ten feet deep will be let in.—The Bark Lucie, from Liverpool, for San Francisco, was sunk by a collision, and six of the crew was drowned. The captain and three members of the crew arrived at Youghal.—Three negroes named Lewis, Freeman and Anderson, boarded several freight trains near East St. Louis, and with drawn revolvers, overawed conductors and brakeman and robbed the cars. A posse from East St. Louis attacked the negroes six miles from that city, and after an exchange of over forty shots the negroes were arrested and jailed.—While removing the foundation of the ice piers built near Wilmington, Delaware, which were by the English long before the Revolution, the dredgers came upon the hull of an old vessel which they dragged ashore. In the hold they found several barrels containing flax seed. It looks a little musty, but the germs are perfect, as shown by a number of seeds sprouting after being placed in moist, warm earth. In an old record, mention is made of a vessel having been cut down by the ice at that point in 1697. There being no record of any other vessel sinking in the harbor, it is concluded that this flax seed has been under water 187 years.—The cattle kings of Texas are charged with appropriating extensive tracts of government lands without paying for them. They purchase strips of land a mile wide, which extend around enormous central squares of public property. The "land grabber" puts a fence only on the outside boundary of his strip, but grazes on the whole of it to the exclusion of other settlers.—Five hundred stock men attended a meeting at Neosha Falls, Kansas, to consider measures for the suppression of the foot and mouth disease.—The Brig Screamer, from Cuba, is at Vineyard Haven, under surveillance; twenty-five women and children on board, claiming to be refugees, are described by Cuban dispatches as banditti.

FOREIGN.

—Solomon Shapira, who recently attempted to sell in England, a forged manuscript book of the Pentateuch, has killed himself in a hotel in Rotterdam. He had not left his room for several days, and the police forced the door open and found the blood-bespattered corpse upon the bed. Letters showed that he was suffering from mental aberration.—The silver mine near Schmatza, in Tyrol, has been flooded by a subterranean spring. Several miners were drowned. The damage to the works by water is very serious.—The police of New Castle, on Tyne, have received information of a plot to explode the principle buildings of the city, including the Central Railway station and post office.—A bill has been introduced in the English Commons, providing for the restriction of the sale of patent medicine till they have been officially analyzed and pronounced not poisonous.

Home Reading.

Would Ye Bring Them Again?

Gone to the land of life and light,
Those whom we loved—this fatal year?
Risen to mansions fair and bright,
Dwelling in God's eternal sight,
Those whom we held so dear—so dear.

What have they left us! Memories deep,
Memories holy, tender and true;
Yea, were death an endless sleep,
These would not slumber, these would keep Safe from decay the forms we knew.

Deathless in God's diviner sphere,
Rapt and serene our loved ones dwell,
Complete in the bliss they prayed for here;
Perfect in love, in vision clear,
Who of their sacred joy can tell?

Wisdom and truth and peace are theirs,
Knowledge that deepens each passing hour;
Fruitful to faith, and answers to prayers,
No conflict of soul, no weary cares,
In that high life of immortal power.

Shall we demand their return again,
Dear as they were—to the strife once more?
Call them back to the grief and pain,
Back to the toil, the fret, the stain,
Back to the world from that beautiful shore?

No! With the blessed let them be,
Safe and saved in the Savior's smile,
Bending to Him the adoring knee,
Singing to us from the crystal sea,
"Here with us in a little while!" —Churchman.

A QUEER LITTLE FELLOW.

Isn't it a queer little fellow who knows everything as soon as he's born, and builds a house for himself before he's one day old?

Everything about him is curious. To begin with, he lives at the bottom of a pond or river. At first he was nothing but a tiny atom of a green egg, stuck to the stem of some weeds under the water. After a while the egg burst open, out crawled Mr. Worm, and proceeded at once to look for building materials.

You see, except his head and neck, which are protected by a hair covering, he is a soft little worm, and he wouldn't live long in the same pond with fish and bugs and spiders, who have nothing to do but eat, and are always hungry, unless he had a safe home. So of course he goes the first think to building. He hunts up the dead leaves and glues them together in such a way as to leave a nice cozy house between them. It's perfectly safe, for who would suspect an old dead leaf of being anybody's house?

No sooner is the house done than Mr. Worm moves in. He doesn't have to wait for painters and furniture men—happy fellow! He just goes in and fastens himself there by means of a pair of hooks he has at the end of his tail, and then he's ready to live. The next thing is something to eat. So he starts off, taking his house with him, to hunt up some bits of green stuff, or some atom of a worm smaller than he is.

But strange things happen to this bit of a worm at the bottom of the pond. His life is full of wonderful adventures. If he were bigger he would be the wonder of the world.

After eating as much as he can Mr. Worm thinks it is time to retire from the gay world; so he finishes his house by hanging before it a silk door—no loose curtain, but a tightly woven network, which he spins and fastens carefully on every side.

Whether he goes to sleep in his comical little home, or what he does, nobody knows, because nobody can peep in, you know. But something goes on there in the dark; for after awhile the little prisoner opens the door, comes out of his house, crawls up the stem of some weeds till he is out of the water, and then—you'd never guess what happens!

Why, his old skin splits open, and he pulls himself out—no longer a miserable little worm, but a gorgeous four-winged Caddice fly, dressed in a neat suit of brown. And he cares no more for the bottom of the pond and his old straw house. He sails off on the air a gay, dancing fly. —Little Folks.

It is a striking truth that he who would benefit his fellowman must walk by faith, sowing his seed in the morning, and in the evening withholding not his hand—knowing that in God's good time the harvest shall spring up and ripen; if not for himself, yet for others, who, as they bind the full sheaves and gather in the heavy clusters, may, perchance, remember him with gratitude and set up stones of memorial on the fields of his toil and sacrifice. —Whittier.

HEDGES FOR ORNAMENT.

No one who has ever seen a rightly trimmed hedge of spruce, privet, buckthorn, barberry Japan, quince or sweet briar can have failed to perceive what an important element in the furnishing of a lawn it makes. It adds as much to the effect of all the decorative planting as a frame does to a handsome picture. And we possess now the immense advantage of being able to depend upon such alone for protection since the introduction of barbed wire. A single wire stretched along the edge at about thirty inches from the ground effectually stops the breachiest of cattle, and is speedily hidden from sight by the growth of the plants, while the very unsightly and damaging paling fence, formerly found indispensable as support to the hedge is no longer wanted. Nor do we need thorny plants or or strong tree-like growers, so that the trimming of to the hedge becomes an easy matter. Of those named above, the privet combines perhaps the most good qualities. Like the others it is not browsed by cattle, even where fully exposed. It grows thick enough at the base to stop the smallest dog, pig or fowl; it is nearly evergreen, and of a dark rich green, excellent as a background for other shrubbery or for flowering plants. Its natural growth is erect, firm and hedge-like; it is very enduring, very rarely does a shoot die, and if that occurs, others spring up freely. It is the easiest of propagation and easiest to trim, growing from the cuttings very readily. South of Philadelphia the California privet (L. ovalifolium) is as hardy as the common privet is the North. It has larger leaves, of a lighter green, very bright and glossy—Vicks Illustrated Magazine.

CHRISTIAN LUXURY.

The apostolic canon of "laying in store," of forecasting, that is, with a view of coming appeals, and of doing this in proportion "as God hath prospered us"—this must be a canon no longer obsolete. "Since I began to obey the law," said a thriving merchant to me, "I have not only been greatly prospered, but I have found my ability to give somewhat largely the greatest luxury of my life. The money is laid by, the call comes, and I am not tempted to the baseness of inventing excuses. I generally have something, not always enough, for every deserving appeal. I make short work of it, for time I cannot spare; and as to the claimant. I give him cheerfully what I think I owe to his cause." I know another and a wealthier man, who said he and his wife had an understanding. When his wife thought they were rich enough to set up a carriage, the answer was, "Yes, it will cost just so much a year; we can afford it, and you deserve it if you approve my increasing my charities by an equal sum." Is not this the law of Christian luxury? I can buy such a picture, or give such an entertainment, only when I give an equivalent to Christ's poor, and in the glory of his cross and crown.

THE LAST DAY.

Each man has his last day. To each a sun rises of which he never sees the setting, or a sun sets of which he never sees the rising. Rosy dawns will ascend, hours crowned with light go treading gayly over the earth; but not for him. Fast locked up in his narrow coffer, laid away deeply in the bowels of the earth, he lies in stiff unconsciousness of the long procession above him of days and seasons and ages.

Families have their last day. Households part never to meet again. Ancient lines dating back beyond the Conquest at last come to an end. The ancestral mansion is vacant, the title is extinct, the estate reverts to the state. In almost every community "there is one alone, he hath neither child nor brother," and his last day will be the last of his name and race.

States have their last day. Where are the thrones of Carthage and Tyre, of Assyria and Egypt, of Macedon and Rome? All gone, like extinct individuals and families. After defying the trickle and the flood, the rust and the battle of centuries, they at last gave way. One sun arose on them still breathing, the next found them only matters of history. In the interval they had passed from something to nothing. And other states occupied their places; not a few of whom, in turn, have expired and been laid away in the cemeteries of history.

Also, the world will have its last day. We have the best authority for saying that the time will come when the human race will disappear from the earth, and the planet itself and all things therein be burned up. Also the best authority for speaking of that time as a day and as the last day. The book has spoken—no merely the analogies. "After its words they speak not again, and its speech drops upon them."

Exactly when this greatest of last days will come we are not informed. The month, the year, the century, the millennium even in which it will occur, is not foretold. So little hint is given of its exact locality in history that its actual advent will take the world at large thoroughly by surprise. Like the springing of a snare or the coming of a thief will it be. Up rolls that last sun from the east as brightly and steadily as usual. Men hie them to their business, their pleasures, without a thought of change. . . . In a word, all the world, like the sun, is moving along the beaten highway of the ages without a thought of it coming to an abrupt end a few steps farther on. As it was in the days before the flood, when men "were eating and drinking, marrying and giving in marriage, until the day that Noah entered into the ark, and knew not until the flood came and took them away, so shall the coming of the Son of man be."—Dr. E. E. Burr in Ecce Terre.

AN ENCOURAGING INCIDENT.

A very short time ago, on a very cold day, a minister preached a sermon to a small congregation, and went home feeling that the effort was well-nigh a failure. But, as afterward appeared, a young man who had lived a reckless and careless life was present, and was led by the truth to give his heart to the Savior. He left almost at once for a distant city, but has since been heard from as an active worker for Christ. Nor is this all; a boon companion, disturbed and almost angered at first by the change of his friend, has since become an enquirer after truth. These facts came only by chance, as we speak, to the preacher's knowledge, and might easily have remained unknown to him. It is not unreasonable to suppose there will be many joyful discoveries of this kind.

"When the work is done, and the workers throng
To the harvest jubilee."

Let ministers, Sunday school teachers, and all Christian laborers take courage. They may be accomplishing more for Christ than they imagine. D. F. L.

BIRDS CANNOT SMELL.

A western hunter has come to the conclusion that birds do not possess the sense of smell. His attention was directed to this subject by noticing that wild turkeys failed to discover his whereabouts when in hiding though he was sometimes within three feet of them. Had he made the slightest movement they would have observed it at once, but the sense of smell (as he contends), they were unable to discover him. While deer hunting he has thrown himself down wearied, and quails have hopped upon him as if he were a log. Prairie-hawks, which scour the fields and prairies by hundreds, in search of prey, have often come within a foot of chickens, hares and mice without detecting their presence by smell. Countless experiments accordingly led him to the conclusion that birds cannot find food or avoid foes by the sense smell.—Chicago Herald.

CURE FOR IVY POISONING.—Bathe the parts affected with sweet spirits of niter. If the blisters are broken so that the niter be allowed to penetrate the cuticle, more than a single application is rarely necessary, and even where it is only applied to the surface of the skin three or four times a day, there is rarely a trace of the poison left next morning.—Hall's Journal of Health.

Great results do not always follow from great opportunities, nor are great opportunities the only road to great results. On the contrary, a small field thoroughly worked over will almost always show a better harvest than a larger field which has only been cultivated in spots and at odd times, as whim or inclination led.

A Prominent Minister Writes.

Mozley—Dear Sir: After ten years of great suffering from indigestion or dyspepsia, with great prostration and biliousness, disordered kidneys and constipation. I have been cured by four boxes of your Lemon Elixir, and am now a well man.
REV. C. C. DAVIS, Elder M. E. Church South.
No. 28 Tenth St. Atlanta, Ga.

From Two Prominent Ladies.

Have not been able in two years to walk or stand without suffering great pain. Since taking Dr. Mozley's Lemon Elixir, I can walk half mile without feeling the least inconvenience.
Mrs. R. H. Bloodworth, Griffin, Ga.

H. Mozley: After years of suffering from indigestion, great debility and nervous prostration, with usual female irregularities and derangements accompanying such condition of a woman's health I have been permanently relieved by the use of your Lemon Elixir.
Mrs. E. DENNIS,
Mo. 48 Chapel St., Atlanta, Ga.

Pratt, druggist, Wright City, Missouri, writes: Your Elixir gives the greatest satisfaction. It has cured a case of chills and fever of four years standing.

Mozley's Lemon Elixir, prepared at his Drug Store, 114 Whitehall Street Atlanta, Ga.

Cures all biliousness, constipation, indigestion, headache, malarial, kidney disease, fever, chills, impurities of the blood, loss of appetite, debility and nervous prostration and all other diseases caused by diseased Liver and Kidneys.
Fifty cents for one pint bottle, one dollar for pint and half bottle. Sold by druggist generally, and wholesale druggist, Louisville, Ky.

Miscellaneous.

Purity, sincerity, obedience and self-surrender are the marble steps that lead to the spiritual temple.—Bradford.

Young, middle aged, or old men, suffering from nervous debility and indurated weakness, should send two stamps for large treatise, giving successful treatment. World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

One weeps for the death of children; but perhaps the change of them into callous men and worldly men is a sadder thing to see, after all.—Ouida.

Warrenton, N. C.—Rev. J. E. C. Ham, says: "I used Brown's Iron Bitters. It is a complete restorative, tonic and appetizer."

Further warned preachers not to let these three dogs follow them into the pit—pride, covetousness, and envy.—Trapp.

Dr. KLINE's Great Nerve Restorer the marvel of the age for all Nerve diseases. All fits stopped free. Send 31 Arch Street, Philada, Pa.

Male's Honey of Horehound and Tar empowers the most troublesome cough.

Wike's Toothache Drops cure in one minute.

Glenn's Sulphur Soap cures skin diseases.

Clergyman, after suffering a number of years from that dreadful disease Catarrh, and after trying every known remedy without success, at last found a prescription which completely cured and saved him from death. Any sufferer from that dreadful disease sending a self-addressed stamped envelope to Dr. LAWRENCE, Brooklyn, N. Y., will receive the recipe free of charge.

ANITARIUM, Riverside, Cal. The climate cures. Nose, Throat, Coughs, full idea, 36p, route, cost free.

Extract of Report from the Celebrated Physicians, Erasmus Wilson, London, Eng.: "Several severe cases of incipient Consumption have come under my observation that have been cured by the timely use of Golden's Liquid Beef Tonic. (Remember the name, Golden's—take no other.) Of druggists.

To conceal a fault by a lie has been said to be substituting a hole for a stain.

Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.: Dear Sir—I have advised many ladies to try your "Favorite Prescription" and never see it fail to do more than you advertise.
Yours truly, MRS. A. M. RANKIN.
141 Bates Street, Indianapolis, Ind.

Good men have the fewest fears. He has but one who fears to do wrong. He has a thousand who has overcome that one,

Essex County, Va.—Dr. James R. Micon, clerk, says: "I have used Brown's Iron Bitters and found it invaluable for the purpose which it claims."

For sufferers of Chronic Diseases, 36 pp, symptoms, remedies, helps, advice. Send stamp—Dr. Whittier, St. Louis, Mo., (oldest office.) State case your way.

AN ONLY DAUGHTER CURED OF CONSUMPTION.

When death was hourly expected, all remedies having failed, and Dr. H. James was experimenting with the many herbs of Calcutta, he accidentally made a preparation which cured his only child of Consumption. His child is now in this country, and enjoying the best of health. He has proved to the world that Consumption can be positively and permanently cured. The Doctor now gives this recipe free, only asking two 2-cent stamps to pay expenses. This Herb also cures Night Sweats, Nausea at the Stomach, and will break up a fresh Cold in twenty-four hours. Address Craddock & Co., 1032 Race St., Philadelphia, naming this paper.

SAMARITAN NERVINE*THE GREAT NERVE CONQUEROR

A SPECIFIC FOR
Epilepsy, Spasms, Convulsions, Falling Sickness, St. Vitus Dance, Alcoholism, Opium Eating, Syphilis, Scrofula, Kings Evil, Ugly Blood Diseases, Dyspepsia, Nervousness, Sick Headache, Rheumatism, Nervous Weakness, Brain Worry, Blood Sores, Biliousness, Costiveness, Nervous Prostration, Kidney Troubles and Irregularities. $1.50.
Sample Testimonials:
"Samaritan Nervine is doing wonders."
Dr. J. O. McLeomin, Alexander City, Ala.
"I feel it my duty to recommend it."
Dr. D. F. Laughlin, Clyde, Kansas.
"where physicians failed."
Correspondence: Rev. J. A. Edie, Beaver, Pa.
For testimonials and freely answered—
The Dr. S. A. Richmond Med. Co. send stamp.
Sold by all Druggists. Joseph, Mo.
"Lord, Stontenburgh & Co., Agents, Chicago, Ill."

AYER'S Ague Cure

IS WARRANTED to cure all cases of malarial disease, such as Fever and Ague, Intermittent or Chill Fever, Remittent Fever, Dumb Ague, Bilious Fever, and Liver Complaint. In case of failure, after due trial, dealers are authorized, by our circular of July 1st, 1882, to refund the money.

Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.
Sold by all Druggists.

FOR the 7th edition "Life and Labors of C. H. Spurgeon," the greatest preacher of the century. By Geo. C. Needham, the Evangelist. Endorsed by all denominations. The best selling Family Book ever published. Agents are meeting with wonderful success. No competition. Any man or woman wanting a good business, address, for extra terms and special territory.

The GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER

Dr. Samuel Hodges' Alterative Compound Sarsaparilla with Iodide Potash. This compound is purely vegetable, each article of ingredient is perfectly harmless in itself, having been selected from roots and herbs possessing great medicinal properties, when combined forms a most powerful, efficient, and pleasant medicine for the removal and permanent cure of ALL diseases, arising from an impure state of system, viz:

Rheumatism, Scrofula or King's evil, Scald-head or Tetter, Chronic Sore Eyes, Old or Chronic Sores of all kinds, Bells, Pimples, Syphilitic Rheumatism, Primary and Secondary Syphilis, Nervous Debility, Liver Complaints, Inflammation of the Kidneys and Bladder, renovates and invigorates the system; acts gently on the bowels. As an appetizer and for general debility, it is a most excellent remedy.

CAMPBELL BROS., Druggists, Sole Manufacturers.

For Sale by all druggist. Price $1.00 per bottle, or 6 for $5.00. Liberal discount to the trade.

ALSO MANUFACTURERS OF

ETHIOPIAN PILE OINTMENT

A never failing remedy for External, internal or Itching Piles. Ask your Druggist for it. None genuine without the Trade Mark. Price $1.00 per Bottle.

TESTIMONIAL.

This is to certify that I was afflicted with Piles for twenty years. I tried every Remedy offered me. Finally used the Ethiopian Pile Ointment, and found it the very best preparation I ever used. It will give almost immediate relief and will finally effect a permanent cure.
Ed. A. IRELAND

Formerly of Gallatin, now of Breen, Phillips & Co., Nashville, Tennessee.

CAMPBELL BROS., Druggists,
or Broad and Summer Sts.,
NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE.

F. H. STICKLEY. MRS. C. W. LEWIS

STICKLEY & LEWIS,

Having moved to our elegant store-room,
NO. 34 NORTH SUMMER STREET,

We will carry a large stock of fine Millinery and Fancy Goods, the light-running New Home Sewing Machines, Needles, Oil and Attachments for all machines. Fine imported German Canary Birds, good singers, $3 each. Bird Cages, Food and Tonic always on hand. Mrs. Lewis is also prepared to do Fashionable Dress Making, Dying Plumes, Cleaning Gloves and Stamping. Old Machines of any kind repaired or taken in part pay for the New Home.

BURRITT COLLEGE,

SPENCER, TENN.

THIS INSTITUTION, chartered in 1848, has now been favorably known for more than thirty years, for its discipline, both as regards education and government. Located on the Cumberland Plateau, it is free from epidemics. The water is pure freestone and chalybeate. The breezes of summer are delightful and invigorating, and the gales of winter not too severely felt. The College buildings, recently enlarged by the Christian Brotherhood of Tennessee, are sufficiently commodious to accommodate a large class of young Ladies and Gentlemen. Spence is ten miles South-east of Manchester & McMinnville Railroad.

TERMS:

Tuition, Primary Department, per Session, $7.50	Tuition, Commercial Department per Session, $20.00
Preparatory Collegiate, " " 15.00	Lessons instrumental Music from $15 to $20
Collegiate, " " 20.00	" in Art Department from $5 to $10

Board and washing for males, per week, from $2.00 to $2.50; Fuel, light, and incidental expenses, per session, $10.00; Board (including washing, fuel, and light) for females, per week $3.00.

The Spring Session of 1884, begins on the Last Monday in February.
For further particulars address,

Prof. A. T. SEITZ, President,
Or W. H. SUTTON, Sec. Board Trustees.

You are a poor man, but you are just as truly God's steward as if you were possessor of millions. All his servants are under one law.

If you are bilious, take Dr. Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets," the original "Little Liver Pills." Of druggists.

Innocence is like polished armor, it adorns and it defends.

A good medical tonic, with real merit, is Brown's Iron Bitters.

CHEAP BOOTS AND SHOES!

We are now receiving our Fall Stock of Fine Custom-made Boots, Shoes, Hats and Trunks. Our prices will be found reasonable. Give us a call.

ALDRICH & HARRIS,

106 UNION ST., (bet. College and Market),

NASHVILLE, TENN.

OWEN'S STATION SCHOOL.

The sixth annual session will open Sept. 3d, 1883, and continue Forty Weeks. The session is divided into two terms of twenty weeks each. The expenses to boarders per term, are from $75.00 to $80.00. Music with use of instrument, $22.00. $100.00 will pay for board, washing, full instruction in higher English Branches, Latin, Greek, French and Music. Bills due one-half at opening of term and remainder at middle. For any information, address

W. LIPSCOMB
Brentwood, Tenn.

Peters' Eclectic Piano Instructor.

COMPILED BY W. C. PETERS,
PRICE $3.25.

Among the great and successful Piano Methods of the day, "PETERS' ELEPHANT" has always held an honorable place. The sale of a QUARTER OF A MILLION COPIES is proof tangible of its worth, and of the favor with which it is regarded, especially in a large number of educational institutions, in which it has long been used. A practical, well graded and thorough book!

Dobson's Universal Banjo Instructor.

By H. C. and G. C. DOBSON,
PRICE $1.00.

The Banjo is now a fashionable instrument, and the best ones are elegant enough to go anywhere. A good book, retained to be very popular. Contains Elements, 57 bright Reels, Jigs, Hornpipes, etc., and 22 Popular Songs, such as "Old Folks at Home," "Over the Garden Wall," the songs of Dave Braham, etc.

Winner's Popular Ideal Method.

For Violin, For Guitar, For Piano, For Cornet, For Flute, For Cab. Organ, For Clarinet, For Banjo, For Flageolet, For Fife, For Accordeon, For Boehm Flute.

Price of each Book 75 cts.

Immensely popular cheap instructions, with brief instructive course, and each with about one hundred neatly arranged popular airs for practice.

OLIVER DITSON & CO., BOSTON.
C. H. DITSON & C., 367 Broadway, N. Y.

Agents wanted. $5 a Day made selling our New HOUSEHOLD ARTICLES and PLATFORM FAMILY SCALE. Weighs up to 15 lbs. Price, $1.50. Domestic Scale Co., Cin. O.

Warner Bros. Celebrated Corset. These are the acknowledged standard of Europe and America.

The Flexible Hip (see cut) is especially adapted to those whose corsets break over the hip. The Health, Nursing, Corset, Abdominal and Misses' Corsets, are all popular styles, adapted to ladies of different forms.

Price, from $1 up. FOR SALE BY LEADING MERCHANTS EVERYWHERE. Avoid all imitations. Be sure our name is on the box.

WARNER BROS.,
353 BROADWAY, NEW YORK.

McSHANE BELL FOUNDRY.

Manufacture those celebrated Chimes and Bells for CHURCHES, ACADEMIES &c. Price-list and circulars sent free.
HENRY McSHANE & CO.,
Baltimore, Md.

Baltimore Church Bells

Since 1844 celebrated for Superiority over others, are made only of Purest Bell Metal, (Copper and Tin.) Rotary Mountings, warranted satisfactory. For Prices, Circulars, &c. address BALTIMORE BELL FOUNDRY, J. REGESTER & SONS, Baltimore, Md.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY.

Bells of Pure Copper and Tin for Churches, Schools, Fire Alarms, Farms, etc. FULLY WARRANTED. Catalogue sent free.
VANDUZEN & TIFT, Cincinnati, O.

DONT purchase your CHRISTMAS PRESENTS until you have seen our IMMENSE HOLIDAY CATALOGUE of Toys, Novelties, Fancy Goods, &c., mailed free. Address Eureka T. & N. Co., 87 Warren St., New York

EASTER EGG BREAKING.
To raise money for the Sunday-school; collecting money in little earthen money eggs, selling tickets to the breaking, etc.; receipts as high as $200, at a single entertainment. Eggs, $4 per 100. Sample egg, egg ticket, concert exercise, and full particulars, list. Full particulars, without sample egg, free on application. DAVID C. COOK, 46 Adams St., Chicago.

AGENTS Reflecting Safety Lamp

make over ONE hundred per cent. profit selling the which can be sold in every family. Gives more light than three ordinary lamps. Sample Lamp sent for fifty cents in stamps. We have other household articles. Send for circulars.
FORSEE & McMAKIN, Cincinnati, O.

CONSUMPTION

Positively Cured. No Humbug.
By the use of Dr. J. LAWSON'S PULMONARY POWDER, a FREE TRIAL BOX of which will be sent to all sufferers POST PAID, with treatise and full directions for their use.
Hundreds and thousands have been cured by their use.
Large Box $7.00, two boxes $9.00.
PHILIP HENRY,
49 South St., New York City

Easter Cards

From 1c. to 75 cts. Fringed and plain. Send for large illustrated catalogue, free.
DAVID C. COOK, 46 Adams St., Chicago.

OPIUM

Habit easily cured with CHLORIDE OF GOLD LEWIS E. KEELEY, M.D., SURGEON, C. & A. E. DWIGHT, Illinois.

"THE BEST IS CHEAPEST."

ENGINES, THRESHERS SAW-MILLS, Horse Powers, Clover Haulers
(Suited to all sections.) Write for FREE Illus. Pamphlet and Prices to The Aultman & Taylor Co., Mansfield, Ohio.

THE EASTER ANGELS

A BEAUTIFUL Easter Service

With Responsive Recitations and Music prepared expressly for it.

By GEO. F. ROOT and H. BUTTERWORTH.

The Responses are so arranged that they may be used by classes or individuals, thus giving additional variety and interest. The Service is arranged under the following heads:

First Subject, THE EASTER ANGELS; Second Subject, CHRIST COMFORTETH MANY; Third Subject, MIGHTY TO SAVE; Fourth Subject, PAUL'S TESTIMONY; Fifth Subject, ALL POWER IS GIVEN UNTO MR. Each Subject has appropriate music and readings.

Price, 5 cts. Fifty cents per doz. by mail; $4.00 per 100 by express.

Published by JOHN CHURCH & CO., CINCINNATI, O.

CHICAGO: ROST & SONS MUSIC CO. NEW YORK: J. C. B. & CO.
200 Wabash Ave. 5 Union Square.

FOR SALE BY Book-sellers and Music Dealers Generally.

An Honest Offer

If you are not enjoying good health we will on certain conditions send you ON TRIAL our Electric Medicated Appliances to suit your case, and if they fail to cure or greatly benefit you within a month we make no charge. Prices very low. They are the marvel of the age. 75,000 Cures made during 1883. Illustrated book giving full particulars and blank for statement of your case sent free. Address at once ELECTRIC PAD MFG CO., BROOKLYN, N. Y.

GET A MODEL PRESS.

Price, complete with Type, &c. $5 to $20 and up. Prints Cards, Circulars, Labels, Tracts, everything for Business, Schools, Churches, &c. It is very durable and rapid, and so simple that any boy can work it and earn a hundred dollars a year. $2.00 sold. Send a cent stamp for a Page Catalogue, with gorgeous floral card and other work done on a Model Press. J. W. Daughaday & Co. Mfrs. 721 Chestnut St. Philadelphia.

SEEDS Our Annual Catalogue, Beautifully Engraved and Illustrated: Hints and Treatise on Southern Culture, VEGETABLES, FRUIT TREES, SMALL GRAINS AND FLOWERS.

MAILED FREE UPON APPLICATION. E. M. SARCENT & CO.,
Seed Growers, Macon, Georgia.

Gold Watch Free.

The publishers of the Capitol City Home Guest, the well-known Illustrated Literary and Family Magazine, make the following liberal offer for the New Year: The person telling us the longest verse in the Bible, before March 1st, will receive a Solid Gold, Lady's Hunting Case Swiss Watch, worth $50; if there be more than one correct answer, the second will receive an elegant Stem-winding Gentleman's Watch the third, a key-winding English Watch. Each person must send 25 cts. with their answer, for which they will receive three months' subscription to the Home Guest, a 50 page Illustrated New Year Book, a Case of 25 articles that the ladies will appreciate, and paper containing names of winners. Address Pubs. of HOME GUEST, HARTFORD, CONN.

25 YEARS IN THE POULTRY YARD

108 Pages. It teaches you how to rear them to care for them, to feed, to have them lay eggs in cold weather, to prevent and treat all diseases of old or young, to be a "successful" poultryman. Only 25c in stamps. A Fifty-page book FREE FOR ALL with it.

A. M. LANG, Cove Dale Farm, Conn.

BARNES'

Patent Foot and Steam Power Machinery. Complete outfits for Actual Work-shop Business. Lathes for Wood or Metal. Circular Saws, Scroll Saws, Foremen, Mortises, Tenons, etc., etc. Machines on hand if desired. Descriptive Catalogue and Price List Free.
W. F. & JOHN BARNES,
No. 159 Ruby Street, Rockford, Ill.

FLORIDA Illustrated

Contains 90 Imperial size COLORED views illustrating the best of Florida Scenes and growing and different sections of the State. The handsomest work of the kind published. Per mail, postage free on receipt of 50c. postal note. Address ASHHEAD BROS., Jacksonville, Fla.

PILES "Anakesis" gives instant relief, and is an infallible cure for Piles.

Price $1, at druggists, or sent prepaid by mail. Sample free. Ad. "ANAKESIS" Makers, Box 2416 New York.

ASTHMA AND HAY FEVER KNIGHT'S NEW BOOK SENT FREE.

Address, L. A. KNIGHT, 15 East Third St., CINCINNATI, O.

SEEDS Our new catalogue, best published, Free to all. 1,500 varieties, 500 illustrations. You ought to have it.

BENSON, MAUL & Co., Philadelphia, Pa.

Sawing Made Easy

A boy 16 years old can saw logs FAST and EASY with the MONARCH LIGHTNING SAWING MACHINE. I sawed off a 30-inch log in 2 minutes. For sawing logs into suitable lengths for family stove-wood, and all sorts of log-cutting, it is peerless and unrivaled. Illustrated Catalogue, Free. AGENTS WANTED. Mention this paper. Address MONARCH MANUFACTURING CO., 103 E. Randolph St., Chicago, Ill.

STEAM COOKED CEREALS.

Choicest Foods in the World, for Old and Young.

American Breakfast Cereals.
Selected grain, all hulls, chaff, and impurities removed. CRUSHED, STEAM COOKED AND DEXT. CATED. Patented. Prepared, as wanted, for the table, in ten minutes. Saving money. Saving fuel. Saving time. Saving waste. Saving health. Easy to digest, being already thoroughly cooked.

A. B. C. WHITE OATS. A. B. C. WHITE WHEAT. A. B. C. BARLEY FOOD. A. B. C. MAIZE.
Ask for A. B. C. only. (Registered Trade-Mark.)
For sale by all Grocers. THE CEREALS MFG CO.,
Send for circular. 38 MURRAY ST., NEW YORK.

BEAUTIFUL FLOWERS

NEW CHOICE SEEDS! FRUITS!

All of the best, both new and old. Plants, Trees, Vines, Seeds, &c. by mail, a specialty. Safe arrival guaranteed. 60 choice, cheap, $1 Sets, for example:

12 ROSES Ever-Blooming $1
30 PACKETS FLOWER SEEDS, $1.

For the other $1 Sets and 1,001 things besides, send for our illustrated Catalogue of over 100 pages, free. None better nor more reliable. Established 30 yrs. 68 acres. 21 large Greenhouses.

THE STORRS & HARRISON CO.,
PAINESVILLE, LAKE COUNTY, OHIO

Readings and Recitations!

100 CHOICE SELECTIONS No. 22 NOW READY.

This number is uniform with the Series, and contains another new and splendid Declaration and Readings, combining Sentiment, Oratory, Pathos, Humor, Fun. Price, 30 cts., mailed free. Sold by Booksellers. Every boy who speaks pieces, every member of a Lyceum who wants something New to recite, should get the whole set. Club rates and full list of contents free. P. GARRETT & CO., 708 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

25 YEARS IN THE POULTRY YARD

108 Pages. It teaches you how to rear them to care for them, to feed, to have them lay eggs in cold weather, to prevent and treat all diseases of old or young, to be a "successful" poultryman. Only 25c in stamps. A Fifty-page book FREE FOR ALL with it.

A. M. LANG, Cove Dale Farm, Conn.

Church LIGHT

FRINK'S Patent Reflectors give the Most Powerful, the Softest, Cheapest and the Best Light known for Churches, Schools, Show Windows, Parlors, Banks, Offices, Picture Galleries, Theatres, Depots, etc. New and elegant designs. Send size of room. Get circular and estimate. A liberal discount to churches and the trade.
I. F. FRINK, 551 Pearl St., N. Y.

WANTED HELP.

Entirely New. PROFITABLE. Outfit Free.

"THE BEST IS THE CHEAPEST." SAW ENGINES

(For all sections and purposes.) Write for Free Pamphlet and Prices to The Aultman & Taylor Co., Mansfield, Ohio.

OPIUM

Morphine Habit Cured in 10 to 20 Days. No Pay until Cured. J. L. STEPHENS, M. D., Lebanon, Ohio.

OPIUM and WHISKY HABITS cured at home without pain. Book of particulars sent Free.

B. M. WOOLLEY, M. D., Atlanta, Ga.

Wanted a day in your town. Terms and $5 cash.

$66 a week in your own town. Terms and $5 cash free. Address H. HALL & Co., Portland, Me.

HILLMAN, BUFORD & JUSTI,
NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE,
 SOLE AGENTS FOR THE
 Genuine Brown Walking Cultivator and Double-Shovel Plow,

Corn Shellers, Feed Cutters, Avery Chilled Plows, Road Scrapers, Fish Bros.
 Wagons, Jacobs' Barrows,

IRON, STEEL, BLACKSMITH'S TOOLS, HARDWARE,

Call on or address

HILLMAN, BUFORD & JUSTI, 18 and 20 South Market Street, Nashville, Tenn.

A. C. & J. C. March.

SUCCESSORS TO

J. D. MARCH & SONS

Manufacturers and Dealers in

SADDLES, HARNESS, BRIDLES, COLLARS,

TRUNKS, BAGS, HAMES, VALISES, WHIPS, CHAINS, &c.

50 NORTH MARKET STREET
 NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE.

Repairing Done at Short Notice

NASHVILLE, CHATTANOOGA & ST. LOUIS
 RAILWAY.

BUSINESS MEN, TOURISTS, EMIGRANTS, FAMILIES, REMEMBER

The Best Route to St. Louis and the West is via McKennie.

The Best Route to West Tennessee and Kentucky, Mississippi, Arkansas, and Texas points is
 via McKennie.

The Best Route to the Summer Resorts and Mountain Retreats of Tennessee, Virginia and the Carolinas, via McKennie and Nashville.

The Best Route to the celebrated Colleges, Universities, Seminaries and other Educational Institutions in the Southeast, via McKennie and Nashville.

The Best Route to points in East Tennessee, Virginia, the Carolinas, Georgia and Florida is via Chattanooga.

DON'T FORGET IT!

—By this line you secure the—

MAXIMUM OF SPEED, SAFETY, COMFORT, SATISFACTION,

—AT THE—

MINIMUM OF EXPENSE, ANXIETY, BOTHER, FATIGUE.

Be sure to Buy your Tickets over the

N., C & ST. L. RAILWAY!

If you are going to Washington City, Baltimore,
 Philadelphia, or New York.

The Inexperienced Traveler need not go
 amiss; few changes are necessary, and such as are unavoidable are made in union Depots.

THROUGH SLEEPERS!

—BETWEEN—

Nashville and Atlanta, and Atlanta and Jacksonville, Fla., Nashville and Martin (to connect with Sleeper service via Cairo to St. Louis and Chicago.)
 Nashville and Columbus. Nashville and Memphis
 (Sleeper Humboldt to Mobile, and Milan to New Orleans.) McKennie and Little Rock, and Little Rock and Texas points.

Call on or address

J. H. PEEBLES, T. A., Chattanooga, Tenn.
 W. W. KNOX, T. A., Nashville, Tenn.
 S. S. FINLEY, Ticket Agent, Memphis, Tenn.
 A. B. WREN, Trav. A., Atlanta, Ga.
 W. L. DANLEY, G. P. & T. A., Nashville, Tenn.

Mars Hill College.

With pleasure we lay before our readers the following extracts from the Fourteenth Annual Announcement of Mars Hill College, an institution perpetually wielding a wonderful and wide-spread influence for truth, refinement and righteousness.—EDITORS.

POSITIONS PROCURED FOR OUR PUPILS.

We make a specialty of preparing pupils for

(1.) PREACHING; (2.) TEACHING; (3.) PREACHING and TEACHING.

Many educated here—among whom are successful lawyers, physicians, merchants, salesmen mechanics, farmers, editors, authors, teachers and preachers—have so demeaned themselves, that the humility, fidelity, integrity, accuracy and ability of "Mars Hill students" have become proverbial. There is, consequently, such a demand for the services of our pupils, that we deem it perfectly safe to promise to procure pleasant, profitable and honorable positions for all who qualify themselves here for usefulness. Indeed, for several years we have been able to fill comparatively few of the positions tendered.

HEALTHFULNESS!

Mars Hill as a Health Resort.

Our school was founded in 1870. All the "doctor bills," for services rendered our pupils, from then till now, do not, we think, amount to twenty-five dollars—probably not to one dollar a year. Those who have come here pale and puny, from malarial districts, have, without an exception, we believe, returned to their homes enjoying health.

What "Watering Place," or "Health Resort," then, can justly claim more, as a health-
 preserver and health-restorer, than Mars Hill? Address,

T. B. LARIMORE, President.

FLORENCE, ALABAMA

W. A. LANNOM,

The Cash Clothier,

18 PUBLIC SQUARE, NASHVILLE, TENN.,

Has the largest and best selected stock of Clothing, Hats, and Gents Furnishing Goods, in the city. Also the most complete line of FINE GOODS, which will be made to order on short notice;
 this department is in charge of Col. P. G. Duffer. Goods will be sent to parties, at a distance, C. O. D., with privilege to examine. Our terms are strictly cash; consequently our prices are the lowest. A call will convince the most skeptical.

W. A. LANNOM,

18 PUBLIC SQUARE, - - - NASHVILLE, TENN.

CAPITOL PLANING MILL,

Corner Line and Vine Streets, near Northwest Corner Capitol Grounds,

NASHVILLE, - - - TENN.

J. W. McCULLOUGH,

Manufacturer and Dealer in

FRAMES, SASH, DOORS, BLINDS,

Scroll Sawing, Dressed Flooring, Weatherboarding and Ceiling.

Country Orders Solicited, and Promptly Attended To.

AGENTS WANTED for our new Religious book,
 the greatest success of the year. Send for illustrated circular if you want to make money. FORSHEE & McMAKIN, Cincinnati.

Good Pay for Agents. $100 to $200 per mo., made selling our Fine Books & Bibles. Write to J. C. McCurdy & Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.

WHEN YOU WANT
 WRITING DESKS,
 Photograph Albums,
 AUTOGRAPH ALBUMS,

GOLD PENS, PENCILS,
 PORT-MONNIES,
 CARD CASES, Etc

OR ANYTHING IN THE WAY OF
 Staple and Fancy Stationery

Call upon us. We can suit you in
VARIETY, QUALITY, AND PRICE.

A. B. Payne & Co.,
61 UNION STREET.

Orders by Mail receive Prompt Attention.

B. S. RHEA & SON,
 PROPRIETORS RHEA'S ELEVATOR,
 AND DEALERS IN

Grain, Hay, Flour

AND BURLAP SACKS,

No. 32 South Market Street,
 NASHVILLE, - - - TENN.

(Correspondence Solicited.)

C. F. HUDSON. S. G. STRATTON.

C. F. HUDSON & CO.,

Merchant Tailors & Clothiers,

EAST SIDE PUBLIC SQUARE,

LEBANON, TENN.,

Are now receiving one of the largest, best and cheapest stock of clothing and piece goods, ever offered to the public. We are agents for the Charlotteville, Va., woolen goods, which cannot be surpassed for beauty and durability.

Call and examine our goods. We will save you money.

WANTED A WOMAN

of sense and energy for our business in her locality, middle-aged preferred. Salary $35 to $50. References exchanged. GAY BROS. &
 CO., 14 BARCLAY ST., NEW YORK.

SOME OF THE THINGS WE BUY TO SELL.

CHINA IN ALL OF ITS GRADES,

GLASSWARE OF EVERY DESCRIPTION,

QUEENSWARE OF ALL KINDS,

Bracket Lamps, Hall Lamps,
 Study Lamps, Chandeliers,

Knives and Forks, Spoons, Waiters,
 Tea Trays,

Looking-Glasses, Ice Cutting
 Machines,

Eureka Coffee and Teapots,
 Castors,

And a great variety of housekeeping goods
 too numerous to mention, all of which we offer at reasonable rates. Call and see us, or send your orders to

HICKS, HOUSTON & CO.,

51 N. College & 54 N. Market Sts.,

NASHVILLE, - - - TENN.

THE GOSPEL ADVOCATE.

VOLUME XXVI. }
NUMBER 14. }

NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE, APRIL 2, 1884.

{ $2.00 YEARLY IN ADVANCE.
POSTAGE PREPAID. }

EDITORS:

D. LIPSCOMB,

E. G. SEWELL.

IS ONE CHURCH AS GOOD AS ANOTHER?—AGAIN.

The claim that one church is as good as another is based upon the assumption that the doctrines and practices of one are as good as the doctrines and practices of another. But the question is, what is the standard by which such claim is made? Evidently the claim is based upon the outward appearance of men, in their outward manifestations of earnestness, zeal, devotion to their systems of religion, and their general manifestations of morality and piety. Such an estimate as says one church is as good as another is not made by comparing these churches and their creeds with the word of God, and thus deciding that all these harmonize with that word. For if the estimate were made in this way, all would fall behind. There is not one denomination extant that could stand the test of such comparison. For all these denominations have things in their creeds and in their practices that are plainly contradictory to the word of God. It will be in order here to show up some of these contradictions.

We will begin with the Presbyterian confession of faith. On page 11, and chapter second of this book, we have the following language: "There is but one only living and true God, who is infinite in being and perfection, a most pure spirit invisible, without body, parts, or passions." We note one point of contradiction with the Bible in this passage. It says of God that he is without parts. But God said to Moses, "and thou shalt see my back parts." Exodus xxxiii: 23. Here God himself shows he has back parts, and that he would show them to Moses. In this the contradiction to the word of God is so palpable every one can see it at a glance. And besides this passage, naming the back parts of God, there are other passages that speak of the face of God, his hand; his arm, his feet, his fist. Then there are others that speak of his love, his anger, his hatred and such like, and yet the above passage from the confession of faith says he is without passions. Here then are two declarations that contradict the word of God. The Cumberland Presbyterian confession of faith says precisely the same thing, and thus contradicts the word of God in the same way. As the language is just the same as the above on this matter, we need not quote it.

The Methodist discipline also says God is without parts, and does not say he is without passions. Thus in the matter of parts, all three of the creeds named contradict the word of God. How then can churches founded on creeds that contradict the word of God be called as good as the church of God, founded upon his word alone? On page 13 of the Presbyterian confession of faith, speaking of God's eternal decrees, we have the following: "By the decree of God, for the manifestation of his glory, some men and angels are predestinated unto everlasting life, and others foreordained to everlasting death. These angels and men thus predestinated and foreordained are particularly and unchangeably designed, and their number is so certain and definite that it cannot be either increased or diminished."

This quotation, together with the whole article on God's decrees, is contrary to the whole spirit and meaning of the gospel of Christ, which requires it to be preached to every creature, promising that those who believe and are baptized shall be saved, declaring he that believeth not shall be damned. This shows that whether men shall be saved or condemned, does not depend upon a fixed and unalterable decree, but upon their own choice and action. If they believe and obey, they shall be saved. If they believe not, they shall be damned. According to the spirit of the above, the commission should be, preach the gospel to every creature, that those predestinated to life may believe and be saved, and that those ordained to death may disbelieve and be damned. This, while in harmony with the creed, contradicts every principle of the gospel of Christ, and destroys every vestige of human responsibility. For according to the creed, none can believe, except those already and unchangeably decreed to life, while none of those unchangeably decreed to death can possibly believe. And even if they could believe and obey, they are already doomed to be lost, and it would do them no good.

This entirely disannuls the spirit and intention of the gospel as given forth in the word of God. For God wills "not that any should perish, but that all should come to repentance." 2 Pet. iii: 9. Thus while God says he does not will that any should perish, the creed says he has already from before the foundation of the world willed that many, both of men and angels should perish, thus plainly contradicting the word of God in this matter. On page 31, this same creed teaches that those whom God has elected and called, "can neither totally nor finally fall away from the state of grace; but shall certainly persevere therein to the end, and be eternally saved." This teaches that no child of God can cease to be a child and be lost. But the Bible gives us cases in which immense numbers of those who were once servants of God ceased to be his servants, and were rejected of him, as the Jew in the wilderness, even the seventy elders who were spiritually endowed, disobeyed God and died outside the promised land. And in the New Testament there are any number of passages teaching that unless Christians will serve God faithfully to the end of life, they will be lost at last, though once the people of God. Peter speaks of those "which have forsaken the right way; to whom the mist of darkness is reserved forever."

This is plain, showing that some in the lifetime of Peter were at one time in the right way, and had already forsaken it so far that their doom was already fixed. This is all contradicted by the creed. And in Revelations it is plainly taught that people may have their names enrolled in the book of life, and then their names be blotted out. The Cumberland confession teaches the same thing on final perseverance, and thus in this matter contradicts the word of God, the same as the other. Again, the creeds teach that the light of nature teaches men that God exists, while the word of God teaches that the world by wisdom known not God, Paul. Again the creeds say positively in regard to baptism, that "dipping of the person into the water is not necessary; but baptism is rightly administered by pouring or sprinkling water upon the person." But this language of the creeds is not only outside of the Bible, not only entirely human, but is utterly contrary to the Bible. For to say nothing of the meaning of the word baptize, Paul, both in Romans and Colossians tells us that we are buried with Christ in baptism. We are buried. A burial in water is not performed by either pouring or sprinkling a few drops of water upon men. In this matter again the creeds set aside the word of God by the word and authority of men. And shall we say that the churches acting thus are as good as the churches of God? Again; the Methodist discipline says, regarding the design of Christ's death, "who truly suffered, was crucified, dead and buried, to reconcile his Father to us, and to be a sacrifice, not only for original guilt, but also for actual sin of men." This plainly says that Christ died to reconcile his Father to us. But Paul says "God was in Christ, reconciling the world unto himself." 2 Cor. v. And we might present many passages in the word of God, of the same import. But this is enough to show that in this, the discipline contradicts the word of God. Again the discipline says, "wherefore that we are justified by faith only, is a most wholesome doctrine, and very full of comfort." In this the discipline says we are justified by faith only. But James says, "ye see then how that by works a man is justified, and not by faith only." And not by faith only. Could contradictions be more positive? Many other contradictions to the word of God can be given, but these are enough for a sample. These creeds not only contradict the word of God, but they contradict and conflict with one another, almost from beginning to end, and especially regarding church government, and thus make it impossible for the adherents of these different creeds ever to unite as one people, and make it utterly impossible for them ever to unite upon the word of God as long as these creeds are bonds of union among these religious bodies. Thus they are keeping up endless and indeterminate differences, and carrying on endless strife and confusion.

But say some, the members of these denominations do not read, understand, nor go by these creeds. That may be true with many of the private members, but it is not so with the preachers and leaders. It is made a point with the leaders, that the creed of these parties respectively must be accepted when they are ordained. One of the questions asked of every Methodist preacher, who enters the conference, is, "Are you willing to conform to the discipline of the church?" Also every preacher ordained in the Cumberland Presbyterian Church is required to answer in the affirmative to the following: "Do you sincerely receive and adopt the confession of faith of this church, as containing the system of doctrine taught in the holy Scriptures?" Page 227. Also on page 187 of the Presbyterian creed, we find the same language, which shows that every preacher in that church is pledged to acquiesce in and obey the creed of his church. With all these facts before us, how can we say one church is as good as another, and how can the disciples of Christ enter into union meetings and such like things with those tied and committed to creeds that contradict the word of God?

E. G. S.

There are few shortcomings more offensive to men than boastfulness. Can we suppose that the vanity that prompts it is less displeasing to God?

IDLE WORDS.

"For every idle word that men shall speak, they shall give account in the day of judgment?"

What gave rise to this expression of the Savior? Some idle words must have been spoken—something very wicked said. If we examine a few of the preceding verses, we find its origin. A poor, miserable man, blind and dumb, of whom a devil had taken possession, was brought to the Savior. Malicious, envious persons were watching to see what he would do. They had been holding a council to plan his destruction, but had not succeeded, and they determined, if possible, to injure his influence with the people. With that intent, they accused him of being leagued with evil spirits. This fellow, they said, doth not cast out devils, but through Beelzebub, prince of the devils. This wicked slander must have been the "Idle Words" to which he had reference. The Pharisees made this charge from bitter feeling against him. They feared the influence of the pure being standing among them, with the power and majesty of a God. He had healed the poor sufferer, so that he both spake and saw, and instead of rejoicing over one who had been freed from so terrible a bondage, they leagued his benefactor, with the wretched devil, he had sent to his own dark dwelling. The Savior said to them, "Whosoever shall speak a word against the son of man may be forgiven, but he who shall speak against the Holy Spirit shall never be pardoned." From this, it seems the Savior considered their words, not only as idle, but as too wicked to be forgiven, in this world or the next. Words spoken in the same spirit, though not in the same circumstances, will, no doubt, have to be accounted for, when the speakers would willingly give worlds to be free from their guilt. Suppose from malice, envy, or even from a mere love of gossip, we make remarks, or statements of others, which may be true or not, we do not stop to enquire. Our idle words start reports, give rise to quarrels, excite unchristian feeling that can scarcely be eradicated by time, or the knowledge that the indulgence of such feeling is wrong.

We may speak idly, thoughtlessly from a loss of having something to say, but we are responsible—will be responsible at last, unless we confess our error—turn from it and pursue a different course. Even then, our words may have had an effect on others, we cannot rectify—may have done an injury that can scarcely be remedied. The expression, "idle words," has troubled persons who are conscientious, and who wish never to use words, for which they would fear to give account. A young person who desired to be blameless in word and deed, was asked what she meant by "idle words?" She thought all words not useful or instructive, were idle, and it would be better to dispense with the greater part of the ordinary conversation of society, from its having no useful or instructive influence.

It was objected by a friend, who had had more experience, that there were many words, not of that character, it is better to use, "Good morning, Good evening," How do you do? A pleasant day." After reflecting, she supposed that such expressions should be used to keep up the intercourse of society. Her friend remarked, when she set down in mixed company, and tried to say useful things, that all freedom of conversation was banished, and nothing could be more dull than a number of women, each of whom was trying to say something instructive. When persons called to see her, she often had nothing of that character at hand, and she talked to them of their children, chickens, gardens—anything of interest to them. If nothing else came up, she spoke of her own affairs; her roses, grapes, canary birds, fancy work—showed them how to take new stitches she had learned. She did so with a good conscience, not troubled with the idea that she would have to give account, at last, for rendering an hour or two agreeable to friends, by innocent means. She appreciated such efforts for her own enjoyment, and had pleasant memories of them. Such conversation is useful, not for instruction conveyed, but because it puts people at their ease—makes them more kind and social, and unites them more closely as friends. It is about the same as other courtesies that brighten life's pathway and make it more pleasant. She thought if she made unkind remarks, attributed corrupt motives to the acts of others, indulged in sarcasm and ridicule, that such words, she would fear as idle, and that account would have to be rendered for their influence.

By the conversation first mentioned, the faculties are set in motion. One thought suggests another, and thus, frequently, the instructive and the useful steal quietly in, and like threads of silver and gold, are interwoven with the rest. What are idle words we should be careful to avoid? There seems, always, to be some connection between what is idle and what is wrong. Idle words, we think, are those spoken without consideration or good motive and are productive of evil.

Indulgence in unkind, jealous or revengeful feeling, skeptical habits of thought, constant study of worldly matters without consciousness of God's presence, are some among the many causes of idle words. There is no more fruitful source of the idle and the wrong, than politics. Men of the world may engage in them, but Christians are always injured. Brethren who have been thus engaged have had cause for sorrow in life and in death. I can specify some, whose memories of bitterness have gone with them to the grave, and will not be forgotten in eternity, even if forgiven for their idle words and acts. Paul advises his brethren to think of all pure and lovely things. He knew if they thought thus, they would express their thoughts in words breathing of purity and goodness. If persons possess the tender, affectionate spirit of the Christian religion—regulate their tongues and temper by it—have earnest desires to be, at all times, guided by its precepts, they will use but few words for which they will fear to give an account. When we converse with pure, good friends, we naturally avoid all that is not pure and good, and if we realize the character of the Savior, and endeavor to conform our tastes and sympathies to his, it is not difficult to avoid all conversation offensive to him. We will use but few idle words—few he would disapprove. A pure minded person will never converse on coarse or impure subjects, and one habitually Christian in thought and feeling will take pleasure in nothing of an opposite character. At the last great day, he will not fear to give account to the judge, who knows his heart, and the motives by which he has been controlled. He has kept in mind that the "Ancient of days noteth the idle converse of his creature, man, and that there is no swerving from the right, in word or deed, that may not lead eternally astray." C. F.

ARKANSAS NEWS AND ITEMS.

I spent the first Lord's day in this month with the church in Prescott. It is pleasant to meet and worship with such a band of Christians as this one. They all work. Every one seems to realize that there is something he or she can do. Work was begun here a little more than two years ago, in the midst of the most bitter opposition, by a few brethren and sisters who determined, by the help of God, to establish the cause of primitive christianity in the town of Prescott. They worked, trusted, prayed, and God blessed their efforts. They now number about forty, have a good house, meet regularly, have a weekly prayer meeting, and the largest Sunday school in town—the only one that did not freeze out during the exceedingly cold weather in January. The cause is comparatively in its infancy there; hence the brethren think best to have preaching twice a month. Still the elders understand that there is a work for them to do, work which they alone can do, and do not hesitate to do it, even when there are preachers present. In addition to the work in Prescott, the church is working up some of the destitute places in the adjacent country. This is as it should be. Will not other churches do likewise? This is the scriptural order of evangelizing.

Work was begun in Hope, another town on the Iron Mountain Railroad, about the same time the work was begun in Prescott. (I should have stated that Prescott is situated on the St. Louis and Iron Mountain Railroad, about ninety-five miles Southwest of Little Rock, the capital of the State.) There are some real good brethren and sisters in Hope, but as a whole, they are not as zealous and active as the little band in Prescott. Still they have done a good work. They have a neat and commodious house of worship, in which they meet regularly. Bro. W. J. Huds-peth, the most pathetic preacher I have met in South Arkansas, preaches for them twice a month.

Bro. H. A. Smith, whom the church at Prescott had engaged to labor for it half the time, has married and gone to live, with his charming wife, in the lone star State. We wish him a long life of usefulness and consequent happiness. Men can be really happy only while useful. Our acquaintance with Bro. Smith leads us to believe he will not allow his zeal and activity in the Master's cause to slacken. His wife is an earnest Christian, and will help him on in the good work.

Bro. W. W. Davis, son of the venerable Andrew P. Davis, who has gone to his reward, and brother of our esteemed Bro. J. B. Davis, is a good preacher, and is doing some good work in the country near where he lives. His home is near Washington in Hempstead county.

Bro. J. T. Young, who lives in Drew county, is an old and able preacher, and is doing some good work in his section of country. He is now evangelizing in parts of Drew and Ashley counties. I expect to hear some good reports from him during the year. I was pained to learn that Bro. Young had allowed his talents to lie dormant a great part of his life. The cause I did not learn, but suppose that he, like a great many others, was afraid if he devoted too much time to preaching, the brethren would allow him to starve. I think brethren are clearly wrong in this. I do not believe any one ever did or ever will starve to death by going out and preaching to the perishing around him. If men could see more of God and less of men and the good things of this life in the preaching of the gospel, it would be better for them. Preachers have learned to rely too much upon contracts and not enough upon the promises of God. Preachers need to realize that the work of preaching the gospel is of God, and to look to him for support. Bro. Frank Bezoni, whose home is at Tyro in Lincoln county is a young, earnest, and intelligent preacher, and bids fair for a life of usefulness in the Master's cause. He is now evangelizing in the counties of Lincoln, Dorsey, and Drew. The churches supporting him and sending him out to build up the cause in destitute places. Let us work while it is day. The night cometh when no man can work. W. T. BREEDLOVE.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

We direct attention to the new advertisements in this number, and renewal of old ones:

W. R. Cornelius, Undertaker, and dealer in coffins and burial material, is the more generally sought after, than any other house in his line.

Thuss, Koellein & Giers, at the old established stand, take the best of pictures, and keep up with all the improvements in their art.

Paschall, Fall & Co., dealers in hardware, cutlery, etc., renew their advertisement. Mr. Fall, years ago, was said to be the best judge of cutlery in the city. Those who deal with them may be sure of good articles in their line.

The American National Bank greets our readers with an advertisement. It is now a combination of the American National Bank and the Third National Bank. It is now the strongest, and doubtless one of the safest banking establishments in the South.

The First National Bank renews its advertisement in this number. It has for years been the most popular, and one of the safest banks of the city.

Hillman, Buford & Justi present their card. They are among the largest dealers in their line in the city, and are clever and fair traders. They publish an interesting paper devoted to the iron business. They also furnish price-list of goods. Send for their price-list and paper.

D. Weil has long maintained his position as a dealer in dry goods. Many of our readers know him, and we would commend him to those desiring goods in his line.

Simpson & Chatham, boiler makers, are experienced in their business. Mr. Simpson claims to be the oldest manufacturer in his line in the city.

Manlove & Co. have a new stock of carpets, bought at favorable prices for selling low. They are clever gentlemen.

Queries.

Did John quit his mission when he baptized Christ right then and there? Please explain and answer.—[T. W. Grissom, Hollow Rock, Tenn.]

John clearly did not quit suddenly his mission. He gradually decreased by the greater number of his disciples following Jesus. He had his disciples around and with him in person, and sent them to Jesus when in prison. His mission closed with his death. His disciples continued his mission after his death. John's ministry went out as gradually as Christ's came in. "He must increase, I must decrease." In prison he had his disciples around him and sent them to the Savior to inquire clearly of his claims. We think he ceased to teach and make disciples only with his death, as Christ's mission had not then been completed. His disciples in different sections continued in ignorance of the fulfillment of Christ's ministry to teach until Paul's ministry was advanced. See Acts xix.

Will you please explain the meaning of the word regeneration in Matt. xix: 28? Does it mean to pardon from sin, to convert, and to baptize with the Holy Ghost? etc. Also, in Titus iii: 5. I would like to have it in this week if possible, as I want it for next Lord's day.—[W. J. Rorex, Scottsboro, Ala.]

The regeneration spoken of Matt. xix: 28, "Verily I say unto you, That ye which have followed me, in the regeneration, when the son of man shall sit on the throne of his glory ye shall sit on twelve thrones judging the twelve tribes of Israel."

It certainly does not mean followed in the pardon of his sins, for Christ never was pardoned, he had no sin to pardon. He was never converted, because he was never a sinner. The regeneration here, means the renewal of all things. Mr. Wesley calls it the renovation. Dr. Clark says "the regeneration is thus referred to the time when Christ shall sit in his glory, and not to the time of following him, which is utterly improper." Dr. Summers says, "these words are to be joined to what follows. It was the new dispensation. The meaning is in the regeneration of all things, when I shall sit on the throne of my glory, ye shall sit on twelve thrones."

The expression in Titus is, "Not by works of righteousness which we have done, but according to his mercy he saved us by the washing of regeneration and the renewing of the Holy Spirit." This means we are not saved by works which we devise to make ourselves righteous, but God in his mercy provided a way of salvation, and that is characterized here as the washing of regeneration and the renewing of the Holy Spirit. The way God makes men righteous, is through the washing connected with the new state and the renewing of the Holy Spirit. Dr. Clark says, the washing of regeneration certainly means baptism. Through the sending of the Holy Spirit the word of God was given. Faith comes through that word. Then as a means of bringing them into the renewed state, they are baptized. It corresponds precisely to the language he that believeth and is baptized shall be saved, or as some interpret it, Repent and be baptized every one of you, in the name of Jesus Christ, for the remission of sins, and you shall receive the gift of the Holy Spirit. Mr. Wesley calls "the washing of regeneration" the laver or bath of the renovation. The regeneration is made synonymous with the Christian state. Our paper for that week went to press the day before the letter was written.

In the 1st chapter and 20th verse of Rev., we are told that the seven stars are the angels of the churches, and the seven candlesticks are the churches. Now in following chapters the angel of the churches is addressed as men in the singular number and charged with wrong living, as if he was or represented the church; and closes by admonishing them to repent or he will remove the candlestick out of his place, which I understand to be the church. The question is, who is it that the Spirit holds responsible for the conduct of the church.—[O. Chisholm, Oxford, Miss.]

Angel simply means a messenger. In prophetic language it doubtless frequently refers to the messengers, and here I think to the teachers or leaders of the churches. It is probable that it referred to the inspired teacher in the church that was to hold forth the light to the church. Some of them became wicked. The church was taken out of the way or destroyed when this inspired teacher was unfaithful and corrupted the church.

Undoubtedly every member of the church is responsible to the extent of his ability and opportunity to maintain the truth in the church. Hebrews xiii: 17: "Obey them that have the rule over you, and submit yourselves, for they watch for your souls, as they that must give account, that they may do it with joy, and not with grief, for that is unprofitable for you." God has clearly made the experienced and well taught members, usually called elders or overseers, responsible for watching over and caring for the flock.

Bro. Lipscomb: In your remarks on Bro. A. McGary's letter in the ADVOCATE of February 27, 1884, I find these words: "The devil when transformed into an angel of light, doubtless did, and does preach and baptize." Where is this subject found in the Bible? Give more information on this. 2nd. Give me your views on the 20th verse of 1st chapter of Paul's letter to Timothy. It reads thus; "Of whom is Hymenaeus and Alexander, whom I have delivered unto Satan, that they may learn not to blaspheme. Did Paul deliver them that they might be reformed by Satan or destroyed forever? 3rd. Does the Christian Church use A. Campbell's New Testament, translated by G. Campbell, Dr. P. Dodridge and Jas. McKnight? Can you furnish me with a copy. 4th. Where can I get a book giving full particulars of the split between A. Campbell and the Baptist church? I am a young Christian of nineteen months experience, and am diligently seeking true wisdom.—[Wm. Rollin, Van-Alstyne, Texas.]

An account of this can be found in 2nd Cor. xi: 13: "For such are false apostles, deceitful workers, transforming themselves into apostles of Christ, but no marvel, for Satan transformed himself into an angel of light. Therefore it is no great thing if his ministers also be transformed as the ministers of righteousness, whose end shall be according to their works." There were deceivers, pretenders claiming to be apostles, preaching and teaching as apostles, and denying Paul's claim to apostleship. We find mention made of the same class, Phil i: 15: "Some indeed preach Christ of envy and strife. * * * The one preach Christ of contention, not sincerely hoping to add affliction to my bonds. In the next verse he rejoices that Christ is preached even in pretense."

I suppose the deliverance to Satan was to reform them and teach them that blasphemy, such as they were guilty of, could not be tolerated among Christians. Paul to Cor., 5th chapter, told them to deliver one who had taken his father's wife, to Satan, for the destruction of the flesh (ungodly lust) that the spirit might be saved in the day of the Lord Jesus. We do not understand that this was for his eternal destruction. In the 2nd letter he admonishes them to restore some one, and encourage him lest he be swallowed up with overmuch sorrow. -It is generally regarded this refers to the same case. If so, the first letter was written when the man was living in sin. Paul told them to deliver him to Satan for the destruction of the flesh. He repented, the second letter told them the punishment already inflicted was sufficient, forgive him, and restore him lest he be so discouraged as to give up and be lost.

3. I do not suppose one in a hundred of the disciples ever saw the translation referred to. Some of them have it and use it to compare it with others. We regard it as one among the least desirable translations for constant use we have, yet we learn many things by it. Richardson's life of A. Campbell, furnishes the most complete record of the separation of Campbell from the Baptists. J. F. & Harry Lipscomb advertise in our columns to furnish any book published in America at publishers prices.

Please explain 1 Cor. iii: 15, and Rom. viii: 19-20-21, and 1 Cor. xiii: 1, and oblige a brother.—[John D. Seward, Sulphur Rock, Ark.]

It has not been long since this first verse has been commented upon. Our readers must note what is written, even if it is not in answer to a question; we cannot afford to repeat the same things. The apostle is writing in reference to different teachers building different material upon the one foundation laid. This is done through the teaching that is done. He compares the material to wood, hay, stubble, gold, silver, precious stone, all of which shall be tried by fire. The wood, hay, stubble, will be destroyed; the gold, silver, precious stones, are only purified by the fire. He then says, "If any man's (teacher's) work be destroyed, he shall suffer loss, yet himself be saved; but so as by fire." This refers, of course, to a teacher who is honestly teaching, or trying to teach, the truth, but brings in bad material. He suffers the loss of his work, which was not meet for the Master's use. Yet himself is saved, but so as by fire. Himself and whole work is tested by the fires of persecution. I think the special reference was to the converts of Apollos, who was an eloquent speaker, and doubtless brought in material untaught and moved only by his eloquence, in contrast with those of Paul, who was not eloquent, had no personal magnetism, but relied on the force of truth to move men.

(2) The passage from Romans is, doubtless, one of those of Paul, hard to be understood, of which Peter speaks; and of which we have felt little anxiety to form a theory, because they involve no practical duty of man. We take it that creature and creation refer to the under creation. Animals and every living creature suffered by man's sin. They were under him, became suffering, mortal, dying, shared his fate. When the world was cursed for man's sake, every living thing shared the curse; hence all suffer and groan here from cold, and hunger, and disease. As they shared the fall, they will likewise be benefited by the redemption of man; they will be elevated, and their lot made better, by man's deliverance from sin. Hence it is said the creature was made subject to vanity, not of its own choice, but by reason of him (man) who subjected it to this vanity. This creation is represented then as waiting in hope for the deliverance of the children of God, that then it may be free from the bondage of death in which it is held.

(3) "Though I speak with the tongues of men and of angels, and have not charity, I am as a sounding brass, or tinkling cymbal," means that all spiritual gifts and endowments are valueless, unless the possessor, in Christ's name, does good to humanity. Like things that make great sound without sense or meaning, they do no good.

TEXAS WORK AND WORKERS.

CONDUCTED BY JOHN T. POE, LONGVIEW, TEXAS,
TO WHOM ALL CORRESPONDENCE RELATING TO
THIS DEPARTMENT MUST BE ADDRESSED.

THE MISSION OF THE CHURCH.

The organization of the church in the world was the ushering in of the grandest period of the world's history. It meant the civilizing, educating, uplifting, and ennobling of mankind. Its blessings were designed to benefit the whole world, and the world is being blessed. The influence of the church is felt everywhere. So that, when Jesus is called the SUN of righteousness, it is meant that the light of the sacred and holy religion, which he gave to the world through the church, shall shine into all the world, revive and energize all the dormant, sleeping faculties of man, which had for so many ages been lulled to sleep by sin. The church in the world meant freedom from sin, and exemption from the fear of death. A voice said, "Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord, from henceforth; yea, saith the Spirit, for they rest from their labors, and their works do follow them from henceforth." From the time the church is set up, and its doors thrown wide open, and men invited to come. All who die from henceforth, in the Lord, are blessed.

But the mission of the church is more; it brings to man all the blessings designed to lift up and bless, all that give peace and rest to body or mind. The church, is a refuge for the homeless, an asylum for the wayward, friend for the friendless, and help for the helpless. These blessings come to man only through the church and its divine teaching. It was designed to be a perfect institution; its law, a perfect law; perfect, as a rule of action, in all matters pertaining to this life. In benevolence and charity, in fellowship among men, a perfect rule, or law. There is no charity, no benevolent act, but the church was designed to be its birth-place, and its home. Do men long for rest? It is found in the church. Do they wander lonely through life, while they long for parents, brothers and sisters? They are found in the church. Would they dispense charity? The church teaches how, when and where it may be done for the good of man, and the glory of God. But, says one, the church is but little better than the world. Why? She has been content to "farm out," or to lease her work to others. She has turned over her benevolent and charitable work to Masonry and Odd-fellowship. In many places her charity, her fellowship, her worship, is turned into other hands, and the professed followers of Jesus, arrayed in fine linen, sit back in their pews for thirty minutes, on Lord's day, and listen to operatic airs, performed by infidels and the worldly-minded, then a flowery essay by a paid pastor, more operatic music, and they disperse for refreshments, and the evening drive and promenade. And they call this Christianity!

BAPTISM WON'T SAVE YOU.

Some men put off baptism for years, even after being convinced of their duty; then, when about to die, send for some preacher to come and baptize them. This will not save them. Baptism is designed to translate us into Christ, when the heart and life are prepared for such a change, and thus give us a chance—in Christ—to work out our salvation; and by a patient continuance in well doing, to seek for glory, honor, and immortality. When we are dying, it is then too late to do anything for God, and for humanity; and if man could go from his baptism to heaven, he would go without one single good act to commend him to heaven's favor.

IS ONE AS GOOD AS ANOTHER?

The idea that one church is just as good as another, is erroneous, deceptive, and ruinous. No church is right save the church of Christ. That alone can be right. It behooves all, then, to pay some attention to this matter, and to see that the church they join is the true church of Christ. But how shall a man know the true church? Amidst all the churches which now claim to be the church, how can a man know the right one? Easy enough. All he has to do is to find that church which teaches the Bible only; one that will square with the church of inspiration, as ordained and set in order by Christ and his apostles; same teaching, same government, same officers, and same name. This will surely identify the true church.

John T. Poe is growing alarmed at it, also. Hear him: "There is just as much provision made in the Scriptures for the support of the President of the United States, as there is for the pastor." Why, Bro. Poe, they will turn you out of the State meeting, if you talk that way!—Christian Messenger.

I have never been turned in, to any great extent. Fact is, I have been a looker on, merely. I never had any love for the "critter" since it was born. It always reminds me of the old proverb of shearing the hog, "Big cry, and little wool." But here, you don't think they will turn me out for telling the truth, do you? Perhaps some of these enthusiastic pastors may be there with a leaf turned down at the Scripture which makes provision for the pastor. If so, won't I be in a fix?

The Messenger says Bro. McPherson is about to start a paper at Waxahachie. Well, I suppose he "knows what he is about." I dared suggest to him privately, that possibly the Board of Directors, Orphan Home, might frighten the brethren by making too big a thing of the orphan matter. He replied, "We think we know what we are about." Perhaps he does, but it remains to be demonstrated yet.

Decatur has a Christian church, now, of twenty members. May they be greatly blessed in saving many others.

Dear Bro. Poe: Received from the friends at Blossom Prairie, Lamar county, Texas, $4.05 for Indian Mission, also from J. T. Prothro, 50 cents; Walter Cungus, 50 cents; J. P. Cungus, 50 cents; J. M. Watson, 50 cents; J. A. Livsey, 50 cents. Total, $6.55. C. H. Barkley, of this city, will in all probability take the tent. He is a good solid old gospel preacher, and a hard worker.—[R. W. Officer, Paris, Texas.]

OUR BIBLE CLASS.

Dear Bro. Poe: I send answers to queries from Noblett's Chapel, in Advocate of February 20th. (1) Ahaz succeeded Jotham. 2 Chron. xxvii: 9. (2) He burnt his children. 2 Chron. xxviii: 3. (3) Joseph's brethren sold him to some merchants, and they sold him to Potiphar, in Egypt. Gen. 37: 36. (4) "And he shall be filled with the Holy Spirit from his mother's womb." Luke i: 15. (5) Christ must have been the very embodiment of the Holy Spirit, for we are told that the word (which is God) was made flesh. (6) There was six months difference in their ages. See Luke i: 36.

Answer to Bro. Elliott's query, "When did the ministry of John the Baptist cease?" I can find no account of his baptizing any one after he baptized Christ; and it was about this time that he was put in prison. Besides, Christ said to John, at his baptism, "Thus it becometh us to fulfill all righteousness." See Matthew iii: 15.

(10) All the books of the New Testament teach submission to Christ's commandments in order to salvation. [Only one book—Acts—answers the question, "What must I do to be saved?"—Editor.]

Answer to queries in Advocate of February 27th: (12) Christ must have been seen by above five hundred brethren in Galilee, for there he was to meet the disciples. Mark xvi: 7. (13) The witnesses referred to must be the surrounding world, lookers-on.—[J. P. Gotcher, Waxahachie, Ellis county, Texas.]

Yes, the only place he could have been seen by so many must have been at the meeting he himself appointed. What a grand time they must have had that day. More than five hundred at one meeting, and the resurrected Savior there with them. No mistake about it. There he was; they saw him, and talked with him. He had promised to meet them there. See Matt. xxvi: 32.

As I have not seen an answer that is very clear (to my mind, at least) to the question, "What does Peter mean by 'we have also a more sure word of prophecy?'" (2 Peter i: 19) I will submit the following: We have the prophetic Scriptures made more firm. How? By their perfect fulfillment in the person, mission, and works of the Son of God. And there is nothing better calculated to strengthen the Christian's faith in God's beloved Son, than a diligent study of the old prophecies; and hence we should pay earnest heed to the apostle's admonition. He says these prophecies were a light shining in a dark place, until the day-dawn, the day of Christ, and the day star arise in your hearts; the truth of Christ enlightened our minds, and then how beautiful and clear they become.—[O. T. Craig.]

Dear Bro. Poe: In answer to Bro. B. W. Lauderdale's question of March 5th, I would say, the book of Genesis covers about 2,369 years of the history of the world. See Gen. v: 3; Gen. xi: 10; Gen. xiv: 5; Gen. vii: 11; Gen. viii: 13; Ex. xii: 40; Gal. iii: 17; Kings vi: 1. This is hard to enumerate, and requires considerable reading and thoughtful study. (2) Can the class tell us the seven things that are hateful to God? Now, get your Bible, and give us chapter and verse. Why was Melchisedec without father and mother, without descent, having neither beginning of days, nor end of life? See Gen. xiv: 18; Heb. vii: 3-11.—[M. D. Reccord, Fairfield, Tenn.]

Dear Bro. Poe: I send you something for the Bible Class. I am glad to see the interest increasing. I find that interest in the class is moving me to study the Bible more carefully. I say, rule the preachers out of the count for the prizes, but let them answer as much as they please. Questions for the Bible Class: (1) The Bible tells of two kings, who were converted to God in advanced life. Who were they, and where is it recorded? (2) What was the kinship between Queen Esther and Mordecai? (3) Who was in danger of being put to death after he had died? (4) Now for a riddle: "In times of old, as Scriptures do record, there lived one who never did offend the Lord; she spoke the truth, and ne'er did sin commit; yet, in the heavenly kingdom, she shall never sit."—B. W. Lauderdale, Bailey, Tenn.

CORRESPONDENCE.

I wish to express my thanks to Prof. Thomas Goode, the patentee, and Esq. Wm. Norther, (his partner,) for the very liberal gift of the Territory of the Chickasaw Nation, for the sale of the best patent quilting-frame I have ever seen. The proceeds, after the expenses of making and selling be taken out, to go to the support of our Indian Mission. I rejoice at the introduction of the arts among that people, and everything that encourages industry. I give it as my opinion, that the civilizing and culture of the morals of a people depend largely upon their education in the industries of the more advanced. No people can be elevated while they remain in idleness. Therefore I am the more thankful to the brethren for the gift that encourages industry. I will employ agents next summer and fall, and work up the Territory, "if I live, and the Lord will."—[R. W. Officer, Paris, Texas.]

Old Path Guide please copy.

Rates of Advertising in Gospel Advocate.

one inch, one insertion.....	$ 60
one inch, one month.....	2 00
one inch, three months.....	5 00
one inch, six months.....	7 50
one inch, twelve months.....	12 50

A discount of 10 per cent. on these rates for order of $25.00; 20 per cent. for order of $50.00; 30 per cent. for order of $100.00.

Grumbling.

It is not strange, and astonishing that some who claim to have given themselves to the Lord and his service, will always be grumbling? The writer could give the names of some (if it were not for offense) who have grumbled and disputed about the Lord's supper. It seems as though it is looked upon as being burdensome and rather a low calling, to have and to hold, and care for that which brings a fresh to our minds the suffering of our dear loving Redeemer. There are those who seem to have a grumbling disposition when they are asked to help repair seats, recover the house, or anything that costs money. Some will grumble about Sunday-schools, will say, "you have no command for it, you are getting too much like the denominations."

And I find that some of those grumblers have boys and girls, young men and young ladies, that could not tell, if it were to save dear life, where Christ was born! We also find these grumblers, when the singing begins: "Why don't you use the good old hymn-book?" says one. "That song goes just like Yankee-doodle," says another. Sing, "Am I a soldier of the cross," says one good old hoary head.

Now, let it be understood, that I do not want to sing songs all the time that the old folks cannot sing, and indeed there is nothing that pleases me better than to hear their sweet voices in singing. But then let me ask; is it wrong to learn new pieces? Or is it right to sing only such old pieces as have been sung ever since the reformation began? Now, it seems to me that we might learn some of those new songs which have in poetry just as good, and music just as sweet, as those old ones.

My experience is; that where you find a congregation that has no note singing, you will also find that but few songs are sung, and they are not well sung at that.

I knew a preacher, a good man, and a good preacher, who went to a large and old congregation to preach for them. Fine crowd out; new man has come. He (the preacher) kept dawdling for them to sing, and finally he asked the brethren to start up a song. All was quiet. He insisted they should sing. They would look at each other, and then at the preacher. They looked plagued. Finally one started off on "Am I a soldier of the cross?" After the first song, the preacher went on with his sermon, and after the sermon they began, (by a tight squeeze) "Am I a soldier of the cross?" That preacher thought to know of the writer if those brethren knew only one song, and that, "Am I a soldier of the cross?" Now, brethren, I suggest that we put so much grumbling, and come up or ask men and Christians, and learn to do any and everything that God has commanded. J. R. BRADLEY.
Lynnville, Tenn.

Many seem to think that to be a believer is to have certain feelings and experiences, forgetting all the time that these are but the flowers and that the fruit must follow.—M'Cheyne.

Good Meetings.

I am having some good meetings in Freestone County, Texas. I am now preaching where we have not been heard. The State evangelist nor the circuit evangelists do not, as it seems, get to such places among the poor. Christ says, "Go into the highways and lanes and gather in the poor, the halt, the lame, the blind." And he says, "I am anointed to preach the gospel to the poor." Now as I love my brethren, so I warn them. They give, or promise, $1200.00 per year to State evangelist. Humbly, I ask, have I not done, for several years, more preaching to the poor than the State evangelist has? Seven hundred a year for the years I have spent since '78, would enable me to do much good, and give my family some nice presents. As God is no respecter of persons, and as he says by Paul, "Give all their dues," what will be the end of brethren who so respect persons, and deal so unjustly? I go sometimes and sow the "good seed" broadcast, get a pitance. Then some one is sent for to gather my sowing and is well paid. The circuit system is unjust and a hinderance. For it says to the located preachers, who toil at labor and preach, use your exertion to pay our circuit society man, and preach for nothing, or stop. Best follow the apostles and let all go who are able, then aid them liberally. Paul says, "Do all things without partiality, not preferring one before another." I cannot bear dishonest partiality; and God will punish such, so I warn. The foolish idea is more about that what a man thinks is right will save him; and that every man has a right to serve God as his conscience dictates. This makes a man's thoughts and conscience law, and lays aside God's law. I warn all.
JAMES L. THORNBERRY.

Sick-Bed Religion.

Said a friend to the celebrated Dr. Samuel Johnson: "One should think that the sick bed and the view of death would make men more religious."

"Sir," replied Johnson, "they do not know how to go about it. A man who has never had religion before no more grows religious when he is sick than a man who has never learned figures can count when he has need of calculation."

There is a good deal of truth in this remark. A sick man who has an account of ten dollars to settle with his neighbor will say: "Please call again; I am unwell to-day and cannot attend to it."

No sensible man will trust his judgment to do business when he can possibly avoid it. But the great concerns of eternity, the interests of the soul, the settlement of its accounts with God, and the decisions which involve its eternal destiny, men habitually and deliberately put off, to be attended to when racked with fever and tossed with pain upon a dying bed.

God calls men to serve Him to-day. "Now is the accepted time." "To-day is the day of salvation." "To-day, if ye will hear His voice, harden not your hearts." "Remember now thy Creator in the days of thy youth."—Watchman.

Strength must be found in thought, or it will never be found in the words. Big-sounding words without thoughts corresponding, are effort without effect.—William Cobbett.

AMERICAN NATIONAL BANK.

CASH CAPITAL,

$1,000,000.

Board of Directors.

E. W. Cole,
John G. Houston,
J. F. Demerville,
John Orr,
Byrd Douglass, Jr.,

John M. Lea,
J. Kirkman,
Rev. Dr. R. A. Young,
V. L. Kirkman,
R. L. Weakley,

A. W. Harris,
M. Burns,
T. A. Atchison,
W. G. Bush,
W. H. Jackson,

John Woodard,
J. A. Pigue,
C. E. Hillman,
W. W. Berry,
Wm. Porter,
Edgar Jones.

This Bank has united with it the THIRD NATIONAL BANK of this city, and has increased its Capital Stock to $1,000,000. With increased facilities in every particular, it can confidently assert that it will offer superior advantages in all departments of Banking to its patrons and friends.

JOHN KIRKMAN, President,
A. W. HARRIS, Cashier,
E. W. COLE, Chairman Executive Committee.

EDGAR JONES, Vice-President,
JOHN M. LEA, Vice-President.

GOSPEL ADVOCATE

PRINTING AND PUBLISHING COMPANY,

JAMES F. &amp; HARRY LIPSCOMB, Managers,

98 Union Street,

Nashville, Tenn.

Letter Heads, Note Heads, Bill Heads, Statement Heads, Circulars, Catalogues, By-Laws, Bills Lading, Receipts, Coal Tickets, Milk Tickets, Tags, Business Cards, Visiting Cards, Horse Bills, Etc.

Good work at reasonable rates. Send for prices. Give us your orders and be pleased.

WE RESPECTFULLY CALL YOUR ATTENTION TO THE FOLLOWING EXCELLENT BOOKS KEPT BY US:

Popular Hymns, word edition.....	single copy 15 cts; per dozen, by express, $1.50; by mail, $1.70
Popular Hymns, Note edition, (Boards).....	single copy 30 cts; per dozen, by express, 3 00; by mail, 3 60
Popular Hymns, Note, (with rudiments).....	single copy 40 cts; per dozen, by express, 4 20; by mail, 4 80
Popular Hymns, Note edition, (cloth).....	single copy 40 cts; per dozen, by express, 4 00; by mail, 4 75
New Life (character notes).....	single copy 25 cts; per dozen, by express, 3 00; by mail, 4 00
Songs of Glory, numbers 1 and 2.....	single copy 35 cts; per dozen, by express, 3 60; by mail, 4 00
Life of Raccoon John Smith, (very readable,) postpaid.....	2 00
Voice of Seven Thunders, (interesting, entertaining, and instructive,) postpaid.....	1 00
Gospel Plan of Salvation, by T. W. Brents, postpaid.....	2 00
Gospel Preacher, volumes 1 and 2, by Ben. Franklin, each, postpaid.....	2 00
Campbell and Owen Debate (splendid book for lawyers) postpaid.....	1 75
Dictionary of Bible, (complete,) by Dr. Smith, postpaid.....	3 00
House-keeping in the Blue Grass, (splendid,) postpaid.....	4 50, smaller 3 00
First Principles, by Isaac Errett, postpaid.....	1 50
Offerings to the Lord, by David Lipscomb, postpaid.....	15
Christian Experience, by Ben. Franklin, postpaid.....	10
Review of Dr. T. O. Summers' Tract, by Isaac Errett, postpaid.....	10
Union Movement, by Ben. Franklin, postpaid.....	10
Brown's Pocket Concordance to Bible, postpaid.....	70
Cruden's New Concordance (complete) postpaid.....	50
Bibles, Testaments, in all styles and bindings, at low rates.....	1 50

We will furnish any Book published in United States at retail price. WE SOLICIT YOUR orders. We pay postage only. All kinds of Job Printing.

S. B. HOGAN.

J. S. HOPKINS.

HOGAN & HOPKINS, BOOTS & SHOES, HATS, TRUNKS, UMBRELLAS, ETC., ETC.

We have just received our Fall and Winter Stock, which has been purchased at the very lowest prices, and we are determined not to let any one sell good Boots or Shoes cheaper than we do. Come and see us, and we will do our best to please you.

20 Public Square,

Nashville, Tennessee.

SALESMEN.—Sam. R. Hopkins, L. D. Simmons, William Mayes,

TO MAKE ROOM

For our Plow business, we offer bargains in the Celebrated Mitchell Spring Wagons as follows:

1½-inch axle Platform Spring Wagon, two seats, and pole $90.00.

1½-inch axle Platform Spring Wagon, two seats and pole, $95.00.

1½-inch three spring Delivery Wagon, with shafts, $85.00.

1½-inch three spring Pleasure Wagon, two seats and shafts, $90.00.

Two extra size bed, 1½ Platform Spring Wagon, suitable for drummer's hacks, at $100.00 each.

Above warranted for one year, and guaranteed in style, finish and durability; 10 per cent better than best shop made work.

DUDLEY BROS. &amp; LIPSCOMB.

Gen'l Agents Mitchell, Lewis &amp; Co.,

84 &amp; 86 Broad Street,

Nashville, Tenn.

PASCHALL, FALL &amp; CO.,

WHOLESALE

HARDWARE, Cutlery, Iron, WAGON MATERIAL, Etc.

FISHING TACKLE.

Nos. 57, 59 & 61 S. Market St.,
NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE

Our Prices are Very Low.

Agents for Chicago Scale Co.'s
Platform & Wagon Scales.

THE GOSPEL ADVOCATE.

NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE, APRIL 2, 1884.

CONTENTS:

Is One Church as Good as Another ?.....	209
Idle Words.....	210
Arkansaw News and Items.....	210
QUERIES.....	211
Gambling.....	213
Good Meeting.....	213
Sick-Bed Religion.....	213
CONTENTS.....	214
Spiritual Life.....	214
Bethany.....	215
Mothers, Take Warning.....	216
A Fair Show of Churches.....	216
Desire for Zeal.....	216
OBITUARIES.....	216
ITEMS, PERSONALS, ETC.....	219
GENERAL NEWS.....	219

KENTUCKY CONTRIBUTIONS &amp; CORRESPONDENCE.

To Whom Shall We Look ?.....	218
Who is Right ?.....	218
Bro. Joiner's Letter.....	218
L. F. Whitten.....	218

TEXAS WORK AND WORKERS.

The Mission of the Church.....	212
Is one as Good as Another ?.....	212
Our Bible Class.....	212
Correspondence.....	212

HOME READING.

Little Brown Acorn.....	220
Something About Ships.....	22
Among Demini.....	220
"Empty Handed".....	220
A Quick Temper.....	220
A Good Welcome.....	220
All or None.....	220

SPIRITUAL LIFE.

God ordained, in the natural world, that man should live by food and exercise. Without food the body would perish. The food is needful to supply nutriment to the body. But without exercise, to enable the body to assimilate the food to the necessities of the body, the food would not strengthen the body, but would cloy the stomach, cloy the functions of life, and produce dyspepsia, weakness, and decay.

In the spiritual world God likewise has ordained that men shall live by food and exercise. The soul takes food in worship, in approaching God in worship. Worship consists in the earnest and devout study of God's will, in prayer in private, in songs of praise to his great and holy name, in assembling together on the Lord's day to attend to the apostles' doctrine, to engage in prayer, in breaking of bread, and in the fellowship. We can no more live the spiritual life without attendance on this service, than a man can live physically without food. He receives food in worship alone. But this food gives no strength without it is assimilated to the wants of the spiritual body, unless it is assimilated by spiritual work. Spiritual work consists in restraining our appetites, desires, lusts and passions, within proper limits; in acting honestly, uprightly, and kindly to all men; in showing mercy and kindness to those in need, and in actively carrying the word of life to the world in darkness and sin. •

We cannot live spiritually without the worship, without receiving food in worship, any more than we can live physically without receiving material food by eating. Men who imagine that they are living as spiritual beings, while failing to engage in worship, deceive themselves, are so completely dead as to be insensible of death. But while taking the food they must engage in the labor—Christian labor—of restraining themselves in all their desires, lusts, and passions, in acting honestly with their neighbors and fellowmen, in helping with a free and open hand the needy and the afflicted. Without both of these there can be no healthy or vigorous development of true spiritual life.

As food gives strength to labor, and labor, in turn, gives an appetite for food, and enables the system to use and utilize the food; so the worship of God gives ability, spiritual strength, to restrain the appetites, passions, lusts, and enables man to so deny self as to be honest and upright with his fellowman, help the poor, the needy, and carry the light of salvation to the darkest corners of earth.

The doing of this spiritual labor, in turn, gives appetite and unction for earnest and true worship, and enables the soul to appropriate the benefits of worship. Nothing so prepares the man of God for earnest work in the Master's cause, as does devout and earnest worship; the study of his word, prayer, praise, thanksgiving; the constant attendance on the sanctuary of God. The best preparation the child of God ever received for profitable attendance on the Lord's day service, is attained through fidelity in discharging the duties we owe to ourselves, our fellowman, and our God, through the week. The strength we receive in waiting on God in this service, aids us to live soberly, righteously, and godly, through the succeeding week. As in the natural, so in the spiritual world, food gives strength to labor; labor gives appetite for food, and assimilates the food received to the nourishment and growth of the body.

The two different types of means for growth in Christ, in the Scriptures, are characterized as faith and works. Worship is the embodiment and expression of faith. Any worship that does not spring from faith, and does not embody and express that faith, is unacceptable to God. Prayer is worship; but a prayer that is not both from and in, and an expression of, the faith, is unacceptable to God. The study of God's word is worship; but unless it is studied with a desire to know the will of God, that we may do it, and so honor God, it is of little benefit. To sing the praises of God and make melody in the heart to the Lord, is worship; but when it is done as an artistic performance and entertainment, it is an offence to the Most High. Baptism is worship; but unless baptism be submitted to in obedience to, and as an expression of, the faith that is in the heart, it is not the true baptism. Attendance on the service of the Lord's house is worship; but unless the service is done, discerning, through faith, the body of the Lord Jesus, it tends to death instead of life.

All acts of worship are simply expressions of faith; and the worship may be called the faith in contradistinction to work. To come to the Lord's table is not work. It can no more properly be called work, than the child's coming to the table and eating the food prepared for it, can be called the labor of the child. To be baptized is not the work of the individual who is baptized. This is no more a work of the individual baptized, than being buried is a work of the dead body that is buried in the ground. To be baptized is worship, and all worship is embodied faith—is faith developing itself, and manifesting itself toward God.

Then all worship directed to God is faith, is embodied faith, and may be called the faith in contradistinction to the works. The works consist in living soberly and righteously. To live soberly is to restrain the passions, appetites, desires, impulses, and faculties of the body, within the proper bounds of a just moderation. To live righteously is to do right toward our fellowman in all relations of life.

Through the faith man receives food, by labor he assimilates the food to the wants of the spiritual body.

Men cannot live by faith alone, any more than he can live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God, that is by an observance of all the means that God has provided for the good of men.

Men in the material world, sometimes try to live on food without exercise or labor. The result is indigestion, cloying the organs, so they refuse to perform their functions, feebleness and dyspepsia. Men frequently in the spiritual world try to live by worship alone. They profess Christ, they have prayers, they read the word of God, they attend on the Lord's day service, but they give loose rein to their appetites, lusts, passions, they misrepresent and cheat, they lie and defraud to make gain, they are stingy and niggardly, they use their means neither to benefit man nor to honor God. Some gratify the indolent disposition of their natures, and are idle, they do not labor, they leave their families in want and discomfort, and bring up their children to idleness, thriftlessness, and improvidence, this is all failing to do Christian work, and is a violation of the divine provisions for spiritual life. Leanness of soul, moral disease and weakness, spiritual dyspepsia must result.

Men seldom in this material sphere attempt to live without food, by labor alone. The physical man has not been so perverted, but that the normal cravings of the appetite causes him to gladly supply the system with the requisite food. But were a man to say, I see labor develops strength and muscle and power, therefore I will live by labor without food, we know how soon he must fail and how such an attempt would be regarded as a clear indication of lunacy.

To one who properly understands the truth of God, it is clearly none the less the very essence of folly to attempt to live without worship or food in the spiritual world. The difference is our natures have been so abnormally developed that the appetite of the soul for food is not felt, as is the appetite of the body. The soul has been so over-ridden, so dwarfed and repressed by the flesh, that its desire for food is not felt, and so it must be nursed into vigor that it may make its wants felt. But it is just as true that the soul cannot live by labor alone, without food, as it is that body cannot. When a man undertakes to live by sobriety, and morality, and charity, without worship to God, he is attempting to live without food spiritually. Spiritual decay and death must be the result.

Man is so prone to one-sidedness, that he is apt to run off into one extreme or the other. The only man that develops a true, healthy spiritual life, is he who worships God, who is constant in the study of his word, who is earnest and always instant in prayer, who is faithful and steadfast in observing all the appointments of divine service, who forsakes not the assembling of the saints, and who keeps his body under, who restrains his passions, his lusts, his temper, his greed of gain, his love of ease and indolence, his love of power, and gives his body a living sacrifice to do the will of God, which is his service, reasonable and acceptable. D. L.

BETHANY.

The above is the name of a new meeting house about eight miles from Nashville, on the Murfreesboro Turnpike, built mainly by the energy and perseverance of Bro. R. F. Powers, who lives hard by. We preached there the fourth Lord's day morning and night of March, to large and attentive audiences. On Lord's day night, sister Pamela Holland, only living sister of Bro. Powers, far advanced in life, and who had been for many years a member of the old Baptist church, united with us upon the Bible, as the only rule of faith and practice. The prospect seems good to build up the cause in that community. E. G. S.

ITEMS.

We have several queries asking authority for public prayer. Christ prayed before the multitude of his persecutors; so did Stephen, who kneeled down in the presence of his murderers, and cried with a loud voice, "Lay not this to their charge?" Paul said that he would that men should pray everywhere. The Christians prayed in their early assemblies, and unbelievers were admitted to these assemblies, as we learn, and were sometimes converted to Christ at them. See 1 Cor. 14, 15, 23. If it had not been intended that Christians should pray in the presence of men, there would have been no occasion for the command that they should not pray to be heard of men. It is doubtless true that our prayers become too formal, too much mere form, and continually run into prayers to be heard of men; but this is the evil to be guarded against.

It is ridiculous to say that a Christian assembly shall refuse to pray because an unbeliever is present, or that unbelievers who desire to attend and learn of the services, should be debarred. If it is right to pray before one, it is right to pray before two, ten, a hundred. Indeed, it is right that outsiders should be encouraged in the prayerful, the devotional spirit, that through it they may be brought to devout obedience to God. Prayer is not distasteful to God. It is the sin, the disobedience, that is distasteful to him. The prayer of disobedience is a contradiction in term, an inconsistency. But man is a bundle of inconsistencies. Instead of quenching the religious disposition and tendency, that he may be consistent in sin, we always urge an increase of the religious tendencies, cultivate them, that they may grow, and let the sins be dropped off, that the person may become consistently religious. The inconsistency of having some feelings of respect for God, connected with much sinfulness, is preferable to a consistency in being wholly sinful. Let us keep before the world that prayers cannot be answered unless the individual obeys the living God. Then prayer for pardon, while refusing to comply with God's terms of pardon, cannot be answered, and there is no danger that people will believe too much in prayer nor practice it too much, if taught to pray right.

Bro. Srygley (we suppose it is) complains that we attributed an article on the Island Park meeting to Bro. Allen, when he wrote it. It has been so long since we wrote the article we do not recollect now what made us think it was Bro. Allen's, but if they would sign an initial letter to their articles, that kind of trouble would not occur. We had no end in attributing it to Bro. A., further than we thought it was his. He complains that some of us have been disposed to represent there was a difference in sentiment among the editors of the Guide. We quoted what some had written, and what was reported by the Standard as to Bro. S.'s views. If that showed difference, who is to blame? we did it only because Bro. S. boasted of their unity. We do not see why there should be sensitiveness on that point. It is seldom three or four men agree in everything, especially concerning matters outside of Bible instruction, as were the questions under consideration.

The editors of the ADVOCATE do not agree in everything, and they do not care to conceal the fact. The only thing is, they do not make their judgment or opinion a rule of action in religion. They are content to stop in all provisions for Christian service where the Bible stops. They will not supplement the failure of God's provision by devices of their own.

One of the London papers is giving voice to the "bitter cry of outcast curates"; and from numerous letters which it prints on this subject the average lot of this deserving class of men is shown to be most wretched. Not only are their stipends uniformly small, but after serving faithfully for many years they frequently have the mortification of seeing the favorites of bishops and influential patrons promoted over their heads. A few attempts have been made to better their condition during recent years, but they have borne little fruit.

We published a short time since, a report of the compensation of Methodist preachers in this country, showing that they received less support in their labor than did the teachers in any of the churches, where the support is left to the voluntary action of the different congregations. We publish the above showing that even in England with government support, a large portion of the curates suffer. The truth is, no plan succeeds so well as that in which the teacher in spirit of self-denial does his duty, teaches the church its duty and leaves the results with God and his servants. Consolidations may help a favored few, but the masses of the teachers suffer by any combination outside of the congregations of Christ.

The destructive battle in Egypt, reported in the news column, last week, in which the British troops route the army and destroy such numbers of those in rebellion against the Egyptian authorities, is remarkable, and yet in perfect accord with the world's history. The effete nationalities of the east, must be destroyed by the vigor and enterprise of the western nations. That superior vigor arises from the fact that the western nations have some faith in, and respect for, the word of God. The vigor, the energy, the mental activity and enterprise of each nation, is in proportion to the strength of their faith in God, and to the degree of respect they show for the word of God. Individual faith in, and a sense of individual responsibility to God, and a personal study of, and obedience to, the word of God, give strength of will, enterprise and vigor, to nations as well as individuals. The surrender of faith to the keeper of our conscience, as in Romanism, destroys the vigor, enterprise and activity of individuals and nations. The irresponsibility of infidelity begets a lack of steadiness of faith, destroys high and noble purposes, and brings fickleness, instability, and unsteadiness of character, both individual and national. Idolatry brings feebleness, helplessness and decay, both individual and national. A man has only to open his eyes to what is in the world, to see these truths. The protestant nations of the earth are eating out and destroying the effeminated, idolatrous nations.

The Christian religion is not negative. There is no religion in refraining from evil. The religion consists in doing good. Ceasing to do evil is a qualification, a necessary preparation for doing good, to be religious necessitates doing good. It is doing good in the name of the Master. A man who simply does no evil is not a good man. He may not be a bad man as viewed from a human standpoint. But he is not a good man. He is a negation, a nothing. He that doeth good is good. He that aggressively attacks and opposes wrong, evil, sin in all its shapes, is not good. He must actively build up the good, must do good, help men, work under and with God, before he can be classed as good. The heart out of which the evil spirit was cast, but which did not become the home of the active, good spirit, became the home of the legion of still more wicked spirits.

Bishop H. H. Kavanaugh, the senior Bishop of the Methodist Church, South, died March 19th, 1884, at Columbus, Miss., 82 years and a few months old. Bishop Kavanaugh was a man of remarkable power, mental and moral, and through his earnestness, zeal and unflagging devotion to his convictions of right, became a power with not only his church, but with the public at large. Impressive memorial services were held at Vanderbilt University, presided over by Bishop McTyeire.

Bishop McTyeire in his memorial address on the life of Bishop Kavanaugh, relates the following concerning his grandparents. His grandfather, Dr. Hines, was sceptical. The heroic spirit of the grandmother helped to make the grandson what he was. Dr. Hines:

"An affectionate husband, he was roused to a strange fury when his wife heard the Methodist preachers, and attended their meetings in his neighborhood about 1789. A scientific infidel, as he boasted himself, he undertook to cure this madness, and actually applied a blister-plaster to her head. With this on she attended meeting. The next day the Doctor asked how the blister-plaster was coming on? 'I know nothing about the blister-plaster,' was the reply. 'What! did you not take it off?' he exclaimed. 'No.' Of course he knew it was in a bad condition. He stood astounded, overcome by the intensity of feelings which now were reversed. He dressed the blister as well as he could, and sitting down by her side, penitently remarked: 'I expect if you were to join these people you would feel better.' In the end he joined them too, and became as famous as his good wife for constancy, and more famous for fervor of piety. Bishop Asbury, so late as 1813, was at the Doctor's house in Kentucky, where he had settled in 1797, and notes in his journal his joy at meeting his happy old friend once more this side of heaven, and adds: 'He will never again, I presume, put a blister on his wife's head to draw Methodism out of her heart.'"

The wars of Moses with the idolatrous nations around him, and the cruel destruction that he visited upon them under the direction of God, are frequently cited by the infidels as evidence that the Bible is not of God. God rules in the world just as much to-day as he did in the days of Moses. He as much overrules and directs the armies of earth to the destruction of those unfitted to live, of those who by rejection of him, and through their crimes, are unfitted to live at this day, as he did in the day of Moses and his armies. The wars are as cruel, as destructive as were those. They more slowly accomplish the destruction of the sinful nations, but on this account there is so much the more suffering. The difference is, we have not inspired men to make known that it is God's will that this or that nation should be destroyed, and to give the reason why the destruction is visited upon them. It is now God overruling men and their operations in accordance with his fixed laws, to work these purposes. Do any deny because suffering and cruelty result from these wars that he who rules the universe is God? If he who works these ends is God, why not he who worked destruction through Moses be God also? The God of the universe is pledged to destroy every nation that will not serve and honor the God of heaven. The accomplishment of this end goes forward to-day as in the days of Moses. It is just as true now as then, the Lord uses wicked nations and people to destroy those he designs to destroy. Those he uses are punished in this use for their own sins.

The revisors of the Old Testament expect to have it ready for publication in the spring or early summer.

MOTHERS, TAKE WARNING!

"Why is it," said I, to an ex-pupil who was visiting us, "that those boys are so bad? Their mother is a nice lady."

"Why Mr. Barnes, he replied, it is not strange at all." The oldest son went to Montgomery once; just before reaching the city, rather in the suburbs, he called at a negro cabin and purchased four chickens. At the gate he proposed to pay for them, but could not make the change. So he left the fowls with a companion, whom he called a "tramp," remarking as he returned to the coop with the negro to get more chickens to fit his money, "I picked that tramp up on the way." Having secured two more, he returned, but to find the so-called tramp running off with the trust he had. Pulling out his pistol, he began firing and running. So the two by agreement escaped with the stolen property. "Again on the way home, he called at a negro house and ordered a nice breakfast cooked and sent to his camp. It was done as ordered." A fifty dollar bill was tendered in payment. Of course old uncle black Joe could not get his money out of that pile. So they drove away and left poor cuffy to bite his finger and wish he had never seen them. "Now" continued the young man, "his mother laughed at these as smart tricks and told them to her neighbors as such." Well, what of it? What the sequel? He stole a horse, his mother bonded him out of jail, which broke her up. All went West, where he is still stealing, scouting and dodging officers.

Mothers, God did not give you children for playthings and pets. There is too much reality in life to neglect or disregard the responsibility of a mother. Did you ever think that when you lie, for fun or otherwise, to your tiny baby, that you are breeding mischief in the young mind? What effect do you calculate your deception will have upon the child that watches every movement you make, and catches every accent you utter in its presence? Do you think to manifest a dishonest spirit in any way and not train a man for evil doing? Weeds and briars, thistles and brambles, need no cultivation, they grow without care. Sinning, stealing and such things need no fastening. How will it be then when mothers wink at, encourage or tacitly pass over crookedness in their sons? No one can apologize for a boy like a mother. I have known cases, in which I thought mothers did great injury by so doing. Do not excuse the child when instruction, reproof and correction are in imperative demand. However kind, or gentle, or forgiving you may wish to be, oh do not for anything let the child know or believe you are willing to hide out for it, or look without anxiety upon the least peccadillo. It is almost as dangerous to be indifferent to sin. Pass it over as a small matter now, and it will grow to be noticed by-and-by, like a tumor. Nor is this all. There are a thousand ways of manifesting dishonesty without stealing. The child is no fool. The parent is watched. Just let it be known, in transacting business with your neighbors, that you lean a little too generously to self, the child catches it. You may detest stealing it is all the same, the apt scholar accepts. Thousands of parents would not tell a lie right out; oh no, they would not near do it. Still many lies are acted out, not told, and that too by those entrusted with raising children. Beware parents! beware! Do you act towards some as though you thought very much of them, when the child knows your secret sentiment to be dislike, is not this a lie acted upon the stage of life, and hypocrisy in the bargain?

J. M. BARNES.

A FAIR SHOW OF CHURCHES.

Infidel—"Good morning, gentlemen! I would like to be a Christian, but you have so many churches and ways, it is hard for me to see the right way. Now let me hear of your several claims."

Christian—"I claim to belong to the church started by the apostles. We go to Jerusalem to see the start of Christ's church, as started by the apostles. We read of this in Acts of apostles. We read in our Testaments, that the apostolic churches were composed of immersed believers. Their worship was simple. They had no church rulers but overseers and deacons. They had no Sunday-schools. They met on the first day of the week to study the Scriptures, sing, pray, and exhort one another to love and do good works. They also commemorated the dying love of Christ. They had no missionary societies, nor preacher-making colleges. They had men called evangelists, who went everywhere to preach the word. We have some preachers who go not, waiting for a stipulated, secured salary. We claim that precept or example must be shown in the New Testament for all we do."

Disciple—"I accept all my brother Christian has said. We agree with him, but we go further. We believe in preacher-making colleges, and pastors to be settled with all churches. We teach that they ought to have good salaries. We are for conventions, State, district and county meetings, and evangelists corresponding to the same. We patronize Sunday-schools, and choirs, and organs to praise God in song. We are in favor of all modern improvements that all the evangelical sects use."

Roman Catholic—"I differ from the two brethren who preceded me. We use the Bible, but we claim it is not adapted to the people. We have a Pope, cardinals, arch-bishops, bishops and priests; we have councils composed of these great men. They settle doctrine and discipline for the people. We also worship the blessed virgin; we also have an altar and a crucifix over it; we have monasteries of monks, and nunnerys composed of nuns; we baptize infants."

Episcopalian—"I differ from all the brethren who preceded me. We have no Pope, Queen Victoria, as head of our nation, is head of our national church; we have bishops, no cardinals; we use no crucifixes. The Westminster confession of faith, and our prayer book, set forth our creed and practice."

Presbyterian—"I agree in a great measure with the last speaker. We have no male or female Pope. The Westminster confession sets forth pretty fairly our faith. My brother Catholic, Episcopalian, and all of us believe in baby membership, and sprinkling for baptism."

Methodist—"My creed and practice is plainly set forth in the Methodist discipline."

Baptist—"I agree with Christian in church independence, and in immersing only true believers. I also agree with "Disciple" in the Sunday-school work; in associations, conventions, and some other of the modern improvements."

Infidel—"Mr. Christian, all seem to have advanced beyond you, what have you to say?"

Christian—"They all say 'my creed.' The New Testament is an inspired book. The apostle James says it is 'the perfect law of liberty.' Paul says, 'It thoroughly furnishes the man of God into every good work.' Then I will not do anything in the service of God, for which we cannot show precept or example in the New Testament."

Infidel—"Christian is the most consistent. He contends for the book you all claim just as it is. So I will weigh its evidence, and when I can come to full faith in it, Christian and I will be one. Adjourned. JAMES L. THORNBERRY.

Scyene, Dallas County, Texas.

DEMAND FOR ZEAL.

The devil held a great anniversary, at which his emissaries were convened to report the results of their several missions. "I let loose the wild beasts of the desert," said one, "on a caravan of Christians, and their bones are now bleaching on the sands. 'What of that?' said the devil, 'their souls were all saved.' 'I drove the east wind,' said another, 'against a ship freighted with Christians, and they were all drowned.' 'What of that,' said the devil, 'their souls were all saved.' 'For ten years I tried to get a single Christian asleep,' said another, 'and I succeeded, and left him so.' Then the devil shouted, and the night stars of hell shouted for joy."—Luther.

You observe a man becoming day by day holier, or advancing in station, or increasing in professional reputation, and you set him down as a successful man in life. But if his home is an ill-regulated one, where no links of affection extend throughout the family, whose former domestics (and he has had more of them than he can well remember) look back upon their sojourn with him as one unblest by kind words or deeds, I contend that that man has not been successful.—Arthur Helps.

Obituaries.

It becomes my duty to announce the death of sister Emily Hendon, who calmly fell asleep in Christ on the 1st day of February, 1884. Sister Hendon was born in Carroll County, Ga., December 30th, 1829; was married to R. R. Hendon, sr., December 10th, 1844. She was the mother of seven children; four of which preceded her across the river. She was afflicted two years; bore her afflictions with Christian fortitude; was seldom heard to murmur or complain. Her life was full of trouble and affliction. She learned obedience by the things she suffered. She often expressed a desire to put off this tabernacle of clay, believing that she had a building of God, a house not made with hands eternal in the heavens. Some twenty years ago she became a member of the Primitive Baptist Church, and lived a consistent member until the summer of 1882, (to the great delight of the three children) she took her stand upon the Bible alone. Sister Hendon was a faithful and obedient wife, a kind and indulgent mother, and an humble and submissive Christian. While we mourn her loss we sorrow not as those who have no hope. We believe that if we live faithful until death we will meet her where parting will be no more. Oh! that her aged husband could be induced to obey the gospel, and thus get in possession of the hope that would be an anchor to the soul, when called upon to pass through the ordeal of death, and thus become prepared to live with his companion in the grand city. J. D. FERGUSON.

Oak Level, Alabama.

The morning of the 13th day of February last dawned on six motherless children under my roof, their mother and my dear wife having died at 8 o'clock. Minerva L. Wylie was born the 31st of December, 1848, in Chester, South Carolina. At an early age she became a member of the Baptist Church, remained a consistent member of the same until 1870, she learned the way of the Lord more perfectly and was baptized into Christ, in whom she walked faithful until death. Her disease was general and of long duration. She suffered a great deal with much patience and passed through the valley and shadow of death seemingly without fear. Minerva; was in every sense of the word a wife; she was industrious, frugal, affectionate and obedient. She very greatly assisted me in my efforts to proclaim the gospel. She was a kind, indulgent mother, and a good neighbor. She was in favor of family prayer, and thanksgiving daily; was not willing to omit it. She attended the Lord's day meetings regularly, assisting in the worship as far as she was able. She seemed anxious to make the important addition enjoined by the apostle Peter, dwelling on that passage. In a word, she seemed to realize fully the necessity of obeying the Lord in all things, in order to eternal life. We miss her very much; miss her at home and at the house of God, but we are consoled with the thought that her loss is her eternal gain. We believe by a faithful continuance in well doing, we will join her in the sweet bye and bye, where all tears are forever wiped away, and where we will be happy forever. I very much desire to rear our children right. I ask the prayers of God's people, that I may be able to raise them up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord, that they may become useful members of the church, and be permitted to join their dear mother in the realms of the blest. J. D. FERGUSON.

Oak Level, Alabama.

One month since my dear wife, Jane V. Waters, crossed over the river. Since then, days appear as weeks, weeks as months, and the month as a year. She had been my loving wife about thirty-nine years. Was to me the mother of eight children. First three daughters and one son. These three daughters and second son preceded her to the spirit world; Evelina the oldest, at the age of sixteen; Carroll, at three; Victoria, two; and Landy at the age of seven years. I knew Evelina as a bright and shining light in the church of God. The three sons and the daughters she left fighting the battles of life, are all members of the church, except the second in age, John F., located in St. Louis, Mo., in the practice of law. I pray I may live to see him obey the gospel, and walk in all the ordinances and commands of the Lord blameless. Before marriage, my wife was a Miss Jane V. Armstrong, and as such, obeyed the gospel the year preceding our marriage. She was an invalid twelve to fifteen years previous to death. But her Christian fortitude and faith failed not. She frequently sang, "I am waiting for the Master." By her request this was sung at the open grave. She frequently spoke of death in her latter years, as we would talk of a journey. In her last days, and to the last hour, she talked freely of her readiness and willingness to depart. As you were her favorite preacher, and had known her long and well, I give you the above facts and request you to write such notice as you deem proper. And please request the A. C. Review to copy. L. B. WATERS.

McMinnville, Tenn., March 18th, 1884.

[We received the above account of the death of Sister Waters, from her husband Bro. L. B. Waters. The first year of our preaching was in McMinnville, in the year '67, where we were much at the house of sister Waters and knew her well. She was then feeble, much of her time in bed. Her life has since been one of affliction and much trouble. She was, despite her bodily weakness, strong in her faith, quick to discern character, decided and firm in her convictions, and steadfast in the purposes of life. A woman truer and more steadfast in her attachments and friendships we have not known. She was quick to detect hypocrisy and double dealing, was open and frank herself and could not tolerate deceit in others. We trust that freed from suffering and trouble, she has gone to a home of peace and rest with God.]—D. L.

There is something exquisite in an American's reply to the European traveler, when he asked him if he had just crossed the Alps: "Wall, now you call my attention to the fact, I guess I did pass risin' ground."

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

This powder never varies. A marvel of purity strength and wholesomeness. More economical than the ordinary kinds, and cannot be sold in competition with the multitude of low test, short weight alum or phosphate powders. Sold only in cans. ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 106 Wall St., New York.

ROBUST HEALTH

Is not always enjoyed by those who seem to possess it. The taint of corrupted blood may be secretly undermining the constitution. In time, the poison will certainly show its effects, and with all the more virulence the longer it has been allowed to permeate the system. Each pimple, sty, boil, skin disorder and sense of unnatural lassitude, or languor, is one of Nature's warnings of the consequences of neglect.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

Is the only remedy that can be relied upon, in all cases, to eradicate the taint of hereditary disease and the special corruptions of the blood. It is the only alternative that is sufficiently powerful to thoroughly cleanse the system of Scrofulous and Mercurial impurities and the pollution of Contagious Diseases. It also neutralizes the poisons left by Diphtheria and Scarlet Fever, and enables rapid recuperation from the enfeeblement and debility caused by these diseases.

Myriads of Cures

Achieved by AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, in the past forty years, are attested, and there is no blood disease, at all possible of cure, that will not yield to it. Whatever the ailments of this class, and wherever found, from the scurvy of the Arctic circle to the "veldt-sores" of South Africa, this remedy has afforded health to the sufferers by whom it was employed. Druggists everywhere can cite numerous cases, within their personal knowledge, of remarkable cures wrought by it, where all other treatment had been unavailing. People will do well to

Trust Nothing Else

than AYER'S SARSAPARILLA. Numerous crude mixtures are offered to the public as "blood purifiers," which only allure the patient with the pretense of many cheap doses, and with which it is folly to experiment while disease is steadily becoming more deep-seated and difficult of cure. Some of these mixtures do much lasting harm. Bear in mind that the only medicine that can radically purify the vitiated blood is

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,

PREPARED BY

Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Sold by all druggists, price $1, six bottles for $5.

THE SUGAR HAND BOOK

A NEW AND VALUABLE TREATISE ON SUGAR CANES, (including the Minnesota Early Amber) and their manufacture into Syrup and Sugar. Although comprised in small compass and furnished free to applicants, it is the BEST PRACTICAL MANUAL ON SUGAR CANES that has yet been published.

BLUMBER MANUFACTURING CO
Cincinnati O.
Manufacturers of Steam Sugar Machinery, Steam Engines, Victor Cane Mill, Cook Sugar Evaporator, etc.

PREWITT, SPURR & CO., MANUFACTURERS OF WOODEN WARE AND LUMBER, NASHVILLE, TENN.

Poplar and Pine Flooring, Ceiling, Weatherboarding, Sash, Doors, Blinds, Door and Window Frames Brackets, Laths, Cedar Posts, Etc., Always on hand.

FACTORY AND MILLS IN EDGEFIELD.

NATHANIEL BAKER, JR.,
President.

THOS. PLATE, Jr.,
Vice President.

J. P. WILLIAMS,
Cashier.

W. F. BANG, JR.,
Asst. Cashier.

THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK, OF NASHVILLE, TENN. (Reorganized.)

Designated Depository and Financial Agent of the United States.

CAPITAL STOCK, - - - - - $500,000 00
UNDIVIDED PROFITS, - - - - - 186,200 00

Receives Deposits, Deals in United States Bonds and Local Securities, and Foreign and Domestic Exchange. Drafts drawn on all European points. Our facilities for making collections at all accessible points are unsurpassed.

P. A. SHELTON, DEALER IN STAPLE AND FANCY GROCERIES, FLOUR, BACON, LARD, TOBACCO AND CIGARS, COUNTRY PRODUCE, QUEENSWARE, GLASSWARE, TINWARE, LAMPS AND TRIMMINGS. No. 96 BROAD STREET, - (Second door from College,) - NASHVILLE, TENN.

Special Attention Given to Filling Orders.

SOLE AGENT FOR "RINGLEADER" FLOUR.

ALEX. HOGAN.

JO. B. HALL.

HOGAN & HALL,

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALERS IN

GROCERIES, BACON, LARD,

—AND—

PURE WHISKIES AND WINES

For Medicinal Purposes.

106 Broad Street, - - - NASHVILLE, TENN.

GOOD CLOTHING!

Gentlemen and boys who desire GOOD CLOTHING at medium prices, equal in style and make to any custom work, should not fail to examine our stock before purchasing their Outfits.

HUNTINGTON, Clothier,

160 Church Street,

NASHVILLE.

W. R. CORNELIUS, GENERAL FUNERAL UNDERTAKER.

OFFICE:
No. 17 North Summer Street,

RESIDENCE:
No. 418 Main Street.

Telephone 73 calls the Office; Telephone 271 calls the Residence.

Will furnish everything wanted at a funeral, and all first-class.

Prices as cheap as anybody else. 2a3m

THUSS, KOELLEIN & GIER.

Successors to old Giers' Gallery,

PHOTOGRAPHERS!

139 Union Street, Nashville, Tenn.

CALVERT BROTHERS' PORTRAITS.

In Crayon, in Oil and Water Colors; Ivory Miniatures, &c., &c., Cole Building, Cor. Union and Cherry Streets, Nashville, Tenn.

GEO. E. COOPER & CO., Wholesale Manufacturers and Dealers in TINWARE, STOVES, FURNACES, And House Furnishing Goods.

Tin and Slate Roofing and Galvanized Iron Cornice Work a Specialty.

Also our Patent Chimney Top for smoky chimneys, has no equal. Write for prices and address.

GEO. E. COOPER & CO., 22 North Market Street, Nashville, - - - Tennessee.

SHOW CASES, CEDAR CHESTS, CEDAR WARDROBES, Cabinet Work, and all kinds of Glass.

G. C. TERRY, Manufacturer,
46 N. Front Street, - NASHVILLE.

F. A. BADGER, DENTIST

OFFICE.

ODD FELLOWS' TEMPLE,
(Cor Church & High Sts.,)

Nashville, Tennessee.

A Physician's Gift.

If you are a sufferer hoping for a permanent cure of Apoplectic or Epileptic

FITS,

a Free Trial Box of the celebrated Dr. JUSTICE SCHROEDER'S REMEDY for this disorder will be sent you, post-paid, free.

Every sufferer from this disease that is anxious to be cured should give these Powders an immediate trial. Large Box $3.00, two boxes $5.00.

Address,

PHILIP HENRY,

49 South Street, New York City.

OWEN'S STATION SCHOOL.

The sixth annual session will open Sept. 8d, 1883, and continue Forty Weeks. The session is divided into two terms of twenty weeks each.

The expenses to boarders per term, are from $75.00 to $80.00. Music with use of instrument, $23.00. $100.00 will pay for board, washing, full instruction in higher English Branches, Latin, Greek, French and Music. Bills due one-half at opening of term and remainder at middle. For any information, address

W. LIPSCOMB,

Brentwood, Tenn.

AGENTS wanted for the History of Christianity, by Abbott. A grand chance. A $4 book at the popular price of $1.75. Liberal terms. The religious papers mention it as one of the few great religious works of the world. Greater success never known by agents. Terms free. STINSON & Co., Publisher, Portland, Maine.

DONT purchase your CHRISTMAS PRESENTS until you have seen our IMMENSE HOLIDAY CATALOGUE of Toys, Novelties, Fancy Goods, &c., mailed free. Address Eureka T. & N. Co., 87 Warren St., New York.

CATALOGUE of Best Books for Agents sent free, including Mother, Home and Heaven. $2.75. Please everybody. 126,000 sold, $150 monthly. E. B. TRAZ, Publisher, New York.

KENTUCKY CONTRIBUTIONS AND CORRESPONDENCE.

BY J. A. HARDING, OF WINCHESTER, KY., TO WHOM ALL COMMUNICATIONS FOR THIS DEPARTMENT SHOULD BE ADDRESSED.

TO WHOM SHALL WE GIVE?

We do not use the same practical common sense in expending the money we devote to the Lord's service that we display in managing our private matters; at least as a rule we do not; though to this, as to most rules, there are a few notable exceptions. We realize that it is our duty to give regularly, and as we are prospered, to the Lord's cause; and we determine to do it. We fix upon a certain per cent. of our income, perhaps, which we say shall be devoted to the Master. Now, what shall we do with it? How shall it be expended? Some brother in Maine, Florida, Texas, or Iowa is in a bad way, and publishes the fact in the papers. He has labored for the Master, spending and being spent, till now all his property is gone, he is unable to work, and his large family of helpless little ones gather about him in want. The editor who gives his appeal to the world, does not know the man, perhaps, but has heard that he is a most excellent man, and thinks he ought to be helped. Some benevolent Christian who has money for the Lord reads the appeal, and hastens to send a bank check in response to it. Now, I say it is unwise for him so to do, and he would not so act in his own business matters. Can he not invest this money of the Lord's where he knows it is needed? Does he not know of any weak struggling church that is trying to build a meeting-house? or of any faithful preachers who are laboring and sacrificing for the cause, and who ought to be helped? or any orphans that should be clothed and educated? or of any widows who should be cared for? I opine there are few who give so much that they supply all such wants about them, and then yet have a remnant for the Lord.

When a man publishes himself as a pauper, and makes appeals through the papers for help, the probabilities are that he is, to a greater or less extent, a humbug or a "crank."

Any man who will lovingly work for the Master, freely spending all in his service, will make so many friends, and will bring them under such a feeling of obligation to himself, that he will never need to make a public appeal for help, but above all, (and God forbid that I should ever forget to emphasize this thought, and to trust in it!) the Lord's face will shine upon him, his loving arms will be about him, and his providential care over him.

A faithful minister labored in my section, a number of years ago, with all his might; he cared not about making money, but seemed wholly devoted to his work. He died in his prime, leaving wife and children without any thing. Then the brethren among whom he had labored, who knew his work and the condition of his family, moved by the Spirit of the Lord, hastily collected money and bought a nice home for the widow and orphans, which they gave to her not as charity to a pauper, but as a debt due to the wife and children of him to whom many of them owed themselves in the Lord, and to whom all were under great obligations. I don't believe any man who is as faithful as a minister of the word as he should be, will fail to make many friends that will divide with him to the last dollar, if need be.

So I say again, minister to the wants that are before you, or about which you have certain information. What business man would invest his means in a remote enterprise of which he knows nothing, save what he had learned from interested parties, when he has abundant opportunities to make safe and profitable investments at home? Ought we not to be as cautious and discreet in expending the money we set apart for the Lord, as in using our own?

But, in conclusion, let me caution the penurious: There is absolutely no hope for the man who makes it the end of his life to accumulate money for himself and family, and who is not "rich toward God." The very spirit of Christianity is the spirit of giving. Christ gave up thirty-three years of life in heaven, then all that men prize on earth, and finally his life, for us. The apostles and first Christians caught the spirit of self-sacrifice from him, and they freely gave up houses and lands and social position, and many of them their lives, for the cause. Christianity demands sacrifice; and no man can be a Christian without cultivating this spirit. "Who-soever doth not bear his cross, and come after me, cannot be my disciple." Let us give largely for the cause, and let us expend wisely what we give.

L. F. WHITTEN.

Our teaching at Scottsboro, Ala. stirred up the paedobaptist ministers of the place wonderfully. Especially were they annoyed when the people began to understand that sprinkling is not baptism. When they became excited and began to talk about my teaching, I heartily invited them to meet me before the public, and discuss the points of difference; or to bring some champion of their cause to the town, who would be willing to undertake their defence. But with great dignity they declined to do any such thing. Since I left, however, I understand that Bro. L. F. Whitten, of the Methodist church has been endeavoring to make the impression that some statement, or statements of mine are false. I stated that Prof. Milton W. Humphreys, professor of Greek in Vanderbilt, says that no standard Greek English lexicon gives sprinkle or pour as a meaning of baptizo. Of this statement I understand Bro. Whitten has endeavored to make some capital. Well; I have in my possession Prof. Humphreys' letter to Bro. I. N. Johnson, in which he makes the statement. He claims that some lexicons give the definition, but no standard Greek English lexicon does. I say that no respectable lexicographer gives or ever has given "sprinkle" as a definition of baptizo.

If Bro. Whitten wants to expose my teaching to the people of Scottsboro, let him find a man to represent his cause, and I will gladly meet him before the community. I think it appears a little cowardly for him to make such violent attacks after I have left the town.

BRO. JOINER'S LETTER.

A letter from Bro. J. M. Joiner, which appeared in the Advocate of March 12th, pleases me very much indeed. All sorts of conventions except the meetings of congregations for worship are to be dreaded. There is no such thing as controlling them, or keeping them in bounds. They violate their own constitutions, or alter them to suit fancies. They invariably go from bad to worse. Besides, we have no need for them. As Bro. Joiner so well says, we need godly, earnest men who will do the work. God almighty will bless them, and a faithful band of brethren will co-operate with them.

Let us walk trembling lest we get out of the "old paths."

WHO IS RIGHT?

The following extract is from the Old Path Guide of Feb. 29th, 1884:

GOING IT BLIND.—We find this in the Religious Herald:

A Baptist minister, with a large family, living upon an $800 salary, recently said to us: "My only hope for my wife and children being cared for, should I die or be disabled, is in Providence. I have made no provision whatever for them in that event, nor do I care to do it. They will probably do better in the world than if I were worried and careful as to their future support. My wife, as well as myself, is perfectly willing to live, leaving the future to take care of itself. I have not a word to utter against ministers who are toiling to make such provisions; but with my own conviction, I could not do it."

This is a blind and unscriptural trust, (says the Guide). God requires a judicious use of means in providence, as well as in redemption. One might just as well refuse to cover his house, and expect God to keep the rain out of it, as to expect God to provide for him when he doesn't try to provide for himself. God has made it a man's duty to provide for his family, and trust God for the rest. is the divine law.

For once, at least, a Baptist minister is right, and an editor of the Guide is wrong. The Baptist minister's position is this, viz., The man who faithfully strives to do his duty day by day, trusting in God, needs not to lay up money for his wife and children for future contingencies. It is enough to care for to-day. Whereas the Guide's editor evidently thinks that a man should lay up money for the support of his wife and children after he is disabled or dead. The latter doctrine is by far more popular; doubtless ninety-nine men out of every hundred would say it is divine. But this is only another proof that men are accustomed to twist the Bible to suit their own notions and desires, instead of conforming their beliefs and practices to the inspired word.

Some time ago a contributor to the Guide wrote as follows: "To save some money every year is business and Christianity. The preacher need not spend all his money every year. * * * A preacher can be an example of liberality, have the necessary comforts of life, and make money if he will." No doubt the editor who criticizes our "Baptist minister," and who calls his faith "a blind and unscriptural trust," would endorse this correspondent as being wise far seeing and scriptural.

But is his teaching scriptural? Is the trust of the Baptist "blind and unscriptural?" There is no proof that our Lord ever laid up any money, although he had a mother to care for; nor did he teach that his disciples should do so. On the contrary, he emphatically taught them not to do so, saying, "lay not up for yourselves treasures upon earth;" "sell that ye have and give alms;" "it is more blessed to give than to receive;" "freely ye have received, freely give;" "be not therefore anxious for the morrow: for the morrow will be anxious for itself. Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof;" and many other sayings did he utter. There is no proof that the apostles ever made the accumulation of money, an item of their faith and practice. Paul, we know, lived from hand to mouth, and in justification of himself said, "I count all things to be loss for the excellency of the knowledge of Christ Jesus my Lord: for whom I suffered the loss of all things, and do count them but dung, that I may gain Christ," etc. And he taught others to be of like mind with himself, saying, "having food and covering we shall be therewith content," (margin in these we shall have enough.) It is in this connection that he cautions his readers about the "love of money," the worship of mammon. While the Bible teaches us to make money, it properly adds, that we may give to them that need. We are to make to give, not make to lay up. True, we are taught to provide for our own; but it is that we shall provide for them now; not that we shall lay up for them for days, weeks or years to come. The man who does his duty well to-day, does all that God wants him to do, and at the same time makes the very best preparations for the morrow. Our Lord did not teach his disciples to pray, Give us this day our bread for many days and weeks and years to come, but, "Give us day by day our daily bread." A man is far more apt to live a devoted Christian life, if he is compelled to look daily to God for the things that he needs. Even to this day it is hard for a rich man to enter the kingdom of God. Let us therefore not criticise and denounce as "blind and unscriptural" the man who would follow Jesus and Paul and the first Christians in this matter, but rather let us encourage him and bid him God speed.

END OF KENTUCKY DEPARTMENT.

ITEMS, PERSONALS, ETC.

Dr. E. A. Lodge, of Detroit, at one time State Evangelist of Michigan, spent several days in our city, including the last week. He is in feeble health, and is on his way to Florida.

Last week two or three articles slipped through the press without proof reading. The queries answered by E. G. S. have several blunders that make nonsense. In the reply to Bro. McGary, the types said "acceptable disobedience." It, of course, ought to have been "acceptable obedience."

Messrs. Calvert Brothers, who insert their card in this number, are known to us as gentlemen of high integrity, and fine skill as artists. We have had work done by them, and are well pleased with its execution. They make a specialty of portraits in oil, crayon, and water colors. Their prices are very moderate, we ask our readers to give them a call.

D. M. Breaker writes: "We had an excellent meeting at Earlington. Bro. J. C. Creel, of Henderson, was with us nearly two weeks, and did the preaching. There were thirty-four additions to the congregation—twenty by baptism, six from the Baptists, one from the Methodists, four restored, and three by letter. The congregation is working finely."

We spent the fourth Lord's day of March in Murfreesboro. A young lady, who had confessed some time previously, was baptized at night. We were at Haynes Institute, which is in a prosperous condition. Bro. Wm. Jones, the Sunday-school superintendent, is devoted to his work, and shows a happy faculty for interesting the children. The brethren report more activity in the church than usual. There is abundant ability in the church to make the church a power for good. But that ability is not consecrated to the service of the church as it should be.

James Johnston, an old and highly esteemed citizen of Williamson county, Tenn., near Owen's Station, died Feb. 10th, 1884, after long illness, and much suffering. Mr. Johnston was an honest up right man, always prompt and reliable in all his business relations and transactions. He was seventy-three years of age, and has resided a great while perhaps all his lifetime in that community, and hence was well known, and will be much missed by a large circle of relations and friends. He leaves a wife, two daughters, and one son, weeping over their loss of husband and father.

Bro. F. Talmage, from Belmont, Coffee county, Tenn., writes: "They are an excellent people, here and it is a great pleasure to preach for them. I immersed one here yesterday, and received one into the fellowship, who had been led aside by Mormonism. Our cause here is destined to triumph. We are living humbly before God, and are determined to walk in all his 'ordinances and commandments blameless.'"

J. Harding writes: "Please send my paper from this on, instead of South Tunnel, Tenn., to 3307 Bank Street, Louisville, Ky. Our meeting here at 25 Portland Avenue, still goes on. Fifty added this last meeting, and a growing interest. Please mention in the ADVOCATE of my removal to Louisville. Persons wanting meetings after the first of May please address me now, at 3307 Bank Street, Louisville, Ky."

A. E. Self writes: "Please say through the ADVOCATE that the Christian church at Northport will be dedicated on the fourth Lord's day in April. Also, that the brethren of Alabama contemplate holding a co-operative meeting here, commencing on Friday night before the fourth Lord's day in April. All brethren who feel an interest in the work are respectfully invited to co-operate with us in the meeting." Bro. E. G. S. intends being present at this meeting.

Bro. R. W. Vanhook, writes from Northport, Ala., March 24th: "You will please announce in the GOSPEL ADVOCATE that we will have a meeting of Christians at this place, beginning Friday night before the fourth Lord's day in April. All Alabama brethren, and from other states are invited. The brethren here will entertain all who can come. The object of the meeting is that we may know each other, and talk about the work in this State. Northport is across the river opposite Tuscaloosa, Ala."

We spent a night with Bro. W. R. Hooten and wife, near Bellevue, recently. Although quite feeble, and now 78 years of age, we found him cheerful and happy, appreciating the loving care and attention of his companion, and of Bro. and sister Compton and their children. Sister Compton, though a sister of Sister Hooten's, is also a foster child, having been raised by them from infancy. Bro. Hooten keeps a lively interest in the movements and teachings to promote Christianity. Although he and sister Hooten are both feeble, we anticipate that with warm weather they will again be able to be out, and assume their place in the assembly of the saints. Bro. Hooten did much labor through Georgia, Alabama, Middle and West Tennessee, and Mississippi, reaching back over fifty years ago. His father before him labored much in the gospel field. We pray the blessing of the Lord to abide with these, his tried and faithful servants.

General News.

The City Council, in this city, have modified the Sunday law, so as to allow the sale of ordinary eatables till 10 A. M. on Sunday, and retail dealers in cigars and tobacco, newspapers, magazines, ice, ice cream, soda water, apothecaries, and proprietors of fruit and peanut stands, to sell those articles as on other days of the week.—The American Bell Telephone Company have been experimenting in conversation between Boston and New York, over a number 12 copper wire, and with the aid of the ordinary telephone instruments, the faintest whisper can be heard.—The village of Scipio, near the Ohio and Indiana line, was wiped out by the tornado last Tuesday. Only two houses remain, and they are badly damaged.—The heaviest earthquake since 1868 was felt at San Francisco, last week. It lasted fifteen seconds, several buildings were damaged. A second, but lighter shock, was felt about an hour later.—Navigation has resumed from Rock Island south on the Mississippi. The Missouri is pouring out an immense volume of water and ice. At Vicksburg the Mississippi rose seven feet in one day, with fifty feet, ten inches water; nearly six feet above the highest water ever known.—Near Salem, Ohio, the boiler of a locomotive at full speed burst, blowing the engineer and fireman four hundred feet away, killing them instantly. Seven cars were wrecked, but no passengers seriously injured.—In Pennsylvania a family of starving Germans ate raw pork. After three weeks one is dead, and the others are dying from trichinosis.—A bill was introduced in congress to provide for the admission of the State of Cawawa, comprising the present Territory of Washington, and part of Idaho. The admission is not to take place before March 4th, 1885.—There are now ten crevasses in the levees on the west side of the Mississippi River, between Vicksburg and New Orleans, all pouring great volumes of water into the country, which these levees were intended to protect. The great Morganza is the largest of these crevasses, being now nearly a mile wide, with probably an average depth of ten feet, the water is going through like a millrace.—It is reported that Bogan Cash, the South Carolina duelist, is roaming around disguised as a negro.—The Senate has confirmed the nomination of Aaron A. Sargent as United States minister to Russia, in place of the late William M. Hunt. Mr. Sargent has heretofore been minister to Germany.—Several houses in New York and Chicago are reported as being especially devoted to gambling by the ladies. No gentlemen are admitted. Some of them are said to be furnished in the most luxurious style, and are patronized by the elite. Large sums are frequently lost and won.—M. O. Vanfleet, the County Treasurer of Huron, county, absconded last Saturday and has not been heard from since. His cash account is short from $50,000 to $60,000. His bondsmen are good for the amount taken. It is thought he is in Canada.—A dispatch from Columbus, Ohio, of March 5th, says: The information furnished by a coal operator, last night, that the strike of miners at Sunday Creek have been concluded, was incorrect. Every miner in the valley is now idle and the complete supply stopped from the quarter.—Thousands are crowding to and from Monte Carlo, the gambling headquarters of Europe. Some who rode in chariots as they went, come back to Nice on donkeys. Between Jan. 1 and Feb. 25, no less than eighteen came back on biers, the victims of sixteen suicides and two murders. Among the most reckless gamblers to be found in that heated, eager throng, are ladies, many of them representing the first families of Europe.

FOREIGN.—The famous Rosedale mines, in Yorkshire, England, which have been closed for a long time, have been let on a thirty-one years lease to a company, and are to be worked on a large scale. Valuable beds of jet have lately been discovered on the property.—The state of Mr. Gladstone's health is causing considerable anxiety, though the latest advices are to the effect that he is improving.—The reward of £1,000, offered last week by admiral Hewitt, for Osman Digna's head, excited general contempt. The British Secretary, the Marquis of Hartington, ordered it to be withdrawn in the most judicious manner possible.—A number of important Nihilist arrests have been made recently at Keif, Russia. It is rumored that the Degauffis are among them.—It is denounced that the French forces in Tonquin have captured the citadel of Thai Uguyen. The attention will now be directed to Hung-Hoo.—A petition has been received by the French Government from the Frenchmen of Reunion and Mauritius, urging that the present situation of affairs in Madagascar be terminated, as it is disastrous to French commerce. The petition advocates a French protectorate over the island.—In the German Reichstag, the bill appropriating 10,000,000 marks for the construction of torpedoes, passed second reading.—The claimants to the French throne, of the family of Maundorf, have brought suit against the Count of Paris and others, demanding that they show their right to the titles and estates.—The Pope is said to be growing uneasy at the Italian aggression, and to be contemplating making Malta his residence.

Home Reading.

Little Brown Acorn.

Little Brown Acorn swung on a tree,
While the leaves turn yellow and red,
"Many a day I have been here," said he,
"And so, as I'm tired as tired can be,
I think I will go to bed."

Little Brown Acorn let go his hold
Of the mother oak, old and grim,
Then down the mossy bank he rolled,
And though the earth was wet and cold,
It mattered not to him.

Little Brown Acorn hid under a gray
Mossed rock on the side of a hill.
I never have heard that he's gone away;
So should you look there there this very day,
I'm sure you will find him still.

Little Brown Acorn under the snow,
When the winter days are come,
While the winds blow high and the winds blow low,
While the morn'ngs dawn and the sunsets go,
Stays in his chosen home.

Little Brown Acorn naught will betell
Till the stormy months are o'er;
But when in the oaks the robins shall call,
He will lift up his head so green and so tall,
Little Brown Acorn no more.

—Mrs. M. E. C. Bates, in Youth's Companion.

SOMETHIN ABOUT SHIPS.

Sailing vessels carry either square sails or fore-and-aft-sails. A square-sail is one the head of which is "bent" or made fast to the jack-stay—an iron rod on a yard. Fore-and-aft sails, instead of being bent to yards, are mostly supplied with a boom or gaff, or both. The lower corners of square sails are called clews. The foresail and mainsail are often called the courses. Sail is seldom carried on the cross-jack (pronounced krojik) yard, the lowest yard on the mizzen-mast.

The courses, when "set," are kept down by means of ropes leading from the clews fore and aft, called tacks and sheets. Above the courses come the top sails; above the topsails the top-gallant sails; and next above, the royals. Some very large ships carry still loftier sails, called sky-sails.

Most merchant ships carry double topsails, one above the other, for greater ease in handling; but on the men-of-war, having large crews, single topsails are the rule.

The head-sails are those which the bow-sprit and the booms it supports carry forward. These are the foretop-mast stay sail, the jib and the flying jib. Large vessels carry even more head-sails. The spanker, or driver, as our merchantmen sometimes call it, is a fore-and-aft sail, and is the after sail of a ship or bark.

A compass being divided into thirty-two points sailors consider the horizon at sea as having an equal number of divisions, and speak of a ship as sailing within five or six points of the direction the wind is blowing from.

When the sails of a ship are filled with wind, they are said to be drawing or full. A good sailor is never so happy as when with a whole-sail breeze he sees all his canvas spread and drawing, and feels himself "off before it."—Harper's Young People.

ANNO DOMINI.

It is at once a sign of our civilization and a prophecy of the world's future, that in our business and social affairs we count our years from the year of Christ. It seems to mean little, when we date our newspapers and our letters from the year of our Lord; but, in reality, the sign is full of meaning. No man to-day thinks of setting up a chronology for himself; and so far he is compelled to acknowledge a higher standard than his own, and to date his own deeds in conformity with that standard. The Christian chronology is the marching music to which the world's real progress is keeping step. There is no Christian nation, however strong, which can fling aside that chronology, and count from its own standard only. France tried it, and failed. And in this general acceptance of the year of our Lord as the point from which to count our time, we have a type of what is to be, when not only in this, but in everything else, the nations of this world will recognize the littleness of the self-standard, and will reckon everything from the standard of Christ. The Bible teaches that at last all things will be summed up in Christ—both the things in the heavens and the things upon the earth—and to that testing of all things by the standard of Christ, we point, consciously or unconsciously, when we date our writings from the year of Christ.—S. S. Times.

"EMPTY HANDED."

All that shall be saved will be saved by the righteousness of Christ in whom they trust. They will all humbly and thankfully say, "Not by works of righteousness which we have done but according to his mercy he saved us, through Jesus Christ our Saviour." Gratefully will they acknowledge that their salvation is all of grace.

And yet not all will enter heaven with like approval. While all will share in the blessedness of that world, and be perfectly happy there, there will be different degrees of blessedness. As the lost will be punished according to their evil works, so the saved will be rewarded according to their good works. They will be rewarded according as they shall have been faithful to Christ. He that hath sown sparingly will reap also sparingly, and that hath sown bountifully will reap also bountifully. Some, alas, too many will go to heaven comparatively "empty handed." They began to serve Christ late in life, at the eleventh hour; and their reward will be for only a brief service, for a part, and not for a whole day's work. The parable of the laborers in the vineyard, rightly understood, does not teach to the contrary. Or although they began to serve Christ early in life, they have not served him faithfully. But little have they done for him. Small have been their sacrifices and self-denials for his sake. Few have been the sheaves that they have gathered into his garner. And corresponding will be their reward.

But others have toiled long and diligently. They early entered the service of Christ, and during a long life they were faithful unto death. Though they often became weary in his service they never became weary of it. Instead of desiring to be excused from its burdens, they wished they could do more for the Master. To them, with peculiar approbation, he will say, "Well done, good and faithful servants; enter ye into the service of your Lord." Great shall be their reward in heaven.—American Messenger.

A QUICK TEMPER.

What did I hear you say, Theodore? That you had a quick temper, but were soon over it; and that it was only a word and a blow with you sometimes, but you were always sorry as soon as it was over?

Ah, my boy, I'm afraid that was the way with Cain. People almost seem to pride themselves on having quick tempers, as though they were not things to be ashamed of, and fought against, and prayed over with tears. God's word does not take your view of it, for it says expressively that "He that is slow to anger is better than the mighty;" that "Better is he that ruleth his own spirit than he that taketh a city;" and "Anger resteth in the bosom of fools."

A man who carries a quick temper about with him is much like a man who rides a horse which has the trick of running away. You wouldn't care to own a runaway horse, would you?

When you feel the fierce spirit rising, do not speak until you can speak calmly, whatever may be the provocation. Words do lots of mischief. Resolve, as God helps you, that you will imitate our Savior, who was always gentle, and when he was reviled, reviled not again.—Child's World.

A GOOD WELCOME.

An old minister had advised the people of a certain neighborhood in Wales to hold "cottage prayer-meeting," taking the houses in regular order up the mountain-side. One day a poor woman went to a store and asked for two penny candles. The store-keeper said to her, "Why, Nancy, what do you want with penny candles? Is not rush-light good enough of you?" Her answer was, "O, yes, rush-light is good enough for me, but the prayer meeting is coming to my house, and I want to give the Lord Jesus a good welcome." Is there not a lesson here for each Christian? Are we always careful to "give the Lord Jesus a good welcome?" Or do we not too often keep the candles for self, and give the rush light to him?—Anonymous.

Is the Christian in trouble? Christ is peace. Is he tempted? Christ is strength. Is he afflicted? Christ is comfort. Is he perplexed? Christ is wisdom. Is he beset with sin. Christ is sanctification.

ALL OR NONE.

We had listened together to a solemn sermon—my young friend and I; and as we walked homeward I said to him:

"Why is it that you cannot be convinced and become a Christian?"

"O," he replied gaily, "I am convinced. There's nothing the matter with my head; the difficulty is with my heart. I don't want to be one—at least not yet. I have ambitious plans for life which it would be very bitter for me to forego, and I would have to forego them if I became a Christian."

"Why so?"

"Because it is not my nature to halve things. It must be all or none, with me. Now, if I become a Christian—I don't mean one of you mere professors, but an out-and-out follower of Christ—I could see no stopping-place between that and becoming a minister; and a minister I will not be! It would be to abandon the cherished ideas of a life-time. The traditions of my family lead me into politics, and there I must find my arena, not in the narrowness of the pulpit."

After some urgency on my part we separated, and this peculiar subject was never renewed between us again.

Years passed away, and the same friend and I met at a social gathering. After a little desultory talk he suddenly and somewhat bitterly turned to me:

"Do you know I am an utterly disappointed and thwarted man?"

I expressed my surprise.

"Yes," said he, "all paths in life seem closed to me. You know with what high hopes I began my career, which was to end in noble statesmanship. The fortunes of war soon put an end to that. Then I sought military distinction, and threw myself with all my soul into the terrible struggle. My health was utterly wrecked before I had seen one year of service. I turned, after the close of the war, to literature—my education at least remained to me; and that hope has collapsed, of late; and you see me now, a thwarted and broken-spirited man."

My thoughts went back to the deliberate choice that that brilliant mind had made on that well remembered Sabbath night. I wondered if my friend's did the same; if they did he gave no sign.

Only a few years went, and in silence and sorrow my friend went out of life into the great hereafter. Whether the heart that had so long held out, despite the conviction of the head, yielded at last, who dare say? If it did, he left no record of it.

AN OWL EIGHTY-THREE YEARS OLD.—An aged owl, the pet of a household on Middle street, Portsmouth, passed away yesterday, says an exchange, and was buried at night with distinguished honors, slow music, and the recitation of appropriate lines from the "Burial of Sir John Moore." Above the grave of the pet bird (which, by the way, was dubbed William) is the following inscription: "Sacred to the memory of William Owl, born Feb. 22, 1800; died Aug. 22, 1883." The owl came from Newbern, N. C., and it is said was actually eighty-three years old, having been handed down from family to family in Newbern and his history being accurately preserved.

"How do you like the squash pie, Alfred?" asked a young wife of her husband a few days after marriage. "Well, it is pretty good, but"—"But what? I suppose you started to say that it isn't as good as that which your mother makes." "Well, yes; I did intended to say that, but"—"Well, your mother made that pie, and sent it to me."

Our little Nell has a doll which she loves very dearly, and which she calls "Seraphina." While playing with it one day she accidentally pulled one of its feet off, and the sawdust began pouring out. In great consternation she ran to her mother exclaiming, "O, mamma, do look! Seraphina is a-leakin' Graham flour awfully!"

If the sense of the ridiculous is one side of an impressive nature, it is very well; but if that is all there is in a man, he had better have been an ape and stood at the head of his profession at once.

A Prominent Minister Writes.

Dr. Mosley—Dear Sir: After ten years of great suffering from indigestion or dyspepsia, with great nervous prostration and biliousness, disordered kidneys and constipation. I have been cured by four bottles of your Lemon Elixir, and am now a well man.

REV. C. C. DAVIS, Elder M. E. Church South.
No. 28 Taitall St. Atlanta, Ga.

From Two Prominent Ladies.

I have not been able in two years to walk or stand without suffering great pain. Since taking Dr. Mosley's Lemon Elixir, I can walk half mile without suffering the least inconvenience.

Mrs. R. H. BLOODWORTH, Griffin, Ga.

Dr. H. Mosley: After years of suffering from indigestion, great debility and nervous prostration, with the usual female irregularities and derangements accompanying such condition of a woman's health I have been permanently relieved by the use of your Lemon Elixir.

Mrs. E. DENNIS,
Mo. 46 Chapel St., Atlanta, Ga.

S. Pratt, druggist, Wright City, Missouri, writes: Lemon Elixir gives the greatest satisfaction. It has cured a case of chills and fever of four years standing.

Dr. Mosley's Lemon Elixir, prepared at his Drug Store, 114 Whitehall Street Atlanta, Ga.

It cures all biliousness, constipation, indigestion, headache, malarial, kidney disease, fever, chills, impurities of the blood, loss of appetite, debility and nervous prostration and all other diseases caused from diseased Liver and Kidneys.

Fifty cents for one pint bottle, one dollar for pint and a half bottle. Sold by druggist generally, and all wholesale druggist, Louisville, Ky.

Miscellaneous.

They that would not eat the forbidden fruit must not come near the forbidden tree.

Consumption in its early stages is readily cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery," though, if the lungs are wasted no medicine will effect a cure. No known remedy possesses such soothing and healing influence over all scrofulous, tuberculous, and pulmonary affections as the "Discovery." John Willis, of Elyria, Ohio, writes: "The 'Golden Medical Discovery' does positively cure consumption, as, after trying every other medicine in vain, this succeeded." Mr. Z. T. Phelps, of Guthbert, Ga., writes: "The 'Golden Medical Discovery' has cured my wife of bronchitis and incipient consumption. Sold by druggists.

Fools usually know best that which the wise despair of ever comprehending.—Marie Eschenbach.

Vigor, strength and health, all found in one bottle of Brown's Iron Bitters.

To indulge a consciousness of goodness is the way to lose it.—Shu-King (ancient sacred book of the Chinese.)

Dr. KLINE's Great Nerve Restorer is the marvel of the age for all Nerve Diseases. All fits stopped free. Send to 931 Arch Street, Philada, Pa.

SANITARIUM, Riverside, Cal. The dry climate cures. Nose, Throat, Lungs, full idea, 86p, route, cost free.

Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar overpowers the most troublesome cough.

Pike's Toothache Drops cure in one minute.

Glenn's Sulphur Soap cures skin diseases.

Catarrh Cured.

A Clergyman, after suffering a number of years from that dreadful disease Catarrh, and after trying every known remedy without success, at last found a prescription which completely cured and saved him from death. Any sufferer from this dreadful disease sending a self-addressed stamped envelope to Dr. J. A. LAWRENCE, Brooklyn, N. Y. will receive the recipe free of charge.

Devotion to the person of Christ that steers us clear of the doctrines and precepts of Christ is sentimental rhapsody.—Dr. Herrick Johnson.

Dyspepsia, liver complaint, and kindred affections. For treatise giving successful self-treatment address World's Dispensary Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

If we could read the secret history of our enemies, we should find in each man's life sorrow and suffering enough to disarm all hostility.—Drift-Wood.

Huntsville, Ala.—Dr. J. C. Spotswood, says: "I highly recommend Brown's Iron Bitters for dyspepsia, and general debility."

Every man who enjoys a blessing should be prompted to think of those who are without it, and try to help them. Each benefit is a responsibility.

Dr. Pierce's "Favority Prescription" is a most powerful restorative tonic, also combining the most valuable nerve properties, especially adapted to the wants of debilitated ladies suffering from weak back, inward fever, congestion, inflammation, or ulceration, or from nervousness or neuralgic pains. By druggists.

He that judges, without informing himself to the utmost that he is capable, cannot acquit himself of judging amiss.—Locke.

Tampico, Tenn.—Rev. D. F. Manly, says: "Brown's Iron Bitters relieved me of indigestion and nervousness after physicians failed."

Extract of Report from the Celebrated Physicians, Erasmus Wilson, of London, Eng.: "Several severe cases of incipient Consumption have come under my observation that have been cured by the timely use of Golden's Liquid Beef Tonic. (Remember the name, Golden's—take no other.) Of druggists.

For sufferers of Chronic Diseases, 36 pp, symptoms, remedies, helps, advice. Send stamp—Dr. Whittier, St. Louis, Mo., (oldest office.) State case your way.

AN ONLY DAUGHTER CURED OF CONSUMPTION.

When death was hourly expected, all remedies having failed, and Dr. H. James was experimenting with the many herbs of Calcutta, he accidentally made a preparation which cured his only child of Consumption. His child is now in this country, and enjoying the best of health. He has proved to the world that Consumption can be positively and permanently cured. The Doctor now gives this recipe free, only asking two 2-cent stamps to pay expenses. This Herb also cures Night Sweats, Nausea at the Stomach, and will break up a fresh cold in twenty-four hours. Address Craddock & Co., 1032 Race St., Philadelphia, naming this paper.

25 YEARS POULTRY YARD

108 Pages. It teaches you how to rear them to take care for them, to feed, to have them lay eggs in cold weather, to prevent and treat all diseases of old or young, to be a "successful" poultryman. Only 25c. in stamps. A Fifty-page book FREE FOR ALL with it. A. M. LANG, Core Dale Farm, Concord, Kr.

The GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER

Dr. Samuel Hodges' Alterative Compound Sarsaparilla with Iodide Potash. This compound is purely vegetable, each article of ingredient is perfectly harmless in itself, having been selected from roots and herbs possessing great medicinal properties, when combined forms a most powerful, efficient, and pleasant medicine for the removal and permanent cure of ALL diseases, arising from an impure state of system, viz.:

Rheumatism, Scrofula or King's evil, Scald-head or Tetter, Chronic Sore Eyes, Old or Chronic Sores of all kinds, Boils, Pimples, Syphilitic Rheumatism, Primary and Secondary Syphilis, Nervous Debility, Liver Complaints, Inflammation of the Kidneys and Bladder, renovates and invigorates the system; acts gently on the bowels. As an appetizer and for general debility, it is a most excellent remedy.

CAMPBELL BROS., Druggists, Sole Manufacturers.

For Sale by all druggist. Price $1.00 per bottle, or 6 for $5.00. Liberal discount to the trade.

ALSO MANUFACTURERS OF

ETHIOPIAN PILE OINTMENT

A never failing remedy for External, internal or Itching Piles. Ask your Druggist for it. None genuine without the Trade Mark. Price $1.00 per Bottle.

TESTIMONIAL.

This is to certify that I was afflicted with Piles for twenty years. I tried every Remedy offered me. Finally used the Ethiopian Pile Ointment, and found it the very best preparation I ever used. It will give almost immediate relief and will finally effect a permanent cure.

Ed. A. IRELAND

Formerly of Gallatin, now of Breen, Phillips & Co., Nashville, Tennessee.

CAMPBELL BROS., Druggists,
or, Broad and Summer Sts.,
NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE.

F. H. STICKLEY.

MRS. C. W. LEWIS

STICKLEY & LEWIS,

Having moved to our elegant store-room,

NO. 34 NORTH SUMMER STREET,

We will carry a large stock of fine Millinery and Fancy Goods, the light-running New Home Sewing Machines, Needles, Oil and Attachments for all machines. Fine imported German Canary Birds, good singers, $3 each. Bird Cages, Food and Tonic always on hand. Mrs. Lewis is also prepared to do Fashionable Dress Making, Dying Plumes, Cleaning Gloves and Stamping. Old Machines of any kind repaired or taken in part pay for the New Home.

BURRITT COLLEGE,

SPENCER, TENN.

THIS INSTITUTION, chartered in 1848, has now been favorably known for more than thirty years, for its discipline, both as regards education and government. Located on the Cumberland Plateau, it is free from epidemics. The water is pure freestone and chalybeate. The breezes of Summer are delightful and invigorating, and the gales of winter not too severe. The College buildings, recently enlarged by the Christian Brotherhood of Tennessee, are sufficiently commodious to accommodate a large class of young Ladies and Gentlemen. Spencer is ten miles South-east of Manchester & McMinnville Railroad.

TERMS:

Tuition, Primary Department, per S't'n,	$ 7 50	Tuition, Commercial Department per S't'n,	$20 00
Preparatory " "	15 00	Lessons instrumental Music from	$15 to $20
Collegiate, " "	20 00	" in Art Department from	2 50 to 10

Board and washing for males, per week, from $2.00 to $2.50; Fuel, light, and incidental expenses, per session, $10.00; Board (including washing, fuel, and light) for females, per week $3.00.

The Spring Session of 1884, begins on the Last Monday in February.

For further particulars address,

Prof. A. T. SEITZ, President,
Or W. H. SUTTON, Sec. Board Trustees.

Warner Bros. Celebrated Corset. This Corset has been before the public but three years, but it has already reached the largest sale ever attained by any corset. Its merits are best proven by the fact that more than forty imitations have been put upon the market to sell upon the reputation of the Corset.

Ask for Dr. Warner's Corset, and be sure the name "WARNER BROS." is on the box. We also make the following corsets boned with Corallo: Health, Model Moulded, Nursing, Flexible Hip, Abdominal and Misses.

Price from $1 up.

FOR SALE BY LEADING MERCHANTS EVERYWHERE.

Avoid all imitations. Be sure our name is on the box.

WARNER BROS.,

353 BROADWAY NEW YORK.

Peters' Eclectic Piano Instructor.

COMPILED BY W. C. PETERS, PRICE $3.25.

Among the great and successful Piano Methods of the day, "PETERS' ELEOTIC" has always held an honorable place. The sale of a QUARTER OF A MILLION COPIES is proof tangible of its worth, and of the favor with which it is regarded, especially in a large number of educational institutions, in which it has long been used. A practical, well graded and thorough book!

Dobson's Universal Banjo Instructor.

By H. C. and G. C. DOBSON, PRICE $1.00.

The Banjo is now a fashionable instrument, and the best ones are elegant enough to go anywhere. A good book, destined to be very popular. Contains Elements, 57 bright Reels, Jigs, Hornpipes, etc., and 21 Popular Songs, such as "Old Folks at Home," "Over the Garden Wall," the songs of Dave Brannham, etc.

Winner's Popular Ideal Method.

For Violin, For Guitar, For Piano, For Cornet, For Flute, For Saxophone, For Clarinet, For Banjo, For Flauto, For Fife, For Accordeon, For Boehm Flute.

Price of each Book 75 cts.

Immensely popular cheap instructions, with brief instructive course, and each with about one hundred neatly arranged popular airs for practice.

OLIVER DITSON & CO., BOSTON.
C. H. DITSON & CO., 867 Broadway, N. Y.

The Ministers' and Teachers' Bible.

This magnificent Parlor Bible is imported from London and is indorsed as "The Best" by the leading Bishops of England. In addition to the Old and New Testaments it contains a Concordance of Bible Words; 40,000 References with Context; An Encyclopedia, A Dictionary of Proper Names, with Pronunciation, 12 full page colored Maps, Poetry, Music, Ethnology, Plants, Animals, and Jewish sects of the Bible, etc. "Superior to all others."—Ex. Times. "A complete Biblical Encyclopedia."—London Times. This Bible is bound in French morocco, gilt edge, with silk book-mark, and has copious references. Rev. Ed. Milton, Norwalk, O., writes: "The Bible received to-day I am more than pleased." A Special Offer! To rapidly introduce this Bible in America we will, for a limited time only, send one copy, post-paid, to any address on receipt of only $2.00; 13 copies and one copy of Revised New Testament for $4.00; Other Bibles, with less matter, sell for $1.50. WANTED! Circulars FREE.
C. S. MAYO & CO., 160 LaSalle St., Chicago, Ill.

BEAUTIFUL FLOWERS

NEW CHOICE SEEDS! FRUITS!

All of the best, both new and old. Plants, Trees, Vines, Seeds, etc., by mail, a specialty. Satisfaction guaranteed. 60 choice, cheap, $1 Sets, for example:

12 ROSES 30 PACKETS CHOICE FLOWER SEEDS. $1.

For the other 53 $1 Sets and 1,001 things besides, send for our illustrated Catalogue of over 100 pages, free. None better nor more reliable. Established 30 yrs. 5000 acres. 21 large Greenhouses.
THE STORRS & HARRISON CO.
FAIRVIEW, LAKE COUNTY, OHIO

THE EASTER ANGELS

A BEAUTIFUL Easter Service

With Responsive Recitations and Music prepared expressly for it.

By GEO. F. ROOT and H. BUTTERWORTH.

The Responses are so arranged that they may be used by classes or individuals, thus giving additional variety and interest. The Service is arranged under the following heads:

First Subject, THE EASTER ANGELS; Second Subject, CHRIST COMFORTETH MANY; Third Subject, MIGHTY TO SAVE; Fourth Subject, PAUL'S TESTIMONY; Fifth Subject, ALL POWER IS GIVEN UNTO ME. Each Subject has appropriate music and readings.

Price, 5cts. Fifty cents per doz. by mail; $4.00 per 100 by express.

Published by JOHN CHURCH & CO., CINCINNATI, O.

CHICAGO: ROOT & SONS MUSIC CO. 300 Wabash Ave. NEW YORK: J. CHURCH & CO. 5 Union Square.

FOR SALE BY Booksellers and Music Dealers Generally.

SAMARITAN NERVINE
NEVER FAILS.

THE GREAT NERVE CONQUEROR

A SPECIFIC FOR Epilepsy, Spasms, Convulsions, Falling Sickness, St. Vitus Dance, Alcoholism, Opium Eating, Syphilis, Scrofula, Kings Evil, Ugly Blood Diseases, Dyspepsia, Nervousness, Sick Headache, Rheumatism, Nervous Weakness, Brain Worry, Blood Sores, Biliousness, Costiveness, Nervous Prostration, Kidney Troubles and Irregularities. $1.50.

Sample Testimonials.
"Samaritan Nerveine is doing wonders."
Dr. J. O. McLemore, Alexander City, Ala.
"I feel it my duty to recommend it."
Dr. D. F. Laughlin, Clyde, Kansas.
"It cured where physicians failed."
Rev. J. A. Edie, Beaver, Pa.

Correspondence freely answered. For testimonials and circulars send stamp.

The Dr. S. A. Richmond Med. Co., St. Joseph, Mo.
Sold by all Druggists. (17)

Sabbath Bells
FOR SUNDAY SCHOOLS
SOCIAL MEETINGS, ETC.

LATEST SONG BOOK OUT.

What people say of it:
"Unusually bright in stirring and joyful songs."
"A very superior book." "A grand work."
"Its songs are golden." "Never examined a better book."
"The quality of songs, together with its new and convenient arrangements, make it a most desirable work."
"An examination proves its superior merit."

It Speaks for Itself. All we ask of Sunday Schools needing new song books, is to send for a sample copy before adopting any other. Single copy 35c., or $3.50 per doz. Sample copy to any address, 25 cents. Printed both in round and character notes.
FIRESIDE FRIEND PUBLISHING CO., Springfield, Ohio.

McSHANE BELL FOUNDRY.

Manufacture those celebrated Chimes and Bells for CHURCHES, ACADEMIES &c. Price-list and circulars sent free.

HENRY McSHANE & CO., Baltimore, Md.

Baltimore Church Bells

Since 1844 celebrated for Superiority over others, are made only of Purest Bell Metal, (Copper and Tin.) Rotary Mountings, warranted satisfactory. For Prices, Circulars, &c., address BALTIMORE BELL FOUNDRY, J. REGESTER & SONS, Baltimore, Md.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY.

Bells of Pure Copper and Tin for Churches, Schools, Fire Alarms, Farms, etc. FULLY WARRANTED. Catalogue sent Free.

VANDUZEN & TIFT, Cincinnati, O.

CATARRH

To any suffering with Catarrh or Bronchitis who earnestly desire relief, I can furnish a means of Permanent and Positive Cure. A Home Treatment. No charge for consultation by mail. Valuable Treatise Free. Certificates from Doctors, Lawyers, Ministers, Business-men. Address Rev. T. P. CHILDS, Troy, Ohio.

AGENTS Wanted for handsome illustrated standard works of character; great variety; low in price; selling fast; needed everywhere; Liberal Terms.
Wm. Garretson & Co., 30 College St., Nashville, Tenn.

OPIMUM

and WHISKY HABITS cured at home without pain. Book of particulars sent Free.
B. M. WOOLLEY, M.D., Atlanta, Ga.

FITS STOPPED FREE
Marvellous success. Insane Persons Restored. DR. KLINE'S GREAT NERVE RESTORER for all BRAIN & NERVE DISEASES. Only sure cure for Fits, Epilepsy and Nerve Affections. Infallible if taken as directed. No Fits after first day's use. Treatise and $2 trial bottle free to Fit patients, they paying expressage. Send name, P. O. and express address to Dr. KLINE, 931 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa. Sole Principals & Agents.

BARNES'
Patent Foot and Steam Power Machinery. Complete outfit for Actual Work-shop Business. Lathes for Wood or Metal. Circular Saws, Scroll Saws, Formers, Mortisers, Tenoners, etc., etc. Machines on trial if desired. Descriptive Catalogue and Price List Free.
W. F. & JOHN BARNES,
No. 159 Ruby Street, Rockford, Ill.

CHAMPLIN'S LIQUID PEARL
"A STONE OF TRUTH" IS A JOY FOR EVER. FOR PREVENTING, RESTORING AND Beautifying the Complexion FOR REMOVING SUNBURN, TAN, FRECKLES, FURZES, BARTENDS, BLOTCHES, ETC. OPINIONS OF NOTED LADIES. LOTTA—It is the best preparation for the face that I ever used. I now use no other. CLARA LOUISE KELLOGG—It gives me pleasure to add my name to the list of those who recommend your "Liquid Pearl," and express the satisfaction it affords me. The LIQUID PEARL has been received by the ladies of all countries with the highest marks of appreciation. Only 50 cents a bottle, sold by all Druggists & Perfumers. CHAMPLIN & CO., 1000 N. 3rd St., St. Paul, Minn.

EGGLES' ELASTIC TRUSS
Has a Pad different from all others, is cup shape, with Self-Adjusting Ball in center, adapts itself to all positions of the body while the ball in the cup presses back the intestines just as a person does with the finger. With light pressure the Hernia is held securely day and night, and a radical cure certain. It is easy, durable and cheap. Sent by mail. Circulars free.
EGGLES' TRUSS CO., Chicago, Ill.

15 Pounds Gained in Three Weeks, and CURED OF CONSUMPTION.

Messrs. Craddock & Co., 1032 Race St., Philadelphia, Pa.

GENTLEMEN:—Please send me twelve bottles of DR. H. JAMES' CANNABIS INDICA, one each of Pills and Ointment, for a friend of mine who is not expected to live; and as your medicines cured me of Consumption some three years ago, I want him to try them. I gained fifteen pounds while taking three bottles, and I know it is just the thing for him.
Respectfully, J. V. HULD,
Lawrenceburg, Anderson Co., Ky.

The Great LIGHT.
FRINK'S Patent Reflectors give the Most Powerful, the Softest, Cheapest and the Best Light known for Churches, Stores, Show Windows, Parlors, Banks, Offices, Picture Galleries, Theatres, Depots, etc. New and elegant designs. Send size of room. Get circular and estimate. A liberal discount to churches and the trade.
L. F. FRINK, 351 Pearl St., N. Y.

AYER'S Ague Cure

IS WARRANTED to cure all cases of malarial disease, such as Fever and Ague, Intermittent or Chill Fever, Remittent Fever, Dumb Ague, Bilious Fever, and Liver Complaint. In case of failure, after due trial, dealers are authorized, by our circular of July 1st, 1882, to refund the money.

Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.
Sold by all Druggists.

SEEDS Our Annual Catalogue, Beautifully Engraved and Illustrated; Hints and Treatise on Southern and Northern VEGETABLES, TABLE GRASSES, SMALL GRAINS and FLOWERS.

MAILED FREE UPON APPLICATION.

E. M. SARGENT & CO.,

Seed Growers, Macon, Georgia.

THE COMPLETE HOME. Agents wanted for this beautiful book. New edition. New bindings. New illustrations from new designs. Superbly gotten up. Same low price. Adapted to all classes. Sells at sight. Agents doing big work. EXCELLENT TERMS. The handsomest prospectus ever issued. Apply now. WM. GARRETSON & CO., 30 College St., Nashville, Tenn. Also other grand new books and Bibles.

FOR the 7th edition "Life and Labors of C. H. Spurgeon," the greatest century. By Geo. C. Needham, the Evangelist. Endorsed by all denominations. The best selling Family book ever published. Agents are meeting with wonderful success. No competition. Any man or woman wanting a good business, address, for extra terms and special territory.

AGENTS WANTED

PILES

"Anakesis" gives instant relief, and is an infallible cure for Piles. Price $1, at druggists, or sent prepaid by mail. Sample free. Address: "ANAKESIS" Makers, Box 2416 New York.

AGENTS EITHER SEX, we have the newest, best and fastest selling articles out. No capital required. Goods paid for after sold. EMPIRE CO., 36 Canal St., N. Y.

AGENTS wanted. $5 a Day made selling our NEW HOUSEHOLD ARTICLES and PLATFORM FAMILY SCALE. Weighs up to 25 lbs. Price, $1-50. Domestic Scale Co., Cin. O.

CHEAP BOOTS AND SHOES!

We are now receiving our Fall Stock of Fine Custom-made Boots, Shoes, Hats and Trunks. Our prices will be found reasonable. Give us a call.

ALDRICH & HARRIS,

106 UNION ST., (bet. College and Market.)

NASHVILLE TENN.

WANTED HELP.
Entirely New. PROFITABLE. Outfit Free.
We want an AGENT in every locality. Something entirely new. Our Agents are sweeping the field wherever they go, and making money rapidly. Men, women, boys, girls, all do equally well. Will send you full outfit on receipt of 2 cent stamp. Don't delay. Address at once, S. S. PUBLISHING CO., Brownwood, Texas.

25 YEARS IN THE POULTRY YARD

108 Pages. It teaches you how to rear them to care for them, to feed, to have them lay eggs in cold weather, to prevent and treat all diseases of old or young, to be a "successful" poultry man. Only 25 cents in stamps. A Fifty-page book FREE FOR ALL with it.

A. M. LANG, Cove Dale Farm, Concord, Ky.

"THE BEST IS CHEAPEST."
ENGINES, THRESHERS SAW-MILLS, Horse Powers, Clover Hullers (Suited to all sections.) Write for FREE Pamphlet and Prices to The Aultman & Taylor Co., Mansfield, Ohio.

WANTED A WOMAN

of sense and energy for our business in her locality, middle-aged preferred. Salary $35 to $50. References exchanged. GAY BROS. & CO., 14 BARCLAY ST., NEW YORK.

PAYSON'S INDELIBLE INK
Is the BEST. No preparation. Used with any clean pen for marking any fabric. Popular for decorative work on linen. Received Centennial MEDAL & Diploma. Established 1850 years. Sold by all Druggists, Stationers & News Agents.

"THE BEST IS THE CHEAPEST."
SAW ENGINES, THRESHERS, MILLS, HORSE POWERS.

For all sections and purposes. Write for FREE Pamphlet and Prices to The Aultman & Taylor Co., Mansfield, Ohio.

2806 Lbs. Wght
OF TWO OHIO IMPROVED CHESTER HOGS. Send for description of this famous breed. Also for L. B. SILVER, CLEVELAND, O.

OPIMUM

Habit easily cured with CHLORIDE OF GOLD
LESLIE E. KEELEY, M.D., SURGEON, C. & A. H. H. DWIGHT, Illinois.

How to rear and manage poultry. Send a ten-cent piece to H. H. Stoddard, Hartford, Ct., for a copy of his Poultry World, and it will tell you.

WATER WHEEL
T'N ATTION INNOV LY D. LOVUNVM WHEELS
SEND FOR PAMPHLET.

SEEDS Our new catalogue, best published, Free to all. 1,500 varieties, 300 illustrations. You ought to have it. BARNES, MAULE & CO., Philadelphia, Pa.

PATENTS Hand-Book FREE.
R. S. & A. P. LACEY, Patent Att'ys, Washington, D. C.

OPIMUM Morphine Habit Cured in 10 to 20 Days. No Pay until Cured. J. L. STAPHERA, M. D., Lebanon, Ohio.

$72 A WEEK, $12 a day at home easily made. Costly Outfit free. Address Taus & Co., Augusta, Me.

$66 a week in your own town. Terms and $5 outfit free. Address H. HALLET & Co., Portland, Me.

ATTENTION, MERCHANTS!

REMOVAL! REMOVAL! REMOVAL!

As we have to vacate our present quarters previous to April 20, for the purpose of rebuilding, we offer our entire stock

REGARDLESS OF COST.

To cash buyers we offer special inducements. If you want to buy goods in our line at prices never heard of before, give us a call. We must reduce our stock before moving, and we won't stand on prices. We are compelled to move by April 20, so come early if you want bargains.

D. WEIL &amp; CO.,

Mention this Paper.

NASHVILLE, TENN.

CARPETS! CARPETS!

FROM

New York Bankrupt Sales.

MANLOVE &amp; CO.,

26 and 28 N. Summer Street,

Are now in receipt of an immense stock, recently bought at prices lower than ever before. Now is the time to buy Good Carpets cheap, and guaranteed to be as cheap as any Eastern market.

MANLOVE &amp; CO.,

26 and 28 N. Summer Street, - - NASHVILLE, TENN.

FIGUE, MANIER &amp; CO.,

WHOLESALE DEALERS IN

BOOTS AND SHOES,

NO. 40 SOUTH MARKET STREET, NASHVILLE, TENN.

We are receiving a very large stock of Spring and Summer goods that we have had manufactured expressly for us, which we think, with our long experience and facilities, we can offer inducements, equal to any market, to prompt and cash dealers. All goods warranted to be as represented.

GRATEFUL PRAISE

FOR SUNDAY-SCHOOLS.

By J. H. FILLMORE.

Grateful Praise is purely a Sunday-school music book—not a gospel-meeting book. Everything in it is fresh and light. Children will enjoy it. Its quality is first-class and not of a difficult grade. Examine it, and find your ideal.

Sample copy mailed for 25 cts. Price per doz. by express, $3.60; per doz. by mail, $4.

Address FILLMORE BROS., 185 Race St., Cincinnati, O.

[Order now, or preserve this, it may not appear again.]

OUR NEW AMERICAN LEVER WATCH!

ONLY $8.

After months of labor and experiment, we have at last brought to perfection a new watch. It is a Key Winding Watch with the Gold Anchor Lever Movement, Expansion Balance, Fully Jeweled. The case is made of the best material, and in the very best manner so as to insure perfect time-keeping qualities. The cases are made of Aluminum Gold. This metal has a sufficient amount of gold in it to give the watch a genuine gold appearance. It cannot be told from a genuine Gold Watch except by the best jeweler. They are finely engraved or engine turned and are massive and strong and very handsome making it just the watch for Railroad men, Mechanics, and all laboring men who require a good strong watch and an accurate timekeeper. For trading and speculative purposes, it is superior to any watch ever before offered. They can be sold readily for $15 and $20 each, and traded so as to double those amounts. Farmers as well as Agents can handle these watches to advantage, as they can be readily exchanged for stock or goods. We send the watch free by registered mail, on receipt of $8.00. Or we will send it C. O. D. on receipt of $1.00 on account; the balance can be paid at the express office. We also have very fine Aluminum Gold Chains at $1.00 each. Beautiful Medallion Charms 50 cents. We have hundreds of testimonials but have room for only a few.

WORLD MAN'G CO. Menlo Park, Cal. Jan. 3, 1894.
Gents:—The $8.00 Aluminum Gold Watch gives perfect satisfaction. I enclose $30.00 for 3 more watches balance to be C. O. D. Send at once. Respectfully Henry Brathwaite.

WORLD MAN'G CO. Gunnison, Col. Jan. 14, 1894.
Sirs:—Some months ago I purchased one of your $8.00 New American Lever Watches and I sold it for $25.00. Please send me another. Enclosed find cash. Yours, H. J. Green.

W. H. WHITE, Woodburn, Ky., July 23, 1893. Writes:—The two New American Lever Watches purchased from you received all right. Sold at once for $15 each.

SEND ALL ORDERS TO World Man'g Co., 122 Nassau Street, New York

It is seldom that we meet with an article that so fully corresponds with its advertised good qualities as does the New American Lever Watch. It has the advantage of being made of that precious metal Aluminum Gold; its works are of the best make, and the general style of the case rank it with the best Watches made anywhere. We recommend it to our readers as a Watch that will give entire satisfaction.

TRADE-MARKS, PRINTS, LABELS.

Send description of your Invention to Patent Lawyer and Solicitor, Washington, D. C.

COPYRIGHTS, DESIGNS, RE-ISSUES.

L. BINGHAM, Washington, D. C.

AGENTS OF OUR new war book, DEEDS OF DARING by Blue and Grey, is outselling all other books. Illustrated circular and terms free.

FORSHEE &amp; McMAKIN, Cincinnati, O.

DR. C. P. DUNCAN'S LIVER AND KIDNEY MEDICINE.

The great preventive and cure of all malarial diseases, and a sure cure for all forms of dyspepsia and indigestion; it acts directly upon the Liver and all the secretory glands of the stomach and bowels, it cures the disease by removing the cause from the system that produces or brings on the disease, hence it is unsurpassed for the cure of Constipation, sour stomach, heartburn, headache, and all those symptoms indicating the wants of a proper action of those glands situated in the stomach and bowels. Two or three bottles of Dr. Duncan's Liver and Kidney Medicine is positively recommended to relieve and cure any of the above diseases if taken as directed. Price 75 cents.

Cure for Croup!

Dr. Duncan's Cough Balsam is the best remedy known to the medical profession for the prompt and sure cure of Croup in children; it is pleasant and harmless. No mother should be without a bottle in their house. Price 50 cents.

Bad Colds and Sore Throats

Promptly cured with Dr. Duncan's Cough Balsam; is a sure cure for sore throats, coughs and colds. It is unsurpassed for WHOOPING COUGH, and all bronchial diseases in children.

Chapped Hands, Lips,

Sore Eyes, Piles, and all abrasions of the skin cured promptly with Duncan's Ointment.

DR. DUNCAN'S

BLOOD SYRUP,

the great alternative, will remove any and all impurities from the blood, and cure all eruptions of the Skin. For Scrofula it never fails to cure.

CHILDREN CRY FOR

DUNCAN'S WORM SYRUP.

It is sure, safe, pleasant and cheap. Try it.

CONSUMPTION

Positively Cured. No Humbug.

By the use of Dr. J. LAWSON'S PULMONARY POWDERS, a FREE TRIAL BOX of which will be sent to all sufferers POST PAID, with treatise and full directions for their use.

Hundreds and thousands have been cured by their use.

Large Box $3.00, two boxes $1.00.

Address,

PHILIP HENRY,

49 South St., New York City.

A PRIZE Sends six cents for postage, and receive free a costly box of goods which will help you to more money right away than anything else in this world. All of either sex, succeed from first hour. The broad road to fortune opens before the workers, absolutely sure. At once address TRUE & Co., Augusta, Maine.

Good Pay for Agents, $100 to $200 per mo., made selling our fine Books & Bibles. Write to J. C. McIndy & Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.

AGENTS WANTED for our new Religious book, the greatest success of the year. Send for illustrated circular if you want to make money. FORSHEE & McMAKIN, Cincinnati.

PENSIONS for any disability; also to Heirs. Send stamps for New Laws. COL. L. BINGHAM, Attorney, Washington, D. C.

IT PAYS to sell our Hand Rubber Stamps. Samples free. FOLJAMBE & Co., Cleveland, O.

Blessed Benefactors.

When a board of eminent physicians and Chemists announced that by combining some well-known valuable remedies the most wonderful medicine was produced, which would cure such a wide range of diseases that most all other remedies could be dispensed with, many were skeptical; but proof of its merits by actual trial has dispelled all doubt, and to-day the discoverers of that great medicine, Hop Bitters, are honored and blessed by all as benefactors. These Bitters are compounded from Hops, Buchu, Malt, Mandrake, Dandelion, and other oldest, best, and most valuable medicines in the world and contain all the best and most curative properties of all other medicines, being the greatest, Blood Purifier, Kidney and Liver Regulator, and Life and Health Restoring Agent on earth. No disease or ill-health can possibly long exist where these Bitters are used, so varied and perfect are their operations.

They give new life and vigor to the aged and infirm. To all whose employments cause irregularity of the bowels or urinary organs, or who require an Appetizer, Tonic and mild Stimulant, these Bitters are invaluable, being highly curative, tonic, and stimulating without intoxicating.

No matter what your feelings or symptoms are, what the disease or ailment is, use Hop Bitters. Don't wait until you get sick, but if you only feel bad or miserable, use the bitters at once. It may save your life. Hundreds have been saved by so doing. $500 will be paid for a case they will not cure or help.

Do not suffer yourself or let your friends suffer, but use and urge them to use Hop Bitters.

Remember, Hop Bitters is the purest and best medicine ever made; the "Invalid's Friend and Hope." No person or family should be without them.

"I was troubled for many years with serious Kidney and Liver Complaint, Gravel etc.; my blood became thin; I was dull and inactive: could hardly crawl about, and was an old worn-out man all over, and could get nothing to help me, until I got Hop Bitters, and now I am a boy again. My blood is pure, kidneys are all right, and I am as active as a man of 30, although I am 72"—FATHER.

"For ten years my wife was confined to her bed with such a complication of ailments that no doctor could tell what was the matter or cure her, and I used up a small fortune in humbug stuff. Six months ago I saw a U. S. flag with hop bitters on it, and I thought I would be a fool once more, and I tried it; but my folly proved to be wisdom, and two bottles cured her. She is now as well as any man's wife, and it cost me only $2.

H. W. —, Detroit, Mich.

MONARCH HORSE HOE AND CULTIVATOR COMBINED

For Hoeing & Hilling Potatoes, Corn, Onions, Beets, Cabbages, Turnips, &c. SENT ON 30 Days' TEST TRIAL.

An immense saving of labor and money. We guarantee a boy can cultivate and hoe and hill potatoes, corn, etc., 15 times as easy and fast as one man can the old way. Illustrated Catalogue FREE. AGENTS WANTED. Mention this paper. Address Monarch Mfg. Co., 206 State St., Chicago, Ill.

HILLMAN, BUFORD & JUSTI, NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE, SOLE AGENTS FOR THE Genuine Brown Walking Cultivator and Double-Shovel Plow,

Corn Shellers, Feed Cutters, Avery Chilled Plows, Road Scrapers, Fish Bros.
Wagons, Jacobs' Barrows,

IRON, STEEL, BLACKSMITH'S TOOLS, HARDWARE,

Call on or address

HILLMAN, BUFORD & JUSTI, 18 and 20 South Market Street, Nashville, Tenn.

A.C. & J.C. March.

SUCCESSORS TO

J. D MARCH & SONS

Manufacturers and Dealers in

SADDLERY, HARNESS, BRIDLES, COLLARS,

TRUNKS, BAGS, HAMES, VALISES, WHIPS, CHAINS, &c.

50 NORTH MARKET STREET
NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE.

Repairing Done at Short Notice

NASHVILLE, CHATTANOOGA & ST. LOUIS

RAILWAY.

BUSINESS MEN, TOURISTS, REMEMBER
EMIGRANTS, FAMILIES,

The Best Route to St. Louis and the West
via McKennie.

The Best Route to West Tennessee and Kentucky, Mississippi, Arkansas, and Texas points is
via McKennie.

The Best Route to the Summer Resorts and
Mountain Retreats of Tennessee, Virginia and the Carolinas, via McKennie and Nashville.

The Best Route to the celebrated Colleges, Universities, Seminaries and other Educational Institutions in the Southeast, via McKennie
and Nashville.

The Best Route to points in East Tennessee,
Virginia, the Carolinas, Georgia and Florida is via Chattanooga.

DON'T FORGET IT!

By this Line you secure the—

MAXIMUM OF SPEED, SAFETY,
COMFORT, SATISFACTION,

—AT THE—

MINIMUM OF EXPENSE, ANXIETY,
BOTHER, FATIGUE.

Be sure to Buy your Tickets over the

N., C & ST. L. RAILWAY!

If you are going to Washington City, Baltimore,
Philadelphia, or New York.

The Inexperienced Traveler need not go
amiss; few changes are necessary, and such as are unavoidable are made in union Depots.

THROUGH SLEEPERS!

—BETWEEN—

Nashville and Atlanta, and Atlanta and Jacksonville, Fla., Nashville and Martin (to connect with Sleeper service via Cairo to St. Louis and Chicago.)
Nashville and Columbus, Nashville and Memphis
(Sleeper Humboldt to Mobile, and Milau to New Orleans.) McKennie and Little Rock, and Little Rock and Texas points.

Call on or address

J. H. PEEBLES, T. A., Chattanooga, Tenn.

W. W. KNOX, T. A., Nashville, Tenn.

B. S. FINLEY, Ticket Agent, Memphis, Tenn.

A. B. WREN, Trav. A., Atlanta, Ga.

W. L. DANLEY, G. P. & T. A., Nashville, Tenn.

Mars Hill College.

With pleasure we lay before our readers the following extracts from the Fourteenth Annual Announcement of Mars Hill College, an institution perpetually wielding a wonderful and wide-spread influence for truth, refinement and righteousness.—EDITORS.

POSITIONS PROCURED FOR OUR PUPILS.

We make a specialty of preparing pupils for

(1.) PREACHING; (2.) TEACHING; (3.) PREACHING and TEACHING.

Many educated here—among whom are successful lawyers, physicians, merchants, salesmen, mechanics, farmers, editors, authors, teachers and preachers—have so dedicated themselves, that the humility, fidelity, integrity, accuracy and ability of "Mars Hill students" have become proverbial. There is, consequently, such a demand for the services of our pupils, that we deem it perfectly safe to promise to procure pleasant, profitable and honorable positions for all who qualify themselves here for usefulness. Indeed, for several years we have been able to fill comparatively few of the positions tendered.

HEALTHFULNESS!

Mars Hill as a Health Resort.

Our school was founded in 1870. All the "doctor bills," for services rendered our pupils, from then till now, do not, we think, amount to twenty-five dollars—probably not to one dollar a year. Those who have come here pale and puny, from malarial districts, have, without an exception, we believe, returned to their homes enjoying health.

What "Watering Place," or "Health Resort," then, can justly claim more, as a health-
preserver and health-restorer, than Mars Hill? Address,

T. B. LARIMORE, President.

FLORENCE, ALABAMA

W. A. LANNOM,

The Cash Clothier,

18 PUBLIC SQUARE, NASHVILLE, TENN.,

Has received his large and elegant stock of Spring and Summer clothing, Gents' Furnishing Goods and Hats, which is full and complete in every respect; and for quantity, quality, style, fit and price, we stand far ahead of all competition. An inspection of our large stock and low prices, will fully prove what we claim. Bear in mind, we sell strictly for cash, which enables us to offer the greatest inducements.

CAPITOL PLANING MILL,

Corner Line and Vine Streets, near Northwest Corner Capitol Grounds,

NASHVILLE, TENN.

J. W. McCULLOUGH,

Manufacturer and Dealer in

FRAMES, SASH, DOORS, BLINDS,

Scroll Sawing, Dressed Flooring, Weatherboarding and Ceiling.

Country Orders Solicited, and Promptly Attended To.

JUST OUT!

"Our Orthodoxy in the Civil Courts,"

A full proceeding in the Circuit Court in Noble county, Indiana, in the trial of our ortho-doxy. Everybody should read this interesting book. Send at once. Paper, 50c; cloth, $1.00.

JAMES F. & HARRY LIPSCOMB,

28 Union Street,

Nashville, Tennessee.

BOILER REPAIRS.

Thos. S. Simpson, William Chatham,
79 South College St., Nashville, Tenn.,

Are prepared to do all kinds of repairing of Boilers, Tanks, etc., at very reasonable rates. We have had 30 years practical experience in the business, and ask a share of the public patronage. We guarantee good work.

WHEN YOU WANT

WRITING DESKS,
Photograph Albums,
AUTOGRAPH ALBUMS,

GOLD PENS, PENCILS,
PORT-MONNIES,
CARD CASES, Etc.

OR ANYTHING IN THE WAY OF

Staple and Fancy Stationery

Call upon us. We can suit you in

VARIETY, QUALITY, AND PRICE.

A. B. Payne & Co.,

61 UNION STREET.

Orders by Mail receive Prompt Attention.

B. S. RHEA & SON,

PROPRIETORS RHEA'S ELEVATOR,

AND DEALERS IN

Grain, Hay, Flour

AND BURLAP SACKS,

No 32 South Market Street,

NASHVILLE, TENN.

(Correspondence Solicited.)

C. F. HUDSON.

S. G. STRATTON.

C. F. HUDSON & CO.,

Merchant Tailors & Clothiers,

EAST SIDE PUBLIC SQUARE,

LEBANON, TENN.,

Are now receiving one of the largest, best and best stock of clothing and piece goods, ever offered to the public. We are agents for the Charlotte, Va., woolen goods, which cannot be surpassed for beauty and durability.

Examine our goods. We will save you

SOME OF THE

THINGS WE BUY TO SELL.

CHINA GLASS ALL OF ITS GRADES, OF EVERY DESCRIPTION,

WARE OF ALL KINDS,

Brass Lamps, Hall Lamps,
Stoves, Lamps, Chandeliers,

Knives, Forks, Spoons, Waiters,
Tea Trays,

Looking-Glasses, Ice Cutting
Machines,

Eureka Coffee and Teapots,
Castors,

And a great variety of housekeeping goods
too numerous to mention, all of which we offer at reasonable rates. Call and see us, or send your orders to

HICKS, HOUSTON & CO.,

51 N. College & 54 N. Market Sts.,

NASHVILLE, TENN.

THE GOSPEL ADVOCATE.

VOLUME XXVI,
NUMBER 15.

NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE, APRIL 9, 1884.

{ $2.00 YEARLY IN ADVANCE.
POSTAGE PREPAID. }

EDITORS:

D. LIPSCOMB,

E. G. SEWELL.

Almost Sundown.

I am looking over my labors
By the light of the setting sun;
For I see by the lengthening shadows
That my day is nearly done.
My work for the blessed Master
Is drawing toward its close;
Far less have I done in the vineyard,
Than I hoped when the morning rose.
And yet, while the daylight lingers,
I will work as well as I may.
Nor waste the remaining moments
Regretting a misspent day.
And oh, if now in the vineyard
Are any led there by my hand,
I give you this word at our parting,
As near to the gateway I stand.
Do all you can for the Master;
Do better than I have done;
And then, when the day is ended,
You may welcome the setting sun.

THE MIND OF CHRIST.

"Let this mind be in you, which was also in Christ Jesus; who being in the form of God, thought it not robbery to be equal with God; but made himself of no reputation, and took upon him the form of a servant, and was made in the likeness of men: and being found in fashion as a man, he humbled himself, and became obedient unto death, even the death of the cross." Phil. 2: 5-8.

The mind rules the action of the body. If the mind be right, the action of the body will be right. But if the mind be wrong, the actions of the body will be wrong; hence the importance of a correct heart, a correct mind. While the words heart and mind do not mean just precisely the same thing, yet the word heart is frequently used in the New Testament to signify the mind, that power in man which thinks. From the heart thoughts proceed. Men reason in their hearts, muse in the heart, understand in their hearts, the words of God are sown in the heart. From these, and many other similar expressions in the New Testament, it is plain that the word heart often means the mind, while the word mind in many cases means about the same as the word heart; that is, the two words are often so used as to mean the same thing in the Scriptures. Both words are many times used in the Bible, and sometimes both are used in the same sentence, as meaning the same. So to have the mind of Christ is to have a right mind, a right heart. To have the mind of Christ, we must understand what sort of a mind Christ had, and to cultivate the same in ourselves.

One of the most important studies for the Christian is to study the mind of Christ as indicated by the actions of his life. His thoughts were all pure. He never had an evil thought. All his thoughts, his purposes, his aspirations were pure. The leading trait in the mind of Christ was the disposition to do his Father's will, to obey in all things what his Father required. He never disobeyed in any matter, never in anything manifested the least disposition to disobey. Even when death was at the very door, and he was praying that the cup might pass from him, he said in all fullness, "not my will but thine be done." Even when he was but twelve years old, he felt that he must be about his Father's business. And when he went to John to be baptized of him in Jordan, it was to do his Father's will. He said "thus it becometh us to fulfill all righteousness." To fulfill righteousness is to do right. To do right is to do the will of God. The word, the will of God is the only standard of right. Wherefore when Jesus used the above language to John, he included himself, meaning "it is becoming for me to fulfill all righteousness," to do all my Father's will. It was therefore a part of the will of God that Christ himself should be baptized, and his mind was to fulfill it, and so he did. And yet poor, frail, sinful men in these days often refuse to submit to this part of the will of God, although positively commanded to do so in his word:

Men now claim they can do the will of God so far as to become Christians, and even go to heaven, without ever submitting to the ordinance of baptism at all. Such men as those do not have the mind of Christ. If they did, they would not only be willing to be baptized, but like Jesus they would seek it, would be anxious about it, and would not rest until they had submitted to it. He went quite a long distance, from Galilee to Jordan, perhaps forty miles, and demanded baptism at the hands of John, that he might do his Father's will. But many now are so indifferent about doing the Father's will that they cannot be induced to submit to it. No man has sufficient of the mind of Christ to become a Christian, who refuses to be baptized. Those who refuse to be baptized and yet claim to have the mind of Christ, deceive themselves, and do not the truth. Jesus said, "My meat is to do the will of him that sent me." John iv: 34. Again he said "I seek not mine own will, but the will of him that sent me." John v: 30. "For I came down from heaven, not to do mine own will, but the will of him that sent me." John vi: 38. The whole life therefore of the Son of God was one continued chain of obedience, from his baptism to his death.

