as Christ through the pen of inspiration here demands, unity among us all would be as the "precious cintment" and as grand as the "dews of Hermon." (Ps. 133: 3.) Nothing is more commendable than unity and peace; for "there the Lord commanded the blessing, even life for evermore." It is true that our eternal destiny is hinged upon unity.

No human body can be so divided that both parts can live. So it is with a congregation of brethren. The sound part will live if the unsound part be cut off, but the unsound part (the factionist) most certainly will not live. So let us all be very careful as to how we act in the question of division and strife among members of the body of Christ.

When Is a Man Old?

He was a graduate of a great American university. Most of his life had been spent as a teacher. For two years he had been a member of the upper house of the legislature of a Western State, and against great opposition he had succeeded in getting through a bill which reorganized the State's educational system. He was not rich, but he had some property, which, however, was pretty well tied up in rather unproductive investments.

Now the days of his activity were over. Fourscore years had passed over his head. He was living alone in a quiet country village. His shoulders were stooped. He rested heavily upon his cane as he walked. Creeping paralysis caused his hands to tremble so that he could no longer pass the bread and the cup on sacramental Sundays in the church of which he was an elder.

Surely here was an old man; so far as the body went, yes. But real age is not a matter of years or of physical strength. Some men are actually older at forty than he was at eighty. Of him the remark of Professor James, "Most men are old fogles at twenty-five," never was or could be true. With his tottering steps and failing sight, this man was young—young because mentally and spiritually he was alert and growing.

It was men of this type whom Longfellow celebrated in his familiar poem, "Morituri Salutamus," written to commemorate the fiftieth anniversary of the graduation of his college class from Bowdoin. After rehearing the splendid achievements of some men past threescore and ten, he remarks:

> These are indeed exceptions; but they show How far the gulf stream of our youth may flow Into the arctic regions of our lives,

Where little else than life itself survives. For age is opportunity no less Than youth itself, though in another dress, And as the evening twilight fades away.
The sky is filled with stars invisible by day.

A great deal has been said of late years about the dead line in the ministry and in other professions and occupations. What is the dead line? It is the line beyond which a person ceases to grow. For the growing man there is no dead line. He never becomes old. But the minute a man ceases to grow, whatever his age, that minute he has reached the dead line, that minute he is properly to be called an old man.

Lowell said on one occasion that he expected to die of incurable youth. And that is the way the end ought to come to every one. He ought to keep on growing, until as he builds more stately mansions for his soul, as the swift seasons roll, at length he leaves, like the chambered nautilus, his outgrown shell by life's unending sea.

But how may one know whether he is growing and that he has therefore yet not been overtaken by old age? There are three tests which we may apply to our lives without being guilty of any morbid self-examination.

First of all, if a person's face is toward the past rather than toward the future, he is growing old. It is an evidence of senility to look backward regretfully rather than forward in hope. Rabbi Ben Ezra could never become really old so long as he could say:

Grow old along with me, The best is yet to be.

On the other hand, actual old age speaks through one of our poets when he says:

I remember, I remember the fir trees dark and tall; I used to think their slender tops came close against the sky.

It was my childish ignorance, but now 'tis little joy To know I'm farther off from heaven than when I was a boy.

A second test of the age of a person's spirit is this: "Is he satisfied or dissatisfied with himself and his achievements?" If one is satisfied with himself, it is a sure sign that his soul is decrepit. Laplace, the astronomer, was still at work when death "caught up with him" at seventy-eight. He died crying: "What we know is nothing; what we do not know is immense." Laplace died young because he was dissatisfied, because he felt that he had only begun to learn and to do. If, on the other hand, a person is intellectually content, if he points proudly to a diploma on the walls of his office as evidence that he is educated, then mental decay has overtaken him.

The third test of how old a person is may be put this way: "Are you afraid of new ideas and new ways of doing things?" If so, you have reached the dead line. A common phrase, borrowed from politics, is "stand-patter." A stand-patter is one who has jogged on so long in the same old rut of government and business and education and church life that he thinks any other path would be a menace to the world. One of the characters in a modern novel is a minister with a "closed mind." There are ministers with closed minds, and there are men in every walk of life with closed minds. If we belong to this group, if we are quite lacking in the pioneer spirit, if we fail to realize that "time makes ancient good uncouth," then, whatever our age, we belong to the old fogies of whom Professor James spoke.

And yet if by these three tests a person finds that he is growing old, he need not be discouraged.

"Nothing is too late Till the tired heart shall cease to palpitate.".

The process of growth may be resumed. Some powers naturally decline with advancing years, but, like Paul, one should ever press on and gain a steadily increasing enrichment of personality.

But how shall a person grow? Let me quote from one of the ripest and most aspiring teachers of America, Dr. Arthur S. Hoyt, of Auburn Theological Seminary. Hoyt is speaking especially to ministers, but his words in their main import will apply to every one; "Growth is gained by fidelity to the daily tasks. To hold oneself sacredly to the hours of study, to bend mind and heart to it as the supreme task; to maintain the quiet of the soul unbroken by the rush and clamor of material things; to meditate upon life and truth until the way shall be light and duty clear; to have the moments of chosen and conscious fellowship with God, spirit meeting with spirit; to practice the ways of increasing friendship and servicethese common paths of duty are the paths of the larger life. In such work the noblest powers are engaged and the noblest growth attained."-James Elmer Russell, in Christian Advocate.

It is not work that kills men; it is worry. Work is healthy; you can hardly put more on a man than he can bear. Worry is rust upon the blade. It is not the revolution that destroys the machinery, but the friction.—Beecher.

The Sinfulness of Sin.

Paul was reared a Pharisee according to the strictest sect. He belonged to a class of people who believed that salvation must be attained through an absolute keeping of the Old Testament law. In his actual experience, however, he found that the law that was given to lead to life rather led to death.

He felt that the severe restraints of the Old Testament law provoked the old nature and led to disobedience. The tempter told Eve that God was too severe, that his command was so drastic that he would not enforce it. "Ye shall not surely die." But God himself knows that as soon as the fruit is eaten "your eyes shall be opened and you shall be as gods, knowing good and evil." Thus God's command was made to appear unreasonable and unkind. When we lose our respect for the law, our contempt rushes us headlong to disobedience. The law which was given in kindness to restrain us from sin is used as the instrument that works our death.

On the other hand, if we keep our respect for the law, then we find its ideal so high that it discourages us. We give up in despair. The law which was given to lead to life was so high that we could not attain to its standard of perfection. Every conscientious soul struggling to find inward peace through keeping of the law finds himself between the two horns of this terrible dilemma-he is gored to death, on the one hand, by disrespect of the law, or, on the other hand, by despair. The struggling soul finds an ever-increasing sense of guilt. "The commandment," says Paul, "which was unto life, this I found to be unto death: for sin, finding occasion, through the commandment beguiled me, and through it slew me." (Rom. 7: 10, 11.) Is such a law sin? Not a bit of it. The law itself is hely and righteous and good. Sin took occasion through the law to deceive and kill. It took something that is good and made of it an instrument of death.

By working death through something that is good, sin discloses its true nature—its exceeding sinfulness. It takes that which is good and makes of it a curse. The glory of the good is that it takes the poison of serpents and converts it into a medicine that renews. But the shamefulness of sin is that it takes the rich-colored and fragrant petals of the rose and grinds them into a poison that kills. It takes the beneficent forces of nature, the rich possibilities of human life, the noble passions of humanity, and changes them into poisoned instruments of death. In this lies the extreme sinfulness of sin.

We have a field of ripened grain. It is capable of being put to many uses. Through the digestive and assimilative power of the human body that grain may be transformed into muscles with which a man labors for his wife and children, or into liquor that makes their life a curse. It may become food for the delicate tissues of a brain from which go forth thought impulses that rule the world, or, if touched by sin, it may enrage the brain and lead to murder and all ungodliness. That food which might strengthen the walls of a heart that beats with loving impulses, if controlled by sin, may beget murderous feelings that result in sending a piece of lead through another's heart. Herein is revealed the true nature of sin. It takes a food that God has given to support human life and turns it into an instrument that alloys.

The iron ore that is being lifted from the mine may be shaped into shafts that turn the wheels of industry or into murderous guns. It may be made into pruning hooks or into two-edged swords. The cotton that looks so white and pure as it opens and bleaches under our Southern sun may be worked into clothing for a half billion backs. Yet this same cotton, when sin has worked up international batred, may be dipped into a solution of nitric and supphuric acids and formed into a powerful smokeless explosive which, packed into a torpede, destroys a floating palace at sea with its resultant loss in human life. A good thing turned to a frightful use. Herein lies the exceeding sinfulness of sin—it takes that which is good and makes of it a curse.

The desire for food is given to protect life. Hunger and thirst are gentle lashes that nature uses to make us provide for our physical needs. Yet when appetite is surrendered to sin the very instinct that should lead to health and vigor rather makes of us gluttons and drunkards. With lowered physical resistance, the body is an easy victim to disease and death.

To perpetuate the race and to nourish high ideals, God has given to us an instinct for sex companionship. All the joys that gather about the home are in some way related to the mysterious force of sexual friendship. The tie that binds man and woman together is so inviolable, so sacred, that the New Testament uses it as a type of the bond that unites Christ and his church. Even heaven itself is pictured as a home, and God is called a Father and Christ is called our Brother. Yet these metaphors would be meaningless to us but for the holy and inspiring influence of the home-an institution that owes its exist ence to sex friendship. But if this relation lets the shadow of sin pass over it, the result is a picture of indescribable blackness and sin. The same instinct that makes a heaven of home and home a picture of heaven, when perverted by sin, pulls down to hell and makes its victim to wallow in the filth and slime of the bottomless pit. Herein lies the extreme sinfulness of sin-it takes that which ought to promote purity and happiness and makes of it an agent of corruption and death; it takes that which ought to give us wings that help to lift to heaven and to God, and chains to us weights that drag down to the underworld.-H. D. Johnson, in Christian Index.

Intercession.

O, pray for me!
My faith is feeble, and my light is dim;
God will uphold us, if we look to him;
He knows our weakness—yea, our Father cares—
Yet, friend, I need thy prayers.

Wilt pray for me? Life is so difficult, and 'neath its load We bend and falter on the weary road. Our Savior say'st thou, every sorrow shares? Yet, friend, I need thy prayers.

O, pray for me!
And if thou dost, I think that I shall know
And feel such blessedness as long ago,
When one I lov'd and lost his child did bear
Upon the wings of prayer.

O, pray for me!
Thy lamp has been so bright, and burned so long
That thou canst help another soul along
By intercession—yea, our Father hears—Sends answer to thy prayers.
—Selected.

RELIEF FUND

"Whose stoppeth his ears at the cry of the poor, he also shall cry, but shall not be heard."

Church at Coal City, Ind$ 6	.62
Mrs. H. M. McRae, Rockmart, Ga	.00
Mrs. B. P. Sloan, Humboldt, Tenn 1	.00
Church at Smyrna, Tenn 81
"A Sister," and her Sunday-school class, Fountain
Creek Tenn	:25

In sending contributions, be sure and state whether they are intended for the Home Orphans' Fund, the Armenian and Syrian Fund, or the Poland Fund. I should be glad if more of the contributions were designated for use in providing for orphans in this country, since there are constant appeals from destitute families close to us. Make all checks and money orders payable to A. B. Lipscomb, who will forward them to the proper commissioners.

The Traveling Carnival Curse.

BY O. R. MILLER.

(State Superintendent of the New York Civic League and Editor of The Reform Bulletin.)

The traveling carnivals, now operating in every part of the United States, are, we believe, among the chief contributing causes to the gambling craze now sweeping all over our country like a great devastating scourge.

In our long experience in fighting these evils we have never known of a traveling carnival company which was not largely a combination of gamblers and lewd women. The demoralizing effect of such carnivals is seldom realized by the good people of the town. The disastrous results of one of these carnivals in a town for a week cannot be eradicated by the best efforts of the churches in a whole year.

Why do these traveling carnivals always come to a city or town, as they do, under the auspices of some local organization? Why do they not come on their own merits, like a circus or theatrical company? Why do their advance agents always look up the officers of some local popular fraternal or other organization, under whose auspices they arrange to come and to which they give either a specified cash sum or a percentage of the receipts—as small as possible?

Ostensibly they come under such local auspices in order to enlist the interest of more local people who will help to make the carnival a financial success. But circuses and other traveling shows do not have to give up part of their receipts to some local organization in order to make their appearance in a town a financial success.

The real reason why traveling carnival companies always come to a town under the auspices of some local popular organization is because these carnival companies all violate one or more sections of the State laws which prohibit lotteries, games of chance, gambling, and indecent shows, and they need the influence of some local organization to protect them from police interference.

Three-fourths or more of the various devices used at these carnivals to induce people to spend their money are nothing but plain, raw lotteries and games of chance. There are usually a score or more of tents or booths devoted to lotteries or gambling in some form, such as paddle, spindle, and roulette wheels, and a great variety of gambling devices on which people place their money, taking a chance to win one of the prizes offered.

Many carnivals have a special tent or a special carcalled by them a "privileged car"—devoted to gambling, to which the professional gamblers connected with the carnivals invite men by day and by night and fleece them our of their money.

From the standpoint of local business, these carnivals are not profitable. They bring little or no money to the business men of the town, but they take large sums from the town when they leave, often taking money spent by people who have not paid their local bills.

But a more serious matter even than the lotteries and sambling at these carnivals is the indecent shows given in a tent "for men only" by lowd women, sometimes absolutely nude and at other times almost nude. It would seem as though the very announcement of such a show ought to be enough to condemn it in the minds of all decent people. We should think even "liberal-minded" police officials would not tolerate for a moment such an outrage upon morality.

The uniform testimony concerning these women shows is that they are given by immoral and diseased women, and that in many cases these women room in tents on the carnival ground. They do direct personal soliciting of men, not only in the tent during the shows, but at other times of the day and night. Some of the women sell nude pictures of themselves, and they receive men callers all the rest of the night after the carnival closes, which is usually about midnight, and frequently they or their confederates rob their victims of their cash and jewelry.

These carnivals leave behind a shocking aftermath of venereal diseases. A few weeks after a carnival left one well-known town of about four thousand population in New York State the local physicians treated more than a hundred cases of such diseases among the young men of the town, contracted from the carnival women during the week it was there. Yet many of these young men will become the future husbands of the pure, trusting young women of that town. What untold sorrow, pain, and domestic tragedies await them!

One carnival stayed two weeks in a certain Pennsylvania town of about four thousand population, and some time after it left there a local Christian physician made a careful canvass of every physician in town and got an exact record of the number of cases of venereal diseases that each was called upon to treat as a result of the carnival, and there were three hundred and forty-two cases! And the saddest phase of the whole tragedy in this town was that many of the victims were boys from fourteen to nine-teen years of age!

The reports in the daily papers indicate that in many cases a local crime wave follows a visit of one of these carnivals to a town. In some cases the Board of Health of a city has ferbidden any more carnivals to come to their city, because, as they stated frankly, the carnivals always leave a trail of venereal diseases behind them.

Many cities and towns are shutting out these carnivals altogether, either by a city ordinance or by an order of the mayor or the police department. They have learned by past experience that even when the carnival managers sign a contract to have no lotteries, gambling, or indecent shows, that they always go ahead and put on all or part of these things, ignoring their signed contract.

The above indictment of traveling carnivals may seem to be overdrawn to those not familiar with the subject; but the writer of this article knows whereof he speaks, for in his fight against these carnivals during the last six or seven years he has visited many of them and seen things done at these women shows a description of which would be unprintable, or, if printed, it could not be sent through the mails. They are shocking beyond all expression and thoroughly demoralizing to every young man who attends them—and thousands are attending them every day.

These carnivals are ordinarily held in the city or town park, or in a vacant open lot, or out at the edge of town; but at this time of year they usually succeed in getting into a great many county and agricultural fairs and run a demoralizing midway performance, so that their blighting influence extends all through the agricultural fair season of September and October. An increasing number of these carnivals are also being held in the winter time as well as in the summer and fall—in the winter, in the North, being held in large halls in cities and villages. Hence, their demoralizing influence is coming to be felt the whole year round throughout the entire country.

Every friend of decency, law and order, and of good citizenship should do everything possible to prevent permission being given to have such a carnival come to their town; but if they are permitted to come, they should be carefully watched, and the illegal and demoralizing features suppressed.

The New York Civic League, Albany, N. Y., has gathered and published much valuable information concerning these traveling carnivals, copies of which it will be glad to send free, upon application, to any friend of purity and of young men who may be interested in helping to prevent the coming of a carnival to his community, or to have its evil features suppressed if it should come.

Home Reading

Whitle and Her Sky Chicken.

One day in early June, Elmer Wharton and his sister, Ruth, went out to feed Whitie and her family of eleven little chicks.

White was dusting herself in the middle of the road, which Ruth had warned her not to do on account of the automobiles; and when she saw the children coming she called loudly to the eleven white chickens, and all of them came hurrying into the yard. Suddenly Whitie stopped and acted very queerly. She fluttered round with her wings outstretched, uttering strange cries and looking up into the sky.

Elmer and Ruth could not understand what she meant, but the eleven white chickens were quick enough to understand. They knew that it meant danger, and they darted to Whitie's side and gathered under her wings.

Then Elmer understood.

"It's a hawk, Ruth! Look! Look!" he cried, pointing upward.

Ruth looked, and saw a large bird with a hooked beak just above them.

"Go away!" she screamed. "You shall not have our chickens!"

Elmer shouted, too, and waved his hat; and the hawk, which had swooped very close to the ground, suddenly changed its flight, with a great fluttering, and mounted upward again.

As the hawk rose, something fell to the ground close beside the children, but in their excitement they did not notice what it was.

Whitie was as quick to know that the danger was over as she had been to see it coming in the first place, and before the hawk was out of sight, she was cheerfully clucking to her family, and they were all eagerly waiting for the dinner that the children had brought.

Scarcely had Elmer begun to feed them when he exclaimed: "Why, I thought that all of Whitie's chickens were white!"

"Of course they are!" said Ruth; and then she exclaimed: "But there is a yellow one!"

"And there are twelve instead of eleven!" said Elmer, more and more excited, "Where did that new one come from?"

Sure enough—where could the little yellow chicken have come from? There were no other flocks of chickens on the place, and the nearest neighbor lived a quarter of a mile away. The children looked hard to make sure that their eyes were not playing tricks on them, and they thought and thought.

"I know!" Ruth said, at last. "The hawk brought it! Don't you remember that we saw something fall?"

Of course Elmer remembered then; but it was not easy to believe that a little chicken, caught up by a hawk and carried far through the air, could be as sound and happy as that little yellow fellow appeared to be.

Just then Mr. Wharton came from the field, and when he heard the story he said: "No doubt Ruth is right. The hawk was not satisfied with one chicken, and tried to get another. You frightened it so that it dropped the one it already had. It was too greedy, you see."

And that is the way the little yellow chicken—they called it the "sky chicken" from that day—joined Whitle's family. It had suffered no harm from the talons of the hawk, although the journey must have been a long one, for Elmer and Ruth could never find out where it had belenged. Whitle always treated it as one of her own brood. Perhaps she never knew that she had an extra member in her family, although, even if a hen cannot count, she really ought to know a yellow chicken from a white one.

And now that the "sky chicken" has grown to be a handsome young rooster, with a very red comb and a strong voice, Ruth says: "I think the 'sky chicken' puts on airs because he has flown so much higher than any other chicken in the whole town!"—Lutheran.

* * *

Rob's Silver Dollar.

There were some trees that Rob was allowed to climb on grandpa's farm and some that grandma said must wait until his legs grew another inch or two. But the old apple tree in the corner of the cow lot was our little boy's favorite tree. The branches were low and easy to reach, and the crotches were wide and flat and made good seats; and it was quite out of sight of the house, so that Rob could easily play being wrecked on a desert island.

One bright June day, as he sat in one of the crotches of this old tree, Rob heard the strangest sound. Was it a fire roaring? There was no fire in sight. Was it a train? You could not hear the train from the cow lot. Was it thunder? It was too soft and too steady for thunder.

Presently Rob leaned far back; and there on the other side of the tree, on the lowest branch, was what looked like a huge hunch of grapes, with every grape alive. Rob had never seen a swarm of bees before, but grandpa had told him that when the hive got too full they chose a queen and sent off a new family to set up housekeeping for itself. Grandpa had been watching for a swarm from one of his hives, so that he could catch it before it got away to the woods; and now here it was.

Rob was good and scared, you may be sure, and at first he thought he would keep still and let the bees go. But would that be treating grandpa right? So the short legs climbed very softly and slowly down the other side from the bees and set out for the house on a mighty run. And soon a nice new hive, with a little molasses and water sprinkled on its doorway, had been put under the apple tree to attract the swarm's polleemen, or couriers, and they had taken possession of their new dwelling.

Grandpa said that swarm was worth five dollars to him, and Rob had earned one of them for the pocket of his own short trousers.—Elizabeth P. Allen, in Sunshine.

0 0 0

Houses and Homes.

The walls of a house may be builded of wood; Its foundations, of brick or of stone; But a genuine home is an exquisite thing, For it's builded of heart throbs alone.

The price of a house may be reckoned at once
And paid with a handful of gold;
But the price of a home very few can compute,
And that price they have never yet told.

The rooms of a house may be stately and grand; Their adornment, a triumph of art; But beauty of home is the final result Of the tell of an unselfish heart.

A house may be burned, may be sold or exchanged, Nor the loss of one's peace interfere; But the loss of a home—how it crushes the heart! For our homes we all love and revere.

Of houses a man may possess many scores,
Yet his poverty lead to despair;
But an honorable man in a home of his own,
Must be counted a true millionaire,
—James H. Skiles, in Congregationalist,

AT HOME AND ABROAD

W. Claude Hall reports a good meeting at Blytheville,

H. W. Wrye will hold the meeting for the church at Pikeville, Tenn.

Andrew Perry is in a meeting at Pleasant Hill, in Wayne County, Ill.

Our first report from A. G. Freed's meeting at Sparta, Tenn., reads: "Meeting excellent; attendance fine."

A baptism followed the Sunday-evening service at Russell Street Church, this city.

Writing from High Bridge, Ky., R. A. Craig says: "We are having a glorious meeting here, and expect to do much good."

- E. O. Coffman, of Lawrenceburg, Tenn., closed a week's meeting at North Carolina, Ala., on August 28, with thirty-four additions.
- J. E. Wainwright reports the "best meeting of the year" at Nash, Texas. He is now at Fenter, Texas, for a twelve-days' meeting.
- T. H. Matheson writes from Guymon, Okla., August 30: "I will continue the meeting here for another week at least. Nine additions to date."
- J. T. Harris, of Lawrenceburg, Tenn., passed through Nashville last Saturday on his way to Three Forks, Ky., where he is now engaged in a meeting.
- N. W. Proffitt is in a good meeting with the Twentysecond Avenue congregation, in Nashville. He will begin with the Sixth Avenue congregation next Sunday.
- S. A. Archie writes to tell us that there are fourteen members at Trumann, Ark. He would like to correspond with Christians relative to locating in that section.

Gilbert A. Johnson, colored, held a six-days' meeting at Spring Creek, in Overton County, Tenn., "where the gospel had never been preached," and baptized six persons.

Floyd M. Edwards, of Chillicothe, Mo., in a letter of September 1, says: "Just closed a good meeting here, with nine additions. I go to Iowa for two meetings soon."

- G. W. Riggs closed a meeting at Riggs Cross Roads on September 2. There were two baptisms. He is now in a meeting with the Oakwood congregation, at Carbondale, Tenn.
- J. S. Trotter held a meeting of ten days' duration at New Liberty, Tenn., with good interest throughout; three baptisms. He is announced to begin a meeting at Fort Henry, Tenn., next Lord's day.
- John T. Ramsey, the colored evangelist, is holding some very successful meetings in the Lone Star State. There were twelve additions at Caldwell, Texas, and twenty-four additions at Ponta.

John M. Rice sends a report on three meetings: At Altus, Okla., thirteen additions; at Munday, Texas, thirteen additions; at Post, Texas, eighteen additions. He began a meeting at Gasoline, Texas, last Sunday night.

John Hayes, of Bradentown, Fla., would be glad to buy a copy of an old edition of "The Great Controversy," by Mrs. White, if some brother has one to sell. He is preparing to meet an Adventist in debate, and this old edition will be a great help to him.

H. J. Stafford, a young married man, is anxious to locate near Nashville or some other city where he can truck farm with some good brother on shares and market the products in the city. He can furnish good references. Address him at Trezevant, Tenn.

From L. E. Carpenter, Cottonwood, Texas, September 1: "Yesterday was a very busy day with the church here. We had two gospel services, one funeral service, and a baptizing. Our meeting is four days old, and six have been baptized. The interest is growing."

William P. Walker writes: "This week I am preaching at Mount Olive, near Stayton, Dickson County, Tenn. We are having large audiences, and the interest is rising. We expect to continue this meeting through next week. Brother Taylor continues the tent meeting near Somerville."

From L. R. Wilson, Tupelo, Ark., September 3: "I closed the meeting at Horseshoe, near Auvergne, at the water. We had thirteen restorations and seven baptisms, and the congregation was greatly strengthened. A splendid interest was manifested throughout the meeting. My next meeting will be at Pangburn."

From Horace W. Busby, Fort Worth, Texas: "C. T. McCormack and I closed our meeting at Cedar Hill on Tuesday night. There were twelve confessions after the last sermon. We preached eight days and baptized thirty-one. We had the largest crowds at Cedar Hill and Midlothian that I ever saw at gospel meetings."

From J. W. Brents, Hollywood, Mo., August 30: "I have just closed a fine meeting here. Large crowds throughout. There were sixty-six additions in all—forty-eight baptized, six restored, and twelve scattered members organized into a congregation seven miles south of here. In all, it was a great meeting. I go next to Muskogee, Okla."

Oklahoma Farm Lands.—Do you want a beautiful, productive small-grain farm on the Western prairies, or a river-bottom alfalfa farm, or a roe-crop farm in Eastern Oklahoma? Then deal with Christian men who guarantee honorable treatment. Address the Oklahoma Farm Lands Company; offices, 7 West Fourth Street, Oklahoma City, Okla.

From W. Edgar Miller, Los Angeles, Cal.: "We are expecting S. H. Hall here next Lord's day, to locate with us and begin a campaign in this city, and we are all looking forward to accomplishing great good in this part of the Lord's vineyard. However, owing to the fact that there are so many places of amusement to draw people away, this is a difficult field to labor in."

W. M. Oakley writes from Watertown, Tenn., September I: "The meeting at Commerce, conducted by H. M. Phillips and the writer, beginning on Sunday, August 22, and closing on August 31, resulted in five baptisms and the church greatly edified. Brother Phillips is now in a meeting at Leeville, Wilson County. I go next to Auburn, Cannon County, to begin a meeting next Lord's day."

W. S. Long, Jr., writes from Friendship, Tenn., September 4: "The meeting at Bethel, near Friendship, continues to grow in interest. Eighteen additions to date, with large hearing day and night. The brethren have a new house of worship, and the church is in peace—all of 'one mind and one heart.' It is a pleasure to preach at such a place. Fred Blanchard leads the song service, and it is sublime."

From C. H. Black, Kaufman, Texas, September 4: "I am just home from a month's work in New Mexico. Much good was accomplished in many ways. The brethren treated me well and asked me to return, which I plan to do in the early fall or late spring. I found a great field of labor and laborers few. I will preach here locally while I am gathering my crop, but can answer calls for meetings any time."

From W. P. Skaggs, Itasca, Texas: "The meeting with the church of Christ in Justin, Texas, began on August 15 and closed on August 29, with twenty-two additions—twelve by baptism and ten otherwise. The song service was conducted by T. S. Teddlie, of Alba, Texas. Brother Teddlie is a great singer and helper in a meeting. You will not be disappointed in using him. I go next to Chalk, Texas, to begin on September 4, then home for the whole time."

- D. S. Ligon writes from Blaine, Ark., September 2: "The meeting here is moving along nicely, with the largest crowds our brethren have ever had here, they tell me. Two confessions to date. We have a small membership here, and most of them are sisters. The men seem to have gone back on the Lord. O, if all our brethren and sisters would take hold and work in the vineyard of the Master, how easy it would be to build up the cause they pretend to love! I am doing my very best to get them to renew and go to work in earnest for the Master."
- J. W. Grant writes: "Our meeting at Dancey's Chapel, near Albany, Ala., began on Lord's day, August 29, and closed on the following Lord's-day night, with two services each twenty-four hours, except on Saturday. The interest was fairly good, but interrupted some by rain just at night. There was one baptism, and I think much good was done otherwise. The people gave good attention, and the brethren were pleased with the efforts of the preacher and freated him well. He hopes to be with them again."

Thomas E. Milholland writes: "The meeting at Madill, Okla., closed with forty additions—thirty baptized. O. M. Reynolds will move there as soon as they get the preacher's home completed. We expect Brother Reynolds to do a great work in Madill. He has some splendid helpers. May God bless them. I am now in Tioga, Texas, in a mission meeting. This work lies heavy on the heart of our old brother, E. H. Rodgers. Pray for us, brethren. We hope to have a good report of this mission later."

From W. C. Presley, Bono, Ark., September 2: "J. H. Harper, of Jonesboro, Ark., closed a very successful meeting at this place last Lord's day. The meeting was well attended, with good attention throughout. Ten were baptized and the church was greatly edified. The meeting began on August 14 and continued two weeks, with preaching at night only. Brother Harper preaches the old Jerusalem gospel with power. May he live long to assist in bringing many more to Christ. Eternity alone can tell the good that was done."

From Mrs. D. C. Selby, Linden, Ala.: "I received for the work here, to August 29, from H. F. Mustain, Horse Cave, Ky., $10; B. W. McCaslin, Massillon, Ala., $2; the church at Ravenscroft, through Sister W. P. Hunter, $5. They are about fifteen in number, and are willing to help more if we can keep any one in this territory. We did not receive enough to keep Brother Dennis, and he got disheartened and went back. I hope there are others who can help in this work, so we can establish a congregation at this place. May the Lord bless each and every one for what we have received."

From J. A. Hudson, Oklahoma City, Okla., August 30: "The meeting at Mountain View resulted in nine being added to the faithful there. It was a time of excessive rain on that beautiful prairie country. Had it not been so, perhaps we should have accomplished more. Last Sunday there were no additions here for the first Sunday in several months. Sunday before last there were five souls added to us. Since the first Sunday in last October there have been one hundred and two additions to the Tenth and Francis Streets church. We are made to feel that the good Lord is gracious. We thank him."

From T. Q. Martin, Gallatin, Tenn., September 2: "I began a meeting at Old Union, Sumner County, Tenn., last Lord's day. I have never spoken to more appreciative audiences than we are having here. Brother J. D. Derryberry is leading the singing. I closed at Worthington, near Louisville, Ky., August 13, with seven baptisms and one from the Baptists. I closed at Rock Spring, Rutherford County, Tenn., August 24, with five baptisms and two restored to the fellowship of the congregation. I go from here, God willing, to Lebanon, Tenn.; thence to McMinnville, Tenn.; thence to Russell Street, Nashville."

M. C. Cayce writes: "Our meeting at Crockett, Miss., closed on Sunday night at the water with baptizing by moonlight. Eleven were baptized and four men were restored to begin anew the Christian life. A deep interest was manifested, and others will yet come as a result of the truth they have received. This finds me at Red Hill, Miss., where I came yesterday and preached last night. I expect to preach here until Friday night and reach Jackson on Saturday, so as to be with them in Sunday's service. Red Hill is about eleven miles east of Duck Hill, where we have a faithful few. F. B. Shepherd preached here before going to Texas."

From T. W. Phillips, Fort Worth, Texas, September 2: "I closed the meeting at Stuart, Okla., last Sunday night, with twenty-five baptized and several restored. Am en route new to Nashville, Ark., to begin a meeting to-night. Virgil Teddlie had charge of the song work in the Stuart meeting, and he did his work well; in fact, the Teddlie boys are very fine Christian men and excellent helpers in a real gospel meeting. From Nashville I go to Jacksboro, Texas, for a meeting, and thence to Marshall, Texas, the first Sunday in October, to stay until the work is done. Marshall has long been neglected by our people, and yet it is one of the best cities in East Texas. I am hoping the brethren in Texas that know me and that are willing to help finance the Marshall meeting will immediately send their offerings to Brother C. W. LaGrone, Marshall, Texas. May the Lord bless all the faithful in their labor of love."

From John Hayes, Bradentown, Fla., September 2: "I closed the meeting at Bethel on the fourth Lord's day in August, with five baptized and one from the Second Adventists. On my way home, I preached two nights at Trenton. While there I was informed by the brethren at Copper Sink that there was an Adventist preacher by the name of 'Hayes' holding a meeting there, and that he had challenged any one to meet him in a public discussion. The brethren asked me to write him and submit propositions. I did so, and he replied that I had been misinformed—that he had not challenged any one for a debate and did not have time for debating. But we do not propose to let him off so easy. He must come back and defend the false doctrine he has spread there, or the people in that community shall know that Adventist preachers are afraid to defend their doctrine in public debate. I shall begin a meeting at Ellenton, in the Methodist meetinghouse, on September 12."

Many of our readers will be pleased to learn of the health and activities of H. C. Fleming, of New Pine Creek, Ore. He writes: "This place is on the State line between Oregon and California. I am living with two of my bachelor sons six miles south of there, in Modoc County, Cal. I have reached the age and condition in which I can do but little for the Master's cause, except to write for our papers. We are isolated from the general lines of communication, and there is nothing being done in these parts for the advancement of the gospel, and there is, therefore, no church news to write; but I inclose some articles for publication, provided they meet with your approval. I do my writing in the winter season. In the summer I attend to the orchard, the garden, the chickens, and the bees, for my sons, and thereby keep very busy. For the past three months I have not had even time to read my papers; but as the garden work is nearly over for this season, I will soon catch up with my reading and will have time to write more articles, and will be glad to have you publish my weak efforts. My first acquaintance with the Gospel Advocate was in 1866, about the time E. G. Sewell became one of its editors. I think it is equally as good under its present management as it was then—yea, even better in many respects. I hope it may continue in its good work until the coming of our Lord and Master, Jesus Christ."

Brother Hoskins' Sad Condition.

We believe it our duty to apprise the readers of the Gospel Advocate of the sad condition of Brother I, C. Hoskins, one of the purest and best men we have ever known. The facts are brought out in a letter from Brother E. P. Smith, principal of the city schools of Martin, Tenn., where Brother Hoskins lives. He writes as follows:

Brother Lipscomb: I am at home now making ready to begin school next Monday, and, in keeping with a promise, I am writing you again relative to the condition of Brother Hoskins. His physician told me that beyond doubt he is suffering with an incurable malady. I spent yesterday and last night with him. He had two very hard convulsions. The doctor told me this morning that he was likely to pass away any hour, and might linger several months—that such is the history of those afflicted with his disease. Good old Sister Grubbs, his wife's mother, fell one morning this week, and is upon her bed almost as helpless as a baby, while Sister Hoskins herself is almost an invalid. It is imperative that some of the brethren or friends stay with them all the time, and his physician told me this morning that a practical nurse would almost be a necessity. Now, in regard to his financial condition, he has spent his life in service for others and is without money, but is resting his case and his family's absolutely with the Lord. I have never seen a man with greater faith, nor a sublimer example of childlike trust and resignation to God. The elders of the church here will continue giving him his semimonthly check, but I am wondering if the congregations among whom he sacrificed his life would not welcome the opportunity to furnish him a nurse—if not a trained one, then a practical one. However, that is just a suggestion. It is a very difficult matter to get a nurse in our city. I have given you the situation as I see it. Please accept my best wishes and give my Christian love and sympathy to Brother F. W. Smith.

Faithfully, Eph. P. Smith.

The church at Martin is to be commended for its thoughtful action, but we feel sure that there are many other Christians who would like to have fellowship with Brother Hoskins and family in their dark hour of trial. Send your token of love to Brother Eph Smith, and he will see that it reaches the Hoskins family at once.

Query Department

By J. C. McQUIDDY

A brother who signs his name "J. L. G." wants to know, if a Baptist should quote Mark 16: 15, 16 and interpret it to mean that baptism is because of the remission of sins, If those to whom he preaches, when they believe and are baptized, are scripturally baptized. In answer to this question, I quote the answer which appears in "Queries and Answers," by David Lipscomb, on page 53, given to the question: "May a person who believes his sins forgiven submit to a scriptural baptism while thus believing?" His answer is as follows: "There is something unscriptural in the case as presented; but what is it? Is it the baptism, or is it the understanding of when a person is pardoned? If the latter, does that invalidate the former? This is the point of issue in this question, and it is continually ignored. 'He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved.' (Mark 16: 16.) The thing to be believed is that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God. A person that believes this, and, on this faith, is baptized, is scripturally baptized; but if he believes he has been forgiven before he is baptized, this faith is unscriptural—that is, he mistakes the point in the path of obedience at which pardon is promised and can be claimed. Does a mistake as to the point at which God bestows the blessing cause God to withhold the blessing from one who, through faith, does what God tells him? If so, where is the precept or example that shows it? If it is so, it must be because God requires a person to understand at what point in the path of obedience a blessing is promised before he can receive it. Does any one believe this? I have never found one that would affirm it. I have asked for a single precept or example in the New Testament or the Old Testament that would prove it. I have never seen one produced that was claimed to teach it. I can produce scores of examples and precents from the Old Testament and the New Testament showing that a misunderstanding on the part of man as to when, in the path of obedience, a blessing was promised, or even of what the blessing was, did not prevent God from bestowing the blessing when the point was reached. To deny that the blessing would be given in this instance because the person mistook the point at which the blessing was bestowed is to set at defiance the teachings of God through the Old Testament and the New Testament, which were written for our example and admonition. God is pleased with the faith that does what he tells to be done without waiting to know when and how God will bless."

0 0 0

Mrs. M. L. Brown, of Rockwood, Tenn., requests an explanation of the following scriptures: Matt. 6: 31-34; 7: 6; 8: 21, 22; 24: 22.

Matt. 6: 31-34 reads: "Be not therefore anxious, saying, What shall we eat? or, What shall we drink? or, Wherewithal shall be we clothed? For after all these things do the Gentiles seek; for your heavenly Father knoweth that ye have need of all these things. But seek ye first his kingdom, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you. Be not therefore anxious for the morrow: for the morrow will be anxious for itself. Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof." Christ had impressed the thought that we should not be anxious concerning our raiment and our measure of life. In order to encourage trust and reliance in him, he reminds us that the lilies of the field are taken care of, while they neither toil nor spin. He tells us that Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like one of these, and that If God so clothed the grass of the field, he will much more care for and clothe his children. When we have done our duty, when we have lived in the way that Christ has taught us to live, then we should not be anxious about what we shall eat or what we shall wear; for the Gentiles seek after such things. He knows our every need, and will provide for them if we seek first his kingdom and his righteousness. When we have done cur very best, we should not be anxious for tomorrow. To-morrow will provide for itself. "Sufficient unto the day is the evil thereof." A little boy who had all the necessities and good things of life was one day crying because he was not going to have apple pie the next day for dinner. This is the anxiety and worry that our Heavenly Father condemns. When we have done our best to secure food and raiment, and have them, we should be content.

Matt. 7: 6 reads: "Give not that which is holy unto the dogs, neither cast your pearls before the swine, lest haply they trample them under their feet, and turn and rend you." Dogs were held in derision. They were hated by the Jews, and so were swine. Christians should not waste their time on people with whom there is no possibility of doing good—on ill-tempered, ill-mannered, and abusive hearers and persons who are disposed to revile and blaspheme the word of God. Dogs are brutal and swine are unclean. To try to instill that which is pure and noble in sordid and brutal minds is useless.

Matt. 8: 21, 22 reads: "And another of the disciples said unto him, Lord, suffer me first to go and bury my father. But Jesus saith unto him, Follow me; and leave the dead to bury their own dead." There are two views especially of this passage. One is that the father was already dead and that the son desired to attend the funeral. The other, which is more likely the true meaning, is that the father was still living and that the son wished to stay with him and take care of him until he was dead and buried. The Scriptures teach us that we should not love father or mother, sister or brother, more than Christ. This young man was taught to follow Christ and let the spiritually dead bury those who died a natural death.

Matt. 24: 22 reads: "And except those days had been shortened, no flesh would have been saved: but for the elect's sake those days shall be shortened." The days referred to are those during the destruction of Jerusalem. The suffering and awful desolation that prevailed during the destruction of Jerusalem would have wiped out all living beings if those days had not been shortened for the sake of God's children. It is evident that the elect were believers in Christ. "Even so then at this present time also there is a remnant according to the election of grace. But if it is by grace, it is no more of works: otherwise grace is no more grace. What then? That which Israel seeketh for, that he obtained not; but the election obtained it, and the rest were hardened." (Rom. 11: 5-7.)

God's Work.

The things that are really "done," which do not pass away in the doing, but last on in fructifying power, are not done by man, but by God. Man reaches out and tries to do some of the things which are clamoring to be done; but when they are really done, it is not man who effects them, but God. Therefore it is that the more man identifies himself with God—and prayer is that very identification, since the heart of all prayer is, "Thy will be done"—man finds himself at the center from which all force and energy proceed.—Ralph Adams Cram,

Georgia and the Far Southern Field

By B. C. GOODPASTURE

New Testament Evangelism-The Evangelists.

Although in the preceding article under this caption it was observed that the evangelists of the New Testament order were primarily missionary, itinerant proclaimers of the word, it by no means follows that one cannot abide in a town or city and at the same time "do the work of an evangelist." Paul, the prince of all preachers, "abode two whole years in his own hired dwelling" (Acts 28: 30); again, at Ephesus, for "the space of three years" he "ceased not to admonish every one night and day with tears" (Acts 20: 31), and "reasoning daily in the school of Tyrannus . . . for the space of two years; so that all they that dwelt in Asia heard the word of the Lord" (Acts 19: 9, 10). Did he cease to be evangelistic in his labors while he remained at these places? Is it not a fact that the apostolic messengers of glad tidings frequently stayed for some time at a given place, if the needs of the church there demanded their presence and labors? Is it not a defect in the evangelism of to-day that many young Christians and new congregations are left untaught and uncared for, to die in their infancy? Do we not need evangelists who stay as well as those who go-those who do both? Has the church become such that it does not need those who "water," as well as those who "plant?" (1 Cor. 3: 6.) Will not the world-wide proclamation of the word be on the decline until the church is filled with the spirit of evangelism which characterized its early efforts and history? This leads to another phase of the

"Evangelism," or the preaching of the gospel, is not the duty only of those who are called "preachers." The world has never been wholly evangelized through the efforts of public preachers. They cannot do it simply by preaching on Sundays and conducting a few protracted meetings during the summer and fall. Until the church is filled with the zeal to preach, as it was in the days of the apostles, it will not prosper now as it did then. Is it not clearly recorded that, after the death of Stephen and the dispersion of the Jerusalem church, "they therefore that were scattered abroad went about preaching the word [literally, evangelizing]?" (Acts 8: 4.) It is no wonder that, a few years later, Paul could write: "Yea, verily, their sound went out into all the earth, and their words unto the ends of the world." (Rom. 10: 18.) The individual members of the church in Jerusalem evangelized "throughout the regions of Judea and Samaria." This is a model example of a church filled with the spirit of "New Testament evangelism." These early Christians did not stop to "discuss plans and effect organizations." They had neither the time, the authority, nor the desire to equip (?) themselves with such man-made machinery; they were absorbed with the overwhelming passion to carry the message of a glorified Lord to their perishing countrymen. It is high time for Christians everywhere to rally with this apostolic zeal to spread the tidings of salvation. There can be no great ingathering of souls without it. During the beginning of the current Reformation the plea of primitive Christianity was amazing to its enemies in the rapidity of its progress. In those days every disciple realized his imperative duty to preach the word in his respective sphere. It is as impossible for the preachers of the church to convert the whole world through their own unaided labors as it is for the generals of an army to win victories without the support of the army. We are saved to serve and save. Every Christian owes it to himself, his fellow man, and his God to be a soul winner, a witness for Jesus. "Ye are the salt of the earth: but if the salt have lost its savor, wherewith shall it be salted? It is thenceforth good for nothing, but to be cast out and trodden under foot of men." (Matt. 5: 13.) It may be that the poet wrote well:

"Go win some soul, and it shall save thine own; For the gates are closed to him who comes alone."

o o o Bits of News.

Brother J. B. Beck writes from Savannah, Ga.: "I am very much pleased with the prospects here. We are conducting some interesting and, we hope, some very profitable house-to-house meetings wherever opportunity is afforded. It will be no trouble to find places to meet, as has been demonstrated."

Brother S. E. Templeton is in an interesting meeting at Lyerly, Ga.

Brother R. H. Rogers continues the tent meeting in Lakewood Heights, with good attendance.

Brother Hugh E. Garrett recently held a good meeting at Wilson's Mill, near Kingston, Ga.

Brother A. R. Hill closed an eight-days' meeting at Liberty Hill on the last Sunday night in August. No additions. He went from there to Bowden, Ga.

0 0 0

Peace ne'er shall reign o'er all the world Till Jesus' love gain victory meet; And 'neath the gospel flag unfurled, All men shall bow down at his feet.

-Selected.

Book Notices.

If you are in need of a good abridged Bible dictionary, send us $2 for a copy of Smith's Peloubet Edition. This is one of the best dictionaries of the Bible that I have examined.

Have you read "Sunshine; or, Uncle Minor's Stories?" This is a very attractive book for children as well as for old people. Children read it with much interest. It is profusely illustrated, and contains many interesting incidents and stories. Price, $1.50.

Send us $1.25 for a copy of "Sweeney's Sermons." This is a book of sermons by John S. Sweeney—one of the best books of sermons published. Sweeney carries conviction with the statement of his position. He is noted for brevity, clearness, and force of statement. Every young preacher should have a copy of this book of sermons.

Have you seen a copy of "Adventism and the Bible?" This is one of the very best books for you to buy at the present time. Adventism is a live subject. Adventists are active and are propagating their doctrines. If you want to be thoroughly prepared to meet them and to expose the errors of Adventism, you should send us at once $1.25 for a copy of "Adventism and the Bible."

We have on hand a few copies of "Biographies and Sermons," edited by F. D. Srygley. This is a book of sermons by a number of our best-known preachers. It is well worth a careful perusal. A brief history of the life of each preacher accompanies his sermon. A picture of the preacher also is given with each sketch. Price, $1.50. If you want this book, you should order at once, as we have just a few copies that have been left over through mistake.

Blessed Prodigals.

The gospel of thrift has been preached throughout the earth—rightly so. It has been needed, is needed to-day, and always will be. But thrift has its dangers. By encouraging foresight and calculation it may induce stinginess. Men may easily yield to a natural selfishness and the springs of liberality cease to flow.

If I were bold enough to write a new beatitude, I would say: "Blessed are the prodigals; for they shall obtain true riches."

God is a prodigal. All nature bears witness to this fact. "He maketh his sun to rise on the evil and on the good." Jesus was a prodigal. He left his Father's house, went into a far country, and threw away his life in a splendid abandon. He declared that "whosoever shall seek his life shall lose it, and whosoever shall lose his life shall preserve it." There was no close calculation and careful discrimination in the blessings which flowed from his hand. He who "went about doing good" fed multitudes into whose faces he would never look again, healed lepers who would not take the trouble to turn about and thank him, loved to the end one who was known to be a traitor, and measured the satisfaction of life, not by what those whom he served would do for him in return, but by the joy found in giving. Verily he sowed beside all waters.

Be not too careful of your time, your energy, your money, your sympathy, your affections. Many a good impulse has been stiffed when your thrifty soul asked, "Is it worth while?" "In the morning sow thy seed, and in the evening withhold not thy hand; for thou knowest not whether shall prosper, either this or that, or whether they both shall be allke good."

The God who made this world has ordained that he who recklessly, foolishly easts his bread upon the waters shall sometime, somewhere, find it. If we bring in our tithes, the windows of heaven are opened to pour forth blessings. This is because God so delights to give, and richly blesses every manifestation that we are sharers of his spirit. But this fact carries with it a peril to our souls. If we make giving a matter of calculation and keep books with God to note the return on our investments, we have the spirit of the money lender. Too often the doctrine of tithing is rooted in the motive of greed. Give without a string to your gift; give for the sheer joy of giving; give when and where there is least prospect of a return; be a spendthrift of time, labor, and love. Thus shall ye be children of your Father who is in heaven.

The glowing roll of splendid spirits of whom the world is not worthy is a list of God's prodigals. Abraham went out not knowing whither he went; Moses left the seat of the mighty to become a fuglitive; those things which were gain to Paul he counted loss; the martyrs gave all that they had and went forth on the supreme adventure without a backward look; Carey amazed the prudent, sensible men of his day by burrying his life among the heathen; Livingstone threw away his life in the wastes of Africa; Patton spent all that he had for the Sandwich Islanders. Wherefore of them and of their kind is it true that "God is not ashamed to be called their God."—Edward L. Grace, in Christian Index.

Ask yourself what you would have been if you had never been tempted, and own what a blessed thing the educating power of temptation is.—Phillips Brooks.

Give love, and love to your heart will flow,
A strength in your utmost need;
Have faith, and a score of hearts will show
Their faith in your work and deed.
So others shall Take patience, labor, to their heart and hand,
From thy hand and thy heart, and thy brave cheer,
And God's grace fructify through thee to all.

-E. B. Browning.

Cheerful Messages for David Lipscomb College.

BY A. R. L.

In reply to our letter addressed to some of the good friends of David Lipscomb College, asking their aid and influence in freeing the college from all indebtedness before October 1, we have received many encouraging letters. We give a few quotations to show the fine spirit manifested:

"Will be glad to contribute."-Mrs. Clara Noel, Nashville, Tenn.

"Will do our best."—D. W. Bradenfield, Route 2, Wildersville, Tenn.

"Will take the matter up and report later."-J. R. Tubb, Sparta, Tenn.

"I hope you may succeed."—John B. Moore, Elm Hill Road, Nashville, Tenn.

"Will be glad to contribute."—Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Biggers, Nashville, Tenn.

"I think I can send something before October 1."—H. N. Mann, Riverside, Tenn.

"Will take up this urgent matter in my next meeting."

-F. L. Paisley, Paducah, Ky.

"The matter which your letter mentioned will have our early attention."—T. S. Williams, Attalla, Ala.

"I will do my best the next two Lord's days I am in Georgia to help."—Silas E. Templeton, Atlanta, Ga.

"We believe the church here will help you in the good work now in progress."—Dallas Wilson, Dresden, Tenn.

Professor Pittman has closed a good meeting at Monticello, Ky. He is busy now in another meeting at Lebanon, Tenn.

"I shall take pleasure in mentioning this matter to our brethren."—Judge John E. Richardson, Murfreesboro, Tenn.

From M. M. Pitts, Hopkinsville, Ky.: "Yours received, and I will call the attention of the church to this matter at once."

"Will make every effort to get a contribution at one or two churches in the near future."—W. N. Harrell, Smyrna, Tenn.

"We will do all we can in the congregation here to help meet the obligation at the school."—Mrs. J. W. Hill-drop, Madison, Tenn.

"Will put the matter before the church next Lord's day and see what can be done. Best wishes for success."—H. D. Medearis, Pulaski, Tenn.

"I shall be glad to put this matter before our congregation and send whatever amount is contributed before September 26."—C. S. Austin, Mount Pleasant, Tenn.

E. D. Shelton is recovering nicely from a painful operation. He is in the hospital at Houston, Texas. Write him an encouraging letter and address to 700 Omar Avenue.

"The claims of David Lipscomb College were presented to a fine audience. We have appointed the second Sunday in September to make a contribution."—J. O. Blaine, Portland, Tenn.

B. C. Goodpasture, a member of the 1918 class, is preaching for the West End congregation, in Atlanta, Ga. He will send us a special contribution to help pay off the indebtedness.

"I spoke of the school's needs to the congregation at Antioch, in Rutherford County, and they are going to give one Sunday's contribution."—J. Ridley Stroop, Murfreesboro, Tenn.

The church at Franklin, Tenn., has been one of the most liberal contributors to the Building Fund; but we are assured that they will come to our relief in the present emergency. The same is true of the noble brethren of the Owen's Chapel congregation.

Several letters have been written to the friends of the College asking their aid in paying off all indebtedness for the new dormitory and other improvements before the opening day. We are receiving some encouraging responses. I. B. Bradley, of Dickson, Tenn., says: "I hope the brotherhood will respond liberally and quickly, and that all indebtedness may be met by opening day."

Conducted for a half century by D. Lipscomb and E. G. Sewell.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

$2.50 a year, in advance; to Canada and foreign countries, $3.00, in

$2.50 a year, in advance; to Canada and foreign countries, $3.00, in advance.

Remittances will be at our risk when sent by express or post-office money order, in registered letter, or by draft payable to our order. The date on your tab shows the time to which your subscription is paid. When money is received, the date will be changed, which will answer for a receipt. Two weeks time must ordinarily occur from the time your remittance is sent before the tab on your paper is changed; if not changed by that time, notify us at once.

This paper is mailed regularly to all subscribers until definite orders in writing are received and all arresarages paid in full. If you wish us to stop your paper, write us to that effect; but do not ask it unless you have paid all arrears, if there are any. Do not ask your postmaster to attend to it for you, but do it yourself.

When changing your post-office address, toil us your old as well as your new address; otherwise two papers might be charged to you. Subscribers, after paying for their papers, will favor us by noting whether the date on the address label is changed, and, if it is not changed within a month, by writing to us. We are careful, but mistakes may occur or letters may be lost. Our rule is to change the date on the day payment is received; but the mechanical work of correcting and printing the list takes time, and payments even from near-by places may not appear the first week. Credits for payments from a distance may be even more delayed. Mistakes are easily restricted if prompt notice is given.

All communications should be addressed to Gospel Advocate, $17-$19 Fifth Avenue North. Nashville. Tenn.

All communications should be addressed to Gospel Advocate, $17-$19 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

Guarantee of Advertising.

All the advertisements in this paper are, we believe, signed by trustworthy persons. To prove our faith by works, we will make good to actual subscribers any loss sustained in trusting advertisers who prove to be deliberate swindlers. We shall not attempt to adjust trifling disputes between subscribers and honorable business men who advertise, nor pay the debts of honest bankrupts. To make this guarantee effective, in all cases say in writing advertisers, "I saw your advertisement in the Gospel Advocate;" and if anything goes wrong, notify us immediately in writing.

JACOBS & CO., ADVERTISING MANAGERS. Clinton S. C.

Entered at post office at Nashville, Tenn., as second-class matter. Published weekly at Nashville, Tenn.

Faith, Its Object and Its Strength. BY J. C. M'Q.

It is encouraging to one who is interested in his soul's salvation to know that God does not require him to believe some difficult, abstruse, metaphysical proposition in order to be saved. It is not demanded of man that he accept the speculative views and opinions of men in order to enjoy the newborn joy of sins forgiven. Neither does God require us to fathom the things that are written in the Bible which are difficult to be understood in order to be saved. The plan of salvation is so plain that the wayfaring man. though a fool, shall not err therein. (Isa. 35: 8.) In the very nature of the case, that which is intended for the masses of the people when the souls of men are at stake should be simple and childlike. The Savior, when among men, assured us that if we should seek, we would find. The one simple truth that we are required to believe is that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of the living God. We find this truth couched in different language. John 3: 16 reads: "For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whoseever believeth on him should not perish, but have eternal life." Jesus, while among men, went about doing good, feeding the hungry, warming the cold. opening the eyes of the blind, unstopping the ears of the deaf, and raising the dead, in order that men might believe that he is the Christ, the Son of the living God. "Many other signs therefore did Jesus in the presence of the disciples, which are not written in this book: but these are written, that ye may believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God; and that believing ye may have life in his name." (John 20: 30, 31.) Christ gave up heaven and all of its glories, came down on the wings of mercy and died the shameful death of the cross, was buried, and on the third and appointed morn arose a victorious conqueror over death, hell, and the grave, in order that we might be saved. None shall ascend into heaven or descend into the abyss to bring him up from the dead. "But what saith it? The word is nigh thee, in thy mouth, and in thy heart: that is, the word of faith, which we preach: because if thou shalt confess with thy mouth Jesus as Lord, and shalt believe in thy heart that God raised him from the dead, thou shalt be saved; for with the heart man believeth unto righteousness; and with the mouth confession is made unto salvation." (Rom. 10: 8-10.) We should all rejoice that God in his infinite wisdom and goodness has given us the privilege of believing in such a being as the Lord Jesus Christ. No man can truly believe in him and love him with all of his heart without having noble thoughts and without leading a life of purity and godliness that fits him for usefulness in this world and qualifies him for life everlasting in the world to come. No man has ever been made worse, but each and every individual who has believed in the Christ has been elevated, ennobled, and purified. Even those who scoff at religion and repudiate the word of God cannot deny the fact that to believe in the Lord Jesus Christ and to love him with all the heart makes better citizens, better fathers and mothers, better sons and daughters, and better people in all the walks of life. It will be a dark day for our people and for our nation when they turn away from this simple childlike faith in the Lord Jesus Christ.

It is not difficult for one to exercise faith in the Christ, Belleving is natural with us all. We believe from infancy to the grave. We walk by faith in all the callings of life, We never start on a journey that we do not have faith to believe that we will reach our destination in safety. We never rise in the morning to go to our daily calling that we do not believe that we will be permitted to return home at night. We have faith in the engineer at the throttle: we have faith in the man that stands at the wheel; we have faith in the God who is guiding and controlling the destiny of nations. There is nothing hard and nothing difficult about our believing that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of the living God. With all the evidence that God has given us, it is much easier to believe this great and ennobling truth than it is to deny it. "If weak thy faith, why accept the harder side?"

The faith that ennobles and saves is not a bare assent of the mind; it is not a cold, lifeless something, but a faith that takes God at his word. When Philip had preached Jesus to the eunuch, and when as they went on their way they came unto a certain water, and the eunuch said, "See, here is water, what doth hinder me to be baptized?" as recorded in the Authorized Version, Philip said to him: "If thou believest with all thine heart, thou mayest." (Acts 8: 37.) The faith that saves one is a faith with all the heart. Abraham had a faith that led him to offer Isaac, his son, upon the altar. So to-day we must have a faith that leads us, not to deny the Christ, but to do exactly what Christ commands us to do. The dead faith that dwells in the heart and never comes out has never yet justified a single person. The faith that is living and active and that confesses Christ in the daily life, that honors him in acts of obedience, is the faith that justifies and saves souls. Christ gives us very clearly to understand this when he says: "Every one therefore who shall confess me before men, him will I also confess before my Father who is in heaven. But whosoever shall deny me before men, him will I also deny before my Father who is in heaven." (Matt. 10: 32, 33.) Every example of faith that we have in the Bible which justified a soul is a faith that came out in acts of obedience, is a faith that acted out and did just what God commanded to be done. The centurion who had so great faith and who felt unworthy for the Christ to come under his roof said: "For I also am a man under authority, having under myself soldiers: and I say to this one, Go, and he goeth; and to another, Come, and he cometh; and to my servant, Do this, and he doeth it." (Matt. 8: 9.) He had faith to believe that if Jesus would speak the word his servant would be healed. Our faith must be strong enough and abiding enough to lead us to love God and to love Christ with all our hearts. "And thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind, and with all thy strength." (Mark 12: 30.) "For this is the love of God, that we keep his commandments; and his commandments are not grievous." (1 John 5: 3.) A man who believes with all his heart that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of the living God, has faith to do just what Christ commands him to do in order to the enjoyment of the remission of his sins. Christ declares: "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved." While God saves, he demands that all of his subjects accept the conditions of salvation upon which salvation is promised. No one claims that water saves; but it is claimed that the blood of Christ cleanses from sins, and that in baptism one comes in contact with the blood of Christ which cleanses from sins. Baptism marks the degree of faith at which God saves. Baptism is inseparable from faith, belongs to faith, and is a part of faith; and when one has sufficient faith to be saved, he will humbly bow in meek submission to the will of Jehovah. This is true of the faith that leads us to the remission of past sins, and it is also true of the faith that endures to the end and brings us at last to eternal salvation at the right hand of God.

SELECTIONS BY THE EDITOR

What else can joy be but diffusing joy?-Byron.

If I had but two loaves of bread, I would sell one and buy hyacinths, for they would feed my soul.—Koran.

God has so arranged the chronometry of our spirits that there shall be thousands of silent moments between the striking hours—James Martineau.

Culture is the power which makes a man capable of appreciating the life around him, and the power of making that life worth appreciating.—Mallock,

A great part of the happiness of life consists not in fighting battles, but in avoiding them. A masterly retreat is in itself a victory.—Longfellow.

This nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom, and government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth.—Abraham Lincoln.

We should pray with as much earnestness as those who expect everything from God; we should act with as much energy as those who expect everything from themselves.—Colton.

Rise, to worldwide harvests speed!

The whitening fields stretch on and on.

Few the laborers are indeed,

But great the work that must be done,

—Karl Gerok.

Let us, so far as may be, look at life steadily and whole. It is not all darkness; it has its crimson dawns, its resy sunsets. Its blackest clouds have their silver embroideries, and through the rifts we may catch glimpses of the radiant blue of heaven.—Canon Farrar,

When you find a person a little better than his word, a little more liberal than his promise, a little more than borne out in his statements by facts, a little larger in deed than in speech, you recognize a kind of eloquence in that person's utterance not laid down in Blair or Campbell.—Holmes.

And he gave it for his opinion that whoever could make two ears of corn, or two blades of grass, to grow upon a spot of ground where only one grew before, would deserve better of mankind, and do more essential service to his country, than the whole race of politicians put together.—Swift.

Every temptation that is resisted, every noble aspiration that is encouraged, every sinful thought that is repressed, every bitter word that is withheld, adds its little item to the impetus of that great movement which is bearing humanity onward toward a richer life and a higher character,—Exchange.

Our Lord hath ascended into heaven, ever to make intercession for us; and He who hath been taken up shall come again. There is much comfort for us who are left to think that He who bore our sins and carried our sorrows is to be our judge, one who understands our weakness, one who loves us.—Selected.

Insist on yourself; never imitate. There is at this moment for you an uttterance brave and grand as that of the colossal chisel of Phidias, or the pen of Moses or Dante, but different from these. If you can hear what these patriarchs say, surely you can reply to them in the same pitch of yoice.—Emerson.

A little thought will sometimes prevent you from being discontented at not meeting with the gratitude which you have expected. If you were only to measure your expectations of gratitude by the extent of benevolence which you have expended, you would seldom have occasion to call people ungrateful—Arthur Helps.

He who simply trusts the Savior, he who faithfully performs every known duty, he who keeps a clear account with conscience, is always ready to enter heaven. As Ruskin says: "The only place where a man can be nobly thoughtless is on his deathbed. There ought to be no thinking left to be done there."—Selected.

For the sake of the child in our midst, we must talk of Thee in unspoken words of small things done in love; for the sake of the aged, we must translate Thee in terms of consideration and patience; for the sake of the poor, in his pride, we must speak in simplicity; for the sake of the rich, in his pride, we must speak in power.—Selected.

Intercession is not an effort to overcome any reluctance of God to help those who need him. He is ever yearning to reveal himself. It is not importunate asking, but the whole-hearted cooperation of mind and spirit in the purpose to be a channel of life and power. It is the sympathetic partnership which releases a divine force, operating through natural laws. We must not forget the fact that "we love, because he first loved us."—Selected.

He will easily be content whose conscience is pure. Thou art not the more holy, though thou art praised; nor the more abject, though thou art dispraised. What thou art, thou art. Neither canst thou be said to be greater than thou art in the sight of God. If thou considerest what thou art within, thou wilt not care what men say of thee. Man seeth the face, but God looketh into the heart. Man considereth the deeds, but God weigheth the intention. To do always well, and to disesteem himself, is a sign of a humble soul.—Thomas à Kempis.

Current Thought

Churches as Candidates for Ministers.

Placing a minister on trial as a candidate for a vacant pastorate is putting all the weight on one end of the stick, since church effectiveness is a matter of mutual responsibility existing between congregation and pastor. A successful ministry depends very largely on congregational sympathy and support, and, adds the Herald of Gospel Lib-erty (Christian), "it is the church as much as the preach-er that is on trial." The churches hitherto have labored under the impression that the test was simply for the pastor, that all responsibility began and ended with him. This is a rejection of a share of the burden, and-

Somehow it must be driven into the consciousness of every church that the relationship is one of mutual obligation and mutual responsibilities, and that the church is on trial no less than the preacher.

"Any man who is worth having as a pastor will want to know whether or not the church has any possibilities and any future; whether its membership is composed of progressive, forward-looking men and women who are ready to push vigorously for the new and finer things of the kingdom, or whether it is made up of unprogressive, critical, easily dissatisfied folk, who are close and niggardly in all of their religious work and who will oppose anything that looks to the growth and enlargement of the equipment and work of the church. Every year it becomes more and more difficult for a church of this last sort to find any man who is willing to accept it—unless it is some man that no people ought to employ."—Literary Digest.

Preachers should not be willing to be put on trial, but should make up their minds to labor where they can do the most good for Christ. No preacher should stay in any field longer than is necessary to develop it and to put it in working condition, with the elders, or pastors, for teaching, developing, and disciplining the flock. Preachers are not the pastors in this sense. Preachers should go as evangelists and preach the gospel in destitute fields. They should seek to arouse, stir up, and bring the churches into greater activity.

I should be glad to see all of our preachers reach that condition in life that they will be independent in preaching the word. No preacher should be influenced by those who support him in his preaching; for when this is done, if the preacher is supported by the world, his preaching will be of the wrong character. All preachers should realize their great dependence upon God, but should be independent enough to preach the whole truth, regardless of the favor or disfavor of those who support them. Churches are under just as great an obligation to ask those to hold their meetings and labor with them who can do them the most good as is the preacher to look to the field where he can do most for Christ.

* * * "Perilous Times."

Perhaps in all the history of time the world was never more unsettled than it is to-day. No one dares predict what a day may bring forth. The heart of the world has become intensely volcanic and universal eruption appears

Even while we are glorying in the peace that is supposed to have come with the close of the recent cruel conflict, a number of nations are still engaged in warfare, with active rebellion in many others. Indeed, the prospect for universal war is much greater than that of universal peace. Added to the horrors of bloody warfare and the threatening war clouds that darken the sky, the struggle between capital and labor seems to be nearing a crisis. The demands of labor are becoming more and more while employers claim they have gone the limit in meeting these demands. In the meantime profiteering has greatly complicated the situation. Anarchy, with blasphemous mouth and blood-stained hands, is only held at bay by glistening bayonets.

Whether this deadly foe to humanity can be checked or crushed is the question of the hour. That the spirit of lawlessness is becoming more and more prevalent is tragically apparent. Worst of all, the world not only lacks faith in God, but it has lost respect for God. In all its thought there is no place for God. Like the fool of old, it plans to tear down the old and build the new in its own wisdom and without the wisdom of God. In our peace plans there is no time for God, no care for Christ, no place for prayer. Humanitarianism has become a substitute for religion and deviltry has supplanted deity. Sanitation has taken the place of salvation, the cannon has usurped the place of the cross, and the superman has superseded God.

Surely we are living in perllous times! Let us pray,-Western Recorder.

In the midst of the turmoil and strife that now exist it certainly behooves every child of God to take unto himself the whole armor of God and to do as the Spirit of God directs. Christians should not be busybodies in other men's matters, but should live meek and quiet lives, ever seeking to advance the religion of the Christ. They should discourage all wrongdoing; they should discourage carnal warfare with its horrors, and should do all within their power to enlist men under the blood-stained banner of the Lord Jesus Christ. So long as the world has no respect for God and his word, we may expect perilous times. If we would have an era of peace and righteousness, the world must be led to know and respect the truth. Men must honor and obey God, otherwise there can be no real peace and contentment. The Golden Rule should be applied in business as a perfect panacea for labor troubles. No man can do unto others as he would have them do unto himself and the world not be made better by such action. No man will walk roughshod over another who is really seeking to please and to lift him up to a higher and nobler life. In the great struggle that is now being waged between the powers of darkness and light, Christians should be long-suffering and should work with a will to bring the misguided into the full light of truth. The entrance of God's word giveth light. The word of God cannot dwell in the hearts of men so as to shape and guide their lives and these men go very far wrong. The truth is that men are seeking by their own wisdom to direct their steps in this world, when this is not possible. Man by wisdom knows not God. Man in the flesh, unguided and unaided by the Holy Spirit, cannot lift himself, much less others, up to a purer and better life. We must go back to God and to his word, if we would have a satisfied people enjoying the prospects of life everlasting.

* * * A Useful Baby.

Not long ago a missionary on the great river Congo had pushed up on a little steamer into a part where no white man had ever been before. The anchor was let down and the steamer brought to. Food was needed for the men and firewood for the engines. The natives came down to the bank to look at this wonderful boat; they were armed with arrows and big, ugly spears. The missionary tried to talk to them, and made signs of peace. But nothing that he could do seemed to touch them. It was plain that they were afraid; and when savages are in that state they are very dangerous. What was to be done?

A happy thought flashed across the missionary's mind. He had a wife and dear little baby on board. He got the baby, took it up in his arms, and showed it to the people. Now, the baby was a really sensible one: it seemed to understand the situation, and, instead of crying or pretending to be shy, it laughed and crowed as merrily as could be; and when the poor savages saw it they felt safe; they understood in a moment that no harm was meant, as they laid down their arms and became quite friendly. Even in Africa we can say: "A little child shall lead them."-Christian Conservator.

AT THIS SEASON LOSS OF APPETITE

Is very common. In many cases it is due to impure blood, which cannot give the digestive organs the stimulus necessary for the proper performance of their functions. Thousands know by experience that Hood's Sarsaparilla restores a famous physician. Get it today. Take Hood's Pills if you happen to need a laxative—they don't gripe.

Thousands know by experience that Hood's Sarsaparilla restores appetite and would advise you to give it a trial this season. It originated in the successful prescription of a famous physician. Get it today.

Mr. Church Treasurer!

If the Loose-Leaf Plan is best for the Business Man, it must be best for the CHURCH TREASURER.

?

Up-to-date Economical Efficient

Why not use the Unified Loose Leaf instead of Bound Books? Adapted to any envelope system and size membership. Supplined by your-dealer, or

Arthur H. Strouse Pub. Co. Dept. K, 431 So. Dearborn St., Chicago, III.

FOOT COMFORT ASSURED

Brooklyn Man Solves the Problem

It is no longer necessary to suffer agonies that are caused by misfit shoes: for Mr. Simon, of Brooklyn, has proven that he can fit perfectly by mail. Simon's EzWear Shoes are built to give every possible foot comfort; they are soft and stylish, and do not need breaking in. They fit like the proverbial pair, the minute you wear them. Every pair is guaranteed to give satisfaction and to fit perfectly.

Mr. J. R. Simon will gladly send a free catalogue of over 500 styles of EzWear Shoes to all who write him, along with his scientific, self-measuring blank. Write for your copy to-day, and give your feet their much-needed happiness. Address all communications to Mr. J. R. Simon, 1589 Broadway, Brooklyn, N. T., and you will receive personal attention.

"For When I Am Weak, Then Am I Strong."

BY C. PETTY.

Paul said to the Corinthians: "And lest I should be exalted above measure through the abundance of the revelations, there was given to me a thorn in the flesh, a messenger of Satan to buffet me, lest I should be exalted above measure." He had prayed three times that it might depart from him, but the answer was: "My grace is sufficient for thee: for my strength is made perfect in weakness." That is: "Paul, you suit me better with that thorn than you would without it." And when Paul heard the answer, he said: "Therefore I take pleasure in infirmities, in reproaches, in necessities, in persecutions, in distresses for Christ's sake: for when I am weak, then am I strong." That is: "I am better able to please the Lord in my weakness, and I will gladly do so."

And this is true in all ages. When the Lord appeared unto Moses in the land of Midian to send him to lead the children of Israel out of bondage, Moses made three excuses to show that he was not suitable for the task. The first one was: "Who am I, that I should go unto Pharaoh, and that I should bring forth the children of Israel out of Egypt?" (Ex. 3: 11.) The second was this: "But, behold, they will not believe me, nor hearken unto my voice." (Ex. 4: 1.) The third excuse was: "O my Lord, I am not eloquent, neither heretofore, nor since thou hast spoken unto thy servant: but I am slow of speech, and of a slow tongue." (Verse 10:) That is: "I am not suitable for such a great task." But, in the mind of the Lord, Moses was the only suitable person for the work, and the Lord sent him, and he made a great leader, for he led Israel out of bondage. Read Moses' last charge to Joshua in the last chapters of Deuteronomy, and you will see that at the close of life he was still humble.

Again "the children of Israel did evil in the sight of the Lord: and the Lord delivered them into the hand of Midian for seven years." (Judg. 6: 1.) And "the children of Israel cried unto the Lord," and the Lord sent an angel unto Gideon, and the angel "sat under an oak which was in Ophrah" while "Gideon thrashed wheat by the wine press, to hide it from the Midianites. . . And the Lord looked upon him, and said, Go in this thy might, and thou shalt save Israel from the hands of the Midianites: have not I sent thee? And he said unto him, O my Lord, wherewith shall I save Israel? behold, my family is poor in Manasseh, and I am the least in my father's house." (See verses 7-15.) That is: "I am the most unsuitable person in Israel for this work, on account of a poor family and being a sort of cast-off in my father's house." But he was the only suitable person in Israel to deliver Israel out of Midian; and the Lord sent him at once, and soon Israel was free. (Read Judg, 7, 8.)

So it was with Paul; in his weakness he was strong-so strong in faith, after he had seen the third heaven, or paradise (for I take them to be the same), he seems never to have been satisfied here any more. He relates his trials and sufferings in 2 Cor. 11-how he had been whipped five times by the Jews, beaten three times with rods, once he was stoned. and had been shipwrecked and in perils in everything, even to false brethren. So, looking back over his weary way at struggles, and after seeing the city to which he was going, he unfolds to the church at Philippi his desire. Here it is: "For I am in a strait betwixt two, having a desire to depart, and to be with Christ, which is far better: nevertheless to abide in the flesh is more needful for you." (Phil. 1: 23, 24.) As much as to say: "For I am too near home to go back over life and be treated as I have been." And sure enough, when he came to the crossing, he told Timothy he was ready to be offered, saying: "The time of my departure is at hand I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith: henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous judge, shall give me at that day: and not to me only, but unto all them also that love his appearing." (2 Tim. 4: 6-8.) What a glorious life! So peaceful and joyous at its ending! And is it not a glorious thing for believers in the Savior to-day, to be looking for such a crown? So let us fight, and hope on, till that better day comes.

Cured His RUPTURE

I was badly ruptured while lifting a trunk several years ago. Doctors said my only hope of cure was an operation. Trusses did me no good. Finally I got hold of something that quickly and completely cured me. Years have passed and the rupture has never returned, although I am doing hard work as a carpenter. There was no operation, no lost time, no trouble. I have nothing to sell; but will give full information about how you may find a complete cure without operation, if you write to me, Eugene M. Fullen. Carpenter, 354 G Marcellus Avenue, Manasquan, N. J. Better cut out this notice and show it to any others who are ruptured—you may save a life, or at least stop the misery of rupture and the worry and danger of an operation.

Opportunity at Vardaman, Miss.

BY E. L. WHITAKER.

The members of the church of Christ at Vardaman, Miss., are trying to build a house of worship. They have about reached the limit of their ability. The city of Vardaman has made them a present of a beautiful lot. This lot is safeguarded for the purpose intended by a restrictive deed. They also have a little more than one thousand dollars pledged for the building; but a thousand dollars is a small amount these days. It will take much more to erect a house sufficient for their needs. Considering that there are only twelve or fifteen of them, with only six or seven men, they have done remarkably well. They certainly deserve assistance. The outlook for primitive Christianity in the town and surrounding country is very bright. This is a great opportunity to do good, not only at the present, but in the years to come. I have preached quite a good deal for these brethren and know the facts in the case. I trust that the brethren will help this good cause to the extent of their ability. Send your contributions to Guy Perkins, Jim Edmondson, or Fred Parker, Vardaman, Miss.

The Upper Chamber.

"And the peace of God which passeth all understanding shall keep your hearts and minds through Christ Jesus." (Phil. 4: 7.)

Amid the storms of earth, the losses, the sorrows, the enmities, the Christian may have peace. And peace does not mean inactivity. Nor does it mean a calm and lifeless tranquillity. Peace is harmony in action. "Then had thy peace been like a river." Peace is the only thing that meets the soul's need.

Its principle fields of manifestation are:

I. In conversion. "Therefore being justified by faith, we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ." How many of us know the sweet peace that came with surrender?

II. In affliction. How little we understand the meaning of affliction! But it burns out the dross. Many a preacher has found power to touch hearts because of sorrow. Many a singer has learned a new sweetness of note through pain.

We look before and after and pine for what is naught,

And our sincerest laughter with some pain is fraught;

Our sweetest songs are those which tell of saddest thought."

We cannot learn sympathy until we have personally suffered. Our most courtly graces are acquired so. But best of all, peace. "Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace, whose mind is stayed on thee: because he trusteth in thee."

III In temptation.

IV. In death. This is the hour that reveals the soul's standing before the court of heaven. For me will Jesus say: "It is I: be not afraid." It has been my privilege to see some Christians die. There is nothing comparable to the peace that marks the end of a righteous man .- R. L. Bonsteel, in Christian Index.

To Will.

God's promise is that he will work in us to will as well as to do of his good pleasure. This means, of course, that he will take possession of our will, and work it for us: and that his suggestions will come to us-not so much commands from the outside, as desires springing up within. They will originate in our will; we shall feel as though we desired to do so and so, not as though we must. And this makes it a service of perfect liberty; for it is always easy to do what we desire to do, let the accompanying circumstances be as difficult as they may. Every mother knows that she could secure perfect and easy obedience in her child, if she could only get into that child's will and work it for him, making him want to do the things she willed he should. And this is what our Father, in the new dispensation, does for his children: He "writes his laws in our hearts and on our minds," so that our affection and our understanding embrace them, and we are drawn to obey, instead of being driven to it.

The way in which the Holy Spirit, therefore, usually works, in a fully obedient soul, in regard to this direct guidance, is to impress upon the mind a desire to do or to leave undone certain things .- H. W. Smith.

CANCERS CURED AT KELLAM HOSPITAL,

1617 West Main Street, Richmond, Va.

1617 West Main Street, Richmond, Va. It is known beyond a doubt and admitted by most of the leading physicians and surgeons that cancer cannot be cured with the knife, X-Ray, radium, or acids. Cancers are permanently cured at The Kellam Hospital, without the use of either. Physicians and surgeons treated free at the hospital.

PROFITS IN PIGEONS

A pleasant, easy way to make moneystillse an otherwise worthless part of your back yard and turn it into profit. Pigeons are easily raised, prolific, and clean. The markets are clamoring for squabs. A few pairs of our beautiful Red Carneaux and White Swiss Mondainee will start you right Write for our FREE booklet, "Profits in Pigeons No. 6." Carolina Pigeon Plant. Clinton. S. C.

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advecate.

NUXATED

Time and again I have prescribed organic iron—Nuxated Iron—and surprised patients at the rapidity with which their weakness and general debil-ity was replaced by a renewed feeling of strength and vitality," says Dr. H. B. Vail, formerly Phy-sician in the Baltimore Hospital and a Medical Examiner. "I took Nuxated Iron myself to build me up ated from mysel to blank me up after a serious case of nervous ex-haustion. The effects were appar-ent after a few days and within three weeks it had virtually revi-alized my whole system and put me in superb physical condition."

At All Druggists

No Need of Them, Says Brooklyn Man, Who Has Evidently Solved a Big Problem

FOOT TROUBLES

According to the testimony of hundreds of people living in the Sauthland and elsewhere, J. R. Simon, of 1589 Broadway, Brooklyn, N. Y., has successfully developed a system of shoe building having for its prime object the conquering of foot and shoe troubles. It appears that Mr. Simon's establishment has become national headquarters for people whose feet require his remarkable comfort shoe, known as the EzWear, but obtainable only of the inventor. Mr. Simon's new-catalogue shows several hundred shoes that combine comfort with style at amazingly low prices and is now ready for free distribution.

Antiseptic Analgesic Antiphlogistic

(Prevents Infection) (Relieves Pain) (Allays In Rammation)

For coughs, colds, influenza, croup and 4 threatened pneumonia, wounds, abrasions, burns, bruises and sunburn. Will not blister delicate membranes.

Eucapine Salve reduces inflammation of the skin and mucous membrane and whether applied directly to the inflamed surface, for external injury or its volatile oil inhaled for pulmonary troubles it is dependable and efficacious. 50c per 2 oz. jar. At your druggist's or by mail from the manufacturers.

Piedmont Laboratories, Inc., Clinton, S. C.

ESCAPED AN OPERATION

By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Many Such Cases.

Cairo, Ill.—"Sometime ago I got so bad with female trouble that I thought

I would have to be operated on. I had a bad displacement.
My right side would pain me and I was so nervous I could not hold a glass of water. Many times I would have to stop my work and sit down or I would fall on the floor in a faint. I consulted faint. I consulted several doctors and every one told me the same but I kept fighting to keep from having the opera-tion. I had read so many times of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it helped my sister so I began taking it. I have never felt better than I have since then and I keep house and am able to do all my work. The Vegetable Compound is certainly one grand medicine."

—Mrs. J. R. MATTHEWS, 3311 Sycamore Street Cairo. Ill Street, Cairo, Ill.

Of course there are many serious cases that only a surgical operation will re-lieve. We freely acknowledge this, but the above letter, and many others like it, amply prove that many operations are recommended when medicine in many cases is all that is needed.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass.

DANDRUFF

Tetterine

Is Applied. Fragrant and Soothing. 50c at your druggist's or from the SHUP-TRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

LEMON JUICE

FOR FRECKLES

Girls! Make beauty lotion for a few cents-Try It!

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into bottle containing three ounces of orehard white, shake well, and you have a quarter pint of the best freckle and tan lotion, and complexion beautifier, at very, very small cost.

Your grocer has the lemons and any drug store or toilet counter will supply three ounces of orehard white for a few cents. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face, neck, arms and hands each day and see how freckles and blemishes disappear and how clear, soft and rosy-white the skin becomes. Yes! It is harmless and never irritates.

CHURCH NEWS

Alabama.

Town Creek, September 1 .- Brother Ben Harding began a meeting at Hatton, nine miles from Town Creek, on the first Lord's day in August, and preached day and night till the following Saturday, baptizing ten. Hatton is a new place. This congregation was established some two years ago. The meeting closed with fine interest. Brother Harding endeared himself to the church and neighborhood, and much good was accomplished. From here he went, on the second Lord's-day morning, to Mount Hope, where we have a good-sized congregation, and they were ready for the meeting. This week's meeting resulted in twenty-seven being added to the church. To-day he is with one of the oldest congregations in the county, Landers-ville, where some of the gospel heroes use to delight in preaching the wordsuch men as Dr. A. C. Henry, J. M. Barnes, F. D. Srygley, T. B. Larimore, E. G. Sewell, L. R. Sewell, and many I expect to spend one day at others. the old home church this week. church at Town Creek also has had a feast of good things for the past ten days. Brother G. C. Brewer began a meeting with us on the fourth Lord's day in August and continued it until the fifth Sunday night. In many respects this was the most interesting meeting we have ever had. Brother Robert Brewer conducted the song service. The meeting was well at-tended day and night, especially at night. Brother Brewer preached with great ease and force, and was given the closest attention by all who heard him. Seven were added to the church and many others seemed "almost persuaded." Eternity alone can tell the good that was done. Brother Holt has been breaking to us the bread of life twice a month this year. May the Lord bless all of our faithful ones .-J. R. Armstrong.

Arkansas.

Nola, September 1.-I baptized one at Glenwood and two placed membership. I then spent a few days at Hot I am now at Nola in a meeting which starts with large audiences and fine interest .- U. G. Wilkinson.

Fort Smith, September 1.-There were two baptisms at the Sunday-night service of the Park Hill church The interest is at its best, of Christ and we feel that the Lord is blessing us in our efforts to serve him.-Leland H. Knight.

Buena Vista, September 1.—Brother R. L. Colley, of Millville, closed an eight-days' meeting at Whitefield last Lord's day. The attendance was good throughout, and very good interest was manifested. There was one addi-tion. Brother Colley is a very able young man and won many friends while here. We hope to have him with us again.-Lillian Tyson.

Kentucky.

Winchester, September 1.-I closed a meeting at Antioch, in Clark County, with five additions. Brother M. P. Lowrey, one of the elders at Winches-

The next time you buy calomel ask for

The purified and refined calomel tablets that are nausealess, safe and sure.

Medicinal virtues retained and improved. Sold only in sealed packages. Price 35c.

Those Nervous Headaches which are the lot of so many Housewives and Mothers.

Dr.Miles Anti-Dain Pills

Seldom Fail to Relieve Any Ache or Pain.

For Sale by All Druggists.

MILES MEDICAL CO., Elkhart, Ind

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

ter, preached on Lord's day, with two more added. These seven will be quite a help to the Antioch congrega-tion. The Winchester church of Christ is moving along steadily, preparing for the meeting by Brother Adamson in October.—M. D. Baumer.

Frankfort, September 1.—The meeting at Swallowfield closed on Wednesday night, with sixteen additions—thirteen by baptism and three from the Baptists. Brother R. A. Craig, of Louisville, did the preaching. He is in the evangelistic field, and brethren who desire a meeting would make no mistake to send for him. I preached at Antiech last Lord's day, and a young man returned to the fold.—
J. K. P. South.

Louisville, September 1.—On Mon-day evening, August 16, I began a meeting with the Cedar Springs congregation, near Jeffersontown, Ky., and continued it till Sunday evening, August 29. Fine interest and good crowds prevailed throughout the meeting, Brother W. W. Freeman, of Abi-lene, Texas, was with us most of the time and led the song service. presence was a great encouragement to us all. There were six additions John L. Rainey.

Paducah, August 31.—Our meeting here closed last night, having con-tinued two weeks. The Goebel Avenue congregation is a splendid one with which to work. Brother Charlie Taylor, their faithful minister, was with us the first week, and he and the congregation stood by the meeting with all their strength. Brother Robert Alexander lives here and preaches around the city. He assisted in the meeting no little. Six were baptized, two were restored from digression, and three others placed membership with the congregation. The brethren invited me to assist them next year. I made my home with Brother Charlle Houser and his excellent wife. I believe he is one of the most efficient elders to be found. I begin to-morrow night at Lynn Grove, near Murray.-F. L. Paisley.

Michigan.

Akron, September 1.—Our meeting here still continues, but we will close in time to be in Flint next Lord's day. -Leslie G. Thomas.

Minnesota.

Minneapolls, August 30 .- Four grown people were baptized yesterday. Others may come later, as the tent meeting goes on for another week.—Paul C. Young.

Mississippi.

Utlea, September 1.—The meeting at Ozark, near Marietta, closed with seven baptisms (one being my youngest boy) and one restored. The members claimed that they were greatly strengthened and would do more for the Lord's work. We closed a little too soon. I am now in a meeting one mile from Carpenter and about eight miles from Utica, I shall go from here to Ruleville to preach a few times, beginning on September 11, and then to a point near Oakton, which will end up my promises in this State. Then I have some work in Oklahoma and Arkansas.—W. F. Lemmons.

Oklahoma.

Muskogee, September 1.—We had the largest attendance on Sunday at the East Okmulgee Avenue Church in its history. Special attention has been given the song service, and, un-der the efficient leadership of Brother Cannon, it has recently shown a won-derful improvement,—T, S, Bain.

Tennessee.

Decherd, August 29 .- I have just returned from Arkansas, where I have been engaged in a tent meeting which two weeks. The interest was good throughout the meeting. We had large crowds at every service. Forty-one were baptized and eight confessed their wrongs. Among those baptized were nine Baptists and eight Methodists. The Baptists were conducting a meeting close by, but some of their members came and heard me, and I baptized them. I made my headquarters with Brother and Sister Crabtree, former Tennesseeans. I visited many homes while there, and the people are clever and social. People from nine countles came to hear me preach, and I received many invitations to hold meetings, but could not for lack of time. I shall go next Lord's day to Bean's Creek, in Coffee County. This is my old home congregation, and my father's home is near this place.—R. E. L. Taylor.

50 Eggs a Day

"" More Eggs' Tonic is a Godsend," writes Mrs. Myrtle Ice, of Boston, Ky. She addis: "I was only getting 12 egges a day, and now I get 50." Give Your hens a few cents worth of "More Eggs," the wonderful egg producer, and you will be amazed and delighted with results.

Eggs While Moulting

While moulting, your hens will need "More Eggs" to hasten the moult, revitalize their organs, and put them in fine laying condition. Letters from many users tell how they actually got eggs while moulting.

If you wish to try this great profit maker, simply write a post card or letter to E. J. Reefer, the poultry expert, 7250 Reefer Building, Kansas City, Mo., and ask for his special free-package $1,00 offer. Don't send any money, Mr. Reefer will send you two $1.00 packages of "More Eggs." You pay the postman upon delivery only $1.00, the price of just one package, the other package leng free. The Million-Dollar Merchante' Bank of Kansas City, Mo., guarantees if you are not absolutely satisfied your dollar will be returned at any time within 30 days on request. So there is no risk, Write today for this special free-package offer.

DODSON WOULD STOP SALE OF CALOMEL

Bays Calomel is Mercury and Acts Like Dynamite on Your Liver.

Dodson is making a hard fight against

Dodson is making a hard fight against calomel in the South. Every druggist has noticed a great falling off in the sale of calomel. They all give the same reason, Dodson's Liver Tone is taking its place. "Calomel is dangerous and people know it, while Dodson's Liver Tone is perfectly safe and gives better results," said a prominent local druggist. Dodson's Liver Tone is personally guaranteed by every druggist. A large bottle costs but a few cents, and if it fails to give easy relief in every case of liver sluggisliness and constination, you have only to ask and constipation, you have only to ask for your money back.

Dodson's Liver Tone is a pleasant-tasting, purely vegetable remedy, harmless to both children and adults. Take a spenful at wight and wake to be falled. less to both children and adults. Take a spoonful at night and wake up feeling fine; no biliousness, sick headache, acid stomach or constipated bowels. It doesn't gripe or cause inconvenience all the next day like violent calomel. Take a dose of calomel today and tomorrow you will feel weak, sick and nauseated. Don't lose a day's work! Take Dodson's Liver Tone instead and feel fine, full of vigor and ambition. full of vigor and ambition.

The Romantic Story of Southland's Favorite Shoe, EzWear

Some five years ago, a prominent citizen of South Carolina, visiting New York on important business, chanced to meet the maker of a shoe built on new and unusual lines; an enthusiastic admirer of its most distinctive features, ease and comfort, had suggested the name "EzWear;" it was promptly adopted. The business man from the South, knowing how welcome such a shoe would be in his part of the country, urged that its remarkable qualities, including not only comfort, but style, durability, and economy, be made known there. That this has been done effectively is proven by the enormous demand that has sprung up in the South for EzWear Shoes. that its sale there during the last twelve months has increased fully three hundred per cent. The distributor, Mr. J. R. Simon, of 1589 Broadway, Brooklyn, N. X., says that all who wish to know about a since that combines all worth-while shoe qualities may have a copy of his money-saving shoe book for the asking.

Rheumatism

A HOME CURE GIVEN BY
ONE WHO HAD IT

In the spring of 1838 I was attacked by Muscular and Indammatory Rhoumatism. I suffered as only those who have it know, for over three years. I tried remedy after remedy and doctor after doctor, but such relief as I received was only temporary. Finally I found a remedy that cured me completely, and it has never returned. I have given it to a number who were terribly afflicted and even beardidden with Rheumatism, some of them from seventy to eightly years old, and results were the same as in my own case.

I want every sufferer from any form of rheumatic trouble to try this marvelous healing power. Don't send a cent; simply mail your name and acnt; simply mail your name and address, and I will send it free to try. After you have used it and it has proven itself to be that iong-looked-for means of getting rid of your Rheumatism, you may send the price of it, one dollar; but, understand, I do not want your money unless you are perfectly satisfied to send it. Isn't that fair? Why suffer any longer, when relief is thus offered you free? Don't delay. Write to-day.

MARK H. JACKSON,
No. 827G Durston Bidg., Syracuse, N. Y.
Mr. Jackson is responsible. Above statement true.

TETTERINE

Makes hair beautiful, free from dandruff, and keeps the scalp healthy.

60c at your druggist's or from the SHUP-TRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

VACCINATE YOUR HOGS.

BUY SERUM direct from the manufacturers and be assured of a fresh, reliable product. United States Veterinary License No. 114; long-distance phone, Main 2569, Nashville, Tenn. Write for 90-page Hog Book; it is FREE. phone. WHITE SERUM COMPANY.

NO JOKE TO BE DEAF

Every Deaf Person Knows That.

I make myself hear, after being deaf for 25 years, with these Artificials Par Drums. I wear them day and night. They are perfectly comfortable. No one sees them. Write me and I will tell you a true story, how I got a true story, how I got

Cuts and Sores

will be soothed and healed with Excellent for all skin eruptions and injuries Wash first with Ka-Dene Soap. Ointment 50c and $1.00. Soap 25c. At your druggists

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

The Double Nature of Man. No. 6.

BY TICE ELKINS.

The theories we are combating represent the soul of man as "the final result and efflorescence of a continually refined life of the nerves, so that reason and will are nothing but the organic life of matter, which by a refined process attains the power of thinking and willing," In what this refined process consists, these wise sages have not yet informed us.

But if the soul is thus dependent upon the bodily organization, it must follow that, as the body becomes enfeebled by disease or age, the mind will suffer a corresponding debility. But this is so far from being the case that a large number of those distinguished for intellectual power have possessed but feeble, emaciated forms. The history of all men and of all ages confirms the statement that the vigor and force of intellect depend but slightly upon the corresponding quality of the body.

The deep mysteries of science have been penetrated with long-continued and persistent toil, even while the body bowed beneath the pressure of infirmity and disease. The genius of poetry, even when consumption's pallid hues overspread the dying frame, has tuned those celestial notes and sung those heavenly lays that will never cease to touch for high and holy purpose the chords of human sympathy.

Read the words of Richard Watson: trace the footsteps of his giant intellect on every page; and tell me, would you have expected to find so great and godly a mind incased in such a feeble house of clay? Instances have occurred in which paralysis has unnerved the whole system, and yet the mind has remained unscathed. We will quote a single case, that of the celebrated witty and clever diplomatist, Talleyrand. The body, diseased, was in the most wretched and distressed condition one could conceive, and yet the subtlety, the wisdom, the skill, the talent, and the penetration of that great diplomatist are said to have remained to his last moments unequaled. Notice also the case of the celebrated Dean Swift. It is said that before he died his body was a moving tomb, and yet his mind was as vigorous as in his earlier years. How often, when the body is prostrated by disease and enfeebled in all its energies, has the mind, instead of partaking of the body's weaknesses, retained all its energy and power! The functions of memory have been unaffected. the perceptions have been clear and distinct, and reason has retained undoubted supremacy on its throne. How often, while the body was in its last stage of dissolution, when it possessed not a single capability entire, has the mind blazed up with unwonted luster and put forth unaccustomed energy! The pious and eloquent Dr. Fisk, while in a dying state, exclaimed: "I now feel a strength of soul and an energy of mind which this body, though afflicted and pained, cannot impair. The soul has an energy all its own. And so far from my body pressing my soul down to the dust, I feel as if my soul had almost power to lift the body and bear it away!"

It was by examples like this that Bishop Butler was led to notice that a mortal disease, which, by degrees, consumes and prostrates the body, and finally destroys it, does not necessarily affect our powers of thought and reflection. While the body is being consumed, and even up to the very moment of death, we can exert these powers as fully as ever. From this we are bound to reach the just conclusion that the soul, which is unaffected by the process of dying, has an independent and superior existence.

I shall now utter a startling fact. Follow me for proof. The human brain may be diseased and the mind remain unaffected; therefore the latter is not a function of the former. At the very outset, in this line of thought, we are met with well-attested facts, showing that the brain has actually been extensively diseased, while the intellectual capability remained unaffected. The annals of medical experience furnish us with such cases almost without number. They prove that the brain may be destroyed to a large extent, in any direction, without destroying any of the functions of the mind. Distinguished anatomists claim. by a wide induction of facts, that every part of the brain has been found to be destroyed or disorganized, in one instance or another, while yet the individuals have not been deprived of

Hens Lay While Moulting

While Moulting

First to lay is first to pay. "I used 'More Eggs' Tonic, and for the first time my hens laid through the moulting season," writes
Mrs. C. Lughbulh, of Norwood, Ohio. E. J.
Reefer, the poultry expert, has discovered a scientific product that hastens the moult and revitalizes the organs of the hen and puts her in fine laying condition. Letters from many users tell how they actually got eggs during moulting! You, too, can make your hens moult fast, get eggs sooner, and more eggs all fall and winter. This scientific tonic has been tried, tested, and proven by over 400,800 chicken raisers. Try Reefer's "More Eggs" on his ironclad, money-back gmarantee of satisfaction.

If you wish to try this great profit maker, simply write a post card or letter to E. J.
Reefer, the poultry expert, $259 Reefer Building, Kansas City, Mo., and ask for his apecial free-package $1.00 offer. Don't send any money. Mr. Reefer will send you two $1.00 packages of "More Eggs." You pay the postman upon delivery only $1.00, the price of just one package, the other package being free. The Million-Dollar Merchants' Bank of Kansas City, Mo., guarantees if you are not absolutely satisfied your dollar will be returned at any time within 30 days on request. So there is no risk. Write today for this special free-package offer.
Profit by the experience of a man who has made a fortune out of poultry.

mind, or even affected in their intellectual powers. I do not mean that the whole brain has been destroyed in any one individual, intellectual life still remaining, but a portion of the brain in one instance, another portion in another instance, and so on till the aggregate would comprehend every organic portion. Dr. Abercrombie mentions a case of a lady one-half of whose brain was reduced to a mass of suppuration by disease, yet she retained her faculties to the last.

The failure of any material and chemical combination to produce life is further evidence that mind is not a function of matter. It might be supposed that if life were a function of matter, that somewhere in the history of human observation instances of its spontaneous and original production would have occurred. Science records no such instance, but is compelled to acknowledge its failure to produce life by any combination of merely material elements. We must conclude that "there is a spirit in man."

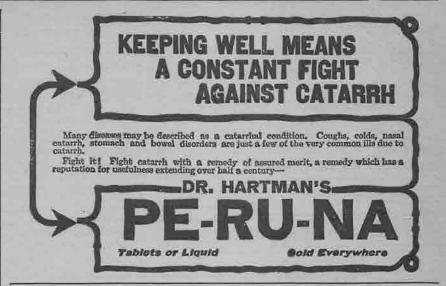

Notes from West Tennessee.

BY JOHN R. WILLIAMS.

With Brother B. G. Swinney, of Greenfield, Tenn., as song leader, I began work at Glady Hill, in Oblon County, on Sunday, July 11, and closed on Sunday night, July 25. Owing to the fact that the farmers were not done cultivating their crops, it worked a hardship on them to work and attend the meeting; but they faltered not, standing by the meeting, working, praying, singing, till the close. There were only three addi-One was from the Baptists. The members are at peace one with another. They called me for another week, though this was the ninth meeting in succession at this place.

On Sunday, August 1, I began my tenth meeting in succession at Jones Chapel, in Lake County, and closed it on Friday, August 13. Part of the time I was sick, and came home for a day or two; getting better, I went back and took up the work, I am sorry to say the success of the meeting was greatly handicapped by two or three has-been members-regular grouches who have no confidence in themselves nor any one else, who do not claim to be members of the congregation, but who were very insistent in their claims as to what should be done by others, but doing nothing themselves but growl and object to Two young ladies were everything. baptized, and since the meeting closed I have heard of others who intended to obey the gospel. Some grand, good men and women belong at Jones Chapel that will never give up the fight.

On Sunday, August 15, we began at

When You Feel Shaky

WINTERSMITH'S Will Ton CHILL TONIC You Up.

For Malarial Fevers and a General Tonic If not sold by your druggist, write ARTHUR PETER & CO., LOUISVILLE, KY.

Bethel, in Obion County, and closed on August 31. Thirty-seven were baptized, fourteen were restored to fellowship, and one took membership with the congregation—fifty-two in all. Six of the number baptized were members of the Baptist Church. At Bethel there is no friction, no ill feeling, but peace and love fill each and every heart. This meeting was within five miles of my home. They called me for another year's work.

On Sunday, September 5, we began at Cloverdale, in Obion County; and on Sunday, September 19, we are to begin in Hornbeak, where I have lived for about fifty years. In October we shall go to Samburg, on the Lake, for a meeting, with the promise only of being fed while there. We are hoping and praying for good meetings at all these places.

All Need Treatment.

The blood, the nerves, and the liver—there are cases in which they all need treatment at the same time, the blood being impure and deficient in iron, the nerves weak and unsteady, and the liver torpid and sluggish. In these cases such a combination of medicines as Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier; Peptiron, a real iron blood and nerve tonic; and Hood's Pills, the gentle, yet thorough cathartic, is of signal service.

The many effective and highly approved ingredients of these three successful medicines cannot all be included in one medicine because of incompatibility, but they are practically combined by taking the medicines in conjunction—Hood's Sarsaparilla before eating, Peptiron after eating, and Hood's Pills as needed. It was a happy thought of Mr. Hood's to suggest that they be so combined in the treatment of such cases as are referred to here, which nowadays seem to become much more common.

Select Thoughts.

The true knowledge of God is the only cure for the world's evil.

God's call consecrates us, but our service seals the consecration.

Pay more attention to your inner life and less to outer difficulties.

You Do More Work,

You are more ambitious and you get more enjoyment out of everything when your blood is in good condition. Impurities in the blood have a very depressing effect on the system, causing weakness, laziness, nervousness and sickness.

GROVE'S TASTELESS Chill TONIC restores Energy and Vitality by Purifying and Enriching the Blood. When you feel its strengthening, invigorating effect, see how it brings color to the cheeks and how it improves the appetite, you will then appreciate its true tonic value.

GROVE'S TASTELESS Chill TONIC is not a patent medicine, it is simply IRON and QUININE suspended in Syrup. So pleasant even children like it. The blood needs Quinine to Purifyit and IRON to Enrich it. These reliable tonic properties never fail to drive out impurities in the blood.

The Strength-Creating Power of GROVE'S TASTELESS Chill TONIC has made it the favorite tonic in thousands of homes. More than thirty-five years ago, folks would ride a long distance to get GROVE'S TASTELESS Chill TONIC when a member of their family had Malaria or needed a body-building, strength-giving tonic. The formula is just the same today, and you can get it from any drug store. 60c per bottle.

Jell-0

Ice Cream

To make the finest ice cream, stir Jell-O Ice Cream Powder in milk and freeze it, without adding sugar, eggs or anything at all.

The old way of making ice cream has been dropped by most good housekeepers.

Vanilla, Strawberry, Lemon and Chocolate flavors and Unflavored. 'At grocers'.

THE GENESEE PURE FOOD COMPANY Le Roy, N. Y.

21 Atlantic Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

CHURCH NEWS

Arkansas.

Blaine, September 1.—The meeting at Hobart closed with twenty-one baptized and four reclaimed. This was certainly an interesting meeting. We have a fine little band of brethren and sisters at Hobart, and they know how to show their appreciation of a preacher's time and labor. I am now in a meeting at this place, having begun last Thursday night. There are just a few here, and most of them are doing nothing. By an earnest request of a few, I am to go from here to Sulphur, ten miles from here, to try to get the church to work there.—D. S. Ligon.

Tennessee.

Hilham, September 1.—The meeting at Fairview closed on the fourth Sunday in August, with one baptized and six reclaimed. I am now in a good meeting at this place, with three baptisms and fine interest. The Methodists and Presbyterians are running a union meeting, but we are getting much the larger crowds.—J. C. Pendergrass.

Crockett, September 1.—During the past six weeks I have been busy holding meetings in the byways and hedges of this country, making known the gospel in its purity. I baptized nineteen on confession of their faith in Christ (two more are yet to be baptized) and received three from the Missionary Baptists and one from the Methodists. I also organized two Sunday schools and put one congregation to keeping house for the Lord.—W. B. Worthington.

Livingston, Route 1, September 1.—
I closed a four-days' meeting at St. John, in Clay County, Monday night, with nine added—four by baptism and five confessing their faults. One of those baptized was sprinkled on Sunday, but he heard me talk on Rom. 6 on Monday, and came forward, stating that he wanted to obey God's command and not men, and I baptized him. St. John is a small congregation that was put in order six or seven years ago. This was my first trip to preach for them in four years.—Willie Hunter.

Columbia, Route 9, September 1.— Our meeting at Berea, in Maury County, began on the fourth Sunday in August and closed on the following Saturday at the water with twenty-three additions—sixteen baptized, one from the Baptists, one from the Cumberland Presbyterians, and five reclaimed. This was one of the best meetings that we have ever had. The people all seemed interested in that part of the country. W. S. Morton did the preaching, with a good hearing both day and night.—T. P. Hardison.

Columbia, September 1—On the third Lord's day in July I began a meeting at "Holy Hill," in Carroll County, which closed on the following Saturday night with no visible results. This is a "Holy Roller" neighborhood. From there I went to Obion Chapel, where I began a meeting on the fourth Lord's day, which continued until the following Friday evening, closing at the water's edge with one baptism and others "almost persuaded." I next went to Byers Chapel, in Hickman County, for a meeting, beginning on the first Lord's day in August and closing on the fol-lowing Saturday night. There were lowing Saturday night. no visible results. I began a meeting at Haley's Creek on the second Lord's day and continued it until the following Saturday night. Two were restored. My next meeting was at Bell's Branch, beginning on the third Lord's day and closing on the following Fri-day night with one restored and one baptized. From this place I went to Sharp's Corner, in Maury County. where I began a meeting on the fourth Lord's day, closing at the water with five baptisms and ten restorations. I am now in a meeting at Brown's Chapel, in Maury County,-W. T. Beasley.

Brownsville, September 1.—Brother S. P. Pittman conducted a meet-ing for the church at this place, beginning on July 11 and closing on the night of July 22. The meeting was a fine success. Three grown was a fine success. Three grown persons and two young persons were added (four baptisms) and the church was greatly benefited in a spiritual way. Brother Pittman is a teacher in the David Lipscomb College. and is a very fine scholar, and all that heard him speak of him in the highest because of the wisdom and the spirit of Christ manifested in every sermon. Brother A. J. Veteto, who is to be the vocal teacher during the coming session of the Freed-Hardeman College, at Henderson, led the song services. Brother W. S. Long was with the church last Friday night. We are al-ways glad to have Brother Long with ns. It was he that started us to buying a lot and building a house of worship, which we have nearly finished by the help of the brotherhood. We hope to have monthly preaching here next year, as we are trying to pay off our church debt this year. Brethren, send us a freewill offering for our seating fund.—Walter L. Brummett.

Texas.

Floyd, August 30.—I closed an excellent meeting here last night with twelve baptisms. Rain hindered much. Brother J. W. Acuff led the songs. My next meeting will be at Fargo, near Vernon.—J. B. Nelson.

Cleburne, September 1.—I closed the Caddo meeting, in Johnson County, to-day. We were rained out two nights and were hindered several others by threatening weather. One was restored to fellowship, one placed membership, and three were baptized. Two of those baptized were from the Methodists, the other from the Baptists. The brethren treated me well and gave me the largest support I ever received. It is a joy to labor with such brethren.—J. S. Daugherty.

Permanent Muscular Strength cannot exist where there is not blood strength. Youngmen giving attention to muscular development should bear this in mind. Hood's Sarsaparilla gives blood strength and builds up the whole system.

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

More Colorado Work.

BY E. C. FUQUA.

During Mrs. Fuqua's confinement in the Boulder Sanitarium, where she was recently operated on, I held a meeting in Boulder, preaching over three Lord's days. The meeting was pleasant throughout and profitable to the brethren. There were four additions, all told, during the meetingtwo from the Christian Church, one erring brother who returned to Christ, and one to be baptized. This last was left for Brother Bailey to attend to, as it was the last night of the meeting and I had to hurry home early the next morning.

I am now en route to a point near Holly, Col., for a meeting. This is an old sectarian stronghold where the pure and simple gospel has never been heard. I go upon the invitation of the people of the community, having "secured the job" by "underbidding" sectarian "competitors," so to speak. They could not get a sectarian to hold their meeting for less than one hundred dollars in addition to his "keep." while among them, and I "bid" for the meeting by stipulating that they pay me whatever they decided my work among them was worth to them, and pay it as "unto the Lord," since I was his servant only. That unusual proposition met with their approval, and they are now anxious to know what sort of preaching may be had under such an agreement. I sincerely hope to establish a congregation there. Holly is near the Kansas State line, in Southern Colorado. If I establish a congregation there, we will immediately need a good man to locate there and keep the work moving. Wolves are watching our movements in establishing young congregations in the West, hoping to destroy the flock as soon as possible-as soon as our back is turned; and I pray that the Lord of the harvest may provide "reapers" who will be willing and ready to take up these young congregations and develop them in the work of the Lord.

For the benefit of our friends, I am happy to say that Mrs. Fuqua is gradually gaining strength since the serious operation, and we now believe she will get well and fairly strong. The Lord has most singularly spared her for some purpose; of that there can be no doubt.

The Spirit's Life in Men.

It is a new birth that is required. No care spent on our conduct, no improvement and refinement of the natural man suffices. For flying, it is not an Improved caterpillar that is needed, but a butterfly; it is not a caterpillar of finer color or more rapid movement or larger proportions, but a new crea-

DID YOU KNOW

- THAT Abilene Christian College is a full college of the highest rank, conferring standard degrees and giving work upon which the State Department issues both temporary and permanent teachers' certificates?
- THAT there is here a faculty of more than thirty Christian men and women of extraordinary ability and splendid training?
- THAT the college plant consists of a campus of more than forty acres, on which stand four good brick buildings and a number of temporary buildings awaiting replacement by permanent buildings?
- THAT at present a campaign for a quarter million dollars for the improvement of this plant is meeting hearty response all over the State and outside the State?
- THAT we are to erect in the near future at least three or four good buildings and equip them with the very best and most service-
- THAT we enrolled four hundred and twenty-eight students last session, not counting the enrollment in the summer school, and would enroll at least six hundred this year if our room was not limited to caring for a few more than four hundred?
- THAT we want to send you our catalogue, that you may know many other things concerning us and our work that you have not
- THAT we will take a special pleasure in answering your inquiries and furnishing you information?

THAT you should reserve a room at once?

ABILENE CHRISTIAN COLLEGE

ABILENE, TEXAS

ture. We recognize that in this and that man we meet there is something more than men naturally have; we perceive in them a taming, chastening. inspiring principle. We rejoice all the more when we see it, because we know that no man can give it, but only God. And we mourn its absence because even when a man is dutiful, affectionate, temperate, honorable, yet if he have not grace, if he have not that peculiar tone and color which overspread the whole character, and show that the man is living in the light of Christ, and is moved by love to God, we instinctively feel that the defect is radical, that as yet he has not come into connection with the Eternal, that there is that awanting for which no natural qualities, however excellent, can compensate-nay, the more lovely and complete the natural character is, the more painful and lamentable is the absence of grace, of Spirit.-Marcus Dods.

You will find a lot of satisfaction in looking cheerfully on the dark side of life,-Selected,

"Diamond Dyes" Are Guaranteed

Colors never Streak, Run, Fade or have "Dyed" Look

Each package of "Diamond Dyes" contains directions so simple that any womtains directions so simple that any wom-an can diamond-dye a new, rich, fadeless color into worn, shabby garments, draperies, coverings, whether wool, silk, linen, cotton or mixed goods.

Buy "Diamond Dyes"—no other kind— then perfect results are guaranteed even if you have never dyed before, Druggist has color card.

has color card.

HINDERCORNS Removes Corns, Callouses, etc., stops all pain, ensures comfort to the feet, makes walking easy. Jo, by mail or at Druggists. Hiscox Chemical Works, Patchograp, N. T.

FRECKLES

Now Is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots.

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling schamed of your freekles, as Othine—double strength—is guaranteed to remove these homely spots.

Simply get an ounce of Othine—double strength—from your druggist, and apply a little of it night and morning and you should soon see that even the worst freekles have begun to disappear, while the lighter these have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than one onnee is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a beautiful clear complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength othine as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freekles.

To Reduce Fever Relieve Headaches and Neuralgic Pains

Aspitone is very efficient and absolutely safe to use as it does not depress the heart even in extreme cases of debaity or weak heart, neurasthenia or snaemia. Manufactured by a formula in use by leading physicians generally. 19 parts pure Aspirin, I part pure Caffeine, 4 parts excipient, in convenient tablet form. 35e per package at your drug-gists or by mail from the manufacturers, Piedmont Laboratories, Inc., Clinton, S. C.

TETTERINE

Clears Baby's Skin

and drives off the rash and pimples. Harmless, Soothing, Fragrant.

60c at your druggist's or from the SHUP-TRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

ASPIRIN

Name "Bayer" on Genuine

"Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" is genuine Aspiria proved safe by millions and prescribed by physicians for over twenty years, Accept only an unbroken "Bayer package" which contains proper directions to relieve Headache, Toothache, Earache, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Colds and Pain. Handy tin boxes of 12 tablets cost few cents. Druggists also sell targer "Bayer packages." Aspirin is trade mark Bayer Manufacture Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid.

"Baptists vs. Campbellites." No. 20.

BY M. S. MASON.

Mr. Bandy, on page 33, begins a discussion of the design of baptism. First, he says it sets forth a symbol of the burial and resurrection of Christ. Of course he means by this that it also "symbolizes" our burial and resurrection, as he states later. That is not so. It is our burial and resurrection; and to make it plain, Jesus died, was buried, and was raised from the dead, and through that death, burial, and resurrection purchased salvation for all men. Now, we, in order to come into the individual merits of that death, burial, and resurrection, must obey a form of that; or, we die to the love and practice of sin by faith, repentance, and confession, and are buried in the water and raised from the water. Thus our baptism does not symbolize what we have received, but in the symbol we receive what Jesus gave us.

He says that Acts 2: 38: Rom. 6: 5; I Pet. 3; 21 all show the act by which the believer is added to the church. In this he admits baptism to be necessary to salvation. Proof: By universal agreement, we are saved only when reconciled. Paul teaches us in Eph. 2: 16 that we are reconciled in the body; and in Eph. 1: 22, 23 he says the body is the church. So we are reconciled in the church, or saved in the church. He also uses John 5: 25, in which we are taught that life comes to those who hear the voice of the Son of God; and as baptism is a part of that voice, we live by that. Acts 2: 28 states plainly that baptism is for remission of sins, and 1 Pet. 3: 21 says with equal clearness that baptism saves us. We appropriate three other passages which he gives and his general expression that accompanies them for the defense of the faith.

He says baptism adds to the church, and, as previously said, in that expression he admits baptism necessary to salvation, as we cannot be saved out of the church. (Matt. 28: 19, 20.) Here it is stated that we are "baptized" into the name, and by universal agreement we are saved in the name, so baptized into a saved state. (Acts 2: 41.) Here we learn that the Lord adds daily to the church such as should be saved. A man is added to the church at the same time he is saved, and it is done identically by the same process. Therefore whatever adds a man to the church saves him. (See 1 Cor. 2: 13.) Here we are taught that we are baptized into one body-that is, the church: so, as we are saved in the church, we are baptized into salvation.

He takes the usual turn on the commission, "making disciples and baptizing them." Mr. Bandy will not stay with his own construction on the word "disciple." Here he would have us believe that a disciple is a fullfledged Christian; but when he finds disciples going back and walking no longer with Jesus, as recorded in John 6: 66, to save his apostasy doctrine he will tell the truth about disciples in Matt. 28: 19 and say they are learners or those who have learned the truth and are ready to obev it.

On page 34 he says too much cannot be said of baptism without we make it a condition of salvation. That is to say, too much cannot be said of it without we make it nonessential. say too little cannot be said about it if it is nonesential. There are so many essential things to do and teach, we cannot afford a moment's time for the unnecessary. He says it presents a "perfect picture of the burial and resurrection of our Lord." That is so; and it takes that picture to save us. too. He says it shows our faith. Certainly it does; and James teaches us that faith without works, or "shown faith," is dead. He says it is the oath of allegiance to Christ. Does a man belong to the United States till he takes the oath? Then, do we belong to Christ before we take the oath? He says we in this way declare our death to sin. No, this is the way we die to sin. Paul says we are "baptized into death." (Rom. 6: 3.) In verse 7 he says: "He that is dead is freed from sin." So we are baptized into a freedom from sin, or made free from sin by baptism. He says it is the dividing line between the church and the world. That is true. Paul tells us in Acts 20: 28 that the church is bought with the blood of Christ. John says in 1 John 5: 19 that "the whole world lieth in wickedness." Of course the wicked are lost. The blood of Christ saves. Then baptism is the line between the saved and lost. Mr. Bandy, if he had been an informed gospel preacher, could not have formed stronger arguments for the cause he attacks than he has in the foregoing.

He asks the question: "Is Baptist baptism from heaven or men?" I answer: It is from men. Christians, the faithful to the Lord and his apostles, know nothing of the design that Baptists have put in this ordinance.

The best way to learn to work with a man is to pray with him.

Volume LXII. No. 38.

NASHVILLE, TENN., SEPTEMBER 16, 1920.

$2.50 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

CONTENTS.

ED) FYING AS THE NEED MAY BE	897
OUR CONTRIBUTORS. What About Elders? (No. 3)—Paying the Bills of a Wayward Child—The Light of Life—Los Angeles Notes—David Lipscomb College Notes.
SELECTIONS BY THE EDITOR.	903
GEORGIA AND THE FAR SOUTHERN FIELD :	902
HOME READING	902
AT HOME AND ABROAD964,	900
QUERY DEPARTMENT	906
EDITORIAL Repentance—Bible Things by Bible Names: Designations of the Church—"The Unity of the Spirit in the Bond of Peace."
CURRENT THOUGHT	911
CHURCH NEWS	920
"Baptists vs. Campbellites" (No. 21)	814
Report from the Church at Duncan Arie	012
OBITUARIES	814
From the Sunny South to the Golden Gate	010
Among the Colored Folks	920

Edifying as the Need May Be

Q

The Bible and Prosperity.

There is no other book ever introduced into the public schools or to be found in the libraries to be compared in educative value with the Bible. A man "too broad" for the use of the Bible is too broad for education to benefit. He is really not broad at all. He is the thinnest of the thin. History proves abundantly that the Bible and Christianity have done more to develop great minds than all other things this world has ever seen. What is more, it takes minds of small caliber and makes them great. If it cannot make a mind great, there is no hope for it. William E. Gladstone said in his prime; "Talk about questions of the time. There is but one question-how to bring the truths of God's word into vital contact with the minds and hearts of all classes of people." Nothing can take the place of home instruction. Where can we learn so well of the love of God as in looking from the sacred page into the heaven of mother's eyes? Where can one realize so fully the strength and protection of God as in feeling, while he reads, the pressure of his father's arms? In many homes religious instruction is a thing of the past. Some parents spend their time gathering treasures for those who are to come after them-treasures which moth and rust will corrupt-and do not fit their children to use those treasures for their own good. In many churches the Bible is taught, but in a listless and haphazard way. It is the letter without the spirit. It has become quite the fashion for our young people after they reach their majority to turn away from the Bible classes. In doing this they usually follow the example their parents have set them. Sometimes we hear parents lament the fact that their children do not come to the Lord's-day school. But when it is asked, "Do you attend?" they answer: "No, I gave that up when I was about their age." We believe that the success of this work in the church is largely dependent upon parental example and influence.

We should not forget that the Bible is the best symbol of prosperity. Jehovah says of his word: "It shall not return unto me void, but it shall accomplish that which I please, and it shall prosper in the thing whereto I sent it." History proves that the very thing for which God sends the word is to prosper the people who teach it. It has filled them with material blessings. A faithful few have called down blessings upon a great multitude.

0 0 0

Give Bible Study Its Rightful Place.

It is sadly true that Bible study has been relegated to the rear, if not altogether dispensed with, in many churches. We should all join in insisting time and again that it be given its rightful place. You will recall the fact that after Jonah's experience with the whale the Lord told him a second time to go to Nineveh and preach to the people of this city. As he entered the city, Jonah cried aloud; "Yet forty days, and Nineveh shall be overthrown:" When they heard this warning, the people believed God and proclaimed a fast and put on sackcloth, "from the greatest of them even to the least." Even the king repented of his sin.

The point is this: I must continue to impress upon our hearts the importance of teaching and preaching the word until we come to our sackcloth and ashes—that is, until we begin to show signs of a repentant spirit for our neglect and a grim determination to give this part of the worship its rightful place in the church of the living God.

While it is true that the New Testament contains explicit directions relative to teaching children, yet nowhere is it intimated that this part of the work is to be confined to them. Paul commends Timothy by saying: "From a babe thou hast known the sacred writings." The Greek word "pais," employed in this passage, indicates "from lisping infancy." There is all the authority one needs for the "infant class." But when Timothy is a grown man, he is still urged both to study and to teach. "Give diligence [or "study" in the Authorized Version] to present thyself approved unto God, a workman that needed not to be ashamed, handling aright the word of truth." "Till I come, give attendance to reading, to exhortation, to doctrine." The picture of the ideal congregation doing its full duty in teaching and studying and learning the word of God should be nothing less than a picture of grandparents, parents, young men, young women, small boys. small girls, and lisping infants. All the generations should be represented in Bible study and in Bible classes.

A Troubled Sister's Question.

A troubled sister writes: "Is it right to meet every Sunday and be a teacher in the Sunday school, if living at a place where there is a church that uses the organ in worship and will take the Lord's Supper only once a month, when they have preaching service? I am bothered about this, as I have always, before coming here, worshiped with the church that did not use the organ and observed the Lord's Supper. I have tried to get this church to remember Jesus by taking the Supper, but they will not. There are only about two dozen who meet, although more belong. The elders are absent most of the time. I know of no church anywhere near here that worships the right way. Please tell me what is right under these circumstances."

The fact that this church does not observe the Lord's Supper every first day of the week and has added instrumental music to its worship indicates clearly that it is not after the New Testament pattern. I could not consistently teach a Bible class under such circumstances, unless there was a strong prospect of leading them into God's plan of worship. The sister seems to have made this effort and falled. Her next effort should be to induce some of the members to meet at her house or in some other convenient place to worship God aright. It would also be a good plan to send for a sospel preacher able to correct the errors of that church or to establish one after the New Testament order.

Our Contributors

What About Elders? No. 3.

BY W. H. CARTER.

To appoint elders, " if any he blameless, the husband of one wife," etc., means that, if there are none "blameless, the husband of one wife," etc., no elders are to be appointed. I am aware that this is in conflict with the opinion of some, but about this I am little concerned. question with me is, am I in conflict with the word of God? I do not want a faith and practice that rest on the wisdom of men. This subject is of too great importance, too far-reaching, and has too much to do with the increase or decrease, the prosperity or adversity, the life or the death of churches of Christ, to allow us to exchange what God says for that which man says, no matter what his ability, station, or influence may be. Great men go wrong, as well as little men. Because one occupies a conspicuous posttion, stands high with and has great influence over the people, is no evidence that what he teaches is the truth, I am not censuring, belittling, or accusing any one as knowingly or intentionally advocating wrong, but am trying to impress the fact that the Bible is the only safe guide in all things, and only he is right who stands squarely with it.

God condemns divisions because they are hindrances to the work assigned to the church. As long as preachers and writers speculate and teach their opinions, we will have divisions; and where there is division, there is error. Preachers and brethren are divided about the eldership, How shall we get together and be one? Is there any other way than to do as God says—"preach the word," speak as the oracles of God?" I do not think I am excited or exaggerative when I say that more is dependent on a scriptural eldership in the churches than any other one thing. They are the scriptural leaders and feeders, the rulers and exemplars, if we accept only what the Bible says of them. But, for some cause, they are not so regarded. Even the elders in many places do not so regard themselves; and were they to undertake to rule, teach, and guide, they would find themselves incompetent. This state of affairs exists because of incompetence or a failure to perform duty on the part of some one else.

There are obligations, duties, and relationships that have been lost sight of, or relegated to the background, that greatly concern the elders and the churches. Years ago in the contentions about how elders should be appointed, things were said, arguments made, and positions taken that blazed the way to our present condition. It was argued that, as we are all "kings and priests," there is no such thing as "one having authority above another in the church of God." Under such teaching of men of powerful influence, elders were chosen and appointed in a loose, unscriptural way, sometimes only chosen and never appointed, and came to conclude that they had no authority above others; and the congregations, under the same teaching, came to understand that no one had authority to rule over them; hence the condition we find existing to-day. The ancient commands of the Holy Spirit, to the elders, to take the oversight of and feed the church of God, and, to the membership, to "obey them that have the rule over you," have been classed as "popery," and the one who contended for the "Thus saith the Lord" was called a "hobbyist" and accused of engaging in "bitter personalities." Papers were closed against articles on the subject through fear of displeasing their patrons. In all this, no doubt, brethren were acting in the way they thought best. But I am glad I can see what appears to be an awakening, and articles that have a more scriptural ring, as to the duties of elders, are occasionally appearing.

No one has authority to do anything in the church only as it is given by the Christ, and this is given only through his revealed will. Whatever he commands one to do, that one has authority from Jesus to do. If elders are commanded to take the oversight of and feed the church, they have authority to do it, and no one else has. Preachers who are pastorating under a camouflage have no right nor authority to oversee and govern the church. When they enter pastorates, though under another name, they are out of their God-appointed sphere, if I understand the Scriptures, and helping to add to the helplessness of the elders. Preachers who have the indorsement of, and are sent by: the churches, have authority to do the work assigned to them. Paul said to Titus: "These things speak, and exhort, and rebuke with all authority." (Tit. 2: 15.) Evangelists, like elders and all others, only have authority to do that which they are taught in the Word to do. Some fall short of this, and some go beyond. I had rather attribute this to a lack of knowledge than to an unruly and imchristian spirit. And now, brethren, let me exhort you not to go to extremes on the question of "equal rank." There is danger here. This same principle, if I see clearly the language of the apostles as regards the eldership, has been used to the detriment of the churches. While in some things all are "equal," is it not possible that in some other things all are not "equal?" Will it be out of order for me to suggest that all are not of "equal rank" in possessing the qualifications of elders; that all are not of "equal rank" in authority to rule; and that all are not of "equal rank" in authority to appoint elders? Yet in some things all are of "equal rank." All are Christians; all are God's children; all are members of the same body; all are servants; all are kings and priests. Let us be careful to note all distinctions made in the word of the Lord. It is hard for men in controversy to keep from going to extremes, were controlled

At the risk of worrying you, I will write one more article and then close.

Paying the Bills of a Wayward Child.

HOLDER THE BUILDING HER STORY OF THE BUILDING A HOLD WITHOUT THE BUILDING A HOLD WITH THE BUILDING A HOLD WITHOUT THE BUILDING A HOLD WITH BUILDING A HOLD W

The Christian Standard with its constituency of the more conservative element of the society people are just now wrestling with the problem of indebtedness to the deficit fund of the "Interchurch World Movement" incurred by the secretaries of the "United Societies." It will be remembered that these secretaries committed all the churches working through the societies to the "Interchurch World Movement," underwriting the expense of the mammoth enterprise to the amount of six hundred thousand dollars. It now transpires, since the collapse of the big movement, that the societies find themselves bound for this huge sum, and they are proceeding to meet the obligation with the funds contributed by the churches for an entirely different purpose. The Standard speaks as follows:

No attempt was made at that convention to amend the Constitution of the society in any respect, and without such amendment the society meeting at Cincinnati had no authority or power to authorize the underwriting by its several interested agencies, as such underwriting was not one of the objects or purposes of its creation, but entirely foreign thereto, as appears from the reading of the articles of the Constitution hereinbefore quoted, and which; not even by a strained construction, grants such power.

This is said to refute the claim by the board managers that the convention had a right to authorize the indorsement of the "Interchurch World Movement" and the underwriting of its expenses. But the managers of the "United Societies" seem to have the better of the argument, for they set forth the matter thus:

The Cincinnati convention indersed with unanimity and enthusiasm the interchurch World Movement, and authorized its underwriting by our several "interested agencies."

The Standard seeks to offset this action of the convention by the following:

The foregoing words tell the tale. It was a unanimous enthusiasm following the reaction from the great world catastrophe, and while in that frame of mind those who were engaged therein were blinded by the spectacular to such an extent that, in a sober moment, they forgot to read the Constitution to ascertain what powers, if any, they had in the premises. The "Form of Christian Service" referred to in Article III, refers and relates to the matters and things preceding such statement, all of which are specifically named.

Boards of managers and executive committees, in matters of this character, where conventions can be swept off their feet by enthusiasm, are supposed to take time to reflect, to investigate, to learn fully their duries and powers before pledging so vast an amount as six hundred thousand dollars in an enterprise so foreign to its creation as the one in question. The fact that it took five years to raise six million dollars in the campaign just preceding the Interchurch World Moyement, and of which a sixth was pledged by one individual, ought itself to have been a warning that the attempt to raise twelve million dollars could result in nothing but disaster, and this regardless of whether the Executive Committee had or had not the right or authority to pledge the funds of this society.

Funds of this character are held and treated as a sacred trust and for the uses and purposes specified in the articles of the Constitution under which they were gathered, and neither officer nor committee nor man nor set of men has the right, legally or merally, to divert one dollar from the nurposes named.

The society, with its boards, conventions, etc., is the child of the churches which departed from the New Testament order, and in its extravagant waywardness has involved the churches not only in the meshes of sectarianism, but run them in debt to the amount of six hundred thousand dollars, quite a sum for their prodigal child. The Standard, while powerfess to deny that the convention authorized this procedure upon the part of its managers, seeks to excuse it upon the ground that it was "swept off of its feet by enthusiasm." Exactly so. It was an uncontrolled enthusiasm that gave birth to the society in the beginning, when a lot of men in convention assembled permitted their unbridled zeal to run away with their knowledge, and the churches are now reaping the fruit of an enthusiasm that swept men off of their feet. It is impossible, because of the weakness of humanity, to throw a lot of men together in a religious convention and keep them from transcending the laws of God. For that reason the people of God should have no such deliberative bodies, conventions, or gatherings for the purpose of considering the welfare of the kingdom of God. The Lord fixed that matter in the beginning when he left no religious assembly on this earth larger than a local congregation with specific laws for its guidance.

But what about this huge debt? What is to become of it? Editorially, the Standard says:

w dalibut you and Our Interchurch Derts and of Sound of

The United Society agencies assumed obligations from which they cannot escape, and they are paying off these obligations in monthly installments. In other words, each month a considerable portion of the money our people are contributing to missions and benevolences is being applied to Interchurch indebtedness.

Thousands and tens of thousands of the brethren are contending that we, as a people, do not owe this money. And, from one viewpoint, we do not—the brotherhood is not, could not possibly be, legally bound for any part of the debt which is consequent upon the reckless, enormous Interchurch expense account. However, from another viewpoint—and it is the Standard's viewpoint—we, as a people, should pay every farthing of the amount apportioned us.

The United Society agencies enrolled in the Interchurch Movement and functioned in a way which tabulated us as the "Disciple" denomination. This, together with the fact that the International Convention (which is paraded by some among us as an authoritative organization, and which our religious neighbors think is an authoritative body) places us in a peculiar situation—it would not look good should the payments not be made. Moreover, the affiliated agencies legally bound themselves for five per cent of their asking.

Nevertheless, we do not think it right that a half million dollars or more should be diverted from the purpose for which it is given and thrown into the Interchurch treasury to pay debts recklessly made. The missionary societies hold rallies and send out literature to educate the people regarding the necessity of missionary enterprise. The education thus achieved stimulates the churches and Bible schools to give—every dollar contributed by churches, and by Bible schools on Children's Day, is secured on the assumption that it is to be expended in support of our missions. Therefore, to divort this money to other purposes is nothing short of a crime. Hence, it is our conscientious conviction that the Interchurch obligations should be handled in some other way,

There are those who claim that the society officials should defray "our" part of the Interchurch debt out of their own pockets; but such a suggestion is not practical.

As we see it, the societies, to employ current street phraseology, should "lay all their cards on the table" and, in a straightforward way, appeal to the brotherhood for special funds with which to reimburse the missionary treasuries to the extent of all interchurch obligation—and likewise to the extent of office and traveling expenses taken out of the society treasuries for attendance upon interchurch conferences, printed matter, postage, etc. If the societies involved will pursue this honorable course, the Standard will lend itself whole-heartedly to the effort, and the editors of the Standard will make contributions to the extent of their ability.

Thus the Standard recognizes the obligation resting upon the churches to pay this debt; and in view of the action of the convention with its representative delegates from the churches authorizing the support of the "Interchurch World Movement." what else could it benerably do? It would seem that this experience should teach the churches a much-needed lesson and revolutionize their whole rourse in such matters. Wisdom, to say nothing of fidelity to the word of God, should lead them to wash their hands of the whole society business and be content to work as did the churches of the New Testament. They can never control these boards and conventions, because they are the creations of human wisdom and must be guided by such. God has given no authority or direction for such things.

The Light of Life.

BY H. C. FLEMING.

In the affairs of this life we realize the need of physical light; and if we have not that light, we substitute artificial light, because it is much easier to perform our labors in the light than in the darkness. And we are careful not to allow any shadow to come between us and the light. If we are moving toward a light, we find it much brighter than when we are moving from it.

The sources of both natural and artificial light are in Him who created them, and they are given to man as a blessing as he journeys along in his pilgrimage on the earth. But for the light that shines along the way to an eternal abode we cannot make any substitute, because the Father of lights has not given us anything by which we can make it. The reason of this is because we do not need it. His light shines along the heavenly road from the beginning to the end. But if we close our eyes to the light, it is the same with us as if there were no light.

Christ is the light and life of man. (John 1: 4.) Men should walk in that light. (1 John 1: 7.) If we think we do not need that light, we deceive ourselves (1 John 1: 8): but if we accept that light, we walk not in darkness, but in the light of life (John 8: 12). Christ's yoke is easy and his burden is light, because his light dispels the darkness. (Matt. 11: 30.) He is the light of the Gentiles. (Acts 13: 4-7.) He delivers from the power of darkness and translates into the kingdom of light. (Col. 1: 13.) Outside of his light there is weeping and gnashing of teeth. (Matt. 8: 12.)

The thoughts of our minds should always be given to the straitened way that leads to heaven. (Matt. 7: 14.) When troubled and tossed by the world in sin, we should turn our eyes to the living flame (Isa. 9: 2), and light shall shine upon our way (Job 22: 28). God's word is a lamp to our feet and a light unto our path. (Ps. 119: 105.) Jehovah is a refuge, a stronghold in the day of trouble. (Nah. 1: 7.) If we walk in the light of life, the great promise is ours. (1 John 3: 1, 2.)

Los Angeles Notes.

BY S. H. HALL.

I do not now remember enjoying a short stay more than my ten-days stop-over at Farmersville, Texas, on my way to California. Getting ready for leaving Georgia had made my work strenuous, and I felt so unlike entering into a revival, especially where I had reasons to believe the work would be hard. But Brother R. T. Sisco, who lives near Farmersville and who is one of the elders there, had been writing me for more than a year to visit that place for a meeting, hence it was booked. After getting the year's leave of absence from the Georgia work and giving the good people of Los Angeles my promise to work with them, I was anxious to hurry on to this place, hence wrote Brother Sisco of the situation, and suggested that they secure the services of some one nearer home, as the change in my work would necessitate my putting the meeting off from the first of August to the last week in August, with just eight days for its duration. But he would not let me go, and I am new so thankful that he did not. For years I have believed that the God who knows perfectly what is best directs his people; and the older I grow in his service, the stronger this faith becomes. The Lord was in it all; for, notwithstanding the fact that I was so nearly worn out that I felt it impossible to conduct a revival just then, it was the best ten days' work of my life. All told, there were sixty additions, thirty-seven of this number being baptisms, the others being erring Christians converted from the error of their way and a number by statement from congregations in other sections. The crowds were too large for us to remain in the building for the night services; hence they were conducted in the open air, with few exceptions. There were three services daily the most of the time, with a baptismal service following the afternoon service. On the second Lord's day we had eighty-one present for Bible study and the collections went above one hundred and thirty-two dollars. Taking the meeting all the way through, it was a glorious success.

Before closing this report, it would be well to say a few things about the importance of being faithful. Much of the success of the meeting was due to the tenacity and faithfulness of a few members. I would be glad tocall some of these members by name, but they will understand without my doing this. Eternity alone can tell the good that will grow out of "a few names" who will not allow their garments to be stained with sin, who will stand by the cause of our Lord through the storm till victory is perched upon their brows. We have some good people in the Farmersville church, and, with the added names and the deeper consecration on the part of all the membership, it seems that the future holds for them one of the greatest hopes. My home was with Brother D. A. Warner, and I can never forget him and his faithful wife and two daughters, the youngest being baptized during this revival. He is just a little more than a year old in the gospel, but his growth is remarkable.

It was a pleasure to meet Brother R. T. Sisco. We knew each other only by reputation before this meeting. I was in school at Nashville with a relative of his, and we had known of each other for quite a while. Sisco is a great and good man, is what we might call a "farmer-preacher," loves the truth, and is doing much for it in this section of Texas. His son, W. M. Sisco, led the singing, and did it well.

Let me say to every member at Farmersville: Be faithful, attend every service that it is possible for you to attend, read your Bibles dally, do not forget to pray, give till you feel it, love all and hate no one, and the Lord will bless and keep you and make you a blessing continually. They need a new house, and with the six hundred dollars they have in the bank they should soon be able to make such additions to the one they have as to meet their every need. I shall look forward to our being together in another effort with no little pleasure.

After closing the meeting at Farmersville, August 31, 7 took the train immediately for Ada, Okla., where I joined my wife and son for our journey to this place. I arrived at Ada at 4:40 A.M., September 1, and, after spending about eleven hours in that town, we began our nearly fourdays' journey, getting into Los Angeles about 3 A.M., September 5. We left our berths about five o'clock and stepped out into the sunlight of this great city. We felt terribly worn out and tired, but after seeing the happy faces of Brother W. Edgar Miller and Dr. A. W. Abbott, who called with two cars to take us to the home of Brother A. A. Godfrey, we felt better. The services, both morning and evening, were delightful, and I think Mrs. Hall and the boy had a bit of that experience we call "love at first sight" with these good people. I see nothing but the greatest and most glorious prospects before us, and never felt more like working in my life. May all who love the cause of Christ and who know of Christians that have moved here let us know about it. Also, give me the name and address of any friend here whom you want me to call and see. Our home address is 2669 North Sichel Street. The church is located on the corner of Sichel and Altura Streets.

A crowd of troubles passed him by
As he with courage waited.
He said: "Where do you troubles fly
When you are thus belated?"
"We go," they say, "to those who mope.
Who look on life dejected,
Who weakly say good-by to hope—
We go where we're expected."
—Francis J. Allison.

David Lipscomb College Notes.

BY A. B. L.

We are receiving many expressions of interest in the effort to free the college of all indebtedness before October 1. Every letter indicates a spirit of good will and a desire to help in every way possible. We quote some of the latest "cheerful messages:"

"I will help you out later on in the year."-W. H. Jelks, of Jonesboro, Ark.

"I will send you next Sunday's contribution."—M. P. Flora, Brinkley, Ark.

"I will read your letter to the church to-morrow."-T. M. Smith, of Valdosta, Ga.

"The church here will make a contribution for the girls' dormitory."—John W. Fry, of Columbia, Tenn.

"I shall try to do something in helping to raise the needed funds."—W. Claude Hall, of Dyer, Tenn.

"In my preaching I will urge a liberal contribution to the work."—Willie Hunter, of Livingston, Tenn.

H. S. Lipseomb preached at Belmont Avenue Church, Sunday, morning and evening. One person was baptized.

"Next Lord's day has been set apart for a special collection at College Street."—J. Leonard Jackson, of Nashville,

"I will send you a contribution by September 26. Trust you can raise the money."—D. W. Harrison, of Fort Deposit, Ala.

"The congregation here will send the contribution for September 19 to David Lipscomb College."—Nello Rickard, of Belgreen, Ala.

"I will take this matter up with my home congregation.
I hope you brethren will get the school free of debt."—M. A.
Creel, of Hanceville, Ala.

"The congregation here will take up a collection next Sunday to aid in paying the debt on your buildings."— W. B. McQuiddy, of Bellbuckle, Tenn.

"We will announce next Lord's day in advance and take a collection the following Lord's day for David Lipscomb College."—M. C. Kurfees, of Louisville, Ky.

"I will try to be one of twenty that will raise the amount by that time. I hope others will do as well and all will come out right,"—D. I., Lindsey, of Nabors, Texas.

Charles R. Brewer has closed a very successful meeting at Morrison, Tenn. Seven were baptized. Brother Brewer writes that several students are coming from Morrison.

"I am a friend of David Lipscomb College and am willing to aid in any way I can. I am under promise to attend an educational meeting at Mangum, Okla., and will try to put in a word for my old college."—J. B. Nelson, of Dallas, Texas.

A good wish from F. B. Shepherd, Amarillo, Texas: "I notice an almost complete change in the faculty of the 'dear old school,' and trust it means greater usefulness than ever before, even in the days of the Nashville Bible School."

After every storm the sun will smile, for every problem there is a solution, and the soul's indefeasible duty is to be of good cheer.—W. R. Alger.

There is little hope for any boy or girl who begins to make use of the formula, "Good enough." The surest way to fall short in achievement, in character, in success of every kind, is to introduce these two words into your life motto. When you feel like assuring yourself that the half-learned lesson or the clumsly written letter or the slighted household task is "good enough," just remember this: that nothing is good enough, as far as you are concerned, while it is possible for you to make it better.—Selected.

SELECTIONS BY THE EDITOR

Discretion of speech is more than eloquence.-Bacon.

What is so universal as death must be benefit.-Schiller.

Children have more need of models than of critics.-

Trifles make perfection, but perfection is no trifle.— Michael Angelo.

One thorn of experience is worth a whole wilderness of warning.—Lowell.

Liberality consists rather in giving reasonably than much.—La Bruyere.

We hardly find any persons of good sense, save those who agree with us.—La Rochefoucauld.

The first thing a kindness deserves is acceptance; the second, transmission.—George Macdonald.

If you would be loved as a companion, avoid unnecessary criticism upon those with whom you live.—Arthur Helps.

The best is yet to be—
The last of life, for which the first was made.
—Browning

Never esteem anything as of advantage to thee that shall make thee break thy word or lose thy self-respect.—Marcus Aurelius.

Never tell evil of a man, if you do not know it for a certainty; and if you know it for a certainty, then ask yourself, "Why should I tell it?"—Layater.

In all the superior people I have met I notice directness—truth spoken more truly, as if everything of obstruction, or malformation, had been trained away.—Emerson.

Sunshine is delicious, rain is refreshing, wind braces up, snow is exhilarating; there is really no such thing as bad weather, only different kinds of good weather.—Ruskin.

Every honest occupation to which a man sets his hand would raise him into a philosopher, if he mastered all the knowledge that belonged to his craft.—James Anthony Fronde.

Our life is always deeper than we know, is always more divine than it seems, and hence we are able to survive degradations and despairs which otherwise must engulf us.—Henry James.

And it is only they who are faithful in a few things who will be faithful over many things; only they who do their duty in everyday and trivial matters who will fulfill it on great occasions.—Edwin Arnold.

Rest is not idleness, and to lie sometimes on the grass under the trees on a summer's day, listening to the murmur of water, or watching the clouds float across the sky, is by no means waste of time.—John Lubbock.

Blessed are they who have the gift of making friends, for it is one of God's best gifts. It involves many things, but, above all, the power of going out of oneself, and seeing and appreciating whatever is noble and loving in another,—Thomas Hughes.

The test of friendship is its fidelity when every charm of fortune and environment has been swept away, and the bare, undraped character alone remains: if love still holds steadfast, and the joy of companionship still survives, in such an hour, the fellowship becomes a beautiful prophecy of immortality.—Hamilton Wright Mable.

If you want to succeed in the world, you must make your own opportunities as you go on. The man who walts for some seventh wave to toss him on dry land will find that the seventh wave is a long time coming. You can commit no greater folly than to sit by the roadside until some one comes along and invites you to ride with him to wealth or influence.—John B. Gough.

Georgia and the Far Southern Field

By B. C. GOODPASTURE

The Case of Ananias and Sapphira.

The Bible faithfully records and reveals the bad as well as the good relative to men and institutions; the former for our warning, the latter for our encouragement. This is unimpeachable evidence of its superhuman erigin. Up to the time of Ananias and Sapphira the history of the church presented the very image of unsullied light and purity. By reason of their bold hypocrisy in regard to the liberality of a contribution, their names have been written with shame at the top of the roll of ecclesiastical hypocrites. They were the first to bring upon the church the shadow of a great sin. They introduced a new chapter in the life of the church.

0 0 0

Conflicting Affections.

Among the early Christians, in the days of Ananias and Sapphira, an unparalleled liberality prevailed. "For as many as were possessors of lands or houses sold them, and brought the prices of the things that were sold, and laid them down at the apostles' feet." (Acts 4: 24.) No one could live in harmony with the atmosphere and practices of the infant church at that time without giving to the extent of his possessions. As a result of this community of goods, "great grace [favor] was upon them all," Now, Ananias and Sapphira loved their money, for they kept a part of it and deliberately lied concerning it; and they also loved the reputation for liberality, "the praise of men," the "great favor" of the people, for they contributed a portion of their possessions. They were the victims of a compromise between two soul-ruining affections. (1 Tim. 6: 10; Matt. 23: 5.) Olshausen well said: "The root of his sin lay in his vanity, his ostentation. He coveted the reputation of appearing to be as disinterested as the others, while at heart he was still the slave of mammon, and so must seek to gain by hypocrisy what he could not deserve by his benevolence." Although a timeserver and a praise lover, Ananias did not surpass as either. He gave only a part of his possessions. There are those who give not only all their money, but also their time, for a popular reportation. They love the praise of men more than Ananias did. Deceitful, avaricious, and selfish as he was, he did give some of his money to the church. That professed Christian who has money and never gives any to the church, "as is the custom of some," is a lover of money as much greater than Ananias as the whole is greater than a part. Ananias sinned in that he, through a lie, hypocrisy, tried to appear more liberal than he really was. He who, either by exaggerated statements of the amount of his giving or by understatements of the amount of his wealth, endeavors to make out for himself a degree of liberality beyond what is real is guilty of the sin of Ananias.

of range and expension of the ment of the same of the Rigid Discipline.

When a sin is exposed in the church in modern times, we usually expect the cause to suffer and be held in disrepute; but such was not the case in the Jerusalem church. Do we not read: "The people magnified them, And believers were the more added to the Lord, multitudes both of men and women?" (Acts 5: 14.) Why the difference? Is it not a fact that the effect of a scandal in the church is determined by the manner in which it is dealt with more than anything else? If Ananias and Sapphira had been tolerated by the early church by retaining them in their fellowship after their sins were made known, the effect of their hypocrisy would have been the reverse of what It was. In the beginning, at the first opportunity, God set a high standard of living and a rigid discipline for his church. This is a fearful example for all, and especially those who "exercise the oversight" of the church. God does not strike liars dead as in the days of which I speak; but if he did, I fear that the cemeteries would not afford space for the burial of the dead. They are to be disciplined, however. (2 Thess. 3: 6.)

All T. Ligarest rooms & & talkings, Avenue Chiesel dunday, murether and revolue. Our person was benticed.

Bits of News, - and - Bits of News, - and appear -- are Brother J. B. Beck sends a good report from Savannah, Ga.

Brother S. E. Templeton preached at Rockmart and Cedartown, Ga., last Sunday (September 5).

Brother O. D. Bearden preached at Griffin, Ga., Sunday morning: Brother Hugh E. Garrett, at East Point.

Brother R. H. Rogers closed a two-weeks' campaign at Lakewood Heights, this city, last night. There were seven additions.

Brother A. R. Hill closed a meeting at Bowdon, Ga., Sunday night. There were two baptisms. He is on his way to Barney, Ga., to begin a meeting, Pine audiences attended both services at West End Avenue, Sunday. Our tent meeting at the corner of Cooper and Glenn Streets will begin next Sunday night (September 42).

College "- N. P. Kortes On O. Staller No.

"Except the Lord."

Ye fit your ashlars with ingenious care,
Ye rear your roof on arch and pillar strong.
Ye lay your carven beams with colors fair,
Ye bring your toustone on with shout and song,
Ye dream that through the years your walls shall stand,
That your renown as builders shall remain;
But ye consider not that, if God's hand
Work not through yours, your toil and skill are vain.

Ye plant your pleasant city on the hill,
Ye pile its buttressed bulwarks to the sky,
And, posted in his foursquare tower, still Your sentinel keeps watch with sleepless eye:
"No foe unseen," say ye, "can climb the steep;
Our dwelling place is high; secure are we;"
Yet naught availeth rampart, watch, or keep,
Except the mighty Lord your warden be.

Ye rise in anxious haste before the sun,
Ye strive and swelter in the burning heat,
Reluctant ye retire when day is done.
And gradgingly the bread of tears ye cat:
Yet howsoe'er and wheresoe'er the tide
Of changing circumstance may swirl and sweep,
God's tender mercies over all abide,
For so he giveth his beloved sleep.

Counsel no more, O man, with thine own heart;
In arm or flesh no more place confidence;
Have faith in God; bid fret and fear depart;
He is thy faithful Friend, thy sure Detense.
Walk in his ways, so happy shalt thou he;
Shalt eat thine own bread and be satisfied;
Thy children's children thou with joy shalt see;
Shalt see upon his chosen peace abide.
—John Power, in Exchange.

Home Reading

The Tardy Aster.

Little Bessie Berry was almost always late for school. She was always late for everything. It wasn't because she had to run errands or mind the baby, but because she was an "in-a-minute" and a "pretty soon" and "after-a-while" little girl, who liked to dillydally better than anything else in the world.

There were some other children in Bessie's room who were often tardy, too; so the teacher began to wonder what she could do; and soon she thought of something. She went to the seedsman and bought some seeds. They were aster seeds, in paper packets.

"Listen, children!" said the teacher. "How many of you ever had a flower garden?"

Bessie had; most of the children in Bessie's class had.

Then the teacher said a nice thing: "These seeds are for you one little packet for each one in this room."

Here Bessle raised her hand. "Please, may I pass 'em?" But the teacher shook her head.

"One for each one in the room," she went on, "who isn't tardy a single time this month."

That wasn't all. They would plant the seeds and after a while have flowers; and then the seedsman would give a prize to the boy or girl who had the finest flowers.

So the children looked at the seeds longingly, and promised that they wouldn't be tardy one single time; and some weren't. But Bessie was-four times.

The next month was April, and the tardy ones tried again. Bessie was tardy twice: They were to try once

"Try, try again," said Bessie's papa. So she tried again. And mamma helped. Every morning and afternoon she said "seeds" when she kissed her little girl good-by. Bessie said "seeds" over and over, all the way to school, and didn't diliydally once.

And on the last day of May she took a packet of seeds bome. Bessie and her mamma planted them right off. They didn't dillydally about it at all. Bessie hoped she might win the seedsman's prize.

But it was late and dry, and the seeds didn't come up very quickly. Only one seedling grew. Papa called it a dillydally flower. It just wouldn't catch up with Clara Bell's, across the street. But Clara Bell had won her seeds in March.

When the day for the flower show was nearly come, some of Bessie's friends had big blue and white asters in their gardens, and Bessie had one fine aster plant, with hard, green knobs at the top; and the change made Every morning she counted the days that were left, until at last a bit of white showed in one of the knobs. But, then, there was only one day left.

So everybody, even Bessie, knew that it would be a tardy aster, just as Bessie had been a tardy little girl.

When at last the day for awarding the prize came, it was a very, very sad Bessie Berry who stood in the back garden looking down at a tardy aster, while all of her little friends, with hands full of punctual asters, went to the flower show.

Wasn't it too bad? But it must have been a good lesson for Bessie, for she doesn't dillydally any more.-Lulu G. inochantely notherth to Parker, in Little Folks. The median was helder & writing the rather and tracking the frequency from a model of tables of world and the frequency of tables of tab

Give us, O give us, the man who sings at his work! Be his occupation what it may, he is equal to any of those who follow the same pursuit in silent sullenness. He does more in the same time—he will do it better—he will persevere longer .- Carlyle.

Getting Ready for Winter.

CHA BROH

Mrs. Woodchuck sat in the door of her home watching her babies playing in the sun. She thought she was the happiest mother in all the world, with her two sweet children and her snug little dwelling dug out in the side of the hill, overlooking the river.

It was a bright morning in early fall, and Mrs. Woodchuck made up her mind to visit her old friend, Mrs. Marsh-hen, down by the river's edge, and get the news. So she sent the children into the house and slowly ambled down to the river. She had just taken a long, cool drink. when, looking up, she saw Mrs. Marsh-hen laughing with all her might,

"You have grown so fat I hardly knew you," laughed she. "I believe if you had stubbed your toe coming down the hill you would have rolled right into the river, for you are as round as an apple. You must have robbed all the gardens for miles around."

"O, no, I have not," replied Mrs. Woodchuck. "I will tell you. I have found plenty of clover leaves all summer, and I am very well contented, you know, to live on such rich food. Once in a while I strayed over in the orchard and feasted on the sweet apples that fell upon the ground, I am fond of green peas or lettuce; but I never go far away from home, and so do not get many of these dainties. Last month I commenced to eat as much as I could to make layers of fat all over my body; for, you know, a little later I must retire for the winter and take my long nap. which will last until next April or May."

"Don't you nearly freeze?" asked Mrs. Marsh-hen.

"No indeed," replied Mrs. Woodchuck. "You see I move down below the frost line, and then I gather moss and dried leaves, make a soft bed, close up the door so tight that the snow and cold winds cannot blow in. I roll myself up in a ball until I look like a fur muff, then I sleep as cozy and warm as 'a bug in a rug.'"

"You won't be as fat in the spring, will you?"

"Hardly," replied Mrs. Woodchuck. "I shall lose some flesh; but that I must expect after so long a fast.

"I shall go south for the winter," said Mrs. Marsh-hen. "but next spring I'll be back early, probably before you are awake. Good-by and pleasant dreams, for you must have a great many in that long nap," called Mrs. Marshhen as she spread her wings to bid her other friends farewell-Josephine Strong, in Our Dumb Animals.

A A ST TO STATE AND THE STATE OF THE STATE O

As If On Eagle's Wings.

BY ADELIA'S, MARTIN, UNA DELIA DELIA DE

O human heart, what means thy strange mrest? Go learn from Nature lessons meant for thee. Think how the eagle "stirring up her nest." Teaches her young the way to liberty; And if they fall from some bewildering height, She dives below to bear them on her wings. And so my Lord is ever guiding me " In heavenly places, lifts my soul to-night Upward toward the loftiest star that sings The glorious song of love's eternity.

Though on and on the stream of life may flow, And though the future looks so dark and dim, From out the gloam a voice, tender and low, Still bids me watch and wait, trusting in Him! Just as the helpless birdlings, left alone,
Trusted the sun-tipped wings brooding afar,
Mine own heart faints, falters most hopelessly,
Till some winged spirit lifts me up and on Above all worldly things that wound and sear. Lord, I would know and love no God but thee!

Q AT H

AT HOME AND ABROAD

A new house of worship will be built in North Birmingham, Ala,

- I. A. Douthitt has changed his address from Wingo to Sedalla, Ky.
- H. W. Jones, of Hardin, Ky., is in a meeting at Dawson Springs, Ky.

Willie Hunter is in a good meeting at Board Valley, near Sparta, Tenn.

G. C. Brewer made us a pleasant call last Monday morning. He preached at Beech Grove on Sunday and Sunday night.

The brethren at Glen Allen, Ala., are making an effort to rebuild their house of worship. The old one was destroyed by fire.

- W. S. Long is visiting the churches in Tennessee in behalf of the Washington work. He preached at Manchester last Sunday.
- H. W. Wrye writes: "Our Spring Hill meeting closed on September 5, with a fine interest and seventeen additions eleven by baptism."

Fred Dennis, of Bonham, Texas, was a visitor at the office last week. He travels for a New York house and preaches as he has opportunity.

- G. Dallas Smith has just closed a meeting at Fayetteville, Tenn. The meeting was very interesting throughout and resulted in thirteen additions.
- L. S. Thurmond has changed his address from Dyersburg, Tenn., to Henderson, Tenn. Any one desiring his services during the coming year should address him at the latter place.
- S. H. Hall put the Gospel Advocate into twenty Christian homes at Farmersville, Texas, during his meeting there. He expects to put it into every member's home at Los Angeles, Cal.
- R. P. Cuff has changed his address from David Lipscomb College to 118 Lynn Avenue, Macon, Ga. He would be glad if any who have friends there would furnish him their addresses, that he may pay them a visit.

From J. A. Cullum, Joplin, Mo., September 6: "The meeting at Willow, Okla., closed with large crowds and splendid interest and seven baptisms. Will, M. Thompson will hold their meeting next year. I will be with them again in 1922, the Lord willing."

From Charles L. Speir, Checotah, Okla., September 7: "I have just closed a twenty-days' meeting at Fame, Okla., with six additions, five by confession and baptism. The meeting was well attended from the beginning, and interest and attendance grew until the close."

From J. A. Hudson, Oklahoma City, Okla., September 7: "The services last Sunday were fine. One lady took her stand with us. Prayer service last Wednesday was the best for a long time. We are expecting it to get better yet. Our Sunday school is on the increase."

From A. N. Kennedy, Route 2, Pilot Point, Texas, September 6: "The meeting at Hemming is fine. Eight have been baptized. Two confessions last night and two restored to their 'first love.' Large crowds and intense interest. Rain has hindered much. Pray for me."

William P. Walker writes from Clarksville, Tenn., September 10: "The meeting at Mount Olive, near Stayton, Dickson County, closed last Thursday morning at the water's edge. There were twelve additions during the meeting. We left the brethren rejoicing in the Lord."

From Ulrich R. Beesom, Chickasha, Okla., September 9: "My meeting at Olney, Texas, was well attended and well supported. This is my last meeting for the year before going back to school. We had two restorations and three baptisms. Claude McLung is now with the church here in a fine meeting."

N. N. House writes from Thyatira, Miss.: "Jacob C. Foster, of Hillsbore, Texas, has just closed a ten-days' meeting at this place. Six were baptized. Brother Foster is a devoted minister of the gospel, unwilling to compromise any of God's teachings to please any man or set of men. Would that all were like him!"

From Charles Sweatt, Buchanan, Tenn., September 9: "I closed an eight-days' meeting with the Harmony congregation, near Union City, Tenn., on the fourth Lord's day in August. Interest was good throughout the meeting. Seven were baptized, two of whom were from the Methodists, and one was restored."

From R. N. Moody, New Market, Ala., September 9: "The tent meeting at Union Grove, three miles west of here, continued twelve days, closing last night. The attendance was good, the tent being full the last service. One man was baptized, and his wife came in from the Baptists. This enlists a new family for the cause of Christ."

N. W. Proffitt closed his meeting at the mission on Twenty-second Avenue, North, this city, Saturday night, with two confessions. S. Houston Proffitt preached there at 11 A.M., Sunday. N. W. Proffitt began a meeting at Sixth Avenue and Buchanan Street at that time, to continue over next Sunday. The interest is good.

Oklahoma Farm Lands.—Do you want a beautiful, productive small-grain farm on the Western prairies, or a river-bottom alfalfa farm, or a roe-crop farm in Eastern Oklahoma? Then deal with Christian men who guarantee honorable treatment. Address the Oklahoma Farm Lands Company; offices, 7 West Fourth Street, Oklahoma City, Okla.

Floyd M. Edwards sends us an article for publication concerning the local trouble in the church at Chillicothe, Mo. The article is not suitable for publication in our columns. He challenges the Apostolic Review to discuss the local troubles at Chillicothe, and names W. G. Roberts to meet him as the representative of the Apostolic Review. He requests also that the discussion be published in the Review.

From J. Kearby Bentley, Comanche, Okla., September 9: "I am at Comanche for a twelve-days' meeting, beginning to-morrow night. I have already held seven meetings this year, resulting in sixty-four additions. What strong congregation wants me for a fall or winter meeting? I would be glad to visit Tennessee and Kentucky. I have been preaching eight years, and am neither a socialist, hobby rider, nor crank."

From A. B. Fowler, Sweatman, Miss., September 11:
"M. C. Cayce and A. Y. Howell have just closed the best meeting for the Red Hill congregation that we ever had. Brother Cayce began the meeting on Monday night after the fifth Sunday in August and preached until Friday night. Brother Howell began the next night and preached until Thursday night. We had eleven additions. Four were from the Baptists."

From Will W. Slater, Wesley, Ark., September 8: "The meeting at Delaney, Ark., closed on Monday morning at the water's edge. Twenty-two were baptized; eight young men, mostly soldier boys. It was a great meeting in many respects. Brother Gabbard lives there and preaches for them. He is a great lover of the church and a good man. I am now in a meeting at Wesley, I go from here to Middleton, near Morrillton. Pray for me."

From R. C. Roy, Beedeville, Ark., September 10: "E. L. Whitaker, of Henderson, Tenn., has just closed a ten-days' meeting at this place which we consider one of the best meetings held in several years. There were seven baptisms, most of them heads of families. About ten more were restored. This was Brother Whitaker's first visit to this part of the State, and he endeared himself to all. We hope to have him with us again sometime."

D. F. Draper writes from Fort Worth, Texas, September 10: "My summer's work has been almost wholly in the Western States. I visited and preached in New Mexico, Arizona, California, Oregon, Washington, and Væncouver, B. C. I met many true and loyal church people while away, whose kindness and sweet memory I shall never forget. I can answer calls for fall and winter work. Address me at 2709 May Street, Fort Worth, Texas."

From R. H. Johnson, Morrillton, Ark., September 8: "The meeting conducted by the writer near Hazen, Ark., closed on Sunday, August 29. We had fine crowds and good attention throughout the meeting, but no additions. This meeting was held in a destitute place about three miles from the place of worship. I closed a good meeting near England, Ark., last Monday. There were twenty additions—fourteen baptisms. I go next to Baldwin, Ark."

Alonzo Williams, of Wingo, Ky., wishes to know "about the members of the churches of Christ in the different States of the Union, also the members in the leading countries of the world." He desires to know "the number of foreign missionaries and about the amount they receive for their services." If anybody can furnish this information, please send it to Brother Williams; and Brother Williams will confer a favor by sending it to the Gospel Advocate.

From T. L. Cook, Route 2, Halls, Tenn.: "F. L. Paisley, of Memphis, Tenn., recently closed a meeting at Antioch Church, with fifteen additions—nine by primary obedience, one from the Presbyterians, two from the Baptists, and three restorations—and seed sown that we trust will bring forth a hundredfold. Brother Paisley is a strong and forceful preacher of the gospel. May his days be multiplied on the earth, that he may do much more and lasting good."

From T. T. Pack, Nashville, Tenn., September 9: "I recently held two fine meetings. The first was at Casey Chapel, ten miles south of Kingston Springs. The meeting continued two weeks, with fine interest and large crowds, but no additions; but the brethren seemed to be well pleased. The other meeting was at White Bluff. It continued four teen days and closed with large crowds and fine interest. There were three additions. I have been asked to come back to both places."

W. L. Oliphant writes from Sulphur, Okla., September 10: "I preached to a crowded house at Spaulding, Okla., last Lord's day. I began a meeting last night with the Vinita Avenue church of Christ, this city. We had a large crowd, splendid interest, and two confessions at the first service. The church seems to be well prepared for the meeting. The brethren have advertised quite extensively, and the people knew about the meeting in time to hear the first sermon. Brethren, it pays to advertise. We are hoping for a great meeting."

James A. Allen closed a very interesting meeting at Chapel Avenue, this city, on Sunday evening. There were two baptisms. During the flerce electrical storm on Sunday evening the lights were extinguished, leaving the audience in total darkness; but Brother Allen continued his sermon while the storm raged, as calmly as if nothing had happened. And every now and then, as the lightning flashed, one might see the speaker's gestures. We are convinced of one thing, and that is that "Brother Jimmie" is not the kind of preacher that has to have his notes.

From T. N. Ballard, Fenter, Ark., September 7: "It has been suggested that I write you concerning a loyal gospel preacher locating in our vicinity, which is a splendid farming country with excellent range for stock. J. E. Wainwright, of Texarkana, has labored through three summers with us in meetings and has relieved us of digressive ideas and encouraged the erection of a splendid building which is now nearing completion and painting. We would be glad to hear from some one desiring to move this way."

The Tennessee Orphans' Home is in need of funds to crect a fire escape on the bullding. The cost will be something like fourteen hundred dollars. The board has already received an order from the State authorities to crect the fire escape within the next thirty days. This makes the need imperative and immediate. If a number of children should lose their lives by a failure to have fire escapes, the management and those interested in the work would never cease to censure themselves for this neglect. The day for the next regular contribution is the first Sunday in October.

From Leland H. Knight, Fort Smith, Ark., September 7: "The past Lord's day was not devoid of results, and another brave soul came back from the ways of unrighteousness with the spirit of the Psalmist David when he said: Search me, O Lord, and try my heart: try me, and know my thoughts: and see if there be any wicked way in me, and lead me in the way everlasting." The attendance was good at both services, especially among the young people, and the interest remains at its best. Brethren, pray for the Park Hill congregation, that we may be faithful and loyal to Christ, who died that we might live."

From H. D. Jeffcoat, Ackerman, Miss., September 9: "I am at home with loved ones. I spent two weeks in the Delta—one week at Holly Ridge, with seven additions, and one week near Cleveland, with eight additions. I was sick in bed four days while at Cleveland; but David O. Griffith preached and the meeting went on. The meeting closed on Sunday night, with four or five hundred out to hear. The Delta is the best farming country I ever saw, and is being filled up with white farmers. It is indeed a great mission field, where the people hear the word gladly. May God send more laborers into Mississippi."

From W. H. Gurganus, Cordova, Ala, September 9:
"J. D. Tant (Christian) and C. H. Cayce (Primitive Baptist) recently held a four-days' debate near Fayette, Ala.
It was a great debate in many respects, attended by people from six States. From one thousand to fifteen hundred persons attended every day. A large number of preachers representing both sides, as well as others, were present.
W. H. Gurganus, of Cordova, moderated for J. D. Tant;
J. R. Scott of Lynn Grove, Ky., for C. H. Cayce. Cayce is considered the strongest Primitive Baptist in America, but Brother Tant gained a great victory for the truth."

From S. E. Templeton, Ragland, Ala., September 11: "Yesterday at noon I arrived at this place in answer to a special request from a sister in Christ to come here and baptize her sister. I preached here yesterday afternoon last night, and this morning. At the service yesterday afternoon the 'precious sister' confessed her faith in the Christ and was baptized. We have just a few scattered disciples in and near this place. They need help and encouragement by way of some one's teaching and leading them. I leave this afternoon for Borden Springs, Ala., where I will preach to-morrow morning and afternoon, the Lord willing. I expect to leave Atlanta next Wednesday for Mangum, Okla., for a meeting."

S. P. York writes from Westmoreland, Tenn., September 7: "I send you a report of a meeting near Tompkinsville, on the Cumberland River, last week. J. H. McBroom did the preaching. I led the song service. As results of the meeting, five were baptized and four came back to the church. Brother McBroom did some good preaching. Any preacher needing a song leader or any church needing a school taught should address me at once. Churches should have a week's song drill and instruction before they begin their profracted meeting; then the song leader has a chance to prepare the class for better work in the services. In the first place, the class should be sure they have a good song book, a good leader, and success is assured, so far as the music is concerned. I will consider locating at some good place and giving all my time to singing and preaching. I am thirty-two years old and have a wife and three children."

From Charles L. Talley, Cookeville, Tenn., September 10: "I spent one week—August 29 to September 4—in a mission meeting on Martin's Creek, about five miles east of Granville. This meeting I consider one of the best of my summer's work. We began on Sunday night in Sister Annie Bartlette's home, with about twenty-five present, and closed on the following Sunday night, with not less than three hundred and fifty present. On Monday we arranged seats under a mill shed; and while there was quite a deal of rain, yet it came at times when it did not interfere very much with the services. We have promised to return and spend two weeks at that place next year. There was one confession and baptism. Those who objected most seriously at the first were the most anxious for the meeting to continue. Sister Bartlette is a good and true disciple and is entitled to much credit for her work and labor of love. Tom Ford, one of our elders, suggested and planned this work, which should not be abandoned."

From Andy T. Ritchie, Lafayette, Tenn., September 10: "Since the middle of July I have assisted in several meetings at different places. The first was at Underwood Chapel, in Macon County, near the Kentucky line This is a Methodist building, and the neighborhood is a general mixture of religious faith. We had good crowds, fair interest, and one baptism. The next was at Burnett Chapel. near Lavergne, with a splendid hearing, good cellent entertainment, good support, and one baptism. Berry Chapel, four miles from Franklin, we had unusually large crowds for the place, plenty to eat, Christian hospiliberal pay, and two baptisms. At Shady Grove. near Hartsville, the usual crowd, kindly reception, patient hearing, satisfied brotherhood, and Christian fellowship, but no one changed, so far as I could detect. I am at present in a meeting in a Baptist church house at Frog Pond, near Lafayette. There are few members here, but we are having large and attentive audiences each night and fair crowds at the day meetings. I had promised meetings till late in the fall; but our little boy, who had a nervous collapse on May 20 when he started to the hospital to undergo a very serious operation, grows gradually worse, and I am forced to call in my work and go home to help care for him till some change is brought about in his condition. We ask the prayers of the faithful."

Query Department

By 1. C. McQUIDDY

A brother who does not wish his name revealed asks an explanation of 1 Tim. 5: 24, 25. These passages read as follows: "Some men's sins are evident, going before unto judgment; and some men also they follow after. In like manner also there are good works that are evident, and such as are otherwise cannot be hid." The apostle is writing on the subject of discipline and is urging Christians to keep themselves pure. Some men's lives are open and are fully known, while others conceal and hide their sins, and they will never be known or fully manifested until the judgment. The same thing applies to good works. Some get credit for more faith and piety than they really have; while others who are true, modest, and devout do not get full credit for their good works until the judgment. At the judgment all men will be seen in their true light.

000

H. L. Wood, of Milan, Tenn., wishes to know if it is right for a person who has not obeyed the gospel to teach in the Bible school. There should be enough Christians in the church who know and love the word of God to be able to teach it efficiently. It is a reflection on the church whenever a sufficient number of teachers cannot be found, provided there are a number of members, to teach the Bible. However, we should always rejoice whenever the word of God is taught, and should encourage any one who is able to do so to teach it. I would encourage those who are not members of the church to teach the Bible on all occasions and everywhere, because I believe that whenever the word of God, which is the seed of the kingdom, is implanted in the heart, that good will be the result. Paul rejoiced just so Christ was preached. "Some indeed preach Christ even of envy and strife; and some also of good will; the one do it of love; knowing that I am set for the defense of the gospel; but the other proclaim Christ of faction, not sincerely, thinking to raise up affliction for me in my bonds. What then? only that in every way, whether in pretense or in truth, Christ is proclaimed; and therein I rejoice, yea, and will rejoice." (Phil. 1: 15-18.) All men should be encouraged and not discouraged in teaching the word of God. I rejoice with Paul whenever the Christ is preached or whenever the word of God is taught. If a salcon keeper teaches the word of Clod, we should rejoice, because in the teaching of the word he may be led from his sin into chedience to the truth. If men are sufficiently honest to seek for the truth, they certainly will learn it. " If any man willeth to do his will, he shall know of the teaching, whether it is of God, or whether I speak from myself." (John 7: 17.)

