In 1911, when Brother and Sister T. B. Larimore visited Maine on their "tramp trip" "from Maine to Mexico, from Canada to Cuba," an account of which Sister Larimore has so interestingly given in the "Corner Book," Sister Parkhurst accompanied them from her own home to mine upon a short visit to me. After a few inquiries regarding my physical condition and learning that nearly everything else had been tried but osteopathy, they recommended that, and expressed so much confidence that it could cure me, and gave accounts of such remarkable cures wrought by osteopathy with which they were personally acquainted, that both Sister Parkhurst and I were greatly impressed.

The knowledge of a method of healing of such great possibilities gave me a feeling of longing and unrest for a

LADIES! DARKEN

YOUR GRAY HAIR.

Use grandma's Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe and nobody will know.

The use of sage and sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy, and abundant. Whenever her hair fell out or took on that dull, faded, or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is mussy and out of date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a fifty-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get this famous old recipe, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair, and is splendid for dandruff, dry, feverish, itchy scalp and falling hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft, and abundant.

Stop Cheating Your Family.'

You doubtless fully realize your duty to your family in making your home life attractive, entertaining, cultured, and refined; and you have promised yourself that some day you will fill that vacant spot in the parlor with a splendid piano or player-piano of the sweetest tone and highest quality, or that you will replace the old rattle-trap with a superb new instrument. But the days, the months, and possibly the years have silently crept by, and still there is no good music in your home. In the meantime, home is not what it might be, for a home without a high-grade piano or player-piano is seriously and hopelessly handicapped.

You have only one life to live here; why let procrastination steal your family's best opportunity for social, mental, and spiritual advancement? The Gospel Advocate Piano Club will solve the financial problem for you now. It was organized to overcome the very difficulties which confront you. By clubbing your order with those of ninety-nine other subscribers, you save forty per cent of the price and yet are responsible only for your own order. Convenient terms of payment are provided. You try the instrument in your own home and must be thoroughly satisfied before finally accepting it.

Write for your copy of the club's catalogue and full particulars to-day. Address Associated Piano Clubs, Gospel Advocate Department, Atlanta, Ga.

TRY THE OLD RELIABLE

WINTERSMITH'S CHILL TONIC

For MALARIA CHILLS & FEVER
A FINE GENERAL STRENGTHENING TONIC

time; but as I found that the nearest osteopath was twenty miles away, and the cost of taking the treatment would be way beyond my means, it seemed that I must give it up and be content with the old manner of life which had given me much to enjoy in the past, and so I put it out of my mind and soon forgot it. But not so with Sister Parkhurst. She is the "Dorcas" of the two little congregations at Unity, and would find it impossible to put out of mind her desire to help another, and so she continued to study out the problem of how the necessary money was to be procured for me to take osteopathic treatment, as she was not able to furnish it herself.

A year passed away, during which circumstances developed making it the darkest time of my life and placing me in the most urgent need of good health. My sister died, leaving the care and responsibility of four boys to fall upon myself and my husband, who had tenderly cared for me through all these years of invalidism without one word of complaint, and had himself gradually failed in health until at this time he, too, was disabled by a serious heart trouble of long standing.

As may be imagined, all this did not assist in restoring Sister Parkhurst's peace of mind, and it was when she was lying awake in the night with the burden of it upon her mind that the thought occurred to her, like a suggestion from another person, that she write to the brethren with whom I had corresponded in regard to the work in New England, and others who were personally acquainted with me, asking them to donate one dollar each for osteopathic treatment for me. She wrote me for the addresses of all the brethren with whom I had ever corresponded, but gave me no hint of what use she purposed to make of them. The result of her efforts was as follows:

Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Larimore, $50; C. I. Eldridge, $1; Ella Humphrey, $1; Stella Lord, $1; Etta C. Lord, $1; Don Carlos Janes, $1; J. C. McQuiddy, $1; C. M. Daggett, $1; Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Young, $2; Miss C. E. Parks, $1; M. C. Kurfees, $5; E. G. Wing, $1.50; Charles Black, $1; Ira C. Moore, $2; Luella Parkhill (sent through Ira C. Moore), $10; Barrackville, W. Va., congregation (same), $2; Manley Waning, $1; John T. Lewis, $2; Birmingham, Ala., congregation (sent through Brother Lewis), $20.50; some of the sisters of this congregation (same), $12; Georgia Davis (same), $5; Mrs. D. M. Peebles (same), $5; Brother Pittman (given to Brother Lewis by him to be used for any good purpose), $12; Joseph A. Hines, $4; Blanche Foster, $3; George A. Klingman, $1; Howard Stults, $2; John Waning, $1; Harriet

When Louise of Prussia Went to Napoleon

One Hundred Years Ago

Louise went to Napoleon on a delicate and humiliating mission.

A clever woman, a beautiful woman, was Louise of Prussia. Had she accomplished her mission that night, the history of Europe would be different today.

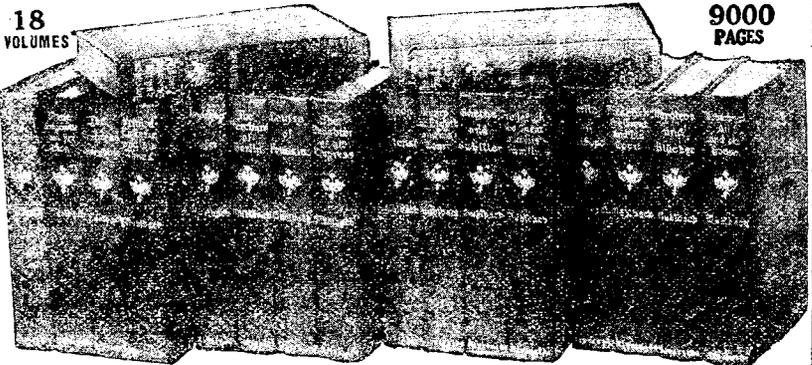

Beneath the surface of the mighty war now going on are the secret, twisted threads of intrigue and passions of a hundred years.

To understand the fearful upheaval in Europe you must know that hidden history frankly told in imperishable form in

Muhlbach's Historical Romances

These wonderful volumes tell the private, personal life and character of great men and women. History is here written in story form. These volumes are beyond question the most fascinating historical romances that have ever been given to the world. They contain a history of the crises in Germany, Austria, Russia, England, Switzerland, Egypt, France, Holland and Prussia during two hundred years of startling events, told in intensely interesting and romantic form. All classes are represented in these volumes as they lived and loved, thought and acted. Thus the human interest always prevails and has given this set of books enduring popularity. These wonderful historic romances are among the books that never die. They are interesting, instructive, reliable, truthful, wholesome and good. In the volume devoted to Napoleon and Blucher practically every historic character that the life of the great emperor touched in any way is here given—all the men and women of his time. The new edition is printed from new plates, upon extra quality of paper from easy-to-read type, are attractively illustrated and bound in Art Buckram Cloth, titles stamped in gold.

The Encyclopedia Britannica says: "Muhlbach's works show a talent for lively description and narration that gives enduring popularity and a power in weaving alluring romances from those stirring times that is unsurpassed."

Here Is Our Bargain Offer—Send No Money

Just sign and mail attached coupon and we will ship you the complete set of this beautiful edition for five days' examination in your own home. You can decide then for yourself whether or not you wish to buy. You can return the set at our expense if it fails to give you entire satisfaction. Should you desire to purchase send us $1.00 as first payment and pay the balance at the rate of $2.00 per month for only nine months until our special price of $19.00 is paid. The regular subscription price is $40.00. Thousands of sets have been sold at this figure. The reason we are able to cut the price to only $19.00 is that our method of sale by mail eliminates all middle men's profits. There is neither a dealer's profit nor an agent's commission involved in the transaction. We ship direct from factory to consumer and guarantee satisfaction in every way. Mail coupon promptly.

HERE ARE THE CONTENTS

1. Napoleon and the Queen of Prussia.
2. The Empress Josephine.
3. Napoleon and Blucher.
4. Queen Hortense.
5. Marie Antoinette and Her Son.
6. Prince Eugene and His Times.
7. The Daughter of an Empress.
8. Joseph II and His Court.
9. Mohammed Ali and His House.
10. Henry VIII and His Court.
11. Berlin and Sans-Souci.
12. Goethe and His Chiller.
13. The Merchant of Berlin.
14. Louise of Prussia and Her Times.
15. Old Fritz and the New Era.
16. Andreas Hofer.
17. Frederick The Great and His Court.
18. Frederick the Great and His Family.

INSPECTION COUPON

THE RIVERSIDE PUBLISHING CO., (223)
Marquette Bldg., Chicago, Illinois.

Please ship me for examination and approval one set Muhlbach's Historical Novels, eighteen volumes Art Buckram cloth binding. If satisfactory I will send you $1.00 after five days' examination and $2.00 a month thereafter for nine months. If the set does not meet my entire approval after five days' examination, I will notify you and hold subject to your order and return at your expense as offered Gospel Advocate readers.

Name _____
Address _____
Enclose business card, letter head or give references

A. Houston, $8; W. B. Houston, $20; $1; Kelley congregation, of Unity, Dr. Nora Brown, $5; A. J. Bachman, Maine, $57.50; Ward congregation, of

FRECKLES

Now Is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freckles as the prescription othine—double strength—is guaranteed to remove these homely spots.

Simply get an ounce of othine—double strength—from your druggist, and apply a little of it night and morning and you should soon see that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the lighter ones have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than an ounce is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a beautiful clear complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength othine as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.

Club Solves Piano Problem.

The greatest danger in buying a piano or player-piano is the difficulty in selecting one of real and lasting quality. There are so many cheap imitations on the market that the chances of full and permanent satisfaction are slight unless you are an expert judge and are extremely careful in your selection.

If you feel that you are not a good judge of the quality, durability, and value of an instrument, or if you have not time to make an exhaustive investigation of these matters, why not throw the responsibility on the Gospel Advocate Piano Club? It has already made the investigation for you and will assume the full responsibility of giving you absolute and perfect satisfaction and the largest possible value for your money. What your insurance policy is to your home, the club is to your piano or player-piano.

But the club does not stop there. It clubs your order with those of ninety-nine other subscribers, thus securing the lowest possible factory price for each club member. It provides convenient terms of payment, the strongest guarantees of quality and durability, and gives you the opportunity to try your instrument thoroughly before you buy. The club absolutely guarantees perfect satisfaction in every detail of piano buying. Write for your copy of the catalogue to-day. Address the Associated Piano Clubs, Gospel Advocate Department, Atlanta, Georgia.

Big Deal on Sterling Hose.

Big purchase direct from the mills on "Sterling" Half Hose enables us to offer them while they last at startling prices.

"Sterling" Hose are stainless fast dye—good, clean, selected cotton yarn, nice weight, full seamless double heel and toe, wide elastic instep, long loop-on elastic ribbed top, full standard lengths; come in any color wanted; one dozen to a box, solid sizes, 9 to 11.

Sent, postpaid, to any address in the United States for $1.40 per dozen. Money cheerfully refunded if not delighted. These hose are sold for and are worth 20 to 25 cents a pair in many places. Order to-day. The Bee Hive, Box F, Clinton, S. C.

Pastors: WE publish Books, Pamphlets, Minutes, Sermons, Church Directories, Manuals and rebound books and magazines. Specialists in Church Envelopes. Write us for prices. 419 S. Third St. MAYES PRINTING CO., Inc. Louisville, Ky.

Unity, Maine, $33; Mrs. L. J. Jackson, $5; Mary Waning, $1; S. F. Morrow, $5; Jennie Jones, $1; Estelle Parkhurst, $1; E. L. Jorgenson, $1; R. H. Boll, $1; James Rollins, $10; Osro Knight, $1; Lillian Vincent, $1; F. L. Rowe, $1; A. M. George, $2.50; A. B. Lipscomb, $1; Mrs. J. T. Anderson and Sister Story, $1.50; A. B. Pike, $5; Bridgeport, Conn., congregation (sent through A. B. Pike), $10. Total, $328.50.

The nearest osteopaths being twenty miles away, it was with much difficulty, and the very best she could do, that Sister Parkhurst procured treatment for me once each week, at the cost of ten dollars per week, and that only during the summer season. The osteopath employed, however, was one of the very best, if not the best, in the State.

I began taking the treatments on May 20, 1913, and continued them each week until October 21 of the same year, and received three treatments during the winter, using two hundred and forty-five dollars of the amount donated. The next year, although the osteopath kindly cut down her fee one-half, the lack of money made it necessary to choose between taking the treatment once each week for three or four months, or once in two weeks for seven months. It was decided by all concerned to be best to choose the latter. This year even the once-in-two-weeks plan was impossible for lack of money, as the remaining eighty-three dollars and fifty cents was only sufficient to settle accounts with the osteopath up to March 12, 1915. Since then, to date (December, 1915), I have received treatment once a month during seven months.

Now, I wish to assure the donors that their money has not been wasted, as far as its having accomplished the purpose for which it was donated is concerned. No doubt if I could have been given two treatments each week the entire year, as much would have been accomplished the first year as has been in all three; but this was out of the question. It was a choice between once each week during the summer season of the first year, or not at all, and the second year even less. It has simply been a matter of more time in accomplishing same results. The benefit received has been remarkable, considering the small number of treatments taken. But what is of more value to me than what the money has procured for me in my own case is that which it has procured in the case of my husband. Dr. Brown kindly treated him and one of the children without extra cost, curing the child of a serious trouble and prolonging my husband's life (I am sure) for several years at least.

EXCHANGE YOUR OLD BODY FOR A NEW ONE.

You can do it in three weeks, and thereby regain your health. This article is written by a physician who has seen it demonstrated in numerous cases and explains how it is done.

Listen: If your weight is one hundred and thirty-three pounds, your body contains eighty pounds of water, for, according to standard medical books, the human body contains sixty-seven and one-half per cent of water. Now disease is invariably caused by impurities which we call poison, and these are readily dissolved by the right kind of natural mineral water. Drink ten gallons (eighty pounds) of Shivar Mineral Water (use no other water for twenty-one days) and you will have exchanged your old body for a new one, so far as the soluble part of it is concerned. The impurities will be dissolved and pass away. If you suffer with dyspepsia, indigestion, sick headache, rheumatism, gallstones, kidney or liver disease, uric-acid poisoning, or other conditions due to impure blood, accept Mr. Shivar's liberal offer which appears below. Read the following letter carefully, then sign and mail it:

Shivar Spring,
Box 21G Shelton, S. C.
Gentlemen: I accept your guarantee offer, and inclose herewith two dollars for ten gallons of Shivar Mineral Water. I agree to give it a fair trial, in accordance with instructions contained in the booklet you will send; and if it fails to benefit my case, you agree to refund the price in full upon receipt of the two empty demijohns, which I agree to return promptly.
Name
Address.....
Shipping Point
(Please write distinctly.)

END STOMACH TROUBLE, GASES OR DYSPEPSIA

"Pape's Diapepsin" makes Sick, Sour, Gassy Stomachs surely feel fine in five minutes.

If what you just ate is souring on your stomach or lies like a lump of lead, refusing to digest, or you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food, or have a feeling of dizziness, heartburn, fullness, nausea, bad taste in mouth and stomach-headache, you can get blessed relief in five minutes. Put an end to stomach trouble forever by getting a large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin from any drug store. You realize in five minutes how needless it is to suffer from indigestion, dyspepsia or any stomach disorder. It's the quickest, surest stomach doctor in the world. It's wonderful.

Cabbage Plants That Grow.

Hardy, frost-proof varieties. Grown in the open—earliest in maturing. One hundred, postpaid, twenty-five cents. By express, charges collect, per thousand, in lots of less than four thousand, $1; five thousand to seven thousand, eighty-five cents; eight thousand to ten thousand, seventy-five cents. Special prices in larger quantities. C. F. HETHINGTON, Meggetts, S. C.

Subscribe for The Bible Study Helper. Sixty cents per year.

Last winter I was called upon to pass through a most trying ordeal. One of the children was wild with delirium (caused directly by meningitis of the brain and indirectly by tuberculosis) from November until his death on March 27, during which time I gave his older brother all the assistance in caring for him that he received during the daytime. While I was able to keep up through it all, of course it greatly retarded the progress of my restoration to health, and as yet I am able to do only a little light work about the house. I am confident, however, that next summer would complete the cure if I were to have one treatment each week for six or seven months.

Brethren and sisters, you, who so generously responded to Sister Parkhurst's appeal, can little realize what you have done for me; you can little realize what it means to me to be so comparatively free from pain, to be able to be out in this beautiful world, to walk the green fields, to visit my friends, etc., after having been shut within four walls for twenty-three years! Yet, if it were not for the hope that my restoration to health will enable me to be more useful in the service of Christ, and thus indirectly your money would be expended for the benefit of his cause, I would rather you had used it directly in the extension of his kingdom. And I am pleased to tell you that even this early I have been able to participate in a little work that I have longed to do for years.

There were twenty or more young people within a radius of a mile around us, within the ages of six and eighteen years, who were not attending any of the denominational Sunday schools, neither receiving any or but little religious instruction. Last May we gathered together over thirty young people and adults and started a Sunday school at our nearest schoolhouse, not as a separate organization from the church, but as a work of the church. I have had the pleasure of teaching a class of nine young people between the ages of twelve and eighteen.

Furthermore, I believe God had in view, and is working out, something of far more importance than my restoration to health, when Brother and Sister Larimore drew our attention to osteopathy, resulting in Sister Parkhurst's appeal, your liberal response and the engaging of Dr. Nora Brown, of Waterville, Maine (Waterville being a thriving little city of more than ten thousand inhabitants), to give me osteopathic treatment. I believe it was the setting in motion of a trend of circumstances that will ultimate in the establishment of the cause at Waterville.

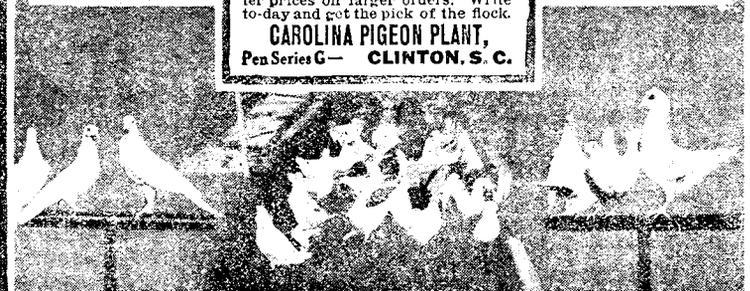

MONEY IN PIGEONS

Make Your Back Yard Profitable

THE demand for squabs in the Northern, Eastern and Southern markets has never been supplied, because pigeon raising as a business is comparatively new. Buy a half dozen pair of select birds, fence in a small portion of your back yard and watch them go to work. Success is easy. They raise from eight to fifteen pairs of squabs a year. Your squabs and fancy birds will bring handsome returns. You will actually make money in a hitherto useless part of your back yard. Pigeon raising is not a fad or fancy. It is a profitable business. Let us start you right. Our breeders are the best, and raised from prize winning parents. We will furnish you with the birds and teach you how to raise them, and you will reap a handsome profit with a very little outlay. Thousands are taking advantage of this same opportunity. Write to day for our literature on pigeon raising as a money making proposition, or better still, write us to send you a few pair of Belgian Carneaux at $3.00 per pair, White Swiss Mondaines at $5.00 per pair, White Kings at $3.50 per pair, or White Maltese at $4.00 per pair. Our birds are all guaranteed. Your money back if after two months you are not satisfied with their work. Better prices on larger orders. Write to-day and get the pick of the flock.

CAROLINA PIGEON PLANT,
Pen Series C — CLINTON, S. C.

Get Your Machine at Half Price

$12⁹⁵

Five dollars brings you this high quality sewing machine, freight prepaid. Give it a thorough thirty-day trial; if you are entirely satisfied, pay for it in three monthly installments. If after thirty days you don't think it is the equal of any machine regularly sold at double the price, send the machine back; we pay the freight and return your money. This, in a nut-shell, is the big money-saving plan of the Religious Press Co-Operative Club.

Get our catalogue and investigate fully the six splendid bargains in high-grade sewing machines offered you under these terms. These machines are all fully warranted for ten years—during this period we replace free any defective parts. Prices range from $12.95 to $27.80. Not "cheap" machines, but absolutely the best that can be manufactured at the price—machines that you would have to pay twice as much for from agents or at retail stores. They are all sold under the same plan—

Easy Terms—Thirty Days Trial

The Club represents the co-operative plan of buying. By agreeing to sell a large number of these machines, we secured from a highly reputable manufacturer prices very little above actual cost. In buying from us you get your machine at carload-lot prices, plus the very light expense of operating the Club. All middlemen's profits, agents' commissions, salaries, etc., are saved.

Send us this Coupon Today and get our catalogue. Let us tell you more fully about the Club Plan. Investigate the superb, easy-running, guaranteed machines that you can buy under this plan at half usual prices and on easy terms. Remember the thirty day trial feature. Simply cut out this coupon, write in your name and address and mail to us.

Religious Press Co-Operative Club
113 W. Carolina Ave., Clinton, S. C.

FREE CATALOGUE COUPON

Religious Press Co-Operative Club
113 W. Carolina Ave., Clinton, S. C.
Please send me your catalogue, and show me how I can save half the purchase price on a high quality sewing machine through the Co-Operative Club Plan.

Name

Address

Before Dr. Brown began treating me, to my knowledge, there was but one person residing in Waterville with whom I was personally acquainted.

Now the number has increased to fourteen, having made the acquaintance of the most of the number through Dr. Brown, many of them hav-

TRIED VARIOUS KIDNEY REMEDIES, BUT ONLY ONE PROVED RELIABLE.

It is with great pleasure that I write these lines of praise for your wonderful kidney and bladder remedy. I had kidney trouble so bad I became very much alarmed. I had tried various kidney remedies I heard of, but without relief. I was about discouraged of ever being helped, when one day I picked up a book containing testimonials of people who had been helped and cured of their kidney trouble by the use of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root; so I decided to try it, and I know I owe my present good health to the wonderful curative power of Swamp-Root. I sincerely hope my words will be the means of restoring many other sufferers of kidney and bladder troubles to good health.

Very truly yours,

B. J. FENSTERMAKER,

1491 Roycroft Avenue, Lakewood, O.

Personally appeared before me, this 18th day of October, 1915, B. J. Fenstermaker, who subscribed the above statement and made oath that the same is true in substance and in fact.

WILLIAM J. KLOTZBACH,
Notary Public.

Letter to
Dr. Kilmer & Co.,
Binghamton, N. Y.

Prove What Swamp-Root Will Do for You.

Send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample-size bottle. It will convince any one. You will also receive a booklet of valuable information telling about the kidneys and bladder. When writing, be sure and mention the Gospel Advocate. Regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles for sale at all drug stores.

CALOMEL MAKES YOU SICK, UGH.

"Dodson's Liver Tone" better than calomel and cannot salivate.

Calomel loses you a day! You know what calomel is. It's mercury—quick-silver. Calomel is dangerous. It crashes into sour bile like dynamite, cramping and sickening you. Calomel attacks the bones and should never be put into your system.

When you feel bilious, sluggish, constipated, and all knocked out, and believe you need a dose of 'dangerous calomel, just remember that your druggist sells for fifty cents a large bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone, which is entirely vegetable and pleasant to take and is a perfect substitute for calomel. It is guaranteed to start your liver without stirring you up inside, and cannot salivate.

Don't take calomel! It makes you sick the next day; it loses you a day's work. Dodson's Liver Tone straightens you right up and you feel great. Give it to the children, because it is perfectly harmless and does not gripe.

TOBACCO HABIT CURED OR NO COST

Harmless, bonded, home remedy. Indorsed by physicians and home people. Send no money, but your name to-day. J. Edward Cook, G. A., King-Ni-Ko System, Wichita, Kansas.

ing accompanied her in her automobile at different times on her visits to my home. Although I had little opportunity for conversation with these friends of Dr. Brown, yet what I learned of them led me to feel that here was good material upon which to expend some earnest work, and which prompted me to accept Dr. Brown's invitation to return home with her for a several-days' visit, as it would give me an opportunity to "spy out the land." I visited Waterville the week following the State convention held there the first week in October by the First and Free Baptist churches for the purpose of uniting the two into one church. This was an opportune time for my visit, as the uniting of these churches was a topic of general conversation, which gave me an excellent opportunity for introducing the subject of Christian unity, which in turn opened the way for the introduction of other subjects of like importance.

Since my visit there, seemingly as another link in this chain of circumstances, Sister Parkhurst has been impelled, by circumstances over which she had no control, to take up her residence at Waterville for a time. This will give her an opportunity to work among the same people that I have attempted to interest in a search for the truth, as well as others. In addition, I have laid out for my winter's work the holding of a correspondence with a special few of the fourteen; and I am hoping by another summer that the chain of circumstances will have lengthened to the point where the next link will be protracted-meeting work at Waterville, resulting in the establishment of a congregation of Christ; and then, brethren and sisters, would you not, indeed, be rewarded for your kindness to me? Do not forget this prospective work in Waterville, but help us with your prayers that my hopes may become realized, and in the meantime I will show my gratitude for what you have done for me by doing all that I can to further the accomplishment of great good at Waterville.

Tobacco Habit Banished

in 48 to 72 hours. No craving for tobacco in any form after first dose. Harmless; no habit-forming drugs. Satisfactory results guaranteed in every case. Write Newell Pharmacal Company, Department 90, St. Louis, Mo., for free booklet, "Tobacco Redeemer," and positive proof.

FIRM FOUNDATION An eight-page weekly religious paper devoted to the restoration of primitive Christianity. Ex-cels in church news; an able corps of writers; extensively circulated. Subscription price, $1 a year, payable in advance. Special rates for clubs. We believe that every loyal Christian should have the Firm Foundation visit his home.

FIRM FOUNDATION PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Austin, Texas.

MEAT CAUSE OF KIDNEY TROUBLE.

Take Salts to flush kidneys if back hurts or bladder bothers.

If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken; then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region; sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness; your stomach sours, tongue is coated; and when the weather is bad, you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure, and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.

We have the earliest, big, high-class Strawberry grown; also the best one of the Everbearing Kinds. It bears the best-flavored berries from spring until snow flies. We grow two hundred choice varieties of Dahlias, Cannas, and Gladioli, and are offering bargains in many select combinations. Free booklet. Wakefield Plant Farm, Charlotte, N. C.

JACOBS & COMPANY

SPECIAL ADVERTISING AGENTS

PRINTERS DESIGNERS PHOTO ENGRAVERS ELECTROTYPERS

Catalogues —
— a Specialty

HOME OFFICE
CLINTON, S.C.

Why not V-C Now?

BIGGER V-C CROPS MEAN BIGGER BUSINESS!

That's the story in a nut shell as you will find it told by words and pictures in these free V-C Crop Books. Better Paying Crops! That's what every farmer is after, not increased acreage but increased Crops and Profits. In these Books you will find an abundance of proof showing just how Bigger Crops and Bigger Profits have been made by the V-C way of Greater Prosperity on thousands of farms.

Every one of these remarkable Books was written by a practical Farmer who discovered how to get the most out of each foot of land, for he made a life study of Soils and Crops.

Not even the Government of the United States has ever issued such an elaborate, valuable and complete set of books as these for Free distribution among the Farmers of this land. So, while they last

FILL OUT THIS COUPON NOW AND SUCH BOOKS AS YOU HAVE CHECKED WILL BE SENT YOU FREE

FREE V-C COUPON

CROP BOOK DEPT. — V-C FERTILIZERS

Box 1616-J. L. Richmond, Va.

Without cost or obligation send me Free Illustrated Crop Books as per my check marks (✓) in spaces below:

- | | |
|--------------------------------------|-------------------|
|ALFALFA |LAWNS |
|BARLEY |MILLET |
|BERRIES |NUTS |
|CITRUS FRUITS |OATS |
|CLOVER |RICE |
|CORN |RYE |
|COTTON |SHRUBS |
|Fertilizer Text Book |SORGHUM |
|"Making Soil and Crops Pay More" |STRAW- |
|FLORIDA |BERRIES |
|TRUCKS |SUGAR CANE |
|FLOWERS |TOBACCO |
|FRUITS |TREES (Shade) |
|GRASSES (for Hay) |VEGETABLES |
|HAY |WHEAT |

Name

Address

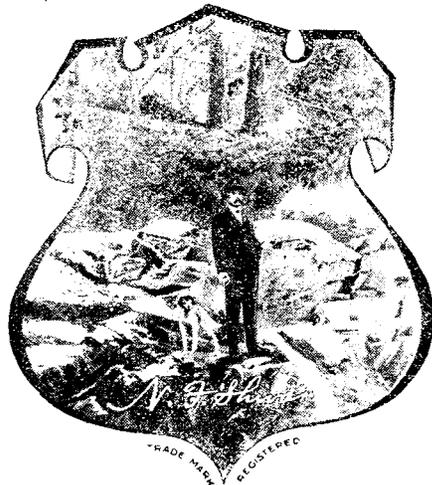

Dealer

Address

If You Value Your Health

Read Every Word of This Remarkable Story

It is told by one who has himself experienced the regeneration in health which he encourages you to seek by the self-same means.

THE STORY OF A GREAT DISCOVERY.

The hardships of a traveling salesman's life had wrecked my health. My family physician diagnosed my case as chronic gastritis, brought on by disease of the liver and complicated by kidney trouble. I consulted specialists who confirmed his diagnosis. Months passed, I grew worse and was finally compelled to give up my work.

By chance I heard of some wonderful cures which had resulted from drinking the water of a little spring in the Mineral Belt of South Carolina, a picture of which spring appears on this page. In desperation I tried it. On the second day I thought that I could notice some improvement; at the end of the first week my appetite and digestion had returned and I was much stronger; at the end of the third week I felt that I was completely cured. That was six years ago and I still enjoy perfect health.

Knowing that it had restored my health and believing that it had saved my life, I bought the Spring.

I then determined to see whether the water would cure others as it had cured me. I shipped ten gallons absolutely free of charge to each of one thousand sufferers from chronic diseases. Only four reported no benefit from the use of the ten gallons. The other nine hundred and ninety-six reported decided benefit or complete cures. Many claimed that the water had saved their lives.

I realized that I had discovered one of the world's greatest mineral springs, and I decided to devote my life to it. But how could I make the world listen; how could I make them believe my story? The precious water was running to waste while thousands were suffering. I said, I will make them believe me by showing my faith in them and in the curative power of the Spring. I will tell them that the water shall cost them nothing if it fails to benefit.

The world listened!

Some wrote for proof and I sent them the letters which I had received from their fellowmen. Others accepted my offer without question. Thousands have written me reporting relief and permanent cure of a great variety of chronic diseases.

But some of the water still ran to waste for lack of belief. I determined that every drop should be used to relieve the sufferings of humanity. To this end I requested the advertising manager of the Wesleyan Christian Advocate to come to see me. At my desk I opened my mail and showed him the letters from men and women from all parts of the country who had suffered and who had found relief. I gave him my letter files and induced him to spend several hours reading my past correspondence with those who were using the water. I showed him the chemical analysis and letters from physicians explaining the curative properties of the water.

He believed, and as a result he has written this announcement for me.

WILL YOU BELIEVE?

I do not ask your implicit faith: only enough to try the water for three weeks as I did. I estimate that I drank about ten gallons and I, therefore, offer gladly to ship you two five gallon demijohns on my guarantee that if you find that it does not benefit you I will promptly refund the price, which is only $2.00. You must promise to drink the water in accordance with the instructions which I will send you and return the empty demijohns. I make you the sole judge as to whether the water has benefited you, and as the Advertising Manager of this paper has kindly consented to guarantee my guarantee to refund your money, if you are not benefited, I hope you will feel perfectly free to accept my offer.

This offer is extended to all who suffer with any chronic disease, except cancer and consumption, but I especially recommend the water for the treatment of stomach, liver, kidney and bladder diseases and for rheumatism, gout, uric acid poisoning, gall stones, diabetes, nervous headache and general debility resulting from impure or impoverished blood. These are the diseases most frequently mentioned in the letters which I have received, but my offer is open to anyone who suffers from any chronic ailment.

Yours sincerely,

N F SHIVAR Proprietor

EVERY MAIL BRINGS LETTERS LIKE THESE.

Savannah, Ga., Dec. 28, 1910.

Mr. N. F. Shivar, Shelton, S. C.: Dear Sir. As you are well aware, in 1909 I was suffering with indigestion, stomach and liver disorders and all its train of horrifying phenomena for several months. I had lived on milk, soft eggs, shredded wheat, a very insufficient diet for an active working man, and of course, from disease and starvation was in a very low state of nervous vitality and general debility. I ordered 10 gallons of your Mineral Water, which I used continuously, reordering when necessary, and in four months from date I began drinking it gained 29 lbs., was strong and perfectly well and have worked practically every day since. It acts as a general renovator of the system. I prescribe it in my practice, and it has in every instance had the desired effects. It is essential to use this water in as large quantities as possible, for its properties are so happily blended and in such proportion that they will not disturb the most delicate system. It is purely nature's remedy.

A. L. R. AVANT, M. D.

DuPont, Ga., Nov. 25, 1911.

Shivar Spring, Shelton, S. C.: Gentlemen—I have suffered for years with nervous indigestion and kidney troubles. Derived more benefit from the Shivar Spring Water than from months at Hot Springs, Ark., and numerous other Springs. I consider it the very best water extant. AUGUSTUS DUPONT.

Lexington, Va., Nov. 24, 1911.

Mr. N. F. Shivar, Shelton, S. C.: Dear Sir—I suffered with intestinal indigestion and the Shivar Spring Water has cured me. I would gladly recommend it to all suffering with indigestion, kidney and liver trouble. My father had kidney trouble last fall and he thought Shivar Spring Water saved his life. Respectfully,

MRS. HARVEY DIXON.

Atlanta, Ga., July 27, 1911.

Mr. N. F. Shivar, Shelton, S. C.: Dear Sir—I ordered 10 gallons Shivar Spring Water especially for my teething baby who was suffering with its stomach and bowels. This water cured her disorders entirely and she is herself again. I stopped all medicine and gave her only the water. I was also run down from the heat and fatigue, and the water has restored me also. Thanking you, Very respectfully,

MRS. W. C. MCGILL.

Columbia, S. C., Aug. 11, 1912.

Mr. N. F. Shivar, Shelton, S. C.: Dear Sir—Until a few weeks ago my wife was a chronic sufferer from gall stones. She was stricken critically ill and nothing but morphine seemed to relieve her pain by rendering her unconscious. Rev. A. J. Foster pastor of Shanton Baptist Church of Columbia, S. C., advised me to take her immediately to Shivar Spring. On consulting my physician he agreed that it would be best to do so without delay. In about three days after arriving at the Spring, she was apparently relieved and had regained her appetite. She has suffered no ill effect of the trouble since. Please publish this for the benefit of sufferers.

J. P. DRAFFIN.

P. S.—I suffered for 8 years with kidney trouble and inflammation of the bladder. After using this water only a few days, I am entirely relieved and suffer no more effect of the trouble whatever.

FILL OUT THIS COUPON AND MAIL IT TODAY

Shivar Spring, Box 21 P Shelton, S. C.

Gentlemen:—I accept your guarantee offer and enclose herewith two ($2.00) dollars for ten gallons (two five gallon demijohns) of Shivar Spring Water. I agree to give the water a fair trial in accordance with the instructions which you will send, and I derive no benefit therefrom you are to refund the price in full, upon demand and upon receipt of the two empty demijohns, which I agree to return promptly.

Name.....

Address.....

Shipping Point.....

GOSPEL ADVOCATE

Nashville, Tenn. Box 83 R
 Oct 1 1916

Volume LVIII. No. 12.

NASHVILLE, TENN., MARCH 23, 1916.

$1.50 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

CONTENTS.

"EDIFYING AS THE NEED MAY BE".....	281
OUR CONTRIBUTORS.....	283
A Remedy for the Blues—A Happy Year—Itinerary Notes.
GEORGIA AND THE FAR SOUTHERN FIELD.....	284
SPIRIT OF THE PRESS.....	286
QUERY DEPARTMENT.....	287
EDITORIAL.....	288
Untaught Questions—How Does God Draw Men to Himself?—Fermented or Unfermented Wine in the Communion—True and False Teachers.
AT HOME AND ABROAD.....	292
From the Field.....
OBITUARIES.....	294
Matthews—Jordan—Cotton—Corley—Hudgins—Dow—McDaniel.
In Behalf of the Tennessee Orphans' Home.....	299
Notes from West Tennessee.....	300
A Tent for the Colorado Western Slope.....	300
A Zealous Brother.....	301
An Attempted Debate.....	302

Entered at the post-office at Nashville, Tenn., as second-class matter.
 Published weekly at Nashville, Tenn.

"EDIFYING AS THE NEED MAY BE"

BY A. B. LIPSCOMB

"See That Ye Hasten the Matter."

In the second book of Chronicles we are told that "Joash was seven years old when he began to reign; and he reigned forty years in Jerusalem." He is regarded as one of the best of Judah's kings. One of the signal events of his reign was the repairing of the temple. We naturally associate the name of this king with his chest. But we would not have thought much of Joash or of his chest in this connection, if the chest had been found empty following his noted proclamation. It was the liberality of his people and the quickness of their response that has given that homely receptacle its enviable position in Old Testament history. We should especially note the urgency displayed by the boy king in this matter. "He gathered together the priests and the Levites, and said to them, Go out unto the cities of Judah, and gather of all Israel money to repair the house of your God from year to year; and see that ye hasten the matter."

"The Age of Machinery."

One of the outstanding marks of the age in which we live is speed; so much so that it would not be amiss among other designations to speak of it as the "age of speed."

The civilized world has been tending that way for a hundred years. It has hastened the swiftness of production by bringing in what men have called "the age of machinery." The swiftness of output has been truly remarkable. The day of sewing by hand has given way to sewing by machine; the age of homespun, to spinning and weaving by machinery; the age of setting type and printing by hand, to the steam press and the linotype. It is so in transportation. Some of the old pictures of our Presidents appear almost ludicrous in the light of modern invention. Isn't young Garfield a sight to behold in that picture where he is riding a mule that pulls a canal boat? Isn't it almost unbelievable to hear that Andrew Jackson journeyed all the way from the Hermitage to the nation's capital in a stagecoach? The stagecoach has been superseded by the palace car and the automobile; the canal boat, by the ocean greyhound. In the olden days messages were sent by footmen, by couriers, and by carrier pigeons. This is the day of the telephone, the telegram, the cablegram, the marconigram. And the latest convenience promised is a mail service by aeroplane. We never had so many labor-saving, time-saving, distance-annihilating appliances as we have to-day. What a big world it is in which we live, compared with the world of five hundred or a thousand years ago! A modern writer draws the comparison: "Euripides' world was a little city full of people under a templed hill. Virgil's world was Rome. Racine's world was Paris. Shakespeare's world was London. But what are the bounds of the modern man's world? It is a bewildering multitudinous humanity that lies before our vision. Nothing human is alien to the mind of the modern man. Their line is gone out into all the earth and their words to the end of the world. Our interests are multiplied a thousandfold, and yet life seems so little and so short."

When Speed Becomes a Curse.

The wise man spoke of "feet that are running to mischief." And Paul, quoting from the Psalms of David, describes a certain class by saying: "Their feet are swift to shed blood; destruction and misery are in their ways; and the way of peace have they not known: there is no fear of God before their eyes." These passages bring home the serious and solemn truth that swiftness is often a curse. The pride that men feel in doing big things and in doing them quickly may stand for the opposite of success. The speed often spells self-destruction and the destruction of hundreds—yea, thousands—of other men who are involved in its processes. I heard one man telling another recently of what he had witnessed at one of the largest ammunition plants in the United States. The war in Europe, he declared, had converted this plant into one of the busiest places in the world. About twenty-eight thousand men are employed, and this number represents all nationalities. Each applicant for work, when accepted, is photographed and given a number. He wears a button with this photograph and number on his coat. When pay day comes, they do not ask for his name; they simply look at his number and identify his photograph. The work is so dangerous that an average of six are killed every day of whom the outside world does not know. "Where do you wish your body to be shipped in the event you are killed?" they asked an applicant. The man turned away with the remark: "Well, since you mention it, I think I will attend to that matter myself." These twenty-eight thousand men are busily engaged in making ammunition with which to destroy thousands of other men. There are Germans in that factory making bullets that will pierce the hearts of their brothers across the seas. There are Frenchmen and Englishmen who are doing the same thing for their kinsmen. The men who own and operate the plant stand in daily dread of some terrific explosion that will destroy it. Moved by this fear, they employ a force of about two hundred trained detectives who keep a constant watch over the movements of those men. It is not so much the loss of human life they fear as the loss of their profits should the plant be blown up. They are obsessed with the speed mania. What they do, they must do quickly while the war lasts. They are waxing richer and richer as the days go by. But—O, the indescribable sin of their nefarious business! As surely as God reigns in heaven, he will bring them to judgment. As Simon Peter said, they "shall bring on themselves swift destruction." In that great and terrible day of accounting "flight shall perish from the swift; and the strong shall not strengthen his force; neither shall the mighty deliver himself."

How Hurry Cheats Us.

But there are other illustrations of how the speed mania is producing evil results. William George Jordan says: "Hurry is the scourge of America. It is both a cause and a result of our high-pressure civilization. Hurry is the deathblow to calmness, to dignity, to poise. The old-time courtesy went out when the new-time hurry came in." To the man who only takes minutes to eat and digest his food this writer sounds a note of warning: "Hurry is the father of dyspepsia. Hurry means the breakdown of health. It is the royal road to nervous prostration."

Our schools and colleges are in a hurry, and parents who would educate their children are in a hurry. A distinguished educator says: "Children are forced to go through a series of studies that sweep the circle of all human wisdom. They hurry the children into a hundred textbooks, then into ill health, then into life."

Business is in a hurry, with all the shoddy goods it turns out and all the pathetic human breakdowns it involves. It explains the mania for gambling and wild speculation. They that haste to be rich fall into many snares.

The pleasure seeker is in a hurry. A friend from Louisville, Ky., who is a physician, told me how he was driving his car on one of the pikes, returning from a sick call, when he came to another car that had been almost wrecked by running into a telegraph pole. The occupants of this machine were four young men, all of them in a drunken, debauched condition. "What was my surprise and grief," he said, "when I looked into their faces, to discover that two of them were the sons of my best friend! I could not help from associating their shameful condition, as well as their accident, with the possession of the car. The speed mania was the cause of both. Their father meant well when he gave them the car, but unconsciously he had set them on the road to hell."

The reformer is in a hurry. He wants to redeem the world all at once. As Theodore Parker said of the anti-slavery cause: "The trouble seems to be that God is not in a hurry, but I am." We are beset with panaceas that are to regenerate human society in some wholesale, external, mechanical way. We are afflicted with half-thought-out, ill-digested legislation. "Raw haste is half sister to delay." We see its effects everywhere.

Travelers are in a hurry. People want to see the world in thirty-five days. The psalmist says to "behold the beauty of the Lord." How little there is in these days of beholding things! Is not seeing—really seeing things—becoming a lost art? What do we know about the "harvest of the quiet eye?" We are on the gallop. No, that will hardly express it. It is the sixty-horse-power motor we want. We have coined a word to supplant the old word "see." We speak of "doing" a place. People rush through the great galleries of the world, with all the accumulated art of centuries, in a half hour and say: "We have done it." We forget that the more we hurry, the less we really live, and the things that really make life are the things out of which haste forever cheats a man."

Don't Crowd Out the Best.

We should recognize our human limitations. We can't be everything and see everything and know everything and do everything. As Tennyson says: "The artist is known by his self-limitation." Do not crowd the program of life. Don't try to do too many things. Don't accept all invitations. Don't join everything in creation. Is not the church of the living God big enough for all true purposes in a man's heart? Don't crowd your life with secondary and subordinate issues so that the great issues get no place. Abide your time. Earn your happiness. Remember the words of John Ruskin: "He only is advancing in life whose heart is getting softer, whose blood warmer, whose spirit is entering into living peace."

Work.

Work, for time is flying;
Work with hearts sincere;
Work, for souls are dying;
Work, for night is near.
In the Master's vineyard
Go and work to-day;
Be no useless sluggard,
Standing in the way.

In this glorious calling,
Work till day is o'er;
Work, till evening falling,
You can work no more,
Then your labor bringing
To the King of kings,
Borne with joy and singing
Home on angels' wings.

There where saints adore him,
Where the ransomed meet,
Lay thy sheaves before him—
Lay them at his feet.
Hear thy Master saying,
From his heavenly throne,
When thy wages paying,
"Laborer, well done!"

—Horatius Bonar.

OUR CONTRIBUTORS

A Remedy for the Blues.

BY F. W. SMITH.

"Why art thou cast down, O my soul?" (Ps. 42: 5.)

No doubt there are few people in this world exempt from that almost indescribable feeling called the "blues," which comes upon one as an uninvited guest and remains as an unwelcome visitor. The language of the psalmist quoted above is an expression of a well-nigh universal experience which has come down through all of the ages past and which is destined to remain as a useless and unnecessary heritage of mankind. No one likes to have the "blues;" and yet, with all of our protesting, even to slamming the door in the face of the gloomy intruder, we feel the chilly fingers of this monster upon our spirits, who must have slipped through the keyhole. The "blues" creep upon us like the rigor preceding the fever which racks the brain and burns up the fuel within us, and we seldom seem to know why we are in this slough of despondency. But there is no danger of mistaking this feeling for the joys of religion. After moping around for hours and days, perhaps, with a feeling that all the world had gone wrong and there was nothing left for which one should desire to live, when suddenly the clouds would all vanish, did we not wonder what it was all about? And did we not reflect upon ourselves for permitting such feelings to cling to us, driving the light and hope out of our lives? Well, yes, but how could we help it? Are we not religious, trying to serve the Lord day by day? To be sure we are, and we would take it as a mortal offense to insinuate that we are not just what we claim to be.

Exactly so; but what about the "blues," and why do we have that mental disease? Is there no remedy for this harassing ailment? Well, there is no use to talk about a remedy until we know the cause of the disease. Now, if we can properly diagnose this mental derangement called the "blues," get at the root of the matter, we may then be enabled to find a cure. What, then, is the cause or root of that depressing and paralyzing feeling that seizes us in a viselike grip and takes all of the spirit out of us? Dissatisfaction with our lot or circumstances in life, growing out of unbelief in the promises of God. The very taproot of it all is distrust of God's providential care—the very thing that has been the curse of mankind from the beginning. Business, we think, has gone to pieces, and we see the hand of poverty beckoning us over the hills to the poorhouse. Health has gone from us, and in the rack of pain we feel that God is no longer gracious to us, forgetting that it is an opportunity to exemplify the beautiful virtue of "patience in suffering." Friends have proven untrue and deserted us, and we forget that in such an hour we can become partakers of His sufferings whose friends deserted him in the most trying hour of his earth life. The soul-prop for all the seeming misfortunes and disasters that befall the child of God is found in an abiding faith in such precious promises as these: "And we know that to them that love God all things work together for good, even to them that are called according to his purpose." (Rom. 8: 28.) Again: "Be ye free from the love of money; content with such things as ye have: for himself hath said, I will in no wise fail thee, neither will I in any wise forsake thee." (Heb. 13: 5.) If we should have implicit faith in these and many other promises of like nature, it would drive the "blues" out of the Christian life. Here is one that should dry up the taproot of the "blues" and cause that disease to forever disappear: "Casting all your anxiety upon him, because he careth for you." (1 Pet. 5: 7.) Yes, "careth for you." Let us emphasize two words here—viz., "careth" and "you." O, how much there is in that word "careth!" It means to care for his own in everything—the body as well as the soul. But does it mean that he careth for me? Most assuredly, if I am a child of God, striving day by day to serve him.

Here is a remedy, only part of which seems good:

Let the man who has the blues take a map and census table of the world, and estimate how many millions there are who would gladly exchange lots with him, and let him begin on some practicable plan to do all the good he can to as many as he can, and he will soon forget to be despondent.

It should be no satisfaction to a child of God to know that there are others more unfortunately situated than himself or herself. If I were a cripple and should see one who was blind, the only relief would be on the ground that "misery loves company;" but that is not the Christian spirit. Such comparisons should only excite pity and not consolation. The latter part of this remedy—viz., "plan to do all the good he can to as many as he can"—is most excellent. Let us try it. "Why art thou cast down, O my soul?"

A Happy Year.

BY S. F. MORROW.

I have received the following:

Dear Brother Morrow: I have had a lingering desire since the fourth Lord's day in December to write you a few words concerning your short talk on the past and present year. I could have said "amen" when you remarked that 1915 had been the best year at Reid Avenue church of Christ. It was my second year of worship at this place, and I have reason to say it was the happiest year of my life, as my family came into the fold with me in this year; and may God help us to so live that each year may be the happier, for without Christianity there is no true happiness.

At the same service Brother Hall gave us a grand exhortation on prayer. I have always prayed looking on it as a duty as found in 1 Thess. 5: 17 and Luke 18: 1, but not realizing the power the Father has to answer prayers as he sees best; that nothing is impossible with him, and that he will hear our prayers if we pray in faith and faint not.

I have been taking the Gospel Advocate for two years, and would feel lost without it. I give it to all who will accept it and promise to read it. I am sending it to different parts of the State of Texas. Mrs. E. JONES.
751 Lynnwood Avenue, Nashville, Tenn.

I take the liberty to publish the above letter. It speaks for itself; but some thoughts are so good I wish to impress them, if possible, on the minds of fathers and mothers. The first thought is prayer; and, dear fathers and mothers, I cannot think of anything that is more important than to teach our children to pray, and pray with them and for them and for all the world. This includes our enemies, if we should have any. But prayer without a consistent, godly life will prove a great curse to the children. It is sad to think of the many children who are being reared now by those who claim to be members of the church of God, who have never heard a prayer at home. The good sister refers us to a scripture that says, "Pray without ceasing." This teaches me that all we say and do should be done in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, with a sincere prayer in our hearts to keep us from the evil one.

The sister states that she gives her Advocate to all who will promise to read it. We hope that every one who reads this will follow her example, only press the good work farther—get every one you can to subscribe for it; and if every one who takes the paper would do this, much good could be done. I mean you, dear reader, not the other fellow. Great good could be accomplished along this line if every elder and preacher would call the attention of the churches to their duty on good reading matter.

Above all, let us see that every orphan and poor child in our community has a New Testament. Each congregation should keep New Testaments on hand to sell to all who are able to buy them and to give to others. Not half as many Bibles in this good land of ours as should be. One of the most effective ways of preaching the gospel is a gift of the blessed old Book. "And this, knowing the season, that already it is time for you to awake out of sleep: for now is salvation nearer to us than when we first believed. The night is far spent, and the day is at hand: let us therefore cast off the works of darkness, and let us put on the armor of light." (Rom. 13: 11, 12.)

Itinerary Notes.

BY F. B. SRYGLEY.

I reached Science Hill, in Rutherford County, just in time to preach on the evening of March 2. It began to rain at exactly the right time to keep many away from the meeting, but the faithful few were on hand, and everybody did the best they could to make the meeting a success. While there were not many singers present, those that were there sung as loud as they well could, and we got along fine with the singing. When the weather is good and all the members can be out, with Brother Dr. Hall to lead, I am sure they do some fine singing at Science Hill. This church always reminds me of Brother J. L. Bryant. He held about his first meeting here, and ever afterwards, as long as he lived, he held one protracted meeting each year at Science Hill. They are still disposed to have the same man every fall to hold their protracted meeting.

On Friday night, March 3, I preached at New Hope, in Cannon County. The sharp north wind cut the audience down at New Hope, and made those of us that did get out feel that it would nearly cut us in two. The best clothes I had did not feel thicker than a knife blade. It is strange how thin and light an overcoat becomes in such weather. Most of the old brethren of New Hope are gone, but others have taken their places and the work moves on as of old.

On Saturday night I preached at a schoolhouse about midway between New Hope and Woodbury. Here Brother Murrell, who now lives at Woodbury, held a meeting last summer and started a nice little band to meeting regularly. There was one reclaimed at this meeting; and Brother Murrell preached for them again on Sunday afternoon, and another came back to the fellowship. Brother Murrell is doing a fine work in and around Woodbury.

On Sunday and Sunday night, March 5, I preached in Woodbury. It was certainly a pleasure to be with these good people. They have a large congregation in Woodbury, but it has been established a long time. Old Brother Trotter, one of the pioneers, used to preach here, and, if I am not mistaken, made his home here for a time. Calvin Curlee lived in this county, and his body rests in the old Curlee burial ground, in Cannon County. Several of his descendants were out at meeting. The Smithsons originated not far from here. Woodbury was for a long time the home of Brother Lige Preston; and Brother Mears, I believe, died here.

Here my third trip among the churches for the Gospel Advocate ended. In looking back over my notes on this trip, I notice several things omitted which should have been mentioned. In connection with what I said of Huntland, I should have mentioned the name and made some reference to the good work and faithful service of our venerable brother, H. R. Moore. While Brother Moore does not consider himself a preacher, he has for many years been an efficient teacher of a class in the Bible every Lord's day, and does not hesitate to do any public work for the Master on any occasion. He is capable of doing, and is doing, better work for the Master now than at any time in his life. May the Father of mercy grant unto him and unto Sister Moore many more days of useful service.

Georgia and the Far Southern Field

By S. H. Hall

The Church of Christ—Lesson X.

Conditions of Entrance Specifically Studied—Baptism.

(2) What is the scriptural act of baptism? Here we are confronted with more than one answer from men; for some say that sprinkling, pouring, and immersion (all three) are scriptural acts of baptism, while others say that immersion only constitutes the scriptural act. Hence we are forced to appeal to God for the answer. So long as Eph. 4: 4-6 remains true, just that long will it remain true that there is but one baptism. Here it is declared that there is one body, one Spirit, one hope, one Lord, one faith, one baptism, one God. Nothing but stubbornness would lead us, in the face of this scripture, to contend that there are more than one. Of course, when we come to consider false gods, etc., there are "gods many, and lords many," and the same is true of bodies, faiths, spirits, hopes, and baptisms. But when we speak of the true body or church, the true Spirit, hope, faith, God, Lord, and baptism, there is but one of each. Let us, therefore, learn beyond a doubt what scriptural baptism is, so far as the act is concerned.

(a) It takes scriptural elements to constitute scriptural baptism. If we can speak and think of our baptism exactly as they spoke and thought of baptism in the days of the apostles, then our baptism has the same elements that theirs had. If not, why not? But if we cannot speak and think of our baptism as they spoke and thought of theirs, then, tell me, on what grounds can it be contended that our baptism is exactly like theirs?

(b) In the days of the apostles it required "much water" (John 3: 23); going down into the water (Acts 8: 38); coming up out of the water (Mark 1: 9, 10; Acts 8: 39); a burial (Rom. 6: 4; Col. 2: 12); a planting (Rom. 6: 5); a resurrection (Col. 2: 12); a washing of the body (Heb. 10: 22; Eph. 5: 26); a birth of water (John 3: 5). Can all of this be said of the act that was engaged in when you were baptized? If not, my friend, you have never been baptized.

(c) Well, when we come to consider sprinkling, pouring, and immersion in the light of these facts, which one of the three has these elements? Immersion, of course. It takes much water to immerse; you have to go down into the water; there is a burial; there is a planting; there is a washing of the body; there is a resurrection; there is a birth or deliverance from the water; and there is a coming up out of the water. Hence your baptism contains every scriptural element, so far as the act is concerned, and hence must be scriptural in this respect. But not so with sprinkling and pouring. Sprinkling and pouring for baptism is the doctrine of men, and had its birth in the Roman Catholic Church, and submission to it is not obedience to God. (See Matt. 15: 9, 13, 14.)

(d) Baptism comes from the Greek word "baptizo." Every standard Greek-English lexicon gives its primary meaning to "dip," or "immerse." There is not one standard work that translates it with the words "sprinkle" or "pour." Why, then, hold to something that not only the Bible so clearly condemns, but that scholarship also is against?

(e) John Wesley says: "'We are buried with him,' alluding to the ancient manner of baptizing by immersion." John Calvin says: "The word 'baptize' signifies to immerse, and it is certain that the rite of immersion was observed by the ancient church." Here we have the father of both the Methodist and Presbyterian bodies so testifying. Why, then, continue to practice it?

(f) But any one, educated or uneducated, can simply read or have read to him what the Bible says about baptism, go and do just as they did in the days of the apostles—viz., go where there is much water, go down into the water, be buried, planted, and resurrected from the water—and be forever satisfied, so far as baptism is concerned.

(g) As the final word on this subject, I give the following argument that has perfectly satisfied many, and especially an honest man who wrote me for help on this question:

"Keeping in mind the fact that God has a reason for every word and sentence he utters, I know he wants me to know just how and where baptism is performed. For in describing one's baptism, he crowds into one brief statement, five times, the fact that, when it was attended to, the party who did the baptizing and the one baptized were both in the water. But you ask, 'Where has he done this?' Turn to Acts 8: 38, 39, and let's read: 'And he commanded the chariot to stand still: and they both went down into the water, both Philip and the eunuch; and he baptized him. And when they came up out of the water, the Spirit of the Lord caught away Philip; and the eunuch saw him no more, for he went on his way rejoicing.' To say, 'They went down into the water, and he baptized him,' shows where it was done. To say, 'He baptized him, and then they came up out of the water,' shows where it was done. But 'they' is not only used twice, saying 'they went down into the water' and 'they came up out of the water,' but the term 'both' is repeated, and then the parties' names are repeated—'both Philip and the eunuch.'

"Now suppose you try to form a sentence in which you wish to show that this baptizing took place in the water. Can you make it clearer than God here has made it? In talking to a lady who believed in sprinkling for baptism, after she had admitted that God has something he wants us to see when he speaks, I asked her what God was trying to get us to see here. Said I: 'Is he trying to get you to see there is a God?' 'Certainly not,' said she. 'Very well,' said I; 'is he trying to get you to see that Christ is the Son of God?' 'Certainly not,' said she. 'Perhaps, then,' said I, 'he is trying to get you to see there is a heaven to gain and a hell to shun.' 'No,' said she, 'he certainly has none of the things you mention in his mind.' 'Well,' said I, 'you say he always has a reason for what he says; that when he speaks, he has something he wants you to see. Now what is he trying to get you to see here?' 'It certainly does look like he wants me to see that baptism took place in the water,' said she.

"Certainly, my friend, you will agree with this lady; and further, too—viz., that if this is not what God had in mind when he gave an account of the above baptism, he talked without a purpose. Of course, I remember that they used to tell me that 'went down into the water' does not mean that they went down into the water. But you will have to excuse me from entertaining such an idea as this. If 'went down into the water' means they never got into the water, then 'came up out of the water' means they never got out of the water; in other words, if 'went down into the water' means they stayed out, then 'came up out of the water' means they stayed in. If not, why not?"

Help Us to Keep Brother Hayes Busy.

As has been stated before in this paper, Brother John Hayes, of Cedar Hill, Texas, is now in this neglected State helping us to reach some of the waste places. His debate at Hazlehurst, followed by a series of sermons, has done much good. He is now at Rome in a series of meetings, and will go from there to one other place for a meeting before returning to his home. He is visiting the places where the support is limited. The Rome brethren are hardly out of debt for their house, are few in number, and are now raising funds for a tent and chairs for Brother

Flavil Hall and Brother Reavis to use in that town this spring and summer. I have asked Brother Hayes to go to Rome because they need the meeting now, and because I felt that our friends would continue to back him in a financial way, so that the Rome brethren can arrange for the other work they have planned. His next meeting will be where there is no congregation. The following is Brother Hayes' report for January and February:

Receipts for January: Max Cathey, $1; Mrs. J. B. Cathey and daughter, $1; First church of Christ, Bryan, O., $1; B. F. Bradfeet, $1; J. W. Pruitt, $1; Mollie Cannon, $2; J. B. Nelson, $1; Earl Hill, $1; W. R. Rodes, $1; Joe Harwell, —. I held one mission meeting and baptized one person. In addition to the above, four brethren gave me a suit of clothes.

I spent the month of February at Hazlehurst, held a four-days' debate and preached the rest of the month, and received help as follows: Christian Home, $2; First Church, Bryan, Ohio, $1; B. F. Bradfeet, $1; Mrs. J. B. Cathey and daughter, $1; J. W. Pruitt, $1; Earl Hill, $1; W. B. Howell, $1; Brother Tatum, $1; Will Hellums, $1; N. A. Hellums, $2; Max Cathey, $2; W. G. Cathey, $1; D. O. Wallace, $1; Sister Fields, $1; J. H. Jones, $1; Sister Pickle, 50 cents; Sister Walker, 25 cents; Sister J. B. Nelson, $1; "A Brother," $1; W. R. Rodes, $1; Joe Harwell, —. The above contribute regularly each month. In answer to the call of Brother Hall in the Gospel Advocate, the following was sent: Church at Trenton, Fla., $25; church at Rogersville, Ala., $5; Sister Cannon, $6; Bethel, Fla., $2; Valdosta, Ga., $10; West End, Atlanta, Ga., $5.10; E. M. King, $2.25; church at Oneonta, Ala., $5; Robert Predgeon, $1; H. J. Jeff, $1.

I always write each party and acknowledge receipt of fellowship. If any is not reported, it is an oversight on my part. I am thankful for this fellowship, and trust the brethren will keep me actively engaged in this kind of work.

Expenses for lights, circulars, etc., $15, besides railroad fare.

Brethren, let me insist that this good work be continued. We have enough preachers who visit the strong congregations and preach for them; but we are sorely in need of more support for men who should be kept actively engaged in such work as Brother Hayes is doing. In sending donations to him at Rome, address him at 1009 Avenue B. If you send to him at his home address, Cedar Hill, Texas, he will also receive it.

"Studies in Recent Adventism."

We have on hand a few copies of the scholarly book on the above subject, written by Henry C. Sheldon. It is an especially timely review and analysis of the assumptions, claims, and teachings of Adventism. The name of the author guarantees the character of the book—its lucidity, its scholarly style, its weight of authority. It will be an invaluable antidote to the materialism, Russellism, and premillennialism of to-day, and a strong weapon for preachers who must meet and answer this false teaching.

In view of the recent agitation concerning David's throne and the claim that the kingdom of Christ has not been established, but will be established in the near future in the city of Jerusalem, this book should receive a careful reading and wide circulation. We will send the book, postpaid, for fifty cents. Write quick, as the supply is limited.

McQuiddy Printing Company, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

"Jacob's Ladder."

This is the title of an excellent book of sermons preached by Brother E. M. Borden at Neosho, Mo. They were stenographically reported by Miss Bell. The compilation is the work of Brother T. B. Clark. All who have read the book are well pleased with its vigorous treatment of live themes. We will send it for one dollar and twenty-five cents, postpaid, to any address. Address all orders to the McQuiddy Printing Company, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

SPIRIT OF THE PRESS

BY J. C. McQUIDDY.

Nothing Very Remarkable.

A truly great preacher had just preached a sermon when some one said concerning it: "There was nothing very remarkable about it." This was really a compliment to the sermon, though not intended. Why should a sermon be different from other Bible sermons in order to be remarkable? A sermon should be remarkable in that it allows the Bible to speak for itself and the truth as it comes from God to sink down into the hearts and consciences of the hearers. The truth should be so magnified that the preacher appears insignificant. The best preacher is the one who most magnifies the truth and least magnifies himself before his audience. The hearers should be seeking remarkable and precious truths, and not remarkable preachers.

Stop Bridge Parties.

The following is clipped from a Kentucky paper and sent to the Gospel Advocate for publication:

Society matrons of Madisonville were perturbed to-day over instructions delivered to the Hopkins County grand jury to investigate all bridge parties and "indict every woman, no matter who she is, if she is caught playing cards for prizes."

"The card table is the ruination of many boys," said Judge Carl Henderson, who delivered the charge, "and that card table is in the home." He spoke of the influence society women exercise on the city and directed the jury "to stop this terrible crime."

"Investigate the society gambling first and then go after the poor negro and ignorant class of people," was Judge Henderson's concluding statement to the jury.

This is a step in the right direction. Mothers who play cards for prizes should not be surprised when their sons make gamblers. Boys who are taught to gamble at home will not be long in gambling away from home. The best way to keep the penitentiaries empty and not to re-people them is to clean up our homes and churches. "The home is the salt of the church." With godly, devout parents, the country will be blessed with honest sons and noble daughters. If we would take away from our judges and lawyers much of their unpleasant work, we must have honesty and integrity in our homes, in our churches, and in society. It is to be hoped that the churches will back the judge in the work so nobly begun.

"O, for faith and strength to win
Every battle we begin!
O, for patience to put through Every task we plan to do."

Each One Win One.

The church has realized that the world will never be converted to Christ by the public proclamation alone of the gospel. As the early disciples that were scattered abroad went about preaching the word, so the church now should seek to bring the truth home to every member that he should in a quiet way tell the glad tidings of salvation. The man who is genuinely converted is not content while failing to tell men about Jesus. The Herald and Presbyterian speaks pertinently on this subject. It says:

If there is any real and aggressive force of personal evangelism in the church, it must manifest itself in leading souls to Christ and to a place in the membership of the church. If the members of the church are wide awake in seeking the conversion of souls, there are multitudes all around who might be led to accept Christ and to profess their faith in him by becoming his professed and baptized followers.

Only about one-third of the people of the United States are members of any church. Out of the one hundred millions of the population, not over forty millions are members of any church, evangelical or unevangelical, Protestant or papal, Christian or heathen. At the outside figure, no statistics put the membership at forty millions. There is a vast multitude to work on. Even though one-third of the remaining sixty millions are children, there still remain forty millions upon whom to work.

How many Christians are needed in order to lead one soul to Christ? It would seem that almost any Christian, in the course of a whole year, if he really set himself to work, in inviting, and explaining the truth, in praying, in writing warm-hearted letters, in furnishing religious tracts and papers and books, in taking the person to church, and in using warm and personal influence, might win some one for Christ. If each one would do this during this year, our nation might be, essentially, converted; the church doubling its membership. Surely, if there were a real revival of personal evangelism, there might be at least this much done.

* * *

A Conspiracy Come to Light.

The Roman Catholic press is maneuvering for and getting ready to demand the restoration of temporal sovereignty to the Roman pope. The move has started in Spain, of course, and some of the Spanish bishops have voiced the cry. It is said that it is to be taken up in the neutral nations, and especially in the United States. The demand is that the city of Rome shall be wrested from the kingdom of Free Italy and be made the temporal dominion from which the pope shall issue his orders to the world as spiritual and temporal ruler. It is being demanded that this shall be one of the results of the war. Whatever other nations win or lose, the papacy expects to snatch the city of Rome from the kingdom of Italy. The Catholic Telegraph says: "Rome and the papal States should be Europe's tribute—sacrifices, if you will—to the vicar of Christ."

This is meant by them, for the present, to be for their own intelligence and for home consumption. They are not yet giving it out with general publicity that they are thus plotting. The scheme is to rend Italy. It is the plot of revolutionists to divide a kingdom. It is a secular rebellion. This is not the religious and spiritual work of a church, but the work of politicians plotting and of revolutionists conspiring, at the time that Italy is fighting for its life. The cry has gone out that this is the time to strike. These men are protected by the government of Italy, as all its citizens are, but they are conspiring to rend from it the capital and some of its fairest provinces and destroy Italian unity, claiming this a "sacrifice to the vicar of Christ."

No wonder that all who are informed, from their knowledge of history, and especially of papal history, are on their guard against the political encroachments of the papacy in the United States. This is the influence that, above all others, is fighting in Mexico against a peaceful adjustment and that is keeping up the strife for its own advantage. What it is now doing in Mexico, and what it is admittedly plotting to do in Italy, may be a part of its declared plan at any time in the United States. Against this insidious snare there needs to be a preparedness more thorough and pervasive than that of a large army and a great navy.—Herald and Presbyterian.

An earnest, consistent Christian life is the best preparedness against this insidious attack of Rome. The success of Roman Catholics is built on the failure of Protestants. Christians should feed, educate, and clothe more orphans. They should build more hospitals for the halt, the maimed, and the sick. Righteousness, godliness, and fidelity will render impotent and powerless all the scheming of Roman Catholics. The religion of Christ is sure to triumph over all the powers of darkness, but its adherents must be faithful. One good way to succeed is to think more about Christ and less about Rome. So long as we are true to the principles inculcated by Christ, we cannot fail. We must not measure success by human standards, but by the divine rule. Humanly speaking, no life made a greater failure than Christ's. If it be possible to fail while following Christ, it is a part of the infinite plan.

"Failure's a part of the infinite plan:
Who finds that he can't Must give way to who can."

QUERY DEPARTMENT

Brother McQuiddy: Please explain who Melchizedek was, and what relation he was to God. W. A. FELTS.

We read of him in Gen. 14: 18; Ps. 110: 4; and in a number of chapters in Hebrews. That he was a character of much dignity is clear. There have been many speculations as to his personality, but no man can solve the mystery. He comes suddenly upon us as a priest-king—"king of Salem," or Jerusalem, and "priest of God Most High." There is no account of his parents, none of his birth, none of his death, none of the beginning or end of his priesthood; so he appears in the record without parents, genealogy, beginning or end, simply as one that liveth a fit type of Christ, whose priesthood and kingly state endure forever.

Brother McQuiddy: (1) Please explain Rev. 14: 9. What was this third angel's message, and what does the beast represent? Also, what does it mean to receive his mark in our forehead or hand? (2) The seven last plagues in Rev. 16: 2-17. When are they to be poured out, or have they already been poured out? (3) Rev. 20: 5-7. Is it the wicked that is referred to that lived not again until the thousand years were finished? What does it mean by Satan's being loosed out of his prison? M. TUCKER.

As I cannot satisfactorily answer the above questions, I prefer not to attempt an answer. Those who have attempted an interpretation of the above scriptures do not agree in their interpretations. "The secret things belong unto Jehovah our God; but the things that are revealed belong unto us and to our children forever, that we may do all the words of this law." (Deut. 29: 29.)

Brother McQuiddy: Kindly give us some information regarding Lot's wife, who was turned to a pillar of salt. It is claimed by some that this pillar of salt stands to-day, and that if a piece be broken off it will be replaced again. C. J. McGENEE.

All we know definitely about Lot's wife being changed to a pillar of salt is what the Bible tells us about it. All speculations on the crime of Lot's wife and the manner in which she was changed into a pillar of salt are in many cases as unsatisfactory as they are ridiculous. God had commanded Lot and his family not to look behind them; the wife of Lot disobeyed this command; she looked back from behind him—Lot, her husband—and she became a pillar of salt. This is all the information God saw proper to give us on the subject. As to the manner in which the change was effected, no one knows. If we could depend upon the various accounts given by different persons who pretend to have seen the wife of Lot standing in her complete human form, with all her distinctive marks about her, the difficulty would be at an end. But we cannot accept these accounts, for they are discordant, ridiculous, and often grossly absurd. Those who profess to have seen her do not agree. Some say they have seen her as a heap of salt; others, as a rock of salt; others, as a complete human being as to shape, but only petrified; and still others make the claim mentioned by our brother, which is perhaps the most absurdly ridiculous of all the theories given.

Brother McQuiddy: If people who are not "apt to teach" should use the Quarterlies in a Bible study, or Sunday school, for, say, an hour, dividing the assembly into classes (three or four) according to age, with a teacher for each, same all in one room, said teachers all teaching at the same time, and when time expires call a halt, then proceed to "break bread," would this be acceptable Lord's-day worship? X.

Those who are not "apt to teach" should not teach, but should be taught until they are qualified to teach. It is disorderly to crowd classes together until they cannot be taught without confusion to each other. The church that loves souls more than money will cheerfully provide classrooms for those who are willing to study and learn the word of God. All incompetent teaching is unacceptable, provided the incompetency arises from neglect. Poor preaching is unacceptable when a preacher is able and should do better. We should not seek to render good-enough service, but our best work. No special order of worship is revealed. The items of worship are: "And they continued steadfastly in the apostles' teaching and fellowship, in the breaking of bread and the prayers." (Acts 2: 42.) Singing is also worship. (Col. 3: 16.) Singing, praying, teaching, contributing, and breaking bread all belong to the worship. All should be done decently and in order. Our hearts should be in the entire worship. In the specific case referred to, if the parties did their best and were not responsible for neglect, I would not say their worship was not acceptable. If God does not accept an imperfect worship, I fear all will be lost.

Brother McQuiddy: I do not understand Matt. 24: 3-34. Verse 34 reads like this: "Verily I say unto you, This generation shall not pass, till all these things be fulfilled." I am only a beginner as a Bible student and do not feel that I am capable of understanding it by myself; so that is why I desire light on the subject. As I understand it, Christ is speaking of his second coming and the end of time, in answer to the question asked by his disciples in verse 3. Possibly I do not understand what Christ meant by the word "generation" in this statement: "This generation shall not pass, till these things be fulfilled." B. G.

If our brother should live to study the Bible fifty years, it is certain that he will not fully understand the twenty-fourth chapter of Matthew. The finite cannot fully comprehend the infinite. We may understand all that is necessary to be saved from sin and to live a consistent Christian life. No man knows just when Christ is coming again. It is enough to know that he is coming again. "But of that day or that hour knoweth no one, not even the angels in heaven, neither the Son, but the Father." (Mark 13: 32.) People have been looking for Christ to appear immediately since he went back to heaven. If his coming be not until billions of years have elapsed, it will be quickly in comparison with eternity. The proper attitude of the Christian is one of patient waiting. On verse 34, Adam Clarke says: "This generation shall not pass] H generation, this race; i. e., the Jews shall not cease from being a distinct people till all the counsels of God relative to them and the Gentiles be fulfilled. Some translate this generation, meaning the persons who were then living, that they should not die before these signs, etc., took place; but though this was true, as to the calamities that fell upon the Jews and the destruction of their government, temple, etc., yet, as our Lord mentions Jerusalem's continuing to be under the power of the Gentiles till the fullness of the Gentiles should come in—that is, till all the nations of the world should receive the gospel of Christ, after which the Jews themselves should be converted unto God (Rom. 11: 25, etc.)—I think it more proper not to restrain its meaning to the few years which preceded the destruction of Jerusalem; but to understand it of the care taken by divine providence to preserve them as a distinct people, and yet to keep them out of their own land, and from their temple service. . . . But still it is literally true in reference to the destruction of Jerusalem. John probably lived to see these things come to pass."

GOSPEL ADVOCATE

EDITORS.

D. Lipscomb, E. G. Sewell, E. A. Elam,
M. C. Kurpees, T. H. Larimore.

MANAGING EDITORS.

J. C. McQuiddy, A. B. Lipscomb.

SPECIAL DIRECTIONS.

Subscriptions are $1.50 a year, in advance, including postage to any part of the United States. To Canada and foreign countries, $2 a year, in advance.

The Date on the Yellow Label on your paper serves you as a receipt, and indicates the time to which your subscription is paid. When you renew, if the date is not changed within three weeks thereafter, please call our attention to it.

Discontinuances. No paper will be continued over twelve months after the subscription has expired. This will give all ample time to renew.

Payment for the Advocate, when sent by mail, should be made by post-office money order, express money order, registered letter, New York exchange, or postal note. Neither currency nor coin should be sent in a letter, unless registered; and when so sent, it is at the risk of the sender. Have your remittances made payable to the Gospel Advocate, and never to any member of the company.

Do Not Write Business on the same sheet as matter intended for publication.

Change of Address will be cheerfully made at the request of any subscriber giving post office, county, and State from which the change is to be made, and post office, county and State to which the paper should go after the change.

Renewals. In renewing, give the name just as it appears on the yellow label, unless it be incorrect, in which case please call our attention to it; and always give the name of the post office to which your paper is sent, as this is the guide by which we are enabled to find your name on our list.

Do Not Send Matter intended for the Advocate to the editors personally. This may occasion delay. Address the Gospel Advocate Publishing Company, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

Untaught Questions.

BY E. G. S.

It seems that many people are much more anxious about untaught questions than they are about things that are plainly revealed. Some one asks whether all in heaven will be equally happy or not, and whether some will get there that render very little obedience in any way. Christ and the apostles never wasted any time on any such questions. In fact, the Bible condemns such things, both in the Old Testament and in the New Testament. Moses said: "The secret things belong unto the Lord our God: but those things which are revealed belong unto us and to our children forever, that we may do all the words of this law." (Deut. 29: 29.) The word "secret" here refers to things that had not been revealed, not expressed in any revelation from God to man. This passage gave the Jews to understand that they must not waste their time over things that were not taught, but to spend their time on what was revealed, that they might keep all the words of the law. Those that spend their time in trying to find out things not revealed have no time left to understand and do things that are plainly required and upon which their eternal all depends. No man has any promise of being saved that fails to do the Lord's will; and, on the other hand, no man will ever be condemned for not doing what is not revealed in the oracles of God.

The largest development of accepting and following untaught things, perhaps, is the doctrine of the abstract operation of the Holy Spirit in the conversion of sinners. All who teach and practice the get-religion system claim and teach something nowhere expressed in the oracles of God. No man can find one single passage in the New Testament that expresses any such an idea. Hence the idea of such conversion is of human origin, and is, therefore, one of the untaught questions of this age that is accepted and taught by an untold number of people that cherish it far more than they do the plainly expressed order of conversion that stands plainly expressed in the New Testament.

There is nothing more dangerous that men can do than to disregard what God says and follow what men say. Paul says: "But foolish and unlearned questions avoid, knowing that they do gender strifes." The Revised Version renders this passage thus: "But foolish and ignorant questions refuse, knowing that they gender strifes." This makes the matter stronger, if possible, than the Common Version. Most of the arguments among religious people are over the opinions of men, over untaught questions, things nowhere expressed in the oracles of God. What God says is generally plain. He speaks plainly and means what he says, and there is no room for disputing and strife over what God says. His word is plain, and there is but one way to get rid of it, and that is to just drop it out and adopt the opinions of men; and that is virtually what large numbers of professedly religious people are doing. Very many people are not satisfied with the word of God as written, and embrace and practice what men say because they like it better. Many people, if told to do just what thousands of people did in the days of the apostles in order to become Christians, will cry out: "That is Campbellism." And if you press upon them that that people did that way under the preaching of the apostles, then they say: "That is only book religion; we want heart-felt religion." And yet it is an open fact that on the day of Pentecost, when about three thousand were converted, the apostle, in very plain words, preached the gospel to them, saying to them: "Ye men of Israel, hear these words; Jesus of Nazareth, a man approved of God among you by miracles and wonders and signs, which God did by him in the midst of you, as ye yourselves also know: him, being delivered by the determinate counsel and foreknowledge of God, ye have taken, and by wicked hands have crucified and slain: whom God hath raised up, having loosed the pains of death: because it was not possible that he should be holden of it." (Acts 2: 22-24.) Thus he preached Christ unto them, and him crucified, and showed them that he was the one foretold in the prophecies of the Old Testament, and states positively: "This Jesus hath God raised up, whereof we all are witnesses." (Verse 32.) In verse 36 he said: "Therefore let all the house of Israel know assuredly, that God hath made that same Jesus, whom ye have crucified, both Lord and Christ." When those people heard these things, they were moved, and cried out "unto Peter and to the rest of the apostles, Men and brethren, what shall we do? Then Peter said unto them, Repent, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost. . . . Then they that gladly received his word were baptized: and the same day there were added unto them about three thousand souls." Thus in this one chapter may be learned precisely how the Spirit of God made Christians in those days—that it was by preaching the gospel plan of salvation through Christ. When they heard the plan of salvation preached, they believed and asked what to do. The answer was promptly given, and about three thousand of them obeyed that very day, and thus were saved from their past sins that very day. There is not a word in the entire passage about any inner or secret work of the Spirit in their hearts. They were told what Christ had done to save them and what they were to do that their sins might be forgiven, and they promptly obeyed; and as certainly as that the Bible is true, those people became Christians, followers of Christ, that very day; and as the Holy Spirit was their teacher through the apostle Peter, and they promptly did what it said do, they were, therefore, converted, made Christians, by the Holy Spirit. Thus they were made Christians by hearing and doing what the Holy Spirit said, not by an abstract, secret work of the Spirit upon their hearts. It is certainly strange that, in the face of such plain teaching of the Spirit of God, so many people will turn away from such plain spiritual light and accept simply what uninspired men say, something never named in the oracles of God. Christians should never cease to thank and praise the Heavenly Father for the wonderful light given in the New Testament. It affords all the light athen sinners need in becoming Christians and all that Christians need in living the Christian. The beauty of the whole matter is that the light of the New Testament is by the Holy Spirit. Hence it is true that Christians were converted by the plain teaching of the Holy Spirit.

How Does God Draw Men to Himself?

BY E. G. S.

Jesus said: "No man can come to me, except the Father which hath sent me draw him; and I will raise him up at the last day." (John 6: 44.) This is a favorite passage of scripture with a great many religious people, and especially with those who regard conversion a sort of mysterious affair wrought in the hearts of people by an abstract operation of the Holy Spirit. This confusion arises from placing human opinions as interpretations upon this and some other kindred passages. Really the very next verse explains this one very clearly and leaves no room for mystical interpretations of human wisdom. Verse 45 says: "It is written in the prophets, And they shall be all taught of God. Every man therefore that hath heard, and hath learned of the Father, cometh unto me." This verse fully explains the preceding one about the Father's drawing men to Christ. It shows plainly that the work of drawing men to Christ is done through teaching, not through a voiceless, wordless impact of the Holy Spirit upon the sinner's heart.

The apostles were sent out into all the world to preach the gospel to every creature, and the Holy Spirit guided them in this teaching. This is the way God drew thousands to Christ in those days. The teaching was something they could hear and understand. Jesus therefore says: "Every one that hath heard, and hath learned of the Father, cometh unto me." So the teaching that was to bring them to Christ was to be very plain, something they could learn, and not only understand, but something they could embrace, could obey, and thus be saved. And if any people were saved any other way after the day of Pentecost, it was never put to record. Hence, if people want to be converted by the Holy Spirit to-day, they must learn what the Holy Spirit taught through the apostles, and then do the very same things. The Holy Spirit never made Christians in any other way in apostolic times; and it is equally certain that none are made Christians to-day in any other way than by following that same teaching just as it stands recorded in the New Testament. But by doing this people are made Christians by the Holy Spirit to-day just as they were then.

But the trouble with very many religious teachers of this age is that, instead of teaching just what is written in the New Testament on the matter of conversion, they teach a system that is simply a human invention, and not of divine origin at all. There is no record of a single soul having been converted by any sort of immediate or abstract operation of the Spirit. Hence there is no divine authority for any such teaching. If I could find any example for the conversion of sinners in that way, I would gladly accept it and help teach it to others. But no matter what theory of conversion uninspired men may get up, it will never be able to save a single soul. Hence those that are deluded into human theories of conversion instead of what is written in the word of God are defrauded out of their soul's salvation. All people who have access to the word of God ought to read the New Testament and see to it that they are not misled on a subject upon which their eternal all depends. The word of God is certainly plain on that subject. But many have been so erroneously taught in regard to it that they think the plain word of the Lord is itself an error, and some even denounce it as a humanism and utterly repudiate it. It is strange that people will repudiate the word of God as given by inspiration and embrace a theory not in the Bible at all, and thus risk all the solemnities of eternity upon it, rather than accept the word of God as he gave it. It is strange that so many people will allow the inventions of uninspired men to draw them away from the plain words of the Holy Spirit that are so plainly expressed in the written word. If people allow the words of men to draw them, they are not drawn of God at all. It is not the power of God drawing them, but simply the wisdom of men; and all the wisdom of the world can never save a single soul. But all men may be saved that will allow themselves to be drawn by the word.

Jesus told the apostles to go into all the world and to preach the gospel to every creature, and promised: "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved." (Mar 16: 16.) The apostles went and preached the gospel as commanded, and thousands believed and were baptized, and, according to the promise of Jesus, were saved. Thus the gospel, which is said to be "the power of God unto salvation," drew those people to Christ through their obedience, by which they were saved. The same gospel is still the power of God unto salvation to all that will obey it. Hence the whole matter of conversion and salvation was so plain that thousands heard it as preached by the apostles, understood it, believed it, obeyed it, and were saved the very first day they heard it. And this is the way they were drawn to Christ. All that will do to-day as they did will be drawn to Christ just as they were, and will as certainly be saved as they were. So there is no mystery in the matter of being drawn to Christ, converted, and saved by submitting soul and body to the glorious gospel of Christ.

Fermented or Unfermented Wine in the Communion.

BY M. C. K.

The following question has been submitted for discussion, and we answer through the Gospel Advocate:

Terrell, Texas, February 19, 1916.—Dear Brother Kurfess: In observing the Lord's Supper, did the early disciples use fermented or unfermented wine? I would like to have your comment on 1 Cor. 11: 20-23. You can answer privately or through the Gospel Advocate. P. C. BREEDEN,

The question of using fermented or unfermented wine in the Lord's Supper now and then comes up for discussion, and yet, in the light of plain facts, it would seem to be easy of solution. Different Hebrew and Greek words have entered into the discussion, and much time and argument have been spent on both sides.

There is a great deal said in the Bible about wine and about strong drink in general; but, so far as the issue over fermented or unfermented wine is concerned, there is such a use of terms in both the Old Testament and the New Testament as will guard against all confusion, if one reads them with proper thought and discrimination. As a helpful background for profitable thought on the subject, we here present the leading Hebrew and Greek terms which are thus used:

1. The term yayin means wine, and is so applied from the tendency of that liquid to ferment or effervesce. It is derived from a root meaning to boil up, and is found in

Gen. 14: 18; 19: 32; Ex. 29: 40; Lev. 10: 9; Num. 6: 3; Judg. 13: 4, 7; etc.

2. The term asis means new wine. It is from a root which means to tread down, referring to the process of pressing the juice from the grape; but it denotes a wine that is intoxicating. It is found in Isa. 49: 26; Joel 1: 5; 3: 18; Amos 9: 13; etc.

3. The word sobe, from a root meaning to drink to excess, also means wine, and is found in Isa. 1: 22; Hos. 4: 18; Nah. 1: 10; etc.

4. Chemer, another word from a verb meaning to boil, also means wine, and is used in Deut. 32: 14; Isa. 27: 2; etc.

5. The term tirosh means new wine. It is derived directly from a root meaning to possess, and is so applied because the beverage is regarded as getting possession of the brain. It occurs often in the Hebrew Bible, and is found in Gen. 27: 28; Deut. 33: 28; Judg. 9: 13; Isa. 36: 17; Hos. 4: 11; Mic. 6: 15. Gesenius justly remarks: "That it was regarded as intoxicating is shown from Hos. 4: 11."

6. Shekar is a term used for strong drink which might be made from other fruit than the grape. It is from a verb meaning to drink deeply, be drunken. It is found in Lev. 10: 9; Num. 6: 3; 28: 7; Judg. 13: 4, 7; etc.

Coming now to the New Testament, there are three terms which, in this investigation, demand our attention:

1. The word oinos means wine, and is the principal word for it in the New Testament. It is found in Matt. 9: 17; Mark 15: 23; Luke 1: 15; John 2: 3; Rom. 14: 21; Eph. 5: 18; 1 Tim. 3: 8; 5: 23; Tit. 2: 3; etc.

2. The word glukos means sweet wine, and is found in Acts 2: 13; but that it was intoxicating is seen from verse 15 of the same chapter. It denotes "the sweet juice pressed from the grape."

3. The term methuo means to be drunken. It figures in this discussion because it is used by Paul in 1 Cor. 11: 21 and shows that the wine used in the Lord's Supper was intoxicating; and hence it was, of course, fermented. It occurs in Matt. 24: 49; Acts 2: 15; 1 Cor. 11: 21; 1 Thess. 5: 7; etc.

It is worthy of note, as seen in the foregoing list, that the leading Hebrew words translated "wine" in English seem to have been chosen because of the nature of the liquid indicated to ferment. This tendency to fermentation on the part of the juice of the grape when pressed out is marked; and it seems clear from the biblical record that wine among the Jews was always intoxicating, and hence was fermented. On the matter of vinous fermentation, we may here note with profit what the British Encyclopedia says:

Vinous fermentation means that peculiar change which all native sacchariferous juices are liable to undergo when left to themselves at the ordinary temperature, and which results in the formation of some kind of "wine." The general course of the phenomena being the same in all cases, we shall assume in what follows that it is grape juice we have to deal with. Such juice, as is well known, when recently prepared, forms an intensely sweet yellowish liquid, which, if it is not so by nature, may be rendered perfectly limpid and transparent by filtration through bibulous paper. Grape juice, when left to itself, after having been thus clarified, may remain unchanged for an indefinite time; but when mixed with ever so little of unfiltered juice, it is sure sooner or later to undergo a change, which manifests itself in the appearance of a turbidity in the liquid. This turbidity is owing to two causes—namely, (1) the evolution of carbonic acid, and (2) the formation within the liquid of a finely divided solid, which, through the gas evolution, is partly kept in suspension, partly thrown up to the surface as a scum, and which is known by the name of "yeast." The process, from an almost imperceptible beginning, gradually develops into a more and more vivid effervescence (which not unfrequently assumes the character of a violent ebullition), the yeast at the same time becoming more and more abundant; and when a sufficient quantity of "must" is operated on, the temperature of the fermenting mass soon rises perceptibly beyond that of the surrounding air. Sooner or later, of course, the reaction reaches a climax, from which onwards it gradually loses in intensity until at last it dies out. The yeast then settles down as a slimy deposit, above which there is left a clear yellow liquid, which, instead of the originally sweet, now has a "vinous" taste, and is endowed with that well-known physiological action characteristic of "fermented liquors." (Volume IX., page 92.)

Finally, in all that the Savior said (Matt. 26; Mark 15; Luke 22) on the subject at the institution of the memorial Supper, he said nothing at all as to whether "the fruit of the vine" shall be fermented or unfermented. We must have "the fruit of the vine," and not something else, for this he specifies; but he does not say whether that fruit shall be fermented or unfermented. Hence, in the light of all the facts, we can say that when we use fermented wine, we are using "the fruit of the vine;" and when we use unfermented wine, we are using "the fruit of the vine;" and thus in either case and in both cases we are using what the Savior said.

True and False Teachers.

BY E. A. E.

Just at this time it may be well to consider that which the Bible says about true and false teachers—at least, some of the many things it says.

Let us learn to distinguish between the two by the rule the Bible lays down, and strive by the help of the Lord to be true.

The Bible warns against false gods, false Christs, false apostles, false prophets, false teachers, false brethren, false accusers, false reports, false balances, falsehood, and every other false thing. It speaks against vain religion, vain worship; saying, "Lord, Lord," and not doing the will of God; of doing alms and righteousness before men to be seen of them; of having a form of godliness and denying the power thereof; it declares that covetousness is idolatry and that some serve the creature rather than the Creator.

Since Satan beguiled Eve the god of this world has succeeded in blinding the hearts of many, lest they should see and follow the light of truth.

The true and false are seen in Abel and Cain.

In Noah's day there were only eight souls true to God.

Abraham was called out of his own country and separated from his kindred that God might of him raise up a people for his own possession. But notwithstanding all he did for this people, not many of them proved faithful.

Of all the grown men who left Egypt, Joshua and Caleb were the only two who entered the land of promise. Moses had sore trials on account of the unbelief and idolatry of the Israelites in the wilderness, and, provoked at the waters of Meribah of Kadesh, he failed at the time to trust and obey God, and he and Aaron died before the people crossed the Jordan.

Of the Israelites in the days of Joshua it is said:

And the people served Jehovah all the days of Joshua, and all the days of the elders that outlived Joshua, who had seen all the great work of Jehovah, that he had wrought for Israel. (Judg. 2: 7.)

According to the history of the Jews in the Old Testament and according to the history of the church, people, as a rule, do not remain faithful to God much longer than one or two generations. They do not depart from God just in the same way every time, and just the same innovations are not introduced at every place and at every time departures begin. But vanity, worldly ambition, and human wisdom always lead from God. In round numbers, a century ago Thomas and Alexander Campbell, Barton W. Stone, and others did an inestimably great work in calling people back to the Bible—its language, its pure teaching, its work, and its simple and God-appointed worship—the church of the New Testament—the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace. Before they were all laid in their graves, departures from the New Testament order of things had begun and innovations upon the simple worship of God had been made. This departure has become a "sister denomination" with her church federation and delegated conventions and denominational appliances. This departure is well defined and recognized.

Tolbert Fanning, Brethren Lipscomb and Sewell, and their most worthy and heroic collaborators have likewise done a work that can be measured only by eternity; but before the faithful ones who outlive them are asleep in Jesus, other departures, as dangerous to the peace, purity, and spiritual development of the church and advancement of Christianity in the world, most likely will have manifested themselves in permanent and powerful forms. One of these departures may be a development of a clergy, not exactly in the old form, but in another form, claiming certain rights and privileges as a favored and special class of Christians above ordinary Christians. With this will come the wisdom of men, theories and speculations of men; for such an order of beings comes not from the New Testament. Men in the New Testament are called "evangelists," but "evangelist" is not there used as a title. Paul is called a "minister of the word" and "minister of Christ," etc.; but he nowhere calls himself "the regular minister" of any church. There is no such thing in the New Testament. This itself is a departure.

Eli's sons were greedy, licentious, unrestrained, base fellows. Samuel's sons perverted judgment, took bribes, and went after lucre.

At times almost the whole priesthood was corrupt.

Note how many false prophets there were in both Elijah's and Jeremiah's day. Note, too, how bitterly these men were persecuted.

Elijah's and Jeremiah's faithfulness and jealousy for God caused them to feel more sensibly and more keenly the sins of Israel in forsaking him. So to-day, the more faithful and the more truly loyal people are to the cause of Christ, the more deeply they feel hurt over any departure from the truth. Paul says he was jealous over the Corinthians with a godly jealousy, because he had espoused them as a chaste virgin to Christ. He feared, "lest by any means, as the serpent beguiled Eve in his craftiness," their "minds should be corrupted from the simplicity and the purity that is toward Christ" by the preaching of "another Jesus" or "another gospel" and the reception of "a different spirit." (2 Cor. 11: 1-4.) Paul had anxiety for all the churches. The reverse of this is true; the less faithful, the less truly loyal one is to Christ, and the less jealous one is for the church with a godly jealousy, the less one cares for the peace, unity, and real growth and good of all the churches.

Jesus solemnly warns all his disciples and all men in general against false prophets, who come in sheep's clothing, yet are ravening wolves.

All who have not been seriously impressed with Paul's warning against false teaching and false teachers and his instruction in regard to the proper treatment of such have read his writings to little or no profit. He says that from among the elders themselves men will arise, speaking perverse things to draw away the disciples after them. (Acts 20: 30.) He says the elders "must hold to the faithful word which is according to the teaching," that they "may be able both to exhort in the sound doctrine, and to convict the gainsayers," and he gives the following reason:

For there are many unruly men, vain talkers and deceivers, specially they of the circumcision, whose mouths must be stopped; men who overthrow whole houses, teaching things which they ought not, for filthy lucre's sake. (Tit. 1: 10-12.)

Some, not uncouth ruffians, but with smooth and fair speech beguile the hearts of the innocent, cause division contrary to the teaching of Christ, and serve not the Lord, but their own bellies. (Rom. 16: 17, 18.)

Satan and his ministers transform themselves into angels of light and ministers of righteousness.

Some, says Paul, pervert the gospel, handle the word of God deceitfully, teach fables, "endless genealogies," "foolish and ignorant questions," "profane and vain babblings," "oppositions of knowledge which is falsely so-called," and other questions which should be avoided, and turn godliness into a way of gain.

Peter and John give lists of false teachers and apostles, saying some are covetous and make merchandise of the churches.

God has ever pronounced curses upon all who would add to or take from his word. (See Deut. 4: 2; 12: 32; Rev. 22: 18, 19.)

The Israelites were so impressed with these warnings that they asked: "How shall we know the word which Jehovah hath not spoken?" So we ask: What is God's rule or standard of the true teachers and preachers, and how may we detect the false ones? Here it is:

But the prophet, that shall speak a word presumptuously in my name, which I have not commanded him to speak, or that shall speak in the name of other gods, that same prophet shall die. And if thou say in thy heart, How shall we know the word which Jehovah hath not spoken? when a prophet speaketh in the name of Jehovah, if the thing follow not, nor come to pass, that is the thing which Jehovah hath not spoken: the prophet hath spoken it presumptuously, thou shalt not be afraid of him. (Deut. 18: 20-22.)

In Deut. 18: 1-5, Jehovah says if a prophet give a sign or a wonder which comes to pass in order to induce people to go into idolatry or in any way disobey God, they should not hear him, and the prophet should be put to death. This God allowed in order to prove the people whether or not they would obey him. He says:

Ye shall walk after Jehovah your God, and fear him, and keep his commandments, and obey his voice, and ye shall serve him, and cleave unto him.

God does not give signs or work miracles to convince people that they need not obey him, or that they should do anything he has not commanded, or to release them from obedience to what he has commanded.

By all false theories, false ways, and false teachers God tests his people now.

God's test of false teachers is: "By their fruits ye shall know them." But what is the fruit? Obedience to him is the fruit. He who does the will of God will enter the kingdom of heaven, and he who hears and does the sayings of Jesus is the wise man. This is the test.

In conclusion, then, all men who depreciate implicit obedience to God are false teachers, however smooth and fair their speech or eloquent their sermons. All who preach the gospel from any motive and for any other purpose than Bible motives and purposes are false. To be true, teachers and preachers must not only be "doctrinally sound," theoretically correct; but of pure hearts, of sound minds, must use sound speech, must live holy lives, and preach or teach from pure motives and for the right purpose the will of God.

When a man preaches "premillennium" or "postmillennium," is he preaching that which God commands or speculation? One is forbidden to preach that which God does not command.

If you knew how much depended on the way you start the day, you never would let yourself get out of bed with a gloomy face or a discontented heart. If the sky is cloudy, manufacture a little sunshine of your own to start the day with. Begin with a smile on your lips and a song in your heart, and there is no fear but that the day will go well.—The Young People.

AT HOME AND ABROAD

Compiled by A. B. Lipscomb

Hundreds are taking advantage of our special offer that expires on April 1.

Brother and Sister Armstrong-Hopkins have settled at Darya Gunj, Delhi, India.

One of our subscribers is particularly anxious to secure a full bound set of the Millennium Harbinger. If you have one to sell, kindly notify this office.

Brother Larimore is in a meeting at Greenville, Ala., which began last Sunday. After this meeting he goes to Letohatchee, and from thence to Fort Deposit.

The meeting at South College Street, this city, started last Sunday with fine prospects. All are pleased with J. D. Northcut's forceful presentation of the truths of the gospel.

C. M. Pullias closed a good meeting at Murray, Ky., last Sunday that resulted in five baptisms and four persons taking membership with the congregation. He begins Sunday at Campbell, Mo.

An addressing company addressed the preacher list for us and used "Reverend" before each name. This was without our knowledge or consent, and we trust the preachers will pardon the inadvertence.

From O. M. Reynolds, Memphis, Texas: "Two fine services, with two by relation, at Hedley on the first Lord's day, and two extra good services at Lelia Lake on the second Lord's day, with two by relation. The church is doing fine at both places."

From Jewell Matthews, San Angelo, Texas: "We had a fine day on March 12. Our house was full at both morning and evening services. The brethren are in real earnest and are manifesting their zeal in the Lord by good works. We feel that the church here has a great future."

A very deserving preacher's wife living in Tennessee wishes to buy a small home place with a few acres of ground, to cost about six hundred or eight hundred dollars, near some good congregation or where there is a prospect for one. If you have a proposition that will interest her, send it to the editor of this page and it will be promptly forwarded.

From Ben West, Lometa, Texas: "Three great services on March 12. Two restored, two baptisms. At 3 P.M. a crowd motored to McCann church, six miles distant, where we had a rousing service, about thirty children leading the song service. Sunday-school work grows and new members every Lord's day. Peace and a spirit of service prevail. Praise the Lord."

From J. B. Nelson, Dallas, Texas: "I closed my fourth meeting at Florence, Texas, on March 13. While there were no additions, it was the best meeting of all, so far as interest, attendance, and attention were concerned. I go back in 1917. Several preachers attended the meeting. I am to be in Arkansas in September, and will probably spend October in Tennessee."

From Thomas E. Milholland, Madill, Okla.: "By the time the readers of the Gospel Advocate read these lines, my wife will be in the sanitarium at Mount Vernon, Texas. We hope, by the grace of God, the skill of the surgeon, and the kindness of our brethren and sisters in Christ, to be restored to you all soon. Pray for us."

Let us all unite our prayers in behalf of this sister.

God's comforting promises are always in proportion to our needs. T. Q. Martin, of Winchester, Ky., who recently sustained the loss of his dear mother, is now facing a new sorrow in the serious illness of his devoted wife. She recently survived an operation. Brother Martin writes that "it seems that my cup of sorrow runs over," but adds "We are hopeful." Let us all unite our prayers for the recovery of his wife and that he may be sustained in every hour of trial.

R. C. McCaleb writes from Lynchburg, Va.: "I want to find some brethren, members of the church of Christ, in this city or in some city near by. I would be glad to preach each Lord's day. If any of the readers of the Gospel Advocate have any friends in this city who are members of the church of Christ, I would appreciate it if some one would inform me as to who they are and where I will find them. I have been working in the Alabama Christian College, at Berry, Ala., until a few weeks ago. I must find some brethren. Please help me."

From Mrs. M. M. Craig, Ozona, Texas: "I have long thought of writing you and trying to express my appreciation for the splendid paper you are giving and for the brave stand you have always taken against false teaching and innovations. The special numbers are all fine. I have been a reader of the Gospel Advocate for many years, and it always comes as a welcome guest. I pray that your lives may be spared many years yet; and when the summons comes to come up higher, there will be others to still continue the fight for the true cause of Christ."

We greatly sympathize with J. Y. Lowe, of Birmingham, Ala., who lost his faithful companion last week. Funeral services were conducted on March 15, in Nashville, in the presence of a large assemblage of relatives and friends. Brother and Sister Lowe lived here for many years and were very useful in the Master's service while members of the church on Joe Johnston Avenue. Sam P. Pittman, of the Nashville Bible School, and John T. Lewis, of Birmingham, made appropriate talks. There are several children and grandchildren who share our sympathy. May the Lord bless and sustain "Pappy" Lowe.

From J. T. Harris, New Decatur, Ala.: "I preached at a mission point, two miles north of Cherokee last Saturday night and on Sunday and Sunday night. I found there just five members of the church of Christ, but I baptized three young men and a man and his wife, which doubled their membership. I am spending this week with J. P. Ezell, and I am preaching each afternoon and night at the Jackson Street church of Christ in New Decatur. I find at this place as faithful a band of loyal disciples as it has been my pleasure to meet, and I find Brother Ezell to be held in very high regard among them. He is indeed doing a grand work at this place."

Mrs. G. E. Williams, Magnolia, Ark., writes: "We wish to announce, through the Gospel Advocate, the arrival of two dozen song books ("New Christian Hymns"), sent by some congregation at Nashville to the Magnolia congregation; also a check for five dollars, sent by the Petersburg congregation through Everett Beasley, of that place, to our congregation here. We express our many thanks for both. This is a small congregation, only two male members—my husband and one more. A few words in behalf of the dear old Gospel Advocate as it gradually grows better. I was reared under it, as my father, J. H. Mulliniks, was one among its first subscribers. He was an old pioneer preacher of Humphreys County, Tenn."

From Tice Elkins, Childress, Texas: "My wife is some better, the boy is nearly well; and if no more trouble strikes us, I will be out in the field again in about six weeks. I have all my time engaged from the first Sunday in May till October, except four or five days at a time about twice during the summer. I am going to lecture on 'Russellism' during those days. I have been preaching every Lord's day at home since my family have been sick, and I am preaching on the old subjects, 'The Conversion of the Eunuch,' 'The Great Commission,' 'Pentecostal Revivals,' 'Conversion of Saul of Tarsus,' 'Cornelius,' 'The Jailor,' etc. The

One Week Left—Offer Expires April 1. We Propose to Give Our Readers a Fine $2 Self-Filler Fountain Pen.

A Personal Note to Our Readers.

You can depend upon it that we would not use this valuable space for an announcement of this kind were it not an urgent matter in which we desire your quick coöperation. Our fiscal year closes on April 1, and only twenty days remain in which to make collections to cover our obligations. You have doubtless intended all along to help us in the good work being accomplished by the Gospel Advocate, but many have been negligent in carrying out this good intention. We now urge that you let us hear from you without delay. We especially ask that—

- (1) Every subscriber in arrears will send us his renewal.
- (2) Every friend of the paper send us at least one new subscriber before April 1.

To encourage your quick coöperation, we have decided to make one of the most liberal offers we have ever made. The fact that we have on hand about five hundred fine fountain pens from our Christmas stock makes this possible. To old and new subscribers who will send us $2.25 we will send one year's subscription to the Gospel Advocate, one year's subscription to the Bible Study Helper (our new monthly, edited by A. B. Lipscomb), and one of these splendid self-filler pens. When you pause to consider that the regular price of the Advocate is $1.50 and the Bible Study Helper is 60 cents, you will see that you get this pen for nothing.

This Fountain Pen Has the Following Features:

- (1) It is the actual size of the illustration shown above, and is the same size of all $3 and $5 pens.
- (2) It has a guaranteed 14-carat gold point.
- (3) It is a self-filler.
- (4) It has a beautifully chased barrel.
- (5) It has a metal ring that snugly covers the filler vent.
- (6) It has a metal clip that keeps it in your pocket.
- (7) It has a guarantee that you will be pleased, or we will take it back.

Please note that this pen we propose to give you will do all the work of the $3 and $5 pens. It is not sold by the stationers for less than $2.

Remember, this offer holds good only so long as the pens last, and will positively be withdrawn on April 1. Clinch yours by writing to-day. Address all orders to the old restoration themes need to be rubbed up, for we have many members of the church that know scarcely anything about them, and the world needs these truths as badly as it ever needed them. I am using all the tracts I can get, and I can tell that it has an effect that is good, too. Two fine services Sunday and good crowds."

Gospel Advocate Publishing Company,
317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

Jesse Beall writes from Chattanooga, Tenn.: "Sunday, March 12, was a great day with us. E. H. Hoover was at Central, G. C. Brewer at St. Elmo, Aruna Clark at Cowart Street, R. N. Moody at Glass Street, F. B. Srygley at Ridgedale, and Flavil Hall at Rossville in the forenoon, all preaching excellent sermons to well-filled houses. Brother Srygley preached to a packed house at Avondale, a mission point established by Brother Moody, assisted by the Glass Street Church, in the afternoon, and at night at Cowart Street, closing at Rossville on Monday night. Brother Srygley was in fine condition and preached helpful and appreciated sermons at all the places, and had pressing invitations to come again at his earliest convenience. All the congregations here are to have early spring meetings as follows: Central, beginning last Sunday, assisted by E. H. Hoover; Cowart Street, first Sunday in April, assisted by G. C. Brewer; Ridgedale, third Sunday in April, assisted by Brother Gunn, of Sparta; Rossville, about the middle of April, by Flavil Hall; Avondale, at an early date, by R. N. Moody; St. Elmo, first Sunday in May, by Price Billingsley; Glass Street, not announced yet, but soon. It is understood that each congregation will hold another meeting in the fall. All the members of all the above-named congregations seem to have 'a mind to work' and are at it, resulting in great good to the cause both spiritually and numerically. Two confessions at Cowart Street last Sunday. The Gospel Advocate and the Advanced Quarterlies are potent factors in the work here and are held in high esteem."

LOSS OF APPETITE

Most Successfully Treated by Taking Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Loss of appetite is accompanied by loss of vitality, which is serious.

It is common in the spring because at this time the blood is impure and impoverished and fails to give the digestive organs what is absolutely necessary for the proper performance of their functions.

Hood's Sarsaparilla, the old reliable all-the-year-round medicine, is especially useful in the spring. Get it from your druggist today. By purifying and enriching the blood and giving vitality, vigor and tone, it is wonderfully successful in the treatment of loss of appetite and the other ailments prevalent at this time. It is not simply a spring medicine—it is much more than that—but it is the best spring medicine.

Hood's Sarsaparilla makes the rich red blood the digestive organs need.

GIVE "SYRUP OF FIGS" TO CONSTIPATED CHILD

Delicious "Fruit Laxative" can't harm tender little Stomach, liver and bowels.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, your little one's stomach, liver and bowels need cleansing at once. When peevish, cross, listless, doesn't sleep, eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad; has sore throat, diarrhoea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of its little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which contains full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups.

Poultry Profits Sure

when you use the modern coal-burning, self-feeding, self-regulating, trouble-proof

Newtown Giant Colony Brooder

It raises "the most chicks, the best chicks, with least labor and at lowest cost." The first successful brooder of the colony type, and years ahead of all imitations.

Send us your dealer's name. If he cannot supply the Newtown we will ship direct. Descriptive circulars mailed FREE.

Newtown Giant
Incubator Corp'n
11 Warsaw Street
Harrisonburg
Va.

POTATO PLANTS.

Ten million genuine Nancy Hall, Porto Rico, and Triumphs. Prices, 500 for $1.35, 1,000 for $2.50, postpaid and insured. By express, 1000 for $1.75; 5,000 to 10,000 at $1.60; 15,000 to 20,000 at $1.60 per 1,000. Plants ready April 1. Prompt delivery and good, strong plants guaranteed. Write for a descriptive price list.

PIEDMONT PLANT CO.,
Albany, Ga., and Greenville, S. C.

FROM THE FIELD

Alabama.

Moulton, March 5.—The work here is progressing nicely and much interest is being manifested. I came here the first of last December and took up the work that Brother Ezell had been doing for the past two years. Through his untiring efforts a great work has been done. It was through his influence that I came to this field. It is a pleasure to work where he has labored so faithfully. There is yet a great work to be accomplished here, and I want to be instrumental in forwarding the cause of the Master while here. Brethren, pray for us and the work here.
C. H. BAKER.

Montgomery, March 11.—I have been a subscriber to the Gospel Advocate for thirty years, and believe it to be one of the best gospel preachers in the land. Seeing in this week's issue a note from Brother C. E. Holt and one from Brother Talley, I thought I would write a few words about the West Montgomery church of Christ. Yes, there is a church of Christ in West Montgomery, and a very live one. We have two services every Lord's day and prayer meeting on Wednesday night, when we have a fine Bible study. We have near one hundred members. I am an engineer in the passenger service on the Louisville and Nashville Railroad running between Montgomery and Mobile. I preach every Lord's day I am in off my run. I have been preaching for two years. I often come in on my run at 8:15 A.M. and preach at 11 A.M. and 7:30 P.M. Old Brother J. M. Barnes and Brother John T. Poe and a dear little Christian wife started me to preaching, and I am studying hard to make a good one, but, above all, to show to the world that a man can be a Christian and run an engine—a thing that many do not believe; for I do believe that the best preaching on earth is for a man to live just what he preaches, and, with God's help, I am going to do that. I have preached in Pensacola, Fla.; at Catoma Street Church for Brother Holt; at Alamogordo, N. M., for Brother Tant; and a good many places around the country. Brother Charles Sanders, of Highland Home, Ala., I think, will preach for us at West Montgomery this year, and with his help we expect a great work. I had one addition on the third Lord's day in February. Brother Holt came out and baptized the lady for me. We have just put a new iron roof on our building. We do not owe a cent and pay as we go, for all of which we praise the Lord.
J. C. COMER.

Newton, March 6.—My month's work at Hazlehurst, Ga., closed on the first. Eternity alone will reveal the results. At that place I met more opposition than ever before. The pastor of the Methodist Church and the First Baptist Church kept all they could from the debate. One lady, a teacher in the Baptist Church, attended the debate and accepted the truth. The preachers set about to have me removed by robbing me of a place to preach, and so sure was the Methodist preacher that he had me out of the Presbyterian

A HEALING SPRING AT YOUR DOOR.

Here is a very unusual and peculiar offer—one that you rarely meet with. It evidences the greatest faith on the part of its maker and inspires confidence. It is made by an earnest and enthusiastic man who not only thinks, but knows from personal experience, that he is right. He proposes to give you the equivalent of a three-weeks' visit to a mineral spring of most remarkable restorative powers, and make no charge if you are not benefited. His offer has been accepted by several thousand sufferers in all parts of the United States, and his records show that only two in a hundred, on the average, report no benefit.

If you suffer with dyspepsia, indigestion, rheumatism, gallstones, kidney, bladder, or liver disease, uric-acid poisoning, or other condition caused by impure blood, take Mr. Shivar at his word and sign and mail the following letter:

Shivar Spring,
Box 21H, Shelton, S. C.

Gentlemen: I accept your guarantee offer, and inclose herewith two dollars for ten gallons of Shivar Mineral Spring Water. I agree to give it a fair trial, in accordance with instructions contained in the booklet you will send; and if it fails to benefit my case, you agree to refund the price in full upon receipt of the two empty demijohns, which I agree to return promptly.

Name
Address.....
Shipping Point.....
(Please write distinctly.)

Big Deal on Sterling Hose.

Big purchase direct from the mills on "Sterling" Half Hose enables us to offer them while they last at startling prices.

"Sterling" Hose are stainless fast dye—good, clean, selected cotton yarn, nice weight, full seamless double heel and toe, wide elastic instep, long loop-on elastic ribbed top, full standard lengths; come in any color wanted; one dozen to a box, solid sizes, 9 to 11.

Sent, postpaid, to any address in the United States for $1.40 per dozen. Money cheerfully refunded if not delighted. These hose are sold for and are worth 20 to 25 cents a pair in many places. Order to-day. The Bee Hive, Box F, Clinton, S. C.

Our Frost-proof Cabbage Plants grow in the open—in snow and frost—and are extra hardy. Leading varieties. Send fifty cents for 200, $1 for 500, postpaid, 65 cents for 500 $1 for 1,000, $4 for 5,000, $7.50 for 10,000, by express. Nancy Hall, Triumph, Porto Rico, Norton Yam sweet potato plants from Wakefield's "Bred Up" seed, $2 per 1,000. Free booklet. Wakefield Plant Farm, Charlotte, N. C.

Subscribe for The Bible Study Helper. Sixty cents per year.

Church that he then tried to get the Masons to refuse me their hall, also the courthouse. The Baptist preacher (not the one I debated with) accosted me on the street and, shaking his fist at me, informed me that he was not afraid of me. Poor fellow! I told him that might be true, but that he was afraid of Baptist doctrine not standing the test. As I went to the train to leave, a man asked me to return and baptize him. Others were almost persuaded and exacted from me a promise to return or to send some one for a summer meeting. I began at Christian Home yesterday. Four years ago I left this church united and working. A "hobby-rider" preacher came here, and now there is strife and division. How long are we to be unprotected from such things? It seems to me that a preacher who sows discord should be dealt with, or, at least, other churches should be warned, so they may protect themselves. I see in the "Faith and Works" Number of the Gospel Advocate an article from the brother who sowed discord here. It seems to me he should come here and bring them together. A word from him will bring all together. Will he come and acknowledge before all that he did wrong, so the rest may get right? I go from here back to Hazlehurst. I am sending a full report of help received. My home address is Cedar Hill, Texas. JOHN HAYES.

Florida.

Winter Garden, March 7.—Although we are less than two months old in the work at this place, we see some advancement for the cause of Christ here. Our number is still small, only nine members of the church residing at this place and there being only about three members near here who are prospective worshippers with us. Yet we have not failed to meet upon the first day of the week in the afternoon since the work was begun on the third Lord's day in January; and although some are cold, others lukewarm, and probably too indifferent at times, yet the faithful few have never missed a single service. We hope to be able within three months, anyhow, to help support a young preacher here with at least twenty dollars per month remuneration. Let us hear from some young student of the ministry who is interested in this work. The packing houses will run about half of working hours for a month or two, and there is always something to do on the farm here—truck gardens and groves. If the Lord will, I expect to return northward within two or three months. At present I am representing the McQuiddy Printing Company and the Gospel Advocate here as agent. Should I return, I would want some one to take up the work and not let the cause go down in this mission field. Is not some loyal member of the church in Tennessee interested in mission work enough to "come over and help us?" So far as I know, there is not a loyal preacher residing within one hundred miles from here, nor a loyal congregation within fifty miles. If there is, let us hear from you. With all good wishes to those engaged in the service of the Master, and especially those who are sacrificing their "lives, their talents, and their all," spreading the gospel of Christ on mission fields, I send this message from

SALTS FINE FOR KIDNEYS.

We eat too much meat, which clogs kidneys, then the back hurts.

Most folks forget that the kidneys, like the bowels, get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness, and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean; and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is harmless to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity. It also neutralizes the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is harmless; inexpensive; makes a delightful effervescent lithia water drink, which everybody should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean, thus avoiding serious complications.

A well-known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in overcoming kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

Pastors: We publish Books, Pamphlets, Minutes, Sermons, Church Directories, Manuals and reprint books and magazines. Specialists in Church Envelopes. Write us for prices. 419 S. Third St. MAYES PRINTING CO., Inc. Louisville, Ky.

Cutting Down the Cost of Pianos.

Have you ever stopped to ask yourself the question why oranges which sell for five cents each cost only two cents by the box, or why apples sell so much cheaper by the bushel than by a nickel's worth? It is the same way with pianos. If you were to purchase one hundred pianos (eight car loads) from the factory, you would get a much lower price than if you purchased only one. That is why the Gospel Advocate Piano Club, composed of one hundred buyers who club their orders into one big order, is saving its members at least forty per cent on high-grade pianos and player pianos.

You are cordially invited to write for your copy of the club's beautifully illustrated catalogue, which fully explains the big saving in price, the convenient terms, and the guarantees of quality and permanent satisfaction. Address The Associated Piano Clubs, Gospel Advocate Department, Atlanta, Ga.

Purely Vegetable—Not Narcotic

For over seventy years has been highly successful in relieving children during the dangerous teething period. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays pain, dispels wind colic and is the best remedy for infantile diarrhoea. Demand "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup" and accept no other. Twenty-five cents a bottle.

YOU CAN AFFORD Familiar Songs of the Gospel (No. 1 or 2). Round or shape notes. $2 per hundred, samples 5c each. 83 songs, words and music. E. A. K. HACKETT, FORT WAYNE, INDIANA

MONEY IN PIGEONS

Make Your Back Yard Profitable

THE demand for squabs in the Northern, Eastern and Southern markets has never been supplied, because pigeon raising as a business is comparatively new. Buy a half dozen pair of select birds, fence in a small portion of your back yard and watch them go to work. Success is easy. They raise from eight to fifteen pairs of squabs a year. Your squabs and fancy birds will bring handsome returns. You will actually make money in a hitherto useless part of your back yard. Pigeon raising is not a fad or fancy. It is a profitable business. Let us start you right. Our breeders are the best, and raised from prize winning parents. We will furnish you with the birds and teach you how to raise them, and you will reap a handsome profit with a very little outlay. Thousands are taking advantage of this same opportunity. Write to-day for our literature on pigeon raising as a money making proposition, or better still, write us to send you a few pair of Belgian Carneaux at $3.00 per pair, White Swiss Mondaines at $5.00 per pair, White Kings at $3.50 per pair, or White Maltese at $4.00 per pair. Our birds are all guaranteed. Your money back if after two months you are not satisfied with their work. Better prices on larger orders. Write to-day and get the pick of the flock.

CAROLINA PIGEON PLANT,
Pen Series G— CLINTON, S. C.

Quickest, Surest Cough Remedy is Home-Made

Easily Prepared in a Few Minutes. Cheap but Unequaled

Some people are constantly annoyed from one year's end to the other with a persistent bronchial cough, which is wholly unnecessary. Here is a home-made remedy that gets right at the cause and will make you wonder what became of it.

Get 2½ ounces Pinex (50 cents worth) from any druggist, pour into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Start taking it at once. Gradually but surely you will notice the phlegm thin out and then disappear altogether, thus ending a cough that you never thought would end. It also loosens the dry, hoarse or tight cough and heals the inflammation in a painful cough with remarkable rapidity. Ordinary coughs are conquered by it in 24 hours or less. Nothing better for bronchitis, winter coughs and bronchial asthma.

This Pinex and Sugar Syrup mixture makes a full pint—enough to last a family a long time—at a cost of only 54 cents. Keeps perfectly and tastes pleasant. Easily prepared. Full directions with Pinex.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, rich in guaiacol, and is famous the world over for its ease, certainty and promptness in overcoming bad coughs, chest and throat colds.

Get the genuine. Ask your druggist for "2½ ounces Pinex," and do not accept anything else. A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., 233 Main St., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

PELLAGRA

Cured Or You Pay Nothing

I have cured—cured to stay cured—90% of all who have taken my Pellagra Cure. What I have done for others I GUARANTEE to do for you or my treatment will cost you nothing. Highly endorsed by Physicians, Bankers, Ministers, County Officials and others. If you doubt, write any official or merchant in Walker County. No interference with work—no restrictions on your eating.

SYMPTOMS are: Hands red like sunburn; sore mouth; throat, tongue and lips flaming red; much mucus and choking; indigestion and nausea; diarrhea or constipation; mind affected and many other symptoms. No matter what anyone tells you about FREE Book Pellagra, write for my theory of the cause, prevention and cure of this dreaded disease—full of interesting facts which I have proven beyond doubt. Also contains full particulars of my remarkable offer of NO CURE—NO PAY. Free diagnosis to anyone sending symptoms. Send no money but write today!

Dr. W. J. McCrary, Dept 238 Carbon Hill, Alabama
Show this to some unfortunate sufferers

This means big and little tents, and we make all kinds. A thousand satisfied users testify to their quality. Let us make you a quotation. No trouble at all.

M. D. & H. L. SMITH COMPANY,
Atlanta, Ga. Dalton, Ga.

Florida's "far Southern field," trusting that God in his all-wise and divine providence may use it for the edification and upbuilding of the "prostrate and bleeding cross."

JAMES A. HARDISON.

Georgia.

Atlanta, March 6.—I am glad to report the Atlanta work moving gloriously onward. Woodroof was at South Pryor yesterday morning and evening, with splendid interest. He was at Constitution in the afternoon, and reports a fine service. Ritchie reports a good service at Golden Hill. Waits was pleased with an interesting service at Ingleside. Garrett was at East Point in the forenoon, with one from the Baptists and one reclaimed. The writer was at West End in the forenoon, with one baptism; Bearden spoke at night. Timme reports a growing interest at the Chestnut mission. The revival at East Point continues with unabated interest.

S. H. HALL.

Macon, March 8.—We rejoice in saying that God continues to open opportunities for the accomplishment of good in this field. The word is being preached, and we hope to have a still more abundant harvest this year than last. The teaching of the gospel for God's glory and man's salvation is so very important, and yet so sadly neglected. We are in the center of a large field, one of the largest in the South. God has used us and the brethren and sisters who have cooperated in prayer and financial fellowship, and the work of his kingdom has been extended. There is a great amount of work yet untouched. The need for cooperation both by prayer and finance is urgent in this new territory. There is also need of immediate cooperation in meeting notes due on April 15 on the frame chapel purchased here last year. Mission work, whether in America or elsewhere, should be encouraged; and as we bring this to your mind, we urge the cooperation of all Christians in well-established congregations. Our treasurer, Brother J. W. Hightower, 708 Broad Street, will give you notice of any amount you invest in the extension of God's kingdom in this territory. We are especially interested in being remembered in your prayers in Jehovah's name for blessings in the series of services to begin here next week by Brethren S. H. Hall, Claud H. Woodroof, and Morgan H. Carter. Write us concerning any friend or relative whom you would like to have more deeply interested in Christ.

M. B. FOLSOM.

Kentucky.

Shelbyville, March 6.—The work at Shelbyville is still growing. We are expecting great things when the weather becomes a little brighter. We would be glad for any of the brethren to stop in and see us. We are trying to teach the word only as it is written, and because of this some are in opposition to us; but we are arming ourselves with the mind of Christ to combat all false teaching and teach the unsearchable riches of Christ.

R. A. CRATE.

Louisiana.

New Orleans, March 3.—Thinking it might be of interest to the readers of

FRECKLES

Now Is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freckles as the prescription ointment—double strength—is guaranteed to remove these homely spots.

Simply get an ounce of ointment—double strength—from your druggist, and apply a little at night and morning, and you should soon see that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the lighter ones have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than an ounce is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a beautiful clear complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength ointment as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.

Minister Tells How He Was Restored to Health.

The splendid restorative powers of Dr. Miles' Nervine were never better demonstrated than by the experience of the Rev. W. J. Houck, of Greencastle, Pa. We will quote from a statement that he made recently: "Several years ago I experienced some severe nervous shocks, which came at a time when my nervous strength and vitality had been greatly taxed by a severe season of work. My health was affected, and I was seriously threatened with nervous prostration. I could not sleep at night, and was so nervous that I would start at every little noise. My appetite was poor, and it seemed almost impossible for me to gain strength. Through the advice of a friend, I began taking Dr. Miles' Nervine and Liver Pills. I soon saw that my health was improving. Instead of that tired and worn-out feeling which had so oppressed me, I felt strong and cheerful. I could sleep soundly all night, and would awake in the morning feeling rested and refreshed. Since that time, whenever I am overworked or feel 'run down,' I find a bottle of Dr. Miles' Nervine is a wonderful help in bracing me up and in giving me renewed strength and health."

Dr. Miles' Nervine will prove equally beneficial to others who are nervous and run down from overwork or from any other reason; and if it fails to benefit you, your money will be cheerfully refunded. It can be purchased at any drug store.

MILES' MEDICAL COMPANY, Elkhart, Ind.

"Special" Silk Hose Offer.

To introduce the beautiful "La France" silk hose for ladies and gentlemen, we offer three pairs, 50-cent quality, for only one dollar, postpaid, in the United States. Pure silk from calf to toe, with durable elastic hile top, heel, and toe for long wear. Sizes, 8 to 10½. In white, tan, or black; assorted if desired. Money back promptly if not delighted. La France Silk Store, Box G, Clinton, S. C.

Subscribe for The Bible Study Helper. Sixty cents per year.

Easy Breathing a Luxury.

To persons afflicted with catarrh or severe head colds the difficulty of breathing is a great burden.

The defective aeration of the blood, through lack of contact between the air inhaled and the mucous membrane of the lungs, produces headaches, depressions, and lower health conditions, because the blood is not properly purified.

Under such conditions Mentholatum should be applied within the nostrils. Its aromatic oils penetrate to the membranes and tickle them to greater activity.

The secretions become more active, loosening the coagulations which cover the membranes, encouraging the clearing of the air passages.

Then comes the good fresh air in satisfying volume, direct to the membranes, purifying the blood.

Mentholatum is antiseptic and germicidal, encouraging the restoration of inflamed parts, and has proven very useful as well in relieving croup, sore throat, and chapped skin.

the Gospel Advocate, I will give a little history of the little band of disciples which meet in the W. O. W. hall at 720 St. Charles Street. About eighteen months ago we began meeting at this place. The first Sunday we had four present—the writer, two of his children, and Brother John Williams. We had a good meeting. The next Sunday Brother D. L. Watson, M.D., was with us, and several others. We have been continually increasing in numbers and in interest until now we have from twenty-five to thirty present each Sunday. I am proud to say that the greatest harmony prevails in this congregation of any one it has been my privilege of attending. There has never been any dissensions. Each and every one is trying to do his part. The prospects for this congregation are good, and we ask the prayers of all the brotherhood. W. F. THOMPSON.

Pennsylvania.

Fayette City, March 10.—There is no more inviting field for our missionary labors than the great cities of the North and East. I am pleased to know that the church at Portland, Maine, has secured Brother W. E. Morgan to labor with them. The churches in Detroit, Mich., are prospering, and they have several strong men there to push the work. What is being done there should be done in other large cities. Especially do I wish to commend the work at Pittsburgh. Brother Hal P. McDonald is there in school, and will be there till August 1. He reports a good beginning there, a sturdy little band that can be depended on to do their part. They purchased a house from the Episcopal Church, but have not paid all of it yet. Hence they need outside help. Now, I wish to suggest a man and a plan for the work there; and if that is successful, we can push the venture further. Brother Ben West, of Lometa, Texas, is well prepared for city work. We know how he built up the church in Houston, Texas, and I think he can build up the cause in Pittsburgh, if we can get him to come and will provide the means. Let me recommend that one of our big city churches pledge itself for his support, or two or more of them cooperate in sustaining him in this field until it is self-supporting. There is plenty of wealth and talent in these cities, but before Christ can use it they must be converted. Who will respond? Hal P. McDonald's address is 222 Amanda Avenue, Mount Oliver, Pittsburgh, Pa. GEORGE M. RANCE.

Tennessee.

Lebanon, March 6.—We are having good interest manifested in the work of the Lord at this place. We had two baptisms last night, making four the last three Lord's days.

JOHN A. KLINGMAN.

Texas.

Memphis, February 21.—The cause of Christ in this good town is moving onward and upward. Increased audiences at our services, and the interest is fine. One baptized on Lord's day and two by relation. We are using hundreds of gospel tracts in our work. Next month we are to conduct a ten-days' meeting here. O. M. REYNOLDS.

Boils Needn't Bother You.

Gray's Ointment puts an end to them right away. This remarkable ointment was first prepared in 1820 by a North Carolina physician. For nearly a century the American people have found it the most effective preparation for all eruptions and abrasions of the skin, burns, cuts, wounds, bruises, boils, carbuncles, ulcers, sores, etc. It speedily heals the skin trouble and prevents the development of blood poisoning, which not infrequently rises from a neglected sore or cut. "The best remedy I ever tried for risings, and all my friends who have tried it say it beats anything they ever used," writes Miss E. M. Manley, Auburndale, Fla. Keep a box in the house. Twenty-five cents at druggists. Get a free sample by writing W. F. Gray & Co., 818 Gray Building, Nashville, Tenn.

A Woman's Appeal

to all knowing sufferers of rheumatism, whether muscular or of the joints, sciatica, lumbago, backache, pains in the kidneys or neuralgia pains, to write to her for a home treatment which has repeatedly cured all of these tortures. She feels it her duty to send it to all sufferers FREE. You cure yourself at home, as thousands will testify, no change of climate being necessary. This simple discovery banishes uric acid from the blood, loosens the stiffened joints, purifies the blood, and brightens the eyes, giving elasticity and tone to the whole system. If the above interests you, for proof address Mrs. M. Summers, Box 195, South Bend, Ind.

NIXON BUSINESS COLLEGE

offers thorough instruction in the following branches: Bookkeeping, Stenography, Type-writing, Penmanship, and Commercial Law. Now is the time to enroll. Prices very reasonable. Write for catalogue and mention course you wish to take. Address NIXON BUSINESS COLLEGE, Bristol, Tenn.

$120.00 SURE

Congenial work at home among church people, man or woman. 60 days or less. Spare time may be used. No experience required. International Bible Press, Dept. SB, Philadelphia

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG.

Nobody can tell when you darken gray, faded hair with Sage Tea.

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy, and attractive with a brew of sage tea and sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded, or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, all ready to use, for about fifty cents. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied; it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears. After another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft, and beautiful. This preparation is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation, or prevention of disease.

Gospel Advocate Piano Club Prevents Waste

You will not find many men who would deliberately throw away one hundred dollars, and yet there are many who unintentionally waste that amount every year in one way or another. Careless buying is one of the most common ways of wasting money. The founders of the club had that fact in mind when they adopted the principle of cutting down the cost of pianos by cutting out the waste in marketing them. The club claims to save its members forty per cent, and asks you to give it an opportunity to prove this fact to your entire satisfaction by thoroughly testing the piano in your own home before obligating yourself to pay for it. It will cost you only a postal card to investigate; and if the testimony of club members who have already received their instruments is to be relied upon, you will undoubtedly be delighted with the saving in price, the convenient terms, and the superior quality of the instruments. By uniting our orders in a club of one hundred members, each secures the benefit of the lowest possible factory price and yet is responsible only for his own order.

Write for your copy of the catalogue and full particulars to-day. Address The Associated Piano Clubs, Gospel Advocate Department, Atlanta, Ga.

Cabbage Plants That Grow.

Hardy, frost-proof varieties. Grown in the open—earliest in maturing. One hundred, post-paid, twenty-five cents. By express, charges collect, per thousand, in lots of less than four thousand, $1; five thousand to seven thousand, eighty-five cents; eight thousand to ten thousand, seventy-five cents. Special prices in larger quantities.

C. F. HETHINGTON, Meggetts, S. C.

STAMPS FREE.

75, all different, for the names of two collectors and 2 cents postage. 5 Bosnia pictures 1906, 10 cents; 30 Sweden, 10 cents; 6 Roumania 1906 pictures and heads, 10 cents; 20 different foreign coins, 25 cents; large U. S. cent, 5 cents. List free. We buy stamps and coins. Buying list, 10 cents. Toledo Stamp Co., Dept. J, Toledo, Ohio, U. S. A.

UGH! A DOSE OF NASTY CALOMEL.

It salivates! It makes you sick and you may lose a day's work.

You're bilious, sluggish, constipated and believe you need vile, dangerous calomel to start your liver and clean your bowels.

Here's my guarantee! Ask your druggist for a fifty-cent bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone and take a spoonful to-night. If it doesn't start your liver and straighten you right up better than calomel and without griping or making you sick, I want you to go back to the store and get your money.

Take calomel to-day, and to-morrow you will feel weak and sick and nauseated. Don't lose a day's work. Take a spoonful of harmless, vegetable Dodson's Liver Tone to-night and wake up feeling great. It's perfectly harmless; so give it to your children any time. It can't salivate; so let them eat anything afterwards.

$15 95 UPWARD
ON TRIAL
Fully Guaranteed

American CREAM SEPARATOR

A SOLID PROPOSITION to test new, well-made, easy running, perfect skimming separator for 15.95. Skims warm or cold milk making heavy or light cream. Bowl is a sanitary marvel, easily cleaned. ABSOLUTELY ON APPROVAL. Gears thoroughly protected. Differs from this picture, which illustrates our large capacity machine. Western orders filled from western points. Whether dairy is large or small write for handsome free catalog. Address: AMERICAN SEPARATOR CO., Box 31018 Bainbridge, N. Y.

Lime Medication In Tuberculosis

In the New York Medical Record of December 5, 1914, Dr. John North, of Toledo, says: "I have come to the conclusion that one of the most prominent causes of tuberculosis is 'Hm-starvation.' In all cases of incipient tuberculosis there is a deficiency of calcium. Many do not eat food containing enough lime. In such cases we must resort to lime medication."

Eckman's Alternative should be given a fair trial in such cases, because one of its chief ingredients is calcium (lime), in such combination with other remedial agents as to be easily assimilated by the average person.

Where its use is combined with proper diet, fresh air and hygienic living conditions, we believe it will prove beneficial in any case of tuberculosis.

It contains no opiates, narcotics or habit-forming drugs, so is safe to try. Price $1 and $2 per bottle. Sold by leading druggists or sent direct from the Laboratory. We would like to send you a booklet containing information of value and references.

ECKMAN LABORATORY,
23 N. Seventh St. Philadelphia.

TRY THE OLD RELIABLE
WINTERSMITH'S
CHILL TONIC
For MALARIA CHILLS & FEVER
A FINE GENERAL STRENGTHENING TONIC

Pulpit Bibles Largest assortment, finest Bibles at low est. cost. Write to us for full description and prices.
*PENTECOSTAL PUBLISHING CO., Inc., LOUISVILLE, KY.

OBITUARIES

On account of the large number of obituary notices coming to the Gospel Advocate the following rules must be observed: Obituaries that do not exceed one hundred and fifty words are published free of charge. When they exceed this limit, one cent will be charged for every additional word. Payment must accompany notice or else it will be reduced to one hundred and fifty words. Poetry will not be printed.

Matthews.

Sister Matthews, wife of our beloved brother, J. B. Matthews, died at Applin, Ark., on February 22, 1916. She was the daughter of E. Harper and Mary Harper. She was born on November 8, 1851. She was married to J. B. Matthews on February 9, 1873. To this union were born six children. Two of them died some years ago. Sister Matthews obeyed the gospel in 1874. She lived a Christian till death. Brother Matthews was made an elder of the congregation at Romance, Ark., many years ago and began preaching about 1896. He has preached in many counties in Arkansas, and has done untold good for the cause. The writer spoke words of encouragement at the grave in the presence of a large congregation of friends. May God's blessing rest upon Brother Matthews in his bereavement. J. M. Dixon.

Jordan.

On January 29, 1916, my mother, Addie Tatum Jordan, died near Unionville, Tenn., aged sixty-two years, three months, and twelve days. She was first married to Monroe Sowell, who lived only a few years. To them a little girl was born, who died in infancy. Later she married A. W. Jordan. To them five children were born. Four of these, with her afflicted husband, survive her. She obeyed the gospel in early life, and amid the trials and conflicts of life she never lost faith in Christ as the Son of God, the Savior of the world. And while our hearts are sad at the thought of seeing mamma on earth no more, we hope to meet her again where there are no sad good-byes. Funeral services were conducted by J. S. Batey, and her remains were laid to rest at Berea, near Verona, Tenn. Mrs. EDD WALKER.

Cotton.

Margaret E. Sweeney was born near Leiper's Fork, Tenn., on October 3, 1848, and died at the home of her niece, in Nashville, Tenn., on January 12, 1916. She was married to James Cotton on September 29, 1871. He preceded her to the grave twenty-five years. She obeyed the gospel in 1866, living a Christian almost fifty years. She leaves, to mourn her loss, eight brothers, a niece whom she reared from early childhood, and many other relatives. "Aunt Mag," as she was known to all, always attended the Lord's worship when she was able. It is hard indeed to give up our loved ones, but we know that our loss is her gain. She had been a subscriber of the Gospel Advocate for more than thirty years. After a short service at the grave, we laid her to rest by the side of her husband, at Southall, Tenn. J. M.

Corley.

Sister J. K. Corley (née Martha Prudence Kuykendall), of Terrell, Texas, was born on June 8, 1856. On March 31, 1872, she was married to J. H. Corley. To this union ten children were born, eight of whom are living. Sister Corley was a woman of beautiful Christian character and was faithful in her duties. Frequently, in the last year, she attended the meetings of the church when she was really not able to do so. Her life was one of the most beautiful I have ever seen. On the night of February 19, 1916, as the first day of the week drew nigh, Sister Corley, surrounded by her children, passed into rest. Sister Corley belonged to one of the most prominent families in this section of the State, and the throng at her funeral was one of the greatest ever seen at a funeral in this city. The writer tried to speak words of comfort. C. A. NARRED.

Hudgins.

Albert Eugene Hudgins was born on November 28, 1869, and departed this life on January 28, 1916. He was born into the family of God at about the age of sixteen, being baptized by Brother John Morton. He lived a consistent Christian life from the time of his obedience to his call to come up higher. He was married to Miss Rosa Tidwell on December 20, 1895. To this union two children were born—Faith and Emmer Lee. Faith preceded her father to the city of the dead three years ago last September. He was a devoted father and husband and one of the most accommodating neighbors in the community. He was a friend to the church and country, always ready to assist in building up both. He was a great stay to his congregation at Southside, Tenn., and will be greatly missed by his brethren. He was one of the most substantial pillars the church at Southside had. He was kind-hearted and generous and always ready to help in a worthy cause. He died in the hope of Israel's God, leaving a devoted companion, one daughter, one sister, together with a host of relatives and friends, to mourn their loss. The large audience that attended the funeral demonstrated the high esteem in which Brother Hudgins was held in the community. The funeral was conducted by the writer, assisted

When Your Eyes Need Care Try Murine Eye Remedy
No Smarting—Feels Fine—Acts Quickly. Try it for Red, Weak, Watery Eyes and Granulated Eyelids. Illustrated Book in each Package. MURINE is compounded by our Chemists—not a "Patent Medicine" but used in successful Physicians' Practices for many years. Now dedicated to the Public and sold by Druggists at 25c-50c per bottle. Murine Eye Salve in Asseptic Tubes, 25c-50c. Murine Eye Remedy Co., Chicago

The Greatest Remedy.

We say that "Renwar" is the greatest remedy, because we have so many letters from those who have used it testifying to this statement. In cases of rheumatism and other blood disorders it has worked wonders where ordinary drugs have failed. We do not ask you to take our word for this. Upon request, we will send you letters from scores of people who have received untold benefit from "Renwar." If you suffer from rheumatism, get a bottle of "Renwar" from your druggist. If he doesn't have it, send fifty cents direct to the Warner Drug Company, Nashville, Tenn., and a bottle will be sent, postpaid.

by Mr. J. R. Simpson, after which the body was interred in the Southside cemetery to await the resurrection.
C. E. W. Dorans.

Dow.

It is an adage that "death loves a shining mark." Whether the adage be true or not, it can be said that he struck a shining mark when he came and took from the bosom of John B. Dow and his six children—four girls and two little boys—his wife, Lizzie (Owen) Dow. She was born on November 11, 1873, in the town of Franklin, Tenn., where her young life was spent. She was the daughter of Thomas and Sue Owen. She was one of a family of eight children—six girls and two boys. Her father, three sisters, and one brother preceded her to the beyond. Her mother, one brother, and one sister still survive to mourn their loss of her. She was a most lovable young girl, of a very modest and retiring disposition, and wherever she went she drew the admiration of those with whom she came in contact. She became a Christian at an early age, and through her life she maintained fully the Christian life and died with the Christian's hope. She was married on February 3, 1897, to John B. Dow, who was a resident of Cookeville, Tenn., and there they made their home. Health failing her, she sought relief in Colorado, at the home of her brother, John Owen, where she died on January 26, 1916, in her forty-third year. Her remains were carried to Cookeville and interred in the cemetery, after her funeral had been preached at 3 P.M. on Sunday, January 30, 1916, to as large a concourse of friends and neighbors as, perhaps, had ever been seen before in Cookeville on such an occasion.

JAMES E. SCOREY.

McDaniel.

On April 20, 1915, the death angel invaded our home and took from our midst our precious mother, the dearest treasure that the God of heaven has seen fit to bestow on us while we sojourn here below. Mrs. Martha McDaniel was born in Jackson County, Tenn., on August 11, 1829, being in the eighty-sixth year of her age at the time of her death. She obeyed the gospel under the preaching of Brother Newton Mulkey in 1847. Her advantages for obtaining an education were very limited, but she loved to read the word of God, and always looked anxiously for the coming of the Gospel Advocate, which she often read over and over again. It was always a source of grief to her that she did not live to see all of her children obey the gospel, there being but two who are Christians only. In 1849 she was married to Mr. Stuart White, of Gainesboro, Tenn., and in 1851 they, in company with her parents and others, moved to Texas. In 1852 Mr. White died, leaving his wife and infant son with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Huddleston, in a new, unsettled country. In the latter part of 1854 she was again married to Mr. E. McDaniel, who preceded her to the grave in 1891. To this union were born seven children. The eldest died in infancy. Those who survive her are R. T. White, of Eastland, Texas; N. B. McDaniel, George N. McDaniel, and Geneva McDaniel, all of Georgetown, Texas; Mrs. D. A. Wells, of Leander, Texas; J. D. McDaniel, of Alpine, Texas; and J. M. McDaniel, of Canille, Ariz. X.

To Drive Out Malaria and Build Up the System.

take the old standard Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic. You know what you are taking, as the formula is printed on every label, showing it is quinine and iron in a tasteless form. The quinine drives out malaria, and the iron builds up the system. 50 cents.

SOUR, ACID STOMACHS, GASES OR INDIGESTION

Each "Pape's Diapepsin" digests 3000 grains food, ending all stomach misery in five minutes.

Time it! In five minutes all stomach distress will go. No indigestion, heartburn, sourness or belching of gas, acid, or eructations of undigested food, no dizziness, bloating, foul breath or headache.

Pape's Diapepsin is noted for its speed in regulating upset stomachs. It is the surest, quickest stomach remedy in the whole world and besides it is harmless. Put an end to stomach trouble forever by getting a large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin from any drug store. You realize in five minutes how needless it is to suffer from indigestion, dyspepsia or any stomach disorder. It's the quickest, surest and most harmless stomach doctor in the world.

Stop Tobacco EASY-TO-QUIT

is a harmless, effective treatment for cigarette and tobacco habits. Can be given without patient's knowledge in coffee, tea, or other drink. Odorless, tasteless, purely vegetable. Send name and address for trial treatment FREE! in plain wrapper. Treatment inexpensive. Send no money. Write now. THE ROGERS DRUG & CHEMICAL CO., 399 Lincoln Inn Court, Cincinnati, Ohio.

FIRM FOUNDATION An eight-page weekly religious paper devoted to the restoration of primitive Christianity. Excels in church news; an able corps of writers; extensively circulated. Subscription price, $1 a year, payable in advance. Special rates for clubs. We believe that every loyal Christian should have the Firm Foundation visit his home.

FIRM FOUNDATION PUBLISHING HOUSE, Austin, Texas.

Church Chime Psal BELL
Memorial Bells a Specialty.
McShane Bell Foundry Co., Baltimore, Md., U.S.A.

In Behalf of the Tennessee Orphan's Home.

BY W. M. KING.

I recently saw Brother W. T. Boaz' call in the Gospel Advocate for help on the Tennessee Orphans' Home. He states that the Home is just two thousand dollars in debt, and it will just take two thousand brethren at one dollar each to pay it out of debt. When I had finished reading the article, knowing that the call appealed to me and every other brother in Christ, I at once placed a one-dollar bill in an envelope and sent it to Brother Boaz, stating that I would make one of the two thousand to help pay the Home out of debt. Brethren, why not respond to the first call when you first read it and thus free the Home from debt? Paul said: "I have showed you all things, how that so laboring ye ought to support the weak, and to remember the words of the Lord Jesus, how he said, It is more blessed to give than to receive." (Acts 20: 35.)

Chills

and fever, though not immediately dangerous, are extremely unpleasant, and if neglected may prove fatal. If you are troubled with dumb or shaking chills and fever, malaria, liver trouble, or jaundice, why not safeguard yourself against such discomforts and avoid a possible fatality? Use only that which has been tried and proclaimed efficient by others. Plantation Chill and Fever Tonic and Liver Regulator is a well known reliable remedy, harmless, but effective. It contains no calomel, arsenic, or other dangerous drugs. For sale by best dealers everywhere; price, fifty cents. Manufactured by the Van Vleet-Mansfield Drug Company, Memphis, Tenn.

JACOBS & COMPANY
SPECIAL ADVERTISING AGENTS
PRINTERS
DESIGNERS
PHOTO ENGRAVERS
ELECTROTYPERS
Catalogues a Specialty
HOME OFFICE: CLINTON, S.C.

Old Folks Saved from Suffering

Mrs. Mary A. Dean, Taunton, Mass., in her eighty-seventh year, says: "I thought I was beyond the reach of medicine, but Foley Kidney Pills have proven most beneficial in my case."

Mr. Sam A. Hoover, High Point, N. C., writes: "My kidney trouble was worse at night, and I had to get up from five to seven times. Now I do not have to get up at night, and consider myself in a truly normal condition, which I attribute to Foley Kidney Pills, as I have taken nothing else."

Mrs. M. A. Bridges, Robinson, Mass., says: "I suffered from kidney ailments for two years. I commenced taking Foley Kidney Pills ten months ago, and, though I am sixty-one years of age, I feel like a sixteen-year-old girl."

Foley Kidney Pills are tonic, strengthening, and rebuilding, and restore normal action to the kidneys and to a disordered and painful bladder. They act quickly and contain no dangerous or harmful drugs.

Oxford Bibles

Printed with Very Large Type

For those who need an extra large type on account of failing sight or old age, this series of Oxford Bibles has no equal.

Weigh Only 29 Oz.

Most large-type Bibles are very heavy, but these Bibles are extremely light because they are printed on the famous

Oxford India Paper

Oxford Pica Square Bibles

Size 7 1/2 x 5 1/2 inches
Only 1 1/4 inches thick

Specimen of Type.

2 He only is my rock a salvation; he is my defe

- No. 01561x Alaska Seal, limp, leather lined..... $8.50
- 01563x Alaska Seal, divinity circuit, leather lined, silk sewed 9.00
- 01565x Levant Morocco, divinity circuit, leather lined, silk sewed 13.00

Order from
McQUIDDY PRINTING COMPANY,
Nashville, Tennessee

Dr. Doran's Queen Root Cordial.

The world's best blood remedy for ladies and young girls. All advice free and confidential. Free samples. General agents wanted. Write us a letter.
DORAN DRUG CO., Paducah, Ky., U. S. A.

WHEN WRITING OUR ADVERTISERS PLEASE MENTION THIS PUBLICATION

Notes from West Tennessee.

BY JOHN R. WILLIAMS.

A short time ago a man who claims a special and miraculous call to preach was urging upon his congregation the necessity and importance of giving for the spread of the gospel, and said: "A few years ago the Campbellites at Glass put John R. Williams in the field as evangelist, and now they have a Campbellite church on every hill and in every hollow in that country."

The man that made the above statement knows there is no such thing as a Campbellite church at Glass. There are no people there claiming to be Campbellites, and the very ones he calls "Campbellites" are the very ones who say they are not Campbellites. Furthermore, they contend that no one has a scriptural right to be a Campbellite. They further contend that one has the same scriptural right to be a Baptist, Methodist, Presbyterian, or anything not taught in the Bible. Why, then, does this divine (?) preacher call them "Campbellites?"

Another thing that preacher knew; That the congregation at Glass, that he calls "Campbellites," are a set of first-class citizens—men and women of education, intelligence, refinement, culture, honesty, truthfulness, with an earnest desire to know and do only what is taught in the Bible.

Now I am the man called and sent into this mission work by the congregation at Glass, and here is one thing I have constantly kept before the public in every meeting and at every place, as the people who heard will bear me out: Show me just one thing I am teaching as a condition of pardon from past sins that I cannot read in the Bible, and I will quit right now and never preach it again; or show me just one thing the Bible teaches as a condition of pardon from past sins that I am not teaching, and from this time on I will teach it. Again, show me just one thing I teach as an act of worship that I cannot read in the Bible, and I will quit it right now and never practice it again; or show me just one thing the Bible teaches as an act of worship that I am not, and from this time on I will teach it. Where I have gone preaching, the people know that I have done this. None did I teach to be Campbellites, none did I teach to be Baptists, none did I teach to be Methodists, none did I teach to be Presbyterians; but I did teach all at every place to believe in, love, obey, and follow Christ in all things. I did not teach the people to "get religion and join the church of their choice," but I did teach the people to make choice of Christ—to be Christians only

10 CENT "CASCARETS" IF BILIOUS OR COSTIVE

For Sick Headache, Sour Stomach, Sluggish Liver and Bowels—They work while you sleep.

Furred Tongue, Bad Taste, Indigestion, Sallow Skin and Miserable Headaches come from a torpid liver and clogged bowels, which cause your stomach to become filled with undigested food, which sours and ferments like garbage in a swill barrel. That's the first step to untold misery—indigestion, foul gases, bad breath, yellow skin, mental fears, everything that is horrible and nauseating. A Cascaret to-night will give your constipated bowels a thorough cleansing and straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist will keep you feeling good for months.

and only Christians. I did not teach the people that it makes no difference what you join, but I did teach the people that it makes a difference as to which Christ they believe in.

These specially called-and-sent preachers will say that the name "Christian" (Acts 11: 26) was given by the devil. If they believe what they say, why do they object to calling us by the name the devil does? Do they think they can go the devil one better and call us "Campbellites?" Here is a tangled hank of thread that needs straightening out. You say the devil gave the name "Christian;" we call ourselves by the name the devil gave; you call us "Campbellites." Then which is the meaner—smarter? Calling us "Campbellites" does not stop the work; it still goes on.

The congregations are preparing for greater things for the Lord.

A Tent for the Colorado Western Slope.

BY E. C. FUQUA.

I have been criticized by some for making the wants of this mission field known through the papers. But really I do not know how to conduct a work on a field of this character without assistance. I cannot see why it is wrong to ask brethren to assist in getting the cause established on this field. Many seem to expect me to do this work without any assistance whatever, and characterize any mention I make of its needs as "begging." Since I have been engaged in mission work, I am conscious of never having asked for assistance for personal needs, except in sickness. All my calls for aid have been for the mission work purely, and all receipts have been so applied with all conscientiousness. As long as I remain on a field like this I will certainly have need of assistance from other fields.

Now, the thing I need on this Western Slope—a thing I could not use to advantage on the eastern side of the Rockies—is a large tent equipment. I need this now. I will explain the situation here in Olathe, for instance. I will meet with like needs in other towns here in my work.

I secured a church building in Olathe, where I held a most satisfactory meeting in January. The meeting was closed abruptly by a severe snow-storm, when there were several persons who were desirous of being baptized and others who desired to "take membership" with us on the New Testament basis. After this meeting (at which the sectarian ministers of the town were conspicuously absent), when I tried to secure the same house to finish my meeting, I was refused. The preachers had been at work to keep me out. I then tried to secure the Odd Fellows' Hall. They agreed to let me have it for one dollar per night. I arranged with them to get it on Sunday night. They told me I could have it. I placed my advertisement in the paper and otherwise made announcement of the meeting. Just before time for the meeting, after all announcements had been made, they informed me that "it was decided" I could not have the house at all. Thus we stand in Olathe. Not a house in the town can we get for "love or money." It is intended to spare no pains to keep the church of Christ out of Olathe, if it can be prevented. On the other hand, I mean to plant a church here. They have the advantage so far, because I have no house or other means of reaching the people. It is not right for us to sit by and allow the gospel field to be monopolized by one or two denominations.

I am, therefore, making this appeal for a tent, as we will need this all over this Western Slope. It is warm like summer here now; the moon never shone more brightly than here on the Western Slope; and the winters are short and not severe here, making an ideal country for tent work. The brethren here will assist all they can no matter how trivial it appears, may be the beginning of the end of you. The heart and nerves are so closely connected that nothing can affect the nerves without affecting the heart. A shattered nervous system means a weak heart. If you are troubled with palpitation, short breathing, weak and irregular pulse, sleeplessness, swollen ankles, pains on either side of the chest, or the many other symptoms of a nervous breakdown, take "Reno-vine," the best of nerve tonic, and build up your nervous system. For sale by the best dealers everywhere. Price, fifty cents and one dollar. Manufactured by Van Vleet-Mansfield Drug Company, Memphis, Tenn.

A Nervous Breakdown,

OUTLINES OF BIBLE STUDY

REVISED AND ENLARGED

BY G. DALLAS SMITH

FOR USE IN

BIBLE DRILLS, BIBLE READINGS, BIBLE CLASSES, PRAYER MEETINGS, AND HOME STUDY

A BRIEF DESCRIPTION

Outlines of Bible Study (Revised and Enlarged) is a book of one hundred and twenty pages, besides five full-page maps covering all Bible lands. It is printed in large, clear type, on good, heavy paper, and is substantially bound in stiff cloth.

The book contains seventeen drill lessons for use in Bible drills, Bible readings, or any other Bible class where it is desired to cover the entire scope of the Sacred Record in a short time.

Outlines of Bible Study is not a commentary in any sense of the word. It contains but few comments. It is not "literature" in the same sense that some object to literature. It rather guides one in his study that it may be intelligent and systematic.

PRICES

Single copy, prepaid, fifty cents; one dozen copies, prepaid, $5.50; twenty-five copies, not prepaid, $10; fifty copies, not prepaid, $18.50; one hundred copies, not prepaid, $35.

McQUIDDY PRINTING COMPANY
NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE

toward seats, lights, freights, etc. All we need now is the tent itself, or the money to buy one. A wonderful work will result from such an endeavor. I am "foot free" from all other lines of work (having no printing press or paper to run) and am here to give my entire time to oral preaching. Shall we have the tent, brethren? If so, let me urge haste in action. Do what you expect to do now. Four or five congregations could place this tent in our hands at once, if they would, and we could be under it before the end of this month. Why not? I do not promise that this will be the last mention of our needs on this field. As long as I am here and there are just needs for the work, I will state them.

A Zealous Brother.

BY H. W. JONES.

A brother preacher in Texas donates liberally to have a copy of my booklet on "Valid Baptism" sent to each of our brother preachers in the State of Texas, free. And I propose to cut the price of this fifty-six-page booklet to less than one-half the regular price, ten cents. So if any one (or more) who reads this desires a copy at half price, send five one-cent stamps for it. Also, if any one wishes to help us send the book to all our preaching brethren in Texas, you may do so. About twenty dollars more pays postage and about four cents a copy for the books to all the Texas preachers. I am mailing them out from Hardin, Ky. I also have a few copies of "Baptism and Remission," by J. W. Willmarth, a rare work, for only ten cents. Address all orders to H. W. Jones, Hardin, Ky.

GOSPEL ADVOCATE

AND

HOME AND FARM

$1.75 FOR ONE YEAR

For thirty-six years Home and Farm has been the leading farm paper in Kentucky, the South and Southwest. To-day it is stronger and better than ever and is of great value to every farmer.

The Gospel Advocate and Home and Farm have been clubbed for several years with much satisfaction and profit to our readers. We furnish the two papers for one year for $1.75 to new subscribers or renewals.

Gospel Advocate Publishing Company,
NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE

WHY WOMEN WRITE LETTERS

To Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co.

Women who are well often ask "Are the letters which the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. are continually publishing, genuine?" "Are they truthful?" "Why do women write such letters?"

In answer we say that never have we published a fictitious letter or name. Never, knowingly, have we published an untruthful letter, or one without the full and written consent of the woman who wrote it.

The reason that thousands of women from all parts of the country write such grateful letters to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. is that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has brought health and happiness into their lives, once burdened with pain and suffering.

It has relieved women from some of the worst forms of female ills, from displacements, inflammation, ulceration, irregularities, nervousness, weakness, stomach troubles and from the blues.

It is impossible for any woman who is well and who has never suffered to realize how these poor, suffering women feel when restored to health; their keen desire to help other women who are suffering as they did.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM

Win Both Health and Figure! Wear DR. SCOTT'S

Spinal Supporting Back Magnetic Corsets on the Market 36 Years A Perfect Figure and Perfect Health

Relieves backache, nervousness, and rheumatism, if you wear Dr. Scott's Corsets.

While they give your figure the newest style lines, the magnetic stimulation and tends to relieve all stomach, back, and nervous troubles. Twelve new styles—$1.00 to $2.75.

This Style, $3.00 Not Sold by Dealers

Money Talks—Big Profit for You Our agents earn $5.00 per day and upward selling Dr. Scott's Spinal Supporting Back Corsets, and Specialties. No experience necessary. Exclusive territory given. Write us at once before you turn this page, and we'll send our Catalogue of Specialties with a liberal proposition to you. Our corsets and specialties are easy to sell because they are all that we claim and well understood. Commission free to test power. Write now, mention this paper, and we will send free a sample cake of complexion cream. Path. Mail Electric Co., 122 W. 34th Street, New York

WE PAY $50 A MONTH SALARY and furnish rig and all expenses to introduce our guaranteed poultry and stock powders. Address BIGLER COMPANY, 1150, SPRINGFIELD, ILLINOIS

WHEN WRITING OUR ADVERTISERS PLEASE MENTION THIS PUBLICATION

An Attempted Debate.

BY A. E. WILSON.

In the courthouse of Mayfield, Ky., Brother F. O. Howell, of Fulton, Ky., met in debate J. R. McClain, representing the church of Latter-Day Saints. McClain affirmed the following proposition: "The church with which I stand identified, the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, is in harmony with the Scriptures in origin, organization, doctrine, and practice, identical with the New Testament church." Brother Howell's affirmation was the same with reference to "the church of Christ."

It is reported that Elder McClain stands at the head of his church, so far as its organization is concerned, in Kentucky and Tennessee; but I must say that he manifested a very ugly disposition. Perhaps it was because of his lack of knowledge as to how debates should be carried on. Every time Brother Howell would mention Joseph Smith or the "Book of Mormon," he would rise to a "point of order," as he claimed. He stated publicly that he believed the "Book of Mormon" was of divine origin and that Joe Smith was a true prophet of God; and when he came to his last affirmative speech, he spent thirty minutes in trying to prove the same.

Brother Howell, in a firm but genteel manner, proceeded to examine Smith's character as set forth by standard historians. McClain and his moderator took the floor to such an extent that he could not finish his speech. Brother Howell finally dismissed the audience, stating at the time that he had never in his life met such an opponent. It was impossible for Brother Howell to speak. I have attended many debates, but never have I seen that man who denied his opponent the privilege of examining his affirmed teaching.

To brethren not acquainted with Brother Howell, I want to say that he is a strong, bold, and fearless man. In my judgment, he has some of the strongest characteristics of any debater in this section of country. The brethren are glad of the way he handled the propositions in hand at Mayfield.

STRENGTH comes from well-digested and thoroughly assimilated food. Hood's Sarsaparilla tones the digestive organs, and thus builds up the strength. If you are getting "run down," begin taking Hood's at once. It gives nerve, mental, and digestive strength.

Photographs copied onto beautiful French ivory, elegantly mounted on enshels for dresser or table; or copied onto cuff buttons, shirt-waist sets, scarf pins, watch crystals, or mirrors; or enlarged for framing, any size; post-card views copied in any quantity—all at manufacturer's prices. Send postal for catalogue and prices.

F. K. STEVENS, Manager, Room 434, Number 219 South Dearborn Street, Chic 60, Ill.

An Inconvenient God.

Said a little Japanese girl to her heathen grandmother, as she came home from a Christian Sunday school: "I have to go to the temple to pray to my god, but this God of the Christians can be prayed to when you are warm in bed, or 'most any time. But there's one thing I do not like: he can see you all the time everywhere; and sometimes I should think that would be quite inconvenient." There are some in Christian lands that agree with that Japanese girl.—Christian Herald.

THICK, GLOSSY HAIR FREE FROM DANDRUFF

Girls! Try it! Hair gets soft, fluffy and beautiful—Get a 25 cent bottle of Danderine.

If you care for heavy hair that glistens with beauty and is radiant with life; has an incomparable softness and is fluffy and lustrous, try Danderine.

Just one application doubles the beauty of your hair, besides it immediately dissolves every particle of dandruff. You can not have nice heavy, healthy hair if you have dandruff. This destructive scurf robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life, and if not overcome it produces a feverishness and itching of the scalp; the hair roots fashish, loosen and die; then the hair falls out fast. Surely get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store and just try it.

Save Half

On Your Machine

Buy your sewing machine now, save half, and get it on easy terms, through the Religious Press Co-Operative Club. We have engaged a large number from a leading American manufacturer, securing prices very little above actual cost. By buying from us you become a member of a big buying club; you get your machine at carload-lot prices, plus the small expense of operating the Club. You save all middlemen's profits, agents' commissions, salaries, etc.

We Give You Thirty Days Trial on any of these machines. If you are not entirely satisfied that it is the equal of any machine regularly sold at double the price, return it to us, and the trial costs you nothing. Easy monthly payments if you keep it.

Six Superb Sewing Machine Bargains are shown in the Club catalogue. Prices range from $12.95 to $27.80. Latest model—the best that can be manufactured at the price. All fully warranted for ten years.

Sign and Mail This Coupon Today. Get our catalogue and investigate the Club plan that saves you half on your Sewing Machine.

Religious Press Co-Operative Club
113 E. Carolina Ave. Clinton, S. C.

FREE CATALOGUE COUPON.

Religious Press Co-Operative Club, 113 E. Carolina Ave., Clinton, S. C. Please send me your catalogue, and full details of the Co-Operative Club Plan that will save me half the price on a high quality sewing machine.

Name _____
Address _____

Why not V-C Now?

BIGGER V-C CROPS MEAN BIGGER BUSINESS!

That's the story in a nut shell as you will find it told by words and pictures in these free V-C Crop Books. Better Paying Crops! That's what every farmer is after, not increased acreage but increased Crops and Profits. In these Books you will find an abundance of proof showing just how Bigger Crops and Bigger Profits have been made by the V-C way of Greater Prosperity on thousands of farms.

Every one of these remarkable Books was written by a practical Farmer who discovered how to get the most out of each foot of land, for he made a life study of Soils and Crops.

Not even the Government of the United States has ever issued such an elaborate, valuable and complete set of books as these for Free distribution among the Farmers of this land. So, while they last

FILL OUT THIS COUPON NOW AND SUCH BOOKS AS YOU HAVE CHECKED WILL BE SENT YOU FREE

FREE V-C COUPON

CROP BOOK DEPT. -- V-C FERTILIZERS

Box 1616-J. L. Richmond, Va.

Without cost or obligation send me Free Illustrated Crop Books as per my check marks (V) in spaces below:

- | | |
|--|-------------------|
|ALFALFA |LAWNS |
|BARLEY |MILLET |
|BERRIES |NUTS |
|CITRUS FRUITS |OATS |
|CLOVER |RICE |
|CORN |RYE |
|COTTON |SHRUBS |
|FERTILIZER TEST BOOK
(Making Soil and Crops Pay More) |SORGHUM |
|FLORIDA TRUCKS |STRAW-BERRIES |
|FLOWERS |SUGAR CANE |
|FRUITS |TOBACCO |
|GRASSES (for Hay) |TREES (Shade) |
|HAY |VEGETABLES |
| |WHEAT |

Name

Address

Dealer

Address

Save 1/2 on these splendid Books

This Library Consists of eight large volumes (8 1-4x5 1-4) and is one of the most helpful and inspiring works ever compiled. It has proven to be a fountain of real and indispensable help to thousands of Pastors, Evangelists, Students, and Christian Workers of all denominations. Average number of pages per volume 309.

CLERICAL LIBRARY

Furnishes Pastors, Bible Students and all earnest Christian Workers with stimulus and helpful suggestions in the various departments of their work. It contains the best thoughts of the world's greatest preachers and writers. It is printed in large, clear type, on white paper, strongly and handsomely bound in cloth.

This Set of Standard Helps is Being Received with the Highest Satisfaction by an Increasingly Large Number of Pastors and Bible Students.

Former Price $12
Now Only $6.00

Read What Some of the Owners of These Books say

- "A truly magnificent addition to the ministerial helps."
- "I consider the Clerical Library of rare value."
- "A fine tonic for the hard-working minister."
- "The books are valuable to me in the way of suggesting certain lines of thought."
- "The bane of the pulpit is the heavy style and monotonous delivery."
- "These incidents and anecdotes will send the truth home to the hearts of the people."
- "This set of books is a valuable addition to any preacher's library."
- "They are just what are needed."
- "I heartily recommend them to all engaged in pastoral work."

Outline Sermons on the Old Testament

This volume, containing 139 outlines of sermons by 46 eminent English and American clergymen, is fully indexed by subjects and texts.

Outline Sermons on the New Testament

This volume contains 300 outlines by 77 eminent English and American clergymen; it is fully indexed by subjects and texts. The outlines furnished in these two volumes have been drawn from the leading pulpit thinkers of every denomination in Great Britain and America, including Rev. Drs. Wm. M. Taylor, John Cairns, Howard Crosby, Theodore L. Cuyler, Charles H. Spurgeon, R. S. Storrs, H. J. Van Dyke, James McCosh, J. T. Duryea, Alex. MacLaren, Joseph Parker, C. F. Deems, Canon Farrar, Dean Stanley, Bishop Phillips Brooks, and many others. The subjects are practical rather than controversial.

Outline Sermons to Children

With numerous anecdotes, fully indexed by subjects and texts. This volume, containing 97 outlines of sermons of a very high grade of thinking, by men of acknowledged eminence in possessing the happy faculty of preaching interestingly to the young. It contains enough illustrations and anecdotes to stock for many years the average preacher of children's sermons.

Anecdotes Illustrative of Old Testament Texts

529 anecdotes and illustrations, fully indexed by subjects and texts. Dr. Guthrie says his hearers often remembered the illustrations in his sermons when they had forgotten the abstract truth.

Anecdotes Illustrative of New Testament Texts

614 anecdotes and illustrations, fully indexed by subject, and texts. Preachers will find this book a very godsend to their preparation for the pulpit, and full of windows to let in the light.

Expository Sermons and Outlines on Old Testament

These sermons by distinguished preachers embrace a great variety of subjects from the Old Testament, are rich in application, and will be an education and inspiration to many.

Pulpit Prayers by Eminent Preachers

These prayers are fresh and strong; the ordinary ruts of conventional forms are left and fresh thoughts of living hearts are uttered. The excitement of devotional thought and sympathy must be great in the offering of such prayers, especially when, as here, spiritual intensity and devoutness are as marked as freshness and strength.

Platform and Pulpit Aids

Consisting of striking speeches and addresses on Home and Foreign Missions, the Bible, Sunday-school, Temperance, and kindred subjects, with illustrative anecdotes. Just the book an over-worked pastor who has many speeches to make, with little time for study, will appreciate.

TWO PLANS OF PAYMENT

We will forward at once the whole set of 8 volumes, securely packed, and guarantee safe delivery on receipt of $6, you paying express or freight charges on, send $1.00, and promise, in your letter to pay $1.00 a month for 6 months, making $7.00 as complete payment, and we will forward at once the whole set of 8 volumes, securely packed, and guarantee safe delivery, you paying express or freight charges.

Customers living a long distance from us may send, if they choose, 70 cents additional, and we will prepay express or mail charges and guarantee delivery. As to our responsibility, we refer to this paper or to any Commercial Agency. Established 1866.

S. S. SCRANTON COMPANY, 118 Trumbull Street, Hartford, Conn.

GOSPEL ADVOCATE

Volume LVIII. No. 13.

NASHVILLE, TENN., MARCH 30, 1916.

$1.50 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

CONTENTS.

"EDIFYING AS THE NEED MAY BE".....	305
A Mission Meeting in Washington City.....	306
Alumni Day at the Nashville Bible School.....	306
OUR CONTRIBUTORS.....	306
Reply to Brother E. A. Elm:—What or Who Is It That Sins?—Itinerary
Notes—Don't Get Discouraged—A Few Reflections on a Current Topic.....	310
SPIRIT OF THE PRESS.....	311
QUERY DEPARTMENT.....	312
EDITORIAL.....	312
Some Observations—Harmonizing Differences—"Preach the Word"
Should One Church Indorse What is Wrong in Another Church?—Galloway Memorial Hospital.....	316
AT HOME AND ABROAD.....	317
GEORGIA AND THE FAR SOUTHERN FIELD.....	318
From the Field.....	321
Appreciates the Tennessee Orphans' Home.....	321
Christian Education.....	322
Macedonian Calls.....	323
Notes from West Tennessee.....	323
Response to Information Wanted.....	324
Some Healthy Colorado Persecution.....	324
The Potter Orphan Home.....	325
Another Appreciation of Booker T. Washington.....	326
Another Letter from Brother Yohannan.....	327
An Evangelist Wanted for Miami, Fla.....	327
Childbearing.....	327

Entered at the post-office at Nashville, Tenn., as second-class matter.
Published weekly at Nashville, Tenn.

BY A. B. LIPSCOMB

The Fire Sufferers.

Doubtless all of our readers have seen the press reports of the great conflagrations that swept the cities of Paris, Texas; Augusta, Ga.; and Nashville, Tenn., last week. The fire in Nashville on Wednesday, March 22, was the worst in the city's history. About six hundred homes in East Nashville were destroyed. In addition, the Warner School, the Woodland Street Presbyterian Church, the Woodland Street Christian Church, and the Little Sisters of the Poor lost their buildings. The property of the Russell Street Church was threatened, but escaped the ravages of the fire. Several of our members were rendered homeless. Brother Sewell's home caught fire three times, but was saved as if by miracle. His friends and neighbors rendered valuable assistance in extinguishing the flames. The Russell Street Church house was thrown open to the homeless on the afternoon of the fire and has been tendered for temporary use to the members of the burned-out churches. We are doing what we can to alleviate distress as we find opportunity.

Let Funds Go Forward to Paris, Texas.

The Christians in Nashville feel that they can take care of the situation without outside aid; but knowing ourselves what the loss is, we earnestly implore that all of our readers from one end of the country to the other hasten their contributions to the distressed saints at Paris, Texas, where there is the greatest suffering. A message from Brother Lee Garrett to Brother McQuiddy reads as follows:

Our city is to-day one great mass of ruins. Last night a fire swept over sixty per cent of it, completely destroying the business section, our church building, and rendering the majority of our members homeless. Words cannot express our distress. Fortunately our home did not burn and to-day is filled with refugees.

This message is all the information you need. Send the offering to Lee Garrett, 330 Clarksville Street, Paris, Texas. He is a good, trustworthy preacher, and will make due acknowledgment. "The King's business requireth haste."

If we receive a similar call from Augusta, Ga., we shall present it with the same urgency; but, so far as we can learn, our chief duty now is toward the brethren in Paris.

How It Impressed Us.

A thoughtful being could not view the awful scene in Nashville without being impressed with a sense of man's helpless condition in such a crisis and his dependence upon God in the hour of trial. It was when the fierce wind was blowing its devastating sparks in every direction and tongues of flame were leaping in unrestrained abandon from one roof to another and all of East Nashville seemed doomed to destruction that there came to the writer's mind the words of Simon Peter: "But the day of the Lord will come as a thief in the night: in the which the heavens shall pass away with a great noise, and the elements shall melt with fervent heat, the earth also and the works that are therein shall be burned up. Seeing then that all these things shall be dissolved, what manner of persons ought ye to be in all holy conversation and godliness?" With such a foretaste of that fervent heat blowing into their terror-stricken faces, men should be reminded of insuring against it by taking out a policy with High Heaven's Insurance Company. For surely in the great and terrible day of the Lord there will be no relief for those who must say: "O, if I only had!" The transcendent lesson of Nashville's great fire should not smolder in the ashes. It should awaken us to the need of preparation every day that remains.

"But the Wind Changed."

The devil gloats, but God heals. The psalmist said: "Weeping may endure for a night, but joy cometh in the morning." And this time it came before the dawn.

After a while the wind veered, the flames slackened, and presently the sun shone down upon a long strip of smoldering ruins as if the Fire Demon had passed that way with his reaper and then decided to rest a while. Then the cries of distress grew less, tears were wiped away from blackened faces, and people began to discover that, after all, it was not so bad as it might have been and that there was a great deal of work to do. Then there came to mind the words of Simon Peter again, "The Lord is not slack concerning his promises," and David's consolation became ours: "God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble;" "and none of them that trust in him shall be desolate."

Yes, Edwin Markham, you are right:

At the heart of the cyclone tearing the sky
And flinging the clouds and the towers by
Is a place of central calm;
So here in the roar of mortal things
I have a place where my spirit sings
In this hollow of God's palm.

A Mission Meeting in Washington City.

BY T. B. LARIMORE.

Brethren whom I know to be faithful and true, having secured the services of a singer and a preacher for a mission meeting in Washington City, are anxious to make such arrangements and preparations for the meeting as may make it a perfect and permanent success.

Conditions and circumstances are such that it is absolutely impossible for them to do this without help; hence, knowing me personally, knowing me to be their friend, and knowing I know the situation there, they have requested me to tell all who read this that a contribution, little or large, from any or all who wish them well will be greatly appreciated and properly applied. Duty demands that I do this, I think; but I fear the result may not be very satisfactory.

So many calls have come from the rich for help from the poor that many who would otherwise give much give nothing; but this is not a case of that kind. I know the brethren back of this call are self-denying, self-sacrificing brethren who would not ask for help if they believed it to be possible for them to do the work they long to do without it.

The contemplated meeting, or series of meetings, is to begin on May 7 and continue as long as it may seem reasonable for it to continue. Only one end of it is in sight. That's the beginning.

If you wish to help and encourage these worthy brethren—in other words, if you wish to preach the gospel, "the power of God unto salvation," in the capital of our country—send contributions, with words of encouragement, to John W. Gibson, 2500 Pennsylvania Avenue, S. E., Washington, D. C.

Alumni Day at the Nashville Bible School.

The attention of all of the ex-students, teachers, and friends of the Nashville Bible School is called to the exercises of the Alumni Day, May 17, opening at 10 A.M. Later the program of the exercises for the day will be published in the Gospel Advocate. There will be a literary program of merit and a business session. The association will include in its membership all ex-students and teachers dating back to the opening of the school in South Nashville under the first president, Brother James A. Harding. This announcement is a forerunner of the later and more complete announcement, in order that all may know in time to arrange to attend.

JOHN E. DUNN, Chairman Committee.
MISS MINNIE MCCANLESS, Secretary.

Send us your subscription for our new magazine, The Bible Study Helper. Sixty cents per year.

Reply to Brother E. A. Elam.

BY LEE JACKSON.

I have read and re-read the paragraph in my No. 4 article on "Commercializing the Gospel," the paragraph to which Brother Elam so caustically replies, and I fail to find anything in it which should have caused Brother Elam so much apparent irritation. Our Savior admonished his disciples: "In your patience possess ye your souls." If Brother Elam had patiently given himself sufficient time to properly consider the purport of the language used by me, I feel confident that his reply would have been more coherent, more reasonable, and in a different tone.

In the paragraph to which Brother Elam refers I use the following language with reference to what he himself has written concerning "Bible-made preachers:" "Does Brother Elam suppose that a truly Bible-made preacher would think of quitting the ministry of the gospel simply because he was forced to do manual labor as a means of support? Does he really believe that the preacher whose Bible education has fully imbued his soul with the spirit of the Christ could rest easily under the shade of his own vine, enjoying the good things of this life, and never feel impelled to go out into the waste places, suffering hardships and privations in his efforts to carry the gospel to the lost? Like Paul, such a preacher will say: 'Woe is unto me, if I preach not the gospel.' Such preachers as Brother Elam is now writing about do not need either his or my admonitions to induce them to endure hardships as good soldiers, making self-denying sacrifices in order that they may preach Christ to the lost." Most certainly I fail to see anything in this that any one can construe into a thrust at such preachers as T. B. Larimore, E. G. Sewell, John R. Williams, and many others whom I could name, and I see no reason why Brother Elam should go out of his way to take this to himself personally, construing it to mean that he himself is not measuring up to the standard of the Bible-made preacher. My language does not say this, and neither is it said by any one who has "written me in commendation of the lessons which I am trying to enforce, and requesting me to go straight to the mark." I understood that these good brethren wanted to commend my humble efforts at giving some much-needed admonitions, and desired that I fail not to declare the whole counsel of God on the obligation of brethren and congregations to do their full duty in supporting those who preach the gospel. Having referred to some things that Brother Elam has written in regard to the duty of preachers in the matter of "making tents" to support themselves, I rather expected Brother Elam to make a reply in defense of what he has written, or to make an effort to show that my claims are unscriptural, if it be true that they are unscriptural, but I did not anticipate "flushing" Brother Elam when I fired my little shot into the "other side of commercializing the gospel." If Brother Elam has "dug with the post-hole digger" to support himself while preaching in destitute fields, or if in any other manner he has "made tents" to support himself while preaching the gospel to poor people in neglected fields, as we infer that he has done and is doing, then nothing that I have written can be applied to him or to his personal course as a preacher of the gospel. For instance, in the article to which Brother Elam objects, I put the following in the form of a question: "Would it not be well for some of these leaders to keep quiet and let the admonitions to 'make tents' be given by the preachers who work at the business of making tents?" What is wrong about this suggestion? Are not those who have had experience in the tent-making business better qualified to tell us how to make a success of our preaching while making tents than are those who never make any tents? And yet, even this cannot apply to Brother Elam, if he has ever had, or is now having, any practical experience in "making tents." Let it here be distinctly understood, once for all, that no one has been combating Brother Elam personally, but combating the principle involved in some of Brother Elam's teaching, and the wrong influence which that teaching is likely to have upon those who need to feel the weight of their responsibility in the matter of supporting the gospel. After the appearance of my first article I received words of commendation and indorsement from such men as John E. Dunn, A. H. Smith, Brother Bell (Sedalia, Mo.), Brother Shepherd, and others whom I might name, and not one of these made any sort of allusion to Brother Elam as a man, or to his life work as a teacher and preacher. The urgency of their concern was in behalf of the scripture teaching in regard to the duty of congregations in supporting those who preach the gospel. Why, then, should our good Brother Elam lose his equilibrium and tell me that as an honorable man I ought to give him names? If I remember correctly (and I am satisfied that I do), Brother Elam's name was not mentioned in any letter that I received.

So far as the "vine and the fig tree" is concerned, I find no fault with the preacher who takes an occasional rest under his own vine. I feel like I would enjoy something of that sort myself, if I was fortunate enough to own a vine that I could rest under. But I do not fancy the idea of having a good preacher staying all of the time in the shade of his own vine. As Brother Elam said to the class which he was lecturing, it is good for "the health, the mental, physical, and spiritual strength, dignity, and nobility" of the preacher who owns a vine to get out from under its shade occasionally, so that he may get the benefit of the health-inspiring glow of a "blazing sun." And, as Brother Elam suggests, it does not hurt such a preacher to occasionally "dig post holes," or to ride behind a mule team over rough roads in order to reach his wayside appointments.

I have not noticed all of the things said by Brother Elam which he should not have said. I have not time to do this now, and, besides, it would take more space than the merits of this phase of the issue demand. I regret very much that Brother Elam so greatly misapprehended the purport and design of my articles, and I also regret that he apparently made the appeal to the readers of the Gospel Advocate that he did when he suggested that some might think that some things I said referred to our aged and beloved Brother Lipscomb. Nothing was more distant from my mind, and, I repeat again, I regret that this sort of an appeal was made. If I write more on this subject, I will simply notice such points in Brother Elam's two articles as will bring out the teaching of the Scriptures and leave all personal allusions unnoticed, for I want to conclude this by assuring Brother Elam that he has very widely missed the mark in his apprehension of the design of what he has quoted from my last article. And I feel satisfied that since Brother Elam has had time to re-read and to think over what he quoted he realizes that there was no necessity for his misapplying it as he has done. In a scriptural manner I expect to repeat some of the same things when I write again.

A skein of silk may look hopelessly tangled when it comes to our hand; but if we take the one loose end, we can follow it in and out until all is straightened. So it is with most of the complications and difficult duties that come to us. Once bravely undertake them, and the way begins to grow clear. It is only while we stand off in discouragement that they look hopeless.—Selected.

What or Who Is It That Sins?

BY F. W. SMITH.

The writer will try to kill two birds with one stone in this article. A brother from Kentucky sends a request to harmonize two passages of scripture which will be involved in the comments of the following excerpt from the Baptist Flag of February 24:

Ezekiel says: "The soul that sinneth, it shall die." If it sins after regeneration, then apostasy is the truth. But the soul does not sin after regeneration. It is a child of God and one of the Lord's sheep, and will not follow a stranger, for it does not know his voice. If it is born of God, it cannot sin; so said 1 John 3: 9. And it is the part of man that is born of God, for that which is born of the Spirit is spirit.

Our Baptist friends have a hard time with their doctrine, "Once in grace, always in grace." The latest effort in wrestling with that most difficult problem is to assume that a "regenerate" soul cannot sin, and to use such passages as 1 John 3: 9 to support their assertion. It will be observed that the author makes the "soul" and "spirit" synonymous in his argument, to which we have no objection. What may be affirmed of the soul regarding sin may also be affirmed of the spirit. Now, inasmuch as man is composed of body, soul, and spirit (1 Thess. 5: 23), when you take away soul and spirit, you have nothing but a body left. We ask, therefore, can a body, independent of the soul and spirit, sin? If so, why cannot a dead body sin as well as one that is alive? My friend admits that a soul can sin, by quoting from Ezek. 18: 20: "The soul that sinneth, it shall die." He tries to evade the force of this by claiming that only unregenerate souls sin. Well, if sin emanates from the soul in an unregenerate person, from what or whom does sin emanate in a regenerate person? It will not do to say that "regenerate" persons never sin, for we are told: "If we say that we have no sin, we deceive ourselves, and the truth is not in us." (1 John 1: 8.) Again: "If we confess our sins, he is faithful and righteous to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness." (Verse 9.) Now both of these passages are applied to the children of God, and show conclusively that God's children sin. But what is it about the children of God that sins? The Master said: "For out of the heart come forth evil thoughts, murders, adulteries, fornications, thefts, false witness, railings." (Matt. 15: 18.) Now does "regeneration" change the seat or source of thought and action? If not, does not the sin committed by regenerated people spring from the heart? Do regenerate people have emotions and desires of the soul or spirit that differ from those of the heart? It must be, if the "regenerate soul cannot sin;" and yet if the regenerate soul cannot sin, it is incapable of thinking, feeling, or willing, for all these are affirmed of the heart. "For as he thinketh within himself, so is he." (Prov. 23: 7.) This shows that a man's character is as he thinks. Does the soul of the regenerate cease to think, or does it always think pure thoughts? Again, when John says "we" and "our," to what does he refer? Mark you, it is the "we" and "our" of the Christian that sins, and we would like to know what is meant by the use of these pronouns? Do they refer to the body of flesh, or to the soul or inner man? Let us see. "For we know that if the earthly house of our tabernacle be dissolved, we have a building from God, a house not made with hands, eternal, in the heavens." (2 Cor. 5: 1.) Here is the "we," and it is not the body of flesh, but the soul or spirit. The doctrine of "once in grace, always in grace," is placed by its advocates in the ridiculous attitude of having a changed heart sinning, but a regenerate soul that cannot sin. The heart is said to desire, and the soul is said to do the same. Therefore whatever the heart does, the soul does. (See Prov. 21: 10; Rom. 10: 1.) Jesus says out of the heart proceed evil thoughts or desires; and since regenerate persons sin, the sin must proceed from the soul. Our friend says: "If it sins after regeneration, then apostasy is the truth." Of course it is the truth, and the doctrine that a "regenerate soul cannot sin" is a dangerous doctrine in the extreme.

But what about 1 John 3: 9? Whatever it may mean, there is one thing certain—viz., it does not mean that a regenerate soul cannot commit any kind of a sin. We are plainly told that "there is no man that sinneth not." (2 Chron. 6: 36.) This is a general statement, including both regenerate and unregenerate individuals. Hence, whatever interpretation may be placed upon 1 John 3: 9, it must not conflict with and contradict the general teachings of the Scriptures on the subject of sin. When John plainly says of regenerate souls, "If we say that we have no sin, we deceive ourselves, and the truth is not in us" (1 John 1: 8), we must not make him contradict himself before he finishes his letter by placing a construction on another statement (1 John 3: 9) that differs from this. We have seen a number of interpretations of 1 John 3: 9, none of which seem to give general satisfaction, and for that reason we hesitate to offer any of the old ones or to attempt a new one. James Macknight comments on the passage thus: "Whosoever hath been begotten of God, being renewed in his nature, doth not commit sin habitually, because God's seed of the word abideth in him; and he cannot sin habitually, because he hath been begotten of God, and possesseth the moral qualities of his Father." The statement of David in Ps. 119: 11, "Thy word have I laid up in my heart, that I might not sin against thee, indicates that as long as God's word abides in the heart, controlling the thoughts and feelings, man cannot live in the practice of sin. But where is the man or woman whose heart every moment of life is under the control of God's word? Until such a being is found, let no one attribute to 1 John 3: 9 the doctrine of sinless perfection. If Macknight is not right in his exegesis of the passage, let some one give a better. In this way 1 John 1: 8, 9 and 1 John 3: 9 can be harmonized; otherwise they cannot, and John is made to contradict himself.

Itinerary Notes.

BY F. B. SRYGLEY.

I spent Sunday, March 13, in Chattanooga, Tenn., and preached three times. At 11 A.M. I preached at Ridgedale, where they had but recently begun to meet. They have a nice little congregation of thirty or forty members, with several children in their Sunday-morning Bible class. Brother Moody preaches for them once each month, and they were getting ready for their first protracted meeting, which is to be held by Brother Gunn, and is to begin, I believe, on the second Sunday in April. I expect them to have a fine meeting and to succeed in building up a good, strong congregation at Ridgedale. I spoke in the afternoon at a mission point in East Chattanooga and at night at Cowart Street. The cause has grown wonderfully in Chattanooga since I was last there. Instead of the one congregation at Cowart Street, they now have five, with one mission, and there is a good congregation at Rossville, Ga. Ten years ago they had, perhaps, one hundred members; now they have between five and six hundred. Brother R. N. Moody now lives in East Lake and gives most of his time to Chattanooga. He is busy all the time, preaching on Sundays and teaching Bible classes through the week. Brother Aruna Clark gives most of his time to Cowart Street, and he gets around at everything in a hurry. If anything goes before Brother Clark, it has to move fast. Brother E. H. Hoover gives his time to the Central congregation, and was just beginning a protracted meeting when I got there. I did not get to visit the Central Church or the one in St. Elmo, but from all accounts they are both doing well. The truth is in good hands in Chattanooga, and I confidently expect to hear of even greater things being done there in the near future.

I spent Tuesday night, March 14, in Bridgeport, Ala. They have a good congregation there with a good house, and two good preachers making their home in the town—Brethren Jernigan and Holder. They were both at home while I was there, and it was a pleasure and inspiration to me to be with them. They are both doing a fine work in and around Bridgeport. The cause of truth has grown much in that section since my last visit there.

On leaving Bridgeport my next stop was at Tracy City, on the mountain. I went up the mountain in a blizzard, and it was cold all the time I was there; but we had two good meetings, notwithstanding the cold and the snow. The church at Tracy City is doing well under the leadership of elders, with Brother Northcut to preach the word. J. D. Northcut is a fine mountain preacher; in fact, he can preach well in the valley. He preaches the gospel which is the power of God unto salvation either on the mountain or in the valley. He was making preparations to go to Nashville to begin a protracted meeting at South College Street. I shall expect to hear of a fine meeting there. The brethren at Tracy City are doing very well. May they continue to grow.

I stopped a few hours at Sewanee as I came off the mountain. They have built them a nice house there; and while they have only a few members at Sewanee, they are faithful, and I feel sure they will succeed.

I spent Friday night, March 17, at Decherd, and preached for them. This was my first visit here since their old house was blown down. They have a new house and a much better house than they had before. Brother R. E. L. Taylor lives here, and he is doing a fine work for the Master in the country around.

I am glad to report a general improvement at all the places visited.

Don't Get Discouraged.

BY JOHN T. POE.

Small congregations sometimes allow themselves to become discouraged. They take note of the success and growth of the sects, and say: "We are doing nothing, while others around us are growing all the time. Why is it we don't grow?" Do you really want to grow? It is the easiest thing in the world to do. Just go to work and keep at it. Show me a church where all the members are at work, and I will show you a church that is growing. The sects work for their members, but they work in a way they think is right, and not as Jesus directs. If they did, they would all be united. There would be but one church in the world, if all were willing to follow Jesus and to let him, as head of the church, direct all their religious work. But they are like Paul said of his Jewish brethren: "They have a zeal of God, but not according to knowledge. For they being ignorant of God's righteousness [neglecting God's right way of doing], and going about to establish their own righteousness [their own right way of doing], have not submitted themselves unto the righteousness of God [God's right way of doing]." That is the way they all do. If they followed God's right way of doing, there would be no Methodist Christians, no Baptist Christians, no Disciple Christians, nor Presbyterian Christians. They would simply be Christians, and members of the church or body of Christ. These succeed, but work after their own plans; just as the different lodges succeed, and in the same way. Each works for members to his own peculiar organization. But God's people have a divine leader. "Follow me," said Jesus. Now whether his followers be many or few does not alter the fact that Jesus must lead. He says: "In vain do they worship me, teaching for doctrine the commandments [traditions] of men." If Jesus does not lead in all religious work; if it is a matter done that Jesus says nothing about, it is vain and according to the traditions of men, and God will not accept it in the end; for he says that every tree he has not planted shall be rooted up, and that has reference to the very thing I am writing about. Every "church" God has not planted shall be destroyed. I say these things to warn the weak and to show the absolute necessity of being in the true church, the divine church, which is governed and led by the New Testament, which alone gives us the instruction Jesus would have us follow. In the Jewish dispensation God had but one church, but one law, for all his people. They sometimes grew tired of God's ways and became discouraged. They hewed themselves cisterns that would hold no water. They coveted to be like others—to worship with the big crowds and to be popular in the community in which they lived. They wanted to be like others around them, and in so doing they became idolaters, and God ceased to bless them and sent them into captivity to serve as slaves until they should repent of their folly and turn again to him. Almost the whole of Israel turned away from God in the days of Ahab, and God's judgments overtook them and they were severely punished. There is but one infallibly safe way—that is, to follow the Bible, even if we have to walk alone. And let me assure you that one man, one woman, with God as his or her friend, is a majority against all others.

A Few Reflections on a Current Topic.

BY J. D. FLOYD.

I may be mistaken, but, as I understand it, certain ones are looking for Jesus to come in the flesh and take his seat on David's throne in Jerusalem and reign over the Jews—in their fleshly state—for a thousand years; that then, and not until then, will the promise of a coming kingdom be fulfilled. The theory is that the church and kingdom are distinct: the church was established on Pentecost, but the kingdom will not be established until Christ comes.

The church, as we understand it, is a spiritual institution, with its law of induction into it and condition of citizenship. The law of induction is that one shall believe in Christ, repent of his sins, and be baptized; the condition of continued citizenship is that one shall keep the ordinances and live an orderly and consecrated life. The invitation to become members is to every accountable man and women, regardless of race or nationality. The African living in the jungles, the cultured American, the king on his throne, and the beggar on the highway must comply with the same conditions in order to become citizens. This all pertains to the church. But what about the coming kingdom?

A kingdom must have a boundary, a king, and subjects. What will be the boundary of the kingdom Jesus will reign over when he sits on David's throne in Jerusalem? Will the line of ancient Palestine be the boundary, or will it include the whole earth? If Palestine, then will any living in that territory be citizens except Jews? Will all Jews, regardless of their moral condition, be citizens? If the boundary is coextensive with the world, can any one but Jews become subjects, and, if so, how? I have believed on Christ, repented of my sins, and been baptized, and thus became a member of the church, and verily believe I have been for nearly fifty years. Now, if Jesus comes and establishes his kingdom at Jerusalem while I am still in the flesh, I feel sure I would want to be a subject of that kingdom. Now, would the fact of my fifty years' membership in the church entitle me to citizenship in the kingdom, or would I have to comply with some other law of naturalization?

Some other questions, perhaps more curious than wise, come up. If Christ's reign is measured by years, then these years must be measured by the rotations of the earth. If so, we will have the same physical conditions during that time that we have now. There will be day and night, winter and summer, rain and sunshine, and a time for plants to grow. Now the question is, inasmuch as the same physical conditions will exist then as now and Jesus will sit on the literal throne of David and rule over literal Israel, in the bounds of that kingdom, will people have to eat and breathe and sleep as they do now? Will infants be born into the world by the same means they are now, grow to manhood or womanhood, decay and die, or will births cease and the life of the living extend through the thousand years? When Jesus was here, he ate, drank, and slept as other men. Now, while reigning as a literal king on David's literal throne over literal Israel, will he be subject to the same conditions, and, therefore, need food, air, and water? And how about the subjects? Will they have to labor, sow and reap, sleep and eat, as literal men and women do now?

Those good brethren who teach that the church and kingdom are not identical teach that the church was established, but the coming of the kingdom is still future. The church is made up of "the saved, Christians," "children of God;" laws for its government are in the New Testament; and Jesus, who is "now Lord and Christ," is the head, the ruler. I suppose all will admit that the church exists today and is the divinely appointed institution for the salvation of the world. Now the question with me is: When the kingdom is established and Jesus as king sits on the literal throne of David in Jerusalem, will the church still exist, having the same laws and the same head? If it continues and Jesus continues as head, will he as head remain in heaven, or will he be in Jerusalem, both as king over literal Israel and head of his body, the church?

All spiritual blessings are to be enjoyed "in Christ" today. To be "in Christ" is to be in his church. Therefore all spiritual blessings are in the church. If the church and kingdom are coexistent and all spiritual blessings are in the church, what blessings will persons get in the kingdom? Again, if it looks like an anachronism for Jesus to be on David's throne in Jerusalem and at the right hand of the Father as head of the church, and he vacates as head of the church, he will leave the church a headless institution. On the other hand, if the church ceases to exist, then will Jesus have any blessings for any if not subjects of his kingdom? If he sits as a literal king on David's literal throne in literal Jerusalem and reigns over literal Israel, can any but children of Abraham be subjects? If so, how? All who to-day are subjects of Christ as head of the church became so by complying with the law of induction—faith, repentance, and baptism. Will that be the law of induction into the kingdom, or will there be a different way of getting in? If different, then the commission will become a dead letter and new revelations will be necessary, and, therefore, the apostles must abdicate and new inspired men take their places.

Laying aside these questions, to me the truth that seems to lie on the surface is that the prophecies of a kingdom to be set up by the God of heaven in Daniel, a kingdom near at hand in Matthew and Mark, and a kingdom drawing nigh in Luke were fulfilled on the day of Pentecost, when the church, the body of Christ, of which he is the head, stood forth in all its beauty and grandeur.

Open your hearts to his Spirit, and he will reveal himself with power and great joy within you. . . . Keep the mind open to the ever-teaching Spirit of God. There is always more to learn. We are as yet only in the alphabet of truth. There are withheld revelations that wait for the unfolding of capacity in man to receive God's disclosure.

SPIRIT OF THE PRESS

BY J. C. McQUIDDY.

Does Christ Abide With You?

Christ was fond of dwelling in the home of Lazarus, Mary, and Martha, at Bethany. He invited himself to the home of Zaccheus. He says to us: "Behold, I stand at the door and knock: if any man hear my voice and open the door, I will come into him, and will sup with him, and he with me." (Rev. 3: 20.) We must open the door to him. He will not break in as a robber or thief. Martin Luther used to say: "When one comes and knocks at the door of my heart and asks, 'Who lives here?' I reply: 'Martin Luther used to, but he has moved out and Jesus Christ now lives here.'" Before Christ can dwell in our hearts, selfishness must move out. When such is the case, the following is applicable to us: "Unto you is born . . . a Savior."

A Fixed Purpose.

Daniel had an aim and purpose in living. He was not carried away by every wind of doctrine. He stood by it until he attained the highest success. When young Benjamin Disraeli was asked what he intended to become, he promptly and quickly replied: "Prime minister of England." His prospects did not look bright, and no one would have selected him to reach such a goal. To the surprise of the world, he did reach it. With a firm and true purpose, many another man has climbed upward in spite of all obstacles. Ida Q. Moulton, in Record of Christian Work, relates the following:

J. F. Cowan tells of a traveler going through the mountains, who was told that, at a certain point in his travels, the trail would cease and he must look for marks that had been made to guide travelers, and follow these. One day, suddenly, as warned, the trail ended. At first he stopped, bewildered, but, looking ahead, saw on the face of a cliff, in deep red color, a hand with finger pointing forward. Before he had left this guidepost behind, another rock with red lettering came into view, and so on to the end of his journey.

"The pathway of human progress through the history of mankind," says Mr. Cowan, "is blazed with the red guideposts of sacrifice." And if we have not this sacrificial blood in our veins, the call to "go upgrade" will fall upon deaf ears.

Doing Our Best.

Paul with singleness of purpose kept reaching forward to something better than he had known. He says: "Not that I have already obtained, or am already made perfect: but I press on, if so be that I may lay hold on that for which also I was laid hold on by Christ Jesus. Brethren, I count not myself yet to have laid hold: but one thing I do, forgetting the things which are behind, and stretching forward to the things which are before, I press on toward the goal unto the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus. Let us therefore, as many as are perfect, be thus minded: and if in anything ye are otherwise minded, this also shall God reveal unto you: only, whereunto we have attained, by that same rule let us walk." (Phil. 3: 12-16.) Our purpose should be to be better men than we were last year. We should not be satisfied with accomplishing the same this year that we did last year. G. Campbell Morgan tells of receiving an almost unintelligible scrawl, in the shape of a letter, from his little four-year-old son. "But," said Mr. Morgan, "that letter in my sight was perfect, because the boy had done the best he could. Months later other letters followed, with marks of improvement, but each perfect because the boy was doing the best he could each time." Our ideals should be more perfect as the years come and go. If our standards are not better this year than they were last year, we should be dissatisfied with our progress. Behind us must lie obstacles overcome, for these are never-failing signs of upgrade work.

Keep Your Vows.

Our vows should be of the right kind and made to the Lord. Ida Q. Moulton, in Record of Christian Work, says:

"Duty," says one, "is the cement which binds the whole moral edifice together, without which . . . all the fabric of existence crumbles away from under us, leaving us at last sitting in the midst of a ruin, astonished at our desolation." One splendid thing about a pledge is that it never leaves us in doubt with regard to our duty. A pledge is a duty settled. And

"Keeping thy vows at any cost,
Is duty doing without loss."

As Sir Isaac Newton, when he was studying the composition of light, formed the resolution never to do anything or indulge in any habit, however innocent in itself, that would tend to impair the clearest sight of the eye—thus have vows, covenants, pledges, purposes, goals, and resolutions been at the root of the world's advancement in every department. And so, likewise, in our religious life, not to be wedded to an invincible purpose, with a solemn, forceful "I will," is to lead a will-o'-the-wisp Christian life, out of which comes more harm than good.

A pledge is but a statement of purpose. David said: "From the end of the earth will I cry unto thee. . . . I will abide in thy tabernacle. . . . I will trust in the covert of thy wings. . . . So will I sing praise unto thy name." "I will cry," "I will abide," "I will trust," "I will sing." Such was the purpose of David's life; such were the harp strings upon which he played his life songs. Had he had no purpose in life, or had he thrown away his harp because of a broken string, would we to-day be drawing help and inspiration from the "songs of David?"

What This Generation Needs.

This generation needs to hear again and again that it is only the men of strong convictions, who really believe something, who accomplish something in this world. A soldier is of little worth who does not believe with all his heart in the justice of the cause for which he fights. A Christian is about as much use as a jellyfish in his church unless he believes his creed with all his heart.—Western Recorder.

Yes, every Christian believes with all his heart that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of the living God. This truth was acknowledged for the first time on the banks of the Jordan: "This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased." It was also confessed by Peter in this brief, but important, statement: "Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God." The same truth was proclaimed on the mount of transfiguration, with the addition, "Hear ye him." John tells us why he wrote the Gospel: "Many other signs therefore did Jesus in the presence of the disciples, which are not written in this book: but these are written, that ye may believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God; and that believing ye may have life in his name." (John 20: 30, 31.) Again, the Holy Spirit instructs us: "Because if thou shalt confess with thy mouth Jesus as Lord, and shalt believe in thy heart that God raised him from the dead, thou shalt be saved." (Rom. 10: 9.) This is the truth that men must believe to be saved. They must believe this with all the heart; and whenever they do, they will be quick to observe the commands of God. The faith in Christ that saves the soul is one that speaks out, comes out, and expresses itself in action. This is a truth that the whole world should learn.

QUERY DEPARTMENT

Brother Sewell: Please give me the method of counting the four hundred and thirty years intervening the promise of the gospel in Gen. 12: 3 and the law in Gal. 3, which goes back to the time when Abraham was seventy-five years of age.
 GEORGE H. McCAIN, M.D.

I do not know just what their method of counting time was at the period you speak of, but evidently a year of that period was about the same as the years of this age. Time was when months were counted differently from the present time so as to make about thirteen months in a year; but, so far as I know, a year then was about the same length that they are now. Our difficulty is in the fact that Paul does not tell us what particular event he counted from to get his four hundred and thirty years between that event and the giving of the law. But if you count from the going of Jacob into Egypt, you get four hundred and thirty years between that and the giving of the law of Moses, and that reconciles the apparent difficulty regarding the four hundred and thirty years.

Brother McQuiddy: Please explain the following: (1) Who were the spirits that Christ preached to in 1 Pet. 3: 18, 19? (2) What will become of the people who died between the resurrection of Christ and the day of Pentecost? Are they under the new law or the old?
 B. G. HOGAN.

(1) The probable meaning is that Christ went "in spirit" in the person of Noah and by him preached to those who were afterwards held in prison on account of their disobedience. This view is freer from objection than any other. (2) The obedient will be saved. They were under neither the law of Moses nor the law of Christ, but probably under the same law as was Noah and Abraham, which law demanded fidelity and obedience to God. "And for this cause he is the mediator of a new covenant, that a death having taken place for the redemption of the transgressions that were under the first covenant, they that have been called may receive the promise of the eternal inheritance." One thing is sure: God will take care of all the faithful who died in the interregnum between the death on the cross and the day of Pentecost.

Brother McQuiddy: In Rom. 6: 18, King James Version, Paul tells the Romans definitely at what time they were made free from sin. In the new translation the word "then" is omitted or left out. I think this rendering of the text very materially changes the teaching of Paul by leaving the time they were made free from sin altogether indefinite. Please state your views fully in regard to this matter.
 J. N. WATKINS.