And for any man to claim to be a Christian, a follower of Christ, and not cultivate by day and by night a disposition to obey the entire will of God, is to make a false claim, is to deceive himself. Christ tells us who are kindred to him. On a certain occasion when he was in a house, surrounded by a multitude of people, some one said to him, thy mother and thy brethren without, seek thee. And he said, "who is my mother, or my brethren? And he looked around about on them that sat about him and said. Behold my mother and my brethren; for whosoever shall do the will of God, the same is my brother, and my sister, and my mother." Mark iii: 33-35. Those therefore who are ready, willing, and even anxious to do the will of God in all things, and who are constantly striving to do that will, may scripturally claim to be of the family of God, and of Christ. But those who are contentious, and do some things because they think them essential, and leave undone other things because they think they are not essential, can make no such claim. Jesus said, "Not every one that saith unto me Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven, but he that doeth the will of my father which is in heaven."

In order that we may be always ready to do the will of the heavenly father, we must constantly cultivate in our hearts the disposition, yes, the desire to do that will. Christ had this always in mind. The tempter never could strike him off his guard. Wherever he went, whatever he did, and whatever the surroundings, he was always fully awake to his Father's will. He never needed to be checked up from what he was doing, nor to be urged on to do what he was not inclined to do. Indeed this made up the grand beauty of his life, the grandeur of his whole earthly being. It is not possible for us to conceive of a life more thoroughly lovely and perfect than that of the Son of God while on this earth. And now the command comes from God to all his children, "Let this mind be in you, which was also in Christ Jesus." We should study the life of Christ, meditate upon it, and treasure up in our own hearts the mind, the spirit that actuated him in his mission of love. He obeyed not only when the thing to be done was pleasant, but submitted himself to most excruciating torture. Hence, it is said, he humbled himself unto death, even the death of the cross. And when he had thus accomplished to the full his obedience, God raised him from the dead, and exalted him at his own right hand, and gave him a name which is above every name, that to him every knee should bow and every tongue confess. The mind of Christ was to submit to suffering without murmur or complaint. We should cultivate in our hearts this same trait of mind.

Then again it was constantly in the mind of Christ to pray. He prayed often, and prayed long, even spending whole nights in prayer to his father. He also taught his disciples to pray. He gave them a form of prayer to be used every day. Prayer, earnest, devotional prayer, is part of the daily work of Christians. That this may be the case, we must daily cultivate the mind, the spirit of prayer in our hearts. Godly men have done this in all ages. Abraham, Elijah, Hezekiah, Daniel, and such like holy men of old, constantly cultivated the mind, the spirit of prayer. Paul abounded largely in prayers and supplications, and taught his brethren to do likewise. Like Paul, we should be ready always to bow our knees in prayer to God. And if we do not cultivate in our hearts the mind, the spirit of prayer, we are not likely to do much praying. And one item in the form of prayer given the disciples was, that the will of God should be done in earth as in heaven. Who is to do the will of God on earth? His people, most certainly. So then the prayer really means that Christians shall pray God to help them to do his will. Obedience is the one distinguishing characteristic of the Lord's people. It is this that distinguishes them from all others, and makes them a peculiar people. It is doing the will of God that constitutes the narrow road, the narrow way that leads to heaven.

The pure, the pious and the good are those that cultivate the mind of Christ all along the journey of life, in all they say, and in all they do. These are they that become daily more like Christ in their whole lives, that give their hearts and lives to his service, and thus place themselves among the brothers, sisters, and mother of Christ. We may at a future time dwell more upon the different lines of obedience, into which the mind of Christ will always and infallibly lead his people.

E. G. S.

Use well the moment: what the hour brings for thy use is in thy power, and what thou best canst understand best claims the service of thy hand.—Goethe.

RE-BAPTISM—AGAIN.

SOME NOVEL IDEAS OF ITS MOST FORMIDABLE FOE, PARTIALLY EXAMINED.

Before taking up the points indicated in the caption, I will quote something that Bro. Lipscomb said in the last ADVOCATE. While these sayings of his are not specially relevant to my subject, they furnish me with a license to use plain language. Bro. Lipscomb says: "I see brethren frequently act in a way, when tempted, that I know is hypocrisy. Others probably see it in me. We see each other better than we see ourselves. I don't often tell them, as Paul told Peter. The reason is, I lack Paul's courage and love for them. They or I would get furious, while Peter took it kindly and calmly. The reason is, we claim to be a great deal better than Peter claimed to be. He was not hypocrite enough to hide and perpetuate his hypocrisy, so did not get mad when told of it. We are such hypocrites that we try to conceal our hypocrisy from ourselves; nurse and perpetuate it, by trying to hide it from the world." I have always had a high regard for Bro. Lipscomb, and this article of his has fully doubled my estimation of, and respect for him. In this article, he has, in my opinion, drawn a most life-like picture of man in the flesh, even as he is, under the blazing light of the 19th century. While the word hypocrisy may seem too broad and deep for the self-righteous, whose name is legion, it conveys no more nor less than could be found in the make-up of our people; one and all, more or less, if they could be passed through a perfect crucible.

I said that this article of Bro. Lipscomb's furnished me with license to use plain language towards him; not that I have been nursing wrath, resentment or any unkind feeling towards him. No, not in the least. God forbid that I should ever take advantage of any man's noble confession of his and portrayal of others' foibles, to vent personal spleen toward him, even if I felt it. But my opinion is, that I have discovered in this valiant veteran, just what he surmises may have been seen in him. As Bro. Lipscomb has said, I do not think one should wait to be free from fault before pointing out his brother's fault. If so, man henceforth would remain wrapped in his own transparent mantle, and his faults, though seen of all men, by the silence and deception of his associates, they would be hidden from him, and he would be blinded to all restraints by vain-glory.

I have thought that Bro. Lipscomb has given me a few unkind thrusts about the question of re-baptism and I have pouted at him a little; not, however, longer than a week at a time; because when the next ADVOCATE would come, and contain some grand and noble defense of his for the cause we both love, I would forget what my oversensitiveness had helped to construe into unkindness. I would then begin to make allowances for his sharp-shooting at those whom he thought, and who perhaps were, premature scribes or hypercritical novices. However, I restate that I now feel no unkindness, but am zealously affected in regard to a most defensible truth.

What I shall say in this that may savor of an improper spirit to those who want all roses and no thorns, bouquets of fiction rather than thorns of truth; those who can neither be candid themselves, nor excuse it in others, I hope will be received, as intended by others "more noble," as an effort on my part, to give Bro. Lipscomb a clearer view of his positions heretofore taken on the re-baptism subject. I think he has placed himself in some ridiculous attitudes, by trying to defend an unscriptural practice of "our brotherhood." I hope that his calm and better judgment will ultimately lead him out of his inconsistencies. Doubtless Bro. Lipscomb has many warm friends among that class who are towers of strength in "our brotherhood," proclaiming the glad tidings of "our plea," and who are with us on their sectarian baptism, and might perhaps alienate themselves from us, were he to accept the truth on this subject and use his power to enforce it. However this may be, he ought not to shrink from the duty that devolves upon every soldier of the cross, if he has seen it, and I think he has, even though it should revolutionize "our plea." Bro. Lipscomb has used the language of Ashdod so profusely in trying to dodge the truth, that I feel that it is right that I should show the turning and twisting ways he has sought. I do it in the hope of arresting him in his rapid flight toward Babylon, hoping that he may return to Jerusalem. I will now give Bro. Lipscomb's novel ideas. I characterize them novelties, because they cannot be learned from God's word, but are of the great book of novels, —the volume of imagination.

Novelty (1.) "It is not necessary to understand all about baptism—that is, that it is for the remission of sins." Novelty (2.) Remission of sins was not so prominently brought forward, except to those who were laboring under a deep sense of the guilt of some heinous crime. Novelty (3.) Those who were laboring under a deep sense of guilt and were anxious to free themselves from this guilt, were told by the Holy Spirit to quiet their fears; that their sins would be remitted. Novelty (4.) Baptism prevents future sins. Novelty (5.) Confession with the mouth is not antecedent to scriptural baptism. Novelty (6.) "I believe God, for Christ's sake, has pardoned my sins," made either before or after baptism, is a confession of faith in Christ. Novelty (7.) The real issue in the question of re-baptism is, whether or not Alexander Campbell was in the body of Christ.

To novelty (1.) I have to say that Peter told them at Pentecost what baptism was for, and had it not been necessary for them to understand what it was for, he would not have preached it. And right here, I want Bro. Lipscomb to see that if he is right, he nor any other man ought ever to preach or say in any way, that baptism is for the remission of sins. Yea, more. If he is right, it is a palpable sin to preach it, because it is not necessary that it should be understood; and the preaching of it will only serve to widen the cleft between us and "our brethren in the sects." Will he ever again be guilty of that which only arouses the partisan spirit of our Baptist brethren? Again, Paul said the Roman brethren had been freed by obeying from the heart. Could they have obeyed from the heart, unless they had understood with the heart? Those who may have become entangled in Bro. Lipscomb's net-work of "novelties," I ask to read carefully Matt. 13, and see how the heart must understand.

To novelty (2.) I apply Paul's language, viz.: "Nor thieves, nor covetous, nor drunkards, nor revilers, nor extortioners, shall inherit the kingdom of God. And such were some of you: but ye are washed, but ye are sanctified, but ye are justified in the name of the Lord Jesus, and by the Spirit of God." The sins that the apostles here enumerates, speak loudly against Bro. Lipscomb's theory. Again, were all of the Roman brethren that Paul said had been made free from sin by obeying from the heart that form of doctrine, hardened criminals? If not, Bro. Lipscomb should give up novelty 2.

Novelty (3.) This deserves to stand at the head of novelties. The idea that the Holy Spirit to quiet their fears, told them their sins would be remitted!! I am sorry that Bro. Lipscomb ever felt so hard pressed as to go thus extensively into the manufacturing business. Now, I thought that the Holy Spirit told them their sins would be remitted because it was the truth, and because they were to know the truth, which was to make them free. I thought the Holy Spirit told them this, because it was the "testimony of the Lord," making "wise the simple." Before leaving this novelty, I will call upon its inventor to testify against it. Hear him! "I do not believe that those baptized from motives purely selfish, are acceptably baptized." All that is necessary in order to ascertain whether or not he has condemned this novelty himself, is to determine whether or not it was selfish in these criminals to be so anxious to free themselves from their heinous crimes. How much more might be said about this novelty, I will leave to be determined by those who believe in speaking where the Bible speaks and being silent where it is silent.

To novelty (4.) I have to say, that I thought that past sins were forgiven under the first teaching, as given in the commission by Matthew, in which we find "Go teach all nations, baptizing them," etc., and that future sins were prevented by that second teaching mentioned in that commission, which says, "Teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you, etc." Read in same connection Rom. iii: 25 with its contextual surroundings. Without further notice of this novelty, I move that it be bequeathed by its inventor, to the most angular branch of the Calvinistic family.

Novelty (5) with which compare what Paul said was the faith he preached. (See Rom. x: 9-10.)—Remember Paul says, "Those things which ye have both learned and received and heard and seen in me, do, and the God of peace shall be with you." He again says: "Though we, or an angel from heaven, preach any other gospel unto you, than that which we have preached unto you, let him be accursed." Now, if Paul did preach confession, which he says he did,—and mark you, he says it was confession with the mouth—to leave it out now, in preaching, is to fall under the condemnation the apostle has here expressed. But Bro. Lipscomb says that Paul was writing to Christians when he said he preached confession with the mouth, and hence Bro. Lipscomb supposes that it was an admonition to those brethren to hold out firm, i. e., not to deny that they were followers of Christ to avoid persecution. Now, I think, if he will rub the mist from his glasses and give this scripture a careful reading, he will find that this confession that Paul preached, was antecedent to baptism. It was unto salvation. Paul was writing to these Roman brethren, as will be seen by reading the latter part of the ninth chapter, in connection with the tenth, about his anxiety for the salvation of his people, who had stumbled at Christ. Please read it carefully, all who have been, in the least, shaken by Bro. L.'s effort to remove this condition from the plan of the common salvation. He preached this faith in order to bring them to Christ; and hence as we come to Christ through baptism, this confession with the mouth is inevitably placed, by the apostle, antecedent to baptism, and woe unto the man who ruthlessly attempts to displace it!

Again, by reading carefully to the fourteenth verse of the tenth chapter of Romans, it will be seen that this confession was a part of that process of "calling on the name of the Lord." To call on the name of the Lord is to come to him through his appointments, as will be seen by the manner Peter used the same quotation on Pentecost. And whoever will take pains to read carefully the second chapter of Joel, from whom the apostles make this quotation, will see that the Lord was going to set up his name (or his authority) "in Mt. Zion and in Jerusalem." In Acts ii: 38, Peter tells how to "call on the name of the Lord." It is true that he here says nothing about confession, neither does he about faith; but, while salvation cannot depend on less than conditions named in any given place, it may, and does often, depend on more. Were not this true, salvation would depend on faith alone, as our Methodist friends say, or on faith and baptism, as in the commission by Mark.

Again, if Peter did not require confession, then Paul and Peter did not preach the same gospel; hence, one or both of these God-chosen apostles, are to "be accursed." Bro. Lipscomb, if the confession is of divine appointment, will you dare risk the responsibility of omitting it? If not divine, it is equally as dangerous to add it. Which do you think the safer course to pursue, with regard to confession with the mouth? We should make our salvation as sure as we can. The man who sometimes takes the confession, and at other times does not, is sometimes guilty of adding to, or taking from, the appointments of God. It is quite note-worthy that the first herculean effort that we have seen, to prize the confession out of the way, has been made by those who are wedded to sectarian baptism. It is well enough for those who are determined not to give up sectarian baptism, to devote themselves to this end; for if confession with the mouth is proven to be antecedent to baptism, away goes sectarian baptism. It seems that the question has assumed just this shape in Bro. Lipscomb's mind, too, and with all his courage and sagacity, he has flinched and chosen the more dangerous horn of the dilemma. But, my brother, this will not furnish relief, even were you to succeed in it. You must lay your dexterous hand upon another of God's appointments. Baptism for the remission of sins, which you have already arduously worked at, must be substituted by your "baptism to honor God." In either case you will "cause divisions and offences contrary to the doctrine which we have learned." I do not believe you will continue to do this. Let me persuade you to give up your novelties, and "declare the whole counsel of God."

To novelty (6) compare Peter's language in Acts ii: 38, with "I believe that God, for Christ's sake, has pardoned my sins," and choose between the veracity of the spirit that spoke through Peter, and that spirit of man that originated and perpetuates this denial of Peter's words. Now, I will call on Bro. Lipscomb again, to testify against this novelty. It is proper that I should state that his language I propose to put in testimony here, was used when his mind was far from the subject of re-baptism. He was dulling Mr. Nichol's "Grub-Ax," when he used it. Hark!

"And as many as gladly received his word were baptized; the same day there were added unto them (the disciples) about three thousand souls." These persons were brought to repentance and remission of sins. They were brought there by the guidance of the Holy Spirit. The Spirit led them, not by entering directly into their hearts, but by addressing truths and testimonies to their minds, that they were capable of hearing, understanding, weighing, and obeying. He moved them, as one person moves another, by reasons addressed to the understanding, and motives addressed to the will. * * * Suppose one now should be anxious to find infallible guidance into the church of God, into the remission of sins. He looks around and finds this instruction given by the Spirit of God, directing these men into the church, and into the remission of sins. He concludes to follow the same directions. He hears the testimony in behalf of Jesus as the Son of God. He hears the exhortation, "Therefore know assuredly that that same Jesus is made both Lord and Christ." He believes it. He hears the Spirit still further say, "Repent and be baptized, every one of you, in the name of Jesus Christ, for the remission of sins." He does repent of his sins, and in obedience to the direction of the Spirit, is baptized for the remission of sins. Is he not brought into the remission of sins, and into the church of God, by following the same direction of the same Spirit that brought those on the day of Pentecost to the remission of their sins? Is he not led into it by the Spirit of God? Is he not born of the Spirit, of the water and the Spirit? If one refuses to believe; or, believing, refuses to repent; or, believing and repenting, refuses to be baptized in accordance with the direction of the divine Spirit, does he not refuse the guidance of the Spirit of God? Does he not refuse to be led by the Spirit of God? But only those who are led by the Spirit of God, are the sons of God. The Spirit of God leads men in but one pathway to God. Do not all who teach men to seek the remission of sins, in any other way than that given here by the Spirit of God, teach them to reject the guidance of the Spirit? To turn away from this direction is to refuse the Spirit as a guide." GOSPEL ADVOCATE, Vol. 25, No. 45, "Sequel to Grub-Ax Theology."

This witness has proven more than called upon to prove. I am sorry, because I have always heard that that which proves too much, proves nothing. This proves too much for Bro. Lipscomb's theory, but just what else it proves, will be left for his readers to say.

Lipscomb vs. Lipscomb ought to be valid testimony in this court; and as I promised to show the ADVOCATE readers that all who come to us from the sects ought to be re-baptized, read carefully this testimony, and listen to the best witness of all, in conclusion, viz, "No man can come to me, except the Father which hath sent me draw him, and I will raise him up at the last day. It is written in the prophets, And they shall be all taught of God. Every man, therefore, that hath heard and hath learned of the Father, cometh unto me," Jesus. A. MCGARY.

"OUR POSITION, OUR PLEA, ETC."

"Our Position" is the title of a well written and widely circulated tract. Its author is the far-famed editor of the Christian Standard. It sets forth, in an excellent way, the truth on several important subjects. But why call it "Our Position?" This title prevents some pushing its circulation. It seems unfortunate that this tract should thus be called. It sounds a little creed-like to some ears. It may seem presumptuous to thus refer to this tract, and mention should not be made of it, but for the fact that this expression, "our position," seems to be growing in favor with the Scribes. The only design of this article is to call attention to these things, if they are worthy of attention. In the Teacher's Mentor for March, on pages 37 and 38, the editor, in giving the views of several denominational papers on the conversions of Lydia and the jailer, closes by saying, "It is not necessary to present the disciple view of the matter, for that is well known to our readers." This looks like a contrast of "our view, or our opinion," with that of other men. It is putting "views" on an equality. This right to his opinion about secular matters every editor and every other man has. But views and opinions are to stand back when the Bible speaks. Why not say, the Bible teaches this or that? Certainly this can be done where the Bible is as plain as it is on these conversions. "Our view," or "our position," has an uncertain sound. It sounds just like "our position," sure enough. Should the sentence just quoted, read, "It is not necessary to give the Bible doctrine on this matter, etc., it would have a clearer ring. Here it is again. In the Old Path Guide of March 7th, one of the editors, in an article on "Union Meetings," spoils what would otherwise be a good thing, by the term "our plea." He uses the term several times, speaking also of "our special plea," "our distinctive plea," and "our grand plea." He also uses the expression, "converts made to us." We should expect "converts made to us," were we to preach "our position," "our views," "our plea, distinctive, special, and grand." Converts are made to what is preached. "Our plea" looks just like the offspring of such a union meeting as the brother so justly condemns. Let this good editor and brother condemn everything contrary to sound doctrine, but let him "hold fast the form of sound words." Preachers are copying after these scribes, and we hear from the pulpit nice sentences moved by "our plea." Let speech be kept pure. The Book is plain on conditions of salvation, and we can very stoutly and boldly say it teaches this, or it does not teach that. These converts will be made to Christ. E. A. ELAM.

NOT JOINED THE BAPTIST, BUT UNDER CONVICTION.—No. 2.

That is true; I am under conviction. First, I am convinced that the man that made the statement, did not believe it when he made it; yet he wanted it to go that way. Second, I am convinced that the Baptist people are wrong in doctrine, and are not willing to meet in debate, a representative man of the church of Christ. I have been convinced for twenty-five years that the Bible is the word of God; that it is the only perfect rule of faith and practice, the only source of spiritual light; that it teaches what the Savior did for man while on earth; that he was raised from the dead, that he was seated at the right hand of God, and made both Lord and Christ, and that all power in heaven and earth was given to him; that he commissioned the apostles, and that he gave them the Holy Spirit to guide them into all truth, and to bring all things to their remembrance that he had said unto them. The Savior said, (John 16,) "I will send you another comforter, that he may abide with you forever; and when he is come, he will reprove the world of sin, of righteousness, and of judgment," and "that he should not speak of himself, but what he shall hear, that shall he speak." The Spirit did come, and took its abode in the apostles, and they spake as it gave them utterance. Hence the words spoken by the apostles, were the words of the Holy Spirit. When a man was reproved by them, it was by the Spirit. When a man was convinced by them, it was by the Spirit, through them. When the apostle Peter, on the day of Pentecost, stood up with the eleven and lifted up his voice, he spake as the Spirit gave him utterance. The preaching that he did was by the Spirit. The people that heard Peter believed. They were cut to the heart; cut by the Spirit, with the word, which is the sword of the Spirit. They were convicted by the Spirit, and said unto Peter and the rest of the apostles, "Men and brethren, what shall we do?" Then Peter said unto them, "Repent and be baptized, every one of you, in the name of Jesus Christ, for the remission of sins, and you shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost; for the promise is to you and your children, and to all that are afar off, even as many as the Lord our God shall call." They that gladly received his word or the word of the Spirit were baptized. When they were baptized, they put on Christ. (Gal. iii: 27.) When they put him on, they received the remission of sins; for Paul says, (Eph. i: 7; Col. i: 14,) "in whom we have redemption through his blood, the forgiveness of sins." They have now come to the promise; they are now in Christ, in his body—the church; they are now the seed of Abraham. But were they pardoned before they came into Christ? If they were, then Paul was mistaken; for he tells us that redemption is in Christ. If they had received the remission of sins, the Spirit, through Peter, made a grand mistake.

If remission of sins was in Christ, through his blood, and man had to be baptized, then to put on Christ we must do the same thing yet. And the man that depends on dreams, feelings, and imagination, has left the teachings of the Holy Spirit, and, I fear, will be badly disappointed when the secrets of all hearts shall be made known. When men come into Christ's body, the church, they have enlisted under Christ, the captain of our salvation, and should not conclude that they can do as they please, or establish their own order of worship. That was done through the apostles. We are taught (Acts ii: 42) that they (the first Christians) continued steadfastly in the apostles' doctrine, in fellowship, in breaking of bread, and in prayers.

We have shown that the apostles taught by the Holy Spirit that the word doctrine simply means teaching; and as the apostles taught by the Holy Spirit, the people continued in the teaching of the Holy Spirit. We have the same teaching to-day. Shall we take some strange sensation of feeling in the place of the plain words of the Spirit? The Spirit taught them how to come into Christ; but did the Spirit ever teach any man, through the apostles, how to become a Baptist, Methodist, or any other sect? It did not. No man was following the teaching of the Spirit when he became a Baptist, or other sect. The man that teaches these things is not following the doctrine of Christ. He is in rebellion to the teaching of the Holy Spirit. They continued in fellowship; they used their means to carry on the work of the Lord. If we follow the apostles' teaching, we must do the same thing to-day; but if we fail to follow the teaching of the Holy Spirit, we are not the sons of God. Paul says, (Rom. viii: 14,) "For as many as are led by the Spirit of God, they are the sons of God." They continued in breaking bread when? On the first day of the week. What week? The first, second, third, or fourth week in the month; or the third, sixth, or ninth month of the year. No, that teaching came from man that has left the teaching of the Spirit, and wants the teaching of men. The Christians that continued in the apostles' doctrine met on the first day of every week to commemorate the death of their crucified and risen Savior. The people that follow the teaching of the Spirit do the same thing yet. They continued in prayer. Christians should continue to pray.

Christians should teach their children the word of the Lord, and not some men's opinions of the word. They should teach their neighbors both by precept and example. They should send the gospel, in its purity and simplicity, to the world. Paul says, (Titus ii: 11,) "For the grace of God that bringeth salvation hath appeared to all men, teaching us that denying ungodliness and worldly lusts, we should live soberly, righteously, and godly, in this present world."

These are some of the things that I am convinced of, and fully assured that the Lord has taught, and that the salvation of the world is suspended on hearing, believing, and obeying the teaching of the Holy Spirit, through the apostles and prophets. But a conviction and confession of these things does not make a Baptist, or bring a man into the Baptist church. I am thoroughly convinced that it is the duty of all lovers of the Lord, to lay aside all the doctrines and commandments of men, and take the word of God as the only rule of faith and practice. This, by the help of God, I shall try to do as long as I live in this world. I am convinced of one other fact, and that is, that it is easier for some men to talk behind a Christian's back, than to meet him face to face. For these reasons, and many others, I have not joined the Baptists. E. A. LAND.

TEXAS WORK AND WORKERS.

CONDUCTED BY JOHN T. POE, LONGVIEW, TEXAS,
TO WHOM ALL CORRESPONDENCE RELATING TO
THIS DEPARTMENT MUST BE ADDRESSED.

The Texas Baptist Herald gives the following experience related to the Baptist church at Eutopia, by a Campbellite professor of the Normal school at that place. Will you read it to your Campbellite friends, and ask them if they have a better experience than this professor had before he professed regeneration of heart in that Baptist meeting.

"I suppose no one ever more sincerely believed himself a suitable subject for baptism than I did when I sought baptism for the remission of my sins. I heard the President of the college, and nearly all the people whose piety was above suspicion in my esteem call the Campbellites 'the Christian church,' until I regarded them pre-eminently so, and for that reason determined to make them my religious instructors. They said my faith was right, and my repentance proved it, of which, in my natural blindness, I could not detect the delusiveness. So the preacher took my confession and immersed me in the belief that baptism was the final condition on which my forgiveness depended. I readily accepted it as true that as pardon is an act passed in heaven I could have no knowledge of its passage except to believe the testimony on which I acted. I had no doubt of its passage, and was as happy as that confidence tended to make me. I confess I loved prayer, and other Christian exercises no more after than before baptism. Under the sermon on Barthelemy, my views of self repentance and faith were radically revolutionized. I never before knew myself as a sinner. What I professed for faith was no kin to it. What I accepted as repentance was only a dread of punishment, with an unabated love of sin. My sinfulness gave no trouble, nor did prayer give me any pleasure. I now look on the system as fearfully delusive, and wonder, in my soul, if one can be a true Christian, and at the same time, so indifferent to the fatal delusion of blinded souls, as to call that system 'The Christian church,' and its believers, Christians! I never believed in Jesus till yesterday about 3 p. m.; nor knew what repentance was till I lost my dread of punishment in a more distressing sense of ill-desert. Nor did I ever know what it was to love prayer and praise until I could say with the Psalmist, 'He hath taken my feet from the mire and the clay and hath put into my mouth a new song, etc.' I view with perfect horror the system which has so completely deluded me. I now have the great trouble that I have compassed sea and land to get my wife and children and two sons-in-law into the same delusion. I humbly ask membership with you in a more distressing sense of unworthiness than before yesterday I ever had, but in a joyful confidence that Christ is of God made unto me wisdom and righteousness. My soul now longs for the pleasure of an obedient life with a full assurance that my obedience is and always must be so imperfect as to need an infinite righteousness, not my own, to make it acceptable."

Will the reader ever call the Campbellite "The Christian church" again, and so aid in deceiving souls?—Tennessee Baptist.

This is about as near as the Baptists ever come to furnishing an argument against the Bible, and Bible Christians. The series of articles from which the above was clipped, by elder Graves, were published in the Texas Baptist Herald by some one signing himself "Deacon Ramsey." They have no foundation in fact, originated in the brain of a zealous sectarian, who had much rather be a Baptist than a Christian, and who cares more for "Baptist usage" than for the command of Christ, or precedent of apostles.

There is no Eutopia church, and no such personage as the Professor mentioned above, ever existed, except, perhaps, in the brain of the character mentioned. If so, we would be thankful to Deacon Ramsey, if he would give us his name. It is all imagination. No man, with sense enough to teach in a Normal school, would ever wilfully turn his back on Christ,—his word, and his church, for "Baptist usage," Baptist doctrine and church. But why should Baptists oppose our taking the Bible alone, as a rule of faith and action? Is it wrong to do this? It would seem so from the way they oppose us.

OUR BIBLE CLASS.

Alice R. Dewees joins the class and sends some answers already published—11 years old—welcome. Bro. Gotcher asks, "Is it well for the class to ask questions?" Yes, and if they are practical they will be published, if not, they can go to the waste basket. And see here! Don't send questions to Nashville; send them to J. T. Poe, Longview, Texas. Lilly D. Roberts, 12 years old, joins class. She asks this question, "What were the kings of Egypt called in Scripture?" Mildred Godwin's query is not practical. Now, I have a proposition to make to the class, it is this, That each one shall try to get one new scholar into the class, by getting them to subscribe for the ADVOCATE. Now can't we give the ADVOCATE a boom by each of us giving our attention to this matter for one week? Now let's see who can send up most subscribers for one week. ADVOCATE one year is two dollars, but if you can find any one who will give it to parties who are unable to pay for it, you may let them have it from now until first of next January for one dollar. Now, if you know of a poor widow who has no religious paper, see if you can't persuade some good brother or sister to give you one dollar to send the paper to them. Who will try? Better still, who will do this, and thus send light and blessing into homes unable to pay for it? One Bro. from Wilson County, Texas, sends one dollar for paper to a poor widow. Now up, and at work, let us do something for others.

Query: How many cases of conversion are recorded in Acts of apostles, and in how many cases is faith mentioned as a condition to pardon? How many repentance? How many confession? How many baptism? And why not all the conditions mentioned each time?

24. Who was in danger of being put to death after he had died?—[B. W. Lauderdale.

FOOT WASHING.

Please answer or explain the following in the ADVOCATE.

Jesus says, in St. John xiii: 14: "If I then, your Lord and Master, have washed your feet; ye also ought to wash one another's feet."—[E. M. Crawford, York, Ala., Feb. 19, 1884.

It was to teach a lesson of humility—to teach the disciples they should so love as to be willing to do anything necessary for each other.

Dear Bro. Poe: Please ask the brethren through the ADVOCATE to write to me and express their choice of place for holding the McGarvey Institute. The location is open. Bryan, Sherman, Bonham, Dallas, Ennis and Waco, all ask for it.—[C. McPherson, Waxahatchie, Texas.

"BE NOT OVERCOME OF EVIL"—No. 2.

"Know ye not, that to whom ye yield yourselves servants to obey, his servants ye are to whom ye obey; whether of sin unto death or of obedience unto righteousness." There are two masters as is clearly seen from this text. Sin and obedience, God and the devil, Christ and Satan, and man can take his choice. No one is to blame but himself if he prefers the wrong sovereign. Some complain that God made man so he could sin. If he had not made him thus he could not do right. No one censures the watch for not running, and they give it no credit for keeping good time. If you wish to see a man that cannot sin, visit the place where gorillas, monkeys, ourang-outangs, chimpanzees and other "men of the words" are kept and then they are found. It is in the power of men to act a noble part, that the superiority of man shows itself. It is in the grand development of the good elements in man and the destroying the worse desires and proclivities in him that makes life full of interest. It is this that gives him character and makes heaven and earth admire him. "Ah, but this is the greatest difficulty in this world," said a man, after I had preached, not long since. Yes, but who wants to be doing little things all the days of his life? The dimensions of labors of life are measured by the difficulties attending their doing. It was a great thing for Columbus to discover America. Why? Because difficult. Then curbing one's passions, subduing one's revolting nature, must make the actor great indeed. God's people are all great. A man does you an injury, your first thought is to get even with the party; you would not object to paying him back in his own coin or a similar one, and adding compound interest. It is difficult to persuade yourself that you must not have revenge.

This is about the experience of every one. But listen to the orders from headquarters, "Be not overcome of evil." It is true that a man can take his choice and yield his members servants of righteousness or of sin unto death. It is his business to think well, decide prudently and act accordingly. I repeat this is what makes the man. Poor humanity is so weak, we should sympathize with one who fails. Notwithstanding, Peter had been with Christ several years and heard him speak such words of wisdom as "resist not the evil one" (that is when one does you wrong, do not do evil in return) "Rejoice and be exceeding glad when all men shall persecute you, say all manner of evil against you falsely, etc." "Blessed are the meek" blessed are the poor in spirit, and many other such passages looking in the same direction; he wanted the Lord to call down fire to burn up a certain people that did not do to his notion. That is not all, he drew his sword and impetuously severed a man's ear from his head. That was the man cropping out of Peter. Rather, I should have said, it was the animal showing itself, the lion, tiger, hyena, or some other beast of angry passions. See what a man under such good influence would do. I suppose we ought to have more sympathy for these that err. It seems when wronged that to return evil for evil, would give great pleasure. Men say "revenge is sweet," but how true the words of Milton:

"Revenge, at first though sweet, Bitter ere long back on itself recoils."

Christ knew what was best, and he gave us the law that will make us wise; happy and the most like heavenly beings. Though it require much guarding of one's self and denial of the natural proclivities, "Be not overcome of evil, but overcome evil with good." J. M. BARNES.

CORRESPONDENCE.

We, as a band of brethren, meet at Zion's rest regularly to partake of the emblems. We number about sixty, and the opening is good to add to the church and do good work, if we could only get a preacher. A large congregation gather to assist us in singing. Our members are scattered so that they can't all meet regularly; but the most of them are good, warm-hearted Christians, zealous of the truth. We are all poor and destitute of means, to pay a preacher a big salary to preach for us, to employ one for the year, and for that reason we can't get one. All that are in our hearing have their time all filled up. Some have left appointments, but have failed to fill them. We are surrounded with Methodists, Baptists, and Presbyterians, and we are opposed on every hand. We will willingly and gladly pay some good preacher all that is in our power, if he will preach for us once a month; or, if any brother is in the work of evangelizing, and will stop with us in his travels, we will do the best we can for him. If you know of one that is not employed in the work all the time, please send him to us, or mention through the ADVOCATE, that will come under the circumstances. Please do all you can for us. The prospect is splendid for some one to do a good work. R. L. HARWELL, Lester's Station, Tenn. E. L. DOWNS.

Rates of Advertising in Gospel Advocate.

One inch, one insertion.....	$ 60
One inch, one month.....	2 00
One inch, three months.....	5 00
One inch, six months.....	7 50
One inch, twelve months.....	12 50

A discount of 10 per cent. on these rates for order of $25.00; 20 per cent. for order of $50.00; 30 per cent. for order of $100.00.

Srygley and Rice Debate.

At Gladesville, a small town about thirteen miles south of Lebanon, on the 21st and 22nd of March, a debate was conducted by F. B. Srygley, our Wilson county evangelist, and Mr. Harvey Rice, of the M. E. Church. Mr. Rice lives near the village. "Infant sprinkling" was the topic discussed, Mr. Rice affirming. It is not necessary to give the arguments pro and con. The affirmative pursued the same old route: the Jewish church and Christ's church are the same; there were infants in the one, therefore there must be infants in the other; baptism came in the place of circumcision. Several Scriptures referring to the royal lineage and throne of David, such as Psalms lxxxix: 33-36, and Acts xv: 15-17, and the parables of the sheep-fold and olive tree, with some others, were quoted to prove the first affirmation. Christ's blessing little children, and Peter's declaration on Pentecost to the three thousand, "For the promise is unto you and your children," (Acts ii: 39,) were used to prove infant sprinkling. When the speaker quoted Acts ii: 39, he exclaimed, "Here you'll find children." Bro. Srygley clearly showed these Scriptures were misapplied; the reasons baptism did not come in the place of circumcision, the various and vast differences between the Jewish church and the church of Christ, and the pre-requisites to baptism which an infant could not have. He also made some affirmative arguments from different Scriptures in favor of the church of Christ being a new institution, which his opponent did not notice. The disputants departed themselves very gentlemanly, indeed, toward each other, and a general good feeling pervaded the whole audience. There was a large attendance both days, and I am satisfied good will be the result, for many carried Scripture references home to study at leisure. Many brethren and sisters were present, and seemed pleased with Bro. Srygley's use and application of the truth.

E. A. ELAM.

A Visit to McWhirtersville.

I preached Saturday night, Sunday and Sunday night, at McWhirtersville. It was my first visit there. We had good congregations, and fine attention, but no visible results. There are some good brethren and sisters in that little congregation, and I am sure their influence will be felt for good. Bro. L. R. Sewell visits them monthly, but they will not keep him at home all the time. They are looking for open doors in the surrounding country. This is as it should be. May the Lord bless their efforts. I never was more attached to any people in so short a time, as I was to the people of McWhirtersville. "They are just like home folks." May they receive from others the same kind, Christian courtesy they showed to me.

F. B. SRYGLEY.

They that would not eat the forbidden fruit must not come near the forbidden tree.

Preparing for Eternity.

Dr. Chalmers says that "from Baxter and Doddridge you carry away the impression that preparation for eternity should be the grand business of this life." True enough. The whole is greater than a part. This is only the beginning of life. Time is only a measured part of eternity, as the mile-stones show how far we have gone on a road, over which we are to keep on when we have no waymarks by which to measure our progress.

In every land of earth, and in every age of the world, every man who has become unfolded into pre-eminent manhood has passed through the noble ordeal of self sacrifice. He has renounced his own individual preferences in the interest of universal principles. He has been just in reverence for justice, true for truth's sake, and manly for the sake of that magnificent manhood which is so royal in its full grandeur as to seem to partake of the very majesty of God. In short, the way up into that eminent domain of character wherein eternal principles rule is a way of self-surrender for infinite good.

The lion is said to be the boldest in the storm. His roar, it is said, never sounds so loud as in the pauses of the thunder; and when the lightning flashes, brightest are the flashes of his cruel eye. Even so he, who goeth about as a roaring lion seeking whom he may devour, often seizes the hour of nature's greatest distress to assault us with his fiercest temptations. He tempted Job when he was bowed down with grief. He tempted Jesus when he was faint with hunger. He tempted Peter when he was weary with watching; and heart-broken with sorrow.—Dr. Guthrie.

A good example has been set by the Duke of Westminster in the matter of the burial of the dead. When his eldest son, Earl Grosvenor, died, the coffin in which he was placed was made of plain deal with a covering of black cloth and a simple name plate. Only the family accompanied the remains. How much wiser this than the prevailing practice of costly and ostentatious funerals; and how much more it partakes of the true spirit of our religion.

The beauty of holiness is a beauty that never fades. There is no decay from time, no deformity from over strain, and no loss of form or bloom from the burden and heat of the day. And it hath not yet attained, neither is already perfect. It doth not yet appear what it shall be. But it daily gravitates toward the great white light that is round the throne of God.

The loftier and purer a man's life is, the more likely are his minor faults to be brought into unpleasant prominence. No one would think of remarking the fact that the leopard has spots, but let a single spot become visible to the naked eye on the disk of the sun, and the whole world will be talking about it.

It is a great matter for young people to be trained in the school and in the home, in society, and in business, in scholarship and morals, to habits of exactness in thinking and speaking, in learning and doing.

AMERICAN NATIONAL BANK.

CASH CAPITAL,

$1,000,000.

Board of Directors.

E. W. Cole,
John G. Houston,
J. F. Demoville,
John Orr,
Byrd Douglass, Jr.,

John M. Lea,
J. Kirkman,
Rev. Dr. R. A. Young,
V. L. Kirkman,
R. L. Weakley,

A. W. Harris,
M. Burns,
T. A. Atchison,
W. G. Bush,
W. H. Jackson,

John Woodard
J. A. Pigue,
C. E. Hillman,
W. W. Berry,
Wm. Porter,
Edgar Jones.

This Bank has united with it the THIRD NATIONAL BANK of this city, and has increased its Capital Stock to $1,000,000. With increased facilities in every particular, it can confidently assert that it will offer superior advantages in all departments of Banking to its patrons and friends.

JOHN KIRKMAN, President,
A. W. HARRIS, Cashier,
E. W. COLE, Chairman Executive Committee.

EDGAR JONES, Vice-President,
JOHN M. LEA, Vice-President.

GOSPEL ADVOCATE

PRINTING AND PUBLISHING COMPANY,

JAMES F. &amp; HARRY LIPSCOMB, Managers,

98 Union Street,

Nashville, Tenn.

Letter Heads, Note Heads, Bill Heads, Statement Heads, Circulars, Catalogues, By-Laws, Bills Lading, Receipts, Coal Tickets, Milk Tickets, Tags, Business Cards, Visiting Cards, Horse Bills, Etc.

Good work at reasonable rates. Send for prices. Give us your orders and be pleased.

WE RESPECTFULLY CALL YOUR ATTENTION TO THE FOLLOWING EXCELLENT BOOKS KEPT BY US:

Popular Hymns, word edition.....	single copy 15 cts; per dozen, by express, $1 50; by mail, $1 70
Popular Hymns, Note edition, (Boards).....	single copy 30 cts; per dozen, by express, 3 00; by mail, 3 60
Popular Hymns, Note, (with rudiments).....	single copy 40 cts; per dozen, by express, 4 20; by mail, 4 80
Popular Hymns, Note edition, (cloth).....	single copy 40 cts; per dozen, by express, 4 00; by mail, 4 75
New Life (character notes).....	single copy 25 cts; per dozen, by express, 3 00; by mail, 4 00
Songs of Glory, numbers 1 and 2.....	single copy 35 cts; per dozen, by express, 3 00; by mail, 4 00
Life of Baccoon John Smith, (very readable), postpaid.....	2 00
Voice of Seven Thunders, (interesting, entertaining, and instructive), postpaid.....	1 50
Gospel Plan of salvation, by T. W. Brents, postpaid.....	2 00
Gospel Preacher, volumes 1 and 2, by Ben. Franklin, each, postpaid.....	2 00
Campbell and Owen Debate (splendid book for lawyers) postpaid.....	1 75
Dictionary of Bible, (complete), by Dr. Smith, postpaid.....	4 00, smaller 3 00
House-keeping in the Blue Grass, (splendid), postpaid.....	1 50
First Principles, by Isaac Errett, postpaid.....	15
Offerings to the Lord, by David Lipscomb, postpaid.....	10
Christian Experience, by Ben Franklin, postpaid.....	10
Review of Dr. T. O. Summers' Tract, by Isaac Errett, postpaid.....	10
Union Movement, by Ben Franklin, postpaid.....	10
Brown's Pocket Concordance to Bible, postpaid.....	50
Cruden's New Concordance (complete) postpaid.....	1 50
Bibles, Testaments, in all styles and bindings, at low rates.

We will furnish any Book published in United States at retail price. WE SOLICIT YOUR orders. We pay postage only. All kinds of Job Printing.

S. B. HOGAN.

J. S. HOPKINS.

HOGAN & HOPKINS,
BOOTS & SHOES,

HATS, TRUNKS, UMBRELLAS, ETC., ETC.

We have just received our Fall and Winter Stock, which has been purchased at the very lowest prices, and we are determined not to let any one sell good Boots or Shoes cheaper than we do. Come and see us, and we will do our best to please you.

20 Public Square,

Nashville, Tennessee.

SALESMEN.—Sam. R. Hopkins, L. D. Simmons, William Mayes,

TO MAKE ROOM

For our Plow business, we offer bargains in the Celebrated Mitchell Spring Wagons as follows:

- 1½-inch axle Platform Spring Wagon, two seats, and pole $90.00.
- 1½-inch axle Platform Spring Wagon, two seats and pole, $95.00.
- 1½-inch three spring Delivery Wagon, with shafts, $85.00.
- 1½-inch three spring Pleasure Wagon, two seats and shafts, $90.00.
- Two extra size bed, 1½ Platform Spring Wagon, suitable for drummer's hacks, at $100.00 each.

Above warranted for one year, and guaranteed in style, finish and durability; 10 per cent better than best shop made work.

DUDLEY BROS. &amp; LIPSCOMB,

Gen'l Agents Mitchell, Lewis &amp; Co.,

84 &amp; 86 Broad Street,

Nashville, Tenn.

PASCHALL, FALL &amp; CO.,

WHOLESALE

HARDWARE, Cutlery, Iron, WAGON MATERIAL, Etc.

FISHING TACKLE.

Nos. 57, 59 &amp; 61 S. Market St.,

NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE.

Our Prices are Very Low.

THE GOSPEL ADVOCATE.

NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE, APRIL 9, 1884.

CONTENTS:

Alford's Sundown.....	225
The Mind of Christ.....	225
No Baptism—Again.....	226, 227
Not Joined the Baptists, But Under Conviction.....	227
"Our Position," "Our Plea," Etc.....	227
Be Not Overcome of Evil—No. 2.....	228
Dependence.....	228
Bryley and Rice Debate.....	228
Visit to McWhitesville.....	229
ARTICLES.....	230
Art in the Family.....	230
New Publications.....	230
Mr. Graves and a Debate.....	231
Items.....	231
OBITUARIES.....	232
Jesus, the Great Teacher, Said, "Follow Me".....	232
History of Design of Baptism—No. 4.....	232
ITEMS, PERSONALS, ETC.....	235
GENERAL NEWS.....	235
KENTUCKY CONTRIBUTIONS & CORRESPONDENCE.
Bro. Harding's Rejoinder.....	234
A Review of Bro. Butler's Second Effort at Defence.....	234
TEXAS WORK AND WORKERS.
Our Bible Class.....	228
Foot Washing.....	228
HOME READING.
A Christian Mother.....	236
Children's Letters Answered.....	236
Letter to Uncle Minor.....	236
How to Get Along.....	236
A Good Welcome.....	236
Eternal Gain of Serving God.....	236

ART IN THE FAMILY.

In the name of art a vast amount of sensuality is introduced into Christian families. That the godless world should delight in pictures that excite the animal passions is not strange, but no sound-minded man can but be startled when he sees naked Venuses, Danaes, and Selenes in every variety of color and posture adorning a Christian parlor. Is the simple-minded mother astonished to find her growing sons are dissipated and alienated from home? Does she suppose the native propensities of youth are fire-proof in her children? Has she depended for safety on a purity which never yet resided in any young man's heart? It is doubtful whether a young woman can go through her youth, beholding lascivious pictures on every side, and preserve her soul in cleanliness; but that a young man can do it is a sheer impossibility. That there may be a style of nudity in statuary which is not provocative of base thoughts we will not deny; but what we see in the houses of Christians is not this. We see, on the contrary, everything that the cunning of French art can do to make vice attractive. It is but a step, and a short step, from this to full-orbed obscenity. And the young men of Christian families are taking this step in battalions. Their parents have systematically prepared them for it. They have sustained the fashionable cant about art, which comments with an air of superior breeding on nastiness, and breaks down all the modesty which should exist between the sexes. They go to see and praise, as a work of art, a figure that would have made the fortune of a Pompeian bagnio, and they chat at the dinner table, before their children, on the exquisite roundness of its limbs.

It is not strange that where such an education is given, that the young ladies should appear in the ball-room with bold exhibitions of their persons, and that young men should enjoy the waltz which enables them with the approval of parents, to encircle these young ladies with their arms, and come into close contact with their persons.

Nor is it strange that these same young ladies should devour Zola's novels, and then talk to their young beaux of their contents. Nor is it strange that headache and lassitude, and disordered nerves should prevail among a youth thus strained to nurse the sensual feelings.

Nor is it strange that unhappy marriages should multiply, and family peace be ruined, and social life be degraded from this prolific source of evil.

Let not any verdant reader suppose that this is a Quixotic attack on windmills. The condition of things here animadverted upon is the actual condition of fashionable circles in New York City, into which, alas! many Christian families are drawn from a false desire to "set up" their children in ways of affluence, or positions of influence. It is the danger to these Christian families which should cause the Christian pastor to sound an alarm, and it should be no uncertain one. He must speak plainly, or else be responsible for the spiritual wrecks about him.

That which is technically called "society" is earthly, sensual, devilish. No Christian is safe who enters its alluring, but pestiferous circle. It is a satanic contrivance to make vice respectable, so that young people can slide down to perdition smoothly and with propriety, without shock to culture and refinement. The theater is one of the strongest pillars of this diabolical structure. It accustoms the young mind to adulteries, abandonments, intrigues, semi-nude exposures, and all that depravity reckons to be the spice of life.

That a Christian may go through this and preserve his integrity is absurd. One who tries it is a fool, and one who defends it is worse than a fool.

It is a favorite device of those who are wading in this filth to sneer at those who denounce it as themselves unclean. Faithful men will cheerfully bear this reproach while they perform their God-given duty. The thief crying "stop thief," is a very old dodge, and some are yet deceived by it. But God will be with his faithful witnesses, and use their testimony to save some, plucking them out of the fire. The Church of Christ must be separate from the world. It can have no fellowship with the works of darkness. This false fellowship is most readily consummated through "society" and social amusements. By this road thousands fall away to perdition. The Church of Christ must have its own high and holy joys, its own pure and distinctive ethics, its own heavenly aim and standard. Christians must associate with one another, and cultivate a healthy society, and not be afraid to say "No" to the world's invitations. Our young people will find more genuine happiness, in such a sweet and clean atmosphere, than in the sickly excitements of a sensual society.—Dr. Howard Crosby, in the Episcopal Recorder.

We commend the above to the thoughtful consideration of Christian parents and young Christians themselves. What now claims to be "society" in Nashville, and in all the cities and towns of the South, as well as in New York, is made up greatly of professing Christians and their families. That the continued tendency is to fleshly gratification, sensuality, the cultivation of lascivious feelings, and a worldly display that destroy all religious feeling, all taste for things spiritual ought to be patent to all who will observe. The society associations lead the heart away from God, from the church, and wean from a godly life and spiritual thoughts.

It does not require an excision of the church to separate those engaging in the revelries, the ambitious display of dress and the sensual and fleshly excitements that characterize "society" from her services. The cultivation of the taste for the one, makes the services of the other, distasteful, dry and burdensome. And they soon cease to feel an interest in or attend the services of the church. This is not simply an occasional or accidental attendant of the "society" associations, but it is a necessary and an invariable result of giving one's self up to the influences that control in "society."

These society associations gradually lead from one step to another, and from the "theater to the ball-room." The dance always objectionable has grown more and more lascivious until it is difficult for a man to come into the contact that the dance brings him without a familiarity with a woman, which lowering his estimate of virtue. We believe no woman can go through the modern dance without arousing impure thoughts and having her ideal of virtue and purity lowered.

This "society" not only destroys the taste for religious worship, and destroys feelings of piety and devotion, but it throws the young into associations that through life lead further and farther from God. A Christian parent ought to desire above all things else, that his family after him should walk with God. That brings permanent good to his family for the generations to come. It is the only thing that can secure permanent prosperity to his family. A parent ought to be desirous above all else that his sons and daughters should form companionships in life, with steady, pious, devoted Christian wives and husbands. These classes are not found at the theatre, the ball-room, or in the "society" circle. A thoughtful, prudent Christian man never goes to any of these places to select a Christian wife, or a Christian mother for his children. Nor does a true Christian woman seek companionship from the men who constitute these associations. Parents who encourage their children to go into these associations, not only throw them into evil influences for the present, but they put them in the line of marrying men and women that are not religious, that are worldly, fleshly, sinful, and that will in turn teach their children the way that leads away from God, further and further, into ruin more and more certain, both in time and eternity. It seems to me an earnest Christian parent ought to prefer to bury a child in an early grave of purity and Christian trustfulness, to starting it in a pathway that leads it and children and children's children away from God and his service, and the true and lasting good that comes only through fidelity to God, and that leads to ruin here and hereafter. The paths that lead away from God lead to ruin and suffering, here in this world no less certainly than in the world to come. D. L.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

"The Christian Ministry" with Miscellanies for Candidates, by James W. Kimball, author of "Heaven," "How to see Jesus," "Encouragements to Faith," etc. Publisher, J. A. Whipple, 9 Hamilton Place, Boston, Mass. Price $1.00.

This is a small 12mo volume of nearly 300 pages, handsomely printed and neatly bound. It is a collection of miscellaneous articles bearing upon the work of the ministry and the qualifications, in a broad sense, necessary to the successful discharge of the duties of Christian labor. These chapters are of a practical character well calculated to quicken the spiritual life of the believer and qualify him for successful work for the Master. The author's style is free, easy and pleasing, the reader being borne along almost irresistibly. We have not had opportunity to examine fully, but we are satisfied it is a book whose influences will be good. We commend it to all.

We have had on hand for several weeks, "The Hand Book of Christian Evidence, by Lawrence W. Scott, published by John Burns, St. Louis, Mo. It is a neatly bound volume of 350 pages, at $1.50. Bro. Scott has devoted himself assiduously to the study of the subject of this volume. This is a revision of his former work. It is placing in a small space, and at low cost a summary of evidences showing the truth of the Biblical record. He shows this from the fulfillment of prophecy, from the histories and descriptions of and allusions to manners and customs of people, to the conformity of the record, to the topography of countries, and to the concurrent political and social status of different nations. All confirm most fully the verity of the historic record and give the evidence of an origin superhuman. This is a volume in which in small compass much testimony is presented in a forcible connection and pleasant style. The world religious and unreligious needs information on these points. We heartily commend the book.

THE CONFESSION.

Dear Bro. Lipscomb: After several weeks absence, I am at home again, and will briefly notice your reply to me on the confession.

You begin by saying, "It is strange if the Savior or Holy Spirit intended the confession with the mouth to be a condition essential to baptism and the remission of sins, that neither of them commanded it or required it in that connection." It is my impression that a fair inference drawn from the Scripture, "For with the heart man believeth unto righteousness," is that it refers to one not in a state of righteousness before believing with the heart. If this be true, it has reference to one out of Christ—an alien. Then does not the Scripture, "with the mouth confession is made unto salvation," apply to the alien? As remission of sins, or an entrance into a state of righteousness is subsequent to baptism, so is it subsequent to a confession of the Lord Jesus with the mouth: and as baptism preceded by faith and repentance is in order to the remission of past sins, or an entrance into a state of righteousness, has not the Savior or the Holy Spirit placed the confession with the mouth among those conditions? I do not think it will do to make the confession here alluded to refer to the confession to be made by Christians while under persecutions; for certainly they are already in a state of salvation from past sins, and it cannot, I think, refer to any other salvation.

While it is true that every case of conversion under a presentation of the gospel by the inspired authorities is recorded in the Acts, yet inspired men afterwards made frequent allusions in their letters to Christians, to the manner in which they had been converted: and if we find anything in these statements that were not previously recorded, they must be received as authentic and binding, for the writers were inspired so to write. In reference to the interpolated clause in the narrative of the Eunuch's conversion, I would simply say that it, at least, shows the custom of that age. It was known to Irenaeus as early as the year 170. To my mind this substantiates the confession taught by the Scriptures in apostolic days, and indicates that it had been kept up at least to this period. There is a complete blank in the history of the case without it. The Eunuch asked a question to which the inspired man answered not. Did he baptize him simply on the presumption that he believed? How strange that the Eunuch commanded the chariot to stand still, and at once alighted without evidence as to whether Philip would baptize him or not! Do you think that Philip made no answer to his important question, but simply got out and went down into the water with him in silence, without further developments? Now, Bro. Lipscomb, you admit to the contrary. You say, "While the confession of the Eunuch is decided spurious, I still think he made it to assure Philip that he believed. And I always demand it to give this assurance of faith in Christ, unless it is unequivocally given otherwise." Do you do this because you think it was a uniform or common practice in primitive times? You admit the necessity of the confession; but, if I understand you, you present two kinds—a formal and an informal one. You have "twice in life baptized persons without the formal confession." In the beginning of your article you say, "If it was required as a uniform, or even common practice, it is strange there is no reference to it in any case of conversion recorded in the Scriptures." Now, please tell us why you always demand it.

Your statement that the confession Timothy made, as recorded in sixth chapter, third verse, was while he was "arraigned before the ruler, as was Christ when he made the good confession," is, I think, wholly gratuitous. The passage you refer to (Heb. xiii: 23) does not prove it. Brethren McGarvey and Brents are against you in your explanation of this passage, and, I think, clearly prove the position taken by myself.

JOHN S. DURST.

We thought that we gave the reason we demanded the confession, because faith is an essential pre-requisite to baptism, and the most direct way of learning that the person has faith is to ask him.

We believe whenever there was a doubt in the minds of the apostles as to the existence of faith they required, they asked them if they believed. I do not doubt, as I said, that the Ethiopian Eunuch made the confession, attributed to him to show to Phillip his faith. On the day of Pentecost the multitudes crying, what must we do, under the conviction that Christ is the Son of God, were not asked formally to confess him. The confession was made to give assurance of faith. I always require it unless this assurance is very clearly and fully given otherwise.

The passage in Hebrews shows that Timothy had been imprisoned. Christians were imprisoned when they confessed. When they denied they were believers in Christ, they were set free. The fact that he was imprisoned then shows he had confessed when brought before the tribunal. While this is true, on a re-examination I find the argument from this passage faulty in this respect. According to our chronology, the letter to the Hebrews was written three or four years after, it is said, Timothy had made the confession. So the confession referred to could hardly have been made at the time of that imprisonment, as the imprisonment seems recent at the writing of the letter. But he may have been imprisoned before this, and he made the confession whenever imprisoned, according to the law of dealing with Christians.

The passage from Romans taken by itself might seem to favor the idea that the confession was requisite to baptism. But man is saved by faith after baptism as well as in baptism. He needs continually to exercise faith, to strengthen his faith, that his faith may give him courage and strength. In every trial and persecution, it is especially needed that his faith be strengthened. Paul immediately adds, in Romans, "Whosoever believeth on me shall not be ashamed"—that is, shall not be ashamed to confess me before my enemies when persecution comes.

We do not desire to discourage the taking of the confession before baptism; we only wish it put on the right grounds. The case, as it seems to me, stands thus, Christ commanded them to confess him when brought before rulers for "my sake," when father, mother, brother, and sister turn against them. He himself confessed when the consequence of the confession was death. Paul associated Timothy's confession with Christ's, hence it must have been made under like circumstances. The language in Romans seems to have been used to encourage them that they be not ashamed when persecution is raging. Under these circumstances, I infer this was the same kind of confession as the others; my brother infers it was a confession before baptism. So long as it is recognized as a matter of inference, we will not fall out about it. We will both require the confession. I will do it as assurance of faith in Christ.

D. L.

W. H. S., in Baptist Reflector, gives this account of R. A. Venable, one of the Baptist ministers of Memphis:

"He was raised a Methodist in Arkansas, and did a little preaching in that church, was converted to Baptist views, entered the Baptist church, determined to study and educate himself and be a preacher; his father bitterly opposed his son in this, and finally disinherited him! The young man, on taking leave of his father, said, 'God helping me, I will be a Baptist preacher, if it takes me forty years.' He went to the Mississippi Baptist College with $30 in his pocket, told his story, was received, made janitor, which he accepted, worked his way through college, graduated with the highest honors that had been won there in fifty years, lacking twelve one-hundredths of a perfect mark for four years—wooed and won the daughter of the President, Rev. Mr. Webb, and now his father is reconciled and proud of his son, and sees all his other children following their brother into the Baptist church. If V. lives he will be a man."

MR. GRAVES AND A DEBATE.

Some of the papers are giving prominence to Mr. Graves' refusal to debate with John Sweeney, on account of Bro. Sweeney's youth and lack of reputation. We published in the ADVOCATE the challenge of the brethren to debate. We knew it was all work thrown away, to talk of a debate with Graves. Sweeney has as much character as a debater as any man in the United States. Mr. Graves and his Baptist brethren seem to insist that Prest. Fanning declined to debate with Graves. Some years ago a proposition was made for a discussion between Prest. Fanning and Mr. Graves. He (Graves) selected Dr. S. H. Ford, then of Memphis, now of St. Louis, editor of the Christian Repository, to arrange propositions and terms for him. Prest. Fanning selected Elder P. S. Fall to perform the same for him. After a lengthened correspondence, all of which was published in the ADVOCATE, which we can produce, they agreed on propositions. Mr. Graves then repudiated the whole of Dr. Ford's work, refused to debate Dr. Ford's propositions, and formulated quite a number of propositions for Mr. Fanning, that he knew no man believed, or would debate. A more barefaced and cowardly retreat was never made. Since this dishonorable retreat from his proposition to debate, to have not had a doubt that all talk of Mr. Graves' inability to find a man to meet him, was a mere pretext to keep out of a debate, while professing to desire it. He met Ditzler, as worthy of him. Ditzler has met Sweeney quite a number of times, and no one has ever suggested that Sweeney is not fully the equal of Ditzler as a scholar and debater. The truth is, Mr. Graves was willing to meet a Methodist to discuss Methodism; but it is a different thing to discuss the differences between Baptist teaching and the Bible. But whenever Mr. Graves, or any of his friends, publish or tell that Prest. Fanning was unwilling to meet Mr. Graves in discussion, or that Mr. Graves was willing to meet Mr. Fanning to discuss propositions which Dr. Ford agreed expressed the differences between Baptist teaching, and the teaching of Disciples of Christ, they state what is not true, and what Mr. Graves knows is not true, and what can be proven untrue to any candid man.

D. L.

ITEMS.

Jesus Christ was the perfect development of the perfect workings of all the principles involved in the Christian religion. Any principle of works that, in its operation, demands a development that cannot be found in the life of Christ, is not Christian.

The early church, under the guidance of the Holy Spirit, presented the full development of every principle of action put in operation by the gift of the Spirit to the church, by the indwelling of the Spirit within the Church. Any principle of action whose manifestation cannot be found in the primitive church, is not the outgrowth of the Spirit of God in the church.

Sanctified means set apart, or consecrated to the service of God. Sense and reason are given to man to enable him to understand and do the will of God. A "common sense"—that is consecrated to, or devoted to, learning and doing the will of God, is a "sanctified common sense." When a common sense devotes itself to discovering new ways and institutions for accomplishing divine ends, not approved by God, to avoid the self-denial imposed by God on his servants, it is not a "sanctified common sense."

Obituaries.

On the 15th day of the month passed away, in the full hope of a glorious immortality, Sister Emma McCaleb, wife of our beloved Bro. Jesse McCaleb, of Montgomery County, Texas. Sister McCaleb was born September 30th, 1839, in Wilcox County, Alabama, and was the daughter of Judge Williamson, a prominent lawyer of that State. She confessed Jesus, and was buried with him in baptism by Bro. G. W. Harvey, in this county, and at once became an active and devoted member of Bethany congregation, and continued with unwavering zeal until called home to rest in the bosom of the Master. Sister McCaleb possessed a mind of no ordinary mental endowment and culture, which blended with a strong, affectionate nature, gave her an influence for good that will be long felt in the community in which she lived. To her afflicted husband and orphaned little ones, our warmest and most earnest sympathies are extended. They mourn not, however, as those who have no hope, for "Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord, from henceforth; yea, saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labors, and their works do follow them." With sad hearts and loving hands, she was laid away to sleep by her brethren and friends, in the family grounds near the home she adorned and loved so well. L.

In obedience to the request of the bereft children, I attempt to chronicle the death of their mother. Mary Ann Robinson was born May 15, 1836, and departed this life March 18, 1884; was the daughter of Steven and Ellen Kennedy. She united with the Methodists in early life, remaining with them until near six years ago, when she with her husband learning the way of the Lord more perfectly, became obedient to the faith. In a few short months after their obedience to the gospel, the father and husband died, leaving the mother and six children to struggle on in poverty and tears as best they could. For her children's sake, sister Robinson was content to live and work; and well has she performed that work by her Christian example. She was leading her children toward the cross, and had the pleasure of seeing her two oldest children (both boys) bow in humble submission to the mandates of our blessed Lord, and are now earnest members in the little band of disciples at this place. Her remains were followed to their last resting place by a large number of sorrowing relatives and friends. Funeral service was conducted by Bro. J. B. Billingsley. We have known sister Ann for many years. She was a devoted wife, a tender mother, an humble, tried and true Christian. The community has lost in her a friend, the church a faithful member, and her children, the greatest of all earthly blessings, a mother's love and care. I pray God that they may so live, that when death comes they will be prepared to meet pa and ma in that blessed home where sickness, sorrow, pain and death are felt and feared no more; in that home where all is peace, love and happiness.

M. M. B.

JESUS, THE GREAT TEACHER, SAID, "FOLLOW ME."

My object in this essay will be to show that there is no sect or party now on earth that preaches, teaches and practices, as did Christ and the apostles, neither more nor less than did the apostles; although all the religious sects or churches in christendom have succeeded in persuading the people that they have done, or are now doing it; otherwise they are acting falsely, and they know it. Which of them is willing for the people to believe it is teaching lies? I shall attempt to draw a contrast between the teaching of the New Testament, and the teaching of the modern sects.

I will begin first with our own people, in order that the blows I strike may not be parried off by the cry of "Physician, heal yourself!" I call on that portion of our people who use organs, choirs, pastors, conventions, missionary societies, and other unscriptural things, to give-book, chapter and verse, for these things, as they have said that where the Bible is silent, they will be silent. They are bound to do what their lips have uttered. See Numbers, chapter 20. "And behold ye are risen up in your father's stead an increase of sinful men, to augment the fierce anger of the Lord toward Israel. Num. xxxii: 14. Men are bound to do what they say they will do. I need not name papists, as they are governed by traditions, and Bible, and popery.

A rule of action has a great deal to do with our conduct and temper. We protestants tell the papists that the Bible, and the Bible alone, is the religion of protestants. Is this their practice? Have they no creeds? Point me to the protestant sect now on earth who is willing to risk themselves for time and eternity on the Bible alone, and who never appeal to any other proof? How many of the sects read the Bible and found their faith in the Bible? Do not one and all of them first get their faith from preachers, or some other persons, and then go to the Bible for the proof? This is to make the Bible bow to the system, and not the system to the Bible. Try the Bible by my system. In this way we can have a thousand more churches. Christ and the apostles never appealed to any other writings for proof, than Moses and the prophets.

Secondly, Christ was immersed in the river Jordan before he began to preach. Modern preachers are sprinkled in the house. See Matt. 3, Mark 1, Luke 3.

Thirdly, Christ did not receive the Holy Spirit before he was immersed; after he arose out of the Jordan. The modern preachers receive the Holy Spirit before they believe, to give them faith. He and the apostles taught that men got faith in their day from the Bible. The modern clergy teach that faith comes from an operation of God's spirit upon a naked human spirit without words. Christ told the Jews that they had eternal life in the Jewish Scriptures. John v: 29. How much more in both the Jewish and Christian Scriptures? The Bible is the good seed from which proceeds all the good religion in the world. There are no Christians where there are no Bibles. Sectarians send men and Bibles to heathens to make Christians. But in a land of Bibles they make Christians without Bibles—by the Spirit. Millions of persons have obtained faith from the Bible, and it can be done again; and if not from the Bible, then from nowhere. Faith comes from hearing, (Rom. 10.) and not feeling, and praying, and shouting. Many things are called faith that have not one grain of faith in them. Like produces its like in the animal and vegetable kingdoms; acorns produce oaks, corn produces corn, and so on. Christ and the apostles drew a distinction between the Old and the New institutions. The law came by Moses; the truth, the gospel, came by Christ. This is an important distinction, which I never heard a sectarian preacher draw, which I knew not how to draw while a sectarian.

Another thing in which the teachers of this age fail to teach as did the apostles, is, the divine writers originate the Christian congregation in Jerusalem, in the first century of the Christian era. The popular clergy originate it, some with Adam, some with Abraham, some with John the Washer, as the Turks call him. This is the Baptists' idea. The sprinklers confound the two churches as did Walker and McCalla with Campbell in debate. We have taught the sects their a, b, c's, in theology, and how to say ab, ob, ib.

Another thing the sects fail to teach is Christ, his church, on himself. Matthew 16. Some on Peter, some on experience, some on Luther, some on Calvin. It is impossible that a sensible man could write a book no larger than the New Testament, and make it authorize all the sects now in existence. How much less he in whom dwells all the treasures of wisdom and knowledge. The apostles put the Holy Spirit after faith, immersion, and the remission of sins. John iii: 5-8, vii: 39; Acts ii: 38. They connected immersion, remission of sins, and the new birth together. The popular clergy put remission of sins before baptism. The creeds teach remission of sins in immersion.

Freewill is in the Bible from Genesis to the end of the Bible. What sect preaches it now? To choose the good, and refuse the evil is twice found in Isaiah, 7th chapter. In the Bible all good men obeyed God. Now it is all faith alone, and little or no obedience. Obedience is required from Adam to the end of the book. "Blessed are they that do his commandments." Rev. 22; Luke 8. A good and an honest heart. This is the worst thing Christ ever taught. Now we teach total hereditary depravity. Sprinkling a few drops of water in the face of a crying, weeping, frowning infant, never washed out this original depravity yet, nor will it ever do it.

I heard a preacher tell how he was cured of this human tradition. A sister determined to have her son christened, and invited him to attend and do it on Sunday morning. When Sunday came she collected them to have christening. She got them all together, except one, named Johnny. He could not be found for a long time. At length they found him up in a tree in the yard, and his mother said to him: "Oh! Johnny, Johnny, my son, what makes you do so? Make haste and come down, and be baptized." "No," said Johnny, "I will be durned if I do." Nor would he come down; so he went unchristened. The preacher said that if these were the subjects he had to operate upon, he would quit the trade. So he stopped. "Suffer little children to come unto me," does not mean to bring them to him to be sprinkled. Suffer does not spell baptize, nor pour, nor sprinkle, but suffer. When Christ spoke to the thief, he was nailed to the cross. He did not insult the miseries of the poor thief by telling him to do what he knew he could not do. The people who quote this passage are not thieves. JACOB CREATH.

HISTORY ON DESIGN OF BAPTISM—No. 4.

Bro. M.: I wish to call your attention to the design of baptism as presented by other historians than Baptist. We call your attention to Neander who has left several volumes of church history; he says, "At the beginning, when it was important that the church should rapidly extend itself, those who confessed their belief in Jesus as the Messiah, (among the Jews) or their belief in one God, and in Jesus as the Messiah, (among the Gentiles) were immediately baptized, as appears from the New Testament." Neander Vol. 1., page 305. You may be disposed to ask, how has this order been changed? Neander replies: "Gradually it came to be thought necessary that those who wished to be received into the Christian Church, should be subjected to a more careful preparatory instruction, and to a stricter examination."—Ibid. Neander tells us how the Christians of the first century regarded baptism as to its design. "With the oral confession of faith was also connected the avowal of a moral engagement. The transaction was looked upon in the following light: the candidate for baptism separated himself from the kingdom of sin, of darkness, of Satan, which, as a heathen devoted to his lusts, he had hitherto served, and came over to the kingdom of God and of Christ. He was now, therefore, solemnly to renounce all fellowship with that kingdom of which he had before been a subject. * * * In accordance with the favorite comparison already alluded to, this pledge was regarded as the Christian's military oath, whereby he bound himself to live and fight as a miles Dei et Christi." Neander Vol. 1., page 309.

Again, on same page, we have the following: "It is true, the idea of a deliverance from the dominion of the evil spirit in a moral and spiritual respect, of a separation from the kingdom of evil, and of a communication by the new birth of a divine life, which should be victorious over the principle of evil, is to be reconed among the number of original and essential Christian ideas; but the whole act of baptism was to be in truth precisely a representation of this idea; there was no need, therefore, that any separate act should still be added to denote or to effectuate that which the whole act of baptism was intended to denote, and to the believer truly and effectually to represent." Again on page 311, "Regeneration and baptism are in Irenaeus intimately connected, and it is difficult to conceive how the term regeneration can be employed, in reference to this age, to denote anything else than baptism."

If from the history of the churches of the first three centuries, "the form, subject, ordinances and doctrines of the true churches of Christ can be learned." Into Orchard's History, page 5, and Mr. Orchard being correct when he says "the churches during this early period were strictly Baptist in their practice and constitution," and "the interests of religion retained their spiritual character," Orchard's History, page 51. Then we learn that "baptism is for remission of sins," that the Baptist churches believed that "regeneration and baptism were the same," that baptism was to denote or to effectuate the new birth, and that a man was "baptized unto salvation," "these are the doctrines of the true churches of Christ." Tertullian's belief was, that baptism was for remission of sins—salvation. Speaking on baptism, he says, "What haste to procure the forgiveness of sins for the age of innocence." Neander, Vol. 1, page 312.

The foregoing would appear very strange utterances for Baptists of this day. Why try to prove Baptist succession and repudiate the teaching of the first three centuries? How is it that Baptists can appeal to the parties as "strictly Baptist in their practice and constitution," and at the same time not be liable to the charge of baptismal regeneration? If any people in this age are liable to such a charge as that of baptismal regeneration, it certainly is that people who claim to be descended from those who taught the doctrine for three centuries. A. ALSUP, JR.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

This powder never varies. A marvel of purity strength and wholesome mess. More economical than the ordinary kinds, and cannot be sold in competition with the multitude of low test, short weight alum or phosphate powders. Sold only in cans.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 106 Wall St., New York.

A Safeguard.

The fatal rapidity with which slight Colds and Coughs frequently develop into the gravest maladies of the throat and lungs, is a consideration which should impel every prudent person to keep at hand, as a household remedy, a bottle of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL.

Nothing else gives such immediate relief and works so sure a cure in all affections of this class. That eminent physician, Prof. F. Sweetzer, of the Maine Medical School, Brunswick, Me., says:—

"Medical science has produced no other any-dye expectorant so good as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It is invaluable for diseases of the throat and lungs."

The same opinion is expressed by the well-known Dr. L. J. Addison, of Chicago, Ill., who says:—

"I have never found, in thirty-five years of continuous study and practice of medicine, any preparation of so great value as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, for treatment of diseases of the throat and lungs. It not only breaks up colds and cures severe coughs, but is more effective than anything else in relieving even the most serious bronchial and pulmonary affections."

AYER'S Cherry Pectoral

Is not a new claimant for popular confidence, but a medicine which is to-day saving the lives of the third generation who have come into being since it was first offered to the public.

There is not a household in which this invaluable remedy has once been introduced where its use has ever been abandoned, and there is not a person who has ever given it a proper trial for any throat or lung disease susceptible of cure, who has not been made well by it.

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL has, in numberless instances, cured obstinate cases of chronic Bronchitis, Laryngitis, and even acute Pneumonia, and has saved many patients in the earlier stages of Pulmonary Consumption. It is a medicine that only requires to be taken in small doses, is pleasant to the taste, and is needed in every house where there are children, as there is nothing so good as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL for treatment of Croup and Whooping Cough.

These are all plain facts, which can be verified by anybody, and should be remembered by everybody.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

PREPARED BY

Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Sold by all druggists.

THE SUGAR HAND BOOK

A NEW AND VALUABLE TREATISE ON SUGAR CANES, (including the Minnesota Early Amber) and their manufacture into Syrup and Sugar. Although comprised in small compass and furnished free to applicants, it is the BEST PRACTICAL MANUAL ON SUGAR CANES that has yet been published.

BLUMBER MANUFACTURING CO
Cincinnati O.
Manufacturers of Steam Sugar Machinery, Steam Engines, Victor Cane Mills, Cook Sugar Evaporators, etc.

PREWITT, SPURR & CO., MANUFACTURERS OF WOODEN WARE AND LUMBER, NASHVILLE, TENN.

Poplar and Pine Flooring, Ceiling, Weatherboarding, Sash, Doors, Blinds, Door and Window Frames, Brackets, Laths, Cedar Posts, Etc., Always on hand.

FACTORY AND MILLS IN EDGEFIELD,

NATHANIEL BAXTER, JR.,
President.

THOS. PLATER,
Vice President.

J. F. WILLIAMS,
Cashier.

W. F. BANG, JR.,
Ass't Cashier.

THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK, OF NASHVILLE, TENN. (Reorganized.)

Designated Depository and Financial Agent of the United States.

CAPITAL STOCK, - - - - - $500,000 00
UNDIVIDED PROFITS, - - - - - 190,000 00

Receives Deposits, Deals in United States Bonds and Local Securities, and Foreign and Domestic Exchange. Drafts drawn on all European points. Our facilities for making collections at all accessible points are unsurpassed.

P. A. SHELTON, DEALER IN STAPLE AND FANCY GROCERIES, FLOUR, BACON, LARD, TOBACCO AND CIGARS, COUNTRY PRODUCE, QUEENSWARE, GLASSWARE, TINWARE, LAMPS AND TRIMMINGS. No. 96 BROAD STREET, - (Second door from College,) - NASHVILLE, TENN.

Special Attention Given to Filling Orders.

SOLE AGENT FOR "RINGLEADER" FLOUR.

ALEX. HOGAN.

JO. B. HALL.

HOGAN & HALL, WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALERS IN GROCERIES, BACON, LARD, —AND— PURE WHISKIES AND WINES For Medicinal Purposes. 106 Broad Street, - - - NASHVILLE, TENN.

GOOD CLOTHING!

Gentlemen and boys who desire GOOD CLOTHING at medium prices, equal in style and make to any custom work, should not fail to examine our stock before purchasing their Outfits.

HUNTINGTON, Clothier,

160 Church Street, - - - NASHVILLE.

W. R. CORNELIUS, GENERAL FUNERAL UNDERTAKER.

OFFICE:
No. 17 North Summer Street,

RESIDENCE:
No. 413 Main Street.

Telephone 73 calls the Office; Telephone 271 calls the Residence.

Will furnish everything wanted at a funeral, and all first-class.
Prices as cheap as anybody else. 2a3m

THUSS, KOELLEIN & GIERS.

Successors to old Giers' Gallery,

PHOTOGRAPHERS!

139 Union Street, Nashville, Tenn.

CALVERT BROTHERS' PORTRAITS.

In Crayon, in Oil and Water Colors; Ivory Miniatures, &c., &c., Cals Building, Cor. Union and Cherry Streets, Nashville, Tenn.

GEO. E. COOPER & CO., Wholesale Manufacturers and Dealers in TINWARE, STOVES, FURNACES, And House Furnishing Goods.

Tin and Slate Roofing and Galvanized Iron Cornice Work a Specialty.

Also our Patent Chimney Top for smoky chimneys, has no equal. Write for prices and address.

GEO. E. COOPER & CO.,
22 North Market Street,
Nashville, - - - Tennessee.

SHOW CASES,
CEDAR CHESTS, CEDAR WARDROBES,
Cabinet Work, and all kinds of Glass.

G. C. TERRY, Manufacturer,
No. 2 Hicks' Block, North Side Public Square, NASHVILLE, TENN.

F. A. BADGER, DENTIST

OFFICE.

ODD FELLOWS' TEMPLE,
(Cor Church & High Sts.,)
Nashville, Tennessee.

A Physician's Gift.

If you are a sufferer hoping for a permanent cure of Apoplectic or Epileptic

FITS,

a Free Trial Box of the celebrated Dr. JUSTICE SCHROEDER'S REMEDY for this disorder will be sent you, post-paid, free.

Every sufferer from this disease that is anxious to be cured should give these Powders an immediate trial. Large Box $3.00, two boxes $5.00.

Address, PHILIP HENRY,
49 South Street, New York City.

OWEN'S STATION SCHOOL.

The sixth annual session will open Sept. 3d, 1883, and continue Forty Weeks. The session is divided into two terms of twenty weeks each.

The expenses to boarders per term, are from $75.00 to $80.00. Music with use of Instrument, $22.00. $100.00 will pay for board, washing, full instruction in higher English Branches, Latin, Greek, French and Music. Bills due one-half at opening of term and remainder at middle. For any information, address

W. LIPSCOMB,
Brentwood, Tenn.

AGENTS wanted for the History of Christianity, by Abbott. A grand chance. A $4 book at the popular price of $1.75. Liberal terms. The religious papers mention it as one of the few great religious works of the world. Greater success never known by agents. Terms free. STINSON & Co., Publisher, Portland, Maine.

DONT purchase your CHRISTMAS PRESENTS until you have seen our IMMENSE HOLIDAY CATALOGUE of Toys, Novelties, Fancy Goods, &c., mailed free. Address Eureka T. & N. Co., 87 Warren St., New York.

CATALOGUE of Best Books for Agents sent free, including Mother, Home and Heaven, $2.75. Please every-body. 128,000 sold, $150 monthly. E. B. TREAT, Publisher, New York.

KENTUCKY CONTRIBUTIONS AND CORRESPONDENCE.

BY J. A. HARDING, OF WINCHESTER, KY., TO WHOM ALL COMMUNICATIONS FOR THIS DEPARTMENT SHOULD BE ADDRESSED.

BRO. HARDING'S REJOINDER.

BY W. L. BUTLER.

We reply to three matters in Bro. Harding's criticism, elsewhere published in this paper, and leave the reader to correct the rest. Our February article contains our views in full on the subject, and with few words we leave the matter with the public.

1. On the quotation and use of Gal. i: 15: ii: 2, we remark, (1) The passage does not say that Paul preached at Damascus without the support of the brethren, nor that he went into Arabia without the sending of the church; and to draw such a conclusion from it is to argue from the silence of the Scriptures—the same argument which proves the Eunuch was not baptized into the name of the Father, Son and Holy Spirit! This same text states, in a similar way, that Paul went "into the regions of Syria and Cilicia," and, of course, furnishes proof, on Bro H's principle that Paul went into the field without the sending of the church. But when we read Acts xiii: 1-4; xiv: 26, we learn that he was chosen for the work, ordained to it by prayer, fasting and imposition of hands at Antioch, and was recommended to the grace of God for the fulfillment of it by the brethren at Antioch. So away goes this logic. (2.) I think the brother entirely misapprehends the matter about which Paul did consult flesh and blood. He thinks it refers to the matter in controversy between us—the sending and the support of the preachers. I think not. I understand him to refer to how he learned the gospel. Bro. H. begins his quotation with the fifteenth verse, but we will start him in with the eleventh, that he may see what Paul was talking about: "But I certify you, brethren, the gospel which was preached of me is not after man; for I neither received it of man, neither was I taught it, but by the revelation of Christ." He did not consult flesh and blood to learn the gospel; but this fact should not be used to prove he went out to preach without the sending of the church, nor that he got his bread and raiment directly from the Lord, as he received his knowledge of the gospel.

2. On the case of Paul and Silas the brother does even worse than argue from the silence of the word. It looks like he meant to silence the Scriptures. In the sending of Paul and Barnabas from Antioch we have the ordination and recommending to the grace of God by the brethren for the work they fulfilled. In the sending of Paul and Silas from the same place, we find the same recommending to the grace of God, which suggests the whole programme of the appointment. This is the passage the brother puts to silence, and he does it by applying to himself. We grant you, Bro. Harding, that the brethren at Mayfield recommended you in the way you say. But they never recommended you "for the work which you have fulfilled" since you were there, for the reason that they did not know what you were going to "fulfill." An old preacher of the Predestinarian order, when advocating absolute foreknowledge of God, said he wanted to except two things; viz., "The decision of a petit jury, and who a woman would marry." I think we must except what peculiar work a go-any-how preacher will fulfill from the foreknowledge of a church. When a church recommends a man for the work he fulfills, it must have some idea of his report on "fulfilled work." He brings in Timothy, whom Paul chose, as he chose Silas; unfortunately for his cause, Timothy did not go without the "laying on of the hands of the eldership." (1. Tim. iv: 14).

3. Bro. H. develops a new order of church work. He makes a distinction between the preaching and the teaching of the commission; and then makes a distinction between the preacher to sinners and the teacher of a young church." Bro. H. divides the work, and also the workers. Why? Barnabas was sent by the church at Jerusalem, and to save the theory and commit him to a non-preaching commission it is assumed he was sent to teach "the young church." So the exigencies of this theory demand a new order of work. If Bro. H. is a preacher, and the church at Louisville hears of a successful meeting under his preaching, they must send somebody from here to teach the "young church." The doctrine is that we have apostolic example for a church sending a man; but in order to do so, it must find a "young church" as a field of labor, and restrict him to that. Bro. H., who has been attending to your "young churches?" But Paul and Barnabas were sent from Antioch to Asia, where there were no converts; and we have no account of other preachers being sent to comfort their "young churches." The fact that Jerusalem sent men to carry on and perfect the work begun by dispersed disciples, only shows that she would not commit the cause to the hands of men whom she had not sent. If the dispersed disciples must be followed up by church-sent preachers, we have evidence that a go-any-how ministry was not trusted with the work of establishing churches. On the sending of Peter and John to Samaria by the Church at Jerusalem, Bro. H. tries to make it appear that they were sent to "the city of Samaria, whereas they preached to many villages of the Samaritans, while returning to Jerusalem." This contains only two mistakes. 1. It is not said that Peter and John were sent to the city of Samaria; but when the apostles "heard that Samaria had received the word of God, they sent unto them Peter and John." The city was part of their field, and it seems the first part they struck. 2. It is not said that they preached to the "many villages" while returning; but it is simply added that they did this.

A REVIEW OF BRO. BUTLER'S SECOND EFFORT AT DEFENCE.

There is nothing more important, in studying the Bible, and in conducting discussions on religious subjects, than to bear in mind that it is the truth we want. It would be of no advantage to me to believe a doctrine that is false, or to favor a practice that God does not approve. It is far better for a man to know the truth, and to advocate that which is pleasing to the Father. I am led to these reflections by Bro. Butler's article which appears in this issue; for it is certain to my mind that he has taken positions that are utterly untenable, and given expositions wholly at variance with the tenor of scriptural teaching. That he has been induced to do this by a great attachment to a false theory is evident. The reader's attention is called to several illustrations of what I mean.

1. Bro. Butler persists in saying that Peter and John were sent on a missionary tour, when they went down to Samaria, and that they were sent by the church at Jerusalem to preach in the "villages of the Samaritans" as well as in the city. Now the divine records clearly—unmistakably—"beyond the possibility of a reasonable doubt" show that the apostles sent Peter and John to the converts in the city of Samaria. Here are the facts given by Luke (Acts viii: 5-25.)

"Philip went down to the city of Samaria, and preached Christ unto them." And the people with one accord gave heed unto those things which Philip spake, hearing and seeing the miracles which he did." He wrought many miracles. "And there was great joy in the city." "But when they believed Philip preaching the things concerning the kingdom of God, and the name of Jesus-Christ, they were baptized, both men and women." "Now when the apostles which were at Jerusalem heard that Samaria had received the word of God, they sent unto them Peter and John: who, when they were come down, prayed for them, that they might receive the Holy Ghost: (for as yet he was fallen upon none of them: only they were baptized in the name of the Lord Jesus.) Then laid they their hands on them, and they received the Holy Ghost."

Now, observe that the "them" to whom Peter and John were sent were the "them" for whom they prayed, when they were come, that they might receive the Spirit; the "them" that had been "baptized in the name of the Lord Jesus" by Philip, after they had believed his preaching; the "them" to whom the Spirit was imparted "through the laying on of the apostles' hands."

When Peter and John "had testified and preached the word of the Lord" they "returned to Jerusalem, and preached the gospel in many villages of the Samaritans." To say that Peter and John were sent by the apostles, or the Jerusalem church, to preach to the "villages of the Samaritans" is to add to the word of God: and this addition Bro. Butler makes. They had fulfilled the mission upon which the apostles sent them before they preached in these villages; this preaching was done under the commission which Christ gave them to go into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature.

2. Bro. Butler's idea of evangelistic work is this: That the church, should select the man, limit him to a certain field, send him into it, and support him while he is at the work. He claims that not even an apostle ever went about evangelistic work, after the establishment of the first church, without being sent by a church. He says, furthermore, that when a church sent a man, it obligated itself to pay him for his labor. So, according to him, neither Paul, nor any other primitive preacher, did evangelistic work, after Pentecost, without first being limited to a certain district by the church; which at the same time contracted with him for his support. He claims, that the church that sent Paul owned and controlled his labors. He says "there is no case of a man going anyhow, church or no church, pay or no pay."

True, Paul says, "when it pleased God * * * to reveal his son in me, that I might preach him among the heathen, immediately I conferred not with flesh and blood; neither went I up to Jerusalem to them which were apostles before me; but I went into Arabia, and returned again to Damascus." But what if Paul did say it: Bro. Butler knows better: he did have an understanding with the church at Damascus as to where he should go, and how he should be supported, claims the sapient editor of the Church. He did consult flesh and blood about these matters, but he did not consult any one about what he should preach, explains he. Observe, when it pleased God to reveal Christ in Paul, that he might preach him among the heathen, there were two things the apostles did not do; (1) he conferred not with flesh and blood; (2) he did not go up to Jerusalem to consult the other apostles. But our brother is evidently a logician of the first water! He starts out to prove that no man enters the evangelistic field without being sent and supported by a church, according to the divine order: in hunting for proof, he first endeavors to find a case in the Bible in which a church sends a man on a missionary tour: he appeals to the case of the apostles at Jerusalem sending Peter and John to the young church at the city of Samaria; and then to the one in which the Jerusalem church (in which were the apostles) sent Barnabas after the evangelists who preached in Phenice, and Cyprus, and Antioch, making many disciples, that he should go as far as Antioch. But in both these cases the ones sent were evidently sent to Christians, and hence their missions were pastoral rather than evangelistic; and they were sent from the apostles, or from a church presided over by the apostles. It was not unusual for an apostle to send teachers gifted by inspiration to young converts; Paul often did it; it was especially necessary as the New Testament had not then been written: but in both these cases the men who did the evangelistic work, who made the converts, were not sent by any church, but being dispersed from Jerusalem by persecution they preached at their own volition. (See Acts viii: 1-25 and Acts xi: 19-26.) Evidently both these cases are against him. In the light of them, what must we think of his doctrine that "there is no case of a man going anyhow, church or no church, pay, or no pay."

Bro. Butler then appeals to another case, the one recorded in Acts xiii: 1-4. But, unfortunately for him, the very things that he needs to find here are the things he don't find. The facts are these: there were a number of prophets and teachers in the church at Antioch, among them Barnabas and Saul: they ministered to the Lord and fasted: "the Holy Spirit said unto them, Separate me Barnabas and Saul, for the work whereunto I have called them. They fasted and laid hands on them and sent them away." So the two men departed "being sent forth by the Holy Ghost." Nothing is said about the church in the connection. The Holy Ghost selected the men, and sent them forth; the prophets and teachers commended them to the grace of God by fasting, praying, and laying their hands upon them. Nothing is said about raising a salary for them, or limiting their field of labor. True, our brother sees these things clearly in the text, but "he reads between the lines;" common mortals like myself can only see what is written. True again, when Paul was on one of his missionary tours, (see Acts xvi: 6-12,) it seems that he was disposed to preach in Asia but was forbidden by the Holy Ghost; then he tried to go into Bithynia, but the Spirit suffered them not; then he went on to Troas, where in a vision at night a Macedonian appeared unto him, and prayed, saying, "Come over into Macedonia and help us." From this he gathered that the Lord wanted him to go over into that country; and he went. Now Bro. Butler teaches that on this tour he was acting as the missionary of a church, which selected and defined his field and supported him in the work. A blind man can see that his position is contradictory to the facts in the case. He does not find a single clear, unmistakable case of a church sending forth a missionary for evangelistic work. In fact many of the clearest thinkers, F. G. Allen among them, claim that no church in apostolic times sent out and supported evangelists; but all, except Bro. W. L. Butler, as far as known to me, agree that many evangelists went forth of their own accord; under the general instructions of Jesus, and that congregations and Christians ministered to them.

I have no selfish motives in writing as I do on this point; of this I am sure, since the best congregation that I know has invited me to become its missionary, and I could accept the invitation to-morrow, if I would. Were I to do so, I would have as my associates the best body of workers I ever saw, and my home would be in one of the most beautiful and healthful cities in the world; a city large, enterprising and with a splendid system of public schools. I would much rather live at this place than any where else; and I would doubtless receive much more money than I now do, were I to accept their invitation. The only reason I don't do it is that Bro. Butler cannot prove his position. Were he to convince me that he is right, I would unite with them to-day saying, "Brethren, I am your evangelist and your city shall be my headquarters, if you still say so."

I might say much more, but I presume this is enough for the present. Of course Bro. Butler will give this to his readers.

7 END OF KENTUCKY DEPARTMENT.

ITEMS, PERSONALS, ETC.

Bro. Harding writes from Savannah, Georgia: "I am in a fine meeting here in Savannah. Have received eleven additions; a Baptist minister and his wife—excellent people among them.

Dr. E. A. Lodge, of Detroit, whom we mentioned last week as being in the city, preached an excellent discourse on the evening of the fifth Lord's day in March, and left next morning for the South.

We learn the church at Franklin is doing well under the teaching of Bro. Shelton. The fourth Lord's day in March there were four confessions; the fifth, two; and others are expected to follow. The congregations are good, and the prayer meetings well attended. Bro. H. B. Todd and wife are now in Franklin, and will probably make their home permanently there.

"The Christian Quarterly" is at hand, with the following table of contents: (1) "The New Testament Canon," by the editor; (2) "Justification by Faith," by A. I. Hobbs; (3) "The Holy Catholic Church," by C. Q. Wright; (4) "Certain Infidel Objections Considered," by Clark Braden; (5) "Can We Divide," by J. H. Garrison; (6) "The Substantial Philosophy," by A. Wilford Hall; (7) "The Doctrine of the Epistle to the Romans," by I. B. Grubbs; (8) "Among our Exchanges," by the editor; (9) "Book Notices." We have had time to read but one or two articles in this number of the Quarterly, but think it a good number.

"Our Orthodoxy in the Civil Courts," is the verbatim report of a trial in the Circuit Court of Noble County, Ind., on the question of the orthodoxy of the churches of Christ. A house was built in which all "orthodox" churches were permitted to preach. The disciples began to preach in the house, Methodists particularly, seconded by the Presbyterians, endeavored to exclude them on the ground that they were not "orthodox." They appealed to the courts, able counsel were secured by each party, the leading teachers of the disciples and of the Methodists and Presbyterians, were put on the stand as witnesses, and a thorough investigation held. The two points to be decided by the courts, were, what is orthodoxy? second, are the disciples, or Christian people "orthodox?" The trial is reported in a book of 247 pages, and it is well worth reading; you will be at once amused and instructed. It is a good book to put into the hand of your sectarian neighbor, or an outsider. Price, in paper covers, 50 cents. While we do not approve of the appeal to court, nor do I believe those who accept the Bible as the only standard are orthodox according to the Methodist or Presbyterian standard, or that we ought to have any distinctive faith aside from the Bible, still the book will do good where read. Those denying the orthodoxy abandoned the suit after most self-condemnatory efforts to convict the disciples of unorthodoxy.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

Freeman & Keesee, dealers in wall paper, window shades, pictures, ect., greet our readers with a card this week. They have an elegant stock, and are courteous gentlemen.

Dr. Badger, Dentist, renews his card for another year. He has the reputation of doing good, substantial work, and his charges are moderate. Give him a call.

The old and substantial house of Phillips-Butterff M'f'g Co., present their advertisement in the ADVOCATE this week. Those composing the company are all practical business men, and they have grown up to be the largest dealers and manufacturers in the South. Give them a call when you wish goods in their line.

Aldrich & Harris, dealers in boots, shoes, hats, etc., renew their advertisement. They are our neighbors. We have known them long, and are sure they are as fair dealers as can be found in the city.

GENERAL NEWS.

Gov. McLane, of Maryland, has vetoed the bill recently passed by the Legislature of that State, reducing the price of marriage license from $4.50 to 60 cents.—A criminal in Cincinnati named William Berner was tried on a charge of murder, and confessed his crime. The jury, however, returned a verdict of manslaughter, and the culprit was accordingly spared the gallows. The citizens of Cincinnati, being so enraged, were transformed into a blood-thirsty mob. The crowd attacked the jail, where it was supposed Berner was confined, but he had been removed to Columbus. Being driven from the jail, the mob set fire to the Court house. This, with the public records, will prove a total loss. The mob pillaged a gun store and obtained a good supply of guns and ammunition. The fight was continued all day Sunday. The mob being driven from the streets fired on the troops from the house-tops. All the available troops of the State were ordered to the city, at the request of the mayor. The number of killed is about fifty; wounded one, hundred and fifty.—The House of Representatives killed the Whisky Bond Extension Bill by the surprising vote of 185 to 83. Western whisky men are arranging to ship bonded whisky from Baltimore by the Bremen line of steamers which has made them low rates. Some hopeful dealers are talking of a new extension bill, but generally little hope is entertained in that direction.—The Mississippi has broken levees all along its lower course, and the distress is very great. Applications are made to Congress for food, and assistance to keep the New Orleans levees from giving way. The Secretary of War has written to the Speaker of the House, suggesting that the $125,000 unexpended from the Ohio Flood Fund be made available for use on the Mississippi.—The first through train from the city of Mexico over the Mexican Central Railroad made the run to Chicago in five days.—The boiler on the marine wrecker exploded at New Orleans on the 3rd, fatally scalding Robert Mathers, the engineer. Several workmen were blown into the river, and six more or less injured.—A large meeting was held in the Produce Exchange, in New York, to consider the question of silver coinage. A memorial to Congress was adopted, praying that body to at once provide for a suspension of the coinage of the silver dollars for such a period of time as may be necessary to readjust the coinage of gold and silver coins. So as to bring about a gradual absorption in circulation of silver dollars.—Minister Sargent, who had been transferred to Petersburg, declined to accept the transfer, and announced that he was compelled to resign the mission at Berlin, on account of his health, and for other reasons.—The Memphis & Charleston Railroad Company's shops at Memphis, were destroyed by fire last week. The fire was said to be the work of an incendiary. Two locomotives were burned. Total loss is about $100,000.

FOREIGN.—Prince Leopold, Duke of Albany, the youngest son of Queen Victoria, died suddenly at Cannes, France, last week. The death is a great blow to the Queen. The funeral took place in England on the fifth of April.—The latest advices from Tonquin state that a Prince of the Royal family of Anam had been convicted of promoting the massacre of the Christians, and had been hanged.—It is announced that Gladstone has recovered his usual health, and will soon return to his place in Parliament. The latest advices from Merv, indicate that considerable disaffection exist among a portion of the Turcomans of the district recently annexed by Russia. On March the 3rd, a collision occurred between the Malcontents and the Russian troops, the details of the affair are unknown.—The putting of the war sloop Alert, recently presented by England to the United States, to participate in the Greely search expedition, into commission, was becomingly celebrated on the 25th of March. Minister Lowell hoisted the American colors at the peak. Fifty guests lunched on board, among whom were the Earl of Northbrook, first Lord of the Admiralty, and Admiral Seymour. Mr. Lowell proposed the toast to the Queen, to which the Earl of Northbrook responded. He said the Queen took deep interest in the expedition in which the Alert was to share, and had felt great pleasure in authorizing the offer of the Alert to the United States Government.

Home Reading.

A Christian Mother.

BY M. S. FANNING.

A Christian mother—sacred name,
To every heart how dear!
Here tender memory loves to dwell
And shed the holiest tear.

A Christian mother—highest name,
And highest trust is given;
But he who gave, will surely claim
That trust prepared for heaven.

O, Christian mother! could you know,
Or distantly conceive,
The boundless bliss, or endless woe,
Of destinies you weave.

Of thoughts you guide, of hearts you train,
Of souls you daily mould;
You'd plead for wisdom, from a love,
Like David's son of old.

He asked not wealth, nor earthly fame,
Nor power to crush his foes;
"For heart to guide God's chosen ones,"
His earnest pleadings rose.

That prayer was heard, and God was pleased,
More than was asked, he gave;
And he will give true wisdom still,
To those who humbly crave.

O, Christian mother! Daily plead;
Be earnest, bumble true;
Keep God before your children's eyes,
And keep their souls in view.

And shun, O shun, the gilded sins
Of worldly praise and pride;
Keep closely in the "Narrow Path,"
And be your children's guide.

And when the Master calls for you,
And for the trust he gave;
"Here Lord's my trust and record true,"
"Through him who came to save."

Be this the joyful record given
When you and yours unite in heaven.

CHILDREN'S LETTERS ANSWERED.

FROM UNCLE MINOR.

Dear children; you have written so many good letters lately that I find I will get behind unless I answer you soon, and all at once. The last four numbers of the Advocate, the editors have kindly placed our letters in the family department, which suits us all much better, as we know where to find them. So keep on writing good little short news letters. They are short and sweet and people like to read such.

Yes, I know Bro. R. B. Trimble, and I wish I could see him and his dear little daughter. I hope all his children will grow up to be good and useful as he has been. Children don't know how anxious parents are about them—not to be rich and great, but good—or they would often try harder to be good. I have not seen Bro. Trimble for a long time, and I expect he is getting quite gray. So am I, but expect I can out-run and out-jump him yet, if I can't out-preach him.

Little Lizzie Potter, the dear little girl wrote me such a good letter from Smithville, Tenn. I am not ashamed of her, if she does live in the mountains. Am glad to know you have such a good Sunday-school, and that you all love Bro. Kidwell. He is a good man, and you know everybody ought to love good people. Bad people will sometimes try to grub up those who are trying to do right; but then God is a friend to those that serve him, and they need not fear.

And then here is a letter from little Belle Rogers. You don't live in Athens do you? I have heard of your father, as well as Bro. Wallace and Weatherford; they all have a good name, and if they will do right, they will keep it. While I was at Athens a few months ago I was talking to a merchant of that place, who did not know me. He said he "did not know anything about what kind of religion the "Campbellites" had, if any; but one thing was certain, they did not bring in the meanest dog tail cotton they had to satisfy their mortgages, and they always paid their debts." You say you have a large church house. That is all right, provided it is paid for, and I suppose it is. But it is important to have it filled with earnest, worshipers every Lord's day. Some people don't go to church, unless they have a preacher, who can get up and make a fine speech. This is all wrong. Every Christian should meet with the disciples every first day of the week to break bread, that is, attend to the Lord's supper, teach and exhort one another. to be faithful, good people. And here we find a place for the Sunday-school. I hope you have a good school, and are all trying to learn the truth as Jesus and the apostles taught it, and obey it, as fast as you learn it.

I see little Gideon Alsup has stumped his toe as well as I have; and don't it feel good when it stops hurting? A fellow can laugh then even through his tears. I do like to see boys and girls full of life and fun. They may sometimes be a little rude, but I had rather see even this than to see them afraid to laugh, cry, or hallo, for fear they will spoil their pretty faces. I am always sorry for many of the dear children in the cities. Their mothers keep them dressed up for company, and they soon become pale and sickly. Not long since I received a letter from my only sister in Texas. She said her children were so rude and boisterous that she was afraid they would never amount to much. I wrote her she need not fear. Let the dear children play and have just as much fun as they please, provided it is at the right time, and innocent. Some few children, however, don't think they are having any pleasure unless it is at the expense of some one else. Not long since I was in a city and I saw a big crowd of little boys having heap of fun, as they thought. I walked up among them and found them teasing a poor old crippled negro. One of them had knocked his crutch from under him, to see him fall on the hard pavement, and the balance were all laughing at the poor old man trying to get up. Now, this was very wicked in these boys, and they deserved a flogging. Children should remember that others have rights as well as they, and should respect them.

Well, here is little Alice Dewees. She has written such a good letter for one of her age that I want to thank her for it, and ask her to write often. Am glad your brother takes the Youth's Companion; it is a good paper. I like to see children fond of reading. Brother Ballinger thinks he knew me at Denton. I may have seen him somewhere, but not in Texas. I was never there in my life, but I have many little dear relations in that great State that I hope to see some day in person.

Now, I have never told the children my real name, and I expect I had better. I live at Hopkinsville, Ky., and my name is Volney Minor Metcalfe; but the children all call me Uncle Minor, or Brother Metcalfe. I have an interesting family of five boys and one girl, which I will tell you more about some time. I do not get to stay with them much, as I am engaged in a business that requires me to travel all the time. May God bless you all.

LETTER TO UNCLE MINOR.

Dear Uncle Minor: I saw the little folks' letters in the Advocate, and I have long desired to write to you. I think you are a good man in the Master's cause, and good to write such nice letters to the little folks. I am glad to say that a Bible class was organized last Sunday at our new church, and I hope to obtain much knowledge. Tell us what to call our new church. I went to church to day; Bro. Weatherford preached. We have a nice singing class. I hope that it will not be out of place to say that mama and I have found that probably about seventy prophecies fulfilled on Christ in the book of Matthew. I hope my letter will find a place in the Advocate. So wishing you a long, long life, I am affectionately, MECKIE WALLACE.

Athens, Alabama, March 30, 1884.

ETERNAL GAIN OF SERVING GOD.

No words are more expressive than those of the inspired apostle when he says: "He that soweth to the Spirit shall reap of the spirit life everlasting." Sowing to the spirit includes all that belongs to the love and service of God. The path of truly religious duty leads to an endless life and a glorious immortality. They who faithfully walk therein ever have before them glittering crowns that shall never fade, ecstatic joys that shall never fail, enraptured hosts that in multitude shall never wane, and blissful songs that shall never end. The really devoted servant of God will surely enter into rest when all earthly work is finished; and that rest shall be painless, tearless and deathless. Rightfully may each properly accredited worker "together with God," on earth, say with an apostle: "For me to live is Christ, and to die is gain." Godly living insures easy, happy, grateful dying, and affords an assurance of infinite blessedness beyond the faith-illuminated grave.

To all who confidently, lovingly and devotedly walk with God it can be said: "Ye have your fruit unto holiness, and the end of everlasting life." "They are constantly drawing nearer the city of God, which has "no need of the sun, neither the moon, to shine in it, and the lamb is the light thereof." A "Father's house," with its "many mansions," rises daily and hourly, more and more distinctly into view, as he whose hand is kept in the hand divine presses on towards the unequalled place prepared for each chooser of the heavenly way. Verily, it is the joy of the weary pilgrim from earth to heaven, of whom it may often be said, "faint but yet pursuing," to be able to exclaim as he draws nearer and nearer to the last mortal struggle: "I'm going home!" And there is no prospect of "Home, sweet home" like that, for pleasantness, which greets his vision, as one who will "endure to the end," and be "faithful unto death," and who feels that he has almost finished his course, and nearly reached the goal where the matchless prize of his high calling certainly awaits him.—Watchman.

HOW TO GET ALONG.

Don't stop to tell stories in business hours.
If you have a place of business, be found there when wanted.
No man can get rich sitting around stores and saloons.
Never "fool" in business matters.
Have order, system, regularity, and also promptness.
Do not meddle with business you know nothing of.
Do not kick every one in your path.
More miles can be made in a day by going steadily than by stopping.
Pay as you go.
A man of honor respects his word as he does his bond.
Help others when you can, but never give what you cannot afford to, simply because it is fashionable.
Learn to say no. No necessity of snapping it out dog-fashion, but say it firmly and respectfully.
Use your brains, rather than those of others.
Learn to think and act for yourself.
Keep ahead rather than behind the times.
Young man, cut this out, and if there be any fallacy in the argument, let us know it.

A GOOD WELCOME.

An old minister had advised the people of a certain neighborhood in Wales to hold "cottage prayer-meetings," taking the houses in regular order up the mountain-side. One day a poor woman went to a store and asked for two penny candles. The store-keeper said to her, "Why, Nancy, what do you want with penny candles? Is not rush-light good enough for you?" Her answer was, "O, yes, rush-light is good enough for me, but the prayer-meeting will soon be coming to my house, and I want to give the Lord Jesus a good welcome." Is there not a lesson here for each Christian? Are we always careful to "give the Lord Jesus a good welcome?" Or do we not too often keep the candles for self, and give the rush-light to him?—Anonymous.

SYMPATHY WITH THE YOUNG.

When a teacher's sympathy with the young people ceases, his usefulness is at an end. Through sympathy we are enabled to enter into the feelings of others; but sympathy must be based upon a knowledge of their feelings, which are dependent upon the time of life and character. As one who has never known a great sorrow can have very little sympathy with an afflicted one, so a teacher who has never had a deep spiritual experience is never competent to sympathize with, and so to guide, a pupil who is in the midst of deep spiritual longing and questioning. To remember how we ourselves felt in younger days is one of the best methods for helping us to meet the wants of the young people of our time.—Sunday-School World.

When we disclose our wants in prayer, O let our wills resign; and not a thought our bosom share, which is not wholly thine.

A Prominent Minister Writes.

Dr. Mosley—Dear Sir: After ten years of great suffering from indigestion or dyspepsia, with great nervous prostration and biliousness, disordered kidneys and constipation. I have been cured by four bottles of your Lemon Elixir, and am now a well man.

REV. C. C. DAVIS, Elder M. E. Church South.
No. 28 Talmall St. Atlanta, Ga.

From Two Prominent Ladies.

I have not been able in two years to walk or stand without suffering great pain. Since taking Dr. Mosley's Lemon Elixir, I can walk half mile without suffering the least inconvenience.

Mrs. R. H. BLOODWORTH, Griffin, Ga.

Dr. H. Mosley: After years of suffering from indigestion, great debility and nervous prostration, with the usual female irregularities and derangements accompanying such condition of a woman's health I have been permanently relieved by the use of your Lemon Elixir.

Mrs. E. DENNIS,
Mo. 46 Chapel St., Atlanta, Ga.

J. Pratt, druggist, Wright City, Missouri, writes: Lemon Elixir gives the greatest satisfaction. It has cured a case of chills and fever of four years standing.

Dr. Mosley's Lemon Elixir, prepared at his Drug Store, 114 Whitehall Street Atlanta, Ga.

It cures all biliousness, constipation, indigestion, headache, malarial, kidney disease, fever, chills, impurities of the blood, loss of appetite, debility and nervous prostration and all other diseases caused from diseased Liver and Kidneys.

Fifty cents for one pint bottle, one dollar for pint and a half bottle. Sold by druggist generally, and all wholesale druggist, Louisville, Ky.

Miscellaneous.

If we could read the secret history of our enemies, we should find in each man's life sorrow and suffering enough to disarm all hostility.—Drift-Wood.

Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" has become so thoroughly established in public favor that were is not for the forgetfulness of the people it would not be necessary to call attention to its power to cure consumption, which is scrofula of the lungs, and other blood diseases, as eruptions, blotches, pimples, ulcers, and liver complaint.

Devotion to the person of Christ that steers us clear of the doctrines and precepts of Christ, is sentimental rhapsody.—Dr. Herrick Johnson.

The best cure for disease of the nerves, brain and muscles, is Brown's Iron Bitters.

To indulge a consciousness of goodness is the way to lose it.—Shu-King (ancient sacred book of the Chinese.)

Marion, Mass.—Dr. N. S. Ruggles, says: "I recommend Brown's Iron Bitter's as a valuable tonic for enriching the blood and removing all dyspeptic symptoms. It does no harm to the teeth."

Fools usually know best that which the wise despair of ever comprehending.—Marie Eschenbach.

Dr. KLINE's Great Nerve Restorer is the marvel of the age for all Nerve Diseases. All fits stopped free. Send to 931 Arch Street, Philada., Pa.

SANITARIUM, Riverside, Cal. The dry climate cures. Nose, Throat, Lungs, full idea, 36p, route, cost free.

Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar overpowers the most troublesome cough.

Pike's Toothache Drops cure in one minute.

Glenn's Sulphur Soap cures skin diseases.

Catarrh Cured.

A Clergyman, after suffering a number of years from that dreadful disease Catarrh, and after trying every known remedy without success, at last found a prescription which completely cured and saved him from death. Any sufferer from this dreadful disease sending a self-addressed stamped envelope to Dr. J. A. LAWRENCE, Brooklyn, N. Y. will receive the recipe free of charge.

• Good works do not make a Christian, but one must be a Christian to do good works. The tree bringeth forth the fruit, not the fruit the tree. None is made a Christian by works, but by Christ; and being in Christ he brings forth fruit for Him.—Luther.

How Women Would Vote.

—Were women allowed to vote every one in the land who has used Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription" would vote it to be an unfailing remedy for the disease peculiar to her sex. By druggists.

He that judges, without informing himself to the utmost that he is capable, cannot acquit himself of judging amiss.—Locke.

Huntsville, Ala.—Dr. J. T. Ridley says: "Brown's Iron Bitters is a good appetizer and merits attention from sufferers."

Every man who enjoys a blessing should be prompted to think of those who are without it, and try to help them. Each benefit is a responsibility.

Extract of Report from the Celebrated Physicians, Erasmus Wilson, of London, Eng.: "Several severe cases of incipient Consumption have come under my observation that have been cured by the timely use of Golden's Liquid Beef Tonic. (Remember the name, Golden's—take no other.) Of druggists.

Forsufferers of Chronic Diseases, 36 pp, symptoms, remedies, helps, advice. Send stamp—Dr. Whittier, St. Louis, Mo., (oldest office.) State case your way.

AN ONLY DAUGHTER CURED OF CONSUMPTION.

When death was hourly expected, all remedies having failed, and Dr. H. James was experimenting with the many herbs of Calcutta, he accidentally made a preparation which cured his only child of Consumption. His child is now in this country, and enjoying the best of health. He has proved to the world that Consumption can be positively and permanently cured. The Doctor now gives this recipe free, only asking two 2-cent stamps to pay expenses. This Herb also cures Night Sweats, Nausea at the Stomach, and will break up a fresh Cold in twenty-four hours. Address Craddock & Co., 1032 Race St., Philadelphia, naming this paper.

15 Pounds Gained in Three Weeks, and CURED OF CONSUMPTION.

Messrs. Craddock & Co., 1032 Race St., Philadelphia, Pa.
GENTLEMEN:—Please send me twelve bottles of DR. H. JAMES' CANNABIS INDICA, one each of Pills and Ointment, for a friend of mine who is not expected to live; and as your medicines cured me of Consumption some three years ago, I want him to try them. I gained fifteen pounds while taking three bottles, and I know it is just the thing for him.
Respectfully, J. V. HULD,
Lawrenceburg, Anderson Co., Ky.

25 YEARS IN THE POULTRY YARD

108 Pages. It teaches you how to rear them to take care for them, to feed, to have them lay eggs in cold weather, to prevent and treat all diseases of old or young to be a "successful" poultryman. Only 25c. in stamps. A Fifty-page book FREE FOR ALL with it. A. M. LANG, Cove Dale Farm, Concord, Ky.

FOR the 7th edition "Life and Labors of the greatest of C. H. Spurgeon," the greatest preacher of the century. By Geo. C. Needham, the Evangelist. Endorsed by all denominations. The best selling Family book ever published. Agents are meeting with wonderful success. No competition. Any man or woman wanting a good business, address, for extra terms and special territory.

The GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER

Dr. Samuel Hodges' Alterative Compound Sarsaparilla with Iodide Potash. This compound is purely vegetable, each article of ingredient is perfectly harmless in itself, having been selected from roots and herbs possessing great medicinal properties, when combined forms a most powerful, efficient, and pleasant medicine for the removal and permanent cure of ALL diseases, arising from an impure state of system, viz.:

Rheumatism, Scrofula or King's evil, Scald-head or Tetter, Chronic Sore Eyes, Old or Chronic Sores of all kinds, Boils, Pimples, Syphilitic Rheumatism, Primary and Secondary Syphilis, Nervous Debility, Liver Complaints, Inflammation of the Kidneys and Bladder,

renovates and invigorates the system; acts gently on the bowels. As an appetizer and for general debility, it is a most excellent remedy.

CAMPBELL BROS., Druggists, Sole Manufacturers.

For Sale by all druggist. Price $1.00 per bottle, or 5 for $5 00. Liberal discount to the trade.

ALSO MANUFACTURERS OF

ETHIOPIAN PILE OINTMENT

A never failing remedy for External, internal or Itching Piles. Ask your Druggist for it. None genuine without the Trade Mark. Price $1.00 per Bottle.

TESTIMONIAL.

This is to certify that I was afflicted with Piles for twenty years. I tried every Remedy offered me. Finally used the Ethiopian Pile Ointment, and found it the very best preparation I ever used. It will give almost immediate relief and will finally effect a permanent cure.

Ed. A. IRELAND

Formerly of Gallatin, now of Breen, Phillips & Co., Nashville, Tennessee.

CAMPBELL BROS., Druggists,
or, Broad and Summer Sts.,
NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE.

F. H. STICKLEY. MRS. C. W. LEWIS

STICKLEY & LEWIS,

Having moved to our elegant store-room,
NO. 34 NORTH SUMMER STREET,

We will carry a large stock of fine Millinery and Fancy Goods, the light-running New Home Sewing Machines, Needles, Oil and Attachments for all machines. Fine imported German Canary Birds, good singers, $3 each. Bird Cages, Food and Tonic always on hand. Mrs. Lewis is also prepared to do Fashionable Dress Making, Dying Plumes, Cleaning Gloves and Stamping. Old Machines of any kind repaired or taken in part pay for the New Home.

CARPETS! CARPETS!

FROM

New York Bankrupt Sales.

MANLOVE & CO.,

26 and 28 N. Summer Street,

Are now in receipt of an immense stock, recently bought at prices lower than ever before. Now is the time to buy Good Carpets cheap, and guaranteed to be as cheap as any Eastern market.

MANLOVE & CO.,

26 and 28 N. Summer Street, - - NASHVILLE, TENN.

$66 a week in your own town. Terms and $5 outfit free. Address H. HALL & Co., Portland, Me.

$72 A WEEK, $12 a day at home easily made. Costly Outfit free. Address Taux & Co., Augusta, Me.

Warner Bros. Celebrated Coraline Corsets,
Are the acknowledged standard of Europe and America. The Coraline with which they are boned is superior to Whalebone both in durability and comfort.
The Health and Nursing Corsets shown above, have been before the public for ten years, with constantly increasing sales.
The Health Corset gives a lady the best form of any Corset ever made, and at the same time it is easy, flexible and very durable.
The Coraline, Flexible Hip, Abdominal and Misses' Corsets, are all very popular styles, either of which is sure to give satisfaction.

Price from $1 up.

FOR SALE BY LEADING MERCHANTS EVERYWHERE

Avoid all imitations. Be sure our name is on the box.

WARNER BROS.,
353 BROADWAY, NEW YORK

American College Song Book.

A collection of the Songs of 50 representative American Colleges. One can hardly imagine Songs fresher and brighter than these. 200 in number, and all newly contributed by the colleges in question, including Vassar and Wellesley. There is an average of 4 songs from each college. Price $2.00.
Also published, Carmina Collegensia, $3.00. University Songs, $2.50, and Students Life in Song, $1.50

THE STUDENT'S HISTORY OF MUSIC.

Just published.
BY DR. FREDERICK LOUIS BRITTEN.
A book of great importance, giving a concise and interesting narrative of the progress of music during the last 200 years. Price $2.50.

Almost ready.
A new Sunday School Song Book of fine quality, by Emerson and Sherwin. Wait for it.

CANTATAS AND OPERETTAS.

More and more used, every year, enliven School Life, and furnishes most valuable practice.

Forest Jubilee Band (40 cts.) new. Flower Festival on the Rhine (45 cts.) Crown of Virtue (50 cts.) Fairy Bridal (50 cts.) New Flower Queen (75 cts.) Hour in Fairy Land (60 cts.) Little Bo Peep (60 cts.) Three Little Kittens (60 cts.) Quarrel Among Flowers (35 cts.) Spring Holiday (60 cts.) School Festival (20 cts.) and Cinderella (50 cts.) are all lively and pretty Cantatas

OLIVER DITSON & CO., Boston.
C. H. DITSON & CO. J. E. DITSON & CO.
225 Broadway N. Y. 1228 Chestnut St., Phila.

BEAUTIFUL FLOWERS

NEW CHOICE SEEDS! FRUITS!
All of the best, both new and old. Plants, Trees, Vines, Seeds, etc., by mail, a specialty. Safe arrival guaranteed. 60 choice, cheap, $1 Sets, for example:

12 ROSES Ever-Blooming $1
30 PACKETS FLOWER SEEDS, $1.

For the other 58 $1 Sets and 1,001 things besides, send for our illustrated Catalogue of over 100 pages, free. None better nor more reliable. Established 30 yrs. 500 acres. 21 large Greenhouses.

THE STORRS & HARRISON CO.
FAIRFAXVILLE, LAKE COUNTY, OHIO

The Ministers' and Teachers' Bible.

This magnificent Parlor Bible is imported from London and is endorsed as "The Best" by the leading Bishops of England. In addition to the Old and New Testaments it contains a concordance of Bible Words, 40,000 References with Context; An Encyclopedia, A Dictionary of Proper Names, with Pronunciation, 12 full page color plates, Poetry, Music, Etymology, Plants, Animals, and Jewish sects of the Bible, etc. "Superior to all others."—N. Y. Times. "A complete Biblical Encyclopedia."—London Times. This Bible is bound in French morocco, gilt edges, with silk book-mark, and has copious references. Rev. Eli Milton, Norwalk, O., writes "The Bibles received to-day I am more than pleased." A Special Offer: To rapidly introduce this Bible in America we will, for a limited time only, send one copy, post-paid, to any address on receipt of only $2.00; 15% copies and one copy of Revised New Testament for $4.00; Other Bibles, with less matter, sell for $15. Order at once. WANTED! Circulars FREE.
C. S. MAYO & CO., 160 LaSalle St., Chicago, Ill.

SAMARITAN NERVINE

NEVER FAILS.
THE GREAT NERVE CONQUEROR

A SPECIFIC FOR
Epilepsy, Spasms, Convulsions, Falling Sickness, St. Vitus Dance, Alcoholism, Opium Eating, Syphilis, Scrofula, Kings Evil, Ugly Blood Diseases, Dyspepsia, Nervousness, Sick Headache, Rheumatism, Nervous Weakness, Brain Worry, Blood Sores, Biliousness, Costiveness, Nervous Prostration, Kidney Troubles and Irregularities. $1.50.
Sample Testimonials.
"Samaritan Nerve is doing wonders."
Dr. J. O. McLemoin, Alexander City, Ala.
"I feel it my duty to recommend it."
Dr. D. P. Laughlin, Clyde, Kansas.
"It cured where physicians failed."
Rev. J. A. Edie, Beaver, Pa.
Correspondence freely answered. For testimonials and circulars send stamp.
The Dr. S. A. Richmond Med. Co., St. Joseph, Mo.
Sold by all Druggists. (17)
Lord, Stotenburgh & Co., Ag'ts, Chicago, Ill."

Sabbath Bells

FOR SUNDAY SCHOOLS
SOCIAL MEETINGS, ETC.
LATEST SONG BOOK OUT.
What people say of it:
"Usually bright in stirring and joyful songs."
"A very superior book." "A grand work."
"Its songs are golden." "Never examined a better book."
"The quality of songs, together with its new and convenient arrangements, make it a most desirable work."
"An examination proves its superior merit."
"It speaks for itself." All we ask of Sunday Schools needing new song books, is to send for a sample copy before adopting any other. Single copy 35c., or $3.00 per doz. Sample copy to any address, 25 cents. Printed both in round and character notes.
FIRESIDE FRIEND PUBLISHING CO., Springfield, Ohio.

McSHANE BELL FOUNDRY.

Manufacture those celebrated Chimes and Bells for CHURCHES, ACADEMIES &c. Price-list and circulars sent free.

HENRY McSHANE & CO.,
Baltimore, Md.

Baltimore Church Bells

Since 1844 celebrated for Superiority over others, are made only of Purest Bell Metal (Copper and Tin) Rotary Mountings, warranted satisfactory. For Prices, Circulars, &c. address BALTIMORE BELL FOUNDRY, J. REGESTER & SONS, Baltimore, Md.

BUCKEY BELL FOUNDRY.
Bells of Pure Copper and Tin for Churches, Schools, Fire Alarms, Farms, etc. FULLY WARRANTED. Catalogue sent free.
VANDUZEN & TIFT, Cincinnati, O.

PILES "Anakesis"

"Anakesis" gives instant relief, and is an infallible cure for Piles. Price $1, at druggists, or sent prepaid by mail. Sample free. Ad. W. A. KESLER, Makers, Box 2416 New York.

2806 Lbs. Weight
Of Two Ohio Improved CHESTER HOGS. Send for description of this famous breed, Also Poultry. L. B. SILVER, CLEVELAND, O.

AGENTS OF DARING by Blue and Grey, is outselling all other books. Illustrated circular and terms free.
FORSHEE & McCHIN
Cincinnati, O.

SEEDS Our Annual Catalogue, Beautifully Engraved and Illustrated. Hints and Treatise on Southern CULTURE, VEGETABLES, GRASSES, SMALL GRAINS and FLOWERS.
MAILED FREE UPON APPLICATION.
E. M. SARGENT & CO.,
Seed Growers, Macon, Georgia.

THE COMPLETE HOME. Agents wanted. book. New edition. New bindings. for this beautiful book from new designs. Superbly gotten up. Same low price. Adapted to all classes. Sells at sight. Agents doing big work. EXCELLENT TERMS. The handsome prospectus ever issued. Apply now. Wm. GARRETTSON & CO., 30 College St., Nashville, Tenn. Also other grand new books and Bibles.

AGENTS Wanted for handsome illustrated standard works of character; great variety; low in price; selling fast; needed everywhere; Liberal terms.
Wm. Garrettson & Co., 30 College St., Nashville, Tenn.

TRADE-MARKS, PATENTS, COPY-RIGHTS, DESIGNS, RE-ISSUES.
Send description of your Invention. L. BINGHAM, Patent Lawyer and Solicitor, Washington, D. C.

BARNES'
Patent Foot and Steam Power Machinery. Complete outfits for Actual Work-shop Business. Lathes for Wood or Metal. Circular Saws, Scroll Saws, Formers, Mortisers, Tenoners, etc., etc. Machines on trial if desired. Descriptive Catalogue and Price List Free.
W. F. & JOHN BARNES,
No. 159 Ruby Street, Rockford, Ill.

FITS STOPPED FREE
Marvellous success. Insane Persons Restored. DR. KLINE'S GREAT NERVE RESTORE for all BRAIN & NERVE DISEASES. Only sure cure for Fits, Epilepsy and Nerve Affections. Invalids if taken as directed. No Fits after first day's use. Treatise and $2 trial bottle free to Fit patients, they paying expressage. Send name, P. O. and express address to Dr. KLINE, 931 Arch St., Philadelphia, Pa. See principal druggists.

EGGLESTON'S ELASTIC TRUSS
Has a Pad different from all others, is cup shape, with Self-Adjusting Ball in center, adapts itself to all positions of the body while the ball in the cup presses back the intestines just as a person does with the finger. With light pressure the Hernia is held securely day and night, and a radical cure certain. It is easy, durable and cheap. Sent by mail. Circulars free.
EGGLESTON TRUSS CO., Chicago, Ill.

25 YEARS IN THE POULTRY YARD

108 Pages. It teaches you how to rear them to care for them, to feed, to have them lay eggs in cold weather, to prevent and treat all diseases of old or young, to be a "successful" poultry man. Only 25 cents in stamps. A Fifty-page book FREE FOR ALL with it.
A. M. LANG, Cove Dale Farm, Concord, Ky.

WANTED A WOMAN

of sense and energy for our business in her locality, middle-aged preferred. Salary $35 to $50. References exchanged. GAY BROS. & CO., 14 BARCLAY ST., NEW YORK.

CHAMPLIN'S LIQUID PEARL
"A TRIP OF BEAUTY IN A JOY FOREVER."
FOR PRESERVING, RESTORING AND Beautifying the Complexion. For Removing SUNBURN, ACNE, PIMPLES, SALLOWNESS, BRUISING, ETC. LOTION—It is the best preparation for the face that I ever used. I now use nothing but CHAMPLIN'S LIQUID PEARL—it gives me pleasure to add my name to the list of those who recommend your "Liquid Pearl," and express the satisfaction it afforded me. The LIQUID PEARL has been analyzed by the ladies of all countries with the highest marks of appreciation. Only 50 cents a bottle, sent by all Druggists and Perfumers. CHAMPLIN & CO., FRANK, BOSTON, U.S.A.

WANTED HELP.
Entirely New. PROFITABLE. Outfit Free.
We want an AGENT in every locality. Something entirely new. Our Agents are sweeping the field wherever they go, and making money rapidly. Men, women, boys, girls, all do equally well. Will send you full outfit on receipt of 2 cent stamp. Don't delay. Address at once, S. S. PUBLISHING CO., Brownwood, Texas.

"THE BEST IS CHEAPEST."
ENGINES, THRESHERS SAW-MILLS, Horse Powers, Clover Haulers
(Suited to all sections.) Write for FREE Illustr. Pamphlet and Prices to The Aultman & Taylor Co., Mansfield, Ohio.

CATARHIT
To any suffering with Catarrh or Bronchitis who earnestly desire relief, I can furnish a means of Permanent and Positive Cure. A Home Treatment. No charge for consultation by mail. Valuable Treatise Free. Certificates from Doctors, Lawyers, Ministers, Business-men. Address Rev. T. P. CHILDS, Troy, Ohio.

ACME Songs for the International Sunday School Lessons (Words and Music) adapted to each lesson in April, May, June, 32 pps., 40 songs, 5c., 25 for $1 (mailed). Free copy to Pastor or Supt. sending postage.
J. C. O. REDINGTON, 267 Broadway, N. Y.

PAYSON'S INDELIBLE INK
Is the BEST. No preparation. Used with any clean pen for marking any work on fabric. Popular for decorative work on linen. Received Centennial MEDAL & Diplomas. Established 50 years. Sold by all Druggists, Stationers & News Agents.

OPIUM
Habit easily cured with CHLORIDE OF GOLD
LESLIE E. KEELEY, M. D., SURGEON, C. & A. R. H. DWIGHT, Illinois.

The Great Church LIGHT.
FRINK'S Patent Reflectors give the Most Powerful, the Softest, Cheapest and the Best Light known for Churches, Stores, Show Windows, Parlors, Banks, Offices, Picture Galleries, Theatres, Depots, etc. New and elegant designs. Send size of room. Get circular and estimate. A liberal discount to churches and the trade.
I. F. FRINK, 551 Pearl St., N. Y.

OPIUM Machine Habit Cured in 10 to 20 Days. No Pay until Cured.
J. L. STARRS, M. D., Lebanon, Ohio.
How to rear and manage poultry. Send a ten-cent piece to H. H. Stoddard, Hartford, Ct., for a copy of his Poultry World, and it will tell you.

CHEAP BOOTS AND SHOES!

We are now receiving our Spring Stock of Fine Custom-made Boots, Shoes, and Hats. Our prices will be found reasonable. Give us a call. Trunks at cost.

ALDRICH & HARRIS,

106 UNION ST., (bet. College and Market,) NASHVILLE TENN.

WE HAVE JUST RECEIVED A LARGE STOCK OF

DRY GOODS AND NOTIONS,

BOUGHT FROM THE BEST FACTORIES EAST.

We don't advertise goods lower than we can sell them to deceive the people and get them to our store. But our expenses are small and we are going to sell everything in our line as low as the lowest, you can depend on that; and will try to make it pleasant for all to patronize us, by having polite salesmen to wait on you, and one price, and that the lowest.

We are Southern agents for a large Eastern Manufacturer of Dress Goods, Flannels, Linsey, Jeans, Doeskins, Cassimeres, Cheviot Shirtings.

All the best Goods, and prices can't be beat in any market.

Be sure you see our cloaks and other specialties before you buy. Thanking you for past favors, and hoping to have frequent calls from you soon, We are Respectfully,

DODD BROTHERS,

(103 Union street,) NASHVILLE, - - TENN.

"THE BEST IS THE CHEAPEST."
SAW ENGINES THRESHERS, HORSE POWERS, (Local sections and purposes. Write for Free Pamphlet and Prices to The Aultman & Taylor Co., Mansfield, Ohio.)

WILL OWNERS SEND FOR PAMPHLET.
ALCOTTS WATER WHEELS
MANUFACT'D AT MOUNT HOLLY N.J.

SEEDS Our new catalogue, best published, Free to all. 1,500 varieties, 300 illustrations. You ought to have it. Benson, Maule & Co., Philadelphia, Pa.

PATENTS Hand-Book FREE. R. S. & A. P. LACEY, Patent Att'ys, Washington, D. C.

$5 to $20 per day at home. Sample worth $5 free. Address SWINSON & CO., Portland, Me.

STEAM COOKED CEREALS.

Choicest Foods in the World, for Old and Young.

Selected grain, all hulls, cooked, and impurities removed. CRUSHED, STEAM COOKED AND DESICCATED. Patented. Prepared, as wanted, for the table, in ten minutes. Saving money. Saving fuel. Saving time. Saving waste. Saving health. Easy to digest, being already thoroughly cooked.
A. B. C. WHITE OATS. A. B. C. WHITE WHEAT. A. B. C. BARLEY FOOD. A. B. C. MAIZE.
(Registered Trade-Mark.)
Ask for A. B. C. only. THE CEREALS MFG CO.,
For sale by all Grocers. Send for circular, 88 MURRAY ST., NEW YORK

FREEMAN & KEESEE, INTERIOR DECORATORS,

NO. 33 N. COLLEGE STREET, NASHVILLE, TENN.

Wall Paper and Decorations, Window Shades, Cornice, Curtain Poles, Gold and Walnut Pier and Mantle Mirrors, Engravings, Chromos, and Oil Paintings. Frames of All Kinds in Stock and Made to Order. Re-Gilding Old Frames a Specialty. Manufacturers of Fine Frames and Wood Mantles. CORRESPONDENCE SOLICITED. Ap9

KEEP COOL!

SUMMER GOODS.

Refrigerators, Ice Chests, Water Coolers, Filters, Fruit Jars, Fruit Cans, Stoneware, Woodenware, and all kinds of Kitchen Goods. Cooking Stoves to suit the requirements of every family. Prices to suit the times.

Phillips-Buttorff Manufacturing Co.,

24 & 26 College Street, Nashville, Tenn.

PIGUE, MANIER & CO., WHOLESALE DEALERS IN BOOTS AND SHOES, NO. 40 SOUTH MARKET STREET, NASHVILLE, TENN.

We are receiving a very large stock of Spring and Summer goods that we have had manufactured expressly for us, which we think, with our long experience and facilities, we can offer inducements, equal to any market, to prompt and cash dealers. All goods warranted to be as represented.

NEW CHRISTIAN HYMN TUNE BOOK

It is a superior book in the following seven particulars:

1. Excellence and Completeness of Hymns.
2. Simplicity and Beauty of Music.
3. Arrangement of Analytical Index.
4. Protracted Meetings and Gospel Songs.
5. Editions and Prices.
6. Paper, Printing and Binding.
7. Cheapest Book in the Market considering the Number of Hymns and Tunes in it.

Sample copy in cloth mailed for 60 cents. Sample copy in boards mailed for 85 cents.

Descriptive circulars, enlarging on the above seven points, free. It is better, however, to get a sample copy and circular. Address,

FILLMORE BROS., 185 Race St., Cincinnati, O.

BURRITT COLLEGE, SPENCER, TENN.

THIS INSTITUTION, chartered in 1848, has now been favorably known for more than thirty years, for its discipline, both as regards education and government. Located on the Cumberland Plateau, it is free from epidemics. The water is pure freestone and chalybeate. The breezes of Summer are delightful and invigorating, and the gales of winter not too severe. The College buildings, recently enlarged by the Christian Brotherhood of Tennessee, are sufficiently commodious to accommodate a large class of young Ladies and Gentlemen. Spencer is ten miles South-east of Manchester & McMinnville Railroad.

TERMS:

Tuition, Primary Department, per Session, $7.50
Preparatory, " " 15.00
Collegiate, " " 20.00
Tuition, Commercial Department per Session, $20.00
Lessons instrumental Music from $15 to $20
" in Art Department from 2.50 to 10

Board and washing for males, per week, from $2.00 to $2.50; Fuel, light, and incidental expenses, per session, $10.00; Board (including washing, fuel, and light) for females, per week $3.00.

The Spring Session of 1884, begins on the Last Monday in February.

For further particulars address,

Prof. A. T. SEITZ, President,

Or W. H. SUTTON, Sec. Board Trustees.

THE EASTER ANGELS

A BEAUTIFUL Easter Service

With Responsive Recitations and Music prepared expressly for it.

By GEO. F. ROOT and H. BUTTERWORTH.

The Responses are so arranged that they may be used by classes or individuals, thus giving additional variety and interest. The Service is arranged under the following heads:

First Subject, THE EASTER ANGELS; Second Subject, CHRIST COMFORTETH MANY; Third Subject, MIGHTY TO SAVE; Fourth Subject, PAUL'S TESTIMONY; Fifth Subject, ALL POWER IS GIVEN UNTO ME. Each Subject has appropriate music and readings.

Price, 5cts. Fifty cents per doz. by mail: $4.00 per 100 by express.

Published by JOHN CHURCH & CO., CINCINNATI, O.

CHICAGO: NEW YORK: J. CHURCH & CO. 200 Wabash Ave. 6 Union Square.

FOR SALE BY Booksellers and Music Dealers Generally.

STEM WINDING MUSICAL WATCH

Each Watch is finely made, silver plated and the greatest novelty ever offered to the boys and girls of America. It is a Complete Musical Instrument, also and shape of a Watch, with Music Box attachment concealed within, so arranged that when wound at the stem, plays one of the following tunes: "Home, Sweet Home," "Yankee Doodle," "Blue Bells of Scotland," "Coming Through the Rye," "Swanee River," "Carnival of Venice," "Grandfather's Clock," "Waltz, Polka, Schottische," and "Wait till the clouds Roll By." The notes, time, and tones are correct. It instructs and entertains both Old and young. On receipt of 30 Cents, will send it by mail, post-paid. Just think of it! A Music Box for 30 Cents. Postage Stamps taken. SPECIAL OFFER:—If you will order before June 15th, we will send you FOUR for only $1.00. You will be delighted with them. Address: A. E. PRATT & CO., No. 27 Park Place, New York.

and WHISKY HABITS cured at home without pain. Book of particulars sent Free. B. M. WOOLLEY, M. D., Atlanta, Ga.

OPIUM AGENTS EITHER SEX, we have the newest, best and fastest selling articles out. No capital required. Goods paid for after sold. EMPIRE CO., 38 Canal St., N. Y.

DR. C. P. DUNCAN'S LIVER AND KIDNEY MEDICINE.

The great preventive and cure of all malarial diseases, and a sure cure for all forms of dyspepsia and indigestion; it acts directly upon the Liver and all the secretory glands of the stomach and bowels, it cures the disease by removing the cause from the system that produces or brings on the disease, hence it is unsurpassed for the cure of Constipation, sour stomach, heartburn, headache, and all those symptoms indicating the wants of a proper action of those glands situated in the stomach and bowels. Two or three bottles of Dr. Duncan's Liver and Kidney Medicine is positively recommended to relieve and cure any of the above diseases if taken as directed. Price 75 cents.

Cure for Croup!

Dr. Duncan's Cough Balsam is the best remedy known to the medical profession for the prompt and sure cure of Croup in children; it is pleasant and harmless. No mother should be without a bottle in their house. Price 50 cents.

Bad Colds and Sore Throats

Promptly cured with Dr. Duncan's Cough Balsam; is a sure cure for sore throats, coughs and colds. It is unsurpassed for WHOOPING COUGH, and all bronchial diseases in children.

Chapped Hands, Lips,

Sore Eyes, Piles, and all abrasions of the skin, cured promptly with Duncan's Ointment.

DR. DUNCAN'S

BLOOD SYRUP,

the great alternative, will remove any and all impurities from the blood, and cure all eruptions of the Skin. For Scrofula it never fails to cure.

CHILDREN CRY FOR

DUNCAN'S WORM SYRUP.

It is sure, safe, pleasant and cheap. Try it.

CONSUMPTION

Positively Cured. No Humbug.

By the use of Dr. J. LAWSON'S PULMONARY POWDERS, a FREE TRIAL BOX of which will be sent to all sufferers POST PAID, with treatise and full directions for their use.

Hundreds and thousands have been cured by their use.

Large Box $1.00, two boxes $1.00.

Address, PHILIP HENRY, 49 South St., New York City.

A PRIZE

Send six cents for postage, and receive free a costly box of goods which will help you to more money right away than anything else in this world. All, of either sex, succeed from first hour. The broad road to fortune opens before the workers, absolutely sure. At once address TAY & Co., Augusta, Maine.

Good Pay for Agents. $100 to $200 per mo., made selling our fine Books & Bibles. Write to J. C. McCurdy & Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.

AGENTS WANTED for our new Religious book, the greatest success of the year. Send for illustrated circular if you want to make money. FORSHEE & McMAKIN, Cincinnati.

PENSIONS for any disability; also to Heirs. Send stamps. New Laws. Col. L. BINGHAM, Attorney, Washington, D. C.

IT PAYS to sell our Hand Rubber Stamps. Samples free. FOLJAMBE & Co., Cleveland, O.

Home Items.

—"All your own fault

"If you remain sick when you can Get Hop Bitters that never—Fail.

—The weakest woman, the smallest child, and sickest invalid can use Hop Bitters with safety and great good.

—Old men tottering around from Rheumatism, kidney trouble, or any weakness, will be almost new by using Hop Bitters.

—My wife and daughter were made healthy by the use of Hop Bitters, and I recommend them to my people. —Methodist Clergymen.

Ask any good doctor if Hop Bitters is not the best family medicine on earth.

—Malaria fever, Ague, and Biliousness will leave every neighborhood as soon as Hop Bitters arrive.

—"My mother drove the paralysis and neuralgia all out of her system with Hop Bitters."—Ed. Oswego Sun.

—Keep the kidneys healthy with Hop Bitters, and you need not fear sickness.

—Ice water is rendered harmless and more refreshing and reviving with Hop Bitters with each draught.

—The vigor of youth for the aged and infirm in Hop Bitters.

—"At the chance of life nothing equals Hop Bitters to allay all troubles incident thereof."

—"The best periodical for ladies to take monthly, and from which they will receive the greatest benefit, is Hop Bitters.

—Mothers with sickly, fretful, nursing children, will cure the children and benefit themselves by taking Hop Bitters daily.

—Thousands die annually from some form of kidney disease that might have been prevented by a timely use of Hop Bitters.

—Indigestion, weak stomach, irregularities of the bowels, cannot exist when Hop Bitters are used.

A timely * * * use of Hop Bitters will keep a whole family in robust health a year at a little cost.

—To produce real genuine sleep and child-like repose all night, take a little Hop Bitters on retiring.

—That indigestion of stomach gas at night, preventing rest and sleep, will disappear by using Hop Bitters.

—Paralytic, nervous, tremulous old ladies are made perfectly quiet and sprightly by using Hop Bitters.

MONARCH HORSE HOE

AND CULTIVATOR COMBINED

For Hoeing & Hilling Potatoes, Corn, Onions, Beets, Cabbages, Turnips, &c.

SENT ON 30 Days' TEST TRIAL.

An immense saving of labor and money. We guarantee a boy can cultivate and hoe and hill potatoes, corn, etc., 16 times as easy and fast as one man can the old way.

Illustrated Catalogue FREE. AGENTS WANTED. Mention this paper. Address

Monarch Mfg. Co., 296 State St., Chicago, Ill.

FOR the 7th edition of "Life and Labors of C. H. Spurgeon," the greatest of the century. By Geo. C. Needham, the Evangelist. Endorsed by all denominations. The best selling Family book ever published. Agents are meeting with wonderful success. No competition. Any man or woman wanting a good business, address, for extra terms and special territory.

25 YEARS IN THE POULTRY YARD

108 Pages. It teaches you how to rear them to take care for them, to feed, to have them lay eggs in cold weather, to prevent and treat all diseases of old or young, to be a "successful" poultryman. Only 25c. in stamps. A Fifty-page book FREE FOR ALL with it. A. M. LANG, Cove Dale Farm, Concord, Ky.

HILLMAN, BUFORD & JUSTI,
NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE,
 SOLE AGENTS FOR THE
 Genuine Brown Walking Cultivator and Double-Shovel Plow,

Corn Shellers, Feed Cutters, Avery Chilled Plows, Road Scrapers, Fish Bros.
 Wagons, Jacobs' Barrows,

IRON, STEEL, BLACKSMITH'S TOOLS, HARDWARE,

Call on or address

HILLMAN, BUFORD & JUSTI, 18 and 20 South Market Street, Nashville, Tenn.

A.C. & J.C. March.

SUCCESSORS TO

J. D MARCH & SONS

Manufacturers and Dealers in

SADDLES, HARNESS, BRIDLES, COLLARS,
 TRUNKS, BAGS, HAMES, VALISES, WHIPS, CHAINS, &c.

50 NORTH MARKET STREET
 NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE.

Repairing Done at Short Notice

NASHVILLE, CHATTANOOGA & ST. LOUIS
 RAILWAY.

BUSINESS MEN, TOURISTS, REMEMBER

EMIGRANTS, FAMILIES,

The Best Route to St. Louis and the West is via McKensie.

The Best Route to West Tennessee and Kentucky, Mississippi, Arkansas, and Texas points is via McKensie.

The Best Route to the Summer Resorts and Mountain Retreats of Tennessee, Virginia and the Carolinas, via McKensie and Nashville.

The Best Route to the celebrated Colleges, Universities, Seminaries and other Educational Institutions in the Southeast, via McKensie and Nashville.

The Best Route to points in East Tennessee, Virginia, the Carolinas, Georgia and Florida is via Chattanooga.

DON'T FORGET IT!

—By this line you secure the—
MAXIMUM OF SPEED, SAFETY, COMFORT, SATISFACTION,

—AT THE—
MINIMUM OF EXPENSE, ANXIETY, BOTHER, FATIGUE.

Be sure to Buy your Tickets over the

N., C & ST. L. RAILWAY!

If you are going to Washington City, Baltimore, Philadelphia, or New York.

The Inexperienced Traveler need not go amiss; few changes are necessary, and such as are unavoidable are made in Union Depots.

THROUGH SLEEPERS!

—BETWEEN—

Nashville and Atlanta, and Atlanta and Jacksonville, Fla., Nashville and Martin (to connect with Sleeperservice via Cairo to St. Louis and Chicago), Nashville and Columbus, Nashville and Memphis (Sleeper Humboldt to Mobile, and Milan to New Orleans), McKensie and Little Rock, and Little Rock and Texas points.

Call on or address
 J. H. PEEBLES, T. A., Chattanooga, Tenn.
 W. W. KNOX, T. A., Nashville, Tenn.
 E. S. FINLEY, Ticket Agent, Memphis, Tenn.
 A. B. WHEEN, Trav. A., Atlanta, Ga.
 W. L. DANLEY, G. P. & T. A., Nashville, Tenn.

Mars Hill College.

With pleasure we lay before our readers the following extracts from the Fourteenth Annual Announcement of Mars Hill College, an institution perpetually wielding a wonderful and wide-spread influence for truth, refinement and righteousness.—EDITORS.

POSITIONS PROCURED FOR OUR PUPILS.

We make a specialty of preparing pupils for

(1.) PREACHING; (2.) TEACHING; (3.) PREACHING and TEACHING.

Many educated here—among whom are successful lawyers, physicians, merchants, salesmen, mechanics, farmers, editors, authors, teachers and preachers—have so demeaned themselves, that the humility, fidelity, integrity, accuracy and ability of "Mars Hill students" have become proverbial. There is, consequently, such a demand for the services of our pupils, that we deem it perfectly safe to promise to procure pleasant, profitable and honorable positions for all who qualify themselves here for usefulness. Indeed, for several years we have been able to fill comparatively few of the positions tendered.

HEALTHFULNESS!

Mars Hill as a Health Resort.

Our school was founded in 1870. All the "doctor bills," for services rendered our pupils, from then till now, do not, we think, amount to twenty-five dollars—probably not to one dollar a year. Those who have come here pale and puny, from malarial districts, have, without an exception, we believe, returned to their homes enjoying health.

What "Watering Place," or "Health Resort," then, can justly claim more, as a health-preserver and health-restorer, than Mars Hill? Address,

T. B. LARIMORE, President.

FLORENCE, ALABAMA.

W. A. LANNOM, The Cash Clothier,

18 PUBLIC SQUARE, NASHVILLE, TENN.,

Has received his large and elegant stock of Spring and Summer clothing, Gents Furnishing Goods and Hats, which is full and complete in every respect; and for quantity, quality, style, fit and price, we stand far ahead of all competition. An inspection of our large stock and low prices, will fully prove what we claim. Bear in mind, we sell strictly for cash, which enables us to offer the greatest inducements.

CAPITOL PLANING MILL,

Corner Line and Vine Streets, near Northwest Corner Capitol Grounds,
 NASHVILLE, - - - TENN.

J. W. McCULLOUGH,

Manufacturer and Dealer in

FRAMES, SASH, DOORS, BLINDS,

Scroll Sawing, Dressed Flooring, Weatherboarding and Ceiling.

Country Orders Solicited, and Promptly Attended To.

JUST OUT!

"Our Orthodoxy in the Civil Courts,"

JUST OUT!

A full proceeding in the Circuit Court in Noble county, Indiana, in the trial of our orthodoxy. Everybody should read this interesting book. Send at once. Paper, 50c; cloth, $1.00.

JAMES F. & HARRY LIPSCOMB,

98 Union Street,

Nashville, Tennessee.

BOILER REPAIRS.

Thos. S. Simpson, William Chatham,
 79 South College St., Nashville, Tenn.,

Are prepared to do all kinds of repairing of Boilers, Tanks, etc., at very reasonable rates. We have had 30 years practical experience in the business, and ask a share of the public patronage. We guarantee good work.

WHEN YOU WANT
 WRITING DESKS,
 Photograph Albums,
 AUTOGRAPH ALBUMS,
 GOLD PENS, PENCILS,
 PORT-MONNIES,
 CARD CASES, Etc.

OR ANYTHING IN THE WAY OF
 Staple and Fancy Stationery
 Call upon us. We can suit you in
VARIETY, Q AND PRICE.

A. B. Payne & Co.,
61 UNION STREET.

Orders by Mail receive Prompt Attention.

B. S. RHEA & SON,
 PROPRIETORS RHEA'S ELEVATOR,
 AND DEALERS IN

Grain, Hay, Flour

AND BURLAP SACKS,

No. 32 South Market Street,
 NASHVILLE, - - - TENN.
 (Correspondence Solicited.)

C. F. HUDSON. S. G. STRATTON.

C. F. HUDSON & CO.,

Merchant Tailors & Clothiers,

EAST SIDE PUBLIC SQUARE,

LEBANON, TENN.,

Are now receiving one of the largest, best and cheapest stock of clothing and piece goods, ever offered to the public. We are agents for the Charlottesville, Va., woolen goods, which cannot be surpassed for beauty and durability.

Call and examine our goods. We will save you money.

SOME OF THE THINGS WE BUY TO SELL.

CHINA IN ALL OF ITS GRADES,
 GLASSWARE OF EVERY DESCRIPTION,
 QUEENSWARE OF ALL KINDS,

Bracket Lamps, Hall Lamps,
 Study Lamps, Chandeliers,

Knives and Forks, Spoons, Waiters,
 Tea Trays,

Looking-Glasses, Ice Cutting
 Machines,

Eureka Coffee and Teapots,
 Castors.

And a great variety of housekeeping goods too numerous to mention, all of which we offer at reasonable rates. Call and see us, or send your orders to

HICKS, HOUSTON & CO.,

51 N. College & 54 N. Market Sts.,

NASHVILLE, - - - TENN.

THE GOSPEL ADVOCATE.

VOLUME XXVI. }
NUMBER 16.

NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE, APRIL 16, 1884.

{ $2.00 YEARLY IN ADVANCE.
POSTAGE PREPAID.

EDITORS:

D. LIPSCOMB,

E. G. SEWELL.

I dare not idle stand,
But at my Lord's command,
Labor for him throughout my life's short day;
Evening will come at last,
Day's labor all be past,
And rest eternal my brief toil repay.

GOOD WORK THE LIFE OF CHRISTIANS.

"Therefore, my beloved brethren, be ye steadfast, unmovable, always abounding, in the work of the Lord." 1 Cor. xv: 58. Work is the true secret of prosperity and happiness in every department of human life. From the time that man was placed in the garden of Eden "to dress it and to keep it," work has been the order of things pertaining to man on earth. And after the first disobedience, and the rejection of man from that garden, man's work, and especially the character of it has been greatly increased. In the garden, everything to be done in dressing and keeping it, was doubtless of the most pleasant character, only calculated to please and delight, not to fatigue and wear. But after the rejection from the garden of delights, in which the Lord caused everything to grow that was good for food or pleasant to the eyes, the whole order of things was changed. Thorns and briars were caused to spring forth and grow abundantly, so that man now has to labor and toil to clear these away, and keep them from destroying everything he plants in the earth. Hence in this state of things, God said, "in the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread till thou return unto the ground."

Hence man's labor and toil have been greatly increased on account of sin, on account of rebellion against God on the part of man. And ever since that rebellion occurred, the only foundation for earthly prosperity and happiness is found in honest, faithful toil. - It is good for both body and mind. And every effort on the part of man to avoid this decree of God regarding labor is demoralizing and ruinous in its tendency. Idleness and indisposition on the part of man to labor, is the foundation of much of the wickedness and suffering now going on in the world.

Among those who engage daily in some honest department of work, general cheerfulness, prosperity, and happiness prevail. But where idleness reigns, poverty, want, and destitution are found, with all their train of ignorance and general degradation; or on the other hand, crime, such as theft, robbery, rapine, murder, deception and fraud abound. And from this universal law of labor, of toil, of honest industry, none can turn without loss of honesty, virtue, and happiness, as the crowds of unemployed, lazy, loafing, gambling, reckless men that swarm the cities and thoroughfares of our country fully attest. There is no such safe-guard to the success, virtue and happiness of people as pertaining to this life as honest toil. This fact alone shows that while burdensome toil is a result of man's sin and rebellion against God, it is the very best thing possible for man in his fallen estate, and that it is continued evidence of goodness and mercy on the part of God in so ordaining. For the nearest approach back to Eden's joys that man can make as pertaining to this earthly life, is active, honest labor. And the more men try to avoid this sort of labor, the lower they sink in everything low, shameful and mean. And while this is true in the physical man, the same principal is true in the spiritual man.

Spiritual work, activity in the divine appointments of God is just as necessary to spiritual growth and development as in the physical. No man can be a strong Christian without work in the Lord's vineyard. No man can enjoy Christianity and be happy in it without spiritual work. God has ordained this also, and has ordained it for our spiritual good and happiness. It is done in love and mercy. And the highest good, the purest happiness that can be reached by the child of God on this earth is found in doing most faithfully the work of the Lord. The happiest, the purest members of the church of God on earth are those most faithful to the appointments of the house of the Lord, the church of God. Those members that are always found in their places on the first day of the week doing the work of the Lord, are the ones that enjoy the precious promises of God most, and the ones that have an approving conscience, and the only ones that are showing to the world the beauties of our holy religion.

"Visiting the fatherless and widows in their afflictions" is one part of the work of the Lord, and a very important part. Two parties are always made happy when this work is done in the spirit of the Master. Those receiving are made happy in having their wants and sufferings relieved, while those that relieve them are still happier in the heavenly principle announced, that "it is more blessed to give than to receive." Among the purest joys of the Christian life are those that arise from relieving the distresses of God's poor. Those Christians who shut up their hearts against this work, know nothing of these joys, and deserve none. Prayer is another department of the work of the Lord that affords untold joys and consolations to him who is faithful in it. The consolations derived through this channel by Godly men of all ages would be impossible to tell. Take such men as Hezekiah, Daniel, David, Elijah, and Moses, as also Abraham, Jacob, and all that holy throng that through the ages gone by were praying men, and who fully confided everything to the Lord, with the assurance that he would do right, would do what was best for them. A man who thus prays and trusts the promises of God has a source of happiness that the world, and the cold, prayerless Christian know nothing about.

The Christian who day by day pours forth his soul in prayer to God, with full assurance that God will hear and answer his prayers, can fully appropriate and enjoy the assurance given in the word of God "that all things work together for good to them that love God, to them who are the called according to his purpose." Full and child-like trust in God is calculated to give joy and consolation all along the journey of life. The Christian who lives in faithful submission to God, and prays humbly and devotedly to him, and commits his way to him that judgeth righteously, has a full right to happiness here, and a sure promise of happiness hereafter. But the Christian who does not pray is little more than a mere philosopher, and looks upon every event of life as mere chance, or the result of unalterably fixed laws. And in either case, there is no thought of any regard or care from the heavenly Father. But he who believes that God will hear and answer prayer, and practices upon this principle can see the hand of God in every event, in the seasons, the rain and the sunshine, the floods and the drouth, and in all these feels assured that whatever the Lord does is best, and is ever thankful and happy.

Every Christian also should take deep interest in the public work and worship of the Lord's house. He should learn to take part in everything. He should ever be present and take part in the songs, the prayers, the Lord's supper, the reading and study of God's word, the contributions, and everything that the Lord has ordained. Every one should have something to do in the Bible class, the teaching of the young in the divine oracles, or some work of the kind. No Christian should be willing to sit still in any matter in which he can work, and let others do all, while he himself does nothing. Let any member that does not feel much interest in the worship of the Lord's house take hold of some sort of work that he can do there; let him take a class of children to teach in the Lord's day school, or anything that will be useful, and his interest in those meetings will increase to an extent that he has no idea of. Or if a member that feels no interest in attending the Lord's house, will undertake to sweep and dust the house, and light the lamps, and keep the house neat and clean, in which the brethren meet to worship, he will soon be astonished at the rapidity with which his interest in the church of God will increase. Soon he will begin to feel that something is wrong, and that he is sustaining a great loss when not there. All must have something to do in the Lord's vineyard, if their own spiritual good is secured. No wonder those Christians that do nothing in the church have but little spiritual life. All should do everything in their power for their own good. The more they do for others, the more they do for themselves. Those Christians who just float along, and seek to avoid all responsibility in the work of the Lord, and leave all the work to be done by others, are poor, weakly ones at best, and if they reach heaven at last, they will have great reason to sing—

"Amazing grace, how sweet the sound,
That saved a wretch like me."

Or, on the other hand, change that good old-fashioned song a little, and sing—

"I will be carried to the skies,
On flowery beds of ease;
While others fight to win the prize,
And sail through bloody seas."

There is no arrangement in the religion of Jesus for souls that will not work in the Lord's vineyard. All must "abound in the work of the Lord," if they expect to enjoy the religion of the Savior here, and be prepared for happiness and joy hereafter. Those who expect others to do all the work, while they enjoy luxury and pleasure, are not only mere drones in the way, but are in actual rebellion against God. He requires work, and does not promise that any will go to heaven without it. "Not every one that saith unto me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven; but he that doeth the will of my Father which is in heaven." And the doing of that will requires work, earnest, faithful work, and much of it. The expression, "Always abounding in the work of the Lord," means unceasing toil in the vineyard, the church of God. E. G. S.

THE REVIEWER REVIEWED.

In the Missionary Baptist of Jan. 9, 1884, over the name of W. H. Smith was an article bearing the above title.

One thing is certain, if the readers of the Missionary had the tract that he attempts to review, before them, they would at once see that a more appropriate name for his article would be, I have suppressed the truth. I desire, however, for the benefit of some of my Baptist friends, to notice a few things in his pretended review.

First, he quotes from a tract written and published by myself in the year 1879, entitled: "A Review of Elder Billy Harris' Essays on Christian Communion," leaving out enough to keep his readers from realizing the force of my argument, and to make it appear that I had contradicted the language of Christ. I will give the extract here with the necessary correction:

"After having referred to Acts ii: 33-41, on page 15, Mr. Carter says, previous to this (from the ascension of the Saviour,) no man had authority to preach, not a single discourse was preached, and it was positively forbidden. Jesus had told them to tarry at Jerusalem until they were endued with power from on high. But here we have the gospel preached in all its fullness; the door of the kingdom opened; the terms of entering the kingdom and remission of sins offered in the name of Jesus Christ for the first time. Now courteous reader, do you doubt this being the beginning of the kingdom of Christ?" If so, listen to the Apostle Peter, when some time after this, in his vindication before his Jewish brethren, in reference to receiving the first Gentile converts, he says: As I began to speak, the Holy Ghost fell on them (the Gentiles) as on us, (the Jews) at the beginning, Acts ii: 15.

This is the main quotation Mr. Smith makes from my tract. Now read it and leave out the part enclosed in brackets and you will have it just as he gave it to the Missionary, and thus you have a sample of his manner of dealing with what others say. You will not be surprised at this, when I tell you that I have heard him treat the language of Paul the same way. On one occasion he read Rom. iii: 20, thus, "By the deeds of law there shall no flesh be justified in his light." He was asked twice if it did not say "the law?" Both times, with the Bible before his eyes, he affirmed that it did not. Now if he will thus treat the word of God, need I expect him to treat me better?

Mr. Smith says: "My opinion is, that if all carefully read over this extract, and then read their Bibles, they would have their minds completely settled as regards what Campbellism is."

Yes, and if they will then read the tract from which he garbles this extract, they would have their minds completely settled as regards what kind of a man W. H. Smith is too.

In the next paragraph Mr. Smith says: "Notice Mr. Carter says the gospel was first preached on the day of Pentecost." This is another slip caused by his mania for misrepresentation. I said no such thing in the tract. It is now before my eyes. I will give the exact words. "But here we have the gospel preached in all of its fullness." Why did not Mr. Smith give it in my own language? He explains it himself. He says "My object in reviewing Mr. Carter's tract through the Missionary is that the people in general may have an opportunity to see what modern Campbellism is." Now what has Mr. Smith done? He has, in quoting from me, left out a clause that destroys the sense of the quotation. Then he puts words in my mouth that I did not use. Then he calls it "modern Campbellism."

If Mr. Smith had given my own language, there would have been no use for him to refer to Mark i: 14, Mat. iv: 23, Mat. ix: 35, and xxiv: 14, Luke viii: 1, and iv: 15-44, to show that Jesus preached the gospel of the kingdom. A thing that no one denies. But that would not do, as he had started out to show what "modern Campbellism is," he must do it. If he had quoted me fairly they would have learned some truth on this subject, and that must be suppressed to make them think it was "Campbellism." Mr. Smith ought to have referred us to the chapter and verse where we have the gospel preached in all its fullness before the day of Pentecost. Paul said: "Moreover, brethren, I declare unto you the gospel which I preached unto you, which ye have received, and wherein ye stand; by which also ye are saved if ye keep in memory what I preached unto you, unless ye have believed in vain. For I delivered unto you first of all, that which I also received, how that Christ died for our sins according to the Scriptures; and that he was buried, and that he arose again on the third day according to the Scriptures." Was not this same gospel preached on the day of Pentecost? Can the gospel be preached in all its fullness without preaching that Christ has died for our sins, that he was buried, and that he rose again on the third day, according to the Scriptures? Who, then, ever preached this before the day of Pentecost? If it had been preached back of his crucifixion it would have been false. Who would take the position now that the gospel was preached in all its fullness before Pentecost, but Mr. Smith, when he goes to show what "modern Campbellism" is.

He next refers us to where Christ sent out the twelve Apostles under the first commission, Mat. ix: 35-38; x: 1-42; xi: 1, etc.; and then calls attention to Luke ix: 2, where it is said, he sent them to preach the gospel of the kingdom. Gospel is good news, or glad tidings. The Jews were expecting that God would, at some time, fulfill his promise, Dan. ii: 44, and establish his kingdom. To preach the gospel of the kingdom, i. e. "The kingdom of God has come nigh unto you," was good news to the Jews, see Luke x: 8-11. This was the gospel of the kingdom preached by them. Will anyone take the position that the gospel preached on Pentecost was identical with this? Can we not see a difference between them? We certainly can if we open our Bibles and read for ourselves.

Will, Mr. Smith preaches now, that two years after the death of John the Baptist, the disciples only preached that "the kingdom had come nigh?" Most assuredly he will not, unless he has changed in the last year; for last March he affirmed in debate, that the kingdom of Jesus Christ was established in the days of John the Baptist.

Again he says: "Mr. Carter informs us that the door of the kingdom was opened for the first time on the day of Pentecost." He then tries to disprove it by quoting a few such passages of Scripture as Mat. xxiii: 13, and then says, "Had Mr. Carter been there he no doubt would have said, through the door you cannot possibly get in for three years. Just go home and be quiet." After quoting Mat. vi: 33, and referring to Luke xii: 31, he says "Mr. Carter would have added, but you can't possibly get in until the third Pentecost after this, for the door will not be opened until then." Not being satisfied with his misrepresentation of my language, and fearing that his readers will not learn what "Modern Campbellism is," he now guesses at what I would say to fill up what is lacking. Notice how he tries to hide truth, he tries to make it appear that it was three years from the time that Jesus used the language in Mat. xxiii: 13, until Pentecost after the resurrection; when according to the chronology, it was in the same year (33). Now I don't know whether he intended to intimate that I would not know any better than that or whether it was the best he knew himself. But as he is showing up "modern Campbellism" now, we will have to attribute it to his mania for misrepresentation.

Now, is it not true that the door of the kingdom was first opened on the day of Pentecost? Let's briefly examine this and see. Jesus says: "Verily, verily I say unto you, I am the door of the sheep. All that ever came before me are thieves and robbers, but the sheep did not hear them. I am the door, by me if any man enter in, he shall be saved, and shall go in and out and find pasture," John x: 8-9. Here Jesus declares the fact that he is the door. When was this first opened up to the world? The Holy Spirit breaks the news for the first time in the following language:

"Therefore let all the house of Israel know assuredly, that God hath made that same Jesus, whom ye have crucified, both Lord and Christ," Acts ii: 26. The disciples were not allowed to tell that he was the Christ previous to this, see Mat. xvii: 9, Mark viii: 30.

Thus you see we were right when we said in the little tract, "Previous to this, (from the ascension of the Saviour) no man had authority to preach. Not a single discourse was preached, etc.

Again Mr. Smith says: "Mr. Carter says, the kingdom had its beginning on the day of Pentecost, now courteous reader, please turn to Mat. xi: 12, 13; Luke xvi: 16, then stop and see if you can conceive of something that can be pressed into and it never having existed, and no way to enter. Remember, also, that in these things Mr. Carter agrees with his brethren of the modern reformation. Now whose evidence will you take? Light and darkness are set before you." If Mr. Smith had left off the word "light," and said darkness is now set before you, he would have told the whole truth. All I ask is for people to believe what God has said. Was I right when I said the kingdom had its beginning on the day of Pentecost? Let God answer. "Thus it is written, and thus it behooved Christ to suffer and to rise from the dead the third day; and that repentance and remission of sins should be preached in his name among all nations beginning at Jerusalem," Luke xxvi: 46, 47. Again, "and as I began to speak, the Holy Ghost fell on them, as on us at the beginning," Acts ii: 25. When did the Holy Ghost fall on the disciples? It was on the day of Pentecost, Acts ii: 1-4. Then this is the beginning, Jesus points forward to this as the beginning, and the Holy Spirit, through Peter points back to it as the beginning, Acts xi: 15. So you see the war is not between Smith and myself, but between him and Christ.

Mr. Smith thinks it strange that Jesus would represent people as going into the kingdom before it was fully established. Suppose he cannot understand it, does that prove that it is not true? If so, we would have to give up everything as false that Mr. Smith cannot understand. Now, what there is strange about this, I cannot see, perhaps I might, were I to join the Baptists, and adopt his plan of exposing "modern Campbellism." Suppose some one would come to Salt Lick and deliver a lecture on some new order of things that had never been established, and perform a few "slight of hand tricks," and give out that himself was some great one. The people would flock to him and say this man certainly is a prophet sent from God, and would begin to follow him. In the meantime Mr. Smith and his brethren would denounce the doctrine of the kingdom that he preached, and cause many to turn away from him.

Could not this preacher turn to them and truthfully say, "Woe unto you Baptists, for you shut up the kingdom against men; for ye neither go in yourselves, neither suffer ye them that are entering to go in." Is there anything strange about this? All know that this institution had not been organized yet, all understand that people are pressing into it. How could they be pressing into it? By receiving the doctrine of the preacher, and following him. Is it not equally as plain that by receiving Christ and his doctrine that the people were rapidly pressing into his kingdom? Though it was not yet fully established.

Christ had come to establish his kingdom. He had been preaching the gospel of the kingdom for some time, had performed many wonderful works, many people believed him to be the holy one of God. They were receiving his teaching and following him. The Pharisees had threatened to thrust him out of the synagogue if they confessed him, John ix: 22, and had caused many to turn away from him, John xii: 24. When Jesus saw proper to rebuke them for this, he said: "But woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites; for ye shut up the kingdom of heaven against men; for ye neither go in yourselves, neither suffer ye them that are entering, to go in."

Thus we see that the scribes and Pharisees hypocrites did keep people from entering the kingdom, by prejudicing them against the word of Christ, and they have not quit their wicked work yet.

Now to be certain that the kingdom was not then established, we will only have to make a few quotations. Jesus says: "Upon this rock I will build my church," Mat. xvi: 18. "Verily I say unto you, that there be some of them that stand here, which shall not taste of death till they have seen the kingdom of God come with power," Mark ix: 1. "He added and spake a parable, because he was nigh to Jerusalem and because they thought that the kingdom of God would immediately appear," Luke xix: 11. "I will not drink of the fruit of the vine until the kingdom of God shall come," Luke xxii: 18. After his death, we are told that Joseph, one of his disciples, waited for the kingdom, Luke xxiii: 50-58.

Just before he ascended to heaven, his disciples ask him, "Lord wilt thou at this time restore the kingdom to Israel," Acts i: 6. We have followed Jesus through his ministry to his ascension, and find, up to this time the establishing of the kingdom is yet future, Luke xxiv: 47 and Acts i: 6, settle the question forever that Pentecost was the beginning.

We will now notice what Mr. Smith has to say about the name Christian, he says, on page twenty-six, Mr. Carter says, God's people wear, and contend earnestly for the new name "Christian," that God gave them. As evidence that God gave this name he refers to Acts ii: 26, xxvi: 28, Pet. iv: 16, the only places in all the Bible where the name "Christian" is used. Now who can read those passages and then say that God gave it to his church, and if so why wait 15 or 20 years, according to Mr. Carter's own statement after the organization of his church to name it; and why did the New Testament writers invariably use other appellations when addressing their various letters? Notice the address to the Romans i: 1-7 inclusive; 1 Cor. xi: 1-2; 2 Cor. xi: 1; Gal. i: 1-2; Eph. i: 1. Indeed, none of the books of the Bible are addressed to "Christians," neither do any of the inspired writers ever claim, much less contend for the name "Christians." Therefore, Mr. Carter, by his own rule, would say that they are no part of the church of Christ.

Now, my Baptist friends, do you claim to be Christians? If so, Mr. Smith says none of the Bible is addressed to you. Does he intend to convey the idea that we must wear the name Baptist, or some other unscriptural name that we may claim the Bible? Where is anything in the Bible ever addressed to a Baptist? Mr. Smith's argument is a boomerang that takes his own life. Who ever said that God gave the name "Christian" to the church? The name was given to the disciples, the members of the Church Acts xi: 26. But Mr. Smith thinks that because God waited "fifteen or twenty" years before he named his people, (which is not the case) that it proves that God did not give them the name. He says this is "according to my statement." I made no such statement. Now if this is to be taken as an argument that God did not give the name "Christian," and that his people should not wear it; how about the those who wearing the name Baptist, which God never has given, though over eighteen hundred years have elapsed? He asks, who can believe that God gave the name Christian. We ask who can believe that he did not? Why did Mr. Smith not give us some Scriptural proof that God did not give the name? To ask this, is to answer it—he could not do it. He says:

"None of the inspired writers even claim, much less contend for the name Christian." Now we understand that Paul claimed to be a Christian, Acts xxvi: 28. And that Peter commended the brethren for wearing the name 1 Peter iv: 16. The church at Ephesus labored for it. Rev. ii: 1-3. The church at Philadelphia refused to deny it. Rev. iii: 7-8. Now if Mr. Smith, or any one else will show us from the word of God, that the name for which they labored and refused to deny, was not Christian, then we will believe it. But his mere assertions we cannot and will not take for proof. But he says: "Why did the New Testament writers invariably use other appellations when addressing their various letters." Now who would ever go to 1 Cor. xi: 1-2, and 2 Cor. xi: 1, to find the address to the church? Do we not find it in the first chapter of each letter? Turn and read: "Unto the Church of God which is at Corinth." Paul called the members of the church "Saints," "Brethren," "Faithful in Christ Jesus," etc. But none of these is given as a name for the church. Thus we see how men have to darken counsel to expose what they call "modern Campbellism."

Mr. Smith, after having referred promiscuously to several pages in my tract, in reference to remission of sins being preached in the name of Christ on Pentecost first, and the "new birth," He says: "On page 30 he says: To receive remission of sins is to be born again. As evidence he refers to John iii: 5. Need we stop and ask if this language was used on the day of Pentecost? Now if Jesus made known the terms of entering the kingdom of heaven to Nicodemus, how about the terms being made known for the first time on the day of Pentecost?" After referring to the conversion of Cornelius especially to Acts x: 43, he adds "Did the prophets all speak on the day of Pentecost?" Does Mr. Smith contend that Christ explained to Nicodemus just how he was to enter the kingdom? Why then don't he preach that way? Why does he labor so hard to show that Christ meant Spirit where he said water? Now what are the facts in the case? Jesus told Nicodemus that he "must be born of water and of the Spirit." Did he tell him how he could be born of water and of the Spirit? or that it must be done in the name of Christ? He did not. Was it not to be done in the name of Christ? it certainly was. Was this ever made known before Pentecost? it was not. Did any one ever know how they were to be born of water and of the Spirit until Peter told them to "repent and be baptized in the name of Jesus Christ?" If so where did they learn it? Did the prophets who bore him witness ever tell us? If so, which one and where? Is it not true, that the terms entering the kingdom and remission of sins was first preached in the name of Jesus Christ on the day of Pentecost? What say you Mr. Smith? Give us the chapter and verse where some one preached the terms of entering the kingdom and remission of sins in his name previous to this time. Remember that garbled quotations, and assertions will not do here.

After having made a few quotations from the Old Path Guide, and memoirs of Campbell, (which he may have treated as he did my tract,) he seems to think that unless I can trace a succession of churches to Christ, I cannot claim to belong to the Church. Now if this is the rule by which I am to be condemned, then Mr. Smith must go down by the same rule. But I depend upon no such succession. I depend upon the "seed of the kingdom," which is the word of God. Mr. Smith knows that the church of which he is a member, does not carry the marks of the church set forth in God's word. If he will affirm that it does I am ready to meet him and prove to the contrary.

Will the editors of the Missionary Baptist publish this article in their paper for the benefit of their readers. W. H. CARTER.

THE CREATION GROANETH.

Dear Bro. Lipscomb: In the ADVOCATE of April 2, you take the position that the creature and creation spoken of in the 8th chapter of the Roman letter, refer to the under creation. Animals and every living creature suffered by Man's sin, they were under him, became suffering mortal, dying, shared his fate. You further say, as they shared the fall, they will be benefited by the redemption of man; they will be elevated and their lot made better by man's deliverance from sin. Hence it is said the creature was made subject to vanity, not of its own choice, but by reason of him (man) who subjected it to this vanity. This creation is represented then as waiting in hope for the deliverance of the children of God, that thereby it may be free from the bondage of death in which it is held.

How one of the lower animals could hope for a deliverance from death, of itself or any other creature, is to me incomprehensible. Paul was speaking of the death and the resurrection of the body, not of beasts but man. You truly say that the creature was made subject to vanity by him (man) who subjected the whole human family to death. Man, the first Adam, on account of his own sin involved all his posterity in ruin, placing them under the power of death. Man, the second Adam brought life and immortality to light by his own resurrection, which gave the creature, man a hope of a resurrection from the grave. This scripture has several parallel passages. For since by man came death, by man came also the resurrection from the dead. For as in Adam all die, even so in Christ shall all be made alive. Many other passages might be referred to, but these I think sufficient.

Williamsport, Ind.

WILLIAM ROBB.

NOTES FROM PHILIP SCHAFF.—No. 5.

Dear Bro. M.: In my last we glanced at the design of baptism as presented by Neander. You may ask, do other historians present this matter in the same light? We do not know an exception. The history of Schaff first appeared in America in 1858, it is divided into periods; the first from A. D. 1-100; in this period we have the following: "It (baptism) is the sacrament of repentance, of remission of sins, and of the imparting of the Holy Ghost; and, in the nature of the case, to be received but once. It incorporates the penitent sinner in the church, and entitles him to all the privileges, and binds him to all the duties of this communion. Where this condition of repentance and faith is wanting, the blessing, as in the case of the supper and the preaching of the word, is turned into a curse, and what God designs as a savor of life unto life, becomes, through the abuse of man, a savor of death unto death. The first administration of this sacrament in its full Christian sense took place on the birth-day of the church, after the first independent preaching of the apostles."—Schaff, Vol. 1, page 122, 123.

Let us enquire of Mr. Schaff, what the views of the early Christian were on this subject. Will you please tell us, Dr. S., what was regarded as the effect of baptism? Dr. S.: "Its effect was supposed to consist in the forgiveness of sins and the communication of the Holy Ghost. Question: What did Justin call baptism? Answer: "Justin calls it the "water-bath for the forgiveness of sins and regeneration, and the bath of conversion and the knowledge of God." It is often called also illumination, spiritual circumcision, anointing, sealing, gift of grace, symbol of redemption, death of sins, etc." (These are fine Baptists.) Question: Please state what Tertullian said concerning baptism? Answer: "When the soul comes to faith, and becomes transformed through regeneration by water and power from above, it discovers, after the veil of the corruption is taken away, its whole light."—Schaff's History, Vol. 1, page 395, 396.

"Tertullian and others, from John. iii: 5, argued the necessity of baptism to salvation." Question: Will you state what sins the church of this "early period" thought baptism extended to? Answer: "Baptism, however, was thought to extend only to sins committed before receiving it."—Ibid, page 396. Question: With what you have already stated, will you please give us what the Christians of the first three centuries thought of baptism in one sentence? Answer: "This ordinance was regarded in the ancient church as the sacrament of conversion and regeneration, as the solemn rite of initiation into the Christian church, admitting to all her benefits and committing to all her obligations."—Page 395. Question: Dr. S., is there on record any description of the celebration of this ordinance? "Yes," of this also, Justin gives the following brief account: "Those who are convinced of the truth of our doctrine, (italics mine) and have promised to live according to it, (how strange!) are exhorted to prayer, fasting and repentance for past sins; we praying and fasting with them. Then they are led by us to a place where is water, and in this way are regenerated, (how like Baptists of to-day!) as we also have been regenerated; (what a wonder!) that is, they receive the water bath in the name of God, the Father and Ruler of all, and of our Redeemer, Jesus Christ, and of the Holy Ghost. For Christ says, Except ye be born again, ye cannot enter the kingdom of heaven. * * * Thus from children of necessity and ignorance, we become children of choice and of wisdom, and partakers of the forgiveness of former sins. The baptismal bath is called also illumination because those who receive it are enlightened in understanding."—Ibid, page 398. Justin wrote about the middle of the second century, at the time when Mr. Orchard says, "The churches during this early period were strictly Baptist in their practice and constitution." Mr. Orchard tells us also, "The interests of religion retained their spiritual character."—Page 51. What a pity that this water regeneration of the ancient Baptist church is so in the way. If Campbell and Campbellism had lived in that early period, Dr. Gun and modern Baptists would doubtless have claimed them, if for nothing else but for succession.

A. ALSUP, JR.

"LET US GO ON UNTO PERFECTION."—No. 1.

"Therefore leaving the principles of the doctrine of Christ, let us go on unto perfection; not laying again the foundation of repentance from dead works, and of faith toward God, of the doctrine of baptisms, and of laying on of hands, and of resurrection of the dead and of eternal judgment." Heb. vi: 1-2.

The revised version says, leave the word of the beginning of Christ (marginal note) and press on unto full growth. The twelfth verse of the previous chapter, speaks of "the first principles of the oracles of God." The principles here mentioned by the apostles, are called the first principles, or rudiments of the beginning of the oracles of God. They are, as here named, repentance from dead works, faith toward God, baptisms, laying on of hands, the resurrection and eternal judgment.

The best commentators agree that the "doctrine of baptisms" includes Christian baptism, whatever else it may include. Then the apostle says, it is Christian baptism in saying, "leaving the principles of the doctrine of Christ." Christ taught baptism into the names of the Father, Son and Holy Spirit. "The doctrine of baptisms" being a part of the doctrine of Christ, must therefore mean Christian baptism.

Whatever may now be held as to laying on of hands, we know that in apostolic days the sick were healed and miraculous power was conferred by the imposition of hands. It was practiced by the apostles as they preached these principles of faith, repentance, baptism, resurrection and judgment. So, at least, in the apostle's day he could speak of this as a part of the first principles. These are called the foundation of the superstructure, the Christian life to follow. The first thing necessary to building, is to lay the foundation well. However good or beautiful the building may be, it will not stand if on a bad or sandy foundation. To build on another's doctrine, is building on sand. Jesus says, faith, repentance and baptism are for remission of sins. The Christian life is built on these, and the doctrine of the resurrection and eternal judgment. Can one of these stones be left out of the foundation and the building stand? "He that believeth not shall be damned." Mark xvi: 16. Faith then is an essential stone. Try another. "Except ye repent ye shall all likewise perish." Luke xiii: 15. Repentance is essential also. But suppose one builds on faith and repentance, omitting baptism? "But the pharisees and lawyers rejected the courses of God against themselves, being not baptized of him (John)." Luke vii: 29-30. God commanded baptism through John, they refused to obey and thereby rejected God. Christian baptism is commanded by Jehovah in the solemn names of Father, Son and Holy Spirit, and commanded for the remission of sins, and it must follow that those who refuse to be baptized reject one stone in this foundation, reject God. He who rejects anything God has commanded, rejects God. Baptism then is another essential stone. Try the resurrection. "If the dead rise not then is not Christ raised; and if Christ be not raised your faith is vain, ye are yet in your sins." 1 Cor. xv: 16-17. The very facts of the gospel are the death, burial and resurrection of Christ. 1 Cor. xv: 1-6. But for the eternal judgment, when the final separation of the wicked from the righteous will take place, there would be a premium on unrighteousness and no incentive to obey God.

Jesus laid these as the fundamental principles of his religion. The apostles so taught them. Believing, the Pentecostians were commanded to repent and be baptized every one in the name of Jesus for the remission of sins. Acts ii: 38. Paul was commanded to arise and be baptized and wash away his sins calling on the name of the Lord Acts xxii: 16. "The Corinthians hearing, believed and were baptized." Acts xviii: 8. The jailor believed in the Lord, with all his house, and was baptized the same hour of the night. Acts xvi: 30-33. When the Samaritans believed Philip preaching the things concerning the kingdom of God and the name of Jesus Christ, they were baptized, both men and women. Acts viii: 12. Philip took the Eunuch down into the water and baptized him, and came up out of the water. Acts viii: 38-39. Paul, at Athens, said God has commanded all men everywhere to repent, because he has appointed a day in which he will judge the world in righteousness by Jesus whom he has raised from the dead. Acts xvii: 31. Every church the apostles established or every Christian made, were built on these fundamental principles. How dare any man say these are not essential in becoming a Christian? The same gospel was preached to all, (Gal. i: 8-9) believed and obeyed by all. What was required of one in becoming a Christian was required of all. People now must become Christians just as they did under the preaching of the apostles. If they obey not the gospel they must be lost. 2 Thess. i: 7-8. "Other foundation can no man lay than that is laid, which is Christ Jesus." 1 Cor. iii: 11. Let a man be sure then he has the proper and complete foundation before he proceeds with his building. If he hears and obeys the teaching of Christ, he is safe.

Lebanon, April 3rd, 1884.

HOW DOES GOD DRAW SINNERS?

Some time ago, in the town of Summer Shade, Ky., we listened to a Methodist theologian preach a sermon on what he called "The Divine Operation of the Holy Spirit." In his discourse he labored to convince the people that the Holy Spirit operates upon the hearts of alien sinners, independent of the word of God as it is now revealed to us in the Scriptures. He first said that mankind was totally depraved, opposed to all good, inclined to all evil, and that continually, and that men was so depraved in nature and in sin, that it was impossible for man to come to Christ until drawn or regenerated by the Holy Spirit, sent down by heaven. In order to prove his pet theory he quoted John vi: 44: "No man can come unto me except the Father which hath sent me, draw him and I will raise him up in the last day." He told his audience that the above passage of Scripture plainly taught that no sinner could come to Christ until drawn by the Holy Ghost and fire, which filled the hearts of sinners with grace, love, peace, and joy, which passeth all understanding.

We agree with our Methodist Brother that God draws sinners, but the difference between us is as to how God draws men. We oppose the above theory simply from the reason that it ignores and sets aside the word of God. But our Methodist Brother failed to read the forty-fifth verse in connection with the forty-fourth. Now the forty-fifth verse of the sixth chapter of John serves to explain the preceding one which reads thus: It is written in the prophets and they shall be taught of God, every man therefore that hath heard and learned of the Father cometh unto me. This is the view given everywhere in the Scriptures, that men must be taught in order to learn what God would have them to do. For every conversion that we have an account of in the New Testament, some one was present to teach the word of the Lord. We find that the Holy Spirit did not operate upon the hearts of the Pentecostians directly in order to draw them to Christ. But Peter was there in the city of Jerusalem for the purpose of teaching them the law of the Lord. And the Psalmist has said the law of the Lord is perfect, converting the soul. This is the way that God draws sinners by teaching them his divine will. We cannot find a single instance on record where men were drawn to Christ by a direct, immediate operation of the Holy Spirit. Men were not converted this way in the days of miracles, and there certainly is no divine authority for such, a strange doctrine now. Suppose we admit for arguments sake that sinners are drawn to Christ by receiving the Holy Spirit. Then I would ask our Methodist Brother does the Holy Spirit, now in an abstract form reveal to us the scheme of redemption or that Christ died for our sins, that he was buried and rose again the third day for our justification. We answer no. All we know concerning our Saviour is taught us in the Scriptures. Then any theory or system of theology that does not embrace the idea of teaching in the conversion of sinners in order to draw them to Christ, is not of God and should be rejected as unscriptural.

HENRY REHORN, JR.

Whitleyville, Jackson county, Tenn.

He is not patient who will suffer but a certain degree of evil, and only from particular persons.

Brother Sewell: Having noticed in the Advocate of March 26, your reply and exposition of Brother Sweeney's question on Heb. vi: 2, which is no doubt very good, yet as you, in closing, rather invite the views of others, I will offer a few rather general thoughts upon it because I have thought no little upon it, and perhaps partially so, in consequence of occasionally coming in conflict with Episcopalians, who generally go there to find a justifying example for their practice of, or for the laying on of hands in confirmation. I became so well satisfied that this was unwarranted, from the fact that I think the scope of the passage when taken together, in unbroken connection, which begins at the eleventh verse of the fifth chapter and continues right on, before the Apostle changes his voice of reproof until the ninth verse of the sixth chapter. Hence I say, when talking to Episcopalians thus, I think that you have entirely mistaken the object and design of the passage, which taken together simply shows that the Apostle was administering a sharp reproof for having neglected to stir up the gifts which was conferred on them by the laying on of Apostolic hands, immediately after their baptism, which belonged to that age, and hence was not nor is not an example to be followed, and to their reformation.

In order to justification is strongly implied in every sentence until you reach the ninth verse of the sixth chapter where the Apostle pours in a little oil and, lest they might become too much discouraged and also give them credit for any worthy deeds on their part. Yet, it was by no means sufficient to justify them in their former neglect of their real duty as Christians, otherwise there is no object in the reproof. Let us sketch a little, it will be noticed that the Apostle suddenly changes his voice from his great theme, viz: the character of Melchizedec Priesthood apparently caused by the fact that he became conscious that the brethren would not duly appreciate or understand the subject, caused by their slow growth in Christian knowledge or not growing at all as he implies, by their still being babes instead of grown up men in Christ. I write from the late Oxford Revision, eleventh verse, fifth chapter. "Of whom we have many things to say and hard of interpretation seeing you are become dull of hearing. For where, by reason of the time you ought to be teachers, you have need again (the second time) that some one teach you the rudiments of the first principles of the oracles of God." Now does not this show most conclusively why the Apostle changed his name from a great Instructor to a positive reprover.

"And now drop down to the sixth chapter and here it is clear to my mind, that the Apostle volunteers himself to become their again teacher (as hints above) and hence lays down, or repeats what had taken place with these brethren (or babes as he terms them) when they first became Christians, after which he warns them of the consequences to those who had been once enlightened and then fell away, certainly applying it to them, in thus putting him to shame. And lastly the figure as used in the seventh verse showing that even the land that was cultivated and received sunshine and rain respond to these blessings which God gave and thus gave bread for man's sustenance, but land that had not been cultivated, was seen to bring forth briars, weeds and thistles, to be burned, of course applying this to those brethren first and then to all Christians who neglected their duties as such. Nor does the Apostle change his voice until we reach the ninth verse, and every word in that, still farther proves that the former reproof for their neglect of duty on them.

Now these thoughts are rather hastily thrown together, and are at your service. Some portions of which may be regarded as new, but if true will be of some value to others, as we are all seeking for more light, but of course freely submitted to your supreme judgment. Fraternally,

JOHN CAMERON.

A South Carolina paper declares that "the pistol is a curse to the human race, a boon to the highwaymen, a companion to the assassin, the murderer, the thief and the coward." Another paper says that "except for homicidal purposes, there is not a more utterly useless weapon."

Rates of Advertising in Gospel Advocate.

One inch, one insertion.....	$ 60
One inch, one month.....	2 00
One inch, three months.....	5 00
One inch, six months.....	7 50
One inch, twelve months.....	12 50

A discount of 10 per cent. on these rates for order of $25.00; 20 per cent. for order of $50.00; 30 per cent. for order of $100.00.

Bellbuckle and Fosterville.

On Lord's day morning and night, March 30th, we met with the brethren in their new house of worship, at Bellbuckle. They have been meeting in the house for a time, but it is not completed yet. The seats are lacking, and some painting. It is their calculation to finish it up before a great while. When completed, it will be a very neat, comfortable house, of good size. There is a zealous band of disciples there. This little town is in the midst of a good farming community, and everything looks lively and prosperous, and we hope these brethren will succeed well in the good cause.

On Monday, we went with Bro. R. A. Hoover, one of our preaching brethren there, to Fairfield, about five miles from Bellbuckle, to attend the funeral of a child of Sister Josie Scruggs, formerly Josie Stone, of McMinnville, Tenn. Thus death keeps busy at work, both among infants and grown-up people. The afflicted parents have our heart-felt sympathy in this their sad bereavement. It was our privilege, in years gone by, to bury this mother with her Lord in baptism, and on this sad occasion it was our privilege to present to her the words of comfort contained in the gospel of Christ, without which consolation such events would be almost unbearable. But with that bright hope, these troubles are much lightened. Jesus spake very comforting words of little children, that are truly precious to mothers in these sad trials.

In the evening of Monday, we went to Fosterville, on the railroad, about five miles nearer Nashville than Bellbuckle. There is a small band of disciples at this place, some of whom are quite zealous in the cause. Brother and Sister Elam, father and mother of Bro. E. A. Elam, of Lebanon, live here. Sister Elam is a good Sunday-school worker, and she and some other members there are doing good work in that line, that will tell for good in years to come.

Taking these two congregations, and Cross Roads congregation, in a few miles of these two, there is an extensive religious influence at work. There are two or three preachers in the Bellbuckle congregation, as Bro. Hoover, mentioned above, and Bro. Dearing, both of whom do considerable preaching in that community, both of whom also follow other vocations, demonstrating that men can follow other callings, and do great good in preaching at the same time.

E. G. S.

"L. F. Whitten."

Bros. L. & S.: My attention has just been called to an article in your paper, from the pen of Elder J. A. Harding, in regard to myself. Not being a member of your denomination, or a subscriber to your paper, I do not know whether you will do me the favor of publishing this; but I venture to send it, anyhow. Last January, Elder Harding came to our town, and after awhile he made this challenge: "I will give any man one hundred dollars to produce a Greek-English lexicon that gives as one of the definitions of baptizo, to sprinkle." Bro. Shook and I sent him a copy of Dr. Ditzler's work on baptism, with a note, stating we had not the lexicon, but asking him "why Dr. Ditzler gave thirty-one authors and lexicographers, who give this, or its equivalent, as one of the meanings of baptizo." Elder Harding stated publicly, "If Bros. Shook and Whitten knew as much of Dr. Ditzler as I do, they would not have sent me this book. I have in my possession a letter from Prof. Humphreys, of Vanderbilt University, stating that Dr. Ditzler has misrepresented in his work; made false quotations, and taken ground which is untenable." I did not hear him make this statement, but three reliable gentlemen told me they heard him. I at once addressed a note of inquiry to Prof. Humphreys, at Nashville, asking if he had done so. This letter was forwarded him at Austin, Texas, thus delaying a reply until Bro. Harding had left. I copy from this letter: "As to the matter you write about, there is a serious mistake out somewhere. I have never expressed any opinion at all about Dr. Ditzler's book. I have never even seen it. I have heard it well spoken of by men of his denomination; and when written to for information on baptizo, I have advised paedobaptists to procure a copy of it; but as I said, I have never read it myself, nor even seen a copy of it, so far as I can recall." I then addressed Elder Harding a note to let him know what I had done—nothing "cowardly" about that—and got a reply from him, which I may say here is quite unsatisfactory, and does not harmonize the variance to the mind of the writer, which exists in his (Harding's) public statement, and Prof. Humphrey's reply. As to Elder Harding's statement that I acted the coward, in writing for facts and using them after he left, I will say I tried to get Professor H.'s letter before he left, and would have shown it to Elder Harding had he been here at the time. I never made any "violent attacks" upon him. I yet say that there is a conflict in the statements he is said by many of the most reliable gentlemen of this town, to have made, and the statement of Professor Humphreys, as any person with one eye may see. There is nothing behind the curtain with me, and I am not called a coward by those who know me best.

L. F. WHITTEN.

To be successful in anything we must be interested in it. If we would interest others, we must be interested ourselves. This is especially true of teachers and preachers. A preacher who talks as if he had no particular interest in the sermon, must not be surprised if his hearers lack interest also. If he fails to secure their attention, and awaken their interest, he will not be apt to accomplish much good.

AMERICAN NATIONAL BANK.

CASH CAPITAL,

$1,000,000.

Board of Directors.

E. W. Cole,
John G. Houston,
J. F. Demoville,
John Orr,
Byrd Douglass, Jr.,

John M. Lea,
J. Kirkman,
Rev. Dr. R. A. Young,
V. L. Kirkman,
R. L. Weakley,

A. W. Harris,
M. Burns,
T. A. Atchison,
W. G. Bush,
W. H. Jackson,

John Woodard
J. A. Pigue,
C. E. Hillman,
W. W. Berry,
Wm. Porter,
Edgar Jones.