000

A person who wishes to be nameless asks: " If a young couple get married and the wife proves that she was not virtuous-that she had deceived the husband-and they are both members of the church, according to the Bible, what steps should he take in not living with her? He says he will not live with her any more, but wants to leave her in a scriptural way." There is no direct teaching in the Bible on the question asked. All that can be done is to give the general teaching and trend of the Bible. I think the action of the husband should be guided very largely by the conduct of the wife after marriage. If she is true and has shown no disposition to be unfaithful to her husband, and especially if the charge against her is true and she is willing to confess it to him and promise fidelity during her married life, I do not know how he can be justified in putting her away. If women were to treat all men as this man now proposes to treat this woman, I fear that a very few women would remain with their husbands. So many men have been untrue and have been suilty of fornication before marriage that if women were to demand such of them, there would be many separations. I would advise the man to be just and not to require the double standard of purity. There is no sex in goodness, and God has never demanded anything of woman in this respect that he has not demanded of man. The Bible represents man as the stronger of the two; so a man should be very slow to condemn a woman for a sin of which he has been guilty bimself. In the case of the woman who was taken in the act of adultery, Christ said: "Let him that is guiltless cast the first stone," No stones were cast. I would not in any way uphold sin either in the woman or in the man, but I do think that men should be just and should consider earefully before taking such action. Those guilty of such sin should loathe and hate it and should be willing to confess their sin, especially to those who are affected by their wrongdoing. Women should demand the same standard of purity in men that men demand of them, All men and all women should seek to be just to be oure and upright, and to live as God would have them live.

Book Notices.

Have you read "Sunshine; or, Uncle Minor's Stories?"
This is a very attractive book for children as well as for old people. Children read it with much interest. It is profusely illustrated, and contains many interesting incidents and stories. Price, $1.50.

Send us $1:25 for a copy of "Sweeney's Sermons." This is a book of sermons by John S. Sweeney—one of the best books of sermons published. Sweeney carries conviction with the statement of his position. He is noted for brevity, clearness, and force of statement. Every young preacher should have a copy of this book of sermons.

Have you seen a copy of "Adventism and the Bible?" This is one of the very best books for you to buy at the present time, Adventism is a live subject. Adventists are active and are propagating their doctrines. If you want to be thoroughly prepared to meet them and to expose the errors of Adventism, you should send us at once $1.25 for a copy of "Adventism and the Bible."

We have on hand a few copies of "Biographies and Sermons," edited by F. D. Srygley. This is a book of sermons by a number of our best-known preachers. It is well worth a careful perusal. A brief history of the life of each preacher accompanies his sermon. A picture of the preacher also is given with each sketch. Price, $1.50. If you want this book, you should order at once, as we have just a few copies that have been left over through mistake.

An Hour With Thee.

Lord, what a change within us one short hour Spent in thy presence will avail to make! What burdens lighten, what temptations slake, What parched ground refresh as with a shower! We kneel, and all around us seems to lower; We rise, and all the distant and the near Stand forth in sunny outline brave and clear. We kneel—how weak! We rise—how full of power! Why, therefore, should we do ourselves this wrong Or others, that we are not always strong? That we are ever overhorne with care? That we should ever weak or heedless be? Anxious or troubled? when with us is prayer, And joy and strength and courage are with thee.

—Selected.

Conducted for a half century by D. Lipscomb and E. G. Sewell.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

$2.50 a year, in advance; to Canada and foreign countries, $3.00, in advance. Remittances will be at our risk when sent by express or post-office money order, in registered letter, or by draft payable to our order.

Remittances will be at our risk when sent by express or post-office money order, in registered letter, or by draft payable to our order.

The date on your tab shows the time to which your subscription is paid. When money is received, the date will be changed, which will answer for a receipt. Two weeks' time must ordinarily occur from the time your remittance is sent before the tab on your paper is changed; if not changed by that time notify us at once.

This paper is mailed regularly to all subscribers until definite orders in writing are received and all arrearages paid in full. If you wish us to stop your paper, write us to that effect, but do not ask it nnless you have paid all arrears, if there are any. Do not ask your postmaster to attend to it for you, but do it yourself.

When changing your post-office address, tell us your old as well as your new address; otherwise two papers might be charged to you. Subscribers, after paying for their papers, will tavor us by noting whether the date on the address label is changed, and, if it is not changed within a month, by writing to us. We are careful, but mistakes may occur or letters may be lost. Our rule is to change the date on the day payment is received; but the mechanical work of correcting and printing the list takes time, and payments even from hear-by piaces may not appear the list week. Credits for payments from a distance may be even more delayed. Mistakes are easily rectified if prompt holice is given.

All communications should be addressed to Gospel Advocate, $17-

All communications should be addressed to Gospel Advocate, $17-$19 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

Guarantee of Advertising.

All the advertisements in this paper are, we believe, signed by trustworthy persons. To prove our faith by works, we will make good to actual subscribers any loss sustained in trusting advertisers who prove to be deliberate awindlera. We shall not attempt to adjust trifling disputes between subscribers and honorable business men who advertise, nor pay the debts of honest bankrupts. To make this guarantee effective, in all cases say in writing advertisers. 'I saw your advertisement in the Gospel Advocate; " and if anything goes wrong, notify us immediately in writing.

JACOBS & CO., ADVERTISING MANAGERS, Clinton, S. C.

Entered at post office at Nashvills, Tenn., as second-class matter. Published weekly at Nashville, Tenn.

Repentance.

BY J. U. M'Q.

In order to enjoy remission of past sins, it is necessary for men to repent. Without repentance there is no possibility of any one's being saved. When John the Baptist, the forerunner of Christ, came to make ready a people prepared for the coming Messiah, he came preaching repent-"Repent ye; for the kingdom of heaven is at hand." (Matt. 3: 2.) After John the Baptist, Christ himself came preaching repentance. "Now after John was delivered up, Jesus came into Galilee, preaching the gospel of God, and saying, The time is fulfilled, and the kingdom of God is at hand: repent ye, and believe in the gospel." (Mark 1: 14, 15.) The subject of repentance is so important and so absolutely necessary in order to the enjoyment of happiness that it should be emphasized more than is being done. Men who have been guilty of sin-and all are guiltymust loathe and hate sin and turn away from it before they can stand justified and accepted by Jehovah. "I tell you, Nay: but, except ye repent, ye shall all in like manner perish." (Luke 13: 3.) Repentance is a condition of the forgiveness of sins, as we learn from the commission as recorded in Luke 24: 46, 47. This reads: "And he said unto them. Thus it is written, that the Christ should suffer, and rise again from the dead the third day, and that repentance and remission of sins should be preached in his name unto all the nations, beginning from Jerusalem." While a condition is not in any way the cause of salvation, it is absolutely necessary to comply with the condition in order to be saved. While remission does not follow a condition as an effect follows a cause, yet the relation between cause and effect is no more absolute than is the relation between a condition and the salvation made dependent upon it in pos in men to provide confidence

Having, therefore, seen the indispensable necessity for repentance, it behooves us to inquire, what is repentance? All men understand and know very well when they have repented. If a man claims to repent of getting drunk and yet gets drunk every day, it is clear that he has not repented. If a man makes a false statement and will not correct the evil done by that false statement and deliberately refuses to apologize for having made such a statement, it is evident that he has not repented. Men may be sorry that they are caught in their sins, and yet not repent of the wrong they have done. This is the sorrow of the world which worketh death. A man may be sorry that he has been caught stealing ten dollars; yet if he refuses to restore the ten dollars to the person from whom he stole it, he has not repented. A man may be sorry that he has been caught telling a lie; yet if he refuses to apologize for the vicious statement and makes no effort to correct the evil influence of the falsehood, his is the sorrow of the world, and not repentance. Paul tells as that sorrow leads to repentance. "For though I made you sorry with my episite, I do not regret it; though I did regret it (for I see that that epistle made you sorry, though but for a season). I now rejoice, not that ye were made sorry, but that ye were made sorry unto repentance; for ye were made sorry after a godly sort, that ye might suffer loss by us in nothing." (2 Cor. 7; 8, 9.) As a man who works the ground is not the ground itself, or as the boy who leads us to a place where we find ten dollars is not the ten dollars, so sorrow, of itself, is not repentance. The man who has cruly repented turns away from his sin. We are told that the Ninevites repented: "The men of Nineveh shall stand up in the judgment with this generation, and shall condemn it: for they repented at the preaching of Jonah; and behold, a greater than Jonah is here." (Matt. 12: 41.) What did they do in repenting? "And God saw their works, that they turned from their evil way; and God repented of the evil which he said he would do unto them; and he did it not." (Jon. 3: 10.) Thus we see that in repenting every man turned from his evil way; so we may define repentance to be a change of will produced by godly sorrow, which leads to a turning away from sin. The man who repents loathes and hates sin with all the intensity of his being; he is not so much concerned about who knows his sin as he is about turning away from it and standing justified and approved by Jehovah. When a man turns away from sin and undoes it so far as is within his power, he has repeated. No man can do more than this; no man has ever done more than this; God has never required any man to do more than this. Every history of every country and age may be examined and scrutinized, and yet there is not a case on record where any one has ever more than turned away from sin.

Man cannot possibly devise any way of his own to be saved without repentance. Men in the flesh, who have their fleshly propensities and desires, independent of the revelation that God has given, cannot know God. In 1 Cor. 1: 21. Paul declares: "For seeing that in the wisdom of God the world through its wisdom knew not God, it was God's good pleasure through the foolishness of the preaching to save them that believe." In their own wisdom men could not know the true God; so men had not sufficient wisdom to work out a plan of salvation without accepting the divine guidance and thereby accepting the conditions of salvation as laid down by His word. A man may be stubborn, he may be obstinate and determined not to turn away from his sins and apologize therefor; but so long as he pursues this course he can never hope to be the useful man that he should here in this life, nor to enter at last into that heavenly home where there is no sin to disturb and annoy us. God has given us his revelation to guide us in the way of life; and as man did not have the wisdom to know the true God independent of the revelation which God has given, so it is not in man to provide conditions of salvation by which he can be saved. The prophet Jeremiah (10: 23) declares: "O Jehovah, I know that the way of man is not in himself; it is not in man that walketh to direct his steps." When David had grievously sinned, when he had been guilty of a crime for which he must suffer all the days of his life, and when Nathan, the prophet, pointed out to him his terrible sin, he did not seek to excuse himself or to palliate the awfulness of his sin, but in humility and deep contrition confessed, "I have sinned." This is the only way out of the wrong. So long as men by their shrewdness attempt to cover up their wrongdoing instead of confessing it and turning away from it, they have not repented. As long as this condition exists with a man, he must suffer for his wrongdoing, and his conscience will goad him for it unless it is dead. God's way out of wrong is the only way; it is the easiest way and it is the right way. I should be glad if I could lead all sinners to humbly, freely, and cheerfully confess their wrongs and turn away from them, that they might thereby intensify their usefulness and enhance their prospects of heaven. God bore with the feeble efforts of men to know him for a while, but after they had failed he commanded them to repent. "The times of ignorance therefore God overlooked; but now he commandeth men that they should all everywhere repent." (Acts 17: 30.)

The day of judgment is coming. We must all stand before the great judgment bar of God. Our sins in all their heinousness will then be revealed and God's righteousness will be vindicated in sending us away into that bottomless pit where there shall be wailing and gnashing of teeth, provided we have not been honest with ourselves and with our God.

Bible Things by Bible Names—Designations of the Church.

BY M. C. K.

In the light of the facts presented in the two preceding articles, it is clear that the religious institution called "the church" and founded by the Lord Jesus Christ and his apostles is in a badly divided condition to-day, and has been ever since the first religious denomination was born. However much we may deplore the fact of division, the fact, nevertheless, exists wherever Christianity has made its way; and hence, go where we may to-day, and it there confronts us with all its unlovely contention and confusion. In practically every city, village, hamlet, and rural district throughout all civilized lands, it meets us, and we have to battle against its greatly confused and confusing dialect. What we find on almost every hand is well described by Milton's vivid words:

A universal hubbub wild of stunning sounds and voices all confused.

In the midst of this deplorable, but unavoidable jargon, how shall we speak of the church? What shall we call it? There are three, and only three, possible ways of speaking of it—namely, to add to what the Bible says about it, to take from what the Bible says about it, or to speak of it as the Bible speaks of it. Without the slightest hesitation whatever, this article, with all the earnestness and force which its author can command, shall firmly and resolutely contend for the last-named way. Not only is this way selfcommendatory and right beyond all rational dispute, but every fact bearing on the question favors it and nothing can properly be urged against it. Moreover, in spite of all the difficulties involved, it is entirely practicable to thus speak of the church. To make this perfectly clear, let us suppose that we are in a community where there are five local congregations representing five different denominations and one congregation which belongs to no denomination. Now, on the hypothesis that in each denominational congregation in the said community there are at least some who have complied with the divinely stipulated terms of membership in the church of the New Testament and are, therefore, in that church in spite of their denominational mistakes, what shall we designate as the church of Christ or the church of God in that community? Remember, according to the inexorable facts already before us, we must not apply the term "church" to any community except to include all Christians or children of God in that community; and hence, beyond all ground for dispute, we cannot properly speak of the church of God or the church of Christ in such a community except to include all the Christians or children of God that are in each denominational congregation in that community, as well as those in the one which belongs to no denomination. It would be all right to speak of the latter, or of any one of the others, to the extent that it is composed of Christians or children of God, as a church of God or a church of Christ in that locality or worshiping at a particular place; and it would be equally right, when the reference is confined to the Christians or children of God in any particular locality, to speak of them as the church of God or the church of Christ in that locality: but when the term is applied to a community, no matter whether large or small. even though it be the whole world, it must include all the Christians or children of God in that community.

The expression, "the church of God which is at Corinth," used by Paul, included all the Christians or children of God in Corinth-the Paulites, the Cephasites, and the Apollosites, as well as those who were simply Christians; and hence, "the church of God which is at Nashville," or "which is at Louisville," or "which is at" any other place on the face of the globe, if the term be used in the Bible sense, must include all the Christians or children of God in Nashville, Louisville, or any other place or territory to which it is applied. Even though there be a hundred congregations in Nashville or any other place, some of which belong to different denominations and others of which are simply Christians belonging to no denomination, but in all of which are some who are Christians, or children of God, then the expression, "the church of God" or "the church of Christ" in that place, or any other New Testament name or expression used to designate the church, if it be used in the Bible sense, must include all the Christians or children of God in all the different divisions precisely as it included all of them in all the divisions in the church at Corinth.

But some one may ask: "If there be in such a community a church or congregation of Christians belonging to no denomination, would it not be correct to speak of it as 'the church of Christ' or 'the church of God' in that community?" It is sufficient to say in reply that, if such speech would be correct, then it would have been correct for Paul to address the exclusively Christian party in Corinth as "the church of God which is at Corinth;" but he did not do this. On the contrary, when he addressed "the church of God which is at Corinth," he included the Paulite, Cephasite, and Apollosite divisions, as well as those exclusively Christian; and of course we must do the same, if we would speak as the Bible speaks.

It would be all right, of course, to call any congregation or body of Christians in such a community a church of God or a church of Christ, for that would be nothing more than calling them what they are; but to speak of such a portion of the Christians of a community at large as "the church of God " or "the church of Christ" of the said community, thus excluding from the term a part of God's children, would, as we have seen, be diametrically contrary to the New Testament. Moreover, it would be all right to call such a congregation or body of Christians worshiping at a particular place in such a community "the church of God " or " the church of Christ" at that particular place, for that again would be nothing more than calling it what it is. Such a use of the term "church" is correct, because it includes all the Christians or children of God in the particular locality or territory to which it is applied.

There are still other important matters to be presented on the subject.

"The Unity of the Spirit in the Bond of Peace." BY E. A. E.

I. WHAT IS "THE UNITY OF THE SPIRIT?"

"The law of the Spirit of Hife in Christ Jesus" (Rom. 8:2) is the law which God teaches through the Holy Spirit, and which is spiritual and life-giving (John 6: 63). The children of God have been begotten, quickened, and brought forth by "the gospel," "the word of God," the "incorruptible seed," by which people are born of God. (1 Cor. 4: 15; 1 Pet. 1: 23; James 1: 18.) The word of God is also the spiritual food upon which God's children feed. (1 Pet. 2: 1-3; Heb. 5: 11-14; 1 Cor. 3: 1-9.) So "the unity of the Spirit" is the unity which God through the Holy Spirit teaches.

Christians are forbidden to believe "every spirit," but are commanded to "prove the spirits whether they are of God." This must be done, "because many false prophets are gone out into the world." Having presented this command of God, John proceeds to tell how to put the spirits to the test and how to decide between "the spirit of truth and the spirit of error." The spirit of error speaks through false prophets, and the Holy Spirit speaks through the apostles of Christ: (See 1 John 4; 1-6.) The unity which "the spirit of error" teaches is not and can never be "the unity of the Spirit" of God. Unity in error, howsoever well agreed and harmonious in error people may be, is not "the unity of the Spirit." Unity in "the spirit of error," in the spirit of the world, in the spirit of denominationalism, or in any other spirit, except "the spirit of truth," is not "the unity of the Spirit," which Christians are commanded to give diligence to keep. "For in one Spirit were we all baptized into one body, . . . and were all made to drink of one Spirit." (1 Cor. 12: 13.) All Christians have the same Spirit, and that is the one Holy Spirit. There is "one Spirit."

Above all, Jesus tells, and the church in Jerusalem shows, what "the unity of the Spirit" is. Praying for this unity, Jesus asks that his disciples may be kept in God's name, as he has kept them in God's name; that they may be one, as he and God are one, God in him, he in them, and they in both him and God; that they may be kept from the evil of the world and sanctified "in the truth." Who can conceive of God and Christ, the Holy Spirit and the inspired apostles teaching different and contradictory things? Religious people, then, cannot be one in Christ and God and in the Holy Spirit and yet teach contrary and clashing doctrines. All must teach the same thing, as God and Christ and the Holy Spirit do, and must teach the things which God and Christ and the Holy Spirit teach. Also, who can conceive of there being any jealousy and envy, faultfinding and crimination, strife and bitterness, between God and Christ and the Holy Spirit?

Hence, all these things in the hearts and lives of Christ's disciples are condemned. These things destroy "the unity of the Spirit."

There were the religious sects or denominations of Pharisees, Sadducees, and Herodians at the time Jesus offered the prayer of John 17, but he does not mean in this prayer a conglomerated union of all these; he was praying for his disciples, not for Pharisees and Sadducees and Herodians, that his disciples then and for all time may be one—and one as he states—he in them, God in him, "that they may be perfected into one"—one as he and God are one.

The Jerusalem church, the first one established after this prayer was offered to God, was an answer to it. The multiplied thousands of Jews from all nations under heaven, with their conflicting customs and opinions, who became Christians at Jerusalem, were "of one heart and soul," prayed to God "with one accord," "took their food with gladness and singleness of heart," were all together, had "all things common," and distribution of their goods was made "unto each, according as every one had need." (See Acts 2: 44-47; 4: 24, 32-35.) There could be no more complete harmony or greater unity and peace. Every other church in the New Testament which worked together in unity and peace was an answer to Christ's prayer. Even the church at Corinth, with its sins and contentions and divisions, when It put away these things and all spoke "the same thing" and were "perfected to-gether in the same mind and in the same judgment," was an answer to this prayer. And every church of God since, which has lived and labored in unity and love, has been an answer to this prayer.

This is called Christ's unanswered prayer, because they who so speak of it do not stop to consider for whom and for what Christ prayed.

The New Testament tells explicitly what to preach and what not to preach, and how, therefore, all can "speak the same thing" and "be perfected together in the same mind and in the same judgment." (1 Cor. 1: 10.)

All teachers and preachers who do not studiously and conscientiously strive to teach and preach all that which God charges them to teach and preach, and as studiously refuse to teach and preach all that which God forbids to be taught and preached, violate his commands and are in disobedience to him. All such help to destroy "the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace."

II. WHAT IS THE BOND OF PEACE?

We know what a bond is. By this all Christians are bound and held together in peace. We ought to know what peace is, and we can know if we desire to know. God in the Bible is called "the God of peace;" Christ is called "the Prince of Peace;" the gospel is called "the gospel of peace;" all Christians are commanded to be at peace among themselves, to "be of the same mind one toward another." to "follow after things which make for peace," to "seek peace and pursue it," to "follow after peace with all men;" Christ pronounces a great blessing upon peacemakers and a curse upon peacebreakers. He also points out the different things which destroy peace. All untaught questions and all others which God forbids to be taught gender strife, produce division, destroy peace, and consume the body of Christ as a gangrenous sore does the human body. Tim 1: 3, 4; 6: 3-5, 20, 21; 2 Tim. 2: 14-19; Tit. 1: 14; 3: 9-11.) "And if there be any other thing contrary to the sound doctrine." The tongue, though "a little member," "hoasteth great things;" much wood, or a great forest, is set ablaze by a very small fire. So the tongue, at times, is "a world of iniquity," sets on fire the church and a whole community, and is itself "set on fire by hell." Idlers, tattlers, busybodies, and kindred sinners are clearly and strongly condemned by the Lord. (See I Thess. 4: 11, 12; 1 Tim. 5: 13; Tit. 2: 3.) Let us study the following:

Who is wise and understanding among you? let him show by his good life his works in meekness of wisdom. But it ye have bitter jealousy and faction in your heart, glory not and lie not against the truth. This wisdom is not a wisdom that cometh down from above, but is earthly, sensual, devilish. For where jealousy and faction are, there is confusion and every vile deed. But the wisdom that is from above is first pure, then peaceable, gentle, easy to be entreated, full of mercy and good fruits, without variance, without hypocrisy. And the fruit of righteousness is sown in peace for them that make peace. (James 3: 13-18, Read the whole chapter.)

There are more contention and confusion, factions and schisms, bitterness and vile deeds, among professed Christians than have been at any time in the last fifty years. Do all these, as James says, come now from "bitter jealeusy" and from earthly and sensual and devilish wisdom, and from a sad and shameful lack or destitution of the wisdom which is from above? Let us commit this to memory: "First pure, then peaceable, gentle, easy to be entreated, full of mercy and good fruits, without variance, without bypoerisy." Then let us practice it.

III. WHO ARE COMMANDED TO KEEP "THE UNITY OF THE SPIRIT IN THE BOND OF PEACE?"

This question has been answered. The answer is: The church of God, not Pharisees, Sadducees, Herodians, or the various religious sects of the day, is commanded to "give diligence to keep the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace." Teachers and preachers of the church of God and the whole church must not make the grievous mistake to think they are all one, even as Christ and God are one, and that it is now their business to harmonize and unite "all other religious denominations," as it is sometimes put.
"Union" as such, "federation," "interchurch" agreement, is not God's command or Christ's prayer. The Catholics are one, Satan's forces are united, and Catholics and Protestants, heathens and Christians, might all agree to lop off some teaching here and adopt some of that of some others yonder and agree to disagree; but that would not be "the unity of the Spirit" or that for which Christ prayed. Christ did not pray for peace between the enemies of his cross and his church, but that his disciples-for all who believe on him through the word of God-may he one. sacrifice the gospel-its facts, its commands, its promises and hope-in order to unite with sects and parties in religion that do not teach fully the gospet and uphold only the church of the New Testament is to betray Christ and erucify him afresh. If the church to-day-teachers, preachers, and all other members-would realize the meaning of "the unity of the Spirit" and feel the force of God's command to keep it, they would give more diligence to lay aside "all wickedness, and all guile, and hypocrisies, and envies, and all evil speakings" (1 Pet. 2: 1), all opinions, all untaught questions, and would strive harder to know nothing, "save Jesus Christ, and him crucified." to "preach the word;" also, they would strive much harder not to preach themselves, but Christ Jesus as Lord, and themselves bond servants for Jesus' sake (2 Cor. 4: 5).

IV. How Can the Church Keep "The Unity of the Speep"

These questions are asked simply to cause the church to think and to realize that God commands it, not the various religious denominations of the world, as such, to keep this unity; to cause it to keenly feel the great sin of not keeping it, the reproach the church is in to-day in many places because of factions and strife and bitterness; to learn where the responsibility lies; and to accept God's only remedy for all such crimes against the body of Christ. No effort is made in this article to thoroughly discuss the question under any one of these different headings. They are intended to be only suggestive. While preaching to the religious denominations that all should "speak the same thing," should "give diligence to handle aright the word of truth," to "hold the pattern of sound words," and to speak "as it were bracles of God," Christ's disciples, or all the children of God, or all citizens of the kingdom of heaven, should not fail to apply first these commands to themselves, and should not overlook and certainly should not ignore that which God lays down as the very foundation of "the unity of the Spirit." On account of spiritual gifts and other things, the Corinthians were puffed up one against another, Read 1 Cor. 12, 13, 14. See that the schism condemned was not denominational differences, but division in the church. There must be "no schism in the body." Christ's body is one. "The members of the body. being many, are one body." Everything must be done "unto the edifying of the church"—the body of Christ. It must not be overlooked that in Eph. 4, Paul, when beginning to teach on keeping "the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace," first mentions walking worthily of the calling of Christians, then lowliness, meekness, long-suffering, and forbearing one another in love. Without these there can be no "unity of the Spirit." The opposite of these destroy this unity. Paul warns the Romans against thinking of themselves more highly than they should. When some give out that they themselves are some great ones and that wisdom will die with them, they beget the wrong spirit in others. Should I presume to declare, Dariusilke, that no one should pray, or preach, or teach certain truths for "thirty days," except according to my word, I would beget in others a stronger determination to obey God rather than submit to my dictation. No one can accuse Daniel of breaking "the unity of the Spirit" by refusing to obey Darius, but all commend him for going into the lions' den rather than to disobey God. God's rule for unity and peace is for each one to count others better than himself; to look each not to his own things, but each also to the things of others; to have the mind of Christ; to be of one mind, of one accord, of one heart, and to do 'nothing through faction or through vainglory." (Phil. 2; 1-11.) Rom 14, 15 shows how to avoid strife and division over opinions and personal rights and how to seek the edification and good of all. Self-righteousness, selfimportance, self-esteem, self-exaltation, seeking the chief seats, and loving the preëminence are as sure to produce strife and bitterness as poison kills. Diotrephes loved to have the preeminence, would not receive the beloved disciple John, but prated against him with "wicked words," and cast some "out of the church" who would "receive the brethren." (2 John.)

The church cannot ignore or even disregard and disobey all these commands of God on unity and peace, lowliness, meekness, forbearance, humility, self-denial, and against self-exaltation and preaching human opinions, and, at the same time, avoid strife and bitterness and factions, or keep "the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace."

The Bible Not Sectarian.

The return of the Bible to its place of importance in the home should be sought. The Christian character which we crave for youth secures its true foundation through the use of the Bible in the home.

The Bible should also have its old place in our public schools. The method of reasoning in the courts of the various States whereby the Bible has been declared to be a sectarian book is absolutely illogical, and applied in another direction would include Lake Michigan in the present prohibition movement on the ground that water is a basal element in all intoxicating beverages. Bible truth may be a part of all sectarian creeds, but the Bible is not sectarian.—R. M. Russell.

Current Thought MAN 3MAJ

3720 ft

"Every Christian an Evangelist."

If every disciple of our blessed Lord were a real evangelist-teiling the good news of redemption through the shed blood of Jesus Christ, praying for the conversion of neighbors and friends, inviting people to church that they might hear the gospel, and following them up until they were safely landed in the kingdom-the world would speedily be brought to Christ.

The trouble is, not half the members of any given congregation know the joy of soul winning. Religion has become too much of a selfish matter with us: we are saved; we go to church to be entertained, instructed, and helped; and we let it go at that.

Pollowers of Jesus should throng the houses of God to worship, and they ought to invite many to join them in that worship; and the spirit of worship, the atmosphere of worship, should be more manifest in our congregations on the Lord's day than semetimes obtains.

And during the week each one should seek out men and women and children and tell them the story of redeeming love. Even we preachers are losing the art of personal evangelism. We preach sermons on Sunday, give the invitation with more or less exhortation and enthusiasm, and then do not follow that up with personal teaching, persuasion, and exhortation during the week. We will never win the world to Christ by Sunday preaching alone, nor by win the world to Christ by Stinday preaching alone, nor by preacher preaching alone; every Christian must be at the task every day. "They went everywhere preaching the word." So must we. And, if we do, there will be additions to our congregations at every service, and the kingdom of Christ will soon prevail in all the earth.—Walter Scott Perfect in Christian Standard. Scott Priest, in Christian Standard.

The early disciples who were scattered abroad went everywhere preaching the word. Even so should it be now. Every Christian is under lasting obligation to tell the loyful news of salvation to the full extent of his ability. No one should walt for a big crowd to tell the good news, but should tell the old story to every person with whom he associates. As the early disciples went from house to house declaring the good news of salvation, so should Christians now. It is not proper to wait for Sunday to preach the gospel. The religion of Jesus Christ is an everyday religion, and not a Sunday religion. The gospel of Christ is not expected to work itself; Christians must be alive, active, and alert in the great work of winning souls to Christ. If a man has really experienced the newborn joy of sins forgiven, his delight will be to tell the story of the cross in order that they may hear it, believe it, obey it, and he saved. There would not be so much lethargy and indifference in the church were it not for the fact that so many Christians are asleep on the post of duty. As Peter, James, and John could not watch with Christ for one hour when he was in the garden weighed down by the sins of the world, so there are thousands upon thousands to-day who do not watch with Christ even for one brief hour. "Wherefore he saith, Awake, thou that sleepest, and arise from the dead, and Christ shall shine upon thee." (Eph. 5: 14.)

- 0 0 0

Christ in Every Day.

Christ in Every Day.

In these days, when we measure the growth of religion by whether the churches are full or not, it is well to remember that life is much more deeply saturated with religion than we realize. No one who shares our modern tile can escape its influence, however studiously he or she may avoid acknowledging its claims. It can be truly said that every day, from the time we awake in the morning until we retire at night, throughout our business transactions, in the home, upon the street, and amid our friends, we are always being touched by Christian influence. It pervades, permeates, and shapes everything we say and do, whether we are conscious of the pressure or not. We never put a date upon a letter or a receipt without stating how long ago it was that Christ was born. We never give a Christmas present without working out a little charade of the Wise Men from the East laying their treasures at the Cradle of Bethlehem. Every time we send a flower to a house of mourning we pay iribute to the general faith in the resurrection. Whenever we see a red cross on an ambulance or on a package of court-plaster, we are looking upon the symbol of salvation. More fish is seld on Friday than on all the other days of the week—a reminiscence of the self-denial of Calvary. When we say "Adleu" to a friend, it is a commendation to the care of God, remaining with us from Norman days. When we say "goodlyy" our words at part Norman days. When we say "good-by," our words of parting is a modern contraction of "God be with ye."—Joseph H. Odell, in Ladies' Home Journal, . Christ's influence over the world is great. It would be even still greater if all professed Christians indeed and in truth had the spirit of Christ. The religion of Christ must be applied; we must live it every day that we live in order to be the salt of the earth and the light of the world. The spirit of Christ should control us in every business transaction we make. A spirit of gentleness, meckness, and firmness should permeate our dealings and associations with our fellow beings. Christians should shun the very appearance of evil and should cling closely to Christ and he guided by the word of God in everything.

> 0 0 0 Reasons for Optimism.

Dr. John Clifford, the veteran pastor, gives three grounds for a reasonable optimism. One is the purpose of God, as demonstrated by the massed facts of centuries; another lies in the process of human life, which indicates the sacrifice of heroic men and women; the third is man's increasing greatness in capacity for faith and for endeavor in initiative and daring. Three excellent reasons. But only end reason is really needed for optimism, and that is God. Every one can have that reason, and it is decidedly stupid to be a pessimist.—Christian-Evangelist.

No man can truly be an optimist until he lives up to the best light he has. A man who walks in the light of truth and whose steps are directed by Jehovah has no reason to bera pessimist, but has every reason to be an optimist, because he knows that, whatever may come, all things work together for good to them who love the Lord, to those who are called according to his purpose. God intends that the fives of his children shall be useful and happy in this world and blissful throughout efernity.

0 0 0

The Problem of Victory, and allege

In a recent address on Abraham Lincoln, Premier Lloyd-George uttered a new interpretation of the Great American, "Resolute in war, he was moderate in victory," was the encomium, and the English people cheered when it was uttered. Perhaps no finer word has been uttered about Lincoln, and it offers a good principle for the solution of one of life's most difficult problems—the problem of vic-tory. Power is always a test of the soul; but when that power comes in the form of victory, it contains a thousand power comes in the form of victory, it contains a thousand temptations. Victory is really harder to manage than defeat. The task of the allies is harder than that of Germany. The question of justice, always difficult, is especially complicated in this instance. A good example to follow is that of Lincoln: "Resolute in war, moderate in peace." The moderate way is best. Extremes are rarely sight or refe. Christian Francisch. right or safe.—Christian-Evangelist.

Truth lies between extremes. Wise men will be moderate and avoid extremes. The man who tabers for good cares not to triumph in a partisan victory, but rejoices in the victory of truth over error. It is hardly possible for a partisan to be moderate in victory, because he fights for partyism and not for truth; but the man who loves the Lord Jesus Christ with all his heart and who contends for the truth, and the truth alone, will never be immoderate and cruel in victory. Holly policyllarity and same at abanybe from an inter-

SICK KIDNEYS MAKE LAME BACKS

Cause broken, unrefreshing sleep, and in many cases that tired feeling that makes it so hard to get up in the morning. They also cause loss of appetite, lack of ambition, and other troubles.

Hood's Sarsaparilla contains the medicinal herbs, barks, roots, etc., that strengthen and tone these organs, and relieve their ordinary ailments. Take it.

And if you need a laxative take Hood's Pills,-they work right.

GOOD TEACHERS IN DEMAND
AT BETTER SALARIES.
The schools, colleges, seminaries, and universities throughout the South are begging for assistance in finding teachers with proper qualifications, and better salaries are being offered. We are needing hundreds of teachers to supply the demand. Any well-prepared teacher would do well to write us.

FISK TEACHERS' AGENCY
R. A. Clayton, Mgr. Birmingham, Ala.

Try This For Sore Throat

On retiring fill your nostrils with Eucapine Salve. Snift the salve back into the air passages of the head and throat until it reaches the tonsils and uvula and you taste the salve. This is best done lying down, pillow under back, head thrown back that the melting salve may reach the head cavilies. Also turn the head down and forward and to right and left; to flow the salve over the inflamed surfaces in the cavilies of the head. In the morning the pain and soreness will be gone. To make sure place Eucapine Salve on the back of the tongus with your finger. Same treatment for colds, nose sores, catarrhal headaches, catarrh of the head, nose and throat. If you swallow a little it won't hurt you. You'll soon learn to think that one of your very best friends is

Antiseptic Analgesic Antiphlogistic (Prevents Infection) (Relieves Pain) (Allays Inflammation) 50c the jar at your druggist's or by mail from

Piedmont Laboratories. Inc., Clinton, S. C.

A Treat for the Skin

A Treat for the Skin
Freckies, tan, sunburn, pimples, eczema, all can be easily and delightfully vanished with the use of Palmer's Skin Success Ontment, Used for over 80 years. Bev. A. E. Ballard, D. D., President Ocean Grove Gamp Meeting Association, Ocean Grove, N. J., writes: "Your Skin Success Ointment completely cured me of an irritative itching eczema and I cheerfully recommend it to all who may be similarly afflicted." It is not only delightfully antiseptic and cleansing, soothing and softening to the skin, but also immediately effective in bleaching the complexion and in vanishing blackheads, freckles and all skin eruptions. Ask your druggist or send for free sample to The Morgan Drug Co., 1521 Atlantic Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

CHURCH NEWS

Kansas.

Wichita, September 3.—I am in the Christian Worker office at Wichita today, and will preach for the church at Matheson and First Streets to-night. I closed a two-weeks' meeting at Walnut Chapel, near Douglass, last night. We were hindered much by rain, being "rained out" five nights; yet we had a good meeting, all things consid-Six were baptized and much good was done otherwise. the church badly divided, but the brethren promised to lay aside their differences and go to work for the I shall begin a meeting at Sulphur Springs, Okla., next Thursday night. Pray for me.—W. L. Oliphant

Kentucky.

Lynn Grove, September 6.—The meeting here has started well, with a full house each night. Saturday night, Sunday, and Sunday night the house could not hold the crowd, though they sat in aisles and on the rostrum, and some stood, while many were in cars outside. But so far every one seems to think the gospel is for the other fellow and not for himself. The meeting will continue through the week .- F. L. Paisley.

Sedalia, September 7.—On the last Lord's day in August I closed a good meeting at Isom Church, near Hamp-shire, Tenn. We had five additions to the church. The meeting was well attended. I have been there for three meetings and go back next year for another. We have a fine congregation at Isom. I think I never saw a band of people among whom there was more brotherly love manifested than is true of them. They are splendid people.— I. A. Douthitt.

Mayfield. September 6.--I have just closed an interesting meeting with the Leanon church, near Dresden, Tenn. Six were added. Brother Reavis conducted the song service, and he did a ducted the song service, and he did a good job, too. I am now at Mayfield assisting the church in a series of meetings. Digression and the "digressives" are strong. Other evils pale into insignificance at sight of this great monster. "Back to Rome!" is the cry. In spite of "Rome," we expect to have a great meeting. Prospects are good.—Coleman Overby.

Michigan.

Flint, September 6.-We closed a three-weeks' meeting in Akron last Friday evening with two baptisms and a good interest. The brethren requested me to return for more work as soon as possible. I preached here yesterday. I will remain here a week or two before going to another meeting.—Leslie G. Thomas.

Mississippi.

September 9.-We had Brother Carl Barnette, of Greenville, Ala., with us four days, beginning on August 13. We have never had a bethearing nor better preaching at this place. On account of Brother Barnett's eyes giving him trouble, he had to discontinue the meeting until October, when we hope to have a tendays' meeting, beginning on October 10 .- J. W. Lamar.

Tupelo, September 9.—On Saturday night before the fifth Lord's day in July I began a meeting with the brethren at the Cork Schoolhouse, near Ackerman. There were three addi-tions. This is the home of Brother tions. This is the home of Brother H. D. Jeffcoat, a zealous young preacher, and of Brother J. W. Swofford, who has been preaching New Testament Christianity for years. These by These brethchurch engaged me for another meetchurch engaged me for another meeting next year. On Saturday night before the first Lord's day in August. Brother Jeffcoat and I began a two-weeks' meeting at Nile, in Attalla County. Brother Jeffcoat taught a singing class, while I did most of the preaching. There were fourteen additions to the little congregation. The growds were large and the opposition crowds were large and the opposition was small. Brother Jeffcoat has been preaching monthly for these people, and is loved and respected by all. Many were the requests to return next year. Brother Jeffcoat then went to the Delta for some meetings; while I went to Reform, in Choctaw County, where I preached one week and baptized one. By request, I promised to return for another meeting next year. On Saturday night before the fourth Lord's day in August I began a meeting at Shady Grove, in Choctaw County. The "Holy Rollers," who have a fairly good following here, began at the same date. We put our meeting off one week, and by urgent solicita-tion I went to Stewart and preached during the week. The Stewart church was organized several years ago by H. K. Coleson, "State evangelist" of H. K. Coleson, "State evangelist" of Mississippi. They accepted the organ and society without suspecting that they were innovations. I accepted their invitation on condition that they were to leave off the organ till we could find authority for it. Then we were to use it and I was to help them We found no authority for it, and I was not asked to help defend it. But I preached the gospel as plainly as I could, and these brethren indorsed it. They requested me to come back and preach a sermon on instrumental music in the worship, which I intend to do. The member-ship attended well and seemed to enjoy the preaching. This church, though several years old, does not meet on the first day of the week and has not developed a single member to teach or lead in prayer. They want me to preach for them monthly, and I They want shall endeavor to do so if they will secede from those who lord it over God's heritage and will try to work and build up on the New Testament, plan. From Stewart I went back to plan. From Stewart I went back to Shady Grove; and though the "Holy Rollers" had told me they would close out on Friday night, they held on till Sunday night, making nine days in all. They had Immense crowds, but most of their hearers confess they go to the "show." I began to the fourth Sunday night and closed. on the fourth Sunday night and closed last Monday evening, at the water, with eight baptisms. This was my third year at this place. I am now at home, and will soon begin work at my trade (carpenter) and preach on Sundays near my home.—H. C. Harris

Oklahoma.

Muskogee, September 6.—The revival meeting at East Okmulgee Avenue Church has begun, with Brother J. W. Brents doing the preaching. Prospects are bright for the best meeting we have ever had. Our house would not accommodate the crowd Sunday night. About twenty brethren from the Haskell congregation visited us Sunday night. We appreciate this co-operation.—T. S. Bain.

South Carolina.

Woodruff, September 6.—Brother S. T. Nix, of Spartanburg, began a mission meeting at this place on the fourth Sunday in August and con-tinued it for two weeks. Opposition was strong and prejudice was high from the beginning. The tent was or-dered to be removed before a discourse was preached, and a threat was made that if the orders were not complied with it would be taken down. Before the close of the first week the tent was badly cut for fifteen or twenty feet, parts of it being cut out and carried away, thus making it difficult to repair. The thunderbolts of truth were hurled with tremendous force speaker proposed dividing time with the preachers from night to night. No one had the moral courage to accept the proposition. A Methodist revival was in progress at the same time five or six hundred yards from the tent. This we regretted very much. We closed at the request of the owner of the lot on which the tent was erected. We think the seed sown will yet result in a harvest of souls. Many expressed themselves as greatly pleased with the teaching, for they were convinced that it was the truth, and invited the speaker to return under more favorable circumstances. We thank the brethren for sending Brother Nix to preach for us. We all enjoyed having him with us. -Milton

Tennessee.

Pulaski, September 7.—Our meeting at Southside closed on September 3.

Three noble boys were baptized. I am now in a meeting at New Provi-dence, near Pulaski. I shall go next to Hanceville, Ala,-Thomas C. King.

Pulaski, September 7.-I closed a good meeting at Leoma on September We had large crowds all the way through, and the interest was good. Two were baptized. I was asked to return and preach for them again.—
J. Clifford Murphy.

Rives, September 6 .- Our meeting at Cox Chapel, near Humboldt, continued ten days. It closed yesterday afternoon at the water's edge. Five were baptized into Christ, and hundreds of interested people attended. It was one of the best meetings I have ever conducted.—D. D. Woody.

Joelton, Route 2, September 6.—I began a meeting at this place yesterday, holding services in a large tobacco barn, which has been very nicely fitted up for this purpose, but would not hold the large attendance last night. Prospects are very encourag-ing. Brother J. L. Barfield is con-ducting the song service. I will begin a meeting at Sycamore Chapel on the third Sunday in September, the Lord willing, -B. W. Davis.

Physician Explains Why He Prescribes Nuxated Iron for Run-Down, Anaemic People

Says It Quickly Increases the Strength and Energy of Men and Brings Roses to the Cheeks of Nervous, Run-down Women

Ask the first hundred strong, healthy looking people you meet to what they owe their strength and energy and see how many reply "Nuxated Iron."

Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly Physician of Bellevue Hospital (Outdoor Dept.), of New York and the Westchester County Hospital says:
"Thousands of nervous, run-down, anaemic people suffer from iron deficiency but do not know what to take. There is nothing like organic iron-Nuxated Iron-down, anaemic people suffer from iron deficiency but do not know what to take. There is nothing like organic iron-Nuxated Iron-down and give men increased strength and energy.

Unlike the older forms of iron, Nuxated Iron does not injure the teeth nor upset the stomach, but is readily assimilated and you can quickly recognize its action by a renewed feeling of buoyant health. No matter what other iron remedies you have used without success if you are not strong or well you owe it to yourself to make the following test:

See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired; next take two five-grain tablets of Nuxated Iron three times per day after meals lor two weeks. Then test your strength again and see how much you have gained. To be absolutely sure of getting real or metallic variety always ask for in tablet orm only. Over Four Million People Annually Are Taking Nuxated Iron ages, Nuxated from will increase the strength, power and endurance of delicate, ner-yous, run-down people in two weeks' time in many instances, instances.

MANUFACTURERS' NOTES Numered from, which is recommended above is not a secret remedy but one which is well known to druggists everywhere. Unlike the older inorganic from products it is easily assimilated and does not injure the tech, make them black, nor upset the stomach. Each tablet of genuine Nuxated from is stamped as follows and the words Nuxated from are stamped into each bottle, so that the public may not be led into accepting interface substitutes. The maintacturers guarantee Successful and entirely satisfactory results to every purchaser or they will refined your memory. It is dispensed by all good druggists in tablet our only.

Hilham, September 9.-A good and successful meeting has just closed at Hilham. The meeting began on the last Sunday in August and continued eight days. Ten were baptized and the church was greatly edified. Brother J. C. Pendergrass, of Wynne, Ark., did the preaching. We had large and attentive audiences, though another meeting was being carried on at the Union Church at the same time. Congregations in need of a good preacher would make no mistake in getting Brother Pendergrass to preach for them.—B. P. Upton.

Saulsbury, Route 2, September 6.— Brother W. E. Crum began a meeting at Marlow Schoolhouse on the fifth Lord's day in August and continued it till Thursday night following, with preaching both day and night. There preaching both day and night. was good interest throughout the meeting, and four persons were baptized. Brother Crum is a man of un-usual talent and preaches the pure gospel with much power. Brother T. A. Rowland has been preaching for us monthly for a while. We are looking forward to building a meetinghouse in the near future. We thir the outlook for the cause favorable. We think Eva Ray Yuma, September 6.- I held a meeting at Baxter, beginning on August 1 and continuing thirteen days. Attendance good; one baptism. My next meeting began on the third Lord's day in August at Hebron, in White Coun-Hebron is a mission point supported by the church at Sparta. The few members there are sisters, but they are faithful. The attendance was as much as could be expected, considering the rain and condition of the roads. The meeting continued nine days. I am now teaching school at Yuma. I had a number of requests to hold meetings that I could not accept because I had to take up my school work. I am ready now to arrange for meetings next summer, to begin on May 1.—Fred M. Little.

50 Eggs a Day

"'More Eggs' Tonic is a Godsend," writes Mrs. Myrtle Ice, of Boston, Ky. She adds: "I was only getting 12 egges a day, and now I get 50." Give YOUR hems a few cents worth of "More Eggs," the wonderful egg producer, and you will be amazed and delighted with results.

Eggs While Moulting

While moulting, your hens will need "More Eggs" to hasten the moult, revitalize their organs, and put them in fine laying condition. Letters from many users tell how they actually got eggs while moulting.

If you wish to try this great profit maker, simply write a post card or letter to E. J. Reefer, the poultry expert, '259 Reefer Building, Kansas City, Mo., and ask for his special tree-package $1.60 offer. Don't send any money. Mr. Reefer will send you two $1.00 packages of "More Eggs." You pay the postman upon delivery only $1.00, the price of just one package, the other package leing free. The Million-Dollar Merchants' Bank of Kansas City, Mo., guarantees if you are not absolutely satisfied your dollar will be returned at any time within 30 days on request. So there is no risk. Write to-day for this special free-package offer.

ECZEMA
IS CURABLE. Write me to-day, and I will send you a free trial of my mild, soothing, guaranteed treatment that will prove it
Stops the itching and heals permanently. DR.
CANNADAY, 1225 Park Square, Sedalis, Mc.

HAS NO

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Did for Mrs. Warner.

Onalaska, Wis. - " Every month I had such pains in my back and lower part of HANDARIS OF THE PERSON OF THE stomach I could not lie in bed. I suf-fered so it seemed as though I would die, and I was not regular either. I suffered for a year and was unfit to do my housework, my nonsework, could only wash dishes once in a while. I read an advertisement of what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done

ham's Vegetable Compound had done for other women and decided to try it. It surely did wonders for me. I have no pains now and I can do my bouse-work without any trouble at all. I will always praise your medicine as I do not believe there is a doctor that can do not believe there is a doctor that can do as much good in female weakness, and you may use these facts as a testimonial."—Mrs. LESTER E. WARNER, R. 1, Box 69, Onalaska, Wis.

The reason women write such letters to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. and tell their friends how they are helped is that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has brought health and happiness into their lives. Freed from their illness they want to pass the from their illness they want to pass the good news along to other suffering women that they also may be relieved.

TETTERINE for the COMPLEXION

60c at your druggist's or from Shuptrine Co., Savannah, Ga.

"Cling to the Mighty One." Cling to the Mighty One, Cling in thy grief, Cling to the Holy One. He gives relief; Cling to the Gracious One. Cling in thy pain; Cling to the Faithful One, He will sustain Cling to the Living One. Cling in thy woe; Cling to the Loving One, Through all below: Cling to the Pardoning One, ite speaketh peace; Cling to the Healing One; Anguish shall cease. Cling to the Bleeding One, Cling to His Side; Cling to the Risen One, In Him abide; Cling to the Coming One, Hope shall arise: Cling to the Reigning One, a Joy lights thine eyes,

"Baptists vs. Campbellites." No. 21.

-Selected.

BY M. S. MASON

On page 35 Mr. Bandy discusses the communion. He truthfully says that it is an ordinance of the church and that the Bible says nothing about "close" and "open" communion, but "church" communion, and also that none but the church of Christ can set the Lord's table; so the question resolves itself into who constitutes the church: Buf, of course, a Baptist cannot travel very far without "flying the track:" so he says in the next paragraph that those in the deupper room at the passover constituted "my church." To this I object, and I shall examine the proof. He cites Luke 22: 11, 12, 19, 20. Verses 11 and 12 prove nothing as to the church being in existence at that time. Neither do verses 19 and 20. And Matt, 261 21-28 only shows that he instituted the communion, and does not show that the church existed at that time. If he had quoted verse 29, he would have shown that the kingdom, or church, was still in the future. - w.

He says Judas was absent and did not partake of the communion. Of course he offers this to counteract the objection that can be validly offered that Judas was bad material for the toundation of the new church and that Judas fell from grace. So Mr. Bandy s. object was to show that Judas was not a part of the foundation and that he could not fall from grace, for he never was in grace. Eliminating Judas would not eliminate the criticism, for Peter cursed and swore, and he was in Mr. Bandy's church foundation, But was Judas a church member, conceding Mr. Bandy's argument? In Acts 1: 17-25 we read where some one was to be chosen as an apostle; it was to take the place of Judas. Then-Judas had a " place." Here it is stared that Judas had " part of this ministry" and apostleship." And if Mr. Bandy should say be fell from this instead of his discipleship, he assumes the obligation to show how it was possible for Christ to choose a man for an apostle who was not worthy of being a discipfe. So, whether Judas partook of the communion or not, he "fell from grace." But let us examine his other proof-John 13: 26, 27, 30. Mr. Bandy was sly enough to take only John's record of the communion, or, properly, only the passover. Let us see what the other three writers have to say about it. But before we do so let us note that from verse 27 we read that it was after the sop that Satan entered into him. So he was not a devil from the beginning, as Mr. Bandy's brethren would have us believe. In Luke 22: 14 the record tells us that Jesus "sat down, and the twelve apostles with him," and no record of Judas' leaving during the continuance of the Supper.

In Mark's record (14: 17-26) we learn that the "twelve" were there. that one who "eateth" and "dippeth in the dish " should betray him. The record says "they" did ear, and he gave to "them." Now, what can be the antecedent of "they" and "them." birt the "twelve," which included Judas? Matthew gives the same record. Yes, Judas was at the Lord's table; and Gypsy Smith, the great evangelist, says that truly Judas fell from grace, eating at the Lord's table with the Lord himself.

He says on page 36 that orderly membership in a church of Christ is necessary to communion. That is true. He says the apostles received it in the capacity of a church. That is not so. Of course, sometime Jesus had to institute the ordinances of the new institution, and that was what he was doing in the upper room-simply showing them the new institution and the method of procedure when the kingdom should be set up in which men were to "eat and drink." We hear the expression, "Jesus and his disciples meeting to take the Lord's Supper in the upper room." There was no such purpose as that. Jesus says: "I have desired to keep the passover with you." (Luke 22: 15.) The Supper was instituted after they niet, as an incident of the gathering. In I Cor. 11: 23-30 we read that the communion was to be kept " in remembrance" of Jesus. Thus they kept it as a church after he was away.

Night and Moratag. Have Strong, Healthy Eyes. If they Tire, Itch, YOUR EYES Smart or Burn, if Sore, Irritated, Inflamed or Granulated, use Murine often. Soothes, Refreshes. Safe for Infant or Adult. At all Druggists, Write for Free Eye Book. Murine Eye Remedy Co., Chicago

Report from the Church at Duncan, Ariz.

BY W. P. FOSTER.

Contributions amounting to nine dollars have been received for our church building since our last report, making one hundred and sixty-five dollars and seventy-seven cents received in all. This fellowship has encouraged us much in the work that lies before us and which we desire to get started as soon as time and means permit. Every gift, whether large or small, will be greatly appreciated and will aid us in the task of getting our building started. We trust that others will remember that we are in need of their assistance. We hope and pray that they will send in contributions sufficient to start a building of some kind. We have sent out two thousand letters to different congregations, and would like for all who still have those letters and cannot send us a contribution to send them to some other congregation or return them to us and we will send them out,

We believe there are lots of loyal and rich congregations and individuals who are willing to help the cause of Christ, but from different excuses keep walting. Lots of them walt until after death and leave If for some one else to give out. Our beloved brother, David Lipscomb, said: "Do good while living." George A. Moore, of London, the largest oil operator in the world, says: "I have a great deal more than I can ever use, more than any one can ever need, and instead of bugging money to my heart and waiting until my death to give it away. I propose to see men, women, and children around me share my fortune. Before I am called I hope to have devoted every penny I possess to a good purpose."

We have about two thousand souls here in the valley and several thousand in the mining towns near by. The most of these people have never had an opportunity to hear the gospel in its purity; but the brothers and sisters think if we could get a house to worship in, we then could keen a minister here the greater part of the time to help us establish the cause permanently and preach the pure gospel.

Old Sores

SHOULD NOT RUN ON FOREVER.

While it may not look dangerous and may not rapidly grow larger, its progress may fool you. Dirt and millions of germs will attack it every day. Blood poison is likely to set in at any time. Buy a box of Gray's Ointment. It immediately souther the pain cleanses the wound, kills the germs, and begins healing. It is immediately effective with sores, bells, cuts, stings, burns, brulees, eczema, and the many similar forms of skin eruption. If your druggist cannot supply you, send his name to W. F. Gray & Co., 818 Gray Building, Nashville, Tenn., and a libral sample will be sent you free.

How Coca-Cola Resembles Tea

did apprend

DATE BANK

GE 20. 10

v.p.e./Tuecke

Tunann

non± of ≊now Tile#dis collect

If you could take about one-third of a glass of tea, add two-thirds glass of carbonated water, then remove the tea flavor and add a little lemon juice, phosphoric acid, sugar, caramel and certain flavors in the correct proportion, you would have an almost perfect glass of Coca-Cola, an account

In fact, Coca-Cola may be very well described as "a carbonated fruit-flavored counterpart of tea, of approximately one-third the stimulating strength of the average cup of tea.

The following analyses, made and confirmed by the leading chemists throughout America, show the comparative stimulating strength of tea and Coca-Cola stated in terms of the quantity of caffein contained in each:

OR ANIMATOGRAPH CO. EXISST HID VOL Black tea-1 cupful.____ gad arm .. (hot) (5 fl. oz.) Green tea—1 glassful 2.02 gr.

emigic and missi of

Of all the plants which Nature has provided for man's use and enjoyment, none surpasses tea in its refreshing, wholesome and helpful qualities. This explains its almost universal popularity, and also explains, in part, the wide popularity of Coca-Cola, whose refreshing principle is derived to refer from the tea leaf.

> The Coca-Cola Company has issued a booklet giving detailed analysis of its recipe. A copy will be mailed free on request to anyone who is interested. Address:

The Coca-Cola Co., Dept. J. Atlanta, Ga., U.S.A.

onedian and discon-tions of habita only the alama of mild is walter of

Sold for 50 years for Malaria and as a General Tonic. Helps build you up. If Not Sold by Your Druggist, Write ARTHUR PETER & CO., Louisville, Ky.

PROFITS IN PIGEONS

A pleasant, easy way to make moneystillse an otherwise worthless part of your anch yard and turn it into profit. Pigeons are easily raised, profitto, and clean. The markets are clamoring for equabs. A few pairs of our besutiful Red Carnesuz and White Swiss Mondaines will start you right. Write for our FREE booklet, "Profits in Figeons No 6." Carolina Pigeon Plant. Clinton B. C.

VICTOR PORTABLE STEREOPTICONS

AND

VICTOR PATENTED

AND

FEATHERWEIGHT STANDARD SLIDES

giving absolute satisfaction to thousands of clargymen.

clergymen.
Attendance at church and Sunday school may be rapidly increased by Visual Presentation of Bible Subjects, Special Trial Terms to Clergymen.
Catalogues mailed upon request.

VICTOR ANIMATOGRAPH CO.

(Incorporated)

Victor Building, Davenport, Iowa.

The Romantic Story of Southland's Favorite Shoe, EzWear

Some five years ago, a prominent citizen of South Carolina, visiting New York on important business, chanced to meet the maker of a shoe built on new and unusual lines; an enthusiastic admirer of its most distinctive features, ease and comfort, had suggested the name "ExWear;" it was promptly adopted. The business man from the South, knowing how welcome such a shoe would be in his part of the country, urged that its remarkable qualities, including not only comfort, but style, durability, and economy, be made known there. That this has been done effectively is proven by the enormous demand that has sprung up in the South for EzWear Shoes. It is said that its sale there during the last twelve months has increased fully three hundred per cent. The distributor, Mr. J. R. Simon, of 1589 Broadway, Brooklyn, N. Y., says that all who wish to know about a shoe that combines all worth-while shoe qualities may have a copy of his money-saving shoe book for the asking.

"Diamond Dyes" Tell You How

A Child can Follow Directions and get Perfect Results

Each package of "Diamond Dyes" contains directions so simple that any woman can diamond-dye a new, rich, fadeless color into worn, shabby garmente, draperies, coverings, whether wool, silk, linen, cotton or mixed goods.

Buy "Diamend Dyes"—no other kind—then perfect results are guaranteed even if you have never dyed before. Druggist has color card.

has color card.

On account of the large number of obitu-ary notices coming to the Gospel Adve-cate, the following rules must be observed:

Obituaries that do not exceed two hundred words are published free of charge. When they exceed this limit, two cents will be charged for every additional word. Payment must accompany notice, or it will be reduced to two hundred words. Paciry will not be printed.

Faught.

Brother Aubrey Faught, of Covington, Tenn., died on August 19, 1920. He was a faithful Christian until death. His last words were: "I am ready to go." He leaves a wife and four small children to mourn his un-

Burns.

Luther Shaler Burns, son of Ben. and Elizabeth E. Burns, of Maud, Ala., was born on November 27, 1902, and dled at the home of his parents on January 11, 1920, aged seventeen years. one month, and fifteen days. On September 11, 1919, Luther was baptized into Christ by his uncle, M. S. Burns, and up to the time of his death his taith in his Savior was steadfast and his Christian conduct was exemplary. In truth, aside from his claims as a Christian, his reputation for integrity of character was far above the aver-The influences of his home surroundings were good, and this good influence was reflected in Luther's conduct as an obedient son of his dot-ing father and mother. Besides his father and mother, three sisters and one brother, with a number of other relatives, are left to mourn their loss. Funeral services were conducted by Brother A. S. Brown, of Tuscumbia, Ala. Lee Jackson.

Shugart.

James Thomas Shugart was born on August 20, 1887, and passed to his reward on August 13, 1920; hence he lacked only seven days of being thirtythree years of age. He was married to Lucy Randolph about eight years ago, and he is survived by her. For nearly two years he suffered with cancer of the face. Although his faithful wife and many friends, aided by good physicians, did all they could for him, he grew worse till death relieved him. It was my good fortune to know "Jim" (as his wife and friends called him) for nearly four years, and it gives me great pleasure to say that I believe he was a faithful Christian and has gone to rest. He became a Christian nearly nine years ago, and he took great interest in the church ne took great interest in the church and went to the regular services as long as he was able. He was a deacen in the congregation at Dinuba, Cal., when he died. The funeral services were conducted by Brother E. W. Sewell, after which the body was buried in the Smith Mountain Cemetery, near Dinuba,

W. HALLIDAY TRICE.

Lair.

William T. Lair was born in Barren County, Ky., on June 21, 1850. He moved to Texas at the age of two years. He spent four years in Bonham attending Carlton College, and under the teaching of Brother Carlton he became a member of the Christian Church. At an early age he began preaching, and kept it up until the end. He was known for his deep piety and clean life. A better heart no man had, and he did good to all as he had opportunity. He leaves a faithful wife and five children to mourn his loss. The children are: Mack and Clarence, Mrs. Henry Dorough, and Ella Lair, all of Bonham, and Mrs. Rayburn Sparks, of Dodd City, Texas. Also, one brother, J. P. Lair, and one sister, Mrs. John Gale, survive him. One of his favorite passages in the Bible was 2 Tim. 4: 7-9: "I have fought the good fight, I have finished the course, I have kept the faith: henceforth there is laid up for me the crown of righteousness. which the Lord, the righteous judge, shall give to me at that day: and not to me only, but also to all them that have loved his appearing."

RUBY LAIR DOROUGH.

Petty.

D. A. Petty (familiarly called "Eck") left us for the better world. as we believe, a few days ago, following a surgical operation, which was performed on him in Nashville, Tenn. "Eck" was left an orphan boy, and he and I grew up together, with never a short word between us. He was al-was a good boy to work. About the was a good boy to work. About the time he was grown he married Miss Fannie Campbell, and they lived to-gether near a half century. Soon after his marriage he obeyed the gospel at old Cane Creek, in a meeting held by Brethren Dixon, Morton, Smithson, and Dr. Brents. He never had a doubt about the Bible being true, or the church, and not a doubt about his faith in his Savior. A better neigh-bor would be hard to find. He tried in his last years to live a blameless and harmless life. The last time I was with him, he said he was not far from the crossing, and he was looking for a better place, where afflictions would trouble him no more. He leaves his companion, Cousin Fannie, on the shores of time, sad and lonely; but she, too, will soon finish her tolls and join her loved one in the spirit land. How blissful the thought that we shall meet again! C. PETEY.

Abernathy.

Myrtle Speer, the daughter of Dr. E. A. Speer, was bern on July 30, 1878; was baptized Into Christ, by the writer, during a meeting at New Hope, Cannon County, Tenn., in September, 1894; was married to James O. Abernathy on July 23, 1902. She was the mother of six children—two girls and four boys—four of whom survive her. She was an invalid from June, 1919, till

"NOTHING BETTER AS A LAXATIVE"

Asheville Lady Finds Black-Draught An Effective Remedy in Her Family for Common Ailments of the Digestive Organs.

Asheville, N. C.—Mrs. A. K. Jarvis, 44 Woodrow Avenue, this city, says:

"I have used and heard of Thedford's Black-Draught for years; and I certainly have found it splendid for headache, sour stomach, indigestion, and other ills that come from a deranged liver.

"My husband and I keep Black-Draught in the house, and think it is splendid to keep off sickness. I have used it in small doses as a laxative, and there is nothing better.

"Black-Draught is a mild liver medicine: . . . any child can take it. I have found it splendid with them for colds."

Thedford's Black-Draught has benefited thousands in relieving liver ailments. It helps to drive bile poisons and other unhealthful matters out of the system.

"Black-Draught" is a stand-by in thousands of family medicine chests. It should be in yours. Its use should help to keep the whole family well. Prompt treatment is often half the battle against many allments.

Get some from your druggist to-day.

she was relieved by death, March 16, 1920. She and Philip, her baby boy, died the same night. She was patient in her sufferings, even cheerful, which was characteristic of her life. Sister Abernathy was a consecrated, devoted woman, always anxious to do her duty in every relationship of life. wife and mother, she was never-failing in her devotion and loving care. To her husband she was, indeed, a true and loving helpmeet. She was stead-fast in her faith in Christ, earnest and zealous in her love for the church and all good works. Brother Abernathy has lost a loving and devoted companion; the children, a true and con-secrated mother; and the Science Hill Church, Rutherford County, Tenn., one of its most faithful members. She had the consolation and joy of seeing her eldest daughter, Virginia, baptized into Christ. She has gone to her reward, and the memory of her life and character will be an inspiration to those who knew her worth, and will always remain a precious heritage and comfort to her husband and children, and will serve as a beacon light to guide their footsteps to that bright land where death and separation shall rever come. J. W. Shepherd.

Dark, and Jesus Had Not Come.

Dark on the stormy lake,

He tarries on the Gilead shore,
While in the boat they quake,
They twelve, and bend the useless oar—
Dark, a lonely dark,
And Jesus had not come.

Dark in the toilsome way, In dens of vice, in haunts of crime, Where self and greed hold sway, In heathen lands of every clime—

Dark, a hideous dark, And Jesus had not come.

Dark in the human soul
That's barred from God, great longings crushed,

Set on its own control,

Till e'en the still small voice is hushed—

Dark, a willful dark, And Jesus had not come.

Light of the world, He came.

Let none in darkness walk, and death
Become a shadowy name.

"I am with you to the end," He saith.
Light, universal light.
And Jesus has now come.

—Theodore G. Soares.

The end of life is not to do good, although many of us think so. It is not to win souls, although I once thought so. The end of life is to do the will of God, whatever it may be.—
Henry Drummond.

Loss of Vitality is loss of the principle of life, and is early indicated by falling appetite and diminishing strength and endurance. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the greatest vitalizer—it acts on all the organs and functions and builds up the whole system.

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

Anybody can Make

ICE CREAM

There is a great deal of satisfaction in making your own ice cream and having it just as you want it. This has been almost impossible because of the difficulty and the high cost.

Now, by using Jell-O Ice Cream Powder, anybody can make ice cream easily and cheaply with perfect success. No eggs or sugar needed.

Five flavors of Jell-O Ice Cream Powder: Vanilla, Strawberry,
Lemon,
Chocolate,
Unflavored.

THE GENESSE PURE FOOD COMPANY Le Roy, N. Y.

FOOT TROUBLES

No Need of Them, Says Brooklyn Man, Who Has Evidently Solved a Big Problem

According to the testimony of hundreds of people living in the Southland and elsewhere, J. R. Simon, of 1529 Broadway, Brooklyn, N. Y., has successfully developed a system of shoe building having for its prime object the conquering of foot and shoe troubles. It appears that Mr. Simon's establishment has become national headquarters for people whose feet require his remarkable comfort shoe, known as the EzWear, but obtainable only of the inventor. Mr. Simon's new catalogue shows several hundred shoes that combine comfort with style at amazingly low prices and is now ready for free distribution.

GIRLS! USE LEMONS FOR SUNBURN, TAN

Try it! Make this lemon lotion to whiten your tanned or freekled skin.

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of Orchard White, shake well, and you have a quarter pint of the best freckle, sunburn and tan lotion, and complexion whitener, at very, very small cost.

Your grocer has the lemons and any drug store or toilet counter will supply three ounces of Orchard White for a few cents. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face, neck, arms and hands and see how quickly the freckles, sunburn, windburn and tan disappear and how clear, acft and white the skin becomes. Yes! It is harmless.

INVENTIVE GENIUS ROBS CALOMEL OF NAUSEA AND DANGER

Doctors' Favorite Medicine Now Purified and Refined from All "Calo-Objectionable Effects. tabs' -- the New Name.

What will human ingenuity do next? Smokeless powder, wireless telegraphy, horseless carriages, celorless iodine, tasteless quinine,—now comes nauscaless calome! The new improvement called "Calotabs" is new on sale at drugstores.

For biliousness, constipation and indigestion the new calome! tablet is a practically perfect remedy, as evidenced by the fact that the manufacturers have authorized all druggists to refund the price. If the cistomer is not "perfectly delighted" with Calotabs One tablet at bedtime with a swallow of water—that's all. No taste, no nausca, no griping, no saits. By morning your liver is thoroughly cleaned and you are feeling fine, with a hearty appetite. But what you please—no danger—go about your business.

Calotabs are not sold in bulk. Get an Calotabs are not sold in bulk Get an original package, sealed. Price, thirty-five cents.—(adv.)

GET FEATHER BEDS AND PILLOWS Direct from Factory. Write to-day. Send names of four friends and receive our aston-Ishing offer. Hygienic Feather Bedding Co.,

Dent. 23, Charlotte, N. C.

Dizzy Spells and Sickheadaches are often samed by Constipaa normal and oney action of the bowels. AT ALL DRUGGISTS

MILES MEDICAL CO., Elkhart, Ind.

From the Sunny South to the Golden Gate.

BY EARNEST C. LOVE.

After preaching twice at Russell Street church of Christ, in Nashville, Tenn., on August 22, I bade farewell to my native State and said good-by to friends and relatives and started for my home in California. With me were seven other Tennesseeans, five of which are to be punils in the Pacific Christian Academy, of Santa Rosa, and the other two are to help as teachers.

We had a very pleasant journey, and for the most part it was uneventful. One young lady nicely folded up her ticket and threw it out the window with some spoiled lunch, and two of our boys got left in San Francisco and did not get home till Sunday, while the rest of us got home Saturday night; outside of that, nothing happened out of the ordinary. I had to buy a new ticket for the girl, and have applied for a refund on the lost ticket and will probably get it. Seventyseven dollars and thirty-four cents is worth trying for, anyway.

Our route was through Saint Louis, Kansas City, Pueblo, Salt Lake City, Sacramento, and San Francisco-the most scenic route across the continent, according to my judgment. Two of my cousins, Clyde and Charles Love, of Kansas City, met our party with their machines and whirled us uptown to a nice cafeteria and gave us a splendid breakfast, which we never forgot the whole time.

We had the pleasure of riding in an open car through the Royal Gorge in Colorado. Here the Denver and Rio Grande Railroad runs along the banks of the Arkansas River for more than a hundred miles, and for the most of the way the river runs between towering walls of solid rock. These rocks take on beautiful colors of pink, ruby, gray, blue, white, and black, while the water beats itself to a froth against the stony bottom of the canyon in its rush to get out of the gorge. The sublimity and grandeur of this scene beggars description. Imagine two thousand Lookout Mountains standing on end, a thousand in a row on either side of you, with just enough room for the train to get between them, and you have some idea of what the Royal Gorge is like. It makes man feel small indeed.

We spent five or six hours in Salt Lake City, and visited the Lake and the Mormon Temple and Tabernacle. We heard the large pipe organ play, which is said to be the largest in the world. Mr. Roosevelt, candidate for Vice President, was to speak in the Tabernacle at night. We went, but could not stay to hear the speech.

We had a few hours in San Francisco, and as none of my party had seen the ocean, we went to the beach. After spending a few minutes there, we went through the Memorial Museum, the Aviary, and the Conservatory, all in the Golden Gate Park.

We arrived safely after being on the road six days, and found the home folks and friends all well and very glad to see us, which gladness we also shared. Interest is good, and the prospects are better than ever for the Pacific Christian Academy to do the best work it has ever done.

Hens Lay While Moulting

First to lay is first to pay, "I used 'More Eggs' Tonic, and for the first time my hens isid through the moutting season," writes Mrs. C. Luginbult, of Norwood, Ohio. E. J. Reefer, the poultry expert, has discovered a scientific product that hastens the moult and revitalizes the organs of the hen and puts her in fine laying condition. Letters from many users tell how they actually gut eggs during moulting! You, too, can make you hens moult fast, get eggs scooner, and more eggs all fall and winter. This scientific tonic has been riso, tested, and proven by over 400,000 chicken raisers. Try Reefer's "More Eggs" on his fronted, money-back guarantee of satisfaction.

If you wish to try this great profit maker, simply write a post card or letter to E. J. Reefer, the poultry expert, $259 Reefer Building, Kansas City, Mo., and ask for his special free-package $1.00 offer. Don't send any money. Mr. Reefer will send you two $1.00 packages of "More Eggs." You pay the postman upon delivery only $1.50, the price of just one package, the other package being free. The Million-Boillar Merchants Bank of Kansas City, Mo., guarantees if you are not absolutely satisfied your dellawill be returned at any time within 30 days on request. So there is no risk. Write today for this special free-package offer. Profit by the experience of a man who has made a fortune out of poultry.

TETTERINE

Makes low necks and short sleeves possible. It clears the skin

50c at your drugglat's or from the SHUP-TRINE CO., Savanuah, Gs.

ASPIRIN

Name "Bayer" on Genuine

Bayer Tablets of Aspirin' is genuine Aspirin proved safe by millions and pre-scribed by physicians for over twenty scribed by ghysicians for over twenty years. Acceptionly an inbroken "Bayer package" which contains proper directions to relieve Headsche, Toothache, Harache, Neuralgia, Elicamatism, Colds and Pain. Handy tin boxes of 12 tablets cost few cents. Draggiats also sell larger "Bayer packages." Aspirin is trade mark Bayer Manufacture Mongacoticacidester of Salicylmacid.

CHURCH NEWS

Alabama.

Hodges, September 6.—The meeting at Hodges, conducted by John W. Hedge and D. C. Williams, came to a close to day at the water's edge. There were large crowds and good attention throughout the meeting. Twelve were baptized. One lady seventy-six years old obeyed the gospel .- D. C. Williams.

Tuscumbia, September 8.—I have just closed a splendid meeting at Leeville, Tenn. There were five baptisms. There was one other confession, a lady, whose husband forbade her being baptized. All prejudice not gone yet... I will begin a meeting at Alexandria, Tenn., next Tuesday night. H. M. Phillips.

Hanceville, September 2.-I have conducted and helped to conduct a number of meetings this summer. The first was at Bethesda, in Cullman County. Brother J. H. Horton and I labored with this congregation one week. Brother Horton did the preaching and I led the singing. There were three additions to the church there. The church seemed to take on new life. The brethren supported the meeting well. From this place we went to Hanceville, my home congregation. Brother Horton did all the preaching here, except one sermon by Brother Pride E. Hinton. Brother Hinton is a young man who has a bright future. There were eleven additions to the church here. Brother Horton then went to Albany; while I went to Hopeful, in Talladega County, where I spent a pleasant week, preaching and warning every one night and day. No additions I made my borne with additions. I made my home with Brother B. F. Camp and family while at Hopeful. The church there has learned how to support a meeting. There is a very good congregation at Munford which grew out of the congregation at Hopeful. I went from Hopeful to Hebron, in Morgan County. Hebren is the largest country congregation of which I know. This congrega-tion is rich in this world's goods, in my judgment, and should support a man in the field all of his time. too, they have the man in their midst in the person of B. F. Moody. Brother Moody is a man of ability, one of the most forceful preachers I have ever heard. He lives, loves, and labors with the Hebron congregation. As a visible result of my effort with the church there is the control of the church there, three souls were added to the one body. From Hebron I went to Pleasant Grove, in Clay County. The meeting here was well attended. Seven persons were added to the church, all by primary obedience. I enjoyed my stay with the congrega-tion here. From Pleasant Grove I went to Campbell's Cross Roads for a short meeting. I preached nine sermons and baptized one young lady. I am now at home for a short time. I shall go to Blessing, in Marshall County, for my next meeting.—M. A. Creel. Creef. on single out analyzation

ATE AT IT STIFF THE THE ANY AND ADDRESS OF THE PARTY OF T

Piggott, September 6.- I closed the meeting at Rector, Ark., on August 15, with ten additions and much good done otherwise. I baptized three school-teachers one afternoon. I closed at Greenway, Ark., on August 29, with fourteen additions, and left the brethren much enthused. I am now at Rogers Chapel, near Piggott, with fine crowds and good interest. Prospects are indeed encouraging. I shall go from here to Jerusalem, near Dexter, Mo., on September 17. The brethren are treating me royally where I go, and I am happy in His service.-M. S.

Alicia, September 2.-The meeting at Bramlet Schoolhouse, four miles east of Alicia, closed on Wednesday night of last week, with four baptized and two restored. Brother Joe A. l'aylor, of Paragould, did the preaching, and it was well done, too. Broth-er Taylor is one of the best preachers I ever heard. He is a very forceful speaker, and a pure, clean, Christian gentleman. The church was greatly strengthened by his preaching. The seed was sown in good and honest hearts, and we are expecting an abundant harvest in the future. Brother Joe H. Blue, of Morriston, will hold a meeting for us during Christmas week, the Lord willing. I came to this place about seventeen months ago, and there were only about four members here at that time. I began singing and teaching music and sowing the seed of the kingdom, and now our membership is about thirty-two, all working together in the spirit of love and in the bond of peace. People of this country never knew what the gospel was before; they were loaded with all kinds of sectarianism; but they have come to realize the fact that God wants people saved in his way. We want some good, wide-awake Christian gentleman to preach for us once a month another year. Brother Jesse H. Lashley, of Cash, will preach for us next Lord's day, but after this date we know of no other date for preaching until Christmas. Please come over and help us.—A. Harrison Porterfield.

Florida.

Taft, September 7.- 1 arrived home Thursday for a rest. I held three meetings in Texas and one in Arkan-Several persons were baptized and two congregations were set in order. All the places except one sup-ported me well. I am now ready for mission work. I will go anywhere, recardless of numbers of support. I am willing to trust God and the people where I to, and God will give the increase.—G. B. Lambright.

Ousts Rheumatism.

Here it is. Those awful patus of rheumatism so common during the cold, rainy weather are completely forecten, and the rheumatism is expelled from your system, by the very simple treatment of taking Renwar Saits, which neutralizes the uric acid in the blood, and Renwar attacks the very cause of this malady and expels the uric acid from the system. Renwar is entirely dependable. It fees not in any way injure the stomach or affect the heart. It is prescribed by the best physicians, and your money is refunded if Renwar falls to relieve you of rheumatism. Give Renwar a trial, and you will never ragret it. Mr. Benagh, of the Nashville Railway and Light Company, says. Within two or three days after using Renwar my rheumatism disappeared." Price, 50 cents, ask your druggest for it, or write WARNER DRUG COMPANY, NASHVILLE, TENN.

In answering advertisements, please uention this paper

Select Thoughts.

It is worth while going through much dust to find one diamond.

It would be easy to be good if other people would only set the example.

So long as truth lives it will grow and outgrow all the clothes we make

God intends no man to live in this world without working; but he intends every man to be happy in his

It is not enough to begin well. Manasseh and Paul began III, but ended well; Judas and Demas began well, but ended ill. seroisis and all formula

No matter how good we may be, we have infinitely more for which we need to ask forgiveness than we shall ever be called on to forgive.

You Do More Work,

You are more ambitious and you get more You are more ambitious and you get more enjoyment out of everything when your blood is in good condition. Impurities in the blood have a very depressing effect on the system, causing weakness, laziness, nervousness and sickness.

GROVE'S TASTELESS Chill TONIC restores Energy and Vitality by Purifying and Enriching the Blood. When you feel its strengthening invidence in affect case.

its strengthening, invigorating effect, see how it brings color to the cheeks and how it improves the appetite, you will then appreciate its true tonic value.

GROVE'S TASTELESS CHIII TONIC is not a patent medicine, it is simply IRON and QUININE suspended in Syrup. So pleasant even children like it. The blood needs Quinine to Purify it and IRON to Enrich it. These reliable tonic properties never fail to drive out impurities in the blood. the blood.

The Strength-Creating Power of GROVE'S TASTELESS Chill TONIC has made it the favorite tonic in thousands of homes. More than thirty-five years ago, folks More than thirty-live years ago, folks would ride a long distance to get GROVE'S TASTELESS Chill TONIC when a member of their family had Malaria or needed a body-building, strength-giving tonic. The formula is just the same today, and you can get it from any drug store, 60c per bottle.

Stop Itching

Skins with Tetterine

60c. at your druggist's or from SHUPTRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

PRECKIES

Now Is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots.

There's no longer the slightest used of feeling ashamed of your freekies, as Othice—double strength—is guaranteed to remove these bounds shore ashamed of your freekes, as Offsites double strength—is guaranteed to remove these homely shots.
Simply set an omne of Offsine double strength—from your drugglat, and apply a little of it night and morning and your should soon see that see it is most freezies have better to disancear, while the helder pure have cannot enture to its rection that more than one once is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a beautiful clear completic.

Be sure to all index guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freeders.

CHURCH NEWS

Tennessee.

Henry, September 8.-I have just closed a good meeting at Gardner, in Weakley County. This meeting was well attended, notwithstanding an im-mense amount of prejudice against us, and resulted in two additions by pri-mary obedience; and other good, we was done. Before preached a few days at Union Grove Schoolhouse, in Henry County, where six became obedient to the faith. This The meetwas a real mission point. ing at Burris' Chapel, in Lake County, resulted in four restorations. We had fine crowds, fine attention, and fine singing. These brethren certainly know how to take care of the preacher financially, as well as otherwise. I am now in a mission meeting for the church at Henry. When this meeting closes, I will go again to take up my school work at Springville, where I will be engaged for the next eight months,—Fred W. Chunn.

Texas.

Austin, September 6.- I have just closed a very fine meeting at Sentinel, Okla. There were eighteen additions to the congregation. New life was assumed and general interest created. The brethren gave me a very liberal contribution and asked me to return again. This was my fifth meeting again. This was my mon there. I am now at Trinity, Texas, in a meeting, and hope to do a good work. -W. F. Ledlow.

West Virginia.

Buffalo, September 9.--I have received personal help to the amount of $26.50. I have also received $25 to help finish our house of worship. We are very thankful for this help. It is very highly appreciated. We are building, and we are several hundred dollars behind on the material. If every one who reads this note will send some help now, we will soon finish the house. When enough is re-ceived, we will notify you all. We will make a report of receipts and expenditures at the same time. Please do help us out now, as this matter is long delayed. Up to the present we have collected $954.94, and we have paid out $904.84. This leaves $50.10 in the treasury. Kindly state what your offering is for. I can use checks. We have raised about all the money we can here. Wife and I are both in pretty bad shape yet. We need per-sonal help; but for the present I re-quest you all to give the house of worship the preference. We expect an ingathering when the house is com-pleted. Address me at Box 81, Buf-falo, W. Va.—F. P. Fonner.

Shave With Cuticura Soap The New Way Without Mud

Among the Colored Folks

Interest in Mission Work.

On the second Lord's day in August I began my second meeting at a place called "Flat Rock," near Christiana, Tenn., in a tent, and although it rained every day, interest seemed to grow with every service, and the meeting resulted in five being added to the church and one restored. The white brethren assisted us in this meeting, for which we are very thankful.

On the fourth Lord's day in August I began a meeting at Bellwood, Tenn. The attendance was good throughout the meeting, and six precious souls obeyed the gospel and one was restored. This work was begun about thirty years ago by old Brother S. W. Womack. There are several young preachers in this congregation. While here the white church began their meeting, and I was blessed in hearing Brother Elam and Brother Pittman preach the gospel of Jesus Christ,

I must say that nothing does me more good than to see the interest manifested now in getting the gospel to my race by the white brethren and sisters. I am receiving a good many calls to come and hold meetings for my people at the expense of the white churches, and some individuals (white) have offered to support me if I will come and preach to my people. My people are struggling in the clutches of sectarianism, and the pure gospel is all that will release them and open their blinded eyes, and I pray that the white brethren and sisters will continue doing mission work among this neglected race of ours. Pray for me.

M. KEEBLE.

For Fever Headaches and Neuralgic Pains

An improved Aspirin tablet which is abso-An improved Aspirin tablet which is absolutely safe to use even in cases of extreme debility and weak heart. Relieves headaches, neuralgia and rheumatic pains and reduces fever. No depressing effects, Made by a formula which is in general use by leading physicians. 35c per package at your druggists or by mail from the manufacturers, Piedmont Laboratories Inc., Clinton, S. C.

HER FITS STOPPED

Mrs. Della Martin, a resident of Wurtsboro, N. V., writes that she stopped her fits with a free bottle of medleine which she read about in the paper. She says she has not had a fit since she took the first dose, and that she wants every sufferer to know about this wonderful medleine and what it did for her. If you have a friend or relative who suffers from these dreadful attacks, you are advised to send name and address at once to R. P. N. Lepno, 198 Island Ave., Milwaukee, Wis., who is generously offering to send a bottle of the same kind of medicine he gave Mrs. Martin, free, to any sufferer who writes him.

VACCINATE YOUR HOGS.

BUY SERUM direct from the manufacturers and be assured of a fresh, reliable product. United States Veter-inary License No. 114; long-distance phone, Main 2588, Nashville, Tenn. Write for 90-page Hog Book; it is FREE. WHITE SERUM COMPANY.

FOOT COMFORT ASSURED

Brooklyn Man Solves the Problem

It is no longer necessary to suffer agonies that are caused by misfit shoes; for Mr. Simon, of Brooklyn, has proven that he can fit perfectly by mail. Simon's EzWear Shoes are built to give every possible foot comfort; they are soft and stylish, and do not need breaking in. They fit like the proverbial pair, the minute you wear them. Every pair is guaranteed to give satisfaction and to fit perfectly.

Mr. J. R. Simon will gladly send a free catalogue of over 500 styles of EzWear Shoes to all who write him, along with his scientific, self-measuring blank, Write for your copy to-day, and give your feet their much-needed happiness. Address all com-munications to Mr. J. R. Simon, 1589 Broadway, Brooklyn, N. Y., and you will receive personal attention.

A LEOPARD CANNOT CHANGE ITS SPOTS

Mr. Dedson, the "Liver Tone" Man, Tells the Treachery of Calemal.

Calomel loses you a day! You know what calomel is. It's mercury; quick-silver. Calomel is dangerous. It crashes into sour bile like dynamite, cramping and sickening you. Calomel attacks the bones and should never be attacks the bones and should never be put into your system.

When you feel bilious, sluggish, constipated and all knocked out and believe you need a dose of dangerous calomel just remember that your druggist sells for a few cents a large bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone, which is entirely vegetable and pleasant to take and is a perfect substitute for calomel. It is guaranteed to start your liver without stirring you up inside, and can not salivate.

to start your liver without stirring you up inside, and can not salivate.

Don't take calomel! It can not be trusted any more than a leopard or a wild-cat. Take Dodson's Liver Tonewhich straightens you right up and makes you feel fine. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and docen't gring.

and doesn't gripe.

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

Volume LXII. No. 39.

NASHVILLE, TENN., SEPTEMBER 23, 1920.

$2.50 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

CONTENTS.

EDIFYING AS THE NEED MAY BE	9/2/
OUR CONTRIBUTORS What About Elders? (No. 4)—The Community Church— Noah; A Preacher of Righteousness—Home Missions—Pic- tureaque Macon.	92;
Opening Exercises of David Lipseomb College-Relief Fund	926
HOME READING	927
AT HOME AND ABROAD	928
Michael Company	936
GEORGIA AND THE FAR SOUTHERN FIELD	936
	936
CHURCH NEWS	944
What Shall We Do7-In Memory of Johnnie Warren	938
Message from the Belle Haven Orphaus' Home	940
OBITUARIES	941
	941
Turned Out -Doing Mission Work	941

Edifying as the Need May Be

W

Names With a Meaning.

In Oriental lands people are often given names with a meaning by those who know them best. A missionary in China says that one man whom he knows is always called "Old-Wait-a-Bit" because of his habit of procrastination; another is known as "Angry-Face;" and three members of one family are known by the way they bathe. One is called "Bath-every-day-man;" another, "Bath-once-a-week-man;" and still another is known as the "Never-bath-at-all-man." Suppose we followed that custom to-day in naming church people according to their zeal. One Christian might be called "Never-miss-man;" another, "Every-now-and-then-man;" and still another, "Hardly-ever-man."

In the fourth and fifth chapters of Acts we learn of some characters who bore favorable names. There we meet "Joseph, who by the apostles was surnamed Barnabas (which is, being interpreted, Son of exhortation)." We should note that the apostles gave him this name because he deserved it. It fitted his character more admirably than any other. Then we find two other favorable names-"Ananias" (the Greek form of the Hebrew name, "Hananiah"), which means "Jehovah is gracious;" and "Sapphira," which means "beautiful." But what terrible misfits these names proved to be! Ananias, instead of revealing the virtues of the ancient Hananiah, who was one of the heroes cast into the fiery furnace with Daniel, turns out to be a miserable liar; and Sapphira, instead of saving the family honor, joins in the hypocrisy with her notorious husband. Both of them by their avaricious conduct marthe most beautiful scene of church tranquillity this world has ever known. Luke gives us the pen picture first in the closing part of the second chapter of Acts. "And all that believed were together, and had all things common; and they sold their possessions and goods, and parted them to all, according as any man had need. And day by day, continuing steadfastly with one accord in the temple, and breaking bread at home, they took their food with gladness and singleness of heart, praising God, and having favor with all the people. And the Lord added to them day by day those that were saved." (Acts 2: 44-47.)

0 0 0

Modern Socialism and the Apostolic Kind.

I do not believe that this scene furnishes an apt text for the modern socialist. True, it is socialism, but not according to his idea. We read that "they had all things common." This is the only instance in the New Testament of a community of goods, and this arose from the exigeneles of the occasion. One of the exigencies was the presence of so many strangers in Jerusalem whose prolonged stay left them with no provision for sustenance: McGarvey says: "The church was not at this time a commune, or a socialistic club, as many interpreters have fancied; for there was no uniform distribution of the property of all among the members; neither was the property held and administered by the apostles as a business committee. On the contrary, distribution was made unto each, according as any one had need,' which shows that only the needy received anything, and those who were not needy were the givers." Furthermore, Peter's question addressed in rebuke to Ananias settles the matter beyond all quibbling: "While it remained, did it not remain thine own? and after it was sold, was it not in thy power?"

But this lesson of unparalleled generosity should not go unheeded. We should find in it, not the result of socialistic theorizing, but the spontaneous expression of the love of God and man which had taken possession of every heart. There were socialists even in the days of the apostles, but of a nobler brand. Modern socialists would take their possessions away from the rich. The socialists of the primitive church "brought their possessions" to the poor and needy. They brought them without stint, believing, as Winston Churchill expressed it, that "nobody ought to have everything till everybody has something." The action of Barnabas is typical of the whole-souled honest giver who graces the Christian brotherhood wherever you may find him—the one who not only brings his contributions, but himself. As Lowell says:

Not what we give, but what we share, For the gift without the giver is bare. Who gives himself with his alms feeds three— Himself, his hungering neighbor, and Me.

The Lie That Kills.

Now comes the odious comparison, the marplot of the play, enter the founder of the "Ananias club." Epametus said that liars were the cause of all the villainies and injustice in the world. When we consider what Jesus said of the devil, that "he is a liar, and the father thereof," we can see that Epametus did not miss the mark very far. But what kind of a He did Ananias tell? Webster defines a lie as a falsehood uttered or acted for the purpose of deception. We sometimes make a distinction that the Bible does not make. We hold that there are black lies and white lies, diplomatic lies and sick-room lies. According to this distinction, these two culprits were not very guilty, Ananias did not lie, we might reason, for he did not say a word; and Sapphira only told a white lie, because, when she said they had sold the land for a certain sum, her auswer was partly true. But, viewing the matter from God's angle, the lie they told or acted was in the willful deceit they practiced. A little boy, for a trick, pointed with his finger to the wrong road when a man asked which way the doctor went. As a result, the man missed the doctor and his child died, because the doctor came too late to take a fishbone from his throat. At the funeral the minister said the child was killed by a lie which another child told with his finger. The minister was right. Willful deceit always makes a lie. If a man leaves you under the impression that he will do a thing, even though the agreement is not formulated in sc many written words, and knows that you are under that impression, and then deliberately follows another course, that man has falsified in the sight of God and all right-thinking people.

#

An Age of Deception.

A thoughtful man has said: "We live in an age of deception. Scales lie, yardsticks lie, milk cans lie, measures lie. Furniture is a cheat, clothing is shoddy, and machinery is a make shift." That man was too pessimistic. I fear he had never been to our town. But the fact remains that there is much deception practiced, and that, too, by our so-called "best people." How much of society is insincere! And the Christmas season is the best time for the inventory. They send their regards, their beautifully engraved greetings: you do not know whether it is an expression of the heart or an external civility. They bring beautiful flowers and shed copious tears at the funeral of some rich man's child, saying, "How sad to give the little ones up!" but perhaps a few blocks away another little child is crying for bread and a mother is wondering where to get it. They apologize for the fare on the table; but they never live any better, How few people are natural! One woman tells another her dress is "beautiful" when she really thinks it is "horrid." A little boy told a lie to sell a paper. The matter came up in Sunday school. "Would you tell a lie for three cents?" the teacher asked of Dick. "No, ma'am," came the positive answer. "For ten cents?" "No, ma'am." "For a dollar?" "No, ma'am." "For a thousand dollars?" Dick hesitated. A thousand dollars looked big-it would buy lots of things. While he was thinking, another boy cried out: "No, ma'am because when the thousand dollars is gone and the things you have got with them are gone. too, the lie is there just the same." Finely said! The lie always sticks; and unless repented of, it sticks until the judgment day. Then shall take place the great reunion of the Ananias club which is foretold in the book of Revelation. "Without are the dogs, and the sorcerers, and the fornicators, and the murderers, and the idolaters, and every one that loveth and maketh a lie."

Who killed Ananias? It is certain that Peter did not kill him. This man's sudden death was doubtless as unexpected to Peter as it was to Ananias. The church did not kill him; for this sudden and awful judgment not only surprised, but frightened, the believers. "Great fear came on all them that heard these things." There is but one true scriptural answer. It was Ananias' lie that killed him. It was sin unrepented of, crouching at his door, that sprang upon him. Just as surely does sin kill to-day. Ananias was a slow suicide.

0 0 0

One Must Be Truthful to Be Respectable.

I believe that truthfulness is deeper and more vital than all the Christian graces. Paul did not mention truth when he named them, for he understood that it underlies them all. A man must be truthful to be respectable. I have known men who did not profess to be Christians, but who would not tell or act a lie for their right arm. If a man is known to be a liar, people avoid him and do not care to have social or business relations with him. If they are tied up with him in any capacity, they would break the connection. It is the glory of true manhood to be truthful. Cicero said: "It is not virtuous to speak Latin correctly, but disgraceful not to speak it accurately." Truthfulness is so essential to manhood that a liar is hardly counted a man. We cannot countenance even a preacher of the gospel if we know he is guilty of double-dealing.

"Thy Rich Promises in Me Fulfill."

These words, from the well-known hymn, "I Need Thee Every Hour," are sometimes sung without being the prayer of the heart. O, how many "rich promises" of God are not fulfilled in our behalf because of the indifferent manner in which we treat them! How often our coldness and lack of faith grieve the Author of the promises! Surely God does not mock his people with promises and then withhold the blessings he intends us to have. Meeting the conditions on which the promises are made will at some time secure an answer.

We read in the sacred volume, "All the promises of God are yea and amen"—that is, made for fulfillment in Christ Jesus. Verily "the Lord is not slack concerning his promise." There are "exceeding great and precious promises "that ought to be fulfilled in our hearts and lives. We ought to be real "partakers of his promises in Christ." "Obtained promises" ought to be the rule of our lives. Of all Christians it ought to be true, in God's will, "to whom pertaineth the promises."

Let us briefly contemplate only a few of the very many "rich promises" of God. Some are made to the penitent sinners, such as: "Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest;" "Him that cometh unto me, I will in no wise cast out;" "Whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved;" "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved." And very numerous "rich promises" are made to Christians. They pertain to innumerable phases of the Christian life. But again I quote a very few, as follows: "Whatsoever ye shall ask in my name, that will I do." To associate this promise with John 15: 7 will be very helpful. Promises of receiving the Holy Spirit are various, such as: "Whom I will send unto you." Couple this with the "rich promise" that the Father will "give the Holy Spirit to them that ask him." Also: "Behold, I send the promise of the Father upon you." And see what a rich promise, among others. is that of perfect cleansing: "The blood of Jesus Christ cleanseth us from all sin."

But a little more as to the "rich promises" concerning prayer: "Call unto me, and I will answer thee, and show thee great and mighty things which thou knowest not"—things far beyond our present obtainment, the deep, here tofore hidden things of God, for those who hunger and thirst for them. God is waiting to bestow blessings "which pass knowledge," things "exceeding abundantly above all that we ask or think." This not only refers to our own needs, but also to the salvation of others. O, what a challenge to our faith are these "rich promises" of God!—A. W. Orwig, in Evangelical Messenger.

Our Contributors

What About Elders? No. 4.

BY W. H. CARTER.

Have elders a duty to perform? Have they authority from Him who is "head over all things" to discharge that duty? Who has authority to interfere and hinder them? These are questions that demand serious and sober thought. If we understand and believe the scriptures that say to the elders, "Take heed therefore unto yourselves, and to all the flock, over the which the Holy Spirit hath made you overseers, to feed the church of God, which he hath purchased with his own blood" (Acts 20: 28); "Feed the flock of God which is among you, taking the oversight thereof" (1 Pet. 5; 2); and to the members, "Remember them which have the rule over you, who have spoken unto you the word of God: whose faith follow, considering the end of their conversation. . . . Obey them that have the rule over you, and submit yourselves: for they watch for your souls, as they that must give account, that they may do it with joy, and not with grief: for that is unprofitable for you" (Heb. 13: 7, 17); "Let the elders that rule well be counted worthy of deuble honor, especially they who labor in the word and doctrine" (1 Tim. 5: 17)-what will be our feeling and conduct toward the eldership?

If we understand this plain teaching of the Spirit, will we not come together, not as partisans, but as brethren, with the fear of God before us, and, in accordance with the teaching (1 Tim, 3: 1-7; Tit. 1: 5-9), look out such men as are therein described, and then, in the most solemn, reverent, and only way mentioned or practiced by inspired men and the early Christians, come together with fasting and prayer, and have an evangelist to appoint them by lay ing his hands on them, understanding that thus the Holy Spirit, through his teaching and God-appointed agencies. had made them overseers? Will we not then be seriously impressed that it is our duty now to be submissive and let them rule to our good and the glory of God? When churches thus select and appoint elders, they understand that they bring themselves under obligation to be submissive to them, and these selected and appointed understand that they are under obligation to perform the duties of their office. If one does not intend to do the work commanded in the scriptures quoted above, he is a rebellious imposition, if not a hypocrite: and if those who select the elders are not willing to obey them as God commands them to do, they are stubborn, rebellious, insubordinate, and should be dealt with as such. (See 1 Sam. 15: 22, 23.)

But some one may say: "The way you point out and contend for is not the scriptural way." Then it is up to you to show wherein I have failed and point out the scriptural way. If you say you do not know the scriptural way, then you do not know that this is not the scriptural way. If you say the Scriptures do not teach any way, then, as appointments must be made in some way, and this is a way, it is as scriptural as any other way, and has the advantage over all other ways in that it is in harmony with apostolic example. But you say: "I object to it." Well, suppose I grant it; does the mere fact that one objects prove that the thing he objects to is wrong?

But another says: "Hands were always laid on to impart miraculous gifts or powers." But how do you know? I deny it. This puts you to the proof. Can you prove it? "Prove all things." (Paul.)

But says another: "The elders in the days of the apostles were inspired; and as we have no inspired men now, we have no elders now." Where did you learn this? Not from the word of the Lord. There is not the least shadow of an intimation in the word of God that a single elder appointed in the churches in New Testament times was inspired or in any way miraculously endowed. But you say: "Does not Paul tell the Ephesians that when Christ ascended he 'gave gifts unto men?'" Yes, but he does not say these gifts were the inspiration of elders and the bestowal upon them of miraculous power. That is purely an assumption which is necessary to the speculative theory of no elders now and no organization now but that which is human. Yes, but Eph. 4: 11-13 shows that these "pastors and teachers" were only given "till we come in the unity of the faith," etc.; then they passed out, we are told. And yet God left on record in the New Testament, which is our guide, the kind of men to be appointed. These were given for a purpose-"for the perfecting of the saints, for the work of the ministry, for the edifying of the body of Christ." If "till" takes the workers out, it also takes the work they were to do out. If I believed it, I would try to do no more teaching, neither orally, by articles, nor by books and pamphlets. I would show lack of faith by my lack of work. Is there any teaching that those who were not elders did not receive gifts? Did not the Corinthians receive gifts? Were they all elders? Did not those upon whom Paul laid hands at Ephesus receive the Spirit and speak with tongues? Were they elders? Were the Samaritans who received the Spirit elders? If it is a fact that elders received gifts, and, therefore, we should have no elders now, why not the fact that those who were not elders received gifts show we should not have those not elders in the church now? If one is proven, the other is, and we can have no church now. To say because the Savior gave gifts unto men, this means the elders were miraculously endowed, is assumption, plain and simple, and a perversion of the truth. But I must close here for the present. I may have more to say later if it is thought expedient.

The Community Church.

- BY H. C. FLEMING.

We are told that the Greek word for church is "ekklessia," which originally meant an assembly called out by the magistrate, or by legitimate authority.

In Matt. 16: 18 our Lord says: "Upon this rock I will build my church." Here is authority for the church of Christ, but for none other—for those whom he has called out from the world. His law for entrance into his church or kingdom is giving in plain language so that all can understand if they will. He who tries to enter in some other way is a thief and a robber. (John 10: 1.)

What authority is there for a community church? Christ never called any to enter such a church. There is, therefore, no authority for it, except the desire and will of man. And why this will? Because every way of man is right in his own eyes. (Prov. 21: 2.)

The Greeks had gods many and worshiped many kinds of idols; but men in civilized countries now do not worship the works of their hands, but, instead, create in their minds many false teachings contrary to the law of Christ, thereby deceiving themselves in thinking that their ways will be acceptable unto God.

Did Paul at Athens encourage the Greeks in their errors by calling for a community church composed of every variety of folly? No, but what did he do? He said: "Whom therefore ye ignorantly worship, him declare I unto you." (Acts 17: 23.) He did not tell them: "We are all striving for the same place; let us come together and form a community church; so shall we end strifes and divisions among you." He said to Timothy: "And if a man also strive for masteries, yet is he not crowned, except he strive lawfully." (2 Tim. 2: 5.)

"The law of the Spirit of life" tells us what to do that we may receive the crown of life. If we fail in obedience to that law, can we expect to receive the crown?

But why are some now trying to establish a community church composed of all kinds of false teachings and contradictions? Because in their inmost consciences they are self-condemned for their party strifes and divisions and want to do something according to their own ways that will ease their conscience and palliate the fear of condemnation at the judgment day. What folly in such a course! Why not obey the plain, simple word of God as recorded in the living oracles without twisting and squirming by far-fetched theories that render that word null and void?

But they say we cannot all see alike; therefore, we must agree to disagree. But will that kind of agreement give us eternal life? Better far to disagree with all false teachings and persuade men to obey the commandments, "that they may have right to the tree of life, and may enter in through the gates into the city." (Rev. 22: 14.)

Noah-A Preacher of Righteousness.

BY H, LEO BOLES,

We have learned that Noah was a man of faith, and that his faith became an active, fruit-bearing principle in his service to Jehovah. This is true in regard to our faith to-day. Our faith does not count for much—it is a dead faith—until it becomes an active principle in our lives. Noah, by faith, persevered and became victorious over his enemies, successful in his life, and stands out among the heroes of God, enumerated with Job and Daniel in his influence with Jehovah.

Noah is called "a preacher of righteousness." "And spared not the ancient world, but preserved Noah with seven others, a preacher of righteousness, when he brought a flood upon the world of the ungodly." (2 Pet. 2: 5.) Noah, in order to become a preacher of righteousness, must first be a righteous man; he could not preach righteousness to that wicked generation with any power and influence without first becoming righteous. This is a universal principle and has been emphasized under all dispensations. Of course, God can and has in a few instances made the wicked bear testimony in his behalf, but the most impressive and effective preaching of righteousness has come from those whose lives were in harmony with the message which they delivered. So often to-day we find the life of a professional preacher contradicting and nullifying the message that he proclaims. But little good is done by such insincere and hypocritical lives. No dishonest preacher can preach with great effect the principle of honor and honesty; no liar can preach with emphasis the love of the truth and truth telling; no tattler and busybody in other men's matters can proclaim with potency the principle of quietness and "to do your own business;" no one who encourages participation in carnal warfare can consistently preach Christ as the "Prince of Peace" and his kingdom "a kingdom of peace;" no unrighteous man can be a preacher of righteousness. I am reminded here of that familiar quotation which says: "How can I hear what you say, when what you are is forever thundering in my ears?"

The New Testament emphasizes doing and then teaching. Christ set this example. "The former treatise I made, O Theophilus, concerning all that Jesus began both to do and to teach." (Acts 1: 1.) Jesus began living the principles of righteousness, and then taught to others these principles. He verified the principle by his own life, and then said to his disciples: "Go and do as I have done, and teach others to do as I have done." "Whosoever therefore shall break one of these least commandments, and shall teach men so, shall be called least in the kingdom of heaven:

but whosoever shall do and teach them, he shall be called great in the kingdom of heaven." (Matt. 5: 19.) Jesus places the emphasis upon doing his commandments and then teaching them to others. No one has a right to call upon others to do that which he is not doing and will not do; one's teaching must be supported and emphasized by his life. When Noah is called "a preacher of rightcousness." we understand that he first became a righteous man.

The strong faith that Noah had enabled him to preach with power the righteousness which is of faith. The work of Noah with that wicked generation, steeped in sin, as it was, required great courage to preach righteousness. It requires much courage to preach righteousness to an unrighteous generation; yet Noah is moved by godly fear to carry out the will of Jehovah. He may have felt as did Paul: "Woe is unto me, if I preach not the gospel." (1 Cor. 9: 16.) "He that doeth righteousness is righteous. even as he is righteous. . . . Whosoever doeth not righteousness is not of God." (1 John 3: 7, 10.) Doing the commandments of God in faith constitutes a righteous life and gives the greatest encouragement to others to become the heirs of righteousness which is through faith. It takes a great deal of courage to preach in the face of opposition, especially such opposition as Noah faced. His faith is linked with courage and supported by righteousness; this makes the most effective agent that was possible. I mention this that we may see that that generation had no excuse for not becoming righteous; they had no excuse for not accepting Noah's preaching righteousness to them. I am sure that the principle was clearly set forth in Noah's preaching and that no mistake was made by Noah in preaching, for he was guided by the Spirit of God. (1 Pet. 3: 19.) "For no prophecy ever came by the will of man: but men spake from God, being moved by the Holy Spirit." (2 Pet. 1: 21.) Hence, Noah made no mistake. His life was in harmony with his preaching: he was doing righteousness before their eyes; so they could have no excuse for not accepting what he was preaching. Jehovah used every means, as he always does, for their salvation, yet they refused to accept. Their condemnation was just. The message was clear and simple, presented by a man guided by the Spirit of God, supported by a consistent and righteous life; and this left them without an excuse and made their condemnation a choice of their own.

We find that Noah combined the dignity of labor with the saving of souls; for while he was preaching righteousness to them, he was also working and making the ark for the salvation of the righteous. This makes an admirable character, indeed. The combination of these two important phases of righteousness should not be overlooked. It reminds us of the apestle Paul, who labored with his hands te support himself and others at the same time that he preached the gospel as God's power to save. Such a combination of labor and preaching is needed to-day to give the greatest emphasis to the preaching of the gospel. I have no sympathy with the idle-ease, ecclesiastical-robed set of preachers who, as parasites, live upon the toil of others and preach as a profession. Noah does not present an example of that kind. He worked carefully, prayerfully, regularly, and faithfully in the construction of the ark, and in the meantime preached righteousness and godliness to an unfaithful, unrighteous, and ungodly generation.

Noah preached righteousness to himself, then to his sons, or family, and then to the people. He preached righteousness, or the commands of God; how to attain righteousness, including the hardships and difficulties of attaining it, and the glorious promises and rewards of salvation which that righteousness brought.

When we feel a strong desire to thrust our advice on others, it is usually because we suspect their weakness; but we ought rather to suspect our own.—Colton.

Home Missions.

BY A. S. WARREN.

Some months ago I stated in the Nashville Banner's "Forum" column that America was the greatest missionary field in the world. Since that time I have attended a negro funeral down on Eighth Avenue and a white folks' funeral, so to speak, up on Capitol Hill. The negro funeral was the most orderly of the two, and there was less willful lying and malicious intents and purposes than on Capitol Hill; but they differed in color, even if they did resemble each other in many respects very closely. My wife and I were on the platform with thirteen negro preachers, caused by standing room in the yard being at a premium when we arrived. The preachers, after an all-night's wait the night before, managed to get through with the funeral services proper in about four hours. Only three of the thirteen preachers took any prominent part in the funeral services. All three of them, if I remember correctly, had the same text, nicely typewritten, and after reading them they were tabled and only used incidentally afterwards. The first preacher got the brethren warmed up good and strong, and before he had concluded many were shouting and doing other stunts, and the whole congregation was in an uproar. except my wife and I, who looked on with wonder and astonishment and with sad hearts, for it was indeed pathetic to see and hear them. The second preacher, after reading and tabling his text, did what I suppose might be called the "shimmy dance" back and forth across the platform while his audience kept time with his feet by humming nothing in an unknown tongue until he had concluded. The third and last preacher, who had got a strong hint from my wife as to the time they were consuming, said in the beginning: "White folks are not used to such carrying on and such long services, and I intend to cut my sermon short." After listening to him for some time and learning the length of a negro's cut-short sermon, my wife and I asked to be excused, an opening for our exit through the back door was made, and out we went. My wife did not attend the funeral up on Capitol Hill, when a quorumless legislature was doing business, but I did; and if there was any doubt about America being the greatest missionary field in the world when I made that statement, there should be none now, for the acts and speeches indulged in by men and women on that occasion were ridiculously silly and a disgrace to civilization. The speaker pro tem of the House of Representatives at that time and the Nazarene member from the West, who were conducting the funeral services, broke the world's record doing business without a quorum; but the business done was like an old woman's dance-soon over and ridiculously silly. I never saw such a waste of time and such silly proceedings in all my life, and I doubt if it has ever been equaled by civilized people in the world's history. A big, fat woman and a little, fat man rang a big farm bell that had been erected inside the legislative hall, and big, fat women and little, lean women, young women and old women, fell on each other's necks when they mistook defeat for victory and acted equally as silly and disgusting as did the colored brethren at the negro funeral. Small men, masculine women, and demagogic politicians were very much in evidence during the recent session of our State legislature, and they ignored the Scriptures and the Constitutions, and many of their acts and sayings were as heathenish as might have been expected in the heathen nations of Europe.

Thoughtless women in church societies, encouraged and backed by professional preachers and grafters in so-called "church work," are responsible for a six-million-dollar loss to "our brotherhood" in an effort to promote denominationalism by a ridiculously absurd absurdity, known when living as the "Interchurch World Movement." Thoughtless and denominational agents in the American Missionary Society send weak professional missionaries into heathen nations to promote and build up denominationalism by federating, receiving the unimmersed into the church, and dedication of babies. Professional preachers who are popular club men, teaching worse than nothing and preaching nothing on the slightest provocation, are filling the pulpits of our fashionable, rich, society churches, and, as a result, they have a worldly-minded official board and an untaught congregation who are encouraged to favor female suffrage, federation, interchurch world work, open membership. denominationalism, and child dedication. These professional preachers and their thoughtless followers are tearing down in civilized America faster than we are building up in the heathen nations of Europe, and the time has arrived when we should cease discussing nonessentials and unite in destroying all of the above-mentioned evils, the greatest of which is the professional preacher. If the congress which is to meet in St. Louis on October 15 wishes to do a sane, safe, and practical Christian service, it will do away with the American Missionary Society and will unite all factions in doing missionary work in America. Denominationalism is using more time, talent, and money in America than ever before in the history of denominationalism, and we should reunite and reënforce and make one united Herculean effort for supremacy in America.

Opening Exercises at David Lipscomb College.

Registration of students for the fall term will begin on Tuesday, September 28, but the formal opening exercises for the public will be held on Friday, October 1, at 10 A.M., in the College chapel. A pleasing program has been arranged, and it is hoped that all the patrons and friends of the College will be present. Students are urged to report on September 28 in order that they may be classified as quickly as possible,

A. B. Lipscome, President.

Relief Fund.

C. E. Jones, Mount Rainier, Md.	$ 2.00
Church at Dunlap, Tenn.	29.40
Mrs. Henry Canterbury, Huntsville, Ala	2.00
Jimmie Taylor, Huntsville, Ala	2.00
Church at Oakland, Tenn	40.00

In sending contributions, be sure and state whether they are intended for the Home Orphans' Fund, the Armenian and Syrian Fund, or the Poland Fund. I should be glad if more of the contributions were designated for use in providing for orphans in this country, since there are constant appeals from destitute families close to us. Make all checks and money orders payable to A. B. Lipscomb, who will forward them to the proper commissioners.

The man who does his best with God's help needs no excuse. God will forgive him for the imperfection of his work. The man who does not do his best and who does not seek God's help cannot profit by any excuses. They will not alter the facts of his bad service for either God or man. He only wastes his words and weakens his own will in producing them.—R. E. Speer.

What is it that charms us most in a friend? It is that he can read the transient expression in our face, and modify himself to suit the feeling we are ourselves but half conscious of possessing; it is that he knows when to be silent and when to speak; it is that he never mistakes, but sees us true, when all the world is wrong about us. Such a friend has not only power of character, but beauty of character.—Stopford Brooke.

"While It is Called To-Day."

What can I do for Thee to-day, Who has done so much for me? What can I do to mark the way In my life's history?

If I could do but some golden deed As each day comes and goes, Or sow in the hearts of men some seed Which shall bless the world as it grows;

If I could reflect but one of the rays Which fall on my life from Thine, And lift the dull hearts of men to praise Through the power of Thy Love Divine:

Then at each setting of the sun, As I pass along life's way, I could say: "By Thy grace, Thou Blessed One, I have done my part to-day." Selected:

Picturesque Macon.

BY R. P. CUFF.

Macon, the central city of the State of Georgia, is to be my home for a while. Here fifty-two thousand of earth's denizens dwell. Though not as thrifty in the attainment of numbers as many another city, Macon may yet smile exultingly and say: "I am your rival in loveliness and sweet scenery." A beautiful city is Macon! Flowers abound; streets are wide; lawns are green and refreshing. The city hall is a building that would be an honor to any town. We are blessed with several libraries. Among them is one very fine—the Washington Memorial Library. Here men may go and be led to a fuller knowledge of truth, literature, art, and all the choice things of this life. "The horny-handed sons of toil" and the hands of tender care have clothed this Southern city in garments of lofty levellness, great grandeur, blissful beauty.

As one rides along Vineville Avenue, if he has an observant eye at all, he will see many of the tints and hues that Nature knows so well how to give to plants and flowers blended in signal and glorious harmony. Surely artists live here. Were the observer a man of the past-one of the ancients to whom the thing now called "mythology" was a reality-he would in all probability give expression to some such sentiment as: "See how the gods have given this place picturesque touches of tidiness!" Or if he be a Bible student of the present day, his mind will turn to thoughts of the paradise of God where the tree of life yields its fruit and the river of water of life flows on forever. Contemplation of heavenly glory must be sublime. No earthly beauty but that wanes, blushes, and declines, when compared with the celestial. Though beauty is prevalent in Macon, and we so marvel at some sights about us in the world that we call them "wonders," it is no disparagement to the gardens of Nature nor to man's ardent admiration of natural landscape to say that John in his visions portrays the new Jerusalem as more picturesque by far than any place on earth fo-day. (Read Rev. 21: 10 to 22: 5.)

Let us turn from admiration of the natural things of Macon for a glimpse at the spiritual life of the city. It has but one congregation known as the "church of Christ" over east across Ocmulgee River. But that congregation stands towering far into the sky of steadfastness as an uncrumbled and uncrumbling monument to primitive Christianity. They seem ready to recommend to the world and to themselves the great principles of teaching as set forth by our blessed Lord and by his apostles. This East Macon church is worthy of commendation, it appears to me, for its activity. The members are ready to cooperate for the winning of souls. They show an excellent spirit of brotherly kindness. Those who honor God will be honored by him. May we all so live as to let our eyes feast finally on the supernal scenes of the heavenly home.

Comforters.

Renan described the Bible as the great consolatory book of humanity.

Isaiah loved to think of God as a comforter, comforting Israel as one whom his mother comforteth.

The apostle John applied the same title to Jesus: "We have a comforter with God, even Jesus Christ."

This is the favorite name of the Holy Spirit. Said Jesus: "He shall give you another Comforter, the Spirit of truth."

Christians are comforters. "The God of all comfort comforteth us in all our afflictions, that we may be able to comfort them that are in any affliction."

This is superlative Christianity, The supreme gift is the ability to mediate the love of God to the human heart.

Sorrow is woven into the life of the world. No one escapes heartbreak. The flood creeps over every threshold, and the woes of life overtake us.

Blessed are they who have kept their childhood trust in Providence, who believe in God, and believe also in Christ. They look unto him, and their faces are lightened. They find that his grace is sufficient for them. In their Father's house are many mansions, where he shall wipe away every tear from their eyes, and death shall be no more, neither shall there be mourning, nor crying, nor pain, any more. They resign their loved ones to Him who is able to keep that which they have committed unto him against that day

And the great Companion is with them who walk the lonely way of the bereaved. "I will hold thy right hand, saying unto thee, Fear not; I will help thee." He daily beareth our burdens.

God says to the Christians: "Comfort ye, comfort ye, my If we will, he wakeneth morning by morning: he wakeneth our ear to hear, that we should know how to sustain with words him that is weary.

Asked what change he would order if he had his life to live over, John Watson sald: "I would make my ministry more comforting."-Christian Standard.

Men who live for this world, who seek to gain wealth, education, and fame, and leave God out of the count, when they come to die, always look back, realizing that life has been a failure, no matter how well they may have succeeded in acquiring wealth and fame. It is but natural for such to sigh, "Ah, well, it might have been!" But no man ever yet put his trust in the Lord Jesus Christ to be disappointed. To him every cloud has a silver lining; to him a brighter day is always ahead. Having cast his burdens upon the Lord, he knows well in whom he has put his trust, and, like a dove, is ready to fly away and be at rest-at rest with God, at rest in the home where all tears shall be wiped away and where troubles are forever unknown. Christians in this life have tribulations as well as others: but when they come to pass out, they pass out of the sorrows, heartaches, and anguish of this world into the glory light of heaven. To such

> "There is no death; What seems so is transition. This life of mortal breath Is but a suburb of the life Elysian Whose portal we call death.

"And I heard a voice from heaven saying, Write, Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord from henceforth: yea. saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labors; for their works follow with them," (Rev. 14: 13.)

Book Notices.

Have you read "Sunshine; or, Uncle Minor's Stories?" This is a very attractive book for children as well as for old people. Children read it with much interest. It is profusely illustrated, and contains many interesting incidents and stories. Price, $1.50.

Have you seen a copy of "Adventism and the Bible?" This is one of the very best books for you to buy at the present time. Adventism is a live subject. Adventists are active and are propagating their doctrines. If you want to be thoroughly prepared to meet them and to expose the errors of Adventism, you should send us at once $1.25 for a copy of "Adventism and the Bible."

Home Reading

My Guide.

There is no path in this desert waste,
For the winds have swept the shifting sands;
The trail is blind where the storms have raced,
And a stranger I, in these fearsome lands.
But I journey with a lightsome tread;
I do not falter nor turn aside;
For I see His figure just ahead—
He knows the way to the end—my Guide.

There is no path in this trackless sea;
No map is lined on the restless waves;
The ocean snares are strange to me,
Where the unseen wind in its fury raves.
But it matters naught; my sails are set,
And my swift prow tosses the seas aside;
For the changeless stars are steadfast yet,
And I sail by His star-blazed trail—my Guide.

There is no way in this starless night;

There is naught but cloud in the inky skies;
The black night smothers me, left and right,
I stare with a blind man's straining eyes.
But my steps are firm, for I cannot stray;
The path to my feet seems light and wide;
For I hear His voice: "I am the Way!"

And I sing as I follow Him on—my Guide.

—Robert J. Burdette.

0 0 0

Outwardness and Inwardness of Windows.

It was Saturday morning, and Amy and Pauline, their fresh bungalow aprons making pretty splashes of color in the big, sunny room, were washing the broad windows. Amy dimpled, smiled, and finally burst out in a gay lift of laughter.

Pauline, smiling over in sympathy, called out: "What's so funny?"

"Why, I don't know as it's exactly funny—I just happened to think of the inwardness and the outwardness of windows. It was the way I happened to express it to myself that amused me," returned Amy as she balanced herself on the stepladder and reached up to the higher panes.

"The inwardness and the outwardness of windows," repeated Pauline, slowly. Then, after a moment, she added in brisker tones: "Well, tell me some of your window thoughts, Amy. It will liven up our work."

"I was thinking," began Amy, "how we put windows into our houses to let in air and light and sunshine. That's the inwardness of windows. Then they are in our houses, too, so we can look out and see the sky, the trees, hills, fields—anything in nature within our range of vision; also, we can see people and keep ourselves informed as to what is happening to some extent in our neighborhood. And that's the outwardness of windows. See?" she finished, seating herself on the top step of the ladder and looking at her sister.

"Yes—I see." Pauline was doing some vigorous polishing. She gave a final swift rub, and, turning, surveyed Amy with a quizzical smile. "I'm thinking of windows, too. Windows that have inwardness and outwardness—and sometimes waywardness, as well."

Amy pondered a moment before she flashed out: "I know what you mean, Pauline. Our eyes. Isn't that right?"

Pauline gave an emphatic nod. Setting herself to work at her second window, she said: "Our eyes are put into our life-houses to bring light and sunshine into our minds and hearts. They are put there, too, so that we may see all the beautiful things in the outside world; so that we can look into the faces of our friends and neighbors and families; so that we can see their actions, too; and so that we can do our part in life, too. We couldn't wash these windows and make them look well without the help of the windows in our life-houses."

"Of course we couldn't," said Amy, thoughtfully.

"There's a good many things we do around the house to help mother that we couldn't do without our eye-windows. But, Pauline—what about the waywardness of these windows?"

"That's when we use these eye-windows in ways that do us harm—to look at pictures or read books or jokes that give us thoughts that are not good and helpful. Understand?" finished Pauline, darting a quick glance in her sister's direction.

"Yes," responded Amy, briefly. Then she added: "Pauline, do you remember the verse on the calendar that Miss Thorn gave us one year? Our talking of windows and eyes just brought it to my mind."

"No, I don't believe I do. Tell me, please." And Pauline faced about in a listening attitude, as Amy quoted:

"There are eyes that see the storm clouds, and eyes that see the blue:

There are eyes that see the false, and eyes that see the true.

O Jesus, give me eyes to see a thing as thou wouldest have it be!" —Girls' Companion.

0 0 0

Select Thoughts.

Knowledge and timber should not be much used till they are seasoned.—Holmes.

What will that first apprehension of God, under the new conditions of the other life, really be? There are trustworthy accounts of men who have been utterly overcome at the first sight of a fellow creature with whose name and work they had for long years associated great wisdom, or goodness, or ability. . . . What must not be the first direct sight of God—of God, the source of all beauty, of all wisdom, of all power—when the eye opens upon him after death: "Thine eyes shall see the King in his beauty"—they were words of warning, as well as words of promise.—H. P. Liddon.

The life to which Christ calls us is no tame monotony. It is a seeking of glory; the ambition to be accepted; an aspiration after an applicance that the world wots not of. It is the desire for the approval of God himself which attends upon the exercise of the Christlike mind. Where this life is, there is elevation above lying world worship. Begin this ambition at once. If hitherto we have allowed the thought of other people to come in, let us do little acts of good which no one can discover, or form some in secret, some good habit, hitherto falsely ascribed to us, and thus seek a glory that comes from the only God.—C. J. Vaughan.

0 0 0

Disappointment.

God keeps a school for his children here on earth, and one of the best teachers is Disappointment. My friend, when you and I reach our Father's house, we shall look back and see that the sharp-voiced, rough-visaged teacher, Disappointment, was one of the best guides to train us for it. He gave us hard lessons; he often used the rod; he often led us into thorny paths; he sometimes stripped off a load of luxuries; but that only made us travel the freer and the faster on our heavenward way. He sometimes led us down into the valley of the death shadow, but never did the promises read so sweetly as when spelled out by the eye of faith in that very valley. Nowhere did he lead us so often, or teach us such sacred lessons, as at the cross of Christ. Dear, old, rough-handed teacher! We will build a monument to thee yet and crown it with garlands, and inscribe on it: "Blessed be the memory of Disappointment,"-Dr. T. L. Cuyler.

AT HOME AND ABROAD

A. B. Lipscomb reports another fine service at Russell Street Church, this city, with two additions.

George Bethurum preached for the Belmont congregation, in Nashville, Sunday. One was baptized and one was restored.

H. W. Wrye reports an interesting meeting in progress with the Hebron Church, in Wilson County, Tenn. Several had been baptized.

A preachers' meeting is being arranged at Fort Smith, Ark. The brethren plan to begin on December 28 and continue four days.

Opening exercises for the public at David Lipscomb College will be held on Friday, October 1, at 10 A.M. You and your friends are cordially invited.

James E. Scobey preached at Seminary Church, Rutherford County, Tenn., last Lord's day. He expects to be at Thompson's Station, Tenn., next Lord's day.

F. B. Srygley recently closed a meeting at Bean's Creek (old Salem Church), Franklin County, Tenn., with one addition. He began last Lord's day at Bradyville, Tenn.

From W. E. Morgan, Rule, Texas, September 16: "We are in the midst of a good meeting here. Nine additions to date, and the end is not yet in sight. Praise the Lord!"

J. W. Grant preached to excellent audiences at Dickson, Tenn., last Lord's day and at night. The Dickson brethren will probably locate E. P. Watson with them in the near future

Charlie Taylor recently closed a meeting at Friendship, Carroll County, Tenn., with five baptisms. His last meeting was at Gilroy, Tenn., with one baptism. He began last Sunday at Wysox, Ky.

W. S. Lorg began a meeting at Petersburg, Tenn., last Sunday. He expected to continue until Tuesday, when Fred Rowe, editor of the Christian Leader, was announced to continue the meeting.

From R. A. Craig, Harrisonville, Ky., September 20: "We are having a glorious meeting here. Fifteen additions to date, and we expect to win others. I go next to Elkhorn, near Frankfort."

G. W. Riggs closed a meeting at Oakwood, in Montgomery County, Tenn., last Sunday. There were nine additions, eight of whom were baptized. One came from the Methodists, who had already been immersed.

Married, on September 12, T. H. McDowell and Mrs. Elinor Victoria Floyd Cobb, both of Gordon, Ga. The ceremony was said by R. P. Cuff. May they have much joy and happiness, and may success attend them all the way.

Since J. W. Brents reported his meeting at Muskogee, Okla., six more have made the good confession and one came from the "digressives." This meeting was conducted by the East Okmulgee Avenue congregation.

From J. J. Vanhoutin, Paris, III., September 16: "I have recently held some good, interesting meetings. At Buckner, III., I gave ten discourses. Great interest, but no additions. Most of the people attending there are members. I am still able for work."

About one hundred relatives and friends attended the wedding of Mr. H. E. Hall and Miss Cornelia Cummins, which was celebrated in Nashville on September 14, A. B. Lipscomb officiating. This fine Christian couple will make their home in Washington, D. C.

J. Clifford Murphy closed a meeting near McMinnville, Tenn., last Sunday, with nine baptized and one reclaimed. This was a good meeting all the way through, and great interest was manifested. Brother Murphy was asked to return in 1921, which he promised to do, if possible.

The brethren at Miami, Fla., have a well-equipped tent which they desire to be kept in use for the Master's service. If they can secure cooperation of other congregations, they will arrange to keep a good man in the field, taking the tent where it is most needed. Write to Joe L. Netherland, Box 253.

From Horace W. Busby, Abilene, Texas, September 17: "The Corpus Christi meeting was a success. Interest grew till the last. We closed with a large crowd present. A number obeyed the gospel and several were restored. Six were baptized the last day. F. J. Berry led the singing. He is fine."

From J. A. Cullum, Leslie, Ark., September 14: "Beginning on October 4, I will be ready to accept calls for winter meetings or monthly work within a reasonable distance of this place, either on M. & N. A. or White River Railroad. Those desiring my services please address me at Leslie, Ark., Box 63."

From Flavil Hall, Trion, Ga., September 17: "Beginning on the first Sunday in September and closing on the second Sunday, I spoke to very large audiences, day and night, with the Mount Zion congregation, near Pyriton, Ala. There were no additions, but I have seldom seen more interest manifested."

We enjoyed a call from William P. Walker, of Clarksville, Tenn., last Friday. He has given up his work in Clarksville and has made arrangements to go to Dinuba, Cal., about the first of November. We regret to lose him in Tennessee, but cheerfully commend him to the brethren on the Pacific Coast.

From R. L. Colley, Millville, Ark., September 18; "I have just closed a thirteen-days' meeting at Smead, with eight baptized and three restored to fellowship. There are some splendid brethren there, and they are striving to do a great work for the Master. I go next to Stephens to be with A. O. Colley in a meeting there."

From T. H. Matheson, Texhoma, Okla., September 15. "The meeting at Guymon closed last Lord's day, with seven baptisms and six restorations. I am now at Texhoma for a few days. A young man is to be baptized this afternoon. I shall go to Dalhart from here, then home, and then near Mannsville, Okla., for a mission meeting."

Foy E. Wallace, Jr., Temple, Texas, writes: "My meeting at Lometa resulted in one hundred and forty-nine additions—one hundred baptized and forty-nine restored—and no one under sixteen years of age in the number. Men who had been out of duty fifteen years came home. I never witnessed greater joy and enthusiasm in my life."

From John W. Hedge, Duncan, Okla., September 15: "I was with the church at Boone Prairie, Texas, last Lord's day. The brethren there seem to be doing a good work for the Lord. On Monday evening following I preached for the little band at Bremond. Brother Beeson and I will assist them in a meeting next July. Our meeting here starts off encouragingly. Four added to date."

For the special benefit of students at the University of Tennessee and other loyal disciples who move to Knoxville, Tenn., we announce that the church in this important city meets at 1124 Broadway, and a warm welcome awaits all who will come to this place. C. G. Vincent will be glad to visit any of the students if parents will address him at 1210 North Fourth Avenue or telephone 5880 Old.

From W. P. Skaggs, Itasca. Texas, September 15: "Our meeting at Chalk has passed into history with twenty-two baptisms and five restorations. G. A. Weems led the song service. The church requested me to return next year. I am now at home for the next year's work. My meetings this summer have resulted in seventy-eight additions—sixty baptisms. This has been a successful year's work."

From Charles F. Hardin, Tupelo, Ark., September 12: "The church at Rocky Comfort, Mo., had me to assist them in a mission meeting near that place. I preached the truth to large audiences each night. There were six baptisms, one coming from the Baptists. J. B. Redd ably assisted in prayer, reading, and baptizing. I had to leave on account of sickness at home, and Brother Redd continued the services."

From L. E. Carpenter, Abilene, Texas, September 8: "Our meeting at Cottonwood was rained out, but the interest was very fine. Twelve were baptized, with several others about ready to take the step. The church at Cottonwood wants a man for once a month this winter, or will be one of four of the congregations in the county to locate a man for all his time. If interested, write the elders at Cottonwood or at Cross Plains."

W. S. Long visited Murfreesboro, Tenn., on Sunday, September 12. On Monday he was at Manchester, where four were added to the church. He went to Viola on Wednesday night, where Brother Elam had just closed a meeting with seven additions. The church is good condition. He visited Summitville on Thursday night and Shelbyville on Friday night. He reports that L. B. Jones began a meeting at Shelbyville recently.

From Joe Ratcliffe, Bardwell, Ky., September 17: "On the first Sunday in September I closed a ten-days' meeting at Stayton. Tenn., with two baptisms. The church there is composed of some very fine Christian people, who treated me nicely in every way. On the second Sunday I filled my regular appointment at Hatler and Latham, Tenn., with three additions—one by confession and two by membership. I also preached at night in Martin, Tenn."

From Adair P. Chapman, Berlin, Ga., September 18: G. E. Claus, of Valdosta, preached at Troy Schoolhouse, near this place, on Tuesday and Wednesday nights after the second Sunday in this month. There were two additions—one by baptism and one from the Primitive Baptists. Brother Claus is expecting to be back for another meeting of several days next month. We hope after this meeting to have a congregation here. We are determined to push the work in this section."

D. S. Ligon writes: "The meeting at Blaine, Ark., closed at the water on Monday morning, September 6. There were three baptisms. Many seemed anxious for the meeting to continue, but I was engaged to begin a mission meeting at Sulphur Springs, a little place some twelve miles from Blaine. We once had a very good little congregation there, but all have quit. I hope to get them to go to keeping house for the Lord again while I am there. I go to Woodward, Okla., for my fifth meeting, beginning on September 18."

From Frank Baker, Belmont, Miss. September 16: "I am just home from Randolph, Ky., where I spent ten days in the work of the Lord, preaching the gospel as best I could. Though we were hindered much by rain, the crowds were much more than we could seat in their large and commodious house. Two noble women accepted Christ by obedience to his will. Here I met some of the best people on earth. They treated me royally in every way. Brother Emberton was our song leader and our baptist, and he did his work well."

From H. W. Jones, Hardin, Ky., September 13: "We are still all ruined and undone over the sad, untimely death of our darling little son, Harvey Wilson, Jr. It seems my heart is cut and bleeding, like that of Jacob over the supposed death of his beloved son, Joseph. (Gen. 37: 33-35.) 'All his sons and all his daughters rose up to comfort him; but he refused to be comforted; and he said, For I will go down into the grave unto my son mourning.' So it seems all the good letters and words from brethren and sisters in the Lord, far and near, fail to comfort me."

From William Behel, St. Joseph, Tenn., September 18: "I recently held a few-days' meeting at Long Branch, Tenn., with two additions; then at Pleasant Valley, Tenn., with five baptisms. I was at home a few days, and then went to Rockwood, Ala., where I preached twice. No additions. I enjoyed meeting Brother Underwood here. I preached four sermons at Lone Cedar, Ala., and baptized four. I then went to Saints Cross Roads, Ala., where I preached eight days and baptized five. They are trying to build a house of worship there. I am to begin at Arkdell, Ala., to-morrow."

We have the following from E. R. Barnes: "The Catoma Street congregation, at Montgomery, Ala., is in need of a preacher. The congregation is a strong one, well established. It supports its preacher well. There is a broad field for usefulness. The congregation wishes to secure a man who knows something of the responsibilities, duties, and opportunities of a minister laboring in a city. Any preaching brother who feels that he could serve the Master to good advantage in this place and who would like to labor with this congregation should write N. L. Walker, Five Points, Montgomery, Ala."

From E. P. Watson, 1824 South Barrett Avenue, Sedalia, Mo., September 16: "I had a very pleasant visit with the brethren at Dickson, Tenn., last Lord's day. There was one confession at the night service. This seems to be a most excellent congregation. On my way here I stopped over at Hopkinsville, Ky., a few hours. While there I met up with a man seventy-two years old, and he demanded baptism; so we gathered a few friends together, and I baptized him in Little River. I came here to assist the brethren in a mission meeting. They are poor in this world's goods and are not able to support the work in a financial way, but we will do the best we can to have the meeting."

J. E. Wainwright writes from Texarkana, Ark., September 17: "There were three restorations and one identification at Fenter, Ark. Their new building has been completed and painted and the congregation is now in good working order. En route home I preached twice at Little Rock to fair-sized and appreciative audiences. They have disposed of their property and purchased a splendid corner lot some ten blocks nearer the central part of the city. Building plans are being rushed. Our fail meeting will begin on the first Lord's day in October and will embrace the third Lord's day. We will be glad to have visitors with us during the meeting, and will see that they are taken care of in Christian style."

W. M. Oakley, of Nashville, Tenn., writes, under date of September '16: "Our meeting at Auburntown, Cannon County, Tenn., beginning on September 5, closed last night at the water, with ten baptized and one restored, one from the Baptists and one from the Presbyterians. The meeting was well attended from the beginning and interest grew to the close. The house was well filled at the last service. One commendable feature of the meeting was that nearly all were baptized 'the same hour of the night' or day; another was, one dear old soul, eighty years old, who had trusted in the 'faith alone' system almost all her life, was buried with her Lord in baptism yesterday. The brethren expressed themselves as well pleased with the meeting." Brother Oakley's next meeting will be at Cross Roads, Ala

From W. M. Wilson, Oldfort, Tenn., September 20: "I am once more in my own element, educationally and spiritually. I am teaching school here, and, with the cooperation of three as capable teachers as could be found among the 'sweet girl graduates,' my work is all that could be desired. We have a school of one hundred and forty, ranging from the tiny tots in the primer to those wrestling with algebra and the sciences, and, without passing any self-conceited eulogies, we are running at high pressure. I am preaching for the church at this place, known by the Bible name of 'Antioch.' We meet every Lord's day as did the early disciples, who 'continued steadfastly in the apostles' doctrine and fellowship, and in breaking of bread, and in prayers.' Brother Rozar will preach for us each fourth Lord's day, and Brother Holder is to begin a meeting on the first Lord's day in October. We are expecting great things by the unity of effort."

Again we wish to call the attention of our readers to the fact that the first Lord's day in October is the day for a regular contribution to the Tennessee Orphans' Home. Let it be remembered that the needs of the institution are heavy just at the present time. A fire escape must be erected, which has already been neglected too long. It will take considerable money to erect this, so we are asking our readers to make as liberal a contribution as possible. Of course, if our demands did not come with every day and if we were not having new demands all the time, it would not be necessary to make so many contributions but if this were true, we would soon cease to give and would die spiritually. "It is more blessed to give than to receive." In activity there is life; in idleness there is death. It is not best for us not to have such calls. We need them. No one doubts the fact that it is a good work to educate, feed, clothe, and train orphans for usefulness. The hearty coöperation that has been accorded this institution is duly appreciated, and we believe that our readers will be glad to make a liberal contribution to meet the present requirements.

From J. W. Brents, Muskogee, Okla., September 15. The meeting with the church of Christ on East Okmulgee Avenue and K Streets will close to night. There have been, from all sources, seven additions during the meeting, with the largest crowds in the history of the church in attendance throughout the meeting. This church and its work deserves special mention. Muskogee is a city of more than forty thousand people. The work has been hard, but, owing to the strong organization of efficient elders and deacons, the work has gene beyond the most sanguine expectations of all. T. S. Bain, my son in the gospel, whom I baptized at Samoth, III., some years ago, is one of the elders, and has developed into a splendid preacher Brother Gawf, the other elder, is also a good preacher. In fact, I am told that almost all the male members are capable of leading the services. This is quite unusual. The congregation now numbers about eighty members. Under the present leadership and unbounded enthusiasm, it only remains to be seen what this splendid church of merchants, railroad men, travelling men, farmers, etc., together with their good wives and noble sons and daughters, will accomplish in this large and growing Western city. I enjoyed my stay very much. My next meeting will be near Black Oak, Ark."

Conducted for a half century by D. Lipscomb and E. G. Sewell.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

$2.50 a year, in advance; to Canada and foreign countries, $3.00, in

Remittances will be at our risk when sent by express or post-office money order, in registered letter, or by draft payable to our order.

Remittances will be at our risk when sent by express or post-order. The date on your tab shows the time to which your subscription is paid. When money is received, the date will be changed, which will sanswer for a receipt. Two weeks' time must ordinarily occur from the time your remittance is sent before the tab on your paper is changed; if not changed by that time, notify us at once.

This paper is mailed regularly to all subscribers until definits orders in writing are received and all arrearages paid in full. If you wish us to stop your paper, write us to that effect; but do not ask it unless you have paid all arrears; if there are any. Do not ask your postmaster to attend to it for you, but do it yourself.

When changing your post-office address, tell us your old as well as your new address; otherwise two papers might be charged to you. Subscribers, after paying for their papers, will favor us by noting whether the date on the address label is changed, and, if it is not changed within a month, by writing to us. We are careful, but mistakes may occur or letters may be lost. Our rule is to change the dete on the day payment is received; but the mechanical work of correcting and printing the list takes time, and payments even from near-by places may not appear the first week. Credits for payments from a distance may be seen more delayed. Mistakes are easily rectified if prompt notice is given.

All communications should be addressed to Gospel Advocate, $17-

All communications should be addressed to Gospel Advocate, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

Guarantee of Advertising.

All the advertisements in this paper are, we believe, signed by trustworthy persons. To prove our faith by works, we will make good to actual subscribers any loss sustained in trusting advertisers who prove to be deliberate swindlers. We shall not attempt to adjust trifling disputes between subscribers and honorable business men who advertises, nor pay the debts of honest bankrupts. To make this guarantee effective, in all cases say in writing adventisers, "I saw your advertisement in the Gospel Advocate;" and if anything goes wrong, notify us immediately in writing.

JACOBS & CO., ADVERTISING MANAGERS, Clinton, S. C.

Entered at post office at Nashville, Tenn., as second-class matter. Published weekly at Nashville, Tenn.

As a Matter of Simple Justice.

BY F. W. SMITH,

I cannot say that I was very religiously inclined when I first met J. C. McQuiddy, and it was he who persuaded me to confess Christ and be baptized into him. Hence, I feel that I owe more to him on this account than to any one else, and I would reproach myself were I to sit idly by and see him misrepresented before the world without lifting my voice in protest. I have of late seen some things published to the world that, in my humble judgment, are a travesty on justice, and wholly unbecoming men professing godliness. I refer especially to an article by Brother J. N. Armstrong, in his paper, the Gospel Herald, of August 19, covering quite two pages, in an attack on Brother Mc-Quiddy in a vain effort to convict McQuiddy of being in favor of war. Early in the spring a collated article from the writings of J. C. McQuiddy during the years 1914-1918 on "The Christian's Relation to Carnal Warfare," signed "Daniel Quilp," was sent to the Gospel Herald for publication. It was made the leading article of that issue, appearing on the editorial page. Now, after many weeks and months have passed without one word of criticism from Brother Armstrong of "Daniel Quilp," so soon as he learns that J. C. McQuiddy was the author he breaks forth into a violent criticism of McQuiddy and seeks to belittle "Daniel Quilp," Hear him:

In the spring there was an article sent to us for publication from "Daniel Quilp," of Gainesbore, Tenn. I had never heard of him. I knew he did not write regularly or extensively for the papers. I supposed he was some young man, perhaps, a boy from David Lipscomb College. I guessed this from two facts, the article itself and that I had never heard of him. I thought the article was the work of a stripling on his "first legs." Certainly I could not have judged it a strong presentation of the truth it have judged it a strong presentation of the truth it taught, but thought it splendid for a young man in these perilous times-I thought he should be encouraged by the publication of the article and that the article would do good. The place it occupied in our paper was a mere accident, and any one who reads the paper regularly knows it no indication of our judgment of the merits of the article.

The foregoing does no credit to either the head or heart of its author, and it comes too late to have any weight with right-thinking people. It is exceedingly doubtful if a better-arranged or more carefully written article ever appeared in the columns of Brother Armstrong's paper than the one he thus seeks to belittle; and as to the "accident" regarding the place it occupied, there are those who will have their own judgment in the matter.

Our brother, in the course of his article, asks: "Why am I so prejudiced against Brother McQuiddy that I would not indorse teaching I believe and have taught for twenty years, just because I find his name signed to it?" Ah! Perhaps he could, if he very seriously tried, tell why he is so prejudiced against McQuiddy and others connected with the Gospel Advocate. Brother Armstrong has been in no frame of mind to do justice toward McQuiddy and the Advocate since Brother R. H. Boll and his helpers were criticized by McQuiddy and others a few years ago. From that day to this he has not ceased to condemn the Gospel Advocate and its managers. He wrote Brother McQuiddy as follows:

Brother McQuiddy: Though I have regarded the Boll-Advocate controversy wholly unnecessary and hurtful, I have tried to believe that you wanted to do right; but I want you to know that your thrust at McCaleb and your effort to sow discord among the workers in Japan is shaking me loose from my last hold. This is the most unkind Fraternally, J. N. ARMSTRONG.

It required very little to "shake" him loose, as he was not very tightly bound. He has shown his antagonism to the Gospel Advocate in stamping his approval and Indorsement on the outrage perpetrated in the Highlands Church, of Louisville, Ky., in which two of the best men in any church were thrust out because they opposed the doctrine the Advocate was opposing. Now, when the writer challenged Brother Armstrong to defend his course in the matter, his paper was altogether too immaculate for such matter to appear in its columns, but now its spotless (?) pages can be soiled by his own pen in a violent, unjust, and untrue attack on J. C. McQuiddy. Just here I wish to say, if the Gospel Advocate is to cease its opposition to the doctrine that the kingdom prophesied in Dan, 2: 44 has not been set up, that Christ is not on David's throne, and that the kingdom in a great crisis is near, when Christ will rule by force for a thousand years on the earth, then it should die. I for one will never deny the efficiency of the gospel of Christ and will not encourage the view that the kingdom has not been established simply to please men. Brother Armstrong, in upholding the advocates of error, has the greater sin; for propagators are deceived, while he is not.

But he inquires: "Is Brother McQuiddy so hard up for indorsement that he has to seek indorsement of a paper in the Middle West?" O, no! Brother McQuiddy was not seeking an indorsement of J. N. Armstrong: but, like Nathan of old, who by a simple parable led David to condemn and pass judgment on himself for his sin, so did McQuiddy lead Brother Armstrong to condemn himself in his false charges by getting him to publish the "Daniel Quilp" article. Had he known that McQuiddy had given expression to the contents of that article, it is doubtful if it would have found any place in Brother Armstrong's paper, much less the front page. The "Daniel Quilp" article was prepared and published, not as a bid for any one's indorsement, but because of constant misrepresentations of J. C. McQuiddy. Suppose the article was a "collated" one; is it to be condemned merely on that account? Most certainly not. "Queries and Answers," by Brother David Lipscomb, is made up of "collated" matter, and who will say it does not fairly represent his teaching? Now, when Brother McCaleb made his charge that J. C. McQuiddy favored war, I said this: "Brother McQuiddy, have you ever written a line or said a word favoring war or Christians' going to war?" He replied: "I have not." Then said I: "Flatly deny McCaleb's charge and demand the proof." He did that very thing, but no proof has been offered to date. With the exception of Brother A. B. Lipscomb, I have been more closely and intimately associated with J. C. McQuiddy than any other man, and I have this unqualified statement to make: I have never heard him say one word in favor of war or Christians' going to war, and neither have I read one line from his pen favoring such things. But, on the other hand, when I, at the invitation of the chairman of the exemption board under Federal control, appeared before said board to give the scriptural teaching in relation to Christians' going to war, I took F. B. Srygley and J. C. McQuiddy with me. I made a speech to the board of perhaps three-quarters of an hour, not only setting forth the teaching of the Bible against Christians' going to war, but against war itself. I did that with all the force of my soul. Brethren Srygley and Mc-Quiddy followed in speeches indorsing my position; and when we left, Brother McQuiddy said: "Smith, you made a splendid speech."

But for the information of some who write without the facts, I insert here some letters. I give first a letter from Congressman Ewin L. Davis, stating as a matter of justice that J. C. McQuiddy prepared the letter referred to by Tullahoma, Tenn., September 2, 1920,-Mr. J. C. Mc-, care McQuiddy Printing Company, Nashville, Dear Mr. McQuiddy: This acknowledges the receipt Quiddy, care of yours of the 24th ult., which is carefully noted.

It is a fact that you, accompanied by other gentlemen, called upon me several times during the time I was chairman of the District Board for Middle Tennessee, in an effort to procure exemption from military service for members of the churches of Christ. On all of these occasions I am sure that you did at least as much, if not more, talking as your associates, and strongly presented and urged your contentions in the matter. At my suggestion, you and your associates prepared a strong statement setting forth your claims, signed it, and filed it with me, which I forwarded to the Provost Marshal General for a ruling. He replied to the effect that he had already had up the question of the right of exemption of members of this church, had made a thorough investigation, and had ruled that they were not entitled to exemption. I mailed to you a copy of this letter from the Provost Marshal General.

Thereafter you and some other gentlemen again called upon me and called attention to the fact that it was possi-ble that the decision and ruling had been based upon the other branch of the church, and called to my attention the difference between the two branches of the church of Christ, and the divergence of their views, including those relative to military service. At my suggestion, you gentlemen again prepared, signed, and filed with me a statement setting forth the beliefs of your branch of the church of Christ, and explaining the difference between your branch and the other one. I forwarded this to the Provost Mar-shal General with a letter written by me as chairman of the board attesting as to the character and responsibility of you gentlemen, the fact that you were leaders in your church, and stated that I knew as a matter of general knowledge that the facts as set forth by you were correct, and asking for a reconsideration in the light of such facts with regard to your branch of the church. However, as you are aware, the Provost Marshal General declined to modify the ruling previously made.

I cannot understand why anybody would charge that you had made no effort to get exemption for the members of your church, as you were certainly faithful and insistent in such an effort, and did not cease in your efforts unfil it was apparent that further efforts would be futile, I think that I possibly have in some of my files copies of some of those communications, although it would doubtless involve considerable labor to find them. Of course, they are also on file in the Provost Marshal General's Selective Service files, although possibly inaccessible.

I am glad to furnish you the information herein contained. Yours very sincerely, EWIN L. DAVIS.

Here is a letter from United States District Attorney Donglas:

Office of United States Attorney, Middle District of Tennessee, Nashville, August 26, 1920.—Mr. J. C. McQuiddy, Nashville, Tenn.—Dear Mr. McQuiddy. With reference to your telephone call a few days ago, I am glad to state as Sometime during the war complaint was made to my office in regard to an article published in the Gospel Advo-It was claimed by many people that it was seditious. and that it was having the effect of discouraging registration of young men under the Selective Service or Draft Act. I summoned you to my office, showed you the arti-cle, and told you of the complaint that had been made about it. I told you also, as I recall, that I regarded you as the responsible party in the management of the Gospel Advocate, that the government did not approve of such articles, and that it would be my duty to arrest you if such publications did not cease. You told me that you had written the article yourself, and then went into quite a discussion of your position in regard to the war and Christianity. I remember quite distinctly that you were op-posed to Christians as such going to war, and stated that a Christian belonged to and was a citizen in a higher government which is against war, and believed in an ideal of the time when there could be no war, remember also, however, that you told me that you did not intend to unnecessarily antagonize our government, but proposed to be a loyal citizen in so far as your conscience permitted, and you agreed with me that the Bible dis-tinctly recognizes and declares Christians to be citizens in the civil government and subject to it, and as such were to render to said government the things that properly belonged to said government. From that time on, during the war, I had several interviews with you, and so far as I could observe in your paper, and certainly in your conversations with me, you were a patriotic citizen, and yet at no time were you ever untrue to your convictions as a loyal Christian.

I recall that on several occasions when complaint was made to me about various publications other than those in the Gospel Advocate, and various speeches or sermons delivered by certain brethren in your church who were under investigation because bitter complaint had been made to my office about their utterances, that you told me that they were honest and that what they were doing was for conscience' sake and with no desire to antagonize the In one case particularly, I recall your congovernment. versation with me was such as to cause me to withhold the arrest of one of the brethren in order that I might have an opportunity to talk with him further.

I may say in conclusion that my contact with you during the war was such as to convince me that you were a man of the highest integrity, devoid of narrowness, with a strong sense of duty toward your church and an equally strong sense of obligation to our government, with enough common sense and judgment to exercise both without prejudice to either; and I came to respect you as a man for your sincere religious convictions and your fine patriotism. Very truly yours,

LEE DOUGLAS, U. S. Attorney.

R. W. Comer, elder of the church of Christ, testifies as follows:

Dear Brother McQuiddy: In answer to the question did you do what you could to keep one of my sons out of combatant service, I am glad to say that you went before the exemption board on two occasions with me, and I believe had more influence with the board than any one else in securing for my son noncombatant service.

R. W. COMER.

Brother McQuiddy did not go to Washington in the interest of the successful waging of the war, as charged by Brother Armstrong. He did for the saving of food. Wicked is the thought which tortures feeding the starving into a successful waging of war! Brother McQuiddy has done more for the boys and has made more effort for them than any of his critics. I challenge them to show as much effort and accomplishment. Brother McQuiddy and Brother Lipscomb estimate that they helped about two hundred young men with their exemption papers. In addition, Brother Lipscomb sent out from the office of the Gospel Advocate hundreds of copies of a little circular signed by himself. Brother Elam, and others, which was gotten up to help the boys during the war crisis. Brother McQuiddy paid the postage on every one of the circulars sent out from this office. Did Brother Armstrong do as much? Comparisons are sometimes odious; but really, when it comes to the actual amount of space, line for line, pointing out the sin of carnal warfare, it is extremely doubtful whether Brother Armstrong published one-half as much in his paper. Yet now he would seek to create the false impression that the Gospel Advocate sat supinely by and did nothing. The truth about the matter is that Armstrong has done quite a deal of boasting about his efforts, while the Gospel Advocate has tried to do its part without boasting or self-glorification.

I wish it distinctly understood that J. C. McQuiddy has not asked me nor any one else to write a defense of him. I am doing this of my own initiative. He reluctantly gave me permission to write what I thought should be said, and at my request procured the testimonials submitted herewith. Mark you, I have not said that J. C. McQuiddy never said or wrote anything favoring Christians' going to war, but that I have never heard nor read anything from him to that effect. Brother Armstrong says: "I will collate an article from his [McQuiddy's] writings which will be as strong for war as the 'Daniel Quilp' article is against war." That is a very emphatic statement; but, unfortunately for our brother's side of the question, it will be asked, and is here asked: Why did you not give some such 'collation' from McQuiddy's writings in that nearly twopage article in which you so severely condemned him? I now call upon Brother Armstrong to show one sentence from the pen of J. C. McQuiddy which, taken in its proper connection, favors Christians as such engaging in carnal warfare. He is positive he has not so taught, and I believe he speaks the truth.

I differed from Brother McQuiddy on certain matters of policy, but he and I were fully agreed on the question of Christians' going to war. I did hope and pray that the war question among preachers and church members generally would be left to rest; but since these attacks are coming from so many different quarters, I am in favor of threshing it out. So come on with your proof, or else cease this agitation.

Baptism.

BY J. C. M'Q.

Christ traveled a distance of from sixty to seventy miles in order to be baptized of John. When we consider how slow the mode of travel in that age of the world, we must know that Christ did not regard baptism as a triffing matter. An account of the baptism is found in Matthew, which is as follows: "Then cometh Jesus from Galilee to the Jordan unto John, to be baptized of him. But John would have hindered him, saying, I have need to be baptized of thee, and comest thou to me? But Jesus answering said unto him, Suffer it now: for thus it becometh us to fulfill all righteousness. Then he suffereth him. And Jesus, when he was baptized, went up straightway from the water: and lo, the heavens were opened unto him, and he saw the Spirit of God descending as a dove, and coming upon him; and lo, a voice out of the heavens, saying, This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased." (Matt. 3: 13-17.) As Christ was sinless, it cannot be that he was baptized in order to the remission of his sins or because of the remission of sins, because he never had any sin to remit. John, knowing that his baptism was for the remission of sins, refused to baptize Christ; but when Jesus told him, "Thus it becometh us to fulfill all righteousness," then "he suffereth him."

Jesus was baptized as an example for us. Of course his obedience was perfect. It should be noted that he was never acknowledged to be the Son of God until after his baptism. The baptism of John was not of man, but it was from heaven. John (6: 33) declares: "For the bread of God is that which cometh down out of heaven, and giveth life unto the world." We learn, furthermore, that great multitudes were baptized by John the Baptist, "Then went out to him Jerusalem, and all Judea, and all the region round about the Jordan; and they were baptized of him in the river Jordan, confessing their sins." (Matt. 3: 5, 6.) Any man is on dangerous ground who feels that he has a right to refuse obedience to any command of Jehovah. The publicans who were baptized of the baptism of John justified God, and the Pharisees and lawyers who refused to be baptized of his baptism rejected the counsel of God against themselves. "And all the people when they heard, and the publicans, justified God, being baptized with the baptism of John. But the Pharisees and the lawyers rejected for themselves the counsel of God, being not baptized of him." (Luke 7: 29, 30.) If a refusal to be baptized of John's baptism was a rejection of the counsel of God, how much more is a refusal to be baptized of Christ's

When all authority and all power in heaven and on earth had been given to the Christ, he commanded the eleven disciples: "Go ye therefore, and make disciples of all the nations, baptizing them into the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit: teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I commanded you: and lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world." (Matt. 28: 19, 20.) To deny that men should be baptized in the light of this passage is to deny the wisdom of God. It is clearly taught that the discipled of all nations should be baptized into the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit. Baptism is the only institution of God that has the solemn names of Father, Son, and Holy Spirit called upon it. At the baptism of Jesus, the Father, the Son, and the Holy Spirit were present: at the baptism of every believer, the Father, Son, and Holy Spirit are present. No man who has any respect for the word of God will deny that the discipled of the nations should be baptized, and the baptism is here a positive command of the Christ. The commission as given by Mark (16: 15, 16) reads: "And he said unto them, Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to the whole creation. He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved; but he that disbelieveth shall be condemned." The commission is recorded by Luke as follows: "And he said unto them, Thus it is written, that the Christ should suffer, and rise again from the dead the third day; and that repentance and remission of sins should be preached in his name unto all the nations, beginning from Jerusalem." (Luke 24: 46, 47.)

Summing up briefly the conditions necessary to the remission of past sins in the commission as given by these three evangelists, we have faith, repentance, and baptism. Of course it is necessary that preaching precede hearing and that hearing precede faith. "So belief cometh of hearing, and hearing by the word of Christ." (Rom. 10: 17.) Every true, loyal preacher of the gospel should preach the gospel; sinners should hear it, believe it, turn away from their sins, and be baptized into the Christ in order to enjoy the remission of their past sins. "Or are ye ignorant that all we who were baptized into Christ Jesus were baptized into his death?" (Rom. 6: 3.) It should be emphasized that Mark 16: 16 affirms salvation to the haptized believer and not to the unbaptized. Christ does not say, "He that believeth shall be saved," "He that does nothing shall be saved," or "He that is baptized shall be saved;" but he emphatically says, "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved."

Men should be deeply concerned about salvation. According to the Savior's teaching, the way to reach salvation from sin, or the remission of sins, is to believe and be baptized. If I make a contract with a man to print and bind a book for one thousand dollars, and simply print the book, I am not entitled to the one thousand dollars. If I should simply bind up the number of pages contained in the contract without setting the type and printing those pages, I would not be entitled to the one thousand dollars. I must print and bind the book before I have completed the terms of the contract. This is so self-evident that it needs no argument, and yet it is not plainer than the Savior's language. We learn that when the apostles preached the gospel for the first time under this commission and when believers asked what to do to be saved, that, guided by and filled with the Holy Spirit, Peter, the spokesman on this occasion, said: "Repent ye, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ unto the remission of your sins; and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Spirit." (Acts 2: 38.) This states plainly that believers are to be baptized unto the remission of their sins. Of course repentance is in its proper place, and intervenes between faith and baptism. John (3: 5) declares: "Jesus answered, Verily, verily, I say unto thee, Except one be born of water and the Spirit, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God." Thus we see that a birth of water and of the Spirit is necessary to entrance into the kingdom of God. The man who believes and is baptized is saved, and is, therefore, in the kingdom of God. Hence the man who believes and is baptized is born of water and of the Spirit.

Complaint of the Apostolic Review.

BY J. C. M'Q.

In our issue of July 15 we published an article from L. D. Perkins stating facts concerning W. P. Recdy. Later I received a letter from D. Austen Sommer claiming that Perkins had falsified and demanding that the Gospel Advocate make correction. I wrote him that I thought Perkins was the one to make the correction, if there had been any m isrepresentation. I was not willing to say that L. D. Perkins had falsified, when I had evidence in my possession that indicated clearly that Perkins had not misstated the facts. The brethren in Colorado when I was there last year did not hesitate to say that the Apostolic Review and its followers were taking over congregations wherever they could and shutting out all who believed in teaching the Bible in schools. Of the manifestly fair position that the Advocate suggested to the Apostolic Review concerning further publication, the Apostolic Review, in its issue of August 24, 1920, says:

The refusal of the Advocate to permit a correction in its columns of its false statements concerning the Review and certain brethren is based on the plea that a correction of its own false statements should also be published in the Review, which has been misrepresented, regardless of the fact that nothing has appeared in its columns on the matter. To reduce this false reasoning to a principle, you have this: When any journal makes false statements concerning another journal, the journal against which the false statements have been made should also publish the correction, though it has said nothing on the matter. Who ever heard of such a principle in journalism? And yet that is what the Advocate is trying to thrust down our throats. Common sense and common honesty teach one that when journal permits false statements to be made in its columns about anybody or anything, it should permit a correction of such in its own columns, and the other journal or person has nothing to do with such public correction unless it desires. That is the reason I wrote the Advocate about its false statements—to permit it to make its own correction before its own readers. But this it refuses to do according to an unreasonable rule which it has evidently manufactured for the occasion. The Review has nothing to do with gathering in the Advocate's false statements unless it desires; and the refusal of the Advocate to do it leaves a bad stain on its moral and Christian reputation.

The Advocate is not ashamed of refusing to publish L. D. Perkins as a falsifier, and is confirmed in the conviction that it did right, after reading all that D. Austen Sommer has had to say in the Apostolic Review of August 24. If D. Austen Sommer had shown that Perkins had really falsifled, the Advocate would cheerfully state the facts to its readers and condemn unsparingly L. D. Perkins for such practice. But, unfortunately for the Apostolic Review, it makes charges that are not sustained. The Apostolic Review publishes in bold-faced type (as though Perkins had said it) that there were no elders at Glendale, Arizona, when Reedy and Harper were called there in the Edwards case, and says: "So far as I know, there has not been an organization at Glendale in the history of the church there. Also do not forget that Brother Reedy and I assisted in starting the churches at Glendale and Gilbert." On this the Apostolic Review comments: "Now the sum of this matter with Perkins is that his statements are positively false concerning Harper and Reedy and their work at Glendale—that they excluded a man in a church where they were not members and over the heads of the elders. And the statements are false that the Review Indorses such." Perkins said nothing about elders at Glendale, nothing concerning the work of Reedy and Harper there, so did not make a false statement. On this subject he says: "He has been recently selected by what few Review bands exist in Arizona to act together with Brother A. E. Harper, of Colorado Springs, in withdrawing from those they think should be withdrawn from. The idea is that elders have no authority to act in such cases, but that preachers from afar must be called in to act." From a letter that we have, and which is here inserted, it appears that L. D. Perkins wrote the truth when he wrote the above. Here is the letter:

Colorado Springs, Col., July 29, 1920.—Mr. J. C. McQuiddy. Nashville, Tenn.—Dear Brother McQuiddy: In compliance with your request of recent date to give a brief summary of proceedings of the "evangelistic court" which convened in this place in two sessions—in the fall of 1917 and the spring of 1918—I take pleasure in doing so, as I was a regular attendant at the first session throughout and (up to the fifth of May. 1918, a date I will have occasion to mention later on in this article) attended most of the sessions of said court (?) in 1918. I am giving this information, not because I am desirous of getting into a religious discussion or harangue, nor for the purpose of seeking notoriety, but in the interest of apostolic Christianity and to assist in exposing this false teaching and practice that is disrupting churches and causing division wherever its adherents can get opportunity to sow the seeds of this insidious heresy.

Those who are fathering and promulgating this teaching strenuously object to its being called "evangelistic authority or assumption," while—in Colorado Springs, at least—I will show that some kind of self-delegated authority was exercised by one of their foremost mennamely, Thomas Smith—that the term "evangelistic authority or assumption" but mildly expresses. I designate his actions by a much stronger term—poperism—for nothing short of said term will characterize such conduct.

The following statement of facts is given to the best of my knowledge and belief, after a lapse of more than two years since they transpired. I will leave the reader to make his own deductions therefrom.

Prior to the first meeting mentioned we had a rather inharmonious church at this place; however, had an organization with its duly appointed officers (elders and deacons) and meeting regularly twice and sometimes three times per week for worship. The elders were Brethren Pettijohn and Thrasher. Dissension arose in the congregation in the summer of 1917 over complying with a civil ruling requiring us to use the individual communion service in our wor-

SEPTEMBER 23, 1920.

Some were willing to comply, others were not. ship. breach widened; peace and harmony no longer prevailed, and it was evident to all that something had to be done to pour oil on the troubled waters and, if necessary, discipline those who refused to submit cheerfully to this new innovation (?) -namely, the individual communion.

The elders, who at this time were working very harmoniously together, took it upon themselves (as I am quite certain no member of the congregation was consulted) to send for Evangelist Thomas Smith, of Kansas City, Mo., to take charge of the situation. He came for his first meet-All went ing in the fall of that same year, as stated above. well for about a week or ten days, Smith preaching each evening on the necessity of exercising discipine and kin-dred themes, until he got ready to take action, when a most unfortunate(?) occurrence caused his plans to miscarry the elders suddenly got at loggerheads-and the "confessional" (for so it was) had an abrupt ending. It was now necessary for "the court" to take sides with one elder against the other, which he did, siding with his uncle, Brother Thrasher, who suddenly lined up with the faction whom he (Smith), "the court," had come to discipline. The meeting lasted only a few nights longer, and not another word was said about exercising discipline, which, prior to said night, had been the burden of every discourse. Brother Petiljohn was manifestly disappointed, and during the remainder of Smith's stay at that time, which was only for a few more nights, repeatedly chided him about lacking the courage to do his duty.

Smith was gone from here for a time after this, but resinth was gone from here for a time after this, but returned in the spring of 1918, when Brother Pettijohn insisted that he "finish the work that he had begun in the winter." Smith accepted the challenge, so to speak, and associated with himself in this "work" a Brother Robinson, of Las Animas, Col. If my memory serves me right, the first session of the "court" was held on Monday night in the latter part of April, and the first official act of said Smith, after preaching a lengthy sermon on the duties of elders, was to depose Brother Pettijohn from his office as elder of the congregation; granted him permission, however, to still retain his membership, but declared him to be no longer an officer.

His next "official act" was to try to "frame up" on all those who disapproved his act in this matter of deposing Pettijohn and proceed to separate them from the fold. He asked me the following morning whether or not I approved his act, and I told him most emphatically I did not, stating that in the first place I did not believe the Scriptures anywhere authorized him to assume any jurisdiction over this church, as he was not a member of this congregation, and had he been, was only one and could not be authorized to act for all. (Just here, in justice to Brother Pettijohn, I wish to say that he informed me that they had sent for Smith to act only in an advisory capacity, little dreaming that he would delegate so much authority unto himself.) Brother Thrasher tendered his resignation as elder the same night that Brother Pettijohn was deposed from his office, thus leaving the congregation without elders and placing Smith, as an evangelist, with full "evangelistic authority," to dispose of the personnel of the congregation to suit himself. He continued to use this authority (?) with a high hand and-by his own act entirely-withdrew from quite a number of members, including myself, without giving them any voice in the matter whatsoever.

I had no intimation of his intention to withdraw from me, and would not have known that he (for the congregation did not) had taken such action, as I was not even present at the meeting, had it not been for Brother Pettijohn, who came to my home after the meeting adjourned that evening and told me he supposed I had been disfellowshiped, as Smith stated to the audience: "We will have to withdraw from Brother Crews, as he is not in sympathy with the work we are doing." The "we" referred to was evidently himself and Robinson, as the congregation had no voice in the matter whatsoever. The following Lord's day, May 5, 1918, I was in the church for the purpose of wor-shiping, and Smith instructed the acting deacons not to pass the emblems to those who had been withdrawn from; so both Brother Pettijohn and I were passed by, the deliberate act of Brother Thrasher. I will not take the liberty erate act of Brother Thrasher. I will not take the liberty to give the names of others withdrawn from by this "evan-gelistic court," and in practically the same manner, but will cheerfully furnish their names if requested.

The Apostolic Review was appealed to, as it was well known that they indorse Smith, to denounce him or the work he had done here, but, so far as the writer knows, they have until this day been as silent as the tomb, showing conclusively that they heartily indorse just such politics. cies. Much space in said paper for several issues immediately following this "work" (?) of Smith's here was devoted to boosting Smith and urging the "loyal" brethren of Colorado to liberally support him in his mission work Brother Harper and several others, stanch supportof this heresy--" evangelistic authority "-have fully apprised by the writer of the full proceedings of Smith's "work" here, but have never expressed one word of adverse criticism of what he did to this day; on the other hand, they are cooperating with him right here at this writing in a meeting. From the testimony herein contained—and I challenge any member of that congregation to discredit or deny a single statement—it is clearly shown that "evangelistic assumption or authority" was undeniably practiced here by one Thomas Smith, and that it met sanction, not only of the Apostolic Review, but of a goodly number of preachers and others who are attempting to foist this false teaching upon the churches of Christ throughout the length and breadth of this country. Immaterial to me as to what you call it; name it and take it out of the way for good and aye. Whatever it should be called, we know of no greater menace to the cause of Christ or one that is doing more to alienate brethren and disrupt churches. I could not be a faithful watchman on Zion's walls and not cry out with all the vehemence of my soul against every such encroachment of false teaching. Respectfully submitted in the interest of truth, that must ultimately prevail. P. C. CREWS.

When I was at Colorado Springs last year, Brother Crews gave me a full history of the above, but I later asked him to state the facts in writing. I found him to be a Christian gentleman, intelligent, and worthy of confidence. He makes the case much stronger than Brother Perkins. If the Gospel Advocate had no mere respect for elders of the church of Christ than the Apostolic Review appears to have, as indicated by Brother Crews, it would be ashamed to claim that it has any love for the truth. The Advocate has never taught that elders should be deposed by evangelists in order that they may take over the rule of the church. The Review must show men to be falsifiers before we will so publish them. More to follow.

Brother McQuiddy's Course in Regard to the War. BY EARNEST C. LOVE.

Just now there seems to be a lot of knocking on Brother McQuiddy for his attitude toward the war during its duration. So far as I have been able to judge, his course has been the most sensible that could have been adopted. Of course, the Gospel Advocate has stood against war all the time, and does yet. There has been no change in policy along that line. But he is being criticized for not allowing the fight against war to go on in the paper during the time of hostilities. Well, that may have been wrong; but if so, I and others are guilty, as well as Brother McQuiddy. I looked at it this way: Our government was in the war. Our boys were on the firing line. They were dying every day. I was afraid and ashamed to get out here in some safe place and proclaim against war, lest I should help the Germans and make it harder for our boys "ever there." I guess Brother McQuiddy felt the same way about it.

I taught our boys (church members) not to fight, and advised them to refuse to train with a gun, but to insist on noncombatant service strictly. But to go out declaiming to the general public against war at such a time would have been absolute foolishness. The country was full of "slackers," as it was. Many people who had no real convictions against war could, at such a time, be easily prevailed upon to declare against it. This was because they were simply afraid to go or to send their sons.