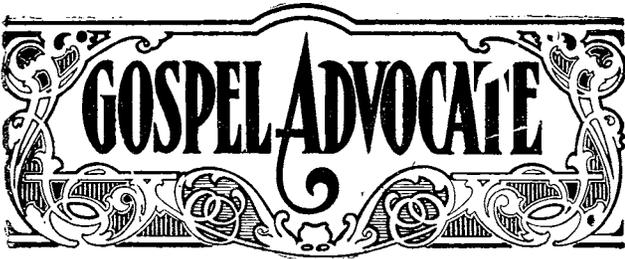

If our brother will read verses 17, 18 together, he will see that the meaning is not materially changed. These verses read: "But thanks be to God, that, whereas ye were servants of sin, ye became obedient from the heart to that form of teaching whereunto ye were delivered; and being made free from sin, ye became servants of righteousness." This shows that when they willingly obeyed the mold of doctrine into which they were cast at baptism they no longer remained the servants of sin, but became the servants of righteousness. To my mind, the Revised Version is equally as clear; for it not only shows when they were delivered from sin, but the act in which they became servants of righteousness. Macknight says: "The original word tupos, among other things, signifies a mold, into which metals are poured, to receive the form of the mold. The apostle represents the gospel doctrine as a mold, into which the Romans were put by their baptism, in order to their being fashioned anew. And he thanks God that from the heart—that is, most willingly and sincerely—they had yielded to the forming efficacy of that mold of doctrine; and were made new men, both in principle and practice." The Greek "tupos" is the word from which we have "type." In our typesetting machines the melted metal is poured into the molds, and from the molds come the finished type. But there is no finished type until the metal is delivered from the mold into which it was cast. So in baptism, which is a heart service, they became servants of righteousness.

Brother McQuiddy: (1) If a member of the church of Christ was a member of a secret organization, having joined same before obeying the gospel, but did not pay any dues or contribute in any way or form to its support, but was still in good standing, would he be committing a sin to continue to remain a member of said society? (2) If a member of the "one body" should marry one who was a sectarian, knowing it at the time, but hoping that by marrying the other would take upon himself or herself the name of Christ, would such a one be doing wrong in marrying such a person?
 C. B. V.

(1) The fact that he does not pay any dues or that the organization is secret or open does not have any bearing in this case. As to whether he will or will not remain a member of the organization depends very much on the kind of a Christian he proposes to make. If he proposes to do his best in the church, he will have neither time nor talent to devote to any human organization; but if he only intends to profess to be a Christian, not to make a consistent member, and to live a life of ease and pleasure and trust to church membership to save him, without a godly and holy life, he had as well remain a member of the organization and divide his time and means between it and the church as to pursue any other course of life that will not develop the Christian character. The one aim of the Christian should be to so live as to develop his Christian character. The more attention a Christian gives to human organizations, the less respect do his neighbors have for his Christianity. A noted preacher lived and died in Nashville. He was buried with Masonic honors. A gentleman clearly intimated that his respect for that preacher was lowered by his joining a human society while claiming to be a teacher and leader in a divine one. Many who do not belong to any human society may show a lack of fidelity to God in other ways that are as displeasing as this. Christians should give the world a good example. Let us try to lift up and save rather than destroy. But Christians should do all that they do in the name of Christ and as members of his body, not as members of other bodies. Christians enjoy blessings through Christ in the church and not in other bodies. (2) Parents, preachers, and elders should teach the young and the old what is right in choosing companions. When they have faithfully done this, they have done all they can do. There is no specific command of God forbidding marriage to an unbeliever, save to widows, and there is a command to the believer to live with the unbeliever when married with the hope that a godly life will win the unbeliever to Christ. I have married a number of Christians to unbelievers. I do not think I sinned. No explicit law is given in these matters, and, with the general principles laid down, each is left to act in each case as his judgment approves.

EDITORS.
D. Lipscomb, E. G. Sewell, E. A. Elam,
M. C. Kurfrees, T. B. Larimore.
MANAGING EDITORS.
J. C. McQuiddy, A. B. Lipscomb.

SPECIAL DIRECTIONS.

Subscriptions are $1.50 a year, in advance, including postage to any part of the United States. To Canada and foreign countries, $2 a year, in advance.

The Date on the Yellow Label on your paper serves you as a receipt, and indicates the time to which your subscription is paid. When you renew, if the date is not changed within three weeks thereafter, please call our attention to it.

Discontinuances. No paper will be continued over twelve months after the subscription has expired. This will give all ample time to renew.

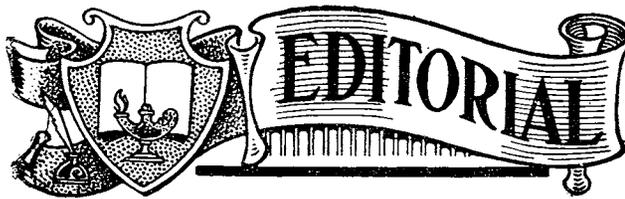

Payment for the Advocate, when sent by mail, should be made by post-office money order, express money order, registered letter, New York exchange, or postal note. Neither currency nor coin should be sent in a letter, unless registered; and when so sent, it is at the risk of the sender. Have your remittances made payable to the Gospel Advocate, and never to any member of the company.

Do Not Write Business on the same sheet as matter intended for publication.

Change of Address will be cheerfully made at the request of any subscriber giving post office, county, and State from which the change is to be made, and post office, county and State to which the paper should go after the change.

Renewals. In renewing, give the name just as it appears on the yellow label, unless it be incorrect, in which case please call our attention to it; and always give the name of the post office to which your paper is sent, as this is the guide by which we are enabled to find your name on our list.

Do Not Send Matter intended for the Advocate to the editors personally. This may occasion delay. Address the Gospel Advocate Publishing Company, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

Some Observations.

BY E. A. E.

Continuing from last week, further attention is called to the question, "How shall we know the word which Jehovah has not spoken?" and to this: "But the prophet that shall speak a word presumptuously in my name, which I have not spoken, or shall speak in the name of other gods, that same prophet shall die. . . . If the thing follow not, nor come to pass, that is the thing which Jehovah hath not spoken." (Deut. 18: 20-22.)

The prediction of one Charles Russell that the second coming of Christ would take place in 1914 did not come to pass. Therefore, God has not spoken through him; he is a false prophet. Now that no one is inspired, none can foretell anything which God has not already revealed.

It is a most fearful thing to speak that which God has not commanded—that is, to add to or to take from the word of God or to undertake to unfold that which he has not unfolded. The punishment, too, is most fearful. Then all teachers, preachers, and people should be most studious to learn just that which Jehovah has spoken—"only this and nothing more." Just outside of this presumption begins, and the punishment follows.

Would God so fearfully condemn men for speaking that which he has not spoken, and not make all his commandments plain? Certain it is, God has not spoken that which he has not revealed. All that is "profitable for teaching [that which should be taught], for reproof, for correction, for instruction in righteousness; that the man of God may be complete, furnished completely unto every good work," has been given by inspiration in the Scriptures—in the will of God. (2 Tim. 3: 16, 17.)

Has Jehovah spoken all that which a few are now writing and preaching about the millennium—"pre" or "post?" Is all this so plain that "wayfaring men, ye fools, shall not err therein?" The way of holiness is so plain. (Isa. 35: 8.) Rather, is it not absolute foolishness to turn away from the plain teaching of God and confuse people over that which no one claims is a command of God or essential to salvation? It is worse than foolishness; it is sin and eternal destruction. To admit that any teaching is not essential to the remission of sins, to the Christian life, and to eternal salvation, is to admit that it is foolish and sinful to trouble and divide churches over it.

I asked a thoughtful, intelligent Christian woman recently if she is a "premillennialist" or a "postmillennialist." Should not any one with sense enough to be responsible to God know this! How can any one become a Christian and be saved without knowing this! Yet she said she did not know. I answered: "Of course you do not know, since there are no such expressions in the Bible."

Whatever is in the Bible can be taught in the language of the Bible. "The pattern of sound words," "calling Bible things by Bible names," "speaking where the Bible speaks and being silent where it is silent," is as applicable to these expressions as to any other. If these ideas are in the Bible, let God express them in his own language. Read just what he says and leave it at that. Sectarians of every age have confused and divided the people by their attempts to express God's thoughts in their own language. Divisions and sects are bound to exist so long as men fail to use "sound speech," or to call "Bible things by Bible names," or to accept the teaching of the Bible in Bible language. When, for example, we speak of the Holy Spirit in the language of the Bible, we express God's thoughts in regard to the Spirit; but when we undertake to express God's thoughts in our language, we err greatly. There are no such expressions in the Bible as "direct operation of the Holy Spirit," "abstract operation of the Holy Spirit," and "immediate operation of the Holy Spirit." Just so with Christ's coming, his body in heaven, his reign, the fulfillment of prophecy—"pre" or "post," past or future, etc. When we have expressed in Bible language that which God teaches on these subjects, we have done all he requires of us, all we can do, and all he has done. With this all should be satisfied. More or less than this comes from the evil one.

Let me ask with all seriousness, is the language of the Bible to be regarded now as it has ever been regarded by all godly men who have always endeavored to maintain the peace and unity of the church? Regarding Bible language is one of the fundamental principles of unity and peace. Without doing this all cannot "speak the same thing," "be perfected together in the same mind and in the same judgment," be of "one accord," and have "the same love." Without regarding this there can be no unity and peace, and strife, divisions, and sects are inevitable.

There are thousands of men and women who are hungering after the bread of life—the pure and simple gospel of salvation—and are thirsting after the water of life, who need the everyday blessings in all the everyday relationships and duties of life here and salvation hereafter of Christianity; and it is a pity and shame and sin to fill their hearts with that which no one claims is essential to the pardon of sins, the Christian life, or salvation in heaven.

Wise and good men, able and godly men, may be mistaken and may not know all the truth; but it is not possible for Campbell, Milligan, Grubbs, McGarvey, Fanning, Lipscomb, E. G. Sewell, Jesse Sewell, J. D. Floyd, J. M. Kidwill, and others and still others of deep piety and great knowledge of the Bible to have failed to learn, at least, some of these things now being taught about Jesus' not being yet on David's throne, about Christ's kingdom not yet being set up, about Christ's body of flesh and bones glorified now in heaven, about his going to reign yet on earth in such a body, about his going to do this before or after "the millennium," etc. Does it seem a little absurd for a few comparatively young men to lay claims to ability to see further into unfulfilled prophecy, the second coming of Christ, his kingdom now and in the future, than all these men put together? ❀

With all that is preached about the Bible, taught about the Bible, and learned about the Bible, there is in many places, at least, less knowledge of the teaching of the Bible and less respect and reverence for the word of God than there was thirty or forty years ago. There could not be so much contention, strife, and division spread generally over the country, if churches knew the teaching of the Bible and trembled at the word of God—that is, with all godly fear respected what he says. All this unholy strife, bitter contention, and division contrary to the teaching of Christ are sure signs of disrespect for and disobedience to, if not downright rebellion against, the word of God. "For this we say unto you by the word of the Lord" declares Paul concerning the resurrection. With him, God's word settles every question. Many articles in many papers contain not a line of scripture. To simply state conclusions, to write pretty stories about the teaching of the Scriptures and Bible facts may be a fad, or something worse; but it is not a good sign. ❀

It may be that a man "preaches the truth as he sees it;" but he may not see the truth. Paul persecuted the church "as he saw it." Another "feels" that he ought to do a thing or that he is right; but the word of God is the standard. "There is a way that seemeth right unto a man; but the end thereof are the ways of death." "As he sees it," "he feels that he is right," may cover a multitude of errors. To obey God is to walk with God, to love God is to do his commandments, to abide in Christ is to "bear much fruit" and to keep his word; but what is it "to live in touch with God?" Why use expressions not found in the Bible? One can have no sort of connection with God outside of his word and submission to his will.

Harmonizing Differences.

Brethren Elam and Jackson are conducting a discussion in the Gospel Advocate concerning useful employment, "commercializing the gospel," etc. Many useful suggestions have been made and much good should result from their investigation, provided the discussion does not degenerate into personalities.

Brother Jackson's article in our issue of November 4 made the impression on me and others that he thought that Brother Elam preached one way and practiced another. There were several things in the article calculated to make such an impression. While there was no direct statement to that effect, yet he said "some men," "some of our leaders," etc., "are avaricious and close-fisted," "live in luxury and ease," and advise "less fortunate ones" to make sacrifices, etc. I regret very much that anything of that kind was published. It is better to leave out such insinuations from all investigations. I have known Brother Elam for years, and do not believe that this is true of him, and I am sure that Brother Jackson has no such conception of him. Intimations should not be noticed.

In writing this, I am not passing on the merits of the discussion between these brethren, but simply do so for the sake of truth and justice. I feel sure that Brother Jackson will be glad to refrain from any further intimations that can possibly be construed as in any way reflecting upon Brother Elam and other tried and true men.

Brother Elam agrees with me in saying that the Gospel Advocate will cheerfully encourage the discussion of the scriptures involved on any question, but cannot consent to personalities being brought into the investigation.

I am glad to see that Brother Jackson avows in his article this week that he in no way meant to reflect upon the integrity of Brother Elam, and that he says that he will leave out all personalities in the future.

J. C. McQUIDDY.

I heartily agree with Brother McQuiddy in what he has said in the foregoing statement.

Insinuations, innuendoes, and personalities are not arguments and do harm. It grieves me that Brother Jackson has indulged in such. The first I passed unnoticed, and regret that I gave any attention to the last.

Very much of the contention and strife among the churches is caused by preachers.

I never accused Brother Jackson of making any thrusts at Brethren E. G. Sewell, T. B. Larimore, and others he mentions. He seems not to know what I have written.

I received a letter only a day or two ago from Brother J. E. Dunn commending most fully my articles.

I appreciate heartily any fair and just criticism on anything I write. If I have written anything unscriptural, I shall thank any man to point it out, and promise him that I will never write it again, but will accept the truth and do all in my power to promulgate it.

Let Brother Jackson, or any other critic, confine himself to what I have said, and be sure he knows what that is.

E. A. ELAM.

"Preach the Word."

BY E. G. S.

This is one of the most solemn charges in the New Testament. It was made by the apostle Paul to Timothy. He said: "I charge thee therefore, before God, and the Lord Jesus Christ, who shall judge the quick and the dead at his appearing and his kingdom; preach the word; be instant in season, out of season; reprove, rebuke, exhort with all long-suffering and doctrine. For the time will come when they will not endure sound doctrine; but after their own lusts shall they heap to themselves teachers, having itching ears; and they shall turn away their ears from the truth, and shall be turned unto fables." (2 Tim. 4: 1-4.)

Paul never uttered a more accurate and truthful prophecy than when he said the time would come when people would not endure sound doctrine; that they would have itching ears, and would turn away from the truth and be turned unto fables. Paul knew that the sound preaching of Timothy would not always prevent the church from falling away from the truth, but he evidently thought it would put the evil day off a little longer; and no doubt it did. It will not lead the church to-day to put away the opinions, the doctrines and commandments of men, to preach against them now; but it may put off the time of the calamity, of a complete falling away, and may be the means of saving a few souls from the utter ruin of such a fall. Some have doubtless gone so far from the plain and simple truth of God's word and so far from the Spirit of Christ that there is nothing left to base any hope upon that they will ever return to the plain and simple word as "it is written." But there doubtless are some that are strongly tempted to go away from the plain truth, that may yet see the error of such departures and continue in the old paths of truth. Hence we still think it proper to show the difference between truth and error. Paul was endowed with prophetic wisdom and knew that such things would occur; and knew how to give timely warning, and did it.

The word of God is always right; and if all men would accept the word of God and go by it, then all would be right and all would be in unity. But there is nothing but the word of God that can accomplish this great end. Man's wisdom will only make matters worse. For if all could be united upon the opinions of men, they would still be away from God and on the road to ruin. The only safety, therefore, is to leave off the doctrines and commandments of men in all matters of service to God and go by the word of God, and that only, in all matters pertaining to the gospel of Christ and the salvation of the soul. This is why the word of God is so strongly and so emphatically required. Nothing else can take its place. Hence the word must be preached, must be studied and practiced in all things pertaining to life and salvation, or all efforts regarding salvation will be a failure.

The Jewish people of the Old Testament were much of their time undergoing chastisement because they rejected the word of God and followed their own wisdom so much of their time. If they had followed the word of God all the time as he gave it, they would have been the happiest and best people in all the world. They sometimes did this, and were always prosperous and happy. The heaviest trouble was when they were undergoing chastisement for their sins. When they did obey the word of God, it elevated them, made them more intelligent, and made them in every way a more interesting people.

What a wonderful change would soon be made to-day in human society, if all who claim to preach the word would preach it just as it stands on record in the book of God! Let all, therefore, who claim to preach the word, preach it just as Peter, Paul, James, and John preached it when the Spirit of God was giving them utterance. Then all who embraced the preaching were just the same; not members of different churches—some Baptists, some Methodists, some Episcopalians, etc. They were all one till they began to go off into human opinions and began to build up parties upon human wisdom, human theories, and human standards, just as the religious world is doing to-day. This state of things would never have arisen if all had taught and practiced the plain word of the Lord. No wonder the Spirit of God should give such impressive lessons on preaching the word, the inspired word of God. For it is evident that there never can be union and harmony among those who claim to be the Lord's people while they are following human opinions instead of accepting and following just what the inspired word of God says. Words that only express opinions can never unite people to Christ, because human ideas and human wisdom have no such elevating power in them. The human mind can understand things of a divine nature when expressed in the word of God; but if things divine had never been expressed and revealed by the Holy Spirit, the mind of man could never have understood them. What a wonderful blessing it is, therefore, that we have the word of God, revealing things divine, so that we may understand, appreciate, and enjoy the great matters of life and salvation through Jesus Christ our Lord, and may be so elevated and trained thereby as to be fully prepared here for the pure glories of heaven hereafter!

Should One Church Indorse What is Wrong in Another Church?

BY M. C. K.

The reader will please examine the following list of questions to which we are requested to give answers:

1. If there is evidently a party for a certain paper or editor, who manifests a "wild-ass" Ishmaelitic disposition to put their "hand against every man" who works for or takes another paper, and they withdraw from a brother without giving him a hearing or an opportunity for defense, are other churches then under obligations to respect such manner of discipline?

2. If discipline be exercised against preachers because they will not openly and indiscriminately denounce all Bible colleges, are we then to respect such discipline?

3. If we are convinced that an act of discipline has been done through spite work, just to get an advantage rather than with a desire to save the subject, are we under obligation to respect such work?

4. If discipline be executed by a self-constituted court of evangelists and there is every evidence of partiality and unfairness, must we then submit to it and respect such ungodly work?

5. If a worthy brother be shut out from one paper because he disagrees with the editor on the college or the woman or the lodge question, must all other papers therefore shut him out?

At the querist's request, we withhold his name. Considered in the light of what would seem to be their direct bearing, these questions all have the appearance of being framed to fit a special case, but we give them attention here because the question of discipline among the churches is of general importance. It is difficult to see how the querist or any one else would expect any but one answer to each and all of them. Of course, when questions are submitted, we are supposed to answer what is asked, and not something else; but in each of these questions there is not only the direct assumption of perverse and wicked conduct on the part of those administering discipline, but that conduct is specifically pointed out, and, of course, it is the duty of the churches, as well as our duty here, not only to withhold indorsement of such conduct, but, in all proper ways, to condemn it. With this principle clearly stated and recognized, we now number our answers to correspond with the number of the queries, and shall consider them in the order in which they are submitted.

1. This question states that "a party for a certain paper or editor," arrayed against those "who work for or take another paper," proceeds to "withdraw from a brother without giving him a hearing or an opportunity for defense." Even a church, much less "a party," would have no right to proceed against a brother in the manner here described. Any brother is entitled to "a hearing" and "an opportunity for defense."

2. Even if "Bible colleges," as the term is here used, were on the same principle and for the same purpose as the missionary society, "openly and indiscriminately" denouncing them should not be made a condition of church membership and fellowship. We might regret that a brother has the opinion that such things are not wrong, but we certainly should not withdraw from him because he does not "openly and indiscriminately denounce" them.

3. Here it is assumed "that an act of discipline has been done," not "with a desire to save the subject," but wantonly and wickedly "through spite work, just to get an advantage." Was ever anything more wicked, unchristlike, and ungodly? Such proceeding is religious anarchy itself, and, of course, no individual and no church should indorse it. We scarcely see how the querist or anybody else could expect any other kind of an answer.

4. This question not only assumes that "a self-constituted court of evangelists" execute discipline against a brother, but that they use both "partiality and unfairness" in dealing with him. It seems to us that to ask questions in such a form is to practically assume what the answers will be. In other words, to use a legal expression, these are "leading" questions. A mere tyro in New Testament knowledge knows that all such conduct, even on the part of a church, as well as "a self-constituted court of evangelists," is wrong and deserves nothing but condemnation by everybody.

5. Now, let the reader please look closely at this question again. Observe that the brother in question is "a worthy brother" who is "shut out from one paper because he disagrees with the editor on the college or the woman or the lodge question." And the question propounded to us is whether "all other papers" should "therefore shut him out." Of course, "all other papers" must answer for themselves; and, answering for itself, the Gospel Advocate would say that it never shut any brother out because he differed from it "on the college or the woman or the lodge question," nor because he differed from it on any other question. There never has been a period in its history when its editors did not have differences among themselves. We do not shut anybody out of its columns for any such reason.

Finally, we call attention to an important distinction. A church, as set forth in the New Testament, is a divine institution. Hence, on general principles, what it does deserves our respect. But a church now, as in New Testament times, is composed of fallible human beings who may make mistakes; and even if a church, through no wicked motive, such as is assumed in all the foregoing questions, should err in its discipline, other churches should not hastily ignore and disregard its action until the erring church itself can correct it. This, of course, any church, actuated by proper motives, which is here assumed, will gladly do. We base this observation on the general fact, so clearly established in the New Testament, that if the churches do not maintain respect for each other's action, then a state of ecclesiastical anarchy will inevitably prevail.

Galloway Memorial Hospital.

At the request of the commissioner, we with other religious journals are placing before our readers some of the facts, necessities, and purposes of the Galloway Memorial Hospital.

The building of such an institution as the Galloway Memorial Hospital has already been too long delayed. There is nothing on the waiting list of benevolences that has a greater claim on the sympathy of all godly people.

The three purposes of the hospital as set forth by its projectors are:

(1) It shall provide Christian service for all people, irrespective of creed or position.

(2) The poor shall receive careful and skilled attention and have a chance for recovery from disease.

(3) Scientific care and research shall be its ideal and practice.

This is a benevolence in which all religionists can most heartily cooperate. One of the evidences of the divinity of Christ was that the poor had the gospel preached to them. When we bind up the wounds of the poor, the afflicted, and the suffering, they will thereby be influenced to receive the gospel. When John in prison heard of the works of Christ, he sent by his disciples to Christ to know whether he was "he that cometh, or look we for another? Jesus said unto them, Go and tell John the things which ye hear and see: the blind receive their sight, and the lame walk, the lepers are cleansed, and the deaf hear, and the dead are raised up, and the poor have good tidings preached to them." (Matt. 11: 3-5.) Christ will say at the judgment: "Verily I say unto you, Inasmuch as ye did it unto one of these my brethren, even these least, ye did it unto me." It is to be feared that the church has not fully appreciated the blessed truth that it is the light of the world, the salt of the earth. Theory without practice is dead. Our love for the sick, the afflicted, suffering, must come out in acts of sympathy and devotion. Deeds are far more effective than words. "And why call ye me, Lord, Lord, and do not the things which I say?" (Luke 6: 46.) The beloved John writes: "My little children, let us not love in word, neither with the tongue; but in deed and truth." (1 John 3: 18.) Only the acceptance and practice of the gospel of Christ will right things. It is only the love that comes out and expresses itself in action that heals the sick and points the erring to the Lamb of God that takes away the sins of the world.

Nashville has been selected as the ideal place for the hospital. It is easy of access to the whole of the State and surrounding territory. Commercially, it brings together many of the State's great enterprises. As an educational center, it is not surpassed anywhere in the South.

The hospital will be erected in units, the first building involving an expenditure of two hundred and thirty-five thousand dollars and accommodating both pay and charity patients until the erection of the remaining two units, one of which will be the administration building. At the completion of the second building, to contain two hundred free beds, the charity patients will be transferred to it, leaving the first building to be occupied by pay patients. The administration building will be complete in itself and will cost one hundred thousand dollars. The hospital thus organized and equipped should be second to none in the South, and it should, with the able medical faculty behind it, do a work for the community and for the State which should justify all the labor and the outlay put upon it.

The first building, now in process of erection, is for one hundred and fifty patients—one hundred charity beds and fifty pay beds; a free dispensary; two thoroughly equipped operating apartments—one for pay and one for charity service; two roof gardens covering both wards, and reached by elevators in each ward. But the work on this building has ceased. Do you ask why? The answer is easy: For the want of funds. The work is dependent on voluntary contributions. It was the earnest desire and purpose of the management to have this building ready some time ago. You may hasten this good work by frequent and liberal contributions. The board is entirely dependent on an interested public. Do you want fellowship in such a work? "The Lord loveth the cheerful giver."

GALLOWAY MEMORIAL HOSPITAL.

The commissioner and his helpers will be glad to answer any questions forwarded to his office. It is a work that will stand the closest scrutiny and investigation. The more you know about it, the deeper will be your interest.

All donations and bequests, as well as communications, should be made to the Galloway Memorial Hospital, A. E. Clement, Commissioner, 810 Broadway, Nashville, Tenn.

AT HOME AND ABROAD

Compiled by A. B. Lipscomb

Watch East Nashville rise.

"Behold, how much wood is kindled by how small a fire!"

You may expect some good things in the "Preparedness" Number next week.

Dan Gunn, of Sparta, Tenn., was a welcome visitor to this office last week.

F. W. Smith's house was in imminent danger, but, providentially for his feelings, he was away from home.

From W. E. Morgan, 149 Park Street, Portland, Maine: "We had three good services on March 19. The interest is growing better."

J. R. Tubb, of Sparta, Tenn., dropped in on us on his return from a business trip to Chicago. He is a mighty dependable sort of a "Tubb."

From R. D. Smith, Sherman, Texas: "There were seven by membership on March 12 and one by confession on March 19. The work here is excellent."

James A. Hardison reports that a few members have begun worship on Lookout Mountain, Tenn. That's a mighty good start toward heaven.

We have received several letters intended for the sister who desired to purchase a farm, mentioned in our last issue, which have been duly forwarded.

John W. Hedge writes from Idabel, Okla.: "I have been quite busy in this part of the vineyard since my last report. I will leave for my home at Kilgore, Texas, tomorrow (March 24)."

From John Hayes, 1009 Avenue B, Rome, Ga.: "The meeting here is just five days old, but growing in interest. I preached at the foundry yesterday at the noon hour and arranged to preach there every day next week and at the meetinghouse every night."

From W. P. Gray, Kansas City, Mo.: "I have nothing but the kindest feelings toward the Gospel Advocate and its staff of publishers, and heartily bid you Godspeed in your great work, and trust that you may be spared many years to sound out the word of the gospel of Christ."

John E. Dunn writes from Miami, Fla.: "We hope to begin a protracted meeting with the church here on the third Lord's day in April, to continue over four Lord's days. At the close of this meeting I return home for a short visit, and next to Beaumont, Texas, for a meeting."

From John Hayes, Newton, Ala.: "The meeting at Christian Home closed with the division healed, one baptized, and one from the Baptists. I go back to Hazlehurst to baptize one and to get the members all to work and meeting regularly at some appointed place. Next meeting at Rome, Ga."

John Puckett writes from Tucumcari, N. M.: "The 'Faith and Works' Number is about the richest thing that I have met anywhere in the road. All of the special numbers have been excellent, but this one, to me, seems far the best. In fact, all that I get out of the paper is good and better."

We have received the following commendatory note from the elders at Lewisville, Texas: "To whom this may concern: We, the elders of the church of Christ, know Perry B. Johnston to be a Christian gentleman and a good preacher. Any one in need of a preacher to hold a meeting will make no mistake in calling him to the work. He has had many years' experience." Signed: D. P. Windle, J. M. Hendrix, and Andy Crawford.

J. D. Northcut's sermon Sunday afternoon at Watkins

Hall, this city, on "When Was the Kingdom of Christ Established?" was one of the best I have heard in many a day. His handling of the subject in general was scriptural, forcible, and appealing, and in particular his description of the Savior's mighty struggle with Satan could hardly be surpassed. Do not fail to hear the "mountain preacher" this week at South College Street.

Mrs. John Tillery writes an encouraging note from Vine-mont, Ala.: "I have been thinking for quite a while that I would write and tell you how much I enjoy reading the good old Gospel Advocate. I have been a regular reader of it for forty years, and must say that as I grow older I appreciate it more and more. The special numbers are just fine. I am sending you another new subscriber, and will do all I can toward getting others to subscribe."

From J. A. Cullum, 1341 South Orleans Street, Memphis, Tenn.: "Please state to the readers of the Gospel Advocate that I am now ready to answer calls for meetings to be held anywhere within one hundred miles of Memphis. I can begin by April 1."

During a recent visit to Memphis we heard this brother's work and that of Brother Trice in that city highly commended. The brevity of our stay prevented a visit to the Memphis congregations.

J. Pettey Ezell writes from New Decatur, Ala.: "We had splendid crowds at each service at Jackson Street to-day and to-night (March 26). The work is interesting. We were pleased to have J. T. Harris with us between the second and fourth Sundays. He preached ten excellent sermons and made a good impression on all who heard him. Also, Brother Srygley's visit, on March 21, was an occasion of great joy. We had a splendid audience out to hear him, and none were disappointed. Let them come again."

C. D. Crouch, who has labored successfully for two years at Bowie, Texas, and formed many warm friendships there, has moved to Rock Springs, in the same State. He will work with the Rock Springs congregation when not engaged in evangelistic work. Brother Crouch has some time open for meetings. Churches desiring a meeting should write at once. Concerning the prospect at Rock Springs, he writes: "Our crowds are good at all preaching services and the interest is all one could expect. Our midweek and Lord's-day Bible studies are very interesting. Prospects are good for splendid growth in the church."

E. G. Butler writes from Westport, Tenn.: "There have been no Gospel Advocates received at this office the past two weeks. This is something very unusual and is causing some little disturbance, and, lest some of us should apostatize, I thought best to call your attention to the matter. Please send us the back numbers and let them come along regularly, if there is nothing serious the matter."

We hastened to assure our brother that there was nothing serious the matter. The post-office people are a little irregular in delivery sometimes, but the Gospel Advocate is still on the job, despite the skyrocket antics of the paper market.

W. N. Gantt writes from Hazlehurst, Ga.: "John Hayes, of Cedar Hill, Texas, has just closed a meeting for us. One was baptized and one came from the Baptists. Time alone can tell the good that has been done. This is a mission point with four members. Brother Hayes came at our call, depending solely on the brethren who know him for support. He reached here with only a few cents left. The brethren responded nobly, and we want to thank each one who had fellowship in the work here. May God bless them all. Brother Hayes is an earnest and faithful worker and deserves the help of all loyal brethren. He is now giving his labors almost wholly to destitute places. So do not forget him."

Georgia and the Far Southern Field

By S. H. Hall

The Church of Christ—Lesson XI.

Conditions of Entrance Specifically Considered—Baptism.

(3) Who are fit subjects for baptism? (a) Taking all the scriptures on this subject and studying them carefully, you learn that a penitent believer is the only subject we are authorized to baptize. In Matt. 28: 19 it says: "Go ye therefore, and make disciples of all the nations, baptizing them"—the ones you have taught, or discipled. From this we learn that a man must be a taught or discipled being before baptizing him. In John 6: 45 it says, "And they shall all be taught of God," and that the ones who have heard and learned of the Father cometh unto Christ. In 1 Cor. 1: 21 it says, "It was God's good pleasure through the foolishness of the preaching to save them that believe." In Mark 16: 15, 16 believers are the ones to be baptized. In Mark 1: 5; Acts 22: 16; and Acts 2: 38 the penitent believers are the ones who are baptized. In Acts 8: 5, 12 "both men and women" who believed Philip's preaching were the ones baptized.

(b) If you will notice carefully every account of baptism, you will observe that something is said in each case that shows that infants were not among the number. In Mark 1: 5 only those who confessed their sins were baptized, and infants could not do this. In Acts 2: 41 only those who gladly received the words were baptized, and infants, therefore, were not among them. In Acts 8: 12 it says: "They were baptized, both men and women;" hence no infants here. Just so with every case of baptism.

It is contended that infant baptism is justified from the fact that whole households were baptized; hence infants are included. This is certainly about as unreasonable and as illogical as any one could become in reasoning. There would be something in the argument if it could be proven that every household contains infants. It has been my pleasure to baptize a man and "all of his house," and there was not an infant among the number. Every false doctrine now in existence, God foreknew would arise; hence he put something in the Bible to shield us from the error. He foreknew the arguments on household baptisms to justify infant baptism; hence in each case of household baptism he says enough to show that no infants were among the number. In Acts 16: 32-34 we have the account of the jailer and "all his" being baptized. But please to note that God tells us that the preaching was done to all in his house and that they all believed; hence no infants in that household. Verse 15 of the same chapter says that Lydia and "her household" were baptized. But read verse 40, and you will see that all were old enough to be comforted; hence no infants there. Where, then, is the scripture for infant baptism? Well, it simply does not exist in the Bible; hence it is purely one of the doctrines of men.

The Work at Macon, Ga.

At this writing I am at Macon, Ga., in a series of meetings. Everything indicates success. There was one confession last night, the second night of the series, and one was baptized by Brother Woodroof before I came. He has been giving the congregation here a song drill, and I am much pleased with the way these good people sing. Brother Morgan H. Carter is on the ground doing all he can for the cause. To him the success of this work, to a very large degree, is due. He has labored here, untiringly, at a great sacrifice. Brother Claus, of Valdosta, and the writer have kept in touch with the work and encouraged all we could. I can stay with them but eleven days. This is too short, but it is the best that I can do, with other engagements that are before me.

Now, just a few words to our readers about this work. We want it on a self-sustaining basis by the first of another year. With a little help from you, we can make it so. On April 15 two notes amounting to three hundred and fifty dollars and interest will be due. Then another note of two hundred and fifty dollars and interest will be due next fall. This will put them out of debt. They cannot support a man for this field and meet these notes. We earnestly insist, therefore, that all of our friends come now to their rescue, help them pay off these notes, and, with the assistance of the Hardie's Chapel congregation, out about twenty miles from here, take a man for all of his time and keep him busy, and, besides, put other men in the field so soon as it is possible. The note due this fall is made payable on or before date of expiration, hence can be taken up now. And, brethren, why not now wipe it out and be done with it. Will not the stronger churches send a donation at once to Brother J. W. Hightower, 708 Broad Street, Macon, Ga.? It will be duly receipted by card and acknowledged through the paper. The congregation at Smyrna, Tenn., handed the writer two dollars for this work. Who will be next? Just six hundred dollars, and this congregation will be put where it will be able to do a most needed work in the central part of our State. May the Lord bless the brethren in helping this most worthy cause, and in doing it now.

"An Important Matter."

Under the above heading, Brother Showalter has the following to say in the Firm Foundation of February 1:

Brother M. C. Kurfees, in the Gospel Advocate, has been giving some timely articles on the line of discipline in congregations of Christ. Brother Kurfees specially deplores what he terms "ecclesiastical anarchy," a disposition on the part of churches of Christ to disregard the action of sister congregations in matters of discipline. Brother Kurfees is clearly right. The real purpose of discipline can never be realized when the action of a church is flagrantly disregarded by sister congregations. Such a course on the part of churches hardens the offender in wickedness and infamy and will lead rather to his utter ruin than to his ultimate salvation. There have been cases of insubordination where the churches have gone the very limit of forbearance; and when finally they call upon the wayward member for some reasonable adjustment, they are treated with the utmost contempt. Yet the offending member goes away to some other congregation without a letter, without commendation, and is received into the fellowship of the church. Evil and not good must of necessity follow. The erring one is not brought to repentance, but is hardened by this palliation of persistent wickedness. Moreover, churches that so act, specially the elders of such churches, are laying up troubles and difficulties for themselves.

Certainly timely and true are the above words. In another issue, if it is the Lord's will, I shall give what another editor of one of our leading papers has to say, and shall submit a few questions for consideration, as other matters prevented my writing a special article for the special number devoted to this subject. Indeed, a reformation is needed here; and the sooner it is launched, the better.

We have recently published a leaflet, entitled "Facts About Baptism," which should be distributed by the thousands. This leaflet contains admissions from the very highest pedobaptist authority when and by whom sprinkling and pouring were introduced for baptism. This leaflet is placed at the exceedingly small price of twenty-five cents per dozen, which simply covers the cost of them broadcast. Send to-day for a batch. Address the McQuiddy Printing Company, Nashville, Tenn.

WHEN RUN DOWN

Hood's Sarsaparilla, the Reliable Tonic Medicine, Builds Up.

The reason why you feel so tired all the time at this season is that your blood is impure and impoverished. It lacks vitality. It is not the rich red blood that gives life to the whole body, perfects digestion and enables all the organs to perform their functions as they should.

Get Hood's Sarsaparilla from any druggist. It will make you feel better, look better, eat and sleep better. It is the old reliable tried and true all-the-year-round blood purifier and enricher, tonic and appetizer. It revitalizes the blood, and is especially useful in building up the debilitated and run-down.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is helping thousands at this time of year. Let it help you. Get a bottle today and begin taking it at once. Be sure to get Hood's. Nothing else acts like it.

The Real Definition of Life is Nerve Force.

People often wonder what the difference really is between the living and dead body. Apparently nothing has been taken away, but still the complicated machinery of the body has stopped and cannot be started again. What is missing is "life," and the modern definition of life is "nerve force.

This nerve force must be distributed regularly all over the body. Directly it does not run smoothly, ill health will follow.

Dr. Miles Nervine benefits the health by evening up the distribution of this vital force of life and by taking all the "jars and jolts" out of the system.

In this conjunction the Rev. C. H. Cox, of Mason City, W. Va., has stated: "I have found Dr. Miles' Nervine to be unexcelled in all nervous disorders, and I have always recommended it to any one whom I hear is suffering in this way. We also always keep Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills on hand, as we feel they are invaluable. No words can truly express the real merit of Dr. Miles' Restorative Remedies."

Dr. Miles' Nervine can be used with advantage in all ailments which have a nervous origin or which have affected the nervous system. It is particularly beneficial in case of sleeplessness, nervousness, epilepsy, hysteria, chronic headache, and neuralgia.

Dr. Miles' Nervine is on sale at all drug stores, and is strictly guaranteed to benefit you or your money will be refunded by the druggist.

MILES MEDICAL COMPANY, Elkhart, Ind.

TRY THE OLD RELIABLE WINTERSMITH'S CHILL TONIC
For MALARIA CHILLS & FEVER
A FINE GENERAL STRENGTHENING TONIC

FROM THE FIELD

Arkansas.

Magnolia, March 18.—I do not believe that I was ever more anxious, or better prepared, to preach the gospel than I am now, and I am determined to preach; yea, "woe is unto me, if I preach not the gospel" (1 Cor. 9: 16); but my family needs company when I am out. I am sometimes several hundred miles from home. The only boy in my family is not yet nine years old. I want a good Christian husband and wife to occupy a part of a dwelling house, near Hallsville, Texas, while my family occupies a part of the same dwelling. This will furnish company. I can offer a renter a good proposition who will raise corn, cotton, peas, potatoes, goobers, etc., and give me a part of the crop. This will help to support my family while I "do the work of an evangelist," secure subscriptions to our papers, distribute the very best religious literature, and build up the church of Christ at mission points. I want a man who will furnish teams, tools, feed, seed, etc., to make a crop, and worship "as it is written" in the New Testament with a good congregation of Christians within two hundred yards of the dwelling. I can furnish pasture and water for cattle and hogs. There is yet plenty of time to plant crops in that country. If you are interested, write me. Send me good recommendations from the church with which you worship. Write to me at Magnolia, Ark. T. E. TATUM.

Florida.

Tampa, March 20.—We are now in the beginning of the third week of our meeting here, with eight baptisms and the interest growing. I do not know when we will quit. This congregation is small, but steadfast. They are blessed with a good leader in the person of Brother George B. Hoover, who is backed by a corps of faithful workers. They are doing a fine work in this large and wicked city.

W. A. CAMERON.

Louisiana.

Shreveport, March 22.—We had a good day here last Sunday. One young lady was baptized into her Lord. The church is doing good work and the outlook for the future is very bright. I wish to thank the good brethren that gave of their means to help us buy a lot and build a meetinghouse. We did not raise enough to pay cash for the lot and build the house, but we raised enough to pay one-fourth on a lot eighty by one hundred and fifty feet. This lot was held at twenty-five hundred dollars, but the owner donated five hundred dollars, and gave us four years to pay the rest, which is fifteen hundred dollars. I had to come home earlier than I expected, so that I might have everything in readiness for our meeting that is to begin on Monday after the fourth Lord's day in April. Brother A. O. Colley, of Fort Worth, Texas, will be with us the first two weeks, and Brother McCrary, of Mount Enterprise, will be with us the last two weeks. We are looking forward to a

LETTERS THAT INSPIRE CONFIDENCE.

I wish very much that every reader of the Gospel Advocate could spend sufficient time in my office to read the thousands of letters which I have received from all parts of the country. I have printed several hundreds of them in a booklet; but I wish you could see the originals, for I would like for you to realize the wonderful results which they report in the relief of dyspepsia, indigestion, persistent headache, rheumatism, gallstones, kidney, bladder, and liver diseases, uric acid poisoning, and other conditions due to impure blood.

Before my own health was restored by Shivar Mineral Water and I purchased this spring, and before I received all of these letters from sufferers, I did not take very much stock in advertisements like this. I, therefore, cannot blame you if you doubt; but, my friend, I am absolutely convinced that the Shivar Spring is the greatest restorative mineral spring ever discovered, not excepting the famous spas of Europe. I have shipped this water to thousands of sufferers in all parts of the United States, and they almost invariably report either permanent restoration or beneficial results. That is why I make the guarantee offer contained in the following letter. Sign it now and mail it. Shivar Spring.

Box 21J, Shelton, S. C.

Gentlemen: I accept your guarantee offer, and inclose herewith two dollars for ten gallons of Shivar Mineral Spring Water. I agree to give it a fair trial, in accordance with instructions and if it fails to benefit my case, you contained in the booklet you will send; agree to refund the price in full upon receipt of the two empty demi-johns, which I agree to return promptly.

Name.....

Address.....

Shipping Point.....

(Please write distinctly.)

You Are Invited.

Yes, cordially invited to write for your copy of the handsomely illustrated catalogue of the Gospel Advocate Piano Club. It will explain to your thorough satisfaction how the Club of One Hundred Buyers has secured the maximum factory discount (forty per cent) on high-grade pianos and player-pianos. All you have to do is to place your own order through the club at a saving of two-fifths the price, and on easy terms if desired. The instrument is shipped at once, freight prepaid, subject to your approval after one month's free trial in your home. You will be delighted; but in order to make you feel perfectly safe, the club offers to pay the return freight if you are not pleased with the piano. Write for your copy of the catalogue to-day. Address the Associated Piano Clubs, Gospel Advocate Department, Atlanta, Ga.

FIRM FOUNDATION An eight-page weekly religious paper devoted to the restoration of primitive Christianity. Excels in church news; an able corps of writers; extensively circulated. Subscription price, $1 a year, payable in advance. Special rates for clubs. We believe that every loyal Christian should have the Firm Foundation visit his home.

FIRM FOUNDATION PUBLISHING HOUSE, Austin, Texas.

grand and good meeting. I will go out again next fall and try to raise some more money. This is the Lord's work and must be done; so let us look after it.
B. U. BALDWIN.

Pennsylvania.

Fayette City, March 20.—We had two good services yesterday. One sister was restored who has been out of fellowship eleven years. We had funeral services of Brother Endsley W. Cupp last Monday. We drove twenty-one miles in an automobile to Gastonville cemetery, where interment was made. We still have snow and ice up here, but we feel that springtime must be near.
G. M. RANCE.

Tennessee.

Knoxville, March 16.—Since last report we have received fifteen dollars from the church at Carter's Creek, Tenn., and two dollars from a sister in Nashville. We are very thankful to the givers. Our pews are now installed and all are happy. We mean to make a special offering the first Sunday in April to finish paying for them. The seats and installing of them cost us a little more than five hundred dollars. We owe about two hundred dollars on them which we hope to pay off in the next few weeks. Will not some of our able congregations send us a contribution on the first Sunday in April?
T. B. CLARK.

Texas.

Bonham, March 13.—The church of Christ in this city is growing. The Gospel Advocate is a great paper full of great things. The last special number was fine. Brother J. S. Dunn, of Dallas, will be with us for a meeting on March 27.
TOM WALKER.

San Angelo, March 20.—Yesterday was a good day with us. Large audiences at both morning and evening services. At the morning service I preached on "A Disease and Its Cure;" in the evening, on "The Thief on the Cross." We have secured the services of Brother W. F. Ledlow, president of the faculty of Thorp Spring Christian College, for our annual protracted meeting. We are working and praying for a great meeting.
JEWELL MATTHEWS.

Denison, March 13.—Brother J. W. Chism closed an interesting series of lectures with my home congregation in Madill, Okla., a few days ago. Brother Chism is stronger on prophecy than any man I have ever heard. The brethren in Madill are planning a meeting for May, with Brother Tice Elkins. I am booked for Denison at that time. We had a fine service here yesterday. One baptized, one from the "digressives," four others by confessing their sins and taking membership. May God bless all the laborers.
THOMAS E. MILHOLLAND.

Fort Worth, March 18.—The work at Central Church, this city, is progressing nicely. My work with this church during 1915 resulted in seventy-three additions. We expect a great

When Louise of Prussia Went to Napoleon

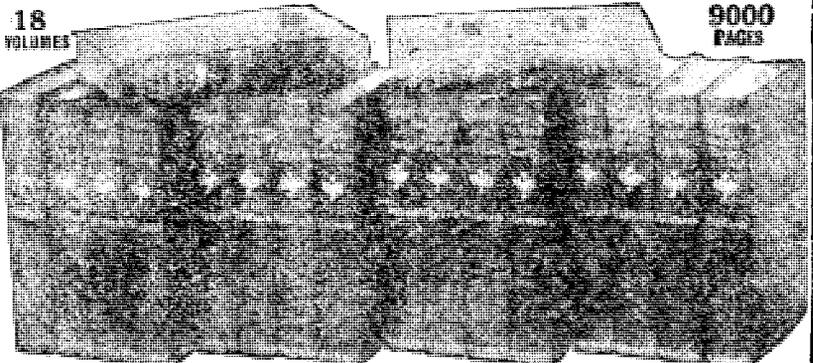

One Hundred Years Ago

Louise went to Napoleon on a delicate and humiliating mission. A clever woman, a beautiful woman, was Louise of Prussia. Had she accomplished her mission that night, the history of Europe would be different today. Beneath the surface of the mighty war now going on are the secret, twisted threads of intrigue and passions of a hundred years. To understand the fearful upheaval in Europe you must know that hidden history frankly told in imperishable form in

Muhlbach's Historical Romances

These wonderful volumes tell the private, personal life and character of great men and women. History is here written in story form. These volumes are beyond question the most fascinating historical romances that have ever been given to the world. They contain a history of the crises in Germany, Austria, Russia, England, Switzerland, Egypt, France, Holland and Prussia during two hundred years of startling events, told in intensely interesting and romantic form. All classes are represented in these volumes as they lived and loved, thought and acted. Thus the human interest always prevails and has given this set of books enduring popularity. These wonderful historic romances are among the books that never die. They are interesting, instructive, reliable, truthful, wholesome and good. In the volume devoted to Napoleon and Blucher practically every historic character that the life of the great emperor touched in any way is here given—all the men and women of his time. The new edition is printed from new plates, upon extra quality of paper from easy-to-read type, are attractively illustrated and bound in Art Buckram Cloth, titles stamped in gold.

The Encyclopedia Britannica says: "Muhlbach's works show a talent for lively description and narration that gives enduring popularity and a power in weaving alluring romances from those stirring times that is unsurpassed."

Here Is Our Bargain Offer—Send No Money

Just sign and mail attached coupon and we will ship you the complete set of this beautiful edition for five days' examination in your own home. You can decide then for yourself whether or not you wish to buy. You can return the set at our expense if it fails to give you entire satisfaction. Should you desire to purchase send us $1.00 as first payment and pay the balance at the rate of $2.00 per month for nly nine months until our special price of $19.00 is paid. The regular subscription price is $40.00. Thousands of sets have been sold at this figure. The reason we are able to cut the price to only $19.00 is that our method of sale by mail eliminates all middle men's profits. There is neither a dealer's profit nor an agents commission involved in the transaction. We ship direct from factory to consumer and guarantee satisfaction in every way. Mail coupon promptly.

HERE ARE THE CONTENTS

1. Napoleon and the Queen of Prussia.
2. The Empress Josephine.
3. Napoleon and Blucher.
4. Queen Hortense.
5. Marie Antoinette and Her Son.
6. Prince Eugene and His Times.
7. The Daughter of an Empress.
8. Joseph II and His Court.
9. Mohammed Ali and His House.
10. Henry VIII and His Court.
11. Berlin and Sans Souci.
12. Goethe and Schiller.
13. The Merchant of Berlin.
14. Louise of Prussia and Her Times.
15. Old Fritz and the New Era.
16. Andreas Hofer.
17. Frederick The Great and His Court.
18. Frederick the Great and His Family.

INSPECTION COUPON

THE RIVERSIDE PUBLISHING CO., (2-23)
Marquette Bldg., Chicago, Illinois.

Please ship me for examination and approval one set of Muhlbach's Historical Romances, eighteen volumes Art Buckram cloth binding. If satisfactory, I will send you $1.00 after five day's examination and $2.00 a month thereafter for nine months. If the set does not meet my entire approval after five day's examination, I will notify you and hold subject to your order and return at your expense as offered Gospel Advocate readers.

Name _____
Address _____

Enclose business card, letter head or give references

CUT OUT AND MAIL

er work this year. We have sold the old church house and purchased the College Avenue Baptist Church. We now have the best church house owned

FRECKLES

Now Is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freckles as the prescription othine—double strength—is guaranteed to remove these homely spots.

Simply get an ounce of othine—double strength—from your druggist, and apply a little of it night and morning and you should soon see that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the lighter ones have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than an ounce is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a beautiful clear complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength othine as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.

Purely Vegetable—Not Narcotic

Has been used for over seventy years by millions of mothers for their children while teething. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, cures wind colic and is highly successful in relieving infantile diarrhoea. Be sure to ask for "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup" and take no other. Twenty-five cents.

PELLAGRA

Cured Or You Pay Nothing

I have cured—cured to stay cured—90% of all who have taken my Pellagra Cure. What I have done for others I GUARANTEE to do for you or my treatment will cost you nothing. Highly endorsed by Physicians, Bankers, Ministers, County Officials and others. If you doubt, write any official or merchant in Walker County. No interference with work—no restrictions on your eating.

SYMPTOMS are: Hands red like sunburn; sore mouth; throat, tongue and lips flaming red; much mucus and choking; indigestion and nausea; diarrhea or constipation; mind affected and many other symptoms. No matter what anyone tells you about FREE Book which fully explains my theory of the cause, prevention and cure of this dreaded disease—full of interesting facts which I have proven beyond doubt. Also contains full particulars of my remarkable offer of NO CURE—NO PAY. Free diagnosis to anyone sending symptoms. Send no money but write today!

Dr. W. J. McCrary, Dept 238 Carbon Hill, Alabama
Show this to some unfortunate sufferer

A Foe to Tuberculosis

The Journal of the American Medical Association (August 9, 1914), reviewing an article on "The Influence of Calcium Salts on Constitution and Health," said: "they (the authors) report numbers of concrete instances in which patients gained in vitality and energy after taking calcium."

Doctors agree that in tuberculosis lowered vitality and lost energy must be overcome.

One of the constituents of Eckman's Alternative is calcium (lime), in such combination with other valuable ingredients as to be easily assimilated by the average person. To this, in part, is due its success in the treatment of tuberculosis—a service which even some ethical practitioners have acknowledged to their patients. We make no wholesale claims for it but since it contains no opiates, narcotics or habit-forming drugs, a trial is safe. Price $1 and $2 per bottle. Sold by leading druggists or sent direct from the Laboratory. We would like to send you a booklet containing information of value and references.

ECKMAN LABORATORY,
23 N. Seventh St. Philadelphia.

WE PAY $80 A MONTH SALARY and furnish rig and all expenses to introduce our guaranteed poultry and stock powders. Address BIGLER COMPANY, X638, SPRINGFIELD, ILLINOIS by loyal disciples in Texas. We will get possession at the new location the first of May. Brother L. S. White and I are exchanging protracted meetings this year. I will hold the meeting at Pearl and Bryan Streets Church, in Dallas, in April, and Brother White will hold our meeting in May. We anticipate a pleasant time and a great meeting.

W. M. DAVIS.

West Virginia.

Buffalo, Box 81, March 20.—We are having some very interesting meetings here now. This is especially true of yesterday's work. On March 12 I baptized four more precious souls into Christ. We are gaining in numbers here; but most of us are poor, and we have no regular meeting place of our own. It takes all the means at our command to keep down running expenses, and this leaves me almost without any support at all. And yet this is now a very promising mission field, if my brethren would only help me work it. I am not very strong, but I am willing to spend and be spent in the interests of others. During the latter part of last year the following-named persons helped me some: James G. Elrod, H. C. Rhea, Mrs. M. E. Henry, D. H. Howell, R. E. Howell, Mrs. M. McCrum, Miss Mattie Purvis and sister, Miss Willie Wicker, Miss Lula, Mrs. Sarah English, Mrs. Lizzie Collins, and Mrs. Lang; Mrs. Ira Hardesty, Christoval, Texas; D. L. Lindsay, T. P. Freeland, Mrs. Mollie Dean. The amount received from these sources is about forty-five dollars, and I am so very thankful. As this is a deferred report and as I have written each donor, I have shortened it somewhat. I trust that this is sufficient. Hereafter I will report names and amounts as usual. In working up an interest here, I was obliged to make some debts, and I hope that the brethren will relieve me of this burden, soon. At present we have a temporary place of meeting, but it may not last long. We are, therefore, compelled to secure a piece of ground upon which to erect a shed of some sort as a meeting place until we can build a church house. The ground can be bought for fifty dollars cash. There are some fine old apple trees on these lots, and during the summer we could hold our meetings under these trees. If we are enabled to purchase these lots, there will be a restrictive clause in the deed, as I will tolerate no foolishness. So, in sending personal support to me, please add something for the church lots, or, better still, let some one send me the fifty dollars at once. Every dollar sent me for this purpose will be placed in a bank until enough is secured to pay for the lots; and if more than this amount is received, it will be used in erecting a place of worship. Others will urge this matter later.

F. P. FONNER.

Tobacco Habit Banished

in 48 to 72 hours. No craving for tobacco in any form after first dose. Harmless; no habit-forming drugs. Satisfactory results guaranteed in every case. Write Newell Pharmacal Company, Department 90, St. Louis, Mo., for free booklet, "Tobacco Redeemer," and positive proof.

STOP! CALOMEL IS QUICKSILVER.

It's mercury! Attacks the Bones, salivates and makes you sick

There's no reason why a person should take sickening, salivating calomel, when fifty cents buys a large bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone—a perfect substitute for calomel.

It is a pleasant, vegetable liquid which will start your liver just as surely as calomel, but it doesn't make you sick and cannot salivate.

Children and grown folks can take Dodson's Liver Tone, because it is perfectly harmless.

Calomel is a dangerous drug. It is mercury, and attacks your bones. Take a dose of nasty calomel to-day and you will feel weak, sick, and nauseated to-morrow. Don't lose a day's work. Take a spoonful of Dodson's Liver Tone instead, and you will wake up feeling great. No more biliousness, constipation, sluggishness, headache, coated tongue, or sour stomach. Your druggist says if you do not find Dodson's Liver Tone acts better than horrible calomel, your money is waiting for you.

One Hundred Dollars for One Cent.

It will cost you a one-cent postal card to write for your copy of the handsomely illustrated catalogue of the Gospel Advocate Piano Club, which will explain to your thorough satisfaction how the Club of One Hundred Piano Buyers saves each member one hundred dollars or more on the price of high-grade pianos and player-pianos. You cannot afford to buy a piano until you have investigated the club, for you cannot afford to throw away the money-saving opportunity it offers you.

As an individual buyer, purchasing at random, you are weak; but as a member of the club, you have the strength of an army of one hundred buyers, and, therefore, secure the lowest possible factory price. The club makes the payments easy, ships your piano at once, freight prepaid, subject to your approval after one-month's trial. Perfect satisfaction is absolutely guaranteed to every member. Address the Associated Piano Clubs, Gospel Advocate Department, Atlanta, Ga.

"Special" Silk Hose Offer.

To introduce the beautiful "La France" silk hose for ladies and gentlemen, we offer three pairs, 50-cent quality, for only one dollar, postpaid, in the United States. Pure silk from calf to toe, with durable elastic lisle top, heel, and toe for long wear. Sizes, 8 to 10½. In white, tan, or black; assorted if desired. Money back promptly if not delighted. La France Silk Store, Box G, Clinton, S. C.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM
A toilet preparation of merit. Helps to eradicate dandruff. For Restoring Color and Beauty to Gray or Faded Hair. 50c. and $1.00 at Druggists.

HINDERCORNS Removes Corns, Callouses, etc., stops all pain, ensures comfort to the feet, makes walking easy. 15c. by mail or at Druggists. Hiscox Chemical Works, Patchogue, N. Y.

Appreciates the Tennessee Orphans' Home.

BY A. O. COLLEY.

To My Brethren and Friends: I notice the efforts that are being put forth by Brother and Sister Boaz to pay the Tennessee Orphans' Home entirely out of debt this year. Although I am in Texas, my love for the cause of Christ everywhere and my confidence in Brother and Sister Boaz to rightly handle any and all funds intrusted to them causes me to write to the churches of West Kentucky, Tennessee, and Southern Illinois to rally at once to them. My main reason for appealing directly to these churches is, Brother Boaz and I gave the early part of our lives to build up the cause in those three localities, and they stood by us nobly. I believe the same faith and love abides now that we found in them then. Write Brother Boaz at Columbia, Tenn., and tell him how much you can give monthly.

Christian Education.

BY JEWELL MATTHEWS.

The various Bible schools over the country were established so that Christian parents might be enabled to give their children the benefit of a Christian education. It seems, though, that our schools are not receiving the support which should naturally come from the brotherhood at large.

We have the following Bible schools: Thorp Spring Christian College, Abilene Christian College, Sabinal Christian College, Gunter Literary and Biblical College, Lockney Bible College—all in Texas; Nashville Bible School and the National Teachers' Normal and Business College, in Tennessee; one college in Kansas; Cordell Christian College, in Oklahoma. In all of these schools we have not more than twelve hundred matriculates.

I find good brethren over the country supporting sectarian schools and utterly neglecting our own; but still they wonder why the Bible schools do not grow faster. They say that our schools have no standing in the educational world. But are you sure you have investigated the matter closely? Did you not know that most of our colleges have been recognized formally by the various institutions of higher learning?

We expect our Bible schools to rank with the best, yet we do not support them. In the name of common sense, how can they grow, when the brethren do not give them their patronage? If the brethren would only give our schools their hearty support, it would not take long for them all to rank with the best. They are gradually gaining ground, but they would ad-

Women Once Invalids

Now in Good Health Through Use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Say it is Household Necessity. Doctor Called it a Miracle.

All women ought to know the wonderful effects of taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound even on those who seem hopelessly ill. Here are three actual cases:

Harrisburg, Penn.—“When I was single I suffered a great deal from female weakness because my work compelled me to stand all day. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for that and was made stronger by its use. After I was married I took the Compound again for a female trouble and after three months I passed what the doctor called a growth. He said it was a miracle that it came away as one generally goes under the knife to have them removed. I never want to be without your Compound in the house.”—Mrs. FRANK KNOBL, 1642 Fulton St., Harrisburg, Penn.

Hardly Able to Move.

Albert Lea, Minn.—“For about a year I had sharp pains across my back and hips and was hardly able to move around the house. My head would ache and I was dizzy and had no appetite. After taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills, I am feeling stronger than for years. I have a little boy eight months old and am doing my work all alone. I would not be without your remedies in the house as there are none like them.”—Mrs. F. E. YOSR, 611 Water St., Albert Lea, Minn.

Three Doctors Gave Her Up.

Pittsburg, Penn.—“Your medicine has helped me wonderfully. When I was a girl 18 years old I was always sickly and delicate and suffered from irregularities. Three doctors gave me up and said I would go into consumption. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and with the third bottle began to feel better. I soon became regular and I got strong and shortly after I was married. Now I have two nice stout healthy children and am able to work hard every day.”—Mrs. CLEMENTINA DUERRING, 34 Gardner St., Troy Hill, Pittsburg, Penn.

All women are invited to write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for special advice,—it will be confidential.

vance much faster with a more general support.

Brother, if you have a child to educate, for the child's sake and for the advancement of the cause of Christian education, put it in a Bible school which is free from the skepticism and innovations common to other institutions.

MAKE MONEY WRITING

STORY-WRITING TAUGHT By Mail

Your manuscript criticized, revised, and typed. We also sell manuscripts on commission. For more than twenty years we have specialized in this business, and we bring results. Send to-day for our free booklet, “WRITING FOR PROFIT.” It tells how and gives proof. NATIONAL PRESS ASSOCIATION, Dept. R. P., Indianapolis, Ind.

WHEN WRITING OUR ADVERTISERS PLEASE MENTION THIS PUBLICATION

"Feed the Brute!" Said the Witty Wife

When asked how to handle a husband. Good doctrine; and if she had added, "and keep his liver working," it would have been perfect.

Jacobs' Liver Salt

—two teaspoonfuls in water before breakfast—clears the stomach. It will promote a continuous cheer in the well-fed man, because it aids in healthful digestion. Twenty-five cents at druggists', or sent direct by

JACOBS PHARMACY.
Atlanta, Ga.

Storing Nervous Energy.

The human body resembles quite closely the electric storage system used on automobiles. By the processes of digestion nervous power or force is developed. The body, like the storage battery, stores energy to sustain it under emergency needs, when it can be called upon to carry the body through intense muscular strain or to sustain the mind through an intense and prolonged nervous strain. However, these body strains tend to exhaust the nerve force, and with the exhaustion of this force there is a letting down of the whole nervous system and a weakening even of the organs of assimilation. Thus intense nervous strain interferes with digestion, and also interferes with the organs of elimination.

If this is persisted in, there are developed diseases of the liver, gall, stomach, pancreas, kidneys, and bladder. Health conditions generally are much more sanitary to-day than they were years ago. Nevertheless we have an enormous number of cases of kidney and bladder troubles due to the unusual strains of modern life.

Fortunately, there is an excellent combination for rectifying most of the troubles of the digestive and eliminative organs. It is Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Remedy, which has been found by tens of thousands of people to have produced excellent results in cases of incipient Bright's disease, uræmic poisoning, rheumatism, and related kidney and liver ailments. This preparation is a combination of valuable extracts, compounded for the treatment of all of the organs of elimination and digestion; for if there is trouble of this type, all of these organs are usually involved. Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Remedy is for sale at all drug stores in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.

Learn Faster & Better, to Play PIANO

Write today for 64-page free book, "How to Study Music." It explains the pleasures and profits of musical skill, and shows how Dr. Quinn's famous WRITTEN METHOD enables you to learn piano or organ, in your own home, at one-quarter the usual cost. Play chords at once and a complete piece, in every key, within 4 lessons. Scientific and systematic, yet practical and simple. Successful 25 years. Endorsed by leading musicians. For beginners or experienced players, old or young. Diploma granted. Special terms this month. Write today. M. L. Quinn Conservatory, Box 650 U.S. Chicago

Subscribe for The Bible Study Helper. Sixty cents per year.

MACEDONIAN CALLS

An Appeal for Two Churches in Tennessee.

A call appeared in the Gospel Advocate some time ago for help to build a meetinghouse near Turnbull Creek, in Dickson County, Tenn. This is a worthy call and should get some response from churches or individuals who are able to send them a donation. The house has been almost completed, and is well built and in a community where the congregation will have an influence for good. There are sixteen members, nearly all heads of families, and all of them have lately become members of the church as a result of three meetings held in the last three years by the writer of this. They owe some two hundred dollars on the house, and seats are still to be bought. They have done all they can so far and will do more still. It was my pleasure to preach the first sermon for them on Saturday night before the first Sunday in this month; I also preached again next morning. I will hold their meeting this year, beginning on the third Sunday in August. Send to N. B. Garton, Route 1, Burns, Tenn.

Another worthy call comes from Sugar Tree, Benton County, Tenn. There are a few members (only two males) at that place, and they have decided to build a house of worship. One of the men contributed one hundred dollars and the other twenty-five dollars, which is all they can do financially. They will also furnish some of the lumber and work on the house. They live in a hard place and should have help. I have been on the ground. Send to M. F. Henry, Route 1, Sugar Tree, Tenn.

An Appeal for the Church at Muskogee, Okla.

The members of the congregation at this place are poor in this world's goods and in need of a place to worship. They have been meeting in a private house, and it is not sufficient to accommodate us. However, the cause is practically new here, but looks encouraging, as we only commenced to meet in July. Brethren C. Maynard, C. L. Hanan, and William E. Eckenrode made a call through our daily papers for the loyal disciples to meet at that place every Lord's day; Bible study at 10 A.M. and preaching at 11 A.M. The scattering members continue to come in. I was favorably surprised when I returned from a trip through Missouri and Arkansas to see the call and the grand work started

Why Suffer?

Rheumatism is very annoying and at times very painful, and yet a great many who are suffering from it in one form or another are neglecting its treatment. Rheumatism, if allowed to go on unchecked, becomes a very serious disease and in many cases results fatally. Put an end to your suffering at once by taking "Renwar." Write to the Warner Drug Company, Nashville, Tenn., for proof that "Renwar" is the one remedy that will positively give relief from rheumatism. It is sold on a money-back guarantee of satisfactory results. Sold by drug stores at fifty cents per bottle, or direct, postpaid, upon receipt of price.

here. Brethren, if you can assist us in this time of need in our effort to plant the cause permanently in this sectarian city, it will be a grand work for the cause of the Master. So let us work and pray together for the advancement of the cause of the Master. Any remittance you may send us, kindly mail to C. L. Hanan, 320 West Okmulgee Avenue, Muskogee, Okla., and same will be acknowledged by him.

D. E. LOGAN.

Invigorating to the Pale and Sickly.

The old, standard, general strengthening tonic, Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic, drives out malaria, enriches the blood, and builds up the system. A true tonic. For adults and children. Fifty cents.

GOSPEL ADVOCATE

AND

HOME AND FARM

$1.75 FOR ONE YEAR

For thirty-six years Home and Farm has been the leading farm paper in Kentucky, the South and Southwest. To-day it is stronger and better than ever and is of great value to every farmer.

The Gospel Advocate and Home and Farm have been clubbed for several years with much satisfaction and profit to our readers. We furnish the two papers for one year for $1.75 to new subscribers or renewals.

Gospel Advocate Publishing Company,
NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE

WHY NOT TRY POPHAM'S ASTHMA MEDICINE

Gives prompt and positive relief in every case. Sold by druggists. Price, $1. Trial package by mail, ten cents.

Williams Mfg. Co., Props., Cleveland, O.

Notes from West Tennessee.

BY JOHN R. WILLIAMS.

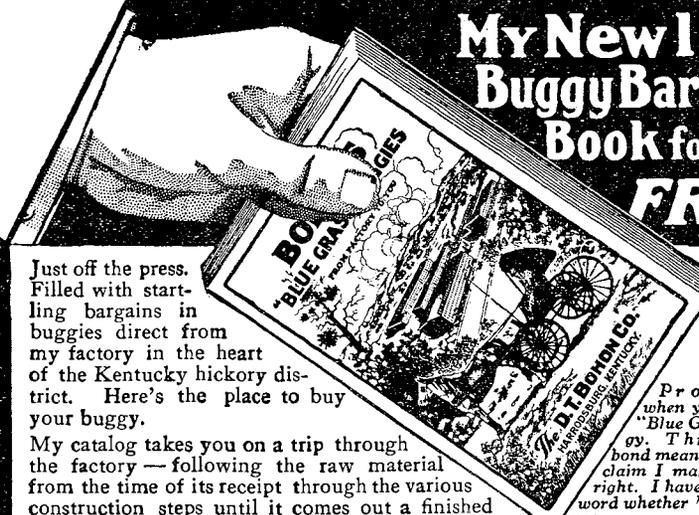

Last Saturday I went to Rehoboth, and preached Saturday night, Sunday, and Sunday night to small audiences. Subject on Saturday night, "Evil Speaking;" at 11 A.M. Sunday, "Self-denial;" Sunday night, "The Honest Heart"—the one that hears the word, holds it fast, and brings forth fruits with patience.

Many people are honest in their dealings with their fellow-men that are dishonest with themselves and with God. If a man is honest with himself and with God and thinks that I, too, am honest, how can he call me a "Campbellite?" Were I to call a Baptist a "Mormon," that would be evidence of my dishonesty or that I did not think him to be honest. If a person believes that I am both a "Campbellite" and dishonest (and this is just about what our religious neighbors believe), he certainly should have some sympathy for me in that condition, and, instead of rash criticism, he should try to teach me the truth and lead me out of such a condition into the light—salvation—the remission of sins. To call a man a liar when he honestly thinks he is telling the truth does not make a fellow feel very good. There are two classes of people in West Tennessee that call us "Campbellites"—those that are honest and those that are dishonest. Some people honestly believe there is such a church and that all members of it are "Campbellites." They have been told such by those they believe to be truthful and honest, and, being honest themselves, call us "Campbellites." The dishonest class know better; they know that Campbell never organized or started a church, but that his plea was a restoration of the church as it was when left to the world by Christ and the apostles. If Christ built his church (and he said he would), he certainly built it and left it in the world just like he wanted it. If Campbell or any other man started another church, it was because they thought they could improve on the one Christ built and give to the world a better one.

Some time ago a young "divine" drew up a proposition for debate and sent it to me to sign: "The Campbellite Church, of which I, John R. Williams, am a member, is scriptural in origin, doctrine, and practice." If that preacher was honest with himself and with God, he knows too little to recognize in debate; if dishonest, but little good, if any, could be expected to result from a debate with such a man. If a man considers me to be dishonest, why should he desire to engage me in public discussion? If I am both a

Here It Is!

My New 1916 Buggy Bargain Book for You FREE

Just off the press. Filled with startling bargains in buggies direct from my factory in the heart of the Kentucky hickory district. Here's the place to buy your buggy.

My catalog takes you on a trip through the factory—following the raw material from the time of its receipt through the various construction steps until it comes out a finished buggy. Illustrated in colors from photographs of buggies. Hundreds of dandy testimonials and pictures of pleased customers from everywhere who have bought

BOHON'S "BLUE GRASS BUGGIES" AT FACTORY PRICES.

These buggies are built by experts. The "Blue Grass" is the easiest riding, lightest running buggy on the market. The very best material is used. Genuine second growth, straight grain Kentucky split hickory is used. Full wrought gears doubly braced. Easy riding, French head, French point springs. Special light running 2000 mile axle. Upholstered in Bohon's hand-buffed auto leather. Guaranteed waterproof top.

Everything that can be put into a buggy to make it durable, easy riding and luxurious is found in my "Blue Grass." Yet my factory price to you is so low that I can save you $25 to $50. And you don't have to buy my buggies on faith or take my word for anything, either. Bohon's "Blue Grass" buggies are guaranteed for life and backed by a $30,000 Bond.

Try One On Your Own Roads for 60 Days Then Decide Whether You Wish To Keep It.

This gives you time thoroughly to test my "Blue Grass" Buggy. Try it on rough roads and at high speeds. If the good old "Blue Grass" shows a flaw let me know and I'll take it back. I'll pay freight both ways. So the fair trial doesn't cost you a cent. Nobody could make a fair offer like this unless he knew he had a buggy that was absolutely right in every respect. I also have a complete line of harness and pony vehicles and harness.

Write for the Free Book.

Read it and you'll realize I haven't told you half the story here. You'll see buggies so handsome and high grade you'll wonder how I can sell them at the prices I do. If you are buying a buggy or thinking of buying one this big bargain book will save you money. Write for it.

D. T. BOHON,
987 Main Street Harrodsburg, Ky.

My $30,000 Guarantee Bond
Protects you when you buy the "Blue Grass" buggy. This monster bond means that every claim I make must be right. I have to keep my word whether I want to or not.

"Campbellite" and dishonest, every time I deny being a "Campbellite" I tell a lie; then, if I am neither, what does the fellow tell when he says I am both? God has prepared a place for all liars, and the terrors of that place, as described in the Bible, should cause some people to be more truthful than what they are. It is a sin in the sight of God to be a "Campbellite;" to be one and deny it adds sin to sin—the sin of lying to the sin of being a "Campbellite." There is literature being scattered over Lake and Obion counties with just such charges. "They are Campbellites, know they are Campbellites, and deny it." So you see how the matter stands in West Tennessee—not only "Campbellites," but liars. Pretty tough, brethren.

Subscribe for the Gospel Advocate and keep posted.

Response to "Information Wanted."

In the Gospel Advocate of March 9, the elders of the church at Largo, Fla., advertised for information as to the whereabouts of Brother W. F. McMullen, who left Largo last December. In response, I beg to inform all persons interested that Mr. McMullen is traveling, and his present address is Pensacola, Fla., and that he will, I am sure, answer any inquiries addressed to him. MRS. W. F. McMULLEN.

Stops Tobacco Habit.

Elders' Sanitarium, located at 513 Main Street, St. Joseph, Mo., has published a book showing the deadly effect of the tobacco habit, and how it can be stopped in three to five days.

As they are distributing this book free, any one wanting a copy should send his name and address at once.

Foot Comfort Assured—Brooklyn Man Solves the Problem.

It is no longer necessary to suffer agonies that are caused by misfit shoes. Simon's Ezwear Shoes are built to give every possible foot comfort. They are soft and stylish and do not need breaking in. They fit like the proverbial "old shoe" the minute you wear them. Every pair is guaranteed to give satisfaction and to fit perfectly.

Mr. B. H. Simon will gladly send a free catalogue of over 450 styles of Ezwear Shoes along with self-measuring blank to all who write him. Write for your copy to-day and make your feet happy. Address Mr. B. H. Simon, 1589 Broadway, Brooklyn, N. Y.

AGENTS $6 a Day

Should be easily made selling our Concentrated Non-Alcoholic Food Flavors, Soaps, Perfumes and Toilet Preparations. Over 100 kinds, put up in collapsible tubes. Ten times the strength of bottle extracts. Every home in city or country is a possible customer. Entirely new. Quick sellers. Good repeaters. Not sold in stores. No competition. 100 per cent. profit to agents. Little or no capital required. Elegant sample case for workers. Start now while it's new. Write today—a post card will do—FREE for full particulars

AMERICAN PRODUCTS CO., 4190 Third St., Cincinnati, O.

THE POCKET TESTAMENT LEAGUE

Pronouncing Vest Pocket New Testaments

The handiest, daintiest, and most useful edition of the New Testament published. It takes up little room and will really fit the pocket. Printed on fine paper from the largest type ever used in so small a book.

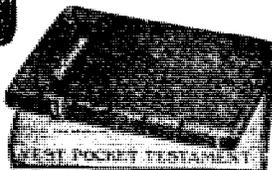

No. 2117 RL.

Size 2 3/4 x 4 3/8 inches.

Specimen of Type.

WHOSOEVER BELIEVETH THAT JESUS IS THE CHRIST IS BORN OF GOD; AND EVERY ONE THAT LOVETH HIM

No. 2117

Beautiful Colored Frontispiece in Each,
"Thy Word is a lamp unto my feet"

No. 2117 Bound in Ooze Tan Leather, flexible limp, gold side title, round corners, gold edges, containing membership certificate and suggested daily readings.

Single copies postpaid $.40

Per Dozen 4.00 carriage additional

RED LETTER EDITION

No. 2117 RL. Same as 2117 above WITH ALL THE WORDS OF OUR LORD AND SAVIOUR PRINTED IN RED.

Single copies postpaid $.55

Per Dozen 5.50 carriage additional

THE POCKET TESTAMENT LEAGUE

Is a world-wide organization of those who agree to honestly endeavor to read a portion of a chapter of the Bible daily, and to carry a Testament or Bible about with them. There are no fees of any kind and the aim of the League is to strengthen Christians and to win the unsaved to Christ by spreading God's Word. Members are therefore encouraged to give Testaments away to those who are willing to join the League and fulfill the conditions of reading a portion of a chapter each day.

Any person becomes a member of this League by securing a Testament and agreeing to the conditions set forth in the Membership certificate which accompanies each Testament.

For sale by the McQuiddy Printing Company, Nashville, Tenn.

Some Healthy Colorado Persecution.

BY E. C. FUQUA.

Since my splendid meeting in Olathe in January, because of a month's absence from Olathe in February, a strong opposition against me had been created when I returned. This was the effect of a "union meeting" held in my absence. Especial effort was made to influence those I had most influenced, and it was decided to lock me out of Olathe in the hope that, when I returned, I would leave the town for more inviting fields. This was done. So, when I returned and tried to get a house, I found all tightly locked. I appealed to the Odd Fellows. They held a meeting and told me I could have their hall for one dollar per night. I placed my advertisement in the paper and otherwise announced my meeting for Sunday night. Just before time for the meeting the Odd Fellows came to me and bluntly told me I could not have their hall, giving no reason for their denial. It became known that I was thus treated by the Odd Fellows and a strong feeling was created in my favor. I was urged to get a tent, and fully twenty vacant lots in the town were placed at my service for a tent meeting. I could not get a tent, hence seemed to be at my "row's end" in Olathe.

There was one hall, which had to be entered from a back-alley stairway to the second floor, which I decided to try for, though I was reluctant to invite people to climb these narrow, steep steps to hear me. I saw the proprietor (an irreligious man), and he told me I could have the hall at one dollar per night, and he would see that I was not locked out. I made a contract with him and again put out my "shingle."

The first meeting was to be on Sunday night. At eleven o'clock in the forenoon I preached at a schoolhouse five miles from Olathe, returning to Olathe in the afternoon, wondering what would be the result of my experiment. The persecution was bitter. Even an effort was being made to close schoolhouses in the country against me, and it was certain Olathe had been padlocked. I knew there were a number of people indignant at the treatment I had received, but I also knew the churches in the town were powerful and that public sentiment was a "goad" against which few desired to "kick." I was, therefore, undecided as to what to expect at my meeting.

I waited till 7:30 o'clock to go to the hall. When I reached there I was greeted by a large, enthusiastic audience representing the best people of

FRIENDSHIP ONLY 12¢ BRACELET LINK

STERLING SILVER ROLLED GOLD
Start a Friendship-Maid-Link-Bracelet, latest New York fashion. We start yours by giving you one link absolutely FREE engraved with 3 initials. Your friends give or exchange others. What more beautiful token or sentiment could be expressed. Send to-day for one or more LINKS (12c. each) stating initials and whether ROLLED GOLD, STERLING SILVER, BEADED or PLAIN design wanted and receive links with beautiful Black Ribbon Free so you can start wearing Links at once until Bracelet is complete. Write today. Start with Link we give you Free with first 12c. order or more.
Friendship Jewelry Co., Dept. 238, 83 Chambers St., N. Y.

the town, every seat being filled, planks placed around and filled, and some were standing or squatting along the walls—all eager to hear the discourse. I had the largest audience in the town. I preached on "The Use and Abuse of Organized Religion." I was given a warm reception at the close of the service and assured that the attempt to turn people from me had rather gained them in my favor. I announced meeting for every Sunday night in this hall—till we can do better.

At the schoolhouse meeting Sunday morning an automobile load of strangers came to hear me from California Mesa, having heard of the treatment I had received in Olathe. One of the men was a director of the schoolhouse near his home, and they invited me to preach for them next Sunday afternoon, assuring me the house would not be locked against me and that I would have a good hearing. That will make three sermons for next Sunday, covering twenty miles of travel. The Lord is turning the persecution in our favor. Let us have that tent, brethren, because it is imperative on this field. Outsiders have offered to help us get it, and surely the brethren should not stand back. We must have it at once.

The Potter Orphan Home.

BY J. H. HINES, SUPERINTENDENT.

We wish to thank our many friends who have so willingly stood by us from the very beginning of this great work. It causes us to thank God and take courage. The work has grown from the beginning. Brethren everywhere are becoming more and more interested as they learn of the Home and what we are doing to help the poor homeless children. And why shouldn't they? Surely there is not a member of the body of Christ who is not in perfect sympathy with us in this labor of love and is not willing to make a sacrifice to further the cause along.

One year ago we had eleven children in the Home; to-day we have twenty-four. We could easily accommodate one hundred more if we had sufficient means. As our number increases, our needs multiply.

Being confident that when the brethren learn of our many needs they will come to our rescue, I shall herein enumerate some of them. First, I desire to make mention of our farm, consisting of seventy-two acres. We intend to cultivate it this year, and will need some farming implements, such as plows, hoes, drills, and harrow. It might be well to mention seed of all kind, too. Our next needs go for the comfort, protection, and health of the children, which are sheets, pillow-cases, towels, shoes, pants, aprons, hats, etc. But there is one more need I wish to make mention of, and that is a cow. We have twenty-four children, and most of them very young. We should have no less than five cows here. Brethren, we are looking for one next month. Are you going to dis appoint us?

In our work we are striving to pre pare material for the good of hu manity and the glory of God. Won't you be one to help us? To him be the glory, praise, and honor.

Another Appreciation of Booker T. Washington.

BY ANNIE C. TUGGLE.

Some time ago I saw in the Gospel Advocate an article, entitled "An Appreciation of Booker T. Washington," that made a good and lasting impression upon my mind. The writer spoke of Mr. Washington's greatness as a leader, educator, and originator, and states the fact that he was not born great, nor did he have greatness thrust upon him, be cause he knew not his father and his mother—he was only a slave. The writer further states that he was not endowed with a great education in his youth, but afterwards became the greatest negro educator the world has ever known. To my mind, this is a clear case of "where there's a will, there's a way." I am now thoroughly convinced that it was his will power that enabled Mr. Washington to ac complish such a great work.

The last two clauses of the article concerning Mr. Washington spoke of his work being for the temporal rather than the spiritual uplift of the negro race and of the great benefits that would accrue if a like spirit could be aroused in the church of Christ to day for the spiritual betterment of the negro race. I believe if it is our will to arouse such an interest in the church, it can be done. But Mr. Wash ington did not do all of his work for

Sacred Songs sung by the most famous singers of religious music

—on—

COLUMBIA

DOUBLE-DISC

RECORDS

Records by Chautauqua Preachers' Quartet

Boys of the Old Brigade. (Parks.)	}	A1586
With—Church in the Wildwood. (Pitts.)	}	10 in.—65c.
Glorious Things of Thee Are Spoken. (Towner.)	}	A1582
With—What a Friend Thou Art to Me. (Main.)	}	10 in.—65c.
Hold the Fort. (Bliss.)	}	A1585
With—The Wayside Cross. (Palmer.)	}	10 in.—65c.
I Want My Life to Tell. (Lorenz.)	}	A1583
With—Why Did He Die?	}	10 in.—65c.
Let the Lower Lights Be Burning. (Bliss.)	}	A1584
Softly Now the Light of Day. (Gottschalk.)	}	10 in.—65c.

Columbia Graphophone Co.,
Woolworth Building, New York City.

GOSPEL TENTS

You will be doubly repaid if you will send for our complete catalogue of tents before placing your order, whether you are interested in a large tent for revival use or a small comfy tent for the children or a knock-about tent for camp ing purposes. We make all kinds, and they are all good.

Awnings for your home can be had from us at a figure that will please you. If better material, better workmanship, and prompt deliveries interest you, better write us to-day for prices.

INDIANA TENT AND AWNING CO.,
447-449 East Washington Street, Indianapolis, Ind.

his people in one day nor one year; but by his persistent effort and never-dying courage, day by day and year by year, succeeded in educating the heads and hands of the negro, and won for himself an honorable place in the whole nation.

In the Industrial Institute here at Silver Point we, too, are trying to educate the head and hands of the negro, plus his heart, and prepare him for this world and the world to come; and if Mr. Cassius and other brothers and sisters of the manifold grace of God fall in line with the school here and stick to it like Mr. Washington stuck to Tuskegee Normal Institute, this will be one of the great est institutions that has ever been known to man.

A CLEAR BRAIN and healthy body are essential for success. Business men, teach ers, students, housewives, and other workers say Hood's Sarsaparilla gives them appetite and strength and makes their work seem easy. It overcomes that tired feeling.

Pastors: WE publish Books, Pamph lets, Minutes, Sermons, Church Directories, Manuals and rebound books and magazines. Specialists in Church Envelopes. Write us for prices. 419 S. Third St. MAYES PRINTING CO., Inc. Louisville, Ky.

Cut This Out— It is Worth Money

Cut out this advertisement, inclose five cents to Foley & Co., 2835 Sheffield Avenue, Chicago, Ill., writing your name and address clearly. You will receive in return a trial package containing:

1. Foley's Honey and Tar Compound, the standard family remedy for coughs, colds, croup, whooping cough, tightness and soreness in chest, grippe, and bronchial coughs.

2. Foley Kidney Pills, for overworked and disordered kidneys and bladder ailments, pain in sides and back due to kidney trouble, sore muscles, stiff joints, backache, and rheumatism.

3. Foley Cathartic Tablets, a wholesome and thoroughly cleansing cathartic. Especially comforting to stout persons, and a purgative needed by everybody with sluggish bowels and torpid liver. You can try these three family remedies for only five cents.

Big Deal on Sterling Hose.

Big purchase direct from the mills on "Sterling" Half Hose enables us to offer them while they last at startling prices.

"Sterling" Hose are stainless fast dye—good, clean, selected cotton yarn, nice weight, full seamless double heel and toe, wide elastic instep, long loop-on elastic ribbed top, full standard lengths; come in any color wanted; one dozen to a box, solid sizes, 9 to 11.

Sent, postpaid, to any address in the United States for $1.40 per dozen Money cheerfully refunded if not delighted. These hose are sold for and are worth 20 to 25 cents a pair in many places. Order to-day. The Bee Hive, Box F, Clinton, S. C.

DROPSY TREATED, usually gives quick relief, soon removes swelling and short breath, often gives entire relief in 15 to 25 days. Trial treatment sent free.
DR THOMAS E. GREEN Successor to
DR H. H. GREENS SONS Box H Chatsworth, Ga.

JACOBS & COMPANY

SPECIAL ADVERTISING
AGENTS

PRINTERS
DESIGNERS
PHOTO ENGRAVERS
ELECTROTYPERS

Catalogues
— a Specialty

HOME OFFICE:
CLINTON, S. C.

Another Letter from Brother Yohannan.

BY J. W. GRANT.

I am glad to say through the Gospel Advocate, to Brother Yohannan's friends and well-wishers, that on March 10 I received a short letter from him. Among several good things in it, two are particularly good to me. One, he has found his mother and sister; the other, he got my letter of November 20, with the draft representing my last remittance of eighty dollars to him.

But there are other good things, too; and although I shall not give all his letter, I shall give some quotations from it. It is from Charbash, his home village, and is dated in the heading "January 11," but the postmark on the envelope is January 23, indicating some delay in getting it started. He says:

I have received your welcome and kind letter, in which was the draft, for which I thank you very much, and for your love and kindness to me. Again I am giving thanks very much, that in this hard time in which we got plundered by the Mohammedans we are encouraged again to work in the field of the Lord. This is the duty of every Christian. I am preaching and teaching the gospel of Christ to the sinners. Paul says: "Necessity is laid on me; . . . if I do not preach the gospel." This is the duty of every Christian—to preach the word of God.

Last week I baptized two Mohammedan people into Christ on a good confession. The name of one is "Mosuni Aga;" of the other, "Hasan Aga;" they are brothers.

Give my best greeting to all brethren and sisters in Christ. Please, brethren, remember me in your prayers while we are in these terrible calamities.

I found mother and sister. Also, you wrote me about the congregation. We have some of the congregation in Oroomiah, some in Tiflis. Also we have worshiping place in my room. I built my home again. I preach to the congregation every two weeks, because they are not able to gather every week; they are too far away from my home. But we worship in my home every week, with my family and some others.

He also mentions that the war is now favorable to the Christians, because the Russians, who are Christians, have again taken control in that section; while the Turks, who are enemies to the Christians, have been defeated with great losses.

He mentions in his letter that he desires to come to America, but says he wishes me to advise him in the matter. I think he would better not attempt to come while the war is as it is at present, and shall so advise him. He says he will write me a long letter soon, and in that he may tell more in detail of his condition and surroundings.

I have on hand for him now fifty-seven dollars and fifty cents. As the other remittance reached him safe, I would be glad to send him more than the above next time. So I shall send this in a few days, and hope that others will join in the fellowship by sending to me a donation for him later. I will gladly receive and forward to him all that may be sent to me, and will receipt to each giver by postal card. Remember that my present address is J. W. Grant, West Station, Nashville, Tenn.

The Creoles of Louisiana,

the descendants of the original Spanish and French settlers, prided themselves upon their hair; and rightly they should, for it was they who first knew the secret of beautiful hair, the one great successful remedy for hair diseases and the greatest of all hair foods—La Creole Hair Dressing. The recipe was kept a profound secret by the race until about fifty years ago; but now you can reap the benefits of their early discoveries by using "La Creole" hair dressing, the very best dressing for keeping the hair fluffy, light, and beautiful.

This wonderful preparation of the Creole race not only cleanses the scalp from all disease and filth, but also renews the life of the hair; makes it light and fluffy; restores to the hair its natural color and original luster; and supplies the hair with oil, food which it requires. No house should be without it. Ask your dealer for it. Price, $1. Manufactured by Van Vleet-Mansfield Drug Company, Memphis, Tenn.

Better Than Spanking.

Spanking does not cure children of bed wetting. There is a constitutional cause for this trouble. Mrs. M. Summers, Box 195, South Bend, Ind., will send free to any mother her successful home treatment, with full instructions. Send no money, but write her to-day if your children trouble you in this way. Don't blame the child; the chances are it can't help it. This treatment also cures adults and aged people troubled with urine difficulties by day or night.

We have the earliest, big, high-class Strawberry grown; also the best one of the Everbearing Kinds. It bears the best-flavored berries from spring until snow flies. We grow two hundred choice varieties of Dahlias, Cannas, and Gladioli, and are offering bargains in many select combinations. Free booklet. Wakefield Plant Farm, Charlotte, N. C.

POTATO PLANTS.

Ten million genuine Nancy Hall, Porto Rico, and Triumph. Prices, 500 for $1.35, 1,000 for $2.50, postpaid and insured. By express, 1000 for $1.75; 5,000 to 10,000 at $1.60; 15,000 to 20,000, at $1.50 per 1,000. Plants ready April 1. Prompt delivery and good, strong plants guaranteed. Write for a descriptive price list.

PIEDMONT PLANT CO.,
Albany, Ga., and Greenville, S. C.

An Evangelist Wanted for Miami, Fla.

BY JOHN E. DUNN.

The little church at Miami desires to locate with it permanently a good gospel preacher to do the work of an evangelist. We have thirty-eight faithful members. There are about sixty in our classes in the Lord's-day Bible school. We have about as many children among us as there are members of the church. We have a neat church house, favorably located. Our church property is worth about four thousand dollars. There is a debt of one thousand dollars against the lot, which is held by one of the members. This debt will be paid by and by. What the church wants is a good, energetic worker to do the work of an evangelist in Miami and the regions around. They want him to give all of his time to the work of spreading the gospel, in season and out of season, publicly and from house to house, three hundred and sixty-five days in the year and seven days in the week. I have been corresponding with several preacher brethren, but all seem to want to come in the autumn, stay through the winter, and return north about May. We do not want this. We want a man all the year. The best time to reach the people here is during the time from April to October. There is a mistaken idea current that the summers here are oppressively hot. Owing to the delightful ocean breeze which is constant through the summer, it is more pleasant here than it is in Kentucky or Tennessee. A man is wanted to take up this work by the first or middle of May. Address John E. Dunn.

Childbearing.

BY D. N. BARNETT.

God told the first couple to multiply and replenish the earth. (Gen. 1: 28.) After destroying the world by water, he repeats the command to the eight souls, in Gen. 9: 1, and strengthens it in verse 7 by saying, "Bring forth abundantly." As God has not destroyed the human family since giving this command, and it having been given about twenty-five hundred years before the law, it is still binding. The New Testament reveals the same fact in 1 Tim. 5: 14. When the womb is not barren and the male is able to gender, it is the duty of every lawful couple, not only to bring children into the world, but it is their duty to bring them forth abundantly. Can we meet the approval of God in refusing to obey him in this more so than other commands, when every transgression and disobedience receives a just recompense of reward? (Heb. 2: 1-3.)

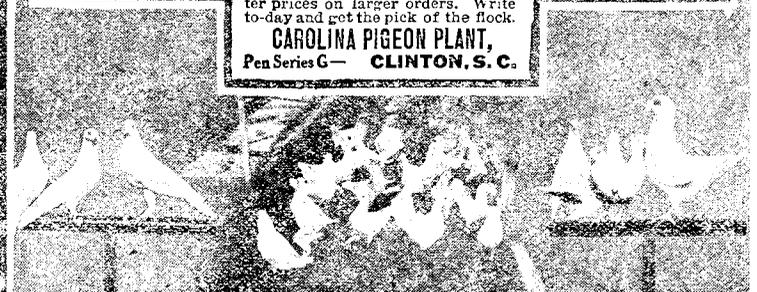

MONEY IN PIGEONS

Make Your Back Yard Profitable

THE demand for squabs in the Northern, Eastern and Southern markets has never been supplied, because pigeon raising as a business is comparatively new. Buy a half dozen pair of select birds, fence in a small portion of your back yard and watch them go to work. Success is easy. They raise from eight to fifteen pairs of squabs a year. Your squabs and fancy birds will bring handsome returns. You will actually make money in a hitherto useless part of your back yard. Pigeon raising is not a fad or fancy. It is a profitable business. Let us start you right. Our breeders are the best, and raised from prize winning parents. We will furnish you with the birds and teach you how to raise them, and you will reap a handsome profit with a very little outlay. Thousands are taking advantage of this same opportunity. Write to-day for our literature on pigeon raising as a money making proposition, or better still, write us to send you a few pair of Belgian Carneaux at $3.00 per pair, White Swiss Mondaines at $5.00 per pair, White Kings at $3.50 per pair, or White Maltese at $4.00 per pair. Our birds are all guaranteed. Your money back if after two months you are not satisfied with their work. Better prices on larger orders. Write to-day and get the pick of the flock.

CAROLINA PIGEON PLANT,
Pen Series G— CLINTON, S. C.

Get Your Machine at Half Price

$12⁹⁵

Five dollars brings you this high quality sewing machine, freight prepaid. Give it a thorough thirty-day trial; if you are entirely satisfied, pay for it in three monthly installments. If after thirty days you don't think it is the equal of any machine regularly sold at double the price, send the machine back; we pay the freight and return your money. This, in a nut-shell, is the big money-saving plan of the Religious Press Co-operative Club.

Get our catalogue and investigate fully the six splendid bargains in high-grade sewing machines offered you under these terms. These machines are all fully warranted for ten years—during this period we replace free any defective parts. Prices range from $12.95 to $27.80. Not "cheap" machines, but absolutely the best that can be manufactured at the price—machines that you would have to pay twice as much for from agents or at retail stores. They are all sold under the same plan—

Easy Terms—Thirty Days Trial

The Club represents the co-operative plan of buying. By agreeing to sell a large number of these machines, we secured from a highly reputable manufacturer prices very little above actual cost. In buying from us you get your machine at carload-lot prices, plus the very light expense of operating the Club. All middlemen's profits, agents' commissions, salaries, etc., are saved.

Send us this Coupon Today and get our catalogue. Let us tell you more fully about the Club Plan. Investigate the superb, easy-running, guaranteed machines that you can buy under this plan at half usual prices and on easy terms. Remember the thirty day trial feature. Simply cut out this coupon, write in your name and address and mail to us.

Religious Press Co-operative Club
113 W. Carolina Ave., Clinton, S. C.

FREE CATALOGUE COUPON

Religious Press Co-operative Club
113 W. Carolina Ave., Clinton, S. C.
Please send me your catalogue, and show me how I can save half the purchase price on a high quality sewing machine through the Co-operative Club Plan.

Name

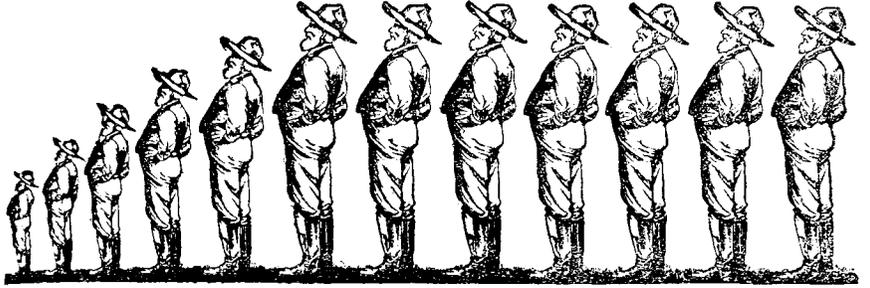

Address

All shall be punished with everlasting destruction from the presence of the Lord that obey not the gospel. (2 Thess. 1: 7-9.) Remember, Paul puts childbearing as a part of the gospel. Read Job 21: 7-13, and see what you get out of it. Verse 10 may have something to do with this subject.

V-C Fertilizers

V-C FARMERS

are a Power in the World of Agriculture. Every one of them has become a disciple of Greater Prosperity on the Farm through the proper and abundant application of V-C Fertilizers, thereby

MAKING THEIR SOIL AND CROPS PAY MORE

These thousands of Progressive and Prosperous Farmers represent an ever increasing Army of Permanent Soil Builders, hence enabling them to be constantly prepared by any demands made upon their Soil in the way of Better and Bumper Crops, thereby getting the most out of their acreage in Increased Profits. You can do the same. Therefore,

Why not V-C Now?

With a view of still further increasing this Army of Prosperity Builders we have issued, for Free distribution, a series of valuable and profusely illustrated Crop Books, wherein is clearly pointed out the V-C Way to Greater Prosperity on all Farms, no matter what Crops you grow. Simply indicate what Crops you are interested in on a Postal and we will send you Books Free.

ADDRESS:

Crop Book Dept. — V-C Fertilizers — Box JL 1616, Richmond, Va

Gospel Advocate

Volume LVIII.

NASHVILLE, TENN., APRIL 6, 1916.

Number 14.

Christian Preparedness.

At this time, when the air is full of prophecies of evil and when the nation is being urged to arm itself and get ready for war, it might be well to call attention to Christian preparedness as set forth in the words of Paul in his letter to the Ephesians, wherein he appeals for a preparedness quite different from that about which our belligerent Christians are now talking.

"Wherefore take unto you the whole armor of God, that ye may be able to withstand in the evil day, and having done all, to stand. Stand therefore, having your loins girt about with truth, and having on the breastplate of righteousness; and your feet shod with the preparation of the gospel of peace; above all, taking the shield of faith, wherewith ye shall be able to quench all the fiery darts of the wicked. And take the helmet of salvation, and the sword of the Spirit, which is the word of God: praying always with all prayer and supplication in the Spirit, and watching thereunto with all perseverance and supplication for all saints."—William Jennings Bryan.

In This Number.

ASSIGNED TOPICS

"PREPAREDNESS" LESSONS FROM MANY ANGLES, T. B. Larimore, J. T. Harris, John A. Klingman, B. F. Moody, George H. Porch, J. Porter Sanders, J. J. Horton, J. B. Nelson, Ben West, J. D. Floyd, J. F. Pendleton	330-335
HOW MUST I PREPARE FOR THE SECOND COMING OF CHRIST? J. Paul Slayden, M. L. Moore, J. D. Walling, H. M. Phillips, S. H. Hall	336-338
ESSAYS ON "PREPAREDNESS," Hinda Burton, Ruth Wilhoite	338
The Divine Preparation, F. W. Smith	339
Great Men Who Prepared Themselves, C. M. Pullias	339
Some Old Testament Lessons of Preparedness, R. C. Bell	340
Preparedness According to the Word, T. H. Burton	347
Preparation for Needy Fields, S. R. Cassius	358

EDITORIAL

How Calamity Teaches Prompt Action and Preparation, A. B. Lipscomb	342
Preparedness Against Unscriptural Innovations, M. C. Kurfees	343
"Be Ye Also Ready," E. A. Elam	344
The Great War's Lessons of Preparedness to Christians, J. C. McQuiddy	345

SELECTIONS

Christian Preparedness, W. J. Bryan	329
Spirit of Time and Age (poem), Tennyson	346
Preparedness in All Things, T. B. Thompson	350
Look to the Future (poem), Whittier	351

MISCELLANEOUS

The Murfreesboro Church and T. B. Clark	335
AT HOME AND ABROAD	341
The Fire Sufferers at Paris, Texas	341
THE MASTER'S VINEYARD	348
AMONG THE COLORED PEOPLE	354
FROM THE FIELD	356
Why Is It? John T. Pock	357
Memphis Notes, W. Halliday Trice	357
Tennessee Orphans' Home, H. W. Jones	357

“PREPAREDNESS” LESSONS FROM MANY ANGLES.

T. B. Larimore Exhorts: “Prepare to Meet Thy God.”

“Prepare to meet thy God” (Amos 4: 12)—a message from Jehovah to rebellious Israel—was written by an inspired prophet more than seven centuries before the birth of the Babe of Bethlehem, hence ages before the setting up, building, founding, establishing, of the kingdom, or church, of Christ on earth. While this was addressed, as its context clearly shows, to Israel, then in rebellion against God, it applies or may be applied to each, to every one, of us personally, just as the language of Solomon: “Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might; for there is no work, nor device, nor knowledge, nor wisdom, in the grave, whither thou goest.” (Eccles. 9: 10.) Have we prepared, are we preparing, to meet Jehovah? to meet the great I Am? to meet the Judge of “the quick and the dead?”

Even if we are to have “another chance”—“a chance after death”—to prepare to meet God, to prepare for eternity, this is an important question; but it is superlatively, infinitely, and peerlessly important, if now is the only time to make that peerlessly important preparation.

Personally, I am not very much interested in the “second chance”—the “chance-after-death”—theory, for I have resolved to try to do my very best all the remnant of my days on earth to prepare for eternity before I reach the end of my present pilgrimage.

Duty demands that all of us do this, regardless of whether we must prepare now or never; hence, and for other reasons, if I believed, independently of the Bible, the “chance-after-death” theory, I would never preach it.

About fifty years ago, “Ariel,” a book emanating from Nashville, Tenn., created a sensation in, and in the region round about, Nashville, and probably in other places. That book seems to have been written simply and solely to prove the proposition, “The negro has no soul.” I said then, and I say now, if I believed that proposition, unless I found it so taught in the Bible as to make it my duty to do so, I would never preach it; for such preaching, or teaching, could do no good, while it might do incalculable harm. Negroes, as well as white people, need all the restraining influences prevalent among them, to make them a blessing, instead of a curse, to themselves and others; but to make the negroes believe they are brutes, beasts, instead of human beings, would rob them of their strongest restraining influence. Therefore, if I believed that proposition, without Bible proof, I would never teach it. So say I of the “chance-after-death” theory. When we know a thing, if taught, may do much harm, but cannot do any good, we should certainly never teach it, regardless of our opinions and personal preferences, whatsoever they may be.

Regardless of all restraining influences, millions live lives of sin and shame. Despite all incentives to serve the Lord, comparatively few prepare to meet God. To teach people they may ignore him here, and, after death, prepare to meet him “over there,” is certainly to rob them of an important restraining influence and of a strong incentive to prepare for eternity now. Therefore we should certainly never preach that theory unless we are sure the Bible teaches it and duty demands that we preach it; and those who hear it should demand a plain, positive “Thus saith the Lord” on which to base their faith before they believe it.

The Bible nowhere says we shall or may have a chance to change our destiny after death; but it does plainly teach that we are to be rewarded according to what we do in the body—before death—not out of the body—after death. Paul, the peerless apostle, so believed and so taught; and he labored accordingly, too. The following is some of the much he says on the subject: “Therefore we are always confident, knowing that, whilst we are at home in the body, we are absent from the Lord: (for we walk by faith, not by sight:) we are confident, I say, and willing rather to be absent from the body, and to be present with the Lord. Wherefore, we labor, that, whether present or absent, we may be accepted of him. For we must all appear before the judgment seat of Christ; that every one may receive the things done in his body, according to that he hath done, whether it be good or bad.” (2 Cor. 5: 6-10.)

Therefore, so far as doing determines destiny, our destiny is determined by what we do in the body—before death; not by what we do out of the body—after death.

In confirmation of this, the Book divine says: “Behold, now is the accepted time; behold, now is the day of salvation.” (2 Cor. 6: 2.) Now is the time to prepare to meet thy God; and, if thou art a teacher in Christ, thou shouldest teach thy fellow-traveler to eternity so, whether thou art young or old, learned or illiterate. The period of our probation is too brief, eternity is too long, and the issues of life are too important for us to waste time and gender strife by contention over our opinions, personal preferences, or speculative theological questions.

Paul, the aged, wrote to Timothy, a younger man of God: “But foolish and unlearned questions avoid, knowing that they do gender strifes. And the servant of the Lord must not strive; but be gentle unto all men, apt to teach, patient, in meekness instructing those that oppose themselves; if God peradventure will give them repentance to the acknowledging of the truth; and that they may recover themselves out of the snare of the devil, who are taken captive by him at his will.” (2 Tim. 2: 23-26.)

To prepare to meet God, the Jews, under the Jewish dispensation, had to practice circumcision, rest every seventh day, and do various other things that we, living under a different dispensation, are not required to do. The infallibly correct, safe, and sure way for us to prepare to meet God is to hear the gospel, believe the gospel, repent of our sins, confess our faith in Christ, be buried with him by baptism into death, and raised up with him to walk in newness of life, and then walk in newness of life—live righteous lives, live as we ought to live, live as divinity directs and duty demands, under the leadership of the Lord, till the grave claims our bodies and heaven claims us. Prepare to meet thy God.

J. T. Harris Exhorts: “Prepare to Preach.”

A consecrated heart and life and a burning desire to win souls to Christ is the first preparation necessary to become a preacher of the gospel. Let it be proclaimed from the housetop that those who enter the ministry as a profession or as an easy way to get through the world will find themselves disappointed, and, besides, they will be a drawback to the cause of Christ.

Not infrequently do young men ask my advice about becoming preachers. I generally say to them: “Don’t become a public teacher, if you can help yourself; but if you feel that ‘woe is unto me, if I preach not the gospel,’ and if your conscience will not let you sleep at night while following some business avocation which would keep you from preaching, and if you are willing to sacrifice the association of loved ones at home, endure all kinds of hardness, and suffer many persecutions, that you may be a soul winner for Christ, then go at it.”

Brother John T. Poe once said to a class of young men at the Nashville Bible School, a number of whom expected to spend their lives preaching: “Young men, before you rise before an audience to attempt to preach, be sure you have something to say.” So qualification is a very essential preparation to preach the gospel. “And how shall they preach, except they be sent [qualified]?" (Rom. 10: 15.) "And the things that thou hast heard of me among many witnesses, the same commit thou to faithful men, who shall be able to teach others also." (2 Tim. 2: 2.) Then we should study each subject on which we preach, not only carefully, but prayerfully, that we may be able to present it just as it is revealed in God's word.

My advice to all young preachers would be: Shun the temptation to become a smooth speaker. But as no teacher can make a lesson plainer to others than it is to himself, he should study to get the truth thoroughly fixed in his own mind, and then how to present it in such a way as to make it plain to others.

John A. Klingman Exhorts: "Prepare to Give."

"For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth on him should not perish, but have eternal life." (John 3: 16.) "For ye know the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, that, though he was rich, yet for your sakes he became poor, that ye through his poverty might become rich." (2 Cor. 8: 9.)

When we give as God and his dear Son gave, then will our giving be acceptable. God prepared a body—the precious body of his Son—and Jesus gladly gave it as the only adequate sacrifice for the sins of the world. "Wherefore when he cometh into the world, he saith, Sacrifice and offering [of bulls and goats] thou wouldst not, but a body didst thou prepare for me; in whole burnt offerings and sacrifices for sin thou hadst no pleasure: then said I, Lo, I am come (In the roll of the book it is written of me) to do thy will, O God." (Heb. 10: 5-7.) God prepared a sacrifice for sins before he laid the foundation of the world. Jesus is represented as giving the matter serious consideration before he left the courts of glory in order to humble himself as a servant and give his life as a ransom for many. (Phil. 2: 5-8.) He was prepared to give because his meat was to do the will of Him that sent him. Abraham was prepared to offer Isaac because he in humble faith determined to do all that God required of him. And so in all cases where time, talents, and means were freely given to the glory of God, it was because of a ready and willing mind resulting from an entire surrender of self to God. This was the secret of the children of Israel's giving more than what was required for building the tabernacle. (Ex. 36: 6, 7.)

The churches of Macedonia, in their "deep poverty" gave "beyond their power," "of their own accord, beyond the expectation of the apostle Paul, because "they first gave their own selves to the Lord, and to us [Paul] through the will of God."

Why are so many parasites in the membership of the church to-day? Why do so many feel no responsibility in the work of the Lord? Why are so many willing to share the fruits of those who labor in the Master's vineyard, while they stand idle all the day long? It is because they come to Christ with selfish hearts, or because they left their "first love" since they obeyed the gospel. If they at any time presented their bodies as living sacrifices to God, they have since been fashioned according to this world. They are not longer laying up treasures in heaven, but upon the earth.

Too many, in becoming obedient to the faith, have only done so in form and not in heart. They did not consider that they enlisted in Christ's army for the purpose of living a life of unselfish service, being ready to give their lives for the Captain of their salvation, who gave his precious blood for them.

A great number of people are merely seeking to be on what they consider the safe side. They have not been immersed because they thereby died to sin and arose to walk in a new life. They merely wished to satisfy themselves that their baptism was scriptural in form. Some are taking the Lord's Supper every Lord's day, not so much to remember the Lord in his sufferings and death, but to ease the conscience in being able to say, "I have obeyed the Lord." They wish to rush through the matter. They can hardly wait until the meeting is over. There are too many songs. The talks, or sermons, are too long. They long for the worship (ordeal) to come to a close. Of course such people give because "it is a part of the worship" and "conscience must be satisfied" upon this point. But do they give as God gave, as Christ gave?

He who gives not at all, or who seldom gives, is a parasite who cheats himself because he has not grown spiritually. His life is borrowed life. He has only existed and robbed God, his brethren, and himself. He who has given "grudgingly, or of necessity," without heart and without sacrifice, will have his reward only in this life.

I have principally called attention to the preparation of the individual in heart and mind, but I believe this is the root of the matter. Every need will be supplied by a congregation whose members have learned this lesson. (2 Cor. 9: 10, 11.)

What I have said above may be termed "spiritual preparedness in giving." There is the practical side of the question, which should not be neglected. This, however, will be sure to follow. Those who really have given their lives unselfishly to God will not only be "furnished completely unto every good work," but they will see what work needs to be done. They will lay by in store as they are prospered, and be prepared to feed and clothe the needy, support the gospel, or do whatever work God has given them to do in his blessed providence. They will see "the door opened, which none shall shut," and ever be prepared to enter greater fields of usefulness.

"The widow's heart shall sing for joy;
The orphan shall be fed;
The hungering soul we'll gladly point
To Christ, the living Bread."

B. F. Moody Exhorts: "Prepare to Spend and Be Spent."

"And I will most gladly spend and be spent for your souls." (2 Cor. 12: 15.) An amazing utterance of devotion and love from the heart and lips of the apostle Paul; a beautiful portrayal of his innermost self; a demonstration of the fact that he had "emptied self of self" and had thrown himself unqualifiedly upon the altar of self-sacrifice, thereby practicing his own doctrine as given to him by inspiration—to wit: "I beseech you therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, to present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your spiritual service." (Rom. 12: 1.) And then he disaffectedly proclaimed: "Wherefore I take pleasure in weaknesses, in injuries, in necessities, in persecutions, in distresses, for Christ's sake." "For your souls." "I seek not yours, but you." (2 Cor. 12: 10, 14, 15.) Hence his preparedness.

From these sublime heights the apostle did not involve himself in inconsistency by instructing Timothy to "suffer hardship as a good soldier," because he was very forward in doing this thing himself. He was the right man to give this instruction, for he himself had imbibed freely. Paul, of course, was the greatest preacher, in some respects, at least, of his time or any other time; but he did not shun abasement, stripes, imprisonment, or death, nor a call to places of insignificance without pay. He spurned not to labor with his own hands if necessary. His preparedness did not lie in the fact that he was only able to profoundly instruct Timothy and other Christians on the whole counsel of God, on suffering hardships, sacrificing, making tents, and other points of godliness, while he himself was the occupant of gilded palaces, so to speak, made cross-continent trips only, and accepted calls from great churches and great brethren only. He seems not to have had so much confidence in either ordinary or big men's greatness, not even his own. He did not think himself of such moment, of such exceeding worth to the cause, that it would be a waste and extravagance of learning, experience, and ability for him to go and labor in new and destitute places, such as Macedonia, Achaia, the island of Paphos, Pisidia, Greece, Italy, and others, "for Christ's sake," "for your souls," "not yours, but you." Nor did he fear losing his standing with the brethren or that it would appear to the world that he was "losing out" or becoming a back number should he be reduced to common labor in order to live; but, to the contrary, he not only labored with his own hands for himself, but for others of his own company of laborers in the Lord, that he might not be a burden to the church at Corinth in its infancy, together with the other churches for which he labored. Nor did he fear making an appeal, as he most certainly did for the poor saints of Jerusalem, for himself and others.

Paul pathetically mentions these services to the churches to provoke them to a higher standard of Christian living, service, and love, denying any honor to himself, in order that they might drink from the fountain of the same Spirit and be fashioned into a true representation of, not a reflection and reproach upon, the mighty institution they were—the temple of God, for a habitation of God through the Spirit.

Paul tells us how he prepared to spend and be spent, as follows: "But I hold not my life of any account as dear unto myself." (Acts 20: 24.) "I have been crucified with Christ; and it is no more I that live, but Christ liveth in me." (Gal. 2: 20.) "I die daily." (1 Cor. 15: 31.) From these passages the divine formula is given by which Paul was prepared to "spend and be spent." When we reach these heights and hold them, that we hold not our lives as of any account as dear unto ourselves, our farms, bank accounts, eminence secularly, ease, our families beyond an ordinary living, fathers, mothers, brothers, sisters, wives, children, houses and lands, and let Christ live within us instead of our own dear selves, then our preparation is consummated, and a vast deal of embarrassment, corruption, and spiritual death will be purged from within the kingdom of God upon earth.

Paul tells us more specifically how we may prepare to spend and be spent. "Put to death the deeds of the body." (Rom. 8: 13.) "Put to death . . . your members which are upon the earth: fornication, uncleanness, passion, evil desire, and covetousness, which is idolatry." (Col. 3: 5.) "Set your mind on the things that are above, not on the things that are upon the earth. For ye died, and your life is hid with Christ in God." (Col. 3: 2, 3.)

Unlike Paul, we reach this lofty sphere of preparation step by step—"line upon line, precept upon precept." The contradistinction apparent in the comparison of Paul's life with ours lies in the fact that he reached his preparation by inspiration. We must grow into this sublime atmosphere by a patient continuance in well-doing, by adding to our faith, virtue, knowledge, temperance, patience, godliness, brotherly kindness, charity.

Of course this preparation involves the proper beginning—the primary preparation. We must begin with a clean sheet. The painting must be upon the proper canvas. The gem must have an appropriate setting. The background of such a life must be harmonious with such a life. Hence we must have been "born again," must be "born of water and the Spirit." (John 3: 5.) We must be "a new creature." (2 Cor. 5: 17; Gal. 6: 15; Eph. 2: 15.) Then the gem has its setting, the canvas is cleared, the background is right. We begin as a newborn babe in Christ the growth of Christian manhood. Hence our preparation to spend and be spent.

Geo. H. Porch Exhorts: "Prepare for the Lord's Day."

I know of no better way than to be busy about our Heavenly Father's business every day in the week; and to do that, we must add to our faith all the Christian graces found in God's divine will. To add these graces, we must know what they are. Therefore we must study God's holy word to learn them. If Christians discharge the duties that God has enjoined upon them every day in the week, they will be glad when the Lord's day comes, and will be anxious to come together to break bread and to show the Lord's death till he comes; but if we are careless and indifferent and fail to do our duty through the week, we will not be anxious about the Lord's day, but will get up late, then spend our time reading the morning paper, and especially the comic section, forgetting that Paul said that when he was a child he thought as a child and spoke as a child, but that when he became a man he put away childish things. If we could realize the goodness and mercy of God and his tender love for poor, sinful man in that he gave his only Son, Jesus Christ, to suffer and die for the sins of the whole world, we would all be more concerned about preparing for the Lord's day, the first day of the week, the day the Lord rose from the dead, bringing life and immortality to light through the gospel, and the day on which he met with his disciples and said, "Peace be unto you." He has promised to be with us when we are gathered together in his name. I do not know of any place I had rather be on this earth than to be with the brethren and sisters when they are gathered together on the Lord's day to worship God and to partake of the emblems of the body and blood of our blessed Lord, showing his death till he come. When I think of how he must have suffered when the nails were being driven through his hands and his feet, and that it was done that men might be saved, I feel that I have not done as much for the cause of Christ as I should have done; but as I grow older I want to do better, and will try to be prepared for the Lord's day.

J. Porter Sanders Exhorts: "Prepare Thine Heart."

In order that we may get as comprehensive a view of this subject in as brief an article as possible, I will raise the following questions and answer them seriatim: (1) Is this preparation indispensably necessary? (2) What is the heart that is to be prepared? (3) How is this preparation of heart to be accomplished?

1. At the present time it seems that considerable study is being given to the question of preparedness in military and naval affairs. It is being discussed pro and con by the learned of our government. It shall not be my purpose in this article to say whether preparedness is best or not best, so far as the prevention of carnal warfare is concerned. I will say, however, with all the force and emphasis possible, that preparation of heart is an indispensable prerequisite to salvation, both from alien sins and eternal destruction. The heart must be purified, cleansed, changed, and prepared before salvation from sin can be enjoyed; and it must be kept pure, clean, and prepared, if we would be successful in anchoring our souls into that port and haven of eternal and ineffable bliss, joy, and happiness. Our blessed Redeemer, who is acknowledged by friends and foes to have taught the purest system of morality and ethics of any being that ever lived, said: "Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shall see God." (Matt. 5: 8.) The word "see" is not used in the sense of seeing with the eye, for in that sense all will see God. It is used in the sense of "enjoy." "Blessed" means "happy." If we are pure in heart, will we not be prepared in heart? Certainly. Happy are the pure or prepared in heart, for they shall enjoy God. Can you not see the necessity of this preparation? If we are pure and prepared in heart, we will be permitted to dwell with God in the never-ending cycles of eternity. We will be given a future and eternal home according as we are fitted and prepared in heart, life, and character to receive and enjoy. We must become assimilated in heart and character to those who will make up and constitute the society of heaven. The impure and unprepared in heart could not be happy with the society of which heaven will be composed. It has been said that our thoughts become acts, acts become habits, habits make character, and character fixes destiny. Hence our eternal destiny will be determined by the condition of our hearts at death. We cannot act until we think; and as we think, so will we act. "For as he thinketh within himself, so is he." (Prov. 23: 7.) "Keep thy heart with all diligence; for out of it are the issues of life." (Prov. 4: 23.) The heart leads the life as the steam does the locomotive. We cannot ascend higher than our thoughts. Life comes from the heart, and the lives we live determine our destiny; hence the great necessity of this preparation.

2. The Bible does not give technical definitions. It tells what anything is by telling what it does. The Bible tells us what love is by telling us that it consists in keeping the commandments of God. (1 John 5: 3.) Likewise, the Bible tells us what the spiritual heart is by giving its functions. When we say that the heart propels the blood to all parts of the body, what organ do we have reference to? The lobe of flesh in the left breast, of course. This is the work it performs. What does the spiritual heart do? Thinks (Matt. 9: 4); understands (Isa. 32: 4); believes (Rom. 10: 10); reasons (Mark 2: 6); loves (Matt. 22: 37). We learn that a man thinks, believes, reasons, understands, and loves with the heart. Now, would any one be so ignorant as to say that the physical heart understands, reasons, and believes? These things can be attributed to no part of the human structure except the mind or intellect. The spiritual heart is the seat of the affections or sensibilities. (Matt. 6: 21.) It is sometimes used with reference to the entire spiritual or inner man. (1 Pet. 1: 22; Matt. 22: 37.) The heart to be prepared is the mind, the spiritual or inner man.

3. In conversion, or turning to God, the heart is the first thing to be prepared. How is this to be done? "And he made no distinction between us and them, cleansing their hearts by faith." (Acts 15: 9.) "Seeing ye have purified your souls in your obedience to the truth." (1 Pet. 1: 22.) When we believe the truths of the gospel of Christ, our hearts are purified, changed, or prepared. When we repent or turn, our lives are prepared; and when we are immersed, our relationship is changed and prepared for a holy, godly, and righteous life. But how about the condition of our hearts subsequent to conversion? Can they not become contaminated? Simon, the sorcerer, believed and obeyed the gospel, thus having his heart prepared for a holy life; but it subsequently became contaminated by the retention of evil thoughts. (See Acts 8: 21.) Our Savior teaches that we must keep impure thoughts from accumulating in our hearts. "But I say unto you, that every one that looketh on a woman to lust after her hath committed adultery with her already in his heart." (Matt. 5: 28.) We must control our thoughts, if we would keep our hearts properly prepared. Paul said to Timothy: "Keep thyself pure." (1 Tim. 5: 22.) Paul told the Philippian brethren how to keep their hearts prepared: "Finally, brethren, whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honorable, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things." (Phil. 4: 8.) "Set your mind on the things that are above, not on the things that are upon the earth." (Col. 3: 2.)

Let us keep our hearts, minds, souls, and lives pure, clean, holy, and prepared. By so doing we will receive a hundred-fold in this life, and, in addition thereto, eternal life in the mansions prepared. "And there shall in no wise enter into it anything unclean, or he that maketh an abomination and a lie; but only they that are written in the Lamb's book of life." (Rev. 21: 27.)

Dr. J. J. Horton Exhorts: "Prepare Your Bodies."

It has fallen to my lot to write on "Preparation of the Body" in order to the most efficient service to our God.

First, in all worldly avocations in life, men in authority look out for the men and women who have strong, healthy bodies. They demand of their employees strict observance of temperate habits, that they may obtain the best of service. Does not our God demand as much—yea, more—of his servants? Hear Paul: "I beseech you therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, to present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable to God, which is your spiritual service." (Rom. 12: 1; read verse 2.) Should we, then, present our bodies to God all polluted with sin and uncleanness, and expect our services to be well-pleasing to our Father in heaven? Let us hear Paul again: "Know ye not that your body is a temple of the Holy Spirit which is in you, which ye have from God? and ye are not your own; for ye were bought with a price; glorify God therefore in your body." (1 Cor. 6: 19, 20.)

Let me kindly admonish every child of God to look well to how we care for our bodies, as our God is a jealous God, and visits the sins that we fathers and mothers commit against our bodies, by inheritance, upon our innocent offspring, and they have to reap what we sow—bad blood and many diseases. Paul again comes to the rescue with the remedy we so many of us badly need to follow: "Let us cleanse ourselves from all defilement of flesh and spirit, perfecting holiness in the fear of God." (2 Cor. 7: 1.) Again: "Whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap." (Gal. 6: 7.) So then, beloved brethren, let us try to overcome every filthy, sinful habit that is detrimental to our bodies and that lessens our capacity to serve God to the very best advantage.

Some men render their bodies unfit for a temple of the Spirit and his presence, to a greater or less extent, by over-indulgence in eating and drinking, bringing on themselves indigestion and allied nervous disorders. Others lower their vitality and render themselves unfit to serve God, to a greater or less extent, by the slavish use of tobacco in its many harmful forms. It injures its victims in untold ways. I must say that we have the least excuse, as God's children, for the perpetuation of this filthy tobacco habit of all others I can conceive of. You say, "Why?" First, because of the absolute uselessness of the habit. Second, its deadly poison lurks in its victim's blood, thereby poisoning his every nerve, and causing, because of its effects upon the brain, if long persisted in, a craving for stimulants, which leads to strong drink, and strong drink leads to all the harmful drug habits. May we all be delivered from these hurtful habits, that we may be delivered from the bondage of useless and sinful indulgences which mar our usefulness in the Christian life. Sad indeed is it to be called to the relief of those whose bodies have been made unfit for the Master's use by some of the above-mentioned habits. When we behold the victim of a misspent life of indulgence in that which was wrong, we can then see, as we can in no other way, the helpless and the hopeless condition of those who have given way to the gratification of the fleshly appetites.

So, in conclusion, let me say that the best way to prepare the body for God's habitation is to keep it clean of all filthiness of the flesh and spirit, perfecting holiness in the fear of God. This can be done by each one of us daily presenting our bodies living sacrifices to God, also holy sacrifices to God, not unholy and full of filth and sin. "To him that knoweth to do good, and doeth it not, to him it is sin." "Wherefore, my beloved brethren, be ye steadfast, unmovable, always abounding in the work of the Lord, forasmuch as ye know that your labor is not in vain in the Lord." The Christian who keeps his or her body, by self-control in all things, in the highest state of health and vitality, can and will be of the greatest good to our Savior's cause. Remember the potter and the clay. God makes the best he can of us out of the bodies we present.

J. B. Nelson Exhorts: "Prepare to Win."

Prepare: To fit; adapt, or qualify for a particular purpose or condition; to make ready. Win: To labor, fight, endure; to gain the victory; to be successful; to triumph; to prevail.

The following passages give to us God's idea of preparedness for the Christian warfare and to finally gain a place in that mansion above, where Christ has gone to prepare a place for all who are prepared: "I beseech you therefore, brethren, by the mercies of God, that ye present your bodies a living sacrifice, holy, acceptable unto God, which is your reasonable service." (Rom. 12: 1.) "What doth the Lord thy God require of thee, but to fear the Lord thy God, to walk in all his ways, and to love him, and to serve the Lord thy God with all thy heart and with all thy soul?" (Deut. 10: 12.) "Neither have I gone back from the commandment of his lips; I have esteemed the words of his mouth more than my necessary food." (Job 23: 12.) "Finally, my brethren, be strong in the Lord, and in the power of his might. Put on the whole armor of God, that ye may be able to stand against the wiles of the devil." (Eph. 6: 10, 11.) "Study to show thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth." (2 Tim. 2: 15.) "Preach the word; be instant in season, out of season; reprove, rebuke, exhort with all long-suffering and doctrine." (2 Tim. 4: 2.)

Any member of the church of Christ who will put into practice the above scriptures will be prepared to win, not only the conflicts of this life, but an eternal victory in the everlasting kingdom of God.

It takes more than the first principles of the gospel to qualify one to win. No preacher is prepared to win souls for Christ who does not use wisdom in his preaching. Prudence and discretion go far toward winning battles of the Lord. It is one thing to have knowledge and another very important thing to know how to use it. Wisdom is that gift of God that enables one to use knowledge.

An evangelist, elder, or any other Christian who does not live the proper life is unprepared to win souls for Christ, feed the church, or be the recipient of heaven's rewards. The army of the Lord is weakened by men who put themselves forward as leaders, teachers, and preachers, whose lives are such that they overthrow their own work and bring the church into disrepute. No man can win who does not tell the truth, pay his debts, and live above reproach. When a teacher of the word of God does not know his place among women, defrauds his brethren and slanders good men who try to get him to repent, and uses vulgar language, he need not expect to win anything for himself or for the cause of Christ. What is true in regard to public men is also true of all members of the church. O, for a clean pulpit and a clean pew! Keep the pulpit and pew clean, and we will march on to victory and eternal glory.

Be prepared in life, in knowledge, in wisdom, in zeal, in fidelity, in love, and the battle you will win.

"Any man who loves his work does not mind the heat and the cold." The day does not get too cold nor too hot for the true man of God to go forth to discharge his duty. He will break the ice to baptize, he will go through the rain to break bread. This is true, genuine preparedness. No man will succeed who does not love his work and feel that it is of great value. "The service of love is the only service that power cannot command and money cannot buy." (Prescott.) The devil cannot overthrow the service of love. It was our Savior who said: "What king, going to make war against another king, sitteth not down first, and consulteth whether he be able with ten thousand to meet him that cometh against him with twenty thousand?" (Luke 14: 31.)

The Christian who lives as God directs and is continually hungering and thirsting after righteousness, trusting and leaning upon him, will have God and all of heaven's host on his side; so he need not fear the armies of the Philistines, or the Amalekites, or all of the devil's forces, with their apparent giant strength or intrigues. He will win, because he is prepared to win.

Ben West Exhorts: "Prepare to Live."

We have often heard the exhortation, "Prepare to die." The better and real should be, "Prepare to live." Life is preparation, not pursuit. Working out of the life that now is, is the higher degree of life that follows beyond the grave. Jesus came that we might have life, and have it more abundantly. "More abundantly" is in greater degree than we can hope to have in this world. So it follows that we are to live in higher degree of life than here. True, some will not get to enjoy the better life, because "ye will not come to me, that ye might have life." Jesus assured Thomas and us: "I am the way, the truth, and the life." And Mary and Martha found comfort in this: "I am the resurrection and the life." Paul said: "For to me to live is Christ, and to die is gain." Again: "I am crucified with Christ: nevertheless I live; yet not I, but Christ liveth in me." Luther, in answer to a man in front of his door, who asked, "Who lives here?" said: "Christ lives here." So Jesus lives in us. Preparing to live is to let Christ have complete right of way into our hearts and homes.

John the Baptist, the clear-headed product of Providence, came to "prepare the way," to let Jesus into the hearts of men. He was on the "Good Roads Committee." We like road and bridge builders, for they develop the country, and, like John, they are enthusiastically for what they are for. "Look to yourselves, that ye receive a full reward." We work out the problem in this life and get the answer on the other side of the river of death. "God . . . hath begotten us again unto a lively hope by the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead, to an inheritance incorruptible, and undefiled, and that fadeth not away, reserved in heaven for you [us], who are kept by the power of God through faith." A Christian is not at home in a barroom or ballroom; a barkeeper is not at home in a prayer meeting; he is not prepared for the association. "I go to prepare a place for you." It is prepared for those who prepare for it. The conflicts, obstacles, and vicissitudes of life all come in our preparation. "My God shall supply all your [my] need according to his riches." "God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble." "Very present" means extra close. "Let not your heart be troubled."

It took Moses eighty years to prepare to be Moses. It took Jesus thirty years to prepare to do three years' work. The doctor, lawyer, professor, athlete—all have to prepare for their work. So the Christian must prepare even for the fight to live here in this world. "Put on the whole armor." "Watch!" We may lose our hold on the Master. The most unsuspecting person in all the world lost Jesus—his mother; and she had gone a whole day's journey before she knew it. She found him where she lost him.

"Where is the blessedness that once I knew,
When first I loved the Lord?
Where is the soul-refreshing view
Of Jesus and his word?"

Back yonder where you left it. Some have to go back five years; others, ten, fifteen, twenty. "Prepare!"

J. D. Floyd Exhorts: "Prepare for Old Age."

The above is the subject assigned me for the "Preparedness" Number of the Gospel Advocate. Human life naturally divides itself into three periods—youth, manhood, and age. Old age is the normal condition of all, yet many, many do not reach it. Preparation for old age can only be made by right living in the preceding periods. Age naturally brings about certain conditions—sluggish actions, both of mind and body, among other things.

The old need food for the physical man to feed upon, mental food for the mind; and spiritual food for the spiritual man. To have these, in the days of strength one should be diligent in business, frugal, not stingy, and thus prepare for the days when the acquisitive powers will be weakened. There is nothing wrong in this particular in laying up in store a good foundation against the time to come. This can be done not only by hoarding means, but by being helpful to others. We have had in our village a most excellent man who runs a shop and does all kinds of repair work. In passing one day, I had him do a little job on my buggy. On asking the charge, he said: "Nothing but your good will." I replied: "That will not get meat and bread for the wife and children." "No," he replied, "but if I do enough jobs of that sort here, the people will not let us suffer." The older I get, the more fixed do I become of the opinion that the craze some have for change of locations is a mistake. Barring health conditions, one place is about as good as another. If the means of accumulation are not so good in one place, the calls will not be so great. The mechanic was right. If one lives a helpful life in one community until age comes on, that community, if necessary, will look after him. To reach old age without material resources is, indeed, pitiable, but not near so much as to reach old age without mental and spiritual preparation. A few words about two persons I knew will enforce this thought. The one was a man who spent the days of his strength in gathering together this world's goods. He never studied; never stored his mind with the knowledge to be found in books; never talked with men of intelligence; never gave a moment's attention to religious matters; and, hence, when the decrepitude of age came on, his only pleasure was the same as that of the worn-out horse—eating and drinking. The other was a woman whose span of life was nearly ninety years. In girlhood she became a Christian, and during her young womanhood, wifehood, motherhood, and widowhood she was unflinching in her service of the Master. She was a constant student of the Bible and other good books. Though bedridden for some years before her death, she was one of the happiest, most cheerful and contented persons I have ever known. She wisely prepared for old age.

J. F. Pendleton Exhorts: "Prepare to Die."

To be prepared to die does not mean simply and only that we are prepared for the hour and article of death; it means that we are to be prepared for the duties and responsibilities, the pleasures and the joys, the rewards of the state into which we enter by means of death.

To be prepared for greater work, or for a greater position in this life, means that we have been so trained in thought and service as to be able to meet the greater responsibilities and obligations, and to demand the greater rewards and honors, of the work or position sought.

To be prepared to die means that we have so used the means of grace God has given us as to honor and glorify him "in the church and in Christ Jesus"—to be able to enjoy the blessings and pleasures (and, for aught we know, to meet the needs of a greater service) that are to be ours after death.

The gospel of Christ is the only thing that can thoroughly prepare us for death; and, as for that matter, the only thing that can thoroughly prepare us for life. Paul tells us we are to have our "feet shod with the preparation of the gospel of peace." This expression indicates to me that we are not only to have the power and influence of the gospel in our own lives, but that it is our duty to carry it to others.

To those who accept and continue in the gospel is the promise that death is swallowed up in victory. God gives us the victory through Jesus our Lord. To those who obey the gospel—put on Christ—is the promise that they fall asleep in Jesus when they die, that the dead in Christ shall rise first, and so shall they ever be with the Lord. And again: "For we know that if the earthly house of our tabernacle be dissolved, we have a building from God, a house not made with hands, eternal, in the heavens."

Paul says our "citizenship is in heaven, whence we wait for a Savior, Christ Jesus our Lord." To be prepared to die, therefore, is to be prepared for citizenship in heaven—for the blessings and joys that await us there.

Men prepare for great events in this life—for great journeys, great responsibilities, great honors, etc. Why not, then, prepare for death, which ushers us into the next state of existence, where await us joys unspeakable; where the troubles, sorrows, and disappointments of life are displaced by pleasures unceasing.

If in this life we prepare for a "rainy day" by laying by something, why not lay up treasure in heaven, that we may be prepared to enjoy the "rest that remains to the people of God" after the toils and conflicts of life are over?

The Murfreesboro Church and T. B. Clark.

BY G. DALLAS SMITH.

The church at Murfreesboro, Tenn., has for the past ten months been supporting Brother T. B. Clark as a general missionary. We have been trying to answer some of the many calls from destitute places. The Murfreesboro church is quite well pleased with the work Brother Clark has done. We consider him well fitted for this kind of work. Last September we sent Brother Clark to Knoxville to assist the little band there. We have been expecting all along to call him out into other fields this spring and summer; but just as we were getting ready to call him out we were flooded with letters from members and friends of the little church in Knoxville, all requesting that we allow Brother Clark to remain there. His work has been so satisfactory that the brethren there think he is the man to continue it. They feel that it will greatly hinder the cause in Knoxville if he goes away now. After considering the matter well, we decided to yield to the earnest request of the Knoxville brethren and release Brother Clark, the Knoxville brethren feeling that they are now able to take up his support themselves. We all rejoice at the good work Brother Clark has done, and we feel that it will be difficult to secure a man to fill his place. But we hope soon to have another missionary in the field, for we have a number of calls for mission meetings. Many other churches should take up this kind of work.

A Splendid Book.

BY F. W. SMITH.

"The Lord's Day from Neither Catholic nor Pagan" is the title of a book of two hundred and sixty pages by D. M. Canright. Mr. Canright was for many years a leading preacher among the Adventists. He renounced that faith, severed his connection with the Adventist denomination, and has now for a number of years devoted his splendid powers to a clear, full, and complete exposition of Adventist doctrine. This book is worth its weight in gold and should be in the hands of every preacher and in the homes of all the people. Send to the Fleming H. Revell Company, New York, for a copy. Net price, one dollar.

How Must I Prepare for the Second Coming of Christ?

Some Safe and Sane Expressions.

J. Paul Slayden, of Nashville, Tenn., Says—

When Christ ascended into heaven, two men in white apparel appeared to the wondering multitude and said: "Ye men of Galilee, why stand ye, looking into heaven? this Jesus, who was received up from you into heaven, shall so come in like manner as ye beheld him going into heaven." (Acts 1: 11.) The dwellers on earth will be absorbed in the things of this life as they were when destruction rushed upon them in the days of Noah and Lot, and the coming of the Son of man will be as the lightning when it flashes from one part of heaven to the other. He will come as a thief, and will render vengeance "to them that know not God, and to them that obey not the gospel of our Lord Jesus." (2 Thess. 1: 8.) My preparation must anticipate that great event and must be of a quality described negatively and positively by the Master so forcibly that I cannot fail to understand.

No Preparation or Half-hearted Preparation. I am fearfully warned against making no preparation by the example of the evil servant who so far forgot himself as to say in his heart: "My lord tarrieth; and shall begin to beat his fellow-servants, and shall eat and drink with the drunken; the lord of that servant shall come in a day when he expecteth not, and in an hour when he knoweth not, and shall cut him asunder, and appoint his portion with the hypocrites: there shall be the weeping and gnashing of teeth." (Matt. 24: 48-51.) Little better than this one are the five foolish virgins and the one-talent man illustrating this subject. The foolish virgins seemed to go joyfully to meet the bridegroom, unprepared though they were for the delay; and when at midnight they heard the cry, "Behold, the bridegroom! Come ye forth to meet him," they found in dismay that their lamps were going out. They were not ready to go in with the bridegroom to the marriage feast, and after a delayed preparation they heard him say, to their shame: "Verily I say unto you, I know you not." (Matt. 25: 12.) The one-talent man possibly deceived himself with the idea that he showed something of a commendable interest in his lord's affairs in that he hid his lord's money, expectant to that extent of his return. His preparation was wholly inadequate; his own estimate of his master would have driven him to deliver his lord's money to the bankers that he might receive, at least, the interest that accrued. He was ordered to be cast into the outer darkness—a wicked and slothful servant. The above reminds me by contrast of the preparation I must make.

Whole-hearted Preparation. I must be as the wise servant, who gave his lord's household their food in due season. I must be as the five wise virgins, who took oil in their vessels with their lamps, thus preparing themselves for the emergency which they actually faced in the tarrying of the bridegroom, and who entered in to the marriage feast, while others were making an unavailing preparation. I must be as the five-talent man and the two-talent man, who, when the reckoning day came, appeared before their lord with double the amount committed to them. The fruit of their own hands bore testimony to their regard for the absent master and to the claim which they realized he had upon them. The attitude of these was undoubtedly that enjoined by the apostle Peter: "What manner of persons ought ye to be in all holy living and godliness, looking for and earnestly desiring the coming of the day of God?" (2 Pet. 3: 11, 12.) I must be expectant and desirous of his coming. Some one said to me once: "You know nobody wants Christ to come." Only the fearful and unbelieving can fail to share the desire for that crowning day. The thought of the Master's appearing with his holy angels, the cleaning up, the new heavens and the new earth wherein righteousness dwells—which may be any time—offers a glorious prospect to stir the soul, make one watchful, desirous and ready to say with his whole heart: "Come, Lord Jesus." My efforts to serve the Lord will be commensurate with my desire for and expectation of the reckoning day. To be unmindful of his coming is to place too much store by earthly citizenship and to forget the Christian's great distinction: "For our citizenship is in heaven; whence also we wait for a Savior, the Lord Jesus Christ: who shall fashion anew the body of our humiliation, that it may be conformed to the body of his glory, according to the working whereby he is able even to subject all things unto himself." (Phil. 3: 20, 21.)

M. L. Moore, of Bowling Green, Ky., Says—

As a humble child of God, let me deal with this subject in all gravity. I must strive earnestly to please my loving Savior every day. Seeing myself as I am, I must look unto our Heavenly Father for his mercy, love, and grace, that I may become as humble in his sight as he would have me to be. In this humility that pleases him, I am to be ever looking for, and earnestly desiring, the coming of the day of God which brings the sweet promise of a new heaven and a new earth, wherein dwelleth righteousness. In this humility I must esteem others better than myself, and, in all events, follow the inspired teaching: "Let another man praise thee; a stranger, and not thine own lips." I must not say in my heart, "My lord tarrieth," and begin to make war on my fellow-servants, lest he come when I am not expecting and cut me asunder, appointing my portion with the hypocrites. I must ever so live as to let the Lord use me for his glory in all things. I must be able to see that I am not my own, but all that I have the Lord gives unto me. So, if my humble life shall ever amount to anything, the glory belongs to God, whose I am and whom I serve. I must, therefore, ask him daily: "What wilt thou have me to do?" Then I must read his word and strive to learn what is his will, rather than to prove that I am right and some one else is wrong. I must not become entangled in the affairs of this life, that I may please Him who has made me his soldier. I must not strive to please myself, but to please my brother for his good and upbuilding. Unselfishness is always necessary in preparation for meeting the Lord. He is my Savior, and I shall be glad to see him face to face, and tell the story, "Saved by grace." I must so live that, should he come to-day, I will have no change to make in my program. I cannot know when he is coming; but I thank the Father that I may be ready when he comes.

May the Lord help me to ever keep myself out of the way, that he may have room in my heart always. For when he rules me, I am right and cannot be wrong, since God does not err.

Then, to be ready for the second coming of Christ, I must not dispute with God in thought, word, or deed. I must often look into my own heart and ask that the beam be cast out of my eye, that I may see clearly to cast the mote out of my brother's eye. Thus living in hope of his return and fully consecrated to his service, I have no fear of death. Should I die before he come, I shall meet him just as I died. There is no change after death; for if the tree fall toward the north or toward the south, in the place where the tree falleth, there it shall be. May the Lord bless us in being fully prepared for his coming.

J. D. Walling, of Monticello, Ky., Says—

Stupendous question! Wonderful consummation! He is coming again: "Ye men of Galilee, why stand ye looking into heaven? This Jesus, who was received up from you into heaven, shall so come in like manner as ye beheld him going into heaven." (Acts 1: 11.) Notice, please, "so come" and "in like manner." Well, in what manner? They (the apostles) were "looking into heaven," "and a cloud received him out of their sight." In that manner he will "so come." "Then we that are alive, that are left, shall together with them be caught up in the clouds, to meet the Lord in the air: and so shall we ever be with the Lord." (1 Thess. 4: 17.) Coming in the clouds—meet him in the air—"so shall we ever be with the Lord." The living and the dead are with him in the air. Why come back to earth? He himself said: "In my Father's house are many mansions; if it were not so, I would have told you; for I go to prepare a place for you: and if I go and prepare a place for you, I come again, and will receive you unto myself; that where I am, there ye may be also." (John 14: 2, 3.) It occurs to me that there would be no occasion to return to the earth.

But when is he coming? "But the day of the Lord will come as a thief." (2 Pet. 3: 10.) "Looking for and earnestly desiring the coming of the day of God, by reason of which the heavens being on fire shall be dissolved, and the elements shall melt with fervent heat." (Verse 12.) Why should one want to return to earth? "But concerning the times and the seasons, brethren, ye have no need that aught be written unto you. For yourselves know perfectly that the day of the Lord cometh as a thief in the night." (1 Thess. 5: 1, 2.) Paul seems to think that a Christian would not set a particular time for the Lord's coming, but that he would know perfectly that he could not know that date. He seems to think a Christian should, at least, have that much knowledge.

For what is he coming? "Henceforth ye shall see the Son of man sitting at the right hand of Power, and coming on the clouds of heaven." (Matt. 26: 64.) "For the Son of man shall come in the glory of his Father with his angels; and then shall he render unto every man according to his deeds." (Matt. 16: 27.) "And to you that are afflicted rest with us, at the revelation of the Lord Jesus from heaven with the angels of his power in flaming fire, rendering vengeance to them that know not God, and to them that obey not the gospel of our Lord Jesus: who shall suffer punishment, even eternal destruction from the face of the Lord and from the glory of his might." (2 Thess. 1: 7-9.) He shall come to be glorified in his saints. Surely we should be ready. But is there an intimation of a thousand-years'-reign?

But how shall we be prepared? He will render "vengeance to them that know not God, and to them that obey not the gospel." Then, if you would be prepared for his coming and would be glorified in his saints, we must learn of him and obey his gospel. He said: "And why call ye me, Lord, Lord, and do not the things which I say?" (Luke 6: 46.) "And he said unto them, Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to the whole creation. He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved; but he that disbelieveth shall be condemned." (Mark 16: 15, 16.) The gospel is the truth to be preached. Those who obey not the gospel are to be punished with "eternal destruction from the face of the Lord, and from the glory of his might." Then all who believe and obey the gospel are prepared "for his coming. Therefore all who believe in Jesus as the Christ and are baptized upon a confession of their faith are prepared to be glorified in his saints. To such Paul says: "Whereas ye were servants of sin, ye became obedient from the heart to that form of teaching whereunto ye were delivered; and being made free from sin, ye became servants of righteousness." (Rom. 6: 17, 18.) "For the grace of God hath appeared, bringing salvation to all men, instructing us, to the intent that, denying ungodliness and worldly lusts, we should live soberly and righteously and godly in this present world; looking for the blessed hope and appearing of the glory of the great God and our Savior Jesus Christ; who gave himself for us, that he might redeem us from all iniquity, and purify unto himself a people for his own possession, zealous of good works." (Tit. 2: 11-14.) "Wherefore, beloved, seeing that ye look for these things, give diligence that ye may be found in peace, without spot and blameless in his sight." (2 Pet. 3: 14.)

H. M. Phillips, of Odessa, Mo., Says—

This question might be answered by saying, Do the will of the Father which is in heaven (Matt. 7: 21); but another question would naturally arise, which would be: What is the will, and how am I to know it? Since no one can be prepared for the second coming of Christ without coming to the Father, and all who come must come by Christ (John 14: 6), then it follows that I must learn how to come to Christ. This is done by hearing and learning of the Father. (John 6: 45.) Thus it would necessitate my being taught of God either by hearing or reading for myself. People of olden times were called noble because they searched the Scriptures. They were blessed by giving heed to the divine teaching of the apostles. So we to-day may be assured that God is no respecter of persons; but if we fear him and work righteousness, we will be accepted of him. (Acts 10: 35.)

Inasmuch as Christ is the way, I must get into him before I will be prepared for his second coming. Humble obedience to his laws will be my work through life to do this. He abundantly teaches for all to have faith. (Acts 16: 31.) This comes by hearing the word. (Rom. 10: 17.) All men are commanded to repent. (Acts 17: 30.) Each one must confess Christ in order to be confessed before the Father. (Matt. 10: 32.) Paul said the Galatians were baptized into Christ. (Gal. 3: 27.) These principles earnestly put into practice will place poor, sinful man into Christ, where he has remission of sins and the promise of eternal life, which makes him long for the Christ's return.

Because one has remission of sins and is in Christ is no reason why he should be careless in the Lord's work. I should always be abounding in the work of the Lord. (1 Cor. 15: 58.) Any work that he has taught me to do is the work of the Lord. He has commanded me not to forsake the assembly. (Heb. 10: 25.) I am to be with the faithful somewhere each first day of the week to worship God in spirit and in truth. It will do my soul good to sing praises to the great Redeemer, to pray to Him from whom all blessings flow, to feast upon the word that I may grow in grace and knowledge, to partake of the Lord's Supper in memory of Him who died that I might live, and to lay by in store as God has prospered me. All of these, except one, I may do every day in the week. There is no authority for partaking of the Lord's Supper any other time than upon the first day of the week. Every day of my life I should live soberly, righteously, and godly. (Tit. 2: 12.) In so doing, my light will be shining, so that others, seeing my good works, will glorify the Father in heaven. My life must be pure.

Jesus went to prepare a place for us. (John 14: 2, 3.) If we prepare ourselves for it, he will come and take us to himself. When he comes, he will reward every man according to his works. (2 Cor. 5: 10.) Those that have done good will be raised to life eternal, and those that have done evil to everlasting destruction. It behooves us all to watch and pray while it is day, for the Lord will come at a time we least think. If it seems a long time, just be patient till his coming. (James 5: 7.) Keep your heart with all diligence, and be sure to be unblamable in heart at his coming. (1 Thess. 3: 13.) There is no reason why we should be ashamed then, if we abide in him. (1 John 2: 28.) Let us fight the good fight, finish our course, and keep the faith, so that we, like Paul, will love his appearing, because we will then receive a crown of righteousness (2 Tim. 4: 8); and then when Christ comes in the clouds and the last trump is sounded, the dead in Christ will rise, and we which are alive will all be caught up in the clouds to meet him in the air, to ever be with him (1 Thess. 4: 16, 17). Then what a blessed thought that some sweet day, if I am prepared, I can be with and like Christ, not just for a day, but forever! May He with whom we have to do comfort and encourage us onward and upward in the great work of preparedness till we at last shall be ushered into the joys of the beyond.

S. H. Hall, of Atlanta, Ga., Says—

A most important question, indeed, is this; and may the Lord help me to write something that will be the cause of at least one more soul's being fully prepared for this glorious event. The following suggestions I submit, praying the Lord to bless them to the salvation of some soul:

1. I would say you must be in the Lord Jesus Christ, if you are to be prepared for his second coming. "And in him ye are made full," or "complete," says Paul in Col. 2: 10. In chapter 1, verse 28, of the same Epistle, he says: "Whom we proclaim, admonishing every man and teaching every man in all wisdom, that we may present every man perfect in Christ." It matters not how hard we strive, we can never be complete, made full, or perfect, if we stay out of Jesus Christ. Hence, "Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord from henceforth: yea, saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labors; for their works follow with them." (Rev. 14: 13.) We must be prepared to come when he comes, or to meet him in peace, if we are still on the earth when he comes. But only those who sleep in Jesus is he to bring with him, and only those who are in him on the earth when he comes can meet him in peace. (See 1 Thess. 4: 13-18.) He is to take vengeance on those who know him not and have not obeyed his gospel when he comes. (See 2 Thess. 1: 8, 9.) But if we have obeyed the gospel, we will be in him, for this is exactly how we get into him. (See Gal. 3: 26, 27; Rom. 6: 1-5, 17, 18.)

2. Not only must we be in Christ, but we must live in a continued state of watchfulness. Only those who look for him will be prepared. "So Christ also, having been once offered to bear the sins of many, shall appear a second time, apart from sin, to them that wait [or look] for him, unto salvation." (Heb. 9: 28.) We must not only look for this glorious event, but earnestly desire it. "Looking for and earnestly desiring the coming of the day of God," is the way Peter puts it. (2 Pet. 3: 12.) And Paul tells us that the crown is not only for him, but to all others who love his appearing. (2 Tim. 4: 8.)

3. It is certainly true that the day nor the hour we know not; but this necessitates our watching all the time, or, as stated above, living in a state of continued watchfulness. "But know this, that if the master of the house had known in what watch the thief was coming, he would have watched, and would not have suffered his house to be broken through." But he did not know, neither do we; hence there is no certain "watch" or hour in which to set his coming, but in every watch and hour we must be looking and longing for this glorious event. "Watch therefore: for ye know not on what day your Lord cometh." (Matt. 24: 42.) "But watch ye at every season." (Luke 21: 36.) "And what I say unto you I say unto all, Watch." (Mark 13: 37.) "He who testifieth these things saith, Yea: I come quickly. Amen: come, Lord Jesus."

Essays On "Preparedness"

By Two Nashville Bible School Students

The question of preparedness with the nation, with a standing army and navy, is one to which is devoted glaring headlines and the front pages of the newspapers throughout the land.

It has been said that there is no victory without a battle. It might also be said that no battle is executed successfully that has not been carefully planned in advance. The man who builds a house without considering the cost is not properly prepared. If so highly important with reference to the nation's policy of war or of peace, how much more important is this same question of preparedness when applied to our individual character and to our eternal destiny! "Wherefore take up the whole armor of God, that we may be able to withstand in the evil day." (Eph. 6: 13.) The parable of the ten virgins (Matt. 25: 1-13) illustrates the necessity of being prepared at all times.

The day of our death and of our being called before the judgment, though known to God, is not revealed to us; therefore we should always be found in the path of duty and thus through grace be ever ready and prepared to meet our God. (Amos 4: 12.)

HINDA BURTON.

"Prepare to meet thy God, O Israel." (Amos 4: 12.) There is a blessedness in preparedness. "Youth is the seed-time of life." If in youth we prepare ourselves for greater usefulness in the future, we are thereby the better enabled to receive the blessings that await us.

Noah was prepared to receive the blessings of God; for when he was commanded to build the ark because there would be a flood which would destroy all who were not in it, Noah built the ark, and God through him saved eight souls. What a blessing it would be if we would only so prepare our hearts to receive God's commands and be the means of saving other souls!

God never calls an idle person, but always one who is busy. When God called Gideon, he was beating out wheat in a wine press to hide it from the Midianites. When Elisha was called, he was plowing. So, in order that we be prepared, we must be busy, for an idler is never called.

If the five foolish virgins had supplied their lamps with oil instead of sleeping until the bridegroom came, they would have had the pleasure of entering in to the marriage with the five wise virgins; but when the bridegroom came, they were compelled to go away to buy oil for their lamps. When these foolish virgins returned, they found the door closed and they were not allowed to go in. So will it be with us when the Lord shall come in his glory with his angels, if we are not ready, for then it will be too late to make preparation. Sad, sad will be the bitter wail when an entrance to the heavenly home is refused us, all on account of our own procrastination!

The present is the time to prepare, and not the future, for then it may be too late. "Therefore be ye also ready: for in an hour that ye think not the Son of man cometh. . . . Blessed is that servant, whom his lord when he cometh shall find so doing." (Matt. 24: 44-46.)

RUTH WILHOITE.

When James A. Garfield was president of Hiram College, a man brought for entrance as a student his son, for whom he wished a shorter course than the regular one.

"The boy can never take all that in," said the father. "He wants to get through quicker. Can you arrange it for him?"

"O, yes," said Mr. Garfield. "He can take a short course. It all depends on what you want to make of him. When God wants to make an oak, he takes a hundred years; but he takes only two months to make a squash." —Selected.

The Divine Preparation.

BY F. W. SMITH.

(Written especially for the "Preparedness" Number.)

"But he said unto him, A certain man made a great supper; and he bade many: and he sent forth his servant at supper time to say to them that were bidden, Come; for all things are now ready." (Luke 14: 16, 17.)

Had there been no tragedy of Eden, there would have been no tragedy of Calvary. The dark shadows of Calvary grew out of, and were necessitated by, the sin and shame of the first man and woman God created. The purest and most beautiful home that ever existed on this earth was blighted and blotted by the withering touch of sin and its inhabitants driven from its ruins to wander in a world cursed because of their disobedience. But God's great loving heart yearned for those with whom he walked in the garden and to whom he had talked face to face. He saw the misery, woe, and death they had entailed upon themselves and posterity by heeding the voice of Satan, and out of that heart of infinite love evolved the purpose and plan to redeem fallen man. But where shall an adequate atonement be found to meet the demands of the violated law? The law cannot be set aside. To have done so would have uprooted the very foundations of divine government and put a premium on sin. No, the infraction of law must be atoned for, and there was only one remedy—viz.: One must be found who had not sinned, who was "separate and apart from sinners," and who, by shedding his own blood, could satisfy the demands of the law, thus making salvation possible to the race of Adam. That One must be in one sense, at least, a man, with a human body and blood to offer as an atonement for sin. He was not on the earth. Hence it is said: "But when the fullness of time came, God sent forth his Son, born of a woman, born under the law, that he might redeem them that were under the law, that we might receive the adoption of sons." (Gal. 4: 4, 5.) His Son "was sent forth" from heaven to assume a body of flesh and blood without the intervention of man. The body of Christ was made over and beyond the natural law; it was as profound a miracle as the creation of Adam's body from the dust of the earth. "And the word became flesh, and dwelt among us." (John 1: 14.) Again: "Sacrifice and offering thou wouldest not, but a body didst thou prepare for me." (Heb. 10: 5.)

But let us note with special emphasis the statement, "But when the fullness of time came." From this we may understand that it was not in God's purpose and plan to send the Redeemer immediately upon the fall of man, but to wait until four thousand years of human history should roll itself into the mighty past. Why he did this is not definitely stated in the holy oracles, but the fact remains that a long period of expectant waiting for the Deliverer had to be endured. God, until "the fullness of time came," made promises of the coming Savior, and these promises were kept constantly in view in many ways. Two things were constantly emphasized—viz., man's need of salvation and the promise of a Savior. Every bleeding victim and smoking altar through the patriarchal and Jewish dispensations was a reminder of man's sin (for these offerings were substitutional accepted as merely temporary, until Christ should shed his blood, and a Savior to come) which they typified. "But in those sacrifices there is a remembrance made of sins year by year. For it is impossible that the blood of bulls and goats should take away sins." (Heb. 10: 3, 4.) Not until Christ shed his blood was there full and complete remission of the sins of any mortal from Adam down to that momentous event. "Whom God set forth to be a propitiation, through faith, in his blood, to show his righteousness because of the passing over of the sins done aforetime, in the forbearance of God." (Rom. 3: 25.) Once more: "And for this cause he is the mediator of a new covenant, that a death having taken place for the redemption of the transgressions that were under the first covenant, they that have been called may receive the promise of the eternal inheritance." (Heb. 9: 15.) These with many other passages show that when Christ shed his blood it was as much for the sins of those who lived before as well as since his death. The efficacy of his blood reaches back to Eden and extends to the last sunset of time. God tried through a period of four thousand years to train and educate the world to receive his Son when he should come; but—alas!—how few did receive him!

Eastern festivities to which our text is an allusion, were characterized by the richest and most costly sacrifices. Not anything that money or skill could provide was lacking. When the preparations were complete, the message went forth: "Come, for all things are now ready." The gospel feast is characterized by the richest gift Heaven could bestow. The victim has cried out from the cross, "It is finished." and the invitation has gone forth: "Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest." (Matt. 11: 28.) What shall we do with this invitation? His servants have gone out (Matt. 28: 19, 20) to call us to the feast. Shall we make excuses like those in the parable, or shall we respond to the call of love and mercy? Shall we be found seated at the royal banquet, or feeding upon the husks of sin?

Great Men Who Prepared Themselves.

BY C. M. PULLIAS.

(Written especially for the "Preparedness" Number.)

These are the men who have accomplished their undertakings in all ages of the world. It matters not what they did, they first decided what to do and then prepared to do it. The preparation was always necessary to accomplish that upon which they decided. Success in no pursuit is assured otherwise.

The greatest and first step any one ever took in preparedness was to fix his mind so as to have but one mind. Christ is a great example here, for he had a mind only to do his Father's will. The result was, he would not be lured or tempted to do anything else. Christians are exhorted, "Let this mind be in you," and: "Be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind, that ye may prove what is that good, and acceptable, and perfect will of God." No greater person ever lived than a Christian (Luke 7: 28); and there is, therefore, no more interesting and important preparation than that which is necessary to go to the city of God.

The first great man who prepared himself, to which the reader's attention is cited, is Noah. The Bible says: "Noah, being warned of God of things not seen as yet, moved with fear, prepared an ark to the saving of his house." The Lord spoke to Noah, giving in detail the length, breadth, and height of the ark; the number of doors and windows, and where they were to be placed; how many stories, and how to finish inside and outside; also the character of material of which it was to be constructed, and what to take into it. Now the Bible says: "As God commanded Noah in all things, so did he." Therefore Noah was ready because he was prepared, and by his preparation he and his family were "saved by water," while all the rest of the human family perished in the water because they were not prepared. It requires a strong faith to do what the Lord says because he says it and resist the attacks of the opposition and the mockeries of the ungodly. Noah was faithful, while all others were faithless. He never made a convert during his long period of preaching, but still he did the work, and it was "the long-suffering of God that father of the faithful and the friend of God, in the offering up of his son. He so thoughtfully and thoroughly prepared himself that he even carried the wood. It is to be supposed that plenty of wood might be had in the mountain, but he goes prepared, so, if any hindrance arises, it will not be his fault. This shows faith and a determination to do the will of the Master and leave the result with God.

The next great man we care to notice is Abraham, the waited;" so he prepared himself by doing the will of Jehovah.

John the Baptist was carried into the wilderness when a child and kept there till his showing to Israel, merely to educate and prepare him for the great work God had assigned him. He must level the mountains, fill the valleys, make the crooked places straight and the rough places smooth. He slept under the trees and in the caverns of the rocks, drank of the brooks, ate locusts and wild honey, and lived the abstemious life of the Nazarite. He had no foes to punish and no friends to reward, for he knew no one. He knew only the message of God, and he dared to preach it. Such success is rarely ever marked as that which crowned his labors, for he was thoroughly prepared for his work.

Many others might be cited, but suffice it to say that without a faith made perfect in obedience, no one is prepared to meet God.

Some Old Testament Lessons of Preparedness.

BY R. C. BELL.

(Written especially for the "Preparedness" Number.)

Preparedness pays. Seventeen of our Presidents and nineteen of our Vice Presidents have been college graduates. Although only one per cent of our present population are college people, yet from this small percentage come twenty-nine of the fifty-one Governors of States and Territories, sixty-one of the ninety-three United State Senators, two hundred and seventy-two of the Congressmen, and all of the nine Supreme Court Judges.

Preparedness pays. When a struggling young lawyer, Daniel Webster bought a fifty-dollar set of books in order to obtain authorities and precedents in a given case. He won the suit, but, because of the poverty of his client, who was a blacksmith, charged only fifteen dollars for his services. Years after, while passing through New York City, he was consulted by Aaron Burr on an important but puzzling case then before the Supreme Court. He saw at once that it was the same in principle as the blacksmith's case—an intricate question of title—and that he could speak with authority without further preparation. Going back to the days of Charles II., he gave the law and the precedents involved with such ease and accuracy that Burr was so pleased and enlightened that he gave Webster, when he had finished, a fee which paid him liberally for the money and time he had spent upon his early client.

Preparedness pays. It paid Noah rich dividends. He, moved by faith and godly fear, "prepared an ark to the saving of his house." Preparedness costs; but it pays, anyway. In all probability Noah's preparedness cost him—not only money, years of toil and sacrifice, but also his social prestige. His skeptical neighbors, no doubt, "laughed him to scorn," and thought it the height of folly for him to spend his life making the ark. They, walking by reason, could see no indications of the predicted flood and most likely thought Noah very simple and credulous. But the man of faith who walks with God and is influenced by things "not seen as yet," although a riddle past finding out to his faithless neighbor, is a wise and successful man. Think of the calamity that would have befallen Noah and his posterity, if he had not been prepared when the flood came!

Behold the end of them who lacked preparation in Noah's day: "And as it came to pass in the days of Noah, even so shall it be also in the days of the Son of man. They ate, they drank, they married, they were given in marriage, until the day that Noah entered into the ark, and the flood came, and destroyed them all." The whole race, except Noah and his immediate family, was destroyed because of unpreparedness. Why unprepared? No faith to produce preparation. But why no faith? Each man was so preoccupied with his pleasure and his business that he had no time or inclination to reflect upon Noah's preaching.

"Even so shall it be also in the days of the Son of man." The mass of mankind shall have been so preoccupied with temporal affairs that the word of God will have had no chance to produce faith and consequent preparation. "Remember Lot's wife." Lot's wife left wicked Sodom reluctantly, and, yearning to return, looked back, with the well-known result. Many who accept the call to come out of the world obey reluctantly and continually look back. This lukewarm service results in unpreparedness, and all such characters God will spew out of his mouth. Indeed, preparedness pays handsome dividends, no matter what it costs.

Painstaking and thorough preparation is essential for any work that is worth while. Fifty feet of Bunker Hill Monument is under ground, unseen by those who view this historic shaft. But it is this deep foundation which enables it to stand true to the plumb line in all the storms that break upon it. Such preparation and foundation work is no less needed in man building than in monument building. Of all the men who come within the scope of my assignment, I think, Moses best illustrates this point. To my mind, he is unquestionably the greatest character of olden times. What other single statesman has, from a multitude of ignorant, fugitive slaves, produced a well-organized and governed nation? His achievement has been called the wonder of history. Without proper preparation, he could have but broken down and failed. Indeed, what other man has so much of his life under ground? At forty, Moses, thinking he was ready for the stupendous task, undertook it, and well-nigh ruined everything. God drove him into the wilderness for another forty-years' training, after which, at the age of eighty, he came forth prepared—prepared to stand under weights and carry burdens that would have crushed any other; prepared to accomplish the miracle of history.

"I prepared that sermon," said a young preacher, "in half an hour, preached it at once, and thought no more of it." "In that," said an older preacher, "your hearers are at one with you, for they, too, thought nothing of it." A mushroom may grow up overnight, but it takes one hundred years to grow an oak. Preparation is not cheap, but the price must be paid or all is lost. Those who would build for eternity must be "steadfast, unmovable, always abounding in the work of the Lord."

Verily, this whole earth life is but a pilgrimage and a preparation for that which is to come. Abraham by faith became a sojourner in Canaan, confessed that he was a stranger and a pilgrim on this earth, and looked for a city whose builder and maker is God. The apostle Paul teaches that the Christian's citizenship is in heaven, and, according to Peter, this life is a time of service, humiliation, and suffering by means of which we may be prepared for exaltation in due time. Rest, ease, glory, and exaltation follow this life. In a true sense, life on this planet is all under ground and but preparation and foundation for life in heaven. "And the God of all grace, who called you unto his eternal glory in Christ, after that ye have suffered a little while, shall himself perfect, stablish, strengthen you." (1 Pet. 5: 10.)

If you knew how much depended on the way you start the day, you never would let yourself get out of bed with a gloomy face or a discontented heart. If the sky is cloudy, manufacture a little sunshine of your own to start the day with. Begin with a smile on your lips and a song in your heart, and there is no fear but that the day will go well.

AT HOME AND ABROAD

Compiled by A. B. Lipscomb

The "Preparedness" Number is at your service.

The Russell Street church house is being used by the pupils of Warner School, which was destroyed by fire.

J. A. Craig writes that there is a good opening for a Christian dentist at Patterson, Cal. Address him at Box 196.

Jesse L. Barfield, a reliable song leader, is ready for engagements. Address him at 2120 Acklen Avenue, Nashville, Tenn.

L. Taylor is anxious to communicate with A. B. Blazer and family. Address Brother Taylor at Route 2, Box 72A, McMinnville, Tenn.

Dr. J. J. Horton, of Elora, Tenn., is in a meeting with the West End congregation, Atlanta, Ga. Brother Horton administers to the soul as well as to the body.

The people of East Nashville are planning to convert a portion of the burnt district into a beautiful park. A mass meeting of citizens was held at Russell Street on March 29.

W. Hume McHenry reports the birth of a son on February 17. This is good news from a far country. We extend heartiest congratulations and best wishes for this little "native worker."

Brother Srygley preached at Belmont Avenue last Sunday morning and at Russell Street in the evening. Incidentally he made a plea for "more and better cooks" and a living salary for wage earners.

From W. E. Morgan, 149 Park Street, Portland, Maine: "We had good crowds and good interest at all our services here on March 26. The outlook continues very bright for the Master's cause here in the near future."

Our readers should note that the special premium offer, including the Bible Study Helper and fountain pen, expired on April 1. You can secure the Helper for fifty cents additional to the subscription price of the Gospel Advocate.

G. Dallas Smith, of Murfreesboro, Tenn., closed two profitable Bible drills last week. One was conducted with the Russell Street Church, this city; the other, at Bellbuckle. He will begin a meeting at Columbia, Tenn., on April 23.

H. W. Jones writes from Hardin, Ky.: "After going on crutches for eight weeks with badly sprained ankle, I am slowly improving now. I have filled my appointments, talking to the people with one foot on the floor and the other in a chair. All this helps us to feel and realize our dependence on God."

J. D. Boyd, Jr., of Cottontown, Tenn., and Sister Frances Crouch, of Portland, Tenn., were married on March 8, 1916, at the home of L. L. Yeagley, this city. Brother Yeagley officiated. Both are earnest members of the church of Christ. Brother Boyd has been assistant teacher of the public school in Cottontown for two or three years.

Our field editor, Brother Srygley, will visit the following churches on the dates named, preaching only at the evening service, except on Sundays, when he can preach both morning and evening: Petersburg, Tenn., Sunday, April 9; Cane Creek, Monday, April 10; Ostella, Tuesday, April 11; Brick Church, Wednesday, April 12; Cornersville, Thursday, April 13; Yell, Friday, April 14; Lewisburg, Sunday, April 16.

From O. M. Reynolds, Memphis, Texas: "On March 29, Brother W. A. Bentley, of Clyde, and I closed a thirteen-days' meeting here with my home congregation. We had splendid attendance, fine preaching, soul-inspiring singing, intense interest, and eighteen additions to the local church—three baptisms, three by relation, and twelve restorations. The future of the church is very bright. We are very happy in the Lord's work."

From George M. Rance, Fayette City, Pa.: "The little band at Pittsburgh have a nice little meetinghouse in a select location, but they owe some on this property. It cost only fourteen hundred dollars, I understand, and the lot alone is said to be worth the money. It is a great bargain, and we should help secure this valuable property in this very needy field. Here is a great opening for missionary offerings. Send them to Brother R. L. Greathouse, 347 Freeland Street, Mount Oliver Station, Pittsburgh, Pa."

From A. S. Derryberry, Nashville, Tenn.: "Our work at Reid Avenue Church is moving on nicely. Our crowds at all the meetings are increasing in numbers weekly. The brethren and sisters have a mind to work and are working in perfect harmony. They have given their house a new coat of paint on the inside and will put in new windows before our meeting, to be held by S. H. Hall, beginning on the third Sunday in April. All brethren, sisters, and friends in the city have a cordial invitation to attend the meeting and hear Brother Hall."

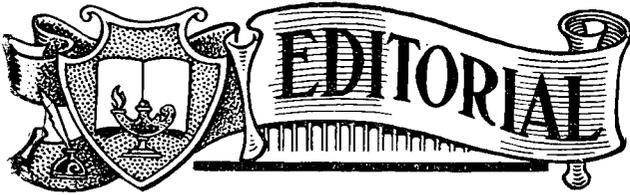

Here is an opportunity to secure the services of a very deserving young man: "This is my fifth year in Bible schools, also my Junior year. It is my intention to teach school the following year; and being desirous of teaching in a Christian community where I will have the opportunity of preaching every Lord's day, I will appreciate your making this fact known through the Gospel Advocate, that those interested may write me in regard to the matter. For recommendation, write H. Leo Boles, president of the Nashville Bible School." (R. H. Rogers.)

N. W. Proffitt writes from Paris, Texas: "I was at Walnut Ridge, Lamar County, on March 26. I preached the word of the Lord to the few that assembled. The brethren are trying hard to build up the cause in that community. They have a great deal of prejudice to contend against, but they think they will succeed. I am anxious to hear from brethren in West Tennessee and Arkansas who want meetings in May, June, July, also September, October, and November. I will occupy destitute territory as well as the broken soil. Write me, and let me give you a date."

The Fire Sufferers at Paris, Texas.

BY LEE GARRETT.

In the last issue of the Gospel Advocate was the statement of our calamity and the timely words of Brother A. B. Lipscomb in our behalf. Rest assured that all funds received will be faithfully used and fully reported in the Advocate. We deplore deeply our condition, but dependency finds no place with our congregation just now. We hope to have our forces entirely rallied within a few weeks and by cold weather have a neat and commodious building erected. This we can do with some encouragement. Insurance adjusters rate this fire the fourth largest in the United States; and the largest, considering the size of the town. Between twelve and fifteen million dollars worth of property was destroyed. One thousand four hundred and forty buildings were destroyed which were insured and several that were uninsured. Our citizens, though losing heavily, subscribed liberally to the relief fund. Neighboring towns and cities have been generous. Were it not for our impoverished condition, we could take care of building another place of worship, but assistance from the outside will alleviate our burden and we can have a building much quicker. Our congregation appreciates so much the love manifested and the fellowship received already.

EDITORS.

D. Lipscomb, E. G. Sewell, E. A. Elam,
M. C. Kurfrees, T. B. Larimore.

MANAGING EDITORS.

J. C. McQuiddy, A. B. Lipscomb.

SPECIAL DIRECTIONS.

Subscriptions are $1.50 a year, in advance, including postage to any part of the United States. To Canada and foreign countries, $2 a year, in advance.

The Date on the Yellow Label on your paper serves you as a receipt, and indicates the time to which your subscription is paid. When you renew, if the date is not changed within three weeks thereafter, please call our attention to it.

Discontinuances. No paper will be continued over twelve months after the subscription has expired. This will give all ample time to renew.

Payment for the Advocate, when sent by mail, should be made by post-office money order, express money order, registered letter, New York exchange, or postal note. Neither currency nor coin should be sent in a letter, unless registered; and when so sent, it is at the risk of the sender. Have your remittances made payable to the Gospel Advocate, and never to any member of the company.

Do Not Write Business on the same sheet as matter intended for publication.

Change of Address will be cheerfully made at the request of any subscriber giving post office, county, and State from which the change is to be made, and post office, county and State to which the paper should go after the change.

Renewals. In renewing, give the name just as it appears on the yellow label, unless it be incorrect, in which case please call our attention to it; and always give the name of the post office to which your paper is sent, as this is the guide by which we are enabled to find your name on our list.

Do Not Send Matter intended for the Advocate to the editors personally. This may occasion delay. Address the Gospel Advocate Publishing Company, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

Entered at the post-office at Nashville, Tenn., as second-class matter. Published weekly at Nashville, Tenn.

How Calamity Teaches Prompt Action and Preparedness.

(Suggested by the East Nashville fire.)

BY A. B. L.

The Associated Press sent broadcast the story that a little negro threw a ball of lighted yarn into the dry grass of a vacant lot and started the great East Nashville fire. That may be precisely the truth, or it may have been based upon a "yarn" some one had manufactured for the occasion. Those who subscribe to the story can hardly be asked to produce the ball or the grass; the tangible evidence must be forever lacking. But whatever the origin of the fire, one thing is certain—it spread with amazing, nerve-racking, heartbreaking rapidity. What is characteristic of fire is characteristic of sin.

"Behold," says James, "how much wood is kindled by how small a fire!" He had in mind the little blaze that is often started by one slanderous tongue. That little blaze spreads until it has blackened the social fabric of the community, leaving ruined characters in its wake. Sin should be treated like fire. We should endeavor to stamp out its small beginnings. What a pity we do not look upon it as an infectious disease—a malady that doth eat as a gangrene! The sign of smallpox on a house is a greater protection than lock or key. The danger is only physical. But when sin is uncovered, men gaze upon it with morbid curiosity. It is spread from mouth to mouth and published in the papers. The first shock is overcome by familiarity. It communicates some of its virus to every one who sees, hears, or tells of it. Sin and sinners are inseparable. They are not fit companions for ourselves or our children. Sin should not only be stamped out, but it should be avoided.

Doubtless the person who started the fire has learned by this time that it is much easier to start one than to put it out. Begin a quarrel, set a slander going, tell a lie—that is easy enough. But it will take the whole department to get the trouble under control after it is well started. Again, how bad a master a good servant may become! Fire, under control, warms and cooks in our homes and drives away the dross from useful metals in the furnaces; but fire, uncontrolled, kills and destroys in the most ruthless fashion. This is just as true of the tongue, of appetite, or passion. Splendid servants they are if you force them to serve; terrible masters if they get control of you. When they are dominant, you learn to your sorrow how much easier it is to burn down than to build up.

Some of the splendid public buildings and fine old residences that were almost a year in building were burned down in less than an hour. Some will never be replaced. So a character, a reputation, that has taken years to build, may be ruined in an hour of sin. It is a sad thing to behold the ruins of the once stately Warner School. But it is a sadder thing to behold the shipwreck of a soul, a ruined life, naught remaining but bare, burned walls and the ashes of failure.

We have also learned that in handling a fire the principal thing is to get at the fire as quick as possible, before it spreads. The firemen plan to save every fraction of a second. "Everything always ready" is the constant motto. The gong rings; trained horses rush to their hanging harness; men drop, as it were, from the ceiling to their places. Thirty seconds, and the magnificent horses are out and away, tearing down the street, throwing streams of fiery sparks from ironclad hoofs and engine wheels. To get there before the fire gains headway—that is the important thing! Just so sin must be headed off. Here is a lesson for parents and their children. Six houses in a group—one burns, and the other five, unless promptly protected, will burn also. Five healthy boys joined by one that has diphtheria—all will take it. Five morally healthy boys in a group; a morally corrupt boy joins them—all will catch the contagion. Fire spreads. Get at it quick, extinguish it before it gets beyond your control. Perhaps in your own lives bad habits are getting a start. Almost before you know it a little flame may become a great conflagration. Lose no time; stamp out the destroying element before it gains headway.

It may be that sin has gotten a good start in your lives and that all of this advice about stamping out its beginning does not suit your case. What then? You must resort to heroic measures. When the East Nashville fire was at its height, one woman suggested the use of dynamite—blowing down some smaller structures to save the larger and more important. To get rid of sin, it may be necessary for you to make a tremendous sacrifice, a mighty struggle. But it is never too great a sacrifice if it will save you from the awful consequences of sin. It may cost you the loss of your greatest craving, the sin to which you cling with greatest tenacity; but it is not too big a price to pay. Did not the blessed Savior say: "And if thy right eye causeth thee to stumble, pluck it out, and cast it from thee: for it is profitable for thee that one of thy members should perish, and not thy whole body be cast into hell. And if thy right hand causeth thee to stumble, cut it off, and cast it from thee: for it is profitable for thee that one of thy members should perish, and not thy whole body go into hell." (Matt. 5: 29, 30.)

The great fire should impress us with the transcendent value of heavenly things over earthly things. If we have never understood, we should understand now the meaning of Jesus' admonition: "Lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust doth consume, and where thieves do not break through nor steal." (Matt. 6: 20.) And to us the message reads with awakening force: "Lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where fire doth not burn." One of the commandments in the Decalogue reads: "Thou shalt not covet thy neighbor's house." How can I afford to covet my neighbor's house, when I see how quickly it can be reduced to ashes? Surely there is every reason now why I should set my affections upon things above and always to remember that "we have this treasure in earthen vessels, that the exceeding greatness of the power may be of God, and not from ourselves." With the smoldering ashes of four hundred transient, earthly homes lying before me, I must understand that "he builds too low who builds beneath the skies," and sing with greater feeling than ever before.

"Build thee more stately mansions, O my soul!
As the swift seasons roll;
Leave thy low-vaulted past:
Let each new temple, nobler than the last,
Shut thee from heaven with dome more vast,
Till thou at length art free,
Leaving thine outgrown shell by life's unresting sea."

But I must not forget the firemen. "Honor to whom honor is due." No one could watch their efforts and not feel proud of men's capacity for heroism. Chivalry is not dead, knighthood is still in flower, while the Nashville firemen remain what they are. Risking life to save life; facing the fierce flames, smothering smoke, and falling walls to help and save—they are heroes whether they claim the honor or not. We learn from them the nobility of generous effort for the welfare of other people. When the alarm sounds, it isn't their house that is burning, nor do they ask whether it is a cottage or a palace. It is enough to know that somebody's house is afire and somebody needs their aid. We learn from them, too, the value of disciplined coöperation. While the fire devours, they do not waste time, some idling, some sulking, some criticizing, but all work together, follow their leaders, and do their duty. What a splendid example for Christian workers everywhere!

Paul Gilbert said: "I used to know a student who during his college days was known as a nuisance because he was so continually neglecting his studies and interfering with those who wished to work. Suddenly he dropped out of college and I heard nothing of him for several years; then I learned, to my amazement, that he had become a most earnest, effective young man. "How did you come into this new life of helpfulness?" I asked him one day. "I came into it one night sitting on a barn with my nightshirt stuffed in my trousers, watching my father's factory burn. When I thought of all his sacrifice and love and need, I just determined then and there to be a help." I do not see how any thoughtful human being can look upon the spectacle that lies before us and not resolve to be a better man or a better woman. I do not see how any poor lost sinner can recall the scenes of March 22 in this fair city and not feel the need of a Savior.

The most thrilling sight at a fire is a daring rescue, when a brave fireman, forgetful of self, forces his way through fierce heat and blinding, stifling, smoke to carry out to life and safety some helpless child. Forth from the flames the brave man staggers, gasping, blistered, burning, but bearing the little one safe in his arms.

Men and women, there is One who went through fiercer flames, more awful anguish, even the infinite agony of Gethsemane and Calvary, to save you from death. He came forth gloriously, having led captivity captive and bringing good gifts unto men—even unto you in your extremity and bitter need. Will you let him save you? There is no other way of escape. Let him take you in his mighty arms and carry you safe beyond the smoke, the flame, the turmoil of earth, to life, to heaven, to God.

Subscribe for The Bible Study Helper. Sixty cents per year.

Preparedness Against Unscriptural Innovations.

BY M. C. K.

(Written especially for the "Preparedness" Number.)

In a conspicuous and very impressive way in recent months the American people have had their attention directed to the question of preparedness against possible conflict with the other nations of the earth. Both in the Congress and throughout the nation the subject has received diligent attention, while vast expenditures of money, with a corresponding increase of the army and navy forces, are contemplated in order to secure proper national defense, all of which seems to be solemnly emphasized by the internecine strife now raging on the European continent. Thus from one side of the nation to the other the country echoes and re-echoes with the call for preparedness, and this word has become the watchword of the hour.

As Jesus and Paul were quick to seize and use their environment to illustrate and enforce the higher lessons of spiritual life, so the Gospel Advocate, not unfittingly, as it appears to us, would seize and use, in a similar way, this cry for national preparedness.

The particular theme chosen for treatment in the present article is preparedness against unscriptural innovations; and we wish it distinctly understood, first of all, that we use the term "unscriptural" advisedly in this connection for the simple reason that not all innovations are unscriptural. The term itself literally means something new; but we must not conclude, from this fact, as we shall presently see, that an innovation is therefore wrong. Here, as in many other cases, error and confusion result from a lack of proper discrimination. To make this fact clear in the present case, we must never overlook the distinction between that which God commands to be done and the manner or method of doing it. If it be a case in which God legislates both on the thing to be done and on the manner or method of doing it, then both the thing and the method, as thus legislated, are parts of the divine will, and must be strictly observed. In such a case, there is no room for any variation even as to method. But where God legislates on the thing to be done, but does not legislate on how to do it, then either all or any one of even a dozen ways of doing it, if there be that many, may be adopted. Moreover, in such a case, one method may be used at one time or place, and another method at another time or place, because God himself, in the very terms of the case supposed, has left the matter of method to human judgment, and hence, in the adoption of such a variety of methods in such a case, there is no violation or contravention of divine legislation. But in all such cases the adoption of a given method for the first time is, in one of its senses, an innovation—that is, it is something new; but it is entirely permissible. To illustrate this principle, Christians may meet for religious work or worship either day or night; but if the latter, they must have some kind of artificial lights, and on this matter God has not legislated. Hence, there is room for variety and change as the occasion may suggest or require, so that they may use an ordinary candle, oil lamp, gas light, or electric light, there being no restriction by divine legislation to any one of these methods of lighting. But if God had restricted them here to the use of the candle, then any and all other methods of lighting would not only be an innovation, but an unscriptural innovation, and therefore wrong.

Now, with this distinction clearly and definitely understood, we call attention to the divine fortification or safeguard which has been provided against all improper or unscriptural innovations. It is variously set forth in numerous passages in the word of God, and it may be clearly seen from the following selection from the list:

1. "The secret things belong unto Jehovah our God; but the things that are revealed belong unto us and and to our children forever." (Deut. 29: 29.) Here it is distinctly declared that "the things that are revealed belong unto us," and that all other things "belong unto Jehovah our God." Hence, neither in public nor in private, anywhere nor under any circumstance, should Christians ever attempt to teach in religion anything that is not definitely and explicitly revealed. All speculation over what may or may not be should be scrupulously avoided, and nothing should be taught except what God has clearly and distinctly disclosed to men. This primary and fundamental principle, if strictly observed, is in itself a divine bulwark against all unscriptural innovations.

2. "Now these things, brethren, I have in a figure transferred to myself and Apollos for your sakes; that in us ye might learn not to go beyond the things which are written." (1 Cor. 4: 6.) Here again the divine limit to which we may go is definitely fixed and the line is so distinctly drawn that nothing is left in doubt or uncertainty. And the divine rule here given is that, as to what we do, we must do nothing except what is divinely "written;" and, where the method is also thus divinely given, we must never "go beyond" it.

3. "Whosoever goeth onward and abideth not in the teaching of Christ, hath not God: he that abideth in the teaching, the same hath both the Father and the Son." (2 John 9.) This clear and cogent statement from John is substantially a repetition of the Pauline declaration, and it solemnly emphasizes the peril of one who "goeth onward" beyond what is written by distinctly telling him that he "hath not God." To be without God in the world is to be in a fearful condition; but it is most gratifying to learn from the same divine rule that the way to have "both the Father and the Son" is to abide "in the teaching."

4. "Teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I commanded you." (Matt. 28: 20.) We ask the reader to note particularly the phraseology of this language. It imposes the obligation to "observe" certain things, but beyond these things the obligation stops. If, therefore, we can fix the limit within which this obligation is binding, we will then know definitely the full extent of what the Lord expects of us and for which he will hold us responsible. Fortunately, the Lord's own language fixes the limit when it says "all things whatsoever I commanded you." That settles it. If what we are doing is "commanded" by him, we are not only safe in doing it, but must do it; if it be not thus "commanded," it is not safe to do it.

5. "I testify unto every man that heareth the words of the prophecy of this book, If any man shall add unto them, God shall add unto him the plagues which are written in this book: and if any man shall take away from the words of the book of this prophecy, God shall take away his part from the tree of life, and out of the holy city, which are written in this book." (Rev. 22: 18, 19.) Here we have a fitting climax to the divine fortification against all improper innovations. To what is "written" and what is "commanded" by the Lord, there must be nothing "added," and from it nothing must be taken away. Hence, not only is it true that, if what we are doing be not "commanded" by the Lord, it is not safe to do it, but it is also true that it is indirectly forbidden by this other requirement that nothing must be "added."

Finally, in the light of all the facts now before us, Christians should ever be on the alert, standing guard against any and all unscriptural innovations upon the divine order. Here, as in the Christian's individual life, the stirring words of George Heath's great hymn apply:

My soul, be on thy guard,
Ten thousand foes arise;
The hosts of sin are pressing hard,
To draw thee from the skies.

And thus, bulwarked with the word of God, Christians are safe from present danger and can calmly rest in the divine assurance that the future holds nothing that can defeat their high purpose. Adopting the impressive lines of James Russell Lowell, dedicated "To the Future," they can joyfully sing:

O Land of Promise! from what Pisgah's height
Can I behold thy stretch of peaceful bowers,
Thy golden harvests flowing out of sight,
Thy nestled homes and sun-illumined towers?

O Land of Quiet! to thy shore the surf
Of the perturbed Present rolls and sleeps;
Our storms breathe soft as June upon thy turf
And lure out blossoms; to thy bosom leaps,
As to a mother's, the o'erworn heart,
Hearing far off and dim the toiling mart,
The hurrying feet, the curses without number,
And, circled with the glow Elysian
Of thine exulting vision,
Out of its very cares woos charms
For peace and slumber.

"Be Ye Also Ready."

BY E. A. E.

(Written especially for the "Preparedness" Number.)

The one supreme purpose of the Bible, by use of its facts, history, literature of every sort, warnings and threatenings against sin, encouragement to righteousness and godliness, exceeding precious and great promises, examples of faith and hope, is to teach submission to God and, therefore, preparation for the life which now is and that which is to come.

Preparation to meet God is the one great purpose of life. These words, "Prepare to meet thy God, O Israel," are applicable now.

God must be met now—that is, in this life; he must be met in all the blessings, sorrows, afflictions, joys, chastisements, duties, and responsibilities of this life. Where he has recorded his name, he promises to meet with and bless his people. He must be met with in thanksgiving and gratitude, love and submission. Then he must be met in death and at the judgment.

So much is said in the Bible on the great importance of making this preparation that one is at a loss to know just what to emphasize in a short article in order to accomplish the most good. With one thing, however, we should be impressed, first of all; and that is, in teaching others we teach ourselves, and must give diligence to make our own calling and election sure. Our preparation consists in more than simply telling others what to do.

Paul's great aim—his "one thing"—was to "press on toward the goal unto the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus," if by any means he might attain unto the resurrection of the just. (See Phil. 3: 1-16.) To this end he buffeted his body and brought it into bondage, lest by any means, after he had preached the gospel to others, he himself should be rejected. (1 Cor. 9: 27.) His chief desire and supreme effort were to be ready always himself.

The teaching of Christ and all the letters of the New Testament abound with exhortations to faithfulness and solemn warnings against error and sin. Jesus denounced the hypocrisy and vain worship of the scribes and Pharisees. As his departure from the earth drew near, he more and more comforted his disciples, and more and more warned them against false teachers and false Christs and falling away from God. He said some would stumble, some would hate others, some would prove to be traitors—parents delivering up children, brothers delivering up brothers, and friends delivering up friends unto death; that many would become indifferent, wax cold in love, or lose faith altogether.

PREPARE FOR WHAT?

Prepare to live the life of Christians on earth; prepare for the greatest usefulness, peace, and happiness now.

Since "godliness is profitable for all things, having promise of the life which now is, and of that which is to come" (1 Tim. 4: 8), there is promise in Christianity of blessings and the greatest good in life on earth. It is adapted to every condition and relationship of life here.

He that would love life, and see good days, let him refrain his tongue from evil, and his lips that they speak no guile: and let him turn away from evil, and do good; let him seek peace, and pursue it. For the eyes of the Lord are upon the righteous, and his ears unto their supplication: but the face of the Lord is upon them that do evil. (1 Pet. 3: 9-12.)

This is the way to live now and to get the greatest good out of this life. Without being a Christian, no one is prepared to live now as one should live. Christianity embraces self-control in all ways; righteousness, or all right treatment of all men; godliness, or all duties to God. Christianity is the most practical thing in the world; it benefits the body and the mind, as well as saves the soul. The Christian, all things being equal, lives the longest, lives the noblest, and lives the best. Christianity makes peace loving and law-abiding citizens of any government; makes all neighbors love their neighbors as themselves; makes faithful husbands and wives, dutiful parents and children. moral and religious people or righteous and godly people of all who embrace it. Think, what would be the happy condition of all the inhabitants of earth if all were Christians! There could be no lawbreakers, no corrupt rulers, no thieves, no liars, no fraud and corruption of any kind, no divorces, no undutiful children, and no unfaithful parents. Christianity is the greatest thing in the world for life now.

PREPARE TO MEET CHRIST AT HIS COMING.

Jesus through different parables and otherwise exhorts all to watchfulness—that is, by a holy and righteous life to be always in a prepared condition of heart and life to meet him without fear and shame at his coming. (See Luke 12: 35-48.)

Seeing that these things are thus all to be dissolved, what manner of persons ought ye to be in all holy living and godliness, looking for and earnestly desiring the coming of the day of God, by reason of which the heavens being on fire shall be dissolved, and the elements shall melt with fervent heat? But, according to his promise, we look for new heavens and a new earth, wherein dwelleth righteousness [the righteous will inhabit it]. Wherefore, beloved, seeing that ye look for these things, give diligence that ye may be found in peace, without spot and blameless in his sight. (2 Pet. 3: 11-14.)

WHEN WILL CHRIST COME?

No one on earth, no angel in heaven, not even the Son of God himself, knows what day, what month, what year, what period of time—"the times and the seasons" (1 Thess. 5: 1)—when Christ will come. It is a waste of time to listen to any man who undertakes to tell when Christ will come, or attempt to approximate it, or prove that it is imminent. "Watch therefore, for ye know not the day nor the hour." (Matt. 25: 13.) Jesus gives this as the reason for being always ready. (See, also, Matt. 24: 36.) If Christ does not come in a thousand or ten thousand years from now, these warnings are just as applicable and should be heeded, because "it is appointed unto men once to die, and after this cometh judgment." (Heb. 9: 27.) The judgment will take place at Christ's coming. There can be no preparation between death and the judgment. Hence death to all who die is virtually the same as the coming of Christ to them—at least, in so far as their salvation is concerned.

WHEN PREPARE.

Life is the time to serve God, and now is the time to begin. The time to "watch" for Christ's coming is before death or before he does come. The judgment and everlasting separation between the ones ready and the ones not ready will take place at his coming. That will be the day of judgment, not of preparation.

To-day if ye shall hear his voice, harden not your heart, as in the provocation. (Heb. 3: 7, 8; Ps. 95: 7, 8.)

WHAT IS IT TO WATCH, OR BE READY?

To watch is not to stand and gaze, to dream, to be ethereal. It is to be actively and patiently engaged in the service of God in the daily and common affairs of life. The faithful servant in his service to his lord is an example of watchfulness and of "preparedness." The woman taken while grinding at the mill shows that that is the way to watch and to be ready. She did not quit grinding—quit her daily duties and neglect the common affairs of family and life in anticipation of Christ's coming. So let men plow on, grind on, work on, and continue steadfastly in life's common affairs and daily duties as God has commanded, if they would be ready. If men are tired from their day's work and are asleep in their beds when Christ comes, the godly will be taken and the others left. When Christ comes, the ordinary affairs of life will be going on, and the way to be ready is to be found at the place of duty, if that is grinding at a mill, making an honest living otherwise, or asleep in the bed. In Matt. 24 Jesus exhorts his disciples to watch, or be ready; and in Matt. 25, in the parables of the ten virgins and the talents and in the reason for inviting those on the right hand of the great Shepherd into everlasting life, he tells how to watch and be ready. To feed the hungry, clothe the naked, relieve the needy, comfort and help the afflicted and distressed in the name of Jesus is the way to be ready and the way to watch.

The Great War's Lesson of Preparedness to Christians.

BY J. C. McQUIDDY.

(Written especially for the "Preparedness" Number.)

Everybody is discussing the war—who will be the victors, when will it end, and what lessons should we learn from it? There are so many lessons to be learned from this most terrible and cruel of all wars that it is difficult to select a few from the many practical lessons that may be drawn from this Titanic war.

I. THE BEGINNING OF THE WAR.

The occasion that ignited the smoldering flames of greed and avarice of almost all Europe was the assassination of Duke Ferdinand of Austria. "Behold, how much wood is kindled by how small a fire!" (James 3: 5.) This was only the occasion, while the real cause of the war is sin. "Each man is tempted, when he is drawn away by his own lust, and enticed. Then the lust, when it hath conceived, beareth sin: and the sin, when it is full grown, bringeth forth death." (James 1: 14, 15.) Sin did its work so insidiously that even the great rulers who brought on the war did not realize that they were under its control. As it was with Mother Eve in the garden of Eden, so was it with them. "But I fear, lest by any means, as the serpent beguiled Eve in his craftiness, your minds should be corrupted from the simplicity and the purity that is toward Christ." (2 Cor. 11: 3.) Eve was deceived. Let us see how it was: "And the serpent said unto the woman, Ye shall not surely die: for God doth know that in the day ye eat thereof, then your eyes shall be opened, and ye shall be as gods, knowing good and evil. And when the woman [thought she] saw that the tree was good for food, and that it was pleasant to the eyes, and a tree to be desired to make one wise, she took of the fruit thereof and did eat." There is the whole story! It is also the true history of the beginning of this great war. The rulers thought it better to "be as gods" and rule over vast kingdoms in all their worldly glory and power than to adhere to the simplicity that is in Christ. Under Christ and in his perfected reign there are to be no more wars. Of this reign the prophet prophesies: "And he will judge between the nations, and will decide concerning many peoples; and they shall beat their swords into plowshares, and their spears into pruning hooks; nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more." (Isa. 2: 4.) In disarming Peter, Christ disarmed all his true and tried soldiers. Christ says: "Love your enemies, and pray for them that persecute you." "Resist not him that is evil: but whosoever smiteth thee on thy right cheek, turn to him the other also." But, deceived by Satan, these world rulers chose to deluge the world in blood and tears, to send millions to a premature grave, to render millions more penniless and homeless, and to make unnumbered widows and orphans.

Stebbins says: "Give me the money that has been spent in war, and I will purchase every foot of land upon the globe. I will clothe every man, woman, and child in an attire of which kings and queens might be proud. I will build a schoolhouse on every hillside and in every valley over the whole earth. I will build an academy in every town and endow it, a college in every State and fill it with able professors. I will crown every hill with a place of worship, consecrated to the promulgation of the gospel of peace. I will support in every pulpit an able teacher of righteousness, so that on every Sunday morning the chimes on one hill should answer to the chimes on another around the earth's wide circumference, and the voice of prayer and the song of praise should ascend like a universal hosannah to heaven."

How fearful, awful, and rapid is the work of sin! We should watch and pray that Satan may not also beguile us and lead us into sin's deadly work.

II. MOST CIVILIZED NATIONS AT WAR.

Civilization is powerless to redeem the world from the ravages of war. It now appears that the highest civilization is the most savage. As we have sought to overcome heathenism, so we must now seek to conquer civilization. If England, Germany, France, and all the other powers engaged in this war were practicing as they teach and preach, this war could not have started. If even now they will practice as the only perfect Lawgiver the world has ever known commands, the war will instantly close. Christianity and murder cannot dwell in the heart together. If those wicked rulers will open the door of their hearts and let Jesus in, all malice, greed, and jealousy will fly away. It is so easy to preach one thing and practice another! We can easily find fault with civilization, but we cannot justly find fault with the religion of Jesus Christ. No man has ever been able to do it. Our nation and our people will be the greatest victors if they will walk in the light of God's word and stay out of war. "He that is slow to anger is better than the mighty; and he that ruleth his spirit, than he that taketh a city." (Prov. 16: 32.) This is also true of a nation or nations.

III. GERMAN PREPAREDNESS.

The preparedness of the Germans has enabled them to do fighting that has astonished the world. The best forts the world has ever built have crumbled before their big guns. Magnificent armies have given way before their deadly fire. They have been ready for every emergency on the western or eastern border, in the Balkans, or wherever it arose. Their preparedness placed by the side of British unpreparedness should impress the Christian with the necessity of always being prepared and ready for the summons home or for the second advent of the Christ. "But of that day and that hour knoweth no one, not even the angels of heaven, neither the Son; but the Father only." (Matt. 24: 36.) The attitude of the Christian should be one of patient waiting, and not one of anxious forebodings.

Because the world is not all converted, we should not lose our faith and say the Lord delayeth his coming and that the gospel and the Holy Spirit are failures. Jesus taught that it was expedient for him to go to the Father and send the Spirit to his disciples to guide them into all truth and convince and convict the world of sin. If the Lord does not come for millions of years, it will be quickly in comparison with eternity. When God's hour strikes, he will come. "Watch therefore: for ye know not on what day your Lord cometh." (Matt. 24: 42.) "Finally, be strong in the Lord, and in the strength of his might. Put on the whole armor of God, that ye may be able to stand against the wiles of the devil. For our wrestling is not against flesh and blood, but against the principalities, against the powers, against the world rulers of this darkness, against the spiritual hosts of wickedness in the heavenly places." (Eph. 6: 10-12.)

GOD REIGNS.

God was in the flood; he was with Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob; and he is now in the heavens reigning over his people. While the ravages of this most awful of all wars continue, still God reigns. He may appear far away, but still he is near all his faithful children. He is strong, good, and wise enough to bring blessings out of this war to his people. While "the nations rage, and the peoples meditate a vain thing," God rules over all. Human wisdom has never been able, and will never be able, to explain satisfactorily why Christ, the Just, should die for the unjust. This is an unsolved and an unsolvable mystery. So we cannot explain satisfactorily why God even permits this war, any more than we can explain why he sends the terrible tornado.

"God moves in a mysterious way
His wonders to perform;
He plants his footsteps on the sea,
And rides upon the storm."

While Elijah despaired and prayed to die, God was with him and had in store for him something better than death. Jesus hungered and passed through the most trying temptations before angels came and ministered unto him. We are now passing through the night of suffering and temptation. "Joy cometh in the morning." "And we know that to them that love God all things work together for good, even to them that are called according to his purpose." (Rom. 8: 28.) God reigns.

Spirit of Time and Age.

(Called especially for the "Preparedness" Number.)

Not he who breaks the dams, but he
That through the channel of the state
Convoys the people's wish, is great.
His name is pure, his fame is free:

He cares, if ancient usage fade,
To shape, to settle, to repair,
By seasonable changes fair,
An innovation grade by grade.

Or, if the sense of most require
A precedent of larger scope,
Not deals in threats, but works with hope,
And lights at length on his desire:

Knowing those laws are just alone
That contemplate a mighty plan,
The frame, the mind, the soul of man,
Like one that cultivates his own.

He, seeing far and end sublime,
Contentds, despising party rage,
To hold the Spirit of the Age
Against the Spirit of the Time.

—Tennyson.

SPRING MEDICINE

Hood's Sarsaparilla, the Great Blood Purifier, is the Best.

Spring sickness comes in some degree to every man, woman and child in our climate.

It is that run-down, condition of the system that results from impure, impoverished, devitalized blood.

It is marked by loss of appetite and that tired feeling, and in many cases by some form of eruption.

The best way to treat spring sickness is to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. This old reliable family medicine purifies, enriches and revitalizes the blood. It is an all-the-year-round alterative and tonic, and is absolutely the best Spring medicine.

Get your blood in good condition at once—now. Delay may be dangerous. Ask your druggist for Hood's Sarsaparilla, and insist on having it, for nothing else can take its place.

Preparedness According to the Word.

BY T. H. BURTON.

(Written especially for the "Preparedness" Number.)

Christ has gone to prepare a place for a prepared people. (John 14: 13.) He is also coming again to claim those that are prepared and "render unto every man according to his deeds." (Matt. 16: 27.) To the ones who are ready he will say: "Well done, good and faithful servant; thou hast been faithful over a few things I will set thee over many things: enter thou into the joy of thy lord." (Matt. 25: 23.) Of the others he will say: "Cast ye out the unprofitable servant into the outer darkness: there shall be the weeping and the gnashing of teeth." (Verse 30.)

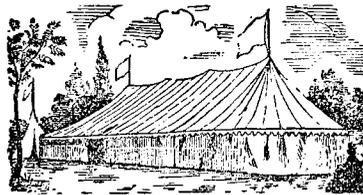

Will all who think themselves prepared be acceptable? Christ says: "Not every one that saith unto me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven; but he that doeth the will of my Father who is in heaven. Many will say unto me in that day, Lord, Lord, did we not prophesy by thy name, and by thy name cast out demons, and by thy name do many mighty works?" And then will I profess unto them, I never knew you: depart from me, ye that work iniquity." (Matt. 7: 21-23.) Thus we see that it is only the ones that prepare according to the word that will be ready to meet him. He says: "I am the door; by me if any enter in, he shall be saved." (John 10: 9.) To enter in by Christ is to enter in the way he has specified. Therefore it behooves us not to add to nor take from his word. "I testify unto every man that heareth the words of the prophecy of this book, If any man shall add unto them, God shall add unto him the plagues which are written in this book: and if any man shall take away from the words of the book of this prophecy, God shall take away his part from the tree of life, and out of the holy city, which are written in this book." (Rev. 22: 18, 19.)

Fellow-traveler for eternity, are you preparing to live with God? Remember, all must "be judged according to the deeds done in the body." Christ said: "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved." (Mark 16: 16.) Peter, speaking as the Spirit gave him utterance, said: "Repent ye, and be baptized . . . unto the remission of your sins." (Acts 2: 38.) Prepared thus far, "they continued steadfastly in the apostles' teaching and fellowship, in the breaking of bread and the prayers." (Verse 42.) They did not serve God according to their opinions or just when it was convenient, but they lived as they were taught by the apostles. Church member, if we would have oil in our lamps when the Bridegroom comes, let us be given to hospitality, communicate to the necessity of the saints, preach the word in season and out of season, reprove the sinner, exhort the Christian, visit the sick and the afflicted, clothe the naked, feed the hungry, and by so doing let our lights so shine that others may see our good works and glorify our Father who is in heaven. "Therefore be ye also ready; for in an hour that ye think not the Son of man cometh." (Matt. 24: 44.)

For Weakness and Loss of Appetite.

The old standard general strengthening tonic, Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic, drives out malaria and builds up the system. A true tonic and sure appetizer. For adults and children. Fifty cents.

This means big and little tents, and we make all kinds. A thousand satisfied users testify to their quality. Let us make you a quotation. No trouble at all.