This Bank has united with it the THIRD NATIONAL BANK of this city, and has increased its Capital Stock to $1,000,000. With increased facilities in every particular, it can confidently assert that it will offer superior advantages in all departments of Banking to its patrons and friends.

JOHN KIRKMAN, President,
A. W. HARRIS, Cashier,
E. W. COLE, Chairman Executive Committee.

EDGAR JONES, Vice-President,
JOHN M. LEA, Vice-President.

GOSPEL ADVOCATE

PRINTING AND PUBLISHING COMPANY,

JAMES F. &amp; HARRY LIPSCOMB, Managers,

98 Union Street,

Nashville, Tenn.

Letter Heads, Note Heads, Bill Heads, Statement Heads, Circulars, Catalogues, By-Laws, Bills Lading, Receipts, Coal Tickets, Milk Tickets, Tags, Business Cards, Visiting Cards, Horse Bills, Etc.

Good work at reasonable rates. Send for prices. Give us your orders and be pleased.

WE RESPECTFULLY CALL YOUR ATTENTION TO THE FOLLOWING EXCELLENT BOOKS KEPT BY US:

Popular Hymns, word edition.....	single copy 15 cts; per dozen, by express, $ 50; by mail, $1 70
Popular Hymns, Note edition, (Boards).....	single copy 30 cts; per dozen, by express, 3 00; by mail, 3 60
Popular Hymns, Note, (with rudiments).....	single copy 40 cts; per dozen, by express, 4 20; by mail, 4 80
Popular Hymns, Note edition, (cloth).....	single copy 40 cts; per dozen, by express, 4 00; by mail, 4 75
New Life (character notes).....	single copy 25 cts; per dozen, by express, 3 60; by mail, 4 00
Songs of Glory, numbers 1 and 2.....	single copy 35 cts; per dozen, by express, 3 60; by mail, 4 00
Life of Raccoon John Smith, (very readable,) postpaid.....	2 00
Voice of Seven Thunders, (interesting, entertaining, and instructive,) postpaid.....	1 00
Gospel Plan of salvation, by T. W. Brents, postpaid.....	2 00
Gospel Preacher, volumes 1 and 2, by Ben. Franklin, each, postpaid.....	2 00
Campbell and Owen Debate (splendid book for lawyers) postpaid.....	1 75
Dictionary of Bible, (complete,) by Dr. Smith, postpaid.....	4 60, smaller 3 00
House-keeping in the Blue Grass, (splendid,) postpaid.....	1 50
First Principles, by Isaac Errett, postpaid.....	15
Offerings to the Lord, by David Lipscomb, postpaid.....	10
Christian Experience, by Ben. Franklin, postpaid.....	10
Review of Dr. T. O. Summers' Tract, by Isaac Errett, postpaid.....	10
Union Movement, by Ben. Franklin, postpaid.....	10
Brown's Pocket Concordance to Bible, postpaid.....	60
Cruden's New Concordance (complete) postpaid.....	1 50
Bibles, Testaments, in all styles and bindings, at low rates.

WE will furnish any Book published in United States at retail price. WE SOLICIT YOUR orders. We pay postage only. All kinds of Job Printing.

S. B. HOGAN.

J. S. HOPKINS.

HOGAN & HOPKINS,

BOOTS & SHOES,

HATS, TRUNKS, UMBRELLAS, ETC., ETC.

We have just received our Fall and Winter Stock, which has been purchased at the very lowest prices, and we are determined not to let any one sell good Boots or Shoes cheaper than we do. Come and see us, and we will do our best to please you.

20 Public Square,

Nashville, Tennessee.

SALESMEN.—Sam. R. Hopkins, L. D. Simmons, William Mayes,

TO MAKE ROOM

For our Plow business, we offer bargains in the Celebrated Mitchell Spring Wagons as follows:

- 1½-inch axle Platform Spring Wagon, two seats, and pole $90.00.
- 1½-inch axle Platform Spring Wagon, two seats and pole, $95.00.
- 1½-inch three spring Delivery Wagon, with shafts, $85.00.
- 1½-inch three spring Pleasure Wagon, two seats and shafts, $90.00.
- Two extra size bed, 1½ Platform Spring Wagon, suitable for drummer's hacks, at $100.00 each.

Above warranted for one year, and guaranteed in style, finish and durability; 10 per cent better than best shop made work.

DUDLEY BROS. &amp; LIPSCOMB.

Gen'l Agents Mitchell, Lewis &amp; Co.,

84 &amp; 86 Broad Street,

Nashville, Tenn.

PASCHALL, FALL &amp; CO.,

WHOLESALE

HARDWARE, Cutlery, Iron, WAGON MATERIAL, Etc.

FISHING TACKLE.

Nos. 57, 59 &amp; 61 S. Market St.,

NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE.

Our Prices are Very Low.

THE GOSPEL ADVOCATE.

NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE, APRIL 16, 1884.

CONTENTS:

Good Work The Life of Christians.....	241
The Reviewer Reviewed.....	242, 243
Let us go on unto Perfection—No. 1.....	243
How Does God Draw Sinners?.....	244
Bellbuckle and Fosterville.....	245
"L. F. Whitten".....	245
CONTENTS.....	230
Re-Baptism.....	246
Old Rock Spring and Laverne.....	246
Doing Good—No. 1.....	248
Seven "I Wills" of Christ.....	248
OBITUARIES.....	248
ITEMS, PERSONALS, ETC.....	251
GENERAL NEWS.....	251
KENTUCKY CONTRIBUTIONS & CORRESPONDENCE.....
The Meeting at Savannah, Ga.....	250
TEXAS WORK AND WORKERS.....
Short Notes.....	247
Our Bible Class.....	247
The Indian Territory—Present and Future.....	247
HOME READING.....
A Song of the Future.....	252
True Sunshine.....	252
Cuddled Christians.....	252
A Queer Combination.....	252
An Egyptian Picture.....	252
The Sweet Joys.....	252

RE-BAPTISM.

We published Bro. McGary's article last week. It is entitled to some consideration at our hands. Bro. McGary need have no fears of giving me offence by plain open statements. I always had an admiration for the man that could both give and take square manly blows in the face. I always had a contempt for insinuation and inuendo, they are akin to the stab in the back from the coward.

But I am unconscious that I have a friend in the world that would be hurt at me for taking a different position. On the other hand, I have had controversy with those I esteemed most highly, more or less, for twenty years on this subject.

While Bro. Mc.'s novelties are not expressed in the language, I would express them, as far as they are true representations of my faith, I accept them, and insist they are only novelties in the sense that a thing long lost and then found is a novelty.

1. It is true, and has been from the beginning, that it is not necessary to understand all the ends, designs or the reasons and wherefores of a command of God to make obedience acceptable to the Father. If we obey and follow God, not knowing the end of that obedience, "not knowing whither we go," that obedience is acceptable to God. It is of those who went forth not knowing whither they went, not knowing the result to them of their obedience, that the Spirit said, "God is not ashamed to be called their God." The highest type of obedience is that which trustingly obeys God, because God commands it, not because we think it will bring good to us. That novelty is as old as the dealing of God with Adam in Eden.

His 2nd Novelty, We state, remission of sins was not presented so prominently as the specific design of baptism, save when the parties to whom it was promised were laboring under a deep despairing sense of guilt for a heinous crime, then it is presented to encourage them and to assure them that in obedience, relief from the guilt of sin can be found. We refer to every case of conversion recorded in the Acts of apostles as a clear indication that this novelty is a truth as old as the apostolic teaching. I have not intimated that baptism into Christ did not bring remission to every guilty soul that submitted to it, but it was singled out and given prominence to, only in the cases mentioned. It was nowhere given as a part of the faith necessary to be believed in order to render the baptism valid. That it is referred to in the epistles as one among a great number of blessings received in Christ, does not alter this truth. Remission of sins stands one among a number of blessings to be enjoyed through entrance into Christ. Baptism is the means of entrance into Christ.

His novelty three is the same caricatured in his language, not mine. The murderers of the Savior and Paul were so overwhelmed with a sense of guilt, so hopeless of pardon for crimes they had committed that they had despaired of forgiveness, so forgiveness was promised, to encourage and comfort them. Paul clearly after his forgiveness, was overwhelmed with the sense of guilt he had incurred and to the end of his life looked still with grateful wonder on the mercy that pardoned crimes so heinous.

His 4th novelty, that baptism prevents future sins. Man certainly enters Christ that he may be enabled to keep from sin. We die to sin, we are buried with Christ, raised with him, "even so we should walk in newness of life." The Scriptures are full of the teaching that we enter Christ, that we may live free from sin, that we may yield our members servants unto righteousness. This idea certainly can be no novelty to one who has studied the Bible. The failure to perceive this truth would seem to me a more fatal mistake than to fail to see the exact point at which the remission of sins is granted.

We never said that confession was not antecedent to baptism. We did say that formal confession was nowhere laid down as necessary to the validity of baptism. We are awaiting one single precept or example from the apostles to indicate it was required. Man believes unto righteousness as much after as before or in baptism. Confession unto salvation is necessary whenever there is a temptation to deny Christ. This temptation comes as often and as strongly after as before or in baptism.

No man can say that he believes God for Christ sake has forgiven his sins, without believing that Christ is the Son of God, and that God through him forgives sins. Hence, while it is not a direct, it is an indirect, but real confession that Christ is the Son of God.

Seventh, and last. If a belief that baptism is for, the remission of sin is necessary to render baptism valid, A. Campbell, T. Fanning, B. W. Stone, Walter Scott, and the heroic band that fought the battle for the supremacy of the Scriptures over human creeds, human confessions, human consciences and human reason, were never acceptably baptized, and hence were never in Christ, but lived and died out of Christ. I mention these, not because their example carries the least authority, not because God will bend his law to save them sooner than the humblest negro in the land, but because we can look at it in their case without prejudice.

I believe every passage of Scripture and every quotation Bro. Mc. makes from my writing, fully and heartily in connection with this subject, nor can I see the least appearance of inconsistency in them with this position. I believe that man must believe with the heart—with the whole heart. But the thing to be believed with the heart, is that Jesus is the Christ, and not the doctrine or theory however true, that baptism is for the remission of sins. I am not opposing the truth of the theory that baptism introduces man into Christ where his sins are remitted. I believe this is true as strongly as any one, but there are hundreds of truths, the belief of which is not necessary to acceptable baptism.

I believe fully that whoever follows the direction of the Spirit as given on Pentecost, is guided, is infallibly guided by the Spirit into the kingdom of God. That whoever turns from it rejects the guidance of the Spirit, but I do not see how it helps Bro. Mc.'s theory in the matter, nor that it militates against mine in the least. The direction of the Holy Spirit was that men should believe, should know assuredly that the same Jesus who had been crucified was both Lord and Christ. The further direction was that they who believed should repent and be baptized. The promise was, they should be free from the guilt of murdering God's beloved Son and all sin. To mistake when they reached the enjoyment of the promise could not vitiate the service, when they followed step by step the guidance of the Holy Spirit. Certainly, brethren, this must commend itself as the truth of God and only a novelty because we have let prejudices hide from our vision what has been all the while clearly taught in the word of God.

D. L.

OLD ROCK SPRING AND LAVERGNE.

On the first Lord's day and night, of April, and Saturday night previous, we were with the congregation at Old Rock Spring, about five miles from Laverne, and in the northwestern part of Rutherford county, Tenn. There has been a congregation here for a great while, the early history of which, in its conflicts with the Baptists would be very interesting, if written, but we are not sufficiently familiar with the facts to write them. This congregation, or a part of them at least, meet every Lord's Day to worship the Lord and carry on a Sunday-school, and thus read and study the Scriptures, sing, pray, and attend to the Lord's Supper. They have preaching only occasionally, and if they have any provisions made for doing anything in the way of sounding out the word, we did not learn of it. Surely every congregation could do something in this sort of work. No congregation should be content with being saved themselves, but should do all in their power to bring others to the knowledge of the truth, that they also may be saved.

There are only a very few of the pioneer members of this congregation now living; most of them have crossed over to the other side and their children and neighbors' children have come in to take their places. The Lord is certainly affording them precious opportunities, both for their own edification and for the conversion of others, and we hope they will strive to improve them.

On Monday night we preached at Laverne. There is not a large congregation here and they are not in as prosperous condition as might be, though there are some excellent members. There are a few of the old members here, that were members at Ebenezer, a meeting-house that stood near here before the war. Among these are Brother Eskridge and Brother and sister N. W. Carter. Brother Eskridge is seventy-nine years old, though vigorous and stout for his age. Brother Carter has been suffering for some eight years from paralysis, and can scarcely walk about the house and yard. Some of these members also are meeting every Lord's Day, and we hope there is a brighter day before them for the success of the Cause. Faithfulness, even on the part of a few, sometimes brings marvelous results, and we hope it may yet be so regarding the Cause at Laverne.

E. G. S.

Augustin said, "To give alms is healthful to those who have changed their sins. But if thou givest in order that thy sins may be unpunished, thou dost not feed Christ in the person of the poor, but thou seekest to bribe thy judge."

Jerome says, "The true temple of Christ are the souls of believers, adorn these, clothe these. In these receive Christ. Of what use is it, that the walls of the churches are resplendent with jewels, while Christ in the person of the poor suffers hunger?"

TEXAS WORK AND WORKERS.

CONDUCTED BY JOHN T. POE, LONGVIEW, TEXAS,
TO WHOM ALL CORRESPONDENCE RELATING TO
THIS DEPARTMENT MUST BE ADDRESSED.

OUR BIBLE CLASS.

Our Bible Class is no longer an experiment, it is a success. Every mail brings in new names for the class, and questions and answers. Of course I select such as I think best for publication. I cannot publish all. And then frequently my manuscript for a whole issue gets lost between here and Nashville. Bro. Lipscomb published nothing last week, while I knew I had sent on matter for two issues. The mails are being tampered with, but I can't get the Dep't to act.

A great many have read up on the prophecies fulfilled in Christ. Answers range from "twenty-one to one hundred and forty-three." As far as I am able to see, about eventy. I am glad that all have worked so hard at this. Now, if so many of the prophecies were fulfilled in him, does not this prove him to be the Messiah? He was pointed out by so many prophecies, and these so definite, that we cannot be mistaken in him. One prophecy is peculiarly striking. "The scepter shall not depart from Judah until Shiloh come." It departed entirely at his coming, and Judah has never held it since. Read what Bro. Lauderdale has to say about our Bible Class.

Dear Bro. Poe: I again send answers. Answer to Bro. Lauderdale's query, No. 13 in ADVOCATE of March 5th. From the creation of light, firmament, etc., to the birth of Christ is 4004 years, and from the end of Gen. to the birth of Christ is 1635 years. Now, 4004 less the 1635 years gives 2369 years, covered by the book of Gen. I have re-read Matthew in search of the fulfillment of the prophecies. I find that Christ personally fulfilled thirty-nine. I must insist that my answer to Bro. Gowen's query, in regard to God's giving and taking the soul, is correct, though it may not be what he had in mind. Answer to Bro. McMurray's query, in ADVOCATE of March 26th. Paul made seven quotations. See 1 Tim. iii: 1; iv: 8. We find two in verse 18 of fifth chapter 2 Tim. ii: 11. Also two in verse 19 of the second chapter 2 Tim. I wish to ask the class the question as to what was the profoundest prayer ever made.—[J. P. Gotcher, Waxahachie, Texas.

Bro. Gotcher is a careful reader, and a good student. We want more such.

Dear Bro. Poe: When the GOSPEL ADVOCATE comes to my house, we all look with great interest to the "Bible Class" column. There is great searching of the Scriptures to get the answers to the questions. We were all very much disappointed because a late No. of the ADVOCATE had nothing for the class. Please do not let that happen again. You must not think that only those study the questions who write answers. All who study the questions should write answers. The exercise of writing would improve them, in giving expression to their ideas. When one goes to write upon a subject, he will often find that his knowledge of the subject is not as accurate as he thought it was. Hence, writing leads to more accurate knowledge. Let every member of the class write answers, at least, sometimes.

In answer to the question, "How old was Jacob when he fled to Padan Aram," Bro. Gowen answered 71 years. He has since changed his answer to 56 years, (as I now remember.) He ought to have given the process by which he reached his answer, so that the class could have judged of its correctness. I thought he was correct when he said 71 years. Upon re-examination, I find the correct answer is 77 years. I reach the answer thus: When Jacob went down into Egypt he was 130 years old. Gen. xlvii: 9. Joseph was then 39 years old; thus he was 30 years old when he stood before Pharaoh. Gen. xli: 46. There were seven years of plenty. Jacob came down in the second year of famine. Gen. xlv: 6. 30, 7 and 2 added together, equals 39 years. Jacob was then 91 years old when Joseph was born. But Joseph was born at the end of the fourteen years Jacob served for Leah and Rachel. Gen. xxx: 25. Jacob began this service one month after he reached Padan Aram. Gen. xxix: 14. So then, 91, minus 14, equals 77 years, the age of Jacob when he fled from Canaan to Padan Aram. If there is any error in this calculation, let some one in the class point it out. Now for questions:

1. What king attempted sacrilege and was smitten with incurable disease? What did he attempt? What disease?

2. Who were prophets in the days of David's reign?

3. Give the exact time, (year, month, day,) in which Solomon was to build the temple? How long was he building it?

4. What family never used intoxicating drink?

5. Give the names of David's sisters, and the names of their sons, who were highly men of renown.

6. Who was commander of David's army, and how did he get the position.—[B. W. Lauderdale.

Sister E. C. McBroom of Cleburne, joins the class, and asks, "How often does the word girl occur in the Bible?"

THE INDIAN TERRITORY—PRESENT AND FUTURE.

Dear Bro. Poe: The South has three denominations actively engaged in Indian Territory, viz.: M. E. Church, South, Presbyterian and Baptist. Each has an entergetic corps of white and native preachers, and they have made a mighty change in the moral and intellectual condition of the Indian race in that Territory. I have, as a brother missionary, traveled forty and fifty miles on horse back, camping at night, and going over rough and rugged mountains, and through rushing mountain torrents, and found encamped round the old church, natives, who, like me, have traveled scores of miles to spend two days in the solemn worship of God, who is dear to the Indian as to the pale face.

As the morning sun sheds his first beams upon the earth we all kneel in earnest prayer, that he who made the sun, may let the beams of righteousness shine in our hearts as bright as does the beams of the sun now commencing his diurnal reign; and in this earnest petition, are lisped words in the Indian's native tongue, as well as the familiar language of our own. Hymns of praise now follow and we close for our morning meal. Services are held at 9 A. M. and 11 A. M. and 3 P. M. and 7 P. M. In these services the native preachers take an earnest part, and in their own language tell of the love of Jesus, while the blessed light of God's love lightens up the dusky hearts, and many can testify to converting power of a Savior's love.

All the white missionaries have Indian interpreters, who, while the white brother pauses, translates what has been said. The Methodists have a college at New Hope, in the north part of the Choctaw Nation, and a few more in the northern part of the Indian Territory. The Presbyterians (old school) have charge of New and Old Spencer academies in the Choctaw Nation, and the Baptists have a school in the Cherokee Nation. The churches and schools have done a great work, and have elevated a race and people from savage life to be quiet, law loving and law abiding people. There is, however, far too little expended in the field in the support of missionaries and teachers. Not many native teachers are yet able to take hold of the "National Schools," and white men and women must, for years, be the educators of this people; and how necessary that these should be children of God, of pure and sterling worth as Christian workers.

Never in the history and life of the Indian States, or Republics, has been a school as greatly needed as is the one our dear brother R. W. Officer proposes to establish if he can receive proper support from his denomination. No other denomination has ever filled the place he wishes to occupy, and years of labor in the Indian country teaches me that no denomination ever has, or ever could have wielded the power and influence the Christian Church could, if the brethren only would give this their only proposed mission, their support, by sending liberal donations. The Indians need and demand it, and ought to have it, and I feel that any lover of him who gave up heaven, home, life, all, for man's elevation, ought to give something at least in aid of God's cause in the Indian Territory.

J. ALLEN BALL.

Paris Texas, March 24, 1884.

SHORT NOTES.

Bro. McPherson says "he don't know nothing about that paper he is to start."

Three added to the congregation at Longview first Lord's day in April. Church has had many heavy burdens during past winter, but is discharging her duty, and growing in faith and love.

We want every preacher and widowed sister in the State, to act as agents for us in getting subscribers for the ADVOCATE, and we will allow them to keep twenty-five per cent of the subscription price, as commission for their trouble.

Bro. J. H. Sills died in Longview, March 23rd. The church has lost a noble soldier of the cross. He fell with his armor on. The little church at this place has lost about half its membership by death and removals in the last few months.

Bro. Burnett is shooting some telling shots in his paper now. He gets "sounder and sounder" all the time. We heartily endorse him in his fight against innovations of every character. If he keeps on much longer, we shall feel like joining his church.

A great many professing Christians never go to church, nor take any part in the fellowship and work of the church, and yet, when they get sick, they are terribly offended if the church don't look after them. Paul said, if any would not work, they should not eat.

Pat Willis, a colored brother, who preaches in Harrison and surrounding counties, is so solidly logical, and truthful in his preaching, that many whites hear him at every appointment. He is eloquent in expressing gospel truth. There are few white preachers who can preach a better gospel discourse than Bro. Pat.

The Texas Christian comes to me this week. A consolidation of the Christian Preacher and the Christian Student. It is edited by Uncle Mac Wilmeth, who used to write for the Christian Preacher. We wish the paper great success, and hope it may prove itself a Christian indeed. We shall expect it to take a strong stand in defense of the ancient order of things, and against all the innovations which now afflict the church. Send for specimen copy,—it is published at Thorpe's Springs, Texas. Address Texas Christian.

We get a good many subscribers and many complimentary notices of the paper, but we can't spare our valuable space to publish them. Some papers are filled with the number of subscribers they get, and what Tom, Dick, and Harry say about the paper. It may be better reading than other things they might publish, but it grows terribly monotonous. But then, you know that old Scripture, "Blow thine own horn, for verily if thou blowest it not, the same shall not be blown." Jude 2: 13.

DOING GOOD.—No. 1.

"And if a man sue thee at the law, and take away thy coat, let him have thy cloak also. And whosoever shall compel thee to go a mile, go with him in twain." Matthew 5.

A young gentleman was warned to work on the road. He did not think he was subject to road duty at that place. Many agreed with him. He asked my advice, whether to work or not. The above Scripture came into my mind, and I repeated it. I knew that he would be returned and carried to court about it, and the shortest way to get out was to work out. All our Savior's course shows superior wisdom. This is not an exception. If I understand this, it means, do not get up contentions and strife about little things of no value. If the court gets holds of you, get out the best way you can. How often much money, time and effort, have been spent and lost in lawing over matters of the most trivial concern. Christ saves all who hear him from such disastrous conduct as this.

I met an acquaintance a few days ago, who had been to town to see about a lawsuit. I learned that the object of litigation was a dog—a fox hound. About four hundred miles had been traveled on the railroad, by the different parties, in taking and retaking the canine. Of course much money was spent in the travel and lawsuit. Lawyers, judges, clerks, and witnesses must be paid. I learned from two parties that a one-hundred-and-fifty-dollar loss were the fruits of the doggish affair to one individual connected with it. This is not the worst case of which I have heard, either. In this case, the man who wins the dog will be badly damaged. I do not know if the dog was not a real injury to him, without the evils of a lawsuit.

When I consider the ways of man, I then think of what Paul said: "For the flesh lusteth against the Spirit, and the Spirit against the flesh; and these are contrary the one to the other, so that we cannot do the things that we would." Conversion is a grand work. It is no small job, either. All who mellow down in the time of excitement, and shed a few tears, are not thoroughly converted. The man who dislikes the mastery of the flesh, and craves to be under Jesus, has traveled a long way. But he who is really living under the great King, is the man blessed in his deeds. With this man there is ever a contest, however, and no time for him to lay aside his armor. The devil will certainly always find business for all saints and sinners. He keeps sinners at work in sin. The children of God find business in resisting the insinuating influences which he untiringly offers to the flesh. It is highly important to keep on hand a rich supply of the Spirit of Christ. All whose names are on the church book are not full of it, however. Those who have it are not always in possession of the same rich supply. Continued reading, thinking, praying, are necessary to keep in the straight path. A hundred unlooked for incidents and accidents will demand a ready exercise in the Spirits' manual of arms. Too much study and knowledge, too much drill and experience in heaven's discipline, cannot be well attained. The world is full of those who will wrong you. He is a good man who studies to do all good and no evil. The church itself is not full of such Spirits as these. Besides, the contest with our supposed wrongs is no little conflict. Were I to say half the griefs of life are over imaginary insults and supposed grievances, I would not overreach in my supposition. But some are real. Some of small import. It makes no difference. The greatest insults and the most fearful difficulties arise from little trivial things. A man steals your dog, or cuts off your cow's tail, or dogs your hogs, or speaks evil of you, or makes fun of you, or speaks to you sourly, curtly or coldly, or does not speak to you, yet says something about your family, or does not say something about them, does not pay you what he owes you, or duns you for what you owe him, and there are a thousand other little and great vexatious circumstances in life, and I have not hinted at these, which happen between husband and wife, father, mother and children, farmer and laborer, man and horse, driver and oxen, merchant, clerk and buyer, and on, and on, and so on.

Now, life is full of these troubles. Peter's advice is good in such cases: "Forasmuch then as Christ hath suffered for us in the flesh, arm yourselves likewise with the same mind." You see a man should prepare for the business of "doing right." A man can arm himself with the weapons that are not carnal, as well as those that are. It is a cowardly custom of men, young and old, to carry pistols to protect themselves against other bad men. But there is quite a reason why the soldiers of the cross should arm themselves. The world is full of bad men and women, and they should be met with the Spirit of Christ. The soldier is commanded to arm himself with the mind of Christ. How did Christ when spit upon? Bore it. How did he when smitten? Bore it meekly. How when dragged around all night by his wicked persecutors? Bore it like a lamb dumb at the slaughter. How did he while the nails were being driven through his feet and hands? Submitted. This mind is not put on very easily. It is not kept on easily. The soldier of Christ's kingdom must rub up his armor every day, and keep it bright. Peter endeavored to stir up some pure minds by way of remembrance. As in the ordinary battle, so in the spiritual. It is not when you are expecting the enemy that he does you the most injury, but when you are off your guard, and not looking for him. You start out in the morning resolved to do good all the day long, you feel good towards every one and ever thing, and you think you carry no evil at heart, you are just about concluding you should be canonized a saint, when lo! a small thing, no larger than a pin head, throws the whole engine off the track and there is a most awful crash and wreck. You thought the whole world certainly felt as good as you and there certainly could be no crosses, and you were upset by the first one you encountered.

A good old Methodist man, in Longview, Texas, Methvin by name, went all the way to Dallas to the sanctification meeting. He got it sure enough and came home clear out of gun shot of the devil. You could see sanctification all over him, from the crown of his righteous head to the soles of his holy feet. His neighbors were told of it, besides it was a thing to be seen manifest and clear; though religion is not generally to be found sticking about on the out surface.

Now a hog is a vexatious creature. Whether it cannot or will not see the gap at which it came in when passing by it a dozen times, and the man who is trying to drive it out is out of breath and out of patience too, is not a debatable question. I remember one of these swine passed the yard gate several times when I was a boy helping my mother drive it out. She stopped and seemed to consider for a while its depravity. Looking at the obstreperous animal, she said, "The devil went in you when our Savior was on earth and I do believe that he has never come out." Well one of them pests by some means got in the good Methvins yard, up and down the yard fence went pig and brother M. The piggy refusing to see as large a thing as a gate. This was done until all the fun was trotted out of the little affair and the backward and forward doublequick lost all its charm as simple exercise. Now this was too much for the saint. He was warm every way you could think of, and showed this too. Sister George Harrison, who had been a witness to the whole trouble, now stepped to the window and called, "Bro. Methvin, take down your sign, that will not do for sanctification." Many of us are the same way, and it is very necessary that we "arm ourselves with the mind of Christ," and it is highly essential too that we look well to our armor.

J. M. BARNES.

SEVEN "I WILL" OF CHRIST.

1. Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest. Matt. xi: 28.
2. Him that cometh to me, I will in no wise cast out. John vi: 37.
3. I will; be thou clean. Luke vi: 13.
4. Him will I confess also before my Father. Matt. x: 32.
5. I will not leave you comfortless. John xiv: 18.
6. I will raise him up at the last day. John vi: 40.
7. Father, I will that they also whom thou hast given me, be with me where I am. John xvii: 24.

Obituary.

Alice Maxwell, daughter of Robert and Mary Frances Maxwell, born August 20th, 1882, died March 9th, 1884. Her death was caused by congestion of the brain; was sick only about three days. "Suffer little children to come unto me and forbid them not," were the comforting words of our Redeemer. The sorrowing parents and children have our sympathy in this sore bereavement.

G. L.

My dear father fell asleep on the 21st day of December, 1883. On the 12th day of November he received a terrible wound in a cotton gin, which caused his death. He bore his pains with patience till God saw fit to take him home with the other loved ones. He died as he had lived, in faith and with a full hope of heaven. Thomas L. Snodgrass was born March 10, 1830, at Jonesboro, Washington County, Tenn., and lived there till he was 21; then went to the West and stayed till he was married to Miss Eliza P. Jenkins, daughter of Willis D. Jenkins, of Weakley County, Tenn., on March 27th, 1856; and they were both buried in baptism in the year '66, under the preaching of Bro. Goodlow, in Rutherford Co., Tenn. He leaves a wife and twelve living children to mourn his loss.

KATIE F. DOUGLASS.

Crafton, Wise County, Texas.

Death has again visited our little band. Our dear Bro. James L. Lawrence is no more. February 10th, 1884, brought crushing sorrow to the widowed and orphaned hearts of his household. After nine days of painful suffering and patient endurance, pneumonia brought to a close a life which seemed to us almost essential to the wellbeing of our little congregation. Beech Bluff has lost her most useful and efficient worker. Bro. Lawrence was born in 1836. At 19 years of age he dedicated his life to Jesus, and has since that time been recognized as a citizen of his kingdom. We do not claim for him that he was faultless. He was oftentimes painfully conscience of his weaknesses, and was always willing to confess to his brethren and before the world any fault or sin of which he was conscious. His grief-stricken family has the sympathy of the entire community, together with many friends, relatives and brethren throughout Middle and West Tennessee.

J. A. CARTER.

Died at her home in Sumner County, Tenn., February 17th, 1884, Mary A. Sanford, wife of Bro. John S. Sanford. Sister Sanford was the daughter of Matthew and Christian Barber. She was born in Osage County, North Carolina, March 31st, 1819; married to Henry Bradley April 18, 1839. After his death she was married to Bro. John S. Sanford, April 12, 1868. She took charge of a large family of motherless children; she soon won the love of her family—all gave—that respect and obedience which make home a place of joy and comfort. Sister Sanford was formerly a member of the Methodist church and was very strong in that faith. She was willing to hear and gain all the light she could. When she learned the truth as taught by Jesus and the apostles, she yielded to its sweet influence and was baptized by Bro. Hopson at Gallatin, sometime in 1871. She lived a devoted and faithful member of the church until her death. Those she has left weep bitterly over their loss, and rejoice in the thought and hope of her gain. May the Lord bless the mourning friends and relations, comfort and console them in their sorrow and bereavement.

A. ALSUP, JR.

I am requested to write the death of old Bro. Neeley who died on Cumberland river near Burkesville. He departed this life March 2nd, at six o'clock in the morning. He was a member of the church, and had been for about forty years. He had been afflicted for many years with a tumor on his side. He bore his afflictions with patience. Though he was unable to attend meeting, he would call the preachers in and would have them to preach at his house. His home was always the home for the wayworn preacher. He leaves a wife and two sons, and many grandchildren to mourn their loss. On old Christmas day he remarked to his good wife that he felt better than he had for ten years; he was born December 15, 1798. He said to his wife before death, he would soon be at home. We all sympathize with Sister Neeley, but we sorrow not as those who have no hope. Be faithful, dear sister, it will not be long till we all will cross the river. As the poet has said:

"Before we reach that home above,
There is one more river to cross;
Where angels dwell, and all is love,
There is one more river to cross."

Marrowbone, Cumberland Co., Ky. ROBERT KIRBY.

Died near Tompkinsville, Ky., at 2 o'clock Saturday morning, March the 8th, 1884, of internal erysipelas, Sister Minerva Pennington, wife of Samuel Pennington. Deceased became a member of the church of Christ at Concord, Tenn., at an early age, under the preaching of Bro. Mc. D. Moore, and lived a consistent member of that body up to her death. She leaves an aged father and mother, a number of brothers and sisters, a husband and two little ones, and a host of sympathizing friends, to mourn their loss; but we sorrow not as those having no hope of a meeting in the future, for we believe that our loss is her gain. She was a fond mother and loving wife. Her husband has not yet obeyed the gospel, but we trust he may see his error and turn to the fold of Christ and gain entrance into that upper and better kingdom, where he may meet his loving wife, where there is no more parting in death.

Sister, we trust thou art numbered with the blessed,
Safe in the heavenly mansions to rest;
With angels sharing the joys untold,
In the beautiful realms of the good shepherd's fold.

Tompkinsville, Ky.

JAS. M. W. SMITH.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

This powder never varies. A marvel of purity strength and wholesomeness. More economical than the ordinary kinds, and cannot be sold in competition with the multitude of low test, short weight alum or phosphate powders. Sold only in cans.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 106 Wall St., New York.

THE BEST

Hair restorative in the world is HALL'S HAIR RENEWER. It cures all diseases of the scalp, and stimulates the hair glands to healthful action. It stops the falling of the hair; prevents its turning gray; cures baldness, and restores youthful color and freshness of appearance to heads already white with age. The following are a few illustrations of what is done by

HALL'S Vegetable Sicilian HAIR RENEWER:

Mrs. HUNSBERRY, 344 Franklin Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y., after a severe attack of erysipelas in the head, found her hair—already gray—falling off so rapidly that she soon became quite bald. One bottle of HALL'S HAIR RENEWER brought it back as soft, brown and thick as when she was a girl.

Mr. KESLING, an old farmer, near Warsaw, Ind., had scarcely any hair left, and what little there was of it had become nearly white. One bottle of HALL'S HAIR RENEWER stopped its falling out, and gave him a thick, luxuriant head of hair, as brown and fresh as he ever had.

Mrs. A. T. WALL, Greenfield, Cheshire, Eng., writes: "I have found the greatest benefit from the use of HALL'S HAIR RENEWER, it having restored my hair, which was rapidly falling off, and returned its original color."

Dr. EMIL SEIP, Detroit, Mich., certifies that "HALL'S HAIR RENEWER is excellent for hair growing, and gives back the natural color to faded and gray hair."

Mrs. S. E. ELLIOTT, Glenville, W. Va., says: "One bottle of HALL'S HAIR RENEWER restored my hair to its natural, youthful color."

No injurious substances enter into the composition of HALL'S HAIR RENEWER, and it is not a dye. Its vegetable ingredients render it in the highest degree beneficial to the scalp as a preventive of disease. Its effects are natural and lasting, and it does not make the hair dry and brashy, like the so-called restoratives compounded with alcohol.

Buckingham's Dye

FOR THE

WHISKERS

Is, in four respects, superior to all others. 1st—It will produce a rich, natural color, brown or black, as desired.

2d—The color so produced is permanent, cannot be washed off, and will not soil anything with which it comes in contact.

3d—It is a single preparation, and more convenient of application than any other hair or whisker dye.

4th—It contains no deleterious ingredients, as do many preparations offered for like use.

PREPARED BY

R. P. HALL & CO., Nashua, N. H.
Sold by all dealers in medicines.

THE SUGAR HAND BOOK

A NEW AND VALUABLE TREATISE ON SUGAR CANES, (including the Minnesota Early Amber) and their manufacture into Syrup and Sugar. Although comprised in small compass and furnished free to applicants, it is the BEST PRACTICAL MANUAL ON SUGAR CANES that has yet been published.

BLUMYER MANUFACTURING CO.
Cincinnati, O.
Manufacturers of Steam Sugar Machinery, Steam Engines, Victor Cane Mill, Cook Sugar Refractor, etc.

PREWITT, SPURR & CO., MANUFACTURERS OF WOODEN WARE AND LUMBER, NASHVILLE, TENN.

Poplar and Pine Flooring, Ceiling, Weatherboarding, Sash, Doors, Blinds, Door and Window Frames, Brackets, Laths, Cedar Posts, Etc., Always on hand.

FACTORY AND MILLS IN EDGEFIELD.

NATHANIEL BAXTER, JR.,
President.

THOS. PLATER,
Vice President.

J. P. WILLIAMS,
Cashier.

W. F. BANG, JR.,
Ass't Cashier.

THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK, OF NASHVILLE, TENN. (Reorganized.)

Designated Depository and Financial Agent of the United States.

CAPITAL STOCK, - - - - - $500,000 00
UNDIVIDED PROFITS, - - - - - 190,000 00

Receives Deposits, Deals in United States Bonds and Local Securities, and Foreign and Domestic Exchange. Drafts drawn on all European points. Our facilities for making collections at all accessible points are unsurpassed.

P. A. SHELTON, DEALER IN STAPLE AND FANCY GROCERIES, FLOUR, BACON, LARD, TOBACCO AND CIGARS, COUNTRY PRODUCE, QUEENSWARE, GLASSWARE, TINWARE, LAMPS AND TRIMMINGS. No. 96 BROAD STREET, - (Second door from College,) - NASHVILLE, TENN.

Special Attention Given to Filling Orders.

SOLE AGENT FOR "RINGLEADER" FLOUR.

ALEX. HOGAN.

JO. B. HALL.

HOGAN & HALL

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALERS IN

GROCERIES, BACON, LARD,

—AND—

PURE WHISKIES AND WINES

For Medicinal Purposes.

106 Broad Street, - - - NASHVILLE, TENN.

GOOD CLOTHING!

Gentlemen and boys who desire GOOD CLOTHING at medium prices, equal in style and make to any custom work, should not fail to examine our stock before purchasing their Outfits.

HUNTINGTON, Clothier,

160 Church Street, - - - NASHVILLE.

W. R. CORNELIUS,

GENERAL FUNERAL UNDERTAKER.

OFFICE:

No. 17 North Summer Street,

RESIDENCE:

No. 413 Main Street.

Telephone 73 calls the Office; Telephone 271 calls the Residence.

Will furnish everything wanted at a funeral, and all first-class. Prices as cheap as anybody else. 2a3m

THUSS, KOELLEIN & GIERS,

Successors to old Giers' Gallery,

PHOTOGRAPHERS!

139 Union Street, Nashville, Tenn.

CALVERT BROTHERS, PORTRAITS.

In Crayon, in Oil and Water Colors; Ivory Miniatures, &c., &c., Cole Building, Cor. Union and Cherry Streets, Nashville, Tenn.

GEO. E. COOPER & CO., Wholesale Manufacturers and Dealers in TINWARE, STOVES, FURNACES, And House Furnishing Goods.

Tin and Slate Roofing and Galvanized Iron Cornice Work a Specialty.

Also our Patent Chimney Top for smoky chimneys, has no equal. Write for prices and address.

GEO. E. COOPER & CO., 22 North Market Street, Nashville, - - - Tennessee.

SHOW CASES,
CEDAR CHESTS, CEDAR WARDROBES,
Cabinet Work, and all kinds of Glass.

G. C. TERRY, Manufacturer,
No. 2 Hicks' Block, North Side Public Square, NASHVILLE, TENN.

F. A. BADGER, DENTIST

OFFICE.

ODD FELLOWS' TEMPLE,
(Cor Church & High Sts.,)
Nashville, Tennessee.

A Physician's Gift.

If you are a sufferer hoping for a permanent cure of Apoplectic or Epileptic

FITS,

a Free Trial Box of the celebrated Dr. JUSTICE SCHROEDER'S REMEDY for this disorder will be sent you, post-paid, free.

Every sufferer from this disease that is anxious to be cured should give these Powders an immediate trial. Large Box $3 00, two boxes $5 00.

Address, PHILIP HENRY,
49 South Street, New York City.

OWEN'S STATION SCHOOL.

The sixth annual session will open Sept. 3d, 1883, and continue Forty Weeks. The session is divided into two terms of twenty weeks each.

The expenses to boarders per term, are from $75.00 to $80.00. Music with use of Instrument, $22.00. $100.00 will pay for board, washing, full instruction in higher English Branches, Latin, Greek, French and Music. Bills due one-half at opening of term and remainder at middle. For any information, address

W. LIPSCOMB,
Brentwood, Tenn.

AGENTS wanted for the History of Christianity, by Abbott. A grand chance. A $4 book at the popular price of $1.75. Liberal terms. The religious papers mention it as one of the few great religious works of the world. Greater success never known by agents. Terms free. STINSON & Co., Publisher, Portland, Maine.

DONT purchase your CHRISTMAS PRESENTS until you have seen our IMMENSE HOLIDAY CATALOGUE of Toys, Novelties, Fancy Goods, &c., mailed free. Address Eureka T. & N. Co., 87 Warren St., New York.

CATALOGUE of Best Books for Agents sent free, including Mother, Home and Heaven, $2.75. Pleases everybody. 128,000 sold, $150 monthly. E. B. TEXAR, Publisher, New York.

KENTUCKY CONTRIBUTIONS AND CORRESPONDENCE.

BY J. A. HARDING, OF WINCHESTER, KY., TO WHOM
ALL COMMUNICATIONS FOR THIS DEPARTMENT
SHOULD BE ADDRESSED.

THE MEETING AT SAVANNAH, GA.

After an evangelist has conducted about a half dozen protracted meetings he is apt to think that he knows all about them—that he can tell the end from the beginning; but after he has held a hundred or more, he begins to understand that he can tell but little about the result till the meetings have ended. Such, at least, has been my experience. But no meeting ever gave results more radically different from what I expected than did the one at Savannah; nor was I ever much better pleased with one.

In the first place, upon arriving in the city I learned that there had been given a "Musical Festival and Wand Drill" for the purpose of raising money to run the meeting. I learned further that the festival wound up with a dance, much to the displeasure of some of the members, but, probably, with the approval and encouragement of some others. Had I known this before leaving home, I don't think I would have undertaken the meeting; but I am now very glad that I did not know it; for I found that most of the twenty five members, (there were about that number in the city,) had been disciples but a little while—from one to three years—and that they had been overwhelmed by sectarianism all of their lives. When I reflect that the churches about them, which they had been attending from infancy, are accustomed to raise money by fairs and festivals, and that they all tolerate dancing—when I learned that they had received but little instruction upon these matters, if any at all, and that some whom they had consulted, whom they thought ought to know, had rather encouraged than discouraged them in these things, I began to appreciate the fact that it was probably the very place for me to be. And let me say just here I have never found more self-sacrificing workers; nor have I ever had as good a support in working with so small a church; I mean by this, I have never had as faithful a band of co-workers. Had it not been so, the meetings would have failed, for we labored under the most discouraging circumstances. We could secure no hall that was at all suitable for the meetings except the Masonic Temple, the largest in the city. In it our little band seemed like a little flock of sheep on a great pasture. Above us were a masonic lodge room, a dancing room, a Jewish club room, etc. In going up to these rooms it was necessary to pass up a flight of stairs by our door; and we could distinctly hear the tramping, marching, dancing, and so on, on the floor above us; we were on a corner with a street car line on each street. These noises disturbed us no little, in the beginning, but we got used to them after awhile. These were some of the troubles we had to contend with but by no means all of them.

The meeting began on Wednesday evening; and when Saturday came, my mind was pretty well made up to start to another appointment on Monday morning, the time and circumstances seemed so unfavorable; but on Sunday we had better audiences and a more quiet day, and all began to take more interest in the meetings; so we pressed on for four weeks.

Persistence is one of the most necessary qualifications for evangelistic work. One should never lose confidence in the power of the word, faithfully and lovingly preached. In no work should one be less inclined to follow his feelings than in this; for in the beginning of a meeting he will nearly always meet with very discouraging circumstances; he will feel depressed and "blue," and be tempted to doubt that the Lord has led him into the field of labor. These feelings he should trample beneath his feet, and press right on with the work. He should keep his misery to himself as much as possible, striving always to be bright and cheery. It is not likely that any amount of experience will enable him to begin meetings without this period of depression. I suffer as much in this way as in the beginning of my ministry, sometimes I think even more, notwithstanding I know many of the very best meetings begin in the most gloomy and unpropitious way, making a grand contrast in their glorious endings with their sad beginnings. It won't do to be governed much by the feelings anywhere in religion. If the church is not right, if it does not co-operate with the preacher as it should do, the word is the remedy; let him sow this grand seed in their hearts as diligently as he can; if they can be saved at all, it is in this way; the trouble with them is that they lack faith—the faith that loves and trusts—and this comes from hearing the word of God.

But let it not be supposed that these reflections about arousing members to a performance of duty in helping in a meeting are suggested by any especial backwardness in this respect on the part of the brethren at Savannah. Far be it! For while it is true that some of the members there were not as earnest in the beginning as they should have been, (and this is always the case,) an unusual proportion of them were as faithful and self-sacrificing and diligent in the work as any coadjutors it has ever been my fortune to have. Nor will I ever forget their zeal for the cause.

The meetings were continued for two weeks or more before we had a confession, if I recollect right. We began to think none would come, and to console ourselves that the church was being mightily benefited; but before the close thirteen were added to the little band. Among these was a Baptist minister and his wife, who reside in the city, and who have been known there for many years as most excellent people, and faithful, diligent laborers. Eight were baptized, four were reclaimed from the Baptists, and one was restored to the fellowship. Of those baptized four or five were from the Methodists.

In the beginning I expressed a doubt as to whether we could expect God to bless us in the meeting if we were to use the festival money; and I expressly refused to receive a cent of it. Nor was any of it expended for any purpose while I was in the city. Whether it will be paid for hall rent I do not know, but I hope not. As we walked from meeting one night I said to the brother with me, one of the leaders in the church, "Surely the Lord will not bless our meeting because we have that festival money. I would feel so much more hopeful were it not for that." "Well," said he, "we will not use it then." "Amen!" said I, "let us not use it at all." On the next evening we received our first confession, and from that time the meeting was by all parties considered a success, I am particular to mention and explain this money matter because it has been circulated far and wide that "Bro. Harding was sustained in the meeting at Savannah by money raised by a church festival which ended in a dance."

Nothing is more certain than that the preacher should refuse to receive money raised in such a way; and he ought publicly and privately to oppose such proceedings. Nearly all the members were opposed to the dance and numbers left the hall when it began. Those who expressed themselves to me about the festival said they would never have anything to do with another one. I don't think another will ever be given in the interest of the church at Savannah. It is worthy of remark that this church in the beginning had an organ and a hired leader of the singing; they gave up first their leader of music and then the instrument. It seems to me that they are making rapid and vigorous strides in the right direction—steps too that few congregations ever take that have gotten into these errors. May the Lord bless them, and cause his face to shine upon them; may he give them favor with the people and build them up; above all, may he preserve them to his everlasting kingdom.

I am now in a Meeting at Valdosta, Ga. After our meeting at Savannah closed, a sister reported that if we would have a special meeting, she was sure there would be another addition; and we called the meeting, and a gentleman confessed and was baptized. I learn also there has been one baptism since I left.

END OF KENTUCKY DEPARTMENT.

TEXAS WORK AND WORKERS—Continued.

Don't forget to send us some new subscribers at once.

I cannot go to Alabama this year, yet. Not able. Is the reason sufficient?

Bro. W. C. Holloway will probably preach for the brethren at Pea-town this year.

That Clerical Bull, published in the Messenger awhile back, roars pretty loud. We are sorry it was done.

Preached at Hallville fifth Lord's day in March. Good audience, and the brethren anxious we should preach longer.

You expect the preacher to do your praying and worshipping for you, do you? Very well, then he will have to go to heaven for you, too.

Dear Bro. Poe: Closed a meeting at Pine Grove, March 30th, with four additions by baptism. Pine Grove is in Polk County. Bro. D. A. Leak preached for us one night and next morning at the water, on his way to Woodville, Tyler Co. I came here to assist him; he closed with three additions; two by baptism, one immersed believer from the Methodists.—[John F. Brill, Woodville, Tyler County, April 2nd, 1884.]

Dear Bro. Poe: One addition at our prayer meeting last Wednesday night. Bro. J. A. Perdue, of Carrollton, Ga., contemplates a trip to Texas in June, and spend a month; let us put him to work, brethren, he is a good preacher. Have not received anything for Indian Mission for about a month. In reply to the brethren who ask me to visit Tennessee and Alabama, I will say I can give them a part of next year; they can make their own arrangements. The little son (Eddie) of J. M. and Maggie Sims, died in Florida a few days ago.—[R. W. Officer, Paris, Texas, March 29, 1884.]

P. S.—I leave for the Indian Nation to-morrow on business.—[R. W. O.]

The new Queen of Madagascar, with the pleasant and appropriate name of Razafindrahety, is said to exert quite as active an influence toward the advancement of Christianity as her predecessor, the late Queen Eauavalomanyakah. She was educated in a Christian school sustained by the London Missionary Society, and was baptized when she was 16 years of age. Her beauty is described as something marvelous, her form being that of a Venus, and her complexion that of a light mulatto. The work of evangelization in Madagascar has not been interfered with by the French troubles.—Inter-Ocean.

ITEMS, PERSONALS, ETC.

J. Harding writes: "Our meeting at 25 Portland Avenue has closed with sixty-nine added; this meeting was a happy meeting. The brethren here are going to build them a house of worship this summer. Pray for us."

Bro. L. S. Barrett writes from Franklin: "We had, on the last Lord's day in March, two more additions; and last Lord's day, the 6th of April, one addition; all by confession and baptism in the name of the Lord Jesus. The brethren feel much encouraged with the labors of Bro. Shelton. Our audiences are large and attentive; we hope the work will still go on, until all the children of the Sunday-school, and many others, shall confess Jesus as their only Savior and friend, who is able to save all that come to him."

A. C. Henry writes: "I have received in money for evangelizing in the cities of Alabama, six dollars and fifty cents, which I hold subject to the order of the brethren, or brother doing the work. Also, the congregation at Mooresville, Limestone County, offers one hundred and twenty-five dollars worth of my time (as she values it) to the work. She gives me two hundred and fifty dollars for a monthly appointment, paid in monthly installments. She offers half of that time to the city work. She may claim the right to select the field, I do not know as to that."

On yesterday, I received the sad intelligence through the ADVOCATE of the death of my dearly beloved brother, M. A. Beal. I have known him from his baptism, which was, I think, in the year '66, at Liberty, Lawrence County, Tenn., at a meeting held by those old soldiers, W. T. Lee and James W. Locke. I have lived a close neighbor to Bro. Beal, and been quite intimate with him, and learned to love him dearly. I had hoped to get him out here in Texas to help establish the cause of truth here. But alas! how little we know of the future. He was very industrious and energetic, very sanguine and cheerful. He loved the cause of God and delighted in his service. He lost his health in 1879, has not been well since. I hope the brethren, especially those who knew him, will not forget the widow.—[H. North, Erath Co., Texas, April 3rd, 1884.]

Bro. David Adams, of Pine-apple, Ala., in a business note, says:

"My dear brother, I cannot tell you the grief I have experienced since you were here. Our dear Ella is with us no more. Mrs. E. A. Luckie. She died after a lingering illness of more than a year, of that slow but fatal disease, consumption, on the 22nd day of March. Oh! how sad the affliction, but we try to comfort our hearts with the thought that she is now at rest, and that we shall see her again in that bright and beautiful "home over there." I hope to live nearer my God in the future than I have ever done. Dear brethren pray for us."—[David Adams.]

Brother and sister Adams, and all the family, have our heartfelt sympathies in this, their sad bereavement. We know they feel much broken in spirit, but we are thankful that they have the hope of the gospel to comfort them in this sore trial. E. G. S.

My work for the year 1884 will embrace the following points: Wooten Wells, Robertson county, Texas, Franklin, Bald Prairie, Walnut, High Prairie, Limestone county. Some of the above congregations are doing well, others are not doing so well. How to get them to working well is the question. Somebody solve it for me, and I will be under lasting obligations. I will here say, that I have been trying to preach for about fourteen years, and during that time have visited Hill, McClelland, Navaro, Freestone, Limestone, Robertson, Falls, Leon, Anderson counties, and I have yet to find a live church that did not meet on the first day of the week, or a dead one that did. I am determined on one thing, and that is to preach more than ever on the importance of meeting weekly, and cultivating the Christian graces. May God help us all to be more faithful is my prayer.—[S. B. P.]

If Christians do not love the Lord well enough to meet together to worship him, and to edify one another, to strengthen themselves, they do not love him well enough to be saved.

CO-OPERATION MEETING.

The Co-operation meeting will be held at Union City May 14, 1884.

Wednesday.—8 o'clock P. M., Sermon.—J. B. Inman.

Thursday.—9:30 A. M., Co-operation.—B. W. Lauderdale; 11 A. M., Sermon.—J. W. Johnson; 1:30 P. M., Report of delegates; 3 P. M., Our duty towards brethren remote from congregations.—J. H. Roulhac; 8 P. M., Sermon.—R. A. Cook.

Friday.—9:30 A. M., report of evangelists; report of Committee; 11 A. M., Sermon.—J. A. Carter; 1:30 P. M., unfinished business; 3 P. M., Zeal.—Jno. R. Farrar; 8 P. M., Sermon.—Isaac Sewel.

Jno. E. McCORKLE.

T. E. SCOTT.

J. S. McCORKLE.

Committee.

General News.

An indignation meeting of Italians was held in Philadelphia to protest against the brutal treatment of a party of their newly arrived countrymen, who were forced into service on a Chesapeake Bay oyster boat, where they were overworked, half-starved and robbed.—A fire at Pensacola, Fla., destroyed the Merchant's Bank and several stores adjoining; the furniture factory of S. B. Anderson, at Berlamont station, Mich; Clarks paper mill at Marseilles, Ill; the St. George apartment house at New York, loss, building and contents, $150,000; St. Peters Lutheran Church, at New York, was damaged $25,000, $45,000 worth of malt was destroyed and the building damaged $10,000 of John F. Betz & Son, at Philadelphia, at Manestee, Mich., eight buildings were destroyed and two Chinamen perished.—The joint committee of the Kentucky Legislature, appointed to investigate the management of the Central Lunatic Asylum, have made a report condemnatory of the management on account of the numerous escapes and cruel treatment of the patients.—The coal miners of Western Indiana, who have been on a strike for some time, have become very threatening and a disposition to interfere with those willing to work, resulted in the arrest of a number of the ring leaders, whose cases will be considered by a special grand jury.—The heaviest snow of the winter has fallen throughout the coal region of Pennsylvania, many collieries suspended, and railway travel is much impeded.—A mine at Braidwood, Ill., was flooded last week at a time when about two hundred miners were at work, all escaped but five Italians who were new hands and did not understand English. They were working in a room considerably higher than the bottom of the pit, and it was thought that they could be rescued before the water reached them.—A curious amendment to the defeated wife-beating bill was proposed in the Massachusetts House of Representatives a few days ago. It provided that if the man was drunk when he beat his wife, the liquor seller and the man who owned the premises where the liquor was sold, should also be publicly whipped in the same manner as the wife-beater.—One of the most destructive forest fires ever known in North Carolina was reported last week. It raged for several days, devastating the pine woods along the southern border of that State. The fire extended through six or seven counties, and destroyed a number of dwellings, including the town of Manley.—Order continues to be maintained in Cincinnati. The total number of deaths reported thus far is fifty-one, while not less than one hundred and twenty other persons were injured more or less severely.—There were 1,500 murders in the United States last year. It is like war. There were 93 executions, there were 125 lynchings and there were 185 homicides in New York City during the four years ending with 1877, and four executions.—The Connecticut House of Representatives has passed the constitutional amendment bill providing for biennial sessions of the Legislature. A similar bill was introduced in the New York Legislature early in the present session, but it seems to have been quietly buried somewhere.—The unusually large exodus this spring of French-Canadian working-men and their families from Montreal and the Canadian province to the manufacturing cities of New England is attracting attention. At this season there is usually an emmigration of workmen across the line, but this year the stream is reported by the custom officials to be unprecedentedly large. It is roughly estimated that nearly one hundred of these emigrants leave the Montreal station daily, and the majority are men with families.—The City Council of Nashville has repealed the strict Sunday law, while prohibiting the sale of spirits under heavy penalties they admit the sale of papers, retail dealers in cigars and tobacco, fish, fresh meats, bread and ordinary eatables are allowed to keep open their places of business until ten a. m. on Sunday. That news-dealers, fruit and peanut stands, vendors of ice-cream, milk and soda-water, can sell as on other days. A large petition from the citizens asked that no relaxation should be made in the two.—The Democrats in Congress held a "caucus" in reference to the course of the members in the tariff question.

It was found about one third of the members are opposed to what is known as the Morrison Bill reducing tariff on all goods. A resolution was passed declaring the action of the caucus should not be considered binding on the members. It is thought the action betokens harmony in the party.—The Senate of Massachusetts passed a bill establishing the "whipping post" for wife-beating. The House defeated it on the ground that the inflicting of the punishment would be brutalizing on the public. One member was willing to establish it if it could be done by a machine. It would brutalize any man to inflict the punishment.—There are fifteen thousand operatives at work on the Panama Canal. DeLesseps thinks it will be completed in 1888.

—The bill to appropriate seventy-seven millions to the cause of education, to be distributed to the different States in proportion to illiteracy, meets with much opposition from the Republican Senators from a fear that the money once in the hands of the States, would not be used fairly to all parties. Some Democrats oppose it as interfering with States rights. It has passed the Senate. It is thought it will pass the House.

FOREIGN.—An offer to straighten the leaning tower of Pisa was recently made by an American engineer and was regarded as a good joke; but it turns out to be a bona fide proposal. He offered to do the job for £24,000.—The United States, Russian and German Governments have sent a fresh and energetic note to the Porte protesting against the excessive dues charged for storage of petroleum, and especially because of the fact that depots have been introduced at Burut and other Syrian ports, where still greater extortion is practiced. Paternoster Row, London, was the scene of a very serious conflagration last week, twenty-four fire-engines were called into requisition before the flames were extinguished, and about a dozen houses, chiefly book-binding and publishing establishments were destroyed or badly damaged. The losses exceeded a million dollars.—The largest European mail that was ever sent from the New York post-office was forwarded on the 2d inst., by the steamer Elder, of the North German Lloyd line. It comprised 399 letter and 226 newspaper bags of mail. Of these, 267 bags were from New Zealand and Australia.—The news relating to Egypt is uncertain and unsatisfactory. All that can be said of the institution of the British government must be gleaned from the dispatches from London dated Friday. The Cabinet, it was said, after a thorough discussion against formally establishing a protectorate over Egypt.—The steamer "Daniel Stedman" from Antwerp for Halifax and New York, struck the rocks off Sambro Island, north of Halifax Harbor at five o'clock on the evening of the third, and sank in deep water. There were ninety passengers on board, and the crew consisted of thirty-four men, of these the captain, five sailors and three passengers were saved. Considerable indignation is felt over the mismanagement of affairs at Sambro Island lighthouse. There is no life-boat there, though it is one of the most dangerous points on the coast. The government will hold an investigation of the cause of the wreck.

Home Reading.

A Song of the Future.

Sail fast, sail fast,
Ark of my hopes, Ark of my dreams;
Sweep lordly o'er the drowned Past,
Fly glittering through the sun's strange beams.

Sail fast, sail fast,
Breaths of new buds from off some drying lea,
With news about the future scent the sea;
My brain is beating like the heart of Haste,
I'll lose me a bird upon this Present waste.

Go, trembling song,
And stay not long; oh! stay not long!
Thou'rt only a gray and sober dove,
But thine eye is faith and thy wing is love.

—Sidney Lanier.

TRUE SUNSHINE.

I was walking the street this morning in a very listless, gloomy way. My life seemed to be all prose—its very blessings commonplace and the lightest burden heavy. The care and work and worry seemed to greatly outweigh the pleasures of existence. Even nature was depressed—a dull gray sky, a chill wind, and even the people I met had a dejected look.

About a half a block ahead of me I saw an old colored woman, with a large basket on her arm, trying to cross the icy gutter and gain the pavement. She made several ineffectual attempts, and went farther up the street to find a safer foothold.

The passers paid no attention to her efforts, and I felt a faint impulse to hurry my lagging steps and lend her a helping hand, but just at that moment a little, delicate woman passed me with a swift, springy step and so cherry a face that I instantly thought, "Her life must be all peace and sunshine to make her very features such a perfect picture of happiness."

Just then she tripped down off the pavement into the icy street and began picking up the brown paper parcels and piling them in the basket, which the old auntie had just dropped.

I walked more slowly to watch the simple, kindly deed I should have done myself.

The basket arranged, she took it on her own arm.

"Here's a good place to step up where there is not much ice," and the dainty gloved hand clasped the wrinkled black one and the pavement was easily gained.

"Bress yer, honey, for yer kinness to an ole body; I'll never forgit it lon's I lib."

"Oh! you're entirely welcome, auntie. You'll find good walking now. Good morning."

The swift steps passed me again, and I looked at the sweet little lady with a sudden reverence, thinking, "No wonder her life is cheery and her face so bright when she is the sunbeam herself, and not only goes on her own way happily, but smooths and brightens the way for others."

I quickened my steps just to keep her in sight. Presently she stopped again—this time to buy a paper of a mite of a newsboy, refusing the bit of change, and giving him such a bright smile that he stood staring after her in open-mouthed admiration.

I bought a paper, too, and gave him the money, with as benevolent a smile as I could muster, which seemed so to increase his astonishment that I concluded kind looks and words were a rarity in his experience.

I entered my own door with a lighter heart—for being only a spectator of unaffected kindnesses, and also a thrill of ambition to "go and do likewise."—Lillian Gray, in Arthur's Home Magazine.

CODDLE CHRISTIANS.

Wants to be coddled all the time. Does that describe your case? Of all the useless and half-way Christians, the coddle Christian is the very worst. He is usually a self-centred individual—goes to church thinking over the faults of other people and his own grievances. At the church door he sidles along, watching to see if all the people noticed him. For the most part they don't. Then he goes home, and nurses his sensitiveness all the week because he wasn't noticed. He "doesn't feel at home" in this church because no one gets around him, and makes him feel good when he goes there. He feels sure there is a ring inside the church that runs everything. Brother So-and-So is always prominent in the work of the church, but as for himself, he never is called on to lead things. "Certain persons" always club together, and are social enough; but, somehow, he never feels that he is wanted, and—hem! hem! hem! ad infinitum. My dear brother or sister, as the case may be, what business have you to be edging around in any such miserable fashion as that? Are you not a covenant member of that church? Who gave you any right to ask to be noticed? What warrant have you to be finding sickly complaints because other people are willing to do your work for you? Pray, why is it not your business to go to other people, and try to make them "feel at home?" Or did you join the church in order to have somebody hold you up, and make you feel good, and pat you on the back—coddle you, in short, as if you were a pettish child? Was it a social circle you wanted to get into when you joined Christ's Church? Was it notice and position, and certain other convenient and pleasant matters, you were thinking of? You are a pretty specimen of a Christian, aren't you? Do you know the reason you are never wanted, and never are put forward, and never "feel at home?" That is because you curl up in your shell of sensitive selfishness, and repel everybody with your look and manner. Go out, like a hearty Christian; show by your manner that you mean to go half way; take others by the hand; give them a smile and a word of welcome; help to show some stranger a seat; pass your book to your neighbor; be on hand at the prayer meeting, and speak if you have the gift of it; and be very sure you will take your place among the rest very quickly. A contented, quiet and helpful spirit soon makes itself known, and will straightway be appreciated. Above all things, do not want to be noticed; do not complain of slights. Nobody ever thought you slighted except yourself. Do your work cheerfully. Don't be a coddle Christian.—Church Union.

In the world as it is, evil has temporary advantages over good. You may catch deadly fever, by breathing but for an instant the breath of some fever-patient, but you will not catch entire soundness of the body merely by associating with the healthy and the strong. Diseases can be inoculated into the body, easier than health of nerve or vigor of pulse-beat. You can fall down a hill, but you cannot fall up one; you may pierce the costliest dam by a single breach, but you cannot so easily repair the broken walls, and bring back the diffused waters. It is so, also, with the education of a child. A single evil word or deed will make more impression on a child's mind than a single good word or deed; and one impure thought lodged in the mind may undo the work of years in slow and earnest character building. The teacher ought to realize that the present struggle between good and evil is not an equal struggle; and all the help which the best teacher can give, by instruction and by influence, will not be more than enough to neutralize the contagion of evil suggestion and evil example. He who is the spiritual foe of the children, and never was there an enemy more crafty or more watchful than he. You need never be afraid that your scholar will find it too easy to do good; if you do your duty, you will realize that the battle is one which is going on continually; and your help and sympathy must be steadfast and unvarying if you wish not to give the Enemy an opportunity of undoing, in an hour or a day, the results of your long and faithful work.—S. S. Times.

A QUEER COMBINATION.

A man who dealt in horses and candies was once summoned before a judge to answer for some misdemeanor.

"What a strange junction of trades!" said the judge.

"I see a close resemblance between horses and candies," said the witty lawyer who acted for the defendant.

"In what way," inquired the judge.

"The more you lick them the faster they go," was the reply.

The Supreme Court of Georgia has decided that dealing in "cotton futures" is not a proper business transaction. A professed Christian who needs a bench of lawyers to teach him this has read the New Testament to little purpose.—Christian Advocate.

AN EGYPTIAN PICTURE.

The Mosque of Mehemet Ali, with its tapering minarets overlooking all Cairo, was found to be quite a modern edifice, scarcely more than half a century in age, but is very remarkable and beautiful structure, and of great cost. The spacious building is lined throughout with Oriental alabaster, and the exterior is of the same costly finish. There is the sarcophagus of Mehemet Ali, the most enlightened of modern Egyptian rulers, before which lamps are burning perpetually. The interior of this mosque in its combined effect seemed to be the most effective, architecturally, of any temple of the sort which we had visited. There is a high, breadth, and solemn dignity in its aspect, which earnestly impress one. The exterior is much less striking, but yet admirably balanced and harmonized. The lofty situation of the mosque commands one of the most interesting views that can well be conceived of. The city, with its countless minarets and domed mosques, its public buildings and tree-adorned squares, its section of mud-colored houses and terraced roofs, lies in the form of a crescent at the visitor's feet, while the plains of Lower Egypt stretch far away in all directions. The tombs of the Memlooks lie close at hand, full of suggestiveness, as also does the lonely column of Heliopolis, four thousand years old, marking the site of the famous "City of the Sun." Beyond and towards the sea is the land of Goshen, where the sons of Jacob fed their flocks. A little more westerly in the mysterious Nile is seen the well-wooded island of Roda, quietly nestling in the broad bosom of the river. The grand Aqueduct, with its high arches reaching for miles, reminds one of the Campagna at Rome; while beyond loom up the time-defying pyramids, the horizon ending at the borders of the great Libyan Desert. Far away to the southwest a forest of palms dimly marks the site of dead and buried Memphis, where Joseph interpreted a monarch's dream. Twilight was approaching when we were there. The half-suppressed hum of a dense Eastern population came up from the busy, low-lying city, and a strange, sensuous flavor of sandal-wood, musk, and attar of roses floated upon the golden haze of the sunset, indelibly fixing the Oriental scene on the memory.—Ballou's Due West.

THE SWEETEST JOYS.

Very many of the sweetest joys of Christian hearts are songs which have been learned in the bitterness of trial. It is said of a little bird that he will never learn to sing the song his master will have him sing while it is light in his cage. He learns a snatch of every song he hears, but will not learn a full separate melody of his own. And the master covers the cage and makes it dark all about the bird, and then he listens and learns the one song that is taught to him, until his heart is full of it. Then, ever after, he sings that song in the light. With many of us it is as with the bird. The Master has a song he wants to teach us, but we learn only a strain of it, a note here and there, while we catch up snatches of the world's song and sing them with it. Then he comes and makes it dark about us till we learn the sweet melody he would teach us. Many of the loveliest songs of peace and trust sung by God's children in this world, they have been taught in the darkened chambers of sorrow.—Christian Weekly.

SELF-HELP.—Self-help, be it ever so wisely and thoroughly carried out, can never abrogate the duty and privilege of friendly and benevolent assistance. It will not even limit the necessity of it; for human nature is essentially dependent as well as independent and life furnishes abundant opportunities for the exercise of all generous impulses without injury, provided the rightful conditions are obeyed. In infancy our dependence upon others is complete; as we advance in life, it gradually declines; in healthful maturity it reaches its lowest point. Yet even here it by no means vanishes. We are still dependent upon one another for happiness in a thousand ways, and continually need the helping hand as well as the sympathizing heart.

Life is made up, not of great sacrifices or duties, but of little things, of which smiles and kindness and small obligations, given habitually, are what win and preserve the heart and secure the comfort.

A Prominent Minister Writes.

Dr. Mosley—Dear Sir: After ten years of great suffering from indigestion or dyspepsia, with great nervous prostration and biliousness, disordered kidneys and constipation. I have been cured by four bottles of your Lemon Elixir, and am now a well man.

REV. C. C. DAVIS, Elder M. E. Church South.
No. 28 Tattall St. Atlanta, Ga.

From Two Prominent Ladies.

I have not been able in two years to walk or stand without suffering great pain. Since taking Dr. Mosley's Lemon Elixir, I can walk half mile without suffering the least inconvenience.

Mrs. E. H. BLOODWORTH, Griffin, Ga.

Dr. H. Mosley: After years of suffering from indigestion, great debility and nervous prostration, with the usual female irregularities and derangements accompanying such condition of a woman's health I have been permanently relieved by the use of your Lemon Elixir.

Mrs. E. DENNIS.

Mo. 46 Chapel St., Atlanta, Ga.

J. Pratt, druggist, Wright City, Missouri, writes: Lemon Elixir gives the greatest satisfaction. It has cured a case of chills and fever of four years standing.

Dr. Mosley's Lemon Elixir, prepared at his Drug Store, 114 Whitehall Street Atlanta, Ga.

It cures all biliousness, constipation, indigestion, headache, malarial, kidney disease, fever, chills, impurities of the blood, loss of appetite, debility and nervous prostration and all other diseases caused from diseased Liver and Kidneys.

Fifty cents for one pint bottle, one dollar for a quart and a half bottle. Sold by druggist generally, and all wholesale druggist, Louisville, Ky.

Miscellaneous.*The Dead Cannot be Raised, nor if your lungs are badly wasted away can you be cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery." It is, however, unequalled as a tonic, alterative, and nutritive, and readily cures the most obstinate cases of bronchitis, coughs, colds, and incipient consumption, for surpassing in efficacy cod liver oil. Send two stamps for Dr. Pierce's pamphlet on Consumption and Kindred Affections. Address World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

There is many a wounded heart without a contrite spirit. The ice may be broken into a thousand pieces—it is ice still; but expose it to the beams of the Sun of Righteousness, and then it will melt.

Fort Royal, Va.—Dr. G. H. Hill says: "Brown's Iron Bitters seem to give general satisfaction. I recommend it strongly."

Dr. KLINE's Great Nerve Restorer is the marvel of the age for all Nerve Diseases. All fits stopped free. Send to 931 Arch Street, Philada, Pa.

Ottawa, Ill.—Dr. T. A. Smurr, says: Brown's Iron Bitters give entire satisfaction."

SANITARIUM. Riverside, Cal. The dry climate cures. Nose, Throat, Lungs, full idea, 36p, route, cost free.

Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar overpowers the most troublesome cough.

Pike's Toothache Drops cure in one minute.

Glenn's Sulphur Soap cures skin diseases.

Catarrh Cured.

A Clergyman, after suffering a number of years from that dreadful disease Catarrh, and after trying every known remedy without success, at last found a prescription which completely cured and saved him from death. Any sufferer from this dreadful disease sending a self-addressed stamped envelope to Dr. J. A. LAWRENCE, Brooklyn, N. Y. will receive the recipe free of charge.

For sufferers of Chronic Diseases, 36 pp, symptoms, remedies, helps, advice. Send stamp—Dr. Whittier, St. Louis, Mo., (oldest office.) State case your way.

"Female Complaints"

Rr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.:

Dear Sir—I write to tell you what your "Favorite Prescription" has done for me. I had been a great sufferer from female complaints, especially "dragging-down," for over six years, during much of the time unable to work. I paid out hundreds of dollars without any benefit till I took three bottles of the "Favorite Prescription," and I never had anything to do so much good in all my life. I advise every sick lady to take it.

MRS. EMILY RHOADS.
McBrides, Mich.

Young and middle aged men suffering from nervous debility, premature old age, loss of memory, and kindred symptoms, should send for stamps for Port VII of pamphlet issued by World's Dispensary Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

Extract of Report from the Celebrated Physicians, Erasmus Wilson, of London, Eng.: "Several severe cases of incipient Consumption have come under my observation that have been cured by the timely use of Golden's Liquid Beef Tonic." (Remember the name, Golden's—take no other.) Of druggists.

The only scientific Iron Medicine that does not produce headache, etc., but gives to the system all the benefits of iron without its bad effects, is Brown's Iron Bitters.

AN ONLY DAUGHTER CURED OF CONSUMPTION.

When death was hourly expected, all remedies having failed, and Dr. H. James was experimenting with the many herbs of Calcutta, he accidentally made a preparation which cured his only child of Consumption. His child is now in this country, and enjoying the best of health. He has proved to the world that Consumption can be positively and permanently cured. The Doctor now gives this recipe free, only asking two 2-cent stamps to pay expenses. This Herb also cures Night Sweats, Nausea at the Stomach, and will break up a fresh Cold in twenty-four hours. Address Craddock & Co., 1032 Race St., Philadelphia, naming this paper.

Have you Nasal Catarrh?

Use Dr. H. JAMES' three preparations of EAST INDIA HEMP; they will prevent the Catarrh entering the Bronchial tubes or lungs, thereby warding off Consumption and keep the disease located until positively cured. Put yourself fully under the influence of these remedies, and as sure as the Sun shines upon you a complete cure will be made of that loathsome disease. Ask you druggist for Dr. JAMES' CANNABIS INDICA, and if they fail, send us direct. $2.50 per bottle, or three bottles $6.50. Pills and Ointment, $1.25 each.

Address, CRADDOCK & CO.,
1032 Race St., Philadelphia, Pa.
N. B.—Circulars free.

The Great Church LIGHT.

FRANK'S Patent Reflectors give the Most Powerful, the Softest, Cheapest and the Best Light known for Churches, Stores, Show Windows, Parlors, Banks, Offices, Picture Galleries, Theatres, Depots, etc. New and elegant designs. Send size of room. Get circular and estimate. A liberal discount to churches and the trade.
L. P. FRANK, 551 Pearl St., N. Y.

PATENTS Hand-Book FREE.
R. S. & A. P. LACEY,
Patent Att'ys, Washington, D. C.

The GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER

Dr. Samuel Hodges' Alternative Compound Sarsaparilla with Iodide Potash. This compound is purely vegetable, each article of ingredient is perfectly harmless in itself, having been selected from roots and herbs possessing great medicinal properties, when combined forms a most powerful, efficient, and pleasant medicine for the removal and permanent cure of ALL diseases, arising from an impure state of system, viz.:

Rheumatism, Scrofula or King's evil, Cold-head or Tetter, Chronic Sore Eyes, Old or Chronic Sores of all kinds, Boils, Pimples, Syphilitic Rheumatism, Primary and Secondary Syphilis, Nervous Debility, Liver Complaints, Inflammation of the Kidneys and Bladder, renovates and invigorates the system; acts gently on the bowels. As an appetizer and for general debility, it is a most excellent remedy.

CAMPBELL BROS., Druggists, Sole Manufacturers.

For Sale by all druggists. Price $1.00 per bottle, or 6 for $5.00, Liberal discount to the trade.

ALSO MANUFACTURERS OF

ETHIOPIAN PILE OINTMENT

A never failing remedy for External, internal or Itching Piles. Ask your Druggist for it. None genuine without the Trade Mark. Price $1.00 per Bottle.

TESTIMONIAL.

This is to certify that I was afflicted with Piles for twenty years. I tried every Remedy offered me. Finally used the Ethiopian Pile Ointment, and found it the very best preparation I ever used. It will give almost immediate relief and will finally effect a permanent cure.

Ed. A. IRELAND

Formerly of Gallatin, now of Green, Phillips & Co., Nashville, Tennessee.

CAMPBELL BROS., Druggists,
or, Broad and Summer Sts.,
NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE.

STICKLEY & LEWIS,

Having moved to our elegant store-room,
NO. 34 NORTH SUMMER STREET,

We will carry a large stock of fine Millinery and Fancy Goods, the light-running New Home Sewing Machines, Needles, Oil and Attachments for all machines. Fine imported German Canary Birds, good singers, $3 each. Bird Cages, Food and Tonic always on hand. Mrs. Lewis is also prepared to do Fashionable Dress Making, Dying Plumes, Cleaning Gloves and Stamping. Old Machines of any kind repaired or taken in part pay for the New Home.

CARPETS! CARPETS!

FROM

New York Bankrupt Sales.

MANLOVE & CO.,

26 and 28 N. Summer Street,

Are now in receipt of an immense stock, recently bought at prices lower than ever before. Now is the time to buy Good Carpets cheap, and guaranteed to be as cheap as any Eastern market.

MANLOVE & CO.,

26 and 28 N. Summer Street, - - NASHVILLE, TENN.

$66 a week in your own town. Terms and $5 outfit free. Address H. HALL & Co., Portland, Me. | $72 A WEEK, 412 a day at home easily made. Costly outfit free. Address TAYL & Co., Augusta, Me.

WARNER BROTHERS

CORALINE

NURSING

HIGH

CORSETS

WARRANTED

ABDOMINAL

FLEXIBLE

HIP

These Corsets are recognized in Europe and America as the standard of style, workmanship and general excellence. The Coraline with which they are boned is superior to whalebone in both durability and comfort. Price, from $1 up.

FOR SALE BY ALL LEADING MERCHANTS.
Avoid all imitations. Be sure that our name is on the box.

WARNER BROS.,
353 BROADWAY. NEW YORK

American College Song Book.

A collection of the Songs of 50 representative American Colleges. One can hardly imagine Songs fresher and brighter than these, 200 in number, and all newly contributed by the colleges in question, including Vassar and Wellesley. There is an average of 4 songs from each college. Price $2.00.

Also published, Carmina Collegensia, $3.00. University Songs, $2.50, and Students Life in Song, $1.50

THE STUDENT'S HISTORY OF MUSIC.

Just published.

BY DR. FREDERICK LOUIS BRITTEN.

A book of great importance, giving a concise and interesting narrative of the progress of music during the last 200 years. Price $2.50

Almost ready.

A new Sunday School Song Book of fine quality, by Emerson and Sherwin. Wait for it.

CANTATAS AND OPERETTAS.

More and more used, every year, enliven School Life, and furnishes most valuable practice.

Forest Jubilee Band (40 cts.) new. Flower Festival on the Rhine, (45 cts.) Crown of Virtue, (60 cts.) Fairy Bridal (50 cts.) New Flower Queen, (75 cts.) Hour in Fairy Land (60 cts.) Little Bo Peep, (60 cts.) Three Little Kittens, (50 cts.) Quarrel Among Flowers (35 cts.) Spring Holiday, (60 cts.) School Festival (30 cts.) and Cinderella, (50 cts.) are all lively and pretty Cantatas.

OLIVER DITSON & CO., Boston.

C. H. DITSON & CO. J. E. DITSON & CO.
243 Broadway N. Y. 228 Chestnut St., Phila.

BEAUTIFUL FLOWERS

NEW CHOICE SEEDS! FRUITS!

All of the best, both new and old. Plants, Trees, Vines, Seeds, &c., by mail, a specialty. Satisfaction guaranteed. 60 choice, cheap, $1 Sets, for example:

12 ROSES $1

30 PACKETS FLOWER SEEDS, $1.

For the other $3 $1 Sets and 1,001 things besides, send for our illustrated Catalogue of over 100 pages, free. None better nor more reliable. Established 30 yrs. 500 acres. 21 large Greenhouses.

THE STORRS & HARRISON CO.

FAIRBANKS, LAKE COUNTY, OHIO

The Ministers' and Teachers' Bible.

This magnificent Parlor Bible is imported from London and is indorsed as "The Best" by the leading Bishops of England. In addition to the Old and New Testaments it contains a Concordance of Bible Words! 40,000 References with Context! An Encyclopedia, A Dictionary of Proper Names, with Pronunciation, 12 full page colored Maps. Poetry, Music, Ethnology, Plants, Animals, and Jewish sects of the Bible, etc. "Superior to all others."

$2.00

THE BIBLE

BY MAIL

E. M. SARGENT & CO.,

Seed Growers, Macon, Georgia.

THE COMPLETE HOME. Agents wanted

book. New edition. New bindings. New illustrations from new designs. Superbly gotten up. Same low price.

Adapted to all classes. Sell at sight. Agents doing big work.

EXCELLENT TERMS. The handiest prospectus ever issued.

Apply now. WM. GARRETTSON & CO., 30 College St., Nashville, Tenn. Also other grand new books and Bibles.

AGENTS Wanted for handsome illustrated standard works of character; great variety; low in price; selling fast; needed everywhere. Liberal terms.

WM. Garretson & Co., 30 College St., Nashville, Tenn.

TRADE-MARKS, PATENTS, COPY-

RIGHTS, DESIGNS, RE-1851 ES.

Send description of your invention. L. BINGHAM,

Patent Lawyer and Solicitor, Washington, D. C.

SAMARITAN NERVINE

NEVER FAILS.

IS UNFAILING AND INFALLIBLE IN CURING

Epileptic Fits, Spasm, Falling Sickness, Convulsions, St. Vitus Dance, Alcoholism, Opium Eating, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, Syphilis, Scrofula, and all

Nervous and Blood Diseases.

To Clergymen, Lawyers, Literary Men, Merchants, Bankers, Ladies and all whose sedentary employment causes Nervous Prostration, Irregularities of the blood, stomach, bowels or kidneys, or who require a nerve tonic, appetizer or stimulant, Samaritan Nervine is invaluable.

Thousands proclaim it the most wonderful invigorant that ever sustained a sinking system. $1.50, at Druggists.

THE GREAT (NERVE) CONQUEROR.

The DR. S. A. RICHMOND MEDICAL CO., Sole Proprietors, St. Joseph, Mo.

For testimonials and circulars send stamp. (15) Lord, Stotenburgh & Co., Ag'ts, Chicago, Ill.

Sabbath School

FOR SUNDAY SCHOOLS

SOCIAL MEETINGS, ETC.

LATEST SONG BOOK OUT.

What people say of it:

"Unusually bright in stirring and joyful songs."

"A very superior book." "A grand work."

"Its songs are golden." "Never examined a better book."

"The quality of songs, together with its new and convenient arrangements, make it a most desirable work."

"An examination proves its superior merit."

It speaks for itself. All we ask of Sunday Schools needing new song books, is to send for a sample copy before adopting any other. Single copy 35c., or $3.00 per doz. Sample copy to any address, 25 cents. Printed both in round and character notes.

VINESIDE FRIEND PUBLISHING CO., Springfield, Ohio.

McSHANE BELL FOUNDRY.

Manufacture those celebrated Chimes and Bells for CHURCHES, ACADEMIES &c. Price-list and circulars sent free.

HENRY McSHANE & CO., Baltimore, Md.

Baltimore Church Bells

Since 1844 celebrated for Superiority over others, are made only of Purest Bell Metal, (Copper and Tin.) Rotary Mountings, warranted satisfactory. For Prices, Circulars, &c., address BALTIMORE BELL FOUNDRY, J. REGISTER & SONS, Baltimore, Md.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY.

Bells of Pure Copper and Tin for Churches, Schools, Fire Alarms, Farms, etc. FULLY WARRANTED. Catalogue sent free.

VANDUZEN & TIFT, Cincinnati, O.

PILES

"Anakesis" gives instant relief, and is an infallible cure for Piles. Price $1, at druggists, or sent prepaid by mail. Sample free. Ad. "ANAKESIS" Makers, Box 2416 New York

12806 Lbs. Weight

OF TWO OHIO IMPROVED CHESTER HOGS. Send for description of this famous breed. Also Fowls, &c. B. SILVER, CLEVELAND, O.

Agents wanted. $5 a Day made selling our new HOUSEHOLD ATTACHMENT AND PLATFORM FAMILY SCALE. Weighs up to 55 lbs. Price, $1.50. Domestic Scale Co., Cin. O.

AGENTS Our new war book, DEEDS OF DARING by Blue and Grey, is outselling all other books. Illustrated circular and terms free.

FORSHEE & McEM. CHIN Cincinnati, O.

SEEDS Our Annual Catalogue, Beautifully Engraved and Illustrated: Hints and Treatise on Southern CULTURE, VEGETABLES, GRASSES, &c. MAILED FREE UPON APPLICATION.

E. M. SARGENT & CO., Seed Growers, Macon, Georgia.

THE COMPLETE HOME. Agents wanted book. New edition. New bindings. New illustrations from new designs. Superbly gotten up. Same low price. Adapted to all classes. Sell at sight. Agents doing big work. EXCELLENT TERMS. The handiest prospectus ever issued. Apply now. WM. GARRETTSON & CO., 30 College St., Nashville, Tenn. Also other grand new books and Bibles.

AGENTS Wanted for handsome illustrated standard works of character; great variety; low in price; selling fast; needed everywhere. Liberal terms. WM. Garretson & Co., 30 College St., Nashville, Tenn.

TRADE-MARKS, PATENTS, COPY-

RIGHTS, DESIGNS, RE-1851 ES.

Send description of your invention. L. BINGHAM, Patent Lawyer and Solicitor, Washington, D. C.

BARNES'

Patent Foot and Steam Power Machinery. Complete outfits for actual work-shop business. Lathes for Wood or Metal. Circular Saws, Scroll Saws, Formers, Mortisers, Tenoners, etc., etc. Machines on hand. Descriptive Catalogue and Price List Free.

W. F. & JOHN BARNES,

No. 159 1/2 Ruby Street, Rockford, Ill.

FITS STOPPED FREE

Insane Persons Restored. DR. KLINE'S GREAT NERVE RESTORER

For all BRAIN & NERVE DISEASES. Only sure cure for Fits, Epilepsy and Nerve Affections. INFALLIBLE if taken as directed. No Fits after first day's use. Treatise and $2 trial bottle free to Fit patients, they paying expressage. Send name, P. O. and express address to DR. KLINE, 931 Arch St. Philadelphia, Pa. See principal druggists.

25 YEARS IN THE POULTRY YARD

166 Pages. It teaches you how to rear them to care for them, to feed, to have them lay eggs in cold weather, to prevent and treat all diseases of old or young, to be a "successful" poultry man. Only 25 cents in stamps. A Fifty-page book FREE FOR ALL with it.

A. M. LANG, Cove Dale Farm, Concord, Ky.

WANTED A WOMAN

of sense and energy for our business in her locality, middle-aged preferred. Salary $35 to $50. References exchanged. GAY BROS. & CO., 14 BARCLAY ST., NEW YORK.

CHAMPLIN'S LIQUID PEARL

"A TONIC OF BEAUTY IS A JOY FOR EVER." FOR PRESERVING, RESTORING AND BEAUTIFYING THE COMPLEXION FOR REMOVING SPOTS, TAN, FRECKLES, PIMPLES, BLOWN-UP, BLOTCHES, &c. OPINIONS OF NOTED LADIES. LOTS - It is the best preparation for the face that I ever used. I now use no other CLARIFIQUE KEELOGG - It gives me pleasure to tell my name to the list of those who recommend your "Liquid Pearl." I also express the satisfaction it afforded me. The LIQUID PEARL has been received by the ladies of all countries with the highest marks of appreciation. Only 50 cents a bottle, sold by all Druggists & Perfumers. CHAMPLIN & CO., Agents, Boston, U.S.

WANTED HELP.

Entirely New. PROFITABLE. Outfit Free.

We want an AGENT in every locality. Something entirely new. Our Agents are sweeping the field wherever they go, and making money rapidly. Men, women, boys, girls, all do equally well. Will send you full outfit on receipt of 2 cent stamp. Don't delay. Address at once, S. S. PUBLISHING CO., Brownwood, Texas.

"THE BEST IS CHEAPEST."

ENGINES, THRESHERS SAW-MILLS, Horse Powers, Clover Cutters

(Sold to all sections.) Write for FREE Illus. Pamphlet and Prices to The Aultman & Taylor Co., Mansfield, Ohio.

ACME Songs for the International Sunday School Lessons (Words and Music) adapted to each lesson in April, May, June, 32 pps., 40 songs, 5c., 25 for $1 (mailed). Free copy to Pastor or Supt. sending postage.

J. C. O. REDINGTON, 267 Broadway, N. Y.

PAYSON'S INDELIBLE INK

Is the BEST. No preparation. Used with any clean pen for marking any fabric. Popular for decorative work on linen. Received Centennial MEDAL & Diploma. Established 50 years. Sold by all Druggists, Stationers & News Ag'ts

OPIUM and WHISKY HABITS cured at home without pain. Book of particulars sent free.

B. M. WOOLLEY, M. D., Atlanta, Ga.

TO SUNDAY SCHOOL WORKERS.

PURE DELIGHT.

A New Sunday School Song Book.

By Geo. F. Root and C. C. CASE.

Contains New and Bright Words; Easy and Inspiring Music; Pure and Elevated Sentiments.

One of the leading features of the book is a set of

BEAUTIFUL RESPONSIVE SERVICES

Especially prepared for it by Rev. W. H. PEABCE and Lewis MILLER, Esq.

192 pages, well printed and handsomely bound in boards. Price, 35c., each by mail, post-paid; $2.00 a dozen by express, not prepaid. Specimen pages free.

Published by JOHN CHURCH & CO., CINCINNATI, OHIO.

CHICAGO: ROOT & SONS MUSIC CO. 200 Wabash Ave. NEW YORK: J. CHURCH & CO. 5 UNION SQUARE.

For Sale by Booksellers and Music Dealers.

OPIUM

Habit easily cured with CHLORIDE OF GOLD

LESLIE E. KEELEY, M. D., Surgeon, C. & A. E. E. DWIGHT, Illinois.

SEEDS Our new catalogue, best published, Free to all. 1,500 varieties, 300 illustrations. You ought to have it.

BENSON, MAULE & CO., Philadelphia, Pa.

AGENTS EITHER SEX, we have the newest, best and fastest selling articles out. No capital required. Goods paid for after sold. EMPIRE CO., 38 Canal St., N. Y.

CHEAP BOOTS AND SHOES!

We are now receiving our Spring Stock of Fine Custom-made Boots, Shoes, and Hats. Our prices will be found reasonable. Give us a call. Trunks at cost.

ALDRICH & HARRIS,

106 UNION ST., (bet. College and Market,)

NASHVILLE - TENN.

WE HAVE JUST RECEIVED A LARGE STOCK OF

DRY GOODS AND NOTIONS,

BOUGHT FROM

THE BEST FACTORIES EAST.

We don't advertise goods lower than we can sell them to deceive the people and get them to our store. But our expenses are small and we are going to sell everything in our line as low as the lowest, you can depend on that; and will try to make it pleasant for all to patronize us, by having polite salesmen to wait on you, and one price, and that the lowest.

We are Southern agents for a large Eastern Manufacturer of Dress Goods, Flannels, Linsey, Jeans, Doeskins, Cassimeres, Cheviot Shirtings.

All the best Goods, and prices can't be beat in any market.

Be sure you see our cloaks and other specialties before you buy. Thanking you for past favors, and hoping to have frequent calls from you soon, We are Respectfully,

DODD BROTHERS,

(103 Union street.)

NASHVILLE, - - TENN.

"THE BEST IS THE CHEAPEST."

SAW ENGINES THRESHERS, MILLS, HORSE POWERS, &c. for all sections and purposes. Write for Free Pamphlet and Prices to The Aultman & Taylor Co., Mansfield, Ohio.

MILL OWNERS SEND FOR PAMPHLET.

ALCOTT'S WATER WHEELS

MANUFACT'D AT MOUNT HOLLY N.J.

$5 to $20 per day at home. Samples worth $5 free.

Address SIMMONS & CO., Portland, Me.

How to rear and manage poultry. Send a ten-cent piece to H. H. Stoddard, Hartford, Ct., for a copy of the Poultry World, and it will tell you.

STEM WINDING MUSICAL WATCH

Each Watch is finely made, silver plated and the greatest novelty ever offered to the boys and girls of America. It is a Complete Musical Instrument, also and shape of a Watch, with Music Box attachment concealed within, so arranged that when wound at the stem, plays one of the following tunes: "Home, Sweet Home," "Yankee Doodle," "Blue Bells of Scotland," "Coming Through the Rye," "Swanee River," "Carnival of Venice," "Grandfather's Clock," "Waltz, Polka, Schottische, and Wait till the clouds Roll By." The notes, time, and tones are correct. It instructs and entertains both Old and young. On receipt of 35 Cents, will send it by mail, post-paid. Just think of it! A Music Box for 35 Cents. Postage Stamps taken. SPECIAL OFFER:—If you will order before June 1st, we will send you FOUR for only $1.00. You will be delighted with them. Address A. E. PRATT & CO. No. 27 Park Place, New York.

FREEMAN & KEESEE, INTERIOR DECORATORS,

NO. 33 N. COLLEGE STREET, NASHVILLE, TENN.

Wall Paper and Decorations, Window Shades, Cornice, Curtain Poles, Gold and Walnut Pier and Mantle Mirrors, Engravings, Chromos, and Oil Paintings. Frames of All Kinds in Stock and Made to Order. Re-Gilding Old Frames a Specialty. Manufacturers of Fine Frames and Wood Mantles. CORRESPONDENCE SOLICITED. Ap9

KEEP COOL!

SUMMER GOODS.

Refrigerators, Ice Chests, Water Coolers, Filters,
Fruit Jars, Fruit Cans, Stoneware, Woodenware, and all kinds of Kitchen Goods.
Cooking Stoves to suit the requirements of every Family.

PRICES TO SUIT THE TIMES.

Phillips-Buttorff Manufacturing Co.,

24 & 26 College Street.

Nashville, Tenn.

PIGUE, MANIER & CO.,
WHOLESALE DEALERS IN
BOOTS AND SHOES,
NO. 40 SOUTH MARKET STREET, NASHVILLE, TENN.

We are receiving a very large stock of Spring and Summer goods that we have had manufactured expressly for us, which we think, with our long experience and facilities, we can offer inducements, equal to any market, to prompt and cash dealers. All goods warranted to be as represented.

GRATEFUL PRAISE

FOR SUNDAY-SCHOOLS.

By J. H. FILLMORE.

Grateful Praise is purely a Sunday-school music book—not a gospel-meeting book. Everything in it is fresh and bright. Children will enjoy it. Its quality is first-class and not of a difficult grade. Examine it, and find your ideal.

Sample copy mailed for 25 cts. Price, per doz. by express, $3.60; per doz. by mail, $4.

Address FILLMORE BROS., 185 Race St., Cincinnati, O.

[Order now, or preserve this, it may not appear again.]

BURRITT COLLEGE, SPENCER, TENN.

THIS INSTITUTION, chartered in 1848, has now been favorably known for more than thirty years, for its discipline, both as regards education and government. Located on the Cumberland Plateau, it is free from epidemics. The water is pure freestone and chalybeate. The breezes of summer are delightful and invigorating, and the gales of winter not too severe. The College buildings, recently enlarged by the Christian Brotherhood of Tennessee, are sufficiently commodious to accommodate a large class of young Ladies and Gentlemen. Spencer is ten miles South-east of Manchester & McMinnville Railroad.

TERMS:

Tuition, Primary Dep't, per S'n, $ 7 50	Tuition, Commercial Dep't per S'n, $20 00
Preparatory " " 15 00	Lessons Instrumental Music from $15 to $20
Collegiate, " " 20 00	" " in Art Department from 2 50 to 10

Board and washing for males, per week, from $2.00 to $2.50; Fuel, light, and incidental expenses, per session, $10.00; Board (including washing, fuel, and light) for females, per week $3.00.

The Spring Session of 1884, begins on the Last Monday in February.
For further particulars address,

Prof. A. T. SEITZ, President,
Or W. H. SUTTON, Sec. Board Trustees.

CHILDS' CATARRH

Treatment For

And Diseases of the
HEAD, THROAT & LUNGS!
Can be taken at home. No case incurable when our questions are properly answered. Write for circulars, testimonials, etc.,
REV. T. P. CHILDS, Troy, Ohio.

Peter Henderson & Co's SEEDS AND PLANTS

embraces every desirable Novelty of the season, as well as all standard kinds. A special feature for 1884 is, that you can for $5.00 select Seeds or Plants to that value from their Catalogue, and have included, without charge, a copy of Peter Henderson's New Book, "Garden and Farm Topics," a work of 250 pages, handsomely bound in cloth, and containing a steel portrait of the author. The price of the book alone is $1.50. Catalogue of "Everything for the Garden," giving details, free on application.

PETER HENDERSON & CO. SEEDSMEN & FLORISTS,
35 & 37 Cortlandt St., New York.

DR. C. P. DUNCAN'S LIVER AND KIDNEY MEDICINE.

The great preventive and cure of all malarial diseases, and a sure cure for all forms of dyspepsia and indigestion; it acts directly upon the Liver and all the secretory glands of the stomach and bowels, it cures the disease by removing the cause from the system that produces or brings on the disease, hence it is unsurpassed for the cure of Constipation, sour stomach, heartburn, headache, and all those symptoms indicating the want of a proper action of those glands situated in the stomach and bowels. Two or three bottles of Dr. Duncan's Liver and Kidney Medicine is positively recommended to relieve and cure any of the above diseases if taken as directed. Price 75 cents.

Cure for Croup!

Dr. Duncan's Cough Balsam is the best remedy known to the medical profession for the prompt and sure cure of croup in children; it is pleasant and harmless. No mother should be without a bottle in their house. Price 50 cents.

Bad Colds and Sore Throats

Promptly cured with Dr. Duncan's Cough Balsam; is a sure cure for sore throats, coughs and colds. It is unsurpassed for WHOOPING COUGH, and all bronchial diseases in children.

Chapped Hands, Lips,

Sore Eyes, Piles, and all abrasions of the skin cured promptly with Duncan's Ointment.

DR. DUNCAN'S BLOOD SYRUP,

the great alternative, will remove any and all impurities from the blood, and cure all eruptions of the Skin. For Scrofula it never fails to cure.

CHILDREN CRY FOR DUNCAN'S WORM SYRUP.

It is sure, safe, pleasant and cheap. Try it.

CONSUMPTION

Positively Cured. No Humbug.

By the use of Dr. J. LAWSON'S PULMONARY POWDERS, a FREE TRIAL BOX of which will be sent to all sufferers POST PAID, with treatise and full directions for their use.

Hundreds and thousands have been cured by their use.

Large Box $3.00, two boxes $1.00.

Address, PHILIP HENRY,
49 South St., New York City.

A PRIZE Send six cents for postage, and receive free a costly box of goods which will help you to more money right away than anything else in this world. All, of either sex, succeed from first hour. The broad road to fortune opens before the workers, absolutely sure. At once address TRUE & Co., Augusta, Maine.

Good Pay for Agents. $100 to $200 per mo., made selling our fine books & Bibles. Write to J. C. McQuady & Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.

AGENTS WANTED for our new Religious book, the greatest success of the year. Send for illustrated circular if you want to make money. FORSHEE & McMAKIN, Cincinnati.

PENSIONS for any disability also to Heirs. Send stamps for New Laws. Col. L. BINGHAM, Attorney, Washington, D. C.

to sell our Hand Rubber Stamps. Sample free. For Terms & Co., Cleveland, O.

Home Items.

—"All your own fault

"If you remain sick when you can Get Hop Bitters that never—Fail.
—The weakest woman, the smallest child, and sickest invalid can use Hop Bitters with safety and great good.

—Old men tottering around from Rheumatism, kidney trouble, or any weakness, will be almost new by using Hop Bitters.

—My wife and daughter were made healthy by the use of Hop Bitters, and I recommend them to my people.
—Methodist Clergymen.

Ask any good doctor if Hop Bitters is not the best family medicine on earth.

—Malaria fever, Ague, and Biliousness will leave every neighborhood as soon as Hop Bitters arrive.

—"My mother drove the paralysis and neuralgia all out of her system with Hop Bitters."—Ed. Oswego Sun.

—Keep the kidneys healthy with Hop Bitters, and you need not fear sickness.

—Ice water is rendered harmless and more refreshing and reviving with Hop Bitters with each draught.

—The vigor of youth for the aged and infirm in Hop Bitters.

—"At the chance of life nothing equals Hop Bitters to allay all troubles incident thereof."

—"The best periodical for ladies to take monthly, and from which they will receive the greatest benefit, is Hop Bitters.

—Mothers with sickly, fretful, nursing children, will cure the children and benefit themselves by taking Hop Bitters daily.

—Thousands die annually from some form of kidney disease that might have been prevented by a timely use of Hop Bitters.

—Indigestion, weak stomach, irregularities of the bowels, cannot exist when Hop Bitters are used.

A timely * * * use of Hop Bitters will keep a whole family in robust health a year at a little cost.

—To produce real genuine sleep and child-like repose all night, take a little Hop Bitters on retiring.

—That indigestion of stomach gas at night, preventing rest and sleep, will disappear by using Hop Bitters.

—Paralytic, nervous, tremulous old ladies are made perfectly quiet and sprightly by using Hop Bitters.

MONARCH HORSE ROE AND CULTIVATOR COMBINED

For Hoeing & Hilling Potatoes,
Corn, Onions, Beets,
Cabbages, Turnips, &c.

SENT ON 30 Days'
TEST TRIAL.

An immense saving of labor and money. We guarantee a boy can cultivate and hoe and hill potatoes, corn, etc., 15 times as easy and fast as one man can the old way. Illustrated Catalogue FREE. AGENTS WANTED. Mention this paper. Address Monarch Mfg. Co., 206 State St., Chicago, Ill.

FOR the 7th edition of "Life and Labors of C. H. Spurgeon," the greatest preacher of the century. By Geo. C. Needham, the Evangelist. Endorsed by all denominations. The best selling Family book ever published. Agents are meeting with wonderful success. No competition. Any man or woman wanting a good business, address, for extra terms and special territory.

25 YEARS IN THE POULTRY YARD
108 Pages. It teaches you how to rear them to take care for them, to feed, to have them lay eggs in cold weather, to prevent and treat all diseases of old or young, to be a "successful" poultryman. Only 25c. in stamps. A Fifty-page book FREE FOR ALL with it. A. M. LANG, Cove Dale Farm, Concord, N.Y.

HILLMAN, BUFORD & JUSTI,
NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE,
 SOLE AGENTS FOR THE
 Genuine Brown Walking Cultivator and Double-Shovel Plow,

Corn Shellers, Feed Cutters, Avery Chilled Plows, Road Scrapers, Fish Bros.
 Wagons, Jacobs' Barrows,

IRON, STEEL, BLACKSMITH'S TOOLS, HARDWARE,

Call on or address

HILLMAN, BUFORD & JUSTI, 18 and 20 South Market Street, Nashville, Tenn.

A.C. & J.C. March.

SUCCESSORS TO

J. D MARCH & SONS

Manufacturers and Dealers in
SADDLES, HARNESS, BRIDLES, COLLARS,
TRUNKS, BAGS, HAMES, VAL-
LISES, WHIPS, CHAINS, &c.
 50 NORTH MARKET STREET
 NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE.

Repairing Done at Short Notice

NASHVILLE, CHATTANOOGA & ST. LOUIS
RAILWAY.

BUSINESS MEN, TOURISTS, REMEMBER

The Best Route to St. Louis and the West is via McKennie.

The Best Route to West Tennessee and Kentucky, Mississippi, Arkansas, and Texas points is via McKennie.

The Best Route to the Summer Resorts and Mountain Retreats of Tennessee, Virginia and the Carolinas, via McKennie and Nashville.

The Best Route to the celebrated Colleges, Universities, Seminaries and other Educational Institutions in the Southeast, via McKennie and Nashville.

The Best Route to points in East Tennessee, Virginia, the Carolinas, Georgia and Florida is via Chattanooga.

DON'T FORGET IT!

—By this line you secure the—

MAXIMUM OF SPEED, SAFETY, COMFORT, SATISFACTION,

—AT THE—

MINIMUM OF EXPENSE, ANXIETY, BOTHER, FATIGUE.

Be sure to Buy your Tickets over the

N., C & ST. L. RAILWAY!

If you are going to Washington City, Baltimore, Philadelphia, or New York.

The Inexperienced Traveler need not go amiss; few changes are necessary, and such as are unavoidable are made in Union Depots.

THROUGH SLEEPERS!

—BETWEEN—

Nashville and Atlanta, and Atlanta and Jacksonville, Fla., Nashville and Martin (to connect with Sleeper service via Cairo to St. Louis and Chicago), Nashville and Columbus, Nashville and Memphis (Sleeper Humboldt to Mobile, and Milan to New Orleans), McKennie and Little Rock, and Little Rock and Texas points.

Call on or address

J. H. PEEBLES, T. A., Chattanooga, Tenn.
 W. W. KNOX, T. A., Nashville, Tenn.
 S. S. FINLEY, Ticket Agent, Memphis, Tenn.
 A. B. WRENN, Trav. A., Atlanta, Ga.
 W. L. DANLEY, G. P. & T. A., Nashville, Tenn.

Mars Hill College.

With pleasure we lay before our readers the following extracts from the Fourteenth Annual Announcement of Mars Hill College, an institution perpetually wielding a wonderful and wide-spread influence for truth, refinement and righteousness.—EDITORS.

POSITIONS PROCURED FOR OUR PUPILS.

We make a specialty of preparing pupils for

(1.) PREACHING; (2.) TEACHING; (3.) PREACHING and TEACHING.

Many educated here—among whom are successful lawyers, physicians, merchants, salesmen, mechanics, farmers, editors, authors, teachers and preachers—have so demeaned themselves, that the humility, fidelity, integrity, accuracy and ability of "Mars Hill students" have become proverbial. There is, consequently, such a demand for the services of our pupils, that we deem it perfectly safe to promise to procure pleasant, profitable and honorable positions for all who qualify themselves here for usefulness. Indeed, for several years we have been able to fill comparatively few of the positions tendered.

HEALTHFULNESS!

Mars Hill as a Health Resort.

Our school was founded in 1870. All the "doctor bills," for services rendered our pupils, from then till now, do not, we think, amount to twenty-five dollars—probably not to one dollar a year. Those who have come here pale and puny, from malarial districts, have, without an exception, we believe, returned to their homes enjoying health.

What "Watering Place," or "Health Resort," then, can justly claim more, as a health-preserver and health-restorer, than Mars Hill? Address,

T. B. LARIMORE, President.

FLORENCE, ALABAMA

W. A. LANNOM,
The Cash Clothier,
 18 PUBLIC SQUARE, NASHVILLE, TENN.,

Has received his large and elegant stock of Spring and Summer clothing, Gents Furnishing Goods and Hats, which is full and complete in every respect; and for quantity, quality, style, fit and price, we stand far ahead of all competition. An inspection of our large stock and low prices, will fully prove what we claim. Bear in mind, we sell strictly for cash, which enables us to offer the greatest inducements.

CAPITOL PLANING MILL,

Corner Line and Vine Streets, near Northwest Corner Capitol Grounds,
NASHVILLE, - - - TENN.

J. W. MCCULLOUGH,

Manufacturer and Dealer in

FRAMES, SASH, DOORS, BLINDS,

Scroll Sawing, Dressed Flooring, Weatherboarding and Ceiling.

Country Orders Solicited, and Promptly Attended To.

JUST OUT!

"Our Orthodoxy in the Civil Courts,"

A full proceeding in the Circuit Court in Noble county, Indiana, in the trial of our orthodoxy. Everybody should read this interesting book. Send at once. Paper, 50c; cloth, $1.00.

JAMES F. & HARRY LIPSCOMB,

98 Union Street,

Nashville, Tennessee.

BOILER REPAIRS.

Thos. S. Simpson, William Chatham,
 79 South College St., Nashville, Tenn.,

Are prepared to do all kinds of repairing of Boilers, Tanks, etc., at very reasonable rates. We have had 30 years practical experience in the business and ask a share of the public patronage. We guarantee good work.

WHEN YOU WANT
WRITING DESKS,
Photograph Albums,
AUTOGRAPH ALBUMS,

GOLD PENS, PENCILS,
PORT-MONNIES,
CARD CASES, Etc.

OR ANYTHING IN THE WAY OF
Staple and Fancy Stationery.

Call upon us. We can suit you in
VARIETY, QUALITY, AND PRICE.

A. B. Payne & Co.,
 61 UNION STREET.

Orders by Mail receive Prompt Attention.

B. S. RHEA & SON,
 PROPRIETORS RHEA'S ELEVATOR,
 AND DEALERS IN

Grain, Hay, Flour

AND BURLAP SACKS,

No. 32 South Market Street,
NASHVILLE, - - - TENN.
 (Correspondence Solicited.)

C. F. HUDSON. S. G. STRATTON.

C. F. HUDSON & CO.,
Merchant Tailors & Clothiers,

EAST SIDE PUBLIC SQUARE,

LEBANON, TENN.,

Are now receiving one of the largest, best and cheapest stock of clothing and piece goods, ever offered to the public. We are agents for the Charlottesville, Va., woolen goods, which cannot be surpassed for beauty and durability.

Call and examine our goods. We will save you money.

SOME OF THE
THINGS WE BUY TO SELL.

CHINA IN ALL OF ITS GRADES,
GLASSWARE OF EVERY DESCRIPTION,

QUEENSWARE OF ALL KINDS,

Bracket Lamps, Hall Lamps,
 Study Lamps, Chandeliers,

Knives and Forks, Spoons, Waiters,
 Tea Trays,

Looking-Glasses, Ice Cutting
 Machines,

Eureka Coffee and Teapots,
 Castors,

And a great variety of housekeeping goods too numerous to mention, all of which we offer at reasonable rates. Call and see us, or send your orders to

HICKS, HOUSTON & CO.,

51 N. College & 54 N. Market Sts.,

NASHVILLE, - - - TENN.

THE GOSPEL ADVOCATE.

VOLUME XXVI.
NUMBER 17.

NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE, APRIL 23, 1884.

{ $2.00 YEARLY IN ADVANCE.
POSTAGE PREPAID. }

EDITORS:

D. LIPSOMB,

E. G. SEWELL.

WHAT MUST THE ALIEN BELIEVE IN ORDER TO BE SAVED?

There is more confusion about what must be believed in order to church membership, than almost anything connected with the salvation of men. The foundation of this confusion lies in the varied and differing systems of religion with which our country abounds. And if we ask these parties what must be believed in order to an entrance into the kingdom of God, the answers we receive will vary according to the difference of the parties themselves. No two of these parties agree in this important matter. But it is not proposed in this to examine these, but to examine the word of the Lord, and see what that requires. Men must believe just what God has required, and there is no virtue in believing anything else. A man might believe everything that is peculiar to any and every denomination in christendom as such, and yet not believe that on which the salvation of his soul is concerned. In fact all that is in denominationalism combined as such, can never save one soul from sin.

Whatever may be taught by denominations that has any connection with saving power, is simply what is found in the word of God, and not because it is in the creeds, or belongs to their systems of religion as such. Nothing but the power of God can save men, and this power can only be found where God has placed it. God has placed his power to save in the gospel. Therefore, wherever the gospel is preached, there the power to save souls is found. The Holy Spirit through Paul has said, "I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ, for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth." No matter where the gospel is preached, nor by whom, it carries with it, wherever found, the power of God to save. Since therefore the power of God to save is in the gospel, he who desires to be saved must believe the gospel, or he cannot be saved, no matter what else he believes. Hence when Christ sent out his apostles he required that they should preach the gospel in all the world, and to every creature, promising salvation to the believer, and announcing condemnation to the unbeliever.

The gospel is the great central truth to be believed in order to salvation. But there are other things also to be realized in order that the sinner may be induced to act upon his faith. He must realize, believe, that he is a sinner, and that without salvation from his sins through the gospel, he must be eternally lost. If a man does not believe that he is a sinner, and that no man can go to heaven in his sins, he will not embrace, obey the gospel, and without obedience to the gospel no man can be saved. And we think it would be well for preachers to insist more upon the ruinous consequences of sin, and the certainty that they will be forever condemned unless saved, and that there is not a shadow of a promise of salvation to any one that does not obey the gospel, and thus be saved from, not in, his sins. Many preachers are doing incalculable injury to the salvation of sinners, by making the impression that souls can be saved without embracing the gospel at all. This is done especially in funeral preaching. Men live and die in sin, refusing for a life time the only power that God has ordained to save the soul, die outside of Christ, die without God and without hope, and yet preachers, to gratify the living friends, will make up some plea upon which they will preach them home to heaven. All such preaching as this is wholly subversive of the gospel of Christ, and jeopardizes the souls of men. Those who listen at such sermons, and believe them, are made to believe that men can be saved without obedience to the gospel, which God has ordained as the only means in the reach of sinful men to save their souls. Such preaching and all its influence is against the gospel of Christ, and is only calculated to drag men down to perdition. Such preachers will certainly have a terrible account to render at the judgment seat of Christ.

When men are called upon to preach funerals or on any other occasions, they should present the plain truth of the Lord's word, and never pander to any sort of public sentiment or sympathy that would lead them to do otherwise. The great design of the mission of Christ into this world is to save men from their sins. To save a man from his sins he must be turned from a sinful life into a life of holiness. This can only be done by an humble submission to the gospel of Christ, by doing what it requires. Doing what the gospel commands will take all men out of sin and make them holy. And to make the impression that anything except obedience to the gospel will prepare men for heaven, is to make a false impression.

Paul teaches that those who obey not the gospel, shall be punished with everlasting destruction from the presence of the Lord, and from the glory of his power. Therefore sinners must believe that they are sinners, and that it takes obedience to the gospel to save them from their sins before they can ever be induced to deny themselves of worldly pleasure to embrace the gospel of the Son of God. Those preachers who create the impression upon sinners that they can be saved without obeying the gospel are thus leading them into condemnation, instead of leading them into salvation. The gospel is not some abstract power to save men, but teaches a system or service, a system of obedience, which purifies the hearts and lives of men, and then through the service of the church, fits them for the enjoyments of heaven forevermore.

When the sinner is lead to believe that there is some direct or abstract power that will save him without a full surrender of heart and life to the service of God through the gospel, this belief keeps him from such obedience, and thus makes void his faith in the truth of the gospel, and makes his faith of none effect. A man might as well not believe the gospel at all, as to believe something else at the same time that neutralizes his faith, and makes it of none effect. For the gospel believed, and not obeyed, is of no avail. And it is sadly true that while all the preachers sometimes preach the gospel in its facts, many of them at the very same time preach something else that renders it powerless in its demands upon the people in order to their salvation, and thus opens the way for their eternal ruin instead of leading them into the body of Christ, the church of the living God. Whenever any preacher, after preaching the gospel in fact, fails to preach it in its requirements, but makes the impression that sinners can be saved without submission to these requirements, he neutralizes the truth preached, and leaves the sinner in no better condition than if the gospel had never been preached to him. The gospel must be so preached as to create full assurance in the mind of the sinner that there is no salvation for him outside of earnest obedience to its divine requirements. When people believe this, they believe the word of God. When they believe that they can be saved without this, they believe the words of men, and of men only. And as men are unable to save sinners, their doctrines are unable to save them, and thus the commands of God are made void by the doctrines and commandments of men.

Sinners must therefore believe the truth of the gospel facts with all their hearts, must believe that they are sinners and under condemnation as such, and must believe that nothing but obedience to the gospel will lead them into the enjoyment of the salvation provided by the gospel. If sinners believe in the abstract or direct operation of the Holy Spirit, or some direct power of God to convert and save them, there is no probability that while under this impression they will be saved. For this belief will keep them from obedience to the gospel, by which alone they can be saved. The gospel is the power of God and the wisdom of God, and that power and wisdom to save the soul is never reached through any other channel than that which God has ordained which is a full rendering of heart and life in doing the will of God as laid down in connection with the gospel. A man may refuse every creed and every peculiar doctrine of every denomination in the world, and yet be saved by the gospel of the grace of God. And on the other hand, a man might believe all the creeds as such, and all the peculiar doctrines of all the denominations in the world, and yet not be saved.

Preachers are worse than wasting their time when preaching anything for the conversion and salvation of sinners except Christ and him crucified, and the conditions upon which Christ promises to save them. It is true we doubt not, that men and women may read the word of God at their homes, and understand and believe the gospel of Christ and its requirements, and may obey it and become Christians, even among those that utterly pervert it in their preaching, and in spite of their errors. The gospel, wherever obeyed, will make men free from sin. And the plan of salvation as revealed in the New Testament is so plain, that any one of sound mind that will read it without prejudice may understand it. And as the gospel is the power of God unto salvation to all who believe and obey, every one who does this, no matter where, will be saved from his past sins.

But it is true at the same time that nothing but the gospel, and faithful obedience to its requirements will save. Those therefore who submit to the doctrines and commandments of men instead of the gospel of Christ, have no promise from the Lord of salvation. And when men thus obey the gospel and become Christians, they ought to cast their lots among those only who take the word of God as their only guide in all things, ought to stand identified with those who practice as the word of God directs in the work of the church, and wear only the names given the Lord's people in his word. Men may obey the gospel and be saved from their past sins, and then so dishonor him in their practice as to disinherit them, and be lost at last. The whole truth ought therefore to be preached, and the whole truth ought to be believed regarding the plan of salvation, in order that they may enter into the church of God and thus be saved from sin, from a sinful life, and from the consequences of a sinful life.

E. G. S.

CONFORMITY TO THE WORLD.

"And be not conformed to this world: (age) but be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind, that ye may prove what is that good and acceptable, and perfect will of God." Rom. xii: 2.

Following out the admonition of Paul, I shall say to-day some very plain things, even at the expense of being called a "complainer." Yea, I fear not to be called a grumbler, if I be so called for condemning all things contrary to God's expressed word.

God charged Israel particularly not to conform in the least to the customs and ways of the heathen nations. He even commanded them to destroy the "pictures" of the canaanites. He said "I have called you out of bondage to be a chosen nation to serve me." Peter, in first Epistle ii: 9, says, "But you are a chosen generation, a royal priesthood, a holy nation, a peculiar people: that ye should show forth the praises of him who has called you out of darkness into his marvelous light." Then all Christians should be a peculiar people. And if they are in God's light, their light will shine. Paul, in Philippians ii: 14-15, says, "Do all things without murmuring and disputing; that ye may be blameless and harmless, the sons of God without rebuke, in the midst of a crooked and perverse nation among whom ye shine as lights in the world: holding forth the word of life." As God "is light" all the light religious comes from him. And David says, "The entrance of thy word gives the light." All intellectual and moral light is from God's word. For even in creation, Moses tells us when God created the heavens and the earth, "The earth was without form and void, and darkness dwelt upon the face of the great deep. And the Spirit of God moved upon the face of the great deep." But all was chaotic. Only elemental, until God spake "Let there be light." This shows that in the minds of sinful men, there is no order or light until they receive Christ's word by faith into their hearts. The modern mourners' bench revivalism; or as some are now ashamed to call them up, say, "All who desire our prayers, rise to your feet." I say all this is chaotic; is confusion. Hence in all revivalism and proselytism, there is only a heating of the blood; a confused arousing of the feelings. So after a while, "because of the word, by-and-by, many become offended." It is right and acceptable to God, Paul says, "to pray for all men, for kings and all in authority." He did not say call them "to stand up." Nor did he say I must wait for men to ask me to pray for them, but to do so unasked. In this praying faith into men, the modern sects conform to Roman priest craft. And acceptable faith to God must be an exertion of ones own mind.

Now as I love my brethren and desire their perfection, power and glory, I will mention some things that may offend some. But my duty to God and men demands that I be plain and pointed. But be assured, dear brethren, I do not here speak from any ill will; but from an earnest desire to see the true Bible cause advance.

When we fall short of God's commands, are we not "disobedient?" And when we do things not commanded, are we not transgressors? Lexicography says to transgress is "to pass over or beyond, to violate, to go beyond." And to disobey is "to break a command." Paul says in Heb. ii: 2-3, that "every transgression and disobedience of Moses' law received a just reward." "How shall we escape if we neglect so great salvation spoken by the Lord?" Now, I ask all Bible men of close observation, if a great amount of what is called religious observance, is not either less or more than what God has commanded? See how the plain commands of God are supplanted and made void by traditions, creeds, and dogmas of men. Now will God accept this? I fear not. How apropos here is the motto of B. W. Stone, "To the law and the testimony." And that of Thos. Campbell, "Where the Bible speaks, let us speak; and where the Bible is silent, let us be so, too." Now, shall we go on in doing things not commanded, and say, as infidel Beecher said of baby sprinkling, "Though not commanded, I will use it, because, like the ox-yoke, it works well." Now, is there any authority in God's word for a preacher making college? Does not Christ say, "Pray the Lord of the harvest to send into this vineyard laborers?" Now, I am not opposed to colleges, if run as an earthly business. But we see colleges and high schools will not, and cannot, educate the masses of the poor, the very class that needs education. Then let us all go for universal education, and, by law, provide the schools and compel men under penalty to send their children.

And are we not conforming to sectism in spending time and money going to conventions? And have we precept, example or hint, for such things in the New Testament? And are not our State district and county system of evangelizing conforming to the sects? And are we not thus following political divisions? And does not historians show that from such beginnings, grew up what Bro. A. Campbell calls "the church of the clergy?" And is not this restricting a violation of Christ's commission, "To go into all the world and teach all nations?" And are we not under obligations to "send the gospel to the world?" But do you say how can this be done without conventions? I say all can be done through our good papers. All that is necessary, is to be liberal, raise the means, send them to some trusty ones, and let them aid the true preacher. All this can be done as Paul was helped. In Phil. iv: 15, he tells how he was aided. Not by spending money going to great conventions. But, as brethren have evidence, by just sending the money. I ask, is not the family God's primary school in training children? And is not the church his highest school? Then if the church meet every Lord's day to study the Scriptures, inviting in their neighbors and children, will not this do all the "Sunday-school" does, without the extra expense of Sunday-school literature and songs?

And this is the church doing the work. Some really give the Sunday-school more honor than the church. One said the Sunday-school was good enough church for him. The Jews had no such institution. They attended the synagogue every Sabbath to hear the Scriptures read, and worship God. Would it not be well for our preachers to require every church they preach for regularly, to require the congregation to meet every Lord's day morning early, and attend to the apostles teaching, the breaking of loaf, prayers and the fellowship, guided by the elders or overseers first, then preach. This will end the pastor system, and bring all into scriptural order. What are lesson papers but taking a hop, step and jump through the Bible? And what are question books but conforming to Roman and sect catechisms? This is enough for men of reflection on such things as named.

Now I touch a more tender chord. But please or displease, I do it in love, as a duty. Are we to expect God to be pleased with our conformity to the world in building extra fine meeting-houses and having an organ, finely dressed pastor and a gaudily, finely dressed audience to listen to a fine speech? And all so fine as to make the poorly clad pass by, being ashamed to go into so fine a house among rich, finely dressed people. Paul says 1 Tim. ii: 9, "In like manner also, that women adorn themselves in modest apparel with shame-facedness and sobriety, not with braided hair or gold or pearls, or costly array, but which becometh women professing godliness, with good works."

This is plain and if followed out would promote piety, modesty and virtue. No Christian man or woman has any authority from God to waste the money God has put in their trust, for gaudy or unnecessary fine apparel. Decency and comfort is all that Christians should aim at in dress. John, the harbinger of Christ was dressed very plainly, so was Christ. Paul often was hardly clothed at all. Elijah, one of the greatest of prophets is said to have worn a plain garment. Christ in Mat. vi: 27, 28, 29, condemns anxiety about fine apparel. The passion for fine dressing leads to waste of money, pride and all sorts of vice. John, 1 Eph ii: 15, 16, and 17, says: "Love not the world (the Kosmos i. e.: the ornament, decoration embellishment of the world, so say Greek scholars) neither the things that are in the world. If any man love the world the love of the father is not in him. For all that is in the world, the lust of the flesh, the lust of the eye and the pride of life is not of the father but of the world. And the world passeth away and the lusts thereof. But he that doeth the will of God abideth forever." These are solemn words, but from what we see daily may we not ask our individual selves and all who realize the solemn import of these warnings. Love not the world nor the things that are in the world. John shows what things when he says "The lust of the flesh the lust of the eye and the pride of life." These things he says are not of the Father but of the world, and if we love the world the love of God is not in us. All desire for earthly glory, honor praise, show and love of ease is here condemned as sinful. Then am I not right in warning professors against building extra fine meeting houses, or having organs or fine flowery preaching to draw the world to hear a fine speech. Doing anything in the name of religion from any motive but from fear and love to God, to please him is sin. Does not the things that John condemns condemn display, and fine dressing? Also all gaming of all sorts, frolics, and dancing in professors. Also circus-going, theater-going and all carnal amusements. Oh, how short of apostolic religion do all come in theory, and practice too? In theory or in first principles how can we say we are doing the will of God, if doing less or more than what is written. Then if men will not; God will approve my condemning as I have, the doing things not in His written will. Come brethren let us all deny ourselves, take up our cross and follow Christ if in so doing we lose all earthly gain and live poor. Pray that I be faithful.

I date my article Scyene because that is my postoffice. I am out preaching to the destitute. JAMES L. THORNBERRY.

Scyene, Tex., April 14.

LETTER FROM MISSOURI.

I closed a meeting at Mill Springs last week with 40 added to the Lord. Made arrangements to build a thousand dollar frame meeting house, and raised nearly enough money to do it.

Among the additions is the wealthiest man in the county (Wayne) a lawyer and extensive land owner and the two physicians of the town.

Two were added at Piedmont last Lord's Day.

Brother J. S. Sewell is laboring in Southeast Missouri. Quite a number of Tennesseans are settled in this county, and most of them either are Christians or "lean that way," as the drunk man said when found leaning up against the Methodist meeting house looking sorrowful, a passer by asked. Do you belong to the church?

"I don't be-be-belong bu-bu-but I lean that way." You may guess at my application.

Methodism is waning all over these parts, and this fact of course has aroused the indignation of the presiding elder, and one horse "Circuit riders," you will readily account for that when I tell you that fourteen of their flock left them, and came over on the Lord's side at the Mill Springs meeting. The preachers claim that we are unsettling their members.

We are soon to have a conference with some Baptist preachers at Essex, to consult about their coming together with us upon the one foundation. I believe three Baptist preachers are resolved to come out for Christ and his word alone.

J. M. RATLIFF.

THE JEWISH CONTROVERSY.

Serious differences have arisen among the Jews of this country in regard to their ancient faith, which seems in danger of being superseded by modern notions. This state of things is attributed largely to Rev. Dr. Wise, of Cincinnati, who is one of the oldest and most widely known rabbis of the country. He holds that Christians may be received into Judaism by a simple acknowledgement of the binding character of the Ten Commandments; that there is no Biblical prohibition against Jews intermarrying with Christians, or with Mahometans for that matter; that the rules attending the preparation of animal food for Jews can be abandoned at pleasure, and that as God has not created any unclean animal, Jews may eat anything they please. These expressions have given rise to heated controversy in Hebrew circles.

Friendship closes its eyes rather than to see the moon eclipsed, while malice denies that it is ever at the full.

St. John The Aged.

I'm growing very old. This weary head
That hath so often leaned on Jesus' breast,
In days long past, that seem almost a dream,
Is bent and hoary with its weight of years.
These limbs that followed him—my Master—oft
From Galilee to Judah; yea, that stood
Beneath the cross, and trembled with his groans,
Refuse to bear me even through the streets
To preach unto the children. E'en my lips
Refuse to form the words my heart sends forth.
My ears are dull, they scarcely hear the sobs
Of my dear children gathering around my couch:
God lays his hand upon me—yea, his hand,
And not his rod—the gentle hand that I
Felt, those three years, so often pressed in mine,
In friendship such as passeth woman's love.

I'm old; so old I cannot recollect
The faces of my friends; and I forget
The words and deeds that make up daily life;
But that dear face, and every word he spake,
Grow more distinct as others fade away,
So that I live with Him and holy dead
More than with living.

Some seventy years ago
I was a fisher by the sacred sea.
It was sunset. How the tranquil tide
Bathed dreamily the pebbles! How the light
Crept up the distant hills and in its wake
Soft purple shadows wrapped the dewy fields!
And then He came and called me. Then I gazed
For the first time on that sweet face. Those eyes,
From out of which, as from a window, shone
Divinity, looked on my inmost soul,
And lighted it forever. Then his words
Broke on the silence of my heart, and made
The whole world musical. Incarnate love
Took hold of me and claimed me for its own.
I followed in the twilight, holding fast
His mantle.

Oh, what holy walks we had
Through harvest fields and desolate, dreary wastes!
And often times he leaned upon my arm,
Wearied and wayworn. I was young and strong,
And so upbore him. Lord, now I am weak,
And old, and feeble! Let me rest on thee!
So, put thine arm around me. Closer still!
How strong thou art! The twilight draws apace.
Come let us leave these noisy streets, and take
The path to Bethany, for Mary's smile
Awaits us at the gate, and Martha's hands
Have long prepared the cheerful evening meal.
Come, James, the Master waits; and Peter, see,
Has gone some steps before.

What say you, friends?
That this is Ephesus, and Christ has gone—
Back to his Kingdom? Ay, 'tis so, 'tis so.
I know it all; and yet, just now, I seemed
To stand once more upon my native hills,
And touch my Master. Oh, how often I've seen
The touching of his garment bring back strength
To palsied limbs! I feel it has to mine.
Up! Bear me once more to my church! Once more
There let me tell them of a Savior's love;
For, by the sweetness of my Master's voice
Just now, I think he must be very near—
Coming, I trust, to break the veil, which time
Has worn so thin, that I can see beyond
And watch his footsteps.

So, raise up my head.
How dark it is: I cannot seem to see—
The faces of my flock. Is that the sea
That murmurs so, or is it weeping? Hush,
My little children! God so loved the world—
He gave his Son. So love ye one another.
Love God and man. Amen. Now bear me back.
My legacy unto an angry world is this.
I feel my work is finished. Are the streets so full?
What, call the folks my name? The holy John?
Nay, write me rather, Jesus Christ's beloved,
And lover of my children.

Lay me down
Once more upon my couch, and open wide
The eastern window. See, there comes a light
Like that which broke upon my soul at eve,
When, in the dreary isle of Patmos, Gabriel came
And touched me on the shoulder. See, it grows
As when we mounted toward the pearly gates.

I know the way! I trod it once before,
And hark! It is the song the ransomed sang
Of glory to the Lamb! How loud it sounds!
And that unwritten one! Methinks my soul
Can join it now. But who are these who crowd
The shining way? Say!—Joy!—'tis the eleven.
With Peter first! How eagerly he looks!
How bright the smiles are beaming on James' face!
I am the last! Once more we are complete
To gather round the Paschal feast. My place
Is next my Master. Oh, my Lord! My Lord!
How bright thou art! and yet the very same
I loved in Galilee! 'Tis worth the hundred years
To feel this bliss! So, lift me up, dear Lord, Unto thy bosom. There shall I abide.

Queries.

I have been asked by one out of Christ, to explain Acts ix: 7, and xxii: 9, and xxvi: 14, or harmonize them, and I can't do it. So I appeal to you.—[H. H. M., Rocky Mt., La.]

It will do no good to harmonize these Scriptures for "one out of the church." When men wish to scoff at religion, or to find objections to it, or excuses for not obeying it, God gives opportunity for them to do this. A man who rejects the overwhelming testimony of God in the Bible, merely because he is too ignorant to understand all the allusions and to reconcile all the apparent contradictions of the Scriptures, is a shallow infidel and a fool of the first water. Were there ten times as many contradictions as there are, and difficulties beyond my comprehension, it could not break my faith in the evidence in every page of Holy writ that God is its author. There are contradictions in nature. Spring comes, sends out the buds, a frost kills them. That is contradiction, a conflict that I cannot explain. Acts ix: 7, said the people heard a voice but saw no one. Acts xxii: 9: Paul is telling what was told him. He says they did not hear what was told him. One says they heard the voice but did not distinguish or hear what was said. Acts xxvi: 14 is a repetition of what was said to Paul. He heard what was said, the others heard the voice but not what was said.

Please explain the thirteenth verse of the thirteenth chapter of Paul's second letter to the brethren at Corinth: "Greet one another with a holy kiss." Now does it refer to a mere shake of the hand? Your brother in Christ, [P. D. Kirby, Haywood, Ala.]

It certainly meant a kiss with the lips. It was to be a holy one. The holy kiss was when man kissed man; woman, woman. The kiss of lust was when men kissed the women. But if it be asked did God ordain the kiss as an ordinance to be perpetuated, I would say I have never found where such an ordinance was introduced. It seems to me kissing was found as a custom among the people and disciples. The greeting or salutation of friendship. The spirit said when you kiss let it be a holy kiss.

The Holy Spirit regulated many things that it did not ordain. In regulating them he did not ordain them, or perpetuate them. He simply said while this custom prevails let it be attended to in a christian brotherly manner. Kissing was the form of salutation. Do not observe it with partiality for the rich or great or in lust as one sex with another, but as Christians salute each other with a holy kiss. This did not perpetuate it, but only declared while it is the custom it must be observed in a christian spirit. Shaking hands is our manner of salutation. The Holy Spirit would say we should not shake hands, the rich with the rich, or in a partial manner or between the sexes in a lascivious manner but let it be a true fraternal greeting between brethren.

In the 8th chapter of Romans 1st verse, do you understand that the Spirit has reference to the Holy Spirit, or the regenerated spirit of man? At our Bible reading Sunday, a few of us contended the Holy Spirit was implied, but our brother (who is a preacher) who read the lesson believed it was the regenerated spirit of man. Please give us your opinion as soon as convenient. We try to have reading and communion every Sunday; preaching 3rd Sunday.—[Mrs. J. L. Parks.]

It clearly refers to the Holy Spirit. The next verse says, For the law of the Spirit has made me free from the law of sin and death. This is the law given by the divine Spirit, frees from the law of sin and death. The regenerated spirit of course walks according to the law of the Holy Spirit. In that sense they are alike, and in walking after the one, we walk after the other. The contrast in this and preceding chapter, is, there is a law in my members that prevents doing good. The law of Moses was weak, could not overcome this law of the flesh, dwelling in the members. But the law of the spirit in Christ Jesus gave strength to overcome this law of the flesh.

When a brother has been appointed to the work of an elder in the church, has he under any circumstances a scriptural right to resign or ask the brethren to release him from the eldership? When a brother has been appointed to the work of an elder and afterwards proves himself disqualified for the place and he refuses to give it up, what course should be pursued? If it is his duty to give up the oversight of the church and he refuses to do so, are not those who by word or deed, encourage him to persist in his refusal "partakers of his sin?" [N. A. Bostick, Comanche, Texas.]

If a man is appointed to a work, and finds himself wholly disqualified to do that work, by a lack of taste, or desire for the work, or qualifications or ability of any kind he certainly ought to tell his brethren he cannot do it and this is all the resigning needed.

If Scripture directions are followed no man will be appointed to a work until he has proved his ability to perform it. The elections usually made on any other ground than scriptural ones are forces and confer not one particle of authority, Scriptural. If we understood the oversight was a work and not an office there would be no trouble in the matter, the failure to do the work would leave it for some one else to do—and all that is needed is to direct some one else who proves his fitness by his doing the work to do it. The trouble greatly arises from what is called official position in the church. All the elections in the world does not make a man a preacher without he preaches, or an overseer without he oversees, or a shepherd without he feeds the flocks of God. If one has been raised into a position by an election contrary to the will of God, it gives trouble as all disregard of the Divine will gives trouble. The best way is to teach the man in meekness that he is no officer, that the election was unconstitutional and void, that he is disqualified by the law from holding such position. If this cannot be done, then the church ought to declare its own action void, because done contrary to the law of God. Too much effort at authoritative or official rule kills many congregations.

D. L.

"I see," said McGill, laying down the paper, "that old Pinchnickle has willed his property to Scroggins, the saloon-keeper." "How's that? I supposed he left it all to his son Harry." "Well, he did; but that was only an indirect way of leaving it to Scoggins."

A MISAPPLICATION OF SCRIPTURE.

Bros. Lipscomb and Sewell: I have been requested to write an essay on what purifies the heart. The whole sectarian world say faith alone. We have greatly erred as I think, in teaching the same thing in effect.

We, up here in the mountains, have been teaching that faith is the first act of obedience, and that by this means the heart is purified, and that repentance comes next after faith, and purifies the life, and that baptism changes the state. And we have thought that we were justified in our position by the Scripture in Acts xv: 9, "And put no difference between us and them purifying their hearts by faith."

This is a misapplication of this part of the word of the Lord, and in conflict with the Scriptures from the beginning to the end, otherwise this would make faith before baptism (which is in effect, faith alone) purify the heart. Think of it, a pure heart and not saved; when the Savior says they shall see God, in the sense of enjoy, see Mat. v: 8, see God, enjoy God without repentance or baptism, yet the Scripture says that without repentance we shall perish, and by baptism we come into Christ where we are new creatures. If faith before baptism purifies the heart, then we are saved out of Christ. When the Scriptures teach that it is in him (not out of him) we have redemption, salvation. It will not do to say that the pure in heart are not saved, and thus contradict the blessed Master, and have "the pure in heart riding the fiery billows of an angry hell."

Faith before repentance and baptism, is faith alone and therefore does not purify the heart, nor save any one; see James ii: 17 "Even so faith, if it hath not works, is dead, being alone." Bro. Poe says faith alone saves no one, nor blesses or benefits any one, G. A. page 148. I love to read Bro. Poe's writing, especially so on re-baptism, for there is no Scripture for baptizing any one who has been baptized in the name of the Lord, (that one believing on Christ as the Son of God). Yet I cannot say with Bro. Poe, that faith alone does no man any good. It gave the power to become sons of God, John i: 12, "But as many as received him to them he gave power to become the sons of God, even to them that believe on his name." I regard it as a very great blessing to have such a high and glorious privilege.

Our hearts are truly said to be purified by faith as above, Acts xv: 9, but not by faith alone (faith before baptism) but by that system of faith established by the Lord, for our salvation, in contrast with the law of circumcision, as all will see by reading the fifteenth chapter of Acts.

You will see by a careful study of the Scriptures, there were certain men from Judea and the Pharisees teaching the Churches almost everywhere, that the Gentiles could not be saved unless they were circumcised and kept the law of Moses.

Peter responds to them saying that God put no difference between us and them purifying their hearts by faith, Acts xv: 9, in contrast with the law of Moses, and in the eleventh verse gives it as his faith, that the Jews and gentiles will both be saved by the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ. Being saved by the grace of Christ is the same as the gospel. The Corinthians were saved by it, 1 Cor. xv: 2. The Ephesians and all others, for God is no respecter of persons or nations, see Acts x: 34. In Rom. iii: 28 Paul uses faith in the same sense as Peter, Acts xv: 9. He says "Therefore we conclude that a man is justified by faith without the deeds of the law." And in the fifth chapter and first verse.

The apostle includes himself with the Romans and says we are justified by faith. This was not faith before baptism, for three days after he believed, God's chosen minister commanded him to arise and be baptized and wash away his sins. But hear him still, Rom. vi: 36, "know ye not that so many of us as was baptized into Jesus Christ were baptized into his death, and in the sixteenth verse "know ye not, that to whom ye yield yourselves servants to obey, his servants ye are to whom ye obey; whether of sin unto death or of obedience unto righteousness." Paul and the Romans obeyed from the heart that form of doctrine and were then made free from sin, seventeenth and eighteenth verses, and in the fourteenth and fifteenth verses he says they were not under the law, but under grace, the same as to say we are under the gospel. The gospel according to the commandment of God, was made known to all nations for the obedience of faith, as we find in Rom. xvi: 26. The word faith often includes the whole gospel plan of salvation, includes the whole of the New Testament Scriptures, or at least the new covenant part of it from the cross to the end of Revelations as in Acts xiii: 8 here Barnabas and Saul were preaching the word to a deputy, a prudent man, but Elymas sought to turn the deputy from the faith equivalent to the word, (the gospel, the law of the Spirit, Gal. iii: 3, "Are ye so foolish; having begun in the Spirit, are ye now made perfect by the flesh?" The word spirit is here used as equivalent to the gospel; therefore if you use gospel in the place of spirit the sense is not changed; the same is true of faith and grace, they are all used to convey the same thought and in the same chapter and eleventh verse we read "but that no man is justified by the law is evident," and in the twenty-first verse, he says that if there had been a law given that could have given life, then verily it would have been by the law. Twenty-fourth verse "Wherefore the law was our School-master to bring us unto Christ, that we might be justified by faith," twenty-fifth verse "But after that faith is come, we are no longer under a school-master." When faith is thus used in the Scriptures, it is said to purify the heart, justify and save, but there is not one single instance in the Scriptures (after the cross) of any one being purified, justified or saved, before baptism. If so, who will be kind enough to give us the passage? We would be thankful to any one for the information. We would hardly think it necessary to cite another passage showing that faith is often used in the Scriptures as synonymous with the gospel and includes obedience. But to leave no doubt on this subject we present a few more out of the many, Acts xiv: 27, "Open the door of faith to the Gentiles," substitute gospel for faith, and the sense is not changed. The same is true in Acts xvi: 5, "And so the churches were established in the faith, (gospel) and increased in numbers daily."

The gospel is God's power to save, purify, justify, hence it is proper to say that faith purifies, justifies and saves, when used in the same sense and meaning as the gospel. Faith is also used as synonymous with obedience as in John iii: 36, new revision, "He that believeth on the son hath eternal life, but he that obeyeth not the son shall not see life, but the wrath of God abideth on him," also Rom. x: 16, "But they have not all obeyed the gospel. For Esaias saith Lord who hath believed our report?" and faith used in this sense, also purifies, justifies, and saves, and it must involve obedience to all God's commands, see 1 Peter i: 22, 23 verses "seeing ye have purified your souls in obeying the truth through the spirit, unto unfeigned love of the brethren. See that ye love one another, with a pure heart fervently, being born again not of corruptible seed, but of incorruptible, by the word of God, which liveth and abideth forever." Here it is plain that our souls are made pure by obeying the truth (being born of the word of God) and to obey the truth is to believe with all the heart, Acts viii: 38, and the believers were required to repent and be baptized, Acts ii: 38, and those thus obeying are figuratively said to be born of the word of God, as above (born of water and spirit, born of the spirit, John iii: 5, 6.

But one says this is a purification of the whole man, faith purifies the heart before baptism, but the man is not saved until he is pure in soul, body and spirit.

This is nice philosophy, not Divine, but human. I plead guilty brethren, I believed it and preached it, often on the banks of our beautiful river, when attending to baptisms, but have seen my error, and have repented, and will in future preach what the apostles preached. They never represented any one as being pure in heart, before baptism. They never showed us that faith did more before baptism than prepare us to become pure in heart, through complete obedience, (gave power to become sons of God.) Now brethren let us speak as the apostles speak, and then no one can say truthfully that our theory sends men with a pure heart to ride the fiery billows of an angry hell.

The pure in heart are pure in soul, body and spirit, and in every view that you may take of them, and are saved from past sins, and will be finally saved if they continue in purity to the end of life. It is very unwise for us to conclude that because we have obeyed one command that we have obeyed the gospel, and that we are therefore saved.

The law of Moses required the unclean to purify on the third day, with the ashes of the burnt heifer in a vessel with running water, by dipping hyssop and sprinkling this water of separation on the unclean, and this must be done on the seventh day and they were to wash their clothes, and bathe themselves, and then they were to be clean at even, see Num. xix: 17, 18, 19. Who would be so foolish as to think, that by purifying on the third day, that then they would be pure, because they had obeyed one command; no one who will read this law, can think so for one moment.

Devils believe and tremble, James ii: 19 also many of the chief rulers believed on Christ, but because of the Pharisees, they did not confess him, John xii: 42. Those obeyed one command but went no further in obedience, and who will say they were pure in heart, justified or saved, without further obedience and while loving the praise of men more than the praise of God? As none of those chief rulers were saved by obeying one command, we think it is true of all now who obey only one command, or comply with only a part of the law of purification. The Savior said, the wise are those that hear his sayings and do them. If he had said: whosoever hears one saying of mine, and does it, is wise, then one might conclude that faith alone would do, and set James aside, but as he did not say it, James stands true, and we call him up again in conclusion, James ii: 10, "For whoever shall keep the whole law, and yet offend in one point, he is guilty of all." Is baptism one point? "Every word of God is pure," Prov. xxx: 5 and again, "There is a generation that are pure in their own eyes, and yet is not washed from their filthiness," Prov. xxx: 12, brethren let us pray earnestly that we may all come to a unity of the faith, (gospel).

H. L. WALLING.

McMinnville, Tenn.

Dear Bros. L. and S.: Being one of your subscribers and a member of the Portland Avenue Christian Church, Louisville, Ky., I would say, since Bro. J. Harding has been with us, we have had one hundred and thirty-six added to our church and the good work goes on. Bro. Harding is one of the best workers we have ever had in the city. He brings them from all classes and churches to make the good confession. Brother Harding preaches the word and it has the good effect in bringing sinners to Christ. We need more like Bro. Harding in the field. Our church was in a dead condition when Bro. Harding commenced his labor with us, but I can now say we are all alive to the cause and working like brothers and sisters. Bro. Harding will be retained in the city as an evangelist in his good work, the field is large but he is equal to the emergency, for he preaches the gospel and it will have effect wherever it is heard.

Your valuable paper the ADVOCATE is read by many of us. We rely on it for sound teachings and it should be read by every family in the land. It would be the grand lever to bring about the one and true faith and Doctrine of the apostles.

C. E. D.

THE "PURCHASE" MISSION.

There are many destitute points in the Kentucky Purchase desiring meetings this spring and as our South Kentucky Association has no evangelist here but myself I appeal to every church in South Kentucky to give her preacher two weeks to hold a meeting at some one of these and assist me in working up co-operations. The harvest indeed is great and the laborers few. Brethren, speak of this appeal to your church and try to give me your help.

Write me and we will select a place for your meeting. I will defray your traveling expenses. Souls are perishing for want of instruction. Avail yourself of this opportunity to send them the word of Life.

J. W. HOLSAPPLE.

Fair Dealing, Ky., April 12.

Rates of Advertising in Gospel Advocate.

One inch, one insertion.....	$ 60
One inch, one month.....	2 00
One inch, three months.....	5 00
One inch, six months.....	7 50
One inch, twelve months.....	12 50

A discount of 10 per cent. on these rates for order of $25.00; 20 per cent. for order of $50.00; 30 per cent. for order of $100.00.

Demand for Zeal.

The devil held a great anniversary, at which his emissaries were convened to report the results of their several missions. "I let loose the wild beasts of the desert," said one, "on a caravan of Christians, and their bones are now bleaching on the sands." "What of that?" said the devil, "their souls were all saved." "I drove the east wind," said another, "against a ship freighted with Christians, and they were all drowned." "What of that?" said the devil, "their souls were saved." "For ten years I tried to get a single Christian asleep," said another, "and I succeeded, and left him so." Then the devil shouted, and the night stars of hell shouted for joy.—Luther.

Indifference in Christianity.

Many no doubt read the Bible and understand its teachings, but still many fail to do as it directs.

We are too negligent about the duties which are incumbent upon us. God only promises to give sweet rest in the glorious land to those who with a pure heart will move as the Bible directs. But few, it seems, realize the great importance of submitting to the commands of God.

Christianity with some seems to be periodical.

During the year, some Christians have a time to worship God, a time to talk politics, and a time to get drunk, etc.

The spasmodic worshiper can be seen, generally during protracted meeting seasons, because that is his time to go, he wants to see big crowds and hear the preacher. Is God a being to be worshiped only once a year? Nay, verily, if we have started in the heavenward way there is no time whatever, to loiter on the way. Paul says, "But this one thing I do, forgetting those things which are behind, and reaching fourth unto those things which are before, I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus." We should ever be waiting and watching for Jesus, for he is coming to gather up the pure in heart to carry them home to their eternal rest. "Watch therefore for ye know neither the day nor hour wherein the son of man cometh."

Christianity should be placed high above every thing else, yet, we often fail in so doing. Let us endeavor to have more zeal and make greater struggles for things relative to our spiritual growth than ever before.

Brethren should not conclude having their names recorded on a book will carry them to endless felicity. Salvation can't be obtained without labor.

We have many hearers of the word, but few doers.

James says "but be ye doers of the word and not hearers only, deceiving yourselves." We can't live a godly life without prayer, and we think prayer is neglected too much by those who pretend to be Christians. Prayer softens the heart and makes the man better, it creates a greater love for God, and elevates the soul. The more you pray the more you will want to pray. Go to Church and you will want to go again, and continue to go all the time. Let us "work out our own salvation" with great care, many souls are sinking to endless destruction that could be reached and saved if we would only give our aid. Let each do what he can in giving the dying ones the bread of eternal truth, for in so doing "thou shalt both save thyself, and them that here thee." F. C. SOWELL.

Columbia, Tenn.

Charity.

Now the end of the commandment is charity out of pure heart, and of faith unfeigned. 1 Tim. i: 15.

Charity is one of those amiable qualities of the human breast that imparts pleasure to its possessor, and those who receive it. It is of a modest and retiring nature. Charity, like the dew from heaven, falls gently on the drooping flower in the stillness of night. Its refreshing and reviving effects are felt, seen, and admired. It flows from a good heart, and looks beyond the skies for approval and for reward. It never opens, but seeks to heal the wounds inflicted by misfortune; it never harrows up, but strives to calm the troubled mind. Like their Lord and Master, the truly benevolent man and woman go about doing good for the sake of goodness. No trumpet to sound their charity, no press to chronicle their acts. The gratitude of the donee is a rich recompense, purity of motive refines the joys of each. Angels smile on such benevolence. It is the attribute to deity, the moving cause of every blessing we enjoy.

"Fair charity, be they my guest,
And be thou constant couch my breast."

Charity is the golden chain that reaches from heaven to earth. It is another name of disinterested, lofty, unadulterated love. It is the brightest star in the Christian's diadem. It spurns the scrofula of jealousy, the canker of tormenting envy, the torture of burning malices. It is an impartial mirror, set or love, and justice is the foundation and cap stone of the climax of all of the Christian graces; without charity, we are unfit to discharge the duties of life, and derange the design of our creation. Was this heaven-born, soul cheering principle the main spring of human action, the all pervading motive power that impelled mankind in their course to eternity, a new and blissful era would dawn auspiciously upon our race, and Satan would become a bankrupt for want of business. Wars and rumors of wars would cease; envy jealousy, and revenge would hide their heads; falsehood, slander, and persecution would be unknown; sectarian walls, in matters of religion, would crumble in dust; the household of faith would become what it should be, one united harmonious family in Christ; infidelity vice, and immorality would recede and happiness before unknown would become the crowning glory of man. Pure and undefiled religion would then be honored and glorified.

"Soft peace it brings whenever it arrives,
It builds our quiet-laten hope revives,
Lays the rough paths of nature smooth and even;
And open in each breast a little heaven."

In hope, W. H. SANEY.
Minor Hill, Tenn.

He that has no bridle on his tongue, has no grace in his heart.

AMERICAN NATIONAL BANK.

CASH CAPITAL,

$1,000,000.

Board of Directors.

E. W. Cole,
John G. Houston,
J. F. Demoville,
John Orr,
Byrd Douglass, Jr.,

John M. Lea,
J. Kirkman,
Rev. Dr. R. A. Young,
V. L. Kirkman,
R. L. Weakley,

A. W. Harris,
M. Burns,
T. A. Atchison,
W. G. Bush,
W. H. Jackson,

John Woodward,
J. A. Pigue,
C. E. Hillman,
W. W. Berry,
Wm. Porter,
Edgar Jones.

This Bank has united with it the THIRD NATIONAL BANK of this city, and has increased its Capital Stock to $1,000,000. With increased facilities in every particular, it can confidently assert that it will offer superior advantages in all departments of Banking to its patrons and friends.

JOHN KIRKMAN, President,
A. W. HARRIS, Cashier,
E. W. COLE, Chairman Executive Committee.

EDGAR JONES, Vice-President,
JOHN M. LEA, Vice-President.

GOSPEL ADVOCATE

PRINTING AND PUBLISHING COMPANY,

JAMES F. &amp; HARRY LIPSCOMB, Managers,

98 Union Street,

Nashville, Tenn.

Letter Heads, Note Heads, Bill Heads, Statement Heads, Circulars, Catalogues, By-Laws, Bills Lading, Receipts, Coal Tickets, Milk Tickets, Tags, Business Cards, Visiting Cards, Horse Bills, Etc.

Good work at reasonable rates. Send for prices. Give us your orders and be pleased.

WE RESPECTFULLY CALL YOUR ATTENTION TO THE FOLLOWING EXCELLENT BOOKS KEPT BY US:

Popular Hymns, word edition.....	single copy 15 cts; per dozen, by express, $ 50; by mail, $1 70
Popular Hymns, Note edition, (Boards).....	single copy 30 cts; per dozen, by express, 3 00; by mail, 3 60
Popular Hymns, Note, (with rudiments).....	single copy 40 cts; per dozen, by express, 4 20; by mail, 4 80
Popular Hymns, Note edition, (cloth).....	single copy 40 cts; per dozen, by express, 4 00; by mail, 4 75
New Life (character notes).....	single copy 25 cts; per dozen, by express, 3 00; by mail, 4 00
Songs of Glory, numbers 1 and 2.....	single copy 35 cts; per dozen, by express, 3 50; by mail, 4 00
Life of Raccoon John Smith, (very readable,) postpaid.....	2 00
Voice of Seven Thunders, (interesting, entertaining, and instructive,) postpaid.....	1 50
Gospel Plan of salvation, by T. W. Brents, postpaid.....	2 00
Gospel Preacher, volumes 1 and 2, by Ben. Franklin, each, postpaid.....	1 75
Campbell and Owen Debate (splendid book for lawyers) postpaid.....	1 75
Dictionary of Bible, (complete,) by Dr. Smith, postpaid.....	4 50, smaller 3 40
House-keeping in the Blue Grass, (splendid,) postpaid.....	1 50
First Principles, by Isaac Errett, postpaid.....	15
Offerings to the Lord, by David Lipscomb, postpaid.....	10
Christian Experience, by Ben. Franklin, postpaid.....	10
Review of Dr. T. O. Summers' Tract, by Isaac Errett, postpaid.....	10
Union Movement, by Ben. Franklin, postpaid.....	10
Brown's Pocket Concordance to Bible, postpaid.....	50
Cruden's New Concordance (complete) postpaid.....	1 30
Bibles, Testaments, in all styles and bindings, at low rates.....

We will furnish any Book published in United States at retail price. WE SOLICIT YOUR orders. We pay postage only. All kinds of Job Printing.

S. B. HOGAN.

J. S. HOPKINS.

HOGAN & HOPKINS, BOOTS & SHOES, HATS, TRUNKS, UMBRELLAS, ETC., ETC.

We have just received our Fall and Winter Stock, which has been purchased at the very lowest prices, and we are determined not to let any one sell good Boots or Shoes cheaper than we do. Come and see us, and we will do our best to please you.

20 Public Square,

Nashville, Tennessee.

SALESMEN.—Sam. E. Hopkins, L. D. Simmons, William Mayes.

TO MAKE ROOM

For our Plow business, we offer bargains in the Celebrated Mitchell Spring Wagons as follows:

1½-inch axle Platform Spring Wagon, two seats, and pole $90.00.

1½-inch axle Platform Spring Wagon, two seats and pole, $95.00.

1½-inch three spring Delivery Wagon, with shafts, $85.00.

1½-inch three spring Pleasure Wagon, two seats and shafts, $90.00.

Two extra size bed, 1½ Platform Spring Wagon, suitable for drummer's hacks, at $100.00 each.

Above warranted for one year, and guaranteed in style, finish and durability; 10 per cent better than best shop made work.

DUDLEY BROS. &amp; LIPSCOMB.

Gen'l Agents Mitchell, Lewis &amp; Co.,

84 &amp; 86 Broad Street,

Nashville, Tenn.

PASCHALL, FALL &amp; CO.,

WHOLESALE

HARDWARE, Cutlery, Iron, WAGON MATERIAL, Etc.

FISHING TACKLE.

Nos. 57, 59 & 61 S. Market St.,
NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE.

Our Prices are Very Low.

Agents for Chicago Scale Co.'s
Platform & Wagon Scales.

THE GOSPEL ADVOCATE.

NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE, APRIL 23, 1884.

CONTENTS:

What Must The Alien Believe in Order to be Saved ?.....	257
Conformity to the World.....	258
Letter from Missouri.....	258
St. John the Aged.....	259
QUERIES.....	259
A Misapplication of Scripture.....	260
The "Purchase" Mission.....	260
Demand for Zeal.....	261
Indifference in Christianity.....	261
Charity.....	261
CONTENTS.....	262
Solid Thoughts by Earnest Men.....	262
OBITUARIES.....	264
Let us Go on unto Perfection—No. 2.....	264
Praying in the Night Watches.....	264
ITEMS, PERSONALS, ETC.....	267
GENERAL NEWS.....	267
KENTUCKY CONTRIBUTIONS & CORRESPONDENCE.....
Baptism for Remission.....	266
HOME READING.....
I Climb to Rest.....	268
The Lamp That Lights the World.....	268
Harry's Arithmetic.....	268
A Boy's Religion.....	268
Better Whistle than Whine.....	268
For the Children.....	268
Letter to Uncle Minor.....	268

SOLID THOUGHTS BY EARNEST MEN.

Much has been said of Alexander Campbell's position with reference to the Missionary society. Our readers will bear us witness that we have very seldom referred to his writings, and have never appealed to his position, or those of any mere man, as entitled to any weight in determining the right or wrong of any question. We have believed that the Scripture is the only rule that ought ever to be applied to settle the truth of any question involving Scripture practice. But Mr. Campbell has been quoted and referred to as favoring Missionary societies, notably so by the Old Path Guide recently as though he had occupied only one side of that question. We give the following extracts from his writings:

We copy from Burnett's edition of the Christian Baptist. On page 6 in an article—The Christian Religion—he says: "The order of their assemblies was universally the same. It did not vary with moons and seasons. It did not change as dress, nor fluctuate as the manners or the times. Their devotion did not diversify itself on the endless forms of modern times. They had no monthly concerts for prayer; no solemn convocations, no great fasts, nor preparation, nor thanksgiving days. Their churches were not fractured into missionary societies, Bible societies, education societies; nor did they dream of organizing such in the world. The head of a believing household was not in those days a president or manager of a board of foreign missions; his wife, the president of some female education society; his eldest son, the recording secretary or some domestic Bible society; his eldest daughter, the corresponding secretary of a mite society; his servant maid, the vice-president of a rag-society; and his little daughter, a tutoress of a Sunday-school. They knew nothing of the hobbies of modern times. In their church capacity alone they moved. They neither transformed themselves into any other kind of association, nor did they fracture and sever themselves into divers societies. They viewed the church of Jesus Christ as the scheme of heaven to ameliorate the world; as members of it, they considered themselves bound to do all they could for the glory of God and the good of man. They dare not transfer to a missionary society, or Bible society, or education society, a cent or a prayer, lest in so doing they should rob the church of its glory, and exalt the inventions of men above the wisdom of God. In their church capacity alone they moved. The church they considered the ground and support of the truth, they viewed it as the temple of the Holy Spirit, as the house of the living God. They considered if they did all they could in this capacity, they had nothing left for any other object of a religious nature."

In A. Campbell's estimation this position was the marrow and pith of the movement he made for a return to primitive and apostolic Christianity.

Under head "How to Spread the Gospel Through the World," page 15, he says: "The New Testament is the only source of information on this subject. It teaches us that the association called the church of Jesus Christ is propria forma, the only institution of God left on earth to illuminate and reform the world. That is, to speak in the most definitive manner, a society of men and women, having in their hands the oracles of God; believing in their hearts the gospel of Jesus Christ; confessing the truth of Christ with their lips; exhibiting in their lives the morality of the gospel, and walking in all the commandments and ordinances of the Lord, blamelessly, in the sight of all men. When spiritual men, i. e, men having spiritual gifts, or, as now termed, miraculous gifts, were withdrawn, this institution was left on earth, as the grand scheme of heaven, to enlighten and reform the world. An organized society of this kind, modeled after the plan taught in the New Testament, is the consummation of the divine wisdom of God to exhibit to the world the civilizing, the moralizing, the saving light, which renovates the human heart, which elevates human character, and which prostrates in the dust all the boasted expedients of ancient and modern times. The church of the living God is therefore styled the ground and pillar of the truth."

"All that has been necessary since, was to hold fast the apostles doctrine and commandments."

"Nothing can be done worthy of admiration by Christians of this age, with any reference to the conversion of the pagan nations, until the Christians separate themselves from all the worldly combinations in which they are swallowed up." Page 16.

"With regard to Bible societies, they are the most specious and plausible of all the institutions of this age. No man who loves the Bible can refrain from rejoicing at its increasing circulation. But every Christian who understands the nature and design, the excellence and glory of the institution called the church of Jesus Christ, will lament to see its glory transferred to a human corporation. The churches robbed of its character by every institution, merely human, that would ape its excellence and substitute itself in its place," page 33.

"The infallible physician has exhibited an infallible remedy for sinners, he has also established a society to which he has committed it to be preserved and exhibited in purity. This society he has called the house of the living God, the temple of the Holy Spirit. The power and glory of this society, of this institution, and the honor and glory of its founder, requires that in its own character, not in that heterogeneous association, * * it present and disseminate in its purity the word of God.

Then the church and its king will have all the glory."

"I am not very fond either of assemblies, conferences, synods, councils, benches or boards," page 302.

"Besides, the word of truth does not authorize representative congregations for any purpose, much less to sway a sceptre fraught with great evil, for these recommendations (as they form them) go forth clothed in effect with princely authority."

We might greatly multiply quotations showing his conviction of the unlawfulness of all associations or conventions or representative connections of the church, that they, inimical to the pure character and destructive of the work of the churches, were robbery of both God and the church of God. This reaches over seventy years of his most effective advocacy of the supreme authority and supremacy of the word of God for all religious ends. That he afterward worked in societies we have no disposition to conceal, that in doing it, he violated his own principles, built again the society he destroyed and destroyed that supreme and undivided respect for the word of God, and his appointments which he had vindicated, is beyond doubt, true. It represents another case, so pregnant in the history of the church, opposing others, substituting the appointments of the institution of God, yet doing the same himself.

In justice to him, we believe that he never defended these institutions or gave reasons for their existence. While president of these societies, he made addresses commending the missionary spirit, and missionary work; but we have no recollection of ever having seen a defense of the societies.

The secret about the transfer of the hymn book to the society, which Elder Errett proposed to reveal—doubtless was that A. Campbell was opposed to the society owning the hymn book and on account of his fear of the society did not wish to endow it. Then he made the transfer after his mind and will power had greatly failed at the earnest solicitation of his friends and family.

On what ground can we account for his change? A. Campbell, we have understood, was a man of great credulity of character, easily influenced by his friends. In his latter years his mind and will power lost much of their force and his friends persuaded him there was no harm in this, that it would add to his character and he submitted to be so used. He clearly felt the inconsistency of his position, and so never defended the principle on which they were organized, but showed to the end his distrust of them.

In connection with what has been given from A. Campbell, we present the following from the pen of T. Fanning in reply to G. W. Elley:

"Plainly, deliberately and firmly we declare to all whom it may concern, that it is our solemn conviction that the adoption or substitution of any expedient society or plan for Christian work, besides the kingdom, not of this world is an insult to God, and a disgrace to the Christian profession. We can offer more arguments in favor of introducing amongst us that powerful engine, "the mourning bench" than any living man can offer, for a society of human creation, for the co-operation of churches to the members of Christ's body. We are mortified and grieved at heart to know that we, who stood so long with an unbroken front in defense of the constitution of the kingdom of heaven and the union of all Christians upon the one foundation, are now threatened with discord, alienation, strife and damnable heresies from the introduction of machinery not constructed in divine wisdom or temperance in heaven. We are not sensationists—never were—but unless our brethren return to the original platform, division and disgrace are inevitable. Come brethren let us reason together. You have certainly committed a high offence against our king, and your coadjutors, and if you perse vere in your human exactions we can no longer hope for peace."

We give the following also from the pen of W. G. Roulhac:

In the August number of the GOSPEL ADVOCATE, 1856, Bro. Roulhac having attended a Kentucky state meeting held at Hopkinsville, wrote, "We move in Kentucky with a steady step toward a hierarchy as unscriptural as that of Rome or England, and the preachers who seek to make themselves the church, appear to think all is well. It seems that some are endeavoring to degrade the church into an auxiliary of the more than foolish societies of our age and country." He says again we have "the humiliating spectacle of a church degraded to an auxiliary of a human society."

"The sin of these organizations is making God's people submit to their pride as they are unwilling to organize or act on God's model, as shown in the Scriptures of truth. In what important feature does the state meeting differ from other hierarchies with its President, Secretaries, Treasurers, etc.?"

With me the church is the ground and pillow of the truth, she is the most dignified and authoritative body in the universe. She is competent to the conversion of the world, the perfection of saints in every good word and work, and the only body on earth to rear, educate and qualify preachers, bishops and deacons. Who ever usurps her authority fights against God. Whoever is too liberal to make all his sacrifices through her, is too proud to divide honor with the Lord who bought him."

If we strive for masteries, let us strive lawfully; let us labor in, not out of the body of Christ. Let us disconnect ourselves from all human expedients and return to the Lord and honor him by honoring the church, and let the church be a glory in the world, a city whose light cannot be hid: and then but not till then, will the name and character of a christian be a passport to his brethren without any endorsement from any human society on earth. The highest honor ever conferred on mortals is a worthy connection with the church of Christ.

These extracts might be greatly multiplied from these and other brethren who appreciated the true principle of divine authority versus human expediency, who one and all, condemned these societies as violative of Divine authority and subversive of the principle of returning to apostolic ardor and works.

D. L.

The terrible riot of late date in Cincinnati is a sad comment upon the boasted civilization of the country. While the large foreign element in Cincinnati and in all the Western cities, render them more liable to such communistic outbreaks than those not having so large an element of this kind, it is true that every community in the land is to a growing extent, liable to similar outbreaks. It shows the weakness of our civilization, of civil law, and of political institutions, unsustained by strong moral and religious sentiment. Religious men going into politics never impregnate the political element with their religion, but are always perverted and corrupted by the political. Religious men engaged in this riot. Even Bro. Rowe was in the meeting that excited the riot, and is guilty of giving utterance in the Review, to the expression that "the voice of the people is the voice of God."

We cannot conceive of any idea that nearer approaches blasphemy, or that is more destructive of respect for the authority of God, and is better calculated to excite the spirit of self-sufficient rule in the hearts of the people, than the inculcation of this idea. God declares that his ways are not man's ways, but men must deny self and obey God. But Bro. Rowe, a teacher of the Christian religion declares the voice of the people is the voice of God. If this be so, what need man look beyond his own feelings, passions, interests to know the will of God? We need not be surprised that the world is irreligious, rebellious, infidel, when teachers of the Christian religion like Bro. Rowe declare the will (the voice is but the expression of the will) of the people is the will of God. A God within their own bosoms leaves no room for any other God. Such expressions are blasphemous in their character, and infidel in their tendency. Christians cannot teach the evil.

There has been much criticism of the jury system in connection with this trial that was the occasion of the riot. While it is true that juries are generally made of the most ignorant portion of the people, still there is an evil connected with these trials that is more productive of evil than the ignorance of juries. This is the unscrupulousness of the lawyer. That a lawyer can undertake to see an ignorant and wicked criminal have justice done him, we can well understand. But how an honest man for pay can undertake to pervert and conceal facts, pervert truth, make the truth appear false and falsehood truth, is what we are not able to see. A lie is a lie, whether in the courthouse or the church. A lie is as much a lie at the bar as in the pulpit. It is just as sinful in the sight of God, and as corrupting to men at the bar as it is in the pulpit.

Were a man in the pulpit for the sake of pay to undertake to maintain as true what he knew to be a lie, he would receive as he would deserve the scorn of the world. It is just as bad to do the same thing in the courthouse. And no man can do this without destroying his own sense of right, and the practice demoralizes all who engage in it, and has gone far to corrupt the public sentiment of society.

While the people by the common practice of lawyers have been blinded to the corrupting tendency of this practice, the mob at Cincinnati seemed to scent the evil and threatened the lawyers engaged in defending the criminal. But all lawyers who try to make what they are morally certain is true appear false, and what they are morally sure is false appear true, as the interests of their client may demand, are just as guilty as those engaged in this special case. And where is the lawyer that does not do this? We call attention to this at this time to emphasize the truth that no Christian, because he is a lawyer, is at liberty for the sake of pay, has a right to pervert and discredit truth, to overturn justice, or to maintain falsehood as truth, or uphold the wrong. Whether a man can practice law without doing these things, we do not now decide.

The great trouble with humanity in all ages has been to be willing to submit unresistingly to the will of God. Man thinks he knows some better way than God's way, and so substitutes his own will for the will of God, or amends and improves the ways of God to conform to his judgment. This was the trouble with Adam and Eve in Eden. It has been the source of evil to man in every generation from Adam to the present. All the dealings of God with the human family have had the one single object in view of making man willing to implicitly follow God's guidance without interposing ways of his own. Will man ever learn the lesson?

Where man's treasure is, his heart will be. If we come to recognize that our highest treasure is in heaven, our affections will centre there. Where our affections are, there we bestow our treasure. We are willing to labor and sacrifice for the person or thing we love. God accepts the amount of labor and sacrifice we bestow on him and his cause as the true measure of our love to him. "He that loveth me, keepeth my commandments." The measure of the love of a parent to the child, child to parent, husband to wife, wife to husband, is how much labor and sacrifice can each make to promote the happiness of the other. To love God is to love our own souls. Judged by this rule, how much love have we for God and for our own souls? How much do you labor and sacrifice for God?

On two last Lord's Days lately, we travelled twenty-five and forty miles on the railroad to appointments. We were surprised at the character of the Sunday travelers. We saw members of churches, men of national reputation on each trip out on Lord's day morning on business trips to return next day. We found one good sister leaving the preacher's home for a trip four or five hundred miles away.

We met an elder of a church from the capital city of another State, starting for his home Sunday morning at nine o'clock, my brethren just meeting for worship within three hundred yards of the depot. We saw a preacher whose name is known over the entire southern country, get in the cars when we did. We sympathized with him as, going to an appointment as we were (the train was behind time) but soon learned he was starting on a business trip to New Orleans. All this occurred between nine and ten o'clock, and the depot was in a few hundred yards of the meeting of brethren and sisters who they were leaving to worship, to save a day's travelling on Sunday.

I did not know one third of the passengers on the train. Was the proportion of religious people among the strangers as great as that among my acquaintance?

The desecration of the Lord's day by railroads and other corporations has a demoralizing effect upon the people. Much immorality grows out of it. But as usual the countenance given by the Christian people to the wrong makes it respectable and keeps it at work. There are not many evils or immoral practices in the community that are not upheld by the practice of professed Christians.

A bill has been introduced into Congress to appoint a committee to gather statistics on the subject of divorce and divorce laws in the different States.

You know how often it is difficult to be wisely charitable; to do good without multiplying the sources of evil. You know that to give alms is is nothing unless you give thought also; and that therefore it is written, not "blessed is he that feedeth the poor," but "blessed is he that considereth the poor." And you know that a little thought and a little kindness are often worth more than a great deal of money.—Ruskin.

The noble mind may be clouded by adversity, but cannot be wholly concealed; for true merit shines by a light of its own, and, glimmering through the rents and crannies of indigence, is perceived, respected and honored by the generous and the great.

What more harmless than temptations—this fiery dart launched by Satan's hand, that flaming arrow from his bow—if they fell like sparks into water? Alas! the fall like a blazing torch flung into a magazine of combustibles.—Guthrie.

Obituaries.

By request we now record another striking instance of the uncertainty of life, and the vanity of all human pursuits. Our beloved Sister Josephine Ann Roddy, wife of Bro. William B. Roddy, passed over the cold river of death on the 2nd day of April, 1884, to rest in a Savior's inexhaustible love. Sister Roddy was born on the 9th day of December 1841; married on the 10th day of November, 1858; obeyed the gospel of our Lord and Savior in the year 1866, under the preaching of Bro. Henry Lovelady. From the time she rendered obedience to the gospel up to the time of her death she lived a godly life, a consistent member of the church, a pious and devoted Christian as far as we can ascertain. She was most highly esteemed by all the people in this section of the country. She leaves a husband, a large family and many outside relatives to mourn her loss. While lingering on her death-bed, just before she breathed her last on earth, she expressed a desire to see her oldest son, Bro. Fillmore Roddy, who is doing business for Anderson, Green & Co., of Nashville, Tenn., who was away from home at the time of his mother's death. But she has left this unfriendly world to enjoy that rest that the God of heaven has prepared for all of his good and faithful servants, and all those that worship him in spirit and in truth. Weep not Bro. Roddy as those that have no hope hereafter, but turn your sad affliction to a blessing. For we are told that all things work together for good to them that love God, to them that are called according to his purpose. Romans viii: 28. While we weep with our unfortunate brother and his bereaved family; while we sorrow with our brother over the loss of his kind and devoted companion, yet we must conclude that it is for the better and not for the worse. As life is uncertain, and all earthly pursuits are vain, let us all prepare for eternity, and provide against the great change when all the goods and chattels of this world shall cease to delight. Let us all improve this solemn warning, and strive the harder hereafter to add to our faith all of the Christian graces and live in obedience to the commands of our Savior, so that we can die in the triumphs of a living faith as that of our departed sister. We will then meet with Sister Roddy in that spiritual building not made with hands eternal in the heavens; where God will wipe away all tears.

Shall we meet beyond the river,
Where the surges cease to roll;
Where in all the bright forever,
Sorrow ne'er shall press the soul.

HENRY REHORN, JR.

Whitleyville, Jackson County, Tenn., April 6th, 1884.

LET US GO ON UNTO PERFECTION.—No. 2.

However good and well laid a foundation may be, it is of no avail without the superstructure. A man is foolish to build on a sandy foundation. Equally as foolish and futile is he who continues forever hammering on the foundation, or thinks there is nothing in Christianity but the fundamental principles. There have been many hard fought battles and equally as many glorious victories over these principles: for to fight for the word of God with the word of God, the sword of the Spirit, is to win. Triumph is sure. But the victories are only beneficial as the army now moves on to grander achievements, and even brighter glories. Let us then go on! Not go on leaving these principles disregarded, or not obeyed even from the heart, for this obedience is absolutely necessary. But having obeyed, continue the Christian life and character. Not go on failing or ceasing to preach with all Bible power these principles, but proclaim them clearly, distinctly, positively, with all the earnestness of the soul. He is a blind leader of the blind, who teaches that people now can become Christians with any less obedience than under apostolic preaching. But preach more than these. It is more pleasant to many hearers to listen at what they have already obeyed. They feel safe. But when you touch on breaking bread, living soberly, righteously and godly in this present world; being pure in heart and holy in life, without which no man can see the Lord; keeping unspotted from the world; speaking every man truth with his neighbor and being honest and fair in all dealings; praying without ceasing, and cultivating a devotional spirit; loving your neighbor as yourself and seeking every one, not his own, but another's good; or contribution on the first day of the week,—all this is not such good preaching.

The Hebrews had obeyed the first principles, but they had not made the necessary advancement and progress in knowledge and Christian life becoming people of their age in the gospel. They were dull of hearing, needed to be taught when they ought to be teachers, needed milk when they should have grown enough to use meat. They have not exercised and cultivated the faculties of mind and heart as they should have done. Therefore, says Paul, go on with the work.

Many other Scriptures teach the importance of progress and development. In fact there is no stand-still in the Christian life. It is either success or failure, progress or retrograde. Standstill is itself failure. Read 2 Peter i: 5-11; Phil. iii: 13-14; Jer. viii: 31; Matt. x: 22; Rev. iii: 21; 1 Cor. xv: 58.

We may ask here, how go on? Having received these first principles, having obeyed the gospel, how did the apostolic churches proceed? We want now, as on first principles, Bible truth and apostolic example. We are strenuous for the one, let us be equally so for the other. How did churches under apostolic guidance worship? Look and see. Acts ii: 41-42: "Then they that gladly received his word were baptized: and the same day there added unto them about three thousand souls. And they continued steadfastly in the apostles' doctrine (teaching) and fellowship, and in breaking of bread, and in prayers." These things they continue steadfastly to do. The apostles' teaching is now found in their epistles to the various churches. They must be studied. Here is the worship of the Jerusalem congregation. Take another. Acts xx: 7: "And upon the first day of the week, when the disciples came together to break bread, Paul preached unto them ready to depart on the morrow." The disciples at Troas met on Lord's day to break bread, and Paul being there, preached. Two things are declared of them, breaking bread and preaching. The preaching was incidental and the only place in the Bible where preaching on the first day of the week is mentioned. The Corinthians proceeded in like manner. 1 Cor. xvi: 1-2: "Now concerning the collection for the saints, as I have given order to the churches of Galatia, even so do ye. Upon the first day of the week let every one of you lay by him in store as God hath prospered him, that there be no gatherings when I come." Paul gave directions to other churches to do likewise. Besides contributing on the first day of the week the Corinthians partook of the supper. See last verses of the 11th chapter of this letter. They also taught and exhorted each other. 1 Cor. xiv: 26: "What is it then brethren? when you come together every one of you hath a psalm, hath a doctrine, (teaching) hath a tongue, hath a revelation, hath an interpretation. Let all things be done unto edifying." They came together on the first day of the week, 16th chapter. They contributed. They broke bread, 11th chapter. One read a psalm, one taught, one prophesied, one spoke in another tongue and another made a revelation. Prophecy, speaking in unknown tongues and making revelations have ceased, but all the rest remain to be practiced now. The Colossians, Laodiceans and Thessalonians read the Scripture in their meetings, whole letters from the apostles. Col. iv: 16: "And when this epistle is read among you, cause that it be read also in the church of the Laodiceans; and that ye likewise read the epistle from Laodicea." 1 Thess. v: 27. "I charge you by the Lord that this epistle be read unto all the holy brethren." The Colossians and Ephesians spoke to each other, taught and admonished each other, in psalms, hymns, and spiritual songs, making melody in their hearts to the Lord. Eph. v: 19; Col. iii: 16.

We have now the examples of seven congregations in their worship. What one did may be done of all. What was required of one was required of all. What was not required of them, is not now required of congregations. We put the commission, as recorded by Matthew, Mark and Luke, together and learn what a sinner must do to be saved. So we do with the answers given to this question by different apostles and at different times. Let us now put together the worship of these various congregations and learn what God requires of churches now. They assembled on the first day of the week to break bread; they prayed, sang spiritual songs, contributed as God had prospered them, read the Scriptures, taught and admonished each other, and heard preaching as an incidental matter. The conditions of pardon to a sinner are considered fixed as they are. There is nothing more powerful in fixing them than the apostolic practice. Why not consider the manner of worship and the requirements of acceptable worship just as fixed for the same reason? We have "all things that pertain unto life and godliness" through the knowledge of Jesus (2 Pet. i: 3) and the Scripture contains this knowledge. Our knowledge of how congregations are to be edified must come from the same source, and that congregation only is apostolic in its worship which follows apostolic example and teaching.

Congregations therefore should come together now to remember Jesus by partaking of the Lord's supper. The members should pray with and for each other. They should sing appropriate songs, singing with the spirit and understanding, making melody in their hearts to God. One may read a psalm or some other suitable portion of Scripture. One may exhort or teach. All should contribute as required. They should read and study the Scriptures together. If there is a preacher present he may preach as did Paul at Troas. If this is not apostolic practice, let him who denies show why.

Is it not then a perversion of God's order of things to exalt into worship, or an essential of worship, that which the Bible says is incidental and ignore that which is definitely and positively commanded? The denominations must have preaching every Lord's day, or there is no meeting, no worship. They ignore God's command to break bread on the first day of the week. The "pastor" is quite an essential to their worship. Many professing to speak only as the Bible speaks are following almost in the same road. They can't be satisfied with God's simple, plain and true manner of worship. Many do not attend church therefore if the "pastor" is away. We may preach on Lord's day because Paul did, but this must not be our object in meeting. Let us go on unto perfection in teaching congregations how to grow in grace and knowledge, how to worship.

E. A. ELAM.

PRAYING IN THE NIGHT WATCHES.

The night is more suited to prayer than the day. I never wake in the middle of the night without feeling induced to commune with God. One feels more brought in contact with him. The whole world around us, we think, is asleep; but the great Shepherd of Israel slumbers not nor sleeps. He is awake, and so are we! We feel in the solemn and silent night alone with God. And then there is every thing in the circumstances to lead one to pray. The past is often vividly recalled. The voices of the dead are heard, and their forms crowd around you. No sleep can bind them. The night seems the time in which they should hold spiritual communion with man. The future, too, throws its dark shadow over you—the night of the grave, the certain death-bed, the time in which no man can work. And then everything makes such an impression on the mind at night, when the brain is susceptible. The low sigh of the wind among the trees; the roaring of the falls of some neighboring stream; the bark or howl of a dog; the general impressive silence—all tend to sober and solemnize the mind, and to force it from the world and all its vanities, which then seem asleep to God, who alone can uphold and defend it.—Norman Macleod.

Dear Bros. L. and S.: I have been engaged for five weeks in a meeting with the 25 Portland Avenue congregation of this city, which are striving hard to practice the apostolic teaching. They are a zealous band of brethren, and have been very kind to me and my family, and have given me their heartiest support in my work ever since I came into their midst. The number added this last meeting which closed last week was 69 and with the number we had at the December meeting, 67, making 136 and the interest is still good. The Sunday-school is flourishing and the church is a live one, we number over 200 now.

Bro. George G. Taylor, of Fishersville, Ky., came down and preached for them last Lord's Day and night, and he is one of God's noble men and one of our ablest preachers.

I went up and preached for him. I found a splendid congregation at Fishersville, they are building on the sure foundation. They have a splendid house of worship and about 100 members. They are not as zealous as I think they ought to be, but they are contending, earnestly for the word. I pray God they may never lose sight of the old land marks. They were very kind to me. From your brother in the one faith,

J. HARDING.

3307 Bank Street, Louisville, Ky., April 10.

ROYAL

BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

This powder never varies. A marvel of purity strength and wholesomeness. More economical than the ordinary kind, and cannot be sold in competition with the multitude of low test, short weight alum or phosphate powders. Sold only in cans.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 106 Wall St., New York.

A Safeguard.

The fatal rapidity with which slight Colds and Coughs frequently develop into the gravest maladies of the throat and lungs, is a consideration which should impel every prudent person to keep at hand, as a household remedy, a bottle of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL.

Nothing else gives such immediate relief and works so sure a cure in all affections of this class. That eminent physician, Prof. F. Sweetzer, of the Maine Medical School, Brunswick, Me., says:—

"Medical science has produced no other anodyne expectorant so good as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. It is invaluable for diseases of the throat and lungs."

The same opinion is expressed by the well-known Dr. L. J. Addison, of Chicago, Ill., who says:—

"I have never found, in thirty-five years of continuous study and practice of medicine, any preparation of so great value as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, for treatment of diseases of the throat and lungs. It not only breaks up colds and cures severe coughs, but is more effective than anything else in relieving even the most serious bronchial and pulmonary affections."

AYER'S Cherry Pectoral

Is not a new claimant for popular confidence, but a medicine which is to-day saving the lives of the third generation who have come into being since it was first offered to the public.

There is not a household in which this invaluable remedy has once been introduced where its use has ever been abandoned, and there is not a person who has ever given it a proper trial for any throat or lung disease susceptible of cure, who has not been made well by it.

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL has, in numberless instances, cured obstinate cases of chronic Bronchitis, Laryngitis, and even acute Pneumonia, and has saved many patients in the earlier stages of Pulmonary Consumption. It is a medicine that only requires to be taken in small doses, is pleasant to the taste, and is needed in every house where there are children, as there is nothing so good as AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL for treatment of Croup and Whooping Cough.

These are all plain facts, which can be verified by anybody, and should be remembered by everybody.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

PREPARED BY

Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Sold by all druggists.

THE SUGAR HAND BOOK

A NEW AND VALUABLE TREATISE ON SUGAR CANES, (including the Minnesota Early Amber) and their manufacture into Syrup and Sugar. Although comprised in small compass and furnished free to applicants, it is the BEST PRACTICAL MANUAL ON SUGAR CANES that has yet been published.

BLUMYER MANUFACTURING CO. Cincinnati, O.
Manufacturers of Steam Sugar Machinery, Steam Engines, Victor Cane Mill, Cook Sugar Evaporator, etc.

PREWITT, SPURR & CO., MANUFACTURERS OF WOODEN WARE AND LUMBER, NASHVILLE, TENN.

Poplar and Pine Flooring, Ceiling, Weatherboarding, Sash, Doors, Blinds, Door and Window Frames Brackets, Laths, Cedar Posts, Etc., Always on hand.

FACTORY AND MILLS IN EDGEFIELD.

NATHANIEL BAXTER, JR.,
President.

THOS. PLATER,
Vice President.

J. P. WILLIAMS,
Cashier.

W. F. BANG, JR.,
Ass't Cashier.

THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK, OF NASHVILLE, TENN. (Reorganized.)

Designated Depository and Financial Agent of the United States.

CAPITAL STOCK, - - - - - $500,000 00
UNDIVIDED PROFITS, - - - - - 190,000 00

Receives Deposits, Deals in United States Bonds and Local Securities, and Foreign and Domestic Exchange. Drafts drawn on all European points. Our facilities for making collections at all accessible points are unsurpassed.

P. A. SHELTON,

DEALER IN

STAPLE AND FANCY GROCERIES,

FLOUR, BACON, LARD, TOBACCO AND CIGARS, COUNTRY PRODUCE,

QUEENSWARE, GLASSWARE, TINWARE, LAMPS AND TRIMMINGS.

No. 96 BROAD STREET, - (Second door from College,) - NASHVILLE, TENN.

Special Attention Given to Filling Orders.

SOLE AGENT FOR "RINGLEADER" FLOUR.

ALEX. HOGAN.

JO. B. HALL.

HOGAN & HALL

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALERS IN

GROCERIES, BACON, LARD,

—AND—

PURE WHISKIES AND WINES

For Medicinal Purposes.

106 Broad Street, - - - NASHVILLE, TENN.

GOOD CLOTHING!

Gentlemen and boys who desire GOOD CLOTHING at medium prices, equal in style and make to any custom work, should not fail to examine our stock before purchasing their Outfits.

HUNTINGTON, Clothier,

160 Church Street,

NASHVILLE.

W. R. CORNELIUS, GENERAL FUNERAL UNDERTAKER.

OFFICE:
No. 17 North Summer Street,

RESIDENCE:
No. 418 Main Street.

Telephone 73 calls the Office; Telephone 271 calls the Residence.

Will furnish everything wanted at a funeral, and all first-class. Prices as cheap as anybody else. 2a3m

THUSS, KOELLEIN & GIERS.

Successors to old Giers' Gallery,

PHOTOGRAPHERS!

139 Union Street, Nashville, Tenn.

CALVERT BROTHERS, PORTRAITS.

In Crayon, in Oil and Water Colors; Ivory Miniatures, &c., &c.,
Coke Building, Cor. Union and Cherry Streets, Nashville, Tenn.

GEO. E. COOPER & CO.,

Wholesale Manufacturers and Dealers in

TINWARE, STOVES, FURNACES,

And House Furnishing Goods.

Tin and Slate Roofing and Galvanized Iron Cornice Work a Specialty.

Also our Patent Chimney Top for smoky chimneys, has no equal. Write for prices and address.

GEO. E. COOPER & CO.,

22 North Market Street,

Nashville, - - - Tennessee.

SHOW CASES,

CEDAR CHESTS, CEDAR WARDROBES,

Cabinet Work, and all kinds of Glass.

G. C. TERRY, Manufacturer,

No. 2 Hicks' Block, North Side Public Square, NASHVILLE, TENN.

F. A. BADGER, DENTIST

OFFICE.

ODD FELLOWS' TEMPLE,

(Cor Church & High Sts.,)

Nashville, Tennessee.

A Physician's Gift.

If you are a sufferer hoping for a permanent cure of Apoplectic or Epileptic

FITS,

a Free Trial Box of the celebrated Dr. JUSTICE SCHROEDER'S REMEDY for this disorder will be sent you, post-paid, free.

Every sufferer from this disease that is anxious to be cured should give these Powders an immediate trial. Large Box $3 00, two boxes $6.00.

Address,

PHILIP HENRY,

49 South Street, New York City.

OWEN'S STATION SCHOOL.

The sixth annual session will open Sept. 3d, 1883, and continue Forty Weeks. The session is divided into two terms of twenty weeks each.

The expenses to boarders per term, are from $75.00 to $90.00. Music with use of Instrument, $25.00. $100.00 will pay for board, washing, full instruction in higher English Branches, Latin, Greek, French and Music. Bills due one-half at opening of term and remainder at middle. For any information, address

W. LIPSCOMB,

Brentwood, Tenn.

AGENTS wanted for the History of Christianity, by Abbott. A grand chance. A $4 book at the popular price of $1.75. Liberal terms. The religious papers mention it as one of the few great religious works of the world. Greater success never known by agents. Terms free. STINSON & Co., Publisher, Portland, Maine.

DONT purchase your CHRISTMAS PRESENTS until you have seen our IMMENSE HOLIDAY CATALOGUE of Toys, Novelties, Fancy Goods, &c., mailed free. Address Eureka T. & N. Co., 87 Warren St., New York.

CATALOGUE of Best Books for Agents sent free, including Mother, Home and Heaven, $2.75. Please everybody. 126,000 sold, $150 monthly. E. B. TRACY, Publisher, New York.

KENTUCKY CONTRIBUTIONS AND CORRESPONDENCE.

BY J. A. HARDING, OF WINCHESTER, KY., TO WHOM ALL COMMUNICATIONS FOR THIS DEPARTMENT SHOULD BE ADDRESSED.

BAPTISM FOR REMISSION.

Bro. D. W. Case, of Shelbyville, Ky., is still giving at great length through the papers his "Philosophy" of the design of Baptism. He claims that the sinner is justified when he has chosen to do all that God requires; and hence he is pardoned, justified, saved before his baptism. He says:

"I admit when God has given a positive command, the sinner is morally obligated to obey it, provided that he is situated so he can obey it. But as all positive commands involve a physical act, and as the performance of the physical act may be impossible, all that can justly be required in regard to such commands, is the will to obey them. Of course, when the will exists the outward obedience will follow when it is possible. I believe as firmly as any one that God has always required obedience, but I do not think baptism and obedience are synonymous expressions. Baptism is a single act of obedience. It is obedience in heart, will and purpose, which God requires in order to acceptance with him. Such obedience as this is necessarily implied in faith and repentance and is proven to exist by outward acts, when the outward acts are possible. But God knows whether it exists whether the acts follow or not, for he knows the heart."

That this "philosophy" is an idle theorizing that can not possibly result in good, even if it were correct, seems clear; for our brother holds that he who has the faith that saves will obey in baptism, if it is possible for him to do so: he can be baptized, but will not, give prima facie evidence that his faith is not right in the sight of God: so, according to this theory, only those are saved without baptism who cannot be baptized, if there be any such. I don't see why we should talk about baptism at all to those who cannot be baptized; it seems to me that it would be far more profitable if Bro. Case would devote his time, paper, and ink in endeavoring to persuade people who can be baptized that they will be damned if they don't. It is certain that God will do exactly right with those who cannot be baptized, whether we philosophize about it or not; nor will our theorizings help him in the least. What is the use of whistling against the wind, or of dreaming about what God may do in certain supposed cases, not one of which may ever occur, in real life, in the history of time? It is the Christian's duty to preach the gospel, to baptize the believers, and to teach the disciple to do all things that Jesus has commanded, as far as in him lies. When he does these things he does his whole duty in so far as teaching is concerned. He is not commissioned to give instructions about what God will do in the day of judgment with those who could not obey him. Blessed is the man who hears the sayings of Jesus and does them; he is a wise man; he builds up the rock: but I have not found anything in the Bible about the man who hears the sayings of Jesus but cannot obey them; he is a rafa avis, if he exists at all, and doubtlessly will be cared for by the beneficent Father; for my part, I have not met him, nor am I in anywise concerned about him: I am especially interested in all these people about us who could obey if they would, but who will not. Let us expend our energies on them in persuading them to believe and do: peradventure, if we will sow the good seed in their hearts instead of our philosophizing, they may be led to the obedience of faith: let us not give them worthless husks, when we have in the greatest abundance living bread.

But, unfortunately for him, Bro. Case's theory contradicts the word of God, and hence cannot be philosophical. He claims that God always pardons the penitent believer, as soon as he is a penitent believer, and hence before his baptism. To this the following teachings are contradictory: John baptized people for (in order to) the remission of sins. They were baptized confessing their sins. Jesus said "he that believeth and is baptized shall be saved." Peter told the people to repent and be baptized for (in order to) the remission of sins. Ananias commanded Saul to be baptized, and wash away his sins. Paul teaches us that we put on Christ in baptism, and that in him we have redemption through his blood, even the forgiveness of sins. Paul, in the same chapter (Rom. 6,) in which he speaks of our dying to sin, and being buried and raised again in baptism, teaches that when we have obeyed from the heart the form of doctrine which is delivered to us, we are then made free from sin. The doctrine is the death, burial, and resurrection of Jesus Christ; the form of doctrine is our death to sin by faith, and our burial and resurrection in baptism. Upon obeying this form we are made free from sin.

"But," says Bro. Case, "It would be unjust in God to suspend pardon upon outward obedience to any positive command. As above stated, positive commands always require a physical act, and hence it may be impossible to obey them literally, and hence the injustice of suspending pardon upon literal obedience to such a command."