Perhaps some will say that a Christian should not have helped at all. But that was impossible. Every man who sent a letter for three cents instead of two helped some to defray the expenses of the war. There was no way to avoid taking one side or the other to some extent. A man simply had to help the United States or the Germans; and Brother McQuiddy, like myself, preferred to follow a course that, at least, could not be construed as helping the enemy. There may be some wise brethren that could have thought of a better way, but I doubt it.

Georgia and the Far Southern Field

By B. C. GOODPASTURE

"Curse Ye Meroz."

"Curse ye Meroz, said the angel of Jehovah, curse ye bitterly the inhabitants thereof." (Judg. 5: 23.) children of Israel had forsaken the ways of Jehovah and had been chastened for their backslidings. Jabin, king of Canaan, God's whip and scourge for the chastening of his disobedient and unfaithful people, had sent forth his army under Sisera to do battle with Israel. In the meantime, bowever, in penitence Israel "cried unto Jehovah," and he gave them victory under Barak in the day of battle. But the inhabitants of Meroz took no part in the conflict. They could have helped Israel with telling effect. The site of Meroz is not definitely known, but it is thought that the town stood on the southern slopes of the hills commonly called the "Little Hermon." These hills formed the northern side of the valley which leads directly from the plain of Jezreel to the Jordan. If this is the real location of Meroz, the town was in a position to command the mountain pass through which a portion, at least, of Jabin's routed army is thought to have fled. They had a great opportunity, but let it pass; they could have done much. but did nothing. They were to be cursed "bitterly."

0 0 0

Helping Jehovah.

In assigning the reason for the curse of the inhabitants of Meroz, the sacred singer said: "Because they came not to the help of Jehovah, to the help of Jehovah against the mighty," (Judg. 5: 23.) How did they fail to help Jehovah? By failing to help the people of Jehovah. It was a war between truth and falsehood, between the true God and the Idolatrous gods of Canaan. God was on the side of Israel in this fight. Then the treatment we accord the people of God is the treatment we accord the God of the people. It is possible for us to "come not to the help of Jehovah" now. When the Lord appeared to Saul on the Damascus road, he asked: "Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou me?" (Acts 9: 4.) Was not the Lord in heaven? How, then, could Saul persecute him? By persecuting his church. If persecuting the church of Christ is persecuting the Christ of the church, why would not helping the church of Christ be helping the Christ of the church? A great war is on-an age-long conflict between the world, false. hood, and the devil on the one side, and the church, truth, and the Christ on the other; and he who fails to help the church in this contest, even though he may not intentionally and aggressively ally himself with the forces of evil, fails to help the Christ who died to save him. We can be indifferent and inactive in regard to this matter only at the peril of our own souls. Whenever we are able and minister not unto the needs of the weakest congregation or the humblest disciple of our Lord, we fail to minister unto him, "Inasmuch as ye did it unto one of these my brethren, even these least, ye did it unto me." (Matt. 25: 40.) This gives a new dignity and sublimity to the lowliest service, and a fearful responsibility to the smallest and seemingly most insignificant opportunity. Wherever there is a soul struggling with sin in the hour of decision, or a congregation in the hour of trial, we have an opportunity to help God. Let it be remembered that the inhabitants of Meroz were to be cursed, not for the evil they had done, but for the good they could have done and failed to do. "To him therefore that knoweth to do good, and doeth it not, to him it is sin." (James 4: 17.)

News Notes.

Our Sunday-school attendance at West End Avenue broke all previous records last Sunday (September 12), I am told. I began a tent meeting on Gienn and Cooper Streets, this city, on Monday night. It starts off well.

Brother S. E. Templeton preached at Borden Springs, Ga., Sunday, and baptized one. He will begin a meeting in Mangum, Okla., next Sunday.

Brother A. R. Hill is in a meeting at Barney, Ga.

Thoughtful Quotations.

No man can possibly improve in any company for which he has not respect enough to be under some degree of restraint.—Chesterfield.

We must write the song, whatever the words, Whatever its rhyme or meter; And if it is sad, we must make it glad, And if sweet, we must make it sweeter.

-Gibbon.

Friends give flowers
To mark the hours
Of changing seasons as they roll—
Thoughts we give,
By them we live,
And thoughts are blossoms of the soul.
—M. A. E. Benton.

O, do not pray for easy lives! Pray to be stronger men! Do not pray for tasks equal to your powers! Pray for powers equal to your tasks! Then the doing of your work shall be no miracle. But you shall wonder at yourself, at the richness of life which has come in you by the grace of God.—Phillips Brooks.

Try to care about something in this vast world besides the gratification of small selfish desires. Try to care for what is best in thought and action—something that is good apart from the accidents of your own lot. Look on other lives besides your own. See what their troubles are, and how they are borne.—George Eliot.

We ought to acquaint ourselves with the beautiful; we ought to contemplate it with rapture, and attempt to raise ourselves up to its height. And in order to gain strength for that, we must keep ourselves thoroughly unselfish—we must not make it our own, but rather seek to communicate it; indeed, to make a sacrifice of it to those who are dear and precious to us.—Goethe, Substitute health and happiness for wealth as a world ideal and translate that new ideal into action by education from babyhood up. To do this, States must reorganize education spiritually; in other words, must introduce religion—not the old formal creeds, but the humanistic religion of service for the common weal, a social honor which puts the health and happiness of all first and the wealth of self second.—Selected.

The most perfect machinery of government will not keep us as a nation from destruction if there is not within us a soul. No abounding material prosperity shall avail us if our spiritual senses atrophy. The foes of our own household shall surely prevail against us unless there be in our people an inner life which finds its outward expression in a morality not very widely different from that preached by the seers and prophets of Judea when the grandeur that was Greece and the glory that was Rome still lay in the future.—Theodore Roosevelt.

Current Thought

Fewer Pulpit "Freaks and Fakes."

Ministerial spellbinders, cranks, and tramps who flee to some new refuge as soon as they have worn out their welcome in the old are decreasing in numbers, says the Christian Century (Disciples), which sees in this changed condition a comforting offset to the "appalling number of vacant pulpits." It is true that men are leaving the min-istry for business reasons; that "young men are deterred from entering the ministry by the low salaries-not because they will be asked to make real sacrifices-preachers have always expected to do this-but because they are asked to cut themselves off from the broadening study and experiences which their work will demand and from fulfilling their rightful obligations to their families." against this state of affairs is this reassuring suggestion: "there are manifestly fewer freaks and fakes in the ministry than formerly." The pulpit is not so often used as the platform of the attitudinizer. "There is no adoring audience in our day for the man who can 'compile' half a dozen sermons from the encyclopedia and books of anec-dotes and illustrations, make himself letter-perfect in them, practice their delivery carefully, and then go triumphantly and expectantly from town to town, after the manner of a Broadway idol between seasons." The congregation of today demands something more of its pastor. Further comfort is found in the fact that-

"Still less frequently in our time do we see the ministerial tramp of questionable character and record—the man who journeyed from State to State and from denomination to denomination hiding his evil deeds under a professional cloak while he could, and fleeing when he must, only to find a welcome in a new field because of the easy-going faith of the churches in any man who called himself a preacher and who owned a smooth tongue.

"The cranks are fewer. The preacher who had eighteen lectures on the Apocalypse, illustrated by hand-painted charts portraying the Beast, the Dragon, the Living Creatures, and the Vials, does not impart his thrills to the small boys and girls of this generation. The preacher who could argue for soul-sleeping from a genealogical text in the book of Numbers, and the one who could prove the total annihilation of the wicked from the Song of Solomon—if these are still declaiming with the old fervor, they have gone to small circles of the like-minded.

It is probable that there are fewer great preachers than formerly, because, as the writer puts it:

"It is no doubt true that the modern preacher is too largely a man of affairs, and too largely occupied with the details of parish work, to study and meditate until he shall feel the urge to prophetic utterance.

"But with the scarcity of preachers, and especially with the scarcity of master preachers, we find true satisfaction in the assurance that the average of the ministry is far higher than that of thirty years ago, that the overwhelming majority of ministers are honest and hard-working and eminently sane, and that certain types much admired by many of the churches in the past—to use a bit of slang which seems quite justifiable under the circumstances—'made themselves scarce.'"—Literary Digest.

This journal does not advocate the unscriptural "pastor," but it does believe that the God-ordained elder, or pastor, should feed, oversee, and shepherd the congregation. It appears to be undoubtedly true that preachers are not leaders in thought and are not aggressive in presenting the word of the Lord. Preachers should speak out boldly and fearlessly against all forms of sin. A preacher who knows the truth should not be afraid to preach it. How few of the preachers of to-day are coming out boldly, vigorously, and fearlessly against the dress of the women of the present time! All men know that the manner of dress that is now prevalent is not conducive to the purest and best lives. The Bible is clear in the teaching that women should adorn themselves in modest apparel, and there is not an intimation in all the word of God that a woman is to wear her dress as short as possible and as low in the neck as will be tolerated by a long-suffering people, It is no wonder that we have vice on every hand and find that lack of refinement, modesty, and purity that characterized the women of old, and which added so much to their attractiveness and influence with the world. It is not intimated here that God requires any more purity in a woman than in a man, but the point is emphasized that both men and women should so dress and conduct themselves that the liberties between them will not actually amount to license. How few preachers have raised their voices against woman's going into politics and holding office and thus getting out of the home, the position in which God placed her! No one objects to woman's enjoying life as much as man and having as many rights or even more than does he; but the man who respects and loves the truth does not favor taking her out of the home, where God has placed her. The Holy Spirit admonishes that our women be workers at home, and not workers in politics. Every right-thinking person should have too much respect for the purity and refinement of noble women to see them placed in a position that is calculated to contaminate and drag them down to shame and degradation. No woman can do the work at home and do work on the outside at the same time. To have our women hold office and do the work of politicians makes the burden too great for them. It not only makes them carry their own bur dens, but it makes them carry the burdens of the men as well. Shame on men who are willing thus to overload the women, who are already heavily loaded! It is patent that women who are in politics, who are holding offices, leave their children to be cared for by nurses. These nurses ailow them to roam the streets as waifs without knowing the tender sympathy and affection of a devoted mother. God never placed children in the hands of hired nurses to rear and train them, but placed them in the hands of their mothers. When God would raise up Moses, the greatest lawgiver of the world and a type of the Lord Jesus Christ. the purest and best being this world has ever known, instead of placing him in the hands of a nurse, he placed him in the hands of his mother. My heart is made to bleed whenever I see our nation departing from the clear, simple, and correct teaching of the word of God. This nation must pay the penalty. No good has ever come from such departures. Let every preacher, every Christian, speak out boidly against all departures from the word of God.

* * *

There is a danger affecting faith-worse than any, as it seems to me-and that is, the believing about God things unworthy of justice, things uncompassionate, things arbitrary. I am afraid to say how largely it seems to me such things do enter into the everyday religion of good Christians. Some seem to believe that he cares not for goodness in itself-that a good heathen, for instance, is no nearer to him than a wicked one-that goodness is hollow if it does not rest on a belief exactly like their own. Others seem to think that he can tolerate and dwell with evil; that he can abide ungenerous hearts and selfish lives and luxurious habits in those who hold Christian doctrine in pure lives. Others that he can rejoice in, or at least consent to, the inevitable ruin, the lasting perdition, of the chief part of mankind, when they have had no chance of being better than they were or knowing better than they did. The opposite kind of people think that when he has promised to us great blessings of forgiveness and salvation, on certain conditions, he will give them us even if we perform not those conditions. They think he means one thing and says another. It is the secret hope, the only hope, of many Many other such things there are which people persuade themselves to believe. As good old Jeremy Taylor said: "They believe about God things for which they would hate a man."-Selected.

Arkansas.

Fort Smith, September 14.-The past Lord's day was another of interest and enjoyment in the Master's service to the congregation of the Park Hill church of Christ. At the morning service two others placed their membership with us. I will be with this congregation the third and fourth Lord's days, after which I shall again enter Freed-Hardeman College for my second term .- L. H. Knight.

Fort Smith, September 12 .- 1 have promised to hold a mission meeting at Talihina, Okla., beginning on Monday, October 11. The meeting will be held in the Presbyterian church house. We have two sisters in Talihina. I held a meeting there in 1916, which resulted in nine baptisms. These have all moved away. I need a singer to help me in this meeting. What congregation will send a singer to my assistance? Who will help finance this meeting? I am willing to give my time, but must have a singer, give my time, but must have a singer, if possible to get one. Write me at once. Send contributions to Mrs. Monroe Lovin, Talihina, Okla. Brethren, the call is great for missionary work. Will you do your part?—Will W. Slater.

Pangburn, September 13.—Last week I preached twice at Johnstown, once at the river, and three times at Amagon, which resulted in two baptisms and two reclaimed. Last Monday I was called to conduct the funeral of Mr. Jesse Ford, who on Saturday night before, while eating his supper, was shot by an unknown party. Only six weeks ago I baptized his wife, and he made the remark at the time: "I ought to be baptized." I came to Pangburn last Friday night. The "Pentecostals" have been carrying on a camp meeting here since the third Sunday in August. They have had only two additions, but they still continue the meeting, and it draws the preached here yesterday crowd. I and last night, and one came forward at each service. I intend to baptize them this afternoon. I shall preach here all this week. We have only a few brethren here. I am making the hardest fight in this town for the truth I have any t truth I have ever made. As long as I am able, I intend to lift my voice against error and for the truth.-L. R. Wilson.

Kentucky.

Louisville, September 12.—Our meeting at High Bridge closed with seven additions. Three from the Baptists and three from the "digressives." I am now at Harrisonville. I will go from here to Elkton, near Frankfort. -R. A. Craig Gadberry, September 15.—Brother Porter Norris, of Lucy, Tenn., closed a meeting at Smith's Chapel last night with two additions—one from the Methodists who had been immersed. This meeting was an inspira-tion to the few loyal ones who are striving so hard to live up to the apostelic doctrine. Brother Norris set the church in order by appointing elders and deacons to oversee the little flock. Our hearts go out to him in love for the sacrifice he made in coming to us and teaching us "the unsearchable riches of Christ." Before coming to this place he had held a meeting at Lock, Tenn., with two restored. -

Mississippi.

Lafayette Springs, September 13.-A short meeting was held here, be-ginning on the first Sunday in this month and continuing until the following Friday night. We were rained out for four services, but had good audiences at all other services, and better attention could not be desired. Brother W. H. Owen, of the faculty of the Freed-Hardeman College, of Hen-derson, Tenn., did the preaching, and did it well. This town had never heard a genuine gospel sermon before, and Brother Owen certainly did put them to thinking. Six were baptized. The Methodist people kindly gave us the use of their house in which to hold the meeting.—O. T. Whitehead.

Ruleville, September 13.-I recently held a meeting at Carpenter. were no additions, but we had good crowds. It was said to be the best meeting ever held at that place. I made my home with Brother R. L. Sweeney, a former citizen of Tennessee. It was a good home. Brother Sweeney is a fine man, a devoted Christian. I came to Ruleville and began preaching on Thursday night, closing at the water on Sunday with four baptisms. I am now singing for Brother Howell, who is holding a mission meeting near here, but will go to Ford's Well, near Water Valley, and preach until after the third Lord's I expect to be at Cloverport. day. I expect to be at Cloverport, near Toone, Tenn., on the fourth Sun-day, and then go to Howe, Okla., my home, for a meeting, beginning the first Lord's day in October.—W. F. Lemmons:

Missouri.

Rocky Comfort, September 14.— Brother Charley Hardin and I have just closed a two-weeks' meeting at Bethlehem, near Rocky Comfort, with nine baptized, Brother Hardin preached the first week and we bap-tized six. I continued the meeting and baptized three more. This is a mission point. I recently held a twoweeks' meeting at Ridgley, with one baptized and one restored. I gathered about fifteen brethren together and put them to work meeting every Lord's day. This is a mission point I started this summer.—J. B. Redd.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Makes Food Taste Cood

Creates an appetite, alds digestion, purifies the blood, and thus relieves scrofula, catarrh, the pains and aches of rheumatism and gives strength to the whole system.

Nearly 50 years' phenomenal sales tell the story of the great merit and success of Hood's Sarsaparilla. It is just the medicine you need now. Hood's Pills help-fine cathartic.

DODSON TELLS THE HORROR OF CALDMEL

You Don't Need to Sicken, Gripe or Salivate Yourself to Start Liver.

You're bilious, sluggish, constipated You feel headachy, your stomach may be sour, your breath bad, your skin sallow and you believe you need vile, dangerous calomel to start liver and bowels.

Here's my guarantee! Ask your druggist for a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone and take a spoonful tonight. If it doesn't start your liver and straighten you right up better than calomel and you right up better than calomel and without griping or making you sick I want you to go back to the store and get your money.

Take calomel today and tomorrow you will feel weak and sick and nauseated. Don't lose a day. Take a spoonful of harmless, vegetable Dodson's Liver Tone tonight and wake up feeling splendid. It is perfectly harmless, so give it to your children any time. It can't salivate.

TETTERINE

Ends Complexion Worries

Healing, Antiseptic, Soothing, Fragrant.

60c at your druggist's or from the SHUP-TRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

GOOD TEACHERS IN DEMAND
AT BETTER SALARIES
The schools, colleges, seminarles, and universities throughout the South are begging for assistance in finding teachers with proper qualifications, and better salaries are being offered. We are needing hundreds of teachers to supply the demand. Any well-prepared teacher would do well to write us.

FISK TEACHERS' AGENCY
B. A. Clayton, Mgr. Birmingham, Als.

HINDERCORNS Removes Corns, Callouses, etc., stops all pain, ensures comfort to the feet, makes walking easy. Isc, by mail or at Bruggists. Hiscor Chemical Works, Packhogue, N. Y.

The next time you buy calomel ask for

The purified and refined calomel tablets that are nausealess, safe and sure.

Medicinal virtues retained and improved. Sold only in sealed packages. Price 35c.

FOOT COMFORT ASSURED

Brooklyn Man Solves the Problem

It is no longer necessary to suffer agonles that are caused by misfit shoes; for Mr. Simon, of Brooklyn, has proven that he can fit perfectly by mail. Simon's EzWear Shoes are built to give every possible foot comfort; they are soft and stylish, and do not need breaking in. They fit like the proverbial pair, the minute you wear them. Every pair is guaranteed to give satisfaction and to fit perfectly.

Mr. J. R. Simon will gladly send a free catalogue of over 500 styles of EzWear Shoes to all who write him, along with his scientific, self-measuring blank. Write for your copy to-day, and give your feet their much-needed happiness Address all com-munications to Mr. J. B. Simon, 1589 Broadway, Brooklyn, N. Y., and you will receive personal attention.

NO JOKE TO BE DEAF

FRECK

Now Is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots.

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling asianned of your freekles, as Othine—double strength—is guaranteed to remove these homely spots.

Simply set an ounce of Othine—double strength—from your druggest, and apply a little of it night and morning and you should soon see that even the worst freekles have begun to disappear, while the lighter such have vanished entirely. It is seidom that more than one ounce is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a beautiful clear completely clear the skin and gain a beautiful clear completion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength Othine as fixe is sold under guarantee of money back if it falls to remove freekles.

What Shall We Do?

BY THOMAS H. BURTON.

This is a very important question which confronts us at this stage of the work in South Carolina. By the time this reaches the readers we want to be working on our first house in this State, and we lack about twenty-five hundred dollars having enough to finish a very cheap house; and the question is, what are we going to do about the balance necessary to build this house? We have on hand and in good promises about twenty-five hundred dollars, also have our lot paid for. Shall we borrow this money from some sectarian, or is there some brother who will volunteer to let us have it for twelve months? Or a better way still, it seems to me, would be for the brethren to contribute immediately to our building fund and let us have our first house in the State free from debt when it is complete. It seems to me that it is a disgrace, not to the cause, but to those who represent the cause of Christ in this prosperous age and country, for conditions to be as they are. Just think, cannot get enough money to build a meetinghouse for a congregation of poor saints who have done and are doing what they reasonably can. Brethren, it is an awful condition for the brotherhood to be in. Some one is ready to say, "So many calls," Whining brother, if we would do our part in fellowshiping the work for the Master instead of satisfying every desire, fancy, and whim of our fleshly man, there would not be so many calls. Brother, congregation, come on now with a liberal contribution and help us put the cause of Christ on the map in South Carolina. Don't put it off; we will need it by the time it reaches us. Brother preacher, can you not make a little appeal for this work? Send all communications and contributions to Thomas II. Burton, Union, S. C.

In Memory of Johnnie Warren.

Mr. Johnnie W. Warren, beloved husband of Mary Sue Warren, died at his home, near Chestnut Ridge, at 2 P.M., Thursday, March 25, 1920, aged thirty-two years, eight months, and fifteen days. Funeral services were conducted by C. E. Holt, of Florence, Ala. The remains were laid to rest in the Petersburg Cemetery to awaii the coming of the Master, whom he deeply loved and in whose footsteps he walked. He was a member of the Christian Church at Chestnut Ridge. He was the leader in singing at that place and a great worker in the church of Christ. He was loved by every one who knew him. He ran the journey of life in thirty-two short years. It is a path marked with deeds of kindness and cheer. Flow-

SICK WOMEN HEAR ME

You Can Be Free from Pain as I Am, if You Do as I Did.

Harrington, Me.—"I suffered with backache, pains through my hips and such a bearing down feeling that I could not stand on my feet stand on my feet. I also had other distressing symptoms. At times I had to give up work I tried a number of remedies but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did table Compound did me more good than anything else. I am regular, do not suffer the pains I used to, keep house and do all my work. I recommend your medicine to all who suffer as I did and you may use my let-ter as you like."—Mrs. MINNIE MITCH-ELL, Harrington, Me.

There are many women who suffer as Mrs. Mitchell did and who are being benefited by this great medicine every day. It has helped thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing down feeling, indigestion, and nervous prostration.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound contains no narcotics or harmful drugs. It is made from extracts of roots and herbs and is a safe medium for women. If you need special advice write Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass.

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

eumatism

A HOME CURE GIVEN BY ONE WHO HAD IT

ONE WHO HAD IT

In the spring of 1893 I was attacked by Muscular and Inflammatory Rheumatism. I suffered as only those who have it know, for over three years. I tried remedy after remedy and doctor after doctor, but such relief as I received was only temporary. Finally I found a remedy that cured me completely, and it has never returned. I have given it to a number who were terribly afflicted and even bedridden with Rheumatism, some of them from seventy to eighty years old, and results were the same as in my own case.

I want every sufferer from any old, and results were the same as in my own case.

I want every sufferer from any form of rheumatic trouble to try this marvelous healing power. Don't send a cent; simply mail your name and address, and I will send it free to try. After you have used it and it has proven itself to be that long-looked-for means of getting rid of your Rheumatism, you may send the price of it, one dollar; but, understand, I do not want your money unless you are perfectly satisfied to send it. Isn't that fair? Why suffer any longer, when relief is thus offered you free? Don't delay Write to-day.

No. 8270 Durston Bidg., Syracuse, N.Y. Mr. Jackson is responsible. Above statement true.

The Romantic Story of Southland's Favorite Shoe, EzWear

Some five years ago, a prominent citizen of South Carolina, visiting New York on important business, chanced to meet the maker of a shoe built on new and unusual lines: an enthusiastic admirer of its most distinctive features, case and comfort, had suggested the name "EzWear;" it was promptly adopted. The business man from the South, knowing how welcome such a shoe would be in his part of the country, urged that its remarkable qualities, including not only comfort, but style, durability, and economy, be made known there. That this has been done effectively is proven by . the enormous demand that has sprung up in the South for EzWear Shoes. It is said that its sale there during the last twelve months has increased fully three hundred per cent. The distributor, Mr. J. R. Simon, of 1589 Broadway, Brooklyn, N. Y., says that all who wish to know about a shoe that combines all worth-while shoe qualities may have a copy of his money-saving shoe book for the asking.

ASPIRIN

Name "Bayer" on Genuine

"Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" is genuine "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" is genuine Aspirin proved safe by millions and prescribed by physicians for over twenty years. Accept only an unbroken "Bayer package" which contains proper directions to relieve Headache, Toothashe, Earache, Neuralgia, Rheumatism. Colds and Pain. Handy tin boxes of 12 tablets cost few cents. Druggists also sell larger "Bayer packages." Aspirin is trade mark Bayer Manufacture Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid.

ers, not thorns, and sunshine, not shadow, did he scatter everywhere. The book of life was opened and a new name written therein by the hand of Love. His life was a rare jewel: his spirit was ready for heaven. His affection for his wife and children was tender and abiding. Among us all he was a kind neighbor, a devoted husband, and a true friend. He is gone from our sight; but because life and love are stronger than death, he is ours still. He is still the father of the dear children upon whom he doted with such clinging fondness and the companion still of her who mourns earth's greatest loss. The departed one was an everyday Christian. It is difficult to pay a fitting tribute to the memory of so noble a man. seemed born to inspire the love and respect of all who were so fortunate as to be acquainted with him. No one was more willing to aid the suffering, cheer the downhearted, and help the needy. He was a great help to the community. We all miss him badly, There is a vacant place at home that will never be filled. Home is no more home to me until I meet him in heaven, where sad parting will be no more. When upon his deathbed, he told me to "do right." O, those words ring in my ears so much! In spite or all that could be done by doctors, friends, and neighbors, God called him home to dwell with him in heaven, "Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shall see Ged." He is survived by his wife, one son and one daughter, father, mother, one brother and two sisters, besides a host of friends, who mourn their great loss.

Cone on before, my dearest one, No longer on earth together: But soon we'll meet in heaven home. Where parting will be never.

> ONE WHO LOVES HIM BEST-HIS WIFE.

We are God's witnesses, necessarily, because the world will not read the Bible, but they will read our lives; and upon the report these give will very much depend their belief in the divine nature of the religion we possess. This age is essentially an age of facts, and all scientific inquiries are being increasingly turned from theories to realities. If, therefore, our religion is to make any headway in the present time, it must be proved to be more than a theory; and we must present to the investigation of the critical minds of our age the realities of lives transformed by the mighty power of God, "working in them all the good pleasure of his will."-Selected.

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

The Word in Creation.

The eternal Son is the word of God to man as well as the mind of God in the universe. He is the supreme expression of the relationship of God to the spiritual creation. The Word operated in time through physical creation in order that he might become intelligible and effective in the realm of the spirit, and thereby linked up the physical (especially in the human body, the habitation of the spirit) in an abiding and sacramental unity with the spiritual.

It is the light of these things that we can look upon the life, death, and resurrection of Jesus Christ, with all that is historically connected with that life in the Gospels, as most consistent with the mind of God in its manifestation through physical creation, as well as in its ultimate purpose for man in the spiritual.—Selected.

50 Eggs a Day

"'More Eggs' Tonic is a Godsend," writes Mrs. Myrtle Ice, of Boston, Ky. She adds; "I was only getting 12 egges a day, and now I get 50." Give YOUR hens a few cents worth of "More Eggs," the wonderful egg producer, and you will be amazed and delighted with results.

Eggs While Moulting

While moulting, your hens will need "More Eggs" to hasten the moult, revitalize their organs, and put them in line laying condition. Letters from many users tell how they actually got eggs while moulting.

If you wish to try this great profit maker, simply write a post card or letter to E. J. Reefer, the poultry expert, 7259 Reefer Building, Kansas City, Mo., and ask for his special free-package $1.00 after. Den't send any money. Mr. Reefer will send you two $1.00 packages of "More Eggs." You pay the postman upon delivery only $1.00, the price of just one package, the other package being free. The Million-Dollar Merchants' Bank of Kansas City, Mo., guarantees if you are not absolutely satisfied your dollar will be returned at any time within 30 days on request. So there is no risk. Write to-day for this special free-package offer.

To Reduce Fever Relieve Headaches and Neuralgic Pains

Use

Aspitone is very efficient and absolutely safe to use as it does not depress the heart even in extreme cases of debkity or weak heart, neurasthenia or anaemia. Manufactured by a formula in use by leading physicians generally, 18 parts pure-Aspirin, 1 part puro Caffeine, 4 parts excipient, in convenient tablet form, 35c per package at your druggists or by mail from the manufacturers. tablet form. 35c per package at your drug-gists or by mail from the manufacturers, Piedmont Laboratories, Inc., Clinton, S. C.

Mr. Church Treasurer!

If the Loose-Leaf Plan is best for the Business Man, it must be best for the CHURCH TREASURER.

?

Up-to-date Economical Efficient

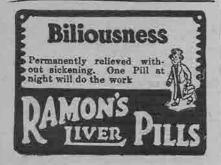

Why not use the Unified Loose Leaf instead of Bound Books? Adapted to any envelope system and size membership. Supplied by your dealer, or

Arthur H. Strouse Pub. Co. Dept. K, 431 So. Dearborn St., Chicago, III.

PROFITS IN PIGEONS

A pleasant, easy way to make money—stilize an otherwise worthless part of your back yard and turn it into profit. Pigeons are easily raised, prolific, and clean. The markets are clamoring for squabs. A few pairs of our beautiful Red Carneaux and White Swiss Mondaines will start you right.
Write for our FREE booklet, "Profits in Pigeons No. 5." Carolina Pigeon Plant.

Message From the Belle Haven Orphans' Home, of Luling, Texas.

BY MRS. JENNIE CLARKE,

It has been decided after careful deliberation that it would be necessary to incorporate the Belle Haven Orphans' Home in order to protect the funds on hand, as well as the land and all appurtenances thereon, from being used for any other purpose after my death. A charter was filed with the Secretary of State on May 4, 1920, and was accepted by the State of Texas under date of May 6, 1920.

The first meeting of incorporators, for purposes of appointing directors and for transacting several important items of business, was held at the office of the Belle Haven Orphans' Home on August 30. During the past three weeks I became suddenly ill, and

"There seemed to whisper a voice-'twas the voice of God:

'I love thee, I love thee, pass under the rod."

In consideration of the shortness of life, I am much gratified that we were enabled to perfect plans which had been under consideration for some time for the protection of the Belle Haven Orphans' Home. The charter guarantees the continuance of Belle Haven at the present location for a period of fifty years. The following directors were chosen for life: G. H. P. Showalter, of Austin, president-secretary; James Jackson, of Dallas, vice president; and Mrs. Jennie Clarke is also named in the charter as a director for life. She is to serve as treasurer, and was appointed superintendent of the Home for life. It was my pleasure to be able to transfer, through the Lipscomb Bank and Trust Company, of Luling, to the new corporation, the sum of nineteen thousand eight hundred and fifty-five dollars and thirty-three cents in cash, four hundred dollars in Liberty bonds, and thirty-two war savings stamps, without the reservation of a single dollar of the funds for my personal needs. In view of this fact and the proof that I have served the Home for twenty-one years without a salary, the directors agreed to pay me one hundred and twenty-five dollars per month in the future. Another wellknown fact is, I have furnished my own residence here for the benefit of the orphans, as well as all of the rent and products accruing from the sixteen acres on which my home is located. It was not my desire to sel! this beautiful and valuable property. profusely decorated with flowers and evergreens, partly situated in the pretty and healthy city of Luling; but realizing that it might not be for sale by my heirs after my death, I decided, rather than to handicap the Home, that I would sell to the corporation, as the five other tracts of land formerly purchased and deeded to the trustees He east and west, throwing my sixteen acres in the center; and as the Home should be a continuous block without the possibility of a family living in the middle, the directors readily realized the importance of purchasing the sixteen acres, which was settled by a contract. They are to pay me fifteen thousand dollarsfive thousand dollars within thirty days on delivery of deed, and the balance of ten thousand dollars is to be paid one year from date, with interest at the rate of seven per cent. Now, it is the desire of the directors not to pay the five thousand dollars out of the funds on hand, unless the sum cannot possibly be raised, as we want to keep as much as possible of the present fund for current expenses, as well as for some special purposes for which a part of the fund was contributed. As Belle Haven is now on a safe basis, I trust there may be some who have been withholding large sums until the Home was placed on a reliable and lasting foundation. who will now act promptly and raise the five thousand dollars, as agreed upon to pay me by the directors, as I shall need the money within the next thirty or forty days.

Cured His RUPTURE

I was badly ruptured while lifting a trunk several years ago. Doctors said my only hope of cure was an operation. Trusses did me no good. Finally I got hold of something that quickly and completely cured me Years have passed and the rupture has never returned, although I am doing hard work as a carpenter. There was no eperation, no lost time, no trouble. I have nothing to sell; but will give full information about how you may find a complete cure without operation, if you write to me, Eugene M. Pullen, Carpenter, 354 G Marcellus Avenue, Manaquan, N. J. Better cut out this notice and show it to any others who are ruptured—you may save a life, or at least stop the misery of rupture and the worry and danger of an operation.

To all the faithful contributors who have done what they could while the Home and funds were fully under my control I want to say: I love your memory, and will still appreciate your small contributions that you may send from time to time, for it was the small offerings that made Belle Haven what it is to-day. I am arranging the affairs of this Home with a view of carrying out my plans from the establishment of the Home, that Belle Haven, the child of my own creation, would one day be honored and perpetuated by the church of Christ as a monument to my memory. My hopes are now realized, and I rejoice that my will is being carried out in advance of my death. I now commit the sacred trust to a generous brotherhood, and it should be up to you to have a greater Belle Haven. thank you one and all for your faithful support and earnest prayers that have sustained me all these years when the burden seemed greater than I could bear. I trust that I may live many years yet to serve and guard the interests of Belle Haven, as I have done in the past. The quarterly reports will continue to be made regularly, and a statement from the Lipscomb Bank and Trust Company, of Luling, will be made on the first of each month to the directors. I am sure that a wise and intelligent brotherhood will readily agree that it was honest and just for me to pursue this course in order that all funds and the property at Belle Haven should be properly protected against loss. I appreciate the confidence you have placed in me. If one could live always, this risky way of conducting the Lord's work might do; but as every one of us shall give account of himself to God (Rom. 1: 12-14), I decided long ago that it is best to live in readiness to render that account. I trust that the contributions during the next thirty or sixty days will ably testify to your appreciation of the course which I have pursued.

Select Thoughts.

The truth is music, but the ear is falth.

It is the critic, and not the creation, that needs fixing.

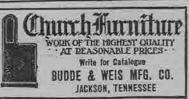

The best way to abide with Him is to break the day with Him.

20 POT BULBS 25c

I Chinese Sacred Lily, 6 New Purity Freezis, 2 Double Rose-bud, 3 Buttercup, 2 Bowi and 6 Grand Duchess Oxalis, These 20 bulbs and Gatalog MAILED FOR 25 CENTS

Hyacinths, Tulhys, Narcissus, Peonics, Lilles, Irises, Philoxes, Hardy Plante, Shrubs, Vines, Berries, in great variety. Also aplendid window plants for winter. Seeds for Fallsowing, etc. Large beautiful Catalog free John Lewis Childs, Inc. Floral Park, N. Y.

OBITUARIES

On account of the large number of oblu-ary notices coming to the Gospel Advocate, the following rules must be observed: Oblu-uaries that do not exceed two hundred words are published free of charge. When they exceed that limit, two cents will be charged for every additional word. Pay-ment must accompany notice, or it will be reduced to two hundred words. Poetry will not be printed. not be printed.

Acuff.

After an illness of seven months. H. A. Acuff passed to his reward on Sunday morning, August 8, 1920. He was born on December 22, 1861, in Hamilton County, Tenn. He became a Christian when quite young, and lived a true, Christian life. He is survived by his wife, three sons, and one daughter. Brother Will Phillips conducted the funeral services, after which his remains were laid to rest in the Pollard graveyard to await the resurrection morn. Mrs. C. O. NEAL.

Marshall.

From August 21, 1852, to August 9, 1920, marks the period of the earthly life of Mrs. Nannie Allen Marshall. She united with the church in 1870, and lived a conscientious, consecrated, Christian life. She taught a Sunday-school class twenty-two years. She was married to James R. Marshall on February 20, 1877. To this union were born three daughters and four sons. Her husband and one son pre-ceded her to the grave. Mrs. Marshall was a kind neighbor, a true friend, a devoted wife and mother.

ONE WHO LOVED HER.

Sparks.

in the providence of Jehovah it has tallen my lot to chronicle the departure of one who in the days of early infancy has paid the penalty for Adam's transgression. The little son of Mr. and Mrs. N. W. Sparks, Albert Nelson, aged three months and five days, was called to the rest that awaits the departed spirits of the just, September 11, 1920. A spirit as pure as the driven snow and as spotless as the lily of the valley winged its from earthly portals to those mansions in the skies. The Savior has said: "Suffer little children to come unto me, and forbid them not: for of such is the kingdom of heaven." The funeral services were conducted at Sallisaw, Okla., by the writer, where the remains were laid to rest, there to await the hour when they that are in their graves shall hear the voice of the Son of man and come forth. May those who suffered the loss consider the gain and look up to Jehovah as God of all comfort, who always lightens the sorrowful heart if we only L. H. KNIGHT. believe in him.

McPeak.

On August 13, 1917, there was born into the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. T. McPeak a blue-eyed baby boy, whom they christened as "James Udell Mc-Peak." He was a pretty, sweet child; but it was not for them to keep him.

On April 10, 1918, his little spirit took its flight and he went to live the angels. His death was due to phthisic. All that loving hands could do to save him was of no avail. It seems the Lord had need of him, left father, mother, two grandfathers. two grandmothers, and a host of relatives to mourn his loss. It was hard indeed for us to give him up, but we submit to the will of the Master, realizing that "all things work together for good to them that love the Lord." We do not mourn as those who have no hope, for some day we expect to see him again in that goodly land where there will be no more separa-tions. The blessed Master said:
"Suffer little children, and forbid them not, to come unto me; for of such is the kingdom of heaven." BEATRICE MCPEAK.

Spare the Rod

when he falls out of the forbidden apple tree, But heal his cuts and bruises quickly with 50 cents and $1 at your druggist's. Medicated Soap, 25 cents.

GET FEATHER BEDS AND PILLOWS Direct from Factory, Write to-day, Send names of four friends and receive our astonishing offer. Hygienic Feather Bedding Co., Dept. 22, Charlotte, N. C.

FOOT TROUBLES

No Need of Them, Says Brooklyn Man, Who Has Evidently Solved a Big Problem

According to the testimony of hundreds of people living in the Southland and elsewhere, J. R. Simon, of 1589 Broadway, Brooklyn, N. Y., has successfully developed of shoe building having for its system prime object the conquering of foot and shoe troubles. It appears that Mr. Simon's establishment has become national headquarters for people whose feet require his remarkable comfort shoe, known as the EzWear, but obtainable only of the in-ventor. Mr. Simon's new catalogue shows several hundred shoes that combine com-fort with style at amazingly low prices and is new ready for free distribution.

A tonic laxative containing iron in organic form for regulating the digestive organs and building robust health with pure, fron-strong red blood. 25c a box.

For eczema, liver splotches and other itching skin cruptions use "Skin Success" Scap and Jintment in conjunction with tablets. A wonderful combination for good health and good looks. Ask your druggist, Samples on request.

THE MORGAN DRUG CO.,

1521 Atlantic Ave. Brooklyn, New York City

Sore Feet? Don't Worry. Here's a Remedy!

Hot foot bath. Bry feet carefully. Rub thoroughly with Encaping Saive. Towel till dry. Then off to bed with a happy heart for your poor, sore feet will be better in the morning.

Antiseptic Analgesic Antiphlogistic (Prevents Infection)(Relieves Pain) (Allays Inflammation)

is a great comfort in cases of inflamed condi-tions of the skin and of the membranes of the air passages. See per 2 oz, jar, at your drug-gist's or by prepaid parcel post from the manu-facturers. Full size jar free to physicians and quantitative formula supplied if desired.

Piedmont Laboratories, Inc., Clinton, S. C.

Driving the Brain often Affects the Nerves, causing Nervous Irritation and Nervous Headaches.

When Nervous, try using

The Standard Remedy for many years for disorders of the Nerves.

AT ALL DRUGGISTS

MILES MEDICAL CO., Elkhart, Ind.

The Pacific Christian Academy.

BY EARNEST C. LOVE.

This school opened its doors for the third year at 720 First Street, Santa Rosa, Cal., on September 6. The enrollment reached forty the second day. while last year there were only nine pupils the second day.

This school is run slightly different from others in that it offers free tuition, free books, and free lunch to all who care to participate. It is supported by free-will offerings. No one is charged for anything, but all are allowed to "purpose in their hearts" as to what they will give.

We have pupils now from the families of "Holy Rollers," infidels, Catholies, Salvation Army, as well as from Christian families. All are required to take a lesson each day in the Bible. It is easy to see that we have a great field for doing good.

The orphan-home feature of our work is growing, too. At first we had no thought of giving a home to orphans, but things developed in such way that we almost had to take some. Then others came, and still they are coming. Of course, we teach all of them the Bible, and teach them to work, educate them, and love them and teach them to love one another, and in this way we hope to make Christian men and women out of them, and that is the greatest thing that can be done for any one. This, too, is supported by freewill offerings.

Are We Able to Do It?

BY W. S. LONG.

Brethren, in the light of facts respecting this question and our trueobligation to God, think seriously while I talk to you a minute.

We are trying to raise the funds to pay for and seat a comfortable house of worship in Washington, D. C. There are one-half million people in reach who ought to hear the word. We need several houses, yet how hard the task to get one! Why is it hard to do a small work for God? This nation spends $1,200,000,000 each year for drinks (cold and hot, sort and hard): $400,000,000 for tobacco; $300,-000,000 for excursions; $600,000,000 for baseball, theaters, and picture shows; $80,000,000 for dogs; $55,000.-000 for fireworks and useless guns; $25,000,000 for chewing gum; and who could count the vast sum spent for automobiles and gasoline for pleasure alone? Just look at this! And yet we have called on five thousand congregations to help raise a small sum of forty thousand dollars to have a house of worship in Washington City. This effort has been before you for two years, and we have pleaded with all our souls for help. How few seem to I care at all! (Read Ezek 2: 18) We have raised only half the sum. About one out of every church seems to care for the lost. I have been among the churches forty days trying to get enough money to seat the house. Men who are worth from fifty thousand dollars to one million dollars will turn the back of their hand to us. The poor will give. Brethren, your money is cursing you. If you do not retrace your steps, they will lead you on to hell. You are headed that way. Covetousness "is idolatry." (Col. 3: 5.) It would be better for me to be a poor heathen of Africa who falls before an ugly wooden image than to have the power to do good and allow the love for my wealth to cause me to be lost. It is a fearful thing to fall into the hands of the living God. Do you want to help us to own a house of worship in Washington? Will you help to seat it now? We owe twenty thousand dollars; but if three hundred churches would give us one donation on September 26, Lord's day (I hope and pray you will), we could be out of debt at once and be ready to plant other churches. Will you do it? Read this to the church, Remember, September 26-"Washington Church" -"Washington Day." Send all dona-tions to E. L. Mills, treasurer, Box 1650, Washington, D. C. Address me at Box 1423, Washington, D. C.

You Do More Work,

You are more ambitious and you get more enjoyment out of everything when your blood is in good condition. Impurities in the blood have a very depressing effect on the system, causing weakness, laziness, nervousness and sickness.

GROVE'S TASTELESS CHIH TONIC restores Energy and Vitality by Purifying and Enriching the Blood. When you feel its strengthening, invigorating effect, see how it brings color to the cheeks and how it improves the appetite, you will then appreciate its true tonic value.

GROVE'S TASTELESS Chill TONIC is not a patent medicine, it is simply IRON and QUININE suspended in Syrup. So pleasant even children like it. The blood needs Quinine to Purify it and IRON to Enrich it. to Enrich it. These reliable tonic prop-erties never fail to drive out impurities in the blood.

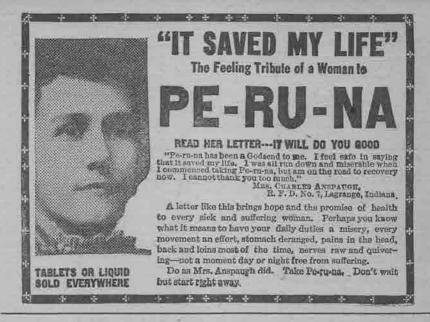

The Strength-Creating Power of GROVE'S TASTELESS Chill TONIC has made it the favorite tonic in thousands of homes. More than thirty-five years ago, folks would ride a long distance to get GROVE'S TASTELESS Chill TONIC when a member of their family had Malaria or needed a bedy-building, strength-giving tonic. The formula is just the same today, and you can get it from any drug store. 60c per bottle.

SOLD FOR SO YEARS FOR MALARIA, CHILLS AND FEVER. Also a Fine General Strengthening Tonic. At All Drug Stores. Arthur Poter & Co., Louisville, Ky.

Turned Out!

BY H. W. JONES.

Not "turned out" of the church. thank God, for no man or set of men can do that; but "turned out" of a church house belonging to our "Christian Church" brethren at Lewistown, near Princeton, Caldwell County, Ky. Brother C. C. Dixon, who lived in this (Marshall) county last year, where I preached, got the consent of a so-called "elder" at Lewistown for me to hold a meeting in their house, with the understanding that we would not use an organ during the meeting. But "what thinkest thou?" Just before meeting time two or three would-be bosses hauled an organ into the house, and a bunch of youngsters started the organ Indoors, and the few would-be bosses started a parley outside the house, saying they were not ready for a meeting, etc. One brother asked me what church I was a member of. I told him I am a member of the one we read about in the New Testament. Another wanted to know if I was "antichristian." I told them I was hardly "antichristian," which is an infidel. After some delay they agreed for me to preach that Sunday (August 29) at 11 o'clock and at night. Before preaching I kindly asked them to sing without playing the organ and gave scriptural reasons why, which calmed them somewhat. Then I discoursed to them on "The Bible as God's Message to Mankind," showing that the central Personage of the whole Bible is the Christ and that to "hear ye him" is our whole duty. That night I talked on "The Church and Its Mission in the World," which should take the place of every man-made and mannamed church, and every "aid society," "missionary society," and other innovations gotten up by man to do the work of the God-ordained church of Jesus Christ. After this some of the leaders became willing for us to use the house, but the two or three would-be bosses "would not." After dismissal a few faithful ones, with the encouragement of some outsiders who believed in fair play, got together and had it announced that preaching would take place Monday night near Brother Dixon's in an arbor. But a brother let us have his tobacco barn, and they hauled sawdust, put in seats, etc., and we preached there in sight of their church house till Sunday night following. Our crowds and interest increased steadily till the close. As a result of this meeting, several were convinced of the sinfulness of instrumental music and other innovations in the church and banded together to meet regularly to worship "as it is written." One brother, well informed, who had been an elder there because the frame is of extra heavy semi-steel and the wood work is solidly dove-tailed to it. The seats have noiseless hinges and cannot loosen, and are extra wide. The frame has no scroll work to catch dust and the high arch makes sweeping easy. The only desk made in the South. Send for our descriptive catalogue.

HERE IS A DESK THAT Stays Rigid

TOUTHERN DESK COMPANY,

HICKORY, N. C.

and driven out by the bosses, innovations, etc., made public confession and seemed anxious to meet and work with the faithful few. Isn't it strange that some so-called "Christians" will contend more strenuously for a thing not commanded (as the organ) than for all the plain commands of our Lord Jesus Christ?

Doing Mission Work.

BY W. H. CARTER.

The churches at Lafayette, White Oak, Williams Cross Roads, Red Springs, and Willette agreed last last spring to ecoperate and have some meetings held in destitute places in this (Macon) county. It was some time before a preacher could be se-Finally arrangement was made with Brother Andy T. Ritchie, of Madison, Tenn., and on the third Lord's day in July we began a meeting at Underwood, about eight miles north of Lafayette, which continued one week. Large and attentive audiences attended, and we are sure the seed of the kingdom was sown into some good ground. There was one added by obedience at this meeting. On the first Lord's day in September a meeting was begun at Frog Pond, four miles northeast of Lafayette, which continued one week. Large and attentive audiences attended this meeting. One was baptized and, we think, great good was done. Brother Ritchie handles the word of truth in a logical, skillful, and instructive way, and will do great good where he goes. It was my good pleasure and fortune to be with him in these meetings. On account of a sick son, Brother Ritchie had to return home, but will resume the work later if the health of his little boy will permit. There are two or three meetings yet on our program. We hope all members and churches will see and become interested in this good work and make this the beginning of a great work along this line.

Hens Lay While Moulting

First to lay is first to pay. "I used 'More Eggs' Tonic, and for the first time my liens laid through the moulting season," writes Mrs. C. Luginbulh, of Norwood, Ohio. E. J. Reefer, the poultry expert, has discovered a scientific product that hastens the moult and revitalizes the organs of the hen and puts her in fine laying condition. Letters from many users tell how they actually got eggs during moulting! You, too, can make your hens moult fast, get eggs sooner, and more eggs all fall and winter. This scientific tonic has been tried, tested, and proven by over 400,000 chicken raisers. Try Reefer's "More Eggs" on his ironclad, money-back guarantee of satisfaction.

If you wish to try this great profit maker, simply write a post card or lotter to E. J. Reefer, the poultry expert, $259 Reefer Building. Kansas City, Mo., and ask for his special free-package $1.00 offer. Don't send any money. Mr. Reefer will send you two $1.00 packages of "More Eggs." You pay the postman upon delivery only $1.00, the pice of just one package, the other package being free. The Million-Dollar Merchants' Bank of Kansas City, Mo., guarantees if you are not absolutely satisfied your dollar will be returned at any time within 30 days on request. So there is no risk. Write today for this special free-package offer. Profit by the experience of a man who has made a fortune out of poultry.

For the HAIR.

To make it soft, fluffy, and free from dan-druff, use

60c at your druggist's or from the SHUP-TRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

CHURCH NEWS

Oklahoma.

Altus, September 13.—I closed at Fargo, Texas, last night, with five baptized and four restored. Brother T. C. McCormack led the songs, and did good work. I am to preach here to-night and at Mangum to-morrow night. I am to begin at Greenville. Texas, next Sunday. J. B. Nelson.

South Carolina.

Union, September 15.—Brother Nix has been in a very interesting tent meeting for two weeks in the town of Woodruff, where he met some of the modern "pastors" who invited him to leave town, as they did not want such "stuff" taught in their town. He had fine crowds, and much interest was manifested in various ways. There were no additions, but we are sure the seed sown will bring forth fruit in due season. This is near the neighborhood where I baptized twelve persons last year. I do not know of a place that looks better for a good congregation in the near future. Brother Nix is now in Spartanburg, where he hopes to establish the cause. I began another meeting in this town last Saturday night. The attendance is only medium. I really think that we have done about all we can in this town until we get our house built. have been trying to get a lot to pitch my tent on in Buffalo, a town about four miles from here, but have not succeeded. It is a hard job to get a place to pitch a tent. We wanted to be building our house by this time, but have been hindered, but we hope to begin in the next ten days. Satan has marshaled his forces against us this year, but we are hoping, working, and praying, with a determination not to back one inch. Brother Nix says:
"It is impossible to believe that men, and especially religious men, would act as some men here are acting." is really too bad to give to the public. One consolation, we know that our Captain is able to lead us to victory. Brethren, pray for us.-Thomas H. Burton.

Tennessee.

Fayetteville, September 13.—The meeting at Philadelphia, in Maury County, resulted in six baptisms. Brother G. Dallas Smith closed here Brother G. Dallas Smith closed here last night with thirteen baptisms. I begin to-night at Wells Hill, and on next Monday (Sept Harms.-J. M. Gainer. (September Livingston, September 14.—I closed an eight-days' meeting at Board Valley last Sunday. Six were baptized and six confessed their sins. This was my first visit to that place. Much interest was manifested during the meeting. I was asked to come back next year. I go next to Haydenburg for a meeting. Pray for me.—Willie Hunter.

Totty's Bend, September 14.—Brother E. L. Cambron, of Wartrace, began a meeting at this place on August 22 and continued it until August 29, with large crowds, especially at night.
Four young ladies confessed their faith in Christ and were baptized, while others were almost persuaded.

Brother Cambron endeared himself to the brethren, and they engaged him for a meeting next year, to be held some time in August.—L. P. Totty.

Lebanon, September 14.—Brother Thomas H. Burton held the annual protracted meeting at Grissim Corner the last week in August. This was a tent meeting. We had good crowds. good attention, and good preaching. Ten souls were added to the one body. This meeting closed on account of the Bellwood meeting, which was held by Brethren Elam and Pittman. This, too, was a good meeting. One sister from the Baptists was added to the church,-Mrs. J. M. Grissim.

Texas.

Fort Worth, September 13 .- Yesterday was the best day I have ever seen at the Southside-Central church of Crowd to the limit in the morning, and at night by far the biggest crowd I have ever seen here on Sunday night. Seven precious souls responded to the call of the gospel. One took membership, two confessed their faults, and four were baptized. The work of the church is outgrowing anything I ever had the pleasure of working in. They are getting fully alive to the call of duty, and whereas for a while I felt that we were doing nothing and that we never would, I am to-day happy and proud to be assoam to-day happy and proud to be asso-ciated with this work. I would be glad to stay here the rest of my life if it could go on as it now goes, and yet I get hungry for a protracted meeting somewhere. God bless the workers!—Tice Elkins.

Convalescence after pneumonia, typhold fever, and the grip is sometimes merely apparent, not real. To make it real and rapid, there is no other tonic so highly to be recommended as Hood's Sarsaparilla. Thousands so testify. Take Hood's

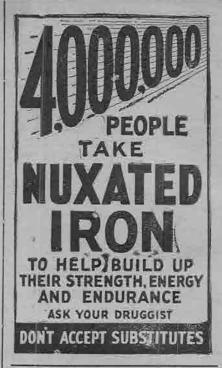

LEMON JUICE FOR FRECKLES

Girls! Make beauty lotion for a few cents-Try It!

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white, shake well, and you have a quarter pint of the best freekle and ian lotion, and complexion beautifier, at very, very small cost.

Your grocer has the lemons and any drug store or toilet counter will supply three ounces of orehard white for a few cents. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face, neck, arms and hands each day and see how freekles and blemishes disappear and how clear, soft and rosy-white the skin becomes. It is harmless and never irritates.

Keep Your Skin-Pores Active and Healthy

TETTERINE Drives Away Pimples

and leaves your skin soft and spotless. 40c at your druggist's or from the SHUPTRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

Say You Want "Diamond Dyes"

Don't Spoil or Streak your Material in a Poor Dye

Each package of "Diamond Dyes" contains directions so simple that any wom-an can diamond-dye a new, rich, fadeless color into worn, shabby garments, draperies, coverings, whether wool, silk, linen, cotton or mixed goods.

Buy "Diamond Dyes"—no other kind—then perfect results are guaranteed even if you have never dyed before. Druggist has color eard. has color card.

CANCERS CURED AT KELLAM HOSPITAL,

1817 West Main Street, Richmond, Va.

It is known beyond a doubt and admitted by most of the leading physicians and sur-geons that cancer cannot be cured with the knife, X-Ray, radium, or acids. Cancers are permanently cured at The Kellam Hos-plital, without the use of either. Physicians and surgeons treated free at the hospital.

women's aches, Sick and Nervous Headaches, Back aches—reflexed quickly by the Rellable Remedy

IT'S LIQUID-QUICK EFFECT.

Volume LXII. No. 40.

NASHVILLE, TENN., SEPTEMBER 30, 1920.

$2.50 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

CONTENTS.

EDIFYING AS THE NEED MAY BE	945
OUR CONTRIBUTORS What About Elders? (No. 5)—Los Angeles and the West—Georgia and the Far Southern Field—A Stateme Applying the Commission—The Manner of Building Memory of My Loved Ones—All Differences of a Busi Nature Amicably Settled.	Far nt— —In
CURRENT THOUGHT	955
AT HOME AND ABROAD
EDITORIAL. The Action of Baptism—Bible Things by Bible Names: ferent Designations of the Church Further Consider. "Evangelistic Authority" Responsible for Division Churches.	Dif- ed—
Opening Exercises of David Lipscomb College	961
A Trip to Texas
CHURCH NEWS	963, 968
Drink or Taste?	966
Why Don't People Go to Church 7	967

III

Edifying as the Need May Be

John Wesley's Method of Preaching.

The greatest remedy in the world is the gospel of Jesus Christ. Other remedies are spurious and ineffectual, but the gospel never fails. Peter, speaking before the Sanhedrin, said: "And in none other is there salvation: for neither is there any other name under heaven that is given among men, wherein we must be saved." Why is the name of Christ above every name? Because it is the symbol of the great power of his gospel; because it stands for a Savior who can save "to the uttermost." This is a fine thing to remember in connection with the great power of sin. We should set over against the awful wages the glorious gift. Sin is a great destroyer, but Jesus is the destroyer of sin and death. John Wesley followed the style of the first half of the book of Romans in presenting his argument. He took almost pride in recounting the appalling ruin and defilement of mankind that he might glory in the all-sufficiency of redeeming grace. I give a little extract from his memoirs: "I preached at Bath. Some of the rich and great were present, to whom, as to the rest, I declared with all plainness of speech, first, that by nature all were children of wrath; second, that all their natural tempers were corrupted and abominable. One of my hearers, Lord So and So, starting up, said, 'Tis hot, tis very hot,' and got downstairs as fast as he could." My lord should have stayed a little longer until Wesley got to the marrow of his text: "The Son of man is come to seek and to save that which was lost." Does it not relieve the awful picture of sin that we find in the Bible to learn that we have a great Savior, too?

Paul calls the gospel the "power of God unto salvation." The word which is here translated "power" gives our word "dynamite." He uses that great Greek word which best describes the tremendous energy of this explosive substance. Please note that the gospel is not named after dynamite; dynamite is named after it. The gospel is the more powerful force. The gospel is not explosive in its workings, but history shows that when placed beneath all forms of organized evil it will as surely destroy them as dynamite bursts the rock with resistless power. "Is not my word like fire? saith Jehovah; and like a hammer that breaketh the rock in pieces?"

0 0 0

Napoleon's Idea of Greatness.

The church is the greatest institution in the world. It is the only society organized by the Lord Jesus Christ to carry his gospel to sinful and suffering humanity. The church embedies the wisdom, power, and promise of God for all possible moral and spiritual good. Paul preached unto the Gentiles the unsearchable riches of Christ, "to the intent that now unto the principalities and the powers in the heavenly places might be made known through the church the manifold wisdom of God." And yet some of our young brethren are teaching that the church is just a "phase of the kingdom" and that its true greatness is to be revealed hereafter. I believe with Paul that its greatness is being revealed now, right now.

Napoleon said that "greatness is nothing unless it be lasting." From that point of view, the church is the greatest institution, because it has lasted through the stress and storms of the ages and is destined to last forever. "The gates of Hades shall not prevail against it." We do not need to tremble for the existence and perpetuity of the church, but we do need to tremble for ourselves as members of this glorious body if we fall short of our duty.

0 0 0

Elbert Hubbard's Advice to Workers.

Elbert Hubbard, who went down with the Lusitania, has given this bit of fine advice to employees: "If you work for a man, in heaven's name work for him. If he pays wages that supply your bread and butter, work for him, think well of him, and stand by him, and stand by the institution he represents. I think if I worked for a man, I would work for him. I would not work for him part of his time, but all of his time. I would give an undivided service or none." If this is good advice for a little institution, it is better advice for a big one, and I maintain that it is thoroughly applicable to the spirit that should fill the hearts of those identified with the greatest institution upon the face of the earth. Let us not at any time disparage the efforts of the past, but let us improve conditions by working harder and by putting in full time. Let it be said of the Christians everywhere that they are the people who found the dynamite in gospel and used it to the glory and henor of God.

Our Contributors

What About Elders? No. 5.

BY W. H. CARTER.

When I closed my fourth article, I thought I had said all that was necessary for me to say; but since writing that article some thoughts have come into my mind which I have thought good to give expression to.

We have seen from the scriptures quoted in preceding articles that a serious, solemn, important, and responsible obligation is placed upon the elders when they agree to accept and are appointed to the work. They are to take the oversight, feed (teach) and rule, and make themselves examples to the church. This privilege, this right, this duty, is not only bound upon them by the Lord himself, but is conceded or delegated to them by the congregation of disciples which selects and has them appointed. When a church thus selects and appoints elders, it confers upon them all rights and privileges that God appoints to them, and no one has the right or authority to oppose or undertake to lead the church in opposition to them while in the discharge of their scripturally appointed duty. To undertake such is to manifest the spirit of insubordination, of rebellion and disobedience to God. To volunteer and undertake to lead the church in opposition to the elders, without having been selected and appointed by the church, is to usurp authority not authorized in the Scriptures and to commit a very grievous sin.

When one obeys the gospel in sincerity and in truth, he agrees and places himself under a most solemn obligation to obey and be governed by the Lord. As the elders are appointed to rule, and we are commanded to obey them, when one rebels against them, he rebels against God; for it is God's law that we "obey them that have the rule over" us, and to "submit" ourselves. If one comes into the church and finds that he is not willing to submit to the elders, it is better for the church that he go back to his own place in the world, for his own conduct shows his lack of reconciliation to God.

If I am told that we have the New Testament for our guide now, my reply is: That is true, and the New Testament says for the elders to "take the oversight," and for us to be submissive. The New Testament is of no good to us as a guide if we are to sort out and discard that which may not agree with our own wisdom and judgment. If we take it as our guide in one thing, we must take it in all things.

I would not pretend to contend that elders have no faults. They are but men in the flesh, and subject to its weaknesses. If one concludes that one is not fit to be an elder, although he was selected and appointed before that one became a member of the church, what course should he pursue? Is not this a serious matter? Do you want to follow the Scriptures in this, or your own judgment? When one is once made an elder, he is an elder until removed by the same authority that made him an elder. Who makes elders? Acts 20: 28 teaches us that the Ephesian elders were made such by the Holy Spirit. But how did the Holy Spirit make elders? This we must not guess at, and then take our guess to be God's law. We are taught by the Spirit what their qualifications must be, and that they are appointed by an evangelist. When one is thus appointed, why is he not appointed by the Holy Spirit? If the Spirit makes elders, who but the Spirit can unmake them, or put them out? If elders are placed over the flock by the Spirit through his teaching, then the Spirit must unmake them, or remove them, by his teaching.

Now the greatest trouble that we have encountered along this line is, too many are inclined to resort to their own wisdom rather than to a prayerful study of the word of the Lord. Does the Spirit say for him to "resign," or just quit functioning? What is the teaching? Are we to set aside God's order upon the opinion of men, or of our own? This becomes a serious matter with me. I cannot preach against following the opinions of others and then ask you to accept and follow mine. Just here I fear my motives have been impugned by some. I may have been classed as a partisan because I contended against some things contended for by others, and advised, always, that we obey God and do, in all things, as it is written. I do not glory in men.

But how can a church get rid of an elder? It must be done by or through the teaching of the Spirit. If they have followed the teaching of the Spirit in making him an elder, they must follow the teaching of the Spirit in putting him out. Now where does the Spirit give any instruction on the question? Do you know of any? If not, do you think this gives license to adopt a rule of our own? I contend that we have no such license. I do not do this to protect any man, but to protect the whole church.

We are only authorized to withdraw from the disorderly. If an elder becomes disorderly, he can be withdrawn from, and this is the only scriptural way known to me to get one out. To want to put an elder out because we dislike him is sinful and far from the spirit of the Christ. To try to get one out, or to put incompetents in, in order to get control, is the prompting of partyism, faction, and is wrong and sinful. The one who talks about the moral standing of an elder should be without sin himself. One who shows by his conduct that he has a higher regard for the institutions of the world than he has for the church is not, in my judgment, the one to find fault with an elder. It is an easy matter to find fault, but not so easy to live above reproach ourselves. Some seem to think that church matters are to be handled as things are handled in political meetings where rings and combinations are formed to hinder or thwart the efforts of others. The person, whether an elder or just a member, who aligns himself with others to prevent the earrying on of the work of God under the supervision of the eldership is fighting against God.

It is true that, sometimes, questions of expediency come up, when members differ. Then the counsel and advice of the elders should be sought by all and their judgment respected. Many churches have dwindled down to a lifeless body because of the ambition of some one who, unselected by the church, tried to supersede and override the eldership. No spiritual good can grow out of a course that is in opposition to God's rules and regulations. Some seem to be naturally contentious, a custom unallowed in Paul's day.

In conclusion, let me say that Paul enjoins upon us, one and all, that we honor the elder that rules well. (1 Tim. 5: 17.) To refuse to do this is to disobey and dishonor God. Can we hope to win heaven and eternal glory by living a life of rebellion? No institution is looked upon as being better than its leader or leaders. Let us remember that actions speak louder than words. It is work God wants, rather than talk. The one who talks much about doing something, but refuses to join others in doing something under the direction of the elders, is not the one who moves mountains and saves souls. Let me stand with those who strive to do God's will, for I am sure God is with them.

Los Angeles and the Far West.

BY S. H. HALL.

THE WORK IS STAGGERING.

It is sometimes difficult for me to find a word that correctly expresses my feelings; but I am using "staggering." as it exactly expresses how I feel as I observe what is needed to be done in this great city. Take a car and ride in whatever direction you please, and work, work, work that is sorely needed to be done continually confronts you. Russians, Mexicans, Japanese, Chinese, Italians, and nearly every nation under the sun are here in numbers: and if we stick to the commission, "Preach the gospel to every creature," we must make an effort to convert some of all nationalities and of all grades of society. And this would not be so difficult were it not for the fact that we are confronted with many false religions that have deeply rooted themselves in the hearts of many of the people. from Roman Catholicism down to the Christian Scientist, and of the latter there are not a few. Then this city is beset with pleasure seekers and money seekers in abundance. I say, as I look about me and see what is needed, the first impression is described by the word I have used.

But I am about over with this feeling, and another thought is predominating-namely, it can be done. In the first place, we have the greatest message to offer that has ever been presented to the people-Christ, and him crucified for the sins of the world, and only that teaching that has been given by him. That this is incomparable goes without saying. We worry not about thinking up a better doctrine, nor do we bother our heads trying to make improvements by adding to or taking from. We have it as good as it can be made, and we give it to the people as it came to us by the Holy Spirit sent down from heaven upon his holy apostles and prophets. Then the church as an organization is unexcelled. She is all-sufficient and ready for work, and God's eternal purpose that through it principalities and powers in heavenly places shall know the manifold wisdom of God must be accomplished. (See Eph. 3: 10, 11.) Then we have a faithful band of Christians here with whom to work, men and women who are willing to work and pray that all things God would have done may be accomplished. I see their willingness, and this makes hope's star shine all the brighter. The life of Gideon Riggs has not been lived here in vain, and there is no cloud hanging over the cause here by mistakes in his conduct. His life has been above reproach; the pure gospel, free from hurtful speculations, he has taught; and a well-laid foundation we have upon which to build.

I feel safe in saying that a greater field no one could enter than this field that now lies before us. I ask a most earnest interest in the prayers of every friend I have who reads this. It can be done; and whatever can be done, must be done. OUR SLOGAN.

"Let every member now on our book win one more at the earliest possible date" is our slogan. Many have a mind to work, and this will soon be accomplished by the larger per cent of the present membership.

The second Lord's day in September was the eighth day for me and mine to be with these good people, and it was decidedly an improvement over the first. A fine audience, and four added by statement. Among the number was an old schoolmate, Brother James A Harden, and his wife, His father and mother, two of our best members in the East, were with me in the Fort Valley meeting just before I left Georgia. Among the last things they said to me before our separation was: "Don't forget to find James and his wife and put them to work." I will say to these good people: Don't worry; James and his wife are at work. Let all who know of members who have moved to this city or near-by cities give me their names and addresses, that we may look them up and put them to work. Please note my permanent address is 1669 North Sichel Street.

Georgia and the Far Southern Field.

BY B. C. GOODPASTURE.

"HE WENT FORWARD."

It is said of our Master that, after he had brought Peter, James, and John into Gethsemane and had left them on guard to watch with him, "He went forward a little" (Mark 14: 35)-proceeded a little distance more into the literal gloom and physical bounds of the lonely garden. But though this is the primary sense, it is not the biggest sense in which he outdistanced his sleepy disciples. Beyond them he "went forward" deeper into the significance, the bloody agonies, and the prayerful resignation of the garden of sorrow. The spiritual crisis of the world was on, and upon its turn depended the salvation of man. To the everlasting consternation and ruin of the hosts of evil, "he went forward" the length of God's will for the redemption of fallen man. In fact, his entire life was a series of forward movements. With respect to the teaching and the living of the great principles of life, he surpassed all his predecessors. Let us consider some examples.

1. In opposition to Satan and sin. Christ came to deliver man from the dominion, guilt, and consequences of sin. "To this end was the Son of God manifested, that he might destroy the works of the devil." (1 John 3: 8.) Again, It is written: "And ye know that he was manifested to take away sins; and in him is no sin." (1 John 3: 5.) An angel said to the bewildered Joseph: "Fear not to take unto thee Mary thy wife. . . . She shall bring forth a son; and thou shalt call his name Jesus; for it is he that shall save his people from their sins," (Matt. 1: 20, 21.) Others before Christ had opposed sin in word and deed. Moses had written, "Thou shalt not kill," and, "Thou shalt not commit adultery" (Ex. 20: 13, 14); and Elijah had thundered his fearless denunciations of the atrocious crimes and heinous sins of Ahab and Jezebel (1 Kings 21: 17-26)—these were condemnations of the overt act. Christ "went forward;" he condemned sin not only in act and word, but also in thought. Hear him: "Ye have heard that it was said, Thou shalt not commit adultery: but I say unto you, that every one that looketh on a woman to lust after her hath committed adultery with her already in his heart." (Matt. 5: 27, 28.) Thus he pursued sin into the secret chambers of the heart and severely condemned it there. Once more: "Whosoever hateth his brother is a murderer: and ye know that no murderer hath eternal life abiding in him." (1 John 3: 15.) Then, according to the advanced standard of the great Teacher, one may so blacken his soul with adulterous thoughts and so crimson it with murderous hate as to forever debar himself from the gates of pearl.

2. In self-denial. In the long catalogue of God's great men there were many who made great sacrifices. Abraham denied himself the possession of friends, relatives, and a home in the land of his nativity, and "became a sojourner in the land of promise, as in a land not his own;" and Moses "refused to be called the son of Pharaoh's daughter, choosing rather to share ill treatment with the people of God, than to enjoy the pleasures of sin for a season;" but Christ left heaven and the "bosom of the Father" (John 1: 18), "emptied himself [of some divine glory (John 17: 5)], taking the form of a servant" (Phil, 2: 6, 7), and came to a sin-cursed world, to be rejected and crucified for it and by it. In leaving heaven, he gave up much; but when he reached earth, he sacrificed and suffered still more. He was driven from the home of his birth, Bethlehem; expelled from the home of his residence, Nazareth; rejected in the home of his adoption, Capernaum; and murdered in the city of his father David, Jerusalem. "He came unto his own, and they that were his own received him not." (John 1: 11.) During the years of his strenuous ministry he said concerning himself; "The foxes have holes, and the birds of the heaven have nests; but the Son of man hath not where to lay his head." (Luke 9: 58.) Moreover, no human knows the intensity of the trial in Gethsemane and the awfulness of the pains on Calvary. He died for the aggregated sins of the dead, the living, and the unborn. "Jehovah hath laid on him the iniquity of us all." (Isa. 53: 6.) He went the utmost limit in the matter of self-denial.

In conclusion, it must be remembered that the Savior left us "an example, that ye [we] should follow his steps" (1 Pet. 2: 21) into deeper consecration to his service, more uncompromising warfare on sin, more unreserved selfdenial-forward into "every good work and word" (2 Thess. 2: 17). No one can follow "his steps" without going forward." The sublime reach of his life was the greatest and purest the world has ever known. His was a sinless, perfect life. There is no danger of one's going beyond his example in good works. We cannot stand still and attain unto "a full-grown man, unto the measure of the stature of the fullness of Christ." (Eph. 4: 13.) As the Master went beyond his disciples farther into the garden, so we should go beyond our past accomplishments into greater things for the service of the Lord. "Abound more and more." (1 Thess, 4: 1.)

BITS OF NEWS.

The tent meeting at the corner of Cooper and Glenn Streets continues with fine interest and attendance. There have been three additions—two confessions and one from the Baptists. The congregations of the city dismissed the evening services last Sunday and came to the tent.

The attendance at West End Avenue on Sunday morning (September 20) was the largest thus far. One took membership.

Brother R. H. Rogers reports a good service at South Pryor Street on Sunday morning. Brother Henry T. King, of McMinnville, Tenn., will begin a protracted meeting with this congregation next Sunday. The brethren are expecting a fine meeting.

Brother Hugh E. Garrett preached at East Point yesterday; Brother O. D. Bearden, at Kingston; Brother A. R. Hill, at Griffin.

We are expecting good news from Brother R. P. Cuff, of Macon, and Brother J. B. Beck, of Savannah.

A Statement.

BY L. D. PERKINS.

In the Gospel Advocate of July 15, page 687, appeared a report from my pen of Brother W. P. Reedy, Long Beach, Cal. Brother D. Austen Sommer took exceptions to what I had to say, wrote a criticism of my report, and asked Brother McQuiddy to give it space in the Advocate. Brother McQuiddy immediately wrote me, and sent me what Brother Sommer had to say, and wrote Brother Sommer that if there were any corrections to be made in my report I should attend to it. At once I wrote Brother Sommer and Brother McQuiddy that I was unwilling to allow anything from my pen to appear in the Review on account of the fact that the Review had falsely misrepresented me, and had never made any correction after I had proven to them that the representations were false. I further proposed to him, if he was unwilling to make what corrections I had asked him to make, that I would get Brother F. W. Smith, of Nashville, Tenn., to reply to his criticism of my article, with the understanding that my report of Brother Reedy's standing in California as I had reported it be allowed in the Review, then his criticism, and Brother Smith's reply. so that each paper might give a full understanding to its readers. I certainly thought this was fair to all; but Prother Sommer was unwilling for his readers to see the report, his criticism, and Brother Smith's reply. In place of giving his readers my full report, he merely refers to one portion of it, and then gives the correspondence between Brother McQuiddy and himself, and the Gospel Advocate a general rounding up.

In order to make me out a false reporter, he quotes from my article as saying there were elders in the congregation at Glendale, Arizona. Any one who is interested may read what I had to say in the report as given in the Advocate cited above, and he will at once see I did not say there were elders at Glendale. I did not mention such a place. As the report stood in the Advocate, no one could justly make any criticism of it, for I had spoken the truth and had given a correct report; but Brother Sommer thought he must come to the rescue of his man "Friday," and to do this he must change what I said to what I did not say, and then accuse me of making a false statement. Leave my article just as the Gospel Advocate published it, and it is the truth, Brother Sommer; but when you go to changing it. I am not at all responsible. In order for him to get space in the Advocate for his criticism, I forced the Review to agree to publish what the report was as it appeared in the Advocate; but Brother Sommer knew that would not do, for he had changed what I had said to what I did not say, and upon this had made his criticism, and he knew his readers would see that. That is one reason. The second one is, he did not want the Review readers to see the general standing of W. P. Reedy with the churches on the Pacific Coast, and some of the divisions he had helped to bring in the churches.

In remarks resarding the Bible schools, Brother Sommer says they are turning out "pastors," and condemns the minister who locates with a congregation preaching regularly. I make mention of this, not because I oppose a minister's locating with a church and preaching for it all or part of the time as circumstances may permit (I have plenty of Bible for that practice in the New Testament, if necessary to show it), but because Brother Sommer opposes and condemns it in the Review, knowing at the same time that W. P. Reedy, of Long Beach, is occupying just such a position. Brother Sommer's knowing this to be a fact (for he was out here recently) and passing over the matter of Brother Reedy goes to show his unjust, unfair, and partial principle in excusing Reedy and condemning the Bible schools. And every Review preacher on this coast that I know of, save S. O. Pool, at Wenatchee, Wash., is what may be termed a "pastor;" and Brother Pool, by far the best man, and by far the best qualified man of the Review type on the Pacific Coast, has been rooted and driven out by W. P. Reedy and L. F. Clipp and their associates; and if it had not been for the help of Brother D. Sommer coming from the far East to intervene, I have not the least doubt but what Brother Pool would have been withdrawn from and disfellowshiped by these "evangelistic assumption" men. I would like to quote from a private letter from Brother Pool as to the treatment of himself by Reedy and others, but would not do such a thing without permission; but it would open the eyes of many.

Had the Advocate allowed Brother Sommer space for his criticism with no reply, which he wanted them to do, then many, no doubt, would have believed I was guilty, because Brother Sommer had so changed my article as to make me guilty. He is rather smooth, but not smooth enough to cope with Bible-school boys. I would suggest that Brother Sommer attend some good school and get a fair education, as his father did when he attended a number of colleges and Bible schools.

It is amusing to hear him boast of the giant on the coast, W. P. Reedy. This is laughable to all who know Reedy, and who know he possesses only fair ability. He may have meant he was a giant in exercising "evangelistic assumption" and in dividing the spiritual body of Christ or earth. If that is what he did mean, then I say that Brother Sommer is right. I proposed to undertake to prove that those associated with the Review were guilty of "evangelictic assumption," but in the last issue of the Review Brother D. Sommer declines, which I suppose settles the matter. If they are not guilty, and they say they are not, I cannot see why they are unwilling to deny in public after I affirm.

May the God of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob rule in our lives to speak the truth and lie not, and to always contend for the truth as it is in Christ Jesus.

Impressions of Tennessee Churches,

As our readers know, I have just returned from a trip to my native State, Tennessee. It has been known for a long time that the church of Christ was strong in that State, but I was more favorably impressed this time than ever before.

In Nashville, which is only one-fifth as large as San Francisco, there are thirty-four congregations. In Hickman and Maury counties, I doubt that there are as many as a dozen active sectarian churches, all told, while the church of Christ has about seventy-five live, working bodies.

These brethren have a few of the common faults of humanity, such as using tobacco and lack of proper zeal, but on the whole I doubt that any better body of people ever existed on earth than can be found right there now. Taking Kettle Mills, the place where I was born, as a center, and within a radius of ten miles I doubt that a place can be found anywhere in the world containing so many New Testament Christians and so few who are otherwise.

This may be partly due to the native tendency of the people, but much of it is due to the influence of the Gospel Advocate, which is found in almost every home. The Nash-ville Bible School, now David Lipscomb College, has also contributed its share of influence toward this happy condition. Many families have sent one or more of their children for one or more years to this great old school. These students upon returning home are among the most humble and pious people of the community.

These churches for the most part are entirely free from digressivism, and bid fair to remain so. Style and pride have no foothold to speak of there. This is just as true of the Nashville churches as the country churches. I was in the presence of three sisters and heard them expressing themselves against shows, baseball games, style and pride in dress, and, in fact, everything I would have condemned myself, and I am considered by some to be very strict. Well, one of these sisters was the wife of Brother McQuiddy's head bookkeeper.

The last day I was in Tennessee I preached at the Russell Street Church, which is considered one of the "fanciest" churches we have. The building was built by the Presbyterians, but they were unable to pay for it, and so the brethren bought it. It is a finer building than would have been built, but it has not spoilt them in the least. Everything was as plain there as in the country places I visited. I noticed the congregation was asked to kneel in prayer, and a very large per cent of them did so. There were no toy cups on the communion table, and, in fact, I was told by Brother A. B. Lipscomb that not a single church in Nashville, to the best of his knowledge, had adopted this modern innovation.

I spent one night in the home of our venerable brother, E. G. Sewell. I was in Brother McQuiddy's Bible class, and had several visits with Brother A. B. Lipscomb; and I want to say that I found these brethren pious, humble, and loyal to the doctrine of the New Testament. It made me wish to imitate their work on this Coast, and I believe we can do it to good advantage.

If the individual cups are never introduced till they are suggested by Brethren Sewell, McQuiddy, or Lipscomb, they would never be heard of again. These things are being introduced, for the most part, by preachers from Texas or those educated in digressive or sectarian schools.

Brother A. B. Lipscomb is now president of the David Lipscomb College, and I know of no better place to send a boy or girl for an education under Christian influence. Of course, the Pacific Christian Academy, of Santa Rosa, is coming on; but they have a big start of us, With us, the pupils have some advantage in being in a small school.

We are certainly glad to have with us two Tennesses girls who are to help us teach in the Pacific Christian Academy, who are former students of the Nashville Bible School.

What the Gospel Advocate and Nashville Bible School have done for the church in the Southeast, I wish the Pacific Christian and the Pacific Christian Academy might do for the church on the Pacific Coast. Let us pray and work for better things.—E. C. Love, in Pacific Christian.

Friends.

Did you ever think about the quality of friends? Did you ever consider how a real friendship is a thing unalterable and imperishable, no matter what time and distance and diversity of condition shall bring to bear upon it? Did you ever consider what constitutes a real friend? That is, a friend who loves you for yourself and for neither gain nor good's sake; but just because you are you, and within you is some attraction that wins, holds, and binds with an immortal constancy.

There are friends—or we call them so—who, being with us, perhaps, believe they love us; but with the first breath of the wind of separation blowing between, they drop us into oblivion, unless, perchance, we shall chance to meet again, when the same thing is enacted, and continues to be repeated until the pretense wears itself out and forgetfulness plays its natural part in the matter.

And there are the friends who love us when we can serve them, and without our measure of service have no room nor thought nor place in memory for us.

We do not purchase our friends at the cost of so much service; we do not even love people because they love us; still less can there be any abiding hope of endurance in the friendship that is bought with a price. It is one of the things God gives; and only he who holds his gift conscientiously in trust can hope to retain it, and shall find it grow finer and more precious while the years waste and the sun and the stars grow old.—Selected.

Christianity.

The purpose of Christianity is to Christianize whatever it touches-society, institutions, organizations, hearts, purposes, objectives, and achievements. It is a power to leaven, to crystallize society, to regenerate hearts, to transform and establish character, to transform and not only reform society. The fundamental fault of many people today is a wrong idea of life. Christianity furnishes, enthrones, and maintains the proper idea, the true principle. and the worthy objective of life. Its aim is to promote good, rather than to repress and suppress evil. It is a positive quantity, dealing with necessities, exigencies, and fundamental desires, kindling holy aspirations, fostering true spirituality and directing in righteousness. There is much that is unchristian in the world to-day, in institutions, in organizations, in nations, in families, and in individuals. These must be supplanted by positive Christian dynamics.

The great and ultimate purpose of Christianity is to evangelize the world, bringing men and nations back to the true God and Savior of mankind. The whole earth is to be filled with its transforming power and regenerative energy. It is a force that remains uncontaminated by the moral and social impurities that prevail among the nations. It is God's evangel sent forth on its mission, inspiring men everywhere with hope and assurance, filling the earth with truth and righteousness even as the waters cover the deep. The nations of earth shall behold the great light and shall hasten to embrace it.—Exchange.

Applying the Commission. BY J. HENRY MONK.

It was our Lord who said: "Go ye therefore and make disciples of all the nations." (Matt. 28: 19.)

But it is one thing to say "go," and quite another thing actually to go. He did not tell them how to go, and neither did he foretell the difficulties they would encounter in going, nor did he suggest any methods whereby they might overcome the problems that were sure to rise once they launched the campaign.

There were four problems, all unforeseen by the apostles, but each of which was worked out with perfect success. They were: (1) a common viewpoint among the apostles, (2) how to preach Christ successfully to the Jews, (3) how to reach and hold the Gentiles, and (4) how to meet those who were to apostatize from pure Christianity—those who were to become the notorious "Judaizers."

THE FIRST PROBLEM.

There was a "race problem" among the disciples of the first century. It was not whether the gospel should be preached to the negroes or not, but whether the good tidings should be carried to the Gentiles as well as to the Jews. Every reader of the Gospels knows that there was little or no intermingling of Jew and Gentile—not, to say the least, on a religious basis. Yet the unmistakable instruction of the Lord was that the gospel was to be carried "into all the world" and unto "every nation." This, to be sure, included the Gentiles.

It requires no little courage to launch out against popular prejudice for the avowed purpose of breaking down whatever there may be in the way of a "middle wall of partition." Yet this is the thing that stared the apostles in the face. The logical man to take the initiative in the new move was the spokesman of the apostles, Simon Peter. But there was no man less qualified for the gigantic task than he. Peter was a natural-born coward. For that reason he was perfectly willing to "tarry at Jerusalem" until he was not only "endued with power," but filled, likewise, with the Holy Ghost.

Peter, therefore, "as he went throughout all parts," "came down also to the saints that dwelt at Lydda" and Joppa. (Acts 9: 32, 36.) Note carefully that he was visiting "the saints." And while at Joppa he fell into that remarkable trance wherein he saw the sheet let down from heaven filled with all manner of four-footed creatures, and wherein he was commanded to "rise, . . . kill and eat." (Acts 10: 13.)

"Now while Peter was much perplexed in himself what the vision which he had seen might mean, behold, the men that were sent by Cornelius, having made finquiry for Simon's house, stood before the gate." (Acts 10: 17.) These men were Gentiles; they came from a Gentile home, the home of Cornelius, of Cesarea, the centurion, "a righteous man and one that feareth God." (Acts 10: 22.) This man, like the Queen of Sheba, like Naaman, like the three Wise Men, like the three Greeks, "would see Jesus," or the God of Israel. The great question with Peter was: "Shall they be permitted to see Jesus?"

Peter went with the three men. He found a crowd of Gentiles awaiting his arrival. He preached unto them. Many believed. He baptized the believers. The Holy Ghost also baptized those who believed. It was out of this experience that Peter learned that "God is no respecter of persons: but in every nation he that feareth him, and worketh righteousness, is acceptable to him." (Acts 10: 34, 35.)

But the apostles at Jerusalem who had not thus been blessed with a personal visitation from heaven could not understand Peter's action in this particular, and the result was that he was called into conference to make explanations. "Peter began, and expounded the matter unto them in order." (Acts 11: 4.) He told them everything just as it had happened unto him; how the Gentiles had received the baptism of the Holy Ghost and their consequent happiness. "If then," he argued, "God gave unto them the like gift as he did also unto us, when we believed on the Lord Jesus Christ, who was I, that I could withstand God?" (Acts 11: 17.) When the other apostles heard this remarkable report, "they held their peace, and glorified God, saying, Then to the Gentiles also hath God granted repentance unto life." (Acts 11: 18.)

Thus they arrived at a common viewpoint relative to the relation that should exist between the gospel and the Gentille world.

But it is one thing to be convinced, down deep in one's own mind, that a certain course is the correct course, and quite another thing to muster sufficient courage to carry out the course against criticism coming from authoritative ones who have not accepted the new conviction. Thus 'when Cephas came to Antioch" on one occasion, Paul "resisted him to the face, because he stood condemned." (Gal, 2: 11.) There were those who had not accepted Peter's vision, and who, therefore, denied the report of the Jerusalem council-" to the Gentiles also God hath granted repentance unto life." Peter had been residing at Antioch, and he had eaten "with the Gentiles," since there was no one to oppose him; but when certain Judaizers came up from Jerusalem and opposed him, "he drew back and separated himself, fearing them that were of the circumcision." (Gal. 2: 12.)

This, then, came to be the one mooted question among the disciples of the first century: whether or not the Gentiles might become Christians without being circumcised. The orthodox Christians affirmed the proposition; the "Judaizers" denied it. Saul of Tarsus went everywhere affirming the proposition—yea, he gave his life that it might be accepted throughout the entire world. The Epistle to the Romans, the Galatian letter, Hebrews, and large portions of his many other masterpieces of gospel literature are devoted to this one truth.

Seventh-Day Adventists of to-day are the lineal descendants of the Judaizers of the first century. They do not contend for circumcision, but they seek to place back on the necks of Christians the "yoke of bondage" (Gal. 5: 1) from which Christ hath set us free (Acts 15: 10).

THE SECOND PROBLEM.

Having arrived at a common viewpoint, therefore, that the Gentile world was entitled to all the blessings of the gospel along with the Jews—and entitled to them without having to keep the law or being circumcised—the apostles were ready to undertake the solution of their second problem: how to preach Christ successfully to the Jews.

The law and the gospel are not the same. "The law was given by Moses, but grace and truth came by Jesus Christ." (John 1: 17.)

The Jew held tenaciously to the law. Even those Jews who became Christians continued to hold on to the law: multitudes of them continued circumcising their children; they continued to keep the feasts, including the Sabbath; they held on to the passover, Pentecost, and the atonement. Many of them continued to offer sacrifices as of old. The Jewish people are a strong-blooded people. On one occasion I asked a Jew who had but recently arrived from the old country whether or not he could ever be convinced that Jesus is the Messiah, and he immediately replied: "You might convince my head, but you could never convince my heart." Old dogs do not readily learn new tricks. For this reason many converted Jews held on to the law with its many ceremonles.

But it was intended that Christians should espouse the cause of the gospel; and the gospel was to supplant the law. There was to be no surrendering of principle in the transition, either. The gospel did supplant the law. This truth had to be taught to the Jews. This required the greatest tact. This work awaited the master hand of Saul of Tarsus.

Paul's First Step. It was at Antioch, in Pisida. He was hundreds of miles from the homeland. In Antioch there was a colony of Jews. There were no Christians when he (and Barnabas) arrived. The Jews had a synagogue. Paul and Barnabas "went into the synagogue on the Sabbath day, and sat down." (Acts 13: 14.)

This introduces a nice little question: Did these missionaries go into this synagogue for the purpose of observing the rites of the law? No one will contend that they did. They had come to Antioch for the purpose of preaching Christ; for the purpose of setting forth the claims of the "ecclesia," the called-out ones. These Christian missionaries went into this synagogue for the purpose of calling the willing ones out of the synagogue and into the church.

This was a "point of contact."

And this was Paul's program wherever he went. At Philippi they found no synagogue. Philippi was a Roman colony in a Grecian province. There were only a few Jews, and these seem to have been women. Their Sabbath meetings were held by the riverside. Paul and Barnabas went out to the riverside and preached unto these women. Lydia was converted and became an active Christian. (Acts 16: 13.)

At Thessalonica there was a "synagogue of the Jews," and Paul, "as his custom was, went in unto them, and for three Sabbath days reasoned with them from the scriptures." (Acts 17: 2.)

Also, at Corinth there was a synagogue of the Jews. And "he reasoned in the synagogue every Sabbath" until, after he had been there for some time, he was forbidden to preach in the synagogue any more. It was then that he lodged with Titus Justus, where, as the record states, he remained "a year and six months." (Acts 18: 7, 11.)

From this it is evident that Paul taught and practiced the proposition that it is not a violation of the principles of the gospel for a Christian to go into a synagogue of the Jews on the Sabbath day and worship with them, when he goes there for the purpose of teaching them a better way.

Paul's Second Step. This was at Derby and Lystra. There he found "a certain disciple" named Timothy. His mother was a Jewess, "but his father was a Greek." (Acts 16: 1.) Paul wished to take Timothy with him. Timothy had never been circumcised. Paul did not believe in circumcision. "Circumcision," he declared wherever he went, "is nothing." (1 Cor. 7: 19.) But the Jews, among whom he was to work, believed heart and soul in circumcision. If he took Timothy without circumcising him, there would be trouble. He would not be allowed to bring the young man into the synagogues, and neither would he be allowed to preach in the synagogues. He could circumcise Timothy and there would be no trouble. There was only one thing to do: "He took and circumcised him because of the Jews that were in those parts." (Acts 16: 3.)

Hence, where Paul could yield, for the time being, in those things that are not matters of conscience or positive precepts of God, he always yielded. But he refused to circumcise Titus, he "being a Greek." (Gal. 2: 1-5.) The apostles did not demand it, the people did not require it; hence there was no necessity of it.

Paul's Third Step. "He had a vow." (Acts 18: 19.) Just why he should have had a vow we do not know. He abode with Aquila and Priscilla "because he was of the same trade." not because they were Christians; for we are told that Aquila, at that time, was "a Jew." (Acts 18: 1.) He and his wife had "lately come from Italy" "because Claudius had commanded all Jews to depart from Rome." Thus Paul would readily live with the Jews, keep vows with the Jews, in order that he might gain the Jews. After persecution against the apostle arose, it seems that Aquila and Priscilla did not hold with him; so he departed thence, and went into the house of a certain man named Titus Justus, one that worshiped God, whose house joined hard to the synagogue." (Acts 18: 7.) But after the persecution was over and Paul had been tried and beaten "before the judgment seat," he took his leave, and Aquila and Priscilla went along with him. (Acts 18: 18.) This indicates that they had been been converted since Paul had gone to live with Titus Justus. It is here, also, that we learn that Paul had a vow.

Paul's Fourth Step. "And when we were come to Jerusalem, the brethren received us gladly. And the day following Paul went with us unto James; and all the elders were present. And when he had saluted them, he rehearsed one by one the things which God had wrought among the Gentiles through his ministry. And they, when they heard it, glorified God; and they said unto him, Thou seest, brother, how many thousands there are among the Jews of them that have believed; and they are all zealous for the law: and they have been informed concerning thee, that thou teachest all the Jews who are among the Gentiles to forsake Moses, telling them not to circumcise their children, neither to walk after the customs. What is it therefore? they will certainly hear that thou art come. Do therefore this that we say to thee: We have four men that have a vow on them; these take, and purify thyself with them, and be at charges for them, that they may shave their heads; and all shall know that there is no truth in the things whereof they have been informed concerning thee; but that thou thyself also walkest orderly, keeping the law. But as touching the Gentiles that have believed, we wrote, giving judgment that they should keep themselves from things sacrificed to idols, and from blood, and from what is strangled, and from fornication," 21: 17-26.)

This is an exceptionally fruitful passage. We should not fall to note the following points:

- 1. Thousands of the Jews had believed.
- 2. The vast majority of these, doubtless, lived in Palestine.
- 3. They were, of course, all very zealous of the law.
- 4. These thousands of Jews had not been taught either by Paul or any of the other apostles to cease circumcising their children or to forsake Moses. (This privilege had been granted them, provided they wished to retain it—and most of them did.)

5. But it had been reported that Paul, on his missionary tours among the Gentiles, had commanded all the Jews who lived in Gentile countries, and therefore "among the Gentiles," to "forsake" Moses and not to circumcise their children. (This, mind you, was a mere report, gossip, concocted and perpetuated by that eternal Judaizing faction who were then no less than to-day unable to distinguish between the privilege of keeping the law as an expedient, if one wishes to do so, and keeping it as a matter of principle; also who were then no less than to-day unable to see that it is not necessary to drag along after a new faith the exhausted forms of a religion that was, in its day, "holy, and righteous, and good," but which has expired because it has served the purpose for which it was given.) Paul had taught nothing of the kind. A Judaizer is always a mongrel when it comes to definitions and distinctions. He would rather misquote than quote, for therein lies his strength-which, incidentally, is his weakness. Paul, had taught that "circumcision is nothing" (1 Cor. 7: 19), and that Moses was preparatory to Christ; that the law was gradually giving way to the gospel, and so on. He had taught the futility of circumcision, and, in all probability, at times, given his advice relative to the wisdom of not continuing it. But he had permitted all the converted Jews to continue circumcising their children; and he had permitted them to continue their services under Moses as before, where they wished to. Paul knew the difference between liberty and law, but his Judaizing enemies did not, and neither were they willing to learn the distinction. They could play on words when the playing would serve their pernicious cause, but they were as blind as bats when blindness was the greater asset; and there is no one so blind as he who will not see.

There are questions that confront us here. How could Paul observe such ceremonies as keeping vows and purifying himself and yet preach against them? To say the least, he did that very thing. He did it for this reason: ceremonies are shadows. The ceremonies that he was observing had been given by Jehovah, and they were "holy. and righteous, and good," though they were out of date. They were parts of a holy religion that had expired by limitation. But the converted Jews were everywhere unable to surrender the forms of their old religion all of a sudden. For this reason they were allowed to retain these things. It doubled their burdens, of course, but it was allowed. The question a Jew asked, therefore, on becoming a Christian, was this: "How much of my old religion may I retain if I accept Christ?" The answer was: "All-for the time being-if you wish to burden yourself with it."

THE THIRD PROBLEM.

But the privileges granted the Jews were not accorded the Gentiles. There is a reason for this: all the forms of the religion of the Jews were innocent in themselves. This was not so relative to the temple services of the Gentiles. Hence, when a Gentile came to accept Christ, he asked: "How much of my old customs will I have to give up?" The answer was: "You will have to surrender those things that are harmful in themselves." A Gentile, even, might retain those forms of his old religion that were not harmful.

The Gentile world had "not the law." (Rom. 2: 14.) Paul said: "To them that are without law" "I became" "as without law, not being without law to God, but under law to Christ, that I might gain them that are without law. . . I am become all things to all men. . . . For though I was free from all men, I brought myself under bondage to all, that I might gain the more." (See 1 Cor. 9: 19-23.)

Out of his labors with the Gentiles grew the famous doctrine of "expediency," found in 1 Cor. 8: 9, 10. Paul, in expounding this doctrine, declares that there is a marked difference between things inherently evil and those things that only appear to be so. Thus to sacrifice to an idol is to be an idolater, this service being an inherent evil. (1 Cor. 10: 20.) But to eat meat that had been sacrificed to an idol is merely to exercise one's Christian liberty, for the act of offering the meat to the idol does not pollute the meat. (1 Cor. 8: 8.) But there is this to be observed; if, through eating meat that has been sacrificed to an idol, our fellow man is led to think that we are doing homage to the idol, we are doing that which is wrong, because we have misled our brother. At such a time we had better not eat.

THE FOURTH PROBLEM.

At an early date there went out from the apostles certain men who contended that circumcision should be retained in the gospel. These men were very "zealous of the law," and, accordingly, contended that the law should retain its force. They accepted Christ as the Messiah, but they held on to Moses just the same.

Paul drew swords with them. It would be too long a task to undertake to give in this connection a history of this prolonged controversy. The entire book of Galatians reads like a brief for a debate—and that is what it is. Galatia had early accepted the gospel; and, at an early date, these Judaizers went into the province and preached

"another gospel," which was not another. (Gal. 1: 7.) They were mere trouble makers. They contended for Abraham, for Moses, for circumcision, for "the book" of the law, and for much of the old religion. They insisted on serving times and days and the annual feasts. (Gal. 4: 10.) Against their contention Paul thundered wherever he went: "Circumcision is nothing." (1 Cor. 7: 19.) He charged that the law is a yoke of bendage from which Christ has set us free. (Gal. 5: 1; Acts 15: 10.) He preached against the shadows and the types; against the new moons, the feast days, and the Sabbaths. (Col. 2: 14-16; Eph. 2: 15.)

The Hebrew letter is another brief for a prolonged controversy on the question of the priesthood. The priesthood has been changed. (Heb. 7: 12.) We are now under the Melchizedek regime, which is the reign of Christ. (Heb. 3: 10.) The old covenant "waxed old" and passed away. (Heb. 8: 13.) The ten words spoken on Sinai are no longer binding: we now live under "words" spoken from Mount Zion. (Heb. 12: 18-28.) We now have a "better hope," a "better resurrection," and "better sacrifices." (Heb. 11.) But in time Paul came to warp against "foolish questionings, and genealogies, and strifes, and fightings about the law; for they are unprofitable and vain." (Tit. 3: 9.)

It was one thing, therefore, as I have said, to give the command, "Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to all the nations," but quite another thing actually to go and preach the gospel to all the nations. There were these four problems that confronted those who sought to carry out this commission in the first century; there have been these same four problems in every century that have faced those who sought to obey the command; the same four problems exist to-day, and they shall forever exist. Still, we are to continue to go into all the world with the gospel, regardless of the problem.

The Manner of Building.

BY H. C. FLEMING.

"In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth." This informs us that there was a beginning, but does not tell us when, because man was not capable of understanding it. It would have been like talking to an animal about its beginning and the time thereof.

It is sufficient for man to know that there was a beginning and that God existed before the creation.

"Every house is builded by some man; but he that built all things is God." (Heb. 3: 4.) We learn from the account of the creation that there were certain periods of the formation of all things, but we are not told how long they were. There was a period between the creation of Adam and the formation of Eye.

The word "day" is often used for an indefinite period of time. We speak of our day, of a man in his day. So also it is used in the Scriptures.

Before there could have been what we call a twenty-fourhour day, the sun and the earth must have been in existence, because it is measured by them.

As "one day is with the Lord as a thousand years, and a thousand years as one day" (2 Pet. 3: 8), we understand that God does not reckon time as we do; therefore the periods of creation may have been a thousand, a million or more years. We know, as a matter of fact, that that is the way in which God does his work, each portion in its time; not that he had not the power to have brought all things into existence in the twinkling of an eye, but that hat was not his manner of building.

This principle applies to the work of man as well as to that of God, with this difference, that man has not the power to form things in an instance,

Paul tells us in 2 Cor. 5: 1 that "if our earthly house of this tabernacle were dissolved, we have a building of God, COOMBS, J. V.

MEACHAM, EDGAR JONES.

a house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens." To enter this building, some preparation of its lively stones is necessary. They must be built together in such a manner as to form the assembly, which is the body of Christservants meet for the Master's use.

It seems a long day since the promise of our Lord's return, but he said: "I go to prepare a place for you." This preparation, for anything we know, may require a much longer day to complete it; but when it is completed, we may look for his return. We must wait with patience for it. We know not the day nor the hour. It may be while some now living on the earth are yet in this life, or it may be a thousand or many more years.

The command is: "Be ye also ready: for in such an hour as ye think not the Son of man cometh," (Matt. 24: 44; see Luke 12: 39, 40.) Therefore, how foolish to speculate about it! All the predictions of it in the past have been failures, so must all those being made now. By such predictions, after their failure, many are hindered from believing anything about it.

Our duty is to obey the commandments (not substitutes for them); to live peaceably with all men, as much as possible; to avoid foolish and ignorant questions; to let love be without dissimulation; to subdue the evil desires of the flesh; to relieve the distressed; to teach the gospel which is the power of God (not theories about it) as it was taught in the primitive days of Christianity; to shun profane and vain babblings; to avoid the appearance of evil; and, as there are many other duties, to search the Scriptures for them and practice them also.

Making and Holding Friends.

Few people are naturally blessed with the happy faculty of making friends easily. With most people it is more or less an acquired art. If you wish to acquire this art, don't be discouraged at the apparent ease with which some of your friends seem to "get on" with everybody. They've only learned a few more of the "tricks of the trade," so to speak, than you have. That's all. The main point is that they have learned them. A person who would have friends must show himself friendly. Just you try it and see if it doesn't act like a charm.

Half the battle is to meet people as if it may be taken for granted that they are glad to see you and that you are glad to see them. Nine cases out of ten, if you are genuinely glad to see them and show it, they will be glad to see you.

Don't always expect the other person to make the advances, if there is no good reason why you shouldn't make them. Sometimes the very persons who seem most "unapproachable" turn out to be quite willing to be friendly if they are approached in the right way. Look for the good in people always, and you will be very sure to find it.

When you feel very melancholy and depressed in spirits, or are tried by heat or cold, or any other bodily pain, lift up your heart to the eternal Will, which has, for your good and happiness, appointed you this discomfort, and has arranged the time and duration of it. Then, rejoicing in the manifestation of the love of God, and for the opportunity of serving him in the way which seemeth to him best, say in your heart: Behold in me the fulfillment of the divine Will, which has from all eternity lovingly ordered that I should undergo this trial. Blessed, ever blessed, be my most gracious Lord.—Lawrence Scupoli.

There are three minimum, definite, comprehensive objectives that American public education should at once set for itself. They are: First, essential elementary knowledge, training and discipline; second, occupational efficiency; third, civic responsibility.—Selected.

"The Christ of the Church"	1.00
DARSIE, GEORGE. "Before the Throne"	.85
DUTT, MEADE E. "Jesus Christ in Human Experience"	1.50
ERRETT, ISAAC. "Evenings with the Bible," three volumes; per volume. "Bible Readings," two volumes; per volume. "The Querists' Drawer".	$\frac{1.00}{1.50}$
FARIS, JOHN T. "How It Was Done in Harmony"	1.00
LORD, J. A. "On the Lord's Day"	1.25
McGarvey, J. W. "Biblical Criticism" "Lands of the Bible" "Jesus and Jonah" "Sermons" "New Commentary on Acts" "Commentary on Matthew and Mark	1.25 1.50
McGarvey-Pendleton. "Commentary on Thessalonians, Corinthians, Galatians, and Romans" "The Fourfold Gospel"	1.65

"Training to Teach" 1.00

Send all orders to the McQuiddy Printing Company, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

In Memory of My Loved Ones.

In the early days of childhood, Radford J. Draper was my little playmate, my little companion; later, schoolmate, classmate, and lover. We grew up together. As the days went by, they grew brighter, our happiness and tender devotion increased with them. At the early age of nineteen and twenty we were happily married, leaving the beautiful homes of our childhood, where every wish of ours had been gratified by our Christian and indulgent parents, to build a home of our own. It was only a little roughboard house by the roadside, but morning-glories bloomed over the door and the birds sang sweetly in the trees, while the sunshine of true devotion and happiness dwelled within our hearts and sweet little home, until one sad day misfortune came, later affliction brought heartaches, anxious and weary watching beside his bed of pain and suffering for many months, when at last the end came, and I must see his sweet young life fade out of sight. Cradled in my arms, he calmly and peacefully fell asleep. Radford had many friends who loved him, though, like many others, he had his faults, but only worse to himself. He was a kind husband in our home. In early manhood he united with the church of Christ at Whitleyville, Tenn. He lived strong in the faith, and in his last days lived close to Jesus, and many times expressed to me the sweet assurance of a home in heaven. He died on April 8, 1888, aged twentynine years.

On January 18, 1891, I was again married to James W. Draper. He was indeed a good man, a true Christian, a kind and devoted husband. In his youthful days he united with the church of Christ at Gainesboro, Tenn. Ever afterwards he lived a consecrated, Christian life until the end. which came on March 29, 1915, at the age of fifty-seven years. The last fifteen years of his life were spent in affliction, almost totally paralyzed. Being his companion and constant nurse through these years of affliction, I never heard him complain or murmur about anything. He bore it all with patience and Christian fortitude, and when asked by his friends how he was feeling, his answer would be: "I am all right; just waiting on the banks of the great river to be set across." So often I have heard him say: "Death is nothing to fear; it is only passing from darkness to light behind the curtain just out of sight." Our home life was congenial and beautiful; and when f turn from the sweet memories of him and look heavenward, methinks I can see the happiest of the happy around God's throne, enjoying the sweets of his heavenly home he loved so much to talk about,

On November 1, 1916, I was happily married again, to J. A. Mortgomery, a noble, Christian man. He came to live with me, and brought sunshine and happiness into my life and darkened little home, and I was hopeful that the dark days of my life were over; but before two years had passed, he, too, was stricken by a fatal disease. September 7, 1919, dawned a beautiful Lord's-day morning. When the usual hour arrived, the church bells in the little town of Gainesboro began to ring and the busy throng passed cheerfully on to their places of worship. In the solemn stillness of that beautiful morning, in a quiet room, by the side of a snowy bed, with aching heart and through blinding tears, I was trying to read the much-loved Scriptures to my suffering and emaciated husband, who only a few months past was, seemingly, a strong, robust man, the picture of health and true vitality. Later on that beautiful morning, when the hour came for the sacred service at the church of Christ and the little band of worshipers assembled around the Lord's table where my hasband for many years had met with them in sweet communion and memory of our dear Savior, he reached forth his feeble hands and clasped mine to his faintly beating heart, while his eyes looked into the distance, warning me that the black ship was coming, with a white-robed angel for its pilot; a beckon came to him, the call was answered; his work on earth was finished, his mission filled, his sufferings over, he was ready and anxious to go. God had sent this white-robed pilot to safely guide him across the dark waters to that sweet haven of eternal rest. All efforts to keep him here were in vain. After a long and useful life—sixty-six years—he must go. My tears and hidden heartaches no one could share. I followed him to the edge of the dark, cold river, and there was left alone, to watch the ship silently and peacefully bear him from me. God is an all-wise and merciful Being. His works are too marvelous for us to understand. He walks daily in his garden, and his choicest flowers he plucks first. We know it is right for our loved ones to go, but cannot see why. His will, not ours, must be done, and his divine wisdom must not be questioned.

While I have been left three times in life alone and lonely, with the black curtain banging over me, I have not been left without hope. I know that beyond the sunset's radiant glow, beyond the river's marge, is the beautiful home of the soul; and if I will live close to Jesus and do his blessed will, some sweet day he will send this same ship and pilot for me, and when it grates upon the shoals of the other shore I will see a shining host of loved ones standing with outstretched arms to welcome me home.

One who loved them all.

Mas. Nettle Graves Draper Montgomery. 1411 Douglas Avenue, East, Nashville, Tenn.

All Differences of a Business Nature Amicably Settled. BY F. W. SMITH.

I am truly glad to be able to publish the following settlement between two of my best friends:

September 23, 1920.—This is to certify that all business transactions between us, J. C. McQuiddy and J. W. Shepherd, have been pleasantly, amicably, and satisfactorily settled; and Brother McQuiddy presents to J. W. Shepherd the plates for "Handbook on Baptism" as a matter of courtesy, which Brother J. W. Shepherd graciously accepts.

J. W. Shepherd.

J. C. McQuiddy.

I do this the more cheerfully from the fact that some have commented unfavorably on the situation. Both of these brethren showed a readiness to treat each other as brethren and Christian gentlemen, which is the only proper way to do.

Book Notices.

Have you read "Sunshine; or, Uncle Minor's Stories?" This is a very attractive book for children as well as for old people. Children read it with much interest. It is profusely illustrated, and contains many interesting incidents and stories. Price, $1.50.

Send us $1.25 for a copy of "Sweeney's Sermons." This is a book of sermons by John S. Sweeney—one of the best books of sermons published. Sweeney carries conviction with the statement of his position. He is noted for brevity, clearness, and force of statement. Every young preacher should have a copy of this book of sermons.

Have you seen a copy of "Adventism and the Bible?" This is one of the very best books for you to buy at the present time. Adventism is a live subject. Adventists are active and are propagating their doctrines. If you want to be thoroughly prepared to meet them and to expose the errors of Adventism, you should send us at once $1.25 for a copy of "Adventism and the Bible."

We have on hand a few copies of "Biographies and Sermons," edited by F. D. Srygley. This is a book of sermons by a number of our best-known preachers. It is well worth a careful perusal. A brief history of the life of each preacher accompanies his sermon. A picture of the preacher also is given with each sketch. Price, $1.50. If you want this book, you should order at once, as we have just a few copies that have been left over through mistake.

Current Thought

The Origin of Hymns.

"The origin of hymns is not romantic," says Dr. Louis F. Benson, "master of hymn lore" and the greatest hymnologist in the country, who has made a life study of the subject, and who during thirty-five years has made a collection of eight thousand volumes of hymns and books concerning church song. In an interview with Isabella Hastie Smith, writing for The Continent (Presbyterian), he told how Charlotte Elliott wrote "Just As I Am" when she was ill and discouraged, "how the darkness of death was creeping over Henry Francis Lyte when he wrote 'Abide with Me,' and how the inspiration for 'America' came from a little book of European tunes." To the writer—

"Dr. Benson explained that many erroneous stories have been told of the origin of familiar hymns. A popular fable is about the writing of 'Jesus, Lover of My Soul.' The story says that Charles Wesley was standing by a window watching a dove and a hawk fighting in the air. As he watched, the dove flew for protection to the open window and ching to the breast of the famous divine. This story has no foundation in fact, Dr. Benson says. His opinion is that hymns are usually written at desks in studies and not at deathbed scenes or at critical moments of any kind.

"There was no external occasion for the writing of 'My Faith Looks Up to Thee,' but Ray Palmer, who wrote the hymn in 1830, according to his own account, felt great emotion and spiritual uplift at the time of the conception of his great poem of faith. That hymns are often written for special occasions is demonstrated by 'O Little Town of Bethlehem,' by Phillips Brooks, and 'From Greenland's Icy Mountains.' Bishop Brooks wrote his hymn for a Christmas festival, and the music was written by a Philadelphian, Lewis H. Redner. A strain of music came to Mr. Redner one night, a few days before the hymn was to be sung. He seemed to hear it sung, he told Dr. Benson, and immediately wrote it down. The missionary hymn was written for a special missionary service at the request of his brother-in-law by Reginald Heber in 1819. Heber was afterwards a bishop. The original manuscript of the hymn sold for forty-two pounds sterling, more than the amount of the entire offering at the missionary service for which it was written.

written.

"Francis Scott Key wrote another hymn besides our national anthem, a fact which is not generally known. The hymn is called "Lord, With Glowing Heart I'd Praise Thee."—Literary Digest.

Christians are due a great debt of gratitude to our best hymn writers. Our hearts have been stirred, our souls have been purified, and our entire beings have been elevated and brought closer to God by singing our best and purest hymns. In the dark hours of life when the clouds threaten to envelop us, how inspiring and uplifting is it to sing "My Faith Looks Up to Thee!" When we are stormtossed and our frail barks are rocked by the raging billows, what a comfort and a joy to sing "Jesus, Lover of My Soul!" Then again, when our hearts grow weary and we become sad in the midst of the troubles and conflicts of life, and when we realize that, struggle as we may, sometimes we err and do that which we hate, how blessed is It to rely upon a merciful Savior for help and forgiveness and sing "Just As I Am!" As men grow in grace and in the knowledge of the truth, they realize more and more their imperfections and weaknesses and that through their own wisdom and strength they cannot go to heaven, and they come to appreciate more and more that Christians in this world shall have tribulations; but, with it all, they find solace and comfort in the promises of Jesus Christ and are greatly strengthened by singing "Abide with Me."

Ohristianity As a Suicide Cure.

Suicide, always popular in Japan as a means of solving difficult personal problems, is more rife than ever after the recent financial crisis in the Land of the Rising Sun, according to the Japanese press. The Osaka Malnichi, one of the Japanese papers which sees peril to the nation in the prevalence of self-slaughter, is forced to acknowledge the excellence of the Christian view of suicide—as contrasted with that of Eastern religions. The Christian theory is that suicide, instead of being merely an apology for fallure, is a crime. That there are so many suicides in Japan is "due to the fact that the Japanese have less attachment to life than foreigners, and to the tradition in feudal times, when Japanese belittled the importance of life." The problem is serious, and "ought to be studied by all who desire to see the moral ideal of the people reconstructed." Referring to the custom of resorting to suicide in order to evade responsibility, this journal says that this "way of thinking of the Japanese is entirely wrong," and argues:

"Death—much more suicide—means evasion of responsibility. Unless the 'apologizing by death' morality, so common in feudal times, is done away with, it is impossible to hope for a healthy development of society and for the real prosperity of the State. The notion that those who commit suicide have the keenest sense of responsibility is wrong. Facts prove that the suicide has the least sense of responsibility. Suicide is an embodiment of ego-ism and irresponsibility.

"One of the strong points of the Christian people is their conviction that suicide is a crime. To kill oneself is as criminal as to kill others. The notion that one is absolved from responsibility by death is an anachronism."—Literary Digest.

If we would help to bring about fewer suicides, we should not only teach people that it is a sin for one to kill himself, but that if a man will do his duty and faithfully serve the Lord he will have no disposition to commit suicide. There is nothing that brings contentment to the human heart as does helping others—as does feeding the hungry, warming the cold, and lifting up the fallen. The man who is conscious of enjoying freedom from sin and who is firm in the conviction that the promises of God are his will not be likely to take his own life.

0 0 0

A Shadow of a Thought.

A few days ago a radiogram, sent from the United States radio station at Bordeaux, went all the way around the world and was heard at its original sending station, as perfect as when it was started on its journey. Here is the message:

"This is the first wireless message to be heard around

"This is the first wireless message to be heard around the world, and marks a milestone on the road of scientific discovery."

Back in 1844, was it not, when Morse had completed his telegraph line between Baltimore and Washington—the first in the world—he asked a certain Anne Wentworth of his acquaintance to give him the first message to be sent, and she gave him these words: "What God hath wrought!"

Think of the difference between the two! The message that Morse sent was all reverence and gratitude and uplift of heart to God as the source of all wonders. The radio message was a cold statement of the accomplishment of a scientific feat. One can but wonder if the two messages show a change of attitude in the world's mind in the scant seventy-five years that have passed between the sending of the two, or if the difference came only from the individual temperaments of the authors of the messages.—Selected.

The depravity of the heart is such that the enjoyment of rich blessings does not always create gratitude. The children of Israel, when they were prosperous under the guiding hand of Jehovah, failed to appreciate their presperity and began to murmur and complain against him. It appears even so now. While people are enjoying the greatest privileges and have been enabled to do more than in any other period of the world, yet it is a lamentable fact that there now appears to be more dissatisfaction, unrest, and discontentment in the world than at any preceding period. When men wax fat and live in ease, they are prone to lose sight of their dependence on God. Enjoying so many blessings, all coming from a merciful Heavenly Father, being enabled to know more and do more than in the past, it does seem that Christians especially should be filled with gratitude and a more humble and contrite spirit than is now manifest.

W

AT HOME AND ABROAD

Change of address: William P. Walker, from Clarksville, Tenn., to Dinuba, Cal.

- G. W. Riggs calls to see us occasionally. He loves the truth, is dependable, and is doing what he can to advance the cause of Jesus Christ.
- A. B. Lipscomb reports four additions to the Russell Street congregation at last Sunday's service. T. Q. Martin will begin their meeting on the fourth Sunday in October.

Brother Boyd, of Tracy City, Tenn., and Mrs. J. G. Northcutt, also of Tracy City, cheered us by calling to see us last week. They reported the church there as moving on fairly well

- A. B. Barret, who is now engaged in a meeting at Murfreesboro, Tenn., made us a pleasant call last Saturday. He reports four confessions up to that time. The meeting is continuing.
- J. E. Thornberry, of Lawrenceburg, Tenn., cheered us by a visit last Saturday. He reports the school there as doing better than ever before and that the church is in fine condition. He preached at Greenwood, Lawrence County, last Lord's day.
- From J. W. Dunn, Sweetwater, Okla., September 23: "We closed the meeting at Taylor's on Tuesday night, with thirty-one baptisms and five restorations, and began here yesterday. I am to begin a mission meeting at Grandfield, Okla., on the first Sunday in October."
- From J. E. Laird, Piggott, Ark., September 22: "I closed a meeting at Rogersville, Mo., last Sunday night, with five additions and a fine interest. This was my second meeting there, and I will, the Lord willing, return another year. I am now in a meeting near Kennett, Mo."

Thornton Crews, of Rogersville, Ala., gives a statement of the summer's work in the evangelistic field. He conducted seven meetings, all in North Alabama, preaching seventy-two times, and baptized thirty-four persons. He also reports twenty-nine restorations and two new congregations set in order.

W. S. Long frequently stops in to see us in going through from one appointment to another. He is working hard to pay for the church building in Washington, D. C. He reports a good meeting at College Grove, Tenn., conducted by R. A. Largen and A. J. Traylor. There were two confessions last Friday night.

From Willis G. Jernigan, Olathe, Col., September 19: "I closed my meeting at Florala, Ala., on August 30. This meeting continued nine days and resulted in eight baptisms. I am now at home and have been working with the congregation here for the past two weeks. I am to begin a meeting at Delta to-night."

M. C. Cayce has closed a good meeting for the Rothchild Avenue congregation, in Nashville. He will resume his mission work at Jackson, Miss., next Sunday. Brother Cayce will devote practically all of his time to this needy field. Send him the names of your friends who might be interested. Address 352 Fortification Street.

From John T. Hinds, Rogers, Ark., September 25: "I closed a sixteen-days' meeting at Konowa, Okla., on September 13, with sixteen baptized. Clede Chappell, of Wewoka, Okla., led the song service. I hope much good was done besides the visible results. Fine reports from the general field. Let us all rejoice and press on."

- S. M. Jones, of Beamsville, Ontario, Canada, is announced to begin a meeting with the Twelfth Avenue Church, this city, on the first Lord's day in October. This is one of the livest, most active, and best-working churches in the city. In their Bible school they have an average attendance of two hundred and sixty-five. It is a pleasure to work with this church.
- J. H. Lawson writes: "My work during the summer was pleasant and profitable, and I am very hopeful for the cause in Houston, as there seems to be both zeal and love among the members of the four congregations in the city. Brethren Smith and Dunn are true yokefellows, and, with a new tent under which to preach throughout the city, we hope to accomplish much."

From Thomas E. Milholland, Denison, Texas, September 20: "After a pleasant summer's work in the field, I am back home again, and still busy. I filled my pulpit at the Armstrong Avenue church of Christ yesterday. At the evening service three came to us from the Southside 'Christian Church.' I shall begin a mission meeting to-night, four miles west of the city."

From J. L. Glover, Corinth, Miss., Route 5, September 23: "I have just closed an eight-days' meeting near Acton, Tenn., with two baptized and very good interest. This is just a schoolhouse in the country, but the people have a desire to know the truth. I would consider a change of locality, if one could be found where I could be of more service to the cause."

From J. C. Mosley, Spencer, Tenn., September 24: "I had a fine meeting at Cummingsville. I baptized two girls in Caney Fork River on Sunday and two more in Calfkiller River on Monday. On Tuesday I came to Spencer and preached here Tuesday night. Three of the Burritt College students were baptized yesterday. I preach at the college in the morning and at the church at night."

Mrs. Maud Wallace writes from Apiln, Ark., September 23: "R. C. Ledbetter, of Oran, Texas, began a meeting at this place on September 4 and closed it on September 19. Twelve were baptized and two were restored. This was Brother Ledbetter's fifth annual meeting here. While in this meeting he was called to Nimrod one day, where he preached one sermon and baptized four persons."

J. W. Grant preached to good-sized and attentive audiences at Flet Rock on Lord's day and at night. The brethren there have been making strenuous efforts for the last three weeks to put the finishing touches on their nice, new house, and it is now about completed, except some work in the basement and putting in the furnace. They hope to have it all completed in time for the first cold weather.

From L. R. Wilson, Tupelo, Ark., September 23: "I closed a good meeting yesterday at Pangburn, with sixteen baptisms. I promised to return next year for a meeting. The brethren there have their own house and are striving for the truth, and it will prevail if they keep the work going. I go next to Bethesda for a meeting, after which I will go back to Henderson, Tenn., to the Freed-Hardeman College, for the coming term in school."

R. C. White writes from Finney, Ky.: "The meeting at Hickory Grove, Ky., closed on September 14, with nine bap tized, one from the Baptists, one restored. We had good audiences and unusual interest. I am now in a meeting at this place, with the best of interest and attendance, but no additions yet. I shall be here the most of next week. I shall begin a meeting at Gamaliel on the first Lord's day in October, and one at Dry Fork on the third Lord's day."

From N. W. Proffitt, Route 4, Lafayette, Tenn., September 22: "We closed the meeting at Sixth Avenue and Buchanan Street, Nashville, on the third Sunday night in this month, with a crowded house. One young man was restored to fellowship and the little congregation was set in order by selecting an elder and a deacon. I hope that Sixth Avenue is on a solid footing now. They covenanted to have prayer meeting once a week. I trust to hear good things from them. I am now in a good-meeting at White Oak."

From Leland H. Knight, Fort Smith, Ark., September 20: "The Park Hill church of Christ continues to grow in numbers. At the morning service yesterday another young man came from the path of waywardness. Next Lord's day will complete my work that I began here the first Sunday in July, after which I shall return to Henderson, Tenn., to enter the Freed-Hardeman College for a second term. The work here has been very interesting, and truly the proclamation of our Lord's gospel is the greatest calling of earth."

W. S. Long preached at Franklin, Tenn., Thursday, September 23. The Franklin church will give hearty cooperation toward the new building at Washington. He preached at Mars' Hill, Ala., Brother Larimore's old home, last Sunday, and at Tuscumbia at night. He preached at Corinth, Miss., Monday night. He will preach at Yorkville, Tenn., on Cetober 1 and at Cottage Grove on October 3. He will return to Washington on October 15. Those desiring to reach him by correspondence may address Box 1422, Washington, D. C.

From Thomas H. Burton, Union, S. C., September 23; "One baptism and work begun on our lot is about the best news I have for this week. We have three thousand three hundred and thirts two dollars and three cents on hand for our building, which is about half enough to complete the house we have planned. We certainly appreciate what the brotherhood has done and is still doing in helping in this work of establishing the cause permanently in this State. Brother, have you done your part? Send all communications to the writer."

From W. L. Oliphant, Muskogee, Okla., September 21: "My twelve-days' meeting with the Vinita Avenue Church, at Sulphur, closed last night. It was a great meeting. Twenty-nine were baptized, four were restored, and eleven placed their membership with the congregation. We were unable to seat the audiences any time during the meeting. The brethren engaged me for a meeting next year. Brethren Chafin, Riffe, and Womack are elders of the congregation. They worked with me nobly during the meeting. I am now on my way to Finley, Okla."

We enjoyed a visit from Elder H. L. Walling and wife, of McMinnville, Tenn., last Friday. Brother Walling will soon be eighty-eight years old, and is well preserved for one of such an advanced age. It was indeed a pleasure to have him call and encourage us in the work that we are doing. May the Lord spare him many years yet to continue the efficient work that he has always done in the Master's vineyard. It makes my heart grow sad to see so many of the old preachers passing to the other side. Let us pray that the Lord will raise up others to take their places.

From T. M. Carney, San Angelo, Texas, September 20: "I have just closed a meeting out at Wall. This is a 'wide place in the road,' eleven miles southeast of San Angelo, with one store, one school building, two residences, a cotton gin, one church building, and a tabernacle. The meeting was held under the tabernacle. A good hearing was had, and one was added by primary obedience. The church in San Angelo Is in splendid working order. Two took membership yesterday. All departments of the work are showing an increase in interest, and all seem to be happy and at peace among themselves."

From Charles L. Talley, Cookeville, Tenn., September 22: "During the past week there have been fifteen additions to the Cookeville congregation—twelve baptisms. This may in some way reflect credit on the Ham-Ramsey meeting, the big union revival held by Methodists, Baptists, and two kinds of Presbyterians. However, no credit was given when they came to obey Christ. Just baptized them on a confession of their faith, as though they had not been interested before. This meeting was attended by thousands, and since its close personal work is getting results. We do not think the end is in sight yet."

From E. Gaston Collins, Algood, Tenn., September 24: "On August 27 we closed a nine-days' meeting with the little band at Center Ridge, four miles from Delirose. I preached to the church mainly, because of some trouble among the brethren. It was the second meeting I have held for them. No additions. On August 29 I began singing in the meeting at Fayetteville, Tenn., with G. Dallas Smith. I stayed till September 11, on which date I had to leave. I began a meeting the next day with the Smyrna Church, four miles from Cookeville. We closed there on September 19, with one baptized. I will preach for this congregation monthly during the winter. On October 3 we plan to begin a mission meeting at Netherlands, five miles from here, the Lord willing."

From Mrs. S. W. Bell, 1824 South Barrett Avenue, Sedalia, Mo., September 24: "At last we have a tent erected in Sedalia, and E. P. Watson is conducting the services. He is a fine preacher of the pure gospel. Sedalia is a very needy field. Our church house is located in a poor settlement. In order to reach a different class of people, it was necessary to pitch a tent, which we have succeeded in doing, after trying for three or four years. This tent now has no side curtains, and it will cost us ten dollars a week to rent them here. We have not enough seats, so may have to rent chairs, besides supporting Brother Watson. Brethren and sisters, you have no idea what a needy field this is. Send us a contribution to aid in this work; and 'what thou doest, do quickly,' for Brother Watson will be leaving us soon. May God's richest blessings be upon you. Pray for us."

From E. L. Mills, Washington, D. C., September 6: "During the months of July and August circular letters were sent to the churches announcing that a house of worship had been purchased in this city and requesting that a donation be sant in August or September to meet the deferred payments. The cash payment on this property was made possible by the donations which had been received during the past two years from individuals and churches in the various States of the Union. Arrangements are made whereby payments may be made on the notes given before coming due, thereby stopping interest. Brother, if you have contributed once to the work here and are not in position to do so again, will you not ask some individual or church who has not contributed to help? Since sending out these letters we have received donations amounting to $709.02.

A number of brethren have said to me that the positionof D. Austen Sommer in opposing teaching the Bible in schools or anywhere else is so absurd that it should not be noticed in the columns of the Gospel Advocate. They seem to think that the exposition of such an absurdity is en-On the other hand, brethren in the West tirely needless. and in the Middle West are persistent in asking that this heresy be exposed. It appears that churches are being divided and that churches are being taken from the conservative brethren and given to the faction controlled by Sommer, E. M. Borden, in alluding to the work of Daniel Sommer and others, says: "It seems that we are having a greater fight in this country than any country You cannot appreciate the condition unless you could be on the ground; but we are doing the best we can to hold the truth before the people, and I think our efforts are bearing some fruit. . . . I am glad that you have entered the fight." I want to assure our readers that I am not exposing this heresy because I delight to engage in discussion, but because I think it should be done for the protection of the churches that are suffering.

William P. Walker writes: "Some one may ask why I am leaving the East and traveling toward the West, or why I am resigning the work at Clarksville and accepting the work at Dinuba, Cal. I desire to state that it is not because of any disagreement or dissatisfaction on my part or on the part of the churches of this county, nor is it prompted by pecuniary motives. I have labored with these brethren for two years. We have cooperated one with the other to make the work successful. Our labors have been pleasant and profitable. We have learned to love and highly esteem each other. I have been well sustained and supported, and whoever accepts this work will be cared for in like manner. We are leaving the East and travel-ing toward the West, first, that we may answer the Mace-'Come over and help us.' donian cry, harvest is plenteous, but the laborers are few in number. Brother Riggs, of Los Angeles, informs me that there are only twelve preachers in the State of California representing the cause of primitive Christianity. Secondly, that we may find a more healthful climate for Sister Walker's health. Indeed, we regret to leave this work and these nable people of God; but what we lose here we expect to gain in California. There we will pitch our tent and cast our lot, that we may press the battle in Jesus' name."

This is a simple reminder that the first Lord's day in October is the day for a special contribution to the Tennessee Orphans' Home, Columbia, Tenn. It has become necessary to build a laundry to take care of the laundry of the children, and also to erect a fire escape. It is the intention of the directors to get this work done for the least possible amount to have it done well. I think there is not a more efficient board of directors connected with such an institution than is the board looking after the interests of the Tennessee Orphans' Home. As funds are very low just at this time and as these improvements must be made, it is certainly hoped that the next contribution will be a liberal Certainly all Christian people will want to have fellowship in this work. Every time one feeds, clothes, and educates an orphan, that one is thereby taking care of the needs of his own soul and bringing himself nearer heaven. Not only is the board of directors efficient, but we have a number of sisters acting as an advisory committee who are equally efficient and who are making some very wise suggestions as to improvements. Of course the board will be glad to take care of these, and will do so, as funds are provided. I would not fall also to say a word for Mrs. Granville Lipscomb, who has been the efficient matron of this Home for some time. I was talking to a fine woman here in Nashville who is looking after and helping to care for helpless children. She knew of the Tennessee Orphans Home, had visited it a number of times, and of Mrs. Lipscomb she said: "She makes the Home very homelike, and is admirably fitted for the work of looking after and caring for the children and the needs of the Home." With the institution properly managed and its interests thus carefully guarded, it seems that no one interested in Christian work should hesitate for one moment to make a contribution that may be used in increasing the efficiency and usefulness of the Tennessee Orphans' Home. Send all contributions to John W. Fry, treasurer, Columbia. Tenn. Contributions may be forwarded by check, post-office money order, or express money order.

Conducted for a half century by D. Lipscomb and E. G. Sewell.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

$2.50 a year, in advance; to Canada and foreign countries, $3.00, in

$2.50 a year, in advance; to Canada and foreign countries, $3.60, in advance.

Hemittances will be at our risk when sent by express or post-office money order, in registered letter, or by draft payable to our order.

The date on your tab shows the time to which your subscription is paid. When money is received, the date will be changed, which will snswer for a receipt. Two weeks time must ordinarily occur from the time your remittance is sent before the tab on your paper is changed; if not changed by that time, notify us at once.

This paper is malled regularly to all subscribers until definite or ders in writing are received and all arrearages paid in full. If you wish us to stop your paper, write us to that effect; but do not ask it unless you have paid all arrears; if there are any. Do not ask your postmaster to attend to it for you, but do it yourself.

When changing your post-office address, tell us your old as well as your new address; otherwise two papers might be charged to you. Subscribers, after paying for their papers, will favor us by noting whether the date on the address label is changed, and, if it is not changed within a month, by writing to us. We are careful, but mistakes may occur or letters may be lest. Our rule is to change the date on the day payment is received; but the mechanical work of correcting and printing the list takes time, and payments even from near-by places may not appear the first week. Credits for payments from a distance may be even more delayed. Mistakes are easily rectified if prompt notice is given.

All communications should be addressed to Gospel Advocate, 317-315 Fifth Avanue, North, Naskville, Teas.

Entered at post office at Nashville, Tenn., as second-class matter. Published weekly at Nashville, Tenn.

The Action of Baptism.

BY J. C. M'O.

It is my purpose to quote without comment some scriptures which show the action of baptism. It is confidently believed that any one who is free from bias or prejudice can read the New Testament and learn just what Christ and the people in New Testament times did when they were baptized. Read the following scriptures: "Then went out unto him Jerusalem, and all Judea, and all the region round about the Jordan; and they were baptized of him in the river Jordan, confessing their sins." (Matt. 3: 5, 6.) "Then cometh Jesus from Galilee to the Jordan unto John, to be baptized of him. But John would have hindered him, saying, I have need to be baptized of thee, and comest thou to me? But Jesus answering said unto him, Suffer It now: for thus it becometh us to fulfill all righteousness. Then he suffereth him. And Jesus, when he was baptized. went up straightway from the water: and lo, the heavens were opened unto him, and he saw the Spirit of God descending as a dove, and coming upon him; and lo, a voice out of the heavens, saying, This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased." (Matt. 3; 13-17.) "The voice of one crying in the wilderness, Make ye ready the way of the Lord, make his paths straight; John came, who baptized in the wilderness and preached the baptism of repentance unto remission of sins. And there went out unto him all the country of Judea, and all they of Jerusalem; and they were baptized of him in the river Jordan, confessing their sins." (Mark 1: 3-5.) "And it came to pass in those days, that Jesus came from Nazareth of Galilee, and was baptized of John in the Jordan. And straightway coming up out of the water, he saw the heavens rent asunder, and the Spirit as a dove descending upon him: and a voice came out of the heavens. Thou art my beloved Son, in thee I am well pleased." (Mark 1: 9-11.) "Jesus" answered and said unto him, Verily, verily, I say unto thee, Except one be born anew, he cannot see the kingdom of God. Nicodemus saith unto him, How can a man be born when he is old? can he enter a second time into his mother's womb, and be born? Jesus answered, Verily, verily, I say unto thee, Except one be born of water and the Spirit, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God." (John 3: 3-5.) "And John also was baptizing in Ænon near to Salim, because there was much water there; and they came and were baptized." - (John 3: 23.) "And as they went on the way, they came unto a certain water; and the cunuch saith, Beheld, here is water: what doth hinder me to be baptized? And he commanded the chariot to stand still: and they both went down into the water, both Philip and the eunuch: and he baptized him. And when they came up out of the water, the Spirit of the Lord caught away Philip: and the eunuch saw him no more, for he went on his way rejoicing." (Acts 8: 36-39.) "And brought them out and said, Sirs, what must I do to be saved? And they said, Believe on the Lord Jesus, and thou shalt be saved, thou and thy house. And they spake the word of the Lord unto him, with all that were in his house. And he took them the same hour of the night, and washed their stripes; and was baptized, he and all his, immediately. And he brought them up into his bouse, and set food before them, and rejoiced greatly, with all his house, having believed in God." (Acts 16: 30-34.) "And now why tarriest thou? arise, and be baptized, and wash away thy sins, calling on his name." (Acts 22; 16.) "Or are ye ignorant that all we who were baptized into Christ Jesus were baptized into his death? We were buried therefore with him through baptism into death; that like as Christ was raised from the dead through the glory of the Father, so we also might walk in newness of life. For if we have become united with him in the likeness of his death, we shall be also in the likeness of his resurrection." (Rom. 6: 3-5.) "But thanks be to God, that, whereas ye were servants of sin, ye became obedient from the heart to that form of teaching whereunto ye were delivered; and being made free from sin, ye became servants of righteousness." (Rom. 6: 17, 18.) "Having been buried with him in haptism, wherein ye were also raised with him through faith in the working of God, who raised him from the dead." (Col. 2: 12.) "If then ye were raised together with Christ, seek the things that are above, where Christ is, seated on the right hand of God." (Col. 3: 1.) "But when the kindness of God our Savior, and his leve toward man, appeared, not by works done in righteousness, which we did ourselves, but according to his mercy he saved us, through the washing of regeneration and renewing of the Holy Spirit." (Tit. 3: 4, 5.)

I hold that the man who is simply guided by these scriptures will make no mistake as to what is baptism. Let a man go unto the water, where there is much water. go down into the water, be born of water, be buried in baptism and come up out of the water, and then he will have no doubt as to the action of baptism or what is Bible Things by Bible Names-Different Designations of the Church Further Considered.

BY M. C. K.

The facts presented in previous articles warrant the conclusion that, in the present divided state of the church, precisely as if there were no divisions, the only correct use of the term, when applied to the Christians or children of God in a given community, even though they be separated into different denominational divisions, is to make it include them all, regardless of the errors in which some of them are entangled, and not merely to include those who are simply Christians belonging to no denomination at all. Every passage in the New Testament that speaks on the subject may be invoked in support of this statement. With a good concordance in hand, the intelligent reader, who may so desire, can soon verify the statement by a careful examination of every such passage.

We come now directly to consider how we should designate a particular congregation or church which belongs to no denomination. It has already been shown in this investigation that it is not only proper to speak of it as a church of Christ or a church of God, but that, when thus applying the term to those worshiping at a given place in the community, it is also proper to speak of it as the church of Christ or the church of God at that particular place, for that is exactly what it is, no more and no less; but if it be asked whether it is proper to always refer to it, in public announcements and otherwise, as "the church of Christ" to the exclusion of all other inspired designations for the same purpose, then it is sufficient to ask in reply, what right has man, where God authorizes a variety of designations for his church and calls it by them all, to select one of them and reject all the others? In other words, with a definite expression of God's will by inspired men that a variety of designations be used, how can man with propriety reject all of them but one and use it all the time to the exclusion of all the rest? The wrong here is not in using some one of the divinely authorized designations of the church, for this is entirely proper at any and all times, but it is in rejecting all the rest from usage. Such a course is a distinct departure from Biblical usage, a clear refusal to speak as the Bible speaks, and of course something somewhere and in some way must be wrong.

And yet this is rapidly becoming a fixed habit in some places. The name or designation, "the church of Christ," is coming to be used, in some sections of the country, to the exclusion of every other New Testament designation of the church. Why is this? There is but one correct answer-namely, because, either consciously or unconsciously, no doubt the latter, those committed to such usage have in mind, and are attempting to express by the term used, an idea which is utterly contrary to New Testament usage. That idea is that, because certain Christians in a community are not entangled in error as are others in the same community, it is proper to call the former, to the exclusion of the latter, "the church of Christ" in that community, whereas in the New Testament any designation of the church at any time and anywhere, without exception, includes all the Christians in the territory to which it is applied, even though some of them be involved in error. Those committed to this erroneous idea give expression to it by speaking of "the Baptist Church," "the Methodist Church," "the Christian Church," and "the church of Christ" in a given community. This is a purely sectarian use of the term "church of Christ," for the simple reason that all who are Christians in the other so-called churches of the community are also, in the New Testament sense, in the church of Christ.

To make this error stand out more clearly, let us carefully note the fact that, in New Testament usage, the church in a particular locality is either simply called "the church "-this is quite frequent-without any further differentiating title, or, when the latter is resorted to, it is variously called "the church of God," "the church of the Lord," "the church of the first-born," "the church of the Hving God," "the house of God," "the saints," "the elect," "the faithful in Christ Jesus," "the people of God," and by numerous other designations, including, when referring to a plurality of them, the designation, "the churches of Christ." Hence, what right has man to select and adopt one of these designations to the exclusion of all the rest? Surely the thoughtful reader can see that if those who, without variation, call a church worshiping at a given place "the church of Christ," cannot convey their idea by using any New Testament designation of the church, such as "the church of God," "the church of the first-born," or any other New Testament designation, then the idea they are attempting to convey is not the New Testament idea. Of course, if it were, they could express it in New Testament language. An idea which cannot be expressed in New Testament language is certainly not a New Testament idea. If anybody should deny this, it would probably be interesting to listen to the reason for such denial.

The church worshiping on Campbell Street, Louisville, Ky., taking advantage of the advertising space offered in some of the city papers for the announcement of religious services, heads its announcement as follows: "Campbell Street Church, Campbell between Main and Market Streets." Some one asked how a stranger, who did not otherwise know, could know from the announcement what kind of a church it is. The question was returned: "How would you put the announcement in order to identify the church as a New Testament church?" The answer came: "Call it 'the church of Christ.'" "But why not 'the church of God,' which occurs many times in the New Testament, or 'the church of the first-born,' or 'the church of the Lord,' or some other New Testament designation?" But neither "church of God" nor any other New Testament designation would be proper, in the estimation of this inquirer, who insisted that it be called "church of Christ;" and thus the erroneous idea was completely exposed, for, of course, if the church worshiping on Campbell Street, or any other church, is really a New Testament church, it can be designated by any term used by the New Testament Itself for that purpose.

Moreover, in the light of present-day denominational parlance, to call a church "the church of Christ" without any further differentiating title would be liable to identify it, in thought, with either one of at least two sects. The restoration movement inaugurated by the Campbells and sometimes called "the Christian Church" is also sometimes called "the church of Christ," and especially a local congregation among them is often so called; but no matter what it he called, with some of its practices some churches do not wish to be identified. Then, other churches, in the same movement, which reject instrumental music and the societies, are sometimes called "the church of Christ." In fact, it is becoming quite common now, in some localities, to speak of those churches in this movement which use instrumental music and the societies as "the Christian Church," and those which do not use them as "the church of Christ;" but the term "church of Christ," as thus used in both cases, is purely sectarian, because in neither case does it include all Christians or children of God in the territory to which it is applied. Then, to call a church "the church of God," in the present denominational environment, would be liable to identify it, in thought, with another well-known seet, which, though quite contrary to the New Testament in some of its practices, nevertheless calls itself "the church of God." Hence, while the designation, "Campbell Street Church," does not fully describe and identify the church worshiping there, it is, at least, not misleading, and does not call for any more circumlocution for the purpose of its further identification than, would any other single designation that might be employed The fact is, in the denominational environment of to-day. with its greatly confused and misleading parlance, it ka impracticable to describe and differentiate a New Testament church without a circumlecution.

Another article will close this series.

He who feels contempt
For any living thing hath faculties
That he has never used,
And thought with him
Is in its infancy.—Phillips Brooks.

"Evangelistic Authority" Responsible for Division of Churches,

BY J. C. M'Q.

As has already been shown, L. D. Perkins did not represent "evangelistic assumption or authority" as being as bad as it really appears to be. He made no affirmation whatever concerning elders of churches in Arizona.

The Apostolic Review complains that the Gospel Advocate has jumped on it, when the facts are that the Apostolic Review jumped on the Advocate, charging its editor with being a "new digressive" and representing a new people. D. Austen Sommer had much to say about the work in Denver, and criticized the editor of the Advocate for not kicking John D. Evans out of the work that he had labored for eleven long years to build up. John Evans went to Denver some twelve years ago an invalid, broken down in health, and spent much time in a sanitarium for the regaining of his health. So soon as he was able to get out at all, he began to work to build up the church of Christ in that thriving Western city. He labored constantly and with much earnestness to accomplish this end. He gave of his own means and time freely in order to advance the cause of Christ, and had far more to do with building up the church to its present condition than any other one man or dozen men. When it was deemed advisable to select elders and deacons in order to the better advancement of the work and to prevent the "evangelistic assumption" of the Apostolic Review from destroying the work that had been done, the church overwhelmingly decided that Brother Evans was the man to be placed in the position of teaching elder of the church, as he was the man preëminently fitted for the work. No other in the church was able to take this position. In order to give the reader a clear idea of the meaning of "evangelistic assumption," I quote Daniel Sommer as quoted by Brother Otey: "Evangelists are executive officers within the bounds of their jurisdiction." He also says: "Besides, evangelists are the only divinely authorized disciplinarians of elders when charges or accusations are brought against them." (Pages 3, 4, "Evangelistic Jurisdiction," by Otey.) While D. Austen Sommer has ridiculed the idea of a bachelor elder and of the church simply giving expression as to who the church wants as elder instead of accepting the arbitrary selection of one man, yet, after repeated efforts to get him to publish my article, in which scriptural warrant is shown for what was done in Denver, he has declined to allow his readers to see it, though I have published all he had published on the subject, with the understanding that he would also publish my replies. Still, D. Austen Sommer has the audacity to talk about, "I do not like the exposé he gave of my work in Denver." If this is true, why is he unwilling to let his readers see his exposé along with what I have said, thus allowing his readers to draw their own conclusion? Why does he still decline to publish my last reply on the Denver matter after repeated efforts to persuade him not to violate the understanding? He also charges that the Gospel Advocate sent F. B. Srygley to Winchester, Ky., to settle "the church fuss" there. The Gospel Advocate dld no such thing, nor has it ever had anything to do with exercising "evangelistic assumption" over the churches with or without elders. As to the Winchester affair, Brother Srygley has this to say for himself:

I went to Winchester, Ky., in June, 1918, at the solicitation of the church there. I was not sent by the Gospel Advocate nor any one connected with it. I was there only to advise, and not to arbitrate. I was careful to state while there that I had no authority to act in any other capacity. Any statement to the contrary is untrue. F. B. SRYGLEY.

The first I ever heard of one's seeking to exercise "evangelistic authority" was when Daniel Sommer came to Huntsville, Ala., many years ago, to settle a "church fuss," broke into the church house over a court injunction, was arrested and brought into the courts, and over the courts tried to exercise "evangelistic authority." The "anthority" was a failure in this case, however. From a pamphlet put out by the elders, entitled "The Working of Evangelistic Assumption in California," I learn that "the faction" in sympathy with the Apostolic Review attempted to take over the house of worship at Riverside, Cal.; but when they found it locked against them, they did not break in, as did Danlel Sommer at Huntsville, Ala, I am glad to see that they had learned from his experience that it was not wise to break open church houses and be brought into the courts. The Apostolic Review was represented at Riverside by Brother Reedy and Brother Edwards. Brother E. M. Borden, who is now at Riverside, writes as follows concerning the work done by Brethren Edwards and Reedy at that place and relative to the workings of "evangelistic assumption" in other places:

Knowing the workings of the disciples of Brother Daniel Sommer on the Pacific Coast and other places, I can state emphatically that they are trying to carry out the doctrine that bears the stamp of "evangelistic assumption." ing that Brethren Reedy, Harper, and D. A. Sommer were called and had an active part in withdrawing from Brother who was one of their right-hand workers in dividing churches, I made mention of the work in withdrawing from Brother Edwards, and asked if the elders could not have done the work? They were glad that they could say there were no elders there. Do they mean to say that they would not have acted as they did if there had been elders there? But I want to ask if there were elders at Riverside when Edwards and Reedy came anv and divided the congregation? [There were elders at Riverside when the divisive work was done.—En.] I also want to ask if there were any elders at Wenatchee, Wash., when Brethren Reedy, Roady, and several others tried to put Brother S. O. Pool out of the congregation? They have They have been very careful not to make mention of this in the Apostolic Review, as they failed to accomplish their pur-There are a number of other places I could mention. was perfectly willing to correct my misunderstanding of the Arizona affair, but the Apostolic Review editors have not been willing to publish my position on the college

I want to state just here that when Brethren Edwards and Reedy came to Riverside there was no attempt made by them to settle the trouble, but to divide the church over the doctrines of "evangelistic authority" and the "religio secular colleges." Their work is that of force. To my personal knowledge, they have withdrawn from three or four members because they worshiped with a congregation that was not a Daniel Sommer congregation. This makes the matter a test of fellowship, and they are responsible for the divisions, for the other brethren do not make these things a test of fellowship. I can say more when it is necessary.

E. M. Borden,

I not only learn from Brother Borden, but from Brother Floyd M. Edwards himself, that he has been withdrawn from by the Review people and sympathizers and grossly wronged. He certainly is a competent witness on the subject of "evangelistic authority." So far as his position concerning the doctrine and practice of the church is concerned, and so far as the use of Bible-school literature is concerned. I am glad to inform him that we are in perfect accord. While I have been teaching a Bible class in the Russell Street church of Christ for many years, when I come to the class I use only the Bible. I study the helps, commentaries, and use concordances and any other helps that I can get in preparation of the lesson. I encourage other people to do likewise. Read carefully Brother Edwards' letter:

THE APOSTOLIC REVIEW REFUSES TO CORRECT ITS FALSE STATEMENTS.

Editor Gospel Advocate, Nashville, Tenn.—Brother: I see in the Apostolic Review of August 24, 1920, a tirade against the Advocate, and having been a reader of the Review since childhood and a writer for nearly fourteen years (furnishing a manuscript occasionally), and loving it with a fervent love, almost to the degree of thinking it could do no wrong, and accepting as true any publication of a brother whom they claimed went wrong until I received a slap in the face because I could not take a hint that I must be controlled by its editors or be slandered through its columns or by a tract scattered broadcast among the churches, I am in a position now to see clearly the hypocritical claims of that journal. I expect further misrepresentation on account of this if it appears in the columns of the Advocate, but that will not move me.

First, let me state my position clearly. I believe in the New Testament church in name, doctrine, and practice, whether it be in worship or work or discipline. I am opposed to the use of the Sunday-school literature taking the place of the Bible in the church, also the Bible college to do the work of the church in educating men for the min-

Secondly, in Sommer's letter to you, he goes after Brother Perkins for what he said concerning Reedy and Harper excluding members where there were elders in Arizona. Perhaps it is true that Brother Perkins was mistaken in this particular case. [Brother Perkins did not say there were elders at Glendale, Arizona.—En.] But Sommer is not too good to inderse a man that would do that. The church at Chillicothe excluded a preacher for leading a faction from the church there after they had made hard efforts to talk him out of it. The Review published a falsehood concerning the writer and refused to correct it. when this same factional preacher had gone to Hebron, near Higbee, Mo., and spread his false stories there, by invitation I went and gave them the facts in the case, but did not preach there then nor since then. The elder of the church afterwards wrote Acree, who had been excluded at Chillicothe, requesting him in a kind manner to refrain from coming to Hebron till things were in a more harmonious condition in Chillicothe. This man Acree then gets another one, and they two go to Hebron and work privately among the membership and bring charges against this godly elder who worked so hard for the peace of Hebron. They demand of this elder to apologize to this disfellowshiped preacher for requesting him to stay away from Hebron. The night was set for the trial of the elder. and on that night T and two other preachers were pres-Ballenger requested this elder to resign; and when he refused and had the meeting started with the expectation of facing the charges, the evangelist and his chickens which he had clucked up in the few days that they were which he had clucked up in the lew days that they there flew the coop without even reading the charges they had brought against that elder. They now meet in the afternoon in the meetinghouse, for this tender-hearted elder refused to deny them that privilege. And the Review indorses this man who was disfellowshiped in Chillicothe and his faction which he developed at both Chillicothe and Hebron, dishonoring the New Testament teaching regard-ing the eldership, and upholds those men who were too cowardly to try the man whom they had charged and called a meeting to try. This is far worse than Brother Perkins accused them of. Now let them open the columns of the Review for the truth to be known, and I will prove that the worst has not yet been told of the crookedness of the Review.

"Common sense and common honesty teach one that when a journal permits false statements to be made in its columns about anybody, . . . It should permit a correction of such in its own columns," (Sommer, in the Review, August 24, 1920.) The Review has permitted false statements to be published against the writer and has re fused to correct those statements in its columns.

Listen to the following from Ketcherside in the Apostolic Review of August 24: "There seems to be a new spirit of digressionism working in some of the congregations of the church of Christ, the past few months, as it seems that some loyal congregations refuse to accept the decision of other loval congregations, on matters of discipline, unless they themselves can make a personal investigation to see if unruly characters who were convicted, and refused to repent, and were withdrawn from, were actually guilty of what they were charged with." Scott, of Jamesport, recently expressed himself as being highly displeased with churches that refused to turn a man down after the Review had published him. Ketcherside calls it "digressionism" for churches to investigate before they will turn a man down. I never knew before that this was digressionism, but I guess it is-diaressing from the plan of the Review: for, according to the statement that appeared in the Review of June 1, 1920, it has been the plan of the Review to shut off investigation. Where this is done, brethren, you may know there is a "niever in the woodpile." Following is the statement from Sommer:

" SPECIAL NOTICE,

"Many years ago a considerate brother wrote to me after this manner: Brother Sommer, I was sorry to see your statement in the Review concerning——; but I knew you must have had good reasons for it or you would not have

"I could wish with all my heart that all others of our readers would be equally considerate with that brother. My reason for thus writing is this: When the Review has been used to publish the good deeds of a preacher for five, ten, fifteen, twenty years, or perhaps a longer period, certainly its managers feel great reluctance in publishing any evil concerning him. And before so doing we need to be forced to do so by facts that we cannot justly question. Yet certain brethren seem to be so inconsiderate as to imagine that the Review managers are controlled by some personal feeling, or inexcusable ignorance, and for that reason they have been guilty of making the objectionable publication. They do not know that such a publication is to us like the bitterness of wormwood and gall, espe-cially when made about one that has long been upheld in the Review's columns. And those of our readers that try to extort from us some private statement that they or the one that is published may use against us by some technical reasoning-such readers add to our bitterness and do themseives much harm. As a rule, I have had a private correspondence with the preacher that we need to expose in the Review, and have gone to the limit of Scripture and reason to save him. But when he shows himself deaf to both reason and revelation, then-and then only-do the managers of this paper consent to publish him.—Daniel Sommer.

Though all men should go wrong, Sommer never will! And there is a threat given to the one who is honest enough with both parties to inquire as to the charge laid against him.

The charge made against the Southern brethren of having a pope rebounds against the Review. I have failed to find a statement among them that sounds as much like the words of the pope in the Dark Ages as these.

A tract was published against me in which falsehoods abound, trying to kill me off over the shoulders of my sister whom I insisted should have the right to introduce her own defense when being tried, and in this tract, on page 2, they admit that the testimony that I insisted on being introduced was in justification of my sister; but they ruled it out, and I am published because I criticized them for so doing. Sister filed suit against those who published (or caused to be published) that tract. Papers were served on W. G. Roberts in Springfield, Mo., for libel and stander; and Freed crossed the State line into Kansas before suit was brought, and has returned but once since, and his stay was short. He spent a few hours in dodging the officers. He was in trouble at Braymer, where he had lived, and was trying to fix up his troubles so he could get a letter. The Review left the impression that I was disfellowshiped by the church in Chillicothe, which was the opposite of the truth. I was commended by them and made an elder shortly after the trouble here.

Thomas Smith, the self-appointed religious police, divided the church in Chillicothe, Wakenda, and near Steen Prairie (Belle, Mo., I believe), in course of a few days. In each instance Thomas took only a few of the membership, while the Review brands the main body as a "faction," which is the reverse of the truth. Now, if the Review will reply, let them open the columns of their paper to a discussion of the facts which they have been hiding. I affirm they are guilty of doing worse things than those of which Brother Perkins accused them. Brotherly, FLOYD M. EDWARDS.

If God's Spirit abide with thee, all things will be easy from the spirit and love; for there is nothing that makes the soul so courageous and venturesome for anything as a good hope,-Selected.

Opening Exercises at David Lipseomb College.

Registration of students at David Lipscomb College began on Tuesday, September 28, but the formal opening exercises for the public will be held on Friday, October 1, at 10 A.M. A pleasing program has been prepared, and the friends of the College are invited to attend. The girls' new dormitory and other buildings will be open for inspection.

Hood's Sarsaparilla Makes Food Taste Cood

Creates an appetite, alds digestion, purifies the blood, and thus relieves scrofula, catarrh, the pains and aches of rheumatism and gives strength to the whole system,

Nearly 50 years' phenomenal sales tell the story of the great merit and success of Hood's Sarsaparilla. It is just the medicine you need now. Hood's Pills help-fine cathartic.

A Trip to Texas.

BY F. C. SOWELL.

I spent the month of August preaching in Texas and Oklahoma.

My first meeting was held at Valley View, Texas, fifty miles north of Fort Worth. This meeting continued thirteen days. The church took much interest in the meeting, and each member did his work well. One noble man, about sixty years of age, was baptized. The church seemed much stimulated by the teaching.

My next meeting was at Colorado, Texas, two hundred and thirty miles west of Fort Worth. I found a fineworking church at this place. There is also a church at this place worshiping with musical instruments, with D. R. Hardison serving as their preacher. This meeting continued twelve days, with fine interest, and two splendid ladies were baptized. J. T. McKissick visited the town while I was there. He has charge of a school at Midland, Texas, and is preaching Brethren Hardison and Mc-Kissick had no services at their places of worship on Lord's day, and came over and heard me, and we all worshiped together like we did in the good old days of yore. We all ate dinner together, and after dinner the music question came up. But I told them there would be no use to argue the question, but one thing I would demand of them, and when they should give me the information for which I asked the whole thing would be settled. Jesus said to his disciples: "Go ye therefore, and make disciples of all the nations, baptizing them into the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit: teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I commanded you: and lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world." "Now," I said, "as they were to observe all things commanded of the Lord, give the command for instruments in the worship, and I will preach it and have instruments in the worship." I insisted that they give me the command, but, of course, they could not do it, and no man on earth can do it. So I will be content to observe the things commanded of the Lord. I was glad to have these brethren with us, and our mingling together was pleasant, as we were all from Maury County, Tenn.

I went next to Boswell, Okla., having a call from a Baptist friend to "come over in Boswell and help us." At this place I found a loyal young congregation worshiping according to directions given by divine order. This Baptist and his wife and another lady came over with us to have fellowship and work with us in the Lord's vinevard. This was a short meeting, but fine in its working.

I have made about eighteen trips to Texas, but, taking all in all, I believe this was one of the best. I found that in all these congregations they were working in the spirit of the Master, and love and prosperity prevailed.

Select Thoughts.

"God must first have spoken to us, that he may speak through us."

When the church becomes like the world, she loses the power to enlighten the world.

What can more surely steady a man's faith in God and strengthen the desire for some share in his eternal self-giving than the perpetual witness of daily human love?

Think truly, and thy thoughts Shall the world's famine feed: Speak truly, and each word of thine Shall be a fruitful seed; Live truly, and thy life shall be A great and noble creed. Southwestern Advocate.

The two largest department stores in Shanghai, China, will now close their doors all day Sunday, and on Sunday morning Christian services are provided which all employees are expected to attend.

The one thing that made Paul Irresistible was the assurance that he was a servant of Jesus Christ, and, therefore, that, notwithstanding all his consciousness of weakness and personal inefficiency, he had the authority of his Master behind him; and we who are to-day engaged in Christian work of whatever kind must fall back upon that. Our inspiration must come from the same Savior; and whatever triumphs we gain, we must recognize as his, and his only.

Night and Morning. Have Strong, Healthy Eyes. If they Tire, Itch, Smart or Burn, if Sore, Irritated, Inflamed or Granulated, use Murine often. Soothes, Refreshes. Safe for Infant or Adult. At all Druggists. Write for Free Eye Book. Murine Eye Remedy Co., Chicago

SUFFEREN THREE YEARS

Finally was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Lowell, Mass .- "I was all run down and had an awful pain in my right sice, was persistently consti-pated and had very dizzy spells. I suf-fered for three years and was perfectly miserable until a friend was telling me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I found it a wonder-ful medicine. I can recommend the Vegetable Compound to other women. You can use these facts as a testimonial."—Mrs. M. THEALL BESSEY, 186 Appleton Street, Lowell, Mass.

Why women will continue to suffer so why women will continue to suffer so long is more than we can understand, when they can find health in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound! For forty years it has been the stand-ard remedy for female ills, and has re-stored the health of thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, irregularities, etc.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

VICTOR PORTABLE STEREOPTICONS

AND

VICTOR PATENTED

FEATHERWEIGHT STANDARD SLIDES

ARE

giving absolute satisfaction to thousands of giving absolute satisfied and Sunday school clergymen.

Attendance at church and Sunday school may be rapidly increased by Visual Presentation of Bible Subjects.
Special Trial Terms to Clergymen.
Catalogues mailed upon request.

VICTOR ANIMATOGRAPH CO.

(Incorporated)

232 Victor Building

Davenport, Iowa

GET FEATHER BEDS AND PILLOWS Direct from Factory. Write to-day. Send names of four friends and receive our astontshing offer. Hygienic Feather Bedding Co., Dept. 22, Charlotte, N. C.

CHURCH NEWS

Alabama.

Pine, September 20.-I Spruce closed an eight-days' meeting at Bradclosed an eight-days' meeting at Brad-ley's Chapel, near Belgreen, Ala., yes-terday, with five additions. This was the twenty-second meeting I have held there in the last twenty-four years, and the crowds were the largest, considering the entire meet-ing, that we have ever had. There were people there from three counties yesterday. They wanted me to come back next year, but I couldn't promise to come. I suppose my brother, Van A. Bradley, will hold their meeting. I shall begin here to-morphish the suppose were the suppose of row night, for a week's meeting. Brethren, the calls are more than the workers can fill. Pray the Lord for more workers.—I. B. Bradley.

West Huntsville, September 22.— On the second Lord's day in August I began a meeting in Honeycomb Valley, eight miles north of Guntersville. The meeting continued eight days, with fine interest, notwithstanding it rained every day while I was there. There is a faithful band of sisters there, but they need more brethren who will press forward and take the lead. Brother Noland, from Gunterstills with the model of the property o ville, visits them and assists them in the worship. It was through his efforts that the congregation there was forts that the congregation there was established. On the fourth Lord's day in July I began a meeting at Ivy Bluff, Warren County, Tenn., and continued it until Wednesday after the first Lord's day in August. The attendance and interest were good throughout the meeting. Twelve persons were baptized and one wanderer confessed his faults. I promised to confessed his faults. I promised to be with them again next year. I trust that I shall be able to hold more meetings in that part of the country. J. A. Jenkins.

Arkansas.

Leslie, September 21.—I preached here last Sunday at 11 A.M. and again at 2:30 P.M., and had a fairly good hearing. We have no congregation here, just a few scattered members. The "digressives" have a house but no overnivation I among the second of the s bers. The "digressives" have a house, but no organization. I am leaving to-day for Mountain View, where I shall begin a meeting to-morrow night.—J. A. Cullum.

Fort Smith, September 21.—The Wesley meeting closed Sunday. Eight persons were baptized. It was a good meeting in many respects. This is an old, established congregation, and has practically no opposition. There are some of the finest people there, I think, I have ever labored with. It was my second meeting for them, and I enjoyed my stay very The Delaney meeting resulted in twenty-two baptisms. I have four more meetings yet, two of which will be at mission points. Brethren, pray for me; I need your prayers. May God bless the faithful.—Will W. Slater.

Florida.

Lake City, September 22.—I closed a ten-days' meeting with the church at Lacota on September 7. There was a good attendance and a fine

Middle Age at 35 or 60?

Physician Explains Why Lack Of Iron In the Blood Saps the Strength and Vitality and Often Makes Men and Women Look and Feel Old Before Their Time.

By Dr. Ferdinand King, New York Physician and Medical Author

Signs of old age are plainly to be seen in many a man and woman who ought still to be enjoy ing the ringed health and activity of the early prime of life. Yet often the real cause of their decline is nothing more than lack of iron in the blood and it is surprising how quickly these conditions are frequently corrected once the right kind of iron is supplied.

I am constantly coming across cases in my practise where people not yet 40 show much of the nervousness, lack of energy and general run-down condition which might possibly be expected to come twenty years later in life while others at 50 may still be young in feeling, mentally alert with steady nerves and strong bodies.

Whether we have health and long life is often a question which each one must determine for himself. Signs of old age are largely due to a deposit of waste matter in the blood vessels and cells of the body. Without plenty of strength-conditions are produced to the properties of satisfaction or your money will be registed from the blood is utterly tacking in the interest manifested throughout the meeting by both the church and the world, and I left with a promise to return as soon as possible for another meeting. One soul was baptized into Christ and others were "al-most persuaded." This is a point where I held two other meetings several years ago, and where our venerable brother, D. A. Martin, of Oxford, has been laboring once a month for some time. Brother Martin is one of God's noblemen, a true soldier of the cross, filled with the Spirit and a burning zeal for the cause of Christ, and by his untiring efforts this church has taken on new life and is going forward in the Lord's work. I expect to leave Lake City with my family about October 15 for a fewmonths' tour in South Florida, dur-ing which time I will open up some new fields of labor for God's workmen. Pray for us, and continue to address me at this place, and all mail will be forwarded to me from place to place.-J. O. Barnes.

For Health, Strength and Energy

When You Feel Shaky

For Malarial Fevers and a General Tonic It not sold by your druggist, write ARTHUR PETER & CO., LOUISVILLE, KY.

The Test of Time

When an article is without merit, public sentiment condemns it. It immediately dies a natural death. When an article has merit, it will be everlastingly in demand. Gray's Olutment has now been used for a full round century. No greater proof can be offered of its effectiveness. One hundred years of honest, good, old-fashioned value for money received has made it a family word in every household. Effective for word in every household. Effective for sores, boils, burns, cuts, brulses, stings, eczema, and the many forms of skin eruption. Ask your druggist. If he can't supply you, send his name to W. F. Gray & Co., $18 Gray Building, Nashville, Tenn., and a liberal sample will be sent you free.

TETTERINE

Clears Baby's Skin

and drives off the rash and pimples. Harmless, Soothing, Fragrant.

60c at your druggist's or from the SHUP-TRINE CO., Savannah, Gs.

ASPIRIN

Name "Bayer" on Genuine

"Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" is genuine "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" is genuine Aspirin proved safe by millions and prescribed by physicians for over twenty years. Accept only an unbroken "Bayer package" which contains proper directions to relieve Headache, Toothache, Earache, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Colds and Pain, Handy tin boxes of 12 tablets cost few cents. Druggists also sell larger "Bayer packages." Aspirin is trade mark Bayer Manufacture Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid.

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

For Fever Headaches and Neuralgic Pains

An improved Aspirin tablet which is abso-An improved Aspirin tablet which is absolutely safe to use even in cases of extreme debility and weak heart. Relieves headaches, neuralgia and rheumatic pains and reduces fever. No depressing effects, Made by a formula which is in general use by leading physicians. Soc per package at your druggists or by mail from the maturfacturers. Piedmont Laboratories, Inc., Clinton, S. C.

TETTERINE

Makes hair beautiful, free from dandruff, and keeps the scalp healthy.

50c at your druggist's or from the SHUP-TRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

FOOT TROUBLES

No Need of Them, Says Brooklyn Man, Who Has Evidently Solved a Big Problem

According to the testimony of hundreds of people living in the Southland and elseof people living in the Southland and elsewhere, J. R. Simon, of 1589 Broadway, Brooklyn, N. Y., has successfully developed a system of shoe building having for its prime object the conquering of foot and shoe troubles. It appears that Mr. Simon's establishment has become national head-quarters for people whose feet require his remarkable comfort shoe, known as the EzWear, but obtainable only of the inventor. Mr. Simon's new catalogue shows ventor. Mr. Simon's new catalogue shows several hundred shoes that combine com-fort with style at amazingly low prices and is now ready for free distribution,

"Diamond Dyes" Don't Spot, Run

·

Don't Risk Material in Poor Dyes that Fade or Streak

Each package of "Diamond Dyes" con-Each package of "Diamond Dyes" contains directions so simple that any woman can diamond-dye a new, rich, fadeless color into worn, shabby garments, draperies, coverings, whether wool, silk, linen, cotton or mixed goods.

Buy "Diamond Dyes"—no other kind—then perfect results are guaranteed even if you have never dyed before. Druggist has color card.

has color card.

CHURCH NEWS

Illinois.

Xenia, September 20.—1 began a meeting at Pleasant Hill, in Wayne meeting at Pleasant Hill, in Wayne County, on the night of September 2 and continued it until last night. Rain made against the meeting several nights, but we had good audiences when the weather would permit. A serious trouble among some of the members also made against success; however, a much better feeling now exists, and, although there were no additions, I am sure much good has been done. My next meeting will be at Clifford, a mission ing will be at Clifford, a mission point.—Andrew Perry.

Kentucky.

Murray, September 20.—The May-field meeting closed on Thursday night, having continued about two weeks. Interest was good throughout the meeting, and the attendance was the best they have had so far. Six were added—three by baptism and three from the "digressives." Brother Aubrey Wilson will labor for them next year, half time.—Coleman Over-

Michigan.

Flint, September 21.—Last Lord's day I was at Speaker, out from Port Huron. We have a splendid congre-gation there. I am to remain in Flint for two weeks, and then go to Stand-ish for a meeting.—Leslie G. Thomas.

Oklahoma.

Marlow, September 20.-Brother Williams and I closed a good meeting near Duncan yesterday. Nine were baptized and two were restored. A congregation of thirty members was put to work, with Brother W. R. Findley as leader. We are to begin a mission meeting at Plainview Schoolhouse to-morrow evening. We are told that the gospel in its purity has never been preached in that com-munity.-John W. Hedge.

Woodward, September 20.—While at Hobart, Ark., in a meeting, I was asked to come over to Sulphur Springs, some eight miles east, and hold a meeting. I did not really have time to go at that time, as I was under promise to be at another place as soon as I could; but I felt it my duty to go and make an effort to set things in order at Sulphur Springs. The church at Sulphur Springs had just quit meeting for worship and had rented the Lord's house to a picture show. I was discouraged even by brothen in making an attempt to do brethren in making an attempt to do anything there, but I could not get the appeal to "come over and help us" off my mind. So I went and began the meeting on Tuesday, September 7, and held over the next Monday per 7, and held over the next Monday night, closing at the water on Tues-day morning. No one seemed to think any good would be done, as the church was in such condition. One old man said: "I would like to know whom he thinks he will baptize here; he will not have much crowd to hear him." Well, I baptized the old man himself.

HOW DOCTORS

First Step in Treatment Is a Brisk Purgative With Calotabs, the Purified and Refined Calomel Tablets that are Nausealess, Safe and Sure.

Doctors have found by experience that no medicine for colds and influ-enza can be depended upon for full effectiveness until the liver is made thoroughly active. That is why the first orighly active. That is why the fifst step in the treatment is the new, nausealess colomel tablets called Calotabs, which are free from the sietening and weakening effects of the old style calomel. Doctors also point out the fact that an active liver may go a long way towards preventing influenza and is one of the most important factors in of the most important factors in en-abling the patient to successfully withstand an attack and ward off pneumonia.

One Calotab on the tongue at bed time with a swallow of water—that's all. No salts, no nausea ner the slightall. No salts, no nausea nor the slight-est interference with your eating, pleas-tre or work. Next morning your cold has vanished, your liver is active, your system is purified, and you are feeling fine, with a hearty appetite for break-fast. • Druggists sell Calotabs only in original sealed packages, price thirty-five cents. Your money will be cheer-fully refunded if you do not find them delightful.—(Adv.)

Renew your subscription to the Gospel Advocate.