M. D. & H. L. SMITH COMPANY,
Atlanta, Ga. Dalton, Ga.

Our Frost-proof Cabbage Plants grow in the open—in snow and frost—and are extra hardy. Leading varieties. Send fifty cents for 200, $1 for 500, postpaid, 65 cents for 500 $1 for 1,000, $4 for 5,000, $7.50 for 10,000, by express. Nancy Hall, Triumph, Porto Rico, Norton Yam sweet potato plants from Wakefield's "Bred Up" seed, $2 per 1,000. Free booklet. Wakefield Plant Farm, Charlotte, N. C.

WHEN WRITING OUR ADVERTISERS
PLEASE MENTION THIS PUBLICATION

JOHN H. PATTERSON "STARS" AS AN AGENT IN BUSINESS DRAMA.

President of N. C. R. Company Acts Leading Part in Salesmanship Play.

THUS HE TEACHES NEW METHODS OF SELLING.

John H. Patterson, president and general manager of the National Cash Register Company, is the "star" in a very clever six-act business play now being produced before audiences of salesmen.

This play, "The Evolution of a Store," is the latest plan of the National Cash Register Company for the instruction of its large sales force in new selling methods. But the most striking feature of it is, of course, the appearance of President Patterson as the "star."

The President is noted for his originality of method in all things, more especially in developing selling talent. He founded the first "school" for salesmen, and he has made "teaching by the eye" an axiom of business training.

In every N. C. R. conference his "chalk talks" are a feature. These consist of rough sketches, hastily drawn by the President in black and colored crayon, to drive home various points brought out. Throughout the cash-register plant you will find large paper tablets on easels and an abundance of crayons, and a "chalk talk" is just as likely in the shops as in the conference rooms. The President is also a strong advocate of moving pictures.

In the staging of "The Evolution of a Store" he has resorted to dramatics as an effective means of impressing, as well as interesting, his hearers. The play is based on the troubles of a storekeeper. Mr. Patterson takes the part of the cash-register agent; and when the play had its severest try-out here recently at the National Cash Register plant, he occupied the stage for a total of three hours.

More remarkable, his "lines" were entirely impromptu, and he gave a masterly demonstration of modern salesmanship. In the first act he made the "approach" to a retail grocer, inviting the latter's interest and confidence by suggesting in a friendly way improvements possible in store methods. In the second act the agent had interested the grocer in the 1916 model of the National Cash Register, and had also succeeded in converting the grocer's wife in favor of the proposition.

Next, the agent visited the grocer's banker and the wholesaler, and "sold" them. Then, after the cash register had been installed, two acts were given to explaining "N. C. R. service." This service, which is a feature of the company's 1916 advertising, included such subjects as the training of clerks, window displays, and the like.

Of course "The Evolution of a Store" has its "happy ending"—better business for the grocer, an improved financial condition, and increased home happiness.

The play affords the opportunity to Mr. Patterson to display those marvelous business traits which have made him a master of business. Both in his acting and in his "lines" he shows the supreme value of enthusiasm, sincerity, intelligence, kindness, courtesy, and other factors of up-to-date salesmanship.

The play is intended for the benefit of the company's salesmen, and it will only be produced before audiences composed of salesmen brought to the plant for instruction.

POTATO PLANTS.

Ten million genuine Nancy Hall, Porto Rico, and Triumphs. Prices, 500 for $1.35, 1,000 for $2.50, postpaid and insured. By express, 1000 for $1.75; 5,000 to 10,000 at $1.60; 15,000 to 20,000, at $1.50 per 1,000. Plants ready April 1. Prompt delivery and good, strong plants guaranteed. Write for a descriptive price list.

PIEDMONT PLANT CO.,
Albany, Ga., and Greenville, S. C.

Sore Teeth, Diseased Gums. (Pyorrhea)

I offer to you, dear reader, a new, simple, and painless method of treatment at home by which you may save the teeth nature gave you, make your mouth healthy, and escape the torture and expense of false teeth.

My Book Tells All About It FREE

Write me to-day and learn all about this new and easy method that you can use at home, so there may be no further need for you to undergo painful or expensive dental treatment. If you have pyorrhea or Rigg's disease, gingivitis, receding gums, elongated or loose teeth; soft, discolored, or spongy gums; if your breath is foul; if your teeth pain while eating; if you are subject to bad tastes—then, for your own sake, send for my book and learn how easy this method is—how painless and speedy—how it may quickly and permanently give you sound, healthy teeth.

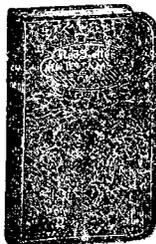

Don't wait. Merely ask for my book, and it will be sent at once FREE and without obligation of any kind. Address

DR. F. W. WILLARD,
C391 Powers Building, Chicago, Ill.

THE POCKET TESTAMENT LEAGUE

Announcing Vest Pocket New Testaments

The handiest, daintiest, and most useful edition of the New Testament published. It takes up little room and will really fit the pocket. Printed on fine paper from the largest type ever used in so small a book.

Size $2\frac{3}{4} \times 4\frac{3}{8}$ inches.

Specimen of Type.
WHOSOEVER BELIEVETH THAT JESUS IS THE CHRIST IS BORN OF GOD: AND EVERY ONE THAT LOVETH HIM

No. 2117

Beautiful Colored Frontispiece in Each,
"Thy Word is a lamp unto my feet"

No. 2117 Bound in Ooze Tan Leather, flexible limp, gold side title, round corners, gold edges, containing membership certificate and suggested daily readings.

Single copies postpaid $.40

Per Dozen 4.00 carriage additional

RED LETTER EDITION

No. 2117 RL. Same as 2117 above WITH ALL THE WORDS OF OUR LORD AND SAVIOUR PRINTED IN RED.

Single copies postpaid $.55

Per Dozen 6.50 carriage additional

THE POCKET TESTAMENT LEAGUE

Is a world-wide organization of those who agree to honestly endeavor to read a portion of a chapter of the Bible daily, and to carry a Testament or Bible about with them. There are no fees of any kind and the aim of the League is to strengthen Christians and to win the unsaved to Christ by spreading God's Word. Members are therefore encouraged to give Testaments away to those who are willing to join the League and fulfill the conditions of reading a portion of a chapter each day.

Any person becomes a member of this League by securing a Testament and agreeing to the conditions set forth in the Membership certificate which accompanies each Testament.

For sale by the McQuiddy Printing Company, Nashville, Tenn.

Keep the Babies Fat and Well.

"Mamma's" Dr. Doran's Worm Remedy expels worms whole, alive. Purely vegetable. Bottles twenty-five cents, by mail. Agent dealers wanted. Doran Drug Company, Paducah, Ky.

The Master's Vineyard

Alabama.

Canoe, March 27.—While there are many discouragements to overcome, the cause is still in a hopeful condition at Atmore. I held services for the first two nights in the Methodist church house, the remainder of the services in the high school auditorium. From there on my way to a point in Florida, I stopped for worship on Lord's day at Canoe. Brother I. L. Boles is principal of the school here, and is of much help in sounding out the word and teaching the Bible in class. He visited Mobile on Lord's day, and reports the work prosperous there, and also at Bay Minette. I have yet two calls to respond to, and in the providence of God will return home and work there in April.

A. B. BLAZER.

Arkansas.

Cash, April 1.—Brother J. W. Dallison, of Rector, Ark., is preaching for us monthly. He is one of God's noblemen. He is becoming old and realizes the great importance of the church work. He "shuns not to declare the whole counsel of God." He often peels us, at least those who are "hearers" when the preacher comes, and not "doers" of the word each Lord's day and all other days. It is probable that he will hold our meeting this summer. Brother Alexander Douglas, one of our very greatest old Arkansas preachers, made his regular round this winter and preached for us a week. Brother Will W. Slater, of Stigler, Okla., taught a three-weeks' singing school for the community just before Christmas and preached for us part of the time at night and on Lord's days. He and Brother Douglas take care of the hypocrites and tobacco users. So, if you are troubled with either in your congregation, just send for either of these brethren. Also, if any of the brethren like "soda pop" too well, Brother Douglas will attend to that, too. The church here is doing fairly well and, with few exceptions, is a good congregation. However, some of the brethren are not attending to the church worship as they should, and some others seem to be on the "busybody" list. I hear some of the elders speaking of a "clean-up" day, and it seems inevitable. Several young congregations over the country are doing fairly well. I am not expecting to remain here many months longer for special reasons, even though I have the best school I have ever taught. Many of my pupils are members of the church.

TOM BUFFALO.

Florida.

Taft, March 19.—Our beloved Brother Cameron came to Pine Castle on February 5. I began a series of meetings which continued till February 20. One sister came out and took her stand on the Bible and has proved faithful ever since. We know that Brother Cameron has faithfully preached the word, and we trust that he will be able to return in the near future and reap a bountiful harvest. Brother Cameron ought to be supported and kept busy all the time he is able to preach, for he certainly preaches the word without addition or subtraction. There surely is not a more worthy or a more consecrated man in the brotherhood than Brother Cameron. We all love him for his work's sake. We love him as a brother. We are not able to support him in the field, but expect to do all we can for him. Can you not persuade the churches to have fellowship with him in this missionary field, and pray for the Lord of the harvest to send forth more laborers into this part of his vineyard, and also that those who are able will have a willing mind to help the faithful preachers who are trying so hard to build up primitive Christianity in this State? Our great desire is to see the true church, the church our Savior bought, established here and all over the State and the world. Mrs. S. C. NEWMAN.

Kentucky.

Hopkinsville, March 30.—Our work here goes on well. The interest is better than the first of the year. I was out at Little River congregation last Sunday, and there was a large crowd. They seem to be very much in earnest. The congregations where I preach say they are going to do more than they have been doing. This is good. I was over at the little congregation at Kirkmansville. This is a new congregation. They have a new building, about paid for. Most of the members had no place to worship, except with the "digressives." I will go to preach for them again on the second Sunday. We are having Bible classes. They are interesting. I think every congregation should have a Bible class. We do not know too much about the word of God.

JOHN T. SMITHSON.

Monticello, March 25.—We had a pleasant meeting at Rankin last Lord's day and at night, with two baptisms. I was at Mill Springs on Monday night, with a good audience. I received a telephone message to come to Clinton County, twenty-one miles, to baptize a man. I found that a Baptist preacher, with enough of his brethren to vote the man worthy of Baptist baptism, had been to see the young man and had proffered to baptize him into the Baptist faith; but the young man said he did not believe the Baptist doctrine of baptism because of remission, but wanted to be baptized for remission; that he believed, had repented, and wanted to be baptized upon a confession of his faith. This the Baptist preacher refused to do. Then the Baptist brethren undertook to persuade him that he did not need baptism at all; that he was saved, anyway. However, they failed in this, and your humble servant was telephoned for, and went, found quite an audience, preached to them from Acts 8, took the confession of the young man, and baptized him. He said: "It is all done now, and I am satisfied." After the service I was requested by a man of the world to leave them an appointment. This I proffered to do if they would provide a house. An old brother said he would move out of the largest room in his house and we could use it. So I will give them a few-days' meeting, beginning on April 10. Several years ago there was a church in this neighborhood, but there are only a very few old members now. This was a most pleasant service to me, made more so by the kind assistance of Brother Wesley Higginbotham, of Monticello, who had made all arrangements and had his horse ready for me to go. Brother Higginbotham is to me a tower of strength. He seems to always know just when the preacher needs encouragement, and, like Jere Whitson, of Cookeville, Tenn., he knows how to give it in an unstinted manner. No wonder the church at Cookeville is growing. They have so many good and true men. But we rejoice to know that we have such beloved colaborers. We feel like saying: Unfurl that banner; it shall wave gloriously over a redeemed world, and the bannered host shall march triumphantly on to the celestial city. J. D. WALLING.

Pennsylvania.

Fayette City, March 27.—I visited the congregation in Pittsburgh last Thursday and preached for them that night. I was treated very courteously while there. This seems a very true and determined little band, and I pray God to bless their noble efforts in that needy field. Brother Hal P. McDonald seems a good, safe man, and is giving some time to the cause there. I commend them as worthy of our coöperation. G. M. RANCE.

Tennessee.

Woodbury, March 27.—For some time I have not been reporting; still I am very busy. I was at Gassaway last Lord's day, and, while it was raining, we had a good crowd, with fine interest. I go to-night to Mount Ararat for a few sermons. I have more calls than I can fill. Best of interest at all places.

C. H. SMITHSON.

Huntland, March 27.—All of the six regular appointments during the month of February were filled in order. On the first Lord's day in February one brother was reclaimed at old Salem. On Wednesday, February 23, I had the pleasure of uniting in the bonds of matrimony Elder H. B. Talley and Mrs. Nancy E. Smith, at the home of the latter. In the month of March all the regular places were filled, with the exception of Hatchett's Schoolhouse on the fourth Lord's day; and on that day I had the pleasure of speaking to the brethren at Elora, in Lincoln County. The brethren at Elora are getting along fine. They are putting in new seats, which, when done, will give them a first-class house of worship. The churches at Caney Hollow and Lexie have set aside the second Lord's day in April for a spe-

OUTLINES OF BIBLE STUDY

REVISED AND ENLARGED

BY G. DALLAS SMITH

FOR USE IN

BIBLE DRILLS, BIBLE READINGS, BIBLE CLASSES, PRAYER MEETINGS, AND HOME STUDY

A BRIEF DESCRIPTION

Outlines of Bible Study (Revised and Enlarged) is a book of one hundred and twenty pages, besides five full-page maps covering all Bible lands. It is printed in large, clear type, on good, heavy paper, and is substantially bound in stiff cloth.

The book contains seventeen drill lessons for use in Bible drills, Bible readings, or any other Bible class where it is desired to cover the entire scope of the Sacred Record in a short time.

Outlines of Bible Study is not a commentary in any sense of the word. It contains but few comments. It is not "literature" in the same sense that some object to literature. It rather guides one in his study that it may be intelligent and systematic.

PRICES

Single copy, prepaid, fifty cents; one dozen copies, prepaid, $5.50; twenty-five copies, not prepaid, $10; fifty copies, not prepaid, $18.50; one hundred copies, not prepaid, $35.

McQUIDDY PRINTING COMPANY

NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE

Sister: Read My Free Offer!

I am a woman.
I know a woman's trials.
I know her need of sympathy and help.

If you, my sister, are unhappy because of ill-health, if you feel unfit for household duties, social pleasures, or daily employment, write and tell me just how you suffer, and ask for my free ten days' trial of a home treatment suited to your needs. Men cannot understand women's sufferings. What we women know from experience, we know better than any man. I want to tell you how to cure yourself at home at a cost of about 12 cents a week.

If you suffer from women's peculiar ailments causing pain in the head, back, or bowels, feeling of weight and dragging down sensation, falling or displacement of pelvic organs, causing kidney and bladder weakness or constipation and piles, painful or irregular periods, catarrhal conditions and discharges, extreme nervousness, depressed spirits, melancholy, desire to cry, fear of something evil about to happen, creeping feeling along the spine, palpitation, hot flashes, weariness, sallow complexion with dark circles under the eyes, pain in the left breast or a general feeling that life is not worth living,

I INVITE YOU TO SEND TODAY FOR MY FREE TEN DAYS' TREATMENT

and learn how these ailments can be easily and surely conquered at home without the dangers and expense of an operation. When you are cured, and able to enjoy life again, you can pass the good word along to some other sufferer. My home treatment is for young or old. To Mothers of Daughters, I will explain how to overcome green sickness (chlorosis), irregularities, headaches, and lassitude in young women and restore them to plumpness and health. Tell me if you are worried about your daughter. Remember it costs you nothing to give my home treatment a ten days' trial, and does not interfere with daily work. If health is worth asking for, then accept my generous offer and write for the free treatment, including my illustrated booklet, "Women's Own Medical Adviser." I will send all in plain wrappers postpaid. To save time, you can cut out this offer, mark your feelings, and return to me. Send today, as you may not see this offer again. Address,

MRS. M. SUMMERS, - - - - - Box 195 SOUTH BEND, IND.

cial contribution for the Tennessee Orphans' Home at Columbia. Let those who can help this worthy work do so. If we cannot be missionaries to some foreign land or preach at home, we can help in some way. Brother John C. Hollinsworth, of Huntland, was called across the silent river last Thursday morning. Several children and many friends are left to mourn the loss. Brother J. R. Bradley preached the funeral sermon, after which the body was laid away in the cemetery here. E. GASTON COLLINS.

THE KIDNEYS AND THE SKIN.—If the kidneys are weak or torpid, the skin will be pimply or blotchy. Hood's Sarsaparilla strengthens and stimulates the kidneys and clears the complexion. By thoroughly purifying the blood it makes good health.

Subscribe for the Bible Study Helper. Sixty cents per year.

HOW MRS. BEAN MET THE CRISIS

Carried Safely Through Change of Life by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Nashville, Tenn.—“When I was going through the Change of Life I had a tumor as large as a child's head. The doctor said it was three years coming and gave me medicine for it until I was called away from the city for some time. Of course I could not go to him then, so my sister-in-law told me that she thought Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound would cure it. It helped both the Change of Life and the tumor and when I got home I did not need the doctor. I took the Pinkham remedies until the tumor was gone, the doctor said, and I have not felt it since. I tell every one how I was cured. If this letter will help others you are welcome to use it.”

—Mrs. E. H. BEAN, 525 Joseph Avenue, Nashville, Tenn.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a pure remedy containing the extractive properties of good old fashioned roots and herbs, meets the needs of woman's system at this critical period of her life. Try it.

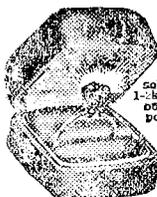

If there is any symptom in your case which puzzles you, write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

$15 ^{95 UPWARD} ON TRIAL
Fully Guaranteed

American CREAM SEPARATOR

A SOLID PROPOSITION to send new, well made, easy running, perfect skimming separator for $15.95 Skims warm or cold milk making heavy or light cream. Bowl is a sanitary marvel, easily cleaned.

ABSOLUTELY ON APPROVAL
Gears thoroughly protected. Different from this picture, which illustrates our large capacity machines. Western orders filled from western points. Whether dairy is large or small write for handsome free catalog. Address:
AMERICAN SEPARATOR CO.
Box 3164B Bainbridge, N. Y.

FREE DIAMOND RING OFFER

Just to advertise our famous Hawaiian Im. diamonds—the greatest discovery the world has ever known. We will send absolutely free this 14k gold f. ring, set with a 1-1/2 Hawaiian Im. diamond—in beautiful ring case, postage paid. If this is satisfactory pay postmaster $1.50 to cover postage, boxing, advertising, handling, etc. If not satisfactory return at our expense and money refunded. Only 1,000 rings given away. Send no money. Answer quick. Send size of finger

KRAUTH & REED DEPT. 88.
MASONIC TEMPLE, CHICAGO

YOU CAN AFFORD Familiar Songs of the Gospel (No. 1 or 2). Round or shape notes. $3 per hundred, samples 5c each. 53 songs, words and music.
E. A. K. HACKETT, FORT WAYNE, INDIANA

Preparedness in All Things.

(Culled especially for the “Preparedness” Number.)

Nothing more facilitates the accomplishment of any work than readiness. To be prepared, equipped, or supplied with what is needed, lends great impetus to the mind's incentives, and, like a locomotive, generates force and power as it moves. Failure in various business enterprises often results from lack of preparedness. However, to fail in business or the attainment of fame and worldly ambition is, by no means, the most disastrous thing. Many spend all their time in the preparation for, and accomplishment of, such as the above, all of which must eventually fail, although it prospers in time, to the sad neglect of that higher calling which so completely answers the demands of that longing which nothing bearing the stamp of materialism can ever satisfy. The unanimous testimony of those who have really attained to heights of success in secular callings is, in the words of Trench, truly and beautifully expressed as follows: “None but God can satisfy the longings of an immortal soul; that as the heart was made for him, so he only can fill it.” Let us not, therefore, neglect the one thing—the care of the soul.

The Christian that counts in time or eternity is one that is ready. Our government maintains an army which is ready to answer for battle on a moment's notice, being properly clothed, armed, and drilled—a standing army. Thus every Christian in the Lord's army should be properly clothed, armed, and drilled—a unit in a standing army. We are commanded to “stand therefore, having your loins girt about with truth, and having on the breastplate of righteousness.” (Eph. 6: 14.) The matter of Christian readiness, or preparedness, was not overlooked by the New Testament writers, as seen in those things for which we should be ready. This opens up a field which really and logically looks to every item of the Christian's worship and service; however, we must be content to mention just a few things.

We would suggest, in the first place, that we should be ready to give ample and intelligent reasons why we are what we are. “But sanctify the Lord God in your hearts: and be ready always to give an answer to every man that asketh you a reason of the hope that is in you with meekness and fear.” (1 Pet. 3: 15.) It is the privilege and duty of all to understand and to be able to give an intelligent reason for their religious faith and practice upon which their eternal hopes are based. To be satisfied with less would certainly be to fall beneath the

What They All Say.

A few extracts from letters of club members will give you some idea of the many attractive features of the Gospel Advocate Piano Club and will explain why it is so popular. Here are a few samples taken from the correspondence at random:

I certainly am enjoying my piano. I couldn't have gotten any better piano in Decatur than the one I got from you if I had paid one hundred and fifty dollars more than this one cost me.—Mrs F. B.

It is a beauty, and we are delighted with it. The tone is perfect. Your club is a grand thing.—Mrs. E. P. M.

I am perfectly delighted with it; and every one that has heard it, or has played on it, says they have never heard a finer-toned one. I can observe such a vast difference between this one and others that are in this community that have been placed by agents. Every one, even those who know nothing about music, can tell the superiority of this piano over others.—Mrs. J. R.

We like it mighty well. The tone is full and clear, and the smooth and glossy finish is certainly superb. We think it much better than we could have done here for the money.—Mr. O. F. P.

The piano has come, and it is everything I could wish it to be. The tone is so soft and mellow it sounds more like a harp. The base notes are remarkably full and round; the case is specially beautiful. I am entirely delighted with it. I never saw a more perfect instrument.—Mrs. W. J. B.

Almost every letter received from club members contains similar expressions of appreciation. The advertising manager of the Gospel Advocate cordially invites you to write for your copy of the club booklet and catalogue, which explain the big saving in price, the convenient terms, the superior quality and durability of the instruments, the protective guarantees and other attractive features of the club. Address the Associated Piano Clubs, Gospel Advocate Department, Atlanta, Georgia.

Big Deal on Sterling Hose.

Big purchase direct from the mills on “Sterling” Half Hose enables us to offer them while they last at startling prices.

“Sterling” Hose are stainless fast dye—good, clean, selected cotton yarn, nice weight, full seamless double heel and toe, wide elastic instep, long loop-on elastic ribbed top, full standard lengths; come in any color wanted; one dozen to a box, solid sizes, 9 to 11.

Sent, postpaid, to any address in the United States for $1.40 per dozen. Money cheerfully refunded if not delighted. These hose are sold for and are worth 20 to 25 cents a pair in many places. Order to-day. The Bee Hive, Box F, Clinton, S. C.

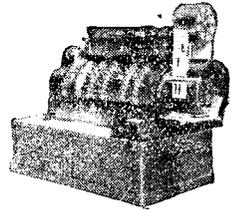

WHEN WRITING OUR ADVERTISERS PLEASE MENTION THIS PUBLICATION

plane of both privilege and duty. It is imperative. One cannot have faith in or concerning a thing about which he has no understanding. The attempts of men to formulate creeds which deal with metaphysical and abstract propositions relating to God, Christ, the Holy Spirit, its work, etc., soliciting subscribers thereto just because it represents a prominent orthodox (?) church, regardless of whether one item of such creed be understood, is wholly at fault. One who thus subscribes is unable to give one intelligent reason why he believes and practices this or that. Isaiah (35: 8) said the way would be so plain that "the wayfaring men, yea fools, should not err therein." Simple faith in Jesus Christ as the Messiah, based upon the testimony submitted by Matthew, Mark, Luke, and John (see John 20: 30, 31), which will lead one to "walk by faith" (2 Cor. 5: 7) or to obey "by faith" (Heb. 11: 8), or, we might further add, show our faith by our works (James 2: 18), is all God requires of any one. Is this not enough? Will not one be as orthodox as God wants him to be if he believes as above stated and no more? There is a great deal of talk about orthodox creeds and churches. The solution for such a problem is easy. It is as follows: It is admitted by all Protestant denominations that belief in these "orthodox" creeds is unnecessary to being a Christian. Then, if it takes belief in any one of those creeds to make one "orthodox," it follows that it takes more to make one "orthodox" than a Christian. Yes, it is freely admitted that one becomes a Christian before joining the church, hence before submitting to said "orthodox" creed. Even if it were either true or permissible that one should have this creedal "orthodoxy," it is wholly unnecessary, since to be a Christian is sufficient. But is not one orthodox who believes and subscribes to the items of faith and worship as laid down in the New Testament? Let us take it as our confession of faith, prayer book, order of worship, etc., for it furnishes full instruction so that we may be ready to give to every man an intelligent reason for the hope we entertain with meekness and fear. In submitting your ready reasons, remember that "a soft answer turneth away wrath; but grievous words stir up anger." (Prov. 15: 1.)

The person who has qualified himself as above instructed is ready to preach. Paul says: "So, as much as in me is, I am ready to preach the gospel to you that are in Rome also. "For I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ: for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth." (Rom. 1: 15, 16.) Are we

A Great National Public Utility

That concerns all merchants and all people

THE original Cash Register rang a bell, indicated and recorded the amount of the purchase. It benefited the merchant only.

In a third of a century this old model has developed into a Cash Register that directly benefits every man, woman and child who spends money in a store.

This new Cash Register equally concerns every merchant and clerk, every banker and wholesaler in this land.

It furnishes every customer with a receipt or sales slip.

It prints on this the amount paid or charged.

On this is also printed the date of the sale and who made it.

It forces a duplicate, printed record for the merchant.

It prevents disputes over charges and bills paid.

It saves shopper's time.

It gives the merchant all his profits. It gives him more money for his family.

It promotes more and quicker sales.

It protects each clerk against making errors and against the mistakes of others.

It rewards the diligent clerk by telling his employer which one makes the largest number of sales and which one gets the greatest amount of business.

It assures the banker additional security for the money he loans the merchant.

It gives the wholesaler additional assurance that the merchant will have money to pay his bills.

It furnishes the banker and the wholesaler mechanical evidence that the merchant's statement of his business is correct.

It is a business necessity.

MERCHANTS!! We have new 1916 models that give this perfect service. Write us today or see our agent in your city and learn how you can secure one of these public service machines. Liberal allowances are made for Old National Cash Registers that were good in their day, but do not so completely protect you or give the valuable service our 1916 Models do. Address Dept. X.

The National Cash Register Company, Dayton, Ohio

LOOK FOR THIS SIGN IN THE WINDOW

ready—prepared and willing—to preach the gospel that others may be saved by God's power? All should have our "feet shod with the preparation of the gospel of peace." (Eph. 6: 15.) Some may preach this gospel with pen, some with tongue, but all may preach it with their influence. All are responsible for what they can do in the way they have opportunity. One man is said to have attributed his interest in Christianity to the faithfulness of an old man who, in summer and winter, heat and cold, could be seen making his way over to the little church where he worshiped every Lord's day. The example of a faithful life, no matter how humble and unostentatious, is an unanswerable argument. One of our most faithful young preachers told me that he might have been an infidel but for the life of a poor farmer who worked rented land, but whose hopes were firmly set on an eternal estate. The Philippian church was ready to preach, but "lacked opportunity." (Phil. 4: 10-17.) Can that be said of your congregation?

Perhaps there are many churches and individuals that have means, but

To FAT People FREE

SHOWING REDUCTION About 40 POUNDS.
 Mrs. A. Laval writes: "I think nothing of walking four or five miles without getting out of breath or tired; my complexion is clearer; have lost 40 pounds."
 I will send full testimonials with names and addresses of a legion of men and women whose weight has been reduced the extent they desired, also a FREE PROOF TREATMENT and BOOK OF ADVICE TO FAT PEOPLE, all free in plain wrapper, post-paid. Costs absolutely nothing; a post-card will bring all. Dr. F. T. BROUGH, 619 Brough Bldg., East 22d. St., New York (Licensed physician by the State of New York)

A safe and palatable laxative for children

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup

Absolutely Non-narcotic

Does not contain opium, morphine, nor any of their derivatives.

By checking wind colic and correcting intestinal troubles common with children during the period of teething, helps to produce natural and healthy sleep.

Soothes the fretting baby and thereby gives relief to the tired mother.

PELLAGRA

Cured Or You Pay Nothing

I have cured—cured to stay cured—90% of all who have taken my Pellagra Cure. What I have done for others I GUARANTEE to do for you or my treatment will cost you nothing. Highly endorsed by Physicians, Bankers, Ministers, County Officials and others. If you doubt, write any official or merchant in Walker County. No interference with work—no restrictions on your eating.

SYMPTOMS are: Hands red like sunburn; sore mouth; throat, tongue and lips flaming red; much mucus and choking; indigestion and nausea; diarrhea or constipation; mind affected and many other symptoms. No matter what anyone tells you about FREE Book Pellagra, write for my which fully explains my theory of the cause, prevention and cure of this dreaded disease—full of interesting facts which I have proven beyond doubt. Also contains full particulars of my remarkable offer of NO CURE—NO PAY. Free diagnosis to anyone sending symptoms. Send no money but write today!

Dr. W. J. McCrary, Dept 238 Carbon Hill, Alabama
 Show this to some unfortunate sufferer

Pastors: WE publish Books, Pamphlets, Minutes, Sermons, Church Directories, Manuals and rebound books and magazines. Specialists in Church Envelopes. Write us for prices.
 419 S. Third St. MAYES PRINTING CO., Inc. Louisville, Ky.

are not ready to distribute. The Gentle apostle says, concerning those who have the means, "that they do good, that they be rich in good works, ready to distribute, willing to communicate," and adds a splendid reason: "Laying up in store for themselves a good foundation against the time to come, that they may lay hold on eternal life." (1 Tim. 6: 18, 19.) Solomon says: "He that hath pity upon the poor lendeth unto the Lord; and that which he hath given will he pay him again." (Prov. 19: 17.) An illustration of the last thought in the above quotation is seen, we are told, in the agricultural methods employed in the Nile valley, when, at the time of the receding of the waters following the yearly overflow of that famous river, farmers sow their seed, which find place in the sediment, and, without cultivation, bring forth "a hundredfold." It is possible that Solomon also refers to this same thing in this: "Cast thy bread upon the waters: for thou shalt find it after many days." (Eccles. 11: 1.) Let us be sure that we make safe deposits. There is a bank that will never fail—only one. Here it is: "But lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust doth corrupt, and where thieves do not break through nor steal." (Matt. 6: 20.)

We are admonished to be ready for every good work. "Put them in mind to be subject to principalities and powers, to obey magistrates, to be ready to every good work." (Tit. 3: 1.) The religion of our Savior is a system of good works. James (1: 27) says that pure religion is "to visit the fatherless and widows in their affliction, and to keep himself unspotted from the world." "As we have therefore opportunity, let us do good unto all men, especially unto them who are of the household of faith." (Gal. 6: 10.) Solomon tells us to do our best at whatever thing our hand finds to do (Eccles. 9: 10), inasmuch as we have no further opportunities to do any good work in the grave.

Those who have been ready and prepared for every good work are ready to die. While Paul was en route to Jerusalem, he visited the church at Cesarea. While there, a prophet by the name of Agabus came down from Judea, bound himself with Paul's girdle, saying, "So shall the Jews at Jerusalem bind the man that owneth this girdle" (Acts 21: 11), whereupon Paul's friends besought him not to go up to Jerusalem. Paul said: "What mean ye to weep and to break mine heart? for I am ready not to be bound only, but also to die at Jerusalem for the name of the Lord Jesus." (Acts 21: 13.) Referring to the same thing,

SIGN YOUR NAME HERE.

If you suffer with any chronic disease that does not seem to be benefited by drugs, such as dyspepsia, indigestion, sick headache, neuralgia, rheumatism, gallstones, liver or kidney diseases, or any other chronic ailment involving impure blood, you are cordially invited to accept the liberal offer made below. It is a grave mistake to assume that your case is incurable simply because remedies prepared by human skill have not seemed to benefit you. Put your faith in nature, accept this offer, and you will never have cause to regret it.

I believe this is the most wonderful mineral spring that has ever been discovered, for its waters have either restored or benefited nearly every one who has accepted my offer. Match your faith in this spring against my pocketbook; and if the water does not relieve your case, I will make no charge for it. Clip this notice, sign your name, inclose the amount, and let this wonderful water begin its healing work in you as it has in thousands of others.

Shivar Spring,
 Box 21A, Shelton, S. C.

Gentlemen: I accept your guarantee offer and inclose herewith two dollars for ten gallons of Shivar Mineral Water. I agree to give it a fair trial, in accordance with instructions contained in booklet you will send; and if it fails to benefit my case, you agree to refund the price in full upon receipt of the two empty demijohns, which I agree to return promptly.

Name
 Address
 Shipping Point
 (Please write distinctly.)

Join the Gospel Advocate Piano Club and save forty per cent on high-grade pianos and player-pianos. By clubbing your order with those of ninety-nine other subscribers in a big wholesale factory order, each gets the benefit of the maximum factory discount. Old club members unanimously express themselves as delighted. Write for your copy of the club's catalogue, which fully explains the saving in price, the convenient terms, the free trial, and the absolute protection against all possibility of dissatisfaction. Address the Associated Piano Clubs, Gospel Advocate Department, Atlanta, Ga.

"Special" Silk Hose Offer.

To introduce the beautiful "La France" silk hose for ladies and gentlemen, we offer three pairs, 50-cent quality, for only one dollar, postpaid, in the United States. Pure silk from calf to toe, with durable elastic hile top, heel, and toe for long wear. Sizes, 8 to 10½. In white, tan, or black; assorted if desired. Money back promptly if not delighted. La France Silk Store, Box G, Clinton, S. C.

Church Chime Bell
 Memorial Bells a Specialty.
 McShane Bell Foundry Co., Baltimore, Md., U.S.A.

Better than the Gingerbread that Grandmother Used To Make

—that is the kind of gingerbread you can make with Gail Borden Eagle Brand Condensed Milk. You remember how you loved the delicious, crumbly, brown dainty? You'll enjoy it even more if you make it with "Eagle Brand."

he further says: "For I am now ready to be offered, and the time of my departure is at hand." (2 Tim. 4: 6.) Peter verily affirmed that he was ready to die (Luke 22: 31-34); but when put to the test, he denied his Lord. Let us count the cost of our declarations. "Suffer not thy mouth to cause thy flesh to sin." (Eccles. 5: 4-6.) Life with its opportunities is a more serious question than death. To Paul, death was accounted gain. (Phil. 1: 21-24.) Bob Ingersoll is reported to have said that if Christianity were really what it was set forth as being, promising a home after this life is over, every funeral procession should be turned into a triumphal, victorious march. That statement is not without some force.

But, if we are ready to die, we are also ready to meet the Lord. "Be ye therefore ready also; for the Son of man cometh at an hour when ye think not." (Luke 12: 40.) While no one knows the day nor the hour when the Lord shall come, yet if we are ready and "like unto men looking for their Lord" (Luke 12: 36), he will not come unexpectedly (1 Thess. 5: 1-5). If the Lord should come and find his people not expecting his coming, it would only be proof that they are not ready to enter glory. The parable of the ten virgins, five of whom were ready and five of whom were not ready when, at the midnight hour, the cry was made, "Behold, the bridegroom cometh; go ye forth to meet him" (Matt. 25: 1-13), teaches the imperativeness of being ready to enter glory. The wise virgins had made ample preparation, and so passed in; but the foolish had not oil enough, and went away to buy, and upon their return they found the door shut—too late, alas!

If we would consummate our hopes and holy aspirations in this glad, happy fruition, it will be when we have made preparation in this life. "And as it is appointed unto men once to die, but after this the judgment: so Christ was once offered to bear the sins of many; and unto them that look for him shall he appear a second time without sin [sacrificial offering for sin] unto salvation." (Heb. 9: 27, 28.) "Prepare to meet thy God, O Israel." (Amos 4: 12.) Nothing, I think, would be more fitting as a closing thought than this: "Wherefore let them that suffer according to the will of God commit the keeping of their souls to him in well-doing, as unto a faithful Creator." —T. B. Thompson, in Gospel Message.

Your Heart

is closely connected with your nerves—so close, in fact, that anything which affects your nerves must necessarily affect your heart, and vice versa.

If you are troubled with palpitation, dizziness, shortness of breath, swelling of ankles, pain on either side of the chest, or weak and irregular pulse, symptoms of a nervous breakdown, the best way to remedy the trouble is by giving your heart and nerves the proper tonic. Renovine for the heart and nerves is the best tonic for soothing and restoring a shattered nervous system. For sale by all reliable dealers, fifty cents and one dollar. Manufactured by the Van Vleet-Mansfield Drug Company, Memphis, Tenn.

FIRM FOUNDATION An eight-page weekly religious paper devoted to the restoration of primitive Christianity. Excels in church news; an able corps of writers; extensively circulated. Subscription price, $1 a year, payable in advance. Special rates for clubs. We believe that every loyal Christian should have the Firm Foundation visit his home.

FIRM FOUNDATION PUBLISHING HOUSE, Austin, Texas.

Stop Tobacco EASY-TO-QUIT

is a harmless, effective treatment for cigarette and tobacco habits. Can be given without patient's knowledge in coffee, tea, or other drink. Odorless, tasteless, purely vegetable. Send name and address for trial treatment FREE! in plain wrapper. Treatment inexpensive. No money. Write now. THE ROGERS DRUG & CHEMICAL CO., 399 Lincoln Inn Court, Cincinnati, Ohio.

JACOBS & COMPANY
SPECIAL ADVERTISING AGENTS
PRINTERS
DESIGNERS
PHOTO ENGRAVERS
ELECTROTYPERS
Catalogues —
— a Specialty
HOME OFFICE:
CLINTON, S.C.

WHEN WRITING OUR ADVERTISERS PLEASE MENTION THIS PUBLICATION

MONEY IN PIGEONS

Make Your Back Yard Profitable

THE demand for squabs in the Northern, Eastern and Southern markets has never been supplied, because pigeon raising as a business is comparatively new. Buy a half dozen pair of select birds, fence in a small portion of your back yard and watch them go to work. Success is easy. They raise from eight to fifteen pairs of squabs a year. Your squabs and fancy birds will bring handsome returns. You will actually make money in a hitherto useless part of your back yard. Pigeon raising is not a fad or fancy. It is a profitable business. Let us start you right. Our breeders are the best, and raised from prize winning parents. We will furnish you with the birds and teach you how to raise them, and you will reap a handsome profit with a very little outlay. Thousands are taking advantage of this same opportunity. Write to-day for our literature on pigeon raising as a money making proposition, or better still, write us to send you a few pair of Belgian Carneaux at $3.00 per pair. White Swiss Mondaines at $5.00 per pair. White Kings at $3.50 per pair, or White Maltese at $4.00 per pair. Our birds are all guaranteed. Your money back if after two months you are not satisfied with their work. Better prices on larger orders. Write to-day and get the pick of the flock.

CAROLINA PIGEON PLANT,
Pen Series G — CLINTON, S.C.

FRECKLES

Now Is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freckles as the prescription ointment—double strength—is guaranteed to remove these homely spots.

Simply get an ounce of ointment—double strength—from your druggist, and apply a little of it at night and morning and you should soon see that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the lighter ones have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than an ounce is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a beautiful clear complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength ointment as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.

PAY ONLY $1.00 A MONTH

THREE PIECE LIVING ROOM SET $10.95
with library table having 3 drawers, 24 in. top, book shelf and drawer; solid comfort arm chair and rocker with spring seats covered with best imitation Spanish leather $10.95, $1 down, $1 a month. 30 days trial

We offer you the biggest buying chance of lifetime—cash bargains on our monthly payment plan. No interest. 1500 Special Big Bargains, to introduce our quality furniture, rugs, curtains, stoves, kitchen cabinets. Write NOW! RHODES FURNITURE CO. Dep. F. Memphis, Tenn. WRITE FOR CATALOG

Save Half

On Your Machine

Buy your sewing machine now, save half, and get it on easy terms, through the Religious Press Co-Operative Club. We have engaged a large number from a leading American manufacturer, securing prices very little above actual cost. By buying from us you become a member of a big buying club; you get your machine at carload lot prices, plus the small expense of operating the Club. You save all middlemen's profits, agents' commissions, salaries, etc.

We Give You Thirty Days Trial on any of these machines. If you are not entirely satisfied that it is the equal of any machine regularly sold at double the price, return it to us, and the trial costs you nothing. Easy monthly payments if you keep it.

Six Superb Sewing Machine Bargains are shown in the Club catalogue. Prices range from $12.95 to $27.80. Latest model—the best that can be manufactured at the price. All fully warranted for ten years.

Sign and Mail This Coupon Today. Get our catalogue and investigate the Club plan that saves you half on your Sewing Machine.

Religious Press Co-Operative Club

113 E. Carolina Ave. :: Clinton, S. C.

FREE CATALOGUE COUPON.

Religious Press Co-Operative Club, 113 E. Carolina Ave. Clinton, S. C.

Please send me your catalogue, and full details of the Co-Operative Club Plan that will save me half the price on a high quality sewing machine.

Name.....
Address.....

NIXON BUSINESS COLLEGE

offers thorough instruction in the following branches: Bookkeeping, Stenography, Type-writing, Penmanship, and Commercial Law. Now is the time to enroll. Prices very reasonable. Write for catalogue and mention course you wish to take. Address NIXON BUSINESS COLLEGE, Bristol, Tenn.

Among the Colored People

An Appeal for a Tent.

BY S. R. CASSIUS.

I received during the month of February thirteen dollars on the tent and seven dollars on support. While I have been sick for two months (and am still sick), I managed to visit the brethren in Tulsa, Okla., where I preached six sermons. The other churches had something doing every night I was there. They even put in a moving-picture show. One thing I learned was that if the low and degraded of my people are reached, we must go to them; and the tent is the only means of going. I am going to ask Brethren J. C. McQuiddy, A. B. Lipscomb, F. L. Rowe, H. C. Shoulders, and Brother Showalter to get behind me and get me a tent. I will keep up my appeal until it is paid for. I need all the help that the brethren can spare me, and I am glad to get it, but I would rather that the tent money be sent direct to the above-named brethren; then I would not be tempted to use it to supply my needs. I am trying to be honest in the sight of all men, and I am trying to lift up my people on higher ground. I already have six calls for tent meetings, and as soon as the weather is right I want to go. My address is Route 2, Box 54, Meridian, Okla.

Report for January and February.

BY S. W. WOMACK.

On account of having a heavy attack of grippe, I spent January and February in the city, visiting Cowan Street, Kayne Avenue, and Jackson Street congregations; and by the help of the Lord I was with one of these congregations each Lord's day. The interest, attention, and attendance at each point is good. On the fourth Lord's day in February, morning and night, Brother M. Boyd preached at the Jackson Street Church. This church has set aside one Lord's day in each month to take a collection for mission work, and I am thankful to them for the same, and I trust their example may be followed by others.

I here give some notes of encouragement to the work. Brother B. F. Hart, of Petersburg, Tenn., says: "I am deeply interested in the work among the colored people. Inclosed you will find a check." Dr. Hardison, Sr., of Lewisburg, Tenn., says: "Teach your people to help in the work. Lest we do wrong, we are afraid not to help. Inclosed find a contribution from the church." Dr. Grisard, Sr., of Winchester, Tenn., says: "We wish you much success in this year's work. We

CALOMEL TO-DAY, SICK TO-MORROW.

Dose of nasty calomel makes you sick and you lose a day's work.

Calomel salivates! It's mercury. Calomel acts like dynamite on a sluggish liver. When calomel comes into contact with sour bile, it crashes into it, causing cramping and nausea.

If you feel bilious, headachy, constipated, and all knocked out, just go to your druggist and get a fifty-cent bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone, which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful; and if it doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money.

If you take calomel to-day, you'll be sick and nauseated to-morrow; besides, it may salivate you; while if you take Dodson's Liver Tone, you will wake up feeling great, full of ambition, and ready for work or play. It's harmless, pleasant, and safe to give to children; they like it.

Pastor's Son Relieved from Epilepsy.

Epilepsy has long been a bugaboo among American mothers.

There are two forms of this disease—one, which is accompanied by unconsciousness and falling fits; the other, where the spasm is so fleeting that it is hardly recognizable. Both of these forms will yield to persistent treatment with Dr. Miles' Nervine.

The Rev. J. A. Schuler, of Severy, Kan., had a little boy who suffered from epilepsy. After three years of fruitless treatment, it was decided to give Dr. Miles' Nervine a fair trial, and the result was this letter: "I want to thank you for the inestimable benefit Dr. Miles' Nervine has been to my son who was afflicted with epilepsy. He had suffered for three years prior to taking treatment with this remedy. He has never had an attack since the first dose he took of Dr. Miles' Nervine. He has so improved in general appearance and looks that you would not know he was the same boy. The medicine is everything that it is claimed to be. We had tried everything else we could think of, but failed to benefit my son until we used Dr. Miles' Nervine."

Parents who have children who suffer from epilepsy, St. Vitus' Dance, and other like ailments, should avail themselves of this remedy which has been successful before the public for the past thirty years.

If the first bottle does not prove the remedy up to your expectation, your druggist will refund your money.

MILES MEDICAL COMPANY, Elkhart, Ind.

WHEN WRITING OUR ADVERTISERS PLEASE MENTION THIS PUBLICATION

send our mite." Brother Starnes, of Bryan, Ohio, says: "I am in feeble health and the members of the congregation are poor in this world's goods, and I feel at times that this world will not afford me a home much longer; but our hearts and prayers are in the work. Inclosed find a contribution." Brother Wilson Howland, Sr., and Wilson Howland, Jr., colored, of Mount Pleasant Schoolhouse mission, and others in Rutherford County, say: "Preach the word, and accept our small token of remembrance." The new mission field at Sugar Grove, Ky., sends the same. The good white sisters of South College Street Church and Carroll Street Church, of Nashville, send their contributions and greetings. Brother W. T. Selley says: "I hope you will be able to do more this year than any time in the past. Inclosed find my contribution." Brother and Sister T. B. Larimore say: "We have great interest in the work among the colored people. Be faithful and preach the word. We send you our contribution." However small these gifts may be, we are very thankful to all who have contributed; and if there are any who have aided us whose names we have omitted, we are very thankful to them also; and I hope others will fall in line.

I spoke for the church in Lebanon on the first Lord's day in March, both morning and night. The attendance, attention, and interest were good, and the congregation is doing a good work.

Brethren D. Lipscomb, Sr., Hammon, Burton, Boles, Pittman, and others, at the solicitation of Sister Annie Tuggle, are manifesting great interest in our school work among the colored people. With the leadership and aid of such men and by the help of the Master above, we are now looking forward for greater things to be done. It now seems like the dark days are over, and I trust that we will be inspired to go on and do more in the future than we have done in the past, and that nothing shall be said or done that will discourage the efforts of these good men and women. Pray for us, that we may prove ourselves worthy of their attention.

When the Baby is Fretful,

out of sorts and restless, you may know the stomach and liver are out of shape and a tonic is needed. Unless the organs are kept healthy, you provoke sickness and possible further complications. The best general tonic to tone up the system and keep the stomach and liver in healthy working order is Plantation Chill and Fever Tonic and Liver Invigorator. Especially good for babies and growing children. Tasteless and pleasant. They take it eagerly. For sale everywhere. Manufactured by Van Vleet-Mansfield Drug Company, Memphis, Tenn.

PRICES OF OUR HYMN BOOKS.

CHRISTIAN HYMNS.

MUSIC EDITION—BOARDS.		MUSIC EDITION—CLOTH.
Single copy, by mail, prepaid.....	$ 0 50	Single copy, by mail, prepaid.....	$ 0 60
Per dozen, by express, not prepaid...	4 80	Per dozen, by express, not prepaid...	6 00
Per dozen, by mail, prepaid.....	5 70	Per dozen, by mail, prepaid.....	7 00
Per hundred, not prepaid.....	35 00	Per hundred, not prepaid.....	45 00

VOICE OF PRAISE.

Single copy, by mail, prepaid.....	$ 0 30	Per dozen, by mail, prepaid.....	$ 3 35
Per dozen, by express, not prepaid...	2 75	Per hundred, not prepaid.....	20 00

WORDS OF TRUTH.

MUSIC EDITION—BOARDS.		MUSIC EDITION—CLOTH.
Single copy, by mail, prepaid.....	$ 0 40	Single copy, by mail, prepaid.....	$ 0 50
Per dozen, by express, not prepaid...	3 60	Per dozen, by express, not prepaid...	4 80
Per dozen, by mail, prepaid.....	4 40	Per dozen, by mail, prepaid.....	5 60
Per hundred, not prepaid.....	25 00	Per hundred, not prepaid.....	35 00

CHRISTIAN HYMNS AND WORDS OF TRUTH—COMBINED.

MUSIC EDITION—BOARDS.		MUSIC EDITION—CLOTH.
Single copy, by mail, prepaid.....	$ 0 60	Single copy, by mail, prepaid.....	$ 0 75
Per dozen, by express, not prepaid...	6 00	Per dozen, by express, not prepaid...	7 50
Per dozen, by mail, prepaid.....	7 20	Per dozen, by mail, prepaid.....	9 00
Per hundred, not prepaid.....	45 00	Per hundred, not prepaid.....	60 00

Christian Hymns and Voice of Praise, combined, same as Christian Hymns and Words of Truth, combined.

GOSPEL PRAISE.

MUSIC EDITION—BOARDS.		MUSIC EDITION—CLOTH.
Single copy, by mail, prepaid.....	$ 0 50	Single copy, by mail, prepaid.....	$ 0 60
Per dozen, by express, not prepaid...	4 80	Per dozen, by express, not prepaid...	6 00
Per dozen, by mail, prepaid.....	5 90	Per dozen, by mail, prepaid.....	7 10
Per hundred, not prepaid.....	35 00	Per hundred, not prepaid.....	45 00

NEW CHRISTIAN HYMN BOOK.

MUSIC EDITION—BOARDS.		MUSIC EDITION—CLOTH.
Single copy, by mail, prepaid.....	$ 0 40	Single copy, by mail, prepaid.....	$ 0 50
Per dozen, by express, not prepaid...	3 00	Per dozen, by express, not prepaid...	4 20
Per dozen, by mail, prepaid.....	3 85	Per dozen, by mail, prepaid.....	5 00
Per fifty, not prepaid.....	11 50	Per fifty, not prepaid.....	16 50
Per hundred, not prepaid.....	22 00	Per hundred, not prepaid.....	32 00

SEVENTY-SEVEN SWEET SONGS.

Single copy, by mail, prepaid.....	$ 0 15	Per fifty, not prepaid.....	$ 5 00
Per dozen, by mail, prepaid.....	1 50	Per hundred, not prepaid.....	9 00

PRAISE HIM.

MUSIC EDITION—BOARDS.		MUSIC EDITION—CLOTH.
Single copy, by mail, prepaid.....	$ 0 50	Single copy, by mail, prepaid.....	$ 0 60
Per dozen, by express, not prepaid...	3 50	Per dozen, by express, not prepaid...	4 70
Per dozen, by mail, prepaid.....	4 75	Per dozen, by mail, prepaid.....	5 50
Per fifty, not prepaid.....	12 00	Per fifty, not prepaid.....	17 50
Per hundred, not prepaid.....	22 50	Per hundred, not prepaid.....	33 00

McQUIDDY PRINTING COMPANY,
NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE.

BOOK AND TRACT PRINTING

WE are especially prepared to set the type, make the plates, and print and bind books of any size, in any style. Give us the approximate number of words in your manuscript, and we will submit a dummy showing the actual size of the finished book, with an estimate of the cost.

Professional Proof Reading and First-class Workmanship Guaranteed

McQUIDDY PRINTING COMPANY

(Publishers of the Gospel Advocate and Religious Books)

317-319 FIFTH AVE., NORTH

NASHVILLE, TENN.

WHY "RENWAR" RELIEVES."

A great many people who are suffering from rheumatism have tried many remedies, but without gaining relief. The reason is that these remedies have not reached the seat of the trouble. The reason for the remarkable work of "Renwar" is the fact that it does reach the seat of the trouble, purifies the blood, and drives out all the impurities. No matter how many remedies you have tried, if you are suffering from rheumatism, we guarantee to refund your money if "Renwar" fails to give satisfactory results. Get a fifty-cent bottle from your druggist to-day. If he does not have it, we will send a bottle, postpaid, upon receipt of price. Warner Drug Company, Nashville, Tenn.

"MOTHERS' DAY" is the title of the beautiful service written for Mothers' Day (2d Sunday in May) by Chas. H. Gabriel and E. E. Hewitt. In round and shaped notes. 5c copy, 55c doz., $4.35 100, postpaid. Sample free. Arranged for 10-piece orchestra; complete score $1.50. • Send 15c for our fine new book of Children's Day Recitations. Ask for FREE samples of new Children's Day Services. THE RODEHEAVER 11 5 Monon Bldg, Chicago COMPANY 715 Lippincott Bldg. Phila

FROM THE FIELD

Tennessee.

Estill Springs, March 30.—On last Lord's day Brother B. C. Goodpasture preached his last sermon of this school year for us. We have been greatly strengthened by his good work and hope we may have him with us again sometime. Brother E. M. Borden, of Little Rock, Ark., will be with us on the fourth Lord's day in April to begin a series of meetings. We trust that much good may be accomplished by his good teaching, and that we may furnish him many hearers, not only here, but from our neighboring congregations. May the peace of God be with you all. JOE A. MASON.

Texas.

Dallas, March 27.—There were two confessions and one to take membership last night at the Pearl and Bryan Streets Church. There have been four other additions since last report. Brother W. M. Davis, of Fort Worth, will begin our meeting next Sunday. L. S. WHITE.

Cleburne, March 27.—The Master's cause we love seems to be gaining in these parts. There were six added to the family here this week; three took fellowship and three were baptized. Our Friday Bible class is fine. Our Sunday classes average about two hundred. Life is what attracts. F. L. YOUNG.

Childress, March 27.—Last night closed my work with the congregation here at Childress. My wife is so much improved that I can go now to the field, and I will begin by preaching at Kirkland next Lord's day. After that I will go on where I am needed most. If the Baptist Church at Tell, Texas, does not back down, we will have a debate there between Brother Oliver and Ben M. Bogard, beginning about the last of April. I will hold meetings this year, if not hindered by sickness, at Indian Gap, Pottsville, Munday, Shamrock, Locust Grove, Hereford Grove, and Cottonwood, Texas; Madill and Stonewall, Okla.; and at other places that may be arranged for later. I have tried to report all the financial help received by me during our late afflictions. If I have failed, please excuse me; I have done the best I could. I now have heavy debts hanging over me, but I will get even and come up out of it all yet. Pray for us here at home. TICE ELKINS.

Quanah, March 27.—We had two splendid services here yesterday, both well attended. The church is waking up to the needs of teaching and preaching the gospel. We use practically twice as many Quarterlies in our Lord's-day Bible School as when I first knew Quanah two years ago. Besides, we have a class using the Bible only. Of course they are not very enthusiastic, but hope they improve enough to really use the Bible. Our prayer meetings are the best-attended in the history of the church here. The spirit of missions is in some members of the church; and while some are not enthusiastic about it, yet these brethren will send me into some barren fields and support me for the work. I leave this week for Roaring Springs, Texas, for a mission meeting which they stand behind. The Quanah church did some work of this nature last year, but will do more this time. I wish every church had a broader view of its duties, possibilities, and opportunities. Quanah has not the wealth of lots of churches—in fact, nearly all her members are poor—yet she supports whoever labors for her, and does more on the outside than many churches reputed to be worth many times more; but still I am sure she does not do her full duty, especially since only a part of the church do it all, or practically all of it. I hope that churches and individuals everywhere may awake to a sense of the obligations that Christianity lays upon us. Should that occur, the church would spread like a green bay tree and blossom as the rose. T. H. ETHERIDGE.

OLD SORES VANISH.

Get rid of them with Gray's Ointment, for ninety-four years an indispensable family remedy for all abrasions and eruptions of the skin. It speedily heals cuts, wounds, burns, bruises, boils, carbuncles, sores, poison oak, etc., and effectively prevents blood poison, which frequently arises from a neglected cut or sore. "I have used your Gray's Ointment for ten years or more; and for boils, carbuncles, and sores, there is nothing equal to it," writes Mrs. G. A. Bolick, Conover, N. C. Only 25 cents a box, and it will save you many an ache and much trouble. Get it at druggists', or try a free sample by writing to W. F. Gray & Co., 818 Gray Building, Nashville, Tenn.

Oxford Bibles
Printed with
Very Large Type

For those who need an extra large type on account of failing sight or old age, this series of Oxford Bibles has no equal.

Weigh Only 29 Oz.

Most large-type Bibles are very heavy, but these Bibles are extremely light because they are printed on the famous Oxford India Paper

Oxford Pica Square Bibles
Size 7½ x 5½ inches
Only 1½ inches thick
Specimen of Type.

2 He only is my rock a salvation; he is my defe

No. 01561x	Alaska Seal, limp, leather lined.....	$8.50
01563x	Alaska Seal, divinity circuit, leather lined, silk sewed	9.00
01565x	Levant Morocco, divinity circuit, leather lined, silk sewed	13.00

Order from
McQUIDDY PRINTING COMPANY,
Nashville, Tennessee

When writing to our advertisers, please mention this paper.

GOSPEL ADVOCATE
AND
HOME AND FARM
$1.75 FOR ONE YEAR

For thirty-six years Home and Farm has been the leading farm paper in Kentucky, the South and Southwest. To-day it is stronger and better than ever and is of great value to every farmer.

The Gospel Advocate and Home and Farm have been clubbed for several years with much satisfaction and profit to our readers. We furnish the two papers for one year for $1.75 to new subscribers or renewals.

Gospel Advocate Publishing Company,
NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE

Subscribe for the Bible Study Helper. Sixty cents per year.

Look to the Future.

Let the thick curtain fall,
I better know than all
How little I have gained,
How vast the unattained.

Others shall sing the song,
Others shall right the wrong,
Finish what I begin,
And all I fail of, win.

What matter, I or they,
Mine or another's day,
So the right word be said
And life the sweeter made?

Ring, bells in far-off steeples,
The joy of unborn peoples;
Sound, trumpets far off blown,
Your triumph is my own.

—Whittier.

Why Is It?

BY JOHN T. POE.

I have been asked by "J. D. C." to answer the following question: "Why is it that wicked people turn the cold shoulder to Christians and do not care to associate with them?"

The devil never did like good people. That is not his style. He just cannot stand piety and prayers and religious life. Hence his emissaries turn the cold shoulder to all of God's people, except in cases where they think there is a chance to win them back to the service of Satan.

Don't mind it. The devil is poor company, anyway. If his emissaries refuse to keep company with you, take it as a big compliment. If the devil refuses to associate with you, it is because he has discovered you cannot be bought nor bribed away from Christ. Don't let him get you to loathing the "manna" God is feeding you on and make you long again for the fleshpots of Egypt. Stick to your manna—God's word—and it won't be long till you will be feeding on milk and honey. God knows what is best for us now, and so he pours out manna (his word) from heaven for us now; and when we get into the promised land, we will eat and drink of all that is good. Not a tree in all our Father's garden but we may eat of its rich fruits; not a clear, running stream but we may drink of it to our fill. The river of life is there, where we may drink and live forever. Look ahead; don't look back. The devil would have you look back to what you left. God calls you to go forward to the great and glorious reward of saints. Let the wicked turn the cold shoulder. You are lucky to lose their society. I never grieve because a wicked man doesn't care to company with me. I take it as a big encouragement when the wicked forsake and the good seek my company. And when we cross the Jordan into the promised land, we shall rest—we shall lay our armor off and rest.

I was four years in the Confederate Army. I had no rest in all that time. I wore my armor almost day and night, always on the alert for the enemy or on the firing line fighting. I think I hardly got a good night's sleep during the four years. But when it was over, I went home, ate, and went to bed. I slept day and night for three weeks, except when I was awakened to take my meals. I rested from my labors. And so it shall be in this spiritual warfare. When it is over, I am going home—going home to rest. And it will not be the old, broken-down home I went to when the Civil War was over, but a palace—a home adorned with every beauty, every good, and all that delights the soul. Elijah must sometimes sit lonely on the mountain side now, but the chariot and the horsemen of heaven's court will come for him by and by. Stephen may have stones instead of roses for telling the truth, but soon the door of heaven shall fly open to his vision and he shall see Jesus standing on the right hand of God and watching the scene with intense interest. Men stoning a man to death because he tells truth—killing him for trying to save them from eternal burnings! So let us be faithful, that at the last God's angels may carry us to his abode, and, bowing before the great, white throne, we present the cross, and He for whose sake we bore it will take it from us and replace it with a crown—a crown!

Memphis Notes.

BY W. HALLIDAY TRICE.

During the past month Brethren Cullom and Bunner and the writer have been exchanging appointments, and thus becoming better acquainted with the brethren and work at the different points. Brother Bunner preached at Harbert Avenue the second Sunday morning and the third Sunday night, and I was at New South Memphis on these occasions. The writer preached at Olive Avenue the first Sunday night and at the Odd Fellows' Hall the fourth Sunday morning, and Brother Cullom was at Harbert Avenue at these appointments. Recently two persons made the confession at South Memphis, and Brother Bunner baptized them the day he was at Harbert Avenue. At the Bible study on Thursday night before the fourth Sunday in March, an excellent lady, who had been a Presbyterian, made the confession at Olive Avenue, and was baptized by Brother Cullom in the baptistry at Harbert Avenue the fourth Sunday. The brethren at all the congregations are working harmoniously together, and we are hopeful of accomplishing much good this year. Beginning on the third Sunday in April, the writer will do the preaching in a meeting at Olive, and we hope to keep meetings going on from that time till late in the autumn. Brother Denton is preaching some at Olive, and he has also been out at Brunswick and Macon recently. The colored brethren who meet on Janet Street, near Mississippi Avenue, have had Brother Keeble with them recently, and they are moving along nicely. We all enjoyed Brother Srygley's visit very much, and we hope to have him with us again. The writer recently preached four nights at Brinkley, Ark., and baptized three persons.

Tennessee Orphans' Home.

BY H. W. JONES.

I saw the appeal of Brother Boaz in behalf of the Tennessee Orphans' Home, and, fearing two thousand brethren would not send one dollar each, as Brother King did, and thus wipe out the debt, I decided to be one of four hundred to send five dollars each and pay the debt; so I put a five-dollar bill in a plain envelope and sent it to Brother Boaz.

Now come on, brethren, and let us (a lot of us) put our shoulders to the wheel and free the Home of all indebtedness. What say you? Do not wait for others to send first, but come right on and do what you can and the blessing is yours. (Acts 20: 35.) That is the way to "visit the fatherless" at Columbia. (See James 1: 27.)

Foot Comfort Assured—Brooklyn Man Solves the Problem.

It is no longer necessary to suffer agonies that are caused by misfit shoes. Simon's Ezwear Shoes are built to give every possible foot comfort. They are soft and stylish and do not need breaking in. They fit like the proverbial "old shoe" the minute you wear them. Every pair is guaranteed to give satisfaction and to fit perfectly.

Mr. B. H. Simon will gladly send a free catalogue of over 450 styles of Ezwear Shoes along with self-measuring blank to all who write him. Write for your copy to-day and make your feet happy. Address Mr. B. H. Simon, 1589 Broadway, Brooklyn, N. Y.

I have a simple remedy that will kill hog-cholera germs. It costs but very little. You need not lose any more hogs from cholera. Will send the recipe to any brother for twenty-five cents. W. N. Gantt, Hazlehurst, Ga.

TRY THE OLD RELIABLE

WINTERSMITH'S
CHILL TONIC

For MALARIA CHILLS & FEVER
A FINE GENERAL STRENGTHENING TONIC

URIC-ACID SOLVENT

For Rheumatism and Kidney Trouble.

Fifty-Cent Bottle (32 Doses)
FREE.

Just because you start the day worried and tired, stiff legs and arms and muscles, an aching head, burning and bearing-down pains in the back—worn out before the day begins—do not think you have to stay in that condition.

Those sufferers who are in and out of bed half a dozen times at night will appreciate the rest, comfort, and strength our treatment gives. For every form of bladder trouble, scalding pains, or weakness, its action is really wonderful.

Be strong, well, and vigorous, with no more pains from stiff joints, sore muscles, rheumatic suffering, aching back, or kidney or bladder troubles.

The Williams Treatment conquers kidney and bladder diseases, rheumatism, and all uric-acid troubles, no matter how chronic or stubborn. If you have never used the Williams Treatment, we will give one fifty-cent bottle (thirty-two doses) for your own use, free. Contains no alcohol or habit-forming drug. Does not affect the heart.

Send this notice with your name and address, and ten cents to help pay distribution expenses, to The Dr. D. A. Williams Company, Dept. 2327D New P. O. Block, East Hampton, Conn. You will receive by parcel post a regular fifty-cent bottle (thirty-two doses), without charge and without incurring any obligation. One bottle only to a family or address.

Lime-Loss in Tuberculosis

In the Journal of the American Medical Association (January 17, 1915), was the following: "It has been many times stated that in tuberculosis or in the pretuberculous stage an increased amount of calcium (lime) is lost both in the urine and feces. In fact, a demineralization has been thought to be a forerunner of the development of tuberculosis."

If tuberculosis is due to lime loss, the success of Eckman's Alternative in its treatment may be due, in part, to its content of a lime salt so combined with other valuable ingredients as to be easily assimilated.

Always we have urged consumptives to attend strictly to matters of food, but often some effective remedial agent is needed. In many cases of apparent recovery Eckman's Alternative seems to have supplied this need. It contains no opiates, narcotics or habit-forming drugs, so is safe to try. Price $1 and $2 per bottle. Sold by leading druggists or sent direct from the Laboratory. We would like to send you a booklet containing information of value and references.

ECKMAN LABORATORY,
23 N. Seventh St., Philadelphia

AGENTS $6 a Day

Should be easily made selling our Concentrated Non-Alcoholic Food Flavors, Soups, Perfumes and Toilet Preparations. Over 100 kinds, put up in collapsible tubes. Ten times the strength of bottle extracts. Every home in city or country is a possible customer. Entirely new. Quick sellers. Good repeaters. Not sold in stores. No competition. 100 per cent. profit to agents. Little or no capital required. Elegant sample case for workers. Start now while it's new. Write today—a post card will do—FREE for full particulars

AMERICAN PRODUCTS CO., 4190 Third St., Cincinnati, O.

GOSPEL TENTS

Our Prices Would Interest You.
Ask Us To Quote.

Fulton Bag And Cotton Mills,
Atlanta, Ga.

New York, Dallas, St. Louis, New Orleans

Preparedness.

BY S. R. CASSIUS (COLORED).

(Written especially for the "Preparedness" Number.)

"I go to prepare a place for you."
(John 14: 2.)

Just now, when the whole nation is talking preparedness, I think the Gospel Advocate has acted wisely in bringing the needs of preparation before its readers.

God did not create the world until he had made preparation, so that he knew before he began just what he was going to do. Noah and his family were saved, not because they believed God, but because they believed in the plan that God had designed for their salvation. Moses was careful to follow the plan that God had prepared for him in the mount, and to follow the course that God had prepared for him in the wilderness. It is true that we sometimes have to endure much suffering to obtain the good that God has prepared for us; but it is not the will of God that we suffer or that we are kept back from his blessings; it is because of our lack of faith in his promises, in God's prepared way of faith. It was only a forty-days' journey to the blessings that he held in store for his people, but on account of their lack of faith they had to wander forty years in the wilderness. Still, God did not desert them while they were reaping the wages of sin.

God spent two thousand years in preparing the world for the reception of his Son; yet, when he came, his own received him not. But God's great prepared plan could not be spoiled by human indifference or opposition. God had not only prepared the way, but he had also prepared his Son to walk in that way. Jesus, in turn, prepared the way and the plan in the great scheme or plan of man's redemption, and the apostles, having confidence in Jesus that he was not only the Son of the living God, but that he was also the Savior of the world, waited patiently at Jerusalem for the power to come from God that would enable them to do the work that Jesus had otherwise prepared them to do. We have only to turn to the Acts of the Apostles to see how careful they were to walk in the way that the Lord had prepared for them, always looking unto Jesus, the author and finisher of their faith. We cannot follow God, follow Christ, except through the apostles. So Paul admonished the people: "Be ye followers of me, even as I follow Christ." Jesus had said to the apostles, "Follow me," while he himself followed God; therefore, in his memorable prayer, he said to the Father, Make them one in us.

"I go to prepare a place for you."

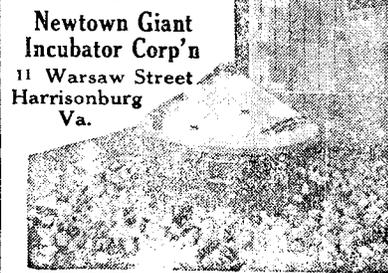

Poultry Profits Sure

when you use the modern coal-burning, self-feeding, self-regulating, trouble-proof

Newtown Giant Colony Brooder

It raises "the most chicks, the best chicks, with least labor and at lowest cost." The first successful brooder of the colony type, and years ahead of all imitations.

Send us your dealer's name. If he cannot supply the Newtown we will ship direct. Descriptive circulars mailed FREE.

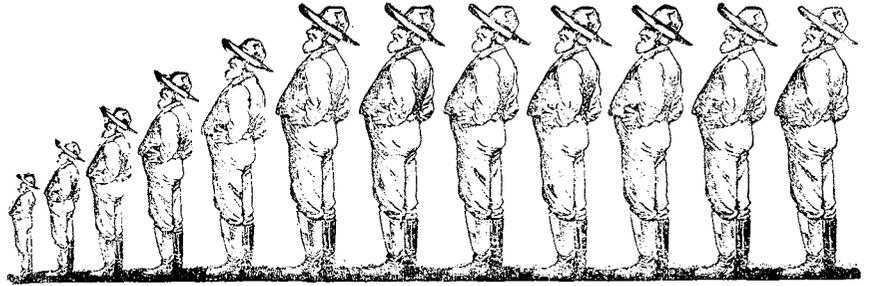

Newtown Giant
Incubator Corp'n
11 Warsaw Street
Harrisonburg
Va.

If, then, Christ has gone to prepare a place for his apostles, he left them here to prepare the world to enter with them into the place that the Lord went to prepare. But who were they to prepare? The answer is plain and simple. "Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature. He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved; but he that believeth not shall be damned." (Mark 16: 15, 16.) I have an idea that the way we preachers have of milling around from one body of believers to another like steers in a feed lot, milling around from one feed trough to another, is not walking in the way that Christ, through the apostles, has prepared for us. What did Jesus say about this? "Go out into the highways and hedges, and compel them to come in." Again, he said: "He that is whole needeth not a physician." Some will ask: "How will we get the world if we do not go to the organized body to do the preaching?" My answer is: Do as I am trying to do: get a tent, go where sin is, and let the light of God's word dispel the darkness of sin. You may ask again if I have got my tent. No; nor will I get it unless it is given to me by a united effort of the disciples of Christ.

Brethren, the world will never come to you to be saved; you have got to go to the world. Those that you oppose will not let you into their houses; private houses are not adapted to that kind of work; the open air is not suited to an extended effort; therefore it is up to the church to prepare our preachers in the field with tents. God prepared the way for Christ; Christ prepared the way for the apostles; the apostles prepared the way for us; and God wants us to prepare the way for others. Give me a tent, and you will prepare me to do what you will not or cannot do.

V-C Fertilizers

V-C FARMERS

are a Power in the World of Agriculture. Every one of them has become a disciple of Greater Prosperity on the Farm through the proper and abundant application of V-C Fertilizers, thereby

MAKING THEIR SOIL AND CROPS PAY MORE

These thousands of Progressive and Prosperous Farmers represent an ever increasing Army of Permanent Soil Builders, hence enabling them to be constantly prepared by any demands made upon their Soil in the way of Better and Bumper Crops, thereby getting the most out of their acreage in Increased Profits. You can do the same. Therefore,

Why not V-C Now?

With a view of still further increasing this Army of Prosperity Builders we have issued, for Free distribution, a series of valuable and profusely illustrated Crop Books, wherein is clearly pointed out the V-C Way to Greater Prosperity on all Farms, no matter what Crops you grow. Simply indicate what Crops you are interested in on a Postal and we will send you Books Free.

ADDRESS:

Crop Book Dept. — V-C Fertilizers — Box JL 1616, Richmond, Va.

Easter Bible Sale!

Just before the holidays we printed a huge edition of our splendid new Self-Pronouncing Teachers' Bible, and as a special courtesy to our many friends and customers throughout the United States we offered this beautiful Teachers' Bible at manufacturer's prices. The orders poured in—we were nearly swamped—and to provide enough Teachers' Bibles to meet the demand we were forced to print a second edition. This second large edition melted away at an astonishingly rapid rate; but we now have remaining on hand a few of these Bibles, which we have decided to offer Gospel Advocate readers at a great bargain in order to advertise our name and to add a few new customers to our mailing list of book buyers. So, then, as long as they last, we offer these brand-new

$5 COMPLETE SELF-PRONOUNCING TEACHERS' BIBLES for only $1.50 Each

Carefully packed in individual boxes and shipped by mail at expense with charges prepaid. Offer No. 1

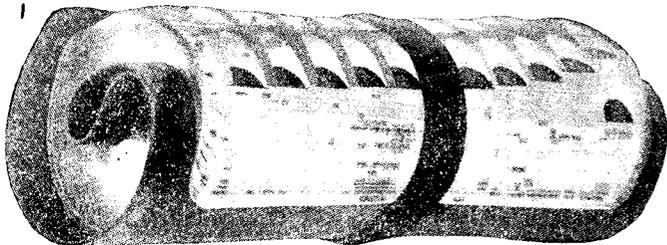

THIS handsome and complete Teachers' Bible is printed from large, clear type, and ordinarily sells for $5.00. The Special Easter Price given above is just about the cost of manufacturing in large quantities, and is offered both as a special courtesy to our many friends and customers and in order to add more names to our mailing list of book buyers.

This beautiful Self-Pronouncing Teachers' Bible contains the complete text of the Old and New Testaments in the King James or Authorized Version, with new feature at bottom of each page showing changes made in Revised Version, printed in a large, clear type on fine Bible paper. It has "References," "Concordance," "5,000 Questions and Answers," "Biblical Atlas," and full "Teachers' Helps." It is handsomely and durably bound in French Morocco, Divinity Circuit (overlapping edges), has silk headband and marker, and red under gold edges.

It is the most appropriate and acceptable Easter gift you could possibly make to a relative, friend, Sunday-school superintendent, teacher, or scholar.

OFFER NO. 2

For $2.00, With All Charges Prepaid

we will send this same beautiful SELF-PRONOUNCING TEACHERS' BIBLE, silk sewed, with silk headband and silk marker, with patent thumb index, cut in edges, and with your name (or any name you prefer) engraved in gold on outside cover. We will also include your card and send the Bible to any address you name so that it will arrive just in time for Easter.

WHAT OTHERS SAY ABOUT IT

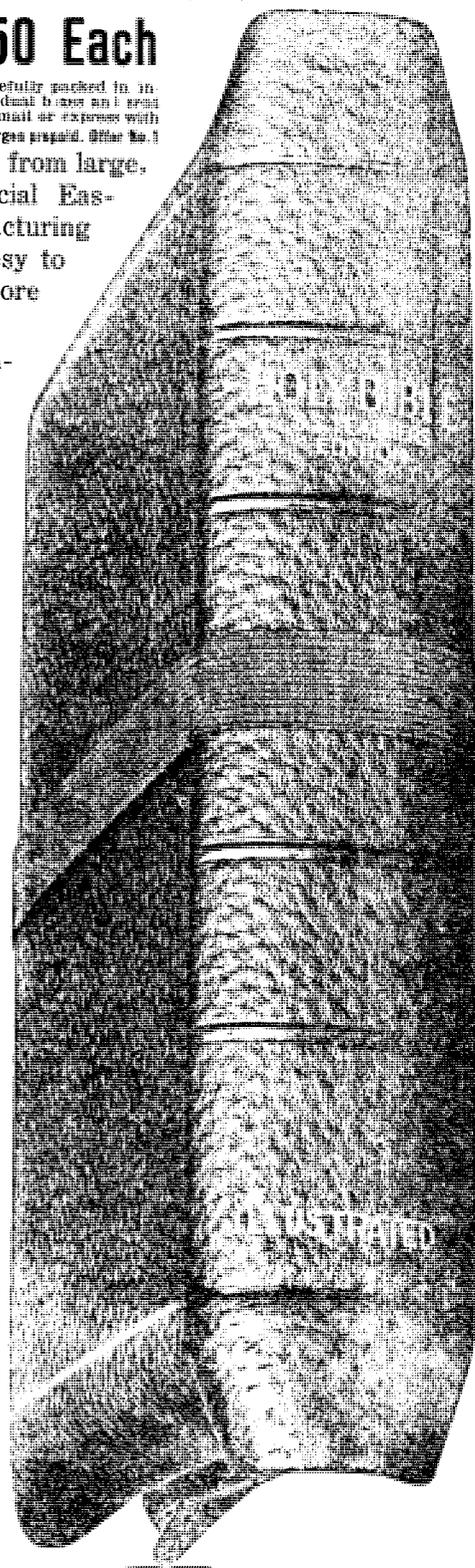

- "The Bible arrived safely, and we are simply delighted with it. It is indeed a wonderful bargain."—Mrs. Peter Lamy, Los Angeles, California.
- "The large-type Bible I ordered came to-day, and I am much pleased with it."—V. W. Norwood, Lenoir, North Carolina.
- "The Bible received. Thanks. The print seems very clear, and I am eighty-three years old."—Mrs. K. S. Doughty, Macon, Mo.
- "My Bible came in good condition and I am much pleased with it. The type is good and the teachers' helps are excellent."—Miss H. P. Axtell, Newark, New Jersey.

OUR ABSOLUTE GUARANTEE

We guarantee that every Bible will be perfectly satisfactory in every respect or money refunded. Remit by cash, express or post-office order, or draft on New York or St. Louis bank. If you send personal check, add 5c. exchange. Please write name and address plainly.

Do not delay. Mail coupon on the left at once. Be sure to tell us what name you wish engraved on cover of Bible if you accept Offer No. 2. Send all orders to

THE BIBLE EDUCATIONAL SOCIETY
1129 Pine Street, St. Louis, Mo.

SIZE WHEN OPEN, 8 x 11 INCHES

G. A. (4-16)

The Bible Educational Society, 1129 Pine Street, St. Louis, Mo.

Send me by mail one Complete Self-Pronouncing Teachers' Bible, for which I inclose your Easter Bargain Price of $1.50. Ship to

Name
Address

NOTE—If you prefer Bible with Thumb Index and name engraved in gold on cover, scratch out $1.50 and write $2.00 above.

FOLD, TEAR OFF, SIGN, AND MAIL AT ONCE.

GOSPEL ADVOCATE

Volume LVIII. No. 15.

NASHVILLE, TENN., APRIL 13, 1916.

$1.50 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

CONTENTS.

"EDIFYING AS THE NEED MAY BE".....	361
OUR CONTRIBUTORS.....	362
The Supreme Test—"Come," The Universal Call—Mother's Gone—
Itinerary Notes—Where Do You Find Christ?
GEORGIA AND THE FAR SOUTHERN FIELD.....	365
A Pretender Come to Light.....	365
SPIRIT OF THE PRESS.....	366
MISSIONARY.....	367
EDITORIAL.....	368
A Letter from New Zealand—The Establishment of the Kingdom—Running for Public Office—Making Laws Where God Has Made None—
What Does the Bible Teach?
QUERY DEPARTMENT.....	372
AT HOME AND ABROAD.....	373
OBITUARIES.....	374
Rogers—Crouch—Calvert—Noblett—Sweet—Curlee—Colwell.....	376
The Narrow Way and Street-Car Admonitions and Warnings.....	377
The Prospect at Pittsburgh, Pa.....	378
From the Field.....	381
Notes from North Carolina.....	382
Notes from West Tennessee.....	383
To the Brethren in Georgia.....	383
Report from Tucuman, N. M.....	383
Crawford-Hight Debate.....	384

Entered at the post-office at Nashville, Tenn., as second-class matter.
Published weekly at Nashville, Tenn.

BY A. B. LIPSCOMB

The Wise Use of Religious Tracts.

In addition to, and in connection with, the conversational method heretofore mentioned, I would mention the use of religious tracts. There is a dignity about the printed page that a conversation may lack. Sometimes statements that in a face-to-face talk the objector would challenge, in the more convincing treatment of the printed page he will be ready to accept. If one can be induced to read a tract upon the all-important question, "What Must I Do to Be Saved?" he is very likely to think it over; it remains upon his heart; he cannot so easily get away from it. In fact, a great many conversions have been traced to the sending and reading of a tract. A distinguished preacher in New York several years ago delivered an address on "The Regeneration of a Race." A colored boy in the South happened to read it. It stirred the ambition within him to be something, and he went to work, secured an education, and, to make a long story short, he is now at the head of the largest publishing house for colored people in the world, located in one of the cities of the South.

Clipped Articles and Personal Letters.

The use of valuable articles clipped from religious papers and magazines is commendable. If you know the people with whom you have to deal, you can readily surmise whether such and such an article would interest them. If you take the pains to carry it or mail it to them, they will appreciate your effort and will reciprocate, at least, so far as to read what you have sent them. The trouble with the majority of people who are out of Christ is that their minds are never called to the matter in any sufficient way. In many instances it will only be necessary to get them turned in the direction of their Christian duty, and they will be found almost ready, with some little enlightenment and instruction, to take their stand with Christian people. Let us remember, too, that sometimes writing a personal letter dealing directly with our interest in the soul of a friend is the best step to take. When the apostles could not see people personally, they used the epistolary method with a tremendous advantage, not only to their friends, but even to us. "See with how large letters I write unto you with mine own hand" is not a boasting of Paul's chirography, but a mark of his personal interest in his friends. Why should the beautiful art of letter writing to save the souls of men be confined to the apostolic age?

Because Our Lamps Are Gone Out.

Again, we may fail as soul winners because our lamps are gone out. This is another reason why we fail or make excuse for our neglect. The spasmodic efforts we put forward to save others are lost because our words and our letters are not backed by the force of our own good example. The man who says, "Don't do as I do, but do as I tell you," will always prove a failure in saving souls. The best course for a man like that to pursue is to keep his mouth shut until he does better. "Feebleness in prayer," said Andrew Murray, "is a sign of disease." Yes, indeed, there is no surer sign of spiritual decay than loss of interest in communion with God. Prayer is the hand that takes hold of Omnipotence. When this hand is weak, the whole life is weak. There was Catherine of Sienna. She was a wool dyer's daughter. She had very few social and educational advantages. She taught herself to read and write. And yet, when this young woman came to mature life, she was sought for by kings and queens and popes and princes, that they might ask for her prayers and counsel. And the secret of it all lay in the fact that she lived a life of prayer. This is the reason why some professing Christians have so little spiritual power. They have allowed the lamp of prayer to burn low. This is the reason, too, why there are in some homes unconverted husbands and sons and daughters. The lamp of prayer has been neglected.

Is the Lamp of Prayer Flickering?

We are told that in some parts of Africa, where several people may be found living in a little hut of one room, there is no privacy. Some of these people who learned of Christ formed the habit of going off into the forest back of their homes for secret prayer. But sometimes these natives begin to neglect their duty and privilege, and the path to the mercy seat becomes overgrown with weeds and brush. Then you can hear one native Christian saying to another: "What's the matter with your track?" Let us forget about Africa for the moment and ask the question of the men and women of this country: "What's the matter with your track? What's the matter with the way that leads from your daily life to the mercy seat of heaven? Have the thorns and weeds of worldly living choked the pathway to the throne? Is the lamp of prayer just flickering, or is it gone out forever?"

Why Home Life is Disintegrating.

More than one thoughtful writer has told us that American home life is in danger of disintegration. I do not wish to be an alarmist. I would rather suggest the remedy. The only thing that will save us from this danger is the family altar. We have so many homes these days and so little home life. The family are seldom ever together. They come in at all hours of the evening and get up at all hours of the morning. There is no method in the home, no time for prayer nor for reading the Bible. We have been setting up altars to gold and silver and lust and worldly amusements, and God's altar has been thrown down. The gods of mammon and intellectualism have taken the place of the God of heaven in many a home. There are parents whose children have never heard the voice of father or mother in prayer, and were it not for the influence of the church and the Bible classes in the church they would be practically heathens. Since the year 1916 began two fathers have come to me and said: "Well, I started off this year by having family prayers with my wife and children." It is quite the best thing I have heard concerning our advancement. May God bless those two fathers and sanctify their example to the good of all.

"Suppose the Husband Won't Do It."

Where the husband is not a Christian, the wife should have family worship. And there are very few husbands who are mean enough to object to their wives' maintaining a family altar. I read the story of a woman recently who attended the house of worship and heard a sermon along this line. She and her husband had been baptized, but they had stayed away from church two years. They had grown children who were unconverted. After hearing the sermon, she went home and called her husband and children into the sitting room, and said: "Husband, we are not living now as we did when we first married. You remember that we had family worship every day, but there has been no prayer in this home for many months. Our children are growing up without a personal knowledge of Christ. Husband, let us begin all over again." Then she took down the Bible and read a chapter and they all knelt in prayer. During the prayer the hot tears trickled down the husband's cheeks, he gave himself anew to God, and the next Sunday their thirteen-year-old daughter confessed her Savior's name.

Dear Christian wife and mother, may I not suggest to you that something like this would happen in your home if you would have the courage to set up God's altar?

"While the Bridegroom Tarrieth."

My message on the quiet evangelism is finished. If I have written anything calculated to make you more diligent and useful in the Master's service, I shall be glad. If I have written anything that will lead a poor sinner out of Christ to come into the fold, or anything that will inspire a neglectful husband and wife to say, "Let us begin all over again," I shall be happy. Some of our lamps are burning low. We must replenish and rekindle them now while the Bridegroom tarrieth, that when he cometh we may meet him with joy, and go in with him to the marriage supper of the Lamb.

The Supreme Test.

BY LYTTON ALLEY.

There are tests many, yet but one supreme test. The great bridge that spans the chasm has been subjected to many trials; it has been weighted and freighted to the danger point, and yet there is to come the final test which shall declare to the world its security as a public utility.

In the great wars of the past there were thousands of deeds of valor—feats of courage and endurance; yet only a few examples dot history's page as supreme tests.

Now we find the same truth when we come to the pages of Inspiration—God's history of the doings of his patriarchs.

In the beginning God tested man; tried him to prove his loyalty. Man was not equal to the supreme test and fell through transgression. And so it has ever been through the ages. God has tried his children, either to find them, as it were, pure gold or only worthless alloy. And while many of them failed, still the great I Am did not cease the testing. The test—the 'supreme test'—is coming to every one. Somewhere along life's highway the crucial trial is waiting for you and for me. Are we prepared against the day of battle? If so, we can face the foe with fortitude and serenity.

At this point intrudes preparedness, a widely discussed topic at this time, and one well worth our consideration.

It is said that upon one occasion, when one of the great powers had declared war on Prussia, a citizen met Von Moltke, the great field general, and very promptly and quite excitedly began to question him concerning the outlook; and on noting the seeming composure of Von Moltke, he was astounded. But, on further inquiry, he found out the secret of the general's complacency—everything was prepared; the only thing necessary was to send word to the many commanders—march! And, by way of interjection, it is said that herein lies the secret of the success of Germany in the great carnage now in progress in Europe.

So, while preparedness is being so widely discussed, it might be well to note that the sacred writer placed much emphasis upon it in the trumpet note: "Prepare to meet thy God." Again: "The horse is prepared against the day of battle, yet safety is of the Lord." Again, the apostle, in his letter to the Ephesians, says: "Having your . . . feet shod with the preparation of the gospel of peace; above all, taking the shield of faith, wherewith ye shall be able to quench all the fiery darts of the wicked."

Let us remember that it will require the whole armor of God; and the whole armor of God equals the whole counsel of God.

No army can be stronger than its weakest fortified point; and what is true concerning an army is true as regards individuals. And the time to prepare for the attack of the enemy is not after the pickets have been driven in. The Savior said if we knew what hour the thief would come, we would not allow our goods to be stolen; and his warning is: "Watch and pray, lest ye enter into temptation."

"Finally, be strong in the Lord, and in the strength of his might," and you need not fear the "supremest test."

"Come"—The Universal Call.

BY JOHN T. POE.

Jesus said: "Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest." This call is universal and intended for the toilers and sufferers of earth. If you carry an intolerable burden, it means you. If you are laboring under some grievance heavy to carry, something under which you can get no rest, take it to Jesus. He promises rest. But you must take it to Jesus; not to the priest, nor the pope—take it to Jesus; not to Martin Luther, nor John Wesley, nor John Calvin—take it to Jesus. He says: "Come unto me." Many that are heavily laden with sins take them to a preacher or a priest, who have no power to forgive or take away sins. Jesus alone can do that." "If we walk in the light [of his word], as he is in the light, we have fellowship one with another, and the blood of Jesus Christ his Son cleanseth us from all sin." Nothing else can. But how can we "come" to Jesus? He says: "It is written in the prophets, And they shall be all taught of God. Every man therefore that hath heard, and hath learned of the Father, cometh unto me." Two things are distinctly mentioned here—(1) that every one must hear, and (2) every one who "hath learned of the Father" (through the prophets, as written) comes to Christ. No one can truly learn that Jesus is the only begotten Son of God without believing what he says. He says he came "to save sinners"—the lost. He did "not come to call the righteous, but sinners to repentance." He came "to save that which was lost." He alone has power to save lost sinners. This he does by a law, which Paul calls "the law of the Spirit of life in Christ Jesus." (Rom. 8: 2.) John says in his testimony that all he wrote of the signs and wonders Jesus did, he wrote "that ye [we] might believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God; and that believing [this fact] ye [we] might have life through his name." Now, if the reader doubts this faith is sufficient to save a sinner, let him turn to Acts 8 and see what faith the eunuch had, and upon a confession of which Philip baptized him. He will find it was precisely the faith John wrote his testimony of Christ to prove; and he wrote it by inspiration of the Holy Spirit, that we might believe that Jesus is the Son of the living God, and that through that faith we might be saved by obedience to his gospel—"the law of the Spirit of life," which was announced to all the world on that wonderful day of Pentecost about ten days after the ascension of Jesus from Mount Olivet. To believing penitents Peter said by the Holy Spirit that day: "Repent, and be baptized . . . in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost. For," said he, "the promise is unto you [Jews], and to your children, and to all that are afar off [the Gentiles], even as many [or unto all] as the Lord our God shall call"—of course, on the same conditions he had just announced. He did not give one law to save Jews and another law to save Gentiles, but one "law of the Spirit of life" to all. In examining the law Jesus gave for salvation, we note that prayer is not a part of it. No man or woman was ever saved by prayer at the mourner's bench or elsewhere so long as he or she was an alien and not a child of God. The fact is, there is not a thing the alien sinner could or ought to pray for that God has not already provided. So, then, we may bring our burden of sin to Jesus just as they did in the days of apostles. It will be noticed that the Holy Spirit says in Acts 2: 38: "Be baptized for [in order to] the remission of sins"—not because sins are pardoned, as the Baptists baptize. If sins are already pardoned, what is baptism for? Why be baptized at all? But this is some of man's doings again—changing "the law of the Spirit of life." Paul said that none were crowned except they ran lawfully, or according to law. Why not accept what the law says and obey it? That made Christians in the days of apostles and would make them Christians now. The law of God, or of the Spirit of life, never made a Baptist, a Methodist, or a Presbyterian since the world began, nor anything else but a Christian. Baptists, Methodists, etc., are made by a law of man. Human tradition is not all found in the Roman Catholic hierarchy. You will find it among all the denominations and sects. They do not believe God, they themselves being witness. To prove this, I would want no other witness than they. All who desire to be saved, then, should be careful to obey the law of God. Never mind what men say, do what the Lord says. This is safe; nothing else is safe.

Mother's Gone.

BY T. Q. MARTIN.

At two o'clock, Thursday, March 2, 1916, we laid to rest in the Dyke's graveyard, Clark County, Ky., the body of my darling mother.

I was called home from Ohio on account of her extreme illness, and God graciously spared her to know and talk with her unworthy boy before going home.

The funeral service was conducted by H. C. Shoulders and that grand old man of God, James W. Harding, ten years older than my mother, and who had known her from her early life. My heart is too sad now to tell of that last, sad, sweet talk with mother.

God spared her to live to a ripe old age. She passed the eighty-third milestone on life's rugged road, October 12, 1915.

She was the mother of ten children, eight of whom survive her. She was patient, gentle, and good. No boy ever had a sweeter, more devoted mother than the writer of these lines. I want to thank, and do herein thank from my heart, the many Gospel Advocate readers who have written to me expressing sweet messages of sympathy.

And now, while the wound in my aching heart is fresh, I am called upon to pass under another dark cloud.

I was called home by telegram from Coal City, Ind., to the bedside of my dear wife. I reached home at half past nine o'clock Friday night, March 17. I found her in a very critical condition. We called a special surgeon from Lexington, Ky., Saturday morning; and when he and our family physician had held a consultation, they called me into the front room and told me a speedy operation was necessary. She was taken to the hospital Saturday afternoon and was operated upon at ten o'clock on Lord's-day morning. I was not permitted to see her after the operation until half past six in the evening. She stood the operation wonderfully well for her weakened condition, and, blessed be God, she is resting well now. It seems that my cup of sorrow has run over lately, but—O blessed thought!—"My grace is sufficient for thee." As soon as it is possible for me to leave her, I shall go back to my work in my Master's vineyard. We ask for the prayers of our friends in Christ. I beg to append this little poem sent to me by one of the dear, sweet, Christian girls in the Nashville Bible School:

Mother's gone to that fair city,
All her earthly race is run.
O how sadly we shall miss her!
Still we say: "God's will be done."

Mother's gone to that fair city,
Where no darkness can come;
Mother's gone to live with Jesus,
In that bright eternal home.

Mother's gone to that fair city,
Where no age shall dim the eye.
O, we never can forget her!
Farewell, dear, till by and by.

Mother's gone to that fair city,
Gone eternal joys to share;
Mother's safe within the portal
Of the home just over there

These lines express my heart's feelings much better than I could express them.

The dear, sweet girl closes her letter to me in these words: "May the dear Lord be with you all along life's journey in every time of need, and may he always bless you and yours, is my prayer. Sweet letter, indeed!"

Itinerary Notes.

BY F. B. SRYGLEY.

I spent Sunday and Monday, March 19, 20, in Huntsville, Ala. I had never preached in Huntsville, before; but I felt very much at home there, as Alabama is my native State. Huntsville is one of the best towns, from a commercial standpoint, in the northern part of the State. It is an old town with many fine old residences in it, and one of the finest and largest springs of water to be found anywhere. This spring furnishes water for the entire city, and still there is a considerable creek left. We have many faithful brethren in Huntsville; and while they have had their troubles, they do not seem to be discouraged. I preached on Sunday afternoon at Merrimack, a suburb of Huntsville, and on Monday night at Dallas Mills. They have nice congregations at both these places. There are, perhaps, some four hundred members in Huntsville and suburbs, and they all seem to be faithful to the ancient landmarks. It was an inspiration to me to be with these good people; and with the zeal and earnestness they now manifest and the number of good men and women they now have, they ought to, and no doubt will, do great things for the cause of truth. Here I met some of my kin after the flesh, and I certainly was proud to find them in the forefront of the battle.

From Huntsville I went on Tuesday, March 21, to New Decatur. This is the home of the beloved J. Pettay Ezell. He is doing a fine work in New Decatur. They have a very comfortable, clean, little house of worship in a nice part of the town and are at peace among themselves. It is hard to find a more zealous little band of disciples than we have in New Decatur. Here I found three men with families that wear the name I do. They are all making an effort to serve the Lord, but, strange to say, they are not all working under the same name in religion or marching in the same company. I cannot believe that my kin-folks are dishonest, but somebody must be mistaken. I know we have but one Bible and that we are all trying to get to the same place; then why is it we cannot all keep step together? Somebody must be wrong. The Bible does not read three ways; then why do we walk in three different ways? Some of us must be going our own way. It will not do to say that these differences are immaterial, because we differ on that which is vital, if there is anything vital. We differ as to how Christians are made and on the items of the worship. To say that these things are unimportant is equivalent to saying that there are no important things in the Bible. Then, if they are unimportant and not necessary to our salvation, we ought to throw them all down for the sake of union and harmony. We had a nice audience out at the meeting at New Decatur, and everybody seemed happy in the work.

I preached on Wednesday evening, March 22, at Lynnville. This is the home of Brother Rutherford, and he preaches here and at another point or two in the country near Lynnville. The work seems to be moving along nicely in Lynnville, and Brother Rutherford and his family are held in high esteem, both by the members of the congregation and the community. We went out together on Thursday evening to Robertson Fork, where we had a good meeting. It was in this neighborhood that another of my schoolmates lived. Jeff. Griffis was at Mars' Hill in 1880. He was a good boy, but death claimed him early in life. Jeff. has been with the Lord about thirty years. I wonder if he knew I was at old Robertson Fork that night. It was near here that Uncle Davy and Aunt Dinah Kincaid were buried. They stayed several months at our house just about the close of the war. They had refuged to Mississippi in time of the war because, in the kindness of their hearts, they had fed some spies, and they were afraid they might be punished for it. At the time they stopped at our house they were trying to get back home. Uncle Davy made us all some shoes, and I remember that he split a goose quill and put it in the bottoms of mine to make them squeak. These shoes were prized more highly by me than any I ever owned. It was music to me to hear them cry as I stepped with long strides across the old piazza and through the entry into the "big house" where the company was always carried. If grandma were here with her old "ridicule" that hung on her chair post, she would remember Uncle Davy and Aunt Dinah and the crying shoes. I found no one in the neighborhood that bore the name. Some distant relatives of Uncle Davy and Aunt Dinah live here, and they must be some of my kin, but I do not know how near or how distant. These associations revived in my mind a few of the stirring scenes of my childhood, but they only linger with me as an indistinct dream. Hood's wagon train passed our house in North Alabama while Uncle Davy was there, and he bought from the officer a broken-down horse and drove him to Robertson Fork after the war was over. The recollection of their departure in their old spring wagon drawn by the long, lean army horse still lingers indistinctly in my memory. But, forgetting the past, we must "press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus."

Leaving Robertson Fork, I stopped at Campbell's Station and preached on the evening of March 24. We had a good audience out at meeting. Brother David Lipscomb did about the first preaching here soon after the war. They still have a good congregation here and are working together in peace.

Where Do You Find Christ?

The shepherds found Christ in a manger. Others have found him elsewhere. Benjamin Franklin found him in his teachings. He says: "I think that the system of morals Jesus taught and his religion are the best that this world ever saw or is likely to see." Gladstone, the Christian statesman, found him in mind. He declares: "All that I think, all that I hope, all that I write, all that I live for, is based upon the divinity of Christ." Disraeli, the Jew, found him in Christian government. He says: "Has not Jesus conquered Europe . . . and changed its name to Christendom?" Emerson, the philosopher, found him in the brotherhood of man. He says: "He, as I think, is the only soul in history who has appreciated the worth of man." Webster, the great lawyer, found him in his divinity. He says: "I believe Jesus Christ to be the Son of God." We find him when we accept him as the Christ and in humility walk in his steps. Christ's enemies could find no fault in him.

Georgia and the Far Southern Field

By S. H. Hall

The Church of Christ—Lesson XII.

6. How to behave ourselves in the church.

(1) In respect to the Lord's day and the Lord's Supper. (See Rev. 1: 10; 1 Cor. 11: 20.)

(a) Keeping days in memory of great events is not a thing that is peculiar to the New Testament, for God had instituted such in the Old Testament. When the destroying angel passed through Egypt and the firstborn in every Egyptian home was destroyed, but no harm done to the firstborn of the children of Israel, God thought this exhibition of his grace worth remembering, hence a day was set apart on which a meal was eaten in memory of this event. (See Ex. 12: 14.) The twofold purpose of this institution was (a) that they should not forget it and (b) that their children might learn about it as they grew into accountability. (See Ex. 12: 26, 27.) Then we have what is known as the Sabbath day. The cry of the children of Israel was heard by Jehovah as they groaned under Egyptian serfdom; hence God sent Moses and delivered them. He thought, too, this was worth remembering; hence the Sabbath was instituted. (See Deut. 5: 15; Neh. 9: 13, 14.) It was a sad day for the children of Israel when they neglected these days and forgot their significance. (See Num. 15: 32-36; Ezek. 22: 8; 2 Chron. 36: 20, 21.)

(b) But a greater day than these do we have, and it is greater because it commemorates a greater event. It is first seen in prophecy, when David uttered the following words in Ps. 118: 22-24: "The stone which the builders rejected is become the head of the corner. This is Jehovah's doing; it is marvelous in our eyes. This is the day which Jehovah hath made; we will rejoice and be glad in it." This stone here spoken of is Christ. (See Acts 4: 10-12.) The day is the day of his triumph, the day he declared himself to be God's Son by his resurrection. (See Rom. 1: 4; Luke 13: 31, 32; Heb. 5: 9.) He had, with all boldness, so spoken that both friend and enemy could understand what he meant—viz., that "the third day" after his death he would undo all that man had done to him. (See Matt. 27: 62-64.) But, in spite of all efforts on their part to keep him in the tomb, majestically he steps forth, early in the morning, the first day of the week, and declares himself to be the Son of God, what he claimed to be. Truly did David declare: "This is the day which Jehovah hath made; we will rejoice and be glad in it."

(c) This day is first seen in type in Lev. 23: 9-11, 15, 16. The wave offering of the first fruits was a type of Christ's resurrection. (See 1 Cor. 15: 20.) But please to note in verse 11 that it was to be waved on "the morrow after the Sabbath," the first day of the week. Christ did not rise on the first day of the week by accident; it was the day Jehovah had set for this both in type and in prophecy. No wonder, then, that we read: "Now when he was risen early on the first day of the week." (Mark 16: 9.) The first fruits typified the first fruits of the resurrection. Jesus became this when he arose on the first day of the week. Also please to note that Pentecost always came on the first day of the week, "the morrow after the Sabbath." (See verse 16.) The new meal offering was offered on this day. This new meal offering was a type of the new covenant of which Christ is Mediator. (See Jer. 31: 31, 32; Heb. 8: 6; 9: 15.) This new covenant had its beginning on Pentecost, the first day of the week. (See John 16: 13, 14; Luke 24: 44-53; Acts 2.) The Holy Spirit came upon the apostles on that day, the first day of the week, for the purpose of giving unto them the will of Christ, who had been "made both Lord and Christ." Truly did David say: "This is the day which Jehovah hath made; we will rejoice and be glad in it." Please to note the conduct of Christ on this day after his resurrection. (See John 20: 1, 19, 20, 24-29.) According to the Jewish way of expressing things, "the eighth day" and "after eight days" mean the same thing, just as "the third day" and "after three days" mean the same, as you observe in Matt. 27: 62-64. Christ intentionally failed to meet with the disciples until the return of another first day of the week. Are we to pass this as a matter of no significance?

But we bring the study to a close by submitting the following for careful consideration, that every practical phase of the subject may be seen:

(a) What is its purpose or design? (See Matt. 26: 27, 28; 1 Cor. 11: 23-26.)

(b) Who should eat? (Matt. 26: 27; 1 Cor. 10: 17.) Every child of God has a right to eat. It is foolish to admit that a man is a child of God, then deny to him this right.

(c) How often should we eat? (See Acts 20: 7; Heb. 10: 25.) The early Christians, you observe, did this on the first day of the week; and this being the day on which they were always together, the command in 1 Cor. 16: 1, 2 was given. "Forsake it not" is the command of our Lord.

(d) What is it to eat and drink unworthily? Read carefully 1 Cor. 11: 27-34. You will observe that the Corinthian brethren were so eating because they ate to satisfy fleshly hunger and thirst, and not to discern the Lord's body.

(e) Please to note that Paul said that those brethren had "despised the church of God" in their conduct. What had they done to make them deserve such a charge? They had taken a meal from the dining room, brought it into the church, and added it to the Lord's Supper. Do not fail to observe that Paul clearly teaches that the meal would have been all right if left at home and had been eaten there—temperately, of course.

(f) Can we have everything, then, in our church worship that is permissible in our homes? If to bring the dining room into the church simply to gratify the carnal nature was to "despise the church of God," what shall we say of bringing the parlor in simply to please the flesh?—a thing that we most certainly do when we bring in instrumental music, and that of all sorts, on the contention that we have it in our homes, hence we can have it in the church. If one is wrong, why not the other?

(g) Some have contended that we should use water in the cup, not wine. Do we undoubtedly know what we should have in the cup? (See Matt. 26: 28, 29.) Can pure water from the spring or well be, in any sense, called the "fruit of the vine?"

A Pretender Come to Light.

Last January a year ago a man went to Bay Minette, Ala., who claimed to be E. Gaston Collins. He claimed to be a preacher, and the brethren let him preach about a week; but they say he did more harm than good. He had infantile paralysis, hand badly drawn; was light complected, blue eyes, and rather small. He said his home was in West Gore, Nova Scotia, and that the church there had sent him out and was paying his expenses. He was a widower with one little girl. He said his mother lived with him at West Gore and that they raised cats to sell to pay for their farm. Knowing that such a man was not sent out by the church in West Gore, that there has never been a cat farmer there, and that he used my name falsely, I write this to warn the churches. This has come to light recently.

E. GASTON COLLINS.

SPIRIT OF THE PRESS

BY J. C. McQUIDDY.

Relinquished Five Thousand Dollars.

Ida Q. Moulton, in the March issue of Record of Christian Work, says:

"So Mr. Jones gave five thousand dollars for home missions at his death, did he?" was asked a minister the other day. "No," was his reply, "I did not say he gave it, but he left it. Perhaps, to be more explicit, I should have said he relinquished it because he could no longer hold it." And must the missionary cause in our own land still go on languishing till God relinquishes by death the wherewithal to carry on that cause?

This suggestive hint should help Christians to use their means while living to the honor and glory of God. They should not wait for death to relinquish their means. There are numerous uses to which Christians of means should devote them, and be the better and the happier for so doing. With more means, the Fanning Orphan School could feed, clothe, and educate more orphan girls. This school has prepared many girls for the duties of life. They have gone out from this school to be model home-makers. It would be well for brethren to use their money to advance the usefulness of such an institution. Money will drag its possessors down to hell, if they do not use it for the betterment of humanity. Money brings with it a great and fearful responsibility. It is the essence of folly and selfishness to hold on to it until death and then leave it for heirs to quarrel over until it all has fallen into the hands of unscrupulous lawyers. There is also the Tennessee Orphans' Home, of Columbia, Tenn., calling for help. Today, now, is the time to help such institutions. We would greatly rejoice to know that the entire brotherhood was awaking to the importance of efficiently using their talents, money, and time as God directs.

Unwilling to Fail.

Many labor more with an eye single to success than to duty. It is always supremely right to do our best in all laudable undertakings, but we should cheerfully leave the results to God. He will give his faithful children that which is best for them. Says one: "The reason why it is hard to find men and women to fill needy places is that most of them are not willing to attempt them unless they know they are going to succeed." This is a great blunder. Humanly speaking, the life of Moses was a failure. His life was one of self-denial throughout. Even at its close he was denied entrance into the promised land. From the human viewpoint, what life was a greater failure than Christ's? When the farmer sows his seed, he does not know which seed will grow and yield other seed. The Lord keeps planting acorns, while all those planted do not grow into oaks. "Cast thy bread upon the waters: for thou shalt find it after many days." (Eccles. 11: 1.)

An earnest, generous unwillingness to try usually constitutes a most brilliant success. Bushnell says: "If we thought a great deal less about our success, we should probably have a great deal more of it." We sing:

"I am thine, O Lord, I have heard thy voice,
And it told thy love to me."

If this be true—and assuredly it is—we should do our duty cheerfully, leaving our failures or successes to the Lord. As we cannot control results, why should we court failure by a lack of trust in the Lord? The Record of Christian Work says:

The great New York merchant, A. T. Stewart, was educated for the ministry, but became discouraged over his unfitness for the work and tried school-teaching, with no better success. He loaned a friend his savings (seventy dollars). The friend failed in business, could not pay the loan, and begged Stewart to take his shop. He did so, and upon his seeming failures he built the foundation for his success. Failure may be the only means to show us for what we are best fitted.

The Secret of Joy.

Our greatest joy is not caused by what we do, but by what is done for us. Nine hundred and ninety-nine persons in a thousand lack the joy that they might have because they believe the old falsehood that their own activity, their service, is the secret of true joy. It is simply the question whether our work or God's grace is to be our cause of greatest thanksgiving. The psalmist knew the answer when he sang aloud:

"For thou, Jehovah, hast made me glad through thy work:
I will triumph in the works of thy hands."

Even the God-empowered disciples of Jesus who, commissioned of him, "returned with joy, saying, Lord, even the demons are subject unto us in thy name," were cautioned by him, as he reaffirmed the supernatural power that he had given them: "Nevertheless in this rejoice not, that the spirits are subject unto you; but rejoice that your names are written in heaven." What God does for us, not what we do for God—that is the reason, the source, of the greatest joy that a sinful man can ever know. It does not make for man's glory, but it makes mightily for the glory of God.—Sunday School Times.

God's children do not rejoice over what they have done, but over what they have received from their Father, and they press forward with the single purpose of leading others to share their joys with them. "Every good gift and every perfect gift is from above, coming down from the Father of lights, with whom can be no variation, neither shadow that is cast by turning." (James 1: 17.) From his faithful children he withholds no good thing. "Who shall separate us from the love of Christ? shall tribulation, or anguish, or persecution, or famine, or nakedness, or peril, or sword? Even as it is written, For thy sake we are killed all the day long; we were accounted as sheep for the slaughter. Nay, in all these things we are more than conquerors through him that loved us. For I am persuaded, that neither death, nor life, nor angels, nor principalities, nor things present, nor things to come, nor powers, nor height, nor depth, nor any other creature, shall be able to separate us from the love of God, which is in Christ Jesus our Lord." (Rom. 8: 35-39.) How blessed is the man who appropriates such promises to himself! While Paul was suffering with a thorn in the flesh, he could rejoice in the assurances of God, who had said to him: "My grace is sufficient for thee: for my power is made perfect in weakness." (2 Cor. 12: 9.) In the shadows, in perils, in hungerings and thirstings, how comforting is the blessed truth: "And we know that to them that love God all things work together for good, even to them that are called according to his purpose!" (Rom. 8: 28.)

Our readers should take note that the special combination offer of the Gospel Advocate, The Bible Study Helper, and the Fountain Pen expired on April 1. They can secure the Helper by adding fifty cents to the price of the Gospel Advocate. But if sent separate from your Advocate subscription, the price of the new monthly magazine is sixty cents for a single copy. Those who have seen it claim it is worth a great deal more.

MISSIONARY

BY J. M. McCALEB.

Word from Brother Jelley.

We all expect to start for the Bible reading to-morrow—I mean all except Brother and Sister McHenry. You can have, I fear, no idea of the magnitude of the Northern field and its needs. At the very least, Brother Umrao Singh should have a dozen helpers besides my personal help. He also needs a horse (one can be obtained for about ten dollars), or his railway expenses should be met up to ten dollars per month, which would be an extravagance. Nevertheless, he should have at least two dollars railroad fare per month, as he sometimes has calls to go to Lucknow and elsewhere. His family is large, and he is not robust nor used to hardships. He is an earnest worker and holds the heathen an hour at a time with his flow of gospel logic.

There were about sixty-five immersions by Brother Govindrao and his helpers and a voluntary preacher during December.

E. S. JELLEY, JR.

My Trip to Japan.

BY SARAH S. ANDREWS.

Through the goodness, mercy, and protecting care of the great Ruler of the universe, the steamship Empress of Japan landed at Yokohama on January 16, 1916. On account of a continuous head wind, together with two very bad storms, she was more than twenty-four hours late. However, I am indeed thankful—yea, beyond expression—for the successful voyage to the Land of the Rising Sun, a land filled with wonder and mystery for me.

The entire trip was very pleasant as well as profitable. Only five changes were made between Dickson, Tenn., and Tokyo, Japan. The scenery between Chicago and Vancouver, B. C., was extremely interesting. For forty-eight hours after leaving Chicago we were viewing broad prairies, which were quite a novelty to a Middle Tennessee girl. The scenery was greatly changed the last two and half days spent on rail. With a heart filled with reverence and awe, I gazed in wonder at the famous Canadian Rockies, many peaks of which tower thousands of feet in the air. Most of my time was spent on the observation car, where a guide was stationed to point out the most important peaks, ravines, glaciers, etc. Long sheds were constructed at intervals over the tracks for protection against snowdrifts. Rotary engines were not uncommon. These are used to shovel the snow from the tracks. We were told that the average snowdrift at that time was twenty-three feet in depth. Very few signs of life were seen. British soldiers were stationed at every bridge as a safeguard against a possible destruction by the German soldiers. The scenery remained unchanged until we were within seventy-five miles of Vancouver. We arrived at Vancouver on December 31, at 10 A.M.

By this time I had made many acquaintances. There were two young ladies who had made reservations on the Empress of Japan. These I found to be very congenial and helpful, one having made the trip to Japan about two years ago.

The ship was scheduled to sail at 11 A.M., January 1. We reached the docks early and were informed that they would not weigh anchor until 1 P.M. I was directed to my stateroom, and found that my roommate, a missionary of eleven years' standing, was also bound for Japan. Sunday morning, January 2, we were far away on the rolling bosom of the seemingly limitless waters of the mighty Pacific. With the exception of two days, the voyage was very rough. On the sea, men who have never made a daily friend of God cry to him in their need. As George Herbert said: "He that will learn to pray, let him go to sea." Psalm 107 is a marvelous description of a storm at sea. "They are at their wits' end. Then they cry unto Jehovah." Yea, in dire distress men always cry unto Jehovah; for unto whom shall they go for comfort and help, save unto him? We were wonderfully blessed! God was very near and dear unto me through the entire trip.

I was welcomed to Japan by Brother McCaleb and Brother and Sister Vincent. Although I had many friends on the ship when I landed, not one was of kindred spirits with me. I left home alone, so far as human association was concerned, but the promise of the Savior was remembered: "I will never leave thee, nor forsake thee." Although I am now far away from loved ones, I am comforted by the words of the poet:

There is a scene where spirits blend,
Where friend holds fellowship with friend;
Though sunder'd far, by faith we meet,
Around one common mercy seat.

How 1915 Ended Financially.

BY C. G. VINCENT.

In raising special funds, we find that some of our contributors fail to bear in mind that the regular current expenses must be met every month. Last year, in calling for special funds for a lot, we find that some who had been giving "once and again" to the current expense fund shifted to the "lot fund." The more thoughtful and liberal helpers doubled their offering and divided it equally between the "current" and "lot" funds. Others wrote us "to use it where most needed." My books showed that up to December 31, $1,516.55, including one conditional gift of $800, was contributed for the lot. But the total shortage in the current expense fund for the year was $241, which must be supplied from the "lot fund." Therefore we now have in hand just $1,275.55, including the conditional gift of $800, the "lot fund." This is just half enough. Can we not raise the remainder in a few more months? As stated before, we are lawfully parleying with the landowner and thus extending time. There is time enough yet. So do not hesitate to make a special offering for the lot fund; and please do not lessen your offering for current expenses. The total received for all purposes was $3,615.55.

The offerings received for the lot fund since last report are encouraging. Above is a statement of the amount now in hand for the lot. Let me repeat: There is time enough yet. However, there is no time for delay. The sooner we have the full amount needed in hand, the safer and better all around. There are many who haven't sent who should send. Does this mean you?

Following are the amounts received: Mrs. G. Craig, Texas, 25 cents; Mrs. L. V. Odom, Texas, $1; Miss Odom, Texas, $1; J. L. Rutherford, Texas, $100; Mrs. Mollie Dean, Tennessee, $10; Mrs. C. W. Brevard, Tennessee, $5; Mrs. J. L. DeBow, Tennessee, $1; J. H. Todd, Tennessee, $1; Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Harlan, Tennessee, $5; Mrs. J. C. Anderson, Tennessee, $1; Mrs. Curtis, Tennessee, 50 cents; Mrs. Hobby, Tennessee, 25 cents; Stafford, Kan., $5; Miss Dollie Carter, Kansas, $2; Roy Robinson, Kansas, $1; Mrs. Rosalie Mathewson, Canada, $15; Earl M. Hodson, Alabama, $5; Roscoe Church, $3; Dardanelle, Ark., $6; Odessa, Mo., $4.10; Miss Mattie Thornton, Missouri, $2; C. H. Byrd, Georgia, 70 cents; M. J. Shields, Oklahoma, $10; Buffalo, Montana, $10. Total, $190.05. We are very grateful for these offerings—the small ones as well as the large ones.

GOSPEL ADVOCATE

EDITORS.

D. Lipscomb, E. G. Sewell, E. A. Elam,
M. C. Kurfrees, T. B. Larimore.

MANAGING EDITORS.

J. C. McQuiddy, A. B. Lipscomb.

SPECIAL DIRECTIONS.

Subscriptions are $1.50 a year, in advance, including postage to any part of the United States. To Canada and foreign countries, $2 a year, in advance.

The Date on the Yellow Label on your paper serves you as a receipt, and indicates the time to which your subscription is paid. When you renew, if the date is not changed within three weeks thereafter, please call our attention to it.

Discontinuances. No paper will be continued over twelve months after the subscription has expired. This will give all ample time to renew.

Payment for the Advocate, when sent by mail, should be made by post-office money order, express money order, registered letter, New York exchange, or postal note. Neither currency nor coin should be sent in a letter, unless registered; and when so sent, it is at the risk of the sender. Have your remittances made payable to the Gospel Advocate, and never to any member of the company.

Do Not Write Business on the same sheet as matter intended for publication.

Change of Address will be cheerfully made at the request of any subscriber giving post office, county, and State from which the change is to be made, and post office, county and State to which the paper should go after the change.

Renewals. In renewing, give the name just as it appears on the yellow label, unless it be incorrect, in which case please call our attention to it; and always give the name of the post office to which your paper is sent, as this is the guide by which we are enabled to find your name on our list.

Do Not Send Matter intended for the Advocate to the editors personally. This may occasion delay. Address the Gospel Advocate Publishing Company, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

Guarantee of Advertising.

All the advertisements in this paper are, we believe, signed by trustworthy persons. To prove our faith by works, we will make good to actual subscribers any loss sustained in trusting advertisers who prove to be deliberate swindlers. We shall not attempt to adjust trifling disputes between subscribers and honorable business men who advertise, nor pay the debts of honest bankrupts. To make this guarantee effective, in all cases say in writing advertisers, "I saw your advertisement in the Gospel Advocate;" and if anything goes wrong, notify us immediately in writing.

JACOBS & CO., ADVERTISING MANAGERS,
Clinton, S. C.

A Letter from New Zealand.

BY T. B. LARIMORE.

From a friend in far-away New Zealand, I have just received the following letter:

Motueka, New Zealand, February 1, 1916.—Dear Brother Larimore: About four years ago I bought the three volumes of your "Letters and Sermons," and have induced others to do likewise. I have often thought of writing to let you know the great benefit I have received from these books. Excepting "the Book divine," I know of no other books that have proved such a help and blessing to me. I often read from them to my wife, my boys, my girls, and friends who visit us; and I am sure it will give you pleasure to know these volumes have been and are so highly and widely appreciated.

One Lord's-day morning, about three years ago, I met with a company of brethren and sisters in Christ, about twenty-five miles from Motueka. The privilege of exhorting the church was extended to me, and I read a few words from your letter on "Evil Speaking." When the audience was dismissed, a lady—not a member of the one body—asked me if I could procure for her the book from which I had read. I agreed to send for it, and she paid me the price of the book.

I have not seen her since, and I often wondered whether she received the book. About a year after I ordered the book for her, I met one of her friends from whom I learned that she was then living in another part of New Zealand, about two hundred miles from here; also that she had received the book and considered it a great treasure. My informant then said: "And now I want you to get the book for me. I want to read it myself and have my boys and girls read it." So it is now a blessing in that home, and thus the good work goes on.

We have here a small church—about seventeen or eighteen members—and, in the midst of much prejudice and opposition, we are contending "earnestly for the faith which was once for all delivered unto the saints." I inclose a picture of the building in which we meet, which was recently erected by the help of brethren in other parts of our district. In this building we meet to worship "as it is written" and proclaim "the unsearchable riches of Christ."

My four boys and four girls, my dear wife and I send best wishes for you; and, if not too much of a task for you, we hope to, some day, receive a few lines of acknowledgment from you. We have for several years subscribed to the Gospel Advocate; and we always look for anything you may have written and for news of you. We pray that our kind Heavenly Father may grant you every needed blessing, and many years yet of loving, faithful service for him, and that, "some sweet day," we may meet in that blissful home where "life is eternal and a treasure sublime." Yours faithfully, W. R. GLOVER.

This appreciated letter, having traveled forty days and forty nights, reached Nashville, Tenn., on March 11. On the envelope in which it made the journey from New Zealand to America, printed in large purple capitals, was the following reminder of the war now starving and slaughtering millions of men, women, and children: "Passed by the military censor, N. Z."

It is not meet for me to say much about the books my friend and brother mentions in this good letter, as I am considered the author of them; but I think no one can consider it unseemly for me to say what I wish to say about them.

But for F. D. Srygley, the four books known as "the Larimore books" had never been. If, therefore, they save souls and otherwise do good, the glory should be his—certainly not mine. The first of the four—"Larimore and His Boys"—is Brother Srygley's first book, and some competent critics say it is his best. When he sought permission to write it, I repeatedly protested, but finally consented. He wrote it at night, while working for wages by day, sleeping not more than four or five hours in twenty-four.

Over my earnest and oft-repeated protest, he prepared the first volume of "Letters and Sermons" for the press when he knew his days were few, and doubted whether he could complete the task. He did that work then—a labor of love—because he knew he must do it then or never, and he wanted to do it.

When he was my pupil in school, at Mars' Hill, before he ever wrote a line for publication and permanent preservation, he said to me: "I think it would be delightful for a man to write enough good books while he's young to live comfortably on the royalty received from them when he's old." He was never old, for he left this beautiful world before he had lived in it quite forty-four years; but his worthy widow—who, his brother says, by her care of him, added ten years to his life—is living, and she receives absolutely all the royalty from all "the Larimore books." Of course the publishers receive proper remuneration for printing, binding, and selling the books; but, beyond that, no one except Sister Srygley receives anything from them.

I hope her friends, her long-lamented husband's friends, and my friends may remember this; hence, remember that a part of the price they pay for any one of these books goes to the worthy, Christian widow of F. D. Srygley.

The price of "Larimore and His Boys" is one dollar. The price of each copy of "Letters and Sermons" is one dollar and fifty cents. The price of the four books, therefore, is five dollars and fifty cents; but the four books will be sent to one address, at one time, prepaid, for five dollars, cash with the order, whether sent to the McQuiddy Printing Company, the Gospel Advocate Publishing Company, or me. I am not selling books or anything else; but I belong to my friends, and am always glad to serve them in every way I can. So, whenever you may find it more convenient to send your order to me, I will gladly attend to the business for you as promptly as possible and as carefully as I can.

The Establishment of the Kingdom.

BY E. G. S.

There are different ideas in the world about the kingdom of Christ. Men differ widely as to when it was fully set up or began to be in reality a kingdom. Some claim that it was set up in the days of John the Baptist; others claim that it was set up when Christ began his personal ministry; while still others claim that it has not yet been set up, but will be in the near future. This question, like all other Bible questions, must be settled by the book of God, by the Bible itself. We need not look into the Old Testament, because the first mention of it in the New Testament speaks of it as still in the future. Hence it had not been set up then. But the first mention of it in the New Testament speaks of it as something near by.

When John the Baptist began preaching, he said: "Repent ye: for the kingdom of heaven is at hand." (Matt. 3: 2.) This is the first mention of the kingdom in the New Testament, and here it is spoken of as at hand, as near by. Hence the first thing we hear of it in the New Testament, it is still future, but near by. When Christ had been in his personal ministry for some time and John had already been beheaded, Jesus said unto Peter: "And I say also unto thee, That thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my church; and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it." (Matt. 16: 18.) It is an admitted fact by Bible scholars that the word "church" here means the same as the "kingdom of heaven" in the next verse, in which Jesus says to Peter: "And I will give unto thee the keys of the kingdom of heaven." These facts show beyond all controversy that the full establishment of the kingdom was still in the future when this passage was given. When Jesus says, at this time, "Upon this rock I will build my church," it forever kills the idea that the church was set up at any period before this passage was given, for the time of its establishment was still in the future. How futile, then, are the efforts of those who attempt to prove that the church was established in the days of John the Baptist or of Abraham!

From the beginning of the New Testament up to the second chapter of Acts there is no event recorded that could in any wise represent anything like the establishment of the kingdom of God, the church of the living God; but when you reach the second chapter of Acts, you find something occurring the like of which never was seen or heard of on this earth before that time. On the day of Pentecost the apostles were together in one place. "And suddenly there came a sound from heaven as of a rushing mighty wind, and it filled all the house where they were sitting. And there appeared unto them cloven tongues like as of fire, and it sat upon each of them. And they were all filled with the Holy Ghost, and began to speak with other tongues, as the Spirit gave them utterance." This was one of the greatest miracles that ever occurred with the apostles, and it fully qualified them to carry out the great commission that had been given them to go "into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature." This wonderful outpouring of the Holy Spirit upon these apostles fully qualified them to preach the gospel to every creature and in all the languages of the earth, and they at once began the proclamation. A vast crowd of people was soon gathered to see what this all meant. So the apostles at once began the great work of preaching the gospel plan of salvation in all its fullness to sinful men. Peter led in the preaching on that notable occasion, which resulted in the conversion of about three thousand persons. This was certainly a grand day's work; and we put this day's work down as the full establishment of the church of God, the kingdom of heaven, on earth. As evidence that the events of this day were the full establishment of the church, the kingdom of heaven, the people that obeyed the gospel on that day were in that same chapter called "the church," and daily the saved were added to that church, thus showing beyond a doubt that the kingdom of God and of Christ was established on that day. The very same gospel that was preached on that day continued to be preached in all places to the end of the New Testament; and as inspiration ceased with the New Testament, the same gospel that began to be preached on the day of Pentecost still holds, and will hold to the end of time. Hence the preaching that was done on the day of Pentecost was the preaching that set it up. The kingdom, then, was a present reality during the lives of the apostles. In Acts 8, Philip preached thus: "But when they believed Philip preaching the things concerning the kingdom of God, and the name of Jesus Christ, they were baptized, both men and women." (Verse 12.) There can certainly be no doubt but that Philip preached the kingdom of God as actually present; and when the people believed his preaching and were baptized, they thereby entered into that kingdom, as that is certainly God's way for people to enter it. Hence, from the preaching of John the Baptist until the second chapter of Acts, the church, the kingdom, is spoken of as in the future. In the second chapter of Acts it is spoken of as actually present, and the saved were being added to it daily; and from this time on to the end of the New Testament it is spoken of as present. Therefore we may safely and scripturally conclude that the preparation for the kingdom began in the days of John and that it was fully set up on the day of Pentecost, in the city of Jerusalem.

Running for Public Office.

BY A. B. L.

Christians, like other men, are frequently urged to run for office. Some have "dabbled in politics" and others have been overwhelmed by its temptations. Some have held public office and acquitted themselves creditably and above reproach. Recently some of the best citizens at Abilene, Texas, urged Brother Jesse P. Sewell to become a candidate for the Legislature. Strong pressure was brought to bear, but he turned the offer down with the following letter, which we commend as a manly statement well worthy of emulation:

Messrs. E. A. Pearce, L. D. Kennedy, W. G. Swenson, S. M. Shelton, and others, Abilene, Texas.—Gentlemen: To say that I appreciate deeply the confidence expressed in me and the honor conferred on me in your statement, published in yesterday's Reporter, expresses my feeling very mildly.

A number of gentlemen have discussed with me the idea of my going to the Legislature, and on each occasion I have told them that I thought it would be impossible for me to do so. I was told some weeks since that a statement was being circulated, and I went immediately to Mr. Anderson and requested him not to let it get into the paper until I had seen it and decided definitely what I could do, but he tells me that he forgot the request.

I have always felt a deep interest in the affairs of State, and as a citizen have taken considerable interest in public matters. I think I appreciate rather fully the importance of service in the Legislature of our great State. It is no insignificant work, and the honor attaching to it is no small honor.

My idea of life, however, is that each man should select one thing as the purpose of his life, and give himself completely and unreservedly to the accomplishment of that one thing, regardless of the cost to him. My one ambition is to place Abilene Christian College on a basis, educationally and financially, that will make its permanency a source of pride to Abilene, the church I am connected with, and this part of Texas, and a perpetual agent for genuine service to our young people.

As long as my trustees and the people of Abilene feel that I am the man to lead this work, I cannot allow anything to turn me aside or even to divide my thought, energy, and effort.

I appreciate deeply, and shall ever remember with sincere feeling, everything that has been said to me in this connection and your published statement, but I believe I can be of more service to Abilene and the State of Texas in accomplishing my ideals as to Abilene Christian College than the service to which you invite me; and I further feel that I could not give the service without decreasing my efficiency in connection with Abilene Christian College.

I beg to answer you that nothing except a deep sense of duty and a fixed principle of life could induce me to decline, as I must, to allow myself to be announced as a candidate as suggested in your statement.

I beg to be permitted to answer you further that I appreciate the privilege of citizenship in what I believe to be the very best town I have ever seen in my life, and you may call on me at any time for any service that I can render Abilene without decreasing my efficiency with Abilene Christian College, and I shall gladly give it.

Gratefully and sincerely, J. P. SEWELL.

We have but one remark to make in addition. Brother Sewell's declination of this honor will likely exert a greater influence upon the citizens of Abilene than if he had accepted the proposition and had been elected. We write this in the belief that the good citizens who urged him to make the race were sincere and prompted by the best of motives. There is no grander work beneath the sun than to teach and preach the gospel. And surely the rich reward in store for the faithful is worth all the sacrifice any man can make.

Making Laws Where God Has Made None.

BY M. C. K.

The press of other matters has necessitated delay in giving attention to the following letter:

Mr. M. C. Kurfees, Louisville, Ky.—Dear Brother Kurfees: I desire some light on 1 Cor. 8: 13, that I may teach the truth and not apply this passage out of its natural connection. It seems to me that this scripture is often misapplied. Some brethren object to Sunday-school literature, baptisteries, individual communion service, contribution baskets, and some even object to houses to worship in; and all sustain, or try to sustain, their argument with this passage.

What is "meat?" In bringing arguments against amusements, such as parties, games played with cards of different kinds, etc., this scripture is used as a proof text. I consider these things wrong and condemned by other passages, but they do not come under this. Are such things "meat?"

Please answer through the Gospel Advocate.

W. C. BREWER.

In dealing with questions like these, we should be glad, if we accomplish nothing more, to contribute something that will help to stop wrangling over matters where no principle is involved. The work of retarding the cause of God which Satan is thus permitted to do is really distressing.

Let us now, in the case before us, make an honest effort to see, first of all, where principle is involved and where it is not. Speaking in general terms, obedience to God consists in doing what God commands. This requires no argument with thoughtful persons. To make the statement more specific, obedience to God consists in doing the thing which God commands, doing it at the time when and the place where he says it must be done, and in doing it in the way in which he says it must be done, when it is a case in which the thing to be done and the time, place, and way of doing it are all given by the Lord. But where the Lord commands a thing to be done, but makes no further specification, then any way, time, or place of doing it is permissible. In such a case, he who stops to demand a "Thus saith the Lord" for method or time or place of doing the thing commanded is simply attempting to make laws where God has made none. Take, for example, any one of the things enumerated by the querist. God commands persons to be baptized, and he specifies that it shall be in water, but he does not limit obedience to the command to any particular item, place, or other circumstance of convenience. Now, whenever and wherever we baptize, and with whatever conveniences, it must be done in water; but in the absence of any divinely specified circumstances of convenience, we may baptize at any time, and either in a lake, river, creek, pond, the ocean, a baptistery, or any other place, either natural or artificial, where there is water, and in each and every case we are obeying the command of God. God does not say where the water shall be, whether in a pond, lake, river, baptistery, or ocean, in which one is baptized. It may, therefore, be in any one of these places, and in each case the divine command is obeyed.

In like manner, God tells us to teach his word. He does not limit the teaching to either oral, written, or printed comments; hence, we may have either one or all, and he who says it must be oral and demands a "Thus saith the Lord" for written or printed comments is again attempting to make laws where God has made none.

God tells a church to contribute on the first day of the week. He does not say how the contribution shall be made or gathered together. We can, therefore, collect it by passing through the audience with boxes or baskets suitable for the purpose, or even by the old-fashioned way of "passing the hat," or in any other convenient way; and he who demands a "Thus saith the Lord" for how it is collected or for some specific way is attempting to make a law where God has made none.

The same principle applies to the number of cups to be used in the communion service. The Lord has not only nowhere limited the number, but he has said nothing about number at all. Hence, all along the ages the number of cups used by churches has varied according to the size of their membership. Very small churches with only a few persons to serve use one cup; some larger churches, with more persons to serve, use two cups; still others use four; and some churches use six or eight or even sixteen or more, according to what is demanded by the size of the membership. To-day, not only for convenience, but for sanitary reasons, some churches use individual cups, or as many cups as there are members. In all of these cases God's command to drink the fruit of the vine is obeyed. But some one may ask: "Does it not happen, as a matter of fact, that, at the institution of the Supper, they used one cup?" Yes, and it also "happens, as a matter of fact, that, at the institution of the Supper," there were exactly twelve disciples present, and the number, in this case, is definitely specified by Jesus; and if the incidental circumstance that so small a number used only one cup limits us to one cup to-day, then the incidental circumstance that only twelve disciples partook of it limits us as to the number of disciples who may partake of the Supper together to-day. If not, why not?

As to what may come under the head of "meat," as used by Paul, if it be known that, under some circumstances, certain things are "wrong and condemned by" the word of God, it is not very material whether they are thus condemned by a particular passage or not. To the Romans, Paul states it thus: "It is good not to eat flesh, nor to drink wine, nor to do anything whereby thy brother stumbleth." (Rom. 14: 21.) On this principle churches sometimes should refrain from making baptisteries or using literature, contribution baskets, or anything else which, for reasons of expediency, should not be done at a given time; but unless those who make such demands are capable of being taught that such things involve no principle, then such unfortunate churches are not likely to make much progress in the service of God.

The essential thing is to try to get such members to see the utter folly and absurdity of such objections. God has not limited us as to where we shall worship him or preach the gospel, whether in a house built for the purpose, or under a tent stretched for the purpose, or under the shade of the trees, or in the open field. Hence, when we preach or worship God in any of these places, we are doing what God commands us to do; and he who objects to any one of them because the Bible does not specify it could, with precisely the same consistency, object to baptizing persons in the Ohio River or Tennessee River, because neither one of them is specified in the Bible! How long will persons continue to bother and hinder the churches with such questions?

What Does the Bible Teach?

BY E. A. E.

Jesus said to the Jews who "had believed him:"

If ye abide in my word, then are ye truly my disciples; and ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free. (John 8: 31, 32.)

Truth makes free from error and sin. Nothing else can do this. No one is wholly free until the truth has been fully accepted and followed.

When I have wronged any person—a child, an adult, a negro, an Indian, a white man, an ignorant man, a philosopher, a sinner, a saint—although I have been in the church for more than forty years and have been trying to preach for thirty-five, I can never be made free from that sin or be saved until I repent, ask forgiveness, and do all in my power to right the wrong done. The wrong I do any person does not really hurt that person morally and spiritually or affect his standing before God, but it hurts me in all these three ways. Let me repeat, I cannot be saved until I have repented and been forgiven. I cannot sin at any time or in any way with impunity. No one has granted to him any indulgence to sin. Hence, I say truly that I had rather be wronged by a hundred different persons in a hundred different ways than to wrong one person in any way one time. It is my duty to suffer wrong rather than to do wrong, and to suffer long and still be kind. But here is the struggle! Here is where we can appreciate to some little extent the efforts of Paul and his meaning when he declares that he buffeted his body and brought it into bondage, lest when he had preached the gospel to others, he himself should be rejected. This truth must be obeyed in order to be free from sin, as much so as any other. Again:

All things therefore whatsoever ye would that men should do unto you, even so do ye also unto them: for this is the law and the prophets. (Matt. 7: 12.)

This is another truth which must be obeyed in order to be made free from selfishness, dishonesty, vanity, self-esteem, and other sins. It is the second commandment, which is like the first. (Matt. 22: 34-40.) "On these two commandments the whole law hangeth, and the prophets." It is loving one's neighbor as oneself. It is fulfilling "the royal law." (James 2: 8.) It is rendering to all their dues, owing no man anything, save love, and in the fulfillment of the law.

Ah, but is not this beautiful to write about and most pleasing to preach about? This is easy enough to do, but difficult enough to practice. Yet, I should be ashamed to preach that which I make no effort to practice, and I am bound to preach this or place myself in the woeful attitude of shrinking from and shunning to declare "the whole counsel of God." When I am writing privately or publicly about others, speaking in private conversation about them, contending in written or oral discussion with them, or dealing with them in any sort of business transactions, it is not so difficult to ask if that is the way, in justice and mercy and righteousness, I want to be treated; but to really so treat others is the rub. Yet, this I must do, if I would obey the truth and be free.

Reader, if you think this is so easy to do, try it in all your treatment of others—your husband, your wife, your children, your parents, your neighbors, your employer, your employees. Try it at all times. Do not treat others as you think they will treat you, but as you would be treated.

To do this is to live on a high plane—truly, on the Christian plane—above bickering and strife, envy and jealousy; above common and ugly gossip or religious (!) gossip; above nagging, backbiting, talebearing, misrepresentation, and slander; it is to stand on the lofty eminence of righteousness, sun-crowned.

Again, Jesus says God's "word is truth." (John 17: 17.)

Then, until all that God teaches on any given subject has been seriously considered, the whole truth on that subject has not been learned.

"The whole counsel of God" embraces not only all that God teaches on any given subject, but all he teaches on "all things that pertain unto life and godliness."

All who preach only such parts of the word of God as suits either their theories or their practice are partisans and sectarians, and they make partisans and sectarians by their preaching. When God sends a man out to preach, as he did Jonah, he sends the man to preach the preaching which he commands to be preached. (Jonah 3: 2.) God commands that the gospel, the word, Christ and him crucified, his "whole counsel," "all things that pertain unto life and godliness," be preached, and his servants to "contend earnestly for the faith which was once for all delivered unto the saints." Preachers not sent of God may preach anything they choose, with any motive they choose, and for any purpose they choose; they are not his preachers, and in the end he will say: "I never knew you: depart from me, ye that work iniquity." God-sent preachers have no choice of what they shall preach; they must preach all and only that which he tells them to preach. This must be done in the spirit and manner and for the purpose he gives. All questions which he says avoid must be let alone. All this must be done in the love of truth, in the spirit of Christ, and for the salvation of souls, and done regardless of consequences. God-sent preachers do this.

It is as shameful, sinful, and hurtful in one who claims to be a Christian only to resort to insinuation, innuendo, undignified and discourteous language, misrepresentation, and impugning of motives, as in one who belongs to some denomination. The one who claims to be a Christian only should prove his claim by his conduct.

Because two brethren differ on the teaching of certain scriptures is no reason that either one "perverts" and "ignores" the word of God or is moved by improper motives. Yet, in discussions, the first thing some do is to accuse their opponents of such wrongs.

I have just prepared several lessons from Paul's letters to the Corinthians. The false apostle and his associate false teachers and factions there attacked Paul's personal appearance, his very speech, impugned his motives, denied his authority as an apostle and the integrity of the gospel of Christ. I thought, how much human nature there is in this! Just this course is followed now, and has ever been. In reply, Paul apologized for having to speak of himself—his life, his sufferings and sorrows, his work and success, and his visions and revelations—as inconsistent with the humility and spirit of Christ, unless demanded under the circumstances in vindication of the gospel, the honor of God, his apostolic authority, and, indirectly, his own life and character. At times it is Christian to bear reproach and calumny in silence; at others, when justice and truth demand it, it is Christian to vindicate oneself. But since no man is Paul or is inspired, he must be the more cautious and prudent, and in humility and modesty must know that the vindication of right demands his course.

QUERY DEPARTMENT

Brother McQuiddy: Please explain Matt. 20: 16: "So the last shall be first, and the first last: for many be called, but few chosen."
J. G. BARLOW.

The verse reads in the Revision: "So the last shall be first, and the first last." This teaching was called out by the question of Peter in the latter part of the preceding chapter. Peter appeared to have the idea that those who labored and sacrificed most would receive most. The Lord shows him that salvation is a gift, a gratuity, a favor. Salvation is a free gift to all in his kingdom. If, however, salvation were a matter of so much work, so much pay, in this ratio, those who are first in labor will be last in pay, and those who are last in pay will be first in labor. The eleventh-hour man who entered the vineyard at his first opportunity would be last in labor and first in reward. But while Peter appeared to have this idea, it is not so in the kingdom of Christ. When we have done our best, we are unprofitable servants and are saved by the mercy, grace, and goodness of God.

Brother McQuiddy: Why was Ananias sent that Saul might be "filled with the Holy Spirit?" Philip could not, or did not, confer this power upon the Samaritans, but Peter and John were sent for this purpose. I know of no instance where any but the apostles could confer the Holy Spirit. Peter seems to indicate as much in Acts 8: 21. Was Ananias' case a special dispensation in making an apostle?
J. D. WALLING.

It is held by some that hands were laid upon Saul and his sight restored, and then he was baptized; and as a result of his baptism he was filled with the Holy Spirit, as promised in Acts 2: 39. This, however, separates what God has closely joined together. It appears that Saul was filled with the Spirit by the imposition of the hands of Ananias, for from this time forward Saul had a miraculous gift of the Spirit. Ananias was not an apostle. It may be true that Ananias was filling the apostolic work in this particular case, as Paul was a chosen vessel unto the Lord. In the light of this example, it is hardly safe to assume that none but apostles could confer the Spirit by the laying on of hands. Paul admonishes Timothy: "Neglect not the gift that is in thee, which was given thee by prophecy, with the laying on of the hands of the presbytery." (1 Tim. 4: 14.) It is probable that this gift was received by Timothy by the laying on of the hands of Paul (2 Tim. 1: 6) and of the presbytery, or eldership; for it most evidently appears from this verse and 2 Tim. 1: 6 that he received this double imposition of hands on one and the same occasion.

Brother McQuiddy: Please tell me through the Gospel Advocate what kind of sickness James was talking about in verse 14, chapter 5. Was it sickness of the body or spirit?
G. W. ASHBY.

The passage reads: "Is any among you sick? let him call for the elders of the church; and let them pray over him, anointing him with oil in the name of the Lord." Undoubtedly this has reference to bodily sickness, as the elders could anoint the body with oil, while they could not anoint the spirit of the man. In the early church some of the elders that were miraculously endowed received the gift of healing. Miraculously endowed persons could not work miracles without faith. When Peter's faith failed him, he could no longer walk on the water. (Matt. 14: 31.) When nine of the apostles on a memorable occasion tried to cast out a demon and failed, Jesus explained the failure by saying it was because of their lack of faith. Then James explains in verse 15 that those who had spiritual gifts could heal the sick: "And the prayer of faith shall save him that is sick, and the Lord shall raise him up; and if he have committed sins, it shall be forgiven him." But neither the Scriptures nor experience warrants us in teaching that people who do not possess spiritual gifts may have faith sufficiently strong to heal the sick and raise the dead. There is no more reason for this gift now than for any other miraculous power.

Brother McQuiddy: (1) Is there any Holy Ghost baptism we now receive, except the one spoken of in the water baptism of the great commission? (2) Is Holy Ghost and Holy Spirit the same? (3) When was the speaking with tongues to cease, and what about the gift of healing? (Joel 3: 9, 10; Isa. 2: 4.)
J. N. WOOD.

(1) There is no Holy Spirit baptism now. Those who are baptized into Christ receive the Holy Spirit, but not the baptism of the Spirit. (2) The Greek word is properly rendered "spirit," and not "ghost." The Revised Version never renders "pneuma" "ghost," but "spirit." (3) Spiritual gifts, one of which was speaking with tongues, were given to guide the early church until the perfected or completed will of God was made known to the world. They were to serve a temporary purpose; then, when their office was fulfilled, they were to pass away and give place to the perfected will of God. Their purpose was to make known the will of God; when that purpose was accomplished, there was no further need for them. Joel 3: 9, 10 refers to the enemies of Jehovah. They should prepare for war; they should call the tillers of the ground to their assistance, instead of laboring in the field; let every peasant become a soldier. They should convert their agricultural implements into implements of war, so that the weak, being well armed, could say: "I am strong." Isa. 2: 4 refers to the reign of Christ in which the Christian, the friend of God, should not rely upon an arm of flesh, but should trust in Jehovah. With them, it should not be an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth, but "they shall beat their swords into plowshares, and their spears into pruning hooks; nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more." When the church or kingdom of Christ attains to the perfection of Christian character enjoined by Christ, this result, to be so devoutly prayed and worked for, will be a reality. It is not for us to know the times or the seasons when such a glorious condition will be attained.

We have recently published a leaflet, entitled "Facts About Baptism," which should be distributed by the thousands. This leaflet contains admissions from the very highest pedobaptist authority when and by whom sprinkling and pouring were introduced for baptism. This leaflet is placed at the exceedingly small price of twenty-five cents per dozen, which simply covers the cost of them broadcast. Send to-day for a batch. Address the McQuiddy Printing Company, Nashville, Tenn.

AT HOME AND ABROAD

Compiled by A. B. Lipscomb

Tate Ring changes his address from Erin to Fort Henry, Tenn.

J. S. Dunn reports a successful meeting at Bonham, Texas.

J. T. Clark and S. A. Frazier, of Pulaski, Tenn., came to see us Monday.

Send us your subscription for our new magazine, The Bible Study Helper. Sixty cents per year.

From Mrs. Maggie George, Ola, Ark.: "I miss the Gospel Advocate so much, and think the special numbers are just grand."

T. Q. Martin, of Winchester, Ky., was called home from the meeting at Spencer, Tenn., to the bedside of his wife, who is dangerously ill. Later reports are more encouraging.

Two meetings begin in Nashville next Sunday—R. V. Cawthon at Green Street and S. H. Hall at Reid Avenue. Boost for both.

Charles L. Talley, with the help of home forces, is in a good meeting with the Highland Park congregation, at Montgomery, Ala.

The few brethren in Benton County, near Sugar Tree, Tenn., would appreciate the help of other Christians for the completion of their building.

From Mrs. E. V. Mills, Route 3, Stephens, Ark.: "The Gospel Advocate is growing in favor here. Sister Voss has read it only two or three years, and now it is her favorite paper. We love it more and more."

S. R. Cassius, the colored preacher at Meridian, Okla., stands very much in need of a tent for his mission work. He has some money on hand for this purpose, but not quite enough. Send him an offering to Route 2, Box 54, Meridian, Okla.

From Mrs. T. D. Cathey, Pride, Texas: "I have been taking the Gospel Advocate so long that I cannot remember how long. I feel like I could not do without it. I am now in my eighty-fifth year. My husband is dead, but my paper still comes in his name."

From C. C. Houston, Henderson, Ky.: "I am to engage Don Q. Smith, a Missionary Baptist, in a two-days' debate at Grove Center, Ky., on April 26, 27. The subjects involve faith and baptism. Grove Center is on the Illinois Central Railroad, between Henderson and Princeton, Ky. I had a four-days' debate with Mr. Smith last year at Bordley, Ky."

On this page it was announced in our issue of March 30 that C. D. Crouch "will work with the Rock Springs (Texas) congregation when not engaged in evangelistic work." Perhaps it would have been better to have stated that he was devoting all of his time to evangelistic work at Rock Springs and other points. We should understand that there is an abundance of evangelistic work that does not come under the head of protracted meetings.

Under date of March 14, C. G. Vincent writes from Tokyo, Japan: "Mrs. Vincent is still in bed suffering from a weak heart and bad nerves; but our doctor promises us that she will soon be herself again. Three excellent young men were baptized at Kamitomizaka last week. The lot fund shows that we have gone several miles beyond the halfway post on our way to our goal, but we are not there yet. Offerings for the lot will be greatly appreciated."

From A. O. Colley, Fort Worth, Texas: "South Side church of Christ, this city, is moving along nicely. In fact, the cause of Christ in Fort Worth, in all of our congregations, seems to be alive and making at least a normal growth. They all respond readily to emergency calls from the unfortunate. All are doing some mission work. We send regularly to two missions—Brother Armstrong-Hopkins, in India, and Brother Vincent, in Japan. They also pay for a two-weeks' meeting in Shreveport, La., to be held by the writer this month."

From W. F. Neal, 550 Langside Street, Winnipeg, Canada: "I am booked for a series of meetings with the church in Winchester, Ky., to begin the second Lord's day in May. I expect to spend the greater part of 1916 in the South, and will be open for engagements in protracted-meeting work there during the time stated. My address after the first of May will be Winchester, Ky., or 443 North Twenty-sixth Street, Louisville, Ky., the home of my daughter, Mrs. J. A. Curry."

The editor of this page is personally acquainted with Brother Neal, and knows him to be an earnest and efficient proclaimer of the word. We bespeak for him a cordial reception on his Southern trip.

From H. C. Denson, Spencer, Tenn.: "T. Q. Martin has just closed a meeting here which resulted in eleven baptisms, two restorations, and one by letter. I baptized three of our students just a few days before the meeting began. Brother Martin labored under very trying circumstances, his wife being in the hospital the greater part of the time he was here. He was called home the night the meeting was announced to close. I would suggest that all of his friends pray for him and send him a contribution to help bear his heavy expenses during this trying time of his life. I should like to do some tent work in some good mission field this summer, if I can find a church or a number of churches that will furnish a tent and assist in the work. I have had some good experience in this kind of work."

Letters from J. S. Dunn and A. O. Colley inform us of the serious condition of T. W. Phillips, of Fort Worth, Texas. Since the fracture of his hip in January he had used a steel jacket, and his friends thought that his recovery was assured; but a recent X-ray photograph revealed the fact that the healing was not a success. Another operation became necessary, which was performed by skilled surgeons at Bonham, Texas, on April 7. Following is the latest report of his condition: "Brother Phillips was operated on yesterday afternoon. An incision was made through the flesh to the broken bone of the hip, and a bone was taken from his leg, just below the knee, and used as a peg for the broken hip bone. He stood the operation very well, but is in a sad and critical condition. Brother Phillips' address is 1000 South Adams Street, Fort Worth, Texas." We feel that the prayers and loving fellowship of his friends will not be lacking in this hour of trial.

From B. W. Davis, Placentia, Cal.: "The church of Christ at this place is growing both in numbers and 'in the knowledge of our Lord Jesus Christ.' Just recently the family of W. R. Rickman, formerly of Arkansas, moved into our midst, and were given a hearty welcome from the congregation. On March 5 we had one addition by baptism, which makes three baptisms since I began work here nine months ago. I am planning to do some mission work, to begin next month, in places where we have no congregations. The amount of this work will depend largely upon the support, as I will not be able to continue long unless I receive some help. Brethren, do you realize the needs of this country, and do you desire to have some fellowship in spreading the gospel? 'The harvest truly is plenteous, but the laborers are few.' The mission work which I started in Whittier last April and had to give up when I left Downey has been very successfully carried on by the help of the church at Los Angeles."

THAT TIRED FEELING

Relieved by Hood's Sarsaparilla,
Which Renovates the Blood.

That tired feeling that comes to you in the spring, year after year, is a sign that your blood lacks vitality, just as pimples, boils, and other eruptions are signs that it is impure; and it is also a sign that your system is in a low or run-down condition inviting disease. It is a warning, which it is wise to heed.

Ask your druggist for Hood's Sarsaparilla. This old standard tried and true blood medicine relieves that tired feeling. It cleanses the blood, gives new life, new courage, strength and cheerfulness. It makes the rich red blood that will make you feel, look, eat and sleep better.

Be sure to get Hood's Sarsaparilla. It embodies the careful training, experience, and skill of Mr. Hood, a pharmacist for fifty years, in its quality and power to cure.

A safe and palatable laxative for children

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup

Absolutely Non-narcotic

Does not contain opium, morphine, nor any of their derivatives.

By checking wind colic and correcting intestinal troubles common with children during the period of teething, helps to produce natural and healthy sleep.

Soothes the fretting baby and thereby gives relief to the tired mother.

Take Lime for Tuberculosis

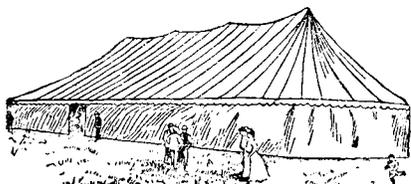

In the Journal of the American Medical Association (July 27, 1912, Page 308), Dr. C. F. Disen, of Minneapolis, holds that a "deficiency of calcium" (lime) is responsible for the physical conditions which lead to tuberculosis, "and the therapy he advocates rests on this basis."

One of the reasons for the wide-spread success of Eckman's Alternative in the treatment of tuberculosis is its ability to supply this deficiency. It contains a lime salt in such combination with other valuable ingredients as to be easily assimilated by the average person. Many cases seem to have yielded to it.

We make no exaggerated claims for it, but prefer that it be tried on the same basis as any other prescription, and since it contains no opiates, narcotics or habit-forming drugs, it is safe. Price $1 and $2 per bottle. Sold by leading druggists or sent direct from the Laboratory. We would like to send you a booklet containing information of value and references.

ECKMAN LABORATORY,
23 N. Seventh St., Philadelphia.

GOSPEL TENTS

Our Prices Would Interest You.
Ask Us To Quote.

Fulton Bag And Cotton Mills,
Atlanta, Ga.

New York, Dallas, St. Louis, New Orleans

OBITUARIES

On account of the large number of obituary notices coming to the Gospel Advocate the following rules must be observed: Obituaries that do not exceed one hundred and fifty words are published free of charge. When they exceed this limit, one cent will be charged for every additional word. Payment must accompany notice or else it will be reduced to one hundred and fifty words. Poetry will not be printed.

Rogers.

On Saturday night, March 11, 1916, the death angel took Brother Robert Rogers from the land of the living. I baptized Brother Rogers in the summer of 1914, and he has since been one of the faithful ones in the little band of disciples at Rogers' Chapel, in Clay County, Ark., about eight miles west of Piggott. Brother James E. Laird, of Rector, conducted the funeral services in the presence of a large concourse of sorrowing relatives and friends, in the new church house they had but lately built near Brother Roger's home. Brother Laird writes me that Brother Rogers died a triumphant hero and in a full and living faith. It made me think of Paul's words, "O death, where is thy sting?" and, "The sting of death is sin." Brother Rogers was washed free from all his sins in our Lord's precious blood, and I am sure he now is enjoying the rest that remains for the people of God. His works will follow him. May we all be faithful unto death and receive a crown of life.

B. J. LEMON.

Crouch.

Thomas H. Crouch was born in Cheatham County, Tenn., on December 29, 1842, and died on February 9, 1916. He was married to Miss Amanda Jordan in 1870, and became a member of the church of Christ the year following. He worshiped with the congregation on Sam's Creek from the time of his baptism until the day of his death, having been a faithful elder for many years, and where he will be missed more than we can tell. He was of a modest and retiring nature, and was not a strong man physically, but was strong in faith and the principles of Christianity. He was loved and respected by the whole community; and if he had an enemy, no one knew it. His home was the home of the preacher during the protracted meetings, and there are many, I am sure, who remember his encouragement and help. He is survived by his wife, who is a Christian and an estimable woman, besides a large number of relatives. May God help us to live faithful to the end, as he did, that we, too, may have that hope of eternal life.

BERTHA CROUCH.

Calvert.

"Aunt Fannie" Calvert, as so many called her, died on December 30, 1915, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John B. Caskey. She was seventy years old, but had been in very good health until she was taken with pneumonia on Sunday before her death. She lived only about four days after being taken, and she suffered so much, but was patient and willing to do as her nurse thought best. She had long been a consistent member of the church of Christ, and was always willing to do her part in any way. She was much loved by all who knew her, and was of such a jolly disposition that both young and old enjoyed being in her company. She was the wife of Jeff Calvert, an ex-Confederate soldier. The husband and two daughters—Mrs. J. B. Caskey and Mrs. Will Vancleave—survive her, besides a number of grandchildren and a host of friends. Funeral services were conducted at the home of Mrs. Caskey, where she died, by Brother Joe B. Clark, of Pulaski, Tenn. Much sympathy is extended the bereaved family, especially "Uncle Jeff," as he is so lonely without "Aunt Fannie;" also her niece, Miss Emma Griffis, who was making her home with them. A FRIEND.

Noblett.

Sister Tappie Lipscomb Noblett, daughter of John and Lucy Dean Lipscomb and wife of D. T. Noblett, was born on May 16, 1846, and died on January 10, 1916. She was married to Brother D. T. Noblett on March 23, 1865. Some time before the Civil War, when a mere girl, she obeyed the gospel and became a member of the church at New Hermon. Her entire Christian life was in connection with that church. When I was obedient to the faith at New Hermon in August, 1866, she and her husband constituted a part of the large membership there. Of all that number, only her husband remains. This impresses me with the fact that I, too, am near the border line. Sister Noblett came by inheritance into the New Testament faith, her father being a brother of David Lipscomb's father, and her Grandfather Dean being the real founder of the New Hermon church in 1831. She was the mother of four sons and three daughters that grew to manhood and womanhood, besides three or four that died in childhood. A vacancy has been produced in the church and community that will be hard to fill.

J. D. FLOYD.

Sweat.

Albert Harrison Sweat, the son of Brother and Sister A. H. Sweat, of El Paso, Texas, formerly of Tennessee, was born on October 24, 1901, and died on January 26, 1916. "Harry," as we all called him, was sick only three days. His good mother has been an invalid for three years. She is one of those unfortunate beings that has been fighting the great white plague. Harry was one of the most thoughtful boys of his mother that I have ever known. While in the service of a drug store, he would run into the house through all hours of the day and inquire of his mother's condition, and, unlike so many boys, instead of whiling away his time on the streets and over the city, he spent his off hours with his mother, comforting, cheering, and serving in any way in his power. The boy that is devoted to his Christian mother never comes to a bad end. I know of no attribute more commendable than this. He was a fine little man and was facing a promising future when cut down. Funeral services were held at the home, in the presence of many friends, and interment took place in Evergreen Cemetery. This is the third child these parents have had to give up, and only one more to be found in their home. We greatly sympathize with them, and pray the Lord to bless and comfort them in these days of sorrow.

J. W. DUNN.

Curlee.

Sister Adelaide Elizabeth Curlee was born on February 6, 1866; became a Christian at eighteen years of age; was married to Dr. J. P. Curlee on November 14, 1889; departed this life on November 24, 1915, at their home in Nashville, Tenn.; and was buried by her three infants in the Curlee burying ground, near Bradyville, Tenn. Sister Curlee was a woman of more than ordinary mental ability. The book of her chief delight was the Bible; and having a splendid appreciation of spiritual things, she was able to take hold of its deeper lessons quite readily. Her home was the preacher's home. It was her delight to care for those who preached the word. She and Dr. Curlee would have felt very much out of place without the preacher in their home during a meeting. Having been a great sufferer in the body for eighteen years of her life, we know she looked forward with much anxiety to the time when the Lord would fashion anew the body of her humiliation that it might be conformed to the body of his glory. (Phil. 3: 20, 21.) Yet, with all her sickness, she was of a cheerful disposition; and though her husband quit practicing medicine to be with her, she always encouraged him never to miss a church service on her account. Being a good mother (stepmother), a good wife, and a faithful Christian, as she was, what greater compliment could be paid her? And now while she "sleeps in Jesus" and "rests from her labors," a life of service lives after her, bidding us imitate her wherein she imitated her Lord and Master. Therefore let all who weep for her "sorrow not, as those who have no hope," but let us give thanks to God, who can bring comfort out of sorrow and victory out of death through Jesus Christ our Lord.

E. H. HOOVER.

Colwell.

That "death loves a shining mark" was fully verified in the death of our young friend and brother, James C. Colwell. James was the only son of Brother and Sister A. L. Colwell. He was born on May 9, 1898, and died on February 8, 1916. He was just entering upon what appeared to be a useful life when death called him, and bidding farewell to friends and loved ones, he entered into the rest that remains for the people of God. Intensely religious from his early childhood, he realized that he must be about his Master's business, and he became obedient to requirements of the gospel, being baptized by Brother Charles Holder on February 20, 1910. Thus it will be seen that he became a Christian before he was quite twelve years old. Six years of his young life, lacking only twelve days, were given to the Master. His growth as a Christian was remarkable, but natural, for he was taught the holy Scriptures from his early childhood by his godly parents; and now in this hour of sad bereavement, what a consolation it must be to them to realize that by both example and precept they had directed his boyhood steps into paths of righteousness! He became a strong factor in the church at Soddy, Tenn. James was a good boy, kind and courteous to all, and numbered his friends by his acquaintances. At the time of his death he was a pupil in the Soddy High School, where he was held in high esteem by both the faculty and the student body. The following extract from a letter from the teachers and pupils to the sorrowing family shows how he was regarded by the entire school: "In every activity of this school James had a part; hence his loss will be keenly felt by the faculty and each member of the student body. He was always quick to respond to the needs of teachers and fellow-students, and nothing pleased him better than to be able to lend a helping hand." His many acts of kindness will be held in loving memory." The beautiful floral offering of the school also attested the love of the teachers and pupils for him. He had decided to become a minister, and it was his intention, upon the completion of the course of study in Soddy High School, to enter the Nashville Bible School to prepare himself for more efficient work. But his brief life has ended, his work is done, and we believe he has entered into rest.

S. HOUSTON PROFFITT.

Whenever You Need a General Tonic Take Grove's

The Old Standard Grove's Tasteless chill Tonic is equally valuable as a General Tonic because it contains the well known tonic properties of QUININE and IRON. It acts on the Liver, Drives out Malaria, Enriches the Blood and Builds up the Whole System. 50 cents.

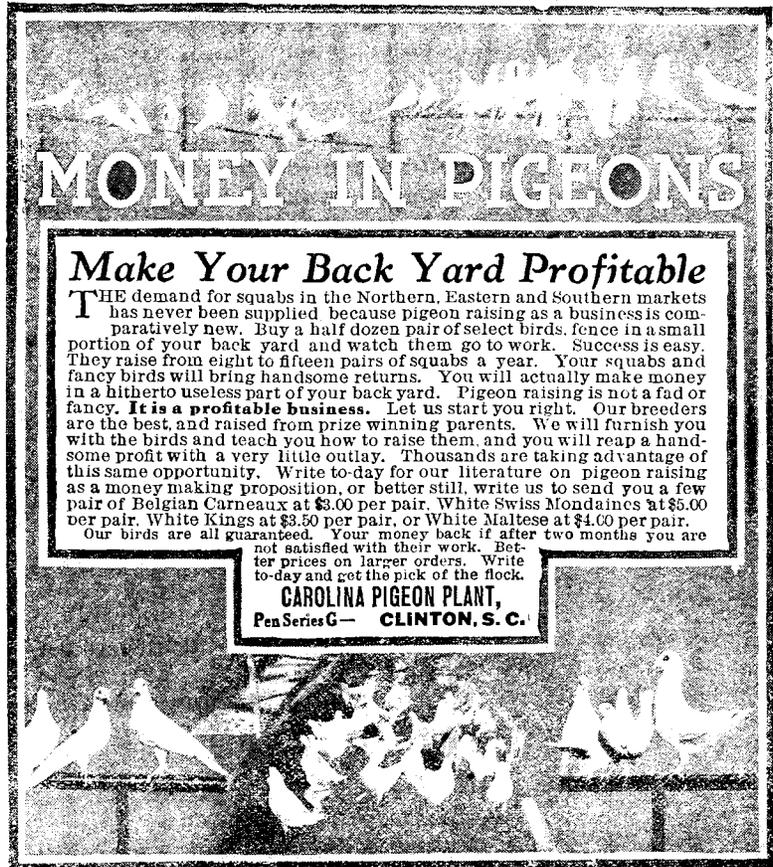

Big Deal on Sterling Hose.

Big purchase direct from the mills on "Sterling" Half Hose enables us to offer them while they last at startling prices.

"Sterling" Hose are stainless fast dye—good, clean, selected cotton yarn, nice weight, full seamless double heel and toe, wide elastic instep, long loop-on elastic ribbed top, full standard lengths; come in any color wanted; one dozen to a box, solid sizes, 9 to 11.

Sent, postpaid, to any address in the United States for $1.40 per dozen. Money cheerfully refunded if not delighted. These hose are sold for and are worth 20 to 25 cents a pair in many places. Order to-day. The Bee Hive, Box F, Clinton, S. C.

Subscribe for the Bible Study Helper. Sixty cents per year.

MONEY IN PIGEONS

Make Your Back Yard Profitable

THE demand for squabs in the Northern, Eastern and Southern markets has never been supplied because pigeon raising as a business is comparatively new. Buy a half dozen pair of select birds, fence in a small portion of your back yard and watch them go to work. Success is easy. They raise from eight to fifteen pairs of squabs a year. Your squabs and fancy birds will bring handsome returns. You will actually make money in a hitherto useless part of your back yard. Pigeon raising is not a fad or fancy. It is a profitable business. Let us start you right. Our breeders are the best, and raised from prize winning parents. We will furnish you with the birds and teach you how to raise them, and you will reap a handsome profit with a very little outlay. Thousands are taking advantage of this same opportunity. Write to-day for our literature on pigeon raising as a money making proposition, or better still, write us to send you a few pair of Belgian Carneaux at $3.00 per pair, White Swiss Mondaines at $5.00 per pair, White Kings at $3.50 per pair, or White Maltese at $4.00 per pair. Our birds are all guaranteed. Your money back if after two months you are not satisfied with their work. Better prices on larger orders. Write to-day and get the pick of the flock.

CAROLINA PIGEON PLANT,
Pen Series C— CLINTON, S. C.

How Shivar Mineral Water Relieves Rheumatism.

According to the standard medical books, rheumatism is not a germ disease, but is the result of imperfect nutrition. The food is either imperfectly digested or imperfectly assimilated. Poisons accumulate, and these irritate and inflame the delicate linings of the joints, the heart, and other organs. To cure rheumatism, it is, therefore, necessary to stop the formation of these poisons and get rid of those already formed.

The celebrated Shivar Mineral Water acts on the stomach and kidneys. It corrects the digestion and washes out the poisons through the kidneys. This is the opinion of physicians who prescribe it. If you suffer with rheumatism, dyspepsia, indigestion, gallstones, disease of the kidneys, bladder, or liver, uric acid poisoning, or any condition due to impure blood, read the following letter, then sign it, inclose the amount, and mail it. Only two out of a hundred on the average, report no benefit:

Shivar Spring,

Box 21M, Shelton, S. C.

Gentlemen: I accept your guarantee offer and inclose herewith two dollars for ten gallons of Shivar Mineral Water. I agree to give it a fair trial, in accordance with instructions contained in booklet you will send; and if it fails to benefit my case, you agree to refund the price in full upon receipt of the two empty demijohns, which I agree to return promptly.

Name

Address

Shipping Point

(Please write distinctly.)

JACOBS & COMPANY
SPECIAL ADVERTISING AGENTS
PRINTERS
DESIGNERS
PHOTO ENGRAVERS
ELECTROTYPERS
Catalogues —
— a Specialty
HOME OFFICE
CLINTON, S. C.

WHY NOT TRY POPHAM'S ASTHMA MEDICINE

Gives prompt and positive relief in every case. Sold by druggists. Price, $1. Trial package by mail, ten cents.

Williams Mfg. Co., Props., Cleveland, O.

The Narrow Way and Street-Car Admonitions and Warnings.

BY E. A. BEDICHEK.

There is a safety zone prepared, where the public can rest with assurance of safety from accidents. The kingdom of God is the place provided for all nations to be delivered from the wiles of the evil one. (John 10: 9, 10; Col. 1: 13.)

2. The motto, "Safety First," admonishing the public, which is of mutual benefit to the United Railway Company as well as the people who patronize said company. The Savior of men says: "Seek ye first the kingdom of God." (Matt. 6: 33.) "The kingdom of God is not meat and drink: but righteousness, and peace, and joy in the Holy Ghost." (Rom. 14: 11.)

3. "Give safety the benefit of the doubt." Christ says: "Abstain from all appearance of evil." (1 Thess. 5: 22.) "Prove all things; hold fast that which is good." (Verse 21.) Give safety the benefit of the doubt.

4. "What are you doing to cut down the number of accidents?" What will you give in exchange for your soul? If you gain the whole world and lose your own soul, what will it profit you? (Mark 8: 36.) What are you doing to cut down the number of souls being lost?

5. "It is easier to do right than to explain why you did wrong. A ton of explanation will never repair the mischief done." "Herein I do exercise myself, to have always a conscience void of offense toward God, and toward man." (Acts 24: 16.) "Be not overcome of evil, but overcome evil with good." (Rom. 12: 21.) "Keep . . . unspotted from the world." (James 1: 27.)

6. "Eternal vigilance insures safety." "Take heed unto thyself, and unto the doctrine; continue in them: for in doing this thou shalt both save thyself, and them that hear thee." (1 Tim. 3: 16, 17.) "Give diligence to make your calling and election sure." (2 Pet. 1: 10.) "Hold that fast which thou hast, that no man take thy crown." (Rev. 3: 11.) "Watch and pray, that ye enter not into temptation." (Matt. 26: 41.) Eternal vigilance secures eternal salvation. "If ye then be risen with Christ, seek those things which are above, where Christ sitteth on the right hand of God. Set your affection on things above, not on things on the earth. . . . When Christ, who is our life, shall appear, then shall ye also appear with him in glory." (Col. 3: 1-4.) "Look to yourselves, that we lose not those things which we have wrought, but that we receive a full reward." (2 John 8.)

Whether you move in the narrow

A Simple Therapeutic Statement.

The problem in cases of coughs, colds, sore throat, and to a degree in croup is:

First, to remove the phlegm which forms a culture for the germs of these diseases and prevents medication of the inflamed membranes.

Second, to apply to the diseased membranes a germicide or antiseptic which will destroy the germs of the disease.

Third, to allay the inflammation or blood congestion in the membranes, thereby permitting them to return to their normal functions.

Mentholatum accomplishes these ends.

The phlegm is loosened by the volatile oils which are pungent and penetrating, in a sense tickling the nerves to an accelerated discharge, which liquifies the phlegm and hastens its removal.

As these oils are antiseptic, they cleanse the diseased surfaces and stop the propagation of the dangerous germs.

The volatile oils of Mentholatum are slightly irritating, acting as a cleanly poultice to the inflamed surfaces and driving out the inflammation.

That is why Mentholatum liberally applied is found so useful in treating coughs, colds, croup, and sore throat.

way or on the street-car line, remember the admonitions and gentle warning. The United Railway Company knows it saves them thousands of dollars annually by preventing accidents as well as saving limb and life. The Christ knows his admonitions, when heeded, saves the energy and means of his friends for his cause, as well as saves some souls from being lost eternally. Paul in his sermon in the midst of Mars' Hill (Acts 17: 28) quoted from the poet and indorsed it as true; so I have appropriated for practical purposes the sayings of the United Railway Company.

I wonder how many in the last fifteen days have stored in their memory for reflection the above sayings, and wonder how many have in mind the spiritual application? After you read this, then re-read again and again until you have them fixed as a part of your very inner nature.

Foot Comfort Assured—Brooklyn Man Solves the Problem.

It is no longer necessary to suffer agonies that are caused by misfit shoes. Simon's Ezwear Shoes are built to give every possible foot comfort. They are soft and stylish and do not need breaking in. They fit like the proverbial "old shoe" the minute you wear them. Every pair is guaranteed to give satisfaction and to fit perfectly.

Mr. B. H. Simon will gladly send a free catalogue of over 450 styles of Ezwear Shoes along with self-measuring blank to all who write him. Write for your copy to-day and make your feet happy. Address Mr. B. H. Simon, 1589 Broadway, Brooklyn, N. Y.

The Prospect at Pittsburgh, Pa.

BY HIAL P. M'DONALD.

The little congregation in Pittsburgh is going forward against great odds. We had the largest and most interesting crowd last night (April 2) that we have had since I came, four months ago.

Yesterday was the day to meet the first semiannual payment on the building. The payment and interest amounted to eighty-seven dollars. Of this amount, Brother W. D. Scroggan and family, of Louisville, Ky., contributed twenty dollars. By borrowing twenty dollars the payment was met. The brethren have paid twenty dollars for insurance for three years and other incidental expenses since I came. This is a fair showing, since there have only been three to four regular male members. The church here cannot have preaching without outside help. They are doing nobly under the circumstances. Only one brother owns his home.

Several have responded to my call for names of members in the city, with all of whom I have communicated or visited.

South Pittsburgh has just been treated to a self-styled "big union revival," instigated and supported by "twenty-one denominations," as they were pleased to advertise themselves in Pittsburgh papers. The "Christian Church" furnished the chairman for the "revival executive committee" in the person of its pastor. The preaching was done by Rev. W. W. Hall, D.D., assisted by a company of four. Dr. Hall is a Methodist. At times the revival took on the nature of a "big circus" with its cheering, clapping of hands, booster songs by children, high-school yells, special music, etc. They reported about twelve hundred as "hitting the trail." I printed and distributed about three thousand circulars calling attention to their inconsistencies and submitted six propositions for debate, but have no reply to date.

The church of Christ has made such a success of doing little or nothing in this city that the truth is hardly respectable. There are twelve congregations somewhere that ought to, and will, contribute ten dollars each per month for twelve months to buy a tent, equip it, and put an evangelist in this field at once. Let every preacher and elder who reads this lay the matter on his heart in prayer to God, then rise up to the situation and stir his congregation till they see the need and become alive to help. What is done should be done quickly, as we are stirring things in a limited way, and this will be practically lost if not reinforced by the time I leave here in August. I will have more to say along these lines soon. In the meantime let every child of God, who can, get ready to do something for this work in a city of nearly three-fourths of a million people. My address is 222 Amanda Avenue, Mount Oliver, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Woman's Crowning Glory

is beautiful hair—coveted by all, but possessed by few. If you have allowed your hair to become coarse, stiff, streaked with gray or void of its original luster, the trouble lies in the absence of the natural hair oil. There can be no life without food; so unless the hair is well fed with proper oil, it cannot be expected to retain its luster and beauty.

La Creole Hair Color Restorer, when applied to the scalp, will restore those ugly, grizzly hairs to their natural color and at the same time leave the hair light and fluffy.

The tremendous success of La Creole Hair Dressing has encouraged a large number of imitations. The merit of this preparation has been proven through fifty years, continuous use; and just as counterfeit money never reaches the same high plane of value as the genuine, so none of the imitations of "La Creole" Hair Dressing ever attain the peculiar value of the original. Ask for La Creole Hair Dressing and refuse to accept any substitute. For sale by all dealers. Price, one dollar. Manufactured by Van Vleet-Mansfield Drug Company, Memphis, Tenn.

Truths Tersely Told.

It is better to fail in attempting to do right than not to make the attempt.

The thing that is most worth while in time and eternity is good character.

It is a fatal mistake to do wrong and expect good to come from it.

"No one is compelled to choose the right, but he must shoulder the responsibility of his choice."

Whether opportunities are doors that open to our success or failure depends upon the way we use them.—Selected.

AGENTS $6 a Day

Should be easily made selling our Concentrated Non-Alcoholic Food Flavors, Soups, Perfumes and Toilet Preparations. Over 100 kinds, put up in collapsible tubes. Ten times the strength of bottle extracts. Every home in city or country is a possible customer. Entirely new. Quick sellers. Good repeaters. Not sold in stores. No competition. 100 per cent. profit to agents. Little or no capital required. Elegant sample case for workers. Start now while it's new. Write today—a post card will do—FREE for full particulars

AMERICAN PRODUCTS CO., 4190 Third St., Cincinnati, O.

INDIVIDUAL COMMUNION SERVICE

Every church should use this cleanly method. Over 25,000 churches now use our system. Our noiseless, dust-proof, self-collecting trays save ¼ cost of other systems. Shallow glass used—no tipping of head. Outfits on trial. Give number communicants.

THOMAS COMMUNION SERVICE CO., BOX 460, LIMA, OHIO.

Get Your Machine at Half Price

$12⁹⁵

Five dollars brings you this high quality sewing machine, freight prepaid. Give it a thorough thirty-day trial; if you are entirely satisfied, pay for it in three monthly installments. If after thirty days you don't think it is the equal of any machine regularly sold at double the price, send the machine back; we pay the freight and return your money. This, in a nut-shell, is the big money-saving plan of the Religious Press Co-Operative Club.

Get our catalogue and investigate fully the six splendid bargains in high-grade sewing machines offered you under these terms. These machines are all fully warranted for ten years—during this period we replace free any defective parts. Prices range from $12.95 to $27.50. Not "cheap" machines, but absolutely the best that can be manufactured at the price—machines that you would have to pay twice as much for from agents or at retail stores. They are all sold under the same plan—

Easy Terms—Thirty Days Trial

The Club represents the co-operative plan of buying. By agreeing to sell a large number of these machines, we secured from a highly reputable manufacturer prices very little above actual cost. In buying from us you get your machine at carload-lot prices, plus the very light expense of operating the Club. All middlemen's profits, agents' commissions, salaries, etc., are saved.

Send us this Coupon Today and get our catalogue. Let us tell you more fully about the Club Plan. Investigate the superb, easy-running, guaranteed machines that you can buy under this plan at half usual prices and on easy terms. Remember the thirty day trial feature. Simply cut out this coupon, write in your name and address and mail to us.

Religious Press Co-Operative Club
113 W. Carolina Ave., Clinton, S. C.

FREE CATALOGUE COUPON

Religious Press Co-Operative Club
113 W. Carolina Ave., Clinton, S. C.

Please send me your catalogue, and show me how I can save half the purchase price on a high quality sewing machine through the Co-Operative Club Plan.

Name

Address

ELDERLY WOMEN SAFEGUARDED

Tell Others How They Were Carried Safely Through Change of Life.

Durand, Wis.—“I am the mother of fourteen children and I owe my life to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. When I was 45 and had the Change of Life, a friend recommended it and it gave me such relief from my bad feelings that I took several bottles. I am now well and healthy and recommend your Compound to other ladies.”

—Mrs. MARY RIDGWAY, Durand, Wis.
A Massachusetts Woman Writes:
Blackstone, Mass.—“My troubles were from my age, and I felt awfully sick for three years. I had hot flashes often and frequently suffered from pains. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and now am well.”
—Mrs. PIERRE COURNOYER, Box 239, Blackstone, Mass.

Such warning symptoms as sense of suffocation, hot flashes, headaches, backaches, dread of impending evil, timidity, sounds in the ears, palpitation of the heart, sparks before the eyes, irregularities, constipation, variable appetite, weakness and dizziness, should be heeded by middle-aged women. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has carried many women safely through this crisis.

PELLAGRA

Cured Or You Pay Nothing

I have cured—cured to stay cured—90% of all who have taken my Pellagra Cure. What I have done for others I GUARANTEE to do for you or my treatment will cost you nothing. Highly endorsed by Physicians, Bankers, Ministers, County Officials and others. If you doubt, write any official or merchant in Walker County. No interference with work—no restrictions on your eating.

SYMPTOMS are: Hands red like sunburn; sore mouth; throat, tongue and lips flaming red; much mucus and choking; indigestion and nausea; diarrhea or constipation; mind affected and many other symptoms. No matter what anyone tells you about Pellagra, write for my FREE Book which fully explains my theory of the cause, prevention and cure of this dreaded disease—full of interesting facts which I have proven beyond doubt. Also contains full particulars of my remarkable offer of NO CURE—NO PAY. Free diagnosis to anyone sending symptoms. Send no money but write today!

Dr. W. J. McCrary, Dept 238 Carbon Hill, Alabama
Show this to some unfortunate sufferer!

FRY THE OLD RELIABLE
WINTERSMITH'S
CHILL TONIC
For MALARIA CHILLS & FEVER
A FINE GENERAL STRENGTHENING TONIC

FROM THE FIELD

Alabama.

New Decatur, April 3.—The work here is very interesting. The interest is one of steady growth, and, as a result of the concerted and persistent efforts of the faithful, we expect great good. Last week we secured the use of the Salvation Army hall in South New Decatur, and Brother C. H. Baker, of Moulton, an excellent man and a splendid preacher, taught five lessons. The house was filled each night, and we predict great good. The brethren responded nobly to this mission call with their presence and prayers. Yesterday I was at Shoal Bluff, in Giles County, Tenn., one of my regular appointments. Though the weather was bad, yet we had a splendid audience, with two sermons and dinner for all. This has been the program throughout the winter. One can but feel that it is good to be there. The condition of the church is the best in its history. The Lord is great and greatly to be praised.

J. PETTEY EZELL.

Mooresville, April 4.—The meeting at Rome, Ga., closed on Sunday night, after lasting over three Lord's days. One was baptized. I submit a report of fellowship for March: Received from Mrs. J. B. Cathey and daughter, $1; J. W. Fruit, $1; church at Bryan, Ohio, $1; W. R. Rodes, $1; Joe Harwell, $1; B. F. Bradfute, $1; Sister Williams, $1; Brother Brooks, $1; J. P. Bracken, $1; Joe Bullington, $1; T. W. Bullington, $1; Brother Romine, 50 cents; Tom Hayes, $1; Hughes & Bullington, $1; R. C. White, $5; Max Cathey, $1; Earl Hodson, $3; Mrs. Chenault, $1; the Curlee and Dooley families, $10; Minnie Y. Bradley, $1. The few brethren at Rome gave me $21. While there I made my home with Brother W. F. Duncan. He and his good wife, assisted by her sister, truly know how to make home pleasant for a preacher. If every member at Rome was as full of zeal as this family and Brother Foster, the cause would grow in that city. When this is read, I shall be in Texas. I have been a busy man since December; but Brother S. H. Hall, of Atlanta, is the busiest man I ever saw. He knows how to make a visiting preacher feel at home, and urges me to return to Georgia later to do mission work. How I do wish enough churches would respond to this work and keep me busy all the time in hard places! I do enjoy so much such work. Let those desiring to fellowship me address me at Cedar Hill, Texas.

JOHN HAYES.

Arkansas.

Little Rock, April 5.—I have just returned to my home from Woodside, near Hamilton, Mont., where I have been holding a meeting. Three were baptized. The man who called me for the meeting was one of the three who were baptized. He and his family contributed over one hundred dollars to the support of the meeting. He is interested in building up the cause of Christ at Woodside. Dancing, “booz-

CALOMEL SELDOM

SOLD HERE NOW.

Nasty drug salivates, makes you sick and you may lose a day's work.

Every druggist in town—your druggist and everybody's druggist—has noticed a great falling off in the sale of calomel. They all give the same reason. Dodson's Liver Tone is taking its place.

“Calomel is dangerous and people know it, while Dodson's Liver Tone is perfectly safe and gives better results,” said a prominent local druggist. Dodson's Liver Tone is personally guaranteed by every druggist who sells it. A large bottle costs fifty cents; and if it fails to give easy relief in every case of liver sluggishness and constipation, you have only to ask for your money back.

Dodson's Liver Tone is a pleasant tasting, purely vegetable remedy, harmless to both children and adults. Take a spoonful at night and wake up feeling fine. No biliousness, sick headache, acid stomach, or constipated bowels. It does not gripe or cause inconvenience all the next day like violent calomel. Take a dose of calomel to-day and to-morrow you will feel weak, sick, and nauseated. Do not lose a day's work! Take Dodson's Liver Tone instead and feel fine, full of vigor and ambition.

What is the Club?

The Gospel Advocate Piano Club is both a theory and a fact. The theory is that a piano factory can afford to sell one hundred pianos and player-pianos at a much lower price than it would be willing to make on an order for only one instrument. The fact is that the club has saved each of its members forty per cent.

The theory of the club is “coöperation.” The fact is “perfect satisfaction.” The theory is: “A square deal to every member.” The fact is: “Every member is delighted.”

If you are interested in securing a piano or player-piano of the finest quality at the lowest possible factory price, write for your copy of the club's catalogue, discount sheet, and terms. Address Associated Piano Clubs, Gospel Advocate Department, Atlanta, Ga.

“Special” Silk Hose Offer.

To introduce the beautiful “La France” silk hose for ladies and gentlemen, we offer three pairs, 50-cent quality, for only one dollar, postpaid, in the United States. Pure silk from calf to toe, with durable elastic hile top, heel, and toe for long wear. Sizes, 8 to 10½. In white, tan, or black; assorted if desired. Money back promptly if not delighted. La France Silk Store, Box G, Clinton, S. C.

MAKE MONEY WRITING STORY-WRITING TAUGHT By Mail
Your manuscript criticized, revised, and typed. We also sell manuscripts on commission. For more than twenty years we have specialized in this business, and we bring results. Send to-day for our free booklet, “WRITING FOR PROFIT.” It tells how and gives proof. NATIONAL PRESS ASSOCIATION, Dept. R. P., Indianapolis, Ind.

ing," card playing, and kindred evils have the right of way at Woodside. The meeting was held in the clubhouse where the dances were "pulled off." The reader may think I am overdrawing the picture when I say that some of the church members danced, and even tried to defend themselves in it. Before the meeting closed the Mormons challenged for a debate, and I guess I will have to take care of their man later. The brethren and even some of the dancers want me to hold another meeting for them. I have promised to begin at Estill Springs, Tenn., on Saturday night before the fourth Sunday in April.

E. M. BORDEN.

Colorado.

Olathe, March 30.—Last Sunday was a busy day in our little sphere here on the Western Slope in Colorado. At 11 A.M. I preached at Ash Mesa Schoolhouse, five miles southwest of Olathe, after hearing the Bible lesson. This is where the little congregation meets for worship. At 3 P.M. I preached at Fairview Schoolhouse, five miles west of Olathe, to a large and appreciative audience. They urged me to revisit them Sunday week, which I promised to do. At 7:30 P.M. I filled my regular appointment at Olathe, finding a well-filled house awaiting me. It was necessary to travel about twenty miles to meet these appointments. Next Sunday, the Lord willing, I shall preach at Maple Grove Schoolhouse, five miles west of Montrose, at 11 A.M., and probably again at 3 P.M., returning to Olathe for the night service. This will require more than forty miles' travel. I am visiting these schoolhouses preparatory to arranging a tent meeting in each community as soon as I get the much-needed tent. A great field is before us, indeed.

E. C. FUQUA.

Olathe, March 27.—In January we engaged a meetinghouse of the sectarians in Olathe, and Brother Fuqua began mission work on the Western Slope in earnest; but before we had finished the meeting we were informed that we would have to vacate the house, and from that time we have never been permitted to use any church house in Olathe. Brother Fuqua then rented a hall and made announcements for the next Lord's day, but through sectarian influences that was closed against him before he had preached one sermon in it. It became evident to the sectarians that unless the preaching of the gospel was stopped, many of the people were going to believe and obey it. No honest, intelligent sectarian can listen to Brother Fuqua and not be convinced that he is preaching the gospel and that sectarianism is wrong. Yesterday Brother Fuqua preached three splendid sermons at three different points. Two were in the country—one at a schoolhouse six miles from Olathe, where the gospel in its purity had never been preached before. He was earnestly requested by the people to return in two weeks and preach to them again, which he promised to do. We expect to keep Brother Fuqua preaching about three discourses each Sunday; and as soon as we can secure the means to get a

When Louise of Prussia Went to Napoleon

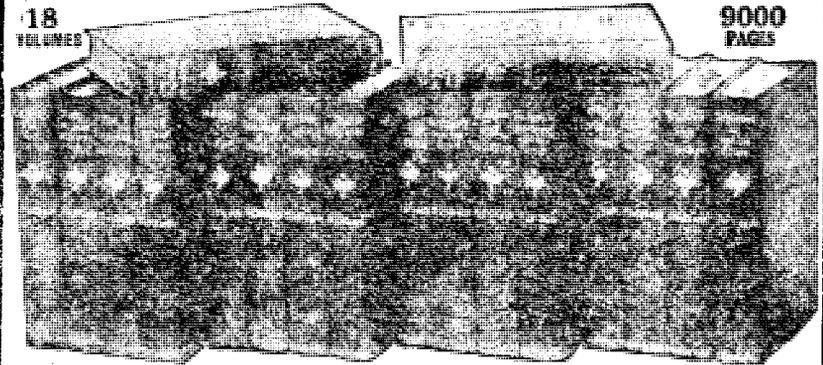

One Hundred Years Ago

Louise went to Napoleon on a delicate and humiliating mission. A clever woman, a beautiful woman, was Louise of Prussia. Had she accomplished her mission that night, the history of Europe would be different today. Beneath the surface of the mighty war now going on are the secret, twisted threads of intrigue and passions of a hundred years. To understand the fearful upheaval in Europe you must know that hidden history frankly told in imperishable form in

Muhlbach's Historical Romances

These wonderful volumes tell the private, personal life and character of great men and women. History is here written in story form. These volumes are beyond question the most fascinating historical romances that have ever been given to the world. They contain a history of the crises in Germany, Austria, Russia, England, Switzerland, Egypt, France, Holland and Prussia during two hundred years of startling events, told in intensely interesting and romantic form. All classes are represented in these volumes as they lived and loved, thought and acted. Thus the human interest always prevails and has given this set of books enduring popularity. These wonderful historic romances are among the books that never die. They are interesting, instructive, reliable, truthful, wholesome and good. In the volume devoted to Napoleon and Blucher practically every historic character that the life of the great emperor touched in any way is here given—all the men and women of his time. The new edition is printed from new plates, upon extra quality of paper from easy-to-read type, are attractively illustrated and bound in Art Buckram Cloth, titles stamped in gold.

The Encyclopedia Britannica says: "Muhlbach's works show a talent for lively description and narration that gives enduring popularity and a power in weaving alluring romances from those stirring times that is unsurpassed."

Here Is Our Bargain Offer—Send No Money

Just sign and mail attached coupon and we will ship you the complete set of this beautiful edition for five days' examination in your own home. You can decide then for yourself whether or not you wish to buy. You can return the set at our expense if it fails to give you entire satisfaction. Should you desire to purchase send us $1.00 as first payment and pay the balance at the rate of $2.00 per month for only nine months until our special price of $19.00 is paid. The regular subscription price is $40.00. Thousands of sets have been sold at this figure. The reason we are able to cut the price to only $19.00 is that our method of sale by mail eliminates all middle men's profits. There is neither a dealer's profit nor an agents commission involved in the transaction. We ship direct from factory to consumer and guarantee satisfaction in every way. Mail coupon promptly.

HERE ARE THE CONTENTS

1. Napoleon and the Queen of Prussia.
2. The Empress Josephine.
3. Napoleon and Blucher.
4. Queen Hortense.
5. Marie Antoinette and Her Son.
6. Prince Eugene and His Times.
7. The Daughter of an Empress.
8. Joseph II and His court.
9. Mohammed Ali and His House.
10. Henry VIII and His Court.
11. Berlin and Sans Souci.
12. Goethe and Schiller.
13. The Merchant of Berlin.
14. Louise of Prussia and Her Times.
15. Old Fritz and the New Era.
16. Andreas Hofer.
17. Frederick The Great and His Court.
18. Frederick the Great and His Family.

CUT OUT AND MAIL

INSPECTION COUPON

THE RIVERSIDE PUBLISHING CO., (2-23)
Marquette Bldg., Chicago, Illinois.

Please ship me for examination and approval one set Muhlbach's Historical Novels, eighteen volumes Art Buckram cloth binding. If satisfactory, I will send you $1.00 after five day's examination and $2.00 a month thereafter for nine months. If the set does not meet my entire approval after five day's examination, I will notify you and hold subject to your order and return at your expense as offered Gospel Advocate readers.

Name _____
Address _____
Enclose business card, letter head or give references

tent, he will get busy holding meetings in the towns during the spring and summer. There are a score or more of towns on the Western Slope

Napoleon Lost Because of Liver

History credits Napoleon with a bad case of indigestion, caused by eating too heartily of stuffed shoulder or mutton, on the eve of the battle of Waterloo. His stomach failed him at his crisis.

Jacobs' Liver Salt

is your best weapon in the battle of life, which we are fighting daily. If your liver lags, you are lost. Jacobs' Liver Salt stimulates a weary stomach, stopping fermentation, neutralizing acidity, and, in consequence of its action on the liver, causes complete digestion. For the life of you, try it. For sale by all druggists, at 25 cents, or sent direct by

JACOBS' PHARMACY,
Atlanta, Ga.

Team Work.

The idea of coöperation to produce results is exemplified in practically every activity of human society. Individualism seldom accomplishes much; but where coöperation of many units is secured, the best results accrue.

The human body is an excellent illustration of close correlation of different organs for effective team work. The healthy individual is an individual whose every organ is in perfect working condition. If something goes wrong with the liver, there is an injurious reaction upon all other organs connected with processes of digestion and elimination. For that matter, there is injurious effect upon the entire body. The same applies if the original difficulty lies in any other organ. All the organs make one body, and to have a healthy body they must all be healthy.

It is with this idea in view that Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Remedy was originally compounded over forty years ago. It contains various corrective drugs manufactured from herbs, barks, etc., each having its own specific application to the disorders of the principal digestive and eliminative organs. Hence, it is an all-round tonic for these organs.

It is probably because of this well-rounded prescription that Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Remedy has been found so satisfactory in its results in the treatment of incipient Bright's disease, uramic poisoning, rheumatism, and allied ailments of kidney and liver.

For sale at all drug stores in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.

DROPSY TREATED, usually gives quick relief, soon removes swelling and short breath, often gives entire relief in 15 to 25 days. Trial treatment sent free.
DR THOMAS E. GREEN Successor to
DR H. H. GREENS SONS Box H Chatsworth, Ga.

where the gospel has never been preached. Brother Fuqua could accomplish twice as much in the towns if he had a tent so he would be independent of sectarians and not be locked out of any place to preach when most needed. Brethren, please call the attention of your respective congregations to the needs of this field and send one Lord's-day's collection to Brother Fuqua immediately, so that the good work can go on without delay. The little band of brethren that meet each Lord's day at a school-house five miles from Olathe have been liberal in helping to preach the gospel to others. They paid most of the expenses of holding the debate with the Mormons, the expense of holding the meeting in Olathe, have bought about forty chairs to be used in connection with the work, have paid out for charitable purposes to brethren outside of Colorado about forty dollars, and have contributed some toward Brother Fuqua's support, but not as much as we wish we were able to; for we know his needs, which have not been supplied as they should. I mention these things that the brotherhood may know that the brethren here are doing what they can and are not expecting the brethren elsewhere to do it all. Now, in conclusion, I want to exhort those that are disposed to help this work to do so quickly. J. I. FOSTER.

Florida.

Gulf Hammock, March 30.—Brother J. O. Barnes, of Lake City, has just closed a good meeting here. We had about nine members of the one body, but only five of us met on Lord's days when Brother Barnes came. He preached nearly two weeks, and there were eleven more added to the church—nine by baptism and two from the Baptists. The interest was very good and the church was strengthened very much. C. E. WATERS.

Georgia.

Rome, April 6.—Brother John Hayes, of Cedar Hill, Texas, has just closed a good meeting here. Brother Hayes is a forcible speaker. He explains the truth so that a child can understand it. He baptized one person into Christ during the meeting. We had fine attendance and the best of attention. Brother Hayes preached the truth to people who never heard it before. He also went out to a foundry and preached to the molders each day while they were eating their dinner. Brother Hayes is a man who lives for Christ and is trying to bring every one to Christ that he possibly can. He preached at Rome for two weeks, and we cannot tell how much good he did here. The church here hopes to have him with them again in the near future. W. F. DUNCAN.

Louisiana.

New Orleans, April 5.—Eighteen days spent in Western Louisiana resulted in two accessions by primary obedience, two reclaimed, and unifying of the forces. Six points were visited. Conditions were never better for reaching souls in this State. Sacrificing men are needed to sound out the word. A. K. RAMSEY.

North Carolina.

Clemmons, April 4.—Brother W. J. Butler was with the church in Winston-Salem on April 2. He reports a considerable increase in attendance over previous appointments. He preached one day the previous week at a wagon factory at the noon recess, and one night at the church. I preached on Thursday night in a private home in Waughtown, a suburb of the city. By this means we meet with more people, and by forming their friendship we can induce more to come to hear the truth. I spent the first Lord's day in April at Corinth, Stokes County. The work there is doing well. I teach a Bible class there every time I meet with them. Much good has been done by so doing within the past year. We are pushing our work forward as best we can. We pray for great good to be done.

W. L. REEVES.

Texas.

Sherman, April 2.—One by membership to-day. Brother F. L. Young will begin a meeting for us next Lord's day, and I go to Cleburne for a meeting later in exchange with him. R. L. SMITH.

San Angelo, April 3.—Brother U. G. Wilkinson, of Commanche, Okla., preached for us yesterday. We enjoyed his good gospel sermons very much. He will lecture to-night on "Evolution." The good work still moves on here. JEWELL MATTHEWS.

El Paso, April 6.—The cause continues to gain ground here. We baptized three young men at our mid-week service last Wednesday evening and two ladies last evening. One had been a Baptist. We are to begin a series of meetings on April 23, with J. S. Dunn doing the preaching in the pulpit, and the church teaching from house to house. We expect great good to be done. The war with bandits in Mexico is not creating much excitement here, but, from newspaper reports, lots abroad. There are alarmists in all lines of work. The border feels very hopeful of peace. J. W. DUNN.

The Blood is the Life.

The blood is the life because it is the nutritive fluid. If the blood becomes very impure, the bones, the muscles, and other parts of the body are impaired and finally become diseased. Slighter variations in the quality of the blood, such as are often brought about by breathing the bad air of unventilated rooms, have equally sure, though less pain, ill effects on the nervous system.

Persons that have any reason to believe that their blood is not pure should begin to take Hood's Sarsaparilla at once. This medicine has done more than any other in cleansing, enriching, and revitalizing the blood and giving strength and tone to all the organs and functions.

If you want to be entirely satisfied, insist on having Hood's. Accept no substitute.

Notes from North Carolina.

BY W. L. REEVES.

Our work is still moving upward. My helper, Brother W. J. Butler, went to Mocksville, Tuesday, March 28, to baptize a young lady who was physically blind, but who had her spiritual eyes opened by the first gospel sermon she ever heard.

I was at Warner's Chapel on Lord's day, March 19. I preached three sermons, married one couple, and spent the week following going from house to house distributing tracts and preaching by word of mouth. Saturday night and Lord's day following I preached four sermons at Boyers, another country congregation, where there are a few members who meet regularly in their own meeting-house for worship. These few brethren are contributing some each week to help sound out the gospel in this much-neglected country. They are not selfish, and so want the gospel preached at other places.

The brethren at Pfafftown are building a new house for worship. This church had not been meeting for worship in a number of years until we took hold of the work there last May. We had to apply the sharp two-edged sword pretty severely, even had to have a four-days' debate with the socialists of the congregation, before we could remedy the deplorable condition which had prevailed there so long; but this sword proved to be the remedy, and now that congregation is entirely clear of socialist politics in her borders.

The congregation at Corinth, near Germantown, failed to meet on only one Lord's day during the winter; but before we came here they met at no time only when there chanced to be a preacher with them, and that was not very often. There is some strong men in Corinth congregation. Brother John W. Kurfees, who is a brother to Brother M. C. Kurfees, who is one of the editors of the Gospel Advocate, is one strong member there. Brother R. J. Petree, ex-Representative of Stokes County, is one of the most faithful members of all. He and Brother Kurfees can deliver strong lectures to the church at that place.

Our work in the city of Winston-Salem is still doing splendidly, but we need help to sustain a man so he can stay with this work all the time. I am doing all I can to help the work to this end. We try to arrange so as to have preaching two or three times a week somewhere in the city, at private homes or in our church house.

A ripe field is reported from the city of Greensboro, so we are going to take the tent there in May for a meeting.

COLUMBIA DOUBLE DISC RECORDS

BRING TO YOU

The World's Best Sacred Songs

Here are a few. Your dealer will gladly play over to you hundreds more that you ought to have. They will play on any standard disc machine.

- Soft Floating on the Air. (Root.) Columbia Mixed Quartet. With—Scatter Seeds of Kindness. (Vail.) Harry McClaskey, tenor, and Gwilym Miles, baritone. } A1668
10 in.—75c
- Star of Bethlehem. (Adam.) Henry Burr, tenor. With—O Holy Night. (Adam.) George Alexander, baritone. } A237
10 in.—65c
- Stille Nacht, Heilige Nacht. (Silent Night, Hallowed Night.) (Gruber.) Olive Fremstad, soprano. In German. Single disc only. } 30708
12 in.—$2
- Tarry with Me. (Nicolai.) James F. Harrison, baritone, and Harry Anthony, tenor. With—I Surrender All. Daisy Tapley, contralto, and Carroll Clark, baritone. Organ accompaniment. } A961
10 in.—65c
- Te Deum No. 7 (Festival) in B Flat. (Buck.) Columbia Mixed Quartet. With—Morning. (Von der Mehden.) Columbia Male Quartet. } A5538
12 in.—$1.25
- That Sweet Story of Old. (West.) Merle Tollotson, contralto. With—Jesus, Savior, Pilot Me. (Gould.) James F. Harrison, baritone, and Harry Anthony, tenor. } A849
10 in.—65c
- Why Do the Nations?—from The Messiah. (Handel.) David Bispham, baritone. With—Samson. (Handel.) Honor and Arms. David Bispham, baritone. } A5332
12 in.—$1.50
- With Verdure Clad from the Creation. (Haydn.) Walter Lawrence, boy soprano. With—Villanelle. (The Larks' Song.) (Dell' Acqua.) Walter Lawrence, boy soprano. In French. } A5421
12 in.—$1

COLUMBIA GRAPHOPHONE CO.,

Woolworth Bldg., New York City. Dealers Everywhere.

PLAIN AND ORNAMENTAL IRON FENCE A SPECIALTY
NOTHING TOO ORNAMENTAL FOR US TO MANUFACTURE

Write for Catalogue

CINCINNATI IRON FENCE CO.,
DEPT. F, CINCINNATI, OHIO.

We need about one hundred copies of "Sincerity Seeking the Way to Heaven," to lend out during this meeting. Who can send them to us? We have no church there to support the meeting in any way. Brother Frank Dunn, of Nashville, Tenn., will join me as a helper in this work in June.

But enough said for this time. All who write, address me at Clemmons, N. C. Subscribe for the Gospel Advocate and get the benefit of the special numbers.

Subscribe for the Bible Study Helper. Sixty cents per year.

POTATO PLANTS.

Ten million genuine Nancy Hall, Porto Rico, and Triumphs. Prices, 500 for $1.35, 1,000 for $2.50, postpaid and insured. By express, 1000 for $1.75; 5,000 to 10,000 at $1.60; 15,000 to 20,000, at $1.50 per 1,000. Plants ready April 1. Prompt delivery and good, strong plants guaranteed. Write for a descriptive price list.

PIEDMONT PLANT CO.,
Albany, Ga., and Greenville, S. C.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM
A toilet preparation of merit. Helps to eradicate dandruff. For Restoring Color and Beauty to Gray or Faded Hair. 50c. and $1.00 at Druggists.

HINDERCORNS Removes Corns, Callouses, etc., stops all pain, ensures comfort to the feet, makes walking easy. 15c. by mail or at Druggists. Hiscox Chemical Works, Patchogue, N. Y.

Oxford Bibles

Printed with
Very Large Type

For those who need an extra large type on account of failing sight or old age, this series of Oxford Bibles has no equal.

Weigh Only 29 Oz.

Most large-type Bibles are very heavy, but these Bibles are extremely light because they are printed on the famous

Oxford India Paper

Oxford Pica Square Bibles

Size 7 1/4 x 5 1/2 inches
Only 1 1/2 inches thick

Specimen of Type.

2 He only is my rock a salvation; he is my defe

- | | | | |
|------------|---|-------|--------|
| No. 01561x | Alaska Seal, limp, leather lined | ----- | $8.50 |
| 01563x | Alaska Seal, divinity circuit, leather lined, silk sewed | | 9.00 |
| 01565x | Levant Morocco, divinity circuit, leather lined, silk sewed | ----- | 13.00 |

Order from
McQUIDDY PRINTING COMPANY,
Nashville, Tennessee

Notes from West Tennessee.

BY JOHN R. WILLIAMS.