Might we not even more plausibly argue that it is unjust to suspend pardon on faith? Faith depends upon hearing, and it is an unquestioned fact that many never hear the gospel story. Then in Bible lands there are so many powerful infidels. I knew a poor woman—a member of the church—who seemed as anxious to be a Christian as any one I ever saw, but whose husband was a bright, dashing, caustic, vigorous scoffing, ignorant, infidel. He almost worried the life out of her with his everlasting sneering, and suggesting of doubts and difficulties. When I first met her she had studied the genealogy of Jesus till she was almost blind, in the effort harmonizing the different accounts, and to clear up the objections he presented. Among other conclusions, her husband had induced her, in her effort to remove the obstructions out of his way, to hold that Jesus was the child of Mary by one of the priests, and that his birth was of God, produced by the overshadowing of the Spirit, because the spirit of God had moved upon them to bring about the birth of the child. This woman claimed to believe every statement of the word of God, and was as earnest in her efforts to be a Christian, apparently, as any one could be. Two of her daughters confessed Christ under my ministry. I have since heard that the mother went back to the world. To me it appears that if she had been as favorably situated as some she would have been an ardent believer; but he that believeth not shall be damned. I don't intend that any imaginings of mine shall lead me to contradict that statement. The disbeliever will be damned, that is certain; and God will be perfectly just, perfectly merciful, giving to all just what each one should have, neither more nor less to a hair's breath, perfectly satisfying every mind in the universe as to the correctness of every decision, I am sure. And I am willing to wait and see.

END OF KENTUCKY DEPARTMENT.

To be covetous of applause discovers a slender merit, and self-conceit is the ordinary attendant of ignorance.

An ancient writing known as the "Teaching of the Twelve Apostles," has recently been translated into English and published in this country. It is a reserve or abridgment made by some one of the leading truths taught in the Scriptures by the Savior and the apostles.

No one claims that this writing was made by the apostles or any one of them. But it is claimed that some one made it in a very early age of the church. The critics are disposed at present to fix the date of it from the 1st to the middle of the 2nd century—some later. To my mind the matter of it would indicate a later date. I know nothing as yet of the external evidence. Our affusion friends are greatly elated over it because they claim it establishes the truth that pouring was practiced at a very early date. It does show that when this was written, pouring was tolerated where immersion is impracticable. The following is the article concerning baptism; thus baptize ye, having said all these things before-hand baptize ye, into the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit, in living water. But if thou have not living water, baptize into other water; and if thou canst not in cold, in warm; and if thou have neither, pour out water thrice upon the head into the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit. And before the baptism, let the baptizer fast and the baptized and whatever others can. And thou shalt enjoin on the baptized to fast for one or two days before-hand."

This shows what was believed and practiced in the country and time of its writing. This is all the weight it carries. The fact that pouring had begun to be practiced would fix its date later than is claimed. There is an article also that indicates that pardon for sins may be procured through gifts to the teachers, or to the poor. This idea had hardly attained a footing at so early a date. It makes no recognition of infant baptism. Its teachings absolutely preclude the idea of baptism without faith and repentance.

The writing epitomizes the moral precepts of the Savior. It clearly forbids the privileges of the Lord's supper to any, save the baptized.

It stands as a landmark showing that the Scriptures as we have them, were the Scriptures of the age in which this was written. It shows the beginning of the introduction of evils and corruptions in the church. We apprehend it will carry but little weight to show that immersion was not the only baptism of the apostolic age, save to those who desire other evidence, and they do not need it.

The folly of trying to formulate the faith in human creeds has received a new illustration in the effort of the congregationalists, to formulate a creed more in harmony with the recent dead opponents of the faith of the congregational churches. Two years ago over twenty of their leading men were selected to write out a "creed." This was not to be enforced as authoritative, nor was its acceptance to be made a condition of fellowship, but simply an expose or announcement of the faith of the church for information. The creed has been prepared. Many subjects heretofore embraced in creeds were ignored because of disagreement in reference to them. But of the published creed a number of those appointed to prepare it refused to sign it, and quite a controversy has sprung up both on account of what is omitted as well as of what is contained in it. Were there a general organization of the congregational churches, or were the effort made to enforce the creed as a term of fellowship, division would certainly ensue. Human bonds of union or human conditions of fellowship always bring division and strife.

ITEMS, PERSONALS, ETC.

A brother living near this city handed us one dollar to aid in sending out Bro. Higbee's tracts, and one dollar for the Indian mission.

We are sorry to go to press with nothing from Bro. Poe. But we have received nothing for this week. The mails, he says, are to blame.

One lady confessed her faith in Christ at Flat Rock, Davidson County, Tenn., on second Lord's day in April. Others will likely follow soon.

We call special attention to the distinction Bro. Thornberry makes between disobedience and transgression. The distinction is a true one, and one that is too little understood by the readers of the Bible generally.

Bro. Haley writes, "There was one addition (confession we take it) at Lebanon second Lord's day, inst. A good healthy interest prevails in the church. They intend beginning a meeting to continue about 1st of May."

We have received from Messrs Funk & Wagnalls, New York City, The clew of the MAZE and the Spare Half Hour, by Chas. H. Spurgeon. 190 pages of the most practical and pithy lessons of Spurgeon. Price 15 cents.

Faith is living, life-giving, fruitful. Doubt is barren and sterile. Faith has lifted up man, given strength and courage, has made him a hero and a saint. Doubt never made a hero, never helped humanity. Doubt is cold and cowardly.

We call attention this week to the advertisement of the Osborne reapers and binders. These machines stand at the head of the list. The self-binder gives more general satisfaction than any other; at least has taken the premium at exhibitions in this county. See advertisement.

Bro. Rice, from Birmingham, Ala., writes, "The few disciples are determined to meet and attend to the Lord's day worship if they have to do it under the shade of a tree. This is the true spirit. The Lord always helps those determined to honor him. The truth ought to be firmly held forth in the growing city of Birmingham."

Bro. Johnson, a preacher of California, formerly of Missouri, is in the city working up an interest in the National Temperance Union. We are sorry to see as amiable and pleasant looking man as Bro. Johnson seems to be, turn aside from the preaching of the gospel and saving men's souls even to the work of building up human institutions to promote temperance and to provide for the widow and children through a mutual life insurance.

A Bro. from Columbia left us a dollar for the orphan school, and one for the Indian Mission. They serve as a reminder of the two. We have been disappointed in the response made to the call for help for the Indian Mission. We have been holding the amount sent us, hoping that it would be largely increased and we could at once send a goodly amount to the brethren having it in charge. Will not brethren feel an interest in this work, and every congregation take up a contribution for the work? It seems to me every congregation might raise from ten to twenty dollars for this work. We are anxious for the readers of the ADVOCATE to afford the means to prosecute the work under favorable surroundings. When this work is on a solid footing, we would be glad to see some one moved with a desire to preach the gospel to the Mexicans. They are on our borders, will sooner or later become an integral portion of our country, and will exert an influence for weal or woe on the moral and religious sentiment of our own people. We ought to carry the truth to them.

A brother from Schulenburg, Texas, sends fifty dollars for Orphan school, ten for ADVOCATE for gratuitous distribution. We have received over two hundred dollars on our proposition to furnish the ADVOCATE for gratuitous distribution. We now make a still more liberal proposition. We will send the ADVOCATE from 1st of May till end of year, for one dollar, to any one sending before. This is furnishing it eight months for one dollar. Will not every reader try to send us a new subscription on this proposition.

The House of Representatives, by two majority, voted to take up what is known as the Morrison Tariff Bill, which makes a reduction of twenty-five per cent on tariff laid on all imported goods. The discussion was opened by Mr. Morrison for, and Judge Kelly, of Pennsylvania, against the bill. It seems to be the subject of absorbing interest in Congress. The more so as it threatens to disrupt the Democratic and cause a sloughing off from the Republican party. Thirty-nine democrats voted with the mass of the republicans against the consideration of the bill, while five republicans voted with the democratic majority in favor of considering the bill.

The church at Clarksville, Tenn., has been seriously crippled by the loss by removal and death of its leading members. Bro. Coulter removed to California for the health of his family, Bro. Baker removed to Lexington, Ky. Bros. Bernard and Rice have died. These had been the leaders in the congregation, and it leaves them with few members that will take a leading part in the worship. We trust the members remaining will be true to their duty and prove equal to the demand upon them, and at once develop the zeal and devotion needed to give success to the cause of God. There never was yet a congregation determined to serve the Lord and be true to him that talent to carry forward the work did not develop itself. Bro. Smith writes, they are now without a preacher and would be glad of the help of a good, earnest, humble teacher of the Christian religion to labor among them.

THE GOSPEL ADVOCATE EIGHT MONTHS FOR ONE DOLLAR.

We will send the ADVOCATE from the 1st of May, until end of year, to any address, for one dollar. Our propositions have hitherto met with a generous response. Our list continues to grow daily. We are exceedingly anxious to see our list close this year with double the number of names that it has usually had. If our friends will give a little earnest attention now, we will do this. We ask them to aid us, and as we are able they shall enjoy the benefit of our success, as well as do good themselves. We are anxious to get persons to read the ADVOCATE for a few months. Our experience has been when they do this for a while they continue it. Please put it into the hands of as many new readers as possible, both in and out of the church, and you will do a good work.—[Ed's.]

CHRISTIAN CHURCH WIDOWS' AND ORPHAN'S HOME, OF KY.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Orphan's home and the officers of the congregations in the city Lord's day afternoon, it was unanimously decided to hold a mass meeting in the interest of the Widows' and Orphans Home. The evening of the first Lord's day in May was decided upon as the time, and First Christian Church, N. E. corner Fourth and Walnut, the place. A most cordial invitation is extended to every congregation in the state to be represented at this meeting. Come on Saturday and remain over Lord's day. Any who come, whether delegated or not, will be gladly welcomed. Ample provisions will be made to accommodate, free of cost, all who may come from the country. Address, a week before, Bros. Hobbs, Walk, Yancey, Butler, or myself, saying you are coming, and a home will be assigned you.

WM. A. BROADHURST, Sec'y
Louisville, Ky.

General News.

Hon. Wm. M. Hunt, late U. S. minister to Russia, was buried at Washington, last Friday of last week, with military honors.—One hundred and five wrecked voyagers, fifty-two males, and fifty-three females, are reported on Pitcairn Island in the Pacific ocean.—The Western Union Telegraph Company has borrowed $1,000,000 to pay expense of putting wires under ground in New York and some other cities.—The Philadelphia society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals will have Adam Forepaugh arrested for having a common Indian elephant covered with Paris white.—The test of the Keely motor which was to take place in Philadelphia, last Thursday was again postponed, the inventor claiming that the final graduation of the vibrating power had not been perfected.—The Supreme Court of the United States has decided that not only apparel that has been worn but whatever is for the use of the person who brings it during the season following his arrival may be imported free of duty.—An Indian who was lynched for murder in Washington Territory, confessed that whisky made him do it. Commissioner Price writing to the agent intimates that if the Indians would lynch those that sell them whisky he would not inquire into the matter too closely.—The Republican State Convention which met in this city on the 17th, nominated Hon. Frank T. Reid, judge of the Circuit Court of Davidson county, for governor, on the first ballot. The delegation to the National convention at Chicago is largely in favor of Arthur.—A crusade has been inaugurated by the temperance people in California against grape growing, on the ground that it tends to promote drunkenness. Bands of Hope are being organized throughout the State with the object of stamping out the industry.

FOREIGN.—Two important dynamite arrests have been made in England. The men are Jno. Daly and James Egan. Several infernal machines were found on Daly.—The health of Froude, the historian, is suffering from his work on the Carlyle memorials, and as soon as the proofs are completed, he will visit this country.—Advices from Tonquin state that Gen. Millett occupied Honghoa on the 12th, without fighting. The enemy carried off the artillery and destroyed the magazines and a few houses in the citadel.—Nova Scotia has extended suffrage to widows and unmarried women in municipal elections.—The Porte having decided to put the new tariff into execution, June 6, the governments of England, France Germany, Russia, Belgium and the United States have informed the Porte that they will not consent to the abolition of their commercial rights.—A serious political crisis is threatened at Peking, the Emperor has publicly degraded Prince Kung and four members of the privy council. They were stripped of all their honors because of the dilatory manner in which they have dealt with Tonquin affairs. An English lady at Cairo has offered a reward of £20,000 for the rescue of Gen. Gordon.—At Brantford, Ont., there was another heavy land slide into the river. Cockutt bridge is expected to go down together with two houses.—The signs of a crisis in Cuba are increasing, and radical concessions from Spain will be necessary to prevent serious consequences. Spanish troops have been dispatched for in consequence of the growing insurrectionary movements. Agüero has met several bodies of troops and driven them back.—The Chilean Minister to France announces that a truce between Chili and Bolivia has been proclaimed. But the terms of this is provided that the Bolivian territory occupied by Chilians shall remain under the Chilean law and that trade between Chili and Bolivia shall be free.—By the advice of his physicians, Prince Bismarck has renounced the control of the affairs of the Prussian government, but retains the direction of imperial affairs. In this capacity he occupies a personal and untransferable position of confidence toward foreign powers. Besides foreign affairs are free from friction so greatly connected with home matters.

Clothe and wrap yourself in humility, so that it shall be impossible to tear from you this covering.

Home Reading.

I Climb to Rest.

Still must I climb, if I would rest:
The bird soars upward to his nest;
The young leaf of the tree-top high,
Cradles itself within the sky.

The streams, that seem to hasten down,
Return in clouds, the hills to crown:
The plant arises from her root,
To rock aloft her flower and fruit.

I cannot in the valley stay:
The great horizons stretch away!
The very cliffs that wall me round
Are ladders unto higher ground.

To work—to rest—for each a time:
I toil, but I must also climb.
What soul was ever quite at ease
Shut in by earthly boundaries?

I am not glad till I have known
Life that can lift me from my own:
A loftier level must be won:
A mightier strength to lean upon.

And heaven draws near as I ascend:
The breeze invites, the stars befriend,
All things are beckoning to the Best;
I climb to thee, my God, for rest!

—Lucy Larcom, February Cottage Hearth.

THE LAMP THAT LIGHTS THE WORLD.

A venerable minister smiled down on his congregation, composed of Sunday-school boys and girls, and said:

"Dear children, can you tell me what a lamp is?"

And they looked at him and at one another, and murmured, some of them gave confused answers, and hung their heads shyly.

"What! Does nobody know what a lamp is?" he exclaimed with surprise.

All at once he heard a voice:

"Something to hold a light, sir."

"That's just right," was the minister's glad reply. "An empty lamp is of no use in the dark. Can you repeat a text which mentions the Bible as being like a lamp?"

Without waiting a moment the same young voice rang out again:

"Thy Word is a lamp unto my feet."

"Ah, yes," said the aged minister. "The Bible is a lamp giving light to the whole earth. And how about the light, children—where shall we find that?"

"In the Lord Jesus. He said, 'I am the light of the world.'"

Again it was that same voice.

"One child answers well," said the minister, and he scanned the sea of faces to discover who it was.

A little girl told him it was blind Arthur.

Yes, it was blind Arthur Batty who answered so correctly about God's glorious lamp and its still more glorious light. The minister told his little hearers never to try to go, even a few steps, on life's journey without their precious lamp, or they would stumble into trouble and sin. He asked them, as I also ask you, dear children to learn all they possibly could of God's Word, so that they might not at another time be so unready with their answers; and more than all, because the light shines brightest on the path of those who study the Lamp and know it the best.

HARRY'S ARITHMETIC.

Harry Wilson had just got a new arithmetic, and was delighted with its figures and study. He had been in mental arithmetic for some time, but now that he had a book and slate of his own, everything for him seemed to turn into sums and calculations.

He was sitting by the table working a sum in division, when he heard his father, speaking to his mother, say:

"Johnston got beastly drunk at the club last night, and disgraced himself abominably. He drank ten glasses of wine, and it went to his head; and he acted so we were all disgusted with him; and finally he was so drunk that he had to be taken home in a carriage."

Harry, full of arithmetic, caught sound of the word "ten," and looking up, said:

"Ten! And how many did you drink, father?"

"Only one, my son," said the father, looking down with a smile to his little boy, of whom he was very fond.

"Then, father, was you one-tenth drunk?" said Harry, reflectively, thinking, perhaps, more of his figures, just then, than of anything else.

"Harry!" said his mother sternly, "what do you mean?" But Harry, who was thoroughly absorbed in his calculations, went on talking to himself:

"Why, yes; if ten glasses will make a man all drunk, then one glass will make him one-tenth drunk; and if one is beastly drunk, then the other must be one-tenth beastly drunk, and—"

"There, there," said the father, biting his lips to hide the smile that would have come, "I guess that is enough arithmetic for to-night."

But as Harry went on with his sums, his remarks started a train of thoughtfulness in the mind of the father, and he said to himself:

"If Johnston had not taken the first glass, he could not have gone on to the ten; and, on the whole, it is safe for myself, and best as an example to my sons, that I never again take the first, lest I, or they, should go on the ten."

And from that day the father became a total abstainer from all intoxicating drinks.

A BOY'S RELIGION.

If a boy is a lover of the Lord Jesus Christ he cannot lead a prayer-meeting or be a church officer, or a preacher, but he can be a godly boy, in a boy's way and in a boy's place. He ought not to be too solemn or too quiet for a boy. He need not cease to be a boy because he is a Christian. He ought to run, jump, play, climb, and yell like a real boy. But in it all he ought to show the spirit of Christ. He ought to be free from vulgarity and profanity. He ought to eschew tobacco in every form, and have a horror of intoxicating drinks. He ought to be peaceable, gentle, merciful, generous. He ought to take the part of small boys against large boys. He ought to discourage fighting. He ought to refuse to be a party in mischief, to persecution, to deceit. And above all things he ought now and then to show his colors. He need not always be interrupting a game to say he is a Christian; but he ought not to be ashamed to say that he refuses to be something because it is wrong and wicked, or because he fears God, or is a Christian. He ought to take no part in the ridicule of sacred things, but meet the ridicule of others with a bold statement that for all things of God he feels the deepest reverence.

BETTER WHISTLE THAN WHINE.

As I was taking a walk early in September, I noticed two little boys on their way to school. The small one tumbled and fell; and though he was not very much hurt, he began to whine in a babyish way—not a regular roaring boy cry, as though he were half killed, but a little cross whine.

The older boy took his hand in a kind and fatherly way, and said,—

"Oh, never mind, Jimmy, don't whine; it is a great deal better to whistle."

And he began in the merriest way a cheerful boy whistle.

Jimmy tried to join in the whistle.

"I can't whistle as nice as you, Charlie," said he; "my lips won't pucker up good."

"Oh, that is because you have not got all the whine out yet," said Charlie; "but you try a minute, and the whistle will drive whine away."

So he did; and the last I saw or heard of the little fellows they were whistling away as earnestly as though that was the chief end of life.

INFLAMED EYELIDS.—"I give a simple remedy that has cured hundreds, including myself. One cent's worth sulphate of zinc in two ounces of rainwater; one drop in the eyes once or twice daily; dilute if too strong. Put in a glass vial and cork tightly; it will keep a long time."

Men seldom die of hard work; activity is God's medicine. The highest genius is willingness and ability to do hard work. Any other conception of genius makes it a doubtful, if not dangerous possession.—R. S. MacArthur.

One of the sayings of Goethe's mother was: I always seek out what is good in people; and leave what is bad to Him who made mankind, and knows how to round off the angles.

FOR THE CHILDREN.

BY UNCLE MINOR.

Well, the bleak winter winds have passed away and now comes the sweet spring time. To-day while riding along the railroad, I noticed the peaches and plums in bloom, and oh! the beautiful woods, just beginning to put forth their first green leaves—the blazing red maple, the modest red buds, and pure white dogwood all in full bloom. How I love the spring time, the air is so fresh and so full of sweetness from blooming flowers, the birds, too, jump from bough to bough, singing their sweetest songs.

When I was a little boy I used to go out into the woods and gather great bunches of Sweet-Williams, Johnny-Jumpup's and Honey-Suckles. In those bright spring days we would often run risk of falling, breaking our necks, in climbing rocky bluffs, and high trees for moss and flowers, to make and adorn our little play house with. Then we would gather under some great elm or oak and play keep house, while some would be fishing in the babbling brook near by for silver sides or little perch. It was a rare thing then to have a real fish-hook, but we would make them ourselves out of pins, tie them to a cotton or flax string, and then on a little elder pole or sasafra sprout, and enjoy the sport as much as if we had silver mounted poles and fine reels. We would be called to dinner by the sweet voice of a sister, who would always tell us to say grace before we eat.

The repast would be furnished at breakfast by our good mother, which consisted of salt rising light bread spread over with golden butter and perhaps a few pieces matched with apple butter between, and not a few pieces of corn hoe cake and good fried ham; this would be divided out in small pieces and served on scraps of broken dishes or mussel shells. I know the children are all ready to say, oh! how I wish I could have such a good time as Uncle Minor did when he was a boy. Yes, you can if you will; only make the best of everything you have, be good, and do good, and you will enjoy life as I did, or any one else. Now I want to tell you a few things that will make you happy when you grow up to be men and women.

First, never tell a lie; be honest. Sometimes children are afraid to tell straight lies, but tell crooked ones; that is, they only tell part of the truth, supposing they will not be caught up with, but this is just as bad as telling a straight out and out lie. Never use vulgar or profane language. I knew a boy once who talked very ugly, and his mother used to wash his mouth with soap thinking she would break him, but all to no purpose. For his mother was high tempered and talked ugly too, sometimes. Good parents never object to their children having fun and a good time, provided it is at the proper time and their own expense. But boys especially, sometimes imagine they can't have fun unless they are teasing some one, or playing some pranks; this is a mistake. Then children imagine often they ought to be at play when they should be at work, doing something that is useful, helping to lighten the labor of dear father and mother. Little boys and girls can do a great deal if they will only try. But our talk is long enough now. I hope you will all try to be good and useful and write to me often. May God bless you.

LETTER TO UNCLE MINOR.

Dear Uncle Minor: Seeing you have a great many nieces and nephews, I thought I would like to be related to you and them. We take the ADVOCATE. I read all their letters with delight. We have a good church near us. We will organize a Sunday-school next Lord's day; it will be conducted by Bro. N. B. Wallace. I would like to join Bro. Poe's Bible Class, I think it very instructive. I am very much interested in Bro. Officer's Indian Mission; would help him if I was able. I am personally acquainted with him. I feel sure he will succeed. I close by wishing the ADVOCATE and its many readers much success.

MAUD JOHNSON.

Athens, Alabama.

The pleasant things in the world are pleasant thoughts, and the greatest art in life is to have as many of them as possible.

A Prominent Minister Writes.

Dr. Mosley—Dear Sir: After ten years of great suffering from indigestion or dyspepsia, with great nervous prostration and biliousness, disordered kidneys and constipation. I have been cured by four bottles of your Lemon Elixir, and am now a well man.

REV. C. C. DAVIS, Elder M. E. Church South.
No. 28 Tenth St. Atlanta, Ga.

From Two Prominent Ladies.

I have not been able in two years to walk or stand without suffering great pain. Since taking Dr. Mosley's Lemon Elixir, I can walk half mile without suffering the least inconvenience.

Mrs. E. H. BLOODWORTH, Griffin, Ga.

Dr. H. Mosley: After years of suffering from indigestion, great debility and nervous prostration, with the usual female irregularities and derangements accompanying such condition of a woman's health I have been permanently relieved by the use of your Lemon Elixir.

Mrs. E. DENNIS,
Mo. 46 Chapel St., Atlanta, Ga.

J. Pratt, druggist, Wright City, Missouri, writes: Lemon Elixir gives the greatest satisfaction. It has cured a case of chills and fever of four years standing.

Dr. Mosley's Lemon Elixir, prepared at his Drug Store, 114 Whitehall Street Atlanta, Ga.

It cures all biliousness, constipation, indigestion, headache, malarial, kidney disease, fever, chills, impurities of the blood, loss of appetite, debility and nervous prostration and all other diseases caused from diseased Liver and Kidneys.

Fifty cents for one pint bottle, one dollar for pint and a half bottle. Sold by druggist generally, and all wholesale druggist, Louisville, Ky.

Miscellaneous.*To Consumptives.

"Golden Medical Discovery" is a concentrated, potent alterative, or blood-cleansing remedy, that wins golden opinions from all who use it for any humor, from the common pimple, blotch, or eruption, to the formidable scrofulous swelling, or ulcer. Internal fever, soreness and ulceration, yield to its benign influences. Consumption, which is but a scrofulous affection of the lungs, in its early stages, be cured by a free use of this God-given remedy. See article on consumption and its treatment in Part III of the World's Dispensary Dime Series of pamphlets, costs two stamps, post-paid. Address World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

Florence, Ga.—Dr. W. B. Prather, says: "Brown's Iron Bitters have given satisfaction in every instance I have known it used."

Dr. KLINE's Great Nerve Restorer is the marvel of the age for all Nerve Diseases. All fits stopped free. Send to 931 Arch Street, Philada, Pa.

Rev. W. B. Smith, Grafton, Mass., says: "I have derived benefit from using Brown's Iron Bitters for a low state of blood."

SANITARIUM, Riverside, Cal. The dry climate cures. Nose, Throat, Lungs, full idea, 36p, route, cost free.

Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar overpowers the most troublesome cough.

Pike's Toothache Drops cure in one minute.

Glenn's Sulphur Soap cures skin diseases.

Catarrh Cured.

A Clergyman, after suffering a number of years from that dreadful disease Catarrh, and after trying every known remedy without success, at last found a prescription which completely cured and saved him from death. Any sufferer from this dreadful disease sending a self-addressed stamped envelope to Dr. J. A. LAWRENCE, Brooklyn, N. Y. will receive the recipe free of charge.

For sufferers of all Diseases, 36 pp, symptoms, helps, advice. Send to St. Louis, Mo. case your

A Lady Wants to Know.

the latest Parisian style of dress and bonnet; a new way to arrange the hair. Millions are expended for artificial appliances which only make conspicuous the fact that emaciation, nervous debility, and female weakness exist. Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription" is sold under a positive guarantee. If used as directed, art can be dispensed with. It will overcome those diseases peculiar to females. By druggists.

An invaluable strengthener for the nerves, muscles and digestive organs, producing strength and appetite, is Brown's Iron Bitters.

What's Saved is Gained.

Working men will economize by employing Dr. Pierce's Medicines. His "Pleasant Purgative Pellets" and "Golden Medical Discovery" cleans the blood and system thus preventing fevers and other humors. Sold by druggists.

Extract of Report from the Celebrated Physicians, Erasmus Wilson, of London, Eng.: "Several severe cases of incipient Consumption have come under my observation that have been cured by the timely use of Golden's Liquid Beef Tonic. (Remember the name, Golden's—take no other.) Of druggists.

AN ONLY DAUGHTER CURED OF CONSUMPTION.

When death was hourly expected, all remedies having failed, and Dr. H. James was experimenting with the many herbs of Calcutta, he accidentally made a preparation which cured his only child of Consumption. His child is now in this country, and enjoying the best of health. He has proved to the world that Consumption can be positively and permanently cured. The Doctor now gives this recipe free, only asking two 2-cent stamps to pay expenses. This Herb also cures Night Sweats, Nausea at the Stomach, and will break up a fresh Cold in twenty-four hours. Address Craddock & Co., 1032 Race St., Philadelphia, naming this paper.

Have you Nasal Catarrh?

Use Dr. H. JAMES' three preparations of EAST INDIA HEMP; they will prevent the Catarrh entering the Bronchial tubes or lungs, thereby warding off Consumption and keep the disease located until positively cured. Put yourself fully under the influence of these remedies, and as sure as the Sun shines upon you a complete cure will be made of that loathsome disease. Ask you druggist for Dr. JAMES' CANNABIS INDICA, and if they fail, send us direct. $2.50 per bottle, or three bottles $6.50. Pills and Ointment, $1.25 each.

Address, CRADDOCK & CO.,
1032 Race St., Philadelphia, Pa.
N. B.—Circulars free.

The Great Church LIGHT.

FRANK'S Patent Reflectors give the Most Powerful, the Softest, Cheapest and the Best Light known for Churches, Stores, Show Windows, Parlors, Banks, Offices, Picture Galleries, Theatres, Depots, etc. New and elegant designs. Send size of room. Get circular and estimate. A liberal discount to churches and the trade.

L. F. FRANK, 551 Pearl St., N. Y.

OPIUM

Habit easily cured with CHLORIDE OF GOLD
LEWIS E. KEELEY, M.D., SURGEON, C. & A. R. E.
DWIGHT, Illinois.

The GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER

Dr. Samuel Hodges' Alternative Compound Sarsaparilla with Iodide Potash. This compound is purely vegetable, each article of ingredient is perfectly harmless in itself, having been selected from roots and herbs possessing great medicinal properties, when combined forms a most powerful, efficient, and pleasant medicine for the removal and permanent cure of ALL diseases, arising from an impure state of system, viz.:

Rheumatism, Scrofula or King's evil, Scald-head or Tetter, Chronic Sore Eyes, Old or Chronic Sores of all kinds, Boils, Pimples, Syphilitic Rheumatism, Primary and Secondary Syphilis, Nervous Debility, Liver Complaints, Inflammation of the Kidneys and Bladder, renovates and invigorates the system; acts gently on the bowels. As an appetizer and for general debility, it is a most excellent remedy.

CAMPBELL BROS., Druggists, Sole Manufacturers.

For Sale by all druggist. Price $1.00 per bottle, or 6 for $5.00, Liberal discount to the trade.

ALSO MANUFACTURERS OF

ETHIOPIAN PILE OINTMENT

A never failing remedy for External, internal or Itching Piles. Ask your Druggist for it. None genuine without the Trade Mark. Price $1.00 per Bottle.

TESTIMONIAL.

This is to certify that I was afflicted with Piles for twenty years. I tried every Remedy offered me. Finally used the Ethiopian Pile Ointment, and found it the very best preparation I ever used. It will give almost immediate relief and will finally effect a permanent cure.

Ed. A. IRELAND

Formerly of Gallatin, now of Breen, Phillips & Co.,
Nashville, Tennessee.

CAMPBELL BROS., Druggists,
or, Broad and Summer Sts.,
NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE.

F. H. STICKLEY.

RS. C. W. LEWIS

STICKLEY & LEWIS,

Having moved to our elegant store-room,

NO. 34 NORTH SUMMER STREET,

We will carry a large stock of fine Millinery and Fancy Goods, the light-running New Home Sewing Machines, Needles, Oil and Attachments for all machines. Fine imported German Canary Birds, good singers, $3 each. Bird Cages, Food and Tonic always on hand. Mrs. Lewis is also prepared to do Fashionable Dress Making, Dying Plumes, Cleaning Gloves and Stamping. Old Machines of any kind repaired or taken in part pay for the New Home.

CARPETS! CARPETS!

FROM

New York Bankrupt Sales.

MANLOVE & CO.,

26 and 28 N. Summer Street,

Are now in receipt of an immense stock, recently bought at prices lower than ever before. Now is the time to buy Good Carpets cheap, and guaranteed to be as cheap as any Eastern market.

MANLOVE & CO.,

26 and 28 N. Summer Street,

NASHVILLE, TENN.

$66 a week in your own town. Terms and $5 outfit free. Address H. HALLEY & Co., Portland, Me.

$72 A WEEK, $12 a day at home easily made. Outfit free. Address TOWN & Co., Augusta, Me.

OFFICIAL REPORT.

Office of the Kentucky Agricultural and Mechanical Association.
Lexington, Ky., June 23rd, 1883.

TO ALL CONCERNED:

This is to certify that in the field trial of Twine-binders held by the Kentucky Agricultural and Mechanical Association on the farm of Mr. J. B. Clay, near Lexington on the 19th inst., in very heavy barley, the following machines competing, viz: Osborne, Deering, McCormick, Wood, Buckeye, Minneapolis, Dennett, Champion, St. Paul, Buckeye low-down and Deering low-down, the premium of a Gold Medal was awarded to the No. 11 Osborne.

JESSE BRYANT,
N. F. BERRY,
D. H. JAMES,
W. H. GENTRY, Pres't.

H. P. KINKEAD, Sec'y.

The above is a true copy of report made by Committee and approved by Board of Directors this day.

Call at our Branch House in Nashville and EXAMINE "The Gold Medal Osborne," and a full line of Reapers and Mowers.

D. M. OSBORNE, & CO. E. S. BRINGHURST, M'gr.

WANTED A WOMAN

of sense and energy for our business in her locality, middle-aged preferred. Salary $35 to $50. References exchanged. GAY BROS. & CO., 14 BARCLAY ST., NEW YORK.

"A THING OF BEAUTY IS A JOY FOREVER."
FOR PRESERVING, RESTORING AND BEAUTIFYING THE COMPLEXION
FOR REMOVING SUNBURN, TAN, FRECKLES,
PIMPLES, BLOWN-UP, BLOTCHES, &c.
OPINIONS OF NOTED LADIES.
LOTTA—It is the best preparation for the face that I ever used. I now use no other.
CLARA LUTHELL—It gives me pleasure to add my name to the list of those who recommend your "Liquid Pearl," and express the satisfaction it afforded me.
The LIQUID PEARL has been received by the ladies of all countries with the highest marks of appreciation. Only 50 cents a bottle, sold by all Druggists and Perfumers.
CHAMPLIN & CO., FRANK, BUFFALO, N. Y.

WANTED HELP.
Entirely New.
PROFITABLE.
Outfit Free.

We want an AGENT in every locality. Something entirely
new. Our Agents are sweeping the field wherever they go, and making money rapidly. Men, women, boys, girls, all do equally well. Will send you full outfit on receipt of 2 cent Stamp.
Don't fail. Address: S. S. PUBLISHING CO.,
Brownwood, Texas.

"THE BEST IS CHEAPEST."
ENGINES, THRESHERS, SAW-MILLS,
Horse Powers, Clover Haulers
Suited to all sections. Write for FREE Illus. Pamphlet and Prices to The Aultman & Taylor Co., Mansfield, Ohio.

ACME Songs for the International Sunday School Lessons (Words and Music) adapted to each lesson in April, May,
June, 32 pps., 40 songs, 5c., 25 for $1 (mailed).
Free copy to Pastor or Supt. sending postage.
J. C. O. REDINGTON, 267 Broadway, N. Y.

PAYSON'S INDELIBLE INK
Is the BEST. No preparation.
Used with any clean pen for marking any fabric. Popular for decorative work on linen. Received Centennial MEDAL & Diploma.
Established 50 years. Sold by all Druggists, Stationers & News Ag'ts.

OPIUM and WHISKY HABITS cured at home without pain. Book of particulars sent Free.
B. M. WOOLLEY, M. D., Atlanta, Ga.

PURE DELIGHT.
A New Sunday School Song Book.
By Geo. F. Root and C. C. Case.

Contains New and Bright Words;
Easy and Inspiring Music; Pure and Elevated Sentiments.
One of the leading features of the book is a set of
BEAUTIFUL RESPONSIVE SERVICES
Especially prepared for it by Rev. W. H. FRASER and Lewis Miller, Esq.
192 pages, well printed and handsomely bound in boards. Price, 35c., each by mail, post-paid; $2.00 a dozen by express, not prepaid. Specimen pages free.

Published by
JOHN CHURCH & CO.,
CINCINNATI, OHIO.

CHICAGO: ROOT & SONS MUSIC CO.
200 Wabash Ave.
NEW YORK: J. CHURCH & CO.
5 Union Square.
For Sale by Booksellers and Music Dealers.

CATARACTS
To any suffering with Catarrh or Oronchitis who earnestly desire relief, I can furnish a means of Permanent and Positive Cure. A Home Treatment. No charge for consultation by mail. Valuable Treatise Free. Certificates from Doctors, Lawyers, Ministers, Business-men.
Address Rev. T. P. CHILDS, Troy, Ohio.

EGGLESTON'S ELASTIC TRUSS
Has a Pad different from all others, is a cup shape, with Self-Adjusting Ballin center, adapts itself to all positions of the body while the ball in the cup presses back the interstices just as a person lies. It is held securely day and night, and a radical cure certain. It is easy, durable and cheap. Sent by mail. Circulars free.
EGGLESTON TRUSS CO., Chicago, Ill.

SAMARITAN
NEVER FAILS.
NERVINE
THE GREAT NERVE CONQUEROR

A SPECIFIC FOR Epilepsy,
Spasms, Convulsions, Falling
Sickness, St. Vitus
Dance, Alcoholism, Opium Eating, Syphilis, Kings
Evil, Ugly Blood
Diseases, Dyspepsia, Nervousness,
Stick Headache,
Rheumatism,
Nervous Weakness, Brain Worry, Blood Sores,
Biliousness, Costiveness, Nervous Prostration,
Kidney Troubles and Irregularities. $1.50.
Sample Testimonials.
"Samaritan Nervine is doing wonders."
Dr. J. O. McLeomin, Alexander City, Ala.
"I feel it my duty to recommend it."
Dr. D. F. Laughlin, Clyde, Kansas.
"It cured where physicians failed."
Rev. J. A. Edie, Beaver, Pa.
Correspondence freely answered. For testimonials and circulars send stamp.
The Dr. S. A. Richmond Med. Co., St. Joseph, Mo.
Sold by all Druggists. (17)
Lord, Stotenburgh & Co., Ag'ts, Chicago, Ill."

Sabbath School Songs
FOR SUNDAY SCHOOLS
SOCIAL MEETINGS, ETC.
LATEST SONG BOOK OUT.
What people say of it:
"Unusually bright in stirring and joyful songs."
"A very superior book." "A grand work."
"Its songs are golden." "Never examined a better book."
"The quality of songs, together with its new and convenient arrangements, make it a most desirable work."
"An examination proves its superior merit."
"It speaks for itself." All we ask of Sunday Schools needing new song books, is to send for a sample copy before adopting any other.
Single copy 35c., or $3.00 per doz. Sample copy to any address, 25 cents. Printed both in round and character notes.
FIRESIDE FRIEND PUBLISHING CO., Springfield, Ohio.

McSHANE BELL FOUNDRY.
Manufacture those celebrated Chimes and Bells for CHURCHES, ACADEMIES
&c. Price-list and circulars sent free.
HENRY McSHANE & CO.,
Baltimore, Md.

Baltimore Church Bells
Since 1844 celebrated for Superiority over others, are made only of Purest Bell Metal, (Copper and Tin.) Rotary Mountings, warranted satisfactory.
For Prices, Circulars, &c. address BALTIMORE BELL FOUNDRY, J. REGESTER & SONS, Baltimore, Md.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY.
Bells of Pure Copper and Tin for Churches,
Schools, Fire Alarms, Farms, etc. FILLI
WARRANTED. Catalogue sent Free.
VANDUZEN & TIFT, Cincinnati, O.

PILES "Anakesis" gives instant relief, and is an infallible cure for Piles.
Price $1. at druggists, or sent prepaid by mail. Sample Free. Ad. "ANAKESIS"
Makers, Box 2416 New York.

2806 Lbs. Weight
OF TWO OCHO IMPROVED CHES-
TER HOGS. Send for description of this famous breed, Also Poultry.
L. B. SILVER, CLEVELAND, O.

Agents wanted. $5 a Day made selling our New HOUSEHOLD ARTI-CLES and PLATEFORM FAMILY
SCALE. Weighs up to 25 lbs. Price,
$1.50. Domestic Scale Co., Cin'tn, O.

Our new war book, DEEDS
OF DARING by Blue and
Grey, is outselling all other books. Illustrated circular and terms free.
FORSYTH & McMINN,
Cincinnati, O.

SEEDS Our Annual Catalogue, Beautifully Engraved and Illustrated; Plants and Treatise on Southern CULTURE, VEGE-TABLES, GRASSES,
SMALL GRAINS and FLOWERS.
MAILED FREE UPON APPLICATION.
E. M. SARGENT & CO.,
Seed Growers, Macon, Georgia.

THE COMPLETE HOME. Agents wanted
book. New edition.—New bindings.—New illustrations from new designs. Superbly gotten up. Same low price.
Adapted to all classes. Agents doing big work.
EXCELLENT TERMS. The handsomest prospectus ever issued.
Apply now. WM. GARRETTSON & CO., 30 College St., Nashville, Tenn. Also other grand new books and Bibles.

SEEDS Our new catalogue, best published,
Free to all. 1,500 varieties, 300
illustrations. You ought to have it.
BENSON, MAULE & CO., Philadelphia, Pa.

TRADE-MARKS, PATENTS, COPY-RIGHTS, DESIGNS, RE-ISSUES.
Send description of your Invention. L. BINGHAM
Patent Lawyer and Solicitor, Washington, D. C.

Warner Bros. Celebrated Corset is the acknowledged standard of Europe and America.

The Flexible Hip (see cut) is especially adapted to those whose corsets break over the hip. The Health, Nursing, Coralline, Abdominal and Misses' Corsets, are all popular styles, adapted to ladies of different forms.

Price, from $1 up. FOR SALE BY LEADING MERCHANTS EVERYWHERE. Avoid all imitations. Be sure our name is on the box.

WARNER BROS.,
353 BROADWAY, NEW YORK.

American College Song Book.

A collection of the Songs of 50 representative American Colleges. One can hardly imagine Songs fresher and brighter than these. 200 in number, and all newly contributed by the colleges in question, including Vassar and Wellesley. There is an average of 4 songs from each college. Price $2.00.

Also published, Carmina Collegensia, $3.00. University Songs, $2.50, and Students Life in Song, $1.50.

THE STUDENT'S HISTORY OF MUSIC.

Just published.
BY DR. FREDERICK LOUIS BRITTEN.

A book of great importance, giving a concise and interesting narrative of the progress of music during the last 200 years. Price $2.50.

Almost ready.

A new Sunday School Song Book of fine quality, by Emerson and Sherwin. Wait for it.

CANTATAS AND OPERETTAS.

More and more used, every year, enliven School Life, and furnishes most valuable practice.

Forest Jubilee Band (40 cts.) new. Flower Festival on the Rhine, (45 cts.) Crown of Virtue, (80 cts.) Fairy Bridal (50 cts.) New Flower Queen, (75 cts.) Hour in Fairy Land (60 cts.) Little Bo Peep, (60 cts.) Three Little Kittens, (80 cts.) Quarrel Among Flowers (35 cts.) Spring Holiday, (60 cts.) School Festival (20 cts.) and Cinderella, (50 cts.) are all lively and pretty Cantatas.

OLIVER DITSON & CO., Boston.
C. H. DITSON & CO. J. E. DITSON & CO.
33 Broadway N. Y. 1223 Chestnut St., Phila.

BEAUTIFUL FLOWERS

NEW CHOICE SEEDS! FRUITS!

All of the best, both new and old. Plants, Trees, Vines, Seeds, &c., by mail, a specialty. Safe arrival guaranteed. 60 choice, cheap, $1 Sets, for example:

12 ROSES $1
30 PACKETS $1
CHOICE FLOWER SEEDS, $1.

For the other 55 $1 Sets and 1,001 things besides, send for our illustrated Catalogue of over 100 pages, free. None better nor more reliable. Established 30 yrs. 500 acres. 21 large Greenhouses.
THE STORRS & HARRISON CO.
FAINEVILLE, LAKE COUNTY, OHIO

The Ministers' and Teachers' Bible.

This magnificent Parlor Bible is imported from London and is endorsed as "The Best" by the leading Bishops of England. In addition to the Old and
New Testaments it contains a compendium of Bible Words, 40,000
References with Context! An Encyclopedia. A Dictionary of Proper Names, with Pronunciation, 12 full page colored Maps. Poetry, Music, Ethnology, Plants, Animals, and Jewish sects of the Bible, etc. "Superior to all others."
—N. Y. Times. "A complete Biblical Encyclopaedia."—London Times. This Bible is bound in French morocco, gilt edges, with silk book-mark, and has copious references. Rev. Eli Milton, Norwalk,
O., writes "The Bibles received to-day
I am more than pleased." A Special Offer: To rapidly introduce this Bible in America we will, for a limited time only, send one copy, post-paid, to any address on receipt of only $2.00! 152
copies and one copy of Revised New Testament
for $4.00! Other Bibles, with less matter, sell for $15.
Order at once. 15 CENTS
WANTED! Circulars FREE.
G. S. MAYO & CO., 160 La Salle St., Chicago, Ill.

CHEAP BOOTS AND SHOES!

We are now receiving our
Spring Stock of Fine Custom-made Boots, Shoes, and Hats.
Our prices will be found
reasonable. Give us a call.
Trunks at cost.

ALDRICH & HARRIS,
106 UNION ST., (bet. College and Market,)
NASHVILLE TENN.

HARTER'S IRON TONIC
THE ONLY TRUE
Will purify the BLOOD, regulate the LIVER and KIDNEYS, and RESTORE THE HEALTH and VIGOR OF YOUTH. Dyspepsia, Want of Appetite, Indigestion, Lack of Strength, and Tired Feeling absolutely cured. Bones, muscles and nerves receive new force.
Enlivens the mind and supplies Brain Power.
Suffering from complaints peculiar to their sex will find in DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC a safe and speedy cure. Gives a clear, healthy complexion.
Frequent attempts at counterfeiting only add to the popularity of the original. Do not experiment—get the ORIGINAL and BEST.
(Send your address to The Dr. Harter Med. Co., St. Louis, Mo., for our "DR. HARTER BOOK."
Full of strange and useful information, free.)

25 YEARS IN THE POULTRY YARD
106 Pages. It teaches you how to rear them to care for them, to feed, to have them lay eggs in cold weather, to prevent and treat all diseases of old or young, to be a "successful" poultry man. Only 25 cents in stamps.
A Fifty-page book FREE FOR ALL with it.
A. M. LANG, Cove Dale Farm, Concord, Ky.

BARNES'
Patent Foot and Steam Power
Machinery. Complete outfit for Actual Work-shop Business. Lathes for Wood or
Metal. Circular Saws, Scroll
Saws, Formers, Mortisers, Tenoners, etc., etc. Machines on trial if desired. Descriptive Catalogue and Price List Free.
W. F. BARNES,
No. 159 Ruby Street, Rockford, Ill.

FREEMAN & KEESEE, INTERIOR DECORATORS,

NO. 33 N. COLLEGE STREET, NASHVILLE, TENN.

Wall Paper and Decorations, Window Shades, Cornice, Curtain Poles, Gold and Walnut Pier and Mantle Mirrors, Engravings, Chromos, and Oil Paintings. Frames of All Kinds in Stock and Made to Order. Re-Gilding Old Frames a Specialty. Manufacturers of Fine Frames and Wood Mantles. CORRESPONDENCE SOLICITED. Ap9

KEEP COOL!

SUMMER GOODS.

Refrigerators, Ice Chests, Water Coolers, Filters, Fruit Jars, Fruit Cans, Stoneware, Woodenware, and all kinds of Kitchen Goods. Cooking Stoves to suit the requirements of every Family.

PRICES TO SUIT THE TIMES.

Phillips-Buttorff Manufacturing Co.,

24 & 26 College Street, Nashville, Tenn.

PIGUE, MANIER & CO.,
WHOLESALE DEALERS IN
BOOTS AND SHOES,
NO. 40 SOUTH MARKET STREET, NASHVILLE, TENN.

We are receiving a very large stock of Spring and Summer goods that we have had manufactured expressly for us, which we think, with our long experience and facilities, we can offer inducements, equal to any market, to prompt and cash dealers. All goods warranted to be as represented.

NEW CHRISTIAN HYMN AND TUNE BOOK

It is a superior book in the following seven particulars:

1. Excellence and Completeness of Hymns.
2. Simplicity and Beauty of Music.
3. Arrangement of Analytical Index.
4. Protracted Meetings and Gospel Songs.
5. Editions and Prices.
6. Paper, Printing and Binding.
7. Cheapest Book in the Market considering the Number of Hymns and Tunes in it.

Sample copy in cloth mailed for 60 cents. Sample copy in boards mailed for 35 cents. Descriptive circulars, enlarging on the above seven points, free. It is better, however, to get a sample copy and circular. Address,

FILLMORE BROS., 185 Race St., Cincinnati, O.

THE GREAT EVENTS OF HISTORY IN A SINGLE VOLUME FAMOUS AND DECISIVE BATTLES OF THE WORLD.

By CAPT. KING, U.S.A. HISTORY FROM THE BATTLE-FIELD. Shows how Nations have been made or destroyed in a day.—How Fame or Disaster has turned on a single Contest. A Grand Book for Old and Young.—Saves Time, Aids the Memory.—Gives Pleasure and Instruction. Maps and Fine Illustrations. Agents Wanted Everywhere. Write at once for full description and terms. Address J. C. McCURDY & CO., Cincinnati, Ohio.

BURRITT COLLEGE, SPENCER, TENN.

THIS INSTITUTION, chartered in 1848, has now been favorably known for more than thirty years, for its discipline, both as regards education and government. Located on the Cumberland Plateau, it is free from epidemics. The water is pure freestone and chalybeate. The breezes of Summer are delightful and invigorating, and the gales of winter not too severe. The College buildings, recently enlarged by the Christian Brotherhood of Tennessee, are sufficiently commodious to accommodate a large class of young Ladies and Gentlemen. Spencer is ten miles South-east of Manchester & McMinnville Railroad.

TERMS:

Tuition, Primary Department, per S'n, $ 7 50	Tuition, Commercial Department per S'n, $20 00
Preparatory, " " 15 00	Lessons instrumental Music from $15 to $20
Collegiate, " " 20 00	" in Art Department from $50 to $100

Board and washing for males, per week, from $3.00 to $2.50; Fuel, light, and incidental expenses, per session, $10.00; Board (including washing, fuel, and light) for females, per week $3.00.

The Spring Session of 1884, begins on the Last Monday in February.
For further particulars address,

Prof. A. T. SEITZ, President,
Or W. H. SUTTON, Sec. Board Trustees.

CHILDS' CATARRH Treatment For

And Diseases of the HEAD, THROAT & LUNGS! Can be taken at home. No case incurable when our questions are properly answered. Write for circulars, testimonials, etc., REV. T. E. CHILDS, Troy, Ohio.

Peter Henderson & Co's SEEDS AND PLANTS

embraces every desirable Novelty of the season, as well as all standard kinds. A special feature for 1884 is, that you can for $5.00 select Seeds or Plants to that value from their Catalogue, and have included, without charge, a copy of Peter Henderson's New Book, "Garden and Farm Topics," a work of 250 pages, handsomely bound in cloth, and containing a steel portrait of the author. The price of the book alone is $1.50. Catalogue of "Everything for the Garden," giving details, free on application.

PETER HENDERSON & CO. SEEDSMEN & FLORISTS, 35 & 37 Cortlandt St., New York.

DR. C. P. DUNCAN'S LIVER AND KIDNEY MEDICINE.

The great preventive and cure of all malarial diseases, and a sure cure for all forms of dyspepsia and indigestion; it acts directly upon the Liver and all the secretory glands of the stomach and bowels, it cures the disease by removing the cause from the system that produces or brings on the disease, hence it is unsurpassed for the cure of Constipation, sour stomach, heartburn, headache, and all those symptoms indicating the wants of a proper action of those glands situated in the stomach and bowels. Two or three bottles of Dr. Duncan's Liver and Kidney Medicine is positively recommended to relieve and cure any of the above diseases if taken as directed. Price 75 cents.

Cure for Croup!

Dr. Duncan's Cough Balsam is the best remedy known to the medical profession for the prompt and sure cure of croup in children; it is pleasant and harmless. No mother should be without a bottle in their house. Price 50 cents.

Bad Colds and Sore Throats

Promptly cured with Dr. Duncan's Cough Balsam; is a sure cure for sore throats, coughs and colds. It is unsurpassed for WHOOPING COUGH, and all bronchial diseases in children.

Chapped Hands, Lips,

Sore Eyes, Piles, and all eruptions of the skin cured promptly with Duncan's Ointment.

DR. DUNCAN'S BLOOD SYRUP,

the great alternative, will remove any and all impurities from the blood, and cure all eruptions of the Skin. For Scrofula it never fails to cure.

CHILDREN CRY FOR DUNCAN'S WORM SYRUP.

It is sure, safe, pleasant and cheap. Try it.

CONSUMPTION

Positively Cured. No Humbug.

By the use of Dr. J. LAWSON'S PULMONARY POWDERS, a FREE TRIAL BOX of which will be sent to all sufferers POST PAID, with treatise and full directions for their use.

Hundreds and thousands have been cured by their use.

Large Box $3.00, two boxes $1.00.

Address, PHILIP HENRY, 49 South St., New York City.

A PRIZE

Send six cents for postage, and receive free a costly box of goods which will help you to more money right away than anything else in this world. All, of either sex, succeed from first hour. The broad road to fortune opens before the workers, absolutely sure. At once address TRUE & CO., Augusta, Maine.

Good Pay for Agents. $100 to $200 per mo., made selling our fine Books & Bibles. Write to J. C. McCurdy & Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.

AGENTS WANTED for our new Religious book, the greatest success of the year. Send for illustrated circular if you want to make money. FOR-SHEE & McMAKIN, Cincinnati.

PENSIONS for any disability; also to Heirs. Send stamps for New Laws. COL. L. BINGHAM, Attorney, Washington, D. C.

IT PAYS to sell our Hand Rubber Stamps. Samples free. FOLJAMBE & Co., Cleveland, O.

Home Items.

—"All your own fault
"If you remain sick when you can Get Hop Bitters that never—Fail.
—The weakest woman, the smallest child, and sickest invalid can use Hop Bitters with safety and great good.

—Old men tottering around from Rheumatism, kidney trouble, or any weakness, will be almost new by using Hop Bitters.

—My wife and daughter were made healthy by the use of Hop Bitters, and I recommend them to my people.
—Methodist Clergymen.

Ask any good doctor if Hop Bitters is not the best family medicine On earth.

—Malaria fever, Ague, and Biliousness will leave every neighborhood as soon as Hop Bitters arrive.

—"My mother drove the paralysis and neuralgia all out of her system with Hop Bitters."—Ed. Oswego Sun.

—Keep the kidneys healthy with Hop Bitters, and you need not fear sickness.

—Ice water is rendered harmless and more refreshing and reviving with Hop Bitters with each draught.

—The vigor of youth for the aged and infirm in Hop Bitters.

—"At the chance of life nothing equals Hop Bitters to allay all troubles incident thereof."

—"The best periodical for ladies to take monthly, and from which they will receive the greatest benefit, is Hop Bitters.

—Mothers with sickly, fretful, nursing children, will cure the children and benefit themselves by taking Hop Bitters daily.

—Thousands die annually from some form of kidney disease that might have been prevented by a timely use of Hop Bitters.

—Indigestion, weak stomach, irregularities of the bowels, cannot exist when Hop Bitters are used.

A timely * * * use of Hop Bitters will keep a whole family in robust health a year at a little cost.

—To produce real genuine sleep and child-like repose all night, take a little Hop Bitters on retiring.

—That indigestion of stomach gas at night, preventing rest and sleep, will disappear by using Hop Bitters.

—Paralytic, nervous, tremulous old ladies are made perfectly quiet and sprightly by using Hop Bitters.

MONARCH HORSE HOE AND CULTIVATOR COMBINED

For Hoeing & Hilling Potatoes, Corn, Onions, Beets, Cabbages, Turnips, &c.
SENT ON 30 Days' TEST TRIAL.

An immense saving of labor and money. We guarantee a boy can cultivate and hoe and hill potatoes, corn, etc., 15 times as easy and fast as one man can the old way. Illustrated Catalogue FREE. AGENTS WANTED. Mention this paper. Address Monarch Mfg. Co., 206 State St., Chicago, Ill.

FOR the 7th edition of "Life and Labors of C. H. Spurgeon," the greatest preacher of the century. By Geo. C. Needham, the Evangelist. Endorsed by all denominations. The best selling Family book ever published. Agents are meeting with wonderful success. No competition. Any man or woman wanting a good business, address, for extra terms and special territory.

25 YEARS IN THE POULTRY YARD

108 Pages. It teaches you how to rear them to take care for them to feed, to have them lay eggs in cold weather, to prevent and treat all diseases of old or young, to be a "successful" poultryman. Only 25c. in stamps. A Fifty-page book FREE FOR ALL with it. A. M. LANG, Cove Dale Farm, Concord, Ky.

HILLMAN, BUFORD &amp; JUSTI,

NASHVILLE,

TENNESSEE,

SOLE AGENTS FOR THE

Genuine Brown Walking Cultivator and Double-Shovel Plow,

Corn Shellers, Feed Cutters, Avery Chilled Plows, Road Scrapers, Fish Bros.
Wagons, Jacobs' Barrows,

IRON, STEEL, BLACKSMITH'S TOOLS, HARDWARE,

Call on or address

HILLMAN, BUFORD &amp; JUSTI, 18 and 20 South Market Street, Nashville, Tenn.

A.C. &amp; J.C. March.

SUCCESSORS TO

J. D MARCH &amp; SONS

Manufacturers and Dealers in

SADDLIES, HARNESS, BRIDLES, COLLARS,

TRUNKS, BAGS, HAMES, VALISES, WHIPS, CHAINS, &amp;c.

50 NORTH MARKET STREET
NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE.

Repairs Done at Short Notice

NASHVILLE, CHATTANOOGA & ST. LOUIS
RAILWAY.BUSINESS MEN, TOURISTS, REMEMBER EMIGRANTS, FAMILIES,The Best Route to St. Louis and the West is via McKennie.The Best Route to West Tennessee and Kentucky, Mississippi, Arkansas, and Texas points is via McKennie.The Best Route to the Summer Resorts and Mountain Retreats of Tennessee, Virginia and the Carolinas, via McKennie and Nashville.The Best Route to the celebrated Colleges, Universities, Seminaries and other Educational Institutions in the Southeast, via McKennie and Nashville.The Best Route to points in East Tennessee, Virginia, the Carolinas, Georgia and Florida is via Chattanooga.

DON'T FORGET IT!

By this line you secure the—

MAXIMUM OF SPEED, SAFETY, COMFORT, SATISFACTION,

AT THE MINIMUM OF EXPENSE, ANXIETY, BOTHER, FATIGUE.

Be sure to Buy your Tickets over the

N., C &amp; ST. L. RAILWAY!

If you are going to Washington City, Baltimore,
Philadelphia, or New York.The Inexperienced Traveler need not go amiss; few changes are necessary, and such as are unavoidable are made in Union Depots.

THROUGH SLEEPERS!

BETWEEN—

Nashville and Atlanta, and Atlanta and Jacksonville,
Fla., Nashville and Martin (to connect with Sleeper service via Cairo to St. Louis and Chicago.)
Nashville and Columbus, Nashville and Memphis
(Sleeper Humboldt to Mobile, and Milan to New Orleans.) McKennie and Little Rock, and Little Rock and Texas points.

Call on or address

J. H. PEEBLES, T. A., Chattanooga, Tenn.
W. W. KNOX, T. A., Nashville, Tenn.
S. S. FINLEY, Ticket Agent, Memphis, Tenn.
A. E. WREN, Trav. A., Atlanta, Ga.
W. L. DANLEY, G. P. & T. A., Nashville, Tenn.

Mars Hill College.

With pleasure we lay before our readers the following extracts from the Fourteenth Annual Announcement of Mars Hill College, an institution perpetually wielding a wonderful and wide-spread influence for truth, refinement and righteousness.—EDITORS.

POSITIONS PROCURED FOR OUR PUPILS.

We make a specialty of preparing pupils for

(1.) PREACHING; (2.) TEACHING; (3.) PREACHING and TEACHING.

Many educated here—among whom are successful lawyers, physicians, merchants, salesmen mechanics, farmers, editors, authors, teachers and preachers—have so demeaned themselves, that the humility, fidelity, integrity, accuracy and ability of "Mars Hill students" have become proverbial. There is, consequently, such a demand for the services of our pupils, that we deem it perfectly safe to promise to procure pleasant, profitable and honorable positions for all who qualify themselves here for usefulness.
Indeed, for several years we have been able to fill comparatively few of the positions tendered.

HEALTHFULNESS!

Mars Hill as a Health Resort.

Our school was founded in 1870. All the "doctor bills," for services rendered our pupils, from then till now, do not, we think, amount to twenty-five dollars—probably not to one dollar a year. Those who have come here pale and puny, from malarial districts, have, without an exception, we believe, returned to their homes enjoying health.

What "Watering Place," or "Health Resort," then, can justly claim more, as a health-
preserver and health-restorer, than Mars Hill? Address,

T. B. LARIMORE, President.

FLORENCE, ALABAMA.

W. A. LANNOM,
The Cash Clothier,

18 PUBLIC SQUARE, NASHVILLE, TENN.,

Has received his large and elegant stock of Spring and Summer clothing, Gents Furnishing Goods and Hats, which is full and complete in every respect; and for quantity, quality, style, fit and price, we stand far ahead of all competition. An inspection of our large stock and low prices, will fully prove what we claim. Bear in mind, we sell strictly for cash, which enables us to offer the greatest inducements.

CAPITOL PLANING MILL,

Corner Line and Vine Streets, near Northwest Corner Capitol Grounds,
NASHVILLE, - - - TENN.

J. W. McCULLOUGH,

Manufacturer and Dealer in

FRAMES, SASH, DOORS, BLINDS,

Scroll Sawing, Dressed Flooring, Weatherboarding and Ceiling.

Country Orders Solicited, and Promptly Attended To.

JUST OUT!

"Our Orthodoxy in the Civil Courts,"

A full proceeding in the Circuit Court in Noble county, Indiana, in the trial of our ortho-doxy. Everybody should read this interesting book. Send at once. Paper, 50c; cloth, $1.00.

JAMES F. &amp; HARRY LIPSCOMB,

98 Union Street,

Nashville, Tennessee.

BOILER REPAIRS.

Thos. S. Simpson, William Chatham,
79 South College St., Nashville, Tenn.,

Are prepared to do all kinds of repairing of Boilers, Tanks, etc., at very reasonable rates. We have had 31 years practical experience in the business, and ask a share of the public patronage. We guarantee good work.

WHEN YOU WANT

WRITING DESKS,
Photograph Albums,
AUTOGRAPH ALBUMS,

GOLD PENS, PENCILS,
PORT-MONNIES,
CARD CASES, Etc.

OR ANYTHING IN THE WAY OF

Staple and Fancy Stationery

Call upon us. We can suit you in

VARIETY, QUALITY, AND PRICE.

A. B. Payne &amp; Co.,

61 UNION STREET.

Orders by Mail receive Prompt Attention.

B. S. RHEA &amp; SON,

PROPRIETORS RHEA'S ELEVATOR,

AND DEALERS IN

Grain, Hay, Flour

AND BURLAP SACKS,

No. 32 South Market Street,

NASHVILLE, - - - TENN.

(Correspondence Solicited.)

C. F. HUDSON.

S. G. STRATTON.

C. F. HUDSON &amp; CO.,

Merchant Tailors &amp; Clothiers,

EAST SIDE PUBLIC SQUARE,

LEBANON, TENN.,

Are now receiving one of the largest, best and cheapest stock of clothing and piece goods, ever offered to the public. We are agents for the Charlottesville, Va., woolen goods, which cannot be surpassed for beauty and durability.

(Call and examine our goods. We will save you money.)

SOME OF THE

THINGS WE BUY TO SELL.

CHINA IN ALL OF ITS GRADES,
GLASSWARE OF EVERY DESCRIPTION,

QUEENSWARE OF ALL KINDS,

Bracket Lamps, Hall Lamps,
Study Lamps, Chandeliers,Knives and Forks, Spoons, Waiters, Tea Trays,Looking-Glasses, Ice Cutting
Machines,Eureka Coffee and Teapots,
Castors,

And a great variety of housekeeping goods
too numerous to mention, all of which we offer at reasonable rates. Call and see us, or send your orders to

HICKS, HOUSTON &amp; CO.,

51 N. College &amp; 54 N. Market Sts.,

NASHVILLE, - - - TENN.

THE GOSPEL ADVOCATE.

VOLUME XXVI. }
NUMBER 18. }

NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE, APRIL 30, 1884.

{ $2.00 YEARLY IN ADVANCE
POSTAGE PREPAID. }

EDITORS:

D. LIPSCOMB,

E. G. SEWELL.

Make me to feel

That in the gay and care forgetting crowd
Thou art as near me as in solitude.
Keep Thou the portals of my lips, lest words
Of levity, or censure undeserved,
Abuse the freedom of my mirthful hours.
Tinge my each word and action with the hue
Of heart-born-courtesy and holy love:
That in the use of every social gift
The happiness of others may be mine,
And every effort which I make to please
May be unmarred by envy or by pride.

BITTERNESS OF ERROR.

Bitterness is exceedingly common among those claiming to be Christians. And it is a notable fact that the most unrelenting bitterness ever manifested has been, and is, on the part of those in error. From the time Cain slew Abel till now this has been true, the world over. The assurance of truth gives confidence that the smiles of the author of all truth will rest upon us, and that in his hands we are safe. But those in error seem to realize that they have to depend upon their own sharpness and chicanery for success. They realize that error cannot stand against truth single-handed, and hence all sorts of bitterness, strategy, and unfairness, are resorted to by its advocates, in order to success. Cain saw at once that he could not compete with his brother Abel while himself was in error and his brother in the right, by any sort of fair means, and therefore he determined to put him out of the way by violence. Thus chagrin, on account of a failure to succeed in error, was the foundation of the first murder ever committed on earth. We see precisely the same principle repeated on the part of Saul against David. David was a man after God's own heart, and God therefore blessed and prospered him; while Saul failed of success from time to time, on account of his repeated rebellions against God. And as he went deeper and deeper into sin, into rebellion against God, and saw more and more of his own rejection, and the success and promotion of David, he became more and more desperate in his opposition to him, until he seemed to be possessed of a sort of mania, or furor, and sought every possible opportunity to take the life of David, and thus get rid of so formidable an enemy. He seemed to think that if he could only get David out of the way, there would then be no opposition to his success in his own way. Thus he pursued David with vengeance, at home and abroad, from country to country, in his mad determination to destroy him. His madness grew into fury, so that an evil spirit, or demon, played upon him until he seemed but a raging maniac. With his armies he pursued David as the hunter pursues his prey with his hounds, hunting him down from country to country, even in caves, and in the darkest and most secure hiding-places in all the country round about. But David, feeling secure in his integrity to truth and justice, and the protection of the God of mercy and truth, made no attempt at violence. Even when Saul would fall into his hands, which he did, he would not injure a hair of his head, but turned him loose to go in peace. The madness, folly, and the spirit of violence and persecution, was all on the part of Saul; while gentleness, kindness, and forbearance, were found on the part of David. And in all this, everybody knows that David was in the right, and that Saul was in the wrong.

This case of Saul and David shows most forcibly the difference between the spirit of truth, and the spirit of error, or wrong. And the miserable death that came upon Saul shows most strikingly the terrible end that error, persisted in, will bring a man to. Saul, in his desperation and determination to succeed in his ways, and in defiance of God, sought even unto witchery, as a last resort, in order to success. Such is the extremity to which men are driven when wedded to error and wrong, rather than yield their error, and return to truth and righteousness. And thus the matter runs to this day.

Those in error will run to all sorts of extremes of madness and folly, rather than yield their errors and embrace the truth. Those in error are never disposed to make a fair test of anything. They close their eyes and ears against all fair investigations, and seek to accomplish their ends by unfairness, abuse, misrepresentation, and such like. Such was the conduct of the Jews against the Son of God while here on earth. When they were compelled to admit that he wrought miracles, they would say, "He casteth out devils by Beelzebub, the prince of the devils." They were determined it should not be understood that he cast demons out by the power of God. At another time when he had wrought a miracle, and they could not deny it, they accused him of violating the Sabbath day. And when he raised Lazarus from the dead under circumstances that rendered it impossible that it was deception or imposition, they at once held a counsel how they might put him to death, and thus by violence get rid of his influence. They saw plainly that they could not oppose and put him down by fair means, and they were determined not to admit the truth of his claim, and hence they used violence instead of argument. And as they saw the world was disposed to run after him, they became more bitter and determined to put him out of the way. For a long time before the hour came for his departure out of this world, his enemies, the Jewish rulers, were using every means in their power to destroy him. This was their one leading resolve. They would not stop for one moment to consider the character of his miracles to see whether they were of God. They were blinded by their own errors and bigotry against every manifestation of truth, and but one thought could find entrance into their minds, and that was, How shall we get rid of him? How shall we stop his career? Error can never be induced to undergo a fair investigation with truth. Error seeks success by unfairness, by misrepresentation of truth, or by persecution and violence when everything else fails.

This principle has been manifested in all its fullness for the last half century, against those seeking to restore the apostolic order of things in the religion of Jesus. Misrepresentation and falsehood have been resorted to by the opposition all along the line. There has never been a time when the opposition has been willing to fairly and truthfully represent those who are pleading for the word of God, and that alone, as the only guide in matters of faith and practice, both in conversion, and the practical work of the church. Nor are they willing now. There is not one preacher out of a thousand among the denominations to-day that is willing to truly represent the teaching of this movement for primitive teaching and practice. They universally misrepresent our teaching on the work of the Holy Spirit, the design of baptism, and upon the whole matter of conversion. They misrepresent and ridicule the whole matter of being governed in all things by the Bible, and that alone. They ridicule most sarcastically the idea of a "thus saith the Lord" for everything. And when ridicule and misrepresentation have failed, locks and keys have been extensively brought into requisition. Times almost without number have our preachers been locked out of houses to which they and the public thought they had some legal right. The writer of this has been thus locked out. There are a half dozen or more meeting houses in just a few counties of Middle Tennessee that have been erected because the preachers of the ancient order of things have been shut out of houses, that they and the community felt that they had some rights and privileges in. While all these things have resulted in good to the cause of truth, and while we are never provoked when thus locked out, they do show, in strong light, the bitterness, and the persecuting spirit of error and sectarianism.

In the suit conducted in Indiana last year, in the trial of "our orthodoxy," this spirit was manifested largely. Both on the part of the counsel, and of the two witnesses examined from the opposition side, there was an obstinate and persistent effort made to misrepresent the teaching and faith of those they were determined to prove heretodox. One of the preachers, a Methodist, was driven to such madness in his determined efforts, that he repudiated several confessions of faith, repudiated John Wesley, and even the apostle Peter, or rather the Holy Spirit through Peter. Nothing escapes when the errors of sectism are at stake. We have heard a number of public discussions between those pleading for the ancient order of things, and modern denominations, and we have never listened to one yet in which the preachers of the denominations were willing to accept the teaching of our brethren and argue against it upon its own merits. They misrepresent it every time, and argue against their own misrepresentations. And in their allusions to our teaching in their sermons, they never represent it as it is. If they were to represent it as we present it from the word of the Lord, the contest would soon be at an end.

And the opposition of these of our own brethren that have switched off on side tracks, and are advocating human plans and schemes for spreading the gospel, are no less bitter against those that oppose these human plans, and urge instead thereof the word of the Lord as the only rule of action. We see more or less of this bitterness almost weekly, in the papers run in the interest of these human schemes and plans. And they manifest the same inclination to misrepresent that denominational partisans do. Those who hold on to the Bible rule of things are abused, denounced, and unfairly dealt with in every shape and form. Because some editors and some preachers oppose all human plans and societies for spreading the gospel, they are accused of being opposed to the spread of the gospel in any way, and so represented in the arguments made against them. And they are just as persistent in these accusations, and as stubbornly refuse to be corrected as sectarianism in any form. They are as proscriptive and as bitter as any religious errorists in the land. If they are conscientious in their convictions, they ought by all means to be honest in their presentations of the teaching of others. Honesty will always seek to understand the position of those they oppose, and will take pains to represent them just as they are. And as to the bitter, persecuting spirit of Roman Catholicism, every body that has paid any attention to their history knows what they have been, and what would be now if they had the power. The millions that have lost their lives through the bitter persecuting spirit of Rome are testimony enough on the point. Hence intolerance, bitterness and persecution have always been, and are now, the manifestations of those in error. Those who follow God's truth, rely upon the truth, and cultivate the spirit of truth in their hearts, are always actuated by love, and not by hatred. And while they may oppose error in strong and uncompromising terms, as have the lovers of the truth in all ages, it is not with a bitter and persecuting spirit. There is nothing proscriptive in the spirit of truth. Everything should be tried upon its own merits. And any man that holds anything in faith or practice that is not plainly taught in the word of God would be immensely benefitted to get rid of it. Truth should be the ardent and honest desire of every human being. Christians should be careful at all times not to allow their prejudices and prepossessions to so wed them to error that they cannot give it up.

Let many are constantly doing this, and obstinately closing their eyes and ears against the truth because it is contrary to what they first learned, or contrary to their preferences. It was the working of these principles that blinded the Jewish people to the miracles and teachings of Christ and the apostles, and involved them in ruin, both for time and eternity. We should profit by these examples, and not allow ourselves to be thus blindly led into ruin. All bitterness and violence of every description is forbidden in the Christian Scriptures, and all who would be wise must take heed.

E. G. S.

DIVORCE AND ADULTERY.

A brother from Texas wrote us, protesting that our position on the question of divorce and marriage is unscriptural, and claiming that all marriage while an ex-husband or wife is living, is adultery. He quoted the passages of Scripture where the putting away of a wife or husband, and marrying again, is called adultery, without any exceptions. And maintained that there are no exceptions; but that all who are once married, no matter what the ground of separation, can marry no more while the partner to the marriage lives. He stated that he knew many couples now living together, who have other wives and husbands living, and all in the church. We are aware that easy divorce obtains to a greater extent in Texas than in any other Southern State. We marked his article for publication, and wrote the following response. Thought we gave both to the printer, but he is not able to find the article. We have waited, hoping it would be found. If he dissents from this, we hope he will write again, and we will try to be more careful of his manuscript. We wish the teaching of the Scriptures understood, and to teach just what is there taught.

We certainly desire to see the churches of Christ just as strict as the son of God was. He found loose marriage and easy divorce common among the Jews. He restored the divine order, and said,

"In the beginning God made them male and female; for this cause (because God made them male and female) shall a husband leave his father and his mother, and shall cleave unto his wife, and they twain shall be one flesh; wherefore they are no more twain, but one flesh. What, therefore, God hath joined together, let not man put asunder. Then they said unto him, Why did Moses then command to give a writing of divorcement, and to put her away? He saith unto them, Moses, because of the hardness of your hearts, allowed you to do this, but from the beginning it was not so. And I say unto you, Whosoever shall put away his wife, except it be for fornication, and marry another, committeth adultery; and whoso marrieth her that is put away, doth commit adultery."

That is the most complete statement in the Testament on the doctrine of divorce. Conditions, exceptions, requirements, laid down in one statement, are to be accepted as implied in all others. So a permission of marriage given in one case is implied in all others. Does this Scripture allow the person divorced for adultery on the part of his or her companion in the marriage relation, to marry again? I think it does. "Whosoever shall put away his wife, except for fornication, and marry another, committeth adultery." This seems to me to be telling what is adultery. A man commits adultery when he puts away his wife and marries another for any cause save adultery. To put her away for other causes would not be adultery on his part. But to put her away and marry another, for any cause save adultery, is to commit adultery. Then the adultery consists in marrying another while unloosed from a former marriage. But if this be the true meaning, certainly to marry with the one cause, which does loose, would not be adultery.

Or, to state it differently, clearly, the adultery consists in marrying or cohabiting with another, while bound as one flesh to a living husband or wife. But for one to commit adultery destroys that oneness, releases the other, and, I believe, makes it a sin for the other to continue to live with the adulterous one. Paul (1 Cor. vi: 16) says: "What know ye not that he that is joined to a harlot is one body? for two, saith he, shall be one flesh." That is, a man guilty of adultery is one with the harlot. But his wife is one with him. If he is one with the harlot, and she one with him, for her to continue to live with him makes her one with the harlot. This is sin. Paul also (Rom. 7) recognizes that a wife is prohibited the right of marriage only so long as she is bound by the law to her husband. If her husband violates the marriage relation by adultery, she is freed from him; but when she is freed from him, "she is no adulteress, though she be married to another."

Again, in Matt. v: 32: "But I say unto you, that whosoever shall put away his wife, saving for the cause of fornication, causeth her to commit adultery." Here the Savior says whoever puts his wife away, save for fornication, causeth her to commit adultery. How does this cause her to commit adultery? Certainly, if she lives a life of continence and virtue, when put away by her husband, she does not commit adultery. This must mean that the Savior recognizes that some women, as well as some men, cannot live a life of virtue without marriage. Paul, in recognition of the same truth, said, (1 Cor. vii: 2,) "To avoid fornication, let every man have his own wife, and every woman her own husband." (1 Cor. vii: 8,) "I say then to the unmarried and widows, it is good for them that they abide even as I. But if they cannot contain, let them marry. It is better to marry than to burn," (with lust). This plainly recognizes that some cannot lead lives of virtue without marriage. Self-abuse—the uncleanness of Scripture, is as sinful as adultery. Then the construction that one cannot marry when separated from a companion for adultery, would force all that class recognized by the Savior and Paul, and commanded to marry, as their only safety, to adultery or uncleanness. The Scriptures do not do this.

We have as little sympathy with the loose marriage and easy divorce as any one can have. We think the growing custom of marrying, and on light grounds, or any grounds, save adultery, breaking the marriage, seeking divorce and marrying again, is all adultery and whoredom in the sight of God. And no one ought for a moment to be tolerated in the church of Christ, who has left another for any cause save adultery, and married again. But we dare not bind what God has loosed, any more than we dare to loose what he has bound. So we have as much, and we believe more, sympathy and respect for Mormon polygamy, than for that practiced under the sanction of many protestant churches, and so common in the North and the Southwest, and alas! growing too common in the South.

But just what God teaches is best, and that I seek to learn and teach on this, as on all other questions, concerning which he has spoken. Believing he tolerates marriage on the part of one, absolved from the marriage covenant by the infidelity of the other, we so teach. And we know—it is his teaching, it is best for all for God directs all things wisely. When a man is living with a woman, contrary to the word of God, the only thing that he can do and remain a Christian is to repent of his sin, and to cease to live with her. The church ought to require it as rigidly as God did the Jews to put away their unlawful wives in the days of Ezra. D. L.

"THE DISCIPLES CAME TOGETHER TO BREAK BREAD."

The above expresses what the disciples came together on the first day of the week in apostolic times for. But who can say this is what brings the masses of them together now, where regular preaching is demanded? Most churches in these days that are able to employ regular preaching, especially in the towns and cities, do so. And the preacher must be one that entertains well, at that, or they are not satisfied with him. Then let it be announced at any one of these churches that there will be no preaching for a month, but that the members will meet to break bread. At the end of this month, if it is not found that a good many of the members did not come together to break bread during the absence of the preacher, then we will acknowledge that we are mistaken. But we are certain it will be found that a good many go to hear preaching, and that when they know there will be no preaching, they go elsewhere, or stay at home. And yet there is not one example in the New Testament where Christians assembled on the first day of the week to hear preaching. And it is certain that when Christians meet to break bread, and thus remember the Savior's death, they are edified and strengthened thereby. But it is not at all certain that they will be edified by going to hear a sermon. There are many sermons these days that have nothing in them that is calculated to edify. It is much better for Christians to study the scriptural design of the first day meetings, and to strive to carry it out in the full spirit of it, and then they are sure to be edified and strengthened thereby. Then if they can have good preaching, all is well. But merely going to hear preaching on the Lord's day is not what God requires.

E. G. S.

LIVING EPISTLES.—No. 2.

"Wont breakfast ever be ready? I have been waiting an hour," yelled Mr. Impatient to her who bore his name, (though, I am glad to say, not his character,) one warm July morning, writing the words in letters of fire on the tired brain of the equally tired woman who went busily to and fro, trying to help and hurry a slow cook get the meal in time. Inwardly she had been thinking: "I don't believe he will be impatient this time, he is so engrossed with his new horse—a beauty," she added aloud, as the graceful, bounding creature brought her master from the dewy meadow to the door of the sultry kitchen. The frown of impatience gave way to a calmer expression when he beheld the great drops of perspiration (and wasn't it something else, too?) streaming down her face. It flashed across his mind how often he saw her in that role, and with a twinge of remorse, he explained, "I thought this horse was so cheap I would buy him, as I might not have another such opportunity, but I will get you a gentle one to drive just as soon as I am able." Oh! how she longed for one now, a little variation from the dull, wearisome monotony of home-life would, she felt, be a tonic to her. Did the flowers bloom as brightly, the birds sing as sweetly, the waters ripple o'er their pebbly beds with the same limpid freshness they did only eight years ago? her feverish mind asked. But she must hurry, or another impetus would be given.

I wonder why John doesn't kiss me as he used to when he left, and not only then, but many times during the day? Can it be I was ever his "flower," his "darling," his "pet?" A happy light almost struggling through the cloud of gloom on her face at the very memory of it. May be—I know I am not as pretty or fresh as I was then; perhaps I am to blame now, I have so much more to do I haven't time or care to be as neat as I was then,—yes I know it is partly my fault, she soliloquized, willing to be all to blame if only the brightness of love's skies be around her once more. So she kept unusually busy to get through with her daily duties earlier than usual, and don a fresh, simple dress, for other she had none. The expectant light in her eyes died out, for just as she had fastened a musk-cluster rose at her throat to relieve the plainness, and recall, if possible, the "old days," she glanced through the window to see a gentleman with her husband. He dashed around to the rear of the house, calling to her, as her timid face was raised to his: "Ellen, I won't be back before nine o'clock, you needn't wait supper; I met up with Clay who wants me to go down the road apiece with him," noting at the same time (for no man disregards tidy, tasteful attire in a woman) her improved appearance; but, without a comment, rode hurriedly away. Do you blame her that she is too weak to prevent the something from raining down her cheeks again? I fear such a constant "wash of the waves" will at last wear away the patient life; but it is a consolation to know that the loving, longing heart will then be hushed into everlasting peace, in a world "where the wicked cease from troubling and the weary are at rest."

I am glad there is something brighter in our next chapter, else the girls may think married life a barren waste, unenlivened by the sweet music of love and unwatered by the gentle tear of sympathy. I rejoice to know there are letters of conjugal affection being written every day all over our broad land, and I have the exquisite pleasure of reading some of them. What is more beautiful than this? "Darling, you grow dearer to me as the years go by—ininitely more precious is my little wife than my girl sweetheart, and to-day I am a happier man than on my wedding morn;" not only saying, but proving the tender words. While I believe the old adage, "Actions speak louder than words," still who doubts, or is insensible to the magic of a loving word? They are like the fragrance of the rose, or the musical laughter of the water. Who could not bear pain more cheerfully with heart-felt words of endearment and sympathy falling on the heart, the proof of their genuineness, tears streaming thick and fast? Who would be released from the holy bonds of wifehood, to enter again upon the freedom of girlhood, when her husband is a lover still? As readily think one would dispense with a strong, tender, loving, thoughtful guide through a wilderness beset with all manner of wild beasts! But some will say these are fanciful visions of the brain. Not those who have experienced the bliss of a happy, holy, wedded life. While it is impossible to be entirely free from fault in this human world, it is the rich privilege, nay duty, of all God's married children to live lives of such blessedness on earth that they are akin to that above; for "a happy home is but an earlier heaven," and true love.

"A humble low-born thing,
And hath its food served up in earthen ware;
It is a thing to walk with, hand in hand,
Through the every-dayness of this work-day world,
Baring its tender feet to every roughness,
Yet letting not one heart-beat go astray
From beauty's law of plainness and content;
A simple, fire-side thing, whose quiet smile
Can warm earth's poorest hovel to a home;
Which, when our autumn cometh, as it must,
And life in the chill wind shivers bare and leafless,
Shall still be blest with Indian-summer youth.
In bleak November, and with thankful heart,
Smile on its ample stores of garnered fruit;
As full of sunshine to our aged eyes,
As when it nursed the blossoms of our spring.

* * * * *
A love that gives and takes, that seeth faults,
Not with flaw, seeking eyes like needle points,
But loving kindly, ever looks them down,
With the overcoming faith of meek forgiveness."

I wish I had space to quote the whole of Lowell's exquisite poem on "True Love." But more do I wish, that in more homes its beautiful truths would be put into daily practice. Nevertheless let those who have not poetic fancy remember that "a poetic heart is better than poetic fame," and to all come the sublimely true and heaven-sent words: "Let every one of you in particular so love his wife even as himself, and the wife see that she reverence her husband." Husbands and wives, are our lives blooming out into grace and beauty under the warm beams of this high appeal, or are they dwarfed and withered by the fires of sin? L. B. H.

A SHORT SERMON.

Text: "In Jesus Christ neither circumcision availeth anything, nor uncircumcision; but faith which worketh by love." (Gal. i: 6).

Brethren, sisters and friends of the ADVOCATE, though a stranger in the flesh to the greater number of you, separated by many miles, I am happy to have this opportunity of addressing so large an audience.

In the language cited, the apostle spake to and of, those in Jesus Christ. In this relation the promises of God are yea and amen (2 Cor. i: 20). And to such a class circumcision, whatever Jewish efficacy it may have in other respects, is not that which availeth anything with respect to our having an interest in, and union with Christ. But, as we have the faith to keep, a course to finish, and salvation to obtain, it behooves us to know what does avail. The apostle answers, "Faith which worketh by love." This subject divides itself as follows: (1) Faith; (2) Faith which worketh; (3) Faith which worketh by love.

FAITH.

"Faith is confidence (substance) of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen." (Heb. xi: 1) Faith has for its object all the declarations of God concerning unseen things. These declarations, when believed, give a present substance to the things hoped for. Faith is not opinion, neither is it knowledge. Mistaking faith for knowledge many ask; "How do I know there is a God?" I answer, we are not required to know this. "He that cometh unto God must believe that he is," etc.—not know it.

Again, it is common to say we believe this and that, though there is no testimony whatever. In such cases we mistake opinion for faith. For instance, one says, I believe sprinkling is baptism; another, I believe the Sunday school is the nursery of the church, etc. Now, these are opinions, for the reason there is no testimony upon either subject.

As to source and necessity of faith, I submit, "Faith comes by hearing the word of God." ("Rom. x: 17): and "without faith it is impossible to please God."

FAITH WHICH WORKETH.

It is not "Faith only" which availeth; but faith which worketh—faith put into action. "Wilt thou know, O vain man, that faith without works is dead?" "What doth it profit, my brethren, though a man say he hath faith, and have not works. Can faith save him?" (James ii: 14-20.) No; "for the body without the spirit is dead, so faith without works is dead also." (James ii: 26.) Hence, it is faith which works that makes the energetic Christian, the congregation wide awake and causes our light to shine.

FAITH WHICH WORKETH BY LOVE.

"He that loveth his brother abideth in the light, and there is no occasion of stumbling in him." A tadpole, it is said, kept in the dark will never be a frog—always be a tadpole. If we grow and develop until we are like Christ and see him as he is, we must possess the love above suggested by the apostle, that we may abide in the light. "If a man say, I love God, and hateth his brother, he is a liar." "Every one that loveth him that begat loveth him also that is begotten of him." (1 John iv: 2; 5: 1.)—Therefore, this love is indispensable. It must form a part of our character. It must actuate our works of righteousness. That we are justified, day by day, by faith which works by love, is a wholesome doctrine and very full of comfort. Such a course identifies the religion which is pure and undefiled, and recommends it to those around us; and it ever omits the innovations and practices of the ungodly, which gender strife and divisions, approving only the things wherewith one may edify another. It magnifies before the people the love of God, the infallibility of his word and the divine splendor of our King in his priestly reign. Let us, therefore, cultivate a love to God and his people, and let it be unto us all that was intended with reference to our faith and works; and while, as the apostle says, nothing created can separate us from the love of God, let us ever bear in mind that we may separate ourselves. Let us profit by apostolic rebukes, take courage by the great and precious promises of the Father and hope unto the end. Let us adopt the graces which are available in Christ, look to the good just before us, suffer with Christ, and finally be glorified together. J. C. HOLLOWAY.

Portland, Maine.

CORRESPONDENCE.

I preached last Lord's day at Bethlehem, the oldest church in this county. The house in which they worship now, stands about two miles from the old house in which old Bros. Jones and Trott have preached. The house is standing yet. I have been told that Bro. B. W. Stone has held meetings in the house, before he abandoned the use of the mourner's bench and straw. The congregation has taken on new life under the preaching of Bro. Harsh, and they seem to be doing very well now; still there is room for improvement, I think. Like many of our congregations, they lack cheerfulness. "Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might." When we meet to worship the Lord, we should sit close to the Lord's table, close together, and sing cheerfully, making melody in our hearts to the Lord. We should read, exhort, pray, and do all that we do with cheerfulness and earnestness. Brethren, don't kill the interest of your Lord's day meetings by dragging along in everything you do. Don't stay out of the house till the preacher and two or three old sisters begin to sing, "Am I a soldier of the cross?" Go right in when the time comes. I preached in the evening at Commerce. We have but few brethren, and much opposition. Bethlehem sent Bro. Harsh there last fall and he baptized about a dozen. There can be good done there, but it will take time. I learn Bro. Elam had one confession at Lebanon last Lord's day. F. B. SRYGLEY.

Lebanon, Tenn.

A heart in rejoicing in God, delights in all His will, and is surely provided with the most joy in all estates; for if nothing can come to pass besides or against His will, then cannot the soul be vexed which delights in Him and hath no will but His, but follows Him in all times, in all estates, not only when He shines bright on them, but when they are clouded. That flower which follows the sun doth so even in the dark and cloudy days: when it doth not shine forth, yet it follows the hidden course and motion of it. So the soul that moves after God keeps that course when He hides His Face; is content, yea, even glad at his will in all estates, conditions, or events.—Archbishop Leighton.

TEXAS WORK AND WORKERS.

CONDUCTED BY JOHN T. POE, LONGVIEW, TEXAS,
TO WHOM ALL CORRESPONDENCE RELATING TO
THIS DEPARTMENT MUST BE ADDRESSED.

Dear Bro. Poe: In the last issue of the GOSPEL ADVOCATE, April 2, 1884, page 212, you say, "The idea that one church is just as good as another is erroneous, deceptive, and ruinous. No church is right save the church of Christ. That alone can be right," and I agree with you heartily, but does not that lead us to further say, "If one church alone is right, all others are wrong, erroneous, deceptive, and false? And there is salvation only in one, and in no other? And there are Christians only in one, and in no other?"

It seems to me if there are, or can be Christians in any other church than the church of the living God, there can be Christians in all the other churches; and if there are Christians in other churches, there is salvation in other churches; and if there is salvation in any other church, there is salvation in all of them. And since the idea that one church is as good as another is not erroneous. (a) It leads me to ask, Who is a Christian? A Christian is a person who has heard the gospel preached, ("Faith comes by hearing,") who believes the truth as written by the apostles, and who obeys that form of doctrine once delivered unto the saints; and who leads a godly life according to the Scriptures. Now the question arises, Is ignorance an excuse for disobedience? The Bible teaches there is no excuse for disobedience. Then, will obedience to a part of the truth satisfy the immutable God? (b) If not, then there is no salvation in any other church than the church of the living God. For no other church under heaven teaches the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, except this one. If it takes obedience to the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, to make a Christian, you are bound to admit there are no Christians outside the church of the living God. Then there is no salvation in any other. All other churches, of whatsoever name under heaven, are erroneous, deceptive, ruinous, wrong and false. Assertion and assumption may deceive many, but truth fears nothing but concealment. Truth is mighty and will prevail. There are many errors which have been creeping into the church of the living God, which are about to create confusion in many places. Re-baptizing is one of them. Such a word should not find a place in the Christian's vocabulary. The gospel must be preached, and suppose a person presents himself for obedience; (say for instance he comes from the Baptists,) wishes to unite with us on the Bible alone. If the gospel was preached in his hearing, and he wants to unite with us, he cannot do so unless he is baptized into Christ. If he says he was immersed years ago, and is satisfied with it, and thinks it was baptism, it is not right to compromise one word of truth for his think so's, but best to go and baptize him. He may have been immersed or dipped, yet no one can be baptized except for the remission of sins, and into the name of Christ. And if baptism into the name of Christ for the remission of sins had never been preached to him before, how could he have been baptized? He was only dipped or immersed, and by that means got into the Baptist church; and if Christians accept such a person as a Christian, they know not what they do. Upon the same principle would an immersed Methodist have the same right to be accepted as a Christian, by the Christian church. If not, why not? (c) To admit one error makes it necessary to admit two or more to get out of it, or into it deeper. What is the difference in the error of uniting with immersed Methodists, and with immersed Baptists? Both have a part of the truth, but neither of them have heard it all. If not, what is the difference? God is no respecter of persons, neither should his servants be respecters of persons.

Methodists are teaching some truth which Baptists deny, and vice versa. Presbyterians are teaching some truth which Lutherans deny. Episcopalians are teaching some truth which Catholics deny. None of them teach baptism for the remission of sins now as Peter preached it on the day of Pentecost. Catholics preached it for years after, but the exact date Catholics began teaching opinions and dogmas, instead of the word of God, may be seen by consulting some church history. The moment they began preaching opinions, and teaching that dipping was the same as baptism into Christ, that moment they lost the key to the kingdom of heaven. The Baptists had the key for awhile. The moment they began teaching opinions, and preaching that baptism was not essential to salvation, that moment they too lost the key to the kingdom of heaven. And 'twill be the same way with Christians, if they do not take warning by the misfortune of others. By holding fast to that form of doctrine once delivered to the saints, and by keeping themselves unspotted from the world, and by leading a godly life, is the Bible plan of salvation to every creature. But by receiving and affiliating with those who entertain and believe and practice errors, is the first departure from the truth. Acknowledging that their errors are unimportant, shows that our love of truth is growing weaker and weaker, instead of stronger, till we recognize that those who obey not the truth, are as good as those who do, and then we practice the same errors they preach; and finally we learn to lay aside the word of God, as a dead letter, as they do, and we receive commandments from men, and practice them, and thereby lose the key to the kingdom of heaven.

God bless you, Bro. Poe, for the love which you have for the Master's cause. You are unknown to me personally, but I love you for what you have always maintained in your writings, viz., the truth. Truth is mighty, and will prevail. Could write more, but I dislike to infringe upon your valuable space. If you see proper, you will please publish this in the GOSPEL ADVOCATE for the benefit of all concerned.

THOS. H. GILLESPIE.

Alleyton, Texas, April 6, 1884.

We think Bro. G's argument fallacious. A Jew was a Jew in Babylon, as much as in Jerusalem. So there are some Christians, not in any of the churches known as church of Christ. If we limit the church of Christ—all its members—to those only, who belong to any local congregation of disciples, then he is right. But we can do this? A Christian is one who has believed, and been immersed, no matter where this was done. Jesus said, "He that believeth and is immersed, shall be saved." Mark xvi: 16. See also Gal. iii: 27. Is a man not a Christian until he takes membership with a local congregation? If not, then why could he not obey—become a Christian, and then, for want of proper information, go into captivity—voluntary—among some of the sects, and still be a Christian, though not as good, nor happy as he might be in the congregation of disciples who dwell "as it were" at Jerusalem. A Jew was a Jew in Babylon, but he could not worship God as acceptably there as at Jerusalem. Hence he was a better Jew, restored to Jerusalem. The kingdom of Jesus is spiritual.

Church at Troupe is prospering, and most of its members still zealous in the good work. We preach there every second Lord's day. Passing brethren, who bear letters from their home congregations are requested to stop and preach for them. Bro. Powell is making an efficient teaching elder, and we hope that he and Bro. R. G. Scott may both make good preachers. We missed sister Howell from the worship, as she was away attending her sick mother. Bro. Howell was with us, acknowledged he had not been as zealous as he should, and promised to try and help keep the ordinances of the Lord's house. Several of this little band have been promptly withdrawn from, although it is not yet a year since first set in order. Whisky has been the principle cause. Oh! the curse of strong drink, how many souls it damns annually.

Church at Longview had three accessions first Lord's day in April.

A number of brethren have written endorsing the proposition for the churches to send messengers to Bryan. Let our meeting be a co-operation of churches. It will sacrifice nothing and will bring about harmony. What do you say, brethren? Will you ask your churches to appoint messengers?—McPherson in Old Path Guide.

Has brother McPherson forgotten that we pressed the last State Meeting to an issue on this very point, and that our good old Bro. Moore, of Waco, promptly left his place as chairman, and made us a noble, manly, and Christian talk on this very point. He took the position (as we knew he must) that the churches could not delegate any such messengers, and that such an action would result in evil. It was then decided that it must still be an informal meeting of the brethren, who might choose to attend. Suppose we carry out brother McPherson's proposition, "endorsed by many good brethren," what would it lead to?

1. Messengers must have delegated powers to act for the churches, and must go instructed relative to what the churches wish done.

2. Each messenger or delegate must bear his credentials with him, showing his church has deputed to him certain powers, to act for her.

3. These letters or credentials must be received, recorded, and the messenger allowed to participate accordingly.

4. The authorized messengers alone would then have power to act. Now, what of those who came without instructions, and without credentials? Of course they must take a back seat.

Again, what power or authority is going to decide on credentials, and who constitutes that power? Who will say what messengers or delegates shall act, and who not? Has Bro. McPherson got his judge or jury ready? We should be cautious here. These State meetings are exceedingly dangerous, because, if not carefully watched, they may lead to things, none of us now, care to countenance. The body suggested, would differ very little from the Baptist convention, the Methodist conference, or the Presbyterian Synod. Let us travel towards Jerusalem. Thou man of God flee these things. No, Bro. McPherson, our churches cannot send messengers to Bryan in any such capacity as you wish. Nor would it "bring about harmony," but it would shake and disrupt the church to its foundation. Therefore we cannot ask our churches to appoint.

We think Bro. McPherson has given the subject but little thought; if he had investigated the matter, he would have seen the danger ahead. To the churches, we say, Don't appoint a single messenger to the State meeting at Bryan, and thus help to fasten upon the churches, burdens, which neither we nor our fathers were able to bear. Let all who go, go on their own account, then, if evil comes of it, it will be an individual responsibility. "To your tents oh! Israel."

We learn by private letter, that the church at Huntsville, is having quite a revival. Several have been baptized, and several others reclaimed.

Dear Bro. Poe: Have had thirty additions since the first of January. Am much pleased with your department. Like wine, it grows better the older it gets.—[D. A. Leak.]

SHAKING HANDS.

Some churches in the North have a committee for shaking hands with visitors. The idea is not a bad one. An improvement on it can be made when the church is resolved into a committee of the whole and each member makes it his or her duty to say a kind word to every visitor who enters the sanctuary.

Rates of Advertising in Gospel Advocate.

One inch, one insertion.....	$ 60
One inch, one month.....	2 00
One inch, three months.....	5 00
One inch, six months.....	7 50
One inch, twelve months.....	12 50

A discount of 10 per cent. on these rates for order of $25.00; 20 per cent. for order of $50.00; 30 per cent. for order of $100.00.

A Few Troubles.

In trying to follow the apostolic example in church service, such as breaking bread, singing, studying the Scriptures, contributing, etc., some congregations meet with a few little troubles.

I beg leave to mention them and offer a suggestion or two in hope of doing good and in the spirit of brotherly love.

Some congregations come together with no previous preparation. The sisters enter the house and amuse themselves in promiscuous talking until services begin. The brethren sit around the doors, talking over the crops, the weather and general news of the day till nearly noon perhaps. Finally at the suggestion of some one, they enter the house to begin worship. Elder A says to elder B, will you conduct the services? "No" says B "it is your time." Next C is solicited and finally consents. He has no idea what he will read, or what he will say, but after some minutes search he selects one of the longest and most inappropriate chapters. He thinks the excellency of his speech depends upon its length and that he shall be heard for his much speaking. The tired congregation feels relieved when dismissed. Next Lord's day the same routine is kept up, and thus week after week the patient and faithful few must hear the same speech.

Members as far as possible should be prompt in attendance. Services should begin at the appointed hour which should be before noon. The leaders in music should have their songs previously selected and members should be in the house to help sing. The song is not to call them together. It is a part of the worship. The brother who conducts the meeting should know it is his time and be prepared. Feed the flock over which the Holy Spirit has made you overseers, says Paul to the elders. Feed them on the sincere milk of the word and then on stronger food. This can't be done without previous sought, meditation and study over the word. "Apt to teach" is a qualification not attained without effort and preparation. God makes it obligatory upon the elders in congregations to thus prepare themselves. Exhortations should be scriptural, suitable to the occasion, to the point, full of earnestness and brotherly love and brief. I emphasize brief. Twenty minutes is better than sixty. It is better sometimes for two or three brethren to talk five or ten minutes each than one fill all the time. Let one young brother simply read a psalm, another some other verses. Take a subject for investigations, patience for instance, and let various brethren simply read a passage on the subject. Let them know a week before hand they will be called on. Let the prayers be likewise short and be offered from the heart to God.

Another trouble, some people do not like to hear old Bro. A because he doesn't pronounce all his words correctly, or makes a mistake in grammar sometimes. God doesn't say Bro. A must be apt to teach grammar or rhetoric, yet he should speak as correctly as possible. Listen to his good and fatherly advice, gather up his scriptural ideas and receive with meekness his Bible exhortations and you will be benefited. A good elder of my acquaintance exhorts his brethren briefly on the practical subject of Christianity, such as speaking the truth, paying debts and keeping out of debt, visiting the sick and keeping unspotted from the world. In this congregation sometimes a younger brother will read. The attendance is good and the interest alive. They only have preaching once a month.

Sometimes a brother not of good report toward them that are without is put up to conduct the services. In this way harm and not good is sometimes done. We are not often persuaded to do better by those who do not live right. The seven appointed by the apostles to wait on the Grecian widows at Jerusalem were men of honest report, full of the Holy Spirit and wisdom. Paul said let the deacons first be proved. We learn from this that in putting men up publicly their character should be regarded. When a brother of honest report, full of the spirit and wisdom, whose Christian character cannot be reproached, gets up to talk, all having confidence in him, are willing to be taught by him. "Thou that preaches a man should not steal, dost thou steal?"

All the members should study the Bible together on Lord's day. Not only should children, but parents should go and carry the children. They should not leave them behind as some leave them. But frequently the class is kept too long on some impractical subject. Two brethren will consume all the time in disputing about a speculative matter about which there is nothing practical should both be right. All are wearied and no information is gained. The hour is sometimes taken up in arguing over one verse. Let the chapter or portion of Scripture be well studied by all. Let the teacher consider the highest good of all present and aim first at the most practical points in the lessons. "Let all things be done unto edifying."

Some brethren dislike to talk and pray in public because they can't use as beautiful language as some. Never mind the beautiful language, that is only the garment. Get the heart full of gratitude, thankfulness and praise, realize your real and temporal and spiritual wants and your entire dependence upon God and tell him about them.

In charity and in the hope of not appearing presumptuous, I submit to these few suggestions.

Lebanon Tenn. E. A. ELAM.

"It is the misfortune of the South," says the New York Tribune "that its plain people have very little voice in its political action." This is worse than slanderous. There are no plain people in the south. It is possible that we are a little fierce, but, thank heaven, we are all good-looking.—Atlanta Constitution.

You carry a concealed weapon for self-defence. Against whom? Against the man with whom you are ready to pick a quarrel? There is an assassin-like element in such a procedure.—Christian Advocate.

Occasions of adversity do not make a man frail, but they show what he is.

AMERICAN NATIONAL BANK.

CASH CAPITAL,

$1,000,000.

Board of Directors.

E. W. Cole,
John G. Houston,
J. F. Demoville,
John Orr,
Byrd Douglass, Jr.,

John M. Lea,
J. Kirkman,
Rev. Dr. R. A. Young,
V. L. Kirkman,
E. L. Weakley,

A. W. Harris,
M. Burns,
T. A. Atchison,
W. G. Bush,
W. H. Jackson,

John Woodard,
J. A. Pigue,
C. E. Hillman,
W. W. Berry,
Wm. Porter,
Edgar Jones.

This Bank has united with it the THIRD NATIONAL BANK of this city, and has increased its Capital Stock to $1,000,000. With increased facilities in every particular, it can confidently assert that it will offer superior advantages in all departments of Banking to its patrons and friends.

JOHN KIRKMAN, President,
A. W. HARRIS, Cashier.
E. W. COLE, Chairman Executive Committee.

EDGAR JONES, Vice-President,
JOHN M. LEA, Vice-President.

GOSPEL ADVOCATE

PRINTING AND PUBLISHING COMPANY,

JAMES F. &amp; HARRY LIPSCOMB, Managers,

98 Union Street,

Nashville, Tenn.

Letter Heads, Note Heads, Bill Heads, Statement Heads, Circulars, Catalogues, By-Laws, Bills Lading, Receipts, Coal Tickets, Milk Tickets, Tags, Business Cards, Visiting Cards, Horse Bills, Etc.

Good work at reasonable rates. Send for prices. Give us your orders and be pleased.

WE RESPECTFULLY CALL YOUR ATTENTION TO THE FOLLOWING EXCELLENT BOOKS KEPT BY US:

Popular Hymns, word edition.....	single copy 15 cts; per dozen, by express, $1 50; by mail, $1 70
Popular Hymns, Note edition, (Boards).....	single copy 30 cts; per dozen, by express, 3 00; by mail, 3 60
Popular Hymns, Note, (with rudiments).....	single copy 40 cts; per dozen, by express, 4 20; by mail, 4 80
Popular Hymns, Note edition, (cloth).....	single copy 4 1/2 cts; per dozen, by express, 4 00; by mail, 4 00
New Life (character notes).....	single copy 5 cts; per dozen, by express, 5 00; by mail, 4 00
Songs of Glory, numbers 1 and 2.....	single copy 35 cts; per dozen, by express, 3 00; by mail, 2 00
Life of Raccoon John Smith, (very readable,) postpaid.....	1 00
Voice of Seven Thunders, (interesting, entertaining, and instructive,) postpaid.....	2 00
Gospel Plan of salvation, by T. W. Brenta, postpaid.....	2 00
Gospel Preacher, volumes 1 and 2, by Ben Franklin, each, postpaid.....	2 00
Campbell and Owen Debate, splendid book for lawyers, postpaid.....	1 75
Dictionary of Bible, (complete,) by Dr. Smith, postpaid.....	4 50, smaller 3 00
House-keeping in the Blue Grass, (splendid,) postpaid.....	1 50
First Principles, by Isaac Errett, postpaid.....	15
References to the Lord, by David Lipscomb, postpaid.....	10
Christian Experience, by Ben Franklin, postpaid.....	10
Review of Dr. T. O. Summers' Tract, by Isaac Errett, postpaid.....	10
Union Movement, by Ben Franklin, postpaid.....	10
Brown's Pocket Concordance to Bible, postpaid.....	50
Cruden's New Concordance (complete) postpaid.....	1 50
Bibles, Testaments, in all styles and bindings, at low rates.

We will furnish any book published in United States at retail price. WE SOLICIT YOUR orders. We pay postage only. All kinds of Job Printing.

S. B. HOGAN.

J. S. HOPKINS.

HOGAN &amp; HOPKINS,

Dealers in Custom-Made

BOOTS &amp; SHOES,

We sell the very best makes of Boots and Shoes, and endeavor to make the prices so that no one can possibly sell cheaper than we do.

20 Public Square,

Nashville, Tennessee.

SALESMEN.—Sam. R. Hopkins, L. D. Simmons, William Mayes.

TO MAKE ROOM

For our Plow business, we offer bargains in the Celebrated Mitchell Spring Wagons as follows:

1 1/2-inch axle Platform Spring Wagon, two seats, and pole $90.00.

1 1/2-inch axle Platform Spring Wagon, two seats and pole, $95.00.

1 1/2-inch three spring Delivery Wagon, with shafts, $85.00.

1 1/2-inch three spring Pleasure Wagon, two seats and shafts, $90.00.

Two extra size bed, 1 1/2 Platform Spring Wagon, suitable for drummer's hacks, at $100.00 each.

Above warranted for one year, and guaranteed in style, finish and durability; 10 per cent better than best shop made work.

DUDLEY BROS. &amp; LIPSCOMB.

Gen'l Agents Mitchell, Lewis &amp; Co.,

84 &amp; 86 Broad Street,

Nashville, Tenn.

PASCHALL, FALL &amp; CO.,

WHOLESALE

HARDWARE, Cutlery, Iron, WAGON MATERIAL, Etc.

FISHING TACKLE.

Nos. 57, 59 &amp; 61 S. Market St.,

NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE.

Our Prices are Very Low.

THE GOSPEL ADVOCATE.

NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE, APRIL 30, 1884.

CONTENTS:

Bitterness of Error.....	273
Divorce and Adultery.....	274
The Disciple Came Together to Break Bread.....	274
Living Epistles.—No. 2.....	275
"The Sower Soweth the Word".....	275
A Short Sermon.....	275
A Few Troubles.....	277
CONTENTS.....	278
Fulfilling The Law.....	278
A Correction.....	278
QUERIES.....	279
OBITUARIES.....	280
Prayer.....	280
"Thus Saith the Lord".....	282
ITEMS, PERSONALS, ETC.....	288
GENERAL NEWS.....	283

TEXAS WORK AND WORKERS.

Notes.....	276, 280
------------	----------

HOME READING.

Mine.....	284
Letters to Uncle Minor.....	284
Birds and Animals of California.....	284
"Father Knew Best, it seems.".....	284
Mr. Spurgeon's Work.....	284

FULFILLING THE LAW.

"Every plant which my Father hath not planted shall be rooted up."

This language was spoken by the Savior in response to the query of the scribes, why is that thy disciples transgress the tradition of the elders and wash not their hands before eating. The Savior retorted on them that they broke the commandments of God through their traditions—exalted their traditions and set at naught the commandments of God. He then said every plant that my heavenly Father hath not planted shall be rooted up. That is, every habit or custom that obtains in religion, that was not ordained of God shall be rooted up. He takes as an example the most harmless of all customs—the washing of the hands preparatory to eating. This custom is one that in itself is good. But when imposed as a religious rite, the Savior refused to submit to it, and told those who approached him that all institutions and appointments not ordained by God shall be destroyed.

During the existence of Judaism there had been many additions to the law of Moses that had grown up by customs and traditions, coming in, first, not as religious requirements, but as commendable customs, until by force of custom and long usage, they came to be regarded as of equal authority to the customs ordained of God. On the other hand, some commands of God, that did not seem to be very important to the minds of those who taught, began to be set aside in some particulars, until gradually the ordinance of God came to be neglected and from custom set aside. Here were examples of each. They set aside the command of God: "To honor father and mother," and it had become a heinous sin to eat without washing the hands before eating.

The Savior came to fulfil or obey the law or Moses. But he did not come to fulfil or obey the traditions and customs that had been added to the law by the customs and traditions of the human teachers. These must be rooted out, stripped from the law, and the pure law of God unmixed by human traditions must be obeyed to the letter.

Much of the Savior's work was a separation of the human addition from the divine law; a winnowing of human chaff from the wheat of God. Much of this work is found in the sermon upon the Mount.

There he corrects their traditions on the subject of marriage, retaliation, oaths, prayer, almsgiving; and presents the true teaching of God on these varied subjects. Even where Moses, on account of the hardness of their hearts, had tolerated a departure from the true law of heaven, as designed for those who with a pure heart, honor God, he replaced it with the original perfect law of God, and fulfilled or obeyed that perfect law. But eliminated from that law all human addition. He did not obey the traditions concerning the Sabbath, but stripped it of the fungus growth that had through long centuries attached itself to it; and restoring it to its true God-given position as a help and blessing to man, the observance of which in no way demanded an injury to humanity or a neglect of suffering and want, filled or obeyed this purified law of God.

The Savior seemingly chose this most harmless of customs, the washing of the hands before eating, which had grown into an authoritative religious observance, to teach the great lesson that nothing could be observed as a religious requirement, save the things appointed of God. No matter how harmless, no matter if, as a custom, it was harmless, or even beneficent, the moment it became a religious rite, or an authoritative duty, it was sin. And every plant not planted by God shall be rooted up." Christ came to root up, to overturn, to destroy every observance in religion that was not ordained by God.

Christ did not go blindly and heedlessly along and observe everything practiced in religion. Even if the practice was seemingly a harmless one—if a device of man fastened by custom on the people of God, with a sharp knife he cut it off. He not only declared that these customs, must be rooted up, that it was wrong to observe them, but he declared that those who taught things commanded by man, as doctrine or as part of the faith and practice of the church, worshipped him in vain. "In vain do they worship me teaching for doctrine, the commandments of men." That is for a man to teach anything resting for its authority upon the commandments of men, however good or great, no matter how hoary with centuries the custom, as a religious observance, disqualified that man for doing any acceptable service to God.

This is a strong position, but we think it clearly is the teaching of the Savior. A man who teaches any commandment of men as doctrine, worships God in vain. Not only that service added by man is vain, but all the worship he brings, is vain. God is a jealous God, and will allow no divided allegiance. When it is done in ignorance we hope for mercy, but it imposes the obligation on every Christian to continually call in question, examine faithfully and test every religious exercise that we may be assured it is of God, and not from man. Whatever is of man must be rooted up. Just as in Judaism to an extent equally as great in Christendom, the divine law and divine appointments have been set aside by human inventions and human devices.

A custom used simply as a custom grows into an authoritative religious observance. Sometimes a divine law or order seems just a little inexpedient and impractical in our special surroundings, and we make a slight variation in a non-essential particular. This slight departure is the first leak that breaks through the levee, but it grows and strengthens until as the overpowering flood, it breaks down all respect for divine authority and substitutes therefor the preferences of man.

That is the trouble with our age. The religious people of the past have taught that they had the right to change ordinances somewhat. First, on specific occasions, under special pressure, an ordinance is changed. It is not intended to permanently change the ordinance. But as a present convenience or expedient, it is used. Once used, it can be used again. And soon the mind is familiarized with the idea of changing the appointments of God. The more convenient and agreeable substitute soon takes the place of the ordinance of God. But if one appointment, one provision of God may be set aside, why not another?

So the work of displacing divine appointments with human substitutes goes on. The mind more and more familiarizes itself with the idea of judging what is, and what is not good, and of sitting in judgment as to the necessity of divine appointments until it reaches the point that it assumes to be a law unto itself. Man's own nature becomes a law, a revelation of the divine will, instead of the Bible, and transcendentalism instead of the Christian religion, is the religion of the people. Transcendentalism is infidelity. It is substitution of human nature for divine law. It deifies and worships man's own impulses, passions, desires, and sets at naught the God of the universe.

This whole infidel system has its foundation in and is the outgrowth of the Romish claim that the church has the right to change the ordinances of God. So long as blind faith in the church continues, it does not progress beyond a substitution of the appointments of the church for the ordinances of God. But when man sees that the church is not infallible, as did Luther, Calvin, and other reformers, this right to change is transferred to the religious teachers, gradually from them, to each individual person, and man's own impulses, desires, passions, lusts, ambitions, become the divinity within, which each man is at liberty to follow.

This has been the process of transformation, from Romanism to infidelity. It has affected the age, permeated all the churches, and threatens to overturn law and order, and destroy morality in society.

Christians should follow the example of the Master, and closely scan all the religious services they perform, and carefully reject everything not of God. They who teach as doctrine the commandments of men, worship God in vain.

A CORRECTION.

We were away from home last proof-reading day, and could not read our proof. So we find many typographical errors. When they do nothing worse than make us say nonsense, we seldom mention them. There are at least a score of sentences, the meaning of which is changed, in our articles. As a sample, we quote one. We spoke of the congregational churches formulating a creed in harmony with the recent developments of the congregational faith. The types made us say, "more in harmony with the recent dead opponents of the congregational faith." We are made to say that our extracts from A. Campbell extended over seventy years of his labor. We wrote seven. He did not labor seventy. In the extracts from his, Bro. Fanning's, and Bro. Roulhac's writings, there are several blunders that destroy the force of their expression. Bro. Fanning spoke of "machinery not tempered in heaven." It was printed, "not temperance in heaven." We spoke of things so frequent in the history of the church. Frequent was printed pregnant, etc. The last paragraph of the quotation from Bro. Roulhac is not in quotation marks, and has the appearance of being mine, instead of his. With our present arrangements the greater portion of the proof is read on Saturday, which prevents our getting away on that day; so we can go only where we can reach Saturday night or Sunday morning, for preaching. There were errors in other articles, but such as the reader can correct. D. L.

Queries.

There seems to be no end of new questions arising throughout the religious world. The church of Christ furnishes (sometimes) a man with a new theory, and, strange to say, such claims that such new dogma is truly scriptural. We have a preacher who claims that invitation songs are not warranted in the word of God; therefore to sing such is wrong. He makes it a point to visit the churches wherever he can, and preach this doctrine, until it is beginning to disturb Christian "equilibrium." His other hobby is that Sunday-schools are unwarranted by the Bible, therefore unscriptural and sinful; the church having adopted Sunday-schools as an expedient, not that it is right. Now, this is working badly among the brethren in some places. Please write up a review of this theory, and oblige many brethren.

The Bible says, "The Spirit and the bride say come, and let him that heareth say come." He does not say it is to be said in song, or in plain speech, or in writing. But the broad and extended invitation indicates that it is to be done in any and every way that is possible. Speak it, write it, sing it, practice it. God has not prescribed any specific way in which the invitation is to be made, and he who undertakes to prescribe a way where God has not done it, assumes to himself a wisdom above God's wisdom. He assumes to sit in the seat of God, and make himself God. It is a presumptuous sin to set aside, change, or substitute, where God has prescribed an order, or instituted an ordinance. It is equally sinful for a man to prescribe, limit, or ordain a plan where God has not prescribed or ordained. God has ordained no specific method for inviting sinners to Christ. Christ invited all who labor and are heavy laden to come unto him. All whose yoke is heavy, and burden is oppressive. He commands his disciples to so act that their good works will not only invite, but constrain men to glorify our Father who is in heaven. All of our good works, every act of service, of praise, of adoration, every word we speak, and every song of praise and love we make, every act of a holy life, is an invitation to the sinner to come to Christ. To talk of not inviting the sinner in every way possible, is folly and sin. We may excite them, and prompt them to act from mere excitement and impulse; but this is more frequently done by the wild exhortations and death stories that are told, than by the singing. But shall exhortation be stopped on this account? The Holy Spirit, through Peter, "exhorted them with many other words to save themselves from this untoward generation." It shows a lack of appreciation of what an invitation is, as well as of the spirit and genius of the Christian religion, for a man to be taking such positions as the above. Every song of praise that is sung, every act of obedience rendered, every word of praise, thanksgiving and supplication to God, is an invitation to the sinner to come to Christ. We think it unfortunate for the preachers to run into one rut, and have any formal and constant style of inviting men, because of the effect on the hearer. It gets him to think he is not invited unless a formal invitation is given, when he ought to understand that he is always invited. The door ever stands open. But it is certainly just as sinful to invite a person to become a Christian in any other way, as it is to invite him in a song. There is no sin in it.

(2) It is right to teach the apostles doctrine, or the Scriptures, to the people, old and young. There is no one prescribed method of teaching people the Bible. Whoever undertakes to prescribe one way, or to refuse one method that God has not proscribed or disapproved, assumes to be wiser than God, and is guilty of presumptuous sin in the sight of God. A Sunday-school may be abused as everything else may be. It is not oftener abused than preaching. A Sunday-school is a school held on Sunday, to study and teach the Bible. If all the members of the church would unite in a class to study the Bible, it would be a Sunday-school; or if they were to select a number of those best qualified to teach their children and the children of their neighbors the Bible, it would be a Sunday-school. It would be much nearer the apostolic model of church edification and worship than the ordinary way of preaching. In the apostolic times they studied the Bible, the members did,—questions were asked and answered, and they were commanded to train up their children in the way they should go. It seems to me a very great presumption to say the Scriptures shall not be studied by the church and others, or be taught to the children on Lord's day. This is a Sunday-school. The teaching ought to be under the direction of the elders of the church as a part of the church service. The abuses of the Sunday-school are a different matter. Certainly every man recognized as a preacher is able to discriminate between teaching the word of God in a Sunday-school and the abuse of a Sunday-school.

What lesson does the parable of the prodigal son teach, and the reason why? Also tell us what is meant in John x: 9, latter clause, "Go in and out and find pasture." Who is to go in and out, and what do they go in and out of.—[J. W. Williams.

The parable teaches there is joy in heaven over one sinner that repenteth, rather than over the righteous man that goes not astray. In teaching this general truth, it incidentally illustrates a number of lessons connected with humanity. The young man desiring his portion of the inheritance, that he may manage and enjoy it himself, illustrates how man thinks he can manage his own affairs and find more happiness in going in his own way, than in letting God direct him. The young man going into a far country, illustrates how man cut loose from the government of God wanders from him. His own wisdom cannot keep him near or in harmony with God. His squandering his property in riotous living, illustrates, 1st, how, when he leaves God, passion and lust rule; 2nd, How soon the "dominion of lust bankrupts man in all that is good or worth preserving, or that promotes true happiness, and how soon it brings to want.

His joining himself to a citizen of that distant land illustrates the expedients men seek in striving to live without God. How that he will submit to a degrading calling, (feeding of swine was so regarded among the Jews) in order to live away from God. His feeding on the husk the swine ate, shows how much he will suffer before turning to God. No man gave him, shows that after men have led another into sin they have but little sympathy or pity for him.

His coming to himself, his humbling himself, his resolve to cast himself upon the mercy of the father, typifies how one who has rebelled against God and in his rebellion lost all, may consider his condition, determine to turn and cast himself on the mercy of God. The willingness to be a servant in that household, shows the humility that he must feel, that he must be willing to be the lowliest of all, the servant of all, a door-keeper in the house of God rather than to dwell in the tabernacles of the rich. He turns, he comes back to the Father's house in this spirit. The readiness of the father to receive him, the going forth to meet him, the preparation for his return, the clothing him in the goodliest robes, illustrate how ready God is to receive the returning sinner, how he will bless him, how he and the angels will rejoice over him, and how he will clothe the vilest sinner with the robes of righteousness when he returns to him. The envy of the elder brother illustrates how envious unforgiving, self-righteous humanity is, to the sinner, and how ready it is to complain at the mercy of God as neglect and unkindness to it.

A great many writers refer this passage to the Jews and Gentiles. The Gentiles as the younger brother undertook to live without God. They experienced the folly and turned to God, the Jews were envious and objected to their reception. That it to some extent illustrates this, is doubtless true, as it does any rejection of God by one class and their after return to him. But that it was spoken with especial reference to the Jew and Gentile, we have never been able to find a particle of evidence. It seems to me to have been spoken with more especial reference to the pharisees and scribes, and the publicans and sinners. But it is the illustration of general principles applying to all cases, in all countries, where men reject God, wander from him and return to him, showing the working of their minds, God's disposition toward the sinner and his return, and the feeling of the self-righteous in reference to the repentant sinner.

We gave an answer to the other query a few weeks since, and cannot repeat it.

Please answer through the GOSPEL ADVOCATE who preached the first sermon after the resurrection of the Lord Jesus Christ.—[Mrs. Mary M. Gill.

Peter, with the eleven, on Pentecost.

NEW BOOKS.

We have had on our table for some weeks, a re-publication of a debate between N. A. McConnell, a disciple, and James Quinter, German Baptist, on trine immersion, Foot-washing and the Lord's supper. The book is issued in good style by the Christian Publishing Company, St. Louis, Mo. Those wishing to see a courteous and full discussion of these questions, can find it in this volume.

From the same house a tasteful volume of 400 pages, entitled, "The Divine Demonstration," by H. W. Everest, President of Butler College, Indianapolis, Ind. It is an effort to show the Bible demonstrates its own divinity, is an able and valuable addition to the works on Christian Evidence. The publishers say of it:

"The treatise is peculiar in two respects: The form of the proposition demonstrated and the order of the proof. It is assumed that the Proposition, the proof, and the order of the proof, have been given by the Holy Spirit. The Proposition is the one announced from heaven as such, viz., that "Jesus is the Messiah, the son of God." The whole argument gathers about the person, the nature, and the authority of Christ. If this proposition is established all else will follow. Heaven has also given the proof and the order of its providential development. Hence the work is entitled The Divine Demonstration. The older arguments from history and prophecy are much condensed, while the relation of Christianity to science and its adaptations to human nature and human society are more fully treated. One chapter is devoted to a classification of objections and a reply to them, but it has been the purpose to give a positive treatment rather than a negative one. The argument from prophecy is concisely but fully given. Two corollaries follow the demonstration, the Canon and Inspiration, since the authority of Christ must settle both these questions."

Either of the above books may be had by addressing Christian Publishing Company, 913 Pine St., St. Louis, Mo., or they may be ordered through J. F. & Harry Lipscomb at Advocate office.

Obituaries.

Sister Miriam H. Goodloe, wife of Bro. Henry Goodloe, dec'd, died of paralysis, at the home of her son-in-law, Dr. McKnight, in Rutherford County, Tenn., March 3rd, 1884. Sister Goodloe, whose maiden name was Barton, was born March 25th, 1814. She was married December 24th, 1834. She, with her husband, who preceded her but a few years to his reward, entered the church of Christ at an early period in life, where she continued (as did he) not only a consistent, but an active and useful member until death. I have been personally acquainted, and much of the time intimately associated with sister Goodloe from my early youth. I always found her a true, earnest, and sympathetic Christian woman. She was constant in her attendance at church, and openly showed her devotion to it even in its darkest hours of persecution and discouragement. She was not demonstrative or impulsive, but steadfast and earnest in purpose, and true to her convictions of right and duty, being a living example of practical charity to the poor and suffering around her. She praised the Lord that she was permitted (ere called away) to see all of her children, six in number, earnest and faithful members of the church of Christ. Her life of devotion, her Christian integrity and forbearance, she leaves as a rich legacy to her bereaved family, kindred, and many friends. She spent her life in sowing to the spirit, and will of the spirit reap life everlasting.

L. R. SEWELL.

Dear Bro. E. G. Sewell: You will remember on the night of the 17th of January, you in company with myself, wife and little daughter, Georgia, enjoyed the hospitality of our much esteemed Bro. P. G. Potter and his most excellent wife, and we were much pleased in having their little daughter Minnie to play on the organ for us. Her tongue that sang so sweetly that (long to be remembered) night, will sing no more on this earth. "Sad, sad," she was taken sick early on the 15th inst., died in less than thirty hours, and was buried yesterday in the presence of a very large assembly of relatives and friends; she was greatly loved by all who knew her. She was nearly thirteen years old. We hope to meet her in her heavenly home. We deeply sympathize with Bro. and sister Potter, and other relatives of dear little innocent Minnie.

H. L. WALLING.

McMinnville, Tenn., April 18th, 1884.

We very well and pleasantly remember the little daughter of Bro. Potter, and deeply regret to hear of her death, and heartily sympathize with the deeply afflicted parents and family in this great loss. Death is always sad, but seems especially so when the young, just blooming into practical life, are called away from us. But the gospel has a balm for every wound; and those who trust a Father's love will find all well in the end. The religion of Jesus is the only source of comfort in such trials, and we doubt not these grief-stricken parents will seek strength from it to bear this sad stroke.

E. G. S.

It becomes my painful duty to chronicle the death of Sister Susan East Bowers. She was born February 9, 1862, and died April 6, 1884, at the home of her father, Bro. David Bowers, near Madison Station, Alabama. She was the youngest of eight children; the pride and joy of her aged father and mother. Besides her aged father and mother, she has left brothers and sisters, together with a long train of friends to mourn her departure; and while they mourn with a genuine sorrow, yet they rejoice in her release from her unrelenting sufferings. Her malignant disease, consumption, had been developing for some years slowly, but it was not until about a month before her death that she was compelled to take her bed. After that time she was a very great sufferer, enduring it all without a murmur. That she was truly a Christian, was beautifully exemplified in her pure life, and especially in her illness, setting a pattern of resignation, patience and meekness to all who came about her bedside, dwelling in joyous hope upon the comforting assurances of the gospel of Christ. In her last days, and to the last hour, she talked freely of her readiness and willingness to be "absent from the body and present with the Lord." She was a little over twenty-two years old when called to enter upon the true life, where old age is never known, but where eternal youth, attended with endless joy, shall be her portion. We love our friends and kindred dear, especially when characterized by the sweetness of disposition and amiability of character which adorned the life of this excellent Christian woman, and we always feel a thrill of pain and of anguish on the final surrender of all earthly communion with them, but we should ever remember that our loving Father will make "all things work together for good" to all who in loving confidence put their trust in him. With weeping eyes and wounded hearts, we laid her away to await the resurrection. O, may our hopes, purposes and aspirations be directed heavenward, and may we all meet again.

Huntsville, Ala., April 15, 1884.

J. W. SHEPHERD.

Sister Mattie Dunn, daughter of Wm. and Bettie Dunn, was born October 20, 1866; confessed her faith in Christ October 22nd, 1883; departed this life March 6th, 1884. We can truly say of her, she lived a Christian life ever after she became a member of the kingdom of Christ. Her loss is deeply felt by the congregation to which she belonged. She was a dutiful child to her earthly parents; a loving sister and above all, an humble child of God. She was always given heed to the things she had heard, lest she should let them slip. She was carried to Jamestown, Monroe County, Ky., and after appropriate service as a tribute of respect, her lifeless remains were interred in the earth, to await the final consummation of all things, when she will come forth clothed with glory, honor, immortality in eternal life. Blessed are the dead that die in the Lord, from henceforth; yea, saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labors, and their works do follow them.

J. M. FISHER.

Flippin, Monroe County, Ky.

PRAYER.

"Without faith it is impossible to please God. He that cometh to God must believe that he is and a rewarder of them that diligently seek him." It requires much faith to pray right. A man may live and be void of spirit. He is then called an idiot. The body may be robbed of its life. It is then a corpse. Prayer may exist without life or spirit. The man that comes to God, must believe that he is, and that he is a rewarder of them that diligently seek him. Do not many approach the Most High in prayer, and yet do not believe that he is a rewarder of those who are diligent in making their want known? There are some who believe that the great Creator made this world and all that is in it. He fixed it something after the manner man does a clock or watch. The earth turns upon its axis in twenty-four hours, makes its trip around the sun in three hundred and sixty-five days; seasons come and go in regular procession; winds, waves and rains are effects, with their mechanical causes. Yes, they go so far as to say that any interruption in the general mechanism of earth would bring ruin. The idea that God would interfere with the course of nature just to answer the prayer of man, is derided. It is therefore of no use to pray for rain, any weather or for things kin to them, the order of heaven and earth is fixed and causes were planted before the morning stars sang together, and the sons of God shouted for joy, and God never interferences with these well fixed arrangements. In fact, say they, were one prayer answered which would involve the departure from this order, the whole process of nature would be thrown into confusion, and general ruin would be the immediate result. When I hear these things, I am reminded of Paul's advice to Tim. vi: 20. Unless science is a certainty it is fatal to run it against faith. Even then to presume that the God who made the world, the winds, the causes, cannot control and direct and manage them according to his will, is presumption in the sight of omnipotence. These views are not held by men of the world, but by those who claim to believe God.

Preachers sometime advance them. Hear them. Prayer is simply reflex in its bearing. It does not move God, but affects the one who prays. It seems this is taking the mainspring out of prayer. It is extracting all the essence and leaving only the less unimportant part of prayer. The very thing that makes man draw near to his God is because "he believes that he is, and that he is a rewarder of them that diligently seek him." How disappointing when man is made to believe that he does not reward those that seek him, but simply deludes man with a promise to grant the thing prayer, for intending all the time that he shall be benefited no farther than the good effect the prayer may have upon him, in making him humble, and causing him to study his own dependence. "Ah," cries brother "Don't Believe," "the days of miracles have passed, and God no longer works as he used to." Talk to him of Elijah, a man of like passions with ourselves, and right away he says, There are no Elijah's now. I do not think there are many occasions when miracles are necessary, or when there is a necessity for the exercise of unusual celestial power. I believe God will and does answer prayer, and we are taught to pray with this anticipation. I love to live believing that God hears me and my fellow-beings. A man must, of course, come within God's own appointed limits to be blessed. "Whatsoever we ask, we receive of him, because we keep his commandments and do these that are pleasing in his sight." "And this is the confidence that we have in him, that if we ask anything according to his will, he heareth us." This is God's law as handed down by John, and it certainly is a good one.

Where is the consistency in going on very much as you please until you are in great need, then turning to Jehovah and calling for the things you desire? Is it not as little as God could ask of his creature, that they should earnestly desire to do those things pleasing in the sight of Jehovah? There seems to be much in the change made in the minds of men when converted or by repentance. Before, they do not desire to do God's will; afterward, they do. Repentance could not do less than this and effect the man at all. If James did not mean to give Elijah and his praying as an example for us to follow then it is in a strange place. There is too little real earnest prayer in the world. There is too little faith in God and his promises. All the prayers of Abraham were not answered, but he prayed notwithstanding. Did our heavenly Father always heed the petitions of Moses? I believe it can be shown that he did not, but he did hear him sometimes, and Moses was satisfied. If God must hear us whenever we make our wishes known, and do whatever we ask, then we become dictators and leave Jehovah no exercise of divine rights. Faith, it does seem, would lead us to pray and leave the answering with God. Whatever is short of this is unbelief, is it not? We find too much fault with our Creator, and are too well pleased with ourselves and our own doings. We are daring enough to criticise heaven's decisions and blush not at arraying our weak judgments along side the wisdom of the Almighty. Will all who read this ask themselves if they pray as often as they should, as sincerely and for what.

J. M. BARNES.

TEXAS WORK AND WORKERS—Continued.

Dear Bro. Poe: I see in your Bible Class this question: "What was Peter's more sure word of prophecy?" And the answer seems simple and easy to me: It was the former prophecies concerning the "power and coming of our Lord Jesus Christ," as stated in the close of the chapter. The trouble seems to be in this: What was his more sure word more sure than? And all answers yet published seem to be floundering in the mist of question, and if the class will let me into the class this one time, I will try to help them out of this trouble. First we will remove a few obstacles that we may the better see how to proceed. Peter does not say that we are more sure, or doubly sure, as your answers seem to indicate; but he says that we have a more sure word, etc. So you see it was something he (we) had, and not something he (or we) are, and we may be benefitted some by observing the plural terms—we and eye witnesses—by which terms Peter includes at least himself, James and John, who was with the Savior in the holy mount. Now we read the 16th verse: "For we have not followed (or practiced) cunningly devised fables, when we made known unto you the power and cunning of our Lord Jesus Christ." Thus the apostle states as a fact that we (him and others) had not done a certain thing, and proceeds to prove it, by saying first: "For he received from God the Father, honor and glory, when there came such a voice to him from the excellent glory, This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased." And this voice which came from heaven we heard, when we were with him in the holy mount: "We have also (that is, we have besides this voice that we heard in the holy mount as eye-witnesses) a more sure word of prophecy, (the prophecy concerning Christ,) that ye do well to take heed. That is, you will do well to investigate, if you have any doubts as to the grounds we had for making 'known unto you the power and coming of our Lord Jesus Christ.' And to be short, his sure word of prophecy was more sure than any devised fable. I now lay down my pencil to hear any criticism on the foregoing.

Ennis, Ellis Co., Texas.

N. B. GIBBONS.

It was a grand thought of Kepler, when he said of his favorite study of astronomy, "In this work I am thinking God's thoughts over again."

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

This powder never varies. A marvel of purity strength and wholesomeness. More economical than the ordinary kinds, and cannot be sold in competition with the multitude of low test, short weight and inferior phosphate powders. Sold only in cans.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 108 Wall St., New York.

KING'S EVIL

Was the name formerly given to Scrofula because of a superstition that it could be cured by a king's touch. The world is wiser now, and knows that can only be cured by a thorough purification of the blood. If this is neglected, the disease perpetuates its taint through generation after generation. Among its earlier symptomatic developments are Eczema, Cutaneous Eruptions, Tumors, Boils, Carbuncles, Erysipelas, Purulent Ulcers, Nervous and Physical Collapse, etc. If allowed to continue, Rheumatism, Scrofulous Catarrh, Kidney and Liver Diseases, Tubercular Consumption, and various other dangerous or fatal maladies, are produced by it.

SCROFULA

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

Is the only powerful and always reliable blood-purifying medicine. It is so effectual an alternative that it eradicates from the system Hereditary Scrofula, and the kindred poisons of contagious diseases and mercury. At the same time it enriches and vitalizes the blood, restoring healthful action to the vital organs and rejuvenating the entire system. This great

Regenerative Medicine

Is composed of the genuine Honduras Sarsaparilla, with Yellow Dock, Stillingia, the Iodides of Potassium and Iron, and other ingredients of great potency, carefully and scientifically compounded. Its formula is generally known to the medical profession, and the best physicians constantly prescribe AYER'S SARSAPARILLA as an

Absolute Cure

For all diseases caused by the vitiation of the blood. It is concentrated to the highest practicable degree, far beyond any other preparation for which like effects are claimed, and is therefore the cheapest, as well as the best blood purifying medicine, in the world.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

PREPARED BY

Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

[Analytical Chemists.]

Sold by all Druggists: price $1; six bottles for $5.

THE SUGAR HAND BOOK

A NEW AND VALUABLE TREATISE ON SUGAR CANES, (including the Minnesota Early Amber) and their manufacture into Syrup and Sugar. Although comprised in small compass and furnished free to applicants, it is the BEST PRACTICAL MANUAL ON SUGAR CANES that has yet been published.

BLUMYER MANUFACTURING CO
Cincinnati, O.
Manufacturers of Steam Sugar Machinery, Steam Engines, Victor Cane Mills, Cook Sugar Evaporators, etc.

$5 to $20 per day at home. Samples worth $5 free. Address Blumyer & Co., Portland, Me.

PREWITT, SPURR & CO., MANUFACTURERS OF WOODEN WARE AND LUMBER, NASHVILLE, TENN.

Poplar and Pine Flooring, Ceiling, Weatherboarding, Sash, Doors, Blinds, Door and Window Frames, Brackets, Laths, Cedar Posts, Etc., Always on hand.

FACTORY AND MILLS IN EDGEFIELD.

NATHANIEL BAKER, JR.,
President.

THOS. FLATER,
Vice President.

J. P. WILLIAMS,
Cashier.

W. F. BANGS, JR.,
Asst. Cashier.

THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK, OF NASHVILLE, TENN. (Reorganized.)

Designated Depository and Financial Agent of the United States.

CAPITAL STOCK, - - - - - $500,000 00
UNDIVIDED PROFITS, - - - - - 190,000 00

Receives Deposits, Deals in United States Bonds and Local Securities, and Foreign and Domestic Exchange. Drafts drawn on all European points. Our facilities for making collections at all accessible points are unsurpassed.

P. A. SHELTON, DEALER IN STAPLE AND FANCY GROCERIES,

FLOUR, BACON, LARD, TOBACCO AND CIGARS, COUNTRY PRODUCE,
QUEENSWARE, GLASSWARE, TINWARE, LAMPS AND TRIMMINGS.

No. 96 BROAD STREET, - (Second door from College,) - NASHVILLE, TENN.

Special Attention Given to Filling Orders.

SOLE AGENT FOR "RINGLEADER" FLOUR.

ALEX. HOGAN.

JO. B. HALL.

HOGAN & HALL,

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALERS IN

GROCERIES, BACON, LARD,

—AND—

PURE WHISKIES AND WINES

For Medicinal Purposes.

106 Broad Street, - - - NASHVILLE, TENN.

GOOD CLOTHING!

Gentlemen and boys who desire GOOD CLOTHING at medium prices, equal in style and make to any custom work, should not fail to examine our stock before purchasing their Outfits.

HUNTINGTON, Clothier,

166 Church Street, - - - NASHVILLE.

W. R. CORNELIUS,

GENERAL FUNERAL UNDERTAKER.

OFFICE:

No. 17 North Summer Street,

RESIDENCE:

No. 413 Main Street.

Telephone 73 calls the Office; Telephone 271 calls the Residence.

Will furnish everything wanted at a funeral, and all first-class. Prices as cheap as anybody else. 2a3m

THUSS, KOELLEIN & GIER.

Successors to old Giers' Gallery,

PHOTOGRAPHERS!

139 Union Street, Nashville, Tenn.

CALVERT BROTHERS, PORTRAITS.

In Crayon, in Oil and Water Colors; Ivory Miniatures, &c., &c.,
Columbia Building, Cor. Union and Cherry Streets, Nashville, Tenn.

GEO. E. COOPER & CO.,

Wholesale Manufacturers and Dealers in

TINWARE, STOVES, FURNACES,

And House Furnishing Goods.

Tin and Slate Roofing and Galvanized Iron Cornice Work a Specialty.

Also our Patent Chimney Top for smoky chimneys, has no equal. Write for prices and address.

GEO. E. COOPER & CO.,

22 North Market Street,

Nashville, - - - Tennessee.

SHOW CASES,

CEDAR CHESTS, CEDAR WARDROBES, Cabinet Work, and all kinds of Glass.

G. C. TERRY, Manufacturer,
No. 2 Hicks' Block, North Side Public Square, NASHVILLE, TENN.

F. A. BADGER, DENTIST

OFFICE.

ODD FELLOWS' TEMPLE,
(Cor Church & High Sts.,)

Nashville, Tennessee.

A Physician's Gift.

If you are a sufferer hoping for a permanent cure of Apoplectic or Epileptic

FITS,

a Free Trial Box of the celebrated Dr. JUSTICE SCHROEDER'S REMEDY for this disorder will be sent you, post-paid, free.

Every sufferer from this disease that is anxious to be cured should give these Powders an immediate trial. Large Box $3 00, two boxes $5.00.

Address,

PHILIP HENRY,

49 South Street, New York City.

OWEN'S STATION SCHOOL.

The sixth annual session will open Sept. 3d, 1883, and continue Forty Weeks. The session is divided into two terms of twenty weeks each.

The expenses to boarders per term, are from $75.00 to $80.00. Music with use of instrument, $22.00. $100.00 will pay for board, washing, full instruction in higher English Branches, Latin, Greek, French and Music. Bills due one-half at opening of term and remainder at middle. For any information, address

W. LIPSCOMB,

Brentwood, Tenn.

AGENTS wanted for the History of Christianity, by Abbott. A grand chance. A $4 book at the popular price of $1.75. Liberal terms. The religious papers mention it as one of the few great religious works of the world. Greater success never known by agents. Terms free. STINSON & Co., Publisher, Portland, Maine.

DONT purchase your CHRISTMAS PRESENTS until you have seen our IMMENSE HOLIDAY CATALOGUE of Toys, Novelties, Fancy Goods, &c., mailed free. Address Eureka T. & N. Co., 87 Warren St., New York.

CATALOGUE of Best Books for Agents sent free, including Mother, Home and Heaven. $2.75. Please everybody. 126,000 sold, $150 monthly. E. B. TREAT, Publisher, New York.

"THUS SAITH THE LORD."

THE PULPIT SIDE OF THE QUESTION.

Plutarch tells us that when Eudainidas heard old Xenocrates disputing about wisdom he asked, very soberly: "If the old be yet disputing and inquiring concerning wisdom, what time will he have to make use of it?" And if the preacher has no definite, positive and wholesome truth to give the people in his instruction, how can they expect to truly exercise themselves unto godliness.

The commission to the preacher is, "Go preach the gospel," and he has no right to accept the commission until he possesses and is possessed by the gospel. No one can discourse about whatever strikes his fancy; turning from certainty to probability, substituting a perhaps for a yea verily, and prove a faithful servant of the Lord. The "thus saith the Lord" should be the beginning, middle and end of every sermon, and thus a man is kept from cultivating a sort of apologetic air, which takes from the plainness, the pungency and wholesomeness of the message he is required to deliver.

Apology may do in learned treatises, but the gospel from the pulpit does not call for defence, but proclamation, with the truth living in the man, and the man in his preaching. The spirit of the matter, as well as the letter, must possess the mind and heart, so as to guard against the "narcotizing tendency of official repetition." It is thus that one has the power to stand up unarmed before the imaginary "omnipotence of negation," and is delivered from that vain idea of making the Bible more forcible by weakening its power. It has milk for babes and meat for strong men, and any adulteration of the same is tampering with the "thus saith the Lord." When such a course is pursued the Bible is converted into a "moral Palimpsest," in which there is the erasing of the divine words, which are as a medicine to the soul, imparting life and vigor, and the inserting of smooth things and the vain deceits of men, which have in them the savor of death.

The only personal ground for preaching the truth as God has revealed it, is "I have believed and therefore have I spoken," and till one can so speak he ought never to preach. The whole counsel of God is to be faithfully proclaimed as given to us in the absolute religious truths of sin, and salvation, and judgment. To keep back any part of the truth is to put oneself on a par with Ananias and Sapphira, who kept back part of the price. To choose one's own way of doing a thing, rather than follow the Lord's way, will bring down punishment, as did Jonah when he refused to go to Nineveh. If any preacher of the gospel takes ship to Tarshish he will be sure to get into storms and see whales. Some servants conceit they are greater than their Master, and that in these modern times there should be modern gospel. Revision is becoming a sort of intellectual infirmity or disease, and it is getting to be as common as malaria. Such men are afflicted with the flavor of originality. They have broad and comprehensive views, which are like a plain surface that has length and breadth, but no depth. In comparison with themselves John is too sentimental, Paul is antiquated, and Peter a zealot. They take the affectations of theology and consider them essential principles, just as the young girl imagines that her affectations of manner are expressions of inner grace and refined feeling. Charmed by a verbal magic they are led on from stage to stage until they are enveloped in a fog and land in the mire.

"It is a hard thing," says Montaigne, "to reduce divine things to our balance without waste and losing a great deal of the weight." Men are to be brought up to Christ and Christianity, and not Christianity brought down to the level of men. Though there is a proper apostolic, "being all things to all men," yet Christ must always be kept supreme, and His truth never added to nor varied in the least jot or tittle. Christianity suffers in dignity and power when it is made the object of patronage. The gospel is not a human device or code, to charm and please men; but is divine revelation, to make men better in this life as sons and fathers, as citizens and servants, and to fit them for the life to come. Any failure cannot be charged to the gospel, but to the imperfect understanding and use of which men make of it. No one should wear the priest's robe if he is not a Levite at heart. If one is an Aaron, as having charge of the things of the Lord, and is busy making golden calves for the people, his ministry will not prove a blessing, but a curse. And when one is more concerned about "the proper outflow of professional routine" than he is about the growth of grace in the hearts of his hearers he will have nothing but leaves to present to the Lord of the harvest. Whenever the pure intellectual spirit is set over against the religious in the pulpit there will be little devotion in the preacher's heart and little practical Christianity in his life.

Any minister who will "personificate" the gospel, robs it of its pith and power, and feeds the people on husks. All the lean kine are not found in the pasture-fields and stables of Pharaoh. With a "thus saith the Lord" we may make the hosts of Midian tremble. But when there is wavering and trembling, and the trumpet tones of the watchmen of Zion dwindle down to a whisper or echo, what rejoicing there is among the daughters of Philistia.

When one is more concerned about the manner than the matter, when he gives more attention to the sound than the sense, he is giving the people a stone when they are asking for bread. When a preacher is an "Anythingarian" his message is a mere empty sound, signifying nothing. When one is carried away with the sweetness and light of culture then he is to those who hear him but "as a lovely song of one that can play well upon an instrument." When one is more concerned about the latest sensations or the latest deliverance of science, falsely so called, then the people are brought into a state of vain jangling, against which Paul warned Timothy, instead of being daily exercised unto godliness. Well may the church cry out,—

"From such apostles, O ye mitred heads,
Preserve the church and lay not careless hands
On skulls that cannot teach and will not learn."
—William L. Ledwith, in Presbyterian.

ENDURING REPROOF.

There is perhaps no better test of man's strength of character, than the way in which he bears himself under just reproof. Every man makes mistakes; every man commits faults; but not every man has the honesty and meekness to acknowledge his errors and to welcome the criticisms which points them out to him. It is rarely difficult for us to find an excuse for our course, if it is an excuse we are looking for. It is, in fact, always easier to spring to an angry defense of ourselves than to calmly acknowledge the justice of another's righteous condemnation of some wrong action of ours; but to refuse to adopt this latter course, when we know we are in the wrong, is to reveal to our better consciousness and often to the consciousness of others, an essential defect in our character. He is strong who dares confess that he is weak; he is always tottering to a fall who needs to bolster up the weakness of his personality by all sorts of transparent shams. It is not in vain that Scripture says: "Reprove one that hath understanding, and he will understand knowledge;" for one of the best evidences of the possession of that discreet self-government which stands at the basis of moral strength, and one of the best means of gaining it when it is lacking, is just this willingness to accept merited reproof, and to profit by it when accepted.—S. S. Times.

"THE SOWER SOWETH THE WORD."

The Christian Sower Tract Fund, though not very noisy, is far from being dead. If you desire to test whether or not it liveth, just offer it some money or ask for a gift of tracts, or send an order for tracts, accompanied with the cash. It is ready to accommodate all sorts and conditions of pocketbooks. It has lately received a full supply of seven kinds of card tracts. These continue to be popular as ever. Over a quarter of a million are now in the field at work. Circulate 1,000 at once in your community, and watch the results. It also keeps well supplied with eight kinds of pamphlet tracts. They are "Sincerity," "The Word Divided," "Our Position," "Letters on Baptism," "Christian Union," "Errett's Review of Summers," "What is the Christian Church?" and a choice anti-infidel tract "Inspiration of the Bible." These are very cheap. Send one, or five, or ten dollars, and test this statement. Address, J. W. Higbee, Madisonville, Ky.

EGYPT—ITS TREASURES OF ANCIENT ART AND LITERATURE.

The Egyptians were likewise an eminently religious people. The words St. Paul addressed to the Athenians might, with equal appropriateness, have been applied to the Egyptians: "I perceive that in all things you are too superstitious." Their noblest works of art and architect were devoted to their gods. Magnificent temples were erected: colossal statues of deities were hewn out; sacred obelisks were reared up; vast tombs were excavated, in which the embalmed bodies of petrified bulls, crocodiles, ibises, serpents and sundry other creatures, products of degraded fetichism, were inshrined in granite sarcophagi or richly-painted coffins; and the walls of the tombs themselves were covered with paintings and inscriptions, giving their history and object, the rites and ceremonies by which the deities were worshiped, and in some cases, detailing the doctrines held regarding a future state.

The tombs of Egypt are among the grandest and most striking of its monuments. The pyramids were tombs, and they are still wonders of the world. The rock-hewn sepulchres, however, which surround the pyramids, and which dot the mountain gorges of Thebes and Bene-Hassan, are now probably the most instructive. Their chambers are so many museums, containing not merely the embalmed remains, but, on the inscribed and sculptured walls, the whole history of the mighty dead. Nothing is overlooked or forgotten that would throw light on their lives and labors. In this way we have a most vivid picture of ancient Egypt: the victories of kings; processes in law courts; the building of cities; the hewing and transport of colossal statues and obelisks; the embalming of the dead; funeral rites and processions; marriage ceremonies; every department of household work and family life, such as cooking, washing, dressing, shaving the head and beard, eating; trades of all kinds—goldsmiths, painters, potters, glass-blowers, bakers, weavers; games and amusements—jugglers, music, dancing; tilling the soil; irrigating the fields; feeding and milking the cows; watering flax, reaping, threshing, grinding—all these and many other things are delineated with singular, and not unfrequently amusing, minuteness of detail. In examining those unique tombs, one can study the manners and customs, the private life and public arts, the religious rites and ceremonies, the features and dress of those who lived in cottage and palace in that country from three to four thousand years ago, with almost as much advantage as if he lived among them.—J. L. Porter, D. D., President of Queen's College, Belfast, Ireland, in Pulpit Treasury.

THE WORKS OF CHRIST.

Our works may be good, Christ's are mighty as well as good. We visit the sick, Christ cures them. We visit the prisoner, Christ releases them that are bound. We feed the hungry, Christ creates the food. We clothe the naked, Christ gives them a robe of righteousness fit to wear at the King's banquet. We soothe the pillow of the dying, Christ raises the dead. Ours are works of charity, His are works of charity that are mighty. We may be benevolent, Christ is both benevolent and wonderful in working. It is a great thing to build a hospital for the sick or an asylum for orphans; but if our physicians had half the skill and might of Christ, the Great Physician, there would be no need of hospitals and asylums, for they could then do the mightier works that He did, and cure all manner of sicknesses and heal all manner of diseases, by a word or a look or a touch.

If your statesmen had half the wisdom that Christ displayed in parrying the subtle truths of men, and allaying their passions, statesmanship would be made easy. It is a mighty work to subdue to submission and peace a belligerent people, or to hurl back foreign invasion from the shores of a commonwealth; but it is a mightier work to wrest from the grip of the devil a stolen world which he had taught to hate God, its Maker, to subdue it to penitence and bring it back to allegiance. This was virtually accomplished when Christ walked forth from the sepulchre, ascended on high, and led captivity captive.

ITEMS, PERSONALS, ETC.

Bro. Caskey thinks his book will be out in six weeks or two months.

Wm. Lipscomb, jr., will preach for the church in Neely's Bend first Lord's day in May next.

Jas. E. Scobey will preach at Salem church (Franklin County) fourth Lord's day in May.

One young man confessed his faith in Christ, and was baptized at Pinewood, third Lord's day inst.

Bro. Owen Henry preaches regularly for Sam's Creek congregation. He has located near Hyde's Ferry.

Sister M. A. Beal acknowledges reception of five dollars from the congregation at Robertson Fork, Tenn.

Bro. J. K. Blackman is much hindered in his work by catarrh; when at himself he is a good worker and splendid singer.

Remember, we will send the ADVOCATE from the first of May to the end of the year, for one dollar, to those who send in promptly.

Bro. J. A. Harding writes: "I am on my way to Gadsden, Ala. Expect to begin there Sunday. Had a most pleasant meeting at Valdosta. Received five additions."

We go to press this week without a communication from Bro. Harding. We regret that we have received nothing from him. We think it is the fault of the mails.

Bro. Braden has held a debate recently with Elder Kelly, on the claims of Mormonism. They are preparing it for the press. The book will be out in a couple of months.

Bro. W. H. Carter, from Lafayette, Tenn., writes: "Bro. Rogers and I preached at the Leonard school house last week; three were added by confession and baptism. The prospect is favorable for great good this year."

E. G. S. left 24th inst. for the South. He will visit Birmingham, Ala., from there to Northport where he will attend the consultation meeting of Alabama brethren on fourth Lord's day in April. Will be absent from this office about two or three weeks.

Bro. Caskey says he has done more labor in studying, writing and preaching, in the last few months, than he ever did in his life in same length of time; that he has stood up under it well, is now in good health, and thinks if he should "miss being hung, he will live until he dies" yet.

Dr. Lodge, of Detroit, Mich., spent several days in the city, on his return from Florida. He spoke in Edgefield and Nashville. Bro. Lodge has left the impression on those with whom he came in contact, of an earnest, kind-hearted man, and a good preacher.

Please note the following: The annual convention of the South Kentucky Christian Missionary Sunday-school Association will be held at Mayfield, Ky., June 24th, 25th, 26th. All pledges made to this work are now due, and should be forwarded at once to the Secretary and Treasurer. —[H. C. Waddell, Princeton, Ky., April 21, '84.

The new church house in Dozier's Bend, near this city, is now about complete, and reflects credit on all concerned. It is a framed building 30x40 feet with tin roof. All cost was met by members of the congregation except a few donations from brethren at Ashland City. This new congregation now numbers about twenty members. They are speaking of calling their house of worship New Hope. A large and attentive audience was present at their meeting the third Lord's day in this month. This church meets every first day of the week. May they keep the "unity of the spirit in the bond of peace."

We have received a handsome little volume of 127 pages, entitled "The Way to God, and How to Find it," by D. L. Moody. F. H. Revell, Publisher, Chicago. Like all of Mr. Moody's writings, it abounds in crisp and pithy truths mixed with many errors, presented in an earnest and attractive style. Price in cloth 60 cts., in paper 30 cents.

Bro. W. B. Wright, of Coopertown, Tenn., has engaged to preach for the new church near Guthrie, Ky., called Forest Hill, near the homes of Bros. J. W. Grant, Allen and Carpenter. This church proposes to hold a protracted meeting embracing the first Lord's day in May next. E. G. Sewell or Granville Lipscomb will be present to co-operate with Bro. Wright and the church in this meeting.

Sister Winnie Wilson, of Scott's Station, Ky., sends two dollars and fifty cents to church at Madison Station, Ala.; two dollars and fifty cents to church at Huntsville, Ala., and five dollars to our young Bro. Shepherd, who is conducting a school near Oakland Church, Madison County, Ala., and preaches at Huntsville and other places in that section. We wish him abundant success.

Bro. T. W. Caskey is anxious to find a copy of an address on the "Division of the Scriptures," that he delivered before the Southern Female College, in Claiborne county, Mississippi, of which Dr. Capers was president. It was delivered between 1856 and 1860, and was published at Jackson, Miss. Any one having a copy of said address will confer a favor on Bro. Caskey by mailing it to him at Greenville, Texas, or to the GOSPEL ADVOCATE.

Bro. W. H. Timmons, Sr., of Knob Creek congregation, Maury county, Tennessee, died of pneumonia, on the 23rd of April. Bro. Timmons was long known as a prominent citizen of Maury county, and leaves a large family of children and grandchildren to mourn his loss. Services were held by Bro. J. C. McQuiddy. Bro. Timmons was buried near his residence. He was about seventy-one years of age."

We are pained to hear of the death of the youngest son of Bro. W. J. Sowell, of Maury county, Tennessee. He was thrown from a horse, his leg broken, and, after days of suffering, he died from lock-jaw. Last year the family was called on to bury a daughter, just ripening into womanhood, and now the youngest son. We deeply sympathize with the bereaved and sorrowing family, and pray that in it all their affections they may find comfort, and the "peace that passeth understanding," in bowing to the dispensations of Providence.

The Christian Messenger is responsible for the following:

A certain preacher of the Methodist persuasion, in Texas, had a lady to baptize and she preferred to receive it in the old apostolic way, by going down into the water. In fact, she refused to receive it any other way. The preacher did not like water, especially "much water," and it looked to him very unclerical to get his clothes wet. So he prepared a bench, and placed it in the water, and on this he stood, or knelt, when he went to baptize the woman. She was in the water where it was rather deep, and thought it was unfair for the minister to stand on the bench, and not get wet at all. So she reached up and caught him by the neck, while he knelt and quoting the passage, "And they went down both Philip and the eunuch, into the water," she gave him a quick jerk and sent him over his head into the liquid Jordan. Then she walked out, and postponed her baptism until she could find a minister who would administer it in the scriptural manner. That preacher now believes in means into.

General News.

The President has recommended to the Senate of the removal of collector Wickers, at Key West, because of alleged sympathy with the Cuban filibusters, who recently left that port. The question is now under consideration by the Senate committee on Commerce.—The First Comptroller of the Treasury, has made a decision in effect that a liquor dealer who sells at one time different kinds of liquor to the amount of five gallons, is to be considered a wholesale dealer.—The warships, Alliance and Tennessee, two revenue cutters, and the steam launches, form a cordon around the island of Key West, to prevent the departure of any Cuban expedition.—Gold discoveries are reported in the vicinity of Pike's Peak, twenty-five miles north of Denver.—A Cincinnati paper says that there are over one hundred indictments pending in the Hamilton County Courts, charging murder or attempted murder. Men charged with murder are out on bail.—The Greenback Convention which met in the city on the 24th inst, nominated W. J. Buchanan, of Lawrence county, for Governor.—Great suffering from a lack of food is reported from many places overflowed lately by the Mississippi.—The Pennsylvania wool growers, in convention at Pittsburg, bitterly denounced the action of Congress on the tariff question, demanded the restoration of the tariff of 1867 on wool, and pledged not to support any man for Congress who votes antagonistic to their interest.—The steamer Bear, of the Greeley relief expedition, took her departure from New York for the Arctic region on the 24th inst.—The suspension bridge over the river in this city, has been condemned by the City Engineer. The street cars and heavy wagons have been stopped from crossing it.—In the Massachusetts House a resolution providing for a prohibitory amendment to the constitution, and offered as a substitute for the adverse report of the majority of the committee on Liquor Law, was rejected by a vote of 74 to 87. The adverse report of the committee was adopted.—It is said that eleven additional veins of pure cassiterite have been discovered in the tin mine of King's Mountain, N. C. The veins vary from one to four inches in thickness, and assay from 50 to 73 per cent. of tin.—At the general wind up of cattle in Montana 650,000 head were returned for taxation, and, as only two thirds are ever returned, it is estimated that there are fully 1,000,000 head in the Territory. The same statistician estimates that cattle owners can count on an average profit of from 25 to 50 per cent.—A Canada Statistician has figured out that the United States Government pays as much money to support and superintend its Indians as it would to board them all at the Fifth Avenue Hotel, in New York.—The bronze statue of Martin Luther, which is to be erected in the city of Washington, next month, arrived at Baltimore last week. The statue was cast in Germany. It weighs three tons, is 11½ feet high, and is a fac-simile of the figure of Luther in the Reformation group at Worms.—Eleven tons of "bobs" veal and cow meat were seized by the sanitary inspectors in New York, last week.

FOREIGN.—A rumor is prevalent in Paris of a plot to blow up the public buildings in London.—Excitement spreads in Cuba as the landing and successes of Aguero become known. The government, by a strict censorship over the dispatches and the press, tried to withhold information on the subject. An effort is making to work up a sentiment in favor of annexation to the United States, and the feeling in favor is growing among the best element of the Spanish population.—The free exportation of dynamite from Havre to England continues. It is carried over in small packages, and joined together so as to give it more power after its arrival in England.—The cholera is increasing at Calcutta. There were 207 deaths there last week from the disease.—Queen Victoria is quite ill, and is visited daily by a physician.—Gordon has notified the British government that owing to the difficulty and delay experienced in sending and receiving communications, he will henceforth act on his own judgement and responsibility.—A fire in the Pagebank Colliery, near Durham, caused a damage of £30,000, and throws 700 hands idle.

Home Reading.

MINE.

I closely held, within my arms,
A jewel rare.
Never had one so rich and pure
Engaged my care.

'Twas my own, my precious jewel,
God gave it me.
'Twas mine; who else could care for it
So tenderly?

But the dear Master came one day,
My gem to take.
"I cannot let it go," I cried,
"My heart would break."

"Nay, but the Master comes for it,
To bear above,
To deck His royal diadem,
He comes in love."

"But, Master, it is my treasure,
My jewel rare;
I'll safely guard and keep it pure,
And very fair."

"If thou keepest thy gem," He said,
"It may be lost;
The threshold of my home, no thief
Has ever crossed."

"And where the heart's rich treasure is
The heart will be.
Your jewel will be safe above,
Gone before thee."

The Master said these words and gazed
With pitying look,
While in the early hush of morn,
My gem He took.

Close to my breast, that morn I held,
Tears falling fast.
An empty casket,—the bright gem
Was safe at last.

Yes, Master, thou mayest keep my own,
For it is thine,
Safe in the house not made with hands,
'Tis thine and mine. —Mrs. A. P. Potter.

BIRDS AND ANIMALS OF CALIFORNIA.

One of the oddest California birds is the little owl, somewhat similar to the screech-owl of the Eastern States. Unlike the owl of these States, he does not live in the hollows of trees, and in barns and other buildings, but lives in holes in the ground which have been dug by a burrowing animal called a squirrel by the farmers of California. People say that the owls and squirrels inhabit the same burrow, but as the holes were deep, I never dug into them to see if they lived together. From indications, I think the little "wonder-eyes" lived in burrows which the squirrels had vacated. On bright mornings I often saw three or four of the owls quietly enjoying the sunshine. They seemed so lazy that they would nearly twist their heads off rather than turn their bodies when they watched my movements. One mischievous chap, which lived by itself, was very fond of teasing my dog Jack by flying close to him and screaming at him. Jack would chase him, barking loudly, and trying to catch him by jumping up. Alas! the owl grew too bold one day and flew too close, and Jack caught him and ended the fun.

There is a species of rat in California which heaps up large quantities of sticks and leaves and forms a nest. When I found these nests in the mountains along the sea coast, they were to or three feet high, but in the valleys, among the farms, the nests were smaller, and were built in the forks of the scrubby, wide-spreading white-oak trees. I well remember the jolly times among the boys when we set fire to the nests in the trees and banged away at them as they ran hither and thither along the limbs of the trees. Although troublesome, these rats are not so injurious to the wheat as are the hundreds of squirrels which burrow in the wheat-fields and eat the wheat. The farmers poison a great many by mixing phosphorus with wheat, and placing a small quantity at the entrance of their burrows.

The large, sleek gophers are sometimes plowed up and it is amusing to see them stand up and show fight, although they seem to be almost blind. The squirrels are larger than the common gray squirrel of the Eastern States, and are sometimes shot and eaten by the farmers.

The rabbit of California is smaller than the rabbit of the Atlantic coast; but the hare, called "Jack rabbit," is much larger. It is a very rapid runner, and it takes the best of dogs to catch one. Chasing them with good English hounds is very exciting sport. It has large, long ears, and when it is started, and not pursued too closely, it will stop, stand up and listen. I have walked along one side of a quiet road, while a "Jack-rabbit" stood on the other side and watched me.

The quails are different in color from those farther east. The mountain quail is larger than the valley quail, and has a plume on the top of his head. The wood-peckers have a different plumage from the eastern ones, and spend the Autumn day in storing the acorns in little holes which they have pecked in the great redwood trees. Even the crows seem larger and bolder, following closely in the furrow of the plowman, along with the saucy blackbird, eager to see which shall be the first to seize the luckless worm.

One might go for many days amongst the mountains and not see a grizzly bear, and then he might see one when he did not wish to. They are fond of young pork, and an old friend of mine who missed some choice pigs, thought he would watch for the thief. Hearing a noise at the pen, he started towards it, but was seized by the left arm above the elbow, by an old grizzly, who bit clear through the fleshy part of his arm, and then let go. Our friend forgot the pigs and went to the house. He carries the marks of those huge teeth, as to his close acquaintance with a grizzly bear. Deer are sometimes seen during the daytime, near the mountain ranches; and at night, they sometimes make sad havoc with the vineyards of the mountain ranchmen. The much dreaded California lion is often talked of but rarely seen. Space can not be taken up to tell of the various other birds and animals which inhabit the Golden State.—Western Christian Advocate.

LETTERS TO UNCLE MINOR.

Dear Uncle Minor: I am a little girl, thirteen years old. My father takes the ADVOCATE, and I love to read your good letters. I am glad to say that a Bible Class was organized last Sunday at Salem. I went to church to-day. Bro. Turner preached. But I will close, as this is my first attempt to write.—[Elizabeth Lanier, Comer, Ala.]

Dear Uncle Minor: As I see that a great many of the young people are writing for the ADVOCATE, I thought I would write; but as it is my first letter, you can't expect much. We have a large church house at Cedar Plains, but we have preaching only on every second Lord's day in each month, by Elder William King. As I have nothing else to write, I will say something about the crops, and the health of the country. We have had a very disagreeable winter and spring, and the farmers are getting along very slow with their crops. The health of the country is not very good. Fearing my letter will be too lengthy, I will close, and try to do better next time.—[Mary Hill, Cedar Plains, Ala.]

"FATHER KNEW BEST, IT SEEMS."

"Oh, dear!" said Emma, and she looked disgusted.

"I think as much," said Laura, and she pouted. It was all because in a lovely wood they had come miles to find there was a great picnic party, filling the boats on the little river, using the croquet-grounds, using all the nice cosy sitting places under spreading trees, using the tables and benches, swarming everywhere. Now, the fact was that Emma and Laure wanted the grove for their picnic, and the people who were to attend it were mother and father, and baby Joe, and their two selves.

It was quite an event to the Lawrence family; for father rarely had a day to spare.

"Never mind," said the mother, trying to smile away the frown on her daughters' face. "Our party is so small we can find a pleasant place elsewhere."

But the girls didn't believe it, and they spoiled two miles of that ride in fretting. They found a lovely old tree, and smaller ones near it, and a stream of clear water trickling down from somewhere.

Oh, oh!" they both said. "Father, do please stop here!—Mamma, only see what a lovely place!"

But the father had been looking at the sky for some minutes, and he shook his head.

"It wouldn't be safe, girls. There is a heavy storm coming this way, I think. We must drive on, and reach a place of shelter. It wouldn't be good for little Joe to get a wetting."

Then you should have heard Emma and Laura, they grew so w. e! They were sure it wasn't going to rain a drop to-day; and when their argument failed to convince their father, and when he further said they must try to reach the village, and eat their lunch at a hotel, then the misery of these unhappy girls was great. "The idea," they said, "of waiting all summer to have a picnic, and then eat their dinner out of a basket in a miserable little country hotel! They were not going to do it." Then I regret to tell you that they sulked and refused to look at certain pretty sights which mother pointed out on the way. Arrived at the hotel they wanted no dinner, not they; and they tossed their heads and looked injured.

They would go for a walk; and it was by their father's command that they took an umbrella. However, it was just a dash of rain lasting just long enough to wet the girls.

"If we had been under the big tree where we wanted to stop," they said, "there couldn't a drop have touched us."

Much more of this kind they said; and when the horse was rested, they started homeward; father sorry for his daughters' disappointment, remarked that, if the woods were not too wet, they would stop a while.

"Too wet!" said Emma. "Why it hasn't rained twenty drops."

"No indeed," said Laura. But as they rode along, the way grew muddier, and muddier, and it was evident that in this direction the shower had been heavy.

At last they came again to the great old tree; but what do you think had happened? Why, the lightning had been there, and torn the branches, and uprooted part of the heavy trunk, and ruined the beautiful tree.

"Oh, my!" said the mother.

"That would have been certain death to any one under its branches," said the father; while the girls looked at each other, and said not a word.

That evening, while they were making ready for the night, Emma said, "Father knew best, it seems."

"Yes indeed!" said Laura.

What a pity that they spoiled much of their day by not remembering that before!—The Pansy.

MR. SPURGEON'S WORK.

In the series of papers, entitled, "Centres of Spiritual Activity," now being published in the Pall-Mall Gazette, an account of the work at the Metropolitan Tabernacle has been supplied from the pen of the Rev. V. J. Charlesworth. With regard to the dimensions of the Tabernacle, Mr. Charlesworth says: "Although the number of sittings in the pews does not exceed 4,000, when the free seats and aisles are occupied, a congregation of 6,000 persons can be brought within the range of the speaker's voice." The number of church members is 5,339, which suggests the remark: "We are not aware of another instance where the number of church members is in excess of the sitting accommodation of the place of worship to which they are attached." The care of the fabric and matters of finance are entrusted to nine deacons, who are assisted in church work by from 30 to 40 elders. The Monday evening prayer-meetings are usually attended by upwards of 2,000 of the members. From the Pastor's College have gone forth 667 students, of whom 527 hold pastoral office. "Some of the principal Baptist churches in Great Britain are presided over by men trained" in this college, and "there is scarcely a mission field in the world without its representatives." Six students have been set apart for mission work in connection with the Society of Evangelists. The Country Mission has 30 voluntary preachers on its roll, and 15 stations under its jurisdiction. The Colportage Association employs from 70 to 80 colporteurs. In the Stockwell Orphanage, nearly 1,000 orphan children have been admitted; at the present time there are about 400 in residence. The almshouses provide for 18 poor women, members of the church, above 60 years of age. Mr. Charlesworth remarks: "Whether the Tabernacle be regarded as an ecclesiastical fact or as a spiritual factor, it cannot but excite a feeling of wonder when it is remembered that it has been created and sustained for nearly a quarter of a century by a man who has not yet seen fifty summers. The commemoration of Mr. Spurgeon's jubilee, on the 19th of June next, will have more than a local or a denominational interest, and ought not to be allowed to pass, should he be spared to see it, without the occasion being marked by a tribute worthy of the event.—The Christian World.

A Prominent Minister Writes.

Dr. Mozley—Dear Sir: After ten years of great suffering from indigestion or dyspepsia, with great nervous prostration and biliousness, disordered kidneys and constipation. I have been cured by four bottles of your Lemon Elixir, and am now a well man.

REV. C. C. DAVIS, Elder M. E. Church South,
No. 28 Tenth St. Atlanta, Ga.

From Two Prominent Ladies.

I have not been able in two years to walk or stand without suffering great pain. Since taking Dr. Mozley's Lemon Elixir, I can walk half mile without suffering the least inconvenience.

Mrs. R. H. BLOODWORTH, Griffin, Ga.

Dr. H. Mozley: After years of suffering from indigestion, great debility and nervous prostration, with the usual female irregularities and derangements accompanying such condition of a woman's health I have been permanently relieved by the use of your Lemon Elixir.

Mrs. E. DENNIS,
No. 46 Chapel St., Atlanta, Ga.

J. Pratt, druggist, Wright City, Missouri, writes: Lemon Elixir gives the greatest satisfaction. It has cured a case of chills and fever of four years standing.

Dr. Mozley's Lemon Elixir, prepared at his Drug Store, 114 Whitehall Street Atlanta, Ga.

It cures all biliousness, constipation, indigestion, headache, malarial, kidney disease, fever, chills, impurities of the blood, loss of appetite, debility and nervous prostration and all other diseases caused from diseased Liver and Kidneys.

Fifty cents for one pint bottle, one dollar for pint and a half bottle. Sold by druggists generally, and all wholesale druggists, Louisville, Ky.

Miscellaneous.*Snakes as Life Destroyers.

The loss of life in India due to the ravages of venomous snakes is almost incredible. Yet Consumption, which is as wily and as fatal as the deadliest Indian reptile, is winding its coils around thousands of people while the victims are unconscious of its presence. Dr. R. V. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" must be used to cleanse the blood of the scrofulous impurities, for tubercular consumption is only a form of scrofulous disease. "Golden Medical Discovery" is a sovering remedy for all forms of scrofulous disease, or king's evil, such as tumors, white swellings, fever sores, scrofulous sore-eyes, as well as for other blood and skin diseases. By druggists.

Dr. KLINE's Great Nerve Restorer is the marvel of the age for all Nerve Diseases. All fits stopped free. Send to 931 Arch Street, Philada, Pa.

SANITARIUM, Riverside, Cal. The dry climate cures. Nose, Throat, Lungs, full idea, 36p, route, cost free.

Fits, Fits, Fits, successfully treated by World's Dispensary Medical Association." Address, with stamp for pamphlet, Buffalo, N. Y.

Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar overpowers the most troublesome cough.

Pike's Toothache Drops cure in one minute.

Glenn's Sulphur Soap cures skin diseases.

Catarrh Cured.

A Clergyman, after suffering a number of years from that dreadful disease Catarrh, and after trying every known remedy without success, at last found a prescription which completely cured and saved him from death. Any sufferer from this dreadful disease sending a self-addressed stamped envelope to Dr. J. A. LAWRENCE, Brooklyn, N. Y. will receive the recipe free of charge.

Extract of Report from the Celebrated Physicians, Erasmus Wilson, of London, Eng.: "Several severe cases of incipient Consumption have come under my observation that have been cured by the timely use of Golden's Liquid Beef Tonic. (Remember the name, Golden's—take no other.) Of druggists.

Taken out of Bed.

Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.:
Dear Sir—I have to thank you for the great relief received from your "Favorite prescription." My sickness lasted seven years, one of which I was in bed. After taking one bottle I was able to be about the house. Respectfully, Amanda K. Ennis, Fulton, Mich.

—For sufferers of Chronic Diseases, 36 pp, symptoms, remedies, helps, advice. Send stamp—Dr. Whittier, St. Louis, Mo., (oldest office.) State case your way.

Have you Nasal Catarrh?

Use Dr. H. JAMES' three preparations of EAST INDIA HEMP; they will prevent the Catarrh entering the Bronchial tubes or lungs, thereby warding off Consumption and keep the disease located until positively cured. Put yourself fully under the influence of these remedies, and as sure as the Sun shines upon you a complete cure will be made of that loathsome disease. Ask your druggist for Dr. JAMES' CANNABIS INDICA, and if they fail, send us direct. $2.50 per bottle, or three bottles $6.50. Pills and Ointment, $1.25 each.

Address, CRADDOCK & CO.,
1032 Race St., Philadelphia, Pa.
N. B.—Circulars free.

LADIES! ONLY.

For 25 cents we will send you a three months' subscription to our large 16 page Illustrated Household and Fashion Magazine, and present each new subscriber 26 large samples of beautiful silks, assorted colors, for crazy patchwork. For 50c. we will send the Magazine six months, and give you free a large package, assorted silks, for which other firms charge one dollar. For $1.00 dollar we will send the Magazine one year and give you two large packages and our new book, The Ladies Guide to Fancy Work. If you will get up a club of five of either 3, 6, or 12 month subscribers, we will send you for your trouble a subscription and premium free. Mention this paper when you write.

M. J. STODDART & CO.,
126 Chambers St., N. Y.

BEATTY
PIPE ORGAN
2 Blow Pedals, 25 Stops, in perfect order, warranted only $49.75. Parlor, Chapel and Cottage Organs, at Bargain Prices. Forties Grand, Square & Upright, for $250.00 worth $1,000. Order immediately or send for Circular. Address, DANIEL F. BEATTY, Washington, New Jersey.

The Great LIGHT.

FRANK'S Patent Reflectors give the Most Powerful, the Softest, Cheapest and the Best Light known for Churches, Stores, Show Windows, Parlors, Banks, Offices, Picture Galleries, Theatres, Depots, etc. New and elegant designs. Send size of room. Get circular and estimate. A liberal discount to churches and the trade.

I. P. FRANK, 551 Pearl St., N. Y.

WANTED
HELP.
Entirely New.
PROFITABLE.
Outfit Free.

We want an AGENT in every locality. Something entirely new. Our Agents are sweeping the field wherever they go, and making money rapidly. Men, women, boys, girls, all do equally well. Will send you full outfit on receipt of 2 cent Stamp. Don't delay. Address at once, S. S. PUBLISHING CO., Brownwood, Texas.

STEM WINDING MUSICAL WATCH
Each Watch is finely made, silver plated and the greatest novelty ever offered to the boys and girls of America. It is a Complete Musical Instrument, size and shape of a Watch, with Music Box attachment concealed within, so arranged that when wound at the stem, plays one of the following tunes:—"Home, Sweet Home," "Yankee Doodle," "Blue Bells of Scotland," "Coming Through the Rye," "Swanee River," "Carnival of Venice," "Grandfather's Clock," "Waltz, Polka, Schottische," "Wait till the clock tolls." The notes, time, and tones are correct. It instructs and entertains both old and young. On receipt of 25 Cents, will send it by mail, post-paid. Just think of it! A Music Box for 25 Cents. Yours Sincerely, A. E. PRATT & CO. SPECIAL OFFER:—If you will order before June 15th, we will send you yours for only $1.00. You will be delighted with them. Address: No. 27 Park Place, New York.

AGENTS Wanted for handsome illustrated standard works of character, great variety, low in price, selling fast, needed everywhere; Liberal terms. Wm. Garretson & Co., 32 College St., Nashville, Tenn.

The GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER

Dr. Samuel Hodges' Alternative Compound Sarsaparilla with Iodide Potash. This compound is purely vegetable, each article of ingredient is perfectly harmless in itself, having been selected from roots and herbs possessing great medicinal properties, when combined forms a most powerful, efficient, and pleasant medicine for the removal and permanent cure of ALL diseases, arising from an impure state of system, viz.:
Rheumatism, Scrofula or King's evil, Scald-head or Tetter, Chronic Sore Eyes, Old or Chronic Sores of all kinds, Boils, Pimples, Syphilitic Rheumatism, Primary and Secondary Syphilis, Nervous Debility, Liver Complaints, Inflammation of the Kidneys and Bladder, renovates and invigorates the system; acts gently on the bowels. As an appetizer and for general debility, it is a most excellent remedy.

CAMPBELL BROS., Druggists, Sole Manufacturers.
For Sale by all druggists. Price $1.00 per bottle, or 5 for $5.00. Liberal discount to the trade.

ALSO MANUFACTURERS OF

ETHIOPIAN PILE OINTMENT

A never failing remedy for External, internal or Itching Piles. Ask your Druggist for it. None genuine without the Trade Mark. Price $1.00 per Bottle.

TESTIMONIAL.

This is to certify that I was afflicted with Piles for twenty years. I tried every Remedy offered me. Finally used the Ethiopian Pile Ointment, and found it the very best preparation I ever used. It will give almost immediate relief and will finally effect a permanent cure.

Ed. A. IRELAND

Formerly of Gallatin, now of Breen, Phillips & Co., Nashville, Tennessee.

CAMPBELL BROS., Druggists,
or, Broad and Summer Sts.,
NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE.

F. H. STICKLEY.

ES. C. W. LEWIS

STICKLEY & LEWIS,

Having moved to our elegant store-room,

NO. 34 NORTH SUMMER STREET,

We will carry a large stock of fine Millinery and Fancy Goods, the light-running New Home Sewing Machines, Needles, Oil and Attachments for all machines. Fine imported German Canary Birds, good singers, $3 each. Bird Cages, Food and Tonic always on hand. Mrs. Lewis is also prepared to do Fashionable Dress Making, Dying Plumes, Cleaning Gloves and Stamping. Old Machines of any kind repaired or taken in part pay for the New Home.

CARPETS!*CARPETS!

FROM

New York Bankrup Sales.

MANLOVE & CO.,

26 and 28 N. Summer Street,

Are now in receipt of an immense stock, recently bought at prices lower than ever before. Now is the time to buy Good Carpets cheap, and guaranteed to be as cheap as any Eastern market.

MANLOVE & CO.,

26 and 28 N. Summer Street,

NASHVILLE, TENN.

$66 a week in your own town. Terms and $5 outfit free. Address H. Haller & Co., Portland, Me.

$72 A WEEK, $12 a day at home easily made. Costly outfit free. Address Tans & Co., Augusta, Me.

Warner Bros. Celebrated Corset. This Corset has been before the public but three years, but it has already reached the largest sale ever attained by any corset. Its merits are best proven by the fact that more than forty imitations have been put upon the market to sell upon the reputation of the Corset.

Ask for Dr. Warner's Corset, and be sure the name "WARNER BROS." is on the box. We also make the following corsets: Banded with Coralline; Health, Model Moulded, Nursing, Flexible Hip, Abdominal and Misses.

Price from $1 up.

FOR SALE BY LEADING MERCHANTS EVERYWHERE.

Avoid all imitations. Be sure our name is on the box.

WARNER BROS.,

853 BROADWAY NEW YORK.

American College Song Book.

A collection of the Songs of 50 representative American Colleges. One can hardly imagine Songs fresher and brighter than these, 200 in number, and all newly contributed by the colleges in question, including Vassar and Wellesley. There is an average of 4 songs from each college. Price $2.00.

Also published, Carmina Collegensia, $3.00. University Songs, $2.50, and Students Life in Song, $1.50.

THE STUDENT'S HISTORY OF MUSIC.

Just published. BY DR. FREDERICK LOUIS BRITTON.

A book of great importance, giving a concise and interesting narrative of the progress of music during the last 200 years. Price $2.50.

Almost ready.

A new Sunday School Song Book of fine quality, by Emerson and Sherwin. Wait for it.

CANTATAS AND OPERETTAS

More and more used, every year, in every School Life, and furnishes most valuable practice.

Forest Jubilee Band (40 cts.), new. Flower Festival on the Rhine, (45 cts.) Crown of Virtue, (60 cts.) Fairy Bridal (50 cts.) New Flower Queen, (75 cts.) Hour in Fairy Land (60 cts.) Little Bo Peep, (60 cts.) Three Little Kittens, (60 cts.) Quarrel Among Flowers (35 cts.) Spring Holiday, (60 cts.) School Festival (20 cts.) and Cinderella, (50 cts.) are all lively and pretty Cantatas.

OLIVER DITSON & CO., Boston.

C. H. DITSON & CO. J. E. DITSON & CO. 843 Broadway N. Y. 1228 Chestnut St., Phila.

BEAUTIFUL FLOWERS

NEW CHOICE SEEDS! FRUITS!

All of the best, both new and old. Plants, Trees, Vines, Seeds, &c., by mail, a specialty. Satisfaction guaranteed. 60 choice, cheap, $1 Sets, for example:

12 ROSES, Ever-Blooming, $1. 30 PACKETS FLOWER SEEDS, $1.

For the other 58 $1 Sets and 1,001 things besides, send for our illustrated Catalogue of over 100 pages, free. None better nor more reliable. Established 30 yrs. 500 acres. 21 large Greenhouses.

THE STORRS & HARRISON CO. FAIRFAXVILLE, LAKE COUNTY, OHIO

The Ministers' and Teachers' Bible.

This magnificent Parlor Bible is imported from London and is indorsed as "The Best of the leading Bishops of England, in addition to the Old and New Testaments it contains a Concordance of Bible Words! 40,000 References with Context! An Encyclopedia. A Dictionary of Proper Names, with Pronunciation, 12 full page colored Maps. Poetry, Music, Etymology, Plants, Animals, and Jewish sects of the Bible. "Superior to all others."—N. Y. Times. "A complete Biblical Encyclopedia."—London Times. This Bible is bound in French Morocco, gilt edges, with silk book-mark, and has copious references. Rev. Eli Milton, Norwalk, O., writes: "The Bibles received to-day, I am more than pleased." A Special Offer! To rapidly introduce this Bible in America we will, for a limited time only, send one copy, post-paid, to any address on receipt of only $2.00! 12 copies and one copy of Revised New Testament for $2.00! Other Bibles, with less matter, sell for $15.

Order at once. AGENTS WANTED! Circulars free.

C. S. MAYO & CO., 160 La Salle St., Chicago, Ill.

SAMARITAN NERVINE IS UNFAILING AND INFALLIBLE IN CURING Epileptic Fits, Spasm, Falling Sickness, Convulsions, St. Vitus Dance, Alcoholism, Opium Eating, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, Syphilis, Scrofula, and all Nervous and Blood Diseases.

To Clergymen, Lawyers, Literary Men, Merchants, Bankers, Ladies and all whose sedentary employment causes Nervous Prostration, Irregularities of the blood, stomach, bowels or kidneys, or who require a nerve tonic, appetizer or stimulant, Samaritan Nervine is invaluable.

Thousands proclaim it the most wonderful invigorant that ever sustained a sinking system. $1.50, at Druggists.

The DR. S. A. RICHMOND MEDICAL CO., Sole Proprietors, St. Joseph, Mo. For testimonials and circulars send stamp. (18 Lord, Stutenburgh & Co., Ag'ts, Chicago, Ill.)

Sabbath Bells FOR SUNDAY SCHOOLS SOCIAL MEETINGS, ETC. LATEST SONG BOOK OUT.

What people say of it: "Unusually bright in stirring and joyful songs." "A very superior book." "A grand work." "Its songs are golden." "Never examined a better book." "The quality of songs, together with its new and content arrangements, make it a most desirable work." "An examination proves its superior merit." "It speaks for itself." All we ask of Sunday Schools needing new song books, is to send for a sample copy before adopting any other. Single copy 3c., or $3.50 per doz. Sample copy to any address, 25 cents. Printed both in round and character notes. FINEST FRIEND PUBLISHING CO., Springfield, Ohio.

McSHANE BELL FOUNDRY.

Manufacture those celebrated Chimes and Bells for CHURCHES, ACADEMIES &c. Price-list and circulars sent free.

HENRY McSHANE & CO., Baltimore, Md.

Baltimore Church Bells

Since 1844 celebrated for Superiority over others, are made only of Purest Bell Metal, (Copper and Tin) Rotary Mountings, warranted satisfactory. For Prices, Circulars, &c., address BALTIMORE BELL FOUNDRY, J. REGESTER & SONS, Baltimore, Md.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY.

Bells of Pure Copper and Tin for Churches, Schools, Fire Alarms, Farms, etc. FULLY WARRANTED. Catalogue sent free.

VANDUZEN & TIFT, Cincinnati, O.

PILES "Anakesis" gives instant relief, and is infallible cure for Piles.

Price $1, at druggists, or sent prepaid by mail. Sample free. Ad. "ANAKESIS" Makers, Box 2416 New York.

2806 Lbs. Weight OF TWO OHIO IMPROVED CHESTER HOGS. Send for description of this famous breed. Also Fowls, L. B. SILVER, CLEVELAND, O.

Agents wanted. $5 a Day made selling our New HIGHER PRICED SCALE. Weighs up to 3 lbs. Price, $1.50. Domestic Scale Co., Cin. O.

Our new war book, DEEDS OF DARING by Blue and Grey, is out selling all other books. Illustrated circular and terms free.

FORSHEE & McMACKIN, Cincinnati, O.

SEEDS

Our Annual Catalogue, Beautifully Engraved and Illustrated; Hints and Treatise on Southern CULTURE, VEGETABLES, GRASSES, SMALL GRAINS and FLOWERS. MAILED FREE UPON APPLICATION.

E. M. SARGENT & CO., Seed Growers, Macon, Georgia.

THE COMPLETE HOME.

Agents wanted for this beautiful book. New edition—New bindings—New illustrations from new designs. Superbly gotten up. Same low price. Adapted to all classes. Sells at sight. Agents doing big work. EXCELLENT TERMS. The handsomest prospectus ever issued. Apply now. WM. GARRETTSON & CO., 30 College St., Nashville, Tenn. Also other grand new books and Bibles.

SEEDS

Our new catalogue, best published, Free to all. 1,500 varieties, 300 illustrations. You ought to have it. BENSON, MAULE & CO., Philadelphia, Pa.

TRADE-MARKS, PATENTS, COPY-RIGHTS, DESIGNS, RE-ISSUES.

Send description of your Invention. L. BINGHAM, Patent Lawyer and Solicitor, Washington, D. C.

BURRITT COLLEGE,

SPENCER, TENN.

THIS INSTITUTION, chartered in 1848, has now been favorably known for more than thirty years, for its discipline, both as regards education and government. Located on the Cumberland Plateau, it is free from epidemics. The water is pure freestone and chalybeate. The breezes of Summer are delightful and invigorating, and the gales of winter not too severe. The College buildings, recently enlarged by the Christian Brotherhood of Tennessee, are sufficiently commodious to accommodate a large class of young Ladies and Gentlemen. Spence: is ten miles South-east of Manchester & McMinnville Railroad.

TERMS:

Tuition, Primary Dep't'm't, per S's'n, $ 7 50	Tuition, Commercial Dep't'm't per S's'n, $20 00
Preparatory, " " 15 00	Lessons instrumental Music from $15 to $20
College, " " 20 00	in Art Department from 2 50 to 10

Board and washing for males, per week, from $3.00 to $2.50; Fuel, light, and incidental expenses, per session, $10.00; Board (including washing, fuel, and light) for females, per week $3.00.

The Spring Session of 1884, begins on the Last Monday in February.

For further particulars address,

Prof. A. T. SEITZ, President,
Or W. H. SUTTON, Sec. Board Trustees.

FREE TO YOU.

HOW TO MAKE MONEY FAST & EASY

SOLID GOLD HUNTING CASE WATCH FREE!

Solid Coin Silver Hunting Case Watch Free!

Large Size Gents' Aluminum Gold Watch Free!

TO OUR AGENTS. READ EVERY WORD. We now offer you the Finest and Most Beautiful Work of Art.

THE LORD'S PRAYER,

that was ever offered to the public. Every Christian Family will buy one.

Over 1000 sold by one Agent in one month.

The LORD'S PRAYER has been made the subject of an elaborate and costly engraving in large size (22x34; small size 18x24). It consists of the Lord's Prayer, embellished with over one hundred symbols and emblems, of the most fitting and appropriate character. These symbols and emblems are decorated with the finest and most exquisite work that is possible for an artist to do. The artist Herman Clausen, whose name is known throughout the world, has faithfully and with high imagination and skill, engraved the imaginary scenes of heaven in its resplendent beauty and glory. Nothing like it has ever been produced, and probably never will be. It has cost years of toil and $5,000 in money to complete this work of art. We have spared neither money, labor or time in the completion of what we regard as the grandest piece of workmanship ever produced in this country. We have purchased the six stones for the engraving of these Prayers, and are the SOLE PUBLISHERS. It is Lithographed in TINTED COLORS and we can furnish Protestant or Catholic copies in any quantity, to agents or dealers in any part of the world.

This explanation will give you but a faint idea of the transcendent beauty and perfection of the design and execution of this engraving. It must be seen to enable you to realize what it is in its perfection.

WORD TO AGENTS.—A large number of agents are at work selling it now, and are reporting extraordinary large sales from every quarter. You cannot fail to succeed in selling it, as the moral sentiment of this engraving insures its success. This feature cannot be over estimated, as it alone determines the sale of it throughout all Christendom.

Every Christian man or woman will have one if they have money to buy it. One word with regard to the price. The first Edition of this engraving was sold at $2.00 each, only a fair price for such a work of art, but when we bought it, we put the price right down to 50 cents, and now sell them for 25 cents each, which is very cheap.

Read the testimonials from other papers: The Chicago Express says, "We know Messrs. E. Nason & Co., personally and to be reliable. The Lord's Prayer is well worth the money, and will please everyone who orders it, and the Watches are just as represented." NEW YORK CHRISTIAN AT WORK, March 3, says, "Should be in every home, and as a work of art commands itself to all." NEW YORK OBSERVER, says, "Is the best issued; all should have it, and at price offered, all can afford it, and as a work of art is unexcelled." NEW YORK EXAMINER, says, "Is a beautiful work of art in tinted colors, and very low priced." THE WEEKEND, says, "A New York publishing house has just offered to the public an engraving of the Lord's Prayer. It is one of the most beautiful pen pictures ever published, and those who order it cannot fail to be pleased with their purchase." CHRISTIAN UNION, says, "Every reader wants it. Fine work of art, and sold at a low price." We have many more such, but have not room for them.

We will send a million copies of this Prayer, and we make this Special Offer to the readers of this paper.

We will send a copy postpaid, to canvass with, for 25 Cents, and if you get up a club of 10 subscribers and send us $2.50 we will make you a present of 10 copies; that is we will send 20 copies, postpaid, for $2.50.

Another Special Offer.—Send $3.00 and we will send you 100 copies of the Lord's Prayer by express, and make you a present free of a large sized Hunting Case Aluminum Gold Watch, and send it with the 100 Prayers. You can sell the Watch for what the Prayers cost, and at least $25.00 for the Prayers.

New Special Offer.—Send us $15.00 and we will send you 100 copies of the Lord's Prayer, and make you a present free of a Gent's Solid Silver Hunting Case Watch, and send it with the 100 Prayers.

Last Grand Offer.—Send us $25.00 in registered letter or Post Office order and we will send you by express 200 Lord's Prayers and this splendid Solid Gold Watch free (see cut). We warrant the cases of the Watch Solid Gold.

Agents, do not fail to send for Sample Copy of the engraving to canvass with. You can easily sell 100 copies in six weeks in any country in the United States, on which you can make $250 clear money. We guarantee satisfaction or refund the money. In regard to our responsibility, we refer you to the publisher of this paper or any paper in the United States, the Nassau Bank, New York; Henry Lindenmeyer, New York, who furnishes the best Plate Paper for these Prayers, or any mercantile house in New York. Do not wait to send for catalogue but order from this paper and get to work at once. Mention the size of Prayer, large or small. 60 Prayers, 100 Prayers, 200 Prayers, 500 Prayers, 1000 Prayers. E. NASON & CO., 120 Fulton Street New York. Publishers of this Prayer. Mention this paper in ordering.

Every one of our readers should send and get a sample of this Lord's Prayer, to hang in their homes, or send and get one or two hundred and receive one of these Elegant Watches as a Free Premium.

The Prayers and Watches are just as represented. Name this Paper.

IMPORTANT REDUCTION IN THE PRICE OF ## VASELINE

(PETROLEUM JELLY.)

The great events of history in a single volume FAMOUS AND DECISIVE BATTLES OF THE WORLD.