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

FIFTEEN YEARS OF BLACK-DRAUGHT

Black - Draught Highly Recommended by Illinois Man for Liver and Stomach Disorders Used it for Fifteen Years

Singerton, Ill.-"For fifteen years we have used 'Thedford's Black-Draught, and have not as yet found anything that could take its place," writes Mr. W. F. Rister, of this town. "I have used it for indigestion a number of times, and it gives relief," continues Mr. Rister.

"For sour stomach, a heavy, bloated feeling, it is splendid; and when the liver gets torpid, so that when you stoop and raise up suddenly you feel dizzy, a few doses will set you straight.

"We keep it and use for constipation and the above troubles, and find it most satisfactory. I can recommend it to others, and gladly do so. For the number of years I have used Black-Draught now, I ought to know."

In its seventy years of usefulness, Thedford's Black-Draught has relieved thousands and thousands of persons suffering from the results of a disordered liver; and, like Mr. Rister, many people feel that after using Black-Draught nothing can take its

If you have not tried Black-Draught, get a package to-day.

Nearly every druggist keeps it.

FOOT COMFORT ASSURED

Brooklyn Man Solves the Problem

It is no longer necessary to suffer agonless that are caused by misfit shoes; for Mr. Simon, of Brooklyn, has proven that he can fit perfectly by mail. Simon's EzWear Shoes are built to give every possible foot comfort; they are soft and stylish, and do not need breaking in. They fit like the proverbial pair, the minute you wear them. Every pair is guaranteed to give satisfaction and to fit perfectly.

Mr. J. R. Simon will gladly send a free catalogue of over 500 styles of EzWear Shoes to all who write him, along with his scientific, self-measuring blank. Write for your copy to-day, and give your feet their much-needed happiness. Address all communications to Mr. J. R. Simon, 1589 Broadway, Brooklyn, N. Y., and you will receive personal attention.

VACCINATE YOUR HOGS.

BUY SERUM direct from the manufacturers and be assured of a fresh, reliable product. United States Veterinary License No. 114; long-distance phone, Main 2559, Nashville, Tenn. Write for 90-page Hog Book; it is FREE. WHITE SERUM COMPANY. long-distance

The whole church, with the exception, perhaps, of one or two, was reclaimed-repented and confessed their wrongs, prayed and asked forgive-ness. This meeting was out of the ordinary in that I baptized fourteen men and boys and not a single girl or woman. I tell you, brethren, this was a time of rejoicing. May the good Lord bless them in their work, and may they hold out faithful to the end. I am now in my fifth meeting near Woodward. I have done more preaching this summer than I have ever done in one summer. held three meetings, preaching twice each day, with but one night's rest during the three meetings. I am holding up fine.—D. S. Ligon.

Tennessee.

Hornbeak, September 20.-I closed my meeting at Turnage Schoolhouse, near Hornbeak, last night. There were twenty-three additions—seven-teen baptized, two from the Baptists, two from the Methodists, and two restored. Great interest was manifested during the meeting .- Harry Auburntown, September 20.—The meeting at this place of eleven days' duration closed on Wednesday night at the water's edge. There were ten at the water's edge. There were ten additions by primary obedience and one restoration. The meeting was conducted by Brother W. M. Oak-ley. We are sure that much and lasting good has been done .- C. S. Haw-

St. Elmo, September 20.—The church here had two good services yesterday. Two took membership at yesterday. Two took membership at the morning service; a young lady made the confession at the night service and is to be baptized Thursday evening. This congregation has been helping other places with their buildings and assisting some in mission work during the last few weeks.—L. E. Pryor.

Decherd, September 22.--I have just closed a good meeting with the Bean's Creek congregation. Twentysix were baptized and nine confessed their wrongs. This was one of the best and most interesting meetings ever held at this place. We had a packed house every night and a large crowd at every day service. This is my old home congregation, where I worshiped when I was a young man, and is near my father's home. Among the number baptized were a deacon in the Presbyterian Church and his wife and two Methodists. The breth-ren asked me to come back next year, and I promised to go if I can find time.—R. E. L. Taylor.

STOPPED HER FITS

Mrs. Dellia Martin, a resident of Wurtsboro, N. T., writes that she stopped her fits with a medicine that she read about in the She says she has not had a fit since she took the first dose, and that she wants every sufferer to know about this wonderful medicine and what it did for her. If you. a medicine and what it did for her. If you, a friend, or relative, suffer from these dread-ful attacks, you are advised to send name and address at once to R. P. N. Lepso, 198 Island Avenne, Milwaukee, Wis., who is generously offering to send a bottle of the same kind of medicine he gave Mrs. Martin, free, to any sufferer who writes him.—Adv.

Behind every storm of trial and every cloud of sorrow is the heavenly blue of Christ's unchangeable love-a love stronger than death, a love that follows us amid all our wanderings and backslidings, and all our changes of heart and of circumstance, and remains steadfast and unwavering even when our love is suspicious and cold. -Hugh Macmillan.

Eggsa Day

"More Eggs' Tonic is a Godsend," writes Mrs. Myrtle Ice, of Boston, Ky. She adds, "I was only getting 12 eggs a day and now I get 50." Give your hens a few cents' worth of "More Eggs," the wonderful egg pro-ducer, and you'll be amazed and delighted with results.

$1.00 FRE

Send the coupon below. Den't send any money. Mr. Reefer will send you two $1.00 packages of "More Eggs." You pay the postman upon delivery only $1.00, the price of just one package, the other package being free. The Million Dollar Merchants Bank of Kansas City. Mo. guarantees if you are not absolutely satisfied, your dollar will be returned at any time within 30 days—on request. No risks to you. 400,000 users praise Reefer's "More Eggs."

Poultry Raisers Everywhere Tell Wonderful Results of "More Eggs"

126 Eggs in 5 Days

I wouldn't try to raise chickens without "More Eggs," which means more money. I use it right along. I have 23 hens and in 5 days have gotten 10 is dozen eggs, or 125. MRS. J. O. OAKES, Sallna, Okla

"More Eggs" Paid the Pastor

I can't express in words how much I have been benefitted by "More Eggs." I have paid my debts, clothed the children in new dresses, and that is not all paid my pastor his dues. I sold $2% dozen eggs has week, set 4 dozen are some, and had 1% dozen left WHS LENA McRROON, Woodbury, Tenn

1200 Eggs from 29 Hens

The "More Eggs" Tonic did wonders for me. I had a hens when I got the imile and was getting five six eggs a day. April lat I had over 1200 eggs never saw the equal.

EDW. MEKKER, Ponliae, Mich.

Never Laid as They Do Now

I am very much satisfied with the "More Eggs" Tonic. My chickens never laid as many eggs as they do now. W. A. GRUETZMACHER, Great Bend, N. D.

$200 Worth of Eggs from 44 hens

I never used "More Egrs" Tonic until last December; then just used one $1.00 package and have sold over $200.00 worth of eggs from forty-four hous "More Eggs" Tonic did if A. G. THODE.
Sterling, Kans. B. No. 2, Box &

Send No Money!

Don't send any money; just fill in and mail coupen. You will be sent, at once, two $1.00 packages of "MORE EGGS." Pay the postman upon delivery only $1.00, the extre package being FREE. Don't walt—take advantage of this free offer TODAY! Reap the BIG profits "MORE EGGS" will make for you. Have plenty of eggs to sell when the price is highest. Send TGDAY—NOW!

E.J. Reefer, Poultry Expert, 7257 Reefer Bldg., Kansas City, Mo.

Dear M. Reefer -1 scopt your offer. Send me two $1.00 packages of Reefer's "More Eggs" for which I agree to pay the postman $1.00 when he brings me the two packages. You agree to refund me $1.00 at any time within 30 days, if both of these packages do not prove satisfactory in every way.

Name

Over fifty years ago a young physician practiced widely in a rural district and became famous for his uniforn success in the curing of disease. This was Dr. Pierce, who afterwards established himself in Buffalo, N. Y., and placed one of his prescriptions, which he called "Golden Medical Discovery," in the drug stores of the United States so that the public could easily obtain this very remarkable tonic, corrective and blood-maker. Dr. Pierce manufactured this "Discovery" from roots and barks-a corrective remedy, the ingredients of which nature had put in the fields and forests, for keeping us healthy. Few folks or families now living have not at sometime or other used this "Golden Medical Discovery" for the stomach, liver and heart. Over twenty-four million bottles of this tonic and blood remedy have been sold in this country.

Tetterine

Is Applied. Fragrant and Scothing. 60c at your druggist's or from the SHUP-TRINE CO., Savanuah, Ga.

The Romantic Story of Southland's Favorite Shoe, EzWear

Some five years ago, a prominent citizen of South Carolina, visiting New York on important business, chanced to meet the maker of a shoe built on new and unusual lines; an enthusiastic admirer of its most distinctive features, case and comfort, had suggested the name "ExWear;" it promptly adopted. The business man from the South, knowing how welcome such a shoe would be in his part of the country, urged that its remarkable qualities, including not only comfort, but style, durability. and economy, be made known there. That this has been done effectively is proven by the enormous demand that has sprung up in the South for EzWear Shoes. It is said that its sale there during the last twelve months has increased fully three hundred per cent. The distributor, Mr. J. R. Simon, of 1589 Broadway, Brooklyn, N. Y., says that all who wish to know about a shoe that combines all worth-while shoe qualities may have a copy of his money-saving shee book for the asking.

Drink or Taste?

BY J. J. VANHOUTIN.

In observing the communion, I have occasionally noticed some things which appeared to me to be not as orderly as the occasion demands. Sometimes the one who presides at the table speaks with such a suppressed voice that he cannot be heard by the members: especially in offering thanks he appears to be whispering to himself, and not many can understand what is said. If the man was going to tell some joke to a man in a crowd, his voice would be loud enough for all to hear. The man should not be boisterous, but should speak out loud enough to be heard by all who partake of the emblems. In many places the fruit of the vine is called "wine," which name is never applied to it in the Scriptures. I understand that the ancient custom in preparing the passover table was, at every table there was an extra chair, plate, loaf of bread, and cup filled with unfermented grape juice (fermented wine was forbidden-Lev. 10: 9), all prepared and in readiness for their coming King. That loaf and cup must have been the bread and cup which Jesus used. And they were to eat the bread and drink the contents of the cup-not just taste it, but drink it. There is quite a difference between drinking and tasting. This thing of pouring about a tablespoonful of the fruit of the vine out of a pint bottle into a little gill glass tumbler, and then, after thanks, divide that little amount-how can twenty or forty all drink of the cup when the cup is empty? I have seen the empty cup passed and persons go through the motion, pretending to drink when there was not a drop in the cup, because at first the man failed to pour out over half as much as he should have done, and leaving the pint bottle nearly full on the table, when, if the man had used discretion and good judgment, he would have filled both glasses at least twothirds full, then each one could have drunk of the cup in place of tasting. Jesus never said, "Taste of this cup;" but he said, "Drink ye all of it." They were to divide the contents of the cup and not leave any of it, but drink it all. There is usually plenty on the table. Then, fill the cups so we can all drink of it in place of tasting; then the keeper will not have to drink it lest it sour. It is no more harm to drink unfermented grape juice in communion than to drink water at dinner.

Hard Colds. People whose blood is pure are not nearly so likely to take hard colds as are others. Hood's Sarsaparilla makes the blood pure, and this great medicine recovers the system after a cold as no other medicine does. Take Hood's.

SOUTH IS TURNING AGAINST CALOMEL

Mr. Dodson, the "Liver Tone" Man, Responsible for Change for the Better.

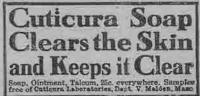

Every druggis, in town has noticed a great falling off in the sale of calomel. They all give the same reason. Dodson's Liver Tone is taking its place.

"Calomel is dangerous and people know it." Dodson's Liver Tone is personally guaranteed by every druggist who sells it. A large bottle doesn't cost very much but if it fails to give easy relief in every but if it fails to give easy relief in every case of liver sluggishness and constipation, just ask for your money back.

Dodson's Liver Tone is a pleasa Dodson's Liver Tone is a pleasant-tasting, purely vegetable remedy, harmiess to both children and adults. Take a spoonful at night and wake up feeling fine; no biliousness, sick headache, acid stomach or constipated bowels. It doesn't gripe or cause inconvenience all the next day like violent calomel. Take a dose of calomel today and tomorrow you will feel weak, sick and nauseated. Don't lose a day. Don't lose a day.

Hemstitching and picoting attachment; works on any and all machines; simple and easy to work. You can now make the nice things in your own home that you had to hire made or go without. Sure to please, Price, $2.50. Gem Novelty Company, Corpus Christi, Texas; Box 1031.

Why Don't People Go to Church? BY J. G. MALPHURS.

Have you ever heard of so many vacant pews in meetinghouses as at this time? Have you ever heard of so many preachers claiming a falling off in membership as since the armistice was signed? The denominations try worldly tricks to amuse the people, but they just quit going after the show stops. Another trade has been made-God's power for salvation, the gospel, has been traded for error. (Rom. 1: 16.) Let us name a few facts that have helped to empty the meetinghouses.

1. Many denominational preachers have removed salvation from the church. For years they have taught the people that it is not necessary to be a member of the church to be saved: that you can be saved out of it as well as in it. This teaching has had its deadly effect at funerals. Many young people have heard ministers preach their unbelieving friends and relatives to heaven. A man with ordinary "horse sense" can see that if one can be saved out of the church, all can. Hence, they do not have to go to church for salvation; they can be saved without even going to church. The "movies" attract their attention, and they think little about religion until a deathbed scene.

2. Furthermore, lodges and fraternal orders have sapped the church of works of charity. How many preachers and deluded brethren do you see with the signs of spiritual adultery on their coats! (James 4: 4.) The work of charity is one factor in the very life of the church, and yet you hear many blinded Christians say: "The church won't do it." The fault is with such teachers and leaders of Israel, and not with God's plan. When the church permits the lodges to do this work for her, she exchanges a pearl of great price for an ice box.

3. "The terror of the Lord" is not preached as much as it ought to be. I mean that there is not enough of hell preached now, the kind that has fire and brimstone in it. The little hell, the short hell of the Adventists, and the second-chance theory of Charles T, Russell tickle the ears of too many. The love and grace of God, the joys and pleasures of heaven, must be preached; but to preach these without telling the people that "it is a fearful thing to fall into the hands of the living God" is a one-sided gospel. The Bible sounds warnings against disobedience as well as promises for obedience. Sinners need to know that there is an eternal hell to be avoided as well as a heaven to be gained.

"Why go to church?" reasons the sinner. "The preachers say you don't have to be a member to be saved. I can wait until I get sick to confess Christ; and, besides, if I lose heaven, hell does not last long, so many smart preachers say. If I want brotherly love and my family protected, I can go to the Masons and pay for it. The church won't help a fellow, so says the preacher, and I saw his badge to back up what he says. So I believe I'll go to the movies.' It won't cost me but a dime. If I go to church, they will expect me to give the preacher that much. Besides, I'll see more excitement there than all the choir and the preacher, too, can make."

You Do More Work,

You are more ambitious and you get more enjoyment out of everything when your blood is in good condition. Impurities in the blood have a very depressing effect on the system, causing weakness, laziness, nervousness and sickness.

GROVE'S TASTELESS CHII TONIC restores Energy and Vitality by Purifying and Enriching the Blood. When you feel its strengthening, invigorating effect, see how it brings color to the cheeks and how it improves the appetite, you will then appreciate its true tonic value.

GROVE'S TASTELESS CHIII TONIC is not a patent medicine, it is simply IRON and QUININE suspended in Syrup. So pleasant even children like it. The blood needs Quinine to Purify it and IRON to Enrich it. These reliable tonic prop-erties never fail to drive out impurities in the blood.

The Strength-Creating Power of GROVE'S TASTELESS Chill TONIC has made it the favorite tonic in thousands of homes. More than thirty-five years ago, folks would ride a long distance to get GROVE'S TASTELESS Chill TONIC when a member of their family had Malaria or needed a body-building, strength-giving tonic. The formula is just the same today, and you can get it from any drug store. 60c per bottle.

Now Is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots.

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your treckles, as Ohine—double strength—is guaranteed to remove these homely spots.

Simply set an ounce of Othine—double strength—from your druggist, and apply a little of it night and morning and you should soon see that even the worst reckless have begun to disappear, while the lighter snos have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than one ounce is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a heautiful clear complexion.

Be sure to sak for the double strength Othine as his is sold under guarantee of money back if it falls to remove freeklas.

E. Write me to-day, and I will free trial of my mild, soothing, treatment that will prove it. send you a free guaranteed trea Stops the itching and heals permanently DR. CANNADAY, 1225 Park Square, Sedalia, Mo.

women's aches, Sick and Nervous Headaches, Back aches—relieved quickly by the Reliable Remedy

Antiseptic Analgosic Antiphlogistic

(Prevents Infection) (Relieves Pain) (Allays Inflammation)

Oil Eucalyptus Globulus Oil Peppermint Oil Pinus Silvestris Oil Wintergreen Menthoi Gum Campher

Thoroughly mixed in proper ratio and sequence and at proper temperature, with refined Petrolatum base.

with refined Petrolatum base.

Eucapine Salve is rapidly becoming a household necessity. It is in constant use as a preventative of diseases of the air passages, and as a dependable curative agent in ordinary inflammatory conditions. Try it for nose sores, catarrh, catarrhal headaches, cuts, sores, burns, bruises. Splendid for sore feet. Will not blister. Full sized jar free to physicians with quantitative formula if desired. 50c the 2 oz. jar. Ask your druggist; or by mail from

Piedmont Laboratories, Inc.. Clinton, S. C.

PROFITS IN PIGEONS

A pleasant, easy way to make moneystilize an otherwise worthless part of your back yard and turn it into profit. Pigeons are easily raised, prelific, and clean. The markets are clamering for squabs. A few pairs of our beautiful Red Carneaux and White Swiss Wondsines will start you right. Write for our FREE beoklet, "Profits in Pigeons No. 5." Carelina Pigeon Plant, Clinton, S. C.

GOOD TEACHERS IN DEMAND
AT BETTER SALARIES
The schools, colleges, seminaries, and universities throughout the South are begging for assistance in inding teachers with proper qualifications, and better salaries are being offered. We are needing hundreds of teachers to supply the demand. Any well-prepared teacher would do well to write us.

FISK TEACHERS' AGENCY
R. A. Clayton, Mgr. Birmingham, Ala.

GIRLS! USE LEMONS FOR SUNBURN, TAN

Try H! Make this lemon lotion to whiten your tanned or freckled skin.

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into bottle containing three ounces of Orchard White, shake well, and you have a quarter pint of the best freckle, sunburn and tan lotion, and complexion whitener, at very, very small cost.

Your grocer has the lemons and any drug store or toflet counter will supply three ounces of Orchard White for a few cents. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face, neck, arms and hands and see how quickly the freekles, sunburn, windburn and tan disappear and how clear, soft and white the skin becomes. Yes! It is harmless.

CHURCH NEWS

Missouri.

Rogersville, September 15.-I am in the midst of an interesting meeting at this place, with three additions to date. Brother J. P. Lowrey will begin a meeting at Piggott, Ark., on the first Lord's day in October.-James E. Laird.

Tennessee.

Lawrenceburg, September 22.—I held eight meetings during the summer, in which these in which there were eighty-two additions. I am now engaged in teaching in the Lawrence County High School.—E. O. Coffman.

Athens, September 20.—I began a meeting at Mount Bethel, in Bradley County, on the first Lord's day in this month and continued it until Friday night after the second Lord's day. night after the second Lord's day. Six souls were added to the church. There had not been any regular preaching at this place for fifteen or twenty years. The people were hungering for the gospel. Our crowds were better than expected. This is a Baptist community, but we left there believing that it is not so strongly Baptist as we found it. Some five or six of the Baptists expressed themselves as about ready to give up Baptist doctrine and be satisfied with a "Thus saith the Lord." On the last night of the meeting the Baptist minnight of the meeting the Baptist minister heartily indorsed my preaching. The Lord willing, I will be with those people again next July for a two-weeks stay.—Vernon Rozar.

Texas.

Fort Worth, September 20.—We have the house packed at the Northside Church every Lord's day. There were four additions yesterday. The minister is assisting the Diamond Hill congregation in a meeting this week. The Northside Church will hold a mission meeting, beginning on October 1, in Rosen Heights Addition.—Ben West.

Fort Worth, September 20.—Yesterday was another fine day for the Southside-Central church of Christ. We had the largest crowds yet, with more additions by membership and baptism. The church is supporting several families of destitute people who are not "our folks" and some who are, and doing more charitable work and mission work than ever before in its history. We are holding a vocal drill this week, and on the first Sunday in October we shall begin a revival meeting, to continue till we think it best to stop. Last Sunwe think it best to stop. Last Sun-day closed my first year here. There have been a large number added to the church, and we begin the new year with the brightest prospects I ever faced in my life.—Tice Elkins.

Nothing conceivable can give such abiding worth to a man's life as that he should have identified his aims with the eternal purposes of God.

Men are forever saying, "To-morrow," when history, human experience, conscience, and God are saying, "Do it

Try Renwar for Rheumatism.

Try Renwar for Rheumatism.

It is not necessary any longer for you to suffer those intense pains and aches of rheumatism. Renwar is a salts combination scientifically prepared to neutralize the orie acid in the blood and thereby cure rheumatism. Don't wait until those rheumatic palm return. Buy a bottle of Renwar and forget about that rheumatism. Renwar is an old, well-established remedy. It is prescribed by the best of physicians and has thousands of friends. President L. A. Bauman, of Variey & Bauman Company, Nashville, says: "Renwar entirely relieved me of my rheumatism." For sale by druggists: price, 50 cents. Positively guaranteed by money-back offer. If your druggist doesn't carry Renwar in stock, tell him to order it for you from WARNER DRUG COMPANY, NASHVILLE, TENN.

Our mortal lips confess Thy name, All other names above; Love only knoweth whence it came And comprehendeth Love.

N IRRITABLE, fault finding disposition is often A due to a disordered stomach. A man with good digestion is nearly always good natured. great many have been permanently cured of stomach troubles by Chamberlain's Tablets after years of suffering. These tablets strengthen the stomach and enable it to perform its functions naturally. Try them. They only cost a quarter.

amberlain's Tablets

Volume LXII. No. 41.

NASHVILLE, TENN., OCTOBER 7, 1920.

$2.50 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

CONTENTS.

9)
0: 3
œ.
9
ŋ
1
2
3
2
6
7
The same and the s

Edifying as the Need May Be

The Blood of Christ.

When the destroying angel went through Egypt, it was the blood of the lamb on the doorposts that saved the Israelltes; when vengeance came upon Jericho, it was the same color that assured the safety of Rahab and her household. Making the application to our own lives, there comes a time when every man is surrounded by the greatest enemy to mankind-sin. What is that in the back door of his soul? The sins of the past. What is that in the front door of his soul? The threatenings of the future. He is in a terrible condition-so terrible that Paul describes it in language tense with hopelessness and despair: "O wretched man that I am! who shall deliver me out of the body of this death?" (Rom. 7: 24.) The answer to Paul's question is prefigured by the sprinkling on the doorpost, by the scarlet line in the window, by every animal sacrifice made under the old covenant. Bearing these types in mind, we examine a few forceful passages from the New Testament. Jesus Christ, in instituting the Lord's Supper, said: "For this is my blood of the covenant, which is poured out for many unto remission of sins." (Matt. 26: 28.) The beloved John, who leaned on Jesus' breast on that occasion, later wrote these words: "If we say that we have fellowship with him, and walk in darkness, we lie, and do not the truth: but if we walk in the light, as he is in the light, we have fellowship one with another, and the blood of Jesus his Son cleanseth us from sin." (1 John 1: 6, 7.) Again: "And he is the propitiation for our sins; and not for ours only, but also for the whole world." (1 John 2: 2.) Paul confirms the same vital truth when he exhorts the elders at Ephesus: "Take heed unto yourselves, and to all the flock, in which the Holy Spirit hath made you bishops, to feed the church of the Lord which he purchased with his own blood." (Acts 20: 28.)

The Blood Religion Is Supreme.

The efficacy and value of the blood of Jesus Christ is the one point on which nearly all religious bodies, Catholie and Protestant, agree. At the Parliament of Religious held in Chicago in 1893, Joseph Cook, of Boston, listened to the representatives of the great religions of the world until his spirit stirred within him. Securing the floor, he said. referring to one of Shakespeare's plays: "Here is Lady Macbeth. See how she rubs her hands, crying: 'Out, damned spot! . . . Will these hands ne'er be clean?" Then (quoting Shakespeare again): "'All the perfumes of Arabia' could not 'sweeten this little hand.' And Macbeth in similar mood says: 'This red right hand, it would the multitudinous seas incarnadine, making the green one red.' What religion can wash Lady Macbeth's right hand? That is a question I propose to the four continents and to all the isles of the sea; and unless you can answer that question, you have not come with a sufficiently serious purpose to a parliament of religions. I take Lady Macheth on my right arm and her husband on my left. I turn to Mohammedanism: Can you wash our red right hands? I turn to Confucianism, to Buddhism, and to Brahmanism: Can you wash our red right hands? And then I tell you in simple faith that Christianity can."

Some years ago I looked in at a famous trial then in progress in Nashville, a friend said: "God is willing, in my opinion, to pardon every sin, save murder. The murderer is doomed." I said to him in reply: "My friend, I never condone murder, but, at the same time, I never discount the power of the gospel." There is no need for an opinion on this question. Paul says: "Wherefore also he is able to save to the uttermost them that draw near unto God through him, seeing he ever liveth to make intercession for them." (Heb. 7: 25.) And Paul himself is a notable example of the Savior's power.

0 0 0

Theories About the Blood.

But while it is generally accepted that man is freed from sin by the blood of Christ, it is painfully true that many who use this expression do not have any definite idea of the conditions on which the blood of Christ cleanses from sin. Many conflicting theories are advanced. As pointed out by David Lipscomb, some teach that "the blood was shed as an example to impress on man the love of God for him, and so draw him to God." But to make this the only object of his death is to make worse than nonsense such passages as those that speak of Jesus' dying, "the just for the unjust," and that he gave "his life a ransom for many." Others teach that Jesus took the sinner's place under the law, paid the penalty due the law, and freed man—and that is all there is to it. If this were true, the sinner owes no debt; Christ has paid it. He needs no forgiveness; he is already forgiven.

But, leaving theories aside, all the scriptures that bear on the blood question, taken connectedly and reconciled, teach that while Christ, by the shedding of his blood, opened the way for the salvation of the whole world, at the same time, the benefits of that blood can be appropriated by none, save those who obey him. Here again the author of "Salvation from Sin" gives us a fine point when he explains. It is an axiomatic truth that it takes two parties to complete a gift. One provides and offers the gift; the other accepts it. It is not a gift until it has both been offered and accepted.

Getting the Benefit of the Blood.

"How may the sinner approach the blood of Christ?" This is a question of eternal moment. One thing is certain: he cannot approach the material blood, for there is not a drop of it upon the earth. Paul, in his masterly discourse to the Hebrews, throws a luminous light upon this question. (Heb. 9: 18-26.) From this passage we learn that the tabernacle, with all of its appointments and vessels of service, needed to be sealed by the typical blood of animal sacrifices. Just so the church needed to be sealed and was sealed by the blood of a better sacrifice, the blood of Jesus Christ, the Lamb without spot and without blemish. We also learn that under the old covenant the people approached and were benefited and cleansed by the blood when they appropriated the tabernacle with its bloodsealed appointments. Just so, no man can come to the blood of Christ, save by coming to the laws, institutions, ordinances, and appointments that have been sealed by his blood. As, for example, we come to the blood of Christ when we obey the blood-sealed commandments that relate to faith, repentance, confession, baptism, and the Lord's Supper. What does it mean to reject or modify or change any of these blood-sealed commandments? Hear Paul's answer: "A man that hath set at naught Moses' law dieth without compassion on the word of two or three witnesses; of how much sorer punishment, think ye, shall he be judged worthy, who hath trodden under foot the Son of God, and hath counted the blood of the covenant, wherewith he was sanctified, an unholy thing, and hath done despite unto the Spirit of grace?" (Heb. 10: 28, 29.)

* * *

The Only Cement for United Brotherhood.

Thinking of the many hurtful divisions that are in the world to-day, it gives me both pride and pleasure to quote some of the best words that were ever written by the godly man who vigorously fought the battles of primitive Christianity for sixty years and who came to his journey's end with the thought of divine approval: "The blood of Christ constitutes the only cement that can bind into one brotherhood, undivided and indivisible, the different families, factions, and fragments of Adam's sinning, discordant, and belligerent race." Men grow voluble and enthusiastic today over their various schemes for religious unity. But not until one religious body after another has learned not to despise the blood-sealed commandments of Jesus Christ -then, and not until then, will they come together. I disapprove of sprinkling babies and grown people. Because I have a prejudice against sprinkling or against the people who practice it? No; because the practice is not sealed by the blood of Jesus. I disapprove of instrumental music in the worship. Why? Because I don't like music? No-a thousand times no; because instrumental music in the worship is not sealed by the blood of Jesus. That's all. But that is enough.

Comments.

Brother McQuiddy is still determined that a negro cook shall not be considered part of his family. I said she was part of his household, but could have said with more point that she was part of his "family" in the original meaning of that word. He says that "family" comes from "patria;" but where does he get that? "Family" is from the Latin "familia," the meaning of which both Cicero and Cæsar give as "the slaves in a household, a household, slaves." So, after all, I think Brother McQuiddy will have to make his negro cook part of his "familia," according to the first meaning of that word. He would better "brush up" a little on his Latin. Yes, the "individual work" of Brother McQuiddy's cook becomes the work of the "familia" of which he is the head, and his friends praise the good meals of his organization, just as the "individual work" of the "Bible-school" teacher becomes the work of the organization of the "Bible college," and the human organization receives the praise for the work done, and not the church.

Did McQuiddy add the word "school" to the Bible? Let us see. His statement is: "The Bible school was the starting point of the Christian Church, and it was by means of the Bible-school methods that the Christian church was first extended and developed. At Ephesus, Paul spoke, reasoned, and persuaded the Jews in the synagogue school for the space of three months." The inspired text says: "And he went into the synagogue, and spake boldly for the space of three months, disputing and persuading the things concerning the kingdom of God." (Acts 19: 8.) McQuiddy's words are almost identical with those of Luke, with the exception that McQuiddy added the word "school." Our brother was evidently angry when he said: "The charge that I added the word 'school' to the Bible text is a vicious statement conceived in ignorance or sin, on which lies the scorn of intelligence and reason, and which the righteous soul spews out as a vile conception."

Brother McQuiddy started his first article by trying to show that it is proper to teach the Bible in "Bible schools" and everywhere else, and to show that "in school" is the same as "in the church." This I have denied. And now he charges me in the heading of his article with seeking "to change the issue." He says in a former article: "The methods which I have named and am defending [Bible schools and colleges] do it through the church." Here is McQuiddy's reasoning: (1) "The methods which I have named and am defending do it through the church." (2) But the methods I am defending are those of teaching the Bible in "Bible schools" and colleges. (3) Therefore, the methods of teaching the Bible in these schools which I have named and defended "do it through the church."

Now this is the very thing that I am denying, and the thing which he says he is "defending;" and yet when I ask him to "defend" it, he says I seek to change the issue! He is not quite so willing to "defend" his proposition as he thought he was.

In my argument I have shown that when a man becomes part of an organization and works for that, he loses his identity so far as work is concerned, and his work is that of the organization. I have shown that thus as Christian who is hired by a school to teach the Bible, where the Bible is made a study in the curriculum and money is begged because the school is teaching the Bible, etc.—that such a man is not glorifying God "in the church," as Paul commands, but "in the school." But my opponent still positively affirms that his work in the school is individual, for otherwise he is not responsible to God. Now no one has said that a man and his work in an organization become part of that organization as potatoes become part of the blood and body of the physical man, for "Bible colleges" and such institutions are artificial organizations. A teacher of the Bible for the "Bible colleges" is responsible to God for permitting his work to become the work of a human organization so that the name "Bible" or "Christian" college swallows it and gets the glory, when Paul commands us to glorify God in the church.

But I now show by the process of reductio ad absurdum (reducing to an absurdity) that his reasoning is false and that the "individual work" does become the work of the organization. If the teaching of the Bible is entirely an individual work (as he tries to make it appear), then the teaching of Latin is also merely an individual work. And if the teaching of Latin is merely an individual work. And is the teaching of the teaching of the teaching of the toric, mathematics, and all the other subjects. And if their work is merely individual, then the work of the president, trustees, and all others connected with the institution is entirely individual. And there is no organization at all! But these schools take out charters as organizations, and the advocates of them frankly admit they are organizations. Therefore, their own words and actions give the lie to their reasoning (when they try to defend them) that the leaching of the Bible in these organizations is merely individual work, though the teacher is hired and authorized to teach the Bible by the college, and the study is part of the curriculum.

Brother McQuiddy tries to confuse the minds of the readers by mixing together what is done as part of an organization and what is done incidentally. He does this by harping on Paul's teaching "in the school of Tyrannus." Was Paul's teaching part of the work of that organization (if they had an organization), or was it simply something incidentally connected with it? Without a dcubt it was the latter. During the Great War camp pastors were permitted to teach religion in the camps among the boys, but these camp pastors were not part of the military organization. Their work was entirely individual so far as the United States Army was concerned. But the teaching that was done by the chaplains was not that of the individuals themselves, but that of the United States government, which chose them, paid them, and regulated them.

Paul was working in the school of Tyrannus much as the camp pastors worked in the camps—incidentally. The "Bible-school" teachers who are appointed, hired and regulated by the trustees, president, etc., of these "Bible colleges," are like the chaplains who are appointed, hired, and regulated by the military authorities—permanently. The work of the camp pastor was not part of the military organization, and the work of Paul in the school of Tyrannus was not part of that organization (if there was an organization); the work of the chaplain becomes part of the military organization, and the work of the "Bible-school" teacher in Abilene Christian College, and all the others, loses its individual capacity and becomes part of the work of the organization of those colleges. But Paul commands us to giorify God "in the church." Brother McQuiddy refuses to see the difference between what is done incidentally and by mere permission of an organization, and what is done permanently and by the authority of an organization. But I believe that many of his readers see.

My opponent tries to stir prejudice against me and my position by saying that I and the Roman Catholics are driving the Bible from the school. I have no objections to a Christian teaching the Bible as a mere Christian, but I have shown that it is unscriptural to give glory in human organizations. If the State permits a teacher to read the Bible to the pupils, as has been done in our public schools, that teacher does that religious work merely as an individual Christian; but when the State appoints, bires, and regulates a Bible teacher, and makes that study part of the curriculum, then the teacher is no longer doing it as a mere individual. I am in favor of Christians giving glory to God in the church, but am much against their forming puman organizations in which to do this, and in their begging hundreds of thousands of dollars from the brethren to help their human organization to the church of its glory, as these "Bible colleges" are deing.

But our brother has really admitted what I have been showing. When speaking of our illustration of the McQuiddy Printing Company, and how the individual printer's work is lost as such and becomes part of that company, he says "it requires the managers, the printers, the pressmen, the bookbinders, the machines, the bookkeepers and stenographers all to do the work on which we put the label, 'McQuiddy Printing Company'. But any man knows that all these work logether and that each part of the organization is required to do individual work before we can have a completed job," Here our brother admits that the "individual work" must be lost in the whole—that the men in his employ must do their "individual work" as "part of the organization" of the McQuiddy Printing Company—in order to a "completed job." Just so, my brother, just so! And so the "individual work" of the Bible teacher in the "Bible college" must be done as the work of "part of the organization" of the school in order to the "completed job"—the graduate. But Paul commands us to do our work, not as "part of an organization" of man, but as part of the organization of the church.

"Unto him [God] be glory in the church."
Our brother says: "Neither the missionary society nor any other association of Christians [why did he not say organization, for that is the point at issue?] is wrong because it is a human organization. Whether a human organization is right or wrong depends altogether upon what Here is a most significant principle advanced, and one which Brother Kurfees is now and then giving to the Advocate readers; but it is a principle altogether different from what has been advanced by writers of Advocate through many years. Its readers know that one of the chief arguments they have offered against the societies has been that they are human organizations. The same is true of the Firm Foundation, Christian Leader, and other "Bible-college" journals. But now they say and other "Bible-college" journals. But now they say that societies and other organizations are all right, if they do not hinder the "autonomy of the churches," as Brother Kurfees calls it. Aid societies, endeavor societies, missionary societies, and other such human organizations are all right if they do the "right" kind of work—if they do not "usurp and take upon themselves the authority and control over the churches which God has specifically placed Thus the difference between these lege" journals and the Christian Standard on the society question is not in kind, but in degree, of power which they exercise. These "Bible-college" advocates are digressing from principles which they once advanced as well as from the word of God, and they need not wonder if some call them "the new digressives."

In conclusion I quote passages I have often seen in the Advocate and other "Bible-college" journals: "Every plant which my Heavenly Father hath not planted shall be roated up," "In vain do ye worship me, teaching for doctrines the commandments of men."—D. Austen Sommer, in Apostolic Review.

Noah-A Preacher of Righteousness.

BY H. LEO BOLES.

Noah's commission was to preach righteousness to an apostate generation. He was to represent the will of Jehovah to a godless race. Such a task required the strongest faith, the greatest courage, the warmest zeal, and a most righteous life. There is a moral grandeur in the character of Noah and a pathetic interest in his mission, which entitles him to our highest esteem and makes him a fertile source of encouragement to all of God's ministers to-day.

Noah would not be considered a successful evangelist when viewed from our modern conception of an evangelist. Only seven converts were made-his wife and his three sons and their wives. He was very unpopular with man, but faithful to God. Such is usually the case. The more popular the preacher is, the less faithful he is to God; or, turning it around, the more faithful he is to God, the less popular with man. Righteousness has never been a popular theme with the world. Felix and Drusilla, his wife, seem to have been pleased with Paul until "he reasoned of righteousness, and self-control, and the judgment to come." The unrighteous, profligate Felix soon dismissed from his presence the preacher of righteousness. Righteousness is the one thing that the world does not want to hear, and the preaching of it will always be unpopular with the masses. Many church people like to hear polemical preaching, not a few like to hear historical and biographical preaching. and a few like to hear apologetical preaching; but exceedingly small is the number that like to hear the preaching of righteousness. Many churches will demand and welcome such preaching as will rebuke others, but will give poor encouragement to the preacher who will preach rightcousness to them.

We are now prepared to see why Noah made so few converts. His preaching was too unpopular to make many converts. It seems strange that Noah could preach right-eousness for one hundred and twenty years, and live a life consistent with his preaching, and have such meager results. He does not seem to have been discouraged by such poor results, but, like Abraham of old, he staggered or wavered not through unbelief, but waxed strong through faith. His task was no more gigantic than his faith and courage. He realized that it was his duty and God's will for him to preach, and theirs to accept and obey. Their failure to accept did not release him from the obligation of preaching; he must continue; his salvation depended upon his persevering until the appointed end. His faithfulness to Jehovah consisted in his preaching righteousness unto that unyielding and headstrong generation.

His message was simple; they could understand it. God has never sent a message to the children of men, when so much depended upon their receiving it, and at the same time couched that message in language so difficult and complex that it could not be easily understood. Noah's message to the people was the simple message of turning from sins and practicing righteousness before God. They could understand this—they did understand this, but would not receive it. The message was simple; the preacher was faithful in proclaiming it in its simplicity. Never do we find on record one more faithful to Jehovah in proclaiming his will than was Noah. So the few converts were not due to a misunderstanding of the message; neither were they due to the unfaithfulness of the message; but the people were responsible for continuing in wickedness and sin.

Again, they had sufficient time to receive the message and correct their lives by it. A simple message with a faithful proclaimer and sufficient time to receive it left them wholly without an excuse. The responsibility and consequence of their failure to accept rests entirely upon them. We note here a general characteristic of God in all of his dealings with the children of men—God has never coerced man into obedience to him. He left it wholly with them. He gave a simple message through a righteous preacher, was long-suffering to them with ample time, yet he did not touch their free agency in accepting it. This is true to-day, God never forces man to accept his will.

The message of salvation to-day is plain and simple; any one can understand it who desires to be saved. Christ came and lived a simple life among the people and revealed the will of his Father in plain and simple language, and "the common people heard him gladly." This shows that the common people could understand him. Jesus did not call his disciples from the aristocracy of intelligence of that age and then give the message of salvation to them in signs and symbols, mixed with the finespun theories and doubtful philosophies which belong to the wisdom of man. His message was plain and simple, important and practical; his messengers, guided by the Holy Spirit, were faithful in proclaiming that message, and they were imbued with power to work miracles and demonstrate to the people that they were sent of God and that God was with them. God gives sufficient time and abundant opportunities to accept his message, but has never forced or coerced men and women to accept it. He leaves the fearful responsibility with man.

Noah's faithfulness and earnestness, zeal and perseverance, courage and fortitude in preaching righteousness to that generation did not check the people in their wickedness; they continued in their sin. "As were the days of Noah, so shall be the coming of the Son of man. For as in those days which were before the flood they were eating and drinking, marrying and giving in marriage, until the day that Noah entered into the ark, and they knew not until the flood came, and took them all away; so shall be the coming of the Son of man." (Matt. 24: 37-39.) continued in their way, heedless of what Noah had preached unto them, disregarding the warning that Jehovah had given. "And Jehovah said, My spirit shall not strive with man forever." (Gen. 6: 3.) This conveys the idea that the Spirit of God, through Noah, was striving with them. The idea of a contest, of wrestling, of earnest entreaty and persuasion, was used to turn them from their sin, yet they disregarded all and plunged headlong into destruction.

Los Angeles Notes.

BY S. H. HALL,

When I think of the responsibility that rests upon us because of our claims, it makes me shudder; and let it be understood that I am not calling in question our claimsmany of them. We teach that the church of Christ, just as he instituted it, is the most practical and beneficent organization that has ever existed. We claim that it is not in the power of man to bring into existence an institution that excels or equals the church of Christ. If this be true -and it is true-then we, as a people, should do a work that no other religious order does. And exactly this is what the members of the church of Christ did in the first century. With a handful, so to speak, to begin with, the church proclaimed the unsearchable riches of Christ so persistently that in the short time of about thirty-three years an inspired apostle could declare that the gospel had been "preached in all creation under heaven." (See Col. 1: 23.) The members of the church then did things. They took the words of Jesus, "Ye shall be my witnesses both in Jerusalem, and in all Judea and Samaria, and unto the uttermost part of the earth" (Acts 1: 8), and made them living realities. I am frank to say that I am not pleased with what the church of Christ is doing to-day. I sometimes wonder if we, as a people, are as untiring and persistent in trying to get the pure word of God to the people as the Adventists, Christian Scientists, Russellites, and Mormons are in proclaiming and scattering their false teaching. May I ask each reader of this to try to answer the question: Are we? And there is a cause. It is not only true that we do but little in comparison with what should be done; but if some do get out and do things for Christ's sake, it is best to say but little about it, lest the envy of some be aroused. To hear of revivals resulting in a hundred additions or a church established with house and lot paid for in one revival are the uncommon things among us. They are so uncommon that the man who has any such success is not only in danger of arousing the envy of some. but is himself in danger of being a bit self-inflated over his unusual success. But such success should be common things among us, and would be if we only loved and worked as did the early Christians. It will not do to put up the pitiful and, in fact, false cry: "O, the old Jerusalem gospel has ever made slow progress, and we cannot expect to do much better than we are doing." I say the statement is false, for never in the history of the world has a message made such rapid progress as the gospel of Christ in the first century. Then "multitudes both of men and women" were added to the Lord. Why not now?

We claim that the gospel of Christ-his teaching, his doctrine-is the most purifying and uplifting message that can be given to the people. In fact, we claim that this message, and only this, can save the people. Its conditions of pardon must not be added to or taken from. Its law of work and worship must ever be left just as it was preached by the Holy Spirit sent down from heaven. This claim certainly is true, and, being true, we should be the people to see that a faithful translation of the Holy Scriptures is given to every nation under the sun. But how many translations have we given the people? I shall not answer, for I am ashamed of the answer. Imagine how any one who knows the facts in the case feels when he drops into a congregation claiming to be the church of Christ and suggests that they use some carefully prepared lesson helps in their Bible study, and some good sister or brother looks wise and says, "Excuse me; the Bible is good enough for me; I prefer to have just a copy of it," when the fact is, if he were to be asked how he knows he has a copy of the Bible, he could not tell, if his life depended upon it. He holds what is claimed to be a translation of the "Holy Bible," and that is all he has. But ask him who made that translation, and he could not tell you that; but if he did have to say, very likely not a member of what is known as the church of Christ was on the translation committee. He would find, if he investigated, that what he is in the habit of calling members of sectarian churches did the translat ing. How does he know but that at some place the translators allowed their love for their peculiar ideas to cause them to use a word that did not fully translate the original into our tongue, or even mistranslated it? I am safe in saying that, of all people under the sun, we are the most logically bound to know the original tongue and to have a committee of scholars whose scholarship and honesty stand above reproach to give to the people a faithful translation of God's word. Yet is it not true that we have people who almost have fits if you suggest the name of a Bible college to them, and who positively refuse to fellowship brethren who strive to bring into existence colleges that are as good as the best, and in which God's word must be taught from the standpoint of the original text, and not merely from translations made by others? I was told by Brother Larimore that some very prominent statesman. I think he was, said to him, "You people freferring to those commonly known as the church of Christ] have more scripture and less sense than any people I know of," or words to that effect; and I must confess that what that man said is entirely too true of some of us.

Study the question as much as you please, and look at it from any angle whatsoever, and I state again that there is a responsibility resting upon us that makes me shudder. Shall we meet the responsibility like men? Or shall we continue to let men who waste time with endless genealogies that occasion disputes (1 Tim. 1: 4), men who waste time with "foolish and ignorant questionings" that "gender strifes" (2 Tim, 2: 23), and party makers who would divide the church over a whim, hold the church back in her onward progress? When I think of what the church should be, and what it must be if it meets the demands of the Scriptures, and then look at some things I have seen calling themselves "the church of Christ," it sounds more like a joke than a reality. I had much rather go to some place and build from the ground up than to take some things I have seen in my life calling themselves "churches of Christ" and try to get them to really do what their claims demand.

But with all this that does not look so good, the star of hope shines brightly, and I rejoice that there live to-day men who have such clear conceptions of the greatness of the work before us that they, with Nehemiah, can say to every one who invites them to waste time with foolish and unprofitable disputations: "I am doing a great work, so that I cannot come down: why should the work cease, whilst I leave it, and come down to you?" (Neh. 6: 3.) Is there not such a thing as never doing constructive work because of time wasted with obstructionists? Get out and do the work, for nothing is so easily seen and so effective as your teaching put into practice.

Georgia and the Far Southern Field.

BY B. C. GOODPASTURE.

STUDIES IN THE LIFE OF CHRIST.

The Problem. It is difficult to understand human life in all its complexities and relations. Inasmuch as our Lord, the Word, "became flesh" (John 1: 14) and dwelt among men, the consideration of his life, in this respect, involves a problem of like nature and difficulty. He was not only human, but also divine; he was "born of the seed of David according to the flesh" and "declared to be the Son of God with power, according to the spirit of holiness, by the resurrection from the dead." (Rom. 1: 3, 4.) The fact of his divinity adds to the problem. His life differs in one momentous particular from all others that were ever lived on this earth—it began ages before he was born. The beloved disciple said: "In the beginning was the Word, and the word was with God, and the Word was God. The same was in the beginning with God." (John 1: 1, 2.) Before the ancient foundations of the earth were laid or ever "the morning stars sang together, and all the sons of God shouted for joy" (Job 38: 7), he was in glory with the eternal Father (John 17: 5). Time and eternity, revelation and mystery, humanity and divinity are all brought to our attention in studying the sublime greatness of his holy life. It is as impossible for our minds to comprehend the life of Christ in all its relations as it is for the finite to contain the infinite. There is, however, a revelation of his life adapted to the nature and needs of man. Otherwise, why should he ever have left us a record of his so-journ in the world?

Why the study? 1. "The testimony of Jesus Is the spirit of prophecy." (Rev. 19: 10.) Take Jesus out of the Bible, and it is as a lifeless corpse. The Christ was, and is, its life and spirit. It was the "seed of the woman," the promised Messiah, that gave hope and inspiration to our first parents amid the sad and bitter ruins of Eden lost. He was the "Shiloh" of Jacob's dying prophecy (Gen. 49: 10), the "King of glory" in David's songs (Ps. 24: 7), the "Son of man" in Daniel's night visions (Dan. 7: 13), and "the Alpha and the Omega" of John's visions on Patmos. Without him the Old Testament is meaningless. Its sacrifices are without avail; its shadows, without substance; its prophecies, without fulfilliment; and its promises, without reality. Eliminate him from the New Testament, and it will be as a world from which the sun has been obliterated.

2. To know him is to know God. "If ye had known me, ye would have known my Father also: from henceforth ye know him, and have seen him." (John 14: 7.) "He that hath seen me hath seen the Father." (John 14: 9.) "And this is life eternal, that they should know thee the only true God, and him whom thou didst send, even Jesus." (John 17: 3.) In the Son we find the nature and attributes of God revealed to us in so far as it is necessary for us to know him. Apart from the Son we cannot know the Father. But "this is life eternal," that we "should know thee the only true God." Consequently we obtain eternal life by reason of our knowledge of the Father revealed through the Son.

3. He is our Savior and example. An angel said to Joseph in reference to Mary: "She shall bring forth a son; and thou shalt call his name Jesus; for it is he that shall save his people from their sins." (Matt. 1: 21.) He tasted death for every man. (Heb. 2: 9.) Jehovah "laid on him the iniquity of us all," and "with his stripes we are healed." (Isa. 53: 5, 6.) Gratitude and appreciation would demand that we study with an intense interest the life of the Man of Sorrows. The nature of things unavoidably necessitates the consideration of him, inasmuch as he suffered for us, leaving us an example, that we should follow in his steps. (1 Pet. 2: 21.)

Some people will never know Jesus as a loving, long-suffering Savior. They do not care for him now. His life does not appeal to them. Though he stands at their door and knocks, they will not let him in. An intimate, vital acquaintance with him they do not desire. They will one sad day know him as a just and faithful judge; they will become acquainted with the "wrath of the Lamb" when it is eternally too late; "for the great day of their wrath is come; and who is able to stand?" (Rev. 6: 16, 17.) "Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest. Take my yoke upon you, and learn of me." (Matt. 11: 28, 29.)

THE WORK IN SAVANNAH,

The outlook for the church in Savannah is promising. The interest in the cottage prayer meetings, regular Lord's-day services, and the work in general is growing. The churches which are having fellowship in this work will be glad to know that the brethren in Savannah are planning to buy or build a meetinghouse. Definite arrangements have not as yet been made, but a building fund has been started. It may be possible for them to buy a good house, They will consider buying a splendid church house which is soon to be for sale. This would be cheaper than to build a new one. A good house of worship would be a great advantage and asset to the work. The brethren in Savannah are alive and active, but limited in respect to numbers. Brother J. N. Copeland during the past year, in addition to his work in a printing office, rendered great service to the church through his efforts in the pulpit. Although Brother J. B. Beck is now giving all his time to the ministry of the word in Savannah and building up the church in a very satisfactory manner, Brother Copeland has not ceased to labor as he has opportunity in behalf of the gospel there. He is a splendid fellow worker with Brother Beck. time Brother Beck is exerting every effort to find the scattered disciples in Savannah. If you have a friend or relative in that city, send his name and address to Brother Beck, 109 East President Street.

NEWS ITEMS.

Brother H. T. King began a protracted meeting at South Pryor Street yesterday. The meeting starts off with good attendance and fine interest. Those who are acquainted with Brother King understand that we are having a feast of good things.

There was another fine morning service at West End Avenue yesterday. Two took membership with us, and one came from the Baptists. The tent meeting on the corner of Cooper and Glenn Streets closed last Thursday night, We had planned to continue the meeting till Friday night, but a downpour of rain prevented. During the meeting two were baptized, one came from the Baptists, and one took membership with the local congregation.

Brother John A. Klingman recently closed a fine meeting at Martinsburg, Ind., with ten additions.

Brother A. R. Hill, who spent the summer months preaching in Georgia, has returned to David Lipscomb College.

More About Bethlehem Church.

BY JAMES E. SCOBEY.

I have heretofore written some things in reference to the establishment of Bethlehem Church, east of Lebanon, Tenn., and of those who, under Barton W. Stone's preaching, were brought to understand the simplicity of the gospel in the conditions of being translated out of the kingdom of darkness into the kingdom of God's dear Son. They were an earnest, aggressive people, and were ready to give a reason, at all times, for their hope, as well as to "earnestly contend for the faith which was once delivered unto the saints." They had learned that scriptural baptism was not properly observed by sprinkling or pouring water on the penitent believer.

At their meetings they often had accessions. The creek, where baptism could be attended to, was some distance from the old log barn of a house in which they met for worship. They needed a new and better house. They determined to build one. It was also agreed that it should be a well-built frame house, capable of seating a large congregation. The place of the location caused some discussion. Finally, however, it was decided to locate the building right on the creek, close to where was "much water."

The first one I remember to have heard preach in the new house was "Little Jimmy Warren," a member of the congregation. He was of small stature; hence, called "Lattle Jimmy." The congregation had ceased to hold camp meetings; instead, they had instituted what they called "basket meetings." The members once in the year would bring baskets of provisions to the meetings each day while the protracted meeting lasted. They would have preaching in the morning, and at noon a bountiful repast was spread, of which all in the congregation were publicly invited to I in beginning it, and to accept what we offer.—Wilberforce.

partake; in the afternoon another sermon, and, if necessary, baptism was attended to.

The people in those days either rode horseback or walked to meeting. There was built near the church house a log house, where the provision baskets could be stored and, in case of rain, saddles could be removed from the horses and placed in the house and kept dry. The pretracted meetings generally lasted two weeks or more, and usually resulted in many conversions.

I have heard preach in that house many of the pioneers of the faith; and they stuck to the Book, simply placing before their hearers the story of the cross and the terms of salvation. They believed that the gospel was God's power to salvation, and they proclaimed it to the best of their ability-and they had ability. I will mention the names of some I heard: Calvin Curlee, J. J. Trott, Sandy E. Jones, Tolbert Fanning, Jesse Sewell, Edward Sweatt (my grandfather); and later, W. T. Kidwill, A. Alsup, and others.

In the early days of that congregation J. J. Trott, Sandy E. Jones, and Jesse Sewell held more protracted meetings for them than any other preachers. During one of these meetings there were J. J. Trott, Sandy E. Jones, and a Brother Barry. Brother Barry preached only once, but he was the baptist. About the close of the meeting the elders, William Palmer, John White, and my grandfather, James Scobey, under the shade of a tree, consulted about paying the preachers. They had about ninety dollars to give them. Brother Palmer said he thought they should give Brother Jones forty dollars; Brother Trott, thirty-five dollars; and Brother Barry, fifteen dollars. My grandfather said: "Poor preach, poor pay." So it may be sometimes now. The fine preachers get the big pay, and the common ones the little pay. But I suppose most of them are not preaching for the pay they receive, but to spend and to be spent for the gospel, that they may glorify God and enable him to bless humanity through an obedience to his will.

In the earliest days of this church it did not at once abandon its camp meeting and the mourners' bench; but converts were baptized into the name of the Father, Son, and Holy Spirit for the remission of sins, as Peter taught the Pentecostians. It was not long before they abandoned all sectarian appliances, finding no authority for them in the Book. They soon learned it to be their duty, as well as a privilege, to meet each Lord's day for worship and for showing the Lord's death till he comes again.

At one of the protracted meetings, Sandy E. Jones doing the preaching, I, in company with others, obeyed the gospel. On Sunday morning before communion service all the recent converts were invited to come forward and occupy the front seat, that they might be received into the church and be prepared to partake of the emblems. A song was sung, and the elders first, and then the members present, all marched before us, shaking our hands; and thus we were "shaken in." They did not think we were members of the church, nor did I, before we had thus been received. But long ago I learned better, and the Bethlehem church has learned that which makes one a Christian puts one into the church. Indeed, we are translated out of the kingdom of darkness into the kingdom of God's dear Son, becoming heirs of God and joint heirs with Jesus Christ, to enjoy the comforts and the consolations of the gospel of Christ while we live, and after death to rest from our labors. Hoping in life we shall at last hear the plaudit: "Come, ye blessed of my Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world."

Through the day we must often, even amidst our busiest occupations, renew our offering of all we do or design to God's glory. As much as possible we should pause before we begin any new occupation, and in a secret prayer, shot up like an arrow to him, pray him to purify our intention

Query Department

By J. C. McQUIDDY

James F. Milby wishes an explanation of Zech. 2: 1-5, The passage reads: "And I lifted up mine eyes, and saw, and behold, a man with a measuring line in his hand. Then said I, Whither goest thou? And he said unto me, To measure Jerusalem, to see what is the breadth thereof, and what is the length thereof. And, behold, the angel that talked with me went forth, and another angel went out to meet him, and said unto him, Run, speak to this young man, saying, Jerusalem shall be inhabited as villages without walls, by reason of the multitude of men and cattle therein. For I, saith Jehovah, will be unto her a wall of fire round about, and I will be the glory in the midst of her." He wishes to know who the "young man" is. The young man with the measuring line in his hand is probably a representation of Nehemiah, who received a commission from Artaxerxes Longimanus to build up the walls of Jerusalem, which had remained without being inclosed.

0 0 0

Mrs. A. J. Rhoten, of Gainesboro, Tenn., inquires to know the meaning of Rom. 9: 15, which reads: "For he saith to Moses, I will have mercy on whom I have mercy, and I will have compassion on whom I have compassion." This is quoted by Paul from Ex. 33: 19, which declares: "And he said, I will make all my goodness pass before thee, and will proclaim the name of Jehovah before thee; and I will be gracious to whom I will be gracious, and will show mercy on whom I will show mercy." On whom will the Lord have mercy? On those who fear him and keep his commandments. David says: "But the loving-kindness of Jehovah is from everlasting to everlasting upon them that fear him, and his righteousness unto children's children; to such as keep his covenant, and to those that remember his precepts to do them." (Ps. 103: 17, 18.)

$ $ $

J. E. Rowlett, of Fort Henry, Tenn., says: "I would like to have James 5: 14, 15 explained through the Gospel Advocate. Does this apply to the Christians of to-day? If so, what kind of oil should be used?" The passage reads: "Is any among you sick? let him call for the elders of the church: and let them pray over him, anointing him with oil in the name of the Lord: and the prayer of faith shall save him that is sick, and the Lord shall raise him up; and if he have committed sins, it shall be forgiven him." I believe that this refers to the miraculous age. Among the gifts of the Spirit was healing the sick. Some of the elders in the churches would likely have this gift. The early church during the miraculous age used oil for the healing of the sick. "And they cast out many demons, and anointed with oil many that were sick, and healed them." (Mark 6: 13.) It was not the anointing with off that was to save the sick, but it was the prayer of faith that was to save. It is always right to pray in faith and in accord with the will of God. I would not say that to anoint with oil would be a sin or do an injury, for some oils have healing properties.

0 0 0

Wilson Vantrease is somewhat puzzled to know the meaning of Matt. 5: 19. He says, "My commentaries seem to differ on it," and seeks for an answer through the "Query Department," of the Gospel Advocate. The passage is as follows: "Whosoever therefore shall break one of these least commandments, and shall teach men so, shall be called least in the kingdom of heaven; but whosoever shall do and teach them, he shall be called great in the kingdom of heaven." He wishes to know whether the sin referred to is a willful sin or a sin of ignorance. The meaning of the passage is that men are responsible for all sins and that a man will be held accountable for the breaking of any command. While the Roman Catholics now divide sin into mortal and venial sins, yet the Savior was impressing the thought that men would be held accountable and responsible for breaking any command of God, even though men might consider it the least of commandments. Men should be loyal and obedient and should obey every command of God.

$ $ $

Sallie Wilson, of Lindale, Texas, presents a peculiar case and appears to be very much disturbed over the action of the church. She says if a member misses one Lord's day that he is not allowed to partake of the emblems when he presents himself for worship upon the next Lord's day until he confesses the wrong and apologizes for having been absent the Lord's day previous. This seems to me to be highhanded, and I know of no authority in the New Testament for any such action. There is no positive command that requires one to be present upon each first day of the week. One should be present every Lord's day, as it is a great privilege to do so, unless sickness or some other good reason prevents. When we consider what the Lord has done for us, his great love and sacrifices for us, it is strange that we will deliberately absent ourselves from the worship upon the first day of the week. We are admonished not to do so. "If we love God, we will keep his commandments." Certainly Christians should be encouraged to be faithful and should be admonished to abound in every good work; but it is going beyond the spirit of the religion of Jesus Christ, simply because a member misses one Lord's day, to demand a confession and apology for that omission before allowing that member to go forward in the service of the Lord.

0 0

J. H. Hyde, of Fayette, Ala., wishes to know if the churches speken of in Heb. 2: 12 and Acts 7: 38 were churches built before Christ established his church. He says: "I think his was the first and only one until the present time." Acts 7: 38 reads: "This is he that was in the church in the wilderness with the angel that spake to him in the mount Sinal, and with our fathers: who received living oracles to give unto us." The marginal reading for "church" here is "congregation." The Greek word "ekkleesia," from which we have the word "church," simply means "the called out," or an assembly. This referred to a congregation in the wilderness, and was before the establishment of the church of Christ. Heb. 2: 12 reads: "I will declare thy name unto my brethren, in the midst of the congregation will I sing thy praise." Paul here quotes from Ps. 22: 22, which says: "I will declare thy name unto my brethren: in the midst of the assembly will I praise thee." As Paul quoted it and indorsed singing praise in the congregation, or church, it is entirely scriptural and proper to sing praises in all the churches of Christ. The querist is correct in thinking there is but one church, and that is the church which Christ estab Hshed, or founded, upon the day of Pentecost.

Q AT HOME AND ABROAD

F. B. Srygley has just closed a meeting at Bradyville, Tenn., with twenty-three baptisms, one from the Baptists, and seven reclaimed.

John W. Fry, vice president and treasurer of the Tenressee Orphans' Home, made us a very pleasant call last week and displayed his usual interest in the office.

- J. P. Curiee held a meeting near his home, in Cannon County, Tenn., which resulted in fourteen baptisms. The meeting was well attended and interesting throughout.
- C. E. Holt recently held a meeting at Lois, near Mulberry, Tenn. There is quite a large congregation at that place, and the meeting continued with interest for a week.
- F. L. Rowe, editor of the Christian Leader, spoke to the students at David Lipscomb College on Sunday evening. He was returning from a good meeting at Petersburg, Tenn.

Report from C. W. Holley, San Antonio, Texas, September 27: "Three from the Christian Church, three by statement, and one baptism at the South Flores Street church of Christ yesterday."

We enjoyed a visit last Friday from G. C. Brewer and wife. Brother Brewer has just closed a meeting at Murray, Ky., with one baptism. He was announced to begin a meeting last Lord's day at Portland, Tenn.

Otis J. Haynes is laboring in destitute fields in Arkansas. He reports four baptisms in a meeting near Crossett, Brother Haynes will appreciate a gift of money, books, or any other useful article. Address him at Hermitage, Ark.

J. Clifford Murphy writes that he closed a meeting at Shanghai, Ala., on September 29, with ten baptized and three reclaimed. This was a mission meeting, held mostly at the preacher's expense. The brethren promised to go to meeting on the first day of the week.

The church at San Francisco, Cal., through Sister T. J. McRae, reports three additions at recent services. Brother Larimore labors with this congregation, which meets in Richmond Hall, at the corner of Fourth Avenue and Clement Street. Visitors are always welcome.

From Ben West, Fort Worth, Texas, September 27: "Yesterday was a fine day at the Northside Church. Crowds came from eight congregations of the city at 3 P.M. for a two-hours' service of songs and exhortations. The Northside Church will begin a mission meeting this week at Rosen Heights Addition."

J. G. Malphurs, of Chaplin, Ky., was among our callers last Thursday. He wishes to put one of his children in the David Lipscomb College and also to arrange to do some preaching in and around Nashville. He has been preaching for about ten years and would doubtless render good service to any congregation that can use him,

Many of our contributors send us questions of a delicate nature and without names. Of course, under such circumstances, we cannot publish the query and answer it. We must have the names of all contributors before publishing the contribution. If we have not discretion enough to hold the matter as private, it should not be sent to us.

From S. P. York, Westmoreland, Tenn., September 26: "I did the singing for another meeting near Gallatin, recently. At the beginning the membership was only half as large as at the close. The meeting continued ten days. A part of my time for teaching music and singing for meetings is still open. Write me at once if you want my service.

From N. W. Proffitt, Emberton, Ky., October 1: "I closed my meeting at White Oak on the fourth Sunday night in September without any visible results. The crowds were small, but the interest was fine. I shall begin at Mount Gilead next Sunday. On Monday night after the second Sunday in October I am to begin a week's meeting at Temple Hill, Ky."

From Cled E. Wallace, Temple, Texas, September 27: "The Clarendon meeting resulted in twenty-five additions—thirteen baptisms. Brother Acuff did excellent work as song leader. The church has a neat, commodious brick home, erected at a great sacrifice. W. W. Brewer is the home preacher and has done fine work. I begin at Poyner, Texas, on October 1."

From A. J. Traylor: "The meeting that S. M. Jones and I held at Eagleville, Tenn., a few weeks ago was an interesting one, but there were no additions. However, the church was edified by Brother Jones' preaching. H. E. Winkler and I held a meeting recently at Vesta, Tenn. There were no baptisms, but several restorations. Great interest was manifested,"

From Charles L. Speir, Checotah, Okla., September 30: "I have just closed a four-days' meeting at Mellette, with ten additions by confession and baptism. The congregation at Mellette is only two months old. I established it the last of July. They have some forty-five members now and are all workers. I will preach for them once a month and hold their meeting next year."

We have the following request from R. L. Roberts: "Please state through the Gospel Advocate that I shall be in school at Henderson, Tenn., the coming year, and would like to hear from churches in reach of here that wish to secure a preacher to preach for them the coming year. I shall be glad to pay them a visit to get acquainted before arranging for the year's work."

From J. C. Pendergrass, Whitleyville, Tenn., September 30: "I closed a two-weeks' meeting on Brimstone Creek last Friday night. We had large crowds till the close, Five were baptized and two were reclaimed. I am now at Bethel, near Whitleyville. The meeting has been in progress four days, with four baptized and one reclaimed to date. We are having large crowds and good interest."

Married, at the residence of H. Leo Boles, 1400 Cedar Lane, Nashville, Tenn., September 25, Mr. Faulconer Halcomb, of Adairville, Ky., and Miss Ruth Orr, of Lewisburg, Tenn. H. Leo Boles officiated. Both were members of the senior class at David Lipscomb College, spring term, 1920. They both were very popular as students, and their classmates and fellow students will be glad to congratulate them as they launch out upon the voyage of life together.

A. G. Freed, president of the Freed-Hardeman College, Henderson, Tenn., writes: "One hundred and eighty-seven students were enrolled at the opening of the Freed-Hardeman College, Henderson, Tenn. All departments are well represented. The teachers and students are elated. Work on the ladies' new home is being pushed. It is a magnificent building. Many students are yet to come. We have catalogues of the school for those who are interested. Write for them."

From T. S. Bain, Muskogee, Okla., September 27: "Married, on Tuesday evening, September 21, at the home of Brother and Sister Cannon, Paul W. Weigh to Mrs. Etta Buchanan, both of this city, the writer officiating. Brother Weigh is one of our most substantial members. Mrs. Weigh was an active member of the Baptist Church. At our Sunday service she made the good confession and will be buried with her Lord in baptism for the remisssion of sins. May God's blessings rest upon them,"

M. C. Cayce is engaged in a meeting at Rothchild Avenue, in East Nashville. Interest and attendance are both good and four have been baptized. It was expected that the meeting would close on September 29, but on account of the interest it was decided to continue until Sunday, October 3. Immediately after the close of this meeting Brother Cayce will return to Jackson, Miss., and hold a tent meeting unless the weather is too cold. He will still remain in Mississippi, building up and strengthening the weak places.

Under date of September 24, W. S. Long, of Washington, D. C., writes: "To complete all payments on the church building in Washington City and to properly seat and furnish it, we need at least eighteen thousand dollars. This should be raised by January 1, 1921; and if we could only get a hearty response from all the congregations in the month of October, November, or December, all would be over. I have been among the churches for two months, and have received in cash and pledges thirty-five hundred dollars, but most of it is yet to be collected."

From J. H. Wommack, Sulphur, Okla., September 25: "W. L. Oliphant, of Muskogee, closed an eleven-days' meeting for us at this place last Monday night. There were forty-five additions, including two that confessed the next day at the water. Thirty-one were baptized, two were reclaimed, and twelve others placed their membership with us. The attendance was good throughout and good interest was manifested. Brother Oliphant is an able young man, only twenty years old, and has lots of friends here. We hope to have him with us again next year."

From W. Curtis Porter, Monette, Ark., Route 1, September 28: "J. W. Brents, of Lorenzo, Texas, closed his labors with us on Sunday night. He was with us ten days and preached some grand discourses. Thirteen were baptized and three were restored. Brother Brents is a zealous and godly man who will accomplish good wherever he goes. On account of the interest it was thought best not to close the meeting; so F. M. Eldridge will continue it another week. There are three more to be baptized to-day, and we hope many others may take their stand for God before we

From S. E. Templeton, Wichita Falls, Texas, September "The meeting at Mangum, Okla, closed last Tuesday nt, having continued ten days. There were five prenight, having continued ten days. clous souls haptized into Christ and one restoration. I think I have never seen people more in earnest than these six, the five baptized and the one confessing her sins. I think I have never enjoyed a meeting more than this one. There are great opportunities before the congregation at Mangum for doing good. May we all do our best in the work of faith and laber of love.' I am now on my way to Atlanta, Ga.

From J. A. Taylor, Imboden, Ark., September 30: "My meeting closed at Walnut Ridge with good interest. Very large crowds attended our services at each meeting. Fortylarge crowds attended our services at each meeting. Forty-three were added to the one body—twenty-four by baptism and nineteen by restoration-and new life created in the We hope that much good will be derived from the meeting. The brethren are planning to buy or build a place for worship at once. They have been meeting in the They would be glad to have any brother passcourthouse. ing through meet with them. I am here for a few-days' From here I am to go to Cleansboro, III.; then meeting. back to Knobel, Ark, for a meeting; and from there I shall go to be at home with wife and boy for a few days.

Some years ago J. D. Tant was shut out of the columns of the Gospel Advocate on what was thought to be reliable evidence, but further developments proved this to be untrue. For the injustice done him I offer my apology, and deeply regret the occurrence. The Advocate never charged nor believed him guilty of any criminal conduct, and only thought that his plainness of speech often amounted to bluntness, which offended some people. The management of the Advocate was only anxious for him to prove himself it nocent: but when his accusers refused to meet him in Nashville, J. D. Tant offering to pay all railroad expenses to and from Nashville, he had no way left to exonerate himself. It now appears clear that that there is no truth ir. the accusation.

From Guy Renfro, Snowdoun, Ala., September 29: "On the third Sunday in September 1 closed my work for the summer with the Highland Avenue Church in Montgomery. I was gratified to note that the attendance was larger at all the services of the church than when I began preaching there in June. The interest in the prayer meetings was due to the leadership of Prof. J. M. Timmerman. Brother Welch is an enthuslastic Sunday-school worker. Brother Hines from Hopkinsville, Ky., will be with the church regularly after October 1. We had two good servchurch regularly after October 1. We had two good services at Liberty last Sunday, with dinner on the ground. I did not think I would teach this winter, but pressure was brought to bear until I consented on the day before school opened to teach in the Barnes School, Montgomery. glad now I am in the school, for I consider it one of the Brother McQuiddy has received the following note from Sister Sarah Andrews, written from Shizuoka, ken, Okitsu, Japan, September 6: "I trust you will kindly pardon the long delay in making acknowledgment for the nice contribution sent through the Gospel Advocate office sometime are a large that the delay has been accounted. I hope the delay has not been taken as a sign time ago. of ingratitude, for I assure you it was received with the same thankful heart with which all donations are received. I tried to use it to the best advantage, asking the Lord to guide me. When able to work, I have been exceedingly I have not been well for the past few weeks. I was perhaps threatened with typhoid and was bedfast several days. I will appreciate at any time any suggestions or advice that you may see fit to give. I am young and the responsibility is great. I continually pray for wisdom. May the Lord bless you."

We wish to call attention to the needs of the Tennessee Orphans' Home. The notice below speaks for itself:

"The Commissioner of Department of Fire Prevention, State of Tennessee, has ordered the Tennessee Orphans' Home to install fire escapes. The building has two separate stairways. However, it is a three-story building, not counting the basement. Fire extinguishers have been installed to protect against fire. Nevertheless, should the building burn and children lose their lives for the want of a fire escape, we would all feel that an important duty for the protection of children had been neglected. We, therefore, request all interested in the protection of the children to contribute according to the dictates of the conscience of each. We can assure every one that no money will be wasted; and should there be more than required for the fire escape, the excess will be turned into the general fund the maintenance of the children. kept of all contributors. Send all contributions to Tennessee Orphans' Home, Columbia, Tenn.

"Cordially and respectfully,
"Tennessee Orphans' Home."

From R. T. Sisco, Farmersville, Texas, October 1: "On August 22 S. H. Hall began a meeting at Farmersville and continued it ten days. From the first sermon the church saw they had made no mistake in securing him. crowds grew from the start to the finish, who came at night was immense and attention all that We began with two services a day, but could be desired. on the third day Brother Hall told the people there would be three services. At both day meetings the crowds were large. The church was greatly helped. The number added was great, but I do not think these will compare with the great work of seed sowing which Brother Hall did. Many heard the word who had never heard it before. Another great good done was that some infidels were aroused and wanted to know if Brother Hall would meet their man if wanted to know it brother rian would neer their half it they had five hundred dollars in the bank. 'Yes,' said Brother Hall, 'I will meet him without a penny.' We are hopeful that this debate will come off next year, when Brother Hall will return from California to hold another We are praying for our brother that he may live long to do the great work he is so well suited for. Not only the church learned to love him, but the world as well. The church is at work now in order to be ready for the meeting to be held next year."

Notes From West Tennesses.

BY JOHN R. WILLIAMS.

Our meeting at Cleverdale began on September 5 and closed on September 14. On account of my physical condi-tion, the meeting had to close too soon. Six were baptized, and I hope the congregation is in better condition. Cloverdale congregation is in the midst of one of the most prejudiced neighborhoods in Obion County. there is less prejudice or more since the meeting, I know

The meeting at Hornbeak, where I preached my first sermon nearly thirty-six years ago and where I have lived all this time, began on September 19 and closed on September 30. Thirteen were baptized, one came from the Baptists, and two took membership with the congregation-sixteen in all. Among the number baptized, one was my daughterin-law, two were my grandchildren, and one a nephew. The congregation at Hornbeak is in better condition in every respect than it has been for a long time, and we are Loping and praying for greater things in the future

All the places I have preached this year have called me for work during 1921.

Brother B. G. Swinney, of Greenfield, led the song service in all my meetings this year, and did his work well and to the satisfaction of all. Perhaps we will hold one or two more meetings, but have not decided yet just where.

I am glad to say that the outlook of the congregations in Obion County is bright and that greater work will be done than ever before. The harvest is ripe and the laborers (preachers) are few—much to be done and few to do it.

Fine Opening at David Lipseomb College.

BY A. B. L.

The registration of students at David Lipscomb College came fully up to the expectations of the management. formal opening exercises were held on Friday, October 1, and were largely attended. Inspiring addresses were made and were largely attended. Inspiring addresses were made by A. B. Barret, of Austin, Texas; T. Q. Martin, of St. Marys, W. Va.; F. W. Smith and others. Both dormitories are filled with boys and girls, representative of several States, and all seem eager for an education. We are hear-ing many expressions of approval of the new features that have been added to the college work. We are grateful to all who have helped to secure the present equipment.

Conducted for a half century by D. Lipseomb and E. G. Sewell,

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

$2.50 a year, in advance; to Canada and foreign countries, $3.00, in

$2.50 a year, in advance; to Canada and foreign countries, $3.00, in advance.

Remittances will be at our risk when sent by express or post-office money order, in registered letter, or by draft payable to our order. The date on your tab shows the time to which your subscription is pald. When money is received, the date will be changed, which will answar for a receipt. Two weeks' time must ordinarily occur from the time your remittance is sent before the tab on your paper is changed; if not changed by that time, notify us at once.

This paper is malled regularly to all subscribers until definite orders in writing are received and all arrearages paid in full. If you wish us to stop your paper, write us to that effect; but do not ask it unless you have paid all arrears, if there are any. Do not ask your postmaster to attend to it for you, but do it yourself.

When changing your post-office address, tell us your old as well as your new address; otherwise two papers might be charged to you. Subscribers after paying for their papers, will favor us by noting whether the date on the address label is changed, and, if it is not changed within a month, by writing to us. We are careful, but mistakes may occur or letters may be lost. Our rule is to change the date on the day payment is received; but the mechanical work of correcting and printing the list takes time, and payments even from near-by places may not appear the first week. Credits for payments from a distance may be even more delayed. Mistakes are easily rectified if prompt notice is given.

All communications should be addressed to Gospel Advocate, $17-$19 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tean.

Guarantee of Advertising,

Guarantee of Advertising.

All the advertisements in this paper are, we believe, signed by trustworthy persons. To prove our faith by works, we will make good to actual subscribers any loss sustained in trusting advertisers who prove to be deliberate swindiers. We shall not attempt to adjust triffing disputes between subscribers and honorable business men who advertise, nor pay the debts of honest bankrupts. To make this guarantee effective, in all cases say in writing advertisers, "I saw your advertisement in the Gospel Advecate;" and if anything goes wrong, notify us immediately in writing.

JACOBS & CO., ADVERTISING MANAGERS.

Clinton, S. C.

Entered at post office at Nashville, Tenn., as second-class matter. Published weekly at Nashville, Tenn.

Brother Sommer Concedes the Issue.

BY J. C. M'O.

On page 970 of this issue is an article from D. Austen Sommer commenting on one of my articles which emphasized the necessity of teaching the Bible everywhere. The reader is asked to give his "comments" a careful reading, In a former article published in the Gospel Advocate of April 15, 1920, he quotes from me as follows: "Does my critic deny the scriptural authority to teach the Bible in a school, in a saloon, in a Bible school, in classes, or anywhere else? If so, he should cite the scripture that denies the right." In answer he said: "I now accept our brother's challenge and proceed to give the scripture. The inspired Paul says 'by the church' the manifold wisdom of God is to be made known, and that we should give glery unto God 'in the church.' (Eph. 3: 10, 21.)" When, as a Christian, one teaches the Bible anywhere, he is in the church, and, therefore, "in the church" is teaching the Bible. He also said in the same article: "The fallacy in the reasoning of the 'Bible-college advocates' lies in the statement that it is scriptural to teach the Bible in a school, in a saloon, in a Bible school, in classes, or anywhere else." Thus he commits himself to the principle that it is unscriptural to teach the Bible in a school or to teach it everywhere. This is a complete denial of the commission as recorded in Matt. 28: 19, 20 and Mark 16: 15, 16, where Christians are commanded to teach all nations and to preach the gospel to every creature in all the world. The early church did not interpret the commission as does he, for in obedience to this commission they went abroad, or everywhere, teaching the word of God. (Acts 8: 4.) If Christians teach the word of God "everywhere," as "school" is included in "everywhere," they will certainly teach it in the school.

The early Christians must have been "Bible-college advocates," according to my opponent. But I have even gone further than this in this investigation and have shown that Paul taught the Bible for two years in the school of Tyrannus, and that he has admitted that this was an organized school in a former article. In reply to this, he says in the issue of the Apostolic Review of June 22: "Brother Mc-Quiddy tries to confuse the minds of the readers by mixing together what is done as part of an organization and what is done incidentally. He does this by harping on Paul's teaching 'in the school of Tyrannus.' Was Paul's teaching part of the work of that organization (if they had an organization), or was it simply something incidentally connected with it?" He now wishes to change front again, and whereas before he held that Tyrannus' school was organized, he now seeks to break the force of his own admission by the use of "If" twice. His teaching stripped of all needless phraseology is that Paul taught the Bible two years incidentally in the organized school of Tyrannus.

Yes, I started out to show that H Is proper to teach the Bible in Bible schools and everywhere else that it can be taught, and our brother has now admitted it. In vain does he complain that I will not defend Bible colleges as they exist, for this is not the proposition that I started out to defend. The brother must stick to the issue; for I am willing to affirm now, just as I affirmed in the beginning, that it is scriptural to teach the Bible in schools, even in organized schools, and to teach it everywhere, and I have already proved this by the Scriptures and also by the admission of Brother Sommer himself. He undertook to cite the scripture that denies this right, but has not

But he says Christians lose their identity so far as their work is concerned in the Bible school. He says: "It is not the individual Christian as an individual that is teaching the Bible, but the college." This asserts the individual loses his identity. Whether a man is employed by a chartered corporation or an individual has nothing to do with the loss of identity, so far as work is concerned. They must not do this. They must always understand that they have a Master in heaven and that they are responsible to him. I do not believe they ought to be in any school or in anything else where they are not allowed to teach the Bible. Teaching the Bible is the chief duty of the Christian; then what right has he to be in a school where he has not the right, in whole or in part, to teach the Bible? I am not "harping" on Paul's teaching in the school of Tyrannus; but it is an undeniable fact, according to the Scriptures, that he taught in that school, which Brother Sommer says was organized, for two years, and that it was not wrong for him to do so. If it were not wrong in Paul. and could not be wrong in him, how can it be wrong if other Christians do likewise? But he seeks to break the force of the Scriptures by saying that Paul only taught incidentally, and not permanently, in that school. Very well, but it was not incidentally wrong for him to teach in it incidentally. Then how could it be permanently wrong for him to teach in it permanently? Is it "harping" on this to call attention to a plain and reasonable fact? By no means. Harp as much as you please, Brother Sommer; but, while harping, see if you can answer these facts.

No, I do not try to stir up prejudice against my opponent by showing that he, like the Catholies, is trying to keep the Bible out of the schools. But his position ought to stir up considerable opposition among those who believe that Christians should teach the Bible everywhere they can. Do not complain at me for the kind of company you are in. Right here I would call attention to the fact that you have not replied to my last article on "That Creed" recommending spiritual managers for the church at Denver, which you indersed. I have not heard of the Apostolic Review or of Daniel Sommer criticizing you for indorsing such a paper, and yet here is information which shows that Daniel Sommer did condemn a paper of a very similar nature presented in Philadelphia, and called the man who presented it "ignorant." Is it possible the thing is right because presented by those who are in sympathy with the Apostolic Review and its methods, and the same thing wrong when it is presented by those who oppose such methods? Daniel Sommer, in his defense against E. E. Joynes and certain others, says: "As another illustration of the ignorance of this same E. A. Fox, I mention that in a letter to the church, dated December 14, 1917, he expressed himself thus: 'I would suggest in place of an eldership that a number of brothers be appointed to take charge of the church's affairs and guide It and foster in their bosoms what a child of God holds dear, the extending and building of the borders of the church. Perhaps seven brothers may be found suitable to take this work up, for the time, anyway. It is well to have a number, and not two or three."" Daniel Sommer also says on the same page of his defense: "E. E. Joynes used just about these words: 'He is young and don't know much. He is not very well balanced.' E. E. Joynes may deny that he ever used such words concerning E. A. Fox, and deny as much as he pleases. But I heard them, I think just as I gave them, from his own mouth." When D. Austen Sommer indorsed the paper recommending spiritual managers, of a like character, did Daniel Sommer publish him as being "ignorant" and "not very well balanced?" I have not seen any such publication. If such action was heresy in Philadelphia, as correctly charged by Daniel Semmer, was not the indorsement of six brethren for "spiritual managers" of the Denver church by D. Austen Sommer the indorsement of heresy? If not, why not? In the same defense, in a letter of January 29, 1918, to Brother Mackey, Daniel Sommer says: "But you and the brethren generally seem to have forgotten that an evangelist is not a disciplinarian of any one except the elders-that is, when A CHURCH HAS ELBERS." Where does the Bible say an evangellst is the disciplinarian of elders? Nowhere, How easy it is for Sommer and his sympathizers to bring charges against elders and have their evangelists sent to exercise "evangelistic authority!" Daniel Sommer speaks as one having authority when he concludes his letter to Mackey: "My statement of conclusions might be made a part of the record of the case you have been dealing with." Well may the churches pray to be delivered from such assumption of power. Perhaps this is the reason why my last article on "That Creed" has never seen light in the Apostolic Review. Beasting certainly comes with poor grace when a man will not live up to his agreement to publish an article. In a letter to E. M. Borden of July 13, 1920, D. Austen Sommer says: "What McQuiddy did at Denver would have been called 'evangelistic assumption' if any man connected with the Review had done it. He railroaded through an old bachelor for bishop, and by voting at that." When he wrote that, he knew I had nothing to do with selecting and choosing the elders and deacons. He complains because I did not kick out the men the church wanted and "railroad through" men wanted by a very small "faction" over the voice of the church. Even Daniel Sommer, in advising the church at Philadelphia, in his "Defense Against E. E. Joynes and Certain Others." says: "The cases of discipline you now have should be tried before the entire congregation of members, and publiely disposed of." In this case Daniel did not vote to override the church as D. Austen votes to do. Thus we have father against son. Error cannot be consistent. But D. Austen refuses to publish in the Review my exposé of his popish proclivities concerning the Denver work, though I have published all of his articles in this discussion and expected him to do likewise, as understood. Why does he refuse to allow his readers to see my defense?

But as it is not wrong to teach the Bible permanently in a school, since Paul taught it for two years in a school incidentally, and as D. Austen has admitted this, my work is done. I shall not allow him to shift the issue by talking about Bible colleges, pastors, clergymen, etc. I will, however, notice some of his weak quibbles, that cannot be dignified by calling them "arguments," in his effort to confuse the minds of our readers. He says: "Brother Mc-Quiddy is still determined that a negro cook shall not be considered a part of his family." Well, I am determined I will not consider her a part of my family, for she is not. No one can be a part of my family except by birth or by adoption. When I stated that "family" came from the Greek word "patria" and that "household" came from the Greek word "olkos," I was not considering the derivation of the word, but the translation of both words in the New Testament; and since the New Testament was written in Greek, and not in Latin, "household" is translated from the Greek word "oikos." and "family" from the Greek word "patria," and not from the Latin "familia." No, it. is not necessary for me to "brush up" on the Latin in order to translate the Greek. My critic had better look out, or his father will yet charge him with ignorance. The truth is, he had better "brush up" on the Greek, if there is any brushing up to be done. So far as the synagogue school is concerned, I was simply giving the meaning of the Greek word, and was not quoting from the Bible or translating. I defy our brother to deny that I gave the proper meaning of the word. This is all that I am trying to get him to understand. Brother Sommer seeks to change the issue in almost every paragraph that he writes, and in so doing misrepresents the position that I have taken. Be says that in my first article I undertook to show that it is proper to teach the Bible in Bible schools and everywhere else and to show that "in school" is the same as "in the church," If his life depended upon it, he could not show where I have attempted to show that "in school" is the same as "in the church." Of course, he would deny that; but he had better deny things that I have affirmed and which he agreed to show were not correct, but now has admitted are correct. The point that I have made is that a Christian should teach the Bible everywhere. A Christian should teach the Bible on the farm, but because I say this it does not follow that "on the farm" is "in the church" The Christian on the farm is "In the church" and is doing the teaching. A Christian is under obligation to teach the Bible in his store, but it does not follow that "in the store" is "in the church;" but the man in the store, If a Christian, when he teaches there or anywhere else, is "in the church." So long as a man is a Christian, he is "in the church" wherever he is. This is all I have ever contended, and I challenge him to deny it. Again, having assumed that when one teaches the Bible in a school he loses his identity, he now attempts to show that a man's work loses its identity. While I do not accept this, this is not the issue. No one said that when a man was pald to do work on any job, that, after the job was completed and he was paid for his work, he should receive the pay for the job. No individual worker on the job, however, loses his identity, but is paid for the work that he does. If he is a good workman, he draws a good salary; if a poor workman, he draws a poor salary. The work of some workmen is such that it speaks for itself everywhere and on all occasions. But he claims that my workers lose their identity. He is not aware of the fact that the MeQuiddy Printing Company is simply J. C. McQuiddy doing business under that name, just as the Apostolic Review is doing business under the name of Mrs. K. W. Sommer, 904 Udell Street, Indianapolis, Ind. According to his reasoning, Daniel Sommer, as well as D. Austen Sommer and every other employee in that concrn, has lost his identity. But it needs no argument to convince our readers that Daniel Sommer is a unique character and will never lose his identity so long as he lives. Men employed by chartered companies do not lose their identity any more than those employed by an individual. Being employed by an individual has nothing to do with the loss of the identity of the workman. Each individual is paid for his individual work whether done for a corporation or an individual.

The school is helping parents do the work of teaching and training the children. Victor Hugo declares: "Those parents who send their children to a school over the doors of which it is written, 'Here religion is not taught,' ought to be summoned before a magistrate." Sir Walter Scott says of the value of the Bible: "The most learned, acute, and dligent student cannot, in the longest life, obtain an entire knowledge of this one volume. The more deeply he works the mine, the richer and more abundant he finds the ore. He will at least leave the world confessing that the more he studied the Scriptures, the fuller conviction he had of his own ignorance and of their inestimable value."

Will Brother Sommer tell us, if he were correcting a bad boy, whether or not he would teach him repentance? If so, he would be teaching him the Bible. If he were in a school teaching a boy to be truthful, he would be teaching the Bible. If he were to teach him to be honest, he would be teaching the Bible. I repeat with emphasis that the Bible should be taught in school, in the store, in the field, in the shop, and, in fact, everywhere. Ignorance of the Bible is dangerous. We should educate the moral along with the intellectual. The world is coming more and more to a realization of the necessity of teaching the Bible, not only in public schools, but in all other schools.

If this article appears scattering, our readers will please excuse on the ground I am following Brother Sommer.

Aspiration.

I count this thing to be grandly true:
That a noble deed is a step toward God,
Lifting the soul from the common clod,
To a purer air and a broader view.

We rise by the things that are under feet;
By what we have mastered of good and gain;
By the pride deposed and the passions slain,
And the vanquished ills that we hourly meet.

We hope, we aspire, we resolve, we trust,
When the morning calls us to life and light;
But our hearts grow weary, and ere the night
Our lives are trailing in the sordid dust.

We hope, we resolve, we aspire, we pray,
And we think that we mount the air on wings
Beyond the recall of sensual things,
While our feet still cling to the heavy clay.

Wings for the angels, but feet for the man!
We may borrow the wings to find the way;
We may hope and resolve and aspire and pray;
But our feet must rise, or we fall again.

Heaven is not reached at a single bound;
But we build the ladder by which we rise
From the lowly earth to the vaulted skies,
And we mount to its summit round by round.

-J. G. Holland.

SELECTIONS BY THE EDITOR

It is never too late to give up our prejudices.—Thoreau. God's best gift to us is not things, but opportunities.—

God's best gift to us is not things, but opportunities.—Alice W. Rollins.

No one is really miserable who has not tried to cheapen life.—David Starr Jordan.

All one's life is music if one touches the notes rightly and in tune.—Richard Rumbold.

Nothing is ever done beautifully which is done in rivalship; nor nobly, which is done in pride.—Ruskin.

Let us be of good cheer, remembering that the misfortunes hardest to bear are those which never come.— Lowell.

Few men suspect how much mere talk fritters away spiritual energy—that which should be spent in action spends itself in words. Hence he who restrains that love of talk lays up a fund of spiritual strength.—F. W. Robertson.

Be sure of the foundation of your life. Know why you live as you do. Be ready to give a reason for it. Do not, in such a matter as life, build on opinion or custom or what you guess is true. Make it a matter of certainty and science.—Thomas Starr King.

The books which help us most are those which make us think the most. The hardest way of learning is by easy reading; but a great book that comes from a great thinker is a ship of thoughts, deep freighted with truth and with beauty.—Theodore Parker.

There is genius and power in persistence. It conquers all opposers; it gives confidence; it annihilates obstacles. Everybody believes in the determined man. People know that when he undertakes a thing, the battle is half won; for his rule is to accomplish whatever he sets out to do.—Orison Swett Marden.

If there be no nobility of descent, all the more indispensable is it that there should be nobility of ascent—a character in them that bear rule so fine and high and pure that as men come within the circle of its influence they involuntarily pay homage to that which is the one preeminent distinction, the royalty of virtue.—Henry C. Potter.

The beauty of work depends upon the way we meet it—whether we arm ourselves each morning to attack it as an enemy that must be vanquished before the night comes, or whether we open our eyes with the sunrise to welcome it as an approaching friend who will keep us delightful company all day, and who will make us feel at evening that the day was well worth its fatigues.—Lucy Larcom.

To be true—first to myself—and just and merciful. To be kind and faithful in the little things. To be brave with the bad; openly grateful for good; always moderate. To seek the best, content with what I find—placing principles above persons and right above riches. Of fear, none; of pain, enough to make my joys stand out; of pity, some; of work, a plenty; of faith in God and man, much; of love, all.—Leigh Mitchell Hodges.

We need to lay a new emphasis upon the fact that sin is madness. That is not new; that is as old as the parables of Jesus; that is as old as the parable of the prodigal son. Watch him as he leaves his father's house and finds his way into the far country, and then mark those suggestive words that tell of his coming back: "When he came to himself." The inference is that he had been beside himself; that he had been mad. He had lost his sense of relative values; he had imagined that the best lover he had was his foe.—G. C. Morgan.

Current Thought

When An Idol Steps Down.

Man is by instinct a worshiper. He is forever lifting his gaze to things that are greater than himself, things that are finer, nobler, purer, and bending the knee of adoration. It is the veneration of the ideal that differentiates him from the beast, that lifts him from the ground level of animalism.

Bereft of ideals, man becomes but a plodding creature of habit, a groveler in the rut, crawling through a colorless existence. For every smirch of clay he finds in his idels, for every blemish exposed in the objects of his worship, he is so much the pocrer. The toppling of one ideal weakens his faith in all the beautiful visions his mind and soul have reared, leaving him impoverished indeed.

Woman to-day is in grave danger of destroying one of man's most cherished shrines—the shrine at which he worships purity, modesty, and virtue. In her striving for sex equality she is overlooking the fact that men do not venerate equals. To which woman would quickly reply that she does not want veneration. Perhaps not; but assuredly she would not willingly destroy the quality of veneration in man, his capacity for raising his eyes to the sublime and the beautiful.

In seeking this so-called equality, woman is not ascending. She is merely causing man to descend in proportion as she approaches his plane. By equality we do not refer to the right to vote or to hold property or do those things inherent in all human beings with minds of their own. We refer to the disquieting efforts of the modern girl to share in the liberties and slackness of men.

The half-clad debutante smoking a cigarette and with her feet propped on a table edge may be pleasing in the eyes of her dancing partner, but subconsciously he is comparing her to the most beautiful picture in his mind-gallery—the picture of his mother. By that much she has hurt him, and it is impossible for her to hurt him without hurt-ing herself.

There may be nothing morally wrong about a girl smoking a cigarette—there isn't, as a matter of fact; there may be nothing wrong in wearing a costume covering little below the knees and above the waist; there may be nothing wrong in the wriggling, cuddling movements of the latest dances; but there is something wrong, terribly wrong, in permitting man to think that the modesty and sweetness exemplified by his mother are no more.

by his mother are no more.

We wonder if many women have considered the matter in this light—of the effect that the clothing, amusements, language, and general demeanor of the girl to-day have on the men, how their ideals are being destroyed and how their standards of decency are being lowered.

Woman in her first strivings for equality set forth the argument that if she were allowed on the same plane with man as to rights, amusements, etc., she would be to him an elevating influence. Has she been?

with all her frankness of dress and freeness of movement and speech, is intrinsically just as good and as virtuous a woman as she of the hoopskirts, crinolines, and mid-Victorian fainting spells, but there is a vast difference in the effect she produces in the opposite sex.

Familiarity breeds contempt. When an idol gets off its dais and mingles freely with the worshipers in the temple, passing badinage with them and acting on terms of equality, that idol is breeding familiarity and eventually contempt. Its usefulness in provoking adorers to thoughts of higher and purer things is at an end.

We like to think of women as angels of chastity and modesty far above men, and we hate to see them dropping from the stars to play in the mud with us. We may like it for a while, but in the course of time we are going to miss something when we turn our eyes upward.

We are not inveighing per se against modern dress; we are not seeking to reform dance movements, or even trying to modify the habits of the young ladies of to-day. We are pleading for the men. Do not destroy their ideals or their visions; for when you do, ladies, you will find them most pitiable companions.—Samuel Hellman, in Nashville Banner.

While there may be some few things in this article that our readers will not indorse, yet, in the main, it is so good and so well said that I take pleasure in giving it to our readers. Unless the ideals of our women were wrong, we would not have such practices. The things that are attracting attention, such as dress and the modern dance, are but symptoms of the disease. While we are calling attention to the failings of the women, it would be well also to call attention to the fact that our young men are staying up until the late hours of the night, sometimes even until three or four o'clock in the morning, and in extreme cases until the break of day. Our young ladies are also keeping late hours. It does seem that the mothers should see to it that their daughters are not permitted to sit up until midnight and even until one or two o'clock in the morning. It needs no argument to convince any one that this is not the proper thing to do. It may be that fathers and mothers are to be censured for acquiescing in the dissipations of their sons and daughters. When privileges are allowed between the sexes that amount to license and when parents quietly submit to the dissipations and immoralities that are now prevalent, it is time for all editors, preachers, and, in fact, all people who love righteousness, to cry out and spare not. We know that no good can come of such practices. The Bible tells our women how to adorn themselves. Why not do as God says instead of yielding to our own desires?

Pussyfoot's Religion.

The religious pussyfoot is a creature whose creed is compromise. He is a saint called "Mr. Softly Softly." He does not desire to offend anybody. He worships expediency, and his dexterity shows itself in a straddle.

He shivers when the preacher touches on living issues. He is afraid some fat contributor may take offense and the gate receipts languish. He believes in sticking to the "plain, simple gospel," by which he means homiletical bromide served in medieval phraseology, and that by no stretch of the imagination can be applied to present-day or present-world conditions.

He can always be counted on in the church courts to vote for inaction. His favorite ecclesiastical phrases are "the way is not clear" and "the time has not yet arrived." He is not a progressive. You would never have gotten him to build an ark or move from Haran or walk on the water or attempt anything calling for faith and courage and daring.

Neither is he a conservative, for he does not want to take sides. He lacks the decision of determination. All he wants to do is just to sit on the fence and not antagonize anybody.

He is a flaceid soul belonging to the mollusk type,

The pussyfoot can make a noise, but he would not make a disturbance. He has a spine, but it is made of spaghetti. He belongs to the order of sainthood that is fond of going to heaven when he dies. Religion with him is largely a future-world proposition.

If you want to clean up a town, don't call on the pussyfoot. If you want to raid hell in your community, leave the pussyfoot out. If you have a program that needs militant Christianity, all you will get from the pussyfoot is a catcall.—Oklahoma City News.

Pussyfoot religion is certainly a popular type at the present time, though it accomplishes nothing that will make any one else better. Pussyfoot is afraid of his own shadow, is afraid to condemn evil in any one, and never contends for the faith once for all delivered to the saints. The man who dares to speak out and contend for God's way is dubbed a "wrangler." Christ, who called the scribes and Pharisees "hypocrites" and "whited sepulchers," is too much of a wrangler for them. Everything must be smooth, and often the truth must not be told because it would offend some evildoers. Men who sin should be rebuked before all, that others may not sin.

0 0 0

And thou, O Lord, by whom are seen

Thy creatures as they be,
Forgive me if too close I lean
My human heart on thee.

—Whittier.

Home Reading

The Magic Word.

The management of a certain department in a big store said to one of his aisle managers: "I like the way you keep things running smoothly in your section, Parker. It sets a good standard for those who might not be so particular if your good results didn't keep them keyed up to their own best efforts."

Warmed with the words, the man went about his work with new zest. It was not long before he was saying to an alert little salesgirl: "You have a very successful way of handling hard customers, Miss Belle. I'm going to see what can be done for you by way of rewarding such real merit."

Miss Belle flushed with pleasure. She was so happy that she was more successful than ever with the next troublesome, cranky buyer; and when she went out to lunch she just couldn't help saying to the deft girl who served her order: "It's awfully good of you to be so prompt. You must have guessed that I want to take a walk this nice noon hour."

The deft waitress carried the cheer of the friendly words in her heart all the rest of the day. It spoke out when her younger brother settled down to his studies that evening: "It is not every girl who has a brother who stays in at nights and studies and gets ready to make something of himself, instead of running the streets and getting into bad company. I'm proud of you, Jimmy boy. You're my heart's comfort." And Jimmy dug into his work all the harder and put away for good a certain "What's the use, after all?" feeling that had been trying to get foothold in his heart of late.

The next day Jimmy said to the teacher who had patiently explained a hard point: "You certainly know how to make it clear to a fellow. I wish I knew as much as you do." And a little nagging imp of discouragement fied from the tired teacher's heart at once.

On her way home she paused to say to the small boy who sold her a paper: "It's nice to know I can depend on finding you here, right on time every afternoon, Billy. You'll make a good business man some day." And she smiled as she paid him.

Billy went home in such a glow of good feeling that he fairly shouled at sight and smell of the homely, substantial dish of hash for supper. "Say, mother, but you're the dandy cook! A fellow can put in his best licks with a supper and a mother like this at home waiting for him." And at the word—the magic word of praise—there vanished endless baskets of clothes to be washed and endless office floors to be scrubbed; and the world was a good place to live in, after all, when one had a fine boy like Billy coming home nights with his bit of money and his blarney.

Nor did she dream—nor do we dream, often—how that magic word had been traveling from heart to heart, touching each with the joy of sincere appreciation, inspiring each to better work and living, before it passed on to repeat its good work.—East and West.

0 0 0

It Can Talk in Any Language.

When Dr. Paton was printing his first New Testament in the Aniwan language, Chief Namakei, an old man, eagerly watched the missionary, and one day he said: "Does it speak?"

"Yes," said Paton, "it can talk now in your own language."

"O, let it speak to me," said the chief-"let me hear it speak."

Paton then read a few lines when the old man cried:

"It does speak! O, give it to me!" Grasping the book, he turned it round and round. Then, pressing it to his heart, he shouted: "O, make it speak to me again!"

Is not this the greatest work of the missionary—making the Bible speak to men?"

It is said that more than five hundred thousand sermons are preached every Sunday from texts taken from the Holy Scriptures. Any but a divine book would have been worn out ages ago; but the more the Bible is used, the better it is liked. The cry everywhere to-day is: "Come over and help us!" All gates are open to the Christian soldier sent of God, carrying with him the word of power and preaching Christ to every creature.—Christian Herald.

0 0 0

The Gifts of Life.

Life brings to many of us great happiness. We shall not treat life squarely unless we put into it, into the lives of others, more happiness than life has granted to us. Life possibly has brought to you courage. Well, you cannot treat that gift of life fairly unless you put more into it than you have taken out of it. You have had courage to face your difficulties. You have had patience to surmount your obstacles. What are you doing about it? We must put more courage and more patience into the lives of those who fight beside us by reason of what we have taken out. The road of life is uphill, and every man has his load to carry, every woman has her burden to carry. Therefore are we needed to put into life that which, indeed, we are thankful to have received from it-charity, love, sympathy, fellowship. This is what I mean by saying that if a man would truly live, if he would have a goal which he can clearly discern, toward which he and God can strive together, he being strong in the Lord's strength, it will be that he gives life generously more than he receives from it. And as I have thought of this I have realized that the teaching that we are not to seek to get much out of life is false. It seems to me that God Intends that life shall be rich and beautiful for us all, and that the high adventure upon which you and I are engaged is to see that more goes back than we have taken.-Dean Rousmaniere,

0 0 0

Would You Have Answered?

You would not be in a Japanese house long without noticing their extreme politeness, and that this politeness was especially shown by children toward their parents. The one thing that Japanese children must learn is perfect obedience. A child would as soon think of refusing to do a thing altogether, when told, as to ask why he must do it.

A little American girl, the child of a missionary, was playing in the street with some Japanese children.

" Mary," called her father from the house," "come in."

As she paid no attention, the others thought she had not heard, and began to say to her: "Your august father is calling you." "Your honorable parent is beckoning to you;" and so on,

"I don't care," said Mary,

The children stopped playing and looked at her in astonishment. Her father called again. This time she answered crossly: "I don't want to come in. What for?"

At this the children picked up their playthings and hurried home, talking excitedly all the way. "Rude little foreigner!" "Bad little girl!" they said. And it was a long time before Mary saw anything of her friends again.—Selected.

Hood's Sarsaparilla Makes Food Taste Good

Creates an appetite, aids digestion. purifies the blood, and thus relieves scrofula, catarrh, the pains and aches of rheumatism and gives strength to the whole system.

Nearly 50 years' phenomenal sales tell fhe story of the great merit and success of Hood's Sarsaparilla. It is just the medicine you need now. Hood's Pills help-fine cathartic.

Attacks come when least expected. Directly some ill feeling makes you aware that you have a Heart is the time to commence taking some treatment.

Dr.Miles Heart is a Tonic and Regulator recommended in Functional Heart Disorders

SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS

MILES MEDICAL CO., Elkhart, Ind.

The Work in St. Louis, Mo.

As has already been reported, our lot has been purchased. It is located at Spring and Blaine, a very desirable location from every standpoint-almost in the geographical center of the city, accessible by street cars from all directions, and is in a community where every member who so desires can reside within walking distance by reason of the variations in classes and value of property and rentals.

The purchase price for the lot was thirty-seven hundred dollars, of which two hundred dollars was paid in cash and a deed of trust for thirtyfive hundred dollars assumed. This deed of trust matured in June of this year, and, with the cash contributions we had received from other churches and individuals and what we were able to raise in our own congregation, one thousand dollars more was paid on the indebtedness, and a new loan was made for three years for the balance of twenty-five hundred dollars. In addition to this, we now have cash on hand, in a savings account at the bank, about three hundred dollars.

Thus, brethren, you will see that while we have not accomplished as quickly as we would like to have done our purpose, with your help, to establish the work here permanently and substantially, yet we have made some progress, and the prospects are brighter than ever before, which is encouraging indeed.

The attention of the churches has been directed to the St. Louis work often by Brethren John T. Hinds, G. H. P. Showalter, Fred L. Rowe, James E. Laird, G. A. Dunn, and many others; and now that all are acquainted with the situation here, is it not possible to bring to an early conelusion the building of a house? With this done, it will eliminate the expense of a rented hall, stop the taxes on our lot, give us a real start toward the establishment of primitive Christianity in this great city, one of the largest cities of our country, which might be properly called a "strategic point" because of its central location; and the work would be almost self-sustaining from the very beginning with one good preacher devoting his whole time to this place.

Doesn't this appeal to you? We are sure it does. Take up the matter of contributing to St. Louis with your congregation at once, and may it be as liberal an offering as the circumstances warrant. Let us hear from you. Address Dr. J. W. Pruett, 6006 Virginia Avenue; P. B. Johnson, 2842 Lafayette Avenue; George R. Miller, 5071 Arlington Avenue; J. M. Snow, 748 Bayard Avenue; or W. W. Moody, 3667 Botanical Avenue, St. Louis, Mo.

Egg Production Doubled -Read the Letter Below

"Every one of my hens are laying, and I find since I have been using TWO for ONE they have more than doubled what I was getting. In Nov., from 12 hens I got 356 eggs, an increase of 198 since last month. I think TWO for ONE is the most wonderful tonic I ever heard of and I will never be without it. I send in another $5 order."

Mrs. A. E. Agness, Kinveton, Wash. Mrs. A. E. Agnew, Kingston, Wash.

THOUSANDS of our customers tell us the same story. TWO for ONE has taken the country by storm. Authorities approve it and use it on their own hens. Scientists have analyzed it and tell us we have at last found the perfect tonic for hens.

The results our customers have been getting are simply astounding. Our files are full of reports giving records of agg production that surpass anything ever known. TWO for ONE is the talk of the country wherever there are chickens. It is destroying old records and helping to produce eggs at an unheard of rate.

Eggs at $1.25 a Dozen!

Don't you want more eggs from your hens? Eggs are going to bring $1.25 this season. Just think how much more money you will make at this price on an increase in your eggs.

increase in your eggs.

And it is so easy to get these extra eggs.
All you have to do is to give your hens a few cents' worth of TWO for ONE according to our simple directions and we positively guarantee a substantial increase in eggs. Why waste money on socalled tonics that have been proven worthless? Come to Poultry Headquarters, where you will get a Sometific Conic, one that positively will give you an increase in eggs.

Lust yead some of the letters below.

Just read some of the letters below. See what it has done for others, and then ask yourself if you can afford to delay longer in giving it a trial to convince yourself.

Hens Laying Full Capacity! "I have used your TWO for ONE for the hat 90 days, and it is a wonderful force to make hans lay. For immary I received 53 cross from 12 hems. Your TWO for ONE is a fine tonde for home and at this writing they continue to key to their full causelts." T. W. Freeman, Register, Ga.

Never Saw Its Equal!

"Since I began the unt of TWO for ONE egg tone my chickens are all beathy and are now regular layers. I have never seen its entitle for egg production. Diring January my 10 bens last 400 eggs." (practically an egg per hun per day.)

Mrs. G. G. Morgan, Lewiaville, Ark.

Why not start getting this extra egg money now? Every day you delay you are losing money. It costs so little and the results are so sure, you can't afford to be without TWO for ONE. Send in the coupon today.

KINSELLA COMPANY

Poultry Readquartors
154 Bonheur Bldg. Chicago, Ill.
Iwant to get more eyes. Endosed in il. for which send me s. full-sized box of TWO for ONE, the Scientific Tonic, on your guarantee. (5 for $2.25).

Name
P. O
R. F. D	Andron Carro
State

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

Supreme Canned Meats

Accept only the Yellow and Black label-it covers everything in meat that's good to eat.

Prepared under skilled supervision and seasoned, ready to serve.

MORRIS SUPREME Canned Meats are sold by most good dealers everywhere.

The housewife who demands the best uses Supreme Meats.

MORRIS & COMPANY

Packers and Provisioners.

CHURCH NEWS

Mississippi.

Oakland, September 21.—My meet-ing near Crevi resulted in three additions to the little congregation. Rain nons to the little congregation. Rain during the week interfered with our services, yet the general interest was all that could have been expected. The meeting at Sylvan Knoll, near Coffeeville, resulted in five additions. Brother Tate Ring, the local evangelist in the employ of the Charleston congregation, reports twenty addicongregation, reports twenty addi-tions at Mullens, in Grenada County. tions at Mullens, in Grenada County. Mullens is a mission congregation, established under the preaching of Brother Ring during this present year. The Charleston congregation has shown wisdom in supporting Brother Ring as a suitable man to do mission work in the rural districts. Brother J. P. Lowrey, who is being supported by the Thyatira and Senatobia congregations, has also been quite successful in his meetings. The quite successful in his meetings. quite successful in his meetings. The same is true of the labors of Brethren A. Y. Howell and Matthew Cayce. With these good men in the field, we are reaching the country sections which have so long stood in need of the simple gospel. Personally, I have apparently been meeting with more than my share of opposition from prejudice. This comes from sources where I have least expected it.—Lea where I have least expected it .- Lee Jackson.

New York.

New York, September 26 .- Our little congregation here is doing splendidly. Most of our members are regular in attendance. Brother William Johnson is doing most of the preaching for us.

Brother Johnson is English by birth. His father came over some thirteen or fourteen years ago, bringing his family with him. He had a large family, Brother William being the oidest son. The father being a member of the church of Christ, as also his family. he requested before he died that they would not forsake the assembling of themselves together on the first day of the week to remember the death and sufferings of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ; so all these years they have met in their mother's home in Jersey City and kept up the service. Brother William is a plumber and works for the support of himself and family. How much better the world would be if more wage earners could and would preach the gospel! I have received contributions for the work here from Sister Cauble and Brother Wallace Cauble, of Pekin, Ind., and from the church at Winchester, Tenn. —G. M. McKee.

Ohio.

Akron, September 23.—We have re-cently built a house of worship costing about seven thousand dollars. We were fast paying off our indebtedness,

$1,800 to $10,000 a Year

Bankers, Bookkeepers, Stenographers, and Secretaries. Thousands Needed.

Ask for our 12-page book, "Guide to Business Success," It's FREE. It tells how we will train you BY MAIL or AT COLLEGE for any of these good positions, and get the position for you; how to develop your will power and your brain power to develop your will power and your brain power to develop your will power and by the pook, we send statements from bankers and accountants telling you that our Accountancy, Banking, and Business-Procedure Course is the best, Address

Draughon's College DESK

Nashville, Tenn., or St. Louis, Mo.

Mr. Church Treasurer!

If the Loose-Leaf Plan is best for the Business Man, it must be best for the CHURCH TREASURER.

Up-to-date Economical Efficient

Why not use the Unified Loose Leaf instead of Bound Books? Adapted to any envelope system and size member-Supplied by your dealer, or

Arthur H. Strouse Pub. Co. Dept. K. 431 So. Dearborn St., Chicago, III.

FOOT TROUBLES

No Need of Them, Says Brooklyn Man, Who Has Evidently Solved a Big Problem

According to the testimony of hundreds of people living in the Southland and elsewhere, J. R. Simon, of 1589 Broadway, Brooklyn, N. Y., has successfully developed a system of shoe building having for its prime object the conquering of foot and shoe troubles. It appears that Mr. Simon's establishment has become national headestablishment has become national head-quarters for people whose feet require his remarkable comfort shee, known as the ExWear, but obtainable only of the in-ventor. Mr. Simon's new catalogue shows several hundred shoes that combine com-fort with style at amazingly low prices and is now ready for free distribution.

A Prominent Nurse Testifies

Covingron, Ky. - "I have been recommending Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription to my patients and per-s o n a l friends for several years, ever since it restored me perfect to health after a very seri-ous illness with in ward trouble. In every instance that I have known women to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for feminine weakness, or if in need of a special tonic during expectancy, it has never failed in giving the utmost satisfaction. It is a woman's medicine that can be depended upon to relieve nervous conditions, besides building up and strengthening the entire womanly organism. I always praise Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription most highly."—MRS. PATTE ELLIOTT, 1413 Kendall St.

Favorite Prescription should have the full confidence of every woman in America because in contains no alcohol and no narcetic. Doctor Pierce knew, when he first made this standard medicine, that whisky and morphine were injurious, and so he has always kept them out of his remedies. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription can be procured in all drug stores in either fluid or tablet form.

Send 10 cents to Doctor Pierce's Invalids' Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y., for trial package of the tablets.

Antiseptic Analgesic Antiphlogistic (Prevents Infection) (Relieves Pain) (Allays Inflammation)

A dependable preventative of diseases of the air passages and an excellent curative agent for inflammatory conditions of the skin and mucous membranes. Does not injure delicate skin. Fine for baby. There's a wonderful amount of comfort, health and protection in a 2 oz. jar. 50c at your druggist's or by mail from

Piedmont Laboratories, Inc., Clinton, S. C.

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

when the rubber works began laying off such great numbers of men. Those that are employed are working only five days a week. We are appealing to congregations to give us assistance (however small), so we can lighten our burden and carry the work to a successful conclusion. About seventy or more of our congregation have re-turned to their homes in the South and some other parts until this de-pression of business is over. This congregation is apostolic to the core and bids fair in a short time to become the largest congregation in the North. Send remittances to W. T. Petty, 246 Tory Street, Akron, Ohio, or to my address, 65 Kirkland Avenue.-W. B. Tompkins.

Oklahoma.

Oklahoma City, September 27.-We had two very enjoyable services here yesterday. I was especially proud of the morning audience. It was large and attentive. In the afternoon one young lady was baptized into the Lord Jesus Christ for the remission of sins. The Oklahoma State Fair being in progress, I expect to see a goodly number of brethren from other points. -J. A. Hudson.

Tennessee.

Algood, September 28.-Last Sunday was a good day at Little River church of Christ, near Hopkinsville, Ky. I preached both morning and evening. One confessed Christ at the morning service, and I baptized him in Little River in the afternoon. Their protracted meeting is to begin the third Sunday in October. Brother E. Gaston Collins is to begin a mission meeting at Netherland, about six miles from Algood, next Sunday. We are trying to establish the cause of the Master at that place, and I am sure that our labors will not be in vain.—Allen Phy.

Aches and Pains of theumatism are not permanently, but only temporarily, relieved by external remedies. Why not use an internal remedy-Hood's Sarsaparilla, which corrects the acidity of the blood, on which rheumatism depends, and cures the disease?

EPILEPSY—FITS!

1 will tell a Swedish Treatment how to use a Swedish Treatment that produces marvelous results. Write me to-day for full particulars. Herman G. Carlson, Box 259, Kansas City, Mo.

"Diamond Dyes" No Risk Then!

Don't Speil or Streak Material in Dyes that Fade or Run

Each package of "Diamond Dyes" contains directions so simple that any womtains directions so simple that any womnn can diamond-dye a new, rich, fadeless color into worn, shabby garments, draperies, coverings, whether wool, silk,
linen, cotton or mixed goods.

Buy "Diamond Dyes"—no other kind—then perfect results are guaranteed even if you have never dyed before. Druggist
has color card.

World's Best "Reo" Cluster Metal Shingles, V-Crimp, Correcated, Standing Seam, Painted or Galvanized Reof-ney, Sidneys, Wallboard, Paints, etc., direct to you at Rock-Bottom Factory Prices. Positively greatest fifter ever made. Edwards "Reo" Metal Shingles cost less; outlast three ordinary roofs. No painting or repairs. Guaranteed rot, fire, rust, lightning proof. Send for samples and free roofing book. Edwards Ready Made Buildings
Send for the Edwards Catalog of "Superior" ReadyMade Buildings, showing a complete line of bonses, bungalows, barns, wood garages, poaltry bouses, etc., all at money-saving factory prices. These buildings are not merely "ready-cut" but READY MADE

Be Sure to State Which Books You Want -Roofing and Free Samples; Beady-Made Buildings; or Metal Garages. Postal or letter brings one or more of them FRIES.

Free Roofing Book Get our wonderfully low prices and free samples. We self direct to you and save you all in - between rooling profits. Ask for Book

LOW PRICED GARAGES Lowest prices on Ready-Made Fire-Proof SteelGarages, Sat up any place. Send postal for Garage Book showing styles. THE EDWARDS MFG. CO., 2330-2380 Pike St. Cincinnati, O.

2:12 Samples & Roofing Book

Where Did We Get the Bible?

TALKS ON THE BIBLE. NO I

When was 1t

Who wrote It? When did it first appear in the English 1 a nguage?

Why was the name Jehovah omitted in the King James Version?

Why was it necessary to make a revision of the Bible?

All these questions, and dozens more of interest to you, are answered in The Wonderful Story. Write to-day for it to

THOMAS NELSON & SONS. Authorized Publishers American

Standard Bible,

385-U Fourth Avenue, New York City.

The American Standard Bible text

The American Sundard Bible text is used in 75 per cent of all Sunday school periodicals, because it is recognized as the most accurate version that has ever been produced.

The American Standard Bible text is used by over 13,000,000 Sunday-school scholars to study their lessons from. They realize that they cannot procure a more reliable version of the Scriptures. of the Scriptures.

GET FEATHER BEDS AND PHLIOWS Direct from Factory. Write to-day, Send names of four friends and receive our astonishing offer. Hygienic Feather Bedding Co., Dept. 22, Charlotte, N. C. 0525252525252525252525252525252525

Makes a Family Supply of Cough Remedy Really better than ready-made cough syrups, and suves about $2.

If you combined the curative proper-ties of every known "ready-made" cough remedy, you probably could not get as much real curative power as there is in this simple home-made cough syrup, which is easily prepared in a few minutes minutes.

minutes.

Get from any druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with syrup, using either plain granulated sugar syrup, clarifed molasses, honey, or corn syrup, as desired. The result is a full pint of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for three times the money. Tastes pleasant and never stoils.

money. Tastes pleasant and never spoils.

This Pinex and Syrup preparation gets right at the cause of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the phlegm, stops the nasty throat tickle and heals the sore, irritated membranes so gently and easily that it is really astonishing.

A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough and for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma, there is nothing better.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations to break up severe coughs.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

LEMON JUICE FOR FRECKLES

Girls! Make beauty lotion for a few cents-Try It!

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into bottle containing three ounces of orchard white, shake well, and you have a quarter pint of the best freekle and tan lotion, and complexion beautifier, at very, very small cost.

Your grocer has the lemons and any drug store or toilet counter will supply three ounces of orehard white for a few cents. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face, neck, arms and hands each day and see how freckles and blemishes disappear and how clear; soft and rosy-white the skin becomes. Yes! It is harmless and never irritates.

The Double Nature of Man. No. 7. BY TICE ELKINS.

I now proceed to write of a future life, and assert that a future life only can satisfy the conditions and capacities of our mental being. Look to the human race as they appear to the mere superficial observer, and what do we see? Merely a succession of evanescent and fading subjects. Thousands are coming upon the stage, full of life and hope; and thousands, careworn and weary, are retiring from it with deep and anxious consciousness of faculties undeveloped and objects unaccomplished; like bubbles on the mighty deep, they rise and then disappear. The multitudes of the dead are more than the living. The whole of this vast globe is but an amphitheater, in which are displayed the works and beneath which sleep the forms of the dead.

But is this all? Are all our interests and all our being crowded within the narrow compass of this brief span of life? Are there no fountains within us but what are exhausted in a brief life of sorrow, passed in ignorance and fruitless desire? Take even the most favorable examples of human nature-Bacon, Newton, mighty minds-and inquire if even they were not capable of wider and fuller development. Were their intellects, capacious as they were, susceptible of no further expansion? Had they obtained the limit of which their minds were capable? You shall hear the confession of one of these great men as it fell from his own lips. Newton says: "I know not what I may appear to the world; but to myself I seem to have been only like a boy playing on the seashore, and diverting myself in now and then finding a smoother pebble or a prettier shell than ordinary, while the great ocean of truth lay undiscovered before me."

If this is the confession of one of the greatest intellects of all the ages, and if he only trod the shore of the boundless ocean of truth, what must be the case with the great mass of men? If even his intellect did not reach its maturity before he was hurried off the stage of being, how can we say concerning the race of man that they are susceptible of no greater development; that they have capacities of no higher order than has been brought out and cultivated here? We argue, then, inasmuch as nothing is made without some worthy object and end, that there must be some other allotment to mortals, some other state in which these embryo faculties shall expand into full maturity.

Change is, indeed, one of the allotments of providence; we see it working everywhere. Very few things are in that state now in which they are to

TO RELIEVE GATARRHAL DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES

If you have Catarrhal Deafness or head noises go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of parmint (double strength), and add to it ½ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take I tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy, and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has Catarrhal Deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial. For sale by all druggists or sent on receipt of price 90c by Chas. A. Smith Drug Co., Atlanta, Ga.

TETTERI for the COMPLEXION

60c at your druggist's or from Shuptrine Co., Savannah, Ga.

CANCERS CURED AT KELLAM HOSPITAL,

1617 West Main Street, Richmond, Va.

It is known beyond a doubt and admitted by most of the leading physicians and sur-geons that cancer cannot be cured with the kinife. K-Ray, radium, or acids. Cancers are permanently cured at The Kellam Hos-pital, without the use of either. Physicians and surgeons treated free at the hospital.

remain. The bird destined for the air sleeps in its shell; the beautiful insect that flutters in the sun crawls in the earth till its season of glory comes; the child that requires the hand of the parent to give him food may soon be changed into a saint or a sage. So, also, says the great apostle, it is with the soul of man. This is not its resting place; it was never intended to remain here and to be always as it now is; it will be changed as the seed is changed. The object for which it was created will be manifest; at the very moment when it seems to perish it is passing into a higher order of creatures and getting hold of a better life.

If there be not this allotment, then is impeached, not only divine goodness, but divine wisdom itself. For if a man be not immortal; if there be no future state in which these faculties may expand to their full maturity: if the vast ocean of truth is never to be crossed or surveyed; if the unfathomed mines of knowledge are to remain unexplored, why was man endowed with such capacities and desires-capacities that can never be filled up and desires that can never be satisfied in this state of existence? Was the creation of mind an aimless freak of the God of nature? Did he endow it with transcendent powers, but allot it to no time nor sphere for the development of these powers? Does he clothe the fields with verdure, the lily with beauty, feed the young ravens when they cry, and doth he not provide for him whom he hath created to be in his own likeness and image? In the creation of such a being, did his skill forsake him and his hand lose its cunning? Reason and religion answer, "No;" conscience and experience answer, "No;" all that is elevated in the hopes or dear to man answer, "No."

Spirit Birth.

BY J. P. PAISLEY.

It is a very common saying among the many denominations of modern times, in conversing on the plan of salvation, to use the expression, "If one is regenerated and born of the Spirit, that one is saved; " and some will affirm that the salvation is completed insomuch that such a one cannot possibly be lost. Well, let us see how closely regeneration and birth of the Spirit are connected. Regeneration is mentioned twice in the New Testament (Matt. 19: 28; Tit. 3: 5), and birth of the Spirit is mentioned twice (John 3: 6, 8); but nowhere are they mentioned in connection. So, to find the scriptural connection, we are led to Jesus' language in John 3: 5. Here "water" is connected with "Spirit" instead of the word "regeneration;" but regeneration is

How Coca-Cola Resembles Tea

If you could take about one-third of a glass of tea, add two-thirds glass of carbonated water, then remove the tea flavor and add a little lemon juice, phosphoric acid, sugar, caramel and certain flavors in the correct proportion, you would have an almost perfect glass of Coca-Cola.

In fact, Coca-Cola may be very well described as "a carbonated fruit-flavored counterpart of tea, of approximately one-third the stimulating strength of the average cup of tea."

The following analyses, made and confirmed by the leading chemists throughout America, show the comparative stimulating strength of tea and Coca-Cola stated in terms of the quantity of caffein contained in each:

Black tea-1 cupful 1.54 gr. Green tea-1 glassful 2.02 gr. (cold) (8 fl. oz., exclusive of ice) Coca-Cola—I drink, 8 fl. oz. (prepared with I fl. oz. of sgrup)

Of all the plants which Nature has provided for man's use and enjoyment, none surpasses tea in its refreshing, wholesome and helpful qualities. This explains its almost universal popularity, and also explains, in part, the wide popularity of Coca-Cola, whose refreshing principle is derived from the tea leaf.

The Coca-Cola Company has issued a booklet giving detailed analysis of its recipe. A copy will be mailed free on request to anyone who is interested. Address:

The Coca-Cola Co., Dept. J, Atlanta, Ga., U. S. A.

TETTERINE

Makes low necks and short sleeves possible. It clears the skin

50c at your drugglat's or from the SHUP-TRINE CO., Savannah, Gs.

Now Is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots.

Thore's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freekles, as Othine—double strongth—is guarantsed to remove these hemely spots.

Simply get an ounce of Othine—double strength—from your druggist, and apply—s little of it night and morning and you should some see that even the worst freekles have began to disappear, while the lighter ones have varialised entirely. It is seldem that more than one onnce is needed to completely clear the skin and zain a beautiful clear complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength Othine as this is soid under guarantee of money back if it falls to remove freekles.

PROFITS IN PIGEONS

A pleasant, easy way to make moneystillize an otherwise worthless part of your back yard and turn it into profit. Pigeons are easily raised, prolific, and clean. The markets are clamoring for squabs. A few pairs of our beautiful Rad Carneaux and White Swiss Mondaines will start you right Write for our FREE booklet, "Profits in Pigeons No. 6." Carolina Pigeon Plant, Clinton, B. C.

In answering advertisements, please mention this paper.

Rheumatism.

A REMARKABLE HOME TREATMENT GIVEN BY ONE WHO HAD IT

In the spring of 1893 I was attacked by Muscular and Sub-Acute Rheumatism. I suffered as only those who have it know, for over three years. I tried remedy after remedy and doctor after doctor, but such relief as I received was only temporary.
Finally I found a remedy that cured me completely, and it has never returned. I have given it to a number who were terribly afflicted and even bedridden with Rheumatism, some of them from seventy to eighty years old, and results were the same as in my own case.

I want every sufferer from such forms of rheumatic trouble to try this marvelous healing power. Don't send a cent; simply mail your hame and address, and I will send it free to fry.
After you have used it and it has roven itself to be that long-lookedfor means of setting rid of your Rheumatism, you may send the price of it, one dollar; but, understand, I do not want your money unless you are perfectly satisfied to send it.
len't that fair? Why suffer any longer, when relief is thus offered you free? Don't delay. Write to-lay.

MARK II JACKSON,
No. 827G Dureton Bidg., Syracuse, N.X.
Mr. Jackson is prosponsible. Above statement true.

The Romantic Story of Southland's Favorite Shoe, EzWear

Some five years ago, a prominent citizen of South Carolina, visiting New York on Important business, chanced to meet the maker of a shoe built on new and unusual lines; an enthusiastic admirer of its most distinctive features, ease and comfort, had suggested the name "EzWear;" it promptly adopted. The business man from the South, knowing how welcome such a shoe would be in his part of the country, urged that its remarkable qualities, including not only comfort, but style, durability, and economy, be made known there. That this has been done effectively is proven by the enermous demand that has sprung up in the South for EzWear Shoes. that its sale there during the last twelve months has increased fully three hundred per cent. The distributor, Mr. J. R. Simon, of 1589 Broadway, Brooklyn, N. Y., says that all who wish to know about a shoe that combines all worth-while shoe qualities may have a copy of his money-saving shoe

ASPIRIN

Name "Bayer" on Genuine

"Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" is genuine "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" is genuine Aspirin proved safe by millions and prescribed by physicians for over twenty years. Accept only an unbroken "Bayer package" which contains proper directions to relieve Headache, Toothache, Earache, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Colds and Pain. Handy tin boxes of 12 tablets cost few cents. Druggists also sell larger "Bayer packages." Aspirin is trade mark Bayer Manufacture Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid. all right, for without this no one could be born anew. In Matt. 19: 28 the apostle had followed Jesus so long and he had taught them so much that they were regenerated, or renewed in mind-were to a certain extent made new. Then in Tit. 3: 5 the apostle is instructing him how they were saved. He says they were saved by "the washing of regeneration." Here water is connected with regeneration instead of Spirit. So when our minds are renewed, or changed, to bring about repentance and trust in Christ, as in Eph. 1: 12, 13, then we are fit subjects for this washing that Paul taught Titus, and also in the sixth chapter of Romans.

Then comes the critic. He asks: "How, then, about the Spirit birth?" Well, Jesus says, "Ye must be born again" (John 3: 7), thus implying that we have been born once. We know that to be born means to come forth. This is the meaning of Jesus' teaching in John 3 concerning the new birth. He meant to teach Nicodemus that to be born of water and the Spirit means that the Spirit begets, and "born of water" means to be baptized, or buried in baptism. Then coming forth from the water constitutes being "born again." "The wind bloweth where it listeth, and thou hearest the sound thereof, but canst not tell whence it cometh. and whither it goeth: so is every one that is born of the Spirit." (Verse 8.) Here he is comparing the wind to the birth of the Spirit-Spirit-born exclusively. In Luke 24: 39 we have words from his own mouth after being Spirit-born: "Behold my hands and my feet, that it is I myself: handle me, and see; for a spirit hath not flesh and bones, as ye see me have." "And he is the head of the body, the church: who is the beginning, the first-born from the dead; that in all things he might have the preëminence." (Col. 1: 18.)

Now, there are three kingdoms into which the children of men are born. First, the kingdom of nature, which one enters by being born of the flesh; second, the kingdom of God, which kingdom, or church, one can enter only by being born of water and the Spirit; third, the heavenly kingdom (2 Tim. 4: 18), into which those that have kept the faith (2 Tim. 4; 7) shall enter, being born of the Spirit. or born from the dead. "Be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee a crown of life." (Rev. 2: 10.) Jesus, the Son of God and my Savior, is the only one that has ever been born of the Spirit in the exclusive sense of birth of the Spirit. In 1 Tim. 6: 16, Paul says that Jesus is the only one that "hath immortality, dwelling in the light "-that is, in the light of eternal day; but in the resurrection of the just all that are thus raised from the dead shall enjoy that immortality and that light.

You Do More Work,

You are more ambitious and you get more enjoyment out of everything when your blood is in good condition. Impurities in the blood have a very depressing effect on the system, causing weakness, laziness, nervousness and sickness

GROVE'S TASTELESS CHIII TONIC restores Energy and Vitality by Purifying and Enriching the Blood. When you feel its strengthening, invigorating effect, see how it brings color to the cheeks and how it improves the appetite, you will then appreciate its true tonic value.

GROVE'S TASTELESS CHILI TONIC is not a patent medicine, it is simply iRON and QUININE suspended in Syrup. So pleasant even children like it. The blood needs Quinine to Purify it and IRON to Enrich it. These reliable tonic properties never fail to drive out impurities in the blood.

The Strength-Creating Power of GROVE'S TASTELESS Chill TONIC has made it the favorite tonic in thousands of homes. More than thirty-five years ago, folks More than thirty-live years ago, loss would ride a long distance to get GROVE'S TASTELESS Chill TONIC when a member of their family had Malaria or needed a body-building, strength-giving tonic. The formula is just the same today, and you can get it from any drug store, 60c per bottle.

Skin Insurance

is more important to you than life ine, because you are the benefi-The best policy and the surest surance, returns come from your investment in Keeps your skin clear. 25 cents at your druggist's. Ointment, 50c and $1.

To Reduce Fever Relieve Headaches and Neuralgic Pains

Asplione is very efficient and absolutely safe to use as it does not depress the heart even in extreme cases of delikity or weak even in extreme cases of deligity or weak heart, neurasthenia or anaemia. Manufactur-ed by a formula in use by leading physicians generally. 19 parts pure Aspirin, I part pure Caffeine. 4 parts exceptent, in convenient tablet form. 35c per package at your drug-gists or by mail from the manufacturers, Piedmont Laboratories, Inc., Clinton. S. C.

Owe Their Health To

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—overshadowing indeed is the success of this great medicine. Compared with it, all other medicines for women's ills seem to be experiments.

Why is it so successful? Simply because of its sterling worth-For over forty years it has had no equal. Women for two generations have depended upon it with confidence.

Thousands of Their Letters are on our files, which prove these statements to be facts, not mere boasting.

Here Are Two Sample Letters:

Mother and Daughter Helped.

Middleburg, Pa.—"I am glad to state that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound didmemuch good when I was 35 years old. I was run down with female trouble and was not able to do anything, could not work. I had treatment from a physician but did not gain. I read in the papers and books about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and decided to try it. The first few bottles gave me relief and I kept on using it until I got better and was able to do my work. The Vegetable Compound also regulated my daughter when she was 15 years old. I can recommend Vegetable Compound as the best medicine I have ever used."—Mrs. W. YERGER, R. 3, Box 21, Middleburg, Pa.

Fall River, Mass. — "Three years ago I gave birth to a little girl and after she was born I did not pick up well. I doctored for two months and my condition remained the same. One day one of your little books was left at my door and my husband suggested that I try a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I started it immediately and I felt better and could eat better after the first bottle, and I continued taking it for some time. Last year I gave birth to a baby boy and had a much easier time as I took the Vegetable. Compoundfor four months before baby came. On getting up I had no pains like I had before, and no dizziness, and in two weeks felt about as well as ever." — Mrs. THOMAS WILKINSON, 363 Columbia Street, Fall River, Mass.

Wise Is the Woman Who Insists Upon Having

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Now is the time to renew your subscription

CHURCH NEWS

Kentucky

Bardwell, September 28.—I closed a ten-days' mission meeting in a store-house at Buncombe, Ill., yesterday, which resulted in ten additions to the one body—seven by baptism and three restored. We had large crowds and great interest. This was my second meeting there. I promised to return for a meeting next year, at which time we hope to set in order a congregation and build a house to worship in.—Joe Ratcliffe.

Tennessee.

Fayetteville, September 30.—The meeting at Harms closed last Sunday evening, with five baptized.—J. M. Gainer.

Milan, September 28.—I am just home from Metropolis, Ill., where I sang through a series of meetings for Brother F. L. Paisley. There were six additions. Four took membership, one came from the United Brethren, and one was baptized. Brother Paisley will be in the Freed-Hardeman College and continue his regular work in Memphis.—J. R. Stockard.

Boon's Hill, September 24.—On the fifth Lord's day in August the meeting began at Rans and continued eleven days, with twenty-one discourses preached. Three young ladies obeyed their Savior and the church was very much encouraged and built up in the faith. The attendance was good throughout the meeting, and the church and friends seemed to be well pleased with the preaching. Wife was with me here, it being her old home, and we both enjoyed the work with the church very much. On Friday before the second Lord's day in Sep-tember I began the meeting with the church at Sykes and continued it ten days, with eighteeen discourses preached. Brother J. D. Derryberry led the singing. The incessant rains hindered much till the last three or four days of the meeting. One young lady obeyed her Savior and the church was stimulated to greater endeavors. There are some good, faithful breth-ren and sisters here, but they are widely scattered and it is difficult for them to attend regularly. I am now in a meeting here with good prospects. Brother Pack is leading the singing. The churches and brethren who are the churches and brethren who are interested in our East Tennessee work will be pleased to hear of the good work Brother Rozar, our evangelist, is doing up there. He has held a great meeting at Mount Bethel, in Bradley County. We once had a large member-County. We once had a large member-ship at this place, but it had run down and they have not been meeting, nor even had a meeting for many years. We plan to revive the work there.—George W. Farmer.

HIS RUPTURE

I was badly ruptured while lifting a trunk I was badly ruptured while lifting a trunk several years ago. Doctors said my only hope of cure was an operation. Trusses did me no good. Finally I got hold of something that quickly and completely cured me. Years have passed and the rupture has never returned, although I am doing hard work as cornenter. These was no constitution no leaf returned, although I am doing hard work as a carpenter. There was no operation, no lost time, no trouble. I have nothing to sell; but will give full information about how you may find a complete cure without operation, if you write to me, Eugens M. Pullen, Carpenter, 354 G Marcellus Avenue, Manasquan, N. J. Better cut out this notice and show it to any others who are ruptured—you may save a life, or at least stop the missry of rupture and the worry and danger of an operation. of an operation.

MR: DODSON WARNS USERS OF CALOMEL

Says Drug Acts Like Dynamite on Liver and You Lose a Day's Work.

There's no reason why a person should take cickening, salivating calomel when a few cents buys a large bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone-a perfect substitute for calomel.

It is a pleasant, vegetable liquid which will start your liver just as surely as calomel, but it doesn't make you sick and can not salivate.

Children and grown folks can take Dodson's Liver Tone, because it is perfeetly harmless.

Calomel is a dangerous drug. It is mercury and attacks your bones. Take a dose of nasty calomel today and you will feel weak, sick and nauseated to-morrow. Don't lose a day's work. Take a spoonful of Dodson's Liver Tone instead and you will wake up feeling great. No more biliousness, constipation, sluggishness, headache, coated tongue or sour stomach. Your druggist says if you don't find Dodson's Liver Tone acts betthan horrible calomel your money is

GOOD TEACHERS IN DEMAND
AT BETTER SALARIES
The schools, colleges, seminaries, and universities throughout the South are begsing for assistance in finding teachers with proper qualifications, and better salaries are being officed. We are needing hundreds of feachers to supply the demand. Any well-prepared teacher would do well to write us,
FISK TEACHERS' AGENCY
R. A. Clayton, Mgr. Birmingham, Als.

waiting for you.

If your deuggist cannot supply you send for a free sample to

THE MORGAN DRUG CO., 21 Atlantic Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

CHURCH NEWS

Alabama.

Owens Cross Roads, September 28 .-William Oakley, of Nashville, Tenn., has just closed a very interesting mission meeting, four miles from Owens Cross Roads, with eleven baptisms. We had large crowds and the very best of attention throughout the meeting. The word of the Lord was planted in the hearts of the people that will bring fruit for eternity. Brother Oak-ley will begin a meeting at Pond Creek Church, in Cheatham County. Tenn., next Sunday .- A. H. Ellett.

Arkansas.

Fort Smith, September 28.—The past Lord's day was my last with the Park Hill congregation for some time, but I hope to labor with them again in the future. For their loyalty and liberality toward the cause of Christ they are to be praised. Since the be-ginning of my labors here in July, there have been eight additions to the one body. Now, as I go out from among them to return to college, may the grace of the Lord Jesus Christ and the love of God and the communion of the Holy Ghost be with them all.—Leland H. Knight.

McCaskill, September 28.-The meeting here is just fine. The crowds are the largest in the history of the There have been eight conchurch. There have been eight con-fessions, and others are expected. My meetings have all been good this year. I have been on the road since June, with my family. I have two more meetings, and then I am ready to locate somewhere, as I have been at Ben Franklin, Texas, for the last two years. The church there is a good one, stood by us nobly, and we regret to leave them, but think it best for all. If any one is interested in this, may address me at Ben Franklin, Texas,—C. H. Smithson.

Hot Springs, September 24.—I am in Hot Springs taking treatment for my health. I did my best this sum-mer, succeeding in holding several meetings and one debate, but had to give up my meetings and come here for my health. I believe that if I can stay here long enough I will be well again, but it depends on my ability to meet expenses as to how long I can stay. I have to depend upon my brethren to enable me to stay here, as I have no income except what I receive from the Lord's people for labors per-If I ever needed formed in his name. the help of my brethren, the Lord's people, it is now. I am glad that the Lord has said, "The laborer is worthy of his hire," and that his people do not forget to assist his faithful servants in their time of need. May the Lord bless all the faithful and preserve us unto his heavenly kingdom. Pray for me,-U. G. Wilkinson.

Paragould, September 24.—I am spending this week with the church in Paragould. There were two con-fessions last night. The church here has a mind to work. This is the home of Brother A. Douglass, who for more than twenty years has faithfully preached the gospel over Arkansas; and now that he is old and no longer able to tell the "old story," the To abort a cold and prevent complications take

The purified and refined calomel tablets that are nausealess, safe and sure.

Medicinal virtues retained and improved. Sold only in sealed packages. Price 35c.

Stop Itching

Skins with Tetterine

60c. at your druggist's or from SHUPTRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

FOOT COMFORT ASSURED

Brooklyn Man Solves the Problem

It is no longer necessary to suffer agonles that are caused by misfit shoes; for Mr. Simon, of Brooklyn, has proven that he can fit perfectly by mail. Simon's EzWear Shoes are built to give every possible foot comfort; they are soft and stylish, and do not need breaking in. They fit like the proverbial pair, the minute you wear them. Every pair is guaranteed to give satisfaction and to fit perfectly.

Mr. J. R. Simon will gladly send a free catalogue of over 500 styles of EzWear Shoes to all who write him, along with his scientific, self-measuring blank. Write for your copy to-day, and give your feet their much-needed happiness. Address all communications to Mr. J. R. Simon, 1589 Broadway, Brooklyn, N. Y., and you will receive personal attention.

PARKER'S HAR BALSAM
RemovesDangruff-StopsHati Falling
Restores Color and
Beauty to Gray and Faded Hair
60c. and $1.69 at Druggists,
Hiscox Chem. Wes. Patchogue, N. Y.

HINDERCORNS Removes Corns, Cal-louses, etc., stops all pain, ensures comfort to the feet, makes walking easy. Icc by mart or at Drug-gists. Hiscox Chemical Works, Fatchogue, N. Y.

McShane Bell Foundry Co. BALTIMORE, MD.
CHURCH, CHIME and PEAL
BELLS Memorials
a Specialty

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

HYOMEI

From Famous Eucalyptus Tree of Australia Comes Mr. Booth's Wonderful Discovery.

Some years ago, the noted Richard T. Booth, founder of the blue ribbon movement, temperance orator and leader of international fame who induced over a million men to sign the pledge, developed a very serious catarrhal trouble while lecturing in London. Seeking to regain health, he went to inland Australia where he breathed day and night the antiseptic balsams as given off by the forests—especially the Eucalyptus trees.

This experience led Mr. Booth to the discovery of the most wonderful catarrhal treatment known to the medical science—Hyomei, which is formed from the purest oil of Eucalyptus combined with other healing and antiseptic ingredients. Hyomei is a germ killing vaporized air, absolutely harmless but wonderfully effective in the treatment of catarrh in all of its forms, cold in the head, spasmodic croup, hay fever, clergyman's sore throat and similar complaints.

The treatment is simple but most scientific. You breathe Hyomei. It is pronounced the only method of treatment that sends by direct inhalation to the most remote part of the air passages, a balsamic air that destroys all germs and bacilli of catarrh in the breathing organs, sooths and allays all irritation and enriches and purifies the blood with additional ozone.

A complete Hyomei outfit, including an inhaler drapper and sufficient Hyomeir and State Hyomeir a

A complete Hyomei outfit, including an inhaler, dropper and sufficient Hyomei for several weeks treatment, $1.35, extra bottle inhalant 75c. Sold by druggists on a positive guarantee of satisfactory results or money refunded. If your druggist can not supply it, write

Booth's Hyomei Company, 12 W. Green Strreet, Ithaca, N. Y.

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate. churches are not forgetting him. This is as it should be. In fact, Arkansas is a pretty good place to find "pure and undefiled religion," anyway. From here I go to Cardwell, Mo., for a meeting, and from there to Piggott, Ark. From Piggott I shall come back to Paragould to engage J. R. Clark (Baptist), of Wewoka, Okla., in a four-days' discussion. The brethren here are expecting a large attendance, and extend a welcome to all who wish to come. During the first week in September I was in my sixth meeting wift the church at Perryville, Ark. The meeting was well attended, but there were no additions. The brethren at Perryville will soon complete their meetinghouse, which will be a credit to the town.—J. P. Lowrey.

Georgia.

Baldwin, September 25.—I have been trying to preach here for a week. The congregation has always, until very recently, been used to the societies and instrumental music in what little religious work they do. They work with us now fairly well without such things, but it will take time to teach them well, if it can ever be done. I shall close here to-morrow and return to Trion.—Flavil Hall.

Kansas.

Topeka, September 28.—The all-day meeting at Gilman City, Mo., was well attended. We renewed many old-time friendships and baptized one man. The next Lord's day, at Rocky Fork, Col., we had a splendid all-day meeting. I set the church in order, with fine talent, and character in the lead. The church there meets in Moose Hall, I am now in a meeting here. Wife is with me.—Clayton Gall.

Kentucky.

Sedalia, September 28.—I have just closed a meeting at Hardin. I think we had a fine meeting. We had large crowds at each service, and the people in general seemed to have a great interest in the success of the meeting. There were ten additions to the church.—I. A. Douthitt.

Louisville, September 24.-I am just back from a meeting at Harrisonville. I consider the meeting there the best I have ever been in. In all there were nineteen additions. One came from the Baptists, one was baptized, three took membership, and fourteen came from the Christian Church. The brethren there agreed to discontinue the use of the organ and throw off the shackles of the missionary society; in other words, they will be guided solely by the word of God. I shall continue to visit the church there until a suitable man can be procured for the work. While there we demonstrated to the satisfaction of all that a church can prosper and grow by accepting God's plan alone.-R. A. Craig.

Louisiana.

Lillie, September 24.—I have just closed a six-days' discussion with J. B. Hardy, of Rowell, Ark., one of the strongest Primitive Baptist debaters on earth. The debate was held at this place. We are rejoicing in the greatest and grandest victory with which I have ever had anything to do. Those composing the church of Christ here believe they have accomplished more for the salvation of souls in this six days than in years before. They treated us royally. Brother T. W. Croom is the best moderator I ever saw.—O. E. Billingsley.

50 Eggs a Day

"More Eggs' Tonic is a Godsend," writes Mrs. Myrtle Ice, of Boston, Ky. She adds, "I was only getting 12 eggs a day and now I get 50." Give your hens a few cents' worth of "More Eggs," the wonderful egg producer, and you'll be amazed and delighted with results.

$1.00 FREE

Send the coupon below. Don't send any money. Mr. Reefer will send you two $1.00 packages of "More Eggs." You pay the postman upon delivery only $1.00, the price of just one package, the other package being free. The Million Dollar Merchants Bank of Kabasa City, Mo. guarantees. If you are not absolutely satisfied, your dollar will be returned at any time within 20 days—on request. No risks to you. 400,000 users praise Reefer's "More Eggs."

Poultry Raisers Everywhere Tell Wonderful Results of "More Eggs"

126 Eggs in 5 Days

I wouldn't try to raise chickens without "More Eggs." which means more money. I use it right along. I have 33 hous and in 5 days have gotten 10½ dozen eggs, or 1%. MRS. J. O. OAKES, Salina, Okla.

"More Eggs" Paid the Pastor

I can't express in words how much I have been benefitted by "More Eggs." I have paid my debts, clothed the children in mew dresses, and that is not all—I paid my pastor his dues. I sold 42% dozen eggs last week, set 4 dozen, atc some, and had 1½ dozen feft week, set 4 dozen, atc some, and had 1½ dozen left.

1200 Eggs from 29 Hens

The "More Eggs" Tonic did wonders for me I had 29 hens when I got the tonic and was getting five or six eggs a day, April 1st I had over 1200 eggs. I never saw the squal. EDW. MERKER, Pontiac. Mich.

Never Laid as They Do Now

I am very much satisfied with the "More Eggs" Tonic. My chickens never laid as many eggs as they do now. W. A. GRUETZMACHER, Great Bend, N. D.

$200 Worth of Eggs from 44 hens

I never used "More Eggs" Tonic until last December; then just used one $1.00 package and have sold over $200,00 worth of eggs from forty-four hens "More Eggs" Tonic did it. A. G. THODE, Stelling, Kans. R. No. 2. Box 47.

Send No Money!

Don't send any money; just fill in and mail coupon. You will be sent, at once, two $1.00 packages of "MORE EGGS." Pay the postman upon delivery only $1.00, the extra package being FREE. Don't wait—take advantage of this free offer TODAY! Reap the BIG profits "MORE EGGS" will make for you. Have plenty of eggs to sell when the price is highest. Send TODAY—NOW!

E.J. Reefer, Poultry Expert, 7257 Reefer Bidg., Kansas City, Mo. Dear Mr. Reefer — I accept your offer Send me two $1.90 pickages of Reefer's "More Exas" for which I agree to pay the postman $1.00 when he hence me two packages. You agree to refund me $1.00 at any time within 30 days, if both of these packages do not prove satisfactor, in every way.

Name
Address	 Į

CHURCH NEWS

Tennessee.

Livingston, Route 1, September 28.-I closed a good meeting at Hayden-burg, Jackson County, last Sunday. Seven were baptized and two were restored. Brother Silas Williams, of Haydenburg, one of the elders, did the baptizing.—Willie Hunter.

Memphis, September 27.—There were twelve additions at the regular services yesterday at Harbert Avenue. on the annex to our building is being pushed rapidly. I recently spent sev-eral nights preaching at Cordova. Two persons were baptized. Brother Wilson and Brother Hill, of Harbert Avenue Church, helped in the song services at Cordova.—C. A. Norred.

Fort Henry, September 28.—Brother J. S. Trotter, of Nashville, Tenn., began a meeting at Mint Spring Schoolhouse on the second Sunday in September and continued it till the third Sunday. This is a sectarian community, with much prejudice prevailing. Brother Trotter held to the Book and gave it straight. There were no additions, but much good was done in other ways .- J. C. Robinson.

Spencer, September 29.-I have been here one week. Eleven have been bap-tized, with one restored. Ten of them were Burritt College students. The people at Spencer are for the true gospel. I am going to preach at Cummingsville to night. I baptized four at that place. We will have a church there from now on, if things work out well. I am trying to get back to Winesap as soon as I can.-J. C. Mosley.

Obion, September 23.—I closed a meeting at Cresson (Pride's Schoolhouse) on the third Sunday in September with two baptized and much good done otherwise. The brethren at this place are aiming to build a house They are now meeting worship. each Lord's day under an old piece of a tent, and will meet in some one's dwelling when it gets too cold for outdoors, should the house not be in condition to meet in by that time. The faithful few at this place are poor in this world's goods, but rich in the the good congregations round about.

Any donation will be good about. Any donation will be gratefully received, and God will reward the giver. Send offerings to Henry Powers, Route 5, Hickman, Ky.—A. H. Lannom.

Help Wanted

We require the services of an ambitious person to the man's special advertising work right in your own locality. The work is pleasant and dignified. Pay is exceptionally large. No previous experience is required, as all that is necessary is a willing-best on your part to carry out our instructions. If you are at present employed, we can too your spare time in a way that will not interfere with your present employment—yet pay you well for your time. If you are making less than $150 a month, the offer I am going to make will appeal to you. Your spare time will pay you well—your full time will bring you in a handsome factor. Write me today if costs of softing to investigate. Write me today if costs of softing to investigate. Write me today in the past of the product of the particular by return and and place before you the facts so that you can decide for yourself.

ALBERT MILLS, Gen. Mgr. Employment Dept 2787 American Bidg., CINCINNATI, OHIO.

After Thorough Trial a Detroit, Mich., Man Endorses Pe-ru-na of Pe-ru-na, the well-known catarrh remedy, but rather a mature, sober opinion formed after a full year's trial.

This is the way Mr. Michael Fako of 906 East Palmer Avenue, in the Michigan Metro-polis, writes: "After using PE-RU-NA for about one year will say I have found it a very good medicine for ca-tarrh. It has helped me a great deal and I am very well satisfied. I have gained in weight, eat and sleep well, my bowels are regular and better color in my face.

The following letter written from Detroit, Michigan is no snap judgment expressed on the merits of Park no the merits gold. I shall continue to use

PE-RU-NA as long as I live and recommend to my friends who are troubled with eatarrh."

Nothing can be more convincing than an en-dorsement of this nature from an actual There are many people in every community whose experience, in using Pe-ru-na, has been identical with Mr. Fako's. It is the standby for soughs, colds, catarrin, stomach

I have and bowel disorders and all catarrhal conditions,

Put up in both tablet and liquid form, SOLD EVERYWHERE.

10 YOU KNOW that indigestion can be cured, permanently cured, so that you can eat any kind of food that you crave? It has been done not only once, but in almost every case when Chamberlain's Tablets are used. An instance: Mr. J. Pominville, Stillwater, Minn., who had spent over $2,000.00 for medicine and treatment was permanently cured by these tablets.

hamberlain's Tablets

Sold for 50 years for Malaria and as a General Tonic. Helps build you up.

If Not Sold by Your Druggist, Write ARTHUR PETER & CO., Louisville, Ky.

Ladies Keep Your Skin Clear, Sweet, Healthy With Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Talcum

Consecration is not something done once for all. It is a maintained habit of the soul.

The emancipation from care and sorrow and unrest lies in that going out of ourselves which we call "love."-Maclaren.

Volume LXVII. No. 42.

NASHVILLE, TENN., OCTOBER 14, 1920.

$2.50 PEB YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

CONTENTS

EDIFYING AS THE NEED MAY BE	992
EDIFYING AS THE NEED MAY BE. OUR CONTRIBUTORS. "Clerical Monopoly of Slamming"—The Paths of Toll— Los Angeles Notes—The Second Coming of Christ—A State- ment and Correction—Something Every Christian Can Do— A Call for a Freacher.
QUERY DEPARTMENT	998
AT HOME AND ABROAD	1000
CURRENT THOUGHT	1002
EDITORIAL	1003
CHURCH NEWS1008, 1010,	1014
Yandell-Eikins Debate	1001
The Church is Growing in South Carolina	1011
Abilene Christian College	1013
Financial Penort from Canada	1010

Q

Edifying as the Need May Be

The Waster Is a Destroyer.

The author of the book of Proverbs links two very undesirable characters, the shirker and the waster. So very much alike are they in their purposeless lives and malignant influence that the Wise Man calls them brothers. In the Revision there is another and a stronger word for "waster." Modern scholarship translates it "destroyer." The prophet Isaiah, in delineating the mighty forces to be arrayed against Zion, has Jehovah saying: "I have created the waster to destroy." Thus is shown God's estimate of the man who wastes his substance. We may easily overlook his extravagance or wink at his prodigality, but God looks upon him as a destructive agent. He is not a mere waster. He is a ruthless destroyer of his own happiness and the happiness of other people wherever his vitiating influence may touch. So far as human misery is concerned, the saddest picture in the Bible is that of a son with a good home, an indulgent father, favorable opportunities to make a man of himself, but who made a journey into a far country and wasted his substance in riotous living. Then we see him in direct straits-home forsaken, father rejected, money gone, friends deserted, bread exhausted, clothes in tatters, living with hogs and stealing their food to keep from starving to death. It is with this graphic picture that the New Testament illustrates the Old Testament truism that the waster is a destroyer.

* * *

The Tragedy of Wasted Power.

God is God and truth is truth in one age as well as another. Surely our own generation has had frequent and abundant proof of the prodigal's folly. The gifted Emerson paid a high and beautiful tribute to youths who are ambitious and energetic in the right direction in these Beaming from a young man's eyes.

On prince or bride no diamond stone
Half so gracious ever shone
As the light of enterprise

But what shall we say of unworthy ambitions, of wasted energies and potentialities that are lost ere they are discovered? The scientists tell us that ninety-five per cent of the potential energy in coal is wasted because man has not learned to conserve it. This is bad, and especially so in view of the growing scarcity of coal. But is it not infinitely sadder to contemplate the woeful waste of the potential energy of mankind? Which of us can view the throngs of young men and women dawdling on street corners, frequenting cheap places of amusement, idling precious moments away, and not become discouraged? We think what it would mean to the world to prevent this tragedy of squandered opportunities. We bow to the earnest conviction that to prevent it is one of the gravest problems that confront the serious-minded people of to-day.

* * *

"Gather Up the Fragments."

In the great miracle of the feeding of the five thousand, Jesus taught his disciples to "gather up the fragments." Here we are reminded of his saying that "the children of this world are wiser than the children of light." For it is one of our modern miracles to see how the children of this world, as represented by great corporations, are gathering up the fragments. In the days of our great forests the mills used to cut down and saw the splendid trees with circular saws, and a large per cent of the wood was converted into sawdust. But this is a thing of the past. New saws have been invented that make very little sawdust, and even that little has a marketable value. In the Chicago packing houses they formerly treated the hair and bristles and bones and blood as refuse, but now all of these are converted into selling products. Nothing is lost. A railroad official, addressing employees, said: "Remember, men, if you waste two cents' worth of oil, your road has to haul a ton of freight a mile to pay for it." The importance of saving his company's assets is a large part of the railroad man's education and discipline. A certain aspiring young fireman, who had heard this lesson against wastefulness repeatedly, was asked in an examination what he would do in the event he saw another engine approaching and a head-on collision seemed inevitable. He answered quickly enough: "I would grab a can of oil and a lump of coal and jump for my life." Seriously, no man has a right to waste his employer's time or his goods. Many people are sensitive on the point of having a clear distinction made between flagrant dishonesty and mere wastefulness. But Christ did not make this nice distinction. In the eyes of the great Teacher wastefulness is a species of theft. In the parable of the unjust steward we learn that a man is just as truly robbed by the employee who wastes money and goods as by the man who fills his pockets full of things that belong to the man he works for.

0 0 0

Waste Is Abuse of the Worst Sort.

Another synonym for waste is "abuse." The simplest illustration of this, perhaps, is one that relates to bodily health. Here is a man of fine physique. Like King Saul of old, he may rise head and shoulders above his brothers. He is what we call a perfect specimen of physical manhood. He has never had a touch of headache, neuralgia, or rheumatism. His skin is clear, his muscles are strong, and his appetite is faultless. But we close our eyes for a little while and look at him again. Now he is there, pale, emaciated, with no appetite and no strength. Why this great change in so short a time? It is a story of abuse, the example of a man who has wasted the substance of his health through intemperance and dissipation. In like manner there may follow the abuse of mind, the abuse of wealth, the abuse of position, the abuse of power. The apostic Paul, with his master mind, includes all of these wrecks of prodigality under one comprehensive head-the abuse of liberty. To the Christians at Corinth he wrote: "For ye, brethren, were called for freedom; only use not your freedom for an occasion to the flesh." God gives us some wonderful gifts-the endowment of health, the endowment of intellect, the endowment of wealth, the endowment of position, and there is the liberty to use them as we please. But we abuse that liberty when we fail to use these gifts and opportunities for our own spiritual advancement and to his honor and glory. We must stand fast in the liberty wherewith Christ made us free. But let us not forget that it is the liberty of self-restraint, of sobriety, of righteousness and love.

* * *

The Waste That Heaven Approves.

But there is a waste that heaven approves, a prodigality upon which Jesus pronounces a benediction. I think of Mary and her alabaster box of exceeding precious ointment. When she poured it out upon the Master's head, Judas murmured and the other disciples were moved with indignation. To them it meant waste. And such a wastethree hundred pence thrown away on the foolish luxury of a moment! They offer what seems to be a most plausible protest. "This cintment might have been sold for much and given to the poor." "It is very easy for us," says the Expositor's Bible, "who have the limelight of our Lord's words on the whole scene, to see how paltry the objection was; but even yet, with this story now published, as our Lord said it would be, all over Christendom, how many arguments are heard of the very same description! They could not see the blackness of the heart out of which the suggestion came, nor could they see the beauty of the love which shed from Mary's heart a perfume far more precious than the odor of the cintment." But Jesus could see and did see it all, for he asks: "Why trouble ye this woman? for she hath wrought a good work on me." The great lesson for all is this: When we really do a thing for Jesus. it is never wasted. We cannot be too generous in making sacrifices for him. This does not mean, as some have contended and have practiced, that men are warranted in expending lavish sums upon temples, cathedrals, altars, windows, and chancels. Such expenditure, it seems to me, is contrary to the whole spirit and example of the lowly Nazarene. But it does mean that we must pour out in generous and lavish measure the blessing of the gospel upon the heads of those whom he died to save. It means, too, that we must be constant and whole-hearted in our worship. To some people it seems to be an utter waste of time and energy to come to church every Sunday. "Just think," they suggest, "of how much you can do at home or of the benefit that might be derived from outdoor exercise." And there are thousands who in this respect practice what they preach. But, however busy or tired we may be, time given to the worship of God is time utilized to the highest and greatest advantage. There are some Christians who seem to begrudge the little time it requires every Lord's day to come and study the word with their brethren. They act as if that hour would be lost to them, whereas it can prove to be the most profitable hour in the day if you will make it so.

0 0 0

The Saddest Waste of All.

We look with pitying eye and heart moved with sympathy on men who are paying the penalty for having broken the law of sobriety, friendship, health, and Integrity; but what shall we say of those who are wasting their substance of opportunity to make peace with God and their own souls by obeying the gospel, and who, refusing his offers of mercy, are hastening on toward eternal night? And what shall you say of yourself, if, knowing your duty and aware of your privilege to obey Christ, you refuse to use it? You must say something like Oscar Wilde wrote in his prison book, "De Profundis:" "I must say to myself that I ruined myself. . . . I became the spendthrift of my own genius, and to waste an eternal youth gave me a curious joy." Such a testimony is indeed unworthy of any man's emulation. My heart reverts to another prodigal. I see him rise from out of the depths, and I hear him cry: "I have played the fool. I have wasted my father's money; I have lost a golden opportunity; I have misspent precious hours; I have brought on poverty and degradation; but even now there is bread enough and to spare. I shall go to my father's house."

Book Notices.

If you are in need of a good abridged Bible dictionary, send us $2 for a copy of Smith's Peloubet Edition. This is one of the best dictionaries of the Bible that I have examined.

Have you read "Sunshine; or, Uncle Minor's Stories?" This is a very attractive book for children as well as for old people. Children read it with much interest. It is profusely illustrated, and contains many interesting incidents and stories. Price, $1.50.

Send us $1.25 for a copy of "Sweeney's Sermons." This is a book of sermons by John S. Sweeney—one of the best books of sermons published. Sweeney carries conviction with the statement of his position. He is noted for brevity, clearness, and force of statement. Every young preacher should have a copy of this book of sermons.

Have you seen a copy of "Adventism and the Bible?" This is one of the very best books for you to buy at the present time. Adventism is a live subject. Adventists are active and are propagating their doctrines. If you want to be thoroughly prepared to meet them and to expose the errors of Adventism, you should send us at once $1.25 for a copy of "Adventism and the Bible,"

We have on hand a few copies of "Biographies and Sermons," edited by F. D. Srygley. This is a book of sermons by a number of our best-known preachers. It is well worth a careful perusal. A brief history of the life of each preacher accompanies his sermon. A picture of the preacher also is given with each sketch. Price, $1.50. If you want this book, you should order at once, as we have just a few copies that have been left over through mistake.

"Clerical Monopoly of Slamming," BY H. LEO BOLES.

The following excerpt, taken from the Literary Digest of July 24, 1920, is timely, and in it is some wholesome advice which all public teachers of the gospel may receive with profit:

Nothing is more common among certain groups of ministers than the practice of "slamming" each other. Sometimes the assertions are general and imply that there is a great group of men who are untrue to the faith and whose utterances should be looked upon with suspicion. Sometimes groups are mentioned, and occasionally individuals are attacked. Churchgoers are familiar with such references. There are men who seem to delight in establishing their own orthodoxy by attacking that of others. They see no harm done by their references, and seldom stop to think of the fruitage of the suspicion of which they have sown the seeds.

The great evil done is not the injustice to individual men who are often attacked upon what time shows are false reports, although this is considerable. The harm that counts is that something of good will toward the ministry as a whole is lost. Men and women cannot listen to such utterances without becoming somewhat suspicious of all ministers and without setting up for themselves tests which may be far from just. The "slams" thus react upon the whole body of which the minister making them is a part. The Fonor of all is affected. Surely it must be possible to defend and preach the truth without going at it in this back-handed way. Ministers should have as high a standard of ethics in their relation with each other as do men of other professions. And if a brother is, in their opinion, in fault, they should certainly be willing to follow them.

Surely if men of the world and religious teachers among the denominations can see so clearly such evil, why should not those of us who claim to be "Christians only" see and practice the truth as suggested by the above quotation? Men in the legal or medical profession often have a higher code of honor and a greater respect for other members of their profession than do Christians and preachers of the gospel. Among professional men of the world there is found this motto: "There is a professional code of henor which leads men to withhold their tongues, no matter what the provocation." This is a splendid rule for them, and many church members could follow it with profit, and especially preachers; but God's Book gives a better principle. "He that would love life, and see good days, let him refrain his tongue from evil, and his lips that they speak no guile: and let him turn away from evil, and do good; let him seek peace, and pursue It." (1 Pet. 3: 10, 11.) Again: "Thou shalt not go up and down as a talebearer among thy people." (Lev. 19: 16.) Again, Paul spoke of certain ones who "learn also to be idle, going about from house to house; and not only idle, but tattlers also and busybodies, speaking things which they ought not." (1 Tim. 5: 13.)

Recently I held a meeting at a place where last year the preacher who held the meeting was assisted by another good man who was also a preacher. The preacher who had charge of the meeting would visit around among the members and repeat false reports which he had heard on the preacher who was assisting him. Such conduct was not only unfair and unkind to his fellow worker, but was untrue to the spirit of Christ. It reflected on the preacher who entertained his company by such unchaste conversation and hurt his own influence with the members of the church for which he was preaching. Again, another preacher held a meeting last year for a good congregation.

and circulated false reports, which he had heard, on another preacher. Members of that congregation said: "Every time the preacher got up to preach after that, we could not help thinking that he was guilty of slandering a good man, ignorantly or otherwise. We could not hear him preach with the same respect that we otherwise would have had."

"Finally, brethren, whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honorable, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report: if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things." (Phil. 4: 8.) I would be glad if all of God's people would follow this simple, practical, and wise instruction which Paul gives. It would save much trouble and confusion in the church of God, and would give more power and influence to the preacher of the gospel.

The Paths of Toil. BY B. P. CUFF.

Jehovah said: "In toil shalt thou eat of it all the days of thy life." (Gen. 3: 17.) "And Simon answered and said, Master, we toiled all night, and took nothing: but at thy word I will let down the nets." (Luke 5: 5.) "And we toil, working with our hands." (1 Cor. 4: 12.) In the paths of toil lies the way to spiritual health. Practice makes perfect in any calling of life. We learn to do by doing. "Out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh." It is only after we have experienced real service that our hearts are filled to abundance with knowledge of the work of others and with ability to sympathize with them. We were not put into this world to be idle. We were not assigned to a mission of "taking things easy," but to a mission of earnest work. That man mistakes the true meaning of life who would withdraw to some far-away desert place or lonely isle of the sea and live as a hermit; who would go to some isolated cave and live without recognition of man or God, law or duty. That can never bring strength to the soul, can never make one conform to the great teaching of God.

1. We should not shrink from work because of imagined humility. No lowly estimate of one's abilities should keep him from doing what he can for the Master's cause. Every valuable thing, it seems, may be counterfeited. There are those who would be friends to you until you get in need; then their friendship ends. Even love may be feigned. Humility must be of great price in the sight of God. It is an ornament to Christian character, an element embedded there that impels the world to look on in admiration. This grace in man is like unto the modesty of the violet, which, unconspicuous and unseen among the larger forms of life, fills the air with sweet fragrance. There is nothing wrong, no fault to be found with humility. But in an imagined humility danger lurks. I doubt not that scores of people have digged in the earth and buried their talents, have kept their light concealed underneath the bushel, and have lived a worthless life, thinking all the while that they were exhibiting an acceptable humility. Let us live useful lives, proving ourselves a profound blessing to the world, and let us have no counterfeit humility.

2. Ingratitude should not check our ardor for service. There seem to be some people who have not as yet given much to their lives besides the chilling influence—the influence that discourages men, dims hope, quenches ardor, represses enthusiasm, pours darkness into the bright life, and spreads demoralization wherever possible. We would not wonder much to find these people ungrateful for services rendered. We may expect now and then to see the one return, but the nine not come again. Perhaps these nine have learned no better yet than to be ungrateful. Even though it be pure stubbornness on their part, should that stop our ministries or bring a halt in our work? Our Heavenly Father takes account of our service. He beholds our faithfulness to him. Great are the rewards he offers.

3. The service of joyful resignation. At the present time it may be that intense activity in your life pleases Christ. Sometime, it might be, you could serve him fully as well with quiet, submissive, unmurmuring patience in resignation, in accepting meekly the dictum of compulsion. When death treads with solemn step and low into the home and arrows of sorrow pierce the heart, that very piercing may be turned into good for the soul. Then we could serve Him by inquiring and heeding—

"What would God have this sorrow do for me? What is its mission, what its great design? What golden fruit lies hidden in its husk? How shall it nurse my virtue, nerve my will, Chasten my passions, purify my love. And make me in some goodly sense like Him Who bore the cross of sorrow while he lived, And hung and bled upon it when he died, And now in glory wears the victor's crown?"

4. A life of service is the sweetest life in the world. Bible students admire the life of Abraham. Abraham was a servant. Apart from faith heroic, the beautiful thing in his life is that he did not shun the cross, was not searching for the easy path. Our Master's life was one of supreme service, a busy life, a life of toil. When we have definitely chosen him and have decided to live for him, things are easy to do that, looked at solely from the standpoint of duty, would be called "drudgery." We know not how much we can willingly, gladly do for him till we try. Inconceivable possibilities of usefulness lie folded up in our hand and brain and heart.