On the first Lord's day in April I went to Jones' Chapel, in Lake County. This was my first visit since the first of October, 1915. The day was unfavorable, the roads nearly impassable, but still there was a splendid audience out. I listened to the different classes or grades of study as they recited to their teachers. Both teachers and pupils seemed to be filled with zeal and earnestness that is commendable. The congregation is composed mostly of renters, but they have a nice house, well seated, and owe only one hundred and five dollars on the house, and that not due until next fall. They are happy over this condition. Also, the congregation at Glady Hill have their building paid out, all but one hundred and eight dollars, and that not due until next January. So they, too, are happy over this condition. I am still working for these congregations that we have built up, and I am glad to say that they are all doing well.

We have learned one thing about mission work that others can profit by, and that is for the preacher to stay with it. For a preacher to go into a place and build a congregation, then leave it, is to leave it to die. Another thing, we have tried to keep the work connected, not scattered too much. We would start a congregation in a neighborhood, and then in an adjoining neighborhood set tent and start another so as to connect the wave of interest, and not leave a great space between the two not worked. We have kept the work and interest connected, and so the growth is gradual, but permanent. In doing such work, the preacher has much to contend with; for some want to change preachers every year—never satisfied—though the one they have may preach the gospel acceptably and be a man of good character and standing where known best. In some congregations there are members who have greater respect for sectarians than they have for the Lord. It makes them nervous to hear the old gospel if some of their religious neighbors are present; so, of course, they want to rid themselves of the man who has greater respect for God and his word than he has for the opinions and speculations of men. Brethren, your humble servant has often received this stab and lost out in some places with some members.

Of one thing I am thoroughly convinced: If a man will preach the gospel from pure and correct motives, he will succeed; he will be fed, clothed, housed, and persecuted. If he preaches from other than pure and Watch Your Heart If You Wish Health.

Weak hearts are more common than weak stomachs, lungs, eyes, backs, or kidneys. Every time your heart misses a beat, your life is being shortened. Heart disease, taken in its early stages, is quite easy to relieve; but every day that treatment is delayed the relief becomes more difficult.

Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy, taken in conjunction with the Nervine or alone, has proven very efficient in relieving heart disorders.

The Rev. George W. Kiracofe, of Keller, Va., in this connection stated as follows: "It has been many years since I was cured of heart trouble by Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy and Nervine. I am just as sound as a dollar in that organ to-day. Before I took these remedies, my breathing had been short and at times difficult; there were sharp pains about my heart, accompanied by fluttering which would make me feel faint and languid. The least excitement or worry would unnerve me. The trouble grew steadily worse. Doctors' prescriptions did me no good; but since using Dr. Miles' Remedies, all symptoms were removed and have never returned since."

If you suspect that you have heart trouble, avoid all dangerous delays.

It costs you nothing to try these remedies if you are not benefited. All you have to do is to return the empty bottle to the druggist and he will refund your money.

MILES MEDICAL COMPANY, Elkhart, Ind.

Cut This Out

and save it until you have written for your copy of the catalogue of the Gospel Advocate Piano Club. It will explain how, by placing your order for a piano or player-piano through the club of one hundred members, you get a factory discount of forty per cent, secure convenient terms, and are absolutely assured of perfect satisfaction. Each member is responsible only for his own order, all freights are prepaid; and as you try the instrument for thirty days in your own home before accepting it, there is no possibility of dissatisfaction. Everybody is delighted with the big saving in price, the convenient terms, and the superior quality and strong protective guarantees of the instruments. You are cordially invited to join. Address Associated Piano Clubs, Gospel Advocate Department, Atlanta, Ga.

We have the earliest, big, high-class Strawberry grown; also the best one of the Everbearing Kinds. It bears the best-flavored berries from spring until snow flies. We grow two hundred choice varieties of Dahlias, Cannas, and Gladioli, and are offering bargains in many select combinations. Free booklet. Wakefield Plant Farm, Charlotte, N. C.

PAY ONLY $100 A MONTH

THREE PIECE LIVING ROOM SET $10.95
with library table having 34x 24 in. top, book shelf and drawer; solid comfort arm chair and rocker with spring seats covered with best imitation Spanish leather $10.95, $1 down, $1 a month. 30 days trial

We offer you the biggest buying chance of a lifetime—cash bargains on our monthly payment plan. No interest. 1500 Special Big Bargains, to introduce our quality furniture, rugs, curtains, stoves, kitchen cabinets. Write NOW! RHODES FURNITURE CO. Dep. F. Memphis, Tenn.

Furniture on Credit

WRITE FOR CATALOG

"MOTHERS' DAY" is the title of a beautiful service written for Mothers' Day (2d Sunday in May) by Chas. H. Gabriel and E. E. Hewitt. In round and shaped notes, 5c copy, 55c doz., $4.35 100, postpaid. Sample free. Arranged for 10-piece orchestra; complete score $1.50. * Send 15c for our fine new book of Children's Day Recitations. Ask for FREE samples of new Children's Day Services. THE RODEHEAVER COMPANY 1165 Monon Bldg. Chicago. 715 Lippincott Bldg. Phila.

Pastors: WE publish Books, Pamphlets, Minutes, Sermons, Church Directories, Manuals and rebound books and magazines. Specialists in Church Envelopes. Write us for prices. 419 S. Third St. MAYES PRINTING CO., Inc. Louisville, Ky.

Pulpit Bibles Largest assortment, finest Bibles at lowest cost. Write to us for full description and prices. PENTECOSTAL PUBLISHING CO., Inc., LOUISVILLE, KY.

correct motives, he will and should fail. Some I have known to fail, and others I expect to see fail. The man who is governed by the increase of salary more than the desire to do good will fail; and the sooner, the better. On the other hand, there are some congregations that will suffer themselves to starve to death under the preaching (?) of some one whom they do not or will not have to pay, rather than feed and clothe a man who is capable of teaching them and building them up. In West Tennessee there are some old men who do not believe in preaching, though it "pleased God by the foolishness of preaching to save them that believe."

To the Brethren in Georgia.

I wish to move to Georgia some time after the first of June, and I want to make arrangements to move where I can have membership with a loyal, zealous congregation. I want to make arrangements to move on a farm, and, the Lord willing, I want to rent a crop for next year, stock furnished. I would like to make arrangements with a brother, if I can do so, but I want to get into a Christian community for the benefit of my family. I would preach wherever and whenever I could. If this comes before a Christian community in Georgia that would like to add a humble, Christian family to their number, just write me at Evensville, Tenn.

H. B. YOUNG.

Report from Tucumcari, N. M.

BY JOHN PUCKETT.

I wish to make a report of what has been received from the brethren to purchase a tent and to thank those that assisted us in this matter. We have received to date one hundred and thirty-seven dollars and twenty-five cents. We hope to have the tent here and ready for the field by the first of May. The entire amount for the purchase of the tent was given by people of New Mexico, except three dollars given by a brother in Ohio. Nearly all this money is in the bank here, and we are virtually assured of the tent. We hope to have some reports of work during the summer that will make all lovers of the cause rejoice. Brother J. W. Bandy baptized five persons on March 19 at Love Schoolhouse, north of here sixteen miles. So the good work goes on. I have been troubled much of late with throat trouble, not able to do much preaching. People here in this country seem eager to hear the truth, and there never was a richer field for the spread of the pure gospel than this one. Pray the Lord to send la-

Here It Is!

My New 1916 Buggy Bargain Book for You FREE

Just off the press. Filled with startling bargains in buggies direct from my factory in the heart of the Kentucky hickory district. Here's the place to buy your buggy.

My catalog takes you on a trip through the factory — following the raw material from the time of its receipt through the various construction steps until it comes out a finished buggy. Illustrated in colors from photographs of buggies. Hundreds of dandy testimonials and pictures of pleased customers from everywhere who have bought

My $30,000 Guarantee Bond

Protects you when you buy the "Blue Grass" buggy. This monster bond means that every claim I make must be right. I have to keep my word whether I want to or not.

BOHON'S "BLUE GRASS BUGGIES" AT FACTORY PRICES.

These buggies are built by experts. The "Blue Grass" is the easiest riding, lightest running buggy on the market. The very best material is used. Genuine second growth, straight grain Kentucky split hickory is used. Full wrought gears doubly braced. Easy riding, French head, French point springs. Special light running 2000 mile axle. Upholstered in Bohon's hand-buffed auto leather. Guaranteed waterproof top.

Everything that can be put into a buggy to make it durable, easy riding and luxurious is found in my "Blue Grass." Yet my factory price to you is so low that I can save you $25 to $50. And you don't have to buy my buggies on faith or take my word for anything, either. Bohon's "Blue Grass" buggies are guaranteed for life and backed by a $30,000 Bond.

Try One On Your Own Roads for 60 Days Then Decide Whether You Wish To Keep It.

This gives you time thoroughly to test my "Blue Grass" Buggy. Try it on rough roads and at high speeds. If the good old "Blue Grass" shows a flaw let me know and I'll take it back. I'll pay freight both ways. So the fair trial doesn't cost you a cent. Nobody could make a fair offer like this unless he knew he had a buggy that was absolutely right in every respect. I also have a complete line of harness and pony vehicles and harness.

Write for the Free Book.

Read it and you'll realize I haven't told you half the story here. You'll see buggies so handsome and high grade you'll wonder how I can sell them at the prices I do. If you are buying a buggy or thinking of buying one this big bargain book will save you money. Write for it.

D. T. BOHON,
987 Main Street Harrodsburg, Ky.

borers into his vineyard. Do not simply pray, brethren, but send them. The brethren here are all willing to help all they can, but, as in many places, there is not more than one or two. The support is not sufficient to enable the preacher to do the work that needs to be done.

LOSS OF APPETITE is also loss of vitality, vigor, tone. To recover appetite and the rest, take Hood's Sarsaparilla, that strengthens the stomach, perfects digestion, makes eating a pleasure. It also makes the blood rich and pure and steadies the nerves.

FIRM FOUNDATION An eight-page weekly religious paper devoted to the restoration of primitive Christianity. Excels in church news; an able corps of writers; extensively circulated. Subscription price, $1 a year, payable in advance. Special rates for clubs. We believe that every loyal Christian should have the Firm Foundation visit his home.

FIRM FOUNDATION PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Austin, Texas.

Piles Cured at Home by New Absorption Method.

If you suffer from bleeding, itching, blind, or protruding piles, send me your address, and I will tell you how to cure yourself at home by the new absorption treatment; and will also send some of this home treatment free for trial, with references from your own locality, if requested. Users report immediate relief and speedy cure. Send no money, but tell others of this offer. Write to-day to Mrs. M. Summers, Box 195, South Bend, Ind.

VICTORIOUS SONGS

Familiar songs that have stood the test. Also a few "Rugged Cross," "Sweeter and Sweeter," "What a day of Victory," "Brighter the Corner Where You Are." 128 songs for 10 cents in stamps, or $8.00 per 100. Pentecostal publishing Co., Louisville, Ky.

Crawford-Hight Debate.

BY W. F. MATHIS.

This debate was held at Birmingham, Ky. It began on January 24 and continued four days. Four propositions were discussed. (1) "The kingdom." Brother Hight affirmed. (2) "In conviction and regeneration of lost sinners the Holy Spirit exerts a power on the sinner's heart in addition to the written word." Crawford affirmed. (3) "Apostasy." Brother Hight affirmed. (4) "Sinners are saved by grace through and before baptism." Crawford affirms.

The debate was fine from the first. The speakers were kind and courteous to each other. The crowds were large and attentive. The little town of Birmingham was stirred as never before.

Brother Hight was too much for his opponent. Elder Crawford said people were saved by faith alone (Acts 2: 37); therefore without repentance or baptism. One Mr. Dennington was said to have kept time, but he had more; he tried to moderate by way of many times correcting his brother speaker. Brother Hight is a debater of long experience and is up on the steps taken by his opponent.

This makes two severe blows on Baptistism this past winter. The writer had a debate in November with L. R. Riley, of Kirksey, Ky., and it was given up by the Methodists, some Baptists, and my brethren that the truth won a victory.

Try It To-Day.

If you suffer from rheumatism, start taking "Renwar" to-day. It makes no difference how many other remedies have failed to give you relief. "Renwar" is guaranteed to give you satisfactory results or your money will be refunded. We have hundreds of letters testifying to the efficacy of this remarkable remedy, and for that reason do not hesitate to guarantee it. Get a bottle from your druggist right away. If he does not have it, accept no substitute, but send fifty cents for a full-size bottle, post-paid, direct to us. Prepared and guaranteed by the Warner Drug Company, Nashville, Tenn.

FRECKLES

Now Is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freckles as the prescription ointment—double strength—is guaranteed to remove these homely spots.

Simply get an ounce of ointment—double strength—from your druggist, and apply a little of it night and morning and you should soon see that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the lighter ones have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than an ounce is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a beautiful clear complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength ointment as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.

WHEN WRITING OUR ADVERTISERS
PLEASE MENTION THIS PUBLICATION

1,000 Subscribed in One Month.

"There's a Reason."

Why the People Want the Bible Study Helper.

A new monthly magazine containing the best thoughts of the best books focused on the lessons. Carefully selected illustrations from all available sources. Special departments devoted to teachers, boys and girls, and home study.

WHAT THEY SAY.

"Indescribably good." "Like food to a hungry soul." "A fine piece of work." "Fills a place not filled by any other magazine." "Comments on international lessons are excellent." "Every teacher and advanced student should have it."

COSTS VERY LITTLE.

Price, single copy, sixty cents a year; five or more copies to same address, fifty cents each.

Send Your Order to

McQUIDDY PRINTING COMPANY,

317-319 FIFTH AVENUE, NORTH,

NASHVILLE, TENN.

Chronic Diseases Cured Without Drugs

If you are afflicted with Paralysis, Dyspepsia, Rheumatism, Nervous Debility, Asthma, Bronchitis, Catarrh, or other diseases that medicine has failed to cure, write for our free book which tells all about a new and better way.

Our natural methods and sanitarium appliances will restore your health. Liberal guarantee of satisfaction. Low charges. Write at once for names of physicians, ministers, lawyers, merchants, bankers, farmers, teachers, former patients, and others who indorse our treatment.

THE BIGGS SANITARIUM, Asheville, N. C.

BOOK AND TRACT PRINTING

WE are especially prepared to set the type, make the plates, and print and bind books of any size in any style. Give us the approximate number of words in your manuscript, and we will submit a dummy showing the actual size of the finished book, with an estimate of the cost.

Professional Proof Reading and First-class Workmanship Guaranteed

McQUIDDY PRINTING COMPANY

(Publishers of the Gospel Advocate and Religious Books)

317-319 FIFTH AVE., NORTH

NASHVILLE, TENN.

GOSPEL ADVOCATE

ALBANY, N. Y. BOX 63
OCT 1 1916

Volume LVIII. No. 16.

NASHVILLE, TENN., APRIL 20, 1916.

$1.50 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

CONTENTS.

"EDIFYING AS THE NEED MAY BE".....	385
OUR CONTRIBUTORS.....	386
Should Opinions Have the Right of Way?—Itinerary Notes—"Studying and Interpreting Prophecy"—Life's Record—It's Time to Get Stirred Up—Program of the Nashville Bible School Alumni Meeting, May 17, 1916.
GEORGIA AND THE FAR SOUTHERN FIELD.....	390
MISSIONARY.....	391
EDITORIAL.....	392
The Destruction of Jerusalem and the Coming of the Lord—Some Questions and Answers—Marrying Unbelievers—The Christian Standard's Jubilee Number.
QUERY DEPARTMENT.....	396
AT HOME AND ABROAD.....	397
"I Will Come Again".....	398
THE MASTER'S VINEYARD.....	400
Regeneration.....	401
The Woodriddle-Walling Debate.....	402
The Mission of the Church.....	405
Standing for the Right.....	405
OBITUARIES.....	406
Jenkins—Taylor—Mack—Johns—Lovell.

Entered at the post-office at Nashville, Tenn., as second-class matter. Published weekly at Nashville, Tenn.

"EDIFYING AS THE NEED MAY BE"

BY A. B. LIPSCOMB

The Quiet Evangelism, Again.

The editor of this page expresses pleasure at the number and spirit of the letters commendatory of the article written a few weeks ago on "The Quiet Evangelism," and feels encouraged to take up the subject again.

When I come to write of the methods of the quiet evangelism, I am on ground with which every one of you is familiar, and the most that I can do is to stir up a new interest in things that have grown old and perhaps been laid aside. The other day I saw a sketch of a modern living room drawn by a famous architect, and the most unique feature of the room was his arrangement for an old-time bell rope—the kind used by our grandparents when they would summon a servant or a member of the household. The best that this architect could do in adding a distinctive charm to a modern home was to bring to life an almost forgotten custom. And surely I could not suggest a better plan to make our church home attractive than to suggest that we trim and light again some lamps that are flickering, if not already extinguished. Of all the parables that fell from Jesus' lips, none has a more timely or emphatic message for us than the parable of the ten virgins. Certainly none is more tragical and pathetic than the story of the foolish ones. There is not a word said against their moral character. They expected to go in with the bridegroom, but through neglect found the door closed against them.

The Curse of Indifference.

If the prophet Amos were back in this world, he would likely choose as a text for his sermon the familiar words: "Woe unto them that are at ease in Zion!" And if Jesus were to come back and speak in an audible voice to the churches, to many a church he would likely speak the message that came to Laodicea of old: "I know thy works, that thou art neither cold nor hot: I would that thou wert cold or hot. So because thou art lukewarm, and neither hot nor cold, I will spew thee out of my mouth." In one of our cities a baseball player was discharged from the team, and the reason given was lack of interest in the game. If a baseball player must be discharged because of lack of interest, what shall be said of men and women who know that there is a heaven to gain and a hell to shun, and multitudes in a perishing condition, yet are doing nothing to save a soul from death? There are many professed Christians who sing, "Throw out the life line," who are themselves drifting derelicts on the high seas of life. They once bade fair to make the port of glory, but their lights are gone out. Let us remember that the kindling of the light is only part of the work that needs to be done. The other part is the sustaining and nourishing of the light when kindled. The first part is God's. "Seeing it is God, that said, Light shall shine out of darkness, who shined in our hearts, to give the light of the knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Jesus Christ." God kindles our lights when we obey the gospel of his Son. The second part is ours. "Be ye renewed in the spirit of your mind." By study of the word, by prayer, by Christian living, I must maintain my light which Christ himself hath kindled. It is only when I keep my lamp trimmed and burning that I show forth the excellencies of Him who called me out of darkness "into his marvelous light."

The Light Bearer Must Be a Soul Winner.

I cannot conceive of a person being a light in Christ's spiritual kingdom who is not a soul winner. We are to let our lights so shine before men that they may be led to know and to love and obey the Father. We are to be his witnesses. We are to disciple all nations. We are to go out and compel them by force of example and loving entreaty to come in. A modern writer asks: "If men cannot believe in the Christians whom they have seen, why should they believe in the Christ whom they have not seen?" If the man who asked this question were an infidel, I might answer in the words of Paul: "Let God be found true," though all men are liars. But he was not an infidel. In putting this pointed question he was seeking to encourage the right kind of Christian living. Is it not a pitiful thing to see a church full of men and women who call themselves "Christians," and yet in that church there has not occurred a single conversion for months? They touch elbows with the unsaved multitudes every day. They meet them in a social and business way, but make no effort to bring them to Christ. The command to evangelize the world is not to the church as a unit or to preachers as a class, but to the individual disciple of Christ; and surely those church members are not living in communion with their Lord when they allow months and even years to pass without an honest effort to save a soul.

Can Do Anything But That.

Now and again some church member has been heard to say: "I cannot do that kind of work. I can sing; I can contribute something; I can serve on a committee; I can serve as an usher; I can pass the emblems around; but I cannot talk to people about being Christians—anything but that." You are greatly mistaken. What Jesus commands can be done, else he would not command it. And when a disciple of Jesus Christ seeks to excuse himself from obeying his Lord, we may easily discover why.

He has not made an honest effort. True, he cannot preach like Paul or exhort like Barnabas, but in a quiet and serious way he can make his religion part of his conversation. While he does not possess the wisdom of Jesus, he does possess his example, and he can talk about the importance of being born again as his Master discussed that theme with Nicodemus. He can speak of matters of worship as Jesus spoke to the woman at the well. Sometimes you will meet with more or less of a chilly reception, but that should not discourage you. Such rebuffs do not keep you from talking politics. Why should they keep you from talking Christ? When some one opposes your political views, you argue all the harder, do you not? You double your efforts to convince. Why not double them in your efforts to save the souls of men? If we have the gist of the matter in us and go straight to the heart of the subject, there are very few but will be glad to listen, and many will quickly acknowledge their interest and benefit in such a conversation. Napoleon said that the "concentration of a given force, at a given point, for a given length of time, is bound to win." The rule that applies to war will, I believe, apply equally as well to matters of the mind and heart. One stroke of a bell on a dark night will hardly be heard in the fog; but let there be repeated strokes at regular intervals, and it will be heard in the darkest night and in the deepest fog. Is it not worth our while to sound the gospel message with such persistent stroke through the darkness of sin that enthralis the world? "Let us not be weary in well-doing: for in due season we shall reap, if we faint not."

And the Women, Too.

Once again, by way of commendation and encouragement and inspiration, I mention the great work that godly women have done. I hold up before you the names of Phebe and Lydia and Prisca, women who not only graced their homes with a meek and quiet spirit in the performance of domestic duties, but carried the gospel to others in quiet, personal evangelism. And with the Saylor's parable before us, may we not say, concerning the Christian woman's influence:

"A lady with a lamp shall stand
In the great history of the land,
A noble type of good,
Heroic womanhood?"

Should Opinions Have the Right of Way?

BY F. W. SMITH.

When one becomes wedded to human opinions in religion, nothing is permitted to stand in the way of said opinions. No matter how plainly and positively God may speak to the contrary, his word must clear the track and give to these opinions the full right of way.

One way, and seemingly a very favorite way, to get around or over a clear-cut passage of holy writ that runs counter to some pet theory or speculative opinion is with a hop, skip, and jump—seeking to clear the fence by the luminous (?) remark that "your interpretation is blind exegesis." But all such efforts come in bad grace from the one who thus acts without some attempt to shed at least a ray of light on the benighted situation.

It becomes a very convenient and easy way to answer (?) another's argument by simply saying: "That passage does not mean what you claim it does." And, strange to say, this method seems entirely satisfactory to a large class of people, religious teachers not excepted.

But there is another and an entirely different side to this matter—viz., that he who denies that a passage of scripture means what another claims is obligated by every rule of fairness to show clearly what it does mean, or that the other's interpretation plainly conflicts with other clear and unambiguous passages bearing on the same subject. Hence one should not be allowed to so easily escape from an insurmountable difficulty or an extremely embarrassing situation as with the hop-skip-and-jump method.

Many plain passages of the word of God are thus set aside by men who have espoused some human theory or invention of their own by which they have become so blinded that they fail to see in the word of God that which squarely and positively contradicts their contention.

For instance, he who holds to the doctrine of "infant baptism" does not see that the very constitution of the church of God—the great commission (Matt. 28: 19, 20; Mark 16: 15, 16)—provides for the baptism of believers only. He finds "infants" in the commonwealth of Israel, or in the old, fleshly, Abrahamic covenant, and jumps to the conclusion that the church of the New Testament is but a continuation of the commonwealth of Israel; and as infants were in the church in Israel's day, so should they be now. He never stops to consider the many passages that lie in the way of such a position, and that he has simply assumed without proof that the two institutions—the commonwealth of Israel and the church of Christ—are one and the same, with the same terms of membership. This error once firmly fixed in the mind so blinds it to any and every opposite view that nothing short of a new and special revelation from God in the express command, "Thou shalt not baptize an infant," accompanied with wonderful miraculous demonstration, could knock the scales from their eyes.

The principle here involved may be correctly applied to every "hobby rider" galloping up and down in the land to-day as if on dress parade for the express purpose of showing how well and how gracefully he can sit in the saddle, while at the same time blind to the fact that he is riding roughshod over the precious word of God.

Another concrete example of the principle under consideration is presented in the history of the vainly waiting, expectant, but deluded Jew. His eye is fixed upon the restoration of the temporal kingdom to Israel, with David's Son in the flesh seated upon David's literal throne on this earth. With the Jew it is: "Lord, wilt thou restore again the kingdom to Israel?" Thus he goes from generation to generation, stumbling over the fact that Christ is now, and has been for centuries, seated on David's throne, and that though Christ was once known in the flesh, he will be known so no more. If the poor Jew and all Judaizers could have their eyes sufficiently opened to see the fact so clearly crystallized in the following passage, the spirit would supersede the flesh: "Wherefore we henceforth know no man after the flesh: even though we have known Christ after the flesh, yet now we know him so no more." (2 Cor. 5: 16.) The Jew of Abraham's blood has a more consistent way of evading the force of this passage than has the Gentile Judaizer—viz., he repudiates the passage in toto as a fable of the blind zealots of an impostor and is waiting for his Messiah to be born of Jewish parents and to restore again the kingdom to Israel, while the would-be Gentile Judaizer reads into the text what God did not put in it, having the real Messiah coming from the heavens in a body of flesh for that purpose. One discards it by rank, open infidelity, and the other with his tradition "makes void the word of God."

The context clearly shows the apostle's effort to set forth the universality of redemption—that both Jews and Gentiles are embraced within the provisions made through Christ. This fact stands out boldly in what immediately precedes and follows the passage under consideration. It is prefaced with the statement that Christ "died for all," and the conclusion drawn from this gracious fact is: "Wherefore if any man is in Christ, he is a new creature." If "any man"—that is, Jew or Gentile—be in Christ, he is a new creature." What does this involve? It means this: "There can be neither Jew nor Greek, there can be neither bond nor free, there can be no male and female: for ye all are one man in Christ Jesus." (Gal. 3: 28.) Thus racial distinctions growing out of fleshy lineage fades into nothingness in this new relation in Christ, and this fact is emphasized in the statement, "Wherefore we henceforth know no man after the flesh." That is, in this new order for both Jew and Gentile, and the only order God has for either, the flesh plays no part; and whether Jew or Gentile, nothing can be claimed on that ground.

To further emphasize this fact—viz., that fleshy lineage in the rule and reign of Christ counts for naught—the apostle says: "Even though we have known Christ after the flesh [as the son of David and of the tribe of Judah], yet now we know him so no more." It seems that God anticipated the false teachers of this age and so arranged his message as to forestall their efforts. Well has James Macknight, the very learned commentator and translator, rendered the passage thus: "Wherefore, we, from this time forth, respect no man on account of the flesh; and even if we have esteemed Christ on account of the flesh, yet now we esteem him no more on that account." But the Gentile Judaizer doctors the passage in order to make it fit his theory by adding to the word "flesh" the word glorified or immortal. Now this would be perfectly all right, if he could read to us from the word of God any such expressions as "glorified" or "immortal" flesh; but, unfortunately for his theory, he cannot do this.

But, as a final and heroic effort to preserve the "fruit of David's loins" for the occupancy of a "literal" throne on this earth, the Gentile Judaizer summons the apostle John to his assistance. That apostle is made to testify that Jesus Christ is coming back to this earth in a body of flesh, as follows: "For many deceivers are gone forth into the world, even they that confess not that Jesus Christ cometh in the flesh. This is the deceiver and the antichrist." (2 John 7.) Great emphasis is laid on the word "cometh" in this passage, and on it is built the doctrine that Christ is to come in the flesh. Once more we introduce the scholarly Macknight, whose ability to give as correct a construction of the Greek as any of modern times can hardly be denied. His comment is as follows: "Who do not confess Jesus Christ did come in the flesh." He supports his comment by a critical analysis of the original: "Erchomenon being the participle of the imperfect of the indicative, is rightly translated did come; for Jesus Christ was not on earth in the flesh when John wrote this, as the translation in our Bible, is come, imports. He had come in the flesh, but was gone. For which reason no translation of this clause, which representeth Jesus Christ as then present, can be just. Beza, in his note on erchomenon, after observing that it is not the participle of the present, but of the imperfect tense, tells us that this participle is used in innumerable places for the aorist; and gives as an example, 3 John, verse 3, where erchomenon is put for elthonton, and is rendered accordingly, even by our translators, when the brethren came. In the Vulgate version of the verse under our consideration erchomenon is rightly translated venisse." Thus two of the greatest scholars place the verb in the past tense; and if there are any grounds that seem to justify a different construction, it would, to say the least of it, leave the question somewhat in doubt, a very poor foundation on which to build an article of faith.

Hence we conclude that a cause must be in desperate straits that relies upon 2 John 7 for the bold and unqualified statement that belief in the doctrine that Jesus Christ is coming in a body of flesh "is one of the fundamental tests of the faith." If this be true, then all who have died without believing that Jesus will come in the flesh, and all who may die without such belief, are sadly lacking in one of the fundamentals of Christian faith. What will their destiny be? The Gentile Judaizer must, to be consistent with his doctrine, assign them to the fate of the antichrist and the deceiver.

Itinerary Notes.

BY E. D. SRYGLEY.

I spent Sunday, March 26, at Columbia, Tenn., preaching morning and evening. The congregation is large here—too large for their house. While they have another congregation in South Columbia, still they could well afford to divide again and start another congregation in any other part of the town. It looks like they will either have to do this or build a larger house. They are crowded with their Sunday-morning classes and cannot do the best work because of this. Some want to divide and start another congregation, but they seem to want the other fellow to do it. Little congregations are ordinarily the best, for several reasons. Big congregations can have so much bigger fusses than little ones; and, besides, in building up many congregations, the more workers are developed. More men have an opportunity to do some public work, and therefore the more will be publicly committed to the right. This helps the more. More truth will be preached and more people will be saved. This theory is sometimes hard to be carried out when no one is willing to undertake the new work.

Brother G. C. Brewer lives in Columbia and preaches much of his time there. He is held in high esteem by the faithful and is deservedly popular in the town. The Tennessee Orphans' Home is located there, and they have some seventy or more children, who seem to be as happy and as contented as children could well be. Brother W. T. Boaz is a very busy man, but he always has time to make his friends happy who visit at the Home. My sympathies are always touched by the children who have no father or mother to care for them and to love them. Brother and Sister Boaz are very kind to them, and they give them their love in return. May the Father above, who sees the sparrow fall, care for the homeless orphan.

On account of the rain I missed my appointment at Stiverville on Monday night; but Brother Dortch carried me to Theta in his car on Tuesday, and we had a nice audience out at meeting. Theta is a nice village on the summit of one of the highest hills in Maury County. It is a quiet little town, inhabited by a peaceful, religious population. Near this place some noble men of a former generation lived. Old Uncle Seth Sparkman lived and died not far away. Many of his relatives were out at meeting the night I preached there. Brother Roland Gooch went from this place to the glory world. His widow still makes Theta her home. There is a quiet, old-fashioned appearance about the village that was very attractive to me.

On Wednesday evening I preached at Cathey's Creek. Brother Dortch was kind enough to carry me out there and back in his car. I like to ride in an automobile when another furnishes the car and the gasoline and bears all expenses. I found Brother Oscar Parham teaching near Cathey's Creek, and we all know how faithfully he preaches the gospel wherever he finds an open door. The church at Cathey's Creek seemed to be getting along very well, but they were sad over the recent death of one of their best men—Brother Worley. He was a good man and will, therefore, be greatly missed. Several of the old ones who were there when I last visited them had been called up higher. May the younger ones take their places, so that every gap in the ranks which is caused by death may be filled. I trust the younger members may feel the responsibility that now rests upon them and that their vacant places may be filled by worthy ones. In life we are in the midst of death.

My work for the Gospel Advocate has been moderately successful at all the places visited. There are few papers, if any, that have as many lifelong friends as the Advocate.

"Studying and Interpreting Prophecy."

BY R. N. MOODY.

Under the above head I wrote an article which appeared in the Christian Leader of December 28, 1915, which has moved Brother C. C. Merritt to make some "remarks," some of which I desire to notice.

He says: "But some things have been said on interpreting prophecy that have been discouraging even to the study of prophecy. Among these writings, Brother R. N. Moody's article in the Christian Leader of December 28 calls forth some remarks, as what he says is clearly stated and his purpose obvious." I appreciate his compliment, but regret that what I said was not clearly enough stated to enable him to understand my purpose.

Again, he says: "Among other things, he says: 'The right to study and interpret prophecy is defended as though some one was denying students of the Bible that right.' Yes, that is just what some are doing, and Brother Moody is one of that some who deny students the right and (unintentionally, I hope) discourage the study of prophecy." To this "Brother Moody" pleads not guilty.

He further charges: "But Brother Moody denies anybody but the inspired the right to interpret them." "Brother Moody" does no such thing; and, so far as I know, no one else does.

If any be able to correctly interpret an unfulfilled prophecy, and can give sufficient assurance that his interpretations are correct, it is not only his right, but his duty as well, to give the public the advantage of it. Nothing short of divine assurance will be sufficient to convince the thinking man of the correctness of any interpretation of an unfulfilled prophecy. So they will always consider any uninspired man's interpretation as a mere opinion, not to say speculation. Such interpretations are more calculated to cause confusion and division than to enlighten the ignorant. So the only question I would raise is, Have uninspired men the ability to correctly interpret unfulfilled prophecy and to give divine evidence that their interpretations are correct?

Now, Brother Merritt, you seem to be in the affirmative on this question; so I will say for myself, and feel confident that I can safely say for all concerned, that if you will show from the word of Jehovah that uninspired men are now, or ever have been, able to correctly interpret unfulfilled prophecy and to give divine evidence of the correctness of their interpretations, so that others can in confidence and safety accept them, that no one will question their right to do so, but will give all encouragement. But remember, brother, the question is not, "Do they have the right to interpret unfulfilled prophecy?" but, "Do they have the ability to do it?" And be sure that you keep to the issue.

I write this to try to bring this question "to a head," so that it may be lanced and healed, that we may get about more important things.

Life's Record.

BY W. E. LEDLOW.

I am an invisible volume on whose pages are written the thoughts, words, and deeds of a human being. Cronos is the scribe who sits at the desk on which I lie, and records each day both the good and the bad that he observes in the career of the man the account of whose life he has been commissioned to keep. A new page is turned for each day's work, and indelible ink is used to indite his observations. The rest that I get and the only ease from the strain imposed by time's stern pen is when the human mind is lulled to sleep and the body retires to slumber. During the long winter nights, in my silent chamber, I often devote myself to serious reflection.

As I turn my leaves and read the story that Cronos has written—a story so accurate and faithful—I find many pleasant things that produce in me genuine appreciation. I see the smiles that played on the human face and drove the clouds from another's sky; and the kind looks bestowed upon associates—children as well as men—looks that mean more than words can express. The eye has been called "the index to the soul," and so often have I found this true. The pleasant beams that shine from the window of a human life cast their rays along the cloudy path and make life bright for another. I sometimes talk with Cronos about the influence that results from gentle looks and pleasant smiles; and he tells me that their power is great and that he records results in years to come.

A little courteous regard shown for one's fellows is a pleasant thing to contemplate. No one forgets kind and thoughtful consideration. A moment spent in courting another's will by showing some little courtesy creates for one a friend whose worth cannot be expressed in material terms.

Speech is the most common mode of expression, and by it men converse with one another. There are times when human interests run parallel, and other times when they intersect. It is but natural for men to be sympathetic and considerate when they travel a common road; but they are not always agreeable when their paths diverge. Words as well as looks penetrate the soul; they carry either a soothing balm or a poisoned arrow. "Soft words turn away anger" and prove instrumental in the subjugation of the bitterest foe. I never look upon a page filled with kind, gentle, well-chosen, and considerate words, that my heart does not leap for joy. I can feel the wave of human happiness that such expressions have set in vibration.

The man the story of whose life my pages preserve has much regard for others; he has as his life's motto: "I give my life for the world." He feels that the best way to preserve his own life is to invest it in others. The grain of wheat, if stored in the barn, will wither, decay, and be lost; but if it be planted in the ground, it will increase a hundredfold. Human life is the soil in which a man must plant himself if he wishes to continue to live. "He who loses [plants] his life shall find it, but he who saves it [retains it for self] will lose it," is one of Heaven's laws.

My pages are not all filled with pleasant things, nor things of which mortal man will approve. There are times when evil thoughts are cherished in the man's mind and secret plans formed of which the world can never know. My record shows each impulse of the mind, every dark cloud that passes through his sky, and every deliberate purpose grounded in his heart.

In his melancholy moments my friend casts a shadow that bears influences for evil; his frowns, cold expressions, and flashing eyes indicate that his sympathies are not for others. Passion becomes his master and breathes fire into his words. Harsh, rough, and short are his phrases. Words spoken from an angry heart are like arrows shot from an Indian's bow; they are not only sharp, but filled with bitter death. They kill the finer fibers of the human soul, crush the esteem of friendship, and mar the beauty of companionship.

My pages are covered with lost opportunities: the privilege to do good is within human reach, but it will not linger forever. Like a limb of the body, if it is not used, it will wither and die. Opportunities come to men but once. I find many regrets expressed on my record, but they came too late to be helpful: the one whom kind deeds could have benefited is dead, and the one who lost the opportunity cannot recall him. Remorse must follow the neglect of duty.

As I meditate thus over human life, while the object for which I live is in bed asleep, I am made both sad and glad. I rejoice at the good that the man does, but I grieve over his sins. What pains me most is to know that I cannot help him. It is my duty—beyond this I have no power—to retain in permanent form every word, thought, and deed that find existence with him. I often wish that Cronos would lose his pen, or go to sleep and miss the work of a day; but he will do neither. He has no prejudice, but he possesses no mercy. He records each thing as it is.

In the last day my pages shall be opened and the man whom they concern will see them one by one. His life's work will be complete, the books balanced, and my mission ended. How sad it is to know that my record will stand in the judgment to portray the deeds of the man whose life it copied! I should like to ask those who have tongues with which to speak to urge him to meditate, reflect, and seek better things. A righteous life will be more pleasant for me to record and more profitable for him to live.

It's Time to Get Stirred Up.

BY PAUL C. YOUNG.

When Paul waited in Athens as recorded in Acts 17, his spirit was stirred within him, or, as the Revised Version says, provoked within him," when he saw the city wholly given over to idolatry. Imagine Paul, knowing that an idol was nothing but the product of men's hands; knowing that Jesus Christ came to free men from every bondage, of which idols, whether of wood or our own desires, are chief; rejoicing in the salvation that is in Christ and the power which Christ bestows—imagine him gazing on a scene where a full-grown man, a clean-looking man, falls prostrate before a thing of stone and implores its protection and its blessing. Think of him as he passes an inscription to the god of rain, to the god of pleasure, to the god of harvest, to the god of marriage. As he saw them ascribing to a thing the attributes of Him who made all things, his spirit was stirred within him. It was time to get stirred up. A Christian who would not have "got up in the air" would not be worth calling by that holy name. Men worshiping idols that could not help, that could not hear, and not knowing the true God, had put up an inscription, "To the unknown God." But for Paul to be stirred meant for Paul to act. He began to tell them of the God whom they ignorantly worshiped.

Right now in Japan, China, and India there are men—full grown men and women—bowing down to dumb idols. In Athens the polite Athenians bowed down to some several thousand of them; in India alone the very religious people worship over three hundred and thirty million idols, and worship them with rites as horrible as they are unmentionable. As we think on these heathen worshiping idols, and in them finding license for their lusts, ascribing to stocks and stones the powers that only God possesses, our hearts are stirred. We are not beasts; we have the same Holy Spirit which Paul had, and we are provoked. It is time to get wrought up. It is time to get to talking about this affair. It is high time we begin to proclaim to them the "unknown God" whom they ignorantly worship; especially is it time when they begin to turn from their idols as they are now doing. To what shall they turn? Shall they have the gospel in its purity?

Plenty of idolaters here at home? Yes, and the majority bow down before the god of pleasure, of gold, and of self, because they will not worship the God of love. They willfully turn from the Bible, from God, to serve themselves and their idolatry. With the heathen it is not so. They worship their idols because they have not heard, because to them the true God is the unknown God. How long will it be before we, with our spirits stirred, our hearts aflame, shall at our Master's command go "into all the world?" Let us make known "the unknown God." God can use men and women who get stirred up over the condition of the heathen, whose spirit is provoked at their idolatry, and who, when stirred, cannot but act.

Program of the Nashville Bible School Alumni Meeting, May 17, 1916.

At ten o'clock A.M., Wednesday, May 17, 1916, the first meeting of the alumni of the Nashville Bible School will convene, the Lord willing, in the chapel of the school building. We hope as many of the old students and teachers as can, with a reasonable sacrifice, will be present. At this, as at all times and on all occasions, all friends are cordially invited to favor us with their presence.

The following program, as best we can give it, will be offered:

Song by the assembly.

Prayer.

Ten minutes to each of the following members, representing the class of which he was a member, on a topic of his own selection: Paul Hanlin, 1915; W. C. Terry, 1914; Thomas D. Rose, 1913; S. T. Nix, 1912; John T. Smithson, 1911; Lewis Chambers, 1910; O. P. Dobson, 1909; R. C. White, 1896, "Then and Now;" John E. Dunn, chairman Committee on Constitution and By-laws.

Volunteer expressions by others who may be present. We hope to be able to arrange for some good talks in the meantime by some of our best speakers and former teachers.

Adoption and ratification of a constitution and rules to govern the Alumni Association.

The committee would appreciate a card telling us of the intention of any to be at this meeting. Please bear in mind that you are under the same obligation to add your part to the life and success of this occasion that the rest of the friends and alumni and alumnae are, as far as is in your power. Come, let us associate together for a few hours and talk of past and pleasant days now gone.

R. C. WHITE, Chairman Program Committee.

Georgia and the Far Southern Field

By S. H. Hall

The Church of Christ—Lesson XIII.

How to Behave Ourselves in the Church.

(2) In respect to giving. Upon no question does the Bible more clearly reveal the will of our Lord than on the subject of giving. Sacrifice is the bedrock upon which the religion of our Lord rests. Giving is the chief corner stone. Please to read carefully Paul's exhortations to the church at Corinth, in the eighth chapter of his first letter to them, in the midst of which exhortation he uses these significant words: "For ye know the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, that, though he was rich, yet for your sakes he became poor, that ye through his poverty might become rich." (Verse 9.) Yes, Jesus gave—gave his life, his all, that others might be blessed. No man has the Spirit of Christ who has not learned to give. "But if any man hath not the Spirit of Christ, he is none of his." (Rom. 8: 9.) The giving spirit is one of his most outstanding characteristics. Away, therefore, with the idea that by his Spirit we are governed, if we cannot give, and that cheerfully.

(a) Every member should give. (See 1 Cor. 16: 1, 2.) Certainly it is true that there are members who may, at times, have no money to give; but they must be givers, nevertheless. They can and must give themselves, wholly and unreservedly, to the service of the Lord wherever he can use them; they can give their presence at all the services, when physical strength will permit; they can give a handshake to encourage us along the way; they can give words of kindness and inspiration. But please to remember that of our means, too, we must give, when with such the Lord has blessed us. And do not forget that if means we have not, on account of our indolence and failure to use the opportunities that God has given us, that we stand condemned for not being able to give. "Working with his hands the thing that is good, that he may have whereof to give," is the way the Bible puts it. Laziness and indolence have no place in the religion of our Lord, and the church of Christ cannot be true to her Head and tolerate it. (See 2 Thess. 3: 6-15.)

(b) The giving must come from the heart—not a mere perfunctory act that you engage in simply to get rid of the one who asks you to give—or to deceive yourself into the idea that you have met the requirements of God's will at this point. You should think about it, pray over it, and out of this thinking and praying a purpose should be made in harmony with the Christ's idea of giving. (See 2 Cor. 9: 7.) How much purposing have you done, my brother? Some purpose, but they purpose to give as little as they can; hence they dodge the opportunities to give whenever they can. Such must be converted if they are ever saved. They are strangers to the Spirit of our Lord. (See, also, 2 Cor. 8: 11, 12.)

(c) You should have no trouble in knowing how to make the purpose, for the Spirit clearly teaches for you to purpose according to what you have and the way you have been prospered. (1 Cor. 16: 2; 2 Cor. 8: 12.)

(d) The size of the gift in God's sight is measured by what it cost you to give, by the sacrifice you make in giving. The man that gives ten cents may have given more than the man who has given ten dollars; for the man who gave the ten dollars may have more dollars than the other man has cents to give; hence the latter gave a greater per cent of what he had. Read Mark 12: 41-44 on this point. Your gift must be large enough to be felt; it must cost you something. Get David's idea on this point in 2 Sam. 24: 22-25. Here it would be well to give a word of warning to those who can give but little. Too often they fail to give because of this one fact; they think that it is no use, that it is too small to accomplish much. Do not forget that it was the man who had but one talent who buried it. When any one fails to give what he can simply because of the size of the gift, he becomes guilty of the same sin, and certainly has not learned to know our Father on such matters. Do not forget the widow's mite.

(e) "Will a man rob God?" Well, remember that this is exactly what we do when we fail to meet his will and wishes on this important question. Read carefully Mai. 3: 8-10. Any congregation of disciples will have all they need and to spare, if they will only give as God requires of them. Read, also, 2 Cor. 9: 6-11.

(f) An abuse of 1 Cor. 16: 1, 2. Some have taught that no collections should be made except on the first day of the week, and they refer us to the above scripture to prove it. But it proves the very opposite. Certainly it teaches us to "lay by in store" on the first day of every week. But please to note Paul's language more carefully. He says: "Upon the first day of the week let each one of you lay by him in store, as he may prosper, that no collections be made when I come." Well, what if they do not do this? Then the collections would be made, and that, too, by Paul's orders. If every congregation can get its members to give on the first day of each week as they have been prospered, there will be an all-sufficiency in the treasury to meet all demands, except in emergencies. But when the money has not been given by the members, collections are in order.

(g) Remember, it is more blessed to give than to receive. (Acts 20: 33-35.) This is due to the fact that God blesses us for giving, not receiving. Give in the spirit of prayer, seeing Jesus at God's right hand to accept the gift as an "odor of a sweet smell" and to present it to the Father. (Phil. 4: 15-18; Heb. 13: 16.)

Souls and Temples.

Souls are built as temples are—
Inch by inch in gradual rise
Mount the layered masonries.
Warring questions have their day,
Kings arise and pass away,
Laborers vanish one by one,
Still the temple is not done,
Still completion seems afar.

Souls are built as temples are—
Here a carving rich and quaint,
There the image of a saint;
Here a deep-hued pane to tell
Sacred truth or miracle;
Every little helps the much,
Every careful, careless touch
Adds a charm or leaves a scar.

Souls are built as temples are—
Based on truth's eternal law,
Sure and steadfast, without flaw,
Through the sunshine, through the snows,
Up and on the building goes;
Every fair thing finds its place,
Every hard thing lends a grace,
Every hand may make or mar.

—Susan Coolidge.

"Thank God every morning when you get up," says Charles Kingsley, "that you have something to do that day which must be done whether you like it or not. Being forced to work and forced to do your best will breed in you virtues which the idle never know."—Selected.

BY J. M. McCALEB.

POSTAL INFORMATION: International post-office money orders can be bought at the rate of one per cent; but for any amount, however small, the cost will be ten cents. A check on any of the banks in America is good in Japan; personal checks are as good as any. The money itself is accepted by the banks. The ordinary postage on letters is five cents; newspapers, one cent.

ADDRESSES OF MISSIONARIES: Otoshige Fujimori, Takahagi, Kurimotomura, Katorigori, Shimosa, Chiba, Japan; Mr. and Mrs. J. M. McCaleb, Zoshigaya, Tokyo, Japan; Mrs. William J. Bishop, 294 West Jefferson Street, Station A, Dallas, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Vincent, 73 Myogadani, Koshikawa, Tokyo, Japan; Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Jolley, Jr., Satara District, Satara, British India (funds may be sent to Don Carlos Janes, 2225 Dearing Court, Louisville, Ky.); Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Armstrong-Hopkins, Berhampore, Ganjam District, India; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. McHenry, Satara District, Satara, British India; Mr. and Mrs. John Sherriff, Bulawayo, Rhodesia, South Africa.

Report for January.

Personal: Bloomdale, Texas, $10; Dunlap (Duck River), Tenn., $2.25; Highlands, Louisville, Ky. (September, 1915), $8; Mrs. J. F. Darnall's Sunday-school class, Obion, Tenn., $10; Portland Avenue, Louisville, Ky. (Christmas gift), $25; Sparta, Tenn., $50; Buechel, Ky., $6.31; Mrs. Belle Chaney, Coal City, Ind., $4.25; W. H. Neal and E. A. Ragland, $10; "A Sister," $1; Roy Robinson, $1; "Two Sisters," $8; Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Thompson and others, Murray, Ky., $3.50; John Van Allman, $1; David R. Wells, $5; D. L. Cooper, $1.50; by F. L. Rowe, $4; Ashford Todd, $2. Total, $150.81. House rent, $26.

For Fujimori: David R. Wells, $5.

For our Zoshigaya evangelist: Lubbock, Texas, $10. Balance in hand from 1915, $27.10. Need fifteen dollars a month.

For Literature fund: Charleston, Miss. (for Missionary Messenger), $1; Miss Lucia Scott (tracts for May 5 festival), $1; Mrs. M. A. Raney (tracts for May 5 festival), $5. Total, $7. Need about forty dollars.

For the Sendagaya work: Broadway Church, Los Angeles, Cal., $30; "A Sister," $1. Total, $31. Paid for January, $31. Nothing left. Need regularly for the work and three workers there thirty-one dollars a month.

For C. G. Vincent: David R. Wells, $15 (personal, $5; for the work, $10).

For the three Zoshigaya Sunday-school workers: Church at Charleston, Miss., by the sisters, $5; Mrs. Belle Chaney's Sunday-school class, Coal City, Ind., $1.75; "A Sister," $1. Total, $7.75. Need thirty dollars a month for these three workers.

Zoshigaya Chapel fund: Campbell Street Church, Louisville, Ky., $51; Enon, Ky., $5; "A Sister," $1.50; Concord, Ontario, Canada, $4.25. Total, $61.85. Previously reported, $585.95. Total, $646.99. Cost of chapel, $627.95. Seats, $51. Total cost, $678.95. Balance needed, $32.05. The end is hopefully near. We came very nearly receiving enough to pay for the chapel in 1915, but not quite, which means that by the Lord's grace we must finish up during 1916. I baptized four in the new chapel baptistry in January. I would greatly appreciate a baptismal suit.

Moving Pictures.

I spoke four times on January 20—once in the open air. Japanese officials still practice torture to elicit confession from criminals. Lately a man was made to confess a crime of which he was not guilty and was sentenced to death. The real murderer then volunteered to confess his guilt and the man was released.

At our prayer meeting on Thursday night, January 27, Brother Suzuki, the ex-prisoner, spoke of his complete release by the police authorities. Though out of prison for a year, he has still been under certain restrictions till now. The church made him the present of a song book and Bible.

Brother Bryan, of Vicksburg, Miss., sends the following request: "Will you please send me an outline of your work? I am anxious to make an appeal for your work, and any information you give me will be appreciated and will prove a great aid."

An encouraging word comes from our beloved Brother Kurfee as follows: "We have just had an enthusiastic meeting of the Campbell Street brethren to consider our missionary work for this year, and, instead of curtailing, we took on more. I hope the venture will work well. We have the hearty determination to make it work well with God's help." Campbell Street is very much like the new variety of strawberries—"ever-bearing."

Brother Suzuki, the ex-prisoner who has been with us for about a year and who during that time was baptized, having received his full release from the government on January 26, is once more a free man and can go forth into society without being servile to the police. He has asked that he may try once more to battle for himself in the world. He left us on the morning of February 2 with a Bible and some other presents, thanking us many times for the kindness shown him.

Brother L. J. Jackson writes from Valdosta, Ga.: "The Missionary Messenger came yesterday. I saw again the picture of that splendid-looking chapel, and said to myself: 'There it stands yet without seats. What a pity for such a good-looking house to go unused for want of seats! I will help a little.' Please find inclosed my personal check for $5.10." Much obliged, Brother Jackson. I am glad to report that the end of the seat proposition is in sight.

In 1907 we had no baptisms; in 1908, three; in 1909, eleven; in 1910, none; in 1911, two; in 1912, none; in 1913, none; in 1914, two; in 1915, eleven; to January 9, 1916, three—a total of thirty-two baptisms. At the Zoshigaya and Sendagaya churches in 1915 there were nineteen baptisms.

There were nineteen at the prayer meeting on January 20. It was Sister Sarah Andrews' first prayer meeting to attend in Japan, and the first time for our young brother Yoshihara to lead. His subject was "God's Answer to Prayer." He led the meeting well, and his talk was excellent.

Brother Ishiguro took supper with us on January 18. He asked if I remembered S. Kikuchi, now a well-known doctor in Tokyo. Brother Ishiguro is going to him to have his eyes treated. Mr. Kikuchi told him that when I lived in Tsukiji he came to me for Bible study. One day we went to Asakura Park to preach. While preaching, a man in the crowd drew out a pistol to shoot me; but he got between us and told the man, as I was a foreigner, to shoot him rather than me. Then the man left. I remember that I preached in the park with some Japanese, and that we preached in the temple grounds, but which was denied us the next time we went back. Of the incident above mentioned I knew nothing, and heard of it the first time from Brother Ishiguro. It is a question as to whether the fellow really intended to shoot or only meant it as a bluff.

Brother William J. Campbell writes from Davis City, Iowa, as follows: "Your card and also the papers [Missionary Messenger] received not long ago. I am glad to hear from you again, and am also glad to get the paper. I think I can use eight copies to good advantage here if you will send them. They will be good in interesting others in that field. I baptized two and one was restored at the Downey church Sunday. One baptized here Monday as the result of Brother Elston's work. He is spending a week with us in a meeting. I will be in meetings here all winter if the weather permits. We are having mild, pleasant weather so far. Grace be with you all in Christ Jesus."

GOSPEL ADVOCATE

EDITORS.

D. Lipscomb, E. G. Sewell, E. A. Elam,
M. C. Kurfees, T. B. Larimore.

MANAGING EDITORS.

J. C. McQuiddy, A. B. Lipscomb.

SPECIAL DIRECTIONS.

Subscriptions are $1.50 a year, in advance, including postage to any part of the United States. To Canada and foreign countries $2 a year, in advance.

The Date on the Yellow Label on your paper serves you as a receipt, and indicates the time to which your subscription is paid. When you renew, if the date is not changed within three weeks thereafter, please call our attention to it.

Discontinuances. No paper will be continued over twelve months after the subscription has expired. This will give all ample time to renew.

Payment for the Advocate, when sent by mail, should be made by post-office money order, express money order, registered letter, New York exchange, or postal note. Neither currency nor coin should be sent in a letter, unless registered; and when so sent, it is at the risk of the sender. Have your remittances made payable to the Gospel Advocate, and never to any member of the company.

Do Not Write Business on the same sheet as matter intended for publication.

Change of Address will be cheerfully made at the request of any subscriber giving post office, county, and State from which the change is to be made, and post office, county and State to which the paper should go after the change.

Renewals. In renewing, give the name just as it appears on the yellow label, unless it be incorrect, in which case please call our attention to it; and always give the name of the post office to which your paper is sent, as this is the guide by which we are enabled to find your name on our list.

Do Not Send Matter intended for the Advocate to the editors personally. This may occasion delay. Address the Gospel Advocate Publishing Company, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

Guarantee of Advertising.

All the advertisements in this paper are, we believe signed by trustworthy persons. To prove our faith by works, we will make good to actual subscribers any loss sustained in trusting advertisers who prove to be deliberate swindlers. We shall not attempt to adjust trifling disputes between subscribers and honorable business men who advertise, nor pay the debts of honest bankrupts. To make this guarantee effective, in all cases say in writing advertisers, "I saw your advertisement in the Gospel Advocate;" and if anything goes wrong, notify us immediately in writing.

JACOBS & CO., ADVERTISING MANAGERS
Clinton, S. C.

The Destruction of Jerusalem and the Coming of the Lord.

BY M. C. K.

We have received the following inquiry with request to answer through the Gospel Advocate:

M. C. Kurfees, Louisville, Ky.—Dear Sir: Please explain, through the Gospel Advocate, what time is meant when the coming of the Lord is spoken of in Mark 13: 26. Does all of this chapter refer to the destruction of the temple, or does the last part mean the second coming of Christ? If it means the latter, what generation is spoken of in Mark 13: 30?

Thanking you in advance for this favor, I am,
Yours respectfully, A. B. SKINNER.

Concerning much that is in the twenty-fourth chapter of Matthew, the thirteenth of Mark, and the twenty-first of Luke, which are three accounts of the same things, it is useless to undertake to speak or write with precision and dogmatism. That some things in the three accounts refer to the destruction of Jerusalem is quite evident, and that some other things in them refer to the Lord's "coming on the clouds of heaven with power and great glory" seems equally evident. We are entitled to the facts as stated by the three evangelists, but it is useless to spend time in speculations over matters beyond what is plainly revealed. Our brother's question calls for light on three points concerning which we now present the facts.

1. Mark represents Jesus as saying: "Seest thou these great buildings? there shall not be left here one stone upon another, which shall not be thrown down." When we call to mind the destruction wrought by the Roman armies in Palestine, including Jerusalem and the temple, a few years subsequent to the time of this conversation, we cannot escape the conclusion that the destruction of Jerusalem was there directly referred to; but if any further proof of it is needed, it is found in the declaration that "this generation shall not pass away, until all these things be accomplished."

2. In view of the declaration just quoted, we would be forced to the conclusion that it all refers to the destruction of Jerusalem were it not for the nature of some of the statements which seem to call for a different construction, such as: "Then shall appear the sign of the Son of man in heaven; and then shall all the tribes of the earth mourn, and they shall see the Son of man coming on the clouds of heaven with power and great glory." And this: "He shall send forth his angels with a great sound of a trumpet, and they shall gather together his elect from the four winds, from one end of heaven to the other." Finally, he adds: "But of that day or that hour knoweth no one, not even the angels in heaven, neither the Son, but the Father." On this hypothesis, which the nature of the language seems to demand, the expression, "all these things," as used in the thirty-fourth verse of Matthew and the thirtieth verse of Mark, has a limitation which is not fixed in the text, and it would be useless for us to attempt to fix it.

3. "What generation is spoken of in Mark 13: 30?" The Savior says "this generation," and that language definitely points out the persons then living as those in whose lifetime the things to which he referred in that expression would occur. The term "genea" primarily means a begetting or a coming into existence; and then, passively, "that which has been begotten;" and hence, in usage, according to Thayer, came to mean "the whole multitude of men living at the same time." That this is what it means in the passage before us may be seen from its usage elsewhere. Thus we read: "For he hath looked upon the low estate of his handmaid; for behold, from henceforth all generations shall call me blessed." (Luke 1: 48.) "That ye may become blameless and harmless, children of God without blemish in the midst of a crooked and perverse generation, among whom ye are seen as lights in the world." (Phil. 2: 15.) Thayer says the term is "used especially of the Jewish race living at one and the same period." Hence we read: "But whereunto shall I liken this generation?" (Matt. 11: 16.) "But he answered and said unto them, An evil and adulterous generation seeketh after a sign; and there shall no sign be given to it but the sign of Jonah the prophet." (Matt. 12: 39.) "The men of Nineveh shall stand up in the judgment with this generation, and shall condemn it: for they repented at the preaching of Jonah; and behold, a greater than Jonah is here." (Verse 41.) "For whosoever shall be ashamed of me and of my words in this adulterous and sinful generation, the Son of man also shall be ashamed of him, when he cometh in the glory of his Father." (Mark 8: 38.) "For David, after he had in his own generation served the counsel of God, fell asleep, and was laid unto his fathers, and saw corruption," (Acts 13: 36.)

The idea has been advanced that the term may mean a race of people throughout the period of its existence—for example, the Jewish race; but this not only contains the unproved assumption that this race is to become extinct at some future time which nobody knows and of which there is not the slightest proof, but the authorities have given us no example of the word in either classic or New Testament Greek with this meaning. It is true, the term sometimes means, according to Thayer, "an age," but it then means, according to the same authority, "the time ordinarily occupied by each successive generation"—that is, "the space of from thirty to thirty-three years." Examples are cited from Heroditus and Heraclitus.

Let it be noted, in conclusion, that the matters herein considered, which are left more or less in obscurity, are all matters to be executed by the Lord himself in his own time and way, and this is the best of all reasons why we should neither speculate nor give ourselves trouble about them. The vastly important and far-reaching work which God has given us to do should receive our undivided attention and occupy all of our time. For, assuredly, we may rest perfectly contented that, of all that is contained in these three chapters of Matthew, Mark, and Luke, which did not refer to the destruction of Jerusalem by the Roman army, but to the second coming of the Lord, will be duly attended to by the Lord himself, while, in the meantime, it is quite sufficient for us to prepare for his coming by giving diligent attention to the matters which he has committed to our hands.

Some Questions and Answers.

BY E. A. E.

Allensville, Ky., April 6, 1916.—Dear Brother Elam: I have and will always read what you write, for I have known your faith and zeal so long that I can never doubt your sincerity. I want to ask some questions, to which you will please make answer through the Gospel Advocate, as some others want to hear you on them. (1) Is the Bible a revelation from God to man, telling of his origin, mission, and future, or destiny? (2) Does it contain all needed truths, examples, warnings, and directions to guide man to his destiny? (3) Does it contain anything not needed? (4) By what method of logic do you reach the conclusion that Deut. 29: 29 means any part of God's word? (5) In your editorial of March 30, in regard to divisions, strife, does the phraseology used cause the divisions, or is it a failure of men to understand God's word? (6) Have the sects not always claimed that they had in their denominations as smart men as we, and is it any argument that because a man is able and smart that he knows all the truth on any subject? (7) Would it not be better to answer all arguments with a reference to the chapter and verse covering the point? (8) Please give chapter and verse which indicate that Christ is now on David's throne. In connection with this, show how David's throne, God's throne, and God's kingdom are all the same. (9) Is it wrong to use the word "millennium" instead of saying "a reign of a thousand years?" (10) Was not Campbell, Fanning, the Sewells, and other early Christians regarded as heretics?

Your brother in Christ, D. H. NELL.

Answering Brother Neil's questions in order, I will say:

1. Yes.

2. Yes.

3. No.

4. By no "method of logic" whatever, but by a plain and direct declaration of God. When God speaks, man does not need logic, but faith.

5. "The phraseology" shows the "failure of men to understand God's word." When men teach something not in the word of God, they have to have a "phraseology" not in the Bible to express their teaching. Paul says he spoke the things of God, "not with excellency of speech," "not with persuasive words of wisdom," "not in words which man's wisdom teacheth," "but [in words] which the Spirit teacheth." (See 1 Cor. 2: 1, 4, 12, 13.) Faith comes by hearing the word of God, not "the phraseology" or "logic" of men—not what men think God intends to teach, or what they think he should teach which he has not taught. God knows better what he wants to say than men can know for him, and he knows better how to say it than men can tell him. "Who hath known the mind of the Lord, that he should instruct him?" (1 Cor. 2: 16; see Isa. 40: 14.) God specifies and emphasizes "the phraseology" to be used. Timothy must use "the words of faith," and he was "nourished in the words of faith, and of the good doctrine," which he had followed all along. (1 Tim. 4: 6.) What are "the words of faith, and of the good doctrine?" What is to be "nourished" in such "phraseology?" "Sound words, even the words of our Lord Jesus Christ," are the ones to be used. So important is this that God says if any man teaches a different doctrine and consents not to "sound words," even the words of Christ, "he is puffed up, knowing nothing, but doting ["sick"—margin] about questionings and disputes of words, whereof cometh envy, strife, railings, evil surmisings, wranglings of men corrupted in mind and bereft of the truth, supposing that godliness is a way of gain." (1 Tim. 6: 1-5.) We should shudder at the fearful results which follow this being sick over "questionings and disputes of words." Timothy was to "hold the pattern of sound words" which he had heard from Paul (2 Tim. 1: 13), and he was to "preach the word"—not something about the word (2 Tim. 4: 2). Elders must hold "to the faithful word which is according to the teaching," and must do this in order to "be able both to exhort in the sound doctrine ["teaching"—margin] and to convict the gainsayers." (Tit. 1: 9-11.) What is "the faithful word which is according to the teaching?" How can we know that which God teaches except by the words—"the phraseology"—of God? This must be held to for the two reasons given: (1) to exhort in sound teaching and (2) to convict gainsayers. There can be no sound teaching and men cannot be convicted of error and sin without "sound words," even the words of Christ—"the faithful word." Titus was to use "sound speech" that could not be condemned. (Tit. 2: 7, 8.) Whoever speaks is to speak "as it were oracles of God." (1 Pet. 4: 11.) "All" are commanded to "speak the same thing" and to "be perfected together in the same mind and in the same judgment." (1 Cor. 1: 10.)

On the other hand, "the speech of Ashdod" shows that one has not fully turned to God or is not fully instructed in his way. (Neh. 13: 23.) "Striving about words," "disputes of words," "vain talking," "profane babblings," "smooth and fair speech," and the "wisdom of words" (1 Cor. 1: 17), by which the innocent are beguiled from the teaching of Christ and divisions are produced, are all condemned.

All cannot "be of the same mind and of the same judgment" unless all "speak the same thing;" and all cannot speak the same thing unless all speak, as did Paul, the things of God in the words of God. Thomas and Alexander Campbell gave up "infant baptism," as it is called, on this ground—the ground of speaking where the Bible speaks and being silent where it is silent. Let me add here that such "smart men" as the Campbells, Walter Scott, B. W. Stone, T. Fanning, Robert Milligan, D. Lipscomb, Ben Franklin, J. W. McGarvey, I. B. Grubbs, and others may not have known all the truth, but they knew that much of it and never departed from it. We are fortunate if we learn that much and stick to it.

Also, there are many questions—namely, "fables," "endless genealogies," "doctrines of demons," "profane and old wives' fables," "questionings and disputes of words," "a different doctrine," "a different gospel," "another Jesus," strife "about words," "profane babblings," "that the resurrection is past already," "foolish and ignorant questionings," "oppositions to the knowledge which is falsely so called," "fightings about the law," "secret things" which belong to God, "and if there be any other thing contrary to the sound doctrine"—which God says must be shunned, or avoided. The reasons he gives for studiously and wisely letting all such questions alone are: They are of "no profit;" they "gender strifes;" "eat as doth a gangrene;" produce envy, railings, wranglings, evil surmisings; corrupt both mind and heart and rob men of the truth; beguile the hearts of the innocent from the teaching of Christ; produce factions, and divide asunder the body of Christ. There can be no greater sin than dividing the body of Christ.

6. "Yes" to the first part of this question; "no" to the last part of it. "Smart men" in what? Many "smart men" know but little of the Bible. Some are wise above that which is written. Some are too smart to stop with "the things that are revealed, . . . that we may do all the words of this law." Because a few men now and then dare to speculate on unrevealed things, does it follow that they are either smarter or wiser than the godly host of wise men who have always stopped where God's word stops? Of course, the sectarians have always claimed and yet claim that they have as "smart men" in all the learning and wisdom of the world as are among all that faithful and righteous number, from Abel to the beloved disciple, shining forth from the pages of the Bible, or even down to the most devout men on earth now. But the wisdom of this world is foolishness with God. The fear of God is the beginning of wisdom, and God blesses the man who is of a contrite spirit and trembles at his word. (Isa. 66: 2.) The difference between this devout and innumerable company who stop with God's word in faith and submission and "smart men" is just where sectarians, partisans, factionists, and denominations begin, the food upon which they feed, the way in which they grow. When sectarians cannot meet the Bible, they fall back on their "smart men." No men are as "smart" as God; none are as wise as the men of faith who speak the things of God in the words of God and who abide in the teaching of Christ, fearing to go beyond that which God has revealed.

7. Yes. But Ezekiel showed no lack of knowledge of God's word, even of "chapter and verse," when he said in irony that the king of Tyre considered himself "wiser than Daniel" and that no secret thing was hidden from him. (Ezek. 28: 3.) God holds up Abel, Noah, Abraham, Job, Moses, David, Elijah, Daniel, and a great company as examples of faith and submission. Moses went beyond the word of God, spoke "unadvisedly with his lips" (Ps. 106: 33), did not believe in God at that place and time, rebelled against the word of God, and lost the land of promise. This case always fills me with sadness and frequently brings tears to my eyes. It is a source of great grief now for any wise and good man to show a lack of faith or to fail to abide in his teaching.

8. First request: Acts 2: 25-36, especially verses 30, 31; Acts 15: 13-18, especially verse 15. Second request: 1 Kings 2: 12; 1 Chron. 28: 5; 1 Chron. 29: 23.

9. "Millennium" means "a thousand years." The idea of reigning is not in the word. As it is applied to the thousand-years' reign mentioned in Revelation, people generally understand what is meant by it. I mentioned that in the article referred to because so much is said about it just now; also, because many are speaking about being "premillennialists" or "postmillennialists" and arguing which they are. A thousand times better it is to teach people—all people—the daily Christian duties of life, service, and love of home, the contentment and peace in useful employment, doing all things heartily as unto God, nurturing the children in the chastening and admonition of the Lord to the greatest usefulness and good in this life, to discharging all obligations to men and to God, and thus to uplift, ennoble, benefit, and save here and hereafter all that it is possible to reach. Why call the hearts of the people away from that which they must believe and obey in order to be Christians and to be saved, to that which all admit is not essential to salvation and on which no two really "smart men" agree? Let a man tell what he thinks is meant by this thousand-years' reign and call it "the millennium," if he chooses, but not disturb churches over it; still, it is better to simply present it in just the words of the Bible. I heard Dr. Brents on "The Millennium." He said in the introduction of his sermon that it made no difference whether his audience believed what he preached or not, because not essential to salvation. But he never emphasized that or produced any differences over it. Let us all so live in God's daily service that we may be ready for Christ's coming, "the millennium," and any other good and glorious thing God may bring us.

10. Not by the church of God. Calling men "heretics" does not make them such. But some men are really heretics and should be so-called and dealt with as such. (Tit. 3: 10, 11.)

Marrying Unbelievers.

BY W. F. COX.

In the "Query Department" of the Gospel Advocate of March 30, Brother McQuiddy is asked the question: "If a member of the 'one body' should marry one who was a sectarian, knowing it at the time, but hoping that by marrying the other would take upon himself or herself the name of Christ, would such a one be doing wrong in marrying such a person?" In reply, Brother McQuiddy says: "Parents, preachers, and elders should teach the young and the old what is right in choosing companions."

Notice, Brother McQuiddy says "what is right." That is the question, my brother. The whole matter hinges on "what is right" in Christians choosing for their companions Christians or unbelievers. If parents, preachers, and elders would teach "what is right" on the subject of choosing Christian companions, untold trouble would be avoided in our congregations. If Brother McQuiddy means by "what is right" that Christians should choose Christian companions, then it would be wrong to teach that Christians may choose unbelievers for companions, Brother McQuiddy being judge. This being true, Brother McQuiddy's practice is not in harmony with his teaching, for he assists in uniting Christians to unbelievers, and excuses himself by saying he did not think that he had sinned. His reasoning is very unsound; and when the search light of divine truth is turned upon it, it vanishes like the mist before the sun.

Now for the test. He states that there is no specific command of God forbidding marriage to an unbeliever, save to widows. Neither is there a specific command of God forbidding gambling. Is gambling wrong, Brother McQuiddy? Yes. What makes it wrong? It is wrong because there are certain general principles in the Scriptures forbidding it. Is marrying unbelievers wrong? Yes. Why? Because there are certain general principles in the Scriptures forbidding it.

In his first letter to the Corinthians, in defending his apostleship, the apostle Paul says: "Have we no right to lead about a wife that is a believer [sister], even as the rest of the apostles, and the brethren of the Lord, and Cephas?" (1 Cor. 9: 5.) Here the apostle tells us what kind of a wife would be scriptural for him to lead about (a believer). If it is wrong to marry an unbeliever, why did Paul specify what kind of a wife he would be justified in choosing for a companion? More than that, the same author, in his second letter to the same people, says: "Be not unequally yoked with unbelievers." Brother McQuiddy, is marriage a yoking? Unhesitatingly will our brother say, "Yes." Then marriage with an unbeliever is an unequal yoking, which is forbidden by the apostle. Why? Because "what fellowship have righteousness and iniquity? or what communion hath light with darkness? And what concord hath Christ with Belial? or what portion hath a believer with an unbeliever?" (2 Cor. 6: 14, 15.)

The figure is drawn from the prohibition of Deut. 22: 10; Lev. 19: 19. The meaning is that Christians are not to pair off with unbelievers. All intimate associations are forbidden. All close fellowship with unbelievers is included. Christians should by no means choose unbelievers for companions. What fellowship, communion, and portion can a member of the body of Christ have with one who is a member of the prince of the power of the air?" "Be not deceived: Evil companionships corrupt good morals." (1 Cor. 15: 33.) "Have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness, but rather even reprove them." (Eph. 5: 11.)

The same author continues his subject on marriage by saying that a wife or husband is bound to her husband or to his wife as long as either of them liveth; but if the husband or wife be dead, he or she is at liberty to marry to whom they will, only in the Lord. In the preceding verses he is discussing the question, if one be married to an unbeliever, not to leave him or her, as the case may be, if he or she is willing to abide with the believer. Of course, it is understood that the one who is the believer became a believer after marriage. This being true, he says to the one who has been freed from the unbeliever by death not to marry another unbeliever, but one who is in the Lord. Isn't this explicit teaching on the subject of marriage? Suppose a good young sister should come to Brother McQuiddy and say: "Brother, I am preparing to get married to Mr. A, who is an unbeliever, but a very congenial young man, and I prefer [not many will join believers to unbelievers] you to officiate." "Certainly, my good sister, I'll be glad to assist you." One year from the date of the marriage to Mr. A (who died four months after marriage) this good sister comes again to Brother McQuiddy, informing him of her intention of marrying another man, who is also an unbeliever, but a man of wealth. As he had officiated at the first marriage, she prefers him to officiate at the second. This time our good brother refuses, saying: "You are a widow now, and I would be doing wrong to officiate in uniting you to an unbeliever." I ask, what has made such a wonderful change in Brother McQuiddy's teaching and conduct? Is it because of the good sister's four months' experience of married life with an unbeliever, or is it Brother McQuiddy's inconsistency? I will let my leaders judge.

Marriage originated with God in Eden. He selected and united the first couple; and "what God hath joined together, let no man put asunder." God willingly and cheerfully joins Christian companions, but he absolutely refuses to join a believer to an unbeliever. The tenor of the Scriptures is against Brother McQuiddy's teaching and practice on the subject of marriage.

J. C. McQUIDDY'S REPLY.

The teachings of the Bible on marriage are advisory rather than mandatory—that is, while the whole trend of the Bible is against marriages other than among God's people, there is no specific command of God forbidding it, save to widows; and there is a command, when a Christian is married to an unbeliever, for them to live together, with the hope that the faithful Christian will win the unbeliever. This would not be permitted if marrying a sectarian is morally wrong, as is gambling. Moral principles are eternal in their nature.

The criticism concerning my marrying a maiden to a sectarian and then declining to marry the same person when a widow a few months later to a sectarian is aimed at Paul and not at me. I discourage both Christian maidens and widows in marrying out of Christ. I give them the scriptural teaching on the subject of marriage as best I can. When I have done this, I can do no more. The ceremony of marriage is not recognized in the Scriptures. It is performed in obedience to the civil government and is not a religious service, save as it is right to obey the civil laws. Brother David Lipscomb tells the following

"Not long since a Christian girl, contrary to the earnest wishes of her parents, determined to marry out of Christ. The parents yielded to what they could not prevent, and wished the elder of their church and their lifelong preacher to perform the ceremony. He consulted me about it, and I felt that it would be harsh in him not to perform the ceremony, as the parents desired it. It was to accommodate them, not to encourage marriages out of Christ. I do not think he sinned in so doing. In these matters no explicit law is given, and, with the general principles laid down, each is left to act in each case as his judgment approves."

It is worthy of note that our brother cites no specific command forbidding the marriage of a Christian maiden to a sectarian or even to a man who has a dead or inactive faith.

Marriage is not under consideration when the Spirit says: "Be not unequally yoked with unbelievers." The scripture here includes much more than marriage. Believers should not leave the Christian community to join in that of the heathens. In this passage the word "unbeliever" carries with it the force of "infidel." Macknight renders the passage thus: "Become not discordantly yoked with infidels: for what participation hath righteousness and wickedness? and what intercourse hath light with darkness?" He comments on the passage as follows: "The apostle's precept, besides prohibiting marriages with infidels, forbids also believers to contract friendships or to enter into any kind of scheme with infidels, which requires much familiar intercourse, lest the believer should be tempted to join with the infidel in his wicked principles and practice." The arbitrary interpretation of our brother will lead him not to contract friendships with sectarians. Doubtless this passage is entirely too broad for the practice of our brother. I have never claimed that my practice is as good as my preaching. I have a perfect gospel to preach, while I have an imperfect nature with which to contend in the practice of the law of God.

The Christian Standard's Jubilee Number.

BY M. C. K.

In point of mechanical execution, including all the latest improvements in the printer's art, the Jubilee Number of the Christian Standard, which appeared on April 8, 1916, seems sufficient to meet the highest expectations and wishes of its warmest friends and most ardent admirers. From cover to cover, throughout the wide scope of its sixty-six well-laden pages with a sixteen-page supplement, it bears marks of the highest workmanship and challenges comparison with any product in its line. Indeed, from our angle of vision, its arrangement of matter, display of cuts, space allotted to the diversified enterprises which it has fostered, generous notice of other periodicals, and its superb printing, with all that enters into the artistic and attractive in such a production, it touches the high-water mark in modern religious journalism.

But this is not all. In keeping with these high marks in its mechanical make-up, both its editorial pages and its various other departments are filled with well-written articles. It presents a thrilling story of religious doings in one of the most conspicuous half centuries of the Christian era. Everybody connected with the Herculean task seems to have put forth the greatest possible effort to produce a great paper, and the effort has been crowned with signal success. Its owners and promoters have a right to be proud of their achievement, and we bid them Godspeed in all their efforts to reproduce and magnify the ancient order in religion.

Send us your subscription for our new magazine, The Bible Study Helper. Sixty cents per year.

QUERY DEPARTMENT

Brother McQuiddy: In the case of Paul and Silas at Philippi, who gave this young woman "the spirit of divination" which enabled her to proclaim: "These men are the servants of the most high God, which show unto us the way of salvation?"

E. G. BUTLER.

The damsel was possessed "with a spirit of a Pythoness." This is a literal translation. She was what we commonly term a "fortune teller." Excepting what she said concerning the apostles, she certainly could not be supposed to tell the truth while her inspiration came from the father of lies. Satan sometimes conceals himself under the guise of truth, that he may the more effectually deceive.

* * *

Brother McQuiddy: The question has been asked. What is the soul of man? I want to know what part about a man is his soul.

WILLIAM S. FERRELL.

Webster defines "soul;" "An entity conceived as the essence, substance, or actuating cause of individual life, especially of life manifested in psychical activities; the vehicle of individual existence, separate in nature from the body and usually held to be separable in existence." As used in the Bible, "soul" is "the internal spirit, but occasionally the animal life." So "soul" and "spirit" are sometimes used interchangeably in the Bible, sometimes they are distinct; which means that the soul and spirit in part are identical, in some points they differ. The Bible has not set forth the difference between the two.

* * *

Brother McQuiddy: Is it scriptural to have Bible lessons on the first day of the week when we come together to break bread in memory of Christ? If so, please give scripture, and how these lessons or classes should be conducted in regard to our worship.

W. R. RICHARDS.

It is not scriptural to omit teaching the Bible from the worship on the first day of the week. "And they continued steadfastly in the apostles' teaching and fellowship, in the breaking of bread and the prayers." (Acts 2: 42.) Teaching is as much an item of public worship as is the breaking of bread, or the prayers, or the fellowship. The interlocutory method of teaching in classes is probably the most effective way of teaching. The New Testament does not reveal any special order of worship. Expediency, good judgment, and common sense should have much to do with the order of worship.

* * *

Brother McQuiddy: We have begun to meet on Wednesday nights to sing songs and study the Bible, with three or four male members and several women. We have no teacher, but all, both men and women, study the Bible together; but the men take the lead in all prayers and the teaching. Is it wrong for the women to take the part above mentioned—that is, studying together the Scriptures?

C. S. HAWKINS.

God put men and women together in the family and in the church; so it is certainly intended for them to live together and study the Scriptures together as directed by the word of God. Women are to be in submission to the authorized teachers of the church and are not permitted to teach or rule authoritatively. The Spirit says, through Paul: "But I permit not a woman to teach, nor to have dominion over a man, but to be in quietness. For Adam was first formed, then Eve; and Adam was not beguiled, but the woman being beguiled hath fallen into transgression." (2 Tim. 2: 12-14.) The apostles continued in prayer with certain women. (Acts 1: 14.)

* * *

Brother McQuiddy: Were all the Gentiles lost that lived before the time of Christ, or did they have a plan of salvation like the Jews?

WILL ED FOX.

All nations are under the general government and rule of Jehovah. God gives men the privilege of obeying him and being saved or of rejecting him as ruler and being condemned. If they were not under the dominion of God, he could not punish them. God is the sole ruler of the universe. Satan himself is under the dominion of God. He gave laws to the Jews because they were willing to serve him part of the time. The Gentiles were not willing to serve him; so he left them without law, not that they were not accountable, but because they rejected him as ruler. When any Gentile was willing to obey God, he entered the Jewish family and came under the Jewish law. In this way he was saved. "For when Gentiles that have not the law do by nature the things of the law, these, not having the law, are the law unto themselves." (Rom. 2: 14.) It is even so now. Any man that is willing to obey God obeys the gospel of Christ and comes under his law. If a man is not under the law of God, it is because he refuses to obey him. The Gentiles, who were without law in the days of Judaism, became willing to obey God under Christ; hence they were said to be without law, were not under the law of Moses, but were "the law unto themselves." The apostle does not say this was the rule among the Gentiles, but applies the principle to the very rare instances of Gentiles of pure character.

* * *

Brother McQuiddy: In Mark 16: 6-11, speaking of the resurrection of Christ, we read that the angel told Mary that Christ had risen, and for her to go and tell his disciples, and that she went and told them, but they believed not. Matthew and Luke tell us practically this same thing—namely, that the angel or angels told Mary that Christ had risen as he said he would do, and for her to go and tell the disciples, and they all three say she did this. Now how can you harmonize these statements with the statement in John 20: 2 to the effect that she told Peter: "They have taken away the Lord out of the sepulcher, and we know not where they have laid him?" Also, Matthew, in describing the resurrection, says an "angel" came down and rolled the stone away, while Luke speaks of "two" young men. An infidel here has pointed out these slight discrepancies, and I shall thank you to explain them through the Gospel Advocate.

X.

There is no apparent contradiction in these passages. Jesus appeared first to Mary Magdalene alone. (Mark 16: 9; John 20: 11-18.) Mary Magdalene, seeing the stone rolled away and supposing the Jews had removed the body, runs to find Peter and John. (John 20: 1, 2.) The other women enter the sepulcher. Mark says they saw "a young man;" Matthew calls him "an angel." John tells us: "But Mary stood without at the sepulcher weeping; and as she wept, she stooped down, and looked into the sepulcher, and seeth two angels in white sitting, the one at the head, and the other at the feet, where the body of Jesus had lain." (John 20: 11, 12.) She still supposed the body was stolen until the angels were seen. It is easy to be understood how one person might observe only one angel, while another might see two. Mary Magdalene had not left the sepulcher when she said: "They have taken away my Lord, and I know not where they have laid him." She is told to tell the glad story to the brethren. His second appearance was to the women returning from the sepulcher. (Matt. 28: 9, 10; Mark 16: 1-8.) It was at this time that the angel told the women that Jesus was risen, and, therefore, after Mary had supposed that the Jews had taken away the body of Jesus.

AT HOME AND ABROAD

Compiled by A. B. Lipscomb

R. V. Cawthon will preach at Watkins Hall next Sunday at 3 P.M. Come, and bring your friends.

J. Paul Kimbrell has held interesting meetings at Arcadia and Zolfo, Fla. He is now at Eagle Lake.

R. V. Cawthon, of Mount Juliet, Tenn., is in a meeting with the Green Street congregation, this city.

S. H. Hall will begin a meeting at Reid Avenue, this city, next Sunday. This meeting was postponed one week to give Brother Hall more time at Dickson.

E. A. Bedichek has aroused considerable interest in a meeting at Fresno, Cal. After this meeting he will go to Madera and Patterson, Cal., and from thence to Phoenix, Ariz.

C. E. Wooldridge has inaugurated an "every-member-at-every-service" campaign at Fayetteville, Tenn. Let me remind these good people of the companion motto: "We can and we will."

From John W. Hedge, Kilgore, Texas: "I have just returned from Idabel, Okla., where Brother Lee Sanders and I have been sounding out the word. We held two mission meetings in the vicinity of Idabel, which resulted in two baptisms. The church at Idabel seems to be alive, and in time to come I believe its influence will spread abroad."

T. W. Phillips sends us a very hopeful note regarding his improvement. He writes from the Harris Sanitarium, Fort Worth, Texas: "I was operated on April 6 here—not at Bonham, Texas, as was stated in the Gospel Advocate. I am rapidly improving to have undergone so serious an operation. I will be at work again in June, I pray and hope."

From C. E. Holt, Montgomery, Ala.: "The last 'special' is fine. I think the more you 'specialize,' the better and finer and grander the paper becomes. 'Preparedness' is a fine theme. There is nothing better than being prepared for a thing. Especially is this true as regards Christian faith and Christian living. Even preachers should prepare their sermons."

Brother Srygley will deliver the commencement sermon for the Marion County High School at Guin, Ala., next Sunday. While in this territory he will make the following appointments, preaching at 7:45 P.M.: At Oakman, Tuesday, April 25; Lynn, Wednesday, April 26; Haleyville, Thursday, April 27; Bear Creek, Friday, April 28; Russellville, Sunday, April 30 (two services); and Town Creek, Monday, May 1.

From I. C. Hoskins, Florence, Ala.: "We had fine audiences on April 9. Two very worthy Christians, who had just moved to our fair city, took membership with the congregation. That afternoon a lady who had made the good confession at a mission point near Sheffield was baptized by the writer. One of our 'mothers in Israel' recently said: 'I have been reading the Gospel Advocate for more than thirty years, and I think it is better now than ever.'"

From L. S. White, Dallas, Texas: "The meeting at the Pearl and Bryan Streets Church, this city, has been in progress two weeks and will continue at least another week. The interest has been good from the beginning. W. M. Davis, of Fort Worth, Texas, is doing the preaching. All his work is on a high plane and the brethren are delighted. I never attended a more pleasant meeting or saw a greater manifestation of brotherly love. There have been ten additions from all sources."

From R. E. Wright, Wartrace, Tenn.: "I preached at Huntland, Tenn., Sunday and Sunday night. We had a small crowd, but a good hearing. This was my first visit to Huntland. I find some noble Christians there. This is the home of R. H. Moore. His good wife knows just how to treat a preacher. I also met young G. Collins, a most noble young preacher and singer, sent out by the church at Huntland. Use him, brethren, if you need a preacher; and when the meeting is over, you will not regret the choice you made."

From John E. Dunn, Miami, Fla.: "I have been engaged in a four-months' effort to get the cause of Christ firmly established on a solid working basis in Miami. We will begin a protracted meeting on the fourth Lord's day, to continue over the first Lord's day in May. We think we are getting the work in good shape. I start home on May 8. I hope to be with my family a few days, attend the closing exercises of the Bible School, then our home meeting, in which C. M. Pullias will do the preaching. After this I shall go to Port Arthur, Texas, and next to Beaumont and other Texas points."

We trust our readers will not forget the fire-stricken Christians at Paris, Texas. Several contributions have been made, but the loss was so heavy that there is little danger of too much being given. J. B. Nelson, of Dallas, Texas, urges immediate action. He writes: "The call for help at Paris is in every way a worthy one. The church house, the homes, and all the earthly possessions of many are gone. They are poor and in every way worthy. I labored with that church nearly two years, and I feel that I am in position to know their needs. Lee Garrett, the preacher at Paris, is as true as they make them. He is absolutely honest, and all money sent to him will be properly used. Help, help, and help now. It is truly an S. O. S. call—'Save, O Save,' or 'Help, O Help.'"

Last week was "wedding week" for the editor of this page, who played the minor rôle in the following engagements:

At the Russell Street Church study, April 8, at 10:30 A.M., Mr. John Wesley Culbreth, of Albany, Ga., and Miss Lillie Dale Duncan, of Nashville, Tenn.

At the Russell Street Church study, April 12, at 2:15 P.M., Mr. James C. Lauderdale and Miss Margaret Azile Johns, both of Nashville, Tenn.

At my home, April 12, at 8:30 P.M., Mr. Hubert T. Wiggs and Miss Beatrice Lane Printz, both of Fayetteville, Tenn.

At the bride's home, April 15, at 8 P.M., Mr. Hubert Hill Harper, of Birmingham, Ala., and Miss Anna Leek, of Nashville, Tenn.

We have already extended our good wishes to all of these happy young people.

From J. L. Hines, Central City, Ky.: "Two years ago a call came to me from West Tennessee, 'Come over and help us.' Straightway I gathered up a tent and went, preached two weeks, and baptized (I believe) seven. Last year I was called back; so I went with another tent, preached night and day for about three weeks, with twenty-two added. We organized them with forty-five members. A few months ago I received a message from one of that little band in which she said: "All of the members meet every Lord's day unless providentially hindered, and those that are hindered have the emblems brought to them.' They are now trying to build a house and need help. I know of no congregation that is more zealous than this congregation, eight miles northwest of Dyersburg, Tenn. Brethren, please do not pass this by, but let us help to bear one another's burdens. Send all money to me at Central City, Ky., and it will be acknowledged and properly placed."

Brother Hines has done some hard work in this field, and his appeal deserves the cordial support of our readers.

ENRICH THE BLOOD

Hood's Sarsaparilla, a Spring Tonic-Medicine, is Necessary.

Everybody is troubled at this season with loss of vitality, failure of appetite, that tired feeling, or with bilious turns, dull headaches, indigestion and other stomach troubles, or with pimples and other eruptions on the face and body. The reason is that the blood is impure and impoverished.

Hood's Sarsaparilla relieves all these ailments. It is the old reliable medicine that has stood the test of forty years—that makes pure, rich, red blood—that strengthens every organ and builds up the whole system. It is the all-the-year-round blood-purifier and health-giver. It embodies the careful training, experience, and skill of Mr. Hood, a pharmacist for fifty years, in its quality and power to cure. Ask your druggist for it today.

How to Fight Tuberculosis

Dr. J. W. Carhart, of San Antonio, Texas, says: "Since lime salts constitute three-fourths of all the mineral substances of the human body, they must be supplied in the foods or supplemented in mineral preparations, or natural starvation ensues, with tuberculosis unchecked. The spread of tuberculosis and other preventable diseases is due largely to decalcified (lime lacking) conditions of multitudes throughout the civilized world."

Since lime is one of the ingredients of Eckman's Alterative, much of its success doubtless is due to its combination in such a way as to render it easily assimilable.

Eckman's Alterative has effected remarkable results in tuberculosis, which in many instances, apparently has yielded to it, and since it contains no opiates, narcotics or habit-forming drugs, it is safe to try. Price $1 and $2 per bottle. Sold by leading druggists or sent direct from the Laboratory. We would like to send you a booklet containing information of value and references.

ECKMAN LABORATORY, Philadelphia, 25 N. Seventh St.

Save Half

On Your Machine

Buy your sewing machine now, save half, and get it on easy terms, through the Religious Press Co-Operative Club. We have engaged a large number from a leading American manufacturer, securing prices very little above actual cost. By buying from us you become a member of a big buying club, you get your machine at carload lot prices, plus the small expense of operating the Club. You save all middlemen's profits, agents' commissions, salaries, etc.

We Give You Thirty Days Trial on any of these machines. If you are not entirely satisfied that it is the equal of any machine regularly sold at double the price, return it to us, and the trial costs you nothing. Easy monthly payments if you keep it.

Six Superb Sewing Machine Bargains are shown in the Club catalogue. Prices range from $12.50 to $27.50. Latest model—the best that can be manufactured at the price. All fully warranted for ten years.

Sign and Mail This Coupon Today. Get our catalogue and investigate the Club plan that saves you half on your Sewing Machine.

Religious Press Co-Operative Club

113 E. Carolina Ave. :: Clinton, S. C.

FREE CATALOGUE COUPON.

Religious Press Co-Operative Club, 113 E. Carolina Ave. Clinton, S. C. Please send me your catalogue, and full details of the Co-Operative Club Plan that will save me half the price on a high quality sewing machine.

Name.....
Address.....

"I Will Come Again."

BY C. S. BLACK.

Brother S. T. Blessing, of Fort Worth, Texas, has written me as follows:

"True, there is no scripture that says the Savior, Jesus, the Son of Mary, who lived about thirty-three years on earth and then ascended to heaven and is now sitting on his Father's throne at the right hand of God, waiting till his enemies be made his footstool, will come again to earth 'and put his feet on this earth.' But I find that Zechariah (14: 3, 4) says: 'Then shall the Lord [who can be none other than the Savior] go forth. . . . His feet shall stand in that day upon the Mount of Olives, which is before Jerusalem on the east.' From which he also ascended, at which time the astonished disciples were assured by the angelic messengers that 'this same Jesus . . . shall so come in like manner,' and every other promise of his coming (a presence), and there are many who evidently contemplate that that coming shall be to the earth. 'And they lived and reigned with Christ a thousand years.' 'And hath made us unto our God kings and priests: and we shall reign on the earth.' 'The Lord God shall give unto him the thrones of his father David; and he shall reign over the house of Jacob.'"

It is not my intention to enter into the discussion on the millennium question, but simply notice some of the quotations and applications of this brother. When I made the statement in a recent number of the Gospel Advocate that there was not any scripture to prove that the Savior will ever put his feet on this earth again, I measured my words, and the brother admits me correct, then proceeds to try to prove by Zech. 14: 3, 4 that he will put his feet on this earth again. Where is the brother's proof that Zechariah is speaking of the end of the world? Does he think that this is literal language? Will Jesus literally come down on the Mount of Olives and literally divide the mountain in two parts, and then perhaps with a steam shovel move half of the mountain toward the north and half toward the south and make a great wide valley, wide enough to admit the great host of Jews? I deny that Zechariah is speaking of the end of the world. "In that day" in Zech. 13: 1 plainly refers to the gospel age. The fountain opened plainly refers to the atoning blood of Christ. His side was pierced and from it came blood and water. Verse 7 of the same chapter plainly refers to the crucifixion of Christ and the scattering of the disciples. (See

YOU WILL WRITE A LETTER LIKE THIS.

I wish that I knew which one of the thousands of letters I receive would have the most weight with you, my friend. I cannot quote all of them here, but I am going to ask you to read these carefully and then give me a chance to renew your health and make you write me one very much like them.

701 Barnard Street, Savannah, Ga., December 28, 1910.

Mr. N. F. Shivar, Shelton, S. C.—Dear Sir: As you are aware, in 1909 I was suffering with indigestion, stomach and liver disorders, and all its train of horrifying phenomena for several months. I had lived on milk, soft eggs, shredded wheat, a very insufficient diet for an active working man, and, of course, from disease and starvation, was in a very low state of nervous vitality and general debility. I ordered ten gallons of your mineral water, which I used continuously, reordering when necessary, and in four months gained twenty-nine pounds, was strong and perfectly well, and have worked practically every day since. It acts as a general renovator of the system. I prescribe it in my practice, and it has in every instance had the desired effects. It is essential to use this water in as large quantities as possible, for its properties are so happily blended, and in such proportion, that they will not disturb the most delicate system. It is purely nature's remedy.

A. L. R. AVANT, M. D.

Leeds, S. C., March 2, 1911.

I have tested your spring water in several cases of rheumatism, chronic indigestion, kidney and bladder troubles, and in nervous and sick headaches, and find that it has acted nicely in each case, and I believe that if used continuously for a reasonable time it will produce a permanent cure. It will purify the blood, relieve debility, stimulate the action of the liver, kidneys, and bladder, aiding them in throwing off all poisonous matter.

C. A. CROSBY, M. D.

These are not selected cases, nor are the results unusual. I receive thousands like them from physicians, ministers, lawyers, merchants, farmers, manufacturers, and every conceivable profession. I want the satisfaction of receiving such a letter from you. No matter what your complaint may be—dyspepsia, indigestion, nervous headache, rheumatism, gallstones, kidney or liver disease, or any chronic ailment that has not responded to drugs—I invite you to match your faith in the spring against my pocketbook. If the water fails to benefit you, simply say so, return the empty demijohns, and I will promptly and willingly refund your money—every cent. Sign below.

Shivar Spring.

Box 21B, Shelton, S. C.

Gentlemen: I accept your guarantee offer, and inclose herewith two dollars for ten gallons of Shivar Mineral Spring Water. I agree to give it a fair trial, in accordance with instructions contained in the booklet you will send; and if it fails to benefit my case, you agree to refund the price in full upon receipt of the two empty demijohns, which I agree to return promptly.

Name.....

Address.....

Shipping Point.....

This means big and little tents, and we make all kinds. A thousand satisfied users testify to their quality. Let us make you a quotation. No trouble at all.

M. D. & H. L. SMITH COMPANY, Atlanta, Ga. Dalton, Ga.

Mark 14: 27.) It is also clear that Zech. 14: 1-3 refers to the destruction of Jerusalem by the Roman army. The Roman army was composed of many nations. Read Josephus' history of Jewish wars and you will see the prophecy exactly fulfilled. It is also noticeable that when the Romans had executed divine vengeance upon those who rejected the Christ, that they never prospered after that. God evidently fought against them and all the nations that composed this great empire until it was brought down. (Verse 3.) Now, brother, is it common sense to jump from this scene to the end of the world, and in verses 8 and 9 have to jump back again? Is not the prophet figuratively speaking of the day when the middle wall of partition, the law of commandments, would be removed? Did not his feet stand upon the Mount of Olives and from it ascend, and then was not the gospel sent to the whole world, Jew and Gentile? This certainly is the meaning of the cleavage of the mountain. "And it shall be in that day, that living waters shall go out from Jerusalem" (Zech. 14: 8.) "Repentance and remission of sins should be preached in his name among all nations, beginning at Jerusalem." (Luke 24: 47.) "And the Lord shall be king over all the earth." (Zech. 14: 9.) Jesus is now reigning King over all the earth, and that kingdom began at Pentecost. Brother, if you will study carefully the book of Zechariah and take each passage in connection, you will see the great mistake in applying Zech. 14: 3, 4 to the end of the world.

You quote Acts 1: 11. Yes, Jesus is coming "in like manner;" but does it say he shall put his feet on the earth? "For the Lord himself shall descend from heaven with a shout, with the voice of the archangel, and with the trump of God: and the dead in Christ shall rise first (that is, before those on the earth shall be changed); then we which are alive and remain shall be caught up together with them in the clouds, to meet the Lord in the air: and so shall we ever be with the Lord." (1 Thess. 4: 16, 17.) Do these passages describe two different comings? Jesus did not say, "I will come again and again." Rev. 5: 10 has no reference to Christ's reigning on the earth one thousand years, but the unsealing of a sealed book: "Shall reign"—gain ascendancy over the enemies of the church. And are not the Christians reigning today? Certainly. Rev. 20: 4 must not be interpreted to conflict with all that is said in the New Testament concerning Christ's second coming. The expression, "throne of David," does not mean the chair that David

MONEY IN PIGEONS

Make Your Back Yard Profitable

THE demand for squabs in the Northern, Eastern and Southern markets has never been supplied, because pigeon raising as a business is comparatively new. Buy a half dozen pair of select birds, fence in a small portion of your back yard and watch them go to work. Success is easy. They raise from eight to fifteen pairs of squabs a year. Your squabs and fancy birds will bring handsome returns. You will actually make money in a hitherto useless part of your back yard. Pigeon raising is not a fad or fancy. It is a profitable business. Let us start you right. Our breeders are the best, and raised from prize winning parents. We will furnish you with the birds and teach you how to raise them, and you will reap a handsome profit with a very little outlay. Thousands are taking advantage of this same opportunity. Write to-day for our literature on pigeon raising as a money making proposition, or better still, write us to send you a few pair of Belgian Carneaux at $3.00 per pair, White Swiss Mondaines at $5.00 per pair, White Kings at $3.50 per pair, or White Maltese at $4.00 per pair. Our birds are all guaranteed. Your money back if after two months you are not satisfied with their work. Better prices on larger orders. Write to-day and get the pick of the flock.

CAROLINA PIGEON PLANT,
Pen Series C— CLINTON, S. C.

sat on in Jerusalem. That chair has gone to decay long ago. You cannot find it now in the earthly Jerusalem. David's throne is established in heaven. (Ps. 89: 35-37.) Jesus was raised from the dead to sit on David's throne. Please read Acts 2: 29-36. Notice closely verse 30. Much could be said about Christ's ascending to heaven, taking the throne of David (for, as it was established there, he must ascend there to take it), and the beginning of the kingdom on Pentecost, but this is enough. I leave the discussion in the hands of those who have already shown us their ability to expose the millennium error.

WHAT GRANDMA USED.

Ninety-one years' use will certainly prove whether or not a remedy is what it is claimed to be. That is the test that Gray's Ointment has stood—successfully. The old folks all found it the most effective cure for sores, cuts, wounds, burns, boils, carbuncles, and all eruptions and abrasions of the skin. "Please send me by return mail one box of the old Gray's Ointment," writes N. B. Hoofman, Stewart, Miss. "My father used it in his family fifty years ago, and for the purpose you recommend it there is nothing in the world equal to it." Keep a box in the house; it will save you many an ache and prevent serious blood troubles. Twenty-five cents a box at druggists'. Get free a sample by writing W. F. Gray & Co., 818 Gray Building, Nashville, Tenn.

YOU CAN AFFORD Familiar Songs of the Gospel (No. 1 or 2). Round or shape notes. $3 per hundred, samples 50 each. 33 songs, words and music. E. A. K. HACKETT, FORT WAYNE, INDIANA

Club Solves Piano Problem.

The greatest danger in buying a piano or player-piano is the difficulty in selecting one of real and lasting quality. There are so many cheap imitations on the market that the chances of full and permanent satisfaction are slight unless you are an expert judge and are extremely careful in your selection.

If you feel that you are not a good judge of the quality, durability, and value of an instrument, or if you have not time to make an exhaustive investigation of these matters, why not throw the responsibility on the Gospel Advocate Piano Club? It has already made the investigation for you and will assume the full responsibility of giving you absolute and perfect satisfaction and the largest possible value for your money. What your insurance policy is to your home, the club is to your piano or player-piano.

But the club does not stop there. It clubs your order with those of ninety-nine other subscribers, thus securing the lowest possible factory price for each club member. It provides convenient terms of payment, the strongest guarantees of quality and durability, and gives you the opportunity to try your instrument thoroughly before you buy. The club absolutely guarantees perfect satisfaction in every detail of piano buying. Write for your copy of the catalogue to-day. Address the Associated Piano Clubs, Gospel Advocate Department, Atlanta, Georgia.

FIRM FOUNDATION An eight-page weekly religious paper devoted to the restoration of primitive Christianity. Excels in church news; an able corps of writers; extensively circulated. Subscription price, $1 a year, payable in advance. Special rates for clubs. We believe that every loyal Christian should have the Firm Foundation visit his home.

FIRM FOUNDATION PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Austin, Texas.

FRECKLES

Now Is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freckles as the prescription othine—double strength—is guaranteed to remove these homely spots.

Simply get an ounce of othine—double strength—from your druggist, and apply a little of it night and morning and you should soon see that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the lighter ones have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than an ounce is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a beautiful clear complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength othine as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.

Oxford Bibles

Printed with
Very Large Type

For those who need an extra large type on account of failing sight or old age, this series of Oxford Bibles has no equal.

Weigh Only 29 Oz.

Most large-type Bibles are very heavy, but these Bibles are extremely light because they are printed on the famous

Oxford India Paper

Oxford Pica Square Bibles

Size 7½ x 5½ inches
Only 1½ inches thick

Specimen of Type.

2 He only is my rock a salvation; he is my defe

- | | | |
|------------|--|--------|
| No. 01561x | Alaska Seal, Imp, leather lined..... | $8.50 |
| 01563x | Alaska Seal, divinity circuit, leather lined, silk sewed | 9.00 |
| 01565x | Levant Morocco, divinity circuit, leather lined, silk sewed..... | 13.00 |

Order from
McQUIDDY PRINTING COMPANY,
Nashville, Tennessee

Stop Tobacco

EASY-TO-QUIT

is a harmless, effective treatment for cigarette and tobacco habits. Can be given without patient's knowledge in coffee, tea, or other drink. Odorless, tasteless, purely vegetable. Send name and address for trial treatment FREE! in plain wrapper. Treatment inexpensive. Send no money. Write now.

THE ROGERS DRUG & CHEMICAL CO.,
390 Lincoln Inn Court, Cincinnati, Ohio.

625 NEW BIBLE STORIES

Illustrations & Scripture Anecdotes
Interesting Stories for Bible Talks, Christian Workers and Home Reading. Arranged under Topical Heads for use of Speakers, Teachers and others. Complete Manual of New Word Pictures on Bible Subjects. Pocher 1/2¢, 123 pcs., Cloth 25¢. Mor. 25¢. Postpaid. Pentecostal Publishing Co., Louisville, Ky.

The Master's Vineyard

Alabama.

Bridgeport, April 13.—I closed a meeting at Orme, Tenn., last night. Two baptisms. Audiences good. Opposition active. J. D. GUNN.

Arkansas.

Paragould, April 13.—The cause of Christ is progressing slowly in this part. Doubtless we all could do more to promote the cause of Christ if we would. All preachers, elders, deacons, and saints in general should work in their respective spheres for the promotion of the body of Christ. We should give time, means, and talent. By so doing, the body, church of Christ, will grow, and increase in moral power as it grows. Brother G. Dallas Smith will teach a fifteen-days' Normal Bible school for us, beginning on Thursday before the fourth Lord's day in July, and will preach at night. We trust that many will attend this school. I am now making out my program for the summer and fall months. Should any desire my assistance in a meeting, they should write me at Paragould, Ark., Route No. 5. W. J. JOHNS.

Colorado.

Olathe, April 10.—It may not be appreciated by all who read this, but to us the growth of this Olathe work is so satisfactory that we cannot help speaking of it once in a while. I preached three times yesterday—at 11 A.M., at Ash Mesa Schoolhouse; at 3 P.M., at Fairview Schoolhouse; and at 7:30 P.M. in Olathe, in our own "hired house." The Fairview appointment was my second at that place, and I was besieged with the unanimous request that I leave a regular appointment for Sunday afternoons for at least twice each month, which I did. Thus a splendid field is opened here, a more promising than which I have not observed in this valley. And the Olathe service was attended by an unusually large crowd last night, representing the best people of the town. We will continue this Sunday-night meeting in Olathe until we get our tent, when we have a change of meetings arranged for the tent throughout this valley. Our encouragement has grown into enthusiasm in Olathe. It is remarkable how the tide has turned in our favor in this town of late and bitter persecution. Satan can sometimes get the truth down, but he cannot keep it down if its devotees are loyal. E. C. FOUCA.

Florida.

Hildreth, April 11.—The meeting began well here Sunday. The Monday-night audience was encouraging. L. J. JACKSON.

Georgia.

Valdosta, April 18.—On March 26 Brother E. A. Elam began a meeting with the church at this place and continued through April 9. The first week we had services at night only; the second week, twice daily. It had been some nineteen years since Brother Elam had been here, and, of course, many changes had taken place in the congregation and in him. He is still, however, the same logical, eloquent speaker. He impressed his hearers with the thought that he was not preaching "our" doctrines, but just the truth of God as revealed to men in his word. The attendance was better than we have had for some years at our meetings, it being necessary to provide extra seats on one occasion. Three were added to the church. G. E. CLAUS.

Japan.

Tokyo, March 21.—On Sunday, March 5, I spoke four times—once in English and three times in Japanese—and baptized two people. About forty were at the Lord's Supper and eighty-three in the Sunday school. The church meeting was the largest of any ordinary meeting we have yet had in the new chapel. J. M. McCALDER.

Missouri.

Campbell, April 12.—Brother C. M. Pullias, of Lewisburg, Tenn., has just closed a very successful meeting with the church at this place. Large crowds were in attendance throughout the meeting. Five persons became "obedient to the faith." We consider this one of the best meetings we have ever had at this place, as an interest was created, both within and without, that was noticeable indeed. To know Brother Pullias is to love him, and to hear him is to love the Lord and his church better. The church at Campbell is in fine shape and by the help of the Lord will steadily grow. J. W. BRENTS.

Tennessee.

Decherd, April 6.—I have just closed an eleven-days' meeting at Oak Grove, at the water, with seven additions—four baptized, two restored, and one from the Baptists. This was my first meeting for this year. The brethren at Oak Grove are getting along nicely. They were much pleased with the meeting. The weather was bad most of the time, but we had good crowds and the interest was fine. Much prejudice was removed. The sanctified people listened well. Brethren, let us preach the word in the spirit of meekness and love. My work is mostly in destitute places this year. I will go to Sequatchie County on the first Lord's day in May for four weeks; the first of June, to Tatesville, Grundy County; then to Gruett; then to Coalmont in July; to Bedford County, second Lord's day in July; Elk River, first Lord's day in August; Partin Schoolhouse, fourth Lord's day in August; to Fairview Schoolhouse, second Lord's day in September. I can hold one or two meetings in October and November. If the brethren at any place want me at that time, let them write me at once. R. E. L. TAYLOR.

Rheumatism Disappears.

We would not guarantee to refund the money if we were not confident that "Renwar" would relieve every case of rheumatism. No matter how many remedies you have taken or how many doctors you have consulted, if you are a sufferer from rheumatism, get a fifty-cent bottle of "Renwar" and commence taking it right away. If you cannot get it at your drug store, do not take a substitute, but send fifty cents for a full-size bottle, postpaid, to the Warner Drug Company, Nashville, Tenn.; and remember you get your money back if it fails to prove satisfactory.

Texas.

Bonham, April 10.—Brother J. S. Dunn, of Dallas, has just closed a very successful meeting in Bonham, which resulted in twelve additions—nine by baptism. Brother Dunn will long be remembered by the good people of Bonham for his soul-stirring sermons. Brother Dennis Starnes and Brother T. W. Phillips were the preachers that visited the meeting. The church in Bonham has had a great uplift.

TOM WALKER.

Lockney, April 8.—My work with Lockney Christian College closes this week. I have accepted a position at Thorp Spring Christian College as president of the faculty, and shall move there in time to assume my duties this fall. We hope to make a great school there. We hope to see Lockney College continue, and I think it will. From now till September I shall hold meetings. My first will begin at San Angelo on the fifth Sunday in April.

W. F. LEDLOW.

Denison, April 14.—The church of Christ is growing everywhere. Good reports are weekly read in all our papers. We have reason to be thankful. Our little band at Armstrong Avenue is still growing in numbers, knowledge, interest, and love. Three were added to our number last Lord's day. Our protracted-meeting will begin on the fifth Lord's day in this month, with Brother Eldridge as song leader. We expect great things of the Lord.

THOMAS E. MILHOLLAND.

Weatherford, April 7.—Some of the time since January 1 I have been preaching at Weatherford, where I am permanently located. The church here will begin a meeting on Sunday, April 16. Brother Busby, of Fort Worth, will do the preaching. I want to correspond with a number of young men who are anxious for an education, but have not the means to pay their way through school, and who will accept a good opportunity to work their way through. Having had considerable experience teaching this class of young men, I am able to sympathize with them and understand their needs.

E. M. TACKETT.

HUMORS COME TO THE SURFACE in the spring as in no other season. They don't run themselves all off that way, however, but mostly remain in the system. Hood's Sarsaparilla removes them, wards off danger, makes good health sure.

Regeneration.

BY N. F. MATHEWS.

The unconverted cannot see the things of God. Spiritual things are foolish and adverse to him. (1 Cor. 2: 14.) A blind man cannot understand vision. A leopard cannot change his spots. (Jer. 13: 23.) A sinner is helpless, materialistic, condemned, lost, and at enmity with that which must save him. (Rom. 8: 7; James 4: 4.) Nothing short of a miracle saves a sinner. (John 1: 13.) Philip said: "Show us the Father." Jesus taught Philip that God was manifest in him. The wise men of Athens set forth their ideas of God in their idols—wood, stone, metal. Everything in God was absent in those idols. No life, spirit, character, or power. Shape was the only idea they conveyed. But in Jesus was found the complete idea of God. All his attributes were in Jesus; and yet Jesus had to go before these spiritual attributes were seen and accepted. He said: "If I go not away, the Comforter will not come." (John 16: 17.)

What is the nature of the new birth? A radical change of heart, a new creature, the blind see, the dead live, the deaf hear, hate turns to love and infidelity to faith.

What is man's part in it? Repentance toward God and faith in the Lord Jesus Christ. (Acts 20: 21.) Man must give up sins, confess sins, repent of sins, all which precedes faith; and all is a gift of God in the sense that God gives the light and the strength to do it, and the sinner wills to do it.

What are the results? Joys of salvation, forgiveness of sins, a knowledge of God, kinship with God, adopted into the family of God, heirs of God, assurance; the birth of a life that develops into the perfect saint. Like the life in the acorn develops into a perfect tree. Our Lord championed that life and died to procure it for us. Nicodemus, perhaps one of the best men of his day, had to be born again in order to see the kingdom of God.

Foot Comfort Assured—Brooklyn Man Solves the Problem.

It is no longer necessary to suffer agonies that are caused by misfit shoes. Simon's Ezwear Shoes are built to give every possible foot comfort. They are soft and stylish and do not need breaking in. They fit like the proverbial "old shoe" the minute you wear them. Every pair is guaranteed to give satisfaction and to fit perfectly.

Mr. B. H. Simon will gladly send a free catalogue of over 450 styles of Ezwear Shoes along with self-measuring blank to all who write him. Write for your copy to-day and make your feet happy. Address Mr. B. H. Simon, 1589 Broadway, Brooklyn, N. Y.

KITCHEN CABINET
$1.50
A MONTH

Get a Rhodes Kitchen Cabinet— saves miles of steps—saves energy— saves health—saves your kitchen work in half. Sit down, eat and prepare meals with all supplies and utensils at your fingers' ends.

30 DAYS TRIAL

Try this Cabinet in your home. $1.50 a month pays for it at our bargain cash price. If not satisfied, after 30 days (that, your money gladly refunded. Chance of a lifetime to make kitchen work a joy.

1500 Bargains and a Year to Pay

Write at once for driving low prices of Furniture, Rugs, Ranges and Kitchen Cabinets. Our easy monthly payment plan charges no interest. Satisfaction guaranteed. Address today.

WRITE FOR CATALOG

RHODES FURN. CO.
 Dept. H
 MEMPHIS, TENN.

Furniture on CREDIT

THE POCKET TESTAMENT LEAGUE

Announcing Vest Pocket New Testaments

The handiest, daintiest, and most useful edition of the New Testament published. It takes up little room and will really fit the pocket. Printed on fine paper from the largest type ever used in so small a book.

No. 2117 RL.

Size 2 3/4 x 4 1/4 inches.

Specimen of Type.

WHOEVER believeth that Jesus is the Christ is born of God; and every one that loveth him

No. 2117

Beautiful Colored Frontispiece in Each.
 "Thy Word is a lamp unto my feet"

No. 2117 Bound in Coze Tan Leather, flexible limp, gold side title, round corners, gold edges, containing membership certificate and suggested daily readings.

Single copies postpaid $.40
 Per Dozen 4.00 carriage additional

RED LETTER EDITION

No. 2117 RL. Same as 2117 above WITH ALL THE WORDS OF OUR LORD AND SAVIOUR PRINTED IN RED.

Single copies postpaid $.55
 Per Dozen 5.50 carriage additional

THE POCKET TESTAMENT LEAGUE

is a world-wide organization of those who agree to honestly endeavor to read a portion of a chapter of the Bible daily, and to carry a Testament or Bible about with them. There are no fees of any kind and the aim of the League is to strengthen Christians and to win the unsaved to Christ by spreading God's Word. Members are therefore encouraged to give Testaments away to those who are willing to join the League and fulfill the conditions of reading a portion of a chapter each day.

Any person becomes a member of this League by securing a Testament and agreeing to the conditions set forth in the Membership certificate which accompanies each Testament.

For sale by the McQuiddy Printing Company, Nashville, Tenn.

NIXON BUSINESS COLLEGE

offers thorough instruction in the following branches: Bookkeeping, Stenography, Typewriting, Penmanship, and Commercial Law. Now is the time to enroll. Prices very reasonable. Write for catalogue and mention course you wish to take. Address NIXON BUSINESS COLLEGE, Bristol, Tenn.

Only that work is really profitable which contributes to the building up of a noble character.

This Wife and Mother Wishes To Tell You FREE How She Stopped Her Husband's Drinking

By all Means Write to Her
and Learn how She did it.

For over 20 years Jas. Anderson of 161 Pearl Ave., Hillburn, N. Y., was a confirmed drunkard. His case was about as bad as it could be, but a little over twelve years ago his devoted wife, after years of trying, finally succeeded in stopping his drinking entirely.

Write to this woman if you have a relative or friend who drinks

Not only did she save Mr. Anderson but she stopped the drinking of her brother and several of her neighbors as well. All this she accomplished by simple home treatment which she now desires every man and woman who has a relative or friend who drinks, to know all about, for she feels that others can do just as she did.

The treatment can be given secretly if desired, and without cost she will gladly and willingly tell what it is. Therefore every reader of this notice who is interested in curing a dear one of drinking should write to Mrs. Anderson at once. Her reply will come by return mail in a sealed envelope. She does this gladly in hopes that others will be benefited as she was. One thing she asks however, and that is that you do not send money for she has nothing to sell. Simply address your letter with all confidence, to Mrs. Margaret Anderson at the address given above and she will reply by return mail in a sealed envelope.

GOSPEL TENTS

Our Prices Would Interest You.
Ask Us To Quote.

Fulton Bag And Cotton Mills,
Atlanta, Ga.

New York, Dallas, St. Louis, New Orleans

Pastors:

WE publish Books, Pamphlets, Minutes, Sermons, Church Directories, Manuals and reprint books and magazines. Specialists in Church Envelopes. Write us for prices.
419 S. Third St. MAYES PRINTING CO., Inc. Louisville, Ky.

The Wooldridge-Walling Debate.

BY J. D. WALLING.

This debate took place at Mount Pleasant Methodist Episcopal Church, in Wayne County, Ky. It began on February 28 and continued four days. Three days were given to the first proposition, and we were promised two days on the second proposition; but at the noon recess the Methodist preacher said that, on account of the inclemency of the weather and other conditions, the trustees of the house had decided that the debate must close with that day. I objected, but had to submit. He did not state what the "other conditions" were. It was not hard to tell. A lady told that preacher at the close of the debate to take her name off of the church book. My moderator was Brother J. E. Thomas, of Gilpin, Casey County, Ky. He did his work well, and made friends of all by his fair ruling. We were not able to get Wooldridge to agree to a president moderator, so could not get him to define his proposition. I kept it before the people in every speech. He has got his lesson well and puts up the strongest argument that can be presented. He is artful, dodges, and plays shut-mouth on all scriptures that he cannot make a show of answering.

On the first proposition, the baptism of the Holy Ghost, he made the usual arguments and read from Alexander Campbell and Rice proposition, and asked me if I indorsed it. I said, "Yes," not because Campbell did, but because I thought it was the truth. He then produced another chart that said we are sanctified by the Spirit, and tried to connect these two and prove them by Campbell. I let him go till I got him to deny Wesley; then I made a Campbellite out of him for a while, and left him there till he repudiated John 3: 5 and Acts 8: 38. I made him admit baptism for the remission of sins and that we are saved by the blood of Christ. I asked him to show when and where the great multitude of Rev. 7: 14 were baptized by the Holy Ghost: also the eunuch, the jailer and his house. To these he would not open his mouth. I showed that salvation is in the name of Christ; that Christ comforts those that mourn, but mourning does not comfort—only leads to Christ, where comfort is found; that the name of Christ can be found only in one act of service that God requires of a penitent believer, and that act is water baptism. On Saul's conversion (Acts 22: 16) he was playing "pussy wants a corner." I got him to finally put the baptism of the Holy Ghost on the other side of water baptism, and he claimed the gift of the Holy Ghost in Acts 2: 38 to be the baptism. After ridiculing this, I

CALOMEL MAKES YOU SICK, UGH.

"Dodson's Liver Tone" better than calomel and cannot sallvate.

Calomel loses you a day! You know what calomel is. It's mercury—quick-silver. Calomel is dangerous. It crashes into sour bile like dynamite, cramping and sickening you. Calomel attacks the bones and should never be put into your system.

When you feel bilious, sluggish, constipated, and all knocked out, and believe you need a dose of dangerous calomel, just remember that your druggist sells for fifty cents a large bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone, which is entirely vegetable and pleasant to take and is a perfect substitute for calomel. It is guaranteed to start your liver without stirring you up inside, and cannot sallowate.

Don't take calomel! It makes you sick the next day; it loses you a day's work. Dodson's Liver Tone straightens you right up and you feel great. Give it to the children, because it is perfectly harmless and does not gripe.

Stop Cheating Your Family.

You doubtless fully realize your duty to your family in making your home life attractive, entertaining, cultured, and refined; and you have promised yourself that some day you will fill that vacant spot in the parlor with a splendid piano or player-piano of the sweetest tone and highest quality, or that you will replace the old rattle-trap with a superb new instrument. But the days, the months, and possibly the years have silently crept by, and still there is no good music in your home. In the meantime, home is not what it might be, for a home without a high-grade piano or player-piano is seriously and hopelessly handicapped.

You have only one life to live here; why let procrastination steal your family's best opportunity for social, mental, and spiritual advancement? The Gospel Advocate Piano Club will solve the financial problem for you now. It was organized to overcome the very difficulties which confront you. By clubbing your order with those of ninety-nine other subscribers, you save forty per cent of the price own order. Convenient terms of payment are responsible only for your ment are provided. You try the instrument in your own home and must be thoroughly satisfied before finally accepting it.

Write for your copy of the club's catalogue and full particulars to-day. Address Associated Piano Clubs, Gospel Advocate Department, Atlanta, Ga.

"Special" Silk Hose Offer.

To introduce the beautiful "La France" silk hose for ladies and gentlemen, we offer three pairs, 50-cent quality, for only one dollar, postpaid, in the United States. Pure silk from calf to toe, with durable elastic Hise top, heel, and toe for long wear. Sizes, 8 to 10½. In white, tan, or black; assorted if desired. Money back promptly if not delighted. La France Silk Store, Box G, Clinton, S. C.

asked him and the audience if that was his teaching and practice—if he taught them that they must work through the mourner's bench, then be baptized in water, and wait for the baptism of the Holy Ghost before salvation? He would get in a fix this way and turn over the next time. We finally told him he had been a Campbellite long enough. I took a dipper of water, held it up, and as the water poured upon the floor this represented a direct operation, the water flowing from the dipper, or fountain, upon the floor without any medium. I now took a funnel, held the dipper above, the water flowing through the funnel to the floor, this being a mediate operation. The funnel being the medium, I showed that if I wished to turn the stream, I had only to turn the medium; that the stream flowing through the medium would operate upon the point upon which the medium was turned. So Campbell and the Bible taught that the Spirit operated only through the word, the truth, and that the word is the medium. The Spirit flowing from God, through the word, operates upon the hearts to convert and to sanctify. If we want to turn the Spirit of God upon Monticello, we preach the word there; or if upon Japan, we send the word there. He made a great ado about the Spirit's being poured out; seemed to be trying to turn the issue to this. I let him tie himself to this. Then I took a glass, set it on the stand, and put a coin in it; then took the dipper and poured water in the glass, covering the coin and filling the glass. Thus I illustrated two points: that while the Spirit was poured out at Pentecost, the apostles were immersed; and that the apostles were prepared for this baptism, and were, therefore, baptized. I showed that this coin, though it was covered with water, was not baptized. The fault was not in the water, neither was it in the act, but in the coin—the thing covered, but not baptized in a scriptural sense. So whoever would be saved must be prepared by a change of heart and reformation of life for the consummating act whereby he would be buried into the death of Christ, where he would reach the blood, and thereby the remission of all past sins, be quickened, and raised, born again. He let this all alone.

On the second proposition, the church question, he proved himself almost a blank. He had only studied the Spirit question. He admitted the establishment of the church at Pentecost, and Christ to be the head architect. Here he wanted to mess up the whole thing and bring in his Holy Ghost baptism again. I called attention to what he had admitted, and

PRICES OF OUR HYMN BOOKS.

CHRISTIAN HYMNS.

MUSIC EDITION—BOARDS.		MUSIC EDITION—CLOTH.
Single copy, by mail, prepaid.....	$ 0 50	Single copy, by mail, prepaid.....	$ 0 60
Per dozen, by express, not prepaid...	4 80	Per dozen, by express, not prepaid...	6 00
Per dozen, by mail, prepaid.....	5 70	Per dozen, by mail, prepaid.....	7 00
Per hundred, not prepaid.....	25 00	Per hundred, not prepaid.....	45 00

VOICE OF PRAISE.

Single copy, by mail, prepaid.....	$ 0 30	Per dozen, by mail, prepaid.....	$ 3 35
Per dozen, by express, not prepaid...	2 75	Per hundred, not prepaid.....	20 00

WORDS OF TRUTH.

MUSIC EDITION—BOARDS.		MUSIC EDITION—CLOTH.
Single copy, by mail, prepaid.....	$ 0 40	Single copy, by mail, prepaid.....	$ 0 50
Per dozen, by express, not prepaid...	3 60	Per dozen, by express, not prepaid...	4 80
Per dozen, by mail, prepaid.....	4 40	Per dozen, by mail, prepaid.....	5 60
Per hundred, not prepaid.....	25 00	Per hundred, not prepaid.....	35 00

CHRISTIAN HYMNS AND WORDS OF TRUTH—COMBINED.

MUSIC EDITION—BOARDS.		MUSIC EDITION—CLOTH.
Single copy, by mail, prepaid.....	$ 0 60	Single copy, by mail, prepaid.....	$ 0 75
Per dozen, by express, not prepaid...	6 00	Per dozen, by express, not prepaid...	7 50
Per dozen, by mail, prepaid.....	7 20	Per dozen, by mail, prepaid.....	9 00
Per hundred, not prepaid.....	45 00	Per hundred, not prepaid.....	60 00

Christian Hymns and Voice of Praise, combined, same as Christian Hymns and Words of Truth, combined.

GOSPEL PRAISE.

MUSIC EDITION—BOARDS.		MUSIC EDITION—CLOTH.
Single copy, by mail, prepaid.....	$ 0 50	Single copy, by mail, prepaid.....	$ 0 60
Per dozen, by express, not prepaid...	4 80	Per dozen, by express, not prepaid...	6 00
Per dozen, by mail, prepaid.....	5 90	Per dozen, by mail, prepaid.....	7 10
Per hundred, not prepaid.....	35 00	Per hundred, not prepaid.....	45 00

NEW CHRISTIAN HYMN BOOK.

MUSIC EDITION—BOARDS.		MUSIC EDITION—CLOTH.
Single copy, by mail, prepaid.....	$ 0 40	Single copy, by mail, prepaid.....	$ 0 50
Per dozen, by express, not prepaid...	3 00	Per dozen, by express, not prepaid...	4 20
Per dozen, by mail, prepaid.....	3 85	Per dozen, by mail, prepaid.....	5 00
Per fifty, not prepaid.....	11 50	Per fifty, not prepaid.....	16 50
Per hundred, not prepaid.....	22 00	Per hundred, not prepaid.....	32 00

SEVENTY-SEVEN SWEET SONGS.

Single copy, by mail, prepaid.....	$ 0 15	Per fifty, not prepaid.....	$ 5 00
Per dozen, by mail, prepaid.....	1 50	Per hundred, not prepaid.....	9 00

PRAISE HIM.

MUSIC EDITION—BOARDS.		MUSIC EDITION—CLOTH.
Single copy, by mail, prepaid.....	$ 0 50	Single copy, by mail, prepaid.....	$ 0 60
Per dozen, by express, not prepaid...	3 50	Per dozen, by express, not prepaid...	4 70
Per dozen, by mail, prepaid.....	4 75	Per dozen, by mail, prepaid.....	5 50
Per fifty, not prepaid.....	12 00	Per fifty, not prepaid.....	17 50
Per hundred, not prepaid.....	22 50	Per hundred, not prepaid.....	33 00

McQUIDDY PRINTING COMPANY, NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE.

Big Deal on Sterling Hose.

Big purchase direct from the mills on "Sterling" Half Hose enables us to offer them while they last at startling prices.

"Sterling" Hose are stainless fast dye—good, clean, selected cotton yarn, nice weight, full seamless double heel and toe, wide elastic instep, long loop-on elastic ribbed top, full standard lengths; come in any color wanted; one dozen to a box, sold sizes, 9 to 11.

Sent, postpaid, to any address in the United States for $1.40 per dozen. Money cheerfully refunded if not delighted. These hose are sold for and are worth 20 to 25 cents a pair in many places. Order to-day. The Bee Hive, Box F, Clinton, S. C.

Subscribe for the Bible Study Helper. Sixty cents per year.

*A safe and palatable laxative
for children*

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup

Absolutely Non-narcotic

Does not contain opium, morphine, nor any of their derivatives.

By checking wind colic and correcting intestinal troubles common with children during the period of teething, helps to produce natural and healthy sleep.

Soothes the fretting baby and thereby gives relief to the tired mother.

URIC-ACID SOLVENT

For Rheumatism and Kidney Trouble.

Fifty-Cent Bottle (32 Doses)

FREE.

Just because you start the day worried and tired, stiff legs and arms and muscles, an aching head, burning and bearing-down pains in the back—worn out before the day begins—do not think you have to stay in that condition.

Those sufferers who are in and out of bed half a dozen times at night will appreciate the rest, comfort, and strength our treatment gives. For every form of bladder trouble, scalding pains, or weakness, its action is really wonderful.

Be strong, well, and vigorous, with no more pains from stiff joints, sore muscles, rheumatic suffering, aching back, or kidney or bladder troubles.

The Williams Treatment conquers kidney and bladder diseases, rheumatism, and all uric-acid troubles, no matter how chronic or stubborn. If you have never used the Williams Treatment, we will give one fifty-cent bottle (thirty-two doses) for your own use, free. Contains no alcohol or habit-forming drug. Does not affect the heart.

Send this notice with your name and address, and ten cents to help pay distribution expenses, to The Dr. D. A. Williams Company, Dept. 2327D New P. O. Block, East Hampton, Conn. You will receive by parcel post a regular fifty-cent bottle (thirty-two doses), without charge and without incurring any obligation. One bottle only to a family or address.

A Woman's Appeal

to all knowing sufferers of rheumatism, whether muscular or of the joints, sciatica, lumbago, backache, pains in the kidneys or neuralgia pains, to write to her for a home treatment which has repeatedly cured all of these tortures. She feels it her duty to send it to all sufferers FREE. You cure yourself at home, as thousands will testify, no change of climate being necessary. This simple discovery banishes uric acid from the blood, loosens the stiffened joints, purifies the blood, and brightens the eyes, giving elasticity and tone to the whole system. If the above interests you, for proof address Mrs. M. Summers, Box 195, South Bend, Ind.

$15 95 UPWARD
ON TRIAL
Fully Guaranteed

American CREAM SEPARATOR

A SOLID PROPOSITION to send new, well made, easy running, perfect skimming separator for 15.95. Skims warm or cold milk making heavy or light cream. Bowl is a sanitary marvel, easily cleaned. ABSOLUTELY ON APPROVAL. Gears thoroughly protected. Different from this picture, which illustrates our large capacity machines. Western orders filled from western points. Whether they are large or small write for handsome free catalog. Address: AMERICAN SEPARATOR CO., Box 31413 Bainbridge, N. Y.

AGENTS $6 a Day

Should be easily made selling our Concentrated Non-Alcoholic Food Flavors, Soaps, Perfumes and Toilet Preparations. Over 100 kinds, put up in collapsible tubes. Ten times the strength of bottle extracts. Every home in city or country is a possible customer. Entirely new, quick sellers. Good repeaters. Not sold in stores. No competition. 100 per cent. profit to agents. Little or no capital required. Bring out sample case for workers. Start now while it's new. Write today—a post card will do—FREE for full particulars.

AMERICAN PRODUCTS CO., 4190 Third St., Cincinnati, O.

asked the people to examine the body of which they were members and see where and when they began. I asked him, in the beginning, if he would not dispense with the organ during the debate, telling him that I had conscientious scruples as to its use. He said he would use it while he was affirming and would leave it off when I was in the lead. But when we came to the second proposition, they did not want to leave it off. I called their attention to the agreement. It looked like they wanted to close the debate. My moderator wanted me to go on, anyway. I said no; that I could sacrifice the opportunity, but not my faith. They saw the effect and let us go on without the organ. Wooldridge said he did not see how I could have "conscientious scruples" about the organ. I told him he had admitted the church of Christ to be the right church, that Christ was the architect; and that if he would show me where Christ had ever put the organ in the "blue prints," I would have no scruples about using it. But Christ put the organ and mourner's bench in the same verse. He said I had set up the church all right, but that I was not a member of it; I was not a Christian. He told his experience, how he had worked himself up to a certain point, "then he got it." I told him that I knew I was a Christian, for I had two witnesses to the fact—God's Spirit and my spirit (Rom. 8: 16); but he had only one witness, and that his own spirit, while God's Spirit testified that he was not a Christian—"not of works, lest any man should boast" (Eph. 2: 9), and he was boasting of the fact that he had worked himself through. Paul said: "Not by works of righteousness which we have done, but according to his mercy he saved us, by the washing of regeneration, and renewing of the Holy Ghost." (Tit. 3: 5.) Wesley said the "laver of regeneration" was baptism. So God, Paul, and Wesley all cut him out; for he had only works, and not Christian baptism.

On the third day they tried to shout us out. Wooldridge never took up his time in a single speech. The first few days he would sing at the close; but I made fun of him and he quit singing. He said he had expected to bring his stenographer with him, but he got sick and left him at Jamestown. He said he did wish he had him; he would so like to see one of my speeches in print. I told him I guessed the sickness of his stenographer was providential; but, to accommodate him, I proposed that we repeat this debate at Jamestown, and that I would pay half the price for his stenographer, and, if he wanted it in book form, I would pay half that. He said: "All right"

Few people think there will be any Jamestown debate.

Several brethren were present from over the county. I think if brethren could have been present at this debate and seen conditions, what we have to contend with, they would gladly support a man to help in this work.

A Nervous Breakdown.

no matter how trivial it appears, may be the beginning of the end of you. The heart and nerves are so closely connected that nothing can affect the nerves without affecting the heart. A shattered nervous system means a weak heart. If you are troubled with palpitation, short breathing, weak and irregular pulse, sleeplessness, swollen ankles, pains on either side of the chest, or the many other symptoms of a nervous breakdown, take "Reno-vine," the best of nerve tonic, and build up your nervous system. For sale by the best dealers everywhere. Price, fifty cents and one dollar. Manufactured by Van Vleet-Mansfield Drug Company, Memphis, Tenn.

Revivalist Tells of Relief from Pain.

St. John the Divine, in his vividly drawn picture of heaven, as his closing and most convincing argument of making this assertion St. John felt its glories, states: "And there shall be no more pain." (Rev. 21: 22.) In that no more glorious prospect could be placed before the human mind.

Pain saps our strength in the battle of life. It is the strongest helper of disease.

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills bring wonderful relief from all pain. For the past twenty years these pills have been increasing in popularity until now they are the most generally used remedy for use.

The Rev. R. M. Bentley, of Shelbyville, Ind., the popular revivalist, has the following to say about these pills: "I feel it my duty to suffering humanity to say something in regard to Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills. I consider them a Godsend. For myself, I fail to find words to express my gratitude for the relief that they bring. Hundreds of times when it seemed the pain was too great to allow me to go on the platform, I have found in them a sweet relief. I have used them for over ten years, and always tell others about the benefit that can be derived from them."

If you suffer from any pain, purchase a box; and if you are not perfectly satisfied, return the empty box to your druggist and he will be glad to give you your money back.

MILES MEDICAL COMPANY, Elkhart, Ind.

Keep the Babies Fat and Well.

"Mamma's" Dr. Doran's Worm Remedy expels worms whole, alive. Purely vegetable. Bottles, twenty-five cents, by mail. Agent dealers wanted. Doran Drug Company, Paducah, Ky.

Subscribe for the Bible Study Helper. Sixty cents per year.

The Mission of the Church.

BY H. W. JONES.

The mission of the church is three-fold—viz.:

1. To aid the poor. (Acts 2: 42-45; 4: 34, 35; 6: 1-6; 11: 27-30.) Therefore the church of Jesus Christ is the only "aid society" ordained of God. Then away with all religious "aid" societies and organizations of men and women to feed the poor! And to hasten this, let the church do her duty along this line.

2. To preach the gospel. (Acts 8: 4; Eph 3: 8-11; Phil 2: 14-16; 1 Tim. 3: 15.) Therefore the church is God's only "missionary society" to disseminate the truth among the lost of Adam's race. Then away with all of man's organized missionary societies to preach the gospel! The church of God is the only society needed for such work; other societies are only burdensome machinery.

3. To glorify God both here and hereafter. (Eph. 3: 20, 21; Rom. 15: 7; 2 Cor. 1: 20; Phil. 2: 9-11.) Therefore it is dangerous for us to attempt to glorify God through any other institution than that of the church of Jesus Christ. Our eternal welfare above depends upon our filling the mission God has assigned us here below. Then let us be faithful. Let us watch and pray, lest we enter into temptation and get into something God has not authorized us to do. Let us work and be content with things as revealed in God's holy word.

Standing for the Right.

BY BATSSELL BAXTER.

There is a very fine example of heroism in the thirty-sixth chapter of Isaiah. Hezekiah began to reign when he was twenty-five years old. Judah had followed her sister, Israel, into idolatry and crime. The land had been steeped in crime from the throne to the cottage of the peasant—crime against God and against man.

Most of the kings before this young man had been wicked men. His father was a bad king and a wicked man. But Hezekiah was a good man. He was the best king Judah ever had. When he came to the throne, the land bristled with idols and idol groves dotted the hilltops. The altar at Jerusalem had fallen into disuse and God's temple was in ruins. Other gods now claimed the devotion of the people and foreign kings levied tribute.

1,000 Subscribed in One Month.

"There's a Reason."

Why the People Want the Bible Study Helper.

A new monthly magazine containing the best thoughts of the best books focused on the lessons. Carefully selected illustrations from all available sources. Special departments devoted to teachers, boys and girls, and home study.

WHAT THEY SAY.

"Indescribably good." "Like food to a hungry soul." "A fine piece of work." "Fills a place not filled by any other magazine." "Comments on international lessons are excellent." "Every teacher and advanced student should have it."

COSTS VERY LITTLE.

Price, single copy, sixty cents a year; five or more copies to same address, fifty cents each.

Send Your Order to

McQUIDDY PRINTING COMPANY,

317-319 FIFTH AVENUE, NORTH,

NASHVILLE, TENN.

Hezekiah destroyed the temples and demolished the idols. He cleansed and repaired the temple at Jerusalem and called the people back to the service of God. He stopped the tribute to the king of Assyria. The Assyrians promptly invaded the country and laid siege to Jerusalem. Hezekiah at first weakened and was almost on the point of yielding. Then his manhood came back to him and he stood firm.

The Assyrian demand for a renewal of the tribute was a cover for the real purpose to destroy Jerusalem and enslave the Jews. God has no use and the devil has no respect for the man who will not take a stand. Satan will use the tribute of the faltering heart, but all the while he goes right on in his eternal purpose to enslave and destroy the soul.

Hezekiah was surrounded by almost innumerable hosts of enemies. By all military calculations, Jerusalem would have fallen in a few days. Yet he knew he was right. With faith and determination in his heart, he poured out his soul to God in prayer and went right on doing the right.

Many nations have risen and have fallen. Much history has been written and forgotten. And so it will be for many generations to come, perhaps. Generations to come will in all probability face the same temptations that we are facing this day. Some will fall. But throughout the ages men will remember the courage of Hezekiah, a man who dared to do the right, and will take courage in times of trial. It is always safe to do the right.

It is never safe under any circumstances to do the wrong. The right side is the safe side, no matter who is on the other side.

To Drive Out Malaria and Build Up the System.

take the old standard Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic. You know what you are taking, as the formula is printed on every label, showing it is quinine and iron in a tasteless form. The quinine drives out malaria, and the iron builds up the system. 50 cents.

JACOBS & COMPANY
SPECIAL ADVERTISING AGENTS
PRINTERS DESIGNERS PHOTO ENGRAVERS ELECTROTYPERS
Catalogues — a Specialty
HOME OFFICE: CLINTON, S.C.

FREE DIAMOND RING OFFER
Just to advertise our famous Hawaiian In. Diamonds—the greatest discovery the world has ever known. We will send absolutely free this 1 1/2 carat ring set with a 1-1/2 Hawaiian In. Diamond—in beautiful ring case postage paid. If this is satisfactory pay postmaster $1.50 to cover postage, boxing, advertising, handling, etc. If not satisfactory return at our expense and money refunded. Only 1,000 rings given away. Send no money. Answer quick. Send size of finger.
KRAUTH & REED, DEPT. 38,
MASONIC TEMPLE, CHICAGO

GIRL COULD NOT WORK

How She Was Relieved from Pain by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Taunton, Mass.—"I had pains in both sides and when my periods came I had to stay at home from work and suffer a long time. One day a woman came to our house and asked my mother why I was suffering. Mother told her that I suffered every month and she said, 'Why don't you buy a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?' My mother bought it and the next month I was so well that I worked all the month without staying at home a day. I am in good health now and have told lots of girls about it."—Miss CLARICE MORIN, 22 Russell Street, Taunton, Mass.

Thousands of girls suffer in silence every month rather than consult a physician. If girls who are troubled with painful or irregular periods, backache, headache, dragging-down sensations, fainting spells or indigestion would take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a safe and pure remedy made from roots and herbs, much suffering might be avoided.

Write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. (confidential) for free advice which will prove helpful.

PELLAGRA

Cured Or You Pay Nothing

I have cured—cured to stay cured—90% of all who have taken my Pellagra Cure. What I have done for others I GUARANTEE to do for you or my treatment will cost you nothing. Highly endorsed by Physicians, Bankers, Ministers, County Officials and others. If you doubt, write any official or merchant in Walker County. No interference with work—no restrictions on your eating.

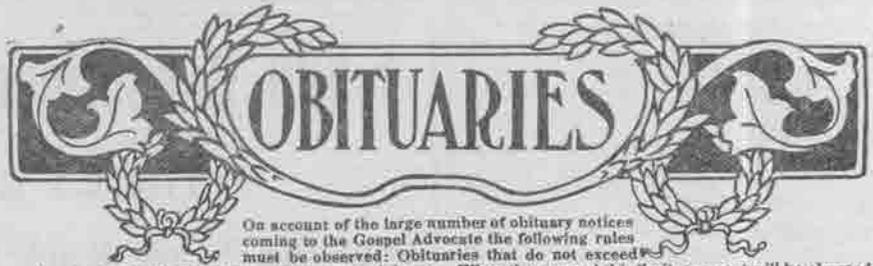

SYMPTOMS are: Hands red like sunburn; sore mouth; throat, tongue and lips flaming red; much mucus and choking; indigestion and nausea; diarrhea or constipation; mind affected and many other symptoms. No matter what anyone tells you about FREE Book Pellagra, write for my which fully explains my theory of the cause, prevention and cure of this dreaded disease—full of interesting facts which I have proven beyond doubt. Also contains full particulars of my remarkable offer of NO CURE—NO PAY. Free diagnosis to anyone sending symptoms. Send no money but write today!

Dr. W. J. McCrary, Dept 228 Carbon Hill, Alabama
"Show this to some unfortunate sufferer!"

TRY THE OLD RELIABLE

WINTERSMITH'S CHILL TONIC

For MALARIA CHILLS & FEVER
A FINE GENERAL STRENGTHENING TONIC

On account of the large number of obituary notices coming to the Gospel Advocate the following rules must be observed: Obituaries that do not exceed one hundred and fifty words are published free of charge. When they exceed this limit, one cent will be charged for every additional word. Payment must accompany notice or else it will be reduced to one hundred and fifty words. Poetry will not be printed.

Jinkins.

Kitty Mallard was born on February 26, 1842. She was married to W. C. Jinkins on December 3, 1867, and to this union three children were born—Mrs. Laura McBride, Mrs. Betty Ferrels, and Britton Jinkins. Her husband and children survive her. Sister Jinkins obeyed the gospel in 1871 under the preaching of Brother Bolan. She was afflicted for over twenty years. She suffered much, but often called for the writer to read the Bible and sing and pray. She knew her friends up to within a short time before the end. She was a kind companion, an affectionate mother, a good neighbor, and a Christian woman. The writer tried to comfort the bereaved family and sorrowing friends at the funeral services.

GEORGE W. GILBERT.

Taylor.

The older people are fast passing away. I here record the death of Brother John S. Taylor, who died at Lynchburg, Tenn., on January 21, 1916, in the eighty-fifth year of his age, and his brother, Marion, who died near there some two years before, near seventy-five years old. Both were born and grew to manhood near Lynchburg, remained unmarried, and spent most of their lives there. John, when barely grown, at the time of the gold excitement, went West, driving an ox team through the Rockies. He assisted in the formation of the State of Oregon; was twice a member of the Legislature; was urged to become a candidate for Congress, but declined to do so, having decided to return to his old home. This he did in 1875. In his young manhood he became a member of the Methodist Church, and lived faithful as such until some fifteen years before his death, when he identified himself with the church of Christ. A man of a purer life and a higher type of a Christian gentleman I have scarcely ever known. Marion became a member of the church at Lynchburg in young manhood and was active in its work until a few years before his death, when business arrangements carried him to Lois, a few miles away, where, in cooperation with others, he assisted in the formation of the most excellent church there. The two brothers were much associated, had many traits in common, were both my friends fast and true, and I have associated them together in this sketch, a token of my love for them as Christian brethren.

J. D. FLOYD.

Mack.

On March 3, 1916, the sad news came that Brother Mack had fallen from the barn loft and was badly hurt.

He died on Monday, March 6, at 7 A.M. Brother Mack was one of the old settlers of Phillips County, Ark. He came from Germany when but sixteen years old, leaving all of his folks in the old country. He lived two years in the North, and came to Arkansas in 1864, and had lived here ever since. He obeyed the gospel thirty-five years ago under the preaching of Brother Townsel, and lived a consistent Christian life until his death. While stammering of tongue because of his nativity and early education, yet he was ever ready to do all he could to advance the cause of his Master. He had been an elder in the church for many years. He served at Cypret until about a year ago, when we established a congregation near where he lived, and he was placed as elder in it. He will long be remembered in this community. All the preaching brethren who have preached here will remember Brother Mack, for he was truly the preacher's friend. Brother Patterson and the writer tried to speak words of comfort and cheer to the bereaved ones; and while Brother Mack had no earthly kin to mourn for him, yet few have had so many that really felt the loss as did the friends of Brother Mack. It seems, as we pen these few lines in memory of him, that we can almost hear the words used by him in the closing of all prayers, "Where dare will be no parting dare;" and we can realize, if we shall live as he lived until death, that we shall meet him again in that land where there truly will be no parting. P. D. LAWSON.

Johns.

Tongue cannot express the sadness I feel while writing this in memory of a lovable woman—Sister Georgiana Johns (wife of Joe Johns), who died at her home near Walter Hill, on March 10, 1916. She was born on April 22, 1864. She was born into the family of God about fourteen years ago, and lived a consecrated member of the church of Christ all these years. She was highly esteemed by all who knew her. To know her was to love her. Hers was a beautiful life. She seemed to live for the pleasure of others, and always looked on the bright side of everything. She possessed many lovable traits; among which were kindness, cheerfulness, mercy, and love. She was cheerful even in the face of death, and manifested a tender consideration for her husband and son. She always met one with a smile on her face and was always kind to all who came in contact with her. But could she speak, she would not have me say that she had no sin, for that would be contrary to God's word, as it says: "If we say that we have no sin, we deceive ourselves, and the truth is not in us." But she was ever ready and willing to confess her sins, knowing she had a Father above, who was faithful and just to forgive her her sins, and to cleanse her from all unrighteousness. She knew that while traveling this uneven journey of life every one must go to his own place, and here in this life she decided whether that place shall be good or evil. She prepared in this life for the life eternal. Let us weep not, dear ones, for our loving sister, who is not dead, but asleep in Jesus.

Mrs. OSCAR JOHNS.

Lovell.

Edward S. Lovell, son of R. G. and S. E. Lovell, of Pegram, Tenn., Route No. 2, was born on April 2, 1887, and died on March 4, 1916, making him twenty-eight years, eleven months, and two days old at the time of his death. He had been in feeble health for about six years. His was a firm, gentle, and cheerful disposition, and in whatever he purposed to do he was ambitious and faithful. He received a business education at the Dickson Normal College, Dickson, Tenn., and held a position as stenographer for the Louisville and Nashville Railway Company at the West Nashville freight depot. He was baptized into Christ in the summer of 1905 by M. S. Buford, and, having arisen from the watery grave to walk in newness of life, he zealously sought the things above till the day of his death. It can be truly said of him that he delighted in the law of the Lord, and thereon he meditated day and night. He loved the cause of Christ and shrank not from any task he considered a duty to perform. He loved the members of the church and was a leader of a class in Bible study. The surviving members of the family and the church will miss his gentle admonitions and feeble efforts to instruct in the Scriptures, but they are consoled in the fact that he was faithful to the cause he so dearly loved and "died on duty." His last days were without a struggle, and he calmly, peacefully, and serenely passed from time into eternity. Long will his brothers, sisters, and father remember the "object" of their tenderest care which has been taken from them. It is hoped that they will be strengthened in purpose to battle for the right through life.

Are You Out of Sorts,

impatient, melancholy, pessimistic, down on the world? If so, your liver is out of shape. Healthy people look at the world through rosy glasses. Buy a bottle of Plantation Chill and Fever Tonic and Liver Invigorator—price, only fifty cents—and watch your spirits pick up. It cleanses and invigorates your sluggish liver and puts you on your feet again. No arsenic and no calomel. Purely a vegetable compound.

For sale everywhere. Manufactured by Van Vleet-Mansfield Drug Company, Memphis, Tenn.

Church Chime Bells
Memorial Bells a Specialty.
McShane Bell Foundry Co., Baltimore, Md., U.S.A.

THE FIRM FOUNDATION.

The Firm Foundation, of Austin, Texas, is a weekly religious periodical that has taken its place in many thousand loyal Christian homes as a household necessity. During the thirty-two years and more of its existence its close adherence to the word of God and its acknowledged fairness in handling religious issues has won for it such an appreciation that you might as well talk to many housewives about getting rid of their clocks or sewing machines as to suggest that they might get along without the Firm Foundation. Below will be found a few words from thousands regularly received at our office:

I mean to help you push the paper this year. Our brethren should rally for the paper and make it a power for good.—W. F. Ledlow.

The Firm Foundation is as sound as a dollar—really too strong for a weak Christian.—Stella Stewart.

I will get all the subscribers I can for the Firm Foundation. I believe the Firm Foundation is the best paper published in the brotherhood.—A. C. Huff.

I love the paper next to the Book. I am sure that there is not any one who loves the Firm Foundation and the cause it is striving for more than myself. I have many words of praise for yourself and the grand old Firm Foundation.—A. J. Lay.

We have read the Firm Foundation ever since it was first published. The paper and the Bible is all the preaching we have.—P. J. Rogers.

The Firm Foundation is always a welcome visitor in our home. I wish it success during 1916.—W. C. Todd.

I think the Firm Foundation gets better every issue.—J. R. Rogers.

I have read the paper for the past twenty years. I love the paper, and hope always to read it.—Mrs. A. A. Hunt.

I think the Firm Foundation is fine. I am certainly well pleased with it. It has splendid writers, and is loyal to the cause and His church. I think it should be in every home. I expect to keep it coming to my home as long as I live.—Rebecca Rice.

I don't see how I could get along without the Firm Foundation. To my mind, it is the best paper published. It stays with the Bible.—T. M. James.

I think the paper grows better all the time.—Mrs. W. M. Hicks.

I want to say a few words for the Firm Foundation. I think it is a grand and good paper. We could not do without it.—Mrs. Anna Moore.

I like the Firm Foundation fine, and I do not want it stopped.—H. W. Southern.

It is the best paper in the world to us, and I don't intend to do without it as long as I can get it.—M. F. Blanton.

I have been reading the Firm Foundation for more than thirty years. I will send you my renewal before long.—J. C. Watson.

Continue the Firm Foundation to my address. There is no paper I love so well. It is getting better all the time. I wish everybody would read it.—R. W. Breedlove.

I inclose one dollar for renewal of subscription to the Firm Foundation. I aim to take the paper as long as I live.—H. O. George.

We love the Firm Foundation, and cannot do without it.—Bertha Poindester.

I can't do without the Firm Foundation. It is the best paper I have ever read.—S. H. Shelton.

I inclose one dollar, for which please advance my subscription one year. The Firm Foundation gets better every day.—Homar A. Gay.

I am working up renewals, and aim to make a clean sweep of our town.—L. C. Clevenger.

I don't believe in waiting till you are dead to scatter white roses, so I am writing. I received my first issue on January 1, 1916, and can truthfully say that it is the best paper published.—Mrs. Alta Hufstader.

I am very much interested in the work the Firm Foundation is doing, and I am going to do all I can for it.—Joseph W. Peacock.

I am inclosing one dollar for my renewal for the Firm Foundation another year. I cannot do without it. I enjoy reading it above all other papers.—Mrs. M. B. Haagan.

I am inclosing a dollar for renewal for the Firm Foundation. Its weekly visits to our home are a feast for my soul.—Mrs. Dora Oden.

I appreciate the many good articles in the Firm Foundation.—J. P. Crockett.

I inclose one dollar for the Firm Foundation for another year. I am glad to say the Firm Foundation is still improving.—J. J. Day.

I inclose a dollar for the Firm Foundation for my mother, Mrs. Kate Hedge. She says it is the best paper published in the interest of primitive Christians. Well, I think so myself.—J. W. Hedge.

Reader, help us circulate the Firm Foundation. One dollar a year is the price of subscription. We are sending nice premiums in books to all who send us two or more yearly subscribers at one time. These may be renewals or new subscribers.

FIRM FOUNDATION PUBLISHING HOUSE AUSTIN, TEXAS

BOOK AND TRACT PRINTING

WE are especially prepared to set the type, make the plates, and print and bind books of any size in any style. Give us the approximate number of words in your manuscript, and we will submit a dummy showing the actual size of the finished book, with an estimate of the cost.

Professional Proof Reading and First-class Workmanship Guaranteed

McQUIDDY PRINTING COMPANY

(Publishers of the Gospel Advocate and Religious Books)

317-319 FIFTH AVE., NORTH

NASHVILLE, TENN.

Renew Your Health At Nature's Fountain

Without the Expense and Loss of Time Necessary for a Visit to the Spring

THE CRISIS

There comes a time in the life of practically every man and woman when their digestive or eliminative organs, or both, fail to respond to drugs prepared by human skill. In fact drugs seem to do them about as much harm as good for their systems rebel against all drugs. These are the cases which physicians call "stubborn" and "chronic" for the reason that they persist in spite of drug treatment. I do not refer to incurable diseases such as cancer and consumption, but to that larger class of functional disorders which we meet every day, where the organs of digestion and elimination are impaired.

For this class of cases our best physicians and our big city specialists send their wealthy patients to the mineral springs where, in the great majority of cases they are permanently restored or decidedly benefited. But what about the poor man who has not the money or the busy man or woman who cannot spare the time to spend several weeks or possibly months at a health resort? Shall circumstances deny them the restoration to health which Nature has provided? Read my answer in the coupon at the bottom of this page.

I have the utmost confidence in the Shivar Mineral Spring Water for to it I owe my Restoration to Health and probably my Life. It has made me tens of thousands of friends in all parts of America and even in foreign countries, whose faces I have never seen. Yet I count them my friends for the Shivar Spring Water has bound them to me by lasting gratitude.

I ask you to read their letters, a few samples of which I publish below for your benefit, and if you find among them any encouragement as to your own health do not hesitate to accept my offer which has no limits or conditions except those shown on the coupon. If you could read the letters that come to me daily, numbering about ten thousand a year, and the vast majority of them similar to those printed below, you would not wonder that I make this offer displaying my absolute confidence in the restorative powers of Shivar Mineral Water.

INDIGESTION

Savannah, Georgia.

I was suffering with indigestion, stomach and liver disorders and all its train of horrifying phenomena for several months. I had lived on milk, soft eggs, shredded wheat, a very insufficient diet for an active working man, and, of course, from disease and starvation was in a very low state of nervous vitality and general debility. I ordered ten gallons of your Mineral Water which I used continuously, reordering when necessary, and in four months gained twenty-nine pounds, was strong and perfectly well, and have worked practically every day since. It acts as a general renovator of the system. I prescribe it in my practice, and it has in every instance had the desired effects. It is essential to use this water in as large quantities as possible, for its properties are so happily blended and in such proportion that they will not disturb the most delicate system. It is purely Nature's remedy.

A. L. R. AVANT, M. D.

La Grange, Ga., Nov. 25, 1914.

I feel it my duty to suffering humanity to make public announcement of the benefits I have derived from Shivar Spring Water. I have been a sufferer for the past twenty-five years from indigestion and dyspepsia. After one week's trial of Shivar Water I commenced to improve, and after drinking it for four weeks I gained fifteen pounds. I feel better and stronger than I have in twenty-five years. I strongly recommend this Water to any one with stomach trouble of any character, and truly believe it will cure ulcers of the stomach. I am writing this voluntarily and trust it will fall in the hands of many who are so unfortunate as to be afflicted with indigestion and nervous dyspepsia.

C. V. TRUITT,
President Unity Cotton Mills.

DYSPEPSIA

Baltimore, Md., April 30, 1914.

For many years I suffered with stomach trouble as a direct result of asthma. I consulted the very best specialist in this country, and spent quite a large sum of money in my endeavor to get relief. However, I had about come to the conclusion that my case was hopeless, but by accident I happened to get hold of one of your booklets, and decided to try Shivar Spring Water. After drinking the water for about three weeks I was entirely relieved, and since that time have suffered but little inconvenience from my trouble. I cheerfully recommend the use of your Water to any one that may be suffering from stomach trouble.

OSCAR T. SMITH,
Vice-Pres. Young & Selden Co., Bank Stationers.

Fill Out This Coupon and Mail It Today

Shivar Spring,
Box 217, Shelton, S. C.

Gentlemen: I accept your offer and enclose herewith two dollars ($2.00) for ten gallons of Shivar Mineral Spring Water. I agree to give it a fair trial in accordance with the instructions which you will send, and if I derive no benefit therefrom you agree to refund the price in full upon receipt of the two empty demijohns, which I agree to return promptly.

Name.....

P. O.

Express Office.....

Please write distinctly.

Buena Vista, Va., Oct. 2, 1914.

It is a great pleasure to tell you that your Water has been a great benefit. I may say a great blessing to me. My wife says it has helped me more than anything else I ever tried. I have been, for thirty years, a sufferer from stomach trouble.

REV. E. H. ROWE,
Co-President Southern Seminary.

RHEUMATISM

Leeds, S. C.

I have tested your Spring Water in several cases of rheumatism, chronic indigestion, kidney and bladder troubles, and in nervous and sick headaches, and find that it has acted nicely in each case, and I believe that if used continuously for a reasonable time will produce a permanent cure. It will purify the blood, relieve debility, stimulate the action of the liver, kidneys and bladder, aiding them in throwing off all poisonous matter.

C. A. CROSBY, M. D.
Florence, S. C.

I suffered with indigestion and kidney trouble, and a year ago was stricken with acute articular rheumatism; was helpless for months, and since using your Spring Water I am walking without any crutch and improving daily. Indigestion much relieved. I wish I could write Shivar Spring Water in the sky so that the world could become acquainted with it.

MRS. THEO. KUKER.

BILIOUSNESS

Greenville, S. C., Feb. 25, 1914.

For over two years, following a nervous breakdown, I have suffered with a liver so torpid that ordinary remedies were absolutely powerless. Under such circumstances, I came to Shivar Spring, and began drinking the Water. Upon advice however, the first night I took a laxative; the second night a milder one. Since then I have taken none at all. The effect of the water has been remarkable—its action on my liver most marked, and my health and spirits greatly improved. I am satisfied that the laxative, followed by the Water, was the proper treatment in my case. My condition is now perfect.

S. A. DERIEUX.

RENAL AND CYSTIC

Columbia, S. C.

I suffered for eight years with kidney trouble and inflammation of the bladder to the extent that I would have to get up during the night some five or six times. After using this water only a few days, I am entirely relieved and suffer no more effect of the trouble whatever.

J. P. D.

High Point, N. C., Oct. 6, 1914.

My wife has had a bad kidney trouble for several years. She has been using the water only about three weeks and it has already made her a new woman. Her color is much improved, her appetite is all that she could wish for, her digestion seems to be perfect. We give Shivar Springs credit for it all.

T. G. S.

GALLSTONES

Greenville, S. C.

Shivar Spring Water cured my mother of gallstones, or, I might say, it snatched her from the hospital door, as the doctors had said nothing short of an operation would do her any good. After drinking the Water she was able to get out of bed, and is today stout and healthy. I hope these few lines will be of help to some one suffering as my mother did.

W. J. STRAWN.

Williamston, N. C., Oct. 3, 1914.

My doctor said I would have to be operated on for gallstones, but since I have been drinking your water I haven't had to have a doctor.

W. H. EDWARDS.

GOSPEL ADVOCATE

MRS. WALTERS
 GREENWOOD TRUNK
 NOV 1 18

Volume LVIII. No. 17. NASHVILLE, TENN., APRIL 27, 1916. $1.50 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

CONTENTS.

"EDIFYING AS THE NEED MAY BE".....	409
OUR CONTRIBUTORS.....	411
Change of Relationship—Coming to the Light—E. H. Koch and the Church at Petersburg, Tenn.—My Trust in Him.....	414
SPIRIT OF THE PRESS.....	415
MISSIONARY.....	416
EDITORIAL.....	419
Some Questions and Answers—Union Meetings and Dancing Among Christians—Some Scriptures Explained.....	420
QUERY DEPARTMENT.....	421
AT HOME AND ABROAD.....	422
GEORGIA AND THE FAR SOUTHERN FIELD.....	423
Condemned, Yet Safe.....	424
A Few Pointers.....	425
Thorp Spring Christian College.....	426
"Deciding the Issues".....	429
OBITUARIES.....	430
Srygley—Pearson—Hamilton—Terry—Stafford—Reagan—Klingman.....	429
Commending Brother R. C. McCaleb.....	430
Reports of Funds.....	430

Entered at the post-office at Nashville, Tenn., as second-class matter. Published weekly at Nashville, Tenn.

BY A. B. LIPSCOMB

Prayers for the War to Cease.

A few Sundays ago I spoke on "The Power of a Praying Church," and during the course of the sermon urged Christians to pray for the cruel war to cease, for the President, and "for all that are in authority." Part of this lesson was printed in the Tennessean the following Monday. In a few days I received a letter from a gentleman of considerable prominence. It is not necessary for our purpose to state his name, but I herewith present his letter:

Dear Sir: Did the Nashville Tennessean of this morning [March 13] correctly report you as saying: "And, whether they believe it or not, the lesson before us indicates that there is more power in the prayers of God's people than in all the combined armies and navies of the world. Pray for the terrible warfare to cease. Pray for world-wide peace. Pray in faith, believing with all your hearts that what you pray for will come to pass. We often hear of remarkable answers to prayer. But really there is nothing remarkable about God hearing the prayers of Christians. . . . Every prayer that is a prayer gets answered." Etc.? It is true the paper reports you as saying that God answers in his way and not in ours. I want to ask you if you really believe all the above means on its face? If so, have you ever prayed in faith that the terrible war shall cease? If so, were your prayers answered? Did you ever have any one of your prayers answered? Can you specify what the prayer was, and how it was answered? How do you know that every prayer gets an answer? I am seventy-four years old and have been praying all my life, and cannot say that any one of them has been answered; and I feel sure that many of them were uttered from the heart and, so far as I know, in faith. What good does it do if I have no information that my prayers are heard and answered in God's way? What about all the millions and myriads of prayers that are uttered every day that this terrible war shall cease, or that this and that shall or shall not happen or cease? Are none of them uttered in faith? They are not answered, for the war continues. Is it God's way to have the war continued until more millions of men are killed, until more Armenians are massacred and more women are violated, until one side is exhausted and cannot longer fight? If that is God's way, there is no need to pray.

No, you cannot be correct in the above position. There is something wrong in your interpretation. The promulgator of such doctrines as the pulpit is giving forth is causing more harm, a thousandfold more, than good. The women and children and unthinking men may believe such talk, because they have been taught it by their parents and from the pulpit they also have been taught to respect, but thinking men have long ceased to believe any prayer has ever been heard and answered since the day Jesus Christ—God himself—prayed that "this cup" might pass. Can you answer my questions?

THE "HIGHER CRITIC'S" VIEW.

The author of this letter is not alone in the sentiments he expresses. He is one of many who belong to what has been termed the "school of higher criticism." They believe in God to a certain extent, but they do not believe that he answers prayer. They contend that the only value of prayer is to be found in the reflex benefit to the soul in the act of praying. Such a claim is absurd and ridiculous. We might as well say that the sole benefit of eating is to strengthen the muscles of the jaw or that the sole benefit of breathing is to strengthen the muscles of the chest. Just suppose that a physician should advise a patient to take a long walk every morning to a certain spring in order to drink of its water, knowing all the while that the spring was dry, but expecting the benefit to come from the walk. No physician would thus trifle with a patient. Nor would God command his people to pray, and then say: "It makes no difference as to results, whether you pray or not." Our God is not that kind of a Father, nor is he that kind of a logician. The reflex influence of prayer on the soul is impossible unless we are assured that God hears and answers it. There can be no earnestness and fervency, no spirit in it, on the part of him who prays without firm belief in its efficacy. Take away that faith, and prayer is a pure formality, an unmeaning pronunciation of idle words. It is the "effectual fervent prayer of a righteous man" that "availeth much."

The first condition to all prayer is faith, and prayer is impossible without it. "He that cometh to God must believe that he is, and that he is a rewarder of them that seek after him." The man who says that God doesn't hear or doesn't pay any attention, and yet who approaches and prays God to give him what he doesn't believe he will give him, flings gratuitous insult into God's face, and is the best illustration I know of what men call a "pious fraud."

MAKES BIBLE HISTORY A MYTH.

To doubt the efficacy of prayer is to doubt God and his word. It gives the lie to hundreds of passages. It makes God a willful deceiver and falsifier. It makes the history of his people from the beginning until now a myth. It changes the whole character of the Bible. We read in this blessed Book that Hezekiah's piteous pleadings secured for him a fifteen-years' lease of life after God had warned him "to put his house in order." According to my critic's contention, Hezekiah would have lived fifteen years longer without that prayer. We read that Elijah wished to blight the land of Israel because of its own and its king's idolatry, to restore the widow of Zarephath's son, to bring down fire from heaven to consume his sacrifice on Carmel, to end the three and one-half years of drought with rain, and that in all of these matters he had recourse to God in prayer, and not once did the answer fail. According to my critic's contention, this part of the Bible is purely mythological. Furthermore, Abraham, Jacob, Hannah, David, Solomon, Elisha, Daniel, and Cornelius talked to God in prayer as a dutiful child talks to a considerate father, and always found the Lord merciful and gracious, long-suffering, and abundant in goodness and truth. But, according to my critic's condition, they only imagined they did. Jesus said: "Ask, and it shall be given you; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you: for every one that asketh receiveth; and he that seeketh findeth; and to him that knocketh it shall be opened." But, according to my critic's contention, Jesus was only "talking through his hat." His contention places the apostle Paul in the ridiculous attitude of exhorting the saints to "pray without ceasing," without any promise or prospect of a single one of their prayers ever being answered. Again, when the same apostle exhorted the saints to pray for himself and collaborators, "that the word of the Lord may run and be glorified," he must have known, according to this species of "higher criticism," that there was no connection between the prayers of the saints and the success which might follow the preaching.

WHY I PRAYED FOR THE WAR TO CEASE.

But he asks: "Have you ever prayed in faith that the terrible war may cease?" Yes; and the following exhortation, with many others, is the foundation of that faith: "I exhort therefore, first of all, that supplications, prayers, intercessions, thanksgivings, be made for all men; for kings and all that are in high place; that we may lead a tranquil and quiet life in all godliness and gravity." (1 Tim. 2: 1, 2.) In applying this passage, we should note that the purpose of such intercession is that God's people "may lead a tranquil and quiet life in all godliness and gravity." Can they do this better in the midst of a land running red with carnal warfare, or in one over which the white clouds of peace gently float? Shall our prayer for kings and those in high places be for them to kill each other and their subjects, or shall it be a prayer for "peace on earth, good will to men?" Common sense should supply the answer.

WAS MY PRAYER ANSWERED?

But my critic wishes to know if my prayer for the war to cease was answered. Not yet. But is that any reason why I should cease praying for the thing God has commanded me to pray for? It may be that, for some wise purpose beyond our knowledge, God will permit this cruel war to continue for some time. Sometimes God answers a prayer by denying it. The story is told of a famous man, that when he was a child in the arms of his nurse he strove to touch the stove. He cried and screamed because she kept him away from it. His mother, a thoughtful woman, was sitting near, and said: "Let him touch it. He won't want to do it again." For a long time men have been preparing for this awful war. They have planned for it and they have craved it. With these facts before me, I can, with my limited vision and knowledge of God's mighty purposes, very readily understand how he can permit them to fight and burn and mark and scar each other for a season, that they may come to a better understanding of his grace. We should always qualify our petitions to God with the same words: "Not my will, but thine, be done." We have the positive assurance that God will hear our prayers if offered in harmony with his will. Such prayers are always pleasing to him, although he may not answer them at the time and in the way we may desire. We read in Acts 12: 5 that "Peter therefore was kept in the prison: but prayer was made earnestly of the church unto God for him." Now we do not know what they were expecting God to do for Peter in answer to their prayer, but we do know that they did not expect what they received, for they were astonished at Peter's deliverance. God answered their prayers in a different way from what they expected. Why may not such be true of our prayers to-day? If every saint on earth should pray three times a day for the war to cease and it should not cease at once, that would not prove that it was wrong for them to pray or that they did not pray in faith.

Let us remember that "God is never in a hurry," even though we are. "God moves in a mysterious way his wonders to perform," and "one day with the Lord is as a thousand years." Two thousand years ago Jesus Christ prayed that all of those who believed on him through the word "may be one even as we are one." Has that prayer been answered? Not yet. But do you think Jesus Christ is discouraged and has given up hope? No—a thousand times, no. He understands that, according to the divine computation, only two days have passed. Will that prayer be answered? Yes—a thousand times, yes. Why? Because Jesus Christ prayed in harmony with his will.

HOW DO I KNOW IT WAS ANSWERED?

My critic further asks: "Did you ever have any one of your prayers answered?" Yes. David said: "Delight thyself also in Jehovah; and he will give thee the desires of thy heart." (Ps. 37: 4.) I know when I delight myself in the Lord, and I have his word that when I do I receive the desire of my heart. Of course the desires of my heart are that his will, and not mine, be done. And again he asks: "Can you specify what the prayer was, and how it was answered?" Yes. But suppose I can do neither. Would that prove it wrong to pray and that none of my prayers are answered? Christians are taught to pray for their daily bread. (Matt. 6: 11.) Now, when they receive their daily bread, are they not to regard it as an answer to their prayer? It takes money to carry on the Lord's work; and when a Christian prays for prosperity in business that he may be able to help in this work, and prosperity comes, is he not to regard that prosperity as an answer to prayer? If not, why not? When he prays for the Lord to bless him with health and opportunity for doing good, and these things come, is he not to regard them as an answer to his prayer? When the disciples prayed that God might open unto Paul and his collaborators a door for the word (Col. 4: 2), and that door was opened, did they not have the right to believe that it was in answer to their prayers? Since you have asked me to specify from my own experience, I beg to say that I have prayed to God to open a door of usefulness for me to preach his word, and more doors have been opened to me than I could possibly enter. Have I not the right to believe that they were in answer to that specific prayer? When God tells me to pray for a thing and that very thing transpires, what more "information" does one need that his prayers are answered?

OUT OF JOINT WITH SECULAR AND CIVIL HISTORY.

But this man's claim not only does violence to God's Book, but it is out of joint with secular and civil history, too. Long before the days of the Reformation, God's children prayed for an open Bible and for deliverance from persecution. In God's good time and way that prayer was answered. We have the open Bible and we worship him undisturbed and unafraid. During the darkest days of the Civil War, Stonewall Jackson, standing in front of his tent and looking down over the mass of two fighting armies, offered a prayer like this: "O God, bring quick victory to one army or the other. Settle this cruel warfare, and send us back to our homes, to our God-given purpose of winning men to Jesus Christ." I do not say that the great general's prayer was offered in harmony with God's will, but I do say that it was the substance of what many devout Christians prayed for. It did not appear just then that the prayer would be answered. Most of the people, like the man who criticized my sermon, doubted and ridiculed the idea, ascribing such a sentiment to women and children and unthinking men. But now we live under one flag, the Blue and the Gray hold their reunions together, and my critic enjoys the fruits of a prayer that was answered. The history of his own people stands as a rebuke to his doubting heart. I wrote him that I had answered his questions scripturally and specifically, not merely to demonstrate my ability to do so, but in the hope that he may be saved from his prayerless condition. He writes: "I am seventy-four years old and have been praying all my life, and cannot say that any one of them has been answered." Think of it! But how could he expect an answer, when the whole tenor of his letter indicates the lack of the first essential to profitable prayer, which is faith in prayer itself? How could he ask God to honor him, when he actually charges those who believe in prayer with promulgating doctrines that are "causing more harm, a thousandfold more, than good?"

When the great East Nashville fire had done its worst, one of our members became solicitous for an old colored woman, the mother of his cook, whose religious tendencies were rather pronounced. He journeyed across the river in his automobile to see how the old lady fared. In telling me about it, he said: "I found that her little home had been burned; but, so far from being downcast, she was in the middle of a prayer meeting." So far as my soul's condition is concerned, I would rather be in that old negro woman's shoes than in those of the higher critic, for a man who has long ceased to believe any prayer has ever been answered since the days of Jesus Christ has long ceased to believe in God and is of all men most pitiable.

FLOWERS BLOOM ON THE BATTLEFIELD.

George Alfred Townsend tells of a visit he paid not long since to the ground upon which the battle of Bull Run was fought: "I saw pure, delicate flowers growing out of the empty ammunition boxes, and a wild rose thrusting up its graceful head through the top of a broken drum, which doubtless sounded its last charge in that battle; I saw a sweet-scented scarlet verbena peeping out of a fragment of an exploded shell, in which strange pot it was planted." Even so shall the beautiful and graceful ever grow out of the horrid and terrible things that transpire in this changing, but ever-advancing, world. Men shall rise "on stepping-stones of their dead selves" to higher and better lives.

Do I believe in praying for the war to cease? Yes. Do

I believe the prayer will be answered? Yes. How strongly do I believe it? As strongly as I believe in God. And I close the lesson with the words of Robert Browning, written when he faced the sunset and at a time when his faith in prayer was challenged:

"Unanswered yet?" Faith cannot be unanswered.
Her feet were firmly planted on the rock;
Amid the wildest storm she stands undaunted,
Nor quails before the loudest thunder shock.
She knows Omnipotence has heard her prayer,
And cries: "It shall be done, sometime, somewhere."

Change of Relationship.

BY D. L. HAILE.

To the giddy and thoughtless this is an event that is scarcely worthy of record, but to those who believe that "it is not all of life to live, nor all of death to die," it is the most important step in life. As for myself, this step was not taken until I had seriously considered the cost of such a step. Born and reared a sensationalist and confirmed in the modern Holiness faith, my action meant more to me than simply changing from one social circle to another. There are issues involved in such a step that determine the destiny of souls. I realized that I was no longer in bondage to the enemy of souls, but, like the Israelites of old, after passing through the waters of the Red Sea, I could sing the song of deliverance and rejoice in the liberty wherewith Christ hath made us free. When asked to give a reason for the hope that was in me, I no longer found it necessary to indulge in such doubtful expressions as "I think," "I feel," "I hope" that I am a child of God; but I could arise to the highest point in human experience and say, "I know." I could make this statement upon the same authority as that by which the house of Israel could know assuredly that that same Jesus whom they had crucified and slain is now "both Lord and Christ;" upon the same testimony by which Paul could say: "We know that if our earthly house of this tabernacle were dissolved, we have a building of God, a house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens." With abiding confidence in the word of God, which had been confirmed by signs and wonders of such magnitude that no human power, supplemented by all the "signs and lying wonders" (2 Thess. 2: 8, 9) of the infernal regions, has ever been able to duplicate or to overthrow the truth which they confirm (Heb. 2: 1-6), I could say: "I know the time and place when and where I received the forgiveness of all past sins and was given a place among them which are sanctified in Christ Jesus. (1 Cor. 1: 22.) I passed from sectarian superstition to gospel light." This, however, does not mean that I left behind me truths that I had already learned, neither does it mean that I departed from any righteous act I ever did. I only consider that I was lawfully divorced from a system of religion that prevents men and women who embrace it from rendering full obedience to the gospel of the Son of God. To one and all who take this step it means a full and complete surrender of our will to the will of the One who died for us. We yield ourselves as servants of righteousness (Rom. 6: 16) and dedicate ourselves (James 4: 8), of our own free will, to the service of the Lord. We were wooed by the love of Christ, and with abiding confidence in his word we obey his will and trust him implicitly for his promises.

I could now meet upon the first day of the week with those of like precious faith and commemorate the Savior's dying love in the institution of his own appointment. I could lift my voice in humble praise and devotion to the God of heaven, through the medium of song and prayer, without the aid of human systems. It was now my privilege, as well as my pleasure, to read and study the word of God and to become informed more fully concerning my duty as a Christian. By using the same common sense in studying the word of God as we should in all matters pertaining to the great beyond, I found that, instead of being a "sealed book," the Bible plan of salvation—how to become and live a Christian—was plain and simple, and by diligent study I was soon able to give a Bible reason for my hope; and the more I read the blessed Book, the more I was confirmed in the faith. This is a distinguishing feature between intelligent obedience to the law of Christ and the obedience rendered to the doctrines and commandments of men. Prior to my obedience to the gospel of Christ a reading of the Scriptures would disturb me; but when I yielded to the King of kings and Lord of lords, I was willing to say: "I'll go where you want me to go, dear Lord, and be what you want me to be, and do what you want me to do." Then it was a source of comfort to me to read the Bible, and, instead of being disturbed, I was confirmed in the faith.

Soon after I learned the truth and obeyed it, in spite of former friends and relatives, I began to preach, and for more than ten years I have been proclaiming the "good tidings" to a lost and dying world. Many hundred souls have been led to the light through my feeble efforts, for which I praise the Lord. I find plenty to do, but comparatively few to help. Let us do more, and the Lord will bless us.

Coming to the Light.

BY F. W. SMITH.

A writer in the Baptist Flag, under the heading, "A Number of Things," among other things, has this to say:

The mourner's-bench system denies that the gospel is the power of God unto salvation. It closes the vision to the cross and causes one to look to his own and to his friends' prayers for the blessing. Can any one believe in Christ without praying? Cannot the nonprayer believe as well as the prayer? Is not faith based on evidence which comes from God's word through the preacher?

When visiting meetings where the preachers call sinners to the mourner's bench, I am often reminded of the false prophets who agreed to test their gods with Elijah. (1 Kings 18.) They think their God is asleep, visiting, or cannot hear good, from the way they go on. What the sinner needs is to be taught in the scripture: "God, and Jesus Christ whom he hath sent." Because Jesus says: "This is life eternal, that they might know thee the only true God, and Jesus Christ, whom thou hast sent." (John 17: 3.) How may we know them? Through the written word. Of course the Spirit must open the heart, but God sees after that part. No, you need not try to get God willing. The death of Christ did that. "Being justified freely by his grace through the redemption that is in Christ Jesus; whom God hath set forth to be a propitiation through faith in his blood, to declare his righteousness for the remission of sins that are past, through the forbearance of God." (Rom. 3: 24, 25.) This is to be the preacher's message: That God is propitiated; therefore be reconciled to him.

If people knew the significance of baptism, they would not follow human leaders. "For as many of you as have been baptized into Christ have put on Christ." (Gal. 3: 27.) Paul asked the Corinthians if they were baptized unto himself, Peter, or Apollos. He points out to them the fact that if they followed any one but Christ, the one they confessed allegiance to in baptism, that divisions would be the result. (1 Cor. 1.) The only way for a church to be one, with no clefts or rents in it, is to remain loyal to their Head and Lawgiver, Jesus Christ, the Lord. Will we do it?

With a few exceptions, the above is such an improvement on Baptist doctrine that we are constrained to express a feeling of gratification, and to ask, Are the Baptists coming to the light? Does the writer of "A Number of Things" voice the sentiment of any great number of Baptists? It must be that other Baptists, including the editor of the Flag, share with him in the sentiments here expressed, as there has not been, in so far as we have seen, a single adverse criticism.

He says: "The mourner's-bench system denies that the gospel is the power of God unto salvation." This is exactly what the Baptists have been branding "Campbellism" for, lo, these many years, and we can hardly believe our own eyes to see an indorsement of it in a Baptist paper. Surely the light is breaking, and we pray that the full flood tide of divine light may sweep over our Baptist friends, opening their eyes to the simple gospel in all of its fullness. It is good and refreshing to thus witness the Baptists coming to the light, and we bid them Godspeed in their efforts to free themselves from the superstition of the mourner's-bench system of "get religion."

This new revelation to our Baptist friends is in such vivid contrast to the wild and frantic scenes of their revival meetings in the past. Listen to this: "Isn't faith based on evidence which comes from God's word through the preacher?" Of course it is, but the Baptists have contended heretofore that saving faith was wrought in the soul by a direct work of the Holy Spirit. Now if the writer of "A Number of Things" had left the matter in the simple, scriptural way he expressed it above, it would have been in perfect harmony with the truth; but he destroys the good effects of his statement by the following: "Of course the Spirit must open the heart, but God sees after that." Thus we are left to conclude that the Spirit must in a direct or immediate manner open the sinner's heart before the sinner can believe God's word. Is that it, beloved? If so, what about the multiplied thousands who do not believe God's word? Is the Spirit powerless to open their hearts? Or has he opened their hearts and they have failed to believe? Is it true that a heart on which the Spirit has exerted such a powerful and immediate influence as to "open it" will or can refuse to believe? Again, from what and to what does the Spirit open the heart of a sinner? The sinner's heart is shut against faith; and if the Spirit opens his heart, does he not open it to faith? What, then, becomes of the statement: "Isn't faith based on evidence which comes from God's word through the preacher?"

The author gives evidence of laying more stress on the significance of baptism than the average Baptist has done heretofore. "If people knew the significance of baptism, they would not follow human leaders." Now, the only way we can know the "significance" of baptism is by the significance of the language used to express it. Hence we are forced to the conclusion that it signifies to the one baptized the remission of past sins. "Repent ye, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ unto the remission of your sins." (Acts 2: 38.) Again: "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved; but he that disbelieveth shall be condemned." (Mark 16: 16.) The author of "A Number of Things" shows the "significance" of baptism by quoting: "For as many of you as have been baptized into Christ have put on Christ." (Gal. 3: 27.) This shows that baptism inducts one into Christ; and unless it can be shown that remission of sins can be had out of Christ, then the significance of baptism becomes exceedingly important. Any one, therefore, who repudiates baptism as one of the conditions of salvation is following "human leaders."

We fully agree with the author that professed followers of Christ should "remain loyal to their Head," and simply add that to set aside baptism as nonessential to salvation is to be disloyal to Christ, our Head. We not only "confess allegiance" to Christ in baptism, but we become united to him in baptism. "For in one Spirit were we all baptized into one body." (1 Cor. 12: 13.) Let the light shine more and more.

E. H. Koch and the Church at Petersburg, Tenn.

BY W. T. ROAZ.

I notice in the March number of the Tennessee Christian, a "digressive" paper published at Clarksville, Tenn., the following from E. H. Koch, editor of that paper: "We are invited back to Petersburg for another Sunday. We have not yet decided whether we will be able to go. We told you of our happy visit the fifth Sunday in January. There are splendid folks in Petersburg, and we appreciate their goodness and kindness."

I would be glad to know who invited Brother Koch back to Petersburg; in fact, who invited him there the first trip. Of my certain knowledge, the church of Christ in Petersburg did not. The elders of the church of Christ in Petersburg did not. The Sunday school or any of its teachers did not. In fact, there is not a member of the church of Christ in Petersburg who invited Brother Koch to preach in that town or even visit it. I am preaching there twice a month myself, and I know I did not invite him. In fact, I was called over the telephone by a family in the community who have in the past been members of the church at Petersburg, but at present are not, and they requested me to announce that Brother Koch would preach in our church house on the fifth Lord's day. I told them that I would leave the matter to the elders, which I did; and they decided unanimously and unhesitatingly that Brother Koch was not wanted, owing to the fact that his mission was not known. They knew he was editor of the Tennessee Christian. They knew the nature of the work done by those who patronize the Tennessee Christian, and especially its editors; that their work is divisive and destructive to the peace of congregations of disciples of Christ. The church in Petersburg is one of the strongest churches in the town, and there is not one particle of friction in the entire congregation. I never saw a band of disciples work more harmoniously in all my ministerial efforts than do they; and any minister having the slightest desire or inclination to disturb the peace of a congregation like that at Petersburg—one that is wide awake and accomplishing much in the service of God—certainly is not on a mission of peace. The fact is, Brother Koch preached in the Presbyterian church house the fifth Lord's day in January, and I am told he reported so much money from the brethren at Petersburg to his work. The church at Petersburg had absolutely no fellowship with him. They had nothing to do with getting him there and they had nothing to do with the fellowship he received, and in his reports he should be caudid enough to state facts.

The congregation at Petersburg does not invite into its pulpit any man that is laboring to divide churches over untaught questions.

I suppose this is some of the mission work that Brother Koch is doing—going into localities where there are well-organized congregations and laboring to capture them and the property that has been built by faithful men in days past, instead of going into destitute fields and preaching to men and women who are not members of the body of Christ.

We would be glad to know who invited Brother Koch back to Petersburg. Was it the Presbyterian Church that did it, or was it the member who holds his membership, not at Petersburg, but, as reported, in Cincinnati, and who worships with the different sectarian churches of Petersburg all the time and attends their Sunday schools? Does Brother Koch go into places where there are well-organized congregations, having elders and deacons, without an invitation from the elders or deacons or from the congregation itself, and then publish to the world that he had an invitation, thus leaving the impression that somebody connected with the church of Christ gave him said invitation? Is this the character of work the Tennessee Christian and Brother Koch stand for? Petersburg is not a mission field and is not in sympathy with Brother Koch's movements for all the fads and fancies.

My Trust in Him.

BY T. Q. MARTIN.

I cannot always see the way that leads
To heights above;
I sometimes quite forget He leads me on
With hand of love.
But yet I realize the path must lead me
To Immanuel's land;
And when I reach life's summit, I shall know
And understand.

I cannot always trace the onward course
My bark must take;
But, looking backward, I behold afar
Its shining wake
Illumined with God's light of love; and so
I onward go
In perfect trust that He who holds the helm
The course must know.

I cannot always understand
The Master's rule;
I cannot always do the task he gives
In life's hard school;
But I am learning with his help to solve
Them one by one;
And, when I cannot understand, to say:
"Thy will be done."

I am indebted to some unknown friend for the above beautiful little poem printed on a post card. I have received a number of clippings and poems on post cards that express my heart's feelings and aspirations far better than I could express them in my own feeble words.

I remember a verse of a hymn which we used to sing in chapel service:

Just why he tries me every day,
And lets new sorrows come my way,
I cannot tell; but this I know,
He's with me everywhere I go.

At no time in my life have sorrows come so thick and fast as in the past few weeks, and at no time in life have certain passages in God's word had such beautiful meaning as now. "My grace is sufficient for thee" means to me now what it never meant before. It matters not how dark the hour, His grace will sustain us if we lean upon him.

I am at this writing at Spencer, Tenn. This is the site of Burritt College, from whose walls have gone out some splendid men. I have not yet visited a service at the chapel, but shall do so to-morrow morning if I live. My surroundings are pleasant. The family with which I am staying are all kind to me; a number of the pupils and one of the teachers in the college board here, and they are all kind to me; but I am homesick, notwithstanding all this. One of my dear pupils of former years is an honored teacher in Burritt College, and he comes to see me every day, and this is a pleasure indeed to me. Then, each day's mail brings precious messages of love and sympathy from friends in different States, for all of which I thank God and my dear friends, and so I will trust in Him and try to be brave and do my duty.

May God help us all to labor in love and patience and trust until we reach the end of the journey, and then may we hear the "Well done, good and faithful servant."

Lay to the Oar.

"This moment, if you bend to catch the word,
A nobler thing than man has ever said
Along the currents of God's thought is sped,
And he who speaks it bravely must be heard.
Th's hour a grander work awaits your hand
Than any written in the treasured past;
Lay to the oar! the tide runs fast—runs fast—
Life's possibilities are yet unspanned."—Selected.

SPIRIT OF THE PRESS

BY J. C. McQUIDDY.

A Mistake.

There is no reason why a preacher should not have a good horse if he needs and can afford it, and no reason why the horse should not have a pedigree, but it is best to keep the pedigree and his ecclesiastical documents apart. A Methodist paper reports that an Iowa preacher, in a hurry to catch his train for conference, did not scrutinize what he thought was his report, and when it was handed in it proved to be his horse's pedigree. The comment on it was that it shamed a good many pastors' reports.—Herald and Presbyterian.

How can a Methodist preacher make a good report without the proper support from the church? Those who preach the gospel should live of the gospel. But doubtless some who preach the gospel think that Methodist preacher was extremely fortunate to have a horse with a pedigree. I am led to believe that some of these gospel preachers would be glad to have a horse even without a pedigree. What say you, brethren?

Live To-day.

Upon the pulpit of the Metropolitan Church at Washington lies the Bible from which John Wesley preached to crowds and mobs, and in later years to more orderly congregations. It was printed in 1655 and is still in a good state of preservation. Upon the flyleaf, in Mr. Wesley's handwriting, are the words: "Live to-day." How important to remember this! We cannot live in the past; tomorrow never comes; so we should live now and work in the living present. This brings to my mind the words of a greater than Wesley: "But seek ye first his kingdom, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you. Be not therefore anxious for the morrow: for the morrow will be anxious for itself. Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof." (Matt. 6: 33, 34.) Again I am reminded of other wise words: "Boast not thyself of tomorrow; for thou knowest not what a day may bring forth." (Prov. 27: 1.)

Make Good Use of Your Time.

We may safely predict one's destiny by the use he makes of his spare moments. Christ worked during the day before the night came. It is very important to seize the present opportunity. President Garfield once said:

Make the most of the present moment. No occasion is unworthy of our best efforts. God often uses humble occasions and little things to shape the course of a man's life. I might say that the wearing of a certain pair of stockings led to a complete change in my life. I had made a trip as a boy on a canal boat, and was expecting to leave home for another trip, but I accidentally injured my foot in chopping wood. The blue dye in the homemade socks poisoned the wound, and I was kept at home. A revival broke out in the neighborhood meanwhile, and I was thus kept within its influence and was converted. New desires and new purposes then took possession of me, and I was determined to seek an education that I might live more usefully for Christ."

Society and the Churches.

We have fallen upon times when religion has become popular and church membership fashionable. The Constantine conception of church life is characteristic of our day and generation. The churches were never more popular, and probably never more powerless, than at present. "I think everybody ought to belong to church" is reiterated even by those who belong to the devil. "The church is a good thing" is the cry of the good, and also the good-for-nothing. The distinction between the church and the world is, in many instances, a distinction without a difference. This lamentable state of affairs has been brought about, largely, by the "smart set" in our churches. This class has largely succeeded in establishing a single standard for the church and the world. The price of their presence has been the toleration of their scandalous social customs. Not only have their uncivilized practices lowered the spiritual life of the churches, but the tacit indorsement of the churches has served to confirm them in their customs. Charity balls and card parties for religious revenue are the order of the day. If one dares protest against their spectacular, and oftentimes putrid, performances, he is immediately informed that they are given to raise money for a worthy cause.

Many of these shows are justly noted for the showing made, and, to say the least, are sure-enough shows. Probably the palmy days of Rome rarely surpassed in suggestive vulgarity some of our modern evening (un)dress occasions. Usually, at such "social events," wine is plentiful, clothing scarce, and modesty at a premium. The landscape of bare backs and invisible shoulder straps presents a study for the landscape painter, with the paint supplied by the subject painted.

In connection with social affairs there is a problem that has perplexed us through all the years. For the life of us, we have never been able to understand why a deck of cards, a wine bottle, nimble feet, and scant attire should constitute a passport to the "best society."

Quite naturally, since the world has come into the church, the church has become worldly, and conformed rather than transformed. As a logical result, scriptural discipline has well-nigh disappeared and the world and the church dwell in peace together. And just here will likely come the next great conflict of the churches. While the conflict is on, the churches will suffer numerical and financial loss, but in the end will gain in all things that make for their spiritual peace and power. The conflict appears inevitable; and the sooner it comes, the better for all concerned.

Like Job's war horse, we snuff the battle from afar, knowing that the God of hosts is with his own. Whatever the falling away, his sheep know his voice.—Western Recorder.

The above contains much that should lead to serious reflection and earnest prayer. It is too true that the pure standard of Christian living does not prevail among church members that should. Many of the popular churches appear to be more concerned about money and numbers than they are about purity and doctrine. Seldom do the churches withdraw fellowship from persons guilty of fornication, adultery, and drunkenness. Even church members teach their children to dance and play cards in order that they may appear in the best (the worst) society. The churches must realize the necessity of looking to Christ for guidance and inspiration, and not to the world. The immoral and vicious in the churches must cease to predominate over the righteous and the pure. Those who love truth and righteousness must stand for them, even if a quarrel is provoked. There is no truce between sin and righteousness. The righteous man dare not hold his peace simply because the exposure of immorality and error arouses the resentment of the vicious. Christ unsparingly condemned evil in whatever form he found it. Those who are laboring to please Christ will not ask what will the people think about the condemnation of error, but what would God have me to do? It is important that the church be purged of timeservers and men pleasers. Ministers of the gospel should realize that the Lord holds them individually responsible for their preaching and conduct, but not for the numbers they may bring into the church. Would it not be well to labor for a pure, and not a big, church? "Wherefore he saith, Awake, thou that sleepest, and arise from the dead, and Christ shall shine upon thee." (Eph. 5: 14.)

BY J. M. McCALEB.

POSTAL INFORMATION: International post-office money orders can be bought at the rate of one per cent; but for any amount, however small, the cost will be ten cents. A check on any of the banks in America is good in Japan; personal checks are as good as any. The money itself is accepted by the banks. The ordinary postage on letters is five cents; newspapers, one cent.

ADDRESSES OF MISSIONARIES: Otoshige Fujimori, Takahagi, Kurimoto-mura, Katorigori, Shimosa, Chiba, Japan; Mr. and Mrs. J. M. McCaleb, Zoshigaya, Tokyo, Japan; Mrs. William T. Bishop, 304 West Jefferson Street, Station A, Dallas, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Vincent, 73 Myogadani, Kotoshikawa, Tokyo, Japan; Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Jelley, Jr., Satara District, Satara, British India (funds may be sent to Don Carlos Janes, 2225 Dearing Court, Louisville, Ky.); Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Armstrong-Hopkins, Berhampore, Ganjam District, India; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. McHenry, Satara District, Satara, British India; Mr. and Mrs. John Sherriff, Bulawayo, Rhodesia, South Africa.

A Message of Thanks.

Since it is impossible for me to write each donor individually, I take this method of expressing my sincere appreciation and gratitude to those who by their liberal contributions made it possible for me to enter the work of the Lord in Japan.

May the blessings and care of our beneficent Father be with every one of you, and may he abundantly reward you at the last day, is my sincere wish in Jesus' name.

Gratefully your sister in Christ, SARAH ANDREWS.

Notes and Items.

BY C. G. VINCENT.

Brother Chiba, one of our very best young members, who now lives near Sendai, two hundred miles north of Tokyo, worshiped with us at Kamitomizaka church on a recent Lord's day. Brother Chiba recently married, is happy, and has good prospects for a successful and useful life. He wants us to visit his part of the country and preach the gospel to the people.

A Texas friend writes: "It must be a great deal more convenient for you to know what to expect each month than to have to make your plans indefinitely." Right you are, my friend. We know what to "expect" in the way of bills and costs at the end of each month, and it certainly would be "more convenient" if our contributors were definite and regular with their offerings.

Funds for Brother Vincent's Mission Work.

BY C. G. VINCENT.

[Our last letter with remittance of funds to Brother Vincent was misdirected and made the trip to Japan and back before error in address was discovered. We regret this mistake, which occasioned the delay referred to in the report below.—EDITOR'S NOTE.]

Your esteemed favor dated July 28, 1915 (but evidently the date of the letter is a mistake, and I notice also that the check is dated July 28, 1915), with your check for sixty-three dollars and twenty cents, to hand, being the amount received at your office from the following contributors: B. A. Gibson, West Virginia, $5.50; E. M. Hodson, Alabama, $2.50; Highland Avenue, Nashville, Tenn., $25; E. Fields, Oklahoma, $1; unknown party, $5; Mrs. J. W. Miller, Kentucky, $5; L. Tanner, Tennessee, 70 cents; Stella Adams, $2; Mrs. J. Ford, Tennessee, $1.50; Mrs. K. Adams, Texas, $15. Total, $63.20.

I wish to thank you for forwarding these offerings, and I especially desire to thank these brethren for their fellowship.

Our work started off nicely this year. Our big task before us this year is to finish raising funds for the Kamitomizaka church lot. This means that we must get together eleven hundred and fifty dollars in addition to current monthly expenses. In order to do this, we must raise on an average of two hundred and ninety-five dollars a month during the year, unless some big-hearted brother or sister makes a liberal offering; and O how happy it would make us and the Japanese brethren here if we could announce a one-thousand-dollar offering or two five-hundred-dollar offerings soon! The Japanese brethren out of their poverty have raised about one hundred and forty yen (seventy dollars). This is doing remarkably well; in fact, relatively, they have done better than we have! Shall we not allow their sacrifice to inspire us to greater liberality?

Reading Matter Wanted.

BY DON CARLOS JANES.

Tracts and "bundles of papers, such as do not have any bitter words or any bitter controversies," are desired to be sent for distribution to Dr. James Umrao Singh, Jealipot District, Naini Tal, United Provinces, British India, and for Madhu Singh, bearer, Railway Retiring Rooms, Kathgodam, District Naini Tal, United Provinces, British India.

Brother Jelley says: "Brethren, think of this country with its teeming millions groping in darkness, and yet everywhere asking us for books."

Wrap your packages securely (but do not seal them), address them plainly, and ask the postmaster to determine the amount of postage required. This should be fully prepaid.

Moving Pictures.

A certain congregation in Tennessee, to whom we have been sending the Missionary Messenger for three years, recently sent its first contribution. "And let us not be weary in well-doing: for in due season we shall reap, if we faint not."

Miss Andrews says she has never been in a place where there are so many curious smells as there are in Tokyo. I felt, when I heard her say it, that she was very charitable toward our city in only saying they were "curious" smells.

The church at Omagh, Canada, sends six dollars with which to buy three new seats for the chapel. We will soon have them all in. Many thanks to all who have made this possible.

The church at Beech Grove, Tenn., through Brother J. R. McKee, sends its regular offering, and our brother adds: "I am sending you another offering, which begins another year's work with you, and I trust that it will be of some help in your field of labor. I have been reading the Missionary Messenger, and it tells pretty well what you are doing. I like to read it." Beech Grove has been a faithful contributor to us for twenty-four years—from the beginning.

I spoke four times on March 5 (once in English) and baptized two young women. There was about forty at the meeting to break bread; eighty-three in the Sunday school. After the meeting a young man asked, (1) "What is the chief object in fasting?" and, (2) "How did Christ ascend to heaven?" We turned and read the accounts of it in Luke and Acts. The chief object of fasting seems to have been the greater control over the body and the development of the spiritual nature.

A close friend from Louisville, Ky., sends four dollars and fifty cents and adds: "Please find inclosed our little mite for February. John Ulrich (my oldest boy of nine years) sends his dollar which he earned by memorizing the New Testament books in a certain time. Albert, the baby, also puts in fifty cents."

GOSPEL ADVOCATE

EDITORS.

D. Lipscomb. E. G. Sewell. E. A. Elam.
M. C. Kurfess. T. B. Larimore.

MANAGING EDITORS.

J. C. McQuiddy. A. B. Lipscomb.

SPECIAL DIRECTIONS.

Subscriptions are $1.50 a year, in advance, including postage to any part of the United States. To Canada and foreign countries, $2 a year, in advance.

The Date on the Yellow Label on your paper serves you as a receipt, and indicates the time to which your subscription is paid. When you renew, if the date is not changed within three weeks thereafter, please call our attention to it.

Discontinuances. No paper will be continued over twelve months after the subscription has expired. This will give all ample time to renew.

Payment for the Advocate, when sent by mail, should be made by post-office money order, express money order, registered letter, New York exchange, or postal note. Neither currency nor coin should be sent in a letter, unless registered; and when so sent, it is at the risk of the sender. Have your remittances made payable to the Gospel Advocate, and never to any member of the company.

Do Not Write Business on the same sheet as matter intended for publication.

Change of Address will be cheerfully made at the request of any subscriber giving post office, county, and State from which the change is to be made, and post office, county and State to which the paper should go after the change.

Renewals. In renewing, give the name just as it appears on the yellow label, unless it be incorrect, in which case please call our attention to it; and always give the name of the post office to which your paper is sent, as this is the guide by which we are enabled to find your name on our list.

Do Not Send Matter intended for the Advocate to the editors personally. This may occasion delay. Address the Gospel Advocate Publishing Company, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

Some Questions and Answers.

BY E. A. E.

Dear Brother Elam: What should be done in a congregation where there is a preacher that will keep people and members from worshipping on the Lord's day that he preaches? If he causes strife and confusion, ought he not to be turned off? Please answer. A MEMBER.

Church members should not allow either a preacher's character or manner of preaching to cause them to do wrong; and it is wrong to refuse to worship God on the Lord's day or to faithfully serve him on any other day because others do not do right or for any other reason. This is on a par with the excuses some others make that they are not in the church at all because so many church members do wrong. How foolish this! But when church members make the preacher's character or manner of preaching an occasion for not attending upon the worship of God, there is something lacking on their part; this is either instruction in the word of God or faith, zeal, love, and conviction to obey God regardless of circumstances or what others may do.

Some are fastidious, hard to suit, more desirous of pleasing the world than God, and object to the preaching of almost any godly man. It is wrong to attempt to make the true and faithful preacher—his age, dress, subject-matter and brevity of his sermons, and manner of delivery—conform to the tastes and standards of this class. On the other hand, the elders who should lead in all the work of the church, and, therefore, in having the truth preached in the love of truth and to the glory of God, should agree themselves on some good man who does this, and should then consult the older and wiser members, and thus proceed in harmony of action to the accomplishment of the greatest good to all. The elders should respect one another and the other members and work in harmony for the peace and edification of the church and the salvation of sinners, and then the church should respect and honor the elders. The elders for no reason should select or retain a preacher whose character for uprightness, fair dealing, purity, or for any other Christian qualities, is not good and commendable or whose spirit and manner of preaching are not of the New Testament type. Such a man should not be forced upon a congregation or upon any number of the more thoughtful and wiser ones, seeking the edification and good of all. Such a course always produces strife and trouble; it is strife to begin with.

Preachers must be examples in all good works, and in their teaching must show "uncorruptness, gravity, sound speech, that cannot be condemned; that he who is of the contrary part may be ashamed, having no evil thing to say of us." (Tit. 2: 7.) No other kind of preachers should be selected or encouraged. Even then, all things in preachers being equal, the elders should not select one arbitrarily, and especially contrary to the judgment of some of the most thoughtful and earnest members. It is better to consult such members. Then in harmony all can go forward zealously for the accomplishment of the greatest good to the church and entire community.

Certain it is that no preacher who seeks the peace and good of a congregation will allow any division over himself. He will yield all preferences, waive all personal privileges, hold all opinions to himself, and make all necessary sacrifices for unity and peace. Paul would have no parties over himself, Apollos, and Peter. He declares that they were all only men and only servants of God through whom people were made believers in Christ—colaborers in God's tilled land, one sowing, another watering, while God gave the increase. There were no jealousy, envy, and divisions among them.