By CAPT. KING, U. S. A. HISTORY FROM THE BATTLE-FIELD. Shows how Nations have been made or destroyed in a day.—How Fame or Disaster has turned on a single Contest. A Grand Book for Old and Young.—Saves Time. Aids the Memory.—Gives Pleasure and Instruction. Maps and Fine Illustrations. Agents Wanted Everywhere. Write at once for full description and terms. Address J. C. McOURDY & CO., Cincinnati, Ohio.

Write at once for full description and terms. Address J. C. McOURDY & CO., Cincinnati, Ohio.

HARTER'S IRON TONIC

THE ONLY TRUE

Will purify the BLOOD, regulate the LIVER and KIDNEYS, and RESTORE THE HEALTH and VIGOR of YOUTH. Dyspepsia, Want of Appetite, Indigestion, Lack of Strength, and Tired Feeling absolutely cured. Bones, muscles and nerves receive new force. Enlivens the mind and supplies Brain Power. Suffering from complaints peculiar to their sex will find in DR. HARTE'S IRON TONIC a safe and speedy cure. Gives a clear, healthy complexion. Frequent attempts at counterfeiting only add to the popularity of the original. Do not experiment—get the ORIGINAL AND BEST.

(Send your address to The Dr. Harter Med. Co., St. Louis, Mo., for our "DREAM BOOK.") Full of strange and useful information, free.

OPIMUM Morphine Habit Cured in 10 to 20 Days. No Pay until Cured. J. L. STEPHENS, M. D., Lebanon, Ohio.

TO SUNDAY SCHOOL WORKERS.

PURE DELIGHT.

A New Sunday School Song Book.

By Geo. F. Root and C. C. CASE. Contains New and Bright Words; Easy and Inspiring Music; Pure and Elevated Sentiments.

One of the leading features of the book is a set of BEAUTIFUL RESPONSIVE SERVICES

Especially prepared for it by Rev. W. H. PEARCE and Lewis MILLER, Esq.

193 pages, well printed and handsomely bound in boards. Price, 35 cents, each by mail, post-paid; $2.00 a dozen by express, not prepaid. Specimen pages free.

Published by JOHN CHURCH & CO., CINCINNATI, OHIO.

CHICAGO: ROOT & SONS MUSIC CO. 200 Wabash Ave. NEW YORK: J. CHURCH & CO. 5 Union Square.

For Sale by Booksellers and Music Dealers.

AGENTS EITHER SEX, we have the nearest, best and fastest selling articles out. No capital required. Goods paid for after sold. EMPIRE CO., 37 Canal St., N. Y.

FREEMAN & KEESEE, INTERIOR DECORATORS,

NO. 33 N. COLLEGE STREET, NASHVILLE, TENN.

Wall Paper and Decorations, Window Shades, Cornice, Curtain Poles, Gold and Walnut Pier and Mantle Mirrors, Engravings, Chromos, and Oil Paintings. Frames of All Kinds in Stock and Made to Order. Re-Gilding Old Frames a Specialty. Manufacturers of Fine Frames and Wood Mantles. CORRESPONDENCE SOLICITED. Apr 9

KEEP COOL!

SUMMER GOODS.

Refrigerators, Ice Chests, Water Coolers, Filters,
Fruit Jars, Fruit Cans, Stoneware, Woodenware, and all kinds of Kitchen Goods.
Cooking Stoves to suit the requirements of every Family.

PRICES TO SUIT THE TIMES.

Phillips-Buttorff Manufacturing Co.,

24 & 26 College Street.

Nashville, Tenn.

FIGUE, MANIER & CO.,
WHOLESALE DEALERS IN
BOOTS AND SHOES,
NO. 40 SOUTH MARKET STREET, NASHVILLE, TENN.

We are receiving a very large stock of Spring and Summer goods that we have had manufactured expressly for us, which we think, with our long experience and facilities, we can offer inducements, equal to any market, to prompt and cash dealers. All goods warranted to be as represented.

GRATEFUL PRAISE

FOR SUNDAY-SCHOOLS.

By J. H. FILLMORE.

Grateful Praise is purely a Sunday-school music book—not a gospel-meeting book. Everything in it is fresh and bright. Children will enjoy it. Its quality is first-class and not of a difficult grade. Examine it, and find your ideal.

Sample copy mailed for 25 cts. Price, per doz. by express, $3.60; per doz. by mail, $4.

Address FILLMORE BROS., 185 Race St., Cincinnati, O.

[Order now, or preserve this, it may not appear again.]

OFFICIAL REPORT.

Office of the Kentucky Agricultural and Mechanical Association.
Lexington, Ky., June 23rd, 1883.

TO ALL CONCERNED:

This is to certify that in the field trial of Twine-binders held by the Kentucky Agricultural and Mechanical Association on the farm of Mr. J. B. Clay, near Lexington on the 19th inst., in very heavy barley, the following machines competing, viz: Osborne, Deering, McCormick, Wood, Buckeye, Minneapolis, Dennett, Champion, St. Paul, Buckeye low-down and Deering low-down, the premium of a Gold Medal was awarded to the No. 11 Osborne.

Committee of Directors to Conduct Trial.
JESSE BRYANT,
N. F. BERRY,
D. H. JAMES,
W. H. GENTRY, Pres't.

H. P. KINKEAD, Sec'y.

The above is a true copy of report made by Committee and approved by Board of Directors this day.

Call at our Branch House in Nashville on EXAMINE "The Gold Medal Osborne," and a full line of Reapers and Mowers.

D. M. OSBORNE, & CO.

E. S. BRINGHURST, M'gr.

CHILDS' CATARRH

Treatment For

And Diseases of the
HEAD, THROAT & LUNGS!
Can be taken at home. No case incurable when our questions are properly answered. Write for circulars, testimonials, etc.,
REV. T. F. CHILDS, Troy, Ohio.

How to rear and manage poultry.
Send a ten-cent piece to
H. H. Stoddard,

Hartford, Ct.,
for a copy of the Poultry World,
and it will tell you.

CUT THIS OUT

by mail, a Golden Box of Goods, that will bring you in more money in One Month than anything else in America. Absolute Certainty. M. Young, 113 Greenwich St., New York.

And Return to me,
with TEN Cents, and you'll receive a Golden Box of Goods, that will bring you in more money in One Month than anything else in America. Absolute Certainty. M. Young, 113 Greenwich St., New York.

STEAM ENGINES

Portable and Agricultural.
Send for circulars.
Wood, Taber & Morse,
Eaton, N. Y.

WANTED A WOMAN
of sense and energy for our business in her locality, middle-aged preferred. Salary $25 to $50. References exchanged. GAY BROS. & CO., 14 BARCLAY ST., NEW YORK.

ACME Songs for the International Sunday School Lessons (Words and Music) adapted to each lesson in April, May, June, 32 pgs., 40 songs, 5c., 25 for $1 (mailed). Free copy to Pastor or Supl. sending postage. J. C. O. REDINGTON, 267 Broadway, N. Y.

PATENTS Hand-Book FREE.
R. S. & A. P. LACEY,
Patent Att'ys, Washington, D. C.

DR. C. P. DUNCAN'S LIVER AND KIDNEY MEDICINE.

The great preventive and cure of all malarial diseases, and a sure cure for all forms of dyspepsia and indigestion; it acts directly upon the Liver and all the secretory glands of the stomach and bowels, it cures the disease by removing the cause from the system that produces or brings on the disease, hence it is unsurpassed for the cure of Constipation, sour stomach, heartburn, headache, and all those symptoms indicating the want of a proper action of those glands situated in the stomach and bowels. Two or three bottles of Dr. Duncan's Liver and Kidney Medicine is positively recommended to relieve and cure any of the above diseases if taken as directed. Price 75 cents.

Cure for Croup!

Dr. Duncan's Cough Balsam is the best remedy known to the medical profession for the prompt and sure cure of Croup in children; it is pleasant and harmless. No mother should be without a bottle in their house. Price 50 cents.

Bad Colds and Sore Throats

Promptly cured with Dr. Duncan's Cough Balsam; is a sure cure for sore throats, coughs and colds. It is unsurpassed for WHOOPING COUGH, and all bronchial diseases in children.

Chapped Hands, Lips,

Sore Eyes, Piles, and all eruptions of the skin cured promptly with Duncan's Ointment.

DR. DUNCAN'S BLOOD SYRUP,

the great alterative, will remove any and all impurities from the blood, and cure all eruptions of the Skin. For Scrofula it never fails to cure.

CHILDREN CRY FOR DUNCAN'S WORM SYRUP.

It is sure, safe, pleasant and cheap. Try it.

CONSUMPTION

Positively Cured. No Humbug.

By the use of Dr. J. LAWSON'S PULMONARY POWDERS, a FREE TRIAL BOX of which will be sent to all sufferers POST PAID, with treatise and full directions for their use. Hundreds and thousands have been cured by their use.

Large Box $3.00, two boxes $5.00.

Address,

PHILIP HENRY,

49 South St., New York City.

A PRIZE Send six cents for postage, and receive free a costly box of goods which will help you to more money right away than anything else in this world. All, of either sex, succeed from first hour. The broad road to fortune opens before the workers, absolutely sure. At once address TRUE & Co., Augusta, Maine.

Good Pay for Agents. $100 to $200 per mo., made selling our fine Books & Bibles. Write to J. C. McCurdy & Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.

AGENTS WANTED for our new Religious book, the greatest success of the year. Send for illustrated circular if you want to make money. FORSHEE & McMAKIN, Cincinnati.

PENSIONS for any disability; also to Hebra. Send stamps for New Laws. COL. L. BINGHAM, Attorney, Washington, D. C.

IT PAYS to sell our Hand Rubber Stamps. Samples free. FOLJAMP & Co., Cleveland, O.

—Home Items.

—“All your own fault

“If you remain sick when you can Get Hop Bitters that never—Fail.

—The weakest woman, the smallest child, and sickest invalid can use Hop Bitters with safety and great good.

—Old men tottering around from Rheumatism, kidney trouble, or any weakness, will be almost new by using Hop Bitters.

—My wife and daughter were made healthy by the use of Hop Bitters, and I recommend them to my people.

—Methodist Clergymen.

Ask any good doctor if Hop Bitters is not the best family medicine On earth.

—Malaria fever, Ague, and Biliousness will leave every neighborhood as soon as Hop Bitters arrive.

—“My mother drove the paralysis and neuralgia all out of her system with Hop Bitters.”—Ed. Oswego Sun.

—Keep the kidneys healthy with Hop Bitters, and you need not fear sickness.

—Ice water is rendered harmless and more refreshing and reviving with Hop Bitters with each draught.

—The vigor of youth for the aged and infirm in Hop Bitters.

—“At the chance of life nothing equals Hop Bitters to allay all troubles incident thereof.”

—“The best periodical for ladies to take monthly, and from which they will receive the greatest benefit, is Hop Bitters.

—Mothers with sickly, fretful, nursing children, will cure the children and benefit themselves by taking Hop Bitters daily.

—Thousands die annually from some form of kidney disease that might have been prevented by a timely use of Hop Bitters.

—Indigestion, weak stomach, irregularities of the bowels, cannot exist when Hop Bitters are used.

A timely * * * use of Hop Bitters will keep a whole family in robust health a year at a little cost.

—To produce real genuine sleep and child-like repose all night, take a little Hop Bitters on retiring.

—That indigestion of stomach gas at night, preventing rest and sleep, will disappear by using Hop Bitters.

—Paralytic, nervous, tremulous old ladies are made perfectly quiet and sprightly by using Hop Bitters.

MONARCH HORSE HOE

AND CULTIVATOR COMBINED

For Hoing & Hilling Potatoes, Corn, Onions, Beets, Cabbages, Turnips, &c.

SENT ON 30 Days'
TEST TRIAL.

An immense saving of labor and money. We guarantee a boy can cultivate and hoe and hill potatoes, corn, etc., 15 times as easy and fast as one man can the old way. Illustrated Catalogue FREE. AGENTS WANTED. Mention this paper. Address Monarch Mfg. Co., 206 State St., Chicago, Ill.

FOR the 7th edition of "Life and Labors of the greatest preacher of the century, By Geo. C. Needham, the Evangelist. Endorsed by all denominations. The best selling Family book ever published. Agents are meeting with wonderful success. No competition. Any man or woman wanting a good business, address, for extra terms and special territory.

25 YEARS POULTRY YARD

108 Pages. It teaches you how to rear them to take care for them, to feed, to have them lay eggs in cold weather, to prevent and treat all diseases of old or young, to be a "successful" poultryman. Only 25c. in stamps. A Fifty-page book FREE FOR ALL with it. A. M. LANG, Cove Dale Farm, Concord, Ky.

HILLMAN, BUFORD & JUSTI,
NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE,
 SOLE AGENTS FOR THE
 Genuine Brown Walking Cultivator and Double-Shovel Plow,

Corn Shellers, Feed Cutters, Avery Chilled Plows, Road Scrapers, Fish Bros.
 Wagons, Jacobs' Barrows,

IRON, STEEL, BLACKSMITH'S TOOLS, HARDWARE,

Call on or address

HILLMAN, BUFORD & JUSTI, 18 and 20 South Market Street, Nashville, Tenn.

A.C. & J.C. March.

SUCCESSORS TO

J. D. MARCH & SONS

Manufacturers and Dealers in

SADDLIES, HARNESS, BRIDLES, COLLARS,
 TRUNKS, BAGS, HAMES, VALISES, WHIPS, CHAINS, &c.

50 NORTH MARKET STREET
 NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE.

Repairs in Done at Short Notice

NASHVILLE, CHATTANOOGA & ST. LOUIS
 RAILWAY.

BUSINESS MEN, TOURISTS, EMIGRANTS, FAMILIES, REMEMBER

The Best Route to St. Louis and the West is via McKensie.

The Best Route to West Tennessee and Kentucky, Mississippi, Arkansas, and Texas points is via McKensie.

The Best Route to the Summer Resorts and Mountain Retreats of Tennessee, Virginia and the Carolinas, via McKensie and Nashville.

The Best Route to the celebrated Colleges, Universities, Seminaries and other Educational Institutions in the Southeast, via McKensie and Nashville.

The Best Route to points in East Tennessee, Virginia, the Carolinas, Georgia and Florida is via Chattanooga.

DON'T FORGET IT!

By this line you secure the

MAXIMUM OF SPEED, SAFETY, COMFORT, SATISFACTION,

AT THE

MINIMUM OF EXPENSE, ANXIETY, BOTHER, FATIGUE.

Be sure to Buy your Tickets over the

N., C & ST. L. RAILWAY!

If you are going to Washington City, Baltimore, Philadelphia, or New York.

The Inexperienced Traveler need not go amiss; few changes are necessary, and such as are unavoidable are made in union Depots.

THROUGH SLEEPERS!

BETWEEN

Nashville and Atlanta, and Atlanta and Jacksonville, Fla., Nashville and Martin (to connect with Sleeper service via Cairo to St. Louis and Chicago), Nashville and Columbus, Nashville and Memphis (Sleeper Humboldt to Mobile, and Milan to New Orleans), McKensie and Little Rock, and Little Rock and Texas points.

Call on or address

J. H. PEEBLES, T. A., Chattanooga, Tenn.

W. W. KNOX, T. A., Nashville, Tenn.

S. S. FINLEY, Ticket Agent, Memphis, Tenn.

A. B. WRENN, Trav. A., Atlanta, Ga.

W. L. DANLEY, G. P. & T. A., Nashville, Tenn.

Mars Hill College.

With pleasure we lay before our readers the following extracts from the Fourteenth Annual Announcement of Mars Hill College, an institution perpetually wielding a wonderful and wide-spread influence for truth, refinement and righteousness.—EDITORS.

POSITIONS PROCURED FOR OUR PUPILS.

We make a specialty of preparing pupils for

(1.) PREACHING; (2.) TEACHING; (3.) PREACHING and TEACHING.

Many educated here—among whom are successful lawyers, physicians, merchants, salesmen, mechanics, farmers, editors, authors, teachers and preachers—have so demeaned themselves, that the humility, fidelity, integrity, accuracy and ability of "Mars Hill students" have become proverbial. There is, consequently, such a demand for the services of our pupils, that we deem it perfectly safe to promise to procure pleasant, profitable and honorable positions for all who qualify themselves here for usefulness. Indeed, for several years we have been able to fill comparatively few of the positions tendered.

HEALTHFULNESS!

Mars Hill as a Health Resort.

Our school was founded in 1870. All the "doctor bills," for services rendered our pupils, from then till now, do not, we think, amount to twenty-five dollars—probably not to one dollar a year. Those who have come here pale and puny, from malarial districts, have, without exception, we believe, returned to their homes enjoying health.

What "Watering Place," or "Health Resort," then, can justly claim more, as a health-preserver and health-restorer, than Mars Hill? Address,

T. B. LARIMORE, President.

FLORENCE, ALABAMA

W. A. LANNOM,
 The Cash Clothier,

18 PUBLIC SQUARE, NASHVILLE, TENN.,

Has received his large and elegant stock of Spring and Summer clothing, Gents Furnishing Goods and Hats, which is full and complete in every respect; and for quantity, quality, style, fit and price, we stand far ahead of all competition. An inspection of our large stock and low prices, will fully prove what we claim. Bear in mind, we sell strictly for cash, which enables us to offer the greatest inducements.

CAPITOL PLANING MILL,

Corner Line and Vine Streets, near Northwest Corner Capitol Grounds,
 NASHVILLE, TENN.

J. W. McCULLOUGH,

Manufacturer and Dealer in

FRAMES, SASH, DOORS, BLINDS,

Scroll Sawing, Dressed Flooring, Weatherboarding and Ceiling.

Country Orders Solicited, and Promptly Attended To.

JUST OUT!

"Our Orthodoxy in the Civil Courts,"

A full proceeding in the Circuit Court in Noble county, Indiana, in the trial of our orthodoxy. Everybody should read this interesting book. Send at once. Paper, 50c; cloth, $1.00.

JAMES F. & HARRY LIPSCOMB,

58 Union Street,

Nashville, Tennessee.

BOILER REPAIRS.

Thos. S. Simpson, William Chatham,
 79 South College St., Nashville, Tenn.,

Are prepared to do all kinds of repairing of Boilers, Tanks, etc., at very reasonable rates. We have had 30 years practical experience in the business, and ask a share of the public patronage. We guarantee good work.

WHEN YOU WANT
 WRITING DESKS,
 Photograph Albums,
 AUTOGRAPH ALBUMS,
 GOLD PENS, PENCILS,
 PORT-MONNIES,
 CARD CASES, Etc.

OR ANYTHING IN THE WAY OF Staple and Fancy Stationery
 Call upon us. We can suit you in
VARIETY, QUALITY, AND PRICE.

A. B. Payne & Co.,
 61 UNION STREET.

Orders by Mail receive Prompt Attention.

B. S. RHEA & SON,
 PROPRIETORS RHEA'S ELEVATOR,
 AND DEALERS IN

Grain, Hay, Flour

AND BURLAP SACKS,

No. 32 South Market Street,
 NASHVILLE, - - TENN.
 (Correspondence Solicited.)

C. F. HUDSON. S. G. STRATTON.

C. F. HUDSON & CO.,
 Merchant Tailors & Clothiers,

EAST SIDE PUBLIC SQUARE,

LEBANON, TENN.,

Are now receiving one of the largest, best and cheapest stock of clothing and piece goods, ever offered to the public. We are agents for the Charlottesville, Va., woolen goods, which cannot be surpassed for beauty and durability.

Call and examine our goods. We will save you money.

SOME OF THE THINGS WE BUY TO SELL.

CHINA IN ALL OF ITS GRADES,
 GLASSWARE OF EVERY DESCRIPTION,
 QUEENSWARE OF ALL KINDS,

Bracket Lamps, Hall Lamps,
 Study Lamps, Chandeliers,
 Knives and Forks, Spoons, Waiters,
 Tea Trays,

Looking-Glasses, Ice Cutting
 Machines,

Eureka Coffee and Teapots,
 Castors,

And a great variety of housekeeping goods too numerous to mention, all of which we offer at reasonable rates. Call and see us, or send your orders to

HICKS, HOUSTON & CO.,

51 N. College & 54 N. Market Sts.,
 NASHVILLE, - - - TENN.

THE GOSPEL ADVOCATE.

VOLUME XXVI. }
NUMBER 19.

NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE, MAY 7, 1884.

{ $2.00 YEARLY IN ADVANCE.
POSTAGE PREPAID.

EDITORS:

D. LIPSCOMB,

E. G. SEWELL.

When first the sun dispels the cloudy night,
The glad hills catch the radiance from afar,
And smile for joy. We say, "How fair they are,
Tree, rock, and heather-bloom so clear and bright!"
But when the sun draws near in westerling night,
Infolding all in one transcendent blaze
Of sunset glow, we trace them not, but gaze
And wonder at the glorious, holy light.
Come nearer, Sun of righteousness! that we,
Whose swift, short hours of day so swiftly run,
So overflowed with love and light may be,
Lost in the glory of the nearing sun,
That not our light, but thine, may brightly shine.
New praise to thee through our lives be won!

—Frances Ridley Havergal.

WHY ARE MEN INCLINED TO DISBELIEVE THE BIBLE?

When men in this Bible land, raised up by religious parents, and where almost everybody regards the Bible as true, become infidels, we think as a general rule it is because they do not wish to obey the Bible, do not want to submit to its restraints, do not wish to pass through its self-denial, and form the character for holiness and purity of life which it demands. What other consideration could there be? Does the Bible require anything that is disreputable in ordinary society? Does it require anything that would make a man worse than the ordinary run of worldly society, anything that would make a man low, mean, vulgar, ungentlemanly, or in any wise dishonest or untruthful? Every one that knows anything about the influence of the Bible upon human life, knows it to be just the reverse. Does the Bible encourage any one to swear, and use ugly, coarse or abusive language? Who are the men that steal, rob, plunder, despoil men of their own honest earnings? Who are the men that get drunk, and enter into debauchery of every kind, who gamble, and waste the living that properly belongs to wives and children, and that abuse faithful, trusting wives, and destroy them mentally, physically and financially, and thus blot out all their prospects for happiness and enjoyment in life? Does the teaching of the word of God lead to anything like this? Who are the men that shoot down and murder their fellow men on just any and every provocation, and who follow men into seclusion and darkness and take their lives for what they possess? Who are the men that deceive, betray and ruin thoughtless and unsuspecting women, and blight all their prospects for life; do those that are led by the Bible act thus?

Every man and woman in all the world that knows anything about the teaching of the Bible knows that no man is ever guilty of any of the above things when following the teaching of the word of God. But contrarywise, those who believe and obey the Bible are honest, upright, gentle, pure in speech and in life. No man who follows the teaching of the Bible will swear, lie, steal or rob. He will never get drunk, will never abuse the confidence of the unwary or unsuspecting, will never cheat, defraud or abuse his fellow man. The husband that obeys the Bible will be gentle and kind, virtuous and faithful toward his wife, and will labor and toil, and deny himself for her happiness and well-being. The wife that follows the Bible will do likewise toward her husband. Fathers and mothers that follow the Bible will be just and true in their treatment of their children, and will strive to bring them up under the teaching and guidance of the same word that is guiding their own lives. They will teach their children to speak the truth, to be honest, not to swear, not to cheat or defraud their fellow men, and to grow up to be followers of the Lamb. Children that obey the Bible, will obey their parents in the Lord, for this is right, and is the first commandment with promise. Neighbors that obey the teaching of the Bible will strictly regard all the rights and interests of their neighbors and fellow men, and will never betray in any way the interests and rights of others.

Who are the men that provide for widows and orphans, and that take care of the sick and the afflicted? Those that believe the Bible, that fear God, and from the teaching of God's word, learn to sympathize with the destitute and the afflicted. But where the Bible is disbelieved and disregarded, none of these things are done. Where is the association of infidels who disbelieve and disregard the Bible that has done anything to elevate, ennoble, and purify the hearts and lives of men, or that has made any permanent arrangements to alleviate the sufferings of fallen humanity? What are the associations of free loveism, communism and such like doing for either the moral, mental, or physical elevation of our race? They amount to nothing but plans and schemes to turn loose and enjoy fleshly lusts and appetites in all their varied forms, selfishness, and everything that has a tendency to break down law and order, and soon to have a world of unfortunates flooding society without any arrangements to relieve their wants, or alleviate their sufferings. Who looks after the profligate and dissolute of society, who spend their early lives and strength in infamy until they can no longer live by that means? Do their associates then take them up and care for them? Nay verily. They are by them turned off to starve and die, and the only sympathy they get is from those who under the influence of the Bible have lived virtuous lives. And this part of mankind shows what the whole world would be if the Bible and its influence were discarded by all.

Take the Bible and its influence from among men, and heathenism with all its loathsome darkness, and crime, and ignorance would soon fill the whole earth. This state of things is really what all these men are working for who are trying to overthrow the Bible. Contrast the refined, virtuous society of our churches to-day, with that low grade of society that has no fear of God before their eyes, and that utterly disregard the teaching of the Bible in their entire lives, if you want to see what the Bible is doing for the world. Among those that believe in and obey the Bible, you find honesty, truthfulness, virtue, refinement, education, cheerfulness, tender regard for each other's welfare; you find benevolence, charity, human sympathy in all its loveliness, and everything that makes life pleasant and enjoyable. You find the arts, sciences, inventions and improvements for the conveniences and advancement of business, and for the general good of our race.

But how is it among the dissolute, the fleshly, the dissipated, those that have no fear of God before their eyes, and no respect for the Bible in their lives? What do these people ever do for the elevation of the race or for the alleviation of suffering? Have they built up any asylums for the unfortunate, the poor, afflicted or abandoned ones of earth? Do they take up and provide for those they have helped to ruin? Let any man look these things over calmly, and then answer my question, why should any one be inclined to disbelieve the Bible? Then again, look at the lasting happiness and permanent enjoyment that those have that believe and obey the Bible. They have a clear conscience, and wear bright and cheerful countenances, and when sickness comes or death stares them in the face, they are ready to say, if my stay on earth is done, then I am ready to go to a more permanent and better home. I shall go where there is no sickness, no weakness, no trials, no temptations to annoy, and where I shall be forever at rest with all the pure and the good.

The prospect of death brings no terrors to the righteous; the grave has no darkness, no gloom for them. Their Redeemer has taken away the sting of death and the darkness and gloom of the grave. But how is it with the unbeliever and ungodly? What has he to cheer him in life? nothing but the workings of blind chance. He cannot look up with confidence and trust to a loving merciful, heavenly Father for protection, for he does not believe there is any. And when he looks at death and the grave, nothing but eternal darkness and unending gloom stares him in the face. He lives a few days in doubtful, fitful, temporary, fleshly indulgence and enjoyment, if such it may be called, with nothing in the world to comfort him when disappointment, sickness and suffering come, and nothing but to go out like a candle into eternal darkness when death comes.

Is this what men want to be infidels for? Is there anything in all this to induce men to be infidels, to give up purity, honesty, happiness, elevation, virtue, and everything that ennobles and refines humanity, and makes society lovely and enjoyable? No it is not this. It is not because they desire to take upon them the legitimate results of infidelity. It cannot be this. But they want present fleshly enjoyment, free from restraint or stint, and to be free from conscious danger from such a course, or conscious compunctions for wrong doing. And if they can only get the Bible out of the way, then they feel free to enjoy the lust of the flesh, the lust of the eye, and the pride of life. But when the end comes, none of them are delighted with it. It is impossible for any infidel to be happy when his capacity for mere fleshly enjoyment ceases. There is nothing in infidelity that can make any one happy when this period comes. Nothing but darkness, gloom, misgivings and fearful forebodings can be the inheritance of the unbeliever when the vigor of life passes, and weakness, sickness and death begin to draw their dark shadows around him. Who then would be willing to exchange the bright hope that cheers the latter end of the Christian, for the darkness and gloom that overshadows the infidel when the fleshly enjoyment of life is over, and the cold chilly waters of death must be encountered. Let all endeavor to cultivate a higher appreciation of the Bible, and strive to live more faithfully the pure life that it enjoins.

E. G. S.

RE-BAPTISM.

Bro. Lipscomb seems to think that I did not fairly represent his teaching in the seven novelties that I enumerated as his. He, however, seemed to accept most of them, and tried to substantiate the grounds that they cover. Bro. Lipscomb ought to know that it is expected of him to prove these assertions by better authority than his bare assertions. His word is as good as I would demand for the proof of any proposition depending solely upon human testimony; but the most of these questions in dispute between us are susceptible of settlement, one way or the other, upon divine testimony; and if Bro. Lipscomb's positions are right, no man is better prepared to show the evidence that supports them than he. Right here, Bro. Lipscomb, I want to tell you that many readers of the ADVOCATE are expecting you to devote yourself to this end. I am receiving letters occasionally, from all parts of the country, and from some brethren I never heard of before, scattered along from Texas to Canada, and I assure you that the majority of them think you are making a very poor defense of your position, while they say no man is more able to defend the position than you. I had a letter from an old preaching brother yesterday, who has been with us many years on his Baptist baptism. This brother, when I first commenced the discussion of this question, took issue with me, and fought like a Turk for your side of the question; but the last two letters from him give up the question, and I have every reason to suppose that ere this he has become truly a member of the "one body" by "confessing with the mouth" and being "baptized, by direction of the Spirit, for the remission of sins." I do not mention this as any evidence in favor of the position that I hold, but to let you know, my brother, that it is expected of you that you will give your readers something more tangible and lasting on this vital question than your word, or Bro. Campbell's, and others. I believe the only novelty among the seven, that you repudiated, was "novelty 3." While I did not express these novelties in your own words, I claim that I was fully warranted and borne out in attributing these positions to you, by your several articles on this question; and I would have given the exact words, but I had no thought that you or any interested reader would fail to recognize that they were substantially your ideas. As you only denied "novelty 3," I will here give your language, from which I drew the idea that composed this one. I would have given exact quotations for all of them, but I wanted to save space. I here promise to furnish your own words upon all of them, and claim that the sense of none will be materially changed; i. e., I will if you request it; but I believe you are satisfied with all but "novelty 3." Here is your language:

"Remission of sins is mentioned as a blessing to be enjoyed through baptism only when the persons were laboring under a sense of crime of which they felt guilty, and were anxious to know how they could be free from the condemnation. Then the Holy Spirit, to quiet their fear, told them their sins would be remitted."

This covers two of the novelties mentioned in my last article, but the first one you had not called in question. Now, I do not desire to add anything here, to what I have already said about this "novelty 3," further than to ask you to please give us your authority for saying that the Holy Spirit told them this "to quiet their fears." The language I quote from you will be found in the ADVOCATE of January 2, page 7.

But now, in reply to your last article. You say that I did not put these novelties in the exact language that you would express them. Yet you say, "As far as they are true representations of my faith, I accept them, and insist they are only novelties in the sense that a thing long lost and then found is a novelty." Will you please tell your readers where these ideas were lost from, and where they are to be found? This you surely ought to do. I insist that in speaking on these novelties, some of which, you say, are as old as the "dealing of God with Adam, in Eden," you should "speak as the oracles of God." If you fail to speak thus, I shall conclude that these ideas were "lost" from you, when you were dealing with Mr. Nichol, and using sound speech, and that they have since "been found" by you, in the book of imagination, when it became necessary for you to defend a position that you could not defend with "sound speech." You have plainly stated, and lengthily argued, that it is not necessary that one should "understand that baptism is for the remission of sins." I called your attention to this in my last, and asked you specially to note, that it was not necessary to preach what it was not necessary to know, or understand. Now, I ask you again, what you have to say about this? There is no use in trying to gloss over these inconsistencies; they should be met fairly and squarely. If you spread them over, superficially, with sophistry, you cannot cure the trouble; because these impurities will fester, and show upon the surface again and again, until the true "theory" is permitted to have free course.

You say: "I believe every passage of Scripture and every quotation Bro. McGary makes from my writing, fully and heartily, in connection with this subject; nor can I see the least appearance of inconsistency in them with this position. I believe that man must believe with the heart, with the whole heart. But the thing to be believed with the heart, is that Jesus is the Christ, and not the doctrine or theory, however true, that baptism is for the remission of sins."

You say you can't see any inconsistency—even the appearance of it. Well, perhaps, my brother, you do not look straight enough, nor hard enough. Now, I see at least the appearance of inconsistency between what you said to Mr. Nichols, and what you have said to me; but as you said not long since, "We see each other better than we see ourselves." So here is a verification of it. I see you, in this matter, better than you see yourself. But I am going to try to bring these two positions of yours a little further out in the light, and perhaps you may be able, at least, to see the appearance, if you can't see the thing itself. I think I will be acting the part of a brother in doing this; and you ought to take a good close look, my brother, and try to see; because if you do not make some effort to see, you will surely fail. It is so hard, you know, to see through distorted lenses, particularly when one is not anxious to see. But why should I say this? We all ought not to want anything but the truth, even if it should revolutionize our former practices. If we refuse to see and contend for the truth, because Bros. Campbell, Fanning, and others, did not see and contend for it, in certain particulars, then we are another sect in this world of sectarianism, and are justly entitled to no better or holier name than "Campbellite." In fact, the man who has no better reason for holding to a position than that Bro. Campbell held it, is a Campbellite, in every sense of the word.

But I said I would try to show you your inconsistencies—i. e., some of them. Bear in mind that when you were showing Mr. Nichols how Peter brought the Pentecostians "into the church of God, into the remission of sins," in all that you said to him—and you said a great deal—you never once intimated to him that remission of sins was more "prominently brought forward" in their case than in any others; but, on the contrary, you taught him that this case is to be taken as a pattern for all time. Further, you pressed that baptism was for the remission of sins, too. I agree with you that man must believe with his whole heart, that Jesus is the Christ, but this is not all that he must believe with the whole heart; he must believe what you were laboring so hard to make Mr. N. see and believe. You may say to Mr. N. "suppose one now should be anxious to find infallible guidance into the church of God, into the remission of sins. He looks around and finds this instruction given by the Spirit of God, directing these men into the church of God, into the remission of sins. He concludes to follow the same directions. He hears the testimony in behalf of Jesus as the son of God. He hears the exhortation 'therefore know assuredly that that same Jesus is made both Lord and Christ.' He believes it. He hears the Spirit still further say 'Repent and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins.' He does repent of his sins and in obedience to the direction of the Spirit is baptized for the remission of sins (italics mine). Is he not brought into the remission of sins and into the church of God, by following the same direction of the same Spirit that brought those on Pentecost to the remission of their sins." Mr. N., of course, does not agree to this but I do, and yet you have been contending with me, that those who have not followed the same direction of the same Spirit, have come into the remission of sins, and into the church of God. This is what I am denying and contending against. Can't you begin to see now my brethren. Don't you see that it is beginning to bear the "appearance" of inconsistency? especially when you say you have not changed your views? You say, again to Mr. N. "If one refuses to believe: or believing, refuses to repent; or, believing and repenting, refuses to be baptized in accordance with the direction of the divine of Spirit, does he not refuse the guidance of the Spirit of God? Does he not refuse to be led by the spirit of God?" Remember what you have just pressed as the guidance of the Spirit, to be baptized for the remission of sins; not because sins were already forgiven; you cannot say my brother that one was led on Pentecost by the Spirit to be baptized because his sins were already forgiven. The one who is baptized because his sins are already forgiven, refuses to be led by the Spirit of God, but is led by some other direction according to you, and it is true. Only those that are led by the Spirit of God are the sons of God." But explain to us how you got on the other side of the fence, if you can see you are over there—I must close without saying anything about confession. I want soon to show how one is drawn by the Father; and how they are drawn by Methodists, Baptists, etc.; but you take any of them just so they are drawn through the water. I hope you will answer questions. A. McGARY.

CHRISTIAN UNION.

In the prayer of Jesus, (John 17,) we learn that he very much desired the union of his disciples, and that he appreciated its importance, notwithstanding, his teaching in the figure of the vine (John 15) is relied upon to authorize division. It is claimed that the branches represent the different denominations. This cannot be the true interpretation, for the very apparent reason that there were no denominations then; but there was one body, one Spirit, one hope, one Lord, one faith, one baptism, one God and Father of all. The context, "If a man abide not in me, he is cast forth as a branch, and is withered," shows very clearly that the branches are individual Christians, and not denominations. Neither authority or excuse can be shown in God's word for the existence of denominations. The apostle Paul nipped tendencies of this character in the bud; witness his reproof to the factions of the church in Corinth. But while condemning strife, and contentions, and divisions, he yet addresses all parties as Christians. The ideal church is presented alone in the teaching of Christ and the apostles, and not in the practice of the primitive church. Before we can have a perfect church, we must first have perfect individuals to compose that church; and as there have never been any absolutely perfect Christians, there has never been an absolutely perfect church. Then it matters not, as far as our guidance is concerned, what has been the form and character of the church since the death of the apostles, as at no time it has been perfect in all its parts. We determine the character of the first churches by the approval and disapproval of their teachers, who were guided by inspiration. The true character of the church cannot be given by the decrees of human councils, but by the word of God alone. What is needed on the part of man, more than all else besides, that there may be Christian union, is a poor and contrite spirit, "one that trembles at God's word." There is too much of the principle that every one seeks his own good, not that of Christ Jesus. The glory of part is too much sought, rather than that of God. Each should realize that God does not think any more (or less) of his sins, than he does of the sins of another. The conviction of the writer is that there are Christians in many of the religious denominations; but he has no desire to justify or excuse the existence of any denomination. It is not right that they should exist because they are not planted by God. It is wrong that they should exist because they are human in their origin, and serve only to separate those who should stand together in the bonds of Christian union. Would that we could, all say, that one is our Father, even God and we all are brethren. P. W. H.

IS BAPTISM ESSENTIAL TO SALVATION?

How often we hear those, who profess to be followers of our blessed Lord, speak lightly of the commandments of Christ. They tell us that baptism is only a church ordinance, or is only a commandment and is not essential to salvation etc., and yet they will turn around and tell us that we cannot be admitted into full fellowship until baptized. Oh consistency, consistency whither hast thou fled?

Now if baptism is a commandment, then I would ask is there a single promise of pardon without obedience to the commandments of Christ on record? If there is I have never been able to find it.

Now I understand faith and obedience to be the conditions of pardon. Then, if this be true, is not baptism one of the conditions of pardon? But the objector is ready to exclaim, "water salvation," "salvation by church ordinances," etc. Now, permit me to say that I do not understand baptism to be a church ordinance, but a divine institution, and one of the conditions of pardon. Our Savior said, "Except a man be born of water and of the Spirit he cannot enter into the kingdom of God" John iii: 5. And again in the last commission, given just before the ascension of our triumphant Lord, he said, "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature, he that believeth and is baptized shall be saved, he that believeth not shall be damned." Mark xvi: 15-16. Is not this the most glorious commission ever committed to the hands of men? how plain and comprehensive are its requirements; and yet men will cavil about its teachings. Now let us notice Peter's answer to the Jews enquiring, what must we do? "Repent and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ, for the remission of sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost." Acts ii: 38. Now we would ask, is not Peter's teaching on the day of Pentecost, in keeping with the commission given by him who had conquered death and the grave, and was about to ascend to the Father victorious over all his enemies? Most assuredly it is. How many modern teachers we find who seem to lose sight of those things when they go to teach sinners the way of salvation. We sometimes hear men pray for a Pentecostal shower, that sinners will be constrained to cry out, "men and brethren what shall we do?" etc.

Now if such petitions were granted, would those persons answer the earnest inquiries as did the apostles of old? or would they answer according to the teachings of men?

Not long since, in what is called a revival meeting, I heard the minister exclaim, "thank God one more soul born into the kingdom of God, without any church ordinances" etc. And again he went on to say that there was a "sect, or party that claimed salvation by water, or by church ordinances." Now permit me to say that I have no knowledge of the people referred to here, and I am sure I have never heard any such doctrine taught by any people. But I must say, with all due respect, that a man that will warp and twist the word of God to make it bend to suit the theories of man, would not hesitate to misrepresent his fellow men. But enough. Now I do not wish it to be understood that baptism is all that is required to bring us into favor with God, or into relationship with Christ. Baptism without the necessary preparations of heart would be solemn mockery in the sight of God. The apostle Paul tells us that "without faith it is impossible to please him; for he that cometh to God must believe that he is, and that he is a rewarder of them that diligently seek him" Heb. xi: 6. "For God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth on him should not perish but have everlasting life." John iii: 16. "But these are written that ye might believe Jesus is the Christ the Son of God, and believing ye might have life through his name." John xx: 31.

But is faith alone all that is necessary prior to baptism? Most assuredly not. Our Savior said, "Except ye repent ye shall all likewise perish." Luke xiii: 3. "And that repentance and remission of sins should be preached in his name among all nations beginning at Jerusalem." Luke xxiv: 47. Now having believed on the only begotten Son of God, and having repented of our sins with a repentance that needeth not be repented of, then let us confess Christ.

Our Savior said, "whosoever therefore shall confess me before men, him will I confess before my Father which is in heaven." Mat. x: 32. "And now why tarriest thou? arise and be baptized and wash away thy sins calling on the name of the Lord." Acts xxii: 17. Now if the Israelites would have been healed without looking on the brazen serpent, or if the Naaman's leprosy would have been cleansed without washing in the river Jordan as he was commanded by the prophet Elisha, or the blind man's sight would have been restored though he refused to wash in the pool of Siloam, as he was commanded by the Savior—if those people would have been healed, cleansed and restored to sight without obedience, then we might talk about pardon without obedience to Christ.

Now I know there are a great many people who do not want to hear anything about obedience in connection with the plan of salvation, or redemption.

Not long since I was talking with the pastor of the M. E. Church in this community on the subject of baptism, and in our conversation I frequently used the word obedience—at length his limited stock of patience gave way, and he exclaimed, "Obedience, obedience, don't use that word any more, it is like a dagger to the heart every time you use it."

Now I would ask in the name of all that is pure and true, how can a man claim to be a servant of our Lord and Savior, and at the same time, treat the commandments of Christ with contempt, or indifference? Paul says, "The Lord shall come in flaming fire, taking vengeance on them that know not God and obey not the gospel of Lord Jesus Christ." What then will be the final destiny of those who have not only failed to obey the gospel themselves, but have taught and encouraged others to live out of obedience to Christ. Our Savior said, "But in vain they do worship me, teaching for doctrines the commandments of men." Mat. xv: 9. And again, "Not every one that saith unto me, Lord, Lord, shall enter the kingdom of heaven; but he that doeth the will of my Father which is in heaven. Many will say to me in that day, Lord, Lord, have we not prophesied in thy name? and in thy name have cast out devils? and in thy name have done many wonderful works? And then will I profess unto them that I never knew you: depart from me, ye that work iniquity." Mat. vii: 21-23.

Now if we would cast off all prejudice, party spirit and denominationalities and carefully, and prayerfully investigate the teachings of the Bible I think all questions about obedience to Christ would be forever settled, beyond controversy. Then let us cease to be guided by men's theories, and make the Bible our guide and our counsellor, and soon the light of its inspired pages will shed its radiance into our hearts. Let us lay aside the theories and traditions which only tend to obscure the truth, or have it shrouded in mystery, or clad in the garments of skepticism, and turn to the teachings of our Savior and the apostles, and there learn the truth in its primitive purity, and having learned it, let us walk therein. Let us bow with humble submission to the authority of Christ our great sovereign head, and having obeyed the commandments of Christ, we shall have nothing whereof to boast, but we will say we are unprofitable servants, having only done that which was our duty to do—living in humble obedience to Christ, trusting alone in the merits of Jesus for redemption; resting assured that if we are ever permitted to enter the portals of glory, it will be through the blood of the Lamb.

Flippin, Ky.

N. J. SIMMONS.

[This comes to us as the production of a sister a member of the Baptist Church, we commend it to the consideration of all. Those who would lay aside partizan prejudice and denominational pride can certainly see the truth of God—as revealed by the Holy Ghost.—D. L.]

Try it for a day, I beseech you, to preserve yourself in an easy and cheerful frame of mind. Compare the day in which you have rooted out the weed of dissatisfaction with that on which you have allowed it to grow up, and you will find your heart open to every good motive, your life strengthened, and your breast armed with a panoply against every trick of fate: truly you will wonder at your own improvement.—Richier.

QUERIES.

Will you please explain how meeting-houses are to be dedicated? I often hear of houses being dedicated, but nothing as to how it is done.—[Brown Godwin.]

We always dedicate them by preaching the gospel in them. I know of no other way. Dedicate is to set apart to a sacred use. Preach the gospel in them; that is putting them to a good use.

In the fourth chapter of Matthew, from the first to the eleventh verse, did these things, any or all, actually transpire, or is it, or any part, figurative language. We would be extremely grateful to you if you would give us a full explanation through your paper.—[Mrs. W. G. Reaves, Geo. A. Bearden.]

That is a record of the temptation of the Savior, by the Evil One. It had been matter of prophecy, and is told as a part of the actual history of the Savior, is afterward referred to as such, and if that did not actually occur, we would not know whether anything recorded in the Bible occurred or not. I could doubt anything else that is strange and wonderful in the Savior's life, as readily as I could those occurrences. The spirit that sets aside that portion of the Bible that does not suit its fancy, as mere figure of speech, does not tremble at the word of God, and is approaching the border line of skepticism.

"Do we have three characters—the righteous, the godly, and the sinner—in 1 Peter iv: 18? I heard one good brother preach the other night, who contended that the ungodly spoken of, are the moralists who are not Christians. And I heard another give as his opinion, that the ungodly are wayward Christians. And the third preacher says that the text should be translated so as to make only two characters—righteous and wicked. Have we only two in the original?"—[J. R. Bradley, Lynkville, Tenn.]

The text is usually interpreted to mean three characters: the righteous, the faithful children of God; the ungodly, those who professed, or had professed, to be Christians; the sinner, those who never professed faith in God. We do not see how a translation could mend or altar it. All three words are in the original, and are fairly translated by the words used. We know of no reason for this distinction save the New Testament use of the word. Asebas seems to indicate a turning away from God, godliness, while amartolas (sinner) is applied to those who make no pretention to serve God.

(1) Were there two James, apostles of Christ? (2) Explain the difference between a bishop and an elder, spoken of in the New Testament, or is there any difference?—[W. P. Hamilton, Evening Shade, Arkansas.]

(1) Matthew x: 2, in enumerating the apostles, mentions first, James the son of Zebedee, afterward, James the son of Alphaeus. Certainly there were two apostles named James. James, the son of Zebedee, was killed by Herod, supposed to be about A. D. 40 or 41, seven or eight years after the establishment of the church. Acts xii: 2. Several years afterward, at the council held by the apostles and elders concerning circumcision, the other James was present, and summed up the conclusion of the matter, and dictated the letter to be written to the Gentile converts on the subject of circumcision and the Mosaic law. He afterward wrote the epistle of James.

(2) Elder refers to the aged and experienced persons in the congregation. Bishop, to an aged and experienced member overseeing the church of God. Elders were placed to work overseeing the congregation, and by virtue of that work were bishops. The word elder, in the New Testament, is sometimes probably appropriated to the overseeing elders, and when so used it is synonymous with bishop.

TEXAS WORK AND WORKERS.

CONDUCTED BY JOHN T. POE, LONGVIEW, TEXAS,
TO WHOM ALL CORRESPONDENCE RELATING TO
THIS DEPARTMENT MUST BE ADDRESSED.

BREAK THE JUGS.

Suppose the State government should turn loose upon society annually, a certain number of raging lions, tigers, and hyenas? What would the world think? How would you like to know, mothers and fathers, that every time your child went from your door, he would be in danger of being devoured by one of these monsters, turned loose by the State, in your community? Yet your State government does worse. It licenses thousands of grog-shops, which deserve no better name than hell-traps, to entice your sons to ruin most utter and complete. Walk out in your town at night; saloon after saloon presents one broad glare of light; sounds of music come from within; and, if you could peep behind the green shades that screen the inner workings from the gaze of the uninitiated, you would see card-playing, billiards, dice, dominoes, obscene pictures, obscene statues, and you would hear obscene and blasphemous language, such as you never heard before. And there, perhaps, you would find your boy. Your boy! Think of it! Your boy becoming a gambler and a drunkard. The boy in whom you have had so many fond hopes resting, in the years gone by. Your boy whose opening genius and budding talent gave you such hopes and anticipations of joy, in his coming manhood, as made your heart throb with delight. How would you like the picture? Could you see him go on? Would you try to save him? Could you let him go on, and stand still yourself, and see him wreck his manhood in the terrible whirlpool of intemperance? You say you cannot do this? But you are doing it. If your own boy is not there, your neighbor's boy is; and he will soon entice yours there, too.

What can you do? You can demand of State governments that these hell-traps shall be closed; you can urge and press your claims until, like the unjust judge, it will hear. Women gave, during the late war, husbands and sons to establish government. Her devotion to government should be respected, and government should, in turn, protect her from a drunken husband, and an impoverished home. It should save to her the sons she offers to society, and to the world. Shall not the voice of the perishing and the doomed lend us energy? Shall not the hope of generations to come give us courage? Shall not the gospel of Christ doubly arm us, and inspire us for this work? If our Congressmen and our Legislators could but hear the wails of widows, the cries of starving orphans, the curses of men dying with delirium tremens; if they could but know the pangs of poverty endured, wealth squandered, hearts broken, happy homes destroyed, and all on account of the license they give men to make and sell spirituous liquors, surely they would help. But they care for none of these things. The cry of the widow goes up against them, however, and God's vengeance will awake at last.

Let Christians never rest until they have stopped every distillery, and closed every drinking shop. This is the kind of jug-breakings we want to attend. Who will help us to break them? Will you, kind reader? Will you help us to close these doors of infamy? In behalf of aching hearts and dying men, help; in behalf of suffering woman, help; in behalf of the youth of our land, help; in behalf of humanity and the salvation of your fellowman, help, and help now.

A. COULSON AND THE GOSPEL.

The above named "gentleman—editor of the Bible Advocate—preached in Longview a few nights ago, to a very select audience, on the subject of "the gospel; what is it, and how does it save?" With a few exceptions, the sermon was very good. We thought while he was speaking, that if he would only lay off his Baptist shackles, what a noble preacher of the ancient gospel he might make. He of course had to put repentance before faith, otherwise he could not have been orthodox. True, the Bible says: "without faith it is impossible to please God." It is true that the first thing required of men in the days of apostles was faith in Christ, but then to preach, and put things in regular apostolic order; while it might be Scriptural, would not be orthodox, and not to be orthodox means ostracism from popular sentiment. He thought that men must be baptized in order to obey the whole gospel; but after doing so, remarked, that only the saved should be baptized. This was the saving clause in his sermon. Said one of his brethren, "I thought he was going to preach a regular Campbellite sermon, until he took that turn on baptism." So you see it was the saving clause to him. He reminded me of a man who would build a good house and then turn 'round and destroy it.

But we liked him anyway, and considering he is a Baptist, think he did well, shackled as he must be by a human creed. We always feel sorry when we see talent hampered by human creeds, and hope the time may come when the gospel shall set them free, and give them such liberty in Christ, that they shall, without fear, or favor, preach the blessed gospel of salvation literally, and purely as God has given it to the world. Thus leading men out of confusion into the glorious light, system and order of the divine plan of redemption.

What shall it profit a church if it have the largest organ, best choir, and most fancy preacher in town, if they refuse to help their destitute members when in sufferings? Can an organ save them? Or how will good singing and fancy preaching compensate for lack of duty to the suffering?

Bro. Wilmeth has had all the poetry knocked out of him, in his work of "State evangelist." While he was evangelist for the church of Christ, he wrote pretty fair verses. But now when we call for a spring song, he simply falls back on a reproduction of some of his boyish efforts. Come back to your first love, brother Mac.

TWO HOURS WORK.

The preacher worked hard to prove to his congregation that "John nor the apostles either immersed," and that "Christ Jesus never taught it." But that he "would practice either sprinkling, pouring or immersion." The testimony of the angel to John is, "If any man shall add unto these things, God shall add unto him the plagues that are written in this book." (Rev. xxii: 18.) The preacher said immersion was not in the Bible, but he would add it. I wondered while he was talking, if John, Jesus and the apostles had offered such tirades against immersion in their day, if such expressions as "went down into the water, * * * came up out of the water," (Mark i: 10; Acts viii: 38-39.) "Buried with him in baptism, * * * our bodies washed with pure water," etc., (Rom. vi: 4; Col. ii: 12; Heb. x: 22.) could have been found in the Bible, and if John, Jesus and the apostles had labored as hard to keep people out of the water as some of our called preachers in this age, it is doubtful about immersion ever getting any attention as a religious rite.

R. W. OFFICER.

OUR BIBLE CLASS.

If the answers to Bro. Lauderdale's questions in Bible Class have not been sent in, I hope you will, if my answers are correct, give me space here. The seven things hateful to the Lord will be found in 6th chapter of Proverbs, from 16th to 19th verse. A proud look, and a lying tongue, and hands that shed innocent blood; a heart that deviseth wicked imaginations, feet that be swift in running to mischief, a false witness that speaketh lies, and he that soweth discord among brethren. The riddle, I think, was Balaam's ass, will be found in 22nd chapter of Numbers, from 22nd to 36th verse.—[Susan Boyd, Nashville, Tenn.]

Dear Bro. Poe: Your department of the GOSPEL ADVOCATE, especially your Bible Class, is becoming exceedingly interesting to me. I submit the following answers to questions in issue of April 2nd:

What was the kinship between Queen Esther and Mordecai? They were cousins. Est. ii: 7.

What are the seven things that are hateful to God? "A proud look, a lying tongue, and hands that shed innocent blood, an heart that deviseth wicked imaginations, feet that be swift in running to mischief, a false witness that speaketh lies, and he that soweth discord among brethren." Prov. vi: 16-20.

What are the kings of Egypt called in Scripture? Pharaohs.

I have a question I wish to ask this class. How is it that Christ is called "the first fruits of them that slept," when there were others raised from the dead before his resurrection, as the son of the widow of Nain, Lazarus, etc.?—[Mary W. Baker, Watertown, Tenn., April 14, 1884.]

Dear Bro. Poe: The answer to Bro. Lauderdale's riddle is found in Num. xxii: 22-35. I guess Balaam thought she sinned. Esther and Mordecai were cousins, and she was his adopted daughter. Esther ii: 7. Lazarus was in danger of being put to death after he had died and been raised by Christ. John xii: 10-12.—[C. W. Sewell.]

Dear Bro. Poe: I see the interest is growing in the Bible Class, and if I was competent, I would like to ask and answer questions. However I will ask one which is easily answered, but will require some reading of the Bible. How many passages of the Old Testament were quoted by Christ and his apostles in the new.—[A. S. Kennamer, Dry Cove, Ala.]

Bro. Poe and brethren of Texas: Having just been in San Antonio for a while, and seeing the need of immediate aid being rendered to establish primitive Christianity in that important center, I wish to urge every Brother who reads this to send as liberal a contribution as he can to A. G. Smith, 305 N. Pecos St. San Antonio. Either to aid in the building of their house in which to worship, or to aid in supporting Bro. Pennington who is laboring so arduously, and at such sacrifice to plant the cause in the largest city in Texas. Brethren, a little aid now will be worth much to the cause in San Antonio, and in Southwest Texas. There are a few noble brethren and sisters there, whose zeal and devotion to the cause entitle them to the sympathy and aid of the brethren. Will you not lend a helping hand in this hour of need? God will bless those who will respond to this appeal. Don't treat this lightly, but send your mite as above directed. A. J. BUSH.

Sabinal, Texas, April 11, 1884.

The editor of this department thinks that where any great moral question is involved in an election of civil officers, every Christian should exercise the privilege granted him by government, in voting for the establishment of the right. For instance, if there should be a "prohibition ticket," he believes it would be the Christian duty of every man to vote for prohibition, or for men who would establish it. If one party was for educating the masses, and the other opposed, then they should vote in the interest of education, etc.

Rates of Advertising in Gospel Advocate.

One inch, one insertion.....	$ 60
One inch, one month.....	2 00
One inch, three months.....	5 00
One inch, six months.....	7 50
One inch, twelve months.....	12 50

A discount of 10 per cent. on these rates for order of $25.00; 20 per cent. for order of $50.00; 30 per cent. for order of $100.00.

TEXAS WORK AND WORKERS—Continued.

Correspondence.

Dear Bro. Poe: I drop you a few lines to let you and the readers of the old reliable know how we are getting along in the "Alamo City." We have not been able to pay the high charges on hall rent for some months, and all the churches, school-houses and court-houses are closed against us, and consequently we have to meet in a private house; but we meet every Lord's day to attend the ordinance of the Lord's house, and our members turn out well, except a few who are pouting because the church would not change preachers and get one that would encourage dancing, concerts, and the use of the organ in church, etc. I thank God that we have a good number of pious members who are satisfied with the worship of God just as it is taught in the Bible, and do not believe in making the house of God a place of entertainment and amusement for the vain and giddy. We have let the contract for a church 35x57 feet to be completed by the first of July. I regret very much that the brethren abroad do not understand the true nature of our mission work in this city. I am sure if they understood it they would not let me bear the burthen alone, but I thank God that in eternity the facts will be known where all rewards will be just. I hope to be able to attend the State meeting at Bryan this year.

From now until our church is completed I can't accomplish much here; therefore I have concluded to travel some, and perhaps may give you a call. May God give you grace and strength to go on faithfully in the future as you have in the past, is my prayer. D. PENNINGTON.

P. S.—S. M. Ellis, who was elected at the convention as treasurer of the mission fund, had no time to meet with the disciples since the convention. Bro. A. G. Smith is the treasurer of the church here now, a business man; he finds time to look after the interest of church some, and he has unbounded confidence in us all. Please remember this and send all funds to A. G. Smith, N. Pecos, St. No. 305, San Antonio, Texas.

Old Path Guide, Texas Christian Preacher, and Christian Messenger, please copy this P. S. D. P.

Two additions last night, April 16th, at our prayer meeting. The Choctaw Indians are getting interested in our Mission. All we lack is money to build, and the work will move off supported by the school.—[R. W. Officer, Paris, Texas.]

Letter from Missouri.

The conference with the Baptists, spoken of last week in my letter, will take place at Essex, next Saturday and Sunday week.

The Christians have bought the academy at Dexter City, Mo., and are refitting it for a meeting-house. It is 60x50 a neat, strong frame, and is being turned to front on Stoddard Street, the main business street of the town. This, when completed, will be the best meeting house in town. This enterprise, I think, will place us on a permanent footing in Dexter. Bro. Sewell preached two sermons in the Baptist meeting-house in Poplar Bluff, week before last, in the absence of the preacher, which caused the Baptist deacons to get a "hauling over the coals," when the pastor returned. We tried to get the Union (?) Methodist house, but the "circuit rider" objected, saying, "I don't believe in a gospel of strife and uncharitableness." He was opposed to the gospel, that was it, did not want the light of the gospel to come in contact with Methodism.

This is the most wicked country I have lived in since I was a boy, in the Indian Reserve. Wherever one goes the ear catches the vulgar, coarse oaths. On the street, the most pious must hear one oath after another. Ladies must listen to g—n's and by g—d's and g—dd—n's and h—l's. On steamboats, everything swears from the deck hand to the captain. At the hotel, even the proprietor will curse everything from the cat to the cook. On the cars you are forced to hear oaths, from breakman to conductor. Now I protest that no man has a right to insult society in such a manner. Even the business men and their clerks think nothing of rolling out oaths in presence of ladies or gentlemen. If he only knew how fast his character drops in the estimation of well raised people who hear such, he would feel less. Wherein does it benefit any one? Who but the vulgar likes to hear it? Who ever made a cent at it? It shows a weakness. The man whose word is of no account without an oath is worthless anyway, and he calls on God to d—n his soul to confirm it. Profanity is a degrading vice.

J. M. RATLIFF.

The number of deaths returned to the census office of United States, and their ratio to the living population are as follows in the states named: In Georgia one person out of each 81, dies each year; Illinois, 87; Indiana, 87; Iowa, 92; Kansas, 86; Kentucky, 69; Tennessee, 72; Missouri, 72; California, 92; Texas, 71; Minnesota, 98.

The above table is presumed to be correct. It was compiled solely in the interest of science, and shows the average number of deaths among a given number of persons composed of the temperate, the moderate drinker, and the drunkard. The best authorities on the subject give the percentage of the increased longevity of the temperate life over the drunkard and drunkard at 35 per cent. Apply this percentage to the users of alcoholic stimulants in the states named, and we would have in Georgia one death per year out of each 60, and of the non-users out of each 100; in Illinois, users 65, non-users 107; Indiana, users 66, non-users 108; Iowa, users 75, non-users 111; Kansas, users 70, non-users 106; Kentucky, users 48, non-users 88; Tennessee, users 53, non-users 91; Missouri, users 60, non-users 90; California, users 68, non-users 103; Texas, users 51, non-users 90; Minnesota, users, 83, non-users 112.

We give the above statistics, taken from a circular presented to us by Bro. S. P. Johnson, agent of the National Temperance Relief Union.

The true motives of our actions, like the real pipes of an organ, are often concealed; while the gilded and hollow pretext is pompously placed in front of the show.

AMERICAN NATIONAL BANK.

CASH CAPITAL,

$1,000,000.

Board of Directors.

E. W. Cole,
John G. Houston,
J. F. Demoville,
John Orr,
Byrd Douglass, Jr.,

John M. Lea,
J. Kirkman,
Rev. Dr. R. A. Young,
V. L. Kirkman,
R. L. Weakley,

A. W. Harris,
M. Burns,
T. A. Atchison,
W. G. Bush,
W. H. Jackson,

John Woodard,
J. A. Pigue,
C. E. Hillman,
W. W. Berry,
Wm. Porter,
Edgar Jones.

This Bank has united with it the THIRD NATIONAL BANK of this city, and has increased its Capital Stock to $1,000,000. With increased facilities in every particular, it can confidently assert that it will offer superior advantages in all departments of Banking to its patrons and friends.

JOHN KIRKMAN, President,
A. W. HARRIS, Cashier,
E. W. COLE, Chairman Executive Committee.

EDGAR JONES, Vice-President,
JOHN M. LEA, Vice-President.

GOSPEL ADVOCATE

PRINTING AND PUBLISHING COMPANY,

JAMES F. & HARRY LIPSCOMB, Managers,

98 Union Street,

Nashville, Tenn.

Letter Heads, Note Heads, Bill Heads, Statement Heads, Circulars, Catalogues, By-Laws, Bills Lading, Receipts, Coal Tickets, Milk Tickets, Tags, Business Cards, Visiting Cards, Horse Bills, Etc.

Good work at reasonable rates. Send for prices. Give us your orders and be pleased.

WE RESPECTFULLY CALL YOUR ATTENTION TO THE FOLLOWING EXCELLENT BOOKS KEPT BY US:

Popular Hymns, word edition.....	single copy 15 cts; per dozen, by express, $1 50; by mail, $1 70
Popular Hymns, Note edition, (Boards).....	single copy 30 cts; per dozen, by express, 3 00; by mail, 3 60
Popular Hymns, Note, (with rudiments).....	single copy 40 cts; per dozen, by express, 4 20; by mail, 4 80
Popular Hymns, Note edition, (cloth).....	single copy 40 cts; per dozen, by express, 4 00; by mail, 4 75
New Life (character notes).....	single copy 85 cts; per dozen, by express, 8 00; by mail, 4 00
Songs of Glory, numbers 1 and 2.....	single copy 35 cts; per dozen, by express, 3 60; by mail, 4 00
Life of Raccoon John Smith, (very readable,) postpaid.....	2 00
Voice of Seven Thunders, (interesting, entertaining, and instructive,) postpaid.....	1 50
Gospel Plan of Salvation, by T. W. Brents, postpaid.....	2 00
Gospel Preacher, volumes 1 and 2, by Ben. Franklin, each, postpaid.....	2 00
Campbell and Owen Debate (splendid book for lawyers) postpaid.....	1 75
Dictionary of Bible, (complete,) by Dr. Smith, postpaid.....	4 50, smaller 3 50
House-keeping in the Blue Grass, (splendid,) postpaid.....	1 50
First Principles, by Isaac Errett, postpaid.....	15
Offerings to the Lord, by David Lipscomb, postpaid.....	10
Christian Experience, by Ben Franklin, postpaid.....	10
Review of Dr. T. O. Summers' Tract, by Isaac Errett, postpaid.....	10
Union Movement, by Ben Franklin, postpaid.....	10
Brown's Pocket Concordance to Bible, postpaid.....	50
Cruden's New Concordance (complete) postpaid.....	1 50
Bibles, Testaments, in all styles and bindings, at low rates.

We will furnish any Book published in United States at retail price. WE SOLICIT YOUR orders. We pay postage only. All kinds of Job Printing.

S. B. HOGAN.

J. S. HOPKINS.

HOGAN &amp; HOPKINS,

Dealers in Custom-Made

BOOTS &amp; SHOES,

We sell the very best makes of Boots and Shoes, and endeavor to make the prices so that no one can possibly sell cheaper than we do.

20 Public Square,

Nashville, Tennessee.

SALESMEN.—Sam. R. Hopkins, L. D. Simmons, William Hayes,

TO MAKE ROOM

For our Plow business, we offer bargains in the Celebrated Mitchell Spring Wagons as follows:

- 1½-inch axle Platform Spring Wagon, two seats, and pole $90.00.
- 1½-inch axle Platform Spring Wagon, two seats and pole, $95.00.
- 1½-inch three spring Delivery Wagon, with shafts, $85.00.
- 1½-inch three spring Pleasure Wagon, two seats and shafts, $90.00.
- Two extra size bed, 1½ Platform Spring Wagon, suitable for drummer's hacks, at $100.00 each.

Above warranted for one year, and guaranteed in style, finish and durability; 10 per cent better than best shop made work.

DUDLEY BROS. &amp; LIPSCOMB.

Gen'l Agents Mitchell, Lewis & Co.,

84 & 86 Broad Street,

Nashville, Tenn.

PASCHALL, FALL &amp; CO.,

WHOLESALE

HARDWARE, Cutlery, Iron, WAGON MATERIAL, Etc.

FISHING TACKLE.

Nos. 57, 59 & 61 S. Market St.,

NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE

Our Prices are Very Low.

THE GOSPEL ADVOCATE.

NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE, APRIL 7, 1884.

CONTENTS:

Why are Men Inclined to Disbelieve the Bible?.....	289
Re-baptism .....	290
Christian Union.....	290
Is Baptism Essential to Salvation?.....	291
Queries .....	291, 295
CONTENTS.....	294
Correspondence.....	294
"Only in the Lord".....	296
Prayer.....	296
OBITUARIES.....	296
ITEMS, PERSONALS, ETC.....	299
GENERAL NEWS.....	299
The Creature.....	299
KENTUCKY CONTRIBUTIONS AND CORRESPONDENCE.
Would the Truth, Etc.....	298
L. F. Whitten—Again.....	298
TEXAS WORK AND WORKERS.
Break the Jug.....	292
G. A. Coulson and the Gospel.....	292
Two Hours Work.....	292
Our Bible Class.....	292
Correspondence.....	293
HOME READING.
For Conscience' Sake.....	300
For the Children.....	300

RE-BAPTISM.

We call attention of Bro. McGary to his attributing to us a position that we have disavowed, to wit, a belief that a person baptized because his sins are pardoned, is accepted. A man may believe his sins pardoned before he is baptized, and still not be baptized because his sins are pardoned.

We have insisted that the leading motive that actuates man, to render any obedience acceptable, is the desire to obey God. We cannot see how sins already remitted can be a moving cause to baptism. There is no motive in the fact of having received a blessing, to move to action. Gratitude for blessings received might prompt the obedience, but this could move only on the ground that God demanded it, and in the gratitude of our hearts, we desire to honor and please him by obeying his commands.

Persons who think their sins are already forgiven may desire to attach themselves to a church, and may submit to baptism as a requirement of the church. Such baptism, no matter where or when submitted to, is a nullity and offence before God. One objection we make to what is called re-baptism, is, nine tenths of these submitting to it, submit to please the preacher or the church, and not to obey God. A man with a clear conscience that he has once been baptized to obey God, cannot be baptized again to obey him.

With this discussion, persons who were moved to be baptized because their sins have been pardoned, (if such a case be possible,) and those baptized because some church requires it, have nothing to do. I have less confidence in them, I think than Bro. McGary.

I spoke of certain doctrines being novelties; I meant they were novelties only to Bro. McGary, and those who had failed to discern them.

He challenges for proof, that the remission of sins, as a result of baptism, was prominently brought forward only when the persons were laboring under a sense of guilt for crimes committed. Well on Pentecost, they having murdered the Savior, were convinced of their guilt, and cried in piteous tremor, Men and brethren, what shall we do? The reply was, Repent and be baptized in the name of Jesus Christ, for the remission of sins. The whole context shows they were laboring under a keen sense of guilt, that they were in almost hopeless despair, in view of their heinous crime against the Lord's anointed, and in bitter anguish they ask for mercy in terms that show conclusively they were in doubt, if mercy were possible to them. The Holy Spirit desires man should feel deeply, but, not that he should "be swallowed up with over-much sorrow."

So the Spirit gave the directions, and the promise of relief from the distress. The directions or commands were "Repent and be baptized in or upon the name of Jesus Christ"; the end to be attained, the blessing to be gained, the promise to be reached, is remission of sins, with a promise then of the gift of the Holy Spirit. The directions given, included man's part of the work. The promises made constituted the blessings God would bestow when they complied with the conditions.

The remission of sins, like the Holy Spirit, was the promise they were to enjoy when they complied with the conditions or obeyed the commandments. A promise cannot be obeyed; a command alone can be obeyed; a promise can be received, enjoyed. The gift of the Holy Spirit is here promised just as much as the remission of sins. It was to come after they reached the remission of sins. Does Bro. Mc. believe that it is necessary for a man to understand how and in what form or sense he will receive the gift of the Holy Spirit, in order to make his baptism acceptable, as he does concerning the remission of sins? If not, why not?

Remission of sins is here clearly presented as a consequence, a blessing that God would bestow on condition we would obey the commands. As such, it might enter into the motives that encouraged the obedience, but it could not constitute a part of the obedience, and if a man cut to the heart by the belief in Jesus as the Christ had heard the command, repent and be baptized, and had done these things he would have followed the guidance of the Spirit fully, although he had not heard the promise of God. In believing, in repenting, in being baptized in the name of Christ, he did his whole duty as laid down by the Spirit. He followed the Spirit, was led by the Spirit to the performance of the whole requirement of God; he obeyed the full law of God. The remission of sins was the promise of God. To say when man had humbly done all the requirements, God would not bestow the blessing because man did not understand, when and how God would perform his promise, would place God in a light he has never placed himself, and pervert his order of dealing with man.

We have analyzed this passage while referring to it, to avoid returning to it. In the next chapter, preaching to the same class, those who had incurred the guilt of crucifying the Savior, the Spirit preaches the same thing and gives the same direction with the variation, "Repent and be converted that your sins may be blotted out, and that times of refreshing may come from the presence of the Lord." This passage more distinctly than the other separates the duties from the promises—repent and be converted that your sins may be blotted out. Man's part was to repent and be converted. God's part was to blot out the sin.

Bro. McGary thinks he finds a discrepancy in our position in reference to one seeking the remission of sins. He would find direction to be baptized "for remission of sins." Certainly this is direction to one seeking the remission of sins. But our present case is, if one who follows these directions to obey God, without any specific consciousness of sin, but desires to please and honor God, will that obedience be accepted? The cases differ. Did Cornelius have any consciousness of sin? Was he seeking forgiveness of sin? Yet he was baptized to save him.

Suppose an individual had heard only the commands, had not heard the promise, and had in humble fidelity to the commands, done them, does any believe he would not have received the promise because he did not hear it? Strange conception of God, one must have to say so.

Two men obey equally faithfully, the commands, one under greater difficulties and with heavier burdens because enjoying less clear perception of the reward, and yet the one who obeyed through the greater difficulties, was rejected? God has never so taught, but that better opportunities and more light increase responsibilities. Obedience rendered under greater difficulties is the more acceptable, a test of truer love. See the Savior's comparison of the woman that was a sinner, and Simon, at the house of the Levite.

The next case of conversion is that in Samaria. Here no special crime was laid to the people. They accepted the truth so soon as presented; they were baptized in the name of Christ, and into Christ, but not a word is said about the remission of sins.

The next is the conversion of the Eunuch. Christ was preached to him, he believed and was baptized into Christ, but not a word is said about the remission of sins. He was guilty of no crime against God, and seemed ready to accept the Savior so soon as he heard the truth.

The next case is that of Saul, a persecutor of the church, he had resisted the truth, as proclaimed through Stephen, and stained his hands in the blood of the martyrs. He is made to feel deeply the guilt of these crimes, was in such distress he refused food or drink for three days,—he was in danger of being "swallowed up with overmuch sorrow" from a deep sense of sin. The Holy Spirit commanded him to be baptized and wash away his sin. He shows what a surprise and joy this was to him, and what an inspiration it was to him to zeal and devotion to God as long as he lived, that God forgave and accepted one so stained with crime so great.

The next conversion is that of Cornelius, a man that worshipped God, that was just and merciful to his fellow men, and did the best he knew and received the word of God so soon as presented. He could have no deep sense of guilt, so nothing is said of baptism for remission of sins; but he is made to realize he is in an unsaved state and must be baptized into Christ, that he may be saved. So we may follow these conversions through, and remission of sin is brought prominently forward as the result of baptism only in the cases mentioned. I do not think it an accident that it was brought forward in these cases, and not in others. But the promise of remission of sin was promised in these cases where a deep and keen sense of anguish for sin was felt, that they be not "swallowed up with overmuch sorrow," but that they be encouraged to hope for forgiveness, and by that hope be led to obedience to the commands of God. In the other cases submission to God, baptism in the name of Christ, putting on Christ, which involves all blessings including remission in Christ, were presented.

Bro. Mc. asks, if the knowledge that baptism is for the remission of sins, is not necessary to obedience, is it necessary to teach it?

It is necessary for a man to teach the whole will of God so far as he understands it. So it is for him to accept the whole will of God so far as he understands it. But if a man fails to understand the whole will of God, does that render his teaching what he does understand, void, sinful, unacceptable to God? Must he understand all that God will do for him or has promised to him as a consequence of his obedience to God, before he can teach what he does know of the claims and commands of God with acceptance? Did Alexander Campbell, Tolbert Fanning, Barton W. Stone, sin, or was their course unacceptable to God, because they proclaimed the divine majesty of the Son of God—his absolute right to reign over man, and the duty of man to obey him in all things, before they understood the point at which God remitted sin in the process of obedience prescribed by the Holy Spirit? If they did not sin in thus preaching the Christ and his authority, before they learned the specific time and the why and wherefore of God's forgiving sin, others did not and do not sin in obeying him before they understand all these things.

Nay more, if the principle laid down here be true, the apostles themselves sinned in preaching before they knew the whole will of God. We say not only that these men did not sin in preaching Christ, his divinity and authority, his right to rule and man's duty to obey, before they learned the when and wherefore of God's blessing, but if they had not so preached and practiced as they learned, they never would have learned the fuller truth. For God gives more light as he gives more faith only to him who uses for God's honor, what he has already given him. See parable of talents. Then the simple rule is, as we understand, we must teach the word of God; as we understand, we must accept and obey. Every honest man uses all his ability to understand.

This whole idea that obedience is acceptable to God only when all the results and consequences of that obedience are perceived by man, is based on the idea that man may perfectly know the full will of God before he obeys any of it. It is sometimes expressed that a man must "believe and obey the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth." While this is an ideal to be desired and striven for, he is presumptuous that claims to have attained it. When a man has learned the whole truth, and attained that position that he can perfectly separate all truth from error, his attainments in divine knowledge are equal to those of the Son of God, and of God himself.

I have never yet studied carefully a passage of Scripture, and especially I have never endeavored to teach a passage of Scripture to others, that new rays of light did not beam forth from it, upon my hitherto beclouded vision. Or if you will take that way, in every effort I make to learn, but especially to teach the truth of God to others, the clouds that dim my vision are removed so as to admit bright rays of light, that I had never seen before. He who thinks he has learned the full meaning of any passage of Scripture, is so blind with presumption that he cannot see the darkness that envelopes him.

Brethren, God looks with pity on man's ignorance, and accepts the weakest effort to obey him, to follow his direction and opens our eyes to see increasing light as we progress in the path he has marked out for us.

Bro. Mc. is now calling on me for proof. It was he that promised to prove if we would give him space. We were then of the impression that we had sounded the depths and knew the strength of the position. But we were and are willing to hear all that any sincere brother can say on the subject. We have nothing to prove. We plant ourselves firmly on the commission of the Son of God, "Preach the gospel to every creature; he that believeth (the gospel) and is baptized, shall be saved." We say those who believe that gospel and through faith in that gospel, are baptized, are saved from a state of sin, are baptized into Christ. Our brother and others say they are not acceptably baptized, unless they understand that remission of sins is bestowed by God in the act or as a consequence of the act of baptism, and give as the proof, that the Holy Spirit promised the remission of sins on the day of Pentecost. We show that this was a promise of God. He would accept persons when led step by step by the Holy Spirit, to the place and through the conditions on which remission is suspended, and this can in no way depend upon anything man can do or understand, save that he obey him. He will save those who are guided by the Spirit through the obedience. Nor can the failure to understand at what point, the promise is to be enjoyed vitiate the obedience that is honestly rendered to God. The burden of proof rests on those who say some who believe and are baptized in obedience to that faith, are not pardoned.

We are willing to give room to any one who thinks he can offer any reason on the subject. We are anxious to know the full strength of the position, and if there is any truthful ground for it, I wish to stand on that ground. I have not a single feeling that I am conscious of, except to know what God teaches then stand upon it. We only insist that the writing must be to the point. That point is, if a man believes in Christ, and is led through that faith to be baptized in order to honor God, will his failure to see the exact point at which God bestows any blessing, prevent the bestowal of it? D. L.

Queries.

Please give an explanation of Luke xiv: 25-34, relative to counting the cost.—[Lee Grigg, Leeville, Tenn.]

I think it is a warning to persons, if they intend to fight against God, to count well the cost, lest if you are not able to stand against Jehovah, you perish amid the scorn of the universe. If you are not able to fight against him, it is well to make peace with him now. The opposite application is the one usually made; that is, Christ is warning them to count the cost of coming to him and fighting the devil; and if this is the true interpretation, Christ advises the sinner, if he thinks he is not able to fight against the devil, to make peace with him. Who believes he did this? The sinner is not able to fight against the devil. But God advises him to come to him, regardless of all cost, and he will fight his battles for him.

I would be glad if you would harmonize the following apparent discrepancies. It is stated in Exo. xxxiii: 11: "And the Lord spake unto Moses, face to face, as a man speaketh unto his friend, and in John i: 18, no man has seen God at any time. Again Matt. xi: 14, And if you will receive it, this is Elias which was for to come. In John i: 21, And they asked them, What then? Art thou Elias? and he saith I am not. Again, in 2nd Kings ii: 11: And it came to pass as they still went on and talked, that behold there appeared a chariot of fire, and horses of fire, and parted them both asunder, and Elijah went up by a whirlwind into heaven. This seems to conflict with the language of John iii: 13, which reads, And no man has ascended up into heaven, but he that came down from heaven, even the son of man which is in heaven. Also Matt. xxviii: 8; Mark xvi: 1; Luke xxiv: 1; John x: 30; John xiv: 28.—[S. B. P., Thornton, Texas.]

"He spake face to face" does not imply that Moses saw the face of God. The connection shows God spake out of the cloudy pillar. "The cloudy pillar descended and stood at the door of the tabernacle, and the Lord talked with Moses."

The talking was done as men talk face, to face, to one another, yet the presence of the Lord was concealed in the cloudy pillar. There is a stronger expression than even this. Gen. xxxii: 30: Here Jacob, after wrestling with the Lord all night, says, "I have seen God face to face," yet in other passages of Scripture, it is explained, he only saw his angel. Hosea. xii: 4, speaking of the same thing, says, "he had power over the angel and prevailed." When the Lord appeared as an angel, he is called the Lord.

John of course was speaking of the peculiar personality of God, and not of any agent, representation or personality of God.

The declarations concerning Elias refer the one to the veritable Elias; John was not Elias, but the Savior said he was the person who in prophecy was called Elias or typified by Elias "he came in the spirit and power of Elias" Luke i: 17.

The word heaven is used in so many different shades of sense in the Bible that it is difficult to tell exactly what is meant; sometimes it refers to the physical heavens; sometimes to the home and presence of God. Elijah went up into the physical heavens, but we take it from a number of expressions that he did not go to the home of God. Only Jesus Christ had been in the presence of God.

Of the other Scriptures, some say they started at the close of the Sabbath, the others say they were at the grave at the dawn of the first day of the week. How any one can see any discrepancy in that, is strange to me. They wished to be at the sepulchre at the earliest moment of the first day. They started a little before the close of the Sabbath. Some of the evangelists tell when they started, others tell they were there at the dawn of the first day, saying nothing about when they started.

These things, of course, are asked by our brother because they are propounded to him. But I protest brethren we take less interest in harmonizing the apparent contradictions of Scripture than in any work we are called upon to do. Because we are sure it does no good. A man who cannot believe God or the Bible until every little point, that he cannot understand, is explained to him, will not believe it at all. A man who studies the discrepancies more than the glorious harmonies and living and life-giving truths of the Bible, shows he has an unbelieving and wicked heart. He does not desire to believe the Bible. A man who desires to know the will of God, will know it. One who does not desire to know and do the will of God, God says, he shall believe a lie and be damned. The need of the poor cavillers at the Bible, is a heart that desires to know and do the will of God. Harmonizing these apparent discrepancies will never give the honest and true heart. It is casting pearls before swine. It is wasting time. A man that refuses to believe the overwhelming testimony of God because God does not stop to explain to his wilfully blind heart, how all his statements are true, ought to and will go to hell. And, if, when one of these carping triflers with the divine will, approaches a Christian with these quibbles, he would faithfully warn him that unless he repents of his wickedness he must perish, infinitely more good would be done than in trying to show him that the discrepancies are not discrepancies. Explain them to him to-day, and he still uses them. Those men never wish to know the truth. And no man can know the truth of God until he, with an honest heart, desires to know it. If he desires to believe a lie, God lets him believe it. The Bible was never written to convince one who did not desire to know and honor God. D. L.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Brethren L. & S.: Being a constant reader of your very valuable paper, I desire to say a few words to the brethren through its columns. Our church here in Selma is growing wonderfully cold in the last few months, and the only thing that I can see for its revival is for one of the good preachers of the word to pay us a visit. I have not heard a sermon in our house of worship since early in December, when Bro. Vanhook held a series of very interesting meetings, which were well attended, and was successfully terminated by seven being added to the church. There is not a day but what I pray that a Bro. Harding or Vanhook might take it into his heart to pay Selma a visit, for the field is large, and I believe much good would result. Let them come; I know they would be heartily welcomed; and when the ripened grain was harvested, they would go on their way rejoicing. We have a very good little Sunday-school, which is pretty well attended. Our Thursday night prayer-meetings are but poorly attended; but there are a faithful few whose faces are nearly always to be seen on those occasions. Bro. Thos. Walker and myself are doing all we can to keep up our meetings, but at times it looks very discouraging; and then it may seem to some, presumption on my part to try and lead in those meetings, being one of those added to the church in December; but I will do the best I can, believing that the Master in his own good time will reward me for my efforts in that direction. My heart's constant prayer is that we may ere long be visited by some good brother who will stir up the members, bring in new ones, and set the church to working in a proper way. Pray for us in our great need, while we continue to pray and work in the Master's vineyard.

Selma, Ala.

D. D. UPDEGRAFF.

[The brethren at Selma are now on the road that will surely bring success, that is determined with God's help to do the best they can. God always helps such.—D. L.]

"ONLY IN THE LORD."

"Be ye not unequally yoked together with unbelievers: for what fellowship hath righteousness with unrighteousness? and what communion hath light with darkness?" 2 Cor. vi: xiv.

Giant intellects have thought, and fluent tongues have spoken, much on the above lines. I have thought much and spoken little until recently. In giving the matter a thorough investigation, I judged it possible to benefit others besides myself by resorting to my pen.

I have so often seen this positive command violated by zealous Christians, that I cannot remain silent. No doubt the greater part of those Christians who thus cross the line of demarkation do it unthoughtedly, and by not having the great responsibility of thus acting well stamped on their minds. I consider the above as positive and binding a command as any found in the Word of God. For, from the day in which God set apart his first church separate from the kingdom of this world, he has considered it a very grave offence for a subject of his kingdom to marry a subject of the kingdom of this world. The Jews were the subjects of God's first kingdom, and in Deut. vii: 2-4, we have this positive command: "Neither shalt thou make marriages with them; thy daughter thou shalt not give unto his son, nor his daughter shalt thou take unto thy son." Now, if the Jews, being only types of Christians, were so pure and holy that God permitted them not to marry worldlings, it seems to me that Christians would not even desire, much less parley over the Word of God, as to its being lawful for such a union.

Jesus, when on trial, to the inquiry of Pilate, said, "My kingdom is not of this world." Matthew says, "The twain (husband and wife) shall be one flesh." How then is it possible for a subject of Christ's kingdom to be united by the "holy bonds of wedlock" with a subject of the kingdom of this world, and not be a part of this world? Would not half of the "one flesh" be of this world, and the other half of Christ? Various constructions have been placed on 2 Cor. vi: 14, to excuse this violation of positive law. In this passage Paul, I think, evidently refers to matrimony. Dr. McNight, from the original, shows this to be his allusion. In his concluding comments on verses 14, 15 and 16, of this chapter after arguing the matter at length, Dr. McNight says, "Therefore Christians should not, of choice, connect themselves intimately, by matrimony or otherwise, with infidels or wicked persons of any sort." Drs. Clark and Wall construe it in about the same way. Paul no doubt draws this metaphorical figure from a command given to the Israelites, "Thou shalt not plow with an ox and an ass together." Deut. xxii: 10. We see it was contrary to the law of God to yoke together beasts of different natures. Just so it is with the Christian and worldling; their life and hope consist of contrary things, and must run in different channels, and cannot be united in peace.

A great part of sin committed by Christians in this way is due to the preacher's or teacher's non-performance of duty. They do not impress upon the minds of their hearers the great responsibility of thus acting. I have known of learned ministers of the gospel joining, by that "holy bond," a Christian with an infidel or worldling. And how often a Christian with a sectarian? Proclaimers of the power and purity of God, whose teachest, thinkest thou art not a transgressor of the will? Do you not, by thus acting, encourage such disobedience? Do you, being a leader of the people of God, wish to lead them into infidelity and worldly cares? If not, "shun even the appearance of evil."

WILLIAM B. YOUNG.

PRAYER.

Prayer is not simply a desire of the heart as some seem to think.

Paul says: "My heart's desire and prayer to God for Israel, is that they might be saved." Rom. x: 1.

Christ, to his disciples, says: "What things soever ye desire, when ye pray, believe that ye receive them, and ye shall have them." Mark xi: 24.

James, iv: 2, says: "Ye lust and have not, ye kill and desire to have and cannot obtain, ye fight and war, yet ye have not, because ye ask not."

Our Father in heaven has promised to hear our prayers, and grant our petitions, if we ask according to his will.

John says: "This is the confidence we have in him, that if we ask anything according to his will, he heareth us, and if we know that he hears us whatsoever we ask, we know we have the petition that we desired." 1 John v: 14-15.

We must make our desires known by asking, that we may be heard and receive the petition that we desire.

Christ, when teaching his disciples how to pray, told them to say, "Our Father in heaven, etc." Luke xi: 2.

Our Savior, the night he was betrayed, knowing the time had come for him to be offered up for the sin of the world, and in view of suffering a most cruel death when he was almost overwhelmed with insupportable anguish and grief, it would seem that the Father would have understood every thought and desire of his heart; that he would look into the secret recess of that sorrowful heart and give him the support he needed in that trying hour, but we learn that he withdrew himself from his disciples and kneeled down and prayed, saying: "Father, if thou be willing, remove this cup from me, nevertheless, not my will, but thine be done. And there appeared an angel unto him from heaven, strengthening him." Luke xxii: 41-43. "When he was suspended between the heaven and the earth enduring the most excruciating torments at the hands of his persecutors and almost paralyzed with pain, all nature stood in awe, and the earth was mantled in darkness, the sun refused to look down upon such majestic suffering, yet he could not forget his great desire for man's salvation. In the agony of death he offered the last petition, saying: "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do." By him, therefore, let us offer the sacrifice of praise to God continually, that is the fruit of our lips giving thanks to his name.

J. A. SIMS.

Cairo, Tenn.

There is enough tinder in the heart of the best man in the world to light a fire that shall burn to the lowest hell, unless God should quench the sparks as they fall. Boast not then, O Christian, by thy faith thou standest.—Spurgeon.

Obituaries.

With a mind more calm than is usual for me to have, I seat myself to write the death of sister Elizabeth Matilda Phillips, the wife of Bro. William R. Phillips, who lives near Gadsden, Tenn. She was born the daughter of Bro. J. W. Conly, in the State of Kentucky, May 1, 1809, and departed this life, August 29, 1883: aged, 74 years, 3 months, and 28 days. Sister Phillips "remembered her Creator in the days of her youth, while the evil days come not, nor the years draw nigh, when thou shalt say, I have no pleasure in them." Her whole life was that of uprightness; her words were of truth, and as goads and nails fastened by the masters of assemblies. Her life was molded in the gospel of Christ. The will of Christ was in her mind, and his spirit in her heart. The Holy Spirit has said that Zachariah and Elizabeth of old "were both righteous before God, walking in all the commandments and ordinances of the Lord blameless." Why cannot we say so much for Sister Phillips, whose life has made the same record? I heard Bro. Phillips say he never knew her to do anything, in word or deed, that would harm any one. Hence her life merits more than simply a passing notice. She had been an invalid for many years; but no doubt her affliction, which was but for a moment, worked out for her a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory. She looked not to things temporal as much, by far, as she did to things eternal. She knew that when the earthly house of this tabernacle was dissolved, that she had a building of God, a house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens. It was her request that I should attend her funeral; but I was away from home at the time of her death, and when I got word of her death, it was too late for me to comply with the request. Bro. Jesse Phillips, her step-son, conducted the funeral services.

"She has reached the sunny shore,
And will never hunger more;
All her grief and pain is o'er—
Over there.

"She has fought the weary fight,
Jesus saved her by his might;
Now she dwells with him in light—
Over there."

Now, to Bro. Phillips, the bereaved family, and church, let us be faithful, and—

"Soon we'll reach the shining strand,
But we'll wait our Lord's command,
Till we see his beck'ning hand,
Over there."

H. C. BOOTH.

Departed this life, September 29, 1883, near West Mountain, Upshur county, Texas, at the home of her son-in-law, R. W. Morgan, after a lingering illness of nine months, sister Mary Ann Elder, in the seventy-first year of her age. She was the daughter of I. A. and E. Parker; was born in Putnam county, Georgia, March 16, 1813; was married in Morgan county, Georgia, about the year 1830, to Jas. P. Elder, of Clarke county; resided in Georgia till the latter part of 1847, when, with husband, father, mother, and other friends, she moved to Texas, and settled in the northern part of Rusk county; here they remained until after the war, when the family removed to Upshur county, where her husband soon died, leaving Aunt Mary Ann with five of the children to care for, and train for usefulness. This she did successfully; for, at her death, all of her living children were zealous members of the church of Christ. Aunt Mary Ann was the mother of twelve children, who lived to be grown. Four of her sons died during the late war. Her life was one of care and sorrow; for a long time it was apparent that her cares and affliction were wearing heavily upon her. She always manifested a great interest in the welfare of her children and friends. Indeed, few mothers were ever more successful in their efforts to train their children in the way they should go. Notwithstanding her last illness was long and painful, children and friends were untiring in their efforts to minister to her every want. In her last moments she called her children around her bedside, and exhorted them to meet her in a better world. 'Tis sad to part with our dear ones. But in the following lines is found great consolation for the Christian:

Yet again we hope to meet thee,
When the dream of life is fled;
Then, in Heaven, with joy to greet thee,
Where no farewell tear is shed.

Longview, Texas.

W. C. HOLLOWAY.

Mrs. Mattie R. Coop was separated from her husband and dear children, by the hand of death, February 27, 1884. She was a cheerful and happy girl, the pride of her widowed mother, the loved one among her brothers and sisters. Just in the full bloom of young womanhood, on December 24, 1874, she was married to Mr. T. N. Coop, making him truly a helpmeet in bearing the burdens of life, which she was called to lay down so soon, and leave him alone to carry the weight of care and responsibility resting upon the father of two little girls, and two little boys, left motherless. Sister Mattie obeyed the gospel, and became a loving disciple of Jesus, under the instruction of Bro. S. Bowling, when young; was a member, under my care, of the congregation at Cross Roads, near this place. She highly appreciated the Christian religion, and the blessed hope of everlasting life. After severe sickness of only two weeks, she quietly and peacefully died. Could she now send a message from the grave, I think it would be to her loved and sorrowing husband, to prepare to meet her in heaven, and to lead the children in the path of holiness.

R. A. HOOVER.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

This powder never varies. A marvel of purity strength and wholesomeness. More economical than the ordinary kinds, and cannot be sold in competition with the multitude of low test, short weight alum or phosphate powders. Sold only in cans.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 106 Wall St., New York.

Twin Foes to Life

Are Indigestion and Constipation. Their primary symptoms are among the most distressing of minor human ailments, and a host of diseases, speedily resultant from them, mutually aggravate each other and assail at once the whole machinery of life. Nausea, Foul Breath, Sour Stomach, Dizziness, Headaches, Bilious Fever, Jaundice, Dyspepsia, Kidney Diseases, Piles, Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Dropsy, and various Skin Disorders, are among the symptoms and maladies caused by derangement of the stomach and bowels.

A Thorough Purgative

medicine is the first necessity for cure. Then the cathartic effect must be maintained. In a mild degree, just sufficient to prevent a recurrence of costiveness, and at the same time the liver, kidneys and stomach must be stimulated and strengthened.

Ayer's Pills

Accomplish this restorative work better than any other medicine. They are searching and thorough, yet mild, in their purgative action. They do not gripe the patient, and do not induce a costive reaction, as is the effect of other cathartics. Withal, they possess special properties, diuretic, hepatic and tonic, of the highest medicinal value and

Absolutely Cure

All diseases proceeding from disorder of the digestive and assimilatory organs. The prompt use of AYER'S PILLS to correct the first indications of costiveness, averts the serious illnesses which neglect of that condition would inevitably induce. All irregularities in the action of the bowels—looseness as well as constipation—are beneficially controlled by AYER'S PILLS, and for the stimulation of digestive organs weakened by long-continued dyspepsia, one or two of AYER'S PILLS daily, after dinner, will do more good than anything else.

Leading Physicians Concede

That AYER'S PILLS are the best of all cathartic medicines, and many practitioners, of the highest standing, customarily prescribe them.

AYER'S PILLS,

PREPARED BY

Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

[Analytical Chemists]

For sale by all Druggists.

THE SUGAR HAND BOOK

A NEW AND VALUABLE TREATISE ON SUGAR CANES, (including the Minnesota Early Amber) and their manufacture into Syrup and Sugar. Although comprised in small compass and furnished free to applicants, it is the BEST PRACTICAL MANUAL ON SUGAR CANES that has yet been published.

GLYNNER MANUFACTURING CO
Cincinnati, O.
Manufacturers of Steam Sugar Machinery, Steam Engines,
Victor Cane Mill, Cook Sugar Evaporator, etc.

PREWITT, SPURR & CO.,

MANUFACTURERS OF

WOODEN WARE AND LUMBER,

NASHVILLE, TENN.

Poplar and Pine Flooring, Ceiling, Weatherboarding, Sash, Doors, Blinds, Door and Window Frames, Brackets, Laths, Cedar Posts, Etc., Always on hand.

FACTORY AND MILLS IN EDGEFIELD.

NATHANIEL BAXTER, JR.,
President.

THOS. FLATER,
Vice President.

J. P. WILLIAMS,
Cashier.

W. F. BANG, JR.,
Ass't Cashier.

THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK,

OF NASHVILLE, TENN. (Reorganized.)

Designated Depository and Financial Agent of the United States.

CAPITAL STOCK,	- - - - -	$500,000 00
UNDIVIDED PROFITS,	- - - - -	190,000 00

Receives Deposits, Deals in United States Bonds and Local Securities, and Foreign and Domestic Exchange. Drafts drawn on all European points. Our facilities for making collections at all accessible points are unsurpassed.

P. A. SHELTON,

DEALER IN

STAPLE AND FANCY GROCERIES,

FLOUR, BACON, LARD, TOBACCO AND CIGARS, COUNTRY PRODUCE,

QUEENSWARE, GLASSWARE, TINWARE, LAMPS AND TRIMMINGS.

No. 96 BROAD STREET, - (Second door from College,) - NASHVILLE, TENN.

Special Attention Given to Filling Orders.

SOLE AGENT FOR "RINGLEADER" FLOUR.

ALEX. HOGAN.

JO. B. HALL.

HOGAN & HALL,

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALERS IN

GROCERIES, BACON, LARD,

—AND—

PURE WHISKIES AND WINES

For Medicinal Purposes.

106 Broad Street, - - - NASHVILLE, TENN.

GOOD CLOTHING!

Gentlemen and boys who desire GOOD CLOTHING at medium prices, equal in style and make to any custom work, should not fail to examine our stock before purchasing their Outfits.

HUNTINGTON, Clothier,

160 Church Street, - - - NASHVILLE.

W. R. CORNELIUS,

GENERAL FUNERAL UNDERTAKER.

OFFICE:

No. 17 North Summer Street,

RESIDENCE:

No. 418 Main Street.

Telephone 73 calls the Office; Telephone 271 calls the Residence.

Will furnish everything wanted at a funeral, and all first-class. Prices as cheap as anybody else. 2a3m

THUSS, KOELLEIN & GIERS,

Successors to old Giers' Gallery,

PHOTOGRAPHERS!

139 Union Street, Nashville, Tenn.

CALVERT BROTHERS, PORTRAITS.

In Crayon, in Oil and Water Colors; Ivory Miniatures, &c., &c., Cole Building, Cor. Union and Cherry Streets, Nashville, Tenn.

GEO. E. COOPER & CO.,

Wholesale Manufacturers and Dealers in

TINWARE, STOVES, FURNACES,

And House Furnishing Goods.

Tin and Slate Roofing and Galvanized Iron Cornice Work a Specialty.

Also our Patent Chimney Top for smoky chimneys, has no equal. Write for prices and address.

GEO. E. COOPER & CO.,

22 North Market Street,

Nashville, - - - Tennessee.

SHOW CASES,

CEDAR CHESTS, CEDAR WARDROBES,

Cabinet Work, and all kinds of Glass.

G. C. TERRY, Manufacturer,

No. 2 Hicks' Block, North Side Public Square, NASHVILLE, TENN.

F. A. BADGER, DENTIST

OFFICE.

ODD FELLOWS' TEMPLE,

(Cor Church & High Sts.)

Nashville, Tennessee.

A Physician's Gift.

If you are a sufferer hoping for a permanent cure of Apoplectic or Epileptic

FITS,

a Free Trial Box of the celebrated Dr. JUSTICE SCHROEDER'S REMEDY for this disorder will be sent you, post-paid, free.

Every sufferer from this disease that is anxious to be cured should give these Powders an immediate trial. Large Box $3 00, two boxes $6.00.

Address,

PHILIP HENRY,

49 South Street, New York City.

OWEN'S STATION SCHOOL.

The sixth annual session will open Sept. 3d, 1883, and continue Forty Weeks. The session is divided into two terms of twenty weeks each.

The expenses to boarders per term, are from $75.00 to $80.00. Music with use of Instrument, $22.00. $100.00 will pay for board, washing, full instruction in higher English Branches, Latin, Greek, French and Music. Bills due one-half at opening of term and remainder at middle. For any information, address

W. LIPSCOMB,

Brentwood, Tenn

AGENTS wanted for the History of Christianity, by Abbott. A grand chance. A $4 book at the popular price of $1.75. Liberal terms. The religious papers mention it as one of the few great religious works of the world. Greater success never known by agents. Terms free. STINSON & Co., Publisher, Portland, Maine.

DONT purchase your CHRISTMAS PRESENTS until you have seen our IMMENSE HOLIDAY CATALOGUE of Toys, Novelties, Fancy Goods, &c., mailed free. Address Eureka T. & N. Co., 37 Warren St., New York.

CATALOGUE of Best Books for Agents sent free, including Mother, Home and Heaven, $2.75. Please everybody. 125,000 sold, $150 monthly. E. B. TRENT Publisher, New York.

KENTUCKY CONTRIBUTIONS AND CORRESPONDENCE.

BY J. A. HARDING, OF WINCHESTER, KY., TO WHOM
ALL COMMUNICATIONS FOR THIS DEPARTMENT
SHOULD BE ADDRESSED.

WOULD THE TRUTH,

IF FAITHFULLY PREACHED AND PRACTICED BY CHRISTIANS, CONVERT THE WORLD?

"We preach a glorious doctrine," said a disciple of the Lord to me some days ago, "and if we would practice as we preach, that is, if we would let the truth shine out in our lives as it does in our sermons, we would soon take the world." So thought and so spake an earnest servant of the Lord, and I said, amen; but upon reflection it seems evident that we both were mistaken. There is nothing more repugnant to most men than the truth of God: they hate it with a bitter hatred, and will not long endure the man who preaches it, and practices what he preaches. If a man desires to be peculiar in the earth, loved and admired with a pure, sincere, hearty affection by the few, dreaded and despised by the many, especially by the rich, influential, and religious (?), let him teach and practice the doctrine of Christ. Thus he will find a warm place in the hearts of the few—the Lord's jewels—but he will certainly be ostracized by the many—the servants of Satan. There was a tremendous drawing power in the miracles of our Lord. Consider how these slight-of-hand tricksters draw the crowd. Suppose one of them could really work miracles—could change water into wine, could wither a tree with a word, could quiet the raging sea and stormy sky by a command, could walk upon the water, open the eyes of the blind with a touch, and cause the lame to walk, the deaf to hear, the dumb to speak, and the dead to live—surely such a man would draw the multitudes and move them at his will. Jesus did all these things and many more; he drew the people too, for when they heard of his wonderful works they flocked about him by thousands that they might hear and see for themselves; when they heard and saw and were made beneficiaries of his marvelous miracles, they cried out in amazement at the mighty wonders that he wrought, "What manner of man is this?" But when he spake to them the truth, it was too hard for them; they would not receive it, and so they fell away from him in great crowds until only a little handful was left of the mighty multitude that had fed from his hand.

Jesus Christ taught a faultless doctrine and lived a faultless life, and the people so despised him for it, that notwithstanding the conciliating power there was in his miracles, they killed him. If a pure doctrine faithfully taught and practiced would draw the world, then it would have been drawn to Christ. "But," it may be asked, "is not the case of Christ an exceptional one?" Yes, it certainly is, because he was exceptionally pure, but in proportion as men approach to him in purity of life and devotion to the Lord their experiences are like his. Consider the ancient worthies: "they were stoned, they were sawn asunder; they were tempted, they were slain with the sword, they went about in sheep-skins, in goat-skins, being destitute, afflicted, evil entreated, (of whom the world was not worthy,) wandering in deserts, and mountains, and caves, and the holes of the earth." remember also the apostles of the Lord, who died violent deaths—every one of them but one. Jesus said to his disciples; "Ye shall be hated of all men for my name's sake. * * * A disciple is not above his master, nor a servant above his lord. * * * If they have called the master of the house Beelzebub, how much more shall they call them of his household."

He says also, "Woe unto you when all men speak well of you;" and, "Blessed are ye when men shall reproach you, and persecute you, and say all manner of evil against you falsely, for my sake. Rejoice and be exceeding glad; for great is your reward in heaven; for so persecuted they the prophets which were before you." It has always been the case that the faithful followers of God have been few in the earth; and doubtless it always will be so, till Jesus comes again.

If a man draws great multitudes to his ministry and builds a great congregation, as Beecher, Talmage and Spurgeon have done, the people lift up their hands and cry, "Behold how the Lord blesses his labors!" But, in fact, his drawing the masses and holding them for years, is one of the very best proofs that he is not a faithful teacher of the truth. Jesus said to the Jews, "Ye are of your father the devil, and the lusts of your father it is your will to do. He was a murderer from the beginning, and stood not in the truth, because there is no truth in him. When he speaketh a lie he speaketh of his own: for he is a liar, and the father thereof. But because I say the truth, ye believe me not. Which of you convicteth me of sin? If I say the truth, why do ye not believe me? He that is of God heareth the words of God: for this cause ye hear them not, because ye are not of God." The word of God is like the refiners fire, or the fuller's soap, or the thresher's wheat fan; it separates the gold from the dross, the wheat from the chaff. Blessed is the man that loves it with his whole heart; that meditates in it day and night; that teaches it with an unfaltering courage, and that regulates his life by its holy precepts. Yes, thrice blessed is that man! for God's loving kindness is ever about him, and he finds a glorious welcome into the hearts and homes of the pure of the earth. Although he will inevitably repel the crowd, he finds, nevertheless, that it is very good to love and serve the Lord.

It is commonly supposed also that the more nearly a church approaches to perfection, the greater the number of additions a preacher may expect to have in holding a meeting for it; but this is another great mistake. In holding more than a hundred protracted meetings, I have never received a great number of additions while laboring with a real good congregation, with only one exception as far as I can remember. Among the very best of all these congregations are the Plum St. church of Detroit, and the church at Valdosta, Ga. The former is stronger in number and influence, but the latter is equally as rich, in proportion to its membership, in great-hearted, truth-loving, God-fearing men and women. I have held six or seven meetings with these congregations, laboring from twenty to thirty-five days each time, and have not been able to induce more than twelve persons to move forward in obedience to the Lord at any one of these protracted efforts; whereas in working with lukewarm, careless congregations, it has not been unusual for me to obtain from thirty to one hundred additions in the same length of time.

The congregation, as well as the individual, that teaches and practices the truth, repels as well as attracts; it blows away the chaff, but gathers the wheat.

It is well for such churches to bear in mind that Satan despises them, as he hates a good man, and that he does not cease to work for their destruction. He sends his emissaries into their midst, wolves in sheep's clothing, to spy out their liberties. He works by every artifice and every trick that his deadly hate and malignant genius can invent to cause them to depart from the pure, simple way of the Lord and to follow after the inventions of men. A church no more escapes temptation and trials than does the Christian.

L. F. WHITTEN—AGAIN.

Bro. Whitten, the Methodist preacher at Scottsboro, Alabama, gives us a short article in a recent issue of ADVOCATE in reply to a note from me concerning himself. There are several matters in his reply that I desire to notice. He says:

"Last January Elder Harding came to our town, and after a while he made his challenge: 'I will give any man one hundred dollars to produce a Greek-English lexicon that gives as one of the definitions of baptizo, to sprinkle.' Bro. Shook and I sent him a copy of Dr. Ditzler's work on baptism, with a note, stating that we had not the lexicon, but asking him why Dr. Ditzler gave thirty-one authors and lexicographers who gave this or its equivalent as one of the meanings of baptizo. Elder Harding stated publicly, 'If Bros. Shook and Whitten knew as much of Dr. Ditzler as I do, they would not have sent me this book. I have in my possession a letter from Prof. Humphreys, of Vanderbilt University, stating that Dr. Ditzler has misrepresented in his work; made false quotations, and taken ground which is untenable.' I did not hear this statement, but three reliable gentlemen told me they heard him. I at once addressed a note of inquiry to Prof. Humphreys. * * * I copy from his letter: 'As to the matter you write about, there is a serious mistake out somewhere. I have never expressed any opinion at all about Dr. Ditzler's book. I have never seen it.'"

The foregoing extract is sufficient to bring out the point to which I desire to call especial attention. Be it observed then that I did offer a reward for a STANDARD Greek-English lexicon that defines baptizo to sprinkle; and be it further more observed that the book has not yet been produced, though Bro. Whitten tells us that Dr. Ditzler gives thirty-one authors and lexicographers who give this, or its equivalent, as one of the meanings of baptizo. Prof. Humphreys's letter to which I referred and which I have now before me reads thus:

VANDERBILT UNIVERSITY, Jan. 28, 1882.

Dear Sir: Although some lexicons give pour or sprinkle as meanings of baptizo, there is no standard Greek-English lexicon that does.

Yours truly, M. H. HUMPHREYS.

The point that I made from this letter was that it showed (not "stated") that Dr. Ditzler's book is unreliable and misleading; since he professes to find thirty-one authors and lexicons (some of them Greek-English) that so define it.

And now for a little scrap of history concerning Dr. Ditzler. Some time after the Wilkes-Ditzler debate at Louisville, Ky., Dr. Robert Hiner, a Methodist preacher of great prominence in Kentucky, wrote to C. W. Miller, then editor of the Central Methodist, inquiring if Ditzler did not misquote or misrepresent certain authors in the debate. To this Miller replied that he did, giving the instances in which misrepresentations had occurred. When a man's own brethren expose him thus, he is pretty rotten. I hold myself ready to show at any proper time before the people of Scottsboro, or what ever it may be necessary, that Dr. Ditzler's books on baptism are utterly unreliable. I presume that no preacher ever wrote on any subject more so.

Now let me suggest to Bro. Whitten that the proper thing for him to do is to get the "standard Greek-English lexicon" that defines baptizo to sprinkle. As he seemed somewhat modest about working for the reward that I offered, let me assure him that when he obtains the book, I will pay him full value for it, and, in addition, pay all the cost of obtaining it. The easiest way for him to maintain the reputation of Dr. Ditzler, and to confute me, is for him to get the book. For until this is done, the public will be strongly inclined to believe I am right.

END OF KENTUCKY DEPARTMENT.

ITEMS, PERSONALS, ETC.

Bros. Elam and F. B. Srygley have been holding a meeting in Springfield the past week. A good hearing, with one addition.

Bro. Thos. G. Nance changes his address from Weimer, Colorado county, to Woodbury, Hill county, Texas.

Bro. Briney and elder J. B. Moody, of the Baptist Gleaner, are booked for a debate at Mayfield, beginning June 2nd.

Bro. W. L. Butler, of the Apostolic church, has been preaching the past week in Gallatin, Tenn., with good interest in his meeting.

Bro. L. R. Sewell has located permanently at Donelson, Tenn., within six miles of this city. Correspondents will address him at Donelson, Tenn.

Bro. Loos is protracting a meeting in Edgefield the present week; expects to continue the meeting through the coming week. He is having a good hearing.

Two were baptized at Flat Rock, five miles from the city, on last Lord's day. One of them the one reported as making the confession two weeks previous.

We have received for Indian Mission $2.00 from a brother, and $1.00 from a sister in Williamson County. We received five dollars from a brother at Pinewood for Orphan school.

There have been eleven confessions and baptisms at the Church-street church, in this city, within the last three weeks. There are additions by commendation almost every Lord's day.

Bro. L. S. Barrett says: "Since April 20th, Bro. H. B. Todd and wife united with us, and one added, on Sunday, April 27th. We trust Bro. Todd's energy and zeal will greatly help the congregation at Franklin, and the cause around."

If our correspondents could hear the printer call for articles to make two inches, a quarter or half a column, when we have our pigeon-holes full of articles that will make a page or more, I am sure they would divide, boil down, and condense. We are never overcrowded with short articles.

Bro. John Marcrom, from Winchester, writes, April 28th: "Two additions yesterday at a school-house two and one-half miles from Winchester. Twenty-five were added some time ago, which have never been reported. Also a church was recently organized at Liberty Hill, Moore county, Tennessee."

Bro. Walling, of McMinnville, writes: "I baptized one last Lord's day in April. Bro. J. C. Martin, our Sunday-school superintendent, keeps up a fine interest in the Lord's day school. Our Lord's day meetings were never better attended, nor more interesting, than at present. A good interest throughout the county. Bro. Arthur Towles died April 27, 1884."

Bro. Cayce writes from Franklin, Tenn.: "The church in this place seems to be improving. The congregations, where I preach, are generally good, with interest through the country, fair. I preach the second Sunday at South Harpeth; third Sunday at Hill's Chapel; fourth Sunday at Berea. The first and fifth Sundays, I distribute at places where I think I can do most good."

Remember, the ADVOCATE from first of May to the end of the year, for one dollar. Supply your poor brethren and sisters, your neighbors, sectarian and non-professors, with good sound reading matter for the remainder of the year. The people who have not much matter to read and divert their minds, are the most benefitted by a good paper. They study it, retain it.

Bro. J. A. Harding writes from Gadsden, Alabama: "I expect to be here for three or four weeks. Please notify my correspondents of it through the ADVOCATE. Bro. Daugherty will join me to-morrow." Again a day or two later: "There are seven members here; two men and five women. We are having large audiences, and the opening seems excellent. The Presbyterians have kindly granted us the use of their house."

The Kentucky Orphan School, at Midway, Ky., is appealing for help to build larger and more suitable buildings. It has been in operation over thirty years; has done a good work in helping and training for usefulness poor orphan girls, and now appeals for help to enlarge, because it cannot half accommodate the applications for help. The same teachers could double their usefulness if they had the room for the pupils. We trust they will receive the needed help.

Bro. Ligon writes, "Sister Beal, of Lyell's Station, acknowledges the receipt of help from a sister at Azle, Texas, $5.00. The church at Liberty, Lawrence County, Tenn., $3.25; a brother at Stephenville, Texas, $1.00; and some others who requested no mention should be made of it. Sister Beal expresses her heartiest thanks for the aid. Sister Beal is left here in this little town with two little boys, who are almost large enough to make a living for her and them, and she is anxious to get a little farm that they may so do, but she has not the means. Would be very thankful to any help to aid her."

The uncertainty of human nature was well illustrated at the trial of Frank James, at Huntsville, Ala. The interest in his trial was great, and as it became evident that the prosecution would fail to sustain the charges made against him, the sympathy in his behalf seems to have been intense. When the verdict of acquittal was brought in, bouquets of flowers, congratulations and ovations of praise and honor were given him as though he were a great hero or martyr. He may not have been guilty of that robbery, and ought to have been released on that charge, but still he, beyond doubt, has been an associate and partner of murderers and thieves, if not one himself, travelling about to steal, instead of engaging in honest labor. He was here in Nashville under a false name, because he had dishonored and made infamous his own name. What honest people can see in his course to call forth such indications of respect and sympathy as were bestowed on him, I am at a loss to see. Such demonstrations encourage highway robbery, and make a hero of cowardly assassins, and low thieves. It is not wonderful that the youthful mind is fired with the idea that murder and robbery are heroic.

General News.

A terrific tornado passed over Western Ohio on Sunday, doing great damage to property, and injuring, it is said, not less than one hundred persons.—A telegram from Denver, Col., reports that the white settlers at Mitchell's place, on the lower San Juan river, in southern Colorado, are supposed to have been massacred by the Navajo Indians. It is believed that about fifteen lives were lost.—A freight train on the Hudson river railway, was thrown into the Erie Canal. One of the cars contained dried apples, which were scattered about. Boys feasted on the apples, and several are now critically ill.—Hiram Jefferson, aged sixty-five years, living on a farm near Anderson, Iowa, was taken from his bed by four men and dragged to the yard, where, after the most brutal treatment, they hanged him to the limb of a tree.—Amos Backenstras, living near Berne, Adams County, Indiana, was murdered in his bed on the night of the 24th ult., and his house robbed. Two men supposed to be the murderers are in custody.—The Steamer Grand Pacific, of Davidson's Upper Mississippi Line, collided with the bridge at Burlington, Iowa, and sunk in twenty feet of water, and is a total loss. No lives lost.—William Harden, assistant Traffic manager of the Canadian Pacific Railroad, has resigned at the request of the General manager. An irregularity in the accounts has been discovered.—An attempt was made by a mob to take William Osborn, convicted of murder and sentenced to five years imprisonment, from the jail at Mt. Sterling, Ky., but the lynchers were foiled by the bravery of the jailer.—The city engineer pronounced the suspension bridge, over the Cumberland river, unsafe. The City Council at once forbid the street cars passing over the bridge. It has created considerable dissatisfaction, especially in Edgefield. It will likely result in a new bridge being built soon.—Quite a number of political conventions have been held in the different States, to send delegates to the conventions to nominate candidates for the Presidency. The majority of the conventions held are Republican, as they hold their nominating convention earliest. Blaine seems to be the favorite, although quite a number of delegates appointed are for Arthur. The feeling for Lincoln for Vice-President seems to approach unanimity. Among the Democrats, the old ticket seems to be popular. Mr. Tilden so far expresses a determination not to accept the nomination.

FOREIGN.—The French Government is preparing to reduce the French squadron in the Chinese waters. The Tonquin flotilla will be limited to its present complement. Advices from Tamataon, also, say that the French have sent a flag of truce to the Malagassies with modified terms. A treaty of peace is now probable.—Prince Kung, the degraded Chinese Chief Councilor, is reported to have committed suicide. Bismarck is preparing a radical revision of the constitution; one point being to impose on deputies in the Reichstag an oath of fidelity, for the purpose of keeping out socialists.

THE CREATURE.

What was the creature spoken of in the eighth chapter of the letter to the Romans? Paul answers, Because the creature itself shall be delivered from the bondage of corruption into the glorious liberty of the children of God. For the whole creation (they that were created in the first Adam) groaneth and travaileth in pain together until now; and not only they, but ourselves also, which have the first fruits of the Spirit, even we ourselves groan within ourselves, waiting for the adoption, to wit, the redemption of our body. It is evident that the apostle was speaking of the creature created in Adam. But who subjected the body to death? Man the first Adam by one act of disobedience subjected his own body and all who were created in him to death of the body. The Gentile nations of the earth were without hope, and without the knowledge of God, and did not leave the world willingly, and enter into a state of corruption. But there is another question, who subjected the same (body) in hope of a resurrection? The answer is, Christ the second Adam, subjected his own body to death in hope of a resurrection from death. This he did willingly as he had the power to lay down his life, and he had the power to take it again. He died in full assurance of faith that he would rise again, he died according to the will of the Father, whose promise he had, that he would raise him from the dead. He died to deliver them who were all their life-time subject to bondage. By his own death and resurrection he demonstrated that there would be a resurrection from the dead. So it is evident that man the first Adam subjected all that were created in him to the death of the body; and that man, the second Adam, subjected his own body to death to raise all that are created in him to life and immortality.

WILLIAM ROBB.

Bro. Robb gives this additional matter, on the creature made subject to vanity. We commend it to the consideration of the reader. D. L.

Language most shows a man. Speak, that I may see thee! It springs out of the most retired and inmost part of us.—Ben Johnson.

Home Reading.

FOR CONSCIENCE' SAKE.

"Here, Janet, all the examples are worked out on this piece of paper. Take it into the class and you'll get through the recitation nicely."

Janet drew back and said: "But I didn't work them out, Alice. It wouldn't be honest."

"Don't be a goose, Janet. Nobody will be likely to ask right up and down whether you did or not."

"But if I make any one think I did, then it will be dishonest all the same."

"Nonsense. Give me the paper, then," said Alice, looking offended.

"I know you mean to be kind, Alice, but don't you see it would be acting a lie?"

"Oh, you're one of the particular sort. You'll be sure not to pass if you're too strict to take a little helping through."

Janet sighed and took her place, knowing there was a great deal of truth in what Alice had said. Bright and quick in every other study, always taking real delight in the routine of school duty, she had found arithmetic a sad puzzle and had felt it a great hardship that her general standing depended so much upon it. Examinations for admission to the high school were just now approaching, and the circle of girls with whom she was most friendly were all hoping to succeed—all but poor Janet, who felt more and more certain that there was no hope of surmounting her old stumbling-block.

On the dreaded day upon which the examination in arithmetic took place the figures seemed to pile themselves before her in mountains, while signs and terms danced before her and mocked her attempts to reduce them to order. She had arrived at the last point of discouragement when desired to go with others to the black-board.

Well knowing that upon this hour would depend the question of her going over again months of study already done, she tried her very best, but her very anxiety stood in her way. She grew nervous and made mistakes in the smallest matters.

"You've multiplied wrong there," whispered Sam Fulton, a boy quick at figures, who stood near, and in one glance took in her difficulties with good-natured sympathy. She corrected the mistake, but was soon in a helpless snarl, every rule seemed to go out of her head.

"Invert your terms—and cancel—" again whispered Sam. But Janet shook her head, laid down the crayon and went to her seat, full of the bitter consciousness of failure.

An hour later she was walking slowly home.

"Wait, Janet," cried a voice behind her, and Sam hurried up. "Why didn't you let me help you when I could?" he asked. "I could have engineered you right through those examples if you had let me."

"It wouldn't have been right, Sam," she said, shaking her head; I corrected the mistake in multiplication when you told me because that was a thing I knew—I just got wrong because I was confused. But I ought to have known those rules without your telling me, and if I had pretended to know them when I didn't, it would have been a lie.

"But perhaps it has made all the difference whether you pass or not."

"Yes, very likely," said Janet, sadly. Sam looked thoughtful.

"Are you always so careful about being right in everything?"

"Why, I hope so, Sam; everybody ought to be, you know."

Sam was an orphan boy who had not had the best of training. He whistled to himself a minute and then said.

"I don't believe everybody is, though. I'll tell you a plan I've got in my head, Janet; and see if you think it comes up to your ideas of honesty. You know I go for an hour every evening to post up Mr. Hyde's books." Sam spoke with a little pride, for he thought it rather a smart thing for a boy of his age, as indeed it was.

"Yes," said Janet.

"Well, some of the big boys want me to go on frolic with 'em. It will take a little money and I haven't got any. The fellows have been telling me to borrow it of Mr. Hyde—without saying anything to him about it, you know—and put it back some other time. When I add up the accounts I can make a little change in the books so no one could tell. The boys say it wouldn't be any harm. Do you think it would?"

He looked into her face, anxious that she should say No, but feeling in the bottom of his heart she would say Yes.

"Oh, Sam," she cried, you know it would be wrong. There's no need for me to tell you."

"Why, Janet, don't you see it would be borrowing? Just to put it back again."

"Taking some one's money without leave isn't borrowing, Sam. There's another name for it—an uglier name."

Sam scowled.

"You don't mean to call me a thief, do you?"

"No," she said very earnestly "and it's because I don't want any one else to call you so that I say so much. Oh, Sam, don't do it. And don't go with the boys who want you to do such things. I've heard my father talk about young men who began in just such ways and who kept going on and on till they were found out, and then nobody called it borrowing. If you think it would be no harm why don't you let Mr. Hyde know it?"

"Why, Janet," said Sam with a start, "I wouldn't let him know it for the world. He'd turn me out in a minute if he knew I thought of such a thing."

Janet laughed.

"My mother tells me sometimes that a good way to find out whether a thing is right or wrong, is to think whether you want folks to know it."

"That is a good way," said Sam, thoughtfully. "I believe you're right, Janet; I know you're right. It is better for a fellow to be honest and above board. I want to get on, and I'm going to stick to your way. People always think better of a chap they know can be trusted."

"But Sam"—Janet laid her hand on his arm, as he was about to run away—"don't think only how it looks before men. God"—and she pointed upward to the blue sky over their heads—"God hates a lie, and can see to the very bottom of our hearts if we have a deceitful thought. Let us try and keep them pure and clean before Him."

Sam looked down at her sober face and said: "I guess there's no danger but you'll keep yours so, Janet. If I hadn't seen how you stood right up to what's true—not just true in looks, but true all the way through, I'd never let you talk to me this way," and he dashed down a path under the spreading trees and disappeared.

The puzzling lessons and the disheartening failures and the burden of weary repetition seemed to go far away from Janet as she walked on. And the voice of the birds and the brightness of the sunshine and the softness of the leaves and grass seemed sweeter than ever before, for the glow of thankfulness in her heart, that she had been blessed with the power to take a firm stand for truth in word and deed, regardless of the advantage she might seem to gain by the practise of a little deceit; and that in so doing she had been able to set an example to the poor, ill-taught, stumbling boy, whose whole life might be influenced by her earnest words born out by brave deeds.—New York Observer.

FOR THE CHILDREN.

BY UNCLE MINOR.

I have recently been traveling in Kentucky and Tennessee, and have seen and heard many things that would interest you; have met with many little boys and girls, who always appear glad to see Uncle Minor. I often wish I had longer to stay with them, but then I always try and tell them something that will do them good after I am gone.

Many of you have heard of the great destruction of life and property along the Ohio river the past winter. Recently I travelled from Paducah to Louisville on the river, stopping at the principal towns. I usually got passage on a fine large steamboat, but sometimes had to ride on little tugs or very small boats. The large boats are very comfortable; they have everything to eat that you would get at the best hotels, and have large state rooms, well furnished with a small wash-stand, looking-glass, and a neat, clean comfortable bed. A person who is used to travelling on boats can sleep as well as if they were at home. But it is not very comfortable for your boat to stop at your town just long enough for you to get off, and then leave you in the dark to walk half a mile through the mud to the hotel. The Ohio river used to be much clearer and more beautiful than it is now. Fifty years ago there was but little cleared land along the river, and along the banks the tangled wild wood and creeping vines were seen everywhere, and then an occasional bear or deer could be seen stealthily creeping down the banks after water. But now the banks are mostly cleared up to the edge of the river bank, except mud and green fields.

But I must tell you about the sights I saw along the banks of this great river. As I passed along the water was not so high, but I could see where it had been. The trees along the banks were full of cornstalks, chunks and rails, and occasionally could be seen parts of houses and old clothes scattered among the trees and along the banks. At many places where there were beautiful houses and fences, all were washed away, while others were so racked and destroyed that people could not live in them. While passing many of these places, I learned the Government, as well as the good people, had done much in relieving the suffering of these people. While at Smithland, I learned a touching little incident had happened a few days before near that place.

Six little girls in Erie, Pa., wanted to help the suffering, so determined to go to work, asking everybody they met for something; they raised one hundred dollars, and sent it to Miss Clara Barton, of Shawneetown, to distribute as she thought best to little suffering children. Miss Clara got on a Government boat to hunt up the children, and soon was hailed at Cave-in-the-Rock by a poor woman who wanted some help. She told her sad story. Her husband had died some two years before, caused by overwork as pilot on a river boat. He had a little farm just on the bank of the river, and six little children. After his death the poor mother struggled hard to support her family. She had two boys large enough to plough, owned two horses, three cows, thirty hogs and plenty of fowls; in spite of her bereavement she struggled on and made a good living; but the flood last year was hard on her, the two horses were lost, all the hogs died with cholera except three, they were driven from their home only a short time before by the waters; still they worked on and kept their home, maintaining the respect and confidence of all who knew them. This spring came the greatest flood; the waters climbed up the bank and soon surrounded the house, not long until it was in at the door, they packed up the scanty furniture in the garret, and went out to live in an old house used as a corn crib, which was built on little higher ground. For days they watched the surging waters, first taking away the fencing, then one little improvement after another, until at last they saw the house go down the great river and lodge in trees all racked to pieces. The good woman and children now all burst into tears, sorrowing most because they had placed the dear old Bible and keep-sakes there in the garret, and now it was all gone. For weeks they lived in this corn crib, getting food from passing boats. The waters fell, and in this situation Miss Clara found them. She asked the poor woman, "Would you like to go back to where you were raised, in Ind.?" "No," she said tenderly. "My husband lived and died here. Yonder is his grave; it will not be long before I will be laid by his side, and the children want to stay where they can go to his grave every day." "No, no," "I reckon we will stay here. As soon as it dries up a little, me and the boys will try and pick up some scraps of plank and make us a hut on higher ground; it will be a little hut, but then it will be home for us." There were no dry eyes when this sorrowful, but brave little speech was made. "I have six children, and all are willing to do what they can. The good Lord will provide for us in some way." Miss Clara remarked that she just had one hundred dollars contributed by six little girls to help these six children, and asked the good woman to take it. Now was the time for her to be speechless. At length, with trembling, choking voice, she said, "God knows how much it will be to me. Yes, with my good boys, I can build a house now and do it well."

Now, children, remember the work of six little girls.

DR. SCOTT'S ELECTRIC CORSETS &amp; BELTS.

$1.00, $1.50, $2.00, $3.00

Probably never, since the invention of Corsets, has so large a demand been created as now exists for Dr. Scott's Electric Corsets and Belts. Over three thousand families in the city of New York alone are now wearing them daily. Every Man and Woman, well or ill, should daily wear either the Corset or the Belt.

NURSING CORSET, Price, $1.50.
ABDOMINAL CORSET, " 3.00.

SENT POSTPAID
ENGLISH SATEN

ON TRIAL,
ENGLISH SATEN

A GREAT SUCCESS.

A Good, Live Canvassing Agent WANTED in your town for these splendidly advertised and best selling goods in the market. LIBERAL PAY, QUICK SALES. Satisfaction Guaranteed. Apply at once.

NOS. 1, 2, 3 AND 5 CORSETS ARE NOW DOUBLE STITCHED AND WILL NOT RIP.

If you have any pain, ache, or ill-feeling from any cause, if you seem "pretty well," yet lack energy and do not "feel up to the mark," if you suffer from disease, we beg you to at once try these remarkable curatives. They cannot and do not injure like medicine. Always doing good, never harm. There is no shock or sensation felt in wearing them. There is no waiting a long time for results; electro-magnetism acts quickly, generally the first week, more frequently the first day, and often even during the first hour they are worn, their wonderful curative powers are felt.

The mind becomes active, the nerves and sluggish circulation are stimulated, and all the old-time health and good-feeling comes back. They are constructed on scientific principles imparting an exhilarating, health-giving current to the whole system. Professional men assert there is hardly a disease which Electricity or Magnetism may not benefit or cure, and they daily practice the same, as your own physician will inform you.

THE CELEBRATED DR. W. A. HAMMOND, of New York, formerly Surgeon-General of the U. S. Army, lately lectured upon this subject, and advised all medical men to make trial of these agencies, describing at the same time most remarkable cures he had made, even in cases which would seem hopeless.

Dr. Scott's Electric Hair Brushes, $1.00, $1.50, $2.00, $2.50, $3.00; Flesh Brushes, $3.00. Dr. Scott's Electric Tooth Brushes, 50 cents; Insoles, 50 cents.

The Corsets do not differ in appearance from those usually worn; we substitute our flat steel magnetoids in place of the ordinary corset steels. These Corsets are all equally charged, differing only in quality and design. They are elegant in shape and finish, made after the best French pattern, and warranted satisfactory in every respect. The above applies equally as well to the Electric Belt for gentlemen.

The prices are as follows: $1, $1.50, $2 and $3 for the Corsets, and $3 each for the belts. We now make all these Corsets in dove and white only. They are sent out in a handsome box, accompanied by a silver-plated compass, by which the Electro-Magnetic influence can be tested. We will send either kind to any address, post-paid, on receipt of price, with 20 cents added for packing or registration, and we guarantee safe delivery into your hands. Remit in post-office Money-Order, Draft, Check, or in Currency by Registered Letter. In ordering, kindly mention and state exact size of corset usually worn. Make all remittances payable to GEO. A. SCOTT, 842 Broadway, New York.

N. B.—Each Corset is stamped with the English coat-of-arms, and the name of the Proprietors, THE FINE MALL ELECTRIC ASSOCIATION.

Miscellaneous.

Dr. Pierce's "Favorite Prescription" is not extolled a "cure-all," but admirably fulfills a singleness of purpose, being a most potent specific in those chronic weaknesses peculiar to women. Particulars in Dr. Pierce's pamphlet treatise on Diseases Peculiar to women, 96 pages, sent for three stamps. Address World's Dispensary Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. KLINE's Great Nerve Restorer is the marvel of the age for all Nerve Diseases. All fits stopped free. Send to 931 Arch Street, Philada., Pa.

SANITARIUM, Riverside, Cal. The dry climate cures. Nose, Throat, Lungs, full idea, 36p, route, cost free.

Catarrh Cured.

A Clergyman, after suffering a number of years from that dreadful disease Catarrh, and after trying every known remedy without success, at last found a prescription which completely cured and saved him from death. Any sufferer from this dreadful disease sending a self-addressed stamped envelope to Dr. J. A. LAWRENCE, Brooklyn, N. Y. will receive the recipe free of charge.

Extract of Report from the Celebrated Physicians, Erasmus Wilson, of London, Eng.: "Several severe cases of incipient Consumption have come under my observation that have been cured by the timely use of Golden's Liquid Beef Tonic. (Remember the name, Golden's—take no other.) Of druggists.

Hemorrhage and Asthma.

Extracts from letters of persons who were cured with East India Hemp, and now order for their friends.

"I know all about the Cannabis Indica. Fifteen years ago it cured my daughter of the Asthma; she had it very bad for several years, but was perfectly cured. Please send me a box of your medicine." JACOB TROUT, Deep River, Poweshiek Co., Iowa.

"I fear Cousin is in a decline, and as my medicines cured my only brother of a hemorrhage of the lungs about a year ago, I wish Cousin to take them." Thy true friend, HANNAH MICKLE, Near Woodbury, N. J.

None but pint bottles. $2.50 per bottle, or three bottles for $6.50. Address, CRADDOCK & CO., Sole Proprietors, 1032 Race Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Hale's Honey of Horehound and Tar overpowers the most troublesome cough.

Pike's Toothache Drops cure in one minute.

Glenn's Sulphur Soap cures skin diseases.

For sufferers of Chronic Diseases, 36 pp, symptoms, remedies, helps, advice. Send stamp—Dr. Whittier, St. Louis, Mo., (oldest office.) State case your way.

LADIES! ONLY.

For 25 cents we will send you a three months subscription to our large 16 page Illustrated Household and Fashion Magazine, and present each new subscriber 25 large samples of beautiful silks, assorted colors, for crazy patchwork. For 50c. we will send the Magazine six months, and give you free a large package, assorted silks, for which other firms charge one dollar. For $1.00 dollar we will send the Magazine one year and give you two large packages and our new book, The Ladies Guide to Fancy Work. If you will get up a club of five of either 3, 6, or 12 month subscribers, we will send you for your trouble a subscription and premium free. Mention this paper when you write. M. J. STODDART & CO., 126 Chambers St., N. Y.

"THE BEST IS CHEAPEST."
ENGINES, THRESHERS SAW-MILLS,
Horse Powers, Clover Hullers
(Suited to all sections.) Write for FREE Illus. Pamphlet and Prices to The Aultman & Taylor Co., Mansfield, Ohio.

AGENTS EITHER SEX, we have the newest, best and fastest selling articles out. No capital required. Goods paid for after sold. EMPIRE CO., 30 Canal St., N. Y.

The GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER

Dr. Samuel Hodges' Alternative Compound Sarsaparilla with Iodide Potash. This compound is purely vegetable, each article of ingredient is perfectly harmless in itself, having been selected from roots and herbs possessing great medicinal properties, when combined forms a most powerful, efficient, and pleasant medicine for the removal and permanent cure of ALL diseases, arising from an impure state of system, viz.:

Rheumatism, Scrofula or King's evil, Scald-head or Tetter, Chronic Sore Eyes, Old or Chronic Sores of all kinds, Boils, Pimples, Syphilitic Rheumatism, Primary and Secondary Syphilis, Nervous Debility, Liver Complaints, Inflammation of the Kidneys and Bladder, renovates and invigorates the system; acts gently on the bowels. As an appetizer and for general debility, it is a most excellent remedy.

CAMPBELL BROS., Druggists, Sole Manufacturers.

For Sale by all druggist. Price $1.00 per bottle, or 6 for $5 00, Liberal discount to the trade.

ALSO MANUFACTURERS OF

ETHIOPIAN PILE OINTMENT

A never failing remedy for External, internal or Itching Piles. Ask your Druggist for it. None genuine without the Trade Mark. Price $1.00 per Bottle.

TESTIMONIAL.

This is to certify that I was afflicted with Piles for twenty years. I tried every Remedy offered me. Finally used the Ethiopian Pile Ointment, and found it the very best preparation I ever used. It will give almost immediate relief and will finally effect a permanent cure.

Ed. A. IRELAND

Formerly of Gallatin, now of Breen, Phillips & Co., Nashville, Tennessee.

CAMPBELL BROS., Druggists,
or Broad and Summer Sts.,
NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE.

F. H. STICKLEY.

MRS. C. W. LEWIS.

STICKLEY &amp; LEWIS,

Having moved to our elegant store-room,

NO. 34 NORTH SUMMER STREET,

We will carry a large stock of fine Millinery and Fancy Goods, the light-running New Home Sewing Machines, Needles, Oil and Attachments for all machines. Fine imported German Canary Birds, good singers, $3 each. Bird Cages, Food and Tonic always on hand. Mrs. Lewis is also prepared to do Fashionable Dress Making, Dying Plumes, Cleaning Gloves and Stamping. Old Machines of any kind repaired or taken in part pay for the New Home.

CARPETS! FROM CARPETS!

New York Bankrupt Sales.

MANLOVE &amp; CO.,

26 and 28 N. Summer Street,

Are now in receipt of an immense stock, recently bought at prices lower than ever before. Now is the time to buy Good Carpets cheap, and guaranteed to be as cheap as any Eastern market.

MANLOVE &amp; CO.,

26 and 28 N. Summer Street,

NASHVILLE, TENN

$66 a week in your own town. Terms and $5 outfit free. Address H. HALL & Co., Portland, Me.

$72 A WEEK, $12 a day at home easily made. Outfit free. Address TRUS & Co., Augusta, Me.

Warner Bros. Celebrated Coraline Corsets,
Are the acknowledged standard of Europe and America. The Coraline with which they are boned is superior to Whalebone both in durability and comfort.
The Health and Nursing Corsets shown above, have been before the public for ten years, with constantly increasing sales.
The Health Corset gives a lady the best form of any Corset ever made, and at the same time it is easy, flexible and very durable.
The Coraline, Flexible Hip, Abdominal and Misses' Corsets, are all very popular styles, either of which is sure to give satisfaction.

Price from $1 up.

For Sale by Leading Merchants Everywhere
Avoid all imitations. Be sure our name is on the box.

WARNER BROS.,
353 BROADWAY, NEW YORK.

New Musical Publications.

- American College Song Book ..... $2 00
Cloth. Songs contributed by fifty Colleges.
"Gillette," Opera by Audran, composer of Olivette and Mascolet. .... 1 00
Kalliwoda's Mass, in a Major..... 1 00
Reissiger's Fourth Mass, in E♭..... 80
Two first class masses.
Spanish Mandoline Method. Winner... 75
The Mandoline is much like a guitar.
Memorial Day Songs and Hymns..... 25
Eighteen appropriate songs and hymns.
Out of the Depths: 180th Psalm..... 30
E. I. Darling. Nine good G. quartets, Choruses, etc.
Student's History of Music. Cloth.
F. L. Ritter. A most valuable book for music
students. .... 2 50
Strachauer's Church Music. (Quartet and Octet Chorus.) 170 pages. 25 of the very best Quartets. .... 1 00
Social Pastime. (For Violin and Piano)
Winner. 62 popular airs of the day..... 2 00
The Soprano. (A Musical Story). Cloth.
Jane Kingsford. A fascinating musical novel..... 1 00
Mailed for Retail Price.

OLIVER DITSON & CO., Boston.
C. H. DITSON & CO. J. E. DITSON & CO.
867 Broadway N. Y. 1228 Chestnut St., Phila.

SAMARITAN NERVE IS UNFAILING AND INFALLIBLE IN CURING Epileptic Fits, Spasm, Falling Sickness, Convulsions, St. Vitus Dance, Alcoholism, Optum Eating, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, Syphilis, Scrofula, and all Nervous and Blood Diseases.

To Clergymen, Lawyers, Literary Men, Merchants, Bankers, Ladies and all whose sedentary employment causes Nervous Prostration, Irregularities of the blood, stomach, bowels or kidneys, or who require a nerve tonic, appetizer or stimulant, Samaritan Nerve is invaluable.

Thousands proclaim it the most wonderful invigorant that ever sustained a sinking system. $1.50, at Druggists.
THE GREAT NERVE CONQUEROR.
The DR. S. A. RICHMOND MEDICAL CO., Sole Proprietors, St. Joseph, Mo.
For testimonials and circulars send stamp. (18) Lord, Stotenburgh & Co., Ag'ts, Chicago, Ill."

STEM WINDING MUSICAL WATCH
Each Watch is finely made, silver plated and the greatest novelty ever offered to the boys and girls of America. It is a complete Musical Instrument, size and shape of a Watch, with Music Box attachment concealed within, so arranged that when wound at the stem, plays one of the following tunes: "Home, Sweet Home," "Yankee Doodle," "Blue Bells of Scotland," "Coming Through the Rye," "Swanee River," "Carnival of Venice," "Grandfather's Clock," "Waltz, Polka, Schottische," and "Wait till the clouds Roll By." The notes, time, and tones are correct. It instructs and entertains both Old and young. On receipt of 50 Cents, will send it by mail, post-paid. Just think of it! A Music Box for 50 Cents. Postage Stamps taken. SPECIAL OFFER: If you will order before June 15th, we will send you yours for only $1.00. You will be delighted with it.
A. E. PRATT & CO.
Address: No. 27 Park Place, New York.

IMPROVED METHOD OF STRINGING.

MASON & HAMLIN IMPROVED Upright Pianos.

Entire iron frames to which the strings are directly attached by metal fastenings, securing
1. Best quality of tone, which is very musical and refined; free from the tubbiness which is common.
2. Greater durability and freedom from liability to get out of order; adaptations to trying positions and climates.
3. Increased capacity to stand in tune; will not require tuning one-quarter as often as pianos on the old system.
Having tested this new system of construction for two years and proved its advantages, this Company are now increasing their manufacture of pianos, and offer them to the public generally. Every piano of their make will illustrate that supreme excellence which has always characterized their Organs, and won for them highest award at every great world's exhibition for sixteen years.
Illustrated and descriptive Catalogues of Pianos and Organs, free.
MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN AND PIANO CO., 151 Tremont St., Boston; 46 East 14th St., (Union Square), New York; 19 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

TO SUNDAY SCHOOL WORKERS.

PURE DELIGHT.

A New Sunday School Song Book.
By Geo. F. Root and C. C. Case.
Contains New and Bright Words; Easy and Inspiring Music; Pure and Elevated Sentiments.
One of the leading features of the book is a set of BEAUTIFUL RESPONSIVE SERVICES
Especially prepared for it by Rev. W. H. Pearce and Lewis Miller, Esq.
192 pages, well printed and handsomely bound in boards. Price, 35 cents, each by mail, post-paid; $2.00 a dozen by express, not prepaid. Specimen pages free.

Published by
JOHN CHURCH & CO.,
CINCINNATI, OHIO.
CHICAGO: ROOT & SONS MUSIC CO. NEW YORK: J. CHURCH & CO.
200 Wabash Ave. 5 Union Square.
For Sale by Booksellers and Music Dealers
$5 to $20 per day at home. Samples worth $5 free.
Address: SIMON & Co., Portland, Me.

HARTER'S IRON TONIC THE ONLY TRUE
Will purify the BLOOD, regulate the LIVER and KIDNEYS, and RESTORE THE HEALTH and VIGOR of YOUTH. Dyspepsia, Want of Appetite, Indigestion, Lack of Strength, and Tired Feeling absolutely cured. Bones, muscles and nerves receive new force. Enlivens the mind and supplies Brain Power. Suffering from complaints peculiar to their sex will find in DR. HARTE'S IRON TONIC a safe and speedy cure. Gives a clear, healthy complexion. Frequent attempts at counterfeiting only add to the popularity of the original. Do not experiment—get the ORIGINAL AND BEST.
(Send your address to The Dr. Harter Med. Co., St. Louis, Mo., for our "DREAM BOOK.")
Full of strange and useful information, free.

A Prominent Minister Writes.
Dr. Mozley—Dear Sir: After ten years of great suffering from indigestion or dyspepsia, with great nervous prostration and biliousness, disordered kidneys and constipation. I have been cured by four bottles of your Lemon Elixir, and am now a well man.
REV. C. C. DAVIS, Elder M. E. Church South.
No. 28 Tenth St. Atlanta, Ga.
From Two Prominent Ladies.

I have not been able in two years to walk or stand without suffering great pain. Since taking Dr. Mozley's Lemon Elixir, I can walk half mile without suffering the least inconvenience.
Mrs. R. H. BLOODWORTH, Griffin, Ga.
Dr. H. Mozley: After years of suffering from indigestion, great debility and nervous prostration, with the usual female irregularities and derangements accompanying such condition of a woman's health I have been permanently relieved by the use of your Lemon Elixir.
Mrs. E. DENNIS, No. 46 Chapel St., Atlanta, Ga.
J. Pratt, druggist, Wright City, Missouri, writes: Lemon Elixir gives the greatest satisfaction. It has cured a case of chills and fever of four years standing.
Dr. Mozley's Lemon Elixir, prepared at his Drug Store, 114 1/2 High Street Atlanta, Ga.
It cures all biliousness, constipation, indigestion, headache, malarial, kidney disease, fever, chills, impurities of the blood, loss of appetite, debility and nervous prostration and all other diseases caused from diseased Liver and Kidneys.
Fifty cents for one pint bottle, one dollar for pint and a half bottle. Sold by druggist generally, and all wholesale druggist, Louisville, Ky.

BURRITT COLLEGE, SPENCER, TENN.

THIS INSTITUTION, Chartered in 1848, has now been favorably known for more than thirty years, for its discipline, both as regards education and government. Located on the Cumberland Plateau, it is free from epidemics. The water is pure freestone and chalybeate. The breezes of Summer are delightful and invigorating, and the gales of winter not too severe. The College buildings, recently enlarged by the Christian Brotherhood of Tennessee, are sufficiently commodious to accommodate a large class of young Ladies and Gentlemen. Spence is ten miles South-east of Manchester & McMinnville Railroad.

TERMS:

Tuition, Primary Department, per S'n, $7 50
" Preparatory " " 15 00
" Collegiate, " " 20 00
Tuition, Commercial Department per S'n, $20 00
Lessons instrumental Music from $15 to $30
" in Art Department from 2 50 to 10

Board and washing for males, per week, from $2.00 to $2.50; Fuel, light, and incidental expenses, per session, $10.00; Board (including washing, fuel, and light) for females, per week $3.00.

The Spring Session of 1884, begins on the Last Monday in February.
For further particulars address,

Prof. A. T. SEITZ, President,
Or W. H. SUTTON, Sec. Board Trustees.

The great events of history in a single volume FAMOUS and DECISIVE BATTLES OF THE WORLD.

By CAPT. KING, U. S. A. HISTORY FROM THE BATTLE-FIELD. Shows how Nations have been made or destroyed in a day.—How Fame or Disaster has turned on a single Centesimal. A Grand Book for Old and Young.—Saves Time, Adds the Memory.—Gives Pleasure and Instruction. Maps and Fine Illustrations. Agents Wanted Everywhere. Write at once for full description and terms. Address J. C. McURDY & CO., Cincinnati, Ohio.

IMPORTANT REDUCTION IN THE PRICE OF VASELINE (PETROLEUM JELLY.)

CHEAP BOOTS AND SHOES!

We are now receiving our Spring Stock of Fine Custom-made Boots, Shoes, and Hats.
Our prices will be found reasonable. Give us a call.
Trunks at cost.

ALDRICH & HARRIS,

106 UNION ST., (bet. College and Market.)

NASHVILLE TENN.

McSHANE BELL FOUNDRY.

Manufacture those celebrated Chimes and Bells for CHURCHES, ACADEMIES &c. Price-list and circulars sent free.
HENRY McSHANE & CO.,
Baltimore, Md.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY.
Bells of Pure Copper and Tin for Churches, Schools, Fire Alarms, Farms, etc. FULLY WARRANTED. Catalogue sent free.
VANDUZEE & TIFT, Cincinnati, O.

Baltimore Church Bells

Since 1844 celebrated for Superiority over others, are made only of Purest Bell Metal, (Copper and Tin.) Rotary Mountings, warranted satisfactory. For Prices, Circulars, &c. address BALTIMORE BELL FOUNDRY, J. REGISTER & SONS, Baltimore, Md.

AGENTS Send for E. B. TREAT'S
of new books, including MOTHER, HOME, and HEAVEN, prose and poetry: by 400 best authors 146,000 sold. Elegantly ill. $2.75. Send $1 for outfit. Also 5000 Curiosities of the Bible, $1.75. By Mail, E. B. TREAT, 757 Broadway, N. Y.

FOR the 7th edition "Life and Labors of C. H. Spurgeon," the greatest preacher of the century. By Geo. C. Needham, the Evangelist. Endorsed by all denominations. The best selling Family book ever published. Agents are meeting with wonderful success. No competition. Any man or woman wanting a good business, address, for extra terms and special territory.

TRADE-MARKS, PATENTS, COPY-RIGHTS, DESIGNS, RE-ISSUES.
Send description of your Invention. L. BINGHAM, Patent Lawyer and Solicitor, Washington D. C.

One Ounce bottles reduced from 15 cents to 10 cents.
Two Ounce bottles reduced from 25 cents to 15 cents.
Five Ounce bottles reduced from 50 cents to 25 cents.
The public must not accept any but original goods bottled by us, as the imitations are worthless.
Chesebrough Manufacturing Co., New York.

The Ministers' and Teachers' Bible.

This magnificent Parlor Bible is imported from London and is indorsed as "The Best" by the leading Bishops of England. In addition to the Old and New Testaments it contains a Concordance of Bible Words! An Encyclopedia of Bible Words! A Dictionary of Proper Names, with Pronunciation, 12 full page colored Maps. Poetry, Music, Ethnology, Plants, Animals, and Jewish sects of the Bible, etc. "Superior to all others."—N. Y. Times. "A complete Biblical Encyclopedia."—London Times. This Bible is bound in French morocco, gilt edge, with silk book-mark, and has copious references. Rev. Eli Milton, Norwalk, O., writes: "The Bibles received to-day I am more than pleased." A Special Offer: To rapidly introduce this Bible in America we will, for a limited time only, send one copy, post-paid, to any address on receipt of only $2.00. 15 copies and one copy of Revised New Testament for $4.00. Other Bibles, with less matter, sell for $15.
Order at once. AGENTS WANTED! Circulars free.
G. S. MAYO & CO., 160 La Salle St., Chicago, Ill.

PAYSON'S INDELIBLE INK Is the BEST. No preparation. Used with any clean pen for marking any fabric. Popular for decorative work on linen. Received Centennial MEDAL & Diploma. Established 50 years. Sold by all Druggists, Stationers & News Ag'ts.

MILL OWNERS SEND FOR PAMPHLET.
TURBINE WATER WHEELS
MANUFACTURED AT MOUNT HOLLY N.J.

THE MODEL PRESS
Prints Cards, Circulars, Letters, Tracts, every thing needed by business men, churches, schools, &c. Strong, rapid, and a boy can manage it and cut hundreds of cards a year. 10,000 sold. Outfits, including Press, Type, &c., from $5 to $10 and up. Send 3 cent stamp for 40 page Illustrated Price-List and two gorgeous floral book markers printed on Model Press. J. W. Daughaday & Co., Mrs. I. and Charles Street, Philadelphia.

12806 Lbs. Weight
of TWO OHIO IMPROVED CHESTER HOGS. Send for description of this famous breed. Also For L. B. SILVER, CLEVELAND, O.

THE COMPLETE HOME. Agents wanted book. New edition.—New bindings.—New illustrations from new designs. Superbly gotten up. Same low price. Adapted to all classes. Sells at sight. Agents doing big work. EXCELLENT TERMS. The handiest prospectus ever issued. Apply now. WM. GARRETTSON & Co., 30 College St., Nashville, Tenn. Also other grand new books and Bibles.

PILES "Anakesis" gives instant relief, and is an infallible cure for Piles. Price $1, at druggists, or sent prepaid by mail, sample free. Ad. "ANAKESIS" Makers, Box 2416 New York.

AGENTS OF DARING by Blue and Grey, is outselling all other books. Illustrated circular and terms free.
FORSHEE & McMACKIN,
Cincinnati, O.

BEATTY PIPE ORGAN 2 Blow Pedals, 25 Stops, in perfect order, warranted only $24.75. Parlor, Chapel and Cottage Organs, at Bargain Prices. Also Square and Upright, for $250.00. Address, DANIEL F. BEATTY, Washington, New Jersey.

FREEMAN & KEESEE, INTERIOR DECORATORS, NO. 33 N. COLLEGE STREET, NASHVILLE, TENN.

Wall Paper and Decorations, Window Shades, Cornice, Curtain Poles, Gold and Walnut Pier and Mantle Mirrors, Engravings, Chromos, and Oil Paintings. Frames of All Kinds in Stock and Made to Order. Re-Gilding Old Frames a Specialty. Manufacturers of Fine Frames and Wood Mantles. CORRESPONDENCE SOLICITED. Ap9

KEEP COOL!

SUMMER GOODS.

Refrigerators, Ice Chests, Water Coolers, Filters,
Fruit Jars, Fruit Cans, Stoneware, Woodenware, and all kinds of Kitchen Goods.
Cooking Stoves to suit the requirements of every Family.
PRICES TO SUIT THE TIMES.

Phillips-Buttorff Manufacturing Co.,

24 & 26 College Street. Nashville, Tenn.

FIGUE, MANIER & CO.,
WHOLESALE DEALERS IN
BOOTS AND SHOES,
NO. 40 SOUTH MARKET STREET, NASHVILLE, TENN.

We are receiving a very large stock of Spring and Summer goods that we have had manufactured expressly for us, which we think, with our long experience and facilities, we can offer inducements, equal to any market, to prompt and cash dealers. All goods warranted to be as represented.

NEW CHRISTIAN HYMN AND TUNE BOOK

- It is a superior book in the following seven particulars:
1. Excellence and Completeness of Hymns.
  2. Simplicity and Beauty of Music.
  3. Arrangement of Analytical Index.
  4. Protracted Meetings and Gospel Songs.
  5. Editions and Prices.
  6. Paper, Printing and Binding.
  7. Cheapest Book in the Market considering the Number of Hymns and Tunes in it.
- Sample copy in cloth mailed for 60 cents. Sample copy in boards mailed for 35 cents.
Descriptive circulars, enlarging on the above seven points, free. It is better, however, to get a sample copy and circular. Address,
FILLMORE BROS., 185 Race St., Cincinnati, O.

CHILDS' CATARRH

Treatment For

And Diseases of the
HEAD, THROAT & LUNGS!
Can be taken at home. No case incurable when our questions are properly answered. Write for circulars, testimonials, etc.,
REV. T. F. CHILDS, Troy, Ohio.

OFFICIAL REPORT.

Office of the Kentucky Agricultural and Mechanical Association.
Lexington, Ky., June 23rd, 1883.

TO ALL CONCERNED:

This is to certify that in the field trial of Twine-binders held by the Kentucky Agricultural and Mechanical Association on the farm of Mr. J. B. Clay, near Lexington on the 19th inst., in very heavy barley, the following machines competing, viz: Osborne, Deering, McCormick, Wood, Buckeye, Minneapolis, Dennett, Champion, St. Paul, Buckeye low-down and Deering low-down, the premium of a Gold Medal was awarded to the No. 11 Osborne.

Committee of Directors to Conduct Trial.
JESSE BRYANT,
N. F. BERRY,
D. H. JAMES,
W. H. GENTRY, Pres't.

H. P. KINKEAD, Sec'y.

The above is a true copy of report made by Committee and approved by Board of Directors this day.

Call at our Branch House in Nashville an EXAMINE "The Gold Medal Osborne," and a full line of Reapers and Mowers.

D. M. OSBORNE, & CO.

E. S. BRINGHURST, M'gr.

STEAM ENGINES

Portable and Agricultural. Send for circulars. Wood, Taber & Morse, Eaton, N. Y.

Agents wanted. $5 a Day made selling our New HOUSEHOLD ARTICLES and PLATFORM FAMILY SCALES. Weighs up to 25 lbs. Price, $1.50. Domestic Scale Co., Cin'ti, O.

"THE BEST IS THE CHEAPEST."
SAW ENGINES THRESHERS, MILLS, HORSE POWERS,
For all sections and purposes. Write for Free Pamphlet.
Prices to The Aultman & Taylor Co., Mansfield, Ohio.

WANTED A WOMAN

of sense and energy for our business in her locality, middle-aged preferred. Salary $35 to $50. References exchanged. GAY BROS. & CO., 14 BARCLAY ST., NEW YORK.

PATENTS Hand-Book FREE.

R. S. & A. P. LACEY,
Patent Att'ys, Hartford, D. C.
How to rear and manage poultry.
Send a ten-cent piece to
H. H. Stoddard,
Hartford, Ct.,
for a copy of this
Poultry World,
and it will tell you.

CUT THIS OUT

And Return to us, with TEN Cents, and you'll receive money in One Month than anything else in America. Absolute Certainty. M. Young, 113 Greenwich St., New York.

ACME Songs for the International Sunday School Lessons (Words and Music) adapted to each lesson in April, May, June, 32 pps., 40 songs, 5c., 25 for $1 (mailed). Free copy to Pastor or Supt. sending postage. J. C. O. REDINGTON, 267 Broadway, N. Y.

DR. C. P. DUNCAN'S LIVER AND KIDNEY MEDICINE.

The great preventive and cure of all malarial diseases, and a sure cure for all forms of dyspepsia and indigestion; it acts directly upon the Liver and all the secretory glands of the stomach and bowels, it cures the disease by removing the cause from the system that produces or brings on the disease, hence it is unsurpassed for the cure of Constipation, sour stomach, heartburn, headache, and all those symptoms indicating the wants of a proper action of those glands situated in the stomach and bowels. Two or three bottles of Dr. Duncan's Liver and Kidney Medicine is positively recommended to relieve and cure any of the above diseases if taken as directed. Price 75 cents.

Cure for Croup!

Dr. Duncan's Cough Balsam is the best remedy known to the medical profession for the prompt and sure cure of Croup in children; it is pleasant and harmless. No mother should be without a bottle in their house. Price 50 cents.

Bad Colds and Sore Throats

Promptly cured with Dr. Duncan's Cough Balsam; is a sure cure for sore throats, coughs and colds. It is unsurpassed for WHOOPING COUGH, and all bronchial diseases in children.

Chapped Hands, Lips,

Sore Eyes, Piles, and all eruptions of the skin cured promptly with Duncan's Ointment.

DR. DUNCAN'S BLOOD SYRUP,

the great alternative, will remove any and all impurities from the blood, and cure all eruptions of the Skin. For Scrofula it never fails to cure.

CHILDREN CRY FOR DUNCAN'S WORM SYRUP.

It is sure, safe, pleasant and cheap. Try it.

CONSUMPTION

Positively Cured. No Humbug.

By the use of Dr. J. LAWSON'S PULMONARY POWDERS, a FREE TRIAL BOX of which will be sent to all sufferers POST PAID, with treatise and full directions for their use.

Hundreds and thousands have been cured by their use.

Large Box $3.00, two boxes $1.00.

Address, PHILIP HENRY,
49 South St., New York City.

A PRIZE Send six cents for postage, and receive free a costly box of goods which will help you to more money right away than anything else in this world. All of either sex, succeed from first hour. The broad road to fortune opens before the workers, absolutely sure. At once address TRUE & CO., Augusta, Maine.

Good Pay for Agents. $100 to $200 per mo., made selling our fine Books & Bibles. Write to J. C. McCurdy & Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.

AGENTS WANTED for our new Religious book, the greatest success of the year. Send for illustrated circular if you want to make money. FORSHEE & McMAKIN, Cincinnati.

PENSIONS for any disability; also to Heirs. Send stamps for New Laws. Col. L. BINGHAM, Attorney, Washington, D. C.

IT PAYS to sell our Hand Rubber Stamps. Samples free. FOLJAMES & Co., Cleveland, O.

Home Items.

—"All your own fault

"If you remain sick when you can Get Hop Bitters that never—Fail.

—The weakest woman, the smallest child, and sickest invalid can use Hop Bitters with safety and great good.

—Old men tottering around from Rheumatism, kidney trouble, or any weakness, will be almost new by using Hop Bitters.

—My wife and daughter were made healthy by the use of Hop Bitters, and I recommend them to my people.

—Methodist Clergymen.
Ask any good doctor if Hop Bitters is not the best family medicine on earth.

—Malaria fever, Ague, and Biliousness will leave every neighborhood as soon as Hop Bitters arrive.

—"My mother drove the paralysis and neuralgia all out of her system with Hop Bitters."—Ed. Oswego Sun.

—Keep the kidneys healthy with Hop Bitters, and you need not fear sickness.

—Ice water is rendered harmless and more refreshing and reviving with Hop Bitters with each draught.

—The vigor of youth for the aged and infirm in Hop Bitters.

—"At the chance of life nothing equals Hop Bitters to allay all troubles incident thereof."

—"The best periodical for ladies to take monthly, and from which they will receive the greatest benefit, is Hop Bitters."

—Mothers with sickly, fretful, nursing children, will cure the children and benefit themselves by taking Hop Bitters daily.

—Thousands die annually from some form of kidney disease that might have been prevented by a timely use of Hop Bitters.

—Indigestion, weak stomach, irregularities of the bowels, cannot exist when Hop Bitters are used.

A timely * * * use of Hop Bitters will keep a whole family in robust health a year at a little cost.

—To produce real genuine sleep and child-like repose all night, take a little Hop Bitters on retiring.

—That indigestion of stomach gas at night, preventing rest and sleep, will disappear by using Hop Bitters.

—Paralytic, nervous, tremulous old ladies are made perfectly quiet and sprightly by using Hop Bitters.

MONARCH HORSE HOE AND CULTIVATOR COMBINED

For Hoeing & Hilling Potatoes,
Corn, Onions, Beets,
Cabbages, Turnips, &c.

SENT ON 30 Days'
TEST TRIAL

An immense saving of labor and money. We guarantee a boy can cultivate and hoe and hill potatoes, corn, etc., 15 times as easy and fast as one man can the old way. Illustrated Catalogue FREE. AGENTS WANTED. Mention this paper. Address Monarch Mfg. Co., 206 State St., Chicago, Ill.

OPIUM

Habit easily cured with CHLORIDE OF GOLD
LEWIS E. KEELEY, M.D., Surgeon, C. & A. R. H.
Dwight, Illinois.

25 YEARS IN THE POULTRY YARD

108 Pages. It teaches you how to rear them to take care for them, to feed, to have them lay eggs in cold weather, to prevent and treat all diseases of old or young, to be a "successful" poultryman. Only 25c. in stamps. A Fifty-page book FREE FOR ALL with it.

A. M. LANG, Cove Dale Farm, Concord, Kr.

OPIUM Morphine Habit Cured in 10 to 20 Days. No Pay until Cured. J. L. STARRS, M. D., Lebanon, Ohio.

HILLMAN, BUFORD & JUSTI,
NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE,
 SOLE AGENTS FOR THE
 Genuine Brown Walking Cultivator and Double-Shovel Plow,

Corn Shellers, Feed Cutters, Avery Chilled Plows, Road Scrapers, Fish Bros.
 Wagons, Jacobs' Barrows,

IRON, STEEL, BLACKSMITH'S TOOLS, HARDWARE,

Call on or address

HILLMAN, BUFORD & JUSTI, 18 and 20 South Market Street, Nashville, Tenn.

A.C. & J.C. March.

SUCCESSORS TO

J. D MARCH & SONS

Manufacturers and Dealers in

SADDLES, HARNESS, BRIDLES, COLLARS,

TRUNKS, BAGS, HAMES, VALISES, WHIPS, CHAINS, &c.

50 NORTH MARKET STREET
 NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE.

Repairing Done at Short Notice

NASHVILLE, CHATTANOOGA & ST. LOUIS
 RAILWAY.

BUSINESS MEN, TOURISTS, REMEMBER

EMIGRANTS, FAMILIES,

The Best Route to St. Louis and the West

via McKenzie.

The Best Route to West Tennessee and Ken- tucky, Mississippi, Arkansas, and Texas points is

via McKenzie.

The Best Route to the Summer Resorts and

Mountain Resorts of Tennessee, Virginia and the Carolinas, via McKenzie and Nashville.

The Best Route to the celebrated Colleges, Uni- versities, Seminaries and other Educational In- stitutions in the Southeast, via McKenzie

and Nashville.

The Best Route to points in East Tennessee,

Virginia, the Carolinas, Georgia and Florida is

via Chattanooga.

DON'T FORGET IT!

By this line you secure the

MAXIMUM OF SPEED, SAFETY,

COMFORT, SATISFACTION,

AT THE

MINIMUM OF EXPENSE, ANXIETY,

BOTHER, FATIGUE.

Be sure to Buy your Tickets over the

N., C & ST. L. RAILWAY!

If you are going to Washington City, Baltimore,

Philadelphia, or New York.

The Inexperienced Traveler need not go

amiss; few changes are necessary, and such as are unavoidable are made in Union Depots.

THROUGH SLEEPERS!

BETWEEN

Nashville and Atlanta, and Atlanta and Jacksonville, Fla., Nashville and Martin (to connect with Sleeper service via Cairo to St. Louis and Chicago.)

Nashville and Columbus, Nashville and Memphis

(Sleeper Humboldt to Mobile, and Milan to New Orleans.) McKenzie and Little Rock, and Little

Rock and Texas points.

Call on or address

J. H. PEBBLES, T. A., Chattanooga, Tenn.

W. W. KNOX, T. A., Nashville, Tenn.

S. S. FINLEY, Ticket Agent, Memphis, Tenn.

A. B. WRENN, Trav. Ag., Atlanta, Ga.

W. L. DANLEY, G. P. & T. A., Nashville, Tenn.

Mars Hill College.

With pleasure we lay before our readers the following extracts from the Fourteenth Annual

Announcement of Mars Hill College, an institution perpetually wielding a wonderful and wide-spread influence for truth, refinement and righteousness.—Editors.

POSITIONS PROCURED FOR OUR PUPILS.

We make a specialty of preparing pupils for

(1.) PREACHING; (2.) TEACHING; (3.) PREACHING and TEACHING.

Many educated here—among whom are successful lawyers, physicians, merchants, salesmen mechanics, farmers, editors, authors, teachers and preachers—have so demeaned themselves, that the humility, fidelity, integrity, accuracy and ability of "Mars Hill

students" have become proverbial. There is, consequently, such a demand for the services of our pupils, that we deem it perfectly safe to promise to procure pleasant, profitable and honorable positions for all who qualify themselves here for usefulness. Indeed, for several years we have been able to fill comparatively few of the positions tendered.

What "Watering Place," or "Health Resort," then, can justly claim more, as a health-

preserver and health-restorer, than Mars Hill? Address,

T. B. LARIMORE, President.

FLORENCE, ALABAMA

W. A. LANNOM,

The Cash Clothier,

18 PUBLIC SQUARE, NASHVILLE, TENN.,

Has received his large and elegant stock of Spring and Summer clothing, Gents Furnishing Goods and Hats, which is full and complete in every respect; and for quantity, quality, style, fit and price, we stand far ahead of all competition. An inspection of our large stock and low prices, will fully prove what we claim. Bear in mind, we sell strictly for cash, which enables us to offer the greatest inducements

CAPITOL PLANING MILL,

Corner Line and Vine Streets, near Northwest Corner Capitol Grounds,

NASHVILLE, TENN.

J. W. McCULLOUGH,

Manufacturer and Dealer in

FRAMES, SASH, DOORS, BLINDS,

Scroll Sawing, Dressed Flooring, Weatherboarding and Ceiling.

Country Orders Solicited, and Promptly Attended To.

JUST OUT! "Our Orthodoxy in the Civil Courts," JUST OUT!

A full proceeding in the Circuit Court in Noble county, Indiana, in the trial of our ortho-doxy. Everybody should read this interesting book. Send at once. Paper, 50c; cloth, $1.00.

JAMES F. & HARRY LIPSCOMB,

95 Union Street, Nashville, Tennessee.

BOILER REPAIRS.

Thos. S. Simpson, William Chatham,
 79 South College St., Nashville, Tenn.,
 Are prepared to do all kinds of repairing of Bollers, Tanks, etc., at very reasonable rates. We have had 30 years practical experience in the business, and ask a share of the public patronage. We guarantee good work.

WHEN YOU WANT
 WRITING DESKS,
 Photograph Albums,
 AUTOGRAPH ALBUMS,

GOLD PENS, PENCILS,
 PORT-MONNIES,
 CARD CASES, Etc.

OR ANYTHING IN THE WAY OF Staple and Fancy Stationery
 Call upon us. We can suit you in
VARIETY, QUALITY, AND PRICE.

A. B. Payne & Co.,
61 UNION STREET.

Orders by Mail receive Prompt Attention.

B. S. RHEA & SON,
 PROPRIETORS RHEA'S ELEVATOR,
 AND DEALERS IN

Grain, Hay, Flour

AND BURLAP SACKS,

No. 32 South Market Street,
NASHVILLE, - - TENN.
 (Correspondence Solicited.)

C. F. HUDSON. S. G. STRATTON.

C. F. HUDSON & CO.,
Merchant Tailors & Clothiers,

EAST SIDE PUBLIC SQUARE,
 LEBANON, TENN.,

Are now receiving one of the largest, best and cheapest stock of clothing and piece goods, ever offered to the public. We are agents for the Cher-lotteville, Va., woolen goods, which cannot be surpassed for beauty and durability.

Call and examine our goods. We will save you money.

SOME OF THE THINGS WE BUY TO SELL.

CHINA IN ALL OF ITS GRADES,
 GLASSWARE OF EVERY DESCRIPTION,
 QUEENSWARE OF ALL KINDS,

Bracket Lamps, Hall Lamps,
 Study Lamps, Chandeliers,

Knives and Forks, Spoons, Waiters,
 Tea Trays,

Looking-Glasses, Ice Cutting
 Machines,

Eureka Coffee and Teapots,
 Castors,

And a great variety of housekeeping goods
 too numerous to mention, all of which we offer at reasonable rates. Call and see us, or send your orders to

HICKS, HOUSTON & CO.,

51 N. College & 54 N. Market Sts.,
 NASHVILLE, - - - TENN.

THE GOSPEL ADVOCATE.

VOLUME XXVI. }
NUMBER 20.

NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE, MAY 14, 1884.

{ $2.00 YEARLY IN ADVANCE,
POSTAGE PREPAID.

EDITORS:

D. LIPSCOMB,

E. G. SEWELL.

"NIL DESPERANDUM."

There's never a day so sunny
But a little cloud appears;
There's never a life so happy
But has its time of tears.
Yet the sun shines out the brighter
Whenever the tempest clears.
There is never a garden growing
With roses in every plot;
There's never a heart so hardened
But it has one tender spot—
We have only to prune the border
To find the forget-me-not.
There's never a sun that rises
But we know 'twill set at night;
The tints that gleam in the morning
At evening are just as bright;
And the hour that is the sweetest
Is between the dark and light.
There's never a dream so happy
But the waking makes us sad;
There's never a dream of sorrow
But the waking makes us glad;
We shall look some day, with wonder
At the troubles we have had. —Selected.

DO THE WORDS OF CHRIST ABIDE IN US?

Jesus says, "If ye abide in me, and my words abide in you, ye shall ask what ye will, and it shall be done unto you." John xv: 7. This language belongs to such as are in Christ. Those only are in him who have entered into covenant relation with him by obeying the gospel of Christ. The last step to be taken in our obedience in becoming Christians, puts us into Christ. Then we can be truthfully said to be in him. No one can abide in Christ until he first enters into him by the appointments he has ordained. And when we have thus entered into Christ, we can then abide in him. But we can truly abide in him only when his words abide in us. How then shall his words abide in us? His words abide in us when we continue to do what his words require at our hands. No one therefore can claim that the words of Christ dwell in him only as he continues to do what the words of Christ direct to be done. There are, therefore, two conditions placed in the above passage that must be complied with before any one can have the assurance of the promise that his prayers will be heard and answered. In the first place, this passage cannot possibly be applied to the alien sinner, because the character embraced by the Savior in the above, must be actually abiding in Christ, which is impossible to an alien sinner as such.

The alien may obey the gospel and become a Christian, enter into Christ in a single hour if he will, and then at once begin to abide in him. But till this is done, and while he remains an alien, he cannot possibly abide in Christ. No one can abide in a house into which he has never entered. No more can one abide in Christ, never having entered into him. So an entrance into Christ by obedience to the gospel lies between every alien in the world and the above promise. Those therefore who promise alien sinners that their prayers will be heard and answered, have no comfort from this passage. They plainly contradict the entire force of what the Savior said in the above, every time they make such promise. The promise can only embrace such as are in him. The practice therefore of teaching aliens to pray directly to God for pardon before obeying the command by which they are to enter into Christ, is in conflict with the Son of God, and is without the shadow of a promise that such prayers will be heard or answered. And those aliens that depend upon such teaching are only depending upon men contrary to the word of God.

Surely men are slow to learn the will of God on this subject. For this custom is common all over this broad land. With the denominations of this country, with very few exceptions there has been no change in this practice since our remembrance. In some localities there is less excitement over it, and less calling them forward to an altar or mourning bench, but the aliens are taught to pray for pardon all the same, and depend on it quite as much as in the old fashioned way. The only difference is in the method of carrying it out. Such prayers are wholly at variance with the above from our Savior.

But we set out to enquire after the words of Christ abiding in those of us who have already entered into him by obeying the gospel. What evidence can we have that the words of Christ are dwelling in us? We must have this assurance before even we who have entered into Christ can have assurance that the promise at the beginning of this article is ours. The only evidence we can have is the conscious knowledge that we are doing what the words of Christ require us to do.

We must therefore study the word of the Lord, that we may know what its requirements are, or we can never know when we are doing them, and unless we know that we are doing what the word of the Lord requires, we cannot know that his words dwell in us. And in view of these solemn truths, we cannot see how Christians can afford to be so careless and indifferent about the study of the Scriptures. There surely is not a very large number of those who claim to be Christians that make it a daily personal business to read and study the word of God. This is sadly true among the young members. It is evidently on this account that so many of our young members run so eagerly after the amusements and follies of this world that are so thoroughly inconsistent with the teaching of the word of the Lord. Theater going, dancing and such like are not indulged in by those who daily read and study the word of the Lord with a view to bring their daily lives under its guidance and control. Those therefore who indulge in these things cannot have the assurance that whatever they ask shall be done for them. In fact those who have obeyed the gospel and entered into Christ, and then fail to let his words abide in them, are about as far from the promise of their prayers being heard and answered as those who fail to come in.

Disobedience is in the way in both instances. The word of God teaches as strongly that Christians must continue to learn and obey the word of God in their daily lives, as that aliens must learn and obey the gospel in order to an entrance into Christ. And it is about as sinful to disobey in the one case as the other, so far as we can tell. The teacher of the Christian religion who induces Christians to study and practice the word of God, is doing a grand work. The man who merely sermonizes, and neither teaches the plain practical word of God himself, nor induces his hearers to study and learn that word, is doing precious little good in the world. Every preacher who preaches to aliens should carefully and assiduously teach them the gospel and its plain requirements. And when he preaches to Christians, he should strive to teach as strongly and plainly as possible, that part of the word of the Lord by which Christians are to live. And if there is much use for preachers beyond this, we have not found it out. If there is any demand in the New Testament for men to entertain their audiences on Lord's days by telling them what they think about religion in their own words, instead of presenting what the Lord says in his own words, we have failed to find it. The only intimation of such a work that we know of, is where Paul says "the time will come when they will not endure sound doctrine, but after their own lusts shall they heap to themselves teachers, having itching ears; and they shall turn away their ears from the truth, and shall be turned unto fables." 2 Timothy 4.

If this prophecy of Paul is not largely fulfilled in our country in the present generation, we are slow to understand. This is especially true in the towns and cities where there are regular pastors preaching every Lord's day to the same people. As a rule, if the word of the Lord is taught by such men at all, it is so done up in broken doses, in texts, scraps and particles, and that too without any regard to their proper connection, that their hearers never can gain a connected view or understanding of the Christian Scriptures. And in such cases, it is hardly to be expected that those who depend upon such teaching for their knowledge of the word of God, will abide strictly in the word and its requirements in their daily lives. This is one reason why there are so many departures from Bible teaching and practice in many of those churches which are living under the pastoral and sermonizing system, but especially the latter. This accounts for choirs and organs in churches to make the music, instead of the members singing with melody in their hearts to the Lord, and for festivals, tableaux, ice-cream suppers and such like, to raise money instead of contributing regularly as the Lord has prospered us on the first day of the week. If preachers, instead of sermonizing on the first day of the week for the entertainment of Christians, would spend that time in reading the plain word of the Lord to them, and in exhortations to them to submit to the requirements of that word in all they say and do, Christians would understand the word of the Lord much better, and would be far more inclined to allow the words of Christ to dwell in them. And those Christians that so live that the words of Christ are dwelling in them, can at all times enjoy the consolations arising from the above promise of the Savior. And such consolation is worth more to the child of God than all things else beside.

Then again, the love of the world, the love of money, property, worldly honors and such like, are shutting out the word of the Lord from many, and preventing them from so living as to enjoy the precious promises of God, either for this life or the life that is to come. We can have no assurance that God will hear and answer our prayers in any respect, only as we are assured that we are abiding in Christ, and that his words are abiding in us. The comfort and consolation arising from such a life ought to stimulate every child of God to strive more and more to so live that he may enjoy all the promises of God to the full.

E. G. S.

A METHODIST ELDER vs. A CAMPBELL.

In less than a hundred miles of Nashville, Tennessee, as we have been informed, and much less than a year ago, a pious Methodist elder found some thing in his way that he thought proper to call Campbellism. And he regarded it a most damnable heresy, and in his zeal attempted to blot it out, and thus get rid of its evil influence. But the trouble with him was to kill it so it would not trouble him any more. He did not know how to take up the system of things that was so much in his way, and show it was contrary to the word of God, and thus in an honorable way dispose of it, and hence he fell upon a much shorter method. He said Alexander Campbell, after teaching those things the greater part of his life, abandoned them, and repudiated them entirely in his old age. He said that Mr. Campbell stated that at sometime in his life, and we did not learn certainly at what period he located the event, he got religion in an old field, and that he depended upon that for his soul's salvation, and that he regarded his whole life work a failure, a mere farce, and that he then, in old age, threw all of his life long teaching aside, and fell back upon his old field religion, and based all his hope for the future upon that, and said he would not give his old field religion for all he had taught through life.

Now the question with me is, what was the matter with this pious elder? was he really so ignorant that he knew nothing at all about the closing part of the life of A. Campbell, and that he had been misinformed regarding the matter, and that he gave this false statement ignorantly and innocently, supposing he was telling the truth? if so, he was an easy prey to slander and falsehood. If he was really so ignorant as this, he ought to stop preaching long enough to read up and post himself, so as not to be guilty of another such blunder. But if he was posted and really knew about the close of the life of Bro. Campbell, then he knew that what he said was false, and this would make him a very wicked sinner rather than a pious elder. We really cannot tell what was the matter with the man. But think he ought to be held accountable for his smartness or ignorance, whichever it is. He should be called upon to produce the authority upon which he spoke, or own up that he spoke unadvisedly with his lips.

Whenever a man is so hard pressed that he has to resort to slander, and especially to slander the dead who are not here to answer for themselves, he is in a pitiable condition. We are sorry for the man on account of his ignorance, or the wickedness of his heart, but we do not know upon which ground to put it, and hence will say nothing hard.

But this is another item to a world full of testimonies showing to what extent the bitterness of error will go to gain a point. That something they call Campbellism is terribly in the way of Methodist preachers. They have been killing it ever since our remembrance, and still it is not dead. It still vexes their righteous souls from day to day, and seems just as formidable now as it was fifty years ago, or rather, eighteen hundred years ago. But the main trouble with them is, they are forever mauling away on something that Campbell no more believed than they do. They build up men of straw and demolish them, while Mr. Campbell and his teaching remain untouched and unharmed. If he had really believed and taught what they represent him as teaching, it would be easy enough to demolish. But there is the trouble. While they are demolishing their men of straw that something they claim to be demolishing is rapidly growing. Their unholy attacks upon it scarcely raise a ripple upon its surface. There is no cause of alarm while things thus proceed.

We have no fear of these outside winds and storms that blow while we remain a united people, and stand firmly fixed upon the word of God as our only rule of faith and practice. If we depart from the plain word of the Lord, and raise a storm within, while others are raging without, then our house will be carried away. But outside opposition will remain harmless so long as we are a faithful and united people. So long as we are faithful to the cause we have espoused, such little ripples as the above hurled against us will be no more than the ripples rolled against the rockbound coast of the sea. Let us all be true to the cause we plead, and trust a merciful Father for results.

E. G. S.

ROMANS VIII: 1.

I see in the ADVOCATE of April 23, number 17, the question by Sister J. L. Parkes, in reference to the first verse of the eighth chapter of Romans, which reads thus: "There is therefore now no condemnation to them which are in Christ Jesus, who walk not after the flesh, but after the Spirit." The subject was discussed as to whether that was the Holy Spirit, or man's spirit. I am glad to see the zeal manifested by our young sister. If more of our brethren and sisters would be more zealous in seeking knowledge, our cause in the state of Mississippi would not be in such a languid condition. I took the position that the spirit there spoken of by the apostle was man's spirit; and I am of the same opinion yet, notwithstanding a decision against me by the editors of the ADVOCATE, whose opinions I respect as high as any other. I have not known any, of whom I am not personally acquainted, that I love more. Neither do I know of any that I would sooner have an opinion from than them. But opinions will not settle the case Scripturally. If she should think she is right, because the editors of the ADVOCATE said so, I would claim that I was right because Bro. Lard decided in my favor. But this is not a question to be decided by editors and commentators, but by divine inspiration.

Now, I don't wish to make this a contest between myself and the editors of the ADVOCATE, but between myself and Sister Parkes, and others who took sides with her. Now, we go back to our text, Romans viii: 1. I took the position then that the whole gist of the apostle's discourse was upon the two natures of man—his physical and spiritual nature—which I think I will prove before I am through. I will state in the outset that it is clear to me that it has reference to the spirit of man, from a grammatical and a logical standpoint. Now read the first verse: "There is therefore now no condemnation to them who are in Christ Jesus, who walk not after the flesh, but after the Spirit." The disjunctive conjunction, but, joins man and his spirit, and not the Holy Spirit. The Holy Spirit never leads by any independent means, but only through the gospel, and that must be addressed to the mind or Spirit of man. We will try and substantiate this by Paul himself.

First, go back with me to the seventh chapter of Romans, and fifth verse. "For," says Paul, "when we were in the flesh, the motions of sins, which were by the law, did work in our members to bring forth fruit unto death. But now we are delivered from the law, that being dead wherein we were held; that we should serve in newness of spirit, and not in the oldness of the letter." Now, I am satisfied that no thinking mind will claim this as the Holy Spirit. But he is showing up the condition of the man who is led or controlled by his fleshly nature. But we will hear the apostle further. Fifteenth verse: "For that which I do, I allow not: for what I would, that I do not; but what I hate, that do I." What does he mean by hate? Does he mean that he hates it with his physical organization, or does he mean that he hates it with his spiritual nature, or constitution? I think you will say his spiritual man. Again, we will try the apostle on the seventeenth verse: "Now then it is no more I that do it, but sin that dwelleth in me. For I know that in me (that is, in my flesh,) dwelleth no good thing: for to will is present with me; but how to perform that which is good, I find not. For the good that I would, I do not; but the evil which I would not, that I do." Here Paul clearly shows the contest between his two contending natures—flesh and spirit. Twenty-first verse: "I find then a law, that, when I would do good, evil is present with me." But I think if you will go with me to the twenty-second verse, the matter will be closed as to the grand subject the apostle was dwelling upon. "For I delight in the law of God after the inward man." Now you can see that the great apostle was being led by that renewed spirit which delighted in God. But listen to the apostle in the twenty-third verse: "But I see another law in my members, warring against the law of my mind, and bringing me into captivity to the law of sin which is in my members." Twenty-fifth verse: "I thank God through Jesus Christ our Lord. So then with the mind (spirit) I myself serve the law of God; but with the flesh, the law of sin." That is, with the mind (spirit) I am led to the service of God, while he makes me free from sin. See sixth chapter, seventeenth verse: Paul says, "Ye have obeyed from the heart the form of doctrine," or teaching, or gospel.

Now, when we take into consideration how God has managed to draw men, we will have no trouble on this subject. He does it by teaching. Teach what part of the man? Why, the intellectual part of man. God's spirit was to come into the world to guide the apostles into all truth, and then they were to proclaim it to our lost and ruined world; and when men heard the word which was the law of the Spirit, they believed it with their minds; and their minds led them to obedience, and their obedience saved them. Then the apostle exclaims to them in the eighth chapter, and first verse, that there is no condemnation to them who have been led by the mind or will powers to obedience, and continue to walk after that renewed spirit, but they will reap everlasting life. Again, we turn to the second chapter, and eleventh verse, of Paul to 1 Corinthians, and there he declares that it is the spirit of man that knows the man; and it is the spirit of man that knows him, and it will be the spirit of man that will lead him for weal or woe. That is, to accept the great law of remission, and to keep in the paths of right.

Now, as I stated, that the main object of the apostle was to draw the contrast between the two natures of man, as contained in the seventh chapter of Romans, and he closed that subject with the end of the first verse of the eighth chapter, and then he changed the subject, and he rather emphasizes the change, for he says, (second verse, eighth chapter,) "For the law of the Spirit of life in Christ Jesus hath made me free from the law of sin and death." Which is, evidently, the Holy Spirit.

Now, if my exegesis is not founded upon scriptural testimony, and our sister, or any of the brethren, wish to investigate the subject further, they can do so. I love the truth, for it is the truth that makes us free.

W. N. McCAIN.

CORRESPONDENCE.

H. F. Williams, Cyrustown, Tenn., writes: "I am spending all the time I can spare in doing missionary work on a small scale; that is, visiting weak points, sowing good seed, and trying to wake up the brethren I find asleep. Booneville has between six and twelve to represent Christ and the New Testament. They labor under embarrassments, but could succeed by abounding in all good works. I preached for them fourth Lord's day in April, with one confession and baptism. Bro. John Kirby helped me much. Towry is truly a missionary point. Bro. T. C. Little first began work here. There have been several meetings, with several additions, but removals have thinned them considerably. A few truly faithful ones meet and conduct worship with Sunday-school. They are very poor, but do not fail to give the Lord a little every Lord's day. I visit them once a month. Had good audiences and fine interest last Lord's day and night. Seed-sowing and patient cultivation are as essential to salvation as anything else. Indeed this is our province; God giveth the increase."

Queries.

Is it right for Christians to have their lives or their property insured? I hope you will give us as lengthy a piece as you can, at your earliest convenience.—[A subscriber.]

We discussed the principles involved in insurance when the marriage associations were popular. We have felt hardly sufficiently familiar with the workings of the insurance business to speak advisedly. There are some features that we understand—some that are good, others objectionable. Then there are different systems of insurance, involving wholly different principles. The old order of insurance was based on the idea or the fact that many would go into the association, pay awhile, forfeit what they had paid, and out of these forfeitures a sufficient amount would be gained to pay the running expenses of the company, and the premiums on those who persevered through. The excitable, emotional class of people, those the Savior characterized as the stony ground hearers, who, under excitement, run into new things, would be the class that most largely go into these companies; but they are also the class that most surely fail to persevere, and after paying in a number of installments, fail to continue, and forfeit all to the company. The companies, through a long series of years, have gathered statistics of the average proportion out of a certain number who insure, that will fail, and the proportion that will fail each year. For instance, they take one thousand insurers. They keep a table showing what proportion of these will forfeit the second year, the third, the fourth, and through the average life of man. They have so carefully observed this that they can tell what proportion will forfeit each year, and out of a thousand, how many will persevere through life, as well as how many will die each year. On these data they make the estimate, and so fix the yearly dues that these dues and the forfeitures will pay the expenses, the premiums on those who die, and a profit to the association. These are the safest companies; I am not sure that they are not the only safe companies.

The question of morality involved in this, is, is it right to induce a number of men to invest their means in an enterprise in which it is absolutely certain that the majority will lose what they put in, and the minority can make a profit only by the loss of this majority? If it is not right for a company to induce men to invest their means where they are certain to lose them, it is not right for others to encourage this company or share the profits of the losses of their more unfortunate fellowmen. It seems to me the moral in this is the same as if a number of shrewd business men were to induce a number of others to invest their means in an enterprise of any kind that they knew must fail to the multitude, and let the few make by the loss of the many.

Those companies based on the mutual assessment principle, it seems to me, do not involve this principle of wrong to the unstable, to so great an extent. Yet they do to some extent. A company of men agree that when one of our number dies, the rest of us will make a certain contribution, so as to secure to his family a certain amount. In this principle we see nothing wrong. A thousand men enter into it. They begin to die; at first the assessments are light; they are promptly met; but as years increase, some become involved—some through sickness of self or family, or poverty, or mismanagement are embarrassed. They are unable to meet the assessments, which grow more frequent and larger in amount as the company grows older, and they fail, they forfeit and lose all they have paid in. The very ones whose families need help most, have spent their means to help others, but can get no help.

It is a truism that no more can be got out of an association than is put in. Here what is put in may be got out, less the running expenses. What one receives more than he puts in, others, more frequently the more needy, lose.

There is no more solidity in these mutual assessment associations, than there was in the marriage associations, only they have a longer time to run. If men died as quickly after taking a policy, as those married after taking a policy, these mutual life insurance companies would break up as soon as did the marriage associations. Whenever men pay into a company two hundred or six hundred dollars each, and some of them draw out two or three thousand, the others must lose proportionately. To prevent this, the increase of membership to deaths, must be as much greater as the premiums paid are greater than the assessments of each person. Wherever that rate of increase ceases, the company begins to fail. The assessments become high and burdensome, the members fail to pay, and the company collapses. But few of the companies now are strictly solvent.

Bro. Smithson was insured in one for two thousand dollars. After waiting for months, the family received less than thirteen hundred dollars. They were compelled to wait, because the deaths had become so frequent, consequently the assessments so frequent, the managers delayed the payment, lest the frequency of the calls should cause the members to default, and the company be broken up. But as death marches on, the delay of one only brings it closer to a succeeding one, and so does not help the matter. He received only a portion of it, because the managers, knowing the members would not bear too heavy assessments, had provided, if the death rate was so great as to demand over a certain amount on each premium, the premium should be reduced, rather than the assessment raised. But it means this, that the company is able to pay only thirteen cents out of every twenty cents of indebtedness. A man in such fix is broke. Only the families of those who die early will get their premiums in these mutual assessment associations.

We think they all involve principles objectionable. Think it much better and safer to teach our families industry and economy, piety and trust in God, as a protection to them when we die. A man is rich whose income is greater than his requirements. There are two ways of getting rich: increase the income; reduce the necessities. The latter is the surer and safer way.

Is there anything in the New Testament that is not inspired? some of our brethren declare there is. Is God's word sufficient for salvation without the aid of human wisdom, such as history, philosophy, astronomy, etc.? Is there any revelation to man now by visions, dreams or any secret way? Some of our brethren claim this is a daily occurrence. Is there such a place as a lake burning with fire and brimstone? I claim the New Testament teach it; some of our brethren teach that the burning of an evil conscience throughout all ages is the punishment.—[J. C. Thomas, McKinney, Texas.]

We believe there are some things in the New Testament that are not inspired; because there are some things there that it did not require inspiration to make known. But there is nothing in the New Testament that is not true. The Holy Spirit is the guarantee, that the things in the New Testament are true. The Holy Spirit was to reveal certain things to the apostles—it was to call to their remembrance certain other things that had already been revealed to them by Christ; „will call to your remembrance all things whatsoever I have commanded you, and will guide you unto all truth.” It stands as the guarantee of the truthfulness of everything in the Scriptures, or that was told or taught by the apostles. Paul in 7th chapter of 1st Corinthians tells that he gives his own judgment in certain matters without a revelation from the Lord. In other things he says, The Lord commands. We think that even Paul's advice is reliable as sound and good—the best in the circumstances that can be had; and it is covered by the promise, I will guide you into all truth.

When the Spirit, through John, made the last revelation, he said, “I am the first and last—what? revealing Spirit of God to the world. Whoever adds to this revelation, to him shall be added the woes of this book. Whoever takes from the words of the prophecy of this book, from him shall be taken the promises contained in the book.” The Holy Spirit says, “The Scripture given by inspiration is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness, that the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works.”

What more could the Spirit reveal or do than he has done through the word of God? If man has ever received a revelation from heaven since the Spirit spoke through John on Patmos, the Bible is all wrong on the subject.

3rd James says that “the engrafted word is able to save your souls.” The engrafted word is that taken from the mouth of God, and implanted or grafted into the heart of man, by which man bears fruit, in nature, like to that borne by God. It does not say that word explained by philosophy, astronomy, or any learning of man will save. Indeed when the word of God was delivered, the present systems of philosophy, astronomy, geology, and the history of the world were unknown. Systems radically different, and now regarded false, were then in vogue. A false system of philosophy, astronomy or learning of any kind could not help save, surely. Yet if these were necessary to explain and so save through the Scriptures, no one understood the Scriptures or was saved by them until within a few years back. Paul warns Timothy against contentions and strivings about science falsely so called. While there are some things true in the sciences, the philosophy, the astronomy, the geology of the present day, the systems are perpetually undergoing changes and modifications, and if the next fifty years show the same changes as the last fifty have done, in fifty years from now the present systems will be regarded as effete, exploded, and men will wonder that such absurdities were ever tolerated among thinking men. Only the word of God is steadfast. The same yesterday to-day, forever. A man who believes the word of God must be interpreted by human philosophy, what is called human science, or depends upon these for its saving efficacy is more than half an infidel. Man must use his wisdom, his learning, his discriminating powers to understand the word of God, but that is all that human wisdom can do for man in the matter of his salvation.

The Bible says the lake of fire exists. We are able to find no evidence that the language is figurative, therefore we take it as literal.

James L. Thornberry writes: “In March I preached at New Hope, Freestone county. I find on my return that a Cumberland Presbyterian brother and elder took his clothing and was immersed by Bro. Carley. Next Lord's day he will give his reasons.”

TEXAS WORK AND WORKERS.

CONDUCTED BY JOHN T. POE, LONGVIEW, TEXAS,
TO WHOM ALL CORRESPONDENCE RELATING TO
THIS DEPARTMENT MUST BE ADDRESSED.

OUR BIBLE CLASS.