5. A life consecrated to the paths of toil is ever-enduring. never-ending. Work done for Christ endures forever. The gorgeous splendor of sunset lasts but a little while. The cloud with the silver lining soon breaks away. Writing done in stone may vanish with the fleeting years. Stronger and more durable by far is work done for Jesus. It fades—no, never. "The paths of glory lead but to the grave," but the paths of toil lead to glory.

Los Angeles Notes. BY S. H. HALL.

Lest I should let other matters push it out of my mind, I wish now to say: I thank you, with all my heart, Brother Larimore, and Brethren W. H. Trice and Earnest C. Love, for the warm welcome you have given me to your State—Brother Larimore through the Gospel Advocate, and Brethren Trice and Love in letters recently received. Brother Samuel Witty, of Ontario, Cal., has already run down to our city and made me a visit and also welcomed me to this State. These are great and good men, and I am expecting to be helped and encouraged by them in the little my feeble efforts may amount to in this great city. "Fellowship" is a big word, means much, and well would all the ministers of the church of Christ do to really learn this word and make it one of their most outstanding characteristics.

I cannot go very far with "Los Angeles Notes" this time without getting some Atlanta notes in, for a number of letters that I have just recently received thrill me. To be informed that West End Avenue has one hundred and forty attending the Sunday-morning Bible study, that thirty-six are attending the sisters' meeting on Thursday afternoons, and that her regular collections went above eighty dollars, with a special collection the same day for David Lipscomb College that went above one hundred and fifteen dollars, is great news. This does well, but you can do better. West End has never done her best; and how few the congregations that have, if there are any! But why not do our best? We have the best doctrine that has ever been given to man, or will ever be given. We have the best religious organization, the church of our Lord and Savior, and he himself does not promise to establish anything better. Hence, Paul could exclaim: "Unto him be glory in the church and in Christ Jesus unto all generations forever and ever. Amen." (Eph. 3: 21.) And we have a Father, a living Father, who never forgets us, but lives to love and help us. Indeed, we should do our best, and this is not good enough for the One who died that we might live. But it is so good to know that we had not built up at West End a "mushroom affair" that would die so soon as I left it, as some thought. And It is good to get such expressions as came in N. A. Hunter's letter: "You could not have secured a better man than Goodpasture for this work." May God's blessing ever attend, not only West End, but South Pryor and East Point, and every congregation in that State, is my prayer. I hardly think there has been a day since I left that I have not named every congregation in my prayers, with special prayer for each minister that is striving for the simple and sane teaching of our Lord And don't forget, I need your prayers.

The more I see of this city, the more I am impressed with its beauties, and, along with its beauties, its sore need of a dozen men here continually wielding the sledge hammer of God's eternal truth. The more I learn of the members of the congregation here, the more hopeful I am of seeing a great work accomplished. We have a most excellent board of elders and deacons-men who love the truth, and who desire to see it, and not something else, preached to the people. When I arrived, I was giad to find that the church had procured, through Brother J. T. Lilley, a splendld self-feeder mimeograph machine, to be used in getting out literature for free distribution, etc., and I know nothing better to do than to close my "Notes" this time with the first letter we have mailed out to our members. What is good for them is good for every reader of the Advocate, and may every congregation get full of the spirit with which we here are striving to fill ourselves. Here is the letter:

Just a few moments of your time, please. I have slipped in to say a few words to you about the greatest work under the sun—a work every child of God must love and in which he must be continually engaged.

First—Is it not true that the church of Christ is the greatest institution in the world? Is it possible for man to institute one that excels it or even equals it? Should we not be happy to know that we are in the best that can be found? But the very fact that we strive to let our selves be just that church Christ would have us be demands that we do as much for it, to say the least, as others do for human organizations.

Second-Is not the doctrine that Christ has given to his church to preach to the nations of the earth the best, the most uplifting, the most encouraging and purifying doc-trine that can be found? Is it not so pure and all-suffi-cient that it would damn an angel if he should dare try to improve it by additions or subtractions? (See Gal. 1: Is it not true that we must neither receive nor encourage any man that claims to be a minister, if he comes with another doctrine? (See 2 John 9-12.) But to whom is God looking to make these all-important truths known to the people? Certainly he is not expecting people who are members of human organizations, who teach for doctrine the commandments of men, to do this. (See Matt. 15: 9-14.) He can only look to and expect those of his children who believe and love these great truths to give them to the people just as they are found in the "one Book." Can he depend on you, my brother, my clater to Book." Can he depend on you, my brother, my sister, to do your part? Can he depend on me? These are questions that should burn into our souls and be answered right now. And I believe every one of you will do this, and that God sees now in your heart, or will soon see, a burning desire to do his will, to make his church the best in this city, and to let the people know that joy that comes only to his faithful followers.

Third—A few suggestions to those who desire and will do their part. (1) We want our house to soon be too small for the crowds. Certainly the church of our Lord and Savior is sufficiently important for us to work whole-heartedly to this end. Then the salvation of souls is before us. We cannot save people unless we can get them to come to know God and his church and teaching. (2) This can be easily done by each member making it a rule to be at each service when it is possible for him or her to do so. Do this because it is your duty. Who has done so much for us as Christ? Can we not do this little for his cause? But we want you to prayerfully try to get others to come. Brother Godfrey's family brought seven who were not church members last Sunday night. What they did, certainly others can do. You will find many you cannot get to come. But your work is to get those whom you know, those who like you and with whom you can have influence, to come. Do not worry about others; just stay with them, and you will succeed with some of them. If each member would get just one more to come, our house would be more than full. Can you not do this? But you say: "Why be so anxious to fill the house?" Just because we cannot so anxious to fill the house?" Just because we cannot show people really what the church is without getting them to see it at work. Then it requires no more effort to preach the gospel to five hundred than it does to one hundred and fifty. Then the larger the crowds, the more you and I are encouraged. "Nothing succeeds like success."

(3) Please do not forget to pray. (Read Col. 4: 2-6.) In fact, run your references and see how important to stay in the spirit of prayer. Time forbids more. Do not forget, the subject Sunday morning is "The Church at Work."

Sunday night I will begin a series of sermons on "The Sunday night I will begin a series of sermons on "The Church of Christ," during which series this glorious institution is to be fully shown to the people. Get your friends to begin with the first lesson.

The Second Coming of Christ.

BY EARNEST C. LOVE.

(Synopsis of a sermon preached at Russell Street Church of Christ, Nashville, Tenn., August 22, 1920.)

The Bible plainly teaches that Christ will come again. "Henceforth ye shall see the Son of man sitting at the right hand of Power, and coming on the clouds of heaven." (Matt. 26: 60.) "This Jesus, who was received up from you into heaven, shall so come in like manner as ye have seen him going into heaven." (Acts 1: 11.) I know of no important body of people, claiming any regard for the Bible, who denies the second coming of Christ. It is universally accepted as a tenet of the Christian's belief. But some claim that the church of Christ has neglected the subject—that its importance demands that it be stressed more than formerly. This criticism caused me to study the question more thoroughly, and this sermon is the result

There is no doubt that this should be taught along with other things, but I see no reason for making a specialty of it. There is a more important duty to be emphasized. and that is getting ready for his coming should it occur in our day, or for death in case it comes first. The second advent of Christ has always had a peculiar infatuation for certain classes of people. Nearly all students of unfulfilled prophecy have formulated theories concerning the imminence of Christ's coming. In 1816, William Miller, of New England fame, began the study of prophecy, and by 1832 had formulated a theory that Christ would come in 1843. For eleven years he preached this most vehemently, and by 1843 had gathered about him a large following. They believed carnestly that the coming of Christ was imminent. It is denied by them, but affirmed by others, that some made themselves robes, and some climbed upon stumps, fences, etc., and some went so far as to jump off and try to fly to heaven. But the only result was a few sprained ankles and a broken rib or two, and a sadly disappointed lot of people. However, this did not discourage these "time setters." They simply said they had made a mistake of one year and that Christ would certainly come in 1844. They then tried to stage a second coming of Christ in 1844, and had no better success.

Well, this did not kill the movement, as it should have done. No, interpreters of prophecy cannot be wrong! Some said he was intending to come at that time, but had been delayed some way, and would surely come within the next few years. Others said there was an error as to what was meant by "cleansing the sanctuary" in Dan. 8: 14.

Out of this "second-advent" movement, came the "First-Day Adventists, the Millerites, the Seventh-Day Adventists, the "Church of God," and, as an aftermath, Russellism. Also, some of it seems to have slopped over into the church of Christ. Therefore, both the Bible and experience should teach us that the time of his coming cannot be determined with accuracy. (Mark 13: 33.)

But we are told that it is wrong to set the time, but that we should preach the imminency of his coming. But as "imminency" means "threatening to happen at once," is it safe to preach this doctrine?

Some will say: "By all means, yes." We are told that we should preach it that the church may be expecting Jesus and be ready when he comes. This all sounds very good; but there is a danger in it, often overlooked. Suppose all of us should begin preaching this doctrine, stressing it in every sermon, and suppose we succeeded in getting the church to really believe that his coming was "imminent," "threatening to happen." What would be the resuit? If he came, of course, all would be well; but if he deferred his coming, as he has so far, the result would be disastrous to the hopes of the church. Nothing chills zeal and ardor like "hope deferred." The effect could not be otherwise than bad upon our children. They would say: "Father and mother were all wrought up over his coming in their lifetime; and now they have been gone these many years, and he has not come yet. There is something wrong somewhere." This doctrine will have a tendency to make infidels out of our grandchildren.

I do not like the expression, "Jesus is coming soon." I do not know, neither does any one else, whether he is coming soon or not. It may be thousands of years yet for all I know, and I think I know as much about it as the average preacher. It is our duty to preach the coming of Christ, but to say when he will come is dangerous. One strange thing about all "Adventists" is, they have a theory of prophetic interpretation that sets the second coming of Christ away off in the distant future. They talk all the time about the nearness of his coming, but they tell you of a long catalogue of catastrophes that must take place first, which, if true, make it impossible for him to come for hundreds of years, at least. No one should hold a theory on the interpretation of prophecy which conflicts with Christ's coming at any time. It is just as sinful to set a time when he will not come as to set a time for his coming. So far as I can see, he may come any time; and yet he may delay his coming for a long time. The important thing is to be ready if he comes,

The Seventh-Day Adventists are very inconsistent in their doctrine concerning the fulfillment of prophecy and the second coming of Christ. According to their theory, there must be formed a federation of all the churches of the world, Protestants and Catholics; then all of them must be convinced that a law must be passed forbidding Adventists to worship on Saturday; then this world-wide organization must get control of all temporal governments and actually pass such a law; then all the world, and particularly the United States, must persecute even unto death the poor Adventists; and after this has gone on for a while, Christ will come. Now, if all that must happen first, I say Adventists do not believe in the near coming of Christ. But it remained for our own "modern prophets!' to fix that. They have a number of calamities pending yet, and at the same time they claim to believe that "Jesus is coming soon." They attempt to get out of this tangle by saying that Christ will come once and attend to a few matters, then go away and come again later. They have several "second" comings. It is easy to see that this is simply a case of trying to make the boy fit the hat instead of making the hat fit the boy. No one would have thought of such a thing from reading the New Testament.

We are told by the modern interpreters of prophecy that "the second coming of Christ, and never death, is the goal of the Christian." They say the Bible nowhere teaches us to prepare for death, but rather to prepare for the second coming of Christ. Now, this is an error. Jesus says through John the Revelator: "Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord." (Rev. 14: 13.) Paul says: "For me to live is Christ, and to die is gain." (Phil. 1: 21.) Paul further said he had a "desire to depart and be with Christ; for it is very far better." (Verse 23.) The coming of Christ will be a glorious event for all devoted Christians. But all will not be so fortunate as to be alive on the earth at his coming. Will they then be forced to spend the time between death and the resurrection in a state of cold oblivion and utter forgetfulness? Nay, verily. Paul expected to depart to be with Christ at death. If, therefore, a Christian dies before his coming, he goes to Christ: if not, Christ comes to him. It ought to be immaterial to us whether we go to Christ or he comes to us. It is the happy privilege of being with Jesus which should be coveted by us. This will be effected by our dying and going to him or by his advent upon the earth again. Let us strive to be ready for death or for his coming, no matter which one comes first.

A Statement and Correction.

BY E. C. FUOTIA.

In the Apostolic Review of August 31, 1920, under the caption, "McQuiddy Quits," is a lengthy article from the pen of Brother D. Austen Sommer, in which Brother Sommer places me before his readers in a light calculated to mislead them. He says: "E. C. Fuqua, one of the prominent college preachers in Colorado, was like Brother McQuiddy—anxious and glad at first that the discussion was appearing in the Gospel Advocate, and then anxious for it to stop," etc.

His labored effort to make me appear as contradicting myself needs no defense from me. I am more than willing to let this rest without a word more from me, as the words quoted are wholly sufficient to expose his folly.

But when Brother Sommer says that I am "one of the prominent college preachers in Colorado," I solemnly challenge the statement and demand the proof. So far as I know myself, I preach the word only, and not any "college;" and "my speech and my preaching" "from the first day that I set foot in" Colorado abundantly attest the strict correctness of my statement that I preach no "college," publicly or privately, directly or indirectly; nor has my preaching during the fourteen years I have been in Colorado ever been remotely connected with any "college."

If Brother Sommer feels able to undertake the job, I consider it a great pleasure to hand to him the following statement for him to disprove-viz.: The only "college" preaching ever heard in Colorado was done and is being done solely by the Review and the men who represent it in this State. These introduced the "college question" here, are to-day the sole agitators of it, and they are the ones who are dividing the churches in Colorado over this "question." They have agitated it to the disruption of the fellowship of churches in communities where formerly existed only peace, love, and pure Christian cooperation. Without one semblance of excuse they have driven this "college question" as a wedge into more than one local representation of the body of Christ, rending the fellowship of brethren and sowing discord among them, and leading some to fairly hate others. This has been done in Colorado solely by the Review and its representatives and sympathizers, and at their feet I unhesitatingly lay the sin and challenge them to deny their guilt. They are the "college preachers" of Colorado, and the wreck of Christian fellowship in this State as unerringly follows and marks the Review influence as the wreckage follows and marks the path of the cyclone. If Brother Sommer wishes to prove himself innocent, let him clear his decks for action.

Something Every Christian Can Do.

BY MORGAN H. CARTER.

Christ says: "Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to the whole creation. He that believeth and is haptized shall be saved; but he that disbelieveth shall be condemned." The second of these two sentences is very important. But its importance should never cause us to neglect the first, which is the command to the Christian; for Jesus says: "If ye love me, ye will keep my commandments." And John continues: "Whosoever goeth onward and abideth not in the teaching of Christ, hath not God; he that abideth in the teaching, the same hath both the Father and the Son."

Do you want to do mission work for Christ Jesus? The harvest is white, Go forth and save some man for Christ to-day. God will give you strength and grace. Ask him to help you. Do you wish to help in some distant field? There are many worthy places, but the people that are doing the most real work in them are those who learned to work with those near by. "You bring the one next to you, and I'll bring the one next to me." Thus we will labor, glorify God, and save men. The time to work is right now.

There is a splendid work for every one to do in sending the names of all the Christians whom they know that move into cities or communities where there is no loyal congregation. You can glorify God and perhaps be used in saving one or many by sending the names of those you know that have moved away to some place where they are strangers. I am especially interested in finding the names and addresses of those who have gone to New York City and its surrounding cities. But if you send me any other names, I shall see that they get to the proper persons to look them up. Names of interested people or friends whom you want us to pray for or visit in Jesus' name will be appreciated. The cooperation of many thoughtful people in this way helped greatly in establishing a congregation at 239 West Sixty-ninth Street, New York City, in July. The work is doing well. The glory is to God. Let us all remember the work in prayer. This is something every Christian can do. We are trying to find an excellent Christian evangelist and put him in the field now to preach Christ. If you know of any one in New York or wish to have fellowship in this great work for Christ, write Brother G. M. McKee, 105 West Sixty-fourth Street, New York City.

A Call for a Preacher.

BY GEORGE W. FARMER.

Sister W. P. Hunter, of Ravenscroft, Tenn., writes me that the church at Ravenscroft wants to secure the services of a man and put him in the field, stand behind him in supporting him, and keep him at work evangelizing that great, needy gospel field. A young man or a man with a small family is preferred.

This is a move in the right direction. It is sad that so many churches are doing little or nothing toward sounding out the word, when there are so many needy and destitute fields that need working so badly. With the churches it is just simply work and live or do nothing and die. I know of no field where I believe fine results would more readily come than in this field. Besides, there is no more healthful country anywhere, and living expenses need not be great, as fruits and vegetables grow abundantly. Let the brethren take notice and some good brother who is willing to work go into this field. No doubt a great work can be accomplished. Write Sister W. P. Hunter, Ravenscroft, Tenn., or to me at Cleveland, Tenn.

Let Thy grace accompany me all the days of my life, that I may, by a holy conversation, and an habitual performance of my duty, wait for the coming of our Lord, and be ready to enter with Thee at whatever hour Thou shalt come.—Jeremy Taylor, Mrs. E. W. Smith inquires to know the meaning of (1) Acts 13: 48; (2) Eph. 1: 4, 5.

1. Acts 13: 48 reads: "And as the Gentiles heard this, they were glad, and glorified the word of God; and as many as were ordained to eternal life believed." This passage has been used to prove the doctrine of unconditional election and reprobation. The meaning of the passage is that as many as are ordained, or as many as obey the gospel, believe. By their belief and obedience they were ordained to eternal life. Wesley says of this passage: The original word rendered 'ordained' is not once used in the Scriptures to express eternal predestination of any kind." Those who believed were not forced to believe, but when the evidence was presented they believed voluntarily and freely of their own accord. God in his mercy has ordained that those of humble, contrite, teachable hearts, seeking the truth and life, shall come to life when it is offered, and such will accept the gospel on all occasions.

2. Eph. 1: 4, 5 reads: "Even as he chose us in him before the foundation of the world; that we should be holy and without blemish before him in love: having fore-ordained us unto adoption as sons through Jesus Christ unto himself, according to the good pleasure of his will." This does not teach that God chooses some individuals and rejects others, but that before the world was, before there was Jew or Gentile, God chose to have a people for himself. He chose those who would believe and obey him to constitute the church of Christ; a peculiar people, devoted to good works, confined to no particular race. The people chosen before the world was should be holy, zealous of good works, and without blame. Holiness is proof that a Christian is chosen, and is proof that a church is chosen.

0 0 0

J. F. Milby inquires to know the meaning of (1) 1 Cor. 3: 12-15; (2) 1 Cor. 5: 4-7. The passages, respectively, are: "But if any man buildeth on the foundation gold, silver, costly stones, wood, hay, stubble; each man's work shall be made manifest; for the day shall declare it, because it is revealed in fire; and the fire itself shall prove each man's work of what sort it is. If any man's work shall abide which he built thereon, he shall receive a reward. If any man's work shall be burned, he shall suffer less: but he himself shall be saved; yet so as through fire." "In the name of our Lord Jesus, ye being gathered together, and my spirit, with the power of our Lord Jesus, to deliver such a one unto Satan for the destruction of the flesh, that the spirit may be saved in the day of the Lord Jesus. Your glorying is not good. Know ye not that a little leaven leaveneth the whole lump? Purge out the old leaven, that ye may be a new lump, even as ye are unleavened. For our passover also hath been sacrificed, even Christ."

1. These passages are difficult to understand. The commonly accepted view is that the preacher of the gospel who builds on the one foundation gold, silver, and costly stones is building good material in the way of converts; while the preacher who builds on the same foundation wood, hay, and stubble builds poor material, and material which will not stand fiery trials, persecutions, and tribulations through which all must pass. Each man's work must be so tested and tried. Only the gold, silver, and precious stones will stand the test; while the wood, hay, and stubble will not. The man's work that abides will receive a reward; the man's work which is burned shall suffer loss, but he himself shall be saved, yet so as through fire. The other position is that in building on the one foundation, every preacher, while doing the very best that he can and while seeking to know and present nothing but the truth, will, in all probability, present some error in doctrine. His doctrine must be tried; and while the preacher must pass through many tribulations and trials, though he shall suffer loss on account of erroneous views, yet he himself shall be saved, yet so as through fire. If this be correct, how careful every preacher should be to present nothing but the pure word of God! He should labor to preach the word, and nothing but the word.

2. The teaching of this passage is plain. There was one guilty of fornication in the church at Corinth; he even had his father's wife. The church did not mourn on account of this, but was rather puffed up. Paul admonished that the one who had done such a thing should be taken away from among Christians. Hence, he says that when they are gathered together in his name they should deliver such a one unto Satan for the destruction of the flesh, which is the same as withdrawing from every one who walketh disorderly. Such are delivered to Satan for the destruction of the flesh, so that the spirit may be saved in the day of the Lord Jesus. Then he assures them that a little leaven leaveneth the whole lump, and, therefore, he urges them to purge out the leaven of evil and wickedness, to withdraw from the man who was guilty of fornication, in order that the entire lump might not be leavened by his conduct.

* * *

Maggie Black, Route 2, Sarepta, Miss., is concerned for the body of Christ which worships at the Holly Schoolhouse, near Buckhorn, Miss. Some in the church think all people are born spiritless and some think they are not. She says they are all torn up and some are going to quit the church. She wishes information through the "Query Department" of the Gospel Advocate. This is an untaught question and should not create disturbance and division in a church. Of a certainty we know that our spirits come from God, and, hence, should not argue just about the time that God bestows the spirit upon us, whether before birth or after birth. The Holy Spirit says: "Furthermore, we had the fathers of our flesh to chasten us, and we gave them reverence: shall we not much rather be in subjection unto the Father of spirits, and live?" (Heb. 12: 9.) This passage establishes beyond a doubt that our spirits come from God. We learn also that they return to God. "And the dust returneth to the earth as it was, and the spirit returneth unto God who gave It." (Eccles. 12: 7.) do know, however, when God gave the spirit to Adam. It was just at the time that he had perfected his creation. "And Jehovah God formed man of the dust of the ground. and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life; and man became a living soul." (Gen. 2: 7.)

0 0 0

C. S. Hawkins, of Auburntown, Tenn., wishes to know if it would be according to the Scriptures to appoint as elder a man not married, but who possesses the other qualifications as laid down in the New Testament for an elder. The Bible nowhere says that an elder must be a married man. It does say that he must be "the husband of one wife," which means that, if married, he must not be the husband of two wives or of three wives, and that he must not be divorced from a number of wives. Unfortunately, in the days of the New Testament polygamy was practiced by the people and divorces were freely given without the scriptural cause. Some women had many husbands and some men had many wives. Men who were divorced from wives or had more than one living wife were not qualified for elders.

AT HOME AND ABROAD

- J. W. Grant is in a meeting near Woodbury, Tenn.
- T. Q. Martin began a two-weeks' meeting at McMinnville, Tenn., last Sunday.
- S. M. Spears reports one baptism during a recent service at Reid Avenue Church, this city.

Charles Holder writes: "I am at Athens, Tenn., in a meeting, and will be here till next week sometime."

John E. Dunn is engaged in a meeting at Corinth, Miss. He is preaching to large audiences, and the interest is splendid.

G. W. Hardin, of Little Rock, Ark., wishes the names and addresses of any persons who should be worshiping there. Address him at 1417 Park Street.

Change of address: J. H. Hines, from Hopkinsville, Ky., to 305 Forest Ave., Montgomery, Ala.; L. R. Wilson, from Tupelo, Ark., to Henderson, Tenn.

We enjoyed a visit last Monday from Charles L. Talley. He preached at Cookeville, Tenn., last Sunday, and reports the congregation as moving on fairly well.

R. V. Cawthen closed a good meeting at Bethany, Wilson County, Tenn., some days ago. He was announced to begin a meeting at Smithville, Tenn., last Lord's day.

The College Street congregation, this city, is making fine progress. J. Leonard Jackson reports three baptisms at a recent service. See the notice of their change of location under another caption.

I learned from E. M. Borden that it was R. G. Edwards who took part in the trouble at Riverside, Cal., and not Floyd M. Edwards, as I stated in my article some weeks ago. I am glad to make this correction.

We enjoyed a visit from R. L. Whiteside, of Denton, Texas, last Thursday. He had just closed an interesting meeting at Fruit's Chapel, Hopkinsville, Ky. He was announced to begin a meeting at Riverside, Tenn., last Lord's day.

T. C. Burton, of Hazel, Ky., is seriously sick. He is in a hospital in this city. It has not been decided definitely whether he will undergo an operation or not. If it be the will of the Lord, let us hope that he will be restored to health

Our associate editor, E. A. Elam, has been engaged during the past two weeks in an interesting meeting at Lewisburg, Tenn. We are not advised as to results, and can only state that the meeting was expected to close last Sunday night.

The enrollment of the Freed-Hardeman College, Henderson, Tenn, this week, is two hundred and fifteen. Students are still coming. Many are yet to enter. Many States are represented in the student body. Catalogue of the school sent for the asking.

From J. A. Cullum, Leslie, Ark., October 7: "My meeting at Mountain View, Ark., closed last Sunday night, with good crowds and interest. Four ladies were added to the congregation. I will be in Leslie until about January 1, after which date I will move to Oklahoma."

J. D. Patton's special musical institute will begin at the Freed-Hardeman College, Henderson, Tenn., under its auspices, November 1, 1920. This is a great opportunity for the charch to send a leader to learn from this great teacher. Write the college for circulars and full information.

From J. O. Barnes and J. M. Cole: "We, trustees of the church of Christ at Lake City, Fla., gratefully acknowledge receipt of one hundred and thirteen dollars and eighty-six cents contributed to the relief of our church debt since last report. We are glad to report that we will soon be 'over the top.'"

The church at Clarksville, Tenn, is anxious to locate a good, strong preacher to devote his time to evangelizing in Clarksville. This is a good field for a preacher who is devoted to the work and who is willing to labor faithfully to advance the religion of Jesus Christ, and a reasonable support is assured.

The meeting conducted at Twelfth Avenue Church, this city, by S. M. Jones, of Canada, is continuing with growing interest. At last reports there had been thirteen additions, and the house was packed to overflowing every night.

Brother Jones will begin a meeting for the Reid Avenue congregation next Sunday.

A letter from John T. Smithson brings us the sad intelligence that his child is sick and his wife has given down from worry. It is to be hoped that the child will soon be greatly improved and that Sister Smithson will soon be restored to perfect health. May the Lord bless and strengthen them all in this trying hour.

For the benefit of our readers who may go to Los Angeles, Cal., and who realize the importance of meeting with the church of Christ to worship, it is here stated that S. H. Hall is preaching in the church house located on the corner of Altura and Sichel Streets. Take a North Broadway car and go to Sichel Street, then go one block to the left.

William P. Walker, of Clarksville, Tenn., was among our callers last Monday. He preached at Oakwood, near Clarksville, Tenn., last Lord's day. Next Monday he expects to start to Callfornia, where he will devote his time to preaching the gospel. We regret very much to lose him from Tennessee, but take pleasure in commending him to the brethren in Callfornia.

From B. W. Boyd, Pikeville, Tenn., October 6: "H. W. Wrye, of Nashville, Tenn., has just closed a very interesting meeting for the church here. While there were no additions, yet the attendance, attention, and interest were fine throughout the meeting and the church was greatly edified. Brother Wrye is an able preacher, and we are all anxious to have him return."

E. M. Borden, of Riverside, Cal., while he does not agree fully with E. C. Love's policy of conducting his paper, says of him: "He is a good man, and has done a great deal of good on the Coast." In matters of opinion and expediency, it should not be expected that we will all be in perfect accord. The thing to do is to be long-suffering and not press the acceptance of our opinions upon others.

From J. A. Hudson, Oklahoma City, Okla., October 6: "The second year of my work with the Tenth Street and Francis Avenue congregation is begun. During the year just closed there have been more than a hundred members added to us. I expect greater things during the next twelve months, for I am confident the brethren are more harmonious and have a greater vision than one year ago."

H. T. King has just returned from Atlanta, Ga., where he held a two-weeks' revival at the Pryor Street Church. The attendance and interest were good throughout the meeting, but no additions were made. He reports that Brother Rogers, who preaches regularly for this congregation, is doing a fine work. B. C. Goodpasture, of the West End Church, coöperated fully in the meeting.

W. J. Johnson writes from Amite, La., October 6: "A. K. Ramsey has just closed a series of gospel meetings here. The interest was broken by having to suspend for a few days on account of having to give up the place where we were meeting (which we had secured because of the rains and cold weather after we had received the tent and set it up) to those who had it rented. There were two baptisms."

James E, Scobey is announced to preach at Fairview next Sunday, at Donelson the fourth Sunday, and at Lawrence Avenue (his home congregation) on the fifth Lord's day in this month. Last Sunday he preached at New Hope, Cannon County, Tenn. Brother Scobey is desirous of getting two monthly appointments in the city. Any church of Christ desiring his services should address him at 859 Bradford Avenue, this city.

D. F. Draper writes: "I was at Valley View, Texas, on the first Lord's day in October, and met a good congregation both in the morning and in the afternoon. They are anxious for a good man all his time. Valley View is on the Santa Fé Railroad, fifty miles north of Fort Worth. The brethren at Era, seven miles west of this place, are cooperating with these brethren. Should some brother desire this work, write me at 2709 May Street, Fort Worth, Texas."

John M. Rice writes: "My meeting at Rocky, Okla, starts off with fine interest, a full house, fine singing, and splendid attention. My meeting at Dill, Okla, resulted in twenty baptisms and three reclaimed. At Gasoline, Texas, we had six additions, and at Post, Texas, there were eighteen baptisms. I go from here to Sentinel, Okla; thence to Fort Worth; thence to Cordell, Okla.; thence for Christmas; thence to Munday, Texas, the first Sunday in January, for six months."

Our readers will please not forget the needs of the Tennessee Orphans' Home. The board of directors had a called meeting at the office of the Gospel Advocate last Saturday to consider building fire escapes and a laundry. Some of the directors are of the opinion that we can save money by having a laundry of our own. We are having many calls to take care of orphans—more than we have funds available for. Contributions should be sent direct to the Tennessee Orphans' Home, Columbia, Tenn.

S. F. Morrow gives the following report: "James Allen preached at the Belmont church of Christ on the fourth Sunday in September, at which time four took membership. Brother Lambeth preached on the first Sunday in October, when one took membership and one confession was made. On Tuesday night following Brother Hall, one of the teachers of the David Lipscomb College, preached. At this time one confession was made and two were baptized. So our big meeting continues, and, as we understand the Book, will continue as long as the church stands."

Under date of September 29, W. M. Oakley writes: "I began a mission meeting near Owens Cross Roads, Ala., continuing eight days, which resulted in eleven baptisms, some from the Presbyterians, some from the Methodists, and one Baptist preacher, seventy-one years old, who will the rest of his life contend earnestly for the faith he has tried to destroy. We secured a house, and the little band will hereafter keep house for the Lord. I go next to Pond Creek, Cheatham County, Tenn.—Ashland City, Route 4—where we begin on October 3. I will answer any calls for meetings after October 15."

John T. Smithson writes: "I recently closed an interesting meeting at Pleasant Ridge, in Cannon County, Tenn., with two baptisms and seventeen restorations. I went from Pleasant Ridge to Mount Hermon, in Warren County, and began a meeting on Wednesday night, but had to close it on Sunday morning and come home on account of sickness at home. This meeting was the most interesting one in which I have engaged in some time. There were four baptisms, and one who had formerly been a member, but had joined the Methodists, came back to the church. I have had to cancel two meetings for the present."

W. S. Long made pleasant visits to the following congregations recently: Corinth, Miss.; Henderson, Yorkville, Glass, Greenfield, Dickson, Lyles, and Cornersville, Tenn. Every congregation is in fine working order. The Dickson congregation will make their donation to the church at Washington, aggregating one thousand dollars. Brother Long hopes to find other congregations that will take hearty fellowship in this work. He says he will continue working night and day until this church is paid for and furnished. He will be in the field until about November 1, at which time he will return to Washington.

A. D. Dies writes from Oakman, Ala.: "Since last report I have assisted in a meeting at College Grove, Ala., at which place fifty-two persons took their stand for the Lord. I hope to visit them again next year. I went from there to Mount Juliet, Tenn., at which place five noble souls obeyed the Lord. This is the home of Vester Cawthon, one of God's noblemen and an able preacher. The church at Mount Juliet stood by me nobly. The Lord willing, I will hold another meeting for them next July. From Mount Juliet I went to Wetumpka, Ala., where I preached a week without any visible results. There are only about four members there. I then went to Steens, Miss., a mission point, and preached over two Lord's days, and baptized one young man. I am now at home for a few days, in a meeting with the New Hope congregation, and interest is fine. I go next to Lonoke, Miss."

From W. S. Long: "We want every congregation of true Christians to give an offering toward the house of worship in Washington, D. C., on the fourth Lord's day in October (October 24). Remember the date, and let everybody help. Some have been promising for two years. Now is the time to make good your promise. To encourage others, I will say that cash donations have been made lately amounting to five hundred dollars and lifty cents, while pledges have been given amounting to seventeen hundred and fifty dollars. Other churches have promised some faithful service very soon. We shall count on these pledges not later than November 15. Earnest appeals have been made to the churches everywhere, but very few have come to our aid. It is your time. Let us have your fellowship. Address E. L. Mills, treasurer, Box 1650, Washington, D. C., or W. S. Long, Box 1423, Washington, D. C."

From L. S. White, Sherman, Texas, October 7: "The new Walnut Street church house in this city has been entirely completed and furnished. We had the first service in the main auditorium last Sunday. I preached in the morning; G. H. P. Showalter, editor of the Firm Foundation, preached in the afternoon and at night. Great audiences at all the services. The house is paid for, and the church did not borrow a dollar. The house is fifty-six by seventy-six feet and three stories high. It has a large assembly room in the basement, besides the main auditorium, galleries. Sunday-school rooms, a ladies' rest room, and all conveniences. The house is heated by steam. The church is centrally located by the side of the public library. It cost the church something like fifty thousand dollars, and would cost much more than that now. We all thank God and take courage. Thomas E. Milholland will begin a meeting for us on the third Sunday in October. I am now in a short meeting with him and the Denison church, with much interest and four additions up to this time."

E. C. Fuqua, of Fort Collins, Col., says in a letter of recent date: "I am in a good meeting in Fort Collins, and Brother Shoulders is helping me in the singing." He also says: "The Gospel Advocate of September 30 is just before me, and I note with great satisfaction your further proofs against the Review policy. I note also your statement that some of your readers discouraged your discussion through the Advocate of these matters because they do not understand how any one can be opposed to teaching the Bible in the school or anywhere else. Let me urge upon you to not allow these to deter you from fully exposing this hideous sin while you have the matter up. These good brethren certainly do not know what 'Sommerism' has done and is doing and is seeking to do for the cause of our Master here in the West, or they would rather encourage your continued exposure of the 'ism.'" In this connection I wish to call attention to the fact that Brother Sommer has never published my last article exposing his creed. It was our agreement that if I published all his—even published one twice. In all fairness, he should allow his readers to see my article in reply to his criticism.

Brother I. C. Hoskins' Death.

BY A. B. L.

Last Thursday morning I received the following telegram from Martin, Tenn.: "My husband, I. C. Hoskins, passed away at 11:10 this (Wednesday) morning. Burial here Friday afternoon, Mrs. Millie Hoskins." This brought a pang of sorrow and of deep regret, known Brother Hoskins for many years, and have always recognized in him a saintliness of character that is rarely He was a man of a deep, quiet nature, found among men. and one whose friendship was like pure gold. His work for the Master has borne fruit that will tell in the ages to come. His labors within recent years have been at Louisville, Ky.; Gallatin, Tenn.; Florence, Ala.; Manchester, Tenn.; and Martin, Tenn., where he died. At all of these points there will be many to share the sorrow of his faithful wife and of Sister I. B. Grubbs, his mother-in-law, who made her bome with her daughter. May the Lord bless and sustain them and comfort the church in the dark hour of trial and bereavement. Sometime ago Brother Hoskins wrote an article for one of our special numbers, describing the day's work of a busy evangelist. That article was a fine index to this good man's life, and I hope to reprint it at an early date. In the meantime I feel sure that there will be many letters from the various points where Brother Hoskins has labored, bringing to Sister Hoskins messages of sympathy and encouragement.

New Building for College Street Church.

The College Street Church, in Nashville, has recently purchased from the Presbyterians their commodious building, located on the corner of Lindsley Avenue and Second Avenue. What was formerly the Carroll Street church of Christ has united with the College Street Church, and the consolidated church will be known as the Lindsley Avenue church of Christ. On next Lord's day (October 17) we will have our first service in our new home. This day has been set apart as home-coming day. We are very anxious to have present many Christians from other congregations of the city on this day, but especially do we desire the presence of all former members of College Street. Brother F. W. Smith has kindly consented to preach both morning and evening. Brother Smith has labored with the church in the past, and he would be glad to have present every former member of the church. Let every one, who possibly can, come next Lord's day, and help us make this day one of the greatest in the history of the church.

CURRENT THOUGHT

The Salvation Army's "Lost Drunks."

When the saloon was outlawed, few were in a better position to appraise the results than the Salvation Army workers who had given food and shelter and the gospel message to the "down-and-outers," to the throngs of "lurching bravos from the ditches dank" attracted by the music of drum and tambourine. So the Salvation Army's report on the effect of prohibition on its work is an important aid to the full understanding of the practical results of the new order of things. Prohibition, according to a Salvation Army officer quoted in the press, has relieved the Army of its self-assumed task of salvaging the men who had wrecked their fortunes and their lives in the corner saloons. In the deserted appearance of the Army's industrial homes is seen "the best proof that can be offered of the effectiveness of the prohibition amendment." Indeed. the "loss" of the drunks may necessitate the hiring of labor to do the Army's work; for many a man who was saved from the gutter could handle a saw, mend a clock, or do some jobs that required technical knowledge. the change in conditions does not mean that the Salvation Army will curtail its appointed task. In the place of the toper comes the drug addict, who presents a problem no less engrossing than the confirmed inebriate. Other work will be extended, and the Army expects to take up new burdens now that one of its old responsibilities is gone. But for years its work had been directed toward the regeneration of men and women who had stumbled and had been unable to pick themselves up, says Col. William Peart, the Army's Commissioner of the Middle Territory in the United States, in an interview with a writer for the New York Times. Assistance was given to all who needed it. Seventy-five per cent of the men who worked in the industrial homes were confirmed drunkards:

"The wrecks of men would be assigned to the various departments in the workshops. There was a department for packing old paper, a department for assorting furniture, a department for mending clothes—a department for everything, in fact, that came out of a home or an office. Let me say in passing that this work of gathering old clothes and old furniture is exceedingly successful in this country. Americans continually change their clothes and their furniture. Our wagons are kept busy gathering the cast-offs of families who have acquired a bit of riches and put them into new dining-room or parlor suites.

"Among the vast army of confirmed drinkers were representatives of all trades and professions. We would get doctors, lawyers, teachers, clock makers, upholsterers, cabinetrakers, carpenters—all types, in fact, that could turn their hands toward making salable articles out of unsalable ones. A clock maker who had lost caste in his vocation because of an overfondness for drink would come in and in a short time set all the clocks in the warerooms ticking. A carpenter would come in and mend all the furniture. The upholsterer would bolster up sunken seats and backs. In a measure, they were doing to the furniture what we were doing to them. The professional men would, as a rule, be assigned to the sorting and packing of papers. Out of this enterprise the Salvation Army, it was figured out, made an income of more than a million dollars a year. All of this money was put into greater expansion of personal service.

"In the year before the war we had about nineteen thou-

"In the year before the war we had about nineteen thousand men working in our industrial shops, seventy-five per cent of whom attributed their status to drink. With the coming of war, these nineteen thousand men were reduced to six or seven thousand. Some of them enlisted, some went into war factories, some were drafted. The work in the shops was almost entirely carried on by old men and cripples who had always come to the Salvation Army for work.

work.

"The war ended. Then the prohibition law went into effect in July, 1919. Our warerooms, except for those whom we always will have with us, were soon deserted. The druphards had disconnected.

The drunkards had disappeared.

"Christmas came. That was the time when our halfs were always filled to the last square inch with men who were picked up in the streets in all states of inebriety. But last Christmas we could hardly corral a handful. And the dead calm in our workrooms and in our dormitories has continued. There are no men to fill the places. The scring and the mending and the polishing and fixing are piling up. It seems as if we will have to hire outside help to continue that branch of the service."

What will this lack of drunkards mean for the Salvation Army? Just this:

"It will free our hands to perform other service which is necessary. Up to the present the drunkard has been the type most in need of help. Now he has virtually gone from us, but he has left another who is just as sorely beset as he is, if not more so. That is the drug addict. It is true that the number of addicts does not in any way come up to the number of drunkards of the past, but it is not a matter of numbers in which we are interested. It is human beings. If they need help, we are ready to give it to them.

"The Salvation Army is not going to worry because the young man is not getting any more booze. We are going to worry because because some young men are getting drugs. Just now we are planning a building for the housing of drug addicts.

"There are other things that we are going to do. The young man in the war grew to like us and trust us. We are going to keep that liking and that trust. The man in 'civvies' is not different from the man in khaki; and if we appealed to him in the trenches, there is no reason why we cannot appeal to him in his office. We intend to establish clubs in the big industrial centers where the service men and the ex-service men can come for the same kind of cheer that we gave them on the battle field.

"The boy problem is another to be tackled. If it is a good thing to save an old man, it certainly is a worth-while thing to save a child. We have always wanted to stretch out into this branch of service, but we never had the funds to de It.

"The building of hospitals, of relief centers, of meetings houses, of units—all of these things are being contemplated for the near future. The day of the meeting room in the steamy room above a Chinese laundry is past. We are not building cathedrals, but we are building clean, hygienic houses."—Literary Digest.

While the Gospel Advocate has never believed or taught that we could legislate righteousness into people, yet it has always held that a religious journal could not do otherwise than put its influence on the side of morality against Immorality, on the side of righteousness against unrighteousness. Frequently we hear some people contend that prohibition has accomplished nothing, but this article from the Literary Digest shows to the contrary. While there may be some people who will violate the law, just as there are some people who murder, steal, and commit criminal offenses, yet the great majority of young men will not drink as they have done in the past. Create an overwhelming sentiment against drinking, and there will be only a few men who will ignore the sentiment. I shall rejoice to see the day come when every person, from principle, will abstain entirely from drinking, from smoking, and from things that are calculated to drag a man down instead of lifting him up. The man who refuses to drink from principle, and who has seen the terrible evils that follow drunkenness, does not have to be prohibited by the civil authorities from drinking; if he is tempted to drink, he controls himself and refuses to do so because he knows it is sinful and not best. Most men, however, who do not drink are not tempted to drink.

It appears that there is a growing tendency to smoke more than some years ago. What good is to be derived from smoking? It is an expensive habit, and the money spent in that way could be much better spent in preaching the gospel, in feeding orphans, and in helping the poor. Christians should practice what they preach, and should lead lives of self-denial and godliness.

If now appears that we will have the drug addict to contend with. The man who becomes a drug flend is undoubtedly the worst flend of all. Dope unfits him for business, unfits him for usefulness, unfits him for life. Every one who has the ability to do so should use all of his influence and power for bringing about godly lives, such lives as will practice self-denial and will be devoted to the upbuilding of all that is pure and good.

8 8 8

Coleridge said: "All science begins in wonder and ends in wonder. The first is the wonder of Ignorance; the last, that of adoration."

Conducted for a half century by D. Lipscomb and E. G. Sewell.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

$2.50 a year, in advance; to Canada and foreign countries, $3.00, in

$2.50 a year, in advance; to Canada and foreign countries, $3.00, in advance.

Remittances will be at our rick when sent by express or post-office money order, in registered letter, or by draft payable to our order. The date on your tab shows the time to which your subscription is paid. When money is received, the date will be changed, which will answer for a receipt. Two weeks time must ordinarily occur from the time your remittance is sent before the tab on your paper is changed; if not changed by that time, notify us at once.

This paper is malled regularly to all subscribers until definite orders in writing are received and all arrearages paid in fuil. If you wish us to stop your paper, write us to that effect; but do not ask it unless you have paid all arrears, if there are any. Do not ask your postmaster to attend to it for you, but do it yourself.

When changing your post-office address, tell us your old as well as your new address; otherwise two papers might be charged to you. Subscribers, after paying for their papers, will favor us by noting whether the date on the address label is changed, and, if it is not changed within a month, by writing to us. We are careful, but mistakes may occur or letters may be lost. Our rule is to change the date on the day payment is received; but the mechanical work of correcting and printing the list takes time, and payments even from near-by places may not appear the first week. Credits for payments from a distance may be even more delayed. Mistakes are easily rectified if prompt notice is given.

All communications should be addressed te Gospel Advocate, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

$19 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

Entered at post office at Nashville, Tenn., as second-class matter. Published weekly at Nashville, Tenn.

EDITORIAL

The Name "Christian."

BY J. C. M'Q.

Recently I have published a number of articles on what are usually termed the "first principles"-faith, repentance, and baptism. So far as I know, all religionists admit that when one believes the gospel, repents of his sins, and, in obedience to the commands of Christ, is baptized, he thereby becomes a Christian. But it is not enough simply to enlist as a soldier; it is not enough simply to enter the church; but one must go forward unto perfection, must grow in grace and in the knowledge of the truth, and must feed upon strong meat, and not simply upon the sincere milk of the word. Paul admonishes us: "If then ye were raised together with Christ, seek the things that are above, where Christ is, seated on the right hand of God." (Col. 3: 1.) The Savior, when he commanded the eleven disciples to teach all nations, also commanded them to make disciples of the nations and to "observe all things whatsoever I commanded you." (Matt. 28: 20.) The Holy Spirit, through the apostle Paul, holds that when one is baptized into Christ he should wear the name of Christ, and not any human name. "Now this I mean, that each one of you saith, I am of Paul; and I of Apollos; and I of Cephas; and I of Christ, Is Christ divided? was Paul crucified for you? or were ye baptized into the name of Paul? I thank God that I baptized none of you, save Crispus and Gains; lest any man should say that ye were baptized into my name. And I baptized also the household of Stephanas: besides, I know not whether I baptized any other." (1 Cor. 1: 12-16.) The reasoning of the apostle Paul here is that if one is going to wear the name of Paul, he should be baptized into the name of Paul; if one is going to wear the name of Apollos, Apollos should have died for him. Thus he drives home forcibly the lesson that, as Christ is not divided and as Christ was crucified for us and as Christians were baptized into the name of Christ, so they should wear the name of Christ, or be called "Christians." We learn that the new name that God should give his people was given to the disciples. "The disciples were called Christians first in Antioch." (Acts 11: 26.) The name of Christ is a name that is efficacious and that has sufficient breadth for all Christians to be called by it. It is the only name in which and through which salvation is promised to the children of men. God so loved the world that he gave Jesus to come to this world to be born in a manger, to become a homeless wanderer, and to finally die the death of the cross, descend into the tomb, and come forth on the third and appointed morn a victorious conqueror, in order that men might be saved through him. In vain do they look eisewhere for salvation. He says to us: "I am the way, the truth, and the life." Men may resist his teaching, may despise and scoff at the holy principles and the holy life that he has given the world, yet, after all, they must turn to him for salvation. "He is the stone which was set at naught of you the builders, which was made the head of the corner. And in none other is there salvation: for neither is there any other name under heaven, that is given among men, wherein we must be saved." (Acts 4: 11, 12.)

The name of Jesus is an honorable name; it is a worthy name, and a name at which every knee should bow. Every child of God in his baptism has this name called upon him. James 2: 7 reads: "Do not they blaspheme the honorable name by which ye are called?" The marginal reading is, "which was called upon you." In baptism the name of Father, Son, and Holy Spirit is called upon each and every one. This is the only sacred institution upon which the Trinity, the Father, Son, and Holy Spirit, is called. Every sinner, every one who feels the need of a Savior and who has a contrite, broken spirit, rejoices that in baptism he has the name of Christ called upon him. It is a worthy, honorable name-a name that will do one good, and not harm, all the days of his life. It appears that the apostle Paul was not ashamed of this name. When King Agrippa said unto Paul, "With but little persuasion thou wouldest fain make me a Christian," Paul was not ashamed of the name and did not declare that it was one given in derision, but said in answer: "I would to God, that whether with little or with much, not thou only, but also all that hear me this day, might become such as I am, except these bonds." (Acts 26: 28, 29.) The name "Christian" is the highest title any one can wear. If I am simply a Christian, I need no other title. Wearing that name and being in deed and in truth a child of God, I am useful in this life and will be blissful in the life to come. Every one should strive with all of the earnestness of his soul to be simply a Christian, simply that and nothing more. He should not be satisfied with being a halfway Christian or a poor Christian, but his constant purpose should be to be the best and most active Christian. He should not be a Christian in any sectarian sense, but he should strive to lead every one to imitate Christ, to have the spirit of Christ, to speak and act as did the Christ in so far as possible.

'The name "Christian" is a name broad enough and great enough to include every being in the wide, wide world who accepts and obeys the teaching of the Lord Jesus Christ. It is not only comprehensive enough to include the people of this world, but also embraces the family of God in heaven. "For this cause I bow my knees unto the Father, from whom every family in heaven and on earth is named." (Eph. 3: 14, 15.) Simply because one is obedient to Christ and wears the name "Christian" is no indication that he feels that he has a copyright on that name. I would to God that every man who is a Christian would wear that name and no other to indicate his religion. One child of God does not need to be distinguished or separated from another child of God. God's children should be one In purpose, one in spirit, and one in life. They are not to be divided and contending over names as did the church at Cerinth. Such division produced carnality, and carnality leads to death. I would like to be helpful in bringing all Christians to the point that they are willing to lose sight of human names and wear simply the name of Christ. I would also like to see every one who wears the name of Christ in deed and in truth a child of God. It is not enough to have a form of godliness, denying the power thereof. God's people must be a peculiar people, zealous of good works,

There is no other name given among men through which we are to glorify God. Every Christian should be careful not to suffer for wrongdoing; but if he suffer for welldoing, he should not be ashamed. All men will not speak well of one even when that one is doing the will of God to the very best of his ability. " If ye are reproached for the name of Christ, blessed are ye; because the Spirit of glory and the Spirit of God resteth upon you. For let none of you suffer as a murderer, or a thief, or an evildoer, or as a meddler in other men's matters; but if a man suffer as a Christian, let him not be ashamed; but let him glorify God in this name." (1 Pet. 4: 14-16.) Christians should rejoice that they are counted worthy to suffer in the name of Christ. Christ assured his disciples that "in the world ye have tribulation; but be of good cheer; I have overcome the world." (John 16: 33.) Again, the Holy Spirit says: "Yea, and all that would live godly in Christ Jesus shall suffer persecution." (2 Tim. 3: 12.) We should be sure, however, that we are suffering for Christ, and not on account of mistakes that we have made. We have found that the name "Christian" is an honorable name, is a name of which Paul was not ashamed and which he did not deny, and that it is the only name through which there is salvation; that it is the name called upon the whole family of God both in earth and in heaven, and is also the name by which we glorify God. It is certainly folly and a lack of loyalty to the Lord Jesus Christ to turn away from this honorable, worthy name to any other name. Shall we not give our time, our talents, and our influence seeking to lead all people to wear simply the name "Christian," the name by which the disciples were first called at Antioch?

Bible Things by Bible Names—The General and Local Senses of the Term "Church."

BY M. C. K.

The present series of articles on "Bible Things by Bible Names," as illustrated by Bible designations of the church, would not be complete without directing special attention to the general and local senses of the term as it is used in the inspired record. The consideration of this phase of the subject will close the series.

By the general sense of the term "church" is meant its application to a general territory without reference to any particular locality, and by the local sense is meant its application to a particular locality. An instance of the general sense occurs in Matt. 16: 18, where the Lord says: "Upon this rock I will build my church." This, of course, means his church anywhere and everywhere throughout the whole world without reference to any particular locality. Another instance of the general sense is in Acts 9: 31, in which the historian says, "So the church throughout all Judea and Galilee and Samaria had peace, being edified," which means the church in the whole of the country mentioned without reference to any particular locality in that country. Other instances of the general sense are found in Matt. 18: 17; Acts 20: 28; Eph. 5: 24; Phil. 3: 6; Col. 1: 18.

An instance of the local sense occurs in the words: "And there arose on that day a great persecution against the church which was in Jerusalem." (Acts 8: 1.) Another in the words: "Now there were at Antioch, in the church that was there, prophets and teachers." (Acts 13: 1.) And still another occurs in Paul's use of the term when he says: "Paul, called to be an apostle of Jesus Christ, through the will of God, and Sosthenes our brother, unto the church of God which is at Corinth." (1 Cor. 1: 1, 2.) Other instances of the local sense are found in Col. 4: 15; 1 Thess, 1: 1; 2 Thess, 1: 1.

Let it be distinctly observed here that in every occurrence of the word "church" throughout the New Testament, without exception, whether in the general sense or the local sense, it always, when used in the religious sense at all, includes all the Christians or children of God in the territory to which it is applied. We have already seen this fact from different points of view in our Investigation; but there is still another angle from which to view it, to which it seems proper here to direct special attention. In the denominational parlance of our time it is common, as our readers are well aware, to speak of each denomination as this, that, or the other "church." Hence, we hear of "the Baptist Church," "the Methodist Church," "the Evangelical Church," "the Episcopal Church," "the Christian Church," "the church of Christ," "the Lutheran Church," "the Congregational Church," "the Presbyterian Church," "the Church of God," and so on throughout the long catalogue of divisions among the people of God.

Now, a moment's reflection will show that, even if all who compose any one of these denominations have complied with the terms of admission into the one church revealed in the Bible, it would still be true, as previously shown, that some of the children of God are in at least one of the other denominations, and that, therefore, to call such a section of God's people "the church" in a given territory, to the exclusion of others in that territory who are also in the church revealed in the Bible, is a purely sectarian use of the term. Different and conflicting divisions among God's people occurred in New Testament times and are specifically mentioned in that volume, but no one of them is ever called a "church." Inspiration did not recognize "the Paulite church," "the Cephasite church," "the Apollosite church," and another as "the church of Christ" in distinction from the others, but it recognized each one of these groups as a party or division in "the church" founded by Christ and his apostles; and all of them together constituted "the church." Hence, no such party or division in the church now, even though it may exist on a much larger scale, as in the case of a denomination of modern times, should be recognized as "a church" among numerous "other churches." The Lord Jesus Christ and his apostles founded but one church, and it takes all of the parties or denominations into which it is unfortunately divided, to the full extent that those composing them have compiled with the divinely stipulated terms of admission, to constitute that church; and when we speak of such a division or denomination as one among the many "churches," our speech is distinctly sectarian, and it is none the less so when we single out one of them and call it, to the exclusion of the others, "the church of Christ."

It must now be plain to the reader that when the term "church," as in the designation "church of Christ" or "Christian Church," is applied to a part of the Christians of a community to the exclusion of other Christians, even though those to whom it is thus applied have rejected all unauthorized humanisms or sinful innovations, such a use of the term is sectarian, precisely as are the terms "Baptist Church," "Methodist Church," "Church of God," or any other name, whether it be in the Bible or not, for the simple reason that in each and every such case the term includes only a part of those who compose the church, and a part of the church, of course, is not "the church," precisely as a part of anything else is never "the thing."

As before observed, owing to the confused denominational dialect of our time and the erroneous ideas which the people, in consequence, have attached to different Biblical terms, it is difficult to speak even in Bible terms and make oneself understood without a circumlocution. Let us never conclude that because we are using a Biblical name we are therefore correct. We may be making a misapplication of a Biblical name, as is done when sprinkling and pouring are called "baptism." This is no more wrong than to designate as "the church of Christ" or "the Christian Church" that which is only a part of the church. When Mosheim, Neander, and other church historians speak of "the Christian church" or "the church of Christ," they mean all the people of God in the whole world or in the whole territory to which they apply it, and therefore they are correct in their usage; but to say "the Christian Church" and mean nothing more than the people constituting the movement inaugurated by the Campbells, or to say "the church of Christ" and mean nothing more than those of that movement who do not use organs, societies, and other innovations, is as sectarian as it is to call a part of the church "the Baptist Church," "the Methodist Church," "the Episcopal Church," or by any other denominational name.

Finally, if all Christians were more careful to cultivate the habit of correct speech in speaking of Bible things, it would contribute much toward the restoration of the primitive order of things. But many of them, as Nehemiah would express it, "speak half in the speech of denominationalism." In the days of Nehemiah, God's people were so mixed with foreigners that "their children spake half in the speech of Ashdod, and could not speak in the Jews' language, but according to the language of each people." (Neh. 13: 24.) So it is to-day. "The speech of Ashdod" is widespread and exerts a wonderful influence in dominating and shaping the character of the people with erroneous ideas. Wrong ideas call for wrong words or the misapplication of right words. One cannot well state one's relationship as a member of the church revealed in the Bible to-day and be sure of being understood without using a circumlocution. Hence, there is a tendency to yield to the temptation to use Bible names in a sectarian sense under the delusion that one's course is right because the name used is a Bible name. Let us not be satisfied with the mere use of a Bible name, but let us see to it that the application we make of it is the application made in the Bible. Then, and only then, are we calling Bible things by Bible names, and then, and only then, is our position infallibly correct.

Admissions by Brother Boll. By G. W. BIGGS.

I have known Brother R. H. Boll for more than twenty years, and have kept in touch with him all these years. I was with him some years in school, associated with him in several meetings, and have been more intimate with him than I have ever been with any other preacher. When we were together, we were confidential friends and bosom companions. I rejoiced in the success of his preaching and was glad when he became one of the editors of the Gospel Advocate.

You must know, then, that it produced great sadness of heart when I read of the trouble between him and the Advocate. I took no active part in that matter, but read, from whatever source, all I could get on the subject; and from what I was able to learn, I felt that Brother Boll had caused the trouble by doubtful teaching. Now my convictions have been confirmed by his own admissions to me.

Recently I learned he was holding a meeting in Nashville. I decided to go to see him, not with an idea or intention of writing up the interview, but to see if there was any possibility of bringing about a settlement of this most unfortunate and hurtful affair. He told me he thought it was impossible to settle it. Since then I have felt it my duty to give to the public some admissions he made to me, September 20, 1920.

First, he admitted that it was his teachings that caused the trouble with the Advocate, and that also caused the division in the Highlands Church, of Louisville, Ky. Second, he admitted that the teaching which caused the division of the Highlands Church and his trouble with the Advocate was nonessential teaching.

Now, it seems to me that these admissions place the responsibility for all this trouble upon Brother Boll's shoulders; for he admits if he had not taught nonessential teaching there would have been no trouble with the Advocate and no division of the Highlands Church. In view of these admissions, how can he escape the responsibility for these troubles? And how can his friends who uphold him in his teaching escape responsibility for the division he is causing? They cannot escape. What Brother Boll needs to do is to repent of the injury he has done the church and the cause of Christ, confess his mistake, and ask the forgiveness of all whose peace he has disturbed. He admits that this course upon his part would settle the trouble. Why not, then, pursue it and thus undo the great harm he has done? Here is an opportunity for him to do the cause of Christ the best and greatest service he will ever be able to do it.

If I had caused trouble by my nonessential teaching, I am sure I could have no peace of conscience till I had asked the forgiveness of all concerned. Is it right to teach nonessential doctrines to the division of the church? No, it is not right. Only those things which are expressly required by the word of God should be made tests of fellowship. Opinions and privileges which we have a right to hold as private property are not to be pressed upon others. The law of love forbids it. Upon the other hand, do Christians have the right to oppose nonessential teaching? They do. They have the right to oppose whatever it is not right to teach; and it is not right to teach nonessential doctrines to the disturbance of the church. If we have no right to oppose Brother Boll's nonessential teaching, why oppose some of the same teachings when taught by the Adventists? I do not believe any man has a right to teach anything he cannot prove. Because Paul said: "Prove all things." Moreover, I believe every man has a right to object to any man's teaching which has not been proved by the word of God beyond any doubt. Can Brother Boll prove his nonessential teaching? Certainly not. If Brother Boll has not caused division contrary to the doctrine of Christ, then I must say that I do not know how such division may be caused. And did not Paul say: "Now I beseech you, brethren, mark them that are causing the divisions and occasions of stumbling, contrary to the doctrine which ye learned: and turn away from them. For they that are such serve not our Lord Christ, but their own belly; and by their smooth and fair speech they beguile the hearts of the innocent?" If Brother Boll's misguided friends, instead of upholding and defending him in his course, had obeyed this scripture, I believe the trouble would have been settled long ago. And the best thing they can do now is to show him his blunder and induce him, if possible, to correct it. But if he is so wedded to his nonessential teaching, whatever it is, that he must persist in teaching it (and he is teaching it and continues to teach it till he corrects the mischief it has done), then the quicker the church knows about it and turns away from him, the better it will be. For if he continues in his present course and brethren continue to uphold and defend him in it. continued division in the church will be the inevitable result. How foolish to divide the church over any man's nonessential teaching! Brother Boll has the reputation of being very pious and humble, but I cannot believe any man is humble who is willing to divide the church over his nonessential teaching. In view of the admissions Brother Boll has made, he must do one of three things: confess his fault and ask forgiveness for dividing a church over his nonessential teaching, or show that nonessential teaching is a just and scriptural ground for causing division, or else bear the sin and guilt of causing division contrary to the doctrine of Christ.

Now, I have not written to injure Brother Boll, but rather to bless him, and show his admirers that they are simply dividing the church over doubtful teaching by standing by him instead of turning away from him. I love Brother Boll, but I love the cause of Christ more, and it is only in the interest of that cause I have written.

The interview of which the foregoing article gives an account emphasizes and magnifies the vital and serious fact to which the Gospel Advocate has frequently called attention. Not only is it a great and crying sin to divide the body of Christ in the way here described, but it is an equally great and crying sin to stand by and uphold those who thus cause division. As the article suggests, such a course does not indicate true but misguided friendship. Moreover, in view of the significant admissions here disclosed and the equally significant admissions previously made, the imperative demand for a reversal of this course is solemnly emphasized by the pointed trilemma which the article so clearly shows is the inevitable outcome of the serious situation. Insistence on the course indicated in that trilemma is the only true friendship, and "faithful are the wounds" which it inflicts. Those who for any reason do otherwise assume a fearful responsibility and are themselves parties to the crime of rending the body of Christ. The course plainly revealed and plainly required in the New Testament must be followed at all hazards, and true friendship never stands in the way of it. Entron.

Unity, Peace, Love.

When Jesus gave to his apostles the world-wide and great commission, he said: "And lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world." (Matt. 28: 18-20.) This means that, although the apostles soon died, Jesus would be with this commission to uphold and maintain it "unto the end of the world," and that it would be binding for so long. The time will never come when it can be changed, or even modified, and when it must not be taught and obeyed in its entirety. The observance of all things whatsoever Jesus has commanded is a part of this commission. However well the church, especially some preachers and other teachers, may understand faith in God and in Christ, repentance, baptism, and the Lord's Supper, the time will never come when these must not be taught. "He that disbelieveth shall be condemned" (Mark 16: 15, 16); "Except ye repent, ye shall all likewise perish" (Luke 13: 1-5); "The Pharisees and lawyers rejected for themselves the counsel of God, being not baptized of him"-of John (Lake 7: 29, 30): "Not forsaking our own assembling together, as the custom of some is" (Heb. 10: 25). Just so, God's command to his children, his church, to give "dillgence to keep the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace" (Eph. 4: 1-3), is a part of this great commission and must be as implicitly obeyed and as earnestly taught as faith, repentance, baptism, and the Lord's Supper. And to refuse to obey God here "with all lowliness and meekness, with long-suffering, forbearing one another in love," is as much a rejection of God's counsel against ourselves as was the refusal of the Pharisees and lawyers to be baptized. To keep the whole law and yet to refuse to obey God in one point is to become guilty of all. (James 2: 10, 11.) The time will never come, either, when the church must not give this diligence in the very way God prescribes "to keep the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace," or when this must not be taught by practice as well as by precept. God

There is one body, and one Spirit, even as also ye were called in one hope of your calling; one Lord, one faith, one baptism, one God and Father of all, who is over all, and through all, and in all." (Eph. 4: 4-6.)

He who produces factions and he who helps to build up factions are as equally guilty before God as he who would attempt to teach that there are two Gods, two Lords, two Holy Spirits, two faiths, two baptisms, and two hopes. "There is one body." With all the contention and strife and other sins in "the church of God" in Corinth (1 Cor. 1: 1-3), Paul never one time taught them to separate, or to form factions. He maintained most strongly that the body of Christ is one, even as the human body is one, and that "there should be no schisms in the body." (See 1 Cor. 12.) There can be no greater sin against Christ than to divide his body, which is the church.

"Factions" are classed with fornication, uncleanness, idolatry, sorcery, lasciviousness, enmities, strife, jealousies, wraths, divisions, parties, envyings, drunkenness, revelings, and such like. (Gal. 5: 19, 20.) Factionists might, and no doubt do, condemn drunkenness, revelling, fornication, and other sins; but causing "parties" and "divisions" and producing "factions" is as bad as these sins, if not worse. The "factious man, after a first and second admonition," must be avoided. (Tit. 3: 10.) Nothing must be done "through faction or through vainglory." (Phil, 2: 3.) The church is commanded to "mark them that are causing the divisions and occasions of stumbling, contrary to the doctrine," or teaching of Christ, "and turn away from them. For they that are such serve not our Lord Christ, but their own belly; and by their smooth and fair speech beguile the hearts of the innocent." (Rom. 16: 17, 18.) Even if factionists have a pleasant and attractive address and come in the livery of heaven, they must be marked and avoided.

What do "factious" and "factions" mean? They come from a word which means electioneering, intriguing for office, courting distinction, putting oneself forward, partisanship, a partisan who does not disdain to use low arts. (See these words as defined by Thayer.)

All this—such a spirit, such work—are clearly and most strongly condemned by our Lord, and is placed in striking contrast with humility, lowliness, meekness, counting others better than oneself. All this is in open disobedience to God. No true preacher of the gospel or child of God will encourage it.

Diotrephes loved "to have the preëminence" in the church. He even refused to receive the apostle of Christ and beloved disciple John, and prated against him with wicked words. Not content with this, he refused to receive other brethren, and went so far as to forbid others receiving these brethren, and even cast out of the church those who did receive them. (3 John 9, 10.) Questions:

- 1. Did Diotrephes and his party constitute the church, or did the apostle John and the brethren whom Diotrephes would not receive and the good people whom he cast out constitute the church? Diotrephes and his party may have held the house.
- 2. Did not all preachers who preached for Diotrephes and his party to encourage and build it up become partakers with him in this great sin? This same apostle John says:

If any one cometh unto you, and bringeth not this teaching, receive him not into your house, and give him no greeting; for he that giveth him greeting partaketh in his evil works. (2 John 10, 11.)

Most certainly, then, he who preaches for a faction to build it up becomes a partaker in this sin. Good brethren do this sometimes without due consideration—I trust never in a partisan spirit—but not without encouraging and upholding wrong and becoming partakers in the evil. God's will must be respected and he must be obeyed at the loss of all earthly friends and every other earthly thing. Preachers and elders must set good examples and exert scriptural influences. They must decry all factions, every factious spirit, and lead and teach people away from all such. God holds them responsible for their teaching and influence.

3. Did the apostle John commit a sin in mentioning Diotrephes, in pointing out his grievous wrong, and in showing its sad and woeful consequences? Paul asks the Galatians: "So then am I become your enemy by telling you the truth?" (Gal. 4: 16.) Diotrephes is the factionist, the sinner. His love of preëminence led him into sin, to prate against the apostle John "with wicked words," and caused him to become a factionist. The same love of preeminence-love to have one's way, to rule, to carry one's point, to be first-leads both men and women into the same sins of creating parties, organizing factions, and dividing the body of Christ, which is his church. So strange is this passion in some men and women that they prate "with wicked words" against the purest and best people in the church; that if they cannot have the preëminence, occupy the chief seats in the synagogue, and rule, they will ruinthey will either drive out of the congregation where they worship those whom they cannot rule, or they will take their party and faction away and start a congregation which they can rule and where they can have the preeminence. And they delude themselves into the belief that this is "loyalty" to God and that they have done it for the sake of accomplishing good and helping others.

God forbids that elders shall "lord it over the charge allotted" to them, but commands them to make themselves examples to the flock. (1 Pet. 5: 1-4.) A "contentious" and "self-willed" man is unfit to be an elder. (1 Tim. 3: 1-7; Tit. 1: 5-11.) Paul called himself and Apollos servants, working together in God's "tilled land," or field-Paul planting, Apollos watering, God giving the increase-"God's fellow workers," in order to raise a crop to God's glory. (1 Cor. 3: 5-9.) Paul says, God forbid that he should "glory, save in the cross of our Lord Jesus Christ." (Gal. 6: 14.) Paul taught Timothy and Titus to be examples in meekness and gravity and humility; to use "sound speech," "even the words of our Lord Jesus Christ" (1 Tim, 6: 3); and to avoid all untaught questions -all questions not embraced in the gospel of our salvation -for the reason that they gender strife and produce factions. Jesus taught his very apostles, when they were considering, in their misconception of the nature of his kingdom, that which they thought would be places of preferment and honor-and through them he teaches us-that the greatest in his kingdom is the servant of all. In different ways and at many different times he teaches that whosoever exalts himself shall be abased. He teaches that "the kings of the Gentiles have lordship over them; and they that have authority over them are called benefactors;" but the reverse of this is true in his kingdom, or church. (Luke 22: 24-27.) He teaches that the Pharisees were religious clothes-made "broad their phylacteries" and enlarged "the borders of their garments;" "loved the chief places at feasts, and the chief seats in the synagogues, and the salutations in the market places, and to be called of men, Rabbi;" and that they sat "on Moses seat." But "they say, and do not," for "all their works they do to be seen of men." Jesus forbids his disciples being called "Rabbi," "Master," "Father," or wearing any religious titles. (Matt. 23: 1-12.) Paul never used the word "reverend," "apostle," "evangelist," "elder," "minister," "servant," or any other word as a religious title. He was an apostle, a minister, a preacher, and "Paul the aged;" but these words, indicating his work, were never used by him or applied to him by others as titles. Why should disciples of the meek and lowly Savior desire some title to distinguish them from all other Christians? This desire is a bad indication and will lead to other and greater departures from the simplicity and humility and meekness of the gospel.

So grave and great a question, one involving so much, as whether or not the Gentiles should be circumcised and keep the law of Meses in order to be saved, was discussed by the apostles, the elders, and the whole church at Jerusalem. There was "much questioning;" Peter made a speech; Barnabas and Paul "rehearsed all things God had done with them "-" what signs and wonders God had wrought among the Gentiles through them;" James then made a speech; and seeking and seeing the truth, all came "to one accord." If this great church with so large a "membership" could discuss so great a question, involving so much both to Jewish and Gentile Christians, with so far-reaching effects, and come to one accord, should not all congregations settle all matters of less importance in the same spirit and same way? This is God's way of being of "the same mind," "the same love," and "of one accord." This is God's way to avert and avoid divisions and factions; his way for all to speak the same thing, to "be perfected together in the same mind and in the same judgment." God's will in regard to this unity and peace, as well as all other things, must be done on earth as it is in heaven. All questions over which there is any difference-I need not stop to specify-"all things that pertain unto life and godliness"-all questions, too, which God commands the church and all teachers and preachers to avoid-should thus be investigated, studied, prayed overall in the spirit of Christ and love of truth-until all have "the same mind," "the same love," and come "to one

If the church at large is divided over any great and grave question, who is the cause of the division? It ought not to be divided.

How is it? It will require a generation, if not longer, for many churches to outgrow the divisions and factions contrary to the teaching of Christ which have already been made. Is it not a pity, a shame, a crime against the church and God, and a woeful reproach upon the cause of the Prince of Peace that some elders and some most prominent and influential preachers are in the ugly business of accusing and trying to criminate one another? Such men should shine as lights, should prove by their godly lives and safe teaching that they are examples of peace and unity, and should do all in their power every way to maintain these Christian graces. Is it not a great delusion, or deception of sin, for brethren, as Ahab, who accused Elijah of troubling Israel, to accuse the true and faithful, the quiet and peace-maintaining ones, of causing the trouble and division and of destroying the peace and unity? Is it not a delusion, too, for any man to think of himself mere highly than he should, to persuade himself that his contention for his own ideas and opinions is loyalty to the gospel, and to forget that "in many things we all stumble?" "For if a man thinketh himself to be something when he is nothing, he deceiveth himself." (Gal. 6: 3.) When James and John wanted the first places in Christ's kingdom, the ten were filled with indignation. This selfseeking in the church will produce factions now.

The fourth chapter of Ephesians, which begins with lowliness, meekness, forbearance, and "the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace," closes as follows:

And grieve not the Holy Spirit of God, in whom ye were sealed unto the day of redemption. Let all bitterness, and wrath, and anger, and clamer, and railing, be put away from you, with all malice: and be ye kind one to another, tender-hearted, forgiving each other, even as God also in Christ forgave you.

Our Heavenly Father is grieved over all this bitterness, strife, contention, division, faction. Must be grieved still?

As F. D. Srygley used to say about preaching the gospel, how about preaching the above quotation for a change? How about seeking and pursuing peace instead of a fuss?

Hood's Sarsaparilla Makes Food Taste Good

Creates an appetite, aids digestion, purifies the blood, and thus relieves scrofula, catarrh, the pains and aches of rheumatism and gives strength to the whole system.

Nearly 50 years' phenomenal sales tell the story of the great merit and success of Hood's Sarsaparilla. It is just the medicine you need now. Hood's Pills help—fine cathartic.

The Romantic Story of Southland's Favorite Shoe, EzWear

Some five years ago, a prominent citizen of South Carolina, visiting New York on Important business, chanced to meet the maker of a shoe built on new and unusual lines; an enthusiastic admirer of its most distinctive features, ease and comfort, had suggested the name "EzWear;" promptly adopted. The business man from the South, knowing how welcome such a slice would be in his part of the country, urged that its remarkable qualities, including not only comfort, but style, durability, and economy, be made known there. That this has been done effectively is proven by the enormous demand that has sprung up in the South for ExWear Shoes. It is said that its sale there during the last twelve menths has increased fully three hundred per cent. The distributor, Mr. J. R. Simon, of 1589 Broadway, Breeklyn, N. Y., says that all who wish to know about a shoe that combines all worth-while shoe qualities may have a copy of his money-saving shoe book for the asking,

EPILEPSY-FITS!

I will tell you Swedish Treatment how to use a Swedish Treatment that produces marvetous results. Write me to-day for full particulars. Herman G. Carlson, Box 259, Kausas City, Mo.

ASPIRIN

Name "Bayer" on Genuine

"Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" is genuine Aspirin proved safe by millions and prescribed by physicians for over twenty years. Accept only an unbroken "Bayer package" which contains proper directions to relieve Headache, Toothache, Earache, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Colds and Pain. Handy tin boxes of 12 tablets cost few cents. Druggists also sell larger "Bayer packages," Aspirin is trade mark Bayer Manufacture Monoaceticacidester of Sallcylicacid.

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

CHURCH NEWS

Oklahoma.

Seminole, September 23.-1 am in debate here with Killingsworth, "Nazarene," and am having a good time; but my heart was made resterday, when I received a letter from our brother and old-time "de-fender of the faith," U. G. Wilkinson, whose strength has again given way under the pressure of summer heat and indifference of folks regarding the word and work of the Lord. A man who has suffered as U. G. Wilkinson has suffered cannot stand long. I have tried it and know whereof I speak. I was with Brother Wilkinson a few days this summer, and I know that he hand have hear hear that her thanks at the summer. should have been kept quiet and allowed to rest throughout this year; but he could not live and remain idle, and so undertook to answer the calls for his time, and now he is in Hot Springs, unable to continue his labors. Brethren, let us take care of this good man. Send to his needs. Are we to show to the young men now on the firing line that they are facing neglect, poverty, and desertion, as they face age and disease? U. G. Wilkinson has given his life for the cause of our Master. He gave up a splendid law practice that he might preach. Shame on the churches if they allow him to suffer now, while they feed and fatten those who would not have had a place to preach if it had not been for the labors of such men as U. G. Wilkinson! The Lord help us to rally to him when he needs us most. Send him a Lord's-day offering, or go now into your pockets and send him an offering personally. He is an honest man, a Christian gentleman.—J. Will Henley.

Tennessee.

Lawrenceburg, September 27.—Our meeting at Hebron, near Joppa, Ala., closed on Saturday. Thirteen were baptized and four were restored. I began work with this church thirty years ago. Brother B. F. Moody, a strong gospel preacher "both by precept and example," lives here. I am now at Macedonia, a new church started by Brother Moody four years ago.—Thomas C. King.

Texas.

San Angelo, October 4.—We had two great services yesterday. The Lord continues to bless his word and people in San Angelo. Two excellent ladies cast their lot with us at the morning service. There are some good people in the San Angelo church of Christ, Interest continues to increase in all our services. Brethren, pray that we may do our best.—T. M. Carney.

San Angelo, September 27.—Our work here during last week was very interesting. All the services were excellent. Saturday afternoon I baptized a lady who made the confession in our meeting out at Wall. A young man made the good confession here Sunday morning and was baptized "the same hour" of the day. We are looking forward for a great work during this fall and winter. May the Lord bless all who labor for him.—T. M. Carney.

Cleburne, September 27.—I am just home from a six-weeks' trip in Tennessee and Arkansas. I held meetings at Alamo and Fayetteville, Tenn., and at Center Point, Ark. The Center Point meeting was cut short one week on account of my wife's sickness which called me home. I found the work here in fine shape. There have been additions almost every Sunday since I went away, and we had two baptisms yesterday. I am at home now for the fall and winter work. We hope to have an enthusiastic Bible class this winter.—G. Dallas Smith.

Fort Worth, October 4.—Yesterday was a day of labor for all the congregations in the city. Southside-Central Church had a good day. We had large crowds. One obeyed the Lord in baptism. We had a song rally in the afternoon, attended by many from the other churches. We are meeting each Sunday afternoon from place to place, singing and exhorting. A fine fellowship and spirit of cooperation exists among us all. We began a protracted meeting yesterday, and hope for many to be brought to Christ. The church is in the finest condition for great work. In fact, all the churches in town are wide awake, busy, and happy.—Tice Elkins.

Dallas, October 4.—I closed a fine meeting at Greenville last night. The meeting ran over three Sundays. Eight were baptized, tour came from the "digressives," and four took fellowship with the local congregation. Brother T. P. Burt and Brother Walter Elkins led the songs. Brother G. W. Gann and Brother E. S. Elkins, good preachers, who live there, helped much in the meeting. The Greenville church has had a hard pull, as one of the strongest Christian churches in the State is there. We let them know that the church of Christ is in the town. The Greenville brethren hope to build and to employ a preacher for all his time. I am to begin tomorrow night at Morrillton, Ark. My next meeting is to be at Corpus Christi, Texas.—J. B. Nelson.

You Do More Work,

You are more ambitious and you get more enjoyment out of everything when your blood is in good condition. Impurities in the blood have a very depressing effect on the system, causing weakness, laziness, nervousness and sickness.

GROVE'S TASTELESS Chill TONIC restores Energy and Vitality by Purifying and Enriching the Blood. When you feel its strengthening, invigorating effect, see how it brings color to the cheeks and how it improves the appetite, you will then appreciate its true tonic value.

GROVE'S TASTELESS Chill TONIC is not a patent medicine, it is simply IRON and QUININE suspended in Syrup. So pleasant even children like it. The blood needs Quinine to Purify it and IRON to Enrich it. These reliable tonic properties never fail to drive out impurities in the blood.

The Strength-Creating Power of GROVE'S TASTELESS Chill TONIC has made it the favorite tonic in thousands of homes. More than thirty-five years ago, folks would ride a long distance to get GROVE'S TASTELESS Chill TONIC when a member of their family had Malaria or needed a body-building, strength-giving tonic. The formula is just the same today, and you can get it from any drug store. 60c per bottle.

BLACK-DRAUGHT AS A PREVENTIVE

When You Begin Feeling Bad With Feverishness, Headache, Cold, or Constipation, Give Your Liver a Tonic-Take Black-Draught.

Candler, N. C .- "I don't believe there is a better medicine made than Black-Draught. I have used it and my mother's folks used it for colds, feverishness, headache, and deranged liver." This statement recently was made by Mr. C. B. Trull, a well-known farmer on Route 3, this place.

"I have, before now, begun feeling dull; a headache would come on, and I would feel all full of cold, and take a few doses of Black-Draught and get all right," adds Mr. Trull.

"Last year my brother had measles, flu,' and pneumonia. They wired us. I went to Camp Jackson to look him up. Down there different ones were using preventatives. I stayed with him. The only thing I used was Black-Draught. It kept my system cleansed, and I kept well and strong."

By keeping your liver and stomach in good order, you stand in little danger of catching serious ills that occasionally spread through town and country.

Get a package of Black-Draught and have it ready for the first symptom of a disordered liver.

Most druggists sell Black-Draught.

TETTERINE

Ends Complexion Worries

Healing, Antiseptic, Soothing, Fragrant.

80c at your druggist's or from the SHUP-TRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

$1,800 to $10,000 a Year

Bankers, Bookkeepers, Stenographers, and Secretaries. Thousands Needed.

Ask for our 72-page book, "Gulde to Bushess Success." It's FREE. It tells how we will train you BY MAIL or AT COLLEGE for any of these good positions, and get the position for you; how to develop your will power and your brain power into money-making power. With the book, we send statements from bankers and accountants telling you that our Accountancy, Banking, and Business-Procedure Course is the best, Address Draughon's College DESK Nashville, Tenn., or St. Louis, Mo.

In answering advertisements, please mention this paper.

"I Am With You."

This ray of promise falls on darkened

"Lo, I am with you always "-all the days

The bright, untroubled, gladsome days of life;

The days of bitterness and care and strife:

The days when peace doth like a river

The days of grief with weary hours and slow.

He goes not on far journeys. Christ is near.

He leaves no days without its help and cheer.

As once of old he knew what he would

When servants were dismayed and troubled, too;

So now, with infinite supplies at hand.

He walks with us though in a barren

Some sweet surprise he doubtless has in store.

Some secret that he never told before.

For this, perhaps, he leads through shaded ways,

And you will understand ere many -Selected. days.

Yandell-Elkins Debate.

BY J WILL HENLEY.

It was my happy privilege to attend the above debate, held at Center, Okla, The general church propositions were discussed. Dr. I. W. Yandell, who is without a doubt the ablest Freewill Baptist debater on the rostrum to-day, represented that side of the question. No living man can do a better job than Yandell does in defense of his doctrine. He is scholarly, quick, and seasoned by long years of experience. But when he or any other man affirming a false proposition meets A. Le-Roy Elkins, he will find himself "between a rick and a hard place," as one good fellow put it. I have always loved, honored, and appreciated Brother Elkins, but not until now have I had opportunity to see the man and his powers all thrown into a "fight to a finish" in defense of our Lord's way. Clean, argumentative, logical, scholarly, quick, and piercing with an argument or a stricture on his opponent, he readily shows himself master of the situation. Brother Elkins made all the old strong arguments and some that were new to me-and, I think, new to Dr. Yandell.

RECIPE FOR GRAY HAIR.

To 1/2 pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and ¼ ounce of glycerine. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. It will gradually darken streaked, faded, or gray hair and make it soft and glossy. not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy, and does not rub off.

Beautiful Thoughts Compiled.

Jesus is the great Believer in men. The same wind that destroys the chaff cleans the wheat.

Truth is the apostle before whom every cowardly Felix trembles,-Wendell Phillips.

Whether the grindstone of life wears a man down or polishes him up depends entirely on the stuff he is made of

Be what thou seemest, live thy creed. Hold up to earth the torch divine; Be what thou prayest to be made, Let the great Master's steps be thine.

-H. B. Bonar.

What part or place can there be in the kingdom of heaven-in a kingdom won on Calvary-for people who cannot be relied on, who cannot decide whether to plow or not to plow?-Selected.

We are like Him with whom there is no past and future, when we do our work in the great present, leaving both past and future to him, to whom they are ever present, and fearing nothing because he is in our future as much as he is in our past-partakers thus of the divine nature, resting in that perfeet All-in-All.-George MacDonald.

There are religious which inculcate the tolerance of wrong in order to equanimity of mind or acquisition of merit. But Jesus implies, on the contrary, that in all this also the Christian denies himself, does not seek even in this way to save his own soul, but forgets all about it in the service of others, though he finds by and by that he has saved it far more effectually than he could have expected.-Glover.

Scrofula Most Progressive Now.

Sudden changes of weather are especially trying, and probably to none more so than to the scrofulous and consumptive

The progress of scrofula during a normal autumn is commonly great.

It is probable that few people ever think of scrofula-its bunches, eruptions, and wasting of the body-without thinking of the benefit many sufferers from it have derived from Hood's Sarsaparilla, whose success in the treatment of this one disease alone would be enough to make it what is is -one of the most famous medicines in the world.

There is probably not a city or town where Hood's Sarsaparilla has not proved its merit in more homes than one, in arresting and completely eradicating scrofula, which is almost as serious and as much to be feared as its near relative-consumption.

Hood's Pills, the cathartic to take with Hood's Sarsaparilla, in cases where one is necessary, are gentle in action and thorough in effect.

First Step in Treatment Is a Brisk Purgative With Calotabs, the Purified and Refined Calomel Tablets that are Nausea-less, Safe and Sure.

Doctors have found by experience that no medicine for colds and influenza can be depended upon for full effectiveness until the liver is made thoroughly active. That is why the first oughly active. That is why the first step in the treatment is the new, nausealess colomel tablets called Calotabs, which are free from the sickening and weakening effects of the old style calomel. Doctors also point out the fact that an active liver may go a long way towards preventing influenza and is one of the most important factors in enof the most important factors in en-abling the patient to successfully withstand an attack and ward off pneumonia.

One Calotab on the tongue at bed time with a swallow of water—that's all. No salts, no nausea nor the slightall. No salts, no nausea nor the slightest interference with your eating, pleasure or work. Next morning your cold has vanished, your liver is active, your system is purified, and you are feeling fine, with a hearty appetite for breakfast. Druggists sell Calotabs only in original sealed packages, price thirty-five cents. Your money will be cheerfully refunded if you do not find them delightful.—(Adv.) delightful.-(Adv.)

ADVERTISING SPECIAL AGENTS

Catalogues neciality woman's acles, Sick and Nervous Headaches, Rick aches refleved quickly by the Reliable Remedy

IT'S LIQUID-QUICK EFFECT.

CHURCH NEWS

Alahama.

Trinity, October 4.—Our meeting at Macedonia, in Cullman County, closed on Saturday, with seven baptized. This church has been weakened by so many brethren moving away. The church at Hebron, Ala., and the church at Columbia, Tenn., supported this meeting in a substantial way. I am now preaching for a few faithful brethren near Trinity. These brethren have an unfinished house that they have built with very little help from the strong churches. There has been one confession to date.-Thomas C. King.

Arkansas.

Tupelo, October 4.—I closed a good meeting yesterday at Bethesda, at the water, with six baptisms. I spoke on the "form of doctrine" (Rom. 6: 17, 18), discussing the word "form" from the viewpoint of a picture, shadow, or mold, and saying that it is impossible to be molded in Christ's mold and be anything other than a Christian. When I gave the invitation, a man seventy-six years of age came forward and asked for the privilege of speaking a word. Then he turned to the large audience and said: "I have been trying to live a Christian life for several years, as you very well know, but it has just dawned upon me that I was molded in the Freewill Baptist mold instead of Christ." We rejoiced to see the change. This ends my meetings for this year. I leave home to-morrow for Henderson, Tenn., to attend the Freed-Hardeman College another year to better prepare myself for the great work. My labors during the summer resulted in eighty-four additions to the one body—fifty-seven by baptism and twenty-seven by restoration. I want to begin my work as soon as college is over next year, and have some time not taken yet. will be the first to speak for it?-L. R. Wilson.

Kentucky.

Elkhorn, October 4.—Our meeting here continues with fine interest. Brother Polk South, of Frankfort, is with me, and his presence is Inspir-ing. We hope to do much good. I will go from here to Shiloh to assist Brother John T. Smithson in a meeting.-R. A. Craig.

Miehigan.

Flint, October 4.-We had two good services here yesterday. Last week I spent around Lake Huron, and found the people ready to hear the word. preached once while there, and expect to return later. Next Lord's day we are to begin at Standish.—Leslie G. Thomas.

Mississippi.

Baldwyn, October 5 -- Last Lord's day was a glorious day for the church at Oak Valley, where I preach. At the morning services two splendid young ladies made the good confession be-fore many witnesses, and in the after-noon I baptized them into the one

OH, DEAR! MY BACK!

Merciful Haavens, how my back hurts in the morning!" It's all due to an over-abundance of that poison called uric acid. The kidneys are not able watth to get rid of it. Such conditions you can readily overcome, and prolong life by taking

"Anuric" (anti-unic-acid). can be obtained at almost any drug store, in tablet form.

When your kidneys get sluggish and clog, you suffer from back-ache, sick-headache, dizzy spells, or twinges and palms of lumbago, rheumatism or gout; or sleep is disturbed two or three times a night, get Ir. Pierce's Anuric, it will put new life into your kidneys and your ent re system. Send Dr. Pierce's Invalide Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., ten ce ute for trial package.

MEMPHIS, TENN, -Dr. Pierce's An-uric is the best medicine for the kidneys and for backac ie that I have ever taken. For some time my kidneys have been giving me a lot of trouble. I suffered with backaches and rhoumatism in my joints and limbs causing me a lot of misery. On earning of the 'Anuric Tablets' I be can their use and they have given me real relief when all other kidney medic nes falled to help.

"I am glad to recommend 'Anurie' to others who suifer with this allment."—
MRS. E. C. WILSON, 680 N. Sixth St.

ECZEMA
IS CURABLE. Write me to-day, and 1 will send you a free briat of my mild, soothing, guaranteed treatment that will prove it.
Stops the itching and heals permanently. DR,
CANNADAY, 1225 Park Square, Sedalia, Mo.

GIRLS! USE LEMONS FOR SUNBURN, TAN

Try It! Make this lemon lotion to whiten your tanned or freckled skin.

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into bottle containing three ounces of Orchard White, shake well, and you have a quarter pint of the best freekle, sun-burn and tan lotion, and complexion whitener, at very, very small cost.

Your grocer has the lemons and any drug store or toilet counter will supply three onnees of Orchard White for a few cents. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face, neck, arms and lands and see how quickly the freekles, sanlaurn, windburn and tan disappear and how clear, soft and white the skin becomes. Yes! It is harmless.

SIX MONTHS I COULD NOT WORK

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Me Strong and Able to Work-I Recommend It To All My Friends.

Bayonne, N. J.—"I had pains in back and legs so that I could not stand caused by female trouble. I felt so tired all the time, had bad head-time, had bad headaches, and for six months I could not work. I was treat-ed by a physician and took other remedies but got no relief. A friend told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's V e g etable Compound and very much. I am well and strong and very much. I am well and strong and now able to do my work. I cannot thank you enough and I recommend your medicine to my friends who are sick."—Mrs. Susie Sacatansky, 25 East 17th St., Bayonne, N. J.

It must be admitted by every fairminded, intelligent person, that a medicine could not live and grow in popularity for over forty years, and today hold a record for such wonderful success as does Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, without possessing great virtue and actual worth. Such medicines must be looked upon and termed both standard and dependable by every both standard and dependable by every ainking person

For Fever Headaches and Neuralgic Pains

An improved Aspirin tublet which is abso-An improved Aspirin tablet which is absolutely safe to use event in cases of extreme defailing and weak leart. Relieves head-coos, neuralgit and character pains and values fever. No depressing effects, Madely a formula which is in general use by leading physicians. So per package at your crumists or by mail from the manufacturers, Pledmont Laboratories, Inc., Clinton, S. C.

SOLD FOR 50 YEARS FOR MALARIA, CHILLS AND FEVER. Also a Fine General Strengthening Tonic. At All Drug Stores. Arthur Peter & Co., Louisville, Ky. one body. I am a merchant. Monday morning until Saturday night I sell goods for a living, and on Lord's days I preach the gospel for glory .-

Missouri.

Springfield, October 2.-I closed a meeting at Rogers Chapel, near Piggott, Ark., on September 12, with three additions. The meeting was practi-cally ruined because of rain. I closed at Jerusalem, near Dexter, Mo., on September 26, with one addition and much other good done. I began at Cox Chapel, near Zalma, Mo., on Sep-tember 24. A small congregation. rough country, and considerable prejudice will prevent great results; but there is a faithful band here, and, of course, good can be done. I preached at Bernie, Mo., en route to Dexter. These are good brethren who deserve encouragement from passing preachers, who are always welcome. I will close at Cox Chanel on the second Sunday in October, preach at Zalma on Sunday night, and spend a week at home. From there I go to Belle Plaine, Kan., where, with Charles F. Hardin as song leader, I shall begin a three-weeks' effort on October 17.— M. S. Mason.

Oklahoma.

Muskogee, October 4.—Brother D. C. Williams preached for the East Okmulgee Avenue Church at both services yesterday. He leaves for Nashville, Tenn., where he goes to resume his studies at the David Lipscomb College. The Lord's cause is prosper-ing in this city as never before.— T. S. Bain.

Muskogee, October 3.—It has been some time since I sent a report of the West Okmulgee congregation's work, so will send a brief report of some of our activities in and around Musko-We have never held a protracted gee. meeting in the hall, because we could not get the hall only on Sunday, but we have assisted in the work at several other places. About the middle of last February, we started a mission in a schoolhouse near Fort Gibson. preached there on Sunday afternoon twice a month until last Sunday, when we moved into Fort Gibson, where we secured a hall to hold services regularly. We were very fortunate in securing Brother C. C. Fuqua, of Newark, Ark., to preach for us this week. Brother Fuqua is a splendid gospel preacher, free from all hobbies and contented with the plain word of God. I enjoyed his preaching very much, and wish we had many more like him in this part of the State: The immediate results of Brother Fuqua's meeting was the establishing of a new congregation which will keep house for the Lord. Brother J. A. Hale, of Nashville, Tenn., is with us at West Okmulgee Avenue, and we are going to use him preaching in and around this city. Brethren, pray for ns .- J. G. Allen.

Have Strong, Healthy
Eyes, If they Tire, Itch,
Smart or Burn, if Sore,
Irritated, Inflamed or Granulated, use Murine often, Soothes, Refreshes, Safe for Inflamt or Adult. At all Druggists, Write for Free Eye Book, Marine Eye Remedy Co., Chicago

Select Thoughts.

Only good, pure thoughts will make you fit company for yourself.

No human being can come into this world without Increasing or diminishing the sum total of human happiness.

One of Jesus' great lessons is to get men to look for God in the commonplace things.

50 Eggsa Day

"More Eggs' Tonic is a Godsend," writes Mrs. Myrtle Ice, of Boston, Ky. She adds, "I was only getting 12 eggs a day and now I get 50." Give your hens a few cents' worth of "More Eggs," the wonderful egg pro-ducer, and you'll be amazed and delighted with results.

$1.00 Package

Send the coupon below. Don't send any money. Mr. Ree'er will send you two $1.00 packages of "More Eggs." You pay the postmas upon delivery only $1.00, the price of just one package, the olner package being free. The Million Dollar Merchants Bank of Keuses City, Mo., guarantees if you are not absolutely satisfied, your dollar will be returned at any time within 30 days—on request. No risks to you, 400,000 users praise Reefer's "More Eggs."

Poultry Raisers Everywhere Tell Wonderful Results of "More Eggs"

126 Eggs in 5 Days

I wouldn't try to raise chickens without 'Mors Bags,' which means more money. I use it right along, I have 33 here and in 5 days have gotten 10% dozen eggs, or 126, MRS, I. O. OAKES, Salina, Okla.

"More Eggs" Paid the Pastor

I can't express in words how much I have been bone-fitted by 'More Egga." I have paid my debia, clothed the children in new gresses, and that is not all-paid my pastor his dues. I sold $2% dozen eggs last week, set 4 dozen, at some, and had 1% dozen last week, set 4 dozen. At some, and had 1% dozen last week, set 4 dozen. At some, and had 1% dozen last week, set 4 dozen. At some, and had 1% dozen last week, set 4 dozen. The sold $2% dozen last week, set 4 dozen. The sold $100 dozen last week.

1200 Eggs from 29 Hens

The "More Eggs" Tonic did wonders for me. I had 29 hers when I got the tonic and was getting liw of six eggs a day. April lat I had over 1200 eggs I never saw the equal EDW. MEKKER, Pentiac, Mich.

Never Laid as They Do Now

I am very much satisfied with the "More Eage" Tome My chickens many cuts as they do now W. A. GRUFTZMACHER, Great Bend, N. D.

$200 Worth of Eggs from 44 hens

I move used "More Farge" Tonic multi last December; then had used one $1.00 package and have said over $200,00 worth of east from forty-four hera "More Fenge" This did it & G. THODE.
Stocking Kans. R. No. 2. Ros. 47

Send No Money!

Deep's send any money; just still in and mad coupon. You will be sont, at once, two $1.00 mekanes of "MORE EGGS," Par the postuant more delivery only $1.00, the extra presage being PREE. Don't wait this advantage of this free ofter TODAY! Being the BIG pradict "MORE EDGS" will make for you. Have plenty of gugs in $10 when the price is highest. Sand TODAY—NOW!

E.J. Reifer, Ponitry Expert. 7257 Ren'es Bldg., Kansas City, Me. Des Mr. Roster - I storp to all Sold so two $1.00 postages o theorets "More Even" for which I spread post the postages of theorets in the storets of the post the postages in the storets of the storets

Name	VV2-2010-1-100-1-1-100-1-1-100-1-100-1-1-100-1-1-100-1	-5.000	100	25.00	CLASS SAME

Address

"Pains enemy" -['][say it is!

TETTERINE Drives Away Pimples

and leaves your skin soft and spotless. 60c at your drugglat's or from the SHUPTRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

FOOT COMFORT ASSURED Brooklyn Man Solves the Problem

It is no longer necessary to suffer agonies that are caused by misfit shoes; for Mr. Simon, of Brooklyn, has proven that he can fit perfectly by mail. Simon's EzWear Shoes are built to give every possible foot comfort: they are soft and stylish, and do not need breaking in. They fit like the proverbial pair, the minute you wear them. Every pair is guaranteed to give satisfaction and to fit perfectly.

Mr. J. R. Simon will gladly send a free catalogue of over 500 styles of EzWear Shoes to all who write him, along with his scientific, self-measuring blank. Write for your copy to-day, and give your feet their much-needed happiness. Address all communications to Mr. J. R. Simon, 1589 Broadway, Brooklyn, N. Y., and you will receive personal attention.

Dye It Right! "Diamond Dyes"

Don't Risk Material in Poor Dyes that Fade or Run

Each package of "Diamond Dyes" contains directions so simple that any woman can diamond dye a new rich, fadeless color into worn, shabby garments, draperies, coverings, whether wool, silk, linen, cotton or mixed goods.

Buy "Diamond Dyes"—no other kind—
then perfect results are guaranteed even if you have never dyed before. Druggist

has color card.

The Church Is Growing in South Carolina.

BY JAMES A. HARDISON.

Since our last report from this place we have accomplished much for the Master's cause in this (Greenville) county. There is yet only one church in the county, but it is growing, and by God's grace we expect to establish the cause here in the city of Greenville before many more months. We think it best for a while, until we get stronger, to meet with the congregation at Antioch, nine miles from the city. It has been a small congregation for a long time, and we do not want it to die.

We were blessed recently with the presence and labors with us of Brother W. W. Miller, of Orangeburg, S. C. He is a native Tennesseean, and as true to the word in its ancient purity and simplicity as any man in the brotherhood. More than that, he knows how to reach the hearts of men and women. He is at home in the pulpit. There were four baptisms during the meeting, which lasted for two Lord's days, and about ten persons came to the church by letter or statement. We have members here from many States.

Greenville, with its cotton mills in the suburbs, is a thriving city of fortythree thousand souls. There are many fine churches here. The Baptists have a university for boys and a woman's college here. Other denominations are also strong. Still there are at least forty members of the church of Christ in Greenville, possibly more, and we are hoping for great things here in the future. Practically all members here whom we know attend regularly at Antloch. Until a month ago we did not meet every Lord's day there, but only once a month for several years. As Brother Miller expressed it, that is a poor way to do. We now have a Bible school with five classes, and the interest is good. Brother J. T. Black, who has been preaching here for seventeen years, preaches now twice each month. Our Bible-school superintendent, E. G. Scruggs, is a godly man; and with men of his type and Christian character leading us, we feel that we are safe.

In one respect we can say more than many larger churches located in States where the eause is strong, and it means something. We have no division in the congregation, and I am told that there has never been the slightest dissension since the cause was established at this place. We shall strive to stay united, as all congregations should. Brother England, another preacher, who comes over twenty miles to worship at Antioch, made the statement last Sunday that it would profit us more to tear the church building down and sow the ground in peas than to allow division to creep in and tear up the church. Brethren, there is more truth in that statement than many may think. For every evil work walks side by side with division and strife, as Paul teaches. Let us pray that we may have union in all things, and let us work to that end. So many well-meaning men have caused the church to be torn asunder by riding their hobbies and by being so narrow-minded as to be prejudiced against things that work for the upbuilding of our Savior's kingdom among the sons and daughters of men. Let us pray the Father to give us understanding to see his way clearly and to do his will without wavering or questioning.

Rheumatism Relieved

Renwar is guaranteed to relieve rheumatism by money-back offer. This remedy will positively neutralize the uric acid in the blood, which causes rheumatism. amount of Renwar required to effect relief depends on the case which is being treated. Very often one bottle will produce the desired result. If you suffer with rheumatism, you should by all means try Renwar. It is harmless, even to the most delicate constitutions, and thousands will testify to its effectiveness in relieving rheumatism, Sold by drugglets (price, 50 cents) or by mail from Warner Drug Company, Nashville, Tenn.

VACCINATE YOUR HOGS.

BUY SERUM direct from the manufacturers and be assured of a fresh. reliable product. United States Veter-Inary License No. 114; long-distance phone. Main 2889, Nushville, Tenn. Write for 90-page Hog Book; it is FREE. WHITE SERUM COMPANY.

CUT THIS OUT-IT IS WORTH MONEY

DON'T MISS THIS. Cut out this slip, inclose with 5 cents, and mall it to Foley & Co., 2842 Shaffield Avenue, Chicago, Ill., writing your name and address clearly. You will receive in return a trial package, containing Foley's Honey and Tar Com-pound, for bronchial and la grippe coughs, colds, and croup; Foley Kidney Pills, for lame back, weak kidneys, rheumatism, bladder troubles; and Foley Cathartic Tablets, a wholesome and thoroughly cleansling cathartic for constipation, billousness, headache, and sluggish bowels. You can try these three excellent remedies for only 5

NO JOKE TO BE DEAF

Every Deaf Person Knows That,
I make myself hear, after being deaf for 25 years, with these Artificial Ear Durma. I wear them day and night They are perfectly comfortable. No one sees them: Write ine had I will tell you a frue story, how I got deaf and how I make Drum. Pat. Nov.
you hear. Address. 3, 1908.
SEO. P. WAY, Arthfold Ear Drum Co. (Inc.)
203 Adelaide St., Detroit, Mich.

LEXINGTON, KY., BUSINESS UNIVERSITY (fac.) BUSINESS, SHORTHAND, TYPEWRITING, TELEGRAPHY, Diploma Positions. Special Department for Women, 40 years experience, 20,000 successful graduates. Beamful City, Address WILBUR R. SMITH, Lexington, Ky.

Abilene Christian College.

BY WALTER W. SIKES.

With the largest and most efficient faculty ever gathered here, the greatest body of students, the most commodious and best equipment, the finest spirit, and the brightest prospect in her history, Abilene Christian College began her fifteenth consecutive session on September 21.

Up to the present time (one week after the opening) the total enrollment in all departments has gone beyond the four-hundred mark and is increasing every day. This represents an increase in enrollment over that of last year, by far the best year in our history up until then, of more than thirty-three per cent. Only a lack of sufficient facilities for caring for students has prevented the number from exceeding five hundred. A large number of students have actually come to us and have returned because we were not able to give them a home when they arrived; others who otherwise would have come have gone elsewhere or nowhere because they had learned of our congested condition.

Work has begun this session with the best equipment we have ever provided for our students. In order to take care of the increase in girls, a third story has been added to Zellner Hall, which furnishes first-class rooming facilities for twenty-six girls.

Emergency Hall, for the boys, has been stuccoed on the outside and ceiled inside. As it now is, it is one of the neatest and most comfortable buildings on the campus. Other buildings for the boys have been renovated.

The training school building is just being completed. This is a frame building with four large classrooms, where the training school of the Education Department is conducted. The school furniture is the best that can be bought

More than seven thousand five hundred dollars has been spent in additions to the laboratories of the college and the academy. A complete biological laboratory has been installed. The physics laboratory has been increased to meet the most exacting demands made upon it. The chemistry laboratory building has been increased to three times its original size, and much new and valuable equipment has been installed. In addition to all this, a first-class laboratory has been installed for Household Science and Art in both the college and academy.

An athletic park, with a large grand stand, as good as is to be found anywhere in the State, now furnishes an excellent place for our athletics.

With these additional and improved facilities and the splendid body of students which we have here, we are beginning what promises to be the best

THOUSANDS OF WOMEN suffer miserably from periodic attacks of headache, never dreaming that a permanent cure may be had. Headache nearly always results from some disorder of the stomach, liver or bowels. Take Chamberlain's Tablets. They will correct these disorders and there will be no more headache. Many have been permanently cured by Chamberlain's Tablets.

Chamberlain's Tal

year, by far, we have ever seen. The cooperation, the support, and the prayers of all who are interested in the proper training of the youth of our land are earnestly requested, that this work so nobly begun may never fail, but may grow from year to year with increasing influence and extent and power until ideals of true manhood and womanhood and Christian Education cover the earth as the waters cover the sea.

We forget what we ought to remember, and remember what we ought to forget. We need schools of memory, but we need schools of forgettery even more.-Ralph Parlette.

Catarrh is an excessive secretion, accompanied with chronic inflammation, from the succous membrane. Hood's Sarsaparilla acts on the succous membrane through the blood, reduces inflammation, establishes healthy action, and radically cures all cases of catarrh,

THIS GIRL IS A WONDER.

Do you want more money than you ever possessed? If so, learn to make nut and fruit bonbons. The business will not you $90,00 to $300,00 per month. You can work from your own home. All who sample your bonbons become regular customers. You start by investing less than $10.00 for sup-Mary Elizabeth started her candy kitchen with $5.00, and has made a fortune Cannot you do ifkewise? I will tell you all about the business and help you start, so you can become independent. Now is the psychological time to make blg money, as psychological time to make a sugar is cheaper and fine bonbons command phenomenal prices. Write to-day, Isabelle Inez, 356 Morewood Building, Pittsburgh, Pa.

No Soap Better For Your Skin

STOPPED HER FITS

Mrs. Dellia Martin, a resident of Wurtsboro, writes that she stopped her fits with a medicine that she read about in the She says she has not had a fit since she took the first dose, and that she wants every sufferer to know about this wonderful every sufferer to know about this wonderful medicine and what it did for her. If you, a friend, or relative, suffer from these dreadful attacks, you are advised to send name and address at once to R. P. N. Lepso, 198 Island Avenue, Milwaukee, Wis, who is generously offering to send a bottle of the same kind of medicine he gave Mrs. Martin, free, to any sufferer who writes him.—Adv.

GOOD TEACHERS IN DEMAND

AT BETTER SALARIES

The schools colleges, seminaries, and universities throughout the South are begging for assistance in finding teachers with proper qualifications, and better salaries are being offered. We are needing hundreds of teachers to supply the demand. Any well-prepared teacher would do well to write us.

FISH TEACHERS' AGENCY

B. A. Clayton, Mgr. Birmingham, Ala.

Con't Endure and I will send you on trial my mild, soothing, guaranteed treatment for Piles which has proven a blessing to thousands who are now free from this cruel, torthrons disease. Send post card today for Pull Treatment. If Tesuits are satisfactory costs you
$2.00. If not, costs nothing.

H. D. POWERS, Dept. 683 BATTLE CREEK, MICH.

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

YOU WOULDN'T TRY TO TAME A WILD-CAT

Mr. Dodson Warns Against Use of Treacherous, Dangerous Calomel.

It's Calomel salivates! mercury. Calonel acts like dynamite on a slug-gish liver. When calomel comes into contact with sour bile it crashes into it, causing cramping and nausea.

If you feel bilious, headachy, constipated and all knocked out, just go to your druggist and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone for a few cents which is a harmless vegetable substitute for dangerous calomet. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't start your liver and straighten you up better and quicker than nasty calomel and without making you sick, you just go back and get your money.

If you take calomel today you'll be sick and nauseated tomorrow; besides, it may salivate you, while if you take Dedson's Liver Tone you will wake up feeling great, full of ambition and ready for work or play. It's harmless, pleasant and safe to give to children; they ike it.

ing Ingredients recognized by Specialists as having great value in the Treatment of Nervous Diseases. AT ALL DRUGGISTS

MILES MEDICAL CO., Elkhart, Ind.

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

CHURCH NEWS

Missouri.

Springfield, October 6.—The meeting at Oldfield closed on Sunday night without additions; nevertheless, it was a good meeting. I began near Seneca last night. The prospects are bright. I also assisted Brother C. L. Wilkerson in a good meeting at Tu-pelo, Ark., September 11-22. I shall close the meeting here on October 14 and go to Belle Plaine, Kan.-Charles F. Hardin.

Oklahoma.

Okiahoma.

Finley, September 26.—I am now in a meeting at this place. This is a very hard place. There is much opposition to the truth. The Seventh-Day Adventists are conducting a meeting near us. I do not know what the outcome will be. We are hoping and praying for victory. Pray for us. In my report of the Sulphur meeting it was stated that there were "forty-four additions;" it should have been "forty six additions." Thirty-one were baptized. Among those haptized was an Indian man about thirty-five years old. Indian man about thirty-five years old. He is educated and very intelligent. He was educated in Catholic schools. He seems sincere and very enthusiastic in his obedience to God. I think he will be a good worker in the Master's vineyard at Sulphur. I go next to Springfield, Ark., to begin a meeting there on October 6.—W. L. Ollphant.

Tennessee.

Lucy, October 4 .- I have just closed buty, October 4.—I have just closed a ten-days' meeting at Poplar Grove, in Tipton County, which resulted in twelve being added to the one body. We had the largest crowds that ever attended a meeting at this place.—Porter Nerris.

Hornbeak, October 5.—I have just closed my meeting at Oak Ridge, near Hornbeak, We had a good meeting. Seven were baptized and six were restored. Some others were almost per-suaded to confess that they had neglected their duty of assembling together on the first day of the week, but they spurned the last invitation. It is still hoped that they will in the near future.—Harry Hayes.

Henderson, October 4.—I was with the McKellar Avenue congregation, of Memphis, yesterday, after an absence of eleven weeks in protracted meetings. The congregation had prospered with the work of the home talent, but we were all glad to meet again. Our attendance is increasing and our attendance is increasing young people are gladly entering the work. While I will be in this town and school for the winter, I will preach in Memphis each Sunday.-F. L. Pais-

Charlotte, October 6.—Beginning on the first Lord's day in September, I held a meeting at Three Forks, Ky., which continued a week and a half and resulted in two additions by pri-mary obedience. Beginning on the third Lord's day, I preached ten days for the congregation at Dennis, Miss. and baptized nine persons. I am now at Charlotte, with Brother J. D. Derry-berry, of Nashville, as song leader,

TO RELIEVE CATARRHAL DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES

If you have Catarrhai Deafness or head moises go to your deuggist and get I ounce of parmint (double strength), and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take I tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the discressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy, and the mucus stop drapping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has Catarrhai Deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial. For sale by all druggists or sent on receiptof price 90c by Chas. A. Smith Drug Co., Atlanta, Ga.

PROFITS IN PIGEONS

A pleasant, easy way to make moneystilize an otherwise worthless part of your back yard and turn it into profit. Pigsons are easily raised, prolific, and clean. The markets are clamoring for squabs. A few pairs of our beautiful Red Carnesux and White Swiss Mondaines will start you right Write for our FREE booklet, "Profits in Pigeons No. 8." Carolina Pigeon Plant. Clinton, B C.

FOOT TROUBLES

No Need of Them, Says Brooklyn Man, Who Has Evidently Solved a Big Problem

According to the testimony of hundreds of people living in the Southland and elsewhere, J. R. Simon, of 1589 Broadway, Brooklyn, N. Y., has successfully developed a system of shoe building having for its prime object the conquering of foot and shoe troubles. It appears that Mr. Simon's establishment has become national head-quarters for people whose feet require his quarters for people whose rest require his remarkable comfort shee, known as the EzWear, but obtainable only of the in-ventor. Mr. Simon's new catalogue shows several hundred shoes that combine comfort with style at amazingly low prices and is now ready for free distribution.

Use

Antiseptic Analgesic Antiphlogistic

(Prevents Infection) (Relieves Pain) (Allays Inflammation)

For coughs, colds, influenza, croup and threatened pneumonia, wounds, abrasions, burns, bruises and sunburn. Will not blister delicate membranes.

Eucapine Salve reduces Inflammation of the skin and mucous membrane and whether applied directly to the inflament surface, for external injury or its volutile oil inhaled for pulmonary troubles It is dependable and efficacious. 50c per 2 oz. jar. At your druggist's or by mail from the manufacturers.

Piedmont Laboratories, Inc., Clinton, S. C.

MORRIS

Supreme Canned Meats

Accept only the Yellow and Black label-it covers everything in meat that's good to eat.

Prepared under skilled supervision and seasoned, ready to serve.

MORRIS SUPREME Canned Meats are sold by most good dealers everywhere.

The housewife who demands the best uses Supreme Meats.

MORRIS & COMPANY

Packers and Provisioners.

preaching to large and attentive audiences.—J. T. Harris.

Murfreesboro, October 5.—I have recently held some good, interesting meetings. At Cantrell's Chapel, in Benton County, there was good interest, but no additions. My meeting with the Mount Moriah congregation, in the same county continued eight. in the same county, continued eight days. This meeting was well attended, but there were no additions. tended, but there were no additions. On the first Lord's day in September I began a meeting with the Dry Branch congregation, in Benton County. This meeting continued eight days, and two were reclaimed. On the third Lord's day I began a meeting with the Wood congregation, in Cannon County near Short Mountain. Three were ty, near Short Mountain. Three were baptized and seven were reclaimed. 1 am now in a meeting with the Millersburg congregation, in Rutherford County.—George W. Graves.

Decherd, October 6.—I was called home from my meeting at Bethel, in Bedford County, on account of my daughter's illness. I preached four days and nights, and the interest was good. Four confessed their wrongs. Brother H. M. Phillips is in a meeting at Decherd, with five baptisms to date. I preached for the Oak Grove congregation, about six miles from home, last Lord's day night. We had a splendid audience. Six made the good confession and two confessed their wrongs, and the next day at the water a lady made the good confession and was baptized along with the others. was baptized along with the others. The Oak Grove congregation is wide-awake to duty. I am with my mother to-day. She is very ill. I shall go next to Graysville, in Rhea County.—R. E. L. Taylor.

Lewisburg, September 22.—On Friday night before the third Sunday in August I closed a ten-days' singing school with the Corinth congregation, near Athens, Ala., and began a meeting for R. A. Largen, which closed on the following Thursday night with forty-four additions. I went from this meeting to Spring Hill to be with Brother H. W. Wrye a few days, and from there to Old Brick Church, near Decherd, for a week's meeting, which I enjoyed very much. From there I went to Lexie, in Franklin County, for a week's meeting, which resulted in three precious souls being buried with their Lord in baptism. I go next to Union Chapel, near Rockwood, in Roane County, for a week's meeting, after which I shall make arrangements to take up my work with the Tracy City congregation.-W. Clarence Cooke.

Athens, October 5 .- I was at Ooltewah in a good meeting from September 25 to October 1, with one baptized. ber 25 to October 1, with one baptized. The audiences were small, but the attention and interest were fine. Some prejudice was removed and much good was done. There are only about ten or twelve faithful disciples there. I preached at Union Grove, near Cleveland, last Sunday, also on Saturday night, with two baptisms. On Sunday afternoon I preached in Cleveland to a good audience. Brethren land to a good audience. Brethren Little and Farmer have labored faithfully at Cleveland and have done great good there. They are both good men and faithful preachers. I am now at and faithful preachers. I am now at Athens in a tent meeting, with good prospects for success. We have no house of worship here and only a few faithful disciples, Brother Rozar lives and labors here, and he is doing a good work for the Master. I am to spend the whole of October and a part of November doing mission work in East Tennessee, the Lord willing. My support is not promised, and I shall sincerely appreciate the fellowship of any who desire to help preach the word of the Lord in East Tennessee. Pray for me. Address me at Bridgeport, Ala.—Charles Holder.

A SLIP OF THE KNIFE

resulting in an injured finger, a stubbed toe, a splinter, or any other of the numberless petty injuries that are likely to happen any day, may not seem serious at first, but, when neglected and aided by the careless touch of a dirty hand, may become infected and develop into an ugly sore and blood poison. Don't play with fate. Apply Gray's Oint-ment immediately and freely in all skin injuries. It gives immediate relief, soothes the pain, wards off blood poison, and immediately begins its healing effect. Its constant use for ninety-nine years has made it a family word in every household. Ask your druggist or write W. F. Gray & Co., 818 Gray Building, Nashville, Tenn., for sample

GET FEATHER BEDS AND PHLOWS Direct from Factory, Write to-day, Send names of four friends and receive our astonshing offer. Hygienic Feather Bedding Co., Dept. 22, Charlotte, N. C.

Now Is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots.

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling astanned of your freekles, as Othine disculs groundless the strength is guaranteed to remove these homely spots.

Simply get an onnee of Othine—towned strength-from your druggist, and apply a little of it hight and norming and you should soon see that even the worst treckles have begun to disappear, while the lighter ones tare vanished stifferly. It is sedim that mare than one owner is needed to completely their the skin and gain a beautiful clear completion.

By sure to ask for the double strength Othine as this is soid under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freekles.

Financial Report From Canada.

BY H. A. ROGERS.

I have been delayed very much in preparing my annual report. It is fifteen months to-day (September 16) since I made the last one. During this period I have received contributions from Individuals and churches totaling $1,418.90. Expenses for the same period were $749.90. Balance over expenses, $669.

I wish to express to all who have assisted my very sincere and heartfelt thanks for so liberal encouragement—not only for the temporal help, but also for the many letters of kindness and encouragement spiritually, with admonitions to press on and sow the seed of the kingdom.

I have quite an increase above expenses over last year's report. The report of June 16, 1919, covered sixteen months previous to that date. The receipts for that period were $1,224.65. Expenses, not including my Ford roadster, were $749.80; including car, $1,399.80; making my expenses $175.15 more than receipts.

Taking both reports together for the thirty-one months, I received $2,643.55, and my expenses were $2,149.70, making receipts $493.85 above expenses.

Since the report of June 16, 1919, I have conducted two hundred and four meetings and baptized forty-one persons, two came over from the Baptist Church, one was restored to fellowship, and two came over from the Seventh-Day Adventists. I think I would be safe in saying that I have done three times as much preaching in private as in public.

Brethren, if you consider the work done worthy of a continuation of your support, I will be glad to continue to do all I can to build up the Lord's cause in this country where ungodilness is so rife.

In many parts of this country crops are worse this year than last, making four years in succession of very low yield—from two to four bushels per acre. This makes it very hard for the brethren in some places to do much in a financial way.

I began a meeting here (Weyburn, Saskatchewan, Canada) on August 29, which will close next Friday night (September 22). This is the first meeting we have held in this city. I have baptized two persons since coming here. The interest on the part of some has been fine. This meeting will cost nearly one hundred dollars. There are ten members here, and we feel sure that with continued attention a good cause can be worked up in this place.

I am unable to do all there is to do in this part. Are there not some young brethren in Ontario who could come out and help in this work? Will

Iron Will

That great strength of mind and body, that exhaustless energy, that IRON WILL that make a famous merchant out of a humble clerk, a millionaire out of a penniless inmigrant, a Lincoln out of a wood-chopper—often come from red blood—rich in iron.

rich in iron.

"Do you lack power of decision, energy, and stamina? Are your ambitions greater than your strength? You need not be discouraged, says Dr. James Sullivan, formerly of Bellevue Hospital (Outdoor Dept.), New York, and Westchester County Hospital. "By feeding the blood pure organic iron—Nuxated Iron—many a weak, rundown, discouraged man has changed to a red-blooded American, full of force and energy that win success."

to a red-blooded American, full of force and energy that win success." Nuxated Iron is used and endorsed by former United States Senetors and Members of Congress, and by such world-known men as Paderswski, ex-Premier of Poland. It often increases strength and endurance in two weeks' time.

NUXATED IRON

Used By Over 4,000,000 People for Red Blood, Strength and Endurance

Harmless, purely vegetable, Infants' and Children's Regulator, formula on every label. Guaranteed non-narcotic, non-alcoholic

For highly gratifying and most astonishing results in checking diarrhoea, and relieving wind colic, flatulency, constipation, and other disorders of baby and childhood use

MRS. WINSLOW'S SYRUP

The Infants' and Children's Regulator

It is the safest and best combination of purely vegetable ingredients that medical skill has ever devised and endorsed as this complete open published formula shows. Read it.

Senna Sodium Citrate Rhubarb Sodium Bicarbonate Oil of Anise Fennel

Caraway Glycerine

It costs more to make Mrs. Winslow's Syrup than similar preparations Yet it costs you no more than ordinary baby laxatives. At all Druggists.

ANGLO-AMERICAN DRUG CO., 215-217 Fulton St., New York General Selling Agents: Harold F. Rinhie & Co., Inc., New York, London, Toronto not some who read this urge some one to volunteer help? When are we to convert the people? We shall have to do more than we are at present or the masses will be lost in darkness and unbelief, blinded by dogmas and isms of men. May God put it into the hearts of some to enter the evangelistic work.

For the HAIR-

To make it soft, fluffy, and free from dandruff, use

TETTERINE

60c at your drugglat's or from the SHUP-FRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

Volume LXII. No. 43.

NASHVILLE, TENN., OCTOBER 21, 1920.

$2.50 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

CONDENTS.

DUNDENTA
EDIFYING AS THE NEED MAY BE	3017
BOOK NOTICES	1018
OUR CONTRIBUTIONS. Was "Uncle Decell" Mistaken? Coorgia and the Par- Southern Field. "The Lay of the Spir (of Life in Christ Jesus "—Man Blessed, Ban Not Salished.—Flowers in the Pain The highs Work-Lass Angeles Notes.
	7,028
The Macadenian Call—Let Something Good Be Said	1024
	1026
	1027
	1028
	1020
CHURCH NEWS	1040
"Baptists vs. Campbellites" (No. 22)	1032
	1034
Among the Colored Folks	1040

Edifying as the Need May Be

Having a Good Time.

If Christian people would be frank enough to say that they believe in having a good time, not only in heaven. but here on earth before they get to heaven; if they would only stop trying to make the impression that the experience of human life is like a mountain of sorrow standing in a great plain of woe; if they would only emphasize the fact that there are some good things in this life and that there come good times along its pathway, they would have a much better influence on those outside the church of the living God. A sentiment that we need to express daily in our conversation with men, and one that should be written indelibly upon our lives, is what Simon Peter said at the transfiguration scene: "It is good to be here." Sometimes this impetuous disciple was mistaken in his judgment. sometimes he jumped at conclusions too quickly, sometimes he blundered woefully. But this time he was right. He made a center shot, he hit the nail on the head, when he exclaimed: "It is good to be here!"

Moreover, it is altogether in accord with our Father's will that, where our cup of happiness is full and we are deeply sensible of it, we should declare it, "O give thanks unto Jehovah; for he is good; for his loving-kindness endureth forever. Let the redeemed of Jehovah say so."

* * *

We Miss a Lot of Good Times.

(1) By not seeing the opportunity of a good time when it is right before us. Do you long for something great and unusual to happen in order to bring you happiness? Do you imagine that a good time awaits you when you visit San Francisco, or New York, or Paris, or Switzerland? Those who advocate "seeing America first" are ready to say you can find it nearer home. They will tell you of mountains in your own State that rival the grandeur of the Alps, of winding rivers only one day's journey distant that surpass the classic Thames and Rhine. But I rell you that there is the happiness of a good time nearer still. The secret of it is to be found in your own heart. The art of happiness is personal; it is self-taught; it is independent of money and place. It does not spring from something outside, but from something inside—from the power of a heart that can feel and understand and love and appreciate wherever one may move and live and have his being.

(2) By cultivating the unhappy habit of anticipating misfortune that may be far ahead of us or may never transpire, instead of beholding the joy that is set before us now. A wise man once said: "I have had a great deal of trouble, most of which never came to pass." There are scores of people among us to-day who are worrying themselves sick over hard times that may be happily averted. In the days of sunshine never mind about the cloudy days. Time enough to worry when they do come. And when they do come, you will find that they have their use and blessing.

0 0 0

In Spite of Baffling Mysteries.

It is good to be here in spite of certain things that would appear as the baffling mysteries of life. We may have a good time in spite of sin. If we could take sin out of the world, how greatly this absence would enhance its beauty! What an immeasurable wealth of pleasure there would be then in the contemplation of earth and sea and sky, and what a joy to live and to perform one's duties! But it is impossible for the present. Sin for a while must be the marplot of human existence. We never know when it will mar the beauties of nature and make mockery of one's hopes. Who can appreciate the crimson and gold of the sunset when a little child lies dead, the legacy of a drunken father? Who can find delight in anything when he knows that the blight of sin lies like a shadow across the universe? Who can say it is good to be in this sin-cursed world? The Christian can. He alone, of all men, can glory in the atonement for sin; can say with Paul, "Thanks be to God, who giveth us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ," and with John, "We have an Advocate with the Father."

0 0 0

The Routine of Daily Tasks.

We can have a good time in spite of the routine of daily tasks. We often feel that life would be a wonderfully fine experience if we could only do what we please and go where we please; if there could be a genuine fulfillment of the selfish man's motto, "I want what I want when I want it." But to be tied down to one place, everlastingly driven by some hateful task, confined to some routine of duty which brings no honor and a mere pittance of wages, is what makes life seem intolerable to some people. But, in spite of dreary routine, it is good to be here. My Uncle David has said: "The happiest man who ever walked upon the earth was Jesus Christ, and this, too, despite the fact that he was 'a man of sorrows, and acquainted with grief." He reasoned that doing the Father's will was the secret of the only true happiness, and because Jesus did his will perfectly and finished his work he was in the noblest sense the happiest man. Our Savior gave us this principle of a good time when he said: "If ye know these things, happy are ye if ye do them." To be useful, to be dependable, to be busy—that is the Master's definition of happiness.

0 0 0

The Christian's Good Time and the Worldling's.

Sometimes you hear a preacher say that there is no happiness in living in the world out of Christ and away from the church. That is a misleading statement. Frequently worldly people hearing this remark say to themselves: "That preacher is a fool; he does not know what he is talking about." We must distinguish between two ideals of happiness, the worldly ideal and the Christian ideal. There is a worldly happiness, just as Paul teaches there is a sorrow that is of the world. Those things that serve to make a worldling happy do not always make a Christian happy; they may make him miserably unhappy. For example, a worldly-minded person might have a very pleasurable sense of enjoyment at a dance, whereas a pureminded Christian girl would be conscience-stricken and feel very much out of place. There would have been no great happiness for Simon Peter on the mount of transfiguration if Jesus Christ had not been there. Just so the earnest Christian is immeasurably happy to-day in those places where Christ's spiritual presence is felt. He is happy in doing the very work the Savior would have him do.

It is none the less true that worldly-minded people are made unhappy by the presence of Christian influences. It is then that they feel like a fish out of water. A man in Boston bought a ticket to a race course and by mistake got on a boat going to a camp meeting, where he was among preachers singing hymns and talking about the Bible. He rushed up to the captain and said: "Captain, I was never so near perdition in my life. I will give you ten dollars to let me out at the nearest place." Would that gambler be happy in heaven? Would he have a good time? Good surroundings cannot make bad men happy.

0 0 0

Worldly Happiness Is Ephemeral.

This worldly happiness is ephemeral. It cannot stand the rude shocks of serrow and disappointment and persecution. The man who seeks it cannot say with Paul; "Most gladly will I rather glory in my weaknesses, that the power of Christ may rest upon me." (2 Cor. 12: 9.) It is impossible for a worldly-minded man to have a good time very long at a time. Abdabahman wrote in his private diary: "All my life I have been prosperous in peace and victorious in war, feared by my enemies, loved and honored by my friends. Amid all this wealth and glory, I have counted the days of my life which I would call happy. They amount to fourteen." A minister has written a book entitled "The Quest of Happiness." Solomon wrote on the same subject long ago. He tells about seeking after happiness in pleasure, in wealth, in social functious, and in intellectual pursuits, and gives it as his verdict that it is not found in any of these things. The psalmist also found men seeking after it in his day; and after trying everything they could think of, they cried out: "Who will show us any good?" Solomon's verdict has been confirmed by some of the world's most successful men.

A Good Time With Death in View.

We can have a good time despite the knowledge that we must soon leave the world. One of the books that I prize very highly is quaint old Lorenzo Dow's diary. On one page there is a steel engraving of Lorenzo; on the opposite page, a likeness of his faithful wife. Under the picture of the husband is the quotation: "We're journeying to that land-" Under the picture of the wife the quotation ends: "From whence there is no return." But the faces of both appear screnely happy. The fact that they were going to a place from whence they could not return did not take the sunshine out of their lives. Paul said: "For to me to live is Christ, and to die is gain." He was happy here-yes, sublimely happy-but he knew that in heaven he would be happier still. That experience would be "very far better." "Our citizenship is in heaven, from whence also we look for a Savior." In Luke's account of the transfiguration scene, he names the subject of conversation. They "spake of his decease which he was about to accomplish at Jerusalem." But this grave topic did not mar the happiness of

A man of finest promise dying in his prime left the estimate that

"All this passing scene
Is a peevish April day;
A little sun, a little rain,
And then death sweeps along the plain,
And all things fade away."

Paul, facing the end of the journey, said: "I am already being offered, and the time of my departure is come. I have fought the good fight, I have finished the course, I have kept the faith: henceforth there is laid up for me the crown of righteousness." Compare the statements of the two men and you can appreciate how greatly the happiness of the Christian transcends the happiness of the successful man of the world. You can see the difference between their good times. It is the difference between "a peevish April day" and a great course that is finished.

Book Notices.

If you are in need of a good abridged Bible dictionary, send us $2 for a copy of Smith's Peloubet Edition. This is one of the best dictionaries of the Bible that I have examined.

Have you read "Sunshine; or, Uncle Minor's Stories?" This is a very attractive book for children as well as for old people. Children read it with much interest. It is profusely illustrated, and contains many interesting incidents and stories. Price, $1.50.

Send us $1.25 for a copy of "Sweeney's Sermons." This is a book of sermons by John S. Sweeney—one of the best books of sermons published. Sweeney carries conviction with the statement of his position. He is noted for brevity, clearness, and force of statement. Every young preacher should have a copy of this book of sermons.

Have you seen a copy of "Adventism and the Bible?" This is one of the very best books for you to buy at the present time. Adventism is a live subject. Adventists are active and are propagating their doctrines. If you want to be thoroughly prepared to meet them and to expose the errors of Adventism, you should send us at once $1.25 for a copy of "Adventism and the Bible."

We have on hand a few copies of "Biographies and Sermons," edited by F. D. Srygley. This is a book of sermons by a number of our best-known preachers. It is well worth a careful perusal. A brief history of the life of each preacher accompanies his sermon. A picture of the preacher also is given with each sketch. Price, $1.50. If you want this book, you should order at once, as we have just a few copies that have been left over through mistake.

Our Contributors

Was "Uncle David" Mistaken?

BY FLAVIL HALL,

I do not believe anything David Lipscomb taught just because he taught it; but, as a rule, his positions, in the light of God's word, were so invulnerable that some of us learned to weigh well what he said on any subject before rejecting it. Soon after his death I wrote as follows:

"He knew the teaching of the Bible, as a connected whole, as no other man knew it, I believe. Very few professing Christians know what it really means to be a citizen of the kingdom of Christ, because they have never learned the teaching of the Scriptures, as presented by Brother Lipscomb in his book, entitled 'Civil Government.' . . . Any Christian reading this book carefully will get a new vision of the divine government and will understand better his relation to human government, and such questions as the following, with him, will be settled forever: 'May a Christian be a soldier? . . . Did Cornelius give up his military office when he became a Christian? Did the jailer at Philippi? May a Christian be a sheriff, magistrate, governor, or President of the United States?' [The query editor of the Christian Leader had asked these questions.]

"Brother Lipscomb points out that the centurion and the jailer 'were officers in the Roman government;' that this government 'was persecuting Christians:' that 'the work of the centurion at the crucifixion of Christ was to have him crucified, then to seal and guard the tomb; 'that 'his duty was to arrest, scourge, and place in the stocks or execute men and women convicted of being Christians;' that it was impossible for Cornelius as a Christian to continue in such an office: that 'it was the duty of the failer to imprison Christians, place their feet in the stocks, lacerate their bare backs, cast them into the dungeons and keep them fast and safe,' and that when he became a Christian he could no longer hold such an office; and so onward goes his argument with hurricane strength, lifting his opponents and carrying them onward to the land of conscious defeat, where the utter futility of counter attack is fully realized.

"The duty of rulers in civil government is to punish evildoers, to 'bear the sword;' and Paul calls this taking revenge. (Rom, 13: 1-3.) But in this connection the apos tle tells Christians not to take revenge. 'Dearly beloved, avenge not yourselves' (Rom, 12: 19.) Why should Christians not see that the ruler in human government has a prerogative that a Christian has not, and which the Holy Spirit tells him not to take, but which he must take if he enter the office of sheriff, etc.?

"Is the voice of history worth listening to? What is the force of the following from Neander regarding the early Christians? 'It was far from their imaginations to conceive it possible that Christianity should appropriate to itself the relations and offices of state. The Christians stood aloof from the state, as a priestly and spiritual race."

Commenting on Rom, 16: 23—"Erastus the chamberlain of the city saluteth you, and Quartus a brother"—Brother Lipscomb says it may mean "the steward for the church in the city" of Corinth, from whence Paul was writing; that "some writers report that he held this position in the church at Jerusalem at an earlier period;" that this letter was written during the intensity of the persecution of the church by Nero, and that it is impossible that the government at that time would have tolerated so active, well-known, and earnest Christian as was Erastus, in so high and important office as treasurer, in so prominent and influential a city as was Corinth.

In Fox's "Book of Martyrs," under "The First Primitive Persecution Under Nero," I read: "In the course of it Paul and Peter were martyred; and to their names may be added Erastus, chamberlain of Corinth," etc. Instead of serving as acceptable treasurer of the city under the Roman government, he died as a martyr under that government because he was a Christian.

"Chamberlain" in Rom. 16: 23 is from "oikonomos," and is defined "a house manager, overseer, steward." The same word is applied to the bishops, or elders, of a congregation, in Tit. 1: 7: "For a bishop must be blameless, as the steward [oikonomos] of God." In the above-named "Book of Martyrs" we read of the martyrdom of "Phocus, bishop of Pontus," and of the martyrdom of "Ignatius, bishop of Antioch." Whoever thought of that meaning anything but that each of those Christians was a bishop, a "steward of God," in the church of the town or city where he lived? Then when Paul speaks of Erastus as steward of Corinth, why may it not mean that he was steward of the church in Corinth, and why should any one be so certain that it means he was treasurer of the city government?

Brother Lipscomb points out that up to three months before Paul wrote the Roman Epistle, Erastus had been absent from Corinth for two or more years with Paul on a missionary tour through Asia and Macedonia; that under such conditions it cannot be that he was treasurer of the city organization when Paul called him "chamberlain of the city;" and that if the title has to do with human government, it was applied to him because he held the office before he became a Christian, "as we call a judge by his title after the expiration of his office."

Now, if we have been misled and deluded by "Uncle David," we desire to be enlightened. Let the light be turned on, and let all keep their eyes open and see.

Georgia and the Far Southern Field.

BY B. C. GOODPASTURE.

STUDIES IN THE LIFE OF CHRIST-HIS BIRTH.

"The Word became flesh," not in the sense that he ceased to be spirit and divine and was turned into flesh, but in the sense that, in addition to what he previously was, he assumed human nature, "being made in the likeness of men." (Phil. 2: 7.) Like all men, he was "born of a woman" (Gal. 4: 4); unlike all men, he was "conceived of the Holy Spirit" (Matt. 1; 20). While on earth he was not wholly divine; neither was he simply human; he was both human and divine.

1. In the "fullness of the time." When the Savior came the world was bushed in the repose of peace. For almost a half century the temple of Janus, which was open during war, had been closed. Augustus, the Roman emperor, exercised unrivaled sway over the civilized world from the Euphrates to the Atlantic, from Britain to the cataracts of the Nile. But the moral condition of the Roman world was at a low ebb. No darker picture of human wickedness and degradation than that drawn by Paul in the first chapter of the epistle to the Romans will ever startle and shame mankind. In the hovel of the poor and in the palace of the king, in the temples of the gods and in the forum of the senate, and in the games at the circus and in the meetings at the public baths, crime, vice, and debauchery held high carnival. Heathen religion had dragged out its long and wretched course and had miserably failed. Morally, Rome was hopelessly gasping in the agonies of death.

The condition of the Jews was but slightly better. They had been wasted in the captivities and harassed in the frequent wars that had devastated their land. The peace of that Roman world was but little more to them than bondage. Their temple had been polluted; idols were lifted up in holy places. The whole country was defiled by the unwelcome presence of the detested and uncircumcised Roman. Herod, that bloodthirsty and brutal monster, was, under the Roman emperor, king on the tottering throne of their fatherland. But a deeper gloom enshrouded their minds. For four hundred years they had heard the voice of neither prophet nor seer. Their teachers and leaders were all divided into warring parties, sects, and contentious factions. There was, however, in the midnight of their despair, one lone star of hope-the Messianic hope. Their miseries drove them to the prophetic promises of the Christ as the only hope of deliverance for them. These predictions concerning the long-expected King had been carried by the Jews in their dispersions to the corners of the earth. Even Suctonius and Tacitus, Roman historians, inform us that, along with the Israelites, the peoples of the East looked to Judea for the appearance of One who would rule over the entire world. Thus at the time of our Savier's coming the world was in travail with this great hope.

2. The date of his birth. The birth of Christ is the watershed of history. We reckon time B.C. or A.D. according as it is related to his advent. No one knows unmistakably the year in which Christ was born. It was first thought A.D. 1, later B.C. 4, and now scholars of no mean distinction say B.C. 5. But at this juncture we are concerned more as to the exact day of the month. Inasmuch as many people religiously observe and celebrate December 25 as the birthday of the Lord, it might be well to investigate the authority for such practice. In the first place, there is no command or example for such a celebration, even If we knew the date. In the second place, the probabilities are against December 25; for the fact that the shepherds were "abiding in the field, and keeping watch by night over their flock," when the Savior came, rather Indicates that it was not later in the year than the middle of October, when, on account of the rain and cold, the flocks were brought in from the fields and kept in the folds. Adam Clarke, in his "Commentary," remarks: "On this very ground the nativity in December should be given up." David Smith, in his great book, "The Days of His Flesh," page 12, says: "Western Christendom celebrates December 25 as the birthday of our Lord, but this also is an error."

3. The circumstances of his birth. A decree of Cæsar Augustus had brought Joseph and Mary to "the city of David" to be enrolled in the Roman census. And while in Bethlehem, which literally means "house of bread," the Savior, the "bread of life," was born. There Jacob had buried his beloved Rachel, and Boaz had courted and married Ruth; there David had tended his father's herds, and Amos had driven his flocks and dressed his sycamores; but it was Jesus who put Bethlehem on the map. To the rude shepherds who watched their herds on the star-lit fields of Bethlehem, it seems, was first announced "the good tidings of great joy." This announcement of a Savior born was the sweetest news that ever came from heaven to earth, And in keeping with the spirit of this high-born message, suddenly the sky was filled with a multitude of the heavenly host and rang with the music of an angelic song. "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace among men in whom he is well pleased." This was the burden of the angels' song, and is the all-conquering spirit of the gospel of the Nazarene. "When the angels went away from them into heaven," the shepherds came to Bethlehem and saw in the manger the infant Lord, and "returned, glorifying and praising God for all the things that they had heard and seen." Later the star-led Wise-men from the East came, with gifts, to do him homage.

NEWS ITEMS.

Brother Henry T. King closed a two-weeks' meeting at Scuth Pryor Street on Friday night, October 8. There were no additions, but much good was accomplished otherwise. We shall remember the meeting with pleasure.

Four persons took membership with the West End Avenue congregation on Sunday, October 10.

"The Law of the Spirit of Life in Christ Jesus." BY LEE JACKSON.

In a recent number of the Gospel Advocate I notice that Brother Elam still holds to the notion that the passage in Rom, 8: 2 has reference to the sinner's being made free from the guilt of sin by obedience to the gospel. This is the same teaching that Brother Elam set forth in one of his Bible-school quarterlies some three or four years since, and I now call attention to it in order to induce brethren to engage in a restudy of this statement of Paul in the light of what he has said in preceding chapters of this epistle. I have been closely studying this epistle to the Romans for forty years-studying it in connection with what others have taught in regard to its purpose and meaning-and in thus studying it I have arrived at the conclusion that I have a fairly accurate understanding of its contents. Where I am wrong in my ideas of apostolic teaching, I want to be set right by some one who is capable of correcting my misinformation. It cannot do the cause which we represent any good by allowing any misunderstanding of any teaching of Scripture to remain uncorrected. And the religious journal that opens its columns to a free and untrammeled study of Scripture teaching performs an immeasurable service to the cause of Christ Such a course on the part of a religious paper is altogether different from that of opening its columns for an unprofitable wrangling over untaught questions, useless debates about the historical fulfillment of misunderstood prophecies, and doctrinal contentions in behalf of unsupported inferences. The one course leads to a better knowledge of the Scriptures, while the other leads to strife and divisions.

Of course it is readily admitted that the sinner is made free from the guilt of sin when he becomes obedient to the gospel. This means that he secures to himself pardon because in his obediences he is brought into union with Christ, in whom there is salvation from sin's guilt. But this is not what the apostle says in the passage under consideration. His words are: " For the law of the Spirit of life in Christ Jesus made me free from the law of sin and of death." By the "law of sin and of death" the apostle means the law written and engraven upon the tables of stone. (2 Cor. 3: 7.) It is from this law that the "law of the Spirit of life in Christ Jesus" bath made man free. Freedom or Hberation from this law is one state or condition; while the state or condition of freedam from the guilt of sin is another. The one was accomplished in behalf of man by the offering of the body of Christ upon the cross, while the other is entered into by the sinner in his voluntary obedience to the resurrected and reigning Christ. With the fact of being made free from the law of sin and of death, man voluntarily had nothing to do; but in being made free from the guilt of sin, everything is dependent upon his submissive obedience to the will of the Christ. Freedom from the law of sin and of death is involved in the redemption in behalf of man through the death of Christ on the cross, and through it-and because of itman enjoys the privilege of freeing himself from the guill of sin by a voluntary acceptance of Christ as his only apostle means freedom from the law as given from Sinaland not freedom from sin in the sense of pardon-is evidenced by the line of reasoning that he places before us in the seventh chapter of this epistle. In verse 4 of that chapter he says: "Wherefore, my brethren, ye also were made dead to the law through the body of Christ; that ye should be joined to another, even to him who was raised from the dead, that we might bring forth fruit unto God." And to illustrate and enforce his meaning the apostle cites the law which binds the woman to her husband. If while the husband is living she be joined to another man, she is called an adulteress; but if the husband die, she is free from the law, so that she is no adulteress, though she be joined (married) to another man. Of course the actual freedom from the law that bound her to her first husband does not make the woman the wife of another man. It only places her at liberty, giving her the right to legally marry again. And so the offering of the body of Christ has discharged man from the law, whatever may be the meaning of man's being held under law, and given him the glorious blood-bought privilege of releasing himself from his bondage in sin by entering into a saved relationship to the Christ. The claim may be made that as only the Israelites were ever under the law as given through Moses, therefore they were the only people released from law by the death of Christ. While in a very important sense this claim is correct, yet there is a far deeper meaning in which it is not true and does not cover the case in regard to man's real relationship to the reign of divine law. While the formulated code of law engraven upon stones was made the basis of God's covenant to Israel, and while as a legal code for an earthly government it was only binding upon Israel, yet it cannot be successfully denied that the application of its righteous principles was universal. According to the demands of law, as holy, righteous, and good, Gentiles as well as Jews were adjudged as sinners. Sin is transgression of law-or, sin is lawlessness. While the Gentiles had not the law as formulated for Israel, yet because of their sins or transgressions the Gentiles stood under the law's condemnation and under its ministration of death. Sin reigned, and death reigned. To say the least that can be burriedly said, the death of Christ made all men dead to the demands of law, so that men are not now resting under the law's cendemnation. That which now seals their condomnation and dooms them to an eternal death is their rejection of the gospel of Christ.

That by "freedom from the law of sin and of death" the

This freedom from the "law of sin and of death" is said to have been accomplished by "the law of the Spirit of life in Christ Jesus." What does this mean? Perhaps we can never be able to take hold of the full meaning of this profound statement. Like the priesthood of Christ, the human mind may be too feeble to grasp and human speech inadequate to express the full force of its meaning as ordained in the economy of grace. But that furnishes no reason for giving it an application in order to force upon it an explanation which does not explain. A kindred expression is found in Heb. 9: 14: "How much more shall the blood of Christ, who through the eternal Spirit offered himself without blemish unto God, cleanse your conscience from dead works to serve the living God?" Rotherham renders this "age-abilling spirit," and refers it to the human spirit of Jesus, which in the earthly life that he lived led him in spotless obedience to his Father's will, which carried him to the cross as an adequate offering for the redemption of the world. However, let it be that the reference is to the holy, divine, personal Spirit, and the fact remains that as a law operative in the life of Jesus this Spirit so controlled his human personality that he became a perfected sin offering through his obedience unto death. "Though he was a Son, yet learned obedience by the things which he suffered; and having been made perfect, be beunto all them that obey him the author of eternal salvation." This was the law or rule of the Spirit in the life that Jesus lived. It was "the law of the Spirit of life in Christ Jesus" that made man "free from the law of sin and of death." This it was that moved the Son of God to make the supreme sacrifice that brought to an end the reign of law and ushered in the reign of grace.

I am not offering this deviation from the usual exposition of Rom. 8: 1-3 as a means of seeking controversy; I am only seeking to stimulate brethren to a more diligent and careful study of the Scriptures. My greatest pleasure through life has been the study of the Bible.

Man Blessed, But Not Satisfied.

BY E. M. BORDEN.

Solomon's statement, "The eyes of man are never satisfied," is good to use as a text under the above heading. Man and his doings often remind us of the statement of the wise man. God made man superior to all other flesh. When God looked upon the creature, man, as he stood upright and manifested intelligence, he was pleased, and pronounced him good and very good. Being pleased with the man he made, he gave him a nice home, the garden of Eden, and informed him that he could remain there forever if he would refrain from eating of the tree of knowledge of good and evil. He was free to act, and Satan was allowed to persuade. Adam heard both sides and made his choice. He did not appreciate what God had done for him. His choice was death.

God made man and knows what he needs. He has given man that which is best for him; yet man will come to the point where he thinks he knows better, and after he has made the fatal blunder he finds that it would have been better to let God rule in his heart. Man is the greatest of animate matter, for he has a spirit that God formed within him. It is from this spirit that intelligence comes. How grateful we should be that God has given us such pre-eminence!

God showed his appreciation of the man he had made when he gave him an Eden. It was beautiful and suited to man in that primitive state. The Eden was supplied with fruit suited to the sustenance of man's physical existence. Even the tree of life was there, and Adam was free to partake and live. But he must not eat of the tree of knowledge of good and evil. God told him that the violation of that law meant death. We feel that he did not realize what he meant.

With the intelligence that God gave man, he obeyed the demands of Satan and denied himself the privilege of remaining in the garden of Eden. When it was too late he realized what he had done, for he could no longer reach forth his hand and cat of the life giving tree that would perpetuate his physical existence. The meaning of "The day thou eatest thereof thou shalt surely die" began to be understood. He began to feel the sting of death. On every hand be could see things that reminded him of what he had brought upon himself and also on his posterity to the end of time. The change had come. Death was here. Thorns began to appear. Sorrows began to fill the hearts. Many other disagreeable things began to appear. He did not realize what a good home he had, or he certainly would not have left it. O the tempter! But Adam did not have to be tempted; he did it willingly.

God made choice of the descendants of Jacob, and blessed them. He gave them the best country on earth at that time. He led them into it, but they did not appreciate it. After remaining in Egypt for a number of years, God led them into the land that he had promised unto them. They remained there for many years, but just think how little they appreciated it! They were not thankful, as a nation should have been. They sinned and brought upon themselves many troubles. They had the temple of Solomon, the greatest church house that had ever been up to that time. It was beautiful and expensive, but their worship was just as simple as it was when they met in tents as they journeyed to the land of Canaan. They—that is, many of them—did not appreciate that, for they went to Bethel and Dan and worshiped there. Ten tribes went to worship at Bethel and Dan; while two tribes, Judah and Benjamin, remained at Jerusalem. This reminds us of a statement in Gen. 49: 10: "The scepter shall not depart from Judah, nor a lawgiver from between his feet, until Shiloh come; and unto him shall the gathering of the people be."

As the Israelites were leaving Egypt, God gave them gold, but the first opportunity they had they made a golden calf of it and began to worship it. How little did they appreciate it! They could have used it to the glory of God, but they did not. There are a few at this day who use their gold to the glory of God, but they can be numbered. I know of some. It is a blessing if it is used in the right way. A talented speaker used his talent to condemn the word of God; a talented singer used his talent to serve Satan.

Just think of what God has done for us. Do we appreciate it? Think of how we have done, and then think of the great privilege of being allowed to come and drink at the great spiritual fountain. All are invited to come. It is left with us. Will we come? The church of Christ is the greatest institution that God has ever given to man. It is unlike any other institution. It is for the spirit part of man. Its laws appeal to the spiritual part of man. If we do not get good out of being a Christian, it is because. we do not look for the good. It is there for us; will we get it? He died to save us. Do we really appreciate that? While the church is a great institution, some people give their talents in helping to build up some human institution that is of no value beyond the grave. God has fixed the plan of salvation; let us accept and obey it. God has prepared the church for us; let us be satisfied with it. God thas prepared ordinances; let us comply with them and be satisfied. God knows our needs. "Fear God, and keep his commandments; for this is the whole duty of man."

Flowers in the Path. EX T. W. PHILLIPS.

The common way or practice is to wait until men are dead and then cover the grave with beautiful flowers. But I will change the old method a bit this morning (September 28). I came in home yesterday from a long series of meetings, tired and worn; but on my desk lay the dear old Gospel Advocate, and as I lay on my lounge in my study resting my body, I glanced through the paper to see what is being done and said in the paper and among the churches and by the preachers. Then during the night I could almost dream of the good things I read. To you, "A. B. L.," and to you, "J. C. McQ.," I especially want to say a few things. Your work and your writings are like a monument built of the best and finest marble, polished and shining, to live on and on in the hearts and lives of the thousands of good and honest hearts that read and think of the things you are doing. Your first-page work, Brother Lipscomb, is too good for me to express it, and so edifying and uplifting. I called my two boys, Tom Wendell and Cecil Benton, fourteen and sixteen years of age, to me and read to them your "page" in the issue of September 23 before letting them leave for school to-day, and I told them: "Now, boys, next year I mean, if the Lord permits, to put you in the David Lipscomb College, in Nashville, under the man that wrote this page." And to you, Brother McQuiddy, I have not words to tell you how I appreciate your noble stand for the truth of God on the kingdom question, and your bold and fearless stand against friend or foe that gets up and shows sympathy for the rottenness of Adventism, Dawnism, Bollism, or any other "ism" that sets the word of God at naught, putting the Christ, his doctrine and his truth, to an open shame. You are one of the men of the day to lead us from this modern darkness and heresy being scattered to the four winds of the earth by would-be "unfulfilled prophecy" teachers and speculators. Your work and your teaching against Christians' going to war, even during the late "world war," stands as a living monument to your honor and the defense of the truth on that question, and these men who are now misrepresenting you will be called to account in the great and final day. I want you brethren to know that I am with you in this fight, and, by the grace of God, I shall show you my faith by my works.

The India Work.

(Permanent Address: Kankbal, U. P., District Saharanpur, British India.)

Six weeks ago [this was written on August 24] I removed my family and belongings to the above place on the Ganges River. Being on the river, it is unusually hot here; but as I am a fisherman (fishing for men) and the multitudes come here to immerse themselves for the remission of sins, it behooves me to be in reach of them.

Since my arrival I have received ten pounds sterling from Scotland for Scripture portions for distribution, and thirty dellars from Canada for the same purpose. One worker is being supported from Britain and several from the United States of America, but it seems that a number of brethren and churches have not as yet fulfilled their promises.

Another matter: I have just received a letter from a worker supported by a church in the South which I am sure is as good as gold in regard to its promises, and yet he asks me to lend him five dollars, for his children are crying for bread, as his support is two months behind. Evidently that congregation is sending quarterly, which is not advisable.

There were four baptisms last month, and I suppose a few or perhaps even many baptisms will occur from time to time; but I wish it distinctly understood that my present work here on the Ganges is a Seed Sower Mission, just as my work in the Deccan was during the years when I was working there at my own expense previous to 1911. By and by it will get to be a Harvest Home Mission, I trust, if the brethren stand by me and support me with their earnest prayers as well as their means. I am tonight leaving on a trip for the Deccan in order to put the work there more in order.

If your congregation is a partner in the India work, please call their attention to my address as above; for, as a matter of fact, only three congregations have sent me fellowship since my arrival in India three months ago. I suppose it is because they do not know my address, although I have written two or three times to each congregation; for I have received word that the brethren had not heard from me since I left England, which was doubtless quite true when written (in June or July), as it takes six weeks or more for a letter to go home from here, and I arrived on May 24. We are not in present distress, owing to the liberality of the brethren when I was in America, together with some little fellowship received in Britain; but I trust the brethren will realize that I have been on my own expenses since I left the United States, about the first of February last, with small exception, and that my Atlantic expenses and railway expenses and then my moving expenses all came out of what I received while in the United States; so that it stands to reason that unless my supporters can get in touch with me, I and my family will come to want in time.

LOS ANGELES NOTES

2669 North Sichel Street.

House of worship, corner Altura and North Sichel Streets, Take North Broad Street car to Sichel, then one block to left:

Yesterday (October 3) was a glorious day with the Los Angeles disciples. We had our house of worship practically full for the forenoon services, and two precious souls—a mother and her son—confessed their faith in Christ and were baptized into him at the close of the evening service, two had their names enrolled as members of our local forces, and a number were out and ready for work who had not been attending, and the largest audience we have thus far had at the evening service.

Nothing in the world thrills me so as to see God's people take a lively interest in church work. It is so reasonable that we should do so, and so miserably unreasonable for us not to do so. The very day we allow ourselves to become as interested in something else as we are in the religion of our Lord and Savier, that very day we, as a people, become inconsistent. Certainly there are many things in which we can be interested, but certainly in nothing must we be so interested as in saving souls, feeding the hungry and clothing the naked, and giorifying our Father in heaven. And I doubt that we should be interested in anything at all that we cannot, in some way, connect with the salvation of our souls and those with whom we associate. Well, there is no room for doubting here, for Christ put it right when he said: "But seek ye first his kingdom, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you." (Matt. 6: 33.)

Seek, and Ye Shall Find.

The statement, "Seek, and ye shall find," will apply to finding the church in a large city like this as well as to other things. I was pleased when the following note came to me through the mail:

Brother Hall: I have been trying to locate the church of Christ here, but could not. So my father found this address [my street address—S. H. H.] in the Firm Foundation and sent it to me. If you will, I would be very glad for you to tell me the location of the church, and oblige.

Yours very truly, (Miss) Josie Offill,

I hurriedly sent an answer, giving full directions, and I am glad to say that Sister Josie was with us last Lord's day, cast her lot with us, and showed that she means to be a worker by bringing a young lady friend with her. Her letter came to my desk while I was making out letters to the members here, so I inclosed the letter you read under my "Notes" last week. I know her father will be glad to know she has found us and is helping us.

And here let me say that it is the duty of parents, when their children go from home, to stay in touch with them till they have found a church home. It is also the duty of congregations to keep in touch with their members when they move to other communities, to help and encourage them till they have found a church home or, by the help of their home church, have established one.

0 0 0

More to Think About.

Omitting names and places, as the letter was not written for publication, necessarily. I give our readers the following good letter from one of our best men:

Brother Hall: I am informed by our forelady of our Policy Department among our girls that two of the Life and Casualty girls expect to be in Los Angeles about October 10 for the winter. They are members of the Belmont congregation of this city, and desire the spiritual protection and fellowship of the brethren there. They can be found at the Y. W. C. A. building after arriving. I am sorry to learn that these young sisters joined this institution thinking they would need its influence on their long journey and stay from home. Please look these young ladies up and put them in touch with the saints there and see that a spiritual atmosphere is thrown around them sufficiently to convince them that it is not necessary for a Christian to join a human institution to get through the world and that will lead them out of and away from it. Their names are —— and ——. May the good Lord abundantly bless you and family in your new field of labor.

On the above I feel constrained to make the following comments:

First, it is great when men, with no relationship existing between them and the parties concerned except business relationship, so far as this world is concerned, so appreciate the welfare of our young Christians that they will take the time to write letters and try to see young people, as in the case above, safely connected with some congregation that will care for and protect them when they go to a new town or city. This is the natural thing for fathers and mothers to do; it is the natural thing for the elders of the local church to do; and it is the natural thing for the individual disciple to do. "We are members one of another," says Paul. (Rom. 12; 5.) But how often do parents and congregations neglect this!

Second, without saying one word to encourage the idea of joining some human institution in order to get through the world, let me, in all frankness and seriousness, say that If all congregations were like some I have seen, you would have to join something to get along in the world; for some congregations make no effort whatever to keep up with their members, nor any effort to make it easy for newcomers to find them. Is it not true that our neglect sometimes forces people-gives them a good pretext, to say the least-to do that which is questionable? We want to make the church here the most-casy-to-be-found congregation in the city, if we can; hence, full directions of our location and how to reach it will be run at the head of this page for a while, to say the least. Let me ask every mother and father, relative or friend, who knows of disciples who have moved to this city, to write me the full name and address, and we will look him or her up. Our local papers are not the best in the world through which to make such known, but we hope to do some advertising in the local papers. Many thanks to the number who have already written to me and given me names to visit.

SELECTIONS BY THE EDITOR

Worship is the conscious self-prostration of a reasonable creature before the illimitable greatness of its God.—H. P. Liddon.

By his fire God can kindle the smallest lamps to his glory, making them like the golden candlesticks that burn before his throne.—Jeremy Taylor.

As no moment passes without our experiencing the goodness and mercy of God, it is but just that we should not let a moment pass without thinking of God.—St. Augustine.

If anything can give a calm mind, disperse our scruples and fears, soften our cares, invigorate our actions, and fill our very words and looks with the joy of the Holy Spirit, it is simple, childlike trust in God. In the sight of God all will be plain, but in our own darkness we can see nothing.

Peter wanted to walk like Christ that he might get near Christ. He did not say, "Lord, let me walk around the sea here," but, "Let me come to thee," When Peter was in the boat, what had he between him and the sea? A couple of planks. But when he stepped out upon the water, what had he between him and the sea? Not a plank, but the word of the Almighty Jesus.—Andrew Murray.

Conducted for a half century by D. Lipscomb and E. G. Sewell.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

$2.59 a year, in advance; to Canada and foreign countries, $3.90, in

$2.59 a year, in advance; to Canada and foreign countries, $3.90, in advance.

Remiltances will be at our risk when sent by express or post-office money order in registered letter, or by draft payable to our order.

The date on your tab shows the time to which your subscription is paid. When money is received, the date will be changed, which will answer for a receipt. Two weeks time must ordinarily occur from the time your remittance is sent before the tab on your paper is changed. If not changed by that time, notify us at once.

This paper is mailed regularly to all subscribers until definite orders in writing are received and all arrearages paid in full. If you wish us to stop your paper, write us to that effect; but do not ask it unless you have paid all arrears. If there are any. Do not ask your postmaster to attend to it for you, but do it yourself.

When changing your post-office address, tell us your old as well as your new address; otherwise two papers might be charged to you. Subscribers, after paying for their papers, will favor us by noting whether the date on the address label is changed, and, if it is not changes within a month, by writing to us. We are careful, but mistakes may occur or letters may be lost. Our rule is to change the date on the day payment is received; but the mechanical work of correcting and printing the list takes time, and payments even from near-by places may not appear the first week. Credits for payments from a distance may be even more delayed. Mistakes are easily rectified if prompt notice is given.

All communications should be addressed to Gospel Advecate, 217-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

Guarantee of Advertising.

All the advertisements in this paper are, we believe, signed by trustworthy persons. To prove our faith by works, we will make good to actual subscribers any loss sustained in trusting advertisers who prove to be deliberate swindiers. We shall not attempt to adjust trifling disputes between subscribers and honorable business men who advertise, nor pay the debts of honest bankrupts. To make this guarantee effective, in all cases say in writing advertisers. "I saw your advertisement in the Gospel Advocate;" and if anything goes wrong, notify us immediately in writing.

JACOBS & CO., ADVERTISING MANAGERS, Clinton, S. C.

Entered at post office at Nashville, Tenn., as second-class matter.
Published weekly at Nashville, Tenn.

The Macedonian Call.

BY J. C. M'Q.

The Holy Spirit clearly commands: "Bear ye one another's burdens, and so fulfill the law of Christ," Christ himself said: "It is more blessed to give than to receive." The apostles gave their talents, means, and time to the advancement of the religion of Jesus Christ. It appears that no sacrifice which the Lord demanded was too great for them to make. The Holy Spirit guided and directed them in their work. When they were brought before magistrates and rulers, they were commanded to take no thought what they should speak, for it should be given them in the self same hour. We learn that the Holy Spirit. kept close supervision over them in leading them into the fields where they were to preach the gospel of Christ. Paul and his companions went through the region of Phrygia and Galatia, having been forbidden of the Holy Spirit to speak the word in Asla. When they were come over against Mysia, they attempted to go into Bithynia; and the Spirit of Jesus suffered them not; and passing by Mysia, they came down to Troas. Here "a vision appeared to Paul in the night: There was a man of Macedonia standing, beseeching him, and saying, Come over into Macedonia, and help us." While, doubtless, from the human viewpoint, prospects of doing good and preaching the gospel in Macedonia were not very bright, yet, when Paul saw the vision, he immediately made his arrangements to go into Macedonia, concluding that God was with him to preach the gospel in Macedonia. Leaving Troas, favorable winds carried their vessels with more than ordinary speed until they reached Philippi, which is a city of Macedonia, the first of the district. On the Sabbath, Paul and his companions went out to the riverside, where they supposed was a place of prayer. They sat down and spake unto the women that were assembled. This is the first preaching that was done in Europe, and here we have the first converts to Christ on European soil. While Paul went in obedience to the Holy Spirit and showed a readiness and willingness to do just what God commanded, which all Christians should do, yet be could not foresee, when he was led by the Spirit to Philippi, that there he would establish a church that would be so useful to him in his future work. We learn, however, that he says of this same Phillippian church; "And ye yourselves also know, ye Phillippians, that in the beginning of the gospel, when I departed from Macedonia, no church had fellowship with me in the matter of giving and receiving but ye only; for even in Thessalonica ye sent once and again unto my need. Not that I seek for the gift; but I seek for the fruit that increaseth to your account." (Phil. 4: 15-17.) While in the beginning Paul helped the Philippians, in later years, in turn, these Philippians ministered unto the necessities of Paul. As it was then, so should it be now. Churches of Christ that are strong should help the weak; they should go into destitute fields and preach the gospel, establishing new congregations.

A number of years ago some churches in Tennessee helped the church at Denver, Col. This church is now endeavoring to build up new congregations in destitute fields. While they are not strong financially, they expect to strengthen themselves so that they may do more and more in the great work of advancing the cause of Jesus Christ. This is as it should be. Increased strength and power come with active work. E. E. Shoulders, a man and a preacher above reproach, has been in Denver for some years. The brethren in Denver are undertaking to help finance him while he devotes his time as a coworker with E. C. Fuqua in the destitute fields of Colorado. John D. Evans, after stating a number of important things that had been done, says of this work: "In fact, we are getting a work started now that means more for Colorado than ever before. Brother Fugua has always been handicapped by having to work alone. He has many discouragements financially, being compelled to labor with a natural defect and to support a sick wife. His wife is in a much better condition. The congregation here has undertaken to help keep Brother Shoulders in the field with him. This makes a splendid team. Fuqua knows the field and can preach effectively; Brother Shoulders, with him as a leader, can fill the part lacking in singing and personal work. They are now in their second meeting, and Fuqua seems to have taken a new lease on life with Brother Shoulders as a coworker. I believe they can do ten times as much good as either could do separately. We want to get an arrange-ment to keep them busy." The suggestions of Brother Evans are good and should be developed. Brother Shoulders is already in Colorado, and should be actively engaged in the work. Responsibility and work bring out the best that is in a man. It has been suggested that if four congregations will contribute twenty-five dollars each per month, Brother Shoulders can be permanently kept in the work with Brother Fuqua. I believe that with Brother Evans, Brother Fuqua, and Brother Shoulders actively looking after the work in Colorado, great good can be accomplished, and that four congreations, each giving twenty-five dollars per month, can do a most splendid work. I am sure there are congregations that will only strengthen and help themselves by having fellowship in just such work. Churches cannot fill their mission in the world while making no effort to sow the seed of the kingdom broadcast. There are a number of churches in this State and in other States that should write to John D. Evans, 12 Broadway, Denver, Col., each stating that it will become responsible for twenty-five dollars per month to support Brother Shoulders in the work while he labors as a coworker with Brother Fuqua. The Lord does not make any distinction between foreign and home mission work. Colorado is a great mission field, and the work must be done by churches outside of the State, provided as much work is done as should be done.

Another thing which I wish to call attention to in connection with this work is the fact that the churches at Fort Collins and Bellvue have bought a large press in order to be able to print circulars and tracts teaching the religion of Jesus Christ. This press was bought at about half price, and I understand that the churches at Fort Collins and Bellvue are financing the deal. Brother Fuqua lives at Fort Collins, was responsible for the establishment of this church and also the church at Bellvue. Of course, if any one wishes to make a voluntary contribution to this work, it will be gladly received. The Adventists, Russellites, and Mormons have been very successful in propagating their peculiar views by the use of the printing press. They print tracts, folders, etc., and scatter them among the people. This means of disseminating the truth should be improved and not neglected. Christians may do great good by the circulation of tracts and folders. The brethren who have undertaken this work have no thought of publishing a paper. This work appeals to me, and I should be glad to see churches take hold of it vigorously and develop it.

When four churches have reported to Brother Evans, each stating that it will give twenty-five dollars per month for this work, the fact will be published in the Gospel Advocate so that others will not contribute to the same work. We should be glad to see churches all over the country looking out for just such opportunities to do good and build churches in new fields. Churches should give regularly, systematically, and with a deliberate purpose to honor and glorify God. God loves a cheerful giver. He will not excuse the churches if they sit idly by and suffer souls to perish without any effort to carry the gospel of Jesus Christ to them.

Let Something Good Be Said.

There is need.

The following letter and beautiful poem, which accompanied it, are as refreshing as the gentle dewdrops to the drooping flowers and the soft showers to the dry and thirsty ground. They are encouraging, highly appreciated, manifest a kind and good spirit, and are worthy of emulation.

Macon, Ga., October 3, 1920.—Dear Brother Elam: Having examined the lessons in the Advanced Gospel Quarterly for the incoming quarter, I consider your treatment of them masterly. I simply wanted to tell you so—that's all. Fraternally, R. P. Cuff.

GIVE THEM THE FLOWERS NOW.

Closed eyes can't see the white roses;
Cold hands can't hold them, you know;
Breath that is still cannot gather
The odors that sweet from them blow.
Death, with a peace beyond dreaming,
Its children of earth doth endow;
Life is the time we can help them,
So give them the flowers now!

Here are the struggles and striving,
Here are the cares and the tears;
Now is the time to be smoothing
The frowns and the furrows and fears.
What to closed eyes are kind sayings?
What to hushed heart is deep yow?
Naught can avail after parting,
So give them the flowers now!

Just a kind word or a greeting,
Just a warm grasp or a smile—
These are the flowers that will lighten
The burdens for many a mile.
After the journey is over,
What is the use of them? How Can they carry them who must be carried?
O, give them the flowers now!

Blooms from the happy heart's garden, Plucked in the spirit of love; Blooms that are earthly reflections Of flowers that blossom above. Words cannot tell what a measure Of blessing such gifts will allow To dwell in the lives of many, So give them the flowers now!

(Leigh M. Hodges.)

Truly on this side the grave is the time to scatter flowers.

A soft answer turneth away wrath;
But a grievous word stirreth up anger.
The tongue of the wise uttereth knowledge aright;
But the mouth of fools poureth out folly.
The eyes of Jehovah are in every place,
Keeping watch upon the evil and the good.
A gentle tongue is a tree of life;
But perverseness therein is a breaking of the spirit.

The lips of the wise disperse knowledge; But the heart of the foolish doeth not so.

A wrathful man stirreth up contention; But he that is slow to anger appeaseth strife.

A man hath joy in the answer of his mouth; And a word in due season, how good is it?

Evil devices are an abomination to Jehovah; But pleasant words are pure. (See Prov. 15.)

The mouth of the righteous talketh of wisdom, And his tongue speaketh justice. The law of his God is in his heart; None of his steps shall slide. (Ps. 37: 30, 31.)

Selections.

Ceasing from labor, as labor, is not the point of Sunday observance; it is ceasing from the labor of the world to labor for God, to do his work, which is the highest labor, and the hardest labor; giving God a tithe of the week, the first fruits of our time, as a mark of the respect and allegiance which we owe to him.—W. C. E. Newbolt.

How little does even the church, much less the crowd of self-centered Christians and the world, know of the travall and joy of the missionary! The real romance of missions is not yet written, and never will be, because God's greatest works are like the diamond and the dew—perfected in the secret places of the Most High—and await the great day to reveal them.—Nicholas Ridley.

Contemplate the love of Christ, and you will love. Stand before that mirror, reflect Christ's character, and you will be changed into the same image from tenderness to tenderness. There is no other way. You can only look at the lovely object, and fall in love with it and grow into likeness to it. And so look at this perfect Character, this perfect Life. Look at the great Sacrifice, as he laid down himself, all through life, and upon the cross of Calvary, and you must love him; and, loving him, you must become like him.—Henry Drummond.

Current Thought

The Individual Precious.