It is not so much the good of the cause of Christ as it is jealousy, envy, self-esteem, or ambition to rule, or all combined, which leads preachers and elders or others to allow divisions over themselves. Such men worship the creature—self—and not God, and deceive themselves and others into thinking that it is their faithfulness to Christ which leads them into such idolatry.

O, yes, of course, when the truth—the whole truth and nothing but the truth—the simple and pure worship of God—preached in modesty, humility, sound speech, and the spirit of Christ, produces the division, that is quite another thing; it is Jesus then, and not the preachers, who causes this division. But no preacher should lay the sins he has committed and the strife and division he has caused by his vanity and pride, egotism, and even dishonesty and impurity, to Jesus, or to his own martyrdom (!) and loyalty (!) to the cause of Christ. This seems to be to the church an age of contention, strife, and division—not contention "for the faith which was once for all delivered unto the saints" and division over the word of God, but contention and division over personal preferences, private opinions, untaught questions, and frail and weak men; for if some cannot gender strife and cause division over anything else, they will do so over preachers or themselves even.

I repeat that which I have recently said, that very much of the strife and division now existing in churches in numerous places has been produced by preachers—their peculiar crotchets, scruples, theories, hobbies, making laws where God has made none. Simmered down, much of this comes from pride of opinion, self-esteem, and vanity, but none of it from the word of God. The word of God most plainly states in whom people must believe, what people must believe, and what people must do to be saved. More or less than this comes from the vanity, wisdom, opinions, creeds, and sins of men.

Brother Kurfees' recent articles, embracing some of these things, are most worthy, timely, and should accomplish great good.

Peace and unity can never be maintained and good will and the spirit of Jesus can never fill a congregation until God's rule is followed—namely:

For I say, through the grace that was given me, to every man that is among you, not to think of himself more highly than he ought to think; but so to think as to think soberly, according as God hath dealt to each man a measure of faith. (Rom. 12: 3.)

With sober thought and earnestness, in modesty and humility, in lowliness and meekness, every one should use his abilities and opportunities for work in the church to the accomplishment of good and to the glory of Christ, so as to say in the end that he has been an unprofitable servant and has done nothing but his duty.

In love of the brethren be tenderly affectioned one to another; in honor preferring one another. (Rom. 12: 10.)

That ye be of the same mind, having the same love, being of one accord, of one mind; doing nothing through faction or through vainglory, but in lowliness of mind each counting other better than himself; not looking each of you to his own things, but each of you also to the things of others. Have this mind in you, which was also in Christ Jesus. (Phil. 2: 2-5.)

These passages give God's rule for maintaining harmony, unity, and peace; and until this rule is followed, contention, strife, and division will thrive and multiply. Until preachers, elders, and all others know that the humblest of all and the servant of all is the greatest of all; that in lowliness of mind they should count others better than themselves and should yield their personal preferences and even personal privileges and rights to others; that all should be of one accord, of the same mind, have the same love, and should follow the self-sacrifice of Jesus, who took the form of a servant and died on the cross to save the world; that "through love" they should "be servants one to another" (Gal. 5: 13); and that the whole law is fulfilled in love, there can be no peace and unity, however much "Christian union" as "our plea" may be preached in a partisan spirit. It is a burlesque and farce, a shame and sin, to preach to the denominations of the land on endeavoring "to keep the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace," when various ones are sowing the seeds of discord and producing divisions contrary to the teaching of Christ over their whims and notions, theories and speculations, seeking preferment above others, and disregarding altogether God's rule of unity and peace and greatness.

Perilous times have already come to not a few congregations and are coming to many others on account of a failure and refusal to obey God in following his law of love and rule of peace.

For the whole law is fulfilled in one word, even in this: Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself. But if ye bite and devour one another, take heed that ye be not consumed one of another. (Gal. 5: 14, 15.)

The peace and harmony of congregations have been devoured in the greediness of men to be prominent, to have preëminence, to carry some point, to work some plan (as in politics) in a factious and vainglorious spirit. As in politics, elders have been appointed and others put into positions in congregations because they favor certain men and measures. Yet God says nothing must be done through faction and vainglory.

God blesses the poor in spirit, lifts up the humble, saves such as are of a broken heart and contrite spirit, looks to the man "that is poor and of a contrite spirit, and that trembleth at" his word; but he resists the proud and abases all who exalt themselves. Until preachers, elders, and all others come in humility, a contrite spirit, with godly fear, trembling at God's word on the law of love and every other duty to the practice of the whole truth, sin and strife will still prevail. God's rule is to suffer long and be kind, to endure wrong rather than to do wrong.

Furthermore, the truth may be preached in a partisan spirit, haughty air, boastful way, braggadocio manner, condemning disposition, swaggering, attitude, in harshness, bitterness, and unsound speech, until all sinners are driven away and the church loses all spirituality and becomes barren of spiritual fruit. On the other hand, or other extreme, others may strive to shine in the polish and culture of literary effort and intellectual productions of well-rounded periods, glittering rhetoric, graceful gesticulations, charming oratory, until congregations lose all relish for "the word of the cross," forget that the gospel is God's power to save, and become spiritual dyspeptics, who cannot endure the sound doctrine, turn away from the truth to fables, and heap unto themselves such teachers as will tickle their itching ears and gratify their lusts.

The only right way is to determine to know nothing, "save Jesus Christ, and him crucified," and to preach the gospel in the love and power, purity and beauty, dignity and glory of it.

Union Meetings and Dancing Among Christians.

BY M. C. K.

When the following questions were received, they were put aside, for the time being, on account of the press of other matters, and they have since been overlooked. We answer them now. They are as follows:

1. Can we take the Bible as the only rule of faith and practice and have anything to do with so-called "union meetings" gotten up by denominational churches without offending our Lord in so doing?

2. Should a preacher allow his sixteen-year-old daughter to go to fashionable balls given at the ballroom and leave her until it is over at four o'clock in the morning?

3. What about an elder of the church who will say to the young people that he cannot see anything wrong in going to the ballroom and dancing?

We respect the querist's wish by withholding his name and address. Numbering our answers to correspond with the numbers of the questions, we have to say in reply:

1. There is much confusion over what are called "union meetings" among the different denominations. Nothing is more clearly taught in the New Testament than is the great and far-reaching wrong of division in the body of Christ. Denominationalism itself is wrong. In fact, there is not a vestige of proof in the New Testament for the rightful existence of denominations at all; but this does not mean that all that the denominations teach and practice, or that all that any one of them may teach and practice, is wrong. As things now exist, each of them is teaching and practicing much that is taught in the New Testament, and, of course, we should not only not condemn this, but should encourage it in every proper way; and precisely at this point is where the line should be drawn at "union meetings" with the denominations. Any meeting which looks to the removal of the cause of division, or which seeks to ascertain the cause with the view of its removal, should receive our hearty indorsement and encouragement; but we must not do wrong ourselves nor uphold the wrong in others, and hence we should not take part in a meeting which is to encourage and uphold the different denominations, as such, nor in one which is to encourage and uphold any error or wrong taught by any one of them. The principle involved in the matter of right and wrong is vital and fundamental. We must not consent to do wrong or to uphold what is wrong in any way, nor for any reason; but we should hail with delight any opportunity to mix and mingle with the denominations in any possible way which will enable us to uphold the truth and to oppose error.

2. This question we answer with an emphatic "No;"

but the prohibition should not be restricted to "a preacher" and "his sixteen-year-old daughter." It applies to any other Christian man and his daughter.

3. We might say several things about "an elder of the church who" acts in the manner here described, but we simply say now that he not only makes a mistake in the advice he gives to "the young people," but he is not likely to be very strong in his influence against worldliness in the church in any form. The fact is, when he surrenders to the "fashionable balls given at the ball-room," there is not much else in the way of worldliness, as far as we can see, that he can consistently oppose or keep out of the church. John says: "Love not the world, neither the things that are in the world. If any man love the world, the love of the Father is not in him. For all that is in the world, the lust of the flesh and the lust of the eyes and the vainglory of life, is not of the Father, but is of the world. And the world passeth away, and the lust thereof: but he that doeth the will of God abideth forever." (1 John 2: 15-17.)

Touching worldliness in general, the inspired admonition is: "Be not fashioned according to this world: but be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind, that ye may prove what is the good and acceptable and perfect will of God." (Rom. 12: 2.) Surely the overseers of the churches should give heed to this admonition. Even with the best possible effort they can make in this direction, there will still be a sufficient degree of worldliness in the churches—much more than the truly pious and earnest Christian wants to see. It is like weeds in the garden—it will grow without cultivation or encouragement. Let us put our influence on the safe side.

Some Scriptures Explained.

BY J. C. McQ.

Brother McQuiddy: Please explain, through the Gospel Advocate, the following scriptures:

1. "And he cast down the pieces of silver in the temple, and departed, and went and hanged himself." (Matt. 27: 5.) "Now this man purchased a field with the reward of iniquity; and falling headlong, he burst asunder in the midst, and all his bowels gushed out." (Acts 1: 18.)

2. "And the men which journeyed with him stood speechless, hearing a voice, but seeing no man." (Acts 9: 7.) "And they that were with me saw indeed the light, and were afraid; but they heard not the voice of him that spake to me." (Acts 22: 9.)

3. "And it came to pass after these things, that God did tempt Abraham." (Gen. 22: 1.) "Let no man say when he is tempted, I am tempted of God: for God cannot be tempted with evil, neither tempteth he any man." (James 1: 13.)

4. "Two and twenty years old was Ahaziah when he began to reign; and he reigned one year in Jerusalem." (2 Kings 8: 26.) "Forty and two years old was Ahaziah when he began to reign, and he reigned one year in Jerusalem." (2 Chron. 22: 2.)

5. "And Jacob begat Joseph the husband of Mary, of whom was born Jesus, who is called Christ." (Matt. 1: 16.) "And Jesus himself began to be about thirty years of age, being (as was supposed) the son of Joseph, which was the son of Heli." (Luke 3: 23.)

6. "If any man come to me, and hate not his father, and mother, and wife, and children, and brethren, and sisters, yea, and his own life also, he cannot be my disciple." (Luke 14: 26.) "If a man say, I love God, and hateth his brother, he is a liar: for he that loveth not his brother whom he hath seen, how can he love God whom he hath not seen?" (1 John 4: 20.) H. L. KIMBY.

1. Judas returned the bribe money to the priests, who used it to purchase the potter's field. The Greek verb rendered "purchased" has the form that means "caused to be purchased." Peter tells some particulars which Matthew omitted. On account of the rope or limb breaking, the body of Judas fell headlong with such force on the rocks as to burst it open.

2. "Hearing" is used in two senses. We sometimes hear a voice, but do not understand the words spoken.

One instance refers to hearing the sound of the voice, and the other to not understanding the words that were spoken. Paul was a Hebrew scholar. The voice was in the Hebrew language. (Acts 26: 14.)

3. "Tempt" sometimes signifies to try in order to discover the character of a person or to improve and develop his virtue. In this sense God is said to have tempted or tried Abraham and the Israelites. "Tempt" also means to seduce one into sin. In this sense the devil tempts men. It is in this sense that God is incapable of being tempted.

4. It is probable that the reading in 2 Chron. 22: 2 is the mistake of a copyist. To follow the reading in Chronicles makes the son two years older than his father. Transcribers were not perfect, yet there were comparatively few mistakes made by them.

5. The most plausible explanation is that Matthew gives the line of Joseph, the legal line, and that Luke gives the line of Mary, the mother of Jesus. As the Jews regarded only male descent, unless Joseph, the supposed father, was a descendant of David, they would not have recognized the genealogy as a fulfillment of the prophecies that Christ should be the son of David; while Luke, a Gentile and writing for Gentiles, was more particular to give the line that shows that Jesus is really the son of David. If Mary was the daughter of Heli, Joseph by marriage would become the "son of Heli."

6. "Hate" is sometimes used in the Bible in the sense of "love less." Gen. 29: 30 says of Jacob that "he loved also Rachel more than Leah;" then verse 31 says, "And Jehovah saw that Leah was hated"—that is, that Jacob loved Rachel more than Leah. So we cannot be a disciple of Christ so long as we love father, mother, or any relative more than we do Christ. On the other hand, when we love Christ with all our hearts, we love our parents and relatives in the best and truest sense.

Lay Up Your Treasures.

All our readers who appreciate good, religious books will be pleased to know that "Christian Treasures," Volume I, is just off our press and ready for delivery. The book contains nearly three hundred pages and deals with vital themes that were covered in special numbers of the Gospel Advocate. It contains the very best thoughts, not only of the editors, but of a host of careful writers, to whom were assigned various phases of the following subjects: Studying the Bible; Teaching the Bible; Applying the Bible; History of the Bible; Restatement of the Issues; Fundamental Themes; The Wise and Unwise Course in Religion; Evangelistic Effort in General; Plans for Protracted Meetings and Missionary Work in General. We may safely say that no book has ever been printed containing articles on these important subjects from as many different writers.

The second volume of "Christian Treasures," dealing with subjects of equal importance, will quickly follow. By purchasing each volume as it appears, you will greatly increase the usefulness of your library and will soon be informed on living themes far above the average reader. So confident are we that you need and wish this book that we have reserved one copy for you, which will be sent, postpaid, upon receipt of one dollar.

Hundreds have subscribed for The Bible Study Helper, our new monthly magazine, edited by A. B. Lipscomb. It contains departments for teachers and scholars and helpful suggestions for all ages. Its illustrations are carefully gleaned from the finest books available. It is abreast with modern scholarship and at the same time thoroughly in accord with the word of God. We will send this journal one year for sixty cents, or fifty cents if sent in with your Gospel Advocate subscription. Address McQuiddy Printing Company, Nashville, Tenn.

QUERY DEPARTMENT

Brother McQuiddy: Please explain Eph. 1: 4, 5. "According as he hath chosen us in him before the foundation of the world, that we should be holy and without blame before him in love: having predestinated us unto the adoption of children by Jesus Christ to himself, according to the good pleasure of his will." E. F. BURNETT.

This does not affirm that God chose some individuals and rejected others, but that before the foundation of the world, before there was Jew or Gentile, God chose to have a people for himself, the entire church of Christ, a covenant people confined to no particular earthly race. This church should be holy and without blame. He foreordained that the church of Christ should be adopted as his children. God decreed from the foundation of the world and kept in view from the beginning of the religious system of the Jews the salvation of the Gentiles as well as the Jews by Jesus Christ. The Jews wished to monopolize the whole of the divine favor. The apostle here shows that the gospel is as much for the Gentile as the Jew.

Brother McQuiddy: Please explain what John meant when he said in the wilderness that "God is able of these stones to raise up children unto Abraham."

MRS. WILSON HOWLAND, SR.

The passage reads: "And think not to say within yourselves, we have Abraham to our Father: for I say unto you, that God is able of these stones to raise up children unto Abraham." (Matt. 3: 9.) The Jews believed that they were the special recipients of God's favor through Abraham and that they would be saved though all others were destroyed. Pointing, perhaps, to the stones about the Jordan, John destroys this presumption by sinking the higher claims of Judaism and pointing to the Gentiles, who were to become Abraham's children by faith. "And if ye are Christ's, then are ye Abraham's seed, heirs according to promise." (Gal. 3: 29.) John assured the Jews that God could of those stones raise up a faithful seed, who, though not natural descendants of Abraham, yet would be his worthy children as being partakers of Abraham's faith and friends of his God. John appears to have considered the stones as an emblem of the Gentiles.

Brother McQuiddy: In Acts 4: 11 Peter says, in preaching to the Jews, and referring to Christ: "This is the stone which is set at naught of you builders, which is become the head of the corner." Now, our strong men, in preaching and writing, tell us that in the building of Solomon's temple there was a certain stone that the builders rejected, saw no use for, a stumblingstone, offensive to them, and near the completion of the temple this stone that was rejected was found to be the most important stone of all the building. Where is it in the history of the building of the temple that they get this idea? C. A. WHEELER.

I very seriously doubt the strength of preachers who preach as indicated by our querist. Such preachers should heed the admonition of Paul to "preach the word." We have no information at this office where they get this idea. We do know, however, that they do not get it out of the Bible. Peter taught his hearers that by their rejection and crucifixion of Jesus Christ they had fulfilled one of their own prophecies (Ps. 118: 22); and as one part of this prophecy had been so literally fulfilled, so they might be assured that this rejected stone shall speedily become the head stone of the corner. Matt. 21: 42 reads: "Jesus saith unto them, Did you never read in the scriptures, The stone which the builders rejected, the same was made the head of the corner; this was from the Lord, and it is marvelous in our eyes?" It is worse than folly to assume that because masons in building may sometimes reject a stone and the rejected stone may at last be found the most suitable as the head stone of the corner, therefore this very thing did occur in the building of Solomon's temple. It is dangerous to teach our assumptions and imaginations.

Brother McQuiddy: (1) Is "Simeon" of Acts 15: 14 Simon Peter? (2) Did Paul receive the Holy Spirit before or after baptism? (3) Were disciples baptized by John the Baptist required to be rebaptized under Christ, either before or after Pentecost? (4) Kindly explain 1 Cor. 3: 15.

J. B. MULLINS.

(1) Yes. (2) The law of God is that the obedient receive the Spirit: "And we are witnesses of these things; and so is the Holy Spirit, whom God hath given to them that obey him." (Acts 5: 32.) Baptized believers receive the Spirit. (Acts 2: 39.) Doubtless Saul received the Spirit as other baptized believers. The language of Ananias indicates that he received a miraculous measure of the Spirit before baptism. (Acts 9: 17.) (3) There is no account of their rebaptism. (4) The passage reads: "If any man's work shall be burned, he shall suffer loss; but he himself shall be saved; yet so as through fire." If any man proclaimed as a doctrine of God anything which does not proceed from heaven, his work, his labor shall be lost, while he himself shall be saved, yet so as by fire, provided he conscientiously believed what he preached and did it not through malice or opposition to the truth, but through ignorance. He shall not suffer punishment because he was mistaken. Yet, as in most erroneous teachings there is generally some willful and obstinate ignorance, the salvation of such erroneous teachers is very rare, as is taught here—yet so as by fire. Such are saved with great difficulty; he shall be like a brand plucked out of fire. He is saved as one who escapes from a burning house where all his property is consumed.

Brother McQuiddy: Please explain 1 Cor. 14: 34, 35. It says: "Let your women keep silence in the churches: for it is not permitted unto them to speak. . . . And if they will learn anything, let them ask their husbands at home: for it is a shame for women to speak in the church." Now does this mean that the women must be silent and not speak a word? In the Lord's-day service, is it wrong for them to ask a question or answer one? Also explain 1 Tim. 2: 11, 12. X.

"Silence" and "speak" are not used in the absolute sense. If so, women would not be permitted to walk, sing, sneeze, or rustle their dresses. Women are not permitted to preach publicly or to teach in any way that assumes authority over the man. The Spirit assigns a reason for this in 1 Tim. 2: 11-14: "Let the woman learn in quietness with all subjection. But I permit not a woman to teach, nor to have dominion over a man, but to be in quietness. For Adam was first formed, then Eve; and Adam was not beguiled, but the woman being beguiled hath fallen into transgression." As man was first formed and is the head over the woman, and as the man was not beguiled, but the woman, the Spirit suffers not a woman to have dominion over man in authoritative or public teaching. If the Spirit means here an absolute prohibition of women's teaching, then they are not permitted to teach privately or anywhere and are forbidden to teach their own children. Such a construction is at variance with the clear Bible teaching on the subject of woman's teaching. So it must be that the Spirit teaches that the women must not officiate publicly in the church. Conybeare and Howson render 1 Cor. 14: 34 as follows: "In your congregation, as in all the congregations of Christ's people, the women must keep silence; for they are not permitted to speak in public, but to show submission, as it is said also in the book of the law."

AT HOME AND ABROAD

Compiled by A. B. Lipscomb

The Great Teacher will be our chief contributor next week. You cannot afford to miss it.

Sam P. Pittman will begin a meeting for the Joe Johnston Avenue congregation, this city, the first Monday evening in May.

R. E. L. Taylor, of Decherd, Tenn., reports a good meeting at Dixie Schoolhouse, in Coffee County, Tenn., in which there were five baptisms.

E. M. Borden, of Little Rock, Ark., paid this office a visit Saturday. He was en route to Estill Springs, where he is now engaged in a meeting.

Brother Larimore will preach next Sunday at both services for the Twelfth Avenue congregation, this city. He has returned from some good meetings in Alabama.

R. V. Cawthon's meeting at Green Street, this city, was very successful the first week and increases in interest from day to day. S. H. Hall has a good start at Reid Avenue.

C. M. Pullias will begin a meeting for the Lawrence Avenue congregation, this city, next Sunday. The church has been preparing for several weeks, and we anticipate good results.

T. W. Phillips continues to improve. He is at the Harris Sanitarium in Fort Worth, Texas. Don't fail to pray for him and have some fellowship in his sufferings. Communications addressed in care of the sanitarium will reach him.

The editor of this page performed the marriage ceremony for Mr. James Brown, of Port Arthur, Texas, and Miss Sadie Owens, of this city, Wednesday, April 19, at 8 P.M. The wedding was quiet and took place in the Russell Street study.

C. R. Nichol, the well-known Texas evangelist, has been elected president of Thorp Spring Christian College. He will be assisted by an able corps of Christian teachers. See announcement on another page. We extend best wishes to all.

Brother McHenry writes, under date of March 16, from Satara, British India: "I am well. Baby William has been unwell for some days. Brother Jelley has moved to Naini Tal. The work continues to make progress. Love and prayers to all. I hope Brother Sewell is well before now."

From W. D. Bills, San Antonio, Texas: "The work in Denver Heights, this city, is progressing nicely. Two good services on April 16, with one addition from the 'digressives.' I have lately held a short meeting, with three additions. Foy E. Wallace did the preaching. I will begin a mission meeting in the eastern part of the city soon."

From Jewell Matthews, San Angelo, Texas: "Sunday, April 16, was a good day with us. We had one hundred and seventy-four in the Bible school and two splendid audiences out for the preaching services. Preparation is being made for the meeting which begins on April 30. Brother Ledlow will be with us at that time to assist in the work. We are praying and working for a great meeting."

From J. S. Dunn, at Dallas, Texas: "Our meeting at Bonham, Texas, was good. I think we had about a dozen baptisms. Tom Walker works with and for this Bonham church. He is a good, clean man and good preacher. He has done well there. Our work here in Oak Cliff (Dallas) is fine. None better that I know of. I go to El Paso next week for a meeting with my brother, J. W. Dunn and in June he will come to our place for a meeting."

From Morgan H. Carter, Macon, Ga.: "The kingdom of Christ is growing in this field. God gives us power to develop. The work here has not been of the rapid, unstable, squash type; rather, steadily the church through God's grace has come thus far and hopes to grow on like the oak without slipping back. We cordially invite all Christians to write us of friends or relatives in Macon or the surrounding territory whom they would like to have interested in Christ. It would be a delight for us to have any visiting disciples or friends to come out to the chapel on East Macon car line, corner St. John and Church Streets. The assembly hour on Lord's day is 3 P.M. We have other services. For further information, call me at 1713-W. Please remember us in your prayers."

From I. B. Bradley, Dickson, Tenn.: "S. H. Hall, of Atlanta, Ga., began a meeting with the church of Christ, Dickson, Tenn., on April 2 and continued until the evening of April 20. The interest was good throughout. Crowds were large, all that we could expect, as there were street preachers, picture shows, Indian shows, dog shows, etc., and a Methodist meeting in progress for two weeks, beginning one week after Brother Hall began. Brother Hall preached the Jerusalem gospel with clearness, force, and great earnestness, and all lovers of 'the truth' were strengthened and encouraged. There were nineteen baptized, two from the Baptists who had obeyed the Lord, and six reclamations. The church was much strengthened and encouraged, and all hope to have him with us again sometime. We love him for his work's sake. God bless him. May he live long to tell the story of Jesus."

John Puckett writes from Tucumcari, N. M.: "The work is going on nicely here. On the first Lord's day in this month I was at Hudson and Brother Bandy was at Tucumcari; the second Lord's day I was at San Jon and Brother Bandy at Love Schoolhouse; on the third Lord's day I was at Tucumcari and Brother Bandy at the Flint Schoolhouse; on the fourth Lord's day I will be at Rudolph Schoolhouse and Brother Bandy at Simpson Schoolhouse. Brother Huff is busy around Montoya. We cannot fill all the calls. More laborers are needed. Our tent will soon be here. When it comes, Brother Huff and the writer will be in the field sounding out the word. Brother Bandy will preach every Lord's day at some place, working on the farm during the week. He will be ready to hold meetings as soon as he is through with his crop. Any one needing him would do well to call him."

From J. Pettey Ezell, New Decatur, Ala.: "On Saturday night and Sunday morning, April 15, 16, I preached to splendid audiences at Mount Carmel, in Limestone County, with one confession and baptism and one restored. Two others have recently confessed their wrongs. This is my old home church, where, with papa and mamma (the Lord has long since called them home), we children were brought to worship. This is where, eighteen years ago, J. P. Jones baptized me. During this time many changes have been wrought. Many of those whom I loved then now are not. Many have moved away, we trust, to become a blessing to other parts of the world, and many who remain have become estranged to the faith. The morals of the community have descended to a low ebb; but we pray God that, with the few whose lives shall honor the Lord, we may, by his grace, become a blessing, and that the church may be brought to a deeper and fuller realization of its sacred relation and duty. Pray for us. Sunday night I preached to a splendid audience at Rogersville, in Lauderdale County. This is the home of all my brothers and sisters, also of my stepmother, and my home from the age of eighteen to twenty-five years. We have a splendid congregation here, concerning the workings of which I shall have more to say later. The work of the Jackson Street Church moves along nicely. Fine audiences last night at our regular Friday-night cottage meeting. We expect to use a tent during the summer in this section."

Georgia and the Far Southern Field

By S. H. Hall

The Church of Christ—Lesson XIV.

How to Behave Ourselves in the Church.

(3) In respect to the song service. Let us remember that the church is the "house of God," that it is God's habitation, and that Christ has been made "head over all things" to the church; hence everything must be regulated by him. He is not a head over a part of the things to the church, and the balance left to man to regulate. (See Eph. 1: 22, 23.) We should be satisfied with his arrangements; and if loyal to him, we will be. Please to note the following facts:

(a) It is a sacrifice that we offer to God, through Christ, hence must be done with "reverence and godly fear." (See Heb. 12: 28; 13: 15.) The whole heart should be put into this part of our worship. When this is done, there is nothing so uplifting and helpful. Heartless singing is but a pretense at worship and is an abomination to God. The Lord help us to return wholly to our God on this point.

(b) In the song service, we must teach and admonish one another in psalms, hymns, and spiritual songs. (See Eph. 5: 19; Col. 3: 16.) Hence, each psalm, hymn, and song we use must contain a scriptural lesson or admonition to please Him who gave the command. In song, we not only worship, but we also serve; it is one of God's ways of teaching and admonishing; it goes hand in hand with the work done in the pulpit. Our songs, therefore, should be as carefully studied as are our sermons, and only those songs are permissible that contain Christ's teaching and admonition. May the Lord help us to be more careful here about the songs we use.

(c) Pitch and harmony alone do not constitute the music ordained for God's house; for singing in an unknown tongue, which is positively forbidden, contained the same pitch and harmony as a known tongue. (See 1 Cor. 14: 9, 15-17.) Hence you will observe that the words of the song, with their meaning, constitute an essential element of the music we must offer. Who is it that cannot see this?

(d) It must be music of the heart (Eph. 5: 19), rendered with the harps of God—the lips, vocal cords, etc.—the workmanship of God's hands (Heb. 13: 15), with which harps we sing, not play (Rev. 15: 2, 3). These are the instruments we use, not those invented by man. (See Amos 6: 1-5.)

(e) God allowed the Jews, under the old covenant, to use the instruments of David, just as he permitted them to have a king, a plurality of wives, a bill of divorcement, etc. (See 1 Sam. 8: 1-22; 12: 16-19; Hos. 13: 9, 10; Matt. 19: 7-9.) But when Christ established the new covenant, he most certainly left these things out; and as he is the "head over all things to the church," we leave them out also. What else could we do and be governed by him?

(f) As learned before, to bring things into the church that Christ has not put there, even though he allows them in the home, is to despise the church of God. (See 1 Cor. 11: 20-22, 33, 34.) Others, of course, will do as they wish; but for us, may the Lord save us from such a sin.

The Work at Miami, Fla.

I do most earnestly commend the following worthy appeal to the consideration of our readers:

Miami, Fla., April 20, 1916.—Dear Brethren and Sisters in Christ: There is a congregation of forty members in Miami. This is the only church of Christ known to us on the Southern peninsula and on the east coast of Florida within one hundred and fifty miles of Miami. We have a neat frame church house which is paid for and well located. Our house and lot cost about thirty-five hundred dollars. The house has been provided largely through the liberality of Brethren J. J. Hart, of Detroit, and Clifton Tatum (deceased), of Louisville, Ky. We owe one thousand dollars on our lot, which we are very anxious to pay and get a deed to our lot. The restrictive clause will be in our deed. We have decided to locate an evangelist in Miami to do the work of an evangelist in this field. These few disciples, being poor people, cannot without help sustain an evangelist and pay the debt against their lot. We are asking our friends, brethren, and churches abroad to assist us in lifting the debt, and we shall, by the grace of God, support an evangelist to live and labor in Miami and the regions around, spreading the gospel and building up churches of Christ. Yours in His name,

J. J. HART,
W. R. LOGAN,
L. H. DASHER,
Elders.

Having labored with these Christians last winter and this, I am anxious to see this debt paid. I believe a great work shall be done in this needy field.

Most fraternally, JOHN E. DUNN.

From what I have learned of the work in Miami, Fla., it is worthy of hearty and liberal support. The members at present are few in number and too greatly limited in financial resources to do all of what needs to be done there now. They owe some on their house and lot, and are making a heroic effort to meet this obligation and thus clear the way for growth and expansion. Brother John E. Dunn is faithfully laboring among them at present, and, through his devotion to the cause and his untiring and sacrificing efforts, the way is opening for a prosperous and permanent work at an early day. Those who may be asked for assistance need not hesitate to rely upon his representation of the field and its claims, and I hope that brethren abroad will generously cooperate with him and others in the effort to relieve the situation.

M. C. KURFEES.

Address church of Christ, Miami, Fla., Box 159, Fred Hineley.

Faith's Power.

The man who accomplishes anything in this world is and must be a man of faith. Strong men, forcible men, virile men, are men of faith. It may be a slow type of faith—faith in self; but it is faith. Beaxendale says: "Weak faith makes weak men." How much stronger should be the man who has faith in God, the faith that says: "I can do all things through Christ, who strengtheneth me." This is the faith of the higher type. Be done with saying what you do not believe and find in your soul the divinest, truest thing in which you do believe, and work that out. Be the noblest man that your present faith, poor and weak and imperfect as it is, can make you to be. So, and so only, as you take the next step forward, as you stand strong where you are now, so only as you think the curtain will draw back, and there will be revealed to you what lies beyond.—Selected.

America's Destiny.

In the blood of Europe the destiny of America is being written. When the last battleship has been sunk; when the last engagement has been lost and won and the shattered remnants of armies return to the weeping women in a thousand towns and villages; when rulers and statesmen and diplomats take breath again to contemplate the ruin wrought by their folly, it seems inevitable that, towering over all, should be the sturdy, unshaken figure of America, in politics, in industry, in finance, the master of the world. If the God who holds the nations like the scale of the balance in his hands be leading us to this high destiny, let us approach it humbly. And may he grant that in the day of our power we shall be wise and gentle in its exercise.—Chicago Evening Post.

HAVE GOOD HEALTH

Take Hood's Sarsaparilla, the Old Reliable Spring Tonic.

Don't let the idea that you may feel better in a day or two prevent you from getting a bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla today from any drug store and starting at once on the road to health and strength.

When your blood is impure and impoverished it lacks vitality, your digestion is imperfect, your appetite is poor, and all the functions of your body are impaired.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is a wonderful blood tonic. It will build you up quicker than any other medicine. It gives strength to do and power to endure. It is the old standard tried and true all-the-year-round blood purifier and enricher, tonic and appetizer. Nothing else acts like it, for nothing else has the same formula or ingredients. Be sure to ask for Hood's; insist on having it.

Lime Starvation Causes Tuberculosis

In the Medical Record (New York) of December 18, 1909, Dr. John F. Russell says: "The condition which is recognized as preceding the active development of tuberculosis in the adult may be considered as due to lime starvation. * Among inorganic substances lime salts appear to be of special physiological importance. * but if the salts are not in organic combination, it is difficult to suppose that the cells can appropriate them for food."

Years of widespread use confirm our belief that the success of Eckman's Alternative in tuberculosis is due largely to its content of lime, in such combination with other valuable ingredients as to be easily appropriated by the cells.

Doubtless this has had much to do with the results in many cases which appear to have yielded to it. As it contains no opiates, narcotics or habit-forming drugs, it is safe to try. Price $1 and $2 per bottle. Sold by leading druggists or sent direct from the Laboratory. We would like to send you a booklet containing information of value and references.

ECKMAN LABORATORY,
23 N. Seventh St. Philadelphia.

PAY ONLY $1.00 A MONTH

THREE PIECE LIVING ROOM SET $10.95
with library table having 34x24 in. top, book shelf and drawer; solid comfort arm chair and rocker with spring seats covered with best imitation Spanish leather $10.95, $1 down, $1 a month. 30 days trial!

FURNITURE ON CREDIT

We offer you the biggest buying chance of a lifetime—cash bargains on our monthly payment plan. No interest, 1500 Special Big Bargains, to introduce our quality furniture, rugs, curtains, stoves, kitchen cabinets. Write NOW! RHODES FURNITURE CO. Memphis, Tenn. Dep. F.

WRITE FOR CATALOG

GOSPEL TENTS

Our Prices Would Interest You.
Ask Us To Quote.

Fulton Bag And Cotton Mills,
Atlanta, Ga.

New York, Dallas, St. Louis, New Orleans

WHEN WRITING OUR ADVERTISERS
PLEASE MENTION THIS PUBLICATION

Condemned, Yet Safe.

BY C. PETTY.

There are no people on earth that are accused of teaching more falsehood than the disciples of Christ. But sometimes, like Paul, we "confess . . . that after the way which they call heresy, so worship I the God of my fathers, believing all things which are written in the law and in the prophets." (Acts 24: 14.) I wish to notice a few things that we are accused of teaching, that we may see whether we are on the right or wrong side.

Some say the disciples "baptize a child of the devil to make him a child of God." Now there can be but two classes of people on earth. One class must be the children of God and the other class the children of the devil. It also follows that there must be something done at some time to the child of the devil to make him a child of God. This no one denies. But the people that accuse us most of baptizing children of the devil to make children of God teach that man is totally depraved, and, therefore, teach that all men are children of the devil by nature and by birth, and by virtue of this depravity all sinners are so dead that they are unable to do any good thing in the sight of God; also, that before the sinner can repent and believe, the regenerating Spirit of God must enter into him and give him new life. Now let us see what they give a child of the devil to make him a child of God. They give the child of the devil the Holy Spirit, regeneration, repentance, and faith, to make him a child of God. Just one thing is too great to give the child of the devil to make him a child of God, and the "Campbellites" commit that crime. So they place baptism above the Holy Spirit, regeneration, and faith. Now watch them somersault by saying that baptism is a nonessential to salvation, and one can be saved just as well without it as with it. So, according to their own doctrine, the disciples of Christ have done the least harm, after all, to the child of the devil; for they only give a nonessential. In view of this, I do not see how they censure us for such a small thing as baptizing a person.

Again, they make a great ado over the fact that we teach the possibility of apostasy, and say we are entirely wrong, for there is no possible chance for a child of God to fall away and be lost. Now suppose it turns out that they are right and that a child of God cannot fall, no matter by what name he is called; then we are as safe as they are, if we are children of God. But suppose it turns out, as the Bible teaches, that Adam in his pure state fell; that Saul, Israel's first king, fell; that Israel fell to such an extent that

Rev. A. B. Mowers Advocates Nerve Remedy.

Nervous indigestion is one of the commonest of the many forms of nervous trouble. It is very hard to treat usually, but those who have used Dr. Miles' Nervine all report that it was not long before their trouble vanished entirely.

Every ailment must have a cause, and the cause is what should be removed. When the cause lies in the nervous system, Dr. Miles' Nervine cannot be too strongly advocated. It is backed by thirty years of successful use.

The Rev. A. B. Mowers, of York, Pa., is an ardent advocate of this remedy, since it completely relieved him. He made the following statement for publication: "Nearly ten years ago I was troubled with nervous indigestion in its worst form. I had sick headaches nearly every day, with a dizzy, dull feeling. I was extremely nervous, confused, and suffered much with constipation. I was informed of Dr. Miles' Nervine and Liver Pills, and determined to give them a trial. I used them as directed and received much relief. I continued the Nervine until I had used several bottles. I now enjoy good health, relish my meals, and can eat any kind of food without fear. I take pleasure in recommending Dr. Miles' Remedies to the public."

Dr. Miles' Nervine or Liver Pills can be purchased at any drug store, and the purchase price will be cheerfully refunded by the druggist if, after using the remedies, you are not satisfied with the results obtained.

MILES MEDICAL COMPANY, Elkhart, Ind.

Cutting Down the Cost of Pianos.

Have you ever stopped to ask yourself the question why oranges which sell for five cents each cost only two cents by the box, or why apples sell so much cheaper by the bushel than by a nickel's worth? It is the same way with pianos. If you were to purchase one hundred pianos (eight car loads) from the factory, you would get a much lower price than if you purchased only one. That is why the Gospel Advocate Piano Club, composed of one hundred buyers who club their orders into one big order, is saving its members at least forty per cent on high-grade pianos and player pianos.

You are cordially invited to write for your copy of the club's beautifully illustrated catalogue, which fully explains the big saving in price, the convenient terms, and the guarantees of quality and permanent satisfaction. Address The Associated Piano Clubs, Gospel Advocate Department, Atlanta, Ga.

FIRM FOUNDATION An eight-page weekly religious paper devoted to the restoration of primitive Christianity. Excels in church news; an able corps of writers; extensively circulated. Subscription price, $1 a year, payable in advance. Special rates for clubs. We believe that every loyal Christian should have the Firm Foundation visit his home.

FIRM FOUNDATION PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Austin, Texas.

God swore they should not enter into his rest, though they at one time were his chosen people (Heb. 3: 17-19); then we will have an additional chance that they cannot have. Besides, it places them in a condition that they cannot believe in a very important doctrine, and I can believe it; so I have another advantage over them. They cannot believe in the second coming of Christ, for Paul says that "that day shall not come, except there come a falling away first"—that is, before Christ can come; so if the first thing cannot happen, neither can the second.

Again, they make a great ado over the fact that the disciples of Christ do not lecture and teach that alien sinners should pray and be prayed for, in order to salvation, at an altar or somewhere else. Now watch them a minute and see what they do. They teach that the moment faith comes, salvation comes. Now what time is there for an alien sinner to pray between faith and salvation, seeing that they both come together? Now how much better off are they than we, since we will not teach an alien to pray for salvation, and they cannot, because faith and salvation cometh together? So we are as safe as they are. But suppose it turns out, as we teach, that the commission given by Jesus (Matt. 28: 19, 20; Mark 16: 15, 16; Luke 24: 46, 47) is the great law that is addressed to alien sinners (and most surely it is); then the alien is required to believe in Christ, to repent, and be baptized, in order to salvation. So we will have an additional chance; and we will always take two chances to one.

A Few Pointers.

BY HARVEY W. JONES.

Pluck is a better staple than luck.
Formality chokes, chills, and kills true religion.

A "good delivery" is about all some preachers "deliver."

Morality, culture, and higher (or highest) criticism can never save a soul from hell.

Those who have never been in grace cannot fall from grace. But how about Gal. 5?

No human being can be all right with God and all wrong with his fellow-man at the same time.

Isn't it strange that secular papers and men of the world show us (who try to be Christians only) more respect than some of our most zealous religious neighbors do? The former will not call us "Campbellites," etc.; while the latter do, in the face of our denying the charge a thousand times. Better wake up, you who are guilty, or the devil may get you.

There seems to be a general unrest

How to avoid Operations

These Three Women Tell How They Escaped the Dreadful Ordeal of Surgical Operations.

Hospitals are great and necessary institutions, but they should be the last resort for women who suffer with ills peculiar to their sex. Many letters on file in the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., prove that a great number of women after they have been recommended to submit to an operation have been made well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Here are three such letters. All sick women should read them.

Marinette, Wis.—"I went to the doctor and he told me I must have an operation for a female trouble, and I hated to have it done as I had been married only a short time. I would have terrible pains and my hands and feet were cold all the time. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and was cured, and I feel better in every way. I give you permission to publish my name because I am so thankful that I feel well again."
—Mrs. FRED BEHNKE, Marinette, Wis.

Detroit, Mich.—"When I first took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was so run down with female troubles that I could not do anything, and our doctor said I would have to undergo an operation. I could hardly walk without help so when I read about the Vegetable Compound and what it had done for others I thought I would try it. I got a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and a package of Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash and used them according to directions. They helped me and today I am able to do all my work and I am well."
—Mrs. THOS. DWYER, 989 Milwaukee Ave., East, Detroit, Mich.

Bellevue, Pa.—"I suffered more than tongue can tell with terrible bearing down pains and inflammation. I tried several doctors and they all told me the same story, that I never could get well without an operation and I just dreaded the thought of that. I also tried a good many other medicines that were recommended to me and none of them helped me until a friend advised me to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. The first bottle helped, I kept taking it and now I don't know what it is to be sick any more and I am picking up in weight. I am 20 years old and weigh 145 pounds. It will be the greatest pleasure to me if I can have the opportunity to recommend it to any other suffering woman."
—Miss IRENE FROELICHER, 1923 Manhattan St., North Side, Bellevue, Pa.

If you would like special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Med. Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

among the religious people of the world at the present time. Some are gradually cutting loose from the creeds of men, and there is less care about "orthodoxy" among the popular denominations than there used to be. That looks good. But some of our own dear brethren seem to be on the lookout for some new thing in religion.

That looks bad. We had better learn and practice the simple lessons in God's word before advancing too far. (2 John 9.)

A WARNING.—To feel tired before exertion is not laziness; it's a sign that the system lacks vitality and needs the tonic effect of Hood's Sarsaparilla. Sufferers should not delay. Get rid of that tired feeling by beginning to take Hood's Sarsaparilla to-day.

CONSTIPATION IS NO TRIFLE

We Often Dismiss Constipation as a Trifle.—
Something that Will Correct Itself.
Not So. Ask Your Doctor.

Constipation clogs the body and poisons the blood stream with uric acid, resulting in rheumatism and other serious complications. The condition which the doctor calls "auto-intoxication" (self-poison) is reflected in a sallow complexion, mental dullness, bodily fatigue, and loss of vigor.

Jacobs' Liver Salt

is a rational and accepted treatment of all congested and HEPATIC DISORDERS, and is entirely free from calomel and other drastic drugs. It is cooling and soothing to the stomach and bowels. Taken a short time before breakfast, it establishes regular movements of the stomach, producing a vigorous physical and mental condition. Price, 25 and 50 cents. At druggists, or sent direct by the makers.

JACOBS' PHARMACY,
Atlanta, Ga.

INDIVIDUAL COMMUNION SERVICE

Every church should use his cleanly method. Over 25,000 churches now use our system. Our noiseless, dust-proof, self-collecting trays save 1/2 cost of other systems. Shallow glass used—no tipping of head. Outfits on trial. Give number communicants.

THOMAS COMMUNION SERVICE CO., BOX 460, LIMA, OHIO.

MAKE MONEY WRITING STORY-WRITING TAUGHT By Mail

Your manuscript criticized, revised, and typed. We also sell manuscripts on commission. For more than twenty years we have specialized in this business, and we bring results. Send to-day for our free booklet, "WRITING FOR PROFIT." It tells how and gives proof. NATIONAL PRESS ASSOCIATION, Dept. R. P., Indianapolis, Ind.

JACOBS & COMPANY
SPECIAL ADVERTISING AGENTS
PRINTERS
DESIGNERS
PHOTO ENGRAVERS
ELECTROTYPERS
Catalogues
— a Specialty
HOME OFFICE:
CLINTON, S.C.

Subscribe for the Bible Study Helper. Sixty cents per year.

Thorp Spring Christian College.

In accepting the presidency of Thorp Spring Christian College. It was with the one desire of assisting in building a school which will be in the first rank as an educational institution. Brethren have insisted that the schools controlled by members of the church of Christ have not been up to the standard in the way of teachers with accredited literary training. Thorp Spring Christian College for the next year will meet the demands along this line, but there will not be any sacrifice of Christian development in the teachers we will have.

My faculty for the next year will embrace the following instructors:

Brother W. F. Ledlow, who has been so favorably known as a preacher of the gospel for the past twenty years in Texas and Oklahoma. Not only is he a ripe Bible scholar, but he is well trained from the very best literary schools in Texas, having received the B.A. degree from Polytechnic College and the M.A. degree from the University of Texas. He was student teacher in Polytechnic College, also regular teacher in the same institution. For the past two years he has been president of Lockney Christian College. I am fortunate in securing him as president of our faculty.

Brother C. A. Gardner, one of our best and purest men. He has his B.A. and M.A. degrees from the University of Texas. Aside from his experience as a teacher in the public schools, he has taught three years in Abilene Christian College, and was with that school when they were first recognized as a junior college. He has been dean of Thorp Spring Christian College for the past year.

Brother J. E. Yarbrough, one of the strongest men, was for four years a student in the Nashville Bible School; student in George Peabody College for Teachers; principal of high school at Grandview, Texas, for four years; has B.A. and M.A. degrees from the University of Texas; has been a member of the State Board of Examiners since 1914; student teacher in the University of Texas; has been elected to fellowship in the University of Chicago, but comes to us as one of our regular faculty.

Brother Marvin L. Petty has taught in the public schools; was a student in Gunter Bible College for four years; received B.A. degree from University of Texas. Not only is he a strong teacher, but one of the best men we have, thoroughly consecrated to the cause of Christ.

Sister Cornelia B. Read has taught in the high schools and has a B.A. degree from the University of Texas. In Miss Read we have an exceptionally strong teacher.

Sister Mattie L. Pace, who will have charge of our department of oratory, expression, and art, has had fourteen years' experience. She is a graduate of Carr-Burdette College; student of Emerson School of Oratory; studied oratory under private teachers in Washington, D. C.; studied art in the Coreoran School and Sherratt's Studio, Washington, D. C.

Sister Dendy, who will have charge of our music department, has taught for a number of years. She is a graduate in music from William Woods College, of Missouri, also student in voice from the same school. She spent one year in Germany under the very best teachers of music and voice to be found in that country. Truly is she an artist in her work.

Our domestic science department will be in charge of a teacher who is thoroughly prepared for the work.

We are determined to give our students the very best that can be had in any school among us.

We have the largest administration building of any school controlled by members of the church of Christ. Our girls' dormitory is furnished with baths, lavatories, toilets, etc. The buildings are lighted by electricity. Though we are three miles from the railroad, we have all the necessary conveniences of the city, without the evil influences to be found in such places.

Watch Thorp Spring Christian College grow! Recently we bought fifty acres of land in a stone's throw of the college campus. On this ground we expect to teach agriculture, which we expect to begin after another year. We also have fine swimming pools, fishing water, and the finest athletic grounds to be found in Texas on this

The Nasal Bath.

There is one form of bath but little known, and far too little practiced. It is the nasal bath.

Colds or catarrh of the head produce in the nasal passages an excess of dense secretion. This covers the linings of the air chambers of the head and results often in dull catarrhal headache.

To relieve such a headache and to treat the cold or catarrh, use a little nasal douche, obtainable of any first-class druggist for a few cents.

Fill this douche with lukewarm water, adding a pinch of common salt.

Bow the head very low and flow the water from the bill of the little duck douche, first into one nostril, then into the other.

Retain the position for some time, flowing the salt water first to one side, then to the other, and drawing it down into the forehead by closing one nostril and inhaling through the other.

When the nasal cavity has thus been thoroughly cleansed, insert Mentholatum well into both nostrils; and if there is a headache, rub the forehead and temples with it.

fifty acres of land. Mammoth pecan trees and ideal places for picnic parties are to be found on this ground. Truly have we an ideal location for our school.

Parents, you should give your children the advantage of the very best in school work. Certainly Christian influence should surround your children. This they will have at Thorp Spring Christian College. We are persuaded that we will have the strongest faculty ever assembled in a school controlled by members of the church of Christ. We ask that you examine the claims we make and what we have to offer your boys and girls, and by all means place your children where they will have the most competent, as well as consecrated, teachers.

Thorp Spring Christian College is a junior college, and our students are given full credit for all work they do with us by the University of Texas, as well as other standard schools, without examination.

We will be glad to send you a catalogue of the school. Address Thorp Spring Christian College, Thorp Spring, Texas, for catalogue or any inquiries relative to buying or renting property. For any special information, you will for the present address C. R. Nichol, President, Denton, Texas.

"Deciding the Issue."

BY J. L. HINES.

This is the title of a tract that fell into my hands, indirectly, from the hand of R. A. Barnes, of Central City, Ky., and was written by George Wells Alexander, published and distributed by the "Sunday School Board, Southern Baptist Convention," of Nashville, Tenn. The title page is, "A Christian and a Baptist."

He states: "I should be a Christian on account of the following facts and conclusions."

"I am a sinner. (Rom. 3: 23; Isa. 53: 6; 1 John 1: 8.)" Amen!

"God has perfected a plan to save me, a sinner. (John 3: 16; Rom. 5: 6-8.) It is strange how a Baptist will claim salvation by faith alone. Notice, Mr. Alexander stopped at verse 8 (Rom. 5). Why did he not read verse 9, which says: "Being now justified by his blood, shall we be saved from the wrath of God through him." How are we saved through him and justified by his blood, Mr. Alexander? By faith only? No, by perfect faith. (James 2: 22.)

"I can appropriate the plan to myself by accepting Jesus Christ, through simple faith, as my personal Savior. (John 3: 16, 36.)" Does Mr. Alexander think he can appropriate the plan to himself by faith only? If so, please read James 2: 24.

"Having become a Christian, I should join a church of some denomination for the purpose of natural spiritual help and Christian instruction, and for the further extension of the kingdom of God (Matt. 28: 19, 20); also that I may be counted for Christ rather than against him. (Matt. 12: 30)."

Let us notice, "Having become a Christian." How did you become a Christian? By faith only? If so, chapter and verse, please. You say believing on Christ makes one a Christian. What does believing in Christ make, and how do you get into him in order to believe in him? Can one be a Christian out of Christ? Clear the water here, please. Next, "I should join a church of some denomination." Who told you to join a church? Did Christ or any apostle? Read Acts 2: 47; also 5: 13, 14. Next, "a church of some denomination." How many churches are there? One. (Eph. 4: 4; Col. 1: 8.) How many denominations? Over eight hundred and fifty. You say you was a Christian before "joining" the Baptist Church. If so, did you not belong to the church of Christ before "joining" the Baptist Church? If yes, what spiritual benefits do you receive in the Baptist Church that you did not receive in the church of Christ? If no, how can a man be a Christian and not be one of God's children, in his family, the church or kingdom?

Next: "The Bible is the only rule of faith and practice that is perfect and sufficient, the New Testament being the only standard of Christian duty and belief. (2 Tim. 3: 16, 17.) The Bible is above all creeds and confession, therefore safer to follow." You are right in this statement, but you seem to be ignorant of what the Baptists teach, and you have been kept in darkness; for do you not know that the Missionary Baptists adopted the Philadelphia "Confession of Faith?" If not, enlighten yourself. "The New Testament being the only standard of Christian duty and belief." Exactly so; but where is the doctrine of "faith alone, total depravity, close communion, mourner's bench, baptism because of remission of sins, and the name "Baptist Church" or denomination? Search the Scriptures, my dear sir. "The New Testament is the only standard of Christian duty and belief."

Invigorating to the Pale and Sickly.

The old, standard, general strengthening tonic, Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic, drives out malaria, enriches the blood, and builds up the system. A true tonic. For adults and children. Fifty cents.

Every word and act of the day should bear the King's seal—some mark, outward or hidden in the heart, to show that it belongs to him—the kind deed, the faithful work, the patience under provocation.

MONEY IN PIGEONS

Make Your Back Yard Profitable

THE demand for squabs in the Northern, Eastern and Southern markets has never been supplied, because pigeon raising as a business is comparatively new. Buy a half dozen pair of select birds, fence in a small portion of your back yard and watch them go to work. Success is easy. They raise from eight to fifteen pairs of squabs a year. Your squabs and fancy birds will bring handsome returns. You will actually make money in a hitherto useless part of your back yard. Pigeon raising is not a fad or fancy. It is a profitable business. Let us start you right. Our breeders are the best, and raised from prize-winning parents. We will furnish you with the birds and teach you how to raise them, and you will reap a handsome profit with a very little outlay. Thousands are taking advantage of this same opportunity. Write to-day for our literature on pigeon raising as a money making proposition, or better still, write us to send you a few pair of Belgian Carneaux at $3.00 per pair, White Swiss Mondaines at $5.00 per pair, White Kings at $3.50 per pair, or White Maltese at $4.00 per pair. Our birds are all guaranteed. Your money back if after two months you are not satisfied with their work. Better prices on larger orders. Write to-day and get the pick of the flock.

CAROLINA PIGEON PLANT,
Pen Series C— CLINTON, S. C.

Man His Own Worst Enemy.

The prevalence of digestive troubles in the United States and of diseases of the eliminative organs indicates that our people are very careless of health, for these troubles come from our own excesses. Too much eating, too much drinking, overwork, excessive mental strain, lack of exercise, too little rest, badly selected or badly prepared food—these and other causes produce the kidney and liver troubles and other closely correlated diseases.

Fortunately, nature provides a corrective for each disorder; but when there is a disorder in one organ, it represents a diseased condition of the entire body; for when one organ is out of order, others are more or less affected. Hence, it is desirable to treat the man rather than to treat the symptoms apparent in a single organ.

For this purpose an excellent preparation is Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Remedy. Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Remedy is compounded of various herbs of vegetable origin, each specifically effective on one or more organs. The group of herbs used in this prescription constitutes an excellent tonic for all digestive and eliminative organs and has been found, through a period of forty years, wonderfully effective in securing good results in cases of Bright's disease, uræmic poisoning, rheumatism, and other kidney and liver ailments.

For sale at all drug stores in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.

Big Deal on Sterling Hose.

Big purchase direct from the mills on "Sterling" Half Hose enables us to offer them while they last at startling prices.

"Sterling" Hose are stainless fast dye—good, clean, selected cotton yarn, nice weight, full seamless double heel and toe, wide elastic instep, long loop on elastic ribbed top, full standard lengths; come in any color wanted; one dozen to a box, solid sizes, 9 to 11.

Sent, postpaid, to any address in the United States for $1.40 per dozen. Money cheerfully refunded if not delighted. These hose are sold for and are worth 20 to 25 cents a pair in many places. Order to-day. The Bee Hive, Box F, Clinton, S. C.

Better Than Spanking.

Spanking does not cure children of bed wetting. There is a constitutional cause for this trouble. Mrs. M. Summers, Box 195, South Bend, Ind., will send free to any mother her successful home treatment, with full instructions. Send no money, but write her to-day if your children trouble you in this way. Don't blame the child; the chances are it can't help it. This treatment also cures adults and aged people troubled with urine difficulties by day or night.

BIBLE READERS AND CHRISTIAN WORKERS SELF-HELP HAND BOOK contains just the Help over hard places you have been looking for. Short and plain articles by nearly 100 experienced writers, edited by REV. J. M. COON. How to lead, teach, testify, pray and grow. Young Christians' helper, experienced workers' guide, aid, etc. Pocket size, 128 pages. Red Cloth, 25c. Morocco, 35c. postpaid. Agents wanted. Pentecostal Publishing Co., Louisville, Ky.

OBITUARIES

On account of the large number of obituary notices coming to the Gospel Advocate the following rules must be observed: Obituaries that do not exceed one hundred and fifty words are published free of charge. When they exceed this limit, one cent will be charged for every additional word. Payment must accompany notice or else it will be reduced to one hundred and fifty words. Poetry will not be printed.

Srygley.

"Uncle Bud" Srygley died at his home in Clarksville, Ark., on February 22, 1916, and was buried at Coal Hill, Ark., his old home town. He was baptized by Brother T. B. Larimore, about forty-five years ago, at Rock Creek, Ala. Later he and his brother, F. D. Srygley, led a colony of Alabamians to Coal Hill, Ark., where many of them yet live. "Uncle Bud" was a little over sixty-eight years old. He leaves a wife and several children to mourn his loss. He had been a very successful man in business, which he continued till his death. He had been falling in health for several years and died of paralysis. Brother Srygley was a brother of Brother F. B. Srygley, of Nashville, Tenn. We should not weep as the hopeless. The writer spoke to the many friends on the occasion of his burial.

M. L. LAWRENCE.

Pearson.

Eliza Farror Pearson, daughter of James F. and Rebecca Farror, was born on October 16, 1842, and died on December 23, 1915. In the early part of the summer of 1865 she was married to K. J. Pearson, who preceded her several years to the other shore. In the autumn of 1864 she obeyed the gospel, being baptized by C. K. Darnall, and became a member of the church at New Hermon. She and her husband were charter members of the church at Flat Creek, Tenn., when formed in 1868. Her educational advantages were better than the ordinary girls of that day, she having been a student at Mary Sharp College, a noted girls' school at Winchester, Tenn. She was a strong character of remarkable energy and business capacity. She was the mother of eight children—seven sons and one daughter. The three older sons died in comparative manhood; the others all live and are heads of families. My prayer is that God's blessings may rest upon them all.

J. D. FLOYD.

Hamilton.

On March 16, 1916, the death angel liberated the soul of Brother E. C. Hamilton, of Cherokee, Ala., from its "tenement of clay" and permitted, we trust, its transition to the glorified state. Brother Hamilton was the son of Bryce and Elizabeth Hamilton (the latter the only living sister of the mother of the writer). He was born at Frankfort, Ala., on October 4, 1862. In 1882 he was baptized into Christ; and on December 23, 1885, he was married to Miss Rosa Greenhill, of Barton, Ala., to which union were born seven children, five of whom survive him to mourn his departure, together with his aged mother, his wife, one sister, two brothers, and next to these the writer. He was a victim of tuberculosis, having spent two summers with the writer in Colorado, where he showed considerable improvement. He loved the church of God, and, where opportunity permitted, was always on hand. The writer shares true sympathy with Brother Hamilton's immediate relatives and numerous friends, and with them entertains the precious hope of a grand reunion ere many suns shall vanish over the western hills measuring the short expanse of this life.

E. C. FUQUA.

Terry.

A faithful old soldier of the cross answered the roll call on the Lord's day, March 19, 1916, when Brother Allen Terry took his departure for that other country, the land promised to the faithful. He was born on June 28, 1842, and when a little more than twenty-five years of age put on the full armor of the Christian warfare in baptism on the third Monday in August, 1867. From that time to the day of his death he loved to talk of the Christian life and influenced many to draw nearer to the Master. His natural helpfulness was increased by his faith in God's goodness and love, and he made his friends and neighbors rejoice in his presence. Brother Terry was not what the world calls an educated man in books, but was educated in that broader sense, in that he thought, and his active mind was broadened by contact and association with others who knew books better, but none had a clearer understanding of the simple truths taught in God's book than he. Brother Terry was married on January 27, 1864. He leaves his faithful helpmeet, Sister Eliza Terry, two sons, and a daughter (all married), a number of grandchildren, and many brethren and sisters in Christ to look forward to meeting him hereafter. All live near Athens, Ala., in the neighborhood where his life was spent.

EARL M. HOBSON.

Stafford.

William Lewis Stafford was born on December 7, 1858, near St. Louis, Mo. He was of Scotch-Irish descent. He came to West Texas with his parents in an early day and became thoroughly acquainted with frontier life. He engaged in teaching vocal music, during which time he obeyed the gospel, being baptized by Brother Matt. Cavinness. In 1889 he began preaching. There being but few congregations in West Texas at that time, he did not wait for a call, but went into the by-ways and hedges at his own charges and planted the cause which he so dearly loved. Sectarianism had preceded the truth to that section, as is usually the case, and hence he was called on often to defend the truth. It was the writer's privilege to be closely associated with him for more than twenty-five years. I moderated for him in his debate with A. S. Bradley. Brother Stafford drove Elder Bradley so hard that he denied the divinity of Christ. He was the strongest man in the prophecies that I ever met. I miss him so much. There is not a man in the State who can fill his place. He was married on October 11, 1883, to Miss Sallie Baker. She lived about six years. They had two children born to them. One died in infancy; the other, Sister Ethel Shipman, of Colorado City, Texas, survives. He married his second wife, who was Miss Lottie Smith, the granddaughter of the lamented Ed. Stirman, on December 30, 1906. To this union a son was born, who survives his father. Brother Stafford was married to his second wife exactly nine years and two days. She nursed him tenderly during his last illness. A loving husband and father and a true and faithful Christian and servant of Christ has gone. He was faithful to the end, which came on January 1, 1916. Let us labor to meet him in the "sweet by-and-by." IKE P. SCARBOROUGH.

Reagan.

It is fitting and proper that an appreciation be written of the life of Brother A. J. Reagan, who recently answered the call of death and was taken from our midst. His native State was Tennessee. He was from one of the best and oldest families of that State. The venerable E. G. Sewell is his uncle. Many preachers and men of sterling worth have come from this family. The very best qualities of the family could be found in our lamented brother. He served as an elder in the church here for a number of years. In his passing away, one of the strong forces of the church has been taken from us. He was a close Bible student, which made him fully capable of teaching the word of God. He could deliver some of the most beautiful talks at the Lord's table that it has ever been my privilege to hear. His delivery was dignified, earnest, and touching. He made a careful selection of words, and it seemed that he always said just what should be said. Brother Reagan was a clean, cultured, Christian gentleman. He found no delight in the common or uncouth, but had a great love for the pure and holy. No one ever heard a vile, unbecoming word proceed from his mouth. He was a man whom all respected because of his princely bearing. He was a man far above the average. The church is having to do without his good, wholesome influence. We miss it—O, so much! These kind words which came as a sweet balm to our hearts are heard no longer. But our loss is truly the gain of our beloved brother. May God bless the wife and son in their sadness. It is so hard for us to give our loved ones up; but God, the loving Father, knoweth best. We must look for comfort from him when the dark clouds hover over our souls. The sadness of death is banished by the precious promises relative to a future life, when there will be no more sad "good-byes." C. C. Klingman, Jesse P. Sewell (a cousin of the deceased), and the writer spoke words of comfort and appreciation at the grave. JEWELL MATTHEWS.

THE BIBLE IN QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

A new book from cover to cover, embracing nearly 30,000 questions and answers on the entire Bible. Compiled by J. A. Klingman and F. L. Rowe from the class notes, commentaries, and other works of J. W. McGarvey, I. B. Grubbs, Robt. Milligan, Wm. Hurte, David Lipscomb, Judge Catton, and others. Six hundred large pages with Harmony of the Gospels and eight full-page new maps. Prices range from $2.50 in cloth binding to $4 in flexible leather, thin paper. The first edition sold out in six weeks. The Firm Foundation wired for 300 copies. E. S. Vance, of Oklahoma, ordered 40 first order. W. F. Lemmons, of Texas, ordered over 100. Read these commendations:

- I have examined it, and find it to be a great book. I commend it to all students of the Bible.*—H. Leo Boles, Nashville, Tenn.
- I am immensely pleased with my copy.*—Isaac C. Hoskins, Florence, Ala.
- I have longed for just such a book as this.*—W. S. Buchanan, Phillips Bible Institute, Canton, O.
- There is nothing to equal it that I know of as a help in studying the whole Bible.*—Ira C. Moore, Barrackville, W. Va.
- I could not believe that so much could be condensed in so small a compass.*—D. J. Foynter, Albion, Neb.
- I like the book very much and hope to sell many.*—J. W. Dunn, El Paso, Texas
- Almost every one to whom I have shown the book has taken one.*—Chas. H. Robertson, Cleburne, Tex
- The book is eminently adapted to daily systematic Bible study.*—T. Q. Martin, Winchester, Ky.
- I have carefully and critically examined "The Bible in Questions and Answers." Possibly there has not come from the press of our brethren a book which is destined to be of such universal use as this one. Short, pointed, and practical. A long-felt want well filled.*—D. F. Draper, Georgetown, Tex.
- One of the good sisters here said she would not take $25 for her copy of "Questions and Answers" if she could not get another copy.*—J. A. Klingman, Lebanon, Tenn.
- "The Bible in Questions and Answers" is par excellence.*—Frank Baker, Belmont, Miss.

Agents wanted in every direction. Big commission to workers; Sample pages free.
F. L. ROWE, PUBLISHER
 422 Elm St., Cincinnati, Ohio

Here It Is!

My New 1916 Buggy Bargain Book for You FREE

Just off the press. Filled with startling bargains in buggies direct from my factory in the heart of the Kentucky hickory district. Here's the place to buy your buggy.

My catalog takes you on a trip through the factory—following the raw material from the time of its receipt through the various construction steps until it comes out a finished buggy. Illustrated in colors from photographs of buggies. Hundreds of dandy testimonials and pictures of pleased customers from everywhere who have bought

My $30,000 Guarantee Bond

Protects you when you buy the "Blue Grass" buggy. This monster bond means that every claim I make must be right. I have to keep my word whether I want to or not.

BOHON'S "BLUE GRASS BUGGIES" AT FACTORY PRICES.

These buggies are built by experts. The "Blue Grass" is the easiest riding, lightest running buggy on the market. The very best material is used. Genuine second growth, straight grain Kentucky split hickory is used. Full wrought gears doubly braced. Easy riding, French head, French point springs. Special light running 2000 mile axle. Upholstered in Bohon's hand-buffed auto leather. Guaranteed waterproof top.

Everything that can be put into a buggy to make it durable, easy riding and luxurious is found in my "Blue Grass." Yet my factory price to you is so low that I can save you $25 to $50. And you don't have to buy my buggies on faith or take my word for anything, either. Bohon's "Blue Grass" buggies are guaranteed for life and backed by a $30,000 Bond.

Try One On Your Own Roads for 60 Days Then Decide Whether You Wish To Keep It.

This gives you time thoroughly to test my "Blue Grass" Buggy. Try it on rough roads and at high speeds. If the good old "Blue Grass" shows a flaw let me know and I'll take it back. I'll pay freight both ways. So the fair trial doesn't cost you a cent. Nobody could make a fair offer like this unless he knew he had a buggy that was absolutely right in every respect. I also have a complete line of harness and pony vehicles and harness.

Write for the Free Book.

Read it and you'll realize I haven't told you half the story here. You'll see buggies so handsome and high grade you'll wonder how I can sell them at the prices I do. If you are buying a buggy or thinking of buying one this big bargain book will save you money. Write for it.

D. T. BOHON,
 987 Main Street Harrodsburg, Ky.

Relief Surely Comes.

The use of "Renwar" surely brings immediate relief to sufferers from rheumatism. The makers of this remarkable remedy have hundreds of letters testifying to this fact. Copies of these letters will be sent to any one on request. No matter how long you have been suffering from rheumatism, nor how many remedies have failed to relieve you, try "Renwar." It is guaranteed to give satisfactory results or money will be refunded. Get a fifty-cent bottle from your druggist to-day. If he does not have it, we will send a full-size bottle, postpaid, upon receipt of price. Warner Drug Company, Nashville, Tenn.

THE POCKET TESTAMENT LEAGUE

Announcing Vest Pocket New Testaments

The handiest, daintiest, and most useful edition of the New Testament published. It takes up little room and will really fit the pocket. Printed on fine paper from the largest type ever used in so small a book.

No. 2117 RL.

Size 2 3/4 x 4 1/4 inches.

Specimen of Type.

WHOSOEVER believeth that Jesus is the Christ is born of God; and every one that loveth him

No. 2117

Beautiful Colored Frontispiece in Each,
"Thy Word is a lamp unto my feet"

No. 2117 Bound in Ooze Tan Leather, flexible limp, gold side title, round corners, gold edges, containing membership certificate and suggested daily readings.

Single copies postpaid $.40

Per Dozen 4.00 carriage additional

RED LETTER EDITION

No. 2117 RL. Same as 2117 above WITH ALL THE WORDS OF OUR LORD AND SAVIOUR PRINTED IN RED.

Single copies postpaid $.55

Per Dozen 6.50 carriage additional

THE POCKET TESTAMENT LEAGUE

Is a world-wide organization of those who agree to honestly endeavor to read a portion of a chapter of the Bible daily, and to carry a Testament or Bible about with them. There are no fees of any kind and the aim of the League is to strengthen Christians and to win the unsaved to Christ by spreading God's Word. Members are therefore encouraged to give Testaments away to those who are willing to join the League and fulfill the conditions of reading a portion of a chapter each day.

Any person becomes a member of this League by securing a Testament and agreeing to the conditions set forth in the Membership certificate which accompanies each Testament.

For sale by the McQuiddy Printing Company, Nashville, Tenn.

TRY THE OLD RELIABLE

WINTERSMITH'S CHILL TONIC

For MALARIA CHILLS & FEVER
A FINE GENERAL STRENGTHENING TONIC

DROPSY TREATED. usually gives quick relief, soon removes swelling and short breath, often gives entire relief in 15 to 25 days. Trial treatment sent free.
DR THOMAS E GREEN Successor to
DR H H GREEN SONS Box N Chatsworth, Ga

Killingman.

Mrs. C. C. Killingman, (née Bell) was born on February 4, 1885, in Bedford County, Tenn. The Bell family moved to Obion County, Tenn., in 1895, and she dedicated her life to God the same year. In 1901 the Bell family moved to Dallas, Texas. Clemmie was sent to Potter Bible College in 1903, where she met Charlie Killingman. They were married in Dallas, Texas, on December 25, 1905, and lived in Odessa, Mo., where Brother Killingman was teaching in the Western Bible and Literary College till June, 1907, when they came to Texas and located with the church at Mount Vernon. On September 1, 1908, they reached Tokyo, Japan, where they remained till March 19, 1912, when they were compelled to leave Japan on account of Clemmie's declining health. Reaching California, they located in Riverside, where they remained for a year and a half. In September, 1913, they reached San Angelo, Texas, where Charlie worked with the church till June, 1915, when he accepted a position to teach in the Thorp Spring Christian College. Very soon thereafter they realized the fact that the altitude was too low for Clemmie, and she returned to San Angelo, where she was visited frequently by Charlie. He tried to fill out his engagement with the college. Fortunately, he was with her during her last hours. She was thought to be very much better, and he confidently looked forward to a joyous visit with her on that occasion; but it was so sad. She thought she was improving, but died so suddenly and unexpectedly. She passed from earth to the spirit land on January 23, 1916. Why should we mourn? Why should we weep? Why be sad and shed bitter tears of grief, when not a fear or doubt enters our minds or hearts as to the safe voyage and ultimate abode of that dear soul which took its flight from earth to the spirit land? She was good by nature, gentle, kind, affectionate, lovingly sympathetic; a true, loving, confiding wife and mother. Governing her children by gentle, loving persuasion, they became obedient because of her gentleness. Four bright children are left motherless. What greater loss could they have sustained? I have been in that home where love and gentleness reigned supreme. Even when suffering with that dread white plague, she was cheerful, submissively gentle, and a radiant smile adorned that gentle, loving face at all times; even when facing trials and difficulties, when the meal was low in the bin and Charlie was working, making tents and doing chores to replenish the scant larder, when the support of the church was not sufficient to supply that home, when there seemed to be little hope for her recovery, she was cheerful and uncomplaining. She and Charlie were with Brother Bishop and Clara in Japan; and when Brother Bishop came to California for treatment, Charlie stayed by him day and night—with me—and Clemmie visited him. They loved Brother Bishop and he loved them. We, as all who knew her, loved her for her true worth's sake. She was a noble character. Listen to the last page of the last letter she wrote to her husband less than a week before she passed to the beyond. These are, perhaps, the last lines she wrote. I copy the last page: "Such a life! What's the use, anyway? If I had only Rheumatism and Indigestion.

Practically all physicians and medical writers are agreed that there is a close relationship between indigestion and rheumatism. This view is substantiated by the fact that Shivar Spring Water, which is probably the best American mineral water for dyspepsia and indigestion, relieves rheumatism and the rheumatoid diseases, such as gout, sciatica, neuralgia, and nervous headache. All of these diseases are probably related, and all are probably due in whole or in part to imperfect digestion or to imperfect assimilation of food. Physicians who have studied this water and who have observed its effects in their practice believe that it relieves these maladies by rendering the digestion complete and perfect and thereby preventing the formation of those poisons which inflame the joints and irritate the nerves, and also by eliminating, through the kidneys, such poisons as have already been formed.

The following letters are interesting in this connection:

Dr. Crosby, a South Carolina physician, writes: "I have tested your spring water in several cases of rheumatism, chronic indigestion, kidney and bladder troubles, and in nervous and sick headaches, and find that it has acted nicely in each case, and I believe that if used continuously for a reasonable time it will produce a permanent cure. It will purify the blood, relieve debility, and stimulate the action of the liver, kidneys, and bladder, aiding them in throwing off all poisonous matter."

Dr. Avant, of Savannah, writes: "I suffered for years with a most aggravating form of stomach disorder, and consulted a number of our best local physicians, went to Baltimore and consulted specialists there, and still I was not benefited. I had about despaired of living, when I began to use Shivar Spring Water and in a short time was cured."

Mr. Rhodes, of Virginia, writes: "Please send me ten gallons of Shivar Spring Water quickly. I want it for rheumatism. I know of several who were cured of rheumatism with this water."

Editor Cunningham writes: "This water has done more good than any medicine I have ever taken for rheumatism. Am entirely free from pain."

Mr. McClam, of South Carolina, writes: "My wife has been a sufferer from rheumatism, and after drinking twenty gallons of your mineral water was entirely cured of the horrible disease."

Mr. Carter, of Virginia, writes: "Mrs. Carter has had enlarged joints on her hands, caused by rheumatism. Shivar Spring Water removed every trace of the enlargement. The water is simply excellent."

If you suffer with rheumatism, or with any chronic disease, accept the guarantee offer below by signing your name. Clip and mail to the

Shivar Spring.

Box 218, Shelton, S. C.

Gentlemen: I accept your guarantee offer and inclose herewith two dollars for ten gallons (two five-gallon demijohns) of Shivar Spring Water. I agree to give the water a fair trial, in accordance with instructions which you will send; and if I derive no benefit, you are to refund the price in full upon receipt of the two empty demijohns, which I agree to return promptly.

Name

Post Office

Express Office

DAISY FLY KILLER

Use it anywhere, and it kills all flies, mosquitos, and other insects. It is safe for all animals, and does not injure anything. Guaranteed effective. Sold by dealers, or 6 sent by express prepaid for $1.

KAROLD SOMERS, 150 DeKalb Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

WHEN WRITING OUR ADVERTISERS PLEASE MENTION THIS PUBLICATION

myself to consider, I'd be glad to go—the sooner, the better. But I love you and I love the children; so I want to stay and, if possible, be a help to you and them. Well, I shouldn't worry about it, for I believe that God overrules our lives and will do what is best for us in some way. I am happy—O, so happy; and no matter what betide, I have faith that will abide. I am happy in the love of Jesus. I wish I could hear a lot of good hymns. It would do me so much good. Send me a song book to read, and pray for me. I am cold, and I must close and think of other things. Lots and lots of love, dearest. Good-by. Clemmie." The body was brought from San Angelo to Thorp Spring, where her children, mother, and brothers were, and after a short service the journey was continued to Dallas, where the funeral services were concluded and the remains were deposited beneath the beautiful oaks in Oak Grove Cemetery, there to await the resurrection, when she will be numbered with the faithful.

J. D. ELLIOTT.

Commending R. C. McCaleb.

I take pleasure in commending Brother R. C. McCaleb to the brotherhood at large as a Christian gentleman and a loyal preacher of the gospel, worthy of the support of the brethren wherever he may chance to go. He lived in my home one year and we were in school together for about four years. He has been in several protracted meetings with me, and he has lived as becometh a Christian. He is a member of one of our best Christian families.

C. F. CANNON.

Rocky, Okla.

Don't Use Soap

on your hair. It is too strongly alkaline and will do a great deal of damage. The hair should be of a soft and silken texture. Each individual hair is of delicate construction and requires scientific, careful treatment. If your hair is harsh, dry, coarse, and scanty, then you are not giving it proper treatment. The hair needs food just as the rest of your body; and in order to keep your scalp nourished and your hair plentiful and beautiful, you should supply it with the proper food and treatment. The Creoles, of Louisiana, possessed a formula for keeping the hair beautiful, and for many years kept the secret to themselves; but now you may enjoy their discovery by using "La Creole" Hair Color Restorer, the same recipe which the Creoles used. It darkens hair in the natural way and keeps the scalp in healthy condition. For sale by all reliable dealers. Price, $1. Manufactured by Van Vleet-Mansfield Drug Company, Memphis, Tenn.

Pulpit Bibles

Largest assortment, finest Bibles at lowest cost. Write to us for full description and prices.

WENTECOSTAL PUBLISHING CO., Inc., LOUISVILLE, KY.

OUTLINES OF BIBLE STUDY

REVISED AND ENLARGED

BY G. DALLAS SMITH

FOR USE IN

BIBLE DRILLS, BIBLE READINGS, BIBLE CLASSES, PRAYER MEETINGS, AND HOME STUDY

A BRIEF DESCRIPTION

Outlines of Bible Study (Revised and Enlarged) is a book of one hundred and twenty pages, besides five full-page maps covering all Bible lands. It is printed in large, clear type, on good, heavy paper, and is substantially bound in stiff cloth.

The book contains seventeen drill lessons for use in Bible drills, Bible readings, or any other Bible class where it is desired to cover the entire scope of the Sacred Record in a short time.

Outlines of Bible Study is not a commentary in any sense of the word. It contains but few comments. It is not "literature" in the same sense that some object to literature. It rather guides one in his study that it may be intelligent and systematic.

PRICES

Single copy, prepaid, fifty cents; one dozen copies, prepaid, $5.50; twenty-five copies, not prepaid, $10; fifty copies, not prepaid, $18.50; one hundred copies, not prepaid, $35.

McQUIDDY PRINTING COMPANY
NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE

Get Your Machine at Half Price

$12⁹⁵

Five dollars brings you this high quality sewing machine, freight prepaid. Give it a thorough thirty-day trial; if you are entirely satisfied, pay for it in three monthly installments. If after thirty days you don't think it is the equal of any machine regularly sold at double the price, send the machine back; we pay the freight and return your money. This, in a nut-shell, is the big money-saving plan of the Religious Press Co-Operative Club.

Get our catalogue and investigate fully the six splendid bargains in high-grade sewing machines offered you under these terms. These machines are all fully warranted for ten years—during this period we replace free any defective parts. Prices range from $12.95 to $27.80. Not "cheap" machines, but absolutely the best that can be manufactured at the price—machines that you would have to pay twice as much for from agents or at retail stores. They are all sold under the same plan—

Easy Terms—Thirty Days Trial

The Club represents the co-operative plan of buying. By agreeing to sell a large number of these machines, we secured from a highly reputable manufacturer prices very little above actual cost. In buying from us you get your machine at carload-lot prices, plus the very light expense of operating the Club. All middlemen's profits, agents' commissions, salaries, etc., are saved.

Send us this Coupon Today and get our catalogue. Let us tell you more fully about the Club Plan. Investigate the superb, easy-running, guaranteed machines that you can buy under this plan at half usual prices, and on easy terms. Remember the thirty day trial feature. Simply cut out this coupon, write in your name and address and mail to us.

Religious Press Co-Operative Club
113 W. Carolina Ave., Clinton, S. C.

FREE CATALOGUE COUPON

Religious Press Co-Operative Club
113 W. Carolina Ave., Clinton, S. C.

Please send me your catalogue, and show me how I can save half the purchase price on a high quality sewing machine through the Co-Operative Club Plan.

Name _____
Address _____

FRECKLES

Now Is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freckles as the prescription ointment—double strength—is guaranteed to remove these homely spots.

Simply get an ounce of ointment—double strength—from your druggist, and apply a little of it night and morning and you should soon see that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the lighter ones have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than an ounce is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a beautiful clear complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength ointment as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.

PELLAGRA

Cured Or You Pay Nothing

I have cured—cured to stay cured—90% of all who have taken my Pellagra Cure. What I have done for others I GUARANTEE to do for you or my treatment will cost you nothing. Highly endorsed by Physicians, Bankers, Ministers, County Officials and others. If you doubt, write any official or merchant in Walker County. No interference with work—no restrictions on your eating.

SYMPTOMS are: Hands red like sunburn; sore mouth; throat, tongue and lips flaming red; much mucus and choking; indigestion and nausea; diarrhea or constipation; mind affected and many other symptoms. No matter what anyone tells you about FREE Book Pellagra, write for my which fully explains my theory of the cause, prevention and cure of this dreaded disease—full of interesting facts which I have proven beyond doubt. Also contains full particulars of my remarkable offer of NO CURE—NO PAY. Free diagnosis to anyone sending symptoms. Send no money but write today!

Dr. W. J. McCrary, Dept 238 Carbon Hill, Alabama
Show this to some unfortunate sufferer

A safe and palatable laxative for children

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup

Absolutely Non-narcotic

Does not contain opium, morphine, nor any of their derivatives.

By checking wind colic and correcting intestinal troubles common with children during the period of teething, helps to produce natural and healthy sleep.

Soothes the fretting baby and thereby gives relief to the tired mother.

WHY NOT TRY POPHAM'S ASTHMA MEDICINE

Gives prompt and positive relief in every case. Sold by druggists. Price, $1. Trial package by mail, ten cents.

Williams Mfg. Co., Props., Cleveland, O.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM
A toilet preparation of merit. Helps to eradicate dandruff. For Restoring Color and Beauty to Gray or Faded Hair.
50c. and $1.00 at Druggists.

HINDERCORNS Removes Corns, Callouses, etc. stops all pain, ensures comfort to the feet, makes walking easy. 10c. by mail or at Druggists. Huxco Chemical Works, Patheque, N. Y.

Reports of Funds

For the Church at Boulder, Col.
James H. Bailey writes from Boulder, Col.:

I thought it proper to let the brethren know how we are progressing with our meetinghouse, so I am sending a report of contributions: O. E. Spencer (building site), $500; T. P. Counts, $150; J. H. Bailey, $50; H. H. Bailey, Topeka, Kan., $20; N. F. Bailey, Alta Vista, Kan., $5; Wilson Hardware Company, $10; Mr. Shidler, $10; Henry Harmon, $100; Max Allen, $20; G. C. Adams, $5; Mrs. George Turner, $1.

I am truly sorry not to be able to report so much as one cent from the brotherhood at large, as I have not received anything in answer to my appeal in any of the papers. Can it be possible that the brethren are not interested in spreading the gospel in Colorado? Surely not; it must be that they have overlooked the matter. So, thinking that such is the case, I am going to ask you again to help us. I should feel bad indeed, in making reports later, to still have to say: "The brethren at large have not helped us any." My father, at Topeka, Kan., and my brother, at Alta Vista, are the only ones at a distance who have assisted us. May God help us all to do our full duty.

For Brother Elkins.

Brother Tice Elkins writes from Childress, Texas:

Since last report I have received help as follows: From Brother Wolfe, Indiana, $1; Brother King, Michigan, $1; Sister Burgess, New Mexico, 50 cents; Brother Garrison, Teik, $5; Brother Howard, Hoolyan, 50 cents; Brother Payne, Cottonwood, $5; the brethren here at home, $11; Brother Rowe, Cincinnati, Ohio, $1. This makes a total of twenty-five dollars since last report, for all of which we are deeply thankful. In all, we have received from every source since January 1, one hundred and eighty-one dollars for our own use, and during the time from February 1 till now (April 6) we have faced expenses, in sickness and loss of work, at least seventy-five dollars per month; so I am a long way behind what I would have been if I had been at work as I had planned. But we are glad to say that the prospect is better, though I cannot yet leave home for meetings. I preached at Kirkland twice last Lord's day and had one confession. I went back Monday and held a service. Dr. Sparks baptized the candidate. I will preach for the Kirkland brethren half time this year.

For the Church at Shreveport.

B. U. Baldwin writes from Shreveport, La.:

The brethren at Shreveport wish to thank the contributors for the amounts here reported, and hope and pray that this will do much good in this sinful State. From the church at Mineola, Texas, $8.25; O. K. Alexander, Beaumont, Texas, $2.50; W. H. Dunlap, Groveton, Texas, 50 cents; C. H. Tompson, Groveton, Texas, 50 cents; H. H. Foster, Groveton, Texas, $1; E. S. At-

UGH! A DOSE OF NASTY CALOMEL.

It salivates! It makes you sick and you may lose a day's work.

You're bilious, sluggish, constipated and believe you need vile, dangerous calomel to start your liver and clean your bowels.

Here's my guarantee! Ask your druggist for a fifty-cent bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone and take a spoonful to-night. If it doesn't start your liver and straighten you right up better than calomel and without griping or making you sick, I want you to go back to the store and get your money.

Take calomel to-day, and to-morrow you will feel weak and sick and nauseated. Don't lose a day's work. Take a spoonful of harmless, vegetable Dodson's Liver Tone to-night and wake up feeling great. It's perfectly harmless; so give it to your children any time. It can't salivate; so let them eat anything afterwards.

Gospel Advocate Piano Club Prevents Waste.

You will not find many men who would deliberately throw away one hundred dollars, and yet there are many who unintentionally waste that amount every year in one way or another. Careless buying is one of the most common ways of wasting money. The founders of the club had that fact in mind when they adopted the principle of cutting down the cost of pianos by cutting out the waste in marketing them. The club claims to save its members forty per cent, and asks you to give it an opportunity to prove this fact to your entire satisfaction by thoroughly testing the piano in your own home before obligating yourself to pay for it. It will cost you only a postal card to investigate; and if the testimony of club members who have already received their instruments is to be relied upon, you will undoubtedly be delighted with the saving in price, the convenient terms, and the superior quality of the instruments. By uniting our orders in a club of one hundred members, each secures the benefit of the lowest possible factory price and yet is responsible only for his own order.

Write for your copy of the catalogue and full particulars to-day. Address The Associated Piano Clubs, Gospel Advocate Department, Atlanta, Ga.

"Special" Silk Hose Offer.

To introduce the beautiful "La France" silk hose for ladies and gentlemen, we offer three pairs, 50-cent quality, for only one dollar, postpaid, in the United States. Pure silk from calf to toe, with durable elastic heels, top, heel, and toe for long wear. Sizes, 8 to 10½. In white, tan, or black; assorted if desired. Money back promptly if not delighted. La France Silk Store, Box G, Clinton, S. C.

Pastors: WE publish Books, Pamphlets, Minutes, Sermons, Church Directories, Manuals and reprint books and magazines. Specialists in Church Envelopes. Write us for prices. 419 S. Third St. MAYES PRINTING CO., Inc. Louisville, Ky.

kinson, Lovelady, Texas, $1; two brethren, Elkhart, Texas, $2; W. T. Sullivan, Brownsboro, Texas, 50 cents; J. H. Parish, Powell, Texas, $2; I. A. Nolen, Powell, Texas, $4; E. M. Glass, Powell, Texas, $1; Mrs. E. P. Cuthbertson, Powell, Texas, $1; Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Flanigan, Corsicana, Texas, $1.50; W. C. Collen, West, Texas, $1; Mrs. Katie Purkins, McGregor, Texas, $1; J. H. Wilson, Granger, Texas, $2; W. D. Evredge, Granger, Texas, $10; J. W. Davidson, Granger, Texas, $5; Mrs. Martha C. Wilson, Bartlett, Texas, $1; church of Christ, Holland, Texas, $4; Will Lawrence, Bartlett, Texas, $5; Miss Ellie Summers, Holland, Texas, $2; T. J. Stephens, Killeen, Texas, 50 cents; Mrs. H. P. Daugherty, Killeen, Texas, 50 cents; Will Rancier, Killeen, Texas, $1; Mrs. S. E. Stephens, Killeen, Texas, 50 cents; V. A. Willis, Killeen, Texas, $1; F. E. Grubbs, Killeen, Texas, 50 cents; W. E. Wicker, Killeen, Texas, $2.50; Dr. W. H. Walker, Killeen, Texas, $5; W. D. Nichol, Lometa, Texas, $1; Mrs. S. A. Abernathy, Brady, Texas, $1; M. N. Simpson, Mercury, Texas, $1; church of Christ, Blanket, Texas, $6.57; Mrs. Lila Deen, Blanket, Texas, $1; W. A. Bradley, Indian Gap, Texas, $2; J. H. Daniels, Pottsville, Texas, $1.50; G. T. Smith, Hamilton, Texas, 50 cents; A. L. Bryan, Hamilton, Texas, 50 cents; church of Christ, Huckabay, Texas, $4.30; Miss Clara Copeland, Huckabay, Texas, $1; Mrs. M. P. Copeland, Huckabay, Texas, 50 cents; H. D. Dacus, Huckabay, Texas, $1; E. K. Jones, Stephenville, Texas, $1; K. N. Baxley, Stephenville, Texas, $1; D. N. Darnell, Thorp Spring, $1; E. L. Neve, Thorp Spring, Texas, 50 cents; S. H. Crawford, Thorp Spring, Texas, 50 cents; Carl A. Gardner, Thorp Spring, Texas, $1.50; R. C. Bell, Thorp Spring, Texas, $1; H. D. Dupp, Thorp Spring, Texas, $1; Otto Foster, Cleburne, Texas, $1; F. L. Young, Cleburne, Texas, $1; J. M. Cooper, Rio Vista, Texas, $1; church of Christ, Rio Vista, Texas, $4; Mrs. W. B. Fine, Granbury, Texas, 50 cents; Mrs. Holland, Midlothian, Texas, $1; Mrs. T. H. Jackson, Hillsboro, Texas, 50 cents; B. C. King, Waxahachie, Texas, $5; Ben Ewing, Garrett, Texas, $1; R. M. Jackson, Ennis, Texas, $1; J. C. Jackson, Garrett, Texas, 50 cents; S. W. Peteet, Garrett, Texas, $2; John Merritt, Palmer, Texas, $1; W. T. Roach, Bardwell, Texas, $1; E. E. Mills, Dallas, Texas, 50 cents; W. H. Duncan, 50 cents; T. A. McAdams, Dallas, Texas, $1; J. F. Peeler, Dallas, Texas, $1; Miss Allace Fisher, Dallas, Texas, $1; W. I. Ross, Dallas, Texas, 50 cents; M. C. Duncan, Dallas, Texas, 25 cents; J. B. Nelson, Dallas, Texas, $1; Dr. B. F. Crabtree, Dallas, Texas, $1; Roy Holt, Dallas, Texas, $1; a merchant at Handley, Texas, $1; Mrs. A. Pettigruie, Fort Worth, Texas, $1; a young sister at Mineola, Texas, $1.

Again we thank the good brethren for the donations they have given us. Please do not forget us, for we are anxious to build up the cause of Christ here in this city.

For the Church at Paris, Texas.

Lee Garrett writes from Paris, Texas:

The following is, so far as I can make it, a correct report up to and including the contributions received on April 11:

When Louise of Prussia Went to Napoleon

One Hundred Years Ago

Louise went to Napoleon on a delicate and humiliating mission.

A clever woman, a beautiful woman, was Louise of Prussia. Had she accomplished her mission that night, the history of Europe would be different today.

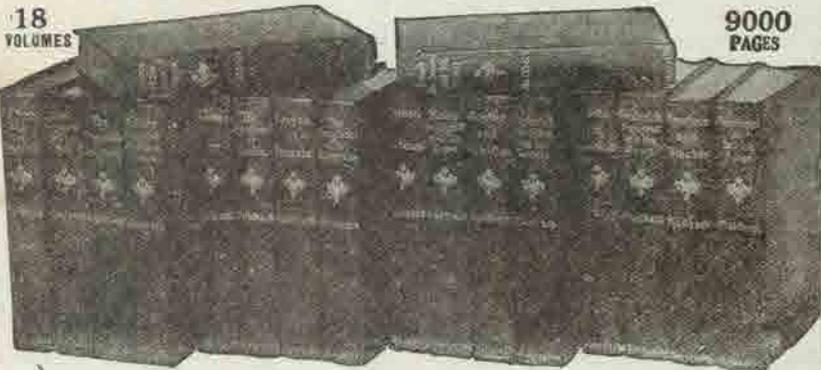

Beneath the surface of the mighty war now going on are the secret, twisted threads of intrigue and passions of a hundred years.

To understand the fearful upheaval in Europe you must know that hidden history frankly told in imperishable form in

Muhlbach's Historical Romances

These wonderful volumes tell the private, personal life and character of great men and women. History is here written in story form. These volumes are beyond question the most fascinating historical romances that have ever been given to the world. They contain a history of the crises in Germany, Austria, Russia, England, Switzerland, Egypt, France, Holland and Prussia during two hundred years of startling events, told in intensely interesting and romantic form. All classes are represented in these volumes as they lived and loved, thought and acted. Thus the human interest always prevails and has given this set of books enduring popularity. These wonderful historic romances are among the books that never die. They are interesting, instructive, reliable, truthful, wholesome and good. In the volume devoted to Napoleon and Blucher practically every historic character that the life of the great emperor touched in any way is here given—all the men and women of his time. The new edition is printed from new plates, upon extra quality of paper from easy-to-read type, are attractively illustrated and bound in Art Buckram Cloth, titles stamped in gold.

The Encyclopedia Britannica says: "Muhlbach's works show a talent for lively description and narration that gives enduring popularity and a power in weaving alluring romances from those stirring times that is unsurpassed."

Here Is Our Bargain Offer—Send No Money

Just sign and mail attached coupon and we will ship you the complete set of this beautiful edition for five days' examination in your own home. You can decide then for yourself whether or not you wish to buy. You can return the set at our expense if it fails to give you entire satisfaction. Should you desire to purchase send us $1.00 as first payment and pay the balance at the rate of $2.00 per month for only nine months until our special price of $19.00 is paid. The regular subscription price is $40.00. Thousands of sets have been sold at this figure. The reason we are able to cut the price to only $19.00 is that our method of sale by mail eliminates all middle men's profits. There is neither a dealer's profit nor an agents commission involved in the transaction. We ship direct from factory to consumer and guarantee satisfaction in every way. Mail coupon promptly.

HERE ARE THE CONTENTS

1. Napoleon and the Queen of Prussia.
2. The Empress Josephine.
3. Napoleon and Blucher.
4. Queen Hortense.
5. Marie Antoinette and Her Son.
6. Prince Eugene and His Times.
7. The Daughter of an Empress.
8. Joseph II and His Court.
9. Mohammed Ali and His House.
10. Henry VIII and His Court.
11. Berlin and Sans Souci.
12. Goethe and Schiller.
13. The Merchant of Berlin.
14. Louise of Prussia and Her Times.
15. Old Fritz and the New Era.
16. Andreas Hofer.
17. Frederick The Great and His Court.
18. Frederick the Great and His Family.

INSPECTION COUPON

THE RIVERSIDE PUBLISHING CO., (INC.)
Marquette Bldg., Chicago, Illinois.

Please ship me for examination and approval one set Muhlbach's Historical Novels, eighteen volumes, Art Buckram cloth binding. If satisfactory, I will send you $1.00 after five day's examination and $2.00 a month thereafter for nine months. If the set does not meet my entire approval after five day's examination, I will notify you and hold subject to your order and return at your expense as offered Gospel Advocate readers.

Name _____
Address _____

Enclose business card, letter head or give references

Church at Denton, Texas, $30 and trustee under the will of Rachel Achor, three boxes of clothing; F. L. Rowe, deceased, $25; F. L. Rowe, trustee under the will of Emily Ragland, deceased, $25; R. C. White, Nashville, Tenn., $10; W. H. Church, Forsythe, Mo., $4; S. A. Carmichael, Louisville, Ky., $5; church at Austin, Texas, $26; E. C. Gorman, Stanford, Ky., $5; Mary Porter, Louisville, Ky., $1; church at Bowie, Texas, by B. E. Watson, $6; Mrs. Alda May, Franklin, Ky., $1; R. P. Thurman, College Grove, Tenn., $7; Miss Ida Whidman, New Albany, Ind., $1; reported in the Leader, by F. L. Rowe, $6; Etta Newton, Gilmore, Ark., $10; D. W. Gilliam, Benton, Ky., $2.82; member, Martin, Tenn., $1; A. J. Ferrell and wife, Quanah, Texas, Route 2, $1; church at Lott, Texas, by W. P. Skaggs, $7.50; R. N. Nix, Vinita, Okla., $2; T. H. Joyner, Hartsville, Tenn., $2; church at Telephone, Texas, by Thomas G. Fowler, $13.50; Mrs. R. A. Witte, Lockney, Texas, $5; Oak Valley church, by D. A. Matheson, Stroud, Okla., $5; Mrs. J. W. Gibson, 2000 Pennsylvania Avenue, S. E., Washington, D. C., $1.25; Ray Robinson, West Fork, Ark., $1; L. S. Ivy, Dorris, Texas, $2; church at Cordell, Okla., by L. L. Grogan, $45; J. B. Hartman, Route 1, Murfreesboro, Tenn., $10; J. J. McMeans, Rogersville, Ala., $5; church at Miami, Fla., by W. R. Logan, $20; one quilt top, Mrs. Daisy S. Oldham, Henning, Tenn., Route 1; W. F. Neal, 550 Longside Avenue, Meaford, Ontario, Canada, $2; Phillip Myers, Livingston, Tenn., $1; Mrs. V. Gelespi, Route 5, Oxford, Miss., $1; church, by Lewis Cady, Yale, Mich., $10; Mrs. J. B. Bogue, Timpson, Texas, $1; Mrs. A. J. Myers, Lynn Grove, Ky., $1.75; Mr. and Mrs. Frank B. Shepherd, Charleston, Miss., $5; church at Amarillo, Texas, by C. C. Loving, $24.07; Mrs. Hollie Cook, Statewood County, W. Va., 50 cents; Mrs. T. N. Glass, Route 3, Ringgold, Ga., $1.35; D. L. Lindsay, Stamford, Texas, $25; church at Thorp Spring, Texas, by W. F. Cornelius, $7; church at Sherman, Texas, one box. All boxes received were large and filled with such nice things.

The entire church is so grateful to those who have had fellowship with us in our sufferings. All that I know to say is that we thank you. So soon as possible I shall be glad to tell you what we are going to try to do. We will appreciate any suggestion from any and all who may feel that they can help us in suggesting another church building. I mean the kind of building.

If I am not mistaken, we have received contributions from nine States and from Canada. The amount is $370.74. We have promises which we will receive next week. I feel that if your fellowship reaches one thousand dollars, that we can build a neat, commodious house. I shall not ask for this amount; but if there are those who are able and want to have fellowship in this that is so dear to our hearts, how grateful we will be to you! With what is promised that we are soon to receive, our wants, so far as clothing is concerned, are very well supplied.

SUMMER SCHOOL OF THE SOUTH

University of Tennessee, Knoxville.

Fifteenth Session, June 20 to July 28, 1916. Largest, best and cheapest Summer School for Teachers in the South. Former features retained. New Courses in Library Administration, Home Economics, Manual Arts, Agriculture, Country Life Problems, Latin-American History and Trade Conditions, Preparation for College, Credit toward Degrees, Reduced Railroad Rates. FIVE DUSK LECTURES, VISITATIONS, EXCURSIONS. Write for Announcement. Address Business Manager.

Prompt Action Urged.

Despite the fact that we have wars and rumors of wars, the Gospel Advocate is making many new friends and the paper is steadily growing in favor. Considering the war conditions and the unsettled condition of the whole world, we congratulate ourselves on the showing the Gospel Advocate has made. But while this is true, the paper should have a much larger circulation than it has.

The editors of the Advocate are seeking to know nothing but "Christ, and him crucified." Their chief purpose is to present to the world the whole counsel of God, for they still say, with Paul: "For I am not ashamed of the gospel: for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth: to the Jew first, and also to the Greek." (Rom. 1: 16.) If the religious world truly believed and practiced the gospel, the present war in Europe could not exist. The Christian Englishman, German, and Frenchman should be kneeling side by side in prayer. Thanks be to God, there are, as it is, some English and French praying for the Germans and some Germans praying for the French and English. Christians should not grow weary in well-doing. God will reward their labors.

We should redouble our energies in the great work of sowing the seed of the kingdom in the dissemination of Christian literature—literature that opposes carnal wars and shows them to be unscriptural and anti-christian. It is no time to give up in despair and cry that the religion of Christ is a failure. Man's religion is a failure, but Christ's is not.

We want every reader of this paper to send us at least one new yearly subscriber to the paper. We most earnestly request all those who are in arrears to send us one dollar and fifty cents for a year's renewal, also send us one new yearly subscriber. We are stamping this article in the paper of all those whose subscriptions are past due. Look at the date on the yellow label on your paper. If it reads "Jan. 1, 1916," your paid-up subscription expired at that time. One dollar and fifty cents will renew your subscription to January 1, 1917. If your paper should be stamped and the date shows your paper paid in advance, you may know the one doing the stamping made a mistake. Only dead people make no mistakes. Your prompt action will be helpful to us and will be appreciated by us. Many small amounts aggregate a large sum. Send a remittance today. Make checks and money orders payable to the Gospel Advocate, Nashville, Tenn.

PUBLISHERS: GOSPEL ADVOCATE.

“SERMON ON THE MOUNT” NUMBER

Gospel Advocate

Volume LVIII.

NASHVILLE, TENN., MAY 4, 1916.

Number 18.

A COMPLETE COMMENTARY

For the first time in the history of the religious press, the Gospel Advocate has the pleasure of presenting to the public, and especially to its readers, a complete commentary of the Savior's matchless "Sermon on the Mount" in one issue. The articles in this number represent the careful, consecrated effort of twenty-seven writers, each of whom has paid a tribute to the great Teacher of whom it was said: "Never man spake like this man."

It is hardly necessary to suggest that all who appreciate and rejoice in this literary achievement will preserve the issue.

WRITERS	SUBJECTS	PAGE
M. C. Kurfees.....	Jesus Christ as a Preacher and Teacher..	434
J. C. McQuiddy.....	"Blessed are the Poor in Spirit".....	435
G. R. Bethurum.....	Happiness in the First Beatitude.....	436
T. Q. Martin.....	"Blessed are They that Mourn".....	437
W. L. Karnes.....	"Blessed are the Meek".....	437
J. Paul Slayden.....	"Blessed are They that Hunger".....	438
A. B. Lipscomb.....	"Blessed are the Merciful".....	438
E. G. Cullum.....	"Blessed are the Pure in Heart".....	438
F. W. Smith.....	"Blessed are the Peacemakers".....	439
I. C. Hoskins.....	"Blessed are" the Persecuted.....	440
F. C. Sowell.....	Saving Qualities of True Disciples.....	441
E. G. Sewell.....	"Ye are the Salt of the Earth".....	441
W. H. Carter.....	"Ye are the Light of the World".....	442
F. B. Srygley.....	"I Came Not to Destroy, but to Fulfill"....	444
James E. Scobey....	Pharisaism, Ancient and Modern.....	444
S. F. Morrow.....	Reconciliation Before Acceptable Offering.	445
E. A. Elam.....	Adultery, Marriage, Divorce.....	445
S. H. Hall.....	"Swear Not at All".....	447
G. Dallas Smith....	"An Eye for an Eye," and the Better Way..	448
Morgan H. Carter..	Almsgiving, Fasting, Prayer.....	450
David Lipscomb....	Laying Up Treasures.....	450
P. L. Hovius.....	"No Man Can Serve Two Masters".....	450
John R. Williams...	"Be Not Anxious".....	451
Jarratt L. Smith...	Not Judging, but Forgiving.....	451
David Lipscomb, Jr.	"Neither Cast Your Pearls Before Swine"...	452
O. L. Hardin.....	"Ask, and It Shall Be Given You.....	452
E. A. Elam.....	The Two Ways.....	453
A. O. Colley.....	"By Their Fruits Ye Shall Know Them"....	453
F. W. Smith.....	The Two Builders.....	454

MISCELLANEOUS

At Home and Abroad.....	449
Itinerary Notes, F. B. Srygley.....	454
A Question Answered, U. G. Wilkin- son	455
The Master's Vineyard.....	456, 460
Among the Colored People.....	458

Notes from Knoxville, Tenn.....	462
Come to Thorp Spring, Texas.....	462

SELECTIONS

Robert Burns on Happiness.....	437
Appreciations	443
Gladness (poem)	447
The Nazarene (poem)	448

Jesus Christ as a Preacher and Teacher.

M. C. Kurfees.

(Written especially for the "Sermon on the Mount" Number.)

The Sermon on the Mount, like the Twenty-third Psalm, is unique in the religious literature of the world. The latter, from "the sweet psalmist of Israel," with increasing popularity and ever-widening influence, has sung itself through three thousand years and is to-day enshrined as never before in the hearts of admiring millions; the former, by the judgment of all the ages, is preëminently the world's masterpiece in homiletic literature. This matchless Sermon has been selected as the general theme of a special number of the Gospel Advocate—the present number—and in this article we are to consider its divine Author in his capacity as a preacher and teacher.

How ill-prepared we feel for the task! The theme is worthy of an angel's tongue or the most gifted and facile pen that ever portrayed human character. In such a limited and otherwise imperfect sketch, which, at its best, must fall far below the merits of the lofty theme, we shall endeavor to consider His personality, His diction and style, and His doctrine.

1. His Personality. Most of the photographic representations of Jesus, conformed, of course, to the artist's imagination, are more or less beautiful and attractive. These are a reflection of tender and sympathetic human feeling for the great Galilean Prophet, rather than an accurate portraiture of his personal appearance, of which, in the inspired picture of him, it is distinctly said: "His visage was so marred more than any man, and his form more than the sons of men;" and "when we see him, there is no beauty that we should desire him." But whatever may have been his exact facial appearance or his personal appearance otherwise, we are justified by the pen picture of him, sketched by the four evangelists, in the conclusion that he was a complete embodiment of the innocent, the meek, the just, the gentle, and the compassionate, as well as the brave, the calm, the dignified, and the serious; while coupled with it all was his manifest and supreme consciousness of the constant presence of a higher power. He seems never to have been taken by surprise, and there was the utter absence of the arrogant, the haughty, the proud, the overbearing, the ill-tempered, the impatient, or even the excitable in the least degree; and when he is compared with all precedent and all subsequent characters, we are justified in the further conclusion that he towers over them all as the unique personality of the whole human race.

2. His Diction and Style. Here again we are not only face to face with a unique character, but with one whose differentiation marks its great superiority over all others. There does not appear to have been any effort on his part to be simple in style or diction, and yet he was so in both in an eminent degree. "He opened his mouth and taught," "he spake to them many things in parables," "and he sat down and taught the multitudes out of the boat"—these and kindred expressions used of him, with the model discourses which follow, indicate in a high degree the three great essentials of style—perspicuity, energy, and elegance. He was not a preacher in much that is signified by the name to-day; and hence, measured by the criterion of modern ideas of pulpit eloquence and oratory, Jesus would fall below the standard. He was not a clergyman in the modern sense. The names of Baxter, Bossuet, Fenelon, Fuller, Massillon, Robertson, Liddon, Wilberforce, Chalmers, Hall, Beecher, and Spurgeon are conspicuous on the roll of fame as great preachers; and yet there was something sublimely beautiful and simple in the style and diction of Jesus that lifted him far above and distinguished him from them all. With him, it was not so much the impassioned utterance, with its varying cadences and rhythmical modulation, as it was the thing uttered; not so much the ornate verbal dress as it was the divine thought which it clothed; not so much the manner of speech as the matter spoken.

3. His Doctrine. It is preëminently in the realm of doctrine where Jesus towers over all other preachers and teachers. Socrates and Plato taught morality and immortality, but Jesus "brought life and immortality to light through the gospel." Men groped after them before, but Jesus brought them to light, which no other teacher had ever done. Of the disciples of Confucius, the Chinese philosopher, five hundred years before Christ, it is said: "They stood or sat reverently by his side, watched the minutest particulars of his conduct, studied under his direction the ancient history, poetry, and rites of their country, and treasured up every syllable which dropped from his lips;" but in the case of Jesus, not only his disciples, but the great masses of the people, were impressed and stirred by his teachings. At the close of the Sermon on the Mount the historian tells us that "the multitudes were astonished at his teaching"—not because they had not heard great teachers before, but because "he taught them as one having authority, and not as their scribes." He taught them, not as a scribe who merely recited to them what was contained in the law, but, in a most vital sense, as the very Author of the things taught. In his oracular utterance, "Think not that I came to destroy the law or the prophets: I came not to destroy, but to fulfill," he presented, in terse and comprehensive terms, his entire mission as a preacher and teacher. In his immaculate character and spotless life he would be, to the whole world of mankind, a complete embodiment and expression of all that was required in the law and in the prophets. The religious life of his day was largely void of spirituality and power to uplift and enoble, and the worship of God had degenerated into a matter of cold and lifeless forms. Hence, having to confront this general deterioration in moral and religious affairs, the teaching of Jesus was thoroughly revolutionary. He revealed the true nature of sin in its primal operation in the human heart, and presented love, mercy, forgiveness, kindness, gentleness, forbearance, and goodness in a new light. As impressively said by another:

He taught that happiness in life is to be secured by moral conditions, and not by social or intellectual ones. As the miseries of life, according to him, come from sin, and not from ill fortune; so the happiness may be obtained by virtue, and not by success. Blessed, he says, are the "poor in spirit," "the weak," "the mourning," "the reviled," and "the persecuted." Christ was the first to teach that happiness, like virtue, is for all. For in his idea the unfortunate may be happy. Happiness is to be gotten by regulating the mind and heart, and not by the outward condition of the individual or society. Therefore it was that he wanted the moral to get possession of the world, as the shortest and cheapest road to happiness.

In fine, Jesus as a teacher is the marvel of all history. He attended no institution of learning, nor sat in private at the feet of any earthly teacher, and yet so vast and all-comprehensive was his learning that his cotemporaries asked in astonishment: "How knoweth this man letters having never learned?" Rising over the philosophers and poets and scientists and great scholars of all classes in all the ages, his name shines in unrivaled splendor, and no hypothesis can account for him, except his own claim that he came from God. Not only may the twenty-four elders "cast their crowns before the throne" and proclaim his worthiness, but even now we may sing in the words of the grand old hymn:

Let every kindred, every tribe,
On this terrestrial ball,
To him all majesty ascribe,
And crown him Lord of all.

Send us your subscription for our new magazine, The Bible Study Helper. Sixty cents per year.

The Blessedness of the Kingdom of Heaven (Matt. 5: 1-12).

"Blessed are the Poor in Spirit" (Matt. 5: 3)—
J. C. McQuiddy.

The first beatitude Jesus spoke in his inimitable Sermon on the Mount is: "Blessed are the poor in spirit: for theirs is the kingdom of heaven." Without any depreciation of the other beatitudes, we may well emphasize the fact that we cannot well observe any of them until we have practiced in a measure the first one. A man with a proud, haughty, and conceited spirit like that of Haman cannot exhibit a single beatitude in his life. Without poverty of spirit there can be no real meekness, innocence, and virtue. Only the poor in spirit can truly mourn for the sins they have committed, hunger and thirst after righteousness until they stand on the mountain top of a purified and perfected life. The Savior not only teaches us, "Blessed are the poor in spirit," but his whole life and example is one of perfect poverty of spirit and humility.

The Spirit tells us, through Paul: "For ye know the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, that, though he was rich, yet for your sakes he became poor, that ye through his poverty might become rich." (2 Cor. 8: 9.) He gave up the raptures, the riches, and glories of heaven for the poverty, persecution, and tribulations of earth. He cheerfully gave up heaven in order to become a homeless wanderer in the earth. Listen to him: "The foxes have holes, and the birds of the heaven have nests; but the Son of man hath not where to lay his head." (Matt. 8: 20.) If I were writing to a poor, persecuted disciple, or to a discouraged, murmuring, and broken-spirited preacher who is complaining of his hard lot in this world, I would say: Cheer up and listen to this same Jesus as he tenderly says: "A disciple is not above his teacher, nor his servant above his lord." (Matt. 10: 24.)

This same poverty of spirit led Jesus to agonize in the garden of Gethsemane until in his agony his sweat became as great drops of blood. What a sight to behold—the only One absolutely poor in spirit, guileless and sinless, bowed beneath the weight of the sins of the whole world! Just here I recall the words of Paul to the Philippians: "Doing nothing through faction or through vainglory, but in lowliness of mind each counting other better than himself; not looking each of you to his own things, but each of you also to the things of others. Have this mind in you, which was also in Christ Jesus: who, existing in the form of God, counted not the being on an equality with God a thing to be grasped, but emptied himself, taking the form of a servant, being made in the likeness of men; and being found in fashion as a man, he humbled himself, becoming obedient even unto death, yea, the death of the cross. Wherefore also God highly exalted him, and gave unto him the name which is above every name." (Phil. 2: 3-9.) In this example we have the whole story. Humility must precede exaltation. In order to go up, we must first go down. We must put down pride, passion, and lust; and with these beneath our feet, we must rise to where the snows of purity forever gleam in the glow of heaven. Without poverty of spirit there is no exaltation. "And whosoever shall exalt himself shall be humbled; and whosoever shall humble himself shall be exalted." (Matt. 23: 12.) Humility is the most admired virtue, and yet the least practiced. How hard it is for us not to think more highly of ourselves than we should! Our sermons are matchless; there are none better! A preacher used to pray for himself that the speaker might hide behind the cross of Christ; but the preacher was so conceited, was so proud of his own attainments, that the hearer could not get even a faint glimpse of the cross of Christ. How different from Paul, who came not with excellency of speech or of wisdom, but determined not to know anything, "save Jesus Christ, and him crucified!"

If we would glorify God, we must lose sight of our own glory, selfish interests and attainments. A young Southern girl said to a woman of eighty, who still attracted all in spite of her snowy hair: "Tell me the secret of your charm, and teach me to fascinate people as you do." "My child," was the motherly response, "remember just this: in the alphabet of charm there is no such letter as 'I;' it is all 'you.'" There it is again. "I"—this conceited "I"—blocks the road to real usefulness and happiness. Our charms, our attainments, and our graces are all as light as vanity if we are destitute of humility. When we lose our humility, our usefulness is gone and we are deprived of God's favor.

Saul was truly great when he was little in his own sight. God could use him while he was poor in spirit, and for this reason permitted him to be king over his people. But when he lost his poverty of spirit, became great in his own estimation, and presumed to set up his judgment against the wisdom of God, Jehovah could no longer use him. Men love authority and seek it; yet it seems strange that they do, when it proves the destruction of so many. Success, position, money—each brings with it a responsibility which, if not properly met, will drag a man down to hell. The prosperous need the prayers of the righteous more than the poor. Honor, power, and success proved the undoing of Saul. They led him to exalt himself and not God. With self-exaltation always comes destruction. The following legend well illustrates this: "An inflated frog, the usual type of the boaster, wanted to accompany a brood of wild geese on their migration from the cold North to the Southern sunny climes. As he heard the geese planning their trip in his Northern pool, the frog proposed to them to accompany them. But they said: 'How can you ever fly? We are provided with wings, and you can only croak and swim.' 'O, but,' said he, 'I have brains; and if you will carry out my directions, you will be surprised at the ingenuity of my plan.' The geese consented, and immediately the frog directed them to a strong reed in the swamp, which they pulled up and brought to him. 'Now,' he said, 'you just take hold of the reed in your mouths, one at each end, and I will hold on with my mouth in the middle, and you will carry me without any difficulty.' And so they started. But, as they flew over the village, the people were attracted by the strange sight of the aerial caravan and began to express wonder and admiration at the strange contrivance, and asked: 'Who could have thought of such a bright idea?' This was too much for the frog. He was in danger of losing the credit of this splendid scheme, and so, without stopping to think, he shouted: 'I did it!' But, of course, the moment he opened his mouth he lost his hold, and down he dropped among the villagers."

God justified the publican and not the proud, influential, and self-righteous Pharisee. It is only the poor in spirit, those who, like the publican, pray, "God, be thou merciful to me, a sinner," that God can and will save. God does not despise, but saves, the man of a contrite heart. Isaiah says: "For thus saith the high and lofty One that inhabiteth eternity, whose name is Holy: I dwell in the high and holy place, with him also that is of a contrite and humble spirit, to revive the spirit of the humble, and to revive the heart of the contrite." (Isa. 57: 15.) The poor in spirit enjoy the kingdom of heaven because they are prepared for that prepared place, and in a measure and sense are enjoying heaven now. They enjoy a satisfaction, peace, and joy that are wholly foreign to the self-inflated life. In the sore trials and conflicts of life they rest secure in His promises and triumphantly press forward. God delights to honor and bless the man of humility. Only such will he save. "Blessed are the poor in spirit: for theirs is the kingdom of heaven."

Happiness in the First Beatitude (Matt. 5: 3)— G. R. Bethurum.

The Sermon on the Mount was delivered in the beginning of the second year of our Savior's public ministry. Jesus came out of Judea into Galilee, where he called his disciples. The King is about to select his cabinet; the Commander is about to choose his generals. As all days are not the same, some being infinitely of greater importance than others, being weightier with greater responsibilities; so our Savior, when confronted with these great tasks, went up into the mountain and spent the entire night in prayer before the delivery of this great Sermon—the Sermon on the Mount.

Coming from the mountain, he found the company of disciples (Luke 6), together with a great multitude of people from Judea and Jerusalem and from the seacoast of Tyre and Sidon, to hear him, and bringing their sick to be healed by him. Seeing this multitude, he selected the hillside, nature's pulpit, and opened his mouth and taught his disciples, the multitude being present.

"Blessed" is the first word of this great Sermon, and how like the Master's own life was his teaching! Prophets speaking hundreds of years before his advent proclaimed the happiness that should follow his reign on earth. Angels sang of the joy and peace that should fill the earth, where hearts beat in unison with that of our great Redeemer. All who have been fully drawn to our Savior with one voice testify of the happiness that is found and can be maintained only by walking in the footprints of this Prince of Peace. Wherever we meet him after he began his public ministry, he is engaged in blessing some one—opening blind eyes, unstopping deaf ears, cleansing the lepers, driving away fever, raising the dead to life again; and when we last see him on earth, it is near Bethany, where he led his disciples, and, lifting up his hand, he blessed them. "And it came to pass, while he blessed them, he was parted from them, and carried up into heaven." (Luke 24: 50, 51.) Since his return to God over eighteen hundred years ago, who can tell how often his hands have been lifted up in holy benediction over the children of men? No time has passed from that day to this that the world has not been the recipient of his blessing.

"Blessed" means "happy." Happiness comes from things which happen. So, then, the happiness that springs from things which happen is constantly changing. Something may occur to-day which will make us happy, and by to-morrow our joy is swept away as by a storm. But the happiness or blessedness preceding each of the eight beatitudes comes from a different source, and is, therefore, not subject to the surface currents constantly taking place. Our Lord teaches that the heart is the source of life; and when that has been purified, the life that flows out from it must necessarily be happy.

The happiness produced by obedience to the truth, with a faithful continuance therein, is like a perennial fountain, ever refreshing and full of life. On the other hand, happiness produced by worldly happenings is certain for sudden change. Two young boys were asked what would make them happy about Christmas time. One said he would be real happy if Santa Claus would bring him an air rifle; the younger one said that he would be happy if Santa Claus would bring him a train that would run on a track. Christmas morning these boys had their wishes; and when each of them saw his coveted article, his joy was full and happiness followed. But it was not long before the boy that had the air rifle wanted one that would shoot stronger, and the boy who had the train wanted a train propelled by steam. And this is from young childhood to full-grown, mature manhood. Our ideals change, and the goal that we fancy will bring us happiness is ever in the future. Somehow it is a large part of our being that nothing satisfies the soul except that which God has prepared for the soul—namely, Christianity—the panacea for all ills, the Christian's hope that is an anchor to the soul.

Many would-be reformers fall down right here. Especially is this true of our socialist friends, who tell us that in order for men to be happy they must have better food to eat, better clothes to wear, and better houses to live in. They could not go further wrong than this. You might pour into a man's lap the luxuries of the world and educate him at the very best schools, and yet if he does not accept Christ's teaching, and in a measure apply these principles to his life, he can't be happy.

But we raise the question: Who are the poor spoken of here? We must know this before we can understand Christ's meaning. It is not the poor in this world's goods. There is neither virtue in poverty nor vice in riches. A man might be as poor as Lazarus and as mean as Satan. He might be as rich as Croesus and as pious as Paul. Some people not realizing this have sold all their possessions to live in a monastery. God gave us our love for money, and he wants us out in the busy world making it and using it for his glory. Abraham was rich, and he was the friend of God. The rich young man had a character which Christ very much admired. So long as we own our money and not our money own us, then all is well. We can glorify God with our substance if we choose. It is not self-depreciation. Some people think so little of themselves that nothing they do is worthy of the slightest praise. No good thoughts, no worthy deeds, they fancy, should be known. While we must not think more highly of ourselves than we ought, yet we must remember that we belong to a royal family, and as children of a King we are by inheritance of great value in God's sight. We ought to feel our dependence on God and realize that we can become copartners with him in saving the world.

It is moral poverty our Savior means when he says, "Blessed are the poor in spirit." The best example is found in Luke 18: 9-15. The publican, feeling his great need of God, humbled himself and heartily called upon God for help in his dire extremity. "He that exalteth himself shall be abased; and he that humbleth himself shall be exalted." Proud hearts are always barren, but humble hearts are the most prominent, but full ears in proportion to their richness are bowed to the earth. God's ears are always open to hear the faintest cry of the weak and those who feel the need of heaven's blessing. Such hearts are ready vessels to be filled by our Heavenly Father, and he will pour in a blessing which they cannot contain. Just as sure as the sun seeks the opening flowers to beautify and bless, God seeks such souls. The open gate for God's entrance is this humility manifested by any son or daughter of Adam.

Notice the reward! Theirs is the kingdom of heaven. What does this mean? What and where is the kingdom of heaven? Whoever from choice obeys the laws of any earthly king and from choice selects a land as his earthly country, that man is a member of that kingdom. Any subject of Great Britain is a member of that kingdom, whether he dwells in Africa, Canada, Australia, or any of the islands of the sea. Wherever the flag of England floats and her subjects respect and obey her laws, there is the kingdom of England. The kingdom of England is not confined to the narrow island on which her capitol rests; but wherever her flag floats, there is the kingdom of England.

So, wherever a sincere soul seeks and obeys the laws of Christ, the kingdom of heaven is in that soul. It is not confined to the regions above, but is in the earth, wherever the principles of the King are practiced. Jesus said to his disciples: "The kingdom of heaven is within you." The present tense of the verb here indicates this clearly: Theirs is the kingdom of heaven; not will be, but now; not some future time, but now.

The blessings of this kingdom are all ours by virtue of our relationship with the King. God knows our hearts. No formal obedience brings us into this kingdom, unless this is preceded by that feeling of actual dependence upon God, a poverty so great that the soul is lost, undone, unless God comes to its rescue by his power through the gospel revealed and established by Christ for the saving of all who will avail themselves of its gracious provision. Let no man be lost, for God has amply provided for all.

"Blessed are They that Mourn" (Matt. 5: 4)— T. Q. Martin.

To be shut up to a state of mourning without any hope of comfort would, it seems to me, be the darkest and most horrible condition into which any intelligent being could be plunged. When the raven of sorrow has chased the nightingale of song from the heart, when the morning of joy has been turned into the night of lamentation, what would this old world be without the blessed assurance, "They shall be comforted?"

It is right that we should mourn; at least, it is true that in this world of sin and sorrow mourning is a part of our common lot. And I feel constrained to say that I sometimes fear that we, in combating the "mourner's-bench-getting-religion idea," have made the impression that mourning because of our sins is not necessary. I believe that the Great Teacher, in this second beatitude, refers primarily to mourning over our sinful condition.

If one realizes as one should one's poverty of spirit, and one's helpless, hopeless condition without assistance from a source higher than oneself, it seems to me that deep grief over such a condition would naturally follow. When I am made to realize that my sin has separated between God and me, and because of my sin the blessed Jesus poured out his heart's blood, will I not, with broken heart and empty hands, mourn with agony of soul?

I find that in my effort to induce men to come to Jesus my greatest trouble is in getting them to see the awful guilt and heinousness of sin. When one is made to see that he is wretched and blind and lost, and that his own sins have brought him into that condition, he will surely be grief-stricken or mourn over his folly. Then he will be prepared to appreciate the comfort that is promised to the mourner.

What a beautiful idea is couched in the word translated "shall be comforted!" It means "called to the side of." What a comfort to know that Jesus died for me, and that, by yielding my heart to his divine control, by simply taking him at his word, believing on him, and accepting him as my personal Savior, turning away from all my sin, being buried with him by baptism into death, I can rise in newness of life to walk and live and commune with him!

But we are called upon to mourn the loss of loved ones here, and—O, my soul!—how sweet and comforting the assurance: "In my Father's house are many mansions;" "Sorrow and sighing shall flee away;" "And he [God] shall wipe away every tear from their eyes; and death shall be no more; neither shall there be mourning, nor crying, nor pain, any more: the first things are passed away!" Then, when we sit sadly, silently, and prayerfully and watch by the bedside of loved ones, while the death angel hovers over the home, how comforting the words: "I will in no wise fail thee, neither will I in any wise forsake thee!"

Just across the hall from where I am sitting, trying to write these lines, lies the prostrate, emaciated form of my darling companion, and my soul has been dwelling upon some of these gems of comfort in God's inexhaustible storehouse of comfort; for, indeed, he offers no message of comfort that I know of, save in the Scriptures of divine truth. Therein he points out the disease, and therein he reveals the remedy. Through this channel he shows the necessity of mourning, and through this same divinely appointed channel "calls us to his side" and "whispers the comforting word."

"Blessed are the Meek" (Matt. 5: 5)—
W. L. Karnes.

In reading the Sermon on the Mount, I am struck with an inexpressible feeling. The simplicity and beauty of the language, the completeness of the lessons, and the wisdom of the Speaker fill me with wonder and admiration. Who among all the men who have ever lived is worthy to be the author of this Sermon, except Jesus, the Son of God? Notice the beatitudes. The language in which they are written is very simple, the lessons are easily understood; but who can read them and fail to see in them the divine touch? The blessings pronounced in the beatitudes upon the various characters here represented are not vain, hypocritical compliments, but, on the other hand, are real loving tributes coming from a heart full of good things. Even from a worldly standpoint the lessons expressed in these beatitudes are worth their weight in gold, though they should weigh a million pounds.

Let us notice the lesson pronounced upon the "meek." "Blessed are the meek: for they shall inherit the earth." If in this life the gentle and long-suffering in disposition, those of peaceable temper, and those not haughty or proud, but modest, humble, and unostentatious, never fail to win, how much more will the Christian of that character not fail to inherit with Christ, the Son of God! God's love for the meek is made sure in this passage of scripture in that they are to inherit. God has always loved those who are meek.

I doubt if there ever lived a man, until the Author of the Sermon on the Mount came to live on the earth, that God loved and honored more than he did Moses. And let it be remembered that one of the chief characteristics of the man Moses was his meekness. He was famous for his meekness; in fact, God himself said of him: "Now the man Moses was very meek, above all the men which were upon the face of the earth." (Num. 12: 3.) One of the most noticeable characteristics in the life of Jesus was his meekness. He said of himself: "I am meek and lowly in heart." (Matt. 11: 29.) And it is said in Matt. 21: 5 that a prophet had said before of him: "Tell ye the daughter of Sion, Behold, thy King cometh unto thee, meek, and sitting upon an ass, and a colt the foal of an ass."

While, of course, meekness is only one of the Christian graces, still some of the rarest and sweetest blessings have been pronounced upon the meek. David, among the writers of the Old Testament, seemed especially glad to sing their praises. The following are among some of the things he says of them: "The meek shall eat and be satisfied." "The meek will he guide in judgment: and the meek will he teach his way." "But the meek shall inherit the earth: and shall delight themselves in the abundance of peace." "The Lord lifteth up the meek." "For the Lord taketh pleasure in his people: he will beautify the meek with salvation." What more blessings could any class of people ask than those promised to those people whose faces glow with meekness?

In conclusion, hear what Peter says about the meek and quiet spirit: "But let it be the hidden man of the heart, in that which is not corruptible, even the ornament of a meek and quiet spirit, which is in the sight of God of great price." (1 Pet. 3: 4.)

Robert Burns on Happiness.

(Culled especially for the "Sermon on the Mount" Number.)

It's no' in titles nor in rank,
It's no' in wealth like Lon'on bank,
To purchase peace and rest,
If happiness hae not her seat
And center in the breast,
We may be wise, or rich, or great,
But never can be blest.

"Blessed are They that Hunger" (Matt. 5: 6)—
J. Paul Slayden.

Bodily hunger is pain or uneasiness caused by long abstinence from food; thirst, from drink. No one can remember when he did not know what it was to get hungry and thirsty, yet many have never known the suffering of prolonged hunger and thirst. An old soldier told me he ate with great relish a meal of horse corn. People have suffered from thirst till they would have given the world for a drink. Hunger and thirst are common to king and subject, rich and poor, old and young, and demand that which satisfies. A hungry or thirsty person does not care to feast on the beauties of nature or art; he wants something to eat and is relentlessly reminded of his need. To some of the ancients hunger and thirst were the highest conception of torment. Tantalus, for an offense committed against his father, was condemned to stand in the lower world up to his chin in water, which constantly eluded his lips when he attempted to quench the thirst that tormented him. Over his head grew all kinds of fruits; but whenever he reached forth his hands to take them, the winds scattered them.

Christ characteristically used this common experience to remind of a hunger and thirst of a higher order than the physical—the hunger of the soul. He said: "Work not for the food which perisheth, but for the food which abideth unto eternal life." (John 6: 27.) "Be not anxious for your life, what ye shall eat, or what ye shall drink; nor yet for your body, what ye shall put on. Is not the life more than the food, and the body than the raiment?" (Matt. 6: 25.) This beatitude speaks of one who sees his weakness, that in his flesh there dwells no good thing, and that righteousness is not a product, natural or acquired, of the flesh. He longs to be pure and holy. There is a yearning for that righteousness seen in its perfection only in Christ, attained to only in him, and revealed through the word of God. "For I am not ashamed of the gospel: for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth; to the Jew first, and also to the Greek. For therein is revealed a righteousness of God from faith unto faith: as it is written, But the righteous shall live by faith." (Rom. 1: 16, 17.) This longing is pictured by the prodigal, who, reduced to the dire want that he would have filled his belly with the husks the swine did eat, returned to the father's house, where there was bread enough and to spare. The blessing follows the yearning expressed by the psalmist: "As the hart panteth after the water brooks, so panteth my soul after thee, O God. My soul thirsteth for God, for the living God: when shall I come and appear before God?" (Ps. 42: 1, 2.)

"They shall be filled." The Master expresses no doubt about this. The filling will follow the hungering and thirsting as the night the day. It is God's order. "Ask, and it shall be given you; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you: for every one that asketh receiveth; and he that seeketh findeth; and to him that knocketh it shall be opened." (Matt. 7: 7, 8.) This is just as certain as it is that a father will give to his hungry child bread instead of a stone, fish instead of a serpent. Never did suffering father bestow blessings upon a wayward child returned as graciously as God fills those who hunger and thirst after righteousness. "If any man will eth to do his will, he shall know of the teaching, whether it is of God, or whether I speak from myself." (John 7: 17.) There was a eunuch reading Isaiah, desiring to know the truth, and God had a preacher there to show him the way of salvation. Cornelius, groping in the darkness of incomplete truth, moved the God of all to send a preacher to him that he might see the light and be filled with righteousness. God prevented Paul from going into Asia and Bithynia and guided him across the sea to Macedonia, where there were souls hungering and thirsting, that they might be filled. "I am Jehovah thy God, who brought thee up out of the land of Egypt: open thy mouth wide, and I will find it." (Ps. 81: 10.) Read the stories of Rahab and Ruth.

"Blessed are the Merciful" (Matt. 5: 7)—
A. B. Lipsecomb.

It is a blessed thing to be the recipients of mercy from our fellow-creatures and, above all, from the "Father of all mercies and God of all comfort." There is never a time in our lives when we do not stand in need of it. The prayer of David should be a universal and daily petition of all of God's children: "Have mercy upon me, O God, according to thy loving-kindness: according to the multitude of thy tender mercies blot out my transgressions." The same petitioner gives us to understand that he received the thing he asked for. "Thou, Lord, art plenteous in mercy;" and, "Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life;" and, "The Lord is good; his mercy is everlasting." Praying for mercy was not a vain experiment with David, nor should it be with us.

Receiving mercy is a matter of reciprocity. This beatitude recalls the later words of Jesus: "With what measure ye mete, it shall be measured unto you." If you give mercy, you shall receive mercy from your fellow-men in a measure and from God in abundance. In Hosea's time the people were cursed because they lacked mercy. "Hear the word of the Lord, ye children of Israel: for the Lord hath a controversy with the inhabitants of the land, because there is no truth, nor mercy, nor knowledge of God in the land." History shows that kings and rulers have been blessed in proportion to the mercies they have extended. Even heathen kings who were kind to Israel fared better than those who mistreated them. Whether nation, State, or individuals, it behooves all men to be merciful. I can never disassociate the prayer for mercy and forgiveness from the idea of humility in the asking. The best man among us can well afford to follow the example of the publican who smote himself upon the breast, not deigning one look toward heaven, and said: "God be merciful to me a sinner."

"Blessed are the Pure in Heart" (Matt. 5: 8)—
E. G. Cullum.

Children of God are prone to consider present trials and difficulties that beset them, and think of blessings and happiness only as belonging to the future life. The statement of our Savior, as quoted above, says: "Blessed are the pure in heart." "Blessed" means "happy." Hence, happy are the pure in heart—right now in this present world. If any one in the church of God is not happy in the thought and fact that he has been "purged from his old sins" and that he is in reality an "heir of God and joint heir with Christ," then there must be something wrong with his heart, for the pure in heart are happy. To be "pure in heart" means that our hearts must be cleansed. As boys and girls come to the years of maturity or accountability, their hearts, once pure as the snow and fit for the kingdom of heaven, become contaminated with evil, and must needs be purified in order for them to enjoy real happiness. Peter tells us just how this purification takes place. Speaking to the Jewish brethren about the Gentiles being received into the church of God, he says God "put no difference between us and them, purifying their hearts by faith." (Acts 15: 9.) Again, he says: "Seeing ye have purified your souls in obeying the truth through the Spirit unto unfeigned love of the brethren, see that ye love one another with a pure heart fervently." (1 Pet. 1: 22.) Hence, by faith that in love obeys the truth one's heart is purified, cleansed from iniquity, and fitted for God's blessings both now and hereafter.

"For they shall see God." To "see God" in the sense it is here used means to enjoy God, to appreciate God and our Savior. Human hearts are touched and tendered by the story of the cross, by the great love that prompted God to give "his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life." Jesus Christ, as revealed to us, was "altogether lovely," "going about doing good;" but, like "the things that God hath prepared for them that love him," the half has never been told. "Beloved, now are we the sons of God, and it doth not yet appear what we shall be: but we know that, when he shall appear, we shall be like him; for we shall see him as he is. And every man that hath this hope in him purifieth himself, even as he is pure." "Keep thy heart with all diligence; for out of it are the issues of life."

"Blessed are the Peacemakers" (Matt. 5: 9)—
F. W. Smith.

The subject assigned me for this special number is based upon one of the gems in that beautiful cluster usually styled "The Beatitudes," which sparkle with the light and glory of infinite wisdom.

The Master said: "Blessed are the peacemakers: for they shall be called sons of God." (Matt. 5: 9.) This statement contains the gracious promise of an infinite blessing couched in the words, "shall be called sons of God." It is no little thing to be a "son of God," but an estate to which every soul should aspire and a prize for which every one should strive. Such a relation challenged the admiration and wonder of an apostle: "Behold what manner of love the Father hath bestowed upon us, that we should be called children of God." (1 John 3: 1.) But this gracious promise is based upon the condition that one must be a peacemaker, and without meeting the condition no one has the right to expect or claim the blessing of "sonship," or heirship.

The blessing, I take it, is closely related to the kingdom of Christ, whose Author intended it to be pre-eminently a kingdom of peace. This we gather from the thought contained or expressed as follows: "For the kingdom of God is not eating and drinking, but righteousness and peace and joy in the Holy Spirit." (Rom. 14: 17.) We find the mission of the King-to-be proclaimed by angelic song to the listening shepherds on the Judean hills: "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace among men in whom he is well pleased." (Luke 2: 14.) Thus sang the heavenly host of the One who should sit in regal splendor on the throne of a universal empire, and whose scepter should be the scepter of righteousness. From all that is said of his kingdom we conclude that in all of its elements it was intended to be a "kingdom of peace."

1. The King was designated by prophetic lips and the pen of inspiration as the "Prince of Peace." "For unto us a child is born, unto us a son is given; and the government shall be upon his shoulder: and his name shall be called Wonderful, Counselor, Mighty God, Everlasting Father, Prince of Peace." (Isa. 9: 6.)

2. The laws of his kingdom are termed "the gospel of peace." "And your feet shod with the preparation of the gospel of peace." (Eph. 6: 15.)

3. His subjects are to be children of peace. "Blessed are the peacemakers: for they shall be called sons of God." (Matt. 5: 9.)

Here, then, we have the constituent elements of a government, whose divine Author intended it, in the fullest sense of the word, to be one of blessed peace, which differentiates it from a world of strife, confusion, discord, and division. I understand the subject to be threefold in its nature, and shall, therefore, treat it under the following general heads:

PEACEMAKERS BETWEEN GOD AND MAN.

1. The fact is most clearly taught that man in an unregenerate state is at enmity with God. His thoughts, desires, and conduct run counter to the spirit and will of his Maker. Hence it is said: "Whosoever therefore would be a friend of the world maketh himself an enemy of God." (James 4: 4.) Christ died for his enemies. "For if, while we were enemies, we were reconciled to God through the death of his Son, much more, being reconciled, shall we be saved by his life." (Rom. 5: 10.) Now the greatest work a child of God can do is to break down this enmity of the world toward God and bring rebellious man into peaceful and harmonious relations with his Creator.

2. Originally this work was assigned to the apostles, and in their labors the children of God are to find the divine directions and examples for bringing man to the foot of the cross. They are to invent nothing for the accomplishing of this, but use the "word of reconciliation" left by inspired men. "But all things are of God, who reconciled us to himself through Christ, and gave unto us the ministry of reconciliation; to wit, that God was in Christ reconciling the world unto himself, not reckoning unto them their trespasses, and having committed unto us the word of reconciliation." (2 Cor. 5: 18, 19.)

3. Since this work of reconciliation is to continue till the end of time, and since the children of God are to continue it, he who, as an instrument in the hands of God, succeeds in breaking down the stubbornness of human hearts and leading them to God will be crowned with all the glory and blessedness of the triumphant sons of God.

MAKING PEACE WITH SELF.

1. There is often a bitter conflict or war within one's own bosom which destroys the peace and happiness of the soul. Restless and sleepless nights rob us of refreshing slumber because of a conscience ill at ease. We have neglected some solemn duty to God or sinned against a fellow-being; and the more we strive to banish the feeling that weighs so heavily upon our hearts, the weightier it becomes, until the soul grows sick of its burden.

2. Under such circumstances, no one but he who is thus afflicted can bring peace to himself and still the raging storm within; and this he can do in only one way—viz., by righting the wrong. Is it a sin against God that has brought the restless, sleepless, and weary days and nights? If so, repent and ask God to forgive. Is it a sin against a fellow-man? If so, repent and make reparation of the wrong in so far as it lies within human power. There are some sins man commits against man for which no reparation can be made, but penitential grief and reformation can follow.

3. Experience teaches us that the only remedy for a disturbed and conscience-smitten soul is to seek and obtain a conscience "void of offense toward God and man." The apostle Paul had the keynote to the situation and expressed it thus: "Herein I also exercise myself to have a conscience void of offense toward God and man always." (Acts 24: 16.) Let us lay great stress on the word "exercise," for a conscience "void of offense toward God and man" is not of spontaneous growth. It comes by careful and prayerful cultivation. Paul made it the business of his life to so live in the faithful discharge of the duties and obligations toward both God and his fellow-man as to have a peace within. He allowed no personal feelings or preferences to hinder him in the seeking of such a conscience. Caution, prudence, and the greatest consideration of the rights of others marked his march through life. He "exercised" himself in these things, and so should we.

MAKING PEACE BETWEEN MEN.

1. All are enjoined to keep the peace between the children of God. "Giving diligence to keep the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace." (Eph. 4: 3.) "So then let us follow after things which make for peace and things whereby we may edify one another." (Rom. 14: 19.) Thus we are to follow that course or manner of life that will preserve peace among the children of God. But humanity is weak at best, and not only men of the world fall out with each other and become estranged, but the children of God do the same thing. Here, then, is work for the children of God who may be in a position to act as a mediator, or go-between. Blessed are such as can, in harmony with the principles of right and justice to all parties concerned and in harmony with the word of God, bring the alienated together in one spirit.

2. Before one takes the step that brings division and strife contrary to the word of God, he should reflect upon the fact that God hates those who sow discord among brethren. (See Prov. 6: 19.) Better make any sacrifice than to incur the hatred of God, for the end will be eternal bitterness of the soul. It is a fearful thing to create strife and division among people of the world, and much worse to do so among the children of God.

3. Finally, we must not overlook the fact that peace, all peace, must be obtained, must be sought, in harmony with divine truth. Peace at the expense of truth is dearly bought. "Mercy and truth are met together; righteousness and peace have kissed each other." (Ps. 85: 10.) Mercy must not be sought without truth, and peace must not be divorced from righteousness. The law of the Bible is purity first and then peace. (James 3: 17.) No peace is acceptable to God obtained on any other grounds than truth, right, and justice. Christ came not to send peace on earth at any price. His message—the truth of heaven—often divides households, separating the closest and dearest of friends. (Matt. 10: 34-37.) Hence, no matter how much we may love peace, we should never seek it at the expense of God's truth, but contend earnestly for the faith and let the consequences be what they may. He who becomes a peacemaker in the threefold relation indicated will fall heir to all the blessings vouchsafed the children of God that are expressed in the text.

"Blessed are" the Persecuted (Matt. 5: 10-12)— Isaac C. Hoskins.

One of the striking features of Christ's teaching is its marvelous difference from that of the worldly-wise. The first sentence of the Sermon on the Mount—the masterpiece of the ages—upsets the philosophy of the wisdom of the world. Notice the statement: "Blessed are the poor in spirit." Then, after enumerating those characteristics which together make up a beautiful, symmetrical, well-rounded life—the life of the blessed—the Master utters the wondrously strange words of our text: "Blessed are they that have been persecuted." Strange because the old pagan idea was the "great-minded man, self-sufficient, . . . towering above all others in his absence of need." Strange because "the spirit of the age" finds its ideal in the "superman" whose chief joy is in expressing himself, despising humility and submission—"the man," as Henly said, "with head all bloody, but unbowed because of his unconquerable soul."

But Jesus touches the heart of humanity and shows that the truly blessed life is vastly different from that felicity which comes from mere externalities. It is deeper, therefore not dependent upon the possession of a new hat, a sunny rather than a rainy day, or some other such trivial superficiality.

Not all the persecuted are numbered among the blessed, but those who are persecuted for righteousness' sake—that is, because they are righteous, or because of their righteous deeds. Righteous living and righteous deeds often offend the worldly-minded. In building the ark and thus obeying God and becoming an heir of the righteousness which is by faith, Noah condemned the world, which was disobedient. After Jesus made a certain statement, we read: "Upon this many of his disciples went back, and walked no more with him." An inspired writer said of some: "They went out from us, but they were not of us." There are other ways of being persecuted besides being stoned, or beaten, or slain. The Master gave fair warning: "If ye were of the world, the world would love its own: but because ye are not of the world, but I chose you out of the world, therefore the world hateth you." Paul says: "All that would live godly in Christ Jesus shall suffer persecution."

Furthermore, the "blessed" is pronounced upon those of whom all manner of evil is falsely spoken "for my sake." Peter, who knew what it was to rejoice that he was counted worthy to suffer dishonor for the name, wrote, many years after his arrest, whipping, and imprisonment for the sake of his Lord: "If ye are reproached for the name of Christ, blessed are ye; because the spirit of glory and the spirit of God resteth upon you."

Our Savior gives three reasons for rejoicing when persecuted for his sake.

The first reason is in these words: "For theirs is the kingdom of heaven." Professor Clow writes: "He begins with the kingdom of heaven, and in wreathing joy after joy, satisfaction after satisfaction, he comes to the reward of the persecuted, and that is 'the kingdom of heaven' again. And as he weaves the garland he calls for the outburst of joy precisely where we would have thought it most difficult, as well as least likely. Yet when we recall Stephen's face shining like the face of an angel, and Paul's songs in the prison, perhaps we shall understand."

The second reason Jesus gives for rejoicing is: "Great is their reward in heaven." To be poor in spirit, sympathetic, humble, gentle, anxious for purity of heart and righteousness in our own characters, merciful toward others, peacemakers in a warring world, and not only willing to suffer for his sake, but rejoicing therein, is to live heaven on earth. "Great is your reward in heaven." "Eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of man, the things which God hath prepared for them that love him." "I shall be satisfied, when I awake, with thy likeness." "It doth not yet appear what we shall be: but we know that, when he shall appear, we shall be like him." "We shall reign with him in glory." These are expressions which but veil, hide, and suggest the undimmed greatness of that glory which we shall see with unveiled face when our tabernacle shall have fallen away and we shall be glorified.

Thirdly, what noble company we are in, when persecuted for righteousness' sake! "So persecuted they the prophets which were before you." For a brief list of the immortals, see Heb. 11. Here people are anxious to get into "society," or into "the best society." The price is very high, but it is freely given, though

"The worldly hope men set their hearts upon
Turn ashes, or it prospers; and anon,
Like snow upon the desert's dusty face,
Lighting a little hour or two, is gone."

So, if we could hold in mind that we are not here primarily to "have a good time," to have "fun," but "we are here to be faithful and good," to help our fellows and glorify Christ! If we behold our duty clearly and perform it with fidelity, God will enable us to enjoy our highest earthly happiness therein; but if we are among those who shrink back, if we are afraid of the shadow of the cross, we shall obtain neither our highest destiny nor our greatest happiness.

"We must live through the weary winter,
If we would value the spring;
And the woods must be cold and silent
Before the robins sing.
The flowers must lie buried in darkness
Before they can bud and bloom;
And the sweetest and warmest sunshine
Comes after the storm and gloom."

The Influence of Christians in the World (Matt. 5: 13-16).

Saving Qualities of True Disciples (Matt. 5: 13-16)—
F. C. Sowell.

Good salt had good qualities, but bad salt was "good for nothing, but to be cast out and trodden under foot of men." The world is looking at the Lord's disciples now, trying to find pure and unadulterated Christianity.

The world has heard proclaimed with much emphasis the great and good principles that are to be had in the life of Christians; therefore Christians are expected to be examples. They are "a peculiar people, zealous of good works." They are not like the world. They are the salt.

The good qualities that belong to the Christian will help men to be saved. Christians cannot use themselves to the greatest advantage in accomplishing the most good, when their lives are contaminated with bad habits and ungodly things of this world.

"Wherefore, putting away falsehood, speak ye truth each one with his neighbor: for we are members one of another. Be ye angry, and sin not: let not the sun go down upon your wrath: neither give place to the devil. Let him that stole steal no more: but rather let him labor, working with his hands the thing that is good, that he may have whereof to give to him that hath need. Let no corrupt speech proceed out of your mouth, but such as is good for edifying as the need may be, that it may give grace to them that hear. And grieve not the Holy Spirit of God, in whom ye were sealed unto the day of redemption. Let all bitterness, and wrath, and anger, and clamor, and railing, be put away from you, with all malice: and be ye kind one to another, tender-hearted, forgiving each other, even as God also in Christ forgave you. Be ye therefore imitators of God, as beloved children; and walk in love, even as Christ also loved you, and gave himself up for us, an offering and a sacrifice to God for an odor of a sweet smell." (Eph. 4: 25-32; 5: 1, 2.)

This is a long quotation, but it is good and cannot be improved upon. We understand from this that we cannot mix Christianity with the world and the world with Christianity, and at the same time be imitators of God. Lying, stealing, defrauding, and a corrupt speech do not belong to the Christian life. And I might say that there are a great many immoral picture shows that are frequented by the disciples of the Lord these days that are liable to make the salt lose its savor.

Paul said to Timothy: "Let no man despise thy youth; but be thou an ensample to them that believe, in word, in manner of life, in love, in faith, in purity." Paul knew that if Timothy would have these good things in his early life, they would be good to follow in old age.

Again, Paul said: "Follow me, as I follow Christ." The faithful, devout Christian impresses the world that "there is therefore now no condemnation to those who are in Christ Jesus." It is an honor to be "the salt of the earth." You are in a position to lift men who are lost to a higher plane in life. When you serve in a position to do your fellow-man good and make him better in life, then you are blessed with a happy soul. Let us throw out the life line, for some poor soul is sinking to-day.

The children of the Lord sustain about the same relation to him as do the moon and stars to the sun. Without Christ and a close relationship with him, we would not be able to reflect a saving influence over those who are in darkness. As a matter of course, light dispels darkness and opens up an avenue that stimulates to life and growth and gives a hope of immortality.

When Jesus exalts his disciples as "the light of the world," they should watch with the greatest care, and shrink at the very shadow of a thought of allowing one thing to intervene between them and their Savior that would cause the light they get from him to depreciate in its value and influence. When a body comes between the sun and the moon, the shadow of that body falls upon the moon and puts it in eclipse, and then it fails to give its full light to the world. Just so, when a disciple will allow sin to come between him and his Savior, he cannot give the world the full benefit of his Christian influence.

Jesus said: "Even so let your light shine before men; that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father who is in heaven." Good works will do the world good, and Christians are on that mission, using themselves as the servants of the Lord to accomplish the greatest good possible.

There is great power in physical light. Through its power of influence it draws vegetable matter into the fullness of the strength and its ripened fruitage. The Christian life that throws out its light will give spiritual strength and will bear its fruit of righteousness to the honor and glory of our Heavenly Father. The world is watching those who claim to be followers of the Lord to see if they are doing the things the Holy Spirit directs men to do. We cannot do things without being seen of men. Paul said to Christians: "Ye are our epistle, written in our hearts, known and read of all men." The closer we live to the Lord, the brighter the light we will give to the world, and the world will more plainly see and read the epistle of love and devotion in our lives.

Perhaps one of the greatest mistakes with us is that we are trying too much to correct our fellow-man with our tongues and not enough with godly living. The keynote to successful Christian life is living it. Help me, then, O Lord, to live the life that will be a help to my fellow-man.

"O, the good we all may do
While the days are going by!"

"Ye are the Salt of the Earth" (Matt. 5: 13)—
E. G. Sewell.

This is the language of Jesus when talking directly to his disciples. (Matt. 5: 13.) The passage is decidedly prophetic in its character and tells what would be true if they would be faithful disciples of Christ to the end of their lives. The passage is decidedly figurative, also, in its character. When he said, "Ye are the salt of the earth," he did not mean that they were really salt, nor did he mean the literal earth. He meant the people that live on the earth, rather than the literal earth itself. In speaking of the disciples under the figure of salt, he meant that as salt exerted a saving or preserving influence upon fresh meat and such like, so Christians would exert a saving influence upon their neighbors by the beautiful, godly lives their religion would lead them to live. But, on the other hand, if professed Christians are worldly-minded and follow worldly and fleshly impulses, their neighbors will see it and will lose confidence in their claim, and their profession will be more against Christianity than for it. Hence such lives are not seasoned with salt at all. If there was ever any salt in them, it lost its savor when they ceased to live as the word of God requires people to live. And unthinking people, seeing the falsity of such professions, will say: "Those people claim to be Christians, but they do things I would not do. I, therefore, am as good as they are, if not better than they are; and if they can be saved in the church that way, I can be saved out of the church; for they do things I would not do." But such logic as this is all false; for if Christians fail to live as they are taught to live, they have no promise of reaching the heavenly home when they die. Hence, when Christ said to his disciples, "Ye are the salt of the earth," he meant those that were disciples indeed and in truth. None, therefore, can claim that they are "the salt of the earth" at all, unless they are truly following Christ by doing his will.

Jesus said, again: "If a man love me, he will keep my words: and my Father will love him, and we will come unto him, and make our abode with him." (John 14: 23.) So those who claim to be the followers of Christ, and yet do not follow him, do not keep his word, are entirely mistaken when they make such claim; for he will never own them as his. There are thousands to-day that claim to be disciples of Christ that are rejecting some of his positive divine commands. He, therefore, did not embrace these when he said, "Ye are the salt of the earth;" and none such can scripturally claim that they are the salt of the earth. A large number of those who claim to be disciples of Christ have rejected the positive command to be baptized. They have repudiated what Jesus positively commanded and substituted something else entirely. Jesus never did command any people to have water sprinkled upon them as baptism, and yet thousands and millions are doing that instead of being baptized. How can such as these claim to be the disciples of Christ, followers of Christ, when they openly turn from baptism and put something of their own devising in its place? Surely they cannot claim to be "the salt of the earth."

Again, Jesus, in the same connection, says: "Ye are the light of the world." This is saying a great deal of human beings. It is an expression that indicates a wonderful influence over men. It means light in a spiritual sense, light that will lead to the salvation of the soul. Hence he commands them further and says: "Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father which is in heaven." (Matt. 5: 16.) This passage shows the wonderful power and influence there is in a faithful, Christian life, in the way of leading others into a Christian life. When such lives influence others to become Christians, it not only leads to the salvation of the souls of men, but it leads to the glorification of the Father in heaven. So Christians not only secure their own salvation by being faithful in the service of the Lord, but aid in bringing other souls to Christ and extending honor and glory to the Heavenly Father. Surely Christians ought to be active and faithful in living the Christian life, when so much is to be accomplished by it. Surely, with the prospect of so much good to be accomplished, the Lord's people ought to be doubly diligent in doing everything in their power to bring about such glorious results. Not only their souls are at stake in the matter, but the souls of many others may be in some way depending upon our faithfulness in the Lord's service. No wonder, then, that Jesus was so careful to impress people with the importance of continued faithfulness in the service of the Lord, when so much of the well-being of others depends upon it.

Jesus gave his life to prepare a plan of salvation through which all that will obey its requirements might be saved; and surely all ought to be willing to give their hearts and lives to a system of godliness that proposes so much of good to themselves and others both in this life and in the life that is to come. All Christians, therefore, need to read and study such lessons as the above passages give, and to so live as to avail themselves of such wonderful blessings, and especially so when such lives afford so much happiness here and hereafter. Let all, therefore, so give their hearts and lives to the divine requirements of the New Testament as to be fully prepared for all the blessings of Christianity both in this life and in the blessed and eternal home prepared for all the righteous, where all can be with God and Christ and all the pure and holy through the eternal ages.

Subscribe for The Bible Study Helper. Only sixty cents a year.

"Ye are the Light of the World" (Matt. 5: 14-16)—
W. H. Carter.

The above was spoken by the world's Redeemer to his disciples in the memorable Sermon on the Mount. While he had not yet come to the throne of David, nor into his government which was to be established on the earth, but knowing this was soon to occur, he sets forth an outline of those principles that were to obtain in this government when established. One thing peculiar about this government, that makes it different from all other governments, is, there are no secrets in it that its citizens are sworn to keep inviolate. Along this line the present Teacher and prospective King says: "Therefore whatsoever ye have spoken in darkness shall be heard in the light; and that which ye have spoken in the ear in closets shall be proclaimed upon the housetops." (Luke 12: 3.) The reason for this is set forth in the preceding verses: "For there is nothing covered, that shall not be revealed; neither hid, that shall not be known." There are no secrets to be kept, nor selfish motives to influence the subjects of this institution. Every duty, action, thought, word, and service is to be open and free to all men—the whole world. The privilege of citizenship, the blessings, and all teaching are alike free to every creature in all the nations. There is no initiation fee, for the offer is to all without money and without price. There are no signs, grips, nor passwords, for all are to be known by their fruit. Things done in secret are sometimes looked upon with suspicion. Therefore, that suspicion may be avoided, that every thought of selfish interest or personal interest at the expense of others be not charged, all is to be public, free, and open to the light. What takes place in the secret chambers of heaven is freely made known to the dwellers upon the earth.

As children of the light (Eph. 5: 8), we are to walk in the light (1 John 1: 7), to give the light of the knowledge of the glory of God (2 Cor. 4: 6), and thus shine as lights in the world (Phil. 2: 15). The Lord himself commands us: "Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father which is in heaven." (Matt. 5: 16.) Notice here that our good works are to be seen of men. That which is done in secret is not seen of men. Therefore the doing of good works in secret is not God's way. But one may say: "Did not Jesus say let your alms be in secret?" (Matt. 6: 1-4.) Not in the sense that we are to do them as members of a secret order behind closed doors. We are not to do these things "before men, to be seen of them." We are not to "sound a trumpet before" us to attract attention of men to get reward of praise and honor from men. Our light is to shine through our good works, and thus men are able to see our light and be led to glorify our Father. When people see that we do good works to win the praise of men, they condemn us and call us "hypocrites." That is what Jesus condemned. But when they see that we care nothing for the praise of men, but do the will of the Father because it is his will and to glorify him, then it is that we shine as lights and our Father rewards us openly.

In charitable deeds is not the only way that we may let our light shine. Men who make no pretense toward Christianity do charitable deeds, and possibly excel many of us. How much better, then, are we than they, if this is the only standard of measurement? The Scriptures furnish the man of God unto all good works. (2 Tim. 3: 16, 17.) There are those who are good to the poor and do many deeds of charity, but there they stop. They do not obey the gospel, nor attend the Lord's-day worship, nor give to have the gospel preached to their neighbors around them, nor do they try to preach it themselves. Yet they think they will be saved on account of their charitable deeds and moral character. Then there are those who attend the Lord's-day meetings regularly, but who do not give as God has prospered them, nor make any sacrifice to have their neighbors converted to Christ. Now which of the two is giving out the greater light? Which of the two is living that life most in harmony with God's will? Might we not say that the former begins in darkness and tries to walk in the light as it suits him, while the latter begins in the light and ends in darkness?

My brethren, to walk in the light and be indeed and in truth a light in the world is to follow all the teaching of our Savior. We are not at liberty to accept a part and reject the rest; "for whosoever shall keep the whole law, and yet offend in one point, he is guilty of all." (James 2: 10.) Do you ask: "How may we know all his will?" We answer by doing as he has said: "Search the scriptures;" "give attention to reading;" "add to your faith virtue, and to virtue knowledge;" "be not unwise, but understanding what the will of the Lord is." Do you say, "I have not the time to study the Scriptures?" Then you will not have time to let your light shine, and will not, it may be, find the time to go to heaven when you die. Do you not find time to read the daily papers, magazines, and novels? Let us be careful that we are not allowing ourselves deceived into the notion that we have not the time to read, study, and learn God's word; for, after all, it may be that we have a greater lack of interest in, and love for, the cause of Christ and dying men than of time to read the Bible. Let us get busy, be about our Father's business, and let our lights shine to the fullest extent of our capacity; for the time is short, the day is far spent. Let us work while it is day; for when night comes, our work must cease.

Appreciations

Following are mostly answers to letters to various persons, asking their favorite texts:

William O. McDowell, president of the Cuban-American League: "To me the Sermon on the Mount is the great chapter—this as the forerunner of the Declaration of Independence of the United States of America."

Lillian M. N. Stevens, president of the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union: "My favorite texts or chapters of the Bible are those words spoken by our Lord and Savior, especially the Sermon on the Mount."

Joaquin Miller, author of "Songs of the Sierras," and many other poems and plays: "The Sermon on the Mount, by all means. It is the song of civilization, the source of conquest, and the purest, truest, sublimest poem ever uttered."

Ella Wheeler Wilcox, author and poet: "'Blessed are the peacemakers: for they shall be called the children of God' (Matt. 5: 9), has always been a favorite verse of mine. Also: 'He that ruleth his spirit [is greater] than he that taketh a city.' (Prov. 16: 32.)"

Sir John Lubbock, London banker, author, scientist, and naturalist: "Sermon on the Mount." His "Pleasures of Life" have reached nearly three hundred thousand copies. His list of the one hundred best books has become famous. In it the Bible is given the first place.

Francis Murphy, gospel temperance evangelist, over ten million persons having signed the pledge with him, the motto of which was, "With charity for all and malice toward none:" "The Sermon on the Mount has the first place in my heart. It is to me a perennial spring of life, health, and strength."

J. W. Bashford, president of the Ohio Wesleyan University: "My favorite text for years was: 'Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shall see God.' During recent years I have been more desirous of realizing the closing words of Christ: 'I have finished the work which thou gavest me to do.' (John 17: 4.)"

Count Leo Tolstoy, Russian novelist and social reformer, author of "The Kingdom of God is Within Us," "The Four Gospels Harmonized," "Anna Karanina," etc.: "'Seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you.' (Matt. 6: 33.)"

Joseph Wheeler, congressman, soldier, planter, lawyer, senior cavalry general of the Confederate armies in the Civil War, and senior officer in the field at the battle of San Juan, Spanish War: "To my mind Christ's Sermon on the Mount and the thirteenth chapter of First Corinthians embrace the essential principles of Christian living."

O. P. Fitzgerald, once bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, and author of a number of books, said: "If I have a favorite text, it is this: 'Lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven.' (Matt. 6: 20.) The reason why I would so call it is that I have been more blessed in preaching from it and seen more hearers affected thereby than any other."

Lucien C. Warner, chairman of the International Committee of the Young Men's Christian Association and prominent manufacturer: "As a boy in Sunday school, I memorized many chapters of the Bible, mostly from the Gospels, but including a few Psalms. These have been a never-failing source of comfort to me. Christ's Sermon on the Mount seems to me to embody the most practical wisdom to be found in any three consecutive chapters."

"We have but to feel ourselves back into the bright air and sunshine of that fresh morning far away in Galilee," says Bishop Phillips Brooks, "with the sweet distraction of the early birds filling the air, and the soft dreamy faces of the Galilean peasants making the listening group, in order to become aware how perfectly impossible it was that the discourse should move to any such measure as might have become the lecture room of a new rabbi. It has no rhetorical order or progress. It does not move in any argumentative development. It has its unity in its controlling purpose. It is one by the life blood of the one idea which beats through it, and which those ready and responsive peasant natures feel. And what is that idea? Neander calls the sermon, "The Magna Charta of the Kingdom of God." It is a fine phrase, and in one sense it is completely true. But really the idea of God which fills the great discourse is not the idea of King, but the idea of Father."

Samuel M. Jones, mayor of Toledo, Ohio, 1897-1901, known as "Golden Rule Jones," because that is the only rule posted in his factory, advocate of labor reforms, municipal ownership, etc.: "In early life I did considerable memorizing of Bible texts. My parents were Welsh emigrants, who came to this country when I was three years old. They were very poor and very Christian. The Bible was the main book in the house. I do not recall that the memorizing of scripture in early life was of much help to me, but in later years I have found the philosophy of Jesus respecting social relation very helpful indeed. The texts which I most often quote are those bearing directly upon the question of our social and political relation here and now. I have not time to look up the references, but quote them at random from the Sermon on the Mount: 'Love your enemies;' 'Do good to them that hate you;' 'Give to every one that asketh of thee;' 'Blessed are the peacemakers;' 'Blessed are the merciful;' 'Blessed are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness [rightness—that is, to be right, as I understand it]: for they shall be filled.' I believe that love is the only basis upon which we can hope to build an enduring State; and I have the fullest confidence that all of the necessary government will be carried on when the government by violence and force is at an end, when the Golden Rule is the supreme law of the land.

The Master's Interpretation of the Law (Matt. 5: 17-48.)

"I Came Not to Destroy, But to Fulfill" (Matt. 5: 17-19)—F. B. Srygley.

"Till heaven and earth pass, one jot or one tittle shall in no wise pass from the law, till all be fulfilled." (Matt. 5: 18.)

While this text does not affirm that the law would pass away when it was fulfilled, it evidently means that it would. As a matter of fact, the law was taken out of the way at the death of Christ; and so the meaning of the text is that the law was to be abolished when fulfilled, and it was fulfilled by the Lord.

The law of Moses was abolished in every way a law can be removed. When a law is given for a purpose and that purpose has been met, then the law is abolished. The purpose of the law was to bring those that were under it to Christ. "Wherefore the law was our schoolmaster to bring us unto Christ, that we might be justified by faith. But after that faith is come, we are no longer under a schoolmaster." (Gal. 3: 24.)

The law was not only given for a specific purpose, but it was for a specified time. The apostle says: "Wherefore then serveth the law [or, wherefore then the law]? It was added because of transgressions, till the seed should come to whom the promise was made." (Gal. 3: 19.) "Christ hath redeemed us from the law." "Now to Abraham and his seed were the promises made. He saith not, And to seeds, as of many; but as of one, And to thy seed, which is Christ." (Gal. 3: 16.) Since the law was only given to last till the seed should come, which is Christ, it expired by limitation when Christ came.

But the law was not only abolished because it was fulfilled, served its purpose, and was abolished by limitation, but it was repealed by the giving of another law which took its place. "For if that first covenant had been faultless, then should no place have been sought for the second. For finding fault with them, he saith, Behold, the days come, saith the Lord, when I will make a new covenant with the house of Israel and with the house of Judah." (Heb. 8: 7, 8.) So the old covenant was repealed and the new took its place. But the law was removed by a special act of the power that made it. "Blotting out the handwriting of ordinances that was against us, which was contrary to us, and took it out of the way, nailing it to his cross." (Col. 2: 14.)

So the law was removed in every way that a law can be removed. It was fulfilled and removed; it served its purpose and was abolished; it remained for its time and was taken away; it was repealed by the giving of another covenant and was nailed to the cross. How any one can believe that any part of the old law is yet in force, in the face of these scriptures, is more than I can understand. But here I am reminded that some contend that all these passages have reference only to the ceremonial law. But I know of no passage that makes the distinction between the ceremonial law and the law. This distinction has only been gotten up for an emergency. There is no scripture to sustain it. Christ, our Lord, kept the law, fulfilled it, and abolished it.

Pharisaism, Ancient, and Modern (Matt. 5: 20)— James E. Seobey.

The ancient Pharisees spoken of in the Bible, as a religious body, were a sect of the Jews, and were distinguished from the Sadducees by their belief in spirits and a resurrection, which the Sadducees denied. They derived the name "Pharisee" from the Hebrew word "pharos," meaning "separated." They distinguished themselves mainly by their zeal for the traditions of the elders, which they derived from the same fountain with the written word itself, pretending that both were delivered to Moses on Mount Sinai, and were, therefore, of equal authority. Because they vigorously observed these traditions, they considered themselves more holy than other Jews, and, therefore, separated themselves from them; and on this account they obtained their name. They numbered in their ranks many distinguished men among the Jews. The scribes, lawyers, and statesmen, generally, if not exclusively, were Pharisees. Among others, the following may be mentioned: Nicodemus; Gamaliel; Simon, with whom Jesus was invited to eat; and Saul of Tarsus, who, as Paul the apostle, declared himself a Pharisee, the son of a Pharisee. It would be a difficult task to write all that is embraced in the account given in the Scriptures concerning this self-satisfied, holier-than-thou sect of the Jews.

Human nature has been about the same in all ages of the world. While we do not find the name "Pharisee" in the history of the most ancient religions, we do find among the devotees of those religious men who felt and acted as the Pharisees of Judaism. The principles of Pharisaism permeated the priestly classes, not only of the ancient Egyptian religionists, but also the followers of all the old religions of China, India, and Persia. There were the "holier-than-thou" sects among the followers of Confucius in China, of Brahma and Buddha in India, and of Zoroaster in Persia. These religions antedate the religion of Judaism many hundreds of years. The priestly caste in all religions have regarded themselves as superior to the common herd of worshipers. The principles underlying and forming the character of the Pharisee of Judaism may be found, primarily, in egotism, selfishness, and hypocrisy. These, coupled with a strong desire to be regarded very highly by the multitude, both socially and religiously, rendered them officiously industrious and punctilious in the observance of the various rites and ceremonies held in reverence as the traditions of the fathers. The Nazarene said they "pay tithe of mint and anise and cummin, and have omitted the weightier matters of the law, judgment, mercy, and faith." Jesus hesitated not to call them "hypocrites."

Jesus charged the scribes, the lawyers, of Pharisaism: "Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! for ye make clean the outside of the cup and of the platter, but within they are full of extortion and excess." They were like whited sepulchers. They outwardly appeared righteous unto men; but within they were full of hypocrisy and iniquity, said Jesus. The lawyers also, generally, were of the sect of the Pharisees; and Jesus denounced them for the burdens they placed on men, none of which they were willing to bear themselves, exhibiting clearly the fact of their cold-blooded selfishness. Perhaps not every one who believed in spirits and a resurrection was a cold-blooded, selfish hypocrite; but surely a great number of those who professed to be Pharisees were of the class which Jesus so thoroughly denounced.

Although Paul declared himself a Pharisee, the son of a Pharisee, we can scarcely classify him as a hypocrite, when we consider his course before, as well as after, his conversion to Christianity. That he sincerely believed in the doctrine of the resurrection in contradistinction to the belief of the Sadducees, there can be no doubt; and the announcement of his position, on the occasion, he believed would turn to his advantage, since those who were persecuting him belonged to both sects, and thus he would secure the sympathy, and possibly the help, of the Pharisaic party to relieve him from custody.

With the passage of some two thousand years since Pharisaism was so severely rebuked and so significantly characterized by Him who spoke as never man had spoken, it has never become extinct. The world still finds itself much like it was in the days of Saul of Tarsus, who was an honest, earnest, zealous, devout Pharisee, full of prejudice and hate against Christians and Christianity. No one should be so firmly wedded to any doctrine presented, in reference to which there is diversity of opinion, that he would be unwilling to fairly and fully enter into an investigation of the matter to determine the truth.

Modern Pharisaism is not only with us now, but is found influencing to a large extent the various forms of religion among us. What I mean by "various forms of religion" is the many sects into which professing Christians are divided. In all of them you will find some largely imbued with the feeling of self-importance, whose ability as preachers, pastors, and priests, deacons and elders, is simply above criticism, and who have the same spirit as the Pharisee who went up into the temple to pray at the same time a publican did. The Pharisee thanked God that he was better than other men, who are extortioners, unjust, adulterers, "or even this publican."

There are few, indeed, but what manifest in some way one or more of the characteristics of the Pharisee; and when I say that, I mean the bad, or worse, characteristics of the pharisaical life. One characteristic of the Pharisee was his zeal. But a good characteristic may be used in an evil cause; and when so used, it is an evil.

Paul condemned the pharisaic spirit when he exhorted the brethren at Rome that no one "think of himself more highly than he ought to think; but to think soberly, according as God hath dealt to every man the measure of faith." The brag, bluster, and dogmatism used by many in their encounters with those who differ from them, or in setting forth their own teaching, smacks strongly of the pharisaic spirit. Paul, in his second letter to Timothy, gives excellent advice to his young evangelist, which was calculated to prevent him from becoming a Pharisee in feeling, thought, word, or act. He said: "Follow righteousness, faith, charity, peace, with them that call on the Lord out of a pure heart. . . . The servant of the Lord must not strive; but be gentle to all men, apt to teach, patient, in meekness instructing those that oppose themselves; if God peradventure will give them repentance to the acknowledging of the truth."

Reconciliation Before Acceptable Offering (Matt. 5: 22-26)—S. F. Morrow.

The first request that I shall make of the reader, and one that is very necessary, is that he read carefully and prayerfully the text cited above, which teaches us a most wonderful lesson. It should be taught to little ones as soon as they are capable of understanding and continued daily to all that it is our privilege to meet with, realizing that to-day is the day of salvation and that to-morrow may never come. The golden opportunity of to-day is ours. The precious souls that we meet to-day we may never meet again until we meet before the great Judge to give account for the deeds done in the body.

After these words of loving admonition, dear reader, we trust that we are prepared to enter into a brief investigation of this all-important lesson delivered by our Lord and Master. To understand properly, we should be familiar with each word used by the writer. We read from the American Revised Version that Jesus says: "I say unto you, that every one who is angry with his brother shall be in danger of the judgment." My brother, how can any of us be angry with a brother and pray an acceptable prayer to our Heavenly Father for our brother? Paul, in the twelfth chapter of Romans, admonishes: "Bless them that persecute you; bless, and curse not." And: "If thine enemy hunger, feed him."

Reading again: "And whosoever shall say to his brother, Raca, shall be in danger of the council; and whosoever shall say, Thou fool, shall be in danger of the hell of fire." How many little children would refrain from using these fearful words if parents, preachers, and elders would do their duty in teaching them what it means!

"If therefore thou art offering thy gift at the altar, and there rememberest that thy brother hath aught against thee, leave there thy gift before the altar, and go thy way, first be reconciled to thy brother, and then come and offer thy gift." When we consider this last command seriously and apply it to our daily lives and see into our own hearts, how many of us are prepared, and how many of us have the privilege, to offer an acceptable gift or offering? Jesus says that if we fail to forgive those who trespass against us, neither will he forgive us. "It is a fearful thing to fall into the hands of the living God." (Heb. 10: 31.) "My flesh trembleth for fear of thee; and I am afraid of thy judgments." (Ps. 119: 120.)

Adultery, Marriage, and Divorce (Matt. 5: 27-32)—E. A. Elam.

I. INTRODUCTION.

The Sermon on the Mount contains the basic principles of Christ's kingdom. According to the great commission (Matt. 28: 19, 20)—"teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I commanded you"—these principles are fully taught throughout the New Testament.

Christ came from heaven, suffered, died, and arose from the dead in order to restore God's rule on the earth. The Sermon on the Mount teaches implicit obedience to God and perfect reliance upon him. (See its conclusion—Matt. 7: 21-29.) It came from God as heat and light from the sun. When all men live according to its principles, God's will will be done on earth as it is in heaven.

The church of Christ is the training school in which his disciples are developed in the practice of these principles; in which they "become partakers of the divine nature, having escaped from the corruption that is in the world by lust." (2 Pet. 1: 4; see 2 Cor. 3: 18; Eph. 4: 22-24; Col. 3: 10.)

Jesus taught these principles everywhere and to all people, and then, as has been stated, sent his apostles into all the world to teach them to all the nations. He did not teach them always in exactly the same words and the same order. Luke 6 gives many of the same principles. Jesus "went up into the mountain" and delivered the Sermon recorded by Matthew, and "he came down with them, and stood on a level place" (Luke 6: 17), and delivered the one recorded by Luke. The Sermon on the Mount is fuller than the one in Luke 6, and not in the same order. Luke gives other portions of this sermon in 11: 9-13; 13: 22-31.

A conclusion: Preachers who are so afraid of repeating themselves seem not so much concerned about teaching the whole truth in order to lift people to a higher plane of right living and devoutness as to have it go out that they themselves are some great literary characters, sermonizers, pulpiteers, sensationalists, and orators. No preacher can have the spirit of Christ and seek the good of all people without continually repeating the Sermon on the Mount and all of Christ's teaching. There is nothing else to teach that will save. Whatever is worth teaching at all is worth repeating everywhere. Since the greatest Teacher and Preacher of all ages—who spoke as never man spoke—so often repeated his teaching, his disciples must never fear to do the same.

There is great need of articles and sermons and private instruction—publicly and from house to house—on every beatitude, principle, and command of this Sermon on the Mount.

II. MATT. 5: 27-32.

But the portion of this Sermon assigned to me is that which treats of adultery, marriage, and divorce.

A clear and complete statement of all the Bible teaches on either one of these three subjects requires more space than can be used at this time for all.

There was never a time in the world's history when there was greater need of a strong and unmistakable presentation of the teaching of the Bible in regard to these subjects than there is in this "evil and adulterous generation."

III. "THOU SHALT NOT COMMIT ADULTERY."

This is the seventh commandment of the law (Ex. 20: 14; Deut. 5: 18), and forbids the overt act.

But I say unto you, that every one that looketh on a woman to lust after her hath committed adultery with her already in his heart.

This is the teaching of Jesus. He goes back of the overt act and forbids the lustful feelings and sinful intentions which lead to the overt act. He not only forbids the act, but cuts the taproot of the tree of evil by requiring righteous motives, pure intentions, and holy purposes. No one can hope to succeed in living a pure, righteous, and virtuous life until he has learned to control his thoughts, passions, and purposes.

David prayed:

Let the words of my mouth and the meditation of my heart be acceptable in thy sight, O Jehovah, my rock, and my redeemer. (Ps. 19: 14.)

Solomon says:

Keep thy heart with all diligence; for out of it are the issues of life." (Prov. 4: 23.)

This is the secret of pure speech and a clean life. Let us think right, and we can then hope to talk right and act right; we cannot think one way and talk and act in a different way.

But the things which proceed out of the mouth come forth out of the heart; and they defile the man. For out of the heart come forth evil thoughts, murders, adulteries, fornications, thefts, false witness, railings: these are the things which defile the man; but to eat with unwashed hands defileth not the man. (Matt. 15: 18, 19.)

Peter (2 Pet. 2: 14) speaks of some who have "eyes full of adultery"—either on the outlook for an adulteress or beaming with adulterous desires. With such feelings and desires, one cannot be pure and clean. "Out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh." He who has an evil and adulterous heart cannot speak good and chaste things or live a pure life. He who is always relating vulgar and filthy things must think them, or he could not retain them in his heart.

The good man out of the good treasure of his heart bringeth forth that which is good.

For as he thinketh within himself, so is he. (Prov. 23: 7.)

Timothy and Titus were to "flee youthful lusts," to treat the younger women as sisters "in all purity," and to so live in all worthiness that no one could despise their youth. (1 Tim. 6: 11; 2 Tim. 2: 22; 1 Tim. 5: 2; 4: 12.)

In general terms, adultery is unlawful intercourse with another man's wife or unfaithfulness on the part of either husband or wife; and fornication is giving oneself for any reason to unlawful sexual intercourse.

The Bible most clearly and strongly condemns adultery, fornication, all uncleanness, and all filthy practices.

Or know ye not that the unrighteous shall not inherit the kingdom of God? Be not deceived: neither fornicators, nor idolaters, nor adulterers, nor effeminate, nor abusers of themselves with men, nor thieves, nor covetous, nor drunkards, nor revilers, nor extortioners, shall inherit the kingdom of God. (1 Cor. 6: 9, 10.)

In the next verse Paul shows that men and women may repent of these sins, be forgiven, live clean and righteous lives, do good on earth, and be saved in heaven.

Many are the passages condemning these sins, which we have not space to quote. (See Gal. 5: 19-21; Eph. 5: 3, 4; Col. 3: 5-8; 1 Tim. 1: 10; Heb. 12: 16; and others.)

How adulterers and fornicators in the church should be dealt with is also plainly set forth in 1 Cor. 5: 1-13 and other passages. In this, as all other things, God must be obeyed.

How to avoid fornication and adultery and to live virtuous and happy lives is plainly stated in 1 Cor. 7: 1-8 and other passages. These passages should be studied, should impress the heart as much as any other things which God teaches, and all lives should be regulated accordingly.

It is God's rule for men and women to marry, to become parents, to rear children for usefulness and in his service. Then "let each man have his own wife, and let each woman have her own husband."

Marriage is to be held in honor among all and the bed is undefiled; "for fornicators and adulterers God will judge." (Heb. 13: 4.) Homes—virtuous and pure homes—are the only foundation, but the sure foundation, of civilization, pure society, and prosperous nations. In the ratio that the purity and sanctity of homes are destroyed, or that home building and rearing families cease, society becomes corrupt, good government and civilization undermined, and the church flooded with lasciviousness and associate evils.

God teaches young men to rejoice in the wives of their youth, to be satisfied with their love, and to live joyfully with them all the days of their lives. (Prov. 5: 15-23; Eccles. 9: 9.) So God teaches the young women to "marry, bear children, rule the household," and "give no occasion to the adversary for reviling." (1 Tim. 5: 14.)

There is nothing better, happier, more beautiful, more pleasing to God, and more promising of contentment and usefulness and happiness, than an industrious, economical, upright young married couple beginning life's work in the fear and service of God, building their own cozy nest and consecrating it with their faithfulness and love. This is the vestibule of that perfect home "where changes never come" and happiness never ends.

Verses 29, 30 of Matt. 5 speak of "hell," or "Gehenna," the place of the final punishment of the wicked, "the hell of fire," and "the unquenchable fire" (Mark 9: 43). Adultery leads to this place of punishment. Pointing out clearly the fearful consequences of this sin, Jesus teaches every precaution against it. One would better be deprived of the right eye or the right hand, or anything as dear as these, and go through life without them, and be finally saved in heaven, than to keep them and be lost.

Certainly, then, sinful passions and appetites must not be indulged or allowed. They must all be put away.

IV. THE AUTHOR OF MARRIAGE.

God is the author of the marriage relationship. "From the beginning" God made man and woman, or "male and female," and said: "For this cause shall a man leave his father and mother, and shall cleave to his wife; and the two shall become one flesh." Jesus adds: "So that they are no more two, but one flesh. What therefore God hath joined together, let not man put asunder." (Matt. 19: 3-6.) God declares that it was not good for man to be alone, and that for this reason he made a help suited to man's needs. This help, or being, is bone of man's bones and flesh of his flesh. (Gen. 2: 18-25.) There can be no closer, dearer, more binding, and more sacred relationship. So completely is "the woman of the man" and so completely are the two one that when a man loves his wife, "even as Christ also loved the church, and gave himself up for it," he is said to love himself, his own flesh and body. So every man must "severally love each one his own wife even as himself," and the wife must "see that she fear her husband" and is in subjection to him as unto the Lord. (Eph. 5: 22-33.) Marriage, then, is not an ordinance of any civil or ecclesiastic authority.

V. DIVORCE.

In close connection with his teaching against adultery, Jesus mentions a form of adultery permitted then because of the hardness of the hearts of the Jews (Matt. 19: 8), but not so designed from the beginning, and now legalized by civilized and Christian countries. God's law of marriage explained and enforced by Christ has been set aside by the civil authorities of many countries by granting divorces for almost any cause. By many in many places the marriage vow and relationship are no longer held sacred, and husband and wife separate on an impulse to cohabit with some one else.

The statistics on this subject are alarming.

All preachers, elders, teachers, all Christians, and all otherwise decent people should earnestly teach against this widespread and growing evil. This is a part of "the whole counsel of God," which none must shrink from declaring. Nothing harsh, bitter, and denunciatory need be said; far from that. But the plain and strong teaching of the Bible must be presented. There must be no shrinking, no dodging, no compromising, no temporizing, and yet no going beyond that which God has written or making laws where he has made none. To read without comment clearly and fully all the Bible teaches on the subject is sufficient to all who tremble at God's word and are determined to obey him.

While it was once said "Whosoever shall put away his wife, let him give her a writing of divorcement" (Deut. 24: 1-3), Jesus teaches differently. He says:

Every one that putteth away his wife, saving for the cause of fornication, maketh her an adulteress: and whosoever shall marry her when she is put away committeth adultery.

Fornication on the part of either husband or wife breaks the marriage tie and is a God-given reason for divorce. God joins husband and wife, and he alone can separate them; no civil court or authority can divorce them. No human power—State legislature, congress of States, king, or civil authority—can put asunder what God has joined together. God-made ties cannot be broken by human laws. For example, civil authorities or laws cannot do away with Christ and his gospel and his church; they cannot set aside faith in Christ, repentance, baptism, the Lord's Supper, the worship of God, etc.; but they can do away with all these or with any other law of God as easily as they can set aside God's law of marriage.

He who marries her who has been divorced for some other cause than fornication commits adultery, because, in the eyes of God, he is living with another man's wife; she commits adultery because she is living with another than her own husband.

Other scriptures on the subject are as follows: Matt. 19: 1-8; Rom. 7: 1-3; 1 Cor. 7: 10-16, 19.

If husband and wife should separate for any other than the Bible cause, they should either remain unmarried or be reconciled to each other. God has called all in peace. If an infidel or idolatrous husband or wife leave the Christian wife or husband because such becomes a Christian, then the Christian "is not under bondage in such cases."

Gladness.

The cloud maker tells us the world is wrong
And is bound in an evil fetter,
But the blue-sky man comes bringing a song
Of hope that shall make it better;
And the toilers, hearing his voice, behold
The sign of a glad to-morrow,
Whose hands are heaped with the purest gold,
Of which each heart may borrow.

—Nixon Waterman.

"Swear Not at All" (Matt. 5: 33-37)—
S. H. Hall.

Upon the above subject I submit the following comments:

1. It is claimed by some that this prohibition does not apply to judicial oaths or oaths "taken in the name of God on occasions of solemn religious importance." Those who take this position call our attention to the oath Christ himself took before the Sanhedrin (Matt. 26: 63); to the fact that God himself, "because he could swear by no greater, swore by himself" (Heb. 6: 13; 7: 21); and to the fact that Paul made oath to the Corinthian church, and others, saying: "I call God for a witness upon my soul, that to spare you I forbore to come unto Corinth" (see 2 Cor. 1: 23; Rom. 1: 9). Certainly these facts must be considered. Hence brethren who take the position that it is wrong to take the judicial oath must not be too hasty in condemning those who think it is not prohibited. One thing that must be said, however, is that no man should take the judicial oath who has any scruples about its being right to do so. It is a sin for us to do anything doubting, at the time, its being God's will for us to do so. (See Rom. 14: 23.) I know nothing better to say about this than to quote the familiar declaration of Paul, "Let each man be fully assured in his own mind" (Rom. 14: 5), and then let him act accordingly.

2. But there is one thing in the above scripture over which we cannot quibble—viz., whenever we either affirm or deny a thing, let it be the truth, nothing more nor less. "Let your speech be, Yea, yea; Nay, nay; and whatsoever is more than these is of the evil one." Be scrupulously careful to speak the truth about all things of which you affirm or deny. We certainly do not understand our Lord to teach that it is any greater sin to forswear ourselves (commit perjury) than it is to tell a lie when not under oath. A lie is a lie, whether under oath or not. He wants us to establish the name of being absolutely truthful in all of our affirmations or denials. Why should an oath influence, in the slightest degree, a Christian's carefulness to tell the truth? Let love for the truth and things honorable in the sight of all men be the propelling cause of our yeas always being yea, and our nays, nay. Before leaving this, I think it well to call attention to a common weakness among the disciples—viz., so little regard for their promises and covenants in their church work. In Deut. 23: 21 it says that we must not be slack to pay our vows; for Jehovah our God requires this of us, and we sin when we fall short of doing what we vow or promise. This law can never change, for it is founded upon the nature and character of our God. But, brethren, how many times do you make promises and vows and absolutely forget them? I have seen brethren who were considered truthful in their business affairs, but would continually lie, with impunity it seems, by promising to do certain things toward the support of the gospel and not doing it. Let us learn to be truthful by living up to all our promises and obligations.

3. I have been asked to say something about profanity while on this subject. "Thou shalt not take the name of Jehovah thy God in vain" is the scripture most often quoted in condemning profanity. To take the name of God in vain is to take it for vanity or falsehood, and is so translated in the margin. To call God for a witness upon your soul, as Paul did in 2 Cor. 1: 23, when your declaration is not true, is to use his name in vain. To teach a doctrine in God's name that he never authorized is to take his name in vain. To use his name in a light, frivolous way, as men do in common profanity, is certainly taking it in vain. And I have often feared that even in much of our singing, preaching, and praying we come dangerously nigh doing so, because of the heartless, thoughtless way we use his holy name. The Lord help us to love God with all our hearts, to stand in awe of his name, and to tremble at his word.

"An Eye for an Eye" and the Better Way—(Matt. 5: 38-42)—G. Dallas Smith.

"Ye have heard that it was said, An eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth: but I say unto you, Resist not him that is evil; but whosoever smiteth thee on thy right cheek, turn to him the other also. And if any man would go to law with thee, and take away thy coat, let him have thy cloak also. And whosoever shall compel thee to go one mile, go with him two. Give to him that asketh thee, and from him that would borrow of thee turn not thou away." (Matt. 5: 38-42.)

When Jehovah led the children of Israel out of the long night of Egyptian bondage, he made a covenant with them at Mount Sinai, embodying the Ten Commandments, with many other specific laws. (Deut. 4: 13; 5: 2, 3.) This old Sinaitic covenant was made with a particular people—the children of Israel; for a specific purpose—because of their transgressions; and for a limited time—until Jesus Christ, the promised seed, should come (Gal. 3: 16, 19). Many years after the establishing of this old covenant Jeremiah declared that Jehovah was going to make a new covenant. (Jer. 31: 31-33.) This "new covenant" is evidently the covenant of grace through Jesus Christ. (Heb. 8: 8-12.) So we have revealed in the Bible, besides the minor covenants, two very prominent ones—the old Sinaitic covenant and the new covenant of grace. The old covenant came through Moses; the new, through Jesus Christ. (John 1: 17.)

Now, of these two covenants, the apostle Paul declares the new to be the better. (Heb. 7: 22.) But, it may be asked, wherein is the new covenant better than the old? Some have contended that the old covenant was all law and no grace, while the new was all grace and no law, and hence the new was the better because it is a covenant of grace instead of law. But it is a mistake to conclude that there was no grace in the old covenant, and it is just as great a mistake to conclude that there is no law in the new covenant. One of the chief differences between the two covenants is the superiority of the new-covenant laws. The old-covenant laws were considerably mixed with the spirit of retaliation—a hand for a hand, an eye for an eye, and life for life. (Ex. 21: 22-25.) According to the old covenant, if a man killed another man, his life must be taken to satisfy the demands of justice; if he put out the eye of another, then his eye must be destroyed as a satisfactory punishment; if he was responsible for the loss of a tooth, then he must suffer the loss of a tooth to satisfy the requirements of the old law. The principle was, in a large measure, "Do unto others as they do unto you," and is in striking contrast to the "Golden Rule," which says: "All things therefore whatsoever ye would that men should do unto you, even so do ye also unto them."

But why did God ever give a law that is so far below the plane of the Golden Rule? Why did he not give this "better covenant" at once? And we might ask, why did God not send Jesus into the world immediately following the fall of Adam, instead of delaying it for about four thousand years? These are deep questions, but I think there is an answer. In brief, it is safe to say that the world must first be prepared for these better things. The Israelites were a weak and rebellious people, and hence God tolerated many things which he could not approve. For instance, he allowed them to have a king, even though they rejected him in asking for it. He also allowed men to marry and then divorce their wives, on account of the hardness of their hearts. And evidently it was this principle of dealing with the situation as it really was that led Jehovah to enact laws which are far below the Golden-Rule principle.

Now, Jesus was contrasting the principles of these two covenants when he said: "Ye have heard that it was said, An eye for an eye, and a tooth for a tooth: but I say unto you, Resist not him that is evil: but whosoever smiteth thee on thy right cheek, turn to him the other also." This is the better way—the new-covenant way. But while it is the better way, it is decidedly the harder way. It is much easier to return evil for evil than it is to do just what the Lord here directs us to do. It simply means, as interpreted by the apostle Paul, "Render to no man evil for evil."

But Jesus goes still farther. He says: "And if any man would go to law with thee, and take away thy coat, let him have thy cloak also." In this Jesus teaches us that it is better to be defrauded out of both garments than to be drawn into litigation over them. Even from a financial standpoint this is usually best, for the winner in a lawsuit is frequently the loser also. Many a man has learned this lesson after it is too late. A strict adherence to the principles of the new and better covenant will keep us out of Cæsar's courts. And this is the better way.

"And whosoever shall compel thee to go one mile, go with him two," continues Jesus. This is supposed to refer to local conditions in Palestine when the Jews were subjects of foreign nations. It is said that special messengers passing through Palestine were authorized to force men into service as guides or assistants. So Jesus teaches submission to them, rather than resistance. In general, it is the same principle taught by the apostle Peter: "Be subject to every ordinance of man for the Lord's sake. (1 Pet. 2: 13.)

Again, Jesus says: "Give to him that asketh thee, and from him that would borrow of thee turn not thou away." The spirit of the new and better covenant is the spirit of generosity. It is wholly unselfish. It leads one to consider the interests of others rather than live for self alone. These principles were all vividly demonstrated in the life of Him who said: "All things therefore whatsoever ye would that men should do unto you, even so do ye also unto them: for this is the law and the prophets."

The Nazarene.

"So the Nazarene is dead,"
Caiaphas the high priest said,
"His wonder-working deeds are o'er,
He will trouble us no more.
May blasphemers such as he
Perish on the shameful tree,
And our holy temple's law
Be kept free from ev'ry flaw;
For the temple must have sway
Till heaven and earth shall pass away."
"So the Nazarene is dead,"
Caiaphas the high priest said.

"So the Nazarene is dead,"
In his palace Pilate said.
"Good his words and just his life,
But the priests who stirred up strife,
Said his followers would be
From imperial Rome set free.
Vain their plotting and their care—
All the yoke of Rome must bear—
Rome that will forever stand,
Mighty lord of every land."
"So the Nazarene is dead,"
In his palace Pilate said.

The temple now has passed away,
Ended Rome's imperial day,
But the Nazarene still lives,
Peace to myriad souls he gives,
Lives in gentle words and deeds,
In all that meets the spirit's needs,
And the cross on which he died
By his death is sanctified;
Hosts in many lands acclaim
The crucified One by his name;
In their faithful hearts are seen
The ever-living Nazarene.

Priest and Pilate both have said
That the Nazarene is dead.
False their wisdom—false their lore—
He lives now and evermore.

—William E. A. Axon.

AT HOME AND ABROAD

Compiled by A. B. Lipscomb

The "Sermon on the Mount" Number speaks for itself.

T. B. Larimore preached twice for the Twelfth Avenue congregation, this city, last Sunday.

E. V. Wood, formerly of Trenton, Tenn., writes that his new and permanent address will be Roswell, N. M.

The article on "Ask, and It Shall Be Given You," by O. L. Hardin, first appeared in the Christian Worker.

The editor of this page will deliver the commencement sermon at the Nashville Bible School on Sunday, May 14.

The contributors to this number deserve our thanks. There are some new names in the list. Having made their debut, let us hope they will appear again.

My good friend, F. W. Smith, suggested the "Sermon on the Mount" as the theme for this special number and aided in its make-up by contributing two good articles. Don't you think it was a good suggestion?

"Them beatitudes ain't much; anybody can make 'em," said a thoughtless boy to his enthused teacher. The teacher smiled for an amused moment and said: "Make a few." The boy couldn't do it; nobody can; nobody ever has.

From C. E. Wooldridge, Fayetteville, Tenn.: "Fine audiences and one confession yesterday (April 30). I am to be away from home now six Lord's days—three in Nashville, Tenn., at Foster Street, and three at Tullahoma, Tenn."

H. H. Montgomery writes: "A. O. Colley, of Fort Worth, Texas, is in a two-weeks' meeting with the church in Shreveport, La., with good crowds and attention and one confession to date. The preaching, which is fine, is done under our tent."

Despite his great sorrow, T. Q. Martin intends to go right on with the work of preaching the gospel. He will begin a meeting with the Twelfth Avenue congregation, this city, next Sunday. Go out, friends, and give him the handclasp that speaks volumes.

Four meetings are in progress in Nashville, and all are being largely attended, with ever-increasing interest. These are as follows: C. M. Pullias at Lawrence Avenue; S. H. Hall at Reid Avenue; R. V. Cawthon at Green Street; S. P. Pittman at Joe Johnston Avenue. The Lord help us to do our full duty by all of these meetings.

Plans are on foot for a reunion of the surviving members of the three oldest congregations in Davidson County, Tenn. They are Donelson, Una, and Pleasant Hill. Not only the charter members, but all their descendants and friends and Christians generally are invited. The trustees of the Fanning Orphan School have tendered the use of the grounds for the day, which is May 19. All interested in this reunion should take the matter up with R. V. Cawthon, Mount Juliet, Tenn.

From L. S. White, Dallas, Texas: "Sunday, April 23, was a fine day at Pearl and Bryan Streets Church. The house was very much crowded at the morning service and there were two more additions. There have been thirty additions to this congregation during the past ten weeks, and the church is doing the best work for several years. W. M. Davis, of Fort Worth, did a fine work in the recent meeting, but was taken quite sick and had to close several days before we expected. I shall begin a meeting with the Central Church, in Fort Worth, on the first Sunday in May."

Next Saturday (May 6) will be the birthday of the venerable J. W. Harding, of Winchester, Ky., when he will pass the ninety-third milestone in the record of a long and uniformly useful life. H. C. Shoulders, in the current issue of the Gospel Way, says: "He began conducting the public worship and preaching when about eighteen years of age. He has been constantly in the work ever since. He has splendid health, is able to walk any reasonable distance, preaches here at home one Sunday in each month and occasionally goes away from home to preach. For many years he has cultivated a garden. Even at his advanced age he has planted his garden and is getting along nicely with it. Let all who will and can send him a post card or some little token of remembrance and thus help to contribute toward making his ninety-third birthday the happiest of them all."

We have received the sad intelligence of the death of Sister T. Q. Martin, who passed to her eternal reward from her earthly home at Winchester, Ky., last Saturday morning. Words cannot describe the sense of sorrow and desolation that must flood the hearts of Brother Martin and the dear children in the loss of wife and mother. But over and above all is the comforting thought that it is a blessed change for her. Brother Kurfees preached the funeral discourse, and we will trust him or some other loyal friend to send us a more extended notice. We would remind our bereaved friend and brother of these beautiful lines:

And still her silent ministry
 Within my heart hath place,
 As when on earth she walked with me
 And met me face to face.
 Her life is forever mine;
 What she to me has been
 Hath left henceforth its seal and sign
 Engraven deep within.

Carl A. Gardner writes: "The closing exercises of the present session of Thorp Spring Christian College are scheduled to be given on May 15-18. The school is expecting an unusually good commencement week. One of the features of the week is the "home-coming" of former students. Men and women who attended old Ad-Ran College and Jarvis College in years gone by are expected to be present. All who can furnish the school with names and addresses of former students will please mail a list to Jewell Matthews, San Angelo, Texas. Brother Matthews will send a more detailed statement to all whose names and addresses are handed to him. Thorp Spring Christian College is looking into the future with much hope. It has many things to offer next session which it has not thus far been able to offer. Many students expect to be in the school next session and many Christian parents intend to move here. C. R. Nichol, the president-elect, and Brother W. F. Ledlow, the president of the faculty, are men of much strength and are widely known."

From Charles L. Talley, Montgomery, Ala.: "Our meeting closed last night (April 30), having extended over four Lord's days, with preaching only at night, except on Lord's days. Five obeyed the gospel and were baptized. In many respects this was the best meeting in my five years' stay with the Highland Park congregation. Our audiences were the best, the interest was good, and on some occasions our house was packed to the limit. We shall look forward to the ripening of the harvest. The gospel was preached plainly and fully, in the spirit of the Master, with kindness and gentleness. The outlook is encouraging for our work here. Several expressed regret that the meeting had to close; however, there was much sickness and other hindrances and we thought best to close. I have promised to be with the congregation worshipping in Mobile in a meeting embracing the second and third Lord's days in May. Iverson Boles will be with us and lead the song service. This meeting is to be held under a tent. The prayers and the fellowship of the brotherhood are needed and will be highly appreciated by those that are trying with a great deal of sacrifice to keep the Lord's house in that city."

Rules for Christian Living and Happiness (Matt. 6: 1-7, 28).

Almsgiving, Fasting, Prayer (Matt. 6: 1-18)—
Morgan H. Carter.

Let us study Matt. 6: 1-18 with an open heart as well as an open Bible. Christ's words are final. First let us read them very carefully, then apply them to our life. Our Teacher makes a general statement concerning righteousness, then applies this truth to almsgiving, prayer, and fasting. The important principle is righteousness for God's glory, and not for selfish aggrandizement. Righteousness is robbed of its value in God's sight when done to be seen of men. We may take our choice of whom we will please. But let us remember that when the motive is to please men, that alone is our reward. This searching word from Jesus shows the emptiness of a two-faced life.

The application to alms warns against the hypocritical practice of trying to win favor by advertised generosity. The trumpet, the synagogue, and the street were means used by the hypocrites to advertise their beneficence. But in the glory thus attained they received their all. How like much of the advertised fellowship we find to-day even in the church! Let us, indeed, be careful that we do not let the false method steal in. Keep Christ first.

We should not be hypocritical when we pray—and, of course, all Christians pray; for a person who does not pray could hardly be said to have enough of the Christ in his life to wear his name. Theirs was the false motive; ours must be the true, if we would be heard of God. Conspicuous places and vain repetitions characterize some prayers to-day. But Christ's servants go into the inner room and, closing the door, pray to their Father. And just think! Jesus says the Father will hear our prayers and recompense us. Yet some contend that the petitions of individuals or companies are not rewarded except in psychological reflex actions. They say we just think it will help us, and, like those who take dough pills, we feel better afterwards. Away with such infidelity. Is God less powerful than his own law? Is Jehovah a prisoner bound up in the universe he created? Do we know all law, that we may deny God's power to overrule what we understand, even as we daily overrule gravitation and many other natural laws? Who says our Father does not answer his children's prayer? Unreasonable, unscriptural, unfaithful lie; believe it not. God has promised, not only to hear us, but to give us whatsoever we ask, if we abide in Christ and his words abide in us. (John 14: 6.) Christ was neither deceived nor a deceiver. Heaven and earth may pass away, but his words will not pass away. (Matt. 24: 35.) The only limit to our receiving what we ask is that we abide in Christ. But remember, abiding in him, our desires harmonize with God's purpose and the master passion of our soul is: "Not my will, but thine, be done."

Hear the Master's pattern prayer: "Our Father who art in heaven, (1) Hallowed be thy name. (2) Thy kingdom come. (3) Thy will be done, as in heaven, so on earth. (4) Give us this day our daily bread. (5) And forgive us our debts, as we also have forgiven our debtors. (6) And bring us not into temptation, but deliver us from the evil one."

Observe the invocation—how precious! The first three petitions seem to be one. As God's name is hallowed more and more, as his kingdom develops and his will is done, so will life here become more like heaven. The Christian is exhorted to "seek . . . first his kingdom, and his righteousness." This order holds in prayer as in life. Life, light, and love are requested in the next three petitions: bread, that we may live for God; the light of forgiveness, that we may be right with him; and loving protection, that we may be victorious for his glory.

O, how much could be said praising these wonderfully precious words of Jesus! Our Father forgives us as we have forgiven; but if we forgive not men their trespasses, neither will our Father forgive us. Profound admonition! Terrific, searching word! Let us not be deceived. If we would be forgiven, let us first forgive.

The false or the true in fasting may be chosen. In one, man's glory is sought; in the other, God's. One is emptiness and vanity; the other is productive of spiritual development.

I must close. But let us never forget what Jesus has said, and in all our righteousness let us have as our master passion the honor and glory of God, that we may live and love in the light of God's presence forever and ever.

Laying Up Treasures (Matt. 6: 19-21)—
David Lipscomb.

Opportunities used to do good bring blessings to both parties; opportunities neglected and slighted bring curses to him who neglects them. Means used to do good bring blessings to both giver and receiver; means hoarded or used for selfish ends bring curses instead of blessings to the possessor. Let each apply these truths to himself and ask himself: What good have I done with the means and opportunities which God intrusted to my keeping? Have I faithfully used them as a trust committed to me by God to be used for the good of my fellow-men? If not, will God not hold me accountable for the misuse of goods which he intrusted to my care? Better not have goods than to have them and misuse them. To hoard them is to misuse them. Mr. Carnegie said: "It is a disgrace for a man to die rich." A greater than Carnegie said: "Go to now, ye rich, weep and howl for your miseries that are coming upon you. Your riches are corrupted, and your garments are moth-eaten. Your gold and your silver are rusted; and their rust shall be for a testimony against you, and shall eat your flesh as fire. Ye have laid up your treasure in the last days." (James 5: 1-3.) Wealth unused for good will be a witness of our untrustworthiness at the last day, and the rust of earthly wealth will eat our souls as a cancer eats our flesh. It is dangerous to meet God with wealth unused for good. The possession of wealth at death means that we have buried our talent, and it will be testimony against us.

"No Man Can Serve Two Masters" (Matt. 6: 24)—
P. L. Hovius.

When Jesus taught the multitudes and his disciples on that memorable occasion, he told them he had not come to destroy the law, but to fulfill it, and admonished his hearers to seek first the kingdom of God. He also told them of the great principle of truth and love that would characterize those individuals as his followers. He had come into the world to establish a kingdom to combat the kingdom of Satan and sin, and in Matt. 6: 24 he says: "No man can serve two masters." Jesus and the devil are masters of their respective kingdoms, and it is utterly impossible to be servants of Jesus and the devil at one and the same time. The devil tempted Jesus and wanted him to serve him, but Jesus says: "Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and him only shalt thou serve." (Matt. 4: 10.) Then it is the duty of all rational beings to seek the advice of the Spirit as spoken by Jesus, learn of him, render obedience to his teachings, render allegiance to him as their Master, and worship and serve him all the days of their brief lives on earth.