The class still lives, and is increasing in interest. I know if you could go to the post office with me, and see how many letters I receive from members of the class, you would think it large. Hurrah! for Bible study. We will learn much this year. Many new names come daily. Now I have a request to make of the class, since Bros. L. & S. have made such a liberal offer—to send the ADVOCATE from now until January 1st, for one dollar—let us start out and see if we can't get others to join our class, by subscribing for the paper. Almost any one can raise one dollar; now let us do this at once. Some may possibly get half a dozen names and money. By doing this, we will get many others to studying the Bible. Jas. T. Baker answers sister McBroom's query. See Joel iii: 3. The class will please not ask who David's mother was, nor who Cain's wife was, nor whether Ham was a black man. Such questions are not answered in the Bible, and one guess would not be worth any more than another. There is nothing to be gained from the study of such things. Let us study the word to profit, so as to fit us for better living. Keep in mind the fact, that the Bible is given to guide us from earth to heaven. If we study it to know what the Lord wants us to do, and then do what he wills, we shall be happy here and hereafter. The psalmist David said, "I know it shall be well with the righteous." Can the class tell what is righteousness?

Dear Bro. Poe: The Bible Class is getting to be a big thing on your hands. It is a good thing for you that every member of the class has not a telephone to Longview. You would have to stand all day and hear answers. I travel in North Mississippi preaching, and find a great many members of the class in that section, but scarcely any of them have the courage to write to you. The class at my house is mighty smart. They answer nearly all the questions, and answer them quickly too; but I cannot get them to write to you. They are afraid the class might think that I help them to the answers. I think this is rather a poor excuse, but so it is. You have a great many good scholars that you will never hear or know of, until that great day when all of us shall reap the harvest grown from the good seeds we have sown. He who sows the word of God in the hearts of the people, sows the most precious of all seeds; and the hearts that receive it will yield the richest of all harvests.

In my last list of questions, please make corrections as follows:

In 3rd question, say, "when Solomon began to build the temple," instead of "was to build." In 5th question, say, "mighty men of renown," instead of "highly men of renown." These mistakes are no doubt owing to my bad penmanship.

Enclosed, I send answer to question by sister Henry, of Alabama. Correct:

Bro. Lauderdale: Mrs. Henry says that Lazarus was in danger of being killed after he had died. John xii: 10.—[A. C. Henry.]

I send more questions:

1. Goliath, of Gath, had a brother that was a giant; what was his name, and who slew him?

2. Who founded and built the city of Samaria, and what was paid for the site?

3. Give the number and names of the annual feasts of the Jews. What event did each one celebrate, and at what time of the year was each observed?

4. Give the names and number of the sacred books mentioned in the Old Testament, that are now lost?

5. What Jewish king sent out missionaries into the cities of his kingdom to teach the people the law of God, and what was the result?

6. What Jewish king had sixty daughters?—[B. W. Lauderdale, Bailey Tenn.]

Bro. Lauderdale intends to keep us at work. Somebody will have to read up to get all these answers.

Dear Bro. Poe: I think I have succeeded in finding some answers to questions given through the Bible Class. Am I right?

First, in answer to B. W. Lauderdale's question (2) in ADVOCATE No. 14, I will say Esther was Mordecai's cousin and adopted daughter. See Esther ii: 7-15. The answer to M. D. Record's query (2) in No. 14 can be found in the 6th chapter of Proverbs: "A proud look, a lying tongue, etc." Now to Bro. Poe's query in ADVOCATE No. 15, after reading closely the Acts of the apostles, I can find recorded only ten cases of conversion, viz: Acts ii: 41, iv: 4, viii: 12-13, viii: 37-38, ix: 18, x: 48, xiii: 12, xvi: 15, xvi: 33, and xviii: 8. Faith as a condition to pardon is mentioned in two instances, viz: Acts x: 43, and xvi: 31. Repentance twice: Acts ii: 38 and iii: 19. Confession once: Acts viii: 37. Baptism twice: Acts ii: 38 and xxii: 16.

If I am wrong, will some of the class set me right? Hope this interesting class will go on in its search for the truth.—[John D. Evans, Duplex, Tenn.]

All right. Get your neighbors to join the class by subscribing for the ADVOCATE.

Dear Bro. Poe: As it is customary to ask questions, I have one, Romans viii: 28-29-30: Who was it that God called? Does the calling extend to the Christian now, or was it the apostles only? I live in Milam County, Texas; I take the ADVOCATE. I am anxious to know.—[J. W. Daniel.]

The calling applies to all whom God called. He called, first, Abram, then Isaac, and Jacob, and next Judah, and finally Christ. To call, in Scripture, means to choose. God called, or chose persons for special purpose, or work. He justified them in that particular work, and glorified them when the work was done. None of the calling here mentioned, had reference to the life to come. It related to this life, and a work to be done here, or some purpose to be accomplished in the world. Men are now called or chosen in Christ; called to a holy life, and if faithful in it, God will at last glorify them, when they have finished the work they are called to do in Christ. This is our answer in a nut shell. Think it out, and enlarge for yourself.

THE NEED OF THE PRESENT HOUR.

We need now a more earnest consecration to God, and the work of saving souls. We are now doing but little more than drift with the popular tide, while sectarianism is making rapid strides. We need brave men and women who will talk, and live the gospel of Christ. We need men and women of faith in God—in Christ—in the gospel, and in the grand and ultimate result of a life spent in obedience to the gospel. But what is the matter with the grand army of the reformation? Why do we rest on our arms? Is the enemy silenced? Nay verily, but it seems every opposing influence has been redoubled against the gospel of Christ. We want men who will keep the gospel of Christ prominent before the world, as God's power for salvation. Men who will meet their religious neighbors kindly, and point out to them earnestly, the errors of their creeds, and the joy of unity in Christ. Be earnest about it, they must be saved, and the church—the Lord's body must be one body. Send forth the plea for Christian union. Keep it moving—keep it ringing in the ears of our sectarian neighbors, until they shall see the truth, and come out of sect Babylon. Lay hold of the work nearest to you my dear brother, or sister; preach the gospel; sing the gospel, live the gospel. Help the poor, relieve the destitute in the name of Christ. Give the enemy no rest. Work, preach, pray and rest not yourself.

Dear Bro. Poe: Death has again visited our little band of disciples and taken from our midst sister C. P. Plummer. She died on the 4th inst with pneumonia and typho-malarial fever. Sister Carrie, as we all loved to call her, was the daughter of Harrison and Jane Moody. She was born in Mississippi August 28, 1852; was married to Bro. J. W. Plummer in the year 1872. She, with her husband, took her stand with us in the year 1875. One more universally loved, was not known to the writer. She was kind and gentle in her manners towards all. She met death, realizing that her faith was not in vain. I was present at her death, and heard her say to her husband that she was not afraid to die. She regretted to leave him; said it was better for her to die than for Joe—having reference to Bro. P. A sister who was very low at the time, and had been for some time, said she, "I don't know what those poor little children would do if Joe was to die." She said if she lived she could take them, but a great responsibility would rest on her. Sister Carrie, though the mother of seven children, had none living to leave behind. In her death, the church loses one of its best members; her husband a loving wife, and the community a good neighbor. She leaves, together with other relatives, two brothers and three sisters to mourn her loss, but we mourn not as those who have no hope.

"Dearest sister, thou hast left us,
Here thy loss we deeply feel;
But 'tis God that hath bereft us—
He can all our sorrows heal.
Yet again we hope to meet thee,
When the cares of life have fled;
Then, in heaven, with joy to greet thee,
Where no farewell tear is shed."

"Oh! that will be joyful to meet to part no more, and sing the everlasting song with those who've gone before." N. B. S.

Prairie Grove, April 22, 1884.

Dear Bro. Poe: Don't you think the young men should hold back and give place in the church to the older men? Should they not wait and learn gradually, before they venture forward in anything? E. J. B.

Whether the young men should hold back depends on circumstances. If the older men will do the teaching, and direct the affairs of the church, of course this should be left to them. The young men in the Lord should hold themselves ready to do anything for the good of the cause which the elders may direct. But they should be subject to rule, to the powers that be. If worthy to teach, the elders will soon discover the fact, and put them to work in teaching. If not adapted to that, they may be useful in the prayer meeting or Sunday-school. A willing laborer will always find employment. But especially can the young men make themselves useful in setting up with, and waiting on the sick and afflicted. They may influence other young men—not members of the church—to come to preaching, to the Sunday-school, etc.

S. Whitney, who left Texas a few months ago, published in the Christian Messenger, of Bonham, Texas, by the elders of his church as a bad man, a deceiver, etc., is giving the brethren trouble at Bridgeport, Ala.—[R. W. Officer, Paris, Texas, April 25, 1884.]

Why will brethren continue to be imposed upon by tramps, calling themselves preachers? If brethren would demand of every preacher not well known, testimonials as to character, and fitness for the work of preaching, the church would be spared the damaging influence of many of these imposters. There is now in Tennessee and Alabama a tramp preacher—S. Whitney, who claims to be sent out to evangelize where he pleases by Texas brethren, at a salary of $2,000 per annum. Said Whitney we believe cannot produce a single name who pays him to go round and defame the cause he professes to advocate. He is tramping on his own hook, and making it his business to malign and slander good brethren who are building up the cause of Christ. The brethren should refuse to countenance him in any way.

Rates of Advertising in Gospel Advocate.

One inch, one insertion	$ 60
One inch, one month	2 00
One inch, three months	5 00
One inch, six months	7 50
One inch, twelve months	12 00

A discount of 10 per cent. on these rates for order of $25.00; 20 per cent. for order of $50.00; 30 per cent. for order of $100.00.

Delayed Answer to Prayer.

One of the greatest hindrances to our spiritual growth is the lack of perfect honesty in our approaches to God. "Pray for us unto the Lord thy God," said the remnant of the Jews left in the land at the time of the captivity, to Jeremiah, "that the Lord, thy God may show us the way wherein we may walk, and the thing that we may do." But when Jeremiah prayed and brought them an answer from Jehovah, they utterly refused to accept it. "Ye dissembled in your hearts," said Jeremiah, "when ye sent me to the Lord." Jer. xlii. How often we dissemble in our hearts! We go to the Lord in word, but not in deed. We profess to await his will, but we have already mapped out the answer, and do not intend it shall be otherwise than as we have mapped it. We look aslant at our sins, and only partially renounce them. We bring an offering of words to the altar of God, while our idols are enshrined in our hearts, and are given up only in name. Our external worship is decorous enough, but there is "a hole in the wall" which leads to a secret sanctuary where the heart is prostrate before its gods. Ezek. viii. Thus it is that our sins separate between us and God, and our iniquities hide his face from us. When we learn to be thoroughly honest in our prayers, realizing the mockery and iniquity of mere lip-offerings to him who searches the heart, we shall no longer complain that our prayers are not heard.

Yet even to the upright prayer may seem to be long unanswered. Sometimes this is true. Our infinitely wise Father, in educating and training his children, often subjects them to long waiting, and leads them through long and dreary marches in the wilderness, when a direct journey would bear them in a few days to the promised blessing. But it is the very perfection of piety to sit still under such circumstances, and learn to trust God and distrust ourselves. It is the very essence of true prayer when we approach the All-wise, "Not as I will, but as thou wilt." Until we have learned to say this, we have not learned how to pray. In nothing can we so honor God as in trusting him in the dark, assured that he will lead us safely and do for us far better than we asked. Duty is plain. Let it be done. The ultimate result of obedience is also plain. But between the duty discharged and that ultimate result, there is a throng of possibilities which we cannot control, the mastery of which is in our Father's hands. Let us trust him, and go straight on in the path of duty: "At evening time it shall be light." When we see "the end of the word" we shall learn with Job that he is "very pitiful and of tender mercy."—Christian Standard.

The mind of the scholar, if you would have it large and liberal, should come in contact with other minds. It is better that his armor should be somewhat bruised by rude encounters even, than hang forever rusting on the wall.—Longfellow.

It is at once a sign of our cultivation and prophecy of the world's future, that in our business and social affairs we count our years from the year of Christ. It seems to mean little when we date our newspapers and our letters from the year of our Lord; but, in reality, the sign is full of meaning. No man to-day thinks of setting up a chronology for himself; and so far he is compelled to to acknowledge a higher standard than his own, and to date his own deeds in conformity with that standard. The Christian chronology is the marching music to which the world's real progress is keeping step. There is no Christian nation, however strong, which can fling aside that chronology, and count from its own standard only. France tried it, and failed. And in this general acceptance of the year of the Lord as the point from which to count our time, we have a type of what is to be, when not only in this, but in everything else, the nations of this world will of this world will recognize the littleness of the self-standard, and will reckon everything from the standard of Christ. The Bible teaches that at last all things will be summed up in Christ—both the things upon the earth—and to that testing of all this by the standard of Christ, we point, consciously or unconsciously, when we date our writings from the year of Christ.

The habitual conviction of the presence of God is the sovereign remedy in temptations; it supports, it consoles, it calms us. We must not be surprised that we are tempted. We are placed here to be proved by temptations. Everything is temptation to us. Crosses irritate our pride, and prosperity flatters it; our life is a continual warfare, but Jesus Christ combats with us. We must let temptations, like a tempest, beat upon our heads, and still move on; like a traveller surprised on the way by a storm, who wraps his cloak about him, and goes on his journey in spite of the opposing elements.—Fenelon.

Every good and holy desire, though it may lack the form, hath in itself the substance and force of prayer with God, for He regards as prayer the wishes and moanings and sighings of the heart.—Hooker.

A golden rule for a young lady is, to converse always with your female friends as if a gentleman were of the party; and with young men as if your female companions were present.—Sprague.

The growth of grace is like the polishing of metals. There is first an opaque surface; by-and-by, you see a spark darting out; then a strong light; till at length it sends back a perfect image of the sun that shines upon it.—Payson.

Honesty sometimes keeps a man from becoming rich, and civility from being witty.—Chesterfield.

Hope wraps judgment in council, but quickens energy in action.—Bulwer Lytton.

Hypocrisy, the only evil that walks invisible except to God alone.—Milton.

AMERICAN NATIONAL BANK.

CASH CAPITAL, $1,000,000.

Board of Directors.

E. W. Cole,	John M. Lea,	A. W. Harris,	John Woodard
John G. Houston,	J. Kirkman,	M. Burns,	J. A. Pigue,
J. F. Demoville,	Rev. Dr. R. A. Young,	T. A. Atchison,	C. E. Hillman,
John Orr,	V. L. Kirkman,	W. G. Bush,	W. W. Berry,
Byrd Douglass, Jr.,	R. L. Weakley,	W. H. Jackson,	Wm. Porter,
			Edgar Jones.

This Bank has united with it the THIRD NATIONAL BANK of this city, and has increased its Capital Stock to $1,000,000. With increased facilities in every particular, it can confidently assert that it will offer superior advantages in all departments of Banking to its patrons and friends.

JOHN KIRKMAN, President,
A. W. HARRIS, Cashier.
E. W. COLE, Chairman Executive Committee.

EDGAR JONES, Vice-President,
JOHN M. LEA, Vice-President.

GOSPEL ADVOCATE

PRINTING AND PUBLISHING COMPANY,

JAMES F. &amp; HARRY LIPSCOMB, Managers,

98 Union Street, Nashville, Tenn.

Letter Heads, Note Heads, Bill Heads, Statement Heads, Circulars, Catalogues, By-Laws, Bills Lading, Receipts, Coal Tickets, Milk Tickets, Tags, Business Cards, Visiting Cards, Horse Bills, Etc.

Good work at reasonable rates. Send for prices. Give us your orders and be pleased.

WE RESPECTFULLY CALL YOUR ATTENTION TO THE FOLLOWING EXCELLENT BOOKS KEPT BY US:

Popular Hymns, word edition	single copy 15 cts; per dozen, by express, $1 50; by mail, $1 70
Popular Hymns, Note edition, (Boards)	single copy 30 cts; per dozen, by express, $3 00; by mail, $3 60
Popular Hymns, Note, (with rudiments)	single copy 40 cts; per dozen, by express, $4 20; by mail, $4 80
Popular Hymns, Note edition, (cloth)	single copy 40 cts; per dozen, by express, $4 00; by mail, $4 75
New Life (character notes)	single copy 75 cts; per dozen, by express, $8 50; by mail, $9 00
Songs of Glory, numbers 1 and 2	single copy 65 cts; per dozen, by express, $7 50; by mail, $8 00
Life of Raccoon John Smith, (very readable), postpaid	2 00
Voice of Seven Thunders, (interesting, entertaining, and instructive), postpaid	1 50
Gospel Plan of Salvation, by T. W. Brents, postpaid	2 00
Gospel Preacher, volumes 1 and 2, by Ben. Franklin, each, postpaid	2 00
Campbell and Owen Debate (splendid book for lawyers) postpaid	1 75
Dictionary of Bible, (complete), by Dr. Smith, postpaid	4 50, smaller 3 00
House-keeping in the Blue Grass, (splendid), postpaid	1 50
First Principles, by Isaac Errett, postpaid	15
Offerings to the Lord, by David Lipscomb, postpaid	10
Christian Experience, by Ben Franklin, postpaid	10
Review of Dr. T. O. Summers' Tract, by Isaac Errett, postpaid	10
Union Movement, by Ben Franklin, postpaid	10
Brown's Pocket Concordance to Bible, postpaid	50
Cruden's New Concordance (complete) postpaid	1 50
Bibles, Testaments, in all styles and bindings, at low rates.

We will furnish any Book published in United States at retail price. WE SOLICIT YOUR orders. We pay postage only. All kinds of Job Printing.

DUDLEY BROS. & LIPSCOMB.
WHOLESALE HARDWARE, CUTLERY AND IMPLEMENTS.

AGENTS FOR

J. I. CASE WALKING CULTIVATORS. IMPROVED WITH SPRINGS. BEST IN USE.

DUDLEY BROS. &amp; LIPSCOMB,

84 &amp; 86 Broad Street, Nashville, Tenn.

PASCHALL, FALL &amp; CO.,

WHOLESALE

HARDWARE, Cutlery, Iron, WAGON MATERIAL, Etc

FISHING TACKLE.

Nos. 57, 59 & 61 S. Market St.,
NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE.

Our Prices are Very Low.

Agents for Chicago Scale Co.'s
Platform & Wagon Scales.

THE GOSPEL ADVOCATE.

NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE, MAY 14, 1884.

CONTENTS:

Nil Desperandum.....	305
Do the Words of Christ Abide in Us?.....	305
Queries.....	306
A Methodist Elder vs. A. Campbell.....	307
Correspondence.....	307
Delayed Answer to Prayer.....	309
CONTENTS.....	310
The Northport Meeting.....	310
Tuscaloosa, Alabama.....	310
Query.....	310
Rooting Out the Plants Not Planted by God.....	311
QUERIES.....	312
Elders and Deacons.....	312
ITEMS, PERSONALS, ETC.....	315
A. Campbell and the Society.....	315
KENTUCKY CONTRIBUTIONS AND CORRESPONDENCE.....
May the Christian be United in Marriage, to the Sinner?... ..	314
TEXAS WORK AND WORKERS.....
Our Bible Class.....	308
The Need of the Present Hour.....	308
HOME READING.....
Little Dutch Gretchen.....	316
Work for Hands.....	316
One Stormy Day.....	316
For the Children.....	316
Letters to Uncle Minor.....	316

THE NORTHPORT MEETING.

The meeting in the above place in the State of Alabama began, as announced, on Friday night, April 25. On account of cold and sore throat just developed, we did not attend the meeting that night, but were present balance of the time. The Alabama preachers present were J. M. Barnes, J. M. Halbrook, W. A. Tipton, C. A. Wheeler, and—Morris, and one or two visiting brethren that are not preachers, and brother R. W. Vanhook, who preaches there once a month, and the resident brethren made up the meeting, except the little space your humble servant occupied. With this small number present, of course no extensive inquiries could be made into the fields of labor for the future. Yet some interesting information was given regarding the cause, and openings and necessities for work in certain sections. Bro. Tipton, from St. Clair county, reported that there are but few members in his section of country, but thinks the cause might be extensively built up there, if they had the laborers to do the work of proclaiming the ancient gospel. Bros. Halbrook, Wheeler and Morris, gave reports of the cause in Marion, Walker, Lamar and Fayette, showing that considerable work has been done in these counties. They report three congregations in Fayette county, one large, and two small ones. In Marion county, four,—one large, and three medium size. In Walker, five,—one large, two fair size, two small. Lamar has four congregations also, making twelve in all. Bros. Halbrook and Wheeler are doing good work in these counties. These congregations, that is the older ones of them were built up at first by the labors of Bros. John Taylor, Green Haley, and Bro. Ussery, who lived in Mississippi, near this section. Brethren Ussery and Haley have crossed over the dark river, and brother Taylor is lingering on its brink. These congregations have been built up, and have been carried on thus far, without any societies or plans of human mould. Those godly men whose hearts were large, and full of love to God and for men, and full of burning zeal that would not allow them to hold their peace, proclaimed the word of truth in the love of it. The people heard, believed, and obeyed, and churches sprang up, souls were saved, and heaven will resound with eternal praise resulting from the work of love performed by those men. And the good work is still going on in the same way, and other congregations are springing up through the same sort of work. This shows what can be done by the proclamation of the word by good men.

We did not learn that any one of the men who have accomplished this work ever devoted himself exclusively to the work of preaching, but did it in connection with other avocations. Brethren Halbrook, Wheeler, and others who are preaching through that country now, and doing a grand work, are none of them devoting themselves exclusively to the work. There are so many churches in that section now, that they might sustain some of these men, and send them out into new fields, and thus build up elsewhere. We hope these churches will give large, liberal aid in the work Bro. Barnes has on foot to try and have churches established in the cities. This was one of the leading objects had in view in getting up the meeting at Northport. But so few brethren were in attendance that nothing very definite could be done.

There is not more than one or two of the cities of Alabama that has even one congregation. Montgomery, the Capital of the State, has no regular congregation in it. There are a few members, and Bros. Jordan and Barnes have been preaching some there for the last year or two, and have succeeded in working up some interest, and are getting the ears of a great many people, and are arranging for a protracted meeting there soon.

Birmingham, the most rapidly growing city of Alabama has a few members, and they are arranging to start a Sunday-school, and to meet and worship. This is right, and the blessing of the Lord will be with them if they will do it.

Tuscaloosa, the former Capital of the State, has no congregation. There ought, by all means, to be a large and active congregation in each of the above named places, and in many others where there are none now. Bro. Barnes seems deeply interested, and we hope the brethren of Alabama will co-operate heartily with him in this good work. And so far as heard from there seems to be a willingness to do so.

The brethren in Northport are few in number, but seem to be at work in earnest, to build up. They have a very neat and comfortable new meeting-house just completed, and Bro. Vanhook preaches for them one Lord's day in each month, and once a month at three other points, and is doing a grand work. He is a good preacher, good singer, and a good worker, and we hope he will do as he now thinks he will, remain in this country. In fact we were pleased with all the preaching brethren we met, and we thus bid them a hearty God speed in their work. Brother Morris seemed to be a little afraid that all the help would be sent to the cities and that there would not be enough sent to the country. This is only a good reason for Bro. Morris to set in and work more earnestly in the country than ever before, and if he will do this, he will be happy in the results. There are plenty of preachers and brethren in his county, his county having five congregations in it, if he will make an active preacher in the number himself, to keep the cause moving and growing. Most of the great men in cities, preachers and otherwise great, had their origin in the country, and some of them under very obscure circumstances and surroundings, at that. And besides, it does not take half as much work and means to build up the cause in the country as in the cities, any way. We think the brethren of Alabama, some of them at least, are now taking renewed interest in the spread of the truth, and that they will labor more earnestly than ever to bring it about.

The preaching continued a few nights at Northport, but no additions. The brethren there seem to be in deep earnest, and if they continue thus, the Lord will bless them. E. G. S.

TUSCALOOSA, ALABAMA.

The city of Tuscaloosa is situated on the waters of the Black Warrior river, and contains about ten thousand inhabitants in all, but their corporation lines are so arranged as to only include about one half the inhabitants. The principal streets are very broad, the lots large, putting the residences far apart and giving an airy, roomy appearance. There is a great abundance of shade trees along the sidewalks, and in the yards around the houses. and in a good many of the streets a row of trees along the centre, so that these streets are thoroughly shaded from the heat of the sun, making the city look cool and inviting. There are several schools here, and among them the State University. Some of the principal parts of this institution were burned, just a little after the war closed. The piles of rubbish are still on the ground, showing what destruction was made, and that without cause. They are just now putting up some new buildings to supply the places of those destroyed. The school is managed under military rule, and they have regular drill. the State Insane Asylum is here also, and is one of the few that are managed without violence or force. Bro. Dr. E. S. Chisholm, one of the best dentists of the South lives in Tuscaloosa, and the only one of our brethren who lives in the city that we met. He is a splendid musician, as are all the Chisholms.

Tuscaloosa is, upon the whole, one of the pleasantest cities we have visited. Its oaks are perfectly charming. They are somewhat similar to the live oak in their growth, and never were Druids fonder of their oaks than the inhabitants of Tuscaloosa are of theirs. An iron toll-bridge spans the river between this city and Northport, where several of our brethren now live, and where they have built their meeting-house, and we hope they will build up a large congregation in process of time. E. G. S.

QUERY.

Who publishes Zion's Watchtower? Are they universalist? If not, please explain what he means on pages 42 to 50, did not Sodom have Lot? Whose righteous soul was vexed at their sins? as sin is the violation of law, for where there is no law sin is not imputed. If they get a chance in millennium, will it not be two chances? Said pages will be found in free supplement to Zion's Watchtower, Pittsburg, Pa., 1881. Please do not tell me this has nothing to do with my salvation; I know it, but others think to get another chance. For if wicked Sodom, why not others? Now, brethren, were it not more Christian—Christ like—to preach to the living, than to speculate on dead Sodom? If I am wrong, I will not feel hurt if you use the rod; please hew to the line, and spare not, I await your answer. —[J. J. Sessions, Awin, Ala.

We do not know anything about Zion's Watchtower. Never saw a copy of it as we remember. We presume from its name it is a publication of the Adventists. They make many publications which they circulate in the rural districts, and among those who read but little, and never try to introduce their teachings among those who read gent. The idea that any one has a chance in the next world is in direct violation of the word of God. No man who desires to serve the Lord wishes for another chance. He will use the chance in this world if he is willing to honor God. If he will not use this chance, why will he be more anxious to use another? There is nothing more deceptions than that men who slight present opportunities will embrace future ones. Going through this world in disobedience to God hardens the character, and it is less fitted to accept God in any future state. Men who love God, right, truth will serve him here. Those who do not desire to honor God, will grow worse and worse. "Evil men and seducers wax worse and worse." Nothing better than the gospel of the Son of God will be offered to induce men to obey God. If he rejects it he lost. All speculation about future opportunities, is in the interest of sin and the rule of the evil one. "Life is the time to serve the Lord. The time to insure the great reward."

ROOTING OUT THE PLANTS NOT PLANTED BY GOD.

It was a sin to add to the Jewish law. "What thing soever I command you, observe to do it; thou shalt not add thereto, nor diminish from it." When man wickedly added thereto, Jesus Christ, before he fulfilled the law, eliminated from it, every human addition, purged from it every fungus that attached itself to it, through a long series of years.

Additions were made and changes were tolerated for a time on account of the hardness of their hearts. But the mission of every true teacher from God, was to call the Jewish people away from their additions and changes, and to root out those plants growing from evil seed, and bring them back to the clear and simple teachings of God. When doing acts of zealous devotion and sacrifice to God, Isaiah asked, "To what purpose is the multitude of your sacrifices unto me, saith the Lord; I am full of the burnt offerings of rams, and the fat of fed beasts; and I delight not in the blood of bullocks, or of lambs, or of he-goats. When ye come to appear before me, who hath required this at your hand, to tread my court." Isaiah i: 11. Here were his worshippers bringing costly oblations and sacrifices, but they were doing it in a way not commanded of God, and he rejects them, with the query, "Who has required it at your hands?" He adds, verse 25, "I will turn my hand upon thee, and purely purge away thy dross, and take away all thy tin, and I will restore thy judges as at the first, and thy counsellors as at the beginning; afterwards thou shalt be called the city of righteousness, the faithful city." The dross and tin of human addition must be purged out, and the law restored as God ordained it before it could be called, The city of righteousness, The faithful city. Verse 28, "The destruction of the transgressors and of the sinners shall be together, and they that forsake the Lord shall be consumed."

These, with various other passages of Scripture, teach that it is wrong to do more than the word of God requires, to add other service than that commanded of God as well as to refuse or neglect what God did command.

The teachers of the Old Testament Scriptures worked to eradicate all the additions, and to restore all that had been diminished from the word of God. They succeeded only partially and temporarily. The people for a time called from their aberrations by the fidelity of a true prophet of God or faithful king, soon relapsed into the same forgetfulness of the obligation, "what thing soever God commanded, thou shalt do; thou shalt not add thereto, nor diminish from it."

But when Christ came, he announced, "Not one jot or tittle of the law shall pass away until all be fulfilled." "Yet every plant my heavenly Father hath not planted, shall be rooted up," and "In vain do ye worship me, teaching for doctrine the commandments of men."

Christ will thoroughly purge from it all the dross and tin added by human hands, and will fulfill the pure unmixed word of God.

He came not only to purge the law from all excrescences, and to fulfill the pure law of God, but he came with his "fan in his hand to thoroughly purge his floor—gathering the grain into his garner and burning the chaff with fire unquenchable."

That refers to his work of winnowing out all who were unwilling to take the unadulterated law of God as their rule, and turning them over to destruction. But those willing to receive the law of God, without human addition or diminution, should be accepted as worthy to enter his kingdom. They were wheat to be saved in his garner.

But if God was jealous of his law given from Sinai, sealed with the blood of bulls and of goats, that every addition must be rooted out, and not a jot or little be unfulfilled, it is a hundred-fold true of the law given through Christ and sealed with his own precious blood.

Jesus introduced his ministry by pronouncing the first blessing on "the poor in Spirit." That means, the first essential to the obtaining the kingdom of heaven, is that a man shall realize that he is without any spiritual resources of his own. That he must realize his dependence upon God, his inability to direct his steps, his lack of strength, and a consequent willingness to be guided or led by God. The one who is poor in spirit, is represented as one who "trembleth at my word." "To this man will I look, to him that is poor and of a contrite spirit, and who trembleth at my word." To tremble at his word, is to regard it with such reverential awe, that he trembles lest he should fail to perform its requirements.

Christ warns them, "Ye cannot serve two masters." "He who heareth the word of God and doeth it, builds upon a rock. He who builds upon any other foundation than the word of God, builds upon the sand." His whole life and teaching declare the supreme sole authority of God. Even "he came not to do his own will, but the will of his Father in heaven." He knew no will save to follow his Father's will. It was his meat and his drink, his life and his strength, to do his Father's will. He remained in his Father's love, by doing his Father's commandments, by having no will or purpose of his own diverse from the will of God. So we are to abide in the love of Christ and his Father, by keeping his words, by abiding in his words—not neglecting them, not violating them, not going beyond them. His whole life-labor was to separate his disciples from all other teachers, all other guides than himself, to call them away from their own will, ways and purposes, and wisdom, and to make them willing to walk in his paths and follow him. To do this is to go so far and in the paths he directs, and in no matter to go beyond his direction.

He announced that his church alone of all the institutions of earth would withstand the gates of hell. All other institutions and organizations of earth must be engulfed in the destroying vortex of ruin. Emphasizing the truth that all devices of man's wisdom lead to ruin, utter and hopeless, and that only God's guidance will lead safely through the ways of peace and safety here, into the everlasting kingdom of God hereafter.

The Holy Spirit came. Like Christ, "he will not speak of himself," will have no will of his own, "but what he hears (of God) that he will testify," "will call to your remembrance all things whatsoever I commanded you," and "will guide you into all truth." Clearly what he heard of God embodied and embraced all truth, all that would bring good to man. Hence all Scripture is given by inspiration, and is profitable for doctrine, for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness that the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works.

The fulfillment of this was that the Spirit came as the sole guide of man in his walk with God. He warned those who would teach, "Take heed how you build there upon; for other foundation can no man lay than that is laid, which is Jesus Christ. Now if any man build on this foundation, gold, silver, precious stones, wood, hay, stubble, every man's work shall be made manifest, for the day shall declare it, because it shall be revealed by fire, and the fire shall try every man's work of what sort it is." 1 Cor. 3. Every thing brought by human hands or through human wisdom into the temple of God, will be burned up as wood, hay, stubble, while only the gold, silver, precious stones of God's build will endure.

The Holy Spirit iterates and reiterates the lesson that "the wisdom of this world is foolishness with God." "I will destroy the wisdom of the wise and will bring to nothing the understanding of the prudent." "God hath made foolish the wisdom of the world; for after that in the wisdom of God, the world by wisdom knew not God, it pleased God by the foolishness of preaching to save them that believe." That is, man's wisdom could not lead to God, so God ordained that those who would ignore their own wisdom and walk through faith in him, that is as he directed, should be saved. "For ye see your calling, brethren, that not many wise men after the flesh, not many mighty, not many noble are called. But God hath chosen the foolish things of the world to confound the wise." 1 Cor. i: 22. That is, not many who have confidence in their own wisdom are called. But God chose those having no wisdom of their own, but willing to trust God for salvation.

He commanded them to walk after the Spirit,—and not after the flesh,—that is, walk after the teachings of the Spirit, and not after the wisdom of the world. The flesh refers frequently to the worldly or fleshly wisdom.

The Spirit gives as the test of true spirituality, a recognition that "the things that he writes unto them are the commandments of the Lord." 1 Cor. xiv: 37.

The same Spirit asks them that "if under the law of Moses every transgression (passing beyond the bounds of divine law) and disobedience received a just recompense of reward, how shall we escape, if we neglect so great salvation?" He tells them that all institutions and kingdoms must be shaken and taken out of the way, save the kingdom which we have received, which cannot be moved. He adds, "Our God is a consuming fire," to consume all the institutions not planted by God, and to consume the dross, the wood, hay, stubble of man's additions.

Then the Spirit closes his warnings, "If any man shall add unto these things, to him shall be added the plagues, that are written in this book. And if any man shall take away from the book of this prophecy, God shall take away his part out of the book of life, and out of the holy city, and from the things that are written in this book." Rev. xxii: 18.

The whole aim of every revelation of God to man, is to induce man to yield up his own wisdom and be led as a little child by the hand of God. It is to make him eschew the wisdom of the world, and to make him willing to be guided by the wisdom that cometh down from above.

God has guarded all of his institutions against additions by human hands and through human wisdom, has warned against the evil of it. Has warned that those worship him in vain who follow the precepts of men, that those who walk after the wisdom of this world are not walking with him. He has warned that every plant, not planted of God will be rooted out, that all institutions save the church of Christ, will be brought down to hell, and that all additions to that church by human hands will be burned up: It will be purified by fire, and that every man whose work shall be burned will suffer loss. He has warned that he will not dwell in a defiled temple, in that church until it is made pure "without spot and without blemish" in the sight of God.

D. L.

Obituaries.

We are all very sad over the death of Sister J. E. Word, who died of pneumonia, on May 1, 1884, and was buried at Flat Creek, on the day following. She came from Alabama, and was a member of the Cross Roads congregation. Flat Creek, Tenn. J. D. FLOYD.

John V. Purcell, after several years of feebleness, was, on April 17, 1884, taken with a severe attack of pneumonia, and died on April 21. Mr. Purcell was born in the State of Virginia, August 12, 1804, and was married to Miss Judith L. Gibbons, December 21, 1826. He moved to Rutherford county, Tenn., thence to Davidson county, where he spent the remainder of his life. He was a very quiet and peaceful citizen. He was sprinkled, in infancy, by the Methodists. His mother, father, and grandmother, were all Methodists. He was a very strict man in his ways, and was ever ready for an argument on the Scriptures. Sister Purcell still lives at the home place. She became a member of the Christian church forty-seven years ago, and was baptized by Bro. Randall Hall, in Cripple Creek, Rutherford county. Sister Purcell has been afflicted with paralysis about two years. J. A. P.

Barclay Sowell died at the residence of his father, Col. W. J. Sowell, in Maury county, after a painful illness of fourteen days, (caused from a broken ankle—broken by being thrown from a mule.) Barclay was born June 16, 1871; his pure spirit took its flight, April 20, 1884. He had a sweet, affectionate disposition, and bore his intense suffering with great patience and fortitude. Seldom have I been called upon to attend a funeral service with friends, that elicited my sympathy to a greater extent; for he was the youngest of the family, the pride of a father's heart, the object of a fond, devoted mother's love. Somehow both brother and sister Sowell had come to regard him, of all their lovely and dutiful children, as the one upon whom, in old age, they would lean for comfort. But so it is; "Man proposes, and God disposes." Brother and sister Sowell bear their terrible affliction with heroic courage and Christian fortitude, and try to feel and to say, "The Lord gave, and the Lord hath taken away: blessed be the name of the Lord." Job i: 21. But—

"There is no death; an angel form
Walks o'er the earth with silent tread,
And bears our best loved ones away,
And then we call them dead."

He leaves our hearts all desolate—
He plucks our fairest, sweetest flowers;
Transplanted into bliss, they now
Adorn immortal bowers.

The sweet gentle voice, whose joyous tones
Made glad those scenes of sorrow and strife,
Sing now an everlasting song,
Around the tree of life.

May the Lord comfort the hearts of mother, father, brothers and sisters, is the prayer of— E. B. CAYCE.

Another good and true man has fallen. Bro. E. W. Moore breathed his last on February 5, 1884. Bro. Moore was born October 10, 1819; was married to Emma Wharey, January 18, 1853; was immersed, August 13, 1850. Bro. Moore was one of the elders in our congregation at Lamalsamac. I have no desire to eulogize; but he had some virtues, and that, too, in an eminent degree, that are worthy of imitation. Faith, meekness, temperance, and patience, were prominently characteristic of him. Naturally timid, he shrank from the public; but being so good and true at heart, and the possessor of so mature and deliberate judgment, he was esteemed by the whole congregation as a wise and safe counsellor. His judgment and advice was often sought, and his counsel always weighty in the adjustment of any difficulty. I must give one instance illustrative of his faith. For many years he has been greatly afflicted; his wife could not walk without crutches. Many times it seemed almost impossible for him to breathe. On one occasion, a few years since, he gave up hope of living, and, calling Bro. John E. McCorkle and myself to his bedside, to us he made his will. By economy, industry, and practical common-sense, he had, notwithstanding his misfortunes, a competency. After providing for the payment of all his debts, and leaving to his wife and children all his property, as his judgment dictated, he said, "And now, my wife—my poor, crippled wife—I will her to the church at Lamalsamac. If misfortunes befall her when I am gone, they will see that she is cared for." Oh! how it rejoiced my heart to see a manifestation of such confidence in our congregation, by one so intimately acquainted with its workings. And be it said, to its honor, that faith was not groundless, and it is still giving evidence of its willingness to help the needy, and feed the hungry. Bro. Moore was among the foremost in every work of the kind. We loved him. He is only gone before. We shall soon follow. T. E. SCOTT.

Died on the 22nd day of March 1884, Sister M. F. Caruthers, after a few days of painful sickness. She was the daughter of Brother and Sister Joel Clark, of Little Elm congregation. Sister Caruthers was a Christian, lived a Christian, and died in the full realization of her acceptance with God. She was in her 24th year; she leaves a little boy of two years, (her husband died one week after her death), a father, mother, brothers and sisters to mourn their loss. While we stood by her as she passed away, and heard her speak words of consolation to the weeping ones present, as she told us all to weep not for her, but to live so as to meet her, we could then realize the worth of being a Christian. We often hear people speak of those that have died, and ask, how did she or he die? The better would be, "How did they live?" But when we see one live right, and then die right, we can have no trouble in regard to their future, as was the case of our sister. We all weep and mourn over the death of our loved ones, and it is right; Jesus wept as he stood at the grave of Lazarus. But we weep not for the departed sister as those that have no hope; "for if we believe that Jesus both died and rose again, even them also that die in Jesus will God bring with him." Then to all the friends of Sister Caruthers, your loss is her gain. If you will just work on faithful you will meet her in that great day, where you can clasp hands never to be separated any more. Yes, in that grand reunion of God's saints, you can be one unbroken family in the everlasting kingdom of God, our Father, by doing as she asked, "try to meet me in heaven." And to the congregation, let me say, while we have lost one of our faithful soldiers, let us close up the ranks and stand closer together and fight the battles of Christ, that we may all join our sister in the glorious home of the just; then we can realize the words of John, "Blessed are the dead that die in the Lord." "Blessed are they that do his commandments, that they may have right to the tree of life, and enter in through the gates into the city." T. J. HUNSAKER.

Little Elm, Denton County, Texas.

ELDERS AND DEACONS.

In GOSPEL ADVOCATE, of March 19, 1884, is an article from Bro. L. C. Wells, in which he claims that I have misrepresented him. The substance of what I tried to present to Bro. Lipscomb, is that Bro. Wells did not believe in the eldership and deaconship and their work, as taught in the New Testament, and as taught by the Christian church. And this is the way Bro. Lipscomb understood me, as is proven by his reply. Bro. Wells occupies nearly one-half column in the ADVOCATE, in setting forth the relation of apostles and prophets to the church, since their death, as "on the contrary," or opposed to a position I had assigned him in my query. Now, the truth is, I assigned him no position whatever, further than to assume that he believed they had ceased to exist; in other words, that they were all dead, and therefore could not exist (personally) in the church, as do our elders and deacons.

Now, to show that Bro. Wells does not believe in the eldership, observe his form of speech: "If there be a modern eldership." Again, "If there exist to-day those who should be called elders." Again, speaking of elders, he says, "If they should be so called." Such expressions savor not much of a belief in an eldership now. Bro. Wells says again, "Were it not for the prevalent idea of a ceremonially ordained or a specifically designated board of elders, nothing would be more reasonable and natural than for those (possessing certain qualifications) to take the lead in this work of teaching and watching after the welfare of the church." I have been of the impression for some time, that this idea of an ordained board of elders was very much in Bro. Wells' way, and here the fact crops out from his own pen. Bro. Wells says again, "Never, in a matter of doctrine or discipline, should a congregation be led by men, be they elders or what not." Elders should be "examples to the flock." If they do not take the lead in every good work, they are not likely to have much influence for good with others. If they lead in all matters, both of faith and practice, as the word of the Lord directs, they are doing only that which is their duty to do. Those who know their duty, and are willing to do it, will not be hard to lead. Those who do not know their duty should be taught it by the elders, and then led to do it. If they persistently refuse, having been taught, it is the duty of the elders to take the lead in withdrawing fellowship from such a one in an orderly and impressive manner, the whole congregation co-operating with, and sustaining them in, the work. So I believe.

Paul, to Titus, says the elder must be such as hold fast "the faithful word, that he may be able by sound doctrine, both to exhort and to convince the gainsayers." A gainsayer is one who contradicts, denies, or opposes the truth. And let me suggest that there are many of them in the church, as well as out of it; and I do not know but what the term might be applied to one who denies or opposes an ordained board of elders, or the right of such a board to take the lead in all matters of doctrine, discipline, and worship of the church.

With reference to Bro. Wells' self-constructed argument with me about the power or authority of the elder, I have this to say: If the elders possess the proper qualifications, and have been selected and "specifically designated or ordained" by the church, to take the oversight, then they have full "power or authority" to take the lead in all matters of faith, doctrine, discipline, and worship of the church, provided they lead as the word of God directs. Neither would I, as Bro. Wells supposes, suffer the consequences of division, rather than sell out thus my freedom. I feel fully as free plodding along after a faithful elder, as I would strutting along before him. Bro. Wells propounds the following query: "What is left for the modern official elder to do that is not done by the word of God as contained in the Scriptures?" It occurs to me, just at this point, that Bro. Wells has presented this question in the wrong paper, and to the wrong people. The readers of the ADVOCATE, as a rule, do not believe that their elders, as such, have any work to do that is not marked out by the word of God as contained in the Scriptures." A Methodist could mention many things that their elders are required to do, as laid down in their discipline, about which the "word of God as contained in the Scriptures," says absolutely nothing. I suggest, Bro. Wells, that you send your query to some Methodist paper yet. If you wish to know what, according to the Scriptures, is the work of an elder, I refer you to third chapter of 1 Timothy, and first chapter of Titus, to begin with; and with the aid of a common reference Bible, you can soon find all that is said on the subject. After examination, if I am not mistaken, you will find their work to consist, mainly, of the very things you say "it will not do to mention"—that is, the work of teaching, governing, and watching after the welfare of the church. If your closing remarks on the eldership mean anything in particular, they mean that "each member do this work (of teaching, governing, and watching after the welfare of the church) to the extent of his ability." According to your theory, the eldership is composed of each member,—that is, the whole congregation. Yet if one don't accept this as the eldership of the Christian church, he is liable to the charge of "misrepresentation!" I will close by asking you to answer, through the ADVOCATE, the following question, with a yes or no. Do you believe in the eldership and deaconship and their work as taught by the Christian church? Comanche, Texas. N. A. BOSTICK.

At the close of an infidel lecture in England, by Mr. Bradlaugh, who challenged any one present to reply to his argument, a poor ignorant collier arose and said: "Maister Bradlaugh, me and my mate, Jim were both Christians till one of these infidel chaps cam' this way. Jim turned infidel, and used to badger me about attending prayer meetings; but one day, in the pit, a large cob of coal came down upon Jim's head. Jim thought he was killed—and, ah men: but he did holler and cry to God." Then turning to Mr. Bradlaugh—with a knowing look—he said: "Young man, there's now't like cobs of coal for knocking infidelity out of a man!"

Love never exhausts itself by giving. The more we love others and seek to do them good, the more power and good we have to give them. The more we love, the larger our hearts become.

While thy heart shall flow outward
To gadden and bless
The fount as its centre
Will never grow less.

Perhaps your Master knows what a capital ploughman you are; and He never means to let you become a reaper because you do the ploughing so well.—Spurgeon.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

This powder never varies. A marvel of purity strength and wholesomeness. More economical than the ordinary kinds, and cannot be sold in competition with the multitude of low test, short weight alum or phosphate powders. Sold only in cans.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 106 Wall St., New York.

WORTHY Of Confidence.

AYER'S Sarsaparilla is a medicine that, during nearly 40 years, in all parts of the world, has proved its efficacy as the best blood alterative known to medical science.

SARSAPARILLA (extracted from the genuine Honduras Sarsaparilla) is its base, and its powers are enhanced by the extracts of Yellow Dock and Stillingia, the Iodides of Potassium and Iron, and other potent ingredients. your blood vitiated by derangements of the digestive and assimilatory functions? is it tainted by Scrofula? or does it contain the poison of Mercury or Contagious Disease?

THE leading physicians of the United States, who know the composition of AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, say that nothing else so good for the purification of the blood is within the range of pharmacy.

ONLY by the use of this remedy is it possible for a person who has corrupted blood to attain sound health and prevent transmission of the destructive taint to posterity.

THOROUGHLY of the system must include not only the removal of corruption from the blood, but its enrichment and the strengthening of the vital organs.

RELIABLE witnesses, all over the world, testify that this work is better accomplished by AYER'S SARSAPARILLA than by any other remedy.

BLOOD that is corrupted through disease is made pure, and blood weakened through diminution of the red corpuscles is made strong, by AYER'S SARSAPARILLA.

PURIFYING the blood and building up the system require time in serious cases, but benefit will be derived from the use of AYER'S SARSAPARILLA more speedily than from anything else.

MEDICINE for which like effects are falsely claimed, is abundant in the market, under many names, but the only preparation that has stood the test of time, and proved worthy of the world's confidence, is

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,

PREPARED BY

Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Sold by all druggists: Price 1;
six bottles for $5.

THE SUGAR HAND BOOK

A NEW AND VALUABLE TREATISE ON SUGAR CANES, (including the Minnesota Early Amber) and their manufacture into Syrup and Sugar. Although comprised in small compass and furnished free to applicants, it is the BEST PRACTICAL MANUAL ON SUGAR CANES that has yet been published.

CLYMER MANUFACTURING CO
Cincinnati, O.
Manufacturers of Steam Sugar Machinery, Steam Engines,
Victor Cane Mills, Cane Sugar Superheaters, etc.

PREWITT, SPURR & CO., MANUFACTURERS OF WOODEN WARE AND LUMBER, NASHVILLE, TENN.

Poplar and Pine Flooring, Ceiling, Weatherboarding, Sash, Doors, Blinds, Door and Window Frames Brackets, Laths, Cedar Posts, Etc., Always on hand.

FACTORY AND MILLS IN EDGEFIELD.

NATHANIEL BAXTER, JR.,
President.

THOS. PLATER,
Vice President.

J. F. WILLIAMS,
Cashier.

W. F. BANG, JR.,
Asst. Cashier.

THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK,
OF NASHVILLE, TENN. (Reorganized.)

Designated Depository and Financial Agent of the United States.

CAPITAL STOCK, - - - - - $500,000 00
UNDIVIDED PROFITS, - - - - - 190,000 00

Receives Deposits, Deals in United States Bonds and Local Securities, and Foreign and Domestic Exchange. Drafts drawn on all European points. Our facilities for making collections at all accessible points are unsurpassed.

P. A. SHELTON, DEALER IN STAPLE AND FANCY GROCERIES,

FLOUR, BACON, LARD, TOBACCO AND CIGARS, COUNTRY PRODUCE,
QUEENSWARE, GLASSWARE, TINWARE, LAMPS AND TRIMMINGS.
No. 96 BROAD STREET, - (Second door from College,) - NASHVILLE, TENN.

Special Attention Given to Filling Orders.

SOLE AGENT FOR "RINGLEADER" FLOUR.

ALEX. HOGAN.

JO. B. HALL.

HOGAN & HALL,

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALERS IN

GROCERIES, BACON, LARD,

—AND—

PURE WHISKIES AND WINES

For Medicinal Purposes.

106 Broad Street, - - - NASHVILLE, TENN.

GOOD CLOTHING!

Gentlemen and boys who desire GOOD CLOTHING at medium prices, equal in style and make to any custom work, should not fail to examine our stock before purchasing their Outfits.

HUNTINGTON, Clothier,

160 Church Street, - - - NASHVILLE.

W. R. CORNELIUS,
GENERAL FUNERAL UNDERTAKER.

OFFICE:
No. 17 North Summer Street,

RESIDENCE:
No. 413 Main Street.

Telephone 73 calls the Office; Telephone 271 calls the Residence.

Will furnish everything wanted at a funeral, and all first-class.
Prices as cheap as anybody else. 2a3m

THUSS, KOELLEIN & GIERS.

Successors to old Giers' Gallery,

PHOTOGRAPHERS!

139 Union Street, Nashville, Tenn.

CALVERT BROTHERS, PORTRAITS.

In Crayon, in Oil and Water Colors; Ivory
Miniatures, &c., &c.,
Coke Building, Cor. Union and Cherry Streets, Nashville, Tenn.

GEO. E. COOPER & CO.,

Wholesale Manufacturers and Dealers in

TINWARE, STOVES, FURNACES,

And House Furnishing Goods.

Tin and Slate Roofing and Galvanized Iron Cornice Work
a Specialty.

Also our Patent Chimney Top for smoky chimneys, has no equal. Write for prices and address.

GEO. E. COOPER & CO.,

22 North Market Street,

Nashville, - - - Tennessee.

SHOW CASES,

CEDAR CHESTS, CEDAR WARDROBES,

Cabinet Work, and all kinds of Glass.

G. C. TERRY, Manufacturer,

No. 2 Hicks' Block, North Side Public Square, NASHVILLE, TENN.

F. A. BADGER, DENTIST

OFFICE.

ODD FELLOWS' TEMPLE,

(Cor Church & High Sts.)

Nashville, Tennessee.

A Physician's Gift.

If you are a sufferer hoping for a permanent cure of Apoplectic or Epileptic

FITS,

a Free Trial Box of the celebrated Dr. JUSTICE SCHROEDER'S REMEDY for this disorder will be sent you, post-paid, free.

Every sufferer from this disease that is anxious to be cured should give these Powders an immediate trial. Large Box $3.00, two boxes $5.00

Address, PHILIP HENRY,
49 South Street, New York City.

OWEN'S STATION SCHOOL.

The sixth annual session will open Sept. 3d, 1883, and continue Forty Weeks. The session is divided into two terms of twenty weeks each.

The expenses to boarders per term, are from $75.00 to $80.00. Music with use of Instrument, $22.00. $100.00 will pay for board, washing, full instruction in higher English Branches, Latin, Greek, French and Music. Bills due one-half at opening of term and remainder at middle. For any information, address

W. LIPSCOMB,
Brentwood, Tenn.

AGENTS wanted for the History of Christianity, by Abbott. A grand chance. A $4 book at the popular price of $1.75. Liberal terms. The religious papers mention it as one of the few great religious works of the world. Greater success never known by agents. Terms free. STINSON & Co., Publisher, Portland, Maine.

DONT purchase your CHRISTMAS PRESENTS until you have seen our IMMENSE HOLIDAY CATALOGUE of Toys, Novelties, Fancy Goods, &c., mailed free. Address Eureka T. & N. Co., 87 Warren St., New York.

CATALOGUE of Best Books for Agents sent free, including Mother, Home and Heaven, $2.75. Please everybody. 125,000 sold, $1.00 monthly E. B. Treat Publisher, New York.

KENTUCKY CONTRIBUTIONS AND CORRESPONDENCE.

BY J. A. HARDING, OF WINCHESTER, KY., TO WHOM
ALL COMMUNICATIONS FOR THIS DEPARTMENT
SHOULD BE ADDRESSED.

MAY THE CHRISTIAN BE UNITED IN MARRIAGE TO THE SINNER?

This is one of the most important of practical questions; one, too, that seems to be very little considered. Generally, when one desires to marry, he does not seem to think that his Christianity has anything to do with the matter, nor does he dream of consulting the law of the Lord concerning the selection of a wife; he is moved purely by his own feelings and judgment,—most fallible guides both of them.

This indifference to the law of the Lord, to the favor of the Heavenly Father, grows out of a semi-infidelity, (perhaps I should leave off the semi;) we do not believe that God delights in blessing his dutiful children; that he takes pleasure in granting them the desires of their hearts; that he guides their steps, and makes all things work together for their good.

The people, even the leaders and teachers in the churches, often know so little about what is in the sacred writings, that it is no great wonder their faith is weak. The Lord says: "O that there weresuch an heart in them, that they would fear me, and keep all my commandments always, and with their children forever!" Deut. vi: 29; and Peter instructs us to cast all our care on him; "for," says he, "he careth for you."

Surely there is nothing in all the relations and businesses of earth in which we so need his care, as in securing proper consorts for the journey of life. Upon a proper marriage our happiness here very largely depends; and by it our prospects for eternal salvation are very greatly brightened. Hence it behooves us to consider the word of God that we may secure his favor and guidance in this most important matter.

In this article we propose to consider one phase of the question only, viz., may the Christian be united in wedlock to the sinner? Several passages bearing upon the matter will be considered.

1 Deut. vii: 3-4. "Neither shalt thou make marriages with them; thy daughter thou shalt not give unto his son, nor his daughter shalt thou take unto thy son. For they will turn away thy son from following me, that they may serve other gods: so shall the anger of the Lord be kindled against you, and destroy thee suddenly." See also Joshua xxiii: 8-14.

From these and many other like passages it is evident that the Jews were not allowed to intermarry with other peoples: they were God's chosen people; he lived among them, and walked about in their camp; they were therefore not permitted to unite themselves by the strongest earthly yokes to the servants of another master. The married are one; how can they serve two masters? But I have made this question from Deuteronomy that attention might be called to the reason which God gives for prohibiting such marriages: "for they will turn away thy son from following me, that they may serve other Gods."

"Solomon loved many strange women, together with the daughters of Pharaoh, women of the Moabites, Ammonites, Edomites, Lidonians, and Hittites; of the nations concerning which the Lord said unto the children of Israel, 'Ye shall not go in unto them, neither shall they come in unto you: for surely they will turn away your heart after their gods.' Solomon clave unto these in love." 1 Kings xi: 1-2. Nehemiah, concerning these mixed marriages, referred to Solomon's case thus: (Neh. xiii: 26-27.) "Did not Solomon king of Israel sin by these things? yet among many nations was there a king like him, who was beloved of his God, and God made him king over all Israel: nevertheless even him did outlandish women cause to sin. Shall we then hearken unto you to do all this great evil, to transgress against our God in marrying strange wives?" From this we see that even as wise and strong a man as Solomon could not resist altogether the influence of his wives in drawing him from the right way: and Nehemiah seems to think that if he could not stand the pressure, and be true to his God, it is not worth while for common mortals like the rest of us try it. The same reason that caused the Heavenly Father to forbid such marriages exists to-day with as great force as ever. Men are just as liable to be led astray now as formerly, and wives have a much greater influence now than then; hence we may expect to find the same prohibition in the New Testament.

2. 2 Cor. vi: 14-18. "Be not unequally yoked with unbelievers: for what fellowship have righteousness and iniquity? or what communion hath light with darkness? And what concord hath Christ with Belial? or what portion hath a believer with an unbeliever? And what agreement hath a temple of God with idols? for we are a temple of the living God; even as God said, 'I will dwell in them, and walk in them; and I will be their God, and they shall be my people.' Wherefore 'come ye out from among them, and be ye separate,' saith the Lord, 'and touch no unclean thing; and I will receive you, and will be to you a father, and you shall be to me sons and daughters,' said the Lord Almighty."

The principal question concerning this passage is this: Does the unequal yoke here alluded to include marriage? This question it seems to me must be answered in the affirmative; for, in the first place, there is no union of partnership known on earth so close and complete as that of husband and wife; as the Lord expresses it, they are not twain, but one flesh; it seems evident that when the Lord forbids the believer to be unequally yoked with the unbeliever, he includes this firmest, strongest, closest of unions. In the second place, the reasons which the apostle gives for avoiding this unequal yoke are especially applicable to matrimony. "What fellowship have righteousness and iniquity?" he inquires. Now the Christian dwells in righteousness, is clothed with righteousness of Christ, and desires from the heart to do right in all things; whereas the sinner dwells in iniquity and chooses not to do right. "What communion hath light with darkness?" The Christian walks in the light, the sinner in darkness. "What concord hath Christ with Belial?" The Christian is a follower of Christ, the sinner a son of Belial, a follower of Satan; what concord can there be between them? "What agreement hath a temple of God with idols?" The Christian is a temple of God; God dwells in him by his Spirit; whereas the spirit of the devil rules in the heart of the sinner. Moved by these considerations the apostle exhorts God's people to come out from among them, and to be separate. Certainly all yoking together of saints and sinners is here forbidden as being unequal. The Lord said unto the Jews, (Deut. xxii: 9-11) "Thou shalt not sow thy vineyard with divers seeds: lest the fruit of thy seed which thou hast sown, and the fruit of thy vineyard be defiled. Thou shalt not plow with an ox and an ass together." Does the Lord in these cases care for the seed, and oxen, and asses, and garments, or does he speak thus for our sakes? For our sakes, no doubt; it would seem far more appropriate to yoke together the ox and ass for plowing, than to unite the servant of the Lord and the servant of the devil for a journey together through life.

3. 1 Cor. ix: 5. "Have we no right to lead about a wife that is a believer (Greek, sister,) even as the rest of the apostles, and the brethren of the Lord, and Cephas?" The apostle Paul in this passage clearly intimates that he has the right to marry—to lead about a wife that is a sister, a believer; but his form of statement also clearly shows that he does not have the right to unite himself in marriage to one who is not a sister. By the way, this passage settles the force of the word believer; the believer is a sister—a member of the church. Now if Paul had not the right to marry without, what right have any of us to do so?

4. 1 Cor. vii: xxxix. "A wife is bound for so long a time as her husband liveth; but if her husband be dead, she is free to be married to whom she will; only in the Lord." This passage settles the question so far as widows are concerned: they can marry lawfully only in the Lord. Now I can conceive of no reason why a widow should marry in the Lord that does not apply with equal force to all believers. We see by comparing this verse with those considered before it, that it is but a special application of a general law. The Bible both in the Old and New Testament teaches that the believer shall be united in marriage with the believer—that he shall not join himself to the unbeliever; hence when Paul tells the widow that she can marry whom she will, he hastens to modify his statement by adding, "only in the Lord."

How much unhappiness has come from neglecting the rule! Many Christians have never had their attention called to this subject, and have violated the rule without being conscious of guilt in so doing. That is bad enough. But it is very much worse to know the truth, to be convinced of the sinfulness of such a course, and then go in the wrong way. Those who do it need not expect God's blessings.

END OF KENTUCKY DEPARTMENT.

TEXAS WORK AND WORKERS—Continued.

Dear Bro. Poe: On my way from Woodville here, I preached in the forks of the river in Nacogdoches County, six discourses to a very much interested audience, and had three additions. One old Baptist brother eighty-one years old, and his lady, over sixty years, united with us, rejoicing with us in the new light of the gospel, one by baptism, and also baptized Bro. Grimes' wife who made the good confession during a meeting Bro. D. A. Leak held there last month. Bro. Leak is doing a good work in this section. I promised to hold them another meeting this summer, as several more are almost persuaded to become Christians. From there I came by Cherino; the brethren there are very anxious to have preaching, but I could not stop, as Bro. Leak had sent several appointments ahead for me to fill. Spent a pleasant night with Dr. Leak, at Melrose, the father of our young brother. From there I came to the Crawford school-house; preached three discourses, and preached three nights at the Richardson school-house. The brethren say I made quite a good impression, and several almost convinced; promised to hold them a meeting the fifth Lord's day in June. I commence a meeting here to-night; we have but few brethren here; with the help of God I hope to revive the work here. May the blessing of our heavenly Father rest upon all the faithful.—[John F. Brill, Mount Enterprise, Rusk County, Texas, April 18, 1884.]

Bro. Brill is doing good in visiting these East Texas churches, and we hope the brethren will not forget that the laborer is worthy of his hire. Support him as liberally as possible, brethren. He is also authorized to take money and subscribers for the ADVOCATE.

ITEMS, PERSONALS, ETC.

Bro. T. E. Scott, Yorkville, Tenn., writes: "Bro. R. W. Locke died at his home in Newbern, this morning. An obituary will soon appear. You remember him as one of the ADVOCATE's best friends."

Bro. Rufus Green, of Trousdale, Co., writes: "I will hold a few days meeting at Gamaliel, Monroe County, Ky., beginning at 4 p. m. Saturday before the fourth Lord's day in this month. Will send you some more subscribers soon."

J. D. Floyd, Flat Creek, Tenn., writes: "At my regular appointment at Fosterville, last Sunday, five persons took membership in the congregation. I preached at Murfreesboro at night; one confession—a young lady of Bro. Scobey's school."

Married, at the residence of the bride's mother, near Tally's Station, Tenn., April 29, by B. F. Hart, Mr. Anthony Foster to Miss Mattie E. Darnell. The happy couple are both devoted members of the church of Christ, and have the best wishes of the entire community.

Bro. T. E. Tatum, of Lebanon, is evangelizing a portion of his time, and proposes soon to spend all of his time in the work. We trust the brethren will give him all proper encouragement in the work. We heard good reports of his labor last year. Bro. Tatum is authorized to act as agent for the ADVOCATE wherever he may go.

Bro. H. L. Walling, of McMinnville, Tenn., writes: "P. G. Potter, of Dibrell, preached for us Lord's day, May 4th; subject, 'The Lord has given us different talents, and requires a diligent use of every talent.' A good interest manifested. J. D. Smith, of this place, preached at New Smyrna. Subject: 'Be always ready to give a reason of the hope.' A lively interest all round."

P. W. Harsh, Castalian Springs, Tenn., writes: "At my regular appointment at Bethlehem, Wilson county, one was baptized. Preached on Saturday night before at Salem, a school-house. The house would not seat the people. Many of them seemed anxious to hear. Preached on Sunday night in another school-house, at Flat Rock, Smith county, to a good congregation. Much good can be done in this way."

Bro. W. L. Butler, of the Apostolic Church, spent a couple of days in the city the past week. We had a couple of interesting conversations concerning the church of Christ, and the dangers that now threaten it. We found Bro. Butler an earnest, conscientious, Christian man. He had been holding a meeting in Gallatin, of about ten days continuance; seven were added to the Lord. Bro. Butler reports the Apostolic Church doing well.

T. C. Little writes: "It was my pleasure to speak for the church at Shelbyville, Tenn., on the fourth Lord's day in April, morning and evening. It is indeed gratifying to see such an improvement in the church in this place. Several as good brethren as the church has, have located at Shelbyville, and are letting their light shine. Those who have been 'holding the fort' there so long, should be encouraged to see such a bright future before them. Only 'lay aside every weight' and run with patience."

A debate will be held, if the Lord wills, at Sulphur, Henry county, Kentucky, beginning June 2, 1884, between Robert Hiner, D. D., of the Methodist church, and J. A. Harding, a disciple of Christ. Two propositions are to be discussed, viz.: (1) Infant baptism is authorized by the word of God. (2) Christian baptism is immersion. (In it there must be a burial in water.) Two days and a half will be devoted to each proposition. Sulphur is about thirty-five miles from Louisville, and seventy-five from Cincinnati, on the L. C. & L. R. R.

L. R. Sewell, Donelson, Tenn., writes: "I am employed by the church at this place for one fourth of my time, which I spend in evangelizing in the surrounding country. I preached on last Saturday night at Leek-Page school-house; had good audience; one made the confession, and was baptized at Franklin College on Lord's day at 4 p. m. I preached on Lord's day at 11 a. m., at Pennington's school-house, in Pennington's Bend; good audience and interest. At 7:30 p. m., preached at McWhitersville to an attentive audience. All things encouraging in this field."

Bro. Harwell from Lester's Station, Tenn., who made an appeal for help in the way of preaching some time since, at Zion's Rest, desires to give the thanks of the congregation there, for help they have received in the way of preaching from Bro. Northcross and Smith, of Minor Hill. Bro. Northcross is a good speaker, understands the Scripture, and teaches it well. Bro. Smith is a young man of fine promise, just beginning to preach. The brethren and people were well pleased with both. They thank, too, other brethren for the help offered them, and the kind interest manifested in their welfare.

Bro. W. H. Dixon writes: "The Lewisburg church is supporting me one fourth of my time in sounding out the gospel; will see that I get as much in this way as I would get were I to visit them. They will be liberal too. I am spending this time in sowing the good seed of the kingdom at a school-house near Bro. N. McQuiddy's. I preached there last Saturday night, Lord's day and night, to good audiences; good attention and interest increasing; no addition. Bro. J. C. McQuiddy was with me, and filled an appointment for me at Verona, in the evening, Lord's day. Bro. Clayton says he will start out soon upon a tour in the field as an evangelist. He can do good work."

Bro. T. J. Shaw, of Lynchburg, Tenn., writes: "I visited the church at Chestnut Ridge, in Lincoln County, embracing the first Lord's day in May. I preached for them three discourses while there. I had a very large assembly to preach to, and the people listened like they were anxious to know the truth; the brethren there have a good house to worship in. I also preached at New Hermon on my way. I gained one subscriber to the GOSPEL ADVOCATE; I will send the name and money soon. I preach regularly at Lynchburg on the fourth Lord's day in each month. I have no other regular appointment as yet for this year. Churches that wish me to preach for them can write to me at Lynchburg, Tenn. As I have a little more space on my card, I will also state that I preached two discourses at Bethlehem, four miles from Murfreesboro, the third Lord's day in April."

W. N. Moore, Tullahoma, Tenn., writes: "The congregation at this place seems to be getting along harmoniously, everything in good working order—meeting regularly the first day of every week. On two Sundays in the month, we add preaching to the service. Prayer meeting every Thursday night, and since the weather is more pleasant, the attendance is very good. We have several brethren who are willing, and do take right hold of the work. And the sisters, who are even more devoted, if possible, than the brethren, fill their seats promptly; adding much to the meetings by their presence and earnest song. Our Sunday-school is large and interesting. We are now preparing to do some mission work, having a committee appointed to look up the children of our town, such as hardly know the difference between Sunday and any other day, only as a kind of holiday, and induce them to come out to Sunday-school. What an immense amount of good can be accomplished in this and many other directions, by the investment of just a little thought and labor, with a dollar when needed. The brethren are looking forward with interest to the meeting of Bro. E. G. Sewell, which will embrace the fourth Lord's day in June."

J. Harding writes: "Seven members have been added to 25 Portland Avenue congregation, Louisville, Ky., since my last writing to you. The brethren are making an earnest effort to raise means to erect a larger house of worship on the front of their lot, fronting on the Avenue. They want to build a house 48x70 feet, of brick. They have raised about $1,700 among themselves, and will have to get some help from the brethren, if they raise the $3,500. I think they can raise the money among the brethren in Louisville and elsewhere. This congregation numbers over two hundred, but they are poor, many of them, but rich in faith and zealous in good works. I must mention that last Thursday evening there was quite a crowd of the members of the church called on me and my family, and each of them brought something that is calculated to sustain life. The brethren have been very kind to me and mine. This is the second time they have surprised me with a lot of presents. They know how to treat a poor preacher that has a big family. Bro. Metcalfe, of Hopkinsville, Ky., was with us last Lord's day, and preached for us a most excellent discourse. The brethren here fell in love with Bro. Metcalfe. May the blessing of God attend him wherever he goes. I have agreed to evangelize in this city for four months more. I will commence a protracted meeting with the Central church on the corner of Second and Kentucky Streets, in their new house, about the third Lord's day in this month. This is a big city and there are many souls that never heard the gospel preached. Pray for us. My address is 3307 Bank Street, Louisville, Ky."

A. CAMPBELL AND THE SOCIETY.

"What we did say was this: 'As early as 1849 Alexander Campbell was president of a missionary society, which, by the way, was the first society of the kind ever organized by the disciples.' We think we distinctly admitted that Mr. Campbell was on the other side of this question in earlier life. He was on the wrong side of several questions when he was a young man, but he soon learned better. As early as 1849 he saw that the ADVOCATE's position was all wrong on the missionary question."—Old Path Guide.

Did Mr. Campbell ever tell that he had learned better on this subject, than his first position? If so, when and where? Did he make this radical change in his convictions, and fail to give his reasons therefor? Did he ever write or speak a word setting forth his change in views, and the reasons therefor? Did he make the change without giving his reasons? We can find plenty of argument from his pen against them. Can any man show a word of argument in their behalf? If not, why not? As early as 1849 Mr. Campbell found the ADVOCATE was wrong. Pray tell how early in Mr. Campbell's career this was. Mr. Campbell was born in 1788; hence was sixty-one years old in 1849. He began to preach in 1812; hence had been a preacher thirty-seven years. He began to edit a paper in 1823; hence had been on editor twenty-seven years—longer than any editor now among disciples has been at the work. What is the significance then of the expression he discovered his error so early as 1849? Is it not misleading?

The truth is, A. Campbell failed in his mental and will power early in life. His later years were years of a second childhood. In 1847 he made his last trip to Great Britain, and underwent the cruel imprisonment, and on his way home heard of the death by drowning of his favorite son. It is said he was never himself in strength of mind, body or will after this period. He was credulous, trusting, and was mainly controlled by his friends. It was two years after this that he is reported as "so early learning the ADVOCATE" was wrong.

Nor was this the earliest society organized; one had been in existence in Kentucky previous to this. In Tennessee one had existed as early as '47. We think others in other States.

If A. Campbell ever wrote a word indicating a change, we have no recollection of ever seeing it. He showed a distrust of them to the end. But when his mental and will force was abated, he was flattered and used by his friends, and made to countenance what he had labored to destroy. The character of flattery that was used may be seen in the letter addressed to him seeking the transfer of the hymn book to the society.

We have been told he was kept as a nominal president of the society, when he was wholly incapable of understanding what was going on, and attending to the duties of the position. Does any one believe that A. Campbell ever changed his convictions after so opposing the societies without giving his reasons for it? If so, he has a much lower estimate of A. Campbell than I have. We think the use that was made of Campbell by those claiming to be his friends, in his old age, and that is now made of this use of him, is unjust and cruel to his character and his teaching. Will the Guide give this and correct anything that may be wrong in it

D. L.

Home Reading.

LITTLE DUTCH GRETCHEN.

Little Dutch Gretchen came over the sea,
With an aunt in place of her mother;
"As like," so little Dutch Gretchen told me,
"As like as one pea to another."

Little Dutch Grethren fell sick on the way,
A-sailing upon the dark water;
The captain came down to the cabin each day,
And called her his patient Dutch daughter.

Little Dutch Gretchen took pretzels and beer,
Hoping she soon would be better;
And at last when the end of the journey was near,
Dutch Gretchen sent homeward a letter.

"I'm better," Dutch Gretchen wrote first on the page,
"And my aunt is as kind as my mother;
But never a prison bird, shut in a cage,
Longed more to give one for the other."

"There's a look, and a tone, and a tenderer way,
A bosom more gentle to lie on,
And mother, a love that will never grow gray,
And a heart that is blessed to die on."

"So, mother, I've said to the captain to-night,
"To Bremen I sail back most gladly,"
To tell you, if changing one's mother is right,
It's a trade that will cheat a child sadly."

And little Dutch Gretchen went home o'er the sea,
And gave back her aunt for her mother;
"For they're not all the same," said Dutch Gretchen to me,
"Though as like as one pea to another."

—New Jerusalem Messenger.

WORK FOR HANDS.

Here is a card to work by to-morrow."

This was what Gertie's cousin Harry said as he held open the gate for her to pass in. They had been to a Young People's meeting, and both had taken part in that meeting, and had promised to try to do something for Jesus the next day.

Gertie said "Thank you," and seized on the card thankfully. Harry was but three years older than herself, but he always had such nice thoughts and helped her so much.

This was what the card said. It had a picture of two hands clasped as if in prayer, and printed on them the words:

Take my hands and let them move
At the impulse of thy love.

"How lovely!" said Gertie, and she thought about them much that evening; and her card was almost her first morning thought.

"I mean to try," she said "I mean to work for Jesus all this day, with my hands. There are nice things to do. I have that invitation card to carry around, asking the people to come to the meeting to-morrow; that is work for Jesus, and this afternoon in the Mission Band, and we sew for the children in Alaska, that is work for Jesus; and I can print that hymn for papa with my stencils—more work for Jesus. How queer that almost everything I have to do to-day is to be done with my hands.

She went down to breakfast, happy. Not forgetting to read her verse for the day, and to ask Jesus to bless her, and keep her moving at the "impulse of his love."

Let me tell you something that seemed to her very strange. She did not do a single thing that she had planned that day. To begin with, the second girl was sick and she had to help with the dishes, and then to pare the potatoes for dinner, and then to dust the parlor, and in the afternoon when she was getting ready for her Mission Band, her mother called: "Gertie dear, I am sorry, but I find you will have to stay with little Ned this afternoon; Mrs. Barnes is not so well and they have sent for me." Gertie answered not a word, but turned slowly away and began to take off her new blue dress. In her heart, she wondered why aunt Mary could not take care of little Ned, just once; but being a girl who really wanted to do right, even if her own plans were spoiled, she came down stairs in a short time, and in every day dress and a pleasant face, and gave herself up to little Ned.

Now little Ned had ideas of his own, and had not learned to give up any of them. All that afternoon he kept her busy. His ugly boy-doll had to be dressed in a green suit, and a red suit, and a sailor suit. His wooden horse had to have a leg mended with glue, and then have his picture drawn on a slate, by Gertie's patient fingers. The last bright thought was to build a wall of Gertie's doubled-up fist, then his own clumsy one, then another of Gertie's, and each one to pull out one in turn, clapping it back again, of course, making a tumbling ruin built up all the time by magic.

This was fun, and little Ned shouted, and commanded, and was happy. Gertie, patiently putting back the hands and pulling them out again, thought sorrowfully of her card:

Take my hands and let them move
At the impulse of thy will.

She had asked God to take her hands that day, and then had no time to work for him. It was rather hard, but she could not help it, and must wait for another day and try again. So when Ned was wearied of the hand play, she dragged the little girl-doll towards her, and dressed her in purple and gold, for a queen, and kept the baby good and happy until the shadows began to fall, and the mother came home.

That evening as she sat in the back parlor studying her Sabbath-school lesson for the morrow, she heard something which astonished her. "That child," said aunt Mary, "has just amazed me all day. I never believed very strongly in the religion of young people; but hers evidently means something. She was telling me this morning of her plans, and they have just been upset all day long. That little Ned kept her tongue and hands busy all the afternoon, and her tongue was kind, and her hands patient the whole time. She wanted to go to the Mission Band, too, but she was perfectly good natured. She actually made me ashamed of myself; I wanted to read Roe's last book, but I finally put it away and finished that dress for the box to Alaska that I promised months ago; I didn't think I should ever finish it, but thanks to Gertie, I have. Is she always as unselfish and patient as this?"

"Why," said Gertie's mother, with a sound in her voice that made Gertie know that she was pleased, "Gertie gave herself heartily to Jesus, I think, a year ago, and her hands seem always ready to work for him. I think she understands that when they keep little Ned busy and happy, they are working for Jesus as well as when they are sewing for the mission box."

But mother was mistaken. Gertie had not known any such thing, and she looked down at her hands with a sort of awe. Had they really been at work for Jesus that afternoon, after all? —Pansy.

ONE STORMY DAY.

"Can't you amuse those children, some way, Mary?" asked grandma, with a troubled face.

You see there were the little Faxons—three of them, and four little Gurneys, and two little Dales! all at Granpa Trimmer's house for a day's visit; and here it was snowing as if it never meant to stop.

Aunt May, who was only sixteen herself, gave the faintest little sigh as she shut her book, but she gave a smile with the sigh. The children all loved her very much indeed, she was such a dear auntie.

"Let's pop some corn and make some candy," said she. "How will that do?"

"It'll do splendid," said Teddy Faxon. "When I get married, Aunt May, I'm going to have you to my house all the time."

"I are, too," said Johnny Dale; "both of we are." Aunt May laughed merrily. "And we'll make candy every day," said she, "just as we're going to, now."

Aunt May always made the nicest candy. There was sugar in it; and molasses, and a piece of butter, and a spoonful of vinegar.

It didn't take her forever to make it, either. Almost before the children knew it, the candy was turned into the big platter and set away to cool.

Then they helped make just nine little tissue-paper bags, which Aunt May filled with pop corn pretty soon.

"I'm going to keep a store," said she.

She put on a tall paper cap and grandma's glasses; and you can't think how funny she looked.

Then she cut out forty-five little square pieces of paper and marked a big "5" on every one of them. What sport it was?

"This is money," said Aunt May; "twenty-five dollars apiece for you."

She worked the candy into thirty-six splendid big sticks, yellow and sweet and brittle.

"Five dollars apiece," said she; "and five dollars for a bag of pop-corn. Now, I'm ready."

And I suppose you know it didn't take her a great while to close out that stock—it couldn't, you know.

"You're the splendidest auntie," said Gertie Dale; and I think so myself.—Youth's Companion.

FOR THE CHILDREN.

BY UNCLE MINOR.

I have been thinking for sometime, instead of writing rambling notes all the time, I would occasionally tell the children some short Bible stories, which would induce them to take more interest in reading the blessed Bible. So I will commence by telling you first about "The Holy child, Jesus."

He was born in Bethlehem, a little village in the country called Judea. The night he was born there were shepherds in the country watching their flocks. Suddenly a great light shone around them, and an angel talked to them, and told them that a king was born in Bethlehem, and a great number of angels commenced, and sang a new song, "Glory to God in the highest;" chorus, "Peace on earth and good will to men." The shepherds then went to the place where the little babe was lying in a manger, or stable, where oxen were fed, where they found him as they were told. One reason why Jesus was born in such a place, was that the hotels and inns were crowded with people, and possibly Joseph and Mary were poor, and they had no other place to stay—Far off in an eastern land there were men who had studied the stars for many years, and they knew so much more than the people around them they were called wise men. They saw a strange star. They no doubt wondered what it meant, and after consulting, no doubt, started out to find out more about it. When the star went before them, they followed on, and after traveling a long distance the star stopped over the house or place where the young child and his mother was. They were convinced by this strange guiding star, as well as what the people told them about the angel song, that this must be a king. So they worshiped him, and made him presents of gold, precious stones, and sweet spices.

It was the custom then when any one visited kings to carry them presents. They did not know he was king of heaven and earth; that he would live here only a little while, and then go back to his throne again. Ever since that time loving friends and parents have bought presents, one day in each year, to their good little children, in memory of the babe in the manger. There is a sweet story told, that on the same day every year the same One comes back and looks into the face of every little child, sleeping in its cradle, whether rich or poor, to bless it. This is not all the truth. The same One now comes every day and night, and looks not only into the face, but also into the heart of every child on earth. He is so loving and kind that those who know him have, like the wise men, given him their best and richest gifts—their hearts. Every good thing which makes you glad and happy comes from him. He loves you more than your father, or mother, or any other friend. All he asks of you is to love and obey him.

LETTERS TO UNCLE MINOR.

Dear Uncle Minor: I was ten years old the 15th of last September, and weigh seventy pounds. I live near Fosterville, Anderson County, Texas. I attend preaching at Fosterville, Hopewell and Union. My father is a Christian preacher; he preached at Fosterville to-day, and there were two additions. I suppose I have written enough for the first.—[Gus. Sweeney, April 20, 1884.]

Dear Uncle Minor: Though I have never written to you, I claim to be your niece. Dear Uncle, I am not a Christian yet; I am nine years old, and I love to go to church. We have preaching every month. Bro. Curtis sometimes, my papa sometimes. Bro. York will preach next. Eddy, grandpa and grandma are coming to-morrow.—[Girty Goodwin, Athens, Ala.]

I know a boy who says, "Don't want," when he means "I don't want to;" "Whajer say?" when he means "What did you say?" and "Where de go?" instead of "Where did he go?" Sometimes you hear "Ficood," instead of "If I could;" "Wilfercan," instead of "I will if I can;" and "Howjerknow?" for "How do you know?" Don't you think such talk might be improved?

There is nothing so minute or inconsiderable but I would not rather know it than not.

A Prominent Minister Writes.

Dr. Mosley—Dear Sir: After ten years of great suffering from indigestion or dyspepsia, with great nervous prostration and biliousness, disordered kidneys and constipation. I have been cured by four bottles of your Lemon Elixir, and am now a well man.

REV. C. C. DAVIS, Elder M. E. Church South.
No. 28 Tattail St. Atlanta, Ga.

From Two Prominent Ladies.

I have not been able in two years to walk or stand without suffering great pain. Since taking Dr. Mosley's Lemon Elixir, I can walk half mile without suffering the least inconvenience.

Mrs. R. H. BLOODWORTH, Griffin, Ga.

Dr. H. Mosley: After years of suffering from indigestion, great debility and nervous prostration, with the usual female irregularities and derangements accompanying such condition of a woman's health I have been permanently relieved by the use of your Lemon Elixir.

MRS. E. DENNIS,
Mo. 46 Chapel St., Atlanta, Ga.

A. Pratt, druggist, Wright City, Missouri, writes: Lemon Elixir gives the greatest satisfaction. It has cured a case of chills and fever of four years standing.

Dr. Mosley's Lemon Elixir, prepared at his Drug Store, 114 Whitehall Street, Atlanta, Ga.

It cures all biliousness, constipation, indigestion, headache, malarial, kidney disease, fever, chills, impurities of the blood, loss of appetite, debility and nervous prostration and all other diseases caused from diseased Liver and Kidneys.

Fifty cents for one pint bottle, one dollar for pint and a half bottle. Sold by druggist generally, and all wholesale druggist, Louisville, Ky.

Miscellaneous.

Young men, and middle aged ones, suffering from nervous debility and kindred weakness, send three stamps for part VII of Dime Series Books. Address World's Dispensary Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. KLINE's Great Nerve Restorer is the marvel of the age for all Nerve Diseases. All fits stopped free. Send to 931 Arch Street, Philada, Pa.

Eminent J. J. Caldwell, Baltimore, Md.,

States: "I have used Coldens Liquid Beef Tonic largely in debility, febrile and nervous diseases, and I have found it one of the most reliable of nutritive tonics now in use or to be found in pharmacy." (Take no other.) Of druggists.

"Became Sound and Well."

R. V. Pierce, M. D.: Dear Sir—My wife, who had been ill for over two years, and had tried many other medicines, became sound and well by using your "Favorite Prescription." My niece was also cured by its use, after several physicians had failed to do her any good. Yours truly, Thomas J. Methvin, Hatcher's Station, Ga, March 27, 1876.

For sufferers of Chronic Diseases, 36 pp, symptoms, remedies, helps, advice. Send stamp—Dr. Whittier, St. Louis, Mo., (oldest office.) State case your way.

Catarrh Cured.

A Clergyman, after suffering a number of years from that dreadful disease Catarrh, and after trying every known remedy without success, at last found a prescription which completely cured and saved him from death. Any sufferer from this dreadful disease sending a self-addressed stamped envelope to Dr. J. A. LAWRENCE, Brooklyn, N. Y. will receive the recipe free of charge.

Hemorrhage and Asthma.

Extracts from letters of persons who were cured with East India Hemp, and now order for their friends.

"I know all about the Cannabis Indica. Fifteen years ago it cured my daughter of the Asthma; she had it very bad for several years, but was perfectly cured. Please send me a box of your medicine." JACOB TROUT, Deep River, Poweshick Co., Iowa.

"I fear Cousin is in a decline, and as my medicines cured my only brother of a hemorrhage of the lungs about a year ago, I wish Cousin to take them." Thy true friend, HANNAH MICKLE, Near Woodbury, N. J.

None but pint bottles. $2.50 per bottle, or three bottles for $6.50. Address, CRADDOCK & CO., Sole Proprietors, 1032 Race Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Sick and bilious headache, and all derangements of stomach and bowels, cured by Dr. Pierce's "Pell-lets"—or anti-bilious granules. 25 cents a vial. No cheap boxes to allow waste of virtues. By druggists.

"You can easily make your skin white and soft." "How?" "Use Glenn's Sulphur Soap."

Pike's Toothache Drops cure in one minute.

SANITARIUM, Riverside, Cal. The dry climate cures. Nose, Throat, Lungs, full idea, 36p, route, cost free.

LADIES! ONLY.

For 25 cents we will send you a three months subscription to our large 16 page Illustrated Household and Fashion Magazine, and present each new subscriber 25 large samples of beautiful silks, assorted colors, for crazy patchwork. For 50c. we will send the Magazine six months, and give you free a large package, assorted silks, for which other firms charge one dollar. For $1.00 dollar we will send the Magazine one year and give you two large packages and our new book. The Ladies Guide to Fancy Work. If you will get up a club of five or either 8, 6, or 12 month subscribers, we will send you for your trouble a subscription and premium free. Mention this paper when you write. M. J. STODDART & CO., 126 Chambers St., N. Y.

AN INSTANTANEOUS SUCCESS!*THE CHRISTIAN SUNDAY SCHOOL HYMNAL*STYLES AND PRICES.

Boards, single copy, by mail.....	30
" per dozen, by express.....	2 00
" per hundred.....	20 00
Stk cloth, red edge, single copy.....	40
" per dozen, by express.....	4 00
" per hundred.....	30 00
Morocco, red edge, single copy.....	1 50
" gilt edge.....	2 00
" full gilt.....	3 00

WORD EDITION.

Boards, single copy, by mail.....	15
" per dozen, by express.....	1 50
" per hundred.....	10 00
Cloth, red edges, single copy, by mail.....	20
" per dozen, by express.....	2 00

All books sold at the dozen or hundred price will be sent by express at expense of purchaser. We send by mail prepaid at single copy price. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address

CHRISTIAN PUBLISHING CO.,
St. Louis, Mo.

Sabbath Day*FOR SUNDAY SCHOOLS*SOCIAL MEETINGS, ETC.*LATEST SONG BOOK OUT.

What people say of it:
"Unusually bright in stirring and joyful songs."
"A very superior book." "A grand work."
"Its songs are golden." "Never examined a better book."
"The quality of songs, together with its new and convenient arrangements, make it a most desirable work."
"An examination proves its superior merit."
"It speaks for itself." All we ask of Sunday Schools needing new song books, is to send for a sample copy before adopting any other. Single copy 35c., or $3.00 per doz. Sample copy to any address, 25 cents. Printed both in round and character notes.
FIRESIDE FRIEND PUBLISHING CO., Springfield, Ohio.

BARNES'

Patent Foot and Steam Power Machinery. Complete outfits for Actual Work-shop Business. Lathes for Wood or Metal. Circular Saws, Scroll Saws, Formers, Mortisers, Tenoners, etc., etc. Machines on trial desired. Descriptive Catalogue and Price List Free. W. F. & JOHN BARNES, No. 159 1/2 Ruby Street, Rockford, Ill.

"THE BEST IS CHEAPEST." ENGINES, THRESHERS SAW-MILLS, Horse Powers, Clover Haulers. (Suited to all sections.) Write for FREE Illus. Pamphlet and Prices to The Autman & Taylor Co., Mansfield, Ohio.

SEEDS

Our new catalogue, best published, Free to all. 1,500 varieties, 300 illustrations. You ought to have it. BENSON, MAULE & CO., Philadelphia, Pa.

AGENTS EITHER SEX. we have the newest, best and fastest selling articles out. No capital required. Goods paid for after sold. EMPIRE CO., 34 Canal St., N. Y.

The GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER

Dr. Samuel Hodges' Alternative Compound Sarsaparilla with Iodide Potash. This compound is purely vegetable, each article of ingredient is perfectly harmless in itself, having been selected from roots and herbs possessing great medicinal properties, when combined forms a most powerful, efficient, and pleasant medicine for the removal and permanent cure of ALL diseases, arising from an impure state of system, viz.:

Rheumatism, Scrofula or King's evil, Scald-head or Tetter, Chronic Sore Eyes, Old or Chronic Sores of all kinds, Bolls, Pimples, Syphilitic Rheumatism, Primary and Secondary Syphilis, Nervous Debility, Liver Complaints, Inflammation of the Kidneys and Bladder, renovates and invigorates the system; acts gently on the bowels. As an appetizer and for general debility, it is a most excellent remedy.

CAMPBELL BROS., Druggists, Sole Manufacturers.

For Sale by all druggist. Price $1.00 per bottle, or 6 for $5.00. Liberal discount to the trade.

ALSO MANUFACTURERS OF

ETHIOPIAN PILE OINTMENT

A never failing remedy for External, internal or Itching Piles. Ask your Druggist for it. None genuine without the Trade Mark. Price $1.00 per Bottle.

TESTIMONIAL.

This is to certify that I was afflicted with Piles for twenty years. I tried every Remedy offered me. Finally used the Ethiopian Pile Ointment, and found it the very best preparation I ever used. It will give almost immediate relief and will finally effect a permanent cure.

Ed. A. IRELAND

Formerly of Gallatin, now of Breen, Phillips & Co., Nashville, Tennessee.

CAMPBELL BROS., Druggists,
or Broad and Summer Sts.,
NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE.

F. H. STICKLEY. MRS. C. W. LEWIS.

STICKLEY & LEWIS,

Having moved to our elegant store-room,
NO. 34 NORTH SUMMER STREET,

We will carry a large stock of fine Millinery and Fancy Goods, the light-running New Home Sewing Machines, Needles, Oil and Attachments for all machines. Fine imported German Canary Birds, good singers, $3 each. Bird Cages, Food and Tonic always on hand. Mrs. Lewis is also prepared to do Fashionable Dress Making, Dying Plumes, Cleaning Gloves and Stamping. Old Machines of any kind repaired or taken in part pay for the New Home.

CARPETS! CARPETS!

FROM

New York Bankrupt Sales.

MANLOVE & CO.,

26 and 28 N. Summer Street,

Are now in receipt of an immense stock, recently bought at prices lower than ever before. Now is the time to buy Good Carpets cheap, and guaranteed to be as cheap as any Eastern market.

MANLOVE & CO.,

26 and 28 N. Summer Street,

NASHVILLE, TENN.

$66 a week in your own town. Terms and $5 outfit free. Address M. HALL & Co., Portland, Me.

$72 A WEEK, $12 a day at home easily made. Costly outfit free. Address TRUM & Co., Augusta, Me.

WARNER BROTHERS

CORALINE

NURSING

HEALTH

CORSETS

WARRANTED

4800 MINAL

FLEXIBLE

HIP

These Corsets are recognized in Europe and America as the standard of style, workmanship and general excellence. The Coraline with which they are boned is superior to whalebone in both durability and comfort. Price, from $1 up.

FOR SALE BY ALL LEADING MERCHANTS.
Avoid all imitations. Be sure that our name is on the box.

WARNER BROS.,
353 BROADWAY. NEW YORK

New Musical Publications.

- American College Song Book ..... $2 00
Cloth. Songs contributed by fifty Colleges.
- "Gillette." Opera by Audran, composer of Olivette and Mascot ..... 1 00
- Kalliwoda's Mass, in A Major ..... 1 00
- Reisiger's Fourth Mass, in E ..... 80
Two first class masses.
- Spanish Mandoline Method. Winner... 75
The Mandoline is much like a guitar.
- Memorial Day Songs and Hymns ..... 25
Eighteen appropriate songs and hymns.
- Out of the Depths: 180th Psalm ..... 30
E. I. Darling. Nine good Q. quartets, Choruses, etc.
- Student's History of Music. Cloth.
F. L. Ritter. A most valuable book for music
students ..... 2 50
- Strakosamer's Church Music. (Quartet and Octet Chorus.) 170 pages. 28 of the very best Quartets ..... 1 00
- Social Pastime. (For Violin and Piano)
Winner. 62 popular airs of the day ..... 2 00
- The Soprano. (A Musical Story.) Cloth.
Jane Kingsford. A fascinating musical novel ..... 1 00

Mailed for Retail Prices.

OLIVER DITSON & CO., Boston.
C. H. DITSON & CO. J. E. DITSON & CO.
357 Broadway N. Y. 1228 Chestnut St., Phila.

SAMARITAN
NEVER FAILS.

THE GREAT
NERVE

CONQUEROR

A SPECIFIC FOR
Epilepsy,
Spasms, Convul-
sions, Falling
Sickness, St. Vitus
Dance, Alcoholism, Opium Eating, Syphilis,
Scrofula, Kings
Evil, Ugly Blood
Diseases, Dyspepsia, Nervousness,
Sick Headache,
Rheumatism,
Nervous Weakness, Brain Worry, Blood Sores,
Biliousness, Costiveness, Nervous Prostration,
Kidney Troubles and Irregularities. $1.50.

Sample Testimonials.
"Samaritan Nerveine is doing wonders."
Dr. J. O. McLemoin, Alexander City, Ala.
"I feel it my duty to recommend it."
Dr. D. F. Laughlin, Clyde, Kansas.
"It cured where physicians failed."
Rev. J. A. Edie, Beaver, Pa.

Correspondence freely answered. For testimonials and circulars send stamp.
The Dr. S. A. Richmond Med. Co., St. Joseph, Mo.
Sold by all Druggists. (17)

'Lord, Stotenburgh & Co., Ag'ts, Chicago, Ill.'

STEM WINDING MUSICAL WATCH

Each Watch is finely made, silver plated and the greatest novelty ever offered to the boys and girls of America. It is a complete Musical Instrument, size and shape of a Watch, with Music Box attachment concealed within, so arranged that when wound at the stem, plays one of the following tunes:—"Home, Sweet Home," "Yankee Doodle," "Blue Bells of Scotland," "Coming Through the Rye," "Swanee River," "Carnival of Venice," "Grandfather's Clock," "Waltz, Polka, Schottische," and "Well, till the clouds Roll By." The notes, time, and tones are correct. It instructs and entertains both Old and young. On receipt of 50 Cents, will send it by mail, post-paid. Just think of it! A Music Box for 50 Cents. Postage Stamp taken. We will send you yours for only $1.00. You will be delighted with them. Address: A. E. PRATT & CO. No. 27 Park Place, New York.

IMPROVED METHOD OF STRINGING.

MASON & HAMLIN

IMPROVED

Upright Pianos.

Entire iron frames to which the strings are directly attached by metal fastenings, securing

1. Best quality of tone, which is very musical and reined; free from the tubbiness which is common.
2. Greater durability and freedom from liability to get out of order; adaptations to trying positions and climates.

3. Increased capacity to stand in tune; will not require tuning one-quarter as often as pianos on the old system.

Having tested this new system of construction for two years and proved its advantages, this Company are now increasing their manufacture of pianos, and offer them to the public generally. Every piano of their make will illustrate that supreme excellence which has always characterized their Organs, and won for them highest award at every great world's exhibition for sixteen years.

Illustrated and descriptive Catalogues of Pianos and Organs, free.

MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN AND PIANO CO., 154 Tremont St., Boston; 48 East 14th St., (Union Square), New York; 19 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

TO SUNDAY SCHOOL WORKERS.

PURE DELIGHT.

A New Sunday School Song Book.

By Geo. F. Root and C. C. Case.

Contains New and Bright Words; Easy and Inspiring Music; Pure and Elevated Sentiments.

One of the leading features of the book is a set of

BEAUTIFUL RESPONSIVE SERVICES

Especially prepared for it by Rev. W. H. Pearce and Lewis Miller, Esq.

192 pages, well printed and handsomely bound in boards. Price, $3.00, each by mail, post-paid; $2.50 a dozen by express, not prepaid. Specimen pages free.

Published by

JOHN CHURCH & CO.,
CINCINNATI, OHIO.

CHICAGO: ROOT & BONS MUSIC CO. NEW YORK: J. CHURCH & CO.
300 Wabash Ave. 5 Union Square.

For Sale by Booksellers and Music Dealers.

$5 to $20 per day at home. Samples worth $5 free. Address STINSON & Co., Portland, Me.

HARTER'S
THE ONLY TRUE
IRON TONIC

Will purify the BLOOD, regulate the LIVER and KIDNEYS, and RESTORE THE HEALTH and VIGOR of YOUTH. Dyspepsia, Want of Appetite, Indigestion, Lack of Strength, and Tired Feeling absolutely cured. Bones, muscles and nerves receive new force. Enlivens the mind and supplies Brain Power. Suffering from complaints peculiar to their sex will find in DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC a safe and speedy cure. Gives a clear, healthy complexion. Frequent attempts at counterfeiting only add to the popularity of the original. Do not experiment—get the ORIGINAL AND BEST.

(Send your address to The Dr. Harter Med. Co., St. Louis, Mo., for our "DREAM BOOK," full of strange and useful information, free.)

LADIES

PATENTS Hand-Book FREE.
R. S. & A. P. LACEY,
Patent Att'ys, Washington, D. C.

STEAM ENGINES Portable and Agricultural. Send for circulars.
Wood, Taber & Morse,
Eaton, N. Y.

CUT THIS OUT And Return to us, with TEN Cents, and you'll receive by mail, a Golden Box of Goods, that will bring you in more money in One Month than anything else in America. Absolute Certainty. M. Young, 113 Greenwich St., New York.

ACME Songs for the International Sunday School Lessons (Words and Music) adapted to each lesson in April, May, June, 32 pps., 40 songs, 5c., 25 for $1 (mailed), Free copy to Pastor or Supt. sending postage. J. C. O. REDINGTON, 267 Broadway, N. Y.

AGENTS Wanted for handsome illustrated standard works of character; great variety; low in price; selling fast; needed everywhere; liberal terms. Wm. Garretson & Co., 30 College St., Nashville, Tenn.

WANTED A WOMAN of sense and energy for our business in her locality, middle-aged preferred. Salary $35 to $50. References exchanged. GAY BROS. CO., 14 BARCLAY ST., NEW YORK.

BURRITT COLLEGE,

SPENCER, TENN.

THIS INSTITUTION, chartered in 1848, has now been favorably known for more than thirty years, for its discipline, both as regards education and government. Located on the Cumberland Plateau, it is free from epidemics. The water is pure freestone and chalybeate. The breezes of Summer are delightful and invigorating, and the gales of winter not too severe. The College buildings, recently enlarged by the Christian Brotherhood of Tennessee, are sufficiently commodious to accommodate a large class of young Ladies and Gentlemen. Spence is ten miles South-east of Manchester & McMinnville Railroad.

TERMS:

Tuition, Primary Dep't'm't, per S'n, $7 50
Preparatory " " 15 00
Collegiate, " " 20 00
Tuition, Commercial Dep't'm't per S'n, $20 00
Lessons instrumental Music from $15 to $20
" in Art Department from $5 to $10

Board and washing for males, per week, from $3.00 to $2.50; Fuel, light, and incidental expenses, per session, $10.00; Board (including washing, fuel, and light) for females, per week $3.00.

The Spring Session of 1884, begins on the Last Monday in February.

For further particulars address,

Prof. A. T. SEITZ, President,
Or W. H. SUTTON, Sec. Board Trustees.

FAMOUS and DECISIVE BATTLES OF THE WORLD.

By CAPT. KING, U.S.A. HISTORY FROM THE BATTLE-FIELD. Shows how Nations have been made or destroyed in a day.—How Fame or Disaster has turned on a single Contest. A Grand Book for Old and Young.—Saves Time, Aids the Memory.—Gives Pleasure and Instruction. Maps and Fine Illustrations. Agents Wanted Everywhere. Write at once for full description and terms. Address J. C. McCURDY & CO., Cincinnati, Ohio.

IMPORTANT REDUCTION IN THE PRICE OF

VASELINE

(PETROLEUM JELLY.)

CHEAP BOOTS AND SHOES!

We are now receiving our Spring Stock of Fine Custom-made Boots, Shoes, and Hats.

Our prices will be found reasonable. Give us a call.

Trunks at cost.

ALDRICH & HARRIS,

106 UNION ST., (bet. College and Market,) NASHVILLE TENN.

McSHANE BELL FOUNDRY.

Manufacture those celebrated Chimes and Bells for CHURCHES, ACADEMIES &c. Price-list and circulars sent free.

HENRY McSHANE & CO., Baltimore, Md.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY.
Bells of Pure Copper and Tin for Churches, Schools, Fire Alarms, Farms, etc. FULLY WARRANTED. Catalogue sent free.
VANDUZEN & TIFT, Cincinnati, O.

Baltimore Church Bells

Since 1844 celebrated for Superiority over others, are made only of Purest Bell Metal, (Copper and Tin.) Rotary Mountings, warranted satisfactory. For Prices, Circulars, &c., address BALTIMORE BELL FOUNDRY, J. REGENER & SONS, Baltimore, Md.

AGENTS Send for E. B. TREAT'S new books, including MOTHER, HOME, and HEAVEN, prose and poetry; by 400 best authors 145,000 sold. Elegantly ill., $2.75. Send $1 for outfit. Also 5000 Curiosities of the Bible, $1.75. By mail, E. B. TREAT, 757 Broadway, N. Y.

FOR the 7th edition "Life and Labors of C. H. Spurgeon," the greatest of the century, by Geo. C. Needham, the Evangelist. Endorsed by all denominations. The best selling Family book ever published. Agents are meeting with wonderful success. No competition. Any man or woman wanting a good business, address, for extra terms and special territory.

TRADE-MARKS, PATENTS, COPY-RIGHTS, DESIGNS, RE-ISSUES, LABELS.
Send description of your Invention. L. BINGHAM, Patent Lawyer and Solicitor, Washington D. C.

One Ounce bottles reduced from 15 cents to 10 cents.
Two Ounce bottles reduced from 25 cents to 15 cents.
Five Ounce bottles reduced from 50 cents to 25 cents.
The public must not accept any but original goods bottled by us, as the imitations are worthless.
Chesebrough Manufacturing Co., New York.

The Ministers' and Teachers' Bible.

This magnificent Parlor Bible is imported from London and is indorsed as "The Best" by the leading Bishops of England. In addition to the Old and New Testaments it contains a Concordance of Bible Words; 40,000 References with Context; An Encyclopedia. A Dictionary of Proper Names with Pronunciation, 13 full page colored Maps. Poetry, Music, Ethnology, Plants, Animals, and Jewish sects of the Bible, etc. "Superior to all others."—N. Y. Times. "A complete Biblical Encyclopedia."—London Times. This Bible is found in French Morocco, gilt edge, with silk book-mark, and has copious references. Rev. Eli Milgum, Norwalk, O., writes: "The Bibles received to-day I am more than pleased." A special effort to rapidly introduce this Bible in America, we will, for a limited time only, send one copy, post-paid, to any address on receipt of only $2.00; 12 copies and one copy of Revised New Testament for $4.00; Other Bibles, with less matter, sell for $1.50. Order at once. AGENTS WANTED! Circulars free.
G. S. MAYO & CO., 160 La Salle St., Chicago, Ill.

PAYSON'S INDELIBLE INK
Is the BEST. No preparation. Used with any clean pen for marking any fabric. Popular for decorative work on linen. Received Centennial MEDAL & Diploma. Established 50 years. Sold by all Druggists, Stationers & News Ag'ts.

MILL OWNERS SEND FOR PAMPHLET.
TURBINE WATER WHEELS
MANUFACT'D AT MOUNT HOLLY N.J.

THE MODEL PRESS

Prints Cards, Circulars, Labels, Tracts, every thing needed by business men, churches, schools, etc. Strong, rapid, and a boy can manage it and earn hundreds of dollars a year. 10,000 sold. Outfits, including Press, Type, &c., from $5. to $10 and up. Send a cent stamp for 40 pages Illustrated Price-List and two gorgeous floral book-markers printed on Model Press. J. W. Daughaday & Co. Mfrs. 172 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia.

2806 Lbs. Weight
Of Two Ohio Improved CHESTER HOGS. Send for description of this famous breed. Also Fowls.
L. E. SILVER, CLEVELAND, O.

THE COMPLETE HOME.

Agents wanted for this beautiful book. New edition.—New bindings.—New illustrations from new designs. Superbly gotten up. Same low price. Adapted to all classes. Sells at sight. Agents doing big work. EXCELLENT TERMS. The handsomest prospectus ever issued. Apply now. WM. GARRETSON & CO., 30 College St., Nashville, Tenn. Also other grand new books and Bibles.

PILES

"Anakis" gives instant relief, and is an infallible cure for Piles. Price $1, at druggists, or sent prepaid by mail. Sample free. Ad. "ANAKIS" Makers, Box $410 New York.

AGENTS Our new war book, DEEDS OF DARING by Blue and Grey, is outselling all other books. Illustrated circular and terms free.

FORSYME & McMAKIN, Cincinnati, O.

BEATTY

PIPE ORGAN

3 Blow Pedals, 25 Stops, in perfect order, warranted only $49.75. Parlor, Chapel and Cottage Organs, at Bargain Prices. Grand Square & Upright, for $50.00 worth $1,000. Order immediately or send for Circular. Address, DANIEL F. BEATTY, Washington, New Jersey.

FREEMAN & KEESEE, INTERIOR DECORATORS, NO. 33 N. COLLEGE STREET, NASHVILLE, TENN.

Wall Paper and Decorations, Window Shades, Cornice, Curtain Poles, Gold and Walnut Pier and Mantle Mirrors, Engravings, Chromos, and Oil Paintings. Frames of All Kinds in Stock and Made to Order. Re-Gilding Old Frames a Specialty. Manufacturers of Fine Frames and Wood Mantles. CORRESPONDENCE SOLICITED. Ap9

KEEP COOL! SUMMER GOODS.

Refrigerators, Ice Chests, Water Coolers, Filters, Fruit Jars, Fruit Cans, Stoneware, Woodenware, and all kinds of Kitchen Goods. Cooking Stoves to suit the requirements of every Family. PRICES TO SUIT THE TIMES.

Phillips-Buttorff Manufacturing Co.,

24 & 26 College Street. Nashville, Tenn.

FIGUE, MANIER & CO., WHOLESALE DEALERS IN BOOTS AND SHOES, NO. 40 SOUTH MARKET STREET, NASHVILLE, TENN.

We are receiving a very large stock of Spring and Summer goods that we have had manufactured expressly for us, which we think, with our long experience and facilities, we can offer inducements, equal to any market, to prompt and cash dealers. All goods warranted to be as represented.

S. B. HOGAN.

J. S. HOPKINS.

HOGAN & HOPKINS,

Dealers in Custom-Made

BOOTS & SHOES,

We sell the very best makes of Boots and Shoes, and endeavor to make the prices so that no one can possibly sell cheaper than we do.

20 Public Square,

Nashville, Tennessee.

SALESMEN—Sam. R. Hopkins, L. D. Simmons, William Hayes.

GRATEFUL PRAISE

FOR SUNDAY-SCHOOLS.

By J. H. FILLMORE.

Grateful Praise is purely a Sunday-school music book—not a gospel-meeting book. Everything in it is fresh and bright. Children will enjoy it. Its quality is first-class and not of a difficult grade. Examine it, and find your ideal.

Sample copy mailed for 25 cts. Price, per doz. by express, $3.60; per doz. by mail, $4.

Address FILLMORE BROS., 185 Race St., Cincinnati, O.

[Order now, or preserve this, it may not appear again.]

CHILDS' CATARRH

Treatment For

And Diseases of the
HEAD, THROAT & LUNGS!
Can be taken at home. No case incurable when our questions are properly answered. Write for circulars, testimonials, etc.,
REV. T. P. CHILDS, Troy, Ohio.

OFFICIAL REPORT.

Office of the Kentucky Agricultural and Mechanical Association.
Lexington, Ky., June 23rd, 1883.

TO ALL CONCERNED:

This is to certify that in the field trial of Twine-binders held by the Kentucky Agricultural and Mechanical Association on the farm of Mr. J. B. Clay, near Lexington on the 19th inst., in very heavy barley, the following machines competing, viz: Osborne, Deering, McCormick, Wood, Buckeye, Minneapolis, Dennett, Champion, St. Paul, Buckeye low-down and Deering low-down, the premium of a Gold Medal was awarded to the No. 11 Osborne.

Committee of Directors to Conduct Trial.

JESSE BRYANT,
N. F. BERRY,
D. H. JAMES,
W. H. GENTRY, Pres't.

H. P. KINKEAD, Sec'y.

The above is a true copy of report made by Committee and approved by Board of Directors this day.

Call at our Branch House in Nashville and EXAMINE "The Gold Medal Osborne," and a full line of Reapers and Mowers.

D. M. OSBORNE, & CO.

E. S. BRINGHURST, M'gr.

DR. C. P. DUNCAN'S LIVER AND KIDNEY MEDICINE.

The great preventive and cure of all malarial diseases, and a sure cure for all forms of dyspepsia and indigestion; it acts directly upon the Liver and all the secretory glands of the stomach and bowels, it cures the disease by removing the cause from the system that produces or brings on the disease, hence it is unsurpassed for the cure of Constipation, sour stomach, heartburn, headache, and all those symptoms indicating the want of a proper action of those glands situated in the stomach and bowels. Two or three bottles of Dr. Duncan's Liver and Kidney Medicine is positively recommended to relieve and cure any of the above diseases if taken as directed. Price 75 cents.

Cure for Croup!

Dr. Duncan's Cough Balsam is the best remedy known to the medical profession for the prompt and sure cure of croup in children; it is pleasant and harmless. No mother should be without a bottle in their house. Price 50 cents.

Bad Colds and Sore Throats

Promptly cured with Dr. Duncan's Cough Balsam; is a sure cure for sore throats, roughs and colds. It is unsurpassed for WHOOPING COUGH, and all bronchial diseases in children.

Chapped Hands, Lips,

Sore Eyes, Piles, and all abrasions of the skin cured promptly with Duncan's Ointment.

DR. DUNCAN'S BLOOD SYRUP,

the great alternative, will remove any and all impurities from the blood, and cure all eruptions of the Skin. For Scrofula it never fails to cure.

CHILDREN CRY FOR DUNCAN'S WORM SYRUP.

It is sure, safe, pleasant and cheap. Try it.

CONSUMPTION

Positively Cured. No-Humbag.

By the use of Dr. J. LAWSON'S PULMONARY POWDERS, a FREE TRIAL BOX of which will be sent to all sufferers POST PAID, with treatise and full directions for their use.

Hundreds and thousands have been cured by their use.

Large Box $3.00, two boxes $1.00.

Address,

PHILIP HENRY,

49 South St., New York City.

A PRIZE Send six cents for postage, and receive free a costly box of goods which will help you to more money right away than anything else in this world. All, of either sex, succeed from first hour. The broad road to fortune opens before the workers, absolutely sure. At once address TRUX & Co., Augusta, Maine.

Good Pay for Agents. $100 to $200 per mo., made selling our fine Books & Bibles. Write to J. C. McCurdy & Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.

AGENTS WANTED for our new Religious book, the greatest success of the year. Send for illustrated circular if you want to make money. FORSHEE & McMAKIN, Cincinnati.

PENSIONS for any disability; also to Heirs. Send stamps for New Laws. COL. L. BINGHAM, Attorney, Washington, D. C.

IT PAYS to sell our Hand Rubber Stamps. Samples free. FOLJAMER & Co., Cleveland, O.

Home Items.

"All your own fault
"If you remain sick when you can Get Hop Bitters that never—Fail.
—The weakest woman, the smallest child, and sickest invalid can use Hop Bitters with safety and great good.

—Old men tottering around from Rheumatism, kidney trouble, or any weakness, will be almost new by using Hop Bitters.

—My wife and daughter were made healthy by the use of Hop Bitters, and I recommend them to my people, —Methodist Clergymen.

Ask any good doctor if Hop Bitters is not the best family medicine On earth.

—Malaria fever, Ague, and Biliousness will leave every neighborhood as soon as Hop Bitters arrive.

—"My mother drove the paralysis and neuralgia all out of her system with Hop Bitters."—Ed. Oswego Sun.

—Keep the kidneys healthy with Hop Bitters, and you need not fear sickness.

—Ice water is rendered harmless and more refreshing and reviving with Hop Bitters with each draught.

—The vigor of youth for the aged and infirm in Hop Bitters.

—"At the chance of life nothing equals Hop Bitters to allay all troubles incident thereof."

—"The best periodical for ladies to take monthly, and from which they will receive the greatest benefit, is Hop Bitters.

—Mothers with sickly, fretful, nursing children, will cure the children and benefit themselves by taking Hop Bitters daily.

—Thousands die annually from some form of kidney disease that might have been prevented by a timely use of Hop Bitters.

—Indigestion, weak stomach, irregularities of the bowels, cannot exist when Hop Bitters are used.

A timely * * * use of Hop Bitters will keep a whole family in robust health a year at a little cost.

—To produce real genuine sleep and child-like repose all night, take a little Hop Bitters on retiring.

—That indigestion of stomach gas at night, preventing rest and sleep, will disappear by using Hop Bitters.

—Paralytic, nervous, tremulous old ladies are made perfectly quiet and sprightly by using Hop Bitters.

MONARCH HORSE HOE AND CULTIVATOR COMBINED

For Hoeing & Hilling Potatoes,
Corn, Onions, Beets,
Cabbages, Turnips, &c.

SENT ON 30 Days'
TEST TRIAL.

An immense saving of labor and money. We guarantee a boy can cultivate and hoe and hill potatoes, corn, etc., 15 times as easy and fast as one man can the old way. Illustrated Catalogue FREE. AGENTS WANTED. Mention this paper. Address Monarch Mfg. Co., 206 State St., Chicago, Ill.

OPIUM

Habit easily cured with CHLORIDE OF GOLD
LESLIE E. KEELEY, M.D., SURGEON, C. & A. B. R.
DWIGHT, Illinois.

25 YEARS IN THE POULTRY YARD

108 Pages. It teaches you how to rear them to take care for them, to feed, to have them lay eggs in cold weather, to prevent and treat all diseases of old or young, to be a "successful" poultryman. Only 25c. in stamps. A Fifty-page book FREE FOR ALL with it.

A. M. LANG, Cove Dale Farm, Concord, Kr.

OPIUM Morphine Habit Cured in 10 to 20 Days. No Pay until Cured. J. L. SCARLETT, M. D., Lebanon, Ohio.

HILLMAN, BUFORD & JUSTI,
NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE,
 SOLE AGENTS FOR THE
 Genuine Brown Walking Cultivator and Double-Shovel Plow,

Corn Shellers, Feed Cutters, Avery Chilled Plows, Road Scrapers, Fish Bros.
 Wagons, Jacobs' Barrows,

IRON, STEEL, BLACKSMITH'S TOOLS, HARDWARE,

Call on or address

HILLMAN, BUFORD & JUSTI, 18 and 20 South Market Street, Nashville, Tenn.

A.C. & J.C. March.

SUCCESSORS TO

J. D MARCH & SONS

Manufacturers and Dealers in

SADDLIES, HARNESS, BRIDLES, COLLARS,
 TRUNKS, BAGS, HAMES, VAL-
 LISES, WHIPS, CHAINS, &c.

50 NORTH MARKET STREET
 NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE.

Repairing Done at Short Notice

NASHVILLE, CHATTANOOGA & ST. LOUIS
 RAILWAY.

BUSINESS MEN, TOURISTS, REMEMBER

The Best Route to St. Louis and the West
 via McKennie.

The Best Route to West Tennessee and Kentucky, Mississippi, Arkansas, and Texas points is via McKennie.

The Best Route to the Summer Resorts and
 Mountain Retreats of Tennessee, Virginia and the Carolinas, via McKennie and Nashville.

The Best Route to the celebrated Colleges, Universities, Seminaries and other Educational Institutions in the Southeast, via McKennie
 and Nashville.

The Best Route to points in East Tennessee,
 Virginia, the Carolinas, Georgia and Florida is via Chattanooga.

DON'T FORGET IT!

—By this line you secure the—

MAXIMUM OF SPEED, SAFETY,
 COMFORT, SATISFACTION,

—AT THE—

MINIMUM OF EXPENSE, ANXIETY,
 BOTHER, FATIGUE.

Be sure to Buy your Tickets over the

N., C & ST. L. RAILWAY!

If you are going to Washington City, Baltimore,
 Philadelphia, or New York.

The Inexperienced Traveler need not go
 amiss; few changes are necessary, and such as are unavoidable are made in Union Depots.

THROUGH SLEEPERS!

—BETWEEN—

Nashville and Atlanta, and Atlanta and Jacksonville, Fla., Nashville and Martin (to connect with Sleeper service via Cairo to St. Louis and Chicago.)
 Nashville and Columbus. Nashville and Memphis
 (Sleeper Humboldt to Mobile, and Milan to New Orleans.) McKennie and Little Rock, and Little Rock and Texas points.

Call on or address

J. H. PEEBLES, T. A., Chattanooga, Tenn.
 W. W. KNOX, T. A., Nashville, Tenn.
 S. S. FINLEY, Ticket Agent, Memphis, Tenn.
 A. B. WRENN, Trav. A., Atlanta, Ga.
 W. L. DANLEY, G. P. & T. A., Nashville, Tenn.

Mars Hill College.

With pleasure we lay before our readers the following extracts from the Fourteenth Annual Announcement of Mars Hill College, an institution perpetually wielding a wonderful and wide-spread influence for truth, refinement and righteousness.—EDITORS.

POSITIONS PROCURED FOR OUR PUPILS.

We make a specialty of preparing pupils for

(1.) PREACHING; (2.) TEACHING; (3.) PREACHING and TEACHING.

Many educated here—among whom are successful lawyers, physicians, merchants, salesmen mechanics, farmers, editors, authors, teachers and preachers—have so demeaned themselves, that the humility, fidelity, integrity, accuracy and ability of "Mars Hill students" have become proverbial. There is, consequently, such a demand for the services of our pupils, that we deem it perfectly safe to promise to procure pleasant, profitable and honorable positions for all who qualify themselves here for usefulness. Indeed, for several years we have been able to fill comparatively few of the positions tendered.

HEALTHFULNESS!

Mars Hill as a Health Resort.

Our school was founded in 1870. All the "doctor bills" for services rendered our pupils, from then till now, do not, we think, amount to twenty-five dollars—probably not to one dollar a year. Those who have come here pale and puny, from malarial districts, have, without an exception, we believe, returned to their homes enjoying health.

What "Watering Place," or "Health Resort," then, can justly claim more, as a health-
 preserver and health-restorer, than Mars Hill? Address,

T. B. LARIMORE, President.

FLORENCE, ALABAMA.

W. A. LANNOM, The Cash Clothier,

18 PUBLIC SQUARE, NASHVILLE, TENN.,

Has received his large and elegant stock of Spring and Summer clothing, Gents Furnishing Goods and Hats, which is full and complete in every respect; and for quantity, quality, style, fit and price, we stand far ahead of all competition. An inspection of our large stock and low prices, will fully prove what we claim. Bear in mind, we sell strictly for cash, which enables us to offer the greatest inducements.

CAPITOL PLANING MILL,

Corner Line and Vine Streets, near Northwest Corner Capitol Grounds,
 NASHVILLE, - - - TENN.

J. W. McCULLOUGH,

Manufacturer and Dealer in

FRAMES, SASH, DOORS, BLINDS,

Scroll Sawing, Dressed Flooring, Weatherboarding and Ceiling.

Country Orders Solicited, and Promptly Attended To.

JUST OUT!

"Our Orthodoxy in the Civil Courts,"

A full proceeding in the Circuit Court in Noble county, Indiana, in the trial of our ortho-doxy. Everybody should read this interesting book. Send at once. Paper, 50c; cloth, $1.00.

JAMES F. & HARRY LIPSCOMB,

98 Union Street,

Nashville, Tennessee.

BOILER REPAIRS.

Thos. S. Simpson, William Chatham,
 79 South College St., Nashville, Tenn.,
 Are prepared to do all kinds of repairing of Boilers, Tanks, etc., at very reasonable rates. We have had 30 years practical experience in the business, and ask a share of the public patronage. We guarantee good work.

WHEN YOU WANT
WRITING DESKS,
 Photograph Albums,
 AUTOGRAPH ALBUMS,
 GOLD PENS, PENCILS,
 PORT-MONNIES,
 CARD CASES, Etc.

OR ANYTHING IN THE WAY OF
Staple and Fancy Stationery!
 Call upon us. We can suit you in
 VARIETY, QUALITY, AND PRICE.

A. B. Payne & Co.,
 61 UNION STREET.

Orders by Mail receive Prompt Attention.

B. S. RHEA & SON,
 PROPRIETORS RHEA'S ELEVATOR,
 AND DEALERS IN

Grain, Hay, Flour

AND BURLAP SACKS,

No. 32 South Market Street,
 NASHVILLE, - - - TENN.
 (Correspondence Solicited.)

C. F. HUDSON. S. G. STRATTON.

C. F. HUDSON & CO.,
 Merchant Tailors & Clothiers,

EAST SIDE PUBLIC SQUARE,

LEBANON, TENN.,

Are now receiving one of the largest, best and cheapest stock of clothing and piece goods, ever offered to the public. We are agents for the Charlotteville, Va., woolen goods, which cannot be surpassed for beauty and durability.

Call and examine our goods. We will save you money.

SOME OF THE
THINGS WE BUY TO SELL.

CHINA IN ALL OF ITS GRADES,
 GLASSWARE OF EVERY DESCRIPTION,
 QUEENSWARE OF ALL KINDS,

Bracket Lamps, Hall Lamps,
 Study Lamps, Chandeliers,
 Knives and Forks, Spoons, Waiters
 Tea Trays,

Looking-Glasses, Ice Cutting
 Machines,

Eureka Coffee and Teapots,
 Castors.

And a great variety of housekeeping goods
 too numerous to mention, all of which we offer at reasonable rates. Call and see us, or send your orders to

HICKS, HOUSTON & CO.,

51 N. College & 54 N. Market Sts.,

NASHVILLE, - - - TENN.

THE GOSPEL ADVOCATE.

VOLUME XXVI. }
NUMBER 21.

NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE, MAY 21, 1884.

{ $2.00 YEARLY IN ADVANCE.
POSTAGE PREPAID.

EDITORS:

D. LIPSCOMB.

E. G. SEWELL.

If souls be made of earthly mold,
Let them love gold;
If born on high,
Let them unto their kindred fly;
For they will never be at rest
Till they regain their ancient nest.
—George Herbert.

TAKING FROM AND ADDING TO THE WORD OF GOD.

The anathemas pronounced in the last chapter of the Bible against the above offenses are fearful to contemplate. The Spirit said; "For I testify unto every man that heareth the prophecy of this book, if any man shall add unto these things, God shall add unto him the plagues that are written in this book; and if any man shall take away from the word of the book of this prophecy God shall take away his part out of the book of life, and out of the holy city, and from the things that are written in this book." Rev. xxi: 18-19. We understand this language to apply in principle to every part and parcel of the New institution as revealed in the New Testament.

If men shall add to or take from the things that God has required to make a Christian, or shall add to or take from the things that God has required in order to lead a Christian life, he will be guilty, and liable to the above anathemas. Both these things are extensively done by modern denominations, or we are much mistaken. In the first place, sinners are told that they are so far depraved that they can do nothing towards obedience to God until God sends his Holy Spirit into their hearts, to quicken them, and enable them to turn to the Lord. Now here are two things that God never placed in his word. He never said that men were depraved, nor did he ever promise that the Holy Spirit should be sent into the alien's heart to turn him to God. Every preacher therefore that teaches these things adds to the word of God. God never said to the sinner, you are depraved, and unable to do the things that I command. And so far as this idea of depravity, of inability to serve God, to do his will has any effect upon men at all, it is to keep them back from any attempt to serve God, or to be saved, and is liable to cause them to sit still and do nothing till death may come and take them away unprepared, whereas if they had been taught to the full extent of their responsibility to serve God, and their ability to do all that God has required them to do, many that now go down to death unprepared might turn and be saved. Thus the chances are that this doctrine of depravity causes the loss of many souls, by preventing them from any effort to do the Lord's will, by which alone men can be saved. This is certainly a very serious matter. It would certainly be a very grievous wrong to fail to impress all men everywhere to turn to the Lord and be saved. Not to do this would be as nearly an unpardonable wrong as well could be. But to actually make sinners think they can not turn to him and be saved whenever they will, is infinitely worse. To hinder men from coming to Jesus by teaching something that God never taught, and thus causing the loss of their souls is awful to contemplate.

The Savior says, come unto me; deny yourselves, take up the cross, and follow me, and never once intimates that they are not able to do it.

And when men thus add to the word of God that which causes the loss of souls, is it any wonder that the Spirit should say that God will add to such the plagues that are written in this book? A man that causes even the loss of one soul commits a wrong so great, so stupendous that it would be difficult to give a name to the offense. Hence the Holy Spirit only gives the result, the end to which such a course will lead a man, which is to add to him the plagues that are written in this book.

Why will men thus persist in doing that which so thoroughly endangers their own souls and those of others; We cannot conceive of anything more dangerous. And the promise of the Holy Spirit to enter the heart of the alien, to convert, or in any way to aid in his conversion by operating secretly or directly upon his heart otherwise than through the truth, the word of God, is very much the same as the doctrine of depravity, only worse if possible? It makes the alien depend upon something that God never promised, and opens the way for him to be deluded by accepting mere excitement, and impulse of feelings for the supposed workings of the Spirit of God. And not only is the sinner thus deluded and led by mere impulse and sympathetic excitement, and made to believe this excitement is conversion, but all those who are thus deluded are hindered from obeying the gospel, in order to pardon. So long as they are looking for direct power from heaven to convert their souls they cannot be induced to rely upon obedience to the word in order to be saved. Hence men are thus turned away from God's truth, and are taught to depend on what men have added to the word of God in order to salvation. If this is not deluding men out of their souls, and out of the blessings that God promised to all that obey his word what is it?

And it is sadly true that many preachers spend much more time in teaching these doctrines of men, than in teaching what God says in his word. If any one thinks this is a mistake, or an exaggeration, just let him attend any revival meeting carried on by the denominations and he will see. Then again the alien is taught to pray to God, and be prayed for, as one of the conditions upon which God will forgive his sins. Now where in all the Christian Scriptures does God require this? when or where did any inspired apostle or evangelist ever command an alien sinner to pray, and be prayed for in order to pardon? Nowhere is such a passage to be found in any case of conversion recorded in the days of the apostles.

Here then is one command added by men, and then the promise that God will hear and forgive them, when God has made no such promise at all. And besides, this command to the alien sinner, to pray and be prayed for, in order to pardon, completely sets aside one condition that God has placed before pardon. This is baptism. Those who teach the alien sinner to pray for pardon, either overlook baptism entirely, or tell him that it is a nonessential, and that he must obtain pardon before baptism. This treatment of baptism, which God has placed as one of the conditions of pardon, is simply taking away the command, making it of none effect.

This again has a tendency to defraud men out of their souls by taking away one of God's commands and introducing a commandment of men in its place. The thing is most fearful in its results, both to the teachers that teach these things and to those who receive and act upon them. Then still further, all denominational churches as such, and their names, are additions to the word of God. Where in all the Bible did God ordain a Roman Catholic church and give its name, or an Episcopalian, or Presbyterian, or Methodist church, and give its name and peculiarities of doctrines and practices? Nowhere in all God's book are these things to be found. Yet these denominations and many others exist all over the land. And as God never ordained or named them, never gave their peculiarities as such, they are necessarily of human origin, and are therefore human additions to the word of God. And these human things added, keep these denominations from taking the word of God as their only rule and going by it. These added things actually make void many of the positive commands of God. God ordained one church, one kingdom, one body, one spirit, one faith, one Lord, one baptism. These denominations have ordained many, and have entirely dropped out much that God has ordained in his kingdom. They will not walk by the word of God, as churches. They have three baptisms instead of one; they have many churches instead of one, and many names of churches that God never gave. God has taught his people to come together to break bread on the first day of the week. But these churches have changed this order and meet once a month, once a quarter, or twice a year for this purpose.

This is both adding to and taking from the word at the same time. The arrangement to meet once a month or once a quarter, is something wholly added to the word of God by human wisdom and human authority, while God's authority to meet on the first day of every week is taken away, is made void, and the order of things that God ordained is broken up. God ordained that his people meet on the first day of the week to break bread. But denominations have ordained that their people shall come together to hear preaching, to hear men sermonize. This knocks the order of things God ordained out of existence, and puts in its place a practice wholly of human origin and mould. Now why should men dare to do these things, to break down God's order of things and substitute those of men? Can it be that God left his work incomplete, and that now it must be finished up by uninspired men? This cannot be. The word of God is full and complete. It furnishes us with "all things that pertain unto life and godliness," that "the man of God may be perfect, thoroughly furnished unto all good works." And yet in the face of all this men are continually setting aside the pure and inspired word of God, and substituting instead the words of men. Surely the judgment of such men at the last day will be fearful. The words at the head of this article will come up as part of the rule by which men are to be judged. The very thought is fearful. When you come to think it over, almost the whole New Testament in its practical requirements is set aside, and the wisdom of men substituted instead. This is taking from and adding to the word of God on a very large scale, and if it does not in the end, bring the anathemas of God upon the perpetrators, we cannot tell why. Let us all therefore brethren be more guarded on these matters always, and in all things.

E. G. S.

WAYS OF MEETING TEMPTATION.

The experience of temptation is universal. No one can pass through this world and escape it. We hear a great deal in pulpits and elsewhere about the solemn nature of death. We are exhorted to make preparations for it, as for the most critical point in all human experience. Yet when we think seriously of it, it is not half so solemn a thing to die as it is to live. To one who lives aright, death is but the passage from surroundings of sin and sorrow to a realm of purity and joy. No Christian was ever lost, or even harmed, in the experience of dying. There are no terrors in the valley of shadows for him who is saved. "He that believeth in me," says Jesus, "though he were dead, yet shall he live: and whosoever liveth and believeth in me shall never die."

It is life that has peril. To live truly, we must battle, day by day. Enemies are all about us. Satan is no mediæval myth, but an actual foe, powerful, cunning, malignant, treacherous, terrible, like a roaring lion seeking to devour. There are other enemies too. Dangers lurk in every shadow.

It is life that is precious, not death. Our dead who have fallen asleep in holy faith are safe forever. We mourn for them and we miss them, yet we know they are beyond all danger. This is one of the comforts which comes with the sorrow of bereavement. Dying in Christ, our friends have no more battles to fight. Not so our living, they are not yet beyond peril.

"Lord, we can trust thee for our holy dead;
They, underneath the shadow of thy tomb,
Have entered into peace; with bended head
We thank thee for their rest, and for our lightened gloom

"But, Lord, our living—whom on stormy seas
Of sin and sorrow still are tempest-tossed!
Our dead have reached their heaven, but for these—
Teach us to trust thee, Lord, for these our loved and lost.

"For these we make our passion-prayer at night;
For these we cry to thee through the long day."

There is no way to reach the heights of victory and blessedness save through these hot battle-plain of earth. It were easy to say, "I will give up, and not try to contend with the terrible, hostile forces that gather in my path." But it is cowardice to shrink from the conflict. Besides, to yield is to lose all that is worth living for in life.

And really there is no need to yield. True, the enemies are strong, and the struggle must be hard and long, as long as earthly life, but none need ever fail. Not that there is strength enough in any human arm alone to conquer, but there is grace enough in Christ to enable every one to be more than a conqueror.

Just how to live so as to be victorious, is the present question of particular interest. We may be sure, at the very outset, that Christ does not help us by keeping us out of the conflicts. All the best things in life lie beyond the fields of struggle, and we can get them only by overcoming. Temptation met and victoriously resisted puts new fibre into our souls. It would be no kindness to us were God to withdraw us into some sheltered spot whenever there is danger, or if we were so to fight our battles for us that we should never ourselves have to struggle. "I pray not that thou shouldst take them out of the world," was our Lord's prayer for his loved ones, "but that thou shouldst keep them from the evil one."

"He who hath never a conflict hath never a victor's palm,
And only the toilers know the sweetness of rest and calm."

We must meet temptations, and we must make up our minds, also, that we have something to do in getting the victory over the temptations which we are called to meet. Men and devils tempt us, but men and devils cannot make us yield to sin. We are sovereigns in our choices while the right and the wrong stand before us. Other wills may seek to influence us, may plead, entreat, persuade, but they cannot compel. We cannot avoid being tempted, but we ought to avoid yielding to temptation. An old divine said, in illustration of this truth, "we cannot keep the birds from flying around our heads, but we can prevent them building their nests in our hair," we cannot hinder temptations from buzzing about our ears, but it is our own fault if they make their nests in our hearts. We must not expect God to lock the doors, and hold his hand on the lock all the time, to keep us, by force of omnipotence, from letting the tempter in. This shutting and opening is our part of the responsibility.

Even God himself will never come into our hearts unless we voluntarily open it to him. We are never forced to do wrong. Our duty, therefore, is unwavering resistance—an unalterable no to every solicitation to sin. If we settle this point, we have learned one of the best lessons in spiritual strategy.

Often however, avoidance of temptation is the true course of wisdom. Because Christ does not keep us out of all struggles, we are not, therefore, to rush presumptuously into danger at every opportunity. We pray daily, "Lead us not into temptation." We must not, therefore enter into temptation voluntarily. Lord Macaulay tells us that at the siege of Naurmur, while the conflict was raging, William, Prince of Orange, who was giving his orders under a shower of bullets, saw, with surprise and anger, among his staff officers, Michael Godfrey, the deputy-governor of the Bank of England. He had come to the king's headquarters on business, and was curious to see real war. "Mr. Godfrey," said King William, "you ought not to run these hazards; you are not a soldier; you can be of no use to us here." "Sir," answered Godfrey, "I run no more hazards than your majesty." "Not so," said William, "I am where it is my duty to be, and I may without presumption commit my life to God's keeping; but you—" Before the sentence was finished a cannon-ball laid Godfrey dead at the king's feet. The king's words were true, and the truth is just as applicable to temptations and spiritual dangers as the perils of war. When duty calls us into any place, we are safe; God will protect us. But otherwise we venture without any promise or claim to protection. It is not courage, but foolhardiness, that prompts one to rush into temptations, uncalled, unled, and without necessity of duty; and it can only lead to ruinous consequences. The true rule is, Never seek a temptation; meet one only as God leads you up to it in the path of duty. Most people who fall, fall in places where they ought never to have gone at all.

When we are doing God's will, we may confidently count on protection, however sore are the dangers. "He shall give his angels charge over thee, to keep thee in all thy ways." And, even more than this; Christ himself is personally interested in each individual soul in its earthly struggles, and watches from heaven, ready, when the enemy seems about to gain the advantage, to give instant help, or to provide some way of escape. When our duty leads us through perilous paths—but only then—we may entrust ourselves with unwavering confidence to the Divine protection, assured of victory.

"I have known a timid traveler," says one, "whose route lay across the higher Alps, on a path that, no broader than a mule's foothold, skirted a dizzy precipice, where she saw the foaming river, far below, diminished to a silver thread—find it safest to shut her eyes, nor attempt to guide the course, or touch the bridle, where a touch were fatal, throwing the steed and rider over, to bound from shelf to shelf, and be dashed to pieces in the valley below. And there are times and circumstances when to be saved from falling . . . the believer must, if we may say so, shut his eyes, and, committing his way to God, let the bridle lie on the neck of Providence, and walk, not by sight, but faith. . . . When we are walking in darkness and have no light, there is nothing for it but to trust in the Lord and stay ourselves on God."

There come times in every life when this is just the picture for us, when all we can do is to shut our eyes and let God lead us through the peril. In such cases he will never fail; and if we are faithful in our duty, we shall not fail.—S. S. Times.

LIGHT IN A DARK PLACE.

In the month of October last a young man named Hara Taneaki, who had been an active Christian in Tokio, was arrested for some political offence, and, after examination, taken to jail, where there were seven others. For a while some of the worst men occupied the time in conversation, on various subjects, but at last Hara gained their attention and improved the opportunity to teach them about Christianity. He spent the whole night in explaining the doctrines of the Bible, and the next day they asked to hear still more about the way of salvation. Thus each day was spent in Christian work, to the pleasure and profit of all.

After the trial and sentence to confinement for three months, he was handcuffed and tied about his waist and taken to the Ishikawa prison. In this place he found that one man was regarded as the head of the others and had great influence and special privileges. This man looked at Hara very closely for a little time, and then said, "Are you not the man who once preached the doctrines of Christianity at the store of Jujiga & Co., on the Ginza in Tokio?" He replied that he had done so, and asked why he wished to know.

The man said: "I had broken one of the laws of the land and was a great sinner; but when I heard the teachings of the gospel I repented of my evil conduct and attended such meetings to hear and learn more of the religion of Jesus Christ. I also purchased a copy of the Scriptures and began to study it. In the meantime my crime was discovered, and I was sent to this prison."

He then showed his Bible, and said: "I have been reading this very carefully; but as I am an ignorant man there is very much which I do not understand. I have been very anxious to get some assistance, and I am greatly rejoiced to meet you now; but I think it is very unfortunate that you should be sent to such a bad place as this. I desire that you would teach me while you remain in the prison, and I hope to learn much about the way of life and peace."

Looking to God for help, Hara gave him assistance day and night. The others also became eager to hear the gospel, and he preached every night to about 300 criminals, who listened very attentively, while he also explained to them the evidences of Christianity.

As the result of these labors he had no trouble during the three months he remained in prison, but was treated with great consideration and kindness. It is common for the prisoners to meet with very cruel treatment, and many have died in consequence of exposure and suffering. Though a weak man he was abundantly supplied with both food and clothing by the thoughtfulness of those he had made his friends by reason of his efforts to teach them. But for this he would probably never have come out alive. In a letter he says: "God has truly blessed me greatly, and when I reflect on all his goodness, my heart is filled with gratitude, and my eyes with tears." In testimony of God's grace he now calls his house "Ten fuku do," or the place of heaven's blessing.—Rev. H. Loomis.

LIVING ORACLES.

In reply to a question relating to the Testament put out by A. Campbell, found in GOSPEL ADVOCATE of May 2nd, you say you "regard it as the least desirable translation for constant use we have, yet we learn many things by it." I was greatly surprised to hear such a statement from you. That is a very bad and untrue statement to be found in your excellent paper. I have a copy of fourth edition, which I have read more or less constantly for more than fifty years, and with more diligence and more repeatedly than any book of any kind, and it is by far the best translation I ever saw. Out of ten English translations I have examined, some of them with great care, it is decidedly the best. Taking the whole book from beginning to end, preface, notes, and tables, it is the most important book in the English language. Any honest mind, by attentive reading, can get more Biblical knowledge from it in one year than he can from any other in five years; and more than he can get from any pastor in a life-time. Now, my brethren, allow this contradiction of your harmful statement. Excuse seventy five years for not writing better.—[J. M. Boyle, St. Louis, May 12, 1884.]

[We very cheerfully give the judgment of our brother, and do not in the least object to his disagreeing with us in our judgment. We had no reference to the notes and compendium connected with book, when we referred to the translation itself. All translations that we have seen teach the same thing. Our chief objection to the translation in question, is, it fails to preserve the pure, simple, Anglo-Saxon style of the other versions, but we will allow any one to differ from us without the least feeling.—D. L.]

WHAT MUST I DO TO BE SAVED?

This is a question frequently asked by the alien sinner, and also a popular pulpit theme among our brethren. The question, as it strikes my mind, is one of vast importance to the Christian. It has a deeper meaning than merely to find what the initiatory steps are into the church or kingdom. It reaches far out into the future—into the eternal kingdom. What must I do? I who have taken upon me the name of Christ? Is there not an important work for me to do, that I might receive an abundant entrance into the everlasting kingdom? Is there not a probability of my being counted an unworthy servant, if I should fail to attend to the ordinances of the Lord's house?

Let us look into divine record and see how the apostles and the Master himself understood these things. Jesus says, "Not every one that saith unto me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven; but he that doeth the will of my Father which is in heaven." Matt. vi: 21. From this we see that one may anticipate an entrance into the kingdom of heaven, on account of a partial participation in the divine life; but because he has neglected doing the will of our Father, he cannot enter into that blest abode. One of the grandest works in the house of God, I fear, is sadly neglected by many who, doubtless, expect to receive that welcome plaudit, "Well done, thou good and faithful servant: enter thou into the joy of thy Lord." I refer to the Lord's day worship. Why did the Lord institute the supper? Is there any significance in it? Is it mere formality? Are we jeopardizing anything by wantonly neglecting it? These are pertinent questions that arise in my mind.

There are many brethren and sisters who live very accessible to the place of worship, who rarely or never attend the Lord's day worship. It cannot be that they are physically unable, for they seldom ever lose any time from their various occupations; they may be seen at church when there is a preacher. At all places of amusement or public entertainment they are seen; and with these facts before us, let us examine these questions. We find the first and second questions answered by the apostle Paul. He says: "I have received of the Lord that which also I have delivered unto you, That the Lord Jesus, the same night in which he was betrayed, took bread: and when he had given thanks, he brake it, and said, Take, eat; this is my body, which is broken for you: this do in remembrance of me. After the same manner also he took the cup, when he had supped, saying, This cup is the new testament in my blood; this do ye, as oft as ye drink it, in remembrance of me. For as often as ye eat this bread, and drink this cup, ye do show the Lord's death till he come." 1 Cor. xi: 23-27. Here the apostle avows that it was to be kept as a perpetual memorial service—that it included the body and blood of the Lord. How deep then must be the significance! The body was sacrificed that we might live, and the blood was shed for the remission of sins. What depth of meaning in the expression, "This is my body, which is broken for you," "This is the new testament in my blood." From these and similar passages we may form a fair conclusion as to what the Savior meant when he said, "Except ye eat the flesh of the son of man, and drink his blood, ye have no life in you." John vi: 53. Some may ask, is it necessary that we should be found at the house of worship every Lord's day? By reading the Scriptures I find that it was the custom for the apostles and disciples to come together on the first day of the week, and they worshipped by prayer, songs, and breaking of bread. Paul admonished the disciples not to forsake the assembling of themselves together. Heb. x: 25. Let us ask Paul why we should not neglect or forsake the assembly? "For if we sin wilfully after that we have received the knowledge of the truth, there remaineth no more sacrifice for sins." Heb. x: 26. After referring to the punishment of sin under Moses' law, he says, "Of how much sorer punishment, suppose ye, shall he be thought worthy, who hath trodden under foot the Son of God, and hath counted the blood of the covenant, wherewith he was sanctified, an unholy thing, and hath done despite to the Spirit of grace?" Heb. x: 29. If we neglect that sacred duty, we are certainly not doing all the will of our Father.

Therefore the question, "What must I do to be saved?" should be frequently asked by the Christian—not only asked, but thoroughly investigated; and having learned our duty, we should willingly obey. Brethren, can we risk so much? Come, let us arouse from a state of lethargy and indifference, gird on the whole armor, and run with patience the race set before us.

Thornton, Texas.

T. F. DRISKILL.

EPHESIANS 2: 8-9, AND JAMES 2: 24.

Paul tells the Ephesian disciples that our salvation or justification is "by grace through faith," and "not of works." James says, "By works a man is justified, and not by faith only." Are they contradictory? If not, how reconcile them? The great Luther so far confessed his inability to harmonize the two statements as to come to the conclusion that the epistle of James was spurious. Its authenticity, however, is not to be doubted now. A late and the commonly received reconciliation is, that Paul spoke of the works of the Mosaic law, and James of the works of obedience to the Christian law. But this is unsatisfactory and seems to do violence to the meaning of the apostle Paul. He says it is "not of works, lest any man should boast." Why should justification obtained by the "deeds of the law" give room for boasting, any more than justification by works of Christian obedience? Further, there is not, in the letter to the Ephesians, any direct comparison of the Jewish with the Christian law for the purpose of showing the superiority of the latter. The Judaizing tendency seems not to have shown itself in this church—at least not enough to call forth a letter from Paul. Hence I think it contrary to the meaning of the passage to say that the "works" are the religious ceremonies of the Jews.

Let us look at this passage. In the first part of this letter Paul had been dwelling upon the goodness of God—"his kindness toward us through Jesus Christ." He now says: "By grace are ye saved through faith; and that (your salvation) is not of yourselves,"—not the result of your own ability,—"but it (the salvation) is the gift of God." He enlarges the affirmation that it is not of yourselves, in saying it is "not of works" that you do. Your works do not save you. God's grace—love—saved you. Though you had all knowledge; though you should know God and his law that makes a perfect life; though you had the faith of an Abraham, the repentance of a Paul, and should be baptized as often as Naaman; though your lives henceforward in purity should shame the angels; though in your self-sacrificing love for your fellowman you should give all your goods to feed the poor; yet had not the grace of God planned and accepted the death of Jesus as the propitiation for your sins, you would not have been saved. Paul taught them dependence on the goodness of God and their inability to obtain salvation by their own power and efforts unaided by God. He was upholding to their view that "grace of God that bringeth (or provideth) salvation to all men." James was condemning the faith of that "forgetful—neglectful—hearer" who believed, but through indolence or lust, refused to obey. This I think to be the true meaning of Paul and the true reconciliation of the two passages.

W. L., Jr.

SOUTH KENTUCKY CHRISTIAN MISSIONARY AND SUNDAY-SCHOOL ASSOCIATION.

Mayfield has been selected as the next place of meeting for the Association, and June 24, 25-26, as the time. The first session will be held on Tuesday night, June 24th. The following named persons have accepted positions on the programme, and an excellent meeting is anticipated: Thomas Munnell, George E. Flower, Dr. Bundy, B. C. Deweese, J. W. Higbee, R. A. Cooke, J. H. Roulhac, J. F. McCoy, E. C. L. Denton, William Stanley, Prof. S. E. Thomas, B. A. Howard, J. D. A. Hale, Miss Eugenia Parham, Mrs. Ida Thomas, and Mrs. George E. Flower.

An interesting feature of the Convention will be the reports of the Evangelists, showing what has been done by the Disciples of Christ in South Kentucky in Missionary and Sunday School work since the last convention. Reports will be made by J. W. Gant, H. C. Ford, J. W. Holsapple, S. A. Hastin, and V. M. Dorris.

This is not a delegate convention, but every disciple who can is requested and urged to attend and to participate in the deliberations. Reduced rates on the railroads will be obtained, if possible, of which announcement will be made in due time. The church at Mayfield extends a hearty welcome to all who may attend.

J. W. CRENSHAW, President, Cadiz, Ky.

H. C. WADDELL, Sec. and Treas., Princeton, Ky.

A WORD OF EXHORTATION.

Our readers will note from the reports from the field, that there is an unusually wide-spread religious interest in the community for this season of the year. It is not impulsive, but wide-spread and earnest. Almost every report mentions an addition or two. Will the brethren determine to keep alive this feeling, and to extend it? Earnest zeal on the Christian's part in keeping himself alive, in keeping the church alive by interest and fidelity in its worship, and in all of its service. The presence of every Christian at the church service is needful, that he may give an interest to that service; but more than his presence is needed. When he gets there he must do something; do it with zeal and earnestness; and to do this, he must study his part before he goes there. A preacher once said to me that he never studied his sermons before he went into the pulpit. Every hearer was painfully aware of this without his telling it. No man is properly fitted to conduct the worship in giving thanks at the table, in prayer, in song, in exhortation, without previous thought and study. A man may get and say off a thanksgiving formula, may repeat a form of prayer, may go through an exhortation, may sing without thought; but true service needs thought and study, needs preparation beforehand. It is killing to the interest of a congregation for the leader in song to sit and turn over and over the leaves of his book as though he had never seen it before. Let the selections be made beforehand, and the services begin promptly, and continue without intervals of delay. Let him who reads select his Scripture, study it, and be prepared to bring out in a pointed and earnest manner the points in it. Let those who pray, study beforehand what are the special needs of those present, and present these fervently and briefly, instead of praying all around creation every time we approach the Father.

Let the brethren too, all earnestly second the preacher in his efforts to teach the people the way of truth. He needs your sympathy and your help. But Christians need the spiritual help that comes from giving temporal help to the teacher, full as much as the teacher needs the temporal help. Do not think he is the beneficiary, and you the benefactor. If the Christian does not find more blessing in giving than the other in receiving, it is because he is a poorly developed Christian. We earnestly urge this activity and zeal, the more, because this is the year that Christians will be called upon to help save the country from their brethren in the opposite party. And it is so much easier to excite zeal in saving the people from the ruin and tyranny of themselves than from the devil. Politics only proposes to save them from the tyranny they inflict on themselves, the Christian religion from the devil. Yet the zeal, the enthusiasm, the money that Christians expend in the one compared with what they expend in the other are wonderful.

But the devil now, as formerly, is more subtle than all the beasts of the field, and understands well directing the zeal of mankind from against him, against each other.

We firmly believe all these arguments, inducements to vote on one question or another, are but allurements of the evil one to divert the zeal and opposition from him toward one another.

He holds out allurements to all classes. He transforms himself into an angel of light, and presents to those whom the spoils of office cannot move to enter the struggle, temperance, morality, virtue, to be attained through voting.

They are all temptations of the evil one, to divert the Christian's affection, zeal and earnestness from the only institution, the building of which will honor God and overthrow the power and kingdom of the evil one. While the interest in religion is showing life, let us all earnestly strive to increase it, so that it cannot be destroyed by the political excitement.

D. L.

TEXAS WORK AND WORKERS.

CONDUCTED BY JOHN T. POE, LONGVIEW, TEXAS,
TO WHOM ALL CORRESPONDENCE RELATING TO
THIS DEPARTMENT MUST BE ADDRESSED.

INCONSISTENCIES OF CALVINISM.

The Presbyterian preachers are especially careful to keep the doctrine of predestination before the minds of their hearers. And if the doctrine were true, if, as they say, God has predestinated and decreed whatsoever comes to pass, then there is not a man on the earth that can prove the existence of moral evil. If God made men for certain purposes, and decreed that each one should fulfill a certain mission in the world, then each one is simply carrying out the will of Him who created him, and in carrying out his will, he is serving him; and to serve God is right, and not wrong. It would be wrong to contravene the decrees of God. But to carry out God's decrees, is to do right. Therefore, if Presbyterians and other Calvinists are right, there is no moral evil in the universe. The absurdity of carrying out God's decrees, and yet committing sin in doing so, is too ridiculous to be argued. If a man commit murder, theft, or anything else deemed wrong, was he not made for that purpose? Did not God make him and place him in that way, did he not hedge him in on every side by such circumstances as forced him to fulfill his predestinated mission? How then could he help it? Could he withstand God? Such are the logical results of the doctrine of predestination.

If men were predestinated to be saved, they will be saved,—if to be lost, nothing they can do will save them, and thus change God's decree. But if they are to be saved, what are they to be saved from? Do you say from sin? But they never committed a sin. Whatever life they have lived, has been the life God decreed for them—they have carried out God's decrees, and no man dare say this was wrong. What then were they saved from? There is only one thing they could be saved from, that is hell. And why is one sent to hell? What evil hath he done? Did he not carry out the will of him who made him? Could he do otherwise? Certainly not, if Calvinism is true. Then we say, as at the beginning, that if Calvinism is true, then there is no moral evil in the universe. Then all preaching, praying, and working on the part of man is nothing; then all the warnings, and exhortations, and encouragements of Scripture are useless, and accomplish nothing.

If men would use some common sense in religion, as in other matters, they would never preach predestination. Man is a moral agent. He is responsible for his conduct here, because he can do right if he will. God lays every inducement before him to lead him to act right, of his own volition and will, and if he does not, he must take the consequences of an act or acts, which he himself could have averted by a different course of life, which lay at his disposal. Men are men, not brutes. Not machines merely. While men have no right to do wrong, they have the power if they choose, and God will hold man accountable for a proper use of that power which enables him to choose right from wrong. "Whosoever will" may come to God by obedience to his commandments. This is one of the things that God decreed, and this decree will send no one to hell, but thousands to heaven. This decree, that "whosoever will" may come to God, throws the arms of his mercy wide open, and gives the whole world of mankind a chance to be saved. It includes the naturally good or moral, and it also includes the very "chief of sinners." Thanks be unto our God, for his abundant mercy, which enables all to come to him and live. His decree is, "Whosoever will" may come. "He that believeth, and is baptized, shall be saved." This is the word of the Lord, and we believe it. He decrees that all who come to him by Christ, he will in no wise cast out. Let us all obey his gospel and be saved.

Died, on Saturday night, May 3rd, 1884, Annie Newman, daughter of Bro. G. D. and sister L. N. Harrison. Aged five years, eleven months, and seventeen days. We sympathize with the home, thus bereft of one of its brightest charms. While we rejoice in the fact that both parents are Christians, and so have the consolation afforded in the gospel of him who said, "Suffer little children to come unto me, and forbid them not." These parents gave their babe—little "Kittie"—only a few months before. Now Annie, the last daughter, has gone on to join little Kittie, and await the coming of papa and mamma. Loving hands brought offerings of flowers until little Annie's remains were literally sleeping in a bed of roses. But no casket ever contained a lovelier jewel, than that which holds her remains. Farewell, Annie, "Bro. Poe" will miss you as well as others to whom you were dear. Apostolic Times will please copy.

QUESTIONS PUT TO A BAPTIST.

Mr. Jones, who has been reading his Bible, is desirous of joining the church, but he wants it to be the right one; after visiting one or two others, he finds himself at last seated in a Baptist church, where a protracted meeting is going on. He hears the preacher in a long discourse, trying to prove that the natural man (the sinner, he says,) cannot receive the word, or understand the things of the Spirit. That unless the Spirit shall open his eyes, and give him understanding, he never can understand; and that if he ever comes to God, he must be drawn of God, etc. He then wound up by exhorting every sinner to come at once, and that if they did not come, they would be lost, and no one to blame but themselves. Just here he whispered and asked his Baptist friend next to him how that could be. "He says I can't come of myself, that God must draw me, and that unless he does, I never can come. And then he says I must come, or be damned. Now, how can I go?"

Well, said his friend, "I see you do not understand it; if you will call on our pastor, he will, no doubt, make it plain to you." But, in the meantime a lady had gone forward, and the preacher questioned her as follows:

Preacher.—Do you believe God for Christ's sake has pardoned your sins, and do you now present yourself for baptism?

•Lady.—Yes.

Preacher.—Brethren, what shall we do with this applicant?

Deacon.—I move she be received for baptism. This was seconded, and the preacher took a vote on it.

Preacher.—All in favor of the motion, say I. Opposed, no. The I's have it.

"Now, says Jones, what does this mean?"

"Why, don't you see," says Baptist, "we have voted to receive her for baptism."

"Do you baptize Christians?" says Jones.

"Oh, yes," says Baptist.

"Well, what for?"

"Well—well—says Baptist, because we are commanded to do so."

"But," says Jones, "is she not already a Christian?"

"Yes," says Baptist, "but she must be baptized before she comes into full fellowship with our church."

"Oh! I see," says Jones, "you first make Christians, and then you baptize them and make Baptists." "Now will you give me the Scripture for all this?"

"I suppose," said Baptist, "that if you call on our pastor, he can explain to you."

"Can he explain," says Jones, "how a man or woman can be a Christian out of Christ? And if not, can he explain how a man can get into Christ except as Paul says in Gal. iii: 27? No sir, this is not the church I am hunting. I want a Scriptural church. I read in the Scriptures, that as many as are baptized into Christ, put on Christ. I read no where of any one being made a Baptist in the days of apostles. And if a man is made a Christian, I fail to see why this should not be sufficient, without being anything else. If I am a Christian, I don't see why I should not be called a Christian. Then further, I see you take a vote as to whether you will obey God or not. God gave a command to baptize believers, (Mark xvi: 16) and here you vote whether you will do it or not. Excuse me, I will look further."

A writer in the Galveston Christian (Methodist) Advocate has propounded the question of questions. Here it is: "IS IMMERSION BAPTISM?" There it is. This is nearly new. No one, until the latter part of the 19th century, has had the temerity to ask this. No one cared to place himself before the world as such an ignoramus as to ask this question. One of his own brethren says yes, it is. Well, we should say, to make it Scriptural baptism, it depends on what you immerse, and in what, and for what. If you immerse a believing penitent in water, in the name of the Father, the Son, and the Holy Spirit, and in order to obey God, then you have Christian baptism. Methodists sprinkle water on unbelievers, and call it baptism. Their law of pardon stands: (1) Baptism (sprinkle); (2) Repentance; (3) Faith; (4) Salvation or pardon.

Baptists put it, (1) Repentance; (2) Faith; (3) Salvation or pardon.

The Bible has it, (1) Faith; (2) Repentance; (3) Baptism; (4) Salvation or pardon.

Compare these. We say to our Methodist friends that the learned world have ever admitted that immersion, when properly performed, is Christian baptism. So much so, that up to this date, there has never been a debate on the question. This side of the question has never been in doubt. It is the other side—the substituted side—sprinkling, that gives rise to interminable debates. It is the sprinklers who have taken the doubtful side of the question, while they could just as easily have taken the other, and been infallibly safe on this subject. And to get people to accept the doubtful side, they have persuaded them that baptism is really not essential anyway. Hence, no matter how you do it. "If the blind lead the blind," etc.

S. Whitney, a disturber of the churches having neither the fear of God nor the dread of man before his eyes, is going round through Alabama and other places, tearing down the cause of Christ. Why don't the brethren refuse to receive such men? Give no countenance to tramp evangelists.

West Texas is rapidly filling up with settlers. As your friends move in and settle there, get them to subscribe for the ADVOCATE.

Rates of Advertising in Gospel Advocate.

One inch, one insertion.....	$ 60
One inch, one month.....	2 00
One inch, three months.....	5 00
One inch, six months.....	7 50
One inch, twelve months.....	12 50

A discount of 10 per cent. on these rates for order of $25.00; 20 per cent. for order of $50.00; 30 per cent. for order of $100.00.

TEXAS WORK AND WORKERS.

Brave Words.

The Fort Worth Gazette has some brave words on the subject of "a cause of lynch law." Willis Adams, after repeatedly insulting one Burns and Burns' wife, deliberately shot Burns to death. He was jailed and on writ of habeas corpus, admitted to bail, on which the Gazette remarks:

"This may be all right. Judge Maltbie doubtless followed judicial precedents in admitting Adams to bail. Had the circumstances been reversed, and Burns been the murderer and Adams the victim, perhaps the habeas corpus proceedings would have ended with the fixing of bail at the same sum as was required for Adams. But the public will not believe so. In their minds the wealth of Adams' connections is closely connected with the leniency of his judicial guardians, and they will insist that he owes his present liberty to the power of money. Already it is freely said that no conviction will ever be had against the murderer. "He has too much money!" The prevalence of this feeling must have a foundation in past experience. If men had not escaped merited punishment in the past by the power of money, there would not be so many to say that money will buy this man's freedom. Unfortunately for Texas and for the cause of justice, there is too much cause for such a feeling.

Such profanations of justice are the parents of lynch law. It was such a case that brought down the late terrible disaster upon the city of Cincinnati. Men see the system of law which they look to for protection used as a shield for red-handed murderers and shrewd rogues. They can have no respect for such a thing. Their common-sense rebels at the thought of permitting criminals to evade the penalty of offenses by the use of that very machinery of the law that had been devised to insure just punishment. Moved to indignation by the frequent occurrence of such cases, they resolve to execute justice, though in doing so the forms of law are disregarded. It is less culpable, they contend, to attain the ends of justice without the forms of law than to observe the forms of law that lead to injustice. As long as there is occasion for this feeling, it will prevail, and lynch law will rule. The way to stop lynch law is to avoid its necessity, and this Adams case is one in which the actors in its proceedings can make mob violence popular or establish respect for law."

This is well said, and it is true. If all our secular papers had the nerve thus to expose the laxity of law, the connivance at crime, and to speak for the good of the whole country, but few crimes would go unpunished. Unfortunately papers are for sale as well as juries. We can commend such papers as the above, as worthy of patronage by all who want a good secular daily paper.

The Law of Pardon.

The law of pardon, as arranged by different religious parties, stands about thus:

Baptist—(1) Repentance; (2) faith; (3) pardon; (4) baptism.

Pædobaptist—(1) Baptism; (2) repentance; (3) faith; (4) pardon.

The Bible—(1) Faith: Heb. xi: 6; John i: 11-12; Mark xvi: 16. (2) Repentance: Luke xxiv: 46-47; Acts ii: 38. (3) Baptism: Mark xvi: 16; Acts ii: 38; Romans vi: 3-4; Gal. iii: 27. (4) Pardon: Rom. vi: 17-18.

Now, let the reader try these several doctrines of men by the Bible, and see if they are not found wanting.

W. C. Holloway preaches regularly for Pea-town, and for a church near Hallville, in Harrison County.

Education and Crime.

One of our literary reviews publishes the statement that the latest French records of crime reveal the fact that crime has increased in the direct ratio of intelligence; the illiterate classes furnishing five criminals, those who can read furnishing six and the beneficiaries of the higher grade of instruction furnishing fifteen criminals in an equal number of persons. And in commenting upon it the writer says: "Unfortunately for the promulgators of the dogma that education purges a country of crime, our own beloved country has vastly increased her criminal lists with the increase of educational facilities. Of the forty thousand convicts in our penitentiaries between sixty and seventy per cent. can read and write."

It is a fact proven by history and experience that education alone, without religious influences acting with it, tends to make men more liable to commit acts of vice and crime by subjecting them to a greater range of temptations and by increasing their capacity for vicious and criminal indulgence. It has been said that an educated knave is the worst of all knaves. He knows how to commit crime more skilfully and successfully than the ignorant man. and how to evade its consequences more easily. His crimes, too, are generally committed on a larger scale and their results more disastrous than of those possessing a less degree of knowledge and shrewdness. It is really a dangerous thing to develop the intellectual part without keeping up the moral balance. Such a process tends to make men accomplished lish villains and nothing more. The religious element in man is as much a part of his nature as the intellectual, and the latter can never be found in its fullest and best exercise where the former is allowed to lie dormant.—N. Y. Observer.

By shaking the magnetic needle, you may move it from its place; but it returns to it the moment it is left to itself. In like manner, believers may fall into sin; but no sooner do they wake to reflection, than they repent, and endeavor to mend their ways, and resume a life of godliness.—Gotthold.

He who waits to do a great deal of good at once, will never do anything.—Samuel Johnson.

AMERICAN NATIONAL BANK.

CASH CAPITAL,

$1,000,000.

Board of Directors.

E. W. Cole,
John G. Houston,
J. F. Demoville,
John Orr,
Byrd Douglass, Jr.,

Jehn M. Lea,
J. Kirkman,
Rev. Dr. R. A. Young,
V. L. Kirkman,
R. L. Weakley,

A. W. Harris,
M. Burns,
T. A. Atchison,
W. G. Bush,
W. H. Jackson,

John Woodard
J. A. Pigue,
C. E. Hillman,
W. W. Berry,
Wm. Porter,
Edgar Jones.

This Bank has united with it the THIRD NATIONAL BANK of this city, and has increased its Capital Stock to $1,000,000. With increased facilities in every particular, it can confidently assert that it will offer superior advantages in all departments of Banking to its patrons and friends.

JOHN KIRKMAN, President,
A. W. HARRIS, Cashier,
E. W. COLE, Chairman Executive Committee.

EDGAR JONES, Vice-President,
JOHN M. LEA, Vice-President.

GOSPEL ADVOCATE

PRINTING AND PUBLISHING COMPANY,

JAMES F. & HARRY LIPSCOMB, Managers,

98 Union Street,

Nashville, Tenn.

Letter Heads, Note Heads, Bill Heads, Statement Heads, Circulars, Catalogues, By-Laws, Bills Lading, Receipts, Coal Tickets, Milk Tickets, Tags, Business Cards, Visiting Cards, Horse Bills, Etc.

Good work at reasonable rates. Send for prices. Give us your orders and be pleased.

WE RESPECTFULLY CALL YOUR ATTENTION TO THE FOLLOWING EXCELLENT BOOKS KEPT BY US:

Popular Hymns, word edition.....	single copy 15 cts; per dozen, by express, $1 50; by mail, $1 70
Popular Hymns, Note edition, (Boards).....	single copy 30 cts; per dozen, by express, $3 00; by mail, $3 60
Popular Hymns, Note, (with rudiments).....	single copy 40 cts; per dozen, by express, $4 20; by mail, $4 80
Popular Hymns, Note edition, (cloth).....	single copy 40 cts; per dozen, by express, $4 00; by mail, $4 75
New Life (character notes).....	single copy 25 cts; per dozen, by express, $3 00; by mail, $4 00
Songs of Glory, numbers 1 and 2.....	single copy 35 cts; per dozen, by express, $3 60; by mail, $4 00
Life of Raccoon John Smith, (very readable,) postpaid.....	1 00
Voice of Seven Thunders, (interesting, entertaining, and instructive,) postpaid.....	1 50
Gospel Plan of Salvation, by T. W. Brents, postpaid.....	2 00
Gospel Preacher, volumes 1 and 2, by Ben Franklin, each, postpaid.....	2 00
Campbell and Owen Debate (splendid book for lawyers) postpaid.....	1 75
Dictionary of Bible, (complete,) by Dr. Smith, postpaid.....	4 50, smaller
House-keeping in the Blue Grass, (splendid,) postpaid.....	1 50
First Principles, by Isaac Errett, postpaid.....	15
Offerings to the Lord, by David Lipscomb, postpaid.....	10
Christian Experience, by Ben Franklin, postpaid.....	10
Review of Dr. T. O. Summers' Tract, by Isaac Errett, postpaid.....	10
Union Movement, by Ben Franklin, postpaid.....	10
Brown's Pocket Concordance to Bible, postpaid.....	50
Cruden's New Concordance (complete) postpaid.....	1 50
Bibles, Testaments, in all styles and bindings, at low rates.

We will furnish any Book published in United States at retail price. WE SOLICIT YOUR orders. We pay postage only. All kinds of Job Printing.

DUDLEY BROS. & LIPSCOMB,
WHOLESALE HARDWARE, CUTLERY AND IMPLEMENTS.

AGENTS FOR

J. I. CASE WALKING CULTIVATORS. IMPROVED WITH SPRINGS. BEST IN USE.

DUDLEY BROS. & LIPSCOMB,

84 & 86 Broad Street,

Nashville, Tenn.

PASCHALL, FALL & CO.,

WHOLESALE

HARDWARE, Cutlery, Iron, WAGON MATERIAL, Etc

FISHING TACKLE.

Nos. 57, 59 & 61 S. Market St.,

NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE

Our Prices are Very Low.

Agents for Chicago Scale Co.'s Platform & Wagon Scales.

THE GOSPEL ADVOCATE

NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE, MAY 21, 1884.

CONTENTS:

Taking From and adding to the Word of God.....	321
Ways of Meeting Temptation.....	322
Light in a Dark Place.....	322
South Kentucky Christian Missionary and S. S. Association.....	322
What Must I do to be Saved?.....	323
Ephesians 11: 8-9, and James 11: 24.....	323
Living Oracles.....	323
Education and Crime.....	325
CONTENTS.....	326
Plants not Planted of God Must be Rooted Out.....	326
The Fanning Orphan School.....	327
OBITUARIES.....	328
The Real Christian Life.....	328
Commercial Life.....	328
ITEMS, PERSONALS, ETC.....	331
GENERAL NEWS.....	331
KENTUCKY CONTRIBUTIONS AND CORRESPONDENCE.....
The Baconian Rule.....	330
TEXAS WORK AND WORKERS.....
Inconsistencies of Calvinism.....	324
Questions Put to a Baptist.....	324
Brave Words.....	325
The Law of Pardon.....	325
HOME READING.....
Finish thy Work.....	332
For the Children.....	332
Letter to Uncle Minor.....	332
Mrs. Spurgeon's Work.....	332
Don't Sell it to Him.....	332

PLANTS NOT PLANTED OF GOD MUST BE ROOTED OUT.

The reason of the necessity for this rooting out, is, that plants not planted of God exist in God's domain. The reason of their existence, the Savior gave in the parable of the tares. "The kingdom of heaven is likened unto a man that sowed good seed in his field. But while men slept, his enemy came and sowed tares among the wheat, and went his way. But when the blade sprang up and brought forth fruit, then appeared the tares also."

Man was placed on guard to watch that the enemy should sow no tares. But he slept when on guard. This is an allusion to the military habit, of placing soldiers on guard to watch, lest the army be surprised by the enemy and suffer loss.

The danger in such occasions is that the guard be overcome with slumber himself, be surprised, captured by the enemy, and the army be attacked unawares and suffer harm. Hence the heaviest penalty is attached to being caught asleep on guard. There is a war between God and the evil one. Man was placed on guard to watch for the safety of the world. He slept, he was not watchful, not careful of the interest entrusted to him. He allowed himself to be surprised first. Forgetful of his Master's interest, bad seed was sown in his own heart. He was seduced from his fidelity to God, and he became an instrument in sowing bad seed in the world. The one entrusted by God to guard his domains here, and protect them from intruders that they might bear good fruit to the owner, himself being captured by the enemy turned traitor sowed the enemy's seed in his Master's field. By this means the enemy sowed evil seed in every department of God's domain. He sowed the seeds of death in the vital being of man, and he who was a living soul became a dying mortal. He sowed it in the material world, briars and thistles grew. He sowed the evil seed in the heart of man, and it loved evil instead of good. He sowed evil seed in the mind of man, and his reasoning powers were perverted and dwarfed.

The result of this growth from evil seed sown, was, that evil plants grew in the world; man dissatisfied with God's government, God's institutions, and God's laws, established institutions and enacted laws for his own government, and for the government of the world. This was treason against God. God instituted anew his government in the world to call back the world from these institutions, the outgrowth of evil seed sown by an enemy's hand, and by the growth and expansion of this institution to root out and destroy the institutions of the evil one.

Man was again placed on guard to prevent evil being sown in this field of God. Surely, warned by the former fatal act of carelessness, he will be sleepless in his vigilance that no evil seed can be sown, that this institution of God may be a field in which only plants planted by the Father's own hand shall grow. But, alas! man soon forgot that God was the ruler, the planter, and that the field was God's. That his province was to guard that no evil seed should grow there. Thrown off his guard, he is again adding to, changing, modifying, diminishing the appointments of God, until the self-conceited pharisee charges him in whom all the fulness of the Godhead dwells, with transgressing the tradition of the elders.

He tells them that these traditions, with every practice not instituted by God, shall be rooted up.

He announces that while fulfilling the law of God, he will purge it of all dross, of all additions by human hands. He does this as indicative that God will accept no kingdom to rule over, of which he is not the sole ruler. Whoever introduces customs, changes, modifications that become permanent, or that supplant or interfere with the full, free and perfect operations of the institutions of God, as much becomes a law-maker instead of God, as though he enacted in form a specific law declaring God's law, is annulled, and this custom substituted for it.

Whoever fosters a change, addition to, or modification of a divine appointment, assumes all the functions of the great law-maker. But while God tolerated some additions and changes made by man under the provisional government of Judaism, on account of the hardness of their heart, he never approved them, and Christ wiped them out, fulfilled the pure law of God as introductory to the final and perfect reign of God through Christ, in which he no longer winks at these additions of human hands, but now commands men every where to repent,—turn to God and his law.

God, then, through Christ, introduces his perfect law, and with all the warnings of the past, with the teachings by both precept and example of the Savior, sealing these laws of God with his own precious blood, commits again his kingdom solely to those who now profess to love and serve him. And that he might not mistake as to what constituted the good seed that was to bear fruit in the kingdom, he sends his spirit to infallibly "guide them into all truth," to "give all things needed to make them perfect," and "to thoroughly furnish them to all good works." Surely thus warned, furnished with the true seed of the kingdom sent down from heaven, warned still by the examples of the past, and the precepts and examples of the Savior, warned by the Holy Spirit to "take heed how they should build on this foundation," that if any build other than the gold, silver, precious stones of God's appointments, his work shall be burned and he suffer loss; and as the Spirit in its closing revelation so earnestly warned against adding to or changing these appointments of God, and as now for the first time in God's dealings with man, only those who voluntarily enter the army of God through faith in and love to him and his cause, sleepless vigilance, eternal watchfulness, will guard against the enemy sowing the evil seed in this sacred field of God, consecrated to growth of plants planted by God's own hand. Alas! before the death of the apostles, this same mystery of lawlessness was at work, waiting only till the watchful and jealous apostle of God, who hindered, should be taken out of the way for its development.

It soon came, the sin that doth easily beset, is the disposition to forget God as the ruler, to turn from his laws and substitute our own ways. This, in all ages, is the sin that hath easily beset and upset men, and which the Holy Spirit admonished Christians to lay aside.

It was not long until organisms unknown to the Bible were introduced as mere expediences at first, but an expediency adopted and made permanent becomes a law. It always has been, it always will be so. Very soon, the whole face of the church was changed by these inventions, mere expediences, adopted to forward the interest of the churches of God.

Men, true and faithful, have time and again appeared insisting on the supreme and only authority of God. Reformation after reformation has taken place. Ere they have fairly started, the enemy has sowed the evil seed, and the briars and thorns springing from this seed have choked the seed of the kingdom. But the work of rooting out the plants not planted by God must go forward. The truest servant of God, the most faithful sentinel, the one that does most to promote the honor of God and good of man, is he who most faithfully labors to prevent the sowing and the growing of evil seeds in the kingdom of God. He is a traitor to his post who winks at the introduction of evil seeds, human expediences or encourages man to labor otherwise than through the appointments of God.

As it was necessary that Christ should purge the old law from every excrescence, and all human additions and traditions and expediences, and present that pure, perfect, unpolluted law fulfilled in his own person, before he was capacitated to become the author of eternal life to all that receive him, so, too, it is necessary that the true church of God should be purged from all defilements by additions or subtractions by human hands, freed from all the expediences, modifications, and improvements of human wisdom, and be presented without spot or blemish, as he ordained it, before the Son can offer it up, the kingdom having "put down all rule and all authority and power," "that God may be all and in all." God will not accept the offering of a kingdom with one plant growing in it, not planted by his own hand, he will not accept it until the floor has been thoroughly purged, and the chaff burned up with fire unquenchable—until the last vestige of the wood, hay, stubble of man's addition has been burned out by the fire that purifies all that it does not destroy. The question of all ages since man sinned, is, shall we walk in the devices and expediences of men, or cling to the appointments of God.

Divine authority vs. human expediency, is the controversy God has ever had, has to-day, and will have with the nations until "every plant, that is not planted by God" in the moral, spiritual, social and political material world "is rooted up," and this world becomes a garden of God, an eden in which only plants planted by my heavenly Father shall be found.

In this conflict, the world united is sure defeat and ruin, wisdom is supreme folly, and success is disastrous and disgraceful failure. The greater the success, the more disgraceful and fatal the failure. With God, one is a majority, weakness is strength, and failure is most glorious victory. Dear reader, where are you standing in this controversy?

D. L.

UNION OF BAPTISTS AND REFORMERS.

"These two denominations can never come together so long as human works are made by the one an integral part of salvation, and by the other salvation is made to depend upon the direct work of the Holy Spirit upon the heart of the sinner, making him alive from dead works to serve the living God. God either saves by the gracious influences of his Holy Spirit upon the heart, imparting to the one saved a joyous consciousness of the fact in giving to him the witness of the Holy Spirit, or he does not. Baptists have ever maintained that this is God's method of saving, and the Reformers have always denied the fact. Now, how can two walk together unless they be agreed? There can never be any vital union between the two unless Baptists become Reformers, or unless these become Baptists. And as the chief differences exist in the very fundamentals of Christianity, their work and worship must ever remain apart. If the one is true the other is false. And it seems to us that it would be infinitely better for Baptist interests never to talk of union, for they cannot do this without marring the beauty of the "one Lord, one faith, one baptism," and misleading those who are inquiring the way of life."

The foregoing is from the Missionary Baptist, of this city; a paper which has grown in dignity and courtesy, while compromising none of the tenets peculiar to the denomination. It would be well if we could all remember that dignity, courtesy, fairness, are entirely compatible with the firm adherence to our convictions, and that spiteful misrepresentation and bitterness do not aid those who indulge in them.

In response to the foregoing, we suggest that we believe denominational union is undesirable; that if we must have denominations, the more the better. For centuries the people of many countries at least, were united in one denomination. These were dark days for the church and the world. We pray the experiment of uniting all the people in one denomination may never be repeated. We are entirely opposed to any denominational union on any terms. Christians ought to be one in Christ. To make them one in him, they have only to drop off all of their human and denominational characteristics, and be faithful and true to Christ. When we all do this, we will be one; not by an effort to unite and harmonize with each other, but by all becoming one with Christ and in Christ. Every man that is one with Christ, or in Christ, is one with every other person that is one in or with Christ. The idea that men are one with Christ, yet not one among themselves, but divided, dissevered and discordant, is a deception too palpable for sensible people to practice on themselves. So far as I am separated in religious life from any other Christian, so far must he or I, or both of us, be separated from Christ. No denomination is united in Christ, or can be.

In the next place, he says, "So long as human works are made by the one an integral part of salvation, and by the other salvation is made to depend upon the direct work of the Holy Spirit upon the heart of the sinner, making him alive from dead works to serve the living God," they cannot be one. This, doubtless, is true. And I do not believe that one who believes either position can be one with Christ, unless his practice is much better than his belief in these theories. A man who believes and acts on the belief that human works will save him, can never be one with Christ. Human works always lead a man away from Christ. His servants ye are to whom ye yield your members' servants to obey. If we follow human works, we are the servants of that human being whom we obey. But if we follow divine works, yield our members to obey God—that is, to do God's works—then we are God's servants. A man that relies on God's works to save him, cannot rely on man's work. Neither can he wait for, or depend upon, the direct work of the Holy Spirit upon the heart of the sinner to make him alive from dead works. Then the practice of neither of these beliefs will make man one with Christ.

God's works are the works ordained by God. God ordains the work, but he ordains it for man to do. Man must believe in Christ. He is commanded by God to believe him on pain of eternal condemnation. Yet to believe in Christ is the work of God. "This is the work of God that ye believe in him whom he hath sent." Believing in Christ is a work, a work of God; but man does the work, man believes. When a man does the work of God, he becomes, so far as that work affects him, one with Christ; because Christ does the work of God. When two beings are governed by the same laws, and do the same work, they become one. Man believes, but that is not human works. That is God's work, because God ordained it. For our friends to attribute this work of God to man, and say this work of God is man's work, is something like those persons who attributed the works of Christ to Satan. To believe in God is a work of God, not in the sense that God does the work. God does not believe that Jesus is his Son—he knows it. But it is a work of God in the sense that he ordained it for man to do, and in doing it he becomes the servant of God.

Repentance is of the same character. It is a work of God, ordained by God. It is ordained by God for man to perform. When man repents, from a godly sorrow, he is not doing man's work. He is doing God's work. Man works, but he works the work of God; just as the Savior worked the work of God in doing the thing God sent him to do. When man works the work of God as Jesus worked the work of God, he makes himself one with Jesus, and one with every one that does the work of God.

Baptism is of precisely the same character. Baptism is a work of God when submitted to by those to whom he commanded it. He commanded to those who believed in him through Christ. "He that believeth and is baptized," "Repent and be baptized." Baptism to him who believes in Christ, to him who repents, is a work of God, a work ordained by God for his profit. In submitting to baptism, he is doing God's work. It is akin to the blasphemy of those who attributed the works of the Savior to Satan, to say that this work of God, is man's work. Man does the work as the servant,—the work is God's. God ordained baptism to bring a man into Christ. "Ye are all the children of God through faith; for so many of you as have been baptized into Christ have put on Christ."

When a man then relies on human works for salvation, he cannot be one with Christ. Neither can he be one with him by waiting to receive a direct work of the Holy Spirit in his heart to make him alive from dead works. God never ordained man should do this. He has never promised a blessing to a single sinner, if he would wait for this. He has never promised the direct impartation of the Spirit to a single heart to make him alive from evil works. We challenge a single promise of this in the Bible.

We agree with our friend of the Missionary Baptist, that a union of these two bodies holding these faiths, is impossible without the conversion of one to the other. But if either were converted to the faith of the other, it would not be benefited. Conversion from one human system to another does not help man. But if the parties who believe in these systems, were both converted to the faith that men are saved by doing the works of God, it would lead them to oneness with Christ. And oneness with Christ, makes all who are one with Christ, one with each other.

Our friend of the Missionary Baptist is wrong in saying those he calls "Reformers" believe in salvation through human works, unless he is guilty of attributing the works of God to man. That would be to reproach the name and the work of God. Let us be plain and frank, but fair and just in our dealings with each other and our teachings.

D. L.

THE FANNING ORPHAN SCHOOL

Will open for the reception of pupils, on first Monday in September next. The trustees are now seeking a man and wife suitable for superintendent, and matron, to take charge of the school. They recognize this as the turning point in the success of the school. They wish a good, economical, business man, who is, at once, an earnest Christian, good teacher, and one that has a real taste for the care of children. The woman must be of like taste, and withal a good housekeeper, fond of caring for children. We will be thankful for help in securing such persons suited for this work.

The trustees will be glad to have benevolent individuals and churches select orphan children around them, and make up their minds to help train and educate them for usefulness. The trustees will put the charges at the lowest rate of actual expenses for all who attend, besides giving what aid is in their power to the children. But their limited means will not enable them to support a large number themselves. They desire that its chief good will be in affording facilities, and so encouraging others to works of kindness and Christian love, in helping the destitute orphans.

Dr. J. L. M. Currey, at the Southern Baptist Convention in Baltimore, made the following remark:

"I do not believe in any possible tracing of church succession from apostolic days. I committed an unpardonable offence in Waco, Texas, and will add to it now by saying that there is no man on earth who can trace an unbroken succession from the apostles to the present day."

The convention so far endorsed the sentiment as to at once elect Dr. Currey to preach the sermon at the next annual convention at, Augusta, Ga., the second Sunday in May, 1885. A few years ago, such an announcement would have precluded any preacher in the Southern Baptist ranks from such appointment, which shows Baptists are learning. If they will see that conformity to the word of God is a better title to the favor of God than any claim of succession, however strong it might be, it may make them more anxious for a more exact conformity to that will. God once said of a people who could trace back an unbroken lineage, "I had planted thee a noble vine, wholly a right seed: how then art thou turned into the degenerate plant of a strange vine unto me?" As a vine from a wholly good seed planted by God has once done this, it can be done again.

Bro. W. H. Carter writes from Lafayette, Tenn., May 11: "We closed our meeting at Centreville, Clay county, last Friday night. Immediate result, seven added by confession and baptism. We found the church in a very bad condition, not having assembled to break bread for about two years. They agreed to begin keeping house at once. There is an opening to do great good at this place. May they be faithful, that the Lord may bless them. From Centreville, Bro. Rogers went to Sugar Orchard, and I to Bagdad."

Obituaries.

I returned home yesterday to hear the sad news of the death of one of our home congregation. Bro. John Stanley crossed over the river of death, on April 26. Bro. Stanley was one of the best men I ever saw. Of his relatives, little is known to the writer. He came here twelve or thirteen years ago, an orphan boy, from North Carolina, and soon proved himself to be both honorable and industrious. After a short time he married; next he obeyed the gospel, and since that time has been a good neighbor, a good and tender father. His request was to be buried plain, that the more might be left to his children. He leaves a wife and two little girls, his little son having gone before. In his death the writer lost one of his true friends. May our heavenly Father be as he has ever been—a friend to the widow and the fatherless—and may they follow his noble example, and dwell with him again. J. H. HALSBROOK.

It is seldom we are called upon to chronicle the death of any one that causes more sadness than our beloved sister in Christ, Kate B. Word. Her maiden name was Wiley; was born in Lowndes county, Alabama, February 14, 1851; was married to Bro. J. E. Word, January 10, 1883; and died May 1, 1884, after intense suffering for about six days with pneumonia. She having been raised in the faith of the gospel, obeyed it under the preaching of Bro. J. M. Barnes, at Cross Roads, in Lowndes county, Alabama, in 1868, and was true to her profession until it pleased our heavenly Father to remove her hence. She has left a dear little babe six months old, a devoted companion, and many relatives and friends, who are shrouded in gloom and sadness because of her death. May all receive consolation in the thought that she is free from sorrow and suffering. The funeral service, conducted by the writer at the residence, was attended by a large number of sympathizing friends, after which, in full hope of a happy resurrection and blissful immortality, the body was deposited in its final resting-place. J. D. FLORY.

It is the dictate of Christian friendship to make mention of the virtues of our brethren, when they have been called from us to the invisible world. Bro. D. M. Burnett died at Nashville, March 18, 1884. He was nearly twenty-two years of age at his death. Born of humble parentage, near Readyville, Rutherford county, Tennessee. He was left without a father at an early age. His mother, though burdened with a large family, managed to send him to school, and with the help of Bro. W. D. Hurdleston, Dr. Bridges, and others, gave him a start in education. He then went to Burritt College, from means which he had acquired by teaching school, and graduated in their Commercial College. He afterwards gave himself to teaching in the public schools of Rutherford and Cannon counties, and made himself an excellent reputation as a teacher. He obeyed the gospel in 1881, at Rock Hill, Rutherford county, and did good service in the church and Sunday-school. Wishing to perfect himself in his commercial education, he entered the college of Prof. Frank Goodman, at Nashville, early in the current year. It was but a few weeks when he was attacked by measles, and away from his boyhood's home, amid the din and stir of the city, gave up his life. His faithful old mother was at his bedside, and ministered to him in his last hours. So ended a career which promised usefulness. He has left a character without a stain, and the youth of the land may well imitate his manly earnestness, his industry, and his Christian fidelity. The Lord comfort his bereaved mother. L. W. J. Bradyville, Tenn.

THE REAL CHRISTIAN LIFE.

The highest idea of Christian living, ever obtained by many people is a purely negative one. To them the Christian life is simply a defensive warfare. They are entirely concerned (so far as they are concerned at all) with how they shall not sin. They present to us the picture of a soldier on the field of battle with a scared look on his face, looking right and left to avoid a stray bullet, while he runs as fast as ever he can from the field of action. To be out of temptation, to be freed from the tendency to backslide, is the largest conception of the life in Christ which these brethren seem to possess. And this, I venture to say, is just the reason that we do have so many halting and backsliding professors. The trouble is they are more concerned with what they shall not do, than with what they shall do. They define righteousness to be—not a positive doing of right, but a simple not doing of wrong; and, of course, with such a notion of Christian living there can be no progress; and where is no progress there must be retrogression. The field that does not yield a harvest of fruit, always yields a harvest of weeds.

What the Bible calls for, is positive Christians—men of Christ-like manliness; men, who, while they believe and act out the principle "resist the devil, and he will flee from you," also believe that God has called them to carry on an aggressive warfare in the enemy's country. We should hardly entertain a lofty opinion of that general as a military genius who had no higher aim than simply not to be defeated. Can we entertain a higher opinion of the man or woman who is content with a mere escape from the wiles of the devil? The truth of the matter is, the positive Christian is never seriously troubled with these negative ideas. The man whose hands and heart are full of the Master's work, who is toiling indefatigably in his Master's vineyard, will not be troubled much by the old adversary. Instead of resisting the devil he has become the aggressor, and the devil is compelled to resist him or flee. We certainly have had enough passivity in the Christian life. What we want especially in these stirring times is men of activity, of thought consecration, of intelligent comprehension of the needs of their fellows. That kind of piety which expends itself in expressions of mock humility, which is ever bemoaning its own shortcomings, and yet never making the first attempt, in a manly way, to do some practical good to mankind, which is all talk and no work, we have had more than enough of. It is pretty generally understood that this kind of self-depreciation is only a garb for a very malignant form of self-righteousness; in brief, a bid for a spiritual compliment. The positive Christian, then, is the man who lives the real and noble Christian life. He has so much to do for others that he forgets himself; and where a man forgets himself, he will not be troubled with selfishness, and when selfishness is absent sin has no chance.

A few of the characteristics of the positive Christian may be enumerated: 1. He will relieve as far as he can the temporal needs of his fellows. It is an easy thing to say to those in distress of any kind, "Depart in peace; be ye warmed and filled," and albeit, it is a cheap kind of benevolence; at the same time "what doth it profit?" If that is the type of our Christianity we need not worry about the heathen; we have nothing to give them which they do not possess already. Every Christian hopes and prays for the conversion of sinners; but that Christian who does not care anything for his neighbors' bodies cannot care very much for their souls. "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these, ye have done it unto me." Of course, if God has given you no power to relieve these necessities, the requirement is not upon you.

2. He will try to help others to realize their worthy aims. If a deserving young man comes to you longing for an education, thirsting for knowledge, but has his way hedged about him on every side, so that it seems impossible for him to realize his aim, if you are a positive Christian and possess money or influence, you will interest yourself in that young man, and leave no stone unturned until he is in a fair way to the realization of his desires. And this you will do for any one with a worthy end in view. The most eloquent divine never preached more effective sermons than the positive and practical Christian preaches in this tangible way, for he sets in motion a train of influences which will be felt forever. Many a man has been brought to Christ by finding himself the object of such genuine Christian love. The world does not do things that way.

3. He will try by every means to bring others to Christ. Realizing that out of Christ the world is perishing, he will feel like the apostle when he cried, "Woe is unto me if I preach not the gospel." He will therefore do a great deal more than merely pray for the unconverted at the weekly prayer-meeting. He will seek them out at their homes, interest himself in their secular plans, enter with them into their innocent enjoyments, gain their hearts, and then pour into them all the earnest, loving entreaties and invitations of the gospel, coupled with his own affectionate appeal to accept the blessed Savior at once. A sinner thus approached will prove a faithful listener; and the positive Christian, relying upon God's promise and the aid of the Holy Spirit, will succeed every time. These are but a few of the many ways in which positive Christianity will show itself.

The world, brethren, is tired of everything that savors of cant. It is a good deal more ready to accept Christ than we believe it to be, if we offer to it the veritable Christ, manifesting himself as he said he would in the lives of his people. The world, when we ask it to follow Christ, says to us, and says properly: "Show your credentials." And what do we offer? Do we say we attend Church and prayer-meeting, and have a class in the Sabbath-school, and pay our pew-rent, and sometimes in public, offer prayer? Is that all? The world bids us read our Bibles, and conform to the practical precepts found therein, before offering it what it does not clearly see that we practically possess ourselves. Let us remember that Christianity is not a doctrine, nor a sentiment, nor an idea, but an eternal principle of love originating in the heart of God for man, and expressing itself in the heart of man for his fellow.

"Every one that loveth is born of God, and knoweth God. He that loveth not, knoweth not God, for God is love."—Christian Advocate.

COMMERCIAL FERTILIZERS.

The use of commercial fertilizers is annually increasing, a fact which can only be accounted for, that it pays the farmer to buy them. No man would be so foolish to spend his money for that which brings him no return. They have paid, and can still be made more profitable when farmers understand more about them, when and how to use them, the best kind suited to their lands, etc. We are just in our infancy as to the results that can be attained. The day will come when farmers will not be satisfied with a smaller yield of wheat than fifty bushels to the acre, or one hundred bushels of corn. It has been done, and it can be done again. You ask me, How is this to be brought about? Simply by intelligent fertilization and cultivation. The day has past when men can "go it blind" and make money on the farm. It takes more brains to make a good farmer than any of the professions. But I did not sit down to write an article on farming in general, but on fertilizers.

Farmers usually pay but little attention to the analysis of fertilizers, but they should, as the law is very strict in some of the States, and requires that every barrel or sack shall be plainly branded with the name and analysis on it. Now, this is to protect the farmer, to show him what he is paying for. But if he does not care, and says that "guano is guano," or "fertilizer is fertilizer," all he wants is to buy from the dealer who will sell him cheapest, then he has no one to blame but himself if he makes a failure. You might just as well go to your grocery and order a barrel of flour without regard to quality, and pay the same price for the inferior article as for the best in the market. So in buying a suit of clothes or a hat. Ten dollars will buy you a suit of clothes that will be comfortable, yet they will not last you as long nor look as well as one that costs you twenty dollars. The truth is, commercial fertilizers vary more in quality than any other article of commerce. They are generally a compound of several articles, each of which is liable to differ character and quality. The cost and character of the principle elements used in fertilizers, such as ammonia, potash, phosphate, etc., differ a hundred fold. Notwithstanding this difference, all the fertilizers may be reasonably good, but some unreasonably high priced, when you take into consideration their bulk. The real value of any fertilizer consists largely upon its concentration. A very little of the substance needed as plant-food in a soluble form, is better than a large quantity of useless material. Farmers who have never used fertilizers I would advise to "go slow," but to try them by all means. Buy none but high grade standard goods; don't be taken in by cheap.—V. M. Metcalfe, in Farmers Home Journal.

The sure way of not being conformed to the world, is to be transformed by the renewing of our minds. "If the bushel is filled with wheat," says another, "you may defy the devil to fill it with tares." If the gaze be steadfastly fixed upon heaven, it will not be distracted with the things of time and sense.—Jay.

ROYAL

BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

This powder never varies. A marvel of purity strength and wholesomeness. More economical than the ordinary kinds, and cannot be sold in competition with the multitude of low test, short weight adulterated phosphates. Sold only in cans.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 106 Wall St., New York.

A Pretty Woman's Secret.

Fear of discovery, when she resorts to false hair and dyes, is a source of constant anxiety to her. The very persons from whom she most desires to hide the waning of her charms are the ones most likely to make the discovery. But there is no reason why she should not regain and retain all the beauty of hair that was her pride in youth. Let her use AYER'S HAIR VIGOR, and not only will her hair cease to fall out, but a new growth will appear where the scalp has been denuded; and locks that are turning gray, or have actually grown white, will return to their pristine freshness and brilliancy of color. AYER'S HAIR VIGOR cures

Hereditary Baldness.

GEORGE MAYER, Flatonia, Texas, was bald at 23 years of age, as his ancestors had been for several generations. One bottle of HAIR VIGOR started a growth of soft, downy hair all over his scalp, which soon became thick, long, and vigorous.