The Infinite value of the Individual is one of the fundamental principles in the teaching of our Lord. It is difficult for us now to realize how truly revolutionary in human thought is the attitude of Christianity on this question. Everywhere in the gospel is taught explicitly and implicitly the truth that the individual soul possesses a value above all price or estimation. The Jews were familiar with the thought of a divine love directed toward the chosen race. Christianity fulfills this conception, and brings it to completion by revealing the love of God for every human soul individually.

Then our Lord teaches us to look within and discern for

Then our Lord teaches us to look within and discern for ourselves the preciousness of our own souls. In disclosing to men the awful Issues of life and death, Christ also discloses the Infinite value of human personality. The value of the individual is one of the corner stones of Christian teaching.

But alongside of this must be placed that other truth—the doctrine of human brotherhood. Consider it as taught in the parable of the good Samaritan. This parable reveals the fact that we have moral responsibilities in relation to others; and with the coming of Christianity the range of moral rights and moral duties are extended so as to include all. As disciples of the Christ, however, and sons of God, we know, both from experience and from the Scriptures, that right and duty compel us to stop short of nothing but the spiritual welfare of our fellow man. God himself is the only satisfying portion of the human soul; and to attempt to fill it or to satisfy it with anything else is like attempting "To fill the ocean with a drop,

To marry Immortality to Death;
And with the unsubstantial shades of time
To fill the embrace of all eternity."

The call of the present is to win one—many ones—for Christ and to Christ; let there be intelligent, definite action on the part of each and every member in our churches. Let us work and pray that men may turn from their dumb icols to serve the living God. Let every true-hearted man and woman gird themselves for this work, put on the whole armor of God, and enter the contest as if the salvation of the world depended upon their personal success.—Bible Advocate.

The church is made up of individuals. If the sparrow is precious in the sight of the Lord and the hairs of our heads are numbered, certainly every individual Christian is precious in the sight of the Lord. If every individual in the church of Christ fully appreciated his duty and fully appreciated the blessings he enjoys and the promises that are his, how great would be his influence in the church, and what a mighty power would the church of Christ be! We are saved as individuals, we are lost as individuals, and we are responsible to God as individuals. As every man must do his own work individually and as no other can do it for him, how important is it that each individual realize his responsibility in the great work of saving souls! I would to God that I could arouse each individual to do his whole duty in the great work of winning souls to Christ. How blessed will it be, and how indescribably sweet, when one comes to lay his armor down, to realize that he has done his best and to have the Lord say to him, "Well done!" * * *

A False Prophecy.

The people generally prefer the prophet who prophesies "smooth things." We are prone to believe that which we hope is true. Following the war there were many prophets who vehemently affirmed that the world was entering upon the haloyon days and that the millennium was upon us. Indeed, it was loudly proclaimed that the war had knitted us into a great and blessed brotherhood and that the world had been reconciled to God through the blood of the battle field. According to these pleasing prophets, all differences between God and man, and man and man, had been settled at the soldier's grave.

During the war a distinguished dignitary of the Church of England made the following statement from his pulpit: "The man who died for England believing that his country's cause was the cause of God and who might have gone over the parapet with an oath on his lips, might still be received by Christ with the words, 'Well done, thou good and faithful servant." Of course such words were not only foolish, but exceedingly sinful. At all events, his words fell on fertile ground and brought forth a harvest of dragons.

The prophecies of these predatory propagandists have served not only to lower the moral tone, but to take the fear of God from the hearts of the unregenerate. As a further result, the great doctrines of the Bible have been discounted or despised and the ancient landmarks removed.

The thoughtful and observant clearly realize that the world has emerged from the cruel conflict with a great decrease in material wealth and a far greater decrease in spirituality and right living. The world was never so wicked as it is to-day. The wave of worldliness that is sweeping over the earth threatens the very existence of the churches. Peace seems far away, and deceit, adultery, and death hold high carnival among the children of men. If we are not in the "perilous times," God save us from the perils of such times!

Whether our prophecies please or displease, let us speak the truth in love and leave the results with Him to whom they properly belong. The false prophet is, by no means, a new character in the spiritual realm. All of which reminds us that some of Christ's worst enemies are those of his professed household. Cry aloud and spare naught, that we may be found faithful watchmen in that day for which all days were made.—Western Recorder.

The above from the Western Recorder is to the point and worthy of our most serious consideration. Some were so foolish during the war as to preach and teach that men who died in the war would be saved because they shed their blood for the country. Such teaching brought forth a great harvest of evil and evildoers. Those who accepted it came to have little respect for God and for his word; they built their hopes of better things, not upon the Bible, but upon the opinions and theories of men. Thoughtful people and people who have knowledge of the word of God know and understand very well that there is no way to heaven except the way laid down in the Bible. Christ says: "I am the way, the truth, and the life." Only those who accept Christ, believing in him with all their hearts, and who obey the commands of Christ, will ever enter through the gates into the city of our God. Some went so far as to preach that people would lose their selfishness, that the Golden Rule would prevail, and that the millennium would dawn; but, instead of this, it seems that there is more selfishness, worldliness, and wickedness than before the war. Now is the time to preach the truth against war and to encourage Christians to lead a peaceable and godly life. 章 章 章

With Him Is No Variableness.

We often conceive of God as acting at one instant out of his pure mercy, as if his justice had for a time been put in a dark closet or gone off on a vacation, and his mercy was the only attribute that had remained at home and was doing his work. Then, after mercy has worked until it is tired, we think of him as putting that to sleep and letting everything for a time be managed at the arbitrament of unassisted justice. I venture to say that there is not among us the conception that, when God acts, he acts in the entireness of his being always, as he always does, and always will; that his justice and his mercy, for example, have no existence apart from each other; that he never surrenders himself to a single impulse, has no pet attribute, but that all of him is in everything that he does,—C. H. Parkhurst.

Query Department

By J. C. McQUIDDY

G. W. Thompson, of Town Creek, Ala., says: "There has been a woman preacher in our midst claiming God had called her to preach. When her attention was called to 1 Cor. 14: 34 and 1 Tlm. 2: 11, she tried to obscure the meaning of the passage by saying there was so much fornication in the Corinthian church that Paul did not want the good women to be present. She and a preacher claim that the last chapter of Romans proves that a woman has a right to teach and preach. I do not understand how any one can, in the face of such plain scriptures, make such claims. The querist then says: "Do you know of any scripture that justifies a woman publicly preaching?"

There is no scripture that authorizes a woman to be a public proclaimer of the gospel of Jesus Christ. The very constitution of woman, the strength and volume of her voice, all disqualify her for the hardships that should be endured by every faithful preacher of the gospel. Every preacher should endure hardness as a good soldier. It is a fact that among the twelve apostles there was not one woman. Jesus never selected, appointed, or sent out one woman to be a public proclaimer of the gospel. While women are under obligation to teach the word of God privately—teach it from house to house, teach it to their children, and teach it everywhere in a private way—the Bible forbids woman's being a public proclaimer and forbids her usurping authority over man.

0 0 0

Sister Gusta Atkins, of Iuka, Miss., asks an explanation through the Gospel Advocate of Luke 12: 49-54, which reads: "I came to cast fire upon the earth; and what do I desire, if it is already kindled? But I have a baptism to be baptized with; and how am I straitened till it be accomplished! Think ye that I am come to give peace in the earth? I tell you, Nay; but rather division: for there shall be from henceforth five in one house divided, three against two, and two against three. They shall be divided, father against son, and son against father; mother against daughter, and daughter against ber mother; mother-in-law against her daughter-in-law, and daughter-in-law against her mother-in-law." The meaning of this passage is: The Savior came to make a conflict between right and wrong, virtue and vice. The man who does right will suffer persecution. Jesus tells us that he came to bring a sword and not peace. If men have convictions and love the truth, they are required to stand up for these convictions even though it makes a division in the same household, Sometimes the father will be for the truth while the son embraces error, the mother will be for righteousness while the daughter contends for unrighteousness. Thus there will be contention and strife and persecution in the same household. No man can live godly in Christ Jesus without suffering persecution. Christians will have tribulations in this life.

Sister Atkins also inquires to know if one who believes sprinkling is Christian baptism and believes in having instrumental music in the worship will be punished for being sprinkled and for using instrumental music in the worship. If a man believes a thing is right, that does not make it right. However, every one must follow his own conscience and do that which he believes is right, since no one can be insincerely right, while a person may be sincerely wrong. In this land of Bibles people are responsible for their faith. If a man will take the word of God, be guided by it and do what it says, he will not go wrong. The difficulty to-day is that people are biased and full of prejudice and preconceived ideas. Having these views in their hearts, they read the Bible and endeavor to make it conform to their ideas instead of shaping their faith by what the Bible says. The text, "If the blind lead the blind, they will both fall into the ditch," can certainly be applied in this case. When people come to be baptized, they should do just as they did in the days of the New Testament. If they will come unto the water, where there is much water, go down into the water, come straightway up out of the water, and be buried in baptism, they will hardly have water poured or sprinkled upon them, as the two young girls of which the querist tells us when she says: "A certain preacher had two young girls confess, and when he came to haptize them he simply poured a little water on their heads." The Scriptures indicate nothing of the kind. The thing for every one to do is to seek to know the will of God and, knowing It, to walk in the light of truth so long as life lasts. 0 0 0

William Bradford, of Madison, Tenn., says: "I notice that a great many preachers and elders, when praying in church, do not ask that their sins be forgiven. Christ, in teaching his disciples how to pray (Matt. 6: 12), instructed them to pray for forgiveness. I note, also, that a few of them do not close their prayers with the words, 'Not as I will, but as thou wilt.' (Matt. 26: 39.) This is the way Christ prayed on the night of his betrayal. It appears to me that prayer is not worth much unless offered in a humble manner, with a deep feeling of one's unworthiness. Most public prayers are too long and too much in a general way."

Certainly people should pray for the forgiveness of their sins; and as most of us, if not all, sin daily, certainly it is proper to pray for the forgiveness of our sins. But as we pray for the forgiveness of our sins, we must forgive those who have trespassed against us; for we are given to understand by Christ that if we do not forgive, neither will he forgive us. If we do not come in the spirit, "Not as I will, but as thou wilt," our prayers will be simply bollow mockery and will never reach the throne of God. No man can pray until he is willing to humbly submit to God's will, knowing that God always does that which is best. Our brother is right in saying that there should be a directness in prayer and not so many generalities. Every prayer that is recorded in the New Testament could be offered in a very little while, and yet we find people to-day who pray as if they were to be heard for their much speaking. In deep contrition and humility of spirit we should pray to God in a direct manner for the things that we need, and thank him for the blessings that he has daily bestowed upon us. * * *

Sister Bob Fuller, of Dyersburg, Tenn., inquires to know if the Wise-men spoken of in the second chapter of Matthew are the same as the shepherds spoken of in the second chapter of Luke. The Wise-men and the shepherds are certainly different persons. The word rendered "Wisemen" is more correctly rendered "Magi," a word designating an order of priests or philosophers which belonged originally to Persia and Media and who extensively inhabited the valley of the Euphrates. Those described in the book of Daniel as wise men, magicians, and astrologers belonged to this order. It is only conjecture as to where the Magi came from, but it is generally thought that they came from the valley of the Euphrates. The shepherds were men who simply tended their flocks, as did David care for his father's sheep. There is no reason for thinking that the shepherds and the Magi are the same.

Q AT HOME AND ABROAD Q

- L. S. Lancaster is in a good meeting at Union City, Tenn.
- E. C. Fuqua is in a meeting at Colorado Springs, Col. E. E. Shoulders is assisting him,
- A. B. Lipscomb reports one baptism at Russell Street Church, this city, on last Sunday evening.

Ed Taylor, of Elk City, Okla., reports thirty baptisms and five restorations during J. W. Dunn's meeting in his

- C. M. Pullias is assisting F. W. Smith in a meeting at Franklin, Tenn. Interest is good, and thirty-four have been added to the church up to the present time.
- J. T. Harris has just closed a good meeting at Charlotte, Dickson County, Tenn., with five baptisms and one restoration. J. D. Derryberry led the song service.
- R. L. Whiteside is engaged in a meeting at Riverside, Tenn. One baptism to date, with good interest. He expects to begin a meeting at Millport, Ala., beginning on October 24.
- T. Q. Martin will begin a meeting with the Russell Street church of Christ next Lord's day. Knowing the preacher, the church is anticipating some most excellent preaching and good results.

Married, at the home of the bride, on Berry Street, Northeast Nashville, on October 14, Albert Perry to Mille Brown, J. C. McQuiddy officiating. Both are splendid Christians. We offer congratulations.

- G. W. Riggs has just closed a meeting at Campbell Street Church, Louisville, Ky. The interest was good throughout the meeting. Four were baptized and one took membership. Brother Riggs reports that he enjoyed the meeting very much.
- C. R. Nichol, of Clifton, Texas, recently closed a successful meeting at Winfield, Ala. He is now in a meeting in Hamilton, Ala. with eight added and the meeting continuing. He will begin a meeting at Hartsville, Tenn., next Sunday.
- W. J. Johnson reports seventy-seven dollars and two cents received for the building at Amite, La., since last report. He says: "Many thanks for this help. Let us have the thousand dollars by November 1, that we may centinue work."

From R. A. Craig, Louisville, Ky., October 18: "I was at Parksville last Sunday and spoke to large audiences both morning and evening. We are looking for a good man to take the work there and at Elkhorn. If interested, write me at 1740 Chichester Avenue, this city."

R. V. Cawther in

R. V. Cawthon is engaged in a splendid meeting at Smithville, Tenn. He is preaching to large and interested audiences. Up to and including last Friday night, there had been eighteen baptisms and six restorations. The meeting is expected to continue throughout this week,

The Twelfth Avenue meeting, in Nashville, has been attended with fine results. S. M. Jones, of Beamsville, Ontario, Canada, has been preaching some strong, forcible sermons. At last report thirty-five persons had been baptized and one had come from the denominations.

J. W. Grant reports that the meeting at Bethlehem, Cumberland County, Tenn., closed on Monday morning at the water's edge with twelve having come forward during the meeting. Interest and attendance increased from the beginning to the end. We hope that much good was done.

The meeting at Reid Avenue, this city, which was announced to begin last Lord's day, has been postponed for one week. The interest was so good in the meeting at Twelfth Avenue, North, that Brother Jones thought it better to continue another week there before going to Reid Avenue.

C. E. Holt, of Florence, Ala., commends my recent articles replying to D. Austen Sommer on the Bible-school question. He advises that the articles on "Faith," "Repentance," and "Baptism" be published in tract form. This is one of many commendations received upon the work in question

Sister I. C. Hoskins, of Martin, Tenn., wishes to express through the Gospel Advocate her deep appreciation of the many sympathetic and encouraging messages that are being received on account of her bereavement. She is also grateful for the fellowship shown during Brother Hoskins' last illness.

G. C. Brewer came to see us last Saturday. He had just closed an interesting meeting at Portland, Tenn., which resulted in sixteen additions. Thirteen were baptized, two came from the denominations, and one was restored. His next meeting was announced to begin at Tracy City, Tenn., on last Lord's day.

From Charles Taylor, Huntingdon, Tenn., October 15: "On September 30 I closed a meeting at Wysox, Ky., which resulted in six baptisms. My next meeting was at Patterson, Tenn., with no visible results. I am now at Huntingdon, with a splendid beginning. There are some splendid brethren at this place."

E. G. Sewell, who labored so long, so faithfully, and so acceptably on the Gospel Advocate, will pass the ninetieth milestone next Monday. This is a ripe old age. He must have been an obedient son, and, hence, is enjoying the fulfillment of the promise of long days on the earth. We all believe that he is ready for his summons home.

From R. H. Johnson, Morrillton, Ark., October 14: "Since last report I have held meetings at Baldwin, Ark., and Grand Hill, near Gumlog, with two added at each place. I was at Haskell last Lord's day. I shall begin a meeting at DeQueen on October 29. I can hold some more meetings this year and am ready to arrange my work for 1921."

The "Lindsley Avenue congregation" is the name now worn by the old South College Street congregation. A large audience attended the initial service in the new building on last Sunday. F. W. Smith, of Franklin, Tenn., preached an uplifting discourse. We congratulate these brethren upon the acquisition of their very commodious and convenient building.

We were pleased to have C. R. Nichol, of Clifton, Texas, among our visitors last Saturday. He had just closed a very interesting meeting at Hamilton, Ala., with seventeen baptisms. The meeting continued ten days. He began a meeting last Lord's day at Harisville, Tenn. The congregation at Hamilton is small, and we are very much rejoiced that a goodly number were added to the church.

We have the following report from W. M. Oakley; "Our neeting at Pond Creek, Ashland City, Route 4, beginning on October 3, closed on Monday night, October 11. There were three restorations and the church was greatly edified. This closed my eighth meeting since June 1, fifty-six having been added to the church. If I am needed for another meeting, address me at 326 Grace Avenue, Nashville, Tenn."

From R. A. Craig, 1740 Chichester Avenue, Louisville, Ky.: "I would like to hear from some loyal Christian preacher who would be interested in coming to Kentucky. I have been doing evangelistic work through the summer and have arranged for the support of a good man. If you are strictly loyal and can preach the gospel with courage, let me hear from you at once. Kindly inclose stamp for reply."

From M. C. Kurfees, Louisville, Ky., October 15: "Our protracted meeting, with preaching by G. W. Riggs, of Los Angeles, Cal., closed on Sunday night, October 10. Brother Riggs did an excellent work, and the Campbell Street Church esteems him most highly for his faithful teaching and his unswerving loyalty to the word of God. Our prayers certainly go with him. There were six additions to the congregation."

From A. J. Traylor: "T. C. Little and I held a very good meeting at Beech Grove, Tenn., recently, resulting in one baptism and much interest manifested. I am glad to say I was able to place the Gospel Advocate in several homes while there in the meeting, and am also glad that I have been able to get several more subscriptions this week. I preached to a large audience last Sunday at Center Chapel, near Mount Juliet, Tenn., and succeeded in getting one subscription while there."

From Will W. Slater, Fort Smith, Ark., October 12: "T was with the home church last Sunday. Two good services. Three additions at the morning service. This leaves me in a mission meeting at Talihina, Okla. B. B. Slayton, of Tipton, Okla., is leading the singing, and he is doing it well. We have a few sisters here. The meeting is being held in the Presbyterian church house. Very good attendance to begin with. Pray for us. I go from here to Harveyville, Kan., for a meeting."

E. W. Sewall changes his address from Dinuha, Cal., to 776 Forty-eighth Avenue, San Francisco, Cal. On account of lack of support, Brother Sewall has given up preaching regularly and is now running as Pullman conductor out of San Francisco. While he labored with the Dinuba congregation there were twenty-three additions. The laborers are certainly few. We should have more evangelists in the field and more men giving their time and talents to spreading the gospel of Jesus Christ.

From W. R. Willcutt, Bear Creek, Ala., October 15: "C. R. Nichol has just closed one of the finest meetings that has ever been held in the town of Hamilton. I was some distance away in a meeting, but as soon as I got home I attended his meeting until it closed. People attended who had never been to one of our meetings before. Eighteen sculs were added to the church. We all hope to have Brother Nichol with us again next fall. We believe him to be one of the strongest men that has ever preached in Hamilton."

From N. W. Proffitt, Temple Hill, Ky., October 14: "I am now in my seventh meeting since I left home—Paris, Texas—on July 28. This meeting is in fine progress. Good crowds and the best of attention. I hope and pray that much good will be the result. I closed a good meeting at Mount Gilead on last Sunday night. Three were baptized and one was restored to fellowship. I will go from here to Shady Grove, Ky., next Monday for a week's meeting. After that I will wend my way back to Texas, stopping over, perhaps, in Hohenwald, Tenn., on the fifth Sunday in October, for a two or three days' meeting."

From L. S. White, Sherman, Texas, October 13: "On Monday night, October 4, I began preaching at the Armstrong Avenue Church, in Denison, and continued till the following Sunday night. Fine audiences at every service. Eight persons were added to the congregation. Three were baptized and five took membership. Thomas E, Milholland has been preaching for this church several years. He and the church are both doing a great work. The church recently built a large and comfortable house for both preaching and class work. Brother Milholland will preach a week in Sherman, beginning next Sunday."

From J. W. Ballard, Dyersburg, Tenn., October 15: "I have just closed a good meeting for the church at Friendship, Tenn. There were twenty-three confessions and baptisms and three returned to their 'first love.' I love dearly those members of the body over there. They are indeed Christians, and my stay among them will not soon be forgotten. I hope to labor with them again. They supported me well. I am now in a meeting in Dyer County, eight miles south and west of Friendship, with a splendid hearing and two confessions to date. I am to go next up into North Alabama for two meetings near Oakman, after which I am to return home."

W. S. Long preached at Cornersville, Tenn., Sunday morning, October 10, and at Diana on Sunday afternoon. There were three baptisms and two restorations. The Cornersville and Diana congregations are zealous and are planning to put some good preacher in the mission field. Brother Long says he will be glad to see some good congregation send a man to help in Washington. He states that there are thousands of lost souls in that territory and only one loyal congregation in one hundred miles of Washington. Brother Long left on Friday, October 15, for a trip to Texas. While there he will preach at Wichita Falls, Fort Worth, Sherman, and Dallas.

From Vernon Rozar, Cleveland, Tenn., October 15: "I have just closed an eleven-nights' meeting at Black Fox, near Cleveland. This is a mission point, with a few scattered members. Our crowds were good, and we believe from the evidence given that much and lasting good has been done. Several of the denominational friends expressed themselves as through with false doctrines. The craan side has also been weakened. Before going to Black Fox I preached four discourses at Antioch, in Polk County, and twice at Conasauga, in the same county. At the lastnamed place there is so much whisky and false doctrine that it is hard to get a hearing. I go to-morrow to Blount County for a meeting to continue a week or ten days. Brethren, the harvest is great, but where are the workers? Let us keep busy."

From J. E. Wainwright, Texarkana, Ark., October 16: "I have been laboring with the College Hill congregation over one year. The time has not been spent in vain and has been pleasant. About one hundred have been added to the forces during the period and much good done otherwise. My work with them has ended and from November 1 my time will be given to the new congregation, which will have a central location. The large Knights of Pythias hall, only two blocks from the Union Station on State Street, will be used while plans for building a nice, commodious, and comfortable house in the heart of the city are being worked out. The building will not be foolishly expensive. This movement offers a greater opportunity to spread the gospel and a splendid location for the traveling brethren. Visit us."

From Carl A. Gardner, Bardwell, Texas: "I have begun my third year as superintendent of the Bardwell public schools, and the work is more pleasant than ever. We have a good congregation here, and the work continues to move steadily and surely along under the preaching of J. S. Dunn. J. W. Dunn held one of the best meetings the past summer the congregation has had. Each Sunday finds me at some congregation near my home, and it is a great pleasure to assist those who are in need of the work. Every Christian teacher can do much by visiting the struggling congregations within reach and assisting them in the good work. There is a great field around my home community for this kind of work, and I am kept busy all the time. Let us try to keep alive the smaller congregations; and if individuals and congregations will do their duty, the highways and byways will be rich unto good works."

From R. L. Colley, Camden, Ark., October 16: "Our meeting at Maul's Schoolhouse, two and one-half miles west of Camden, beginning on October 2 and closing on October 10, was a great success. Nine persons were buried with their Lord in baptism and two were reclaimed. The interest was the best throughout the week. This was their first opportunity to hear the gospel for a whole week, and they gladly heard it and obeyed. These people are plain, hard-working citizens, lovers of simplicity. A congregation was started, and they will keep house regularly for the Lord. Best of all, plans are on foot to build a house. My home was with J. N. Hudiburgh. He will be their leader. His daughter, Miss Mabel Hudiburgh, was a live worker at all times, and much credit is due her for the good success at this new place in the Lord's vineyard. She teaches in the public schools and lets her light shine at all times. Hugh Hogg, of Stephens, conducted the song service and rendered much help otherwise. The brethren throughout the county supported the work. My work in Ouachita County is great. I take courage and press on."

From W. S. Long, Washington, D. C.: "I believe all faithful Christians are interested, to some degree, in the cause of Christ in their nation's capital. But tell me, why have we had to plead and are still pleading for help? It is because so few are lending assistance. We must have flye thousand dollars as soon as possible to meet our present obligations. Not one church out of every one hundred has given aid, and this is the reason why two long years have passed since we began to raise the means. There are at least four hundred congregations in Tennessee and eight hundred in Texas. The churches in these two States could easily send Washington the means to pay off all her notes and seat the house before November 1, if they would all help one time. Brethren, we must have help without delay. Two years ago some said: 'We will help later.' After two years you still say, 'Later.' That is not business. Now is the time. We are not asking Texas or Tennessee or any other State to do more than what is right and your duty. You are the one, and now is the time. Send all donations to E. L. Mills, treasurer, Box 1650, Washington, D. C., or W. S. Long, Box 1423, Washington, D. C. We look for your check before December 1."

W. M. Wilson, formerly of Homeland. Ga., but now of Old Fort, Tenn., writes: "I am once more in my own element, mentally and spiritually—mentally in that I am caring for the olive branches, and spiritually I am preaching for the church at this place. I came here on July 24, that being Saturday, and commenced teaching on the following Monday; and, with the assistance of three of the 'sweet girl graduates,' we are, boasting excluded, running at high pressure. We have an enrollment of one hundred and forty, ranging from the tiny tots, in their A B C's. up to those in the higher grades, wrestling with algebra and science. We found the church here in need of preaching. However, they were active in Bible study and breaking of bread and prayer. Brother Vernen Rozar, prior to our coming here, had been preaching for the church once a month, and continued to preach up to the fourth Lord's day in last month. Brother Charles Holder was to have begun a series of meetings here on the first Lord's day, but Athens seems to have intercepted him, leaving the church sadly disappointed. Brother Rozar, much to our regret, will not preach for us monthly, but we hope to have him with us as often as he can so perfect his plans. We are expecting great things to be accomplished here in the name of the Lord. Brethren, pray for us."

Home Reading

Redeeming the Time.

We would fill the hours with the sweetest things, If we had but a day;

We should drink alone at the purest springs, In our upward way;

We should love with a lifetime's leve in an hour. If the hours were few;

We should rest not for dreams, but for fresher power, To be and to do.

We should guide our wearied or wayward wills By the clearest light;

We should keep our eyes on the heavenly hills,

If they lie in sight; We should trample the pride and the discontent Beneath our feet;

We should take whatever a good God sent, With a trust complete.

We should waste no moments in weak regret, If the day were but one; If what we remember and what we forget, Went out with the sun; We should be from our clamorous selves set free,

To work and to pray And to be what the Father would have us to be, If we had but a day. -Selected.

0 0 0

The Memory Book.

She was only a little girl, sensitive, warm-hearted, and quick-tempered. She dearly loved the boy cousin who was scarcely a year older than herself and almost like a brother to her, but she grew very wrathful and indignant when he indulged his boyish propensity for teasing. The two homes were close together, the two cousins usually the best of companions-when the teasing mood was not on-and King was a champion and faithful friend. But the girl learned self-control as the children grew older, and the times when she stormed away sore-hearted and angry, feeling that she never wanted to be friends again, grew more rare; for there was not only a loving spirit in the girlish nature, but also a tender conscience with its hatred of wrong.

"I've found a way to be more patient with King, and not get cross so easily," she confided to a friend one evening when they were having a quiet twilight talk. "I have a little book, and I write down in it the nice things he does for me. He does so many-gives me things, helps me in so many ways, takes care of me when we are out together, won't let anything or any one hurt me. He does so many kind things! So when he gets to teasing and I go off and leave him, I look in that book, and pretty soon I can't feel

Was it not a beautiful plan for a girl to think of? Memory is a good deal like a growing vine. You know, if you plant vines under your window and leave them to themselves, they will go straggling and wandering off. They will run along the ground or fasten themselves to weeds. But you can train them to climb where you want them to go, and make your window into a bower of beauty. It is much the same with our thoughts of people. Not any of those around us are all good or all bad; they have their faults and their fine qualities as we have ours. We can fix our thoughts on that which is unattractive-the weakness, the selfish and unlovely traits-or we can notice and admire that which is true, noble, and right. We can let our memory run on the weeds, or we can train it to climb higher.

We may not have a memory book on our desk, like little Nina, but we ought always to keep such a book in our hearts and look at it often; for we all are inclined to have moods when for some little offense or neglect, some disappointment that comes to us through them, we value even those who are dear to us at a lower rate than they deserve. Sometimes, when we fancy the lives of others are much happier than our own, that we have more of hardship and ills than ought to fall to our lot, we forget all the lovingkindness and blessed gifts of the best Friend of all. For him there always should be a memory book in our hearts that will turn its leaves for us whenever we feel like complaining. One look at all the goodness it holds will make us ashamed and fill our hearts with love and thanksgiving.—Queen's Gardens.

A Collie's Heroism.

The name of the little dog is unknown, but he was a young terrier that had run in front of an electric car in Halifax and had become bewildered. The motorman called to him and would have stopped the car had it been possible, but the down-grade made it difficult to come to a sudden halt. Most of the passengers were breathless, realizing the danger of the little dog. A collie that was on the sidewalk grasped the situation and made a bold dash in front of the car. Seizing the terrier firmly by the collar, with one supreme effort he gave a strong pull, and in the nick of time his shaggy little friend was in a place of safety. That the onlookers appreciated the intellience and bravery of the noble collie was apparent by hearty cheering as both dogs trotted down the street.—Dumb Animals.

* * *

A Good Korean Plan.

A Korean came into the study of a missionary one day and said: "I have been memorizing some verses in the Bible and thought I would come and recite them to you." The missionary listened while the convert repeated in Korean, without a verbal error, the entire Sermon on the Mount. Feeling that some practical advise might be helpful, the missionary said: "You have a marvelous memory to be able to repeat this long passage without a mistake. However, if you simply memorize it, it will do you no good, You must practice it." The Korean Christian smiled as he replied: "That's the way I learned it." Somewhat surprised, the missionary asked him what he meant, and he said: "I am only a stupid farmer, and when I tried to memorize it the verses wouldn't stick. So I hii upon this plan. I memorized one verse and then went out and practiced that verse on my neighbors until I had it; then I took the next verse and repeated the process, and the experience has been such a blessed one that I determined to learn the entire Gospel of Matthew that way." And he did it.-Hartman's "Popular Aspects of Oriental Religions."

***** * *

Prayer.

What use do we make of the heavenly privilege of prayer? How many there are who take only five minutes for prayer! They say that they have no time, and that the heart's desire for prayer is lacking; they do not know how to spend half an hour with God! It is not that they absolutely do not pray; they pray every day, but they have no joy in prayer as a token of communion with God which shows that God is everything to them. If a friend comes to visit them, they have time; they make time, even at the cost of sacrifice, for the sake of enjoying converse with him. Yes, they have time for everything that really interests them, but no time to practice fellowship with God, and delight themselves in him.-Andrew Murray.

Hood's Sarsaparilla Makes Food Taste Cood

Creates an appetite, aids digestion, purifies the blood, and thus relieves serofula, catarrh, the pains and aches of rheumatism and gives strength to the whole system.

Nearly 50 years' phenomenal sales tell the story of the great merit and success of Hood's Sarsaparllla, It is just the medicine you need now. Hood's Pills help-fine cathartic.

QUICKLY DISAPPEARS WHEN

etterine

Is Applied. Fragrant and Soothing. 60c at your druggist's or from the SHUP-TRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

GET FEATHER BEDS AND PILLOWS Direct from Factory. Write to-day Send names of four friends and receive our astonshing offer. Hygienic Feather Bedding Co., Dept. 22. Charlotte, N. C.

THE GRACK O' DOOM FOR NASTY CALOMEL

Folks Abandoning Old Drug for "Dodson's Liver Tone," Here in South.

Ughi Calomel makes you sick. It's horrible! Take a dose of the dangerous drug tonight and tomorrow you lose a day.

Calomel is mercury! When it comes into contact with sour bile, it crashes into it, breaking it up. Then is when you feel that awful nausea and cramping. If you are sluggish, if liver is torpid and bowels constipated or you have headache, dizziness, coated tongue, if breath is bad or stomech sour, just try a spoonful of or stomach sour, just try a spoonful of harmless Dodson's Liver Tone tonight. Here's my guarantee—Go to any drug store and get a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone for a few cents. Take a spoonful and if it doesn't straighten you right up and make you feel fine and vigorous, go back to the store and get your money. Dodson's Liver Tone is destroying he sale of calomel because it can not salivate or make you sick.

McShane Bell Foundry Co. BALTIMORE, MD.
CHURCH, CHIME and PEAL
BELLS Memorials
a Specialty

women's aches, Sick and Nervous Headaches, Back aches—relieved quickly by the Reliable Remedy

IT'S LIQUID-QUICK EFFECT.

CHURCH NEWS

Alabama.

Phil Campbell, October 8.-I closed a good meeting of one week's duration a good fleeting of one week's duration with the little band of Christians at this place last night. There were six added by primary obedience to the gospel. One made the confession last night, whom Brother Philip Underwood will baptize this morning. There are but a few brethren and sisters there, but they "keep house" for the Lord and are doing good work for the cause of Christ in that community. This was the second meeting I held for them. I closed a meeting at Spruce Pine on September 27, with seven additions by primary obedience. There is a faithful band worshiping regularly there, and they are begin-ning to be held in notice by the people of the town. They were rejoiced that four were induced to obey the gospel. The audiences were large and attentive at both of these places, and we five at both of these places, and we feel that much good was done by way of getting the truth before those who had never heard "the plea of the disciples." My next meeting will be in Cleveland, Tenn. Brethren, the calls keep coming, and more workers are needed.—I. B. Bradley.

Oklahoma.

Holdenville, October 11.-We enjoyed two good services here yesterday, with splendid crowds both morning and evening. I think I can see an increased interest in Bible study. in the afternoon five of us drove out to Butner, fourteen miles north, where I talked to a splendid and appreciative audience. Quite a number from Wewoka were present.-W. D. Black.

Okfahoma City, October 11.—Interest has never been greater here than it is now. The whole church is stirred to action. Plans are laid and are being worked out in detail for a new church building. We feel that we cannot but succeed, all things being equal. Yesterday we raised nine hundred and twenty dollars for liquidation of the debt on our property. It now being free, we are ready for the next step, which will be taken the first of next month, as Brother C. H. Oklahoma City, October 11.-Interfirst of next month, as Brother C. Wright announced yesterday. T That time is set to raise funds for our new building. Two were added yesterday at the morning service.-J, A. Hudson.

Idabel, October 13.—The meeting out north of Woodward, Okla., closed out north of Woodward, Okia., closed with three baptized and two or three reclaimed. At first the meeting seemed to drag, but in a few days interest increased and we closed with the brethren begging for the meeting to continue longer. This was my fifth meeting with this church. I preached in Wichita, Kan., on the first Sunday night in October. Sunday morning I heard Brother D. T. Broadus preach a fine sermon to the church on "The Nature of Our Service." Brother Moore was out of the city Sunday preaching the word, but was back in Worker office Monday. He is a grand and good man, always busy in the Lord's work. Last Sunday night I preached for the East Side Church, in Wichita, and they seemed to enjoy my talk. We have two good working congregations in Wichita, On Lord's-day morning I preached at Broken Bow. Okla., to a good little band of brethren and sisters. There is a great opening there for a lot of good work. On Monday and Tuesday nights I preached at Idabel. O how badly the truth needs to be proclaimed in this town to both saint and sinner—the church as well as the world! I am to preach at Valliant to-night and tomorrow night .- D. S. Ligon,

You Do More Work,

You are more ambitious and you get more enjoyment out of everything when your blood is in good condition. Impurities in the blood have a very depressing effect on the system, causing weakness, laziness, nervousness and sickness.

GROVE'S TASTELESS Chill TONIC restores Energy and Vitality by Purifying and Enriching the Blood. When you feel its strengthening, invigorating effect, see how it brings color to the cheeks and how it improves the appetite, you will then appreciate its true tonic value.

GROVE'S TASTELESS CHIII TONIC is not a patent medicine, it is simply IRON and QUININE suspended in Syrup. So pleasant even children like it. The blood needs Quinine to Purify it and IRON to Enrich it. These reliable tonic properties never fail to drive out impurities in the blood.

The Strength-Creating Power of GROVE'S TASTELESS Chill TONIC has made it the favorite tonic in thousands of homes. the favorite tonic in thousands of homes. More than thirty-five years ago, folks would ride a long distance to get GROVE'S TASTELESS Chill TONIC when a member of their family had Malaria or needed a body-building, strength-giving tonic. The formula is just the same today, and you can get it from any drug store, 60c per bottle.

CANCERS CURED AT KELLAM HOSPITAL,

1617 West Main Street, Richmond, Va.

It is known beyond a doubt and admitted by most of the leading physicians and sur-geons that cancer cannot be cured with the knife. X-Ray, radium, or acids. Cancers are permanently cured at The Kellam Hos-pital, without the use of either. Physicians and surgeons treated free at the hospital.

To Reduce Fever Relieve Headaches and Neuralgic Pains

Aspitone is very efficient and absolutely safe to use as it does not depress the heart even in extreme cases of debaity or weak heart, neurasthenia or anaemia. Manufactured by a formula in use by leading physicians generally. 19 parts pure Aspirin, I part pure Caffeine, 4 parts excipient, in convenient tablet form. 35c per package at your druggists or by mail from the manufacturers, Resement I shoratories. Inc. Clinton, S. C. Piedmont Laboratories, Inc., Clinton, S. C.

That love sometimes cures disease is a fact that has been called to the attention of the public by a prominent physician. Love is not, however, the cure for all women. Many a woman is nervous and irritable, feels dragged down and worn out for no reason that she can think of.

Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription gives new life and new strength to weak, worn-out, run-down women. "Favorite run-down women, "Favorite Prescription" makes weak women strong and sick women well. It is now sold by all druggists in the United States in tablets as well as liquid form.

Send 10c to Dr. Pierce, Euffalo N.Y., for trial pkg. of the tablets. NASHVILLE, TENN.—"I have used Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and found it to do what it is recommended to do. It did me more good than the doctors. I had several and none of them did me any good. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the only thing for weak, broken-down women. I felt like a new woman after taking it. I weighed 155 lbs. and never felt better in my life."— MRS. AGNES TATUM, 175 L. Green St.

FOOT TROUBLES

No Need of Them, Says Brooklyn Man, Who Has Evidently Solved a Big Problem

According to the testimony of hundreds of people living in the Southland and else-J. R. Simon, of 1589 Broadway, Brooklyn, N. Y., has successfully developed a system of shoe building having for its prime object the conquering of foot and shoe troubles. It appears that Mr. Simon's establishment has become national headquarters for people whose feet require his remarkable comfort shoe, known as the EzWear, but obtainable only of the inventor. Mr. Simon's new catalogue shows ventor. Mr. Simon's new catalogue shows several hundred shoes that combine com-fort with style at amazingly low prices and is now ready for free distribution.

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

"Baptists vs. Campbellites." No. 22.

BY M. S. MASON.

Mr. Bandy, on page 36, quotes Acts 2: 42 and 1 Cor. 11: 2, 23 to prove that the communion is to be kept by the church. Of course that is correct, but it is at the same time in the kingdom, (Luke 22: 29, 30.) What we object to in Mr. Bandy's arrangement is that he excludes people from the communion table who he says are in the kingdom. But he goes too far even with his church closeness and makes it congregational closeness. He attempts to establish this by reference to the Jewish passover, where they kept that institution by families. The members of respective families must keep it at their own home; so church members must keep the communion in their respective congregations, and there alone. He spoils his argument by showing that two families could combine; so two congregations could combine, if necessary, and all could, if convenient. The situations are not parallel. The passover was kept as a memorial of the preservation of the first-born in each family, so each famfly must keep the passover for its firstborn. Jesus is the first-born of the whole spiritual race; so, as he is one, If all the church members on earth met and communed at one place, it would be satisfactory.

The Baptists are wrong in contending that the church of Matt. 16: 16-18 is the local congregation. The church is the redeemed in the aggregate. Men and women are baptized into the church, not the local congregation. So I am a member of the church everywhere, and, as such, have a right to commune. For convenience, congregations are formed and are independently organized, but congregationally and individually are in full fellowship on such ordinances as is common to all. The Lord's table is set in the church, or kingdom; and as we are church members and in the kingdom, we have full right to eat wherever that table is set.

He says on page 37 that the communion instruction is given to Baptist churches. He criticizes the open communionist as follows: (1) Campbellites and other immersionists teach that baptism is a prerequisite to the Lord's Supper, then sit down with the unimmersed. Others may: I don't. The unimmersed man or woman is an unwelcome guest at the Lord's table when I prepare it. (2) Methodists and Presbyterians claim the Lord's Supper is an ordinance of the church, and then refuse to eat with a part of their membership (the babies). That's good. I wish he always said things that good. (3) The Methodists set two tables, one for the laity and one for the preachers, and thus make

A Wife Knows Best

GOOD FOR HIM AND HIS WIFE

Hurley L. Watkins, 2308 Lytle Street, Louisville, Ky., writes: "I found Foley's Honey and Tar just what I wanted for my wife's and my cold." This famous old cough medicine is just as good for children as for adults. It checks coughs, colds, croup, bronchilal coughs, and stops that "tlokling" throat that keeps one coughing at night. It contains no oplates nor habitforming drugs: Prompt and sure in action.

TO RELIEVE CATARRHAL DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES

If you have Catarrhal Deafness or head hoises

If you have Catarrhal Deafness or head noises go to your druggist and get I ownee of parmint (double strength), and add to it ½ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take I tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the discressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy, and the mucus stop dropping into the threat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has Catarrhal Deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial. For sale by all druggists or sent on receiptof price 90c by Chas. A. Smith Drug Co., Atlanta, Ga.

the communion so close that preachers cannot commune with their wives. Good again! (4) Many give it to the professedly unregenerate and thus invite damnation. Not I. But let's add a fifth criticism general and say Missionary Baptists set the table that the Lord placed in his kingdom and exclude Methodists and Baptists that they say are saved and in the kingdom. They are fit to go to heaven, but not fit to sit at the Baptist communion table. That makes the Baptist Church a greater institution than perhaps we've appreciated. Another thing will increase our appreciation of the Baptist Church. They vote on their members, and, of course, could never be so fallible as to admit the unregenerate. A certain member becomes so bad they exclude him from fellowship, but still he will go to heaven, for he cannot fall from grace. So there will be people in heaven that are not pure enough to occupy the immaculate sanctuary of the Baptist Church!

On page 39 he begins a discussion of the work of the Holy Spirit. He truthfully says that the Holy Spirit was here before Pentecost, but fails to tell just how it was here. Of course his object is to have it here in all its perfectness before Pentecost, so as to have the reign of Christ fully instituted before that time. It was here, but it came on Pentecost with its fullest measure, as was necessary for the Lord's greatest dispensation for which all others were only preparatory.

In speaking relative to the extreme views held by people on the work of the Spirit, he says the Baptists, which is only another name for the churches of Christ, believe a certain thing. Why most the church of Christ have another name, and, if so, why drop the Bible name and call it by a name the Bible knows nothing about?

To prove his "direct operation" theory, he first quotes John 6: 44the Spirit convicts, etc. Sure! But it does not say he does it directly. Then how? In Rom. 3: 20 we learn that by the law came the knowledge of sin. So the Spirit made known the sin through the law, and not directly, That law is the word of God, or Bible. He next quotes 1 Cor. 3: 7-he that planteth or watereth is nothing, but God that giveth the increase. The man who sows the seed is the planter. The man who teaches the congregation is the waterer. Take Mr. Bandy's expression for its face value, and it would mean that the preacher is nothing; but Paul says in 1 Cor. 1: 21 that we are saved by preaching. "God giving the increase" is Mr. Bandy's "direct operation." But let's study the matter. According to Luke 8: 11, the seed of the kingdom is the word of God. The gospel preacher is the sower. The one who teaches is the nurturer, which gives the water, or word of life. The soil is the good and honest heart. Now, what else is needed that should come direct? God does increase, but he does it by his means, which are all embraced in the foregoing category, which gives no place for the mystical operation. He quotes Acts 16: 14 to prove a direct operation in the case of Lydia, but the record says she "heard us." Through hear ing the word (Heb. 4: 12) her heart was opened.

Every one should learn to be his own inexorable taskmaster. He should learn of what work he is capable or can make himself capable, and should, with the beginning of each day, demand of himself not merely that he be busy, but that he be doing the thing that counts in a way that counts.—Selected.

Many IIIs Due To Catarrh

The mucous membranes throughout the body are subject to catarrhal congestion resulting in many serious complications.

PE-RU-NA

Well Known and Reliable

Coughs, colds, nasal catarrh, stomach and bowel troubles among the most common diseases due to catarrhal conditions.

A very dependable remedy after protracted sickness, the grip or Spanish Flu.

PE-RU-NA is a good medicine to have on hand for emergencies. Tablets or Liquid Sold Everywhere We are none of us wise enough or large-hearted enough to see religion in all its possible aspects, and different aspects of it are natural to different temperaments; and to argue contemptuously and acridly about other people's beliefs may reduce your opponents to silence, but cannot possibly convert them; indeed, it can only leave in their minds a deep suspicion of the quality of the faith which shows itself in contempt and disdain.—A. C. Benson.

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

Biliousness

Biliousness

Biliousness

WHEN you have a bilious attack your liver fails to perform its functions. You become constipated. The food you eat ferments in your stomach instead of digesting. This inflames the stomach and causes nausea, vomiting and a terrible headache. Take Chamberlain's Tablets. They will tone up your liver, clean out your stomach and you will soon be as well as ever. There is nothing better.

Chamberlain's Tablets

ITISTOMO Å THE BREATH OF the FOREST

While lecturing in London, the noted Richard T. Booth, founder of the blue ribbon movement, temperance orator and leader of international fame, who induced over a million men to sign the pledge, developed a very serious catarrhal trouble.

STATE SODE

He went to inland Australia, where he breathed day and night the antisciplic balsams as given off by the forests, especially the Eucalyptus trees. This experience led Mr. Booth to the discovery of the most wonderful catarrhal treatment,—Hyomel.

Hyomet is a germ killing vaporized air formed from the purest oil of Encalyptus combined with other healing and antiseptic ingredients. This medicated air is especially effective in treating cold in the head, spusmodic croup, clergyman's sore throat, hay fever and all forms of bronchial catarrh. It destroys the catarrhal germs and restores health.

SO DO

5000 TO

Sold on a positive guarantee of satisfactory results or money refunded. Conplete outfit $1,55; extra bottle inhalant 75c. At druggists or by mall, if your druggist cannot supply it.

BOOTH'S HYOMEI CO., 12 W. Green St., Ithaca, N. Y.

A REMARKABLE HOME TREAT-MENT GIVEN BY ONE WHO HAD IT

MENT GIVEN BY ONE
WHO HAD IT

In the spring of 1993 I was ettacked by Muscular and Sub-Acute Rheumatism. I suffered as only those who have it know, for over three years. I tried remedy after remedy and doctor after doctor, but such relief as I received was only temporary. Finally I found a remedy that cured me completely, and it has never returned. I have given it to a number who were terribly afflicted and even bedridden with Rheumatism, some of them from seventy to eighty years old, and results were the same as in my own case.

I want every sufferer from such forms of rheumatic trouble to try this marvelous healing power. Don't send a cent; simply mail your name and address, and I will send it free to try. After you have used it and it has proven itself to be that long-looked-for means of getting rid of your Rheumatism, you may send the price of it, one deliar; but, understand, I de not want your money unless you are perfectly satisfied to send it. Isn't that fair? Why suffer any longer, when relief is thus offered you free? Don't delay, Write to-day, MARK H. JACKSON, No. 827G Durston Bidg., Syraeuse, N. Y. Mr. Jackson is responsible. Above statement true.

TETTERINE

Clears Baby's Skin

and drives off the rash and pimples. Harmless, Soothing, Fragrant,

60c at your druggist's or from the SHUP-TRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

Now Is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots.

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freckles, as Othine—double strength—is guaranteed to remove these homely spots.

Simply set an ounce of Othine—conce strength—from your druggist, and stoly a little of it night and norming and you should some see that even the worst freckles have before to disapp ar, while the lighter mass have variabled entirely. It is set on the more than one conce is needed to completely clear the skin and gath a heartfull clear complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength Othine as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it falls to remove freekles.

OBITUARIES

On account of the large number of obitu-ary notices coming to the Gospel Advocate, the following rules must be observed: Obit-uaries that do not exceed two hundred words are published free of charge. When they exceed that limit, two cents will be charged for every additional word. Pay-ment must accompany notice, or it will be reduced to two hundred words. Poetry will not be printed.

Cooke.

Mrs. Elizabeth P. Cooke, daughter of S. S. and Minerva J. Booth, was born on February 10, 1838, and died on October 3, 1920, aged eighty-two years, seven months, and twenty-three days. She married G. B. Cooke, January 25, 1854. To them were born four boys and three girls, all living but one. She leaves forty-nine grandchildren and thirty-one great-grandchildren to mourn the loss of mother and grandmother. She became a member of the body of Christ in early life and lived a consistent member until death. H. C. BOOTH.

McAlister.

McAlister, John Ray thirty-four years old, died of intestinal obstruction, on September 14, 1920, at the hospital in Fayetteville, Tenn. He was a son of W. J. and Tabitha Mc-Alister, and left a wife and eight children. He had been a faithful member of the church at Wells Hill for a number of years, and was regarded as one of the most useful members of that body. He was a good man, an upright citizen, a true and devoted husband and father. May the Heavenly Father protect and preserve his wife and children through life.

T. C. LITTLE.

Gallaher.

Adelyne Gallaher, the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Gallaher, was born on March 29, 1917, and departed this life on September 25, 1920, at Fort Smith, Ark. The weak-pring influence of dishebasis ening influence of diphtheria caused a lingering illness which resulted in her death. Among the many innocent and sweet faces that greeted us at the meetinghouse on Lord's-day morning. hers was always there. During the song service in praise of God's blessed Son her youthful voice was heard in tones so clear and beautiful that we long to meet with her again in that home of light and love, where we may sing forever the song of the Master's love, Funeral services were conducted by the writer of this at the home of her parents, after which the remains were quietly laid to rest in remains were the city cemetery.

LELAND H. KNIGHT.

King.

E. M. King was bern on February 14, 1860, and died on August 14, 1920, 14, 1860, and died on August 14, 1920, being sixty and one-half years of age. Brother King obeyed the gospel in 1890. He began preaching three or four years later, and was instrumental in doing a great deal of good. He located in Houston County, Ala., about twenty years ago, and labored extensively with the Christian Home consider. sively with the Christian Home con-

To abort a cold and prevent complications take

The purified and refined calomel tablets that are nausealess, safe and sure.

Medicinal virtues retained and improved. Sold only in sealed packages. Price 35c.

LEXINGTON, KY., BUSINESS UNIVERSITY (Inc.) BUSINESS, SHORTHAND, TYPEWRITING, TELEGRAPHY, Digloma, Positions. Special Department for Women, 40 years experience, 20,000 surcessful graduates. Beautiful City. Address WILBUR R. SMITH, Lexington, Ky.

shopping, attending church or theatre, don't forget to have handy a box of

They will head-off that Headache or any other Ache or Pain.

SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS

MILES MEDICAL CO., Elkhart, Ind.

gregation. He preached monthly for this congregation practically all the remainder of his life. He loved the cause of Christ and rejoiced to see it prosper. I was engaged with his home congregation in a meeting while Brother King was sick. I was there in his home. I had spent a week with him a year ago and had learned to love him for his work and his work's sake. He manifested great interest in my work in the South. Brother King was married in 1884 to Miss Sarah A. Jones. He was the fa-ther of ten children—five boys and five girls—one of whom is Brother Russell King, of David Lipscomb College. Two are dead; the others are all Christians, save the baby boy. He was a good man in his home, in the community, and in the church. "Blessed are the dead who die in the I shall expect to see him on her side. VAN A. BRADLEY. the other side.

Hilliard.

My mother, Emily Hilliard, was born about fifty-seven years ago, in Fayette County, Tenn. At the age of about twenty-three she was married to her cousin, Rufus J. Hilliard, who preceded her to the great beyond about three years. She departed this life on September 10, 1920. Funeral services were conducted by Brother N. B. Hardeman, after which her body was laid to rest in the Hurricane Hill cemetery, in Dyer County. At the age of about thirty years she joined the Freewill Baptist Church, in which she lived until about eight years ago, when she obeyed the gospel and came into the church of Christ, since which time she had lived a consistent Christime she had lived a consistent Chris-tian. She attended faithfully the services on the Lord's day until the last three or four years of her life, during which time she was denied this privilege on account of ill health; but she always contended earnestly for "the faith which was once for all delivered unto the saints" and wanted no creed but the Bible. She leaves six children—three sons and three daughters—to mourn her death. Three others preceded her to the great be-yond. We weep not as those who have no hope, believing that God is faithful to carry out all of his prom-ELBERT HILLIARD.

Collins.

Lynn and Glenn Collins were born on August 13, 1919, and on the morning of September 22, 1920, the spirit of little Lynn was wafted to that fair city "whose builder and maker is God," leaving father, mother, his twin brother, and a host of relatives and friends to mourn their loss. Lynn "whose builder and maker is was afflicted from birth, but a sweeter disposition I never saw. When he was not sick, he was always smiling and playful. He endeared himself to all around him. All that loving hands and anxious hearts could do was done, but God saw fit to take him, and he is new basking in the sunshine of God's love, where his afflictions will be healed by the Great Physician. A home without children is like a Jantern and no candle, a garden and no flowers. These two children were a ray of sunshine to this home. mother, though very young, was truly a devoted mother. It was her great-est pleasure to be doing something for her boys. Some writer has said: The veil that hides the future from our view is woven by the hand of mercy." May it be that the spirit of little Lynn will be as a guardian angel beckening his loved ones to the new Jerusalem, where partings are unknown and sickness and sorrow never MRS. CLAUDE SMITH. come

Boyd.

Brother Elliott Hodge Boyd was born at Pikeville, Tenn., on March 2, 1845, and died at Dayton, Tenn., on September 3, 1920. He grew to manhood near old Sequatchee College, where he received his education. He served as a soldier in the Civil War. He was "born again" in May, 1872, heing bentized by Elder Limits 2011. being baptized by Elder Jimmie Billingsley. He was married, December 14, 1876, to Miss Mary Foust, who survives him, with their three daughters, Misses Eula K. and Myrtle and Mrs. T. C. Kelley. His funeral was held from the church of Christ, Dayton, Tenn., conducted by J. W. Arrowood, and his body was laid to rest in the Buttram Cemetery. Brother Boyd began to preach the gospel forty years ago, and has preached in Tennessee, Alabama, Georgia, and Kentucky. He was an instrument in the hands of Jehovah in winning many souls to Christ. He was a power for good wherever his lot was cast. He assisted materially in building houses of worship at Bethel, Pikeville, Jasper and Davidon also at Paid per, and Dayton, also at Bridgeport, Ala. His devotion to his family was indeed beautiful, and truly they were devoted to him. His love for the cause of Christ was strong, his stand for the truth was brave, his loyalty to Jehovah was unshaken, and his faith was sublime. The Bible being true, he has entered into the rest that Jehovah has prepared for them that S. HOUSTON PROFFITT. love him.

You Needn't keep on feeling distressed after eating, nor belching, nor experiencing nausea between meals. Hood's Sarsaparilla cures dyspepsia. It strengthens the stomach and other digestive organs for the proper performance of their functions. Take Hood's.

LEMON JUICE FOR FRECKLES

Girls! Make beauty lotion for a few cents-Try It!

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of orehard white, shake well, and you have a quarter pint of the best freekle and tan lotion, and complexion beautifler, at very, very small cost.

Your grocer has the lemons and any drug store or toilet counter will supply three ounces of orchard white for a few cents. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face, neck, arms and hands each day and see how freekles and blemishes disappear and how clear, soft and rosy-white the skin becomes. Yes! It is harmless and never irritates.

LIFE WAS A MISERY TO HER

Says this Woman Until Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Carrollton, Ky .- "I suffered almost all without resting. If I swept the floor or did any kind of work it would bring my sickness on. was weak and languid, had no energy, and lifewas a misery to me. I was under the care of a good the care of a good physician for several months and tried other remedies. I had read of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and decided to try it. After taking twelve bottles I found myself much improved and I took six more. I have never had any more trouble in that respect since. I have done all kinds of work and at present am an attendant at a State Hospital and am feeling fine. I have recommended your Vegetable Compound to dozens of my friends and shall always recommend it."—LILLIAN THARP, 824 S. 6th St., Carrollton, Ky.

If you have any symptom about which you would like to know write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for helpful advice given free of

$1,800 to $10,000 a Year

Bankers, Bookkeepers, Stenographers, and Secretaries. Thousands Needed.

Ark for our 72-page book. "Guide to Business Success." It's FREE. It tells how we will train you BY MAIL or AT COLLEGE for any of these good pestitions, and get the position for you; how to develop your will power and your brain power into money-making power. With the books, we send statements from bankers and accountants relining you that our Accountancy, Banking, and Business-Procedure Course is the hest, Address.

Draughon's College DESK

Nashville, Tenn., or St. Louis, Mo.

PROFITS IN PIGEONS

A pleasant, easy way to make moneytilize an otherwise worthless part of your sek yard and turn it into profit ere easily raised, proliffe, and clean. The narkets are clamoring for equals A few mirs of our beautiful Red Carneaux and White Swiss Mondaines will start you right Write for our FREE booklet, "Profits in rigeons No 6." Carolina Pigeon Piant. Minton B. C.

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM
RemovesDangruif-StopeHairFalling
Restores Color and
Beauty to Gray and Faded Hair
60c and $1.00 at Druggists,
Hiscoy Chem. Was, Patchogue, N. Y.

HINDERCORNS Removes Corns, Callouses, etc., stops all paid, ensures comfort to the feet, makes walking easy, 15c, by mail or at Driggists. Hiscox Chemical Works, Patchiogne, N. Y.

Mr. Church Treasurer!

If the Loose-Leaf Plan is best for the Business Man, it must be best for the CHURCH TREASURER.

Up-to-date Economical Efficient

Why not use the Unified Loose Leaf instead of Bound Books? Adapted to any envelope system and size membership. Supplied by your dealer, or

Arthur H. Strouse Pub. Co. Dapt. K. 431 So. Dearborn St., Chicago, III.

Where Did We Get the Bible?

TALKS ON THE BIBLE. NO. 2.

- L In what languages was the Blble written?

All these questions and dozens more of interest to you are answered in The Wonderful Story, Write to-day-for it to

THOMAS NELSON & SONS.

Authorized Publishers American Standard Bible.

385-U Fourth Avenue, New York City. American Standard Bible text

The American Standard Bible text is used in 70 per cent of all Sunday-school periodicals, because it is recognized as the most accurate version that has ever been produced.

The American Standard Bible text is used by over 13000,600 Sunday-school schoolars to study their lessons from. They realize that they calinot produce a more reliable version of the Scriptures.

HE FEELS TEN YEARS YOUNGER

Any man or women suffering from lame back, headache, stiff joints, sore muscles, rhounatic pains, or any other symptom of kidney or bladder frouble, will be interested in this letter from H. Bryde, 925 Garden Street, Hobeken, N. J. "I could not bend down for some years; as I can now. My wife had many a time to put on or off my shoes. I obtained relief with Foley Kidney Pills. I feel now as if I were ten years younger."

The man who has not learned to conquer the tyranny of his moods and to be always ready for his work has not really reached the secret of Jesus. which was such utter love for his Father and man, between whom he stood, as obliterated all thought of himself, save as a medium through which the divine might come down to the human.-Brooks.

CHURCH NEWS

Oklahoma.

Stratford, October 7.-- I am here in meeting, with two confessions to date. The meeting is four days old. The congregation has no house, but I hope to get them to build. I am try-ing to close out my work and make some sort of arrangement to take my baby to a radium institute to have him treated for cancer of the cheek I am discouraged. I have stood over my children and seen them pass under the surgeon's knife until it gives me indescribable pain to think of such things. Through all my personal afflictions and trials of seeing my boys in bandages, I have tried to stand and maintain my strength for the greatest battles possible, but I feel I have about gone the limit. Little Joe was in the Sherman Hospital last week, where we had the service of five specialists, and they all pre-nounced his case one of sarcoma of the face or cheek bone. Brother and Sister Milholland met my wife at Denison and brought her on to the hospital, that she might spend the night with our little sufferer. God bless them. I have many calls for God meetings next year; in fact, more than I have ever had. A brother somewhere in Virginia wrote me about a The letter came while we meeting. were preparing to take Joe to the hospital, and I have misplaced it. If he sees this, I would be glad if he would write me again. I would like to arrange to do some work in that State. have a son in the navy at Hampton Roads, and I would be glad to see him. God bless you all.—J. Will Henley,

South Carolina.

Union, October 8 .- Our work is moving along nicely in this State. Brother Nix is in a tent meeting in Spartanburg, and reports about fifty present every night, and some seem to be interested. He certainly had a hard time trying to get started, as about all the local preachers lined up against him and used their influence to keep him from getting a lot to pitch his tent on; but he succeeded in getting a good place, and we are hoping that he will be able to do much good. ne will be able to do much good. It certainly takes lots of determination to do the work here. We are getting along nicely in this town. We had about sixty out at the morning service last Sunday. We are now in a tent meeting, and are having from thirty to fifty at each service. Some seem to be very much interested, and I am expressions visible results in the expecting visible results in the near future, if the weather continues suitable for tent work. Brother Charlle Blevins, of Winchester, Tenn., is in our city for a few days, and he is like a ray of sunshine in our midst. He is only two years old in the cause, but he seems to have made quite a growth. We are always glad to have any of the trethren who are passing through stop with us. We have our lot about graded and will be ready to begin work on the foundation in the next few days, and we hope to have the house complete in a few weeks. tributions continue to come in almost every day, but we still lack about two thousand dollars having enough to

DON'T BE CUT Until You Try This Wonderful Treatment,

If you have plies in any form, write for a FREE sample of Page's Pile Tablets, and you will bless the day that you read this Write to-day. E. R. Page, 430-D Page Building, Marshall, Mich.

TREMENDOUS VALUE FOR 10c.

Washington, D. C. (Special) .- An unusual offer is being made by the editor of the Pathfinder to send the paper to new readers eight weeks for ten cents. This wellknown national weekly magazine contains all the worth-while news of the world, illustrated and presented in a most entertaining manner. It is clean, sincere, nonpartisan, reliable, well printed in large type. It puts everything clearly, fairly, and briefly.

Washington, the home of the Pathfinder, is the nerve center of civilization. History is being made at this world capital. The Pathfinder's illustrated weekly review gives you a clear, impartial, and correct diagnosis of public affairs during these strenuous, epoch-making days. It is the only big weekly magazine at the seat of government. Send fen cents for eight weeks' trial subscription to the Pathfinder, 118 Donglas Street, Weshington, D. C. The ten cents does not repay the editor, but he is glad to invest in new friends.

For Sore Throat

On retiring fill your nostrils with Eucapine Salve. Sniff the salve back into the air passages of the head and throat multi it reaches the tonsils and nivida and you tasis the salve. This is test done I jug down, how under lack, head thrown back that the melting salve may reach the head cavines. Also were the head to whose Also when the cavines of the head, in the morning the pain and screeness will be gime. To make sure of checking head to the head. In the morning the pain and screeness will be gime. To make sure of checking head to the head, or the head continue with your finger. Same trol mant for colds, not sures, catarrhol headaches, catarrhol free head, not seen of your very best fri mile is

Antiseptic Analgesic Antiphlogistic (Prevents Infection) (telleres Pain) (Alleys Inflammation) 50c the Jar at your druggist's or by mail from

Piedmont Laboratories, Inc., Clinton, S. C.

FOOT COMFORT ASSURED Brooklyn Man Solves the Problem

It is no longer necessary to suffer agonies that are caused by missit shoes; for Mr. Simon, of Brooklyn, has proven that he can fit perfectly by mail. Simon's EsWear Shoes are built to give every possible foot comfort; they are soft and stylish, and do not need breaking in. They fit like the proverbial pair, the minute you wear them. Every pair is guaranteed to give satisfaction and to fit perfectly.

Mr. J. R. Simon will gladly send a free catalogue of over 500 styles of EzWear Shoes to all who write him, along with his scientific, self-measuring blank. Write for your copy to-day, and give your feet their much-needed happiness. Address all com-munications to Mr. J. R. Simon, 1589 Broadway, Brooklyn, N. Y., and you will receive personal attention.

Cured His RUPTURE

I was badly ruptured while lifting a trunk several years ago. Doctors said my only hope of cure was an operation. Trusses did me no good. Finally I got hold of something that quickly and completely cured me, Years have passed and the rupture has never returned, although I am doing hard work as a carpenter. There was no operation, no lost time, no trouble. I have nothing to sell; but will give full information about how you may find a complete cure without operation, if you write to me. Engene M. Fullen, Carpenter, 354 G Marcelius Ayenuc, Manasquan, N. J. Better cut out this notice and show it to any others who are ruptured—you may save a life, or at least stop the misery of rupture and the worry and danger of an operation.

THE CROSS AND RESURRECTION (IN SONG).

By S. H. and Flavil Hall.

More than 200 songs; standard old songs in abundance, and the sweetest of the new. The fullness of the gospel, 25c per copy from 1 to 49; 35c per copy from 50 upward. Send your orders to complete the job. Brother, what are you going to do about yours? Send in your contribution to-day and let us have one house in the State out of debt. As big as the brotherhood is, certainly this can be done. Give, brother, until you hurt, and you will enjoy it. If you don't think so, try it. Send all communications and make all checks payable to the writer.—Thomas H. Burton.

FLAVIL HALL., Trion, Ga.

The Romantic Story of Southland's Favorite Shoe, EzWear

Some five years ago, a prominent citizen of South Carolina, visiting New York on important business, chanced to meet the maker of a shoe built on new and unusual lines; an enthusiastic admirer of its most distinctive features, ease and comfort, had suggested the name "EzWear;" it was promptly adopted. The business man from the South, knowing how welcome such a shoe would be in his part of the country, urged that its remarkable qualities, including not only comfort, but style, durability, and economy, be made known there. That this has been done effectively is proven by the enormous demand that has sprung up in the South for ExWear Shoes. It is said that its sale there during the last twelve months has increased fully three hundred per cent. The distributor, Mr. J. R. Simon, of 1589 Broadway, Brooklyn, N. Y., says that all who wish to know about a shoe that combines all worth-while shoe qualities may have a copy of his money-saving shoe book for the asking.

Tennessee.

Charlotte, October 9. Brother J. T. Harris, of Lawrenceburg, and I are in a meeting at this place, with increasing interest at both day and night services. Five young persons have rendered primary obedience to the gospel. Brother Harris is doing some forceful preaching, not shunning to declare the whole counsel of God. Sectarians are attending the services, and they express themselves as being well pleased. The brethren have a nice, new, substantial house of worship nearing completion, which they are trying to finish ceiling before winter. As there are only a few members who are able to give much, they have been going slow with the building, but paying as they go; but they will have to borrow some money or have some help to finish up the work. Any congregations that will help them even a little will be contributing to a worthy cause, and the help will be thankfully received. Contributions Shows to W. E. Hicks, treasurer, Charlotte, Decherd, October 12.—Brother H. M. Phillips, of Tuscumbia, Ala., has just closed a good meeting at Decherd. Seven made the good confession and were baptized and one was restored. The interest was good throughout the meeting. Brother Phillips is an able preacher and a good personal worker. The brethren have engaged him for a meeting next year. Brother T. A. Nicks, of Nashville, led the song serv-I had the pleasure of being with Brother Phillips a part of the time in the meeting. The church was up-lifted spiritually. I preached at Manchester last Lord's-day morning, at Hillsboro in the afternoon, and at Bean's Creek at night with a large crowd at each place. I go next to Craysville, thence to College Grove, in Bledsoe County. These will be my last meetings for this year in Tennessee. I shall go to Florida in Decemter for a stay of about four months, if the Lord wills. I have baptized about one hundred and fifty persons this summer and have had good attendance everywhere,-R. E. L. Taylor.

Texas.

Wichita Falls, October 6.—We wish to thank all in Tennessee and Texas and elsewhere who have helped us in our effort to get a house to worship in. We have the first and only church of Christ in this (Archer) county. The house is finished and furnished nicely, and we do not owe one cent on it, for which we are thankful. We have October 17 set for a day of rejoicing—an all-day service, with dinner on the ground. I am doing missionary work this week. I do all my housework, get dinner for the farm hands, then take my pony and buggy in the afternoon and visit the neighbors and boost our meeting, trying to get them out to hear the truth. This is the only way we can get them out. It seems that the gospel has lost its power with most of our people. This is a fast age, and it is hard to get people interested in their soul's welfare.—Mrs. Susan F. Crowell.

50 Eggs a Day

"More Eggs' Tonic is a Godsend," writes Mrs. Myrtle Ice, of Boston, Ky. She adds, "I was only getting 12 eggs a day and now I get 50." Give your hens a few cents' world of "More Eggs," the wonderful egg producer, and you'll be amazed and delighted with results.

$1.00 FREE Package FREE

Send the caupen below. Don't send any money. Mr. Reefer will send you two $1.00 packages of "More Eggs." You pay the postman upon delivery only $1.00, the price of just one package, the other practage being free. The Milliam Dollar Merchants Bank of Kansos City, Moguarantees if you are not absolutely satisfied, your dollar will be returned at any time within 30 days—on request. No risks to you. 400,000 users praise Recfer's "More Eggs."

Poultry Raisers Everywhere Tell Wonderful Results of "More Eggs"

126 Eggs in 5 Days

I wouldn't try to raise chickens without "More Eggs," which means more money. I use it right along, I have 33 hens and in 5 days have gotten 10% dozen eggs, or 125. MRS, J. O. GAKES, Salinz, Okla.

"More Eggs" Paid the Pastor

I can't express in words how much I have been benefitied by "More legs" I have paid my delts, clothed the children in new dresses, and that is not all—I paid my pastor his dies. I sold 42% dozen eggs last week, set 4 dozen, ate some, and had 1½ dozen left.

MRS, LENA McHROON, Weodiner, Tehn.

1200 Eggs from 29 Hens

The "More Eggs" Tonic did wonders for me. I had 29 hens when I got the tonic and was getting five or six eggs a day. April is I had over 1200 eggs. I never saw the equal.

EDW MERKER, Fordiac, Mich.

Never Laid as They Do Now

I am very much satisfied with the "More Eggs" Tonic. My chickens hever hald as many eggs an they do now, W. A GRUETZMACHER, Great Bend, N. D.

$200 Worth of Eggs from 44 hens

I hever used "More Eggs" Toule until last December; then furt used one $1,00 package and have sold over $200.00 worth of eggs from forty-four hona. "More Eggs" Tout did it. A. 6. THODE. Sterling, Kaus., R. No. 2. Box 47.

Send No Money!

Don't send any money; just fill in and mail coupon. You will be sent, at once, two $1.00 packages of "MORE EGGS." Pay the postman upon delivery only $1.00, the extra package being FREE. Don't wall—take advantage of this tree offer TODAY! Reap the BIG profits "MORE EGGS" will make for you. Have plenty of eggs to sell when the price is highest. Send TODAY—NOW!

E.Y.Reefer, Poully Expert, 7257 Reefer Bldg, Kansas City, Mo. Dear Mr. Reefer: I econy your often Sand don two $1.00 machases of Reefer's "Mure Exper" for which I arree to pay the postman $1.00 when he brings use the first within 30 marks of celund pures 1.00 at any time within 50 but arree to celund pures 1.00 at any time within 50 but are so celund pures 1.00 at any time within 50 but are so celund pures 1.00 at any time within 50 but are so well as a subject to the prove satisfactory in every way.

Name							(*)	200
------	--	--	--	-------	--	--------	--------	-----

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

A Stubborn Cough Loosens Right Up This home-made remedy is a wonder for quick results. Easily and cheaply made.

Here is a home-made syrup which millions of people have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up stubborn coughs. It is cheap and simple, but very prompt in action. Under its healing, southing influence, chest soreness goes, phlegm loosens, breathing becomes easier, tickling in throat stops and you get a good night's restful sleep. The usual throat and chest colds are conquered by it in 24 hours or less. Nothing better for bronchitis, hoarseness, croup, throat tickle, bronchial asthma or winter coughs.

better for bronchist asthma or winthroat tickle, bronchial asthma or winter coughs.

To make this splendid cough syrup, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup and shake thoroughly. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you get a full pint—a family supply—of much better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for three times the money.
Keeps perfectly and children love its pleasant taste.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, known the world over for its prompt healing effect upon the membranes.

branes.
To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne,

TETTERINE

Makes hair beautiful, free from dandruff, and keeps the scalp healthy.

60c at your druggist's or from the SHUP-TRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

ASPIRIN

Name "Bayer" on Genuine

"Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" is genuine Aspirin proved safe by millions and pre-scribed by physicians for over twenty scribed by physicians for over twenty years. Accept only an unbroken "Bayer package" which contains proper directions to relieve Headache, Tootbache, Earache, Neuralgia, Rheumatism. Colds and Pain, Handy tin boxes of 12 tablets cost few cents. Druggists also sell larger "Bayer packages." Aspirin is trade mark Bayer Manufacture Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid.

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

CHURCH NEWS

Arkansas.

Center Point, October 5 .- I moderated for Brother O. E. Billingsley in a six-days' discussion with Elder J. B. Hardy, a Primitive Baptist, beginning on Saturday before the third Lord's day in September. Four propositions were discussed-election (unconditional), plan of salvation, operation of the Spirit, and apostasy. Brother Billingsley did excellent work and the truth prevailed. The best of feeling prevailed throughout. It would be well if all debates could be conducted in the spirit which characterized this one. The moderators had little to do but keep time.-T. W. Croom.

Fort Smith, October 7.-The meet-Fort Smith, October 1. ing at Middleton closed on Sunday. I wo were baptized and three were re-stored. I will preach at home next Sunday. Brother L. H. Knight has done a great work here in my absence this summer. He is in school again at Henderson, Tenn. I will begin a mission meeting at Talihina, Okla., on October 11. Brother B. B. Slayton will sing for me. Pray for us. 1 go from there to Harveyville, Kan., for a meeting. Brother W. T. Kidwell will begin a meeting for us on the first Sunday in November.-Will W. Slater.

California.

Santa Rosa, October 7.—Our school is progressing nicely. The present enrollment is greater than ever before, and we are very much encouraged. The Christian Scientists have quite a following in this city. A lecture was given in the W. O. W. Hall, and after hearing it one of the brethren rented the same hall and the lecture was replied to by Brother Love. After fin-ishing his lecture Brother Love asked if any one had anything to say. Several who denied being Christian Scientists talked in favor of Mrs. Eddy, founder of Christian Science. Such interest was manifested that it was decided that Brother Love deliver four They are now being other lectures. given at the meetinghouse each Tuesday evening. At the prayer meeting, October 6, the attendance was forty-eight, of which twenty-one were our students and teachers. There were two baptisms, one being one of the orphans and a student in the school. This is the first one of our students to yield to the faith this year. Ina Duke.

Florida.

Miami, October 9. The work here is going on nicely. We are enjoying a steady growth. Any one spending the winter here should meet with us. We are located on Eighth Street, between Avenues H and L-Joe L. Netherland.

Kentucky.

Paducah, October 11.-Last Saturday night I closed a short meeting at Kirkmansville The church was revived and there were twelve additions. There are some splendid people in that congregation who will develop into noble Christians, if given the proper teaching. Let us not forget to teach as well as pray .- W. A. Record.

Louisville, October 11 .- Our meeting at Elkhorn closed with eight addi-tions. Six of these came from the Christian Church. We raised three hundred and seventy dollars to advance the work next year. Last Sunday I was at Harrisonville, with one addition. We will make an effort to locate another preacher in Kentucky. -R. A. Craig.

Mud Camp, October 4.-We closed our tent work on September 28. last meeting was at Echo, near, Brother F. H. Woodward's home. Ten or twelve disciples, including Brother Woodward and family, promised to keep house for the Lord every Lord's They are using an empty store building for a meeting place until they can do better. I am now in Cumber-land County in a meeting, with the Mud Camp church of Christ. I shall begin my regular work with Fairview. Center, Coral Hill, and Mount Vernon churches in November.-Emmett G. Creacy.

Michigan.

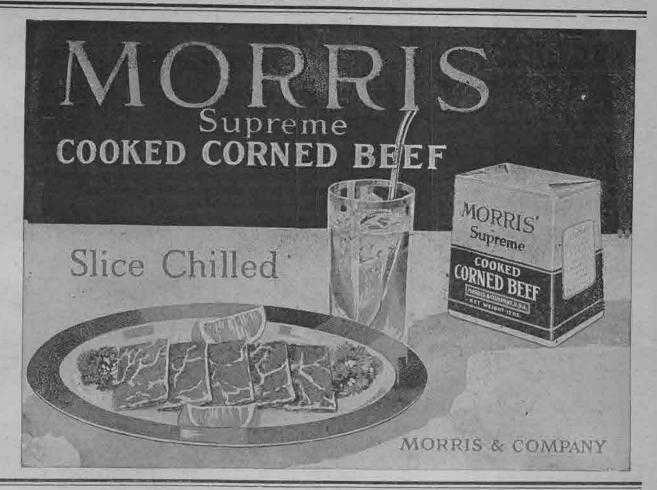

Standish, October 11.-We began a meeting near Standish yesterday. There are only a few brethren here, and they have not been meeting regularly. Brother Shepherd, from Detroit, preached in Flint yesterday.—Leslie G. Thomas.

Missouri.

Browning, October 11.—I began a meeting here yesterday with large audiences and splendid interest. were two confessions at the night service. We closed the meeting in Sedalia with good crowds and good interest, but no additions. I am convinced that great good can be done there. They need a man for all his time to look after the work. The right man can have his hands full of mission work in that city.-E. P.

Sedalia, October 11.—Our tent meeting closed last Wednesday evening. We feel that we had a good meeting, although there were no additions. Good interest was shown and the attendance was good, considering the cool weather. Brother Watson is a fine preacher, and we regret the meeting had to close. We hope to accomplish much good with our tent next spring. We had some outside aid in a financial way, which we appreciate very much. At our evening service yesterday, at the church house, almost every seat was taken. We have houseto-house meetings on Sunday after-noons, by which we hope to accom-plish much good.—Mrs. S. W. Bell.

Among the Colored Folks

An Encouraging Report.

On the first Lord's day in September I began my second meeting at Sugar Grove, Ky. Interest was good throughout the meeting. Two were restored and the church edified. The white people attended in large numbers and gave liberally for the support of the meeting. I have promised to conduct another meeting for them in the spring of 1921.

On the third Lord's day in September I began a meeting at Manchester, Tenn. I was here eight days, and the interest was good throughout. Six precious souls obeyed the gospel, all being baptized "the same hour of the night." Brother M. B. Newsom, a preacher and a member of this congregation, assisted me in this meeting. Brother Gilbert, a preacher and an elder of the white congregation here, came over and heard me several times. Knowing that the colored brethren and sisters were few, he got the white church to assist me, and I am thankful to them for their fellowship and their kindness to me. I am glad to see such an interest among the white churches everywhere I go.

In a humble way I want to commend the article written by Brother A. S. Warren in the Gospel Advocate of September 23 on "Home Missions." I wish more of the white brethren and sisters would attend more of the meetings conducted by my people, and then they could see the neglected work right at home. Every white brother or sister that has a servant should often speak to him or her about obeying the gospel, and this would cause them to open their eyes to the truth, Several years ago I held a meeting at Henderson, Tenn. A great number of white brethren and sisters lived in that vicinity, and, of course, had a good many colored people working around, and they would teach them the word of God and tell them to go out and hear me preach, and, as a result, sixty-nine obeyed the gospel. I think we could call this mission work at home. The influence of the Freed-Hardeman College in that section is great. There are several merchants in Henderson that are members of the church of Christ, who are never too busy or ashamed to grasp our hand and freely talk about the church and

I am now at Fosterville, Tenn., in an interesting meeting. Brother Robert Frazier began this meeting for me on the last Lord's day in September, when three precious souls obeyed the gospel, and I came on Monday. The interest is high.

I am glad to see in every copy of the Advocate where so many souls are being brought to Christ by the preaching of the blessed gospel of Jesus Christ.

M. Keeble.

TREMENDOUS VALUE FOR 10c.

The Pathfinder, Leading Weekly Magazine of Nation's Capital, Makes Remarkably Attractive Offer.

Washington, D. C. (Special.)—People in every section of the country are hurrying to take advantage of the Pathfinder's wonderful offer to send that splendid illustrated review of the whole world eight weeks for ten cents. It costs the editor a lot of money to do this, but he says it pays to invest in new friends, and that he will keep the offer open until the Pathfinder passes the 300,000 circulation mark, which will be in a few weeks. Ten cents mailed at once with your application to Pathfinder, 120 Douglas Street, Washington, D. C., will keep the whole family informed, entertained, helped, and inspired for the next three months.

"Diamond Dyes" Take No Other

Don't Spoil or Streak Material in a Poor Dye

Each package of "Diamond Dyes" contains directions so simple that any woman car diamond-dye a new, rich, fadeless color into worn, shabby garments, draperies, coverings, whether wool, silk, line, cotton or mixed goods.

linen, cotton or mixed goods.

Buy "Diamond Dyes"—no other kind—then perfect results are guaranteed even if you have never dyed before. Druggist

has color card

CHURCH NEWS

Texas.

San Antonio, October 11.-One by statement in the forenoon and one confession at night at the South Flores Street church of Christ yesterday .-C. W. Holley.

Ben Franklin, October 11.-The meeting at McCaskill, Ark., closed with fine interest. The largest crowds that were ever seen there came from night. to night with anxious hearts. We had nine confessions and one reclaimed, Three of those baptized had been Baptists and one a Methodist. I spent yesterday at Bogata, Texas, with two tine services. I have some time open for meetings at once. C. H. Smithson.

Itasca, October 5.—The last Sunday in September was a busy day with us at home. I preached at the morning service; at 3;30 P.M. I baptized an aged man and his aged companion, from Grandview (the man was sevenfrom Grandview (the man was seven-ty-eight years of age and the wife six-ty-eight years): I then went to Cov-ington and preached at 4:30 P.M., and then back home and preached at the evening service. The work here is progressing very well.—W. P. Skaggs.

West Virginia.

Buffalo, October 6 .- Since last report I have received personal help in the Lord's work amounting to sixtyone dollars and twenty-five cents, for which I am thankful; but I have been compelled to put this and much more into our house of worship now in process of erection. In fact, our scanty living has gone into this house. This leaves me in pretty hard circumstances. If the brethren wish to help me out personally, the way is now open; and it should be done without delay. I have also received help on the meetinghouse to the amount of seventy-one dollars. Our house is costing us much more than we expected on account of the high price of material. We are still in debt some two hundred dollars for that; and the seals will cost us two hundred and twenty-four dollars. We have raised about all that we can possibly raise here, unless something unusual should happen. Personally, counting every-thing, I now have over two hundred dollars in this house, and two others have about as much in it. Brother George E. Hypes, a former Presbyte-rian preacher, whom I haptized sometime ago, considering the size of his family, is doing nobly and well. Once more I appeal to every pious, godly man and woman in this entire brotherhood to help us to finish our house now, so we can get into it before winter. If you cannot send a large amount, then send all you can; but please do it now. Kindly state what your offering is for, as I must keep my accounts straight. Our house is costing us, in all, about sixteen hundred dollars, or perhaps a little more than that; and thus you can see what we need. We will notify the brotherhood when we have received a sufficient amount. I can use checks or any kind of commercial paper. Please address me at Buffalo, West Virginia,

How Coca-Cola Resembles Tea

If you could take about one-third of a glass of tea, add two-thirds glass of carbonated water, then remove the tea flavor and add a little lemon juice, phosphoric acid, sugar, caramel and certain flavors in the correct proportion, you would have an almost perfect glass of Coca-Cola.

In fact, Coca-Cola may be very well described as "a carbonated fruit-flavored counterpart of tea, of approximately one-third the stimulating strength of the average cup of tea."

The following analyses, made and confirmed by the leading chemists throughout America, show the comparative stimulating strength of tea and Coca-Cola stated in terms of the quantity of caffein contained in each:

Black tea-1 cupful _____ 1.54 gr. (bot) Green tea—1 glassful.
(cold) (8 H. oz., exclusive of ice) __ 2.02 gr. Coca-Cola-1 drink, 8 fl. cz. (prepared with I fl. oz. of syrup)

Of all the plants which Nature has provided for man's use and enjoyment, none surpasses tea in its refreshing, wholesome and helpful qualities. This explains its almost universal popularity, and also explains, in part, the wide popularity of Coca-Cola, whose refreshing principle is derived from the tea leaf.

The Coca-Cola Company has issued a booklet giving detailed analysis of its recipe. A copy will be mailed free on request to anyone who is interested. Address:

The Coca-Cola Co., Dept. J, Atlanta, Ga., U. S. A.

When You Feel Shaky

For Malarial Fevers and a General Tonic II not sold by your decoulst, write ARTHUR PETER & CO., LOUISVILLE, KY.

Box 81. Mrs. Fonner is some better. but I must have treatment for some time. I need money to pay for that. We are gaining some here all the time, but we have also lost some by removals.—F. P. Fonner.

As you value your soul's life and all that is worth while in life, keep the absolutely open mind, the single eye; be utterly true to your own best vision. For no man can set the limit to that to which he may come, if he begins by juggling with his reason and conscience.-King.

Eruptions and Injuries Soothed, Disinfected, Healed with

Wash first with Ka-Dene Soap. Pleasant, Effective, Indispensable, Ointment 50c and $1.00. Soap 25c. At your druggists

Volume LXII. No. 44

NASHVILLE, TENN., OCTOBER 28, 1920.

$2.50 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

CONTENTS.

EDIFVING AS THE NEED MAY BE. OUR CONTRIBUTORS Sharing the Sorrows and Joys of the People—A Missionary Measure—"Restoration Congress" of Disciples of Christ—Light Wanted—Gambling—Conscious Identity Report of the Work in Oktisu—Los Angeles Notes—What About Your War Record?—Studies in the Life of Christ: His Recention.	1042
EDITORIAL	42.40
Woman Suffrage—"Let There Be Light."	11141
SELECTIONS BY THE EDITOR	1051
AT HOME AND ABROAD.
AT HUMB AND ABRUAD	1002
CURRENT THOUGHT	1009
He That Built Ali Things is God	1099
Hobbies and Hobby Riders	1056
Hobbies and Hobby Riders	1057
The Pacific Christian Academy	1058
"Balm in Gilead"
Beware of the Leaven	1067
TO DETERM A TO LINCO	1061
OBITUARIES CHURCH NEWS	1001
CHURCH NEWS	1064
FIELD NOTES	1063

ŢĮĮ

Edifying as the Need May Be

J.

Mary, the Mother of Jesus.

If I had at my tongue's end all that has been written of Mary, the mother of Jesus, in other books besides the divine record, and should endeavor to reveal all that I had read, it would take a long time to tell it. These other books are full of legendary stories connected with her childhood and after life. In them we are told that she was miraculously granted to her aged and childless parents; that at the age of three she was dedicated to God in the temple, where she remained until she was twelve; that during these years she increased in virtue, while angels ministered unto her; that at the age of twelve she was betrothed to Joseph, an aged widower. The visit of Gabriel, the journey to Bethlehem, and the Savior's birth in a cave are mentioned. It is explained that at the moment of Jesus' birth all nature was hushed, the fowls of the air stopped in their flight, men with uplifted arms drew them not down, the scattered sheep stood still, and the kids with their lips to the water refrained from drinking. But why mention any more of these stories? Generally speaking, they are a pack of lies. If we knew them all, we would only know a great deal that was legendary and untruthful and very little that was truthful and profitable.

If these stories were simply regarded as fiction and treated as such, the result would not be so bad; but when we find a great many of them translated into doctrines, and when we know that thousands of men and women blindly accept these doctrines as part of their religion and teach others that they are absolutely essential, then we can understand how dangerous it is to follow legendary accounts and how necessary it is to stand with our feet planted on the word of God as the one unshaken rock of truth and righteousness. Strange to say, these doctrines about Mary are not only out of accord with Bible teaching, but directly opposed to it. Let us consider some of them.

The Doctrine of Perpetual Virginity.

This is a matter incapable of proof, but all the same it is an essential dogma of the Roman Catholic Church and also of the Greek Church. Volumes have been written in a vain endeavor to prove that Mary had but one child, and that child was Jesus, and that he was miraculously born. But Matthew explains the marriage relation of Joseph to Mary by saying he "knew her not until she had brought forth a son." (Matt. 1: 25.) The New Testament speaks of Jesus' brothers, and the burden of proof among the scholars goes to show that they were his real brothers, not his half-brothers or his cousins. Both the Old Testament and the New Testament teach that maternity is praiseworthy. Any doctrine which overestimates the sanctity of virginity to the extent that it depreciates the sanctity of matrimony is entirely unscriptural. The charge in Mary's case is not a glory, as the Catholics would have us believe, but a slight.

0 0

The Doetrine of Mary's Sinlessness.

For years her name has been the subject of illimitable reverence among thousands of people. She is not only praised, admired, and reverenced, but she is worshiped as God himself, and there are those who speak of her to-day as the "Mother of God." This was one of the earliest errors that crept into the ancient churches. The historian Epiphanius about the year 370 mentions certain heretics who worshiped the Virgin and strongly reproves them, The error gained impetus with the Nestorian controversy and soon became general. With the worship of Mary there gradually arose a belief in her sinlessness. The early fathers, while claiming for her perfection of womanhood, state distinctly their belief that she shared in man's fallen nature and that she had committed actual sin. But Augustine, though net denying her participation in original sin, suggested her freedom through grace from actual transgression. And so the fallacy grew until now her reputed freedom from all taint of sin, whether original or actual, is taught, and was officially declared an article of faith by Pius IX., in 1854, in connection with his decree concerning the immaculate conception. The Greek and Roman Catholic Churches have also made the fanciful legends about the miraculous translation of her body after her death part of their doctrine. They celebrate the festival of her assumption on August 15 each year. This explains why thousands of people not only reverence, but worship, Mary, and speak of her constantly as "Saint Mary." In fact, the time seems near at hand when those who hold this faith will offer more prayers to Mary than to God himself.

In view of these popular doctrines, one who had not read the New Testament might believe that it was full of information concerning the personal history of Mary and the necessity of looking upon her as an object of worship. But such is not the case. There are only three direct references to her in connection with our Savior's active ministry. There are three incidents where she appears in company with Jesus and his followers. On the occasion of the first miracle (John 2) "there was a marriage in Cana of Galilee: and the mother of Jesus was there; and Jesus also was bidden, and his disciples, to the marriage. And when the wine failed, the mother of Jesus saith unto him, They have no wine. And Jesus saith unto her, Woman, what have I to do with thee? mine hour is not yet come." (John 2: 1-4.) Again, when the pressure of his ministry caused him to neglect his food, so that his friends said, "He is beside himself," Mary was standing there with his brethren. When some one called attention to their presence, he stretched his hands over the crowd and said: "Behold, my mother and my brethren! For whoseever shall do the will of God, the same is my brother, and sister, and mother." (Mark 3: 20, 21, 34, 35.) When he was hanging upon the cross, he looked down upon the broken-hearted Mary. He had compassion upon her, and tenderly provided for her by intrusting her to the care of the beloved John. It was so simply and so beautifully done. He said to Mary: "Woman, behold, thy son!" And he said to the disciple whom he loved: "Behold, thy mother!" (John 19: 26, 27.) These are the three incidents where Mary appears in company with Jesus. In none of them, nor at any other time, does he address her or speak of her as "mother," and in the first incident he asserts his absolute independence of her authority. What are we to infer from this? That Jesus was ashamed of his mother, or rough with his mother, or that she was unworthy of his affection? No, we are to infer nothing of the sort. But the lesson is that Jesus, in working out the world's redemption, thought it right to acknowledge only spiritual kinship, and this he makes a matter of supreme importance. The world does Mary a great injustice when it lifts her to a high pinnacle of peculiar sainthood. I have no doubt but that the very thought of the unnatural devotion of the Romish Church would have been utterly abhorrent to her. The apostles refused to be worshiped. Simon Peter said to the grateful devotee at his feet: "Rise up, I also am a man; worship God." Even when the apostles are writing and speaking of one another, they never apply the word "saint" to an individual. They always use the term in a collective sense. So far as New Testament authority is concerned, we may believe that any good sister in the church of Christ to-day is just as much entitled to the name "saint" as was Mary, the mother of Jesus. If I should make this statement in the Roman Catholic Church, I would be excommunicated and ostracized, perhaps; but it is true, nevertheless. The New Testament does not confer sainthood upon one Christian above another. All are saints who do the will of God.

(To be continued.)

Christ the Builder.

If I could hold within my hand
The hammer Jesus swung,
Not all the gold in all the land,
Nor jewels countless as the sand—
All in the balance flung,
Could weigh the value of that thing
Round which his fingers once did cling,

If I could have the table he Once made in Nazareth,
Not all the pearls in all the seas
Nor crowns of kings to be
As long as men have breath
Could buy that thing of wood he made—
The Lord of lords who learned a trade.

Yea, but his hammer still is shown
By honest hands that toil.
And round his table men sit down,
And all are equals, with a crown
Nor gold nor pearls can soil.
The shop at Nazareth was bare,
But brotherhood was builded there.
—Charles M. Shelton.

Sharing the Sorrows and Joys of the People.

BY ISAAC C. HOSKINS.

[Editor's Note.—The lamented Isaac C. Hoskins wrote this article for one of our Special Numbers, which appeared March 25, 1915. It was greatly appreciated at the time, but more so now that he has passed to his reward. In this article our beloved brother was describing some of his own experiences in sharing the sorrows and joys of the people. It was a revelation of his own kind and sympathetic nature and an index to his daily practice.]

How treat such a theme? One who is willing to share the sorrows of the people—especially of the poor—will find that he has a rich share of their joys. An elder who has known me through the years that we labored shoulder to shoulder in the Lord's vineyard said: "The sorrows and troubles of the people are your sorrows and troubles." That is true. A preacher, writing to me of my work, the other day, said: "Say, it's great—this being a 'big brother' to everybody in town." It is. Profoundly grateful to God should the preacher be to whom the people feel free to come with their troubles and sorrows.

I have been present when a saint left the "earthly tabernacle" for glory. Brothers, sisters, husband, children, all bidden an affectionate farewell. Then she requested a prayer; after that, the song that had frequently been sung for her during her illness. Yes, with my arms about her big-hearted husband, who had been so tender and true to her, the tears would flow from my own eyes. I sang:

> When I walk in God's clear sunlight, With its beauty beaming fair; Or when shadows seem to gather, I may see him everywhere.

He will lead me, he will lead me,
Be my true and constant guide;
He will lead me, he will lead me—
In his love I may abide.

The song finished, she "fell asleep," as she had lived, "in Jesus." Such a departure is a triumph. Neither science, philosophy, nor criticism can give it. It comes of faith.

We are in another home now. There are many guests in the great house on this happy occasion. There are congratulations. There is a beautifully spread board. The band is playing. The master of the house lifts his hand. The music ceases. Then he says: "Let there be perfect quiet. The Lord has been so good to us. He has blessed us with so many blessings. I want Brother Hoskins to offer to him a prayer of thanksgiving on our behalf."

A brother comes bowed with sorrow. "The doctor says she can't live but a few weeks. She wants to see you." They live in another city. I go. A week later he meets me with the glad hand, his face smiling as he says: "She is better now; sitting up; think she will get well."

Again it is night. It has been such a busy day and the preacher is so tired. But a young man's life hangs in the balance. His father, mother, and sister are out at the hospital, where, in the late afternoon, he had submitted to an operation too long postponed. Through the night watches again and again prayer is sent to the Father above, and on through the busy hours of the next day as the preacher hurries from one duty to another. Later the doctor says: "He's recovering. It is almost miraculous." But I believe that God sometimes bares his mighty arm and "giveth strength" and wisdom in answer to his children's cry.

A poor man has been ill with typhoid fever, is much weakened. His wife is worn out with watching and ministering. The physician is troubled. This is the critical time. The doctor says: "He will be better or worse in the morning." The man who was to "sit up" has not come. The preacher remains after receiving careful instructions from the doctor. Next morning the patient is better. At that time neither had obeyed the gospel. Both are Christians now. Next time I went to the humble home the man said: "Glad to see you. You did me good." Received a beautiful letter from the doctor recently.

Let us hasten, for the night is drawing her curtain over these bleak hills, and the chill wind flaps the gate upon Its rusty hinges and smites through the thin walls of these huts in which dwell the very poor. Let's visit one more family in need ere the day is done. "Come in" is the answer to our knock on the thin, eracked door. A mother, weary, thin, and but poorly clad, holds in her arms a little child eighteen months old, who has never seen its father, who died twenty months ago. This babe is the youngest of seven. The oldest, though but seventeen, is stooped, careworn, and old beyond her years. She and her sister next younger are "breadwinners." "How much do they together earn a week?" "They made three dollars last week." In answer to a question: "Yes, this one sometimes makes fifty cents a week, but she is sick now." Another question. "No, sir, haven't any medicine; haven't had a doctor." "Mrs. Blank, I beg your pardon, but groceries are so very high, and three dollars don't go very far in feeding eight. What are some of the articles you most need?" She is a little embarrassed, and swallows two or three times, looking at her children who are grouped about her and near the dying embers of a wood fire in the coal grate. Then the mother love overcomes, and, looking into the eyes of the strange visitor, she says: "Anything you want to send will be acceptable. We have nothing but a few potatoes and a little meal." As we hurry on our way we meet the oldest "breadwinner," who is carrying two small bundles. In answer to kindly questioning: "This is a little meat, and this is a loaf of bread. Mother wanted some butter, but I was afraid to ask credit for so much, lest they would not let me have anything; so I did not ask for the butter."

Supper is over, company is gone, work is done, and the visitor to that hut has retired. But sleep but lightly touches his eyelids to uneasy slumber till the wee hours of the morning, for they have seen much of need and suffering. Then, with a prayer for the fatherless and needy, he falls asleep, and dreams of a city whose gates are pearl and whose streets are gold, where there shall be no pain, nor sickness, nor hunger, nor night, but "God shall wipe away every tear from their eyes."

A Missionary Measure. BY E. C. FUQUA.

As an encouragement to others, and by way of explanation generally, I wish to relate to the brethren that, among other means sought by us in Colorado through which to sound out the word, we have adopted the generous use of the printing press. This work has been inaugurated by a few brethren at Fort Collins and Bellvue, who have undertaken the work in full faith that it will do more to spread the truth in this country than a thousand preachers could do. I shall try to briefly explain this work.

The Green's Chapel congregation (Kentucky) generously provided me with a job press and some type with which to print tracts and free literature for distribution on this field, and with this outfit I have turned out large quantities, which is now bearing fruit. But the work was slow, tedious, and expensive because of the small equipment and the vast amount of work necessary to do any amount of printing. The printing was taxing me severely, yet to quit would be to lose a vast opportunity for teaching the truth.

A larger press was needed if the work continued. Last February a daily paper in this city "went to the wall" and suddenly threw on the market at fifty cents on the dollar their newspaper press—a modern flat-bed press, nearly new and fully equipped. This press was offered us, as stated, at about one-half its present value. Seeing this advantage to the cause in which we are interested, we decided to purchase the press and put it to tract work immediately. The two churches at Fort Collins and Bellvue "chipped in" and started the work, and four brethren here went to the bank and arranged a cash payment to secure the press, paying five hundred dollars on it. It was then moved into my own garage, where it would be convenient for my use, and put to work.

This is purely a missionary enterprise. Nothing in the way of a "paper" will ever be printed on it, but free tract and circular work exclusively, and this exclusively for the world. We print all sorts of free tracts and articles, then the brethren here form into "squads" and take these papers and place a copy in every home in the city-all free of charge. Aside from various forms of tract printing, I conceived the idea of printing a free tract in newspaper form, hearing a newspaper heading-"The Whole Counsel" it is called; but it is not a paper in any sense, has no subscription price, and is not mailed out to subscribers (save a copy is sent to each one who has contributed to the good work). Each issue of this newspaper-tract contains one whole subject; as, for instance, "The Whole Counsel of God Respecting Christian Baptism," "The Whole Counsel of God Regarding the Church," etc.

Each issue aims to exhaust the subject treated, and only one subject is treated in a single issue. This is tract work purely, and is the only work we intend doing on the press. Certain is it that we will never print a paper. I got enough of that years ago, and no one connected with this tract work has any desire to see another paper launched before the brotherhood—never. We have enough papers already, if not entirely too many, we think; but the work we are doing is a distinct work—nothing like it in America to-day—a press wholly given to spreading the truth by means of tracts placed in the hands of the world.

We recently printed a paper exposing "Christian Science;" we have others against "Seventh-Day Adventism," "Russellism," "Mormonism," etc. Certainly this is a good work and should be encouraged by all brethren. Our last paper-tract was on "The Law of Moses and the Law of Christ," showing conclusively the distinctness of each and yet their scriptural relation to each other. The whole world needs to know this lesson. We are sowing this lesson broadcast in Colorado, as we do all the others.

Now, my preaching is all night work, leaving the daytime for me to use in printing this free literature. I am an experienced, rapid printer, and while preaching at night near home I put in from ten to twelve hours of the day printing these tracts to hand around. Thus every hour of my time is devoted to the work for which I am being supported in Colorado. No man can do more work than I am doing preaching the word orally and through the press.

Some donations come in for the express support of this printing work. Every item is kept distinct from the oral work, a separate book being scrupulously kept and which is open to every brother everywhere. We do no commercial printing of any sort. I feel that my time belongs to Christ, since brethren are holding up my hands to preach him day and night; hence, I am giving all my time to preaching him.

Now, the brethren at Fort Collins and Bellvue feel that it is right to allow and to encourage other brethren to assist in this work. Several churches have assisted. This press is serving exactly the purpose a gospel tent is meant to serve—a means for reaching the people with the truth—and we feel that as we would accept assistance from others to secure a tent for this field, so we should accept assistance till our press is all paid for. Not one penny of the money sent to the printing fund goes to E. C. Fuqua. His work is free, being paid for, he feels, by those who support him to preach the word here. And we are to purchase no more outfit of any character. We have all we are able to use. Those who know the writer know nothing will be taught through our tracts except first principles, in which we are all a unit. Evidently it is a grand work. Send for copies and examine for yourself.

"Restoration Congress" of Disciples of Christ.

Editor's Note.-W. F. Roberts, of Troy, Tenn., sends us the following concerning the Restoration Congress which recently assembled in St. Louis, as published in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat of October 16. We give it to our readers that they may see just what the ultra-progressives are proposing. Some of us knew thirty or forty years ago that those who favored departures from the word of God would go entirely away, as has been developed. The best thing for preachers to do is to keep busy preaching the gospel of Christ in its simplicity. Those who are now attending the convention at St. Louis should be preaching the gospel. Men who believe the Bible will not deny its inspiration. It is to be regretted that men will not be satisfied to teach the word of God in its simplicity, speaking where the Bible speaks and being silent where it is

Primitive doctrines of the early Christians, opposition to any but a literal interpretation of the creation, disfavor of financial drives, and denial of church membership to all persons not immersed—these were outstanding requests of the "Restoration Congress" which opened at the Odeon vesterday afternoon, to voice the opinions of a dissenting element in the Church of the Disciples of Christ. The congress was planned to come just before the national convention of the Disciples of Christ, which will meet at the Coliseum Monday, to continue all of next week. About four hundred persons were at the opening session of the congress. It was stated that a majority of these were ministers

Rev. P. H. Welshimer, of Canton, Ohio, the presiding officer, disclaimed any desire on the part of the congress to cause a division in the church. "The brotherhood of the Disciples of Christ is a thousand times larger than any agency of the Disciples of Christ," he said. He denied a charge of being a "knocker," saying: "God pity us if the day comes that a man or a group of men cannot oppose a certain policy without being denominated a 'knocker.'

"It is because the great heart of the brotherhood beats right that this congress is called. If we did not believe in the methods and plans of an organized work, and desire to further it and protect it, we might simply stay at home and let it die. Our purpose is to stress, restate, and re-indoctrinate the things that are fundamental. For seventy-five years after its beginning the whole brotherhood of the Disciples of Christ would have rejoiced in this kind of We believe in a restoration of the church of the New Testament."

Rev. Mark Collis, of Lexington, Ky., made a touching reference to the kinship between all parts of the church and urged every one to pray for harmony. Dr. Collis recalled a meeting in St. Louis, seven years ago, when the Men and Millions Movement of the Disciples was started. "The leading spirit of that movement declared that not a cent of the money to be raised should be given to any colleges teaching destructive criticism. What a change since then! "After most of the money had been subscribed, the colleges came out in the open, and the preachers began to declare themselves, so that to-day some of our colleges are wholly and some partly given up to rationalism, unitarianism, and the worst kinds of latitudinarianism,

We know that some preachers openly advocate departing from God's word, asserting that God is making revelations to us to-day, in addition to the revelation in his inspired word. We know that our missionary societies are encouraging departures from the teaching of the word of God. We had heard again and again of what was being advocated in India, China, and Japan. Now we know. Questions that we have asked about certain practices in Jamaica have been unanswered." The "practices" referred to an alleged method of receiving members without accustomed qualifications of faith and baptism by immersion.

Dr. Collis said that he was satisfied that "nine-tenths of the brotherhood are not in sympathy with what is going on to-day in the mission boards and colleges.'

Rev. W. H. Book, of Columbus, Ind., began with Jesus hrist's teaching in Jerusalem. "There has never been Christ's teaching in Jerusalem. one new truth," he said, "touching Christianity that has ever been given to the world since the apostles of the Lord Jesus Christ died. The church has a divine name, and It is a divine church ought not to have any nickname. with a divine head, and has a scriptural program.

"This Bible tells us to meet on the first day of the week to break bread, by which is typified the body of our Lord, and at this time for us each to give as the Lord has prospered us; but I do not find anything in this book about these modern special 'drives' of the Men and Millions Movement. Our purpose is to restore primitive, apostolic

Christianity

"We are here to enter a protest against any doctrine saying there is a human standard of authority. If human standards were followed to the last analysis, it would make every man an anarchist. There is one authority, Jesus Christ; and where Jesus Christ speaks, we will speak; and where he is silent, we will be silent.

We protest against our colleges teaching our boys and girls that the book of Genesis is full of mistakes and that it is only an allegory about the creation of man-that man didn't fall down, but fell up. We don't believe in the doc-trine of an original 'one cell,' and that God had to have one cell, and that he monkeyed around for a long time and then made man. We want to emphasize the fact that this great God could speak and bring a world into existence, and could speak and bring a man into existence.

"We protest against any teacher that would teach that the Bible is inspired like Shakespeare, and that part of it is true and part of it is not true. The poor fellow that is taught never knows exactly what is true and what is

We are unwilling to countenance any man or woman on a foreign soil who would promise and undertake to take the fellows in on a dry baptism or a substitute baptism. We protest against any missionary or preacher on any soil cutting out a part of the Bible.

"We protest that we are not going to surrender to the missionary societies. Every Christian is a missionary. United Christian Missionary Society is not the church of The church existed long before the Foreign by came into existence. The missionary or-Jesus Christ. Mission Scelety came into existence. ganization is the child of the church, and it has been kid-naped by the Chicago bunch."

"The greatest home and foreign missionary work that could be done to-day would be to unite the followers of Christ on the Bible," Rev. Ira M. Boswell, of Georgetown, Ky., declared, "The disciples of Christ will never win the world to their Lord unless they are willing to grant the prayer of Christ that there should be unity among his people," he said.

Rev. A. McLean, of St. Louis, head of the Foreign Missionary Society, was called to the platform when open forum was voted, and he was questioned by the delegates in regard to practices in the missionary field, particularly in regard to whether open membership was allowed in the foreign membership. He declared that to his knowledge the foreign church was conducted along the same lines as the home church.

Rev. P. H. Welshimer, of Canton, Ohio, temporary chairman, was elected permanent chairman of the convention, with Rev. F. D. Kershner, of Des Moines, Iowa, vice chairman.

Light Wanted.

BY A. M. GEORGE.

Brother Kurfees, in his article under the headline, "Bible Things by Bible Names," makes an effort to show that some members of denominational churches are at the same time members of the church of God, and refers to the divisions in the church at Corinth as parallel with these denominations. And as the Corinthians were all addressed by Paul as the church at Corinth, notwithstanding their divisions, he seems to conclude that sectarians, notwithstanding their partyism, may also be part of God's church, He says: "But we of to-day are in the midst of denominationalism, which means that the people of God in this period of their history are unfortunately divided into clashing and conflicting parties precisely as they were divided in the city of Corinth in Paul's day, only the divisions of modern times are on a much larger scale," etc. He calls the denominational world "the people of God." John calls it "Babylon." It seems to me that the brother does away with Babylon entirely. If the denominations are not all in Babylon, then there can be no Babylon. No man can be a Christian and a Babylonian at the same time. John puts every man or woman who is not in God's church in Babylon. (See Rev. 13: 4, 8; 14: 9, 10.)

Next, are these denominations "precisely" the same as the church at Corinth? Surely not, it seems to me. The members of the church at Corinth heard only the gospel of Christ as preached by Paul and all other preachers of that time; no other was known. They all believed it, obeyed it, and the Lord added them to his church. Their sin consisted in some liking Paul, some Apollos, some Cephas, etc., all of whom preached the same gospel, and allowing those preferences, innocent in themselves, to go so far as to divide them into parties. There was no division that we know of on account of their doctrines, or faith. They were sinners in the church, about like Simon, Ananias, and other members.

But how about these denominationalists? They have suffered themselves to be led away from the gospel of Christ to another gospel, a contradiction of the gospel of Christ (see Gal 1), by "false teachers, wolves in sheep's clothing," which people should know by their fruits, as set forth in Matt. 10: 34-38, such as setting fathers against sons, mothers against daughters, creating enmity in households, leading even to death. They are cognizant of all this partyism, enmity, confusion, etc., caused by these false teachers; they see the fruit on every hand, everywhere; but for all sorts of reasons they patronize them. They accept what little truth the false teacher gives them, and also all the heresies, and so go into Babylon. I fail to see how these are precisely or in any degree like those Corinthians. These are sinners in Babylon, worshipers of the beast, like the man in Rev. 14: 9, 10. We cannot serve two masters. The Corinthians knew no church but the church of God, no gospel but the gospel of Christ, and their belief of and obedience to it led God to add them to his church. The terms that admitted them were not part truth and part (the larger part) falsehood-"mixed seed." The terms ruling in the denominational world, by which they claim to be in the church, contain a very little truth, as it were by accident, with a large measure of falsehood-"mixed seed." Are they "precisely alike?" Are they alike at all? If they are, please show us where we may look for Babylon. God may have some prospective people in these Babylonish churches, like he had sheep among the Gentiles before they ever heard the gospel; but he calls on them to come out, that they partake not of her sins and plagues. They must come out by obedience to the gospel, and they cannot get out any other way.

Gambling.

BY E. B. BARNES.

One October afternoon in 1919 the Chicago White Sox met the Cincinnati Reds in the opening game of the world's series. Thirty thousand spectators filled the stands, excited and expectant. Other thousands throughd bulletin boards, for the great dailies had wires leading direct to every city in the land, so that even minute details of the game could be instantly heralded abroad. Fame and fat purses were the rewards.

All wise sports expected the White Sox to win, for Cicotte was in the box. They were "the most nearly perfect baseball machine in the history of the game," and he was their star pitcher, being likewise the star among all pitchers, for his average for the season was highest of all.

Cicotte was the central figure in this drama. Upon his expertness and steadiness depended his own future, those of his teammates, and the hopes of their supporters. So thought everybody. More attention was directed toward this ball player that afternoon than ever gratified Nebuchadnezzar or imperial Napoleon. Cicotte was a hero, a master artist, admired and trusted.

Under the strain of this tense moment the premier's skill failed—so the wires flashed to an eager world. His first throw hit a Cincinnati batter squarely in the side. Cicotte was wild. His wildness lost the game by a score of 9 to 1. The world commiserated the unfortunate sportsman—and fortunes in bets changed hands.

In October, 1920, the newspapers again carried Cicotte's name across the front page; he had confessed in court to having accepted a bribe of ten thousand dollars to "throw" this game. He purposely hit this batter and by other bad plays caused the White Sox to lose. To-day he is a disgraced, ruined man; despised as a betrayer of the sport which had yielded him glory and affluence; loathed as a traitor to his employer and to his club. He is the Benedict Arnold of the national game.

A Power Insidious and Destructive.

The story of this sad defection interests good people because it emphasizes for them the unscrupulousness and vast power of the gambling profession. It invades every field where a harvest seems sure. It has the magic, money, with which resolution may be melted and good transmuted into bad. Its intelligence, alertness, and resourcefulness are second only to its greediness, cruelty, and capacity for debasing. Cicotte was seduced by gamblers' gold. Left alone, he would have continued an honorable, successful ball player. Bought and detected, he is paying a well-deserved penalty. But how much mightier condemnation should descend upon the gamblers!

Theirs is the damnable power which lures honest employees into thievery, trusted officials into embezzlement, provident husbands into want, and obedient sons into dissipation; a power which never tires, which hesitates at no criminal step, which commands keen tricksters to plot its conquests and to cover its tracks; a power which invades the markets and manipulates them to pauperize and to enrich, and which in the disguise of legitimate enterprise possesses itself of the funds of trusting investors.

Business and finance and statecraft and education can have no partnership with the profession of gambling. They are properly built upon right dealing and right purpose; while it thrives upon chicanery, misrepresentation, and lust for gain. They are contributors to happiness, freedom, and prosperity; while it is inimical, destructive even, to every human good.

No Christian can possibly encourage or endure that which even the ordinary callings condemn as immoral. His calling is as much higher than they as heaven is over earth. If the merchant, solely from the merchant's point of view, combats gambling, surely no Christian can compromise with it even in its slightest form. He cannot erect any arbitrary two-and-three-quarter-per-cent standard; gambling of any sort or strength or intensity is gambling. The Christian's duty in every instance where gambling is present is clearly to oppose it.

TRAIN THE YOUNG.

But it is too much to hope that this pernicious power can be destroyed or even very helpfully restrained in quick time. Force is unavailing, for those who gamble successfully are far too wily, too well entrenched, to be cornered and coerced. Likewise persuasion is impossible, for the regular gambler keeps beyond the furthest extent of the spiritual warmth of God's holy religion. The field of battle must be the hearts of the young. A fight against the evil of gambling can be made effectively in that period when ideals are forming and character is developing.

Gamblers are not born such. Environment creates them —practices common in business, in sports, in social life. Public opinion tolerates gambling, though it is forbidden in the letter of our law. At fairs gambling games abound, in which children may participate. Betting upon school athletic contests is a large contributor to their interest. Playing for stakes at card parties is no unusual procedure, even in religious homes. Raffling is a recognized method of raising funds for worthy causes. Little boys play marbles for "winnance," with no interruption from parents. Good people, so-called Christian homes, accept or ignore these as permissible, or at least as negligible violations of the scripture which commands: "Provide things honest in the sight of all men."

Incorrect or insufficient training at home, together with the general attitude of the public, leaves boys unfortified against this seductive vice. Gambling furnishes excitement, even more than do other pastimes or business. There is in it, furthermore, the lure of gain—quick gain. No sin, no passion, perhaps, grows faster and fastens its grip more securely upon its victim than does gambling. A manufacturer of my acquaintance who has employed many young men declares that the gambling habit is worst among bad habits and the hardest for one addicted to break. He will not employ any one who so much as plays pool with the price of the game as the stake.

Christian parents, Christian teachers, Christian editors, Christian public officials, Christian citizens, have this task ready to their hands—the creation of a healthy public opinion regarding gambling; the training and rearing of children without the development of the slightest taste for gambling; the active warring against every present manifestation and purpose of the gambler's trade.

Conscious Identity.

BY H. C. FLEMING.

"And the Lord God formed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life; and man became a living soul." (Gen. 2: 7.)

When man was formed of the dust of the ground, he certainly had all the physical faculties belonging to man, but there was no life in him. This state, or condition, is again that of man when he dies. But we learn from the above quotation that God breathed into his nostrils the breath of life, and that man became a living soul—a conscious identity. Before this was done there was not any thought or consciousness in him, because his body was of the earth, earthy. But we notice that his life came by the power of God, and that there were two parts to man, a body and a soul, both from the same Creator.

There are some who claim that this action of God in giving man life was only the breath that he gave him, and that when he ceases to breathe he is no more. This is certainly a very unwise conclusion. Which was the greater work, the forming of the body of the dust of the ground or the giving of life to it? The smallest intellect surely ought to be able to understand that the giving of life was the greater work, and that there is more in the expression, "breathed into his nostrils the breath of life," than merely the air that was breathed into his nostrils. If the air alone was what gave life, life could be produced again by a similar process after man is dead, and he would a ain become a living soul. This has been tried by men, but never yet has life been restored to man by such action.

Of course all understand that it is necessary to animal life to breathe in order to live; but which is greater, He who made this law or the law itself?

I once heard a man ask another if he should blow a bottle full of wind, would it become a living bottle? The man whom he addressed was nonplussed by the question, because such a thought had never before entered his mind.

In reference to the man who was born blind, to whom Jesus had given sight, "some said, This is he: others said, He is like him: but he said, I am he." (John 9: 9.) If there was no conscious identity in the man, how could he know that he was the same individual? "For what man knoweth the things of a man, save the spirit of man which is in him? even so the things of God knoweth no man, but the Spirit of God." (1 Cor. 2: 11.) The Spirit of God is, therefore, a conscious identity; and as man was created in the image of God (Gen. 1: 27), he also has a spirit, an inner man—a conscious identity.

When a man has reached the age of forty-two years, he has had at least six different bodies, all from the earth, earthy, and his last body is no more like his first body than it is like the body of any other man; but the spirit of the man is the same as that in his first body, by which he knows that he is the same being—a conscious identity. He can call up the memory of his past life and speak intelligently of those things. This could not be, unless there is something in him that changes not through the vicissitudes of his earthly life.

"And when he had opened the fifth seal, I saw under the altar the souls of them that were slain for the word of God, and for the testimony which they held." (Rev. 6: 9.) This clearly shows that those who were slain had a conscious identity after the death of the body. The case of the rich man and Lazarus teaches the same (Luke 16: 19-31), and also that there is a vast difference between the condition of the wicked and the righteous in this continued existence of conscious identity. The dead, small and great, are to stand before God and be judged. (Rev. 20: 12.) How could these be judged if they had no consciousness of the things they had done, either good or bad? The reader will understand that this occurred after their bodies had returned to dust.

"Beloved, now are we the sons of God, and it doth not yet appear what we shall be: but we know that when he shall appear, we shall be like him; for we shall see him as he is." (1 John 3: 2.) Here is shown the consciousness of the righteous and the hope of the new body like that of the Lord Jesus.

But what of the wicked? They shall be separated forever "from the presence of the Lord, and the glory of his power." (2 Thess. 1: 7-9.)

If there was to be no conscious identity of existence, all this about glory and happiness or eternal misery would be of no value, but a solemn meckery to man.

But, dear reader, the Bible is true: therefore "what manner of persons ought we to be in all holy conversation and godliness?" (2 Pet. 3: 11.)

Report of the Work in Okitsu. BY SABAH ANDREWS.

It is with a joyful heart that I grasp this opportunity of writing to any who may be interested in the work here. The last report was sent about the middle of April. I shall here give a brief account of the work that has been done since that time. By the Lord's grace the work has continued to grow. There have been nine baptisms during the last four months. There were three the last week in April-the young girl whom I had been helping through school and who is now with us in the work; Oiki San's mother, who is sixty-one years old; and the son of the assistant station master here in the town. I asked Brother Fujimori to come and do the baptizing, and he and Brother Kogo made the long trip, which is ten hours by train, and stayed three days evangelizing. Their visit meant much for the work. I thank the Lord for such men of faith and loyalty in this land of superstition and division. Brother Aoki, a former naval officer, was baptized in July. He is a man of deep faith and consecration and says he no longer expects to fight with a steel sword, but with the sword of the Spirit. He has done some street preaching here, and great crowds gathered to hear him. On one occasion many of the people clapped; on another occasion an old man in the crowd thanked him, which is unusual in Japan. We believe with him that street preaching is the only way of reaching the great mass of people. Especially is the street preaching best now, since there is no place for the meetings except in our home. We hope and pray that Brother Aoki may be greatly used of God in bringing these people from darkness to light. However, he was recently called by the government to teach in a school in Osaka; but, wishing to help in the Lord's work here, he promised to serve in the school only a year and a half. There being several others to be baptized, I asked Brother Fujimori to come again the first week in August, and there were five baptisms. These were: The former subchief of the neighboring village, who has been studying since last December; a boy, sixteen years old, who works in a geta or wooden sandal factory here, and is exceptionally earnest in telling the truth to old and young as opportunity affords; a young student who has been coming all summer from five to six o'clock in the afternoon for Bible study; an old man who is near seventy and who was formerly a Presbyterian; and a young man who was a student of the government agricultural school here, and who came when we first opened work last fall asking to study the Bible. He often expresses gratitude that he has found the true way. Being grateful for his own blessings, he wishes to become a selfsupporting worker among his native people wherever he may go. Brother Fujimori stayed over Sunday and preached two fine sermons to the church. He and Brother Hatanaka, who came with him, preached on the street two evenings. They gave us a feast of good things.

The work among the children continues encouraging. Eighteen grammar-school boys came several weeks ago asking to be taught about Christ, saying they were busy on Sunday and could not attend Sunday school. Oiki San has a nice class for them on Monday and Friday evenings each week. New opportunities for work have been opened up among the young people, and we hope to use as many of them as possible to the best of our ability with the Lord's help. We go to a neighboring village once a month to speak to thirty or more young women who meet together for training in home education preparatory to entering homes of their own.

REPORT OF RECEIPTS AND EXPENDITURES FOR SECOND QUARTER.

Receipts for April: Through Brother Bradley (for March), $75; church at Donelson, Tenn., $2; church at Belzoni, Miss., $9.77; through Brother Bradley, $75. For May: "A Sister," $5; David Lipscomb College church, $30; church at Donelson, Tenn., $5; church at Belzoni, Miss., $5.80; donated through McQuiddy Printing Company, $69.20; Sister D. Lipscomb, $5; through Brother Bradley, $75. For June: Through W. H. Allen, $12.50; church at Belzoni, Miss., $5.75; Brother S. P. Durrance, Avon Park, Fla., $25; through Brother Bradley, $75. Total for the quarter, $475.02.

Expenditures for the quarter were as follows: For food, $71.51; for the work, $122.41; for rent, fuel, light, and other expenses connected with housekeeping, $99.05; for personal expenses, $25.67; for others, $17.22. Total, $335.86.

The Secret of Weakness.

It is the failure to spend a definite, even though it be short, time each day with God that is the secret of all weakness, variableness, and shallowness in our spiritual experience and service. Our time may not be long, but it must be regular; and from the act will come the habit, and from the habit the attitude, and from the attitude the character, settled, strong, sure, and abiding, wherein God's presence will be more and more a delight, and God's power more and more realized.—W. H. G. Thomas.

LOS ANGELES NOTES

2669 North Sichel Street.

House of worship, corner Altura and North Sichel Streets. Take North Broad Street car to Sichel, then one block to left.

There is nothing more thrilling than a church at work. I love to hear of it, and it stirs my soul to see it.

I have just received a good letter from Brother Hugh E. Garrett, of East Point, Ga., and I shall give a few excerpts from it for comment and the good it will do others. In speaking of the East Point work, he says: "The work at East Point is just fine-additions nearly every Lord's day. I am trying to make the night service a special feature. and the audience is growing by leaps and bounds; nearly every seat taken Sunday night [September 3], and at least eighty-five strangers and aliens in the house." It sounds good when there are "additions nearly every Lord's day." Only a live church has such. We have many congregations that never have additions except when the annual revival comes. And the idea of making the Sunday-night services a "special feature" is fine. But the audiences grow "by leaps and bounds" only when the whole church makes it such. Sometimes the preacher will try to make it "special," and a "deadhead" lot of members can make it a "special" failure. But Garrett has a lot of brethren who love the cause and who pull with their might, and hence can do things when he launches a movement the success of which depends on an all-pull-together effort. That you may see he has such members, I give the following also from his letter: "We are preaching twice a month at Palmetto, Ga., using the Masonic Hall. We will go again this coming Sunday. We were unable to seat the crowd the last time we were there. The prospects are fine for a congregation to be established there. I expect to go down next Sunday with a tent. We use a large truck in goinghad twenty-eight in it the last time, with three automobiles also loaded. The singing has been fine." This work is done on Lord's-day afternoons. It looks like business to have mission points and for the brethren to go out with autos and auto trucks loaded to sing and pray and make it a glorious success. I would be glad for some one to tell me why a preacher should be one whit more interested in having large crowds, in getting those who are not members to attend the services, and to see that congregations are established in new places, than any other member should be. Will some one tell me why? Well, there is no reason why he should. A local congregation is a business corporation or company, whichever you please to call it, and every member of the local church should consider himself a stockholder and one of the directors. The business before it is the greatest in the world-viz., rescuing the perishing on life's angry and storm-tossed sea; and every soul rescued is a world of wealth placed in heaven's vault for our eternal enjoyment after death.

I was so glad to learn from Brother Garrett's letter that the church is to continue to use him and has raised his support twenty-five dollars a month, and that they are not forgetting to help the poor and those in distress. They have used more than six hundred dollars in the last twelve months in such work. He closed his letter with the following words: "Should you come back-and I hope you will-I would be simply delighted for you to make East Point your headquarters; and, with your help, we could and would place all these surrounding towns in Georgia 'on the map' for Christ. What say you? Everybody sends their love and best wishes to you and yours." If we should select a slogan for New Testament religion, I think "All at Work" would be about as good as could be selected-that is, it would be in perfect harmony with what the New Testament teaches on Christian duty. When it comes to giving, it is: "Let each one of you lay by him in store, as God hath prospered him "-and this, of course, on the first day of the week. (See 1 Cor. 16: 2.) When we are spoken of as "joints," it is: "Every joint supplieth, according to the effectual working in the measure of every part, maketh increase of the body unto the edifying of itself in love." (Eph. 4: 16.) When we are spoken of as "branches" of Christ, the Vine, it is: "Every branch in me that beareth not fruit, he taketh it away." (John 15: 2.) Let ushall, therefore, work, pray, give, and love; and "whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might." (Eccles. 9: 10.)

Studies in the Life of Christ-His Reception.

BY B. C. GOODPASTURE.

Although the Jews everywhere, in a general way, expected the coming Messiah, they were not ready to receive him when he came. It is true that a few, such as Anna, Simeon, the Wise-men, and the shepherds, hailed his advent with great joy; but the attitude of the masses was that of indifference and rejection. The saying of the beloved disciple, "He came unto his own, and they that were his own received him not," expresses, in the main, the regard of his people for the infant Lord. It is interesting and suggestive to note the reception given him by those with whom he had to do at his coming.

In Bethlehem. The history of Bethlehem would lead us to expect a cordial greeting, for its inhabitants awaited the arrival of the new-born King. Had not the little town been generous in its dealings with strangers? It had given the beloved Rachel a grave; the war-worn and weary David, a drink of water; and the pensive, sad-hearted Ruth, a husband. It gave Him a manger—a lowly guest chamber for Him who was "born King of the Jews." There was, however, an inn in Bethlehem, but in it no place could be found for the infant Savior. Before he came, it had been occupled as the result of a Roman census. He was laid in a manger "because there was no room for them in the inn." (Luke 2: 7.) When we consider this treatment of our Lord, we are filled with something akin to indignation. What an opportunity the Bethlehemites let pass! What indifference and ingratitude! But not unlike the situation in Bethlehem is the one that obtains in reference to the inn of our souls. We sometimes become so engrossed in the affairs of the world that we have no place in the best of our lives for the Christ. Our room is taken with other guests. If there is room in the manger, he may abide there; but there is no place for him in the throne room of the heart. Though he "stand at the door and knock," we are busy entertaining our first-chosen company within, and do not open to him. Bethlehem was unmindful of the presence and person of the Son of man through ignorance, but we cannot think to have our rejection of him excused or palliated on such grounds.

In Jerusalem. When Herod heard the inquiry of the Wise-men, "Where is he that is born King of the Jews?" he "was troubled, and all Jelusalem with him." Why receive the news with trouble instead of joy? We can understand the uneasiness of Herod. He feared for his throne. But why were the people troubled? Were they not looking for the Christ? Yes, but not so soon. They were not prepared for such tidings. These illuminating words from Professor Edersheim, the learned Jew, will prove helpful at this juncture: "These Jerusalemites-townspeople, as they called themselves-were so polished, so witty, so pleasant. . . . And how much there was to be seen and heard in those luxuriously furnished houses and at those sumptuous entertainments! In the women's apartments friends from the country would see every novelty in dress, adornments, and jewelry, and have the benefit of examining themselves in looking-glasses. . . . And the lady visitors might get anything in Jerusalem, from a false tooth to an Arabian veil, a Persian shawl, or an they lavished on their marriages; the ceremony which insisted on repeated invitations to the guests to a banquet, and inferior men should not be bidden to it; the dress in which they appeared; the manner in which the dishes were served; the wine in white crystal vases; the punishment of the cook who failed in his duty." ("Life and Times of Jesus," Volume I., page 130.) They were going the rounds of a continual Belshazzar's feast, and the birth of Jesus was to them as the handwriting on the wall. For the same reason, if the Lord should come now, some would be "troubled."

What About Your War Record?

BY R. L. WHITESIDE.

Under severe pressure it is hard for any one to keep an even course. That was especially true during the recent world war. Some started-out to write and speak against Christians' going to war, but for obvious reasons their zeal cooled till the war was over. Since then they are speaking cut again, and seem very determined now to convict some one on his war record. In their zeal now they remind one very much of a prosecuting attorney. The accused denies their charge, but they seem determined to bring about a conviction. But it appears to me that a man who will smother his convictions while it is dangerous to express them has very little room for complaint against any man's record along any line.

I think it would be well for some of you brethren to silently and seriously ponder these personal questions: Did I preach a full gospel during the war? Did I withhold anything? Was my preaching by tongue and pen regulated by men or God, by the fear of men or the love of truth? Have an honest interview with yourself. Perhaps you will then feel more like repenting in humility than assuming that your war record is so superior that you can now, since all danger is over, attack somebody else's war record. Excuse me, but your voice was so smothered during the war that I cannot hear you now. Keep as quiet as you were during the war, and let us have peace.

Seek Rest in God.

If ever there was a question which it concerns us all to answer, it is this: Where is rest to be found? The larger part of mankind seek it in wealth, in honors, in worldly ease; but they do not find it. Covetousness, greed, envy, fraud, conspire to spoil all thought of rest in the good things of this world. Others seek rest in themselves; but what can be expected from our weak, changeable natures? Society, literature, science may occupy, but they cannot satisfy or rest the heart. There is no rest for the heart of man, save in God, who made him for himself. But how shall we rest in God? By giving ourselves wholly to him. If you give yourself by halves, you cannot find full rest; there will ever be a lurking disquiet in that half which is withheld; and for this reason it is that so few Christians attain to a full, steadfast, unchanging peace; they do not seek rest in God only or give themselves up to him without reserve. True rest is as unchanging as God himself. Like him, it rises above all earthly things; it is secret, abundant, without a regret or a wish. It stills all passion, restrains the imagination, steadies the mind, controls all wavering; it endures alike in the time of tribulation and the time of wealth, in temptation and trial, as when the world shines brightly on us. Martyrs, confessors, and saints have tasted this rest, and counted themselves happy in that they endured. A countless host of God's faithful servants have drunk deeply of it amid the daily burden of a weary lifedull, commonplace, painful, or desolate. All that God has been to them, he is ready to be to you; he only asks that Indian dress." He speaks further of "the wealth which | you should seek no other rest save in him.—Jean Grou.

Conducted for a half century by D. Lipscomb and E. G. Sewell.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

$2.50 a year, in advance; to Canada and foreign countries, $3.00, in

$2.50 a year, in advance; to Canada and foreign countries, $3.00, in advance.

Remittances will be at our risk when sent by express or post-office money order, in registered letter, or by draft payable to our order.

The date on your tab shows the time to which your subscription is paid. When money is received, the date will be changed, which will answer for a receipt. Two weeks' time must ordinarily occur from the time your remittance is sent before the tab on your paper is changed; if not changed by that time, notify us at once.

This paper is mailed regularly to all subscribers until definite orders in writing are received and all arrearages paid in full. If you wish us to stop your paper, write us to that effect; but do not ask it unless you have paid all arrears, if there are any. Do not ask your postmaster to attend to it for you, but do it yourself.

When changing your post-office address tell us your old as well as your new address; otherwise two papers might be charged to you. Subscribers, after paying for their papers, will favor us by noting whether the date on the address label is changed, and, if it is not changed within a month, by writing to us. We are careful, but mistakes may occur or letters may be lost. Our rule is to change the date on the day payment is received; but the mechanical work of correcting and printing the list takes time, and payments even from near-by places may not appear the first week. Credits for payments from a distance may be even more delayed. Mistakes are easily rectified if prompt notice is given.

All communications should be addressed to Gospel Advecate, $17-$19 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

Guarantee of Advertising.

All the advertisements in this paper are, we believe, signed by trustworthy persons. To prove our faith by works, we will make good to actual subscribers any loss sustained in trusting advertisers who prove to be deliberate swindlers. We shall not attempt to adjust trifling disputes between subscribers and honorable business men who advertise, nor pay the debts of honest bankrupts. To make this guarantee effective, in all cases say in writing advertisers, "I saw your advertisement in the Gospel Advocate;" and if anything goes wrong, notify us immediately in writing.

JACOBS & CO., ADVERTISING MANAGERS. Clinton, S. C.

Entered at post office at Nashville, Tenn., as second-class matter. Published weekly at Nashville, Tenn.

Woman Suffrage.

BY J. C. M'Q.

I have been requested to write another article on this subject.

The family is God's oldest institution. As the church is "the salt of the earth," so the family is the salt of the church. Destroy the family, and you will destroy the church, the government, and civilization. In the family there should be the closest cooperation between husband and wife. It is about the only human relationship in which service is not and cannot be paid for as we pay for food and clothing. The family will be a failure unless there is the closest cooperation between husband and wife, and not sex antagonism, which spells only disaster to all concerned. In order to bring about unity between husband and wife, God created them one for the other and adapted the woman to the man. "And the man said, This is now bone of my bones, and flesh of my flesh; she shall be called Woman, because she was taken out of Man. Therefore shall a man leave his father and his mother, and shall cleave unto his wife: and they shall be one flesh." (Gen.

2: 23, 24.) It does seem that if a man is good enough to cleave to a woman, to work for her, to suffer for her, and to die for her, that he should be good enough to vote for her. Nothing should be brought into the family that is calculated to mar the unity and cooperation that should exist between husband and wife. We learn that after the fall a different curse was placed upon man and woman. Woman's sphere is on the inside; man's sphere is on the outside. The physical organism and constitution of each are different. "Unto the woman he said, I will greatly multiply thy pain and thy conception; in pain thou shalt bring forth children; and thy desire shall be to thy husband, and he shall rule over thee. And unto Adam he said, Because thou hast hearkened unto the voice of thy wife, and hast eaten of the tree, of which I commanded thee, saving. Thou shalt not eat of it: cursed is the ground for thy sake; in toll shalt thou eat of it all the days of thy life; thorns also and thistles shall it bring forth to thee; and thou shalt eat the herb of the field; in the sweat of thy face shalt thou eat bread, till thou return unto the ground; for out of it wast thou taken: for dust thou art, and unto dust shalt thou return." (Gen. 3: 16-19.) In harmony with the curse God placed upon each, we find that the Holy Spirit, through the apostle Paul, makes it the duty of woman to be a keeper at home. The Holy Spirit says: "That aged women likewise be reverent in demeanor, not slanderers nor enslaved to much wine, teachers of that which is good; that they may train the young women to love their husbands, to love their children, to be soberminded, chaste, workers at home, kind, being in subjection to their own husbands, that the word of God be not blasphemed." (Tit. 2: 3, 4.) Thus we see that women are to be home-keepers or home makers. In the home they reign supreme. Woman's qualifications fit her especially to reign as queen in the home. The woman who rocks the cradle controls the destiny of the nation. When God would rear and train Moses for the great leadership to which he had called him, he placed him in the hands of his mother to nurse, care for, and train him. God did not see proper to place him in the hands of a hired nurse, who was wholly unfit and unqualified to develop and train him for the great work God had chosen him to do. God puts the mother over the child at the very time when it is capable of being molded, directed, and shaped into a noble character. It is much easier to influence a child and to direct it in the right way than it is to influence old, hardened sinners. If mothers would train their children at home, teach them to read the word of God, teach them good habits, these habits would sooner or later crystallize into a good character. The Ladies' Home Journal very aptly says on this point:

What is true in general is equally true of the individual woman. She may do much with her ballot, but she can do infinitely more through her daily influence in the family over not only the children she has borne, but over the husband who labors for the support and welfare of those for whom he has assumed responsibility.

And these two need each other, this man and this woman. The one goes out into the world, meeting the hardships and disappointments as well as the honors and the emoluments; the other "stays with the stuff," takes care of the little ones and brings them along paths of safety and up to man's estate by a kind of sympathetic service that cannot be bought and that only a mother can render.

In the progress of years, in the discharge of mutual responsibilities, in the comparison of experiences, in the solution of puzzling problems, these two people talk over many matters, and in this interchange of ideas and ideals lies the greatest known influence for human welfare.

In outside matters particularly woman's mind is not confused by the mass of petty but puzzling details that often befog the judgment of the best of men. And that is why good husbands and wives talk over so many things together. In this way they combine their powers, and often come, in time, even to resemble each other in many ways, not only in ideas and convictions, but in the general cast of countenance so noticeable in many old couples. Who can doubt that solutions and judgments arrived at by this route and by such people are about the safest conclusions of which the mind is capable?

If women could vote and go no further, there might not be so much objection to it. At least, she might be conceded the same right to vote as is conceded to man. But it is not simply the privilege of casting the vote that woman is seeking, but she is seeking equal political rights. As women have been given the ballot, there is no governmental power that can keep them from holding office, and no one imagines that such a thing will be attempted. When women enter politics and hold office, they necessarily become no lorger fit for wives and mothers. This incapacitates them for the inside work, or for the work in the home, which God has given to them. There is a great difference in a woman's voluntarily seeking to hold office and a woman's laboring on the outside to make a living because she is simply a victim of circumstances and compelled to do so. For all such women I have not heard a word of censure, but commendation. It is noble in these women to do the best they can. While God's order is that the man shall work and make a living in the sweat of his face and support a family, yet when man fails to do his duty and live in harmony with God's ordained law, this inflicts a burden upon woman. Furthermore, when woman tries to do the work of the home and do the work on the outside, the burden is greater than she can bear. We find the women who are devoted to feminism neglecting their children and turning them over to nurses, who do not properly care for them. How many of these children do we see who are not kept tidy and cleanly, who are half starved, and who, for lack of attention, drop into premature graves! It is contended that America loses more children for lack of attention now than any other country. How much worse will it be if we increase the burdens that are placed upon our mothers! It is the duty of man to lift every outside burden, and to lift every burden possible, from the shoulders of his wife and the mother of his children. I have too much respect for noble motherhood and wifehood to contend that her burdens should be made heavier than she can bear.

It is true that some women object to the teaching of the word of God and are ready to reject it because it does not conform to their ideas. They object to man's dominion over woman, as recorded in 1 Tim. 2: 11-15; but if husbands love their wives as Christ loved the church, which they are taught to do, there is no weight in this objection. Eph. 5: 25 declares: "Husbands, love your wives, even as Christ also loved the church, and gave himself up for it." We should never fear to live in harmony with the law of God. If we depart from God's law, we must pay the penalty. So long as women are kept in their proper sphere and so long as men do the work that God has ordained for them to do, we may expect the human race to grow purer and better and happier. How much better it is to follow the wisdom of God than to follow the wisdom of men!

"Let There Be Light." BY M. C. K.

On page 1044 of this issue of the Gospel Advocate and under the heading, "Light Wanted," Brother A. M. George has an article criticizing some things in our recent series of articles on "Bible Things by Bible Names." The reader will please examine his article carefully before reading these comments in reply. I think all essential matters in Brother George's criticism will be covered by noting the following points:

1. From some of his comments, I think he gets an idea from the adverb "precisely" which it was not my intention to convey. It is possible, as is sometimes the case in writing English, that I was not fortunate in placing the adverb so as to avoid all ambiguity. The sentence is as follows: "The people of God in this period of their history are unfortunately divided into clashing and conflicting parties precisely as they were divided in the city of Corinth in Paul's day." I did not mean that the divisions to-day are "precisely" as they were in Paul's day, for they are not; but I meant that it is a fact that division in the body of Christ existed then "precisely" as it is a fact that division in the body of Christ exists now; and for the very purpose of preventing the wrong impression, I added: "Only the divisions of modern times are on a much larger scale."

2. Brother George says: "He calls the denominational world 'the people of God.'" No, "he" does not. There is not one word in the article he criticizes that says any such thing. It would add much to the profitableness as well as the dignity and high character of our journalism if brethren who undertake to criticize what others say would at least be careful to quote them correctly, and not attribute to them something they have nowhere said nor even thought. I distinctly said, and it was right before my critic's eyes: "While many persons in at least some of the denominations have not complied with all the terms of admission and hence are not in the church, nevertheless, many others in the different denominations have complied with them and are, therefore, in spite of their erroneous practices otherwise, in, and are a part of, the church." My article taught, as I here and now again teach, that some of "the people of God" are in "the denominational world;" but this is the width of the poles from calling "the denomirational world," as such, "the people of God."

3. Brother George says: "No man can be a Christian and a Babylonian at the same time." Again, he says: "God may have some prospective people in these Babylonish churches." Now, if by this the author did not mean to teach that there are no Christians in any of the denominations, then he did not say what he meant, for that is exactly what he says. If "no man can be a Christian and a Babylonian at the same time," and God only has "some prospective people" among the denominations, then there is, of course, not a single child of God in any denomination on earth. But this is not all. When Thomas and Alexander Campbell, Barton Stone, Walter Scott, and other great reformers discovered over a hundred years ago that they and all other religious people in the civilized world, being in denominations, were in Babylon, there was, according to Brother George, not a Christian on the face of the earth! Even they themselves were not Christians! Not a solitary soul among them, who had believed in the Lord, repented of sin, and been buried with the Lord in baptism, was a Christian, because of being in a denomination! Hence, all their talk and plea for the union of all the divided Christians in all denominations was in vain, for there were no Christians in any of the denominations, no people of God on earth except in prospect! Hence, according to this position, among the millions of Baptists, Methodists, Presbyterians, Episcopalians, Congregationalists, Lutherans, and all other denominations on earth at this time, there is not a solitary Christian, not a solitary child of God, except in prospect, for they are all in Babylon! I am wondering if Brother George is really ready to avow such a position. If so, I am glad to say that I most assuredly do not agree with him.

4. I did not say: "These denominations are 'precisely' the same as the church at Corinth." I have explained my use of the term "precisely."

5. Finally, speaking of the Corinthians, Brother George says: "Their belief of and obedience to it [the gospel of Christ] led God to add them to his church." Exactly so; and I have been under the impression that, in spite of the denominationalism of modern times, when persons are led to the "belief of and obedience to" the gospel of Christ, God is still led "to add them to his church," and that, therefore, the proper thing to do is to indorse all the truth taught by the denominations and condemn all the error taught by them, and to ask all who are among them to do the same thing. Indeed, it would be a good and righteous thing to magnify the truth among them and show the victims of error how easily they can hold on to all truth and forsake all error with complete deliverance from all the entanglements of the latter. If this position is not correct-is not backed by the incontrovertible teaching of the New Testament-then not only all the reformers of a hundred years ago were wrong, but equally wrong have been all their illustrious successors in the person of the Franklins, the McGarveys, the Lipscombs, and all the great preachers among them who have gone to their reward. In fact and in fine, from the very establishment of Christianity, the great Pauline motto has been in force: "Prove all things, hold fast that which is good."

Book Notices.

If you are in need of a good abridged Bible dictionary, send us $2 for a copy of Smith's Peloubet Edition. This is one of the best dictionaries of the Bible that I have examined.

Have you read "Sunshine; or, Uncle Minor's Stories?" This is a very attractive book for children as well as for old people. Children read it with much interest. It is profusely illustrated, and contains many interesting incidents and stories. Price, $1.50.

Send us $1.25 for a copy of "Sweeney's Sermons." This is a book of sermons by John S. Sweeney—one of the best books of sermons published. Sweeney carries conviction with the statement of his position. He is noted for brevity, clearness, and force of statement. Every young preacher should have a copy of this book of sermons.

Have you seen a copy of "Adventism and the Bible?" This is one of the very best books for you to buy at the present time. Adventism is a live subject. Adventists are active and are propagating their doctrines. If you want to be thoroughly prepared to meet them and to expose the errors of Adventism, you should send us at once $1.25 for a copy of "Adventism and the Bible."

We have on hand a few copies of "Biographies and Sermons," edited by F. D. Srygley. This is a book of sermons by a number of our best-known preachers. It is well worth a careful perusal. A brief history of the life of each preacher accompanies his sermon. A picture of the preacher also is given with each sketch. Price, $1.50. If you want this book, you should order at once, as we have just a few copies that have been left over through mistake.

The Guide.

I know not where my path shall lie; By waters still, or where the cry Of human need comes loud and clear From out the mire; it may be here, Not there, my path shall be; Nor would I choose a destiny Unhallowed by His will for me.

But this I know: my Lord is Guide!
And love and joy and peace abide
As unto him my life I yield,
That through my weakness he may wield
His strength to lift, his power to free,
His love in tender sympathy,
And be, Himself, my Victory!
—Esther Williams, in Sunday School Times.

Every time you stiffe a good impulse, you make it harder to start the next one.—Exchange.

SELECTIONS BY THE EDITOR

There are two times in a man's life when he should not speculate—when he can't afford it, and when he can.—Mark Twain.

It harms us to think evil; it harms us even more to say what we think. It is for this reason that silence is so often golden. But it is also on the same general principle that it is worth while to speak a pleasant word—if we can do no more.—Christian Work.

We are no more prepared to-day for the great emergencies of peace that confront us than we were prepared four years ago for the emergencies of war. Education, hasty and hectic, was our chief resource in preparing for war. Now education, deliberate, intensive, and sustained, must be our basic resource in preparing for peace.—F. E. Spaulding, in Atlantic Monthly Error often consists of truths in false setting. Sound thinking is a process of fitting true ideas together. The Bible has been mistreated by detaching words from their context. The phrase, "All things are yours," taken by itself, means unlimited control; but when you add, "Ye are Christ's," you have the real meaning of the passage. We are not our own, though we own all else.—Selected.

In the Bible the body is said to be more than raiment. But many people still read the Bible Hebrew-wise, backward; thus the general conviction now is that raiment is more than the body. There is so much to gaze and stare at in the dress, one's eyes are quite dazzled and weary, and can hardly pierce through to that which is clothed upon. So, too, is it with the mind and heart, searcely less than with the body.—Selected.

To have lived but for one spring in the very heart of spring is to have had a joy that might be desired by the angels. No poem, no picture could give for an instant the sense of universal benediction that comes down with the full sudden bursting of springtide over the land. There is always one day when the valleys laugh and sing more gloriously, and when the hills are more joyful together before the Lord.—Victor Hugo.

Gibbon has a phrase about the armies of the Roman empire being "sometimes defeated in battle, but always victorious in war." How like the Christian's life is this description of the warriors of old! We are all prone to sin, but we have a promise which ever comes to us in these days of trial, and like the strong and yet sympathetic hand of the earthly father who reaches down and raises the fallen child, so do we feel the everlasting arm about us.—Selected.

The calm of Galilee on a perfect morning of spring is like no other calm that I have ever known. It is gentler, sweeter than the wonderful calm of the desert. There you seem to be coming into the very presence of God the Father. As you draw near to Galilee, it is as if, with the handful of humble fishermen, you draw near to God the Son. Galilee takes your hand as a friend, and draws you to it. It seems to breathe upon you and give you peace.—Robert Hichens.

The will of God is that the world should know of Christ. Some of it does not want to know of him. It has had its chance and rejected him. It has its chance now. How much does the city daily newspapers care for him? It almost never mentions him. It refers nothing to his will. He has no place in its judgments or purposes. The earnest Christian is for it a devotee. Bt there are millions of men to whom he is a stranger. It is our duty to make him known to them. If we refuse, we reject that which is Christ's will as clearly as anything that we can attribute to him.—R. E. Speer.

W AT HOME AND ABROAD

When you do wrong, you have awakened the hounds of God. (Frank Crane.)

The only fortress that can never be taken is the city of God. (W. H. P. Faunce.)

W. M. Mann has changed his address from Lockhart, Texas, to Red Rock, Texas.

There is a pope in every man. It takes only a suitable occasion to reveal him. (Charles W. Bennett.)

We dare not forget that from the vocabulary of the Christian faith Christ's wounded hand has erased the word "impossible"—Selected.

We are grieved to learn of the death of James M. Luck, aged eighty-six years. He was one of the pioneers in the building up of the church at Louisville, Ky.

Price Billingsley will preach on next Lord's day for the Cherokee Park congregation, West Nashville, at their meetinghouse on California Avenue, near Sixty-second Avenue.

W. T. Hines plans to devote all of his time to the evangellstic field. In order to do this, he must sell his grocery business at Braman, Okla. There is a good congregation there.

William J. Campbell informs us that J. D. Boyer, of Belle Plaine, Kan., is in a good meeting at Davis City, Iowa. He is having the best attendance and interest that has been enjoyed in that place for some time.

From John Hayes, Eugene, Fla., October 22: "The meeting near Greenville resulted in one baptized. I began here Tuesday night, to stay as long as interest demands. This is my third mission meeting since September 1."

At a prayer meeting at the Fanning Orphan School last Wednesday night Morgan H. Carter preached, and as a result ten made the good confession, and were baptized next morning. To the Lord be all the praise!

Thomas H. Burton is engaged in a tent meeting at Union, S. C. Two were baptized last week, and others appeared very much interested. Brother Burton is thinking of making a trip among the churches very soon.

Charles Holder is engaged in an interesting meeting at Athens, Tenn. At the time of this writing the meeting was entering its third week. There had been two haptisms and a number of additions from the various denominations.

Mr. David W Shepherd and Miss Lola A. Gentry were narried on Thursday, October 21, and are at home, Route No. 10, Carter Avenue, East. The Gospel Advocate joins their many other friends in congratulations and best wishes.

C. G. Vincent writes from Knoxville, Tenn.: "The work here goes forward. We have enrolled about thirty University students. We are glad to have these fine young people to worship with us." Brother Vincent's new address is 2813 Linden Avenue.

Married, at the residence of J. C. McQuiddy, 603 North Fourteenth Street, this city, J. Robert Dillingham, Jr., and Lula D. Appleton, both of Kinston Springs, Tenn. J. C. McQuiddy was the officiating minister. The Gospel Advocate offers congratulations.

- C. M. Gleaves wrote us on October 18 that he was in a promising meeting at Philippi, near Hermitage, Tenn. Prother Gleaves would like to correspond with some brother who has a good grade of broom corn for sale. Address him at Bellbuckle, Tenn.
- E. C. Fuqua writes encouragingly of the meeting that he is conducting at Colorado Springs, Col. Brother Shoulders is assisting him in the work. He is having a good hearing and anticipates a good meeting. Twenty-two members were present at the first service. He reports every one enthusiastic.

From Adair P. Chapman, Berlin, Ga., October 18: "G. E. Claus came over from Valdosta on Tuesday after the second Sunday in this month and preached for us on the three nights following at Troy Schoolhouse. There were no additions, but the interest is still good. He is to come back again next month. We are always glad to have him with us."

From John E. Dunn, Marietta, Miss., October 22: "I closed a fifteen-days' meeting with the church at Corinth last Sunday night. This was a fine meeting. We had large audiences, the preaching was well received, and there were eighteen additions from all sources to the local church. This meeting was in all respects a success. The meeting starts off good here."

The death of James R. Ward, at his home near Nashville, last Friday, occasioned much sorrow in a large circle of acquaintances, many of whom were lifelong friends. Three brothers and three sons survive. Brother Ward served for eighteen years as one of the trustees of the Nashville Bible School. His son, Dr. J. S. Ward, was a teacher in the same institution for a long time. Brother Pittman made an appropriate talk at the funeral.

From N. W. Proffitt, Cave City, Ky., October 23: "I am closing out my work in Kentucky. My meeting at Temple Hill was well attended and the interest was fine, but no additions. The meeting at Shady Grove is progressing nicely. Good crowds, fine attention, and one restored. I will close on Sunday night and go to Hohenwald, Tenn. to begin a meeting on Friday night, October 29. May the Lord bless and keep us in the work of saving souls."

T. Q. Martin was engaged in a very interesting meeting at McMinnville, Tenn., last week. At last report there had been fifteen additions, with splendid interest. Instead of meeting his appointment at Russell Street Church, this city, he remained over in McMinnville last Lord's day and began at Russell Street on Monday night. S. P. Pittman preached at Russell Street on Sunday, morning and evening, to large and interested audiences. Both sermons were excellent.

The Twelfth Avenue congregation, in Nashville, is experiencing a glorious meeting in every respect. S. M. Jones is doing some of the best preaching of his life. Our last report was to the effect that fifty-five persons had been baptized. This is the fourth week of the meeting. Interest in the Bible school at that place is growing and the attendance is steadily increasing. There were three hundred and seven present at the Bible study on last Sunday morning.

From T. G. McLean (colored), Lewisburg, Tenn., Route 3: "On the second Sunday in August Brother Vinson began a meeting at Corinth, near Caney Springs, in Marshall County, and continued it five nights, with two additions—one over fifty years of age, from the Methodists. The other meeting was conducted by Alexander Campbell under a tent in Maury County, near Berlin, and continued ten nights. There were eight additions, four of them from the Baptists."

Mrs. S. V. Elmore, of Loveland, Col., is much interested in building a new meetinghouse in that prosperous and growing town. They have no place in which to meet. They have the promise of W. F. Lemmons, of Tyler, Texas, to hold a meeting for them, but they have no house in which to hold the meeting. The brethren in Loveland should do all they can to build the house before calling on others. When they have done this, others will more cheerfully send them a contribution.

From W. E. Wells, Greenville, Fla., October 22: "John Hayes just closed a week's meeting at a point four miles north of Greenville. Brother Hayes is a loyal, uncompromising preacher; but the people there had never had the gospel preached to them in its purity and simplicity, and they did not seem to understand how people can be Christians without wearing some denominational name. Brether Hayes is giving all his time to the work, and it is the duty of Christians to support him in his work. His home address is Bradentown, Fla."

From J. Will Henley, October 21: "My meeting at Stratford, Okla., resulted in forty-one recruits being added to the fighting forces. Ten came forward in the last service, Something over two thousand dollars was raised to build a house there. Oscar L. Hays sang for the meeting. Brother Hays is a fine song leader, as well as one of our very best preachers. I am now at home, having my baby treated at Sherman, Texas. The X ray is being used in hopes of checking development until I can take him to a radium institute. My aged parents are in my home now, and will spend the winter in this part of the country. Pray for me and for my precious baby boy."

R. V Cawthon closed the meeting at Smithville, Tenn., on Lord's-day night, with thirty-four additions to the congregation—twenty-seven baptisms. The Smithville brethren have remodeled and reseated their house at a cost of more than six thousand five hundred dollars, and now they have one of the most commodious, comfortable, and attractive houses for worship owned by the disciples to be found in any of our county towns. The meeting at Number One, in Sumner County, started off nicely on Lord's day, with good attendance morning and evening, J. W. Grant doing the preaching at both services. Brother Cawthon took up the work on Monday night.

From J. H. Lawson, Houston, Texas, October 19: "The work with the First Church, of this city, is now in excellent condition, and we are hopeful for greater results than have yet been accomplished. Last Lord's day a fine man was restored to his 'first love,' and large audiences attended all the services. Oscar Smith and I have just closed a good meeting in the Heights, and next Lord's day we are to begin a meeting with the First Church, to continue indefinitely. The good sisters have just sent a large box of cithing to the Luling Orphans' Home, and all seem to rejoice in the work. The prospects for the cause in Houston look good, and we expect to keep pushing the work."

From Charles L. Talley, Cookeville, Tenn., October 5: "The activities of the church at Cookeville within the past fifteen days have been somewhat above normal. Within this time twenty-six have been added to the membership, twenty-three of these by confession and baptism. There were six confessions on last Lord's day. This but stresses the importance of personal work. I closed a mission meeting two miles east of town on Wednesday evening, preaching for ten nights, with three confessions and baptisms. This was my sixth meeting under the direction or fellowship of the church at this place. In all, there were about sixty additions. The outlook is promising for better work in the future."

From W. L. Oliphant, Muskogee, Okla., October 21: "I preached for my home congregation, the East Okmulgee Avenue Church, last Lord's-day morning and evening. The congregation has been busy during my absence. Quite a number have been added since I left home for protracted meeting work. Some three or four weeks ago, at a business meeting, the brethren agreed to offer me the work for half time during 1921 at an increased pay. I shall preach for them on the first and third Lord's days in each month. The other two Sundays will be used in developing the talents of young men who desire to preach the gospel. Two were added to the congregation at the prayer meeting last night—one by restoration to fellowship, the other being baptized 'the same hour of the night.' Pray for us."

From J. C. Estes, 222 East Ninth Street, Davenport, Iowa, October 11: "It has been a long time since I have made any report of the work here in our little congregation. We have been getting along nicely, however, all the time, except a little while late in the winter we had a few who made some trouble for us, but they are not here any more. Each new class of this school brings a few members, and a few get through and leave. The September class of seven hundred and fifty new students brought us four good members, one of whom was in David Lipscomb College last year—young Brother Ezell, of Alabama; Brother Benedict, of Oakland, Cal.; and Brother and Sister Cole, of Indiana. Last Monday night R. H. Parrish came over to our home with his bride, and I said the words that made them one. They were at church yesterday, as happy as could be."

From Will E. Walker, Winchester, Tenn., October 16: "W. W. Bates, of Nashville, began a series of meetings for the church here on the fourth Lord's day in September. He came as a stranger to a large part of the congregation here, but in a short time he had won his way into the hearts of those who heard him preach, Faithfully and forcefully he told the 'old, old story,' and he did not shun to declare 'the whole counsel of God.' Large and attentive andiences greeted him at nearly every service; and while there were only three confessions and baptisms—three boys just entering their teens—all felt that we had had a great meeting, and that much good seed had been sown that will soon yield a good harvest. The meeting closed on the second Lord's day in October. The Lord willing, Brother Bates will begin another meeting here on the third Lord's day in September, 1921."

From W. S. Long. Dallas, Texas, October 21: "It was a great pleasure to me to preach to an attentive audience at the Pearl and Bryan Streets Church last night. Among preaching brethren present were: A. O. Colley (who labors for this church), Dr. E. V. Wood, C. E. Wooldridge, Joseph Yarbrough, and W. S. Bills, of San Antonio. The members are busy and happy, and the church is doing a great work for the Lord. Brother and Sister Colley are loved and held in high esteem by this church, and their home is a delightful home. Notwithstanding the heavy obligations at home and for the Belle Haven Orphans' Home, this church will fellowship the Washington work to the extent of two hundred dollars. May other congregations be so thoughtful of the struggling band in Washington. Address all donations to E. L. Mills, treasurer, Box 1650, Washington, D. C., or to W. S. Long, Box 1423, Washington, D. C."

From William J. Campbell, Davis City, Iowa: "I learn that J. H. Pennell, of Zanesville, Ohio, has decided to go to Hawaii for the gospel of Christ. He is a strong man in the gospel and well able for this work. My first work in preaching was under his direction and help, and I have always held him in high esteem. Brother Pennell will need the support of the brethren, as he, like most gospel preachers, has little of this world's goods; so the churches where he has labored and all who desire to have fellowship in this work should get busy and furnish funds needful for their going and a sufficient amount to help them in getting located. He wants to sail on December 11; so this work will require haste. It will be announced soon who will receive the contributions for this work. The field in Honolulu is open for the gospel and has been neglected too long already. As this laborer is ready to go, let us rally to his support."

From R. L. Colley, Millville, Ark., October 18: "I have just closed a meeting at Camden, the county seat of Ouachita County, with one baptism. This place has never had a loyal congregation. When the elder of the digressive congregation was asked for permission to preach in the house, his reply was: 'If they will submit to our rules, he may.' After being informed that we believe in submitting to God's word only, he refused to let us preach in the house without using the instrument. The Jews gave us the use of their synagogue for the meeting. Hugh Hogg conducted the song service. Much enthusiasm was manifested throughout the meeting and our audiences grew in number at every service. We organized Sunday morning, with about thirty in our Sunday school, with the young people. The male members are but few, but they have unflinching courage. They are seeking a place to buy that they may have a home in which to worship and do the Lord's work. I have promised to labor with them a part of the time next year."

J. H. Hines writes: "Montgomery is all right. It is a good place to live. It is a place of cordiality, hospitality. and open-hearted welcome. All are glad to lend a helping hand in every good work. Four weeks past I came to Montgomery to work, labor, and toil with the church of Christ on Highland Avenue, in its effort to lift up the Son of man and save a perishing world from the thraldom of sin. In that short time I have found this people warmhearted, zealous, enthusiastic, and responsive to every work of faith and labor of love. The church is doing a great work. The leaders are taking the lead, and the people are offering themselves willingly. It has a vision of man's needs. This was made manifest last night when about one hundred and fifty members of the church came to our home bearing all sorts of eatables, smiles, and words of cheer that made our hearts overflow with joy and glad-This spirit of fellowship and cooperation has made a lasting impression upon our hearts. We appreciate the eatables far more than we can express, but what we prize We appreciate the What we need in above all is the spirit that prompted it. all the churches, everywhere, is more brotherly love, fellowship, and cooperation.'

From Eph P. Smith, Martin, Tenn.: "It was my intention at first to acknowledge by letter each remembrance that came to me for Brother Hoskins and his family, but so many and so generous were the tokens of love that it would have proven quite a task had I written each one a personal letter. I have received letters that strengthened my faith and made me to know that there is yet real love, sympathy, and fellowship in the church of God. I am deeply indebted to those who made me their messenger to the late Brother Hoskins and to his family. He and Sister Hoskins were profoundly grateful for this fellowship, and in their behalf I thank every one who sent a message by me. Here are the names of those who were remembered by me to the family: John S. Cayce, M.D.; Mrs. Louis Jones; Joe Patcliffe; Guy C. February; W. L. Hughes; Hugh McCree; estate of C. Tatum; J. F. Kurfees; "A Friend;" "A Sister," McMinnville; "A Disciple," Prospect; T. Q. Martin, for two breihren; Mrs. Effle Hicks; P. H. Harlin; Henry Croft; church at Winchester; church at Manchester; Mrs. M. L. Colsher; Mrs. W. D. Scoggins and daughters; J. W. Pruit; W. G. Daniel; B. H. Vaughn; W. S. Long; J. S. Oliver; Mrs. E. Johns; church at McMinnville; church at Santa Ana, Cal.; E. L. Whitaker; Mrs. W. L. Gillispie. Total amount sent, $438.50."

CURRENT THOUGHT

Before Dawn.

There is a time before the dawn of day
When voices of the birds are in the trees,
As though o'ercharged with song they sought a way
Too soon to overflow in ecstasies;
There is a sound in darkness before morn
As though of wings unfolding for swift flight
That scarce can wait, by rising winds upborne,
Till all the world is rapturous with light.
So, O my heart, long fed on mystery
Of deepest night, there stirs a song in you—
Eager to break in fullest rhapsody,
Longing to wing through burning heavens new!
O sun that rises, burst the clouds away!
O night of nights—how long? When comes the day?
—David Osborne Hamilton.

* * *

Give Heed to Making Preachers.

The church must in a constructive way give heed to the making of the ministry. The church cannot live without an adequate ministry. We have been careless about our ministry. Our methods for recruiting it have been sporadic and unscientific; and this cannot be remedied without a plan. Those boards and institutions that directly touch youth in the years when it is making its life decisions ought to have a coördinated, systematized plan, not for an occasional campaign of recruiting and training, but for a continuous, unwearying regard for gathering men and women for the ministry and other forms of special Christian endeavor.—Veteran Preacher.

The home and the church should give heed to making the right kind of preachers. Godly lives and more attention to teaching the Bible in the home will soon increase the number who are willing to increase the ministry. When once the children realize that the fathers and mothers are more deeply concerned about the religion of Jesus Christ than they are about the affairs of this world, then will these sons and daughters, in all probability, take more interest in things pertaining to the soul's salvation. Due regard and consideration should be given to godly lives.

* * *

Working Girls' Creed.

Much interest has been shown in the Every-Day Creed which was adopted recently by representatives of working girls in Ohio and West Virginia at an industrial conference held under the auspices of the Y. W. C. A. at Oxford, Ohio. The creed reads as follows:

"I believe in my job. It is very important. Some one will suffer if I do not perform my work promptly and carefully, and I shall be the loser. My job can be made attractive by punctuality, system and definite aim, and a high ideal of practical service.

"I believe in the other worker. For her sake I should not accept a low standard of pay or poor working conditions. For her sake, too, I should do all in my power to maintain a high standard of loyalty to the employer. I should give her a cheerful smile and helping hand whenever possible.

"I believe in my employer. He is a human being just as I am. He likes to have things go smoothly, and he deserves to have them so. I should do all in my power to help him.

"I believe in myself—in the power that is within me. I owe it to myself to be all that I can be physically, mentally, and spiritually. I owe it to myself to be as attractive as possible in manner and appearance.

"I believe in my home. I should protect it by maintaining the single standard of purity, by preparing myself for every home-making task, and, above all, by fitting myself to be the chief educator of any children that may be intrusted to my care.

"I believe in my country. When we all understand the true meaning of the brotherhood of man, it will be the best land in all the world, and the knowledge of the sacredness of the individual will be the law by which we shall all be governed.

"I believe in God, in his infinite love for humanity. Sincerity, honest work, merry laughter, clean play and unaffected kindness are all he asks of us."—Baptist and Reflector.

The Working Girls' Creed is to be commended and deserves our most serious consideration. If both employer and employee would be prompted by such motives, the world would be far better than it is. If people would only live up to the Golden Rule and practice half as well as they preach, how soon would we see the unrest and discontent of the times passing away and the reign of contentment and peace ushered in! The working girl should have the sympathy, cooperation, and help of every one. Because she is the victim of circumstances and forced out into the world is the very reason she should not be condemned, but, on the other hand, should be encouraged and helped in every legitimate way. If the world were not out of joint, if people were living as God has ordained that they should live, if men were doing their duty, it would not be necessary for so many women to give up their homes and seek employment on the outside. Woman by nature is fitted for the home; she loves the home; she is a home maker; and it is only from the force of necessity that she gets out into the world and competes with men for a livelihood. It may be that there are a few exceptions to this, but it is true of the great majority of the noble women that are to-day a blessing to the race.

Φ Φ Φ A Propaganda of Lies.

One of the peculiar and regrettable features of the closing of the Great War was that it found an undercurrent of hostility in England to America, and vice versa. The strong element in England which is opposing on a great scale the sure approach of prohibition is insidiously and powerfully exploiting this hostility in favor of the continued hold of liquor on the British empire. Dr. C. W. Saleeby, a noted English authority on the drink question, referred to this point in his address before the International Congress against alcoholism, which met recently in Washington, in these words: "The liquor people in England are responsible for the anti-American propaganda, I am convinced. They are doing their best to stir up public opinion against prohibition and so against America as a prohibition country."

It is well known that the people of England, as a whole,

It is well known that the people of England, as a whole, are being trained to consider prohibition in America as a huge joke on account of its affirmed failure. Dr. Saleeby's words on this point to the International Congress are timely: "We are told such terrible lies in England about the situation in America! They say that there is no longer any immigration to the United States and that Italians are leaving the country in large numbers. There were two thousand Italians who landed from the Olympic when I arrived. They say that prohibition has ruined the hotel business, but I find it almost impossible to get a bed. They tell us that the whole American people are becoming cocaine addicts now that they cannot get whisky. An outrageous untruth! What seems to me one of the most wonderful things accomplished in America was the closing of his narcotic clinic by your health commissioner, Dr. Copeland, because the coming of prohibition made it unnecessary. I find that with the going of the saloon comes the closing up of the 'red-light' district. When alcohol is out of the way, it is possible to control and eliminate other vices. Your health statistics already show wonderful results from prohibition."—Christian Advocate.

Nothing good has ever been introduced, nothing that is intended for the amelioration and elevation of humanity, which has not met with strenuous opposition. If prohibition did not very largely stop the drinking of whisky and decrease its sale, the friends of whisky would not be so bitterly opposed to prohibition. No one has ever claimed that prohibition absolutely prohibits drinking. The law against stealing does not stop all stealing; the law against murder does not stop all murders, yet holds them in check very much. If we could only get people to think on that which is pure and good; if we could only get them to dwell upon purity and godliness instead of feeding upon that which is evil, it would not be so difficult to get them to lead lives of self-sacrifice, sobriety, and godliness.

Hood's Sarsaparilla Makes Food Taste Cood

Creates an appetite, alds digestion, purifies the blood, and thus relieves scrofula, catarrh, the pains and aches of rheumatism and gives strength to the whole system.

Nearly 50 years' phenomenal sales tell the story of the great merit and success of Hood's Sarsaparilla, It is just the medicine you need now. Hood's Pills help-fine cathartic.

No Risk With "Diamond Dyes"

Don't Streak your Material in Dyes that Fade or Run

Each package of "Diamond Dyes" con-Each package of "Diamond Dyes contains directions so simple that any woman can diamond-dye a new, rich, fadeless color into worn, shabby garments, draperies, coverings, whether wool, silk, linen, cotton or mixed goods.

Buy "Diamond Dyes"—no other kind—then perfect results are guaranteed even that here revised that before Drawing.

if you have never dyed before. Druggist

For Fever Headaches and Neuralgic Pains

An improved Aspirin tablet which is abso-An improved Aspirin tainer which is asso-linely safe to use even in eases of extreme debility and weak heart. Relieves head-acties; neuralgia and rheumatic pains and reduces fever. No depressing effects. Made by a formula which is in general use by leading physicians. 35c per package at your druggists or by mail from the manufacturers, Piedmont Laboratories. Inc., Clinton, S. C.

A Wish.

Do you wish the world were better? Let me tell you what to do: Set a watch upon your actions, Keep them always straight and true; Rid your mind of selfish motives, Let your thought be true and high; You can make a little Eden Of the sphere you occupy.

Do you wish the world were happy? Then remember day by day Just to scatter seeds of kindness As you pass along the way; For the pleasure of the many May be ofttimes traced to one, As the hand that plants the acorn Shelters armies from the sun. -Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

He That Built All Things Is God. BY F. E. EXUM.