In Matt. 7: 13, 14 Jesus says: "Enter ye in at the strait gate: for wide is the gate, and broad is the way, that lead-eth to destruction, and many there be which go in thereat: because strait is the gate, and narrow is the way, which leadeth unto life, and few there be that find it." Not only does Jesus tell us to "enter . . . in at the strait gate," but in Luke 13: 24 he tells us to "strive" to do so, and we can strive only by resisting the temptations that Satan is continually throwing across our pathway. By arming ourselves with the shield of faith, taking the helmet of salvation, having our feet shod with the preparation of the gospel of peace, and taking God's word (which is the sword of the Spirit), we can wield the weapon as good soldiers in the kingdom of the Son of God. Using our time, our talents, and our means, we will be striving to enter in at the strait gate. So it all depends upon which way we are traveling—the strait and narrow way or the broad way—as to whose servants we are. We are daily traveling one or the other of these ways; and if we expect to hear our Master say in that great day, "Well done, thou good and faithful servant," it behooves us, as we value our souls, to serve God while we have time and opportunity, believing that God is amply able to save us if we do what he commands, and then lovingly trust him for what he promises, and take the stand with Joshua and say, not only in word, but in deed and in truth: "As for me and my house, we will serve the Lord."

The reward for service is: "The wages of sin is death; but the gift of God is eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord."

"Be Not Anxious" (Matt. 6: 25-34)—
John R. Williams.

In Matt. 6: 25-34 Christ was teaching the disciples the superiority of spiritual things when contrasted with temporal things. "Solomon in all his glory"—temporal things—his wealth, his costly mansions, his fine raiment—was not equal in point of glory and grandeur to the "lilies of the field," because the lilies were divinely arrayed.

The leading thought in these verses is that the disciple of Christ should not give more time, thought, labor, and money for the food and raiment that perishes than for the food and raiment that will never perish.

"Humble yourselves therefore under the mighty hand of God, that he may exalt you in due time; casting all your anxiety upon him, because he careth for you." (1 Pet. 5: 6.) Our Heavenly Father knows better than we that we have need of food and raiment, and here is the promise, in verse 33, that few of us believe: "But seek ye first his kingdom, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you." This is hard for many to believe, even some preachers. Here is the solution of the problem: Our duty to God first, then follows the temporal things. "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved." "All these things shall be added unto you." If the first "shall be" is true (and we believe and preach it), why not the second "shall be?" Both were uttered by the same loving Savior. Here is the pledge and security of Christ for food and raiment to the one who will "seek . . . first his kingdom, and his righteousness." This is what we should be "anxious" about, and not about the temporal things, because they are assured to the one who truly and faithfully obeys God. "O ye of little faith" fits the most of us.

Our faith is very strong in "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved," but very weak when it comes to the "food and raiment" proposition. "I have been young, and am now old; yet have I not seen the righteous forsaken, nor his seed begging bread." (Ps. 37: 25.) God will just as faithfully bless us in temporal things (needs) as he will in spiritual things. Why, then, should we have more faith in God with reference to spiritual things than we do in temporal things? "Every good gift and every perfect gift [spiritual and temporal] is from above, coming down from the Father of lights, with whom can be no variation, neither shadow that is cast by turning." (James 1: 17.) Let us be faithful. "He is faithful" that promised, "Shall be saved," "Shall be added unto you." Both are true to the one who makes duty to God first.

Not Judging, but Forgiving (Matt. 7: 1-5)— Jarratt L. Smith.

One of the two great commandments of the law was: "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." Whenever we fail to discharge this duty, we sin, and hence we become indebted to one another. So we must obtain forgiveness—(1) from God first, for all sins are against God; (2) from one another, for we are mutual beings. Our debts that we owe one toward another, when contrasted with the debt that we owe to God, are as one is to one million. So says Christ in Matt. 18. David's sin toward Uriah and his family certainly was exceedingly great, and yet he acknowledges before God: "Against thee, thee only, have I sinned, and done this evil in thy sight." This language is said to be a Hebrew idiom. All the sins that we commit toward one another are so much greater toward God as he is greater than man. But if we become penitent and plead for mercy from God, as David did (Ps. 51), God will be merciful and forgive all our trespasses. (Col. 2: 13.) But if God, according to his loving-kindness and according to the multitude of his tender mercies, blots out all our transgressions, and we then will not forgive one another, he will, in the judgment, hold us responsible for all the sins we ever committed. In the lesson before us he inveighs against judging our brother. We should seek forgiveness rather than judgment and study how forgiveness may be obtained and how far we should go in that direction. Christ shows us how to go about it in the eighteenth chapter of Matthew. As to the extent, Matthew's account reads, "seventy times seven," while Luke's reads "seven times in a day." The connection and sense of both teach that forgiveness should be unlimited. Paul explains this law as follows: "Be ye kind one to another, tender-hearted, forgiving one another, even as God for Christ's sake hath forgiven you." Christ says: "From your hearts forgive." (Matt. 18: 35.) The wise man says: "A brother offended is harder to be won than a strong city." Yet Joseph won the hard hearts of all his brethren by freely forgiving them "from the heart." Joseph was a type of Christ. The first of Christ's seven sayings from the cross is: "Father, forgive them; for they know not what they do." He taught his disciples to pray for his enemies. He here gives an example. In answer to his prayer for forgiveness, many of his enemies were converted at Pentecost. "To return good for evil is godlike." How shocking the following prayer would be: "O God, I have sinned against thee twenty million times. Deal with me as I deal with my fellow-man. He has only sinned against me twenty times, but I will not forgive him. I beseech thee, O Lord, deal with me as I deal with him. I will not forgive him from my heart!" Truly the reader would be shocked at such a prayer. And yet this is what I do whenever I pray the "Lord's prayer" (John 17—not Matt. 6, as some think) with an unforgiving heart. The aim of forgiveness is to deliver us and others from sin. The unforgiving spirit is like the bee: he leaves the sting behind, but it is sure death to himself. Why not forgive and forget? When you bury a dog, do not leave his tail above the ground. Christ says: "Forgive, and ye shall be forgiven." Again: "Forgive us our debts, as we forgive our debtors." We cannot do evil hoping for good to be the result. And if we would escape the judgment of God, we must refrain from judging one another.

"Neither Cast Ye Your Pearls Before Swine" (Matt. 7: 6)—David Lipscomb, Jr.

This admonition of our Savior is somewhat difficult to heed, when we consider the abundance of swine. This is offset, however, by the scarcity of pearls on hand.

The Sermon on the Mount is the Savior's best gift to the world. It is a safe code of conduct and morals. This sermon is given in full in Matthew and in part in Luke. It is Jesus' message to man—his set lecture, if you please. If all else were lost, this would be a guide in our duty to God and to our fellow-men. No phase of our relation to each other but is touched upon by the greatest Teacher. From the first "blessed" to the "foolish one" it is full of that wisdom which was from above.

"Give not that which is holy unto the dogs, neither cast ye your pearls before swine, lest they trample them under their feet, and turn again and rend you." The counsel is good and wholesome. The first thought in it is to avoid the company of swine. But in case we cannot do this—and we cannot at all times—we should be discreet in speech and give no opportunity for said hogs to blaspheme the name of our beloved Master. We should remember the words of the wise man: "For everything there is a time." Some of the early reformers, followers of Wycliffe, by their overzeal and indiscretion, gained to themselves the name "Lollards"—"babblers." They were too enthusiastic, and chose neither their time nor audience, and brought trouble to themselves and reproach to the cause. In the early days of the nineteenth-century reformation it was more or less truly charged that converts with garments still dripping seized the New Testament and shouted, "Ready for 'spute!" Paul at Mars' Hill quickly realized that he was wasting his time and pearls of speech before the idle populace of Athens, a populace that had become so degenerate that it spent the time only in hearing or telling some new thing. The grand virtues of the age of Pericles or Cimon were gone and curiosity and gossip had taken their places. They were hogs, but hogs without tusks.

"They had the Pyrrhic dance as yet.
Where had the Pyrrhic phalanx gone?
Of the two lessons, why forget
The nobler and the manlier one?"

The swine are still with us, and by their acts we shall know them—not by their garb, but by their grunts, by their gluttony, by their disposition to wallow in the mire of filthy jest and anecdote. Sometimes they wear clergymen's black and sometimes they move among the smart set; but scratch them a bit, and the hog comes out in coarseness and vulgarity. I once heard a lady say she did not like certain preachers because they were always telling rude jokes and indulging in horse laughs over them. A fountain cannot send forth at the same place sweet waters and nasty stuff. Let us, with David, ever pray that the words of our mouths and the thoughts of our hearts be clean.

There is an old story of a pretty, modest girl who, to help a widowed mother, was waitress in a country hotel. There came in some well-dressed, but boisterous, men. As is their way, they began to talk rudely to the girl, inquiring her name, etc. She replied quietly that it was "Pearl." "O," said one, a biblical wit, "you are the pearl of great price." "No," she answered, demurely, "I am the pearl that was cast before swine."

Something has been said of the scarcity of pearls. Reference was made to the number individuals possessed, not to the number to be found in our Book. There they lie thick-sown as the islands in the Ægean Sea. We can gather them up by handfuls. The teachings of the Savior in sermon and parable, his farewell talk over the passover board, the prayer taught his disciples, his own prayer in the garden, his tender thought of his mother, his plea to God for his enemies—each is a pearl of rarest beauty. In the writings of the disciples are to be found gems of surpassing luster: Romans 12, 1 Corinthians 13, 2 Peter 1, all of James, Revelation 22. No mention need be made of Job, Isaiah, and the Psalms. Besides these, which lie on the surface, by delving deeper we may discover "full many a gem of purest ray serene" which the yet unfathomed depths of Scripture bear. All these to us are a precious heritage to be kept sacredly out of the reach of swine, lest they trample them under their feet and turn again and rend us.

"Finally, brethren, whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things."

"Ask, and it Shall be Given You" (Matt. 7: 7-12)—O. L. Hardin.

"Ask, and it shall be given you; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you. For every one that asketh receiveth; and he that seeketh findeth; and to him that knocketh it shall be opened." (Matt. 7: 7, 8.)

It seems to me that three plainer sentences cannot be found in all the oracles of God—the Bible. They mean exactly what they say, meaning always, as Jesus so often declares, that we shall always ask according to God's revealed will, seek where and as he has directed, knock at his appointed door; and the blessings asked, sought, and knocked for shall be obtained. Let us try each of these three words in the light of God's eternal truth.

1. Ask. "And this is the confidence that we have in him, that, if we ask anything according to his will, he heareth us." (1 John 5: 14.) So, in the light of this scripture, I could not have any confidence nor expect God to hear anything asked for not in harmony with his will. It is his will for people to obey the gospel in order to the remission of sins. (See Mark 16: 15, 16.) Again: "And whatsoever ye shall ask in my name, that will I do, that the Father may be glorified in the Son." (John 14: 13.) To ask in Christ's name is to ask by his authority. (Col. 3: 17.) Christ never gave any authority for me to ask the forgiveness of any one's sins short of obedience. Again: "If ye abide in me, and my words abide in you, ye shall ask what ye will, and it shall be done unto you." (John 15: 7.) Notice, the petitioner must abide in Christ, and his words abide in him, or no petition will be heard or granted. "Ye lust, and have not: ye kill, and desire to have, and cannot obtain: ye fight and war, yet ye have not, because ye ask not. Ye ask, and receive not, because ye ask amiss, that ye may consume it upon your lust." (James 4: 2, 3.) Other passages could be referred to, but these all show conditions to be complied with.

2. Seek. "Strive to enter in at the strait gate: for many, I say unto you, will seek to enter in, and shall not be able." (Luke 13: 24; read verses 25-27.) One must seek as Christ directs or he will not be recognized. Israel failed to seek by faith. (Rom. 9: 30-33.) One cannot please without faith. (Heb. 11: 6.) To please God, one must obey the truth. (Rom. 2: 7-11.)

3. Knock. A failure to knock at the appointed door and as Jesus has directed will surely bring sadness to those of us who are guilty. (See Luke 13: 24-27; 6: 46; Rev. 3: 20.) These passages all signify Christ calling and inviting us by his word, the gospel. People are called no other way. "No man can come to me, except the Father which sent me draw him: and I will raise him up at the last day." (John 6: 44.) Jesus says he is the "way, the truth, and the life." (John 14: 6.) All spiritual blessings are found in him. (Eph. 1: 3.) So I must go to him or be lost. But how will God draw me? "It is written in the prophets, And they shall be all taught of God. Every man therefore that hath heard, and hath learned of the Father, cometh unto me." (John 6: 4.) Thus we find God draws us to him by a teaching process. (See Matt. 28: 19, 20; Mark 16: 15, 16;

Luke 24: 46, 47.) "God hath from the beginning chosen you to salvation through sanctification of the Spirit (see John 17: 17) and belief of the truth: whereunto he called you by our gospel." (2 Thess. 2: 13, 14.) Knock at his appointed door, and the blessings asked, sought, and knocked for will be obtained.

The Two Ways (Matt. 7: 13-14)—
E. A. Elam.

In Luke's account we read: "Strive to enter in by the narrow door: for many, I say unto you, shall seek to enter in, and shall not be able." They shall not be able because they seek to enter either by the wrong way or too late. (See Luke 13: 22-30.) All who seek do not find (Prov. 1: 24-33) and do not "enter in by the narrow door" (John 7: 34; 8: 21). Few find the strait, the narrow, way—not because it is so difficult to find, but because so few seek it. It is plain, though difficult. (Isa. 35: 8-10.) We must "strive"—that is, ask, seek, knock, hunger, thirst, study, work, walk, run, wrestle, and fight—in order to be saved. Our hearts must be honest (Luke 8: 15) and we must love the truth (2 Thess. 2: 8-12) in order to receive it and hold it fast. We must seek to please God, not ourselves. "If any man willeth to do his will, he shall know of the teaching, whether it is of God, or whether I speak from myself." (John 7: 17.) The road to perdition is so easy of travel that it is said to be "wide." Many go down this way because they will not repent, deny themselves, and live as God directs. It is so much easier and more gratifying to the flesh to give way to the temper, appetites, and lusts than it is to subdue and control them. It is much easier to glide down than to pull up. To preach and practice in the worship of God one's own opinions and wisdom is much more glorifying to oneself than to surrender all these for implicit obedience to God. To obey God in faith is to glorify him, and to follow one's own opinions and wisdom is to glorify oneself. "He that speaketh from himself [his own ways and wisdom] seeketh his own glory: but he that seeketh the glory of him that sent him, the same is true, and no unrighteousness is in him." (John 7: 18.) Whether, therefore, one obeys God faithfully or complains at the narrowness of the gospel depends upon whether he seeks God's glory or his own. Much of the so-called "liberty" of which some are so loudly boasting is liberty (!) to disobey God, to pervert his worship, and to do as one pleases.

"By Their Fruits Ye Shall Know Them" (Matt. 7: 15-23)—A. O. Colley.

Jesus, the most practical Teacher the world has ever known, used the simplest illustrations he could find to rivet his thoughts and teachings upon his hearers. This lesson from him on fruit bearing as an evidence of a "false prophet" is no exception. "Beware of false prophets," or be on your guard—be very cautious. Why? Does it make any difference, Lord, if we should honestly believe what was and is false or untrue, taught us by false prophets? Would it not be all right if we should be honestly mistaken? Jesus said, "Beware." False prophets and false teachers have always been dangerous. Peter regarded them so and warned us against following their "pernicious ways," which means their destructive teachings. (2 Pet. 2: 1-5.) Many will be lost in the final day for not heeding the Savior's warning—"Beware."

The Old Testament abounds with examples where false teachers and false prophets led their hearers into destruction. Eve listened to the father of lies while he offered her greater liberties than God had seen fit to give her, and, as a result, brought a great sin upon herself and her companion. That sin is still bearing fruit, the most of which is very bitter. The devil at that time was in the form of a serpent, with intelligence to speak and argue his points. He now employs ministers, who in the days of Paul resembled the true apostles whom Jesus had sent out to bear the "good fruit" in the earth. "For such men are false apostles, deceitful workers, fashioning themselves into apostles of Christ. And no marvel; for even Satan fashioneth himself into an angel of light. It is no great thing therefore if his ministers also fashion themselves as ministers of righteousness; whose end shall be according to their works." (2 Cor. 11: 13-15.)

Christians now are deluded with the idea of security from false teachers. The apostle Paul admonished the Corinthians, and all others who call upon the Lord's name, warning them with what happened to Adam and Eve, and stating that he feared for them, "lest by any means, as the serpent beguiled Eve in his craftiness," their "minds should be corrupted from the simplicity and the purity that is toward Christ." (Verse 3.) To get a man to bear fruit that is evil, the devil perverts his mind from the simplicity of the Lord's word. That was how he reached Eve, and that is exactly the way his ministers work to-day. When he gets a hearing by one of these slick ministers of his, who proceeds to tell his hearers that the Bible is a great and good Book, but, like all other writings, has to be received, but greatly supplemented with "sanctified common sense," and that "God doth know that in the day you add this thing or that thing to his worship that you not only do no sin, but are made much wiser and better thereby"—what kind of fruit has such a teacher borne? The answer is always the same. The fruit is evil and ruinous. It gave a place for all kinds of evil fruits, from the edicts of the pope on down through creeds and conferences to delegated conventions with their resolutions.

Fruit bearing is conditional. I once heard a man make a very strong effort to prove that salvation was unconditional by appealing to Matt. 12: 33. "Make the tree good, and its fruit will be good." His idea was that all sinners were by nature totally depraved, and that it took the sovereign power and grace of God to make them "good trees." When thus made good trees, they could bear "good fruit." But until God changed them into good trees, he could only expect evil fruit from them. I was made to wonder (1) why God made them evil or bad trees, then had to remake them, and (2) why he would threaten them that "every tree that bringeth not forth good fruit" will be "hewn down, and cast into the fire." Matt. 3: 10.) If he unconditionally made them good trees, why not say: "Every tree that I do not change into a good one, I will finally send away to be burned?" I heard another man who contended for a conditional salvation, but argued from the above that a sinner in some way was to be made good and then bear fruit, or, as he put it, after he had been saved he could then be baptized. Since man had to be a "good tree" before he could bear "good fruit," he thought a man must be made a child of God before he could be baptized. From this he could see no escape. I wondered (1) where he learned that baptism was a fruit; (2) how it could be a fruit, and yet repentance, faith, love, and prayer not a fruit, or fruits; (3) and if it was only a fruit, what would become of the man who did not bear the "good fruit," since the Savior said, "Every tree which bringeth not forth good fruit shall be hewn down, and cast into the fire."

In the parable of the vine and the branches (John 15: 1-6), Jesus teaches that the fruit is to be borne by the branches. He said his disciples were the branches. Then the good fruit must be borne by the disciples, or Christians. You cannot always tell the most fruitful tree in the orchard by the amount of beautiful leaves it may sustain. Some trees have more leaves than anything else. Some Christians, in like manner, bear no precious fruit, although they continue to grow along by the side of good fruit-bearing members. You can usually tell the good fruit-bearing trees in an orchard from the others. Some of them have many of the limbs skinned and the leaves whipped off where people have been trying to get the fruit. A tree that is not bearing any fruit or one that bears a very inferior grade hardly ever has any sticks thrown at it. The Christian that has never had any persecution is usually one that has never done much to cause the enemy to be alarmed. The fruit that abounds to our credit, as Paul has said, is such work as individual Christians and preachers have done—going out into the highways and inviting men to hear and obey Christ. Every missionary, whether he has gone one hundred yards or ten thousand miles to preach to the lost, and every Christian that has by his prayers and his means made it possible for the work to be done, has borne “good fruit.”

Finally, in bearing good fruit we glorify our Father in heaven and entitle ourselves to be called his disciples. (John 15: 8.) There is no other way to be a disciple. A useless branch is fit only for fuel. If it does not bear fruit, the Lord has no use for it. There are many of God's children who, by reason of affliction or poverty, cannot get out into the field of labor for his cause, but who, by their unwavering, uncomplaining, faithful lives, are still bearing precious fruit. May we all so live that we may be numbered with the good trees in the last day.

The Two Builders (Matt. 7: 24-27)— F. W. Smith.

In Matt. 7: 24-27, inclusive, the Master brings before us two characters, one of whom he terms “the wise man” and the other “a foolish man.” The reason for the difference in the characters of these two men lies in the fact that one built his house on the rock and the other on the sand. It is a lesson on character building; and as the most important part of a material building is its foundation, so is that of character. Without the proper foundation, no one can build a character that will please God in time and stand the test of the judgment to come. We should remember that character is not born with us, and neither do we inherit it. Character is made, and each one must make his or her own character. We begin this building early in life—the very day we become responsible to God for our acts—and complete it the day we die. Every day finds us at work on this building; and as we leave it at death, so shall it be through all eternity. “As the tree falls, so shall it lie.” Hence it behooves us all to give the greatest heed to this all-important work. The material of which this building is composed consists in thought, word, and deed. What a man is and does is first formed in thought. A man's life is the visible expression of his invisible thought, just as the material universe is the visible expression of God's invisible thought. Hence we can appreciate the following admonition: “Keep thy heart with all diligence; for out of it are the issues of life.” (Prov. 4: 23.) A man's life partakes of the nature and complexion of his thoughts. “For as he thinketh within himself, so is he.” (Prov. 23: 7.) The heart, then, is the fountain of life; and if we would have the stream pure, we must keep the fountain correspondingly so. If the heart is permitted to be filled with impure thoughts, our words and deeds will correspond with these vile thoughts. We note in the figure used that both men built a house; both houses were tried, or tested, by the same influences, and only one stood—the one built on the rock. The Savior says that those who hear and do his sayings are the ones who build on the rock. No other foundation will do to build on for time and eternity, and he who tries any other is foolish. The pleasures of this life, the love of those things that feed and gratify the desires of the carnal nature, constitute the sandy foundation on which no soul can build for mansions in the skies. Faithful, sacrificial, and constant service in the kingdom of Christ will bring its reward of endless joy. Let us, therefore, strive to build upon the sure foundation, that we may “see him face to face.”

Itinerary Notes.

BY F. B. SRYGLEY.

I spent Sunday, April 9, at Petersburg, Tenn., preaching morning and evening. It was Brother W. T. Boaz' appointment, but, as he had to be away in a meeting at Sparta, I arranged to be there in his place. We had two good meetings, with nice audiences out at both services; and the brethren endured the change in preachers, as good brethren should, without any complaint that I heard. They have a nice house of worship, a good attendance at their morning classes, and seem to be making progress in the Lord's work.

On Monday night I was at Cane Creek, only two or three miles from Petersburg. This is the home congregation of our good brother, B. F. Hart, and is one of the older congregations of this part of the country. I learned that there are eleven congregations within a radius of ten miles of Petersburg. The foundation for this growth was laid by the efforts of a number of good men who labored in this community in the years that are past. Brother Billie Dixon lived and labored and died here. He was known and loved all over this county, both by the old and young. The children watched for him as he passed through on horseback or in his buggy, and he always had a glad word for all. I do not say Brother Dixon had no faults—all men have faults; but he had many noble traits, and the fruit of his labor will be seen in that country many years yet. He did not and could not have received the remuneration for his labor that many receive now, because the churches were not as able to bestow it, and may not have been so well taught to do so.

My next stop was at Ostella, where I preached on Wednesday night. The congregation is not large, but still they have some fine people. Brother J. H. Roberson has for years been the leader there, but recently a few others have moved in, which ought to be a help to the congregation. Dr. Cayce, the son of Brother Matthew Cayce, is now located at Ostella; and while he is giving much of his time to the cure of the body, he is also ready to help in the work of the church.

I preached on Thursday night at Diana. I did not find any connection between this Diana and the goddess of the Ephesians. To say the least, this town has a scriptural name, even if it is not very appropriate. This reminds me of the lady who gave her two sons scriptural names. The one she called the “Apostle Paul;” the other, the “Epistle Peter.” The brethren have no house in Diana, but they are meeting in a storehouse, and they hope to build some time in the near future. I expect them to succeed in building up the cause there.

On Friday night I preached at Yell to a large audience, and was feeling complimented over the size of the audience; but Dr. Hardison, of Lewisburg, said: “No, they are not particular as to whom they hear at Yell; they would go that way to hear nearly anybody.”

On Sunday and Sunday night, April 16, I preached at Lewisburg; and they must be a little like Yell—just go to hear anybody preach—for there were two very fine audiences present. This is the home of Brother C. M. Pullias; but he was in Alabama holding a meeting. The church at Lewisburg is one of our good churches, full of earnestness and zeal, liberal and helpful. There are few churches that have the calls for help that the Lewisburg church has, and few that help more cheerfully and liberally. The cause of truth and righteousness is in strong hands there.

LOSS OF APPETITE

Most Successfully Treated by Taking Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Loss of appetite is accompanied by loss of vitality, which is serious.

It is common in the spring because at this time the blood is impure and impoverished and fails to give the digestive organs what is absolutely necessary for the proper performance of their functions.

Hood's Sarsaparilla, the old reliable all-the-year-round medicine, is especially useful in the spring. Get it from your druggist today. By purifying and enriching the blood and giving vitality, vigor and tone, it is wonderfully successful in the treatment of loss of appetite and the other ailments prevalent at this time. It is not simply a spring medicine—it is much more than that—but it is the best spring medicine.

Hood's Sarsaparilla makes the rich red blood the digestive organs need.

A Question Answered.

BY U. G. WILKINSON.

Brother G. M. Williams, M.D., of Merkel, Texas, sends me the following question with a request to answer, which I shall endeavor to do: "Please explain Tit. 1: 6. Does it mean that an elder must have believing children to be a scriptural elder? Some contend that the scripture referred to means to believe in their fleshly father."

The passage referred to is describing the qualifications of certain elders that Titus was instructed by Paul to ordain as bishops or overseers (see verse 7) in the cities of Crete, and reads as follows: "If any be blameless, the husband of one wife, having faithful children not accused of riot or unruly." We have similar instructions in 1 Tim. 3: 4, 5, in which the language is as follows: "One that ruleth well his own house, having his children in subjection with all gravity; for if a man know not how to rule his own house, how shall he take care of the church of God?"

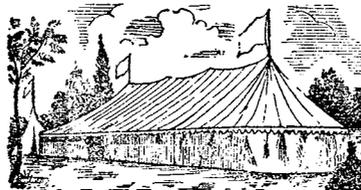

It is with regard to the children that Dr. Williams wants the explanation, as I understand. It seems to be very plain to me. It must mean that the children must believe in God and in their father, too; for surely there is no father who is capable of acting as overseer of the church of God, but whose children will believe in him if they believe in God. To a certain extent, at least, the parents act as God to their children. And children have absolute confidence in faithful, godly parents who do their duty by them. In this I can speak from experience. When I was a child, I would as soon have questioned the authority of God on any question as that of my father. My confidence in him was absolute.

But I understand the real meaning of the apostle here to be in accord with common sense, too; and this being true, he means that any man who has not sufficient executive ability and influence with his own children to cause them to be in subjection to him and faithful in their obedience to him and in their service to God, since obedience to parents is obedience to God—that such a father has not sufficient executive ability to act as overseer or bishop in the church of God. And surely this truth is so manifest that it is self-evident. A man who is pretending to act as "elder" in the church and whose own children are running wild, rabbit hunting and fishing on Sunday instead of going to church and Sunday school, going to the picture shows and other questionable places at night instead of to prayer meeting or preaching—if you will look into the matter, you will find that he is making as great a failure in overseeing the church as he is in bringing up his family. I have even heard these kind of elders say that "young people must sow their wild oats, anyway." I have heard others say they had rather their children would go rabbit hunting on Sundays than to Sunday school. I have also known such fathers to have boys in prison. I am glad my father never tolerated such things with me; and had he done so, I cannot say what the result would have been. I even fear to think. Like Cornelius of old, we should "fear God with all our house." And these are the men who should be selected to rule in the church of God.

Chills

and fever, though not immediately dangerous, are extremely unpleasant, and if neglected may prove fatal. If you are troubled with dumb or shivering chills and fever, malaria, liver trouble, or jaundice, why not safeguard yourself against such discomforts and avoid a possible fatality? Use only that which has been tried and proclaimed efficient by others. Plantation Chill and Fever Tonic and Liver Regulator is a well known reliable remedy, harmless, but effective. It contains no calomel, arsenic, or other dangerous drugs. For sale by best dealers everywhere; price, fifty cents. Manufactured by the Van Vleet-Mansfield Drug Company, Memphis, Tenn.

This means big and little tents, and we make all kinds. A thousand satisfied users testify to their quality. Let us make you a quotation. No trouble at all.

M. D. & H. L. SMITH COMPANY,
Atlanta, Ga. Dalton, Ga.

This Wife and Mother

Wishes To Tell You
FREE
How She Stopped
Her Husband's Drinking

By all Means Write to Her
and Learn how She did it.

For over 20 years Jas. Anderson of 161 Pearl Ave., Hillburn, N. Y., was a confirmed drunkard. His case was about as bad as it could be, but a little over twelve years ago his devoted wife, after years of trying, finally succeeded in stopping his drinking entirely.

Write to this woman if you have a relative or friend who drinks

Not only did she save Mr. Anderson but she stopped the drinking of her brother and several of her neighbors as well. All this she accomplished by simple home treatment which she now desires every man and woman who has a relative or friend who drinks, to know all about, for she feels that others can do just as she did.

The treatment can be given secretly if desired, and without cost she will gladly and willingly tell what it is. Therefore every reader of this notice who is interested in curing a dear one of drinking should write to Mrs. Anderson at once. Her reply will come by return mail in a sealed envelope. She does this gladly in hopes that others will be benefited as she was. One thing she asks however, and that is that you do not send money for she has nothing to sell. Simply address your letter with all confidence, to Mrs. Margaret Anderson at the address given above and she will reply by return mail in a sealed envelope.

KITCHEN CABINET
$1.50
A MONTH

Get a Rhodes Kitchen Cabinet—saves miles of steps—saves Energy—saves Health—cut your kitchen work in half. Sit down now and prepare meals with all supplies and utensils at your fingers ends.

30 DAYS TRIAL

Try this Cabinet in your home. $1.50 a month p.p.y. for it at our bargain cash price. If not delighted, after 30 days, your money gladly refunded. Chance of a lifetime to make kitchen work a joy.

1500 Bargains and a Year to Pay

Write at once for driving low prices on Furniture, Rugs, Ranges and Kitchen Cabinets. Our easy monthly payment plan charges no interest. Satisfaction guaranteed. Address today.

RHODES FURN. CO.
Dept. M
MEMPHIS, TENN.

WRITE FOR CATALOG

Furniture on CREDIT

YOU CAN AFFORD Familiar Songs of the Gospel (No. 1 or 2). Round or shape notes. 53 per hundred, samples 5c each. 83 songs, words and music. E. A. K. HACKETT, FORT WAYNE, INDIANA

PELLAGRA

Cured Or You Pay Nothing

I have cured—cured to stay cured—90% of all who have taken my Pellagra Cure. What I have done for others I GUARANTEE to do for you or my treatment will cost you nothing. Highly endorsed by Physicians, Bankers, Ministers, County Officials and others. If you doubt, write any official or merchant in Walker County. No interference with work—no restrictions on your eating.

SYMPTOMS are: Hands red like sunburn; sore mouth; throat, tongue and lips flaming red; much mucus and choking; indigestion and nausea; diarrhea or constipation; mind affected and many other symptoms. No matter what anyone tells you about Pellagra, write for my FREE Book which fully explains my theory of the cause, prevention and cure of this dreaded disease—full of interesting facts which I have proven beyond doubt. Also contains full particulars of my remarkable offer of NO CURE—NO PAY. Free diagnosis to anyone sending symptoms. Send no money but write today!

Dr. W. J. McCrary, Dept 238 Carbon Hill, Alabama
 Show this to some unfortunate sufferer

Don't Let a Cold Get a Good Start

The way to check a cold is to fight it from the first. Even the worst maladies often are easily conquered if attacked early enough. Colds may lead to asthma, bronchial troubles and pulmonary affections. In the treatment of these one of the first needs is to build up body resistance.

Eckman's Alternative often has assisted in such upbuilding. As a treatment for the troubles named, it has been used for more than twenty years. And in many instances it has effected lasting relief.

As with any other medicine, it should be regarded only as a first aid to right care and hygienic living—and a safe one. For it contains no narcotics, opiates or habit-forming drugs of any sort. Sold by leading druggists or sent direct. Booklet containing information of value and references sent upon request.

ECKMAN LABORATORY
 23 N. Seventh St. Philadelphia

A safe and palatable laxative for children

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup

Absolutely Non-narcotic

Does not contain opium, morphine, nor any of their derivatives.

By checking wind colic and correcting intestinal troubles common with children during the period of teething, helps to produce natural and healthy sleep.

Soothes the fretting baby and thereby gives relief to the tired mother.

BRISTOL COMMERCIAL COLLEGE.

(Successor to Nixon Commercial College.)

BRISTOL, TENN.

All Commercial Branches, Employment Bureau, Commercial Teachers' Course. Largest and best-equipped Business College in South-west Virginia and East Tennessee. Special discount to those who enter this spring. New catalogue sent free to those interested. Write or call.

FROM THE FIELD

Alabama.

Ripley, Route 1, April 17.—Brother J. Pettet Ezell preached two excellent sermons for us at Mount Carmel. At the day service one brother was restored and one young man made the good confession and was baptized in the afternoon. Brother Ezell is a very zealous man, and we feel sure that, through his faithful labors and by the cooperation of the church with him, much good will be accomplished and the church will grow and prosper. The Gospel Advocate is a welcome visitor to our home. P. W. BALL.

Florida.

Buchanan, April 12.—I am planning a trip to Mississippi, Alabama, and Arkansas this summer, to spend about sixty days, and I would like to put in the time preaching. If any churches or destitute places want any meetings in this territory and think I am the man they want, let them write to me and I will arrange the work before I leave home. Just write and tell me the chances to do good. Do not say a word about money, poor brethren, or your ability to help. If you do not know me, write to John Coker or I. H. Griffin, elders, Buchanan, Fla.; C. E. Holt, Montgomery, Ala.; George B. Hoover, Tampa, Fla.; J. T. Bushong, Plant City, Fla.; or A. H. Burns, Mingo, Miss. JOHN B. PEDEN.

Largo, April 17.—Last night I closed an eight-days' meeting in Manatee. This is a mission point—only eight members. They have been working hard for a year to get the truth established, but, like in all Florida towns, it is a long, hard pull. I baptized two. Last night Brother T. R. Hicks, of Bradentown, closed a two-weeks' meeting with the Largo congregation. Brother Hicks is a plain man and does plain preaching. The most of his preaching was to the church and very much appreciated by the faithful. We feel that the church was greatly benefited by this effort. At the present this church is doing more and better work than it has ever done in its history. There was one baptism during the meeting. W. A. CAMERON.

Kansas.

Wichita, April 15.—Within the last month seven have been added to the list of Christians in Wichita. Within four weeks I have conducted nine funerals, but only two of them in the city. D. T. BROADUS.

Kentucky.

Bardwell, April 27.—The church in Bardwell is doing fairly well. Brother Charlie Taylor preaches for us once a month. I will preach here the fifth Sunday in April. I have some time for meetings not yet taken. I could assist in a mission meeting or anywhere I am needed. JOE RATCLIFFE.

Hardin, April 19.—While on the way to my regular appointment at Dexter last Sunday, a young man, near our home, asked me to baptize him in the afternoon of the same day; so, after preaching at Dexter at 11 A.M. and taking dinner with a brother, we drove back near home and baptized the young man, and we all "went on our way rejoicing." H. W. JONES.

BORDEN'S
 —that name on the label of Eagle Brand Condensed Milk is your guarantee of purity and high quality. Thousands of healthy babies have been raised on it. Easily digested —rich, pure, and nourishing.

Dunmor, April 18.—The church of Christ at this place met last Lord's day, as usual, to study the word of the Lord and to commemorate the death and suffering of our Savior. We also have prayer meeting each Wednesday night, and after the services we take up a collection for the Potter Orphan Home at Bowling Green, and at the end of each month send it in. Though our offering be ever so small, it will be to the glory of God. I think all Christians should be interested in the great work of supporting homes for orphans. G. W. GRAYSON.

Mississippi.

Tishomingo, April 24.—Brother Frank Baker, of Belmont, preached for us yesterday morning and at night. He preached two very interesting sermons to very good audiences. With these good sermons preceding our meeting this summer, we are expecting to start the ball rolling and keep it going. LUTHER OWENS.

Missouri.

Odesa, April 24.—About the first of June I shall be ready to hold meetings in any place not too far distant. I prefer going to a place where some help can be given by others. In the many places needing the gospel preached, there are certain ones that would be more suitable for me. First, I am looking for a place where there are prospects of a permanent work that will soon become independent of outside help to do mission work. Secondly, brethren, if you are looking for some "evangelist" to locate among you and "settle on his lees," and you will not be satisfied with any other kind, you need not write me. There can be no successful mission work done either among you or for you, if you are not anxious to back it up with a scriptural life as well as scriptural name and doctrine. Jesus Christ did not come to establish an organization of forms and ceremonies, but to save souls. True, the church has its necessary form and its doctrines which are of divine origin; but if we will live the new life and preach only "the oracles of God," this "form" and these "doctrines" will not be great difficulties, neither will we have time to "bite and devour one another." Write me at once if you wish to arrange your work with me.

C. C. MERRITT.

New Mexico.

Dexter, April 24.—I began a meeting here last night with a fair crowd. I closed, at the water, an interesting meeting on the Cottonwood, about fifteen miles from here, yesterday afternoon. Five were baptized. This was purely a mission meeting; but these will meet from house to house. There were four members to begin with. Much opposition; turned out of the schoolhouse.
T. H. ETHERIDGE.

Tennessee.

Goodlettsville, April 26.—We are having large audiences at Ivy Point, both members and friends. The brethren and sisters are working with great zeal for the Master's cause, and we hope in the near future to have a good-sized congregation. Brother William Sykes baptized a young man last Lord's day. Others seem to be deeply interested.
H. B. SYKES.

Lookout Mountain, April 24.—A few of the faithful on Tennessee's high mountain are continuing to commemorate our Lord's death by the observance of his own instituted Supper. We meet Sunday night at eight o'clock. All who visit Lookout Mountain during the summer and who remain over Lord's day are cordially invited to meet with us. You may inquire at the museum and learn of the place of gathering together. May we ever strive to set our affections "on the things that are above, not on the things that are upon the earth."
JAMES A. HARDISON.

Cleveland, April 27.—I taught school in Meigs County during the winter. Since school closed I have made a trip to Rutherford County, visiting some of the churches of that section and explaining to them the needs of East Tennessee in the way of gospel preaching. I had a most enjoyable trip. Every hour of the time was pleasantly spent, and I returned to Cleveland feeling that more people are interested in this work than were before I left. I appreciate the many expressions of encouragement and kindness wherever I went, as well as the financial help to defray our tent debt. I am at this writing working on our meetinghouse here in Cleveland. I preached to the congregation in the courthouse on Sunday at 11 A.M. and at a schoolhouse three and one-half miles away in the afternoon and evening. I went to Calhoun to conduct a funeral on Tuesday and returned to Cleveland and attended a Bible class that evening. There is so much to be done and so few to do it that there is no time for idleness. My work for the summer will be at the following places, beginning each meeting at the time indicated: Big Springs, Meigs County, May 7; Decatur, May 14; Eastland, White County, June 3; Clifty, White County, June 10; Ravenscroft, White County, June 25;

Truth and Trade

By Bishop Warren A. Candler, Chancellor of Emory University, Atlanta

WHEN a seller and a buyer have made a trade, based on truth, both have obtained a benefit, and the community to which they belong has been benefited insofar as their interests affect the welfare of the community. Each has parted with that which the other needed, and in turn has obtained from his fellow-man what he himself needed. Honest exchanges, therefore, enhance values.

But trades based on untruth damage all concerned. They approach dangerously near to theft.

By advertising, buyers and sellers are brought together, and truthful advertising promotes the welfare of the commercial world; it is, in fact, a part of the wealth-producing forces of the world. But untruthful advertising is a fraud and the fosterer of fraud. It partakes of the nature of the crime of getting money, or goods, under false pretenses. The medium of advertising, whatever its nature, which lends its columns to such advertising, accepts a bribe to become accessory to the same crime.

It is a far-reaching reform proposed by the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World in the motto "Truth." Such a sentiment must act like a health-laden current on the trade winds. Its influence will extend far beyond the limits of advertising, and stimulate honesty in all the processes and transactions of commerce.

The patron saints of the commercial world ought not to be Ananias and Sapphira. Lying spirits cannot guide safely the merchantmen of the world. The argosies of trade must sail by the pole-star of truth. Otherwise they will be wrecked.

This is one of a series of Advertise Advertising, by the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World (headquarters, Indianapolis). Write for interesting booklet, written for buyers like yourself.
Drawing by Chas. Daniel Frey Co., Chicago. Plate by Mound City Eng. Co., St. Louis

NERVOUS DISEASES

We have reprinted from a leading health magazine a series of articles by Doctor Biggs treating on Nervous Debility, Melancholia, Sexual Neurasthenia, Nervous Dyspepsia, and other nervous diseases. The articles explain the cause of these ailments and fully describe the treatment employed at the Biggs Sanitarium in such cases.
A copy of the pamphlet will be sent FREE to any address on request.

THE BIGGS SANITARIUM, Asheville, N. C.

Martin's Creek, Jackson County, July 9; Liberty, Jackson County, July 23; Antioch, Jackson County, August 20. After these meetings I shall return to Cleveland and take up the work in this section. Brethren, pray for the success of the gospel.
FRED M. LITTLE.

ABUNDANT HEALTH is assured when there is good blood in the veins. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the medicine to make good blood. Begin taking it now. It is just what the system needs at this time, and will do you great good. Sharpens the appetite, steadies the nerves.

Church Chime Bells
Memorial Bells a Specialty.
McShane Bell Foundry Co., Baltimore, Md., U.S.A.

$15

95 UPWARD
ON TRIAL

Fully Guaranteed

American CREAM SEPARATOR

A SOLID PROPOSITION to send new, well made, easy running, perfect skimming separator for $15.95. Skims warm or cold milk making heavy or light cream. Bowl is a sanitary marvel, easily cleaned. ABSOLUTELY ON APPROVAL. Gears thoroughly protected. Different from this picture, which illustrates our large capacity machines. Western orders filled from western points. Whether dairy is large or small write for handsome free catalog. Address: AMERICAN SEPARATOR CO., Box 3164B Bainbridge, N. Y.

HUSBAND OBJECTS TO OPERATION

Wife Cured by Lydia E.
Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Des Moines, Iowa.—“Four years ago I was very sick and my life was nearly spent. The doctors stated that I would never get well without an operation and that without it I would not live one year. My husband objected to any operation and got me some of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took it and commenced to get better and am now well, am stout and able to do my own housework. I can recommend the Vegetable Compound to any woman who is sick and run down as a wonderful strength and health restorer. My husband says I would have been in my grave ere this if it had not been for your Vegetable Compound.”—Mrs. BLANCHE JEFFERSON, 703 Lyon St., Des Moines, Iowa.

Before submitting to a surgical operation it is wise to try to build up the female system and cure its derangements with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound; it has saved many women from surgical operations.

Write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for advice—it will be confidential.

OUR DIRECT FACTORY TO HOME plan saves you money.

WE PAY THE FREIGHT and ship to you any piano or player piano you select from our catalog.

25 YEARS GUARANTEE on all our pianos and player pianos.

FREE MUSIC LESSONS to all who accept our offer. Write for handsomely illustrated piano catalog and full details of our selling plan.

SCHMOLLER & MUELLER PIANO CO.
Established 1869. Capital and Surplus, $1,000,000
Dept. GA Omaha, Nebraska

Send This Coupon Today

SCHMOLLER & MUELLER PIANO CO.
Dept. GA Omaha, Nebraska.
Send me your Piano Offer and Free Catalog.

Name.....
Address.....

Among the Colored People

Preaching the Word.

BY M. B. NEWSOM.

On the first Lord's day in April I preached at the Martin Schoolhouse, in Warren County, Tenn., and had three additions. One came from the Methodists. The Lord willing, I shall preach at Bridgeport, Ala., on the third Lord's day. I am still preaching the gospel in its facts.

The Colored School at Silver Point, Tenn.

BY G. P. BOWSER.

At this writing we are nearing the close of the tenth year of the school. Notwithstanding we have been confronted with the usual problem—means to accomplish our work—this has been the banner year. We are rejoicing in the belief that in the course of a few years there will be a Bible school among our people. We realize that success of the lasting sort, the kind that has good staying qualities, does not usually come in a day. If we would reach the front and stay there, we shall have to be patient, wait, work, and stick. In this age, and especially in this country, the word is push. Success will come at the right end. Through the persistent effort of Sister Annie C. Tuggle, the white brethren and sisters are becoming interested in our work, and, indeed, results are far greater than we expected so soon. Brother Hammond's report which appeared in the Gospel Advocate recently carried a thrill of delight to our people. In addition to the donations reported, we are glad to acknowledge the following: From Brother David Lipscomb, of the Fanning Orphan School, a mare valued at $100; Smyrna, Tenn., by D. M. Peebles, $1; A. N. Jordan, $1; David Smithson, 25 cents; Mrs. Baker, 50 cents; Mrs. D. M. Peebles, $1; church at Stuart's Creek, $2.95. A friend to the school also sends ten dollars, with request that the name be not published. My greatest hope is that I may be worthy of the kindness tendered me. I voice the sentiment of Garfield, who said: "Poverty is uncomfortable, as I can testify; but nine times out of ten the best thing that can happen to a young man is to be tossed overboard and compelled to sink or swim for himself. In all my acquaintance I never knew a man to be drowned who was worth the saving."

Our vacation is spent on the field preaching and holding meetings. Last year we labored in Kentucky, Tennessee, Arkansas, Alabama, and Missis-

Many Failures Are Due to Headaches.

A headache saps your energy and ambition; it kills your vigor and vitality.

Many have become not only nervous wrecks, but business and domestic failures, owing to the constant drain on their nervous systems by headaches.

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills have for the past quarter of a century proved to be the popular relief for headaches and other forms of pain. They bring the desired relief surely and quickly. They contain no habit-forming drugs and have no bad after effects. People who have used them are only too glad to testify to their merits, so that others may also be free from pain.

The Rev. J. A. Riley, of Trout, La., has the following to say: "For over ten years I have used Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills whenever I was in need of a remedy for pain, to allay fever or induce a natural sleep. I also find that they quiet the nerves. I have used them freely in my family to the exclusion of all other remedies, and have always found them to do their work to perfection, and never in a single instance have they had any bad after effects. I heartily recommend them as a safe, pleasant, and effective remedy."

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills are sold by all druggists at twenty-five cents for twenty-five doses. Your money will be returned if they are not found perfectly satisfactory.

MILES MEDICAL COMPANY, Elkhart, Ind.

One Hundred Dollars for One Cent.

It will cost you a one-cent postal card to write for your copy of the handsomely illustrated catalogue of the Gospel Advocate Piano Club, which will explain to your thorough satisfaction how the Club of One Hundred Piano Buyers saves each member one hundred dollars or more on the price of high-grade pianos and player-pianos. You cannot afford to buy a piano until you have investigated the club, for you cannot afford to throw away the money-saving opportunity it offers you.

As an individual buyer, purchasing at random, you are weak; but as a member of the club, you have the strength of an army of one hundred buyers, and, therefore, secure the lowest possible factory price. The club makes the payments easy, ships your piano at once, freight prepaid, subject to your approval after one-month's trial. Perfect satisfaction is absolutely guaranteed to every member. Address the Associated Piano Clubs, Gospel Advocate Department, Atlanta, Ga.

FIRM FOUNDATION An eight-page weekly religious paper devoted to the restoration of primitive Christianity. Ex-cels in church news; an able corps of writers; extensively circulated. Subscription price, $1 a year, payable in advance. Special rates for clubs. We believe that every loyal Christian should have the Firm Foundation visit his home.

FIRM FOUNDATION PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Austin, Texas.

Mississippi. Number of sermons preached, 241; number added, 46. We go forth in Christ's name to do our best, soliciting the interest of all in helping to uplift and Christianize our people.

Report for March.

BY S. W. WOMACK.

On the first Lord's day in March and a few nights following I preached for the church in Lebanon, Tenn. The attendance, attention, and interest were good. On the second Lord's day and a few nights following I was at Silver Point, preaching, lecturing, and praying with the students of the school. The attention and interest were good. One young man, a student in the school, made the good confession and was baptized. I think the Lord, through Brother G. P. Bowser, is doing a good work in the school. I spent the third Lord's day in Cookeville. We had three services that day, with splendid attendance, interest, and attention. At the afternoon services the white congregation, with Brethren Karnes (the preacher), Whitson, Dowell, and Young, gave their presence and aid, and gave much help to the services by leading off in the song service, and words of much encouragement were spoken by Brethren Karnes and Whitson, which were of much strength to the writer. I thank these good brethren and sisters. Brethren M. A. Goldston, Ed Howell, and others, of Lebanon; Brethren Joe Hasty and W. T. Selley, and the good sisters of South College Street Church, Nashville, have our many thanks for their kind remembrance of us in the work. On the fourth Lord's day I was with the Jackson Street Church, in the city. Brother Eccles, of Silver Point, spoke at the morning and evening services and made a good impression. He is one of the students in the school at that place. At all of these points the work is moving on fairly well. Any one desiring to have fellowship in the work can write me at the Gospel Advocate office or 1502 Hamilton Street, Nashville, Tenn.

Your Heart

is closely connected with your nerves—so close, in fact, that anything which affects your nerves must necessarily affect your heart, and vice versa.

If you are troubled with palpitation, dizziness, shortness of breath, swelling of ankles, pain on either side of the chest, or weak and irregular pulse, symptoms of a nervous breakdown, the best way to remedy the trouble is by giving your heart and nerves the proper tonic. Renovine for the heart and nerves is the best tonic for soothing and restoring a shattered nervous system. For sale by all reliable dealers, fifty cents and one dollar. Manufactured by the Van Vleet-Mansfield Drug Company, Memphis, Tenn.

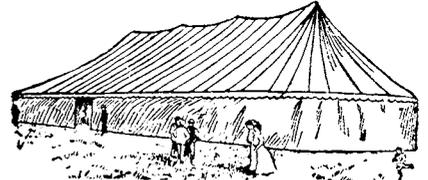

FRECKLES GOSPEL TENTS

Now Is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freckles as the prescription othine—double strength—is guaranteed to remove these homely spots.

Simply get an ounce of othine—double strength—from your druggist, and apply a little of it night and morning and you should soon see that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the lighter ones have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than an ounce is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a beautiful clear complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength othine as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.

Our Prices Would Interest You. Ask Us To Quote.

Fulton Bag And Cotton Mills, Atlanta, Ga.

New York, Dallas, St. Louis, New Orleans

Sister: Read My Free Offer!

I am a woman.
I know a woman's trials.
I know her need of sympathy and help.

If you, my sister, are unhappy because of ill-health, if you feel unfit for household duties, social pleasures, or daily employment, write and tell me just how you suffer, and ask for my free ten days' trial of a home treatment suited to your needs. Men cannot understand women's sufferings. What we women know from experience, we know better than any man. I want to tell you how to cure yourself at home at a cost of about 12 cents a week.

If you suffer from women's peculiar ailments causing pain in the head, back, or bowels, feeling of weight and dragging down sensation, falling or displacement of pelvic organs, causing kidney and bladder weakness or constipation and piles, painful or irregular periods, catarrhal conditions and discharges, extreme nervousness, depressed spirits, melancholy, desire to cry, fear of something evil about to happen, creeping feeling along the spine, palpitation, hot flashes, weariness, sallow complexion with dark circles under the eyes, pain in the left breast or a general feeling that life is not worth living,

I INVITE YOU TO SEND TODAY FOR MY FREE TEN DAYS' TREATMENT

and learn how these ailments can be easily and surely conquered at home without the dangers and expense of an operation. When you are cured, and able to enjoy life again, you can pass the good word along to some other sufferer. My home treatment is for young or old. To Mothers of Daughters, I will explain how to overcome green sickness (chlorosis), irregularities, headaches, and lassitude in young women and restore them to plumpness and health. Tell me if you are worried about your daughter. Remember it costs you nothing to give my home treatment a ten days' trial, and does not interfere with daily work. If health is worth asking for, then accept my generous offer and write for the free treatment, including my illustrated booklet, "Women's Own Medical Adviser." I will send all in plain wrappers postpaid. To save time, you can cut out this offer, mark your feelings, and return to me. Send today, as you may not see this offer again. Address, MRS. M. SUMMERS, - - - - - Box 195 SOUTH BEND, IND.

MONEY IN PIGEONS

Make Your Back Yard Profitable

THE demand for squabs in the Northern, Eastern and southern markets has never been supplied because pigeon raising as a business is comparatively new. Buy a half dozen pair of select birds, fence in a small portion of your back yard and watch them go to work. Success is easy. They raise from eight to fifteen pairs of squabs a year. Your squabs and fancy birds will bring handsome returns. You will actually make money in a hitherto useless part of your back yard. Pigeon raising is not a fad or fancy. It is a profitable business. Let us start you right. Our breeders are the best, and raised from prize winning parents. We will furnish you with the birds and teach you how to raise them, and you will reap a handsome profit with a very little outlay. Thousands are taking advantage of this same opportunity. Write to day for our literature on pigeon raising as a money making proposition, or better still, write us to send you a few pair of Belgian Carneaux at $3.00 per pair. White Swiss Mondaines at $5.00 per pair. White Kings at $3.50 per pair, or White Maltese at $4.00 per pair. Our birds are all guaranteed. Your money back if after two months you are not satisfied with their work. Better prices on larger orders. Write to-day and get the pick of the flock.

CAROLINA PIGEON PLANT,
Pen Series G— CLINTON, S. C.

STOP! CALOMELIS QUICKSILVER.

It's mercury! Attacks the Bones, salivates and makes you sick

There's no reason why a person should take sickening, salivating calomel, when fifty cents buys a large bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone—a perfect substitute for calomel.

It is a pleasant, vegetable liquid which will start your liver just as surely as calomel, but it doesn't make you sick and cannot salivate.

Children and grown folks can take Dodson's Liver Tone, because it is perfectly harmless.

Calomel is a dangerous drug. It is mercury, and attacks your bones. Take a dose of nasty calomel to-day and you will feel weak, sick, and nauseated to-morrow. Don't lose a day's work. Take a spoonful of Dodson's Liver Tone instead, and you will wake up feeling great. No more billiousness, constipation, sluggishness, headache, coated tongue, or sour stomach. Your druggist says if you do not find Dodson's Liver Tone acts better than horrible calomel, your money is waiting for you.

JACOBS & COMPANY
SPECIAL ADVERTISING AGENTS
PRINTERS
DESIGNERS
PHOTO ENGRAVERS
ELECTROTYPERS
Catalogues —
— a Specialty
HOME OFFICE:
CLINTON, S.C.

Pastors: We publish Books, Pamphlets, Minutes, Sermons, Church Directories, Manuals and rebind books and magazines, Specialists in Church Envelopes. Write us for prices.
419 S. Third St. MAYES PRINTING CO., Inc. Louisville, Ky.

POCKET S. S. COMMENTARY
For 1916, SELF-PRONOUNCING Edition on Lessons and Text for the whole year. Right-to-the-point practical HELPS and Spiritual Explanations. Small in Size, Large in Suggestion and Fact. Daily Bible Readings for 1916, also Topics of Young People's Society, Motto, etc. Red Clo. 25c, Mor. 35c, Interl. for Notes 50c, postpaid. Stamps Taken. Agents wanted.
Pentecostal Publishing Co., Louisville, Ky.

Keep the Babies Fat and Well.

"Mamma's" Dr. Doran's Worm Remedy expels worms whole, alive. Purely vegetable. Bottles, twenty-five cents, by mail. General agent wanted. Write us a letter.

Doran Drug Company, Paducah, Ky.

Subscribe for the Bible Study Helper. Sixty cents per year.

The Master's Vineyard

Tennessee.

Knoxville, April 24.—The work with Broadway Church is doing well. We have a faithful lot of young men and women to make up this congregation. Brother E. M. Borden, of Little Rock, Ark., will be with us in a meeting from the first Sunday in May until the third Sunday, possibly longer. This is a great undertaking for this little band, but they are very courageous. Pray for us. T. B. CLARK.

Wartrace, April 24.—I preached at Latimore, three and one-half miles northeast of Bellbuckle, yesterday at 11 A.M. and 3:30 P.M. This is one of the places where I put forth my very first efforts eight or ten years ago. The people got more effort than anything else. This is the home of R. I. Lynch, who gave the first dollar toward the work in Jacksonville, Fla. God bless old Jacksonville! We had a good hearing. R. E. WRIGHT.

Manchester, April 25.—Last Lord's day was a busy and enjoyable one for the church at Manchester. Brother C. E. Wooldridge, of Fayetteville, Tenn., preached three excellent sermons—two in Manchester and one at Summitville. His visit was greatly appreciated. Brother George Gilbert preached once at Pocahontas. The writer was with the church in Fayetteville on Sunday morning and at night and in Petersburg in the afternoon. These congregations are in fine working order and the future is very bright. W. S. LONG, JR.

Celina, April 18.—On last Saturday night I met with the young congregation at Heard. We had three services, one on Saturday night and two on Lord's day; and at each service the house was well filled with attentive listeners, many of whom were babes in Christ desiring "the sincere milk of the word," many others scarcely past the milk stage by reason of their recent birth into the family of God, and a few old veterans, all eager to learn of Him who is "meek and lowly in heart." It was truly encouraging and inspiring to talk to those humble disciples of our Heavenly Father. May the Lord bless and keep them. JOHN H. ARMS.

Tracy City, April 19.—On the third Sunday in March I began a meeting at the South College Street Church, in Nashville, which closed on Wednesday after the first Sunday in April, with eight additions and several returned. This was a very enjoyable meeting to me. Brother H. T. King is working with this congregation, and it seems to me that he is the right man in the right place. His people love him. It has always embarrassed me to preach to a preacher, but I am "broke." We had from two to a dozen preachers at each service. This made us feel good. Nashville certainly has a faithful band of loyal, gospel preachers—clean, humble, honest men who labor only for the salvation of souls. Many visiting brethren stopped on their way to meetings. All the churches in Nashville took great interest in the meeting, many coming in a body from the different congregations. I have often thought of Nashville and the Gospel Advocate. Around the Advocate as a nucleus the work has spread until now there are, I think, twenty-six loyal congregations in the city. How different with some other cities! I know of one that has had a loyal paper in it for years and years, and in this city two or three little churches now. I know of another great city that has had a good paper in it for two or three generations, and I think there are only two little struggling bands there now. I know of another very great city which has had in it a fine paper for a long time, and now, I think, it has possibly three or four little churches. I am not blaming anybody, for I am sure there are many good and true brethren in all of these cities who have made brave and noble fights for God's way and against conditions and circumstances that we know not of; but I do certainly think the Gospel Advocate has been the greatest factor for good that we have. While in Nashville we made two very enjoyable calls at the Nashville Bible School. The faculty and students certainly did give us a warm reception. I have never seen a finer body of students. The Bible School has a most efficient faculty. I only hope that I may live to send my children there. While there we visited Brother David Lipscomb. I wanted to see and talk one more time face to face with this venerable soldier of the cross before he goes hence. Our stay there was short, but very pleasant, indeed. Sister Lipscomb gave me my first dime twenty-one years ago when I made my first effort at Compton's Chapel, a little church on the Granny White pike. The sermon was not worth a dime, but Sister Lipscomb hated to see me walk back to the Bible School. We also called on Brother E. G. Sewell and his dear wife. This was a short, but pleasant, call. To talk to Brother Sewell, one thinks of the prophets of old who walked with God. These two

Just One Sure Way to Conquer Rheumatism.

If you have tried to get relief and failed, take "Renwar," the one sure remedy for rheumatism, and be well. "Renwar" is a scientific formula that goes directly to the root of the trouble and kills rheumatism by neutralizing the uric acid in the blood, thereby removing the cause of the trouble. It is a noneffervescent salts, easy and pleasant to take and sure and quick in results. Guaranteed to give relief or your money back. Mr. W. P. Williams, bank cashier, of Irving, Ky., writes: "'Renwar' is the best remedy for rheumatism I have ever found." For sale by all druggists, fifty cents, or sent, postpaid, on receipt of price. Warner Drug Company, Nashville, Tenn.

Danger from Little Wounds.

A little cut or wound that looks trivial frequently develops into a serious and possibly fatal case of blood poisoning. Do not take any risk. Apply a little Gray's Ointment; it speedily heals the wound and leaves you safe and sound. Gray's Ointment is the time-tested cure for sores, boils, carbuncles, cuts, bruises, burns, and all skin abrasions and eruptions. It was discovered in 1820; for nearly a century an indispensable household remedy the country over. Keep a box in the house. It heals the little troubles and prevents the big ones. Only 25 cents a box, at druggists'; and it will save you many an ache and possibly a life. Get a free sample by writing to W. F. Gray & Co., 818 Gray Building, Nashville, Tenn.

men have had more to do with molding my life than any other, save one—J. R. Stubblefield, my preceptor and father in the gospel. I was in the midst of the great fire. I never expect to see anything like it until the end of the world, when not only the earth, but the heavens, shall be wrapped in flames. J. D. NORTH CUT.

Texas.

Killeen, April 27.—Brother J. D. Tant, of Cleburne, began a meeting with the church in Killeen on Friday night before the third Sunday in April and continued it for ten days. The interest was fine from the start and the audiences increased to the close. Eight persons were baptized, four were restored to fellowship, and the church was greatly benefited. I know of no man among us who is capable of doing more good than Brother Tant. I hope the brethren in Texas will call him from the farm and keep him busy preaching "the unsearchable riches of Christ" to a lost world and building up the churches of Christ. A. J. McCARTY.

Fort Worth, April 24.—My meeting with the Pearl and Bryan Streets Church, in Dallas, closed last Thursday night. I had intended to continue till Sunday, but sickness prevented my doing so. The meeting went on several days in spite of my sickness, Brethren White, Dunn, Estes, and Kidwill doing the preaching. Brother J. B. Nelson attended the services when at home and gave valuable assistance. Brother Wilbur White, of Ennis, came up and remained several days, helping much. Brother Pummell was with us frequently and helped. We had a fine meeting and I enjoyed it much. At five of the services the audiences were so large that chairs had to be placed in the aisles to accommodate the people. The Pearl and Bryan Streets Church is very much alive. Few congregations in our brotherhood have achieved as much as it. This is largely due to the efficient ministry of Brother L. S. White, who has been with them nearly eleven years and is still a strong man with his congregation. I have never labored with a more pleasant associate in gospel work than Brother White. I predict for him and the congregation a greater work in the future. Eleven were added in the course of the meeting. W. M. DAVIS.

Lometa, April 24.—Just recently we have restained and varnished all our church furniture, placed art square on the pulpit platform, connected baptistry with city water, planted shrubbery and flowers on church campus, cleared tabernacle campus of all debris, and otherwise manifested interest in civic-pride campaign that is being carried on throughout the State. Our crowds increase at almost every service. The Sunday school is growing, and we have organized two new ones at points near town. Since January two missions have been started. One has already become a real church with a large class in the Sunday school. Three good leaders in the work there. At Senterfitt some of our workers go out every Sunday afternoon and help in the leading of this work. We also preach at two other points in a few miles of Lometa, and we expect to have congregations started soon at these points. The prospect is very good at one of them.

Many of our members have cars, and they all go to these points at every call of the minister and have a rousing service once each month at all the places. The Saturday-afternoon children's class in Bible stories has swept the town and community by storm in its singing and reciting of many Bible stories on many and varied occasions. We have three services between Sundays, in which we have uplifting times in the study of the word. We have planned a general picnic for all our forces in May. Rejoice with us and pray for us that we may keep humble and pure, and that we may always and all of us have large part in the "quiet evangelism" that every Christian should be studious to observe.

BEN WEST.

The real worth of one's life cannot be told until the final results have been considered.

GOOD TRACTS FOR DISTRIBUTION.

- 1. Acts of Apostles. E. G. Sewell.....$0 10
 - 2. The Bible Doctrine of Sanctification. E. A. Elam..... 10
 - 3. Bible Geology; or, Modern Geology Rebuked. I. N. Jones.... 10
 - 4. "The Bible Mode of Baptism." F. W. Smith..... 10
 - 5. Christian Experience; or, Sincerity Seeking the Way to Heaven. Benjamin Franklin 05
 - 5a. Christian Unity. D. Lipscomb..... 10
 - 6. Church Organization. E. G. Sewell..... 05
 - 7. The Christian Eldership. James E. Scobey..... 10
 - 8. "Christian Liberty in Methods of Christian Service." F. W. Smith 05
 - 9. The Doctrine of Sanctification. O. A. Carr..... 10
 - 10. Debate on Salvation—"Is It Conditional or Unconditional?" T. S. Dalton (Baptist) and T. R. Burnett (disciple)..... 25
 - 11. The Establishment of the Kingdom or Church of Christ. L. R. Sewell. 05
 - 12. The Faith that Qualifies for Valid Baptism. Durst-McQuiddy. 05
 - 13. Grub-Ax Upset—A Review of Grub-Ax and Infant Baptism. J. M. Kidwill 10
 - 14. God's Foolishness vs. Man's Wisdom. Joe McPherson..... 05
 - 15. Hezekiah Jones—A Dialogue Between a Methodist and a Christian. T. R. Burnett 10
 - 16. Instruments of Music in the Service of God. (Send 2 cents to pay postage on tracts mailed singly or 15 cents per dozen mailed in one package)..... Free
 - 17. Justification—Philosophically, Scripturally, and Systematically Examined. T. W. Brents 10
 - 18. Out of Darkness into Light. Z. T. Winfree..... 05
 - 19. New Birth. J. A. Hardingtwo for 05
 - 20. Prayer. Hiram Pharris 10
 - 21. The Purification of the Heart. E. S. B. Waldron..... 05
 - 22. The Place and Purpose of Baptism. J. D. Floyd..... 05
 - 23. The Sabbath and Seventh-Day Adventism. L. S. White..... 25
 - 24. The Sabbath—Which Day Shall We Observe, the First or the Seventh? David Lipscombtwo for 05
 - 25. Theological Grub-Ax Turned upon the Subject of Infant Communion. W. L. Butler 10
 - 26. Valid Baptism. McGary-Burnett 10
 - 27. Walking by Faith. M. C. Kurfees..... 05
 - 28. "Water Baptism." R. H. Bonham 10
 - 29. What Must I Do to Be Saved? J. C. McQuiddy..... per dozen 10
- One dozen of any of these tracts, assorted, $1.00

McQUIDDY PRINTING CO.
NASHVILLE, TENN.

URIC-ACID SOLVENT

For Rheumatism and Kidney Trouble.
Fifty-Cent Bottle (32 Doses) FREE.

Just because you start the day worried and tired, stiff legs and arms and muscles, an aching head, burning and bearing-down pains in the back—worn out before the day begins—do not think you have to stay in that condition.

Those sufferers who are in and out of bed half a dozen times at night will appreciate the rest, comfort, and strength our treatment gives. For every form of bladder trouble, scalding pains, or weakness, its action is really wonderful.

Be strong, well, and vigorous, with no more pains from stiff joints, sore muscles, rheumatic suffering, aching back, or kidney or bladder troubles.

The Williams Treatment conquers kidney and bladder diseases, rheumatism, and all uric-acid troubles, no matter how chronic or stubborn. If you have never used the Williams Treatment, we will give one fifty-cent bottle (thirty-two doses) for your own use, free. Contains no alcohol or habit-forming drug. Does not affect the heart.

Send this notice with your name and address, and ten cents to help pay distribution expenses, to The Dr. D. A. Williams Company, Dept. 2327D New P. O. Block, East Hampton, Conn. You will receive by parcel post a regular fifty-cent bottle (thirty-two doses), without charge and without incurring any obligation. One bottle only to a family or address.

"Special" Silk Hose Offer.

To introduce the beautiful "La France" silk hose for ladies and gentlemen, we offer three pairs, 50-cent quality, for only one dollar, postpaid, in the United States. Pure silk from calf to toe, with durable elastic hile top, heel, and toe for long wear. Sizes, 8 to 10½. In white, tan, or black; assorted if desired. Money back promptly if not delighted. La France Silk Store, Box G. Clinton, S. C.

Save Half On Your Machine

Buy your sewing machine now, save half, and get it on easy terms, through the Religious Press Co-Operative Club. We have engaged a large number from a leading American manufacturer, securing prices very little above actual cost. By buying from us you become a member of a big buying club; you get your machine at carload-lot prices, plus the small expense of operating the Club. You save all middlemen's profits, agents' commissions, salaries, etc.

We Give You Thirty Days Trial on any of these machines. If you are not entirely satisfied that it is the equal of any machine regularly sold at double the price, return it to us, and the trial costs you nothing. Easy monthly payments if you keep it.

Six Superb Sewing Machine Bargains are shown in the Club catalogue. Prices range from $12.95 to $27.80. Latest model—the best that can be manufactured at the price. All fully warranted for ten years.

Sign and Mail This Coupon Today. Get our catalogue and investigate the Club plan that saves you half on your Sewing Machine.

Religious Press Co-Operative Club

113 E. Carolina Ave. :: Clinton, S. C.

FREE CATALOGUE COUPON.

Religious Press Co-Operative Club, 113 E. Carolina Ave., Clinton, S. C.

Please send me your catalogue, and full details of the Co-Operative Club Plan that will save me half the price on a high quality sewing machine.

Name.....

Address.....

Notes from Knoxville, Tenn.

BY T. B. CLARK.

Many people wonder why preachers do not go right into the mission fields and build up the cause of Christ regardless of circumstances; and many people think that a preacher who does not accept every invitation should be censured. Not long ago I noticed a statement from a sister in which she was very much discouraged because the preachers would not flock to every place that might call for a mission meeting. If this good sister would suggest to a preacher that she would go into a partnership with him to build up the cause in her town—offer to fare as he does, and his family, while in the meeting—it would be more like she has the cause at heart. Preachers eat, wear clothes, and have to pay railroad fare, and it takes money to do this with. The cause of Christ suffers more when a preacher goes and does such work and lets his obligations get behind than it does for the work to be overlooked. Yes, preachers have obligations!

Brethren, if you know of a place where a trained kindergarten teacher is needed, write me. The one to whom I refer is a most excellent lady and can furnish testimony as to her fitness, ability, or character. If you need a teacher, write me at once, at Box 458, Knoxville, Tenn.

Come to Thorp Spring, Texas.

All of the old students are especially invited to come back to Thorp Spring for the commencement exercises of Thorp Spring Christian College, which will be held on May 14-18. We are expecting the greatest home-coming in the history of the school. Special arrangements are being made for the entertainment of all visitors.

We are desirous that all of the old boys and girls rally to our home-coming. Why not come together and talk over the old days which are so precious to our memories? Fond recollection is a delight to us all, and there are so many precious things connected with the dear old college. Come, let us take a little stroll to the immortal spring house, or to Dripping Spring, or to Thompson Mountain. Do you remember the old bell which has reminded us time after time that it was time to go to work? Are you not anxious to hear it again?

And the old familiar faces will certainly look good to us. It will be a delight to behold (Bishop) Holton, our debater without a peer; (Cardinal) Kercheville, one of the best old boys that ever hit Thorp Spring; "Doc" Thornton, the polished orator; Frank Chism, who enjoyed an argument better than his daily food; Tom Hoover, our physical giant; and a number of others.

There are a thousand and one things that come to mind which we would like to talk over again. Old boys and girls, be there. Let us revel in the memory of the glorious past. Let us once again sing the songs we used to sing and give the yells we used to give when our enthusiasm knew no bounds.

I can hardly wait for the time. Come. Do not disappoint your comrades.

JEWELL MATTHEWS.

President of Alumni Association.

For Weakness and Loss of Appetite.

The old standard general strengthening tonic, Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic, drives out malaria and builds up the system. A true tonic and sure appetizer. For adults and children. Fifty cents.

Big Deal on Sterling Hose.

Big purchase direct from the mills on "Sterling" Half Hose enables us to offer them while they last at startling prices.

"Sterling" Hose are stainless fast dye—good, clean, selected cotton yarn, nice weight, full seamless double heel and toe, wide elastic instep, long loop-on elastic ribbed top, full standard lengths; come in any color wanted; one dozen to a box, solid sizes, 9 to 11.

Sent, postpaid, to any address in the United States for $1.40 per dozen. Money cheerfully refunded if not delighted. These hose are sold for and are worth 20 to 25 cents a pair in many places. Order to-day. The Bee Hive, Box F, Clinton, S. C.

You Are Invited.

Yes, cordially invited to write for your copy of the handsomely illustrated catalogue of the Gospel Advocate Piano Club. It will explain to your thorough satisfaction how the Club of One Hundred Buyers has secured the maximum factory discount (forty per cent) on high-grade pianos and player-pianos. All you have to do is to place your own order through the club at a saving of two-fifths the price, and on easy terms if desired. The instrument is shipped at once, freight prepaid, subject to your approval after one month's free trial in your home. You will be delighted; but in order to make you feel perfectly safe, the club offers to pay the return freight if you are not pleased with the piano. Write for your copy of the catalogue to-day. Address the Associated Piano Clubs, Gospel Advocate Department, Atlanta, Ga.

WINTERSMITH'S CHILL TONIC

Sold for 47 years. For Malaria, Chills and Fever. Also a Fine General Strengthening Tonic. 50c and $1.00 at all Drug Stores.

WHEN WRITING OUR ADVERTISERS PLEASE MENTION THIS PUBLICATION

Renew Your Health At Nature's Fountain

Without the Expense and Loss of Time Necessary
for a Visit to the Spring

THE CRISIS INDIGESTION

There comes a time in the life of practically every man and woman when their digestive or eliminative organs, or both, fail to respond to drugs prepared by human skill. In fact drugs seem to do them about as much harm as good for their systems, rebel against all drugs. These are the cases which physicians call "stubborn" and "chronic" for the reason that they persist in spite of drug treatment. I do not refer to incurable diseases such as cancer and consumption, but to that larger class of functional disorders which we meet every day, where the organs of digestion and elimination are impaired.

For this class of cases our best physicians and our big city specialists send their wealthy patients to the mineral springs where, in the great majority of cases they are permanently restored or decidedly benefited. But what about the poor man who has not the money or the busy man or woman who cannot spare the time to spend several weeks or possibly months at a health resort? Shall circumstances deny them the restoration to health which Nature has provided? Read my answer in the coupon at the bottom of this page.

I have the utmost confidence in the Shivar Mineral Spring Water for to it I owe my Restoration to Health and probably my Life. It has made me tens of thousands of friends in all parts of America and even in foreign countries, whose faces I have never seen. Yet I count them my friends for the Shivar Spring Water has bound them to me by lasting gratitude.

I ask you to read their letters, a few samples of which I publish below for your benefit, and if you find among them any encouragement as to your own health do not hesitate to accept my offer which has no limits or conditions except those shown on the coupon. If you could read the letters that come to me daily, numbering about ten thousand a year, and the vast majority of them similar to those printed below, you would not wonder that I make this offer displaying my absolute confidence in the restorative powers of Shivar Mineral Water.

Savannah, Georgia.
I was suffering with indigestion, stomach and liver disorders and all its train of horrifying phenomena for several months. I had lived on milk, soft eggs, shredded wheat, a very insufficient diet for an active working man, and, of course, from disease and starvation was in a very low state of nervous vitality and general debility. I ordered ten gallons of your Mineral Water which I used continuously, reordering when necessary, and in four months gained twenty-nine pounds, was strong and perfectly well, and have worked practically every day since. It acts as a general renovator of the system. I prescribe it in my practice, and it has in every instance had the desired effects. It is essential to use this water in as large quantities as possible, for its properties are so happily blended and in such proportion that they will not disturb the most delicate system. It is purely Nature's remedy.

A. L. R. AVANT, M. D.

La Grange, Ga., Nov. 25, 1914.
I feel it my duty to suffering humanity to make public announcement of the benefits I have derived from Shivar Spring Water. I have been a sufferer for the past twenty-five years from indigestion and dyspepsia. After one week's trial of Shivar Water I commenced to improve, and after drinking it for four weeks I gained fifteen pounds. I feel better and stronger than I have in twenty-five years. I strongly recommend this Water to any one with stomach trouble of any character, and truly believe it will cure ulcer of the stomach. I am writing this voluntarily and trust it will fall in the hands of many who are so unfortunate as to be afflicted with indigestion and nervous dyspepsia.

C. V. TRUITT,
President Unity Cotton Mills.

DYSPEPSIA

Baltimore, Md., April 30, 1914.
For many years I suffered with stomach trouble as a direct result of asthma. I consulted the very best specialist in this country, and spent quite a large sum of money in my endeavor to get relief. However, I had about come to the conclusion that my case was hopeless, but by accident I happened to get hold of one of your booklets, and decided to try Shivar Spring Water. After drinking the water for about three weeks I was entirely relieved, and since that time have suffered but little inconvenience from my trouble. I cheerfully recommend the use of your Water to any one that may be suffering from stomach trouble.

OSCAR T. SMITH,
vice-Pres. Young & Selden Co., Bank Stationers.

Fill Out This Coupon and Mail It Today

Shivar Spring,
Box 21T, Shelton, S. C.

Gentlemen: I accept your offer and enclose herewith two dollars ($2.00) for ten gallons of Shivar Mineral Spring Water. I agree to give it a fair trial in accordance with the instructions which you will send, and if I derive no benefit therefrom you agree to refund the price in full upon receipt of the two empty demijohns, which I agree to return promptly.

Name.....
P. O.....
Express Office.....
Please write distinctly.

Buena Vista, Va., Oct. 2, 1914.
It is a great pleasure to tell you that your Water has been a great benefit, I may say a great blessing, to me. My wife says it has helped me more than anything else I ever tried. I have been, for thirty years, a sufferer from stomach trouble.

REV. E. H. ROWE,
Co-President Southern Seminary.

RHEUMATISM

Leeds, S. C.
I have tested your Spring Water in several cases of rheumatism, chronic indigestion, kidney and bladder troubles, and in nervous and sick headaches, and find that it has acted nicely in each case, and I believe that if used continuously for a reasonable time will produce a permanent cure. It will purify the blood, relieve debility, stimulate the action of the liver, kidneys and bladder, aiding them in throwing off all poisonous matter.

C. A. CROSBY, M. I.

Florence, S. C.
I suffered with indigestion and kidney trouble, and a year ago was stricken with acute articular rheumatism; was helpless for months, and since using your Spring Water I am walking without any crutch and improving daily. Indigestion much relieved, I wish I could write Shivar Spring Water in the sky so that the world could become acquainted with it.

MRS. THEO. KUKER.

BILIOUSNESS

Greenville, S. C., Feb. 26, 1914.
For over two years, following a nervous breakdown, I have suffered with a liver so torpid that ordinary remedies were absolutely powerless. Under such circumstances, I came to Shivar Spring, and began drinking the Water. Upon advice however, the first night I took a laxative; the second night a milder one. Since then I have taken none at all. The effect of the water has been remarkable—its action on my liver most marked, and my health and spirits greatly improved. I am satisfied that the laxative, followed by the Water, was the proper treatment in my case. My condition is now perfect.

S. A. DERIEUX.

RENAL AND CYSTIC

Columbia, S. C.
I suffered for eight years with kidney trouble and inflammation of the bladder to the extent that I would have to get up during the night some five or six times. After using this water only a few days, I am entirely relieved and suffer no more effect of the trouble whatever.

J. P. D.

High Point, N. C., Oct. 6, 1914.
My wife has had a bad kidney trouble for several years. She has been using the water only about three weeks and it has already made her a new woman. Her color is much improved her appetite is all that she could wish for, her digestion seems to be perfect. We give Shivar Springs credit for it all.

T. G. S.

GALLSTONES

Greenville, S. C.
Shivar Spring Water cured my mother of gallstones, or, I might say, it snatched her from the hospital door, as the doctors had said nothing short of an operation would do her any good. After drinking the Water she was able to get out of bed, and is today stout and healthy. I hope these few lines will be of help to some one suffering as my mother did.

W. J. STRAWN.

Williamston, N. C. Oct. 3, 1914
My doctor said I would have to be operated on for gallstones, but since I have been drinking your water I haven't had to have a doctor.

W. H. EDWARDS.

A Genuine Rupture Cure Sent on Trial to Prove It Don't Wear a Truss Any Longer

After Thirty Years' Experience I Have Produced An Appliance for Men, Women and Children That Actually Cures Rupture.

If you have tried most everything else, come to me. Where others fail is where I have my greatest success. Send attached coupon today and I will send you free my illustrated book on Rupture and its cure, showing my Appliance and giving you prices and names of many people who have tried it and were cured. It is instant relief when all others fail. Remember, I use no salves, no harness, no lies.

I send on trial to prove what I say is true. You are the judge and once having seen my illustrated book and read it you will be as enthusiastic as my hundreds of patients whose letters you can also read. Fill out free coupon below and mail today. It's well worth your time whether you try my Appliance or not.

Pennsylvania Man Thankful

Mr. C. E. Brooks, Marshall, Mich.
Dear Sir:—Perhaps it will interest you to know that I have been ruptured six years and have always had trouble with it till I got your Appliance. It is very easy to wear, fits neat and snug, and is not in the way at any time, day or night. In fact, at times I did not know I had it on; it just adapted itself to the shape of the body and seemed to be a part of the body, as it clung to the spot, no matter what position I was in.

It would be a veritable God-send to the unfortunate who suffer from rupture if all could procure the Brooks Rupture Appliance and wear it. They would certainly never regret it.

My rupture is now all healed up and nothing ever did it but your Appliance. Whenever the opportunity presents itself I will say a good word for your Appliance, and also the honorable way in which you deal with ruptured people. It is a pleasure to recommend a good thing among your friends or strangers. I am, Yours very sincerely,
JAMES A. BRITTON,
80 Spring St., Bethlehem, Pa.

Confederate Veteran Cured

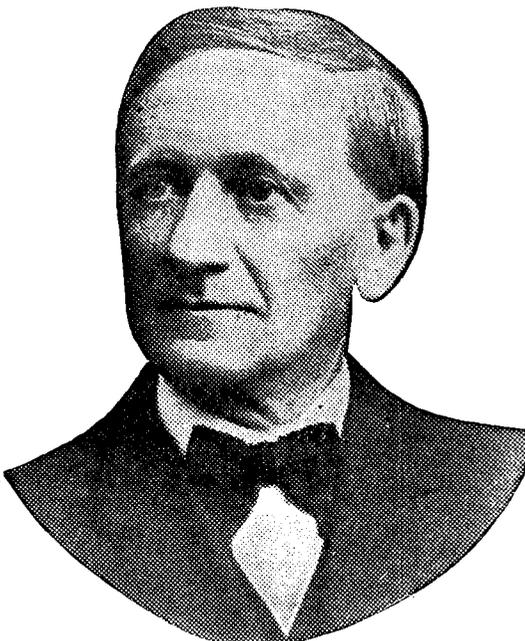

Commerce, Ga., R. F. D. No. 11.
Mr. C. E. Brooks,

Dear Sir:—I am glad to tell you that I am now sound and well and can plough or do any heavy work. I can say your Appliance has effected a permanent cure. Before getting your Appliance I was in a terrible condition and had given up all hope of ever being any better. If it hadn't been for your Appliance I would never have been cured. I am sixty-eight years old and served three years in Eckle's Artillery, Oglethorpe Co. I hope God will reward you for the good you are doing for suffering humanity.

Yours sincerely,
H. D. BANKS.

Others Failed but the Appliance Cured

C. E. Brooks, Marshall, Mich.
Dear Sir:—Your Appliance did all you claim for the little boy and more, for it cured him sound and well. We let him wear it for about a year in all, although it cured him 3 months after he had begun to wear it. We had tried several other remedies and got no relief, and I shall certainly recommend it to friends, for we surely owe it to you.

The above is C. E. Brooks, inventor of the Appliance, who cured himself and who has been curing others for over 30 years. If ruptured, write him today at Marshall, Mich.

Yours respectfully,
WM. PATTERSON,
No. 717 S. Main St., Akron, O.

Cured at the Age of 76

Mr. C. E. Brooks, Marshall, Mich.
Dear Sir:—I began using your Appliance for the cure of rupture (I had a pretty bad case) I think in May, 1905. On November 20, 1905, I quit using it. Since that time I have not needed or used it. I am well of rupture and rank myself among those cured by the Brooks Discovery, which, considering my age, 76 years, I regard as remarkable.
Very sincerely yours,
Jamestown, N. C. SAM A. HOOVER.

Child Cured in Four Months

21 Jansen St., Dubuque, Iowa.
Brooks Rupture Appliance Co.
Gentlemen:—The baby's rupture is altogether cured, thanks to your Appliance, and we are so thankful to you. If we could only have known of it sooner our little boy would not have had to suffer near as much as he did. He wore your brace a little over four months and has not worn it now for six weeks.
Yours very truly,
ANDREW EGGENBERGER.

Ten Reasons Why

You Should Send for Brooks Rupture Appliance

1. It is absolutely the only Appliance of the kind on the market today, and in it are embodied the principles that inventors have sought after for years.
2. The Appliance for retaining the rupture cannot be thrown out of position.
3. Being an air cushion of soft rubber it clings closely to the body, yet never blisters or causes irritation.
4. Unlike the ordinary so-called pads, used in other trusses, it is not cumbersome or ungainly.
5. It is small, soft and pliable, and positively cannot be detected through the clothing.
6. The soft, pliable bands holding the Appliance do not give one the unpleasant sensation of wearing a harness.
7. There is nothing about it to get foul, and when it becomes soiled it can be washed without injuring it in the least.
8. There are no metal springs in the Appliance to torture one by cutting and bruising the flesh.
9. All of the material of which the Appliances are made is of the very best that money can buy, making it a durable and safe Appliance to wear.
10. My reputation for honesty and fair dealing is so thoroughly established by an experience of over thirty years of dealing with the public, and my prices are so reasonable, my terms so fair, that there certainly should be no hesitancy in sending free coupon today.

Remember

I send my Appliance on trial to prove what I say is true. You are to be the judge. Fill out free coupon below and mail today.

Free Information Coupon

C. E. BROOKS, 2023-C State St., Marshall, Mich.

Please send me by mail in plain wrapper your illustrated Book and full information about your Appliance for the cure of rupture.

Name.....

City.....

R. F. D..... State.....

GOSPEL ADVOCATE

L. H. HUBBARD
MAY 11 1916

Volume LVIII. No. 19.

NASHVILLE, TENN., MAY 11, 1916.

$1.50 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

CONTENTS.

"EDIFYING AS THE NEED MAY BE".....	465
OUR CONTRIBUTORS.....	467
The Dark Hour—Why Not Ordain Preachers?—Bishop Quayle's Warning.....
SPIRIT OF THE PRESS.....	469
GEORGIA AND THE FAR SOUTHERN FIELD.....	470
MISSIONARY.....	471
EDITORIAL.....	472
The Fanning Orphan School Needs Help—Ignoring Laws Which God Has Made—Some Questions About the Holy Spirit—Valdosta, Ga., and Macon, Ga.—Keep the Singing Scriptural.....
QUERY DEPARTMENT.....	475
AT HOME AND ABROAD.....	476
Notes from West Tennessee.....	477
Macedonian Calls.....	478
THE MASTER'S VINEYARD.....	479
Among the Colored People.....	482
OBITUARIES.....	484
McCellan—Rogers—Hinson—Marshall—Miller—Wilkerson—Jones.....
Some New Books.....	486
From the Field.....	488

Entered at the post-office at Nashville, Tenn., as second-class matter. Published weekly at Nashville, Tenn.

"EDIFYING AS THE NEED MAY BE"

BY A. B. LIPSCOMB

The Wisdom of the Owl.

When Paul and Barnabas would unfold the riches of the gospel to the misguided heathen folk of the Lycaonian country at Lystra, who were in a notion of worshiping them, their first step was to explain about themselves, the preachers. This they did simply and plainly, saying, "We also are men of like passions with you"—meaning, "We, too, are of human nature." A preacher who considers himself far above his audience and his fellows generally in intellect, piety, and Bible knowledge, and allows others to pay him undue homage, is not to be trusted. His self-conceit discounts his common sense and, therefore, his usefulness.

The owl has bigger eyes and a reputed look of wisdom superior to that of the other birds and the animals of the forest, but in reality he is not. So it is with the man who is wise in his own conceit. He only thinks he is. A "holier-than-thou" expression may attract some people, but it disgusts and repels all who can see behind the mask the figure of self-conceit and the shallowness of a "know-it-all" somebody. It is naught but the wisdom of the owl.

The God Who Sends the Rain.

Having dispelled the thought of their supposed divinity, Paul and Barnabas began to talk about the One "who made the heaven and the earth and the sea, and all that in them is." Then they speak of the rain, of fruitful seasons, of bread and meat. If they had been speaking to Jews, they would have had plenty of texts in the Old Testament; if they had been facing an Athenian audience, they might have opened the discourse with swift appeals to history and art, or, as Paul managed it later, they might have argued from man, the crown of creation, to God, man's Creator and Father. But to the Lycaonian peasants, totally unacquainted with the Old Testament Scriptures and knowing little or nothing of art or history, they talk in simpler phrase about the goodness of God, who "gave us rain from heaven, and fruitful seasons, filling our hearts with food and gladness." The apostle Paul in his matchless letter to the Romans makes the point that even though the Gentiles had not received such a revelation from God in times past as that vouchsafed to the Jews, yet they were without excuse. "For the invisible things of him since the creation of the world are clearly seen, being perceived through the things that are made, even his everlasting power and divinity." And speaking in the lesson before us to the Lycaonians, a type of the most heathenish Gentiles then known to the world, he says: "God did not leave himself without witness."

His Witness is Everywhere.

There are too few people, comparatively, who appreciate the beauty and strength of those evidences found in what men are pleased to term "natural theology." Strike out the Bible, destroy every line that has been written about God from time immemorial, and still he walks unchallenged upon the face of the earth and forces his way into the hearts of men. His witness is everywhere. Rays of light are refracted through drops of water and the rainbow hangs in the sky. It is God's witness. He put it there. The trees of the orchard hang full of ripened fruit tinted with color combinations no hand can reproduce. It is God's witness. The fields of grain bow in golden waves fanned by the summer breeze. It is God's witness. The storm king summons his forces and rushes with a fury and menace that strike fear to the hearts of the unthinking. It is God's witness. For did not David say: "The voice of the Lord is upon the waters: the God of glory thundereth: the Lord is upon many waters." (Ps. 29: 3.) Not only things upon the earth, but things above the earth and beneath the earth. "The heavens declare the glory of God; and the firmament showeth his handiwork."

Every thoughtful man who looks up to the starry sky is constrained to say: "It must have had a Maker." A party going through the Mammoth Cave included a blatant infidel. Some of the lesser formations were the subject of his jest and ridicule; but when they came at last to the stately Mammoth Dome, some one pointed to its massive towering pillars and said to the unbeliever: "Can you tell me, please, who made these?" His silence was painful. Thus we see that things on the earth, above the earth, and beneath the earth bear witness of God. And man himself is the most potent witness of all. "Nature could no more have made me than Fashion could have made the coat I wear."

An artist was watching his pupil's effort. He noticed that the young man was lingering on his sketching of a barn in the foreground while the sun was hastening to its setting. He said to him: "Young man, if you lose more time painting the shingles on that barn, you will not catch the sunset at all." This is just what many people do. They give all their time to fences and barn roofs and sheds, and meanwhile they miss the glorious sunsets.

O, How We Need Each Other!

One lesson that we are slow to learn is our dependence upon each other. Seneca said: "There is none made so great, but he may both need the help and service and stand in fear of the power and unkindness even of the meanest of mortals." The European War is bringing that needed lesson home to our hearts through the medium of our pocketbooks. There are certain commodities we used so long and so advantageously that we had forgotten their source of supply. But now we are beginning to find out where they came from. We need Germany and France and Britain, and they need us, just as King Solomon needed King Hiram and King Hiram needed King Solomon. History shows how badly one nation needs another and how one people is enriched by the contribution of others. The pear, the peach, and the apricot came originally from Asia; the jessamine, from India; the lily and the tulip, from the Levant; the tuberose, from Java; the carnation and pink, from Italy; the dahlia, from the tableland of Mexico; the heliotrope, from Peru; the fuchsia, from Chile; shrubs, from Japan; blooms, from Siberia; flowers, from the Cape of Good Hope, from the forests of Brazil, and from the "scrub" of Australia. And this is only a parable of more substantial gifts that other nations have contributed in a thousand ways to make us what we are. The Italians and French taught us silk weaving. The Venetians showed us how to make glass. A German erected our first paper mill. A Dutchman began our potteries. The Genoese taught us how to build ships. Surely this country of ours should forbear and suffer wrongfully a great deal rather than to go to war with any of its benefactors. Looked at purely from the commercial viewpoint, one might well afford to ask: "What sense is there in killing the goose that laid the golden egg" for us, even though that goose has his neck outstretched and his feathers ruffled?

O, How We Need God!

When we say that we need each other's commodities, it is just another way of saying that we need God. For everything can be traced back to Him "who made the heavens and the earth and the sea, and all that in them is." Back of the flour is the mill; back of the mill is the corn; back of the corn is the sower; back of the sower is the seed; and back of the seed is God. The lesson for the Lycaonians is a lesson for us all:

"God comes down in the rain
And the stalks grow tall:
This is the simple faith,
And the best of all."

Dr. McConnell, who has made a minute study of economic problems, writes: "Taking the world altogether, it never has more than about three months' provision of grain in its garner. The failure of a single harvest all over the world would depopulate the earth. It has never enough laid up at any one time to keep it from starving during the ensuing four months. O, how much we need each other! O, how much we need God!"

"I Never Knew His Name."

In conclusion listen to this simple story: Helen Keller, blind, deaf, and dumb, by wonderfully patient teaching, is taught to communicate with others. The imprisoned soul has come into possession of many new and precious thoughts, but no suggestion of God has ever been made to it. Phillips Brooks is sent for from Boston to her Alabama home to reveal to her the Father. Through her teacher as interpreter he tells her of the glory of the heavens, the color and perfume of the flowers, the melody of the birds, the splendor of mountain, sky, and sea, and then, with a prayer for God's help, he says gently: "Helen, the great and gracious Being who made all this is called 'God.'" Instantly a heavenly radiance glowed upon the child's face as she quickly spelled with her fingers her answer: "O, I have known him all the time, but I never knew his name."

Nature's Revelation Incomplete.

Nature's revelation of God is wonderful, but it is imperfect in that it does not reveal Jesus Christ as our Savior. Away with that species of sophistry and hypocrisy that talks about worshiping God in nature and pays no attention to the commands of the Bible! If Nature's book had been enough, we would have had no need of the Bible. You can look upon created things and wonder, and admire, and sing praises, and be happy; but to be happiest of all, you must open the other Book and learn of the Lamb, without spot and without blemish, who taketh away the sins of the world. And when you have found your Savior and obeyed him, you will be ready to say:

"Thy precious name, Lord Jesus Christ, is better far to me, Than all the wealth that can be found in earth, or air, or sea."

The Kingdom of the Meek.

Kings choose their soldiers from the strong and sound,
And hurl them forth to battle at command,
Across the centuries, o'er sea and land,
Age after age, the shouts of war resound;
Yet, at the end, the whole wide world around,
Each empty empire, once so proudly planned,
Melts through Time's fingers like the dropping sand.
But once a King—despised, forsaken, crowned
Only with thorns—chose in the face of loss
Earth's poor, her weak, her outcast, gave them love,
And sent them forth to conquer in his name
The world that crucified him, and proclaim
His empire. Lo! pride's vanished thrones above, Behold the enduring banner of the cross!

—Priscilla Leonard.

"Lots of telegraph poles are going up," said Willie. "They are just so far apart from each other, and every time I go from our house to yours, grandpa, I stop and rest at each pole." "There are lots of Sundays in my life," said grandpa, "and they are the same distance apart, and they are on the way to my Father's house. Every time I come to one, I stop and rest, too."—Christian Intelligencer.

OUR CONTRIBUTORS

The Dark Hour.

(Written especially for the Gospel Advocate.)

BY ANNIE M'KNIGHT YOUNG.

O world! thou art so beautiful and dear;
The source of all my joys that lived or died.
My hope of heaven itself hath budded here.
How can I leave thee, knowing naught beside,
And part thy skies, through boundless realms of air,
Go forth, bereft of all, I know not where!

Yet, as the migrant bird, with instinct true,
Unerring journeys through the pathless skies;
So, over leagues of space perchance I, too,
May travel till the city's towers rise;
And dumb with awe and thrilled with hopes untold,
I trembling stand before its gates of gold.

O patient feet! and hands that wrought my will,
Oft lacking rest by tyrant mind denied,
How can I picture you forever still!
These eyes! how leave them sightless, staring wide;
This body, casket of life's priceless germ,
How give to dissolution and the worm!

Yet go—return to dust, frail body mine!
As falls the leaf, thy destiny fulfill.
Though thou must perish, from that grave of thine
Shall rise a form to know not age nor ill.
O, blest must that immortal body be,
Made meet to 'shrine a raptured spirit free!

Why Not Ordain Preachers?

BY W. H. CARTER.

[In printing this article it is due Brother Sewell to state that on account of illness he is not able to reply at this time.—Ep.]

Questions are often being asked some of the editors of the Gospel Advocate about ordination which causes them to have to set forth their reasons for not practicing it, but seldom do we see anything from those who believe the Bible teaches that evangelists, elders, and deacons should be ordained. While the Advocate is owned, edited, and controlled by good brethren who realize their responsibility and desire that the truth be taught, and would not intentionally do an injustice to any subject or individual, they are not inspired men, and, therefore, like the rest of us, are liable to fall into error; and while they themselves, if we understand correctly, are not a unit against ordination, is it not fair and right that, occasionally, some of those who believe in and practice the ordination of certain workers in the church be heard in defense of their faith and practice? If one who does not believe in the practice of ordination feels called upon to offer reasons for his opposition to it, why should not one who believes in it feel called upon to offer reasons for practicing it, and be allowed space to do so? While the managing editor or editors may, and can if they so elect, put their veto on this and refuse the hearing, would it be right for them to do it? Would it be treating a good per cent of their subscribers right? Hoping to find grace with the management, I submit the following:

In the Gospel Advocate of January 13, 1916, page 43, is a short article from Brother E. G. Sewell in answer to the question, "Why do we not ordain preachers?" which was asked Jerome Myers by "a young Baptist," and he passed it up to Brother Sewell, who leaves it as though "we do not ordain preachers." But, for the benefit of Brother Myers, the "young Baptist," and all others who may be concerned, I will say that there are a number of churches, known as the "church of God," that do believe in and practice the ordaining of preachers. On this question, unfortunately, churches are divided, but not to the extent that they are on some other questions. In all the churches known to me, who do not practice ordination, the membership is divided, some for and some opposed to ordination, but they do not make it a test of fellowship. However, this division is wrong. To ordain is right or it is wrong. It cannot be both right and wrong. If those who ordain are right, then those who do not are wrong; and if those who do not ordain are right, then those who do are wrong. If Brother Sewell believes those who ordain are wrong and are, therefore, transgressors, it is right for him to teach and warn them against it. Otherwise he would not be a faithful watchman on the walls of Zion. If, on the other hand, he does not think there is transgression in it, then there is no reason for further opposition to it. It is possible that Brother Sewell may be wrong in his opposition. Truly we recognize in him a man of piety, learning, and ability; but we find the same kind of men on the other side. If I correctly understand Brother Sewell, he admits that, in some way, evangelists, elders, and deacons are to be ordained, or appointed. At least, I am sure this is true as to elders and deacons. The difference between us is as to how the appointing should be done. My contention is that the Scriptures teach that it should be done by the laying on of hands in connection with fasting and prayer. I will let Brother Sewell answer for himself as to how it should be done. We can agree, I suppose, that the word "ordain," or "appoint," does not within itself designate the manner of appointing. This being true, we are left to learn from the Scriptures, if we can, how the appointing was done in the beginning. If the Scriptures teach a way, then that is the Lord's way, and it would be sinful to appoint in any other way; it would be presumption. If the Scriptures do not teach the way, then we are left to adopt any way that may please us; and no one would have the right to object to the way adopted by another, for to do so would be to try to force his opinion on others. There are a goodly number of us who believe that, in the examples given in the New Testament, we have the Lord's way pointed out, which is to lay on hands in connection with fasting and prayer.

In Brother Sewell's article he says: "There was a time when our brethren did ordain, and they thought they were following the word of God in so doing; but after a more careful study of the word of God they have been going slow on it." Then there was union; now there is division. Then they ordained; now they are "going slow about it." Then they "walked by the same rule;" now each fellow may have a rule of his own. Does a "more careful study of the word of God" lead to such as this? I am of the belief that it is the result of a more careful following after the notions and opinions of some of their teachers. But they did not all get to "going slow." Some remained true to the teaching and are still true. Some went slow, and some went slower. Some quit laying on hands and adopted the opinion of their teachers, while others got so slow that they did not ordain at all; and others kept on slowing up until they discarded the evangelists, elders, and deacons, had nothing to ordain.

But Brother Sewell speaks of an erroneous idea they had. I do not know how many churches had it; but as they were just coming out of sectarian confusion and darkness, I should not be surprised that many had it—"that only the ordained had the right to baptize." Should we quit ordaining because of that error? But another difficulty was, they believed "that when men were ordained they had authority to do things they did not have till they were ordained." Well, there are a good many who are not "going slow" on that idea yet. There are still a large per cent of "our brethren" who believe that by appointment authority is given that the one appointed did not have before his appointment. This I do not believe Brother Sewell will deny. If he does, then I will regard myself under obligation to furnish the proof.

Again, some seem to have gone slow because, he thinks, "hands were frequently laid on in the miraculous age of the church by inspired men to impart miraculous powers." Now, a good many are of the opinion that, if Brother Sewell is right, this does not prove that hands were not laid on in appointing. But I, for one, do not believe Brother Sewell is correct. If there is a passage in the New Testament that plainly shows that hands were laid on any one by an inspired or uninspired man to impart miraculous powers, I fail to find it, outside of the bestowal of the Spirit, and this is doubtful. But, if it could be proven that hands were sometimes laid on by inspired men to impart miraculous powers, it would not necessarily follow that they were always laid on for that purpose. If this could be proven, then for what purpose did uninspired men lay on hands? It seems to me that a little brotherly discussion along these lines might be beneficial to the Advocate's readers just now. I am willing to affirm that, in New Testament times, men were appointed to a work in the church by the laying on of hands in connection with fasting and prayer, and that they then had authority that they did not have before they were appointed. I am also willing to deny that hands were laid on any one to impart to them the power to work miracles. This, to my mind, forms a fair issue.

"Bishop Quayle's Warning."

BY E. W. SMITH.

The following bits of advice from one high up in ecclesiastical circles are commended by the Nashville Tennessean:

Bishop William A. Quayle of the Methodist Episcopal Church issued a warning at Asbury Park, N. J., Thursday, which contains much good advice to young men, but which, if carried too far, would mean stagnation of American business.

"Better that you go underclothed and underfed than that you go into debt," said the Bishop. And: "The greatest financial enemy of the people to-day is the credit house."

One piece of advice given by Bishop Quayle is worthy of emulation by all pastors. He declared that ministers should not attack other churches. Such attacks are not often made; but they always arouse a feeling of resentment in the minds of people who believe in fair dealing in religion as well as in business.

With reference to "going in debt," the majority of those who have experience in that matter will confess that the "bishop's" advice is good and proper. The wise man has told us: "The rich ruleth over the poor; and the borrower is servant to the lender." (Prov. 22: 7.) For a young man to start out in life with a millstone of debt about his neck is exceedingly unfortunate. If he is keenly sensitive to his obligations and thoroughly honest in his business transactions, unless he strikes what some term a "streak of luck," he will always feel depressed. The future will seem gloomy, and he will ere long experience the force of the truth, "The borrower is servant to the lender." It is to walk up and lay in the outstretched hand of the lender interest semiannually, which accumulates while he sleeps. O, that six-per-cent vampire, sucking your sweat and blood while you wake and while you sleep! Borrowing money on which to run a business? Unless you are an exceedingly shrewd business man, in this age of sharp competition, the chances are nine to one you will go broke. What then? Take the "bankrupt law" and in that way pay your debts? You may thus hide behind a human law and fancy yourself free from an honest obligation; but so long as you live you will be under the moral obligation to pay every spare dollar you get on that debt. An honest man does not consider debts paid if he be forced for present relief to take the bankrupt law. He only does that in order to get a breathing spell that will enable him to pay his honest obligations. If the bankrupt law intends otherwise, it is a dishonest law and should be repealed. A young man would better work on a salary and live within his income. Fewer fine clothes, no cigarettes, no clubs and fine suppers, with practical common sense, will bring him out a winner. Make it a rule to save something out of every month's salary, and it will not be many years until you will have a capital of your own, with the knowledge as to how it came. Young man, beware of debt, no matter what the captains of finance may advise. Be a free man, sleep well, and look the money lenders squarely in the face with the triumphant satisfaction that you owe them nothing but good will.

The second bit of advice by the "bishop" is subject to challenge. It all depends on what is meant by "should not attack other churches." Does he mean that one should not criticize or call in question a doctrine or practice of some other church? If so, his advice given and heeded in the days of Martin Luther by that great reformer would have landed the "bishop" in the bosom of the Roman Catholic Church. We wonder if Bishop Quayle ever "attacks" the Roman Catholic Church. Does he ever make a "fling" at Rome? If so, on what ground does he do it? Is it not because of some unscriptural doctrine or practice of the Romish Church? Is an unscriptural doctrine or practice any worse in the church of Rome than it is in a Protestant church? Ah, beloved, here is the gross inconsistency and, we may say, downright hypocrisy of sectarianism and denominationalism. Protestant churches will stand off and throw rocks at the corruptions of the Roman Catholic Church, and then pat each other on the back with a tact, if not open, agreement: "You let me alone, and I will let you alone." O, no, do not "attack other churches!" Just let them teach and practice any and every error under the sun, and say nothing; keep quiet; don't "attack." Away from the earth with such ecclesiastical folly! How can any one who loves the truth of God, and with the command of God to "contend earnestly for the faith" staring him in the face, pay any attention to such religious twaddle as "don't attack other churches." This is the trump card of Satan. It is the most winning card His Satanic Majesty has ever played, and he has well-nigh gotten the entire religious world under the spell of this delusion. "Don't attack other churches," have no religious discussion; do not antagonize the doctrine and practice of others. The so-called "churches of Christ" are becoming imbued with this sickly sentimentalism, seemingly unmindful of the fact that, had not Alexander Campbell and his collaborators debated and discussed with the religious denominations, there would be no churches modeled after the New Testament order. Stop religious discussion and attacking the errors of religious teachers, and the truth would perish from the earth. If Bishop Quayle meant by the word "attack," to oppose in a spirit of bitterness and vituperation, we most certainly agree with him in his protest. Men do not have to employ a bitter and vehemently denunciatory spirit in attacking error. It can and should be done in the proper spirit, in a way to enlist the attention of those opposed and lead them to investigate the subjects opposed. But we dare say that is not the meaning of the "bishop." We suspect he is making a plea for a spirit of "You let me alone, and I will let you alone." No one must take issue with those who teach false doctrines! Just let them alone, and hunt another field if you desire to teach the truth. Perfectly lovely—a spirit like that—is it not? Is it Christlike? He who so claims knows nothing of the Spirit of Christ.

Any life without God in it is a hard one. Heaven does not seem far off to the man who is living close to God. The rich man's character was bad; so he was far from heaven.—The Young People.

SPIRIT OF THE PRESS

BY J. C. McQUIDDY.

Tragically Interesting.

The following is taken from the columns of the Catholic Temperance Advocate:

"There are in round numbers fifteen thousand churches in the United States, with the average congregation of eleven hundred members, whose quota of the drink bill is $16,500, about four times as much as is required to support the parish.

"There is perhaps nothing more frequently alleged against the church in this country than the number of Catholics given to drink and engaged in the 'dangerous' liquor business. No one thing would meet this objection so well and tend to remove whatever justification there is for it than for it to be generally known that a large and ever-increasing number of the Catholic clergy are members of the Priests' Total Abstinence League."

According to these figures, and we have no doubt as to their accuracy, fifteen thousand Roman Catholic churches in the United States spend annually the sum of $24,765,000. In other words, as stated, each of these churches spends four times as much for liquor as it does for all religious causes.

Think of how many widows and orphans this amount would feed and clothe! Think of the lives that have been wrecked and the homes ruined by the expenditure of this amount for distilled deviltry. Surely, it is quite enough to make every right-thinking person swear eternal enmity to this consuming curse of the ages. May the God of all grace help us to hasten the coming of the glad day when not one drop of this death-dealing distillation shall be made in all the earth.

If the powerful Roman Catholic denomination would use its wonderful resources to crush the liquor monster instead of keeping in its fold those engaged in the business, the sober element of our nation would think more kindly of its work. Sad to say, our Roman Catholic friends are not the only sinners in this regard. While Protestants and Baptists may not spend as much for whiskey, in proportion to their numbers, the sad fact is, they do spend millions of dollars annually for liquor. We believe it entirely safe to say that if no professing Christian would enter a saloon next year, at least two-thirds of the saloons in the United States would close their doors before the end of the year.

If liquor could be eliminated from politics, there are many Catholics who would vote for the abolition of the traffic. The very fact that Protestants and Baptists have, in many instances, made the liquor question a political one has, no doubt, had a tendency to unify Catholics in its support.

It is high time that every just and generous man should earnestly strive for the extermination of this consuming curse.—Western Recorder.

So long as church members drink whisky and vote to maintain the saloon it is not possible to enjoy the full blessings of temperate and sober living. Christians should not only practice total abstinence, but they must seek to convert church members. The conduct of many church members is identical with that of the world. It is sad that many church members lose sight of their high calling in Christ Jesus. Christians should be strong enough to resist and overcome every temptation that comes upon them in the path of duty. No one should be weak enough to drink champagne at a banquet because many others do. Christians should shine as lights in the world. They should set the pace for their fellows. Christians should ever be mindful of the words of the Spirit: "But let us, since we are of the day, be sober, putting on the breastplate of faith and love; and for a helmet, the hope of salvation. . . . Prove all things; hold fast that which is good; abstain from every form of evil. And the God of peace himself sanctify you wholly; and may your spirit and soul and body be preserved entire, without blame at the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ." (1 Thess. 5: 8-23.)

Contending for the Truth.

If a man lays hold of a truth of God's word so that he cannot be shaken loose from it, Satan will try to make that very truth a snare to him. One way is to cause the Christian to be so vehement in urging the truth that he forgets to love his brethren who have not seen what he does. A Christian man had received a letter from a friend who, though a great spiritual leader, was blind, he felt, to a certain precious teaching of the Bible. While considering how he should contend for this doctrine, which his friend's letter questioned, there came to his mind a sentence from another friend's letter, just received. This friend, speaking of the same truth and his own teaching of it, said: "God helping me, my intense desire is to obey, always, Jude 3 in the light of 1 Cor. 13." "Contend earnestly for the faith which was once for all delivered unto the saints" is Jude's exhortation. "The greatest of these"—the things that abide—"is love" is the message of 1 Cor. 13. In all our relations with the brethren, love is the greatest truth; and love "never faileth."—Sunday School Times.

The man who does not contend for the truth in love is a detriment to the truth that he espouses. Those who respect and honor the truth must oppose error wherever it is, regardless of by whom it is advocated. The man who will compromise with error because it is held by a brother and oppose it when it is taught by a sectarian is a religious partisan of the worst type. The Christian opposes error and not men. While we oppose error and seek to correct it, we should in love and in a spirit of gentleness seek to restore those that are overtaken in any error or trespass. But whenever we allow our personal regard for any one to lead us to uphold any man in error, we are worshiping the creature and not the Creator. And right here many suffer themselves to be deceived. Many, blinded by their affection and admiration for a man, follow him in error, vainly contending that they are seeking to uphold the truth. This is true both in religion and politics. This was true in the church at Corinth. One was for Cephas, another for Paul, and another for Apollos. Their preferences for men made the division. It is even so to-day. Some men covet leadership, and, rather than lose it, will suffer churches to divide over them. All such are carnal-minded, and to be carnal-minded means death. Paul, in writing to the Corinthians, declares: "For ye are yet carnal: for whereas there is among you jealousy and strife, are ye not carnal, and do ye not walk after the manner of men?" All who love the truth will condemn partyism. A faithful minister will not suffer a church to contend and divide over him. To do so is to love the praise of men more than the praise of God.

* * *

Abnormal Conceit.

The Western Recorder says: "K. Lake, an Episcopal minister, in an address in Boston, insisted that the ethics of Jesus are defective, and he has better. The only answer to such abnormal conceit is a place in a lunatic asylum." There is no place in the ministry for such conceit. Such a man in his own estimation is so far above his associates that he is not fit to dwell on this earth. He is so resourceful that he should start a world of his own. Until he takes a good dose of humility he will only merit the scorn of all right-thinking people.

The spirit of missions is the spirit of our Master—the very genius of true religion. A diffusive philanthropy is Christianity itself. It requires perpetual propagation to attest its genuineness.—Exchange.

The law of worthy life is fundamentally the law of strife. It is only through labor and painful effort, by grim energy and resolute courage, that we move on to better things.—Theodore Roosevelt.

Georgia and the Far Southern Field

By S. H. Hall

The Church of Christ—Lesson XV.

How to Behave Ourselves in the Church.

(4) In respect to prayer. We come now to one of the most helpful elements in the Christian's life. This duty and privilege we must exercise in all that we do. "In everything by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving let your requests be made known unto God." (Phil. 4: 6.) Note that it says "in everything by prayer," etc. You should not engage in anything without going into it in the spirit of prayer, asking God to bless you and prosper you in the undertaking. This does not apply merely to what we call our "church duties," but it applies to the work in which we daily engage—in the workshop, in the school-room, on the farm, and all the duties of the faithful wife in her home. But that this all-important subject may be presented in the most tangible way, I submit the following for your consideration:

(1) The importance and power of prayer.

(a) This is seen in the example of Christ and others. Christ, indeed, was a man of prayer. (See Luke 6: 12.) Please to study verse 13 in connection with verse 12 in the above reference. What connection do you observe? Study carefully the boldness and fearlessness of Christ in John 18: 1-8. Note that his calmness is such that his enemies "went backward, and fell to the ground." (See verse 6.) If you want to know the secret of it all, read the wonderful prayer in the preceding chapter, then read Luke 22: 39-53. Note also his care for his disciples in John 18: 8. All of this calmness, all of this self-forgetfulness, is the outgrowth of his wonderful prayerfulness. It has been truly said that our Lord won his victories on his knees, then arose and embraced them. Let us forget not to go to our knees in prayer before undertaking any important engagement in life. Look at Daniel and David as men of prayer. (Dan. 6: 10; Ps. 55: 17.) Learn, as did they, the habit of having a regular time for prayer, and neglect it not. Note how the Jerusalem church conducted itself in respect to prayer. (Acts 2: 42.) The true church of Christ has as one of its outstanding characteristics the prayer life. If you claim to be one of its members and are not living the prayer life, you dishonor your calling.

(b) The power and importance of prayer is seen, too, in plain and specific commands. Study carefully the following scriptures: Heb. 13: 18, 19; Phile. 22; Phil. 1: 19; 2 Cor. 1: 11; Rom. 15: 30. From these scriptures we learn that Paul expected the prayers of Christians to actually avail in his behalf. Read, also, James 5: 16. But you ask: "What could the prayers of the brethren have to do with Paul's being delivered from prison, from those who were disobedient in Judea, or his utterance and boldness mentioned in Eph. 6: 18, 19? Well, that is none of our business. It is ours to hear Jehovah's voice and obey; he will take care of the rest. You had just as well ask why "calling on God" in the act of baptism causes God to remit the alien's sins (Acts 22: 16), or why walking around the walls of Jericho caused them to fall (Heb. 11: 30). It might be said, however, just here, that if the brethren to whom Paul gave the above commands had had as little faith and confidence in the importance of prayer as some of the disciples of to-day, their prayers would have availed Paul nothing. The Bible teaches it, therefore it must be true that we help our brethren by praying for them. The consciousness that many of the brethren are praying for me fills my soul with joy and strength. How beautiful, indeed, are the repeated requests of Paul to the brethren—viz.: "Brethren, pray for us!" (1 Thess. 5: 25; 2 Thess. 3: 1.) And only those who forget not others in prayer are the ones whose prayers can avail for themselves.

(c) The secret of the power. This we find not in the wording of our prayers, but in the powerful God to whom we pray. All the power that makes prayer avail anything for ourselves and others rests in God. He is the dynamo, the source of all power. The important thing with us is to have him listen, to come in contact with him. This we can do if nothing stands between us and him and we yearn to do his holy will. "Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace, whose mind is stayed on thee." (Isa. 26: 3.)

(2) How we may know God is listening. One of the soul-stirring statements of our Lord is: "Father, I thank thee that thou heardest me. And I knew that thou hearest me always." (John 11: 41, 42.) We have not one doubt about the truthfulness of the above statement. Can we pray with the same sweet assurance? Well, we are commanded to so pray. (See James 1: 6; 1 Tim. 2: 8.) Here we are commanded to pray without doubting. How may we so pray? I answer: There are certain elements that we must have in our prayers if doubts are to be driven away. These elements make us get out of the way of our prayers. The trouble with too many disciples is that they hinder their prayers with their own misconduct. (See 1 Pet. 3: 7.) The following elements we must have if we are to pray without doubting; (a) A heart's desire—that is, we must really want the thing for which we pray. (See Mark 11: 24.) Here discussion is needless. (b) This desire must be in harmony with his will. (1 John 5: 14.) Here you should have no trouble; for if you do not absolutely know that the thing for which you are praying is in harmony with his will, just remember that it is his will that you leave it to him; and certainly you are very much out of harmony with our Father's will when this you are unwilling to do. Learn to say, in all sincerity: "Father, thy will, not mine, be done." (c) The spirit of obedience—that is, willingness on our part to do anything that we see we can do, that the desires of our heart may be obtained. (See 1 John 3: 22.) Never will he hear if we do not so desire that we will gladly labor to obtain. Observe this in our Lord as revealed in John 17: 17-22. "Sanctify them in the truth" is his heart's desire. But note the fact that he says, "I sanctify myself," that this may be done. The same is true about his desire that they be one as he and his Father are one. "The glory which thou hast given me I have given unto them; that they may be one." (d) Too, we must have the forgiving spirit—that is, willingness to forgive those who have mistreated us. (See Mark 11: 25, 26.) (e) A feeling of pity and compassion for the poor and consciousness that we have not stopped our ears to their cry. (Prov. 21: 13.) Certainly you ought to know how you have been living in this respect. (f) Consciousness that you are not knowingly regarding iniquity in your heart. (Ps. 56: 18.) When these elements you have, doubts come not your way, but with the strongest assurance that he is listening do you pray. But let one of the above elements be lacking, and doubts you will have and should have. Brethren, embrace these elements and stop hindering your prayers.

(3) But, in conclusion, there are two points at which we have not behaved ourselves as the Bible so clearly teaches we should—viz., with reference to God's hearing the prayer of the unbaptized believer and when the alien obtains remission. It is taught by some that God will not hear the prayer of the alien till he is baptized. He who so teaches is behaving himself badly on this subject. He is in rebellion to the most outstanding facts—facts that nothing but stubbornness can keep him from seeing. Study the case of Cornelius in Acts 10 and 11. He was out of Christ, an unsaved man; but God heard him. The same is true of Paul before he was baptized. (See Acts 9: 11.)

The facts are, God will hear any one who will hear him, and begins to listen the very moment we begin to listen. (See Dan. 10: 12.) I pity the man who knows so little about God as to think he listens not to the cry of the longing soul as he is seeking to know God's will. Too, I have no confidence in any man's baptism who did not become interested enough in his salvation to pray before baptized. But others make just as great a mistake, hence behave themselves just as badly, by teaching the alien to expect pardon in prayer, at prayer. The reason I know they are wrong here is because of the cases cited above—viz., Cornelius and Saul. The angel, when he came to Cornelius, found him in prayer, at prayer, but taught him not to expect pardon there, but to send for Peter, and he would tell him what he ought to do, words whereby he and his house should be saved. (See Acts 10: 5, 6; 11: 13, 14.) Too, this angel warned him to do this (Acts 10: 22), showing that this he must do to get out of danger. And in Paul's case, Christ, after telling Ananias, "Behold, he [Paul] prayeth," sent him to Paul with the command: "Arise, and be baptized, and wash away thy sins, calling on the name of the Lord." (Acts 22: 16.) Remember, too, that Christ had told Paul that what he was told, when he went into Damascus, he must do. (Acts 9: 6.) How plain and simple is Jehovah's blessed word! And how strange that people will hold to their "hobbies" and theories instead of letting them go and being governed by the pure word of God! Lord, help us to be honest with thy word.

BY J. M. McCALEB.

POSTAL INFORMATION: International post-office money orders can be bought at the rate of one per cent; but for any amount, however small, the cost will be ten cents. A check on any of the banks in America is good in Japan; personal checks are as good as any. The money itself is accepted by the banks. The ordinary postage on letters is five cents; newspapers, one cent.

ADDRESSES OF MISSIONARIES: Otoshige Fujimori, Takahagi, Kurimoto-mura, Katorigori, Shimosa, Chiba, Japan; Mr. and Mrs. J. M. McCaleb, Zoshigaya, Tokyo, Japan; Mrs. William J. Bishop, 304 West Jefferson Street, Station A, Dallas, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Vincent, 73 Myogadani, Koishikawa, Tokyo, Japan; Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Jelley, Jr., Satara District, Satara, British India (funds may be sent to Don Carlos Jones, 2225 Dearing Court, Louisville, Ky.); Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Armstrong-Hopkins, Berhampore, Ganjam District, India; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. McHenry, Satara District, Satara, British India; Mr. and Mrs. John Sherriff, Bulawayo, Rhodesia, South Africa.

Driving Out Demons.

BY C. G. VINCENT.

On the night of February 4 a ceremony called "mame-maki" (bean scattering) was held at most of the Shinto shrines and Buddhist temples and homes. The purpose of this religious performance is to drive out all the demons of misfortune by pelting them with parched beans and to invite in the gods of good fortune.

The first ceremony of the "mame-maki" took place twelve hundred and ten years ago. At that time a great epidemic was raging, and the emperor used this Chinese rite to drive off the demons.

Toward the evening housewives become busy preparing for the celebration. Beans are crackling in kettles and feasts are prepared for the family gods and the family. The husbands clean the shrines, light the sacred lights, and burn incense while awaiting the beans and the feast. Parched beans are offered in a wooden box to the family god, and the family clap their hands and reverently bow before the shrine. Then the master of the house, carrying a box of beans, followed by his children, starts around the house to pelt out the demons of misfortune. When he throws beans in the direction of the god of good fortune, he cries out, "Fuku wa chi" ("Come in, fortune"); and when he pelts in the other direction, he shouts, "Oni wa soto" ("Go out, demons"). Children gather the scattered beans, and vie with each other in seeing who gets the most.

To keep them away, fish heads and leaves of holly are put at the gate. This custom arises from the superstition that the smell of fish and the prickly leaf of holly are dreaded by the demons. Many superstitions have been handed down and are still well practiced to rid the individual of the demons of misfortune. In the streets at night professional removers of misfortunes go round shouting, "Shall I remove your misfortune?" Call one of them and give him some money with as many beans as you are years old, and he will recite, standing at the porch, with skillful punctuation and accent, a lengthy address full of words of luck. Another method is to wrap in paper as many beans as you have years, stroke it all over the body, and throw it away in the street. Thus easily shed all your misfortunes. After scattering the beans, if one eats the same number of beans plus one for the coming year, one will surely be healthy all the year round. To preserve the beans and eat them when the first thunder is heard will keep illness away much more economically than medicine.

There is a syllable superstition regarding the word "bean" which may explain why it plays such a part in the "mame-maki." The Japanese for "bean" is "mame," and "mame" also means "health"—both "bean" and "health" end in the same syllable. Therefore the bean is the emblem of good fortune.

Notes and Items.

BY C. G. VINCENT.

J. L. Rutherford writes: "I desire one-twenty-fifth interest in your church lot, therefore inclosed you will find my check for one hundred and twenty-five dollars—twenty-five for the work and one hundred for the lot. May the Lord bless all the workers there." Brother Rutherford is one who understands that current expenses of the work continue while we request special funds for the lot. Who will be the next brother to send us an offering as liberal and thoughtful as the above one?

Writing of the Daijosal, a sacred ceremony performed by the emperor in connection with his ascension, a Japanese scholar explains that "the Daijosal is of the most ancient origin, having its beginning in the days of the gods. The heavenly ancestress (Amaterasu) of the imperial house and of the Yamato race, on seeing the seed of rice, was greatly pleased, and said: 'O, the green plant! We may feed on it and live!' She caused the seed to be sown in two patches of field; and when the autumn brought in the new crop, she offered it to the gods and also celebrated by feasting on it herself. From that day the imperial house and the nation have continued to observe the festival of the new crop every year as an occasion of returning thanks to the Unseen Greatness from which all good things flow. Every emperor, on ascending the throne, makes a special celebration of the festival as the most important event of his reign."

The New Year celebrations are over at this writing (January 10.) It is a custom of the Japanese people to settle all accounts on the last day of the year. In order to do this, the stores and people are up and "at it" until three or four o'clock in the morning. On New Year's Day everybody cleans up. Women and girls "powder up," put on what we call "Sunday-go-to-meetin' clothes," and go out—some to play, some to call on friends, some to drink. The first, second, and fifth days are national holidays. General business is suspended, the towns and cities decorated, and everybody seems to forget the past and with glad hearts to look the new year in the face.

GOSPEL ADVOCATE

EDITORS.

D. Lipscomb, E. G. Sewell, E. A. Elam,
M. C. Kurfees, T. B. Larimore.

MANAGING EDITORS.

J. C. McQuiddy, A. B. Lipscomb.

SPECIAL DIRECTIONS.

Subscriptions are $1.50 a year, in advance, including postage to any part of the United States. To Canada and foreign countries, $2 a year, in advance.

The Date on the Yellow Label on your paper serves you as a receipt, and indicates the time to which your subscription is paid. When you renew, if the date is not changed within three weeks thereafter, please call our attention to it.

Discontinuances. No paper will be continued over twelve months after the subscription has expired. This will give all ample time to renew.

Payment for the Advocate, when sent by mail, should be made by post-office money order, express money order, registered letter, New York exchange, or postal note. Neither currency nor coin should be sent in a letter, unless registered; and when so sent, it is at the risk of the sender. Have your remittances made payable to the Gospel Advocate, and never to any member of the company.

Do Not Write Business on the same sheet as matter intended for publication.

Change of Address will be cheerfully made at the request of any subscriber giving post office, county, and State from which the change is to be made, and post office, county and State to which the paper should go after the change.

Renewals. In renewing, give the name just as it appears on the yellow label, unless it be incorrect, in which case please call our attention to it; and always give the name of the post office to which your paper is sent, as this is the guide by which we are enabled to find your name on our list.

Do Not Send Matter intended for the Advocate to the editors personally. This may occasion delay. Address the Gospel Advocate Publishing Company, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

Guarantee of Advertising.

All the advertisements in this paper are, we believe, signed by trustworthy persons. To prove our faith by works, we will make good to actual subscribers any loss sustained in trusting advertisers who prove to be deliberate swindlers. We shall not attempt to adjust trifling disputes between subscribers and honorable business men who advertise, nor pay the debts of honest bankrupts. To make this guarantee effective, in all cases say in writing advertisers, "I saw your advertisement in the Gospel Advocate," and if anything goes wrong, notify us immediately in writing.

JACOBS & CO., ADVERTISING MANAGERS,
Clinton, S. C.

The Fanning Orphan School Needs Help.

BY E. A. E.

Come, ye blessed of my Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world: for I was hungry, and ye gave me to eat; I was thirsty, and ye gave me drink; I was a stranger, and ye took me in; naked, and ye clothed me; I was sick, and ye visited me; I was in prison, and ye came unto me. . . . Inasmuch as ye did it unto one of these my brethren, even these least, ye did it unto me. (Matt. 25: 34-40.)

Pure religion and undefiled before our God and Father is this, to visit the fatherless and widows in their affliction, and to keep oneself unspotted from the world. (James 1: 27.)

At a meeting of the board of trustees of the Fanning Orphan School on April 13 the work and needs of the school were fully discussed, and it was the unanimous decision of the trustees to place these before the brethren generally and to request a liberal and general donation, that the purpose of the school may be more fully carried out.

Brethren A. N. Trice, the treasurer of the board, and Henry Lipscomb, recently chosen vice president, and I were appointed a committee to raise funds for the school, while all the board agreed to do all they can in the same good work. I was requested to call the attention of the readers of the Gospel Advocate to the work and needs of the school and to make some appeals through its columns for the necessary funds.

Let me say, in the first place, we could not ask people to give to any but a worthy cause. There are thirteen members of the board of trustees, our venerable and beloved Brother Lipscomb being president, which position he has filled since the beginning of the school. Our readers must know that these men have the good of the school at heart—that is, the proper training and development of poor orphan girls for the greatest usefulness in life—and would not make any appeals for funds to carry out its purposes were the funds not needed and the cause not a most worthy one.

One of the trustees, who has given thousands of dollars to the school—as much as five thousand at one time—besides his attention and time, says orphans always appeal to him. To this appeal he has generously responded. This is appeal enough to all who desire to practice pure and undefiled religion before our God and Father. There are thousands who desire to see such girls protected, properly cared for, and developed into useful women, and who will not turn a deaf ear to the cry of orphans. All, we trust, that is necessary to move such generous souls to a liberal and prompt contribution to this school is to mention its needs.

The purpose of this school, as our readers already know, is to properly educate poor orphan girls and other worthy helpless girls, which means to teach them the modern textbooks of any first-class college for young ladies, all domestic duties—real domestic science—to sew, to keep house, to become all that is practical and useful—and, above all, the word of God. The Bible as the best and greatest book in the world is taught in the school. As trustees, in connection with its efficient principal and his worthy wife, as matron, we have made continued efforts to equip the school to this end.

The school has some endowment, but not enough, by far, to maintain it to its full capacity. The school building—the home for the girls—is a modern and convenient one with accommodations for about seventy-five girls; but, with its present endowment and present donations, the school is able to keep only about twenty-five girls, whereas it ought to be able to keep seventy-five. In addition to the ones it is able to keep free, it takes any poor girls which individuals or congregations desire to send at the cost of keeping them, which is one hundred dollars for the school year of ten months. Almost any congregation and not a few individuals should keep a girl in this school.

I submit a report from the treasurer, not prepared for publication, but which states the present need of the school and its lack of support:

Nashville, Tenn., April 19, 1916.—Dear Brother Elam: I was sorry I could not meet you at the Gospel Advocate office a few days ago when you called for me. I herein hand you the promised report.

For the year ending June 30, 1915, the school sustained a net loss of $1,474.28. To apply toward making good this deficit there was given to the school $293.25, which passed through my hands during that year. Whatever amounts were sent to the superintendent were applied by him toward maintenance of the school and does not operate to reduce the net loss sustained. After applying the $293.25 as an offset, the net deficit was $1,181.03 for the year. I do not know what the shortage will be this year, but I feel sure we will fall behind again, though it is to be hoped it will not be so great as last year. During the present fiscal year we have received through my hands $53 only. If I remember correctly, the number of free pupils taken care of last year was about forty-two, and this year it is about twenty-five. You will remember that we reduced the number of free pupils as a matter of retrenchment to prevent further losses in operating the school. Our present indebtedness is about $2,500, and we have less than $100 in bank with which to pay.

I talked with Brother David Lipscomb, Sr., a few days ago and stated these conditions to him and asked his advice. He said he was too feeble to take any active part in handling this matter, but thinks that, if the conditions were properly placed before the readers of the Advocate and others, many would contribute to the support of the school. He feels that the object and purpose of the school is defeated to the extent that we are forced to turn away orphan girls and take pay pupils in order to maintain the institution. Brother Lipscomb believes that there are brethren able and willing to contribute liberally, and others in proportion to their ability, if only the true conditions are placed before them. Brother Lipscomb, who has done so much for the school, is deeply interested in the school. It is very near his heart, and he regrets that the school is unable to do the great amount of good that it could do, if properly supported. Yours very truly,

A. N. TRICE,
Treasurer for Fanning Orphan School.

Let us note the facts:

- (1) Only fifty-three dollars during the present fiscal year given to the maintenance of this needed and great work!
 - (2) Present indebtedness twenty-five hundred dollars, because the school board and teachers are so anxious to help such girls who apply that they have taken more than the funds of the school justify; but they did this hoping that the thousands of brethren and sisters interested in the work would contribute to it and thus enable them to carry so many free pupils.
 - (3) Instead of having to drop down from forty-two to twenty-five, generous people should so readily respond to this appeal as to enable the school to go up from forty-two to seventy-five.
 - (4) The school needs now twenty-five hundred dollars to meet its indebtedness. Then it needs further endowment to enable it to fill the present building with such girls as it was designed to help.
 - (5) As Brother Lipscomb says, the purpose of the school is being defeated to the extent that it has to turn away orphan girls for the lack of means.
 - (6) And certainly, as Brother Lipscomb further says, by properly placing before the brethren and sisters at large the condition and needs of the school they will cheerfully respond to its support. Brethren and sisters ought to do this. Many are able to do so, and let us hope that they will. Any amount will be thankfully received, properly used, and correctly reported. Reader, if you do not want to give a small sum, give a large one—give much; if you cannot give much, then give a little.
- Now, who will respond at once to this call? Do not wait; send a donation now, or, if you have not the ready means, send a promise of a donation, to A. N. Trice, corner Wall and Monroe Streets, Nashville, Tenn., or to the Gospel Advocate, or to the writer, Lebanon, Tenn., or hand it to any one of the trustees. We are very anxious to be able to report that in response to this one appeal the twenty-five hundred dollars, at least, has been received.

Ignoring Laws Which God Has Made.

BY M. C. K.

In a recent issue of this paper we had occasion to write on "making laws where God has made none." Now we have occasion to write on ignoring laws which God has made. The theme is suggested by a letter of inquiry which we are requested to answer in these columns, which is as follows:

Detroit, Mich., April 12, 1916.—Dear Brother: Monday I baptized a man who lately came to the city. Yesterday his wife came to me and said that she was very much worried over her own baptism, as the man who baptized her (a Brother Oliver Wilson, of Thompsonville, Mich.) did not baptize her into the name of the Father, Son, and Holy Spirit, the same as I did her husband, but only in the name of Jesus Christ, following Acts 2: 38 instead of Matt. 28.

Now, I could baptize her according to Matt. 28 and settle the matter; but her sister was baptized the same way and at the same time; also, this Brother Wilson has been preaching and baptizing this way for five years and has four or five congregations started up in the State; also, he has a son and nephew who are starting out to preach. So you see it is a matter that I think needs attention at once. Brethren Klingman, Shepherd, and all the Detroit preachers think I should write to you and let us sift the matter to the bottom, and decide on a course of action that will meet all the demands of the case.

According to Acts 19, I understand that the fact that those erring brethren did not know about the Holy Spirit was proof to Paul that something was wrong with their baptism ceremony and he immediately asked them about it.

However, I want you to go over the entire matter, then answer through the Gospel Advocate.

Thanking you in advance, I am,

Your brother in Christ, CLAUDE F. WITTY.

One of the very first and simplest principles to be observed in the attempt to teach or practice a given requirement under any authority, whether human or divine, is to teach and practice all that the authority stipulates on the subject. To ignore this fundamental principle is to practically ignore the whole law and the authority by which it is established. The fact that one thing which the law stipulates is found in one part of the record containing the law and another thing is found in another part of the record is certainly no reason for ignoring what is found in either place, but it is the best of all possible reasons. In such a case, why both should be observed. Is not the authority of the lawmaking power represented in one of its utterances precisely as in another? If not, why not? And if to ignore one of its utterances is to ignore the lawmaking power itself, why is not ignoring another utterance of the lawmaking power the same thing? While, in all such cases, less than is found in any one place of the record cannot be required, yet more may be, and assuredly more is required when more is stipulated in other parts of the record.

Now, when a brother, as in the case cited, attempts to administer the divine ordinance of baptism, although Peter said in Acts 2: 38, "Be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ," which, of course, must be done, yet it is also true that the same Jesus Christ issued the distinct and positive instructions to baptize persons "into the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit." (Matt. 28: 19.)

The phrase, "in the name of one," means "by the authority of one." (See John 5: 43; 10: 25.) We must, of course, baptize "in the name"—that is, by the authority—of Jesus; but we must also baptize "into the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit." This is distinctly commanded, and we cannot ignore it without ignoring the Lord's instructions.

Again: Even if it should be contended that the phrase, "in the name of Jesus Christ," is equivalent to "into the name of Jesus Christ," it would still remain a fact that the other phrases, "into the name of the Father . . . and of the Holy Spirit," are also a part of the instructions to govern the administration of the ordinance; and why should we follow the one and not the other? So, even if the two phrases referring to Jesus meant one and the same thing, still, if it be necessary to observe it because it is a part of the instructions, by what principle of consistency or propriety can we omit the other phrases referring to "the Father" and "the Holy Spirit," which are also a part of the same instructions? In other words, when God's law says baptize persons "into the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit," what right has man to baptize merely "into the name of the Son?"

Finally, we would kindly remind the Michigan brother and all others that to proceed thus is to assume to be wise above what is written, and that the only "course of action that will meet all the demands of the case" is not "following Acts 2: 38 instead of Matt. 28," but following them both, as well as every other New Testament passage that bears on the subject. We must not make laws where God has made none, but certainly we must not ignore those which he has made.

Some Questions About the Holy Spirit.

BY E. A. E.

These questions have been on hand some time and should have received attention before now, had not other matters of importance presented themselves. It is helpful and a pleasure to study and to attempt to answer any question pertaining unto life and godliness:

Dear Brother Elam: There is much talk here about the personality of the Holy Spirit. I cannot see how the Holy Spirit can be a person separate and apart from God and Christ, as some claim. They quote John 14: 16 to prove another person than Jesus. I understand that God, Christ, and the Holy Spirit were all present on Pentecost, and that the Holy Spirit never said or did anything of himself (see John 16: 13); but where one is spoken of, all are present. I understand a person is a being complete within himself, independent of other persons, having soul, body, and spirit, and he would not be complete without either. So, if the Holy Spirit is complete within himself—that is, the Spirit of God—then God is dead, because he cannot live without a spirit, unless God has a multiplicity of spirits. (See Eph. 4: 3-6.) Please tell me what are the constituent parts of a person. Does the Holy Spirit possess them of himself?

AN INQUIRER.

The Holy Spirit and Spirit of God are the same. There is one God, one Lord, one Holy Spirit. God gives of his Spirit to men; he gives the Spirit to all who obey him. (Acts 5: 32.) God sends forth "the Spirit of his Son" into the hearts of his children. (Gal. 4: 6.) There are different measures or gifts of the Spirit. God gave the Spirit to Jesus without measure. (John 3: 34.) Some men had different gifts of the Spirit. (See 1 Cor. 12.) God "poured forth of" his Spirit on Pentecost in the measure of a baptism upon the apostles. The Spirit is called "another Comforter;" brought to the remembrance of the apostles all Jesus said to them; guided them into all the truth; took of the things of Jesus and showed them to the apostles; convicted "the world in respect of sin, and of righteousness, and of judgment." But the Spirit in this measure of a baptism and as "the Comforter" did not come until Jesus went away. The Spirit did all this and more; and yet God, Christ, and the Spirit are one. God was in heaven while Christ was on earth, yet they were one. God and Christ are in heaven and the Spirit on earth, and yet they are one. Let us study and speak of the Spirit and the Spirit's work in the language of the Bible. God's Spirit is everywhere in all his laws, "natural" or "spiritual." The Bible says the Spirit hears from God, speaks what he hears, comforts, convicts, reproves, testifies. God is Spirit. If God is a person, then why is the Spirit not a person? But we can study and teach all the Bible says in regard to the Holy Spirit and any other subject without speculating or forming theories. Let us do this.

Valdosta, Ga., and Macon, Ga.

BY E. A. E.

The meeting at Valdosta began on the fourth Lord's day in March and continued through the second Lord's day in April. There were only three additions, and they were on the first day, already prepared by their good home training, together with the teaching of Brother G. E. Claus. The attendance was good throughout. The church is at peace and works in harmony, seeking the good of all. Brother Claus, the preacher, who works with this church to the spread of the gospel in the regions round about Valdosta, is a wise and good man and an earnest worker, is held in high esteem by the church, and seems determined that the church shall never be disturbed over any theories, speculations, scruples, or crotchets of his. And the wise elders are doing well in steering the church clear of all such men. This is one of the duties of elders. Brother Claus' good wife is a worthy woman, a help indeed suited to his work, and seems to delight in it. It is a fine indication when a preacher and his family are so well thought of by the church where they live.

Brother Allen, of Jacksonville, Fla., led the singing, did it well, and is zealously at work in Jacksonville.

Brother L. J. Jackson, a former Tennessee boy, and his good wife make Valdosta their home. Brother Jackson works out from there among the churches. It is always a pleasure to meet with him.

During this meeting I visited the school at Dasher, a village about six miles from Valdosta. This school is conducted by Brother Pravatt, who attended the Potter Bible College. In this school the Bible is taught daily as a textbook, and I think, too, in daily right living. Brother Boyd, a Nashville Bible School graduate, will be connected with this school next session, and Brother Claus will teach in it some classes two days in the week. In talking to this school, I begged the privilege to warn it against teaching more or less than the Bible, and especially against emphasizing any theories, speculations, notions, and wisdom of men. Teaching the Bible means to teach the practice of Christianity in all daily living.

It is encouraging to meet with young men of strength of character to speak just the truth—the whole of it—in the love of truth, and who in the same love of truth and wisdom fear to go beyond "that which is written" to teach more or less than the word of God.

It was indeed a pleasure to be with the church in Valdosta in another meeting after a lapse of nineteen years. Some who were in the first meeting have gone to their reward, but have left behind sweet and precious memories and a hallowed influence. Friendships which were then formed have become stronger by the second meeting.

Blest be the tie that binds
Our hearts in Christian love,
The fellowship of kindred minds
Is like to that above.

Two nights were spent with Brother Morgan H. Carter and the small congregation in Macon. This church has done well and is still doing well. It has a house, bought secondhand from some parties there, well located for the part of the town in which it is situated. The work is promising and the good people hopeful. Brother Carter is in earnest and zealous. He is well liked, and I trust the work will prosper. Brother Carter is self-sacrificing, and the small congregation is, too. They need help and are worthy of it.

Keep the Singing Scriptural.

Brother McQuiddy: We, a small band of members of the church of Christ, have been meeting at Barton, Ala., for a long time—fifteen years, I suppose. We have a neat, little house of worship. We have always used Christian hymn books—"Christian Hymns" and "Gospel Praise." Recently we bought two dozen of Brother Flavil Hall's new book, "Jesus in Song." I think it good, but a few of the young members have brought in a Baptist song book with a Baptist song leader at our monthly meetings; also, they are going to have a singing school taught for the purpose of learning the songs in the Baptist book, and have laid the gospel song books aside. If one song book will do as well as another, I will agree on using the Baptist book; if not, I feel that it won't be right. MRS. EMMA GIBBS.

If the hymns in the Baptist song book are scriptural and teach the truth, then it is not wrong to sing them; if they are unscriptural, then they should not be sung. It is wrong to sing error. We should have a scriptural hymnology and sing the truth, as well as preach the truth. When disciples meet and break bread on the first day of the week as did the early church, a Baptist song leader who believes in close communion cannot very consistently take a leading part in the worship. The elders of the church should not leave the selection of hymn books to a few young members, but, considering the needs of the flock, they themselves should see that scriptural hymn books are provided.

QUERY DEPARTMENT

Brother McQuiddy: What does the olive tree in Rom. 11: 16-21 represent—Christ or the church? If the church, were the Gentiles grafted into this old church? X.

The olive tree represents neither Christ nor the church, but the chosen family of Abraham—not his children merely of the flesh, but his believing children, the heirs of promise. The Jewish nation inherited the temporal blessings as Abraham's children; Gentiles become heirs of promise when they become his children by faith. (Gal. 3: 28, 29.) The Jews, the natural branches of this olive tree, "were broken off" by unbelief. The root is Abraham. When the Jews, the natural branches, were broken off by unbelief, the Gentile Christians, not natural branches, not of the seed of Abraham, but wild olive, "were grafted in"—that is, were adopted into God's family and became Abraham's children by faith.

Brother McQuiddy: Please tell what is the unpardonable sin mentioned (1) in Matt. 12: 31, 32 and (2) in 1 John 5: 16. Can we commit the unpardonable sin to-day, or do something that will never be forgiven in this world, no matter what we may do to make things right and save ourselves? X.

(1) Matt. 12: 31, 32 reads: "Therefore I say unto you, Every sin and blasphemy shall be forgiven unto men; but the blasphemy against the Spirit shall not be forgiven. And whosoever shall speak a word against the Son of man, it shall be forgiven him; but whosoever shall speak against the Holy Spirit, it shall not be forgiven him, neither in this world, nor in that which is to come." I have always inclined to the view that the sin against the Holy Spirit is not any specific sin, but that a man may persist in refusing to accept the Spirit's teaching until there is no pardon for him. Those who turn away from and reject the salvation offered through the Spirit shall not be forgiven, neither in this world, nor in that which is to come. Adam Clarke and others hold that it is a specific sin. Clarke comments as follows on this passage: "Even personal reproaches, revilings, persecutions against Christ, were remissible; but blasphemy, or impious speaking against the Holy Spirit, was to have no forgiveness—that is, when the person obstinately attributed those works to the devil, which he had the fullest evidence could be wrought only by the Spirit of God. That this, and nothing else, is the sin against the Holy Spirit, is evident from the connection in this place, and more particularly from Mark 3: 28-30: 'All sins shall be forgiven unto the sons of men, and blasphemies wherewith soever they shall blaspheme; but he that shall blaspheme against the Holy Ghost hath never forgiveness, but is in danger of eternal damnation; because they said, He hath an unclean spirit.' Here the matter is made clear beyond the smallest doubt—the unpardonable sin, as some term it, is neither less nor more than ascribing the miracles Christ wrought, by the power of God, to the spirit of the devil. Many sincere people have been grievously troubled with apprehensions that they had committed the unpardonable sin; but let it be observed that no man who believes the divine mission of Jesus Christ ever can commit this sin; therefore let no man's heart fail because of it, from henceforth and forever. Amen." (2) Read 1 John 5: 16, 17: "If any man see his brother sinning a sin not unto death, he shall ask, and God will give him life for them that sin not unto death. There is a sin unto death: not concerning this do I say that he should make request." This passage is very difficult of interpretation. I am not certain as to its meaning, but I am sure this "sin not unto death" is not the sin against the Holy Spirit. It is clear that there is a sin unto death and one not unto death. The sin described in Heb. 6: 4-6 is evidently unto death; that described in Gal. 6: 1 is one not unto death. In the latter case sinners can be restored, and we may pray for them with the assurance that they will be. Any sin persisted in will be a sin unto death, and we should not pray for a sinner to be forgiven so long as he persists in disobedience.

Brother McQuiddy: (1) If "unto" in Rom. 10: 10; Acts 11: 18; and Acts 2: 38 is "for," in order to, what does it mean in Matt. 3: 11? Was John baptizing people in order that they might repent? (2) Please harmonize 1 John 1: 8-10 with 1 John 3: 9. J. OSCAR PAISLEY.

(1) The Greek preposition "eis" occurs in Matt. 3: 11, as well as in Acts 2: 38; 11: 18; and Rom. 10: 10. In all these passages "eis" looks forward, and not backward. The preposition "eis" is never used to express the idea that one thing is done because of another having been done. It is not true that John baptized persons because of their repentance; for while it is true that repentance did precede the baptism, it was not because of this that they were baptized; but baptism had its own specific object, and because of this object it was performed. The preposition is expressive of purpose, and the phrase is properly rendered "unto repentance." The baptism was not unto the repentance of the party baptized, but unto the repentance of others yet to be baptized. A baptism that demanded repentance as a prerequisite would lead others to repent, that they might be baptized and enjoy the blessings of baptism. Premiums are given in business in order to faithful service and good results, although the faithful service must precede the reception of the premiums. Promotions in business are unto diligence, yet the diligence must appear before the promotion can take place. In the same way was John's baptism unto repentance. The priceless blessing of remission of sins being attached to baptism (see Mark 1: 4; Luke 3: 3), the desire to obtain this blessing would prompt those yet unbaptized to repent, so that they might be baptized. The general purpose of John's baptism was to lead the people to repentance. (2) "If we say that we have no sin, we deceive ourselves, and the truth is not in us. If we confess our sins, he is faithful and righteous to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness." (1 John 1: 8, 9.) "Whosoever is begotten of God doeth no sin, because his seed abideth in him: and he cannot sin, because he is begotten of God." (1 John 3: 9.) The thought of the latter verse is that the child of God cannot consistently sin; he does not lead a life of sin. The spirit begotten of God, the new creation, does not sin and cannot sin and remain a child of God; but sometimes the old nature revives and for a moment exerts its power.

The Time is Short.

I sometimes feel the thread of life is slender
And soon with me the labor will be wrought.
Then grows my heart to other hearts more tender—
The time,
The time is short.

Up, up, my soul, the long-spent time redeeming,
Sow thou the seeds of better deed and thought;
Light other lamps while yet thy light is beaming—
The time,
The time is short.

—Hezekiah Butterworth.

AT HOME AND ABROAD

Compiled by A. B. Lipscomb

J. B. Nelson is in a meeting at Coalgate, Okla.

From G. Dallas Smith, Murfreesboro, Tenn.: "I closed a meeting at Columbia on Sunday night. We had good crowds and good interest throughout. There were six baptisms. Brother Brewer began a meeting at Murfreesboro on Sunday."

J. H. Copeland writes from Bunnell, Fla.: "A. L. Colson preached here several nights recently. The weather was bad and the interest poor; so he went out to a little schoolhouse, where we had a Bible study started, and preached nine sermons, baptizing seven. We now have a church of ten persons."

Thomas J. Bonner writes from Wimer, Okla.: "I am endeavoring to garner some wheat in this white field. Not a single congregation in this (Nowata) county. It is a hard place to do permanent work. Only a few members here. I shall be here two weeks. Good interest for this restless element. We pray for good results."

A. W. Young, of Gainesville, Texas, writes: "I closed a meeting at Clarita, Okla., on April 30. Seven were baptized and two restored. All are prominent people. I am to hold the first services in the new meetinghouse at Fargo, Texas, on the second Sunday in May, and begin a meeting at Georgetown on the third Lord's day in May, to continue until June 3."

The churches who desire to attend the reunion of the three oldest congregations in Davidson County, to be held at the Fanning Orphan School on May 19, should notify R. V. Cawthon, Mount Juliet, Tenn., at once. An excellent program has been arranged, including an address by T. B. Larimore. Brother Sewell hopes to be present. Dinner will be served on the ground. All Christians in Nashville, in Davidson and adjoining counties, are urged to be present. A good time is assured.

A. O. Colley writes from Shreveport, La.: "I am now entering into the second week of the Shreveport meeting. It has been one of interest to me from the beginning. B. U. Baldwin lives here, and, though a young preacher, he is doing a fine work. This meeting was made possible by the Southside Church, of Fort Worth. The brethren here are noble, hard-working, and self-sacrificing. They have about closed a deal for a good lot and will begin to build at once. They need much help and encouragement."

Old friends and new will be interested in the commencement-week calendar at the Nashville Bible School: Graduate Recital in Expression, 8 P.M., May 10; Music Recital, 8 P.M., May 11; Expression Recital, 8 P.M., May 12; Kappa Nu Society, 8 P.M., May 13; Commencement Sermon, A. B. Lipscomb, 11 A. M., May 14; Lipscomb Literary Society, 8 P.M., May 15; Sapphonian Literary Society, 8 P.M., May 16; Alumni Association, 10 A.M., May 17; Art Exhibit, 4 P.M., May 17; Calliopean Literary Society, 8 P.M., May 17; Commencement Exercises, 10 A.M., May 18.

H. W. Wrye writes from Mount Pleasant, Tenn.: "The Mount Pleasant Church will have an all-day singing, some preaching, and dinner, the third Sunday in May. The best singers in the congregations of Maury, Marshall, Hickman, and Lawrence counties will assemble together with the Mount Pleasant congregation and will admonish one another in spiritual songs, singing with grace in their hearts to the Lord. An old-fashioned country invitation is extended, with the assurance of an extravagant Mount Pleasant welcome to all who attend. A committee will meet the trains to care for the visitors."

Good reports come from all the Nashville meetings. On Monday R. V. Cawthon reported twenty-six baptisms at Green Street; S. P. Pittman reported six baptisms at Joe Johnston Avenue; S. H. Hall reported six baptisms at Reid Avenue; C. M. Pullias reported three baptisms at Lawrence Avenue. C. E. Wooldridge began a meeting on Sunday at Foster Street and T. Q. Martin at Twelfth Avenue. As I write these lines there are six meetings in progress in this city, with overflowing audiences at all. It seems that the Nashville Christians never tire of hearing and spreading the simple gospel. On next Sunday Brother Cawthon will transfer his activities to Flat Rock, where he will begin a meeting. We had two confessions at Russell Street on Sunday at regular service.

J. C. Estes, 401 Montreal Avenue, Dallas, Texas, sends us an urgent appeal for a tent to be used in mission work in that city. He gladly offers to give one month of his time this year, provided the tent is secured. Read his note, which is self-explanatory: "While the privilege of making calls through our good papers is sometimes abused, this will not excuse us from helping in all good calls we can. Many of us can do much more than we are sometimes willing to say we can. There is much in store for all who will, from a ready mind, a willing heart, help spread the gospel. Some of us are willing to give a part of our efforts and time in preaching the gospel where it is not established, if you will furnish the means to get a tent under which to do so. Many brethren make above a living every week more than enough to pay for a good tent. I am willing to give one month of my time this year trying to establish the cause of Christ where it is not yet established. Are you willing to help furnish a tent? Are you willing thus to help establish the cause of our Lord? Will you send us this help at once?"

It is indeed a pleasure to receive a personal note from T. W. Phillips, who has recently undergone much physical suffering, but has through it all manifested a hopeful spirit regarding himself and a very appreciative spirit toward God and his brethren for certain acts of kindness which they were more than glad to bestow for Jesus' sake. Following is his latest message: "I desire to say in the dear old Gospel Advocate, to my host of good and tried friends, that I am now at home again, and at this writing I am sitting in a big swing out on my front porch. I can again walk on my crutches and cane, and am confident of my early complete recovery. I owe all of this marvelous success to the God of our fathers, who hears the prayers of his humble children. Many were the Christians who prayed especially for my recovery. A number of the churches of Christ in Texas and Oklahoma held special prayer services in my behalf. Dozens of the truest, godlike men—preachers—such as John E. Dunn, J. S. Dunn, A. J. McCarty, W. F. Ledlow, A. O. Colley, W. M. Davis, W. T. Kidwill, and others—prayed for me; and these and the greatest surgeon in the land, Charles H. Harris, have been instrumental in the hands of an all-wise Creator to minister to me. Heaven must repay all of these, for I cannot. Thirty days from date, I confidently believe, I will be back in the great evangelistic field at work again. Each day brings marked improvement in my strength; and those who know the condition I have been in and the seriousness of the operation I underwent agree with me that only the providences of God could have blessed me with such marvelous improvement. I should like to write a personal letter to all who have so kindly remembered me, but shall hope that all interested ones may see this and receive it as if it had been a personal letter." Brother Phillips closes his message with these words: "Faithfully, gratefully, and affectionately, yours in the fullness of confidence in Him whom we serve." His address is 1000 South Adams Street, Fort Worth, Texas.

WHEN RUN DOWN

Hood's Sarsaparilla, the Reliable Tonic Medicine, Builds Up.

The reason why you feel so tired all the time at this season is that your blood is impure and impoverished. It lacks vitality. It is not the rich red blood that gives life to the whole body, perfects digestion and enables all the organs to perform their functions as they should.

Get Hood's Sarsaparilla from any druggist. It will make you feel better, look better, eat and sleep better. It is the old reliable tried and true all-the-year-round blood purifier and enricher, tonic and appetizer. It revitalizes the blood, and is especially useful in building up the debilitated and run-down.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is helping thousands at this time of year. Let it help you. Get a bottle today and begin taking it at once. Be sure to get Hood's. Nothing else acts like it.

Notes from West Tennessee.

BY JOHN E. WILLIAMS.

Last Lord's day and night (April 30) I preached for the congregation at Glady Hill. I am glad to say that the congregation is in excellent condition and doing a good work for the Lord. In a few days they will begin painting the house and getting everything in readiness (even a place to do the baptizing) for the camp meeting which is to begin on the second Lord's day in July. In building their house, they received assistance from congregations and individuals, and they requested me to express their appreciation and gratitude to one and all with a hearty "God bless you," and pray that each and all may accept this in the same spirit in which it is given. There are congregations in Obion County that have assisted in establishing a congregation at Glady Hill and in erecting the house that do not know what they have done. Certainly, if they could see that happy and harmonious congregation, they would rejoice in having fellowship in such work. In Lake and Obion counties there are other congregations established with houses built that are just as happy and harmonious as the Glady Hill congregation, and deserve great praise for what they have done and are doing; but the last was established and the house erected when it was said by so many that such a thing was impossible. "What in the world is Williams pitching his tent here for?" "He can't do any good here." When we spoke of building the house, it was said: "That little squad of Campbellites are not able to build a chicken coop." When the house was erected, they said: "They can never pay for it; it will have to be sold." But it was not sold. Good brethren and congregations lent a helping hand, and now all is paid except one hundred and eight dollars, and that is not due till next January, and will be paid without calling for assistance from others.

I shall enter no new field this year, but shall stay with and cultivate that which we have already sown, trying to add to them and build them up in "the faith."

From present indications I see no reason why there should not be a large ingathering of precious souls in West Tennessee during 1916. Everything looks good to me. To the congregations where I am booked for meetings this year I would say: Go to work now in getting everything ready. Have your meetinghouse well lighted, and have plenty of song books—not for the children to play with, but for the people who can sing. If possible, select or prepare a baptizing place somewhat under five miles from the meetinghouse. Get your business arranged so you can attend each service. Remember, the effort is to save souls—not to talk of wars, crops, elections, baseball, or even politics, but to save the unsaved. So talk to your neighbors and friends and try to get them to go out and hear the preaching. So talk it up, work it up, attend it up, pray it up, sing it up, back it up, and live it up, and the dear Lord will abundantly bless us with a rich harvest of golden sheaves. Will you try it?

Subscribe for the Gospel Advocate and read of the many great meetings that will be reported in it. You cannot afford to do without it.

Big Deal on Sterling Hose.

Big purchase direct from the mills on "Sterling" Half Hose enables us to offer them while they last at startling prices.

"Sterling" Hose are stainless fast dye—good, clean, selected cotton yarn, nice weight, full seamless double heel and toe, wide elastic instep, long loop-on elastic ribbed top, full standard lengths; come in any color wanted; one dozen to a box, solid sizes, 9 to 11.

Sent, postpaid, to any address in the United States for $1.40 per dozen. Money cheerfully refunded if not delighted. These hose are sold for and are worth 20 to 25 cents a pair in many places. Order to-day. The Bee Hive, Box F, Clinton, S. C.

MONEY IN PIGEONS

Make Your Back Yard Profitable

THE demand for squabs in the Northern, Eastern and Southern markets has never been supplied, because pigeon raising as a business is comparatively new. Buy a half dozen pair of select birds, fence in a small portion of your back yard and watch them go to work. Success is easy. They raise from eight to fifteen pairs of squabs a year. Your squabs and fancy birds will bring handsome returns. You will actually make money in a hitherto useless part of your back yard. Pigeon raising is not a fad or fancy. It is a profitable business. Let us start you right. Our breeders are the best, and raised from prize winning parents. We will furnish you with the birds and teach you how to raise them, and you will reap a handsome profit with a very little outlay. Thousands are taking advantage of this same opportunity. Write to-day for our literature on pigeon raising as a money making proposition, or better still, write us to send you a few pair of Belgian Carneaux at $3.00 per pair, White Swiss Mondaines at $5.00 per pair, White Kings at $3.50 per pair, or White Maltese at $4.00 per pair. Our birds are all guaranteed. Your money back if after two months you are not satisfied with their work. Better prices on larger orders. Write to-day and get the pick of the flock.

CAROLINA PIGEON PLANT,
Pen Series G— CLINTON, S. C.

WINTERSMITH'S CHILL TONIC

Sold for 47 years. For Malaria, Chills & Fever. Also a Fine General Strengthening Tonic.

50c and $1.00 at all Drug Stores.

AFTER SIX YEARS OF SUFFERING

Woman Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Columbus, Ohio.—"I had almost given up. I had been sick for six years with female troubles and nervousness. I had a pain in my right side and could not eat anything without hurting my stomach. I could not drink cold water at all nor eat any kind of raw fruit, nor fresh meat nor chicken. From 173 pounds I went to 118 and would get so weak at times that I fell over. I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and ten days later I could eat and it did not hurt my stomach. I have taken the medicine ever since and I feel like a new woman. I now weigh 127 pounds; so you can see what it has done for me already. My husband says he knows your medicine has saved my life."—Mrs. J. S. BARLOW, 1624 South 4th St., Columbus, Ohio.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound contains just the virtues of roots and herbs needed to restore health and strength to the weakened organs of the body. That is why Mrs. Barlow, a chronic invalid, recovered so completely.

It pays for women suffering from any female ailments to insist upon having Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

In the Early Stages of Tuberculosis

Your chances for defeating this dreaded affection depend largely on your ability to restore normal body functions.

To do this, one requirement is proper attention to diet and pure food. Also rest and fresh air, day and night.

Where the system is run down and likelihood of serious consequences thus increased, Eckman's Alternative may prove beneficial, as it has in many cases.

This is a lime treatment—but unlike any other. For here the lime content is so combined with other ingredients as to be easily assimilated by the average person.

A trial can do no harm, since Eckman's Alternative contains no poisonous or habit-forming drugs. Sold by leading druggists or sent direct. Booklet containing information of value and references sent upon request.

ECKMAN LABORATORY
23 N. Seventh St. Philadelphia

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM
A toilet preparation of merit. Helps to eradicate dandruff. For Restoring Color and Beauty to Gray or Faded Hair. 50c. and $1.00 at Druggists.

HINDERCORNS Removes Corns, Callouses, etc., stops all pain, ensures comfort to the feet, makes walking easy. Use by mail or at Druggists. Hineox Chemical Works, Patchogue, N. Y.

MACEDONIAN CALLS

In Behalf of the Church at Jonesboro, Tenn.

There is much need for the church at Jonesboro. I will give some facts regarding the condition of the church and let the brethren see why this appeal is sent.

I came here last fall and found a few members meeting every Lord's day and having Sunday school, but not taking the Lord's Supper. The members said they had been observing the Supper only three or four times a year.

The building where we meet is an old one, having been built, I would think, forty or fifty years ago, and having had no repairs until about four or five years ago. For a number of years the church here was dead. 1909, I believe, about a dozen members began meeting, and had a preacher to come and hold a meeting which resulted in eight or nine additions. The next two years they managed to have meetings, with about forty-nine additions, most of them young people. It has now been three years since a meeting was held here. The members, being young and not having been taught aright, have not grown much in faith. Lately the church has had concrete steps and a walk made in front of the building and the walls of the house painted. We are now working to get the house ceiled, broken window lights in, and a carpet for the aisle and pulpit. We are also working to have a preacher come and hold a three-weeks' meeting this summer.

With the exception of two or three, we are not able, financially, to do anything; and those who are able are not willing to help as much as they can. We cannot get them to meet regularly with us. If we can raise two hundred dollars, we can repair the house and have the meeting this summer. We are taking the Lord's Supper every Sunday now; and if we can have a preacher come and work faithfully with us a while this summer, I think there will be lots of good done.

Brethren, help us in the Lord's work here. All contributions will be thankfully received and used for good, and God will be given the praise. Send to Mrs. Arline H. Mason, Box 70, Jonesboro, Tenn.

In Behalf of the Church at Delrose, Tenn.

"Come over, . . . and help us." We are needy financially and spiritually. While we realize that there are many other destitute and needy causes to help, we know that ours is a worthy call, too.

This little town of Delrose is a good and worthy field to reap a good harvest for the Master's vineyard. It means work, too, for each of us. There are eight loyal members here. We met to worship from house to house from last fall until the first of this year. Since that time we have met at the Junior Order hall and have a little Sunday school in connection with the worship. Visibly our progress is slow, being without a preaching brother.

There has never been but one gospel

Experience is the Best Teacher of All.

"The proof of the pudding is in the eating." One is far more apt to believe a man who tells what he has done than a man who tells what he could do. So it is with medicine. The real proof of the merits of Dr. Miles' Restorative Remedies lies in the fact that they have been used beneficially for over a quarter of a century, and thousands have actually testified to benefits they have received.

We know that Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills will relieve all aches and pains, because thousands have found this to be proven by actual experience.

The Rev. W. D. Barger, of Hagerstown, Md., has stated: "Voluntarily and unsolicited, I wish to bear witness to the high character of Dr. Miles' Restorative Remedies. To me personally they have been a great blessing, especially the Nervine, the Anti-Pain Pills, and the Liver Pills. In cases of headaches or pain of any kind they act like a charm. I have given many of them to the suffering, and the results have always proven gratifying."

Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills have no unpleasant after effect. They are not constipating; they do not contain any of the dangerous habit-forming drugs. We do not claim that they remove the cause of the pain, but we do claim that they bring quick relief in a harmless manner.

They are sold by all druggists at twenty-five cents a box, containing twenty-five doses. If not satisfactory, your money will be cheerfully returned.

MILES MEDICAL COMPANY, Elkhart, Ind.

Piles Cured at Home by New Absorption Method.

If you suffer from bleeding, itching, blind, or protruding piles, send me your address, and I will tell you how to cure yourself at home by the new absorption treatment; and will also send some of this home treatment free for trial, with references from your own locality, if requested. Users report immediate relief and speedy cure. Send no money, but tell others of this offer. Write to-day to Mrs. M. Summers, Box 195, South Bend, Ind.

FIRM FOUNDATION An eight-page weekly religious paper devoted to the restoration of primitive Christianity. Contains church news; an able corps of writers; extensively circulated. Subscription price, $1 a year, payable in advance. Special rates for clubs. We believe every loyal Christian should have the Firm Foundation in his home.

FIRM FOUNDATION PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Austin, Texas.

DROSY TREATED, usually gives quick relief, soon removes swelling and short breath, often gives entire relief in 15 to 25 days. Trial treatment sent free.
DR. THOMAS E. GREEN Successor to
DR. H. H. GREENS SONS, Box 11, Chatsworth, Ga.

Subscribe for the Bible Study Helper. Sixty cents per year.

sermon preached here. Brother J. W. Brents, of Missouri, was here last fall to visit his sister. He made a splendid talk the night he was here, but had only a small hearing. The Methodists have had the field here altogether for years. They have recently erected a five-thousand-dollar church here. The building of the church in some way has caused much division and strife among the members.

I asked one woman if she was satisfied with being a Methodist. She said that she didn't know, as she had lived here since a little child and had never heard anything else preached, except a few Presbyterian sermons. There are, doubtless, many others here who are in the same class.

We need a preaching brother with us. We have had promised two meetings some time during the summer; but we need preaching now, and we would be very grateful if some congregation would send us a preacher for one sermon or for a week (or more) right away. Or if some preacher could give us his services for regular appointments, we would do our very best by him.

Delrose would be a good location for a brother who desires a change of his business location, and a greater work for the Master's cause is open to him also. Delrose is an old farming village situated on the Lewisburg and Northern Railroad; but since this railroad has been completed, the town has made fairly good progress, with a number of new business enterprises and a few new residences and others to be erected soon. Delrose is in Lincoln County, about halfway between Pulaski and Fayetteville, twenty-six miles south of Lewisburg and twenty-six miles north of Athens, Ala. Much business is done here, considering the population, and there are still other openings for business. Delrose is a good place to live in, with lots of friendly people.

A real estate man here says he will give us a desirable lot on which to build a church house. We are not able to do much without help from the other churches. We would like to erect a good, substantial, and comfortable house before fall, if possible. We would like to hear from individuals and congregations as to how much they can subscribe toward our new building.

Brethren, pray for us, that we may stand steadfast in the apostles' doctrine, that our lights may shine afar, and that the gospel of Christ may be told to the people of Delrose in its fullness and completeness without fear or favor, as we know that "God is no respecter of persons." May we help produce strong and steadfast preachers like Paul. May our weaker ones become stronger in the faith and in the power of His might, preaching the gospel as Brother Joe McPherson expresses it, "word for word and dot for dot" which is the only safe and sure way to declare "the whole counsel of God."

Any further information will be gladly given any one desiring to know more of our members or the country. (Mrs.) MAUDE BURKHARDT SARVER.

In Behalf of the Church at Atmore, Ala.

I promised the brethren at Atmore, Ala., to present their present and ur-

Any time is the right time for a glass of

Coca-Cola

Morning, noon, or night—for a thirst-quencher, or just for a delicious healthful beverage—you will find a new pleasure in every refreshing glass.

THE COCA-COLA CO.
Atlanta, Ga.

9c Demand the genuine by full name—nicknames encourage substitution.

Get Your Machine at Half Price

$12⁹⁵

Five dollars brings you this high quality sewing machine, freight prepaid. Give it a thorough thirty-day trial; if you are entirely satisfied, pay for it in three monthly installments. If after thirty days you don't think it is the equal of any machine regularly sold at double the price, send the machine back; we pay the freight and return your money. This, in a nut-shell, is the big money-saving plan of the Religious Press Co-Operative Club.

Get our catalogue and investigate fully the six splendid bargains in high-grade sewing machines offered you under these terms. These machines are all fully warranted for ten years—during this period we replace free any defective parts. Prices range from $12.95 to $27.50. Not "cheap" machines, but absolutely the best that can be manufactured at the price—machines that you would have to pay twice as much for from agents or at retail stores. They are all sold under the same plan—

Easy Terms—Thirty Days Trial

The Club represents the co-operative plan of buying. By agreeing to sell a large number of these machines, we secured from a highly reputable manufacturer prices very little above actual cost. In buying from us you get your machine at carload-lot prices, plus the very light expense of operating the Club. All middlemen's profits, agents' commissions, salaries, etc., are saved.

Send us this Coupon Today and get our catalogue. Let us tell you more fully about the Club Plan. Investigate the superb, easy-running, guaranteed machines that you can buy under this plan at half usual prices and on easy terms. Remember the thirty day trial feature. Simply cut out this coupon, write in your name and address and mail to us.

Religious Press Co-Operative Club
113 W. Carolina Ave., Clinton, S. C.

FREE CATALOGUE COUPON

Religious Press Co-Operative Club
113 W. Carolina Ave., Clinton, S. C.
Please send me your catalogue, and show me how I can save half the purchase price on a high quality sewing machine through the Co-Operative Club Plan.

Name _____
Address _____

gent need before the church of Christ at large, and to do this I must appeal to them through the press. First, I call your attention briefly to the situation without reflection upon sect discouragements. They have a lot, beautifully situated, on which they hope to build in the near future. There are but two zealous brethren there as heads of families and some four or five sisters representing other families. One of these brethren moved there recently and went into a promising business. By the end of twelve or eighteen months he will be able to help much, if prospered. He says he will build the house himself if he becomes able. The other brother is equally zealous, but at present has his home unpaid for. It is a beautiful one, second from the corner opposite the church lot. He has two years to redeem it as a result of foreclosure. He will lose his home and his investment in it rather than lose the church lot and the hope of the cause at this place. But he is

IN THE MORNING

If You Awake Feeling "All Gone" It Is Likely Due to Chronic Bowel Disorder, Constipation

Physicians everywhere are recommending JACOBS' LIVER SALT as a safe and effective means of securing regular movements of the bowels when the patient is inclined to costiveness.

This treatment is successful because JACOBS' LIVER SALT is a liver stimulant and contains nature's sulphates and phosphates required in the digestive juices to digest food and regulate the stomach.

JACOBS' LIVER SALT is a pure, sparkling salt made after the formula of the waters from the famous springs of Europe. Price, 25 cents and 50 cents at druggists', or direct from the makers, JACOBS' PHARMACY, Atlanta.

PARADISE OF PRAISE.

A new song book. New, popular, standard songs and hymns that please—the very best for Sunday schools, religious meetings, etc. Don't miss it. Both notations.

Price, 35 cents; dozen, $3.50.

Special.—Sample copy, 20 cents. Will include a free copy of "Temperance Trumpeter" or a "Civic Betterment Rally Song;" state which.

Address
HILDEBRAND-BURNETT COMPANY,
Basis, Va.

"Special" Silk Hose Offer.

To introduce the beautiful "La France" silk hose for ladies and gentlemen, we offer three pairs, 50-cent quality, for only one dollar, postpaid, in the United States. Pure silk from calf to toe, with durable elastic lisle top, heel, and toe for long wear. Sizes, 8 to 10½. In white, tan, or black, assorted if desired. Money back promptly if not delighted. La France Silk Store, Box G, Clinton, S. C.

GOSPEL ADVOCATE

AND

HOME AND FARM

$1.75 FOR ONE YEAR

For thirty-six years Home and Farm has been the leading farm paper in Kentucky, the South and Southwest. To-day it is stronger and better than ever and is of great value to every farmer.

The Gospel Advocate and Home and Farm have been clubbed for several years with much satisfaction and profit to our readers. We furnish the two papers for one year for $1.75 to new subscribers or renewals.

Gospel Advocate Publishing Company,
NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE

determined to save both if so favored by the providence of God. The sum of one hundred and thirty-one dollars is needed at once to finish paying for the lot and cost of laying water line and sewerage by the city. If some one or more will help them lift this incumbrance, it will encourage them much to press on in the interest of their homes and the cause of the Master. Send your liberality to Brother Clarence S. Bowman, Atmore, Ala., giving the name of the paper in which you read the appeal for help. Brother Bowman works from twelve to eighteen hours per day, and, to save time, will report to you through the paper you mention. A. B. BLAZER.

In Behalf of the Church at Temple, Texas.

In the latter part of February we made an appeal to the churches of Christ to help us. We hoped for this to have been published in the Gospel Advocate before March 1, but it reached the publishers too late, and hence did not come out until the issue of March 1. We were enabled, however, to meet our indebtedness due on this date through the liberality of one of our members who made us a loan for six months. This must be paid, and any assistance that may be rendered now will be just as acceptable and as much appreciated as it would have been had it come in response to our first appeal.

We wish to acknowledge receipt of one dollar sent us from a sister in Frost, Texas. She did not give her name, hence we take this method of acknowledging receipt. Her letter was read in the presence of our little congregation, and we were very much moved by the sentiment expressed in it. Our burden was made lighter by that much. We pray God's blessings on her.

[Signed] W. W. Jacob, W. B. Newby, elders church of Christ, Temple, Texas.

R. C. Roy writes from Beedeville, Ark.:

I wish to make an appeal through the Gospel Advocate for help to buy a tent to be used by Brother Z. D. Barber. He has been working for two years in a mercantile establishment here, but has resigned his position, to take effect on July 1, at which time he expects to take up preaching again. He has some meetings to hold this summer where a tent is needed. I am sure much good can be accomplished with a tent. Money may be sent direct to Z. D. Barber, Beedeville, Ark. Brother Barber is well known in this section and any of our loyal preachers will recommend him. If references are wanted, just write to Joe Blue, Morrilton, Ark.; O. L. Hayes, Calico Rock, Ark.; or J. B. Lashlee, Ravenden Springs, Ark.

From J. H. Rogers, at Stephens, Ark.:

We often talk of the heathen. We have them here around us. I can drive in three hours to people that never heard a gospel sermon. If the brethren and sisters at large will help me to buy a horse and buggy, they will do a good missionary work. I am, as most preachers are, poor in purse and cannot buy one myself. I have calls to preach, and cannot go because I have no way to get there. I have a crippled foot and cannot walk much. I could do a lot of mission work if I had a way to get to my appointments. Send all donations to J. H. Rogers, Stephens, Ark., Route 3, or to J. N. Hudiburgh, Stephens, Ark., Box 111. (Brother Hudiburgh is elder of the Stephens congregation.)

Robert Sweeney writes from Decherd, Tenn.:

This is to let the brethren everywhere know that we are still in the land of the living and trying to worship God according to the written word. We have just received word from Coalmont that work on the meetinghouse had been begun and the framework was up, but the wind blew it away, and the members of the congregation there are greatly discouraged. Brother R. E. L. Taylor, a loyal and earnest preacher of the gospel, started this congregation and established the cause of Christ at that place last year at a great sacrifice. Now, if any one wishes to help the little band of disciples at Coalmont, in rebuilding their house of worship, it will be greatly appreciated by them and also by Brother Taylor, who is striving to establish the cause everywhere he can. So let us all get busy and see to it that the cause shall not be hindered anywhere; but let us be up, with our lamps trimmed and burning, ever "looking unto Jesus the author and finisher of our faith," so that when he comes again we can all have a home eternal in the heavens and remain with Christ throughout the ceaseless ages to come.

Gray Hairs mean that your hair is not receiving proper attention, and yet a gray hair will do more to make you look old than anything else. Rid yourself of an aged appearance by giving the hair correct treatment and proper food. There can be no life without food; and unless you give your hair the proper attention, you cannot expect it to retain its luster and beauty. Use "La Creole," the best of all hair dressings, and see your gray hairs disappear. This dressing was discovered by the Creoles, of Louisiana, many years ago, who were famous for their beautiful hair. Since then it has worked wonders, banishing gray hairs and restoring the hair to its original luster. As a hair dressing it has no equal, keeping the scalp in a clean, healthy condition. It has stood the test for over fifty years. Do not use strong alkaline soaps, as they do more damage than good. Use "La Creole" hair dressing, the natural preservative. For sale by all dealers. Price, $1. Manufactured by Van Vleet-Mansfield Drug Company, Memphis, Tenn.

Never did there exist a full faith in the divine word which did not expand the intellect while it purified the heart.—The Young People.

The Master's Vineyard

Canada.

Winnipeg, Manitoba, May 1.—I recently closed a two-weeks' meeting with the church on Sherbrooke Street, this city. Two precious souls—a mother and her daughter—were baptized into Christ. I shall leave tomorrow for Kentucky. W. F. NEAL.

Florida.

Inverness, May 3.—Sunday was a very busy day. I preached three times and baptized three persons. Sunday night marked the close of a successful meeting of eleven days' duration at Riverland. To-day I am celebrating the twenty-first anniversary of my birth. J. PAUL KIMBRELL.

Tennessee.

Estill Springs, May 1.—I am now in a meeting at this place. We have had large and attentive audiences from the beginning of the meeting. The meeting is eight days old, but there have been no visible results. Brother E. G. Collins, of Huntland, is conducting the song service. The meeting will close on Friday night, and I will begin a meeting at Knoxville next Sunday. E. M. BORDEN.

Huntland, May 2.—On the first Lord's day in April I had the pleasure of being with the Little Mountain Church, near Winchester. I also spoke at Winchester in the forenoon. On the second and third Lord's days I was at the regular appointments—Shady Grove, Cany Hollow, and Lexie. On the third Lord's day it was my pleasure to perform the marriage ceremony of Mr. Obie Collins and Miss Mabel Cashion. On the fourth Lord's day I was with the brethren again at Center Ridge, in Lincoln County. E. GASTON COLLINS.

Lebanon, May 4.—I returned two days ago from McMinville, where I preached two discourses last Lord's day to good and attentive audiences and baptized two boys at the evening service. This was to me a very enjoyable visit, for it afforded me the pleasure of meeting with old school-mates and old friends again. I shall leave for the West the latter part of this month for some meetings in Oklahoma and Texas. The first meeting will be at Elk City, Okla., beginning on the fourth Lord's day in May. I shall be in the West about two months. GEORGE W. FARMER.

Decherd, May 1.—I visited my old home congregation at Bean's Creek, in Coffee County, last Lord's day, and preached to a large crowd. The brethren, not knowing that I was going to visit them, had made no appointment; but they held me over until Thursday night, and I preached six sermons, with two baptisms. The church was very much edified. We closed with a large crowd and good interest. This is the home of Brother F. M. Womack, who is now nearing his eighty-third milepost in the journey of life. My wife was with me. We visited old Brother William Dickens and wife and had a very pleasant visit. Brother Dickens and wife and Brother Womack and wife have held the congregation together. They have met there many a time alone to worship the Lord. Their seats are all vacant now on account of old age, but they love to hear of the gospel's being preached to those that are hungering and thirsting for it.

R. E. L. TAYLOR.

Texas.

San Angelo, April 14.—We enjoyed two splendid discourses from Brother John Straiton, of Fort Worth, last Lord's day. Brother Straiton is an able gospel preacher with a very pleasing delivery. Our meeting begins on the fifth Sunday in this month, with Brother Ledlow assisting.

JEWELL MATTHEWS.

Sherman, April 18.—We are in the midst of a good meeting here. The people have "a mind to work." I have not seen more genuine enthusiasm in a meeting in some time. Brother R. D. Smith is a true yoke-fellow. He seems to have the work here well in hand. When we are through here, he will help us in a meeting at Cleburne. How can a workman be idle when there are so many calls for laborers?

F. L. YOUNG.

Purity Gives Power.

There are still many persons in the world that need to be impressed with the fact that the purer the blood is, the greater is the power of the system to remove disease and the less the liability to contract it. Persons whose blood is in good condition are much less likely to take cold or to be long troubled with it or to catch any contagious or infectious disease than are those whose blood is impure and, therefore, impoverished and lacking in vitality. The best medicine for purifying the blood is Hood's Sarsaparilla; and persons suffering from any blood disease or any want of tone in the system are urged to give this medicine a trial. It is especially useful at this time of year.

Sherman, April 25.—Brother F. L. Young has just closed what we think was one of the best meetings we have had with the church in Sherman. Brother Young is a man of tender heart, yet he does not shun to declare "the whole counsel of God," and has no patience with speculating. His preaching was with power, and we feel that the church here is fortunate in having had him. Five took membership, one was reclaimed, and one was baptized. R. D. SMITH.

Whenever You Need a General Tonic Take Grove's

The Old Standard Grove's Tasteless chill Tonic is equally valuable as a General Tonic because it contains the well known tonic properties of QUININE and IRON. It acts on the Liver, Drives out Malaria, Enriches the Blood and Builds up the Whole System. 50 cents.

EVILS OF SOCIALISM.

By W. F. Lemmons.

A most popular book, full of startling facts and sensational disclosures:

1. A System of Infidelity and Darwinism.
2. Socialists' Attitude Toward Religion.
3. It Claims to Be Primitive Christianity.
4. A System of Free Love.
 - (a) The above points vindicated by recent publications.
 - (b) As shown by "woman under socialism."
 - (c) As shown by a "socialist wedding."
5. Socialism Borders on Anarchy.
6. It Proposes to Come into Power by Force of Arms.
7. It Is Opposed to Our Flag.
8. It Is Wrong in the Very Nature of Things.
9. God Intended that His People Should be Capitalists.
10. Communion of Nations Is Condemned of the Lord.
11. Socialists Are a Set of Calamity Howlers and Complainers.
12. They Curse Our Rulers in Open Violation of God's Law.
13. They Are Wrong in that They Curse the Rich.

14. They Fight Against God in Resisting the Rulers.
15. Our Relation to Civil Government Is Subjective.
16. Private Ownership.

"Can't all own a home under capitalism."
17. They Are Wrong on the Labor Question.

The Bible on the Labor Question.
18. Profit in Labor.
19. Socialists Are Idolaters.
20. Master and Servant.
21. Its Effect on the Church and the Home.
22. Socialism in the Schools.
23. Questions for Socialists.
24. A System of Social Equality.
25. Socialists Are Modern Absaloms.

Concluding remarks: "Cannot be excelled. The man who fails to read it will miss the best thing of his life. . . . Send me fifty copies." (T. B. Clark.) "Did not turn it loose till I finished it before I went to bed. . . . It is appalling." (Mrs. B. C. Newton.) appalling." (Mrs. B. C. Newton.)

Everybody, whether in favor of socialism or opposed to it, should read the book. Price, 25 cents a copy; 12 copies, $1.50.

Firm Foundation Publishing House, Austin, Texas.

FRECKLES

Now Is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freckles as the prescription othine—double strength—is guaranteed to remove these homely spots.

Simply get an ounce of othine—double strength—from your druggist, and apply a little of it night and morning, and you should soon see that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the lighter ones have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than an ounce is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a beautiful clear complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength othine as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.

OUR DIRECT FACTORY TO HOME plan saves you money.

WE PAY THE FREIGHT and ship to you any piano or player piano you select from our catalog.

25 YEARS GUARANTEE on all our pianos and player pianos.

FREE MUSIC LESSONS to all who accept our offer. Write for handsomely illustrated piano catalog and full details of our selling plan.

SCHMOLLER & MUELLER PIANO CO. Established 1893. Capital and Surplus, $1,000,000 Dept. GA Omaha, Nebraska

Send This Coupon Today

SCHMOLLER & MUELLER PIANO CO. Dept. GA Omaha, Nebraska. Send me your Piano Offer and Free Catalog.

Name..... Address

GOSPEL TENTS

Our Prices Would Interest You. Ask Us To Quote.

Fulton Bag And Cotton Mills, Atlanta, Ga.

New York, Dallas, St. Louis, New Orleans

MAKE MONEY WRITING STORY-WRITING TAUGHT By Mail

Your manuscript criticized, revised, and typed. We also sell manuscripts on commission. For more than twenty years we have specialized in this business, and we bring results. Send to-day for our free booklet, "WRITING FOR PROFIT." It tells how and gives proof. NATIONAL PRESS ASSOCIATION, Dept. H. P., Indianapolis, Ind.

Pulpit Bibles Largest assortment, finest Bibles at lowest cost. Write to us for full description and prices. PENTECOSTAL PUBLISHING CO., Inc., LOUISVILLE, KY.

Among the Colored People

Report from Corinth, Miss.

BY J. HANNON.

I am always glad to come before the readers of the Gospel Advocate that they may know that I am working all I can for the upbuilding of the Master's cause. I am glad to tell the brethren and friends of a part of my work in 1915. I visited three other congregations besides the one here at Corinth, preaching once a month at each place, and worked every day to take care of my wife and children. I failed to preach only one Lord's day in 1915; on that day we were rained out. I used to think that no man could preach the gospel of Christ and work; but I find that is a mistake, and a very bad one. I was called by a few disciples at Tishomingo to visit them once a month this year, and I am doing so. This caused me to leave the work at Spring Hill. The work at Tishomingo is badly needed and much good can be done there. We preachers should not look for feasts and easy roads. So many do not want the word of God. But we should go by the law laid down in the New Testament and declare "the whole counsel of God"—no more, no less.

More Gospel Preaching Needed.

BY M. NEEDLE.

Two years ago I took up the work of an evangelist. When I started, I found that I would have to leave everything to follow Jesus and proclaim his word. The apostle Paul exhorted Timothy not to entangle himself with the affairs of this life; and to be successful in the evangelistic work, I believe a man ought to give himself wholly to the work, and God will bless his labors. He may suffer for the necessary things of life; but the apostle Paul said that he was sometimes hungry, naked, and many other things he suffered for Christ. He says that with food and raiment we should be content.

Since I have been engaged in this noble work I have gone into homes where I was not wanted because I was a ("Campbellite") gospel preacher; but I went in and remained, and would leave peace in such homes. No one knows what a man means that preaches the gospel, save the man that does it; and he does not know, if he just goes where everything is smooth, where the work is already built up. I find no time to rest in this work. I am busy every day somewhere, preaching the gospel, for my people certainly need it.

What They All Say.

A few extracts from letters of club members will give you some idea of the many attractive features of the Gospel Advocate Piano Club and will explain why it is so popular. Here are a few samples taken from the correspondence at random:

I certainly am enjoying my piano. I couldn't have gotten any better piano in Decatur than the one I got from you if I had paid one hundred and fifty dollars more than this one cost me.—Mrs F. B.

It is a beauty, and we are delighted with it. The tone is perfect. Your club is a grand thing.—Mrs. E. P. M.

I am perfectly delighted with it; and every one that has heard it, or has played on it, says they have never heard a finer-toned one. I can observe such a vast difference between this one and others that are in this community that have been placed by agents. Every one, even those who know nothing about music, can tell the superiority of this piano over others.—Mrs. J. R.

We like it mighty well. The tone is full and clear, and the smooth and glossy finish is certainly superb. We think it much better than we could have done here for the money.—Mr. O. F. P.

The piano has come, and it is everything I could wish it to be. The tone is so soft and mellow it sounds more like a harp. The base notes are remarkably full and round; the case is specially beautiful. I am entirely delighted with it. I never saw a more perfect instrument.—Mrs. W. J. B.

Almost every letter received from club members contains similar expressions of appreciation. The advertising manager of the Gospel Advocate cordially invites you to write for your copy of the club booklet and catalogue, which explain the big saving in price, the convenient terms, the superior quality and durability of the instruments, the protective guarantees and other attractive features of the club. Address the Associated Piano Clubs, Gospel Advocate Department, Atlanta, Georgia.

PAY ONLY $1.00 A MONTH

THREE PIECE LIVING ROOM SET $10.95
with library table having 3x2 24 in. top, book shelf and drawer; solid comfort arm chair and rocker with spring seats covered with best imitation Spanish leather $10.95, $1 down, $1 a month. 30 days trial plan. No interest, 1500 Special Big Bargains, to introduce our quality furniture, rugs, curtains, stoves, kitchen cabinets. Write NOW! RHODES FURNITURE CO. Dept. F. Memphis, Tenn.

WRITE FOR CATALOG

Pastors: WE publish Books, Pamphlets, Minutes, Sermons, Church Directories, Manuals and rebound books and magazines. Specialists in Church Envelopes. Write us for prices, 419 S. Third St. MAYES PRINTING CO., Inc. Louisville, Ky.

How to Treat a Cold.

Such pulmonary diseases as colds, croup, hoarseness, coughs, and similar troubles represent inflammation of the organs of breathing, usually accompanied by excessive secretions.

These secretions are at first quite fluid and medication can penetrate to the membranes through the fluid.

As evaporation occurs the secretions harden into thick and finally more or less solid phlegm which is practically impenetrable to medication, as of necessity such medication must be largely by inhalation.

Under these conditions the problem is to remove the obstructions and reach the inflamed membranes with the proper medication.

Mentholatum is excellent for this purpose.

Its pungent volatile oils are quite penetrating. They excite a fresh flow of secretion which loosens the hardened phlegm and admits of its being thrown off.

These oils then act upon the membranes as a delicate counter-irritant, allaying inflammation and encouraging restoration to normal health conditions.

THE POCKET TESTAMENT LEAGUE

Pronouncing Vest Pocket New Testaments

The handiest, daintiest, and most useful edition of the New Testament published. It takes up little room and will really fit the pocket. Printed on fine paper from the largest type ever used in so small a book.

Size 2 3/4 x 4 3/4 inches.

Specimen of Type.
WHOSEVER believeth that Jesus is the Christ is born of God; and every one that loveth him

No. 2117

Beautiful Colored Frontispiece in Each.
"Thy Word is a lamp unto my feet"

No. 2117 Bound in Ooze Tan Leather, flexible limp, gold side title, round corners, gold edges, containing membership certificate and suggested daily readings.

Single copies postpaid $.40

Per Dozen 4.00 carriage additional

RED LETTER EDITION

No. 2117 RL. Same as 2117 above WITH ALL THE WORDS OF OUR LORD AND SAVIOUR PRINTED IN RED.

Single copies postpaid $.55

Per Dozen 5.50 carriage additional

THE POCKET TESTAMENT LEAGUE

is a world-wide organization of those who agree to honestly endeavor to read a portion of a chapter of the Bible daily, and to carry a Testament or Bible about with them. There are no fees of any kind and the aim of the League is to strengthen Christians and to win the unsaved to Christ by spreading God's Word. Members are therefore encouraged to give Testaments away to those who are willing to join the League and fulfill the conditions of reading a portion of a chapter each day.

Any person becomes a member of this League by securing a Testament and agreeing to the conditions set forth in the Membership certificate which accompanies each Testament.

For sale by the McQuiddy Printing Company, Nashville, Tenn.

WHEN WRITING OUR ADVERTISERS PLEASE MENTION THIS PUBLICATION

OBITUARIES

On account of the large number of obituary notices coming to the Gospel Advocate the following rules must be observed: Obituaries that do not exceed one hundred and fifty words are published free of charge. When they exceed this limit, one cent will be charged for every additional word. Payment must accompany notice or else it will be reduced to one hundred and fifty words. Poetry will not be printed.

McClellan.

Sister Hattie C. McClellan died on March 6, 1916, as we learn from a copy of the Alexandria Times, published at Alexandria, Tenn., which some kind friend sent us. It was our pleasure to be acquainted with Sister McClellan in years gone by, and we are glad to remember her as a Christian and an excellent woman; and while we regret the loss of an earnest, faithful servant of the Lord, we are glad to think of her as having fallen asleep in Jesus, with the hope that she will safely rest with him till the resurrection morn, when she, with all the faithful servants of the Lord, will be gathered home, to live with him and all the saved in heaven forever.

E. G. S.

Rogers.

Brother Walter A. Rogers, of Dickson, Tenn., was born on August 23, 1873; was "born again" in October, 1892, under the preaching of Brother J. W. Grant, while in a meeting at Charlotte; and died at his mother's on February 23, 1916, at 8 P.M. He suffered very much in his sickness. He was well cared for by kindred and kind neighbors. His stepfather, T. F. Nicks, who is a Christian preacher, had the Lord's Supper in his home while he was confined to his bed. Weep not, dear mother, father, brothers, and friends; our loss is his eternal gain. Brother Rogers was not a married man and was very devoted to his dear, Christian mother.

JARRATT L. SMITH.

Hinson.

My father, John S. Hinson, was born on October 8, 1841, and, after a few months' sickness, fell peacefully to sleep at his old home near Rally Hill, Maury County, Tenn., on August 21, 1915. On December 12, 1867, he was united in marriage to Miss Mary S. Derryberry. Their home was blessed with only one child. As pa's departure was not unexpected, it was a trial to give him up. He was conscious until the last, and death to him seemed "only a dream." He obeyed the gospel in 1871. For over forty years he was a member of the church of Christ. He was the leader in his home congregation several years. He was steadfast in his religion, honest and truthful. Pa has gone to his reward. "Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord; and their works do follow them."

ELLA L. WILLIAMS.

Marshall.

Sister B. T. Marshall laid down the burden of life on January 24, 1916, and went to her eternal home. She was married at the age of twenty-four. Left a widow within a few years, she raised her only daughter to be a comfort to her. Soon after her marriage this daughter died, leaving an infant daughter and her husband alone. Sister Marshall's great concern about this granddaughter's training seemed to fill her with desire to live longer, but her purpose was greater than her power of endurance. Sister Marshall was fond of the Gospel Advocate and was always careful to notify the publishers when her address was changed. She gave liberally to its appeals for extending the circulation, lived a prayerful life, and kept the faith. When discouraged and saddened by circumstances unavoidable, she looked to the word of God for comfort. May we all continue in faith and prayer as did she. X.

Miller.

Sister Nancy Elizabeth Miller was born in Missouri on February 21, 1842. She obeyed the gospel in 1854, under the preaching of Brother Speed. She and Brother Miller were married on January 17, 1858. To this union ten children were born—seven boys and three girls—nine of which are living. They reared an excellent family of children. Sister Miller had been a member of the church of Christ for sixty-two years. She and Brother Miller had been married fifty-eight years. She fell asleep in Jesus on March 18, 1916, after an illness of nine weeks. She bore her sufferings without a murmur. Brother Miller has lost a loving wife; the children, a devoted mother; the church, a consecrated Christian. But we weep not as those who have no hope. On Sunday evening, March 19, the writer conducted the funeral services in the presence of a host of brethren and sisters and friends, and her body was laid to rest in the Chillicothe cemetery.

J. T. BENTLEY.

Wilkerson.

Brother W. A. Wilkerson was born in Calloway County, Mo., on July 10, 1863, and came to Arkansas with his parents in 1883. He was married to Mary Meddows, of Calloway County, in 1886, and to this union were born three children—Clarence L., John P., Myrl—all of whom are at home with their mother. Brother Wilkerson obeyed the gospel in 1891 under the preaching of Brother W. A. Schultz. He served as elder in the congregation at Harmony, near Wheeling, Ark., for eighteen years. As a result of his untiring efforts and his godly life, eight young men have gone out from that little congregation preaching the word, his eldest son, Brother C. L. Wilker-

Praises Are Coming From "NEW SONGS OF PRAISE"

Our new 1916 song book is being widely introduced and is eliciting the highest indorsement. Here are a few messages:

"I thought 'New Gospel Song Book' the very best book, but 'New Songs of Praise' excels it."
"I have a big class—from one hundred to two hundred present each evening—using 'New Songs of Praise'."

"We are highly pleased with the new book."
"I consider it a most excellent collection."
"Am much pleased with it." (With a second order.)
"As soon as the people find out its real merit, it will be the choice of the brotherhood."

The songs are good, the price is right; thousands have been shipped, thousands more are ready to ship.

Copy, 35 cents; Dozen Copies, $4; Hundred Copies, $30.

Firm Foundation Publishing House
108 E. Ninth Street, Austin, Texas

son, and the writer being of the number. "Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord from henceforth: yea, saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labors; for their works follow with them." Brother Wilkerson was called home on March 20, 1916. His death was sudden. Heart trouble was the cause. To the sorrowing ones we can but say: Weep not as those who have no hope, but be thou faithful until death, ever striving to imitate his life of love and patience.

OSCAR L. HAYS.

Jones.

Alpina Houser Jones was born on January 7, 1865, and died on December 31, 1915. She was "born again," into the church of our blessed Lord, in 1879. She was married to John A. Jones in 1886, with whom she lived happily till death. She was the mother of six children—four boys and two girls—all of whom survive her, except one—Rebecca, who died on January 12, 1894. The names of those who survive are: James Henry, Annie Baker, Willis Edgar, William, and John A., Jr. Sister Jones was the daughter of A. H. and E. A. Houser. She leaves three brothers and one sister: John, of Oklahoma; Gabe, of Columbia, Tenn.; William, of Williamsport, Tenn.; and Sister Bee Baker, of Shady Grove, Tenn. She was educated under James E. Scobey at Murfreesboro, Tenn. The funeral sermon was preached by W. S. Morton, and a very large crowd was in attendance to sympathize with the family. Her sickness was of short duration. The writer of these lines met her just two weeks before she passed away, on the streets in Columbia, and had a pleasant conversation with her. It was my pleasure to know her the greater portion of her life, and I am sure she was one of the purest and best women I ever knew. When the announcement of her death was made, a cloud of sorrow and of sadness enveloped many homes, for she had many friends. She always appeared as harmless as a dove, and manifested a spirit of meekness, gentleness, and kindness that would impress one with the sweetness of a Christian life. Through the power of her influence others were made to feel better and to realize the blessing of the purity and the goodness of a great and noble life. A good mother, a true wife, and a faithful Christian has been taken from her home and community. May the sunshine of her love in her family and neighborhood be felt many years yet to come. Let us have strong faith, and the rich promises of God will stimulate us, and in obedience to his will we will rejoice in the hope of glory. F. C. SOWELL.

A Superb Instrument.

The advertising manager of this paper has recently purchased a Baby Grand Piano from Schmoller & Mueller Piano Company, Department G. A., Omaha, Neb., whose advertising is appearing in the Gospel Advocate. We cannot too strongly commend this house and its product to the readers of this paper. The instrument is beautifully finished, makes a splendid appearance, and is of exquisite tone, easy action, and it is difficult to see how it could be improved upon in any particular.

Any reader of the Gospel Advocate, who is interested in securing a most excellent piano at a very reasonable figure, considering the quality, should consider the catalogue and prices of Schmoller & Mueller Piano Company, Department G. A., Omaha, Neb.

PLAIN AND ORNAMENTAL IRON FENCE A SPECIALTY
NOTHING TOO ORNAMENTAL FOR US TO MANUFACTURE

Write for Catalogue

CINCINNATI IRON FENCE CO.,
DEPT. F. CINCINNATI, OHIO.

TRY THIS FOR YOUR HEALTH.

For diseases which do not readily yield to drug treatment, such as chronic dyspepsia, indigestion, rheumatism, Bright's disease, gallstones, uric-acid poisoning, and diseases of the kidney and liver, the best physicians send their wealthy patients to the famous mineral springs. Some even spend months at the spas of Europe, and are almost invariably cured or greatly benefited.

I believe that the Shivar Spring is the greatest mineral spring ever discovered, and I believe it so firmly that I offer to send you enough water for a three weeks' treatment (two five-gallon demijohns) on my guarantee that if it fails to benefit your case I will refund the price. You would hardly believe me if I told you that only about two out of a hundred, on the average, say that they have received no benefit. The water is restoring thousands. It restored my health when friends and physicians thought my case was incurable, and I am willing and anxious for you to match your faith in the spring against my pocket-book. If I win, you become a life friend of the spring; if I lose, I will be sorry for you; but I will appreciate your courtesy in giving the water a trial, and will gladly refund your money on request. Sign the following letter:

Shivar Spring,

Box 21C, Shelton, S. C.

Gentlemen: I accept your guarantee offer, and inclose herewith two dollars for 10 gallons of Shivar Mineral Spring Water. I agree to give it a fair trial, in accordance with instructions contained in the booklet you will send; and if it fails to benefit my case, you agree to refund the price in full upon receipt of the two empty demijohns, which I agree to return promptly.

Name

Address

Shipping Point

(Please write distinctly.)

PELLAGRA

Cured Or You Pay Nothing

I have cured—cured to stay cured—90% of all who have taken my Pellagra Cure. What I have done for others I GUARANTEE to do for you or my treatment will cost you nothing. Highly endorsed by Physicians, Bankers, Ministers, County Officials and others. If you doubt, write any official or merchant in Walker County. No interference with work—no restrictions on your eating.

SYMPTOMS are; Hands red like sunburn; sore mouth; throat, tongue and lips flaming red; much mucus and choking; indigestion and nausea; diarrhea or constipation; mind affected and many other symptoms. No matter what anyone tells you about FREE Book Pellagra, write for my which fully explains my theory of the cause, prevention and cure of this dreaded disease—full of interesting facts which I have proven beyond doubt. Also contains full particulars of my remarkable offer of NO CURE—NO PAY. Free diagnosis to anyone sending symptoms. Send no money but write today!

Dr. W. J. McCrary, Dept 288 Carbon Hill, Alabama
Show this to some unfortunate sufferer

Dr. Doran's Queen Root Cordial.

The world's best blood remedy for ladies and young girls. All advice free and confidential. Free samples. General agents wanted. Write us a letter.

DORAN DRUG CO., Paducah, Ky., U. S. A.

Some New Books.

BY A. B. L.

The Macmillan Company has issued "The Centennial History of the American Bible Society." It details from its inception to the present status the effort of this society to increase the circulation of the Holy Scriptures.

The Revell Company has brought out "The Comrade in White," by W. H. Leatham, M.A., in attractive form and with an appropriate frontispiece. The book contains tender and emotional stories based upon terrible experiences incidental to the great European War. They may be used for illustrative purposes to great advantage. This book belongs to the very best of the war literature.

"Grace and Power" is the title of a thoughtful, well-written volume on devotional themes, from the pen of W. H. Griffith Thomas. It embodies the substance of addresses delivered at various places in this country and in England. The author has a fine grasp of the epistolary division of the New Testament as it relates to Christian living. Published by the Revell Company, New York.

The Commission on Christian Education of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America has just published a volume of "Selected Quotations on Peace and War." This book represents painstaking effort on the part of a large number of noted writers, beginning alphabetically with Lyman Abott and ending with Woodrow Wilson, President of the United States. The work is very valuable as a source-book of expressions from noted thinkers on peace and war, especially from the Christian viewpoint.

The Standard Publishing Company announces a new and improved edition of "The Emphasized New Testament." The author says in his Preface: "The book has been so thoroughly remodeled as to be practically a new work." The work is throughout characterized by scrupulous care and general excellence. It is an extremely literal translation; the drift, point, and emphasis of the original—the very feeling of the Greek—being clearly discernible in English. Familiar passages thus appear in fresh and often picturesque form; the text is displayed on the page in a manner that shows at a glance narrative and speech. Section headings assist the eye, and the accompanying indie tions

CALOMEL TO-DAY, SICK TO-MORROW.

Dose of nasty calomel makes you sick and you lose a day's work.