Ayer's Hair Vigor

is not a dye, but, by healthful stimulation of the roots and color glands, speedily restores to its original color hair that is

Turning Gray.

MRS. CATHERINE DEAMER, Point of Rocks, Md., had her hair suddenly bleached by fright, during the late civil war. AYER'S HAIR VIGOR restored it to its natural color, and made it softer, glossier, and more abundant than it had been before.

Scalp Diseases

Which cause dryness, brittleness, and falling of the hair, dandruff, itching, and annoying sores, are all quickly cured by AYER'S HAIR VIGOR. It cured HERBERT BOYD, Minneapolis, Minn., of intolerable itching of the scalp; J. N. CARTER, JR., Occoquan, Va., of Scald Head; MRS. D. V. S. LOVELACE, Lovelaceville, Ky., of Tetter Sores; MISS BESSIE H. BEDLOE, Burlington, Vt., of Scald Disease and Dandruff. Tendency of the roots of the hair, which, if neglected, may result in incurable baldness, is readily cured by AYER'S HAIR VIGOR. As

A Toilet Luxury

AYER'S HAIR VIGOR has no equal. It is colorless, cleanly, delightfully perfumed, and has the effect of making the hair soft, pliant, and glossy.

Ayer's Hair Vigor,

PREPARED BY

Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.
Sold by all Druggists.

THE SUGAR HAND BOOK

A NEW AND VALUABLE TREATISE ON SUGAR CANES, (including the Minnesota Early Amber) and their manufacture into Syrup and Sugar. Although comprised in a small compass and furnished free to applicants, it is the BEST PRACTICAL MANUAL ON SUGAR CANES that has yet been published.

BLUMYER MANUFACTURING CO.
Cincinnati, O.
Manufacturers of Steam Sugar Machinery, Steam Engines, Victor Cane Mill, Cane Sugar Evaporator, etc.

PREWITT, SPURR & CO., MANUFACTURERS OF WOODEN WARE AND LUMBER, NASHVILLE, TENN.

Poplar and Pine Flooring, Ceiling, Weatherboarding, Sash, Doors, Blinds, Door and Window Frames Brackets, Laths, Cedar Posts, Etc., Always on hand.

FACTORY AND MILLS IN EDGEFIELD.

NATHANIEL BAXTER, JR.,
President.

THOS. PLATER,
Vice President.

J. P. WILLIAMS,
Cashier.

W. F. BANG, JR.,
Asst. Cashier.

THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK, OF NASHVILLE, TENN. (Reorganized.)

Designated Depository and Financial Agent of the United States.

CAPITAL STOCK, - - - - - $500,000 00
UNDIVIDED PROFITS, - - - - - 190,000 00

Receives Deposits, Deals in United States Bonds and Local Securities, and Foreign and Domestic Exchange. Drafts drawn on all European points. Our facilities for making collections at all accessible points are unsurpassed.

P. A. SHELTON,

DEALER IN

STAPLE AND FANCY GROCERIES,

FLOUR, BACON, LARD, TOBACCO AND CIGARS, COUNTRY PRODUCE,
QUEENSWARE, GLASSWARE, TINWARE, LAMPS AND TRIMMINGS.

No. 96 BROAD STREET, - (Second door from College,) - NASHVILLE, TENN.

Special Attention Given to Filling Orders.

SOLE AGENT FOR "RINGLEADER" FLOUR.

ALEX. HOGAN.

JO. B. HALL.

HOGAN & HALL,

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALERS IN

GROCERIES, BACON, LARD,

—AND—

PURE WHISKIES AND WINES

For Medicinal Purposes.

106 Broad Street, - - - NASHVILLE, TENN.

GOOD CLOTHING!

Gentlemen and boys who desire GOOD CLOTHING at medium prices, equal in style and make to any custom work, should not fail to examine our stock before purchasing their Outfits.

HUNTINGTON, Clothier,

160 Church Street, - - - - - NASHVILLE.

W. R. CORNELIUS,

GENERAL FUNERAL UNDERTAKER.

OFFICE:
No. 17 North Summer Street,

RESIDENCE:
No. 418 Main Street.

Telephone 73 calls the Office; Telephone 271 calls the Residence.

Will furnish everything wanted at a funeral, and all first-class.
Prices as cheap as anybody else. 2a3m

THUSS, KOELLEIN & GIER.

Successors to old Giers' Gallery,

PHOTOGRAPHERS!

189 Union Street, Nashville, Tenn.

CALVERT BROTHERS, PORTRAITS.

In Crayon, in Oil and Water Colors; Ivory Miniatures, &c., &c.,
Coke Building, Cor. Union and Cherry Streets, Nashville, Tenn.

GEO. E. COOPER & CO.,

Wholesale Manufacturers and Dealers in

TINWARE, STOVES, FURNACES,

And House Furnishing Goods.

Tin and Slate Roofing and Galvanized Iron Cornice Work a Specialty.

Also our Patent Chimney Top for smoky chimneys, has no equal. Write for prices and address.

GEO. E. COOPER & CO.,

22 North Market Street,

Nashville, - - - Tennessee.

SHOW CASES,

CEDAR CHESTS, CEDAR WARDROBES.

Cabinet Work, and all kinds of Glass.

G. C. TERRY, Manufacturer,

No. 2 Hicks' Block, North Side Public Square, NASHVILLE, TENN.

F. A. BADGER, DENTIST

OFFICE

ODD FELLOWS' TEMPLE,

(Cor Church & High Sts.,)

Nashville, Tennessee.

A Physician's Gift.

If you are a sufferer hoping for a permanent cure of Apoplectic or Epileptic

FITS,

a Free Trial Box of the celebrated Dr. JUSTICE SCHROEDER'S REMEDY for this disorder will be sent you, post-paid, free.

Every sufferer from this disease that is anxious to be cured should give these Powders an immediate trial. Large Box $3.00, two boxes $5.00

Address, PHILIP HENRY,

49 South Street, New York City.

OWEN'S STATION SCHOOL.

The sixth annual session will open Sept. 3d, 1893, and continue Forty Weeks. The session is divided into two terms of twenty weeks each.

The expenses to boarders per term, are from $75.00 to $80.00. Music with use of Instrument, $22.00. $100.00 will pay for board, washing, full instruction in higher English Branches, Latin, Greek, French and Music. Bills due one-half at opening of term and remainder at middle. For any information, address

W. LIPSCOMB
Brentwood, Tenn.

AGENTS wanted for the History of Christianity, by Abbott. A grand chance. A $4 book at the popular price of $1.25. Liberal terms. The religious papers mention it as one of the few great religious works of the world. Greater success never known by agents. Terms free. STINSON & Co., Publishers, Portland, Maine.

DONT purchase your CHRISTMAS PRESENTS until you have seen our IMMENSE HOLIDAY CATALOGUE of Toys, Novelties, Fancy Goods, &c., mailed free. Address Eureka T. & N. Co., 87 Warren St., New York.

CATALOGUE of Best Books for Agents sent free, including Mother, Home and Heaven. $2.75. Please everybody. 126,000 sold, $150 monthly. E. B. TREAT, Publisher, New York.

KENTUCKY CONTRIBUTIONS AND CORRESPONDENCE.

BY J. A. HARDING, OF WINCHESTER, KY., TO WHOM
ALL COMMUNICATIONS FOR THIS DEPARTMENT
SHOULD BE ADDRESSED.

THE BACONIAN RULE.

"Reading maketh a full man, speaking a ready man, and writing an exact man," taught the great father of the inductive system of reasoning, lord Bacon; and I design preaching a short sermon, from his famous statement, for young Christians. Though this discourse is intended more particularly for the young, it is hoped that even the seniors who may read it, may have their sincere minds stirred up by being put in remembrance.

1. READING. Doubtless the great philosopher in speaking of reading, referred to the reading of the works of men, especially to those produced by the master minds of the ages; but I shall talk about reading the word of God. It is a very small matter whether you secure the information to be obtained from other books or not, if only you are learned in this one; for the Bible, God's book, is as superior to all others, as God himself is superior to men. From the one we obtain the wisdom of God; from the other the wisdom of men. And the wisdom of the wisest man is often but drivelling nonsense in the sight of God. "Because the foolishness of God is wiser than men; and the weakness of God is stronger than men."

Let us study therefore the infallible teacher, the accurate book. Jesus says "learn of me." It is said of him, "He knew all men;" "he needed not that any one should bear witness concerning man; for he himself knew what was in man." No wonder "the word of God is living and active, and sharper than any two-edged sword, and piercing even to the dividing of soul and spirit, of both joints and marrow, and quick to discern the thoughts and intents of the heart," seeing that it was written by him who sees the workings of every mind and heart as plainly as I see the fingers of the hand with which I write. Yet I frequently meet with people who have not time to read the Bible, but are enthusiastic about reading Shakespeare, that they may acquire a knowledge of human nature. Compare the rain drop to the ocean, the glow-worm to the sun blazing in noon day splendor, the mustard seed to the great globe on which we stand, and then you have faint illustrations of man's knowledge of human nature as compared with God's. Why should we turn from the fountains of living water, to which the Good Shepherd leads us, to the broken cisterns of human wisdom?

"But then we have not time to read the Bible," it is said. A minister of this town, speaking of justification of human creeds and confessions of faith, recently, claimed that they are necessary; because many are so involved in business that they cannot be expected to study the Bible sufficiently for themselves; they need to have some one study it for them, and to epitomize its doctrines; for they may, perhaps, find time in the midst of the whirl of the world to master the abridgement. This teaching set me off on an arithmetical calculation. There are in the New Testament part of the Bible which I hold in my hand 234 pages; I can read one of the pages in a slow, deliberate way in three minutes; so if I devote ten minutes per day to the New Testament, I will read it through five times each year; if I live to fulfill the three score-years and ten, and all through the years devote ten minutes per day to the reading of the New Testament, the Christian's law, "the perfect law of liberty," I will between now and the end of my life read it 170 times. Now if I read it this much thoroughly, praying for wisdom that I may understand, loving it because it is the word of my God and Savior, will I not become wise unto salvation?

In the Old Testament, in my Bible, are 764 pages; by a similar calculation to the one given, I find that if I devote twenty minutes per day to reading it, I will read it through more than three times each year.

So I find that if one devotes one half hour to reading the Bible daily, he will go through the entire book three times, and through the New Testament two additional times per year. But it seems to me that no Christian should be content with giving less than one hour daily to the word of God. There are such rich blessings pronounced upon him who delights in it, who meditates in it day and night; we are so earnestly exhorted to grow in grace and KNOWLEDGE, and to let the word of God dwell in us richly; the angels so delight in its being studied, understood and obeyed, and the devil so dreads it,—surely we should give it at least one hour each day; then in addition to the half hour's reading, another half hour could be devoted to comparing passages, hunting the meaning of words, and to prayerful meditation.

If we divide our day into three parts we have eight hours for work, eight for sleep and eight for recreation. Let us take one from the time for sleep, or recreation, and give it to the Bible. It will pay us a thousand fold better than any other hour of the day, for by it we will be enabled to do every thing else better: during that hour we will be obtaining wisdom from the infinitely wise, the great source of all knowledge and wisdom and qualifying ourselves to walk in that light of which all the other lights in the universe are but faint reflections. May God bless all who read this in moving them to greater diligence and devotion in studying his word. I would not discourage the use of other books altogether, for many of them are very useful in assisting us in understanding the word of God. We need a good Bible Dictionary, (William Smith's is the best,) and a good Concordance, (Young's Analytical is the best). He who has these books together with Webster's unabridged, and the revised version, is well equipped for study. Let him go at it lovingly and prayerfully, if he desires to become a mighty man in the Lord.

2. SPEAKING. Speaking makes the ready man. Hence it is very important that we should talk about what we read. It is a blessed thing when several Christians can daily read the word together, and talk about it as they read. We had most pleasant and profitable morning readings in the family with which I stopped at Valdosta, Georgia. We read leisurely and asked and answered questions as we read. Instead of being a wearisome task, our morning lesson was a delightful pastime. Many times, when not so pleasantly situated, I look back regretfully to those happy hours, and pray to the Father to speed the day when his kingdom shall be so extended that in every community there shall be such devoted churches as that one. Oh that he may preserve that one, and make it purer and stronger,—free from the inventions of man and more devoted to the law of the Lord. It is very helpful to young men and boys of the church to speak to one another, in meetings of their own, about things they have learned; their seniors should draw them out in the prayer-meetings, and in the Lord's day services, in reading extracts from the Scriptures, and in making short addresses. I was fortunate enough to be pressed into this kind of service when quite young; one of the elders of the congregation with which I was then connected insisted that I should make one speech, of five or ten minutes, at least, each week. So I was invariably called out on Wednesday evening or Sunday morning. I adopted this rule, namely, to have in my mind one thought, and to have it as sharply defined and as thoroughly mastered as possible; to deliver it in as clear, simple and brief a way as I could, and then quit. I find that a very good rule to work by yet. I was particularly impressed by a sentence from Bro. D. L. recently. He says he rarely ever endeavors to explain a passage to others without gaining more light from it himself. This is certainly my experience. I believe I have obtained as many ideas from the Bible perhaps, while on the rostrum addressing people as at all other times. The mind acts with so much more vigor and power while aroused and stimulated as it is under such circumstances. Then by all means tell what you know to others, taking care to explain matters to others who know less than you do about them. Sometimes the young preacher thinks he cannot afford to devote himself to evangelistic work; for he imagines the constant speaking and visiting and talking required by it, will not give him time for mental culture. Never was there a greater mistake; for these public addresses, and private questions are the very things to draw out his powers, and to develop him in Bible knowledge, if he makes it the great controlling desire of his life to get an understanding of the truth into the people. I can devote six hours a day to writing and reading, when I will; and that is enough.

WRITING: Writing makes the exact man. It is wonderful how much men will say to you in conversation that they will not write. When a man puts a thing in print he must know what he is talking about, and have the proof of it, too, if it is something about which others are concerned, or he will be called to account. Many an argument glides glibly from the tongue, and takes capitally with the thoughtless crowd, which the author at once recognizes as being the veriest trash, the most absurd sophistry, when he endeavors to express it upon paper. Every preacher should write; but very few of us will do it unless we have to. Knowing this to be so, I was all the more willing to become a regular contributor to the ADVOCATE; for I knew if I obligated myself to write I would do it, otherwise I would not. There is however one great advantage which the occasional contributor has, if he will exercise it, viz., he can write, and study, and rewrite, and revise his article until it suits him. Not so with us who write regularly; often we stop by the wayside, and engage a room at the hotel that we may dash off the article for the week: almost always it is written in a hurry: frequently we barely glance over it after writing, scarcely taking time to correct it as it should be, and then hastily seal it and send it on its way. But then we are thankful for printers and proof-readers; if it does not come out all right, we can lay the blame on them.

Let us read, speak and write; above everything, let us read: this is the prime duty, for without knowing it we cannot do the will of God.

END OF THE KENTUCKY DEPARTMENT.

The Western Christian Advocate says a man got the floor in the Methodist Conference, now in session in Philadelphia, and moved that in view of the low state of religion, the Conference recommend more constant and earnest reading of the Bible. It was discovered his mind was disordered and he was not a member of the body. Did they draw the conclusion from what he did?

ITEMS, PERSONALS, ETC.

Bro. Larimore will be in the field evangelizing from June 1, to October 1.

Bro. J. D. Floyd will preach at Murfreesboro on fourth Lord's day in May.

Bro. J. H. Roulhac has recovered from his ill health, and is doing good work.

There were two more confessions at congregation on Church street, last Lord's day.

Bro. J. K. Blackman intends travelling some, and will solicit subscriptions to the Advocate wherever he may go.

Bro. Loos closed the meetings, with interest, in Edgefield. Five or six have been baptized with some added by letter.

Bro. J. Harding reports two baptized since last report, and meeting still continuing. The brethren and sisters of Portland Avenue are bravely working ahead to raise means to build a new house.

We have received from a sister at Berkley, Ala., one dollar for Higbee's tract fund, and one dollar for Indian Mission; from a sister at Lewisburg, one dollar for Orphan School, and one dollar for Indian Mission.

J. L. Sewell, Viola, Tenn., writes: "Through the mercies of God, I am once more able to preach; and any church that may wish me to hold a meeting for them in August, September, or October, can address me at Viola, Warren county, Tennessee.

J. R. Bradley, Lynnville, Tenn., writes: "In bounds of my labors the Lord's day services are not attended as it should be. I think Campbell's Station brethren are going to do well now. Old difficulties removed, good Sunday-school, and it seems that nearly all are interested."

Bro. J. A. Harding writes from Gadsden, Ala., May 12: "We are having a grand meeting here. Although we have such a small membership here—less than a dozen—we have hundreds to hear us night after night. There have been four additions—two gentlemen and two ladies. We hope for many more. I will return to Kentucky by Nashville, if I can."

J. M. Kidwill, Smithville, Tenn., writes: "The fourth Lord's day in last month I preached at Dixon's Spring, and baptized an old man sixty-five or seventy years of age. He is a man of fine intelligence, and I believe is thoroughly in earnest. Dixon's Springs is a new congregation. They are meeting every Lord's day, and are self-sustaining. I was with them eight times last year; there were additions at six of the eight meetings."

Bro. T. C. Little writes: "The time of my regular appointment for Gum Springs' has been changed to the first Sunday in each month. Bro. Allen Taylor, who has served as bishop of this congregation for years, and his son Knox who is one of the young brothers, are quite sick. This congregation is in very good working order, and are hopeful of doing some good for the Master this year. On the second Sunday I began my summer's work at Liberty, (a Methodist house) five miles from Fayetteville; I was allowed to preach once a month in this house last summer, and the privilege has been extended me for this summer; this is entirely a new field; hope to accomplish permanent good. I have agreed to labor for the church at Fayetteville a part of my time; will preach there at night on second Sunday in each month. The building committee have resumed work again on the house here, and we expect to soon have our house in better order."

L. R. Sewell writes from Donelson, Tenn., May 14: "I preached last Lord's day at Bethel, Wilson county, at 11 o'clock A. M., and at night; at Young's School-house at 4 o'clock P. M. This last is a place where our brethren have never preached. Had a large and attentive audience. I promised (the Lord willing) I would hold them a meeting of several days in July. The church at Bethel is in good condition, and is doing a good work. They are trying to sound out the word through the surrounding country. I hope to be able to do much good in that field this year."

Bro. F. C. Sowell, Columbia, Tenn., writes: "I spoke to a large audience at the church on Cathey's Creek, on the first Lord's day in May. Two took membership. The brethren there are getting along harmoniously. They aid in sending the gospel to destitute places. I expected to be at Cross Bridges on first Lord's day, at four o'clock, but failed on account of rain. We have the privilege of occupying the Methodist's house at this place. We make efforts to remove prejudice, and then we preach Jesus. That is the way the apostles did. We hope the seed we are sowing will germinate and make Christians. Bro. Larimore is to be in Columbia on the 7th of June. I suppose Bro. Larimore will have several meetings in Tennessee. May the Lord bless his people."

Bro. W. H. Carter writes from Centreville, Clay County, Tenn., May 5: "Bro. Rogers and I are still in the field and well equipped, having the sharp two-edged sword of the Spirit as our weapon of warfare. We preach at different points on Lord's days and come together during the week. Bro. Rogers had two additions last week at Sugar Grove, Monroe County, Ky. I preached to a large and attentive audience at Tompkinsville yesterday. Had one addition at Hickory Grove yesterday evening. We are now at Centreville, and will remain until Saturday. The church here is in a bad condition. Some have been 'spoiled through philosophy and vain deceit,' Others have grown cold, careless and indifferent, but we hope to arouse them to a sense of their duty, and accomplish some good. Brethren, pray for us, that we may be bold to defend the faith."

We have received from the Christian Publishing Company, St. Louis, Mo., a neatly printed and bound 48-page tract, by Benjamin Franklin, entitled, "Ability and Accountability," containing the travels of Robert Thinkwell and James Cautious, with a history of their conversion. We remember the articles as first published, years ago. They are presented as two young men starting out to seek the true church of Christ, their travels, attendance upon the ministry of the different churches, their conversations with the ministers, the troubles that lay in their way, and finally their conversion to the simple truth of God. It is in conversational style, and is a most readable and instructive tract, in Bro. Franklin's clearest and most instructive style. It is a good work to place in the hands of all inquirers, especially it will be helpful to young men. Price, ten cents. Send for it and circulate it.

General News.

The trial of Wm. Spence, for the killing of his son-in-law, Wheat, attracted much attention in this city the past week. Spence, years ago, stood high as a merchant and banker in Murfreesboro. The bank broke, he failed and lost to some extent the confidence of the people. He was appointed United States Marshall some years ago; defaulted, Wheat, his son-in-law, succeeded him in office. There has been disagreement between them for some years concerning pecuniary matters. Spence waylaid him and shot him. The only plea put in, in his behalf, is insanity. The jury found him guilty of murder in first degree.—The bronze statue of Martin Luther will be unveiled at Washington on the 21st inst.—A train on the Mexican Central Railway was derailed by robbers, but not wrecked. One of the robbers was killed, and the others fled. No passenger was injured. There was $60,000 in silver on the train.—Sixty per cent of Madison, and seventy per cent of Tensas Parish, La., are under water. Cattle are dying of starvation or being killed by gnats.—The special grand jury, impanelled to investigate the Berner trial and the consequent riot, have reported. They present fifty-four indictments, among them one against Col. T. C. Campbell, Berner's attorney. The list has not yet been published.—About 1,100 dogs were exhibited at the annual bench show in the Madison Square Garden, in New York, last week.—The steamer "City of Portland," of the International Steamship Company, plying between Portland and St. Johns, N. B., was wrecked off the coast of Maine last week. No lives were lost.—The failure of the Northwestern Car Works, of Stillwater, Minn., of which ex-Senator Sabin is president, was announced on Saturday last. The liabilities amount to over a million dollars, but the receiver thinks the concern is making money, and it is expected that it will pay its debts in full.—It is some years since financial circle have received so great a shock as that caused by the failure of Grant & Ward, and the suspension of the Marine National Bank on the 6th inst. The liabilities of Grant & Ward are said to amount to $10,000,000. The failure of this firm has been followed up by a panic in financial matters in New York. A number of the most prominent banks have been forced to suspend. Some few banks in other cities have suspended, but the panic is mainly confined in New York.—Mr. Edmunds introduced a bill in the Senate last week, to place General Grant on the retired list of the army with the full pay of a General. He accompanied the introduction with remarks in which he expressed the hope that the committee would for obvious reasons give the matter prompt attention. The reasons referred to, of course, were General Grant's financial losses, incurred by the failure of the Wall Street firm of which he was a member. The bill would secure to General Grant the pay of a General $14,500, and the emoluments attached thereto, amounting in all to about $19,000.—The New England Press Association has been on a visit to Nashville during the past week. They visited Belle Meade and many other points of interest around the city. They expressed themselves as well pleased with their stay in Nashville.

FOREIGN.—A London dispatch announces the death last week, of Judah P. Benjamin, the distinguished lawyer and advocate, and ex-member of the cabinet of the Southern Confederacy during our civil war. Mr. Benjamin has been for a number of years, residing in London, where he enjoyed a lucrative practice. He died in Paris.—Dynamite is still doing its tragic work in England. On the 8th inst., ten women were blown to pieces and two others wounded by the explosion of dynamite at Nobles factory, in Ayrshire.—The Duke of Cambridge acting in behalf of the Prince of Wales, formally opened the Hewett Exhibition last week at Kensington, London. Mr. Gladstone, the Lord Mayor, and many members of the nobility, as well as numerous other distinguished persons, were present.—Midhat Pashu, the eminent Turkish Statesman and reformer, died at Constantinople on the 12th.—Two English railway companies have discharged 2500 of their employees, and reduced the salaries of their clerks ten per cent. owing to the depression of trade.—Arrangements are in progress for the proposed international conference to discuss Egyptian financial affairs. It is to be held at London early in June, and will probably be in session three weeks.—Advices from Durban, South Africa, report an uprising of nations in the Intankhla Bush. The Midobucks tribe has attacked Osborne's party, and Osborne has asked for assistance. The reserve is considered unsafe, and the Boers in Central Zululand have announced their intention to settle the country and maintain Diurzulu in authority.—The House of Commons has rejected a bill to license crematories by a vote of 149 to 79. A bill to legalize marriage with a deceased wife's sister has again passed the House, the majority in favor exceeding one hundred.—The Schaheswans, a band of Persian romads, have plundered several villages on the right bank of the Kurd. Wandering tribes also attacked the Government surveyors at Maganen Steppe, and forced them to suspend work. The Russian Commissary department seems powerless to prevent these occasional raids.

Home Reading.

FINISH THY WORK.

Finish thy work: the time is short;
The sun is in the west;
The night is coming down—till then
Think not of rest.

Yes! Finish thy work; then rest;
Till then, rest never;
The rest prepared for thee by God,
Is rest forever.

Finish thy work; then wipe thy brow;
Ungird thee from thy toil;
Take breath, and from each weary limb
Shake off the soil.

Finish thy work; then sit thee down
On some celestial hill,
And of its strength-reviving air
Take thou thy fill.

Finish thy work, then go in peace;
Life's battles fought and won,
Hear from the throne the Master's voice:
"Well done! Well done!"

Finish thy work; then take thy harp,
Give praise to God above;
Sing a new song of mighty joy
And endless love.

Give thanks to him who holds thee up
In all thy path below;
Who made thee faithful unto death,
And crowns thee now! —British Friend.

FOR THE CHILDREN.

"SUFFER LITTLE CHILDREN TO COME UNTO ME."

You knew this story by heart, before you were old enough to talk plainly; your good mother told you about it. Perhaps the first Bible verse you ever tried to learn was "Suffer little children to come unto me." Do you know who said it? It was Jesus; he was very good and kind to children. The great crowd was pressing him on every side, and the grown up people thought the children were making too much fuss; they very likely said, "What's the use of these noisy children worrying the master? They had better be at home." But it is said, "Jesus was displeased," and said, "Forbid them not." What do you suppose the mothers wanted to bring the children to see Jesus for? They knew of his wonderful cures by simply touching with his hand, and no doubt they thought that touch could keep away evil from their children.

They wanted a blessing; they wanted Christ to pray for them; ah! that was what they all wanted. The mother came with her little baby in her arms—too young to speak or understand; others came leading little tottering feet, just learning to put one foot before the other, praying in their hearts that God would help them to guide these little feet into the right path, just as good mothers have done ever since, that their little hands may never grow strong in sin, or hearts blackened by crime. There were some older children, too, who listened to his "wonderful words of love," and pressed close to his side, that he might lay his hands upon their heads and bless them. But then, perhaps there were some older children standing, watching to see what he would do. They saw his loving face beaming with kindness, but they were afraid. They had heard how he looked into men's hearts and told their thoughts, knew all their sins that they had committed in their lives, and they were afraid. Yes, he knew it all; all they ever said, or did, or thought, or felt. Yet he pitied that poor sorry boy, who could not forget the lie he had told, or the angry words he had used to his little brothers or sisters. He wants him to come to God and ask him to forgive him; and he will ask the Father who will freely forgive.

Yes, little children sin, as well as grown people, and they feel very bad about it sometimes. Some of you are ready to say, "I wish Jesus was here now so he could lay his hands on me. Then I know I would be good and do right." But you must remember that Christ is on his throne in heaven, and is praying for all who ask him, if they are his friends and trying to do what he tells them. There was not then, but there is now prints of nail marks in each hand; and when he raises them to bless, he says, "Father, I died for the children; forgive him and hear his prayer for my sake." Then if you would be good and happy, remember "What a friend you have in Jesus."

UNCLE MINOR.

CRIPPLED HANDS.

Hearing a story told by a teacher of many years' experience, brought to mind its universal application. This gentleman thirty or forty years ago, had undertaken the charge of a district school. While noticing the different characteristics of his new pupils, he observed that one boy seemed to be either systematically avoided or systematically tormented by his school-mates; he also received numerous intimations from different sources that the boy was a very bad boy.

He felt that the child certainly had some excuse for being disagreeable on account of the manner in which he was treated, even though the child himself might probably be also to blame. One day the little fellow did something wrong, and afterwards told his teacher a direct falsehood about it. The gentleman felt that he must correct him and called the child to him with the intention of furling his hand, as was the custom at that time.

"But," said he, "when I looked at the little hand outstretched before me it was a crippled hand. I could not strike a crippled hand. I told the child to return to his seat and remain after school. Then I talked to him with a heart that was stirred with loving pity till his tears came and his heart was won. I never had any trouble with him afterwards—no trouble that a word would not overcome.

The tears rise to my eyes every time I think of the little outstretched crippled hand, and the heart that was too tender to strike it. I wonder if it is not thus with the great Father. We hold out before him our crippled hands; he sees our crippled hearts, our crippled thoughts, our crippled lives; in tenderest pity he cannot strike them, but draws us unto himself and whispers to us in loving compassion, words which shall draw us away from the darkness of evil unto the light of pure and perfect goodness.

Well would it be for us could we see that the hands that we should strike in our bitterness, in our anger, were crippled: if our eyes were only open to that fact, should we not withhold the blow which would be given to incompleteness? Not one of our lives is full, round, perfect, complete; yet, in our impatience with the imperfections of others, we deal out blow upon blow upon the weakest, sorest spot, heeding not the quick sigh of pain, heeding not whether the inflicted punishment will not tend to increase the infirmity, render more incurable the lameness.

We are all but as the little child with its imperfect hands. With our own imperfect hands we perform our imperfect labor; but alas, we see the imperfections of the cloth woven in our neighbor's looms and are blinded to those in our own. We see our neighbor's crippled children, and how he fails to cure them, while ours are limping and halting beside us unnoticed.

The one thing needful is to know and face fairly the crippled members of our own personal individuality; to know its incapacities, its weakness, its inabilities, and especially to know its best—the best of which it is capable—and to strive for that. For the incapacity of others we should have the tender pity that is unable to strike a blow upon a crippled nature. Love, gentleness, tenderness, and charitableness should be our chosen weapons; they are among the most precious treasures of this world, and they lead on to and open into the world beyond, where they are supreme.—M. F. in Illustrated Christian Weekly.

LETTER TO UNCLE MINOR.

Dear Uncle Minor: We started to school this morning as usual, and met a gentleman who told us that a mad dog was out on the pike; so we ran home as fast as we could, and loaded the musket, and we went out to look for the dog, but did not find it; but we found a crow with a string tied to its foot. We brought it home and will try to keep it. We have named it Snow-drop. Please tell us what you know about crows. Your little friends, John and Alexander Lipscomb.

P. S.—We must tell you Snow-drop has just broken the string and flown away.

Let not any one say that he cannot govern his passions, nor hinder them from breaking out and carrying him to action; for what he can do before a prince or a great man, he can do alone or in the presence of God if he will.—Locke.

MRS. SPURGEON'S WORK.

You have all heard of the great London preacher, but perhaps you have not heard of his loving and lovely wife, who, though an invalid, is not idle in the great cause of labor of the Master. For years past, she has been saving up little pieces of money, and what does she do with them? Why, she has established a "Book Fund," from which she supplies delightful books to the poor ministers of every denomination. Don't you think she is doing a great work? Yes, quite as great a work, perhaps, as her husband has done. In the last six years she has given away nearly forty-two thousand books. The grateful letters she has received would encourage us all to try and do some good. Then let me tell you her example has started others, and among them a dear lady in Scotland. She thought to herself, "Oh, how nice it would be to send a nice shawl in every box of books!" When the first one was sent I wish you could have read the good letter that came back. And two widow ladies are spending all their time making flannel shirts to go with the precious books.

Don't you think that little seed she planted has grown to a big tree, the branches of which reach to heaven? One little girl has sent Mrs. Spurgeon all the money she had—a silver half-crown. Another sent twenty-nine stamps. Very many little gifts come pouring in from every quarter, and some of the stories connected with them are very touching. Mr. Gough, the great temperance lecturer, once gave her the proceeds of one of his grand lectures.

Mrs. Spurgeon hunts up the old rings and brooches in her drawers and sells them for this good purpose. She has also made two hundred and fifty dollars from making frames for photographs. One day a friend handed her five hundred dollars. What a big pile of books she ordered then!

Money has come to her from far-off New Zealand and Australia. One friend sent her six reams of nice paper, knowing she would need it in her correspondence. Last year she gave away more than seven thousand books, many of them being her husband's "Treasury of David."

Would it not be nice if we had a Mrs. Spurgeon in our country? I don't see why we don't. May each of us imitate her precious example, and do all the good we can for all around us.—Selected.

DON'T SELL IT TO HIM.

One day a young man entered the bar-room of a village tavern and called for a drink.

"No," said the landlord, you had the delirium tremens once, and I cannot sell you any more."

He stepped aside to make room for a couple of young men who had just entered; and the landlord waited on them very politely. The other stood silent and sullen, and when they had finished he walked up to the landlord and addressed him as follows:

"Six years ago, at their age, I stood where those young men are now. I was a man of fair prospects. Now at the age of twenty-eight I am a wreck, body and mind. You led me to drink. In this room I formed the habit that has been my ruin. Now, sell me a few glasses and your work will be done. I shall soon be out of the way; there is no hope for me. But they can be saved. Do not sell it to them. Sell it to me, and let me die, and let the world get rid of me; but for heaven's sake sell no more to them.—Exchange.

Jane Townes was one of the early Quaker emigrants, who, with her three sons, came over to Friend William Penn's colony soon after the great founder's landing. Their first dwelling was made by digging into the slope of a hill, setting rough supports in front, and banking up, thus making what was called a "cave." There the widow and her boys lived until timber could be cut from the thick woods that covered the place, and hewn and builded into a log house, which they no doubt thought quite a palace. Ninety years ago a stone farm-house was built near by, and one of her descendants, who owned it, set a marble slab in the field, just where the first home was, and marked it "Jane Townes' Cave and Dwelling, 1585." Travellers along Crum Creek still stop to read the stone.

A Prominent Minister Writes.

Dr. Mosley—Dear Sir: After ten years of great suffering from indigestion or dyspepsia, with great nervous prostration and biliousness, disordered kidneys and constipation. I have been cured by four bottles of your Lemon Elixir, and am now a well man.

REV. C. C. DAVIS, Elder M. E. Church South.
No. 28 Tenth St., Atlanta, Ga.

From Two Prominent Ladies.

I have not been able in two years to walk or stand without suffering great pain. Since taking Dr. Mosley's Lemon Elixir, I can walk half mile without suffering the least inconvenience.

Mrs. R. H. Bloodworth, Griffin, Ga.

Dr. H. Mosley: After years of suffering from indigestion, great debility and nervous prostration, with the usual female irregularities and derangements accompanying such condition of a woman's health I have been permanently relieved by the use of your Lemon Elixir.

Mrs. E. DENNIS,
Mo. 46 Chapel St., Atlanta, Ga.

A. Pratt, druggist, Wright City, Missouri, writes: Lemon Elixir gives the greatest satisfaction. It has cured a case of chills and fever of four years standing.

Dr. Mosley's Lemon Elixir, prepared at his Drug Store, 114 Whitehall Street Atlanta, Ga.

It cures all biliousness, constipation, indigestion, headache, malarial, kidney disease, fever, chills, impurities of the blood, loss of appetite, debility and nervous prostration and all other diseases caused from diseased Liver and Kidneys.

Fifty cents for one pint bottle, one dollar for pint and a half bottle. Sold by druggist generally, and all wholesale druggists, Louisville, Ky.

Miscellaneous.*The Age of Miracles is past, and Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" will not raise the dead, will not cure you if your lungs are almost wasted by consumption. It is, however, unsurpassed both as a pectoral and alterative, and will cure obstinate and bronchial affections. By virtue of its wonderful alterative properties it cleanses and enriches the blood, cures pimples, psoches, and eruptions, and causes even great eating ulcers to heal.

Dr. KLINE's Great Nerve Restorer is the marvel of the age for all Nerve Diseases. All fits stopped free. Send to 931 Arch Street, Philada., Pa.

Eminent J. J. Caldwell, Baltimore, Md.,

States: "I have used Coldens Liquid Beef Tonic largely in debility, febrile and nervous diseases, and I have found it one of the most reliable of nutrient tonics now in use or to be found in pharmacy." (Take no other.) Of druggists.

For sufferers of Chronic Diseases, 36 pp, symptoms, remedies, helps, advice. Send stamp—Dr. Whittier, St. Louis, Mo., (oldest office.) State case your way.

"You can easily make your skin white and soft." "How?" "Use Glenn's Sulphur Soap."

Pike's Toothache Drops cure in one minute.

Get the Original.

Dr. Pierce's "Pellets"—the original "Little Liver (Pill)" sugar-coated) cure sick and bilious headache, sour stomach, and bilious attacks. By Druggists.

Catarrh Cured.

A Clergyman, after suffering a number of years from that dreadful disease Catarrh, and after trying every known remedy without success, at last found a prescription which completely cured and saved him from death. Any sufferer from this dreadful disease sending a self-addressed stamped envelope to Dr. J. A. LAWRENCE, Brooklyn, N. Y. will receive the recipe free of charge.

SANITARIUM. Riverside, Cal. The dry climate cures. Nose, Throat, Lungs, full idea, 36p, route, cost free.

Dr. Pierce's "Favorite prescription," for all those weaknesses peculiar to women, is an unequalled remedy. Distressing backache and "bearing-down" sensations yield to its strength giving properties. By druggists.

Hemorrhage and Asthma.

Extracts from letters of persons who were cured with East India Hemp, and now order for their friends.

"I know all about the Cannabis India. Fifteen years ago it cured my daughter of the Asthma; she had it very bad for several years, but was perfectly cured. Please send me a $9 box of your medicine." JACOB TROUT,

Deep River, Poweshick Co., Iowa.

"I fear Cousin is in a decline, and as thy medicines cured my only brother of a hemorrhage of the lungs about a year ago, I wish Cousin to take them." Thy true friend, HANNAH MICKLE, Near Woodbury, N. J. None but pint bottles. $2.50 per bottle, or three bottles for $6.50. Address, CRADDOCK & CO., Sole Proprietors, 1032 Race Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

LADIES! ONLY.

For 25 cents we will send you a three months subscription to our large 16 page Illustrated Household and Fashion Magazine, and present each new subscriber 25 large samples of beautiful silks, assorted colors, for crazy patchwork. For 50c. we will send the Magazine six months, and give you free a large package, assorted silks, for which other firms charge one dollar. For $1.00 dollar we will send the Magazine one year and give you two large packages and our new book. The Ladies Guide to Fancy Work. If you will get up a club of five or either 3, 6, or 12 month subscribers, we will send you for your trouble a subscription and premium free. Mention this paper when you write. M. J. STODDART & CO., 126 Chambers St., N. Y.

AN INSTANTANEOUS SUCCESS!*THE CHRISTIAN SUNDAY SCHOOL HYMNAL*STYLES AND PRICES.

Boards, single copy, by mail.....	30
" per dozen, by express.....	3 00
" per hundred.....	25 00
Silk cloth, red edge, single copy.....	40
" per dozen, by express.....	4 00
" per hundred.....	32 00
Morocco, red edge, single copy.....	1 50
" gilt edge.....	2 00
" full gilt.....	3 00

WORD EDITION.

Boards, single copy, by mail.....	15
" per dozen, by express.....	1 50
" per hundred.....	10 00
Cloth, red edges, single copy, by mail.....	20
" per dozen, by express.....	2 00

All books sold at the dozen or hundred price will be sent by express at expense of purchaser. We send by mail prepaid at single copy price. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address

CHRISTIAN PUBLISHING CO.,
St. Louis, Mo.

WEBSTER.

In Sheep, Russia and Turkey Bindings.

Get the Standard.

GET THE BEST Webster—it has 118,000 Words, 3000 Engravings, and a New Biographical Dictionary. Standard in Gov't Printing Office. 32,000 copies in Public Schools. Sale 20 to 1 of any other series. Said to make a Family Intelligent. Best help for SCHOLARS, TEACHERS and SCHOOLS.

The vocabulary contains 3000 more words than are found in any other American Dictionary.

The Unabridged is now supplied, at a small additional cost, with DENSON'S

PATENT REFERENCE INDEX.

"The greatest improvement in book-making that has been made in hundred years." G. & C. MERRIAM & CO., Pub'rs, Springfield, Mass.

'Singer' Model Sewing Machines only $15

Including an $8.00 set of extra attachments of 9 pieces and needles, oil and usual outfit of 12 pieces with each. Guaranteed perfect. Warranted 5 years. Hand-cranked, quiet and light running. Don't pay $20 to $30 for machines no better. We will send ours anywhere on trial before paying. Circulars with hundreds of testimonials free. Save $15 to $35 by sending your address to GEO. PAYNE & CO., 47 Third Ave., Chicago, Ill.

AGENTS EITHER SEX, we have the newest, best and fastest selling articles out. No capital required. Goods paid for after sold. EMPIRE CO., 38 Canal St., N. Y.

The GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER

Dr. Samuel Hodges' Alterative Compound Sarsaparilla with Iodide Potash. This compound is purely vegetable, each article of ingredient is perfectly harmless in itself, having been selected from roots and herbs possessing great medicinal properties, when combined forms a most powerful, efficient, and pleasant medicine for the removal and permanent cure of ALL diseases, arising from an impure state of system, viz.:

Rheumatism, Scrofula or King's evil, Scald-head or Tetter, Chronic Sore Eyes, Old or Chronic Sores of all kinds, Boils, Pimples, Syphilitic Rheumatism, Primary and Secondary Syphilis, Nervous Debility, Liver Complaints, Inflammation of the Kidneys and Bladder, renovates and invigorates the system; acts gently on the bowels. As an appetizer and for general debility, it is a most excellent remedy.

CAMPBELL BROS., Druggists, Sole Manufacturers.

For Sale by all druggist. Price $1.00 per bottle, or 6 for $5.00. Liberal discount to the trade.

ALSO MANUFACTURERS OF

ETHIOPIAN PILE OINTMENT

A never failing remedy for External, internal or Itching Piles. Ask your Druggist for it. None genuine without the Trade Mark. Price $1.00 per Bottle.

TESTIMONIAL.

This is to certify that I was afflicted with Piles for twenty years. I tried every Remedy offered me. Finally used the Ethiopian Pile Ointment, and found it the very best preparation I ever used. It will give almost immediate relief and will finally effect a permanent cure.

Ed. A. IRELAND

Formerly of Gallatin, now of Breen, Phillips & Co., Nashville, Tennessee.

CAMPBELL BROS., Druggists,
or, Broad and Summer Sts.,
NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE.

F. H. STICKLEY. MRS. C. W. LEWIS.

STICKLEY & LEWIS,

Having moved to our elegant store-room,
NO. 34 NORTH SUMMER STREET,

We will carry a large stock of fine Millinery and Fancy Goods, the light-running New Home Sewing Machines, Needles, Oil and Attachments for all machines. Fine imported German Canary Birds, good singers, $3 each. Bird Cages, Food and Tonic always on hand. Mrs. Lewis is also prepared to do Fashionable Dress Making, Dying Plumes, Cleaning Gloves and Stamping. Old Machines of any kind repaired or taken in part pay for the New Home.

CARPETS! CARPETS!

FROM

New York Bankrupt Sales.

MANLOVE & CO.,

26 and 28 N. Summer Street,

Are now in receipt of an immense stock, recently bought at prices lower than ever before. Now is the time to buy Good Carpets cheap, and guaranteed to be as cheap as any Eastern market.

MANLOVE & CO.,

26 and 28 N. Summer Street, - - NASHVILLE, TENN.

$66 a week in your own town. Terms and 45 outfit free. Address H. HALPER & Co., Portland, Me.

$72 A WEEK, $12 a day at home easily made. Costly outfit free. Address Taux & Co., Augusta, Me.

Warner Bros. Celebrated Coraline Corsets are the acknowledged standard of Europe and America.

The Flexible Hip (see cut) is especially adapted to those whose corsets break over the hip. The Health, Nursing, Coraline, Abdominal and Misses' Corsets, are all popular styles, adapted to ladies of different forms.

Price, from $1 up. FOR SALE BY LEADING MERCHANTS EVERYWHERE. Avoid all imitations. Be sure our name is on the box.

WARNER BROS.,
353 BROADWAY, NEW YORK.

New Musical Publications.

- American College Song Book ..... $2.00
Cloth. Songs contributed by fifty Colleges.
- "Gillette," Opera by Audran, composer of Olivette and Mascot..... 1.00
- Kalliwoda's Mass, in a Major..... 1.00
- Reiniger's Fourth Mass, in E♭..... 80
Two first class masses.
- Spanish Mandoline Method. Winner... 75
The mandoline is much like a guitar.
- Memoria! Day Songs and Hymns..... 25
Eighteen appropriate songs and hymns.
- Out of the Depths: 180th Psalm..... 30
E. I. Darling. Nine good Quartets, Choruses, etc.
- Student's History of Music..... 50
F. L. Ritter. A most valuable book for music students.
- Strachauer's Church Music. (Quartet and Orchestral Chorus.) 170 pages. 26 of the very best Quartets..... 1.00
- Social Pastime: (For Violin and Piano)
Winery 62 popular airs of the day..... 2.00
- The Soprano. (A Musical Story.) Cloth.
Jane Kingsford. A fascinating musical novel..... 1.00

Mailed for Retail Price.

OLIVER DITSON & CO., Boston.
C. H. DITSON & CO. J. E. DITSON & CO.
867 Broadway N. Y. 1228 Chestnut St., Phila.

THE GREAT NERVE CONQUEROR

A SPECIFIC FOR
Epilepsy,
Spasms, Convulsions, Falling Sickness, St. Vitus Dance, Alcoholism, Opium Eating, Syphilis, Scrofula, Kings Evil, Ugly Blood Diseases, Dyspepsia, Nervousness, Sick Headache, Rheumatism, Nervous Weakness, Brain Worry, Blood Sores, Biliousness, Constipation, Nervous Prostration, Kidney Troubles and Irregularities. $1.50.

Sample Testimonials:
"Samaritan Nervine is doing wonders."
Dr. J. O. McLemore, Alexander City, Ala.
"I feel it my duty to recommend it."
Dr. D. F. Langhlin, Clyde, Kansas.
"It cured where physicians failed."
Rev. J. A. Edie, Beaver, Pa.

Correspondence freely answered. Send for testimonials and circulars sent stamp.
Dr. S. A. Richmond Med. Co., St. Joseph, Mo.
Sold by all Druggists. (17)

Dr. S. A. Richmond Med. Co., St. Joseph, Mo.
Sold by all Druggists. (17)

Dr. S. A. Richmond Med. Co., St. Joseph, Mo.
Sold by all Druggists. (17)

Dr. S. A. Richmond Med. Co., St. Joseph, Mo.
Sold by all Druggists. (17)

Dr. S. A. Richmond Med. Co., St. Joseph, Mo.
Sold by all Druggists. (17)

Dr. S. A. Richmond Med. Co., St. Joseph, Mo.
Sold by all Druggists. (17)

Dr. S. A. Richmond Med. Co., St. Joseph, Mo.
Sold by all Druggists. (17)

Dr. S. A. Richmond Med. Co., St. Joseph, Mo.
Sold by all Druggists. (17)

Dr. S. A. Richmond Med. Co., St. Joseph, Mo.
Sold by all Druggists. (17)

Dr. S. A. Richmond Med. Co., St. Joseph, Mo.
Sold by all Druggists. (17)

Dr. S. A. Richmond Med. Co., St. Joseph, Mo.
Sold by all Druggists. (17)

Dr. S. A. Richmond Med. Co., St. Joseph, Mo.
Sold by all Druggists. (17)

IMPROVED METHOD OF STRINGING.

MASON & HAMLIN

IMPROVED

Upright Pianos.

Entire iron frames to which the strings are directly attached by metal fastenings, securing

1. Best quality of tone, which is very musical and reeded; free from the tubbiness which is common.
2. Greater durability and freedom from liability to get out of order; adaptations to trying positions and climates.

3. Increased capacity to stand in tune; will not require tuning one-quarter as often as pianos on the old system.

Having tested this new system of construction for two years and proved its advantages, this Company are now increasing their manufacture of pianos, and offer them to the public generally. Every piano of their make will illustrate the supreme excellence which has always characterized their Organs, and on for them highest award at every great world's exhibition for sixteen years.

Illustrated and descriptive Catalogues of Pianos and Organs, free.

MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN AND PIANO CO., 151 Tremont St., Boston; 46 East 14th St., (Union Square), New York; 119 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

TO SUNDAY SCHOOL WORKERS.

PURE DELIGHT.

A New Sunday School Song Book.

By Geo. F. Root and C. C. Case.

Contains New and Bright Words; Easy and Inspiring Music; Pure and Elevated Sentiments.

One of the leading features of the book is a set of

BEAUTIFUL RESPONSIVE SERVICES

Especially prepared for it by Rev. W. H. Pearson and Lewis Miller, Esq.

192 pages, well printed and handsomely bound in boards. Price, 33 cents, each by mail, post-paid; $2.00 a dozen by express, not prepaid. Specimen pages free.

Published by

JOHN CHURCH & CO.,
CINCINNATI, OHIO.

CHICAGO: ROOT & SONS MUSIC CO. NEW YORK: J. CHURCH & CO.
300 Wabash Ave. 5 Union Square.

For Sale by Booksellers and Music Dealers.

$5 to $20 per day at home. Samples worth $5 free. Address STINSON & Co., Portland, Me.

HARTER'S
THE ONLY TRUE
IRON TONIC

Will purify the BLOOD, regulate the LIVER and KIDNEYS, and RESTORE THE HEALTH and VIGOR of YOUTH. Dyspepsia, Want of Appetite, Indigestion, Lack of Strength, and Tired Feeling absolutely cured. Bones, muscles and nerves receive new force. Enlivens the mind and supplies Brain Power. Suffering from complaints peculiar to their sex will find in DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC a safe and speedy cure. Gives a clear, healthy complexion. Frequent attempts at counterfeiting only add to the popularity of the original. Do not experiment—get the ORIGINAL AND BEST.

(Send your address to Dr. Harter Med. Co., St. Louis, Mo., for our "DREAM BOOK.")
(Full of strange and useful information, free.)

LADIES
Send your address to Dr. Harter Med. Co., St. Louis, Mo., for our "DREAM BOOK."
(Full of strange and useful information, free.)

PATENTS Hand-Book FREE.
R. S. & A. P. LACEY,
Patent Att'ys, Washington, D. C.

STEAM ENGINES Portable and Agricultural. Send for circulars.
Wood, Taber & Morse,
Eaton, N. Y.

CUT THIS OUT
by mail, a Golden Box of Goods, that will bring you in more money in one month than anything else in America. Absolute Certainty. M. Young, 113 Greenwich St., New York.

ACME Songs for the International Sunday School Lessons (Words and Music) adapted to each lesson in April, May, June, 32 pps., 40 songs, 5c., 25 for $1 (mailed), Free copy to Pastor or Supt. sending postage.
J. C. O. REDINGTON, 267 Broadway, N. Y.

AGENTS Wanted for handsome illustrated standard works of character; great variety; low in price; selling fast; needed everywhere; Liberal terms.
Wm. Garretson & Co., 30 College St., Nashville, Tenn.

WANTED A WOMAN
of sense and energy for our business in her locality, middle-aged preferred. Salary $35 to $50. References exchanged. GAY BROS. & CO., 14 BROADWAY ST., NEW YORK.

BURRITT COLLEGE,

SPENCER, TENN.

THIS INSTITUTION, chartered in 1848, has now been favorably known for more than thirty years, for its discipline, both as regards education and government. Located on the Cumberland Plateau, it is free from epidemics. The water is pure freestone and chalybeate. The breezes of summer are delightful and invigorating, and the gales of winter not too severe. The College buildings, recently enlarged by the Christian Brotherhood of Tennessee, are sufficiently commodious to accommodate a large class of young ladies and gentlemen. It is ten miles south-east of Manchester and McMinnville Railroad.

TERMS:

Tuition Primary Dep'tm't, per S'n.	$ 7 50	Tuition, Commercial Dep'tm't per S'n.	$20 00
Preparatory, " "	15 00	Lessons instrumental Music from	$15 to $20
Collegiate, " "	20 00	" in Art Department from	2 50 to 10

Board and washing for males, per week, from $2.00 to $2.50; Fuel, light, and incidental expenses, per session, $10.00; Board (including washing, fuel, and light) for females, per week $3.00.

The Spring Session of 1884, begins on the Last Monday in February.

For further particulars address,

Prof. A. T. SEITZ, President,

Or W. H. SUTTON, Sec. Board Trustees.

FAMOUS AND DECISIVE BATTLES OF THE WORLD.

By CAPT. KING, U.S.A. HISTORY FROM THE BATTLE-FIELD. Shows how Nations have been made or destroyed in a day.—How Fame or Disaster has turned on a single Contest. A Grand Book for Old and Young.—Saves Time, Aids the Memory.—Gives Pleasure and Instruction. Maps and Fine Illustrations. Agents Wanted Everywhere. Write at once for full description and terms. Address J. C. McCURDY & CO., Cincinnati, Ohio.

IMPORTANT REDUCTION IN THE PRICE OF

VASELINE

(PETROLEUM JELLY.)

CHEAP BOOTS AND SHOES!

We are now receiving our

Spring Stock of Fine Custom-

made Boots, Shoes, and Hats.

Our prices will be found reasonable. Give us a call.

Trunks at cost.

ALDRICH & HARRIS,

106 UNION ST., (bet. College and Market,)

NASHVILLE - TENN.

McSHANE BELL FOUNDRY.

Manufacture those celebrated Chimes and Bells for CHURCHES, ACADEMIES &c. Price-list and circulars sent free.

HENRY McSHANE & CO.,
Baltimore, Md.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY.

Bells of Pure Copper and Tin for Churches, Schools, Fire Alarms, Farms, etc. FULLY WARRANTED. Catalogue sent Free.

VANDUZEN & TIFT, Cincinnati, O.

Baltimore Church Bells

Since 1844 celebrated for Superiority over others, are made only of Purest Bell Metal, (Copper and Tin.) Rotary Mountings, warranted satisfactory. For Prices, Circulars, &c., address BALTIMORE BELL FOUNDRY, J. REGESTER & SONS, Baltimore, Md.

AGENTS Send for E. B. TREAT'S

of new books, including MOTHER, HOME, and HEAVEN, prose and poetry; by 400 best authors 145,000 sold. Elegantly ill., $2.75. Send $1 for outfit. Also 5000 Curiosities of the Bible, $1.75. By mail. E. B. TREAT, 757 Broadway, N. Y.

FOR the 7th edition "Life and Labors of C. H. Spurgeon," the greatest preacher of the century. By Geo. C. Needham, the Evangelist. Endorsed by all denominations. The best selling Family book ever published. Agents are meeting with wonderful success. No competition. Any man or woman wanting a good business, address, for extra terms and special territory.

AGENTS WANTED

TRADE-MARKS, PATENTS, COPY-RIGHTS, DESIGNS, PRINTS, LABELS, RE-ISSUES.

Send description of your Invention. L. BINGHAM, Patent Lawyer and Solicitor, Washington D. C.

One Ounce bottles reduced from 15 cents to 10 cents.

Two Ounce bottles reduced from 25 cents to 15 cents.

Five Ounce bottles reduced from 50 cents to 25 cents.

The public must not accept any but original goods bottled by us, as the imitations are worthless.

Chesebrough Manufacturing Co., New York.

The Ministers' and Teachers' Bible.

This magnificent Parlor Bible is imported from London and is indorsed as "The Best" by the leading Bishops of England. In addition to the Old and New Testaments it contains a concordance of Bible Words, 40,000 References with Context! An Encyclopedia. A Dictionary of Proper Names, with Pronunciation, 18 full page colored Maps. Poetry, Music, Etymology, Plants, Animals, and Jewish sects of the Bible, etc. "Superior to all others." N. Y. Times.

A complete Biblical Encyclopedia. This Bible is bound in French morocco, gilt edge, with silk book-mark, and has copious references. Rev. E. Milton, Norwalk, O., writes: "The Bibles received to-day I am more than pleased." A Special Offer! To rapidly introduce this Bible in America we will, for a limited time only, send one copy, post-paid, to any address on receipt of only $2.00! 15¢ a copy and one copy of Revised New Testament for $2.00! Other Bibles, with less matter, sell for $15.

Order at once. AGENTS WANTED! Circulars free.

G. S. MAYO & CO., 160 LaSalle St., Chicago, Ill.

PAYSON'S INDELIBLE INK

is the BEST. No preparation. Used with any clean pen for marking any fabric. Popular for decorative work on linen. Received Centennial MEDAL & Diploma. Established 50 years. Sold by all Druggists, Stationers & News Agents.

MILL OWNERS SEND FOR PAMPHLET.

TURBINE WATER WHEELS

MANUFACT'D AT MOUNT HOLLY N.J.

THE MODEL PRESS

Prints Cards, Circulars, Labels, Tracts, every thing needed by business men, churches, schools, &c. Strong, rapid, and a boy can operate it and earn hundreds of dollars a year, to $1000.00. Outfits, including Press, Type, &c., from $5 to $10 and up. Send 3 cent stamp for 40 page Illustrated Price-List and two gorgeous floral book markers printed in Model Press. J. W. Daughaday & Co. Mfrs. 121 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia.

2806 Lbs. Weight

OF TWO OHS IMPROVED CHESTER HOGS. Send for description of this famous breed, ALSO FOWLS, L. B. SILVER, CLEVELAND, O.

THE COMPLETE HOME. Agents wanted for this beautiful book. New edition.—New bindings.—New illustrations from new designs. Superbly gotten up. —Selling low price. Adapted to all classes. Agents doing big work. EXCELLENT TERMS. The handsome prospectus ever issued. Apply now. Wm. GARRETSON & Co., 30 College St., Nashville, Tenn. Also other grand new books and Bibles.

AGENTS OF DARING BY BLUE AND GREY. is outselling all other books. Illustrated circular and terms free.

FORSHEE & McMACKIN, Cincinnati, O.

BEATTY

PIPE ORGAN

2 Blow Pedals, 25 Stops, in perfect order, warranted only $349.75. Parlor, Chapel and Cottage Organs, at Bargain Prices. Grand Square & Upright, for $350.00 worth $1,000. Order immediately or send for Circular. Address, DANIEL F. BEATTY, Washington, New Jersey.

Each Watch is finely made, silver plated and the greatest novelty ever offered to the boys and girls of America. It is a Complete Musical Instrument, else and shape of a Watch, with Music Box attachment concealed within, so arranged that when wound at the stem, plays one of the following tunes:—"Home, Sweet Home," "Yankee Doodle," "Blue Bells of Scotland," "Coming Through the Rye," "Swanee River," "Carnival of Venice," "Grandfather's Clock," "Waltz, Polka, Schottische, and 'Wait till the clouds Roll By.'" The notes, time, and tones are correct. It instructs and entertains both old and young. On receipt of 25 Cents, will send it by mail, post-paid. Just think of it! A Music Box for 25 Cents. Postage Stamps taken. SPECIAL OFFER:—If you will order before June 15th, we will send you YOURS for only $1.00. You will be delighted with it. A. E. PRATT & CO., No. 27 Park Place, New York.

FREEMAN & KEESEE, INTERIOR DECORATORS,

NO. 33 N. COLLEGE STREET, NASHVILLE, TENN.

Wall Paper and Decorations, Window Shades, Cornice, Curtain Poles, Gold and Walnut Pier and Mantle Mirrors, Engravings, Chromos, and Oil Paintings. Frames of All Kinds in Stock and Made to Order. Re-Gilding Old Frames a Specialty. Manufacturers of Fine Frames and Wood Mantles. CORRESPONDENCE SOLICITED. Ap9

KEEP COOL!

SUMMER GOODS.

Refrigerators, Ice Chests, Water Coolers, Filters, Fruit Jars, Fruit Cans, Stoneware, Woodenware, and all kinds of Kitchen Goods. Cooking Stoves to suit the requirements of every Family.

PRICES TO SUIT THE TIMES.

Phillips-Buttorff Manufacturing Co.,

24 & 26 College Street.

Nashville, Tenn.

FIGUE, MANIER & CO.,

WHOLESALE DEALERS IN

BOOTS AND SHOES,

NO. 40 SOUTH MARKET STREET, NASHVILLE, TENN.

We are receiving a very large stock of Spring and Summer goods that we have had manufactured expressly for us, which we think, with our long experience and facilities, we can offer inducements, equal to any market, to prompt and cash dealers. All goods warranted to be as represented.

S. B. HOGAN.

J. S. HOPKINS.

HOGAN & HOPKINS,

Dealers in Custom-Made

BOOTS & SHOES,

We sell the very best makes of Boots and Shoes, and endeavor to make the prices so that no one can possibly sell cheaper than we do.

20 Public Square,

Nashville, Tennessee.

SALESMEN.—Sam. R. Hopkins, L. D. Simmons, William Mayes.

NEW CHRISTIAN HYMN AND TUNE BOOK

It is a superior book in the following seven particulars:

1. Excellence and Completeness of Hymns.
2. Simplicity and Beauty of Music.
3. Arrangement of Analytical Index.
4. Protracted Meetings and Gospel Songs.
5. Editions and Prices.
6. Paper, Printing and Binding.
7. Cheapest Book in the Market considering the Number of Hymns and Tunes in it.

Sample copy in cloth mailed for 60 cents. Sample copy in boards mailed for 35 cents. Descriptive circulars, enlarging on the above seven points, free. It is better, however, to get a sample copy and circular. Address,

FILLMORE BROS., 185 Race St., Cincinnati, O.

CHILDS' CATARRH

Treatment For

And Diseases of the HEAD, THROAT & LUNGS! Can be taken at home. No case incurable when our questions are properly answered. Write for circulars, testimonials, etc. REV. T. P. CHILDS, Troy, Ohio.

OFFICIAL REPORT.

Office of the Kentucky Agricultural and Mechanical Association. }
Lexington, Ky., June 23rd, 1883. }

TO ALL CONCERNED:

This is to certify that in the field trial of Twine-binders held by the Kentucky Agricultural and Mechanical Association on the farm of Mr. J. B. Clay, near Lexington on the 19th inst., in very heavy barley, the following machines competing, viz: Osborne, Deering, McCormick, Wood, Buckeye, Minneapolis, Dennett, Champion, St. Paul, Buckeye low-down and Deering low-down, the premium of a Gold Medal was awarded to the No. 11 Osborne.

Committee of Directors to Conduct Trial. }
JESSE BRYANT, }
N. F. BERRY, }
D. H. JAMES, }
W. H. GENTRY, Pres't.

H. P. KINKEAD, Sec'y.

The above is a true copy of report made by Committee and approved by Board of Directors this day.

Call at our Branch House in Nashville and EXAMINE "The Gold Medal Osborne," and a full line of Reapers and Mowers.

D. M. OSBORNE, & CO.

E. S. BRINGHURST, M'gr.

How to rear and manage poultry. Send a ten-cent piece to H. H. Stoddard, Hartford, Ct., for a copy of the Poultry World, and it will tell you.

WANTED A WOMAN

of sense, energy and respectability for our business in her locality, middle-aged preferred. SALARY $65 to $50. References exchanged. GAY BROS., 14 Barclay St., N. Y.

DR. C. P. DUNCAN'S LIVER AND KIDNEY MEDICINE.

The great preventive and cure of all malarial diseases, and a sure cure for all forms of dyspepsia and indigestion; it acts directly upon the Liver and all the secretory glands of the stomach and bowels, it cures the disease by removing the cause from the system that produces or brings on the disease, hence it is unsurpassed for the cure of Constipation, sour stomach, heartburn, headache, and all those symptoms indicating the wants of a proper action of those glands situated in the stomach and bowels. Two or three bottles of Dr. Duncan's Liver and Kidney Medicine is positively recommended to relieve and cure any of the above diseases if taken as directed. Price 75 cents.

Cure for Croup!

Dr. Duncan's Cough Balsam is the best remedy known to the medical profession for the prompt and sure cure of croup in children; it is pleasant and harmless. No mother should be without a bottle in their house. Price 50 cents.

Bad Colds and Sore Throats

Promptly cured with Dr. Duncan's Cough Balsam; is a sure cure for sore throats, roughs and colds. It is unsurpassed for WHOOPING COUGH, and all bronchial diseases in children.

Chapped Hands, Lips,

Sore Eyes, Piles, and all abrasions of the skin cured promptly with Duncan's Ointment.

DR. DUNCAN'S

BLOOD SYRUP,

the great alternative, will remove any and all impurities from the blood, and cure all eruptions of the Skin. For Scrofula it never fails to cure.

CHILDREN CRY FOR

DUNCAN'S WORM SYRUP.

It is sure, safe, pleasant and cheap. Try it.

CONSUMPTION

Positively Cured. No Humbug.

By the use of Dr. J. LAWSON'S PULMONARY POWDERS, a FREE TRIAL BOX of which will be sent to all sufferers POST PAID, with treatise and full directions for their use.

Hundreds and thousands have been cured by their use.

Large Box $3.00, two boxes $5.00.

Address,

PHILIP HENRY,

49 South St., New York City.

A PRIZE. Send six cents for postage, and receive free a costly box of goods which will help you to more money right away than anything else in this world. All, of either sex, succeed from first hour. The broad road to fortune opens before the workers, absolutely sure. At once address TRUE & Co., Augusta, Maine.

Good Pay for Agents. $100 to $200 per mo., made selling our fine Books & Bibles. Write to J. C. McCurdy & Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.

AGENTS WANTED for our new Religious book, the greatest success of the year. Send for illustrated circular if you want to make money. FORSHEE & McMAKIN, Cincinnati.

PENSIONS for any disability, also to Heirs. Send stamps for New Laws. COL. L. BINGHAM, Attorney, Washington, D. C.

IT PAYS to sell our Hand Rubber Stamps. Samples free. FOLJAMES & Co., Cleveland, O.

Home Items.

—"All your own fault

"If you remain sick when you can Get Hop Bitters that never—Fail.

—The weakest woman, the smallest child, and sickest invalid can use Hop Bitters with safety and great good.

—Old men tottering around from Rheumatism, kidney trouble, or any weakness, will be almost new by using Hop Bitters.

—My wife and daughter were made healthy by the use of Hop Bitters, and I recommend them to my people. —Methodist Clergymen.

Ask any good doctor if Hop Bitters is not the best family medicine On earth.

—Malaria fever, Ague, and Biliousness will leave every neighborhood as soon as Hop Bitters arrive.

—"My mother drove the paralysis and neuralgia all out of her system with Hop Bitters."—Ed. Oswego Sun.

—Keep the kidneys healthy with Hop Bitters, and you need not fear sickness.

—Ice water is rendered harmless and more refreshing and reviving with Hop Bitters with each draught.

—The vigor of youth for the aged and infirm in Hop Bitters.

—"At the chance of life nothing equals Hop Bitters to allay all troubles incident thereof."

—"The best periodical for ladies to take monthly, and from which they will receive the greatest benefit, is Hop Bitters.

—Mothers with sickly, fretful, nursing children, will cure the children and benefit themselves by taking Hop Bitters daily.

—Thousands die annually from some form of kidney disease that might have been prevented by a timely use of Hop Bitters.

—Indigestion, weak stomach, irregularities of the bowels, cannot exist when Hop Bitters are used.

A timely * * * use of Hop Bitters will keep a whole family in robust health a year at a little cost.

—To produce real genuine sleep and child-like repose all night, take a little Hop Bitters on retiring.

—That indigestion of stomach gas at night, preventing rest and sleep, will disappear by using Hop Bitters.

—Paralytic, nervous, tremulous old ladies are made perfectly quiet and sprightly by using Hop Bitters.

MONARCH HORSE HOE AND CULTIVATOR COMBINED

For Hoeing & Hilling Potatoes, Corn, Onions, Beets, Cabbages, Turnips, &c.

SENT ON 30 Days' TEST TRIAL.

An immense saving of labor and money. We guarantee a boy can cultivate and hoe and hill potatoes, corn, etc., 15 times as easy and fast as one man can the old way. Illustrated Catalogue FREE. AGENTS WANTED. Mention this paper. Address Monarch Mfg. Co., 206 State St., Chicago, Ill.

OPIUM

Read easily cured with CHLORIDE OF GOLD LESLIE E. KEELEY, M. D., SURGEON, C. & A. R. E. DWIGHT, Illinois.

25 YEARS IN THE POULTRY YARD

108 Pages. It teaches you how to rear them to take care for them, to feed, to have them lay eggs in cold weather, to prevent and treat all diseases of old or young, to be a "successful" poultryman. Only 25c. in stamps. A Fifty-page book FREE FOR ALL with it. A. M. LANG, Cove Dale Farm, Concord, Ky.

OPIUM Morphine Habit Cured in 10 to 20 Days. No Pay until Cured. J. L. STEPHENS, M. D., Lebanon, Ohio.

HILLMAN, BUFORD & JUSTI, NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE, SOLE AGENTS FOR THE Genuine Brown Walking Cultivator and Double-Shovel Plow,

Corn Shellers, Feed Cutters, Avery Chilled Plows, Road Scrapers, Fish Bros.
Wagons, Jacobs' Barrows,

IRON, STEEL, BLACKSMITH'S TOOLS, HARDWARE,

Call on or address

HILLMAN, BUFORD & JUSTI, 18 and 20 South Market Street, Nashville, Tenn.

A. C. & J. C. March.

SUCCESSORS TO

J. D. MARCH & SONS

Manufacturers and Dealers in
SADDLES, HARNESS, BRIDLES, COLLARS,
TRUNKS, BAGS, HAMES, VALISES WHIPS, CHAINS, &c.
50 NORTH MARKET STREET
NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE.

Repairing Done at Short Notice

NASHVILLE, CHATTANOOGA & ST. LOUIS
RAILWAY.

BUSINESS MEN, TOURISTS, REMEMBER
EMIGRANTS, FAMILIES,

The Best Route to St. Louis and the West
via McKennie.

The Best Route to West Tennessee and Kentucky,
Mississippi, Arkansas, and Texas points is
via McKennie.

The Best Route to the Summer Resorts and
Mountain Retreats of Tennessee, Virginia and the Carolinas, via McKennie and Nashville.

The Best Route to the celebrated Colleges, Universities,
Seminaries and other Educational Institutions in the Southeast, via McKennie and Nashville.

The Best Route to points in East Tennessee,
Virginia, the Carolinas, Georgia and Florida is via Chattanooga.

DON'T FORGET IT!

By this line you secure the
MAXIMUM OF SPEED, SAFETY,
COMFORT, SATISFACTION,
AT THE
MINIMUM OF EXPENSE, ANXIETY,
BOTHER, FATIGUE.

Be sure to Buy your Tickets over the
N. C. & ST. L. RAILWAY!

If you are going to Washington City, Baltimore,
Philadelphia, or New York.

The Inexperienced Traveler need not go
amiss; few changes are necessary, and such as are unavoidable are made in union Depots.

THROUGH SLEEPERS!

Nashville and Atlanta, and Atlanta and Jacksonville,
Fla., Nashville and Martin (to connect with Sleeper service via Cairo to St. Louis and Chicago),
Nashville and Columbus, Nashville and Memphis
(Sleeper Humboldt to Mobile, and Milan to New Orleans), McKennie and Little Rock, and Little Rock and Texas points.

Call on or address
J. H. PEEBLES, T. A., Chattanooga, Tenn.
W. W. KNOX, T. A., Nashville, Tenn.
S. S. FINLEY, Ticket Agent, Memphis, Tenn.
A. B. WREN, Trav. Ag., Atlanta, Ga.
W. L. DANLEY, G. P. & T. A., Nashville, Tenn.

Mars Hill College.

With pleasure we lay before our readers the following extracts from the Fourteenth Annual Announcement of Mars Hill College, an institution perpetually wielding a wonderful and wide-spread influence for truth, refinement and righteousness.—EDITORS.

POSITIONS PROCURED FOR OUR PUPILS.

We make a specialty of preparing pupils for

(1.) PREACHING; (2.) TEACHING; (3.) PREACHING and TEACHING.

Many educated here—among whom are successful lawyers, physicians, merchants, salesmen, mechanics, farmers, editors, authors, teachers and preachers—have so demeaned themselves, that the humility, fidelity, integrity, accuracy and ability of "Mars Hill students" have become proverbial. There is, consequently, such a demand for the services of our pupils, that we deem it perfectly safe to promise to procure pleasant, profitable and honorable positions for all who qualify themselves here for usefulness.
Indeed, for several years we have been able to fill comparatively few of the positions tendered.

HEALTHFULNESS!

Mars Hill as a Health Resort.

Our school was founded in 1870. All the "doctor bills," for services rendered our pupils, from then till now, do not, we think, amount to twenty-five dollars—probably not to one dollar a year. Those who have come here pale and puny, from malarial districts, have, without an exception, we believe, returned to their homes enjoying health.

What "Watering Place," or "Health Resort," then, can justly claim more, as a health-
preserver and health-restorer, than Mars Hill? Address,

T. B. LARIMORE, President.

FLORENCE, ALABAMA.

W. A. LANNOM, The Cash Clothier,

18 PUBLIC SQUARE, NASHVILLE, TENN.,

Has received his large and elegant stock of Spring and Summer clothing, Gents' Furnishing Goods and Hats, which is full and complete in every respect; and for quantity, quality, style, fit and price, we stand far ahead of all competition. An inspection of our large stock and low prices, will fully prove what we claim. Bear in mind, we sell strictly for cash, which enables us to offer the greatest inducements.

CAPITOL PLANING MILL,

Corner Line and Vine Streets, near Northwest Corner Capitol Grounds,
NASHVILLE, - - - TENN.

J. W. McCULLOUGH,

Manufacturer and Dealer in

FRAMES, SASH, DOORS, BLINDS,

Scroll Sawing, Dressed Flooring, Weatherboarding and Ceiling.

Country Orders Solicited, and Promptly Attended To.

JUST OUT!

"Our Orthodoxy in the Civil Courts."

A full proceeding in the Circuit Court in Noble county, Indiana, in the trial of our ortho-doxy. Everybody should read this interesting book. Send at once. Paper, 50c; cloth, $1.00.

JAMES F. & HARRY LIPSCOMB,

98 Union Street,

Nashville, Tennessee.

BOILER REPAIRS.

Thos. S. Simpson, William Chatham,
79 South College St., Nashville, Tenn.
Are prepared to do all kinds of repairing of Boilers, Tanks, etc., at very reasonable rates. We have had 30 years practical experience in the business and ask a share of the public patronage. We guarantee good work.

WHEN YOU WANT
WRITING DESKS,
Photograph Albums,
AUTOGRAPH ALBUMS,

GOLD PENS, PENCILS,
PORT-MONNIES,
CARD CASES, Etc.

OR ANYTHING IN THE WAY OF
Staple and Fancy Stationery!
Call upon us. We can suit you in
VARIETY, QUALITY, AND PRICE.

A. B. Payne & Co.,
61 UNION STREET.

Orders by Mail receive Prompt Attention.

B. S. RHEA & SON,
PROPRIETORS RHEA'S ELEVATOR,
AND DEALERS IN

Grain, Hay, Flour

AND BURLAP SACKS,

No. 32 South Market Street,
NASHVILLE, - - - TENN.
(Correspondence Solicited.)

C. F. HUDSON, S. G. STRATTON.

C. F. HUDSON & CO.,
Merchant Tailors & Clothiers,

EAST SIDE PUBLIC SQUARE,

LEBANON, TENN.,

Are now receiving one of the largest, best and cheapest stock of clothing and piece goods, ever offered to the public. We are agents for the Charlottesville, Va., woolen goods, which cannot be surpassed for beauty and durability.
Call and examine our goods. We will save you money.

SOME OF THE THINGS WE BUY TO SELL.

CHINA IN ALL OF ITS GRADES,
GLASSWARE OF EVERY DESCRIPTION,
QUEENSWARE OF ALL KINDS,

Bracket Lamps, Hall Lamps,
Study Lamps, Chandeliers,
Knives and Forks, Spoons, Waiters
Tea Trays,

Looking-Glasses, Ice Cutting
Machines,

Eureka Coffee and Teapots,
Castors,

And a great variety of housekeeping goods
too numerous to mention, all of which we offer at reasonable rates. Call and see us, or send your orders to

HICKS, HOUSTON & CO.,

51 N. College & 54 N. Market Sts.,
NASHVILLE, - - - TENN.

THE GOSPEL ADVOCATE.

VOLUME XXVI. }
NUMBER 22.

NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE, MAY 28, 1884.

{ $2.00 YEARLY IN ADVANCE.
POSTAGE PREPAID.

EDITORS:

D. LIPSCOMB,

E. G. SEWELL.

TOO MUCH DOCTRINE, AND YET NOT ENOUGH.

There has long been a cry raised against the disciples of Christ, that they preach too much doctrine. This cry is made by the denominations of our country, who put the doctrines and commandments of men in place of the pure word of the Lord as preached by the apostles. These denominations do not preach as the apostles preached, and they do not like to hear others do it, as it throws their own preaching in contrast with that of the apostles. Hence when the plain preaching of the apostles is presented they oppose it, and denounce it as heresy, because it cannot be harmonized with their own peculiar teaching. And in some instances our own brethren have fallen into the cry to such an extent that the preaching of the apostles in their efforts to convert sinners, is almost entirely left out. This is true to a much greater extent in towns and cities than in the rural districts. In towns and cities it is nothing uncommon to hold protracted meetings one after another without ever taking up one single case of conversion, and presenting it in detail as presented by inspired men. They preach many good things, and things that ought to be preached in their proper place. But nothing can take the place of the plain gospel as preached by the Holy Spirit, through the apostles, when the object is to make Christians.

And whenever and wherever these plain cases of conversion as found in Acts of apostles are repeated just as presented there, there are almost always some ready to receive and embrace the whole truth. But when year after year passes on, and one protracted meeting after another is held in the presence of the same people, whole generations grow up in such localities without being able to tell just what is necessary to make a Christian. The children of the members in such cases grow up, and come into the church because they are religiously inclined, and almost as a matter of course, when they could not at the same time tell others intelligibly how to become Christians. And in this way the lines between truth and error are almost blotted out, and the conclusion becomes almost common that one church is as good as another, and children go where their parents have gone, without being able to give a Scriptural reason why. These things ought not so to be. The whole ground of conversion ought to be gone over often enough for all aliens that attend to clearly understand the whole truth, and to know how to guard against error in these matters. And a protracted meeting, where the conversion of sinners is the leading object, should never be carried through without a liberal presentation of these things. Then all who want to be Christians will know just what to do to be saved. And for years to pass away and these matters not be plainly presented to the people, is almost unpardonable.

But on the other hand, we doubt not that in many rural districts, the matters of conversion are almost wholly dwelt upon to the exclusion of the practical work of Christians. And perhaps a still more objectionable feature in this sort of work is, that the preaching is in too much of a controversial spirit, and that too, in a spirit of bitterness and sharpness that hinders many from hearing the plain gospel, when otherwise they might. The truth ought to be preached in great plainness, but in the spirit and love of the truth, and with a pure desire to save souls. And the one grand end of saving souls should never be marred or hindered by any sort of sharpness, sarcasm, or bitterness that would turn any one's ears away from the truth. Error may at any time be contrasted with the truth, the error exposed and the truth vindicated without any sort of bitterness being manifested, if preachers would study these matters, and keep themselves at all times under the controlling influence of the spirit of the religion of Christ.

Preachers sometimes fall into the habit of using sharpness, and preaching the gospel in a tart, controversial sort of way that is very offensive to all opposed to the things they preach. This is a very dangerous habit to fall into, and one that will hinder them from the accomplishment of immense good they might otherwise do. We have known a few men that spent long lives in this sort of preaching without accomplishing a tithe of what their talents would have enabled them to do, if their manner had been gentle, and their words spiced with love instead of being barbed with sharpness, and an apparent intention to demolish somebody. They go at the work of dissecting error with an apparent delight in exposing the errors of others that seems to afford them more satisfaction by far, than even the presentation of the plain truth. And when preachers once create the impression that they take more pleasure in uprooting and tearing down others than in building up the truth, much of their power for good is gone.

This does not by any means indicate that preachers should be tenderfooted, or should in any wise compromise truth with error. This should never be done under any circumstances. But truth should always be vindicated in the spirit and love of the truth, and error exposed plainly, but in the spirit of kindness that would seem to say to those in error, that we want to take them by the hand tenderly, and lead them out in kindness. For whenever we create the impression that we intend to drive them out by crushing down their houses over their heads they at once rebel against it, which generally puts them out of reach of the truth. Every preacher should strive to so place his own heart under the guidance of the Holy Spirit as to be able to manifest the fruits of the Spirit in his entire life, and especially in his manner of preaching. He should manifest love, joy, peace, longsuffering, gentleness, patience. He should strive to show in his whole demeanor what the religion of Jesus will do for men when earnestly and faithfully lived out. And if preachers would be faithful they must preach the whole truth, both as to how to become Christians and how to live the Christian life, and he who gives all of his time to doing the one to the exclusion of the other only does part of the work belonging to a minister of the word of God.

The plain requirements of the gospel that make men Christians; and the difference between these and the doctrines of the denominations are not half so well understood by the masses of the disciples of Christ to-day as they were forty or fifty years ago. In those days, almost every member was well posted on these things, and ready to defend the truth whenever assailed, and knew how to bring the truth to bear against all error, whether in the matter of making Christians or the matter of governing the church by human wisdom, human creeds, and such like things. Much of the preaching these days is done to entertain and please, and not with a special view to teach the word of God as it is in Jesus. We think it time the preachers would look about for the old paths and walk in them more. While there may not be need for as much preaching against the errors of denominationalism as there once was, there is quite as much need for preaching the plain word of God on all subjects of Christianity as there ever was, and no preacher can be faithful to the word of God and to the people, and not do it. We need to have the apostles preach more to the people. The best preaching that can be done, and the only preaching that is valuable to man is to repeat to the world the very words of those inspired men. And when a preacher reaches the conclusion that the word of God is too common, to stale to present to the people, and begins to look about for something new, he is then taking a step where he at once ceases to be useful in advancing the truth.

So long as there is one alien sinner to be brought to God, so long must the gospel in all its facts be presented to him. Faith in the gospel, and how faith comes, and what God has designed it to accomplish in making Christians must needs be taught as long as one soul remains to be enlightened on these things. And so long as there is one impenitent soul in our reach, it must be sounded in his ears, that God now commands all men everywhere to repent. And wherever there is one tongue that has not confessed Jesus Christ as his Savior, confession with the mouth must be taught. And just so long as there is one human being out of Christ, baptism, as the act of obedience ordained of God to introduce men into Christ, must be plainly and faithfully taught, and that without any apology for it. Some men preach these things as if they were ashamed of them, and thought they needed to be apologized for.

Yes, so long as there is one soul to be saved, preach these requirements of the gospel as if they were brand new, and never had been heard before. Never be ashamed to repeat to sinners what the Holy Spirit of God requires them to do in order to be saved. Never thrust the notions and speculations of men between the sinner and the Savior. The gospel is the power of God to save men, and if anything except obedience to it will save any one, God has not told us. Let these things be earnestly proclaimed so long as there are any impenitent, unconverted souls. And on the other hand, so long as there is one child of God to be edified, fellowship, breaking of bread, and prayer must be taught. The meeting of the disciples to break bread has never yet been sufficiently impressed upon the masses. There is perhaps no one thing regarding which there is more indifference among the masses of disciples than to this one thing. They need line upon line and precept upon precept, here a little, and there a little. Christians need to be taught earnestly and often to deny ungodliness and worldly lusts, and to live soberly, righteously and Godly in this present world. These things ought to fill the hearts, and make up the life work of those who claim to be teachers of the word of God to men.

E. G. S.

RE-BAPTISM.

Bro. Lipscomb insists on sticking to the points at issue; and he is right, too, but it does seem to me that he has all the while been floundering about in ethereal fields while on this baptismal question. Bro. Lipscomb's last article in my opinion, did not touch a point at issue save perhaps once, and then he gave up, virtually, the whole question. I refer to this language:

"Persons who think their sins are already forgiven may desire to attach themselves to a church, and may submit to baptism as a requirement of the church. Such baptism, no matter where or when submitted to, is a nullity and an offence before God."

When you sift this down to the real issue or issues, it is a surrender of the question, unless I fail to understand my brother. Do not Baptists say before baptism that they are forgiven? Is this not thinking their sins are already forgiven? Then again are they not baptized to comply with a requirement of the Baptist Church? I grant they may think that they are honoring God in the whole process, mourner's bench and all; but does their thinking it make it so? I had a Baptist preacher to tell me that he was not baptized into Christ but into the Baptist Church, and that he never baptized any one into Christ, but always baptized them into the Baptist Church.

But Bro. Lipscomb says that I am in the habit of only hearing what the most ignorant Baptists teach. Be this as it may, God is no respecter of persons, but will hold the intelligent Baptists that Bro. Lipscomb has been in the habit of hearing, and the ignorant ones I have heard, to the same rule. What has brought about this ignorance but the doctrine of the Baptist Church? The commandments of men being taught instead of the word of God? God has vouchsafed to us, through his apostles, a plan of salvation that is so simple that even the ignorant Baptists, that I have heard, need not "err therein." Bro. Lipscomb has reasoned on this question, as though to believe that baptism was for the remission of sins would require some extra effort on the part of those who claim to believe that Jesus is the Christ; that is, that it is an abstruse proposition.

The only trouble about the question is that there are two statements: one by God, which says that it is for the remission of sins; the other by the wise doctors, which say that it is not for the remission of sins. The greater number, it seems, believe the doctors; but it is not because there are any hidden intricacies on the other side; for it is as plainly stated by the apostles, as that Jesus is the Christ, and hence is just as easily believed. I admit that the teachers are perhaps more to blame than the taught; but they are culpable, too, because they have not acted like the Bereans, in an age when they are so much better prepared for the "searching." Our savior said, "Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature; and he that believeth (what you preach) and is baptized shall be saved; but he that believeth not (what you preach) shall be damned." It is perfectly natural and rational to suppose that all will be damned who do not believe the preaching of the apostles, since our Savior told them that their preachings should be binding. Now, if those who refuse to believe that baptism is for the remission of sins, are not "damned," then our Savior's word will fail, because the apostles preached it, and he promised them that whatever they "bound on earth, should be bound in heaven."

The deductions of any man, it matters not as to his honesty, should be regarded with supreme contempt whenever they put him in the logical attitude of bending and warping the word of God to defend any human "plea." It is simply believing the words of Christ and his apostles, to believe that baptism is in order to salvation from sins. It is simply putting more trust and confidence in the words of man, than in the words of God, to believe that sins are forgiven before baptism; hence one in the latter condition cannot be "born of water and the Spirit," but is born of water and corruptible seed, that the devil has had sown, and deceived honest people by adding the water birth to his system of conquest. The detection of this blinding system is to be hoped for only through the word of God.

As "faith comes by hearing," it behooves all rational creatures to be careful who and what they hear. If one to-day hears a man preach what the apostles preached, neither more nor less, and believes that preaching, he has that faith, that when perfected by obedience, under the direction of the Spirit, will make his salvation from sins, as sure as the word of God. His faith has come by hearing the word of God, hence it is a saving faith. But if the preacher preaches more, or less, than the word of God, the addition or subtraction makes it a perverted gospel,—"another gospel," and he is "accursed;" but this does not help those who have believed and obeyed him, even if he should immerse them in water. Can water save? To be saved is to be in Christ. To be in Christ, is to be in his church or kingdom. To be in his church, is to be a member of a positive institution, which has positive laws of induction. I claim that that positive law of induction is (1) faith in the word of God; (2) repentance; (3) confession with the mouth that Jesus Christ is the Son of God; (4) baptism for the remission of sins, as the Spirit directs.

Whatever the apostles have said, is the truth. They said in many places that baptism is for the remission of sins, hence when a man says it now he tells the truth. When a man says now that baptism is not for the remission of sins, is not essential, he tells a lie just as much as if he had said it in response to Peter on Pentecost. If A. believes the truth as preached by the apostles, and obeys the direction of the Spirit as furnished through the apostles, and is in the kingdom by virtue of obedience to the direction of the Spirit; and B. believes part of the truth, and is led through a different process by man, and is in the kingdom by virtue of having believed part of God's work, and accepts man's dogmas as to the design of baptism, when God has plainly stated its design to be different, then there are two ways of entering the kingdom, and one is God's and the other man's; and man's is as efficacious as God's. In short, the position that Bro. Lipscomb and others, are contending for on this question, incontestably makes two laws of induction into the church, if they are right.

No amount of sophistry, however subtle, can escape the conclusion. Even if two persons are baptized for the remission of sins, as directed by the Spirit, and one has made the formal confession while the other has not, it makes the road fork at confession, and both right. Here is about the way our representative men put it: there is but one law of induction, and these two are it.

How can any man hope to retain his reputation as a logician, occupying this glaringly inconsistent position? A glance at "our plea" and "our practice," is sufficient to condemn us of double-dealing in the eyes of the world. Let us do away with such an inconsistent system, and upon its tangled ruins erect the finger-board of truth, which is always consistent. Is God's law to be thus insulted to palliate those who have obeyed man from choice? No, no, brethren, those who are honest must be "taught and baptized" by direction of the Spirit. The teaching comes first, in God's plan. When they are taught the "commandments of men for doctrine," they rejoice before the baptism. But when they hear and learn of the Father, the rejoicing comes after the baptism. In man's they bow at the wooden idol. In God's they leave all idolatrous worship out, and worship only the "true God."

Bro. Lipscomb says, "one objection we make to what is called re-baptism is, nine-tenths of these submitting to it, submit to please the preacher or the church, and not to obey God." We have no means of knowing by what chapter and verse he received this startling information. I have never seen it in my reading, hence I conclude that it is wholly the exact science of mathematics, that has aided him to this definite computation of numbers. It seems to fall under the old rule of vulgar fractions. When I apply his rule to those re-baptized at Ephesus, I find that only one and a fraction of that number were re-baptized to "obey God," while ten and a fraction were re-baptized to please the preacher, Paul, and the church at Ephesus. It is rather spinning worldly wisdom out pretty fine; and at the same time quite confusing to determine such momentous problems as spiritual questions, worked out by vulgar fractions. When we come to judge the problem of salvation by God's rule, we find it does not deal in fractions, but condemns in whole numbers, all "them that obey not the gospel of God."

Bro. Lipscomb has frequently brought up the case of Abraham, to prove that a blind obedience is the most acceptable to God, if God makes any difference. I beg you, my brother, to remember that there is no necessity for blind obedience to God in reference to baptism. God has told us to be baptized, and told us what it is for,—but men say it is not for that. If God had not told us what it was for, then it would have been unnecessary for us to have known, or made any inquiry about the wherefores, etc. But since God has told us what it is for, to believe that it is not for that, or that it is for some other purpose, is to believe man over God. God told Abraham to go upon the mountain and offer up his only son Isaac; now suppose some man had told him not to do it, that one of his servants would do just as well, then if Abraham had believed it, and left Isaac in the valley, and carried up to the mountain for the sacrifice, one of his servants, he would have acted about as the believers of sectarian preaching do to-day. But if Abraham had done this, would he ever have been called the father of the faithful?

Bro. Lipscomb says that if I am right about its being necessary to understand, before baptism, what it is for, that I should ask all before their baptism if they understand that baptism is for the remission of sins. But I say no, because I find no authority for asking this, and besides, the confession with the mouth is all that I do find laid down as a question, and he doesn't deem it absolutely necessary.

Bro. Lipscomb has had much to say about what Bro. Campbell taught, and the condition that the baptismal question would put Bro. Campbell in, under certain circumstances. I have said before that I love the memory of Bro. Campbell. I am sure from what I have read from Bro. Campbell's pen, that he did not desire to be an end of the law of Christ. He desired that his brethren should search for larger measures of light. I had a "pastor" to tell me, the other day, that Bro. Campbell was the beginner of this reformation, and said he, "Bro. Campbell was in favor of the missionary society, and if you are not in favor of the same, you had better get out." I told the pastor that I was out of the "society," and intended to stay out, till some one produced some scriptural authority for it, etc. I feel confident that such ideas as this pastor has about the cause, would be disgusting to Bro. Campbell, were he alive. But I want to make two quotations from Bro. Campbell's writings, for Bro. Lipscomb's thought. I wish I had room to quote him at greater length, but I have not.

On the confession, the form of which he has quoted from Peter's answer to our Savior, Bro. Campbell says: "This confession must be made by every applicant for Christian baptism, in order to his being constitutionally builded upon the divine foundation: or, as we usually say, admitted into the Christian kingdom, or church. No minister, or church of Jesus Christ, has any divine right or authority to ask for more or accept of less than this, in order to Christian baptism. We ought, indeed, to know that the person so professing understands what he says," etc. Campbell on Baptism, page 19.

Again, in response to a question propounded to him on immersion, Bro. Campbell says: "I had thought that in my essays on immersion, this point was fully settled. Every single blessing, and all blessings collectively, appertaining to salvation, flow to us from the sacrifice of Jesus the Son of God. The value and efficacy of his sacrifice is the very document itself which constitutes the burthen of the testimony. Belief of this testimony is what impels us into the water. Knowing that the efficacy of this blood is to be communicated to our consciences in the way which God has pleased to appoint, we stagger not at the promise of God, but flee to the sacred ordinance which brings the blood of Jesus in contact with our consciences. Without knowing and believing this, immersion is as empty as a blasted nut. The shell is there, but the kernel is wanting." Christian Baptist, page 521.

I ask, where does this language logically place dear Bro. Campbell, in reference to this baptismal question? I must close, but before I do, I want to state the real issues in this question. There are others, but these two are the chief ones; viz. (1) Whether or not one must be taught, and must understand before baptism? (2) Is confession with the mouth an essential antecedent to baptism? In conclusion, I want to ask Bro. Lipscomb some questions: (1) What did you mean by saying to Mr. Nichols that the Spirit leads us to obedience of the gospel, as it did those on Pentecost, "by addressing truths and testimonies to their minds, that they were capable of hearing, understanding, weighing, and obeying?" (2) Please be more explicit in telling us whether or not it is necessary to preach that it is not necessary to understand.

A. MCGARY.

ITEMS, PERSONALS, ETC.

We have received five dollars for the Indian Mission, from the young ladies of Haynes Institute, at Murfreesboro.

James E. Scobey, President of Haynes Institute, of Murfreesboro, Tenn., writes: "The closing exercises of this school will take place Wednesday and Thursday, June 4-5. The exercises will begin each morning at 9 o'clock. The friends of the institution, and the public generally, are cordially invited to attend."

E. B. Cayce, Franklin, Tenn., May 19, writes: "There were four additions, by letter, to the congregation here. Bro. Shelton is preaching the old gospel with power, hewing to the line. I preached at Hill's Chapel; congregation not large. Bro. Wm. Lipscomb preached about three miles from the Chapel. I expect to preach there again the third Lord's day in next month."

J. D. Floyd, Flat Creek, Tenn., May 21, writes: "Since my last report, I have filled my regular appointments at New Hermon and Richmond. In my work among the churches, I give attention mainly to Christian duty. On last Lord's day, at 4 o'clock P. M., I preached to a large crowd at Maple Hill, a school-house near Cane Creek. From what I saw there, I conclude that the church is in good condition."

H. L. Walling, McMinnville, Tenn., May 20, writes: "Bro. J. M. Kidwill, of Smithville, Tenn., was with us last Lord's day. We had large and attentive audiences. Much good was done, we think. Bro. Kidwill says we work under the ten-hour system. We had him in the Lord's day school, at 9 o'clock, A. M.; in the pulpit, at 10:30; at Kell's school-house, in the country, at 3 o'clock P. M.; and again in the pulpit here, at 8 o'clock."

H. F. Williams, Cyruston, Tenn., writes: "I preached second Lord's day and night in Lewisburg. The brethren seem to be getting along well. Their Sunday-school is, in many respects, a model. All classes take a lively interest in the study of the Scriptures. The teachers take pains to prepare themselves. Brethren from other congregations would do well to visit these brethren, and take on zeal and love for the truth that will enable them to do good work. They are also enlisted in the missionary work."

F. C. Sowell, Columbia, Tenn., writes: "I preached at Dunlap, Hickman county, second Lord's day in May, and on Saturday night previous. Nine have been withdrawn from at this place this year. We have some good working brethren at this place. On Lord's day evening we had preaching at Elmwood, about five miles from Dunlap. Since I have been visiting this destitute place, nineteen have been added, but the most of them are sisters, consequently they have no leader, only when I meet with them, or some other visiting brother. There is to be a concert at Centreville, Hickman county, May 20, and it is reported the proceeds will be for the benefit of the Christian church. Something from you, Bro. Lipscomb, on this, would do good, we think. If that is the way to raise money to support the cause of Christ, I have been in the dark for some time."

A. S. Reynolds, Haywood, Ala., writes: "The truth is having the desired effect in this part of Alabama. When I first came to this community I was turned out of meeting houses, and compelled to preach under bush arbors and in private houses; now we have a good meeting house and a faithful band of brethren, who meet regularly to worship. I sent you a report of last year's work. Up to date in this year, we have had nine additions, as follows: Fourth Lord's day in March, three; fourth Lord's day in April, six; three from the Methodists, one from the Bible Christians, five baptized. There is much work to be done here yet, but we will not become weary in well doing, for in due time we will reap if we faint not. (Pray for us.) May the Lord of all "peace" bless you is my prayer."

W. H. Carter, Lafayette, Tenn., May 20, writes: "Bro. E. H. Rogers, our evangelist, began a meeting at the Sugar Orchard in Clay County, Tenn., on Saturday before the second Lord's day in this month. I joined him on Monday, and the meeting continued until last Lord's day, resulting in twenty-one accessions by confession and baptism, and one reclaimed. One of the above number was a Baptist sister, who made the good confession and was baptized the same hour of the night. This was something new to the people of this community, notwithstanding the practice is over 1800 years old. See Acts xvi: 30-34. This is a warm congregation. May the Lord bless them in their efforts to do good. And may the elders be careful to feed those new-born babes in Christ on the sincere milk of the word that they may grow thereby."

T. C. Little, Fayetteville, Tenn., writes: "Preached Saturday night, May 17th, at Bro. Foster's, near Bel'ast, to a goodly number of his neighbors; this is a new field, and they seemed to be interested in our talk, giving their undivided attention. Sunday morning at Cane Creek had a very large and respectful audience. The elders report this congregation in better working order than they ever knew it. They are certain to accomplish much good if they continue faithful. Had an appointment at Maple Hill (a school-house in the neighborhood) for 4 o'clock, P. M., but as Bro. J. D. Floyd was present he kindly consented to occupy the time. He gave us the clearest and most forcible discourse on conversion we ever heard. The church at Gum Spring expects him to labor for them at their protracted meeting first Lord's day in August."

Rufus Green, Enon College, Tenn., May 20, writes: "Preached Friday night last at Fairview, one and a half miles west of Carthage. Subject, conversion of the Gentiles. Immersed one lady on a confession of her faith in Christ, as an evidence of her repentance. Preached Saturday at 7, P. M., in McElway's Bend to a large audience. Here the gospel had never been preached before. There was much interest manifested. I think great good can be accomplished at this place. Ought not the brethren help us to carry the gospel to those destitute places? Brethren talk about sending the gospel to the heathen land, you have neighbors who have never heard the gospel, who, if you would send it to them, would gladly hear and obey it; would it not be a noble work if all of our preachers would spend one-fourth of their time preaching in the destitute parts of the country. I preached Lord's day morning at Mt. Rose, to well filled benches; at 7, P. M., in Carthage. Here we have a good band of brethren, who seem to be alive. Will start to Gamaliel, Ky., Friday next, to meet our appointment Saturday at 7, P. M."

W. H. Dixon, Petersburg, Tenn., May 20, writes: "I preached, last Friday night, to a good congregation, at Nat Grove school-house, in Marshall county, Tenn. Interest fine. Saturday and Lord's day morning, at Philadelphia, Lincoln county. This is a new congregation, planted some three or four years ago. We had a fine hearing on Lord's day, at this place. I went from this place, at 4 o'clock P. M., to Oak Grove school-house. Found a fine congregation assembled. Had one confession and baptism at this place. One man, a man of the world, said he would give the land and one hundred dollars to build us a house, and I am satisfied it is a good point to cultivate, and I shall give attention."

Can you take postage stamps on subscription? It is frequently hard to get small bills in the mountains, hence orders are delayed. If there is any preaching brother in your country, who would like to visit the mountains this summer, please say to them to visit Santana and Crossville, as we have a small congregation at both places. I have been preaching for them monthly this spring. They are very zealous and are developing their home talent, but want and need help. Therefore we commend them to any preaching brother who may pass that way.—J. S. Acuff, Pikeville, Tenn.

[We would not like to get a very large stock of postage stamps, yet we are willing to take them in sums of not over two dollars from those who cannot obtain bills, and are not convenient to Postal Order offices.—D. L.]

Within the bounds of my labor, we have two churches within a half mile of each other,—a Christian and a Cumberland. The Cumberland brethren agree to have their Sunday-school in the evening, on the day we have preaching at the "Christian church," and ask the Christian brethren to have their Sunday-school in the evening when there is preaching at the Cumberland church, so that we can go to preaching and Sunday-school at both places. Now would we do anything but right, to be as good to them as they propose to be to us?—[J. R. Bradley, Lynnville, Tenn., May 19, 1884.]

There is no principle of right or wrong involved in the question further than this, Christians should never make the worship on Lord's day a matter secondary to anything else, nor do anything that leads the public to think they regard it as a secondary matter. It is the duty of the church to meet on Lord's day to worship God. It is the duty of all the Christians to meet on every Lord's day. If they can meet as well with the proposed arrangement as otherwise, there is no harm in doing so. But the point is, the Lord's day worship must be treated and regarded as the important service of the day. My observation has been that to put it at any other hour than the one regarded as the chief hour of the day, is to assign it a secondary position. But this is not necessarily so.

The brethren at Alma, Arkansas, propose to hold a protracted meeting, including the fourth and fifth Lord's days in June. They say:

We desire brethren in this county, and those near enough in adjoining counties, to meet with us in a consultation meeting, for the purpose of mutual encouragement and acquaintance, and to consult together, as brethren in the Lord, in reference to the wants and necessities of the cause among us. We cordially invite the brethren and sisters to come, and all will be heartily welcomed, and cared for to the best of our ability. We do not propose to organize a "society" of any kind, but to talk face to face with each other, and see if we cannot agree to labor together for the advancement of the Master's work in our midst. The meeting will begin on Friday before the fourth Lord's day in June. Done by order of the church at Alma.

J. G. SMITH,
G. B. HASSETT,
Deacons.

J. B. BYARS,
B. WARFIELD,
Elders.

J. T. JONES, Preacher.

A MISAPPLICATION OF SCRIPTURE.

On page 260 of GOSPEL ADVOCATE, (Num. 17, April 23, 1884) Bro. H. L. Walling, of McMinnville, Tenn., attempts to show that he and his brethren have been greatly in error in regard to the purification of the heart by faith. Bro. Walling says: "I have seen my error, and have repented, and will in future preach what the apostles preached."

Bro. Walling, have you been preaching, "that obeying one command," we have obeyed the gospel? Have you in former days taught that the sinner is pardoned—saved, when he "obeys one command?" If so, then you have missed it sure enough. Great room for a conversion, my brother. Don't blame you for preaching something else. I don't know what you all have been preaching up there in "the mountains," only what you say about it, but we, down here in "the mountains," don't preach, nor have we ever preached, that the sinner in obeying "one command, obeys the gospel." We teach, that the "heart," the affections of the mind must be purified from the love of sin by faith. Not freed from the guilt of sin.

Bro. Walling says, that his error was in teaching "that faith purifies the heart, repentance next purifies the life, and then baptism changes the state."

"Purifies the heart." What do you mean by this expression? What do you mean by the word "heart?" What by "purified?" You seem to intimate that by "heart" you mean "soul, body and spirit," and that by "purify" you mean "saved from past sins."

Hear Bro. Walling: "The pure in heart are pure in soul, body and spirit, and in every view you may take of them, and are saved from past sins, and will be finally saved if they continue in purity to the end of life. It is very unwise for us to conclude that because we have obeyed one command that we have obeyed the gospel, and that we are therefore saved."

Does not this language make the impression upon every thinking mind, that Bro. Walling's present theory is, that the spiritual heart is the soul, body and spirit, and that "purify" is a freedom or a purification from sins—pardoned of sins? The "pure in heart, soul, body and spirit, are they that are saved from past sins and that as soon as he believed the gospel—obeyed one command." (Italics mine.) But, my dear brother, I do wonder that you now take the position that the purification of the heart, as in Acts xv: 9, means a full obedience to the gospel and pardon of sin. Let me make a few quotations to show what the heart, the spiritual heart, is.

"The heart of the rash shall understand knowledge." Isa. xxxii: 4. Does not the prophet here speak of the heart as the mind? To know is an act of the mind. "The heart of the righteous studieth to answer." Prov. xv: 28. As "study" is a work of the mind, surely the mind is what "the wise man" meant. "The heart knoweth his own bitterness." Prov. xiv: 10. We have already found that to know is the act of the mind. "And God saw that the wickedness of man was great in the earth, and that every imagination of the thoughts of his heart was only evil continually." Gen. vi: 5. Thoughts are of the mind. "Jesus perceiving the thought of their heart." Luke ix: 47. Thoughts proceed from the mind, therefore the Savior meant mind. "With the heart man believeth unto righteousness." Rom. x: 10. Belief, or faith, is an act of the mind; therefore the mind is what Paul meant by the word "heart." In Heb. viii: 10, and Heb. x: 16, we can see very clearly that the apostle used "heart" and "mind" as synonymous terms. Now, since the heart is the mind, and since it is with the mind we know, study, love, hate, believe, etc., where is there any great error in teaching that the sinner must have his heart freed from the love of sin; his thoughts centered on heaven, salvation, the Lord, the Bible, and his mind—heart—perfectly filled with the love, and a desire for these things? Must this not be done for him before he is a fit subject for baptism? And is there anything that will do this but faith, "the belief of the truth of God?"

Let us try Acts ii: 37: "Now when they heard this they were pricked in their hearts." What did they hear—the faith, you say? They heard the gospel preached by Peter, and this pierced them in their hearts; that is, a belief of what Peter preached did it. Now, suppose they had not believed what Peter preached; would their hearts have been pierced? No. But they heard the faith, the gospel, according to Bro. W.'s theory. It is very clear to me that the faith that pierced their hearts—the faith that "stole their hearts"—that purified their minds from believing Jesus to be an impostor, to believe him to be the Son of God, was the belief of Peter's testimony, their faith in the gospel.

Bro. Walling says: "If faith before baptism purifies the heart, then we are saved out of Christ,"—making saved and purified the same. We down here "in the mountains," having the same holy book that you have, I presume, don't make the purification of the love and affection of the heart the same as remission of sin; but we do teach, whether it be an "error" or the truth, that the sinner must have the affections of his heart—mind—purified, turned to God and heaven, taken off of the world, pleasure, etc., and set on divine things, before he can be baptized acceptably, or before the Lord will save him in baptism. Is there not some kind of a change in the mind, some kind of a purification in the thoughts of the individual, before or preparatory to being baptized? And is there not abundance of authority for such preparations in the New Testament? And is there anything that will cause this to be done but the individual's faith, his belief? Bro. Walling ought to be the last man to speak in favor of receiving upon their baptism those coming to us from the sects. And why? Because their hearts are not pure, according to his theory. They did not have the faith of God preached to them; that is, the gospel system. This is that that purifies the heart according to him. "Oh! well, they had a part of it." But you say, "It is very unwise to conclude that we have obeyed the gospel, when only a part has been obeyed." Yet, all right. "Those from the sects should not be baptized." Now, dear brother, just think of it!—living with, and eating with, and calling that man brother, who has not a pure heart; that man who has not obeyed the whole gospel. Which will you do: give up to have your brethren baptized "for the remission of sins," or your notion of the faith (gospel) purifying the heart, pardoning the sins? You brethren "up there in the mountains" will have to say to those presenting themselves for membership, from the denominations: "No, we cannot receive you; you did not have preached, nor did you obey, the full gospel (faith); your hearts are not right."

As to the faith being substituted for gospel, the same might be said of the Spirit, and of grace. Now, how would it look for some of us to take the position that Spirit purifies the heart, (pardons the sins,) or that grace purifies the heart, and that we had been in error all this time; but now are converted, "and intend in future to preach what the apostles preached?" Then I would expect Bro. W., or some one else, to accuse us of "preaching the same, in effect, as the denominations."

Now, in conclusion, let me say, I cannot yet believe that our dear brother has been fully converted from the truth. He speaks of faith giving the power to become the children of God. That is all I claim it does. But in what way faith gives the power to thus become God's children, is a different thing. Let me wind up with a little bit of poetry that will give the how better than I could

"Tis faith that purifies the heart,
Tis faith that works by love;
That bids all sinful joys depart,
And lifts the thoughts above."

Lynnville, Tenn.

J. R. BRADLEY.

CORRESPONDENCE.

On the second Lord's day in May, we met with the brethren on Salt Lick, Jackson County, Tenn. Bro. W. H. Carter was the preacher on that interesting occasion. He labored earnestly and faithfully to persuade sinners to obey the gospel and be made free from sin. Many sinners present on that occasion stubbornly refused to obey. May the Lord spare them until they come to a knowledge of the truth. Bro. Carter not only labored in behalf of alien sinners, but he taught the members by reminding them of their duty, and admonished all to go on to perfection by adding to their faith all the Christian graces. We feel confident that the brethren were greatly benefitted by Bro. Carter's visit. His sermons, exhortations, and pulpit ministrations never fail to infuse life into the cold, indifferent, backsliding member. Our Bro., in his sermon, urged upon each and every member to carry out the Savior's injunction, teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you. We need truth-loving, earnest, faithful, working men like Bro. Carter for our preachers that will strive to educate the church, or those of the household of faith. A great many seem to think that they are infallibly safe after having submitted to the divine institution of baptism. Baptism predicated upon faith and repentance only frees us from past sins and makes us children of God. Then in order to live obedient children, let us observe all things. Meet every Lord's day, study the sacred writings, sing, pray, exhort, and commend the death and suffering of Jesus discerning the Lord's body, showing forth his death till he comes again. This is God's means of building us up in his most holy faith and spiritual life. Let us continue to walk after the Spirit, and let industry, justice, love, temperance, honesty, fidelity, kindness appear in our daily walk not only on Lord's day, but every day that we live. By so doing we will have hope of eternal life hereafter at the right hand of God. Let us all work while we have the time and opportunity, so that when we come to die we can say, like Paul of old, we have fought a good fight, we have kept the faith, HENRY REHORN, JR.

SHORTS.

Now and then, unexpectedly, we meet with a thoroughly just man, and it is refreshing like an oasis in the desert. Said an old friend to me, "I want to show you my fine cow." I looked at her. She is certainly fine stock. I gave twenty dollars for her. I have been pondering in my mind if it would not be right to pay the widow from whom I bought her more. I think I shall do it; she is needy and did not know the value of the animal, I am satisfied. Here is one man who did not want something for nothing. Do you? Do I? It is not right. It is not just. "Love justice, do mercy, and walk humbly before God."

Romans v: 3-5. Read brethren and sisters, and answer: In what do you and I glory? Is it not in our houses, lands, popularity, fine dress, learning, pretty looks, pleasure, our kin or something kin to these, something which perishes with its using. Tribulations were good property in apostolic days because they yielded rich fruits. Now they are something to fret over and complain about. "Count it all joy when ye fall into divers temptations." Why? My brother, answer, and never look upon trials as a misfortune, again. That is our best possession which brings us the most valuable harvest.

QUESTION FOR BRO. POE'S CLASS.

A young brother asked me, not long since, where did the river of Jordan empty, before the destruction of the cities of the plain and the forming of the Dead Sea. I put the question.

"PROVIDE THINGS HONEST IN THE SIGHT OF ALL MEN."

Do we do this? That is the question. How do you get your bread and meat? "He is good," is he not? I asked about a certain man yesterday. "Well it is mighty hard to get any money out of him," was the reply, and it told a sad tale. The same is true of many whose names are on the church book. Up town there is a sign, "All manner of turning done here." Some dear blessed brethren might improve this by adding, "All manner of twisting and turning done here, (to keep from paying debts) being understood of course." A good name is rather to be chosen than great riches." Look at this from a worldly standpoint, a good name is valuable. I have seen professed Christians whom no one would trust, and they in absolute need. They had no good name. Every business man is anxious to credit him who is true to pay. A Christian name should never go at a discount in the market. He must look to this. He may complain at others, but the fault lies right at his own door, and if he would have it changed, he must do it. A bank must pay when proper demands are made if it would sustain a good reputation. So must a man. Look around you, my brother, did you secure your provisions, clothes, home, horse, wagon, furniture, and all things around you in such a way that your neighbors and those with whom you deal, will say it was honestly done? J. M. BARNES.

Rates of Advertising in Gospel Advocate.

One inch, one insertion.....	$ 50
One inch, one month.....	2 00
One inch, three months.....	5 00
One inch, six months.....	7 50
One inch, twelve months.....	12 50

A discount of 10 per cent. on these rates for order of $25.00; 20 per cent. for order of $50.00; 30 per cent. for order of $100.00.

The Church as a Vigilance Committee.

The following paragraph is by Joseph Cook, taken from the prelude of one of his latest Boston lectures:

"I would have the Churches in the cities bring themselves into efficient co-operation with law-and-order leagues. Perhaps every large Church should have a committee consulting occasionally with these leagues. There might thus be formed a kind of universal vigilance committee of the best citizens, who would have power to secure the execution of the laws."

Think of the Church, whose chief business on earth is to proclaim the gospel to all men—the Church, which knows no other mission beside, except to relieve the needy, turned into a vigilance committee, taking up on itself the office of a detective, and assuming the functions of a legal prosecutor! And yet this is the utterance of a representative New Englander, and voices largely the sentiment of the North. It is, indeed, a sentiment which has already been embodied, though under different forms, into the Church-life and history of one of the largest ecclesiastical bodies of the North. Indeed, political affiliations are the bane of Northern ecclesiasticism.

When Christ, the Founder of the Church, was on earth, he refused the office of judge, a much more respectable one than that of detective or prosecutor. While there was much lawlessness in Palestine, we do not read of his bringing a single offender to justice, or encouraging his disciples to do so. The only accused one ever brought before him he dismissed with, "Go, and sin no more." Remember the cleansing of the temple, and think what Christ might do if on earth. Let the M. E. Church, South, as an organization, keep to her mission. While she insists on obedience to rulers, let her keep aloof from political affiliations, and, while condemning lawlessness as a sin, let her not step to the bar as a prosecutor, or assume the role of a detective. The pulpit is her sphere. Let her not leave it, lest she drive from her those whom she is commissioned to save.—M. B. Sharbrough, in Christian Advocate.

The Neglect of Private Prayer.

For a time you will go on, seeming to yourself to be the same as before; but the Israelites might as well hope to lay in a stock of manna, as you of grace. You pray God for your daily bread, your bread day by day; and if you have not prayed for it this morning, it will profit you little that you prayed for it yesterday. You did then pray, and you obtained; but not a supply for two days. When you have given over the practice of stated prayer you become gradually weaker without knowing it. Sampson did not know he had lost his strength until the Philistines came upon him; and you will think yourselves the same men you used to be, till suddenly your adversity will come furiously upon you, and you will as suddenly fall. First, men leave off private prayer, then they neglect public worship; then they gradually let slip from their minds the very idea of obedience to God's fixed, eternal laws; then they actually allow themselves in things which their conscience condemns, then they lose the direction on their conscience, they slight it, and it ceases to plead. And thus, being left by their true, inward guide, they are obliged to take another guide, their reason, which by itself knows little or nothing about religion; then this their blind reason forms a system of right or wrong for them, as well as it can, flattering to their own desires and presumptions, where it is not actually corrupt. No wonder such a scheme contradicts scripture, which it is soon found to do; nor that they are certain to preceive this themselves; they often do not know it, and think themselves still believers in the gospel, while they maintain doctrines which the gospel condemns. But sometimes they perceive that their system is contrary to scripture, and then instead of giving up they give up scripture. Sure is the course of disobedience, beginning in apparently slight omissions, and ending in open unbelief.—From a Sermon by Cardinal Newman.

Beware of the Revolver.

A little twelve-year-old boy in this city shot himself, either by accident or otherwise, the 11th inst. The revolver used was one kept in the house as a defensive weapon in case of burglars, and is another terrible reminder of the danger of leaving fire-arms in the reach of children. We have never yet known or even heard of a case where a revolver was any use to a woman, or children or even a man. Who ever knew of a burglar being shot? We often hear of the festive burglar shoot a citizen or policeman, we hear every few days of children who shooting each other or themselves: we occasionally hear of a soft-headed young man (who didn't think it was loaded) shooting his sweetheart, but, if a revolver has ever been any earthly use in a home, we have thus far been ignorant of it; and yet it is quite popular for every dressing case to have a revolver as an article of toilet.—Minnesota Methodist.

Are you not surprised to find how independent of money peace of conscience is? and how much happiness can be condensed into the humblest home? a cottage will not hold the bulky furniture and sumptuous accommodations of a mansion; but if God be there, a cottage will hold as much happiness as might stock a palace.—Dr. James Hamilton.

There is one place where the Lord cannot live, where He will not live, and that is in the heart that has become luke-warm, in a proud and uplifted heart, a heart that is filled with its own self. The more we have of self the less of Christ.—Geo E. Rees.

What would be wanting to make this world a kingdom of heaven, if that tender, profound, and self-denying love practiced and recommended by Jesus, were paramount in heart? Then the loftiest and most glorious idea of human society would be realized.—Krumacher.

The Key to your life and mine is this, that God is holy, and purposes holiness for you and me.—Rev. Dr. Barrows.

AMERICAN NATIONAL BANK.

CASH CAPITAL,

$1,000,000.

Board of Directors.

E. W. Cole,
John G. Houston,
J. F. Demoville,
John Orr,
Byrd Douglass, Jr.,

Jehn M. Lea,
J. Kirkman,
Rev. Dr. R. A. Young,
V. L. Kirkman,
R. L. Weakley,

A. W. Harris,
M. Burns,
T. A. Atchison,
W. G. Bush,
W. H. Jackson,

John Woodard,
J. A. Pigue,
C. E. Hillman,
W. W. Berry,
Wm. Porter,
Edgar Jones.

This Bank has united with it the THIRD NATIONAL BANK of this city, and has increased its Capital Stock to $1,000,000. With increased facilities in every particular, it can confidently assert that it will offer superior advantages in all departments of Banking to its patrons and friends.

JOHN KIRKMAN, President,
A. W. HARRIS, Cashier,
E. W. COLE, Chairman Executive Committee.

EDGAR JONES, Vice-President,
JOHN M. LEA, Vice-President.

GOSPEL ADVOCATE

PRINTING AND PUBLISHING COMPANY,

JAMES F. &amp; HARRY LIPSCOMB, Managers,

98 Union Street,

Nashville, Tenn.

Letter Heads, Note Heads, Bill Heads, Statement Heads, Circulars, Catalogues, By-Laws, Bills Lading, Receipts, Coal Tickets, Milk Tickets, Tags, Business Cards, Visiting Cards, Horse Bills, Etc.

Good work at reasonable rates. Send for prices. Give us your orders and be pleased.

WE RESPECTFULLY CALL YOUR ATTENTION TO THE FOLLOWING EXCELLENT BOOKS KEPT BY US:

Popular Hymns, word edition.....	single copy 15 cts; per dozen, by express, $1 50; by mail, $1 70
Popular Hymns, Note edition, (Boards).....	single copy 30 cts; per dozen, by express, 3 00; by mail, 3 60
Popular Hymns, Note, (with rudiments).....	single copy 40 cts; per dozen, by express, 4 20; by mail, 4 80
Popular Hymns, Note edition, (cloth).....	single copy 40 cts; per dozen, by express, 4 00; by mail, 4 75
New Life (character notes).....	single copy 25 cts; per dozen, by express, 3 00; by mail, 4 00
Songs of Glory, numbers 1 and 2.....	single copy 35 cts; per dozen, by express, 3 60; by mail, 4 60
Life of Raccoon John Smith, (very readable,) postpaid.....	2 00
Voice of Seven Thunders, (interesting, entertaining, and instructive,) postpaid.....	1 50
Gospel Plan of Salvation, by T. W. Brents, postpaid.....	2 00
Gospel Preacher, volumes 1 and 2, by Ben Franklin, each, postpaid.....	3 00
Campbell and Owen Debate (splendid book for lawyers) postpaid.....	1 75
Dictionary of Bible, (complete,) by Dr. Smith, postpaid.....	4 50, smaller 3 00
House-keeping in the Blue Grass, (splendid,) postpaid.....	1 50
First Principles, by Isaac Errett, postpaid.....	15
Offerings to the Lord, by David Lipscomb, postpaid.....	10
Christian Experience, by Ben Franklin, postpaid.....	10
Review of Dr. T. O. Summers' Tract, by Isaac Errett, postpaid.....	10
Union Movement, by Ben Franklin, postpaid.....	10
Brown's Pocket Concordance to Bible, postpaid.....	60
Cruden's New Concordance (complete) postpaid.....	1 50
Bibles, Testaments, in all styles and bindings, at low rates.

We will furnish any Book published in United States at retail price. WE SOLICIT YOUR orders. We pay postage only. All kinds of Job Printing.

DUDLEY BROS. & LIPSCOMB,
WHOLESALE HARDWARE, CUTLERY AND IMPLEMENTS.

AGENTS FOR

J. I. CASE WALKING CULTITATORS. IMPROVED WITH SPRINGS. BEST IN USE.

DUDLEY BROS. & LIPSCOMB,
84 & 86 Broad Street, Nashville, Tenn.

PASCHALL, FALL &amp; CO.,

WHOLESALE

HARDWARE, Cutlery, Iron, WAGON MATERIAL, Etc

FISHING TACKLE.

Nos. 57, 59 & 61 S. Market St.,
NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE

Our Prices are Very Low.

THE GOSPEL ADVOCATE.

NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE, MAY 28, 1884.

CONTENTS:

Too Much Doctrine, and yet not Enough.....	337
ITERS, PERSONALS, ETC.....	339
A Misapplication of Scripture.....	340
The Church as a Vigilance Committee.....	341
The Neglect of Private Prayer.....	341
Beware of the Revolver.....	341
QUESTIONS.....	342
A Stunning Argument.....	342
QUESTIONS.....	342
Reception—Reply to Bro. McGary.....	343
Be Ye Doers of the Word, and Not Hearers Only.....	344
The Faith Alone System.....	344
OBITUARIES.....	344
Making Friends.....	347
KEYSTONE CONTRIBUTIONS AND CORRESPONDENCE.....
The Gadsden Meeting.....	347
What Must We Join?.....	347
TEXAS WORK AND WORKERS.....
A Mistake.....	346
Faith, Feeding, Action.....	346
HOME READING.....
In the Morning.....	348
King Alfred's Motto.....	348
The True Wisdom.....	348

"A STUNNING ARGUMENT."

In the last number of the Apostolic Times is found the following argument from Bro. Briney on Missionary Societies. "Missionary Societies are either good or bad. They are of God or the devil. If they are of God, they that oppose them, oppose God. If they are of the devil, those who aid them aid the devil in his work. Is there a sane man on earth who can believe for one moment that the devil could or would have begotten offspring that would accomplish what missionary societies have done for the world." He then gives an account of how India, China, the Isles of the ocean have been opened to and brought under the influence of the gospel. He asks then does the picture look much like the devil? Is Satan divided against himself? Did he get tired waiting for the "Lord's plan" to come into the benighted lands where he had held undisputed sway for so many years, an attack his hosts and put them to flight? Did he become disgusted with the slow movements of the armies of the Lord, and get up the missionary societies and lead them against his own fortifications? And Bro. Briney seems to think that a perfect clincher of an argument. "If he will admit this as sound argument in the mouth of friend Moody in his debate next month at Mayfield, Bro. Briney had better make discretion the better part of valor and not meet Moody.

Suppose Moody was to say, the Baptist church is either good or bad. It is either of God or the devil. If it is of God, they that oppose it oppose God. If it is of the devil, they that aid it aid the devil; and then take this picture presented by Bro. Briney of what the Baptist church has done, (for all this work he presents has been done by the Baptist church or other churches still farther from the truth,) and ask, Does this look like Satan or his work? Did the devil get tired of waiting for a restoration of the pure, primitive church, and the slow movements of God in the matter, and organize the Baptist and other corrupt churches, to attack and destroy his own fortifications?" How could Bro. Briney, in the face of his own argument, meet this from Mr. Moody. If Bro. Briney were not estopped by his own endorsement of the fallacy, he would doubtless say, That the fallacy lurks in the assumption that an institution is necessarily all either of God or the devil, which is not true. That God is the author of all that is good and true in the Baptist church, and the devil is the author of all that is evil and false. That God established his church on earth. The devil opposed, and so long as was in his power, prevented the establishment of the church of God. When he found he could not prevent the establishment of the church, he corrupted it.

Under the guise of friendship by introducing influences, principles of operation, institutions and appointments not introduced by God, he did this by persuading men they were more efficacious in promoting the honor of God, than a strict adherence to and firm reliance upon the appointments of God. Now, Mr. Moody, my position is, that these additions in doctrine, institutions and practices, that have been added by man (for whatever God did not ordain is added by man at the instigation of the devil) have corrupted, perverted and changed the church of God into the Baptist church, and whenever you will drop these corruptions off, I stand ready to acknowledge the Baptist church as the true church of God. My object is not to destroy these features of the Baptist church, that are preserved as God ordained them, but only those corruptions added by men at the instigation of the devil.

So we deny that this work which Bro. Briney pictures, was done by missionary societies. The devil, as long as he could, opposed and suppressed the missionary spirit. All opposition to the missionary spirit is of the devil. But when he could no longer suppress that spirit, he labored to divert it from the channels God had provided for it, and to direct it in channels that would weaken, corrupt and destroy the church of God, and so dishonor God. This he succeeded in doing. He used the missionary spirit to break down and destroy the churches, which gave birth to the spirit. Hence the world presents the picture, to-day, of churches establishing missions to convert heathens to Christ, while those churches themselves are largely losing faith in Christ, are becoming infidel.

The very entering wedge of this infidelity is involved in this missionary society question. The missionary spirit is of the essence of the Christian religion. The devil persuades Christians the spirit can be made more effective and fruitful, by adopting societies framed by men, than by letting it work through the Spirit's own appointments. Man listened to this suggestion of the devil, and he went to work to frame these institutions. It schooled man to the work of supplanting divine appointments with inventions of human wisdom. This schools him to depreciate God's appointments, God's law, God's wisdom, and to exalt the wisdom of man as sufficient to guide in things spiritual. This is infidelity.

In this way the devil is using the Christianizing of the heathen lands, as the occasion to heathenize the Christian lands. And the devil will make a wondrous good trade, if he can heathenize the vigorous and aggressive stocks of Europe and America, in converting to a corrupted Christianity the effeminate nations of the West.

Our plea is, preserve the missionary spirit in the true, uncorrupted church of God. Let not the devil, under plea of making that spirit more fruitful, pervert it from its proper bounds, and so corrupt the church of God. So we will not make the church of God infidel by the process that converts the heathens to a corrupted form of Christianity. But we will keep the faith of the church pure, and when we convert a heathen, will convert him to the true faith in God.

God is the author of the missionary spirit. The devil induced man to develop that spirit, through human societies, that it might be perverted, and God's honor destroyed. We strive to preserve the spirit from the Lord, and to reject the counsel and help of the devil in the Lord's work. The missionary spirit sent the gospel to the heathen. The societies are the corrupting and polluting channels through which the devil induced man to send it. Now he claims the work that he corrupted, and that his societies are the author of the work.

We have used strong expressions in this, in accord with the style of Bro. Briney, to meet it. It is the right style. Is it asking too much, to ask the Times to let its readers see this article?

QUERY.

Please give me your scriptural views on the calling to the ministry, as in Acts i: 15-26; Acts xxvi: 16; Acts v: 4. Also about licenses and ordination, as in Mark iii: 14; 1 Tim. iv: 14; Acts xiv: 23; Titus i: 6. What would you advise one to study, besides the Bible, who expects to preach? Please give your views on election and predestination, also, if it don't require too much space and time.—[W. T. Russell, Bibb Springs, Alabama.

As well ask a dissertation on the whole Bible, as to ask it on these subjects, with an expectation that they will be answered with any fullness. We do not think there is anything about calling to the ministry, in any of the Scriptures referred to. The first case alluded to, is, the apostles chose one to take the place of Judas, as witness of what they had heard Christ teach, and had seen him do. The second, Christ appears to Paul to make him a witness of the truth of Christ, to the world. We do not know what Acts v: 4, referred to.

We know nothing about license. Mark iii: 4, is only an account of Christ sending out his apostles. 1 Tim. iv: 14, refers to the fact that to Timothy was imparted a spiritual gift, to guide him in teaching others, before the revelation of God was completed. This was done through laying on of the hands of the Presbytery of which Paul was one. Acts xix: 23, is an account of ordaining elders in the cities. The question of ordination has so often been discussed, we cannot now do it. Titus i: 5, tells that he was left in Crete, to set in order the things that were wanting, to perfect the work of the church, and to place the elders to their proper work.

One who expects to preach ought to study the rules and use of language, that he may understand how to interpret the Scriptures. There is more failure in not knowing how to gain the true meaning of Scripture, from its connection and association, than from any other cause in studying the Bible. Study the proper use of language that we may understand how to interpret language. We could not think of giving any prescribed course of study, unless we knew the surroundings of the person. But for young persons designing to teach the Christian religion, the most important qualification is not to read what others have said as to the meaning of Scriptures, but to qualify themselves for independent investigation of all Scripture truth. A position taken on the investigation and faith of another, is never well understood and cannot be used as when the conclusion is worked out by ourselves. Nor does this require great scholarship, but the habit of clear and methodical investigation, the art of noting the relation of a passage of Scripture to others, and especially to the connection in which it stands. To get this art is of more value in knowing and teaching the truth than knowledge of all that was ever written concerning the Scriptures. Learn how to study the Scripture that we may gain its true meaning.

Next to this is the history of religion and of religious thought and development. God has elected to salvation those who trust and obey him. He has predestined unto eternal life all these believers who persevere unto the end.

D. L.

RE-BAPTISM—REPLY TO BRO. MCGARY.

Bro. McGary and I refer to Bro. Campbell for different purposes. I referred to him as an example to which we could look back without prejudice, to see the length and breadth of, and to illustrate this position. Bro. McGary refers to him as authority for certain teaching. While we regard him as no authority, we believe the second extract from his writing as firmly as Bro. McGary does. The difference is, I do not think this conflicts in the least with my position. Neither did Campbell. He believed what he wrote. He believed my position. If one is inconsistent with the other, as Bro. McGary thinks, neither Campbell nor myself had sense enough to see it, so will be excused for lack of ability.

Bro. McGary wishes to know what I meant by the quotation he makes from my reply to Nichols. I mean and believe precisely what I said. I believe no man can enter the kingdom of God, save as he is guided step by step into the kingdom by the Spirit of God. I believe the Spirit gave the direction full and complete on the day of Pentecost. I believe that every step must be taken just as the Spirit commanded. The directions were, "Know with assurance that Jesus is both Lord and Christ." "Repent and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ." That is the direction, the whole of the direction, the only commands given on the day of Pentecost. When a person does this, because the Spirit has commanded it, he has followed all the directions of the Holy Spirit, he has done all the commands that the Spirit gave. He has been guided by the Spirit step by step to the place where the promise comes in. The promise of remission of sins and the gift of the Holy Spirit constitutes no part of the direction, no part of the thing to be done by the individual, no part of the command of God, but they constitute the promises of God.

When an individual does all the Spirit commands him to do, he has been led by the Spirit, he follows the Spirit. Then the question is, if a man is led by the Spirit of God, does all the Spirit commands him to do, but fails to hear one of the promises or to know where the promise comes in, will that failure to see the promise, or where the promise comes in, vitiate his obedience to the commands of the Spirit? He says this language is easy to be understood. It is to me and to him. It was not easy to A. Campbell. It was not easy to B. W. Stone. It was not easy to Tolbert Fanning. These giant minds with hearts loyal and true to God, proclaimed the authority of the Bible, saw what the Spirit commanded to do, did it with glad homage to the Maker. But for years, owing to the environments of error, in which they had been raised, failed to see that baptism was for the remission of sins. Now while they followed the Spirit in the obedience, was that obedience despised of God because they failed to see where the promise came in?

Remember I insist on an absolute obedience to the directions of the Spirit. One who does not follow these directions is not led by the Spirit, and is not baptized. We only insist seeing all the promises, and just where each blessing comes in, is not necessary to the following of the Spirit. Hence Bro. McGary's supposition of Abraham's taking a servant instead of his son, has no resemblance to anything I have said. If in that offering of his son he had failed to see all the promises, and just where each one would be enjoyed, but notwithstanding that failure, he through love and reverence for God, had gone forward in obedience to his command, had held in check and repressed all the feelings of parental love that filled his heart, and had offered the son on the altar of God through love to God and his laws, and then God had spurned the sacrifice because Abraham had failed to perceive all the blessings, or when each one would come in, then our brother would have a case that justifies his position and condemns mine. But what a horrid idea of God that would give.

I have been, during this discussion, impressed as to how like other sectarians we are when we advocate things not commanded of God. Other sectarians say we teach two ways of salvation, because the Spirit said to one believe, to another repent and be baptized, to another be baptized and wash away your sins. Our sectarians say, I teach two ways of salvation, because I say that out of the multiplicity of blessings that are promised as a condition of being baptized into Christ, sometimes one of these blessings was presented, sometimes another as a motive and encouragement to obedience, owing to the peculiar condition of the individual addressed. I believe baptism was for the remission of sins to Cornelius, to the Samaritans. But it was not prominently presented to them as the encouragement to obedience, as on Pentecost, and to Saul, because they were not laboring under a sense of guilt, as these others. But other fruits, other blessings, were presented to them. My argument was that, if it was not presented to all as the one sole motive; that if some of the other blessings were presented under some circumstances to move to obedience; then the knowledge that baptism is for the remission of sins, is not necessary to the acceptability of baptism. But that baptism, submitted to from any scriptural motive, is acceptable to God. The desire to honor God, to obey God, to enter Christ, are scriptural motives. The motive that led Christ is a motive. Then whoever submits to baptism to honor God, is acceptably baptized. This argument has not been met. It is easier to adopt the sectarian tactics and say two ways of salvation. But this is not true.

Our brother's reference to the twelve at Ephesus, has no relevancy. They were baptized in obedience to John's baptism, after it had ceased; so they did not obey God. He again asks us if it is not necessary to believe that baptism is for the remission of sins, is it necessary to preach it? We thought we answered this before. It is a sin to a man to neglect to preach baptism for the remission of sins, who understands that God has taught it. It was no sin for A. Campbell, or T. Fanning, to preach Christ and his absolute right to rule, before they understood that he had made baptism a condition of remission of sins. It was not a sin to them, it is not a sin to Bro. McGary, or to me, to preach the word of God as the only spiritual guidance to man, before we understand everything in that word. If we did not maintain its supremacy before we understood it all, we would never do it at all.

A. Campbell, in preaching the Christ, learned the truth of God concerning baptism for the remission of sins. When A. Campbell saw baptism was a command of the Spirit, he did right to obey that command right then and there, even though he had not learned that it was for the remission of sins. It would have been a sin for him to refuse to be baptized, when he saw it was a command of God, even though he failed to see it was for the remission of sins. If it would have been a sin for him to refuse to be baptized, when he first learned baptism was a requirement of the Spirit, it was right for him to be baptized then in obedience to God. If it was right for him to be baptized then in obedience to the command of the Spirit, it would have been wrong to wait, and a sin to repeat that baptism.

What was true of A. Campbell, is true of every other human being, like situated. It is a sin not to be baptized just so soon as we understand it is a command of God. It is a misfortune not to understand all the relations of baptism. But a failure on our part to understand all these relations, does not justify us in refusing to be baptized, does not make it a sin to be baptized. If it is right to be baptized, then it is wrong to repeat the act, though not wrong to accept and teach any relationships that we may afterward learn that it possesses. It would be a sin to reject the teaching of the Bible on any point, when we learn it is the Bible teaching. It is a misfortune not to know the whole teaching of the Bible, but not necessarily a sin. We think we have met all these issues plainly and specifically.

I doubt if there is any real difference between Bro. McGary and myself, on this question. The reason is, he says I surrendered the question, when I said, "If a man be baptized to please some church, that baptism is a nullity and an offense before God." That is just what I have said from the beginning. It is just as true concerning those Bro. McGary and I baptize, as concerning those Methodists or Baptists baptize. The last person I re-baptized was one who said he had been baptized just because his sister joined the church, and he wished to go along with her. If Bro. McGary means only those who have been baptized to get into the Baptist, or Methodist, or "Christian church," have not been baptized, with all my heart I will give him my hand on it, whether they think they have been pardoned or not. If he affirms that all baptized by Baptists or Methodists, are baptized merely to get into those churches, it raises another question. I do not believe they are all so baptized. I believe when a man or woman solemnly tells me they joined the Baptist church because they were the only people known to them practicing what the Lord required, and they did it desiring to obey God, I cannot tell them they are hypocrites, or that they should be baptized again. But let us settle one question at a time.

Is not the teaching of the Scripture on this subject plain? It is. Why do any fail to see it? Because of human weakness, human infirmity, human prejudice, which cling to us all. Are these an excuse for disobedience? No. But they vitiate the service only when they prevent obedience. The persons in question did obey. They only mistook when each one of the blessings came in.

Bro. McGary lays down as his formula to be followed, faith, repentance, confession with the mouth, baptism. He is in favor of following the guidance of the Spirit. But there is not an example, or a precept, in all the cases of conversion presented by the Spirit,—of confession being required as a pre-requisite to baptism. When the Eunuch asked Philip, "What hinders me to be baptized?" Philip gave the only hindering cause, a lack of faith. Even admitting that the Eunuch did say, "I believe that Jesus is the Christ," he did not do it because a confession was required of him—this had not been done—but because faith was demanded. And this confession was the assurance of faith. As such, it is right. As a ritual to be gone through with, to render baptism valid, it stands with the Pharisaic tradition of washing the hands before eating, and should be rooted up as a plant not planted of God.

D. L.

The greatest of faults, I should say, is to be conscious of none.—Carlyle.

BE YE DOERS OF THE WORD, AND NOT HEARERS ONLY.

Ever since the creation of Adam, it has been God's plan that man should be an active, intelligent, and industrious creature, in order to health, and that physical life might be sustained and prolonged to future usefulness, prosperity, and happiness. Work has been the grandest means to accomplish good results, in all ages of the world. And the being who lives idly, and rebels against nature's first law, must take as his punishment, poverty, ignorance, misery and want. He who prepared the garden of Eden for man, did not authorize him to lounge around and take his ease there; but he put him in the garden to dress and keep it. There was every variety of fruit trees there that was pleasing to the sight and good for food, and flowers and sunny banks, no doubt,—luxurious gratifications to every sense. But these were of a nature to run wild and spoil, if left to themselves; and labor and intelligence were necessary to keep them in proper order, and give them their sweetest beauty. Our fruit trees must be planted, cultivated, and kept trimmed, or no delicious fruit will be the result.

And God has so ordained things in the spiritual kingdom, that after we have become disciples of Christ, after we have been buried and have risen from the watery grave, we should walk in newness of life. As we have walked in the natural kingdom, fulfilling the desires of the flesh, we should now walk in the spiritual kingdom, bringing forth the fruits of the Spirit. And in order to this, we must be doers of the word, and not hearers only; we must cultivate, trim, and beautify this spiritual body of ours, that it may gain sufficient strength to bear fruit; and unless we add to our faith all of the Christian graces, we will be like the barren fig-tree: we will wither, and will soon forget that we were purged from our old sins. "Faith without works is dead; for as the body without the Spirit is dead, so faith without works is dead also." James ii: 26 "What doth it profit, my brethren, though a man say he hath faith and have not works? Can faith save him?" Abraham was an example to us; he was justified, and his faith was made perfect, when he had offered up Isaac, his son, upon the altar. What must have been the feeling of that father, as he traveled along with his beloved and promised son, God had given him, to the place where the sacrifice was to be made. God was trying his faith to see whether he loved his son better than he did him. But Abraham proved his faith by doing just what God commanded him, and he received the blessing, and is called the father of the faithful. And we will also receive the blessing, the reward of our labor, if we prove by our works that we do not love the things of the world better than the things of the Spirit; and the only way we can prove our faith is by doing the will of our heavenly Father, which is revealed to us only through his holy and written word. "Whosoever looketh into the perfect law of liberty, and continueth therein, he being not a forgetful hearer, but a doer of the work, this man shall be blessed in his deed. James i: 24. As God worked six days in creating all things that are in heaven and on earth, and has entered into his rest from all his works which he created and made, so is every disciple of Christ commanded to work, in order that he may have an abundant entrance through the pearly gates into the heavenly city. And we are required to be perfect in every good work, to do his will, working in us that which is well pleasing in his sight, through Jesus Christ our Lord. If Noah had failed to prepare the ark, or had not made it as long, or as wide, or as high, or had failed to make it of gopher wood, and had failed to pitch it within and without, or had failed to have done one thing that God commanded him, he would have failed to be saved. But he, being moved with fear and love, knowing that God was sure to bring the flood of waters on the earth, and destroy every living thing, both man and beast, prepared the ark to the saving of his soul; and he proved to God his faith by constructing the ark, just as God commanded him. And God fulfilled his promises by saving him; and he became a heir of righteousness, and was translated out of the old world into the new; and if we, as disciples of Christ, build our spiritual buildings out of any other material than what God has commanded, or fail to prove our faith in his promises by neglecting to make our arks waterproof, we will be like the foolish man that built his house on the sand. When the rain descends, and the flood comes, we will be swept away, leaving nothing but death and despair; and we will fail to be translated out of the old world into the new.

Hearing and doing, we build on the rock;
Hearing alone, we build on the sand.
Both will be tried by the storm and the flood,
Only the rock the trial will stand.

MRS. P. A. SHULTZ.

THE FAITH ALONE SYSTEM.

"For ye are all the children of God by faith in Christ." Gal. iii: 26 The above quotation is relied upon by our orthodox friends to prove the faith alone system. Hence, if they can make it appear that sinners are saved by faith only, as it is stated in the ninth article of the Methodist discipline, they then claim that it is not absolutely necessary to be baptized in order to salvation from past sin, or that baptism is not a condition of pardon to the alien sinner. It seems strange that people will rely upon such a passage of Scripture to support the doctrine of justification by faith only, when the twenty-seventh verse of the same chapter reads thus: "For as many as have been baptized into Christ, have put on Christ." This passage seems to explain how it was that the Galatians had become the children of God by faith; for, says the inspired writer, they put on Christ by being baptized. Now, if the ninth article of the Methodist discipline, formulated by men, be true, then it follows that men are justified without putting on Christ.

Again, Paul in his letter to the Romans, says we are baptized into the death of Christ. See Romans vi: 3 Therefore, if by baptism we enter Christ, those who stubbornly refuse to submit to the divine institution of baptism, have never entered Christ. So if the faith alone system be true, as taught by our Methodist brethren, we are then saved out of Christ.

Again, our Savior shed his blood for the remission of sins, and without the shedding of blood there is no remission." See Hebrews ix: 22. Then one must come in contact with the blood of Jesus in order to be made free from sin. How do we come in contact with the blood of our Savior? By faith alone? We answer no, simply from the reason Paul says we are baptized into the death of Christ, and it was by the death of Christ that his blood was shed. So if the doctrine of justification by faith alone be true, we are saved away from the blood of Christ, which flowed in his death. Men are not justified out of Christ, but in Christ Jesus. Paul, in his letter to the Romans, says: "For all have sinned and come short of the glory of God, being justified freely by his grace through the redemption that is in Christ Jesus." By precept and example we can ascertain how people in primitive apostolic times were made children of God by faith in our Savior. They received the grace or favor of God by obedience to the faith, and not by faith alone. See Rom. i: 5; Rom. xvi: 26. Now, if modern theology be true, why did Paul say, "We have received grace and apostleship for obedience to the faith?" Why not say, We have received grace by faith only? True, Paul told the Galatians they were the children of God by faith. But must we conclude that they were made children by faith only? Everything we do in the name of our Savior is by or through faith. By faith in the Son of God the Galatians were baptized and made free from sin. And by faith in the ninth article of the Methodist Discipline, our Methodist brethren ignore the institution of baptism. Such people have no faith in the word of God; for if they did, they certainly would do as the Lord directs, without prating about justification outside of obedience to the gospel. Well did the Spirit say that in the latter days some should depart from the faith, giving heed to seducing spirits and the doctrines of devils. The time has now come! Compare the ninth article of the Methodist Discipline with James xi: 24, and the fact will be demonstrated.

HENRY REHORN, JR.

Aim to be in all things acceptable to God, and you need trouble yourself but little about the opinions of man.

Obituaries.

AN ACROSTIC—MRS. MARY M. BARTLETT BURNETT.

Mourn not the dead whose hopes are sure,
A happier lot is theirs;
Racked on the beds of pain no more,
Yon heaven their spirit cheers.
More than earth's sorrow is the joy
By every Christian felt,
As in his Savior's loved employ
'Rapt hopes his being melt.
Then let us mourn no more our friend,
Let heaven dry our eyes;
Each heart its hope can comfort send,
Though earthly comfort dies.
Thy life was made a sacrifice
By thee. Angels of bliss
Unveiled to thy weary eyes
Rest in heaven's happiness.
No care shall sweep across thy heart—
Eternal joys are thine;
To us 'tis grief from thee to part,
To us 'tis loss—the gain is thine.

It becomes my painful duty to record the death of my dear companion, Katie F. Douglass, who departed this life April 21, 1884, at her home near Crafton, Wise county, Texas. She was the daughter of Thos. L. and Eliza P. Snodgrass. She was born in Perry county, Illinois, near Duquoin, November 24, 1860, and came with her parents to Middle Tennessee, when she was quite a little girl. She made the confession in 1876, under the preaching of Rice Sewell, and was baptized by S. N. Burger, at Beech Grove, Coffee county, Tenn. She lived a true Christian till her death. In the year 1881 she came with her parents to Texas. She was married to the writer on December 15, 1881. Katie leaves a husband, and one beautiful little blue-eyed boy, aged one year, eight months, and eighteen days, and a widowed mother, five sisters, and six brothers, with a great many friends, to mourn their loss. But we should not mourn as those that have no hope, for "blessed are those that die in the Lord," as Katie did, "for they shall see God." Katie was a good wife, and always tried to make her husband happy. She gained friends wherever she went. She was always at her post; studied her Bible faithfully. She was loved by all that knew her. But she has gone to her home in heaven, where we all shall meet at home.

There's a beautiful land, a land of light,
A country just o'er the way;
Where the night of life, with its gloom and strife,
Fades out into glorious day.

Crafton, Wise County, Texas. T. L. DOUGLASS.

In memory of Edgar E. Sims, who, in his tender childhood, fell by an accidental gun-shot, at his father's, in Florida, a few weeks ago. He was the eldest son of J. M. and M. E. Sims. The whole creation is moldering away by the canker-ing hand of time. With mankind it is ever fall-time. "How vain are all things here below." But it is not written of the Spirit. It shall "return to God who gave it."

"Death's terror is the mountain faith removes,
'Tis faith disarms destruction."

Though a cloud gather around us here, and dim our sight, filled with affection's tear; yet "faith, amid the dew drops that fall, discerns a rainbow there." Then "let not your heart be troubled." The path of sorrow leads to the world where sorrow is unknown. May the Lord of love comfort the living in the remembrance of the fact that our God will care for the dead. When I look upon, or write about, the dead, I cannot keep out of my mind the saying of the good and illustrious Addison. "When I look," said he, "upon the tombs of the great, every emotion of envy dies in me; when I read the epitaphs of the beautiful, every inordinate desire goes out; when I meet with the griefs of parents upon a tombstone, my heart melts with compassion; when I see the tombs of the parents themselves, I consider the vanity of grieving for those whom we must quickly follow." God bless you, my brother and sister.

R. W. OFFICER.

The children of a clergyman's family in Aberdeen were making themselves happy propounding conundrums. Directly one of them said, "Who was the meekest woman?" The clergyman seemed struck with a fresh thought and replied quickly, "We don't read of any." But madam made herself even with him when she rejoined with quite as much quickness, "Well we read of only one such man, and from the fuss that's made about him, it's plain they're scarce."

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

This powder never varies. A marvel of purity strength and wholesomeness. More economical than the ordinary kinds, and cannot be sold in competition with the multitude of low test, short weight alum or phosphate powders. Sold only in cans.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 106 Wall St., New York.

ROBUST HEALTH

Is not always enjoyed by those who seem to possess it. The taint of corrupted blood may be secretly undermining the constitution. In time, the poison will certainly show its effects, and with all the more virulence the longer it has been allowed to permeate the system. Each pimple, sty, boil, skin disorder and sense of unnatural lassitude, or languor, is one of Nature's warnings of the consequences of neglect.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

Is the only remedy that can be relied upon, in all cases, to eradicate the taint of hereditary disease and the special corruptions of the blood. It is the only alterative that is sufficiently powerful to thoroughly cleanse the system of Scrofulous and Mercurial impurities and the pollution of Contagious Diseases. It also neutralizes the poisons left by Diphtheria and Scarlet Fever, and enables rapid recuperation from the enfeeblement and debility caused by these diseases.

Myriads of Cures

Achieved by AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, in the past forty years, are attested, and there is no blood disease, at all possible of cure, that will not yield to it. Whatever the ailments of this class, and wherever found, from the scurvy of the Arctic circle to the "yeldt-sores" of South Africa, this remedy has afforded health to the sufferers by whom it was employed. Druggists everywhere can cite numerous cases, within their personal knowledge, of remarkable cures wrought by it, where all other treatment had been unavailing. People will do well to -

Trust Nothing Else

than AYER'S SARSAPARILLA. Numerous crude mixtures are offered to the public as "blood purifiers," which only allure the patient with the pretense of many cheap doses, and with which it is folly to experiment while disease is steadily becoming more deep-seated and difficult of cure. Some of these mixtures do much lasting harm. Bear in mind that the only medicine that can radically purify the vitiated blood is

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,

PREPARED BY

Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Sold by all druggists, price $1, six bottles for $5.

THE SUGAR HAND BOOK

A NEW AND VALUABLE TREATISE ON SUGAR CANES, (including the Minnesota Early Amber) and their manufacture into Syrup and Sugar. Although comprised in small compass and furnished free to applicants, it is the BEST PRACTICAL MANUAL ON SUGAR CANES that has yet been published.

W. L. MYER MANUFACTURING CO.
Cincinnati, O.
Manufacturers of Steam Sugar Machinery, Steam Engines, Victor Cane Mill, Cane Sugar Evaporator, etc.

PREWITT, SPURR & CO., MANUFACTURERS OF WOODEN WARE AND LUMBER, NASHVILLE, TENN.

Poplar and Pine Flooring, Ceiling, Weatherboarding, Sash, Doors, Blinds, Door and Window Frames, Brackets, Laths, Cedar Posts, Etc., Always on hand.

FACTORY AND MILLS IN EDGEFIELD.

NATHANIEL BAXTER, JR.,
President.

THOS. PLATER,
Vice President.

J. P. WILLIAMS,
Cashier.

W. F. BANG, JR.,
Asst. Cashier.

THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK, OF NASHVILLE, TENN. (Reorganized.)

Designated Depository and Financial Agent of the United States.

CAPITAL STOCK, - - - - - $500,000 00
UNDIVIDED PROFITS, - - - - - 190,000 00

Receives Deposits, Deals in United States Bonds and Local Securities, and Foreign and Domestic Exchange. Drafts drawn on all European points. Our facilities for making collections at all accessible points are unsurpassed.

P. A. SHELTON, DEALER IN STAPLE AND FANCY GROCERIES,

FLOUR, BACON, LARD, TOBACCO AND CIGARS, COUNTRY PRODUCE,
QUEENSWARE, GLASSWARE, TINWARE, LAMPS AND TRIMMINGS.

No. 96 BROAD STREET, - (Second door from College,) - NASHVILLE, TENN.

Special Attention Given to Filling Orders.

SOLE AGENT FOR "RINGLEADER" FLOUR.

ALEX. HOGAN.

JO. B. HALL.

HOGAN & HALL,

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALERS IN

GROCERIES, BACON, LARD,

-AND-

PURE WHISKIES AND WINES

For Medicinal Purposes.

106 Broad Street, - - - NASHVILLE, TENN.

GOOD CLOTHING!

Gentlemen and boys who desire GOOD CLOTHING at medium prices, equal in style and make to any custom work, should not fail to examine our stock before purchasing their Outfits.

HUNTINGTON, Clothier,

160 Church Street, - - - NASHVILLE.

W. R. CORNELIUS,

GENERAL FUNERAL UNDERTAKER.

OFFICE:
No. 17 North Summer Street,

RESIDENCE:
No. 413 Main Street.

Telephone 73 calls the Office; Telephone 271 calls the Residence.

Will furnish everything wanted at a funeral, and all first-class. Prices as cheap as anybody else. 2a3m

THUSS, KOELLEIN & GIER.

Successors to old Giers' Gallery,

PHOTOGRAPHERS!

139 Union Street, Nashville, Tenn.

CALVERT BROTHERS, PORTRAITS.

In Crayon, in Oil and Water Colors; Ivory Miniatures, &c., &c.,
Coke Building, Cor. Union and Cherry Streets, Nashville, Tenn.

GEO. E. COOPER & CO.,

Wholesale Manufacturers and Dealers in

TINWARE, STOVES, FURNACES,

And House Furnishing Goods.

Tin and Slate Roofing and Galvanized Iron Cornice Work, a Specialty.

Also our Patent Chimney Top for smoky chimneys, has no equal. Write for prices and address.

GEO. E. COOPER & CO.,

22 North Market Street,

Nashville, - - - Tennessee.

SHOW CASES,

CEDAR CHESTS, CEDAR WARDROBES,

Cabinet Work, and all kinds of Glass.

G. C. TERRY, Manufacturer,

No. 2 Hicks' Block, North Side Public Square, NASHVILLE, TENN.

F. A. BADGER, DENTIST

OFFICE

ODD FELLOWS' TEMPLE,

(For Church & High Sts.,)

Nashville, Tennessee.

A Physician's Gift.

If you are a sufferer hoping for a permanent cure of Apoplectic or Epileptic

FITS,

a Free Trial Box of the celebrated Dr. JUSTICE SCHROEDER'S REMEDY for this disorder will be sent you, post-paid, free.

Every sufferer from this disease that is anxious to be cured should give these Powders an immediate trial. Large Box $3 00, two boxes $5.00

Address,

PHILIP HENRY,

49 South Street, New York City.

OWEN'S STATION SCHOOL.

The sixth annual session will open Sept. 3d, 1883, and continue Forty Weeks. The session is divided into two terms of twenty weeks each.

The expenses to boarders per term, are from $75.00 to $80.00. Music with use of Instrument, $22.00. $100.00 will pay for board, washing, full instruction in higher English Branches, Latin, Greek, French and Music. Bills due one-half at opening of term and remainder at middle. For any information, address

W. L. LIPSCOMB,

Brentwood, Tenn.

AGENTS wanted for the History of Christianity, by Abbott. A grand chance. A $4 book at the popular price of $1.75. Liberal terms. The religious papers mention it as one of the few great religious works of the world. Greater success never known by agents. Terms free. STINSON & Co., Publisher, Portland, Maine.

DONT purchase your CHRISTMAS PRESENTS until you have seen our IMMENSE HOLIDAY CATALOGUE of Toys, Novelties, Fancy Goods, &c., mailed free. Address Eureka T. & N. Co., 87 Warren St., New York.

CATALOGUE of Best Books for Agents sent free, including Mother, Home and Heaven. $2.75. Please every body. 125,000 sold, $150 monthly. E. B. TRAZ, Publisher, New York.

TEXAS WORK AND WORKERS.

CONDUCTED BY JOHN T. POE, LONGVIEW, TEXAS,
TO WHOM ALL CORRESPONDENCE RELATING TO
THIS DEPARTMENT MUST BE ADDRESSED.

"Bro. Poe, of the GOSPEL ADVOCATE, speaks right out in meeting against the idea of churches sending messengers to the next State meeting in Texas instructed as to general co-operation in the work of evangelism. Up to the last State meeting, and even on the first day of that meeting, we understood Bro. Poe to be an advocate of this messenger business. In fact, it is our recollection that he said he could not support the meeting if the churches did not take it out of the hands of the preachers and govern it through their messengers."—Old Path Guide.

"That was Bro. Poe's position, but he has learned better, and he is manly enough to change when convinced of his error. The editor of this paper told him privately at the State meeting that a delegated assembly would be the most dangerous and unscriptural body that could be called together, and that churches had no right to delegate their authority to messengers. We are glad that Bro. P. is now sound on the question. The only way to improve the State meeting is to abolish it altogether."—Christian Messenger.

Brethren Srygley and Burnett are both mistaken. The ADVOCATE, and Texas Christian will both attest the fact that for years I have stood opposed, as I am now, to any authority being delegated from the church to the conventions. I did insist on putting the matter before the State meeting, but it was only that an issue might be made on the subject. I foresaw, that sooner or later the matter would have to come before the State meeting, and I was anxious to get it there as soon as possible. Bro. Moore at once arose, when the motion was made, and made a speech, which killed the motion at once. Had not this been the case, the brethren would have heard from me on the subject, and I flattered myself I was able to show that the move was unscriptural and dangerous to the cause.

Bro. Burnett misunderstood my object in trying to get this before the meeting. There was some there who did understand it. At any rate these brethren can now understand, and I hope they will give this to their readers, that I may not be misunderstood by others. This State meeting thinks it "ought" to do something, and so it "ought." It has been in existence long enough to have learned that it is entirely useless and unnecessary to the advancement of the cause of Christ, but it has not entirely learned the lesson. Like all human expedients gotten up to improve the Lord's plan of saving men, it claims much more credit than belongs to it, in work that is done. It magnifies its own doings, and in that degree depreciates the value of God's plan, until at last men would come to depend upon the human, while they ignored the divine plan as altogether too slow, or out of date or fashion, and not add to the progress, and advancement of our things. I have all confidence in God's plan. If it is slow, God designed it so, and it is best. If an inspired apostle could linger in cities months and years, only that he might convert a few of the poorer class of the citizens; if the Master himself, could be content to gather about him only the eleven faithful followers in three years time, surely we should be content to sow the seed which God gave us—His word—and patiently wait is germination and growth to fruit bearing. Many of us have not yet added patience. God's ways are right.

Now, I hope the brethren will not waste time and space in asking me to formulate the Lord's plan. Let each turn to the New Testament, and read for himself. I think he will find that every preacher of the word went and preached as best he could; in that he laid hold of the duty nearest him, and was faithful in it. This, I think, is all that God requires of us. But it is the "pastor" mania, that is back of all this trouble, and I greatly fear our colleges are to blame for this, in manufacturing preachers for the churches. I do not like to depreciate, in any sense, the value of learning; and I appreciate as highly as any one can, the value of learning, and especially in preachers; but I doubt the wisdom or policy of our colleges making preachers. I think this belongs exclusively and solely to the churches. A man educated and trained for preaching, by the colleges, will soon persuade himself that preaching is his profession, that it is his trade, by which he is to have a living. The next step is a paying pastorate at the expense of true godliness, and solid, truthful gospel preaching. Not always so, but sometimes the case, and I fear it has that tendency.

Bro. D. Pennington dropped in upon us Tuesday, May 13th, and preached an excellent discourse for us at night. We like him very much. He is earnest in the good cause, and knows how to present the truth. We could not go home with him, to the land of health—San Antonio—but sent our picture along; and if we improve in good looks and health from that, may move out. Bro. Pennington says his wife is a great "ADVOCATE man." All the good sisters like the ADVOCATE. Bro. Pennington is soliciting money for a church house in San Antonio, and we hope all will help. Church at Longview contributed thirty-five dollars.

Dear Bro. Poe: Although I am to you a stranger in flesh, yet, through the ADVOCATE, I have become somewhat acquainted with you. I am a subscriber to the ADVOCATE, and therefore often hear from you. From such acquaintance, I learn that you are sound in the faith. All such I love. These are trying times. Many are departing from the faith; giving heed to seducing spirits and doctrines of devils: therefore, when I find one who I think is firm in the faith, I feel as if I have one more brother. I have just been reading in the ADVOCATE an article from Bro. T. H. Gillespie, and a short comment by yourself on the same. These give rise mainly to this letter. Now I like the article by Bro. Gillespie. There has been a great deal written on the subject of our receiving into the church those baptized by the sects, and yet it seems no definite conclusion arrived at; or, at least no settlement of the question. In your remark you say, "a Jew was a Jew in Babylon as much as in Jerusalem." What does that have to do with this question? The Jews were captured and forced into Babylon. They did not desire to go into Babylon. They stayed in Babylon no longer that they could get away.

Those in sect Babylon have gone there of their own choice, and therefore this destroys the analogy between them. Again you say, "so there are some Christians, not in any of the churches known as the churches of Christ." I don't know here what you mean; but from what follows, I suppose you mean that there are Christians among the sects, or in sect Babylon. For you say, "a Christian is one who believes and has been immersed." I know that Jesus said, "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved." But what must he believe? Why, the gospel. Methodists, Baptists, etc., preach the gospel? If they do they preach another gospel, and not the gospel of Christ. A man may be a Christian, of course, without entering any local congregation; but simply going through a form of teaching in order to get into Babylon, don't get one into Christ. I thought a Jew could worship God acceptably at Babylon as Daniel and the others did. It seems to me that, if one can go into Babylon and be a Christian, led by the blind, they can certainly remain there and still be Christians; and, if so, I don't see so much difference after all between Babylon and Jerusalem. The sects teach some things that are in the gospel, to be sure; but then they teach much not in the gospel. Now, can one obey from the heart that form of doctrine set forth in Rom. 6, if one don't believe in it? They don't believe that they are baptized into Christ. Try to pray into Christ and are baptized into the Baptist, or Methodist, or some other church. "That which is not of faith is sin." Much more might, and ought to be said; but I will wait and see what you will do with this. May God bless you and preserve you and all the true defenders of the truth, unto his heavenly kingdom.

Bridgeport Ill.

ISAAC C. STONE.

"A Jew was a Jew in Babylon, etc." What does that have to do with it? Just this: that there are many good Christians not in any of our congregations. Men and women who have obeyed from the heart, the form of doctrine laid down by Paul; men and women who have earnestly and sincerely done what God commanded in order to pardon, and yet many of them never heard of the reformation to which we have the honor to belong. They join sects because it is the best they know. They remain in captivity until liberated by the light of truth. It is an extreme narrow view of the church to say it is composed only of those who have membership in some one of our congregations.

A MISTAKE.

One fourth of the money we pay to preach to destitute points, spent for books, pamphlets and papers, and sent out, would effect as much, if not more, than our preaching. I have bought a number of Dr T. W. Brents' "Gospel Plan of Salvation," and sent them out to work. I know a number of persons who have been brought into the kingdom by reading it. "Great Legacy," by Bro. S. R. Ezzell, has done a good work. Such tracts as "What Must I do to be Saved?" "Our Plea and Mission," "True Method of Searching the Scriptures," "The Union Movement," "Why am I a Disciple?" might be circulated to advantage. Let us flood the country with reading matter to take the place of trashy reading. Any book which would be an advantage to our Indian Mission, sent to the writer at Paris, Texas, will find way to the reading Indians, and will be circulated to the best advantage. Send by mail, I will spend next week in Choctaw Nation, circulating books, tracts and papers, and preaching at night. Help, brethren, help. One added here yesterday. Will preach through this week, at nights, here. Our union (?) meeting closed a few days ago, and the preachers divided out. If a union meeting is right for five weeks, why not for all time? Why divide up at the end? R. W. OFFICER.

FAITH, FEELING, ACTION.

Not a great while ago the writer, with brother Farthing, of Gainseville, Texas, met with a small congregation in a grove, but one man in the congregation out had turned to the Lord, after some conversation on the subject of the Bible he said, "If I knew what to do I would do it." I turned to Mark, xvi: 16, and he read with me, "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved." We turned then to Acts ii: 38, and we read again, "Repent, and be baptized, every one of you, in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost." I then said what do you think of that? I believe it," said he, "how do you feel about it?" "I feel just like it is the truth." "Very well, how are you going to talk about it hereafter?" "I am going to talk like it is trap," "and what next?" "I am going to act it out in my life, and I want to obey God," "If you believe, you may." "I believe that Jesus is the Christ, with all my heart," said he. And I baptized him, and the people tell it on that man, that he has no heart felt religion. But Jesus saith, "Judge not." R. W. OFFICER.

Paris Texas.

On second Lord's day in May three were added to the church at Troupe. Bro. Brill was with me. He settles at Mount Enterprise, he is a good preacher.

KENTUCKY CONTRIBUTIONS AND CORRESPONDENCE.

BY J. A. HARDING, OF WINCHESTER, KY., TO WHOM
ALL COMMUNICATIONS FOR THIS DEPARTMENT
SHOULD BE ADDRESSED.

THE GADSDEN MEETING.

Gadsden is a prosperous growing town of northern Alabama, of about four or five thousand inhabitants, located four miles south of the Alabama Great Southern R. R., which is connected by the Gadsden Branch R. R.

About a year ago, at Huntsville, Ala., a widow, who had for a number of years been a member of the Presbyterian church, confessed Christ and was baptized under my ministry. Shortly afterwards she removed to this place. She found here six other disciples, two of whom are men, all of them people of good repute in the town. These began to meet at the house of sister Brooks, (for this is the name of the lady,) upon each Lord's day to break the loaf; in this service they were led by a brother from the country, who met with them for awhile, as neither of the brethren in the town felt competent for the work. Upon the suggestion of sister Brooks, this little band invited Bro. Daugherty and myself to come down and hold them a meeting. This we desired very much to do; after many weeks had passed, the way seemed open for us to go; and we wrote that if the Lord so willed we would come down immediately upon the close of the Scottsboro meeting. But just here a perplexing matter arose: a letter from Savannah, Ga. came to us calling for a meeting, and saying, "if we do not hold it immediately, that is, during Lent, we can not secure a hall in which to meet, seeing that at all other times the demand for the public halls is so great that the rents are too high." We wrote at once to Gadsden enclosing this letter, and asking what we must do. The reply came, "Come here first, and then go to Savannah." This, of course, we could not do, since the meeting at Savannah had to be held during Lent, or not at all. We were no little perplexed. But the next mail settled the matter. The brethren at Gadsden had overcome the temptation to selfishness that beset them, and hastened to write, "Go to Savannah first." It is not necessary that I should speak here concerning the grand meeting which we had in the Forest City; the success of the meeting, the great zeal of the members there, and the bright prospects which they have before them have all been spoken of through these columns. Now we are drawing near the close of another glorious one. We began here with the new moon, and just after the close of a cold disagreeable, wet season that had prevailed ever since the beginning of the winter. We have had uninterrupted good weather; the nights have been as fair as moonlight in May ever gets to be; the people have thronged out to hear us, and ten of them have stepped out upon the union ground, the rock of eternal truth, God's holy word. A number of others are convinced and we hope too will come out on the right side before the meetings close. Many times have we thought, and has it been said, "How fortunate that this meeting was postponed till after the one at Savannah." I am sure there are two things the preacher of the gospel should always scrupulously attend to: he should never fail to pray daily, "Lord, lead me where I can do the most good in thy service;" and he should keep himself disentangled, that he may go as the Master opens up the way. The whole world is open to his glance; he knows the hearts of all men, and understands exactly what each one of us can do; he can put us day by day, into the fields in which we can accomplish the most for him; and he will do it, if we dutifully submit our wills to his will, asking him to guide us. No preacher should trust his own judgement in the matter of fixing the times and seasons for a number of protracted meetings, announcing his appointments for weeks and months to come, since in the very nature of things his judgement is worth little or nothing in such a matter. It is far better to be doing the work that is before us now faithfully, leaving it to God's providence to lead us in other fields when it is proper in his sight for us to leave this one. When at any time it becomes necessary for one to express a desire, or purpose, concerning his course in the future, he should never forget to express most earnestly James' limitation, "if the Lord will, we shall both live, and do this or that." Neither should the church rely too confidently on its judgement; it needs God's guidance in determining such matters just as much as does the individual Christian. During the bluest days of the meeting at Savannah, (and we had some just as blue there as I have ever seen,) a brother said to me, "Bro. Harding, we need not be discouraged, for it is certain the meeting will result in good; for were it not so, God would not have sent you here." Just about this time I received a letter from a dear friend, (to whom I had written in a despondent mood,) saying, "Of course there is a work in Savannah for you to do for God, and of course you can do it; else he would not have directed you into that field; I want you to stay till it is done." What a blessed assurance! But it is one that no man can have, unless he prays to God to guide him, and holds himself in readiness to move as the Father opens up the way.

There is necessity still for walking by faith, and not by sight. We still need the faith of Abraham, who arose at the command of the Lord, with all his possessions, and went into a strange country, "not knowing whither he went."

Of those who have united with us here, three came from the Methodists, and three from the Baptists; the others had made no profession of faith. Of course the denominations have been greatly stirred up; and the questions, What is baptism? Who ought to be baptized? And how does the Spirit convict the sinner, and quicken him? have been the great matters of controversy, both publicly and privately discussed. People every where, in the private houses and places of business have before them open Bibles. Many are reading, doubtless, from curiosity; but many are anxious to know the truth. The Methodist minister of the place has helped us quite a good deal by stirring around almost incessantly among people striving to keep them satisfied with sprinkling and infant membership. He reviewed me in a public discourse Sunday morning. I replied Sunday night. We had six hundred people out to hear us on these occasions. When the meetings have closed, I will give results to our readers.

WHAT MUST WE JOIN?

Since this meeting at Gadsden has been in progress, the questions, What does the Christian denomination teach? What are the rules of your church? How many members has your church? has often been asked. To them I have replied, we teach the Bible, The rules of the church are found in the New Testament, and Our membership includes all the Christians in heaven and in earth. I then explain that I am not a member of any denomination at all; that when the word church is used in a local sense, I am a member of the church at Forest Grove, Ky.; but when it is used in its general sense, I am a member of the great body of which Christ is head and every Christian everywhere is a member.

It is so easy to drift into the sectarian way of talking that we are apt to talk about the church of Christ, or Christian Church, when we are referring to the reformation inaugurated by the Campbells. Let us be careful lest we allow ourselves to be pushed into a denominational attitude by the tendency of sectarianism everywhere.

END OF KENTUCKY DEPARTMENT.

MAKING SACRIFICE.

In the early days of Christianity, sacrifice was the order of the day. The church at Jerusalem began by sacrificing almost everything earthly for the cause of Christ and the salvation of souls. Immediately after the establishment of the church there, it is said, "And all that believed were together and had all things common, and sold their possessions and goods, and parted them to all men, as every man had need. And they continuing daily with one accord in the temple, and breaking bread from house to house, did eat their meat with gladness and singleness of heart." This is the way the first Christians did. Nothing was too dear for them to sacrifice to the cause of truth. They sold their possessions and goods for public use, and gave their time day by day for the good of their souls. They sat at the feet of the apostles to learn their duties, and as fast as they learned them, they practiced accordingly. These first Christians continued steadfastly in the apostles teaching. They readily and heartily went to doing the things the apostles taught them to do.

It is not so however in these days; Christians, as a rule, will not allow their religion to cost them much, either in time, or money. The amount they pay for the cause as a rule, is very small in comparison with what the Jews paid for their religion. If all would pay one tenth of their income to advance the cause, the gospel might soon be preached to all the world. Some few do this, and more. But as a mass they certainly do not. Then how much time do the masses give outside of the Lord's day? many of them do not even give that. But how much as a rule is given in time by the masses outside of the first day of the week. About one week is given during the year to a protracted meeting. But nearly always there are some of the members that do not give this. If they chance to have something on hand that they are at all anxious about, they stay at home and do it, no matter how interesting the meeting may be. There is scarcely ever a meeting held that some of the members do not stay at home every day except Sunday, to work. And not unfrequently some of the members are never back after Lord's day. They have no time they say. And yet these very members will take many days for pleasure, sometimes even weeks. And if the circus comes within ten or fifteen miles they stop everything, and take every child to see the animals. But when sacrifice is to be made for Christianity, they are not ready. If money is to be raised for any purpose, they have none to spare. If personal labor is demanded, they have no time to put in that way. And if the test should come that men have got to forsake all that they have for the sake of the Lord Jesus and their own souls, surely many of them would go with the world, and give up their souls. At Jerusalem, in a few years after the cause was planted there, persecution became so violent that the Christians there had to leave the city, leave their kindred, leave their homes, their all, or give up their religion, their only hope of heaven.

How many of these that claim to be Christians to-day have their hearts sufficiently in the work to do that if it were demanded of them now? We fear there would be a great falling away if that test were to come now. Christians ought to study these things more, take them to heart more, and be ready at all times with all they possess, to give whatever time, or means, or of talent they can for the good of the cause of God and for the good of humanity, that others may be saved and that all may be ready to meet the Lord in peace.

E. G. S.

Home Reading.

IN THE MORNING.

"But when the morning was now come, Jesus stood on the shore."—John 20: 4.

When from my sight the last earth-shadow falls,
When life's last midnight is o'er,—
Just as the morn o'er the river shall dawn,—
Jesus will stand on the shore.

Yes,—'twill be morning! the light of His face
Shines down that pathway of gloom;
Vanished thy terror,—thy victory,—Death—
Since He was laid in the tomb!

Since "He is Risen!" O rapturous word,—
Risen! "He goeth before!"
When He shall bid me "Come over,"—I know,
Jesus will stand on the shore!

How can I fear, then, that river to cross?
(Hushed are its storms evermore!)

How can I sink when I watch for His smile,
His—who will stand on the shore?

Yes; He is watching! He still the waves,
Bearing His ransomed ones o'er;
Ready to welcome each pilgrim, He stands,
Waiting, on Heaven's bright shore.

And I shall see Him! who once on the earth
Robes of mortality wore,—

Onward, blest spirit!—look onward and see
Jesus,—He stands on the shore!

Star-like, His promises rise in the night,
Thrilling my soul more and more;

Jordan rolls darkly, but morning is near,
And Jesus will stand on the shore.

Spirit of mine! when the shadow of death
Cloudeth thy heaven once more—

Only remember,—the river once passed,—
Jesus will stand on the shore! —[Selected.

KING ALFRED'S MOTTO.

"What a curious room!" exclaimed Lily Thacher, as for the first time she stood behind the heavy curtains which guarded the entrance to her cousin Bela's "snuggery,"—a room which Lily had often longed to explore during her week's visit to her uncle's house.

As Bela left her, telling her she might examine anything she chose, Lily looked around with great interest at the many quaint and curious things which her cousin had collected in this retreat. As she was looking at a queer old German photograph on the wall her eye was suddenly caught by something which seemed to her the most curious thing of all—a frieze of golden letters on a dark ground, running all around the top of the wall. On looking more closely she found them to be mottoes and proverbs, some of which were appropriate to the special articles of furniture over which they were placed. Over a large chest of drawers was the motto, "Order is Heaven's first law;" over the work-table, "A stitch in time saves nine." But more than all the others, Lily's attention was attracted by a motto which ran along the wall just opposite her cousin's easy-chair and writing table, where she spent most of her time—"Count that day lost in which thou hast done no good deed."

Just then Bela returned, and seeing Lily's gaze riveted on the frieze, she said: "Ah! you have discovered my pet motto; it was a favorite saying of good old King Alfred, and I try to let no day pass without acting on it at least a little, or else it reproaches me whenever my eyes fall upon it. And I cannot tell you, Lily, how much happier my life has been since I have tried King Alfred's rule. Now that I have once begun to look out for chances to do good deeds, the days are not long enough to do half that I might."

A call to dinner here interrupted the conversation, nor was there any chance to resume it before Lily's departure for home on the following day, but the golden motto on the frieze refused to be forgotten, and during her journey on the cars the words kept running through her head, keeping time with the jog of the wheels in an odd way, like this:

Count that day
Lost in which Thou hast done
No good deed."

Before reaching home she made up her mind to try and act out the motto for herself and see if her cousin Bela's words were true.

Lily Thacher was a sweet-tempered, merry girl of sixteen, always ready for a "good time" and a great favorite among her friends; but till now she had lived a careless merry life, enjoying the good things which fell to her lot and thinking little of looking out for the happiness of others, and yet she was not any more selfish than most healthy, hearty girls of her age. Only thoughtless, for she had yet to learn the exquisite happiness of definitely seeking others' happiness, as well as her own.

The morning after her return home, she procured a piece of white cardboard about a foot square, painted on it, in large blue and gold letters, the motto, and hung it by a blue ribbon at one side of her looking-glass.

"There!" said she, "I shall be sure to see it at least three times a day, anyway! And now for to-day's 'good deed'—what shall it be? I must hunt up some poor woman to clothe or some sick man to send flowers to."

Just then her mother's voice was heard calling "Lily, will you help Hugh mend his kite? I know this is your last day of vacation, but I have all the week's mending to do, and haven't time to help him."

Lily ran down in the sitting-room and patiently helped Hugh with his torn kite. She was then just about to run off to see the girls whom she was wild to tell about her visit, when her heart suddenly smote her as she noticed how pale and tired her mother looked bending over the great basket which held the week's mending. Something within her said "charity begins at home," and she determined to try one little "good deed."

"Dear mamma," she said, "do lie down just a little while, you look so tired. I will look after Hugh and you will be so much fresher for the clothes afterwards."

Mrs. Thacher after some coaxing consented to lie down for a little while, for she had slept little during the past night. Indeed, so tired was she that in a few minutes she was fast asleep.

Lily in the meantime had set Hugh to playing blocks and had herself taken her mother's place by the basket. If there was one thing which Lily hated to do above all others, it was to mend, but she resolved to surprise her mother with the sight of the empty basket, so with a little sigh at the thought of the girls, she began distributing the clothes in various piles, mending all that needed it, and after an hour and a half of diligent work she had the satisfaction of putting them all away in their respective bureau drawers.

She had hardly finished when Mrs. Thacher came from her room. Lily was a hundred times repaid for her self-sacrifice at the sight of her mother's mystified face as she spied the empty basket, and more than all with the loving, tender kiss with which she rewarded Lily for her morning's work.

That night as Lily's eye fell on the card by her bureau, and she thought how happy she had been all the afternoon, she said to herself, "King Alfred's right after all, the day hasn't been quite lost."

The next day during the school recess, Lily heard the girls say that old Miss Tibbits was laid up with the rheumatism again, and they wondered how she would get on without her niece, who had just gone away on a visit.

Lily thought of the "good deed" she was going to try for that day, and presently plucked up courage to suggest that each of the half dozen girls in her special "set" should go and read to Miss Tibbits in turn every afternoon, and so make her less lonely. Now Miss Tibbits was not a favorite with the girls, and several laughed and politely declined the invitation; but three or four agreed with Lily to take turns in enlivening the poor old lady's dull days.

Lily went first, carrying with her a dish of lemon jelly and a bright book, both of which greatly cheered Miss Tibbits. Each girl brought something when it fell to her turn to go—a bunch of flowers, a few oranges, or a bunch of grapes. At the end of a fortnight, when she was able to be around again, poor, cross, worried, lonely little Miss Tibbits seemed like a different person—so much good had these young girls' smiling faces done her. No one knows how keenly old people enjoy little attentions from the young.

So the days passed, and though some Lily counted as lost, on many a night her sleep was the sweeter for having done more than one good deed in helping others.

One day it was a tedious, garrulous caller to whom Lily showed such polite forbearance in listening to the long story of her complaints and ailments, controlling her impatience and so perseveringly turning her visitors thoughts in a more hopeful and cheerful channel, that when she at last rose to go she exclaimed: "I've not enjoyed such a sunshiny hour for many a long day."

On another day Lily, with her mother's permission, dived into a trunk of old clothes in a dark corner of the old garret, and after an hours mending and patching produced several warm and now neat garments to give to a poor woman whose husband's death had left her suddenly destitute. Nor must be forgotten the two pairs of old boots on which she sewed more than two dozen buttons for the poor old woman's children; for next to darning stockings, Lily most abominated sewing on shoe buttons.

Another day she went to a book-store and bought, with two week's spending money, her favorite Sunday book—Dr. Miller's "Week-day Religion." She sent off the book by mail to an aunt in a Western home, who was tired out and dragged down by worrying household cares. Week's afterwards her aunt wrote: "You can't imagine what a help your little book has been to me. When I feel utterly discouraged I look into it and pluck up courage again. I have lent it to nearly a dozen people, and they all like it as much as I do."

Another day Lily collected from her friends all the old numbers of St. Nicholas, and other "Children's Magazines," which she could find, and sent them off in a box to a poor school-teacher down South, who had a little lame brother and little time or means to amuse him.

So Lily went on, trying every day to do something for some one else, and soon her companions noticed the difference in the thoughtless, jolly girl—now become so thoughtful for other's pleasure instead of her own and more than ever loved by them all, for she was not one whit less merry and companionable.

By-and-by they discovered the old motto hanging in her room; they each wanted to copy it, and soon in all that little band of girls there was not one who did not feel the blessed truth of old King Alfred's motto (as some one has rhymed it):

"Count that day lost
Whose low descending sun
Views by thy hand
No worthy action done."

—New York Observer.

THE TRUE WISDOM.

A man may know all about the rocks, and his heart remain as hard as they are; a man may know all about the winds, and be the sport of passions as fierce as they; a man may know all about the stars, and his fate be the meteor's that, after a brief and brilliant career, is quenched in eternal night; a man may know all about the sea, and his soul resemble its troubled waters which cannot rest; a man may know how to rule the spirits of the elements, yet know no how to rule his own; a man may know how to turn aside a flashing thunder bolt, but not the wrath of God from his own guilty head; he may know all that La Place knew—all that Shakespeare knew, all that Watts knew—all that the greater geniuses have known; he may know all mysteries and all knowledge, but if he does not know his Bible, what shall it avail? I take my stand by the bed of a dying philosopher as well as of a dying miser, and ask of the world's wisdom as of the world's wealth, "What shall it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul?"

I despise not the lights of science; but they burn in a dying chamber as dim as its candles. They cannot penetrate the mists of death, or light the foot of the weary traveler on his way in that valley through which we all have to pass. Commend me, therefore, to the light which illumines the last hour of life—commend me to the light that can irradiate the face of death; commend me to the light that, when all others are quenched, shall guide my foot to the portals of that blessed world where there is no need of the sun, and no need of the moon, and no need of any created lights; for God and the Lamb are the light thereof. Brethren leave others to climb the steep of fame—brother, sister, put your feet upon the ladder that scales the sky; nor mind though your brows are never crowned with fading bays, if you win through faith in Jesus, the crown of eternal life.—Dr. Guthrie.

A Prominent Minister Writes.

Dr. Mosley—Dear Sir: After ten years of great suffering from indigestion or dyspepsia, with great nervous prostration and biliousness, disordered kidneys and constipation. I have been cured by four bottles of your Lemon Elixir, and am now a well man.

REV. C. C. DAVIS, Elder M. E. Church South,
No. 28 Tattall St. Atlanta, Ga.

From Two Prominent Ladies.

I have not been able to walk or stand without suffering great pain. Since taking Dr. Mosley's Lemon Elixir, I can walk half mile without suffering the least inconvenience.

Mrs. E. H. BLOODWORTH, Griffin, Ga.

Dr. H. Mosley: After years of suffering from indigestion, great debility and nervous prostration, with the usual female irregularities and derangements accompanying such condition of a woman's health I have been permanently relieved by the use of your Lemon Elixir.

Mrs. E. DENNIS,
Mo. 46 Chapel St., Atlanta, Ga.

J. Pratt, druggist, Wright City, Missouri, writes: Lemon Elixir gives the greatest satisfaction. It has cured a case of chills and fever of four years standing.

Dr. Mosley's Lemon Elixir, prepared at his Drug Store, 114 Whitehall Street Atlanta, Ga.

It cures all biliousness, constipation, indigestion headache, malarial, kidney disease, fever, chills impurities of the blood, loss of appetite, debility and nervous prostration and all other diseases caused from diseased Liver and Kidneys.

Fifty cents for one pint bottle, one dollar for pint and a half bottle. Sold by druggist generally, and all wholesale druggist, Louisville, Ky.

Miscellaneous.*"Female Complaints."

Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.:
Dear Sir—I was sick for six years, and I could scarcely walk about the house. My breath was short and I suffered from pain in my breast and stomach all the time; also from palpitation and an internal fever, or burning sensation, and experienced frequent smothering or choking sensations. I also suffered from pain low down across my bowels and in my back, and was much reduced in flesh. I have used your "Golden Medical Discovery" and "Favorite Prescription," and feel that I am well. Very respectfully, Delilah B. McMillan, Arlington, Ga.

Dr. KLINE's Great Nerve Restorer is the marvel of the age for all Nerve Diseases. All fits stopped free. Send to 931 Arch Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Eminent J. J. Caldwell, Baltimore, Md.,

States: "I have used Coldens Liquid Beef Tonic largely in debility, febrile and nervous diseases, and I have found it one of the most reliable of nutrient tonics now in use or to be found in pharmacy." (Take no other.) Of druggists.

For sufferers of Chronic Diseases, 36 pp, symptoms, remedies, helps, advice. Send stamp—Dr. Whittier, St. Louis, Mo., (oldest office.) State case your way.

Cancers and Other Tumors are treated with unusual success by World's Dispensary Association, Buffalo, N. Y. Send stamp for pamphlet.

"You can easily make your skin white and soft." "How?" "Use Glenn's Sulphur Soap."

Pike's Toothache Drops cure in one minute.

Catarrh Cured.

A Clergyman, after suffering a number of years from that dreadful disease Catarrh, and after trying every known remedy without success, at last found a prescription which completely cured and saved him from death. Any sufferer from this dreadful disease sending a self-addressed stamped envelope to Dr. J. A. LAWRENCE, Brooklyn, N. Y. will receive the recipe free of charge.

For weak lungs, spitting of blood, shortness of breath, consumption, night sweats and all lingering coughs, Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" is a sovereign remedy. Superior to cod liver oil. By druggists.

SANITARIUM. Riverside, Cal. The dry climate cures. Nose, Throat, Lungs, full idea, 36p, route, cost free.

Hemorrhage and Asthma.

Extracts from letters of persons who were cured with East India Hemp, and now order for their friends.

"I know all about the Cannabis Indica. Fifteen years ago it cured my daughter of the Asthma; she had it very bad for several years, but was perfectly cured. Please send me a box of your medicine." JACOB TROUT,

Deep River, Poweshick Co., Iowa.

"I fear Cousin is in a decline, and as thy medicines cured my only brother of a hemorrhage of the lungs about a year ago, I wish Cousin to take them." Thy true friend,

HANNAH MICKLE, Near Woodbury, N. J. None but pint bottles. $2.50 per bottle, or three bottles for $6.00. Address,

CRADDOCK & CO., Sole Proprietors,
1032 Race Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

LADIES! ONLY.

For 25 cents we will send you a three months subscription to our large 16 page Illustrated Household and Fashion Magazine, and present each new subscriber 25 large samples of beautiful silks, assorted colors, for crazy patchwork. For 50c. we will send the Magazine six months, and give you free a large package, assorted silks, for which other firms charge one dollar. For $1.00 dollar we will send the Magazine one year and give you two large packages and our new book. The Ladies Guide to Fancy Work. If you will get up a club of five of either 3, 6, or 12 month subscribers, we will send you for your trouble a subscription and premium free. Mention this paper when you write. M. J. STODDART & CO., 125 Chambers St., N. Y.

AN INSTANTANEOUS SUCCESS!

THE CHRISTIAN SUNDAY SCHOOL HYMNAL

STYLES AND PRICES.

Boards, single copy, by mail.....	30
" per dozen, by express.....	3 00
" per hundred.....	25 00
Silk cloth, red edge, single copy.....	40
" per dozen, by express.....	4 00
" per hundred.....	32 00
Morocco, red edge, single copy.....	1 50
" gilt edge.....	1 50
" full gilt.....	3 00

WORD EDITION.

Boards, single copy, by mail.....	15
" per dozen, by express.....	1 50
" per hundred.....	10 00
Cloth, red edge, single copy, by mail.....	20
" per dozen, by express.....	2 00

All books sold at the dozen or hundred price will be sent by express at expense of purchaser. We send by mail prepaid at single copy price.

Send for circulars and testimonials.
Address
CHRISTIAN PUBLISHING CO.,
St. Louis, Mo.

WEBSTER.

In Sheep, Russia and Turkey Bindings.

Get the Standard.

GET THE BEST Webster—it has 118,000 Words, 3000 Engravings, and a New Biographical Dictionary. Standard in Gov't Printing Office. 32,000 copies in Public Schools. Sale 20 to 1 of any other series. Said to make a Family Intelligent. Best help for SCHOLARS, TEACHERS and SCHOOLS.

The vocabulary contains 3000 more words than are found in any other American Dictionary.

The Unabridged is now supplied, at a small additional cost, with DENISON'S

PATENT REFERENCE INDEX.

"The greatest improvement in book-making that has been made in a hundred years."

G. & C. MERRIAM & CO., Pub'rs, Springfield, Mass.

NEW 'Singer' Model Sewing Machines only $15
Including an $8.00 set of extra attachments of 9 pieces and needles, oil and usual outfit of 12 pieces with each. Guaranteed perfect. Warranted 5 years. Handsome, durable, quiet and light running. Don't pay $30 to $40 for machines no better. We will send ours anywhere on trial before paying. Circulars with hundreds of testimonials free. Save $15 to $35 by sending your address to GEO. PAYNE & CO., 47 Third Ave., Chicago, Ill.

The GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER

Dr. Samuel Hodges' Alternative Compound Sarsaparilla with Iodide Potash. This compound is purely vegetable, each article of ingredient is perfectly harmless in itself, having been selected from roots and herbs possessing great medicinal properties, when combined forms a most powerful, efficient, and pleasant medicine for the removal and permanent cure of ALL diseases, arising from an impure state of system, viz.:

Rheumatism, Scrofula or King's evil, Scald-head or Tetter, Chronic Sore Eyes, Old or Chronic Sores of all kinds, Boils, Pimples, Syphilitic Rheumatism, Primary and Secondary Syphilis, Nervous Debility, Liver Complaints, Inflammation of the Kidneys and Bladder, renovates and invigorates the system; acts gently on the bowels. As an appetizer and for general debility, it is a most excellent remedy.

CAMPBELL BROS., Druggists, Sole Manufacturers.

For Sale by all druggist. Price $1.00 per bottle, or 6 for $5.00, Liberal discount to the trade.

ALSO MANUFACTURERS OF

ETHIOPIAN PILE OINTMENT

A never failing remedy for External; internal or Itching Piles. Ask your Druggist for it. None genuine without the Trade Mark. Price $1.00 per Bottle.

TESTIMONIAL.

This is to certify that I was afflicted with Piles for twenty years. I tried every Remedy offered me. Finally used the Ethiopian Pile Ointment, and found it the very best preparation I ever used. It will give almost immediate relief and will finally effect a permanent cure.

Ed. A. IRELAND

Formerly of Gallatin, now of Breen, Phillips & Co., Nashville, Tennessee.

CAMPBELL BROS., Druggists,
or, Broad and Summer Sts.,
NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE.

F. H. STICKLEY. MRS. C. W. LEWIS.

STICKLEY & LEWIS,

Having moved to our elegant store-room,

NO. 34 NORTH SUMMER STREET,

We will carry a large stock of fine Millinery and Fancy Goods, the light-running New Home Sewing Machines, Needles, Oil and Attachments for all machines. Fine imported German Canary Birds, good singers, $3 each. Bird Cages, Food and Tonic always on hand. Mrs. Lewis is also prepared to do Fashionable Dress Making, Dying Plumes, Cleaning Gloves and Stamping. Old Machines of any kind repaired or taken in part pay for the New Home.

CARPETS! FROM

New York Bankrupt Sales.

MANLOVE & CO.,

26 and 28 N. Summer Street,

Are now in receipt of an immense stock, recently bought at prices lower than ever before. Now is the time to buy Good Carpets cheap, and guaranteed to be as cheap as any Eastern market.

MANLOVE & CO.,

26 and 28 N. Summer Street,

NASHVILLE, TENN.

$66 a week in your own town. Terms and 35 outfit free. Address H. HALL & Co., Portland, Me.

$72 A WEEK, $12 a day at home easily made. Outfit free. Address Taux & Co., Augusta, Me.

SONG WORSHIP!

THE NEW Sunday School Song Book.

—BY—
L. O. EMERSON AND W. F. SHERWIN.

Price 35 cts.; $30 per hundred.

The advent of a new Sunday-school Song book by two such men as the gentlemen above named, is a notable event.

Mr. Emerson stands confessedly in the very front rank of church-music composers, and Mr. Sherwin, also eminent as a composer, has had great success in the compiling of the best-known Sunday-school music books, and has for years had charge of the musical department at

CHAUTAQUA,

and other famous assemblies of Sunday-school workers. The music and words of SONG WORSHIP mark a step in advance, being far above the ordinary Sunday-school "jingles," and are dignified without being dull.

The Hymns are by eminent writers, and are full of the best religious truth.

The MUSIC is of a high order. Superintendents will be pleased with the INDEX of SUBJECTS, of which there is a great variety.

Ministers cannot fail to like the hymns. One specimen copy mailed post free for twenty-five cents. Specimen page free.

OLIVER DITSON & CO., Boston.

C. H. DITSON & CO., 367 Broadway, New York.

IMPROVED METHOD OF STRINGING.

MASON & HAMLIN

IMPROVED

Upright Pianos.

Entire iron frames to which the strings are directly attached by metal fastenings, securing

1. Best quality of tone, which is very musical and refined; free from the tubbiness which is common.
2. Greater durability and freedom from liability to get out of order; adaptations to trying positions and climates.

3. Increased capacity to stand in tune; will not require tuning one-quarter as often as pianos on the old system.

Having tested this new system of construction for two years and proved its advantages, this Company are now increasing their manufacture of pianos, and offer them to the public generally. Every piano of their make will illustrate that supreme excellence which has always characterized their Organs, and won for them highest award at every great world's exhibition for sixteen years.

Illustrated and descriptive Catalogues of Pianos and Organs, free.

MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN AND PIANO CO., 151 Tremont St., Boston; 46 East 14th St., (Union Square), New York; 19 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

IS UNFAILING AND INFALLIBLE IN CURING

Epileptic Fits,
Spasm, Falling
Sickness, Convulsions,
St. Vitus Dance, Alcoholism,
Opium Eating, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, Syphilis, Scrofula, and all

Nervous and Blood Diseases.