"Every house was builded by some man; but he that built all things is So says the apostle Paul. But there is a certain class of people in the world, some of them claiming to be very wise, who do not agree with "The fool hath said in his heart, There is no God." No one but a fool can come to that conclusion. A person with a reasonable measure of wisdom should know that all things, both temporal and eternal, must have a Creator in order to exist. That simple thought is plainly implied in the apostle's language. A house cannot create itself, and neither could the world have ereated itself. If you were crossing a desert on which you had been told the foot of man had never been set and were to see off in the distance a house, you would immediately come to the conclusion that you had been misinformed. A reasonable-minded man cannot consider the wonderful workings of the universe and come to the conclusion that it all just happened so. There are many things that the human mind cannot understand, and that fact alone is positive proof that those things are the product of a supernatural mindthe mind of God. All things must have a Creator, and the greatness and power of the Creator can be seen through those things which were created. The apostle Paul said to the Romans: "For the invisible things of him from the creation of the world are clearly seen, being understood by the things which are made, even his eternal power and Godhead." Think of the skill, the great power and marvelous wisdom that balanced the planets in their orbits and set them running through hundreds of thousands of miles of space so accurately that astronomers can calculate almost to the minute a year ahead when the shadow of one will pass over the other. Can a reasonable-minded person conclude that it just happened that way and is not the handiwork of an infinite mind? I don't think so.

The fool that says in his heart,

"There is no God," cannot understand his own body nor the miracle in the creation of the life that is within him. The commonplace things in the world, to which we pay but little attention, are wonderful in their functions. The seasons that come and go, the sunshine, the darkness, the heat, the cold, the pure and clear water, and the fruits of the ground are all wonderfully regulated for the welfare of humanity. It is not possible that it just happened that way. It is the work of the mighty hand of God.

The same God who was mighty enough to create and set in motion the laws of nature has given us a law of salvation through Jesus Christ, his Son, and is able to save to the uttermost all those who believe and obey and are gone for good when Gray's Ointment is applied. It enters the pores of the skin, cleanses the wound, soothes the pain, kills the germs, and immediately begins healing. The blood is permanently relieved of the disease. Just so with sores, bruises, cuts, burns, stings, eczema, and the many similar forms of skin cruption. Its constant use for a century has made it a family word in every household. You should have it on your medicine shelf for emergencies. Phone your druggist. If he cannot supply you, send his name to W. F. Gray & Co., 818 Gray Building, Nashville, Tenn., and a liberal sample will be sent you free.

Boils Vanish

TREMENDOUS VALUE FOR 10c.

Washington, D. C. (Special),-An unusual offer is being made by the editor of the Pathfinder to send the paper to new readers eight weeks for ten cents. This wellknown national weekly magazine contains all the worth-while news of the world, illustrated and presented in a most entertaining manner. It is clean, sincere, nonpartisan, reliable, well printed in large type. It puts everything clearly, fairly, and briefly.

Washington, the home of the Pathfinder, is the nerve center of civilization. History is being made at this world capital. The Pathfinder's Illustrated weekly review gives you a clear, impartial, and correct diagnosis of public affairs during these strenuous, epoch-making days. It is the only big weekly magazine at the seat of government. Send ten cents for eight weeks' trial subscription to the Pathfinder, 113 Douglas Street, Washington, D. C. The ten cents send ten cents for eight weeks trial sub-scription to the Pathfinder, 113 Douglas Street, Washington, D. C. The ten cents does not repay the editor, but he is glad to invest in new friends.

ECZEMA

IS CURABLE. Write me to-day, and I will send you a free trial of my mild, soothing. guaranteed treatment that will prove it. Stops the liching and heals permanently. DR. CANNADAY, 1225 Park Square, Sedalia, Mc.

NO JOKE TO BE DEAF

-Every Deaf Person Knows That.

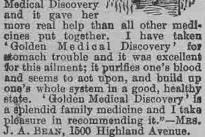

1 make myself hear, after being deaf for 25 years, with these Artificial Ear Drums. I wear them day and night. They are perfectly comfortable, Noone sees them. Write me and I will tell you a true story, how I got me and I will tell you at true story, how I got me and and how I make you hear. Address Drum. Pat. Nor. 3, 1998.

6EO. P. WAY, Artificial Ear Drum Ce. (Inc.) 203 Adelaide St. Detroit, Mich.

Ask Your Neighbor!

"ALTON PARK, TENN.—"Dr. Pieros's medicines have been used a great deal in my family with the very best of results. I had a girl that had chronic bronchitis and I never found anything that would give her re-lief until I began giving her Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery Few folks or families now living have not at sometime or other used Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for the stomach, liver or blood. Over twenty-four million bottles of this tonic and blood remedy have been sold by druggists in this country.

WEST FRANKFORT, KY.—"I can recommend Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets ommend Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets most highly for they have been used for many years past by my own people and by my husband's and later on by myself. I have never known such a mild and effective remedy for sluggish liver and constipation as Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets."—Mrs. Adding HARROD, No. 606 Polsgrove Street.

These little, sugar-coated pills are composed of Mayapple, leaves of alce, root of jalap—things that Nature grows in the ground, and are sold by druggists everywhere.

FRECKL

Now Is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots.

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freckles, as Othine—double strength—is guaranteed to remove these homely spots.

Simply get an onnee of Othine—double strength—from your druggist, and apply a little of it night and morning and you should soon see that even the worst freekles have begun to disappear, while the highest news have vanished entirely. It is selden that more than one onnee is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a benutiful clear complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength Othine as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it falls to remove freekles.

TETTERINE

Makes low necks and short sleeves possible. It clears the skin

60c at your druggist's or from the SHUP-TRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

Oon't Endure

The Bitter Made Sweet.

Just to give up, and trust All to a Fate unknown. Plodding along life's road in the dust, Bounded by walls of stone: Never to have a heart at peace; Never to see when care will cease; Just to be still when sorrows fall-This is the bitterest lesson of all.

Just to give up, and rest All on a Love secure, Out of a world that's hard at the best, Looking to heaven as sure; Ever to hope, through cloud and fear, In darkest night, that the dawn is near; Just to wait at the Master's feet-Surely now the bitter is sweet. -Henry van Dyke,

Hobbies and Hobby Riders.

BY J. C. ALLEN. Some one has said: "Let us live and learn, then die and forget all." I do not know anything about forgetting after death, but one thing I am certain about, and that is, I have learned much since I came West that had never entered my mind before I came, The strangest thing of all to me is to find men and women who claim to be Christians, and only Christians, so far apart on so many vital questions, and all of them claiming New Testament authority. I became fully satisfied a long time ago that no two men could disagree on any vital religious question and both be right. Both may be wrong, but it is impossible for both to be right while differing on important church questions. Much of the New Testament contains warnings against being deceived religiously, and brethren will emphasize the importance of all taking heed to this warning, while they at the same time are contending for something they have no more Bible authority for than the Roman priesthood has for priestly absolution. I have tried hard to find a difference between religious tracts and Sundayschool helps that so many good brethren differ about, but have failed utterly to see any difference. I am not opposed to either, if they teach the pure word of God. If I find a leaflet on a religious subject. I measure it by the Bible, and accept all contained therein that is in harmony therewith: and so with Bible helps on Bible lessons. The same rule that would cause me to reject leaflets and Bible helps in studying the Bible, if consistent, would force me to reject all religious papers and commentaries on religious subjects; and who is ready We all agree in for such a step? warning men against changing the law of God, and that is right; but is it not a fact that when we try to set a limit on teaching the Bible we are guilty of legislating where God is silent? God's orders are to "preach the word," " in season, out of season," withrout telling us how. Still, men who claim to believe God would have us believe it is all wrong to teach the Bible in schools. In the language of Holmes, "They ride their hobby without bit or bridle" until they commit the awful crime of dividing churches and homes all over the West.

The true man is greater than anything he can make.—Exchange.

50 Eggsa Day

"More Eggs' Tonic is a Godsend," writes Mrs. Myrtle Ice, of Boston, Ky. She adds, "I was only getting 12 eggs a day and now I get 50." Give your heas a few cents worth of "More Eggs," the wonderful egg pro-ducer, and you'll be amazed and delighted with results.

Package FR

Send the coupon below. Don't send any money. Mr. Reefer will send you two $1.00 packages of "More Eggs." You pay the postman upon delivery only $1.00, the price of just one package, the other package being free. The Million Dollar Merchants Bank of Kansas City. Mo. guarantees if you are not absolutely satisfied, your dollar will be returned at any time within 30 days—on request. No risks to you. 400,000 users praise Reefer's "More Eggs."

Poultry Raisers Everywhere Tell Wonderful Results of "More Eggs"

126 Eggs in 5 Days

I wouldn't try to raise chickens without "More Eggs," which means more money. I use it right along. I have 33 hears and in 5 days have gotten 10% dozen eggs, or 126. MRS. J. O. OAKES, Salina, Okla.

"More Eggs" Paid the Pastor

I can't express in words how much I have been bene-fitted by "More Eggs." I have paid my debts, clothed the children in new dresses, and that is not all—I paid my pastor his dues I sold 42% dezen eggs last week, set 4 dozen are some and had 1% dezen left MRS. LENA McBROON, Woodbury, Tenn.

1200 Eggs from 29 Hens

The "More Eggs" Tonic did wonders for me. I had 29 hens when I got the tonic and was getting five or six eggs a day. April 1st I had over 1200 eggs. I never saw the equal. EDW. MEKKER, Pontiac, Mich.

Never Laid as They Do Now

I am very much satisfied with the "More Eggs" Tonic. My chickens never laid as many eggs as they do now. W. A. GRUETZMACHER, Great Bend, N. D.

$200 Worth of Eggs from 44 hens

I herer used "More Eggs" Tonic until last December; then just used one $1.00 package and fare sold over $200.00 worth of eggs from forty-four heas. "More Eggs" Tonic did it. A G THODE, Sterling Kans., E. No. 2, Box 47.

Send No Money!

Don't send any money; just fill in and mail coupon. You will be sent at once, two $1.00 packages of "MORE EGGS." Pay the postman upon delivery only $1.00, the extra package being FREE. Don't walt—take advantage of this free offer TODAY! Reap the BIG profits "MORE EGGS" will make for you. Have plenty of eggs to sell when the price is highest. Send TODAY—NOW!

------E.J. Reefer, Poultry Expert, 7257 Reefer Bldg., Kansas City, Mo. Dear Mr. Reefer — I accept your offer. Send me two $1.00 packages of Reefer's "More Eggs" for which I agree to pay the postman $1.00 when he brings me the two packages. You agree to refund me $1.00 at any time within 30 days, if both of these packages do not prove satisfactory in every way.

Name

Address

The Double Nature of Man. No. 8.

BY TICE ELRINS.

The human conscience is a prophecy of immortality.

Conscience is that moral faculty which gives us an instinctive conviction of obligation and duty, and also an instinctive apprehension of future retribution. Its law is written upon the human heart and interwoven with the very nature of every moral agent. It is as essential a part of our nature as reason, or judgment, or memory. Its universality is asserted by Paul when he says: "When the Gentiles, which have not the law, do by nature the things contained in the law, these, having not the law, are a law unto themselves: which show the work of the law written in their hearts, their conscience also bearing witness, and their thoughts the meanwhile accusing or else excusing one another." Its existence and authority are also acknowledged, in some form or other, by all the race.

While the doctrine of our great immortality has demanded recognition among all men, whether savage or civilized, the belief of it has ever been intensified by conscience. It speaks in every chamber of the soul in a voice more potent than any pealing thunder. The heathen offerings of gold and silver and precious things, to their gods, and all their sacrifices of sheep and oxen and even of human beings, for the atonement of sin, are so many sad, yet eloquent, prophecies which conscience makes of our immortality.

Still another argument may be drawn from the confessions of infidelity. Thomas Paine, after declaring that all "belief of a word of God existing in print, or in writing, or in speech, is in itself inconsistent," nevertheless confesses to a conviction of a future existence. He says: "I content myself with believing even to positive conviction, that the power which gave me existence is able to continue it in any form or manner he pleases, either with or without this body; and it appears to me more probable that I shall continue to exist after this life than that I existed before the other which I believe is to follow.'

Men may deny and scoff at a future life, may even decree that there is no God and that "death is an eternal sleep," but, after all, down in the depth of their depraved hearts lingers the consciousness that the soul does not die; and that consciousness, though long clogged by evil passions and buried deep beneath the rubbish of false and damning theories, shall yet come forth and assert its undying nature. Says Percival:

E'en at the dying hour the soul will wake,

And not like senseless brute its unknown journey take.

THERE IS NOTHING equal to Chamberlain's Tablets for constipation. When the proper dose is taken their action is so agreeable and so natural that you do not realize that it is the effect of a medicine. These tablets possess tonic properties that aid in establishing a natural and regular action of the bowels. Chamberlain's Tablets have cured many cases of chronic constipation.

Chamberlain's Tablets

WINTERSMITH'S (HILL TONIC

Sold for 50 years for Malaria and as a General Tonic. Helps build you up.

If Not Sold by Your Druggist, Write ARTHUR PETER & CO., Louisville, Ky.

Said the dying Altamont, infidel: "My soul is full powerful to reason, full mighty to suffer; and that which triumphs in the jaws of mortality is itself, doubtless, immortal." And then he adds: "Remorse for the past-throws my thoughts on the future; and worse dread for the future throws them back on the past. I turn and turn and find no ray. Didst thou feel half the mountain which is on me, thou wouldest struggle with the martyr for his stake, and bless heaven for the flame that is not an everlasting flame, that is not an unquenchable fire." Who can believe that a soul wrought up into such intense agony, with all its powers so terribly quickened and with its dying confessions and dreadful anticipations still upon its lips, shall suddenly drop into nonexistence and cease its consciousness forever? Nay, these very confessions of infidelity, rising up, as they do, to confront and confound all the professions of a life of unbelief and to anticipate an impending and eternal doom, are but the soul's assertions of its undying and immortal nature.

It now only remains for us to verify these deductions of reason by the teachings of revelation. We have already seen that a future life and an eternal life only can satisfy the capacities, want, and aspirations of the soul, and thus meet the conditions of our being; and now it remains to see if God has given us ground of hope that this future life shall be granted, whether immortality, which alone can fill up the capacities and satisfy the longings of the mind, shall be given or denied to man. Reason may lead us to hope, but revelation produces faith. Reason affords some glimmering expectations of a future state, but revelation lifts the impending veil and brings life and immortality to light. It dissipates the dense mist that hangs over the valley of the shadow of death and enables the soul to revel in the anticipations of a bliss which man without revelation cannot understand or enjoy.

THIS GIRL IS A WONDER.

Do you want more money than you ever possessed? If so, learn to make nut and fruit bonbons. The business will net you $90.00 to $300.00 per month. You can work from your own home. All who sample your bonbons become regular customers. You start by investing less than $10.00 for supplies. Mary Elizabeth started her candy kitchen with $5.00, and has made a fortune. Cannot you do likewise? I will tell you all about the business and help you start, so you can become independent. Now is the psychological time to make big money, as sugar is cheaper and fine bonbons command phenomenal prices. Write to-day. Isabelle Inez, 356 Morewood Building, Pittsburgh, Pa.

FROM FORTY-FIVE TO SIXTY

A Word of Help to Women of Middle Age From Mrs. Raney.

Morse, Okla.—"When I was 45 years old Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound carried me through the critical period of the Change of Life in safety. I am over 60 and have raised a family of eight children and am in fine health. My daughter and daughters-in-law recommend your Vegetable Compound and I still take self. You are at liberty to use my name if you wish."—Mrs. ALICE RANEY, Morse, Oklahoma.

Change of Life is one of the most critical periods of a woman's existence. This good old-fashioned root and herb remedy may be relied upon to overcome the distressing symptoms which accom-pany it and women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to carry women so successfully through this trying period as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., (con-fidential), Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

ASPIRIN

Name "Bayer" on Genuine

"Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" is genuine "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" is genuine Aspirin proved safe by millions and prescribed by physicians for over twenty years. Accept only an unbroken "Bayer package" which contains proper directions to relieve Headache, Toothache, Earache, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Colfas and Pain. Handy tin boxes of 12 tablets cost few cents. Druggists also sell larger "Bayer packages." Aspirin is trade mark Bayer Manufacture Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid.

women's aches, Sick and Nervous Headaches, Back aches—relieved quickly by the Reliable Remedy IT'S LIQUID-QUICK EFFECT.

The Pacific Christian Academy. BY O. W. GARDNER.

Owing to the incomplete condition of our new building, we postponed the opening day from September 6 to September 13, when the doors were thrown open for the beginning of the third year's work of the Pacific Christian Academy, of Graton, Cal. most of the readers are aware that this is the first Bible school ever attempted west of the Rocky Mountains. The first year the school was in Santa Rosa; but, owing to what seemed to be very much better conditions from several viewpoints, the trustees unanimously decided to move the work to Graton, a small town about ten miles west of Santa Rosa. The first year at Graton (last year) proved the wisdom of the move. Being a small town, Graton offers rare inducements to parents who desire their children to devote their time to study and character building without the contaminating and blighting influences common to larger towns and cities. There is not a moving-picture show, skating rink, or common swimming pool near us. Unless you have done school work yourself under similar conditions, you cannot fully appreciate such wonderful advantages to school life and conduct in general such surroundings are.

I have never seen such unity of purpose and solid "team work" in all my nearly thirty years' experience in almost every kind and grade of school. It is certainly gratifying to have so many young folks and parents pulling together with the teachers for one great aim in life-the preparation for usefulness to the church and our fellow man. "Unselfish Service" is our motto, an excellent object lesson of such service being constantly before us in the sacrifices of parents and friends in providing the good building, grounds, and other equipment.

This being a new venture in the far West, we must expect the brethren to be rather slow for a while in rallying to its support, but our enrollment has exceeded all expectations. We opened with fifty enrolled, and at this writing have sixty, with at least six or ten to enter very soon. We expect at least seventy-five or eighty before the holidays. We have enrolled some from quite a distance, and others are on their way from Colorado and Washington. Families are moving into our midst for the benefit of the school, and it seems that the only barrier now to prevent an overflow of pupils is housing facilities. Several families tried to move into our midst, but had to give up the idea on account of not having houses to go into. Rent houses are scarce, but there are a few that could be bought worth the money.

The church work with the Graton congregation is moving along smoothly, in peace and harmony, full of life There have and spiritual growth. been a number of baptisms recently. Scarcely a week passes without additions to the church. It seems that if we continue to grow we soon shall have to provide larger quarters or enlarge our meetinghouse. The brethren are very kind, considerate of strangers, and earnest in their spiritual life. We have been received into their hearts and homes so heartily and lovingly, they have been so liberal and generous in sharing their provisions and comforts while we are being settled in our new home, that our unworthiness is made manifest daily, and we are thus "put to it" in trying to measure up to what is due them and the work here.

If you are contemplating a change and interested in finding a good church home and safe school environment for your children near the great Pacific Coast, where the extremes of temperature never occur, write to the Pacific Christian Academy, Graton, Cal. Remember, we charge no tuition.

You Do More Work,

You are more ambitious and you get more enjoyment out of everything when your blood is in good condition. Impurities in the blood have a very depressing effect on the system, causing weakness, laziness, nervousness and sickness.

GROVE'S TASTELESS CHIII TONIC restores Energy and Vitality by Purifying and Enriching the Blood. When you feel its strengthening, invigorating effect, see how it brings color to the cheeks and how it improves the appetite, you will then appreciate its true tonic value.

GROVE'S TASTELESS CHIII TONIC is not a patent medicine, it is simply IRON and QUININE suspended in Syrup. So pleasant even children like it. The So pleasant even children like it. The blood needs Quinine to Purifyit and IRON to Enrich it. These reliable tonic properties never fail to drive out impurities in the blood.

The Strength-Creating Power of GROVE'S TASTELESS Chill TONIC has made it the favorite tonic in thousands of homes. More than thirty-five years ago, folks would ride a long distance to get GROVE'S TASTELESS Chill TONIC when a member of their family had Malaria or needed a body-building, strength-giving tonic. The formula is just the same today, and you can get it from any drug store, 60c per bottle.

"Balm in Gilead." BY JARRATT L. SMITH.

"Is there no balm in Gilead? is there no physician there? why then is not the health of the daughter of my people recovered?" (Jer. 8: 22.)

The prophecy of Jeremiah has been termed one long lamentation. His heart mourned at the results of the Chaldean invasion; but he had deeper grief than even the national prostration and dishenor of his fatherland, The people had relapsed into idolatry. False prophets, who delivered lying messages and prophesied smooth things, abounded on every hand, and Jeremiah seemed to stand in singlehanded witness to testify for the Lord of hosts. "For the hurt of the daughter of my people am I hurt: I am black; astonishment hath taken hold on me. Is there no balm in Gilead?"

Let us apply these plaintive and solicitous words to ourselves. The first thing we notice is, there is disease among the people. Surely nothing is now hurting the church of Christ worse than covetousness. The preachers' unavoidable increase of high living is not evenly supplemented in the offerings. Preachers' expenses increase in proportion to other men's; and yet, amidst it all, some are still heard to say: "Thank God, salvation is free!" The spiritual malady under which all mankind is groaning is represented in the Bible as making the whole head sick and the heart faint. The question of spiritual health or sickness becomes a question of immense importance, viewed in connection with the eternal duration of man's being. This malady was born with you and has grown with your growth; and if you have not personally realized the transformation of the gospel, you are afflicted still. Secing the disease, the question comes now to be asked: "Why is not the health of the daughter of my people recovered?" It is not because there is no cure. There is "balm in Gilead." There is an infallible Physician there. If there be an infallible specific and a skillful Physician, and if still the people die, the fault must be in themselves. Listen to the pleading voice of the prophet Ezekiel: "Cast away from you all your transgressions, whereby ye have transgressed; and make you a new heart and a new spirit: for why will ye die, O house of Israel? For I have no pleasure in the death of him that dieth, saith the Lord God: wherefore turn yourselves, and live ye." (Ezek. 18: 31, 32.) Some of us will not admit ourselves ill; while some will acknowledge themselves guilty and diseased, but seek elsewhere for the remedy. In the cure of the soul's allment there is but one balm and one Physician. There is another class who feel their danger, who come to the remedy (the gospel), but who do not comply with the directions which the Physician has given. They are not far from the kingdom of God, but they are not in it. The invitation to obey the gospel is extended to all, " without money and without price." Come to the Great Physician, that you may Neutralizes Uric Acid.

Rheumatism is caused by urlc acid in the blood. In order to be cured of rheumatism, it is necessary to neutralize this acid. RENWAR is a scientific combination of salts prepared to neutralize the urlc acid in the blood. There is nothing in Renwar to injure the stomach or affect the heart. It acts solely upon urlc acid, completely eliminating it from the blood and thereby relieving your rheumatism. It is harmless, but effective. Positively guaranteed by money-back offer. It is a Godsend to sufferers from rheumatism. Renwar also corects constipation. Mr. J. M. Willis, of the Nashville Railway and Light Company, says: "I must say that Renwar far surpassed my expectations, for it gave me almost immediate relief. Too much cannot be spoken in behalf of Renwar for rheumatism." Sold by druggists (price, 50 cents) or by mail from WARNER DRUG COMPANY, NASHVILLE, TENN.

DEATH RATTLE OF GALOMEL IN SOUTH

Dodson is Destroying Sale of Dangerous Drug with His "Liver Tone."

You're bilious, sluggish, constipated and believe you need vile, dangerous cal-omel to start your liver and clean your

Here's Dodson's guarantee! Ask your druggist for a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone and take a spoonful tonight. If it doesn't start your liver and straighten you right up better than calomel and without griping or making you sick I want you to go back to the store and get your money.

Take calonel today and tomorrow you will feel weak and sick and nauseated.

day's work. Take a spoonful of harmless, vegetable Dodson's Liver Tone tonight and wake up feeling great. It's perfectly harmless, so give it your children any time. It can't sali-vate so let them eat anything after-

GET FEATHER BEDS AND PILLOWS Direct from Factory. Write to-day. Send names of four friends and receive our astonshing offer. Hygienic Feather Bedding Co., Dept. 22, Charlotte, N. C.

Girls! Girls!! Save Your Hair With Cuticura Soap and Ointment to clear Dandruff and Itching, 25c

STOPPED HER FITS

Mrs. Dellia Martin, a resident of Wurtsboro, writes that she stopped her fits with a medicine that she read about in the She says she has not had a fit since she took the first dose, and that she wants she took the first dose, and that she wants every sufferer to know about this wonderful medicine and what it did for her. If you, a friend, or relative, suffer from these dreadful attacks, you are advised to send name and address at once to R. P. N. Lepse, 198 Island Avenue, Milwaukee, Wis., who is generously offering to send a bottle of the same kind of medicine he gave Mrs. Martin, free, to any sufferer who writes him.—Adv.

TREMENDOUS VALUE FOR 10c.

The Pathfinder, Leading Weekly Magazine of Nation's Capital, Makes Remarkably Attractive Offer.

Washington, D. C. (Special.)—Peo-ple in every section of the country are hurrying to take advantage of the Pathfinder's wonderful offer to send that splendid illustrated review of the whole world eight weeks for ten cents. It costs the editor a lot of money to do this, but he says it pays to invest in new friends, and that he will keep the offer open until the Pathfinder passes the 300,000 circulation mark, which will be in a few weeks. Ten cents mailed at once with your application to Pathfinder, 120 Douglas Street, Washington, D. C., will keep the whole family informed, entertained, helped, and inspired for the next three months.

The Romantic Story of Southland's Favorite Shoe, EzWear

Some five years ago, a prominent citizen of South Carolina, visiting New York on important business, chanced to meet the maker of a shoe built on new and unusual lines; an enthusiastic admirer of its most distinctive features, ease and comfort, had suggested the name "EzWear;" promptly adopted. The business man from the South, knowing how welcome such a shoe would be in his part of the country, urged that its remarkable qualifies, including not only comfort, but style, durability, and economy, be made known there. That this has been done effectively is proven by the enormous demand that has sprung up in the South for EzWear Shoes. It is said that its sale there during the last twelve months has increased fully three hundred per cent. The distributor, Mr. J. R. Simon, 1589 Broadway, Brooklyn, N. Y., says that all who wish to know about a shoe that combines all worth-while shoe qualities may have a copy of his money-saving shoe book for the asking.

VACCINATE YOUR HOGS.

BUY SERUM direct from the manufacturers and be assured of a fresh, reliable product. United States Veterreliable product. United States veter-inary License No. 114; long-distance phone, Main 2589, Nashville, Tenn, Write for 90-page Hog Book; it is FREE. WHITE SERUM COMPANY.

HOW TO GET RID OF CATARRH

A SIMPLE, SAFE, INEXPENSIVE METHOD THAT CLEARS OUT THE HEAD, NOSE, AND THROAT.

There is no disease more offensive or disagreeable or no disease that will lead to as much serious trouble as catarrh. You can now get rid of it by a simple, safe, pleasant home remedy discovered by Dr. Blosser, a catarrh specialist.

Dr. Biosser's Remedy is composed of medicinal herbs, flowers, and berries, which you smoke in a dainty pipe or cigarette. The smoke-vapor is inhaled into all the air passages of the head, nose, throat, and lungs. It contains no cubebs or tobacco, and may be used by women and children as well as men.

This medicated smoke carries medicine where sprays, douches, and ointments cannot possibly reach. Its effect is southing and healing and is entirely harmless. If you are a sufferer from catarrh, asthma, catarrhal deafness, or subject to frequent colds, you should try this Remedy without delay.

Any well-stocked drug store can supply Dr. Blosser's Remedy in cigarettes or powder for smoking in a pipe, or will order it for you. Satisfactory results guaranteed by a genuine, money-back offer.

A trial package will be malled postpaid to any sufferer for ten cents (coin or stamps) by The Blosser Co., 44DD, Atlanta, Ga., to prove its delightful and remarkable offectiveness .- Advi.

TETTERINE for the COMPLEXION

60c at your druggist's or from Shuptrine Co., Savannah, Ga.

FOOT COMFORT ASSURED

Brooklyn Man Solves the Problem

It is no longer necessary to suffer agonies that are caused by misfit shoes; for Mr. Simon, of Brooklyn, has proven that he can fit perfectly by mail. Simon's EzWear Shoes are built to give every possible foot comfort; they are soft and stylish, and do not need breaking in. They fit like the proverbial pair, the minute you wear them. Every pair is guaranteed to give satisfaction and to fit perfectly.

Mr. J. R. Simon will gladly send a free catalogue of over 500 styles of EzWear Shoes to all who write him, along with his scientific, self-measuring blank. Write for your copy to-day, and give your feet their much-needed happiness. Address all com-munications to Mr. J. R. Simon, 1589 Broadway, Brooklyn, N. Y., and you will receive personal attention.

DON'T BE CUT Until You Try This Wonderful Treatment.

If you have piles in any form, write for a FREE sample of Page's Pile Tablets, and you will bless the day that you read this. Write to-day. E. R. Page, 430, D. Page Building, Marshall, Mich.

Beware of the Leaven.

BY J. J. VANHOUTIN.

When Jesus said to his disciples, "Take heed and beware of the leaven of the Pharisees and of the Sadducees," his disciples at first thought that he meant the leaven of bread, that their yeast might contain poison: but after he explained to them that it was not the leaven of bread that was so dangerous, then they understood that he meant their doctrine. Here Jesus gave a deathblow to the old Zadock materialistic doctrine of no soul-spirit part of man after death, no angel, no resurrection, and no rewards or punishments in the future. If that Sadducee doctrine was to be avoided by Christ and his apostles, when did it cease to be dangerous? We can have any kind of bread for daily food, but we must be careful and not get any of the poisonous leaven mixed into the bread of life.

There are many kinds of leaven of unrighteousness on the spiritual market, in high places. The leaven of malice is fatal. One dose results in a spiritual death. The brand of hypocrisy is the most deceiving of any brand. It never is what it appears to be, and never appears to be what it really is. The main manufacturing shop belonged to the Pharisees. Jesus said: "The leaven of the Pharisees is hypocrisy." (Luke 12: 1.) It is more dangerous than the imaginary ships on sandy deserts. As soon as a man uses that leaven, his tongue becomes doubled, his head becomes enlarged (called "big head"), his heart becomes calloused, his face becomes two, and his cheek is large enough for three rows of teeth. The leaven of hypocrisy starts the man to work in the factory of deceit. It was first established by Apollyon, sometimes called "Diabolis," in a garden called "Eden." So the originator of poisonous leaven is very old, and is not likely to die of old age, as he can appear young and unmarried whenever the occasion requires. Once the factories were destroyed by a flood, but were soon rebuilt, and the workers take out no insurance against fire; but the business is very great when the insurance is against water, through which a person must go if he ever quits working in the leaven factory of King Diabolis. "A little leaven leaveneth the whole lump." (Gal. 5: 9.) It absorbs or takes out every drop of water found in baptism, and yet leaves it in the word as clear as it was when Jesus placed it in the ceremony. No wonder that Jesus said: "Beware of the leaven of the Pharisees and of the Sadducees!" Once a man wrote this: "The original way of coming to Christ in apostolic days was through the institution of baptism, but we have removed baptism and placed the mourners' bench in lieu of baptism." In the twenty-third chapter of Matthew, Jesus repeats this statement seven times: "Woe unto you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites!" And he compared them to a lot of graves full of dead men's bones, Thus the hypocrite's heart is as corrupt as the grave. Several times did a man tell me that he preached many things which he did not believe. Poor, deluded wretch! (He left this world via the morphine route.) Hypocrisy will lead a man on to the denial of any relationship to God, and leaves him on a common level with the beast of the field. A man should never pretend to be what he is not. Counterfeiting is illegal work. Beware, and use none other but the leaven of righteousness.

Selections.

Keen and intense life's race Sharp and severe its strife; Lest I grow faint and slack my pace, O Christ, be thou my life! -C. S. Hoyt.

The chief purpose of Christian prayer is not that we may receive good things for ourselves, but rather that we may become better servants of God .- G. Ashton Oldham.

The future of the world is pivoted on the question of whether the Protestant church of America can hold, enlighten, and purify the people born or gathered into its compass.-R. S. Storrs.

As iron put into the fire loseth its rust and becometh clearly red-hot, so he that wholly turneth himself unto God puts off all slothfulness and is transformed into a new man.-Thomas à Kempis.

For myself, I am certain that the good of human life cannot lie in the possession of things which for one man to possess is for the rest to lose, but rather in things which all can possess alike, and where one man's wealth promotes his neighbor's .-

What we want is permanence. It is one beauty of the Christian revelation that it uses all the symbols of a home to give our hearts rest in the thought of departure; that is what we want. That has been dearest, after all, to judge and soldier, merchant and statesman, monarch and peasant-the Yes, no image of court, or temple, is so inspiring as this: my Father's house!-W. M. Statham.

Night and Morning. Have Strong, Healthy Eyes. If they Tire, Itch, Smart or Burn, if Sore, Irritated, Inflamed or YOUR EYES Irritated, Inflamed or Granulated, use Murine often. Soothes, Refreshes. Safe for Infant or Adult. At all Druggists. Write for Free Eye Book. Murine Eye Remedy Co., Chicago

DIDN'T KNOW 'TWAS SO GOOD

Texas Lady Storekeeper Who Carries Black - Draught in Stock Has Found It "Best Liver Medicine" Obtainable.

Barker, Texas.-Relating her experience with Thedford's Black-Draught, Mrs. A. L. Fromme, of this place,

"I had for some time used -- and other liver medicines, which would nauseate and make me feel bad. We have a store; and our customers called for Black-Draught so often I decided it must be good, so thought I would try it myself.

"I began its use, and found it just fitted my case. It neither griped nor nauseated me; was an easy laxative, and not hard to take.

"I had had headaches a great deal, no doubt from torpid liver. The Black-Draught would cure them. The best way I find to take Black-Draught is to take one or two good-sized doses until the liver begins to act, then taper the does to just a pinch after

"It will insure good digestion, do away with the gas or bad taste in the mouth, and is without doubt the best liver medicine in the market. I have found it so. I can recommend it to my friends, for I believe it will do them good."

Get a package of Thedford's Black-Draught liver medicine to-day.

Most dealers carry it in stock.

FOOT TROUBLES

No Need of Them, Says Brooklyn Man, Who Has Evidently Solved a Big Problem

According to the testimony of hundreds of people living in the Southland and elsewhere, J. R. Simon, of 1589 Broadway, Brooklyn, N. Y., has successfully developed system of shoe building having for its prime object the conquering of foot and shoe troubles. It appears that Mr. Simon's establishment has become national head-quarters for people whose feet require his remarkable comfort shoe, known as the EzWear, but obtainable only of the in-ventor, Mr. Simon's new catalogue shows several hundred shoes that combine comfort with style at amazingly low prices and is now ready for free distribution.

DON'T DISREGARD A COLD

The influenza and pneumonia that swept the country a year ago were preceded by an epidemic of colds. Foley's Honey and Tar will check a cold if taken in time, and will also stop a cough of long standing. It promptly gives relief, soothes, and heals. Mrs. Geneva Robinson, 38 N. Swan Street, Albany, N. Y., writes: "Foley's Honey and Tar is the best cough medicine I ever used. Two bottles broke a most stubborn, lingering cough." It loosens the phlegm and mucus, clears air passages, eases hoarseness, stops ticking.

OBITUARIES

On account of the large number of obituary notices coming to the Gospel Advocate, the following rules must be observed: Obituaries that do not exceed two hundred words are published free of charge. When they exceed that limit, two cents will be charged for every additional word. Payment must accompany notice, or it will be reduced to two hundred words. Poetry will not be printed.

Cason.

Addie Nell Cason was born on August 17, 1904; obeyed the gospel in August, 1920; and departed this life on October 2, 1920. We know the steps that Addie took. We know the life she lived. We know she heard the gospel, believed the gospel, and obeyed the gospel, and thus became a obeyed the gospel, and thus became a Christian and wore the name "Chris-She was truthful and honest, pure and patient, and faithful until death. "Blessed are they that do his commandments, that they may have right to the tree of life, and may enter in through the gates into the city.'

Thweatt.

Brother A. P. Thweatt was born on October 16, 1871, and died on August 7, 1920. He was married to Miss Kate Kirkpatrick many years ago, and to this union were born eight children, one of whom preceded him to the great beyond. Brother Thweatt was one of the most devoted fathers and faithful husbands it has been my pleasure to meet. Many times have I been to his meet. Many times have I been to his home, and always he was the same quiet, humble, gentle, lovable man. He cared nothing for the show and praise of the world, but "went about doing good" in a humble, quiet way. He obeyed the gospel in 1896, and with his wife and a few relatives was in-strumental in establishing one of the largest and best congregations in Middle Tennessee—namely, Mount Pleas-ant. The world has been made better by Brother Thweatt's having lived in it, and many souls have been saved his influence and work. May God, "who comforteth us in all our afflic-tions," bless and comfort his sweet companion and good children. "Now companion and good children. "Now I commend you to God, and to the word of his grace, which is able to build you up, and to give you the inheritance among all them that are sanctified."

C. H. Woodroof.

Moore.

The sad news of the death of little Glenn Moore, the son and only child of Brother and Sister Clarence Moore, was received with regret and much sympathy for the sorrowing father and mother by the church of Christ in Savannah, Ga. Brother and Sister Moore had been two of our most consecrated workers for the cause of Christ here until they moved away in August, going to Shelbyville, Tenn. They had not been there very long when little Glenn developed a very bad case of diphtheria, from which he was case of diphtheria, from which he was just recovering when double pneu-monia set in, and he was not strong enough to resist it even though every-thing was done for him that human hands could do. His death came on September 7, and he was laid to rest on the following day. Glenn was something near eight years of age, and was one of our little Sunday-morning regulars who never missed a lesson. He was blessed with a good, Christian mother who was truly bringing him up "in the nurture and admoni-tion of the Lord." We may not be We may not be able to see and understand why God has taken from this father and mother their most sacred treasure, but it is not for us to question God; but we have this consolation, that "all things work together for good to them that love the Lord."

J. Bedford Beck.

Is Your Blood Starving For Want of Iron?

Without Plenty of Iron In Your Blood You Don't Get the Strength and Nourishment Out of the Food You Eat

Nourishment Out of the Food You Lat

When over-work, lack of sleep, improper food and impure air sap the iron from your blood and make you feel weak, nervous, irritable and outof-sorts, it is important that you should at once put more iron into your blood. Without iron the blood loses the power to change food into living tissue and therefore nothing that you cat does you don't get the full strength out of it. Your food merely passes through your system like corn through a mill with the rollers so wide apart that the mill can't grind. Because of this steady starvation of the blood and nerves people often become weakened, tired-out, nervous and rundown and frequently develop all sorts of symptoms. But the moment organic iron—Nuxated Iron—is supplied a multitude of dangerous symptoms disappear in most cases, the flesh becomes firmer, the muscles get back their strength and the roses of health bloom in cheeks that were pale and sickly looking.

No matter what other so-called remedies you may have tried, if you are not strong, vigorous, hearty and well, you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next, take two live-grain tablets of ordinary Nuxated Iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see for yourself how much you have gained. You can obtain Nuxated Iron from your druggist on the distinct understanding that if you are not fully satisfied your woney will be refunded.

GIRLS! USE LEMONS FOR SUNBURN, TAN

Try it! Make this lemon lotion to whiten your tanned or freckled skin.

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into bottle containing three onnces of Orchard White, shake well, and you have a quarter pint of the best freckle, sunburn and tan lotion, and complexion whitener, at very, very small cost.

Your grocer has the lemons and any drug store or toilet counter will supply three ounces of Orchard White for a few cents. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face, neck, arms and hands and see how quickly the freckles, sunburn, windburn and tan disappear and how clear, soft and white the skin becomes. Yes! It is harmless.

HOW DOCTORS TREAT COLDS AND THE FLU

First Step in Treatment Is a Brisk Purgative With Calotabs, the Purified and Refined Calomel Tablets that are Nausealess, Safe and Sure.

Doctors have found by experience that no medicine for colds and influenza can be depended upon for full effectiveness until the liver is made thoroughly active. That is why the first step in the treatment is the new, nausealess colomel tablets called Calotabs, which are free from the sickening and weakening effects of the old style calomel. Doctors also point out the fact that an active liver may go a long way towards preventing influenza and is one of the most important factors in enabling the patient to successfully withstand an attack and ward off pneumonia.

One Calotab on the tongue at bed time with a swallow of water—that's all. No salts, no nausea nor the slightest interference with your eating, pleasure or work. Next morning your cold has vanished, your liver is active, your system is purified, and you are feeling fine, with a hearty appetite for breakfast. Druggists sell Calotabs only in original sealed packages, price thirty-five cents. Your money will be cheerfully refunded if you do not find them delightful.—(Adv.)

THE CROSS AND RESURRECTION (IN SONG).

By S. H. and Flavil Hall,

More than 300 songs; standard old songs in abundance, and the sweetest of the new. The fullness of the gospel. 35c per copy from 1 to 49; 36c per copy from 50 upward. Send your orders to

FLAVIL HALL, Trion, Ga,

California.

Seeley, October 7.—I have been a constant reader of the Gospel Advocate ever since 1896, and hope conditions may be such that I may have it to read as long as I live. Since coming to California wife and I have been reading carefully every item from this State, hoping to acquaint ourselves with the work here. We are so glad Brother S. H. Hall is in Los Angeles, and hope to have him visit us in Imperial Valley. There are a good many Christian people here, but some of them have become cold and indifferent and some have been taken in by the 'digressives" and turned over, soul and body, and especially pocketbook, to the Union or Federated Church of Southern California. Besides our lit-tle band at Seeley, who meet from house to house, there is a small congregation at Holtville and one at El Centro. We want any preacher pass-ing through this valley to stop and get acquainted.-Ernest L. Sprinkle.

Kansas.

Belle Plaine, October 19.—The meeting near Seneca, Mo., closed on Sunday at the water, with nineteen baptisms. We feel that the brethren were strengthened also. I am now at Belle Plaine, leading the song service for Brother M. S. Mason. The meeting starts with pleasing prospects.—Charles F. Hardin.

Kentucky.

Horse Cave, October 20.—I am just home from Cumberland County. I had a splendid trip and a good meeting at Mud Camp. I visited several congregations while over in Cumberland. I was at Salt Lick Bend, Hanover, and Bethel. Some of the best people on earth are in Cumberland County. I have many pleasant and kind remembrances of the dear brethern I met while on this trip.—Emmett G, Creacy.

Michigan.

Standish, October 18.—Our meeting at Pleasant Valley Schoolhouse, near Standish, is eight days old, with eight baptized and one restored. The crowds are large and attention fine. From here I go back to Flint.—Leslie G. Thomas.

Mississippi.

Wilkinson, October 18.—Dr. Tom F. Dunn, of Hazlehurst, formerly of Nashville, Tenn., closed an eight-days' meeting for us on the first Lord's day in this month. There were no additions to the church, but we had a fine meeting, and the Doctor did our members a great deal of good. We found him to be a good preacher. He puts all his points before the people with unanswerable arguments. Brother Dunn came to us as a stranger, but he leaves many friends, and we want him back again. We feel proud to have as good a preacher as he is in South Mississippi.—C. T. Netterville.

Oklahoma.

Rocky, October 18.—My protractedmeeting work for this season is over and I am back in the schoolroom for the winter. Brother John M. Rice, of Merkel, Texas, has just closed a very interesting meeting here, with twelve additions.—S. C. Wall.

Wewoka, October 17.—The work in Wewoka is progressing nicely. The interest is growing continually in every part of the work and is now by far the best it has ever been in the history of the church here. Brother W. H. George has just returned from his summer's work and was with us to-day. We had two fine services. One young man was restored at the morning service. Brother George will remain with us during the year of 1921. We are planning to do quite a lot of missionary work in this community during the coming year. The prospects are now very bright for the future of the church at Wewoka, Love and peace prevail throughout the congregation.—T. E. Burch.

Tennessee.

Lawrenceburg, October 20.—Our meeting at Lillamay closed last Friday. Four were baptized. Brother Jesse Barfield, of Nashville, led the songs during this meeting.—Thomas C. King.

Texas.

San Antonio, October 18.—One young man baptized and one confession at South Flores Street Church yesterday.—C. W. Holley.

Sherman, October 18.—I shall begin to night to pay back the work Brother L. S. White, of Sherman, did for us at the Armstrong Avenue church of Christ, in Denison. I should rejoice to have his splendid ability, that I might pay the Walnut Street church of Christ the same in kind and character. Anyway, I shall preach the gospel—the Word—and leave results with the Lord. We hope and pray for good results. Two were baptized and three took membership at the Armstrong Avenue Church yesterday. —Thomas E. Milholland.

Clarendon, October 18.—Our new brick building is about completed. It is forty by eighty feet, with baptistery and dressing rooms and a sixteen-foot balcony. The seating capacity of the building is about one thousand. The church is justly elated over their new home, for it was greatly needed. There is a bright future for the church at Clarendon, we think, notwithstanding the strong opposition we have to meet. Good services on Lord's day. One man, about fifty years old, made the good confession. May the Lord bless us in every effort for good.—W. W. Brewer.

Field Notes. BY C. E. HOLT.

I am now engaged in an interesting meeting at Stony Point, seven miles north of Florence, Ala., with two confessions to date. Of course we are expecting others to obey the gospel before the meeting closes. This is my second protracted meeting with the Stony Point Church this year, the first being held in August. In the first meeting there were a number of baptisms. The church at Stony Point is the first that was begun in this county, many years ago. It is, I am told, the oldest church of Christ in this county. This church has made substantial growth in the last three years. It has a good, active membership, and has a good Sunday school. I have baptized more than one hundred persons since the first of May, and I shall be glad to increase this number by many more before the present year is closed. But I have baptized more than that number in one meeting of two or three weeks' duration. I sincerely trust that every individual I have baptized this year shall continue faithful to the end of this life.

While it is a pleasure to read the reports of meetings held in which large numbers are brought into the fold, it is regrettable that in many of these reports many are reported as "restorations." This is a sad commentary on the work of some congregations. In one report in the Gospel Advocate, a short time ago, if my memory serves me correctly, there were forty-nine restored. Just think of this great number in one congregation being so neglected and so negligent as to require the services of an evangelist to get them once more "lined up" in the work of the Lord! One would naturally ask, how long will they stay "lined up?" Possibly some of that forty-nine have been "restored" a number of times. This shows that there is a widespread trouble among us that should be speedily corrected. The churches need much teaching along this line. One chief difficulty I find among the churches is that a few members do all the work, do all the praying and all the paying. The elders of the churches should do all within their power to put every member to work, even the boys and girls. They should see that every member attends the services on the first day of the week and that every one contributes something. One of the best things to get people truly interested in the work of the Lord is to get them enlisted in paying. It should not be called "giving," but "paying." They should be taught that they really owe a part of their substance to Him who redeemed them. This part of the work should be put on a higher plane than that of mere "begging." Elders themselves should be examples to the flock in this, as well as in all other matters. They should know every member of their flocks. They should know where each member resides and what each does for a living. If one needs help, that one should be helped. If elders are so situated that they cannot do these necessary things, then they should see that others do them, even if a preacher has to be called to do the work. Let us look after the practical things more, and less after the abstract and speculative theories of fickle-minded men who are ever learning and are never able to come to a knowledge of the truth.

Unimpeachable.—If you were to see the unequaled volume of unimpeachable testimony in favor of Hood's Sarsaparilla, you would upbraid yourself for so long delaying to take this effective medicine for that blood disease from which you are suffering.

Itching Stop

Skins with Tetterine

60c. at your druggist's or from SHUPTRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

Treat for the Skin

A Treat for the Skin

Freckles, tan, sunburn, pimples, eczema, all can be easily and delightfully vanished with the use of Palmer's Skin Success Ointment. Used for over 80 years. Rev. A. E. Ballard, D. D., President Ocean Grove Camp Meeting Association, Ocean Grove, N. J., writes: "Your Skin Success Ointment completely cured me of an irritative itching eczema and I cheerfully recommend it to all who may be similarly afflicted." It is not only delightfully antiseptic and cleansing, soothing and softening to the skin, but also immediately effective in bleaching the complexion and in vanishing blackheads, freckles and all skin eruptions. Ask your druggist or send for free sample to The Mergan Drug Co., 1521 Atlantic Ave., Prooklyn, N. Y.

is always ready to ease rheumatism

AT the very first twinge, down comes my bottle of Sloan's; then quick relief, without rubbing, for it's stimulating and scatters congestion. The boys use it for stiff muscles, and it helps Sally's backaches, too." 35c, 70c, $1.40.

EX-SOLDIER HAS A GOOD STOMACH

"If a man spends six years in the army, he surely would have to have a good stomach. I have a good one now, and Foley Cathartic Tablets made it that way. If any one does not believe this, let him write to Arthur L. Lyons, 454 Cincinnati Street, Dayton, Ohio." That is a sample of hundreds of letters received by Foley & Co. You can relieve biliousness, bloating, constipation, or other conditions arising from indigestion with Foley Cathartic Tablets.

COMOVE

Impurities from your body as you would dirt from your home.

Constipation is the cause of much disease.

Keep your system clean by using

Safe—Mild—Sure

Highly recommended for Torpid Liver, Biliousness, Constipation and Indigestion.

SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS

MILES MEDICAL CO., Elkhart, Ind.

CHURCH NEWS

Tennessee.

Memphis, October 10 .- At present we are having a class in homiletics on Monday evenings, conducted by Brother C. A. Norred, for the benefit of young men of the congregations of On Friday evenings we have the city. a class in presentation and delivery of sermons and public addresses, conducted by the young men. There are from ten to fifteen in this class, several of whom are already visiting among the congregations of the city, speaking and otherwise helping in the work. We hope to soon be able to visit congregations outside the city and contribute our efforts to the Master's cause in extending the borders of his kingdom. Most of the young men in this class want to preach and are making preparations for entering the field. One of the best and most promising is Brother Singeloney, an Italian, a member of the McKellar Avenue congregation. It is our plan to establish an Italian mission in this city at some future date. The Macedonian cry, "Come over and help us," is calling us to duty. We hope to soon be able to send laborers into the vineyard and help gather in sheaves for the harvest. Pray for success of the work in the Master's name.—E. V.

A Place for You.

We live our lives in very narrow channels. We have our little daily task, and we try to fulfill it. We have our little hopes and try to realize them. Though the world is large, one spot only is our home, and that is all the world to us; and when we think, we have our opinions-one-sided views of truth. We cannot grasp it all; we stand amazed in its presence. It is hard for us to understand greatness.

We do not wonder that our religion shares the littleness of our lives. We grasp an idea; we have a glimpse of a great truth. It is enough. We enjoy it. Jesus Christ is one thing to one man, and entirely different to an-

Our ideas of the future life-who really grasps the idea of heaven? What is heaven? If we attempt to answer the question, that answer partakes of our littleness, and we think of it as something that will give us joy or peace; that is all of heaven to us. The greatness of heaven we cannot grasp, and we are amazed when we think that the Savior has gone there to prepare a place-only a place; it may be a very small place-where the human race can partake of that blessed condition amid the many mansions of our Father's house.

"Eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither hath it entered into the heart of many to conceive the joys that God has in store for those that love him."

And still we go on our little way and have our little ideas, and cannot conceive of the greatness and the grandeur and the glory of what is in store for us. If we could only enlarge our vision and realize what that future life is, it would take such firm hold upon these lives of ours that we would allow nothing whatever to dim the vision or destroy its influence upon our daily lives, and every one of us would bend every energy every day to prepare and be fit to occupy that place which Jesus Christ is now preparing for us .- Exchange.

RECIPE FOR GRAY HAIR,

To % pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and % ounce of glycerine. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. It will gradually darken streaked, faded, or gray hair and make it soft and glossy. It will not color the scalp, is not sticky or grensy,

Sore Feet? Don't Worry. Here's a Remedy!

Hot foot bath. Dry feet carefully. Rub thoroughly with Eucapine Salve. Towel till dry. Then off to bed with a happy heart for your poor, sore feet will be better in the morning.

Antiseptic Analgesic Antiphlogistic

(Prevents Infection) (Relieves Pain) (Allays Inflammation)

is a great comfort in cases of inflamed condi-tions of the skin and of the membranes of the air passages. 50c per 2 oz, jar, at your drug-gist's or by prepaid parcel post from the manu-facturers. Full size jar free to physicians and quantitative formula supplied if desired.

Piedmont Laboratories, Inc., Clinton, S. C.

NOTICE!

We want to get in touch with all the brethren who are interested in Christian education and who want to locate where there is a good Christian college. For further information, write to

S. I. BRADLEY

Morrillton, Ark.

TO RELIEVE CATARRHAL DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES

If you have Catarrhal Deafness or head noises go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of parmint (double strength), and add to it ½ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 tablesponnful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy, and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has Catarrhal Deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial. For sale by all druggists or sent on receipt of price 90e by Chas. A. Smith Drug Co., Atlanta, Gs.

Volume LXII. No. 45.

NASHVILLE, TENN., NOVEMBER 4, 1920.

$2.50 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

NINETIETH ANNIVERSARY OF ELDER E. G. SEWELL

THE name of E. G. Sewell is a household word with most of our readers. He labored so long, so faithfully, and so acceptably, contributing every week to the columns of this journal, that it is wholly unnecessary for me to tell our readers anything about E. G. Sewell and his work. His life work is an open book and speaks for itself. On Monday, October 25, he passed the ninetieth milestone. It will be gratifying to our readers to know that while he is no longer active in the work of writing for and editing the Gospel Advocate, he is still just as faithful as ever in attendance upon the Lord's - day worship. Every Sunday morning finds him in his accustomed place, ready to remember Jesus and to worship God as directed by the Holy Spirit. He impresses us all as being ready and waiting for the Master to call him to his eternal home. He has labored faithfully for so many years in evangelizing and with his pen, and has been instrumental in leading so many thousands to the cross of Jesus Christ, that the work which he has done will not die in a day, but its influence will live on and on to light and guide men to the throne of God. On his ninetieth birthday the Russell Street church of Christ reminded him of its appreciation of the great work he has done for that church by sending him ninety dollars. Sixty-seven years ago he married Miss Lucy Kuykendall, who has been a faithful helper and colaborer with him in the great work that he has done. After Brother Sewell married, he attended school at Franklin College. He has labored abundantly in Nashville, having preached in tents and rented halls, and has been one of the leaders in building up the many congregations of Christians that are now in this city. Occasionally he comes to the office and spends a short time with us. His visits are always appreciated, and remind us of the long ago, when we worked so harmoniously and faithfully together to build up the cause of Christ in this community. It has been my pleasure to hold a number of meetings with Brother Sewell, to be associated with him in preaching regularly for the Tenth Street church of Christ, and I have always found him in every position in life modest, unassuming, and ready to do just what he believed God wanted him to do. His work will live long after he has passed away. The influence of so exemplary a life will be used by Jehovah in the years to come. God will use the inactive as well as the active Elisha. If it be the will of the Lord to spare him a number of years yet to brighten and cheer us on this side, we shall greatly rejoice.

E. G. SEWELL.

Edifying as the Need May Be

Mary, the Mother of Jesus.

Despite the wrong impression created by these legendary stories and false doctrines of men, Mary, the mother of our Lord, was an extraordinarily good woman in many respects, and one worthy of the reverence we would accord any faithful Christian mother. The meager information that we have about her outside of the account of the birth of Jesus in the New Testament is enough to establish the presence of exceptional virtues. God does not have to write a book about a person to prove his righteousness. He can do it in a single verse, "Enoch walked with God: and he was not; for God took him." (Gen. 5: 24.) That is the record of a good man's life. The writer of Acts (9: 36) tells us that "there was at Joppa a certain disciple named Tabitha, which by interpretation is called Dorcas: this woman was full of good works and almsdeeds which she did." Not very much said about Dorcas, is there? And yet chough was said to have her name come down to this age as the synonym of practical Christianity (there are hundreds of Dorcas societies). But Dorcas did not have to join a society to do good deeds. She was just a disciple of the Lord Jesus Christ. The same is true of a bad man's character. Oftentimes a single expression in the word of God reveals a world of iniquity. "Jeroboam," we are told, "did that which was evil in the sight of the Lord, and caused Israel to sin." How much of sin and crime and high-handed wickedness is couched in that memorable estimate! How careful we ought to live in this world, that our life may not be summed up by the judgment that came to Belshazzar of old! "Behold, thou art weighed, and found wanting." God does not need to write very much to have us understand the goodness or the badness of the men and women in his Book. What little is written about Mary reveals her intrinsic goodness.

Her character is best revealed, it seems to me, in the idyllic chapter of her life, that which records the great experience of her approaching motherhood. At the marriage feast we get a glimpse of Mary's domestic temperament and her hospitable manners. The incident that occurred in the midst of Jesus' active ministry and the incident in connection with the crucifixion reveal deep anxiety and affectionate yearning, but in Mary's prophecy we look into the very depths of her soul. Here the chief features of her real character appear.

0 0 0

Her Purity of Heart.

How delicately and how distinctly this characteristic is revealed! It does not express itself in any words about sin or loneliness. "In Mary's song there is neither confession nor consecration." How, then, does it exhibit purity of heart? Because the thought of God's overwhelming nearness was a joy. Only a pure heart rejoices when God is very near. His nearness fills the bad with fear, and even the good are filled with awe. Moses tremblingly removes his shoes; and Jeremiah says: "O Lord, I am but a little child." Undoubtedly Mary has been the favorite subject for the world's greatest artists. And it is this holy gladness that Fra Angelico and the rest of them have tried so hard to depict. But who can paint the depths of a woman's soul? Purity of heart-how little some of us know about it! And if you would know how little, ask yourself the question. How glad would I be to see Jesus if he should come to-day? Would we feel as glad as Mary felt at his approaching nearness? We would be glad if our hearts were as pure as hers?

Her Humility.

This discloses itself as unconsciously, but as surely, as the other. It expressed itself, not by self-depreciation, but by utter forgetfulness of self. To this humble woman an incomparably great thing was come, but she never thought of herself in connection with it for one moment, either as worthy or unworthy. Her soul was lifted quite away from herself and was full of thoughts of God. "My soul doth magnify the Lord." (Luke 1: 46.) Perfect humllity does not think about self at all. It simply looks up to God, is full of God, and praises God. And this was Mary's humility.

0 0 0

Her Unselfishness.

Mary was given to understand how great or how immortal was to be her honor and distinction. We are told that in those days it was the prayer of many a devout Jewish woman that she might become the mother of the Great Deliverer, and Mary was the chosen one of many thousands. Israel's hopes for a thousand years and longer were to be realized through her. The world would never forget her name. But how did she think of her immortality, and how did she express herself about it? She never thought of future ages calling her great, or sovereign, or beautiful, or perfect, or even saintly; but she said, "All nations shall call me blessed "-that is to say, through her and by this event which was happening to her an endless good was to come to others; and it was this thought of her blessedness that made her humble heart stir with overwhelming thankfulness. It is not possible that all generations will call any of us blessed, for our memory will be brief in the earth. But will any one-your children, your friends, or any poor and needy man or woman or orphan child-recall your name and bless you? Worldly ambition is a selfish thing, but how noble the thought to be a blessing while you live and to be blessed by many after you are gone!

0 0 0

Her Patience in Suffering.

We should not close our study of this character without reference to the Mater Dolorosa—the sorrowing mother. Among the figures that are found watching the cross there is none quite so pathetic as that of Mary, the mother of Jesus. For any mother to watch any son of hers die is torment enough; but what must it have meant to this mother, who pondered things in her heart and who still retained the sacred and ineffable memories clustering round his birth, to see that Son in the hands of wicked men, ending in shame and agony the life that was to have saved the world? There is only one other scene in the Bible that compares with it, and that is where Abraham prepares to sacrifice his first-born upon the altar. I know that it must have taken some of the same kind of faith for Mary to meet her ordeal.

There are two things that are preëminently characteristic of God. One of these is purity, the other is sacrifice. We should learn to share these as Mary did; the one, by letting God come very near to us in the person of his Son; the other, by being willing to give our dearest treasure to the cross, by which God shall be glorified and men shall be saved.

There are few things which bless and soothe the life of others more, or do them more good, than the giving of thanks. It makes men feel that they are some use in the world, and that is one of the finest impulses to a better life. It cheers many a wearied heart with pleasant hope and bids many a man who is sad in mood take courage,—Stopford A. Brooke.

Our Contributors

Noah—The Second Father of the Human Race.
BY H. LEO BOLES.

Noah occupies the unique position of being the second father of the human family. The flood had destroyed all life except that which was preserved, through the mercies of God, in the ark. The patriarch, Noah, stood at the head of the small family as it stepped forth from the ark into a new world. Noah now occupies a position similar in many points to that of Adam.

The flood had separated Noah from the antediluvian world, and, by means of the ark, he had been translated into the postdiluvian world. The old world with all of its wickedness and corruption had been destroyed; all forms of government had been rebuked and nullified; all civilization and progress in sin had been checked and obliterated; all castes of society and rank of human honor and glory had been wiped out. Noah's reputation had perished with the generations of man during the flood; his fame as a preacher of righteousness had been blotted from the face of the earth, and only such things as God would record of him are to be preserved. It seems that Jehovah had wiped out man as a boy wipes his slate clean. Noah is ushered into another world.

Noah was a little more than six hundred years old now. When he stepped forth from the ark, he stood as the first and only citizen of the new world. There were six generations destroyed by the flood, and Noah and his family are selected from the six generations, from all of the teeming millions of earth, to become the first citizens of the new world. The new world is the old world which has been cleansed, purified, washed, and baptized; it has been separated from the wicked pollution that belonged to the old world. All the wicked environments have been destroyed and the new environments of a baptized earth are to be his companions. Enoch was saved by being translated from the world into glory; Noah and his family are saved by the world's being translated from the wicked age.

There seems to be a type of our salvation to-day in the salvation of Noah. Peter, referring to Noah's salvation in the ark, says: "That aforetime were disobedient, when the long-suffering of God waited in the days of Noah, while the ark was a preparing, wherein few, that is, eight souls, were saved through water: which also after a true likeness doth now save you, even baptism." (1 Pet. 3: 20, 21.) This seems to carry the idea that his salvation from the destruction of the old world into the new world was a type of our redemption to-day in Christ Jesus. Old things with him have passed away and, behold, all things have become new. Noah's voyage from the antediluvian to the postdiluvian was directed by Jehovah as any one to-day who is translated from darkness into the kingdom of God's dear Son must be guided by the Spirit of God. Noah began his voyage with God and ended it in adoration and worship to

Noah begins life in this new world with a sacrifice. When he stepped forth into this new world, having been preserved by the mercies of God and blessed by his goodness, his heart was full of gratitude unto Jehovah. "And Noah builded an altar unto Jehovah; and took of every clean beast, and of every clean bird, and offered burnt offerings on the altar." (Gen. 8: 20.) The old world began with sin and ended in destruction; the new world begins with a sacrifice and will end with the coming of the Lord Jesus Christ to gather up the faithful worshipers of God. The first building erected in the new world was an altar unto Jehovah. Before Noah made any provisions for a tent or dwelling place for himself and family, before he made any arrangements for earthly conveniences, he built an altar unto Jehovah. Some one has suggested that if you look at that first building in the new world you will see it expand until it becomes a sanctuary wide as the earth, and all men are gathered in leving piety within its ample walls. As the smoke curled upward to the approving sky from that first altar, the primeval blessing of Jehovah was pronounced. "And God blessed Noah and his sons, and said unto them, Be fruitful, and multiply, and replenish the earth." (Gen. 9: 1.) The seasons were confirmed in their revolutions, and all things seemed to begin again in unclouded hope, with Noah as the second father of the human family. God honors him by turning over to him a regenerated, washed, baptized, and sanctified world, and he, like Adam, becomes responsible as the head and father of the human race; he should keep it and perpetuate its regenerated state in purity and holiness. As the head of the human race, he is responsible for the direction of affairs now upon the earth.

In after years, as Noah looked back to Mount Ararat upon the past, he could rejoice in the fact that the flood swept away the pollution of the old world and buried it in the deep waters of the deluge; he could also rejoice that not one of the spiritual blessings from Jehovah had been destroyed, neither anything that was really good had been lost. Noah's God, his altar, his religion, and his worship had been preserved, and he now had unmolested access and privilege of worshiping Jehovah; his faith had been strengthened, his love deepened, his hope brightened, and his life made better. So we, amidst wars and revolutions, and the breaking up of kingdoms, the crumbling of thrones, the casting away of crowns, and the change of presidents, should not be affected in our devotion to God and worship at his altar. Famine and plagues and the ceaseless change of political affairs should not attract our attention from the altar of God nor hinder our service to him.

Adequate Pay for Teachers.

BY P. P. CLAXTON.

Read before the National Education Association, (Abridged.)

Teachers worthy of places in the schools in which American children are prepared for life, for making a living, for the duties and responsibilities of democratic citizenship, and for eternal destiny, can never be fully paid in money. Men and women worthy of this highest of all callings will not think first of pay in money or in any other form. For teachers, as for all other workers, Ruskin's saying holds: "If they think first of pay and only second of work, they are servants of him who is the lord of pay, the most unerect fiend that fell. If they think first of the work and its results and only second of their pay, however important that may be, then they are servants of Him who is the Lord of work. Then they belong to the great guild of workers and builders and saviors of the world together with Him for whom to do the will of Him that sent Him and finish His work was both meat and drink."

WORKERS PAID LARGELY IN KIND.

It has ever been, and probably must always be, that workers of whatever sort received the largest part of their pay in kind, as millers take toll of the grist they grind. Those that work with material things that have easily measured cash values receive their pay chiefly in money or in things whose values are most easily measured in money. Other rewards will be less in proportion and in importance. Those who work largely for other than the material results that can be measured by money must continue to be content to receive a large part of their pay in the consciousness of work well done for a worthy cause, and in participation, by faith at least, in the results, both near and far away in time and in space.

THE TEACHERS' SPIRITUAL REWARDS.

Teachers who do their work well and who, either in fact or by faith, see the world made better as a result—individuals made healthier, wiser, happier; sin and suffering made less; the commonwealth made more; social purity and civic righteousness increased; public laws made more just; patriotism broadened and purified; state and nation made stronger and safer against attack from without and decay from within; and the world lifted on to a higher plane and into a brighter sunshine and a purer atmosphere—are possessed of wealth unseen and for most unseeable.

All true teachers will think on these things, and many of the best will be attracted to and held in the profession by them. It will be all the worse for the profession and the world when it is not so.

But this should not be made an excuse for putting public or private education on a charity basis, nor for paying teachers the miserably low wages they are now paid. It should not be made an excuse for paying such wages as will not permit school boards and superintendents to fix reasonable minimum standards of qualifications for teachers because young men and women who expect to teach cannot afford to incur the expenses necessary to prepare themselves to meet the requirements of such standards. It should not be made an excuse for failing to increase the pay of teachers, as the pay in other professions is increased, in recognition of proved merit and in proportion to increasing ability gained through experience, continued study, and constant devotion to duty.

IMPROVED SALARIES BENEFIT THE SCHOOLS AND THE NATION.

Not for the sake of the teachers primarily, but that the schools may be made fully efficient; that children may be well taught; that the material wealth of state and nation may be increased so that we may have the means of paying our debts, building our highways, caring for our unfortunates, and meeting other public expenses, and at the same time have enough for all the people to live in comfort: that our democracy may be preserved, purified, and made more effective: that scientific discovery, useful invention, and artistic expression may be promoted; and that we may act well our part in the commonwealth of the world, we must pay such salaries as will bring into the schools as teachers men and women of the best native ability-men and women strong and well organized physically, mentally, and spiritually; men and women of the finest culture and the most thorough and comprehensive education, academic and professional-and so adjust their salaries as to enable them to hold all those who show themselves most capable and best fitted for the work. In this most important of all our enterprises we cannot afford to pay less.

MANY ABLE MEN HAVE TAUGHT.

Our traditional policy of paying to young and inexperienced men and women, with little or no question as to their professional preparation, salaries almost as large as we pay to those who have had many years of successful experience had at least one merit. It brought into the schools large numbers of young men and women of unusual native ability and of strong character, and sometimes such men and women having also good scholarship and fine culture, willing and eager to do the best they could while saving from their comparatively good wages money to start them in business or home making or to enable them to prepare themselves for those professions for which adequate preparation is required and demanded. Many of the ablest men and women in all walks of life have been school-teachers. A good-sized ex-teachers' association could be formed of members of any recent Congress of the United States. We have just nominated two exteachers as candidates for the Presidency. Unfortunately, however, most of these have remained as teachers in the schools only till they had begun to gain some little comprehension of their task and some little skill in executing it. But, despite their lack of preparation and experience, it was good for boys and girls to come in contact with them. From this contact many gained inspiration and purpose.

OTHER OCCUPATIONS PAY BETTER.

The time has now come when men and women of unusual native ability and strength of character can make more money in any of hundreds of occupations than they can in teaching. A few of them will teach while waiting to find themselves, or to make money for a start in business, or for paying for preparation for other work. They will accept employment which is at the same time more attractive and more remunerative. From now on schools will be taught (1) by unprepared and inexperienced young men and women of mediocre ability and less, while waiting for the maturity which is required for employment in the minor and more common occupations; (2) by the leftovers of such men and women who have failed to find more attractive and remunerative employment elsewhere, but have not wholly failed as teachers; or (3) by men and women of better native ability, stronger character, more thorough education, and the professional preparation which will enable them to succeed to such an extent that they may be induced by the payment of adequate wages to continue to serve their country in a high and valuable way as teachers.

This is the real crisis in education.

We have come to the parting of the ways. Which shall we accept? Makeshift teachers of the first two classes we may continue to get in sufficient numbers by paying salaries relatively as large as those paid in 1914. To have the same relative value and purchasing power as salaries paid in 1913-14, the present salaries and salaries for some years to come must be approximately twice as large as they were then.

WE MUST HAVE STRONG TEACHERS.

For teachers of the third class-and we should be satisfied with no other-we must pay salaries larger relatively than we have paid at any time in the past, and must adopt a policy which will give such recognition to teachers of unusual ability as will hold them in the service of the schools against the temptation of better pay elsewhere. Temporary increase in pay of teachers will not be sufficient. There must be such guaranty of good wages in the years to come as will induce young men and women of such native ability and character as good teachers can be made of to accept teaching as a profession and take the time and spend the money necessary to prepare themselves for it. The demand for professional preparation and continued service, coupled with inadequate pay, can only result in supplying the schools with teachers of small caliber, unfit to become the inspirers and guides and educators of those who are to make up the citizenry of the great democratic republic, solve the problems and do the work of the new era. Such teachers are not fit seed corn for the new harvest to which we should and do look forward.

For such teachers as we would have in our schools, what may be considered adequate pay? The answer is very easy and short. Such pay as may be necessary to get and keep them. In a conference of leaders of national civic and patriotic societies which met recently at my request in Washington it was agreed that, to be considered adequate, the wages of teachers should be as much as men and women of equal native ability, education, special preparation, and experience receive for other work requiring as much time, energy, and devotion, and involving approximately as much responsibility.

Just how much this will mean in dollars and cents in any community, I do not know. To determine the amount in any State, city, or country district will require a careful and comprehensive study. But it can quite easily be arrived at approximately, at least, for the country at large.

AVERAGE SALARY SHOULD BE TWO THOUSAND DOLLARS.

The average wealth production of the adult worker of the United States is not far from $1,250 a year-probably somewhat more. The average for men and women of ability, preparation, and industry of such teachers as we are talking about cannot be less than $2,000; it is probably nearer three or four or five thousand dollars. But in view of the fact that teaching is by its very nature an altruistic calling, and also because it may reasonably be supposed that the purchasing power of the dollar will increase considerably within the next few years and the cost of living as measured in dollars relatively decrease, let us agree on $2,000 as an average salary for teachers in the elementary and secondary schools of the United States. This is three times as much as the average for the year 1917-18 and more than one hundred and fifty per cent above the average for the year 1919-20.

If the pay to beginners is so fixed that the average for all teachers in the first year in urban and rural elementary schools and high schools is $1,200, this will allow other salaries of $2,500, $3,000, $3,500, and $4,000. Salaries of $5,000 or more may be held out as rare prizes for those who have gained experience and have proven their worth and who are willing and able to pay the price of such great and fine service as is recognized by unusual rewards in other professions.

THE MONEY CAN BE RAISED.

Can we pay such salaries? With such proper and useful economies as may be easily brought about, including consolidation of small rural schools and the adoption of a well-arranged work-study-play plan in the city schools, the total number of teachers in the public elementary and secondary schools of the United States need not exceed seven hundred and fifty thousand within the next five or ten years. At an average wage of $2,000, it will take a billion and a half dollars to pay seven hundred and fifty thousand teachers. Increase this by fifty per cent (a liberal amount) to pay for administration, supervision, buildings, equipment, and supplies, and we have a total of two and a quarter billions-a quarter of a billion short of Spaulding's two and a half billions, and only $140,000,000 more than the amount the Department of Labor reports that we paid last year for tobacco in its various forms. Our part in the World War, in which we fought for freedom and democracy, cost us not less than fifty billions of dollars, all told. At five per cent, the annual interest on this amount is two and a half billion dollars. Without education, there can be neither freedom nor democracy. Unless we educate all the people in such way as to enable them to possess these in fullest measure, we shall have spent our money for naught, and the men who sleep in France and Belgium shall have died in vain.

Can we pay the debt and pay in like proportion for education? The answer is, we cannot well do the one without the other. Our power to produce and to pay will and must depend on the health, knowledge, skill, purpose, and will of the people—that is, on their education.

How much can we afford to pay for education? Since education is a factor which cannot be eliminated from the wealth-producing power of the people, and since all wealth depends on education, we can, as a people, afford to increase our appropriation for education until the increase in cost becomes greater than the increase in the productive power which comes through education. No people have ever yet found the limit.

Will the people pay? The wealth is theirs, the children are theirs, the schools are their agents, owned and supported by them for the education of their children and for the attainment of all that this means and can be made to mean for their own happiness, for the individual welfare of their children, for the production of material wealth for the individual and common good, for the public welfare, for civic righteousness and social purity, for strength and safety of state and nation, and for all that patriotism means and all that supports life and makes life worth living. I have faith to believe that when the people are made to understand this they will respond. They have never failed. They will not fail now.

Where Will the End Be?

BY L. D. PERKINS.

In looking over the announcements of the churches in Fresno, Cal., I find the following announcement of the First Christian Church for October 17, where Harvey O. Breeden is the preacher:

Morning worship—Prelude, "Moderate Assai" (Gounod);
"Old Hundred" (standing); invocation; hymn 708; Scripture reading; anthem, "Te Deum" (Dudley Buck); prayer and repose; communion hymn 525; offertory"
"Oriental Picture" (Schumann); duet, "I waited for the Lord" (Mendelssohn), Mesdames M C. Francisco and Emma Mesow Fitch; address, Brandon Booth; hymn 508; postlude, "Marching in His Name" (Gabriel). Evening service—Organ prelude, "Domine Deus" (Rossinl); long service of old hymns; prayer; anthem, "In Heavenly Love Abiding (Lehrro); offertory, "Larghetto" (Lehrmann); Scripture reading; solo (selected), Mr. Gus Olsen; address; hymn; postlude, "Postlude" (Gude).

How would this announcement have looked in the days of Brother A. Campbell, when he was going from place to place and contending for the slogan, "Where the Bible speaks we speak, and where the Bible is silent we are silent," and in the light of a correct division of the word of truth? When Brother Breeden first came to California, he held a meeting at Rialto and used a stereopticon machine, and in showing the baptism of Christ, the picture represented John pouring water on his head from a shell or pitcher. He threw the picture on the canvas and let It go without comment. Brother Martin, who was then preaching for the Christian Church at Rialto as the located minister, wrote me a letter stating that he would not have done such a thing as Brother Breeden did for his right All the churches of Rialto had united in a union meeting, and that was the compromise Brother Breeden made of the truth. As we see this drifting, let us stand for the old paths and cling to the truth.

Gentleness.

Lord, make me humble as a little child, With childlike trust in thee; And keep me calm amid the tempest wild, From care and worry free.

The greatest gift that Thou hast to bestow Be kind and give to me, That like some precious jewel it may glow, And thus thy witness be.

The greatest gift of all is gentleness— Love's fairest flower on earth; Give it to me that I may learn to bless With gifts of matchless worth.

For gentleness shall keep my spirit free,
That thine own light may pass
From me to those beyond, until they see Thy face as in a glass. —Frederick W. Neve.

LOS ANGELES NOTES

By S. H. HALL, 2669 North Sichel Street.

House of worship, corner Altura and North Sichel Streets. Take North Broad Street car to Sichel, then one block to left.

Sad, Sweet Memories.

Life has its sweetness, and with it must go more or less sadness. This medley of our feelings and experiences I have thought of no little all along life's way, but it was reimpressed upon my heart a few evenings ago at one of our prayer-meeting services

Brother W. F. Andrews is one of our oldest elders-not so much in years, but in his experience with this congregation, having been with it from the first; and he is one of the best elders I have ever seen-wide-awake and watchful as an overseer. He knows there are "welves in sheep's clothing," and that a congregation is continually in danger of some of them working their way in. I think this State has been as much imposed on by such as any other State that I have been in, probably more. People come here from everywhere, and along with their coming men and women who are Christians and have been brought up with certain ideas of work and worship are to be found. When they get together here, their ideas do not exactly agree. We cannot call such as I am now writing about "wolves" in any sense, but it takes a level-headed eldership to oversee and direct the work with such a membership. You can hardly suggest anything, so far as the how to go about doing things purely of human judgment is concerned, that the way you suggest is not different from what some of them have been accustomed to; hence, they are liable to hesitate and not take hold. It takes an eldership with patience, foresight, and quite a bit of religion to stay on the job in such cases. Brother Andrews, A. C. Brown, A. A. Godfrey, W. E. Bernard, N. H. McIntosh, and G. W. Riggs constitute the present eldership. They are great men. Their lives are above reproach, and they love the cause of our Lord and Savior. I would judge that Andrews and Riggs are looked upon more as leaders in the eldership, and they cannot be excelled. I have thought numbers of times already, what would have become of this work had it not been for such men? All kinds of preachers come to this State-good, better, and best (you know T. B. Larimore lives in this State). Then preachers come who are not so good. They have had a few of "the church wreckers." I do not know a better word to apply to some, as they wreck churches when you will let them, but seldom build any. Such men would have a hard time working into a congregation with our present eldership. It is needless for me to say they have tried to get in. These dangers by which the church has been surrounded have greatly hindered the church, so far as aggressive work is concerned: for they have been kept busy continually guarding and holding what they have, and a bit fearful of pushing out lest something hurtful would push its way in.

But I am a long time getting to my subject. A few evenings ago, at one of our prayer-meeting services. Brother Andrews called for "Tarry with Me, O My Savior," as one of the songs to be used. But when they got well into

"Many friends were gathered round me In the bright days of the past; But the grave has closed above them, And I linger here the last," his voice failed him, due to emotion, and he ceased singlng. I knew his thoughts and memories without his telling me; and they are sad, sweet memories. They are sweet because of the greatness and goodness of the characters with whom we have formerly labored, above whose bodies the grave has closed. It would be hard for the pioneers of this congregation to sing such words without a vivid picture of Michael Saunders coming into their minds-a man who left an imperishable monument erected here to his memory. Then it brings sadness, after laboring with and loving such men, to be separated from them for a season. How often have I thought of Brother and Sister McCravy, who did so much to get the work started in Atlanta, and how hungry I have been at times just to see these dear souls, put my arms around them, and hug and kiss them both! And at times I have wondered if some of the Atlanta members remember them with that love and tenderness that they should have for them. O, would not this life be a most miserable tragedy were it not for heaven's reality? The sadness takes wings and flies away when we think of some day meeting every one with whom we have labored and sacrificed in this life. Let us remember the words of our Lord, who said: "Let your loins be girded about, and your lamps burning; and be ye yourselves like unto men looking for their lord, when he shall return from the marriage feast; that, when he cometh and knocketh, they may straightway open unto him. Blessed are those servants, whom the lord when he cometh shall find watching: verily I say unto you, that he shall gird himself, and make them sit down to meat, and shall come and serve them." (Luke 12: 35-37.) Can you imagine what it means to be there? Such a hope lifts up and gives the joy that is "unspeakable."

O O O News Items.

Brother and Sister E. R. McInnes cast their lot with us last Lord's day. They have bought them a home at 1512 East Jefferson Street, and we can count on them as among our most faithful and active workers. They showed their faith by hunting us up.

The Thompson sisters (Mildred and Kathleen), from the Belmont congregation, Nashville, Tenn., are here. They, too, are Christians that count. Mildred was in our home yesterday (October 20), and she and Mrs. Hall had a most enjoyable time together. Let me say to one and all who claim to be Christians, if you want to live in the finest country in the world, come this way. And, too, we have lots that we want you to do, in the way of church work, after you get here.

"Evangelistic Assumption." BY E. M. BORDEN.

That the reader may understand what we mean by "evangelistic assumption," I will give the following from Brother Daniel Sommer, who is the founder of the theory:

"Evangelists are executive officers within the bounds of their jurisdiction." "Besides, evangelists are the only divinely authorized disciplinarians of elders when charges or accusations are brought against them."

At the bottom of a great deal of the church troubles in the western part of the United States lies this doctrine. Will Brother Sommer or some other man show me the "bounds of the jurisdiction" of an evangelist? No answer. The Bible knows nothing about the doctrine, so it does not give the "bounds of their jurisdiction;" so we must go to the father of the theory. Will he give us the "bounds of their jurisdiction?"

When Brother Edwards was excluded from the fellowship of the congregation at Glendale, Brethren Harper and Reedy acted as "evangelists in authority." Brother Harper lived in Colorado and Brother Reedy lived at Long Beach, Cal. How far does Brother Harper's "jurisdiction" extend?

It seemed that Harper and Reedy were getting somewhat skeptical as to the extent of their jurisdiction, as they would not act in the case unless the brethren would sign a petition agreeing to leave the settlement of the trouble to them. If it was necessary for them to have the brethren sign a petition before they could act, why do they not follow that example at other places? When Reedy and Edwards came to Riverside, they did not ask the members to sign a petition agreeing to leave the settlement of the trouble entirely with them. The reason is clear. Only a few would have signed it. Just think of it! The Review faction in the congregation was causing trouble, for its members wanted to make their belief concerning colleges and "evangelistic authority" a test of fellowship. When they could not force Review preachers on the congregation all the time, they undertook to get rid of the elders, who were not Review men. The two evangelists who came to do the job of "deposing the elders," who were not Review elders, were both Review men and partial to the Review faction. Yet they were called to settle the trouble. Instead of making the congregation a Review congregation, they divided the congregation. When Brethren Edwards, Reedy, and the few who followed them undertook to use the church house as though it belonged to them, they found the doors locked. So they went to another house just a block away. They have a small congregation, and it is strictly a Review congregation. The original congregation is doing well. Not many additions, but a gradual growth in spirituality and in numbers.

Brother S. O. Pool has fallen a victim to "evangelistic assumption." The elders at Wenatchee, Wash., could not handle the affairs of the church; so Reedy, Roady, and others were called to try to exclude Brother Pool. Brother Pool is well known among the brethren as one of the brightest lights in the kingdom in these days. But Brethren Reedy, Roady, and others failed to exclude him. He appealed to a higher court (Brother Daniel Sommer) and was released from the clutches of the "evangelists in authority."

A brother who has fallen a victim of "evangelistic assumption" in recent years says: "However, the preachers mentioned above have never corrected their ways, and perhaps never will. I know of no way to stop such men but to let them go on until they are destroyed by their own folly."

One of the saddest things of it all is that the work of Reedy, Harper, and others in dividing congregations over the college question and evangelistic authority has the approval of Brother Daniel Sommer and his son, D. Austen, who stand at the helm of the Review craft.

As a rule, the offended ones show a Christian spirit. They are not seeking for revenge, but are willing for the Lord to "reward them according to their works." One brother said: "There is a sad feature to it also when you realize that old Brother Sommer is now in his seventies. His last days should be his best and happiest, but doubtless they will be sad and depressing."

Brother Edwards, who has recently felt the sting of "evangelistic assumption," wrote to me concerning his trouble at Glendale, Arizona: "May God help us all to manifest the spirit of our Master; for if we do not, we are none of his. I pray that Harper and Reedy will see the error of their way and repent ere it is too late."

Another very noticeable thing is that in the most of instances they refuse to "Brother" a member who is not an "A. R." in belief. I have met Brethren Reedy, Chaffee, and Rucker, and have noticed particularly to see if they would recognize me as a brother. I would address them as "Brother," and they would address me as "Mister." 1 have tried to be friendly with them, but they do not seem to want to be brotherly or friendly with me. Brother Reedy has possibly done a great deal of good, and I am only sorry that he has to some extent destroyed his influence for good by his radicalism. I have also attended the services of Brethren Reedy and Chaffee, but I was ignored, as much so as, or possibly more so than, if I had been a rank stranger. I am sorry they are so radical. I am glad, however, that the great brotherhood of Christ is not confined to the limits of the distinctive doctrines of the Apostolic Review.

Georgia and the Far Southern Field By B. C. GOODPASTURE

The Outlook.

"While Paul waited for them at Athens, his spirit was provoked within him as he beheld the city full of idols." (Acts 17: 16.) This was a city far-famed for her learning. Her philosophers had been the wisest the world had ever furnished. Athens had fostered the arts of war, literature, and architecture. She had kindled the torch of a high civilization and held it aloft to light the pathway of the admiring peoples about her; but she was "full of idols." She lacked one thing, and that was the gospel of Christ. that time it was easier to find an idol than a man in Athens. Just so with us. This great Southland is wonderful. Her commercial enterprises, cotton fields, vine-clad rocks, and pleasant groves are unrivaled, with but few exceptions; but she is full of sectarianism, infidelity, and indifference. From the northern border of this State to the shores of the Gulf, from the Atlantic to the "Father of Waters," is one great mission field. The language of the apostle to the Gentiles is expressive at this point: "A great door and effectual is opened unto me, and there are many adversaries." (1 Cor. 16: 9.) If any one has, like Paul, a desire "to preach the gospel, not where Christ was already named " (Rom. 15: 20), let him come South.

0 0 0

Good News From Macon."

Brother R. P. Cuff, who labors with the church of Christ in Macon, writes concerning his work, and among other things says: "My work here at Macon is quite interesting. I am being kept busy, attending Mercer University and looking to church work combined. I find the church here active and cooperative. Last Sunday the audiences were decidedly the largest of any since I have been here. Tonight the prayer-meeting crowd pleased me very muchthe largest yet. Attention is being given to all departments of the work. A reorganization of Bible-study classes has been effected. I am praying for a prosperous work in Macon—that the true teachings of Christ may go to homes where he has never yet been really welcomed, and that those who have named the name of Christ may shine yet more brightly for him." It will be remembered that Brother Cuff has been in Macon only a few weeks. This is a fine report. Let the good work grow.

0 0 0

The Prospects in Savannah.

I have just returned from a visit to Savannah. The brethren called me to meet a Seventh-Day Adventist in discussion, but he refused to defend his teachings as he had so defiantly said he would. It was announced that I would review his sermons on the Sabbath question on Thursday and Friday nights. Large audiences attended both services. These services were held in Knight's Hall. brethren have no other place of worship. They are doing all they can to build up the church and secure a meetinghouse, but they will need help, and must have it. Think of a city with a population of one hundred thousand in which there is only one small congregation, which has no church house! If they can raise sufficient funds at once, they can buy at a reasonable price from the Christian Scientists a well-located, commodious building. This is an opportunity that we cannot let slip. A house would contribute much to the upbuilding and permanency of the work. The gospel of Christ must be planted in this great "Southern key to land and sea." The field is "white already unto harvest." The prospects are inviting. Brethren, this is truly a "Macedonian call." Send at once a liberal contribution to J. B. Beck, P. O. Box 1530, or to O. W. Rawlings, 109 East President Street, Savannah, Ga.

The Gift.

With hands outstretched unto the God of Might, I asked that power should be given me To change the wrong in this old world to right, And put an end to all its misery.

Again I asked the God of Melody
To grant the gift of music to be mine,
That I might heal the world's long agony
By flooding it with harmonies divine.

Kneeling, I prayed unto the God of Life
To give me power to heal the world of pain;
To put an end to pestilence and strife
And make of earth an Eden once again.

Vainly I called on Heaven to let me do
What God in his omniscience left undone,
Till one day in my heart the question grew:
"What if the need of pain is not yet run?"

"What gift, O Lord, shall I then ask of Thee With which I best may help the multitude, Whereby Thy kindom come more speedily, And all the hosts of Satan be subdued?"

Humbly I waited at God's altar dim,
To hear what gift it was I most did need;
And lo! the answer came to me from Him;
"Faith that is even as the mustard seed."
—Helen Compton, in Exchange.

A Frank Admission.

BY E. M. BORDEN.

Brother R. G. Edwards, who until recently has been connected with the Review workers in California and other places, has this to say concerning their work:

"But I want you and the brethren there [Riverside, Cal.] to understand that I have great regard for them and can sympathize more with them since the curtain has been lifted from my eyes, and I have seen and know the desires of every Review preacher that has pledged himself to that paper, to make every congregation a Review congregation and regard every one as disloyal that does not indorse the Review."

Brother Edwards has a right to know the feelings of the Review men, having been with them for a number of years and considered one of their foremost men. Brother Edwards was excluded from the Glendale congregation by Brethren Harper and Reedy, who claimed to be acting by the authority of the church. Brother Edwards claims that the withdrawal was unjust. I hope to be able to give some light on this subject before very long.

Last Call, 1920.

BY JOHN D. EVANS.

In the early part of this year we made an appeal for funds to pay the debt on our new church home in Denver. A number responded promptly, and others promised to do so later. It is our carnest desire to pay every dollar by January 1, 1921. We will then have a house, which would cost about fifteen thousand dollars to-day, without any incumbrance. May we not hear from all the congregations and brethren individually who want to share with us the joy of having a home free of debt within the next thirty days? As soon as this obligation is taken care of, it is our desire and intention to help in a larger way the work of evangelizing Colorado.

The attention of the Gospel Advocate readers was called recently to the work of Brethren E. C. Fuqua and E. E. Shoulders. This is indeed an important work, and good results are already seen. These brethren are on the ground and know the field. Let us keep them busy. If we lose this opportunity, it will be a great discouragement to those of us who are in the field and know what its needs are. We shall have to take hold now or give it up. Hope too long deferred makes the heart sick. The hearty cooper tion upon the part of just a few churches now will help to develop the field to a point that it may be self-suppor ing. Spasmodic efforts will accomplish little. It take regular, systematic effort, with some one continually of the ground. One year lost now would be disastrous. You good intentions for the future will not avail now. This the psychological moment. What arrangements we male for the coming year must be made now. Will you no comply with Brother McQuiddy's request and communical with us at once? I am not asking you to take all the r sponsibility upon yourselves. I propose to be partner with you as far as able, both financially and otherwis-I shall advise with the workers in the field regularly an cooperate fully with them. Whatever funds are intruste to my care will be used to preach the gospel wherever a open door presents itself. Reports will be made from tim to time as to progress in the field.

I was present at the morning and evening services a Colorado Springs last Lord's day. The crowds were good and also the interest. The Y. M. C. A. auditorium is bein used. Fuqua and Shoulders will continue there all this week. They are excellent coworkers. Brethren, will yo help us possess this important field, and do it now? Address me at 12 Broadway, Denver, Col.

An Appeal From Louisville, Ky.

BY JOHN L. RAINEY.

The readers of the Gospel Advocate will no doubt remen ber the appeal made by the King's Hall brethren, of Louis ville, early in the spring of this year, for funds to help them to build a house of worship. Of that appeal Brothe A. B. Lipscomb said in part: "The appeal from the breth ren who worship in King's Hall, at Louisville, Ky., printe in this issue [February 26, 1920] deserves careful and sym pathetic consideration. . . . Inspired by Brethren Jor genson and Janes, the Highland Church has withdraw fellowship from Brethren Rubel and Taylor for no other reason than that they have stood courteously, but con sistently, for the teaching of the word of God as agains the exaltation of human opinions. . . . It is encourage ing to know that despite ill treatment the little band wor shiping at King's Hall intends to go forward with th Lord's work and to succeed in the face of every advers condition. It is significant that before making any public appeal they raised quite a tidy sum through personal sacri fice. I feel duty bound to write these words of encourage ment in behalf of these brethren. They deserve the heart and unstinted support of every reader who believes in standing up for the right at any cost." They have a nice lot bought and paid for that cost nineteen hundred dollars They also have about one thousand dollars on hand, and they hope through the generosity of the churches to ge sufficient funds to begin work on the church at an early date. Having been connected with this little band since May, 1920, I am in a position to know that the appeal is : worthy one.

"Cast thy bread upon the waters: for thou shalt find i after many days." (Eccles, 11: 1.) Let us put forth an effort to help these faithful brethren to build a house o worship. Every gift will be gratefully received. Send remittances to W. T. Kannard, 2222 Slaughter Avenue, Louis ville, Ky.

The deepest rest and the highest activity coincide. They do so in God, who worketh hitherto in undisturbed tranquillity; they may do so in us. The wheel that gos round in swiftest rotation seems to be standing still. Work a its intensest, which is pleasurable work, and level to the capacity of the doer, is the truest form of rest.—A. Maclaren.

Conducted for a half century by D. Lipscomb and E. G. Sewell.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

2.50 a year, in advance; to Canada and foreign countries, $3,00, in

2.50 a year, in advance; to Canada and foreign countries, $3,90, in vance.

Remittances will be at our risk when sent by express or post-office oney order, in registered letter, or by draft payable to our order. The date on your tab shows the time to which your subscription paid. When money is received, the date will be changed, which il answer for a receipt. Two weeks' time must ordinarily occur in the time your remittance is sent before the tab on your paper changed; if not changed by that time, notify us at once. This paper is mailed regularly to all subscribers until definite oras in writing are received and all arrearages paid in full. If you show the paper, write us to that affect; but do not ask it these you have paid all arrears, if there are any. Do not ask your timester to attend to it for you, but do it yourself. When changing your post-office address, tell us your old as well your new address; otherwise two papers might be charged to you subscribers, after paying for their papers, will favor us by noting either the date on the address label is changed, and, if it is not anged within a month, by writing to us. We are careful, but misces may occur or letters may be lost. Our rule is to change the tee on the day payment is received; but the mechanical work of recting and printing the list takes time, and payments even from ar-by places may not appear the first week. Credits for payments are being the first week. Credits for payments may distance may be even more delayed. Mistakes are easily iffied if prompt notice is given.

All communications should be addressed to Gospel Advocate, $17-) Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

Guarantee of Advertising.

All the advertisements in this paper are, we believe, signed by istworthy persons. To prove our faith by works, we will make od to actual subscribers any loss sustained in trusting advertisers to prove to be deliberate swindlers. We shall not attempt to add trifling disputes between subscribers and honorable business in who advertise, nor pay the debts of honest bankrupts. To take this guarantee effective, in all cases say in writing advertise,, "I saw your advertisement in the Gospel Advocate;" and if ything goes wrong, notify us immediately in writing.

JACOBS & CO., ADVERTISING MANAGERS. Clinton, E. C.

itered at post office at Nashville, Tenn., as second-class matter.
Published weekly at Nashville, Tenn.

Should Women Enter Politics and Hold Office'? BY J. C. M'Q.

Feminism is the twin sister of socialism. Socialism arts out by seeking to destroy the family. This is done leading fathers and husbands to not meet the obligation at God has placed upon them to support their children til they are at least twenty-one years of age. Socialism ould have the children turned over to the community or e State. Feminism likewise seeks to destroy the family making the State responsible for childhood. It would ot make the support of the child dependent upon any one an, but upon the State. It seeks to destroy the home taking the mother and wife out of the home and leaving e child dependent upon others for protection and suport. We know woman cannot do her duty in the home id be a political campaigner and hold office at the same me. It is self-evident that in leaving the home, the Goddained sphere for woman, she is giving up far more an she is gaining. All the influence and all the power at she may gain in the political world will never comensate for the loss of the uplifting influence and the guiding hand of woman in the home. Every man who has attained to any distinction in life, who has acomplished anything that is worth while, is due his success to his mother's refining, uplifting, and guiding influence over his life. Every husband who is blessed with a faithful, noble wife ascribes much of the credit for his accomplishments to the helpful influence of his companion. There is no influence that is more inspiring, more purifying, and more beneficial than that of a good woman over man. If woman turns from this sphere of her usefulness and enters the mud and mire of politics, she will surrender a far greater advantage than she gains. She may lust for and acquire authority; she may be crowned by the populace for a day and then be crucified to-morrow. After it is all over and she takes a full inventory of what she has done, she will learn that all the power and all the authority that she has wielded over man is not a tithe of that she lost when she gave up the molding and controlling influence of the home. God pity the man, God pity the woman, God pity the child, when they have a motherless home, when they have a mother who is in politics, campaigning over the States and neglecting the purifying, refining, and ennobling influences which she should be exercising in her home!

I am constrained to believe that the great mass of our women will never be willing to enter political life. It has been demonstrated so far that the most refined, intelligent, and noble women have declined to have anything to do with voting and with holding office. I would not be misunderstood. I do not mean to say that no good woman enters such relation, but I do mean to say that most women are so constituted and have such noble conceptions of refinement and purity that they prefer to fill their Godordained mission and remain in the family where God has placed them. Most of them are ready to heed the language of the Holy Spirit as recorded by Peter: "In like manner, ye wives, be in subjection to your own husbands; that, even if any obey not the word, they may without the word be gained by the behavior of their wives; beholding your chaste behavior coupled with fear. Whose adorning let it not be the cutward adorning of braiding the hair, and of wearing jewels of gold, or of putting on apparel; but let it be the hidden man of the heart, in the incorruptible apparel of a meek and quiet spirit, which is in the sight of God of great price. For after this manner aforetime the holy women also, who hoped in God, adorned themselves, being in subjection to their own husbands: as Sarah obeyed Abraham, calling him lord: whose children ye now are, if ye do well, and are not put in fear by any terror." (1 Pet. 3: 1-6.) Bearing upon woman's influence in the world and in the home, the Ladies' Home Journal has the fellowing

Influence the world over is more potent than authority; and if women surrender the advantage they possess in the family relation for what they can gain in imitation of men or in competition with men, then they will gamble away their great opportunity. The time of agitation is over. The time for service has come, and that great service will be rendered chiefly in woman's way—that is, in the way of mother and of wife. It will be rendered almost imperceptibly, day by day, in grinding into the lives of children and of husbands the human qualities that inhere most distinctively in womankind.

Then, after she has made her place and done her duty as mother, there remains to many women that wider if not deeper service in which woman shall lead in bringing to the public conscience and action those affairs of the neighborhood and of the State that have been largely overlooked heretofore, such family affairs as child welfare, public parks and playgrounds, public health and better housing conditions.

The Home Journal would not say that there is no place in all this for the unmarried woman. Far from it. is many a woman with all the instincts of wife and mother who, for one reason or another, has not had the actual experience. There is also much personal service needed in many public affairs, even outside of office holding, a personal service demanding the entire lives and labors of that portion of society which can be spoken of only with the deepest reverence, the self-sacrificing woman.

It is apparent that the politicians have brought about woman suffrage, but it is not clear that it has been done by the will and voice of the great mass of the people. It is evident that the great majority of good women do not want to enter politics. If religious teachers and men who profess to love the Bible would only speak out and give the clear, unmistakable teaching of the word of God upon this subject, we would soon find fewer people favoring feminism and more people contending for men to support their families and for women to be faithful home-makers. Unless we completely ignore the teaching of the word of God, we will not have any fears as to the final outcome. In the final wind-up we will find men working in coal mines, tunneling mountains, climbing telephone poles; while we will find women training their children, looking after household affairs, doing work which will be ameliorating to the human race. As you cannot make a man a woman and cannot make a woman a man, just so you cannot reverse the spheres of the two. As a bird could not live in the sea and a fish could not live in the air, just so, after all, we may expect men to fill the mission that God has given them, and so of woman.

God Cares for His Own. BY E. A. E.

Matt. 10 gives both the selection and the sending out of the twelve apostles. Jesus had many disciples, and of these he chose the twelve apostles. He chose the twelve for two reasons—(1) "that they might be with him," and (2) "that he might send them forth to preach" and "to have authority to cast out demons," to heal the sick, to cleanse lepers, and to raise the dead. He selected them some months before he sent them forth, for the reason "that they might be with him" in training for the great work he wished them to do. By this training and development they were prepared to go themselves. Mark 3: 14, 15; Luke 6: 12, 13; and Matt. 10: 2-4 show when he appointed them; and Mark 6: 7; Luke 9: 1-6; and Matt. 10: 1 to 11: 1 show when he sent them forth.

They must be disciples (learners) first; they must go to school to Christ—the great Teacher—before they become apostles. Timothy must first learn from Paul before he is sent forth as an evangelist. (See Acts 16: 1-3.) In turn, and when prepared to do so, Timothy could then commit "to faithful men"—men who had proved themselves faithful to the Lord and had been approved—that which he had learned from Paul, that these men might be able to teach others also. (2 Tim. 2: 1, 2.)

All that Jesus said in sending forth the apostles is most significant and important. The principles upon which he sent them forth are applicable to all for all time. For instance: "Freely ye received, freely give." Jesus had raised Peter's wife's mother from a sick bed and in many ways had greatly blessed all the apostles and their relatives, friends, and acquaintances. They must now do likewise. The afflicted must be relieved, demons cast out, the dead raised, and the kingdom of heaven preached "without money and without price." (Isa. 55: 1.) Simon the sorcerer made an effort to place these powers on a money basis, and was told: "Thy silver perish with thee, because thou hast thought to obtain the gift of God with money." He was further told that his heart was "not right before God" and that he was "in the gall of bitterness and in the bond of iniquity." (See Acts 8: 18-24.) All for the one thought and effort to purchase "the gift of God with money!"

Keep thy heart with all diligence; for out of it are the issues of life. (Prov. 4: 23.)

To make merchandise of the gospel and of the churches now destroys the very spirit and perverts the very nature of God's kingdom. It is still true that, "if any man hath not the Spirit of Christ, he is none of his." (Rom. 8: 9.) Yet "the laborer is worthy of his food"—that is, "a living"—as Jesus declares in this very connection and instruction given to the apostles. But one must be a laborer for Christ. Under the great commission and throughout the New Testament, therefore, Christ has made full provision for the support of all true and faithful preachers of the gospel. No one who will study the subject can fail to learn this or to see the true and pure, noble and lofty spirit of all who preach the gospel in the love of the truth and, therefore, in the fear of God and for the salvation of souls. (See 1 Cor. 9: 7-23; 2 Cor. 11: 7-15; Phil. 1: 3-7; 4: 10-20.) And all who desire to know the truth will study this subject, together with all others, in the light of the word of God.

Jesus instructed the apostles how to go, into whose house to enter and abide, and against whom to shake off the dust of their feet; he showed their means of support, but informed them that they were sent as sheep in the midst of wolves, and that persecution would overtake them; that in all this they must be as wise as serpents and as harmless as doves—must suffer wrong, but must wrong no one; must endure evil, but must do none; when reviled, must revile not again; must be harmless toward all, prudent, wise, but must shrink from no duty, shirk no responsibility, and never fail to preach the truth. This is wonderful! This is the mind and spirit of Him who endured the contradiction of sinners against himself, who suffered for us, leaving us an example that we should follow his steps.

Who did no sin, neither was guile found in his mouth, who, when he was reviled, reviled not again; when he suffered, threatened not; but committed himself to him that judgeth righteously: who his own self bare our sins in his body upon the tree, that we, having died unto sins, might live unto righteousness; by whose stripes ye were healed. For ye were going astray like sheep; but are now returned unto the Shepherd and Bishop of your souls. (1 Pet. 2: 22-25.)

When we read this and similar passages, declaring the love and suffering, freedom from resentment and vengeance, purity and peaceful submission of Jesus, we realize, as James (3: 2) says, that in "many things we all stumble," and our own great need of grace and forbearance and forgiveness.

Are not two sparrows sold for a penny? and not one of them shall fall on the ground without your Father: but the very hairs of your head are all numbered. Fear not therefore: ye are of more value than many sparrows.

God promises to take care of his children individually, to maintain his church, to uphold his kingdom, and to give the everlasting victory.

The New Testament teaches that all true disciples of Jesus in all ages will have to suffer persecution. (See 2 We can demonstrate the truth of this by Tim, 3: 12.) "living godly in Christ Jesus." The church is not persecuted to-day, because it is too much of the world. "The world cannot hate you," says Jesus to those of the world. because the world loves its own. It hates Jesus, because he testifies of it, "that its works are evil;" and it hates the disciples of Jesus-his church-because he has chosen them "out of the world" and they "are not of the world," even as he is not of the world. (See John 7: 7: 15: 18-25; 17: 14-16.) They do not reflect the character of the world; they have not the spirit of the world; they are not ruled by the world; they do not cringe and falter and shrink. ereep and crawl before the world; they have forsaken the world and will suffer the loss of all things and count them but refuse that they may obey God and gain Christ.

Ye adulteresses, know ye not that the friendship of the world is enmity with God? Whosoever therefore would be a friend of the world maketh himself an enemy of God. (James 4: 4.)

The devil is "the prince of this world" (John 12: 31) and has nothing in common with Jesus, no love for him or for his church (John 14: 30, 31), and has been "judged" (John 16: 11). Jesus is "head over all things to the church," is its ruler, and the church must be filled with his spirit, reflect his character, and submit to his rule. Hence, the church must live separate from the world and must keep even unspotted from it.

The apostles endured scourging in synagogues, were delivered up to councils, and were brought before governors and kings for the gospel's sake and for a testimony against them and the Gentiles. They were "hated of all men" for Jesus' sake. The world hates the church to-day—the real church, the body of Christ, the kingdom of heaven, the household and family of God—all who really live godly in Christ Jesus and keep unspotted from the world, who are really governed by "the Prince of Peace" and are not ruled by "the prince of this world." It cannot be otherwise.

To resist not him that is evil, but when persecuted in one place to go to another, is the duty and happiness and salvation of Christians now. To endure to the end is salvation. Jesus states five motives to endurance "to the end," or for not fearing men:

 The servant is not above his lord; and since the master suffers, the servant should cheerfully do so.

- 2. No secret persecution or hidden iniquity will escape revelation. Injustice and persecution are practiced at times so under cover and in the garb of truth that they appear to the world as just and righteous. This is discouraging and grievous to the true disciples of Christ. It is easier to meet and to overcome public wrong than that which is carried on under cover and in pretense of friendship and love. But this or anything else should not deter one from proclaiming the truth from the housetop and under all circumstances. It was far easier for the church to fight the world, to keep separate from the world, and to gain the victory over the world, before the world through the wiles of its prince adopted Christianity as its religion. The world did not accept Christ in order to obey him, to practice Christianity-to love neighbors as one self, to love and pray for enemies, to overcome evil with good, to be harmless as doves, to fellow the Golden Rule in all things, and to be ruled by the spirit of the gentle Nazarene at all times: but to use so much of Christianity and to use the church in so far as is possible to serve its own selfish and greedy and sometimes bloodthirsty ends, saying, "In this sign conquer." The world can turn Christian, transform itself into an angel of light, and preach the gospel of peace and good will when it serves its purposes to do so. But the church, separate and apart from the world, preaches the gospel of Christ at all times, regardless of consequences, and rejoices that even in envy, or strife, or faction, or in any other way, Christ is preached. (See Phil. 1: 15-18.)
- 3. It is better to suffer the loss of the body by being killed for the gospel's sake than to suffer the loss of the soul and body in hell.
- 4. Since God sees so small a thing as a sparrow when it falls to the ground, when two sell for a farthing, or less than a cent apiece, and numbers the hairs upon one's head, the apostles should not fear; they are of more value than many sparrows. God's tender care for them should guard them against all fear. But he extends the same promises to all his children, and exercises over them the same watch care and protection. He invites all now to cast all their anxiety upon him, because he cares for them (1 Pet. 5: 7), and teaches all to be anxious in nothing, "but in everything by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving" to let their "requests be made known" unto him. And "the peace of God, which passeth all understanding, shall guard" their "hearts and thoughts in Christ Jesus." (Phil. 4: 4-7.) "Blessed assurance!" Certainly, then, God's children can "rejoice in the Lord always." Here, too, we think of what Jesus says in Matt. 6 about God's feeding the birds and clothing the lilies in more beauty than Solomon in all his glory. And then we remember that he said: "O ye of little faith!"

5. Whoever will confess Jesus before men—that is, be true to him and obey him in the face of persecution and death and teach the whole truth against all opposition—the same will Christ confess before God and the angels. Amen.

Do It Now, Not To-Morrow.

BY J. C. M'Q.

Our readers have been advised of the fact that Sister Sarah Andrews is not in good health and wishes to return home. She is lacking funds with which to make the trip. She has been a faithful worker in Japan, but finds it absolutely necessary for the preservation of her health to return home. Brother I. B. Bradley, of Dickson, Tenn., who has been looking after raising funds for her, writes me in a private letter as follows: "Sister Sarah Andrews, you know, has requested passage money for her trip home to recuperate her strength and for a rest from the strenuous labors of the past five years in the field. I have made a number of appeals through the Gospel Advocate and Christian Herald for the funds, and have received a number of liberal contributions from several parties and a few congregations. I yet lack more than one hundred dollars of the necessary five hundred dollars. It should be started to her within the next ten days in order to reach her by the time she has asked for it to reach her."

This matter is so urgent and the appeal is so worthy that it does seem that to mention it would be all that is necessary. There are numbers of brethren throughout the country who could contribute the one hundred dollars and be the better off for so doing. In a matter of this kind we should consider it a privilege rather than that we are doing some great work. Every time one gives liberally to such a work, he is giving only as his own soul requires. Christians, in order to grow and develop spiritually, must avail themselves of just such an opportunity as this. Such opportunities oft neglected, one's zeal, enthusiasm, and spir-Ituality die. I sincerely hope that our readers will send a liberal contribution to I. B. Bradley, Dickson, Tenn., so that within the next week he will have sufficient funds in his hands to bring Sister Andrews home. Remember, it "is more blessed to give than to receive." When we come to pass from this life into the great beyond, it will be inexpressibly joyous to hear the Master say: "Inasmuch as ye did it unto one of these my brethren, even these least, ye did it unto me." (Matt. 25: 40.)

Book Notices.

If you are in need of a good abridged Bible dictionary, send us $2 for a copy of Smith's Peloubet Edition. This is one of the best dictionaries of the Bible that I have examined.

Have you read "Sunshine; or, Uncle Minor's Stories?" This is a very attractive book for children as well as for old people. Children read it with much interest. It is profusely illustrated, and contains many interesting incidents and stories. Price, $1.50.

We have on hand a few copies of "Biographies and Sermons," edited by F. D. Srygley. This is a book of sermons by a number of our best-known preachers. It is well worth a careful perusal. A brief history of the life of each preacher accompanies his sermon. A picture of the preacher also is given with each sketch. Price, $1.50. If you want this book, you should order at once, as we have just a few copies that have been left over through mistake.

Home Reading

When We Are Old.

When we are old, love, you and I; When sight is dim, and strength away, And youth's sweet time has passed us by: The fresh blue sky an arch of gray When we have traversed autumn's reign; Have found the winter's cold and frost; Ofttimes a heartache, oft a pain; Shall we regret what we have lost? Recall the groves of leafy trees (In place of branches black and bare) That stirred 'neath breath of summer's breeze, When we with love and youth dwelt there? When all the violets are gone; The quiet fields lie wide and brown; No merry birds to wake the dawn; And each red leaf has fluttered down; Say, shall we mourn those dear old times, And, as life's vesper bells ring low, In loving mem'ry sound the chimes Of sunny mornings long ago? And, waiting on the borderland, Pause, longing with a nameless pain, To 'midst the bloom of summer stand, Or silver showers of summer rain, Breaking into diamond sprays Against the rose's velvet glow, Or drifting down the river's way, In dreaming thoughts again to go? What we know not we cannot tell; The winding path of life is long, Or short; whichever way, 'tis well If we but tread it with a song. So let age come, gaunt specter gray! A smile is better than a sigh; And joy can never distant stay. If we're together, you and I.

-Eugenie du Maurier.

0 0 0

Grandfather's Indian Story.

Bobby climbed into his grandfather's lap one evening and said: "Now, grandfather, won't you please tell me a story?"

"A story, dear? Well, what shall it be about?" asked grandfather.

"O, tell me about Indians; I like those stories best!" said Bobby.

"All right," answered grandfather, smiling. "Long, long ago, when this city was a small village, there were Indians living in the forest all around it. Some of these Indians were friendly, and some of them were not; but most of them would remember if the white people did them a kindness.

"My father, your great-grandfather, was a very fair and honest man. When he traded with the Indians, he always gave them good value for whatever they gave him; and if they were sick or in trouble, he did what he could to help them.

"One winter, when I was only nine years old, father was taken very ill; and mother, with what help I could give her, had to do both his work and her own. Once a month she had to drive into the next town and get medicine and the provisions that we needed.

"On this special day, when mother went away, she did not ask any one to stay with father and me, because she expected to return home early.

"Everything went along very well until noontime, when I went outside to draw some water from the rain barrel in order to wash the luncheon dishes. In a clump of trees just beyond our barn I saw an Indian looking stealthily at our house. My heart beat fast! I was terribly frightened. But I quickly walked into the house, and bolted the doors and windows as quietly as I could. Then, without saying a word to father, I took down one of the big guns from the rack on the wall, and waited.

"In a short time I saw the Indian dart from behind the trees and run swiftly toward our back door. I did not move or make a sound.

"Suddenly there was a loud thud outside of the door; and then—an awful silence. For a long time I waited for something else to happen; but as it did not I peeped out of the window. I could not see the Indian anywhere; but in front of our back door there was a large basket.

"I waited for about half an hour longer, and by that time my curiosity had gotten the better of me. Cautiously I opened the door. Seeing no one around, I quickly drew the basket into the kitchen. Trembling with excitement, I lifted the cover. To my great surprise, I found a wild turkey and two wild ducks!

"Then I understood. The Indian had heard that father was ill, and he had brought the turkey and ducks as a gift in return for the kindnesses that father had shown him."

"He was a grateful Indian, wasn't he, grandfather?" said Bobby, smiling.—Lelia Enders, in The Child's Gem.

0 0 0

The Quest of Youth.

Youth desires much. It dreams of fortune, success, glory, power; longs and struggles for them. Yet more than for all those things youth longs to get out of itself, and perhaps that longing is at the base of all the others. When we begin to open our spiritual eyes, we see all round us a world of shadows, creatures fashioned like us in the outer gesture and carriage of living, yet whose inner existence we can never touch. Go where we will, do what we will, we are imprisoned in ourselves. Our souls yearn and strive and fret to touch the souls behind all those smiling, frowning faces, yet never can.

That longing for spiritual contact is the foundation of society and friendship. Above all, it expresses itself in the youthful, overwhelming, all-involving tide of love. Here at last the boy or girl believes that he has found the one soul that can be touched through all the deceptions and shadows and disguise. Alas! Love perfectly realized may give much, but it cannot give that. Not even through love can we get out of ourselves. Not even through the whirlwind revelation of love can we for an instant touch the real soul behind the revealing—or concealing—lips or eyes. The full, final appreciation of our solitude is the tragedy of youth and marks its real transition into the completeness of maturity.

For with age we learn to accept facts and make the best of them. We cannot touch the souls of others. We must take love and friendship and life for what they are, which is much, and must not ask for what they are not. In time we come to find that we can be surprisingly busy for others, even if they are only phantoms and shadows. In the rush and press of living for those souls which are hidden, our own souls cease to be so obtrusively manifest; and, in the end, if we think about the matter at all, we see that the true way to get out of ourselves is to forget ourselves altogether.

But in these later years let us try not to lose sight of what we were in the earlier; let us understand the eternal quest of youth and sympathize with it and forgive it, not treat it with impatience or contempt or scorn. For, after all, youth's passionate desire and effort to get out of itself are among the most ennobling things in life.—Selected.

* * *

A man's own good breeding is the best security against other people's ill manners.—Chesterfield.

皿

AT HOME AND ABROAD

- J. H. McBroom, of Shelbyville, Tenn., paid this office a pleasant call on Monday morning.
- J. M. Dennis called to see us last Friday. He was en reute to Ravenscroft, Tenn., to begin a meeting.
- A. J. Traylor called to see us on his way from a meeting in which he had been singing with J. H. McBroom,
- H. W. Wrye, recently of Texas, gave us a call at this office this week. He will probably locate at Pikeville, Tenn., in the near future.
- A. S. Warren attended the Congress and Convention of the Disciples of Christ at St. Louis, Mo. He reports a very fine congress and improved convention.

Edward Clutter is engaged in a meeting at Gentry, Mo., which is growing in interest. There had been twenty-seven additions at the time this report was made (October 26).

R. H. Johnson, of Morrillton, Ark., will solicit subscriptions for the Gospel Advocate. He says: "I regard the Gospel Advocate the best paper published by the brotherhood."

Changes of address: A. L. McCorkle, from Hope Station, Salem, Oregon, to Blackfoot, Idaho, care of State Hospital; W. G. Black, from 133 Smith Street, Abilene, Texas, to Anson, Texas, Route 1.

- W. B. Stone has moved from Madison, Tenn., and his paper carnot be delivered to him there. If he will let us know his present address, we will gladly send his Gospel Advocate to him there.
- H. M. Phillips, of Tuscumbia, Ala., recently closed a meeting at Daus, Tenn., with one baptism and two restorations. He is now engaged in a meeting not far from Tuscumbia, his home town.

James M. Howard writes from Tampa, Fla.: "1 find the church here in good working condition, with George B. Hoover preaching for them. One addition by baptism on the third Lord's day in October."

S. M. Jones' four-weeks' meeting at 'Twelfth Avenue, North, this city, resulted in fifty-six additions to the congregation—fifty-five baptisms. He is now in a meeting at Reid Avenue, having begun last Lord's day.

The meeting at Russell Street Church, this city, continues with good interest. T. Q. Martin preached to the largest crowd last Sunday night that has ever assembled in this church. The large auditorium was packed. There has been one baptism to date.

- J. C. Williams and wife have returned to their old home, Magnolia, Ark. They expect to meet regularly upon each Lord's day, and have gone to work to gather together the few brethren in that place. They wish any loyal Christian preacher who passes that way to call and preach for them.
- J. O. Blaine, of Portland, Tenn., informs us that G. C. Brewer did a great work in his last meeting at that place. It seems that Brother Brewer created such an interest that some of the stationed preachers are trying to put out the fire which he started. Brother Blaine says they are making poor progress.

From Joe L. Netherland, Miami, Fla.: "The work here is increasing in both interest and attendance. One hundred and twenty were in our Bible classes Sunday. Three took membership with the congregation. We are expecting many of the brethren from over the States to be with us during the winter."

The Post Office Department has notified us that (1) it cannot deliver our paper to Mrs. E. Rogers, Bridgeport, Texas, because she has removed and left no address. If she will let us know her new address and also mention the old one, we will send the paper to the new address (2) It cannot deliver to W. H. Goff, 318 Woodward Building, Birmingham, Ala., for the same reason as to Mrs. Rogers, We give him the same suggestions as to her.

A. J. Traylor sends the following: "J. H. McBroom and I have just closed a meeting at Little River, near Hopkinsville, Ky. Great interest was manifested, the meeting resulting in four baptisms and one restoration, and the cherfully step do have no desire to Brother McBroom's sermons were both forceful and logical. I also wish to say that I was able to get several subscriptions for the Gospel Advocate."

We enjoyed a visit from John C. Taylor, of Waverly, Tenn., last Wednesday. He reports having closed a good neeting at Paris, Tenn., which began on the first Lord's day in October and continued ten days. Three were baptized and one restored. On the third Sunday in October he began a meeting at Bumpus Mills, Tenn., which continued ten days, with nine baptisms. He is very much pleased with the Gospel Advocate, and promises to do what he can for the extension of its circulation.

Sister F. O. Howell, of Obion, Tenn., says: "I wish to heartily commend your article on woman suffrage in this week's issue [October 28] of the Gospel Advocate. It is fine and very pointed. I like to see our preachers come out plainly and courageously on this issue. The Bible does not seem sufficient for some of our present-day women. It is thoroughly disgusting, to say nothing of the consequences which are sure to follow. I enjoy the Advocate, and have never read a copy that did not give inspiration to better things."

The church at Fountain Run, Ky., is very anxious to have some good, wide-awake gospel preacher to locate with them and preach for them and possibly one or two other places next year. Fountain Run is in the extreme western part of Monroe County. The population is about five hundred, and there are three churches, a good school, two banks, two flour mills, a number of good stores, planing mill, etc. They would like to have a young or middle-aged man, to be ready for work the first of the year. For further information, address J. H. Short, Fountain Run, Ky.

L. D. Hall writes from Oklahoma City, Okla., 227 South Broadway, and requests that we send the paper to him to this address; but he doesn't give the address from which to change, and doesn't show if he is a new subscriber. If he will let us know these matters, we will gladly do what we can to accommodate him. He reports that his summer's work is now over, and that it was very successful in bringing souls to Christ. He has time open for work as an evangelist in 1921, and prefers Texas and Oklahoma as his field. He wishes to hear from those who wish his services in that field before the open time is taken.

We refer to our readers extracts from two letters recently sent to the Gospel Advocate, asking that they consider the two and decide for themselves which speaks the truth. A sister writes as follows: "There is so much wrangling between the brethren in the paper now, I cannot enjoy reading it as I once did; so I have decided to ask you to take my name off your list. Please do not send the paper any more." A brother says: "I send this subscription most cheerfully, not only because of the love I have for those in charge of the Advocate, but because I believe your paper is the most powerful and most effective single influence of which I know standing for God's holy word unmixed with human error."

- E. C. Fuqua writes under date of October 29: "1 expect to finish the meeting in Colorado Springs Sunday night, and, from what I can now see, I will be able to count about twenty-five faithful and loyal members in Colorado Springs. We are now looking for a temporary place for meeting after the close of our evangelistic meeting. We are trying to rent a meetinghouse or a hall of some sort. We will have a business meeting to-morrow night and determine just what we will do." This is very encouraging to any one who knows the true conditions in Colorado Springs when Brother Fuqua began work there. I was in Colorado Springs a little over a year ago, and the outlook for primitive Christianity free from all "isms" appeared to be discouraging indeed.
- C. D. Crouch, of Wellington, Texas, writes a letter encouraging us concerning the work which we have done during the last few months. He does not agree entirely with the management of the Gospel Advocate, and thinks it could be improved. The management is just about what it has been during the last thirty-six years, but we have no disposition to fall out with any one who does not agree with us in everything that we do. We know we are fallible and liable to make many mistakes. We only claim for ourselves integrity of purpose and that we are doing what we consider best, and what God's word requires, for all concerned under existing circumstances. No one can do more. We are glad to have the criticisms of our friends, and hope to profit by them. When any one will undertake to do the work better than we are doing it, we will cheerfully step down and out and do something else. We have no desire to hinder or impede the progress of the church of Christ.

Mrs. Pearl V. Binns, of Bakerville, Tenn., submits a question with the request for an answer through the Gospel Advocate. She is a member of the church of Christ and a student in the Bible class. The teacher of the Bible class, while serving at the Lord's table, made this statement: "It does not make any difference what church you belong to, you can be a Christian." Sister Binns says: "I cannot get that meaning from reading the Bible, and I feel that it is not the right teaching. Please tell me. I believe to be a Christian means we should teach the word just as it is and obey it, and that we should wear the name which Christ gave his people."

If the teacher had been living in the days of the New Testament, he would not have made any such remark, for there were no different churches to "join." The New Testament recognizes but one church—the church of the Lord Jesus Christ, "And he is the head of the body, the church: who is the beginning, the first-born from the dead; that in all things he might have the preëminence." 1: 18.) Thus we see that the church is the body, and the body is the church. Also read Eph. 1: 22, 23, which is as follows: "And he put all things in subjection under his feet, and gave him to be head over all things to the church, which is his body, the fullness of him that filleth all in all." Now, as the church of Christ is the body of Christ, and as the body of Christ is the church of Christ, if we find that there is but one body, we find that there is but one church. From 1 Cor. 12: 20 we learn: "But now they are many members, but one body." The true position is that every one who obeys the will of the Lord, who believes his word, obeys his commands, trusts his promises, and humbly looks to him for guidance and direction, is in the church of Christ. No denomination or any set of individuals has a copyright on the church of Christ. Neither has any one a copyright on the name "Christian." Every one should be encouraged to do just what God commands to be done, to humbly walk in his ways, looking to him for guidance; and when any one does that, he is in the one church which Jesus founded and for which he shed his own blood.

0 0 0

A sister whose name is withheld for prudential reasons asks the following questions: "(1) Was any one ever baptized in the Holy Spirit excepting the twelve apostles? (2) If one becomes dissatisfied with his faith and repentance, should he be baptized again? (3) If one thinks he is already saved and is baptized because God commands him to be baptized, is he saved? (4) Since the Bible teaches that God draws all men to him, is it possible that a person would obey God in baptism who is an unbeliever and unrepentant? Is every person saved who is baptized? (5) How does one know he has truly believed and repented? If one decides that he did not truly believe and repent, must he be baptized again? (6) Do you think a child of thirteen years is too young to be baptized?"

1. Yes, others besides the twelve apostles were baptized in the Holy Spirit. Cornelius and his household were baptized in the Holy Spirit. "For they heard them speak with tongues, and magnify God. Then answered Peter, Can any man forbid the water, that these should not be baptized, who have received the Holy Spirit as well as we?" (Acts 10: 46, 47.)

2. A person must decide for himself whether he has genuinely believed and whether his repentance is genuine. God tells us in his word what men must believe to be saved, and our spirits answer as to whether we have believed or not. The Bible teaches us that repentance is a change of will produced by godly sorrow that leads to a reformation of life. Our spirits must answer as to whether or not we have done what the Spirit of God requires. If, in the light of these facts, one decides that he has never believed or repented, when he does truly believe and repent, he should be baptized into the solemn name of Father, Son, and Holy Spirit. There can be no Christian baptism without faith. A man must believe with all his heart that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of the living God, before he can enjoy scriptural baptism.

3. Because one thinks he is saved before baptism does not make it so. If, however, in obedience to the command of God, he is baptized because God commands him to be baptized, God will take care of the remission of his sins despite the fact that he mistook the time when his sins were forgiven, provided he believes with all his heart that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of the living God.

4. While the Bible teaches that God draws all men to him, it teaches that the drawing is done through the teaching of the truth. The Bible nowhere teaches that an unbelieving and unrepentant person can enjoy Christian baptism. If a person were to be buried beneath the water and raised up who had no faith in Christ and who was not really penitent for his sins, such an act would be sheer mockery in the sight of God. It would be no more Christian baptism than taking a chair and burying it beneath the water and raising it up again. Every person who has truly believed and repented enjoys the remission of his sins when he is baptized. He must be saved in heaven at last by continuing in well-doing and by being faithful until he receives a crown of righteousness. Those who fall by the way have no promise of eternal life.

5. Every person must decide for himself from the teaching of the Bible whether he has believed and repented or not. Every person should know whether he believed with all his heart that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of the living God, when he was baptized. If he believes this central truth of the Bible, around which every other truth in the word of God radiates, then his faith is genuine and his baptism is genuine. Every person must decide for himself as to his belief; no other person can make the decision for him.

6. Some children much younger than thirteen years of age believe the gospel and are penitent for their sins and can be scripturally baptized. No certain age of obedience can be fixed. Some are more responsible at ten than others at thirteen. It does seem, however, that, with proper training, any child of thirteen years should know that it is a sinner and should believe with all its heart that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of the living God. Believing and knowing this, and with a desire and determination to lead a godly life, any one can be scripturally baptized. If the mother has done her duty by the child that is thirteen years of age, it certainly should be prepared for baptism.

0 0 0

J. T. J. Watson sends the following for the "Query Department:" "By what authority do you occasionally say the Scripture does not say an elder must be a married man? He must be 'the husband of one wife.' Of course this does imply that he must not be the husband of more than one wife, but it just as strongly implies that he must be the husband of one wife. Webster defines the word 'must' to mean: 'To be obliged; to be necessitated—expressing either physical or moral necessity; as, a man must eat for nourishment; we must submit to laws. To be morally required; to be necessary or essential to certain quality, character, end, or result; as, 'Likewise must the deacons be grave;' 'Moreover he [the bishop] must have a good report of them which are without.' 'If a man speaketh, let him speak as the oracles of God.' (1 Pet. 4: 11.)"

By the authority of the word of God I occasionally say the Scripture does not say an elder "must be a married man." "If a man speaketh, let him speak as the oracles of God." (1 Pet. 4: 11.)

Current Thought

The Efficient Church.

The church is a force as well as a field for the cultivation of the Christian graces. Without recruiting and training, there can be no effective fighting army; but with recruiting and training only and no fighting, battles are never won.

Jesus came to build the kingdom of God among men. That means the church as an institution has something higher than itself to serve. The kingdom was to be a leaven of righteeusness in society; it was to bring heaven among men and to expel hell from earth. An effective church practices the spirit of community service by sacrificially promoting its Christianization. Its government, its amusements, its social and commercial life must all be Christian.

An effective church not only garners numbers to itself, but it drives evil from its community and makes it increasingly easy to do right and evermore difficult to do wrong. It cultivates good neighborliness and fraternal relations between all men and gives the least among them a better chance.

Jesus said he came not to condemn, but to save the world. A congregation that goes to church as a place apart and to cultivate there nothing more than their own inner life may find themselves among those who will hear the Master say at the judgment: "I never knew you." They sang his praises and paid the bills, but they did not those things he said about leavening all life and law and custom, and they "did it not unto the least of these."

Our souls are of such infinite worth that Christ was will-

Our souls are of such infinite worth that Christ was willing to die for them, and he taught us the infinite value of a life. What, then, if we are careless of the lives of the weaker, of the chances of the ignorant, of the income of the less efficient, of the children of the poor! No church can obtain the more abundant life for its members if it leads them not to have a care for the larger and more abundant life and opportunity of all who dwell there. It cannot rise far above its community. It may be a class church and rise with a class in its community, but it has small claim then to being the church of Him who loved all alike, founded in civilization the fundamentals of democratic equality, and ordained a church to bring in the kingdom of God among men.—Christian-Evangelist.

It is encouraging to note that the Christian-Evangelist is interested in the efficient church. This journal believes in the completeness and efficiency of the church of Jesus Christ. If we will give more attention to the church and less attention to societies and human inventions, we will soon discover that the church is bounding forward at a much more rapid gait than it has been. There is no good under the sun that a man can do that he cannot do in the name of Christ and in the church of the Lord Jesus Christ.

* * *

What Kind of Preaching?

We were recently on the railway train. A long journey was before us. An earnest, Christian young man, a Methodist, engaged us in conversation. From weather to crops, from crops to business, from business to church, from church to preaching—so raced along the words of pleasant discourse. Presently our ears were unwaxed, completely so. "I like to hear Rev. So-and-So preach. He is one of the best preachers to whom I have ever listened." And the serious-faced young Methodist caught us all alert, for we happened to know the preacher so well—young, vivacious, with a sky full of promise for his future.

"Tell us just why you like him so ardently," this eager listener made venture upon his confidence. "Because he preaches the fundamentals." And we seemed to catch the words: "With him there are no evasive theories of strange fancies." And we fell in love with his guileless talk and wanted more.

Business men, tired men, buffeted men, fretting all the week through with scandal-filled newspaper and the racer dips of business and chafing problems of finance and unrest and uncertainty, come to the house of God on the Lord's sweet day for substantial word and comforting word and abiding word. He wishes the grain and not the chaff, the solid and not the unsubstantial, the true and not the evasive, the fundamentals and not the vagaries. And we placed the discourse of the knowing young Methodist layman upon a shelf of the heart easily reached. And what is true of the wearied man in the business world is also true of all men and women who toil and sweat and doubt and strive and hope. They crave the preaching which deals with certainties.—Methodist.

It does seem that no preacher should have any difficulty in deciding what to preach. Paul emphatically declares that "the gospel" is "the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth; to the Jew first, and also to the Greek." In writing his son, Timothy, whom he had begotten through the gospel, he admonishes him to "preach the word." Men should preach the gospel fearlessly, earnestly, and firmly, leaving the results with our Heavenly Father. The preacher who preaches in a way to show his own faith in the gospel of Jesus Christ and who shows that he is ready to make sacrifices in order to spread the gospel is a great power and influence for good. The lives of such preachers will not and cannot be in vain. We need more of that kind to-day. People do not care to be fed on the writings of men and things pertaining to the political issues of the day. When they come to worship, they want the pure and unadulterated word of God.

© © © Getting a Crowd.

Some people seem to think that getting a crowd is the end of all church work. If the church is crowded, the service must be a success. The cause of this fallacious thinking is not always seen, but a little thought will reveal it. The purpose of advertising is to attract attention and, in reference to public gatherings, to get a crowd. When this is a success at places of entertainment, the evidence of it is found in the money receipts and all concerned are satisfied.

A natural but a very false assumption is that when a pastor or church organization secures a crowd the meeting or service is a success. This may be far from the fact. To secure a crowd and not to do for that crowd in accordance with the purposes of an institution in whose name it is secured is none other than a failure. It may bring institutions into disrepute. It may disgust thoughtful people. The crowd may not be present at another time when something worth while is done. Besides, it is a waste of time and money.

This is not saying that people may not be reached and forwarded by indirect means in some good work, but it is saying that it is folly to gather a great crowd of people in the name of a church and attempt to entertain them with buffoonery. The great question of every church and every church meeting is not how many were present, but what was done with those and for those who were present. All forms of entertainment in the church must either be good or beautiful. That is a part of what religion stands for Education need not be dull to be worth while, but it must be something more than entertainment or amusement to be education. Likewise the church service or entertainment must be something worth while and the promoter of that which is good, true, and beautiful to be worth while.—California Christian Advocate.

When a preacher fails to tell a large crowd the message in a strong, attractive, and convincing way, it is disappointing. The preacher should be more concerned about his message than about the crowd. If he knows his message; if he respects and loves the word of God; if he is direct and earnest in his presentation, his audience will not go to sleep on him. Such preachers are usually edifying and attract others to their audiences. Sometimes a preacher accomplishes much more with a small crowd than he does with a large crowd. We need more directness, consecration, and earnestness in the pulpit. Preachers are prone to deal in things not calculated to edify and strengthen a congregation. Christians must feed on the sincere milk of the word in order to grow thereby.

Hood's Sarsaparilla Makes Food Taste Good

Creates an appetite, aids digestion, purifies the blood, and thus relieves scrofula, catarrh, the pains and aches of rheumatism and gives strength to the whole system.

Nearly 50 years' phenomenal sales tell the story of the great merit and success of Hood's Sarsaparilla. It is just the medicine you need now. Hood's Pills help—fine cathartic.

TETTERINE

Ends Complexion Worries

Healing, Antiseptic, Soothing, Fragrant.

60c at your druggist's or from the SHUP-TRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

TREMENDOUS VALUE FOR 10c.

Washington, D. C. (Special).—An unusual offer is being made by the editor of the Pathfinder to send the paper to new readers eight weeks for ten cents. This well-known national weekly magazine contains all the worth-while news of the world, illustrated and presented in a most entertaining manner. It is clean sincere, nonpartisan, reliable, well printed in targe type. It puts everything clearly, fairly, and briefly.

Washington, the home of the Pathfinder, is the nerve center of civilization. History is being made at this world capital. The Pathfinder's lliustrated weekly review gives you a clear, impartial, and correct diagnosis of public affairs during these strenuous, epoch-making days. It is the only big weekly magazine at the seat of government. Send ten cents for eight weeks' trial subscription to the Pathfinder, 113 Douglas Street, Washington, D. C. The ten cents does not repay the editor, but he is glad to invest in new friends.

To Reduce Fever Relieve Headaches and Neuralgic Pains

Use

Aspitone is very efficient and absolutely safe to use as it does not depress the heart even in extreme cases of debăity or weak heart, neurasthenia or anaemia. Manufactured by a formula in use by leading physicians generally. 19 parts pure Aspirin, 1 part pure Caffeine, 4 parts exciplent, in convenient tablet form. 35c per package at your druggists or by mail from the manufacturers, Piedmont Laboratories, Inc., Clinton, S. C.

The Marshall Meeting.

BY T. W. PHILLIPS.

As previously stated, Marshall is one of the best cities in East Texas, and long neglected by the loyal Christians. All of the denominations, including our "prodigal brothers," are well established in Marshall. Quite a percentage of the membership of the "First Christian Church" in Marshall were one time members of a loyal church elsewhere; but there being no such a church with which to worship in Marshall when they moved there, they went to the First Christian Church, thinking they could appease their conscience relative to the doing of their duty on the Lord's day, and hungering, too, at the same time, for the New Testament order of things, as they had been taught. But in a little while they would tolerate, and in another "little while" they would embrace the whole thing, and would almost forget the true worship. But our meeting began in the cozy new building built by a very few faithful ones who would not bow the knee to Baal, and twenty-three noble souls responded to the gospel call. The few that were there are greatly encouraged and feel amply rewarded for the sacrifice they have made. They need a good preacher to labor with them now, and to help them direct the work. Brother R. M. Morgan had charge of the song work in the meeting, and did his part well. About one hundred and fifty dollars was sent in to help support the meeting. We were there over three Lord's days, and the interest was at its best at the close of the meeting. Many hearts were made glad, and I am glad I Efficacy of the Blood of Christ.

BY WILLIAM J. MILLER.

Jesus, the Son of God, is "the Lamb of God." At a certain time, when John the immerser saw Jesus, he said: "Behold, the Lamb of God, that taketh away the sin of the world!" (John 1: 29.)

Now, as Jesus Christ, the Lamb of God, has been taking away the sins of the people, by what means are the sins taken away? The sins have been taken away by the people's having "washed their robes, and made them white in the blood of the Lamb," (Rev. 7: 14.)

There is a time when an alien sinner is cleansed by the blood, by having washed away his sins. When is such an occurrence? What Paul said about his conversion will give some light concerning such an occurrence. Paul said: "And one Ananias, a devout man according to the law, well reported of by all the Jews that dwelt there, came unto me, and standing by me said unto me, Brother Saul, receive thy sight. And in that very hour I looked upon him. And he said, the God of our fathers hath appointed thee to know his will, and to see the Righteous One, and to hear a voice from his mouth. For thou shalt be a witness for him unto all men of what thou hast seen and heard. And now why tarriest thou? arise, and be baptized, and wash away thy sins, calling on his name." (Acts 22: 12-16.)

Therefore it is by being baptized that the sins are washed away by the blood of Jesus, as, according to Rev. 7: 14, the righteous "washed their robes, and made them white in the blood of the Lamb." Jesus is the "Lamb" that was spoken of.

Being baptized unto the washing away of sins is being baptized unto the remission of sins. Jesus ate with his disciples. "And as they were eating, Jesus took bread, and blessed, and brake it; and he gave to the disciples, and said, Take, eat; this is my body. And he took a cup, and gave thanks, and gave to them, saying, Drink ye all of it; for this is my blood of the covenant, which is poured out for many unto remission of sins." (Matt. 26: 26-28.)

The remission of sins is obtained at the time of being baptized, according to Peter's saying: "Repent ye, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ unto the remission of your sins: and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Spirit." (Acts 2: 38.) It is plain that it is not, as some contend, that people receive the remission of sins before being baptized, but that the remission is on being baptized.

You Do More Work,

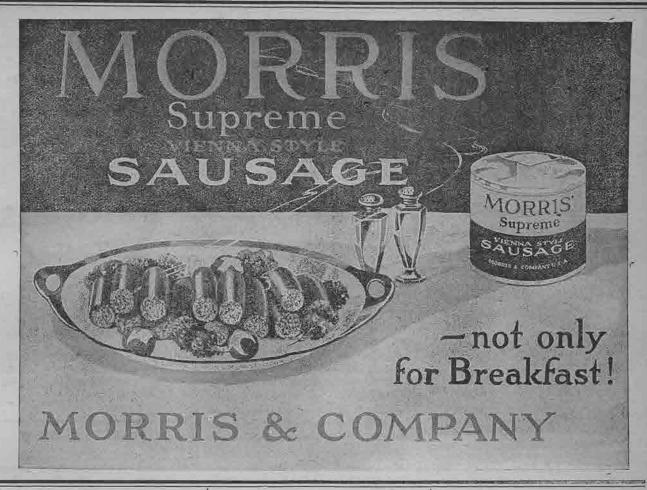

You are more ambitious and you get more enjoyment out of everything when your blood is in good condition. Impurities in the blood have a very depressing effect on the system, causing weakness, laziness, nervousness and sickness.

GROVE'S TASTELESS Chill TONIC

GROVE'S TASTELESS Chill TONIC restores Energy and Vitality by Purifying and Enriching the Blood. When you feel its strengthening, invigorating effect, see how it brings color to the cheeks and how it improves the appetite, you will then appreciate its true tonic value.

GROVE'S TASTELESS Chili TONIC is not a patent medicine, it is simply IRON and QUININE suspended in Syrup. So pleasant even children like it. The blood needs Quinine to Purify it and IRON to Enrich it. These reliable tonic properties never fail to drive out impurities in the blood.

the blood.
The Strength-Creating Power of GROVE'S TASTELESS Chill TONIC has made it the favorite tonic in thousands of homes. More than thirty-five years ago, folks would ride a long distance to get GROVE'S TASTELESS Chill TONIC when a member of their family had Malaria or needed a body-building, strength-giving tonic. *The formula is just the same today, and you can get it from any drug store. 60c per bottle.

Among the Colored Folks

Report for October.

On the first Lord's day in October Brother J. Hanon and I began a meeting at Tuscumbia, Ala. The brethren had got permission from the Methodist people to use their house, and we began; but after the fourth night we had to vacate and look for other quarters. We rented the Odd Fellows' Hall and preached in it two nights, and one made the confession while in the hall. After this the tent that was sent me from Capleville, Tenn., arrived, and we erected it at once, and from this the interest grew until seven precious souls had been added to the church of God. Brother Hanon is a splendid worker. He preaches here once a month, and he is loved by all. To my regret, he had to leave me after the first week. I remained two more weeks, preaching the gospel to old men and women who said they had never heard it before; and before I left almost every one I would meet would have his little Testament searching for what I had taught. I am always glad when I can get the people to reading. The brethren made me promise to come back in the spring and hold another meeting. The white brethren and sisters here are as fine a set of Christians as I ever met. They rendered valuable assistance in every way possible. It was a pleasure to meet these good brethren and talk with them through the day. They have offered to help us erect a house to worship in right away; so we are encouraged, and the future looks bright at Tuscumbla.

On the fourth Lord's day in October I visited Henderson, Tenn., and preached for the church that was planted there through my preaching four years ago; and I am glad to say that I do not believe we have a stronger congregation anywhere. They are all willing workers. Brother J. Hanon preaches for them once a month, and the results of his labors can be seen.

I am now (October 25) at Corinth, Miss., and will remain here one week, preaching each night. There are just a few brethren and sisters here, but they are faithful. We are planning to hold a meeting here in the spring. I want to labor "while it is day; for the night cometh, when no man can work."

M. Keeble.

At Work in a Pleasant Field. BY J. O. BARNES.

On October 15 I and my family (wife and daughter) left Lake City for New Smyrna, Fla., a point on the East Coast, to spend a few months in recreation and in preaching the gospel in new fields. Surely our lines have fallen in pleasant places in answer to our prayers for God to guide us into fields of usefulness; for the church at Turnbull Bay, four miles from this place, reached out their arms of love and led us into the open doors of their hospitable homes, and have made us welcome in a brotherly way. We have been placed in line with much labor in the vineyard of the Master, and we are busy preaching the message of salvation to lost sinners. I have baptized one soul into Christ. This little "City of Palms," located by the edge of North Indian River, on the East Coast of Florida, is indeed a beautiful place, and as pleasant as it is beautiful. The Atlantic Ocean is only two miles away, and one sitting upon the silvery Coronado Beach can see the mighty billows as they rise and roll. These disturbed waters bring to the ears of the newcomer a noise that seems horrible; but on continuing to gaze upon them they become more interesting and more beautiful, and one wants to linger long and to meditate upon the mysteries of the God who rides the waves, and who said to the angry sea, "Peace, be still;" then a calmer and more glorious vision causes one to behold the goodness of Him who made us in his own image.

BOILS AND CARBUNCLES

If you have Bolls, or Carbuncies, or Old Sores, send for a box of

THOMAS' SURE-CURE SALVE.

A SURE REMEDY, 80c per box.

DR. THOMAS, 852-J Argyle Ave. NASHVILLE, TENN.

The Best Cough Syrup is Home-made. Here's an easy way to save $2, and yet have the best cough remedy you ever tried.

You've probably heard of this well-known plan of making cough syrup at home. But have you ever used it? When you do, you will understand why thousands of families, the world over, feel that they could hardly keep house without it. It's simple and cheap, but the way it takes hold of a cough will quickly earn it a permanent place in your home.

Into a pint bottle, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to fill up the pint. Or, if desired, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, never spoils, and gives you a full pint of better cough remedy than you could buy ready-made for three times its cost.

It is really wonderful how quickly this home-made remedy conquers a cough—usually in 24 hours or less. It seems to penetrate through every air passage, loosens a dry, hoarse or tight cough, lifts the phlegm, heals the membranes, and gives almost immediate relief. Splendid for throat tickle, hoarseness, croup, bronchitis and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated com-ness, er asthma.

asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations for throat and chest allments.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

CANCERS CURED AT RELLAM HOSPITAL.

1617 West Main Street, Richmond, Va.

It is known beyond a doubt and admitted by most of the leading physicians and sur-geons that cancer cannot be cured with the knife, X-Ray, radium, or acids. Cancers are permanently cured at The Kellam Hos-pital, without the use of either. Physicians and surgeons treated free at the hospital.

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

For Your Consideration.

BY SARAH ANDREWS.

The town of Okitsu is letting us use the public hall for the Sunday school and kindergarten, and we are grateful, but it is not pleasant to use public property in a heathen town. A few Sundays ago we found several children standing outside while the building was being used in making preparations for a great Buddhist festival. One day as the children were being dismissed a drunken crowd came to use the building in the afternoon. Occasions like this are frequent, and, as a result, several of the chairs have been broken and the tables badly treated. The building Itself is not suited for the work, being small and inconvenient. There are usually about one hundred and fifty children present each Sunday, and we have only thirtyfive chairs. Some sit on the tables and some on the floor. One of the children said recently that if we had a better place many more children would come. Also, the location of the building is such that every child must needs cross the railroad in getting to it. This means that the parents and teachers can have little peace of mind, and, therefore, many will not allow their children to attend. It is indeed dangerous, and we have been made to shudder several times on seeing a little one barely escape.

It is evident that a house is badly needed for the work in all its phases. Houses for rent are scarce and rent is high. We searched two months before finding this wee Japanese house where we are living. All meetings, classes, etc., are held in our house; but aside from the fact that the house is small, the Japanese have a strong feeling of restraint on entering a private home, and often people come as far as the door, but by no sort of persuasion will they enter. Some have a feeling that they might impose upon us, and hence, should they enter, must bring a gift. Besides being not suited for the work, this house is in a very unsanitary location, there being an open sewerage on either side. The house is crowded in on three sides and is attached to a house on one side. This town is noted as a resort for luberculosis patients, and there are two or three patients quite near us; so we must be very careful.

In face of above conditions, a house is needed that the work begun may grow more rapidly and that we may have health to remain on the field. The need is urgent for a place both commodious and sanitary. One house with an upstairs can serve all purposes. The work can be carried on downstairs, and I and the girls who are with me in the work and Oiki San's mother can live upstairs. The

To abort a cold and prevent complications take

The purified and refined calomel tablets that are nausealess, safe and sure.

Medicinal virtues retained and improved. Soid only in scaled packages. Price 35c.

FOOT TROUBLES

No Need of Them, Says Brooklyn Man, Who Has Evidently Solved a Big Problem

According to the testimony of hundreds of people living in the Southland and elsewhere, J. R. Simon, of 1589 Broadway, Brooklyn, N. Y., has successfully developed a system of shoe building having for its prime object the conquering of foot and shoe troubles. It appears that Mr. Simon's establishment has become national headquarters for people whose feet require his remarkable comfort shoe, known as the EzWear, but obtainable only of the in-Mr. Simon's new catalogue shows several hundred shoes that combine comfort with style at amazingly low prices and is now ready for free distribution.

ASPIRIN

Name "Bayer" on Genuine

"Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" is genuine Aspirin proved safe by millions and precribed by physicians for over twenty vears. Accept only an unbroken "Bayer package" which contains proper directions to relieve Headache, Toothache, Earache, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Colds and Pain. Handy tin boxes of 12 tablets cost few cents. Druggists also sell larger "Bayer packages." Aspirin is trade mark Bayer Manufacture Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid.

HOW TO GET RID OF CATARRH

A SIMPLE, SAFE, INEXPENSIVE METHOD THAT CLEARS OUT THE HEAD, NOSE, AND THROAT.

There is no disease more offensive or disagreeable or no disease that will lead to as much serious trouble as catarrh. You can now get rid of it by a simple, safe, pleasant home remedy discovered by Dr. Blosser, a catarrh specialist.

Dr. Blosser's Remedy is composed of medicinal herbs, flowers, and berries, which you smoke in a dainty pipe or efgarette. The smoke-vapor is inhaled into all the air passages of the head, nose, throat, and lungs. It contains no cubebs or tobacco, and may be used by women and children as well as men.

This medicated smoke carries medicine where sprays, douches, and ointments cannot possibly reach. Its effect is soothing and healing and is entirely harmless. If you are a sufferer from catarrh, asthma, catarrhal deafness, or subject to frequent colds, you should try this Remedy without

Any well-stocked drug store can supply Dr. Blosser's Remedy in cigarettes or powder for smoking in a pipe, or will order it for you. Satisfactory results guaranteed by a genuine, money-back offer,

A trial package will be mailed postpaid to any sufferer for ten cents (coin or stamps) by The Blosser Co., 44DD, Atlanta, Ga., to prove its delightful and remarkable effectiveness -- Advt.

Antiseptic Analgesic Antiphlogistic (Prevents Infection) (Relieves Pain) (Allays Inflammation)

Oli Encalyptus Globulus Oli Peppermint Oli Pinus Silvestris Oli Wintergreen Menthol

Gum Camphor

Thoroughly mixed in proper ratio and sequence and at proper temperature, with refined Petrolatum base.

with refined Petrolatum base.

Eucapine Salve is rapidly becoming a household necessity. It is in constant use as a preventative of diseases of the air passages, and as a dependable curative agent in ordinary inflammatory conditions. Try it for nose sores, catarrh, catarrhal headaches, cuts, sores, burns, bruises. Splendid for sore feet. Will not blister. Full sized jar free to physicians with quantitative formula if desired, 50c the 2 oz. jar. Ask your druggist: or by mail from

Piedmont Laboratories, Inc.. Clinton, S. C.

Christians here all believe that a night school will be a great asset to the work. There is no high school in the town, and many of the children are put to work even before finishing the primary school. Many, therefore, have a desire to attend a night school. Brother Aoki thinks there will be one hundred or more students who will wish to come, not only from this town, but from neighboring towns and villages. In this way we can get acquainted with many young people and teach all who will be taught Christianity and thus gradually open up work in other places. The night school can easily be self-supporting. The proposed building can be used for the school, as well as for the Sunday school, kindergarten, church meetings, Bible classes, mothers' meetings, etc., and will afford a place for us to live, which will save the rent here. Such a building, including the land, will cost approximately six thousand dollars. This country everywhere is overpopulated and land is scarce as well as dear. There are several lots that might be had here, and I am asking the Lord that the one best suited for the work may be selected, if it is his will to stir the minds of the people of God to action in this matter.

Brethren, I submit the above for your consideration. It is hard to express in words the real need of such a building; but if you could see conditions, you would no doubt be more deeply impressed than by this feeble effort I have made in writing. This is the Lord's work, not mine. We are his servants, and must use our all for the advancement of his kingdom.

What is religion without the consciousness of a reverent and sacred Intimacy with our divine Guest? Take away my Lord, and earth becomes a dreary desert, time a cruel taskmaster, and eternity an abysmal gulf of horrible gloom. Vainly my soul exhausts itself with aspirations destined never to be satisfied. Society cannot prevent me from being solitary; prosperity cannot ease my woe; existence itself becomes an intolerable burden; and, after the wearisome and aimless journey of life, there remains in death but a step in the dark .- W. H. Aitken.

A Christian should keep in mind that he is not an orphan, and that it is his duty and privilege to ask much from his bountiful Giver.-Selected.

REMARKABLE REGOVERY

Extraordinary Curative Power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Philadelphia, Pa. - "I want to let you know what good Lydia E. Pinkham's pound has done me. I had organic troubles and am going through the Change of Life. I was taken with a pain in my side and a bad headache. I could not lie down, could not eat or sleep. I suf-fered something terrible and the doctor's medicine did me no good at all—my pains got worse instead of better. I began taking the Vegetable Compound and felt a change from the first. Now I feel fine and advise any one going through the Change of Life to try it, for it cured me after I had given up all hopes of getting better. You can publish this and I will tell any one who writes to me the good it has done me."—Mrs. MARGARET DANZ, 743 N. 25th Street, Phila., Pa. It hardly seems possible that there is a woman in this country who will continue to suffer without giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial after all the evidence that is continually being published, proving beyond contra-Vegetable Compound and felt a change being published, proving beyond contradiction that this grand old medicine has relieved more suffering among women than any other medicine in the world.

LEMON JUICE FOR FRECKLES

Girls! Make beauty lotion for a few cents-Try It!

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white, shake well, and you have a quarter pint of the best freckle and tan lotion, and complexion beautifler, at very, very small cost.

Your grocer has the lemons and any drug store or toilet counter will supply three ounces of orchard white for a few cents. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face, neck, arms and hands each day and see how freckles and blemishes disappear and how clear, soft and rosy-white the skin becomes. Yes! It is harmless and never irritates.

WHEN A WOMAN IS NERVOUS--WORRIED

Most women neglect their health. and for this they pay the penalty. Any woman will find that neglect does not pay. A little more attention to health would brighten up her If she asks her neighbors she finds that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription benefits a woman's whole system. It not only acts upon the troubles and weaknesses peculiar to women, but is an all-round tonic that braces the entire body, overcoming nervousness, sleeplessness, headaches, dizziness and a rundown condition.

All druggists. Liquid or tablet form. Send 10c.to Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y., for trial package.

ATHENS, TENE .- "I have been alling with feminine troubles for 25 years, and thought I would never be well. I had five different doctors, and was confined to my bed at times. A friend told me to try a bottle of Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and I got a bottle and took it, and felt so much better that I have never been without it since."-MRS. BECKEY CAIN, R. F. D. 4.

PREPARE FOR CHANGEABLE WEATHER

Many expensive doctors' bills are sayed by prompt action with reliable family remedles. Foley's Honey and Tar has been successfully used in thousands of homes in class of coughs, colds, croup, hay fever, and asthma. H. B. Miller, R. F. D. 10, Wooster, Chio, writes: "By the changing of beds and the weather, I took a very bad cold and sore throat. Four doses of Foley's Honey and Tar put me right in a day's time. I never took any medicine that gave such splendid results." It pays to get the genuine Foley's. Contains no opiates.

The Romantic Story of Southland's Favorite Shoe, EzWear

Some five years ago, a prominent citizen of South Carolina, visiting New York on important business, chanced to meet the maker of a shoe built on new and unusual lines; an enthusiastic admirer of its most distinctive features, case and comfort, had suggested the name "EzWear;" it was promptly adopted. The business man from the South, knowing how welcome such a shoe would be in his part of the country, urged that its remarkable qualities, including not only comfort, but style, durability, economy, be made known there. this has been done effectively is proven by the enormous demand that has sprung up in the South for EzWear Shoes. It is said that its sale there during the last twelve months has increased fully three hundred per cent. The distributor, Mr. J. R. Simon, of 1589 Broadway, Brooklyn, N. Y., says that all who wish to know about a shoe that combines all worth-while shoe qualities may have a copy of his money-saving shoe book for the asking.

"Baptists vs. Campbellites." No. 23.

BY M. S. MASON.

On page 40 Mr. Bandy says it is the office work of the Holy Spirit to regenerate the soul. How about the body? The regeneration or new birth of John 3: 5 affects the body, too, which is born of water. He says man is as passive in regeneration as in generation. Then why are infants not accepted in the new covenant? They, of course, are included because they are not morally responsible; but if they are passive and not active, why not they be born again, too? For the mysterious work of the Holy Spirit he quotes Matt. 19: 28 and John 1: 12, 13. There is nothing mysterious about the work of the Holy Spirit. He operates through a law, and that law is the word of God. (Rom. 8: 2.) Matt. 19: 28 has nothing to do with the individual change of heart. The word there refers to the institution of the new covenant, or the great work of restoration under the new dispensation. (John 1: 12, 13.) Mr. Bandy could not have chosen a passage more against Baptist theory than that. Note that certain ones were given power to become sons of God who believed on his name. This does not refer to Baptist material, for they are already sons when they believe. But these only have power to become sons of God by believing. Of course Mr. Bandy wishes to make much of verse 13. These are born, not of flesh and blood, nor of the will of man, but of God. This is contrasting the Jewish birth of flesh and blood and will with the spiritual birth, or of God. Nicodemus discussed this same proposition with the Master, and Christ told him what the new birth was. "Born of water and the Spirit"-that is, as the physical child is begotten of the father through the seed, the issue of his flesh, and born of the mother, even so we are begotten of the Spirit through the seed, the word of truth, and born of water.

He quotes John 16: 23 to prove the ever-abiding Comforter, which we grant, but includes John 14: 17, which had he omitted would have been best for his cause. "The world cannot receive." Mr. Bandy and his brethren call people to "the bench." They are of the world. Yet he calls on God to send his Spirit into them. But he does this in the face of the fact that the world cannot receive that Spirit. People receive the Spirit who are "out of the world." To be out of the world spiritually is to be in the kingdom of God; and to come into the kingdom of God, we must be born of water and the Spirit. (John 3: 5.) This agrees with what Paul says in Gal. 4: 6: "Because ye are sons [not to make sons]. God hath sent forth the Spirit of his

Don't Wear a Truss

BROOKS' APPLIANCE, the modern scientific invention, the wonderful new discovery that relieves rupture will be sent on trial. No obnoxious springs or pads. Has automatic Air cushion. Binds and draws the broken larts together as you would a broken limb. No salves. No lies, Durable, chean. Sent on trial to preve it. Protected by U. 8, patents, Catalogue and measure tights mailed free Send name and sidress today. BROOKS'

C. E. BROOKS, 443G State St., Marshall, Mich.

Where Did We Get the Bible?

TALKS ON THE BIBLE, NO. 2.

- I. In what languages was the Bible written?
- 2. Where was it first revised?
 3. How long did it take to write the Bible?

All these questions, and dozens more of interest to you, are answered in The Wonderful Story. Write to-day for it to

THOMAS NELSON & SONS. Authorized Publishers American Standard Bible

385-U Fourth Avenue, New York City.

Jacob Fourth Avenue, New York City.
The American Standard Bible text is used in 75 per cent of all Sunday-school periodicals, because it is recognized as the most accurate version that has ever been produced.

The American Standard Bible text is used by over 12,000,000 Sunday-school scholars to study their lessons from. They realize that they cannot procure a more reliable version of the Scriptures.

TETTERINE Drives Away Pimples

and leaves your skin soft and spotless. 60c at your druggist's or from the SHUPTRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

FRECK

Now Is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots.

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling asknamed of your freekles, as Othine—double strength—Is guaranteed to remove these homely spots.

Simply set an course of Othine—double strength—from your druggist, and apply a little of it night and maining and you should soon see that even the worst treekles have begin to disappear, while the lighter mes hars vanished entirely. It is seld om that more than one course is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a beautiful clear complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength Othine as file is sold under guarantee of money back if it falls to remove freekles.

THE SANITARY" Individual GUPS List of thousands of churches using our cops and FREE CATALOG with quotations sent uron request.

Sanitary Communion Gutfit Co., 71st St., Rockester, N. V.

His RUPTURE

I was badly ruptured while lifting a trunk a was many ruptured white lifting a frunc several years ago. Dectors said my only hope of cure was an operation. Trusses did me no good. Finally I got hold of some-thing that quickly and completely cured me. Years have passed and the rupture has never returned, although I am doing hard work as returned, although I am doing hard work as a carpenter. There was no operation, no lost time, no trouble. I have nothing to sell; but will give full information about how you may find a complete cure without operation, if you write to me, Eugene M. Pullen, Carpenter, 354 G Marcellus Avenue, Manasquan, N. J. Better cut out this notice and show it to any others who are ruptured—you may save a life, or at least step the misery of rupture and the worry and danger of an operation. of an operation.

FOOT COMFORT ASSURED Brooklyn Man Solves the Problem

It is no longer necessary to suffer agonies that are caused by misfit shoes; for Mr. Simon, of Brooklyn, has proven that he can fit perfectly by mail. Simon's EzWear Shoes are built to give every possible foot comfort; they are soft and stylish, and do not need breaking in. They fit like the proverbial pair, the minute you wear them. Every pair is guaranteed to give satisfaction and to fit perfectly.

Mr. J. R. Simon will gladly send a free catalogue of over 500 styles of EzWear Shoes to all who write him, along with his scientific, self-measuring blank. Write for your copy to-day, and give your feet their much-needed happiness. Address all communications to Mr. J. R. Simon, 1589 Broadway, Brooklyn, N. Y., and you will receive personal attention.

NOTICE!

We want to get in touch with all the brethren who are interested in Christian education and who want to locate where there is a good Christian college. For further information, write to

S. L. BRADLEY,

Morrillion, Ark.

MORE PAY FOR TEACHERS

We have hundreds of demands for teachers at greatly increased salaries. Send in your name to-day for enrollment. South Atlantic Teachers' Agency, 306 Walton Building, Atlanta, Ga.

Agents: 90c an Hour

Introduce "Soderese." A new wonder. A pure solderin paste form. Works like magic. 9 Stops all leaks. For mending water buckets, cooking utensils, milk pails, water tanks, throofs—averything including grante ware, agate ware, tin, iron, copper, ains, etc. Quick Sales-Nice Profit

Everybody buys. Housewive, mechanics, electricians, jewelers, plumblers, tourists, automobilists, etc. No leak too bed to repair. Just apply a little "Soderess," light a match and that s all. Put up in handy metal tubes. Carry quantity right with you. Write for sample and special proposition to agents. AMERICAN PROBUCTS CO., 2788 American Bldg., Cincinnati, Ohio

TO RELIEVE CATARRHAL DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES

If you have Catarrhal Deafness or head noises go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of parmint (double strength), and add to it ½ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clegged nostrils should open, breathing become easy, and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has Catarrhal Deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial. For sale by all druggists or sent on receipt of price 50c by Son into your hearts, crying, Abba, Father." He explains the fact that they pray for the Spirit though they already have it by saying: "They need his extraordinary power in reaching after the unsaved." But if God does all the saving, why should we have any power to reach? It would do no good, anyway.

He says Baptists believe in conviction and conversion by a direct operation of the Spirit associated with the word. I am glad to hear Mr. Bandy say "when associated with the word." That is nearer the truth than Baptists usually get. When we examine the Scriptures, we find that the word will do all that a direct operation will do. So what need have we for the direct operation?

He anticipates that we would accuse him of teaching "Holy Ghost baptism," since there is no middle ground between that and conviction and couversion through the word. He denies it, and yet he pleads direct operation, and that is equivalent to "baptism." Direct operation teaches the teacher; the teacher teaches the one to be saved by the law, or word.

He makes an erroneous statement on page 41, to the effect that none but children of God were baptized with the Spirit. Of course he tries to appropriate "Cornelius and his household." but Cornelius did not become a child of God until after his baptism. To become a child of God, we must be "born of water," and it was after the baptism of the Holy Ghost that Peter said: "Now who can forbid water?"

He is right by saying the one baptism of Eph. 4: 5 is water; but if closely pressed on Rom. 6: 4, 5, he will preach two in that one chapter. His direct operation to a certain degree is a baptism, and he cannot hold to that and contend for Eph. 4: 5. Of course, in order to hold up voting on candidates for church membership and his "church democracy," he must contend that the church must administer baptism. What church sent out Philip? What church voted on the eunuch? What church did Philip re-

The Inward Effects of humors are worse than the outward. They endanger the whole system. Hood's Sarsaparliis eradicates all humors, cures all their inward and outward effects. It is the great alterative and tonic whose merit has been everywhere established.

SOLD FOR 50 YEARS FOR MALARIA, CHILLS AND FEVER. Also a Fine General Strengthening Tonic. Arthur Peter & Co., Louisville, Ky. At All Drug Stores.

In answering advertisements, please ention the Gonnel Advocate

HAIR-For the

To make it soft, fluffy, and free from dandruff, use

TETTERINE

60c at your druggist's or from the SHUP-TRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

DON'T BE CUT Until You Try Ti Wonderful Treatment. This

If you have piles in any form, write for a FREE sample of Page's Pile Tablets, and you will bless the day that you read this. Write to-day. E. R. Page, 430-D Page Building, Marshall, Mich.

ORDER FEATHER BEDS

right from this ad. Don't wait! Absolutely no risk. We have $500.00 deposited with Security Savings Bank, to GUARANTEE SATISFACTION OR MONEY BACK. New feathers, best $ 02 ticking. Bed 25 lis., $10.90; 26 lbs., $11.90; 25 lbs., $12.90; 40 lbs., $12.90. Pillows, pair, $ lb., $1.95; 5 lb., $2.25; 6 lb., $2.05; 7 lb., $2.75. ORDER TODAY, or request catalog.

HYGIENIC BED CO., Dept. 22, Charlotte, N. C.

Easily Sawed by One Man with new OTTAWA. Get your own fuel at less than 2c a cord, then supply big demand for fire wood at $20 a cord up. Beat the Coal Shortage!

OTTAWA JOG SAW

Over 4 H-P. 310 strokes a minute. Wheel-mounted. Easy to move, cheap and easy to run. Engine runs other machinery when not sawing. New clutch lover starts and stops saw wing. New clutch lover starts and stops saw and say and say. Strickly Strickly Practory Price NOW. Write to Strictly aOne-Man Outfit Ottowa Mfg. Co.

Rheumatism

A REMARKABLE HOME TREAT-MENT GIVEN BY ONE WHO HAD IT

MENT GIVEN BY ONE

WHO HAD IT

In the spring of 1893 I was attacked by Muscular and Sub-Acute Rheumatism. I suffered as only those who have it know, for over three years. I tried remedy after remedy and doctor after doctor, but such relief as I received was only temporary, finally I found a remedy that cured me completely, and it has never returned. I have given it to a number who were terribly afflicted and even hedridden with Rheumatism, some of them from seventy to eighty years old, and results were the same as in my own case.

I want every sufferer from such forms of rheumatic trouble to try this marvelous healing power. Don't send a cent; simply mall your name and address, and I will send it free to try. After you have used it and it has proven itself to be that long-looked-for means of getting rid of your Rheumatism, you may send the price of it, one dollar; but, understand, I do not want your money unless you are perfectly satisfied to send it. Isn't ihat fair? Why suffer any longer, when relief is thus offered you free? Don't delay. Write to-day.

MARK H. JACKSON,
No. 827G Durston Bldg., Syraeuse, N.Y.
Mr. Jackson is responsible. Above statement true.

The strain of modern business life is too much for the nerves. You need a nerve sedative. Try

A Nerve Sedative that is recommended for Nervousness, Sleepleseness, Epilepsy, Hysteria, Chronic Headache, Nervous Irritation. and for use by those addicted to the Alcoholic or Drug Habit.

SOLS BY ALL DRUGGISTS

MILES HERMAL CO., Elkhart, Ind.

PARKER'S
HAIR BALSAM
Removes Danoyuf-StopsHair Falling
Restores Color and
Beauty to Gray and Faded Hair
60c, and St.00 at Druggists,
Hiscox Chem Wiss Patchegue, N. Y.

HINDERCORNS Removes Cosus, Cal-ousses, etc., stops all pain, ensures comfort to the cet, makes walking case, ibc. by anal or at Drug-ists. Hiscox Chemical Works, Fatchingue, N. X.

CHURCH NEWS

Alabama.

Oakman, October 25.—The meeting has just closed at Summitt's Chapel, in Tennessee, with five confessions and baptisms and the church edified. Among the number baptized was Dr. Nash, a prominent man; and he will be of much assistance to our Master's cause, both by influence and ability. I am to return to West Tennessee in 1 am to return to West Tennessee in 1922, the Lord willing. I am now in a meeting at what is called the "Tabernacle," a country church in Walker County, Ala., and trust that we may do much good in our Master's name at this country. at this point .- J. W. Ballard.

Florida.

Bradentown, October 26 .- Our work in Bradentown continues to prosper. The services here and at Cortez, Manatee, and Oneco are growing in interest, and the attendance is increasing. I have just closed a meeting at Anthoch, in Hillsborough County, with four added—one by confession and baptism, two from the Missionary Baptists, and one reclaimed. The Baptists, and one reclaimed. The church there knows how to care for a We are expecting great good to come from their earnest, firm stand for the truth. Brother Hoover, from Tampa, was with us two nights, speaking words of encouragement. He is doing a great work in and around Tampa. Brethren Prevatt, Cameron, Thompson, and others have labored here, and are held in the bighest esteem by the Antioch disci-ples.—W. M. Brumit.

Georgia.

Dalton, October 26.-I am in a meeting with the church here now. The meeting is three days old, with one confession to date. The weather is bad and the crowds are small. There is a great work to be done in Georgia. The brethren do not fail to speak a good word for S. H. Hall and Flavil Hall.-R. E. Wright,

Kentucky.

Louisville, October 26.-Last Sunday I was at the Forks of Elkhorn, in Franklin County. We had about two hundred and fifty at each service. This work is growing, and every one seems interested. We organized the Bible classes, and, if possible, every one will have something to do. I go next to Van Buren and Fairmount. will try to visit all the churches in Kentucky next year.—R. A. Craig.

Michigan.

Flint, October 26.-The Standish meeting came to a close Sunday evening, after continuing over three Lord's days. Eight were baptized and three were restored. The crowd could not be seated the last night of the meeting. They asked me to return as soon as I can.—Leslie G. Thomas.

Tennessee.

Pulaski, October 27.—The following is a brief report of my protractedmeeting work during the past summer

DODSON WOULD STOP SALE OF CALOMEL

Bays Calomel is Mercury and Acts Like Dynamite on Your Liver.

Dodson is making a hard fight against calomel in the South. Every druggist has noticed a great falling off in the sale of calomel. They all give the same reason, Dodson's Liver Tone is taking its place. "Calomel is dangerous and people know it, while Dodson's Liver Tone is perfectly safe and gives better results," said a prominent local druggist. Dodson's Liver Tone is personally guaranteed by every druggist. A large bottle costs but a few cents, and if it fails to give easy relief in every case of liver sluggishness and constipation, you have only to ask for your money back.

and constipation, you have only to ask for your money back.

Dodson's Liver Tone is a pleasant-tasting, purely vegetable remeily, harmless to both children and adults. Take a spoonful at night and wake up feeling fine; no biliousness, sick headache, acid atomach or constipated bowels. It doesn't gripe or cause inconvenience all the next day like violent calomel. Take a dose of calomel today and tomorrow you will feel weak, sick and nauseated. Don't lose a day's work! Take Dod-son's Liver Tone instead and feel fine,

Skin Tortured Babies Sleep Mothers Rest After Cuticura

full of vigor and ambition.