Calomel salivates! It's mercury. Calomel acts like dynamite on a sluggish liver. When calomel comes into contact with sour bile, it crashes into it, causing cramping and nausea.

If you feel bilious, headachy, constipated, and all knocked out, just go to your druggist and get a fifty-cent bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone, which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomel. Take a spoonful; and if it doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money.

If you take calomel to-day, you'll be sick and nauseated to-morrow; besides, it may salivate you; while if you take Dodson's Liver Tone, you will wake up feeling great, full of ambition, and ready for work or play. It's harmless, pleasant, and safe to give to children; they like it.

JACOBS & COMPANY

SPECIAL ADVERTISING AGENTS

PRINTERS DESIGNERS PHOTO ENGRAVERS ELECTROTYPERS

Catalogues —
— a Specialty

HOME OFFICE —
CLINTON, S. C.

INDIVIDUAL COMMUNION SERVICE

Every church should use this cleanly method. Over 25,000 churches now use our system. Our noiseless, dust-proof, self-collecting trays save 1/2 cost of other systems. Shallow glass used—no tipping of head. Outfits on trial. Give number communicants.

THOMAS COMMUNION SERVICE CO., BOX 460, LIMA, OHIO.

Kill All Flies! They Spread Disease

Placed anywhere, Daisy Fly Killer attracts and kills all flies. Neat, clean, ornamental, convenient, and cheap.

Put in all windows, blinds of metal, can't spill or tip over; will not soil or injure anything. Guaranteed effective. Ask for Daisy Fly Killer Sold by dealers, or 50¢ per box by express, prepaid, $1.00.

HAROLD SOMERS, 150 DeKalb Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

WHEN WRITING OUR ADVERTISERS PLEASE MENTION THIS PUBLICATION

of parallel passages in the other Gospels invite comparison therewith. Quotations from the Old Testament are printed in italics, and valuable introductory note on the interpretation of the Bible precedes the first Gospel. The price has been reduced from $2 to $1.50. Address Standard Publishing Company, Cincinnati, O.

The compilers and the publishers of "The Bible in Questions and Answers" deserve the thanks of Christians everywhere for this very helpful volume. To ask and to answer intelligently leading questions on every chapter in the Bible would appear to be the serious task of a lifetime, but Brethren F. L. Rowe and John A. Klingman, by diligent application and research, have done this very thing in a remarkably short time and in a most creditable manner. They have been profited by a close study of the works of McGarvey, Grubbs, David Lipscomb, B. W. Johnson, Robert Milligan, and many other recognized teachers whose thoughts have been freely interwoven into the book. Simplicity is the cardinal note in the treatment of every book. This applies both to the arrangement of the questions and answers and the interpretive language used. The book contains a harmony of the Gospels and many tables and maps bearing upon the text. It would be difficult to obtain a more concise commentary upon the Bible. I am glad to note that the first edition was soon exhausted. The second edition, however, is off the press, the price ranging from $2.50 to $4, according to binding. Address F. L. Rowe, publisher, 422 Elm Street, Cincinnati, O.

Tobacco Habit Eanished

in 48 to 72 hours. No craving for tobacco in any form after first dose. Harmless; no habit-forming drugs. Satisfactory results guaranteed in every case. Write Newell Pharmacal Company, Department 90, St. Louis, Mo., for free booklet, "Tobacco Redeemer," and positive proof.

WHY NOT TRY POPHAM'S ASTHMA MEDICINE

Gives prompt and positive relief in every case. Sold by druggists. Price, $1. Trial package by mail, ten cents.

Williams Mfg. Co., Proprs., Cleveland, O.

SWORD OF THE SPIRIT—WHICH IS THE WORD OF GOD—

Complete Help to Personal Work. Convincing Scripture Answers to Excuses. Quick Reference Index. Aid in Leading to Salvation and Guide for the Christian Life. Most recent book on these subjects. Practical, Spiritual, Scriptural. Vest Pkt. size; 128 pages. Cloth 25c, Morocco 35c, postpaid; stamps taken; Agts. Wanted. Pentecostal Publishing Co., Louisville, Ky.

WHEN WRITING OUR ADVERTISERS PLEASE MENTION THIS PUBLICATION

THE BIBLE IN QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

A new book from cover to cover, embracing nearly 30,000 questions and answers on the entire Bible. Compiled by J. A. Klingman and F. L. Rowe from the class notes, commentaries, and other works of J. W. McGarvey, T. B. Grubbs, Robt. Milligan, Wm. Hurte, David Lipscomb, Judge Caton, and others. Six hundred large pages with Harmony of the Gospels and eight full-page new maps. Prices range from $2.50 in cloth binding to $4 in flexible leather, thin paper. The first edition sold out in six weeks. The Firm Foundation wired for 200 copies. E. S. Vance, of Oklahoma, ordered 40 first order. W. F. Lemmons, of Texas, ordered over 100. Read these commendations:

- I have examined it, and find it to be a great book. I commend it to all students of the Bible.*—H. Leo Boles, Nashville, Tenn.
- I am immensely pleased with my copy.*—Isaac C. Hoskins, Florence, Ala.
- I have longed for just such a book as this.*—W. S. Buchanan, Phillips Bible Institute, Canton, O.
- There is nothing to equal it that I know of as a help in studying the whole Bible.*—Ira C. Moore, Barrackville, W. Va.
- I could not believe that so much could be condensed in so small a compass.*—D. J. Poynter, Albion, Neb.
- I like the book very much and hope to sell many.*—J. W. Dunn, El Paso, Texas
- Almost every one to whom I have shown the book has taken one.*—Chas. H. Robertson, Cleburne, Tex.
- The book is eminently adapted to daily systematic Bible study.*—F. Q. Martin, Winchester, Ky.
- I have carefully and critically examined "The Bible in Questions and Answers." Possibly there has not come from the press of our brethren a book which is destined to be of such universal use as this one, Short, pointed, and practical. A long-felt want will be filled.*—D. F. Draper, Georgetown, Tex.
- One of the good sisters here said she would not take $25 for her copy of "Questions and Answers" if she could not get another copy.*—J. A. Klingman, Lebanon, Tenn.
- "The Bible in Questions and Answers" is par excellence.*—Frank Baker, Belmont, Miss.

Agents wanted in every direction. Big commission to workers. Sample pages free.

F. L. ROWE, PUBLISHER

422 Elm St., Cincinnati, Ohio

Here It Is!

My New 1916 Buggy Bargain Book for You FREE

Just off the press. Filled with startling bargains in buggies direct from my factory in the heart of the Kentucky hickory district. Here's the place to buy your buggy.

My catalog takes you on a trip through the factory—following the raw material from the time of its receipt through the various construction steps until it comes out a finished buggy. Illustrated in colors from photographs of buggies. Hundreds of dandy testimonials and pictures of pleased customers from everywhere who have bought

My $30,000 Guarantee Bond

Protects you when you buy the "Blue Grass" buggy. This monster bond means that every claim I make must be right. I have to keep my word whether I want to or not.

BOHON'S "BLUE GRASS BUGGIES" AT FACTORY PRICES.

These buggies are built by experts. The "Blue Grass" is the easiest riding, lightest running buggy on the market. The very best material is used. Genuine second growth, straight grain Kentucky split hickory is used. Full wrought gears doubly braced. Easy riding. French head, French point springs. Special light running 2000 mile axle. Upholstered in Bohon's hand-buffed auto leather. Guaranteed waterproof top.

Everything that can be put into a buggy to make it durable, easy riding and luxurious is found in my "Blue Grass." Yet my factory price to you is so low that I can save you $25 to $50. And you don't have to buy my buggies on faith or take my word for anything, either. Bohon's "Blue Grass" buggies are guaranteed for life and backed by a $30,000 Bond.

Try One On Your Own Roads for 60 Days Then Decide Whether You Wish To Keep It.

This gives you time thoroughly to test my "Blue Grass" Buggy. Try it on rough roads and at high speeds. If the good old "Blue Grass" shows a flaw let me know and I'll take it back. I'll pay freight both ways. So the fair trial doesn't cost you a cent. Nobody could make a fair offer like this unless he knew he had a buggy that was absolutely right in every respect. I also have a complete line of harness and pony vehicles and harness.

Write for the Free Book.

Read it and you'll realize I haven't told you half the story here. You'll see buggies so handsome and high grade you'll wonder how I can sell them at the prices I do. If you are buying a buggy or thinking of buying one this big bargain book will save you money. Write for it.

D. T. BOHON,
987 Main Street Harrodsburg, Ky.

FROM THE FIELD

Alabama.

Tennille, May 4.—I was requested by Brother W. J. Norton, who lives near here, to come and preach some, and came over on Saturday, April 29, and am preaching in a schoolhouse about four miles from Tennille and about seven miles from Hamilton's Cross Roads Church. We are having good interest, and I hope much good may be done in the sowing of the seed of the kingdom. From here I go to Cypress, Fla., at the urgent request of Brother Mears, for a few days. The weather is cool down here at present, and I preached in the tent at Kinsey, Ala., but had to give up for a few days because of cold which settled in my throat, and decided that I had better leave the tent meetings alone until the weather became warm.

W. T. GOALEN.

Arkansas.

Magnolia, May 1.—I spend a few nights at some near-by point preaching the gospel each week. I visited a schoolhouse near Troy and preached to a nice audience recently. Last week I was at Buena Vista and preached to an appreciative audience in the schoolhouse there. This is a good way to sow the seed of the kingdom. Our audience here was kind and appreciative yesterday. One Methodist preacher was with us. One erring brother confessed his wrongs and asked the prayers of the church.

T. E. TATUM.

California.

Placentia, April 29.—I began a meeting here on April 16. One baptism to date and others "almost persuaded." The attendance and interest have been very good. Opposition very strong.

B. W. DAVIS.

Colorado.

Olathe, May 2.—At this writing I am in the midst of a debate with the Seventh-Day Adventists at California Mesa Schoolhouse, six miles from Olathe. The debate will continue indefinitely—as long as Advent "wind" holds out. We spend two hours each night, and, though in the midst of a farming community and in the busy farming season, crowds of people from miles around attend and give earnest attention. We call them together each night at eight o'clock and dismiss them at ten, and they voted to have the sessions thus called each night. The debate will do great good. I shall try and have it repeated at Delta and one or two more points where there are strong Adventist churches.

E. C. FROGA.

Kentucky.

Franklin, May 1.—I preached at Calvert City, in Marshall County, on the fourth Lord's day in April, morning and night, also on Monday and Tuesday nights following. We had good crowds at each service except Tuesday night, when, on account of rain and

When Louise of Prussia Went to Napoleon

One Hundred Years Ago

Louise went to Napoleon on a delicate and humiliating mission.

A clever woman, a beautiful woman, was Louise of Prussia. Had she accomplished her mission that night, the history of Europe would be different today.

Beneath the surface of the mighty war now going on are the secret, twisted threads of intrigue and passions of a hundred years.

To understand the fearful upheaval in Europe you must know that hidden history frankly told in imperishable form in

Muhlbach's Historical Romances

These wonderful volumes tell the private, personal life and character of great men and women. History is here written in story form. These volumes are beyond question the most fascinating historical romances that have ever been given to the world. They contain a history of the crises in Germany, Austria, Russia, England, Switzerland, Egypt, France, Holland and Prussia during two hundred years of startling events, told in intensely interesting and romantic form. All classes are represented in these volumes as they lived and loved, thought and acted. Thus the human interest always prevails and has given this set of books enduring popularity. These wonderful historic romances are among the books that never die. They are interesting, instructive, reliable, truthful, wholesome and good. In the volume devoted to Napoleon and Blücher practically every historic character that the life of the great emperor touched in any way is here given—all the men and women of his time. The new edition is printed from new plates, upon extra quality of paper from easy-to-read type, are attractively illustrated and bound in Art Buckram Cloth, titles stamped in gold.

The Encyclopedia Britannica says: "Muhlbach's works show a talent for lively description and narration that gives enduring popularity and a power in weaving alluring romances from those stirring times that is unsurpassed."

Here Is Our Bargain Offer—Send No Money

Just sign and mail attached coupon and we will ship you the complete set of this beautiful edition for five days' examination in your own home. You can decide then for yourself whether or not you wish to buy. You can return the set at our expense if it fails to give you entire satisfaction. Should you desire to purchase send us $1.00 as first payment and pay the balance at the rate of $2.00 per month for only nine months until our special price of $19.00 is paid. The regular subscription price is $40.00. Thousands of sets have been sold at this figure. The reason we are able to cut the price to only $19.00 is that our method of sale by mail eliminates all middle men's profits. There is neither a dealer's profit nor an agents commission involved in the transaction. We ship direct from factory to consumer and guarantee satisfaction in every way. Mail coupon promptly.

HERE ARE THE CONTENTS

1. Napoleon and the Queen of Prussia.
2. The Empress Josephine.
3. Napoleon and Blücher.
4. Queen Hortense.
5. Marie Antoinette and Her Son.
6. Prince Eugene and His Times.
7. The Daughter of an Empress.
8. Joseph II and His Court.
9. Mohammed Ali and His House.
10. Henry VIII and His Court.
11. Berlin and Sans Souci.
12. Goethe and Schiller.
13. The Merchant of Berlin.
14. Louise of Prussia and Her Times.
15. Old Fritz and the New Era.
16. Andreas Hofer.
17. Frederick the Great and His Court.
18. Frederick the Great and His Family.

INSPECTION COUPON

THE RIVERSIDE PUBLISHING CO., (INC.)
Marquette Bldg., Chicago, Illinois.

Please ship me for examination and approval one set Muhlbach's Historical Novels, eighteen volumes Art Buckram cloth binding. If satisfactory I will send you $1.00 after five days' examination and $2.00 a month thereafter for nine months. If the set does not meet my entire approval after five days' examination, I will notify you and hold subject to your order and return at your expense as offered Gospel Advocate readers.

Name _____
Address _____

Enclose business card, letter, card or give references.

the dark night, the crowd was small. I will preach on the third Lord's day in May at Yokley's Grove, in Simpson County. J. M. DENNIS.

Monlton, a most destitute field, where now the cause is prospering. The little congregation there is growing, and instead of no Lord's-day gathering at all, a goodly number assemble. I was eager to stay there in the year ending, but apparently fate drew me away—events far beyond my control. As I near my year's work here I look with regret that I have done so little for the Master, and maybe that is why he is permitting me to remain another year.

When I began teaching, I received from twenty-five to thirty dollars a month for three to five months a year. After a while I began giving the Lord a tenth and daily praying that he would continue to bless me with greater earning capacity. Later I received thirty-five dollars a month for a greater time, then forty, then fifty, then sixty, and on until now it is one hundred and twenty-five dollars a month for twelve months in the year. Furthermore, recently another opportunity was given me of earning an additional one hundred dollars or more in the summer. I now give two-tenths to the Master. No, I have saved nothing personally. I know that I should, unless the Father will permit me to work just as long as I live. Since 1911 the portion given the Lord directly has been over one thousand dollars. If he hasn't blessed me, who has?

It is something like this: The Father will permit me to do generally just about as I please, or he will guide me if I ask him to do so. A herdsman drives his flock along the long roads of the country. At the various cross roads and lanes leading from the main road he places a boy, or a dog, or some guard, to prevent the herd turning out of the straight way. The animals go on unaware that possibly they are kept from going astray by the dog that barks so fiercely or the boy that seems so rude. At times, of course, the animals do assert themselves to their sorrow and enter the forbidden fields; they may even go astray and never be found. So I ask my Father to be the great Herdsman and to place the guards at the turning-off places, the bypaths and the lanes, the cross roads and inviting turns, lest I myself should turn astray; and he does so. At times, though, the field seems so inviting that I cannot understand till I have gone on further why I was not permitted to enter it. Certainly, if I insisted, he would permit me to go my way.

Yes, perhaps this is foolishness to many, but not so to me; and were it not that I do not believe in anonymous communications, I would not put my name to this, lest it seem as foolish boasting. These are only a few evidences that I have that the Master hears and answers prayer. Several times I have seen my own pupils come to Christ, and I daily pray for many others to do so. Our prayers are answered by his shaping events round about our lives that the irreverent look upon as only the natural outcome of affairs; it is the eye of the devout Christian that can see God's hand in it all.

Speak more of prayer in the home, in the church, everywhere. No, I do not think that any one would regard me as a fanatic, but just a Christian only. I wanted to express my appreciation of your article.

Truly your brother in Christ,

EARL M. HODSON.

How can one read a testimony like Brother Hodson's and not believe that "men ought always to pray, and not to faint?"

OUR CONTRIBUTORS

"Italy a Baptist Mission Field."

BY F. W. SMITH.

B. G. Whittinghill, writing in the Western Recorder, a Baptist paper published at Louisville, Ky., among other things, has this to say:

Baptists have a historical and doctrinal right to Italy. Paul went there in 61 A.D. The work done by him and his successors, according to the New Testament and church history, was in the truest sense Baptist. This is not the testimony of a biased person, such as the writer of this tract may be, but is the verdict of three of the greatest living church historians—Harnack (Lutheran), Duchesne (Catholic), and Gwatkin (Anglican). These three categorically or in substance declare that the early churches, among other things, preached and practiced such doctrines as repentance and faith (both impossible for infants to accept), the baptism of believers only by immersion, the independence of the churches and soul liberty. The neglect and perversion of these Baptist principles were largely responsible for the decadence of primitive Christianity and the consequent rise of Romanism. What Italy needs to-day is a return to the simplicity of the gospel which in Paul's day made the Roman Christians' faith world-famous. Other denominations doing mission work in Italy are badly handicapped by doctrines, such as infant baptism, which they have inherited from the papacy. It remains, therefore, our solemn duty to press forward with renewed energy and stronger faith in the work to which God has called us.

The first sentence in this excerpt lays out a claim entirely too contracted, if what the author asserts be true. "Baptists have a historical and doctrinal right to Italy." Why not, my friend, stretch it a little and make it read: "Baptists have a historical and doctrinal right to the world?" It seems that the principle of right entitling the Baptists to the small slice of Italy would give them the whole loaf, and they should, therefore, enforce their rights and take the earth. Post your land, beloved, with black letters, making it read: "Preempted by the Missionary Baptists." Be sure and insert the qualifying term, "missionary," else some one of the dozen or more Baptist Churches might set up a claim against your "historical and doctrinal" rights, and that would be too bad. For instance, the Primitive (vulgarly called "Hardshell") Baptist Church might slip in and set up a claim on the ground that they were, at least "historically," in Italy or somewhere else first. Another danger besets that "doctrinal" claim in the two branches of the "Missionary" Baptists. In which "branch" is vested the right and title to Italy—the "board" or "nonboard" Missionary Baptist Church? It would seem to one acquainted with the "historical" and "doctrinal" nature of the different Baptist sects that any one of them would have a very difficult task proving the right to exist in Italy or anywhere else.

But Mr. Whittinghill, as a Baptist surveyor, sets up his compass in A.D. 61 with the apostle Paul, and claims that "the work done by him and his successors, according to New Testament and church history, was in the truest sense Baptist." Our friend set his instrument a few hundred years too far back (about sixteen hundred), for New Testament history knows nothing, absolutely nothing, about any kind of a Baptist Church. But he tells us that "the early churches preached and practiced such doctrines as repentance and faith, the baptism of believers only by immersion, the independence of the churches and soul liberty." True enough, but not one time were those churches called "Baptist" churches, and neither were their members called "Baptists;" and there are churches to-day that preach and practice all those things that repudiate the denominational name "Baptist." Brother, you have the wrong chart by which to run your survey, and the apostle Paul is powerless to supply the missing link in your chain. Really, you would better leave Paul out of your survey unless you desire to abandon your unscriptural doctrines and denomination. Paul taught a doctrine that is fatal to Baptist claim—viz.: he taught baptism as one of the conditions of salvation, and you will not have that link in your chain. He also taught many other things that will not fit into the Baptist chain.

Mr. Whittinghill further says: "What Italy needs to-day is a return to the simplicity of the gospel which in Paul's day made the Roman Christians' faith world-famous." Now just listen to that! Why did he not say "Roman Baptists' faith world-famous?" Sure enough now, why not? Ah, beloved, our friend was quoting New Testament history when he wrote the word "Christians," and away went his "historical" right to Italy or anything else religiously. We quite agree with the statement that Italy—and the whole world, as to that matter—needs the simple gospel which in Paul's day made the faith of the church at Rome world-famous. And we can further agree that the denominations in Italy and everywhere else, including the Baptist denomination, are badly handicapped by doctrines not taught in the Bible. We are, furthermore, persuaded that it is "our solemn duty to press forward with renewed energy and stronger faith in the work" of trying to get the Baptists and all other denominations to abandon their unscriptural doctrines and be Christians only. We have no excuse or apology to offer for any of the doctrines and traditions of men being sown broadcast in the earth. If those who delight in denominationalism and love the doctrines of men will lay no higher claim for their existence than the wisdom of uninspired men, then we have not a word to say against such things; but when they make the claim that the word of God supports them, we protest with all our might and stand ready always to challenge such claim. It is only when men claim the Bible teaches this or that in religion that any one has the right to protest and call for proof. If one should disclaim any Bible authority for his religious teaching, why waste time with him? "O," you say, "show him what the Bible teaches." But that is exactly what you cannot do to one who exalts his own wisdom above God's word and who prefers his own way to God's way. It is only the one who desires to know what God says that you can help.

Who Are "Hobby Riders?"

BY THOMAS J. BONNER.

Frequently we see in the papers some brother condemning hobbyists and hobby riders. Who are they, anyway? O, "the other fellow," of course! I asked a Methodist preacher a short time ago what orthodoxy is, and he replied: "Orthodoxy is my 'doxy,' and heterodoxy is your 'doxy.'" We have long since learned that there is nothing in these terms as used by the sectarian world, only to indicate a difference of opinion. So we—"our brethren"—would like to make it appear, on the other hand, that a hobbyist is one who has corrupted the doctrine of our blessed Lord. Some who claim to be very critical in the use of terms have fallen into the habit of condemning all who differ from them as "hobbyists."

If brethren differ on the proper use of the Bible in school, the authority of evangelists, use of tobacco, secret societies, use of literature, and proper understanding necessary to valid baptism, they are ready to call each other "hobbyists." Now, each may be a hobbyist, but not necessarily so. A man may be wrong on a proposition, and yet be far from a hobbyist. On the other hand, he may be right and at the same time be a hobbyist. Webster says a hobby is "any favorite pursuit, topic, or object; that which a person persistently pursues with zeal or delight." We have always recognized the fact of man's inherent ability, yet we seem to forget it when some brother begins to press a certain line of Christian endeavor, and cry "hobbyist." Paul likens the members of Christ's spiritual body to the members of our physical person, thus showing that each may perform different functions. In fact, he says we have "gifts differing." One brother may teach with great ability, another may exhort with power, one with a gentle spirit may minister, another with simplicity may give, and each be working for the selfsame cause. (See Rom. 12.) If some of my brethren have a better hold on some line of Christian work than I, and are pressing it, why should I cry "hobbyist?" I thank God that there are some with a passion to work for "Christian education," others with the mind and ability to care for the needy in Israel. Then, some of the preachers do little more than exhort. But this is as God would have it.

Dear brethren, let us cease to cry "hobby" when some brother, according to his natural bent of mind, begins to agitate some special line of Christian teaching or work. A hobbyhorse is not a bad thing if ridden toward Jerusalem.

Unsound Teachers.

BY C. C. MERRITT.

GOD'S COMMAND TO DISCIPLINE.

Whoever may be unsound teachers and whatever may be the unsound teaching, or regardless of whatever method may be used in determining who the unsound teachers are or what the unsound teaching is, it is a fact that teachers teaching unsound teaching, and thus becoming unsound themselves, are to be disciplined. Scripture citations are: Matt. 7: 15; 24: 11; Rom. 16: 17; Gal. 1: 8; 1 Tim. 1: 34; Tit. 3: 10, 11; 2 Pet. 2: 11; 2 John 10, 11.

Some of the above citations are applied unto individuals and some unto congregations. The principle of all is applicable unto both individuals and congregations.

UN SOUND TEACHING.

The "deep waters" one may get into in determining what article and number of articles may be called "sound" or "unsound" is sufficient grounds for some to make "short cuts" and to avoid going into detail. This method may keep one out of "deep water," but it is often murderous. It is better to "wade" than it will be to come into the presence of God with a blood-stained garment, providing the wading is done so as to prevent the garments being blood-stained.

Shall we say that every word of God is a sound word? Or shall we be possessors of the temerity to say that we can make distinctions so as to classify and separate God's word from the standpoint of soundness or unsoundness? Or is there the slightest of intimation in those passages to which citation has been given that such discipline is to be applied from such a classification?

What are we to understand by "essential" and "non-essential" doctrine, passages, teaching, or portions of God's word? Are we only to say that, in so far as the Old Testament is concerned, the statement that "Moses is not the author of the Pentateuch," and that "Daniel, Isaiah, and Jeremlah are uninspired," and such like statements, are unsound, but are left to say that all or only some of their teaching is nonessential? Could one deny or reject as true any of the things contained in the Old Testament and yet be saved? Or are we to make such "classification," "separation," and distinctions only on ground of their practicality or impracticality? Is it practical to say that some things in the Pentateuch, Joshua, Jonah, Jeremiah, Isafah, and Amos are obviously uncertain and unpractical and, therefore, do not concern us?

Finally, are we to "define," "classify," and "lay down" articles of faith saying that these are practical and essential, and that all other teaching involved in all other passages is impractical, nonessential, and are not, therefore, grounds upon which discipline is to be applied? Let us take all God's word to be practical, essential, and fundamental, "handling aright every word of God."

UN SOUND TEACHERS.

A silver dollar may be nicked, worn, "oxidized," or charred by fire, but these are not the marks of counterfeit. The ring, the weight, and the composition are essential marks. Just so a teacher may be ignorant in part, not yet having learned it all. He may make mistakes because of his ignorance; he may fall short of his whole duty—not knowing what his whole duty is. Or he may stumble and sin in weakness; but if he is willing to learn from God and anxious to know his whole duty, and is penitent, he is not "counterfeit."

"Unsound teachers" must be determined from essential and not accidental marks of soundness or unsoundness. The essential marks of soundness must be given by God himself, and they are all given in his word. We are not left to guesswork nor inference to know them.

DIVISION.

It has been well said that "matters vital and essential to the faith of the gospel" are things for which we should contend and which must not be controverted. But the difficulty arises about what these "essentials" are. Truly, if one denies the "Sonship of Christ," "the divinity of God's word," "baptism," "the Holy Spirit," "the Lord's Supper," "prayer," or "love," he is "contrary to the doctrine which ye learned;" but who will say that the "matters essential" end with these things?

Shall one man or a set of men, predecessor or contemporary, state for us just what these "vital and essential matters" are? And would he mean by so stating and teaching these certain definite "matters vital and essential," that these must be respected and agreed to, but other things God has said in his word may be treated carelessly, indifferently, and recklessly without discipline?

When divisions come, somebody is "contrary to the doctrine." It may be one or the other or both sides, but the "contrary" ones are the real and sole cause of the division. Upon them can be laid the whole responsibility. But should one be teaching upon some passage or truth in God's word not contained in our listed statements of "vital and essential" matters, and another object to such teaching because it is not "essential and vital," although it is the truth, and in God's word, who then is the "cause" should division arise?

If "matters vital and essential to the unity of the church" are not absolutely identical with "the doctrine which ye learned," then some things "vital and essential" to "unity" are to conflict with things "vital and essential to the faith of the gospel." Everything Paul taught is included in his "doctrine" about which divisions are condemned. It is strange how some brethren are willing to leave out some truth and are yet so dogmatic about other truths! This is the position that warrants the logical conclusion for denominationalism, sectarianism, schism.

ON POLITY.

As has been said, "the autonomy and independence of the local churches are clearly taught in the New Testament." It is also true that "any legitimate action taken by a local church is as clearly stamped with divine authority as is any other doctrine or any command in the New Testament." Care should be taken, however, that the actions of a local church are legitimate—that is, stamped by divine authority. A local church might withdraw from an unsound teacher or an "offender;" but if this action has not been preceded by other action Jesus said should precede, then the action of withdrawing is not "legitimate." Such action without love, sympathy, long-suffering, and kindness—is it legitimate? Each member of the acting church should "respect and abide by" the action of withdrawal. If not, they, too, would thus become subject to discipline. But when it comes to another congregation or "every other church" "respecting and abiding by" this legitimate action, that is hardly in harmony with the polity of the "autonomy and independence of the local churches." This "legitimate" action must be respected by "every other church," but to "abide by" it without any action upon the same themselves (if called upon by necessity to act) would not be "legitimate." For "all other churches" to "abide by" the action of any one church would destroy the independence of each church to such an extent that the autonomy also would seriously be affected.

There are not a few churches, elders in particular, that would have all others "abide by" their actions (preachers, too, and editors of "only right" papers desire the same); but this is the source and nucleus of the centralization movement; it is that which culminates in the one human head. It is real ecclesiasticism in the modern sense of the word.

[NOTE.—In writing on the above subject, I saw fit to criticize some things Brother M. C. Kurfees had to say in some recent articles. I wrote it, not as a direct attack upon Brother Kurfees' articles, because I desired to include sentiments other than those found in his articles, and I did not desire to be thought by any as acting out of courtesy for our beloved brother.—C. C. M.]

Itinerary Notes.

BY F. R. SKYGLY.

I spent the fourth Sunday in April at Guin, Ala., preaching morning and evening for the Marion County High School. This was the close of their fourth scholastic year. The school is under the efficient management of Professor Clark and seems to be doing a fine work in that part of the State. I understood that they had a department devoted to domestic science and that the girls were taught to cook and sew and do other practical things. I had the pleasure of eating some Boston brown bread baked by the graduates, and I was told that they made their graduating dresses. The bread was excellent, and I am a judge of anything to eat; and the dresses looked nice, though I am a poor judge of ladies' apparel. They have fine roads in Marion County; and while their lands are not the most fertile, they are a happy and prosperous people. My mother was a native of this county, and it was but natural that I should feel that I had a heritage among them. In the afternoon I preached for the church, and we had the worship together as the early Christians used to do on the Lord's day. The church is not large, but they are earnest in their work.

On Monday night, April 24, I spoke at Winfield to a very good week-night audience. Here and at Guin I met some brethren and sisters who heard me preach at New River in 1880, about the first preaching I ever did. Old Brother John Taylor went with me on this trip. It was his last preaching trip, as it was my first. I began in that neighborhood exactly where he quit off. The foundation for the work in that country was laid by Brother John Taylor and the two older Randolphs. It was from this part of the country that old Brother Taylor and one of the older Randolphs rode horseback all the way to Tusculum to hear A. Campbell preach. After listening to Brother Campbell for one hour and thirty minutes on the two covenants, old Brother Taylor said: "Brother Randolph, after hearing that man preach, I feel that I can never preach again." But old Brother Randolph said: "Brother Taylor, after hearing him, I feel that I never did preach before this." At Winfield I met one of our Tennessee sisters—Major Allen's daughter, of Dixon Springs. She is now a Sister Staleup. Her husband is one of the leading bankers of the town, and she is faithful to the church and her family.

I spent one day in Oakman, Ala.; but, on account of the closing exercises of the school, I preached at night at New Hope, a country church some three or four miles away. Here our dear old Brother Crawford lived and died. His last letter was written to me about a meeting I was to hold at New Hope in 1911. He told me in his letter that he did not think he would live till I got there, and, sure enough, he did not. I spent the night in his old home, now owned and occupied by his son-in-law and daughter, Brother and Sister Gray. On Wednesday I spoke in Oakman and hurried on to Lynn in time for preaching that night. The church is doing well at Lynn. This used to be the home of Brother Charlie Wheeler, a faithful man of God, who lives now near Jasper, but preaches in the country around. Brother Wheeler will always be found contending for the right.

I spent one night in Bear Creek—I mean in the town of Bear Creek, Ala. From my earliest recollection I had a fear for Bear Creek—I mean now the creek. For years my greatest hope in life was that some day I would be large enough to go to Bear Creek fishing in the spring and to her bottoms pigeon hunting in the fall. The Bear Creek bottoms was the greatest pigeon roost known to the entire country. But this was many miles below where the town of Bear Creek now stands. There is a good church here. Our good brother, J. R. Phillips, lives in this town. His family and his four or five sons and their families make a good start for a congregation.

Keeping the Unity of the Spirit.

BY GEORGE W. FARMER.

"I therefore, the prisoner in the Lord, beseech you to walk worthily of the calling wherewith ye were called, with all lowliness and meekness, with long-suffering, forbearing one another in love; giving diligence to keep the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace." (Eph. 4: 1-3.)

How supremely important, good, and beautiful is the injunction to the church at Ephesus, and how much better would be conditions in the church of God everywhere if this injunction were heeded to-day!

In the Inanimate World. In all the realm of nature, when God had looked upon the work of his creation, he pronounced it "good" and "very good." In this he made no mistakes. He made it just as he intended it. In the solar system, of which our earth is one of the planets, there is perfect harmony and beauty. Each planet maintains its proper relation to the sun and to the other planets. The earth rotates upon its axis, producing the changes of day and night, and it makes its revolutions around the sun, producing the changes in seasons; and in all the inanimate world there is a perfect balance and harmony in everything. David said: "The heavens declare the glory of God; and the firmament showeth his handiwork." (Ps. 19: 1.) If in the inanimate realm there is such wisdom displayed, beauty portrayed, and harmony and grandeur emblazoned on everything, how much more necessary, beautiful, and pleasant it is for the same exquisite conditions to exist in the spiritual realm! "Behold, how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity!" (Ps. 133: 1.)

Cruse of Infidelity. There is no more fruitful cause of infidelity, skepticism, and, we might add, general indifference toward the religion of Christ than the divided condition, of whatever nature it appears, in Christendom to-day. This condition is grossly sinful and cannot be justified, and no one need undertake to justify it; for to try to do so would be to encourage something wrong in the sight of God, and it would be diametrically opposed to the interest of truth and righteousness and would thwart the benediction, "Peace on earth and good will to men." O religion! How many cruel, relentless wars have been waged in thy name! How much precious blood has been shed because of thee!

Jesus' Prayer. With prophetic vision, looking down the stream of time, Christ could see the baneful, blighting effects that division, schism, jars, and discord would have upon the cause he suffered and died to give to the world, and he went to the Father in prayer and prayed so fervently in behalf of those of his disciples, and in this prayer the petition went up four times that the disciples might all be one, as he and the Father were one; and as the Father had sent him into the world, so he sent them into the world that they might be one, as he and the Father were one, that the world might believe that God had sent him. (John 17: 11, 21-23.)

Only Two Ways. Christ, in the Sermon on the Mount, tells us of two ways—one, the way that leads to life; the other, the way that leads to destruction. (Matt. 7: 13, 14.) This makes the two necessary divisions of the human family, and each of us, by virtue of our own choice, is in one or the other of these ways. There is no middle road to be taken, no neutral position to be occupied. Neither is there any concord between the two classes in the ways. There is to be no fellowship with each other. "Be not conformed to this world." Jesus said: "I am the way, the truth, and the life: no man cometh unto the Father, but by me." (John 14: 6.) Again: "He that is not with me is against me; and he that gathereth not with me scattereth abroad." (Matt. 12: 30.) Every person who desires to attain unto eternal life must make up his mind to reach it by getting into and following the way that leads to it. We all have to go this way together. There is not one way for me, another for you, and another for some one else, but we all go the common way. Some people say: "There are so many ways." This is a mistake. There is only one way; and if we go to heaven, we must all go this way. How earnest and prayerful we should be to get into the right way! "There is a way which seemeth right unto a man, but the end thereof are the ways of death." (Prov. 14: 12.) Now, if we are God's servants, we are in the way of life, and we should love each other and help each other and put forth earnest, prayerful effort to "keep the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace," that we may, by making the life of this way beautiful and attractive, induce others to walk in this way.

INTER NOS

From Allen D. Dabney, Eastland, Texas: "A fine paper indeed—a revelation from a field of great writers and devoted Christians."

R. W. Davis writes from Placencia, Cal.: "I am in receipt of your premium, the fountain pen. Thanks. I have also before me the May issue of The Bible Study Helper, and I am delighted with it. I have always read and enjoyed the Gospel Advocate from my childhood days; but now that I get it every week, I appreciate it much more. It is a great help to me."

From J. R. Armstrong, Town Creek, Ala.: "I want to compliment each and every one for the letters written in the 'Sermon on the Mount' Number. I have been taking the Gospel Advocate for more than thirty years. I read it more than forty years ago in my father's home. Many are the valuable lessons it has taught for more than sixty years. But, to my mind, the last issue (May 4) is the best number I have ever read."

From Willis H. Allen, Jacksonville, Fla.: "The work in Jacksonville moves along with a slow, steady growth. I have baptized three this year. We are now in a mission meeting with a tent in the western part of the city, with fairly good interest at this time. We are using only home forces. We expect to follow this meeting with others in different parts of the city. Pray for us. The 'Sermon on the Mount' Number came to-day, and I unhesitatingly pronounce it the best yet. Its articles and comments are all fine. It should certainly be preserved by all its readers."

QUERY DEPARTMENT

Brother Sewell: An organization committee, after trying to reach an agreement with the general manager of a corporation, concludes that the increase in wages offered is not enough; therefore, on vote of membership, the organization orders a strike. Would it be wrong for a Christian to quietly walk out when the strike is ordered?

X.

If you are being treated right by your employers, stay where you are. If you are not being dealt with justly and feel that you are being wronged against your earnest protest, then you should give up your position regardless of what others do. It is an individual matter for you to decide, and you should not allow an organization to decide it for you.

* * *

Brother McQuiddy: Please answer the following questions: (1) There is no congregation where I live, but there are six members here. I preach for congregations away from home on Lord's days. Now, is it wrong for me to commune with the brethren where I preach, then return home in the evening and commune with the members at home, I being the only one who will lead in worship?

S. W. BERRYMAN.

"Upon the first day of the week" the disciples "gathered together to break bread." (Acts 20: 7.) The Bible does not tell us how often they broke bread on the first day of the week. One time on each first day meets the requirement of the Scriptures. It is not necessary to break bread in the afternoon after having done so in the forenoon. However, I would not be justified in saying that it is wrong to do so.

* * *

Brother McQuiddy: I have been requested to ask you the following questions: (1) Suppose one believes that faith, repentance, confession, and baptism are necessary conditions of pardon from past sins, but does not understand church ordinances, the importance of the name, etc., as Christians see it. He, therefore, submits (in good faith) to being immersed by a Baptist. Is his baptism valid? (See Acts 18: 25; 1 Cor. 1: 11-17; 3: 4-9; 1 Pet. 3: 21; Rom. 6: 17, 18. (2) Explain 1 Cor. 15: 29. Was there ever a time when a living man was baptized for a dead man (human)? Is not this passage explained by Rom. 6: 3-11; Col. 2: 12, 13?

TATE RENO.

(1) For answer to this question I refer the querist and all who are interested to a tract entitled "Valid Baptism," a discussion between A. McGary and T. R. Burnett (price, ten cents); also to the tract entitled "The Faith that Qualifies for Baptism," a discussion between John S. Durst and J. C. McQuiddy (price, five cents). Either can be obtained at this office. (2) The Corinthians were baptized. (Acts 18: 8.) Their baptism was a "planting" in the likeness of Christ's burial and in the "likeness of his resurrection." (Rom. 6: 4, 5.) They were in and raised from a watery grave. Their baptism in the likeness of the death, burial, and resurrection of Christ was in the hope of their own resurrection from the dead through Christ's resurrection. For, or on account of, the dead they were baptized with the expectation of the resurrection from the dead, even as Christ was raised from the dead. But if Christ be not raised from the dead, then why should they be baptized for the sake of their own resurrection from the dead? The passage is difficult of interpretation and has received almost as many interpretations as there have been commentators. The interpretation I have given harmonizes best with Paul's argument.

Brother McQuiddy: (1) Is there any authority in the Bible for ordaining (or appointing) evangelists? (2) Can a man be an evangelist before he has proven himself to be a faithful elder? (3) When Paul said, "Let the elders that rule well be counted worthy of double honor," was it not the same as to say to the elders; "Do the work of an evangelist, make full proof of thy ministry?" I have been told by a preacher of more than ordinary ability that I cannot be an elder because I have no believing children (in fact, we have no children at all), but can be an evangelist. This I cannot harmonize with the Scriptures.

H. D. J.

(1) The Bible teaches that God or the Holy Spirit makes evangelists: "And he gave some to be apostles; and some, prophets; and some, evangelists; and some, pastors and teachers." (Eph. 4: 11.) Acts 13 is sometimes cited as authority for appointing evangelists, but it should be noted that Paul and Barnabas were already engaged in teaching when the Holy Spirit said: "Separate me Barnabas and Saul for the work whereunto I have called them. Then, when they had fasted and prayed and laid their hands on them, they sent them away. So they, being sent forth by the Holy Spirit, went down to Seleucia; and from thence they sailed to Cyprus." (2) I know of no Bible teaching that demands that a man must be an elder before he can be an evangelist. (3) This means that the bishop, or elder, who is faithful in taking the oversight and in teaching should be held in high esteem and maintained or supported by the church. Christians who have children should have obedient children before they may become scriptural elders. But I do not understand that a man who is childless, through no fault of his own, is on that account barred from being an elder in the church.

* * *

Brother McQuiddy: As there is a difference of opinion here in regard to Rom. 16: 1, 2, we would like to have the benefit of your knowledge. Do the Scriptures teach that a deacon's wife is a deaconess? Was Phœbe a deaconess? Does the word "servant" in this passage and the word "deaconess" come from the same Greek word? Was the "business" referred to in verse 2 a special business of the church, or was it any secular business she might wish to engage in?

W. H. KIRK.

The Scriptures do not teach that a deacon's wife is a deaconess, any more than the wife of a preacher is a preacheress. Phœbe was a deaconess, and the Greek word "diakonon" is translated "deaconess," or "servant," in Rom. 16: 1. The American Revised Version has "servant" in the text and "deaconess" in the margin; hence "servant" and "deaconess" are from the same Greek word. To say that she was a servant of the church would not convey any special work. In the East, where women were so much secluded, deaconesses would be very necessary. Adam Clarke says: "There were deaconesses in the primitive church, whose business it was to attend the female converts at baptism; to instruct the catechumens, or persons who were candidates for baptism; to visit the sick and those who were in prison; and, in short, perform those religious offices for the female part of the church which could not with propriety be performed by men. They were chosen in general out of the most experienced of the church, and were ordinarily widows, who had borne children. Some ancient constitutions required them to be forty; others, fifty; and others, sixty years of age." As the term used in the Greek is a legal one, it is supposed that some kind of legal business called her to Rome and that they should assist her in this matter.

God has made no promises of success to any who are half-hearted, while they who seek him with their whole heart will prosper both at the throne of grace and in the fields of conflict. Heartiness in prayer with heartiness in work is demanded by God as a condition of success.

MISSIONARY

BY J. M. McCALEB.

Sister Vincent's Health.

It is with regret that I have to announce that my wife's health has become so poor and the causes so complicated that our doctors advise that she return home and spend at least three months in the Battle Creek Sanitarium. They promise the restoration of her health if we act upon this advice. So we have decided to return home for twelve or fifteen months, though it is a little early to take our furlough at this time.

At first it was thought she could make the journey alone, so that I might remain on the field with the work; but later developments indicate that I should accompany her. I would like to remain with the work, but my duty is quite clear. While we are at home the work can be carried on by our faithful native workers, with whom I shall directly communicate. This is the best plan under the circumstances and is quite satisfactory as a temporary arrangement.

When Mrs. Vincent gets well enough for me to leave her at the sanitarium, I can visit among the brethren and churches, and, by a direct and personal presentation of the urgent needs of our part of the Japan work, I hope and pray to be able to raise the necessary amount of money to meet these needs. If I can accomplish this, I shall be rendering a valuable and permanent service to the cause of Christ in Japan, which will more than compensate any loss the work may sustain on account of my absence at this time.

We have booked passage on the first available ship, the Empress of Japan, which is due to sail from Yokohama on June 9, and is due to arrive at Vancouver twelve days later. We expect to reach Battle Creek on or about June 28. Passage to Vancouver is one hundred and fifteen dollars each, and the railroad fare from that point to Battle Creek is about fifty-five dollars each, not including meals and incidentals. I understand that a liberal reduction is made to missionaries at the Battle Creek Sanitarium; however, expenses will necessarily be rather heavy. We are confident that the Lord's people will provide for these extras and at the same time bear in mind that we are still financially responsible for our work in Japan. I have arranged to borrow the passage and railroad fare.

Letters started from the States on or before May 12 will reach us before we sail. But from May 12 we request that our contributors and friends write us in care of the Battle Creek Sanitarium, Battle Creek, Mich., until further notice.

C. G. VINCENT.

Tokyo, Japan, April 26, 1916.

Report of Jolley and McHenry for 1915.

We submit a brief report of our work for the year 1915. This year has been one of great distress throughout the world. Nearly all the principal nations have joined in the terrible war which has been laying waste vast portions of Europe, besides destroying the lives of hundreds of thousands, and the nations not directly engaged in war have felt its effects. We are indeed thankful that amidst so much confusion in the world we have been permitted to labor undisturbed for the Master in India. We have so many things for which to be thankful. Paul says: "In nothing be anxious, but in everything by prayer and supplication let your requests be made known unto God. And the peace of God, which passeth all understanding, shall guard your hearts and your thoughts in Christ Jesus." How many of us fail to consider in how many ways God is blessing us!

"Count your many blessings,
Name them one by one,
And it will surprise you
What the Lord hath done."

For one thing, we have all enjoyed reasonably good health during the year that has passed, and for this we are truly thankful, for without health our work would be greatly hindered. It was always a cause of rejoicing to see souls saved. This has been our experience during the year. Two hundred and forty-five baptisms are reported for the year; of these, one hundred and thirteen occurred during the last month of the year.

During most of the year twelve native workers assisted. We are making a strong effort to develop a strong force of native helpers as fast as means are supplied with which to take charge of them. One special Bible study was held for them during the year. Besides this, most of them are brought to us and given a few months of personal teaching and study. A large and enthusiastic Bible study marked the beginning of the new year.

The last year has seen the work greatly increased as to territory. A work was opened in Northern India, with Brother Umrao Singh as the worker. Enough has already been said about him to assure you that he is a good man at the right place. Some four or five baptisms have been reported from that field. Brother Jolley will soon go there to assist him in getting the work started and well under way. The population of Northern India is about forty-seven million. Two trips were made to Naini Tal during the year, and everything points to a great work there in the future. Work was also started in the Nizam's dominion among a population of about fifteen million. Two visits have been made to this field, and, as a result, seventy-one have been baptized. Many other villages are calling for us to come and preach the gospel to them and baptize them. Several workers are needed for this field, for it promises to be a field-ripe unto harvest. The people seem more anxious to hear the word than ever before. Remember, brethren, that as the field is enlarged there must be an increase of the number of laborers. First, there is need of additional American laborers to take the general oversight of the operations; secondly, there is need of more native teachers to shepherd the flocks which are being brought from the fold of Satan. It takes only five dollars a month to support a native man all of his time. In arranging your work for this year, consider our needs as mentioned above.

We have purchased a small printing press which we are using to put the gospel before the people with the printed page. This was made necessary by the continued cries of the people for reading matter wherever we went. More than twenty thousand Testaments, scripture portions, and tracts have been distributed during the past year. Besides these, the church in Satara recently sent sixteen thousand scripture portions to the native soldiers in the trenches. We hope to see more than this done during the coming year. Do not forget that we must have a fund for this important phase of the work.

We now give a brief financial statement: Received by Brother Jolley (personal support), $1,357.94; received for his helpers, $762.33; received for printing, $50.10; received for McHenry's support, $585.75; received for his helpers, $144.69. Brethren, we gratefully thank all who have had fellowship with us during the past year and pray that God's richest blessings may rest upon you. During the year we trust that we may have your continued fellowship.

Submitted in love,

W. HUME McHENRY.

E. S. JOLLEY.

GOSPEL ADVOCATE

EDITORS.

D. Lipscomb, E. G. Sewell, E. A. Elam,
M. C. Kurfees, T. B. Larimore.

MANAGING EDITORS.

J. C. McQuiddy, A. B. Lipscomb.

SPECIAL DIRECTIONS.

Subscriptions are $1.50 a year, in advance, including postage to any part of the United States. To Canada and foreign countries, $2 a year, in advance.

The Date on the Yellow Label on your paper serves you as a receipt, and indicates the time to which your subscription is paid. When you renew, if the date is not changed within three weeks thereafter, please call our attention to it.

Discontinuances. No paper will be continued over twelve months after the subscription has expired. This will give all ample time to renew.

Payment for the Advocate, when sent by mail, should be made by post-office money order, express money order, registered letter, New York exchange, or postal note. Neither currency nor coin should be sent in a letter, unless registered; and when so sent, it is at the risk of the sender. Have your remittances made payable to the Gospel Advocate, and never to any member of the company.

Do Not Write Business on the same sheet as matter intended for publication.

Change of Address will be cheerfully made at the request of any subscriber giving post office, county, and State from which the change is to be made, and post office, county and State to which the paper should go after the change.

Renewals. In renewing, give the name just as it appears on the yellow label, unless it be incorrect, in which case please call our attention to it; and always give the name of the post office to which your paper is sent, as this is the guide by which we are enabled to find your name on our list.

Do Not Send Matter intended for the Advocate to the editors personally. This may occasion delay. Address the Gospel Advocate Publishing Company, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

Guarantee of Advertising.

All the advertisements in this paper are, we believe, signed by trustworthy persons. To prove our faith by works, we will make good to actual subscribers any loss sustained in trusting advertisers who prove to be deliberate swindlers. We shall not attempt to adjust trifling disputes between subscribers and honorable business men who advertise, nor pay the debts of honest bankrupts. To make this guarantee effective, in all cases say in writing advertisers, "I saw your advertisement in the Gospel Advocate," and if anything goes wrong, notify us immediately in writing.

JACOBS & CO., ADVERTISING MANAGERS,
Clinton, S. C.

Marrying Unbelievers, Again.

In his reply to my article on the above subject of March 30, Brother McQuiddy manifests a Christlike disposition, which I highly esteem in any brother. Truth, righteousness, and justice should be the sole object in discussions, and not to antagonize for the purpose of demonstrating one's wit and intellectual powers. If controversy is conducted on a high plane, it is certainly productive of good; otherwise, the disputants are driven farther apart, the truth for which both claim to contend is obscured, and a spirit of animosity, jealousy, and strife created. Far be it from me to boast, save in the truth of Christ for which I am honestly and earnestly contending in my feeble manner. I would not intentionally have any one think that I am opposing Brother McQuiddy for the purpose of creating a spirit of controversy, for, when I wrote my first article, I intended that it would be the first and last on this subject. But owing to Brother McQuiddy's unsatisfactory reply, the appearance of another article on the same subject seems necessary, and I am hoping that this article will prove successful in clearing away the fog which gathers around our brother's position and that he and all may see the question of marriage in its true light.

In my judgment, our brother shows his weakness and the uncertainty of the establishment of his position by saying that "the criticism concerning my marrying a maiden to a sectarian and then declining to marry the same person when a widow a few months later to a sectarian is aimed at Paul and not at me." When one gets into the quicksand and finds that he is fast, he makes a strenuous effort to shift himself by grabbing for support; but the more he wriggles, the deeper he gets. In his reply our unfortunate brother made a hard struggle to get out of his difficulty by saying that the force of my statements hit poor Paul instead of him. I am glad that Paul has so fortified his position on marriage that excuses and assumptions do not affect it. It was he who said, "Be not unequally yoked with unbelievers," and it will require more force than assumption to overthrow it.

Another effort is made by my brother to get out of his trouble by saying that the marriage question was "not under consideration when the Spirit says, 'Be not unequally yoked with unbelievers.'" But notice carefully, my dear readers, the admission he makes and the effort to get out of the quicksand and get with me on the firm, solid rock. He says: "The scripture [2 Cor. 6: 14] here includes much more than marriage!" We admit that there is more included than marriage, but notice he says that it includes marriage. This is the very thing for which I have been contending. Here we are agreed. This being true, our brother has lost his case and mine stands unchangeable. His admitting that marriage is included in the above passage forces him to the conclusion that marriage of a Christian to an unbeliever is an unequal yoking which is strictly forbidden by the Spirit, antagonistic to the teaching of the word of God, and displeasing to our Heavenly Father.

Still another effort is made to justify his position by making a play on the word "unbeliever." In the passage to which reference has been made he thinks that the word "carries with it the force of 'infidel.'" Then he quotes Macknight as authority. We agree with him that the word "infidel" is used in this passage in the King James Version, but in the American Standard Revision, which is by far the best translation of the Holy Scriptures, the translators being the most competent men of the world at the time in which the translation was made, the word "unbeliever" is used in preference to the word "infidel." In this matter I am quite willing to abide by their judgment.

As our brother seems to think that "sectarian" does not come under the head of the word "unbeliever," let us examine the word. A sectarian is one who is a member of a sect. The general acceptance of the word "sectarian" means one who is not a member of the body of Christ, but a member of a human organization. Having this explanation before us, the dividing line between the believer and unbeliever is drawn by the Scriptures between those who are in Christ and those who are in the world, or out of Christ. And this is where Paul draws the line when he says: "Be not unequally yoked with unbelievers." For what portion, fellowship, communion, hath one of the world with one who is a child of God? The apostle understood that there is no neutrality in Christ; we are either for or against Christ. It is generally understood that there are degrees of unbelief, as there are of belief, or faith. The unbeliever of whom Paul speaks is one who is out of Christ, unsaved, a member of the world, and one who has not been born anew. With such a one, union in holy matrimony with a child of God is positively forbidden, opposed to the teaching of the Spirit, very displeasing to our Heavenly Father, and bars the carrying out of Christian duties, such as bringing up children in the teaching of the Lord Paul's injunction: "Ye fathers, provoke not your children to wrath; but nurture them in the chastening and admonition of the Lord." (Eph. 6: 4.)

As to the marriage ceremony being only an act of legislation, I agree; but from a divine standpoint, God does the uniting of Christian companions, and they are married, united, so far as God is concerned, when they agree to be husband and wife and come together in that relationship. The civil law authorizes many things which are not countenanced by God, such as one's divorcing a wife or husband under almost any circumstance, while the Scriptures specify the ground on which divorce is possible. Thus man-made laws are no guide in choosing a life companion and the uniting of the same.

Now the question arises in our minds: If God absolutely refuses to join believers to unbelievers, which he does, is it right for one who is a child of God to assist in uniting those whom God will not unite? No preacher—or any other Christian, as far as that is concerned—is authorized by divine intelligence to take part or participate in that which is directly opposed to the Spirit of God. As being "unequally yoked with unbelievers" is forbidden by the Spirit, he who encourages or assists in that which is forbidden and not in harmony with the tenor of the Scriptures does that which is very displeasing to our Heavenly Father. "Have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness, but rather even reprove them." (Eph. 5: 11.)

Seikirk, Ontario.

W. F. Cox.

The discriminating reader has already discovered that I am advising Christians to marry in Christ and not out of Christ. While the Bible teaching on the subject of marriage is advisory and not mandatory, Christians, for prudential reasons, should marry in Christ. The general trend of Bible teaching encourages Christians to marry believers. While God has ordained marriage for the elevation of society and the happiness of its members, yet the Scriptures do not teach that a man will be lost simply because he does not marry. Paul advised people not to marry, not because it is wrong to marry, but for prudential reasons and under certain circumstances it is best not to marry. Just so, for our own usefulness and happiness, it is best for Christians to marry believers; but to say that it is a sin not to do it is going beyond what is written.

Brother Cox relies on 2 Cor. 6: 14 to establish his contention. The passage is: "Be not unequally yoked with unbelievers: for what fellowship have righteousness and iniquity? or what communion hath light with darkness?" With him, the believer is in Christ and the unbeliever is out of Christ. The Bible does not so teach. We discover from the Bible that some believers are out of Christ. "Nevertheless even of the rulers many believed on him; but because of the Pharisees they did not confess it, lest they should be put out of the synagogue: for they loved the glory that is of men more than the glory that is of God." (John 12: 42.) Our brother will hardly say these believers were in Christ. Here is another passage that ruins his position: "As he spake these things, many believed on him. Jesus therefore said to those Jews that had believed him, If ye abide in my word, then are ye truly my disciples; and ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." (John 8: 30-32.) Here are believers out of Christ and yet in bondage to sin. Surely, then, they were not in the church. The Bible makes a clear distinction between believers and obedient believers. He is also far from the truth as to the meaning of "unbelievers" as used in 2 Cor. 6: 14. The Greek word from which we have "unbelievers" in the noun form means of persons and their acts, not trusty, faithless; in the verb form it means to disbelieve, distrust, mistrust. It is true that the word may be properly rendered "unbelievers," for all disbelievers are unbelievers. All unbelievers, however, are not disbelievers. According to our brother's position, there are many unbelievers out of Christ who do not deny that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God. They do have a faith that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God, but because they do not have an obedient faith they are sometimes called "unbelievers," but never "disbelievers" in the Christian religion. The Greek word has the force of a disbeliever, one who denies the existence of God and that Jesus is divine, one who is untrustworthy. Christians are here forbidden to associate with infidels. They are not to be yoked with them in any way. This is clearly the teaching of the verse. But our brother says "unbeliever" here means any man of the world. If so, he is forbidden to associate with any man of the world or to make a contract with him. Brother Cox, did you never make a contract with a man of the world? If so, according to your view, you sinned; you are guilty of the same sin you charge against the believer who marries an unbeliever. If an "unbeliever" means any man of the world, then, indeed, you must get out of the world, for you cannot live without doing business with such people. Hear Paul: "I wrote unto you in my epistle to have no company with fornicators; not at all meaning with the fornicators of this world, or with the covetous and extortioners, or with idolaters; for then must ye needs go out of the world: but as it is, I wrote unto you not to keep company, if any man that is named a brother be a fornicator, or covetous, or an idolater, or a reviler, or a drunkard, or an extortioner; with such a one no, not to eat." (1 Cor. 5: 9-11.) So 2 Cor. 6: 14 does not forbid association with the whole world, but with infidels, disbelievers, and the untrustworthy.

It may be that my critic has wrongly interpreted "in the Lord" as used in connection with the marriage of a widow in 1 Cor. 7: 39. There is no doubt but that she is restricted in her marriage by the qualifying words, "in the Lord;" but what does this mean? Our brother's contention is that they mean that she must marry some one who is "in Christ." Is this final? Cannot such language have another meaning? For instance: "Children, obey your parents in the Lord." (Eph. 6: 1.) Does this mean that children must be "in Christ," members of the church, before they are to obey the Lord? Does not this mean that children, whether in the church or out of the church, should obey the instructions of their parents that are in harmony with the Bible teaching on the subject of rearing children? It is certain that the restriction which Paul gave only to widows is advisory and not mandatory. But as the Bible advises all Christians to marry believers, I would have no more hesitancy in performing the ceremony for a widow who was marrying an unbeliever than I would in pronouncing the ceremony for a Christian maiden who was marrying a man of the world. As Paul saw proper to apply the words "only in the Lord" to widows and not to maidens, I still say the criticism applies to him and not to me.

Our brother assumes that the believer whom Paul permits to remain with the unbeliever became a believer after marriage. This assumption does not in the least relieve his difficulty. If it be a sin for a believer to marry one of the world, will it not be a sin for them to continue in that relation? If the Spirit positively forbids such marriages, would he not positively forbid continuing in them?

Marriage is divine and is God's oldest institution. "But from the beginning of the creation, Male and female made he them. For this cause shall a man leave his father and mother, and shall cleave to his wife; and the two shall become one flesh: so that they are no more two, but one flesh. What therefore God hath joined together, let not man put asunder." (Mark 10: 6-9.) Congenial spirits and an affection which by far transcends every other earthly love are indispensably necessary to the happiness which the relationship is designed to impart. Two young people meet; they are congenial, and love is mutual, spontaneous. He is a believer, she is out of Christ. Must he crucify that love which God implanted in him and over which he has no control by forming a union with one whom he does not love, simply because she is in Christ? To destroy such a union of hearts would be to put asunder what God had joined together. As a man must love and cherish his wife as his own flesh and as the wife must reverence the husband, and as each must be gentle and kind to, and considerate of, each other, marriage must be decided and entered into by the contracting parties, and not by those who do not plight their faith and make the marriage vows. Marriage on any other basis is no more than fornication, a coming together to gratify passion, a thing which is secondary in God's design. Christians can only teach the contracting parties the instructions on marriage from the Lord and admonish them to follow them. May it not be possible that those who follow the instructions from the Lord concerning marriage are married "in the Lord?" Certainly we should not damn a believer who thinks it best to marry an unbeliever, since God does not condemn the believer who decides not to marry at all. Finally, it appears that if it be a sin for one who is in Christ to marry one who is out of Christ, it would be a sin to continue in such a relation, and, therefore, the duty of all who thus view the matter to urge a discontinuance of the relation. To show that Paul did not so regard it, note the following: "But to the rest say I, not the Lord: If any brother hath an unbelieving wife, and she is content to dwell with him, let him not leave her." (1 Cor. 7: 12.) The same is true of the wife.

The Matter of Unsound Teachers Considered.

BY M. C. K.

On page 491 of this issue of the Gospel Advocate will be found an article from Brother C. C. Merritt on unsound teachers and unsound teaching. From the note appended to his article, the reader will observe that in some other wise unexplained allusions in the body of his communication he meant the editor of the Gospel Advocate who writes these lines. We wish to assure our brother and all others that we do not hold ourselves above criticism, but are glad to have it and to profit by it. However, it is quite generally true that, in cases such as this, nothing is lost, but much is gained, by mentioning the name when some particular person is meant.

Our brother is not thoroughly clear in some of his statements, and we are not sure that we understand him in all his utterances; but, in deference to his wish, we gladly publish his article and leave our readers, in so far as we may fail to apprehend its meaning, to judge of its import for themselves. We deem it proper to note the following points:

1. The paragraph on "blood-stained garments" and "wading deep waters" is one that is not clear to us, and we pass it without further comment.
2. As to whether "every word of God is sound," we answer that it is, and that we should not "classify and separate God's word" so as to accept a part of it and reject the rest of it; and we should observe this principle whether dealing with the Old Testament or with the New Testament, and whether dealing with the writings of "Daniel, Isaiah, and Jeremiah," or of any of the other writers of God's word.
3. No, we are not to "lay down articles of faith saying that these are practical and essential and that all other teaching" is not; but we are to take the "articles of faith" which the Lord and inspired men "lay down" for us; and we agree with our brother that "the essential marks of soundness must be given by God himself and" that "they are all given in his word." And this answers the question as to whether "one man or a set of men" shall "state for us just what these 'vital and essential matters' are." The Lord and inspired men state them, and we must not have any "listed statements of 'vital and essential' matters" which they have not stated. Both the Gospel Advocate and others have been wrongly accused and grossly misrepresented in recent months on this very point of "listed statements of 'vital and essential' matters." Almost entirely to the extent that the leaders in the recent factious movement over prophecy have succeeded at all, it has been by false accusation, perversion, and misrepresentation.
4. When our brother says, "It is strange how some brethren are willing to leave out some truth and are yet so dogmatic about other truths," he meant that the writer of this editorial has done what he there charges. Our office ascertained this fact by inquiry and correspondence with him, which led to his appended note. We take pleasure in informing him that he is mistaken. However much we may sometimes, through inadvertence or oversight, "leave out some truth," we are never "willing to" do it; and, according to our conception of brotherly kindness and the ordinary amenities among brethren, it is somewhat "out of courtesy" for a brother to make such a charge.
5. On the matter of local church independence, our brother seems to be confused. He is certainly mistaken when he says: "For 'all other churches' to 'abide by' the action of any one church would destroy the independence of each church to" any extent at all. He overlooks the fact that "the action of" the "one church" in the case supposed, and which other churches are to "abide by," is the identical action which any other church, under the same circumstances, should take; and, instead of conflicting with the independence of each church, it is only a concession on the part of all the other churches that, were they in the same situation, they would do the same thing. Hence their moral and solemn obligation to "abide by" such action. It is not only in harmony with the independence of the local churches, but it assists in promoting peace and good order among them.

6. Finally, our brother makes the charge that there are "elders in particular that would have all others 'abide by' their actions," and "preachers, too, and editors of 'only right' papers" who "desire the same." Aside from the Gospel Advocate and at least one of its editors, we do not know to whom he refers, and we are willing for the readers of the Advocate to decide for themselves whether the charge may justly be applied either to it or to any of its editors. "Blessed are ye when men shall reproach you and persecute you, and say all manner of evil against you falsely, for my sake."

Help the Fanning Orphan School.

BY E. A. E.

The needs of this school were to some little extent stated last week. The real needs of the school are commensurate with the inestimable importance of caring for and preparing orphan and almost homeless girls for usefulness and the great good in life. This is not only the purpose, but the actual work, of the school. A lawyer, who had the care to some extent of three fatherless poor children, in no way related to him, and who looked after them through his own kindness, tells this interesting story of casting about to see what he could do first for the oldest one, who was a girl, and, hearing of the Fanning Orphan School, asked if it could take her, stating that she and her mother were members of a certain denomination and fearing that it could not. He was delighted to learn that the girl's belonging to this denomination or to no denomination at all was no hindrance and the school would gladly take her; and this it did and developed her into a useful woman. In turn, she inspired her two brothers to make something useful of themselves, and thus the good work and influence of the school proceeded. She married an intelligent, kind, and industrious man, who fills an important position in business and draws a good salary. Her brothers also have paying positions in the firms which employ them. This lawyer continues his praises of this school.

Now, with the necessary help, the school can care for and train many other such girls; and there are numerous men and women who should, and no doubt will, delight to furnish this help. The school must be maintained by the generosity of such men and women. One man can give a dollar; another, a hundred dollars; another, a thousand; and still another, five or even ten thousand.

The school closes its present session with an indebtedness of twenty-five hundred dollars. The appeal last week should clear it of this debt. While speaking a few days ago to Brother O. P. Barry, of Alexandria, Tenn., of this indebtedness of the school, he kindly suggested that if one hundred persons will give twenty-five dollars each, and do so at once, the amount will be raised. This can be done easily. But I replied that some will want to give more and some cannot give so much. Still we request all to give all they can. If twenty-five persons will give a hundred dollars each, that amount will be raised, and that can be done; but some will give more than a hundred dollars, and we cannot stop with the twenty-five persons.

Besides raising this present indebtedness, the trustees desire to raise the endowment fund so that the school can carry more girls free.

The trustees are worthy men, giving the school their time and means, managing it with the principal and his good wife to the best of their ability, and seeking its greatest good; but all others should feel under obligations, too, to do the same. Realizing this, we feel confident that as the work and needs of the school are frankly presented, all who are able to do so will cheerfully respond to these calls for help.

Send donations to A. N. Trice, treasurer, corner Wall and Monroe Streets, Nashville, Tenn.

Some Questions and Answers.

BY E. A. E.

Brother Elam: Gal. 4: 20 (King James translation) reads: "I desire to be present with you now, and to change my voice; for I stand in doubt of you." It seems that some of the Galatians wanted to go back under the old law that required circumcision after having become sons of God and received his Spirit. (Verse 6.) Please explain in the Gospel Advocate what change Paul desired to make when he used the expression, "and to change my voice." In your explanation use the old translation.

J. N. WATKINS.

Paul desired that the Galatians should so continue in the truth and not be troubled by the false teachers, who zealously sought them "in no good way," that he could change his tone from that of reproof to that of commendation. Paul never desired to change the truth—men and angels, he says, cannot do that; but the truth required him to reprove, correct, rebuke, with long-suffering and teaching, or to commend and encourage. Since he was re-proving, correcting, and instructing the Galatians, and was perplexed over them because of their course, he desired them to so amend their ways that he could praise instead of censure. There is nothing difficult in this.

Dear Brother Elam: I want to ask you some questions concerning our review lesson, as there is some division about the lesson. One of the elders said that it had reference to the sectarian churches and not to the lodges. Are not all lodges and human institutions condemned by the word of God? If they are not, I will confess that I do not understand the New Testament; and if they are right, I think that I ought to be in all of them, for I want to do all the good I can in this world.

G. T. MILLER.

In the lesson I had especial reference to all organizations except the church of God to do missionary work, and then to all human organizations to do any work God has committed to the church. All the work of the church—spreading the gospel; caring for widows, orphans, the needy and poor; looking after, developing, and disciplining the members and controlling all church matters and work—must be done by and through the church. Various benevolent, missionary, and religious institutions other than the church rob it of the time and means of the members and the church of its glory.

Brother Elam: Please explain Gen. 2: 17. God said to Adam that in the day that he ate of the forbidden fruit he should surely die. After God had declared that, Adam lived nine hundred and thirty years. Now, I want you to make the two statements harmonize.

A. DUNCAN.

When Adam ate the forbidden fruit, he was placed without the garden away from the tree of life, became mortal, and death followed. We have a similar expression in Rom. 8: 6: "For the mind of the flesh is death." To follow the things of the flesh is to be lost in the end. This leads to eternal death. Death means separation; and when Adam ate the forbidden fruit, he was separated from the garden and the tree of life and began his journey to the grave. Gen. 3: 22-24 explains this.

Brother Elam: Did those whom John baptized receive remission of sins when baptized?

J. G. BARLOW.

Yes.

Other questions will be answered in order.

Many readers have written to express their appreciation of the "Sermon on the Mount" Number. Space forbids printing them all, but they are encouraging, nevertheless.

The Church of Christ—Lesson XVI.

BY S. H. HALL.

How to Behave Ourselves in the Church.

(5) Seeking to save the lost. Here we come to one of the most outstanding characteristics of the church of Christ. The church, as such, is God's missionary society through which to carry the gospel from the rivers to the ends of the earth. Too much importance cannot be attached to this duty. Both in our congregational and individual existence he expects us to be lights to shine, salt to save, and loadstones, so to speak, to draw men to the "Lamb of God, who taketh away the sin of the world." Any body of people claiming to be the church of Christ that fails to take an interest in the lost is not worthy the name they wear. The individual Christian and the congregation that is filled with the Spirit of our Lord is intensely interested in the salvation of the world; for our Lord died to this end, his mission in the world being to "seek and to save the lost." Let us study the following thoughts:

(a) God's eternal purpose in Christ Jesus our Lord is that the manifold wisdom of God be made known by the church. (See Eph. 3: 10, 11.)

(b) That this be done through the church, as such, and not some human organization, is seen in the fact that the church is the institution in which we glorify God. (See Eph. 3: 20, 21.) This scripture is meaningless if there are other institutions in which we can glorify God. Too, God anticipated the error taught by some to-day—that the church, as such, was all right in the days of the apostles, but is not enough for this advanced age; hence he says: "Unto him be glory in the church by Christ Jesus throughout all ages, world without end." Even God himself will never establish another organization to take the place of the church.

(c) This duty, as already suggested, has both the individual as well as the congregational application. For its congregational application, study the following scriptures: Acts 13: 14; Phil. 2: 14-16; 4: 15-18; 1 Thess. 1: 8. In the first reference please to observe that the church at Antioch sent out men to cover a certain field; that these men did the work, then returned and reported to said congregation. So ought every congregation do to-day, if they are able to support one man or two men; and when they are not, they should cooperate with others in doing so. Then note the work of the church at Philippi. It had Paul in the field, with no other congregation helping, showing that each congregation must work, regardless of whether others do or not. Then study carefully how the church at Ephesus, the congregation established when Paul was being sustained by the Philippian brethren, became itself a radiating center from which the word was sounded out.

Note, too, the individual application. God has so fixed matters that we must be concerned about others. I have seen congregations that were dead instead of alive, and have heard individuals give that as their excuse for not doing more. As a rule, one real live wire will electrify a whole congregation. As individuals, we must work, if no one else does. (See 1 Tim. 4: 11, 12, 16; James 5: 19; Matt. 5: 14-16; Mark 9: 50.)

Finally, study Paul's language in Phil. 4: 1 and 1 Thess. 2: 17-19. Here you learn that his hope and that of his co-laborers and supporters consisted of those whom they had won for Christ. Remember the significance of the following question and answer: "For what is our hope, or joy, or crown of rejoicing? Are not even ye in the presence of our Lord Jesus Christ at his coming?" It is easy to see why Paul was unafraid to go before God at the judgment, when he was conscious of the fact that hundreds would meet him there whom he had led to Christ. If you want to be unafraid in that day, get some one to go with you. The Lord help us to be more fruitful. To strengthen all that has been said, study John 15: 1, 2, 8.

AT HOME AND ABROAD

Compiled by A. B. Lipscomb

"The 'Sermon on the Mount' Number was fine."—J. C. Estes, of Dallas, Texas.

J. J. Padgett is doing some good missionary work in and around Poplar Bluff, Mo.

A new congregation has been set in order at Bemis, Tenn., and a meetinghouse will be built.

C. E. W. Dorris closed a good meeting with the Sixth Avenue and Buchanan Street congregation, this city.

B. F. Hart, a staunch friend of the Gospel Advocate, who lives at Petersburg, Tenn., paid us a visit this week.

Willie Hunter will deliver an address before the Rural Carriers' Association at Livingston, Tenn., on May 30.

M. C. Kurfees, of Louisville, Ky., stopped by to see us while en route to Huntsville, Ala. We always enjoy his visits.

The meeting at Foster Street, conducted by C. E. Woodridge, increases in interest daily. Several baptisms were reported the first week.

A brother at Highland Park, Tenn., sent some queries to Brother McQuiddy, but forgot to send his name. Let us have the name and the answers will be forthcoming.

C. M. Pullias closed the meeting at Waverly Place, this city, Sunday. There were eight baptisms. He is now at Waverly, Tenn., and will begin at West Nashville on June 4.

W. D. Bills writes from San Antonio, Texas: "Our work in this city is doing nicely. Splendid services last Lord's day, with three additions. Our prospects have never been so good."

Four baptisms were reported the first week of T. Q. Martin's meeting at Twelfth Avenue, this city. The interest is excellent. Brother Martin preached at Watkins Hall on Sunday afternoon.

J. C. Estes has promised to hold some meetings in Tennessee this summer. He has some time open for work in Tennessee or Kentucky. Address him at 401 Montreal Avenue, Dallas, Texas.

From H. M. Phillips, Odessa, Mo.: "The Gospel Advocate grows better. I consider it the best paper in the brotherhood. It is a treasure in a home. Several wrote last week like it was a special issue. May the good work continue."

From Charley Taylor, Hickory, Ky.: "On Monday night, May 15, I will begin a tent meeting in Paducah. This is to be a mission meeting, supported by the Gobel Avenue church of Christ, of that city. Correspondents will please address me at 915 South Fourth Street, Paducah, Ky."

To-morrow (May 19) is the day for the reunion of the three oldest churches in Davidson County. Three important "don'ts": (1) Don't fail to go; (2) don't fail to take a basket; (3) don't hitch your horses to the young trees. David Lipscomb, Jr., is sensitive about them.

We are pleased to announce that we are getting out a second edition of "Around the Lord's Table," a comprehensive treatise on the duties and privileges of those who preside and those who partake of the sacred emblems. The first edition of this very useful little book was exhausted in a remarkably short time. The price is only twenty-five cents.

We rejoice with the good folks at Green Street, this city, in the splendid results attained in their meeting, as indicated by J. G. Allen's report: "Our protracted meeting at Green Street Church closed last Thursday night. Two baptisms and a full house the last night. Thirty-six additions to the congregation is the immediate result. We all feel that we cannot commend R. V. Cawthon too highly as a faithful, godly man. He should be kept busy all the time."

I have received a new little booklet on "Music in the Worship," written by our esteemed brother, W. H. Carter, of Lafayette, Tenn. The author claims to have written "as one of the common people—that is, not standing among the scholarly." But, nevertheless, he cannot escape the charge of having written something both scholarly and thorough in the treatment of this important subject. This is a good tract for general distribution. The price is five cents per copy, or twenty-five cents a dozen. Order from the author.

A discussion of the following subjects will be held at Booneville, Miss., on the Mobile & Ohio Railroad, beginning on June 13 and continuing four days: (1) "The use of instrumental music in divine worship is authorized by the word of God." D. A. Leak affirms; N. B. Hardeman denies. (2) "The use of instrumental music in divine worship is sinful, and the word of God so teaches." N. B. Hardeman affirms; D. A. Leak denies. A. G. Freed writes: "This discussion is creating quite an interest. The brethren and friends there are preparing to take care of visitors who may come. It is hoped that much good will come from it."

From J. A. Oullum, 1341 South Orleans Street, Memphis, Tenn.: "We now have four congregations and two mission points—namely: Harbert Avenue; McKellar Street; New South Memphis, Olive Street; Odd Fellows Hall, 106 North Court. The mission points are Highland Heights, at Sumner Avenue and Raleigh Springs car-line crossing, and Walker Mission, on Walker Avenue. W. Halliday Trice recently closed a good meeting with the Olive Street Church. He is now in a meeting at Brinkley, Ark. C. M. Stubblefield, of Kentucky, will hold the Harbert Avenue meeting next month. The writer will hold the Highland Heights meeting about the middle of June, and will also assist the brethren at Tupelo, Miss., in July. I am in position to receive calls for two more meetings, one for June and one in July. I am making arrangements to spend August, September, and October in Texas and Oklahoma doing protracted-meeting work. Brethren Bunner, Wilson, and Denton are assisting Brother Trice and me in evangelizing in and near Memphis. Brother Bunner has promised to hold a meeting at Weiner, Ark., next month. All of our congregations are holding midweek Bible studies, in which much interest is being taken. Pray for us that we may continue to grow."

B. U. Baldwin writes from Shreveport, La.: "We closed our first annual meeting on Tuesday night, May 9, with twelve additions. There were seven by baptism and three from the digressive church. A. O. Colley, of the South Side church of Christ, of Fort Worth, Texas, did the preaching. We consider Brother Colley one of the best. He did a great work for us, inspiring us by the word of God to new zeal, and now we are on our way to certain victory. God being our helper. The meeting closed with good interest, and all are hopeful of having Brother Colley with us next year. The South Side congregation supported Brother Colley in this meeting. South Side was the first congregation in Fort Worth, and has been instrumental in helping establish five other congregations in that city. But South Side is not content with only sounding the word in, but, like the congregations of old, she is sending the gospel out. This seems to be God's plan for mission work. I am sure South Side will always remember with much pleasure this work which they have done. We are very thankful to them for their assistance. We have about sixty members, and all of them are at work for the cause of Christ. The Lord willing, we shall have a house in which to worship by the first of September. We mean business for the Lord. Brethren, we need your prayers, your money, and your encouragement in this great work in Louisiana."

SPRING MEDICINE

Hood's Sarsaparilla, the Great Blood Purifier, is the Best.

Spring sickness comes in some degree to every man, woman and child in our climate.

It is that run-down condition of the system that results from impure, impoverished, devitalized blood.

It is marked by loss of appetite and that tired feeling, and in many cases by some form of eruption.

The best way to treat spring sickness is to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. This old reliable family medicine purifies, enriches and revitalizes the blood. It is an all-the-year-round alternative and tonic, and is absolutely the best Spring medicine.

Get your blood in good condition at once—now. Delay may be dangerous. Ask your druggist for Hood's Sarsaparilla, and insist on having it, for nothing else can take its place.

Oliver-Bogard Debate.

BY TICE ELKINS.

The debate between Brother Oliver and Ben M. Bogard, at Tell, Texas, closed on the last Sunday in April. The truth triumphed gloriously, though some of the Baptists claim victory. They all do not, however, and some of them felt their defeat almost as keenly as Bogard himself. They had wherewith to glory over us on one account—that two or three of our brethren got so mad at being called "Campbellites" they left; and the way the Baptists crowed over that was enough to make those brethren ashamed of it if they could have known. But Brother Oliver drove him to the wall; made him preach two baptisms from Rom. 6: 3, 4; made him say that baptism was no part of either gospel or grace—that it was man's righteousness; and when Brother Oliver quoted from Isaiah, that "all man's righteousness is but as filthy rags," Bogard let that strictly alone. Bogard's definition of total hereditary depravity made even the intelligent Baptists smile; and when, in debating baptism, he insisted on going to English dictionaries to define "eis" (for) in Acts 2: 38, he made himself ridiculous.

There was a large attendance every session and we got the truth before people who had never heard a gospel sermon in life, and, therefore, rejoice. Bogard accused me of inviting everybody, all classes, to go to our church house on Sunday to commune with us, and I made him take it back publicly and confess that he never knew before what we did teach as to open or close communion; and he promised he never would in life again accuse us of inviting ungodly people to the Lord's table.

Bogard tried to incite ill feelings and trouble by telling that the young men said they would knock Brother

Oliver down if he did them like he did Bogard; but the young men behaved so well and were so respectful that he failed to start anything, only showing his defeat in the debate by trying to divert people's minds to something else. "Campbellism" was Bogard's stock in trade, but Brother Oliver could not get him to affirm in debate that the church we belonged to was started by Campbell. They do not want any more of it there. I moderated for Brother Oliver; Mr. Long, for Bogard.

Let Churches Take Warning.

We, the undersigned, feel duty bound to give warning to the churches of Christ in Northern Alabama, also in other sections of the country, concerning Brother J. H. Hill, of Hartsville, Ala.

By our association with him and facts ascertained from reliable sources, we have discovered that he is aligned with the digressive element and is in sympathy with their movement. While he claims on certain occasions to be loyal to the truth, to our certain knowledge he is not. We have proof from digressive papers and from his own lips sufficient to convict any man of being aligned with them and not in sympathy with the truth.

We will not take the space in this paper to give the facts which we have from papers that are digressive, also statements from his own lips and arguments he has made in defense of instrumental music and organized missionary societies, but will state that should any church want proof they may write to W. T. Boaz, Columbia, Tenn., or to any of the parties named, and information will be furnished.

We seriously regret having to make this statement, but duty compels us. He has imposed himself upon congregations, holding up the Gospel Advocate and other loyal papers, claiming that he is a subscriber to them, and yet in our presence confessed that he did not report his work through any of these papers, but that he did report his work through the digressive papers.

We would state to the brethren everywhere, if you do not want the minds of the unsuspecting poisoned in your congregations, and if you want to preserve the purity of the faith, men of his type should be kept out of your pulpits.

[Signed] J. T. Harris, Florence, Ala.; W. C. Phillips, Cleveland, Tenn.; W. T. Goalen, Dothan, Ala.; R. L. Shook, Belmont, Miss.; R. W. Jernigan, Bridgeport, Ala.; W. T. Boaz, Columbia, Tenn.

Funds for Shreveport, La.

BY H. H. MONTGOMERY.

The church in Shreveport received donations to our building fund in the last month as follows: From Ben West, $5; church at Troupe, Texas, by I. E. Tackett, $10; Sister Rance, 50 cents; Dr. F. Houston, $5; J. R. Deen, $1; T. H. Jackson, $1; W. T. Hurley, $5; D. H. Moyers, $10; J. S. Pearson, $2; O. C. Riddle, $2; Roscoe Cawyer, $10; J. M. Deveny, $1; P. E. Payne, $2; E. A. Fullerton, $1; J. H. Menges, $2; E. F. Gough, $10; I. K. Webb, $3; L. L. Grantham, $1; A. A. Huffstetler, $5; T. M. Randolph, $2.50; R. E. Kirk, $1; Mrs. M. O. Daley, $2; L. F. Huggens, $2; Henry B. Maddox, $1; W. D. Black, $1; Mrs. Addie Fullerton, $1; Mrs. M. H. Boyd, 50 cents; Omega Young, $2; H. R. Harrison, $2.50; W. A. Kelly, $2.50. Total, $94.50.

We feel thankful to all those good people and pray God's blessings on them.

A Nervous Breakdown,

no matter how trivial it appears, may be the beginning of the end of you. The heart and nerves are so closely connected that nothing can affect the nerves without affecting the heart. A shattered nervous system means a weak heart. If you are troubled with palpitation, short breathing, weak and irregular pulse, sleeplessness, swollen ankles, pains on either side of the chest, or the many other symptoms of a nervous breakdown, take "Renovine," the best of nerve tonic, and build up your nervous system. For sale by the best dealers everywhere. Price, fifty cents and one dollar. Manufactured by Van Vleet-Mansfield Drug Company, Memphis, Tenn.

GOSPEL TENTS

You will be doubly repaid if you will send for our complete catalogue of tents before placing your order, whether you are interested in a large tent for revival use or a small "comfy" tent for the children or a knockabout tent for camping purposes. We make all kinds, and they are all good.

Awning for your home can be had from us at a figure that will please you. If better material, better workmanship, and prompt deliveries interest you, better write us to-day for prices.

INDIANAPOLIS TENT AND AWNING CO.,
447-449 East Washington Street, Indianapolis, Ind.

"I DON'T SUFFER ANY MORE"

"Feel Like a New Person," says Mrs. Hamilton.

New Castle, Ind.—"From the time I was eleven years old until I was seventeen I suffered each month so I had to be in bed. I had headache, backache and such pains I would cramp double every month. I did not know what it was to be easy a minute. My health was all run down and the doctors did not do me any good. A neighbor told my mother about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I took it, and now I feel like a new person. I don't suffer any more and I am regular every month."—Mrs. HAZEL HAMILTON, 822 South 15th St.

When a remedy has lived for forty years, steadily growing in popularity and influence, and thousands upon thousands of women declare they owe their health to it, is it not reasonable to believe that it is an article of great merit?

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

OUR DIRECT FACTORY TO HOME plan saves you money.
WE PAY THE FREIGHT and ship to you any piano or player piano you select from our catalog.
25 YEARS GUARANTEE on all our pianos and player pianos.
FREE MUSIC LESSONS to all who accept our offer. Write for handsomely illustrated piano catalog and full details of our selling plan.
SCHOLLER & MUELLER PIANO CO.
 Established 1860. Capital and Surplus, $1,000,000
 Dept. GA Omaha, Nebraska
Send This Coupon Today
 SCHOLLER & MUELLER PIANO CO.
 Dept. GA Omaha, Nebraska.
 Send me your Piano Offer and Free Catalog.
 Name.....
 Address.....

Rest for the Weary.

BY C. PETTY.

There is no such a thing as rest for the Christian in this life. Paul says that we must through much tribulation enter into the kingdom of God. Then we cannot look for rest this side of the eternal kingdom; for there are too many trials, temptations, and sorrows in this life for rest to be found. When Job's wealth was all gone, his children all dead, and his afflictions so great, he longed for death, and said: "There the wicked cease from troubling; and there the weary be at rest. There the prisoners rest together; they hear not the voice of the oppressor." (Job 3: 17, 18.) When David was surrounded by so many enemies, he said: "O, that I had wings like a dove! for then I would fly away, and be at rest." (Ps. 55: 6.) Paul, after telling what the heroes of faith did to obtain the promises, said also that they "confessed that they were strangers and pilgrims on the earth." (Heb. 11: 13.) Strangers and pilgrims have no rest in this world. In Heb. 4: 9, Paul says: "There remaineth therefore a rest to the people of God." Verse 11 says: "Let us labor therefore to enter into that rest, lest any man fall after the same example of unbelief." John tells us that the Christian's rest is after his labor is ended, for while in the isle of Patmos he heard a voice tell him to write: "Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord from henceforth: Yea, saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labors; and their works do follow them." (Rev. 14: 13.)

Now what kind of labor must all Christians follow in order to enter into rest forever? There is but one answer to this—that is, to labor for the Master, for he says: "Take my yoke upon you, and learn of me; for I am meek and lowly in heart: and [I will give you rest] ye shall find rest unto your souls." (Matt. 11: 29.) Then, if we follow the footsteps of the Savior through life, doing what he says do and being what he says be, will he not give us rest? He says he will. Then we must live a life of faith, a life of prayer, a life of kindly deeds to others that are in need, and help to relieve the oppressed. And Paul says: "Follow peace with all men, and holiness, without which no man shall see the Lord." (Heb. 12: 14.)

We are to "do all things without murmurings and disputings: that ye [we] may be blameless and harmless, the sons of God, without rebuke, in the midst of a crooked and perverse nation, among whom ye [we] shine as lights in the world." (Phil. 2: 14, 15.) Paul and Silas never murmured while

Minister Tells How He Was Restored to Health.

The splendid restorative powers of Dr. Miles' Nervine were never better demonstrated than by the experience of the Rev. W. J. Houck, of Greencastle, Pa. We will quote from a statement that he made recently: "Several years ago I experienced some severe nervous shocks, which came at a time when my nervous strength and vitality had been greatly taxed by a severe season of work. My health was affected, and I was seriously threatened with nervous prostration. I could not sleep at night, and was so nervous that I would start at every little noise. My appetite was poor, and it seemed almost impossible for me to gain strength. Through the advice of a friend, I began taking Dr. Miles' Nervine and Liver Pills. I soon saw that my health was improving. Instead of that tired and worn-out feeling which had so oppressed me, I felt strong and cheerful. I could sleep soundly all night, and would awake in the morning feeling rested and refreshed. Since that time, whenever I am overworked or feel 'run down,' I find a bottle of Dr. Miles' Nervine is a wonderful help in bracing me up and in giving me renewed strength and health."

Dr. Miles Nervine will prove equally beneficial to others who are nervous and run down from overwork or from any other reason; and if it fails to benefit you, your money will be cheerfully refunded. It can be purchased at any drug store.

MILES MEDICAL COMPANY, Elkhart, Ind.

Cut This Out

and save it until you have written for your copy of the catalogue of the Gospel Advocate Piano Club. It will explain how, by placing your order for a piano or player-piano through the club of one hundred members, you get a factory discount of forty per cent, secure convenient terms, and are absolutely assured of perfect satisfaction. Each member is responsible only for his own order, all freights are prepaid; and as you try the instrument for thirty days in your own home before accepting it, there is no possibility of dissatisfaction. Everybody is delighted with the big saving in price, the convenient terms, and the superior quality and strong protective guarantees of the instruments. You are cordially invited to join. Address Associated Piano Clubs, Gospel Advocate Department, Atlanta, Ga.

PARADISE OF PRAISE.

A new song book. New, popular, standard songs and hymns that please—the very best for Sunday schools, religious meetings, etc. Don't miss it. Both notations.
 Price, 35 cents; dozen, $3.50.

Special.—Sample copy, 20 cents. Will include a free copy of "Temperance Trumpeter" or a "Civil Betterment Rally Song;" state which.
 Address.....

HILDEBRAND-BURNETT COMPANY,
 Basic, Va.

Rheumatism Conquered.

R. L. Eastman, secretary Nashville Board of Trade, Nashville, Tenn., writes: "My attention was called to your remedy, 'Renwar,' for rheumatic troubles. I gave it a trial and have been permanently relieved. It is with pleasure I indorse the merits of 'Renwar' for rheumatism."

"Renwar," the new, scientific remedy, relieves quickly and permanently rheumatism, by removing from the blood the cause of the trouble—uric acid. Many wonderful cures of cases of long standing are being reported. If you suffer from rheumatism, you cannot afford to miss this opportunity to be well again. "Renwar" is sold by all druggists; price, fifty cents per bottle, or sent, postpaid, on receipt of price. Warner Drug Company, Nashville, Tenn.

in prison at Philippi. They were whipped and imprisoned there, and while in prison they lived at the gate of heaven; for "at midnight" they "prayed, and sung praises unto God." (Acts 16: 25.) Could we all pray and sing under such circumstances, we would not be very far from the rest that remaineth to the people of God. Paul must have been almost in sight of that rest when he said: "I am in a strait betwixt two, having a desire to depart, and to be with Christ; which is far better." (Phil. 1: 23.) Good old Simeon wanted to go and be at rest, but the Spirit told him that he should not see death till he had seen the Lord's Christ; and when he saw him in the temple, he took him up in his arms, and blessed God, and said: "Lord, now lettest thou thy servant depart in peace, according to thy word: for mine eyes have seen thy salvation." (Luke 2: 25-31.) While Stephen was being stoned to death, he "looked up steadfastly into heaven, and saw the glory of God, and Jesus standing on the right hand of God, and said, Behold, I see the heavens opened, and the Son of man standing on the right hand of God," and said, "Lord Jesus, receive my spirit," and entered into rest that will last forever. (See Acts 7: 55-59.) Peter must have had a glimpse of rest in the land beyond, for he tells those Christians to whom he was writing: "Knowing that shortly I must put off this my tabernacle, even as our Lord Jesus Christ hath showed me." (2 Pet. 1: 14.) Wrapped in the drapery of a well-spent life in the service of the Lord, they could all lay down to a long and peaceful rest in heaven. The beloved John saw the home of rest, and all the countless hosts of God's people, and tells us of their condition. We hear him saying: "They shall hunger no more, neither thirst any more; neither shall the sun light on them, nor any heat. For the Lamb which is in the midst of the throne shall feed them, and shall lead them unto living fountains of waters; and God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes." (Rev. 7: 16, 17.) And some day, if we are faithful, we will rest with them where there is no death, no sorrow, no tears, but rest—rest forever.

Report of Funds.

BY LEE GARRETT.

The following additional contributions have been received by the church of Paris, Texas; Individuals at Waxahachie, Texas, by W. T. Allen, $7.50; W. F. Hinton and wife, Spencer, Ind., Route 2, $5; church meeting in Woodman's Hall, New Orleans, La., by Dr. D. L. Watson, $11.60; church at Quannah, Texas, by McClennahan, $20; reported in Firm Foundation, by G. H. P. Showalter, $3; church at Hines, Texas, by G. W. Magness, $2.10; L. Binkley, Ashland City, Tenn., $1; one box, Florence, Texas, Mrs. J. S. Hasty; Ruby Morrow, Nashville, Tenn., $5; church at Amarillo, Texas, one box of clothing; church at Sherman, Texas, one box of clothing; church at Coal City, Ind., by Mrs. Fred Cutler, $5.50; church at Austin, Texas, by G. H. P. Showalter, $25; church at Houston, Texas, by Early Arceneaux, $6; church at Deason, Tenn., by R. T. Farror, $6.56; church at Gunter, Texas, one box; church at Austin, Texas, one box; bedding and bedstead, unknown; church at Denison, Texas, by Dr. John A. Roberson, 9 boxes; one box, Mrs. H. T. Philippi, Cameron, W. Va., Route 1; individual at Santa Anna, Texas, $1; Daniel Stewart, Cameron, Manitoba, Canada, $5; B. M. Wales, Sabinal, Texas, $10; church at Austin, Texas, by G. H. P. Showalter, $4.50; Mrs. Van Jackson, Troy, Ala., $5; Mrs.

Fannie M. Gillespie, Hillsboro, N. M., $5; O. M. Lewis, Vassar, Mich., $1; "A Sister," Buechel, Ky., $1; church at New Bethel, Ala., by W. A. Knighten, $10.25; church at Cincinnati, Ohio, by F. L. Rowe, $25; P. A. Gibson, Richmond, W. Va., $1; Union Church, Granby, Mo., by Thomas J. Bonner, $8.25.

This includes all contributions received up to April 20, amounting to $561. There are some who have promised to send later. I feel hopeful that we are going to reach the thousand-dollar mark. We are indeed grateful to the churches throughout the country for these gifts and the many letters of sympathy received. One never knows who is ready to help until a calamity like this befalls him. I have tried to answer every one by letter, but I am behind some. I shall soon be able to express to all by personal letter our gratefulness for their assistance.

Enough clothing has been received, but quilts, pillow slips, and other bedding can be used.

We are still worshipping in a borrowed house, but by the time this is read we will be using a tabernacle. We will use this for our work through the summer, hoping to have our building ready by early fall. Brethren who wrote me about the time of the fire should write me again, for this mail was lost in the fire.

To Drive Out Malaria and Build Up the System,

take the old standard Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic. You know what you are taking, as the formula is printed on every label, showing it is quinine and iron in a tasteless form. The quinine drives out malaria, and the iron builds up the system. 50 cents.

You and Your Friends—and

Coca-Cola

You tried it because we told you how good and delicious it was.

But your friends began drinking it because you told them how good it was. This is the endless chain of enthusiasm that has made Coca-Cola the beverage of the nation.

THE COCA-COLA CO.
ATLANTA, GA.

10C

Demand the genuine by full name—nicknames encourage substitution.

Zolvonoids

For Feminine Ills

A scientific combination of medicinal sterilizing agents for the correction of irregularities and ailments peculiar to women and for the relief of chronic suffering with which a great many women are afflicted. Prepared from the same formula as Antiseptic Sphenoids which, for the past twenty-five years, have been prescribed by foremost physicians.

ZOLVONOIDS

are antiseptic and curative. Their ingredients, Boric Acid, Hydrastis, Acetanilid, Bena-Naphthol and Sulphate Zinc, are standard remedies.

ZOLVONOIDS are prepared in convenient size for easy application and act directly on the affected organs, by dissolving from body heat and permeating the afflicted organs, thoroughly disinfecting and restoring them to their normal condition.

ZOLVONOIDS bring great relief to suffering women. Every woman should keep Zolvonoids in her toilet equipment.

Sold direct and sent postpaid in a plain sealed package of forty-eight treatments for $1.00.

FREE trial package of five Zolvonoids tablets on request.

Prepared and guaranteed only by

The Zolvonoids Co.,
Desk B, 146 W. Georgia St.
Indianapolis, Ind.

GOSPEL TENTS

Our Prices Would Interest You.
Ask Us To Quote.

Fulton Bag And Cotton Mills,
Atlanta, Ga.

New York, Dallas, St. Louis, New Orleans

A Woman's Appeal

to all knowing sufferers of rheumatism, whether muscular or of the joints, sciatica, lumbago, backache, pains in the kidneys or neuralgia pains, to write to her for a home treatment which has repeatedly cured all of these tortures. She feels it her duty to send it to all sufferers FREE. You cure yourself at home, as thousands will testify, no change of climate being necessary. This simple discovery banishes uric acid from the blood, loosens the stiffened joints, purifies the blood, and brightens the eyes, giving elasticity and tone to the whole system. If the above interests you, for proof address Mrs. M. Summers, Box 195, South Bend, Ind.

FROM THE FIELD

Alabama.

Town Creek, May 7.—We had a spiritual feast last Monday night, Brother F. B. Srygley, of Nashville, Tenn., was with us. We had the largest crowd we have had at any time in more than a year, and all enjoyed the services. All could see the lesson that was being taught—that God's ways are not man's ways. Brother Srygley must have been feeling good. Like Bob Taylor, he had all of his wits. We hope he will at some time come this way again. As a church we are moving on and upward in a quiet way. During the last six years death has robbed us of some of our best material. Those that are left are faithful. Brother T. C. King, of Lawrenceburg, Tenn., is breaking the bread of life to us once a month this year. Brother King has given us some very fine, practical lessons. Perhaps he would not be called a "big preacher" by the world, but we think he is a large preacher in the eyes of the Lord. May the Lord prosper and bless all the faithful.
J. R. ARMSTRONG.

Maine.

Portland, May 8.—We had good, live services at all our places of worship here yesterday. I am to begin a revival with the church at Westbrook to-night. The outlook for the cause continues bright here.

W. E. MORGAN.

Mississippi.

Tishomingo, May 12.—I desire to write something concerning the cause at this place. There have been only three meetings held here in as many years, and we have a very small congregation; but the same can be truthfully said of them as was of Marion's men: "Our band is few, but true and tried." We are located in the northeast county of Mississippi, on the new Illinois Central Railway, twenty-five miles south of Corinth; and despite the fact that our town is but eight years old, we have the County Agricultural High School located here and claim it one of the best schools of its kind in North Mississippi. Before the school became an agricultural school, it turned out more teachers than all the rest of the schools in this county combined. It is affiliated with the State colleges. During the past session the dormitory was full and few students boarded in private homes, but we expect to have another dormitory before the next session begins. This is an ideal location, as we have good freestone water and healthful surroundings. We are working hard to build up the cause here in the face of strong opposition, and wish to state to the brotherhood, that if any brethren desire to locate near a good school, I would recommend that you inquire of this one before you locate.
LUTHER OWENS.

Tennessee.

Hickman, May 10.—I held a short meeting at Hickman, closing on April 30. I also preached a few sermons at Sykes, closing on Sunday night. Good

PANAMA HATS HAND-WOVEN.

Bungay's New Discovery Brings Costly Panamas Within Reach of All.

New York, N. Y.—Special.—It is now proven that the stylish Panama up to now only worn by the best-dressed people can now be sold for $1. You don't have to be skeptical about the low price, as it gives service like the $5 and $10 kind, but not so fine a weave, and by this new discovery of weave one can hardly tell the difference. A Panama gives a man or woman distinction and at the same time comfort. Mr. George J. Bungay, 28 South William Street, New York City, is backing up his discovery by sending a real, hand-woven Panama, any size, trimmed, blocked, with silk band, to any one for $1, postpaid. Fitted with Russian leather sweatband, 25 cents extra. He has guaranteed to fill all orders up to August 1 as an experiment; furthermore, his policy is that if you are not entirely satisfied, you may keep the hat and he will return your money.

attendance and attention at both places. The brethren at Sykes are few, but they are faithful. They are going to build a house of worship in the fall. May God bless them in their work.

T. A. PHILLIPS.

Chattanooga, May 7.—Brother J. D. Gunn, of Sparta, began a meeting for the Ridgedale congregation on April 18 and continued it till April 30, with four baptisms. The Ridgedale congregation is the result of a tent meeting held by Brother R. N. Moody in the spring of 1915, supported by the Central congregation. After the tent meeting closed, it was decided to make an effort to secure a suitable place for disciples living in this part of the city to meet for worship. A hall over a grocery store was secured at a rent of ten dollars per month. We have met regularly since July 11. Brother Moody gives us one-fourth of his time. We hope some day to have a building of our own to worship in. We decided to have a protracted meeting in the hall, and secured Brother J. D. Gunn to hold it, and we made no mistake in doing that. Although we had a few dollars laid aside as a building fund, Brother Gunn looked over the field and saw the prospects and at once launched a campaign to buy a lot for a building site, and through his efforts and management we have bought a lot, and expect to build when we get the necessary cash. Those having experience in building houses of worship are asked to offer any suggestion they may see fit as to arrangement, convenience, or anything that will help to economize on space and money. There is a necessity for a house of worship in or near Ridgedale. There is a territory about six miles long and from two to three miles wide, practically all built up and in which more than twelve thousand people live, in which there is no house of worship for people to worship in who want to worship

"as it is written." People who live in this territory are obliged to use the cars to get to worship, and the time in waiting on cars and transferring is a large item, to say nothing of money for fares. An instance: Think of a family of fourteen attending worship about three miles away; seventy cents car fare each way, and then worshipping in a community in which they do not live. Ridgedale is a growing suburb made up of day laborers, factory employes, mill hands, clerical and professional men—in fact, about all classes. It is a good place to live, and we want to make it a better place to worship. To any desiring to change locations, we ask to be considered, as we have about all to offer that any city has. There is a demand for good teachers in the grammar schools; and we will furnish a place to preach, if you want to do both. Those interested in teaching may write to H. D. Huffaker, commissioner of education, city of Chattanooga, or Prof. J. L. Hair, county superintendent, Chattanooga, Tenn. We need a good man in the song service. I think Brother A. M. Burton can render us a service in this by sending a man to Chattanooga to work for his company who will help us in the song service. We need men now—in the hardest fight; after the hard part is over others will come; but we need more workers now. Help us put Chattanooga, on the map, religiously. Any assistance we can offer those desiring to make a change will be gratis. My address is 2107 Vine Street, Chattanooga, Tenn.

S. S. McMAHAN.

Texas.

Rock Springs, April 17.—Our services were all good yesterday. Crowds were some larger than usual. Interest was fine, and I suppose the preaching was as good as usual. We shall have a protracted meeting, to begin the first Sunday in June. The church decided to have me do the preaching through that. We also have some mission work in view. Success to the Gospel Advocate.

C. D. CROUCH.

Cleburne, May 1.—The Sherman meeting continued two weeks. One man was baptized and others restored to the fellowship. Our home folks have not been idle. As a result of a few-nights' meeting conducted by Brethren Phillips and Rose, thirteen have been baptized. Brother R. D. Smith, of Sherman, is with us now for a series of meetings. We pray the dear Lord to bless our efforts in his name.

F. L. YOUNG.

Denton, May 4.—I am now on my way to Dequeen, Ark., where I am to preach Sunday. I am then going to Georgia for several meetings in that State. My first meeting is to begin in Atlanta on May 14. Will some Bible man tell me what the expression, "Where the Bible speaks, we speak; where the Bible is silent, we are silent," means? I trust I may get a number of answers from several of our preachers. Write me direct to Atlanta, Ga. I will be in Georgia till after the third Sunday in July. I think.

D. S. LIGON.

Fort Worth, April 17.—I held an eight-days' meeting at the Christian

IF YOU SUFFER FROM BACKACHE, LUMBAGO, KIDNEYS, RHEUMATISM, TAKE HOT WATER AND "ANURIC."

American men and women must guard constantly against kidney trouble, because we eat too much and all our food is rich. Our blood is filled with uric acid, which the kidneys strive to filter out; they weaken from overwork, become sluggish, the eliminative tissues clog, and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness, and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; when your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; when you suffer with sick headache or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, get from your druggist—"Anuric." Because of uric acid in overabundance in the system, backache, pains here and there, rheumatism, gout, gravel, neuralgia, and sciatica result. It was Dr. Pierce who discovered a new agent, called "Anuric," which will throw out and eradicate this uric acid from the system. Dr. Pierce believes "Anuric" to be thirty-seven times more potent than Uthia; and, consequently, you need no longer fear muscular or articular rheumatism or gout, or many other diseases which are dependent on an accumulation of uric acid within the body. Send Dr. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., ten cents for a trial package or one dollar for full treatment "Anuric."

Dr. Pierce's reputation is back of this medicine, and you know that his "Pleasant Pellets" for the liver and his "Favorite Prescription" for the ills of women have had a splendid reputation for the past fifty years.

1,000 Subscribed in One Month. "There's a Reason."

Why the People Want the Bible Study Helper.

A new monthly magazine containing the best thoughts of the best books focused on the lessons. Carefully selected illustrations from all available sources. Special departments devoted to teachers, boys and girls, and home study.

WHAT THEY SAY.

"Indescribably good." "Like food to a hungry soul." "A fine piece of work." "Fills a place not filled by any other magazine." "Comments on international lessons are excellent." "Every teacher and advanced student should have it."

COSTS VERY LITTLE.

Price, single copy, sixty cents a year; five or more copies to same address, fifty cents each.

Send Your Order to

McQUIDDY PRINTING COMPANY,

317-319 FIFTH AVENUE, NORTH,

NASHVILLE, TENN.

NERVOUS DISEASES

We have reprinted from a leading health magazine a series of articles by Doctor Biggs treating on Nervous Debility, Melancholia, Sexual Neurasthenia, Nervous Dyspepsia and other nervous diseases. The articles explain the cause of these ailments and fully describe the treatment employed at the Biggs Sanitarium in such cases. A copy of the pamphlet will be sent FREE to any address on request.

THE BIGGS SANITARIUM, Asheville, N. C.

College, at Abilene, embracing the second and third Lord's days in April. The meeting was a very enjoyable one. There were four accessions to the congregation—three were baptized and one added her name and promised her fellowship. I found both the church and the school in splendid working order. The students are bright, wide-awake boys and girls that will do and be something in the world. The teachers seem to enjoy the work and are a set of God-fearing and God-loving servants.

A. O. COLLEY.

BRISTOL COMMERCIAL COLLEGE.

(Successor to Nixon Commercial College.)

BRISTOL, TENN.

All Commercial Branches, Employment Bureau, Commercial Teachers' Course. Largest and best-equipped Business College in Southwest Virginia and East Tennessee. Special discount to those who enter this spring. New catalogue sent free to those interested. Write or call.

Church Bells

Memorial Bells a Specialty.
Methuen Bell Foundry Co., Methuen, Mass., U.S.A.

PELLAGRA

Cured Or You Pay Nothing

I have cured—cured to stay cured—90% of all who have taken my Pellagra Cure. What I have done for others I GUARANTEE to do for you or my treatment will cost you nothing. Highly endorsed by Physicians, Bankers, Ministers, County Officials and others. If you doubt, write any official or merchant in Walker County. No interference with work—no restrictions on your eating.

SYMPTOMS are: Hands red like sunburn; sore mouth; throat, tongue and lips flaming red; much mucus and choking; indigestion and nausea; diarrhea or constipation; mind affected and many other symptoms. No matter what anyone tells you about Pellagra, write for my FREE Book which fully explains my theory of the cause, prevention and cure of this dreaded disease—full of interesting facts which I have proven beyond doubt. Also contains full particulars of my remarkable offer of NO CURE—NO PAY. Free diagnosis to anyone sending symptoms. Send no money but write today!

Dr. W. J. McCrary, Dept 238 Carbon Hill, Alabama
Show this to some unfortunate sufferer

Never Neglect Colds; Treat Them Promptly

Often they lead to those pulmonary troubles which are responsible for more than one-tenth of all lives lost through illness.

Heavy colds which develop deep-seated coughs or cause inflammation of the air-passages and persist in spite of medication, weaken the system to a point where resistance easily is overcome—and asthma, bronchial and pulmonary troubles are the result. To renew normal resistance, Eckman's Alterative has been found highly beneficial in many instances.

Its lime content is so combined with other remedial agents as to be easily assimilated by the average person—and it contains no narcotics or habit-forming drugs of any sort. So it's safe to try. Sold by leading druggists or sent direct. Booklet containing information of value and references sent upon request.

ECKMAN LABORATORY

23 N. Seventh St. Philadelphia

JACOBS & COMPANY

SPECIAL ADVERTISING
AGENTS

PRINTERS
DESIGNERS
PHOTO-ENGRAVERS
ELECTROTYPERS

Catalogues
— a Specialty

HOME OFFICE
CLINTON, S.C.

Subscribe for the Bible Study Helper. Sixty cents per year.

On account of the large number of obituary notices coming to the Gospel Advocate the following rules must be observed: Obituaries that do not exceed one hundred and fifty words are published free of charge. When they exceed this limit, one cent will be charged for every additional word. Payment must accompany notice or else it will be reduced to one hundred and fifty words. Poetry will not be printed.

Bates.

My son, E. T. Bates, was born on October 16, 1888, and died on March 30, 1916. He died at the sanitarium at Booneville, Ark., where he was being treated for tuberculosis; the immediate cause of death being peritonitis. He leaves a wife, one daughter, a father, brothers and sisters, with many Christians and a great host of friends, to mourn his death. But what this world has lost, heaven has gained. He has gone to that home where the flowers eternally bloom and the sun is always bright.

J. A. BATES.

Linch.

Brother John T. Linch was born on August 27, 1843, and departed this life on September 11, 1916. He was united in marriage to Miss Parlee Daugherty on February 13, 1873. He is survived by his sorrowing wife and five children. More than forty-five years ago our brother was "born again" into God's family. He lived and died in the faith and hope of Christianity. His late home was near Christiana, Tenn., where he has many dear friends and relatives. We commend his sorrowing loved ones to God and his grace. May they be resigned to his will, and may they so live that they may look forward to a happy reunion on "eternity's blessed Isle."

C. M. GLEAVE.

Brady.

S. D. Brady was born on October 12, 1871, and died on April 7, 1916. He became a member of the church at about sixteen years of age, and, so far as we have been able to learn, lived a devout, Christian life until his death. He was married to Miss Sallie Gaskins on October 1, 1893, and to their union was born three boys and two girls that survive him. Brother Brady left this country in quest of health about two years ago and went to Texas, but in vain was his search. He came back to Fulton, Ky., about two weeks before he died and spent the last hours with relatives and friends of early life. Funeral and interment were had at Enon Church.

F. G. HOWELL.

Jackson.

One by one we are crossing over the river to join that innumerable company and live in the heavenly country forever. On February 24, 1916, Julia Ella Pippin was called to that better land. Julia was the oldest daughter of W. S. and Margaret Jackson, and was born on September 22, 1888, near Gainesboro, Jackson County, Tenn. She obeyed the gospel in September, 1906, under the preaching of Brother Byrd S. Goolsby, at Philadelphia congregation, in Jackson County. She was married to Joe Pippin on September 26, 1909. Soon after their marriage they moved to Park Hill, Okla. Julia was a sweet and dutiful child, a kind friend, a faithful wife, a good mother, and an earnest Christian. Those who knew her best sorrow not as those who have no hope, but feel that she made her calling and election sure. Besides her husband, parents, and sisters, to mourn her loss, she leaves four small children who will miss a mother's love. She was buried in Park Hill Cemetery on February 25; but her soul, triumphant through grace, lives forever with Jesus, whom she loved and served.

L. J. JACKSON.

Blackburn.

On March 29, 1916, there died in Franklin, Tenn., a really good, devoted, Christian woman—Sister Addie (Smith) Blackburn, wife of Brother B. E. Blackburn, who was born in the county of Williamson on September 21, 1854. She was in the sixty-second year of her pilgrimage on earth. She had been a faithful soldier of the cross for forty-two years, and during her life had manifested in a high degree the spirit of the Master. She was married to Brother Blackburn on December 31, 1874. From this union seven children were born, five of whom survive her—two sons and three daughters—all grown to manhood and womanhood. She was a faithful attendant at the meetings of the disciples. Ever ready to offer the cup of water to the thirsty; to clothe, as her circumstances would allow, the naked; and especially, when needed, to visit and wait on the sick, she manifested the characteristics of a truly consecrated member of the body of Christ. Most of her life was spent in Franklin, where she was held in the highest esteem by all who knew her well. I have seldom seen a larger number of sympathizing friends attend a funeral than hers, which was preached in the church. But we do not sorrow for her departure as for those for whom we have no hope.

JAMES E. SCOREY.

Jordan.

Mrs. Hardenia Jordan was born on February 27, 1832, and died on March 2, 1916, being, at the time of her death, eighty-four years and four days old. She was married in early life to A. H. Jordan, and to this union were born three children, two of whom, with her husband, preceded her to the spirit land. Sister Jordan was a widow for about twenty-five years before her death, and during this time

EVILS OF SOCIALISM.

By W. F. Lemmons.

A most popular book, full of startling facts and sensational disclosures:

1. A System of Infidelity and Darwinism.
2. Socialists' Attitude Toward Religion.
3. It Claims to Be Primitive Christianity.
4. A System of Free Love.
 - (a) The above points vindicated by recent publications.
 - (b) As shown by "woman under socialism."
 - (c) As shown by a "socialist wedding."
5. Socialism Borders on Anarchy.
6. It Proposes to Come into Power by Force of Arms.
7. It Is Opposed to Our Flag.
8. It Is Wrong in the Very Nature of Things.
9. God Intended that His People Should be Capitalists.
10. Communion of Nations Is Condemned of the Lord.
11. Socialists Are a Set of Calamity Howlers and Complainers.
12. They Curse Our Rulers in Open Violation of God's law.
13. They Are Wrong in that They Curse the Rich.

14. They Fight Against God in Resisting the Rulers.
 15. Our Relation to Civil Government is Subjective.
 16. Private Ownership.

"Can't all own a home under capitalism."
 17. They Are Wrong on the Labor Question.

The Bible on the Labor Question.
 18. Profit in Labor.
 19. Socialists Are Idolaters.
 20. Master and Servant.
 21. Its Effect on the Church and the Home.
 22. Socialism in the Schools.
 23. Questions for Socialists.
 24. A System of Social Equality.
 25. Socialists Are Modern Absaloms.
- Concluding remarks: "Cannot be excelled. The man who fails to read it will miss the best thing of his life. . . . Send me fifty copies." (T. B. Clark.) "Did not turn it loose till I finished it before I went to bed. . . . It is appalling." (Mrs. B. C. Newton.) Everybody, whether in favor of socialism or opposed to it, should read the book. Price, 25 cents a copy; 12 copies, $1.50.

she made her home with Sister M. F. Barton, her only living child. She obeyed the gospel some forty or fifty years ago, and as a Christian was constant in her devotion to the church. She attended regularly the services of the church as long as she was able to go, and even after she became too weak to attend she still took a lively interest in the welfare of the church. Like Paul, Sister Jordan "kept the faith" until death, being every ready to "contend earnestly for the faith which was once for all delivered unto the saints." She was a plain, unpretentious woman, and was always perfectly frank to tell any one and every one just where she stood religiously. As Sister Barton has for a number of years conducted a public boarding house in Murfreesboro (the Barton House), Sister Jordan was permitted to meet many of the preaching brethren as they passed this way, and she always manifested much interest in the preachers. The writer did not know Sister Jordan as a wife; but as a mother, a grandmother, and a friend, she was kind and considerate, and will be greatly missed in Sister Barton's home, in the Murfreesboro church, and in the Barton House by the many preachers who have been cheered along by this old mother in Israel. Sister Jordan was not perfect, of course, but she possessed some splendid traits of character. Let us emulate her in these.

G. DALLAS SMITH.

McClellan.

Mrs. Hattie C. McClellan was born in Commerce, Whson County, Tenn., on March 8, 1842, and died at her home, near Murfreesboro, Tenn., on March 6, 1916. She was buried at Alexandria, Tenn., where the greater part of her life had been spent, on her seventy-fourth birthday. She belonged to one of the pioneer families of the State, her grandfather, Sampson Williams, having assisted in surveying the boundary line between the States of Virginia and Tennessee. Her family were also pioneers in the Restoration movement, she herself having confessed faith in the Christ when yet a girl in her teens. For nearly sixty years she lived an earnest, faithful, consistent member of the Christian Church. Hers was a beautiful Christian life. She was naturally of a happy, cheerful disposition, strong in faith, gentle and thoughtful in life, patient in suffering, serving the Lord constantly. She was regular in her attendance upon the services in the house of the Lord as long as her health permitted. She was always lenient and charitable in thought toward others. Withal, she was a woman of strong Christian character and impressed for good those with whom she came in contact. She was married to S. W. McClellan on July 24, 1860, and for nearly fifty-six years they traveled the rugged pathway of life together. To the union of their lives four children were born, one of whom died in infancy. The husband and three children—Andrew McClellan and Mrs. Corrie M. Jones, of Nashville, Tenn., and Hugh McClellan, of Gallatin, Mo.—are left to mourn her going.

HUGH McCLELLAN.

Firm Foundation Publishing House, Austin, Texas.

WINTERSMITH'S
CHILL TONIC

Sold for 47 years. For Malaria, Chills and Fever. Also a Fine General Strengthening Tonic. 50c and $1.00 at all Drug Stores.

Allen.

On March 16, 1916, the death angel visited the home of Brother A. L. Allen, in Memphis, Texas, and claimed his dear companion, Mary Ann Allen, one of God's best women. Sister Allen was born near Cornersville, Tenn., on October 28, 1845, and moved to Roxton, Texas, in 1854, where she lived until 1912, when she moved to Hall County. She was married to A. L. Allen on November 1, 1866, and to this union four children were born, two of whom are dead. The living are Sam T. Allen, of Lodge, and Sister Allie Minor, of Memphis, in whose home Sister Allen had lived for some time, and who was exceptionally good and kind to her mother as an appreciative daughter. Sister Allen obeyed the gospel of Christ in 1874, having been baptized by the matchless Lawrence W. Scott, and was faithful to his cause unto the end. She loved the Lord and his church and for years furnished a welcome home for gospel preachers; and the Lord was good to her in that he permitted her to remain so long with her devoted husband, to help and comfort; with her children, to guide into paths of righteousness; and with the church, to build up. Sister Allen said time and again that she was prepared to depart this life, hence died in the triumphs of a living faith, in which her broken-hearted husband and children and grandchildren may find consolation and comfort. O. M. REYNOLDS.

When the Baby is Fretful, out of sorts and restless, you may know the stomach and liver are out of shape and a tonic is needed. Unless the organs are kept healthy, you provoke sickness and possible further complications. The best general tonic to tone up the system and keep the stomach and liver in healthy working order is Plantation Chill and Fever Tonic and Liver Invigorator. Especially good for babies and growing children. Tasteless and pleasant. They take it eagerly. For sale everywhere. Manufactured by Van Vleet-Mansfield Drug Company, Memphis, Tenn.

FIRM FOUNDATION An eight-page weekly religious paper devoted to the restoration of primitive Christianity. Excels in church news; an able corps of writers; extensively circulated. Subscription price, $1 a year, payable in advance. Special rates for clubs. We believe that every loyal Christian should have the Firm Foundation visit his home.

FIRM FOUNDATION PUBLISHING HOUSE, 2
Austin, Texas.

YOU CAN AFFORD Familiar Songs of the Gospel (No. 1 or 2). Round or shape notes. $2 per hundred, samples 5c each. 33 songs, words and music. E. A. K. HACKETT, FORT WAYNE, INDIANA

Oxford Bibles

Printed with
Very Large Type

For those who need an extra large type on account of failing sight or old age, this series of Oxford Bibles has no equal.

Weigh Only 29 Oz.

Most large-type Bibles are very heavy, but these Bibles are extremely light because they are printed on the famous

Oxford India Paper

Oxford Pica Square Bibles

Size $7\frac{1}{2}$ x $5\frac{1}{2}$ inches
Only $1\frac{1}{4}$ inches thick

Specimen of Type.

2 He only is my rock a salvation; he is my defe

- No. 01561x Alaska Seal, limp, leather lined. $8.50
- 01563x Alaska Seal, divinity circuit, leather lined, silk sewed. 9.00
- 01565x Levant Morocco, divinity circuit, leather lined, silk sewed. 13.00

Order from
McQUIDDY PRINTING COMPANY,
Nashville, Tennessee

GOSPEL ADVOCATE

AND

HOME AND FARM

$1.75 FOR ONE YEAR

For thirty-six years Home and Farm has been the leading farm paper in Kentucky, the South and Southwest. To-day it is stronger and better than ever and is of great value to every farmer.

The Gospel Advocate and Home and Farm have been clubbed for several years with much satisfaction and profit to our readers. We furnish the two papers for one year for $1.75 to new subscribers or renewals.

Gospel Advocate Publishing Company,
NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE

WHEN WRITING OUR ADVERTISERS PLEASE MENTION THIS PUBLICATION

'How Are the Dead Raised Up?'

BY L. D. PERKINS.

"But some one will say, How are the dead raised? and with what manner of body do they come?" (1 Cor. 15: 35.)

The careful Bible student will recognize two questions propounded by the writer, Paul, and by a continued study will also see two answers given.

First, the answer to the question, "How are the dead raised?" The writer begins to answer the question by directing our minds to the reproduction of the vegetable kingdom, and appeals to the power of God displayed in raising grain from seed which has rotted in the ground, and in giving to every seed when grown a body of its own kind. To give us an illustration, the apostle uses the grain of wheat or some other seed, that which we see every day, and which is but little less wonderful in its reproduction than the resurrection itself. He asserts that after the grain is sown in the earth it will not grow and reproduce unless it be rotted, but after the body is destroyed something springs up out of the ground, which is by a wonderful process of God, and ends in the reproduction of the same kind of grain, not bare as when planted, but adorned with stalk, blades, blossom, and the ear. The expression, "Thou sowest not the body that shall be," leads many to believe that the body we bury, the body of flesh, will not be raised. I do not think the apostle intends to teach this idea, but intimates that there will be a glorious change in the body, and more especially means that the grain of wheat is not the grain that was sown. It is just as reasonable to believe that God has the power to raise the dead as it is to believe that he has the power to convert the grain of wheat into another grain, and this fact we see day by day. He boldly asserts that "God giveth it a body even as it pleased him, and to each seed a body of its own."

The next argument he introduces to prove that God has the power to raise up the dead is drawn from the reproduction of the fleshly kingdom and the diversities of that kingdom. You will note that Paul did not take time to reason this illustration; for, no doubt, he recognized the power of mind that existed in the church at Corinth, and felt that he need only make mention of the fleshly kingdom and they were able to make the application as in the vegetable kingdom. Let us make the application. We will take the ostrich, a large bird, and a man from some isolated part of the world who is altogether ignorant of the reproduction of the fleshly kingdom, and with the

CALOMEL SELDOM

SOLD HERE NOW

Nasty drug salivates, makes you sick and you may lose a day's work.

Every druggist in town—your druggist and everybody's druggist—has noticed a great falling off in the sale of calomel. They all give the same reason. Dodson's Liver Tone is taking its place.

"Calomel is dangerous and people know it, while Dodson's Liver Tone is perfectly safe and gives better results," said a prominent local druggist. Dodson's Liver Tone is personally guaranteed by every druggist who sells it. A large bottle costs fifty cents; and if it fails to give easy relief in every case of liver sluggishness and constipation, you have only to ask for your money back.

Dodson's Liver Tone is a pleasant tasting, purely vegetable remedy, harmless to both children and adults. Take a spoonful at night and wake up feeling fine. No billousness, sick headache, acid stomach, or constipated bowels. It does not gripe or cause inconvenience all the next day like violent calomel. Take a dose of calomel to-day and to-morrow you will feel weak, sick, and nauseated. Do not lose a day's work! Take Dodson's Liver Tone instead and feel fine, full of vigor and ambition.

MILLER'S ANTISEPTIC OIL KNOWN AS

Snake Oil

WILL POSITIVELY RELIEVE PAIN IN THREE MINUTES.

Try it right now for rheumatism, neuralgia, lumbago, sore, stiff, and swollen joints; pains in the head, back, and limbs; corns, bunions, etc. After one application, pain disappears as if by magic.

A never-failing remedy, used internally and externally for coughs, colds, croup, sore throat, diphtheria, and tonsillitis.

This oil is conceded to be the most penetrating remedy known. Its prompt and immediate effect in relieving pain is due to the fact that it penetrates to the affected parts at once. As an illustration, pour ten drops on the thickest piece of sole leather, and it will penetrate this substance through and through in three minutes.

Accept no substitute. This great oil is golden-red color only. Manufactured only by the Herb Juice Medicine Company, Jackson, Tenn. Every bottle guaranteed—25 and 50 cents a bottle—or money refunded. At leading druggists' or sent, postpaid, on receipt of price.

Big Deal on Sterling Hose.

Big purchase direct from the mills on "Sterling" Half Hose enables us to offer them while they last at sterling prices.

"Sterling" Hose are stainless fast dye—good, clean, selected cotton yarn, nice weight, full seamless double heel and toe, wide elastic instep, long loop-on elastic ribbed top, full standard lengths; come in any color wanted; one dozen to a box, solid sizes, 9 to 11.

Sent, postpaid, to any address in the United States for $1.40 per dozen. Money cheerfully refunded if not delighted. These hose are sold for and are worth 20 to 25 cents a pair in many places. Order to-day. The Bee Hive, Box F, Clinton, S. C.

large bird before him, and one of the eggs, crush the egg in his presence, and then take the body of a man dead, and say to him that we could take another egg like the one we had crushed in his presence and produce out of it the large bird, and that we could bury the body of the man in the ground and it would come forth a live body. We inquire of the thoughtful reader, which would seem the most impossible? We think there would not be very much difference, if any, in the mind of the man who was unacquainted with the reproduction of the kingdom of flesh. Let us not leave this thought without considering the diversified beings of mankind, of beasts, of birds, and of the fish family, and then reason, if possible, how all this could be without the power of God; and if God is the cause of the existence of all this (and he certainly is), why should it be thought an incredible thing that he has the power to raise the dead?

The third argument introduced by the apostle to convince the church at Corinth that God has the power, and that, therefore, it is a thing possible for the dead to be raised up, is drawn from the worlds celestial and the world terrestrial. The celestial bodies are the sun, moon, and stars; the terrestrial is the earth. The greatness and power of God is shown in the creation and formation of these bodies. The apostle does not intend to teach by the expression, "One star differeth from another in glory," that some will occupy a greater place or blessing in heaven, for we would hardly agree that the battled-scarred Christian with sin would have a greater place than one who had been able to reach heaven with but few transgressions; and surely if one is entitled to the greater place, it would be the one who had met and encountered the many temptations, and even he had many times fallen, yet he had arisen and finally succeeded in reaching the haven of rest. Our attention is merely called to the difference in the creation and construction so that we may be led to believe that God purposed in this difference of creation and construction that it might not be reasonably said that they just happened into existence, seeing that they did not happen alike. The apostle does not intend to teach that the reproduction of the seed kingdom, of the world of flesh, of the celestial and the terrestrial worlds, with all their several diversities, is proof or illustration of the resurrection of the dead; but he does intend to teach, and that very forcibly, that if God has the power to reproduce and create, which we cannot successfully deny, he has the power to raise the dead, and the world ought to have sense enough to believe it.

Finish This Story For Yourself—

The girl got $6 a week and was lonely. "Piggy"—you can imagine his kind—was waiting down stairs. He knew where champagne and music could be had. But that night she didn't go. That was Lord Kitchener's doing. But another night?

O. HENRY

tells about it in this story, with that full knowledge of women, with that frank facing of sex, and that clean mind that has endeared him to the men and women of the land.

From the few who snapped up the first edition at $1.25 a set before it was off the press, to the 120,000 who have eagerly sought the beautiful volumes offered you here—from the stylist who sits among his books to the man on the street—the whole nation bows to O. Henry—and hails him with love and pride as our greatest writer of stories.

This is but one of the 274 stories, in 12 big volumes, you get for 37½ cents a week, if you send the coupon

To Those Who are Quick
KIPLING (6 Volumes)
 Given Away

Never was there an offer like this. Not only do you get your 274 O. Henry stories in 12 volumes at less than others paid for one volume of the first edition, but you get Kipling's best 179 short stories and poems and his long novel—without paying a cent. You get eighteen volumes packed with love and hate and laughter—a big shelf-full of handsome books.

Send the coupon and you will understand why O. Henry is hailed as "The American Kipling"; "The Y. M. O. A. Boccaccio"; "Master of the Short Story"; "Creator of a new literature"; "Discoverer of Romance in New York's Streets"; "The American Maupassant"; "The Homer of the Fenderloin"; "Founder of a New Style"; "America's Greatest Story-Teller"; "The 20th Century Haroun-Al-Rashid who takes you to every corner of his beloved Bagdad—New York."

Send the coupon and you will understand as never before why other nations are going wild over him. Why memorials to him are being prepared; why universities are planning tablets to his memory; why text books of English literature are including his stories; why colleges are discussing his place in literature; why theatrical firms are vying for rights to dramatize his stories; why newspapers all over the country are continually offering big sums for the right to reprint his stories.

Fold here, tear out, sign and mail.

Send the Coupon Without Money

If you prefer the set of O. Henry in cloth binding change price $19.50 to $15.00, and change monthly payments from $1.50 to $1.00. There is so small a difference however between the price of cloth and the beautiful half leather that we strongly urge our customers to buy the half leather.

INSPECTION COUPON THE RIVERSIDE PUBLISHING COMPANY

140 South Dearborn Street, Chicago, Illinois
 Please ship me on approval the Works of O. Henry, 12 volumes, half leather binding, gold tops. Also 6 volumes of Kipling bound in silk cloth. If I keep the books I will pay you $1.00 an first payment within 10 days after books are received and $1.50 per month until your special price of $19.50 for the O. Henry set only is paid, and it is agreed I am to retain the Kipling set without charge. If not satisfied I will notify you within 10 days and return both sets to you as soon as you give me shipping instructions as offered readers of Gospel Advocate.

Name _____

Address _____

Subscribe for the Young People. Forty cents a year. Mailed weekly to single subscribers.

FRECKLES

Now Is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freckles as the prescription ointment—double strength—is guaranteed to remove these homely spots.

Simply get an ounce of ointment—double strength—from your druggist, and apply a little of it night and morning, and you should soon see that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the lighter ones have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than an ounce is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a beautiful clear complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength ointment as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.

Save Half

On Your Machine

Buy your sewing machine now, save half, and get it on easy terms, through the Religious Press Co-Operative Club. We have engaged a large number from a leading American manufacturer, securing prices very little above actual cost. By buying from us you become a member of a big buying club; you get your machine at carload-lot prices, plus the small expense of operating the Club. You save all middle-men's profits, agents' commissions, salaries, etc.

We Give You Thirty Days Trial on any of these machines. If you are not entirely satisfied that it is the equal of any machine regularly sold at double the price, return it to us, and the trial costs you nothing. Easy monthly payments if you keep it.

Six Superb Sewing Machine Bargains are shown in the Club catalogue. Prices range from $12.95 to $27.80. Latest model—the best that can be manufactured at the price. All fully warranted for ten years.

Sign and Mail This Coupon Today. Get our catalogue and investigate the Club plan that saves you half on your Sewing Machine.

Religious Press Co-Operative Club

113 E. Carolina Ave. :: Clinton, S. C.

FREE CATALOGUE COUPON.

Religious Press Co-Operative Club, 113 E. Carolina Ave., Clinton, S. C.

Please send me your catalogue, and full details of the Co-Operative Club Plan that will save me half the price on a high quality sewing machine.

Name _____
Address _____

Notes from Mount Pleasant, Texas.

BY ED S. DUNCAN.

We are doing our best to build a house of worship on Dudley Avenue, in Texarkana, Ark. The membership is less than one hundred, and all poor, comparatively speaking, in this world's goods; but they have a loyal faith in God's word and are putting forth every effort, consistent with divine law, to build them a house. The "progressives" have a fine house and everything else that goes to make up a sectarian body, and cater to the applause of the worldly-minded. Why cannot the true cause of Christ be planted in a substantial way in this wicked city? Being a railroad center, it is the gateway to a vast territory. Many people pass this way in the course of a year, and among them are some who would love to meet and worship with a people that stand for the Bible alone. These faithful men and women need financial help; so why not help them a little? Brother B. Eaves, 864 Dudley Avenue, is their treasurer. He says: "We need money, not preachers." But a great many self-called "preachers" pass through, and each wants them to pay him all they can. Brethren, this is wrong. I have known some churches to be kept in a "strapped" condition by just such as this. What church will send Brother Eaves a contribution?

It makes my heart sad indeed to read of Brother T. W. Phillips' condition. I love him dearly. He is my father in the gospel, and it makes my heart bleed to think that he is crippled for life. To know him is to love him. I heard him preach almost his first sermon, especially in Texas, and have been with him in many of his hard-fought battles, more than twenty years ago, and I have never known him to falter. But it seems that I did not learn to appreciate him as I should until misfortune befell him. O, that we could all appreciate each other better while in health and strength!

A few days ago, while the severe "norther" was on and the mercury down almost to freezing, a young lawyer, our county attorney, called up my home by telephone about twelve o'clock, on Monday, and asked if I were at home. Being told that I was, he said he would be there as soon as he could make the drive. I could not imagine what he wanted. In due time he arrived and I went out to meet him. He said: "Brother Duncan, I want you to baptize me. I want to confess my faith in Christ and be baptized in his name for the remission of sins. This matter can wait no longer." I thank God for such an obedience. I fulfilled his desires. A man who, in the privacy of his own life, makes this decision and drives seven miles, facing a cold northwest wind, to obey God, certainly must have a zeal and determination to live the Christian life. May God help him and all of us to be faithful.

Don't Risk Your Life.

Don't let a wound or bruise or sore go neglected. A neglected skin wound often leads to blood poisoning, a disease hard to cure and sometimes fatal. Treat the afflicted spot with Gray's Ointment; it quickly allays the pain, heals the wound, and frees you from all danger of troublesome after effects. For nearly a century Gray's Ointment has been an indispensable family remedy for all abrasions or eruptions of the skin, boils, ulcers, sores, burns, cuts, bruises, etc. "I have used it in my family for more than fifteen years, and have not found any ointment equal to it," writes Mrs. E. E. Coleman, Mount Jackson, Va. Only 25 cents a box at druggists'. For free sample, write W. F. Gray & Co., 818 Gray Building, Nashville, Tenn.

What is the Club?

The Gospel Advocate Piano Club is both a theory and a fact. The theory is that a piano factory can afford to sell one hundred pianos and player-pianos at a much lower price than it would be willing to make on an order for only one instrument. The fact is that the club has saved each of its members forty per cent.

The theory of the club is "coöperation." The fact is "perfect satisfaction." The theory is: "A square deal to every member." The fact is: "Every member is delighted."

If you are interested in securing a piano or player-piano of the finest quality at the lowest possible factory price, write for your copy of the club's catalogue, discount sheet, and terms. Address Associated Piano Clubs, Gospel Advocate Department, Atlanta, Ga.

"Special" Silk Hose Offer.

To introduce the beautiful "La France" silk hose for ladies and gentlemen, we offer three pairs, 50-cent quality, for only one dollar, postpaid, in the United States. Pure silk from calf to toe, with durable elastic lisle top, heel, and toe for long wear. Sizes, 8 to 10½. In white, tan, or black, assorted if desired. Money back promptly if not delighted. La France Silk Store, Box G, Clinton, S. C.

This means big and little tents, and we make all kinds. A thousand satisfied users testify to their quality. Let us make you a quotation. No trouble at all.

M. D. & H. L. SMITH COMPANY,
Atlanta, Ga. Dalton, Ga.

KITCHEN CABINET

$1.50 A MONTH

Get a Rhoads Kitchen Cabinet—saves miles of soap—saves Energy—saves Health—cuts your kitchen work in half. So down now and prepare meals with all supplies and utensils at your finger ends.

30 DAYS TRIAL

Try this Cabinet in your home—$1.50 a month pays for it as our bargain cash price. If not delighted, after 30 days (70¢), your money gladly returned. Chance of a lifetime to make kitchen work a joy.

1500 Bargains and a Year to Pay

Write at once for driving low prices of Furniture, Rugs, Ranges and Kitchen Cabinets. Our easy monthly payment plan charges no interest. Satisfaction guaranteed. Address today.

WRITE FOR CATALOG

RHODES

RHODES FURN. CO.

DEPT. 11
MEMPHIS, TENN.

Furniture on CREDIT

BOOK OF PRAYERS

Complete Manual of several hundred Prayers for use in Church, Prayer Meetings, Young People's Society, Sunday Schools, Missions, Grace and Sentence Prayers. Question of How and What to Pray in Public fully covered by model, suggestive and devout Prayers. Vest Pocket size, 125 pages. Cloth 25¢, Morocco 35¢, postpaid. stamps taken. Agents Wanted. Pentecostal Publishing Co., Louisville, Ky.

"There is a Reason."

BY W. H. MORSE.

There is a famine of the printed word in Italy, which the Italian Protestants from the United States and Canada are doing their best to relieve. The fact of this famine is becoming generally known, but the question advances itself as to why it should be so. It is not enough for Yankee curiosity to have it said that this is according to the policy of the Roman Catholic Church. That reply breeds another "Why?" It is difficult for many people to understand why such a condition of things should obtain, when in this country the Bible is never restricted in its circulation in any similar way. If it is Roman Catholic policy, what is the reason for it? It is characteristic of our argumentative disposition to exploit the by-no-means-threadbare rejoinder: "There is a reason!" If this does not seem to wear well, then we hear it said: "There must be a reason!"

Rationally, the proper way to find out about any matters is to seek the answer from those who know; and if this is according to Roman Catholic policy, then from Roman Catholic authority should come the right answer.

It is generally understood that Monsignor Segur is a thoroughgoing and astute authority on matters of Roman Catholic jurisprudence, and that his statements and opinions are determinative and clothed upon with dogma. We put the question to him.

"Why," he answered, "is it true that the Catholic Church forbids the reading of the Bible?"

Then comes his explanation:

"The church has received the deposit of the holy Scriptures from God, and nothing has she more at heart than to see her children nourished with the divine word and meditating its oracles. Yet she surrounds this excellent reading with certain precautions which her maternal prudence has learned from faith and experience. She well knows that Satan employed the holy Scriptures to tempt the Christ in the desert, and how the scribes and Pharisees always opposed Jesus in the name of God's word. She holds sacred and inviolable the teachings of her first supreme pontiff, the prince of the apostles, who, in reference to the holy Scriptures, warns the faithful that in 'the Epistles of St. Paul are some things hard to be understood, which the unlearned and unstable wrest, as also the other scriptures, to their destruction.' Hence it is by holy writ that the church is directed to give her children this divine food with great prudence. But then experience also comes to the aid of faith in a matter of so much importance, and thus the example of all heretics, and, above all, of modern heretics, shows most conclusively that this reading of the Bible may in some circumstances, and especially in vernacular translations, become a source of danger. Consequently, she has laid down some very simple and wise rules, not for the purpose of preventing this salutary reading, but to avert danger.

"The first rule is that we should receive both the text and the interpretation of the Scriptures from the legitimate pastors of the church, and from them alone, 'lest,' as Peter says, 'being led away by the errors of the unwise, ye fall from your own steadfastness.'

"Then, the church commands that only those translations shall be employed which have been carefully examined and approved by the ecclesiastical authorities. Thereby the faithful are taught that which they read is indeed the word of God, and not the human rendering of some ignorant or dishonest translator. She wishes that this same authority be consulted as regards the proper dispositions of mind and heart which one must possess in order to derive profit from this holy reading.

"The simple announcement of these practical rules will explain their profound wisdom. They are not only wise, but they are necessary. The church thereby shows a far more tender regard for the holy word of God than those rash innovators who, under pretense of placing it within reach of every one, have trailed it in the dust and profaned it shamefully. Only the Catholic Church respects the Bible, because she alone comprehends its sanctity and proper usage. Jesus is the manna hidden in the Scriptures. Happy are those who search for it and find it! Happy the faithful soul who, by the light of the church and true faith, and in a spirit of piety, love, and sanctification, search the adorable word, and from it, as well as from the sacrament of the altar, obtains substantial food of true and solid piety! The Bible is the book of the priesthood. Besides the eucharist, it is the most precious deposit intrusted to the hands of the priests, who, by it, enrich the souls of the people."

In fine, Monsignor Segur declares that the Protestant pastors are deficient in learning, and that their translations are unworthy, and that it will never do to let the laity read the word of God. "There is a reason" which is libelous, unjust, and selfish.

GERMS OF DISEASE should be promptly expelled from the blood. This is a time when the system is especially susceptible to them. Get rid of all impurities in the blood by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and thus fortify your whole body and prevent illness.

Pastors: WE publish Books, Pamphlets, Minutes, Sermons, Church Directories, Manuals and reprint books and magazines. Specialists in Church Envelopes. Write us for prices. 419 S. Third St. MAYES PRINTING CO., Inc. Louisville, Ky.

MONEY IN PIGEONS

Make Your Back Yard Profitable

THE demand for squabs in the Northern, Eastern and Southern markets has never been supplied, because pigeon raising as a business is comparatively new. Buy a half dozen pair of select birds, fence in a small portion of your back yard and watch them go to work. Success is easy. They raise from eight to fifteen pairs of squabs a year. Your squabs and fancy birds will bring handsome returns. You will actually make money in a hitherto useless part of your back yard. Pigeon raising is not a fad or fancy. It is a profitable business. Let us start you right. Our breeders are the best, and raised from prize winning parents. We will furnish you with the birds and teach you how to raise them, and you will reap a handsome profit with a very little outlay. Thousands are taking advantage of this same opportunity. Write to-day for our literature on pigeon raising as a money making proposition, or better still, write us to send you a few pair of Belgian Carneaux at $3.00 per pair, White Swiss Mondaines at $5.00 per pair, White Kings at $3.50 per pair, or White Maltese at $4.00 per pair. Our birds are all guaranteed. Your money back if after two months you are not satisfied with their work. But for prices on larger orders. Write to-day and get the pick of the flock.

CAROLINA PIGEON PLANT,
Pen Series G— CLINTON, S. C.

Trice-Canada Debate.

BY J. W. BRENTS.

On April 25, 26, Brother W. H. Trice, of Memphis, Tenn., engaged Mr. A. G. Canada, of Winston-Salem, N. C., in public discussion at Senath, Mo. The following propositions were discussed: (1) "The Bible teaches that such signs as those mentioned in Mark 16: 17, 18 ceased when the last person upon whom apostolic hands were laid had died." (2) "The Bible teaches that such signs as those mentioned in Mark 16: 17, 18 follow believers in this age of the world." Brother Trice affirmed the first; Elder Canada, the second.

The "Pentecost" people, as they term themselves, have gained a considerable following even in the town of Senath. It is no unusual thing to pass their homes and hear their shrieks and groans and loud crying even to late hours in the night. The whole country seems to be stirred over this modern fanaticism, such as speaking in tongues, which neither God, men, nor devils could understand. Healing the sick, etc., are their claims.

Brother Trice presented the Bible teaching along these lines, and more than one thousand people heard, but I fear many will not heed. Mr. Canada, I understand, was once a Methodist minister. He is an educated man and what I would term a brilliant speaker. Both men conducted themselves in a nice, gentlemanly way. It is to be hoped that the debate will do much good and people will be deceived no longer. It is to be regretted, however, that the debate did not go on longer and give Brother Trice an opportunity to preach the gospel to the people. Brother J. E. Laird moderated for Brother Trice.

Opportunity in New England.

BY W. E. MORGAN.

No doubt the following will test some professed Christian's loyalty.

New England, with its teeming thousands of precious souls, has been woefully neglected. The cause of primitive Christianity in the New England States is practically unknown. I am told that I am the only loyal gospel preacher in all New England.

Since I came to Portland (Maine) to help the few faithful saints to build up the Master's cause in these parts, I have found a very bright young brother who wants to prepare himself to preach the gospel. He is very anxious to go to Thorp Spring Christian College until he is qualified to tell the story of the cross in an effective way; then it is his desire to return here and give the balance of his life to the work of an evangelist here in New England. But he is not financially able to go to school and will have to depend on those who are financially able to help him. He is a very bright young man, full of zeal, and his character is above reproach.

What brother or sister who has the means will help this young brother through school, so he can return to his native State and preach the gospel to his fellows? Brother, sister, you who have enough of this world's goods, can you not respond to this worthy appeal? Think what an immense amount of good you might accomplish by helping this young brother to qualify himself to preach the gospel. "Whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap." "A little leaven leaveneth the whole lump."

Will you let this appeal test your faithfulness and loyalty, so you can have fruit to abound to your account in eternity?

Those who want fellowship in this matter will please write me for further information. Address me at 149 Park Street, Portland, Maine.

Keep the Babies Fat and Well.

"Mamma's" Dr. Doran's Worm Remedy expels worms whole alive. Purely vegetable. Bottles twenty-five cents, by mail. General agent wanted. Write us a letter.

Doran Drug Company, Paducah, Ky.

Patents Write for "How to Obtain a Patent." List of patent buyers, and inventions wanted. One million dollars in prizes offered for inventions. Send sketch for free opinion of patentability. Our four books sent free.

VICTOR J. EVANS & CO., 743 Ninth, Washington, D. C.

Subscribe for the Bible Study Helper. Sixty cents per year.

GOOD TRACTS FOR DISTRIBUTION.

1. Acts of Apostles. E. G. Sewell.....$0 10
 2. The Bible Doctrine of Sanctification. E. A. Elam..... 10
 3. Bible Geology; or, Modern Geology Rebuked. I. N. Jones.... 10
 4. "The Bible Mode of Baptism." F. W. Smith..... 10
 5. Christian Experience; or, Sincerely Seeking the Way to Heaven. Benjamin Franklin..... 05
 - 5a. Christian Unity. D. Lipscomb..... 10
 6. Church Organization. E. G. Sewell..... 05
 7. The Christian Eldership. James E. Scobey..... 10
 8. "Christian Liberty in Methods of Christian Service." F. W. Smith..... 05
 9. The Doctrine of Sanctification. O. A. Carr..... 10
 10. Debate on Salvation—"Is It Conditional or Unconditional?" T. S. Dalton (Baptist) and T. R. Burnett (disciple)..... 25
 11. The Establishment of the Kingdom or Church of Christ. L. R. Sewell..... 05
 12. The Faith that Qualifies for Valid Baptism. Durst-McQuiddy..... 05
 13. Grub-Ax Upset—A Review of Grub-Ax and Infant Baptism. J. M. Kidwell..... 10
 14. God's Foolishness vs. Man's Wisdom. Joe McPherson..... 05
 15. Hezekiah Jones—A Dialogue Between a Methodist and a Christian. T. R. Burnett..... 10
 16. Instruments of Music in the Service of God. (Send 2 cents to pay postage on tracts mailed singly or 15 cents per dozen mailed in one package)..... Free
 17. Justification—Philosophically, Scripturally, and Systematically Examined. T. W. Brents..... 10
 18. Out of Darkness into Light. Z. T. Winfree..... 05
 19. New Birth. J. A. Harding.....two for 05
 20. Prayer. Hiram Pharris..... 10
 21. The Purification of the Heart. E. S. B. Waldron..... 05
 22. The Place and Purpose of Baptism. J. D. Floyd..... 05
 23. The Sabbath and Seventh-Day Adventism. L. S. White..... 25
 24. The Sabbath—Which Day Shall We Observe, the First or the Seventh? David Lipscomb.....two for 05
 25. Theological Grub-Ax Turned upon the Subject of Infant Communion. W. L. Butler..... 10
 26. Valid Baptism. McGary-Burnett..... 10
 27. Walking by Faith. M. C. Kurfees..... 05
 28. "Water Baptism." R. H. Bonham..... 10
 29. What Must I Do to Be Saved? J. C. McQuiddy..... per dozen 10
- One dozen of any of these tracts, assorted, $1.00

McQUIDDY PRINTING CO.
NASHVILLE, TENN.

GOSPEL ADVOCATE

Volume LVIII. No. 21. NASHVILLE, TENN., MAY 25, 1916. $1.50 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

CONTENTS.

"EDIFYING AS THE NEED MAY BE".....	513
OUR CONTRIBUTORS.....	514
Preparedness—Christ as King, His Kingdom, and His Second Coming—The Day of Small Things—Some Singular Experiences—Called Up Higher.
GEORGIA AND THE FAR SOUTHERN FIELD.....	518
MISSIONARY.....	519
EDITORIAL.....	520
Some Questions About Elders—What Did Peter Mean?—Help the Fanning Orphan School—The Standard of Judgment and Unsound Teachers—War Prices.
AT HOME AND ABROAD.....	525
THE MASTER'S VINEYARD.....	526
Establishing Churches.....	528
From the Field.....	530
East Texas Training School.....	532
Regeneration.....	534
Studying and Interpreting Scriptures.....	535
Among the Colored People.....	536

Entered at the post-office at Nashville, Tenn., as second-class matter. Published weekly at Nashville, Tenn.

"EDIFYING AS THE NEED MAY BE"

BY A. B. LIPSCOMB

The Man of Macedonia.

To Paul at Troas the vision of the man of Macedonia meant that the great continent of Europe was calling him; yet, when he obeyed the call, crossed the Ægean Sea and came to Philippi, he was content to sit down by the river bank and talk to a handful of women. Thus the work on a new continent began with the conversion of one woman—Lydia, a seller of purple. On this point Miss Margaret Slattery, a gifted woman writer, observes that if God called to the ordinary men and women of to-day in a loud voice or spoke to them so that friends and neighbors might hear, or stopped them on the sidewalk and said to the crowd, "I have chosen this man or this woman to do a great work," not many would hesitate to enter at once upon the task, whatever it might be. You remember it took a burning bush, a hand white with leprosy made well in a moment, a rod transformed into a living serpent, to persuade Moses that God wanted him to undertake the task of setting the Hebrew people free. God wanted Gideon to lead his people against the Midianites, but Gideon insisted upon certain signs before he would go. But God does not call men to his service in spectacular fashion to-day. Some one has said: "The will of God is the only plain thing in this universe, the only thing that is absolutely known. Everything else has darkness and mist about it, but the will of God is absolutely plain." It is plain as A B C that a sinner should turn away from his sins. It is plain that he should obey the gospel. It is plain that he should worship God, not according to the teachings of men, but according to the commandments and examples of the New Testament. It is plain that he should send the gospel to others and never become discouraged at a small beginning.

The Glory of Small Beginnings.

Paul did not appreciate it at the time, perhaps, but the "mightiest thing done in Europe that morning was when he sat down by the river bank and spoke to that handful of women." It does not require a big house or a big audience to begin a mighty work for the Lord. The open air has been the scene of the greatest victories for the cross. The mightiest truths of the Reformation were not taught in classic halls, but under brush arbors. If there comes to you the opportunity—and it will come over and over again—to preach the gospel to one or two or three persons, preach it with all the powers of your being. If you are asked to help at some humble mission point, go to it with the undaunted spirit of the man who said: "But none of these things move me, neither count I my life dear unto myself, so that I might finish my course with joy, and the ministry, which I have received of the Lord Jesus, to testify the gospel of the grace of God." Remember that God classifies deeds according to their consequences. The longer they last, the wider they reach, the deeper they go, the greater the act which sets them in motion.

Let no man become discouraged or give up if he finds that his pet plan is crossed and thwarted by a higher wisdom than his own. Remember, a good man's steps are ordered of the Lord. "As you go down the long corridor you will find that God has preceded you, and locked many doors which you would fain have entered; but be sure beyond these there is one which he has left unlocked. Open it and enter, and you will find yourself face to face with a bend of the river of opportunity, broader and deeper than anything you have ever dared to imagine in your sunniest dreams. Launch forth on it; it conducts you to the open sea."

Who is Our "Man of Macedonia?"

But who is our "man of Macedonia?" He is the man, wherever found, who needs and craves the gospel. He is never too far away and he is never too close at hand, if he needs the gospel. He may be as far away as China or Japan or India, or he may be as near as our own town or county. By actual measurement you will find that Paul's "man of Macedonia" was less than one hundred miles away. It appears to me that one of the loudest Macedonian cries to the Christians of this country comes from the negroes, who have been sadly neglected in the working out of our evangelistic plans. Who knows but what the nearest "man of Macedonia" may be working under your roof and eating in your kitchen?

Sometimes a man thinks he is the "man of Macedonia" when he is not. Frequently we receive appeals from small groups of Christians begging money for meetinghouses. Nearly always they interpolate somewhere in the appeal the words: "Come over into Macedonia, and help us." That may be a Macedonian cry, but it is certainly not the original. The call that Paul received was to preach the gospel, not to build meetinghouses. Usually Christians who have enough energy and money to start a building have enough to finish it if they will only make the proper effort, and it would add to their patience to wait a while. Of course there are times when it is not only right, but urgent, to make appeals for money to build meetinghouses, but it is my observation that the Macedonian cry, in this respect, is worked overtime.

The Business Woman and the Gospel.

When Paul reached Philippi, he found that the "man of Macedonia" was a woman. And a wonderful woman she was! The "business woman" is not altogether a modern product. We find at least one good business woman back in apostolic times—Lydia, the seller of purple. The modern business woman is not to be sneezed at. Thrown upon her own resources, she is making good in pursuits heretofore monopolized by the men. She is thrifty, shrewd, and aggressive. But however successful she may be from the world's viewpoint, she is a failure, after all, if she neglects the gospel. She should emulate Lydia. Prayer was her chief asset. God was her partner, and there is no doubt about her preëminent success.

In these modern times it is often difficult to find a family who are willing to take care of the evangelist during a meeting, but she said to Paul and his company: "If ye have judged me to be faithful to the Lord, come into my house and abide there." The open heart reveals her receptivity; the open house, her generosity. She considered opportunities for kindness as her rewards, not as her burdens. She did not despise Paul and his associates because they were a homeless and unfashionable set, but she "attended unto the things which were spoken of Paul." Of many a man it could be said: "You might have been saved like Lydia long, long ago, if ever once you had listened to the poorest preacher who ever stood before you."

And if any reader should be out of Christ, there is One who would win you, not with words of eloquence or of men's wisdom, but with the simple teaching that blessed the life of an honest woman.

Your first step in the direction of God is not taken when you put on your Sunday clothes and walk demurely into your pew. No, but it is taken when you put humility upon your proud heart, and fill your hot heart full of meekness and resignation and quietness and contrition, and a broken, heavenly heart. To hold your peace when you are reproved is a direct and sure step toward God. To be silent when you suffer wrong—God takes at that great moment a great step of his toward you. To let a slight, an insult, a blow, a scoff, a sneer, fall on your head like an excellent oil and on your heart like your true dessert—"with that man will I dwell," says the God of Israel through his prophet.

Preparedness.

BY F. W. SMITH.

Much has been said of late from the rostrum and through the press on the subject of "preparedness." It has come to be one of the most common words in current use, and is applied to every phase of human activity. It is a splendid word, full of force and point, driving its significance home at a single swing. In the commercial world it goes for one hundred cents in the dollar, because it means dollars. It is the "chief corner stone" in the temple of financial success. Without "preparedness," continued preparedness, any business will fail; and in view of this fact, real business men make it their watchword.

But nowhere, perhaps, is "preparedness" more needed than in the rearing and training of the children, which is confessedly the most difficult problem with which men and women have to contend. To lay the foundation of useful and splendid manhood and womanhood requires the most painstaking and careful preparation. It is as true to say in morals as in nature, that "as the twig is bent, so will it grow." If a twig is left to the swaying winds, there is danger of its becoming crooked in its growth; and if a child is left exposed to an atmosphere impregnated with moral disease, the moral bent of that life will be toward the bad. Protection against immoral influences, as well as right teaching, inculcating principles of virtue, honesty, and industry, constitutes one of the most essential elements of preparedness. One of the most forceful pictures the writer ever looked upon was that of a mountain goat protecting her young. She and her kid were standing on a narrow ledge, with a perpendicular wall on one side and the sea laving the other side, hundreds of feet below. Her young was next the wall, and with her horns, her only weapons of defense, she was fighting a huge eagle striving to thrust its claws into the tender flesh of the kid and bear it away. I thought as I gazed upon that scene, what a fit emblem of a faithful mother fighting the vultures of society who are striving to drag her child into the cesspool of iniquity and moral pollution! Many good men and women owe their success in life as men and women of unblemished characters to their mothers, who, on bended knees and with tear-stained cheeks, wrestled with God for power and wisdom to shield and protect their children against the wiles of the devil.

But there is another thing to which and concerning which the word "preparedness" should have much to do—viz., protracted meetings. Every church that invites a preacher to labor with them in a series of meetings owes it to him to be ready for the meeting, and not wait with the expectation of the preacher's warming up the church. The church should be warm and really hot with zeal and enthusiasm before the preacher comes upon the ground. The fact is, churches should live all the time, so that it would not be necessary for the preacher to warm them up, thus using time that should be spent in persuading sinners to obey the gospel. But if churches will not thus live, let them, by cottage prayer meetings, singing, and in any other legitimate way, have up a good interest when the preacher comes. Talk up the meeting, thoroughly advertise it, and tell all the people what a good time they may anticipate. Have plenty of good song books, and, when the meeting starts, sing "like putting out fire," and keep it up so long as the meeting lasts. Begin in plenty of time to have all needed finances on hand, that there may be no public begging for the preacher, and thus avoid humiliating the man you have asked to come before the people of your community with the message of God. See to it that the best and most convenient place for baptizing is arranged, and keep the meetinghouse clean and well ventilated. If the brethren will chew tobacco, let them do so outside the meetinghouse. Pray earnestly and constantly for the success of the meeting. If the preacher preaches what you think is a good sermon, tell him so; it will not kill him. If you have any criticism to make on the preacher, go to him and tell him in a kind and brotherly way. Finally, if there are no additions, do not think, act, and talk as if the meeting were a failure.

Christ as King, His Kingdom, and His Second Coming.

BY J. D. WALLING.

"I give thee charge in the sight of God, who quickeneth all things, and before Christ Jesus, who before Pontius Pilate witnessed a good confession; that thou keep this commandment without spot, unrebukable, until the appearing of our Lord Jesus Christ: which in his time he shall show, who is the blessed and only Potentate, the King of Kings, and Lord of lords." (1 Tim. 6: 13-15.) "Then Pilate entered into the judgment hall again, and called Jesus, and said unto him, Art thou the King of the Jews? Jesus answered him, Sayest thou this thing of thyself, or did others tell it thee of me? Pilate answered, Am I a Jew? Thine own nation and the chief priests have delivered thee unto me: what hast thou done? Jesus answered, My kingdom is not of this world: if my kingdom were of this world, then would my servants fight, that I should not be delivered to the Jews: but now is my kingdom not from hence. Pilate therefore said unto him, Art thou a king then? Jesus answered, Thou sayest that I am a king. To this end was I born, and for this cause came I into the world, that I should bear witness unto the truth. Every one that is of the truth heareth my voice." (John 18: 33-37.) This is too plain to be misunderstood. Jesus said: "Every one that is of the truth heareth my voice." "And from Jesus Christ, who is the faithful witness, and the first begotten of the dead, and the prince of the kings of the earth. Unto him that loved us, and washed us from our sins in his own blood," etc. (Rev. 1: 5, 6.) "I Jesus have sent mine angel to testify unto you these things in the churches. I am the root and the offspring of David, and the bright and morning star." (Rev. 22: 16.) Now let us try Isa. 11: 1-5: "And there shall come forth a rod out of the stem of Jesse, and a Branch shall grow out of his roots: and the spirit of the Lord shall rest upon him, the spirit of wisdom and understanding, the spirit of counsel and might, the spirit of knowledge and of the fear of the Lord; and shall make him of quick understanding in the fear of the Lord: and he shall not judge after the sight of his eyes, neither reprove after the hearing of his ears: but with righteousness shall he judge the poor, and reprove with equity for the meek of the earth: and he shall smite the earth with the rod of his mouth, and with the breath of his lips shall he slay the wicked. And righteousness shall be the girdle of his loins, and faithfulness the girdle of his reins." Does this not foretell his reign and kingdom? Did he not fulfill all this? Then why look for it to be yet in the future?

But let us hear Zech. 6: 12, 13: "And speak unto him, saying, Thus speaketh the Lord of hosts, saying, Behold the man whose name is The Branch; and he shall grow up out of his place, and he shall build the temple of the Lord: even he shall build the temple of the Lord; and he shall bear the glory, and shall sit and rule upon his throne; and he shall be a priest upon his throne; and the counsel of peace shall be between them both." Did not Jesus build the temple of the Lord?

Hear Paul: "For ye are the temple of the living God." (2 Cor. 6: 16.) So Peter says: "But sanctify the Lord God in your hearts" (1 Pet. 3: 15)—that is, set him apart to rule and reign in and over your lives. And still he is not yet King? His disciples thought he was. "Whom Jason hath received: and these all do contrary to the decrees of Cæsar, saying that there is another King, one Jesus." (Acts 17: 7.) Had he power as King? "And ye are complete in him, which is the head of all principality and power." (Col. 2: 10.) "Who is gone into heaven, and is on the right hand of God; angels and authorities and powers being made subject unto him." (1 Pet. 3: 22.) "And Jesus came and spake unto them, saying, All power is given unto me in heaven and in earth." (Matt. 28: 18.) Strange language for one that must wait nineteen hundred years for his kingdom!

What was the nature of his kingdom? "Jesus answered, Verily, verily, I say unto thee, Except a man be born of water and of the Spirit, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God." (John 3: 5.) Then, if one is born of water and the Spirit, he does enter into the kingdom of God. But how could he enter into something that did not exist? But what is its nature? "And when he was demanded of the Pharisees, when the kingdom of God should come, he answered them and said, The kingdom of God cometh not with observation: neither shall they say, Lo here! or, lo there! for, behold, the kingdom of God is within you." (Luke 17: 20, 21.) It was not an earthly kingdom, but a spiritual kingdom. This was Nicodemus' trouble, and the trouble with all of the Jews. Jesus therefore said: "That which is born of the flesh is flesh; and that which is born of the Spirit is spirit." (John 3: 6.) So Paul says: "Now this I say, brethren, that flesh and blood cannot inherit the kingdom of God; neither doth corruption inherit incorruption." (1 Cor. 15: 50.) Moreover, Jesus said: "Behold my hands and my feet, that it is I myself: handle me, and see; for a spirit hath not flesh and bones, as ye see me have." (Luke 24: 39.) So it is all "tommyrot" to speak of Christ sitting upon a literal throne with flesh and bones, blood or no blood. But hear Paul: "For the kingdom of God is not meat and drink; but righteousness, and peace, and joy in the Holy Ghost." (Rom. 14: 17.) It cannot be seen with the eye, but can be enjoyed. Read this: "And the Lord was made flesh [is not, but was made flesh.—J. D. W.], and dwelt among us, (and we beheld his glory, the glory as of the only begotten of the Father,) full of grace and truth." (John 1: 14.) But hear Paul again: "But I will come to you shortly, if the Lord will, and will know, not the speech of them which are puffed up, but the power. For the kingdom of God is not in word, but in power." (1 Cor. 4: 19, 20.) And again: "That ye would walk worthy of God, who hath called you unto his kingdom and glory." (1 Thess. 2: 12.) And yet his kingdom is in the future? "Who hath delivered us from the power of darkness, and hath translated us into the kingdom of his dear Son." (Col. 1: 13.) Was Paul mistaken? Again: "Wherefore we receiving a kingdom which cannot be moved, let us have grace, whereby we may serve God acceptably with reverence and godly fear." (Heb. 12: 28.) And yet we have not received it? "Then cometh the end, when he shall have delivered up the kingdom to God, even the Father; when he shall have put down all rule and all authority and power." (1 Cor. 15: 24.) Now let us try Luke 22: 16-18: "For I say unto you, I will not any more eat thereof, until it be fulfilled in the kingdom of God. . . . For I say unto you, I will not drink of the fruit of the vine, until the kingdom of God shall come." Then, if Jesus ever ate the supper with the apostles after this, we may know that the kingdom has come. "Not to all the people, but unto witnesses chosen before of God, even to us, who did eat and drink with him after he rose from the dead." (Acts 10: 41.) These are the same ones to whom he said: "Verily I say unto you, That there be some of them that stand here, which shall not taste of death, till they have seen the kingdom of God come with power." (Mark 9: 1.) It occurs to me to be little short of infidelity to doubt the present existence of the kingdom of God and Christ as King.

But what of his second coming? "Behold, he cometh with clouds; and every eye shall see him, and they also which pierced him: and all kindreds of the earth shall wail because of him. Even so, Amen." (Rev. 1: 7.) "And then shall appear the sign of the Son of man in heaven: and then shall all the tribes of the earth mourn, and they shall see the Son of man coming in the clouds of heaven with power and great glory. And he shall send his angels with a great sound of a trumpet, and they shall gather together his elect from the four winds, from one end of heaven to the other." (Matt. 24: 30, 31.) "Which also said, Ye men of Galilee, why stand ye gazing up into heaven? this same Jesus, which is taken up from you into heaven, shall so come in like manner as ye have seen him go into heaven." (Acts 1: 11.) How did they see him go into heaven? Not, How did they see him "taken up?" but, How did they see him "go into heaven?" That is the way he is to "so come." "And a cloud received him out of their sight." (Acts 1: 9.) Then they saw him "go into heaven" in a cloud. That is the way he is to be seen coming. Not on the earth, but in a cloud. "For this we say unto you by the word of the Lord, that we which are alive and remain unto the coming of the Lord shall not prevent [go before] them which are asleep. For the Lord himself shall descend from heaven with a shout, with the voice of the archangel, and with the trump of God: and the dead in Christ shall rise first: then we which are alive and remain shall be caught up together with them in the clouds, to meet the Lord in the air: and so shall we ever be with the Lord." (1 Thess. 4: 15-17.) Who would think our bodies would be changed and we should meet the Lord in the air and come back to earth to live here in an immortal body for a thousand years? You remember that Jesus said, "A spirit hath not flesh and bones as ye see me have;" and Paul said: "Flesh and blood cannot inherit the kingdom of God; neither doth corruption inherit incorruption." And yet the theory of our "Second Advent" brethren would have an immortal body living here on earth for a thousand years!

What is the Christ coming back for? "And to you who are troubled rest with us, when the Lord Jesus shall be revealed from heaven with his mighty angels, in flaming fire taking vengeance on them that know not God, and that obey not the gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ: who shall be punished with everlasting destruction from the presence of the Lord, and from the glory of his power; when he shall come to be glorified in his saints, and to be admired in all them that believe (because our testimony among you was believed) in that day." (2 Thess. 1: 7-10.) "Behold, the Lord cometh with ten thousands of his saints, to execute judgment upon all, and to convince all that are ungodly among them of all their ungodly deeds which they have ungodly committed, and of all their hard speeches which ungodly sinners have spoken against him." (Jude 14, 15.) "So Christ was once offered to bear the sins of many; and unto them that look for him shall he appear the second time [to sit on David's throne? No!] without sin unto salvation." (Heb. 9: 28.) "What further need have we of witnesses?" With Acts 17: 31 I close: "Because he hath appointed a day, in the which he will judge the world in righteousness by that man whom he hath ordained; whereof he hath given assurance unto all men, in that he hath raised him from the dead."

The Day of Small Things.

BY JOHN T. POE.

In Brother A. B. Lipscomb's first-page work in the Gospel Advocate of February 3, "When a Small Audience Was Inspiring," he made me think of some of my own experiences, one of which I will relate.

I had an appointment to preach at a certain place in the country—a mission point—where there was no congregation near. It was Saturday, and only five persons were out to hear me—three Christians and two who were not Christians (an old man and his wife). I was sadly disappointed to find no more than five out to hear me. However, I preached a gospel sermon on "What must I do to be saved?" with as much earnestness as if I had had a thousand aliens present. At the close I invited the unsaved to obey the gospel, and the old man (sixty-four years old) and his wife promptly stepped forward, gave me their hands, confessed their faith in Christ, and were baptized. From that day to this I have had high regard for that scripture which says: "Despise not the day of small things." And as the years have passed on I have discovered that some of God's greatest and most glorious works in nature are carried to completion from very small beginnings. An acorn is a small thing, but in its shell is the germ of the tall and majestic oak. It is a small thing to give a thirsty Christian a drink of water because he is a Christian, but such a deed will figure largely in the judgment day. A man that cannot preach to a small audience will never do much good preaching to a large one, for he cannot understand God's way; and man's own way is nothing in the finality.

Some Singular Experiences.

BY J. D. FLOYD.

The preacher whose work has been even commonplace will, naturally, in near fifty years, have some singular experiences. I have no doubt, if some persons were asked what my great desire as a preacher is, the answer would be: "To baptize some one." I must confess that I do love to baptize or to see one baptized, if the candidate is the proper subject. I have in mind three cases in which I refused to do so.

I was holding a meeting in another State, in a community where the gospel in its purity had never been preached. At the close of the discourse one morning, when the invitation was given, a gentleman with whom I had become acquainted came forward. In reply to my question as to his purpose, he said he had been a member of the Methodist Church, but wanted to "join your church," and then stated that he was satisfied with his baptism. Considering it best to consult with him privately, I dismissed the audience. On further inquiry, I found that he had been sprinkled, had had some trouble in his church, and for that reason wanted to make the change. On my expressing myself as to what scriptural baptism was, he said: "I want to 'join your church;' and if you say so, I will be immersed." This I declined to do, as, according to his own statement, it would have been because I said so, and not the Lord.

On another occasion I was called to see an old man on his deathbed. He was a soldier under Jackson at New Orleans, had been prominent as a citizen, but never had shown any interest in religious matters. When I reached him, his mental condition was such that he was incapable of connected thought. In this condition, of course, I could not instruct him; but a son, prominent in the business world in a large city, insisted that I should baptize him—and that, too, by sprinkling!

On another occasion an aged lady had become unbalanced in mind. All her talk was that she wanted to be baptized. I was called upon by some of her friends—some were members of the church and some were not—and asked to go and baptize her. I replied that baptism was the act of a rational creature, to be attended to for a certain purpose, and that I could not do it. They said they understood that; but that if I would do it, it might relieve her mental troubles. My reply was that even if I could foresee that it would do that, I would not do it for my good right arm.

Some, on reading this, likely will say: "Brother Floyd has certainly been in the backwoods." That is true; and the preacher who goes into the out-of-the-way places is liable to have singular experiences also.

Called Up Higher.

BY L. D. PERKINS.

Notwithstanding the fact that Riverside, Cal., is one of the most beautiful places in all the world, yet our Heavenly Father saw fit to call Hope Taylor from this earthly paradise up higher to a heavenly, eternal home. I have lived in Riverside and know the beauties that are there, and it is not so easy to understand why one should be called to another place to dwell. Perhaps, if I had had the great pleasure of visiting the place to which Hope has been called. I could then understand; but all I know of the place is what those who live there have said. From what they say of the place, Hope must be happy. Those who live there have given a beautiful description of the place. They say that the wall of the city is of pure jasper stone, and that the city is made of pure gold like unto pure glass; they say that the wall of the city has twelve foundations, and that these twelve foundations are constructed of twelve different kinds of stones. If it were not for the great expense, we could get a better idea of the foundation of the wall by taking the different kinds of stones and constructing a foundation of the very stones they tell us they are made of. You may be acquainted with many of these stones. I will name them for you: Jasper, sapphire, chalcidony, emerald, sardonyx, sardius, chrysolite, beryl, topaz, chrysopraxe, jacinth, amethyst. Even the foundation of the wall must be beautiful. Then they say that in the wall are twelve gates, and that the gates are made of pearl, one pearl to a gate. The streets are made of pure gold. There is a stream of water running through the city as clear as crystal, and on both sides of the river are trees that bear twelve kinds of fruits, and the fruit is yielded or ripens every month. The city is not lighted by the sun, moon, stars, electricity, or gas, but by a new light called "glory." Many things we have here they tell us they do not have there. But few pass through this life who do not have tears, and there they have none. Here we have mourning, crying, pain, and death, but there they do not have these. Those who thirst are given, of the water of life freely. They say they have no night, but it is day all the time. They say that in no wise shall any enter the city but those who are good. They are very particular along this line. Hope must have realized this, for while here he was very good. He often led the song service at church, preached many good sermons, and gave much good advice to others; and then he lived a good, pure, upright, and noble life. So that I am sure that when he was sent for, others there were glad to have him come. Hope was born in Alabama on February 9, 1895; and he received the call on April 1, 1916. So he stayed on this earth only twenty-one years, one month, and twenty-two days. His father and mother had told him of this beautiful city, and Brother A. B. Blazer told him more about it, and Hope decided to try and so live that he might be permitted to go there some day. Those who have the privilege of letting us come into this beautiful city require many things of us in this life, and one of those things is baptism; and Hope let Brother Blazer baptize him, and then he lived a consistent, Christian life. Hope left many good friends here that he will

"CHRISTIAN TREASURES."

All our readers who appreciate good, religious books will be pleased to know that "Christian Treasures," Volume I, is just off our press and ready for delivery. The book contains nearly three hundred pages and deals with vital themes that were covered in special numbers of the Gospel Advocate. It contains the very best thoughts, not only of the editors, but of a host of careful writers, to whom were assigned various phases of the following subjects: Studying the Bible; Teaching the Bible; Applying the Bible; History of the Bible; Restatement of the Issues; Fundamental Themes; The Wise and Unwise Course in Religion; Evangelistic Effort in General; Plans for Protracted Meetings and Missionary Work in General. We may safely say that no book has ever been printed containing articles on these important subjects from as many different writers.

The second volume of "Christian Treasures," dealing with subjects of equal importance, will quickly follow. By purchasing each volume as it appears, you will greatly increase the usefulness of your library and will soon be informed on living themes far above the average reader.

THE BIBLE STUDY HELPER.

Hundreds have subscribed for The Bible Study Helper, our new monthly magazine, edited by A. B. Lipscomb. It contains departments for teachers and scholars and helpful suggestions for all ages. Its illustrations are carefully gleaned from the finest books available. It is abreast with modern scholarship and at the same time thoroughly in accord with the word of God. We will send this journal one year for sixty cents, or fifty cents if sent in with your Gospel Advocate subscription.

AROUND THE LORD'S TABLE

The first edition of this valuable book was soon exhausted. We are now getting out a second edition. It is a mental and spiritual stimulus to all who would preside or partake. We will send one copy for twenty-five cents.

Address all orders to
McQUIDDY PRINTING COMPANY,
Nashville, Tenn.

be glad to have come to the place he now dwells in, and among these is his father, mother, and sister, Grace. I know they will try awfully hard to live right, for they thought so much of Hope, and liked to be with him so much. It is indeed hard for us to understand why one so useful and loved so much should be called away; but while we cannot understand, the Lord knows why.

We may not know the reason why
Dark clouds so often veil the sky;
But though our sea be smooth or rough,
The Lord knows why, and that's enough.

We may not know why we are led
So often in the paths we dread;
But, trusting him, we'll press our way.
The Lord knows why; we will obey.

We may not know why death should come
To take the dear ones from our home;
But though our eyes with tears be dimmed,
The Lord knows why; we'll trust in him.

So, though we may not understand
The leading of our Father's hand,
We know to all he has the key,
He understands all mystery.

O, yes, he knows—the Lord knows why
These things are ordered from on high;
And though dark clouds may hide the sun,
The Lord knows why; his will be done.

Georgia and the Far Southern Field

By S. H. Hall

The Church of Christ—Lesson XVII.

How to Behave Ourselves in the Church.

(6) Feeding the hungry and clothing the naked. Nothing is more strongly emphasized in the Bible than God's regard and interest in the poor. (See Prov. 14: 21, 31; Gal. 2: 10.) Pure religion should be outstanding among those who claim to be the church of our Lord and Savior. But pure religion exists not where the poor are forgotten and neglected. (See James 1: 27.) Please to note the following points:

(a) The naturalness of this duty. The church is spoken of, as we have already learned, as "the body" of which Christ is head. (Col. 1: 18.) The head and the body, with all of its parts, are vitally connected—"knit together" is the way Paul puts it. (Eph. 4: 16.) Hence we are not only members of Christ, but members "one of another." (1 Cor. 6: 15; Rom. 12: 5.) That member that does not suffer when another member suffers is a dead member and will ultimately be cut off. You get the same lesson when you look at the church as a family. It would, indeed, be a poor family, if some of the members were living in luxury and ease, while others were suffering the pangs of hunger, cold, and nakedness. All really live members of the church so love that they suffer when others suffer.

(b) But let us note some direct statements on this duty.

The love of God is not in the soul who sees his brother in need and refuses to help. (See 1 John 3: 17.) It matters not how much such members may boast of their faith in God and in the gospel, their faith is too dead to save them when they so neglect duty's demands. (See James 2: 15, 16.)

We must lay down our lives for the brethren. (1 John 3: 14-16.) To love merely in word and tongue—that is, a lot of pretty talk—we are forbidden. But the love that we must have for each other must be expressed in deeds, in acts of helpfulness. (See verse 18.)

When one member of the body (church) suffers, all the other members must suffer with it. (1 Cor. 12: 25, 26.) But how is this done? By telling the member that suffers that you are sorry and that you hope to see him soon out of his trouble? Nay, verily! This would be to love merely in word. How, then, do all the members suffer when one suffers? I give an example. Here is a brother in good standing. He has but little of this world's goods, but manages to meet his obligations so long as he is able to stay with his work. But he meets with an accident, his leg is broken, hence he must be denied the privilege of drawing his daily wages. But his grocery bill, rent, etc., must continue, and in addition to this is the doctor's bill and the drug bill. Let every member—not just a few—deny themselves of some of their own that these bills may be met. This is the Bible way for us to suffer with one another. When the brother is able to resume his work, he stands, financially, where he stood when the accident came his way. If the brother should die, and his widow has not enough to bury him without being overburdened, then the church should do it. We must bury our dead, educate our orphans, care for our widows, if, indeed, the church of Christ we are to be. Study Matt. 25: 31-46 for more light still on the subject.

(c) But all of this applies to members in good standing, members who are adorning the doctrine of our Lord and Savior, not to members who are too lazy to work and make an honest living. Such members, instead of being fed, must be withdrawn from, and taught "that with quietness they work, and eat their own bread." (See 2 Thess. 3: 6-15.) Here, sometimes, the church is confronted with difficulties; for instance, when a trifling man has a wife and some little ones dependent upon him. Well, we must not let this sister suffer. If the man is a member, he must be withdrawn from. But whether a member or not a member, he must not be fed. Let him go hungry. It is God's way to teach him to work. But how can you feed the hungry wife and children without feeding him? Take them their meals, or arrange for them to go to the home of some member near by and eat. But the point is, feed them, not the trifling husband. And do this, too, because it is the best thing that can be done for such men. It will make them think, and will go a long way in saving them. May God ever give us that grace that is peculiar to him—the grace that makes us kind and tender, yet firm and unyielding, in dealing with those who are stubbornly rebellious and have to be made to feel our disapproval of their ways.

A Pleasant Stay in Tennessee.

It was the writer's good pleasure to conduct two series of meetings, recently, in Tennessee.

The first meeting was at Dickson. Here I found a most excellent congregation, well housed in a comfortable brick building. Brother I. B. Bradley and wife have been making this their home for more than ten years. Eternity alone can tell the good they have done there. They are both held in the highest esteem by the congregation and by the people of the town. My home was with them for a part of the time. The last two weeks I was in the home of Brother and Sister A. H. Leathers. More ideal homes I have never seen, and certainly no one could have been treated more kindly than I was. But what I say of these two homes can be truthfully said of the greater number of the homes of our Dickson brethren. The cream of the town are lined up for plain, apostolic Christianity. The Lord help them to continue faithful and to let their power all the more be felt for good. This congregation has the honor of having one of its members in Japan, laboring for the cause there—Sister Sarah Andrews, who, a few months ago, left home and loved ones to spend and be spent for those who know not our God among the idol worshippers of Japan. She is remembered in prayers and offerings by the home forces. If others feel like helping in this good work, send an offering to I. B. Bradley, Dickson, Tenn., and it will be duly credited and sent to her.

My second meeting in Tennessee was with the Reid Avenue congregation, in Nashville. This, too, was a most pleasant work. It was my pleasure to be with them last year and also year before last in a series of meetings. They were ready, and all seemed to enjoy the work. In this meeting I was encouraged with the presence of Brethren T. B. Larimore, F. W. Smith, F. B. Srygley, Matthew Cayce, A. B. Lipscomb, Lytton Alley, R. C. White, C. M. Pullias, I. B. Bradley, and C. E. Wooldridge. Besides these, Brother H. Leo Boles, president of the Nashville Bible School, and a number of the students were over and helped with their prayers and presence. Brother A. S. Derryberry labors with this congregation and is doing a good work there. He was at home for the meeting. You could not find a more godly man than this good brother. I can never forget this meeting and its exceedingly sweet associations.

In the two meetings twenty-four souls were baptized into Christ, ten restored to fellowship, and two came from the Baptists.

On returning to Atlanta, I found the work doing well, with five more names added to our list at West End under Dr. Horton's efforts. I am now in one of the most promising tent meetings that we have ever begun.

BY J. M. McCALEB.

POSTAL INFORMATION: International post-office money orders can be bought at the rate of one per cent; but for any amount, however small, the cost will be ten cents. A check on any of the banks in America is good in Japan; personal checks are as good as any. The money itself is accepted by the banks. The ordinary postage on letters is five cents; newspapers, one cent.

ADDRESSES OF MISSIONARIES: Otoshige Fujimori, Takahagi, Kurimotomura, Katorigorri, Shimosa, Chiba, Japan; Mr. and Mrs. J. M. McCaleb, Zoshigaya, Tokyo, Japan; Mrs. William J. Bishop, 904 West Jefferson Street, Station A, Dallas, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Vincent, 73 Myogadani, Koishikawa, Tokyo, Japan; Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Jelley, Jr., Satara District, Satara, British India (funds may be sent to Don Carlos Janes, 2225 Dearing Court, Louisville, Ky.); Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Armstrong-Hopkins, Berhampore, Ganjam District, India; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. McHenry, Satara District, Satara, British India; Mr. and Mrs. John Sherriff, Bulawayo, Rhodesia, South Africa.

"Commanded."

BY DON CARLOS JANES.

"Count Bismarck, when he was in Russia in the year 1860, was one day walking with the czar, when they came to a lawn in the center of which was a sentinel. Bismarck permitted himself to ask why the sentinel was there. The czar did not know; nor did the adjutant who was with the czar know. They asked the sentinel; he did not know. All he could say was: 'It stands commanded.' The adjutant was dispatched to the officer; he did not know. He then made inquiries of officers of higher rank, but all in vain. They consulted the books, but all they could find was: 'It is commanded.' There had always been a sentinel there, but no one knew of any reason why. At last an old footman was found who remembered that his father, who had also been a footman, told him that one day the Empress Catharine had found on this lawn an early snow-drop, and gave command to place a sentinel to watch that it was not plucked nor crushed. The order was not countermanded, and so for the greater part of a century a sentinel had been kept there for no reason whatever, but because it was so commanded."

The foregoing incident is copied from "New Testament Christianity," a book of two hundred and twelve pages, by Lancelot Oliver, editor of the Bible Advocate, of Birmingham, England. If we know that God commands a thing, we have sufficient reason for rendering obedience in the matter commanded.

Notes and Items.

BY C. G. VINCENT.

A Texas church which gave us ten dollars a month last year writes that it will have to reduce that amount to five dollars a month. Others have written of reducing their offerings; but none, so far, have said anything about increasing their offerings this year. Do you want to cheer us up? This "item" tells you how to do it.

In buying a lot for the Kamitomizaka Church, removing and rebuilding the plant, and thus greatly improving the work and putting it upon a permanent working basis for the accomplishment of greater good, we are carrying into effect the late William J. Bishop's long-cherished purpose and hope. His friends will recall that he launched out to accomplish this object a few months before he was called to his reward by death. The friends and churches that formerly helped Brother Bishop would do well, it seems to me, if they all would assist in this noble enterprise.

The offerings of 1915 for our work amounted to $3,615.55. Received for others and forwarded, $106.10. Grand total for all purposes, $3,721.65. Can we not go beyond that this year and raise an even $5,000? It can be done.

The very liberal gift of eight hundred dollars made by the Bryan (Ohio) congregation for the lot fund is very deeply appreciated. I hope the good example of this church will inspire other large offerings for missions. Large gifts for missions are few and far between, and so it is truly refreshing to be the happy recipient of a liberal offering. This same church sent us a check for three hundred dollars, to be used so much per month for four years in helping to preach the gospel in Japan. The Bryan Church has made liberal offerings to other mission fields besides Japan.

Notes from India.

BY W. HUME McHENRY.

Should the Savior of men speak personally with us to-day, I am constrained to believe that he would say to us: "The harvest truly is plenteous, but the laborers are few." Last Lord's day I returned from a few-days' visit among the villages in the Nizam's State, where I recently opened up work. Our workers have not been preaching here for more than two and a half months. I think I should call my stay among them a moving protracted meeting, for I preached most of the time, though we went from village to village. Each day witnessed people baptized into Christ. It was a season of great rejoicing. Some came from four to six miles to be baptized. Scarcely had I arrived in the region before the people began to come to us asking to be baptized. It seems that God has used sectarian missionaries to prepare the people to accept Christ. Not a great many have been deceived by them; and even these, or the most of them, will leave the missions, because they say: "We want to be baptized like Christ was baptized." They all know that that was by immersion. During the six days forty-five were baptized, and on the following day three more were baptized—in all, forty-eight. Duties at home demanded that I come home at once. Many more villages are ready and anxious to be baptized. The workers will go to them just as soon as the present "Bible school" for workers is over. The people are so happy and thankful that God has brought us to tell them about God and Christ. In many of the missions the members are practically bought and then held by a job or monthly assistance. Here it is different. People come several miles to be baptized without any earthly reward whatever. They are sincere.

Again and again have we tried to present this phase of the work to the brotherhood. Like as in the days of the Savior, the common people hear the message gladly. Numbers are being baptized; for how can we refuse to baptize them when they entreat us to do so? But they are sheep without shepherds. True, the elders are the scriptural shepherds of the flock; but among people just snatched from idolatry there must be men sent to instruct them before they can become qualified for such work. With the small sum of five dollars a month we can train workers to feed the flock. Who will volunteer to send me that much each month for this work? Imagine one man trying to look after the work in Texas. Would he have his hands full? Do you think he would need a few preachers to help him? Then think of us here in India, a country that is not only larger than Texas, but larger than the United States, with a population of about three hundred and fifty million souls. Do we need a few native preachers? Really, brother, do you not think we should have at least one more American to help us in the work in this little world? Think on these things.

Beginning to-morrow (January 1), Brother Jelley will give instruction to the native workers and their wives. I wish that many more had answered our appeal for workers, so that a much larger number might have had the benefit of the school. This will do much to develop the men and thus strengthen the work which has been started. We intend to make every possible effort to teach the men for the work. We believe they are worthy. Total number of baptisms for December, one hundred and seventeen. Brethren, pray for this work.

GOSPEL ADVOCATE

EDITORS.

D. Lipscomb, E. G. Sewell, E. A. Elam,
M. C. Kurfrees, T. B. Larimore.

MANAGING EDITORS.

J. C. McQuiddy, A. B. Lipscomb.

SPECIAL DIRECTIONS.

Subscriptions are $1.50 a year, in advance, including postage to any part of the United States. To Canada and foreign countries, $2 a year, in advance.

The Date on the Yellow Label on your paper serves you as a receipt, and indicates the time to which your subscription is paid. When you renew, if the date is not changed within three weeks thereafter, please call our attention to it.

Discontinuances. No paper will be continued over twelve months after the subscription has expired. This will give all ample time to renew.

Payment for the Advocate, when sent by mail, should be made by post-office money order, express money order, registered letter, New York exchange, or postal note. Neither currency nor coin should be sent in a letter, unless registered; and when so sent, it is at the risk of the sender. Have your remittances made payable to the Gospel Advocate, and never to any member of the company.

Do Not Write Business on the same sheet as matter intended for publication.

Change of Address will be cheerfully made at the request of any subscriber giving post office, county, and State from which the change is to be made, and post office, county and State to which the paper should go after the change.

Renewals. In renewing, give the name just as it appears on the yellow label, unless it be incorrect. In which case please call our attention to it; and always give the name of the post office to which your paper is sent, as this is the guide by which we are enabled to find your name on our list.

Do Not Send Matter intended for the Advocate to the editors personally. This may occasion delay. Address the Gospel Advocate Publishing Company, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

Guarantee of Advertising.

All the advertisements in this paper are, we believe, signed by trustworthy persons. To prove our faith by works, we will make good to actual subscribers any loss sustained in trusting advertisers who prove to be deliberate swindlers. We shall not attempt to adjust trifling disputes between subscribers and honorable business men who advertise, nor pay the debts of honest bankrupts. To make this guarantee effective, in all cases say in writing advertisers, "I saw your advertisement in the Gospel Advocate;" and if anything goes wrong, notify us immediately in writing.

JACOBS & CO., ADVERTISING MANAGERS,
Clinton, S. C.

Some Questions About Elders.

BY E. A. E.

Dear Brother Elam: Under "Questions and Answers," in the Gospel Advocate of February 17, 1916, on qualifications of elders, you cite 1 Tim. 3: 1-7; Tit. 1: 5-11. You say: "These qualifications belong alike to all Christians," etc. I understand that all Christians should be as good morally and spiritually as elders should be, but there are some qualifications mentioned that cannot, in the nature of the case, belong to every man, incidental, yet necessary to fit him for the oversight of the church. Let me ask: (1) Is there not a difference, then, in men as to their qualifications, though equal as to Christian character? (2) Should a man either be or have been married before he can be an elder? (3) If all other conditions are met, must his children be old enough to be believers? (4) Must he have children under his control? (5) If there is any unpleasantness between a brother and others in or out of the church, should he be appointed to the eldership? I realize that the setting in order of a congregation is a serious matter; so I want to be sure I am right before I appoint any one to such a responsible position as overseer of the flock of God. I have received a great deal of instruction from your writings, and hope you will be helpful to me in my efforts to build up the church where I labor.

Your brother in Christ, J. R. STUBBLEFIELD.

Brother Stubblefield is right. Not only is the appointment of elders a very serious thing, but everything connected with the work of the church and the service of God in all particulars is far more serious and solemn than many seem to realize. All that we do in the common and daily affairs of life is to be done heartily as unto the Lord and in the name of Christ. The appointment of elders and their work and responsibility seem to have but little weight with some, and some apparently make light of this arrangement of God. There is in some places a sad and serious, shameful and sinful lack of reverence for the word of God.

The qualifications of elders belong alike to all Christians in their respective conditions and circumstances. All Christians must be temperate, or exercise self-control; must be sober-minded, hospitable, gentle, just, holy; must rule well their children and their own house; and must not be contentious, strikers, brawlers, greedy of filthy lucre. All Christians, according to ability, must teach others, set a good example—be the light of the world and salt of the earth—and hold to the faithful word which is according to the teaching. In fact, all these qualifications must have been developed and all this work must have been done as Christians before men can be appointed elders. Appointing them elders does not give these qualifications, but the qualifications fit them for the appointment. If men never teach before they are appointed, it can never be known beforehand that they are "apt to teach;" if they never rule their households beforehand, it cannot be known that they rule well. So with all other qualifications. "A novice," a newly made Christian, or newborn babe in Christ, cannot have these qualifications on the day of his birth. If so, there could be no room for growth.

Then when men have all the scriptural qualifications of elders and have been appointed, they are not yet absolutely perfect; but there is need of study of the word of God and room for growth and spiritual development, for Paul commended the elders at Ephesus to the word of God which was able to build them up. And with all scriptural qualifications and proper appointment, some elders make mistakes, sin, and need correction. (See 1 Tim. 5: 1, 19; 1 Pet. 5: 2, 3.) From among the elders at Ephesus men would arise speaking perverse things to draw away the disciples after them. Elders are to take heed first to themselves and next to the flock. (Acts 20: 28, 29.)

All this shows that elders are men of like passions with all other frail and fallible men, subject to temptation and liable to mistakes and sins, and that the qualifications, appointment, and work of elders are not after some impractical and impossible standard which humanity cannot reach.

Some few men seem to have a controversy with God and to be wiser than he; they say they have never seen men who have these qualifications, hence are not in favor of having elders until they can find such characters. Men prepared to serve as elders were found in the different congregations named in the New Testament, and such men can be found now.

Of course, all people so soon as they become Christians are not required to marry, and it is not possible for all married people to become parents; but all Christians who are married are to be just such husbands and wives as God directs, and all parents are required to have their children in subjection and to nurture them in the chastening and admonition of the Lord. These qualifications belong alike to all Christian husbands and wives and parents. Older and experienced husbands and wives and parents are to set the younger ones good examples and to teach them these good lessons and all other good lessons. Men who have developed these qualities are in this respect prepared to serve as elders.

Paul and Barnabas waived their right to marry; hence they were not as Christians required to marry. But if Christians cannot live useful and virtuous lives without marriage, they are required to marry. This is God's rule. Every husband is required to be faithful to his own wife and have but one wife, and every wife is required to be faithful to her own husband and to have but one husband.

It is wrong to do anything unnatural to prevent the birth of children; yet in all purity some parents are not blessed with children. But all who have children must control and develop them as God directs. Then those who have been in the church sufficiently long to develop these qualifications can serve as elders and teach others both by example and precept.

Answering Brother Stubblefield's questions, I will say:

1. Yes. According to ability and other considerations, some are more apt to teach than others, some are more liberal than others, some are better husbands and fathers than others, etc.; but all must be striving to do their whole duty and to develop the same qualifications, if not able to do so to the same degree. Some elders can do more of some work and better work in some directions than others. Some elders "rule well," which implies that some others do not rule so well; and some especially "labor in the word and teaching," while others do not. Such are to be counted "worthy of double honor," which includes a support. (1 Tim. 5: 17, 18.) This shows again that there is not an impractical and impossible standard to which no human being can attain.

2. The answer to this question depends upon whether Paul, in 1 Tim. 3: 2 and Tit. 1: 6, means that, to be an elder, a man must be married, or, being married, must have but one wife. I cannot think that Paul means that, however good an elder is, his wife's dying, or his becoming a widower, disqualifies him. If not, then cannot a man who is not married, but prudent and pure in his life and possessed of all other qualifications, serve as an elder? We know that, whether appointed and called an elder or not, he can do all the work of one. Of course, to be absolutely safe, in selecting and appointing elders, men with wives and children should be selected and appointed.

3. If the children are not old enough to be in the church, but are in subjection to their father, who in all gravity is properly controlling them, he would be qualified, having all other qualifications. Having children of sufficient maturity to weigh matters seriously and to choose and act for themselves, they should be in the church. The reason given is that, if a man knows not how to rule his own house, he cannot take care of the church of God.

4. Yes, the qualification to control must be developed. Having this qualification, a man can be an elder.

5. Not until the "unpleasantness" has been adjusted, or, at least, not until the one whom the church seeks to appoint has himself complied with all the will of God to effect a reconciliation. One man cannot be held responsible for another's sins.

We can set things in order in churches only by teaching the truth. The truth accepted will set everything in order. (See Eph. 4: 10-16.)

Not only does appointing a man elder not give him the qualifications; but without the practical and acceptable qualifications, he cannot become an elder or perform the duties of one when appointed. Elders are appointed to do certain things—to perform duties and to do work; and if men are incapable, they simply cannot do this if appointed a hundred times. The so-called "elder" who would lord it over the church, or use his position to gratify some personal grudge or to uphold any of his family or others in wrong practices, is a thousand times more disqualified than some good man who is not married or whose wife dies. Playing politics in a church is shameful, disgraceful, and ruinous to its peace and to the souls of all who engage in such work. To be Christians, people must be governed by the Bible and have the Spirit of Christ. On the other hand, a man who does not teach the Bible, practice the Bible, and use his influence in all possible ways to maintain the unity and peace of the church against all teachers of error and theories of men, is not qualified to be an elder. The duties or work of elders should be more seriously and solemnly studied and more efficiently performed. All these duties and obligations elders must meet in the judgment.

What Did Peter Mean?

On the day of Pentecost, Peter said: "Repent, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Spirit." What did he mean? Did he mean to say that unless a man is baptized in order to obtain the remission of his past or alien sins, that he cannot obtain remission or receive the gift of the Holy Spirit? If he meant that, he contradicted every Old Testament prophet and assigned all Old Testament saints to hell, for none of them were ever baptized; and Peter himself said to the household of Cornelius: "To him [that is, the Lord Jesus] give all the prophets witness, that through his name, whosoever believeth in him shall receive remission of sins." Now, if Peter taught on Pentecost that baptism was essential to the remission of sins, he contradicted all the prophets of the Old Testament, all the experience of Old Testament saints, and preached a different gospel to that he preached to the household of Cornelius; for the gospel he preached to Cornelius was in harmony with the gospel preached by Old Testament prophets. (Acts 10: 43.)

The above is from H. B. Taylor, editor of News and Truths. It is the beginning of an article on "What Did Peter Mean?" which a brother sends to me with the request that I review it, saying: "I never read such an article by mortal man." The question that heads the article is a strange one for a professed preacher of the gospel to ask. As the Holy Spirit spoke through Peter and the words Peter uttered were the words of the Holy Spirit, it is inexcusable for a preacher to inquire, "What did Peter mean?" as though he did not mean what he said. Would Mr. Taylor have us understand that he can tell us better what Peter meant than Peter himself can tell us? If, when the Spirit said, through Peter, "Repent ye, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ unto the remission of your sins; and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Spirit" (Acts 2: 38), he did not mean it, why did he not say what he did mean? To ask such a question is a reflection upon the integrity or inspiration of the apostle Peter. But Editor Taylor, in the face of the Spirit's command to the Pentecostians, "Repent ye, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ unto the remission of your sins; and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Spirit," denies that one must be baptized to receive the Spirit. He who dogmatically asserts that the reception of the Spirit comes before and not after baptism, according to Peter in Acts 2: 38, is lacking in faith in the word of God and should learn respect for God's word. Peter promised the Spirit to obedient believers, and not to the disobedient. The Scriptures abundantly sustain this position. The Spirit teaches the same doctrine in Acts 5: 32: "And we are witnesses of these things; and so is the Holy Spirit, whom God hath given to them that obey him." This is a general statement fixing the reception of the Holy Spirit after and not before obedience. Editor Taylor again teaches that the Holy Spirit is given to make sons of God, while the Bible clearly teaches that he is given to persons because they are sons. "And because ye are sons, God sent forth the Spirit of his Son into our hearts, crying, Abba, Father." (Gal. 4: 6.) As the Spirit is given to sons of God and Peter taught in Acts 2: 38 that the gifts of the Holy Spirit immediately followed baptism, no logic can gainsay the fact that baptism preceded sonship. Read other words of the Spirit through Paul: "In whom ye also, having heard the word of the truth, the gospel of your salvation,—in whom, having also believed, ye were sealed with the Holy Spirit of promise." (Eph. 1: 13.) Thus it is incontrovertibly established that the Holy Spirit is given to sons, to obedient believers. The Savior promises salvation after and not before baptism. "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved; but he that believeth shall be condemned." (Mark 16: 16.) Salvation is not affirmed of the person who simply believes; it is not affirmed of the man who is simply baptized; it is not affirmed of the man who does nothing; but it is affirmed of the man who believes and is baptized. So when believers were cut to the heart and asked Peter what to do on Pentecost, the answer dictated by the Holy Spirit was given: "Repent ye, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ unto the remission of your sins; and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Spirit." (Acts 2: 38.)

Having already shown that the Bible does not sustain the position of Editor Taylor on Acts 2: 38, I will now show that his view is not sustained by the leading scholars of the Baptist Church.

I quote first James W. Willmarth, member of the Board of the American Baptist Publication Society and chairman of the Committee of Publication. The quotations from him are from the Baptist Quarterly, Philadelphia, July, 1877, "Baptism and Remission."

"It is feared that if we give to 'eis' its natural and obvious meaning, undue importance will be ascribed to baptism, the atonement will be undervalued and the work of the Holy Spirit disparaged. Especially is it asserted that here is the vital issue between Baptists and Campbellites. We are gravely told that if we render 'eis' in Acts 2: 38 'in order to,' we give up the battle, and must forthwith become Campbellites; whereas if we translate it 'on account of,' or 'in token of,' it will yet be possible for us to remain Baptists.

"Such methods of interpretation are unworthy of Christian scholars. It is our business, simply and honestly, to ascertain the exact meaning of the inspired originals, as the sacred penmen intended to convey it to the mind of the contemporary reader. Away with the question, 'What ought Peter to have said in the interest of orthodoxy?' The real question is: 'What did Peter say, and what did he mean, when he spoke on the day of Pentecost, under the inspiration of the Holy Spirit?'" (Page 304.)

"Finally, suppose we force 'eis' in Acts 2: 38 to bear the unnatural and unauthorized meaning of 'on account of.' After all, we have gained nothing. Other passages there are which cannot be explained away. Thus our Savior said, just before he ascended the heavens: 'He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved.' We shall hardly dare to tamper with his royal word and make it run, 'He that believeth and is saved shall be baptized.' And unless we do thus change his saying, we have by the highest authority an importance attributed to baptism certainly not less than that given to it in Acts 2: 38, translated according to its obvious meaning. What, then, is the advantage of violently torturing 'eis,' the construction and the context?

"We conclude without hesitation, and in accordance with such authorities as Hackett, Winer, Meyer, etc., that the proper rendering of 'eis apheis hamartion' in Acts 2: 38, as in Matt. 26: 28, is 'unto,' 'for'—i. e., 'in order to'—remission of sins." (Page 306.)

"The catechumenical system was yet unknown. 'Anxious seats,' 'rising for prayers,' and all modern 'revivalistic' methods, good and bad, were unheard of. The gospel was preached as a practical thing—a divine message to be at once obeyed. Those who received it were made the subjects of no spiritual diagnosis; but their profession of faith in the Lord Jesus was accepted, and they were immediately baptized. By that act the convert crossed the great gulf which separated the church from Jews and pagans, and rendered himself liable to persecution, perhaps to death. Everything was in solemn earnest; sensationalism and fanaticism were not yet introduced, and hypocrisy was rare." (Page 307.)

"We are confirmed in this by our Savior's words to Nicodemus, who came to him during that early period to learn more fully, no doubt, of the kingdom which Christ and John were preaching. Christ said to him: 'Except a man be born of water and of the Spirit, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God'—i. e., baptism and renewal by the Spirit are the conditions of true citizenship in the kingdom of God on earth. Unquestionably remission was one of the blessings of that kingdom." (Page 309.)

"Note also that in those early days baptism swiftly followed that which it expressed, closely conjoined with repentance and faith, in time as well as in teaching, so that little opportunity was given for the question, 'What is the status of an unbaptized believer?' No one who accepted the gospel in reality was ever known to refuse baptism; and as to exceptional cases, such as the impossibility of receiving the ordinance, be it remembered that God was then, is now, free to go before the letter of his gospel promise, or to go beyond it, whenever, in his own sovereignty, he may see sufficient cause for so doing." (Pages 314,315.)

"Certainly it would seem that baptism must be very important, intimately connected with remission and salvation. How can an unprejudiced mind survey this testimony and then relegate baptism to the realm of mere emblem, symbol, and profession? However they are to be explained, the facts from the record are these: Our Lord before his departure commanded that those who would be his disciples should be baptized, and united baptism with faith in the promise of salvation. The apostles and their collaborators directed inquirers to repent, believe, and be immersed in order to remission. Baptism is often alluded to in the Epistles in harmony with this view of it, and also as related to other important things in Christian life and hope. The apostles seem never to have conceived of the possibility of a penitent believer refusing to be baptized; but if one professing this character had refused baptism, is it possible to doubt, with this record before us, that they would have warned him of the guilt and danger of 'rejecting the counsel of God concerning' himself? If these are the facts, and that they are is obvious, the Scriptures do teach that baptism is a part of what is meant by 'obedience to the gospel,' which has the promise of remission of sins and of eternal life." (Pages 311, 312)

After producing many scriptural reasons connecting baptism and remission, Mr. Willmarth summarizes as follows and holds that baptism is a condition of salvation, just as I hold:

"1. The relation of baptism to remission is not that of an emblem or a profession of an assured fact regarded as already accomplished.