To Clergymen, Lawyers, Literary Men, Merchants, Bankers, Ladies and all whose sedentary employment causes Nervous Prostration, Irregularities of the blood, stomach, bowels or kidneys, or who require a nerve tonic, appetizer or stimulant, Samaritan Nerve is invaluable.

Thousands proclaim it the most wonderful invigorant that ever sustained a sinking system. $1.50, at Druggists.

The DR. S. A. RICHMOND MEDICAL CO., Sole Proprietors, St. Joseph, Mo.

For testimonials and circulars send stamp. (18 "Lord, Stotenburgh & Co., Ag'ts, Chicago, Ill.")

$5 to $20 per day at home. Samples worth $5 free. Address SYMON & Co., Portland, Me.

The Ministers' and Teachers' Bible.

This magnificent

Parlor Bible is imported from London and is indorsed as

"The Best by the leading Bishops of England."

In addition to the Old and New Testaments it contains a compendium of Bible Words; 40,000

References with Context; An Encyclopedia.

A Dictionary of Proper Names, with Pronunciation, in full page colored Maps. Poetry, Music, Etymology, Plants, Animals, and Jewish sects of the Bible, etc.

"Superior to all others."—St. Y. Times. "A complete Biblical Encyclopedia."

London Times. This Bible is bound in French morocco, gilt-edge, with silk book-mark, and has copious references. Rev. Eli Milton, Norwalk, O., writes: "The Bibles received to-day

I am more than pleased." A Special

Offer: To rapidly introduce this Bible in America we will, for a limited time only, send one copy, post-paid, to any address on receipt of only $2.00! 13 copies and one copy of Revised New Testament for $4.00! Other Bibles, with less matter, sell for $15.

Order at once. 13 AGENTS

WANTED! Circulars FREE.

C. S. MAYO & CO., 160 LaSalle St., Chicago, Ill.

LADIES

Will purify the BLOOD, regulate the LIVER and KIDNEYS, and RESTORE THE HEALTH and VIGOR OF YOUTH. Dyspepsia, Want of Appetite, Indigestion, Lack of Strength, and Tired Feeling absolutely cured. Bones, muscles, and nerves receive new force. Enlivens the mind and supplies Brain Power. Suffering from complaints peculiar to their sex will find in DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC a safe and speedy cure. Gives a clear, healthy complexion. Frequent attempts at counterfeiting only add to the popularity of the original. Do not experiment—get the ORIGINAL AND BEST.

(Send your address to The Dr. Harter Med. Co., St. Louis, Mo., for our "DREAM BOOK.")

(Full of strange and useful information, free.)

TO SUNDAY SCHOOL WORKERS.

PURE DELIGHT.

A New Sunday School Song Book.
By Geo. F. Root and C. C. CASE.

Contains New and Bright Words; Easy and Inspiring Music; Pure and Elevated Sentiments.

One of the leading features of the book is a set of BEAUTIFUL RESPONSIVE SERVICES

Especially prepared for it by Rev. W. H. PEARCE and Lewis MILLER, Esq.

192 pages, well printed and handsomely bound in boards. Price, 35 cts., each by mail, post-paid; $3.00 a dozen by express, not prepaid. Specimen pages free.

Published by

JOHN CHURCH & CO., CINCINNATI, OHIO.

CHICAGO: ROOT & SONS MUSIC CO. 300 Wabash Ave. NEW YORK: J. CHURCH & CO. 3 UNION SQUARE.

For Sale by Booksellers and Music Dealers.

SEEDS

Our Annual Catalogue, Beautifully Engraved and Illustrated; Hints and Treatise on Southern CULTURE, VEGETABLES, GRASSES, SMALL GRAINS and FLOWERS. MAILED FREE UPON APPLICATION. E. M. SARCENT & CO., Seed Growers, Macon, Georgia.

25 YEARS POULTRY YARD

108 Pages. It teaches you how to rear them to take care for them, to feed, to have them lay eggs in cold weather, to prevent and treat all diseases of old or young, to be a "successful" poultryman. Only 25c. in stamps. A Fifty-page book FREE FOR ALL with it. A. M. LANG, Cove Dale Farm, Concord, Ky.

THE BEST IS THE CHEAPEST. SAW ENGINES

THRESHERS, Horse Powers, Mills, Engines, Horse Powers, and all sections and purposes. Write for Free Pamphlet and Prices to The Aultman & Taylor Co., Mansfield, Ohio.

WANTED A WOMAN

of sense, energy and respectability for our business in her locality, middle-aged preferred. SALARY $35 to $50. References exchanged. GAY BROS., 14 Barclay St., N. Y.

OPIMUM

Habit easily cured with CHLORIDE OF GOLD. LESLIE E. KEELEY, M.D., SURGEON, C. & A. R. H. DWIGHT, Illinois.

STEM WINDING MUSICAL WATCH

Each Watch is finely made, silver plated and the greatest novelty ever offered to the boys and girls of America. It is a Complete Musical Instrument, size and shape of a Watch, with Music Box attachment concealed within, so arranged that when wound at the stem, plays one of the following tunes:—"Home, Sweet Home," "Yankee Doodle," "Blue Bells of Scotland," "Coming Through the Rye," "Swanee River," "Carnival of Venice," "Grandfather's Clock," "Waltz, Waltz, Schottische," and "Wait till the clouds Roll By." The notes, time, and tones are correct. It instructs and entertains both Old and young. On receipt of 36 Cents, will send it by mail, post-paid. Just think of it! A Music Box for 36 Cents. Postage Stamps taken. SPECIAL OFFER: If you will order before June 15th, we will send you yours for only $1.00. You will be delighted with it. A. E. PRATT & CO., No. 27 Park Place, New York.

BURRITT COLLEGE,

SPENCER, TENN.

THIS INSTITUTION, chartered in 1848, has now been favorably known for more than thirty years, for its discipline, both as regards education and government. Located on the Cumberland Plateau, it is free from epidemics. The water is pure freestone and chalybeate. The breezes of Summer are delightful and invigorating, and the gales of winter not too severe. The College buildings, recently enlarged by the Christian Brotherhood of Tennessee, are sufficiently commodious to accommodate a large class of young Ladies and Gentlemen. Spence is ten miles South-east of Manchester & McMinnville Railroad.

TERMS:

Tuition, Primary Dep't, per S'n, $ 7 50	Tuition, Commercial Dep't per S'n, $20 00
Preparatory, " " 15 00	Lessons instrumental Music from $15 to $20
Collegiate, " " 20 00	in Art Department from 2 50 to 10

Board and washing for males, per week, from $2.00 to $2.50; Fuel, light, and incidental expenses, per session, $10.00; Board (including washing, fuel, and light) for females, per week $3.00.

The Spring Session of 1884, begins on the Last Monday in February.

For further particulars address,

Prof. A. T. SEITZ, President,

Or W. H. SUTTON, Sec. Board Trustees.

FAMOUS AND DECISIVE BATTLES OF THE WORLD.

By CAPT. KING, U.S.A. HISTORY FROM THE BATTLE-FIELD. Shows how Nations have been made or destroyed in a day.—How Fame or Disaster has turned on a single Contest. A Grand Book for Old and Young.—Saves Time, Aids the Memory.—Gives Pleasure and Instruction. Maps and Fine Illustrations. Agents Wanted Everywhere. Write at once for full description and terms. Address J. C. McCURDY & CO., Cincinnati, Ohio.

IMPORTANT REDUCTION IN THE PRICE OF

VASELINE

(PETROLEUM JELLY.)

MONARCH HORSE HOE

AND CULTIVATOR COMBINED
For Hoeing & Hilling Potatoes, Corn, Onions, Beets, Cabbages, Turnips, &c.

SENT ON 30 Days' TEST TRIAL.
An immense saving of labor and money. We guarantee a boy can cultivate and hoe and hill potatoes, corn, etc., 15 times as easy and fast as one man can the old way. Illustrated Catalogue FREE. AGENTS WANTED. Mention this paper. Address Monarch Mfg. Co., 206 State St., Chicago, Ill.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY.

Bells of Pure Copper and Tin for Churches, Schools, Fire Alarms, Farms, etc. FULLY WARRANTED. Catalogue sent Free. VANDUZEN & TIFT, Cincinnati, O.

McSHANE BELL FOUNDRY.

Manufacture those celebrated Chimes and Bells for CHURCHES, ACADEMIES &c. Price-list and circulars sent free. HENRY McSHANE & CO., Baltimore, Md.

Baltimore Church Bells

Since 1844 celebrated for Superiority over others, are made only of Purest Bell Metal, (Copper and Tin.) Rotary Mountings, warranted satisfactory. For Prices, Circulars, &c., address BALTIMORE BELL FOUNDRY, J. HEGESTER & SONS, Baltimore, Md.

Agents wanted, $5 a Day making cash for our New HOUSEHOLD SCALE. SCALES AND PLATFORM FAMILY SCALE. Weighs up to 25 lbs. Price, $1.50. Domestic Scale Co., Cin'ti. O.

AGENTS EITHER SEX, we have the newest, best and fastest selling articles out. No capital required. Goods paid for after sold. EMPIRE CO., 35 Canal St., N. Y.

FOR the 7th edition "Life and Labors of C. H. Spurgeon," the greatest preacher of the century. By Geo. C. Needham, the Evangelist. Endorsed by all denominations. The best selling Family book ever published. Agents are meeting with wonderful success. No competition. Any man or woman wanting a good business, address, for extra terms and special territory.

How to rear and manage poultry. Send a ten-cent piece to H. H. Stoddard, Hartford, Ct., for a copy of the Poultry World, and it will tell you.

AGENTS Wanted for handsome illustrated standard works of character; great variety; low in price; selling fast; needed everywhere; Liberal terms. Wm. Garretson & Co., 30 College St., Nashville, Tenn.

STEAM ENGINES

Portable and Agricultural. Send for circulars. Wood, Tabor & Morse, Eaton, N. Y.

BEATTY PIPE ORGAN

8 Blow Pedals, 25 Stops, in perfect order, warranted only $49.75. Parlor, Chapel and Cottage Organs, at Bargain Prices. Grand Square & Upright, for $250.00 worth $1,000. Order immediately or send for Circular. Address, DANIEL F. BEATTY, Washington, New Jersey.

THE MODEL PRESS

Prints Cards, Circulars, Labels, Tracts, every thing needed by business men, churches, schools, &c. Strong, rapid, as a boy can manage it and earn hundreds of dollars a year, no cost. Outfits, including Press, Type, &c., from $5 to $10 and up. Send 3 cent stamp for 40 page illustrated Price-List and two gorgeous floral book markers printed in Model Press. J. W. Daughaday & Co. Mfrs. 1721 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia.

"A TONGUE OF HEAVY IS A JOY FOR EVER." FOR PRESERVING, RESTORING AND Beautifying the Complexion. For Removing Sunburn, Tan, Freckles, Pimples, Blemishes, Eruptions, &c. OPINIONS OF NOTED LADIES. LOTTIE—It is the best preparation for the face that I ever used. I now use nothing but CHAMPLIN'S LIQUID PEARL. It gives me pleasure to add my name to the list of those who recommend your "Liquid Pearl," and express my satisfaction in its use. The ladies of all countries with the fairest marks of appreciation. Only 50 cents a bottle, sold at all Druggists & Perfumers. CHAMPLIN & CO., France, BUREAU, N. Y.

AGENTS: Send for E. B. TREAT'S new books, including MY MOTHER, HOME, and HEAVEN, prose and poetry; by 400 best authors 146,000 sold. Elegantly ill., $2.75. Send $1 for outfit. Also 5000 Curiosities of the Bible, $1.75. By mail, E. B. TREAT, 757 Broadway, N. Y.

MILL OWNERS SEND FOR PAMPHLET. TURBINE WATER WHEELS. MANUFACT'D AT MOUNT HOLLY N.J.

PILES

"Anakesis" gives instant relief, and is an infallible cure for Piles. Price $1. at druggists, or sent prepaid by mail sample free. Ad. "ANAKESIS" Makers, Box 2416 New York.

THE COMPLETE HOME

Agents wanted book. New edition.—New bindings. For this beautiful new design. Superbly gotten up. Same low price. Adapted to all classes. Sells at sight. Agents doing big work. EXCELLENT TERMS. The handsomest prospectus ever issued. Apply now. Wm. GARRETSON & CO., 30 College St., Nashville, Tenn. Also other grand new books and Bibles.

CUT THIS OUT

And Return to, with TEN Cents, and you'll receive by mail, a Golden Box of Goods, that will bring you in more money in One Month than anything else in America. Write Certainly. M. Young, 173 Greenwich St., New York.

PATENTS

Hand-Book FREE. R. S. & A. P. LACEY, Patent Att'ys, Washington, D. C.

TRADE-MARKS, PATENTS, COPY-RIGHTS, DESIGNS, RE-ISSUES, LABELS. Send description of your invention. L. BINGHAM, Patent Lawyer and Solicitor, Washington D. C.

AGENTS OF OUR new war book, DEEDS OF DARING by Blue and Grey, is outselling all other books. Illustrated circular and terms free. FORSHEE & McMACKIN, Cincinnati, O.

ACME Songs for the International Sunday School Lessons (Words and Music) adapted to each lesson in April, May, June, 32 pps., 40 songs, 5c., 25 for $1 (mailed), Free copy to Pastor or Supt. sending postage. J. C. O. REDINGTON, 267 Broadway, N. Y.

WANTED A WOMAN

of sense and energy for our business in her locality, middle-aged preferred. Salary $35 to $50. References exchanged. GAY BROS. & CO., 14 BARCLAY ST., NEW YORK.

IT PAYS to sell our Hand Rubber Stamps. Samples free. FOLJAMES & Co., Cleveland, O.

FREEMAN & KEESEE, INTERIOR DECORATORS, NO. 33 N. COLLEGE STREET, NASHVILLE, TENN.

Wall Paper and Decorations, Window Shades, Cornice, Curtain Poles, Gold and Walnut Pier and Mantle Mirrors, Engravings, Chromos, and Oil Paintings. Frames of All Kinds in Stock and Made to Order. Re-Gilding Old Frames a Specialty. Manufacturers of Fine Frames and Wood Mantles. CORRESPONDENCE SOLICITED. Ap9

KEEP COOL!

SUMMER GOODS.

Refrigerators, Ice Chests, Water Coolers, Filters, Fruit Jars, Fruit Cans, Stoneware, Woodenware, and all kinds of Kitchen Goods. Cooking Stoves to suit the requirements of every Family.

PRICES TO SUIT THE TIMES.

Phillips-Buttorff Manufacturing Co.,

24 & 26 College Street. Nashville, Tenn.

PIGUE, MANIER & CO., WHOLESALE DEALERS IN BOOTS AND SHOES, NO. 40 SOUTH MARKET STREET, NASHVILLE, TENN.

We are receiving a very large stock of Spring and Summer goods that we have had manufactured expressly for us, which we think, with our long experience and facilities, we can offer inducements, equal to any market, to prompt and cash dealers. All goods warranted to be as represented.

S. B. HOGAN.

J. S. HOPKINS.

HOGAN & HOPKINS,

Dealers in Custom-Made

BOOTS & SHOES,

We sell the very best makes of Boots and Shoes, and endeavor to make the prices so that no one can possibly sell cheaper than we do.

20 Public Square, Nashville, Tennessee.

SALESMEN.—Sam. B. Hopkins, L. D. Simmons, William Hayes.

GRATEFUL PRAISE

FOR SUNDAY-SCHOOLS.

By J. H. FILLMORE.

Grateful Praise is purely a Sunday-school music book—not a gospel-meeting book. Everything in it is fresh and bright. Children will enjoy it. Its quality is first-class and not of a difficult grade. Examine it, and find your ideal.

Sample copy mailed for 25 cts. Price, per doz. by express, $3.60; per doz. by mail, $4. Address FILLMORE BROS., 185 Race St., Cincinnati, O.

[Order now, or press this, it may not appear again.]

CHILDS' CATARRH

Treatment For

And Diseases of the HEAD, THROAT & LUNGS! Can be taken at home. No case incurable when our questions are properly answered. Write for circulars, testimonials, etc., REV. T. F. CHILDS, Troy, Ohio.

OFFICIAL REPORT.

Office of the Kentucky Agricultural and Mechanical Association. Lexington, Ky., June 23rd, 1883.

TO ALL CONCERNED:

This is to certify that in the field trial of Twine-binders held by the Kentucky Agricultural and Mechanical Association on the farm of Mr. J. B. Clay, near Lexington on the 19th inst., in very heavy barley, the following machines competing, viz: Osborne, Deering, McCormick, Wood, Buckeye, Minneapolis, Dennett, Champion, St. Paul, Buckeye, low-down and Deering low-down, the premium of a Gold Medal was awarded to the No. 11 Osborne.

Committee of Directors to Conduct Trial.

JESSE BRYANT,
N. F. BERRY,
D. H. JAMES,
W. H. GENTRY, Pres't.

H. P. KINKEAD, Sec'y.

The above is a true copy of report made by Committee and approved by Board of Directors this day.

Call at our Branch House in Nashville an EXAMINE "The Gold Medal Osborne," and a full line of Reapers and Mowers.

D. M. OSBORNE, & CO.

E. S. BRINGHURST, M'gr.

DR. DUNCAN'S

BLACKBERRY ELIXIR!

Nature's Great Remedy for Diseases and Affections of the Bowels.

This splendid and unfailing medicine is compounded from Blackberry and other Medical Roots and Herbs, is therefore perfectly harmless. It is pleasant and safe to be most delicate stomach. It is the most speedy and effectual medicine for the cures of all forms of Diarrhoea, in children or adults, (cholera Morbus, Flux, Dysentery, and the various Summer Complaints of the Bowels, so prevalent among all classes during the Summer season. Only one bottle (Price, 50 cents,) is sufficient to effect a cure.

DR. DUNCAN'S CHILL TONIC.

You need not Shake or Chill if you will use the Tonic. It never fails to stop the most aggravated forms of Chills and Fever if taken as directed, in from three to seven days, when Quinine and all other medicines fail. It will also, if taken regularly build and tone up the weak and debilitated system, and above all leaves no bad effects behind, as do so many other preparations.

DR. DUNCAN'S

Liver and Kidney Medicine.

The great preventive and cure of all malarial diseases and a sure cure of all forms of Dyspepsia and Indigestion. It acts directly upon the liver and all the secretory glands of the stomach and bowels, it cures the disease by removing the cause from the system that produces or brings on the disease, hence it is unsurpassed for the cure of Consumption, Sour Stomach, Heartburn, Headache, and also those symptoms indicating the want of proper action of these glands situated in the stomach and bowels. Two or three bottles of Dr. DUNCAN'S LIVER AND KIDNEY MEDICINE is positively recommended to relieve and cure any of the above diseases if taken as directed. Price, 75 cents.

DUNCAN'S WORM SYRUP.

One bottle of this Syrup will completely expel all species of Worms and without injury to the child, as it contains no Calomel or other injurious substances. Again, it is pleasant to the taste and acceptable to the stomach, and therefore administered without trouble. Price, 25 cents.

SPURLOCK, PAGE & CO., Prop's,
NASHVILLE, TENN.

PAYSON'S
INDELIBLE
INK

Is the BEST. No preparation. Used with any clean pen for marking any fabric. Popular for decorative work on linen. Received Centennial MEDAL & Diploma. Established 50 years. Sold by all Druggists, Stationers & News Agents.

2806 Lbs. Weight
OF TWO ORTO IMPROVED CHESTER
FIELD TOBACCO. Send for description of this famous brand. Also FOWLER,
L. B. SILVER, CLEVELAND, O.

BARNES'

Patent Foot and Steam Power Machinery. Complete outfit for Actual Work-shop Business. Lathes for Wood or Metal. Circular Saws, Scroll Saws, Formers, Mortisers, Turners, etc., etc. Machines in trial desired. Descriptive Catalogue and Price List Free.

W. F. & JOHN BARNES,
No. 1597 Ruby Street, Rockford, Ill.

WANTED
HELP.
Entirely New.
PROFITABLE.
Outfit Free.

We want an AGENT in every locality. Something entirely new. Our Agents are sweeping the field wherever they go, and making money rapidly. Men, women, boys, girls, all do equally well. Will send you full outfit on receipt of 2 cent Stamp. Don't delay. Address at once, S. S. PUBLISHING CO., Brownwood, Texas.

A PRIZE. Send six cents for postage, and receive free a costly box of goods which will help you to more money right away than anything else in this world. All, of either sex, succeed from first hour. The broad road to fortune opens before the workers, absolutely sure. At once address TRUE & CO., Augusta, Maine.

Good Pay for Agents. $100 to $200 per mo., made selling our fine Books & Bibles. Write to J. C. McCurdy & Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.

AGENTS WANTED for our new Religious book, the greatest success of the year. Send for illustrated circular if you want to make money. FORTSHEE & McMAKIN, Cincinnati.

PENSIONS for any disability; also to Heirs. Send stamps for New Laws. Con. L. BINGHAM, Attorney, Washington, D. C.

CHEAP BOOTS AND SHOES!

We are now receiving our Spring Stock of Fine Custom-made Boots, Shoes, and Hats. Our prices will be found reasonable. Give us a call. Trunks at cost.

ALDRICH & HARRIS,

106 UNION ST., (bet. College and Market.)

NASHVILLE TENN.

Warner Bros. Celebrated Coraline Corset. This Corset has been before the public but three years, but it has already reached the largest sale ever attained by any corset. Its merits are best proven by the fact that more than forty imitations have been put upon the market to sell upon the reputation of the Coraline.

Ask for Dr. Warner's Coraline Corset, and be sure the name "WARNER BROS." is on the box. We also make the following corsets boned with Coraline: Health, Model Moulded, Nursing, Flexible Hip, Abdominal and Misses.

Price from $1 up.

FOR SALE BY LEADING MERCHANTS EVERYWHERE.

Avoid all imitations. Be sure our name is on the box.

WARNER BROS.,

353 BROADWAY NEW YORK.

CONSUMPTION

Positively Cured. No Humbug.

By the use of Dr. J. LAWSON'S PULMONARY POWDERS, a FREE TRIAL BOX of which will be sent to all sufferers POST PAID, with treatise and full directions for their use.

Hundreds and thousands have been cured by their use.

Large Box $3.00, two boxes $5.00.

Address, PHILIP HENRY,
49 South St., New York City.

"THE BEST IS CHEAPEST."
ENGINES, THRESHERS SAW-MILLS,
Horse Powers Clover Cutters

Suited to all sections. Write for FREE Circulars, Pamphlets and Prices to The Autman & Taylor Co., Mansfield, Ohio.

SEEDS Our new catalogue, best published, Free to all. 1,500 varieties, 300 illustrations. You ought to have it. Benson, MAULE & Co., Philadelphia, Pa.

AGENTS WANTED, TO SELL

—THE NEW BOOK—
A CONFEDERATE SOLDIER

IN EGYPT,

By General W. W. Loring, of Florida. Late Colonel in the U. S. Army, Major-General in the Confederate Service, and French Consul and General in the Army of the Khedive of Egypt. 1 Vol. Large 8vo. With 47 Illustrations. Handsomely bound. Price, $3.50.

From the Preface. General Loring who was for 10 years in high command in Egypt, has given in graphic style an account of his own experiences and observations. His opportunities for study of Egyptian history and affairs, and of the social life of the people, high and low, were unlimited, and his narrative is of intense interest. For terms apply to Dodd, Mead & Co., Publishers, New York.

HILLMAN, BUFORD & JUSTI, NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE, SOLE AGENTS FOR THE Genuine Brown Waking Cultivator and Double-Shovel Plow,

Corn Shellers, Feed Cutters, Avery Chilled Plows, Road Scrapers, Fish Bros. Wagons, Jacobs' Barrows,

IRON, STEEL, BLACKSMITH'S TOOLS, HARDWARE,

Call on or address

HILLMAN, BUFORD & JUSTI, 18 and 20 South Market Street, Nashville, Tenn.

A. C. & J. C. March.

SUCCESSORS TO

J. D. MARCH & SONS

Manufacturers and Dealers in
SADDLES, HARNESS, BRIDLES, COLLARS,
TRUNKS, BAGS, HAMES, VALISES, WHIPS, CHAINS, &c.
50 NORTH MARKET STREET
NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE.

Repairing Done at Short Notice

NASHVILLE, CHATTANOOGA & ST. LOUIS
RAILWAY.

BUSINESS MEN, TOURISTS, EMIGRANTS, FAMILIES, REMEMBER

The Best Route to St. Louis and the West is via McKennie.

The Best Route to West Tennessee and Kentucky, Mississippi, Arkansas, and Texas points is via McKennie.

The Best Route to the Summer Resorts and Mountain Retreats of Tennessee, Virginia and the Carolinas, via McKennie and Nashville.

The Best Route to the celebrated Colleges, Universities, Seminaries and other Educational Institutions in the Southeast, via McKennie and Nashville.

The Best Route to points in East Tennessee, Virginia, the Carolinas, Georgia and Florida is via Chattanooga.

DON'T FORGET IT!

By this line you secure the
MAXIMUM OF SPEED, SAFETY, COMFORT, SATISFACTION,
AT THE
MINIMUM OF EXPENSE, ANXIETY, BOTHER, FATIGUE.

Be sure to Buy your Tickets over the

N. C. & ST. L. RAILWAY!

If you are going to Washington City, Baltimore, Philadelphia, or New York.

The Inexperienced Traveler need not go amiss; few changes are necessary, and such as are unavoidable are made in union Depots.

THROUGH SLEEPERS!

BETWEEN

Nashville and Atlanta, and Atlanta and Jacksonville, Fla., Nashville and Martin (to connect with Sleeper service via Cairo to St. Louis and Chicago.) Nashville and Columbus. Nashville and Memphis (Sleeper Humboldt to Mobile, and Milan to New Orleans.) McKennie and Little Rock, and Little Rock and Texas points.

Call on or address
J. H. FEEBLES, T. A., Chattanooga, Tenn.
W. W. KNOX, T. A., Nashville, Tenn.
A. S. FINLEY, Ticket Agent, Memphis, Tenn.
S. B. WERNER, Trav. Ag., Atlanta, Ga.
W. L. DANLEY, G. P. & T. A., Nashville, Tenn.

Mars Hill College.

With pleasure we lay before our readers the following extracts from the Fourteenth Annual Announcement of Mars Hill College, an institution perpetually wielding a wonderful and wide-spread influence for truth, refinement and righteousness.—EDITORS.

POSITIONS PROCURED FOR OUR PUPILS.

We make a specialty of preparing pupils for

(1.) PREACHING; (2.) TEACHING; (3.) PREACHING and TEACHING.

Many educated here—among whom are successful lawyers, physicians, merchants, salesmen, mechanics, farmers, editors, authors, teachers and preachers—have so demeaned themselves, that the humility, fidelity, integrity, accuracy and ability of "Mars Hill students" have become proverbial. There is, consequently, such a demand for the services of our pupils, that we deem it perfectly safe to promise to procure pleasant, profitable and honorable positions for all who qualify themselves here for usefulness. Indeed, for several years we have been able to fill comparatively few of the positions tendered.

HEALTHFULNESS!

Mars Hill as a Health Resort.

Our school was founded in 1870. All the "doctor bills," for services rendered our pupils, from then till now, do not, we think, amount to twenty-five dollars—probably not to one dollar a year. Those who have come here pale and puny, from malarial districts, have, without an exception, we believe, returned to their homes enjoying health.

What "Watering Place," or "Health Resort," then, can justly claim more, as a health-preserver and health-restorer, than Mars Hill? Address,

T. B. LARIMORE, President.

FLORENCE, ALABAMA

W. A. LANNOM,
The Cash Clothier,
18 PUBLIC SQUARE, NASHVILLE, TENN.,

Has received his large and elegant stock of Spring and Summer clothing, Gents Furnishing Goods and Hats, which is full and complete in every respect; and for quantity, quality, style, fit and price, we stand far ahead of all competition. An inspection of our large stock and low prices, will fully prove what we claim. Bear in mind, we sell strictly for cash, which enables us to offer the greatest inducements.

CAPITOL PLANING MILL,
Corner Line and Vine Streets, near Northwest Corner Capitol Grounds,
NASHVILLE, TENN.

J. W. McCULLOUGH,

Manufacturer and Dealer in

FRAMES, SASH, DOORS, BLINDS,
Scroll Sawing, Dressed Flooring, Weatherboarding and Ceiling.

Country Orders Solicited, and Promptly Attended To.

JUST OUT!

"Our Orthodoxy in the Civil Courts."

JUST OUT!

A full proceeding in the Circuit Court in Noble county, Indiana, in the trial of our orthodoxy. Everybody should read this interesting book. Send at once. Paper, 50c; cloth, $1.00.

JAMES F. & HARRY LIPSCOMB,

95 Union Street,

Nashville, Tennessee.

BOILER REPAIRS.

Thos. S. Simpson, William Chatham,
79 South College St., Nashville, Tenn.,
Are prepared to do all kinds of repairing of Boilers, Tanks, etc., at very reasonable rates. We have had 30 years practical experience in the business, and ask a share of the public patronage. We guarantee good work.

WHEN YOU WANT
WRITING DESKS,
Photograph Albums,
AUTOGRAPH ALBUMS,
GOLD PENS, PENCILS,
PORT-FOLIOS,
CARD CASES, Etc.

OR ANYTHING IN THE WAY OF
Staple and Fancy Stationery!
Call upon us. We can suit you in
VARIETY, QUALITY, AND PRICE.

A. B. Payne & Co.,
61 UNION STREET.

Orders by Mail receive Prompt Attention.

B. S. RHEA & SON,
PROPRIETORS RHEA'S ELEVATOR,
AND DEALERS IN

Grain, Hay, Flour

AND BURLAP SACKS,

No. 32 South Market Street,
NASHVILLE, TENN.
(Correspondence Solicited.)

C. F. HUDSON. S. G. STRATTON.

C. F. HUDSON & CO.,
Merchant Tailors & Clothiers,

EAST SIDE PUBLIC SQUARE,

LEBANON, TENN.,

Are now receiving one of the largest, best and cheapest stock of clothing and piece goods, ever offered to the public. We are agents for the Charlotteville, Va., woolen goods, which cannot be surpassed for beauty and durability. Call and examine our goods. We will save you money.

SOME OF THE
THINGS WE BUY TO SELL.

CHINA IN ALL OF ITS GRADES,
GLASSWARE OF EVERY DESCRIPTION,
QUEENSWARE OF ALL KINDS,

Bracket Lamps, Hall Lamps,
Study Lamps, Chandeliers,
Knives and Forks, Spoons, Waiters
Tea Trays,

Looking-Glasses, Ice Cutting
Machines,

Eureka Coffee and Teapots,
Castors.

And a great variety of housekeeping goods too numerous to mention, all of which we offer at reasonable rates. Call and see us, or send your orders to

HICKS, HOUSTON & CO.,

51 N. College & 54 N. Market Sts.,

NASHVILLE, TENN.

THE GOSPEL ADVOCATE.

VOLUME XXVI.
NUMBER 23.

NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE, JUNE 4, 1884.

{ $2.00 YEARLY IN ADVANCE
POSTAGE PREPAID.

EDITORS:

D. LIPSCOMB,

E. G. SEWELL.

While seraphs blaze in heavenly light,
And bow before the God of might—
Sweet streams of living melody
Re-echo in immortal glee.

Sublimest strains of praise should roll
Around the globe, from pole to pole;
While mortals bow, angels may sing,
In honor to our heavenly King.

The angels sing in strains divine,
Because I gave this heart of mine
To Jesus, that blest lamb of God:
And I shall join them all above.

The fiend of hell did hard incline
To drown this little soul of mine;
But, bless the Lord! I saw his charms,
And Jesus caught me in his arms.

Full beams of gentle radiance shine
Refulgent on my humble mind:
My Savior soon shall bear away
My soul, to that eternal day.

Young men, awake, with angels join,
And celebrate this Lord of mine;
Young ladies, will you bow and be
The subjects of His Majesty?

Oh! come and catch the sacred flame,
And bear your smiling Jesus' name;
Hosannah sing, and hail the day!
And angels bear my soul away.

Hail ye zephyrs, blissful gales!
Oh! waft me through the gloomy vales;
Oh! bear my soul above the skies—
There where my sweet salvation lies.

The stars may fade—the sun grow dim—
I'll meet you all, my friends, again.
Oh, serve the Lord, that we may reign
Together round the dazzling throne.

ALLEN KENDRICK.

Brothers L. & S.: In looking over some time-stained papers, the enclosed song-ballad was found. It was written and composed by a young preacher, Bro. Allen Kendrick, about fifty years ago. He gave it to my mother. At the earnest request of my mother and aunt, I have copied it for publication in the ADVOCATE.

M. M. ROBERTS.

LESSON HELPS.

There is much said in and out of the papers regarding the use of lesson helps, in what is called the Sunday school work, some opposing the use of all helps, while others are advocating them. In matters like this, we can but expect differences of opinion. In one thing, all who believe the Bible must be agreed, and that is that children must be taught the word of God. God has provided for this, both in the Jewish and in the Christian dispensation. The word of God through Moses was very positive regarding this matter. Moses said to the children of Israel, "And these words which I command thee this day shall be in thine heart; and thou shalt teach them diligently unto thy children, and shalt talk of them when thou sittest in thine house, and when thou walkest by the way, and when thou liest down, and when thou risest up." Deut. vi: 6-7.

This meant a continued teaching of the word of God to the children, by day and by night. The Lord knew that nothing but a continued teaching of his word from generation to generation would keep the Jewish people in the line of duty. And he was none the less careful regarding children and their instruction in the new dispensation. Paul says to Christian parents, "bring up your children in the nurture and admonition of the Lord." Eph. vi: 4. This places all Christians, through all time, and in every country, under obligations to do the same thing toward their children. This should be done daily at home, and at the meeting house on the Lord's day. Every possible opportunity should be used for the accomplishment of this important work. The perpetuity of the religion of Jesus, the happiness and prosperity of our country depend upon it. Everything that is sacred to this generation, and to those yet unborn, depends upon a continued knowledge and practice of the word of God. It is the influence of the word of God that is giving us all the blessings we enjoy to-day, that are worth enjoying, and a continued knowledge and influence of that word is necessary to a perpetuation of the same.

The children must be taught the word of God, or the future history of our country and our people must be dark indeed. It is the influence of the word of God that is giving us such bright and happy homes, such pleasant enjoyable society, between husbands and wives, and parents and children, and that makes home the most desirable spot on earth, where the sunshine of happiness continually shines. This part of education cannot, must not be neglected, or the consequences will be sad to contemplate.

The only trouble that is likely to arise on this work of teaching the Bible to the children is in that part of it which is done in the Sunday-school. There is not likely to be much trouble as to methods of teaching them at home. The greatest trouble regarding the home work is to induce parents to teach their children at home at all. But in the Sunday-school there is trouble, and it will be likely to continue. Many parents unfortunately take no interest in this work, either at home or at the meeting house. A few active members have all this to attend to, and the whole responsibility of the Sunday-school work rests upon the shoulders of a very small part of the members. It is nearly always difficult to secure a sufficient number of teachers of any sort, and to secure a sufficient number of competent teachers is next to impossible in almost every congregation. And to help out incompetent teachers, lesson helps have been introduced. If a sufficient number of competent teachers could be found in every Sunday-school, the lesson helps would not only be useless, but would be a hindrance. Every competent teacher wants to be free and use such methods of teaching the word as to him or her seems best suited to the class. But where teachers will not take an interest in studying and teaching the word as the capacity and advancement of the class may demand, the lesson helps published by the brethren are certainly better than nothing.

But it is claimed that errors are taught in these lesson leaves. That is very likely. But are we to suppose that teachers that do not use these helps will never teach any errors? The probabilities are that as a rule there will be many more errors taught by teachers, unskilful in the word, without the leaves than with them. The teachers are sure to tell the children what they think the lesson means, whatever it be, whether that lesson be of their own choosing, or that of some one else. I am sure I would be quite as willing to risk the comments of an editor of these lesson helps who has made the Bible his special study for years, as those of a teacher who has never made the word of God a study at all, and who knows nothing about its division and proper application.

This objection we regard as being exceedingly lame, and poorly taken. The word will be commented on in both cases. On the one hand these comments will be from brethren who have spent years in studying the word of God, while on the other hand the comments will be from persons who have studied the Bible but little, and sometimes from teachers who that very morning are engaged in the latest novel, or the last issue of newspaper serials. Such teachers as these are not competent to teach much Bible. The elders of each congregation should look after the qualification of those who teach the young in Sunday-school, whether with or without lesson helps. There is no work of the church of more sacred importance than that of teaching the pure word of God to the young, and it should be very carefully done. A mistake here is likely to be fatal. Teach a child wrong, and that work is hard to undo. But teach a child the plain truth, and it is likely to walk in it when it grows up.

But again, the international series of lessons is objected to. This to my mind, and especially among our brethren, is a much more serious one than the other. The international series is not always well chosen for the instruction of children, and there is no special regard at all to a proper division of the word, and the selection of those things most important for the children to learn. It is clear to me that the disciples of Christ ought to be able to select a series of lessons, that would be better suited to the capacities and necessities of children than the international series. This done, and we would not object to lesson helps; that is, to publish the lessons and short, pointed comments on them by good Bible scholars. The international series is of far greater benefit to the denominations than to the disciples.

Heretofore the denominations used a sort of question books or catechisms, with the questions and answers made up by men, while the word of God itself was not introduced and read by the children at all. Now, the lesson selected, whatever it is, is read by the whole class, and that much of the word of God in its own plainness is presented to the hearts and minds of the children every week, and in this way the word of God is gaining access to the hearts and minds of those children in a way that it never did before. This we think is a great blessing in that direction, and we are thankful for it. We are satisfied that although many of their comments on the lessons are wrong, the plain word of the Lord which they read will make many good and lasting impressions. In the old methods of those people, the word of the Lord was scarcely in their schools at all. Now, so much of it as is found in these lessons is read every week, and more or less studied by the children. This we are truly glad, yea, thankful to see. But we do believe that if the disciples put their heads and hearts to work, they could make selections that would be better suited to, and more instructive than the series now in use. But we do not think the present series should be abandoned till something better is found to take its place. We want as much of the Bible put into the hearts and minds of the children, the rising generations as possible. Hence let us make the best use of what we have that we possibly can till we can get something better.

Christians everywhere find it in their hearts to do more and still more for the instruction of the young. The early Christians established schools, in which their children were instructed in the Christian Scriptures every day. And we are quite sure the word of God should be a prominent book in all schools for the young. The Bible, though the very foundation of all true refinement and elevation of man, is too much neglected in the schools where we are laying the foundation of the future weal or woe of our children and our happiness, and theirs. The children that are raised up to attend the Sunday-school, are very likely to come into the church as soon as they grow up to years of knowledge. A very large percentage of the additions to the church where there is regular Sunday-school, regular instruction to the young, is from that department. Parents should everywhere take an interest in teaching the lesson to their children before they go to recite to the teacher. This would be beneficial both to the teacher and pupil. Parents spare no little pains in selecting the best teachers for their children in ordinary education, and they should be still more careful as to their religious training.

In proportion as the children are taught the word of God in its purity, in that proportion will be the soundness of the church in the next generation. But if the wisdom of men is taught in any matter instead of the word of God, error and human sin will predominate. There are some things in progress among the churches that we think far more dangerous in their tendency than lesson papers. The building up of Sunday-school associations, and the tendency of these associations to become a separate ruling power over the church is a thing closely to be watched and be guarded against. Churches themselves should control all these matters as such and shut out every sort of combination or association whatever, beyond the individual congregation. Popery had a much smaller beginning than a Sunday-school association. The Sunday-school therefore affords an opening to do immense good if properly controlled by the churches, but is an opening for immense evil, if loosely managed. So long as the churches control, good will be the result. But so soon as the Sunday school begins to lead and control the churches, the whole tendency is evil, and only evil. Let all therefore strive to keep all the work of the church in proper bounds, and under the control of the word of the Lord, and incalculable good will be the results.

E. G. S.

QUERIES.

I saw in the ADVOCATE of April 23rd, your statement that there is not one single instance in the Scriptures after the cross of any one, being purified, justified or saved before baptism. Please turn to the Acts of the Apostles, 10th chapter and 45th verse. Does the Holy Ghost purify or not? Please answer this question through the ADVOCATE.—[Rev. M. M. Gentry, Chestnut Mound, Smith County, Tenn.]

We do not recollect a single instance in which it is said the Holy Spirit purified any one. It is said, "Ye have purified your souls in obeying the truth, through the Spirit." 1 Peter 1. This means they purified their souls through obeying the truth. This truth came, or was delivered to them by or through the Spirit.

Acts xv: 9 says, "he put no difference between them (Gentiles) and us, (Jews,) purifying their hearts by faith." But faith is not the result of receiving the Holy Spirit. Faith comes through hearing the word of God, Romans 10. The heart of the Gentiles then, those who received the Holy Spirit (Acts x: 45) were purified by faith; so teaches the Holy Spirit. The Holy Spirit was given on this occasion as a witness that God had received the Gentiles on the same condition, and on equal terms with the Jews. Acts xv: 8.

Now, my dear sir, the Bible nowhere affirms or teaches that the Holy Spirit purifies the heart. The Holy Spirit, as the perpetual guest of the child of God, dwells only in pure hearts. It must be pure, a holy temple before the Lord, through the Spirit, will dwell in it. It is purified by believing and obeying God.

But in the case referred to, it was a wonderful gift of the Spirit. This miraculous gift of the Spirit was sometimes conferred on sinning men. I give two examples. Baal was endued with spiritual power. Judas Iscariot was. Neither was a good man. Let us accept the truth of God just as he delivered it.

Please explain Matt. v: 29; is it figurative language? Also 1 Cor. v: 5, what does the apostle mean by the destruction of the flesh?—[John A. Benson, Belgreen, Ala.]

We think Acts v: 29 means if any member of the body leads into sin, and we cannot resist the impulse, it is better literally to destroy the member than that it should lead us to hell. The destruction of the flesh we understand to mean the destruction of the rule and reign of the flesh over the man through lusts thereof.

A NEW BOOK.

We have received from John Burns, publisher, St. Louis, Mo., a neatly bound volume of 430 pages, entitled, "Christian Missions, and Biographical Sketches." It is a report, by F. M. Green, of the formation and history of the different conventions and societies among the disciples for missionary purposes. While it is written for the purpose of advancing the interests of these societies, and the record is made with a decided bias in their favor, it affords ample ground to the thoughtful Christian, showing how unscriptural such organizations are. It shows how wide-spread and deep-seated the opposition was to these societies in the minds of the pioneers in the movement for a return to primitive, bible ways. It shows that the plea to return to apostolic Christianity involved and produced a condemnation of all these human organizations. It shows how those determined to return to these inventions of men, did so under the plea that a church of Jesus Christ could not send out an evangelist; that the change from a society, formed by individuals on a monetary basis, to a church representative convention, because the former was unscriptural, the change back again to the individual organization on the money basis, not because it is scriptural, but because the church convention is a financial failure, and because men won't give their money unless they can be known as individual givers, and can have office and power through the giving, manifests how little regard was paid to the Scriptures, how much the god of mere success, at the cost of the violation of all Scripture teaching, has been worshipped by the promoters of these societies. It shows, too, that while the men lived who, moved by principle of devotion to God, gave up all for the sake of restoring the true Bible ways and institutions, the effort to build up these institutions was a living failure; that it has succeeded only as those who came into the church from principle have died and passed away, and those who are in the church joined it, not so much from an appreciation of its principles, as because it was the church of their fathers and mothers. Those who will read the book through carefully will not be impressed with the idea that those who form the societies are devoted to the return to primitive Christianity.

ITEMS, PERSONALS, ETC.

Bro. Walling, of McMinnville, spent some days in the city. He reports the cause in a promising condition in Warren County.

Bro. J. D. Floyd, of Flat Creek, spent some days in the city. Bro. Floyd is one of our most earnest men, and is doing a good work in Bedford and adjoining counties.

We had a call last week from Bro. Francis, business manager of Old Path Guide. He was on his way to Augusta, Ga. Was delayed in Nashville several hours, and tried to see the city in his delay.

Bro. Shelton, of Franklin, gave us a call during the past week; he looks as though he was laboring hard. Twenty-two have been added to the church in Franklin by commendation and baptism during the year.

L. R. Sewell, Donelson, Tenn., May 23, writes: "I preached, last Lord's day, at Bethel, Wilson county, at 11 o'clock A. M., and at night, to a good audience. At 3:30 P. M., I preached at a private house, two miles from the meeting-house, to a large crowd. One sister who had wandered away from the fold, made confession and was restored. The church at Bethel is aroused to a sense of her duty, and is doing a good work."

Quite a number of brethren were in the city during the past week, some attending the gathering of the Knight's Templars, but the greater portion attending the prohibition meeting. While Christians will go into politics, it is well for them to be on the side of morality. We are certain that temperance and other religious duties enforced through political organizations by Christians, are all done in the name of the evil one. We are equally certain that when Christians undertake to run political organizations, that the church of Christ suffers and wanes. You may take the State or the world over, and no matter how talented, and influential, and popular, Christian men may be, where they enter politics the church and the cause of God languish. I believe in temperance, and if the world sees fit to adopt prohibitory legislation, I shall rejoice; but I know the weapons of the Christian warfare are not carnal, but spiritual; and that the only work the Christian can do that really benefits the world, is done in Christ and in his kingdom. Those are the true workers with God, who lend all their energies and zeal in building up the church of God. When man divides his fealty and service between the church of Christ and the institutions of earth, he is serving two masters.

NOTE.—The above notes were prepared for last number, but were crowded out.

Last week the General News, and a number of "Items, Personals, Etc.," were crowded out. It occurred by a failure of our corresponding editors to get their matter in, in time. Before their matter reached here, all the matter had been set up for the paper, save the "General News," "Items, Personals, Etc." In getting theirs in, these were crowded out. The first form of our paper goes to press on Thursday morning; the second on Monday morning. It is necessary for us to have all matter that goes into the first form set up by Wednesday evening; all that goes into the last, by Saturday evening. It ought all to be in the office twenty-four or forty-eight hours preceding these times, that it may be set up. The table of contents, the news, items, etc., must go in the second form. So unless the matter is here early in the week, preceding publication, we cannot well arrange it.

KENTUCKY CONTRIBUTIONS AND CORRESPONDENCE.

BY J. A. HARDING, OF WINCHESTER, KY., TO WHOM ALL COMMUNICATIONS FOR THIS DEPARTMENT SHOULD BE ADDRESSED.

ITEMS CONCERNING THE GADSDEN MEETING.

There were fourteen additions to the congregation at Gadsden, Ala. during the series of meetings which closed Sunday night last. Of these, four were from the Baptists, three from the Methodists, one from the Cumberland Presbyterians, and one from the Episcopalians. We have now at Gadsden twenty-one undenominational, non-sectarian members of the church of God. They expect to meet every Lord's day that they may continue "steadfastly in the apostles' teaching and fellowship, in the breaking of bread and prayers."

Bro. R. W. Vanhook, of Mt. Hebron, Ala. assisted Bro. Daugherty and myself for the greater part of the time. He sings tenor excellently well; with Bro. Daugherty leading and Bro. Vanhook singing tenor the music is sure to be good. Bro. Vanhook preached three discourses during the meetings, which I did not hear, (as I was sick in bed,) but of which the brethren gave a most favorable report. He did a week's preaching at Gadsden about two months before I visited the place, receiving a fine hearing and making an excellent expression on the people. Bro. Marcum of Tennessee did about a week's work here some time before Bro. Vanhook's visit. Both of these meetings were too short for reaping. Our meeting continued for twenty-nine days. Services were held at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, and at 7:45 in the evening. At the evening meetings the audience varied from two hundred to five or six hundred people; in the afternoons the audience varied from twenty-five to fifty through the week, and on Sunday was much larger. Considering that we started with a membership of seven, this will give the reader some idea of the interest taken by the people in the meetings.

The clergymen of the place were no little stirred up. I preached a discourse on "Christian Unity" that seemed to affect them even more than usual. And no wonder; for the beauty of the plea for union upon the Bible alone as a rule of faith and discipline, makes a wonderful impression upon one who has been befogged all of his life in the mists of sectarianism, if he will but pause and consider it; a thing many of the church members at Gadsden were ready to do. Mr. Parker of the Methodist church asked me to announce that he would preach on the "True Basis of Christian Union" on the next Sunday. I made the announcement and added that I would take great pleasure in hearing him on that occasion, if the Lord would permit. The discourse proved to be an attempt at defence of the Methodist doctrine concerning the administration of Baptism. At the conclusion of the sermon, an opportunity being given me to make my announcements, I stated that I would review the discourse at night, and invited Bro. Parker and his people to come around and hear. He promptly agreed to do so. That night a young gentleman who, I was told, had been many times to the anxious seat at the Methodist church, came forward to confess the Lord. On Monday Bro. Parker was out on the streets with the revised version, boldly affirming that all this talk about our Lord's going into the water, and coming up out of the water was without foundation; he stoutly claimed there is not a vestige of proof that his blessed feet were ever wet by the waters of the turbulent Jordan. In proof of this he triumphantly read from Matt iii:

16, rev. ver., "And Jesus when he was baptized, went up straightway from the water." "He went up from the water, not out of it as the common version reads," claimed he. One of the disciples, hearing him, reached for the book, saying, "Let us see what Mark says about it." He turned to Mark i: 10 and read, "And he straightway coming up out of the water" etc. Jesus came not only from the water but out of it according to this best of versions. Bro. Parker returned home somewhat crestfallen, no doubt, to investigate the Greek text, when, to his delight, he found the same Greek preposition in both places, the preposition apo. But he was probably not then aware that there is a revised Greek text.

On Monday night, at the request of some who said the matter had been talked about a good deal on the streets, I explained that Matthew teaches that Jesus came up from the water; that Mark says he came up out of the water; that both are true. At this point Bro. Parker asked me to give the prepositions used by the two writers at this place. I replied, Matthew uses apo, Mark ek. He shook his head. I repeated my affirmation. He shook his head again. Whereupon I suggested that he should come on the next evening with the Greek Testament, reminding him there was a revised edition upon it, which gives the readings followed by the revision committees. He came, and a great audience assembled to hear the outcome. Bro. Parker brought only the received text, which as I have said, gives apo in both places. But he took occasion to make a speech of considerable length on the action of baptism, striving particularly to impress the people that John could not have baptized all that dwelt in Jerusalem, Judea, and in all the region round about the Jordan. He was sure an attempt to have done such a thing would have killed him in a few days. I simply replied, (as by this time it was quite late,) that I would as soon as possible produce the Greek text for the revised version, and would then further consider the matter. Early next morning I telegraphed to Nashville for the book, but in an hour or so received a reply that it could not be found there. Remembering then that Bro. McGarvey had a copy of it, I telegraphed him at once to send it to me; which he promptly did. The book arrived at two o'clock Thursday, and at four, circulars were in the hands of all the people announcing that it would be produced at the meeting that night, and that Mr. Parker was especially invited to be present to address the audience as one of the speakers of the occasion. I gave the readings of the revised text, (which are as I said,) and then spoke for an hour and twenty minutes in reply to Bro. Parker's speech of Tuesday evening. He replied in an address of about forty minutes, after which the audience was dismissed without an invitation. On the next evening a Cumberland Presbyterian, a prominent citizen of the town, came forward, an applicant for the true baptism: at the same time a lady from the Baptists came out upon the union ground. On the next day a lady from the Episcopal church demanded the true baptism. On the next day a gentleman from the "Bible Christians" united with the congregation: this was the last service of the series. Had it not been that other matters were pressing so heavily on me I would have remained longer.

It is sometimes asked of me, "How is it that so many people who are evidently honest, differ so widely in religion?" I reply, "Most people follow men instead of God in their religious beliefs and practices. A conversation which I had with a gentleman of the Methodist church while at Gadsden illustrates this matter. He said to me, 'When I read the Bible it seems to me to teach immersion. It appears to me that John immersed; that Jesus was immersed; that the Eunuch was; indeed from my childhood baptism has always appeared to me to be immersion. But when I joined the Methodist church Bro. Parker said sprinkling would do just as well, that it was apostolic, and I thought if I went along and did the best I knew how it would be all right any way. I thought Bro. Parker ought to know more about it than I do. So I was sprinkled."

"But," I replied, "you are not doing the best you know how. You are not doing what you understand the Bible to teach. You are following a man, when, as you understand it, God tells you to walk another way."

And just so it is with many people. They read the Bible very little, and hence have very little confidence in their understanding of it. They are ready to do what the preacher says even when it is in conflict with that which appears to them to be right. If the teacher happens to be a blind guide, as is often the case, such people are in a bad way; for when the blind lead the blind, both fall into the pit, our Master teaches. Indeed none of us can be too prompt and diligent in studying the Bible for ourselves. We owe it to the Lord to do it, and I don't see how a man can hope to attain to a home in heaven without it.

Of the twenty one members that constitute the little church at Gadsden eight or nine of them have been sprinkled for baptism. Two of them are children of Methodist preachers. But in all my traveling I have not met with a single man who became dissatisfied with immersion and demanded sprinkling. I met a lady who had heard of such a case, but I have yet to see the man that did it. How suggestive these facts are concerning the simplicity of the scriptural requirement, and of the satisfactoriness of immersion!

This little band at Gadsden needs a house in which to meet. And I desire to make an appeal for them. They have determined to take up a collection every Lord's day, and to lay by in store thus as the Lord prospers them, until they have the amount necessary for the work. Now it would be nice if a number of churches would each give them a Lord's day contribution. They are worthy, I can confidently say, and the money put in their hands will be well applied.

The opening there for building up a strong congregation is one of the best I have ever seen; and the sooner we have a good house there the better it will be. Anything sent to A. L. Glenn will be receipted for, and acknowledged through the ADVOCATE.

At Huntsville we have a brave, earnest little band of thirty eight that needs a house; there is one of about seventeen at Scottsboro with a like need; another at Gadsden, and still another at Savannah, Ga. I have held meetings at all these places lately, and am much interested in them. Will not the brethren who don't feel it their duty to go abroad and preach to the destitute, have fellowship in the work by sending to the aid of these struggling congregations?

END OF KENTUCKY DEPARTMENT.

Another fact which needs emphasis is, that the places most dangerous to society are those where drunkards are made, not those where they are killed. It is the respectable place, with other attractions, where the dragon's teeth are sown, and where are forged the chains of appetite which bind men hand and foot; here are ruined the souls of men, while the grog-shops pure and simple kill but the bodies, whose soul and mind and manliness are paralyzed. And it is precisely those most dangerous places that license leaves at work. God save us from such covenanting.

TEXAS WORK AND WORKERS.

CONDUCTED BY JOHN T. POE, LONGVIEW, TEXAS,
TO WHOM ALL CORRESPONDENCE RELATING TO
THIS DEPARTMENT MUST BE ADDRESSED.

IN MEMORIAM.

Dear Bro. Poe: We have just returned from depositing the body of Bro. W. P. Worthington in its resting place, until the restitution of all things. Bro. Worthington was a citizen of the Chickasaw Nation, and a true soldier of the cross of Christ. Therefore I cannot say he is dead, but absent from the body, and present with the Lord. He was near 66 years of age, he lived many years of his life to the service of God. All who knew him loved him, for his life was filled with good deeds. he has now entered into rest, he is gone. But we will not mourn as they that have no hope. We will extend our sympathies to the bereaved ones that he left behind.

J. C. LYNN.

Pickens County, Chickasaw Nation, May 9, 1884.

Bro. Poe: Closed a meeting recently at Patroon, Shelby county, which resulted in twelve being added. Sunday night last closed at Milam, Sabine county. At this meeting there were sixteen additions. Have added sixty-eight since the first of February.—[D. A. Leak, Milam, Texas, May 13, 1884.

Dear Pro. Poe: I received two dollars from some one in Waco for Indian Mission, to-day, signed "A Friend." Am receiving pamphlets and books occasionally for the work in that Nation. I will spend a week over there soon; will flood the country with books, if I can get them, Help, brethren. Four additions last Lord's day here. One reclaimed at Biardtown this week. The brethren write me from Honey Grove that they are determined to build a church-house. Brethren, send any book or pamphlet you think would be of any advantage in our Indian Mission. Many of them can and will read. R. W. OFFICER.

THE UNPARDONABLE SIN.

In mixing with the brethren of different communities, we find that they are not settled on this question. Some think that any sin, wilfully committed, is unpardonable, while others think differently. Some think that because they have yielded to temptation and gone back to the world, they have committed the unpardonable sin. We find some things written by able men that we cannot endorse. Not long since, the question was asked, if a man sin wilfully can he obtain forgiveness? To this, some say no. Others say yes, provided the sin is not blasphemy against the Holy Spirit.

Bro. Milligan, in commentary on Heb. x: 26, says: "To sin wilfully after that we have received the knowledge of the truth is the same as to apostatize from Christ, for which there is no forgiveness." Now I understand that the position is here taken that wilful sin is unpardonable, because Paul says, "there remaineth no more sacrifice for sins." To this we cannot agree with our present understanding of the subject, and in this article we propose giving the reason.

Jesus says: "Wherefore I say unto you, All manner of sin and blasphemy shall be forgiven unto men: but the blasphemy against the Holy Ghost shall not be forgiven unto men. And whosoever speaketh a word against the son of man, it shall be forgiven him: but whosoever speaketh against the Holy Ghost, it shall not be forgiven him, neither in this world, neither in the world to come." Matt. xii: 31-32.

What, then, is sin? "Sin is the transgression of the law." 1 John iii: 4.

What is blasphemy? "Language uttered impiously against God or sacred things." Webster.

Then to commit the unpardonable sin, one must use impious language against the Holy Spirit, which would be blasphemy, and unpardonable.

Now, if one commits a wilful sin, can he get forgiveness? If it is not of the character above described, he certainly can; for Jesus says, "all manner of sin and blasphemy shall be forgiven unto men." Sin, whether wilful or unwilful, would certainly come under this head. But some one may be ready to say, Paul said, "if we sin wilfully, there remaineth no more sacrifice for sins." How is it that wilful sin can be forgiven if there remaineth no more sacrifice?

The trouble here, we think, is a tributary to a failure to understand what sacrifice the apostle has referred to. What then did Paul mean when he said there remaineth no more sacrifice for sins? Did he mean when one had committed such a sin, that he could not repent and turn to God and obtain forgiveness? or was he speaking of the great sacrifice our blessed Lord made when he gave himself to die for us? Was he not teaching that if we refuse, wilfully, to assemble to break the bread and drink the wine in memory of the body and blood that was sacrificed for us, that in this we would be wilfully sinning in rejecting the sacrifice that has been made, and that there will not be another? Hear what he says: "Let us hold fast the profession of our faith without wavering; for he is faithful that promised; and let us consider one another to provoke unto love and good works: not forsaking the assembling of ourselves together, as the manner of some is; but exhorting one another: and so much the more, as ye see the day approaching. For if we sin wilfully after that we have received the knowledge of the truth, there remaineth no more sacrifice for sins, but a certain fearful looking for of judgment and fiery indignation, which shall devour the adversary." Heb. x: 23-27. The apostle here speaks of the assembling of the saints. This assembling was on the first day of the week to break bread. Acts xx: 7. This bread represents the body of Jesus which was sacrificed for us. Luke xxii: 19. If we do not eat this we have no life in us. John vi: 53. Now if we wilfully neglect this assembling, are we not rejecting the sacrifice that was made for our sins? Can we expect salvation by some other? Paul says, "there remaineth no more." Then we conclude that our faith, repentance, confession, baptism, prayers, almsgiving, labors of love, etc., do not compose the sacrifice of which the apostle speaks. Jesus was the only sacrifice that could be found in heaven or on earth that could atone for our sins.

Hence, "there remaineth no more." If we wilfully turn away from this, there is not another sacrifice to be made for us. And know this there remaineth only a certain fearful looking for of judgment. But if one should wilfully forsake the assembling to break bread, afterward repent and turn to God through faith, repentance, confession and prayer, I believe God would forgive him. I do not believe this to be the unpardonable sin. While it is true that John says there is a sin unto death, yet I think this is harmonious with the language of the Savior. Matt. xii: 31. Jesus and John both speak of a particular sin, and doubtless both mean the same thing.

Thus in my feeble way I have tried to give expression to my thoughts on this important subject, hoping, if correct, to benefit others. If not, then to invite criticism from some one who loves the truth, that I may learn the way of the Lord more perfectly.

W. H. CARTER.

CAN YOU ACCOUNT FOR IT?

For what? That I meet with a degree of success in missionary money for the Christian Sower Tract Fund when I travel among strange brethren. Frequently, one steps up, and though unsolicited, says, "I have been wanting to send you some money for a long time, here is $—." What makes them wait? It is not because it is either difficult or unsafe to send money through the mails. Post office orders, postal notes, and registered letters cost but little. If you wish to save this expense you can send it in postage stamps; a one, two or five dollar bill is reasonably safe in a thick, well sealed and directed envelope. So there is no need to wait. Money is needed now. Frontier fields are calling for tracts, and the cash box is empty. The demands are urgent, and the need is great; it will be your fault if the tracts are not sent. Tracts to sell now. We hope to give away large quantities soon.—[J. W. Higbee, Madisonville, Ky.

If thou neglectest love to thy neighbor, in vain thou professest thy love to God; for by thy love to God lowe to thy neighbor is begotten, and by love to thy neighbor thy love to God is cherished and increased.—Quaker.

SHORTS.

"Madam, are you an element of the church?" "Oh! yes, sir." "The congregation of which you are a member is then the church of Christ?" "Yes, that is the way I understand it." Please read Eph. v: 24-26. "Now, answer me, when did Christ sanctify and cleanse you or your church with the washing of water by the word?" "Some of our members wash." "But did you?" "I was sprinkled." "When did Christ wash you?" Silence—a long silence.

"Hearing should be followed by doing." James i: 22. "Faith requires works to make it perfect." James ii: 22. "Men believe unto (in order to) righteousness." Rom. 10. "Repentance, if genuine, produces fruit, (Matt. iii: 8; Luke iii: 8,) or good works." Acts xxvi: 20. "Those who are buried in baptism should rise to walk in newness of life, (Rom. vi: 4,) or to such things that are above." Col. iii: 1. Brother, do you walk by this rule? What has followed your hearing? What has your faith done for you? Has it produced any righteousness? Can those around you see, every day, sound, ripe fruit, giving pleasure to all? Can you point to baptism alone, or a new, holy life, following it? You can pay no attention to these questions, if you wish; no one is as much interested as you. What do you seek or desire most, brother? Riches, pleasure, popularity, pomp and show, will not comfort the poor, dying creature. You and I will soon be helpless in the face of death.

"Ashamed of Jesus? Yes, I may, When I've no guilt to wash away; No tears to wipe, no good to crave, No fears to quell, no soul to save."

Are you ashamed of Jesus, brother? Are you, sister? I have caught myself at the dirty littleness, and I felt like I imagine Peter did when Jesus looked upon him after he had denied him thrice. Have you never been among those who did not believe as you do—in the Bible alone? In places where they called you Campbellite, and your religion was not popular? Have you never been where no religion was popular, and felt "sorter" sorry to hear religion mentioned? Did you ever shrink when Christ was introduced into the company, and say, (in your heart,) as did the Gadarenes, "Depart from us." Oh, pshaw! Brother, if we are ashamed of Christ, he will be ashamed of us. The man who hides out when the roll is called, or wavers when the enemy attack the line, is a coward. How about him who dodges when no one throws a stone, and is always afraid he will be hit? Thrice armed is he whose cause is just, and the truth is a most powerful weapon. Do not fear, but contend for the faith once delivered to the saints.

"I quit the church because my brother treated me so badly. I could not take the communion with him. Every time I saw him I thought of the twenty-five cents out of which he swindled me." These were the words of a woman yesterday. "Well go join another church," said I, "some other man will swindle you out of a quarter, quit that and join another, and so on until you have belonged to four and you will die about that time, and quite likely lose paradise for a dollar." People would better join Jesus Christ, and when he fails in any particular, quit the church, and not till then. Whoever splices on to man will be ever slipping at the tie, for man will disappoint us, deceive us, and cheat us, and we should be particular lest we do the same. We should cultivate patience, forbearance, long suffering and forgiveness, not accustom ourselves to quit the truth, turn the head away, scowl and do other unbecoming things, when in the presence of those who do us wrong and thus ruffle even our own feelings. I saw a chicken the other day that represents some people. Every feather the poor creature had was turned the wrong way.

J. M. BARNES.

Dr. Hopper, for nearly forty years a missionary of the Presbyterian Board at Canton, China, has published a paper concerning the number of Buddhists in the world. Edwin Arnold says there are 470,000,000; others claim between 250,000,000 and 350,000,000. Dr. Hopper says that these estimates are gross exaggerations, and makes the total number to be between 72,000,000 and 73,000,000. The Confucianists he makes 265,000,000.

Rates of Advertising in Gospel Advocate.

One inch, one insertion.....	60
One inch, one month.....	2 00
One inch, three months.....	5 00
One inch, six months.....	7 50
One inch, twelve months.....	12 50

A discount of 10 per cent. on these rates for order of $25.00; 20 per cent. for order of $50.00; 30 per cent. for order of $100.00.

Let Us Live.

The most important part of human life is not its end, but its beginning. Our death-day is the child of the past, but our opening years are the sires of the future. At the last hour men summon to their bedside a solemnity of thought which arrives too late for any practical result. The hush and awe and far-away look, so frequent in departing moments, should have come much sooner. Commend us to the example of the Hebrew King, who fasted and wore sackcloth while the child was yet alive. Wisely did he foresee the uselessness of lamenting when the scene shall close. "Can I bring him back again?" was one of the most sensible of questions.

It may be a serious business to take the cold iron from the anvil; it seems to us far sadder to be standing to be still, and seeing a hot bar grow chill. Brother at my side, whoever you may be, LET US STRIKE!

HOW SHALL WE LIVE?

With what hammer shall we strike? Ay, there's the rub. Not that it is any question to me personally; but desiring to be a true brother to you, my reader, I put it so; and for your sake, and in fellowship with you, I look around the workshop. Here are hammers, bright, many! See the trade-mark—Warranted brand-new. The old smith over yonder says he knows nothing of them. They were left here by a new firm, who are always inventing fine things. "Least-wise," says he, "they call themselves a new firm, but I believe they might better be called 'the long firm'; they trade under new names, but they are old rogues." The smith swings aloft, with brawny arm, a hammer which makes the sparks fly and the iron yield: "There," says he, "the old hammer suits me best." You see, good friend, he is only a blacksmith, and knows no better. Some people are unreasonably fond of old things. Are these mental Tories any more foolish than those who are fascinated by novelties? We think not.

The old hammer in our forge is FAITH IN GOD.

FAITH HAS WROUGHT WONDERS.

Faith is a great worker. The men of strong convictions fashion the world upon their anvils. Confidence girds a man's loins and nerves him to the putting forth of all his energy. In the eleventh chapter of his Epistle to the Hebrews, Paul brings forth a bead-roll of faith's heroes, and erects an Arc de Triomphe to their memory. The names stand out in capitals of light, ABEL, ENOCH, NOAH ABRAHAM; and the sculptured scenes are such as these, "subdued kingdoms," "stopped the mouth of lions," "quenched the violence of fire." If the panegyrist of faith comes to a pause it is not because matter fails him; but he exclaims, "What shall I more say? for the time would fail me to tell of Gideon, and of Barak, and of Samson, and of Jephthah; of David also, and Samuel and of the Prophets."—Clew of the Maze.

They are never alone that are accompanied with noble thoughts.—Sir Phillip Sidney.

Theatre-Going.

A very serious matter concerns the amusements of professing Christians. I see it publicly stated by men who call themselves Christians that it would be advisable for Christians to frequent the theatre, that the character of the drama might be raised. The suggestion is about as sensible as if we were bidden to pour a bottle of lavender water into the great sewer to improve its aroma. If the church is to imitate the world in order to raise its tone, things have strangely altered since the day when our Lord said, "Come ye out from among them, and touch not the unclean thing." Is heaven to descend to the infernal lake to raise its tone? Such has been the moral condition of the theatre for many a year that it has become too bad for mending, and even if it were mended it would corrupt again.

Pass by it with an averted gaze; the house of the strange woman is there. It has not been my lot ever to enter a theatre during the performance of a play, but I have seen enough when I have come home from distant journeys at night, while riding past the play-houses, to make me pray that our sons and daughters may never go within the doors. It must be a strange school for virtue which attracts the harlot and debauchee. It is no place for a Christian, for it is best appreciated by the irreligious and worldly. If our church-members fall into the habit of frequenting the theatre, we shall soon have them going much further in the direction of vice, and they will lose all relish for the ways of God. Theatre-going, if it become general among professing Christians, will prove the death of piety.—C. H. Spurgeon.

Gems of Thought.

No true prayer is lost, though we may have forgotten it.

He who waits to do a great deal of good at once will never do anything.—Samuel Johnson.

The life of man consists not in seeing visions and in dreaming dreams, but in active charity and willing service.—Longfellow.

Of all the anguish in the world there is nothing like this: the sense of God without the sense of nearness to him.—Elizabeth Prentiss.

Christian Charity is a calm, wise thing. It will sometimes appear to the superficial observer a very hard thing—for it has the courage to refuse.

Hypocrisy, of course, delights in the most sublime speculations; for, never intended to go beyond speculation, it costs nothing to have it magnificent.—Burke.

This is the law of benefits between men; the one ought to forget at once what he has given, and the other sought never to forget what he has received.—Seneca.

The Lord's Prayer is not, as, some fancy, the easiest, the most natural of all devout utterances. I may be committed to memory quickly, but it is slowly learned by heart.—Maurice.

The every-day cares and duties, which men call drudgery, are the weights and counterpoises of the clock of time, giving its pendulum a true vibration, and its hands a regular motion.—Longfellow.

AMERICAN NATIONAL BANK,

CASH CAPITAL,

$1,000,000.

Board of Directors.

E. W. Cole,
John G. Houston,
J. F. Demoville,
John Orr,
Byrd Douglass, Jr.,

Jehn M. Lea,
J. Kirkman,
Rev. Dr. R. A. Young,
V. L. Kirkman,
B. L. Weakley,

A. W. Harris,
M. Burns,
T. A. Atchison,
W. G. Bush,
W. H. Jackson,

John Woodard
J. A. Pigue,
C. E. Hillman,
W. W. Berry,
Wm. Porter,
Edgar Jones.

This Bank has united with it the THIRD NATIONAL BANK of this city, and increased its Capital Stock to $1,000,000. With increased facilities in every particular, can confidently assert that it will offer superior advantages in all departments of its business to its patrons and friends.

JOHN KIRKMAN, President,
A. W. HARRIS, Cashier,
E. W. COLE, Chairman Executive Committee.

EDGAR JONES, Vice-President,
JOHN M. LEA, Vice-President.

GOSPEL ADVOCATE

PRINTING AND PUBLISHING COMPANY,

JAMES F. &amp; HARRY LIPSCOMB, Managers,

98 Union Street,

Nashville, Tenn.

Letter Heads, Note Heads, Bill Heads, Statement Heads, Circulars, Catalogues, By-Laws, Bills Lading, Receipts, Coal Tickets, Milk Tickets, Tags, Business Cards, Visiting Cards, Horse Bills, Etc.

Good work at reasonable rates. Send for prices. Give us your orders and be pleased.

WE RESPECTFULLY CALL YOUR ATTENTION TO THE FOLLOWING EXCELLENT BOOKS KEPT BY US:

Popular Hymns, word edition.....	single copy 15 cts; per dozen, by express, $1 50; by mail, $1 70
Popular Hymns, Note edition, (Boards).....	single copy 30 cts; per dozen, by express, $3 00; by mail, $3 60
Popular Hymns, Note, (with rudiments).....	single copy 40 cts; per dozen, by express, $4 20; by mail, $4 80
Popular Hymns, Note edition, (cloth).....	single copy 40 cts; per dozen, by express, $4 00; by mail, $4 75
New Life (character notes).....	single copy 25 cts; per dozen, by express, $3 00; by mail, $3 60
Songs of Glory, numbers 1 and 2.....	single copy 35 cts; per dozen, by express, $3 60; by mail, $4 00
Life of Raccoon John Smith, (very readable, postpaid).....	2 00
Voice of Seven Thunders, (interesting, entertaining, and instructive,) postpaid.....	1 50
Gospel Plan of Salvation, by T. W. Brents, postpaid.....	2 00
Gospel Preacher, volumes 1 and 2, by Ben Franklin, each, postpaid.....	2 00
Campbell and Owen Debate (splendid book for lawyers) postpaid.....	1 75
Dictionary of Bible, (complete,) by Dr. Smith, postpaid.....	4 50, smaller 2 50
House-keeping in the Blue Grass, (splendid,) postpaid.....	1 50
First Principles, by Isaac Errett, postpaid.....	15
Principles to the Lord, by David Lipscomb, postpaid.....	10
Christian Experience, by Ben Franklin, postpaid.....	10
Review of Dr. T. O. Summers' Tract, by Isaac Errett, postpaid.....	10
Union Movement, by Ben Franklin, postpaid.....	10
Brown's Pocket Concordance to Bible, postpaid.....	50
Cruden's New Concordance (complete) postpaid.....	50
Bibles, Testaments, in all styles and bindings, at low rates.	1 50

We will furnish any Book published in United States at retail price. WE SOLICIT YOUR orders. We pay postage only. All kinds of Job Printing.

DUDLEY BROS. & LIPSCOMB,
WHOLESALE HARDWARE, CUTLERY AND IMPLEMENTS.

AGENTS FOR

J. I. CASE WALKING CULTIVATORS. IMPROVED WITH SPRINGS. BEST IN USE.

DUDLEY BROS. &amp; LIPSCOMB,

84 &amp; 86 Broad Street,

Nashville, Tenn.

PASCHALL, FALL &amp; CO.,

WHOLESALE

HARDWARE, Cutlery, Iron, WAGON MATERIAL, Etc

FISHING TACKLE.

Nos. 57, 59 &amp; 61 S. Market St.,

NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE.

Our Prices are Very Low.

THE GOSPEL ADVOCATE.

NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE, JUNE 4, 1884.

CONTENTS:

Lesson Helps.....	353
A New Book.....	354
QUERIES.....	354
ITEMS, PERSONALS, ETC.....	354, 363
The Unpardonable Sin.....	356
Can You Account for it?.....	356
Shorts.....	357
Let Us Live.....	357
Theatre Going.....	357
Gems of Thought.....	357
CONTENTS.....	358
Institutions Regulated, But Not Ordained by God.....	358
A. Campbell and the Societies.....	358
Conscience, Consciousness, and Feeling.....	359
Correspondence.....	359
The West Tennessee Co-operation Meeting.....	359
Appetite.....	359
The Apostle Shut out of an Orthodox Meeting-house.....	360
OBITUARIES.....	360
The Policy of Repression.....	362
KENTUCKY CONTRIBUTIONS AND CORRESPONDENCE.....
Items Concerning the Gadsden Meeting.....	355
TEXAS WORK AND WORKERS.....
In Memoriam.....	356
HOME READING.....
For the Children.....	364
The Wicked One.....	364
To the Minor.....	364
The Message.....	364
The Tongue.....	364

A. CAMPBELL AND THE SOCIETIES.

A few weeks since the Old Path Guide stated that so early as 1849, Mr. Campbell had discovered that the position the Advocate holds on the question of societies, was wrong. We asked what he meant by the expression, "so early," and showed he was sixty-three years old, had been a preacher thirty-nine years, an editor twenty-seven years. We referred to the fact that Mr. Campbell's mental and will power failed early, and that he had at no time made any announcement of change, nor did he ever make an argument in behalf of the societies; at least I had seen none.

I thought in view of the misleading statement of the Old Path Guide, the injustice done to A. Campbell and the Advocate, that a publication of my statement was demanded, so I asked it, with a request to correct any error that might be found in it. The Guide has not seen fit to publish my article. We now add this:

Mr. Campbell became president of the society in 1849. We stated that his mind and health received a shock in 1847, from which he never recovered. His biographers state the same thing. Mr. Segar wrote a biography of him, published in "Lectures on the Pentateuch." It claims to be compiled from authentic records of his life, and was published with the consent and approval of his family. Mr. Segar, speaking of his tour to Great Britain, and his cruel imprisonment, says:

"The labors and events of this tour added to the burden of the College, seemed to have materially affected his mind and general health; but the deadliest potion mingled in his cup of baleful care and sorrow, was the sad news which awaited his touching the shores of his adopted country. The son of his old age, the child of his prayers and hopes, was no more! Wyckliffe Campbell had been drowned at his father's mill! It is said by those who were near him, that Alexander Campbell was never equal to himself after this shock."

When we know how slow friends and members of a family are to recognize and publish such things, it may be well understood that this language meant much more than a literal interpretation would indicate.

A few years after this, Bro. Fanning, distressed at the course A. Campbell was pursuing on these subjects, so utterly at variance with his life-long principles, made a visit to Bethany, to talk with him on the subject. I remember well, on his return he stated that he was shocked to find his mind was so shaken that he could, with difficulty, keep it on one subject; that he could converse in general terms on things he had studied in the past, but that all power of close, connected reasoning was gone; that he had to be continually prompted to keep up an ordinary conversation. He said while A. Campbell, when his mind was directed to it, would reiterate and agree to his former positions, that he was merely a child in the hands of his friends; and he believed he would be used to undo much of his early work, the public not knowing his real condition.

In connection with this, a person, high in the confidence of the society men, told me that ten or fifteen visits were made to Bethany, in the effort to secure the transfer of the Hymn-Book to the society; that A. Campbell's feelings were so strong against it, that he refused to do it, until finally his mind was so enfeebled that the friends nearest him (he called their names) concluded he ought to do it and prompted him to do it. I am right sure that this was the secret Elder Errett indicated a disposition to tell; and only a fearfulness it would be used against him, prevented his telling it.

In view of these facts, and of the fact that A. Campbell used no arguments in behalf of the societies, save general expressions in behalf of missionary work and co-operation, which I, believing these societies a sin, can endorse,—I repeat that for his course in his later life, his friends, not himself, were responsible; and that this abatement of his mental and will force was anterior to his discovery that the position of the Advocate was wrong, as the Old Path Guide stated a few weeks since. We are sorry the Old Path Guide had not the fairness and justice to give our statement, as requested.

Since the above was in type we learn our article has been published, though I have not seen it.

INSTITUTIONS REGULATED, BUT NOT ORDAINED BY GOD.

We have several times stated that God regulated institutions and practices that he did not ordain or approve. Among these, we notice polygamy and slavery. In the indictment of Ingersoll against the Bible, he charged that God, according to the Bible, approved polygamy and slavery. Mr. Ingersoll's charge could not amount to much with thoughtful men. But Judge Black in response to it, showed he failed to comprehend the relationship of God to these institutions or practices.

In the first place, God made man with freedom of will. He was imperfect. Freedom of will with imperfection involves education, schooling, training up to a perfect standard of right. It involves of necessity on the part of God, forbearance with weakness and infirmity, with errors of head and heart. In the lower stages of man's education there would be more necessity for allowance than in the higher grades. Just as the little child unschooled to obedience, requires more forbearance than one more advanced and better trained.

God in the beginning made man male and female, but one of each and ordained that he should leave father and mother and they twain should be one flesh. God never approved any other relationship than the union of one man and one woman. Polygamy was introduced, strangely enough, in the family of Cain.

Lamech, the grandson of Cain, is the first instance noted in the history of the family, of a man's taking two wives. The contagion of sin and lust spread, and soon the whole human family seems to have consulted their lusts and desires rather than the law of God on this as other subjects. The world went into apostasy and rebellion against God. And God's law on this subject was disregarded.

From this state of apostasy, God sought to recover them. But he did not at once enforce this perfect law. He gave such laws as they were capable of understanding, appreciating and obeying, that they might be gradually trained to obedience. Hence, Christ, on the subject of divorce and re-marriage, said, because of the hardness of your hearts Moses permitted the man to give his wife a writing of divorcement and put her away. But from the beginning it was not so. Because their hearts were not capable of appreciating the sanctity of this relation, he permitted them to pursue this course while he was educating them up to the point that he could enforce this law. I use the expression "could enforce the law" not with reference to God's power, but to man's capacity. To have enforced a law man was not capacitated to obey, would have involved the destruction of the race. Hence God did not enforce his law until they were capacitated to obey it. While in this spirit, tolerating and regulating for a time what he does not approve, he was inculcating principles that would forever destroy the sinful custom.

He did it too, not as man would do, by repressive enactments, but God with his people works from the heart outward. He purifies the heart, and then the purified heart works a pure and holy life. For out of the heart proceeds that which defiles or cleanses the man.

Nor can man who works for immediate effects, realize that God works for ulterior and lasting results. God is not a politician, but a statesman in his government of the world.

God never ordained or approved polygamy, divorce, (save for one cause,) or adultery. He regulated it as a necessary evil in the condition of the world, but when man was able to bear it, winked no longer at the time of ignorance but commands men to repent.

So of slavery, God never ordained slavery save as a punishment for sin. Then the punishment was inflicted by others who were themselves transgressors of divine law. Individuals might for a time hold slaves without guilt, but the relationship was never approved by God other than as an evil, overruled frequently for the good of the enslaved, but nowhere approved by God as a relationship to be nurtured and perpetuated.

On the contrary, while he for a time tolerated it and overruled it to punish those who transgressed his law, he put in operation principles that would destroy all slavery, real and formal, and in their perfect workings make all men brethren in Christ. But God in this does not hurry,—implants truths in the heart and waits for them to work outward in the life.

There are other practices besides these, war stands in the same condition, growing out of man's sinfulness and used as a police regulation, by God, in which sin and wickedness are overruled to punish and destroy sinners, it yet is not approved by God.

Instrumental music is in precisely the same condition. It was never ordained or approved by God. It originated like slavery and polygamy in the rebellious family against God, it was introduced as A. Campbell and I. Errett have declared in an age and among a people of fleshly impulse, rather than true spiritual devotion, was tolerated and regulated by God, but never approved or ordained by him. On the contrary, through Amos, a woe is pronounced upon those that are at ease in Zion, that lie upon beds of ivory, "that chant to the sound of the viol, and invent to themselves instruments of music like David; that drink wine in bowls, and anoint themselves with the chief ointments." It is here clearly stated that David invented these, God did not ordain them. Woe is pronounced upon those who follow his example in the matter, and the use of these is classed among the fleshly gratifications of those who rebel against God. It was tolerated and regulated for a time, but when Christ restored the true heaven approved worship, left this out. Woe to him who introduces it as did David.

D. L.

CONSCIENCE, CONSCIOUSNESS, AND FEELING.

Conscience is the monitor, the power of our minds, that impresses upon us duty. That is, if not defiled or blunted, it inclines one to do what his judgement approves. But before conscience can impress upon me duty, I must know what is duty, what is right. The word of God should be always our standard in purity and morals. The man who does not implicitly believe God's word, has no rule of right, and his conscience cannot impel him to obey it.

Consciousness, or feeling, is the means by which a man knows he is alive and has a mind. It is by these he knows the state of his mind. He may say, I know I am honest, for I am conscious of it; and I know I love my friends, I am conscious of it. He may say, I know I believe in Christ, for I am conscious of it. But while my consciousness, or feelings, tell me of the state of my mind towards another person, this cannot tell me the state of that person's mind towards me. This I may learn only by the words, in acts, of that person, in self evidence to me. This is a grand and solemn matter. For if I love and trust a man, and take my feelings towards him, as an evidence of his feeling to me, I may be liable to danger, for he may be my enemy. So, if because I do not love a man, I conclude from my feelings to him he has the same to me, I may do him great injustice.

So if a man believes in Christ and loves him, the same is known of him. But if I judge by my feelings towards God, that he feels the same to me, just by my feelings I shall be in danger. God or Christ has given me a test both sure and steadfast. He says, "If a man love me, he will keep my commandments; and I will love him, and I and my Father will come to him, and take up our abode with him." This is safe. We must do God's will then, just as written, if we would know that we are accepted of him. We must not test God's love to us by our feelings; for as shown my feelings towards another man, nor towards God, can tell their feelings towards me. This I must know; for then I know God loves me when I keep his commandments, for he says so; and when I obey the gospel He sends me into my heart his Spirit. One man said to me, "Does not the Bible say every man has a right to serve God as his conscience directs?" I said, it is the constitution of the United States that so reads, and not the Bible, and if his conscience is not so defiled, his conscience leads him to do as Abraham did; that is do just as God has commanded verbatim. This is a serious matter; for if we conclude we are accepted of God by feelings, without obedience, we are in the dark. Doing God's commands by faith gives good feelings.

Fairfield, Texas.

JAMES L. THORNBERRY.

APPETITE.

"Asking for," that is the meaning. Who asks? Nature; in other words, the law of our being, the instinct of our self-preservation, wisely and benevolently implanted in every living thing, whether animal, worm, or weed.

Yielding to this appetite is the preservation of all life, and health, below men; he alone exceeds it, and in consequence sickens and dies thereby, long before his prime, in countless instances.

The fact is not recognized as generally it ought to be, that a proper attention to the "askings" of nature, not only maintains health, but is one of the safest, surest, and most permanent methods of curing disease.

It is eating without an appetite, which in many instances is the last pound which breaks the camel's back; nature had taken away the appetite, had closed the house for necessary repairs, but, in spite of her, we "forced down some food," and days and weeks and months of illness followed, if not cholera, cramp colic, or sudden death.

ANIMAL FOOD.—Different nations instinctively fall into the habit of using the kind of food adapted to their latitude, habits and localities; The Frenchman luxuriates on bread and wine in his stannary clime: the Englishman in everlasting fog and dreariness, leans heavily on beef and beer; the Dutch delight in sour kroust and sausage; pork and beans, clams and pumpkin pies always delight the lean Yankee; while Western men know no heaven where there is no hog and homminy, John Chinaman makes rice the god of his idolatry; Italians feast the year round on maccaroni; the Cuban is happy amid his plantain trees, while Greenlanders believe in blubber as the summum bonum of human good; what would a Paddy be without his potatoes, or Sandy without his luxurious oat meal; and his hunting ground is the heaven of the Indian. The cannibals of a thousand years ago, are the same lovers of human flesh to-day, and none of these nations have ever died out, all of them seem to live and thrive on the aliment which a munificent Providence has strewn so abundantly around them. The fisherman of the Ferroe Isles live mainly on the yield of their nets, as their fathers did before them, and are the healthiest people on the globe. These facts seem to show the absurdity of the vagaries of many who set themselves up as reformers and would be saviors of the race, closing their eyes against the glaring fact that the food of the individual must be adapted to his temperament, his locality and his occupation. But in all this, the great truth stands out with unmistakable prominence that God is good, in that intending man to habitate the globe he has adapted him, with reasonable restrictions to live any where and on any thing. And while witless hosts are ranging themselves in hostile fronts as meat-eaters and anti-meat-eaters, vegetarians and grapeites, (for a book has been really written to prove that to live long and healthfully we must eat grapes all day,) sensible people will eat in moderation what they like best according to nature's instincts, taking their food in moderation, taking care that the fruits should be ripe and perfect, the vegetables fresh, the meat taken from well fed and healthy carcasses and all cleanly prepared, thoroughly cooked, served in simple style, and eaten in contentment, thankfulness and joviality.—Hall's Journal of Health.

THE WEST TENN. CO-OPERATION MEETING.

The West Tennessee Co-operation convened at Union City May 14th; J. H. Roulhac presiding. Reports from about thirty congregations were received—most of which were encouraging. The report of the finance committee was approved, and seemed to be entirely satisfactory. They are helping to sustain the cause at Dyersburg, Humboldt, Milan and McKenzie; they have met all of their obligations up to the present time, and are able to continue the work at the above named places for the remainder of the year. The following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Resolved, That it is the sense of this meeting that the committee be authorized to employ an evangelist or evangelists to visit the churches in West Tennessee, and preach and solicit aid for the work of co-operation; and said contributions to be paid into the hands of the committee semi-annually, on or before the first of May and first of October of each year.

Resolved, That every preacher of the gospel in West Tennessee be earnestly requested and entreated to co-operate with the evangelist or evangelists working in the interest of the West Tennessee co-operation, and that they be requested to lay before the churches, for which they labor, the missionary work, and, if possible, induce the churches to create a special fund for general missionary purposes, and have certain fixed times for contribution for said purpose.

Resolved, That this meeting hail with delight the prospect that competent brethren intend soon to begin the publication of a paper devoted to the interest, the progress and encouragement of the churches of Christ in West Tennessee. It was decided to continue the present committee and leave to them the selection of the place for the next meeting; and it was also decided that they request the GOSPEL ADVOCATE, Old Path Guide, Apostolic Church and Christian Standard to publish the proceedings of this meeting.

We had preaching morning and evening during the meeting, which closed on the evening of the 16th. Unity, harmony and brotherly love prevailing.

JNO. C. McCORKLE,

T. E. SCOTT,

J. S. McCORKLE,

Committee.

Newburn, Tenn.

"Do you feel that you love Christ?" was asked of an aged and dying Christian. "Better than that," was the reply, "Christ loves me."

CORRESPONDENCE.

Last Saturday I started from home to attend my appointment at Antioch, Trousdale County. Arrived at Hartsville in time to hear Bro. Elam preach at 11 o'clock. Went to Antioch in the evening; preached to a good congregation at night. Lord's day evening it was raining and we had few, but interesting hearers. At 4 P. M. we had a fine crowd. Returned to Hartsville in time to hear Bro. Elam at night. I remained there until yesterday evening. Enjoyed the time very much while at Hartsville. Bro. Elam is doing good preaching, but without much visible effect, having had only three accessions. There must be something in the way. What is it? Perhaps we cannot tell, but may be able to make some good suggestions. My experience has taught me that to have a successful meeting all must engage in the work. When all are so full of love for the Master's cause that they will attend every meeting, get up close about the pulpit, engage in the singing with the spirit and understanding, talk about the meeting to their neighbors and friends, and invite them to come and go with them to meeting, a good and successful meeting is always the result. Now, are the brethren and sisters at Hartsville working this way? Some appeared to be very much interested, others not so much so. Several times I heard them say to Bro. Elam when he would ask, "are you not going to meeting?" "I can't go to-day." "Why?" he would ask. "O, I can't possibly go to-day," would be the reply. If we can attend to other matters, and work for ourselves, we certainly can, and ought to work for the Lord. And when we work for him in the way that he has prescribed, he will own and bless our labors. A preacher cannot induce people to obey the gospel without the hearty co-operation of the members. When the whole body is thus joined together and compacted by that which every joint supplieth, according to the effectual working in the measure of every part, it will make increase of the body unto the edifying of itself in love. Then if we would have good meetings, and see our neighbors and friends become obedient to the faith, we must show by our own faithfulness that there is a reality in the religion of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ.

W. H. CARTER.

Lafayette, Tenn., May 28, 1884.

Brethren L. & S.: Concerning the subject discussed by Bro. McCain in Advocate May 14th, No. 20, the only effort of his, to prove his position, was by Scriptural comparison. As a rebuttal, we would refer the reader to Galatians 4: 16-23. He says "I will state in the outset, that it is clear to me, that it has reference to the spirit of man from a grammatical and logical standpoint." Why does he not prove it, and make it clear to others. He condemns me for accepting the statement of men. I am not satisfied merely with your opinion, because it agrees with mine, (for I do not believe in the infallibility of any one,) because I think we have stronger Scriptural reasons than he has given. Allow me to give my grammatical reasons and then I will close. He is willing to admit that "the Spirit" in the second verse has reference to the Holy Spirit, then why not in the first verse; they are connected by a co ordinate conjunction introducing a reason of something before advanced; second, it is with a capital, "Every appellation of the Deity should begin with a capital." If he will notice in the 16th verse of the same chapter he will find that difference made.

MRS. J. L. PARRIS.

Cold Water Depot, Miss.

The New Testament does not abolish the Old in a violent manner, but only in the way of organic development; that is, in such a manner that the eternal and permanent substance of the Old Testament is preserved, and passes over into the New Testament itself.—Olshausen.

The Lord shall cut off all flattering lips. They who take pleasure in deceiving others will at last find themselves most of all deceived, when the Sun of truth, by the brightness of his rising, shall at once detect and consume hypocrisy.—George Horne.

Faith, though it hath a trembling hand, it must not have a withered hand, but must stretch.—Watson.

THE APOSTLE SHUT OUT OF AN ORTHODOX MEETING-HOUSE.

Brothers L. & S.: The following is an article written by Bro. B. Franklin, and copied from his paper, the Reformer, into the Gospel Proclamation, edited by A. Wilford Hall, in the year 1847. This is the same Hall of modern scientific renown. By publishing this article, you will greatly oblige your brother in Christ,

GEO. GOWEN.

Apostle Peter—Could I get the liberty to preach in your meeting-house next Lord's day?

Trustee of the meeting-house—To what order of people do you belong?

Peter—I am a member of the church of Christ.

Trustee—What branch of the church of Christ?

Peter—The Lord told me that I was a branch myself; but never said anything about belonging to branches.

Trustee—What name do you distinguish your church by?

Peter—I do not claim to have any church of my own. The church of which I am a member, we call "the church of Christ," "the household of faith," etc.

Trustee—Do you think all others are wrong?

Peter—Most certainly all others are wrong.

Trustee—Where are you from, sir?

Peter—From Jerusalem.

Trustee—What is your name?

Peter—My name is Simon Peter.

Trustee—Was it you that preached baptism for the remission of sins, on the day of Pentecost, and afterwards wrote to your brethren concerning the salvation of Noah and his family in an ark, and said: "the like figure whereunto even baptism doth also now save us;" and at your conference in Jerusalem, asserted that God made choice among you that by your mouth the Gentiles should hear the word of the gospel, and believe?

Peter—Yes, sir! I wrote and spoke as you say.

Trustee—We cannot let you preach in our house. Your doctrine is dangerous, and we are determined that our children shall not hear it.

Peter—I am called and sent by Jesus Christ.

Trustee—That cannot be; for our preacher is called and sent by the Holy Ghost, and, on last Sabbath, he called your doctrine Cambellism, and said it was of the devil.

Peter—"We preach the gospel with the Holy Spirit sent down from heaven, which things the angels desire to look into."

Trustee—I do not believe in these arguments, and therefore shall dispute with you no more; but you cannot preach your doctrine in our church.

Peter—Have not some of your ministers preached this doctrine in your churches?

Trustee—Yes; a great many of them have tried to preach it amongst us; but we have generally put a stop to it by excluding them from the ministry or the church; yet, some of the worst of them have carried off whole churches with their delusions. I say again, sir, you cannot have our house.

Apostle Paul—Could I be permitted to deliver a few discourses in your house?

Trustee—What doctrine do you hold to, sir?

Paul—The doctrine of Christ.

Trustee—We all profess to hold to the doctrine of Christ. But how do you hold it?

Paul—I hold it just "as the truth is in Jesus," and recommend "sound speech that cannot be condemned,"—"sound doctrine."

Trustee—What do you call sound doctrine?

Paul—"Speak thou the things that become sound doctrine: that the aged men be sober, grave, temperate, sound in the faith, in charity, in patience. The aged women likewise, that they be in behavior as becometh holiness, not false accusers, not given to much wine, teachers of good things; that they teach the young women to be sober, to love their husbands, to love their children, to be chaste, keepers at home." (Titus ii: 1-5.) This is what I call sound doctrine.

Trustee—These things are all well enough, but this is not what I meant by sound doctrine. Do you believe in a triune God?

Paul—I once saw an altar with this inscription, in Athens,—"To the unknown God," but I never heard of a triune God before.

Trustee—You must have travelled very extensively to have been at Athens—what is your name sir?

Paul—My name is Paul.

Trustee—Where were you raised, and in what college were you educated?

Paul—My manner of life from my youth, which was at the first among mine own nation at Jerusalem know all the Jews, which knew me from the beginning, if they would testify that after the most strict sect of our religion, I lived a "pharisee," having been brought up at the feet of Gamaliel and taught according to the perfect manner of the law of the fathers, and was zealous towards God as ye all are this day. And I persecuted this way unto death, binding and delivering to prison both men and women. I beseech thee suffer me to speak unto the people.

Trustee—Are you the man who told in his experience that Jesus Christ sent a man to you when under conviction, who said to you, "arise and be baptized, and wash away thy sins, calling on the name of the Lord;" and afterwards taught that "faith came by hearing, and hearing by the word of God," and that "there is one Lord, one faith and one baptism," and that if a man had all faith and lacked charity, he was nothing?

Paul—I'm the very man.

Trustee—Are you the man who ranked sects with murders and drunkenness, (Gal. v: 20-21) and wrote (Rom. i: 16) that "the gospel is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth?"

Paul—Yes, sir.

Trustee—We have been perplexed with your doctrines for years, and many of our best members of late have been led off with them; and we have concluded that we will let no man preach in our church who has changed his religion, and is engaged in teaching these things. I despise a turncoat.

Paul—"Am I not an apostle? Have I not seen Jesus Christ our Lord?" We speak not in the words which man's wisdom teacheth, but in the words which the Holy Ghost teacheth. Comparing spiritual things with spiritual.

Trustee—You can't get our church, sir.

Apostle James—Could I be permitted to preach in your meeting house next Lord's day?

Trustee—What religion do you believe in?

James—"Pure and undefiled religion before God the Father."

Trustee—What do you call pure and undefiled religion?

James—"To visit the fatherless and widows in their afflictions, and keep himself unspotted from the world."

Trustee—We hold that religion is better felt than told.

James—But be ye doers of the word, and not hearers only, deceiving your own selves; for if any man be a hearer of the word, and not a doer, he is like unto a man beholding his natural face in a glass; for he beholdeth himself and goeth his way, and straightway forgetteth what manner of man he was.

Trustee—We have heard enough about this doing religion from the Campbellites, and we regard it all as a delusion of the devil. We hold that a man is justified by faith alone.

James—"Was not Abraham, our father, justified by works when he offered his son Isaac upon the altar?"

Trustee—That cannot be, for our creed says: "Wherefore that we are justified by faith only is a most wholesome doctrine, and very full of comfort." This most precious doctrine cannot—no, it shall not be given up.

James—"You see then how that by works man is justified, and not by faith only."

Trustee—We care nothing for your works; we know that if any man will pray that God will give him faith, that is, after he has repented.

James—"But let him ask in faith nothing wavering; for he that wavereth is like a wave of the sea driven with the wind and tossed. For let not that man think he shall receive anything from the Lord."

Trustee—I don't reckon you can preach these doctrines in our church.

B. F.

Religion is as necessary to reason as reason is to religion; the one cannot exist without the other. A reasoning being would lose his reason, in attempting to account for the great phenomena of nature, had he not a Supreme Being to refer to. If there had been no God, mankind would have been obliged to imagine one.

Obituaries.

Martha P. Richardson died March 2nd, 1884, at the home of Bro. G. W. Bills, Marshall County, Tenn. She was born June 16, 1841. She was a daughter of elder Thomas Richardson, who passed over the river some years ago. She obeyed the gospel at about the age of seventeen. Concerning her early life, the writer knows but little; but for the last three years of her life she lived in this neighborhood; during this time she seemed to be a devoted Christian, attending church all the time she was able. About eighteen months ago she took a cough, which proved to be consumption; she suffered a great deal, which was removed only by the hand of death. She was laid away in the family grave-yard of Bro. B. to await the resurrection morning.

B. F. HARR.

It becomes my painful duty to record the death of sister Alice W. Armes, who departed this life February 21, 1884; age, sixty-three years, ten months, and one day. Sister Armes was first married to Isaac W. Wade, of Virginia, January 4, 1838, who lived but a short time after their marriage. She was married, September 6, 1842, to Wm. J. Armes, near Lebanon, Tenn.; and some time after, they moved to Nashville, in which place she lived, till she moved from Nashville to her son-in-law, Bro W. R. Brown's, at Hardison's Mills, at which place she was summoned to cross the Jordan of death, to enjoy that blessed sleep, until the resurrection morn shall come. About forty years ago she listened to the truths of the gospel, presented by Bros. Fanning and Jones, and obeyed from the heart that form of doctrine delivered her, that she might be made free from sin, and become a servant of righteousness. Sister Armes leaves an only child, living, sister Willie B. Brown, and a number of grandchildren and friends, to mourn her loss. Sorrow not, as those that have no hope, for "blessed are the dead that die in the Lord, from henceforth, yea, saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labors, and their works do follow them." Let us look with bright anticipation to the precious promises revealed to us in the word of God; let us strive more and more to conform our entire lives to our Father's will; then, in the "sweet by-and-by," we can meet the dear ones who have gone before, never to part again, but to enjoy the blessings of our Father through the ceaseless ages of eternity.

Hardison's Mills, Tenn.

T. H. MILLS.

Our dear Bro. Gus. H. Harris fell asleep in Jesus on the 14th of April. His death was caused by that fatal manslayer—consumption. He emigrated to Rockdale, Texas last November, in the hope that his health might improve, that he might raise his precious children in the nurture and admonition of the Lord. He was born March 29th, 1838, was married March 2nd, 1858, and in the summer of 1878 was born again; the thought of which birth mingled with our sorrow ineffable joy. He was a merchant here at Bunker Hill for a number of years before he entered the church of God, during which time, he was noted for accommodations, honest dealings, and as a man devoid of hypocrisy. He was happily converted to the truth by Bro. W. H. Dixon, and near Petersburg, Tenn., was laid beneath the waves of "pure water" by our dear Bro. Jesse Sewell. He didn't leave his horses, wagons, vehicles, houses, lands, and pocket-book on the bank, but ferried them across into God's vineyard, and turned them over to the Lord. His provision room and pocket-book were ever open to the poor and needy, and yet no trumpet was ever sounded. He went about everywhere doing good, thereby imitating that dear Savior, who is now blessing him for his labors of love while here. He was a man with a large, full grown, yes, big soul, permeated, yes filled to overflowing by the pure, unadulterated love of God. He stood persecutions with the fortitude of an apostle, read the Bible and GOSPEL ADVOCATE closely, both of which he held to till death ended his labors, bequeathing the same legacy to his interesting family. He was conscious to the last. Expressed a perfect willingness to go, if it was the will of the Lord. He passed over the Jordan of death in the triumph of a living faith. "He has fought the good fight of faith and has laid hold on eternal life." His sufferings for two years were beyond the power of tongue to tell, yet in the close all seemed happy and tranquil as a marriage bell.

"Jesus removed the sting, and made his dying bed, Feel soft as downy pillows are;
While on "His breast" he leaned his head,
And breathed his life out sweetly there."

To the heart-broken widow we would say, that every tear you shed, should be a tear of joy at the blessed thought that your good and kind husband is now safe in the arms of Jesus, that dear friend on whom "our hopes" of heaven depend. Continue the work of raising your dear children in the nurture and admonition of the Lord, so nobly begun by your dear husband, that after awhile you may all be reunited in that world above where all is joy and all is love, with links too strong to be severed. May the God of all comfort be a husband, to the widow and a father to the fatherless ones, is my prayer for Christ sake, Amen! We tender to the bereaved family and relatives our deepest sympathies in this their sad bereavement.

M. H. NONGRACIOS.

Bunker Hill, Tenn.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure.

This powder never varies. A marvel of purity strength and wholesomeness. More economical than the ordinary kinds, and cannot be sold in competition with the multitude of low test, short weight alum or phosphate powders. Sold only in cans.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER CO., 106 Wall St., New York.

DYSPEPSIA.

Sedentary habits, mental worry, nervous excitement, excess or imprudence in eating or drinking, and various other causes, induce Constipation followed by general derangement of the liver, kidneys, and stomach, in which the disorder of each organ increases the infirmity of the others.

The immediate results are Loss of Appetite, Nausea, Foul Breath, Heartburn, Flatulence, Dizziness, Sick Headaches, failure of physical and mental vigor, distressing sense of weight and fullness in the stomach, and increased Costiveness, all of which are known under one head as Dyspepsia.

In every instance where this disease does not originate from scrofulous taint in the blood, AYER'S PILLS may be confidently relied upon to effect a cure. Those cases not amenable to the curative influence of AYER'S PILLS alone will certainly yield if the PILLS are aided by the powerful blood-purifying properties of AYER'S SARSAPARILLA.

Dyspeptics should know that the longer treatment of their malady is postponed, the more difficult of cure it becomes.

Ayer's Pills

Never fail to relieve the bowels and promote their healthful and regular action, and thus cure Dyspepsia. Temporary palliatives all do permanent harm. The fitful activity into which the enfeebled stomach is spurred by "bitters," and alcoholic stimulants, is inevitably followed by reaction that leaves the organ weaker than before.

"Costiveness, induced by my sedentary habits of life, became chronic; AYER'S PILLS afforded me speedy relief. Their occasional use has since kept me all right." HERMANN BRINGMOR, Newark, N. J.

"I was induced to try AYER'S PILLS as a remedy for Indigestion, Constipation, and Headache, from which I had long been a sufferer. I found their action easy, and obtained prompt relief. They have benefited me more than all the medicines ever before tried." M. V. WATSON, 153 State St., Chicago, Ill.

"They have entirely corrected the costive habit, and vastly improved my general health." REV. FRANCIS B. HARLOW, Atlanta, Ga.

"The most effective and the easiest physic I have ever found. One dose will quickly move my bowels and free my head from pain." W. L. PAGE, Richmond, Va.

"A sufferer from Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, and Neuralgia for the last twenty years, AYER'S PILLS have benefited me more than any medicine I have ever taken." P. K. ROGERS, Needmore, Brown Co., Ind.

"For Dyspepsia they are invaluable." J. T. HAYES, Mexico, Texas.

AYER'S PILLS,

PREPARED BY

Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

Sold by all Druggists.

THE SUGAR HAND BOOK

A NEW AND VALUABLE TREATISE ON SUGAR CANES, (including the Minnesota Early Amber) and their manufacture into Syrup and Sugar. Although comprised in small compass and furnished free to applicants, it is the BEST PRACTICAL MANUAL ON SUGAR CANES that has yet been published.

HELYER MANUFACTURING CO
Cincinnati O.
Manufacturers of Steam Sugar Machinery, Steam Engines, Victor Cane Mills, Food Sugar Refractor, etc.

PREWITT, SPURR & CO., MANUFACTURERS OF WOODEN WARE AND LUMBER, NASHVILLE, TENN.

Poplar and Pine Flooring, Ceiling, Weatherboarding, Sash, Doors, Blinds, Door and Window Frames, Brackets, Laths, Cedar Posts, Etc., Always on hand.

FACTORY AND MILLS IN EDGEFIELD.

NATHANIEL BAXTER, JR.,
President.

THOS. FLATER,
Vice President.

J. P. WILLIAMS,
Cashier.

W. F. BANG, JR.,
Ass't Cashier.

THE FIRST NATIONAL BANK, OF NASHVILLE, TENN. (Reorganized.)

Designated Depository and Financial Agent of the United States.

CAPITAL STOCK, - - - - - $500,000 00
UNDIVIDED PROFITS, - - - - - 190,000 00

Receives Deposits, Deals in United States Bonds and Local Securities, and Foreign and Domestic Exchange. Drafts drawn on all European points. Our facilities for making collections at all accessible points are unsurpassed.

P. A. SHELTON, DEALER IN STAPLE AND FANCY GROCERIES,

FLOUR, BACON, LARD, TOBACCO AND CIGARS, COUNTRY PRODUCE,
QUEENSWARE, GLASSWARE, TINWARE, LAMPS AND TRIMMINGS.

No. 96 BROAD STREET, - (Second door from College,) - NASHVILLE, TENN.

Special Attention Given to Filling Orders.

SOLE AGENT FOR "RINGLEADER" FLOUR.

ALEX. HOGAN.

JO. B. HALL.

HOGAN & HALL,

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DEALERS IN

GROCERIES, BACON, LARD,

—AND—

PURE WHISKIES AND WINES

For Medicinal Purposes.

106 Broad Street, - - NASHVILLE, TENN.

GOOD CLOTHING!

Gentlemen and boys who desire GOOD CLOTHING at medium prices, equal in style and make to any custom work, should not fail to examine our stock before purchasing their Outfits.

HUNTINGTON, Clothier,

160 Church Street, - - - NASHVILLE.

W. R. CORNELIUS, GENERAL FUNERAL UNDERTAKER.

OFFICE:
No. 17 North Summer Street,

RESIDENCE:
No. 413 Main Street.

Telephone 73 calls the Office; Telephone 271 calls the Residence.

Will furnish everything wanted at a funeral, and all first-class.
Prices as cheap as anybody else. 2a3m

THUSS, KOELLEIN & GIERS.

Successors to old Giers' Gallery.

PHOTOGRAPHERS!

139 Union Street, Nashville, Tenn.

CALVERT BROTHERS, PORTRAITS.

In Crayon, in Oil and Water Colors; Ivory Miniatures, &c., &c.,
Columbia Building, Cor. Union and Cherry Streets, Nashville, Tenn.

GEO. E. COOPER & CO.,

Wholesale Manufacturers and Dealers in

TINWARE, STOVES, FURNACES.

And House Furnishing Goods.

Tin and Slate Roofing and Galvanized Iron Cornice Work a Specialty.

Also our Patent Chimney Top for smoky chimneys, has no equal. Write for prices and address.

GEO. E. COOPER & CO.,

22 North Market Street,

Nashville, - - - Tennessee.

SHOW CASES,

CEDAR CHESTS, CEDAR WARDROBES,

Cabinet Work, and all kinds of Glass.

G. C. TERRY, Manufacturer,

No. 2 Hicks' Block, North Side Public Square, NASHVILLE, TENN.

F. A. BADGER, DENTIST

OFFICE

ODD FELLOWS' TEMPLE,

(Cor Church & High Sts.)

Nashville, Tennessee.

A Physician's Gift.

If you are a sufferer hoping for a permanent cure of Apoplectic or Epileptic

FITS,

a Free Trial Box of the celebrated Dr. JUSTICE SCHROEDER'S REMEDY for this disorder will be sent you, post-paid, free.

Every sufferer from this disease that is anxious to be cured should give these Powders an immediate trial. Large Box $3 00, two boxes $5 00

Address,

PHILIP HENRY,

49 South Street, New York City.

OWEN'S STATION SCHOOL.

The sixth annual session will open Sept. 3d, 1883, and continue Forty Weeks. The session is divided into two terms of twenty weeks each.

The expenses to boarders per term, are from $75.00 to $80.00. Music with use of Instrument, $25.00. $100.00 will pay for board, washing, full instruction in higher English Branches, Latin, Greek, French and Music. Bills due one-half at opening of term and remainder at middle. For any information, address

W. L. LIPSCOMB,

Brentwood, Tenn

AGENTS wanted for the History of Christianity, by Abbott. A grand chance. A $4 book at the popular price of $1.75. Liberal terms. The religious papers mention it as one of the few great religious works of the world. Greater success never known by agents. Terms free. STINSON & Co., Publisher, Portland, Maine.

DONT purchase your CHRISTMAS PRESENTS until you have seen our IMMENSE HOLIDAY CATALOGUE of Toys, Novelties, Fancy Goods, &c., mailed free. Address Eureka T. & N. Co., 37 Warren St., New York.

CATALOGUE of Best Books for Agents sent free, including Mother, Home and Heaven. $2.75. Please every body. 128,000 sold, $150 monthly. E. B. TRAT Publisher, New York.

THE POLICY OF REPRESSION.

PROTESTANTISM AND CRITICISM.

Protestant Christianity has its standards, formularies, creeds, confessions, whatever they may be. But it does not (as I have already shown) hold these as infallible. It refers evermore to Divine Authority as the infallible rule of faith and life. To this is its ultimate appeal. By this it tries its own standards, formularies, creeds, confessions.

It does not demand blind acceptance of these upon denominational authority. It does not even sanction such acceptance of denominational standards, but says evermore: "Search the Scriptures whether these things are so."

* * * * *

Accordingly, Protestant Christianity recognizes the rights of the individual conscience, the liberty of the individual Christian, the responsibility of the individual soul to truth and duty and God, the grace of the one only Mediator, the open communion to which each believing soul is called of God.

These Protestant principles imply conviction, not repression; persuasion, not compulsion; dogma, but not dictation.

Further, while it is untrue that Protestant Christianity demands or sanctions blind acceptance of denominational creeds and confessions, it is also untrue that Protestant Christianity demands blind acceptance of the Sacred Scriptures. On the other hand, it encourages and enjoins full examination and devout study of the Word of God. It does this the more readily because it rests assured that full examination will secure conviction, and devout study will secure cordial acceptance. It does this the more urgently, because it rests assured that the divine reason addresses the human reason through the written and the living Word, and that divine love reveals itself to the human heart through the written and the living Word—the Scriptures and the Christ.

Striving to reform the Christian Church upon the primitive foundation, Protestant Christianity would have all men examine and test the foundation to find that it is primitive and impregnable. In this way alone can we securely and successfully build. Or, to change the figure, in this way can we best stand fast in the faith and quit ourselves like men. Hence, whether Papist or Protestant will or no, investigation, criticism will go on. Willingly and unwillingly the world is obeying the injunction of Christ: "Search the Scriptures." Religion cannot, if it would, withdraw from rational inquiry. The Christian religion, claiming the world as its heritage, especially cannot, if it would, withdraw its divine charter—the inspired Scriptures—from the world's search and scrutiny. If a degenerate Church, arrogating spiritual and civil power, has sealed, condemned, imprisoned, chained the inspired Scriptures beneath the tyranny of repression, they have broken the chains, unbarred the doors and gone forth to proclaim the Gospel, proving that, like their Divine Lord, they cannot be holden of death or of bonds.

But Protestantism is influenced by other than negative reasons, or any positive necessity which it would, if it could, resist. It would seek and find and proclaim the Scriptures; not merely protest, but reform. Its formative principle is, and ever has been, to ascertain and apply the Divine Authority. In this is the rule of faith and life—the all-sufficient rule, the only all-sufficient rule, the only all-sufficient infallible rule of faith and life.

Creeds, formularies, confessions, etc., are human, finite, fallible. They may be recognized by a religious company, or organization, or band, and may be effective as ecclesiastical bonds reaching so far forth as the voluntary acceptance or compact, and may avail for ecclesiastical organization, discipline, etc., within that voluntary limit. But beyond that limit they cannot avail. And, even within limit, they cannot control the conscience. By the very terms of the compact, by the very nature of the case, as human, finite, fallible, they cannot bind or control the conscience. They themselves are to be tried by the only, all-sufficient, infallible rule—the Divine Authority—the standard of standards. This latter, when found, does bind the conscience, does regulate the will, does control the life and conduct.

It is important, then, if not an essential principle of Protestantism, to seek and find this standard, to search the Scripture, to learn the divine word and will, and thus know of the doctrines, encouraged ever and warmed by the divine assurance: "If ye know these things, happy are ye if ye do them."

Here, at once, by this faultless method of progressive approach, we find a way and a warrant for criticism—sincere, studious, scholarly, searching criticism—that we may secure for ourselves and others "the law and the testimony," in its simplicity and integrity, if possible, with all corruptions purged away, all excrescences eliminated, all traditions and commandments of men that would make void the law of God expunged. Here is a place, and more, a demand for "Higher" and "Lower Criticism," in their best and fullest service, that we may find the truth as it is in Jesus.

Having thus found the divine law and testimony, if possible, in primal purity and perfection, we (each and all) are to study it with supreme interest and reverence, and with all the helps at our command, that we may know the mind of the Spirit who inspired this divine law and testimony. 1 Pet. i: 9-12. This is the Petrine method, by which we may attain the end of our faith, even the salvation of our souls. 1 Pet. i: 9.

This is the Pauline method, which the Bereans sedulously pursued, and for which they were commended as more noble than those in Thessalonica—Acts xvii: 11. This is the Master's method, enjoined upon all his disciples, involving the supreme practical issue of eternal life—John v: 39. Hence, again, we say Protestantism is more than a protest. It is a reformation. It not only rejects arrogated human infallibility; it restores the Divine Authority. It reinstates the scriptural method, seeking, finding, appealing to "the law and the testimony"—satisfied only, but satisfied fully when it has the word of God.

Here again, we say, is a place, a demand, for criticism—the higher and the lower criticism—criticism of literature and language, of texts and translations and variations, of genuineness and authenticity and credibility; in a word, criticism until the trustworthiness appears clear, complete, conclusive.

But not only is there need of fairest, fullest criticism, that we may have the Scriptures, if possible, in primal purity and perfection, but also that we may, in the best manner, understand them. It has been well said that, "while the Scriptures are from God, the understanding of them belongs to the part of men." Each for himself should earnestly study every Scripture, and combine and compare all Scriptures, employing all accessible helps, human and divine, that he may the better grow in grace and in the knowledge of the truth, and have wherewith to answer and convince the gainsayers.

This obligation rests upon the Church in her public as well as private capacity, and especially upon those who would be teachers of the people.

Protestantism, prizing the Bible as a special gift from God, should strive in the most effective way to make the gift available; with every accessible help, divine and human, holding it in its integrity; seeking to understand it; making it intelligible to all; guarding it against misconception and perversion.

Revealed religious truth, however constant and invariable, will challenge comparison from the variable and inconstant.

Religious truth will be seen by the unlearned multitude, on the one hand, and the learned, on the other, through different as well as varying media. This will need to be adjusted and harmonized. Maturer science will challenge, and will be challenged by cruder science to comparison. Increasing scholarship will challenge the former scholarly presentation of revealed truths, and thus advance to more exact definitions of doctrine and more precise statement, and thus contribute to larger and better apprehension of the Scriptures.

As a combined resultant, criticism will rise to a higher level and into a clearer atmosphere, whence it will desire and endeavor to present religion in its truer, clearer light—a divine light and life, as when at first inspired and uttered by the holy men of God, who spake as they were moved by the Holy Ghost.

The more thorough the criticism the better. Let the superficial give place to the solid, the loose and liberal to the loyal, the partisan to the pure; in a word, the false to the true.

There is place and demand for the higher as well as the lower criticism. How else shall we assure ourselves and others? How else can we stand before friends and foes? Let not the lower criticism which has, hitherto, freely ranged the sacred field, grudge a place to the higher criticism, nor let the higher disparage or repel the lower. Rather, let both, in growing harmony, co-operate in vindicating and verifying and interpreting the Scriptures, that we may the more fully know the mind of the Spirit. Inheritors of all attainable knowledge, we need not despise or reject any. Paul did not. "Science falsely so-called," he rejected, and "vain philosophy" he despised. But real philosophy and true science and correct scholarship he approved, and appropriated to the supreme service of the gospel. These survivors need not be against the truth, but should be for the truth.

Here we fix the proper office of criticism—to distinguish between the true and the false, and, if competent as judge, to separate the one from the other, and exalt the truth to honor.

The aim of criticism should be, not display of scholarship or courage or eccentricity; not notoriety or victory; but truth. Otherwise it is at once false and foolish, deserving only to be impaled and slain. True criticism, authorized criticism seeks the truth. Hence it is constructive, not destructive. Thus Eichhorn, "the father of Higher Criticism," though he did not always grasp the truth, vindicates his undertaking by this simple confession: "If learning, shrewdness and other qualifications which I desire for this work should fall me, certainly no one will find me lacking love of the truth and strict investigation."

Thus Bertheau vindicates him, asserting that "he sought to defend the Bible against the scorn of its enemies," and that, "in common with Herder, he helped to awaken, in wide circles, love to the Bible and enthusiastic investigation." This example of "the father of higher criticism" indicates at once and illustrates the vital distinction between the criticism which seeks to destroy and that which seeks to defend the Scriptures. But unfriendly criticism may be helpful by challenging the best endeavor in reply, and thus developing the latent energy of the Church, and fortifying and vindicating the Scriptures. Even weak and wicked criticism may, unwittingly, work for good by eliciting its own refutation and a better defense of the truth. Thus the Sophists evoked from Socrates the Socratic method, by which they learned to know themselves and their own sophistry. Thus the Scholastics drew from Lord Bacon the inductive method from facts leading at once to a real knowledge of matter and mind and to the scholastic legerdemain.

Thus Materialism and Pantheism and Agnosticism have elicited the confutation of Hobbes and Spinoza and Comte, as well as the confirmation of a better philosophy. Thus did the repressive policy of the Papal Church challenge the Reformers to recall Christendom to the authority of the inspired Scriptures, and reform the Christian Church on the primitive foundation, and restore the era of Christian freedom and Christian faith.

But let critics, however high or low, remember that they, too, will be weighed in the balances. Criticism will be tested whether it be true to natural phenomena in science, and true to material, mental and moral facts in philosophy, and true to revealed truth in theology. Hence, let criticism be more strict and scholarly, more thorough and exact; in a word, let criticism be critical toward itself.

True science must at length correct the false and recall the wanderers. Science appeals, as it should, as it must appeal to the volume of Nature, material and mental. There is one—but one—volume. Its authority for science must be supreme. The duty of science is to accept and "interpret this volume; not to ignore, reject, or pervert it. So there is a science that is true; and it is one, however manifold and pretentious the false may be.

There is one standard for philosophy—the system of Nature, material and mental. It will not do for philosophy to ignore, reject or pervert it, but learn and interpret with docility and fidelity. So real philosophy, by virtue of persistent right, will, at length, check sophistical vagaries. For real philosophy is one, however manifold may be the spurious.

Christianity has one unerring standard—the Scriptures. It will not do to ignore, reject or pervert this; but cordially should we accept and reverently study this all-sufficient rule of faith and life. So scriptural Christianity will at length rectify or remove the perverted. For there is one Christ, and the Scriptures cannot be broken.

Wisely, then, if not willingly, let all reciprocate this feeling of investigation. It will be exercised by each, even if it be not reciprocally extended. The genius of the reformation authorizes it. The authority of Scripture ordains it. "Prove all things; hold fast that which is good." "Try (even) the spirits. The world has experienced too much of the spirit of the reformation, and too much of the light of Scripture, to surrender this freedom or allow it to be repressed by Papist or Protestant.—Prof. R. B. Welch, D. D., Auburn Theological Seminary.

ITEMS, PERSONALS, ETC.

Bros. E. S. B. Waldron and J. K. Blackman will both take subscriptions to the Advocate in their travels.

The church at Fort Worth, Texas, sustains Bro. A. L. Johnson to teach in the destitute fields of Tarrant County.

Bro. Cave was unable to attend the church services on Sunday, 25th. We are glad to know that he has since been able to be out.

We have received announcement of Mars Hill College for 84-5. It is neatly printed; sixteen pages. Send to T. B. Larimore, Florence, Ala., for copies.

Bro. E. H. Boyd, Jasper, Tenn., writes: "I am now evangelizing in Sequatchie Valley, and am almost alone in the work. The work is slowly, but surely gaining footing in my field of labor, and the prospect is hopeful."

Bro. Dr. Hurt, of Springfield, Tenn., was in our office the past week. He represents that the brethren in Springfield, though few in number, have determined to build a house of worship. We wish them success in the work.

John. D. Stalker, Hartsville, Tenn., May 23, writes: "Bro. Elam commenced a meeting here Wednesday night. Two additions Wednesday night, and one last night. Had a fine attendance, and we hope that much good will be done."

Bro. Trimble, of Mt. Sterling, Ky., who is travelling in the interest of the Midway Orphan School, spent a day or two in our city the past week. He was canvassing the lower belt of counties in Kentucky, and concluded to come over and see our city.

The past week has been examination week, devoted to the closing exercises of many schools. Vanderbilt University, The Normal, Fisk University, and Ward's Seminary, of our city, all have closed out with exercises that have pleased their friends and interested the public.

Bro. W. H. Sandy, Noblett's Chapel, May 25, writes: "Bro. H. C. Abernathy preached for us to-day; had a good turn out, and good interest. Bro. Abernathy is a good speaker; he preaches the old Jerusalem and Pentecost doctrine. We have a good Lord's day school, and are doing some excellent work."

J. R. Bradley, Lynnville, Tenn., May 28, writes: "Two of our best members at Robertson's Fork are gone to their reward: Bro. F. W. Hill, of Oddfellow Hall, and H. J. Griffin, of Robertson's Fork. Oh, how sad! I suppose suitable obituaries for both will be furnished for the Advocate. I preached last Sunday at a new place. None of our brethren have ever been there before."

Bro. T. C. Little, Frindship, Tenn., May 25th, writes: "Had a good hearing for an untoward day. This little band of disciples have done much good in the past, and will do more in the future, if they continue faithfully. Was prevented from filling my appointment at Petersburg at 4 p. m., by a heavy rain falling; hope to be more successful fourth Sunday in July. We are expecting D. L. at Fayetteville second Sunday in July, and for several days following."

There seems to be an epidemic of defalcations among bank officers, and of failures among banks up North. Gen. Grant is criticised severely for his connection with a rotten house. The citizens had raised him $250,000 placed in the hands of trustees, the interest to be devoted to his support. It is thought this ought to have satisfied him, without engaging in doubtful speculations.

W. B. Wright, Coopertown, Tenn., May 23, writes: "Bro. E. G. Sewell and myself commenced a meeting with the church at Forest Hill, Montgomery county, Tenn., the first Lord's day in this month, which lasted, day and night, until Wednesday night. Wet weather and busy season greatly hindered our meeting, but it was by no means a failure. One man of influence and ability was added to the little band. A few of these disciples meet every Lord's day. May they ever be faithful in the good work."

Bro. Dixon, one of our best agents, and most active and effective preachers, writes that he intends to try to send a hundred dollars for subscriptions to the Advocate. When he tries, he succeeds. How many more will try to send us a good list? Only $1.00 from 1st of May until end of year. Bro. Dixon, in this work, does double preaching. He preaches himself, he preaches through every paper he sends out. The paper stirs many who read it, to interest themselves and work. Will not others emulate his example?

Bro. F. C. Sowell, Columbia, Tenn., writes: "I was much pleased to meet with the brethren at Thompson's Station on Saturday evening and Lord's day morning, May 17 and 18. The non-attendance seems to be the greatest trouble existing with this congregation. We have been making some strong efforts to get the brethren to understand the important duty of meeting every first day of the week. I have never visited a congregation but what I found some who were very delinquent in regard to meeting every first day of the week. In the days of the apostles it was the duty of the disciples to meet every first day to break bread, and so it is now. Preached at Bethlehem on Lord's day evening. We think much good can be done at this place yet."

Bro. J. L. Sewell, Viola, Tenn., May 22, writes: "I have been preaching every Lord's day since in March. I was at Pleasant Plains, in Coffee County, last Lord's day, where I have been preaching a good deal for three years. There is a zealous working little band of disciples there; but they have had to contend against very strong opposition from the denominations around them, and for a good while but very few except the members would come to hear the gospel. But their prospects are much better now; they have had ten or twelve additions in the two years, and the people are turning out well to hear the gospel. Brother Polk Wilkinson and Bro. Polk Sims are doing a good work, not only in the congregation, but by preaching the gospel in the surrounding country."

Bro. H. F. Williams, Cyruston, Tenn., May 24, writes: "I spent several days visiting in the neighborhood of—preached to a good crowd on third Lord's day. A large membership here. Financially able to do much; spiritually, they seem to do little. A few faithful ones try to carry on Sunday-school. Other members, some heads of families, sit out under the trees on logs, rocks, etc., in groups, talking promiscuously, their children roaming at large, while the few labor under many discouragements with the lesson on the inside. I could hear of no missionary work being done, and they are considerably behind with Bro. ——. The contribution, too, I noticed, was "exceedingly slimly attended." Brethren, these things ought not so to be. The Master has died and sacrificed for our salvation. Why do we? He says, "occupy till I come." Remember your mission and reward."

General News.

One end of the New Bennett-Mackay Atlantic Cable was landed at Rockport, Mass., last week. The steamer "Faraday," which carries the cable, proceeded to Dover Bay, N. S., and will sail thence toward the coast of Ireland, paying out 1,000 miles of cable, the entire amount on board.

—The Wall Street excitement has been followed by a general depression of stocks. The suspension of a few small firms last week, failed to create more than slight ripples of excitement. The chief occurrences of the week were the following: The Westside Bank lost $85,000 through a defaulting paying teller, and was forced to suspend; the Atlantic Bank, of Brooklyn, passed into the hands of a receiver; Ferdinand Ward was arrested and lodged in jail; a warrant was issued for the arrest of the ex-President John C. Eno, but he could not be found; the other ex-President, James D. Fish, was found and arrested.

—The total debt of the city of Boston on April 30th is reported to have been $43,277,670, an increase of $1,996,310 during the year.—The National Anti-Monopoly Convention, which met in Chicago, nominated Gen. B. F. Butler for President.—The city of New Haven, Conn., will celebrate its centennial anniversary, July 4th, next. The city reached its hundredth anniversary in February, but it was decided to postpone the celebration until July.—The Belmont coal mines, in Northern Alabama, have suspended on account of the failure of Grant & Ward. U. S. Grant, jr., was the principal stockholder.—The colossal statue of Martin Luther, in front of the Lutheran Memorial Church, in Washington, was unveiled on the 21st inst. The ceremonies were presided over by Justice Miller of the Supreme Court.—Dr. T. A. Atchison has resigned his position in the Board of Public Works in this city. Col. Geo. W. Darden has been elected to fill the vacancy.—A Baltimore man has been sentenced to three months imprisonment, and to pay a fine of twenty-five dollars, for lying in a house trade. Judge Stewart said it was the first time in his experience that he ever knew a man to be convicted of making false representations in a house trade, and expressed a hope that others would take warning and deal more truthfully.—It is rumored that Senator Anthony will soon resign his seat in the Senate, on account of ill health.—The suspension bridge across the Scioto river, at Portsmouth, Ohio, fell last week while cattle were crossing it. Four children, named Fulwell, who went down with the bridge, were drowned.—The Greenbackers have nominated Gen. B. F. Butler for President, and Gen. A. M. West, of Mississippi, for Vice-President.—The effort to secure subscription to take $500,000 first mortgage bonds, in the city, for the Green River Railroad, seems to be pressed with great vigor, and meets with good success. About $360,000 have been subscribed.—The Democratic Convention of Tennessee, to nominate candidates for the State offices, and to send delegates to Chicago to nominate candidates for President and Vice President, is called to meet in the Capitol in Nashville, June 12, 1884.

FOREIGN.—The British ship, Syria, has been wrecked at the Fiji Islands. Seventy of her passengers, all coolies, were drowned.—China has conferred upon Admiral Lepes, the commander of the French squadron in Chinese waters, the order of the Double Dragon, which carries with it the title of Mandarin.—Queen Victoria's sixty-sixth birthday was celebrated on the 24th.

—It is reported that the number of the followers of the Cuban insurgent Agüero, is steadily increasing.—King Alfonso opened the Cortes in Madrid, on Tuesday of last week. He announced that the commercial treaty with England would be submitted to the Cortes. He stated also that the rank of the Spanish representative at London would hereafter be that of minister instead of ambassador, and promised that the pay of the soldiers should be increased, and the system of taxation reformed.—A fierce encounter took place between the Kossuth and Government parties, near Erlane, Austria, on May 29. Five persons were killed, and many wounded.—Lord Tennyson has been elected president of the Society of Authors, formed chiefly for the purpose of effecting an international copyright law between England and America. Matthew Arnold is vice president of the association.

Home Reading.

FOR THE CHILDREN.

BY UNCLE MINOR.

There are many beautiful stories in the Bible. Many of them my mother read to me when a very little boy, and even now I never get tired of reading them. One of the most touching and tender stories we find is the history of Ruth and Naomi.

There was a famine in the land of Judea, and Naomi and her husband, with two sons, determined to go to the land of Moab, thinking they would find a pleasant home and better their condition. Naomi was raised in Bethlehem among the people who worshiped the true God. Her husband died in the strange land of Moab; her two sons married in that country, and about ten years afterwards, her sons died, leaving the three widows, very poor, sad and lonely. Famine at last came upon that land, and in addition to their sorrow they were suffering for something to eat. So Naomi decided to go back to where she was raised, among those whom she loved and those who worshiped the true God, for the idol gods could not give her comfort in her affliction. So her two daughters-in-law decided to go with her, for they both loved her very much. But after they started, Naomi looked at them with pity, and saw they were young and were leaving the scenes of their childhood. So she said, "Go, return each to your mother's house; the Lord deal kindly with you, as you have dealt with the dead, and with me."

Then they kissed each other and wept. Orpah said, "good-by," and went. But not so with Ruth. She would not leave, although Naomi said to her "Thy sister-in-law is gone back to her people and her gods. Will you not go?" And Ruth said, "Entreat me not to leave thee, or to return from following after thee; for where you goest, I will go; and where thou lodgest, I will lodge; thy people shall be my people, and thy God my God." She thought of the kind and tender words of a good mother-in-law, and of the great God she worshiped, and also of the time when death would come. She said again, "Where thou diest I will die, and there will I be buried; the Lord do so to me, and more also, if aught but death part thee and me."

The God whom Ruth loved and honored, had followed them, and after two hard days' travel through the hot sun and along the dusty dry road, they came to Bethlehem. It was the custom among those people after the day's work was over, they would gather in great crowds about the city gates, and along the roads leading into the city, to talk over old times, and the young people to enjoy themselves. It was getting late in the evening, when the people saw two lonely women trudging along, carrying some bundles and a jug of water. As they came near, some one said, "It appears like a familiar face. Is not this Naomi?" "Call me not so," she said, "but call me Mara," (Naomi means pleasant, and Mara means bitter,) "for the Lord has given me bitter days since I left here. I went out full, but I again come empty." The two women would not beg, nor throw themselves away because they were poor; but soon found an honest way to make a living. Naomi was possibly getting old, and the long journey had made her very tired; but Ruth was young and able to work. So after finding a lodging place for Naomi, she went into the barley fields to gather up what the reapers had wasted, which was always given to the poor. Ruth found favor with the man who owned the field, for he told his reapers to watch her kindly and to drop some sheaves so she could get them. When she saw him, I expect she blushed and was much embarrassed. She said, "why have I found grace in thy sight, seeing I am a stranger?" and he told her what he had heard of all she had done for her mother-in-law, and of all she had left to come into a strange land. And he said "The Lord recompense thy work, and a full reward be given thee of the Lord, under whose wings thou art come to trust."

Finally she married this same man, who was kind and good to her and Naomi—and from her child and family came the Babe of Bethlehem. So dear children, remember this story of Ruth and Naomi, and try to be as faithful to your loved ones as they were to each other.

HELPING THE WICKED ONE.

Walking by the wayside, home from church, along the smooth, broad pavement of the city, the whole family moves along together, the mother feeling very complacent in her handsome silk and new bonnet, and the father stepping quite proudly beside his pretty wife.

The young people have all been dutifully drilled to go to church with their parents, unless they have some good excuse for staying at home. So they are all here, except the eldest daughter, whose new dress was not quite finished, though the sewing girl worked hard on it until late Saturday evening. Little five-year-old Emma holds her father's hand; George, next older, walks beside his mother; while two bright misses of ten and twelve, follow in their parents' footsteps. Lily, the elder, looks serious and quiet. Some good seed, perchance, has found a tender, moist spot in her young heart, and may take root and bring forth fruit to the glory of God.

Alas! the mother's voice breaks heedlessly in upon the sober thoughts of the child: "Don't you think Mr. — is failing very much? he does not preach near so well as he did at first,—do you think he does? There was not a thing in that sermon to-day. I could not keep myself awake all I could do, and you did not try, you were fast asleep before he was half through."

Both laughed as if it was a very amusing thing to throw contempt on a man's faithful earnest labor.

"It certainly was a poor sermon; but he may not have been feeling very well, I believe he was sick the other day," remarked the father.

"But I don't think a minister has any business to preach unless he can do it well, so that his congregation will enjoy hearing him. Don't you agree with me, Mrs. —?" she added as an acquaintance stepped up beside her.

"Indeed I do," replied her friend; "I wish we could find some one who would give us good sermons all the time."

And yet," mused Lily, "he said he had a message from the King of kings, and I thought it was meant for me."

"But I believe, after all," continued the mother, "I would rather listen to our own minister than to that little fellow he had preaching for him last Sunday; his gestures were as awkward as a school-boy's, and his whining voice made me so nervous I could scarcely sit still."

"And he," thought Lily, "told us he was an ambassador for Christ."

"I couldn't sit still either," said little Emma.

"No, you never do," replied the mother carelessly.

"I liked the young preacher best," spoke up Master George, "because he did not preach so long."

"Well," questioned Lily in her heart, "if father and mother, who are Christians, see no good in the sermons, why need I disturb myself; surely if they believed what the preacher said, they would talk to me about it sometimes. I reckon it will be time enough for me to think about being a Christian when I am grown."

"Ah! whither had the good seed gone? Had not the parents, her own father and mother, played the part of the Evil One in taking away the word out of her heart, lest she should believe and be saved? And who can calculate the number of souls that have been lost, turned out of the way, by just such thoughtless criticisms on the way home from church, or even at any time?" Miss Annie E. Wilson.

LETTER TO UNCLE MINOR.

Dear Uncle Minor: I am thirteen years old, my home is in Lewisburg, Tenn. We have a good congregation, I have been a member of the church one year. We have been feasting on good preaching. Dr. Brents' preached the fifth Sunday in March, two or three interesting discourses on first principles. Two additions from the Methodists. Bro. Kidwell preached a series of discourses on the witness of the spirit April 2nd. Bro. Campbell, of Lynville, was here third Sunday in April. Bro. Henry Williams was here several Sundays in May. He is one of Bro. Larimore's students, and a good one. We had a Sunday-school picnic, it was a happy day for us children, we appreciate your letters, write often, this is enough for the first time.—[Robbie Neil, Lewisburg, Tenn.]

THE KING'S MESSAGE.

"Good-morning, Brother B."

"Good-morning; we are having fine weather to-day!"

"Yes; such a Sabbath morning as this, it seems as though all nature welcomed the 'sweet day of rest.' How is it you are going my way?"

"Oh well, I don't feel like going to church to-day."

"I am afraid you will be the loser."

"It may be so. The truth is, I think our minister is a little dull."

"Don't you think he preaches the truth?"

"Well, yes, there is no doubt about that; why Mr. P. told me yesterday, he did not think there was another man within twenty miles that could write a sermon equal to the one we had last Sabbath. But then, I like to see a man move around in the pulpit. If his hair was darker, and beard heavier, and he weighed fifty weight more, I should like to look at him better."

"I am reminded of what my boy asked me this morning. After listening to the account of Elijah's being fed by the ravens, he said, 'Please tell me about the raven.' I asked him did he remember the crow John shot and hung in the cornfield. I suppose the raven was something like the crow."

"He said, 'Oh, I should like a prettier bird to feed me. Wouldn't a peacock be nice?'"

"I thought how natural for Elijah to have said, 'The bread and flesh are good, but I should like a little savory meat, and then the raven is an unclean bird. I must be fed by a dove, the emblem of purity.' So I turned back and read the fourth verse, where God said, 'I have commanded the ravens to feed thee.'"

"I see now, friend A. I will go along with you to church."

"I am right glad to have you. Let us go, expecting a message from the King through his ambassador."

IT IS YOUR TONGUE.

It is your tongue; it belongs to you, and is the only one for which you are responsible. Your neighbors' tongues may need care also, but that is their business; this is yours. See that it is properly attended to. Watch your tongue. It needs watching. It "is an unruly evil"—watch it. It "is like a fire"—watch it. It is a helm, which guides the vessel; let the helmsman keep wide awake. It can bless or it can curse; it can poison or heal; it can pierce hearts and blight hopes; it can sow discord and separate chief friends. Watch that tongue! No one but you can take care of that tongue. You are its only ruler. Your neighbors may hate it, or fear it, or wish they could bridle it, but they cannot do it. You have the power—watch that tongue. That tongue has already got you into trouble; it may do it again. It is "set on fire of hell." It burns up peace, blessing, reputation and hope. It causes sad days, weary nights, tearful eyes, and heavy hearts. "If a man will love life and see good days, let him refrain from evil, and his lips that they speak no guile." Watch that tongue. It is the glory of man. It distinguishes him from brutes. It was bought with blood by the Son of God. He claims it as his. It should speak his praise; misemployed, it may degrade yourself and those around you. You are charged to attend to it. Watch that tongue. The Lord watches that tongue. "There is not a word in my tongue, but lo, O Lord thou knowest it altogether." For every idle word we must give account in the day of judgement. What will be the record of that tongue then? Watch that tongue.—Watch-Tower.

The beautiful worship of God as our Father is distinguished by this very thing, that its chief exercise of love is in putting trust in the very perfections of God, which, to an unloving mind, would produce fear. It is a great act of love to trust, like a son, God's tremendous power. There can be no confidence without the filial feeling. We always get back to the point, God is our Father.—F. W. Faber.

A cottage will not hold the bulky furniture and sumptuous accommodations of a mansion; but if God be there, a cottage will hold as much happiness as might stock a palace.—Jas. Hamilton.

A Prominent Minister Writes.

Dr. Mosley—Dear Sir: After ten years of great suffering from indigestion or dyspepsia, with great nervous prostration and biliousness, disordered kidneys and constipation. I have been cured by two bottles of your Lemon Elixir, and am now a well man.

REV. C. C. DAVIS, Elder M. E. Church South.
No. 28 Tattall St. Atlanta, Ga.

From Two Prominent Ladies.

I have not been able in two years to walk or stand without suffering great pain. Since taking Dr. Mosley's Lemon Elixir, I can walk half mile without suffering the least inconvenience.

Mrs. E. H. BLOODWORTH, Griffin, Ga.

Dr. H. Mosley: After years of suffering from indigestion, great debility and nervous prostration, with the usual female irregularities and derangements accompanying such condition of a woman's health I have been permanently relieved by the use of your Lemon Elixir.

Mrs. E. DENNIS,
Mo. 48 Chapel St., Atlanta, Ga.

d. Pratt, druggist, Wright City, Missouri, writes: Lemon Elixir gives the greatest satisfaction. It has cured a case of chills and fever of four years standing.

Dr. Mosley's Lemon Elixir, prepared at his Drug Store, 114 Whitehall Street Atlanta, Ga.

It cures all biliousness, constipation, indigestion, headache, malarial, kidney disease, fever, chills, impurities of the blood, loss of appetite, debility and nervous prostration and all other diseases caused from diseased Liver and Kidneys.

Fifty cents for one pint bottle, one dollar for pint and a half bottle. Sold by druggist generally, and all wholesale druggist, Louisville, Ky.

Miscellaneous.*"Made New Again."

Mrs. Wm. D. Ryckman, St. Catharines, Ont., says: "R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., I have used your 'Favorite Prescription,' 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and 'Pleasant Purgative Pellets,' for the last three months and find myself—(what shall I say)—'made new again' are the only words that express it. I was reduced to a skeleton, could not walk across the floor without fainting, could keep nothing on my stomach. Myself and friends had given up all hope, my immediate death seemed certain. I now live to the surprise of everybody and am able to do my own work."

For sufferers of Chronic Diseases, 36 pp, symptoms, remedies, helps, advice. Send stamp—Dr. Whittier, St. Louis, Mo., (oldest office.) State case your way.

Eminent J. J. Caldwell, Baltimore, Md.,

States: "I have used Coldens Liquid Beef Tonic largely in debility, febrile and nervous diseases, and I have found it one of the most reliable of nutrient tonics now in use or to be found in pharmacy." (Take no other.) Of druggists.

Dr. KLINE's Great Nerve Restorer is the marvel of the age for all Nerve Diseases. All fits stopped free. Send to 931 Arch Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets" are perfect preventives of consumption. Inclosed in glass bottles, always fresh. By all druggists.

"You can easily make your skin white and soft." "How?" "Use Glenn's Sulphur Soap."

SANITARIUM, Riverside, Cal. The dry climate cures. Nose, Throat, Lungs, full idea, 36p, route, cost free.

Catarrh Cured.

A Clergyman, after suffering a number of years from that dreadful disease Catarrh, and after trying every known remedy without success, at last found a prescription which completely cured and saved him from death. Any sufferer from this dreadful disease sending a self-addressed stamped envelope to Dr. J. A. LAWRENCE, Brooklyn, N. Y. will receive the recipe free of charge.

Voice of the People.

R. V. Pierce, M. D., Buffalo, N. Y.: I had a serious disease of the lungs, and was for a time confined to my bed and under the care of a physician. His prescriptions did not help me. I grew worse, coughing very severely. I commenced taking your "Golden Medical discovery," and it cured me. Yours respectfully, Judith Burnett, Hillsdale, Mich.

Pike's Toothache Drops cure in one minute.

Hemorrhage and Asthma.

Extracts from letters of persons who were cured with East India Hemp, and now order for their friends.

"I know all about the Cannabis India. Fifteen years ago it cured my daughter of the Asthma; she had it very bad for several years, but was perfectly cured. Please send me a box of your medicine." JACOB TROUT, Deep River, Poweshick Co., Iowa.

"I fear Cousin is in a decline, and as thy medicines cured my only brother of a hemorrhage of the lungs about a year ago, I wish Cousin to take them." Thy true friend, HANNAH MICKLE, Near Woodbury, N. J. None but pint bottles. $2.50 per bottle, or three bottles for $6.50. Address, CRADDOCK & CO., Sole Proprietors, 1032 Race Street, Philadelphia, Pa.

LADIES! ONLY.

For 25 cents we will send you a three months subscription to our large 16 page Illustrated Household and Fashion Magazine, and present each new subscriber 26 large samples of beautiful silks, assorted colors, for crazy patchwork. For 50c. we will send the Magazine six months, and give you free a large package, assorted silks, for which other firms charge one dollar. For $1.00 dollar we will send the Magazine one year and give you two large packages and our new book. The Ladies Guide to Fancy Work. If you will get up a club of five of either 3, 6, or 12 month subscribers, we will send you for your trouble a subscription and premium free. Mention this paper when you write. M. J. STODDART & CO., 126 Chambers St., N. Y.

AN INSTANTANEOUS SUCCESS!

THE CHRISTIAN SUNDAY SCHOOL HYMNAL

STYLES AND PRICES.

Boards, single copy, by mail.....	30
" per dozen, by express.....	3 00
" per hundred.....	25 00
Silk cloth, red edge, single copy.....	40
" per dozen, by express.....	4 00
" per hundred.....	32 00
Morocco, red edge, single copy.....	1 50
" gilt edge.....	2 00
" full gilt.....	3 00

WORD EDITION.

Boards, single copy, by mail.....	15
" per dozen, by express.....	1 50
" per hundred.....	10 00
Cloth, red edges, single copy, by mail.....	20
" per dozen, by express.....	2 00

All books sold at the dozen or hundred price will be sent by express at expense of purchaser. We send by mail prepaid at single copy price.

Send for circulars and testimonials.

Address

CHRISTIAN PUBLISHING CO.,
St. Louis, Mo.

WEBSTER.

In Sheep, Russia and Turkey Bindings.

Get the Standard.

GET THE BEST Webster—it has 118,000 Words, 3000 Engravings, and a New Biographical Dictionary. Standard in Gov't Printing Office. 32,000 copies in Public Schools. Sale 20 to 1 of any other series. Said to make a Family intelligent. Best help for SCHOLARS, TEACHERS and SCHOOLS.

The vocabulary contains 3000 more words than are found in any other American Dictionary.

The Unabridged is now supplied, at a small additional cost, with DENISON'S

PATENT REFERENCE INDEX.

"The greatest improvement in book-making that has been made in a hundred years."

G. & C. MERRIAM & CO., Pub'rs, Springfield, Mass.

AGENTS Wanted for handsome illustrated standard works of character; great variety; low in price; selling fast; needed everywhere. Liberal terms. Wm. Garretson & Co., 30 College St., Nashville, Tenn.

The GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER

Dr. Samuel Hodges' Aterative Compound Sarsaparilla with Iodide Potash. This compound is purely vegetable, each article of ingredient is perfectly harmless in itself, having been selected from roots and herbs possessing great medicinal properties, when combined forms a most powerful, efficient, and pleasant medicine for the removal and permanent cure of ALL diseases, arising from an impure state of system, viz.:

Rheumatism, Scrofula or King's evil, Scald-head or Tetter, Chronic Sore Eyes, Old or Chronic Sores of all kinds, Bolls, Pimples, Syphilitic Rheumatism, Primary and Secondary Syphilis, Nervous Debility, Liver Complaints, Inflammation of the Kidneys and Bladder, renovates and invigorates the system; acts gently on the bowels. As an appetizer and for general debility, it is a most excellent remedy.

CAMPBELL BROS., Druggists, Sole Manufacturers.

For Sale by all druggist. Price $1.00 per bottle, or 6 for $5.00. Liberal discount to the trade.

ALSO MANUFACTURERS OF

ETHIOPIAN PILE OINTMENT

A never failing remedy for External, internal or Itching Piles. Ask your Druggist for it. None genuine without the Trade Mark. Price $1.00 per Bottle.

TESTIMONIAL.

This is to certify that I was afflicted with Piles for twenty years. I tried every Remedy offered me. Finally used the Ethiopian Pile Ointment, and found it the very best preparation I ever used. It will give almost immediate relief and will finally effect a permanent cure.

Ed. A. IRELAND

Formerly of Gallatin, now of Breen, Phillips & Co., Nashville, Tennessee.

CAMPBELL BROS., Druggists,
or, Broad and Summer Sts.,
NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE.

F. H. STICKLEY. MRS. C. W. LEWIS.

STICKLEY & LEWIS,

Having moved to our elegant store-room,

NO. 34 NORTH SUMMER STREET,

We will carry a large stock of fine Millinery and Fancy Goods, the light-running New Home Sewing Machines, Needles, Oil and Attachments for all machines. Fine imported German Canary Birds, good singers, $3 each. Bird Cages, Food and Tonic always on hand. Mrs. Lewis is also prepared to do Fashionable Dress Making, Dying Plumes, Cleaning Gloves and Stamping. Old Machines of any kind repaired or taken in part pay for the New Home.

CARPETS! CARPETS!

FROM

New York Bankrup Sales.

MANLOVE & CO.,

26 and 28 N. Summer Street,

Are now in receipt of an immense stock, recently bought at prices lower than ever before. Now is the time to buy Good Carpets cheap, and guaranteed to be as cheap as any Eastern market.

MANLOVE & CO.,

26 and 28 N. Summer Street,

NASHVILLE, TENN.

$66 a week in your own town. Terms and $5 outfit free. Address H. HALL & Co., Portland, Me.

$72 A WEEK, $12 a day at home easily made. Costly outfit free. Address TRIM & Co., Augusta, Me.

SONG WORSHIP!

THE NEW
Sunday School Song Book,—BY—
L. O. EMERSON AND W. F. SHERWIN.

Price 35 cts.; $30 per hundred

The advent of a new Sunday-school song book by two such men as are the gentlemen above named, is a notable event.

Mr. Emerson stands confessedly in the very front rank of church-music composers, and Mr. Sherwin, also eminent as a composer, has had great success in the compiling of the best-known Sunday-school music books, and has for years had charge of the musical department at

CHAUTAQUA,

and other famous assemblies of Sunday-school workers. The music and words of SONG WORSHIP mark a step in advance, being far above the ordinary Sunday-school "jingles," and are dignified without being dull.

The hymns are by eminent writers, and are full of the best religious truth.

The music is of a high order. Superintendents will be pleased with the INDEX of SUBJECTS, of which there is a great variety.

Ministers cannot fail to like the hymns. One specimen copy mailed post free for twenty-five cents. Specimen page free.

OLIVER DITSON &amp; CO., Boston.

C. H. DITSON &amp; CO., 367 Broadway, New York.

IMPROVED METHOD OF STRINGING.

MASON &amp; HAMLIN

IMPROVED

Upright Pianos.

Entire iron frames to which the strings are directly attached by metal fastenings, securing

1. Best quality of tone, which is very musical and refined; free from the tubbiness which is common.

2. Greater durability and freedom from liability to get out of order; adaptations to trying positions and climates.

3. Increased capacity to stand in tune; will not require tuning one-quarter as often as pianos on the old system.

Having tested this new system of construction for two years and proved its advantages, this Company are now increasing their manufacture of pianos, and offer them to the public generally. Every piano of their make will illustrate the supreme excellence which has always characterized their organs, and won for them highest award at every great world's exhibition for sixteen years.

Illustrated and descriptive Catalogues of Pianos and organs, free.

MASON & HAMLIN ORGAN AND PIANO CO., 151 Tremont St., Boston; 46 East 14th St., (Union Square), New York; 19 Wabash Ave., Chicago.

IS UNFAILING AND INFALLIBLE IN CURING

SAMARITAN NERVE

NEVER FAILS.

Epileptic Fits, Spasm, Falling Sick, Convulsions, St. Vitus Dance, Alcoholism, Opium Eating, Seminal Weakness, Impotency, Syphilis, Scrofula, and all

Nervous and Blood Diseases.

To Clergymen, Lawyers, Literary Men, Merchants, Bankers, Ladies and all whose sedentary employment causes Nervous Prostration, Irregularities of the blood, stomach, bowels or kidneys, or who require a nerve tonic, appetizer or stimulant, Samaritan Nerve is invaluable.

Thousands proclaim it the most wonderful invigorant that ever sustained a sinking system. $1.50, at Druggists.

THE DR. S. A. RICHMOND MEDICAL CO., Sole Proprietors, St. Joseph, Mo.

For testimonials and circulars send stamp. (12)

"Lord, Stotenburgh & Co., Ag'ts, Chicago, I. I."

$5 to $20 per day at home. Sample worth $5 free. Address Brinson & Co., Portland, Me.

THE GREAT (NERVE) CONQUEROR.

For testimonials and circulars send stamp. (12)

"Lord, Stotenburgh & Co., Ag'ts, Chicago, I. I."

$5 to $20 per day at home. Sample worth $5 free. Address Brinson & Co., Portland, Me.

THE MINISTERS' and Teachers' Bible.

This magnificent Parlor Bible is imported from London and is indorsed as "The Best by the leading Bishops of England. In addition to the Old and New Testaments it contains a complete concordance of Bible words, a complete Dictionary of Proper Names, with Pronunciation, 13 full page colored maps, Poetry, Music, Etymology, Plants, Animals, and Jewish sects of the Bible, etc. Superior to all others."

"7 Times." "A complete Biblical Encyclopedia." "London Times. This Bible is bound in French morocco, gilt edges, with silk book-mark, and has copious references. Rev. Eli Milton, Norwich, O., writes 'The Bibles received to-day I am more than pleased.' A Special Offer: To rapidly introduce this Bible in America we will, for a limited time only, send one copy, post-paid, to any address on receipt of only $2.00. 12 copies and one copy of Revised New Testament for $24.00. Other Bibles, for less matter, sell for $15.

Order at once. (12) AGENTS WANTED! Circulars free.

S. S. MAYO & CO., 169 LaSalle St., Chicago, Ill.

$2.00

12 copies and one copy of Revised New Testament for $24.00. Other Bibles, for less matter, sell for $15.

Order at once. (12) AGENTS WANTED! Circulars free.

S. S. MAYO & CO., 169 LaSalle St., Chicago, Ill.

HARTER'S

THE ONLY TRUE

IRON TONIC

Will purify the BLOOD, regulate the LIVER and KIDNEYS, and RESTORE THE HEALTH and VIGOR of YOUTH. Dyspepsia, Want of Appetite, Indigestion, Lack of Strength, and Tired Feeling absolutely cured. Bones, muscles and nerves receive new force. Enlivens the mind and supplies Brain Power. Suffering from complaints peculiar to their sex will find in DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC a safe and speedy cure. Gives a clear, healthy complexion. Frequent attempts at counterfeiting only add to the popularity of the original. Do not experiment—get the ORIGINAL AND BEST.

(Send your address to The Dr. Harter Med. Co., St. Louis, Mo., for our "DREAM BOOK.")

Full of strange and useful information, free.

LADIES

Suffering from complaints peculiar to their sex will find in DR. HARTER'S IRON TONIC a safe and speedy cure. Gives a clear, healthy complexion. Frequent attempts at counterfeiting only add to the popularity of the original. Do not experiment—get the ORIGINAL AND BEST.

(Send your address to The Dr. Harter Med. Co., St. Louis, Mo., for our "DREAM BOOK.")

Full of strange and useful information, free.

TO SUNDAY SCHOOL WORKERS.

PURE DELIGHT.

A New Sunday School Song Book.

By Geo. F. Root and C. C. Cass.

Contains New and Bright Words; Easy and Inspiring Music; Pure and Elevated Sentiments.

One of the leading features of the book is a set of BEAUTIFUL RESPONSIVE SERVICES

Especially prepared for it by Rev. W. H. Pearce and Lewis Miller, Esq.

192 pages, well printed and handsomely bound in boards. Price, 50 cents, each by mail, post-paid; $1.00 a dozen by express, not prepaid. Specimen pages free.

Published by JOHN CHURCH &amp; CO., CINCINNATI, OHIO.

CHICAGO: ROOT &amp; SON'S MUSIC CO., 200 Wabash Ave. NEW YORK: J. CHURCH &amp; CO., 5 Union Square.

For Sale by Booksellers and Music Dealers.

SEEDS

Our Annual Catalogue, Beautifully Engraved and Illustrated; Hints and Treatise on Southern CULTURE, VEGETABLES, FRUITS, GRASSES, SMALL GRAINS and FLOWERS. MAILED FREE UPON APPLICATION.

E. M. SARCENT & CO., Seed Growers, Macon, Georgia.

25 YEARS POULTRY YARD

108 Pages. It teaches you how to rear them to take care for them, to feed, to have them lay eggs in cold weather, to prevent and treat all diseases of old or young, to be a "successful" poultryman. Only 25c. in stamps. A Fifty-page book FREE FOR ALL with it.

A. M. LANG, Cove Dale Farm, Concord, Ky.

"THE BEST IS THE CHEAPEST."

SAW ENGINES

MILLS, HORSE POWERS, and all sections and purposes. Write for Free Pamphlet and prices to The Aultman & Taylor Co., Mansfield, Ohio.

OPIUM

Habit easily cured with CHLORIDE OF GOLD

LESLIE E. KEELEY, M.D., SURGEON, C. & A. R. R. DWIGHT, Illinois.

WANTED A WOMAN

of sense, energy and respectability for our business in her locality, middle-aged preferred. SALARY $35 to $50. References exchanged. GAY BROS., 14 Barclay St., N. Y.

OPIUM

Morphine Habit Cured in 10 to 20 Days. No Pay until Cured.

J. L. STEPHENS, M. D., Lebanon, Ohio.

STEM WINDING MUSICAL WATCH

Each Watch is finely made, silver plated and the greatest novelty ever offered to the boys and girls of America. It is a Complete Musical Instrument, also and shape of a Watch, with Music Box attachment concealed within, so arranged that when wound at the stem, plays one of the following tunes: "Home, Sweet Home," "Yankee Doodle," "Blue Bells of Scotland," "Coming Through the Rye," "Swanee River," "Carnival of Venice," "Grandfather's Clock," "Waltz, Polka, Schottische, and Waltz (All the clouds Roll By)." The notes, time, and tones are correct. It instructs and entertains both Old and young. On receipt of 35 Cents, will send it by mail, post-paid. Just think of it! A Music Box for 35 Cents. Postage Stamps taken. SPECIAL OFFER: If you will order before June 1st, we will send you yours for only $1.00. You will be delighted with it.

A. E. PRATT & CO., No. 27 Park Place, New York.

WANTED A WOMAN

of sense, energy and respectability for our business in her locality, middle-aged preferred. SALARY $35 to $50. References exchanged. GAY BROS., 14 Barclay St., N. Y.

WANTED A WOMAN

of sense, energy and respectability for our business in her locality, middle-aged preferred. SALARY $35 to $50. References exchanged. GAY BROS., 14 Barclay St., N. Y.

WANTED A WOMAN

of sense, energy and respectability for our business in her locality, middle-aged preferred. SALARY $35 to $50. References exchanged. GAY BROS., 14 Barclay St., N. Y.

WANTED A WOMAN

of sense, energy and respectability for our business in her locality, middle-aged preferred. SALARY $35 to $50. References exchanged. GAY BROS., 14 Barclay St., N. Y.

WANTED A WOMAN

of sense, energy and respectability for our business in her locality, middle-aged preferred. SALARY $35 to $50. References exchanged. GAY BROS., 14 Barclay St., N. Y.

WANTED A WOMAN

of sense, energy and respectability for our business in her locality, middle-aged preferred. SALARY $35 to $50. References exchanged. GAY BROS., 14 Barclay St., N. Y.

BURRITT COLLEGE,

SPENCER, TENN.

THIS INSTITUTION, Chartered in 1848, has now been favorably known for more than thirty years, for its discipline, both as regards education and government. Located on the Cumberland Plateau, it is free from epidemics. The water is pure freestone and chalybeate. The breezes of Summer are delightful and invigorating, and the gales of winter not too severe. The College buildings, recently enlarged by the Christian Brotherhood of Tennessee, are sufficiently commodious to accommodate a large class of young Ladies and Gentlemen. Spence is ten miles South-east of Manchester & McMinnville Railroad.

TERMS:

Tuition, Primary Dep't, per S'n, $ 7 50	Tuition, Commercial Dep't per S'n, $20.00
Preparatory " " 15 00	Lessons Instrumental Music from $15 to $20
Collegiate, " " 20 00	" in Art Department from $50 to 10

Board and washing for males, per week, from $2.00 to $2.50; Fuel, light, and incidental expenses, per session, $10.00; Board (including washing, fuel, and light) for females, per week, $3.00.

The Spring Session of 1884, begins on the Last Monday in February.

For further particulars address,

Prof. A. T. SEITZ, President,

Or W. H. SUTTON, Sec. Board Trustees.

The great events of history in a single volume
FAMOUS and DECISIVE BATTLES OF THE WORLD.

By CAPT. KING, U.S.A. HISTORY FROM THE BATTLE-FIELD. Shows how Nations have been made or destroyed in a day.—How Fame or Disaster has turned on a single Contest. A Grand Book for Old and Young.—Saves Time, Adds to the Memory.—Gives Pleasure and Instruction. Maps and Fine Illustrations. Agents Wanted Everywhere. Write at once for full description and terms. Address J. C. McQUEENY & CO., Cincinnati, Ohio.

IMPORTANT REDUCTION IN THE PRICE OF ## VASELINE

(PETROLEUM JELLY.)

MONARCH HORSE HOE

AND CULTIVATOR COMBINED

For Hoeing &amp; Hilling Potatoes, Corn, Onions, Beets, Cabbages, Turnips, &amp;c.

SENT ON

30 Days'

TEST TRIAL.

An immense saving of labor and money. We guarantee a boy can cultivate and hoe and hill potatoes, corn, etc., 15 times as easy and fast as one man can the old way.

Illustrated Catalogue FREE. AGENTS WANTED. Mention this paper. Address Monarch Mfg. Co., 206 State St., Chicago, Ill.

BUCKEYE BELL FOUNDRY.

Bells of Pure Copper and Tin for Churches, Schools, Fire Alarms, Farms, etc. FULLY WARRANTED. Catalogue sent free.

VANDUZEN &amp; TIFF, Cincinnati, O.

McSHANE BELL FOUNDRY.

Manufacture those celebrated Chimes and Bells for CHURCHES, ACADEMIES, &c. Price-list and circulars sent free.

HENRY McSHANE &amp; CO., Baltimore, Md.

Baltimore Church Bells

Since 1844 celebrated for Superiority over others, are made only of Purest Bell Metal, (Copper and Tin.) Rotary Mountings, warranted satisfactory. For Prices, Circulars, &c. address BALTIMORE BELL FOUNDRY, J. REGESTER & SONS, Baltimore, Md.

FOR the 7th edition "Life and Labors of C. H. Spurgeon,"

the greatest preacher of the century. By Geo. C. Needham, the Evangelist. Endorsed by all denominations. The best selling Family book ever published. Agents are meeting with wonderful success. No competition. Any man or woman wanting a good business, address, for extra terms and special territory.

Agents wanted. $5 a Day made selling our New HOUSEHOLD ARTICLES and PLATINUM FAMILY SCALE. Write up to us. Price, $1.50. Domestic Scale Co., Cin. O.

STEAM ENGINES

Portable and Agricultural. Send for circulars. Wood, Taber & Morse, Eaton, N. Y.

BEATTY

PIPE ORGAN

2 Blow Pedals, 25 Stops, in perfect order, warranted only $49.75. Parlor, Chapel and Cottage Organs at Bargain Prices. Grand Square & Upright, for $20.00 worth $1,000. Order immediately or send for Circular. Address, DANIEL F. BEATTY, Washington, New Jersey.

KENTUCKY UNIVERSITY, LEXINGTON, KY.

Three Colleges.—Arts, Bible and Commercial. College of Arts has two courses, Classical and Scientific with twelve professors and teachers; fees, $12 per session of nine months. College of the Bible, no tuition fees. Students of the College of the Bible have access without charge to the classes of the College of Arts, and those of the College of Arts to the classes of the College of the Bible. Session opens the second Monday in September. For catalogues, address

CHAS. LOUIS LOOS, President of the University, or ROBT. GRAHAM, President of the College of the Bible.

THE MODEL PRESS

Prints Cards, Circulars, Labels, Tracts, every thing needed by Business men, churches, schools, &c. Strong, rapid, and a boy can manage it and earn hundreds of dollars a year. Prices sold. Outfits, including Press, Type, &c., from $5. to $50. and up. Send 3 cent stamp for a page illustrated Price List and two gorgeous floral book markers printed on Model Press. J. W. Dougherty & Co. Mfrs. 1712 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia.

CHAMPLIN'S

"A TRIBE OF BEAUTY IS A JOY FOREVER." FOR PRESERVING, RESTORING AND Beautifying the Complexion For RASPOUS SWEET, TAN, FACULA, FRECKLES, BACULUS, BURN, &c. OPINIONS OF NOTED LADIES. LOTTIE—It is the best preparation for the face that I ever used. I have used neither CLARA LOUISE KELLOGG—It gives me pleasure to add my name to the list of those who recommend your "Liquid Pearl" and express the satisfaction it affords me. The LIQUID PEARL has been recommended by the ladies of all countries with the highest marks of appreciation. Only 50 cents a bottle, sold by all Druggists and Perfumers. CHAMPLIN & CO., FRANK, BOSTON, U.S.A.

AGENTS Send for E. B. TREAT'S

of his books, including MOTHER, HOME, and HEAVEN, prose and poetry; by 400 best authors 146,000 sold. Elegantly ill., $7.75. Send $1 for outfit. Also 5000 Curiosities of the Bible, $1.75. By mail, E. B. TREAT, 75 Broadway, N. Y.

MILL OWNERS SEND FOR PAMPHLET.

ALCOHOL WATER WHEELS

MANUFACT'D AT MOUNT HOLLY N.J.

PILES

"Anakesis" gives relief, and is an infallible cure for Piles. Price $1. at druggists, or sent prepaid by mail sample free. Ad. "ANAKESIS" Makers, Box 2416 New York.

THE COMPLETE HOME.

Agents wanted for this beautiful book. New edition.—New bindings.—New illustrations from new designs. Superbly gotten up. Same low price. Adapted to all classes. Sells at sight. Agents doing big work. EXCELLENT TERMS. The handsomest prospectus ever issued. Apply now. WM. GARRETTSON & CO., 30 College St., Nashville, Tenn. Also other grand new books and Bibles.

CUT THIS OUT

And Return to us, with TEN CENTS, and you'll receive money in One Month than anything else in America. Absolutely Certain. M. Young, 173 Greenwich St., New York.

PATENTS

Hand-Book FREE. R. S. & A. P. LACEY, Patent Att'ys, Washington, D. C.

TRADE-MARKS, PATENTS, COPY-RIGHTS, DESIGNS, RE-ISSUES, LABELS.

Send description of your Invention. L. BINGHAM, Patent Lawyer and Solicitor, Washington D. C.

AGENTS OF DARING by Blue and Grey, is outselling all other books. Illustrated circular and terms free.

FORBEE & McMACKIN, Cincinnati, O.

ACME Songs for the International Sunday School Lessons (Words and Music) adapted to each lesson in April, May, June, 32 pp., 40 songs, 5c., 25 for $1 (mailed). Free copy to Pastor or Supt. sending postage.

J. C. O. REDINGTON, 267 Broadway, N. Y.

WANTED A WOMAN

of sense and energy for our business in her locality, middle-aged preferred. SALARY $35 to $50. References exchanged. GAY BROS. & CO., 14 BARCLAY ST., NEW YORK.

to sell our Hand Rubber Stamps, Stamp Pans free. FOLGAM & Co., Cleveland, O.

FREEMAN & KEESEE, INTERIOR DECORATORS,

NO. 33 N. COLLEGE STREET, NASHVILLE, TENN.

Wall Paper and Decorations, Window Shades, Cornice, Curtain Poles, Gold and Walnut Pier and Mantle Mirrors, Engravings, Chromos, and Oil Paintings. Frames of All Kinds in Stock and Made to Order. Re-Gilding Old Frames a Specialty. Manufacturers of Fine Frames and Wood Mantles. CORRESPONDENCE SOLICITED. Ap9

KEEP COOL!

SUMMER GOODS.

Refrigerators, Ice Chests, Water Coolers, Filters, Fruit Jars, Fruit Cans, Stoneware, Woodenware, and all kinds of Kitchen Goods. Cooking Stoves to suit the requirements of every Family.

PRICES TO SUIT THE TIMES.

Phillips-Buttorff Manufacturing Co.,

24 & 26 College Street.

Nashville, Tenn.

FIGUE, MANIER & CO. WHOLESALE DEALERS IN BOOTS AND SHOES, NO. 40 SOUTH MARKET STREET, NASHVILLE, TENN.

We are receiving a very large stock of Spring and Summer goods that we have had manufactured expressly for us, which we think, with our long experience and facilities, we can offer inducements, equal to any market, to prompt and cash dealers. All goods warranted to be as represented.

S. B. HOGAN.

J. S. HOPKINS.

HOGAN & HOPKINS,

Dealers in Custom-Made

BOOTS & SHOES,

We sell the very best makes of Boots and Shoes, and endeavor to make the prices so that no one can possibly sell cheaper than we do.

20 Public Square,

Nashville, Tennessee.

SALESMEN.—Sam. R. Hopkins, L. D. Simmons, William Hayes.

GRATEFUL PRAISE

FOR SUNDAY-SCHOOLS.
By J. H. FILLMORE.

Grateful Praise is purely a Sunday-school music book—not a gospel-meeting book. Everything in it is fresh and bright. Children will enjoy it. Its quality is first-class and not of a difficult grade. Examine it, and find your ideal.

Sample copy mailed for 25 cts. Price, per doz. by express, $3.60; per doz. by mail, $4.

Address FILLMORE BROS., 185 Race St., Cincinnati, O.
[Order now, or preserve this, it may not appear again.]

CHILDS' CATARRH

Treatment For

And Diseases of the
HEAD, THROAT & LUNGS!
Can be taken at home. No case
incurable when our questions are properly answered. Write for circulars, testimonials, etc.,
REV. T. P. CHILDS, Troy, Ohio.

OFFICIAL REPORT.

Office of the Kentucky Agricultural and Mechanical Association.
Lexington, Ky.; June 23rd, 1883.

TO ALL CONCERNED:

This is to certify that in the field trial of Twine-binders held by the Kentucky Agricultural and Mechanical Association on the farm of Mr. J. B. Clay, near Lexington on the 19th inst., in very heavy barley, the following machines competing, viz: Osborne, Deering, McCormick, Wood, Buckeye, Minneapolis, Dennett, Champion, St. Paul, Buckeye low-down and Deering low-down, the premium of a Gold Medal was awarded to the No. 11 Osborne.

Committee of Directors to Conduct Trial.

JESSE BRYANT,
N. F. BERRY,
D. H. JAMES,
W. H. GENTRY, Pres't.

H. P. KINKEAD, Sec'y.

The above is a true copy of report made by Committee and approved by Board of Directors this day.

Out at our Branch House in Nashville an EXAMINE "The Gold Medal Osborne," and a full line of Reapers and Mowers.

D. M. OSBORNE, & CO.

E. S. BRINGHURST, M'gr.

DR. DUNCAN'S

BLACKBERRY ELIXIR!

Nature's Great Remedy for Diseases and Affections of the Bowels.

This splendid and unfailing medicine is compounded from Blackberry and other Medical Roots and Herbs, is therefore perfectly harmless. It is pleasant and safe to the most delicate stomach. It is the most speedy and effectual medicine for the cures of all forms of Diarrhea, in children or adults, Cholera Morbus, Flux, Dysentery, and the various Summer Complaints of the Bowels, so prevalent among all classes during the Summer season. Only one bottle (Price, 50 cents,) is sufficient to effect a cure.

DR. DUNCAN'S CHILL TONIC.

You need not Shake or Chill if you will use the Tonic. It never fails to stop the most aggravated forms of Chills and Fever if taken as directed, in from three to seven days, when Quinine and all other medicines fail. It will also, if taken regularly build and tone up the weak and debilitated system, and above all leaves no bad effects behind, as do so many other preparations.

DR. DUNCAN'S

Liver and Kidney Medicine.

The great preventive and cure of all malarial diseases and a sure cure of all forms of Dyspepsia and Indigestion. It acts directly upon the liver and all the secretory glands of the stomach and bowels, it cures the disease by removing the cause from the system that produces or brings on the disease, hence it is unsurpassed for the cure of Consumption, Sour Stomach, Heartburn, Headache, and also those symptoms indicating the want of proper action of those glands situated in the stomach and bowels. Two or three bottles of DR. DUNCAN'S LIVER AND KIDNEY MEDICINE is positively recommended to relieve and cure any of the above diseases if taken as directed. Price, 75 cents.

DUNCAN'S WORM SYRUP.

One bottle of this Syrup will completely expel all species of Worms and without injury to the child, as it contains no Calomel or other injurious substances. Again, it is pleasant to the taste and acceptable to the stomach, and therefore administered without trouble. Price, 25 cents.

SPURLOCK, PAGE & CO., Prop's,
NASHVILLE, TENN.

PAYSON'S
INDELIBLE
INK
IS THE BEST. No preparation used with any clean pen for marking any fabric. Popular for decorating work on linen. Received Centennial MEDAL & Diploma.
Established 50 years. Sold by all Druggists, Stationers & News Agents.

2806 Lbs. Weight
OF TWO OVEN IMPROVED CHES-
TER HOGS. Send for description of this famous breed. Also Poultry.
L. B. SILVER, CLEVELAND, O.

BARNES'
Patent Foot and Steam Power
Machinery. Complete outfit
for Actual Work-shop Business. Lathes for Wood or
Metal. Circular Saws, Scroll
Saws, Forming Machines, Tenoners, etc., etc. Machines on trial if desired. Descriptive Catalogue and Price List Free.
W. F. & JOHN BARNES,
No. 159' Ruby Street,
Rockford, Ill.

WANTED
HELP.
Entirely New.
PROFITABLE.
Outfit Free.

We want an AGENT in every locality. Something entirely
new. Our Agents are sweeping
the field wherever they go, and making money rapidly. Men, women, boys, girls, all do equally well. Will send you full outfit on receipt of 2 cent Stamp.
Don't delay. Address at once,
S. S. PUBLISHING CO.,
Brownwood, Texas.

A PRIZE Send six cents for postage, and receive free a costly box of goods which will help you to make money right away than anything else in this world. All, of either sex, succeed from first hour. The broad road to fortune opens before the workers, absolutely sure. At once address Taux & Co., Augusta, Maine.

Good Pay for Agents. $100 to $200 per mo., made selling our fine Books & Bibles. Write to J. C. McCurdy & Co., Cincinnati, Ohio.

AGENTS WANTED for our new Religious Bo k,
the greatest success of the year. Send for illustrated circular if you want to make money. FORSHEE & McMAKIN, Cincinnati.

PENSIONS for any disability; also to Heirs. Send stamps for New Laws. Col. L. KING-
Attorney, Washington, D. C.

CHEAP BOOTS AND SHOES!

We are now receiving our Spring Stock of Fine Custom-made Boots, Shoes, and Hats.
Our prices will be found
reasonable. Give us a call.
Trunks at cost.

ALDRICH & HARRIS,

106 UNION ST., (bet. College and Market.)

NASHVILLE

TENN.

Warner Bros. Celebrated Coraline Corsets,
Are the acknowledged standard of Europe and America. The Coraline with which they are boned is superior to Whalebone both in durability and comfort.
The Health and Nursing Corsets shown above, have been before the public for ten years with constantly increasing sales.
The Health Corset gives a lady the best form of any Corset ever made, and at the same time it is easy, flexible and very durable.
The Coraline, Flexible Hip, Abdominal and Misses' Corsets, are all very popular styles, either of which is sure to give satisfaction.

Price from $1 up.

FOR SALE BY LEADING MERCHANTS EVERYWHERE.

Avoid all imitations. Be sure our name is on the box.

WARNER BROS.,
353 BROADWAY, NEW YORK.

CONSUMPTION

Positively Cured. No Humbug.

By the use of Dr. J. LAWSON'S PULMONARY
POWDERS, a FREE TRIAL BOX of which will be sent to all sufferers POST PAID, with treatise and full directions for their use.
Hundreds and thousands have been cured by their use.

Large Box $1.00, two boxes $2.00.

Address, PHILIP HENRY,
49 South St., N. w York City.

"THE BEST IS CHEAPEST."
ENGINES, THRESHERS SAW-MILLS,
Horse Power: Clover Mowers
Suited to all sections. Write for FREE Illustrated Circular and Prices to The Aultman & Taylor Co., Mansfield, Ohio.

SEEDS Our new catalogue, best published
Free to all. 1,500 varieties, 300
illustrations. You ought to have it.
BENSON, MAULE & Co., Philadelphia, Pa.

AGENTS WANTED, TO SELL

—THE NEW BOOK—
A CONFEDERATE SOLDIER

IN EGYPT,

By General W. W. Loring, of Florida.
Late Colonel in the U. S. Army, Major-General in the Confederate Service, and Foraker Pasha and General in the Army of the Khedive of Egypt.
1 Vol. Large 8vo. With 47 Illustrations.
Handsomely bound. Price, $3.50.

From the Preface.
General Loring who was for 10 years in high command in Egypt, has given in graphic style an account of his own experiences and observations. His opportunities for study of Egyptian history and affairs, and of the social life of the people, high and low, were unlimited, and his narrative is of intense interest. For terms apply to Dodd, Mead & Co., Publishers, New York.

HILLMAN, BUFORD & JUSTI,
NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE,

SOLE AGENTS FOR

Fish Brothers Celebrated Farm Wagons.

Genuine

BROWN PLOWS

and

WALKING

CULTIVATORS,

ROAD

SCRAPERS,

Crow Bars, Hammers, Wheel Barrows, Wood Work, Etc.

IRON, STEEL, BLACKSMITH'S TOOLS, HARDWARE,

Call on or address

HILLMAN, BUFORD & JUSTI, 18 and 20 South Market Street, Nashville, Tenn.

A. C. & J. C. March.

SUCCESSORS TO

J. D. MARCH & SONS

Manufacturers and Dealers in

SADDLES, HARNESS, BRIDLES, COLLARS,
TRUNKS, BAGS, HAMES, VALISES, WHIPS, CHAINS, &c.

50 NORTH MARKET STREET
NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE.

Repairing Done at Short Notice

NASHVILLE, CHATTANOOGA & ST. LOUIS
RAILWAY.

BUSINESS MEN, TOURISTS, REMEMBER
EMIGRANTS, FAMILIES,
The Best Route to St. Louis and the West
via McKennie.

The Best Route to West Tennessee and Kentucky, Mississippi, Arkansas, and Texas points is via McKennie.

The Best Route to the Summer Resorts and Mountain Retreats of Tennessee, Virginia and the Carolinas, via McKennie and Nashville.

The Best Route to the celebrated Colleges, Universities, Seminaries and other Educational Institutions in the Southeast, via McKennie and Nashville.

The Best Route to points in East Tennessee, Virginia, the Carolinas, Georgia and Florida is via Chattanooga.

DON'T FORGET IT!

—By this Line you secure the—

MAXIMUM OF SPEED, SAFETY,
COMFORT, SATISFACTION,
—AT THE—
MINIMUM OF EXPENSE, ANXIETY,
BOTH FOR THE PASSENGER AND THE RAILWAY.

Be sure to Buy your Tickets over the

N. C. & ST. L. RAILWAY!
If you are going to Washington City, Baltimore, Philadelphia, or New York.

The inexperienced Traveler need not go miles; few changes are necessary, and such as are unavoidable are made in union Depots.

THROUGH SLEEPERS!

—BETWEEN—

Nashville and Atlanta, and Atlanta and Jacksonville, Fla., Nashville and Martin (to connect with Sleeper service via Cairo to St. Louis and Chicago), Nashville and Columbus, Nashville and Memphis (Sleeper Humboldt to Mobile, and Milan to New Orleans), McKennie and Little Rock, and Little Rock and Texas points.

Call on or address

J. H. PEEBLES, T. A., Chattanooga, Tenn.
W. W. KNOX, T. A., Nashville, Tenn.
A. S. FINLEY, Ticket Agent, Memphis, Tenn.
S. B. WRENN, Trav. A., Atlanta, Ga.
W. L. DANLEY, G. P. & T. A., Nashville, Tenn.

FISH BROS & CO.
RACINE WIS.

Sorghum Mills,

Corn Shellers

Cider Mills,

Feed Cutters,

Farm Bells,

Fence Wire,

Steel.

BOILER REPAIRS.

Thos. S. Simpson, William Chatham,
79 South College St., Nashville, Tenn.

Are prepared to do all kinds of repairs on boilers, tanks, etc., at very reasonable rates. We have had 30 years practical experience in the business, and ask a share of the public patronage. We guarantee good work.

WHEN YOU WANT

WRITING DESKS,
Photograph Albums,
AUTOGRAPH ALBUMS,

GOLD PENS, PENCILS,
PORT-MONNIES,
CARD CASES, Etc.

OR ANYTHING IN THE WAY OF

Staple and Fancy Stationery!

Call upon us. We can suit you in
VARIETY, QUALITY, AND PRICE.

A. B. Payne & Co.,
61 UNION STREET.

Orders by Mail receive Prompt Attention.

B. S. RHEA & SON,
PROPRIETORS RHEA'S ELEVATOR,
AND DEALERS IN

Grain, Hay, Flour

AND BURLAP SACKS,

No. 32 South Market Street,
NASHVILLE, - - TENN.
(Correspondence Solicited.)

C. F. HUDSON. S. G. STRATTON.

C. F. HUDSON & CO.,

Merchant Tailors & Clothiers,

EAST SIDE PUBLIC SQUARE,

LEBANON, TENN.

Are now receiving one of the largest, and cheapest stock of clothing and piece goods, offered to the public. We are agents for the Charlottesville, Va., woolen goods, which cannot be surpassed for beauty and durability.

Call and examine our goods. We will save you money.

SOME OF THE

THINGS WE BUY TO SELL.

CHINA IN ALL OF ITS GRADES,
GLASSWARE OF EVERY DESCRIPTION,
QUEENSWARE OF ALL KINDS,

Bracket Lamps, Hall Lamps,
Study Lamps, Chandeliers,

Knives and Forks, Spoons, Waiters
Tea Trays,

Looking-Glasses, Ice Cutting
Machines,

Eureka Coffee and Teapots,
Castors.

And a great variety of housekeeping goods too numerous to mention, all of which we offer at reasonable rates. Call and see us, or send your orders to

HICKS, HOUSTON & CO.,

51 N. College & 54 N. Market Sts.,

NASHVILLE, - - - TENN.

Mars Hill College.

With pleasure we lay before our readers the following extracts from the Fourteenth Annual Announcement of Mars Hill College, an institution perpetually wielding a wonderful and wide-spread influence for truth, refinement and righteousness.—EDITORS.

POSITIONS PROCURED FOR OUR PUPILS.

We make a specialty of preparing pupils for

(1.) PREACHING; (2.) TEACHING; (3.) PREACHING and TEACHING.

Many educated here—among whom are successful lawyers, physicians, merchants, salesmen, mechanics, farmers, editors, authors, teachers and preachers—have so demeaned themselves, that the humility, fidelity, integrity, accuracy and ability of "Mars Hill students" have become proverbial. There is, consequently, such a demand for the services of our pupils, that we deem it perfectly safe to promise to procure pleasant, profitable and honorable positions for all who qualify themselves here for usefulness. Indeed, for several years we have been able to fill comparatively few of the positions tendered.

HEALTHFULNESS!

Mars Hill as a Health Resort.

Our school was founded in 1870. All the "doctor bills," for services rendered our pupils, from then till now, do not, we think, amount to twenty-five dollars—probably not to one dollar a year. Those who have come here pale and puny, from malarial districts, have, without an exception, we believe, returned to their homes enjoying health.

What "Watering Place," or "Health Resort," then, can justly claim more, as a health-preserver and health-restorer, than Mars Hill? Address,

T. B. LARIMORE, President.

FLORENCE, ALABAMA.

W. A. LANNOM,
The Cash Clothier,

18 PUBLIC SQUARE, NASHVILLE, TENN.,

Has received his large and elegant stock of Spring and Summer clothing, Gents Furnishing Goods and Hats, which is full and complete in every respect; and for quantity, quality, style, fit and price, we stand far ahead of all competition. An inspection of our large stock and low prices, will fully prove what we claim. Bear in mind, we sell strictly for cash, which enables us to offer the greatest inducements.

CAPITOL PLANING MILL,

Corner Line and Vine Streets, near Northwest Corner Capitol Grounds,

NASHVILLE, - - - TENN.

J. W. McCULLOUGH,

Manufacturer and Dealer in

FRAMES, SASH, DOORS, BLINDS,

Scroll Sawing, Dressed Flooring, Weatherboarding and Ceiling.

Country Orders Solicited, and Promptly Attended To.

JUST OUT!

JUST OUT!

"Our Orthodoxy in the Civil Courts,"

A full proceeding in the Circuit Court in Noble county, Indiana, in the trial of our orthodoxy. Everybody should read this interesting book. Send at once. Paper, 50c; cloth, $1.00.

JAMES F. & HARRY LIPSCOMB,

93 Union Street,

Nashville, Tennessee.

THE GOSPEL ADVOCATE.

VOLUME XXVI.
NUMBER 24.

NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE, JUNE 11, 1884.

{ $2.00 YEARLY IN ADVANCE.
POSTAGE PREPAID.

EDITORS:

D. LIPSCOMB,

E. G. SEWELL.

TRUST.

I know not if or dark or bright
Shall be my lot;
If that wherein my hopes delight
Be best or not.
It may be mine to drag for years
Toil's heavy chain;
Or day and night may meet by tears
On bed of pain.
Dear faces may surround my hearth
With smiles and glee;
Or I may dwell alone, and mirth
Be strange to me.
My bark is wafted to the strand,
My breath divine;
And on the helm there rests a hand
Other than mine.
One who has known in storms to sail
I have on board;
Above the raving of the gale,
I hear my Lord.
He holds me when the billows smite,—
I shall not fall:
If sharp, 'tis short; if long, 'tis light,—
He tempers all.
Safe to the land, safe to the land,—
The end is this;
And then with Him go hand in hand
Far into bliss.

—[The Dean of Canterbury.]

HEATHEN AND BIBLE LANDS.

We are often told, and especially by that part of the religious world that believes in the operation of the Spirit of God without the word, that the heathen will be saved without the Bible. If this be true, it is certainly a great mistake to send it to them. For if the Bible goes there, and they are taught to read it, the masses of them will then be lost, almost to a certainty. Look at our own land, where the people have had the Bible from the beginning. Very many of our ancestors came to this new world, in order that they might practice their convictions of the truth of the word of God, without hindrance or molestation. Very many of the first white settlers of this country brought the Bible with them, and handed it down to their children. Preachers began early in the history of this country to travel to and fro, and proclaim the word of the Lord to the people, so that all might learn to know and serve the Lord. In the pioneer days of our country, and especially the eastern portion of it, nearly all the people were professedly religious. Only a very few, and they generally from some other part of the world, that had the hardihood to deny the truth of the Bible. Through these religious people, the Bible exerted an influence seldom exerted anywhere since the early days of Christianity. People were honest, truthful, upright, faithful in the marriage relation, faithful as parents and children, and in all the relations of life. Educational interests were looked after, and became general. The Bible was read, preached, and taught, until its permeating influence extended to every nook and corner of the land. People began to improve morally, physically, and intellectually, as will always be the case when the Bible has an influence upon the daily lives of men. In no country during the long, dark ages, was this true to such an extent as has been from the beginning, and now is, in these United States. In no country where Catholicism held, or now holds the sway, is this true. For while Catholicism claims to go according to the Bible, they always have, and do still, keep the Bible from the people, so that it has but a dimly reflected influence upon their daily lives, and elevates the masses but little. But here in the New World the influence of the Bible was general and direct, coming from fountain-head as the divine pages were daily read.

And with part of the people this is still true, only more so. Since the days of Alexander Campbell the people have known better how to read, and understand, and appropriate the Scriptures, than ever before; and with the class of people that avail themselves of these advantages, the Bible is pouring out an influence such as the world has not enjoyed since the early years of Christianity. Consequently there is an advance among men physically, intellectually, and morally, such as has not been seen before. This direct influence of the Bible upon the hearts, minds, intellects, and bodies of men, is the very foundation, is the very life and soul of the wonderful advancements, inventions, and improvements of modern times. Sound minds in sound bodies are legitimate results of the influence of the word of God upon the entire lives of the people. And while these sound minds in sound bodies have been continually increasing, facilities for improvements have also been continually increasing in this free Bible land. And whether the men that are now making these improvements are themselves religious or not, their strength of mind and opportunities for the accomplishment of these ends are the result of the influence of the word of God. There is no heathen nation on this earth where there are any such developments of mental powers, nor has there ever been such a nation, nor will there ever be such a one. The moral and intellectual powers have to predominate over the fleshly passions, before such results can follow. In all heathen lands the flesh predominates, and the intellect is dwarfed, and will forever be so, until raised out of it by a process of training under the influence of the word of God, which alone will accomplish the end. The vast improvements, therefore, of modern times, both in this country and some portions of Europe, may be safely set down as resulting from the word of God in its pure and heavenly influences upon the hearts and lives of men. But, say some, wickedness is greater to-day in these United States than in any age, or in any other country. This may also be true. The blessings of God may be turned into a curse, whenever men choose to do so. And we doubt not it is true to-day that thousands in our land who have received all the advantages, physical and intellectual, that the Bible can impart, have chosen the wicked side, and are to-day using the strength that came from God through the Bible, as a means of accomplishing their wicked ends. And as they have inherited strong minds in strong bodies, they are able to plan and accomplish immensely more wickedness, than if they did not possess such finely developed powers. Even Ingersoll himself is an example of this. It is evidently upon this principle that wickedness succeeds so alarmingly in these modern times. For while morality and intellect, while religion and truth are succeeding as the world has never witnessed since the days of inspired men on earth, it is also true that wickedness has probably never had such a run before. Such shrewdness in concocting, and such sharpness in executing heart-rending and diabolical transactions, have seldom startled the world in any age, as at the present.

But this is no more than one might expect under the circumstances. We need not expect otherwise. There will be wicked men to the very end of time that will misapply and abuse all the blessings God has ever, or ever will vouchsafe to man. But we rejoice to believe that the Bible, the word of God, is having a larger influence in our world than at any other period of modern history. And yet it may be admitted that wickedness is correspondingly greater, in many respects. We could not expect it to be otherwise. There are thousands of deeds of wickedness perpetrated in this Bible land that are never thought of among heathens, and that would make their ears tingle, and their blood curdle, if they were to hear of it. But the reason is obvious. In Bible lands the people are using the superior mental powers and advantages the Bible has afforded them, for wicked ends, instead of honoring God and themselves by doing the Lord's will. They are capable of greater and more horrid deeds of iniquity than heathen nations, who have less capacity.

The effects of the Bible, therefore, is either to make men better or worse. Both these effects are to be seen as large as life in North America, in the United States. This makes the responsibility of those who, in this country, turn out to be wicked, most awful. There is also a tendency among scientific men to deify science, so-called, and intellect, and to worship these rather than God, from whom, and through the influence of whose word, these things have come about. All these things call aloud to all lovers of the Bible to be still more earnest than ever in enforcing its truths, both by precept and example.

Christians, the church of God should be constantly on the alert, and seek, by every means the gospel has ordained, to spread the influence of the pure word of God over the earth. For it is sadly true that there is a very large population in our land that take no interest in the Christian religion, so that it may truthfully be said of our land, few will be saved. This is greatly to be regretted, that people who have so many blessings from the Lord, should so thoroughly dishonor him in their lives. But we rejoice to believe there is a respectable few throughout the length and breadth of our land who are truly on the Lord's side, and we both desire and pray that this number may be largely increased. Let us work earnestly, that we may so spread the light of the Bible that all may see and embrace its beauty. And here where the Bible is believed, is where we can work most effectually now: After while the Lord will open up the way to the heathen. This he will do so soon as they get ready to receive it.

E. G. S.

The Missionary Herald tells of a poor Christian woman in India who said to a missionary: "I have no money for missions; but I can speak to my neighbors and urge them to come to the Savior I have so joyfully found." Cannot each Christian woman do as much for her neighbors as that converted woman in India?

A CAMPBELL AND MISSIONARY SOCIETIES.

Bro. Brygley copies our article from the Advocate of May 14, and replies as follows:

1. Alexander Campbell was not a fool in 1849. He was president of the Bethany College and editor of the Millennial Harbinger long after that date. He preached and lectured acceptably to some of the most scholarly and critical audiences in America after that. He conducted many vigorous discussions in the Harbinger after that. But suppose his mental powers had failed to some extent, what then? It only proves that a very feeble-minded old man could see that the Advocate's position was all wrong on the missionary question! He took very decided position against the Advocate when he became president of a missionary society. And now that paper seeks to break the force of his illustrious example by saying he acted against his honest convictions from love of flattery!! And this is the journal that rebukes others from being "unjust and cruel to his character and his teaching!!!"

2. It has not been shown yet that Alexander Campbell ever opposed the missionary societies in operation among us. Where did he ever write or speak a sentence against them? He was one of the men that organized them. It is but fair to assume that whatever he considered objectionable in missionary societies in general was omitted in those he helped to organize; or, that he honestly changed his mind concerning the points of objection he had previously urged. Either hypothesis will harmonize with all the facts in the case, and leave no room for the groundless charge that he bartered away his honest convictions for empty flattery! We are told that there were societies among the disciples before the year 1849. We think this a mistake, but grant it. Did Campbell oppose those early societies? It has not been shown. So it turns out that he was tolerant of the societies now in operation, or their equivalent, before "his mental and will force was abated!!" There now!!! To what purpose this labored effort to prove Mr. Campbell non compos mentis while yet president of Bethany College, editor of the Millennial Harbinger, lectured and preached before select audiences, and a debater, respected and feared by the first minds in the world? The brother has had all his trouble for his pains. "He made a pit and digged it, and is fallen into the ditch which he made. His mischief shall return upon his own head and his violent dealing shall come down upon his own pate."