"2. The relation of baptism to remission is not that of a single, specific, and invariable condition, on which remission absolutely depends.

"3. The relation of baptism to remission is this: Baptism is the third of three gospel requirements or conditions, to which, jointly, is annexed the promise of remission. The others are repentance and faith, which baptism is designed to express, embody, and consummate." (Pages 318, 319.)

I next quote from Alvah Hovey. He was president of Newton Theological Institution, Newton Center, Mass.: professor of Theology in the same institution; editor of "An American Commentary on the New Testament," in which series he wrote the "Commentary on John." The quotations are made from "Handbook on Baptism."

"We may say that being 'born of water' (baptized) must signify being cleansed from sins, or forgiven; while being 'born of Spirit' cannot signify less than being ingenerated, if we may use the word, with a new and holy principle of life by the Spirit of God." ("Commentary on John," Appendix, page 423.)

"Repent, and be baptized every one of you in [or upon] the name of Jesus Christ unto the remission [or forgiveness] of your sins.' (Acts 2: 38, R. V.) Here repentance and baptism are represented as leading to the forgiveness of sins." ("Commentary on John," Appendix, page 420.)

"Arise, and be baptized, and wash away thy sins, calling on the name of the Lord.' (Acts 22: 16.) Of course there is no such thing possible as literal washing away of sins. But there is such a thing as forgiveness of sins, and this may be described figuratively as washing them away, so that henceforth the soul may be 'clean' from the guilt or stain of sin." ("Commentary on John," Appendix, page 420.)

I quote next from Horatio B. Hackett, a Baptist scholar of much note, professor of Biblical Literature and New Testament Exegesis in Rochester Theological Seminary, "Commentary on the Acts of the Apostles:"

"In order to the forgiveness of sins' (Matt. 26: 28; Luke 3: 3) we connect naturally with both the preceding verbs. This clause states the motive or object which should induce them to repent and be baptized. It enforces the entire exhortation, not one part of it to the exclusion of the other." ("Commentary on Acts," 2: 38, page 53.)

"And wash [bathe] away thy sins.' This clause states a result of the baptism in language derived from the nature of that ordinance. It answers to 'for the remission of sins,' in Acts 2: 38—i. e., submit to the rite in order to be forgiven." ("Commentary on Acts," 22: 16, page 258.)

I close these quotations with one from J. R. Graves, who stood, in his day, head and shoulders above any other Baptist in the South in influence. One Matilda T. Hoy had written him to express his views on John 3: 5. His answer is:

"If Brother Vaughn convinced us that 'born of water' refers to anything but the baptism of one previously born of the Spirit, we never knew it, and we would have owned it to him and to our readers. It means nothing else, and no Baptist we ever heard or read of ever believed otherwise until A. Campbell frightened them away from an interpretation that is sustained by the consensus of all scholars of all denominations in all ages." (Tennessee Baptist, page 5, October 30, 1886.)

But in what way did Peter "contradict every Old Testament prophet" in teaching baptism unto remission of sins? Did any Old Testament prophet say one word about baptism in the name of Christ? If so, which one, and what did he say? Was any Old Testament saint commanded to be baptized in the name of Christ? Is Christian baptism any part of the Old Testament? If not, why does our friend refer to Old Testament saints in connection with baptism for remission? Is he trying to be saved like Old Testament saints? If so, he is missing it as far there as he is in the New Testament plan. Both in the Old Testament and the New Testament the faith that did not express itself in action was worthless. The faith that is too craven and cowardly to come out in action never yet blessed any one. Abraham's faith was made perfect by works. (James 2: 22; read Heb. 11.) But Editor Taylor argues that because Peter said at the house of Cornelius, "To him bear all the prophets witness, that through his name every one that believeth on him shall receive remission of sins" (Acts 10: 43), he could not have meant what he said in Acts 2: 38, that baptism is for (unto) remission of sins. Thus, to uphold his theory, he has Peter against Peter. A sufficient answer to all such caviling would be to say that belief, or faith, is not mentioned in Acts 2: 38, neither is repentance mentioned in Acts 10: 43. The same logic that will prove that baptism is not essential because not mentioned in Acts 10: 43 will also prove that repentance is not essential because not mentioned in this verse, and that faith is not necessary because not mentioned in Acts 2: 38. If it be replied that repentance is included in the word "believe," then why not, for the same reason, include baptism in the word "believe?" Why include repentance and exclude baptism? Does Editor Taylor know the meaning of the word "consistency?" It should be noted that Peter did not say that "every one that believeth on him shall receive remission of sins." Even if he had said this, it would not sustain Mr. Taylor's position; for the word "believeth," on which salvation is predicated, involves obediencce. "He that believeth on the Son hath eternal life; but he that obeyeth not the Son shall not see life, but the wrath of God abideth on him." (John 3: 36.) In this passage belief includes, or is used interchangeably with, "obeyeth." In Acts 10: 43 Peter said that "through his name" "every one that believeth on him shall receive remission of sins." Remission of sins must be reached through his name. Faith, baptism, remission of sins, and the name of Christ are inseparably joined together in the plan of salvation. Baptism is the first act that belongs to faith, has an element of faith in it, and is inseparably joined to faith. (Matt. 28: 19, 20; Mark 16: 16; Rom. 6: 3, 4; Gal. 3: 27.) How did the Galatians become sons of God through faith in Christ Jesus? "For as many of you as were baptized into Christ did put on Christ." (Gal. 3: 27.) Since remission of sins comes through the name of Christ, and we can have no connection with the name of Christ before baptism, it follows with the force of demonstration that baptism is unto the remission of sins. J. C. McQUIDDY.

Help the Fanning Orphan School.

BY E. A. E.

Since Brother Mason's check was the first one received in response to our call for help for this school, we take pleasure in publishing his letter:

McMinnville, Tenn., May 12, 1916.—Dear Brother Elam: I noticed your communication in the Gospel Advocate in regard to the Fanning Orphan School, and inclose you my check for five dollars. You have, no doubt, forgotten me, but will remember me as having formerly lived at Smithville.

With kindest regards, I remain, Very truly,
THOMAS MASON.

Brother Mason is kindly remembered, and we heartily thank him for this check.

The next to respond was our good friend and brother, T. M. Smith, of Valdosta, Ga., whose letter speaks for itself:

Valdosta, Ga., May 12, 1916.—Dear Brother Elam: I have just read your article in the Gospel Advocate and am glad to be able to inclose you my check for fifty dollars for the Fanning Orphan School. I trust the appeal will be liberally responded to and that the school will not only be able to meet its present requirements, but be enabled to extend its work into greater fields of good to the orphan girls. We are all well at home, and I am sure all would ask to be remembered to you if they knew I was writing.

Best regards to yourself and family.
Fraternally yours,
T. M. SMITH.

This prompt donation from Brother Smith is likewise highly appreciated and gratefully received.

I trust others have sent donations to the treasurer, Brother A. N. Trice, Wall and Monroe Streets, Nashville, Tenn., and that still others will respond promptly and freely until the school is relieved of its present indebtedness and has a sufficient endowment fund to fill the building with orphan and needy girls.

We are mailing a card to every subscriber to the Gospel Advocate and to others. Let every one read this card, decide how much he can give and when he can give it, state the same in the blank on the card, sign it, and return it in the envelop inclosed. Please do not pass this card by unnoticed. Some who have already given to the school in response to these appeals will receive this card, because it is being mailed according to the list of subscribers to the paper by persons who do not know who have given to the school. Such persons can use their own judgment and generosity in promising to give more in the future.

Take the matter into serious consideration, kind readers, give all you can in cash now for the present relief of the school and promise as much as you can for its future use.

The need is urgent, the school is worthy, the cause is a great one, it is in the hands of earnest and conscientious and true men, and in giving to the poor we are lending to the Lord. The loan is absolutely safe. We may give to some things which disappoint us and to some persons unworthy, but we cannot be disappointed in helping orphan girls and other needy ones to become self-sustaining, useful, and Christian women. A few may not come up to our expectation; but they are nevertheless helpless and homeless, and we cannot make a mistake in furnishing them a home, the proper training, and such good opportunities to develop into useful women; in this case, we cannot lose our reward or fail to do our duty. By a little sacrifice and prompt attention and generosity on our part, we can make hundreds useful and happy. Let us do it.

The Standard of Judgment and Unsound Teaching.

BY M. C. K.

The article on unsound teaching, published in our issue of May 18, 1916, suggests the propriety of a further consideration of the standard of judgment in such cases. Among other things on the same line, that article said: "It has been well said that 'matters vital and essential to the faith of the gospel' are things for which we should contend and which must not be controverted; but the difficulty arises about what these 'essentials' are."

This is not correct. In fact, the statement is not only not correct, but it is merely one of a series of specious, but groundless, assumptions in the vain effort to defend the right to propagate human opinions and speculations. No "difficulty arises" here at all, except the evident wish, if not on the part of the writer of that article, at least on the part of those whom he is following, to open a gap, or to leave one down, through which the propagators of human opinions may enter with whatever notion or capricious fancy they may wish to teach. Until these recent agitators and disturbers of the peace and harmony of the churches over speculations about unfulfilled prophecy fancied that they must inoculate the churches with their theories and speculations about a coming kingdom and other things, there was no "difficulty" among them and their associates in determining what was "vital and essential" truth, and there would be no "difficulty" among them at this point now if the writer of the article criticized and others had not, possibly unconsciously to themselves, become victims of this hurtful delusion.

To clarify the atmosphere at this point and see the situation as it is both from the human and divine points of view, let us ask a few simple questions:

Has not Jehovah spoken on the question of salvation from sin? And did he not speak with a view of being understood? If so, then did he attempt to do this and make a failure? If not, why may we not know what is essential and what is not essential without any "difficulty" at all? And why all this hue and cry about "difficulties" arising here? Moreover, has not Jehovah spoken on what is essential to the Christian's full duty to the end of life and to his final salvation in heaven? If so, again we ask, has he not spoken with the view of being understood? To say the least of it, when men get up disputes and wrangles over these simple and fundamental matters and create strife and division over them, they open the way for the very just suspicion that they have some doctrinal fancy which is not sufficiently plain to commend itself as unquestionably a doctrine of God; and hence they want to put it through under cover of the false and misleading assumption that men may properly differ as to what is, and what is not, essential to salvation. This is invariably the position taken by all factionists and all leaders of departures from the word of God.

Thus they tacitly assume that the very vagary for which they are contending is itself an "essential," and how easy it is in all such cases for men to hide behind this specious assumption with any kind of a false theory! Of course, if that for which they contend is "essential" to the salvation of men either in time or in eternity, they have a right to teach it, no matter how much trouble or division it may cause; and they have no difficulty in getting over this "if" by complacently assuming the essentiality of the thing in dispute.

Finally, to call in question this alleged essentiality is only to open the way to be reminded by such propagators of disturbing opinions that they have as much right to decide what is essential as other men have! Of course they are correct in this, because no man, however wise and great, has this right at all. God is supreme here, and he alone has this right, and the exercise of it through inspired men is shown by the record in the New Testament.

We shall have more to say on the application of the divine standard of judgment.

War Prices.

WHEN the writer began work with the Gospel Advocate almost a third of a century ago, the regular subscription price of the paper was $2 a year, in advance. At that time paper, materials, and labor were much cheaper than they are now. Living did not cost half so much then as now. In the last few months the paper on which the Gospel Advocate is printed has advanced almost one hundred per cent. In other words, it has just about doubled. Ink has greatly increased in price. The cost of publishing the paper is much greater than ever before.

Instead of advancing the subscription price of the paper, it has been reduced from $2 to $1.50 a year, in advance. The quality of the stock on which the Gospel Advocate has been published has been maintained despite the advance in prices. The workmanship on the paper has not been sacrificed, even if it does require more money to publish a first-class journal from the mechanical viewpoint. First-class compositors, proof readers, and assistants are employed in producing the Gospel Advocate. We feel that we should give our readers the very best journal that we possibly can, even if we must make sacrifices to do so.

In addition to the facts set out above, we think it due our readers to let them know that during the last two years we have charged off on subscriptions that remain unpaid for that time, $8,154. Of course our readers can readily see that we cannot take care of the great advance in labor and materials, charge off to unpaid subscriptions in two years over $8,000, without a heavier burden on the publishers than they are able to bear. The paper was sent to the delinquent subscribers in good faith, believing that they wanted it and that they would cheerfully pay for it. Time was extended them even to the extent of twelve months in the conviction that they would pay for it. We reasoned that a Christian who read a paper would as readily pay his subscription as he would his grocery bill. We are firm in the conviction that many of those in arrears will yet pay their past-due subscriptions and renew for the paper. Time does not wipe out a debt with a Christian so long as it remains unpaid. But what they will do does not take care of present responsibilities.

If the publishers could collect without expense one-fourth of the amount due, the Gospel Advocate would be in good financial condition. The publishers and editors have been giving, and are still ready to give, their labor and time to the work without murmuring or complaining, but they would not feel justified in hopelessly involving themselves in debt or in assuming a burden greater than they can bear. Neither do they believe that the many lovers of the truth who read the Gospel Advocate would have them so burden themselves. Just a little coöperation and support from our readers would lift the burden from a few shoulders and enable them to devote their talents and time to improving the paper and increasing its field of usefulness. You may help us by encouraging those who read Christian papers to pay for them. Show them it is as dishonest to take a paper out of the post office and read it and then neglect or refuse to pay for it as it is to refuse to pay any other just debt.

None of these things move us from our determination to do what we can to disseminate the truth as we pass through life. We are not here to live for ourselves and to look to our own indulgence and ease, but we must do what we can for the betterment and elevation of humanity. Woe is unto us if we fail to do so. We earnestly solicit your most hearty fellowship and coöperation in the great work in which we are engaged.

PUBLISHERS GOSPEL ADVOCATE.

By J. C. McQUIDDY.

AT HOME AND ABROAD

Compiled by A. B. Lipscomb

John T. Smithson baptized a lady at Kirkmansville, Ky., on May 14.

J. F. Love, from Pensacola, Fla., called to see us last week. He reports progress in the Pensacola work.

The editor of this page will preach at Franklin, Tenn., on the next two Sundays at morning services only.

E. M. Borden, of Little Rock, Ark., paid us a pleasant visit Tuesday. He had just closed a good meeting at Knoxville, Tenn.

R. R. Clark writes from Red Boiling Springs, Tenn.: "Beginning on Monday, June 5, there will be a debate here between T. B. Clark (Christian) and C. B. Massey (Baptist)."

G. Dallas Smith "happened in" with us at Russell Street Church last Sunday evening. He made an encouraging report of G. C. Brewer's meeting at Murfreesboro, Tenn.

Thomas C. King writes from Lawrenceburg, Tenn.: "Our meeting on the Stribling farm closed on May 12. Seven were baptized and seven restored. We had three good meetings at Town Creek, Ala."

From John Hayes, Kemp, Texas, May 19, 1916: "I reached Texas two weeks ago Wednesday. Began a meeting here last night. There are just a few here who serve the Lord. We hope to get the church revived and lead others to Christ."

F. W. Smith will begin a meeting at Russell Street, this city, next Sunday. Let us have a united effort for the reclamation of souls whom fire cannot destroy. We are counting on all Christians in Nashville to stand by us in this meeting, and we will miss you if you do not come.

Good reports come from the Nashville meetings. Sam P. Pittman closed at Joe Johnston Avenue with twelve additions, including ten baptisms; C. E. Wooldridge closed at Foster Street with eleven additions; T. Q. Martin continues at Twelfth Avenue, with ten baptisms at this writing; R. V. Cawthon is in the second week at Grandview Heights and the interest is very good.

Have you sent for your copy of "Christian Treasures," Volume I? If not, you are missing something good. Dr. J. J. Horton, of Elora, Tenn., thinks a good deal of his copy. He writes: "I received 'Christian Treasures,' Volume I, and am more than delighted with it. Put me down as a subscriber for each volume as fast as they are printed."

From John H. Hines, superintendent of the Potter Orphan Home, at Bowling Green, Ky., May 22, 1916: "I would like to correspond with some sister of middle age who would like to devote her life, or a part of it, to this kind of work. We need a matron at present. Address J. H. Hines, superintendent Potter Orphan Home, Bowling Green, Ky."

The commencement exercises of the Nashville Bible School last week were of an unusually high order. The orations and essays of the graduates were heard by a large and appreciative audience. Ten diplomas were conferred, besides a number of special certificates. J. Paul Slayden delivered the address to the class. President Boles reported the largest attendance in the history of the school.

Many old students attended the alumni exercises of the Nashville Bible School on May 17. A constitution and by-laws were adopted and the following officers were elected: John E. Dunn, president; Charles R. Brewer, secretary; Mrs. Charles R. Brewer, historian. All ex-students are eligible for membership. Send your name with one dollar to the secretary, who lives at the Nashville Bible School.

From G. Dallas Smith, Murfreesboro, Tenn.: "G. C. Brewer, of Columbia, Tenn., closed our meeting last night (May 21), after preaching fifteen days. The preaching was strong and scriptural and the interest increased from the beginning. There were four baptisms and two confessed faults as a result of the meeting. The members were well pleased with Brother Brewer's work and we feel that much good has been done. C. M. Pullias will hold our fall meeting."

From J. M. Dennis, Gallatin, Tenn., May 15, 1916: "I am now in a meeting at a schoolhouse on Pee-Dee Creek, in the northwestern part of Sumner County, about twelve miles from Gallatin. The meeting began on last Saturday evening. So far the attendance and attention have been good. This is a destitute and much-neglected corner, especially so for this part of Tennessee, so near to old and well-established congregations of disciples of Christ. I will continue here over next Lord's day. Remember us when you pray."

From J. D. Shipman, San Angelo, Texas, May 16, 1916: "One of the best two-weeks' meetings ever held in San Angelo has just closed. There were thirty-two additions—twenty-eight by baptism and four by membership. W. F. Ledlow did the preaching and Austin Taylor led the singing. We are glad we had them with us. We learned to love them for their godly walk, the spirit of the Christ shown in them, and their power for good. We hope to have them with us again. Jewell Matthews, our regular preacher, is doing a good work for a boy. To God be all the praise."

I wish to speak a good word in behalf of the struggling little band of Christians at Paris, Tenn. Two years ago Brother Srygley held a meeting in the courthouse and the cause was established. They have been breaking bread ever since, and now plan to begin a tent meeting, having secured T. B. Thompson and John T. Smith to preach and sing. They have some money on hand, but not enough to defray all the expenses of the meeting. Contributions from contiguous congregations and Christians everywhere will be of immense help at this time, and I trust they will be forthcoming. Send to J. A. Patterson, at Paris, Tenn.

From J. D. Walling, Monticello, Ky., May 18, 1916: "It was my pleasure to be with the church at Antioch, in Pulaski County, on the fifth Lord's day in April, with one lady to give up the name of the Baptist and to resume the name of Christ only. This is a congregation for which E. H. Boyd ministers and by which he is well beloved. I was at Mullettown, in Wayne County, on the second Lord's day in May, with two baptisms. The prospects for an increased harvest are very flattering. We expect Brother Srygley to be with us in Monticello, beginning on the first Lord's day in June. Please pray for this meeting."

Fully five hundred people attended the reunion of the oldest congregations in Davidson County, which was celebrated on the beautiful grounds of the Fanning Orphan School on May 19. R. V. Cawthon presided, and addresses of a reminiscential nature were delivered by Dr. William Boyd, E. A. Elam, James E. Scobey, F. B. Srygley, C. E. Wooldridge, J. P. Slayden, J. G. Allen, and T. Q. Martin. The occasion was one of unalloyed happiness and was made still more memorable by the "good confession" of a young lady who was baptized in the presence of "many witnesses." Thanks are due to the superintendent and matron of the school for the many accommodations offered and to the sisters who prepared the excellent spread of edibles. Brother Elam made an earnest appeal for the Fanning Orphan School and reported several substantial contributions. Let us hope that more will follow.

THAT TIRED FEELING

Relieved by Hood's Sarsaparilla,
Which Renovates the Blood.

That tired feeling that comes to you in the spring, year after year, is a sign that your blood lacks vitality, just as pimples, boils, and other eruptions are signs that it is impure; and it is also a sign that your system is in a low or run-down condition inviting disease. It is a warning, which it is wise to heed.

Ask your druggist for Hood's Sarsaparilla. This old standard tried and true blood medicine relieves that tired feeling. It cleanses the blood, gives new life, new courage, strength and cheerfulness. It makes the rich red blood that will make you feel, look, eat and sleep better.

Be sure to get Hood's Sarsaparilla. It embodies the careful training, experience, and skill of Mr. Hood, a pharmacist for fifty years, in its quality and power to cure.

JACOBS & COMPANY

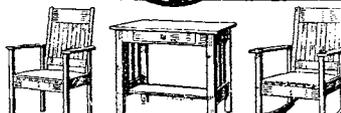

SPECIAL ADVERTISING
AGENTS

PRINTERS DESIGNERS PHOTO ENGRAVERS ELECTROTYPERS

Catalogues
— a Specialty

HOME OFFICE:
CLINTON, S.C.

PAY ONLY $100 A MONTH

THREE PIECE LIVING ROOM SET $10.95
with library table having 34x
24 in. top, book shelf and drawer; solid comfort arm chair and rocker with spring seats covered with best imitation Spanish leather $10.95, $1 down, $1 a month. 30 days trial

We offer you the biggest buying chance of a lifetime—cash bargains on our monthly payment plan. No interest. 1500 Special Big Bargains, to introduce our quality furniture, rugs, curtains, stoves, kitchen cabinets. Write NOW! RHODES FURNITURE CO. Dep. F. Memphis, Tenn.

WRITE FOR CATALOG

DAISY FLY KILLER

placed anywhere, attracts and kills all flies. Neat, clean, ornamental, convenient, cheap. Lasts all season. Made of metal, can't spill or tip over; will not soil or injure anything. Guaranteed effective. Sold by dealers, or 6 sent by express prepaid for $1.

HAROLD SOMERS, 150 DeKalb Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

The Master's Vineyard

Arkansas.

Brinkley, May 16.—Brother W. Halliday Trice, of Memphis, Tenn., preached a series of ten sermons for the church at this place, beginning on May 1. We feel that our church has been greatly benefited by this short meeting. The interest was good and the crowds somewhat better than we usually have. Four members were added to the church. Brother Trice preaches the Word as well as any preacher we have ever had. His sermons were fine; each one seemed just a little better than the preceding one. We look forward to the time when we can have him again.

(Miss) MARY FLORA.

Stephens, May 14.—I shall begin my summer protracted-meeting work the last week in this month at Choctaw. From there I shall go to Lonoke, county seat of Lonoke County, for a tent meeting for the month of June. There is but one brother there. If there are any near who read this who can help by their presence by singing or in tendering us the use of two or three dozen song books, it will be greatly appreciated. The meeting will begin there on June 9. I expect to be at Delight, Pike County, the first two weeks in July; at Guy, the last two weeks in July; at Woodrow, near Vilonia, the first two weeks in August; and at Antioch, near Logansport, La., the last two weeks in August. I would say to the brethren at these places not to wait until I come to get ready for the meetings, but begin now. I hope by the Lord's help to do more this year than ever in life before.

R. W. ARRINGTON.

Colorado.

Denver, 3839 Yates Street, May 15.—In view of the fact that Denver is a health resort and that many people have met with us a few times, only to pass on and hear nothing further from us, I make bold to send this notice, hoping that it will be of interest to some of those above mentioned, if not the whole brotherhood. Brother John D. Evans preaches on Sunday morning and evening for us, with the rare exceptions of when he is physically incapable. Brother E. C. Fuqua, who was with us for a time, is now engaged in pioneer work on the Colorado Western Slope, a work at which he excels. Our present location at Eighth and Ogden Streets is seemingly a poor one, as far as church work is concerned, but the crowds have been little better in other parts of the city where meetings have been held. We have determined to make a greater effort than hitherto, that the gospel of Christ may have a fair hearing, and ask the fellowship of your prayers. At the present we are renting a church. Through the kindness of a brother we have four lots on which to build when the congregation feels financially able to undertake the erection of a house. Pray for us, and do not fail to meet with us, whomsoever you are, when in our city.

TRACY MENARD.

Georgia.

Valdosta, May 16.—There was good interest in the services at Hildreth, Fla., on Saturday night before and on the second Lord's day in May. One addition at the evening service.

L. J. JACKSON.

Idaho.

Hailey, May 15.—A few years ago I never dreamed that I should ever write a line in behalf of Christianity; but since moving here and being brought face to face daily with the crying needs of this country, I, like Paul at Athens, feel "my heart stirred within me." And I might add that if any one ever desires a stimulant for that worthy organ in like manner, I would suggest that he spend six months at this place or in a place similar (as there are many, many such places to be found, I am sure). Sometimes I feel as though we should never have located here; then, again, I am glad; for while I lived in Tennessee I was within sound of several church bells, and, like many other Christians, being so situated, never realized the cold, bare facts of such gospel-neglected spots as this is. The picture drawn of the heathens bowing before the idols never had quite so much force and pathos to me then as it has now, and my duty to support missionaries and spread the glad tidings has taken hold on me as never before. I am thoroughly converted as to giving "cheerfully and gladly." But let me say a few things in reference to this country. Our climate is very high, light, and dry. Scarcely any rains fall at all (there are exceptions to all things, sometimes, of course). It is very cool and pleasant through the summer, and early and late frosts in spring and fall. It is very cold in winter; yet the cold does not penetrate as it does in a lower and heavier atmosphere. One hardly realizes how cold it really is, after he becomes acclimated. People here do not wear any heavier clothing than the people do in Tennessee, except footwear. The snowfall last winter was one hundred and fifty-five inches; but it was an unusually hard winter. The altitude here is forty-five hundred feet. At some places it is a great deal less; some places, more. We are within twenty-five miles of Mount Hyndman, the highest point in the State, which is more than twelve thousand feet. The occupation is farming, cattle and sheep raising. There is so much mountain range for stock that people can keep great bands of stock without cost through the summer. This is a great alfalfa region, with two crops yearly. The price ranges from five to ten dollars per ton. The ground is very productive. Scarcely ever do people enrich it. Grain averages from thirty-five to fifty bushels per acre. All kinds of vegetables, except those easily frozen, grow rank here. Fruit raising is not to be thought of, except small fruit, as raspberries, currants, and gooseberries. But fruit is shipped in that sells from one dollar to one dollar and fifty cents per bushel of the very choicest apples, peaches, and plums. Wages, two dollars per day and board. One can rent a ranch with everything furnished for half the products, or the renter may furnish it himself and retain two-thirds of the products. A very economical family willing to work, it seems to me, can do well here financially; in fact, far better than they can do where we came from. Butter making and cream shipping is followed very extensively by many. Families average from seventy-five to one hundred dollars monthly through the summer and fall months by this trade. Poultry raising is followed by some, but people would rather deal in cattle. Eggs reach sixty and seventy-five cents per dozen in winter. Grain sells at one to one and one-half cents per pound; potatoes, the same. There is not much sale for hogs, since there is not much shipping out from here. All money lies in cattle and sheep. People do various things, but the most profitable, from my point of view, is teaching school and ranching and stock raising. Since there are just three members here, I can say that the church is hardly represented here at all. The growth of the church here, so far as I see, cannot be estimated. That, I think, only God himself knows. There has never been such a thing as a person representing the Christian faith in Wood River Valley until we came here two years ago. People never heard tell of such a thing. A young man twenty-five years old asked me how a person was baptized, frontward or backward, and what such tomfoolery was for, anyway. Now he has good common sense and is a fair sample of the inhabitants of this valley. The school system is grand. A certain per cent is set aside each year to be used for libraries, improvements, etc. A tax of three hundred dollars was voted for our district this year for such things. All books are furnished the pupils, and the compulsory law requires that a pupil shall go the full term. After completing the eighth grade a four-years' course in the Hailey High School is given free also, if the pupil wishes to take the course. The school term cannot be less than six months, and is generally eight or nine months. The salaries of the teachers are never less than seventy dollars, and often eighty or eighty-five dollars in the rural schools. Board ranges from fifteen to twenty-five dollars. There is a movement now being started to furnish each school with a room so the teacher can board himself or herself. This can be done so much cheaper for the teachers. We trust that this statement will be of some inducement for an immigration westward of Christian people. My wife joins in this letter.

G. H. BYARS.

Invigorating to the Pale and Sickly.

The old, standard, general strength ening tonic, Grove's Tasteless Chills Tonic, drives out malaria, enriches the blood, and builds up the system. A true tonic. For adults and children Fifty cents.

Subscribe for the Bible Study Helper. Sixty cents per year.

When Louise of Prussia Went to Napoleon

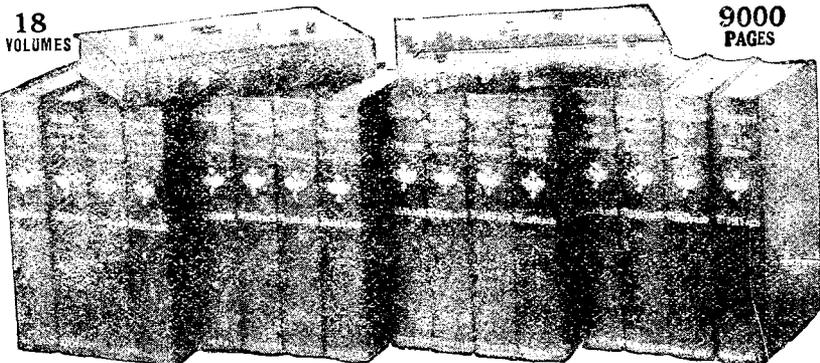

One Hundred Years Ago

Louise went to Napoleon on a delicate and humiliating mission. A clever woman, a beautiful woman, was Louise of Prussia. Had she accomplished her mission that night, the history of Europe would be different today. Beneath the surface of the mighty war now going on are the secret, twisted threads of intrigue and passions of a hundred years. To understand the fearful upheaval in Europe you must know that hidden history frankly told in imperishable form in

Muhlbach's Historical Romances

These wonderful volumes tell the private, personal life and character of great men and women. History is here written in story form. These volumes are beyond question the most fascinating historical romances that have ever been given to the world. They contain a history of the crises in Germany, Austria, Russia, England, Switzerland, Egypt, France, Holland and Prussia during two hundred years of startling events, told in intensely interesting and romantic form. All classes are represented in these volumes as they lived and loved, thought and acted. Thus the human interest always prevails and has given this set of books enduring popularity. These wonderful historic romances are among the books that never die. They are interesting, instructive, reliable, truthful, wholesome and good. In the volume devoted to Napoleon and Blucher practically every historic character that the life of the great emperor touched in any way is here given—all the men and women of his time. The new edition is printed from new plates, upon extra quality of paper from easy-to-read type, are attractively illustrated and bound in Art Buckram Cloth, titles stamped in gold.

The Encyclopedia Britannica says: "Muhlbach's works show a talent for lively description and narration that gives enduring popularity and a power in weaving alluring romances from those stirring times that is unsurpassed."

Here Is Our Bargain Offer—Send No Money

Just sign and mail attached coupon and we will ship you the complete set of this beautiful edition for five days' examination in your own home. You can decide then for yourself whether or not you wish to buy. You can return the set at our expense if it fails to give you entire satisfaction. Should you desire to purchase send us $1.00 as first payment and pay the balance at the rate of $2.00 per month for only nine months until our special price of $19.00 is paid. The regular subscription price is $40.00. Thousands of sets have been sold at this figure. The reason we are able to cut the price to only $19.00 is that our method of sale by mail eliminates all middle men's profits. There is neither a dealer's profit nor an agent's commission involved in the transaction. We ship direct from factory to consumer and guarantee satisfaction in every way. Mail coupon promptly.

HERE ARE THE CONTENTS

1. Napoleon and the Queen of Prussia.
2. The Empress Josephine.
3. Napoleon and Blucher.
4. Queen Hortense.
5. Marie Antoinette and Her Son.
6. Prince Eugene and His Times.
7. The Daughter of an Empress.
8. Joseph II and His court.
9. Mohammed Ali and His House.
10. Henry VIII and His Court.
11. Berlin and Sans Souci.
12. Goethe and Schiller.
13. The Merchant of Berlin.
14. Louise of Prussia and Her Times.
15. Old Fritz and the New Era.
16. Andreas Hofer.
17. Frederick The Great and His Court.
18. Frederick the Great and His Family.

INSPECTION COUPON

THE RIVERSIDE PUBLISHING CO., (2-23)
Marquette Bldg., Chicago, Illinois.

Please ship me for examination and approval one set Muhlbach's Historical Novels, eighteen volumes, Art Buckram cloth binding. If satisfactory, I will send you $1.00 after five day's examination and $2.00 a month thereafter for nine months. If the set does not meet my entire approval after five day's examination, I will notify you and hold subject to your order and return at your expense as offered Gospel Advocate readers.

Name _____

Address _____

Enclose business card, letter head or give references

CUT OUT AND MAIL

Subscribe for the Young People. Forty cents a year. Mailed weekly to single subscribers.

MILLER'S ANTISEPTIC OIL KNOWN AS

Snake Oil

has perhaps relieved more sufferers than any other known remedy in the same length of time. More than one hundred thousand bottles sold in the past four months under an absolute guarantee to give satisfaction or money refunded, and only three bottles have been returned. Many have testified that they had suffered with rheumatism and lumbago until they had been forced to give up their work because they could not use their limbs. Some who could not even raise their arms above their heads have been restored and are now praising this wonderful oil that other sufferers may be relieved. No wonder this great oil treatment has sprung into such tremendous popularity in so brief a time and is so much praised to-day by thousands throughout the South. For rheumatism, neuralgia, lumbago, stiff and aching joints, or any kind of an ache or a pain, it is said to be without an equal. For sore throat, croup, diphtheria, and tonsillitis, and for cuts and burns, it has been found most effective. This wonderful new oil remedy that is producing such results throughout the country is now for sale by all leading druggists. Accept no substitute, for there is nothing like it. Golden-red color only. Every bottle guaranteed—25 and 50 cents a bottle—or money refunded. Sent, postpaid, on receipt of price, if your druggist cannot supply you. Herb Juice Medicine Company, Jackson, Tenn.

Stop Cheating Your Family.

You doubtless fully realize your duty to your family in making your home life attractive, entertaining, cultured, and refined; and you have promised yourself that some day you will fill that vacant spot in the parlor with a splendid piano or player-piano of the sweetest tone and highest quality, or that you will replace the old rattle-trap with a superb new instrument. But the days, the months, and possibly the years have silently crept by, and still there is no good music in your home. In the meantime, home is not what it might be, for a home without a high-grade piano or player-piano is seriously and hopelessly handicapped.

You have only one life to live here; why let procrastination steal your family's best opportunity for social, mental, and spiritual advancement? The Gospel Advocate Piano Club will solve the financial problem for you now. It was organized to overcome the very difficulties which confront you. By clubbing your order with those of ninety-nine other subscribers, you save forty per cent of the price own order. Convenient terms of payment and yet are responsible only for your ment are provided. You try the instrument in your own home and must be thoroughly satisfied before finally accepting it.

Write for your copy of the club's catalogue and full particulars to-day. Address Associated Piano Clubs, Gospel Advocate Department, Atlanta, Ga.

WINTERSMITH'S CHILL TONIC

Sold for 47 years. For Malaria, Chills and Fever. Also a Fine General Strengthening Tonic.

50c and $1.00 at all Drug Stores.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM
A toilet preparation of merit. Helps to eradicate dandruff. For Restoring Color and Beauty to Gray or Faded Hair.
50c and $1.00 at Druggists.

HINDERCORNS Removes Corns, Callouses, etc., stops all pain, ensures comfort to the feet, makes walking easy. Use by mail or at Druggists. Hiseox Chemical Works, Patchogue, N. Y.

Establishing Churches.

BY JOHN E. DUNN.

There cannot be a more commendable work than the establishing of churches in new and unworked fields. Paul made it his aim "to preach the gospel, not where Christ was already named, that I might not build upon another man's foundation; but, as it is written, they shall see, to whom no tidings of him came, and they who have not heard shall understand." (Rom. 15: 20, 21.) Paul's labors are the fullest and most complete of the New Testament plan of evangelizing the world. He would enter an unevangelized province, plant churches in the chief cities, and they would become radiating centers of the gospel for the regions around. In Galatia churches were established in the cities—Antioch, Iconium, Lystra, and Derbe; the seven churches of Asia were in the seven chief cities; in Macedonia churches were established in Philippi, Thessalonica, and Berea. This plan is followed in all of the records of New Testament evangelism. Nashville is often referred to as the radiating center (or "Jerusalem") of Tennessee.

A great deal has been done in the last few years that is very encouraging to us. In Atlanta, Ga., where only a few years ago there was not one New Testament church, there are now several churches, a few hundred members, and several evangelists. From Atlanta the gospel is spreading in every direction throughout Georgia. A short while ago there was only one weak church in Chattanooga, Tenn.; now there are not less than five and the work is prospering. Just a few years ago I was in Memphis, Tenn., in a meeting with the only mission band (a small one) in that city at that time; now there are seven congregations. In the last two or three years a church has been established in Knoxville, Tenn. It is published that "the Knoxville brethren feel that they are now able to take up the support of the work themselves." Time and space fail me to mention Birmingham, Montgomery, Pensacola, Tampa, and scores of other places. In most of these places, if not in all of them, in the earlier stages of the work, the churches and individual Christians have contributed liberally of their means to the establishment of these churches. In addition, considerable work has been done in foreign lands. If a full record could be given, I doubt not that we would have a glowing report. Let this good work go on by leaps and bounds. Many calls for help are being heard from every direction. Let none be discouraged at the many calls. It is a healthful sign. It

PANAMA HATS HAND-WOVEN.

Bungay's New Discovery Brings Costly Panamas Within Reach of All.

New York, N. Y.—Special.—It is now proven that the stylish Panama up to now only worn by the best-dressed people can now be sold for $1. You don't have to be skeptical about the low price, as it gives service like the $5 and $10 kind, but not so fine a weave, and by this new discovery of weave one can hardly tell the difference. A Panama gives a man or woman distinction and at the same time comfort. Mr. George J. Bungay, 28 South William Street, New York City, is backing up his discovery by sending a real, hand-woven Panama, any size, trimmed, blocked, with silk band, to any one for $1, postpaid. Fitted with Russian leather sweat-band, 25 cents extra. He has guaranteed to fill all orders up to August 1 as an experiment; furthermore, his policy is that if you are not entirely satisfied, you may keep the hat and he will return your money.

THE POCKET TESTAMENT LEAGUE

Pronouncing Vest Pocket New Testaments

The handiest, daintiest, and most useful edition of the New Testament published. It takes up little room and will really fit the pocket. Printed on fine paper from the largest type ever used in so small a book.

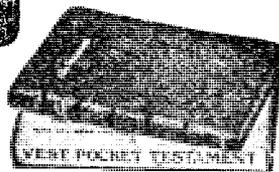

No. 2117 RL.

Size 2 3/4 x 4 1/2 inches.

Specimen of Type.

WHOEVER believeth that Jesus is the Christ is born of God: and every one that loveth him

No. 2117

Beautiful Colored Frontispiece in Each,
"Thy Word is a lamp unto my feet"

No. 2117 Bound in Ooze Tan Leather, flexible limp, gold side title, round corners, gold edges, containing membership certificate and suggested daily readings.

Single copies postpaid $.40

Per Dozen 4.00 carriage additional

RED LETTER EDITION

No. 2117 RL. Same as 2117 above WITH ALL THE WORDS OF FOUR LORD AND SAVIOUR PRINTED IN RED.

Single copies postpaid $.55

Per Dozen 5.50 carriage additional

THE POCKET TESTAMENT LEAGUE

is a world-wide organization of those who agree to honestly endeavor to read a portion of a chapter of the Bible daily, and to carry a Testament or Bible about with them. There are no fees of any kind and the aim of the League is to strengthen Christians and to win the unsaved to Christ by spreading God's Word. Members are therefore encouraged to give Testaments away to those who are willing to join the League and fulfill the conditions of reading a portion of a chapter each day.

Any person becomes a member of this League by securing a Testament and agreeing to the conditions set forth in the Membership certificate which accompanies each Testament.

For sale by the McQuiddy Printing Company, Nashville, Tenn.

indicates life, health, and a growing interest. Of course, we should exercise wisdom and good judgment in spending money in new places.

In the beginning of the gospel, when Paul was at Thessalonica, the church at Philippi sent "once and again" unto his need. (Phil. 4: 14-17.) Afterwards, Paul, writing to the church at Thessalonica, said: "For from you hath sounded forth the word of the Lord, not only in Macedonia and Achaia, but in every place your faith to God-ward is gone forth; so that we need not to speak anything." (1 Thess. 1: 8.) A very promising and needy work is now being carried on by Brother Walling in the hills of Kentucky and by Brother W. L. Reeves in North Carolina and those associated with them. These brethren are doing a great work. They need money to help pay up expenses in carrying forward this glorious work.

In Miami, Fla., the church has been started. This work was begun by a few poor, humble disciples who emigrated to Miami. Brother Clifton Tatum, of Louisville (now deceased), and Brother J. J. Hart, of Detroit, getting acquainted with this work, took an interest in building up a church in Miami. The little church in Miami suffered a great loss when Brother Tatum died. The work in Miami is doing nicely. More people are attending and the interest is increasing. This is one of the greatest missionary fields in the country. Along the east coast of Florida the country is developing rapidly. Cities and towns are being built every few miles along the railroad from Jacksonville to Key West, a distance of five hundred and twenty-two miles. In the country, where the people are engaged in truck gardening and growing fruit, the population is rapidly increasing. In this country the gospel must be preached. The little church in Miami, believing the brethren generally will come to her support and trusting in God, is now planning to undertake great things for the spread of the gospel in this great field. There is not another church of Christ in one hundred and fifty miles of Miami, so far as we know. We want the readers of the Gospel Advocate to know of the work in Miami. We hope within a short while to have the work on an independent and solid basis. From time to time you will be informed about the work in Miami.

Iron the Greatest of All Strength Builders, Says Doctor

A Secret of the Great Endurance and Power of Athletes

Ordinary Nuxated Iron Will Make Delicate, Nervous Rundown People 200 Per Cent. Stronger in Two Week's Time in Many Cases.

NEW YORK, N. Y.—Most people foolishly seem to think they are going to get renewed health and strength from some stimulating medicine, secret nostrum or narcotic drug, said Dr. Sauer, a well known specialist who has studied widely both in this country and Europe, when, as a matter of fact, real and true strength can only come from the food you eat. But people often fail to get the strength out of their food because they haven't enough iron in their blood to enable it to change food into living matter. From their weakened, nervous condition they know something is wrong, but they can't tell what, so they generally commence doctoring for stomach, liver or kidney trouble or symptom of some other ailment caused by the lack of iron in the blood. This thing may go on for years, while the patient suffers untold agony. If you are not strong or well, you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of ordinary nuxated iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see for yourself how much you have gained. I have seen dozens of nervous, rundown people who were ailing all the while, double their strength and endurance and entirely get rid of all symptoms of dyspepsia, liver and other troubles in from ten to fourteen days' time simply by taking iron in the proper form. And this after they had in some cases been doctoring for months without obtaining any benefit. But don't take the old forms of reduced iron, iron acetate or tincture of iron simply to save a few cents. You must take iron in a form that can be easily absorbed and assimilated like nuxated iron if you want it to do you any good, otherwise it may prove worse than useless. Many an athlete or prize-fighter has won the day simply because he knew the secret of great strength and endurance and filled his blood with iron before he went into the affray, while many another has gone down into inglorious defeat simply for the lack of iron.

NOTE—Nuxated Iron recommended above by Dr. Sauer is not a patent medicine nor secret remedy, but one which is well known to druggists and whose iron constituents is widely prescribed by eminent physicians everywhere. Unlike the older inorganic iron products, it is easily assimilated, does not injure the teeth, make them black, nor upset the stomach; on the contrary, it is a most potent remedy, in nearly all forms of indigestion, as well as for nervous, run-down conditions. The Manufacturers have such great confidence in Nuxated Iron that they offer to forfeit $100.00 to any charitable institution if they cannot take any man or woman under 60 who lacks iron and increase their strength 200 per cent or over in four weeks' time provided they have no serious organic trouble. They also offer to refund your money if it does not at least double your strength and endurance in ten days' time. It is dispensed by all druggists.

MONEY IN PIGEONS

Make Your Back Yard Profitable

THE demand for squabs in the Northern, Eastern and Southern markets has never been supplied, because pigeon raising as a business is comparatively new. Buy a half dozen pair of select birds, fence in a small portion of your back yard and watch them go to work. Success is easy. They raise from eight to fifteen pairs of squabs a year. Your squabs and fancy birds will bring handsome returns. You will actually make money in a hitherto useless part of your back yard. Pigeon raising is not a fad or fancy. It is a profitable business. Let us start you right. Our breeders are the best, and raised from prize winning parents. We will furnish you with the birds and teach you how to raise them, and you will reap a handsome profit with a very little outlay. Thousands are taking advantage of this same opportunity. Write to-day for our literature on pigeon raising as a money making proposition, or better still, write us to send you a few pair of Belgian Carneaux at $3.00 per pair, White Swiss Mondaines at $5.00 per pair, White Kings at $3.50 per pair, or White Maltese at $4.00 per pair. Our birds are all guaranteed. Your money back if after two months you are not satisfied with their work. Better prices on larger orders. Write to-day and get the pick of the flock.

CAROLINA PIGEON PLANT,
Pen Series G— CLINTON, S. C.

INDIVIDUAL COMMUNION SERVICE

Every church should use his cleanly method. Over 5,000 churches now use our system. Our noiseless, dust-proof, self-collecting trays save 1/4 cost of other systems. Shallow glass used—no tipping of head. Outfits on trial. Give number communicants.

THOMAS COMMUNION SERVICE CO., BOX 460, LIMA, OHIO.

Tolvonoid's

FOR WOMEN

STRENGTH comes from well-digested and thoroughly assimilated food. Hood's Sarsaparilla tones the digestive organs, and thus builds up the strength. If you are getting "run down," begin taking Hood's at once. It gives nerve, mental, and digestive strength.

The Real Definition of Life is Nerve Force.

People often wonder what the difference really is between the living and dead body. Apparently nothing has been taken away, but still the complicated machinery of the body has stopped and cannot be started again. What is missing is "life," and the modern definition of life is "nerve force."

This nerve force must be distributed regularly all over the body. Directly it does not run smoothly, ill health will follow.

Dr. Miles Nervine benefits the health by evening up the distribution of this vital force of life and by taking all the "jars and jolts" out of the system.

In this conjunction the Rev. C. H. Cox, of Mason City, W. Va., has stated: "I have found Dr. Miles' Nervine to be unexcelled in all nervous disorders, and I have always recommended it to any one whom I hear is suffering in this way. We also always keep Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills on hand, as we feel they are invaluable. No words can truly express the real merit of Dr. Miles' Restorative Remedies."

Dr. Miles' Nervine can be used with advantage in all ailments which have a nervous origin or which have affected the nervous system. It is particularly beneficial in case of sleeplessness, nervousness, epilepsy, hysteria, chronic headache, and neuralgia.

Dr. Miles' Nervine is on sale at all drug stores, and is strictly guaranteed to benefit you or your money will be refunded by the druggist.

MILES MEDICAL COMPANY, Elkhart, Ind.

Big Deal on Sterling Hose.

Big purchase direct from the mills on "Sterling" Half Hose enables us to offer them while they last at startling prices.

"Sterling" Hose are stainless fast dye—good, clean, selected cotton yarn, nice weight, full seamless double heel and toe, wide elastic instep, long loop-on elastic ribbed top, full standard lengths; come in any color wanted; one dozen to a box, solid sizes, 9 to 11.

Sent, postpaid, to any address in the United States for $1.40 per dozen. Money cheerfully refunded if not delighted. These hose are sold for and are worth 20 to 25 cents a pair in many places. Order to-day. The Bee Hive, Box F, Clinton, S. C.

PARADISE OF PRAISE.

A new song book. New, popular, standard songs and hymns that please—the very best for Sunday schools, religious meetings, etc. Don't miss it. Both notations.

Price, 35 cents; dozen, $3.50.

Special.—Sample copy, 20 cents. Will include a free copy of "Temperance Trumpeter" or a "Civic Betterment Rally Song," state which.

Address

HILDEBRAND-BURNETT COMPANY,
Basic, Va.

FROM THE FIELD

India.

Poona, February 11.—For two weeks Mrs. McHenry and I have been in Poona. We brought a few thousand tracts and ordered five hundred scripture portions. Giving away tracts is an interesting work, but giving away "holy books" is quite an exciting labor. Imagine yourself in the center of a mass of people, every one doing his utmost to seize a book, and you will see me as I am almost knocked down and trampled upon by the rushing crowd, and that with several policemen to try to keep the people off of me. Do we need a standing fund to use in giving the gospel to the people? Please answer by sending five dollars for one thousand scripture portions. Almost daily we receive letters telling of baptisms. Quite a number have been reported for the new year. Next month I hope to make a trip among the churches, strengthening them and sowing the seed in other places. The work will continue to increase. We trust you will remember us in your prayers and in your offerings to the Lord, that we may not only take the enemy's country, but hold it for the Lord. We are in very good health. We are planning work for our new missionary. Please send him at your earliest, for "the King's business requireth haste."

W. HUME MCHENRY.

Kentucky.

McHenry, May 16.—I conducted a two-weeks' meeting at Herndon. Five confessed the Lord and were baptized. Others quit their digressive ways and want to take the Word for everything they do in God's service. I hope to make them another visit in October.

W. T. HINES.

Maine.

Portland, May 15.—Yesterday was a good day for us here. One confession and baptism at our evening service.

W. E. MORGAN.

Missouri.

Poplar Bluff, May 9.—I have taken up the work with the loyal brethren here, and will work in and out of town. There is much opposition to meet; but we have "a mind to work," if we are few in number. On May 7, at Green Forest, I baptized a young lady from the Catholic Church into Christ. We are made to rejoice that one more soul has been rescued from Roman Catholic superstition and darkness and brought into the glorious light of the Son of God. A tramp told Brother Rose the other day that he was starving to death. Brother Rose said: "Come to my house and I will fill you." He did not come. I guess he is dead. Many there be that are starving for the bread of life; but rather than come to God's house and partake of that bread, they will serve Satan and die. J. J. PADGETT.

Tennessee.

Cleveland, May 18.—I closed an eight-days' meeting at Big Springs,

CALOMEL MAKES YOU SICK, UGH.

"Dodson's Liver Tone" better than calomel and cannot salivate.

Calomel loses you a day! You know what calomel is. It's mercury—quick-silver. Calomel is dangerous. It crashes into sour bile like dynamite, cramping and sickening you. Calomel attacks the bones and should never be put into your system.

When you feel bilious, sluggish, constipated, and all knocked out, and believe you need a dose of dangerous calomel, just remember that your druggist sells for fifty cents a large bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone, which is entirely vegetable and pleasant to take and is a perfect substitute for calomel. It is guaranteed to start your liver without stirring you up inside, and cannot salivate.

Don't take calomel! It makes you sick the next day; it loses you a day's work. Dodson's Liver Tone straightens you right up and you feel great. Give it to the children, because it is perfectly harmless and does not gripe.

Club Solves Piano Problem.

The greatest danger in buying a piano or player-piano is the difficulty in selecting one of real and lasting quality. There are so many cheap imitations on the market that the chances of full and permanent satisfaction are slight unless you are an expert judge and are extremely careful in your selection.

If you feel that you are not a good judge of the quality, durability, and value of an instrument, or if you have not time to make an exhaustive investigation of these matters, why not throw the responsibility on the Gospel Advocate Piano Club? It has already made the investigation for you and will assume the full responsibility of giving you absolute and perfect satisfaction and the largest possible value for your money. What your insurance policy is to your home, the club is to your piano or player-piano.

But the club does not stop there. It clubs your order with those of ninety-nine other subscribers, thus securing the lowest possible factory price for each club member. It provides convenient terms of payment, the strongest guarantees of quality and durability, and gives you the opportunity to try your instrument thoroughly before you buy. The club absolutely guarantees perfect satisfaction in every detail of piano buying. Write for your copy of the catalogue to-day. Address the Associated Piano Clubs, Gospel Advocate Department, Atlanta, Georgia.

Better Than Spanking.

Spanking does not cure children of bad wetting. There is a constitutional cause for this trouble. Mrs. M. Summers, Box 195, South Bend, Ind., will send free to any mother her successful home treatment, with full instructions. Send no money, but write her to-day if your children trouble you in this way. Don't blame the child; the chances are it can't help it. This treatment also cures adults and aged people troubled with urine difficulties by day or night.

Meigs County, last Sunday. Three young men were baptized, one of whom is a school-teacher and bids fair to be a power for good. The three male members of the church at Decatur thought it best to postpone the tent meeting at that place, as the people were so very busy with their berry crops that we would not likely get very many to hear. It is very difficult to determine what is best to do sometimes, as in this case. It is not the big attendance that counts every time; but we are inclined to think that the more that hear, the more good done. The house of worship at Cleveland is now being roofed. We hope to have it in condition to worship in it by the first Lord's day in June. How glad most of the members will be when we can worship under our own roof, since we have been dependent in that respect since the work started here more than two years ago! It is good to know that other preachers are doing some work in this section of the State. Brother Charles Holder, I hear, is at Calhoun, twelve miles from Cleveland. Brother R. N. Moody is to use the Cleveland tent at Ooltewah, between Cleveland and Chattanooga, in June. Brother T. B. Larimore is to be at Riceville, twenty miles from Cleveland, in June. We hope other preachers will come this way. Remember, you will be welcome, and plenty of work to do. Let us never be satisfied until every nook and corner of earth has heard the gospel. A good brother desiring to help me suggested that I move to Middle Tennessee and teach school and preach, assuring me of a good position; but we cannot afford to leave this field uncultivated. More preachers need to come this way, and the churches need to send them. What do you say, reader? Let us burn less gasoline and preach the gospel more. Tobacco bills could be entirely eliminated.

FRED M. LITTLE.

Texas.

Fort Worth, May 15.—We are having a fine meeting at the Central Church, with Brother L. S. White, of Dallas, doing the preaching. His work is conducted on a high plane. There have been seventeen additions up to this time. The meeting will continue another week.

W. M. DAVIS.

Denison, May 10.—At this writing I am in Denison in a fine meeting. Our tent, sixty by ninety feet, was overflowing last night. The singing, led by W. D. Evridge, is something fine. We baptized five last night. We thank God and press on.

THOMAS E. MILHOLLAND.

Lometa, May 15.—There were large crowds at both services yesterday; also, both our mission houses were crowded. Brethren Dent and Nichol were at Senterfitt, the writer and helpers were at McCann, in the afternoon. All three Sunday schools show marked increase. New scholars every Lord's day.

BEN WEST.

Chillicothe, May 9.—I preached eight days for the church at Grapevine. It was a pleasure to work with them. We had six additions in all—four baptized, one restored, one took membership. The brethren appreciated my services and manifested it in a substantial way. I shall begin a meeting at home next Lord's day.

J. T. BENTLEY.

Fort Worth, May 15.—We had only one service at South Side Church yesterday on account of Brother L. S. White's meeting with the Central Church. There were two accessions to our fellowship yesterday, and two while I was gone to Shreveport, La. We are to begin our protracted meeting with the home force on the second Lord's day in June.

A. O. COLLEY.

Lott, May 15.—Yesterday was a good day with the church at Lott. We had two good services, with one restored from the Baptists. She had wandered into the fogs and mists of denominationalism, but wearied of the wrong and came home. The cause here is doing very well. God bless all the faithful everywhere.

W. P. SKAGGS.

Childress, May 15.—I have just closed a short meeting at Mountain View, near Kirkland, without visible results. I came home last night and heard Brother Frank Copeland, of the Lockney school, preach at the church; and, by the way, he is a good preacher, with that practical message the church needs so much. I will go to Shamrock next week for a meeting, and Brother J. B. Nelson will begin ours here at the same time. My new book on "Materialism" will be ready to deliver in three weeks, and I will accept advance orders at twenty-five cents per copy if you order now. It will cost more after they are out. So order early, and I will have something to pay the publisher, and your book will not cost you so much.

TICE ELKINS.

Pulpit Bibles Largest assortment, finest Bibles at lowest cost. Write to us for full description and prices. PENTECOSTAL PUBLISHING CO., Inc., LOUISVILLE, KY.

Here It Is!

My New 1916 Buggy Bargain Book for You FREE

Just off the press. Filled with startling bargains in buggies direct from my factory in the heart of the Kentucky hickory district. Here's the place to buy your buggy.

My catalog takes you on a trip through the factory—following the raw material from the time of its receipt through the various construction steps until it comes out a finished buggy. Illustrated in colors from photographs of buggies. Hundreds of dandy testimonials and pictures of pleased customers from everywhere who have bought

My $30,000 Guarantee Bond

Protects you when you buy the "Blue Grass" buggy. This monster bond means that every claim I make must be right. I have to keep my word whether I want to or not.

BOHON'S "BLUE GRASS BUGGIES" AT FACTORY PRICES.

These buggies are built by experts. The "Blue Grass" is the easiest riding, lightest running buggy on the market. The very best material is used. Genuine second growth, straight grain Kentucky split hickory is used. Full wrought gears doubly braced. Easy riding, French head, French point springs. Special light running 2000 mile axle. Upholstered in Bohon's hand-buffed auto leather. Guaranteed waterproof top.

Everything that can be put into a buggy to make it durable, easy riding and luxurious is found in my "Blue Grass." Yet my factory price to you is so low that I can save you $25 to $50. And you don't have to buy my buggies on faith or take my word for anything, either. Bohon's "Blue Grass" buggies are guaranteed for life and backed by a $30,000 Bond.

Try One On Your Own Roads for 60 Days Then Decide Whether You Wish To Keep It.

This gives you time thoroughly to test my "Blue Grass" Buggy. Try it on rough roads and at high speeds. If the good old "Blue Grass" shows a flaw let me know and I'll take it back. I'll pay freight both ways. So the fair trial doesn't cost you a cent. Nobody could make a fair offer like this unless he knew he had a buggy that was absolutely right in every respect. I also have a complete line of harness and pony vehicles and harness.

Write for the Free Book.

Read it and you'll realize I haven't told you half the story here. You'll see buggies so handsome and high grade you'll wonder how I can sell them at the prices I do. If you are buying a buggy or thinking of buying one this big bargain book will save you money. Write for it.

D. T. BOHON,
987 Main Street Harrodsburg, Ky.

Back to Health by Nature's Route.

This is the title of a most interesting booklet issued by the Celebrated Shivar Mineral Spring. The booklet contains the strongest letters of testimonials from men eminent in the professions of medicine, law, and theology; from bankers, merchants, manufacturers, and others, telling how this remarkable water has relieved them of dyspepsia and indigestion, nervous headache, rheumatism, gallstones, kidney and liver diseases, uric-acid poisoning, and other ailments due to impure blood. Sign and mail the following letter and you will have no cause to regret it. Shivar Spring,

Box 21D, Shelton, S. C.

Gentlemen: I accept your guarantee offer, and inclose herewith two dollars for ten gallons of Shivar Mineral Water. I agree to give it a fair trial, in accordance with instructions contained in the booklet you will send; and if it fails to benefit my case, you agree to refund the price in full upon receipt of the two empty demijohns, which I agree to return promptly.

Name

Address

Shipping Point
(Please write distinctly.)

CONSTIPATION

Its Cause and Results Are Among the Most Serious Menace to Health

Don't use drastic laxatives and purgatives that drive the stomach to action.

Use JACOBS' LIVER SALT. Stimulates the hepatic secretions. Supplies the natural phosphates and sulphates to the gastric juices and aids the digestion and natural evacuation.

Re-establishes the proper functions of the digestive organs and intestines, and curing properly, promptly, and permanently constipation. Acts without pain or nausea. Price, 25 cents and 50 cents at druggists', or direct from the makers, JACOBS' PHARMACY, Atlanta.

JOIN THE CRUSADE AGAINST THE HOUSE FLY...

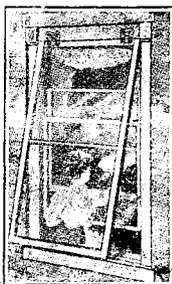

Your Health and Comfort Demand it.

Screens that cover the entire window keep out all the flies and mosquitoes always. You can make the screens yourself.

Kees (Gossett) Hinges make it easy to attach or remove screens or to swing them out to wash windows. No tools or ladder needed.

Write for free booklet and sample set of hinges for trial.

KEES MFG. CO.,
Box 86 Beatrice, Neb.

WHEN WRITING OUR ADVERTISERS PLEASE MENTION THIS PUBLICATION

East Texas Training School.

BY ISAAC E. TACKETT.

Many of the readers of this paper will remember that about two years ago I made some statements in the papers about the establishment of a school in East Texas, a school to incorporate some industrial features to accommodate a large number of boys and girls that desire an opportunity to work for an education. I gave up my position as president of the Sabin College and came to East Texas for that special purpose. But the great destruction in the cotton crop two years ago last fall, caused by the heavy rains, followed by the war panic, necessitated a postponement of the plans. For a time the effort was indefinitely postponed, not to say given up entirely. During the past year times were very close in East Texas, as well as elsewhere, and it became inadvisable to launch any enterprise that required an expenditure of money. But times have now become normal in these parts and business conditions are active. Prospects for another good crop are flattering. The past year's experience in economy and home providing has brought a great reform over the people.

Notwithstanding this delay, I am glad to now announce a most splendid opportunity to begin the work on a sound basis. I have perfected plans to open a school the coming fall. I have secured a nice four-room building, practically new, with a splendid auditorium, well furnished. An advanced session for local patronage will be opened on September 4. The regular session will open on November 28. This provision is made to accommodate the farmer boys who cannot enter at the early date. In this work I will have able assistants, complete announcements of which will be made later.

The most important thing with any educational institution is to have a firm financial footing. A lack of this has caused the majority of private schools to fail. This feature is, of course, of serious concern to us in the work we are beginning. Ample boarding facilities are being arranged to accommodate a goodly number of students for the opening session. Pay students will be accepted, and the school will depend on this avenue of income to the extent that the per cent of income from this source can support a school. But few schools can succeed on this avenue alone. As a principal support for the school, especially the industrial features, the school will engage extensively in the fruit, truck, and nursery business, as well as dairying. We

FOR EMERGENCY USE.

Every well-regulated family should keep on hand a jar of Mentholatum.

Its uses are various, because it is an antiseptic and germicide and also a delicate counter irritant; just the thing needed for scalds, burns, bruises, insect bites, and stings.

Mentholatum is a combination of volatile aromatic oils with a heavier base.

In the case of scalds and burns the heavy base keeps out the air, a very necessary condition.

The lighter aromatic oils disinfect the surface and protect it from infection from without.

The lighter oils also set up a counter irritation which seems to draw the soreness out of the injured part, reducing the inflammation and encouraging rapid recovery.

For this reason it is very much used for colds, sore throat, catarrh, cold sores, and croup.

FRECKLES

Now Is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freckles as the prescription othine—double strength—is guaranteed to remove these homely spots.

Simply get an ounce of othine—double strength—from your druggist, and apply a little of it at night and morning and you should soon see that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the lighter ones have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than an ounce is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a beautiful clear complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength othine as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.

750 BIBLE AND GOSPEL STUDIES

Brief Complete Outlines of Sermons, Talks, Addresses; for Students, Teachers, Preachers. Covering Old and New Testaments. Ready Help for Leading all Meetings. Many Important and Puzzling Questions Answered. Apt References and Short Explanations. All Subjects Covered. Vest Pocket size, 128 pages. Cloth 25c, Morocco 35c, postpaid. Stamps Taken. Agents Wanted.

Penecostal Publishing Co., Louisville, Ky.

A safe and palatable laxative for children

Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup

Absolutely Non-narcotic

Does not contain opium, morphine, nor any of their derivatives.

By checking wind colic and correcting intestinal troubles common with children during the period of teething, helps to produce natural and healthy sleep.

Soothes the fretting baby and thereby gives relief to the tired mother.

DROPSY TREATED, usually gives quick relief, soon removes swelling and short breath, often gives entire relief in 15 to 25 days. Trial treatment sent free. DR THOMAS E GREEN Successor to DR H H GREENS SONS Box H Chatsworth, Ga.

Subscribe for the Bible Study Helper. Sixty cents per year.

have easy access to any needed quantity of suitable lands for these purposes. These lines of employment will furnish work for almost an unlimited number of students, and the profits from these lines of business will afford a splendid revenue when properly managed. I am not an amateur in any of these lines.

Since early in this year I have been developing these lines, looking forward to the opening of the school. Considerable shipments of truck will be made the present season, and we will be prepared to fill more than five thousand dollars' worth of orders for nursery stock the coming fall and winter. We will be especially prepared to supply a large quantity and variety of roses and flowering shrubs. The volume of our supply of these articles will be more than doubled year after year until we will be prepared to take care of a large volume of business.

Of course, in a few years we will have to have additional building room. All profits from the nursery business will be held up for a fund with which to erect a modern brick building. We do not expect to ask for direct donations to this work. We hope to demonstrate that a school can be established and maintained on a self-supporting basis. If brethren and friends to this work will send us their orders for the nursery stock they buy instead of buying from questionable agencies, we can have funds in two or three years to build a fifteen or twenty-thousand-dollar building of a modern design.

The most expensive feature of any college work is to maintain instruction in the advanced branches of study. In fact, this is the source of bankruptcy to almost all schools that do not have a handsome endowment. Recognizing this fact, our course of study will begin low, and additions will be made thereto as the financial strength of the school increases. For the first session our literary course will be limited to about a first-grade teacher's certificate as prescribed by the laws of Texas. In addition to this, however, advanced courses will be given in English and Bible. These two courses will be a special feature of the school. We will also maintain thorough courses in bookkeeping, shorthand, and typewriting. This curriculum will cover the needs of most of the students that will be interested in this school. Our purpose is to make character building one of the principal efforts of the institution.

The Troup community affords splendid opportunity to a large number of families who want to secure small homes in easy access to school advantages. I would like to correspond

A FAMOUS PHYSICIAN'S WONDERFUL DISCOVERY.

After a series of careful experiments and tests at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., covering many years, Dr. Pierce, the medical director of that hospital, made announcement that he could prove that a medicine which he called "Anuric" was the best uric-acid solvent now to be had. As a remedy for those easily recognized symptoms of inflammation, as scalding urine, backache, and frequent urination, as well as sediment in the urine, or if uric acid in the blood has caused rheumatism, lumbago, sciatica, gout, it is simply wonderful how quickly "Anuric" acts, causing the pains and stiffness rapidly to disappear.

Swollen hands, ankles, and feet are due to a dropsical condition, often caused by disordered kidneys. Naturally, when the kidneys are deranged, the blood is filled with poisonous waste matter, which settles in the feet, ankles, and wrists, or under the eyes in baglike formations.

It is just as necessary to keep the kidneys acting properly as to keep the bowels active.

The very best possible way to take care of yourself is to take a glass of hot water before meals and an "Anuric" tablet. In this way it is readily dissolved with the food, picked up by the blood, and finally reaches the kidneys, where it has a tonic effect in rebuilding those organs.

Step into the drug store and ask for a fifty-cent package of "Anuric," or send Dr. Pierce ten cents for a trial package "Anuric"—many times more potent than lithia, eliminates uric acid as hot water melts sugar. A short trial will convince you.

Get Your Machine at Half Price

$12⁹⁵

Five dollars brings you this high quality sewing machine, freight prepaid. Give it a thorough thirty-day trial; if you are entirely satisfied, pay for it in three monthly installments. If after thirty days you don't think it is the equal of any machine regularly sold at double the price, send the machine back; we pay the freight and return your money. This, in a nut-shell, is the big money-saving plan of the Religious Press Co-Operative Club.

Get our catalogue and investigate fully the six splendid bargains in high-grade sewing machines offered you under these terms. These machines are all fully warranted for ten years—during this period we replace free any defective parts. Prices range from $12.95 to $27.80. Not "cheap" machines, but absolutely the best that can be manufactured at the price—machines that you would have to pay twice as much for from agents or at retail stores. They are all sold under the same plan—

Easy Terms—Thirty Days Trial

The Club represents the co-operative plan of buying. By agreeing to sell a large number of these machines, we secured from a highly reputable manufacturer prices very little above actual cost. In buying from us you get your machine at carload-lot prices, plus the very light expense of operating the Club. All middlemen's profits, agents' commissions, salaries, etc., are saved.

Send us this Coupon Today and get our catalogue. Let us tell you more fully about the Club Plan. Investigate the superb, easy-running, guaranteed machines that you can buy under this plan at half usual prices and on easy terms. Remember the thirty day trial feature. Simply cut out this coupon, write in your name and address and mail to us.

Religious Press Co-Operative Club
113 W. Carolina Ave., Clinton, S. C.

FREE CATALOGUE COUPON

Religious Press Co-Operative Club
113 W. Carolina Ave., Clinton, S. C.

Please send me your catalogue, and show me how I can save half the purchase price on a high quality sewing machine through the Co-Operative Club Plan.

Name

Address

with a large number of such families. The Troup section is one of the most healthful locations in which I have ever lived. Troup is a town of about fifteen hundred people, situated on the main line of the International and Great Northern Railroad, on the line of Smith and Cherokee counties, and in the center of the fruit and truck belt of East Texas. The Troup church has a membership of one hundred, and is one of the best congregations with which I have labored.

I am anxious to correspond with any and all young people desiring to attend a school of the grades and kind

WHY NOT TRY POPHAM'S ASTHMA MEDICINE

Gives prompt and positive relief in every case. Sold by druggists. Price, $1. Trial package by mail, ten cents.

Williams Mfg. Co., Props., Cleveland, O.

I here indicate. But especially do I want to correspond with every young person wishing an opportunity to work for a part or all of an education in either a literary or a Bible course. Upon a simple inquiry I will be glad to write you full particulars about the school work.

YOU CAN HAVE 5 YEAR TO PAY

30 Days Free Trial

OUR DIRECT FACTORY TO HOME plan saves you money.

WE PAY THE FREIGHT and ship to you any piano or player piano you select from our catalog.

25 YEARS GUARANTEE on all our pianos and player pianos.

FREE MUSIC LESSONS to all who accept our offer. Write for handsomely illustrated piano catalog and full details of our selling plan.

SCHMOLLER & MUELLER PIANO CO.
Established 1869. Capital and Surplus, $1,000,000
Dept. GA. Omaha, Nebraska

Send This Coupon Today

SCHMOLLER & MUELLER PIANO CO.
Dept. GA. Omaha, Nebraska.
Send me your Piano Offer and Free Catalog.

Name.....
Address.....

A Cough May Lead to Tuberculosis

Distressing and dangerous complications may follow if you neglect it. Even when so serious a stage is reached, Eckman's Alternative may bring relief. For more than twenty years it has been widely used in such cases with beneficial results.

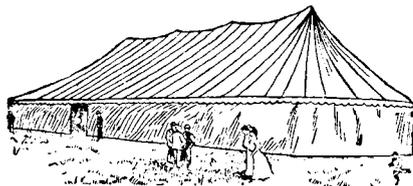

As with any medication employed in this trouble, the best results are obtained when the patient pays strict attention to diet and gets plenty of rest and fresh air.

Because of its easily assimilable content of calcium chlorid, this preparation is effective where a tonic up-builder is indicated. As a corrective of night sweats it has proved most useful. It may be tried with absolute safety, since it contains no harmful or habit-forming drugs of any sort. Sold by leading druggists or sent direct. Booklet containing information of value and references sent upon request.

ECKMAN LABORATORY

23 N. Seventh St. Philadelphia

GOSPEL TENTS

Our Prices Would Interest You.
Ask Us To Quote.

Fulton Bag And Cotton Mills,
Atlanta, Ga.

New York, Dallas, St. Louis, New Orleans

Pastors: WE publish Books, Pamphlets, Minutes, Sermons, Church Directories, Manuals and rebound books and magazines. Specialists in Church Envelopes. Write us for prices.
419 S. Third St. MAYES PRINTING CO., Inc. Louisville, Ky.

Regeneration.

BY F. B. SRYGLEY.

There appeared an article recently in the Gospel Advocate on the above subject, by N. F. Matthews, which contains several things that are not true. A reply to this article should have appeared in the same paper, but it was overlooked at the time. The brother begins his article with this statement: "The unconverted cannot see the things of God. Spiritual things are foolish and adverse to him." (1 Cor. 2: 14.) But the passage here referred to does not say the unconverted cannot see the things of God, but that "the natural man receiveth not the things of the Spirit of God." I believe that all men now are natural men, and that the unnatural or supernatural men were the inspired men. If the brother will but read the verse just next above the one referred to, he ought to be able to see that Paul was talking about himself and the other inspired men who had received the Spirit of God and were speaking not the words of man's wisdom, but which the Holy Ghost teaches, and they were, therefore, unnatural or supernatural men. The man, the natural man, any man now who throws these apostles down and depends on the wisdom of the world to guide him, will fail. These things of the Spirit as revealed by the apostles will be foolishness unto him. The brother then says: "A blind man cannot see." But one is not blind who is directed by these inspired men. But he says "the sinner is helpless." So he was before Christ came to the earth to save him, but now he has all the help he needs to save him; hence Peter exhorted those wicked Jews: "Save yourselves from this untoward generation." (Acts 2: 40.) But our friend says: "Nothing short of a miracle saves a sinner." In proof of this extraordinary statement, he refers to John 1: 13. But that passage, like the other one he quotes, does not say one word about a sinner's being saved by a miracle. It says they "were born, not of blood, nor of the will of the flesh, nor of the will of man, but of God." But to say that this birth of God was miraculous is an assumption without proof. We are born by obedience to the word of God. "Being born again, not of corruptible seed, but of incorruptible, by the word of God, which liveth and abideth forever." (2 Pet. 1: 23.) The brother asks, then, "What is man's part in the new birth?" and quotes: "Repentance toward God, and faith toward our Lord Jesus Christ." But the Savior said: "Except a man be born of water and of the Spirit, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God." (John 3: 5.) The verse you quote, brother, is all right, but where is the water? Would not the commission on this point be fuller, brother? "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved." Here you have the work of the Spirit and water, too; hence, born of water and the Spirit.

The next blunder our friend makes is when he says: "Man must give up sins, confess sins, repent of sins, all of which precedes faith." I do not see what could induce any one to give up sins or confess sins or repent of sins if he had no faith. Why would he repent, or to whom would he confess his sins, if he did not believe in God? I cannot imagine what conception the brother has of faith. Of course faith does not save one till it leads him into Christ, where salvation is. Peter said unto believers: "Repent, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins." (See Acts 2: 38.) Here, after repentance and baptism, their faith met the blessing of remission of sins; but to say they had no faith till after their repentance and baptism is to speak against the facts.

The Creoles of Louisiana,

the descendants of the original Spanish and French settlers, prided themselves upon their hair; and rightly they should, for it was they who first knew the secret of beautiful hair, the one great successful remedy for hair diseases and the greatest of all hair foods—La Creole Hair Dressing. The recipe was kept a profound secret by the race until about fifty years ago; but now you can reap the benefits of their early discoveries by using "La Creole" hair dressing, the very best dressing for keeping the hair fluffy, light, and beautiful.

This wonderful preparation of the Creole race not only cleanses the scalp from all disease and filth, but also renews the life of the hair; makes it light and fluffy; restores to the hair its natural color and original luster; and supplies the hair with oil, food which it requires. No house should be without it. Ask your dealer for it. Price, $1. Manufactured by Van Vleet-Mansfield Drug Company, Memphis, Tenn

"Special" Silk Hose Offer.

To introduce the beautiful "La France" silk hose for ladies and gentlemen, we offer three pairs, 50-cent quality, for only one dollar, postpaid, in the United States. Pure silk from calf to toe, with durable elastic lisle top, heel, and toe for long wear. Sizes, 8 to 10½. In white, tan, or black, assorted if desired. Money back promptly if not delighted. La France Silk Store, Box G, Clinton, S. C.

Studying and Interpreting Prophecy.

BY C. C. MERRITT.

In the Gospel Advocate of April 20 will be found Brother Moody's reply to my article which appeared in the Christian Leader of February 22, entitled "Remarks on 'Studying and Interpreting Prophecy.'"

To this I have replied in the Christian Leader of April 11 as follows:

I love to "talk things over" with a kind and earnest Christian full of brotherly love, and one who has the cause of Christ at heart. I have no reason to believe Brother Moody to be otherwise, and will, God being my helper, deal with him as just such, saying nothing disrespectful of the cause of our Redeemer.

I may have misunderstood his purpose in his former article, but I thought it to be against any efforts on our part to interpret unfulfilled prophecy, being uninspired, and, therefore, not having the ability. I took the stand that this would not only imperil any effort to understand, but would also discourage the study of, prophecy.

Brother Moody and I agree that all should study prophecy. He says: "If any be able to correctly interpret an unfulfilled prophecy, and can give sufficient assurance that his interpretation is correct, it is not only his right, but his duty as well, to give the public the advantage of it." I agree to this, also. In so far as I am concerned, these two things will not be called in question.

From the standpoint of time there are two kinds of prophecy—fulfilled and unfulfilled. I can see no real need of barring either of these; for, if we have not the ability to interpret, neither have we the ability to say which are or are not fulfilled, except as inspiration gives it to us. That is, among the prophecies that the Bible does not say are fulfilled, we would be unable to tell whether they are fulfilled or not. So I think it better not to qualify this term, for both of us will admit that some prophecies have been fulfilled since the death of the apostle John.

I will not affirm that all have the ability to interpret, neither will I affirm that some have the ability to interpret all prophecy, nor yet will I affirm that some have the coherent ability to interpret any prophecy. It is laughingly ridiculous for any one to affirm that we have the ability to interpret and so "demonstrate" and give "divine assurance" that all others will accept our interpretation as correct.

I will affirm that all prophecies are given to be understood, and, upon patient, earnest, and prayerful study, we can understand them; and, understanding, we can interpret. Prophecy: All prophecy in both the Old Testament and New Testament, known to be such. Understand: Comprehend the meaning. Interpret: Tell what we understand to be the meaning. I am not willing to affirm anything further than this.

It is not necessary to examine the whole catalogue of prophecies in order to prove this, nor will the making of the proof necessarily cover any great

Health for Sick Women

For Forty Years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Has Been Woman's Most Reliable Medicine—Here is More Proof.

To women who are suffering from some form of woman's special ills, and have a constant fear of breaking down, the three following letters ought to bring hope:—

Pinkham remedies."—Mrs. MAYME ASBACH, North Crandon, Wis.

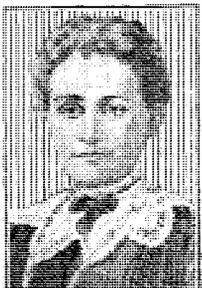

North Crandon, Wis.—"When I was 16 years old I got married and at 18 years I gave birth to twins and it left me with very poor health. I could not walk across the floor without having to sit down to rest and it was hard for me to keep about and do my work. I went to a doctor and he told me I had a displacement and ulcers, and would have to have an operation. This frightened me so much that I did not know what to do. Having heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I thought I would give it a trial and it made me as well as ever. I cannot say enough in favor of the Testimony from Oklahoma.

Lawton, Okla.—"When I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I seemed to be good for nothing. I tired easily and had headaches much of the time and was irregular. I took it again before my little child was born and it did me a wonderful amount of good at that time. I never fail to recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to ailing women because it has done so much for me."—Mrs. A. L. McCASLAND, 509 Have St., Lawton, Okla.

From a Grateful Massachusetts Woman.

Roxbury, Mass.—"I was suffering from inflammation and was examined by a physician who found that my trouble was caused by a displacement. My symptoms were bearing down pains, backache, and sluggish liver. I tried several kinds of medicine; then I was asked to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It has cured me and I am pleased to be in my usual good health by using it and highly recommend it."—Mrs. B. M. Osgood, 1 Haynes Park, Roxbury, Mass.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

space, for I will hew to the line and leave off all side issues.

If Brother Moody will not deny this question as it is stated in its complex form, I will affirm that prophecy can be interpreted by some uninspired men. This is a simple statement of the former, and, because of its simplicity, may be preferable.

Brother Moody says: "Nothing short of divine assurance will be sufficient to convince the thinking of the correctness of any interpretation of an unfulfilled prophecy." This is as it should be. We should have divine assurance for everything we do or teach; and without it, whether we are displeasing to the "thinking" or not, we are to our God.

A love for God's word will lead us into a kind, loving, and reverent investigation of this subject.

Among the Colored People

Our Religious Papers.

BY S. W. WOMACK.

Let me speak of the religious papers published by the white disciples of the church of Christ and their attitude toward the colored disciples. Among the first papers I began to read were the Gospel Advocate and the Historian and Christian Review (formerly published by Brother Franklin and now called the "Apostolic Times"). My owners took these papers about the close of the war between the North and the South or just afterwards. As my father was then a strong Methodist, they would let him have these papers to read. A great impression was made on his mind. After old Brother Fanning died, I think the Historian was dropped and some changes made in the Christian Review.

For fifty or more years I have been hearing the Gospel Advocate read and reading it myself. I do not know of any paper that has made the fight for the truth that it has made. It has been a great source of learning by which the truth has been made plain to me. The senior editors, D. Lipscomb and E. G. Sewell, their writings and their lives, have been helpful to me. Many good things I could say about these good old men, but my space is too short. The attitude of these papers toward the blacks has been uniformly kind. As far back as I can remember, in the days of the Lowries, Jones, Daniel Watkins, William and Harris Lewis, and other colored preachers of the church of Christ, the columns of these papers have been open to all that wanted to write and make their reports, but few of these men have written. Even now not much is being said by our colored brethren through the papers. It appears to me that we have not filled the space allotted to us. I feel under many obligations to them for the space that they have given along these lines; and as the door stands open, I hope we will not be so slow to go in.

Ready for Tent Work.

BY S. R. CASSIUS.

In the midst of all the drains and claims on our beloved brethren, I thank God that I got the tent. It is not a new tent and will last only about two years. It is not as grand and complete as, perhaps, I would like to have it. But it is a tent, forty by forty feet. The top cost me only $17.50; the sides will cost $33; lights, $6; freight, $8. Total, $64.50. As it stands now, I need eighteen dollars; but, praise the Lord, I have the tent, and the good Lord, who put the thought in my mind and the good will in the minds of the brethren, will in his own good way supply what I now lack. While speaking of tents, I notice that many of our white preachers are awakening to the fact that the tent is what the man on the firing line needs.

It would be foolish for me to start out now with my tent, because the people I want to reach are in the cotton patches; but, with the help of the Lord, I will start out as soon as the crop is laid by.

It is in my mind to hold one week's meeting in Fort Worth (Texas), a week at Waco, a week at Taylor, and two weeks at Austin, and come back to this State about the middle of August. I will have with me in the work a brother who is not only a good singer, but an able gospel preacher, and I hope to demonstrate that the real need of the gospel is not among them that are saved, but out in the byways among those that know not the Lord.

I will always keep in mind that I not only owe a debt to God, but to the white brethren that have helped me get the tent; and if I do not receive any more help, I will try to raise what is lacking in some other way. My address is Route 2, Box 54, Meridian, Okla.

FIRM FOUNDATION An eight-page weekly religious paper devoted to the restoration of primitive Christianity. Excels in church news; an able corps of writers; extensively circulated. Subscription price, $1 a year, payable in advance. Special rates for clubs. We believe that every loyal Christian should have the Firm Foundation visit his home.

FIRM FOUNDATION PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Austin, Texas.

Dr. Doran's Queen Root Cordial.

The world's best blood remedy for ladies and young girls. All advice free and confidential. Free samples. General agents wanted. Write us a letter.
DORAN DRUG CO., Paducah, Ky., U. S. A.

Whew, It's Hot!

Let's go and get some good old

Coca-Cola

When you're hot and thirsty, or just for fun, there's nothing comes up to it for deliciousness and real refreshment.

Demand the genuine by full name—nicknames encourage substitution.

THE COCA-COLA CO.
ATLANTA, GA.

THE BIBLE IN QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

A new book from cover to cover, embracing nearly 30,000 questions and answers on the entire Bible. Compiled by J. A. Klingman and F. L. Rowe from the class notes, commentaries, and other works of J. W. McGarvey, I. B. Grubbs, Robt. Milligan, Wm. Hurte, David Lipscomb, Judge Catton, and others. Six hundred large pages with Harmony of the Gospels and eight full-page new maps. Prices range from $2.50 in cloth binding to $4 in flexible leather, thin paper. The first edition sold out in six weeks. The Firm Foundation wired for 200 copies. E. S. Vance, of Oklahoma, ordered 40 first order. W. F. Lemmons, of Texas, ordered over 100. Read these commendations:

I have examined it, and find it to be a great book. I commend it to all students of the Bible.—H. Leo Boles, Nashville, Tenn.

I am immensely pleased with my copy.—Isaac C. Hoskins, Florence, Ala.
I have longed for just such a book as this.—W. S. Buchanan, Phillips Bible Institute, Canton, O.
There is nothing to equal it that I know of as a help in studying the whole Bible.—Ira C. Moore, Barrackville, W. Va.

I could not believe that so much could be condensed in so small a compass.—D. J. Poynter, Albion, Neb.
I like the book very much and hope to sell many.—J. W. Dunn, El Paso, Texas
Almost every one to whom I have shown the book has taken one.—Chas. H. Robertson, Cleburne, Tex.

The book is eminently adapted to daily systematic Bible study.—T. Q. Martin, Winchester, Ky.
I have carefully and critically examined "The Bible in Questions and Answers." Possibly there has not come from the press of our brethren a book which is destined to be of such universal use as this one. Short, pointed, and practical. A long-felt want well filled.—D. F. Draper, Georgetown, Tex.

One of the good sisters here said she would not take $25 for her copy of "Questions and Answers" if she could not get another copy.—J. A. Klingman, Lebanon, Tenn.

"The Bible in Questions and Answers" is par excellence.—Fank Baker, Belmont, Miss.

Agents wanted in every direction. Big commission to workers. Sample pages free.

F. L. ROWE, PUBLISHER

422 Elm St., Cincinnati, Ohio

GOSPEL ADVOCATE

ALEX. HAYWARD
 111 BOX 98
 OCT 1 18

Volume LVIII. No. 22.

NASHVILLE, TENN., JUNE 1, 1916.

$1.50 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

CONTENTS.

"EDIFYING AS THE NEED MAY BE".....	537
OUR CONTRIBUTORS.....	539
How Shall Glorified Saints Appear?—The Alumni Association of the Nashville Bible School—Regarding Brother and Sister Fuqua—Brother Bailey's Appeal—Paper Shortage and the Gospel Advocate—"If You Are a Christian, Why Not a Baptist?"
MISSIONARY.....	542
HOME READING.....	543
EDITORIAL.....	544
Religious Reformers and Their Appeal to the Standard of Judgment—"What Did Peter Mean?"—Help the Fanning Orphan School—"Way Down South in Dixie."
QUERY DEPARTMENT.....	548
AT HOME AND ABROAD.....	549
THE MASTER'S VINEYARD.....	550
Ahlene Christian College.....	552
OBITUARIES.....	554
Williams—Fox—Milan—Johnson—Allen—Jolley—Murdock—Brown.
Bread Alone.....	557
Notes from North Carolina.....	557
From the Field.....	558
A Good School.....	559

Entered at the post-office at Nashville, Tenn., as second-class matter.
 Published weekly at Nashville, Tenn.

"EDIFYING AS THE NEED MAY BE"

BY A. B. LIPSCOMB

"Why Feignest Thou Thyself to be Another?"

Once upon a time a queen disguised herself in the russet garb of a peasant, and, taking a basket with presents on her arm, went trudging alone from the king's palace at Tirzah up to the prophet's house at Shiloh. She was weary and heavy-hearted. For there was trouble in the palace; the firstborn son, heir of the throne, lay at the point of death. The altars of Baal were burning upon the high places, but there was no help there. God only could relieve, and to him the anxious mother went in her extremity. The prophet Ahijah, old and blind, had long been alienated from the throne. In her peasant's mask she hoped to deceive him and secure a blessing for her child. But, warned of God, the prophet heard her coming; he knew her footstep. "Come in," he cried, at her approach—"Come in, thou wife of Jeroboam; why feignest thou thyself to be another?"

Warning Bishops Against the Devil.

This scene from the Old Testament introduces the subject of religious duplicity. And I shall write especially concerning those who masquerade under the guise of respectability. It is a significant fact that in the New Testament Epistles there are very earnest warnings against the temptations of the devil addressed to bishops. These warnings stand at the end of a list of vices and virtues commanded to their attention. These men were not bishops in the modern ecclesiastical sense. This was not an official title that gave them a superior rank over other Christians. These men were bishops in the true New Testament sense. They were the older men, the teachers, the overseers, the leading Christians in the place. There are in every congregation men esteemed by their brethren for their good examples, and recognized as the most earnest, most devout, most interested in the affairs of the church. We have such a contingent at Russell Street, where I worship. Suppose I should stand before these pious folks time and again and warn them against falling into the condemnation of the devil. That would seem a bit out of place, would it not? Appropriate enough, one might suggest, for the young folks, who so easily yield to temptation; but why rub it in on the old settled members, the best members you have? To be frank, it is plain to see that Paul rubs it in. And there must have been some good reason for his insistence.

The World, the Flesh, and the Devil.

Sins may be classified under the threefold division of the world, the flesh, and the devil. Those of the world are sins of society; those of the flesh are sins against the body; those of the devil are sins of the spirit. A man may be innocent of the transgressions of the world and the flesh and yet be under the influence and dominion of the devil. Paul's warning is not aimed at a bodily, but a spiritual, malady.

A person who sins in spirit is apt to be very religious in his make-up. Those who put Jesus to death were eminently religious. They kept themselves apart from the world. They were not given to adultery, drunkenness, theft, or lawlessness. Some of this guild were called the "bleeding Pharisees" because they went about blindfolded in order that they might not even see the world, and they were always bruising themselves in consequence. They were grave and serious churchmen whom nobody ever suggested as being guilty of frivolity. They fasted twice a week; they kept the moral law with almost painful precision. But they sinned nevertheless. Just so a man may be wearing the name of Christ, may be going to church with consistent regularity, may be giving to one good cause and another, may be temperate and entirely free from the lusts of the world, and yet be sinning in his heart against God and his fellow-man.

The Sins That Are Respectable.

It is characteristic of such sins that they are very respectable. The man who commits them is never obnoxious to the police. He is in no danger of being arrested. He may commit such offenses every day and yet retain the esteem of his neighbors. These are sins of motive: so that, while we may seem to be living aright because of conscience and the fear of God, we are really making a show of it because it is the conventional, or convenient, or prudent thing to do. Or they may be sins of thought: so that, while our words and actions are excellent, our hearts behind them are filled with envy, and malice, and uncharitable feeling. Absalom sits at the gate of the city; and when the people come with their troubles seeking for the king to help them, Absalom is heard to say: "O that I were made judge in the land, that every man who hath any suit or cause might come unto me, and I would do him justice!" A nice, pretty speech in itself. Nothing the matter with the action. But behind the honeyed speech there is the black heart of a revolting son. In the kisses of a boastful man lie the sting of a traitor. So it was with Judas Iscariot, who kissed the Master; so it was with Ananias, who sold the land and brought only a part of the price to the apostles' feet; so it was with Simon the sorcerer, who asked for a miraculous gift of the Holy Spirit. What they did appeared to be all right, but it was all wrong. The evil was not in the action itself, but in the motive and in the thought behind it. Therefore, Peter said to Simon: "Repent therefore of this thy wickedness, and pray the Lord, if perhaps the thought of thy heart shall be forgiven thee."

The Hardest Temptation to Conquer.

Because the spirit is greater than the body and because mental culture is of more importance than physical culture, it necessarily follows that the temptation to sin in thought is the hardest and last to be overcome. Consider, for example, the experience of Brother E. G. Sewell, than whom there is, in my judgment, no more saintly character on the face of the earth—a man ripe for heaven, and ready to go when the summons comes. Does any one think for a moment that our venerable brother is in danger of yielding to the lusts of the flesh? Can you imagine him being tempted to dance, or to get drunk, or play cards, or go to the theater? The very idea is preposterous. You would be as much surprised to find him in some questionable resort as you would be to find Elisha of old. The temptations of the lusts of the flesh mean nothing to him. He has overcome them—and that, too, before some of us were born. But is he above any and all kinds of temptation? Not yet. There is a danger in which this pure, good man stands. It is the danger of sinning in his heart. So great a man as Peter succumbed to that when Paul withstood him to the face. And Paul himself stood in watchful fear of this constant danger, lest by any means, after having preached to others, he himself should be rejected.

Respectability Will Not Save Us.

The New Testament teaches that merely respectable people may be esteemed, respected, admired, and even courted in this world, and yet they will be damned in the other. Dives, who awoke in the other world in torment, was very likely a respectable citizen of this world. He doubtless lived in the handsomest house in town and by his gracious hospitality enriched the circle of his friends. The priest and the Levite who saw a wounded man on the Jericho road and passed by on the other side were on their way to church. The Pharisee who said, "God, I thank thee, that I am not as other men are," told the truth. He was not as many other men are. He was no extortioner, no adulterer. He attended divine services with amazing regularity and made his proper support to the religious institutions of his day. You will find a long, pious procession of such people on the pages of the Bible. They pass by with hands folded, praying and singing as they go; but they are going straight in the direction of the bottomless pit. After a while they will stand before God in the judgment, and, harking back to their respectable lives, they will say: "Lord, Lord, we have preached in thy name, and in thy name we have cast out devils; we come before thee bringing our good records with us." But the righteous Judge will frown upon them and say: "I never knew you. I never heard a prayer you said; you did not pray to me. I never heard a sermon you preached; you did not preach to me." No, they preached and prayed and did their works of charity and public service for their own satisfaction and for the impression it would create upon the community. They had no religion. They had respectability in the place of it.

The Painted and the Real.

The trouble with respectability is that it is negative, conventional, formal, without a worthy purpose and without warmth of life. It is like a painted post. A crooked tree responds in some measure to the influences of the earth and air; it can grow and, perhaps, can be straightened. But the post stands as it is. The fire in the picture may be admirably laid and may seem to blaze over a hearth that is immaculately swept, but the real fire, for all of its ashes and disorder, is warm; it flashes and it flames; it burns high and low; it is alive. Jesus Christ was quick to recognize the difference. It was the difference between the Pharisee, morally correct, but cold and unresponsive, and the publican, who had an understanding of his shortcomings, knew that he was far from good, but honestly desired to do better. Two sinful characters are presented side by side in a house where Jesus went to dine. The host is a self-righteous man. He watches the woman who washes the feet of the Savior with her tears and wipes them with the hair of her head, and he stands ready to criticize and condemn, saying within himself: "This man, if he were a prophet, would have perceived who and what manner of woman this sinner is. Yes, she was a sinner; no doubt about that. But the host was a sinner, too, and all of his vaunted respectability could not hide the sight of his sin from the Master.

Some Modern Examples of Respectability.

The Pharisees as a sect have long since passed from the earth, but pharisaism is not dead by any means. It has crept into our hearts, and it constantly threatens to overthrow the goodness and efficacy of our religion. It is still a favorite snare of the devil to teach men and women that respectability is equivalent to righteousness. May 20 was another "tag day" in Nashville. Some of the kind-hearted, enthusiastic women were collecting money for the Fresh Air Fund. Without discussing here the right or the wrong of this practice, I will tell you a thing that happened. A close-fisted, miserly man walked up to a certain corner in company with two of his friends. His first impulse was to pass on by and give the young ladies nothing. But his two friends stopped and each dropped in a quarter. Then he put in a dime, and as they walked away he muttered: "Those girls ought to be arrested." Why did he give that dime? No one compelled him to give it. He gave it just to be thought respectable. A certain brother was in charge of the Bible classes of a congregation. One Sunday morning a teacher was missing. He approached a young man and asked him to substitute. The young man demurred. "I am not prepared to teach," he said; "I haven't studied the lesson." "O, well," said the older man, "just make a bluff at teaching; that is what I usually do." Why does a man like that have charge of Bible classes? Just to be accounted respectable. That is all. Thus it is that men to-day crucify the Lord Jesus afresh and put him to an open shame. Thus it is that the spirit of bluff and respectability drags us down to hell. We see it in the man who flatters you to your face and censures you behind your back. We see it in the hatred, and strife, and willingness to believe evil that is common. We see it in the motto of the man who says: "All men are liars except you and me, and I have strong suspicions of you." We see it in the lives of those who go to church because it is the custom of the best people or because a "go-to-Sunday-school campaign" is on. We see it in the actions of people who are content to "join the church" that is most popular in the town where they live. We see it in the desire of a man to become an elder or a deacon because it will help him in his business. We see it in the contribution of a man who gives only because he is asked to give.

Jesus Would Cry, "Unmask, Unmask!"

I have never been to such a function, but I am told by those who have attended a mask ball that for the greater part of the time dancers wear their masks, and while wearing them they dance and laugh and flirt outrageously. But late in the evening the master of ceremonies cries, "Unmask!" and then they all come off. If Jesus were here to-day, I believe he would say to a great many professing Christians: "Why feignest thou thyself to be another?" Don't wait for death to unmask you. Don't wait until you reach the border line between time and eternity! But unmask! Unmask! Tear away the gauze of self-complacency and respectability that beclouds your eyes and let the world see who you really are. It may embarrass you at first, but it will save you at the last. Are you not sick and tired of pretense and hypocrisy? Do you not long for something truer and nobler and grander than merely make-believe? Would you not be wholesome and genuine and true? Are you not ready to say, with the great apostle Paul: "By the grace of God I am what I am?" Are you not ready to pray, with David: "Search me, O God, and know my heart; try me, and know my thoughts, and see if there be any wicked way in me, and lead me in the way everlasting?"

OUR CONTRIBUTORS

How Shall Glorified Saints Appear?

BY F. W. SMITH.

"Beloved, now are we children of God, and it is not yet made manifest what we shall be. We know that, if he shall be manifested, we shall be like him; for we shall see him even as he is." (1 John 3: 2.) There are some things clearly stated in this passage and others clearly implied, to which attention is directed.

1. The fact of "heirship" is affirmed in the words, "Now are we children of God." If faithful to the end, let it be the end of this life by death or the final coming of Christ, all the bliss and glory of the eternal world laid up for the "glorified saints" is expressed in the words "children of God."

2. At the time the apostle wrote, which was long after the ascension of Christ, it had not been revealed or manifested how the saints would appear in glory. This involves one thing, at least—viz., the appearance of the bodies of glorified saints. John here emphatically affirms that the nature of the new body had not been revealed to either physical sight or touch. He knew that it would be an "immortal" or an "incorruptible" body; but as to its appearance, he, with all saints then living, was profoundly ignorant. If what some who are now living claim is true, John could not have written as he did; for, although John, an apostle, did not know, he would have been compelled to make some exceptions.

3. "We shall be like him." This evidently means that the bodies of glorified saints will be like the body of Christ. John knew this because it had been revealed or made manifest. It had been revealed as follows: "Who shall fashion anew the body of our humiliation, that it may be conformed to the body of his glory, according to the working whereby he is able even to subject all things unto himself." (Phil. 3: 21.)

Now, the above points are clearly affirmed, and some of the things that are clearly implied may be stated as follows:

1. There was no difference between the body of Christ taken down from the cross and the one in which he arose and ascended from the sight of his disciples. This implication rests upon the fact that John knew perfectly well the kind of body Christ had after his resurrection, for he was intimately associated with the Master for forty days and nights before he ascended. Knowing what kind of a body Christ had is the very reason he wrote, "It is not yet made manifest what we shall be." If Christ arose in his "glorious body" or "body of glory," then John could not have written, "It is not yet made manifest what we shall be," for he knew when he wrote that the saints would "be like him." Again, if Christ arose in a body different from the one that was crucified, is it not passingly strange that not one of his disciples made mention of the fact? There is not the slightest hint by a single one of them that the body which came out of the grave was in any respect different from the one that was buried.

2. The language, "for we shall see him as he is," implies that they had never seen Christ as he now appears in glory. If Christ arose and appeared to his disciples in the body he now has and in which he will come again, and John knew that fact (which he most certainly would have known had it been true), then why did he not write "for we shall see him as he was?" I repeat that what the apostle wrote in 1 John 3: 2 implies, if it does not actually affirm, that if Christ had a body different in any way from the one that was crucified, he was ignorant of the fact, and that all he knew of the body of Christ at the time he wrote and the bodies of glorified saints was that they would be "bodies of glory." Luke testifies as follows: "To whom he also showed himself alive after his passion by many proofs, appearing unto them by the space of forty days, and speaking the things concerning the kingdom of God." (Acts 1: 3.) Thus he demonstrated to his apostles by many proofs that he was the same being that was crucified, which would not have been true had he at that time possessed an immortal or glorified body, for no such body was crucified. The beloved John says: "That which was from the beginning, that which we have heard, that which we have seen with our eyes, that which we beheld, and our hands handled, concerning the word of life," etc. (1 John 1: 1.) No doubt he refers to what took place after the resurrection as recorded in Luke 24: 39: "See my hands and my feet, that it is I myself: handle me, and see; for a spirit hath not flesh and bones, as ye behold me baying." Did John handle his body? He says he did. For what purpose did he handle his body? To see. To see what? To see what kind of a body it was, so as to be a competent witness regarding the resurrection. Now, with John's opportunity for discovering the nature of that body, does any one doubt for one moment that if it had been different from the one crucified he would have known it? He most certainly could have seen and known the difference between a natural body and a glorified one. Paul says that there is a natural body and that there is a spiritual body. "It is sown a natural body; it is raised a spiritual body. If there is a natural body, there is also a spiritual body." (1 Cor. 15: 44.) The spiritual body is for glorified saints; and since their bodies are to be like his body, Christ's body now is a spiritual body, and John virtually says that neither he nor those to whom he wrote ever saw a body like the one glorified saints are to possess. But this he would have seen and did see, if Christ arose in a spiritual or glorified body. However, in saying, "It is not yet made manifest what we shall be," he says by the strongest implication that he did not. "Now this I say, brethren, that flesh [any kind of flesh] and blood cannot inherit the kingdom of God; neither doth corruption inherit incorruption." (1 Cor. 15: 50.)

The Alumni Association of the Nashville Bible School.

On Wednesday morning, May 17, at nine o'clock, the committee which was appointed last year to draft the Constitution and By-laws of the Alumni Association of the Nashville Bible School met in the office of the school for the purpose of discussing and ratifying the same.

At ten o'clock the following program was rendered in the chapel hall: Song, led by William Kerr; Scripture reading, H. Leo Boles; prayer, led by John E. Dunn; 1915 Class, Paul Hanlin; 1914 Class, Paul C. Young; 1912 Class, S. T. Nix; 1911 Class, John T. Smithson; 1896 Class, R. C. White; song, School Quartet.

A telegram from J. B. Bostick, of Dallas, Texas, was read.

After the program, Brother Boles, who was chairman of the meeting, called on Brother John E. Dunn to read the Constitution and By-laws. By unanimous vote they were adopted, as a whole, as read.

According to the provisions of the Constitution, the following officers were elected: President, J. E. Dunn; first vice president, R. C. White; second vice president, J. T. Lewis; third vice president, J. B. Bostick; secretary-treasurer, Charles R. Brewer; historian, Mrs. Charles R. Brewer.

Article VI. of the Constitution states that "the exercises of the association shall consist of an annual oration, delivered by some regular member, who has been an ex-student for at least four years, and selected at a previous annual meeting; also, at the option of the association, the delivery of a poem composed by some member elected at the time of the orator, and such other exercises as may be added by the association." In compliance with this rule, Brother O. P. Barry, of Alexandria, Tenn., was selected as orator, and Charles Leyden, of Anniston, Ala., as poet.

The meeting adjourned to meet again on May 16, 1917.

I will add that all ex-students of the school, whether graduates or not, are urged to become members of the association. The purpose is not necessarily to raise money, but to forge a tie that will bind the school to the students, the students to the school, and the students to each other; to cause the ex-students to feel that they are not alienated from the school simply because they have left or graduated, but that they are essentially and vitally a part of the school.

You are an asset to the school, and we look to you for support and encouragement.

Please show your fidelity to your Alma Mater by sending me your name and one dollar as enrollment fee.

CHARLES R. BREWER,
Secretary-Treasurer.

Regarding Brother and Sister Fuqua.

The publishers of the Gospel Advocate have received a communication signed by John D. Evans, Joseph H. Bailey, and J. A. Sidney, members of the church of Christ in Colorado, residing at Denver, Boulder, and Bellvue, respectively, stating that Brother and Sister E. C. Fuqua had been completely vindicated in the civil courts of the charges brought against them in a circular sent out on or about August 1, 1915, and signed by certain parties at Greeley, Col. The brethren furthermore state that several efforts were made to affect a private settlement without avail before Brother Fuqua sought redress and vindication of character in the civil courts, and that after all the evidence had been presented an impartial jury rendered a verdict completely exonerating them of said charges. Confirmatory of the statement of the brethren, we have received a statement from J. C. Nixon, of Greeley, Col., who was Brother Fuqua's attorney. After the court decision the brethren wrote the parties at Greeley, urging them to make acknowledgment to Brother and Sister Fuqua and to others concerned, but to this request they received no reply. The statement of the brethren concludes as follows: "We feel and unhesitatingly say to the brethren at large that we regard Brother and Sister Fuqua as wholly worthy of your confidence and hearty cooperation in their self-sacrificing labors to build up the cause in a mission field where few have the courage to endure the trials and struggles necessary to the success of the work."

Brother Bailey's Appeal.

BY JOHN D. EVANS.

Brother Joseph H. Bailey has recently made some appeals for funds to build a meetinghouse in Boulder, Col. In his last report there was a note of discouragement on account of the failure of the brethren to respond.

In regard to this work, I want to commend Brother Bailey as an earnest, faithful, and enthusiastic worker in the vineyard. He is a Joe-McPherson sort of a preacher—working for "Uncle Sam" all day and preaching at night and as opportunity presents on his daily route. He has done much to build up the cause in Boulder and never tires of the job—"a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, handling aright the word of truth." As his report shows, they are not asking the brethren away to do it all. They are beginning at home. But they are poor in this world's goods. They are struggling against much opposition to plant the work on a solid foundation. Knowing as I do the importance of the work in Boulder, let me urge you brethren in Tennessee to come to Brother Bailey's help. If your contribution is small, add a hearty "God bless you," and Brother Bailey's faith and confidence in the brotherhood will be strengthened and the work of Christ advanced. Brethren, don't forget the work in Colorado. Let your name appear in Brother Bailey's next report. Won't you?

Don't Snub a Boy.

Don't snub a boy because of his physical disability. Milton was blind. Don't snub a boy because of his dullness in lessons. Hogarth, the celebrator painter and engraver, was a stupid boy at his books. Don't snub any one—not alone because some day they may outstrip you in the race of life, but because it is neither kind nor right nor Christian.—The Girls' World.

Paper Shortage and the Gospel Advocate.

That our readers may be fully informed regarding the problems that confront the publishers of the Gospel Advocate and other religious papers in the present crisis, we ask that they read the following statement concerning the shortage of paper and other materials, clipped from the American Review of Reviews:

A commodity even so indirectly related to the demands of war as paper is showing the prevailing tendencies to such a degree as seriously to embarrass publishers. The higher price of paper stock, and the difficulty of obtaining it at all in England, was a chief factor in the discontinuance in March of the London Daily Standard, after a career of sixty years, for a considerable portion of which it was the most important organ of the middle classes in England. In America the demand for paper has been increasing for six months as a result of general business activity. At the same time supplies used in its manufacture have been decreased by war conditions, and in some cases have almost been shut off. The supply of old rags is affected by the cutting off of the importations from the European peasantry and by the demand for the making of guncotton. The chemicals used in bleaching the paper produced by sulphuric acid and alum are being devoured by the manufacturers of explosives, while importations of jute have fallen off until the price is doubled. An embargo has been placed on shipments of wood pulp from Norway and Sweden, while Canada stopped access to her vast resources some time ago. The newspaper publisher is, indeed, hard hit by war conditions in many other items of supplies besides the basic one of paper stock. Practically everything going into the manufacture of a daily newspaper has increased in price from fifty to one hundred per cent—inks, owing to the advance in the cost of acids and dyes, from three hundred to three thousand per cent; type, owing to the higher cost of lead, tin, and antimony; even the rubber and felt blankets wrapped around the press rollers add their quota to the increased "cost of living" of the metropolitan daily.

The above facts are gleaned from an authoritative journal of unquestioned accuracy. The publishers of the Gospel Advocate know from experience that they are just as portrayed. We do not call attention to this matter to incite undue sympathy or to leave the impression that there is danger of the suspension of religious journals, but in order that all our friends, seeing the situation as it is, may be quick to send us new subscribers and their renewals. While your efforts have always been appreciated, you can readily see, in view of the conditions, that they are needed now more than ever before. So far from adopting a policy of retrenchment, as some religious papers have been compelled to do, we are planning to improve the Gospel Advocate materially by increasing the number of the pages and adding to its editorial usefulness; but to carry out these worthy aims, we must have the quick and steady coöperation of our readers. Let us hear from you.

PUBLISHERS GOSPEL ADVOCATE.

"If You Are a Christian, Why Not a Baptist?"

BY ALVA LEE KELTON.

The above is the title of a new tract by W. W. Landrum, a prominent Baptist minister, of Louisville, Ky.

The title is, in itself, superfluous. God requires that we become simply Christians. Water may be pure or impure; it may be clear or muddy; but it can never be anything in this world but water. Truth can never be anything but truth. God demands that we obey the gospel; and that obedience makes us just Christians, as written in Acts 11: 26: "And the disciples were called Christians first at Antioch." There is no place in the Bible where they were called "Baptists." Why, then, the assumption? If your own name be "Mulligan," would you, as a man, even consider a change of that name? Would you not consider any man rude who would even suggest that you change the name of your ancestors? If a man is a Christian, why not let him alone? That certainly is all God requires.

THREE MONTHS FOR TWENTY-FIVE CENTS.

Offer Includes Three Special Numbers.

In order to secure new subscribers and to stimulate interest in the work of the Gospel Advocate, we shall during the summer months offer the paper to new subscribers for three months at the exceedingly low rate of twenty-five cents. Here is an exceptional opportunity for our readers to get the paper into homes where it will do good. Live, active congregations should take advantage of this offer. Send us five dollars and twenty names, and we will send them all the paper for three months. If you will send us your order at once, the new readers will secure three of the biggest and best special numbers of the year. We shall during this period issue the "New Testament Church" Number, which will be worth the price of a year's subscription. Do not wait, but send at once, that your friends may not miss any of these good things. Send all orders to Publishers Gospel Advocate, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

If we have life, our blood pulses through our veins, our breath comes and goes, and we are said to be "alive." When a man becomes a Christian, Paul says he is "alive to God through Christ our Lord." Is not this sufficient? Would Brother Landrum, with his Baptist appendage, make him more "alive" than Christ can make him? If a man be dead to sin—and he obeys the gospel—certainly he is a Christian. Will not that give him a passport into the home of the redeemed? By what authority, then, does any one dare make an addendum to God's word? His own argument gets him tangled. The author of the tract writes: "The New Testament only is the book of doctrine and practice; no additions to it; no subtractions from it; no alterations in it; no substitute for it." And yet, he has had the audacity to both add and subtract. How? He has subtracted the word "Christian," used in the Bible; and he has added, without any authority from the Bible, his own word—viz., "Baptist."

Again, he writes: "We wish no denominational glory." Of all people on the face of this earth, it appears to me that Baptists lead in wishing "denominational glory." For example, the well-known author of this tract rolls his party name, "Baptist," as "a sweet morsel under his tongue." If he does not do this, why the very subject unfortunately chosen for the pamphlet?

George H. Porch, a man who claims to be a Christian (and he certainly is), pertinently says: "Can a man be saved without being a Christian?" Brother Landrum would say, "No." The man must, according to Landrum's egotistical superfluity, then become a Baptist. Judging by this specious, double-harness method, he must, after he has done all that the Lord requires in order to become simply a Christian, "join the Baptist Church." If this is not high-handed addition to the word of God, what is?

If a man believes; if he repents; if he confesses the Christ; if he is baptized into his holy name, then he becomes a Christian. A million worlds could make him nothing more, nothing less. And the presumption of a Baptist pamphlet suggesting something else is "vanity of vanities." Lay down your Baptist hammer, Brother Landrum, and take up the Bible—only the Bible. Then your question will be reversed: "If you are a Baptist, why not a Christian (only)?"

That best portion of a good man's life—his little, nameless, unremembered acts of kindness and of love.—Wordsworth.

MISSIONARY

BY J. M. McCALEB.

POSTAL INFORMATION: International post-office money orders can be bought at the rate of one per cent; but for any amount, however small, the cost will be ten cents. A check on any of the banks in America is good in Japan; personal checks are as good as any. The money itself is accepted by the banks. The ordinary postage on letters is five cents; newspapers, one cent.

ADDRESSES OF MISSIONARIES: Otsuhide Fujimori, Takahagi, Kurimotomura, Katorigori, Shimosa, Chiba, Japan; Mr. and Mrs. J. M. McCaleb, Zoshigaya, Tokyo, Japan; Mrs. William J. Bishop, 204 West Jefferson Street, Station A, Dallas, Texas; Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Vincent, 73 Myogadani, Kojahikawa, Tokyo, Japan; Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Jolley, Jr., Satara District, Satara, British India (funds may be sent to Don Carlos James, 2225 Dearborn Court, Louisville, Ky.); Mr. and Mrs. G. P. Armstrong-Hopkins, Berhampore, Ganjam District, India; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. McHenry, Satara District, Satara, British India; Mr. and Mrs. John Sherriff, Bulawayo, Rhodesia, South Africa.

Quarterly Report of the Sarah Andrews Mission Fund.

BY I. B. BRADLEY.

On January 1, 1916, I had on hand a balance of $23.18, left over from the fund given for Miss Sarah Andrews' passage to Japan and first month's support.

During the month of January I received the following amounts: From T. B. Thompson and wife, $2; R. P. Donaldson, $1; "A Sister," Dickson, $1; Mrs. J. M. Galloway, 50 cents; Charles Daniels, $1; A. H. Leathers and wife, $5. Total, $10.50.

During February I received the following donations: Miss Minnie Seltz, $1; Christian Leader, 50 cents; Mrs. M. A. Sanders, $1; Pearl Hicks, 50 cents; G. W. Thompson, 50 cents; Jewell Montgomery, $1; John Hooper, $1; T. F. Nicks, $1; R. P. Donaldson, $1; Mrs. O. Harris, $2; Hattie Harper, $1; "A Brother," $1.50; B. B. Andrews, $2; "A Sister," Texas, $1; "A Sister," $1; W. H. McL., $5; Mrs. J. W. Hooper, $1; A. C. Daniels, $1; T. B. Thompson and wife, $2; church at Belgreen, Ala., $1; J. W. Hooper, $1; A. H. Leathers and wife, $5. Total, $32. Balance on hand, February 1, $33.68.

On February 17 I sent a check for $50, leaving a balance on hand of $15.68.

During March I received the following contributions: Several parties, Mayfield, Ky., $6.50; Mrs. H. P. Spencer, $1; Mrs. O. Harris, $1; church at Belgreen, Ala., $2; Hattie L. Harper, 50 cents; T. J. Stormont, $1; Mrs. J. E. Hoover, $1; W. A. Meadows, $3; Mrs. A. Stroud, $1; T. B. Thompson and wife, $2; "A Sister," West Kentucky, $5; J. H. Page, $2; A. C. Daniels, $1; "A Sister," $1; "A Brother," $1.50. Total, $29.50, making a total on hand of $45.18.

Since the first of April I have received about $22.50.

On April 4 I sent Miss Andrews a New York exchange draft for $50. This leaves in my hands at present writing about $17. So you see I need about $33 to enable me to send her another fifty-dollar check. Please send in your donation right away. "The King's business requirerth haste."

It has been some time since I called attention to the needs of the Japan mission work and made a statement of funds received and disbursed. I desire to ask every child of God that reads this report and call to take the matter under consideration and take it to God in prayer, then do what your heart prompts you to do. Can you, my brethren and sisters, with all your blessings and the comforts and consolations that the gospel gives you, put this matter aside and feel that you do not owe anything to the "people that sit in darkness and the shadow of death;" that you do not have any responsibilities toward those that are giving themselves to the work of saving the souls that are dying without hope and without God?

Sister Andrews is in Japan, and has been there about four months. I have not been able to send her but two checks since she reached the field of her labors. I ought to have sent her three and to have had almost enough to send her the fourth. Let those who have helped to send her to Japan feel that she is their missionary and that they are responsible for her maintenance while she is there. That is the way I feel about it; and that I am responsible according to my ability to help her. So send me a contribution right away, and let me send to her before she is in real need of funds for the necessities of life. She has made the sacrifices that you and I could not make or have not made, and we ought to "hold up her hands" while the work is being done. She needs money for food, clothes, rents, doctor's bills, traveling expenses, printing, postage, language lessons, and various other things that might be mentioned. An important thing to remember is that these expenses are continuous—they never stop. For that reason we ought to contribute regularly and continuously and let our donations increase.

We are the most favored people under the sun, and we surely cannot afford to be selfish with the blessings of God's grace so abundantly bestowed upon us. (See 1 Pet. 4: 7-11; Matt. 7: 12; Rom. 14: 12.) We are not doing the amount of mission work that we are abundantly able to do, and what the Bible demands that we shall do, and what the vast field is calling for. Shall Jehovah have from us that to which he certainly is entitled, and what the heavenly world is calling for? (1 Pet. 4: 17-19; 1 Cor. 6: 19, 20.)

One earnest, ardent, wise worker in every congregation can do a great work along this line toward leading the church into regular fellowship in the work in the distant mission fields. Are you doing what you can to interest and enlist your congregation in this work, my brother, my sister? If not, may I not ask you in behalf of the souls you may be instrumental in saving to take up this work at once, and see what you can do? Then send me a nice contribution for Miss Andrews, and say: "Depend on us for a contribution each month." This will make glad the heart of the worker and of us who are interested in the support of the workers. May I depend on you?

Send all contributions for Miss Andrews to me. She has requested that I handle all funds for her, so that the work can be systematically done and she will not be troubled with making acknowledgments. Every penny will go to her for her use in the field. I will bear all the expenses of sending money to her. None of the amount contributed will go to pay treasurer's fees, secretary's hire, nor manager's salary. The cost of transportation, etc., will all be borne by me. You may know then that all you donate will go to the work and be used by the worker. Address me at Dickson, Tenn.

Mission Giving a Stimulus.

BY C. G. VINCENT.

"At the Pittsburgh convention of the Laymen's Missionary Movement, the statistics from Allegheny County, Penn., were presented, which are an absolute answer to the criticism that foreign missions impoverished the home church. In the ten years since 1904 the churches of Allegheny County increased their contributions to foreign missions by $150,000 and to home missions by $300,000, while the increase in the current revenue of the local churches was $600,000." (Christian Herald.)

The above fact should silence the mouths, stop the pens, and quiet the inward feelings of a large number of the preachers and teachers of the church of Christ. The above report is only one of many which prove the same thing—namely, that giving to foreign missions does not impoverish, but rather increases, the local church treasury. We recommend that our preachers and elders and treasurers think on these things. Giving is like using a muscle—the more we exercise the muscle, the larger and stronger it grows.

HOME READING

The Old Log Barn.

BY J. M. M'CALEB.

[Since so much of the lessons for this year bears upon missionary themes, our readers no doubt will enjoy a story written by our beloved Brother McCaleb, the very experienced and useful missionary to Japan. This story is found in one of the chapters of a book he has printed both in Japanese and in English. He can furnish this book to friends in America for fifty cents, postpaid.—EDITOR'S NOTE.]

The tall old log barn stood at the junction of two small streams. It was about twenty-four feet square, and was built of poplar logs hewn down on each side till they were only about six inches thick. They were then notched at the ends and built up into straight, tall walls, four square, which constituted a large pen. A big, spreading chinquapin oak stood between the barn and the branch. The trunk was short, not being more than twelve feet high where it parted into several branches that spread out in all directions. The acorns were small and oblong in shape, being about the size of the little finger up to the first joint. They ripened in the autumn as the frosts came on, about corn-gathering time. When ripe, they were black and almost as sweet as chestnuts. At the falling season the hogs loved to root in the leaves for them, and even we boys liked to pick them up and munch on them as we went back and forth to the field while gathering corn.

When green, the acorns also served as excellent ammunition for our popguns, which were made from the large joints of the elder bush. The length of the popgun depended on the length of the space between the joints of the elder. Sometimes we were able to get one a foot long. It was necessary first to punch out the pith—we called it "peth"—which was a soft substance that filled the hole in the center. If the walls of the gun were too thin, it would not do, for it would, by the pressure of the air when the acorns were thrust through, be sure to split. The ramrod was about an inch shorter than the gun, so as not to push the acorn entirely through, but leave it to be shot out by air pressure when the next one was thrust in.

But to return to the old barn. On the upper side of the building was a shelter, which was afterwards torn away and the barn shedded on three sides. The rafters consisted of long, straight chestnut poles with the bark peeled off. On these were nailed the laths, split out of oak timber and nailed across the rafters about a foot apart. The boards, also riven from oak timber, were nailed to these laths, being put on shingle fashion. The wall plates were unusually large, being about a foot thick by eighteen inches wide. They furnished an ideal place for the pigeons to roost on and also on which to rear their young, and a pair or two of squabs were usually to be seen flopping their tender, featherless wings while they screamed after the mother for food. The pigeon's method of feeding her young is a little different from many other birds. She first swallows both the food and drink herself, and then, poking her own bill well down into the open mouth of her babe, by a quivering motion of the head, ejects it again into the young one's mouth. A squab once, I remember, chanced to have a cross bill—that is, the points of the bill did not meet. So long as the parent birds fed it, this deformity caused no inconvenience; but when the time came for it to fly, then came its trouble, for then it was expected to seek and pick up its own food. As the points of its bill did not meet, of course it could not pick anything. When it was almost starved to death, our mother asked Little Berry to kill it as an act of mercy. Remarkable enough, however, there is a bird called the "crossbill" from this peculiarity in the formation of its beak; but the crossbill's beak is so designed that it may all the more readily procure its food. It can also bring its bill to a point when necessary. That of the pigeon was not according to nature's designs, but was an interruption of nature in some way. Possibly the parent had injured the little one's bill in feeding it, and it thus became a misfit. This reminds me that we sometimes find the same unfortunate condition in children. So long as they are nourished and cared for by their parents, they get on very well; but when the time comes for them to be put on their own responsibility, they seem quite helpless.

Beneath the original shelter above mentioned was a large drive wheel of a wooden thrasher, the only kind used up till that time. Then came into use the ground-hog thrasher, which was a great improvement. Next was the separator, so called because it separated the wheat and the chaff as the wheat was being thrashed. The axle of this great wheel, which was about ten feet across, consisted of a large beam set on end, the lower and upper ends turning in sockets, while the rim of the wheel, filled with cogs, turned round overhead. A smaller cogwheel, attached to the end of a horizontal beam, worked in the larger one, and the beam to which it was attached passed into the barn and was geared to the thrasher. It was run by horse power. The horses, hitched to a lever that passed through the large upright beam, walked around under the drive wheel outside. The wheat and chaff as it came from the thrasher passed through auger holes in the upper floor to the floor below, leaving the straw above to be packed away for provender and fed to the stock.

On the lower floor was a wheat fan—or a "fan-mill," as it was sometimes called. It was painted red, turned by a hand crank, and could be made to go round very fast. One of my earliest recollections is the memory of this red wheat fan. To me it was very wonderful and also very pretty; and some of my older brothers, perhaps to get me to hush crying, or to keep me from wanting to go fishing with them, or to get my attention off of something else (for I do not remember all the circumstances now), made a lasting and pleasing impression on my mind about the "little red wagon down yonder in the barn" that one could ride in, and that I might have it, and all that. I was too young to reason on such matters. It was at an age when the imagination is predominant and when things, whether real or fanciful, are accepted just as they are presented; so there it was, just as vivid in my mind as a veritable red wagon that I could ride in and all my own.

This stirred within my young and tender nature a very responsive feeling, for from the time I can first remember I have had a natural fondness for wagons. I loved to watch the wheels turn and make the pretty smooth tracks after them, and to see if the hind wheel would follow in the track of the front one.

Hens would hide away their nests up in the hay and oats of the barn loft. Sometimes we would find one with a hatful of eggs in it. Sometimes we wouldn't find the nest and the hen would "set," and the first we would know of it would be when we would hear the chirping of the little chickens and the clucking of the mother hen as she walked around near by trying to coax them out and in some way get them down to the ground. Then, instead of a hatful of eggs, we would find a hatful of downy, fluffy little chickens to be carried to the house and put in a coop with their mother till they were larger.

On rainy days when we could not get out it was great fun to climb up into the old barn loft and turn summersets on the hay. Once we got tired of turning summersets and got to throwing cobs in a sort of pitched battle. One struck me square on the side of the nose and almost disjointed it, which ended my fun for that day. I do not know why, but in all such fracasés I usually got the worst of it.

GOSPEL ADVOCATE

EDITORS.
 D. Lipscomb, E. G. Sewell, E. A. Elam,
 M. C. Kurfess, T. B. Larimore.
MANAGING EDITORS.
 J. C. McQuiddy, A. B. Lipscomb.

SPECIAL DIRECTIONS.

Subscriptions are $1.50 a year, in advance, including postage to any part of the United States. To Canada and foreign countries, $2 a year, in advance.

The Date on the Yellow Label on your paper serves you as a receipt, and indicates the time to which your subscription is paid. When you renew, if the date is not changed within three weeks thereafter, please call our attention to it.

Discontinuances. No paper will be continued over twelve months after the subscription has expired. This will give all ample time to renew.

Payment for the Advocate, when sent by mail, should be made by post-office money order, express money order, registered letter, New York exchange, or postal note. Neither currency nor coin should be sent in a letter, unless registered; and when so sent, it is at the risk of the sender. Have your remittances made payable to the Gospel Advocate, and never to any member of the company.

Do Not Write Business on the same sheet as matter intended for publication.

Change of Address will be cheerfully made at the request of any subscriber giving post office, county, and State from which the change is to be made, and post office, county and State to which the paper should go after the change.

Renewals. In renewing, give the name just as it appears on the yellow label, unless it be incorrect, in which case please call our attention to it; and always give the name of the post office to which your paper is sent, as this is the guide by which we are enabled to find your name on our list.

Do Not Send Matter intended for the Advocate to the editors personally. This may occasion delay. Address the Gospel Advocate Publishing Company, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

Guarantee of Advertising.

All the advertisements in this paper are, we believe, signed by trustworthy persons. To prove our faith by works, we will make good to actual subscribers any loss sustained in trusting advertisers who prove to be deliberate swindlers. We shall not attempt to adjust trifling disputes between subscribers and honorable business men who advertise, nor pay the debts of honest bankrupts. To make this guarantee effective, in all cases say in writing advertisers, "I saw your advertisement in the Gospel Advocate;" and if anything goes wrong, notify us immediately in writing.

JACOBS & CO., ADVERTISING MANAGERS,
 Clinton, S. C.

Religious Reformers and Their Appeal to the Standard of Judgment.

BY M. C. K.

By "religious reformers" in this connection we do not refer exclusively to the reformers of any particular period, but to all who pass under that name in ecclesiastical history. And while, in historic parlance, this line of men does not date from the first century, yet, since there were apostasies and certain ecclesiastical reforms begun in Paul's day and under his leadership, it is not incorrect, strictly speaking, to date it from that early period. In fact, it is only from the plain and indisputable utterances of inspired men themselves that we get the seeds of all true reformation in any age of the church's history.

In the very incipency of the first efforts at religious reformation, as well as to forestall further apostasy, Paul and Peter and John laid down the one correct and universal rule for the guidance of men in clear and unmistakable words: "Now these things, brethren, I have in a figure transferred to myself and Apollos for your sakes; that in us ye might learn not to go beyond the things which are written." (1 Cor. 4: 6.) "If any man speaketh, speaking as it were the oracles of God." (1 Pet. 4: 11.) "Whosoever goeth onward and abideth not in the teaching of Christ, hath not God: he that abideth in the teaching, the same hath both the Father and the Son." (2 John 9.)

Now, here we have from the pens of inspired apostles themselves, not only the one great and fundamental law for the guidance of men in all religious and ecclesiastical affairs in all the ages, but it is expressed seemingly with the specific design of making it utterly impossible for intelligent and truth-loving men to make any mistake in its application. Moreover, the apparently studied and uniform way in which they state this law is remarkable and significant indeed. Whatever may be their differences in phraseology, they all unite and speak as one mouth on the solemn provision that religious teachers at all times and under all circumstances must keep within the limits of a plain and unmistakable "oracle of God" or "thus saith the Lord" for all they teach. This is solemnly significant and certainly should be seriously weighed by men before they begin teaching anything that is liable to disturb the churches and create division. There is in this law not only no room left for any sort of conjecture, human opinions or speculations, but these things are all clearly and distinctly ruled out as impudent departures from the divine order.

Now, one of the most remarkable and significant facts which greets us on the pages of ecclesiastical history outside of the Bible is the uniformity with which genuinely true and sincere men in their efforts at religious reformation in all the ages have striven to observe this divine law. We do not include in this reference those ambitious and so-called "religious reformers" of the politico-ecclesiastical type who, at different times and in different countries, have shown themselves willing to trample under foot this or any other divine law which stood in the way of their unholy aspirations. The papacy itself, with all its dire significance, is the outgrowth of such reforms, and it was not born in a day. The process of its birth, development, and culmination in a gigantic world power is a story of thrilling interest to the student of ecclesiastical history. It was the culmination of a principle, apparently insignificant and innocent at the start, but which, defended and manipulated through the ages by men of unholy ambition for power and personal aggrandizement, grew into a gigantic departure from the divine order which is to-day world-wide in its scope and influence. When men are moved by unholy ambition or other sinister motives, it is remarkable how even the most insignificant matters in appearance will operate in bringing about a great revolution. Whether it be the small matter of Luther's discovery of an old Latin copy of the Bible in the convent of monks at Erfurt, Germany; his immortal visit to the Diet of Worms; the marriage in England of Henry VIII. to Anne Boleyn; the cruel execution of Thomas Cranmer, under whose guidance the Book of Common Prayer was compiled; or any one of numerous other similar incidents in the history of the church, it remains a fact that in each and every case the tide in ecclesiastical affairs was completely turned, sometimes in favor of the truth and sometimes against it.

But the fact to which we now invite particular attention and which we should be glad to emphasize is the fact that that which gave these men the greatest power and influence for good and which signalized their work as a triumphant success was their direct appeal to the word of God—to a plain and unquestionable "thus saith the Lord" in support of their claims. With equal determination and uniformity they strove to place the greatest possible emphasis upon the additional fact that they did not invite the people to accept their mere opinions, nor to accept the opinions of men in religion at all. To the extent that they wished and labored to effect genuine reforms, they seemed to feel that a positive "thus saith the Lord," clear of all speculations and opinions of men, was what the people should hear, and with great consistency and tenacity they pursued this course. The example of Luther, of Melancthon, of Zwingle, and of others of the same period was significant at this point, and it was in defense of this principle of calling the people back to the plain and unadulterated word of God that the clarion voice of John Wesley was heard in England and the United States. And it was in defense of the same principle that both Thomas and Alexander Campbell, with not the remotest thought of founding another denomination, raised their soul-stirring battle cry for reformation one hundred years ago. Moreover, it is a fact, known and read of all men who are well informed, that to the extent that, and as long as, they and their successors remained true to this principle, the country, in ecclesiastical circles, was stirred from center to circumference, and they recorded one of the brightest and most glorious chapters in all the records of ecclesiastical and religious affairs.

Finally, what a pity that men have ever departed from this safe principle and from this divine standard of appeal in religion to enter the vain and fruitless realm of speculation and opinion! But such men have been found in all the ages, and they are with us to-day among the different religious bodies. Let us, with constant prayer to God and unwavering faith in his guidance, "preach the word" and thus stem the tide in the opposite direction.

"What Did Peter Mean?"

BY J. C. M'QUIDDY.

While Peter commanded the Jews on Pentecost to repent and be baptized in the name of Jesus Christ unto the remission of sins and the gift of the Holy Spirit, Editor Taylor, not satisfied with what Peter taught, appeals to what Peter says in Acts 15: 7-9, and seeks to make it appear that Peter could not mean what he said in Acts 2: 38. He says: "But if the Jews on Pentecost received the Holy Spirit before baptism, 'even as the Gentiles did,' then baptism was not a condition either of remission of sins or of the reception of the Holy Spirit; for Peter put the remission of sins in Acts 2: 38 and in Acts 10: 43 before the reception of the Holy Spirit." Here he confuses the reception of the Holy Spirit with the baptism of the Holy Spirit. The apostles were the only Jews baptized in the Holy Spirit on the day of Pentecost, but the Jews to whom Peter promised the remission of sins and the reception of the Holy Spirit received both after baptism, and not before. The persons addressed in Acts 2: 38 never received the baptism of the Holy Spirit as did Cornelius and his household. Such ignorance of the Scriptures possibly could be excused in a little child, but hardly in a learned editor.

It is freely and cheerfully conceded that Cornelius and his household were baptized in the Holy Spirit before they were baptized in water. But does this prove that Peter did not mean that baptism is unto the remission of sins in Acts 2: 38? All that can be consistently claimed is that this is an exception to the general rule—that is, that the obedient, sons, the saved, receive the Holy Spirit, and not the unsaved. It does not prove that Cornelius was saved when baptized in the Holy Spirit and that, therefore, baptism in water is not unto the remission of sins. Neither does it prove that he was baptized in the Spirit to make him a believer, or because he was of a good character and, therefore, saved. So far as morality is concerned, his character was above criticism before the baptism of the Spirit. He was devout, almsgiving, God-fearing, just, of good report of all the Jews, and had an angel sent to him in answer to his prayer. While the Spirit thus sets him forth as a just man, still he is unsaved. Peter, in rehearsing this conversion, tells how Cornelius had seen an angel standing in his house and saying: "Send to Joppa, and fetch Simon, whose surname is Peter; who shall speak unto thee words, whereby thou shalt be saved, thou and all thy house." (Acts 11: 13, 14.) Mark the words—not "whereby thou hast been saved," but "whereby thou shalt be saved." It is equally as clear that he was not baptized in the Spirit to give him faith, for Peter tells how the faith of the Gentiles should come. "And when there had been much questioning, Peter rose up, and said unto them, Brethren, ye know that a good while ago God made choice among you, that by my mouth the Gentiles should hear the word of the gospel, and believe. And God, who knoweth the heart, bare them witness, giving them the Holy Spirit, even as he did unto us; and he made no distinction between us and them, cleansing their hearts by faith." (Acts 15: 7-9.) How were they led to believe? By the baptism of the Spirit? No, but "that by my mouth the Gentiles should hear the word of the gospel, and believe." "So belief cometh of hearing, and hearing by the word of Christ." (Rom. 10: 17.) When did the Spirit fall on the Gentiles? "And as I began to speak, the Holy Spirit fell on them, even as on us at the beginning." (Acts 11: 15.) They were not saved, because Peter was to tell them words whereby they should be saved; they did not yet believe, for their belief was to come by hearing the word from the mouth of Peter; and as he began to speak, the Spirit fell on them. Neither did the Spirit fall on them to purify their hearts, for this is done by the faith that comes from the hearing of the word of God. It is an active, living faith that cleanses the heart. There is no record of a dead faith purifying the heart. "The devils also believe, and tremble." There is not a scintilla of teaching in the Bible that shows that faith in Christ before and without expressing itself in action saves or justifies the soul. Faith to bless the soul must speak out, act out, come out. A mere sentiment in the heart that Christ is the Son of God, while a man neglects or deliberately refuses to perform even the first act of faith, is worthless. "And why call ye me, Lord, Lord, and do not the things which I say?" (Luke 6: 46.)

But why was Cornelius baptized in the Spirit before he was baptized in water? "And God, who knoweth the heart, bare them witness, giving them the Holy Spirit, even as he did unto us." They needed this witness. The Jews regarded the Gentiles as unclean. It took the vision on the housetop and the Spirit to convince Peter that he should preach the gospel to the Gentiles. Peter says: "Ye yourselves know how it is an unlawful thing for a man that is a Jew to join himself or come unto one of another nation; and yet unto me hath God showed that I should not call any man common or unclean." (Acts 10: 28.) He rehearses the whole matter to the other apostles and thus convinces them, so that "they held their peace, and glorified God, saying, Then to the Gentiles also hath God granted repentance unto life." (Acts 11: 18.) The Jews with Peter were amazed that on the Gentiles also was poured out the gift of the Holy Spirit. "For they heard them speak with tongues, and magnify God." Then Peter says: As God has shown us that the Gentiles are accepted and that they are no longer to be regarded as unclean, "can any man forbid the water, that these should not be baptized, who have received the Holy Spirit as well as we?" Then, as he was to tell these believers words whereby they were to be saved, "he commanded them to be baptized in the name of Jesus Christ." Therefore we conclude that they also received the gift of the Holy Spirit as did the Jews on Pentecost after their baptism.

Editor Taylor, realizing that he had failed to contradict the plain teaching of Acts 2: 38 with Acts 10: 43-47 and Acts 15: 7-9, endeavors to show that "eis" with the accusative is retrospective and not prospective. He feels his failure so keenly that he says:

We cannot refrain from saying, however, that it would have been as easy to have shown from the English preposition "for" or the Greek one "eis" that Peter did not teach that baptism is a condition of remission of sins and the reception of the Holy Spirit in Acts 2: 38.

Such expressions as "laugh for joy," "cry for pain," "fined for crime," and many others use "for" as retrospective, not prospective. In Luke 5: 14 Jesus told a cleansed leper to go and offer for his cleansing. It was not in order to his cleansing, but because of it, for he was already clean. Christ did the cleansing; the offering declared it. So Christ does the saving and baptism simply declares it.

To those who know the Greek it would be easy to show that "baptize eis repentance" in Matt. 3: 11 and "baptize eis death" in Rom. 6: 3 do not and cannot mean baptize in order to repentance or death; for repentance and the death of Christ and our death to all sin take place before our baptism. Just as "baptize eis repentance" and "baptize eis death" both mean that we should be baptized because we have repented and because that through Christ's death we have died to sin, so also "be baptized eis remission" in Acts 2: 38 must mean, by all rules of interpretation, be baptized because your sins have been remitted.

It is the essence of presumption for an editor to oppose the scholarship of the world in a blind effort to maintain a false theory. "Eis," a preposition governing the accusative following verbs of action, looks forward and not backward. Winer, the best Greek grammarian, says: "'Eis,' the antithesis of 'ek.'" (Rom. 1: 17; 5: 16.) Rom. 1: 17 reads: "For therein is revealed a righteousness of God from [ek] faith unto [eis] faith." Rom. 5: 16: "But the free gift came of [ek] many trespasses unto [eis] justification." After giving the uses of "eis" with the accusative in a local or temporal sense, he says: "When transferred to metaphysical relations, 'eis' is used to express a mark or aim of any kind." Thus "eis" denotes the purpose or aim for which the Jews on Pentecost believed, repented, and were baptized. Thayer, the New Testament lexicographer, defines: "'Eis,' a preposition governing the accusative, and denoting entrance into, or direction and limit: into, to, toward, for, among." It is needless to multiply authorities to prove what every reasonably well informed man knows to be correct. As repentance and baptism are connected by the copulative conjunction "and," if baptism is retrospective, so is repentance. This would make those at Pentecost repenting because their sins were remitted. But, worse still, it makes Christ shed his blood because the sins of the world had already been remitted. (Matt. 26: 13.) Such presumption and cavilling do not become a preacher of the gospel. "Eis" (in Luke 5: 14; Matt. 3: 11; and Rom. 6: 3) looks forward, and not backward.

Unfortunately for Editor Taylor's contention, the Greek particle is "peri," and not "eis," when the healed leper was commanded to show himself to the priest and offer for (peri) his cleansing. It means here, about, concerning. In the same verse we have "eis" governing the accusative in "for [eis] a testimony unto them." Here "eis" means in order to a testimony. The law of Moses required the healed leper to be brought to the priest. "Then shall the priest command to take for him that is to be cleansed two living clean birds," etc. (Lev. 14: 2-4), and offer these for (eis) a testimony unto them. When the offerings were presented, these were a testimony that the person had been pronounced by the priest both physically and legally clean. Then they would be permitted to enjoy the social functions and relations of life. Most assuredly "eis" in this passage looks forward and destroys our friend's view. And so it does in the other scriptures mentioned. Try Matt. 3: 11. The preposition "eis" is never used to express the idea that one thing is done because of another having been done. It is not true that John baptized persons because of their repentance; for while it is true that repentance did precede the baptism, it was not because of this that they were baptized; but baptism had its own specific object, and because of this object it was performed. The preposition is expressive of purpose, and the phrase is properly rendered "unto repentance." The baptism was not unto the repentance of the party baptized, but unto the repentance of others yet to be baptized. A baptism that demanded repentance as a prerequisite would lead others to repent, that they might be baptized and enjoy the blessings of baptism. Premiums are given in business in order to faithful service and good results, although the faithful service must precede the reception of the premium. Promotions in business are unto diligence, yet the diligence must appear before the promotion can take place. In the same way was John's baptism unto repentance. The priceless blessing of remission of sins being attached to baptism (see Mark 1: 4; Luke 3: 3), the desire to obtain this blessing would prompt those yet unbaptized to repent, so that they might be baptized. The general purpose of John's baptism was to lead the people to repentance. "Eis" looks forward, and not backward, in Rom. 6: 3. "Baptized into his death"—that, as Jesus Christ in his crucifixion died completely, so that no spark of the natural or animal life remained in his body, so those who confess their faith in Christ and are baptized into him should be thereby so completely separated and saved from sin, that it will have no more dominion over them. They must become dead to the practice of sin. The apostle's meaning is that, being united to Christ by baptism, we may consider all that has happened to Christ as happening to us.

Help the Fanning Orphan School.

BY E. A. E.

These appeals for this school are repeated for several reasons:

1. The needs and the good work of the school furnish good opportunities to all generous people to help in the most effectual way orphans and needy worthy girls—opportunities which should be readily embraced, and which, we are glad to say, not a few are doing, for the school is receiving responses to these appeals.

2. The school has made no repeated appeals for help for some years, and but little has been received lately. While good and generous people are helping and should continue to help all worthy work, we ask them to consider the work and claims of this school. Is it not the time now to help it, too? As said before, no stronger appeal can be made than to state the work—the good the school is doing, with that which it has done and can do—and its present and future needs. This is all that many good and liberal people need to know. We who have the work in hand and understand the needs of the school know better what they are, and we are in earnest in presenting them. The school needs more funds to carry on its work.

3. All do not see the first appeal or the second; hence the appeals are repeated. Besides, those who have not responded to the first appeal, or to the second, are reminded by this repetition that they have not; but they intend to do so and will do so.

4. Paul reminded the Corinthians at different times and in different ways of both their obligations and promises to help the poor. When James, Peter, and John gave to Paul and Barnabas "the right hands of fellowship" that they should preach to the Gentiles, they requested that Paul and Barnabas "should remember the poor; which very thing," Paul declares, he "was also zealous to do." (Gal. 2: 9, 10.) Let us both be reminded of our duty to help orphans and be zealous to do it.

Our beloved brother, T. Q. Martin, lately bereaved of both his mother and his wife, attended the reunion of the three oldest congregations in Davidson County, Tenn., on the grounds of the Fanning Orphan School, on May 19 (of which reunion notice has been made), and gave to the school ten dollars to be used by it as a memento of his wife, who was so gentle and kind to orphans and to all poor. For this gift, therefore, the school has a double appreciation. In Brother Martin's sore bereavements there can be no better way to draw nigh to God and to gain strength than to help and comfort others. Then, he is a good example to us; if at this time he generously gives to the needy, what should others, not so troubled and more able to give, do?

It cannot be expected that every letter received be published, but the following one from Brother Southall is published because of its good suggestions:

Florence, Ala., May 18, 1916.—Dear Brother Elam: Concerning the debt and endowment of the Fanning Orphan School, I make the following observations:

Since good brethren through sacrifice have given us such a splendid institution, it certainly should be endowed sufficiently to permit of its being used to the limit of present capacity for orphan and needy girls.

With a desire to have a part in this work, I herewith inclose my check for fifty dollars, and will repeat it, the Lord willing, every time you report twenty-five hundred dollars pledged, up to one hundred thousand dollars; the campaign to close on January 1, 1917. Perhaps it would be better to set the mark at fifty thousand; if you think so, kindly state it that way.

C. M. SOUTHALL.

As Brother Southall observes, the trustees of the school are pressing the point that it should be so endowed as to be able to carry to its full capacity orphan and other needy girls and not be forced to fill out with pay pupils. But these pay pupils are not taken as a matter of profit, but as a means of doing good and of accommodation to those who wish to send. For instance, since the school itself cannot support and educate all the orphan girls or needy worthy girls its buildings will accommodate, it solicits congregations or individuals to pay the expenses of one or more such girls. This should be done. Some individuals and some congregations are doing this.

One person or one congregation could give sufficient endowment—about two thousand dollars—to support one girl in the school perpetually. This girl can be selected either by the donor or the school.

We appreciate, too, the truth, which Brother Southall emphasizes, that since good and generous people have already established this school and the trustees are doing all they can to keep it up, giving of both their means and time to it, others should as generously contribute to the paying of this present indebtedness and to the endowment fund. Looking at it from this viewpoint, all others are under as much obligation to the poor and to God to do this as those who have done so much. With all working from this viewpoint, this and every other scriptural work would prosper.

We trust it will be only a short while until Brother Southall sends us another check for fifty dollars, for we hope to soon report the reception of the first twenty-five hundred. Brother Southall offers to give one thousand dollars of a fifty-thousand-dollar endowment fund to be raised this year. Let us hear from others.

This endowment can be paid in installments, as the cards sent out show. Fill out the cards and send them and all donations to A. N. Trice, corner Wall and Monroe Streets, or to the writer, Lebanon, Tenn. Send any amount.

“Way Down South in Dixie.”

BY T. B. LARIMORE.

Having wrestled with grippe, in some of its various forms and phases, about ten weeks, I left Nashville, on the old reliable “Ellen Enn,” with Mrs. Larimore, March 17, headed for the Sunny South, where we spent about forty days and forty nights, reaching Nashville again, April 25.

As those forty days and forty nights were slipping away, I preached at Greenville, Letohatchie, Liberty, Fort Deposit, and Highland Home—all pleasant places in the State of Alabama.

I was anxious to preach at Andalusia, Canoe, Montgomery, and other places in that field from which I came; but I was forced to forego that pleasure and return home, leaving behind me a field that has a strong hold on my heart, as well as my head. If any man can visit the places we visited and meet the people we met on that trip and not long to visit them and meet them again and again and again, he is very different from Mrs. Larimore and me.

All the places I have herein mentioned are in the field planted and cultivated by our beloved, but departed, brother, J. M. Barnes, who was a pioneer gospel preacher and teacher there fifty years ago, and who continued to live, labor, and be loved in that delightful land till he said his final farewell to this beautiful world not many months ago.

Other great and good men have lived and labored in that field; but, in the estimation of those who knew and loved him there, Brother Barnes towers above the others, as Saul above his brethren, as Paul towers above the other apostles in prominence in the Book of books. Saying this is not speaking disparagingly of those other great and good brethren, as speaking of Paul, who “labored more abundantly than they all,” as the peerless apostle, is not speaking disparagingly of Peter, James, or John.

Brother Barnes' friends in his home field seem to never tire of talking about him; not that they loved others less, but that they loved him more. Many readers of the Gospel Advocate, doubtless, remember interesting articles written by him, years ago, over his pen name, “The Little Man.” He wrote comparatively little, however, for permanent preservation, and but little has been printed about him; but he lives in the hearts of a host of friends, and his influence is destined to bless generations yet unborn.

His son, Elly R., is his successor as a teacher, being the head and soul of a school for boys that, I am persuaded, is as good as the best in Montgomery or elsewhere. The following little incident aptly illustrates Elly's character: Brother Barnes was twice married, left a large family of sons and daughters, Elly being his oldest and his first wife's only child; and, strange as it may seem, he left a large estate, notwithstanding he was a preacher. His will directed that Elly, his firstborn, should have a very valuable farm designated in the will, and that the remainder of the estate should be equally divided among all his children, which included Elly, of course; but Elly would not and did not accept anything except an equal share of the estate with each of the other children, notwithstanding no one protested against any provision of the will, he contending that his father did not intend for him to have any more than any other one of the children. That's what I call reducing the Golden Rule to practice. I received none of this information from Elly, but all of it from other good brethren who know.

Highland Home is the place where Brother Barnes lived and taught so long. He has gone hence, and the Highland Home school is a thing of the past, I am sorry to say. As we enjoyed the blossoms of spring, the breath of approaching summer, and companionship of friends there, April 24, 1916, all nature seeming to rejoice and be glad that winter was gone, I remembered that I traveled all day through snow in the air and on the ground and on the boughs and branches of budding trees and blossoming dogwoods, April 25, 1910, in Tennessee.

Brother Samuel Jordan and his son, Luke, accompanied us from their hospitable habitation at Highland Home to Montgomery, where Brethren Holt, Spiegel, Talley, and other good brethren and friends met us and helped us aboard the train that brought us to Nashville, April 25.

Since then I have neither preached nor written much, but have devoted my time and attention principally to a heroic, and I believe successful, endeavor to regain my health and strength; and I confidently expect to be myself again by June 1, when I am to begin a series of meetings at Riceville, Tenn. Riceville is in East Tennessee; hence I shall be on my native heath when I get there, and I shall certainly do my very best to preach the word acceptably among the mountains of my native land.

QUERY DEPARTMENT

Brother McQuiddy: Please explain 1 Tim. 4: 14. What is meant by "the laying on of the hands of the presbytery?" What does "presbytery" mean? W. B. BROWN.

It should be borne in mind that the ancient evangelists had no New Testament to guide them, and hence needed special qualifications and gifts which were imparted by the laying on of hands. This passage and 2 Tim. 1: 6 show that Timothy received a double imposition of hands—the hands of Paul and of the presbytery. "Presbytery" means the same as does "eldership."

Brother McQuiddy: (1) There are a few members who meet in the church of Christ at Mount Pleasant—three sisters and myself (the only male member). As I am busy, I appointed Sister Goins to look after and take care of the Lord's-day contributions. Did I do right? (2) Sometimes there is no one but myself that meets on the Lord's day, and I often break bread by myself. Is it right or not? Christ says: "For where two or three are gathered together in my name, there am I in the midst of them." (Matt. 18: 20.) He did not say where one was gathered together that he would be with him. If I am doing wrong, please get me right. W. A. JACKSON.

(1) Certainly there can be no impropriety or wrong in the sister taking care of the funds of this little band of disciples. Phoebe was a deaconess of the church that was at Cenchrea. Sisters may be helpers in the Lord's work. (2) Christians meet on the first day of the week to commune with the Lord. They may be said to commune with one another only as all commune with the Lord. "But if we walk in the light, as he is in the light, we have fellowship one with another, and the blood of Jesus his Son cleanseth us from all sin." (1 John 1: 7.) The Savior assures us that where two or three are gathered together in his name he will be in their midst. Two can meet. So when one brother breaks bread in the name of the Lord, Christ meets with him and he communes with the Lord. Our brother is to be commended and not condemned for his example.

Brother McQuiddy: Please answer the following questions: (1) Do you understand the Scriptures to teach that there will be no infants and children in heaven? Some teach that all will be grown people and no children. Please tell what you understand the Scriptures to teach about it. (2) Do the Scriptures teach that when one dies, God has called him away from this life? If he does, it is a consolation to us when we have to give up our loved ones in infancy. (3) Is it wrong or right for a church to keep the names of the members in a book, and, when it suspends or withdraws from a member, to rewrite the other members' names to themselves? Is it right or wrong for the church to keep a record of what it does? (4) When we meet our loved ones in heaven, do the Scriptures teach that we will not have the same kind of love for them that we do here? Some teach that we will be just as glad to meet some other baby or boy or girl as our own, and will be just as glad to meet some other boy's mother or father as our own. Please tell what you understand the Scriptures to teach along this line. X.

(1) The Bible very clearly teaches that those who die in infancy go to heaven. "Of such is the kingdom of heaven." The Bible teaches nothing as to whether they remain children or grow to full manhood or womanhood. The question is an untaught one and not practical. (2) In a sense all men die by the appointment of God. "It is appointed unto men once to die, and after this cometh judgment." (Heb. 9: 27.) But when one dies by his own hand, carelessness, or accident, it can hardly be said to be by the will of the Lord. If there is a man who perfectly observes the will of God and the laws of nature, and he should die at a ripe old age, we could appropriately say that God took him. On account of sin and imprudence there are few, if any, who live out their allotted time. (3) For answer to this, see "Query Department" of the Gospel Advocate, February 24, 1916, page 188. (4) As there will be no marrying or giving in marriage in heaven, we may know that all the affections that pertain exclusively to the flesh will have no place in heaven.

Brother McQuiddy: Please explain 2 Cor. 12: 13. Does Paul mean to criticize or eulogize the Corinthian church for not paying him for preaching to them? Recently we had a young brother with us, who preached on the subject, "Drifting Away from God." During his discourse he quoted the above verse and said that Paul said to the church at Corinth that he had preached to them and that they had not paid him for preaching to them; therefore, because he had not been a burden to them, they were inferior to all other churches, and by not supporting him they had drifted away from God; and that he had committed a sin in not collecting a support from them, and asked to be forgiven for doing so. After preaching I called the brother's attention to the quotation he had made and asked him if he was sure that he had correctly given Paul's meaning in his quotation. He said he would investigate the matter. At the evening service he said he had examined the quotation and found that his Bible taught that Paul did denounce the church at Corinth as inferior to all other churches for not supporting him. G. W. BROWN.

The passage reads: "For what is there wherein ye were made inferior to the rest of the churches, except it be that I myself was not a burden to you? forgive me this wrong." Some false apostles in the Corinthian church questioned Paul's right to the apostleship and falsely charged that he did not dare to ask for the support which was due an apostle. In answer to those Judaizers, he says: "Am I not free? am I not an apostle? have I not seen Jesus our Lord? are not ye my work in the Lord? If to others I am not an apostle, yet at least I am to you; for the seal of mine apostleship are ye in the Lord." (1 Cor. 9: 1, 2.) He also taught in 1 Cor. 9: 13-15: "Know ye not that they that minister about sacred things eat of the things of the temple, and they that wait upon the altar have their portion with the altar? Even so did the Lord ordain that they that proclaim the gospel should live of the gospel. But I have used none of these things." In Corinth he supported himself in part by his own labor. (Acts 18: 3.) He robbed other churches that he might preach the gospel to the Corinthians without charge. Concerning this he asks: "Did I commit a sin in abasing myself that ye might be exalted, because I preached to you the gospel of God for naught?" (2 Cor. 11: 7.) In the verse under consideration he makes a forcible, fine, yet delicate, stroke. It was your duty, your interest, and God's ordination for you to have supported your apostle; other churches have done so; I did not require this from you; in this respect all other churches are superior to you, but for your inferiority I am responsible, as I did not give you an opportunity of ministering to my necessities; forgive me the wrong I have done you. It is the privilege of the churches of Christ to support the ministry of the gospel of Christ. Those who do not contribute their part to the support of the gospel either care nothing for it or derive no good from it. The churches should support faithful preachers of the gospel, and the churches that neglect or refuse to do so proclaim themselves inferior to those that support the gospel, no matter how great their advantages and attainments. Preachers should give churches an opportunity to support them in the work. The Corinthian church was inferior to other churches in that it had failed to support its apostle, and Paul asks to be forgiven the wrong he had done the church in not giving it the opportunity to support him.

AT HOME AND ABROAD

Compiled by A. B. Lipscomb

J. P. Prevatt reports that the church at Miami, Fla., is progressing nicely despite the worldly-mindedness of the community.

W. S. Long, Jr., is in a meeting at Ashland City, Tenn., to continue indefinitely. He will begin at Petersburg, Tenn., on June 11.

T. Q. Martin closed at Twelfth Avenue, this city, May 25. There were thirteen baptisms during the meeting. He is now at New Decatur, Ala.

From I. H. Ferguson, Elbridge, Tenn.: "The Gospel Advocate grows better and better. May God's richest blessings be on all its faithful helpers."

R. V. Cawthon will begin a meeting at Bethany, near Olmstead, Ky. R. B. Clements will lead the singing. Their lines are certainly cast in pleasant places.

H. D. Lipscomb, of Grapevine, Texas, has sent a check for one hundred dollars to the Fanning Orphan School. This is a wise investment for the Lord. Who will follow?

We had a good start in the meeting which began at Russell Street, this city, last Sunday. F. W. Smith is doing some of the best preaching of his life, and his efforts are thoroughly appreciated.

To be everywhere and everything in sympathy, and yet content to remain where and what you are, is not this to know both wisdom and virtue and to dwell with happiness?—R. L. Stevenson.

Alexander Campbell, the colored preacher, has begun an interesting tent meeting in Nashville. To reach the tent, take West Nashville car to Fortieth Avenue, walk three blocks north to the tent.

J. S. Westbrook performed the marriage ceremony uniting Mr. Arthur Hutson and Miss Virginia Douglas, at Link, Tenn., on May 14. The couple were seated in a buggy in the presence of about twenty friends.

The editor of this page delivered the commencement sermon before the Girls' Preparatory School at Franklin, Tenn., on Wednesday evening, May 24. Miss Courtney, the principal, stands high in the esteem of the community.

Thomas E. Milholland will spend next month in Oklahoma City, Okla. If the reader has a relative or friend who would be interested in the Lord's work, send the name and street number to Brother Milholland at Madill, Okla.

W. T. Hines writes from McHenry, Ky.: "Please notify the brethren in this section that I have September and part of October that I would like to book with some congregations to conduct their meetings. The rest of my time is taken to January, 1917. But I do not want to be idle at the time mentioned above."

H. J. Stafford, a worthy brother, of Trezevant, Tenn., who is fond of history, but not able to buy books, would appreciate the loan of some good books dealing with the lives of the apostles. He will take good care of the books and return them promptly. Cheer him up, brethren, by sending him something good to read.

The marriage of Mr. Albert Dixon Robertson and Miss Leriell Franklin Morrow was solemnized at the residence of the bride, on the Granny White road, Thursday evening, May 25. The writer performed the ceremony in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends. The Gospel Advocate extends heartiest congratulations.

From F. O. Howell, Riverside, Tenn., May 27, 1916: "I began a meeting at this place last night with fine crowds and good prospects. I will be in the home of H. N. Mann during the meeting. Brother Mann has a splendid family of children, and he is educating them in the Nashville Bible School. I closed a good meeting at Hohenwald, Tenn., on Thursday night."

From T. W. Phillips, 1000 South Adams Street, Fort Worth, Texas, May 15, 1916: "I have on hand about two thousand tracts, 'How to Build up the Church.' The sale of these at this time would be very helpful to me. Price, single copy, five cents; per dozen, fifty cents, postpaid. Money refunded to any one not pleased with the tract. Address all orders to me."

From Eugene V. Wood, Quanah, Texas, May 23, 1916: "I am in a fine meeting at this place. This is the home at present of our faithful young preaching brother, T. H. Etheridge, who is working faithfully for the success of this meeting. The church here holds him in high esteem and is evidently doing a great work here. I find the Gospel Advocate in most of the homes in which I have gone."

From C. D. Crouch, Rock Spring, Texas, May 15, 1916: "It has been some time since I have reported through the Gospel Advocate. Our work continues to be interesting. I have never labored with a more appreciative people. The church is not perfect here, but most of the members, I really think, desire to be, and we are following after Him who is. I have time for one more meeting, possibly two."

A. G. Freed writes: "The annual commencement of the National Teachers' Normal and Business College, Henderson, Tenn., will begin on Tuesday, June 6, and continue through Thursday, June 8. Following is the program for the week: Tuesday, June 6, 8 P.M., Alumni Association; Wednesday, June 7, 10 A.M., graduating orations of Teachers' Class; Wednesday, June 7, 8 P.M., oratorical contest; Thursday, June 8, 10 A.M., graduating orations of Scientific Class; W. Halliday Trice, of Memphis, Tenn., will deliver the commencement address; Thursday, June 8, 8 P.M., the annual play, 'The Captain of Plymouth.'"

From J. G. Allen, Nashville, Tenn.: "The protracted meeting at Grandview Heights, conducted by R. V. Cawthon, of Mount Juliet, Tenn., closed on May 26, with much interested manifested. The meeting was held in the new house, which holds about four hundred people, and every seat was filled at almost every service. The meeting should have continued longer, but a previous engagement prevented. Brother Cawthon greatly endeared himself to this congregation and promised to return again when he could stay longer. Claud Woodroof led the singing, which added much to the interest of the work, and all consider that this congregation is now in better condition than it has been in years before. The immediate results were two baptisms and two reclaimed."

Z. D. Barber writes from Beedeville, Ark., May 19, 1916: "I preached last Lord's day at Tupelo, to a large and attentive congregation. This is what you might call a mission point. We have just a few folks there; but what we have are alive. I baptized one last Lord's-day evening. We went seven miles to the water, and there I buried the young man with the Lord in baptism. We returned and found a large crowd waiting to hear the truth. These people are intelligent, and they will obey the truth as fast as they learn. This is where I will hold one of my tent meetings this summer. The church-house talk is already on, and I think the cause will be successfully established and a church house will be built. Brother Morgan (merchant) lives here, and he will certainly push the work. The people of this little village are always informed of the preaching days. Brother Morgan never fails to tell them of the hour. I will preach at home next Lord's day."

YOUNG WOMEN MAY AVOID PAIN

Need Only Trust to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, says Mrs. Kurtzweg.

Buffalo, N.Y.—“My daughter, whose picture is herewith, was much troubled with pains in her back and sides every month and they would sometimes be so bad that it would seem like acute inflammation of some organ. She read your advertisement in the newspapers and tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

She praises it highly as she has been relieved of all these pains by its use. All mothers should know of this remedy, and all young girls who suffer should try it.”—Mrs. MATILDA KURTZWEG, 529 High St., Buffalo, N. Y.

Young women who are troubled with painful or irregular periods, backache, headache, dragging-down sensations, fainting spells or indigestion, should take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Thousands have been restored to health by this root and herb remedy.

If you know of any young woman who is sick and needs helpful advice, ask her to write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. Only women will receive her letter, and it will be held in strictest confidence.

Every Cold Should Be Considered Serious

So say the best medical authorities. Unless promptly checked, often they lead to chronic bronchial and pulmonary troubles which may prove fatal.

If your cough or cold has not responded to treatment—and remember, medicine should not be solely relied on—timely use of Eckman's Alterative may give you relief.

For more than twenty years it has been benefiting sufferers from these disorders. It is especially indicated where the system demands lime, for it contains calcium chloride so combined as to be easily assimilated by the average person.

Safe to try—because it contains no harmful or habit-forming drugs of any sort whatsoever. Sold by leading druggists or sent direct. Booklet containing information of value and references sent upon request.

ECKMAN LABORATORY

23 N. Seventh St. Philadelphia

PARADISE OF PRAISE.

A new song book. New, popular, standard songs and hymns that please—the very best for Sunday schools, religious meetings, etc. Don't miss it. Both notations.

Price, 35 cents; dozen, $3.50.
Special—Sample copy, 25 cents. Will include a free copy of “Temperance Trumpet” or a “Civil Betterment Rally Song” state which.

Address
HILDEBRAND-BURNETT COMPANY,
Basic, Va.

The Master's Vineyard

Alabama.

Tuscumbia, May 24.—Brother S. P. Pittman, of the Nashville Bible School, preached the commencement sermon of the public school here last Sunday in the Methodist Church. He is an able and interesting speaker. He preached the Bible with simplicity and power. We were all sorry to see our brother leave, but hope to meet him in the future. I had the pleasure of meeting him on the car going from Tuscumbia to Sheffield, and had quite a pleasant conversation with him.

(Mrs.) W. H. GAMBILL.

Newton, May 23.—I am in a tent meeting at this place, which began last Saturday. I am having to stay at the hotel, as there are no brethren here. The meeting started off with an attendance of about thirty people, and I hope the interest will increase so that I can get the gospel before the people. I need some help down here, but I am willing to make what sacrifice I can and leave the results with Him whose I am and whom I serve in the gospel of his Son.

W. T. GOALEN.

Arkansas.

Beedeville, May 18.—Brother Joe H. Blue, of Morrilton, closed a meeting at this place last night. Brother Blue does not need an introduction to the many readers of the paper. He is well known in the field and among the brethren at large. We were all made to rejoice at having him with us. We were greatly encouraged. I have heard some of our strongest men, and I am frank to state that Brother Blue made some of the strongest arguments that I have ever heard. We had no visible results, but the good seed was sown and good will be the result. The interest grew from the beginning. The last night the house was full. We hope to have Brother Blue with us again. May the Lord bless him in all of his work.

Z. D. BARBER.

Colorado.

Olathe, May 15.—Brother E. C. Fuqua began a debate with the Seventh-Day Adventists on April 30 and closed it on May 8. The day question was discussed. The debate was well attended, and it afforded Brother Fuqua a splendid opportunity to set forth the relation of the law and the gospel and show the proper division of the word. The Adventists had long confused the minds of the people on the day question; and when Brother Fuqua went into the community to do some mission work a short time ago, they took exception to a discourse on a proper division of the word, which led to the debate. Brother Fuqua did thorough work, as he always does, and I am sure that Sabbath keeping will not trouble the minds of the people of that community any more. Brother Fuqua preached three discourses yesterday and baptized two at Olathe. The tent mentioned before has been purchased and will be set up in Olathe this week; but Brother Fuqua lacked about forty or fifty dollars receiving enough to pay for the tent, to say nothing of seating it. Brother Fuqua was compelled to borrow the money to finish paying for it, which ought not to be, as he already has run considerably behind on living expenses and carrying on the work. It has become a very serious problem how he is going to stay in a mission field and meet his obligations, some of which must be met shortly. J. I. FOSTER.

Kentucky.

Paducah, May 25.—Our mission meeting is now in its second week, and there have been eight additions. The preaching is being done by Brother Charley Taylor, who always does his work well. C. M. STURBLEFIELD.

Louisiana.

Shreveport, May 22.—We had three good services here yesterday. Although it rained hard until afternoon, we had a good many out for the morning service. One brother and his family came through the rain fourteen miles to be with us. They live fourteen miles out in the country. They are some of our faithful ones. The afternoon service was devoted to the development of the brethren, that they may be able to take part in public worship. We all enjoyed this service very much. At night was a preaching service. We meet every Wednesday evening for prayer meeting and Friday evening for song practice. We are having a hard fight here. The boys have almost torn our tent up. Before the meeting we patched eight or ten holes, and since the meeting they have torn ten large holes in it—and on top of the tent, at that. Sometimes while we are holding services they will throw rocks on it and sometimes into it. Now you can imagine our anxiety to have a meetinghouse. We ask the parents to keep their boys from doing this, but it does no good. But we are not going to give up, the Lord being our helper.

B. U. BALDWIN.

Oklahoma.

Madill, May 22.—We left the good brethren and sisters in Denison, Texas, rejoicing because of the blessings from the Lord in a late meeting at that place. Brother William D. Eyridge, one of Texas' best singers, led the songs for us. Brother Eyridge had his wife and father-in-law with him. They are all lovable people, because they are consecrated Christians. Brother Eyridge has a great heart in him. He is one of God's noblemen. He gave his service to the little band in Denison, because, in the first place, he was able to do so, and, in the next place, he wanted to do it. His was a freewill offering, in truth. The brethren in Denison, worshipping at the corner of Armstrong Avenue and Texas Street, have labored under many hardships and difficulties. They bought the church property from those who oppose the class teaching on the Lord's day. The opposition prophesied the downfall of the little band and their inability to pay off the debt. We have had the property about a year and our membership has just about doubled, and during our late meeting we paid off the last note against the property—eleven hundred dollars. This the little band did, and supported me for half my time in the work there, as well as Brother Robert Drennon, a splendid local preacher in Denison. Brother W. D. Cameron is at the helm now, and he is a business man. Associated with him are some of the best men I know, in love with each other and the church. They are all railroad men—car builders, engineers, firemen, etc. May God continue to bless these good men. I go next month to Oklahoma City for a month's work. Prof. James W. Acuff, of Waco, Texas, will be our song leader there.

THOMAS E. MILHOLLAND.

Tennessee.

Decherd, May 24.—I have just closed a two-weeks' meeting at Dans, in Sequatchie County, with twenty additions. I baptized five from other religious bodies. Two were restored. We had large crowds every night. Brother J. C. Moseley, who lives there, conducted the song service. He is with Brother J. D. Northcut this week, conducting the song service for the Whitwell congregation. I will go to Tatesville next Lord's day to begin a meeting. There is only one family of Christians only at that place.

R. E. L. TAYLOR.

Tracy City, May 23.—I have just closed a fine meeting on Myers Hill, about two miles from our Tracy church. Fine crowds every night. Only one addition, but the seed has been sown as it has not been on this mountain. Some of the sects have asked that we come back every Lord's day and take the Lord's Supper. That means that we have done some good there. The brethren at Tracy helped us very much in attending the services. I am still at work in the blacksmith shop, but I am hoping and praying that the time will come when I can give up the shop work and go to work in the field for the Lord every day and night. Brethren, do not think I am above work; but I know the need of men like myself to go into fields where some of our abler brethren cannot go.

BAILEY BROOKS.

Texas.

El Paso, May 22.—Six baptisms just before J. S. Dunn, of Dallas, came to labor in meetings; six additions during his stay; and one more the past Sunday. Prospects good.

J. W. DUNN.

For Weakness and Loss of Appetite.

The old standard general strengthening tonic, Grove's Tasteless Chili Tonic, drives out malaria and builds up the system. A true tonic and sure appetizer. For adults and children Fifty cents.

It's Fun to be Thirsty when you can get Coca-Cola

There's the fun of quenching the thirst and the deliciousness of the thirst quencher to give you double pleasure. But you don't even have to be thirsty to enjoy Coca-Cola—it's a treat, whatever your reason for drinking it. Demand the genuine by full name—nicknames encourage substitution. THE COCA-COLA CO. Atlanta, Ga.

Zolvonoids THE MODERN ANTISEPTIC TREATMENT FOR THE RELIEF OF FEMININE ILLS.

The curative and antiseptic qualities of Zolvonoids make them invaluable in the treatment of irregularities and chronic ills peculiar to women. Prepared from exactly the same formula as Antiseptic Sphenoids which, for the past twenty-five years, have been a standard remedy prescribed by physicians for the correction of derangements of the delicate organs and for the relief of pain caused thereby.

ZOLVONIDS are a scientific combination of such medicinal curative and sterilizing agents as Boric Acid, Acetanilid, Hydrastis, Beta-Naphtol and Sulphate Zinc prepared in a convenient size and shape for easy, direct application. They restore the deranged and weakened organs to their normal condition by permeating the tissues, disinfecting the organs and correcting distressful conditions of long standing. Every woman should have Zolvonoids in her toilet equipment.

Zolvonoids are sent postpaid in a plain sealed package of forty-eight treatments for $1.00. Free trial package of five Zolvonoid tablets on request.

PREPARED AND GUARANTEED ONLY BY THE ZOLVONIDS COMPANY ADDRESS: DESK A, 146 W. GEORGIA ST., INDIANAPOLIS, IND.

Sister: Read My Free Offer!

I am a woman. I know a woman's trials. I know her need of sympathy and help.

If you, my sister, are unhappy because of ill-health, if you feel unfit for household duties, social pleasures, or daily employment, write and tell me just how you suffer, and ask for my free ten days' trial of a home treatment suited to your needs. Men cannot understand women's sufferings. What we women know from experience, we know better than any man. I want to tell you how to cure yourself at home at a cost of about 12 cents a week.

If you suffer from women's peculiar ailments causing pain in the head, back, or bowels, feeling of weight and dragging down sensation, falling or displacement of pelvic organs, causing kidney and bladder weakness or constipation and piles, painful or irregular periods, catarrhal conditions and discharges, extreme nervousness, depressed spirits, melancholy, desire to cry, fear of something evil about to happen, creeping feeling along the spine, palpitation, hot flashes, weariness, sallow complexion with dark circles under the eyes, pain in the left breast or a general feeling that life is not worth living,

I INVITE YOU TO SEND TODAY FOR MY FREE TEN DAYS' TREATMENT

and learn how these ailments can be easily and surely conquered at home without the dangers and expense of an operation. When you are cured, and able to enjoy life again, you can pass the good word along to some other sufferer. My home treatment is for young or old. To Mothers of Daughters, I will explain how to overcome green sickness (chlorosis), irregularities, headaches, and lassitude in young women and restores them to plumpness and health. Tell me if you are worried about your daughter. Remember it costs you nothing to give my home treatment a ten days' trial, and does not interfere with daily work. If health is worth asking for, then accept my generous offer and write for the free treatment, including my illustrated booklet, "Women's Own Medical Adviser." I will send all in plain wrappers postpaid. To save time, you can cut out this offer, mark your feelings, and return to me. Send today, as you may not see this offer again. Address, MRS. M. SUMMERS, - - - - - Box 195 SOUTH BEND, IND.

R. K. MORGAN,

Principal Morgan School, Fayetteville, Tennessee.

The Boy Deserves the Best.

Will he look back from the vantage point of thirty and feel that you were a wise parent in the selection of a school for him, or will he think that if you had given his case more careful attention you would have placed him in a school where he would have received better training?

The thoughtful, considerate parent feels that the school to which he sends his son must be equipped and its faculty chosen with the primary end of training the boy to become a man—to teach true Christian faith, to develop manly independence and self-confidence, to inspire high ideals of life and service, to strengthen and develop mind and body alike.

Such an institution is the Morgan School, of Fayetteville, Tenn., which has been built up around the Christian character and wholesome, inspiring personality of Robert K. Morgan, who has been principal for twenty-five years. Graduating from the Webb School, Bell Buckle, Tenn., and Vanderbilt University, Mr. Morgan has devoted his life to the training of boys. He is the man to train your boy. The close, personal instruction and association with clean, high-minded men will help him wonderfully. A postal card to Mr. L. I. Mills, Secretary Morgan School, Fayetteville, Tenn., will bring you a catalogue and full information about this school.

Cutting Down the Cost of Pianos.

Have you ever stopped to ask yourself the question why oranges which sell for five cents each cost only two cents by the box, or why apples sell so much cheaper by the bushel than by a nickel's worth? It is the same way with pianos. If you were to purchase one hundred pianos (eight car loads) from the factory, you would get a much lower price than if you purchased only one. That is why the Gospel Advocate Piano Club, composed of one hundred buyers who club their orders into one big order, is saving its members at least forty per cent on high-grade pianos and player pianos.

You are cordially invited to write for your copy of the club's beautifully illustrated catalogue, which fully explains the big saving in price, the convenient terms, and the guarantees of quality and permanent satisfaction. Address The Associated Piano Clubs, Gospel Advocate Department, Atlanta, Ga.

Abilene Christian College Notes.

BY J. P. SEWELL.

Abilene Christian College will continue under the same management under which it has been during the last four years. This management is stronger in the confidence and esteem of the students, faculty, patrons, trustees, and local people, who know the work intimately, than at any previous time.

Between twenty thousand and twenty-five thousand dollars has been raised and spent for building and equipment during these years.

The attendance has been greatly increased and the work of the college has been credited by the University of Texas. The year now drawing to a close has enjoyed the largest regular attendance in the history of the school, and the work has been most satisfactory and pleasant.

All of the regular members of our faculty will remain with us. We have tried them and have no desire to exchange them for others. They are as follows:

H. E. Speck, dean, mathematics. Brother Speck is a graduate of the Sam Houston Normal and of the University of Texas. He was student teacher in the University, and has had about eight years' teaching experience. He has been with us three years, two years as our dean, and constantly grows stronger. In our opinion there are no better men and few better school-teachers than H. E. Speck.

Miss Etta Wagstaff, English and History. Miss Wagstaff is an honor graduate of Hamilton College, of Lexington, Ky. She has traveled extensively in Europe and has done graduate work in Columbia University, of New York. She is a Christian woman of exceptional character and culture, has had long experience, and is a teacher of rare ability and influence.

Miss Elisha D. Walker, German and Latin. Miss Walker was two years honor student in the Texas Christian University and is a graduate of Baylor University. She has had successful teaching experience in the public schools and has proven herself of unusual ability and worth in Abilene Christian College. Gentle, kind, pleasant, cultured, Christian in character, she is an inspiration for good.

Mrs. J. P. Sewell, Art and Bible. Sister Sewell is a graduate of Carlton College, and has done work in the Nashville Bible School, Ward Seminary, and under a number of the best art teachers in America. She knows her work and does it well. The only criticism we hear of her is that she is literally wearing herself out in personal care for our girls. They love her as a mother. She watches after and those nagging pains of rheumatism take hold on you again. Begin now to take "Renwar" rheumatic salts, the new scientific formula that drives rheumatism out of the blood and makes you well for keeps. You can't rub rheumatism out any more than you can wish yourself rich. You must remove the cause from the blood. That's what "Renwar" does. Get a bottle to-day—price, fifty cents—and begin taking it at once. Remember, it is guaranteed to give relief or your money back. Sent, postpaid, on receipt of fifty cents. If your druggist cannot supply you, Warner Drug Company, Nashville, Tenn.

DON'T WAIT TILL IT RAINS

"Special" Silk Hose Offer.

To introduce the beautiful "La France" silk hose for ladies and gentlemen, we offer three pairs, 50-cent quality, for only one dollar, postpaid, in the United States. Pure silk from calf to toe, with durable elastic hile top, heel, and toe for long wear. Sizes, 8 to 10½. In white, tan, or black, assorted if desired. Money back promptly if not delighted. La France Silk Store, Box G, Clinton, S. C.

GOOD POSITION
Secured or Your Money Back
If you take the Draughon Training, the training that business men indorse. You can take it at college or by mail. Write to-day DRAUGHON'S PRACTICAL BUSINESS COLLEGE
Box 46 Nashville, Tenn.

FIRM FOUNDATION An eight-page weekly religious paper devoted to the restoration of primitive Christianity. Excels in church news; an able corps of writers; extensively circulated. Subscription price, $1 a year, payable in advance. Special rates for clubs. We believe that every loyal Christian should have the Firm Foundation visit his home.

FIRM FOUNDATION PUBLISHING HOUSE,
Austin, Texas.

Patents Write for "How to Obtain a Patent." List of patent buyers, and inventions wanted. One million dollars in prizes offered for inventions. Send sketch for free opinion of patentability. Our four books sent free.

VICTOR J. EVANS & CO., 743 Ninth, Washington, D. C.

Keep the Babies Fat and Well.

"Mamma's" Dr. Doran's Worm Remedy expels worms whole, alive. Purely vegetable. Bottles, twenty-five cents, by mail. General agent wanted. Write us a letter.

Doran Drug Company, Paducah, Ky.

Pastors: WE publish Books, Pamphlets, Minutes, Sermons, Church Directories, Manuals and reprint books and magazines. Specialists in Church Envelopes. Write us for prices.
419 S. Third St. MAYES PRINTING CO., Inc. Louisville, Ky.

them in every way as girls are watched after in few homes.

Miss Alma Adams, Home Economics and Expression. Miss Adams is a graduate of the Oklahoma College for Women. She knows her work well, and a more earnest, faithful teacher could not be found. She is a loyal, faithful Christian, ready and able to do her part. She had valuable teaching experience before she came to us and has proven her worth in her departments here.

Miss Orben Phillips, Piano and Voice.

This means big and little tents, and we make all kinds. A thousand satisfied users testify to their quality. Let us make you a quotation. No trouble at all.

M. D. & H. L. SMITH COMPANY,
Atlanta, Ga. Dalton, Ga.

Miss Phillips is a graduate of the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music and a private pupil of a number of the leading teachers of America. She had had teaching experience before she came to us. A lovely Christian woman, with a beautiful voice, well trained, she is a teacher and singer of rare quality. Abilene is a city of schools and is a music center of this large section of Texas. It has a number of excellent music teachers and singers. Some of the best talent of the country is brought here. Miss Phillips has rapidly taken her place among the most popular. In its report of one of the recitals of the Abilene Choral Club, recently given, the Abilene Reporter said: "The offerings of the club Tuesday night were, to say the least of the matter, a credit to the city and section, showing that Abilene has among her citizenship some really fine singers. In chorus the club did splendid work, but it really would be right and proper to say that Miss Orben Phillips was easily the star of the evening. She sang no less than five solos, and each won enthusiastic applause from the audience. Her clear, bell-like soprano, rivaling in its scope the best work of Madame Yaw, delighted the hearers. Her first numbers, 'One Fine Day' and 'Lovely Spring,' were sung with an exactness of shading and technique that was wholly pleasing. The singer was presented with a huge bouquet at the end of these numbers. Later on Miss Phillips sang three other numbers—'Morning,' 'Love in Spring-time,' and a 'mammy' song—that were quite as big hits as the others."

In addition to these, next year we will have three strong new men, as follows:

Homer L. Williams, Science and Philosophy. Brother Williams is a graduate of the Trenton (Tenn.) High School, a B.S. graduate of the Nashville Bible School, and is a B.S. and M.A. graduate of Transylvania University. He has had teaching experience, and comes to us highly commended as a Christian scholar and teacher.

Grover C. Morlan, English, and Director of Athletics. Brother Morlan is a graduate of the Jefferson (Iowa) High School; was two years a student of Thorp Spring Christian College; and later received his B.A. degree from Highland Park College, of Des Moines, Iowa. He has taught before and is teaching this year in the Jefferson (Iowa) High School. He is highly spoken of.

Walter L. Thornton, Latin and Greek. Brother Thornton was valedictorian of the 1910 class of the Joshua High School, attended the North Texas State Normal one year and Thorp Spring Christian College three years, graduating with the degree A.B. and B.O. This year he receives the same degrees from Texas Christian University. He is teaching some this year in Texas Christian University, and comes to us highly commended.

We concede to no school anywhere superiority to this faculty from any viewpoint essential to a first-class junior Christian college.

Our Bible work next year will be done as follows: Intermediate (sixth and seventh grades), Sister Sewell; Bible I, Brother Thornton; Bible II, Brother Morlan; Bible III, Brother Williams; Bible A, Brother Speck; and I will teach Bible B, Homiletics, and Church History.

Are You Out of Sorts,

Impatient, melancholy, pessimistic, down on the world? If so, your liver is out of shape. Healthy people look at the world through rosy glasses. Buy a bottle of Plantation Chill and Fever Tonic and Liver Invigorator—price, only fifty cents—and watch your spirits pick up. It cleanses and invigorates your sluggish liver and puts you on your feet again. No arsenic and no calomel. Purely a vegetable compound.

For sale everywhere. Manufactured by Van Vleet-Mansfield Drug Company, Memphis, Tenn.

PRICE-WEBB SCHOOL

A training school for boys. Thorough preparatory course for college. Most healthful section of Middle Tennessee. A school that builds up Christian character and makes manly boys.

Fall Term begins September 6, 1916.

Tuition, $75 for session of thirty-eight weeks. Board at reasonable rates.

For full information, address

E. T. PRICE, Principal, Lewisburg, Tenn.

WINTERSMITH'S CHILL TONIC

Sold for 47 years. For Malaria, Chills & Fever. Also a Fine General Strengthening Tonic.

50c and $1.00 at all Drug Stores.

BOOK AND TRACT PRINTING

WE are especially prepared to set the type, make the plates, and print and bind books of any size, in any style. Give us the approximate number of words in your manuscript, and we will submit a dummy showing the actual size of the finished book, with an estimate of the cost.

Professional Proof Reading and First-class Workmanship Guaranteed

McQUIDDY PRINTING COMPANY

(Publishers of the Gospel Advocate and Religious Books)

317-319 FIFTH AVE., NORTH

NASHVILLE, TENN.

FRECKLES

Now Is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freckles as the prescription othine—double strength—is guaranteed to remove those homely spots.

Simply get an ounce of othine—double strength—from your druggist, and apply a little of it night and morning and you should soon see that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the lighter ones have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than an ounce is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a beautiful clear complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength othine as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.

JOIN THE CRUSADE AGAINST THE HOUSE FLY...

Your Health and Comfort Demand It.

Screens that cover the entire window keep out all the flies and mosquitoes always. You can make the screens yourself.

Kees (Gossett) Hinges make it easy to attach or remove screens or to swing them out to wash windows. No tools or ladder needed.

Write for free booklet and sample set of hinges for trial.

KEES MFG. CO.,
Box 86 Beatrice, Neb.

YOU CAN HAVE 5 YEAR TO PAY

30 Days Free Trial

OUR DIRECT FACTORY TO HOME plan saves you money.

WE PAY THE FREIGHT and ship to you any piano or player piano you select from our catalog.

25 YEARS GUARANTEE on all our pianos and player pianos.

FREE MUSIC LESSONS to all who accept our offer. Write for handsomely illustrated piano catalog and full details of our selling plan.

SCHMOLLER & MUELLER PIANO CO.
Established 1859. Capital and Surplus, $1,000,000
Dept. GA Omaha, Nebraska

Send This Coupon Today

SCHMOLLER & MUELLER PIANO CO.
Dept. GA Omaha, Nebraska.
Send me your Piano Offer and Free Catalog.

Name.....
Address.....

BRISTOL COMMERCIAL COLLEGE.

(Successor to Nixon Commercial College.)

BRISTOL, TENN.

All Commercial Branches. Employment Bureau. Commercial Teachers' Course. Largest and best-equipped Business College in South-west Virginia and East Tennessee. Special discount to those who enter this spring. New catalogue sent free to those interested. Write or call.

Church Chime Bells
Memorial Bells a Specialty.
McShane Bell Foundry Co., Baltimore, Md., U.S.A.

OBITUARIES

On account of the large number of obituary notices coming to the Gospel Advocate the following rules must be observed: Obituaries that do not exceed one hundred and fifty words are published free of charge. When they exceed this limit, one cent will be charged for every additional word. Payment must accompany notice or else it will be reduced to one hundred and fifty words. Poetry will not be printed.

Williams.

Christina Gregory Dance was born on September 2, 1854, west of Trenton, Gibson County, Tenn., in which county she spent her entire life. At the age of twenty-four she was married to Berriman Addison Williams. She reared a family of five boys and two girls, all of whom, together with the husband, survive her. While visiting her sister in Humboldt, Tenn., pneumonia claimed her, on April 3, 1916, after an illness of five days. Sister Williams had suffered patiently for a number of years with stomach trouble, yet death came unexpectedly and was a great shock to her family, relatives, and friends. For forty years she was a consistent member of the Presbyterian Church, but was born into the family of God through baptism on September 9, 1914. Such lovable traits as purity, faithfulness, kindness, patience, and neighborliness characterized her life. We expect to meet her in heaven above. A SON.

sistent member of the church of Christ. This devout sister was perfectly devoted to her family and was ever ready to lend a helping hand in every good thing that was being done. She loved her son-in-law and daughters-in-law seemingly as much as if they had been her own children. She looked well to the ways of her household and worked willingly with her hands to supply home comforts for her family. The law of kindness was on her tongue, and she never withheld counsel from the young and unthoughtful. Sister Milam will be greatly missed in the community, and especially in the home, where she was to be found at all hours during the day and night unless away on business. Interment was made at New Hope, five miles east of McConnell, Tenn.
F. O. HOWELL.

Johnson.

Sister Sallie Johnson was born on March 1, 1856, and died on February 21, 1916, at her home in Lewisburg, Tenn. She was married on July 10, 1901, to Brother D. L. Johnson, who had been married before. His first wife was Squire John Billington's daughter; and by that union were four children born—three boys and one girl. Sister Johnson's maiden name was "Smiley." She was formerly a member of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church. But, after learning "the way of the Lord more perfectly," she, of her own freewill, obeyed the gospel and lived a true Christian. She was truly a helpmeet to Brother Johnson and a mother to his motherless children. I knew her the greater part of her life. We went to school together when young. She was ever ready to help those in need and always stood for what she believed to be right. I would say to Brother Johnson: Grieve not as those who have no hope; your loss is her gain. If we will rely on the rich promises and hold out faithful to the end, we will be with Sallie again, where all is peace, happiness, and joy, to live forever.

MRS. W. H. RILEY.

Fox.

Louise Ella Fox was born on March 23, 1885, and died on March 30, 1916. She was married to Hillen Fox on March 24, 1900. To their union were born seven children, the youngest of whom was three weeks old at the mother's death. Sister Fox accepted Christ as her Savior and obeyed him, together with her husband, twelve years ago, from which time she lived a devout, Christian life to the best of her knowledge, ability, and opportunities. The writer baptized them, together with three other husbands and their wives, in a meeting at Hatler's Chapel, nine miles east of Martin, Tenn. Sister Fox died of tuberculosis after a lingering illness for several months, during which time she had pneumonia. The neighborhood did all that loving hands and tender hearts could to relieve the patient sufferer, but in vain. She told her husband and her friends that she was duly and truly prepared for the ordeal and that she would be asleep in Jesus. Interment was made at Sandy Branch.

F. O. HOWELL.

Allen.

The angel of death has once more stole forth and for its victim has claimed the wife of J. H. Allen. Nora Allen was born on May 21, 1877, and died on March 8, 1916. She was the daughter of D. S. Chandler, of Centerville, Tenn. Although her life on this earth was very short, the few weary years that she stayed here—she lived them all for Christ. She obeyed the gospel when quite young, and through the trials and temptations of this world she never wavered, always looking to Jesus as the author

Milam.

Mrs. J. H. Milam was born on December 24, 1863, and died on April 12, 1916. She was married to Brother Milam on November 13, 1882. To their union were born two girls and four boys, all of whom, except one girl, are living and are grown. Sister Milam was a Methodist in early life, but learned "the way of the Lord more perfectly" and obeyed her Lord in baptism more than twenty years ago, since which time she had lived a con-and finisher of our faith. And now that she is no more, I, her stepson, can say for her as a stepmother that she surpassed all I ever knew. She never gave an unkind word to any one, and I never saw her angry, and throughout her long suffering she never complained, but said always, "Thy will be done." Although we hated to give her up and would have given all to have kept her with us, yet, now that she is no more, we have the greatest consolation in knowing that she is at rest. This we know, for Christ himself said: "Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord from henceforth; Yea, saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labors; and their works do follow them." We shall miss her greatly, I know; but God in his great wisdom saw what was best and the angel of death clasped her in his icy embrace and departed for the silent mansions of the dead, there to await that great morning when all men shall be judged according as their works shall be. She leaves a husband and four children, three brothers, a father, and a number of friends and relatives, to mourn her loss.

CLAY ALLEN.

Jolley.

Elizabeth C. Goldston Jolley was born on February 26, 1836. She was married to James G. Jolley on January 4, 1854, and to this union were born nine children. She is survived by two brothers—Maj. Marion Goldston, of Lebanon, Tenn., and John M. Goldston, of Milford, Texas. Of her own family, four children survive her—Mrs. Emma Layne, W. S. Jolley, J. M. Jolley, and Mrs. Mamie Carlos. She obeyed the gospel in 1856, under the preaching of Brother Sandy E. Jones, and lived a consistent, Christian life till her death. She was a good neighbor, a true friend, a devoted wife, and a loving mother. This term "mother" is the sweetest word in the language. There are not descriptive terms enough in the language to define the word "mother." It is the next word to "God." However illimitable the distance between God and the best of the universe, a mother's love is the brightest shadow of the infinite affection that beams from the heart of God. "If there be aught," says a beautiful author, "surpassing human deed or word or thought, it is a mother's love;" and what is true of a mother's love must be true of the mother herself. Sister Jolley has played her part here below and has gone to join the blood-washed throng of the people of God. After a short service by Brother Klingman and the writer, her remains were laid to rest in the family burying grounds.

GEORGE W. FARMER.

Murdock.

Brother A. O. Murdock was born on August 18, 1854, and died on August 7, 1915. In early life he was married to Miss Alice Kimmons, of Bedford County, Tenn., but lived for a number of years in Marshall County. They obeyed the gospel at the same time in 1877, under the preaching of Brother R. W. Officer, and identified themselves with the congregation at Riggs' Cross Roads. After their removal to Bedford County they united with the HOT WATER AND "ANURIC" BEFORE MEALS—AND HEALTH.

All people in America, and especially those who are past middle age, are prone to eat too much meat, and in consequence deposit lime salts in their arteries, veins, and joints. They often suffer from twinges of rheumatism or lumbago, sometimes from gout, swollen hands or feet. Such people are not always able to exercise sufficiently in the outdoor air or drink enough pure water in order to sweat freely and excrete impurities through the skin. Dr. Pierce has conducted experiments and thoroughly tested a uric-acid solvent at his Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute which he is convinced is many times more potent than lithia—this he named "Anuric." It can be had at almost all drug stores by simply asking for Dr. Pierce's Anuric for kidneys or backache. It will overcome such conditions as rheumatism, dropsical swellings, cold extremities, scalding and burning urine, and sleeplessness due to constant need of getting out of bed at night.

Our grandmothers have told our mothers and our mothers have in turn instructed us that in case of sickness resort to Dr. Pierce's dependable household prescriptions. These medicines as put up for sale by druggists have never been recommended as "cure-alls," but only as superior remedies for certain common and easily recognized diseases. Had these medicines been adapted to all classes and forms of chronic diseases, there would have been no necessity for organizing a competent staff of expert physicians and surgeons, to act in the treatment of difficult, obscure, and complicated cases of chronic diseases; as Dr. Pierce maintains in his Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute. Of his home remedies the most widely-known are his "Favorite Prescription" for womanly troubles and run-down conditions peculiar to the womanly sex; his "Golden Medical Discovery," the greatest of all herbal system tonics and vitalizers, for stomach, liver, and blood disorders; as well as his "Pleasant Pellets," the tiny, tonic laxatives, overcoming constipation and cleansing the system of poisons and accumulations in the bowels.

A NEW SONG BOOK ESPECIALLY FOR THE CHURCH OF CHRIST

BY ELDER WILL W. SLATER

It is entirely scriptural in teaching, as Brother Slater had all the songs examined by Elder Joe H. Blue and others, so that nothing has been used that is not in accord with the Scriptures. It is especially adapted for meeting work. "THE CHRISTIAN HYMNAL" is the name Order to-day. Satisfaction guaranteed. Thirty cents per copy; $3 per dozen; $17 per hundred, prepaid.

SEND ALL ORDERS TO EUREKA PUBLISHING COMPANY
STIGLER, OKLAHOMA

MONEY IN PIGEONS

Make Your Back Yard Profitable

THE demand for squabs in the Northern, Eastern and Southern markets has never been supplied, because pigeon raising as a business is comparatively new. Buy a half dozen pair of select birds, fence in a small portion of your back yard and watch them go to work. Success is easy. They raise from eight to fifteen pairs of squabs a year. Your squabs and fancy birds will bring handsome returns. You will actually make money in a hitherto useless part of your back yard. Pigeon raising is not a fad or fancy. It is a profitable business. Let us start you right. Our breeders are the best, and raised from prize winning parents. We will furnish you with the birds and teach you how to raise them, and you will reap a handsome profit with a very little outlay. Thousands are taking advantage of this same opportunity. Write to-day for our literature on pigeon raising as a money making proposition, or better still, write us to send you a few pair of Belgian Carneaux at $3.00 per pair, White Swiss Mondaines at $5.00 per pair, White Kings at $2.50 per pair, or White Maltese at $4.00 per pair. Our birds are all guaranteed. Your money back if after two months you are not satisfied with their work. Better prices on larger orders. Write to-day and get the pick of the flock.

CAROLINA PIGEON PLANT,
Pen Series G— CLINTON, S. C.

MILLER'S ANTISEPTIC OIL KNOWN AS

Snake Oil

WILL POSITIVELY RELIEVE PAIN IN THREE MINUTES.

Try it right now for rheumatism, neuralgia, lumbago, sore, stiff, and swollen joints; pains in the head, back, and limbs; corns, bunions, etc. After one application, pain disappears as if by magic.

A never-failing remedy, used internally and externally for coughs, colds, croup, sore throat, diphtheria, and tonsillitis.

This oil is conceded to be the most penetrating remedy known. Its prompt and immediate effect in relieving pain is due to the fact that it penetrates to the affected parts at once. As an illustration, pour ten drops on the thickest piece of sole leather, and it will penetrate this substance through and through in three minutes.

Accept no substitute. This great oil is golden-red color only. Manufactured only by the Herb Juice Medicine Company, Jackson, Tenn. Every bottle guaranteed—25 and 50 cents a bottle—or money refunded. At leading druggists, or sent, postpaid, on receipt of price.

JACOBS
&
COMPANY

SPECIAL ADVERTISING
AGENTS

PRINTERS
DESIGNERS
PHOTO ENGRAVERS
ELECTROTYPERS

Catalogues
— a Specialty

HOME OFFICE
CLINTON, S.C.

GOSPEL TENTS

Our Prices Would Interest You.
Ask Us To Quote.

Fulton Bag And Cotton Mills,
Atlanta, Ga.

New York, Dallas, St. Louis, New Orleans

BOOK OF POINTS
AND TESTIMONIES for helping Christians or Workers. Settling
Bible Arguments, and answering objections or Excuses. Leading and taking part in Meetings. Giving Testimony.
Better understanding of hard places in Doctrines, etc. Full of practical suggestions.
IT WILL HELP YOU.
Cloth, 25c; Morocco, 50c. Agts. wanted.
Pentecostal Publishing Co., Louisville, Ky.

YOU CAN AFFORD Familiar Songs of the Gospel (No. 1 or 2).
Bound or shape notes: 25
per hundred, samples 5c each. 50 songs, words and music.
E. A. K. HACKETT, FORT WAYNE, INDIANA

congregation at Richmond, and, although living several miles away, their places were rarely vacant even in the most disagreeable weather. Brother Murdock did not seek publicity, but was a faithful and efficient elder, never shirking duty or responsibility. We shall not soon forget his words of kindly admonition and wholesome advice when presiding at the Lord's table. He had no children, but reared two orphaned nephews and a niece, Mrs. Will McConnell, who tenderly cared for him after the death of his first wife on January 12, 1914. On April 14, 1915, he was married to Miss Lillian Smalling, of Bellbuckle, Tenn., who survives him. While their married life was of short duration, she testifies that it was long enough for her to find him to be one of the noblest and best of men. While never of very robust health, no one even suspected the seriousness of his condition until it became evident that tuberculosis was doing its deadly work. After funeral services, conducted by Brethren J. D. Floyd and E. L. Cambron, his body was laid to rest in Willow Mount Cemetery, at Shelbyville, Tenn., to await the resurrection morn, to meet his blessed Savior "when the roll is called up yonder."

E. A. DAVIDSON.

Brown.

Sister America Brown, wife of Hamilton Brown, fell asleep in Jesus on March 16, 1916. She was seventy-seven years, six months, and nineteen days old, and had been a Christian for more than thirty years. Under circumstances which, no doubt, would have discouraged many, she kept the faith. Living in a section where Methodism has been the ruling religion, with no church of Christ near, her opportunities were limited for assembling on the first day of the week for the teaching, fellowship, breaking of bread, and the prayers; yet her faith never faltered, but, like her sainted mother under the same surroundings, she continued true to the end. She lived to see and enjoy some of the fruits of her faithfulness. Great was her joy when, in September, 1914, her aged husband obeyed the gospel. Her life, though isolated from the first-day assembly, has not been in vain, but it was as a light that cannot be hid. In August, 1914, Brother Marion Harris and the writer held a missionary meeting at the schoolhouse near her home. At that time she and a daughter and two or three other women were the only members of the church of Christ in that community. At this meeting more were added, including her son-in-law; later her husband and granddaughter were added; others have been taught "the way of the Lord more perfectly," and left the doubtful for the sure way; and still other Christian families have moved in; and before Sister Brown went to her final rest she had the satisfaction of assembling near home on the first day of the week to break bread in memory of our Lord. Hers was a life of the most beautiful devotion to duty. A fitting tribute to her is quoted from Prov. 31: 10-13: "Who can find a virtuous woman? for her price is far above rubies. The heart of her husband doth safely trust in her, so that he shall have no need of spoil. She will do him good and not evil all the days of his life. She seeketh wool, and flax, and worketh willingly with her hands." "Blessed are they that do his commandments, that they may have right to the tree of life, and may enter in through the gates into the city."

JOHN H. ARMS.

IS EPILEPSY CONQUERED?

New Jersey Physician Said to Have Many Cures to His Credit.

Red Bank, N. J.—Special advices from every direction fully confirm previous reports that the remarkable treatment for epilepsy being administered by the consulting physician of the Kline Laboratories, of this city, is achieving wonderful results. Old and stubborn cases have been greatly benefited and many patients claim to have been entirely cured.

Persons suffering from epilepsy should write at once to Kline Laboratories, 147 Broad Street, Red Bank, N. J., for a supply of the remedy, which is being distributed gratuitously.

Oxford Bibles

Printed with

Very Large Type

For those who need an extra large type on account of failing sight or old age, this series of Oxford Bibles has no equal.

Weigh Only 29 Oz.

Most large-type Bibles are very heavy, but these Bibles are extremely light because they are printed on the famous

Oxford India Paper

Oxford Pica Square Bibles

Size 7 1/2 x 5 1/2 inches
Only 1 1/2 inches thick

Specimen of Type.

2 He only is my rock a salvation; he is my defe

No. 01561x Alaska Seal, limp, leather lined $8.50
01563x Alaska Seal, divinity circuit, leather lined, silk sewed 9.00
01565x Levant Morocco,
divinity circuit,
leather lined, silk
sewed 13.00

Order from

McQUIDDY PRINTING COMPANY,

Nashville, Tennessee

Subscribe for the Bible Study
Helper. Sixty cents per year.

Bread Alone.

BY JOHN T. POE.

"Man cannot live by bread alone." "No," says one, "I am bound to have some meat and a few vegetables along with the bread. Just dry bread is not enough for me." But that is not what the Savior meant. Such an application as that comes from "scrapping the Scriptures." That is not all Jesus said about it. He said more in the same sentence. If we read on, he tells us what he means, and in the same sentence. Listen: "Man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of [or, comes from] the mouth of God." The bread we eat will sustain natural life for a while, but only for a while. Men who depend upon the bread they eat to sustain and perpetuate life find, at last, that it will not do it. They must die at last.

Then bread alone has proven a failure. Man does not want to die; he wants to live on. Jesus came into the world here to tell us just how we might live forever and never really die. Along with our daily bread, which sustains natural life, we are to observe and do everything that God commands. This will give us that spiritual life which never dies. "I came," said Jesus, "that they might have life." He came to tell us how we might live forevermore, and the loving Father sent him to do that very thing. This natural life we have soon passes away. Then, how important that we should possess that life which is eternal, and which comes through obedience to God! We are given the promise of eternal life on our obedience to the gospel. The old life of sin is forgiven and we are in possession of the promise of eternal life. For God will give to those who seek, by a patient continuance in well-doing, glory, honor, and immortality—eternal life; and man may thus live forever. Obedience to the gospel, through which we come into the pardon of past sins and which introduces us into the body of Christ, the church, does not give us eternal life, but the promise of eternal life, conditioned upon a faithful, godly life in Christ. Faith, repentance, and baptism put us in Christ, but not into heaven. That is attained by a patient continuance in well-doing—in walking closely after God's commands. Then, verily, some may be lost who once had the promise of eternal life; yea, many will, because they cease to observe and do the life that God commands. And these are they who will knock at the door of the marriage feast and will not be admitted.

Notes from North Carolina.

BY W. L. REEVES.

On April 23 we began a tent meeting in the southern part of the city of Winston-Salem, which continued eleven days. This was by far too short a time to run a tent meeting in a city, but we had a debate which demanded the use of the tent and both Brother Butler and myself, so we had to close the meeting too soon. Only one was baptized during this meeting, which was the first ever held in that part of the city.

The debate was held at Ketner's, a church seven miles from the city. It did much good for the cause of Christ. Brother W. J. Butler contended for the one body, the church, while Mr. G. L. Bohannon contended that the church of the New Testament was abolished by divine authority in A.D. 120. Rather a peculiar contention, don't you think? He also contended that the Lord's Supper and water baptism were abolished about the same time that he contended the church ceased. To say that the truth prevailed gloriously as presented by Brother Butler does not exaggerate the case. I moderated for Brother Butler; a Mr. Jarvis moderated for Mr. Bohannon. We two chose a third moderator. I am proud to say that the good done for the cause by this debate went far beyond my most sanguine expectations.

Our meeting at Warner's Chapel began on May 14 and closed on May 21. Measles and whooping cough hindered the progress of this meeting. One man, a drummer, from the city of Winston-Salem, was present on Lord's day, the last day of the meeting, and made the good confession and was immediately buried with Christ in baptism.