Sonp, Cintment, Talcum, 25c. everywhere, Forsamples address: Cutleura Laboratories, Dopt, V. Malden, Mass.

THE CROSS AND RESURRECTION (IN SONG).

By S. H. and Flavil Hall.

More than 200 songs; standard old songs in abundance, and the sweetest of the new. The fullness of the gospel. 35c per copy from 1 to 49; 39c per copy from 50 upward. Send your orders to

FLAVIL HALL, Trion, Ga.

"Diamond Dyes" Are Guaranteed

Colors never Streak, Run, Fade or have "Dyed" Look

Each package of "Diamond Dyes" con-Each package of "Diamond Dyes" contains directions so simple that any woman can diamond-dye a new, rich, fadeless color into worn, shabby garments, draperies, coverings, whether wool, silk, linen, cotton or mixed goods.

Buy "Diamond Dyes"—no other kind—then perfect results are guaranteed even if you have never dyed before. Druggist has color card.

has color card,

TREMENDOUS VALUE FOR 10c.

The Pathfinder, Leading Weekly Mag-azine of Nation's Capital, Makes Remarkably Attractive Offer.

Washington, D. C. (Special.)—People in every section of the country are hurrying to take advantage of the Pathfinder's wonderful offer to send that splendid lighter review of the world world world to the provider of the pr whole world eight weeks for ten cents. It costs the editor a lot of money to do this, but he says it pays to invest in new friends, and that he will keep the offer open until the Pathfinder passes the 300,000 circulation mark, which will be in a few weeks. Ten cents malled at once with your application to Pathfinder, 120 Douglas Street, Washington, D. C., will keep the whole family informed, enter-tained, helped, and inspired for the next three months.

THIS WOMAN FOUND RELIEF

Men and women suffering from backache, rheumatic pains, stiff and swollen joints, lameness and soroness, will be glad to read how one woman found relief from kidney and bladder trouble. Mrs. G. Hyde, Homestead, Mich., writes: "I have been troubled with weak kidneys, and several times in the last, ten years I had that terrible backache and tired-out feeling, scarcely able to do my work. Foley's Kidney Pills made me feel like a now person."

and early fall: On June 6 I began at Guin, Ala., and continued eight days. In that meeting there were no additions, our efforts being directed mainly along lines of church development. On June 27 I began a meeting at Sale Creek, Tenn., and continued nine days. During that meeting there were two baptisms, and elders and deacons were chosen. Beginning on July 25, I was with the congregation at Elora, Tenn. in a ten-days' meeting, which resulted in three baptisms. Elders and dea-cons were selected there also. On August 8 I began a week's meeting with the New Lasea congregation, in Maury County, Tenn. One man was baptized and one restored. From August 15 to 21 I was with the Old Catalpa congregation, in Marshall County, Tenn., in a short meeting, which resulted in one baptism. On congregation, in Marshall August 29 I began with the Cedar Dell Church, in Marshall County, and continued one week. During that meeting six were baptized. From September 5 to 13 I was with the Old Lasea congregation, in Maury County, Tenn, with four added by primary obedience. On September 19 I began with the Ephesus congregation, in Limestone County, Ala., and continued eleven days. During that meeting there were eighteen baptisms, one restoration, and one from the Baptists. October 12 found me again at Guin, Ala., where I began in June. Brother Charlie Nichols, of Berry, Ala., began the meeting on Lord's day before and preached till I could get there. I continued one week longer, and baptized one man. I am now at home, ready to begin my eighth year's work with the Pulaski congregation.-J. T. Clark.

Tennessee.

San Antonio, October 25.-Two by statement yesterday at South Flores Street Church.—C. W. Holley.

22.-The Plains Canyon, October country is an inviting field, and this place has me now for a meeting. West Texas Normal College is here, with some good people, and we hope for a successful meeting .- T. H. Mathe-

San Angelo, October 20.—Our church work here during the month of October has been excellent. Two more took membership with us last Lord's day. November 1 will mark the beginning of my second year's labors with the San Angelo church of Christ. Prospects for another pleasant and profitable year's work are encouraging.—T. M. Carney.

Fort Worth, October 25 .-Yesterday was a bad, rainy day here, but we had a large crowd and a fine day. The singing in the afternoon at Central was the finest yet. Brother Elam, of Tennessee, will begin a meeting at the Central Church on November 7; and John M. Rice, of Merkel, will assist the writer in a short meeting at Brooklyn Hights, this city, beginning on November 11. I will begin a debate on November 11. I will begin a debate with Elder S. T. Brogdon, a Methodist preacher, at the Southside-Central with Elder S. I. Brogdon, a memoria-preacher, at the Southside-Central Church, November 21, to continue four nights. Elder Brogdon poses as a great debater and scholar, so it is likely to be lively. He affirms that "Acts 10: 48 is translated wrong, and Cornelius was not baptized with water;" that "water baptism was de-signed of God for Jew, but not for Gentile;" that "water baptism conflicts with Paul's doctrine of justifica-tion by faith." Ever hear of the like? Well, if you are around handy to Fort Worth, attend. It will be good. Brother McClung will be my moderator.-Tice Elkins.

Mrs. H. M. Patton, Waverly, Mo., writes me: "I have fed two boxes of 'More Eggs' to my hens and I think they have broken the egg record. I have 160 white Leghorns and in exactly 21 days I got 125 dozen eggs." Any poultry raiser can easily make big profits this fall and winter by increasing the egg production of his heus. A scientific tonic has been discovered that revitaltizes the flock and makes hens work ill the time. The tonic is called "Mo" Eggs." Give your hens a few cents' worth of "More Eggs" and you will be amazed and delighted with the results. Now is the time to give "More Eggs" to your hens while prices are high and profits big.

$1.00 Package

Send the coupon below. Don't send any money Mr. Rector will send you two $1.00 packages of "More Eggs." You pay the nostman upon delivery only $1.00, the unice of just one package, the other package being free. The Million Dollar Merchants Bank of Kansas City, Me, guarantees if you are not absolutely satisfied your dollar will be returned at any time wilhin 30 days—on request. No risks to you. 400,000 users praise Rector's "More Eggs."

Results!-Read These Letters!

First Time Hens Laid During Moult

I have used your "More Figgs" Tonin since last fall and can surely say it has amply paid me. I have had chickens for 7 years and this is the first time they have ever laid through their moulting season.

MRS. C. LUGINBUHL, Norwood, Ohio.

Loafers Before, Layers Now

My hens have laid through moulting this year. It is the first time since I had chickens. They have always been loaders mult I used "More Eggs". Now they are good layers.

MRS. H. J. SCHULZE, Pittsburgh, Kans.

24 Eggs a Day During Moulting

Your 'More Eggs' Tonic certainly puts hear in good condition for laying. I had 175 hems that were moulting and I began feeding them your Tonic and got nearly 2 doz. eggs a day.

S. J. FRANKENBERGER, Logariton, Penn.

Send No Money!

Don't send any money; just fill in and mail coupon. You will be sent at once, two $1.00 backages of "MORE EGGS." Pay the postman upon delivery only $1.00, the extra package being FREE. Don't wait—fake advantage of this free offer ToDAY! Reap the Big profits "MORE EGGS." will make for you. Have plenty of eggs to sell when the price is highest. Send TODAY—NOW!

E.J. Reefer, Poultry Expert, 7258 Reefer Bidg., Kansas City, Mo. Doar Mr. Reefer:—I accept your offer. Send me two $1.00 packages of Reefer's "More Eggs" for which I arree to packages. You agree to refund me $1.00 at any time within 30 days, if both of these packages to prove satisfactory in every way.

Name .
ddress	***************************************

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

Hope.

Hope is unknown except among the Christians. The heathen world is hopeless. Four hundred million Chinamen look back and down, worshiping their ancestors. Three hundred million Hindus long to be lost in vague unconsciousness because active life to them is full of terrors. But since Jesus was resurrected the Christian is jubilant with hope. The grave has no terrors for him, for he knows he will never be down to it-it only receives his cast-off body. He shall live because his Lord lives. He shall never die, but shall some day simply move out of the tenement of his perishing body and be forever with the Lord. His friends who died in the Lord are not dead, but living, robed in splendors, throned in light, washed from every stain, and freed from every throb of pain. Blessed be God for the streams of light pouring forth from the open and empty grave of Jesus, flooding the future with joyous hope-hope that smites the face with radiance and that maketh not ashamed .- Selected.

Type and Antitype.

BY J. P. PAISLEY.

In the beginning God made Adam, the first man, by a miracle. At the end of four thousand years from the first Adam, the second Adam, Jesus, was born, or begotten, by a miracle. (Matt. 1; 21.) The first Adam was formed of the dust of the earth, hence the miracle. The second Adam was made a quickening Spirit, hence another miracle. God made the first woman by a miracle. (Gen. 2: 22.) She was the only wife or bride of the first man, Adam, and she was made or formed through the man. God founded the church in the world through Christ, the second Adam, to be his only wife or bride. (John 3: 29.) Christ's church, wife or bride, was established by a miracle. (Acts 2.) Adam existed before Eve existed. Christ existed before the church existed, for Christ said: "Upon this rock I will build my church." (Matt. 16: 18.) The first Adam slept before his wife or bride was manifested. God caused a deep sleep to come upon Adam, and took a rib from his side, of which he made his wife or bride. This rib was the price Adam paid for his bride, Christ fell asleep on the cross, his side was opened, and from it flowed blood and water, the price with which he bought his church or bride. (John 19: 34; Acts 20: 28.) Adam and Christ both fell asleep before they received their brides. Adam and Eve became one after Adam slept and rose from his slumber. Christ and his bride became one after he slept and arose from the tomb. (Matt. 28: 7.) Eve existed in the rib-raw material-before Adam

What is Nuxated Iron

Physician Explains - Says Public Ought to Know What They Are Taking - Practical Advice on What to Do to Build Up Your Strength, Power and Endurance and Increase the Red Blood Corpuscles

The fact that Nuxated Iron is today being used by over four million people annually and that so many physicians are prescribing it as a tonic, strength and blood builder in weak, nervous, rundown conditions has led to an investigation of its merits by designated physicians and others whose reports should be of great importance to the public generally. Among these is the statement made by Dr. James Francis Sullivan formerly physician of Bellevue Hospital (Outdoor Dept.), New York, and Westenstead (Outdoor Dept.), New York, and Westenste I became firmly convinced of its remarkable value as a tonic and blood builder. I have since the system and increasing the red blood cor-puscles thereby enriching and fortifying the blood against the ravages of disease.

THE BANE of old age is constipation. The bowels become weak and unable to perform their functions without aid. For this purpose only the mildest and gentlest laxative should be used. The use of harsh cathartics aggravates the trouble and makes the constipation worse. Chamberlain's Tablets are a favorite with people of middle age and older on account of their gentle action.

hamberlain's Tablets

slept, but not as a woman. The church existed in the disciples-the raw material-before Christ slept, or died, but not as a church. Eve existed as a woman after Adam slept, not before. The church existed as a church in the disciples after Christ rose from the dead, and not before. Children were born to Adam and Eve by the law of propagation, not by a miracle. Children are born to Christ and the church by the law of adoption (Rom. 8: 15; John 3: 5), and not by miracle. Hence, man cannot be saved in Christ and remain out of the church, or body. (Eph. 1: 22, 23; Col. 1: 18.) Adam's bride was named for him. "Woman" is a derivative of the name "man." Woman, "bone of my bones, and flesh of my flesh," said Adam. (Gen. 2: Woman, the wife or bride of man; the church, the wife or bride of Christ. Hence the type, Adam and Eve-fleshly family; the antitype, Christ and the church-spiritual family. The church of Christ is the only plant our Heavenly Father hath planted. Hence, "Every plant, which my Heavenly Father hath not planted, shall be rooted up," said Jesus the Christ. (Matt. 15: 13.) Then it is evident that God did not plant those denominations wearing unscriptural

Volume LXII, No. 46.

NASHVILLE, TENN., NOVEMBER 11, 1920.

$2.50 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

CURRENT THOUGHT	1102
An Earnest Appeal	1103
Church News	1112
A Graduating Exercise in Japan	1105
"Obey from the Heart "	1100
OBITUARIES	1110

Edifying as the Need May Be

Our Duty Toward Strangers.

Frequently we explain a man's success in this world by saying that he was the protege of some wealthy, influential. or wise-hearted patron, meaning that the very goodness of his benefactor was enough to insure success. The man standing alone and depending upon his own resources might have weakened and fallen down, but with the powerful help of his friend there was no chance for discouragement or failure. Nor can we think for one moment that the protégé is a weak-minded person, accomplishing nothing and leaving no heritage worth while. Be it remembered that Christopher Columbus was the protégé of Ferdinand and Isabella, and Lafayette was the protégé of Benjamin Franklin. In Bible history, Joseph was the protégé of Pharaoh, Moses was the protégé of a princess, Daniel was the protégé of Nebuchadnezzar, and Timothy was the protégé of Paul. And even in those cases where a devoted friend was lacking, may it not be truly said that nearly every great and good character in our history was the protégé of his mother?

This term may be correctly used to represent certain classes of people who come within the special providence of Jehovah. The word, which is derived from a Latin verb meaning to shield or protect, has a peculiar beauty and tenderness when applied to the Almighty's beneficiaries. Those beneficiaries are described in the twenty-second chapter of Exodus as the stranger, the fatherless, the widow, and the poor generally. In legal terms, these are God's clients. However little they may feel it or rejoice in the fact, in the great Creator of heaven and earth, they have a constant Friend and Invisible Protector. He is their great Patron. He identifies himself with their interests; he upholds their cause. An injury done to them he will resent as if it were done to himself, and he will call the wrongdoer to a strict account. If earthly law falls, let them cry to him, and he will put the law of right in operation with his own hands. The ground of Jehovah's interest is plain enough. He will protect these classes because he is gracious. The Mosaic law specially forbade exacting treatment of the poor. On the other hand, Ilberal help is to be afforded them. A neighbor is not to be harshly dealt with when driven to a strait. His garment, if given as a pledge, is not to be kept beyond nightfall, for "wherein shall he sleep?" This question is answered and the mercy of the law brought out when we explain that the upper garment of the Israelites was a large, square piece of cloth which they threw lightly over their shoulders, and which was also used by the poor as a coverlet at night. The law amounted to this: "Thou shalt not take away a poor man's bedclothes." What kindness breathes in these precepts! How justly does the law which embodies them claim to be the law of love! There is little ground for the accuracy of the statement, which some have made, that the religion of Moses was a religion of fanatical hatred for foreign people. No one can study closely the precepts relating to the treatment of strangers in the book of Exodus and believe such a statement. Israel's God wisely provided that they should come in contact with strangers in order to afford opportunity for the proper treatment. It is true that they were a separate race, distinguished from other races by their name, their religion, their dwelling place, their national customs and laws, and their national rite of circumcision. but God saw to it that their separation should never mean isolation. He intended that they should be the salt of the earth and the light of the world in their generation as Christians are to-day. Solemnly, indeed, they were enjoined to drive cut the Canaanites and trample down all idolatry, but at the same time it was a divine and glorious necessity that strangers should mingle among them. The many references to proselytes in the citation of Old Testament history by New Testament writers leave us under the impression that strangers were not infrequent among ancient Israel; and while in many instances John's expression was doubtless true that "many went out because they were not of us," it was also true that many came to us who were not of us." The Lord always knew who was his, and the Lord lovingly provided for the stranger within their gates.

The demand for this law providing for the stranger is a very striking example of human inconsistency, that inconsistency which allows men to soon forget their past condition. The children of Israel soon forgot that they had been sojourners in the land of Egypt. Their inconsistency was glaring, not only because they longed for the fleshpots of their former oppressors, but because they falled in sympathy for the foreigner. They had been sojourners in a strange land, and in a sense exiles from God's love, because of their sins. But he had shown compassion. He had delivered them from their enemies and led them out of Egypt with a high hand. But, forgetting all of these mercies, some of them had begun to wrong the stranger in their midst.

Just here let us ask a practical question: Are we as Christian people paying any particular attention to the strangers in our city? Do any of us appreciate what it means to be a stranger in a strange city? The first big city I ever visited was the city of Chicago. I went alone. There was something about the thronging crowds, the deafening noises, and the tall buildings of that city that not only filled me with a sense of awe, but with a sense of helplessness as well. I kept thinking, what would become of me if some one should take my pocketbook and I should be stranded in the midst of that whirling, seething mass of humanity where I did not know a soul, everybody intent on his particular line of business, with never a thought for the stranger? But what must be the desolation of the thousands of people who come to this country annually from foreign lands, who do not speak our language, who have no friends or money (except the twenty dollars that the government officials on Ellis Island require) and no work, most of them carrying all of their earthly possessions on their backs, and usually the baby is the heaviest asset? But that, you say, is a national problem, and you are right. But how about the strangers in our city? Well, you say the Y. M. C. A. will take care of them. Perhaps it will, if they are able to furnish goed references and pay the annual dues. But the chances are that the Y, M. C. A. will not hear of them. There are all sorts of human foxes that are waiting to snare them and entrap them. A great many of the devil's agents are ready and waiting to take the stranger in if the church is not alive to its duty. Our Father did not intrust this important matter to the Y. M. C. A. He gave it into the hands of Christian people. "Forget not to show love unto strangers" is the express command to the Hebrews. In citing the virtues of a Christian widow, the apostle Paul says if she is "well reported of for her good works; if she hath brought up children, if she hath used hospitality to strangers, if she hath washed the saints' feet, if she hath relieved the afflicted, if she hath diligently followed every good work," then she is worthy to be "enrolled." (1 Tim. 5: 10.) The stranger problem is our problem in another and a higher sense. Paul speaks of those who were strangers to the covenant of promise. He writes to the Ephesians of their former condition thus: "So then ye are no more strangers and sojourners, but ye are fellow citizens with the saints, and of the household of God." (Eph. 2: 19.) Every man out of the household of God-that is, the church-to-day is to that degree a stranger and needs our attention. He needs to be brought into the fold. How many strangers are there in your vicinity? How many aliens nestle around your house of worship? Christian brother, Christian sister, what are you doing for them? Do you ever think of them? Do you ever speak to them? Do you ever invite them to the house of worship? Do you ever call upon them for the express purpose of winning their souls? Because four or five sisters in a congregation are doing all the visiting is no reason why the rest of us should be indifferent. They can do their work, but they cannot do yours and they cannot do mine. God is not going to bless us for feeling glad that somebody else does the thing that we do not care to do.

Half the world is on the wrong scent in the pursuit of happiness. They think it consists in having and getting and in being served by others. It consists in giving and in serving others.—Drummend.

"Bible Things by Bible Names."

BY JOHN TAYLOR.

Under the above heading in the Gospel Advocate of September 2 is an article written by Brother M. C. Kurfees. I have been reading Brother Kurfees' writings for a number of years, and have been profited by reading much that he has written. But during the last year I have seen several things written by him which I think are not in harmony with the teaching of God.

I have never written an article to the Advocate for publication, but I beg permission for this one to go before the readers of this paper.

The part of Brother Kurfees' article to which I want to call your attention is this: "We are to-day in the midst of denominationalism, which means that the people of God In this period of their history are unfortunately divided into clashing and conflicting parties precisely as they were divided in the city of Corinth in Paul's day, only the divisions of modern times are on a much larger scale, with the chances for confusion in the use of Biblical language greatly increased. . . The members constituting the different divisions or parties in the church at Corinth were. nevertheless, all in the church in spite of their erroneous teachings and practices, and in writing to them Paul addressed them all as 'the church of God which is at Corinth.' (1 Cor. 1; 2; 2 Cor. 1; 1.) . . . In precisely the same way to-day, when persons do what God has commanded them to do for that purpose, they enter into, and become a part of, his church, and their unfortunate denominational entanglement in error on other points in no wise affects this fact."

This case at Corinth (1 Cor. 1: 2; 3: 4; 2 Cor. 1: 1) cannot be applied as he here applies it. He says they were all members of the church of God at Corinth, and that they were calling themselves of Paul, of Apollos, and of Cephas. Yes, they were members of the church of God, for by one Spirit they had all been baptized into one body. (1 Cor. 12: 13.) They had begun to call themselves of Paul, of Apollos, and of Cephas after obeying God and thereby becoming members of the church of God. One becomes a member of the church of God by obeying God; but their calling themselves of Paul, of Apollos, and of Cephas was not in obedience to God, therefore they were not doing this at the time they became members of the "one body." They could not have become members of the church and at the same time say they were of Paul, of Apollos, and of Cephas, for Paul said that was carnal, or a sin; and no one can become a member of the church of God and at the same time be practicing sin. One might be in the church of God and be led into and practice sin, and thus be a child of God in error; but he cannot be practicing any sin at the time he is obeying God, by which obedience he became a member of Christ's body, for he must have turned his back on all sin and be doing only the righteousness of God.

Brother Kurfees says: "When persons do what God has commanded them to do for that purpose, they enter into, and become a part of, his church, and their unfortunate denominational entanglement in error on other points in no wise affects this fact." If one could obey God and at the same time join a denominational church—that is, be practicing sin, for it is a sin to join and be a member of a denominational church—he could become a member of the church of God and be a member of a denomination, too; but that is what he cannot do, for no man can obey God and become a member of God's house and at the same time be practicing sin.

It is a sin to join a denomination. If he joins the denomination in the same act that Brother Kurfees says makes him a member of the church of God, then in that act he sins, and can such act be obedience to God? No.

Baptism, with faith, repentance, and confession preceding it, makes one a member of the church of God. Baptists say it is a door into the Baptist Church. If one is a member of the Baptist Church, it is because he has been baptized (?) into it, and by that same act Brother Kurfees says one becomes a member of God's church. The act of joining the Baptist Church is a sin; but the same act that made him a member of the Baptist Church made him a member of the church of God, Brother Kurfees must say, if he is a member of the church of God; hence that sinful act made him a member of the church of the Lord. I do not believe it. God's word teaches no such as Brother Kurfees contends for in his article.

Brother Kurfees may say that the man did what he did to obey God and that it was not to get into the Baptist Church. Well, if he did not join the Baptist Church, he is not a member of it and is not a child of God in a denomination. I use the Baptists as an example.

Some may say that in some denominations they vote them in and then baptize them, and hence their baptism did not make them a member of the denomination. If one is a member of a denomination, he must repent of the sin of being a member of it and turn from the sin before he can be baptized into Christ; hence he would not be a child of God in the denomination, as Brother Kurfees contends.

A person must confess before baptism, for confession is unto salvation. (Rom. 10: 10.) Confess what? What he believes in his heart, What must be believe in his heart? That Jesus is the Christ. (Rom. 10: 9.) Therefore, one must confess with the mouth that Jesus is the Christ before he can be baptized. Denominational preachers do not teach those put under the water by them to do this, and those put under the water by them do not confess it. I say "put under the water" because I am sure they are not baptized. Those put under the water by denominational preachers confess that they believe that God has for Christ's sake pardoned their sins, before they are baptized (?). Then they have been taught a lie. They believe that lie. They go into the water confessing that lie. Can such an act be obedience to God? I am sure it is not.

Out of the teaching that Brother Kurfees here sets forth has come the practice of receiving into the fellowship of the church people from the denominations without baptizing them. It is wrong. If a man were to go to Brother Kurfees and make the confession that denominational preachers demand, he would not baptize him. But that same man can go to a denominational preacher and make the same confession that he made to Brother Kurfees on which he refused to baptize him, and the denominational preacher will baptize (?) him. And this same man, after being baptized (?) by the denominational preacher, can go to Brother Kurfees, and Brother Kurfees will say: "You are a member of the church; all you need to do is to leave off your denominational name." If the baptism (?) administered by the denominational preacher on the confession Brother Kurfees refused made him a member of the church of God, why should Brother Kurfees refuse it? Why not baptize him? Brethren, "think on these things."

There is a ship named "Sometime;"
Men dream of it, and wait;
One on the shore, impatient,
One at the household gate,
Thinking: "If it come not in the morn,
Then in the evening it may."
But one I knew, not thinking of ships,
Worked till the close of day;
Lifting his eyes at evening time,
There his ship at anchor lay.

-Irene Hardy.

A Group of Questions.

Brother McQuiddy: Will you please answer the following questions in the Gospel Advocate?

Did the "Paulites," "Cephasites," "Apollosites" and those "who were simply Christians" at Corinth constitute different denominations, as Baptists, Presbyterians, Methodists, and the Christian Church folks of our day?

If those factions in the church at Corinth had different places of worship, and each faction constituted "only a part of the church," to which part did that fornicator, of whom Paul spoke in 1 Cor. 5, belong?

In 1 Cor. 14: 23 Paul says: "If therefore the whole church be assembled together," etc. Does this mean that the "Paulites," "Cephasites," "Apollosites," and those "who were simply Christians" had union meetings, such as the denominations have to-day?

In 1 Cor. 11: 18 Paul says: "For first of all, when ye come together in the church, I hear that divisions exist among you; and I partly believe it." Does not this show that the "Paulites," "Cephasites," "Apollosites," and those "who were simply Christians" met together and were "the church of God which is at Corinth?"

Does not 1 Cor. 1: 12-15 show that all the "Paulites," "Cephasites," "Apollosites," and those "who were simply Christians," at Corinth, had been baptized into the name of Christ?

Is there any such expression in the New Testament as a "denominational congregation?" If so, where? If not, what are we doing when we use it? Are we "adding to what the Bible says," "taking from what the Bible says," or are we "speaking as the Bible speaks?"

Is the expression "a church of God," "a church of Christ," used anywhere in the Bible? If so, where? If not, what are we doing when we use it? Are we "adding to what the Bible says," "taking from what the Bible says," or are we "speaking as the Bible speaks?"

Would it be just as scriptural to say "a gospel," "a gospel of God," and "a gospel of Christ," as it would be to say "a church," "a church of God," and "a church of Christ?"

If we meet people (and we meet lots of them) who say they belong to "the Baptist Church," "the Methodist Church," "the Christian Church," and "the church of Christ," wouldn't common courtesy demand that we speak of them as such? Or should we refuse on the ground that "this is a purely sectarian use of the term 'church of Christ?'"

In "taking advantage of the advertising space offered in some of the city papers for announcement of religious services," would it be necessary for us to show our great biblical knowledge by saying "the church of God," "the church of the Lord," "the church of the first-born," "the church of the living God," "the house of God," "the saints," "the elect," "the faithful in Christ Jesus?" If "the church of Christ" is precisely the same thing, and means all that is implied in all the above terms, would it be scriptural for us, in our announcements, to use the term "the church of Christ?" Do you not think that we should at least dignify our announcements by using one of the scriptural terms to designate our place of worship?

There are several appellations, or terms, applied to Jesus Christ in the Bible. If we want to show that we are biblical surgeons, capable of dissecting the Scriptures and detecting every term that is applied to Christ, will it be necessary for us to accuse those who speak of him as "Jesus Christ the Son of God" of trying to fasten one name or term to him, to the exclusion of all other terms?

To avoid fastening one name or term to him, to the exclusion of all other terms, and thereby becoming sectarians, would it be best for us in taking the confession to ask: "Do you believe that Jesus Christ is 'the root of Jesse,' 'the root and the offspring of David,' 'the bright, the morning star,' 'the Lion that is of the tribe of Judah,' the 'Prince of Peace,' 'the Son of God?'"

Do "the Evangelical Church," "the Episcopal Church," "the Lutheran Church," "the Congregational Church," "the Presbyterian Church" immerse? If not, what kind of circumlocution is it that makes them "a part of the church of God?"

This "circumlocution" that we have to use to describe or designate "the church of Christ," if we would be understood, does it belong to the revealed or the unrevealed things?

John T. Lewis.

God's Provision for Man.

BY JAMES E. SCOBEY.

All things on this earth will come to an end. Mutability is stamped on all animal and vegetable creation, and all living things will die. The surface of the earth is undergoing vast changes, and Peter informs us that it shall be burned up; that the heavens shall pass away with a great noise and the elements shall melt with fervent heat. Then he says: "Seeing then that all these things shall be dissolved, what manner of persons ought ye to be in all holy conversation and godliness?" (2 Pet. 3: 10, 11.)

The child born of its mother becomes a man or a woman full of life, vigor, and activity; grows old, wrinkle-faced, white-headed, unsteady in gait, and sooner or later falls asleep in death. Old age, however, is not vouchsafed to all who are born. The infant falls from its mother's arms into an untimely grave. The lad and the lass were with their schoolmates in study and play, but they are not there now and will be no more. The young man and young woman were in the company of their youthful companions in the enjoyment of the social amenities of life, but now you see them no more. They have passed away from earthly scenes. And so it is with the husband, the wife, and all the aged and infirm. All must die.

God created nothing without some good purpose. "In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth. And the earth was without form, and void; and darkness was upon the face of the deep. And the Spirit of God moved upon the face of the waters. And God said, Let there be light: and there was light. And God saw the light, that it was good." (Gen. 1: 1-4.) At the conclusion of each day's creation God said it was good. The last of God's creation before he rested from his labors was man. Then viewing the whole of his creation, he said it was not only good, but "very good."

Man was created that he might glorify God and that God might bestow upon him the richest of blessings, both temporal and spiritual. The world is man's home while he lives, and from the ground must be draw his food and drink. God has not taught man the uses or possibilities of all the elements of the world. Man has never been able to fully understand the use or purpose of all the things in the animal, vegetable, and mineral kingdoms of the earth, which are visible, nor of the great and wonderful invisible forces all about him. Man has made many discoveries and inventions in reference to all these things, bringing them under his control, and using that control for his convenience, comfort, and pleasure. The book of nature lies wide open before man; and man is busily, and some sedulously, studying nature and nature's laws, with a most wonderful advance of knowledge of her possibilities. There seems to be no limit to what may be learned from the book of nature. What may be discovered or invented in the next decade, no one may predict.

But no one should become so fully engrossed or interested in the things of the physical world as to forget that there is another realm which is of far more importance in our lives than the things of the world. God would not only have man learn all he can from nature and its laws and to enjoy all the good things he has so richly provided for him in the world, but that he fail not to secure to himself those higher, richer, more lasting and more to be desired blessings of the spiritual kingdom, of which man may become a citizen. God has not left man to grope in darkness in his effort to secure the blessings of the kingdom of God. God, through Jesus Christ, has fully and clearly revealed to man that it is not all of life to live nor all of death to die in this world, but that though man die, he shall live again; and that life will, for happiness or misery, depend upon what his life has been in the world. If man becomes a citizen of the kingdom and serves God by doing God's will, he will be a faithful soldier of the cross and follower of the Lamb, and will enjoy the spiritual comforts, consolations, and happiness in the church, which is the body of Christ.

Now, in order that man's best interest for time and eternity may be assured to him, God has most graciously provided him with the means to know and to understand all the spiritual laws and powers of the kingdom necessary for him in seeking for a life of immortality in the world to come. The New Testament contains all he needs to know. In it the law of the Spirit of life is plainly and fully set forth, so that man need not be mistaken with reference to any duty or obligation to himself, his fellow man, to God and his Christ. Throughout all the ages past God has offered his guidance to man, but now, as in the past, the great majority of men are not willing to be led of God. God can be glorified and man blessed only when man does God's will. God has not left it to man to formulate systems of righteousness by which he may serve and worship him. Men have largely forgotten that Christianity is a heaven-suggested system of righteousness. It is not of man. It is the revelation of Jesus Christ. "God, who at sundry times and in divers manners spoke in times past unto the fathers by the prophets, hath in these last days spoken unto us by his Son." (Heb. 1: 1, 2.) And it will be wisdom on our part to hear him. Through his own personal teaching as recorded in the Gospels and through the teaching of his apostles and prophets he has shown us the way of life, in which if we walk he will lead us safely through the journey of life, so that "an entrance shall be administered unto you [us] abundantly into the everlasting kingdom of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ," (2 Pet. 1: 11.)

God gave man the earth and every living thing in it, and told man to subdue it. This is the effort of man, and that which God would have him do: but more than that God would have him do, and that is to subdue his own spirit, that he may harmonize his thoughts with God's thoughts, his ways with God's ways, and thus secure to himself the glories, honors, and the inheritance of eternal life.

Letter From John E. Dunn,

Marietta, Miss., October 30, 1920.—Dear Brother McQuiddy: In your recent letter you asked me to send you an article for the Gospel Advocate. I shall write this in the form of a letter, and you may do with it according to your judgment.

I love the Gospel Advocate. It has been a welcome visitor to our home since before my memory. My father was a daily reader of the Advocate and the Bible. For twenty-eight years I have been doing the work of an evangelist, and most of that time I have been away from home. All of these years, and many times far away from home, I have every week devoured the Advocate as I would a good letter from home. It has been a great source of comfort and help to me, especially in my lonely hours.

I am not much inclined to criticize the Advocate and do not like to hear any one else criticize it. The last issue (October 28) is very fine. It is full of cheering and encouraging news and helpful articles. The articles are every one edifying and leave the reader feeling an uplift. The church-news pages are spicy and encouraging. You know, Brother McQuiddy, everybody reads the church news. We all want to know what is doing out in the field among the churches and the preachers. Make that department as full and newsy as you can. It is your best hit with the readers.

I believe in being a booster. Boost anything that is worth doing at all. One time I asked Brother S. H. Hall what was the secret of Atlanta's marvelous growth. Only one larger city in the South than Atlanta. He replied: "Everybody in Atlanta is a booster for Atlanta. There is such a thing as the Atlanta spirit, and we all have the Atlanta spirit; and if you stay here a few days you will catch the Atlanta spirit, too, and be boosting Atlanta." Brother Hall is one of the greatest boosters for the spread of the gospel. His work in Georgia has aroused more favorable comment during the last fifteen years than any other work of the kind in the United States. This is because Brother Hall is everlastingly boosting his work. 1 like this. I wish we had a thousand more such boosters for the Christian religion as Sam Hall. I look for great results to follow Brother Hall's and Brother Riggs' labors in Los Angeles. You never find Brother Hall engaged in "profane babblings."

Why not inaugurate a crusade for the spread of the gospel? At a time when the world is struggling with the problem of reconstruction, why not we reconstruct ourselves and measure up to the demand of the age with our holy religion? I should love to see a campaign put on all over the United States to arouse every church and preacher to do his utmost to belt the globe with the gospel of Christ. I believe the opportunity is ripe for such a movement among all the disciples of Christ. Nothing succeeds like success. I believe the League of Nations will be adopted and in a short time every nation will join it. With the league will come a world-wide opportunity to spread the gospel. I believe through the good providence of God there is opening up unto us the greatest opportunity for world-wide evangelism we have had since the days of the apostles. Through the league will come freedom of religion in all nations. To my mind, it is a call from God for us to go forth and give the gospel to the people. May God help us to measure up to the demand of the times.

Sincerely,

JOHN E. DUNN.

Our Experience With Sommerism.

BY MR. AND MRS. C. A. MARSHALL.

[This statement by Brother and Sister C. A. Marshali shows the spirit of Sommerism. The effort of the Sommers seems to be to form a new denomination. The one thing which above everything else qualifies for membership in this denomination is opposition to teaching the word of It is to be deeply regretted that any God in Bible schools. man or any set of men would endeavor to form a new people and make opposition to teaching the Bible in schools the creed of that denomination. I am not surprised that D. Austen Sommer Indorsed the creed which was offered at Denver, Col., in which six men were proposed to manage the spiritual affairs of the church. A man is not able to the spiritual analys of the church. A man is not able to direct his own steps, as we are taught by the prophet, and yet D. Austen Sommer would put men over the entire church to "manage" its spiritual affairs. D. Austen Sommer has never yet allowed his readers to see my last article reviewing his creed, which he was under agreement to do. published every article from him, even published one twice, but still he declines to allow his readers to see my exposure of his position. The facts given by Mr. and Mrs. Marshall clearly reveal the evil influence of Sommerism .- EDITOR.]

For some years there has been a nucleus of a church in Santa Cruz, Cal., varying in size as people moved away, died, or became engrossed in business. Yet for eighteen years, at least, an attempt to keep house for the Lord was persisted in. At last more brethren moved in, and the church at Long Beach, Cal., sent J. J. Hogan to help build up the church. He preached a while, then reorganized the congregation, under his own leadership as an evangelist, making a new list of charter members out of the old list. He and those charter members agreed to adopt the plan of giving the "right hands of fellowship" as an ordinance, or act, by which to take members into the congregation.

Some of these "charter members" did not think much about it, and did not know that it was to be binding on all who might want to become members here.

With this preface, we want to fairly and frankly state our experience here during the past seven months. We do this so that all those whom we may be able to reach by this means may know just what is taught here with reference to entering any local congregation. We did not know until after we came.

We have lived for years among those who knew that we were in sympathy with the teaching of the Apostolic Review, as it appeared on the surface; yet we were treated kindly, with very few exceptions, by these people.

Last February we came here, and supposed we were about "lined up" with the brethren here, not knowing how extreme they were on the "college" question; so we thought we were pretty well in harmony with them. But we did not fully understand their doctrines. We had been here about two months, doing our Christian duty as faithfully as we could, when Brother Hogan asked one day: 'Why don't you put in your membership? Don't you believe what I teach?" Our reply was that we did as far as we had heard his teaching, except the "right hands of fellowship." (We had heard no preaching on that, but knew he practiced it, but did not think it was binding.) So we then asked him to let us go in without either giving or taking the "right hands of fellowship," and we would agree to say nothing about the matter that would unsettle the minds of any of the rest. We would not ask the rest to give up their practice. But he said that he did not think it would do, for it would cause friction.

We asked him for his Scripture on the matter, for we want an "it is written" for all rules of faith and practice. All the Scripture he could produce was a part of Gal, 2: 9, which he failed to quote any farther than the word "fellowship." Of course he did not quote this as authority, but drew an inference that it would be a good way to adopt to take members into the local congregation. In support of this, he gave us a tract to read, which set forth the fact that they teach that baptism only puts an individual into the church of Christ, but not into any local congregation. To get into any local congregation, the individual, be he a newly baptized believer, a reclaimed one, or one coming in from some other place by letter, all must alike submit to this act, the act of formally shaking hands with them, which comes during the hour of worship, before dismissal as an almost invariable rule.

Just about this time Brother Hogan went back East and stayed about three months, and we all tried to do our duty, and had very enjoyable, profitable meetings. When he returned, he seemed to be quite troubled about the condition in which he found the church. Naturally, when this new doctrine began to dawn on our minds, we studied the matter, and talked to brethren, believing that truth would bear the truth, and brethren talked to us, all trying to arrive at the truth as it is in Christ. The result was that on two occasions, when parties came forward for membership, only about half of the members gave them the "right hands" in a formal way.

Brother Hogan said again that there was no Scripture for the ordinance, but any church had a right to adopt any means or way to take members into the congregation, if the charter members agreed to it when they were organized, and that they did this here; so there was no other way to do. As we did not read anything about any such right in our Bibles, we wrote to the elders at Long Beach, asking them if they indersed any such teaching. Their reply was that they did.

Brother Hogan had become so disturbed by this time that he said to us, "I wish you had never come to Santa Cruz;" that they were getting along so nicely. We said that we were sorry, too, and the rest of this article will tell why we were sorry.

There had been talk of a tent meeting, and, as the time was drawing near, a brother suggested that they call a meeting and settle the matter. Brother Hogan said that it would be settled before the meeting started, and it would be settled satisfactorily to all.

The tent was put up and ready for use Sunday night. On Sunday morning Brother W. P. Reedy preached, and gave the usual invitation, and three came forward with a letter. Brother Hogan then took charge, read Gal. 2: 9 in part, as he usually does, and then announced a song, and told the brethren to go up in an orderly way and give these people the "right hands of fellowship." About half of the congregation responded, and that was the only settlement ever made. That night the meeting in the tent began. W. P. Reedy preached until A. M. Morris came, and then he occupied the pulpit.

Some of the brethren wanted us to present our church letter, and we consented, only for a test, as by now we had about decided that we did not want to go in. However, before we had a chance to both be present at the meeting, Brother Reedy made a visit to one of our advisers, with the result that shortly afterwards he said that Brother Reedy put up such a good talk on the "right hands of fellowship" that he was "on the fence" and wanted to have Brother Reedy to talk to us. Our reply was that we would be glad to have him come. He never came.

In some way something must have been noised abroad about our intention of presenting our letter, for there was no invitation given for two weeks, contrary to the usual custom of giving an invitation after every sermon. At the end of the two weeks the brother "on the fence" asked us to meet Brother Morris at his house and talk the matter over. So we went. There were five brethren and sisters present, all of them in favor of the "right hands of fellowship," besides our host and his wife.

The conversation started with a request to Brother Morris to explain Rom. 14: 14, 15. This he did at some length, being careful to put it in such a way as not to commit himself. Later he was told that we had waited for two weeks for a chance to present our letter from the church at Madera, and was asked if he would let us in on the same terms we had offered Brother Hogan. His reply was an emphatic "No." We explained that we were not asking any one to give up anything, but we did ask to be allowed the privilege of living and acting in all "good conscience." We had studied the matter in times past, and unless some scripture could be quoted as authority we could not submit to their ordinance.

When we told Brother Hogan that we could not, he said he could not see why, only because we had not been taught. So, now, Brother Morris scoffed at the idea of our consciences having anything to do with the matter.

When Brother Morris said "No" to our request, we then asked why, seeing that there is no command, precept, nor example for it. The "right hands of fellowship" is mentioned only once in the Bible, and then to send out instead of to take in, and that by the elders instead of the church, His reply was that all of the churches of Christ did it. This surprised us; for all the churches we knew of, except the one here, did not do it, and so we told him. He repeated that all the loyal churches of Christ did it. Then we began to inquire what he meant by the "loyal" churches and the "brotherhood," to which he had frequently referred. His reply was that loyal churches had taken a stand against those who were not actively opposed to Bible colleges, and said they did not recognize any others, and have adopted this way of taking people in, in order to be able to keep these "fellows from the South" from getting in, or, if they were in or got in, that they could discipline them as covenant breakers if they went wrong. Otherwise they were liable to say, "We do not belong to your church."

Our next question was to ask where their authority was for charter members of a local congregation getting together and legislating for the church. He quoted Gal. 2: 9, and said that when we perceived the grace that was given to a brother or sister, we gave them the "right hands of fellowship." We then reminded him of a time when two persons presented themselves for membership. They were strangers to him, brought no letter, so we did not see how he perceived anything in their case. This seemed to trouble him a little.

Brother Hogan has been here for at least two years on a stated salary, yet these people are opposed to a "pastor."

The brethren here desire to be set in order, knowing that they are scripturally prepared, but the preachers say that "there is no material;" yet there are those here who have grown gray in the service of the Lord, and have been elders elsewhere before some of these preachers even entered the work.

In conclusion, we wish to state that we wrote to Brother D. Sommer, giving him a brief outline of the matter. He gave us a little advice, and sent us an anonymous tract, which he asked us to read, saying: "If it converts you, let me know." It was the same tract that Brother Hogan had given us. We were surprised that a man whom we had respected as a spiritual leader would send out such a document, for the principles contained therein are the same that have caused the sects to adopt the errors we condemn them for. We have decided that such doctrine is unsafe, no matter from whom it comes, and we intend to cast our lot from now on with those who allow us liberty in Christ. Like the "prodigal son," we shall return to where we can feed on the pure word of God, both in practice and teaching, having grown afraid of the principles that can lead only to sectarianism and popery.

We speak advisedly on this matter, as the preacher has advised brethren to avoid us because we brought their teaching to the light, and also brought to light the fact that they say they do not force it upon any, when they have proven conclusively that they do do it.

"We walk by faith, not by sight." (2 Cor. 5: 7.) "So then faith cometh by hearing, and hearing by the word of Gcd." (Rom. 10: 17.) "Without faith it is impossible to please him [God]." (Heb. 11: 6.) "He that doubteth is damned if he eat, because he eateth not of faith: for whatsoever is not of faith is sin." (Rom. 14: 23.)

"But in vain do they worship me, teaching for doctrines the commandments of men." (Matt. 15: 9.) In this we see two facts that cannot be refuted. One is that these scribes and Pharisees were worshiping God. Jesus pronounced it worship, and in the same saying condemned it as vain, for it was doing of something not commanded by God. So we believe that to take or give the "right hands of fellowship" in a formal way, and to teach others to do so, and to insist that all brethren do this, would put us in the same class as these who were offering "vain" worship.

Brethren, can we afford to run the awful risk?

In Num. 16 is an illustration of the terrible consequence of getting tired of God's order, when Korah, Dathan, and Abiram determined to offer incense, as well as Moses and Aaron. We read that the earth opened and swallowed Korah and all his company. Then Moses spoke to the people the words of warning that the Lord had just given him: "Separate yourselves from among this congregation. . . . Depart, I pray you, from the tents of these wicked men, Depart, I pray you, from the tents of these wicked men, . . . lest ye be consumed in all their sins." Also, reader, read this carefully: "I beseech you, brethren, mark them which are causing divisions and occasions of stumbling, contrary to the doctrine which ye learned; and turn away from them." (Rom. 16: 17.)

Now there are just two ways to do-to obey God's order or to disobey. Which shall it be?

No sadder proof can be given by a man of his own littleness than disbelief in great men.—Carlyle.

J. W. DUNN.

LOS ANGELES NOTES

By S. H. HALL, 2669 North Sichel Street,

House of worship, corner Altura and North Sichel Streets. Take North Broad Street car to Sichel, then one block to left.

A Good Day.

Last Lord's day (October 24) was a good day for us in this city. It was planned for an all-day meeting and dinner at Sycamore Grove. How does this sound to you brethren back East-a picnic dinner the last of October? The brethren at Pasadena called off their forenoon service and joined us. Brother Samuel Witty and Brother Hoffman and their families came from Ontario. Brother Dial and family, of Long Beach, formerly of Mangum, Okla., were also with us. Our house was almost "packed full" for the forenoon service, and at the close Brother and Sister S. R. Larimer came forward and gave us their names to be placed among the workers of our local forces. Sister Larimer is a former daughter-in-law of Brother Davidson, of the Russell Street Church, Nashville, Tenn. It fills us more and more with hope and determination to have faithful souls like these to join us in the greatest work in the world. I wonder if we have ever gotten a real vision of the work! wonder if it is possible for us to appreciate it as we should! Have you ever tried to comprehend what it cost our Father to establish his church and kingdom among us? Have you followed Christ closely in his life here on earth and noted what he suffered and what it ultimately cost him to "show us the way?" Everything sinks into utter nothingness when compared to what he has done and the work he wants us to engage in. Then to think I have the privilege of being in fellowship with him in this great work! Do I appreciate it as I should? Can I? It seems to me the Christian has so much to fill him and thrill him! How our faces should shine with joy and hope!

O, it was a good day—October 24 was. But with it was a bit of sadness. I thought of thousands of friends dearer than life to me who were not here, and how I hungered to see them! And, Atlanta, I thought a bit of you. Well, the time is coming when the battles will all be over; then, with the redeemed of all the earth, we will be together through the endless ages.

I was so glad to find Sister J. W. Bradford, of Selma, Ala., who is spending the winter here with her daughter, Sister Joe Toronto, who lives at 1506 West Vernon Avenue. Sister Toronto has bought her a beautiful home here and means to make this her abiding place the remainder of her days. She had not been able to locate the church, but we hope to have her with us as a regular worker from now on.

* * *

A Good Letter.

I have ever loved and esteemed "the Dunn brothers," as we are in the habit of speaking of them. They are good men, and it is seldom you find a family that has come so nearly being wholly consecrated to the cause of Christ as the Dunn family. We favor our readers with the following letter that recently came from Brother J. W. Dunn:

Dear Brother Hall: I am watching with interest your efforts with other Pacific slope workers. I have a twofold feeling over your being there—viz., sorry for Georgia, but glad for California. Since laboring in California, a few years back, I have long since considered it the hardest field for Christianity of any place I have ever seen. So many forms of religion and mixtures of humanity. In my mind, it is harder than if you had only one foreign element to deal with, and I rather think it harder than if the whole of the population was one foreign element. Those ministers in California have had my overflowing sympathy for years, ever since I came face to face with the situation. I know nearly all those preachers personally, and can say that I do not believe any other State has a more worthy class of men. They are one hundred per cent. I have often thought if I ever plunged out into another needy, destitute field where work and workers are needed so badly, it would be California. I recently saw a slogan like this: "When two million Methodists go to God on their knees with a petition, it will be granted." I asked the Methodist leaders to let it read "all Christians" instead of "two million Methodists," and they cheerfully did so. If this should be done in behalf of California, all things else being equal, there will be great joy here and above, too. I hope and pray for great success there and elsewhere. This has been a fine year for pure Christianity, but why not 1921 greater? With kindest personal regards for you, family, and Los

Your brother,

On the above I will submit these comments:

Angeles workers, I am.

1. I agree with Brother Dunn that this is a hard field. Men who succeed here have to work in order to do so. I am glad to note what our brother has to say about the other workers in this State. Yes, they are good men and are willing to make sacrifices for the cause of Christ.

2. I call special attention to what Brother Dunn says about prayer. We need your prayers. Please do not forget us. And it is well to state here that you need to pray. are great people to quote and emphasize Matt. 7: 21: "Not every one that sach unto me, Lord, Lord, shall enter into the kingdom of heaven; but he that doeth the will of my Father who is in heaven." And certainly I do not want us to cease to quote and emphasize this scripture, but along with it we must remember this one also: "Rejoice always; pray without ceasing; in everything give thanks: for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus to you-ward." (1 Thess. 5: 17, 18.) Let us not forget it is his will that we pray without ceasing and in everything give thanks. And, of course, it is just as necessary that we remember that he wants us to rejoice always. I fear we do not pray enough, that we are not thankful enough, that we do not rejoice enough. It hardly seems possible to me for a man to live this joyful life without having the prayerful and thanksgiving life first. I think the former is the fruit of the latter. And I am wondering if some of us are so afflicted with envy and jealousy, which ever is born in the womb of selfishness, that we forget to pray for others. Are we filled with that spirit our Savior had that made it easy for him to be interested in others? May the Lord help us so to be. I must close, but with a poem many of our readers, doubtless, have seen, but which is worth reading and re-reading again and again:

Lord, help me live from day to day In such a self-forgetful way, That even when I kneel to pray, My prayer shall be for others.

Help me, in all the things I do, To ever be sincere and true, And know that all I'd do for you Must needs be done for others.

Let self be crucified and slain, And buried deep; and all in value May efforts be to raise again, Unless to live for others.

And when on earth my work is done, And my new work in heaven's begun, May I forget the crown I've won, While thinking still of others.

Others, Lord—yes, others! May this my motto be. Help me to live for others, That I may live like thee.

The only thing to do with an injury is to forgive it. What if we were able to strike back? Would that wipe out the wrong? Would it make us the happier? Would it solve anything? No, there would only be one wrong more done in the world—to go on in ever-widening circles of hatred and misery. When we forgive, the wrong ends with us. Then the great healing forces of nature have a chance to do their work.—J. R. Miller.

Home Reading

"Not As I Will."

Blindfolded and alone I stand,
With unknown thresholds on each hand;
The darkness deepens as I grope,
Afraid to fear, afraid to hope.
Vel this one thing I learn to know
Each day more surely as I go:
That doors are opened, ways are made,
Burdens are lifted or are laid,
By some great law unseen and still,
Unfathomed purpose to fulfill—
"Not as I will."

Blindfolded and alone I wait,
Loss seems too bitter; gain, too late.
Too heavy burdens in the load,
And two few helpers on the road;
And joy is weak and grief is strong;
And years and days so long, so long;
Yet this one thing I learn to know
Each day more surely as I go;
That I am glad the good and ill
By changeless law are ordered still.
"Not as I will."

"Not as I will!" The sound grows sweet
Each time my lips the words repeat.
"Not as I will!" the darkness feels
More safe than light when this thought steals,
Like whispered voice, to calm and bless
All unrest and all localiness

All unrest and all loneliness.

"Not as I will," because the One Who loved us first and best has gone Before us on the road, and still For us must all His love fulfill.

"Not as we will."

-Helen Hunt Jackson.

* * *

The Lost Kite.

Mark's uncle had helped him make the very finest kite in town, and had helped him to fly it that sunny Saturday morning. Up, up it went, higher and higher, till it floated like a graceful white bird against the blue sky. Mark held the stout new string, letting it out a little or winding it up as his uncle told him. His eyes shone and sparkled with excitement and happiness.

Other boys had gathered to watch. Big boys and little boys stood looking at the kite and saying nice things about it, which made Mark prouder and happier than ever.

"Let me hold the string," begged Carl.

"No, I'm afraid it would come down," said Mark.

"O, no, it wouldn't," cried Carl; "I know how to fly a kite as well as you do. Please let me." And he reached over and took hold of the string. Mark stepped back quickly, tripped over a stick, and down he fell, letting go of the kite string, which was wrapped about a tiny bit of wood. Both Mark and Carl tried to catch it, but it bounded out of their reach, and in a twinkling the last bit of string had unwound and the kite was free.

"See what you've done!" cried Mark; and even as he spoke the kite pitched and turned and came dashing down. They watched it drop into a tree, where it hung, all bent and broken and spoiled.

Poor Mark ran home, ashamed to let the boys see him cry, but too broken-hearted to keep from it. His uncle was just hurrying off for the train, but he said, consolingly: "Never mind, I'll try to make you another kite sometime."

"It won't be that kite, though," sobbed Mark.

All the next day Mark ran away whenever he saw Carl coming, and he felt cross and unhappy. "It's all Carl's fault," he said. He did not enjoy Sunday school because Carl was in the class. The teacher did not say anything about the kite, but she told a story about a ragged old man whom she had seen the day before, selling penells on the street. A rude boy gave his tray a push, and down went the pencils, all the carefully sorted piles mixed up. The old man looked worried and troubled as he gathered them up and brushed off the dust, but by the time a customer came along he was ready to smile again. "O, the boy didn't mean to do me harm," he said: "and it wouldn't help him or help me to spoil my day by being cross about it. That wasn't Christ's way of treating the people who treated him badly."

"I don't know how that boy felt," added the teacher; "but if he came back to that corner many times, we may be pretty sure he was sorry and ashamed for what he had done, because the old man would be sure to be kind and politic to him."

"You and I couldn't count," she said, "the many, many times every day that somebody has to forgive us for something we have done."

Suddenly Mark looked at Carl. "I'm awfully sorry about the kite," whispered Carl.

"O, that's all right," whispered Mark; and all at once the ugly, unhappy feelings were gone, and two little boys were happy friends again."—Exchange.

0 0 0

Are You a Brick?

The dictionary says that the word "brick," used in this sense, means "an admirable or worth-while person." Some dictionaries say that you are using slang when you call any one "a brick." Others say that the word has had this meaning for so long that it is now good English. For our part, we like the word, and are very proud if any one sees fit to call us "a brick."

In any case, here is an old, old story that tells us of the very first time the word was used to describe a man:

In the golden days of Greece, so the story runs, when Sparta was the greatest and best organized city of the Greeks, an ambassador once came from Epirus to Sparta, and was received very graciously by the ruler of that city. The ambassador was particularly eager to find out wherein lay the strength of that little city, which, together with its sister cities of the Helienic peninsula, had for years dominated the whole south of Europe.

The ruler of Sparta showed his guest all the Imposing sights of the city: the Acropolis, the royal buildings where the priests, judges, and generals met to decide affairs of State, and the homes of the wealthier Spartans. The guest was surprised to find no walls around the city.

"Sire," he exclaimed, "I have visited nearly all the towns in Greece, but I find no walls for their defense. Why is this?"

"Indeed," the king replied, "you cannot have looked carefully. Come with me to-morrow, and I will show you the walls of Sparta,"

The next day the king took him and showed him the Spartan soldiers and said: "Behold, ten thousand soldiers, and every man'a brick,"—The Boys' Comrade.

$ $ $

The world by human wisdom could never find God, and he had to be revealed. The world by human wisdom would never follow God, but the power of the Holy Ghost through the wisdom and understanding of consecrated men and wisdom of every age has been spreading the reign of the King. From the great heads of the church of God to the humblest teacher in Sunday school, the instrument God's kingdom needs is the patient reading of God's truth, and patient thought on God's message under the power of the Spirit.—J. H. Eccleston.

Conducted for a half century by D. Lipscomb and E. G. Sewell.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

$2.50 a year, in advance; to Canada and foreign countries, $3.00, in advance

Remittances will be at our risk when sent by express or post-office money order, in registered letter, or by draft payable to our order.

The date on your tab shows the time to which your subscription is paid. When money is received, the date will be changed, which will answer for a receipt. Two weeks time must ordinarily occur from the time your remittance is sent before the tab on your paper is changed; if not changed by that time, notify us at once.

This paper is mailed regularly to all subscribers until definite or-ders in writing are received and all arrearages paid in full. If you wish us to stop your paper, write us to that effect; but do not ask it unless you have paid all arrears, if there are any. Do not ask your postmaster to attend to it for you, but do it yourself.

When changing your post-office address, tell us your old as well as your new address; otherwise two papers might be charged to you. Subscribers, after paying for their papers, will favor us by noting whether the date on the address label is changed, and, if it is not changed within a month, by writing to us. We are careful, but mis-takes may occur or letters may be lost. Our rule is to change the date on the day payment is received; but the mechanical work of correcting and printing the list takes time, and payments even from near-by places may not appear the first week. Credits for payments from a distance may be even more delayed. Mistakes are easily

All communications should be addressed to Gospel Advecate, 317-

319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

Guarantee of Advertising.

All the advertisements in this paper are, we believe, signed by trustworthy persons. To prove our faith by works, we will make good to actual subscribers any loss sustained in trusting advertisers who prove to be deliberate swindlers. We shall not attempt to adjust triffing disputes between subscribers and honorable businessmen who advertise, nor pay the debts of honest bankrupts. To make this guarantee effective, in all cases say in writing advertisers, "I saw your advertisement in the Gospel Advocate;" and if anything goes wrong, notify us immediately in writing.

JACOBS & CO., ADVERTISING MANAGERS, Clinton, S. C.

Entered at post office at Nashville, Tenu., as second-class matter.

Published weekly at Nashville, Tenu.

The New Testament Church.

BY J. C. M'Q.

On page 1091 will be found a group of questions from John T. Lewis. I ask the reader to give them a careful perusal before reading this article. It is not my purpose in this article to answer these questions, only in a general way. If we can learn just what we are naming and just what constitutes the New Testament church, we may then be able to decide just what should be called "the church of Christ." I incline to the view that we are not under obligation to name anything which Christ has not named and to name something that is not in the New Testament. We should be deeply concerned to know just what we are and just how we stand in the sight of God. There is no doubt whatever about the safety of the person who does the will of our Father who is in heaven. For the time being we will leave out the consideration of denominationalism and of denominational names and ask ourselves if the man who does the will of our Heavenly Father will be useful in this life and blissful in the life to come. The Bible abounds in doing and in not doing the will of our Heavenly Father. Christ came down to do his will. Disciples of Christ should imitate their Master and walk in his steps. We learn from Matt, 7: 21-27 that the wise man hears and does the sayings of our Heavenly Father. He is compared to the man "who built his house upon the rock: and the rain descended, and the floods came, and the winds blew, and beat upon that house; and it fell not: for it was founded upon the rock." The man who hears and does not is "likened unto a foolish man, who built his house upon the sand: and the rain descended, and the floods came, and the winds blew, and smote upon that house; and it fell: and great was the fall thereof." When we come to the great judgment bar of God, Christ will not ask a man whether he was a member of any denomination or not. The man who is a member of the body of the Lord Jesus Christ and who has given the hungry to eat, the thirsty to drink, who has warmed the cold and has visited the sick, to him it shall be said: "Inasmuch as ye did it unto one of these my brethren, even these least, ye did it unto me." No matter what one's pretensions may have been during life; no matter if he has worn some denominational name and laid great claims to being a follower of the Lord Jesus Christ; if that one neglected to give the thirsty drink, to give food to the hungry, to visit the sick and those in prison, and to warm the cold, the blessed Master will say to him; "Inasmuch as ye did it not unto one of these least, ye did it not unto me." "These shall go away into eternal punishment: but the righteous into eternal life." Doing and not doing the will of the Lord is the golden hinge on which the pearly gates of the New Jerusalem swing. When those who have done the will of the Lord knock for admission there, these pearly gates will swing wide open on their golden hinges. and into life eternal they will go. On the other hand, when those who have not done the will of the Lord knock for admission, these pearly gates will be forever barred against them, and these shall go away into eternal punishment. Not one Christian can doubt the wisdom and the propriety of doing his very best to walk in the steps of Jesus. Every one should keep busy doing the will of our Heavenly Father. The apostle Peter, guided by the Holy Spirit, admonishes: "Yea, and for this very cause adding on your part all diligence, in your faith supply virtue; and in your virtue knowledge; and in your knowledge self-control; and in your self-control patience; and in your patience godliness; and in your godliness brotherly kindness; and in your brotherly kindness love. For if these things are yours and abound, they make you to be not idle nor unfruitful unto the knowledge of our Lord Jesus Christ. For he that lacketh these things is blind, seeing only what is near, having forgotten the cleansing from his old sins. Wherefore, brethren, give the more diligence to make your calling and election sure: for if ye do these things, ye shall never stumble: for thus shall be richly supplied unto you the entrance into the eternal kingdom of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ." (2 Pet. 1: 5-11.)

Christ gave up heaven with all of its grandeur and giories and came to this sin-cursed earth, died, and rose again on the third and appointed morn, in order to establish the church so that men might enter it and, in it, lead peaceable, godly, and holy lives. He said to Peter: "And I also say unto thee, that thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my church; and the gates of Hades shall not prevail against it." (Matt. 16: 18.) It is worthy of note that he did not say anything about building churches or denominations. Upon the truth that was confessed by the apostle Peter, the central truth of the Bible, he built his church. It might be well to inquire just here as to the number of churches he built. Did he build only one church, or did he build a number of churches? We learn from Paul's letter to the church at Ephesus that Christ is the head of the church: "And he put all things in subjection under his feet, and gave him to be head over all things to the church, which is his body, the fullness of him that filleth all in all." (Eph. 1: 22, 23.) We learn also from Col. 1: 18: "And he is the head of the body, the church: who is the beginning, the first-born from the dead; that in all things he might have the preëminence." Then, as the church is the body and the body is the church, we are led to the conclusion that the church of Christ is the body of Christ-one and the same thing. As we have but one head, it follows that we have but one church. It is a monstrosity to speak about a number of bodies' having but one head, just as much as it is to speak about one body's having a plurality of heads. Protestants who argue that Christ is the head of different bodies are as inconsistent as the Roman Catholics, who contend that there are many heads to the one body. Since we have learned that the body is the church and the church is the body, if we can learn there is one body, and but one body, then we will learn there is but one church. The Holy Spirit, through the apostle Paul, emphatically declares: "But now they are many members, but one body." (1 Cor. 12: 20.) So there is but one church.

Just at present we are not trying to decide who constitutes that one church, we are not saying that we are right and others are wrong, but we are simply calling attention to the truth of the word of God that Christ built only one church. As Christ is the way, the truth, and the life, so there is but one law of admission into the church of Jesus Christ. According to the teaching of the New Testament, whoever believes with all of his heart that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of the living God, whoever repents of his sins and is baptized into the solemn name of Father, Son, and Holy Spirit, that one thereby becomes a member of this one church or one body of the Lord Jesus Christ. same conditions make him a Christian that bring him into the church of Christ. It should be noted also that whoever obeys Christ, whoever does just what he commands, thereby becomes a member of the body of Christ, or church of Christ, and not a member of any human organization. There were prophets and teachers in the church that was at Antioch, this referring to the local congregation. It is also true that we read of the church at Corinth: "Unto the church of God which is at Corinth, even them that are sanctified in Christ Jesus, called to be saints, with all that call upon the name of our Lord Jesus Christ in every place, their Lord and ours." (1 Cor. 1: 2.) Again, we learn that Paul and Silas went from Syria to Cilicia confirming the churches. We learn that the churches were strengthened in the faith and increased in numbers daily. This all refers to local churches, such as the church of God in Corinth, the church at Ephesus, and the church at Philippi. "The church" is also used in the sense of including and embracing all Christians. We find that this is what Paul meant when he said: "For I am the least of the apostles, that am not meet to be called an apostle, because I persecuted the church of God." (1 Cor. 15: 9.) Whoever it is and wherever he may be, the person who believes with all of his heart in Jesus the Christ, who repents of his sins and, in obedience to the command of Christ, is baptized into the name of the Father, Son, and Holy Spirit, he thereby becomes a member of the church of Christ. This is the one church we read about in the New Testament, and every man who was a member of the church of God at Corinth, or anywhere else, was a member of this one body or church of Christ. The New Testament says nothing about the various denominations; hence, there is nothing about union meetings in it. Christians in this one body may make mistakes, may have their preferences over preachers and over other matters, but such preferences should not be allowed to rend the body of Christ. Such schism is wicked and sinful. "For in many things we all stumble. If any stumbleth not in word, the same is a perfect man, able to bridle the whole body also." (James 3: 2.) Those who are simply Christians, without reference to any denominationalism, are admonished "to keep the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace." (Eph. 4: 3.) In the light of the truth as revealed in the New Testament, it is not necessary for me to say that there are not Christians among the different religious bodies. The thing for me to do is to preach the gospel, to teach the truth, and to teach the people that all who obey the truth are members of the body of Christ. I have no right to draw a fence around those known as "Christians" or "disciples of Christ" and say that these are the only persons in the world who are Christians or who have obeyed the gospel. There is nothing in the word of God that permits me to use the term "church of Christ" in this limited and denominational sense. Any institution that is too small to embrace and include all who do the will of God and that is so broad that it takes in even those who do not do the will of the Lord is too narrow or too broad to be the church of Christ. The church of Christ is sufficiently large to include every responsible being on the globe who does the will of the Lord Jesus Christ, and no larger. As the disciples were first called "Christians" at Antioch, so now those who do the will of God should be called "Christians."

I have not attempted to answer Brother Lewis' questions, but have simply laid down the teaching of the New Testament in the hope that it may help us all to see more clearly God's way and to be just what he would have us be. I have not written in a controversial spirit, and hope that all who read what I have said will accept it in the spirit that it is given. If Brother Lewis has additional thoughts that he wishes to present, I should be glad to hear from him.

Another Critic of "Bible Things by Bible Names."

The series of articles on "Bible Things by Bible Names" recently published in these columns has elicited a number of enthusiastic indorsements, for which I feel grateful; but three brethren, failing all of them to represent correctly what the articles say, have written adverse criticisms. I am not only glad to give any proper criticism of my articles a place in our columns, but I feel grateful for it, though I deplore misrepresentation.

Following the criticism by Brother A. M. George printed in our issue of October 28, Brother John Taylor now comes forward with another, which may be found on page 1090 of this issue of the Gospei Advocate, and the reader will please examine it before reading these comments. It seems proper to say:

1. The criticism of Brother George and that of Brother Taylor, if I understand what they both mean to teach. surely sets forth a unique position. In fact, if their own statements correctly represent them, their teaching is remarkable. According to the language used by both of them, there is not a solitary Christian or child of God anywhere in any denomination on earth. Brother George, after saying the denominations are Babylon, says: "No man can be a Christian and a Babylonian at the same time." And. again: "God may have some prospective people in these Babylonish churches." And now Brother Taylor, commenting on my statement that, at the hands of denominational preachers, persons are sometimes buried with the Lord by baptism, doing the act to obey God, and that in such cases they become children of God in spite of the denomination, says: "Brother Kurfees may say that the man did what he did to obey God and that it was not to get into the Baptist Church. Well, if he did not join the Baptist Church, he is not a member of it and is not a child of God in a denomination." Now, I understand Brother Taylor to mean by this that there can be no such thing as a child of God in the Baptist Church, and hence no such thing as "a child of God in a denomination" at all. I understand Brother George the same way; for if "no man can be a Christian and a Babylonian at the same time," of course there are no Christians at all in any denomination or "Babylonish church," and he emphasized this by saying, "God may have some prospective people in these Babylonish churches," which means there are no people of God in any of them, but only people who may become people of God.

2. Now, it has been my understanding all my life, and is my understanding now, and it was the understanding of all the great reformers of the nineteenth century—the Campbells, Stone, Scott, and their successors, the Franklins, Lipscombs, McGarveys, and all others—that, as Brother Taylor quotes me, "when persons do what God has commanded them to do for that purpose, they enter into, and become a part of, his church." Why not? If doing what God commands for that purpose does not put persons into his church, pray how can they ever get into his church, and especially how can they ever know that they are in it?

3. My critic says: "If he joins the denomination in the same act that Brother Kurfees says makes him a member of the church of God," etc. But "Brother Kurfees says" no such thing. There is not one word in the article he criticizes that says "the same act" which makes one "a member of the church of God" makes one a member of a "denomination." If brethren are either unable to see what an article says or will not for any other reason correctly represent it, then in either case they should not undertake to criticize it.

There has just come into my hands another criticism of exactly the same kind from K. E. Ball, attributing to me things I never said, and on such misrepresentation he makes his criticism, saying that I "teach that all the different denominational churches are part of the church of Christ." I teach no such thing, and there is not one word in the series of articles on "Bible Things by Bible Names" that says any such thing. On the contrary, I was careful to teach that no one in the denominations is any part of the church of Christ except those who have obeyed what God has ordained for that purpose. Here are my words: "The Lord Jesus Christ and his apostles founded but one church, and it takes all of the parties or denominations into which it is unfortunately divided, to the full extent that those composing them have complied with the divinely stipulated terms of admission, to constitute that church." placed in italies the words that would guard any reasonable and thoughtful man from any such misrepresentation and unjust criticism. He also says he understands me to teach "that Alexander Campbell was the inaugurator of Christ's church." I hesitate not to say that if Brother K. E. Ball or any one else has no better conception of the meaning of language than to make such a charge against such an article, then he should not attempt any criticism of It at all. The editors of the Gospel Advocate not only do not object to any courteous criticism of anything they write, but they are glad to welcome it, and wish their brethren to understand that they do not hold themselves to be beyond making mistakes; but they insist that, when brethren undertake to criticize articles, they be sufficiently careful to represent correctly what the articles say, and not, as in the present case of these brethren, attribute to an editor things his article not only did not say, but things which he never thought.

It is altogether unnecessary to reply to Brother Taylor's other misrepresentations of me as to whom I would or would not baptize, or to make any further reply at all to his irrelevant article. I shall, therefore, dispose of the whole case by stating here three facts: (1) My articles on "Bible Things by Bible Names" do not contain one word that teaches we should accept any error on any question in any denomination, but they distinctly urge that we should reject all error found in any of them. (2) They teach that those persons among them who did exactly what God says to become a member of his church, no more and no less, are, all things else being equal, in, and a part of, that church, in spite of the errors in which they are entangled. (3) They teach that, in spite of having done these divinely appointed things which put them into God's church, they made a mistake in joining a denomination, and that we should exhort them to turn away from this and all other errors.

The Meeting at Franklin, Tenn.

BY F. W. SMITH.

Brother C. M. Pullias began a meeting with the church at Franklin, where I have labored so many years, the first Lord's day in October, which lasted seventeen days, resulting in thirty-seven baptisms, and one who had been immersed united with the congregation. The attendance was great from the beginning, and at times we were unable to accommodate all who were anxious to hear the word. There was no lag in either interest or attendance during all the meeting. Many came to hear Brother Pullias from neighboring congregations, and many who had never attended our meetings before came regularly. The preacher's work was up to "high-water mark," and all who have heard C. M. Pullias preach know that the preaching was well done. His knowledge of the word of God coupled with his apt and correct quotations of the holy Scriptures are remarkable and were the subject of common comment throughout the community. Brother Pullias possesses a rich, full, round, and melodious voice, and speaks with great ease to himself and his audience. The entire church and many "outsiders" were so insistent on his returning next year that he agreed, God willing, to do so.

SELECTIONS BY THE EDITOR

Teach by your lives .- Bonar.

The only way to have a friend is to be one.—Emerson.

One example is worth a thousand arguments.—Glad-stone.

A cottage will hold as much happiness as would stock a palace.—James Hamilton.

Our friends see the best in us, and by that very fact call forth the best from us.—Black.

In running their race, men of birth look back too much, which is the mark of a bad runner.—Bacon.

Dost thou love life? Then waste not time, for time is the stuff that life is made of.—Benjamin Franklin.

Taste is nothing else than good sense delicately put in force, and genius is reason in its most sublime form.—Chapter

A wrongdoer is often a man that has left something undone, not always he that has done something.—Marcus Aurelius.

Let a man take care that the circle of his petitions grows wider every week. The pathos and the tragedy in many Christian lives is this: their prayers are no bigger to-day than they were twenty or thirty years ago. Spiritual hospitality is no richer, there are no more guests in their heart!—J. H. Jowett.

There is something finer than to do right against inclination, and that is to have an inclination to do right. There is something nobler than reluctant obedience, and that is joyful obedience. The rank of virtue is not measured by its disagreeableness, but by its sweetness to the heart that loves it. The real test of character is joy; for what you rejoice in, that you love; and what you love, that you are like.—Henry van Dyke.

AT HOME AND ABROAD

F. B. Srygley preached at Leiper's Fork, Tenn., last Sunday.

Dr. W. Boyd, of Donelson, Tenn., paid our office a pleasant visit on Monday morning.

Nathan Harsh, a prominent brother from Sumner County, Tenn., was in to see us last week.

Prof. James E. Scobey will preach at Hillsboro, Tenn., on the second Lord's day in this month.

From Edward Clutter, Gentry, Mo., November 1: "We are having a fine meeting here. Thirty added."

John W. Fry, of Columbia, Tenn., came to see us a few days ago. He reports the Tennessee Orphans' Home doing Brother Daniel, from the Rock Church, Dickson County, was in to see us last week. He reports the church there working well.

- W. J. Johnson closed a meeting at a schoolhouse near Amite, La., on the fifth Sunday in October. Seven persons were baptized.
- T. W. Croom, of Center Point, Ark., wishes the address of J. M. Manley, as he has lost his letter and address. Can any one give it?
- R. V. Cawthon closed the meeting at Number One with twenty-two additions. He began a meeting at Gladeville, Tenn., last Sunday morning.
- J. M. McCaleb paid us a visit at this office last week. He had preached at Cedar Grove, on the Hyde's Ferry Pike, the night before, to a fair audience.

Six of the students at David Lipscomb College made the good confession at the last prayer-meeting service and were baptized "the same hour of the night."

W. W. Bates, our "drummer preacher," was in to see us last week. He has been drumming more than preaching for several weeks now, and reports business rather quiet.

Change of address: Alonzo Jones, from Brentwood, Tenn., Route 2, to 2515 Albion Street, Nashville, Tenn.; A. B. Barret, from 4315 Avenue G, Austin, Texas, to Murfreesboro, Tenn.

- I. B. Bradley, of Dickson, Tenn., called to see us on his way from a meeting at Cleveland, Tenn. He reports a good meeting, with five additions. We are always glad to have Brother Bradley visit our office.
- J. W. Grant preached to his home congregation, the Charlotte Avenue church of Christ, this city, at both services on Lord's day. The attendance was large and the attention and interest good at both services.

From Tice Elkins, Fort Worth, Texas, November 4: "My daughter, Garnett, was operated on for appendicitis in St. Joseph's Infirmary on Tuesday. Very serious, but doing well now. I hope for her complete recovery."

David Lipscomb, president of the Fanning Orphan School, was a pleasant visitor at this office on Saturday. He reports the attendance at the school larger than usual at this season, and all departments progressing nicely.

G. W. Riggs recently preached a week in Birmingham, Ala., and a week in Chattanooga, Tenn. He reports the cause as moving on nicely in both cities. He will be in Nashville and vicinity for the next two or three weeks.

From W. E. Chapman, Dry Branch, W. Va.; "C. D. Moore has just closed a good meeting here, with one baptized on confession and a good interest shown. There are only a few faithful brethren here, and many, many sectarians."

From H. M. Phillips, Tuscumbia, Ala., October 31: "The work here is doing well. I am in a meeting out from here about five miles. I will begin a meeting on November 8 at Piney Grove, about ten miles from here. Success to the Gospel Advocate."

It was with sincere regret that we learned of the death of J. H. Gregory, of Scottsboro, Ala., who passed away on the night of September 30 after an illness of about a month. The family of Brother Gregory have our deepest sympathy in this bereavement.

E. P. Watson called to see us on Friday. He was on his way to Dickson, Tenn., where he was to begin regular work with the church on Lord's day. We hope he may have a successful work there. They will have him evangelize in mission fields a part of his time.

James T. Harris, of Lawrenceburg, Tenn., was in to see us Monday morning. He was on his way home from a meeting in Dickson County, near Charlotte. There were three baptisms in the meeting. He reports that the Charlotte brethren have a nice new house nearing completion.

From J. D. Tant, Rogers, Ark., November 2: "I have just closed my last meeting for the year at Center Point, near Springfield, Mo., with ten baptized and three reciaimed. I start Sunday to Oklahoma for a debate with a Baptist, Then I shall be at home, working on the farm, till spring."

The interest in T. Q. Martin's meeting at Russell Street Church, this city, was so great on last Sunday that the brethren decided to continue this week. The largest audience ever assembled in the auditorium enjoyed the sermon on Sunday evening. Brother Martin is now in the zenith of his power as a gospel preacher.

V. E. Gregory preached for the Twelfth Avenue congregation, this city, last Sunday, both morning and evening. Interest in the Bible school is steadily increasing. There were three hundred and seventeen in the classes Sunday morning out of an enrollment of three hundred and fiftyone.

H. Leo Boles began a meeting at Childersburg, Ala., last Lord's day, to continue for ten days or two weeks. He recently held two interesting meetings in White County, Tenn., and one at Big Springs which resulted in nine additions. He also held a meeting at Corinth, where two persons were baptized and the church was united and strengthened.

Thomas H. Burton, of Union, S. C., says in a private note: "I am planning to make a trip among the churches in the near future. The trip will have a twofold purpose—(1) mission work, especially home work, and (2) to raise funds to complete our first building in this State." We hope the brethren will contribute liberally toward the work in South Carolina.

From J. C. Mosley, Ravenscroft, Tenn., October 28: "I am now here for a few days. I have held four meetings in White County, and in the four meetings eighty-two were baptized and eighteen restored. I am still going to preach all I can if the weather does get cold. I am on my way to Neverfail. Brethren, read more than you have been reading; for where you ought to be teachers, you have to be taught."

B. L. Douthitt writes from Henderson, Tenn., November 5: "Last Lord's day I filled Brother Paisley's appointment at McKellar Avenue, in Memphis. There were large audiences at both services. One made the confession and one took membership at the evening service. Brother Paisley is with the church at this place every Lord's day, and the church seems to be in good condition. The Freed-Hardeman College is doing excellent work at this time."

From John E. Dunn, Marietta, Miss., October 30: "The meeting at this place, after continuing two weeks, will close on Sunday night. It has been a good meeting. We have had fine audiences, and the gospel has been well received. Four have been baptized, two young men and two young women. I have been in Mississippi a month, and have averaged two sermions a day. It has been a fine time for me. I shall leave for home—Irving, Texas, Route 2—Monday."

From W. J. Johnson, Amite, La.: "We are very thankful to those who have aided in the work here. By their fellowship we are encouraged and made to feel more effectually the force of prayer. The one thousand dollars asked for has been reduced to seven hundred and sixty-five dollars and seventy-seven cents, which will soon be raised if brethren continue giving as they have given during the past few weeks. Since our last report we have received fifty-seven dollars and fifty cents. Send all gifts to W. J. Johnson, Box 87, Amite, La."

From W. Clarence Cooke, Tracy City, Tenn., October 29: "My meeting at Union Chapel, near Rockwood, closed on Friday night, October 15, with two additions from the 'digressives.' Our meeting here closed last night. While there was only one addition, the meeting was very well attended, and Brother Brewer delivered some very fine lessons that will no doubt bear fruit for the Master's cause, Next Lord's day I shall begin my work with the congregation here. Brethren, pray for us in this great work of faith and labor of love."

From R. A. Craig, Louisville, Ky., November 2: "Last Sunday I was at Van Buren and Fairmount, in Anderson County. Brother Pendergrass, of Denton, Texas, will locate in Louisville, and labor with three or four churchs in Kentucky. Beginning in January, I will tour the State in the interest of the churches. I am very anxious to visit every church that is now without a preacher. Brethren, if you know of any churches in this condition, kindly write me at 1740 Chichester Avenue, Louisville, Ky. I shall make every effort to help them find a man. Let us go to work in earnest. The denominations say we are making no progress, but standing still. We can do more work than ever and not violate a single law of Jehovah."

F. J. Rogers writes from Jackson, Tenn., November 3: "During my school days it was said that many of our boys, when they finished school, caught the first train to Texas. This is not true in my case. I remained in my native State, thinking I could do as much good here as elsewhere, and have labored and lived among my own people, have shared with them in sorrow and joy, hoping to accomplish much for my Master and the cause of Christianity. During the past few years I have been handicapped on account of sickness, but am able to do more work now than ever before. Now comes my time to go to Texas or remain in this State. Any church or churches wanting my services should write me at once, at 541 South Royal Street, Jackson, Tenn. I have just closed an excellent meeting at Bemis, my last meeting for the year."

From Will W. Slater, 1600 South T Street, Fort Smith, Ark., October 27: "Brother Slayton and I closed a meeting at Talihina, Okla., Thursday night, without visible results. However, we believe some good was accomplished. We found several members of the church there, and they promised to carry on the worship of the Lord. The Presbyterian church house is for sale, and the few brethren think they can raise some five hundred dollars or more. We will need to assist them in this matter. I will report more fully upon the matter later. We had two good services at home Sunday. I began at Harveyville, Kan., last night. I go from here to Estancia, New Mexico, for a meeting, then home for the winter. Loyal preachers are invited to attend our preachers' meeting at Fort Smith, beginning on December 28. Do not wait for a personal letter, but write me that you are coming."

From N. W. Proffitt, Paris, Texas, November 5: "I closed my meeting at Shady Grove, Ky., with a fine interest and two added to the saved. From this place I went to Nashville, Tenn., and preached one night at Sixth Avenue and Buchanan Street. One was restored. I promised to go back to Nashville next year. Quite a few of the brethren at Nashville asked me to locate with them and sound out the word from that place. I think of doing this in a year or so and give my daughter the advantages of the David Lipscomb College, I went to Hohenwald from Nashville, and preached from Friday night till Sunday night to interesting congregations. S. Houston Proffitt, one of our true and loyal advocates of the faith, is teaching at this place. I am now at home, after over three months' absence, but will leave Saturday for another meeting in Fannin County, Texas. I held nine meetings while in Tennessee and Kentucky."

From J. A. Hudson, Oklahoma City, Okla., November 4: "The meeting at El Reno closed after two weeks' time. From the point of additions it was a failure. So much of the time it rained, and rained, and rained. Then there was the election just at hand. Other things besides were a hindrance. But it is hoped that there was much done that did not reveal itself. Since returning home the brethren wrote me that they think we accomplished a lot, despite the fact that we had no additions. I am sure that the church was strengthened. The brethren expressed themselves as believing that I labored conscientiously, with a knowledge of the great gospel responsibility resting upon me. Last Sunday was a rainy day here, but we had a goodly number of the membership out for the services of the Master. One young man was reclaimed at the morning hour. Our plans for the new church home are going along nicely. We are confident that they will materialize."

A note from J. W. Dunn, Irving, Texas, dated October 25, says: "On my way home from Grandfield, Okla., where Ira Rice and I had closed a very interesting meeting, on the night of October 12. I was relieved of a large leather suit case containing much linen wear, suits, three Bibles

(one an interleaved one, containing my life's labors, invaluable to me), and two hundred and fifteen dollars in currency. The officers have had the case in hand since an hour after the deed, but no report yet. I also lost a book containing names and addresses of my correspondents for upward of twenty years, and will have to ask many to furnish address again. I was with the home congregation Sunday, and will continue with them during 1921." We extend sympathy to Brother Dunn and hope he will yet recover his books, anyway. There is little hope of recovering the money. This case reminds us that thleves are abroad in the land and that we must guard against their work.

From Vernon Rozar, Athens, Tenn., November 5: "I closed out a fifteen-days' meeting at Mount Bethel, in Blount County, last Lord's-day morning. Large crowds and fine interest, with one baptism—a gentleman who had passed beyond his sixtieth milepost. From all evidence given we know that much and lasting good has been accomplished. One man who has been preaching for the 'digressives' made a public statement that he had been teaching some things that were wrong. He said he would never again worship with the instrument. I am to be with these people again next summer in a meeting, the Lord willing. I preached here in Athens last night, and will preach again Saturday night and Lord's-day morning and night. I shall go to Cleveland, in Bradley County, Monday, for a few days, then will be in Middle Tennessee on a visit for a short while. I am open for meetings this winter. The Lord is with those who do his will. Let us keep busy."

The editor delights and labors to publish the truth, and nothing but the truth, but meets with many discouragements. Often he thinks of Elijah of old, and especially when he was under the juniper tree. The following letter from C. A. Taylor, of Louisville, Ky., speaks for I have read the 'appeal' in behalf of our little congregation written by Brother Rainey and published in last week's Gospel Advocate, and write to express our appreciation for this additional kindness and evidence of your interest. As I sometime ago wrote Brother Lipscomb, you brethren in Nashville have been extremely kind, and I hope you understand how much it has meant to us and how much it has contributed to the cause in this city. Had it not been for the faithful, untiring support given by the Advocate and its editors in the fight for uncorrupted Bible teaching, I confidently believe a large portion of the brotherhood would have been led clear off into the most extreme religious teaching and, consequently, erroneous practices. Error is rather fascinating to the thoughtless, but the system of Bible teaching by which it is supported logically and necessarily leads to error and extremes in religious conduct, and eternity alone will, in my humble judgment, reveal the magnitude of the good you have done in standing so courageously for the 'truth as revealed' and crying out so nobly against the elevation of 'man's opinions' to an equal position with God's holy word."

W. S. Long writes from Vernon, Texas, November 3; "It has been my good pleasure to meet with about eighty congregations since August 1, and the pleasure was multiplied by finding them in peace and making good use of their opportunities to save souls. My visits have been principally in Tennessee, Alabama, and Texas. My mission was to bring before them the need of the cause in Washington City and ask for a hearty cooperation. Some cheerfully responded to this appeal, for which the struggling band in the capital city are very grateful. For ten days I have been in Texas. Some of the noblest and most llberal-hearted people on earth live in Texas. It is a great pleasure to find men and women who are glad to give, and who do it cheerfully. The preachers of Texas, Tennessee, and Alabama have been so willing to assist me in this work, and to them I am grateful indeed. Some of the best preachers on earth live in Texas. Among those whom I have met in the last ten days are: A. O. Colley, L. S. White, rice Elkins, M. H. Moore, Warren Starnes, Edward Stewart, Thomas Milholland, E. V. Wood, G. Dallas Smith, C. E. Woodridge, Early Arceneaux, W. D. Bills, F. H. Greer, E. L. Cochran, Horace Busby, C. M. McClung, O. M. Reynolds and his father, and others whom I cannot recall. Ten churches visited in the last ten days pledged an aggregate eighteen hundred and sixty dollars, and three individuals pledged sixty dollars. Some of these pledges were partly paid in eash; the rest will be paid soon at one hundred cents on the dollar. We would be glad to have a concentrated effort by all congregations to raise fifteen thousand dollars by January 1, which would clear the property. My address is Box 1423, Washington, D. C. I expect to be at my post there on November 14. If you have friends or relatives there, write me."

Current Thought

President Obregon's Ideal for the Mexican People.

As a soldier General Obregon has no equal in Mexico, There is real ground for misgivings as to whether he will make the president Mexico needs. But he is reported to have said something recently that gives encouragement that he may prove to be much more than a soldier. Here is what he said: "I would rather teach the Mexican people the use of the toothbrush than to handle a rifle. rather see them in schools than upon battle fields. I prefer any day a good electrician, machinist, carpenter, or farmer to a soldier."—Christian Advocate.

It is encouraging to note that General Obregon prefers a good electrician, machinist, carpenter, or farmer to a soldier. He will prove a great blessing to the Mexican people if he will only teach them right ideals and true principles. If he will teach them it is better to be a good soldier of the cross than to be a good soldier of the Mexican government. which kills and destroys people, his work will not be in vain. Mexico especially needs at this time a president who will develop the people along lines that will lead them away from cruel war. The Mexicans appear to be belligerent, changeable, and ready to fight. If he will only encourage them to make good citizens, good husbands, and good Christians, his work will be lasting and very helpful.

* * *

Employing the Minister's Wife.

Recently the writer was called in conference with a member of the pulpit supply committee and recommended a most excellent man for the position. We think he will be located there. In the conference the committeemen asked: "But what of his wife? Is she a good worker? Does she lead in the work? Is she a good singer? Can she take charge of the children's work?" The questions were fired as if the minister's wife were being employed instead of the preacher. We know of some ministers' wives that make possible the holding of the job, but never receive a cent of salary. If you are employing an executive for a business corporation, do you ask if his wife is a good helper? Then why expect the preacher's wife to be a part of the bargain unless you are willing to pay two salaries? Is it right?-Arkansas Christian.

The minister's wife usually has a harder, more difficult task to perform than does her husband. I remember J. M. Kidwell said that if there were only two crowns when he got to heaven, one for him and one for his wife, he would place the brighter crown upon the head of his wife. minister's wife is indeed very helpful, and does perhaps a greater work than the minister himself. Churches that demand so much of the preacher and of his wife should see to it that they compensate the wife as well as the preacher. A Christian wife, an intelligent, devoted woman, does much to help her husband and to cause the people to rise up and call him blessed. A preacher who has a wife who is not sympathetic with his work and who does not mix well with the people is greatly hindered in his work. This being true is only the greater reason why consideration should be given to the wife of the preacher who is sympathetic with his work and who does much to advance it,

* * *

Appreciating the Ministry of Music.

Elisha was a great prophet and a great philosopher. Before addressing the troubled kings and attering the inspira-tion of victory, he said: "Bring me a minstrel."

Shakespeare advised:

"The man that hath no music in himself,

Nor is not moved with concord of sweet sounds, . . .

Let no such man be trusted."

Wordsworth reveals the secret of his glory in the simple confession: "Music in my heart I bore.

The Psalms were composed by a man whom Jehovah had "compassed about with song."

Rugged and austere Carlyle was wont to remind us that "music is well said to be the speech of angels."

Paul and Silas sought the sweet compulsion of music in the prison at Philippi. The great preacher sang his way through hardships from Antioch to Rome

Jesus led his disciples in singing on the night of his be-The angels had sung at his birth, and the multitude of the redeemed are composing a new song for the home-coming of the soul.

Musicians are benefactors. Stradivarius was a great apostle of good will. To make a musical instrument is to add to the world's store of happiness.

Every home ought to be a conservatory of music. The cradle song is one of the holiest traditions of the race. Every home should have musical instruments, and all the family should cultivate the divine art.

It was the custom of William Law to sing one of the great hymns dally at the hour of morning devotions. He felt its refining power in every act of his life.

A singing church is a winsome church. People like to go where there is good, soul-stirring music. The congregation that sings with the spirit and with the understanding is a harmonious, cheerful, heroic church. Music drives out strife, awakens hope, and stirs the heart to high deeds of service—when all the people sing.

The singing church is invincible. More victories are wen by song than the world dreams of.

Architecture is called "frozen music." We look upon a sunny, happy Christian, and are sure that we have seen a

"Enter a song singing" was a rule of the Greek drama. Christianity is the music of character, the lyric of life. Enter a song singing.-Christian Standard.

Every Christian and every church should cultivate music. There is no music sweeter than the human voice. How often do we see a matchless, splendid sermon ruined by poor singing! Singing without the spirit and without the understanding, singing that is indifferent and lifeless, dampens the ardor of people instead of inspiring them to move forward in all that is good and noble. Our churches need to give more attention to sacred songs. They should sing that which is scriptural as well as preach that which is scriptural. A live, active church has good singing, and sings with the spirit and with the understanding. A cold or lukewarm church, a church which is self-satisfied, usually has poor singing. Let our preachers, our elders, and our leaders give more attention to the song service.

* * *

For Parents and Preachers.

Christian leaders and careful parents are beginning to wake up to the possibilities for good or evil in the "movie" play. It is not to go unstudied, nor are its evils to pass unchallenged. A Dr. Twombley, speaking under the auspices of the Watch and Word Society, of Boston, recently declared that the Pennsylvania Board of Censors had examined one hundred and seventy-eight films and made one thousand one hundred and eight eliminations for indecency. He finds "a strain of deliberate and intentional rottenness for gain, pouring its subtle uncensored filth into the minds and hearts of ninety per cent of the children of the country. Never has the "movie" peril been more the country. Never has the "movie" peril been more acute; never have the promoters been so active in supperil been more pressing all attempts to form new boards of censorship. We confess not to have first-hand knowledge on this sub-ject, but we feel that we should pass these reports along for the consideration of parents, preachers, and teachers. No parent, however, should trust to the board of censors alone for either information or conviction about the morals of the "movie." Let them see for themselves and help put down the indecent "movies."—Christian-Evangelist.

It is encouraging to note that parents are waking up to the dangers of moving-picture shows. While no one condemns the picture show indiscriminately, yet it is certain that many picture shows should be eliminated because they are degrading and not elevating. It is a dark day for our nation when our young people must be fed on that which is entirely sensational and which appeals to the animal rather than the spiritual.

Hood's Sarsaparilla Makes Food Taste Cood

Creates an appetite, aids digestion, purifies the blood, and thus relieves scrofula, catarrh, the pains and aches of rheumatism and gives strength to the whole system.

Nearly 50 years' phenomenal sales tell the story of the great merit and success of Hood's Sarsaparilla. It is just the medicine you need now. Hood's Pills help-fine cathartic.

FOOT COMFORT ASSURED Brooklyn Man Solves the Problem

It is no longer necessary to suffer agontes that are caused by misfit shoes; for Mr. Simon, of Brooklyn, has proven that he can fit perfectly by mail. Simon's EzWear Shoes are built to give every possible foot comfort; they are soft and stylish, and do not need breaking in. They fit like the proverbial pair, the minute you wear them. Every pair is guaranteed to give satisfaction and to fit perfectly.

Mr. J. R. Simon will gladly send a free catalogue of over 500 styles of EzWear Shoes to all who write him, along with his scientific, self-measuring blank. Write for your copy to-day, and give your feet their much-needed happiness. Address all com-munications to Mr. J. R. Simon, 1589 Broadway, Brooklyn, N. Y., and you will receive personal attention.

An Earnest Appeal.

BY W. F. CORDER.

Thirty odd years ago, when I was only a lad of a boy, I packed my grip and started for the West; and after wandering around for sometime I located on a government claim near Jester, Okla. At this place I have been laboring long and hard to build up the cause of Christ, and to some extent have succeeded; but we have reached the point where we are going to make an appeal for help. Now, brethren, I know the calls for help are coming from many places, and I am sure some of them will not be heard: but I pray you, brethren, not to turn a deaf ear to this worthy call. Brethren H. E. Warlick and W. Don Hockaday closed a mission meeting at Jester on September 22, at which the brethren were stirred to make an effort to build a meetinghouse. At this meeting twenty-five hundred dollars was promised, together with a lot; but this will not build the house, and we cannot afford to fail now. So our only hope is in the liberality of the brethren in Christ. The condition, briefly stated, is this: The brethren in the Jester community for a number of years have been meeting in schoolhouses, from place to place, with all sorts of opposition, and in the summer we would throw our forces together and hold a mission meeting at Jester, it being a central point. These meetings have been good and many have obeyed the gospel; but they have been turned loose, like a family without a home, and many of them have gone back or grown cold and indifferent. Nothing else could be expected under such conditions. Now, brethren, just a little help, together with what we already have, will build a house that we will all be proud of, and eternity alone can tell the good we can accomplish. The building committee is composed of D. C. Jester, F. H. King, and D. A. Jackson.

[The above seems to be an appeal for a worthy cause, and we submit it for consideration .- EDITOR.]

Interpret the universe through the idea of God, place God and man in living relations to each other, and there will be consciousness of an order sublimer than any Nature reveals; an order which not only has room for the resurrection, but demands it, to the end that grace may reign through righteousness unto the glory of God. -Selected.

URINE Night and Morning.
Have Strong, Healthy
Eyes. If they Tire, Itch,
Smart or Burn, if Sore, YOUR EYES Irritated, Inflamed or Granulated, use Murine often. Soothes, Refreshes. Safe for Infant or Adult. At all Druggists. Write for Free Eye Book. Murine Eye Remedy Co., Chicago

STOPPED HER FITS

Mrs. Dellia Martin, a resident of Wurtsboro, writes that she stopped her fits with a medicine that she read about in the paper. She says she has not had a fit since she took the first dose, and that she wants every sufferer to know about this wonderful medicine and what it did for her. If you, a friend, or relative, suffer from these dreadful attacks, you are advised to send name and address at once to R. P. N. Lepso, 198 Island Avenue, Milwaukee, Wis., who is generously offering to send a bottle of the same kind of medicine he gave Mrs. Martin, free, to any sufferer who writes him.—Adv.

CHANGE ITS SPOTS

Mr. Dodson, the "Liver Tone" Man, Tells the Treachery of Calemel.

Calomel loses you a day! You know what calomel is. It's mercury; quick-silver. Calomel is dangerous. It crashes into sour bile like dynamite, cramping and sickening you. Calomel attacks the bones and should never be not into your system.

put into your system.

When you feel bilious, sluggish, constipated and all knocked out and believe you need a dose of dangerous calome! you need a dose of dangerous calome! just remember that your druggist sells for a few cents a large bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone, which is entirely vegetable and pleasant to take and is a perfect substitute for calomel. It is guaranteed to start your liver without stirring you up inside, and can not salivate.

Don't take calomel! It can not be trusted any more than a leopard or a wild-cat. Take Dodson's Liver Tone which straightens you right up and which straightens you right up and makes you feel fine. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and doesn't grine.

ETTERIN

Clears Baby's Skin

and drives off the rash and pimples. Harmless, Soothing, Fragrant.

60c at your druggist's or from the SHUP-TRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

Shave, Bathe and Shampoo with one Soap.— Cuticura Cuticura Soap is the favorite for safety razorshaving.

"THE SANITARY" Communion CUPS List of thousands of churches using our cape and FEEE CATALOG with quotations sent upon request.

Sanitary Communion Outlit Co., 71st St., Rothester, R. V.

Why We Should Bathe Internally

ADDS MANY YEARS TO AVERAGE LIFE

By R. W. Beal

Much has been said and volumes have been written describing at length the many kinds of balhs civilized man has indulged in from time to time. Every possible resource of the human mind has been brought into play to fashion new methods of bathing; but, strange as it may seem, the most important, as well as the most beneficial, of all baths, the "Internal Bath," has been given little thought.

To avoid any misconception as to what constitutes an internal bath, let it be said that a hot-water enoma is no more an internal bath than a bill of fare is a dinner.

If it were possible and agreeable to take the great mass of thinking people to witness an average post-mortem, the sights they would see and the things they would learn would prove of such lasting benefit and impress them so profoundly that further argument in favor of internal bathing would be unnecessary to convince them.

Unfortunately, however, it is not possible to do this, profitable as such an experiment would doubtless prove to be.

Faw people realize what a very little thing is necessary sometimes to improve their physical condition. Also, they have almost no conception of how a little carelessness, indifference, or neglect can be the fundamental cause of the most virulent disease. For instance, that universal disorder from which almost all humanity is suffering, known as "constipation," "auto-intexication," "auto-infection," and a multitude of other terms, is not only curable, but preventable, through the consistent practice of internal bathing.

How many people realize that normal functioning of the bowels and a clean intestinal tract make it impossible to become atck. "Man of to-day is only 50 per cent efficient." Reduced to simple English, this means that most men are trying to do a man's portion of work on half a man's power. This applies equally to women.

That it is impossible to continue to do this indefinitely must be apparent to all. Nature never intended the delicate human organism to be operated on a hundred per cent overload. A machine could not stand this and not break down, and the body certainly cannot do more than a machine. There is entirely too much unnecessary and avoidable sickness in the world.

How many people can you name, including yourself, who are physically vigorous, healthy, and strong? The number is appallingly small.

It is not a complex matter to keep in condition, but it takes a little time, and in these strenuous days people have time to do everything else necessary for the attainment of happiness but the most essential thing of all—that of giving their bodies their proper care.

Would you believe that five or ten minutes of time devoted to systematic internal bathing can make you healthy and maintain your physical efficiency indefinitely? Granting that such a simple procedure as this will do what is claimed for it, is it not worth while to learn more about that which will accomplish this end? Internal Bathing will do this, and it will do it for people of all ages and in all conditions of health and disease.

People don't seem to realize, strange to say, how important it is to keep the body free from accumulated body waste (poisons). Their doing so would prevent the absorption into the blood of the poisonous excretions of the body, and health would be the inevitable result.

If you would keep your blood pure, your heart normal, your eyes clear, your complexion clean, your head keen, your blood pressure normal, your nerves relaxed, and be able to enjoy the vigor of youth in your declining years, practice internal bathing, and begin to-day.

Now that your attention has been called to the importance of internal hathing, it may be that a number of questions will suggest themselves to your mind. You will probably want to know WHAT an Internal Bath is, WHY people should take them, and the WAY to take them. These and countless other questions are all answered in a booklet entitled "THE WHAT, THE WHY, and THE WAY OF INTERNAL BATHING," written by Dr. Charles A. Tyrrell, the inventor of the "J. B. L. Cascade," whose lifelong study and research along this line has made him the pre-eminent authority on the subject. Not only did internal hathing save and prolong Dr. Tyrrell's own life, but the lives of multitudes of individuals have been equally spared and prolonged. No other book has ever been written containing such a vast amount of practical information to the business man, the worker, and the housewife. All that is necessary to secure this book is to write to Tyrrell's Hygienic Institute, at 134 West Sixty-Fifth Street, New York, and mention having read this article in the Gospel Advocate, and same will be immediately mailed to you free of all cost or obligation.

Perhaps you realize now, more than ever, the truth of these statements; and if the reading of this article will result in a proper appreciation on your part of the value of internal bathing, it will have served its purpose. What you will want to do now is to avail yourself of the opportunity for learning more about the subject, and your writing for this book will give you that information. Do not put off doing this, but send for the book now, while the matter is fresh in your mind.

"Procrastination is the thief of time." A thief is one who steals something. Don't allow procrastination to cheat you out of your opportunity to get this valuable information, which is free for the asking. If you would be natural, be healthy. It is unnatural to be sick. Why be unnatural when it is such a simple thing to be well?—Adyt.

CHURCH NEWS

Arkansas.

Texarkana, November 1.-The Central congregation was set in order yesterday. Even though inclement weather prevailed, over sixty were present for the class organization as the beginning of an orderly system of teaching. The membership will number about sixty-five, with bright prospects for fast growth. No backbiting, no hobby riders, but all wide-awake Christians who are anxious to be about their respective duties. Four able men, well loved by all, were selected and four active, zealous as elders. men, highly esteemed by all, were appointed as deacons. The work of sacrifice is now in order, and we fondly anticipate a neat home in the central part of the city soon. At present we are using the Knights of Pythias hall, on State Street.-J. E. Wainwright.

California.

Dinuba, October 29.—I was in San Francisco last Sunday, and had the pleasure of hearing our venerable brother, T. B. Larimore, preach in the Richmond Hall at the eleven-o'clock service. It was an inspiration to hear this faithful soldier of the cross speak words of truth and love. I am now in Dinuba making preparations to begin my regular work with the congregation next Sunday.—William P. Walker.

Riverside, October 26.—I am glad to report that the church of Christ in Riverside is prospering. I have held a few meetings this year, but the most of my time has been spent with the church at home. Brother Witty (Ontario) and I "exchanged pulpits" one Lord's day. Last Lord's day we had a very large attendance, and six members were added to our congregation by "putting in membership." Interest is growing.—E. M. Borden.

Iowa.

Davenport, November 1.—Yesterday was a most enjoyable day for our little band. A short time ago I announced the marriage of Brother R. H. Parrish. Since their marriage his wife has been a regular attendant at the Bible class and church every Lord's day with him. Yesterday she made the good confession and was baptized into the one body, into Christ. Angels rejoice, and we rejoice with them and the angels. We give God the praise and glory, and feel that our efforts, though under most adverse circumstances, have not been a failure. May the Lord bless them, and may their lives be fruitful in his service.—J. C. Estes.

Texas.

Dalhart, October 29.—I am now at this place, on my way to Texhoma, where I will preach over Lord's day. I will preach at this place next week. I closed a meeting at Canyon last night, with two haptized. A great work could be done there. They are needing a house and a man to continually press the work.—T. H. Matheson.

ACUTE INDIGESTION SOON RELIEVED

Asheville Lady Finds Black-Draught An Effective Remedy in Her Family for Common Ailments of the Digestive Organs.

Asheville, N. C.—Mrs. A. K. Jarvis, 44 Woodrow Avenue, this city, says:

"I have used and heard of Thedford's Black-Draught for years; and I certainly have found it splendid for headache, sour stomach, indigestion, and other ills that come from a deranged liver.

"My husband and I keep Black-Draught in the house, and think it is splendid to keep off sickness. I have used it in small doses as a laxative, and there is nothing better.

"Black-Draught is a mild liver medicine; . . . any child can take it. I have found it splendid with them for colds."

Thedford's Black-Draught has benefited thousands in relieving liver allments. It helps to drive bile poisons and other unhealthful matters out of the system.

"Black-Draught" is a stand-by in thousands of family medicine chests. It should be in yours. Its use should help to keep the whole family well. Prompt treatment is often half the battle against many ailments.

Get some from your druggist to-day.

FOR MEN WHO WORK HARD

Factory workers, railroad men, farmers, miners, mill employees, and all men who work at hard, straining physical labor, are more or less subject to kidney trouble, Nature gives warning signals by frequent lameness, stiff joints, sore muscles, back-ache, and rheumatic pains. J. G. Wolf, Green Bay, Wia, writes: "Foley Kldney Pills relieved me of a severe backache that had bothered me for several menths. A few bottles fixed me up in good shape."

TREMENDOUS VALUE FOR 10c.

Washington, D. C. (Special).—An unusual offer is being made by the editor of the Pathfinder to send the paper to new readers eight weeks for ten cents. This well-known national weekly magazine contains all the worth-while news of the world, illustrated and presented in a most entertaining manner. It is clean, sincere, nonpartisan, reliable, well printed in large type. It puts everything clearly, fairly, and briefly.

Washington, the home of the Pathfinder, is the nerve center of civilization. History is being made at this world capital. The Pathfinder's illustrated weekly review gives you a clean impartial, and correct diagnosis of public affairs during these strenuous, epoch-making days. It is the only big weekly magazine at the seat of government. Send ten cents for eight weeks' trial sub-acription to the Pathfinder, 118 Douglas Street, Washington, D. C. The ten cents does not repay the editor, but he is glad to invest in new friends.

A Graduating Exercise in Japan.

BY SABAH ANDREWS.

We were invited this year to attend the graduating exercises of the primary school in Okitsu, where more than one thousand children are in attendauce. On being invited into the large hall, I was surprised to find the children and teachers all standing. The guests, too, were given a place to stand, and there we stood for a period of about two hours. The whole affair was very systematic in order, but strictly idolatrous throughout. The principal made a lengthy talk to the graduates, exhorting them to be loyal to their country and to their country's gods. They were required to bow in unison in worship toward the shrine of the god at Ise, which is more than two hundred miles from here. They believe this god came down from heaven, of whom the Japanese people are descendants; hence, believe themselves to be sons of the gods. They were also required to bow in reverence toward Tokyo to the emperor. The custom on this occasion is to go to the school shrine on the campus for worship; but this was a rainy day. The children are daily brought to worship at this shrine. They were told to take their diplomas home and go to the god shelf and worship their ancestors. The late Marquis Inouye, who has a large villa here, offered to give each star pupil in the school a sum of money, and on this occasion each year these gifts are awarded. The principal told all who received these gifts to go to the large statute of Mr. Inouye and bow in gratitude.

As I listened, the enormous task before us was more forcibly impressed upon me. The nation claims religious freedom, but in some respects, at least, it seems rather intolerant. If we were depending upon our own strength and wisdom, I suspect we would want to lay the burden down; but praise the Lord, he is working with us.

Humility Before God.

The man who sees God very big, naturally sees himself very small. The center of his universe is shifted from himself to God. It will no longer seem of great importance whether he himself is honored or slighted by men, as long as he is loved by God. He will no longer be sensitive to snubs, insults, or the humiliation of failure. He will no longer push himself forward and seek "the most honorable seat at the feast." In humility he will find freedom from much that destroys the peace and happiness of most men.

He will not set much store by the things that distinguish him from his neighbors. He will not let the accidents of birth, position, education, or money shut him up in a narrow ruf and cut him off from the common people.

He will not be a self-righteous Pharisee; for, compared with the difference between himself and God, the degree of wealth, honor, wisdom, refinement, and even goodness which separates him from other men will almost disappear. Before the throne of God all men are poor, ignorant, coarse, and evil, and all are able to become rich, wise, holy, and good, for all are able to become children of God and heirs of his kingdom. In other words, a Christian can be neither a prig nor a snob, for there are none in the kingdom of heaven.—Donald Hankey.

This Month and Catarrh.

Many people find that during this month catarrh is so aggravated by sudden changes of weather, indiscretions in the matter of clothing, and other things, that it becomes constantly troublesome.

There is abundant proof that catarrh is a constitutional disease. It is related to scrofula and consumption, being one of the wasting diseases. Hood's Sarsaparilla has shown that what is capable of eradicating scrofula also relieves catarrh and aids in the prevention of consumption.

It is not easy to see how any sufferer can put off taking this medicine, in view of the widely published record of its remarkable successes. It is called by its proprietors, "America's Greatest Medicine for America's Greatest Disease—Catarrh."

In some cases there is occasionally need of a thorough cathartic or gentle laxative, and in these cases Hood's Pills are taken with very satisfactory results

I have all the reason in the world to be humble. Without God I am nothing. Without his help and grace I can do nothing that is good. Without his word I know nothing. Of myself, I deserve nothing but nunishment. Of my own, I have nothing but faults, imperfections, and sins; an inclination to evil, an aversion to good, unruly senses, ungovernable passions, unreasonable affections.—Selected.

THIS GIRL IS A WONDER.

Do you want more money than you ever possessed? If so, learn to make nut and fruit bonbons. The business will net you $90.00 to $300.00 per month. You can work from your own home. All who sample your bonbons become regular customers. You start by investing less than $10.00 for supplies. Mary Elizabeth started her candy kitchen with $5.00, and has made a fortune. Cannot you do ilkewise? I will tell you all about the business and help you start, so you can become independent. Now is the psychological time to make big money, as sugar is cheaper and fine bonbons command phenomenal prices. Write to-day. Isabelle Inez, 356 Morewood Building, Plitsburgh, Pa.

Millions for a New Stomach

One of the greatest American millionaires said to his physician, "A million dollars, Doctor, spot eash and no grumbling, for a new stomach," and then the sick man grouned and turned away. All his wealth could not make him happy or contented, for happiness largely depends upon digestion. Without health where does happiness come in? After all the stomach plays a great part in everyday life. Without a healthy stomach and good digestion our blood is thin, watery and poor, our heart action is weak, our liver does not do its duty, and man is miserable and unhappy. Prevent disease by putting the house in order and strengthening the system against the germs of disease.

Dr. Pierce, of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y., years ago understood diseases and their prevention, and he discovered certain roots and herbs which were nature's remedies, and succeeded in putting them up in a form that could be easily procured at the drug store (liquid or tablets). This he called Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. This Discovery gives no false stimulation because it contains no alcohol or any narcotic. It helps digestion and the assimilation of such elements in the food as are required for the blood. It gives to the blood the food elements the tissues require. For over fifty years it has enjoyed the confidence of the American public. Try it now!

TETTERINE

Makes hair beautiful, free from dandruff, and keeps the scalp healthy.

60c at your druggist's or from the SHUP-

GIRLS! USE LEMONS FOR SUNBURN, TAN

Try H! Make this lemon lotion to whiten your tanned or freckled skin.

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into bottle containing three ounces of Orchard White, shake well, and you have a quarter pint of the best freckle, sunburn and tan lotion, and complexion whitener, at very, very small cost.

Your grocer has the lemons and any drug store or toilet counter will supply three ounces of Orchard White for a few cents. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face, neck, arms and hands and see how quickly the freekles, sunburn, windburn and tan disappear and how clear, soft and white the skin becomes. Yes! It is harmless. "Obey From the Heart."

BY A. M. GEORGE.

A very important question is involved in the words above, and that question is: What is meant by obeying from the heart? I will try to answer the question.

All intelligent people know that the heart is nothing more than a machine to keep the blood in motion and in a healthy condition. All except those unfortunates who have been doped by false teachers to such a degree that they have lost the power to reason intelligently know that it is with the mind, or intellect, that we think, reason, and understand. Before we speak or act, we must have the approval or disapproval of the mind; and when we speak or act with its approval, it is from the heart, mind, or understanding-not the machine heart, for it neither thinks nor reasons. If this be not true, then we might say and do very remarkable things. The mind, enthroned in the brain, is the ruler and director of the body in all its actions.

Why did those Jewish converts on the day of Pentecost ask: "What shall we do?" It was because they had been convicted of the murder of the Christ, and they understood that they must do something to get forgiveness or suffer the penalty. Not knowing what they should do, they asked the apostles. The apostle answered their question. They understood him, their minds approved, and they did just what they were told to do, and they understood that they were forgiven and were satisfied. They "obeyed from the heart" (understanding) the "form of doctrine," were "made free from sin," and "became the servants of righteousness."

I cannot see how any one can render obedience to God or men without understanding. If God commands me to do a certain thing and gives no reason for it, I must understand that the command is given and what the command is, or I cannot obey. If he commands me to do another thing, or the same thing, and gives his reason for it, I must understand that also. He does not give a reason or make a promise that is unnecessary; and if necessary for him to give his reason, it is surely necessary for me to understand it.

God wants us to act intelligently; and to do that, we must understand. The Savior, speaking to the multitude, said: "Hear, and understand." (Matt. 15: 10.) In the parable of the sower he said: "He that receiveth seed in the good ground is he that heareth the word, and understandeth it." I think that one would as well not understand that there is a commandment as to not know what it is for, when God finds it necessary to give

FAINTING AND DIZZY SPELLS

The Cause of such Symptoms and Remedy Told in This Letter.

Syracuse, N. Y.—"When I commenced the Change of Life I was poorly, had no appetite and had fainting spells. I suffered for two or three years or three years be-fore I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Com-pound and the Liver Pills which I saw ad-vertised in the papers and in your little books. I took about twelve bottles

Compound and found it a wonderful remedy. I commenced to pick up at once and my suffering was relieved. I once and my suffering was relieved. I have told others about your medicine and know of some who have taken it. I am glad to help others all I can."—Mrs. R. E. Deming, 437 W. Lafayette Ave., Syracuse, N. Y.

While Change of Life is a most critical period of a woman's existence, the annoying symptoms which accompany it may be controlled, and normal health restored by the timely use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Moreover this reliable remedy con-

Moreover this reliable remedy con-tains no narcotics or harmful drugs and owes its efficiency to the medicinal ex-tractives of the native roots and herbs which it contains.

MORE PAY FOR TEACHERS

We have hundreds of demands for teachers at greatly increased salaries. Send in your name to-day for enrollment. South Atlantic Teachers' Agency, 306 Walton Building, Atlanta, Ga.

Antiseptic Analgesic Antiphlogistic (Prevents Infection) (Relieves Pain) (Allays Inflammation)

A dependable preventative of diseases of the air passages and an excellent curative agent for inflammatory conditions of the skin and mucous membranes. Does not injure delicate skin. Fine for baby. There's a wonderful amount of comfort, health and protection in a 2 oz. jar. 50c at your druggist's or by mail from Pledmont Laboratories, Inc., Clinton, S. C.

HYOMET

From Famous Eucalyptus Tree of Australia Comes Mr. Booth's Wonderful Discovery.

Some years ago, the noted Richard T. Booth, founder of the blue ribbon movement, temperance orator and leader of international fame who induced over a million men to sign the pledge, developed a very serious catarrhal trouble while lecturing in London. Seeking to regain health, he went to inland Australia where he breathed day and night the antiseptic balsams as given off by the forests—especially the Eucalyptus trees.

This experience led Mr. Booth to the discovery of the most wonderful eatarrhal treatment known to the medical science—Hyomei, which is formed from the purest oil of Eucalyptus combined with other healing and antiseptic in-gredients. Hyomei is a germ killing vaporized air, absolutely harmless but wonderfully effective in the treatment of catarrh in all of its forms, cold in the head, spasmodic croup, hay fever, clergyman's sore throat and similar complaints.

The treatment is simple but most sci-The treatment is simple but most scientific. You breathe Hyonei. It is pronounced the only method of treatment that sends by direct inhalation to the most remote part of the air passages, a balsamic air that destroys all germs and bacilli of catarrh in the breathing organs, sooths and allays all irritation and enriches and purifies the blood with additional ozone.

A complete Hyomei outfit, including an inhaler, dropper and sufficient Hyomei for several weeks treatment, $1.35, extra bottle inhalant 75c. Sold by druggists on a positive guarantee of satisfactory results or money refunded. If your druggist can not supply it,

> Booth's Hyomei Company, 12 W. Green Strreet, Ithaca, N. Y.

The Romantic Story of Southland's Favorite Shoe, EzWear

Some five years ago, a prominent citizen of South Carolina, visiting New York on important business, chanced to meet the maker of a shoe built on new and unusual lines; an enthusiastic admirer of its most distinctive features, case and comfort, had suggested the name "EzWear;" it was promptly adopted. The business man from the South, knowing how welcome such a shoe would be in his part of the country, urged that its remarkable qualities, including not only comfort, but style, durability, and economy, be made known there. That this has been done effectively is proven by the enormous demand that has sprung up in the South for EzWear Shoes. It is said that its sale there during the last twelve months has increased fully three hundred per cent. The distributor, Mr. J. R. Simon, of 1589 Broadway, Brooklyn, N. Y., says that all who wish to know about a shoe that combines all worth-while shoe qualities have a copy of his money-saving shoe book for the asking.

Don't Endure

his reason for the commandment or to tell what it is for. If it is not necessary to understand the reason or promise, it seems that it was unnecessary for God to have put it there and that he did unnecessary work.

Now, in the light of all this, I conclude that to "obey from the heart" means to hear and understand just what and all that God commands, and why he commands it, when he gives the "why." When one so hears and understands and obeys, he "obeys from the heart," the understanding, and has God's approval.

True Riches.

Christ's attitude to both rich and poor was determined, of course, by his ideas of poverty and riches. He came into the world to make life rich, but he would make men rich by making them right. His poor man was the man not rich toward God. He neither condemned nor commended poverty or riches as such, but only sin, injustice, and neglect. With Christ the poor man was the man who wronged his brother, who shut his fellow man out of his heart and did not enter sympathethically into the lives of others; in a word, the poor man was the unbrotherly man. And just because the poor and weak were wronged by the rich and strong, it is truly said of Christ: "No man ever had a deeper sympathy with the poor and unfortunate. He felt profoundly the misery and injustice which spring from the irresponsible power of wealth, and sought with all his strength to arouse new feelings of philanthropy." There is no sign that Christ desired to make all equally wealthy in this world's goods; but he did desire to make all equally righteous and equally brotherly, and he declared that all were equally responsible and accountable to God. Such responsibility and such brotherliness are socially fundamental. They make for social stability and growth, and under them such questions as wages and profits easily and rightly adjust themselves.-Selected.

Advice.

In the giving of advice there are three things to remember: Advice is often unwelcome and should not be too readily forthcoming in any of us. God has given to most people a degree of common sense pertaining to common subjects. What most of us require is action, and not advice. Some sin or grievance or prejudice withholds action, and at this point advice is unwelcome.

Advice requires so much consistency that there is always danger of doing harm to a cause if our lives do not square with our words. Advice requires a delicate touch, and should not be thrown at any one. The way it is given determines its reception.

Still advice withheld is often a great unkindness. We must live close to God if we are to be used to mold or reshape the thoughts and lives of other members of the family of our Father. -W. B. Oliver.

SIMPLE MIXTURE MAKES HENS LAY

BY W. S. BURGESS.

Any poultry raiser can greatly increase his profits easily and quickly by taking advantage of the thirty-five years' experience of a successful poultryman.

A lifelong study of egg production has resulted in a secret formula of buttermilk and other valuable ingredients that puts pep into lazy hens. Users report increases of two to seven times as many eggs.

This secret formula is now put up in tablet form, and is called Combs' Buttermilk Compound Tablets. Simply feed in water or mix with feed.

I am so convinced that this wonderful formula is always successful that I say kill the hen that won't lay after using it.

One million new users are wanted; so for a limited time any reader of this paper can get a big double-size box (enough for a season) on free trial by simply writing for it. Send no money. Use the tablets thirty days. If at the end of that time your hens are not laying two or three times as many eggs, If you are not more than satisfied in every way, the tablets are to cost you nothing. If completely satisfied, this big double-size box costs you only $1 on this introductory offer. Simply send name-post card will do-to Milk Products Company, 158 Creamery Building, Kansas City, Mo., and the big box of tablets will be mailed immediately. postpaid.

ANDRUFF QUICKLY DISAPPEARS WHEN

Tetterine

Is Applied. Fragrant and Scothing. 60c at your druggist's or from the SHUP-TRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

"Diamond Dyes" Tell You How

A Child can Follow Directions and get Perfect Results

Each package of "Diamond Dyes" conan can diamond dyes" contains directions so simple that any woman can diamond dye a new, rich, fadeless color into worn, shabby garments, draperies, coverings, whether wool, silk, linen, cotton or mixed goods.

Buy "Diamond Dyes"—no other kind—then perfect results are mercented are then perfect results are guaranteed even if you have never dyed before. Druggist

PILES DON'T BE CUT
Until You Try This Wonderful Treatment.

If you have piles in any form, write for a FREE sample of Page's Pile Tablets, and you will been the day that you read this. Write to-day. E. R. Page, 430-D
Page Building, Marshall, Mich.

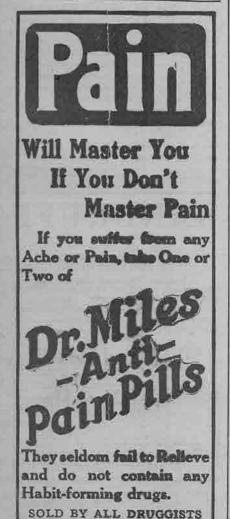

Mr. Church Treasurer!

If the Loose-Leaf Plan is best for the Business Man, it must be best for the CHURCH TREASURER.

Pup-to-date Economical Efficient

Why not use the Unified Loose Leaf instead of Bound Books? Adapted to any envelope system and size membership. Supplied by your dealer, or

Arthur H. Strouse Pub. Co. Dept. K, 431 So. Dearborn St., Chicago, III.

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

MILES MEDICAL CO., Elehart, Ind.

CHURCH NEWS

Tennessee.

Nashville, October 27.—My meeting at Shady Grove, Ky., closed on last Sunday night. Two were added to the congregation—one by baptism, one by restoration. I am now on my way home, but preaching as I go. I will preach from Friday night till Sunday night at Hohenwald, Tenn. Brother S. Houston Profflit is teaching there, and he reports a fine congregation at that place. I expect to be back at Paris, Texas, by November 15. I have been away from home three and one-half months and have held nine meetings.—N. W. Profflit.

Nashville, November 5.—The church at Meade's Chapel, three miles from Nashville on the Antioch pike, recently closed a remarkable meeting from the viewpoint of attendance and additions. Though the church is small, the audiences were large at every service, and twenty-three persons were baptized and two returned to the fellowship of the church. The success of the meeting was due in a grand measure to the preacher, Brother J. H. Meade, of Abilene, Texas. Over twenty-five years ago he conducted the meeting here which resulted in the establishment of the church which now bears his name. He is still held in high esteem by the whole community, and the people were anxious to hear him again. He is a good Bible teacher and an interesting speaker.—R. N. Gardner.

Decherd, November 3.—I was at Chattanooga the third Lord's day in October, and preached for the Ridgedale congregation both day and night. This is a live, little congregation. Brother Leslie Boyd preaches for them once a month. I met him for the first time. I made my home with Brother and Sister Gibbs, and they certainly know how to make a preacher feel at home. These brethren are just about ready to begin building them a new house of worship. While they are few in number, they are wideto the Master's cause. preached on Thursday night following at Whitwell. On Wednesday night I began a meeting at College Grove, in Bledsoe County, and preached eight sermons. Three were restored to fellowship. I had to close the meeting, as I was called home on account of my daughter's being very ill. My mother also is very low. I have been at home for about ten days waiting on my I have been at home daughter. She is better now. My wife was taken down two days ago and is very sick. Brethren, pray for me and my dear ones.—R. E. L. Taylor.

Whatever his questions or his reticences, we may be absolutely sure of an unperplexed and undismayed Savior.—Selected.

RECIPE FOR GRAY HAIR.

To 1/2 pint of water add I ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and 3/4 ounce of glycerine. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. It will gradually darken streaked, faded, or gray hair and make it soft and glossy, it will not color the scalp, is not silcky or grensy, and does not rub off.

The largest part of our influence is that which we have without trying. Remembering this, the emphasis of our efforts should be to make our very selves right and true, sincere, earnest, and wholesome; to have just and kind thoughts and a pure heart, to have God in our souls for enlightening and cleansing.—Selected.

160 Hens 1500 Eggs

Mrs. H. M. Patton, Waverly, Mo., writes me: "I have fed two boxes of 'More Eggs' to my hens and I think they have broken the egg record, I have 160 white Leghorns and in exactly 21 days I got 125 dozen eggs." Any poultry raiser can easily make big profits this fall and winter by increasing the egg production of his hens. A scientific tonic has been discovered that revitalizes the flock and makes hens work all the time. The tonic is called "More Eggs." Give your hens a few cents' worth of "More Eggs" and you will be amazed and delighted with the results. Now is the time to give "More Eggs" to your hens while prices are high and profits big.

$1.00 FREE

Send the coupon below. Don't send any money Mr. Reefer will send you two $1.00 packages of "More Eggs." You pay the postman upon delivery only $1.00, the price of just one package, the other package being free. The Million Dollar Merchants Bank of Kansas City, Mo. guarantees if you are not absolutely satisfied, your dollar will be returned at any time within 30 days—on request. No risks to you, 400,000 users praise Reefer's "More Eggs."

Results!—Read These Letters!

Pirst Time Hens Laid During Moult

I have used your "More Egge" Tonic since last full and our surely say it has amply paid me. I have find chickens for 7 years and this is the first time they have eyer laid through their monthing season.

MRS. C. LUGINDUHL, NOWCOOL, Ohio.

Loafers Before, Layers Now

My hens have faid through moutting this year. It is the first time since I had chickens. They have always been loaders until I used "More Eggs". Now they are good layers. MBS. H. J. SCHULZE, Pittsburgh, Kans-

24 Eggs a Day During Moulting

Your "More Eggs" Tonic certainty puts hers in good condition for laying. I had 175 hens that were moulting and I began feeding them your Tonic and got nearly 2 doz. eggs a day.
S. J. FRANKENBERGER, Loganton, Penn.

Send No Money!

Don't send any money; just fill in and mail coupon. You will be sent, at once, two $1.00 packages of "MORE EGGS." Pay the postman upon delivery only $1.00, the extra package being FREE. Don't wait—take advantage of this free offer TODAY! Reap the BIG profits "MORE EGGS" will make for you. Have plenty of eggs to sell when the price is highest. Send TODAY—NOW!

E.J.Reefer, Poully Expert, 7253 Reefer Bidg., Kansas City, Mo. Dear Mt. Reefer:—I accept your offer. Send me two $1.00 backages of Reefer's "More Eggs" for which I agree to bay the postman $1.00 when he brings me the two packages. You agree to retund me $1.00 at any time within 30 days, if both of these packages do not prove satisfactory in every way.

Name	4
------	---

dires

"Behold, I Stand at the Door, and Knock."

There was once a great non-Christian artist who painted a beautiful picture which we know as "The Light of the World." It shows Jesus standing at the outside of a door with a lantern in his hand. Over the door is a trellis with flowers dropping down. It is a wonderful picture of Jesus, patiently, anxiously waiting, ready to shed light where darkness now reigns.

This great artist called in one of his Christian friends to criticize the painting. His friend looked the painting over and started to laugh. "Why," he said, "there's no need of my showing you the mistake. Look for yourself." The artist looked his painting over very carefully, but could detect no error. So he turned to his friend and said: "I have spent a long, long time on this painting, and I can see nothing wrong. What is there about it that is so apparently wrong?" His friend turned to him and said: "You have forgotten to put the latch on the door." The artist, glancing at his painting, said: "I am not a Christian, but I know enough about your Christianity to know that Jesus must wait until the door is opened. The latch is on the inside, and we must open the door to let him in."

And how true this is! Jesus stands at the door of our hearts, and he cannot come in unless we want him. And no matter how black is the interior, stained and smirched with sin, he stands, always ready to enter, if we but lift the latch and bid him come in. And when Jesus has once entered, Jesus, the Light of the World, every shadow of sin vanishes; for where Jesus is, there is light.-Franklin L. Gibson, in Exchange,

Right in the path of all men stands the cross in some form. Some poverty which narrows and limits life; some duty of forbearance or forgiveness which searches the heart; some pain of body or mortification of spirit; or some denied joy in life, some lot which has neither honor nor solace, must be accepted or refused. As we accept, we climb the heights; as we refuse, we descend to the depths .- W. M. Clow.

Renwar vs. Rheumatism.

Renwar vs. Rheumatism.

It is certainly a pity that so many people suffer year after year the intense pains of rheumatism, when it can be so easily expelled from the system by the simple treatment of taking Renwar Rheumatic Salts. Rheumatism is caused by uric acid in the blood, and in order to effect a complete cure it is necessary to entirely eliminate this acid from the blood. Renwar is guaranteed to relieve, or your money is refunded. It contains no injurious drugs. It is the one sure remedy, and it does not in the slightest degree injure the stomach or affect the heart. Mr. Joseph L. Boehmer says: "One 50-cent bottle has done me more good than all sanatorium treatments, and what it did for me—why should it not do the same for others? Should any one doubt the virtue of Renwar and the certainty of curing this malady, refer them to me." For sale by druggists (price, 50 cents) or by mall on receipt of price from Warner Drug Company, NASHVILLE, TENN.

What Is Needed Wost.

What is needed above all else in the present day is goodness, character, reality. The finest testimony that can be given to any man is that which was said of Barnabas: "He was a good man." A minister may be an indifferent preacher or an ineffective visitor. He may be lacking in genius and great capacity; but if he is a good man, this is the first and supreme factor of Christianity. "The fruit of the Spirit . . . goodness."-Selected.

You Do More Work,

You are more ambitious and you get more enjoyment out of everything when your blood is in good condition. Impurities in the blood have a very depressing effect on the system, causing weakness, laziness, nervousness and sickness.

GROVE'S TASTELESS CHIII TONIC restores Energy and Vitality by Purifying and Enriching the Blood. When you feel its strengthening, invigorating effect, see how it brings color to the cheeks and how it improves the appetite, you will then appreciate its true tonic value.

GROVE'S TASTELESS CHIII TONIC is not a patent medicine, it is simply IRON and QUININE suspended in Syrup. So pleasant even children like it. The blood needs Quinine to Purify it and IRON to Enrich it. These reliable tonic properties never fail to drive out impurities in the bleed.

The Strength-Creating Power of GROVE'S TASTELESS Chill TONIC has made it the favorite tonic in thousands of homes. More than thirty-five years ago, folks would ride a long distance to get GROVE'S TASTELESS Chill TONIC when a member of their family had Malaria or needed a body-building, strength-giving tonic. The formula is just the same today, and you can get it from any drug store. 60c per bottle.

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

ECZE

SO CALLED TETTER, SALT RH PRURITUS, MILK CRUST, WAT POISON, WEEPING SKIN, ETC

Poison, Weeping skin, etc.

I believe eczema can be cured to stay. I mean just what I say—C.U-R-E-D, not merely patched up to return sgain. Remember, I make this statement after handling nearly a half million cases of eczema and devoting twelve years of my life to its treatment. I don't care what all you have used nor how many doctors have told you that you could not be cured; all I sak is just a chance to prove my claims. If you write me TO-DAY, I will send you a FRIE TRIAL of mild, soothing, guaranteed treatment that will surely convince you as it has me. If you are disgusted and discouraged, I dare you to give me a chance to prove my claims. By writing me to-day I believe you will enjoy more real comfort than you really thought this world held for you. Just try it, and I feel sure you will agree with me.

DR. J. E. CANNADY,

1725 Court Block, Sedalia, Mo.

Reference: Third National Bank, Sedalia, Mo, Send this notice to some eczema surferer.

Renew your subscription to the Gospel Advocate.

N IRRITABLE, fault finding disposition is often A due to a disordered stomach. A man with good digestion is nearly always good natured. great many have been permanently cured of stomach troubles by Chamberlain's Tablets after years of suffering. These tablets strengthen the stomach and enable it to perform its functions naturally. They only cost a quarter. Try them.

Chamberlain's Tablets

HOW DOCTORS

First Step in Treatment Is a Brisk Purgative With Calotabs, the Purified and Refined Calomel Tablets that are Nausealess, Safe and Sure.

Doctors have found by experience that no medicine for colds and influ-enza can be depended upon for full efenza can be depended upon for full effectiveness until the liver is made thoroughly active. That is why the first step in the treatment is the new, nausealess colomel tablets called Calotabs, which are free from the sickening and weakening effects of the old style calomel. Doctors also point out the fact that an active liver may go a long way towards preventing influenza and is one of the most important factors in enof the most important factors in enabling the patient to successfully with-stand an attack and ward off pneumonia.

One Calotab on the tongue at bed time with a swallow of water—that's all. No salts, no nausea nor the slightest interference with your eating, pleasure or work. Next morning your cold has vanished, your liver is active, your system is purified, and you are feeling fine, with a hearty appetite for breakfast. Druggists sell Calotabs only in original sealed packages, price thirty-five cents. Your money will be cheerfully refunded if you do not find them delightful.—(Adv.) est interference with your eating, pleas-

FOOT TROUBLES

No Need of Them, Says Brooklyn Man, Who Has Evidently Solved a Big Problem

According to the testimony of hundreds of people living in the Southland and elsewhere, J. R. Simon, of 1589 Broadway, Brooklyn, N. Y., has successfully developed a system of shoe building having for its prime object the conquering of foot and shoe troubles. It appears that Mr. Simon's establishment has become national head-quarters for people whose feet require his remarkable comfort shoe, known as the EzWear, but obtainable only of the in-ventor. Mr. Simon's new catalogue shows ventor. Mr. Simon's new catalogue shows several hundred shoes that combine comfort with style at amazingly low prices and is now ready for free distribution.

FRECKLES

Now Is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots.

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freckles, as Othine—double strength—is guaranteed to remove these homely spots.

Simply get an ounce of Othine—touble strength—from your druggist, and apply a little of it night and morning and you should soon see that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the lighter nies have ranished entirely. It is seldom that more than one sunce is theeded to completely clear the skin and gain a beautiful clear completion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength Othine ar fins is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

OBITUARIES

On account of the large number of oblivary notices coming to the Gospel Advocate, the following rules must be observed: Oblivaries that do not exceed two hundred words are published free of charge. When they exceed that limit, two cents will be charged for every additional word. Payment must accompany notice, or it will be reduced to two hundred words. Poetry will not be printed. not be printed.

Couch.

On the evening of July 26, 1920, the death angel visited the home of Mr. and Mrs. Claud Couch and claimed for its victim their darling girl, Veatrell, aged seventeen years, six months, and ten days. She was loved by all who knew her. She had a pleasant smile for every one. Her face was so sweet and pleasant we long to see it again in that sweet home "over there." She was a member of the church of Christ, having given her little life to Christ about four years ago. She was baptized by Brother T. C. King. She suffered much before she went away, but bore it all patiently. She said she was not afraid to die. I would say to those who mourn for her: Weep not, but only prepare to meet her in heaven.

MRS. T. C. CROWDER.

Loftis.

William Loftis was born on August 16, 1838; was married to Josephine Anderson on March 14, 1861; and departed this life on June 11, 1920, aged eighty-one years, nine months, and twenty-five days. He obeyed the gos-pel just after the Civil War, and was ever after a consistent member of the church of Christ. He was a splendid example of true Christianity. He is sadly missed by his devoted wife, the church, and the community. been a constant reader of the Gospel Advocate for many years. A large number of brethren and sisters and friends attended the funeral, which was held at the Hall cemetery, near his home. We all mourn his loss, but not as those who have no hope. "Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord from henceforth: Yea, saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labors; and their works do fol-HENRY HALL, low them."

Cruickshank.

It is with deep sorrow that we have to report the death of our esteemed Hugh Cruicksbank, passed away very peacefully on Satur-day, October 16, in the eighty-first year of his age. Funeral services were conducted by Brother William John-son. Brother Cruickshank was a native of Buckie, Scotland, and joined the church there forty years ago; but after fifteen years of fellowship he emigrated to America, where, with the exception of several visits he paid to the homeland, he was separated from the brethren he loved, in spite of which he remained faithful to the end, and remembered with joy the privilege he had of entertaining, among many others, such eminent brethren as Launcelot Oliver, George Collin, and T. K. Thompson, His proud boast was that he had lived to see four gen-

HOW TO GET RID OF CATARRH

A SIMPLE, SAFE, INEXPENSIVE METHOD THAT CLEARS OUT THE HEAD. NOSE, AND THROAT.

There is no disease more offensive or disagreeable or no disease that will lead to as much serious trouble as catarrh. You can now get rid of it by a simple, safe, pleasant home remedy discovered by Dr. Blosser, a catarrh specialist.

Dr. Blosser's Remedy is composed of medicinal herbs, flowers, and berries, which you smoke in a dainty pipe or cigarette. The smoke-vapor is inhaled into all the air passages of the head, nose, throat, and lungs. It contains no cubebs or tobacco, and may be used by women and children as well as men.

This medicated smoke carries medicine where sprays, douches, and ointments cannot possibly reach. Its effect is soothing and healing and is entirely harmless. If you are a sufferer from catarrh, asthma, catarrhal deafness, or subject to frequent colds, you should try this Remedy without Any well-stocked drug store can supply Dr. Blosser's Remedy in cigarettes or powder for smoking in a pipe, or will order it for you. Satisfactory results guaranteed by a genuine, money-back offer.

A trial package will be matted postpaid to any sufferer for ten cents (coin or stamps) by The Blosser Co., 44DD, Atlanta, Ga., to prove its delightful and remarkable offectiveness.-Advt.

NOTICE!

We want to get in touch with all the brethren who are interested in Christian education and who want to locate where there is a good Christian college. For further information, write to

S. L. BRADLEY, Morrillton, Ark.

ASPIRIN

Name "Bayer" on Genuine

"Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" is genuine "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" is genuine Aspirin proved safe by millions and prescribed by physicians for over twenty years. Accept only an unbroken "Bayer package" which contains proper directions to relieve Headache, Toothache, Earache, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Colds and Pain. Handy tin boxes of 12 tablets cost few cents. Druggists also sell larger "Bayer packages." Aspirin is trade mark Bayer Manufacture Monoaceticacidester of Salleylicacid.

1000 Eggs in Every Hen

NEW SYSTEM OF POULTRY KEEPING-GET DOLLAR-A-DOZEN EGGS-FAMOUS POULTRYMAN

TELLS HOW

"The great trouble with the poultry business has always been that the laying life of a hen was too short" says Henry Trafford, international poultry expert and breeder, for nearly eighteen years editor of Poultry Success.

cess.

The average pullet lays 150 eggs. If kept the second year, she may lay 100 more. Then she goes to market. Yet it has been scientifically established that every pullet is born or hatched with over one thousand minute egg germs in her system, and will lay them on a highly profitable basis over a period of four to six years' time if given prop-them on a highly profitable basis over a period of four to six years' time if given proper care.

How to work to get 1,000 eggs from every hen, how to get pullets laying early; how to make the old hens lay like pullets; how to keep up heavy egg production all through cold winter months, when eggs are highest; triple egg production; make slacker hens hustle; $5.00 profit from every hen in six winter months—these and many other money-making poultry secrets are contained in Mr. Trafford's "1,000 EGG HEN" system of poultry raising, one copy of which will be sent absolutely free to any reader of this paper who keeps six hens or more. Eggs should go to a dollar or more a dozen this winter. This means big profit to the poultry keeper who keeps six hens or more a forenthing winter. This means big profit to the poultry keeper who gets the eggs. Mr. Trafford tells how. If you keep chickens and want them to make money for you, cut out this ad, and send it, with your name and address, to Henry Trafford, Suite 251-P Tyne Bullding, Binghamton, N. Y., and a free copy of "THE 1,000 EGG HEN" will be sent by return mail.

TREMENDOUS VALUE FOR 10c.

The Pathfinder, Leading Weekly Mag-azine of Nation's Capital, Makes Remarkably Attractive Offer.

Washington, D. C. (Special.)—People in every section of the country are hurrying to take advantage of the Pathfinder's wonderful offer to send that splendid illustrated review of the whole world eight weeks for ten cents. It costs the editor a lot of money to do this, but he says it pays to invest in new friends, and that he will keep the offer open until the Path-finder passes the 300,000 circulation mark, which will be in a few weeks. Ten cents mailed at once with your application to Pathfinder, 120 Douglas Street, Washington, D. C., will keep the whole family informed, enter-tained, helped, and inspired for the next three months.

VACCINATE YOUR HOGS.

BUY SERUM direct from the manufacturers and be assured of a fresh, reliable product. United States Veter-inary License No. 114; long-distance phone, Main 2589, Nashville, Tenn. phone, Main 2559, Nashville, Write for 90-page Hog Book; it is FREE. WHITE BERUM COMPANY.

NO JOKE TO BE DEAF

erations, three of whom were earnest followers of his Lord. Truly can it be said of him: "Blessed are the dead that die in the Lord; for they rest from their labors, and their works do follow them. R. Johnson.

Nix.

Sister Reba Ann Nix laid aside the joys and sorrows, pleasures and responsibilities of this life and passed into the great beyond, to that land, we trust, where all is joy and where pleasures never pass away, on April 3, 1920. Her life, which covered a period of twenty-eight years, three months, and three days, was well spent. She was a Christian, a wife, a mother-the three greatest things that any woman can be. She became obedient to the faith early in life, and lived a consistent Christian life until God saw fit to call her home, married to Wells Nix on February 7, 1910, and to this union were born five children-three girls and two boys. As a wife and mother, her life was an exemplary one. She earnestly tried to rear her children in the love and fear of the Lord, and to make her home influence such as would cause all who came in touch with it to love God more and serve him better. May God's protecting care and richest bless-ings rest upon the family she has left behind, and may they live such lives that there will be a happy reunion in that beautiful land where the soul never dies and where partings are un-DAVID THOMPSON. known.

Speight.

On September 4, 1920, at 7 P.M., just after the sun had sunk below the horizon, and with precious souls quietly gathered around the bedside of our dear sister, Ruth Spelght, her soul took its flight to the One who gave it. Her years while on earth were eight-een. In the death of this precious girl the whole community mourned their loss, especially her classmates and those who learned to love her so dearly. Time quietly stole on, but her dear mother, with love and patience, extended the tenderest of care to her untiringly. Finally, when the sad moment of realization came that mother and Ruth must part, she said: "I'll be waiting for you at the gate."
She united with her Lord early in life and remained faithful until death.
While her voice is stilled, her acts of faithfulness to her friends and loved ones remain with them. Funeral services were held at the Twelfth Avenue church of Christ. Brother W. Avenue church of Christ. Brother W. Silas Moody gave a grand and beautiful discourse to the living to prepare to meet their God. Noble and grand it may be to enjoy life on earth; so much better it will be for all who, like Ruth, remember their Creator in the days of their youth and remain steadfast until the good Father shall call them home. Her body was followed by a host of friends and loved ones to Mount Olivet Cemetery, where it was quietly laid to rest.

WILLIAM S. WHERRY.

Don't think because you have taken many remedies in vain that your case is incurable. Hood's Sarsaparilla has cured many seemingly hopeless cases of scrofula, catarrh, rheumatism, kidney complaint, dyspepsia, and general debility. Take Hood's.

The Resurrection.

A man who believes entirely in the victory of Jesus Christ is master over death. You believe that: I believe that. Then there ought to be, as we move about the world, a sense of coming victory. We ought to have the power of men who are really conquerors through Him who loves us; and we ought to go on with the sense that already the enemy is beaten, and we have only to enter into the land that has been already conquered for us. There ought to be a note of conquest and power in every man who believes in the resurrection of Jesus Christ .-Selected.

A SLIP OF THE KNIFE

resulting in an injured finger, a stubbed toe, a splinter, or any other of the numberless petty injuries that are likely to happen any day, may not seem serious at first, but, when neglected and aided by the careless touch of a dirty hand, may become infected and develop into an ugly sore and blood poison. Don't play with fate. Apply Gray's Ointment immediately and freely in all skin injuries. It gives immediate relief, soothes the pain, wards off blood poison, and immadiately begins its healing effect. Its constant use for ninety-nine years has made it a famlly word in every household. Ask your druggist or write W. F. Gray & Co., 818 Gray Building, Nashville, Tenn., for sample.

For Fever Headaches and Neuralgic Pains

An improved Aspirin tablet which is abso-An improved Aspirin tablet which is absolutely safe to use even in cases of extreme debility and weak heart. Relieves headaches, neuralgia and rheumatic pains and reduces fever. No depressing effects. Made by a formula which is in general use by leading physicians. 55c per package at your druggists or by mall from the manufacturers, Pledmont Laboratories. Inc., Clinton, S. C.

TO RELIEVE CATARRHAL DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES

If you have Catarrhal Deafness or head noises to your druggist and get 1 ounce of parmint (double strength), and add to it ½ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy, and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has Catarrhal Deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial. For sale by all druggists or sent on receipt of price 90c by Chas. A. Smith Drug Co., Atlants, Ga.

CHURCH NEWS

Michigan.

Flint, November 1.—I preached twice in Flint yesterday. We hope to do more work this winter than we have at any time. We are planning to devote more time to Bible study.—Leslie S. Thomas.

Texas.

Childress, November 1,—I have been in Childress six weeks with the church here, and feel that I can correctly say every line of work has improved. I preach to a well-filled house every sunday night, a thing not common in most sections. We have had two restorations.—T. B, Clark.

Forth Worth, November 1.—Yesterday was a very good day for all the brethren in Fort Worth, but rainy. We are planning to give a free Thanksgiving dinner in some suitable place for the poor people of the city who are unable to provide for themselves, and hope to get the people of this town to believe that we love both God and humanity. The time of my debate with the Methodist preacher has been changed to November 23. The debate will be held at the Southside-Central Church. My daughter is down with another attack of appendicitis, and I fear an operation is inevitable. Brethren, do not forget us in your prayers.—Tice Elkins.

Denton, October 22.—On the second Sunday in this month, and Saturday night before, I preached at Broken Bow, Okla. We had small crowds except on Sunday night. The brethren there have a good meetinghouse, and

When You Feel Shaky

Will Tone You Up.

For Malarial Fevers and a General Tonic If not sold by your druggist, write ARTHUR PETER & CO., LOUISVILLE, KY.

there is a great opening for much good to be done in that little town. On Monday and Tuesday nights I preached over at Idabel. Here our brethren have a nice little building in which to worship, but only one brother meets with a few sisters. It is sad to see so many brethren taking a "layoff," and doing nothing for the Lord who gave his life for their salvation. One sister, while talking to me about the condition of the cause there, and expressing her anxiety about building up the church, broke down and wept. O, that our strong churches would help these weaker places! From Wednesday night till the third Sunday night. I was with the brethren at Valiant, Okla. Small crowds here; but they have a good house of worship, with a fine opening for much work. I am now at home for a time.—D. S. Ligon.

IT STOPS THAT TICKLING

You can relieve spasmodic croup, wheoping cough, is grippe, bronchial cough, or a cold—cither a fresh one or one that "hangs on "—with a few doses of Foley's Honey and Tar. E. G. Darmall, Bonham, Texas, writes: "I have been bothered with a cough and tickling in my throat, so I got a bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar, which stopped the Foley's Honey and Tar, which stopped the cough and that tickling in my throat. It is the first thing I eyer got hold at that would stop it." It loosens phiegm and mucus, clears the air passages, and covers inflamed surfaces with a southing, healing coating. Contains no opiates.

THAT dragging, wearing backache, that so many women suffer from, is quickly eased by an application of floan's Liniment, No subling, mussiness, or skin stains. It's good for all the family and all kinds of "external" sches and pains. Sbc, 70c, $1.40.

In answering advertisements, please mention this paper,

Volume LXII. No. 47.

NASHVILLE, TENN., NOVEMBER 18, 1920.

$2.50 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

CONTENTS. DIFYING AS THE NEED MAY BE JR CONTRIBUTORS. Noah, the First Sinner After the Flood—The Coming of the Lord—Georgia and the Far Southern Field—Los Angeles Notes the Lord—Georgia and the Far Southern F Notes. HOME READING. The Death of a Busy Preacher. CURRENT THOUGHT. EDITORIAL "The Gospel of Love and Forgiveness," AT HOME AND ABROAD. QUERY DEPARTMENT. The Kingdom Question. An Important Question. An Important Question. The Double Nature of Man (No. 9). The Lowrey-Clark Debate. CHURCH NEWS. Why Not Have a Share in It? Opportunity at Oakland, Miss. Funerals.

CONTENTS.

The Highest Call.

What is the highest call? Perhaps we may grasp its meaning better if we lead up to it by speaking of other calls that affect the human race. Jack London was a brilliant and fearless writer. His genius is best portrayed in a book that bears the title, "The Call of the Wild." It is the story of a domesticated dog whose ancestors were wolves of the fiercest type. The wolf strain in that dog's life was so powerful that it overcame everything else. Then it was he joined the prairie pack and became a wild, ferocious creature. But the call of the wild is sometimes just as pronounced in man. It is that play upon the soul of elemental forces which tends to drag us back into primitive conditions. The children of Israel were obsessed with it when they longed for the fleshpots of Egypt, despising the bread which came down from heaven. In the New Testament it is set down as one of the most frequent causes of apostasy, this almost insatiable longing to go back to the old experiences and taste again for a little while the pleasures of sin. The apostle Peter speaks of a character who is spiritually blind, "seeing only what is near, having forgotten the cleansing from his old sins." (2 Pet, 1: 9.) And Paul gives us the name of a man who was ruined by the call of the wild: "Demas forsook me, having loved this present world." (2 Tim. 4: 10.) There is a strain of Demas in every one of us. We need to guard against that propensity of our natures which would lead us back to old conditions. "Let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall."

0 0 0

The Call of the Blood.

There is the call of the blood. It is the tribal instinct or attachment, the center of gravity that binds families and peoples and even nations together. It is this instinct that gave rise to the saying that "blood is thicker than water." The call of the blood is more powerful than the call of the wild. Sometimes it is the strong, beautiful tie of natural affection. We find a striking example of it in the Old Testament where Ruth said to Naomi: "Entreat me not to leave thee, and to return from following after thee; for whither thou goest, I will go; and where thou lodgest, I will lodge; thy people shall be my people, and thy God my God; where thou diest, will I die, and there will I be buried: Jehovah do so to me, and more also, if aught but death part thee and me." (Ruth 1: 16, 17.) Sometimes it is comradeship or friendship such as existed between two young men of the Old Testament, where we read how "the soul of Jonathan was knit with the soul of David." (1 Sam. 18: 1.) Sometimes it is human love between a man and a woman that renews and re-creates the race. "And Joseph loved her." That was not merely a case of love at first sight. It was the call of the blood.

The call of the blood is good or bad according to the clan or circle that is involved. In Paris there have lived for years a band of cutthroats called "Apaches," who do violence to others, but who are said to love each other very intensely. Here the call of the blood is very bad. It only propagates an evil species.

* * *

The Call of the Road.

Again, there is the call of the road. Sometimes we call it "wanderlust," the desire to travel. It makes its mysterious appeal to youth and to youthful souls. It exercises such a spell that it bears men away from home, friends, ease, respectability, and sends them forth wanderers on the face of the earth. It has possessed whole tribes and caused them to change locations. It is the history of the Gypsies and every nomadic race. It is the instinct of the traveler. It is the germ and beginning of new nations. And it would be no bad thing at all if those who traveled erected an altar of prayer at every stopping place, as did Abraham of old, or if, like the early disciples, they "went everywhere preaching the word." * * *

The Call of the Divine.

Now we are ready to consider the highest call, the call which should burn like a flame in the soul of man. We shall think of it and speak of it as "the call of the divine." It is set forth in Rom. 8: 15, where Paul writes: "Ye received the spirit of adoption, whereby we cry, Abba, Father." It is the finest aspiration of which humanity is capable. The record of it runs through the Bible like a golden thread. It is expressed in such passionate spiritual poetry as the Forty-second Psalm, where the writer exclaims: "As the hart panteth after the water brooks, so panteth my soul after thee, O God!" It is a creative power. It has builded temples, erected churches, reared all the altars, and made all the ordinances of religion. It is the inner power which moves saints to beautiful devotions, philanthropists to good deeds, and friends to loving-kindnesses. It sheds the halo of character upon human personality as light hovers about flowers. It is the prayer spirit that searches for communion. It is the filial spirit that cries, "Abba, Father." For as the memories of home forever linger in the heart of the wanderer and give him the sense that somewhere there is shelter and rest and a place of peace, where all tumultuous experiences are hushed into perfect satisfaction, so in the heart of man, however far away he may seem to be, there is the homing instinct, which draws him to God.

A poet picked up a shell on the mountain top and held it to his ear. In fancy he heard the echo music of the distant ocean. It was the shell sighing for its far-away home, the sea. So does the filial spirit ever make man long for God. Moses, when the shadow of a mystical change loomed above him and he was going into a strange land from whence he would not return, cried: "Lord, thou hast been our dwelling place in all generations." Nearly two thousand years later Augustine, another soul who had sounded the great deeps of life, exclaimed: "Thou hast made us for thyself, and our hearts can find no rest outside of thee." What does such language imply? It is the call of the divine. It is wonderful. It is far-reaching. Beside it all other passions are weak and all other influences are as nothing.

If one should say to me in reply to these reasonings: "I do not partake of them. I have never been moved by any such call. I have no desire for anything further than just what I see in the world. I want to have my own home, a few friends—not too many. I want enough means to keep me comfortable"—I would tell him that he is stifling the best part of his nature and destroying the only power that can lift him above the beast of the field. That is what our Savior meant when he spoke of losing the soul.

When W. T. Stead, famous journalist, was preparing his little book, "Hymns that Helped," he wrote to a number of men of scholarship and achievement, asking them for a list of hymns that had helped them. Mr. Grant Allen, a scientific writer, said in reply: "I do not remember any hymn or, for that matter, any text of Scripture, maxim, or line of poetry, that was ever of the least use to me. I never needed help other than physical or monetary." The only good thing about the answer is, he told the truth. It was quite characteristic of the materialistic philosophy which has lost its vision of God. There are those to-day who can write delightfully of bugs and beetles and tell all about the habits of wasps and butterflies, but are not able to utter one clear word about God. May Heaven save us from the acquisition of such philosophy, for it strips life of all its higher meanings and tramples its crown of glory in the dust.

If one would keep his soul sensitive to the divine call, he must cultivate the listening heart and obey the voices that speak to him. We possess no gift that we will not lose if we do not use it. The gift of music, of painting, of oratory, and even the greater gift of sympathy, may be neglected and die.

Another thing that makes us more susceptible to the divine call is a sense of want. (Isa. 55: 1; Matt. 5: 1, 6; John 7: 37.) These passages express a sense of want, a feeling of lacking something that is obtainable, and a desire to have it. Jesus teaches that a hungry wistfulness for what is before us is the promise and guarantee of attainment.

Our happiness depends upon our capacity for receiving, and we must enlarge that capacity. You have heard of the child who cried "because my stummick isn't any bigger." The crowning glory of childhood is its enormous capacity for receiving. We must become like them. There is hope for everybody except the man who is satisfied.

_ The most glorious truth of the Bible is expressed in one way by saying that God has answered the call of the divine that comes into the hearts of his children. He has answered through his Son. Through all the strident and jangling noises of earth is heard the one clear call of the gospel of love and redemption. In Jesus Christ we have the fullness of God. All the voices of divine appeal are heard in his word. Those who obey the gospel are spoken of time and again as the called of God. We answer the call of the divine when we enter his spiritual body, the church, and share his experiences. "If so be that we suffer with him, that we may be also glorified together."

I use to wonder why it was that the old song, "My Old Kentucky Home," struck such a popular chord. It occurred to me that the word "Kentucky" would provincialize it. But no, that is not true. The song is sung as a popular favorite all over the world. A man told me once that he heard an orchestra play it in Cairo. Still another man told me that he had heard it sung in Russia. It has reached the end of the earth, because it contains the deathless note. When the old colored man sings in plaintive terms, "De sun shines bright in my old Kentucky home," he touches a tender spot that is found in every heart-universal longing to go home. It matters not how poor a man may be, or how rich; it matters not how small or great, how ignorant or how wise, he can't say a better thing than to say, in the words of a little child, "I want to go to heaven when I die." And Jesus gave indorsement to the sweetest and the highest aspiration of the human race when he said: "In my Father's house are many mansions; if it were not so, I would have told you!" It is the highest call. Do you hear it? Then answer it. Start home to-day.

Book Notices.

If you are in need of a good abridged Bible dictionary, send us $2 for a copy of Smith's Peloubet Edition. This is one of the best dictionaries of the Bible that I have examined.

Have you read "Sunshine; or, Uncle Minor's Stories?" This is a very attractive book for children as well as for old people. Children read it with much interest. It is profusely illustrated, and contains many interesting incidents and stories. Price, $1.50.

Send us $1.25 for a copy of "Sweeney's Sermons." This is a book of sermons by John S. Sweeney—one of the best books of sermons published. Sweeney carries conviction with the statement of his position. He is noted for brevity, clearness, and force of statement. Every young preacher should have a copy of this book of sermons.

Have you seen a copy of "Adventism and the Bible?" This is one of the very best books for you to buy at the present time. Adventism is a live subject. Adventists are active and are propagating their doctrines. If you want to be thoroughly prepared to meet them and to expose the errors of Adventism, you should send us at once $1.25 for a copy of "Adventism and the Bible."

We have on hand a few copies of "Biographies and Sermons," edited by F. D. Srygley. This is a book of sermons by a number of our best-known preachers. It is well worth a careful perusal. A brief history of the life of each preacher accompanies his sermon. A picture of the preacher also is given with each sketch. Price, $1.50. If you want this book, you should order at once, as we have just a few copies that have been left over through mistake.

There is light for me on the trackless wild,
As the wonders of old I trace;
When the God of the whole world went before
To search me a resting place.
Has he changed for me? Nay! He changes not;
He will bring me by some new way,
Through fire and flood, and each crafty foe,
As safely as yesterday.

—Exchange

Noah, the First Sinner After the Flood.

BY H. LEO BOLES.

I would have been glad to close this brief study of Noah without marring it with any blemish of character, but God has not willed it. I would have been glad to leave Noah standing waiting under the rainbow of hope, with the light kindling in the east, with the fresh morning air of life in the new world everywhere as the joy of the beginning, but God has willed it otherwise. The second father of the human family sinned as did the first father. God is impartial in recording the weakness of his people, as well as in recording their faith and obedience.

It seems strange, from our point of view, that Noah would sin. He had the memory of a destroyed world as a warning against sin, and now before he goes far down the journey of life in the new world we find him guilty of sin. The description or portraiture of Noah would not be so human if there were not pointed out, so briefly as it is, his sin. Somehow, we feel closer akin to him when we see his weakness. Some have maintained that Noah did not sin in getting drunk, yet the record seems to imply the fact that he sinned. "And Noah began to be a husbandman, and planted a vineyard: and he drank of the wine, and was drunken; and he was uncovered within his tent. And Ham, the father of Canaan, saw the nakedness of his father, and told his two brethren without. And Shem and Japheth took a garment, and laid it upon both their shoulders, and went backward, and covered the nakedness of their father; and their faces were backward, and they saw not their father's nakedness. And Noah awoke from his wine, and knew what his youngest son had done unto him." (Gen. 9: 20-24.) This must have been a lamentable picture; the righteous and rescued Noah lying drunken on his tent floor. The portraiture of Noah would not have been so human without the relating of this incident. In his weakness we see his humanity, and are led to believe that the best environments do not keep one from sinning.

This was the first sin, so far as the record shows, in the postdiluvian world. The first father sinned, and so the second father sinned. There is a great difference, however, in the sin of Adam, as the first father of the human race, and the sin of Noah. Adam's sin seems to have been a sin of presumption or rebellion, open rebellion against God: the sin of Noah grows out of the weakness of the flesh and seems to be less effective on the human race. In this new world a new sin is mentioned, that of drunkenness. Some have argued that this is the first sin of drunkenness of which any member of the human family is guilty. Noah had the new world, fresh, clean, and purified, and yet he falls into new sin.

It may not be out of place to observe here Ham's attitude toward his father's weakness and exposure. He told his brothers of it, not with the intention of helping, not with the intention of reverential respect and interest in his father, but with wickedness of heart and purpose does he further expose the sin of his father. May we observe that Ham had no right to speak of his father's sin to his brothers, except in a way to help his father out of his sin. No one has the right to make the sins of some one else the subject of his idle conversation or perverse curiosity or as the means of entertaining. The minds and hearts of God's people should never dwell upon the sins of others, save for the sole purpose of redeeming them from their sins. O that the children of men would remember the great lesson that is suggested in Ham's deportment toward his father! A man's attitude toward the sins of another is the touchstone of his character. It would be well for each one of us to inquire and find out his attitude toward the sins of his brother. We should be familiar with the New Testament teachings on this point. "Brethren, even if a man be overtaken in any trespass, ye who are spiritual, restore such a one in a spirit of gentleness; looking to thyself, less thou also be tempted." (Gal. 6: 1.) Hence, when we look at the wrongs, mistakes, and follies of others, we should only look at them with a view to redeeming them from their sin, and, I repeat, never as a mere subject of conversation or idle gossip.

Frequently we hear people, sometimes fathers and mothers, repeating their experiences while young, and talking of their wild oats in such a way as to amuse, entertain, and encourage their children in wrongdoing. No older person should correspeak of his or her earlier sins in a way to appear smar and heroic in wickedness. If one ever refers to the sins of his early life, it should be with contrition of heart and shamefacedness and in such a way as to discourage others and warn them against sin.

Noah's sin emphasizes two facts about sin. First, the temptations which are small and thought to be of no consequence are often the most effectual. The man who is strongest in resisting and fighting the great temptation often falls an easy prey to the smaller ones. Noah was able to face, single-handed, the scorn and wickedness of the world which was against him; but in the midst of his own vineyard, surrounded by his own family, he falls an easy prey to the lusts of his appetite. Second, we see how man may fall into new forms of sin in the prime of life or in the weakness of old age. Circumstances may preclude some sins from mastering us; yet, when the circumstances have been changed and the temptation presents a different aspect, we may be overtaken in it.

Noah's sin was not in planting the vineyard nor in making his wine, neither in drinking his wine; his guilt lay in drinking to excess. In this new world, Noah learns at his threshold that he must deal with the problem of sin. This shows that God was not starting with a new plan or schedule for the human family. The fact that Noah sinned is evidence that he was made in the image of Adam and inherited the tendencies and weaknesses of the flesh. The flood with all of its destruction had not destroyed man's possibility to sin. God has not taken from man in this new world his free agency or freedom of will. This principle is also true in the kingdom of God, where we are made new creatures in Christ. The destruction of a world does not deter sin, penalties do not stop it, schemes and plans have failed to check it. Sin continues in the face of fulnrinated anathemas and pronounced condemnations.

The Coming of the Lord.

BY C. W. SEWELL.

Seeing Brother Love's sermon on "The Second Coming of Christ" in the Gospel Advocate of October 14 prompts me to write on the above subject. "Not that I have aught of which to accuse" Brother Love, but simply to give some things I have learned, or think I have learned, from the Word on these subjects.

Does the word of the Lord teach that the coming of the Lord is "imminent," "at hand?" It certainly does.

"Let your moderation be known unto all men. The Lord is at hand." (Phil. 4: 5.) "Be patient therefore, brethren, unto the coming of the Lord. . . . Be ye also patient; stablish your hearts: for the coming of the Lord draweth nigh." (James 5: 7, 8.) Does the expression "is at hand" in Matt. 3: 2 mean "has come near?" Or did John mean to say that the kingdom would come in two or three thousand years? When Jesus said of Judas at his betrayal, "Behold, he is at hand that doth betray me," did he mean that in point of time he was two thousand years or more away? If in these passages "is at hand" means "has come near," does it not mean the same thing when used by Paul and James as cited above? Yet Paul says when writing his second letter to Thessalonica concerning the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ: "To the end that ye be not quickly shaken from your mind, nor yet be troubled, either by spirit, or by word, or by epistle as from us, as that the day of the Lord is just at hand; let no man beguile you in any wise: for it will not be, except the falling away come first, and the man of sin be revealed." (2 Thess. 2: 2-4.) Did Paul write one thing to Philippi and something contradictory to Thessalonica? If there is a contradiction, I am not responsible for it.

I once thought that Paul had thought that the Lord would immediately appear, and so expressed himself in his epistles, but that when he came to write the second letter to the Thessalonians it was then revealed to him that he would not come till the man of sin should be revealed. But that position is not tenable. Paul wrote by inspiration when he wrote the Roman letter, yet in that he says: "The night is far spent, and the day is at hand: let us therefore cast off the works of darkness, and let us put on the armor of light." (Rom. 13: 12.) No one can question the fact that he uses "the day is at hand" as an incentive to better living. But how could he do that if "the day" was two thousand years off? But, worse still, James says in the passage quoted above: "Be patient therefore, brethren, unto the coming of the Lord "-the Revision has it "until the coming of the Lord." He tells them to be patient like "the husbandman waiteth for the precious fruit of the earth." Are those to whom he wrote, and who have been dead some two thousand years, still waiting with patience? Or did the Lord come while they were living? I insist that these difficulties are as much yours as mine. While you are thinking on this, I will introduce another line of thought. Some months back I read an article from an able brother in which he said the second coming of Christ should be preached as an incentive to repentance, and to prove his position he quoted these passages: "Repent; or else I will come unto thee quickly, and will fight against them with the sword of my mouth." (Rev. 2: 16.) member therefore how thou hast received and heard, and hold fast, and repent. If therefore thou shalt not watch, I will come on thee as a thief, and thou shalt not know what hour I will come upon thee." (Rev. 3: 3.) This is the language of our Lord Jesus Christ addressed to two of the seven churches of Asia. One of two things is true: either these churches repented or else Christ came. Did they repent, or did he come?

Rev. 2: 5, addressed to the church at Ephesus, will make this all plain: "Remember therefore from whence thou art fallen, and repent, and do the first works; or else I will come unto thee quickly, and will remove thy candlestick out of his place, except thou repent." For what purpose did he say, "I will come unto thee quickly?" Not to raise the dead and judge the world, but to punish that church by removing it out of his place. This shows clearly that sometimes the coming of the Lord means his coming to execute temporal judgment. Almost every one understands that he so came at the destruction of Jerusalem. God is spoken of as so coming in the Old Testament. (See Isa. 31: 4; 35: 4; 40: 10.)

"In my Father's house are many mansions: if it were not so, I would have told you. I go to prepare a place for you. And if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again, and receive you unto myself; that where I am, there ye may be also." (John 14: 2, 3.) When Jesus comes as per this passage, it will be to receive his disciples unto himself—"that where I am, there ye may be also." Before the disciples can be with Jesus, he must "come again." When, therefore, we shall find the disciples with the Lord, we shall know that he has come again. "Therefore we are always confident, knowing that, whilst we are at home in the body, we are absent from the Lord: (for we walk by faith, not by sight:) we are confident, I say, and willing rather to be absent from the body, and to be present with the Lord." (2 Cor. 5: 6-8.) To be absent from the body is to be dead; to be absent from the body is to be present with the Lord; therefore to be dead is to be present with the Lord. But, before one can be present with the Lord, Christ must needs "come again." (John 14: 3.) The dead (disciples) are with the Lord. Therefore, to the dead the Lord has come again. Christ, therefore, comes again to his disciples at death. Again: "For I am in a strait betwixt two, having a desire to depart, and to be with Christ; which is far better." (Phil. 1: 23.) To depart is to die; to depart is is to be with Christ; therefore, to die is to be with Christ. But the disciples cannot be with Christ till he comes again. The disciple who dies is with Christ: therefore, Christ comes again to his disciples at death. Now, apply this meaning of the coming of the Lord to the passages quoted above from Paul and James. and see how quickly all the difficulties disappear. I confess that I can see no other way to understand the numerous passages that represent the coming of the Lord as being near.

Yet there is a coming of the Lord that will be quite different from these. "Behold, he cometh with clouds; and every eye shall see him, and they also which pierced him; and all kindreds of the earth shall wail because of him." (Rev. 1: 7.) "And then shall appear the sign of the Son of man in heaven; and then shall all the tribes of the earth mourn, and they shall see the Son of man coming in the clouds of heaven with power and great glory. And he shall send his angels with a great sound of a trumpet, and they shall gather together his elect from the four winds, from one end of heaven to the other." (Matt. 24: 30, 31.) Passages on this coming are too numerous to quote, but I do not think that it can be shown that any of them speak of it as imminent—just at hand.

My Mother. BY WALLACE L. COLEMAN.

O, when I think of such a friend In whom to trust, on whom to depend, I rest in ease in darkest days— When others desert me, how she stays!

When I was young, I could not see Why she should pray so earnestly; But now, when grown and full in years, I see the worth of her gone-by tears.

I feel the prayers of her daily song, And how can ever I go wrong? She taught me God's own word to heed, And to be guilty of no vile deed.

And when I look at her hair so gray, (For soon she'll leave this home of clay, And in that home "just o'er the sea" Will dwell with God eternally),

I think if ever I could be Just half so good and pure as she, I'd have no fear of Satan's band; For on God's word I'd surely stand.

But I can strive to do my best, And leave in God's own hand the rest, And meet thee in that home of thine, "Mother o' mine," sweet "mother o' mine."

Our Lord pondered deeply on the revelation of the Father given in the Scriptures. He knew the law and the prophets and the psalms through and through; in the wilderness he smites the tempter with the sharp two-edged sword of the word of God; in the awful hour of darkness on Calvary, as well as in the last peaceful moment before he gave up his Spirit, a psalm comes naturally to his lips.—Selected.

Georgia and the Far Southern Field

By B. C. GOODPASTURE

Rehearsing What God Has Done.

After an absence of three or four years on the first great missionary tour among the Gentiles, Paul and his companions returned to Antioch and "rehearsed all things that God had done with them, and how that he had opened a door of faith unto the Gentiles." (Acts 14: 27.) To rehearse what God has done is to recognize what he has done; and to recognize what he has done is to be impressed with how little we have done, or, indeed, can do, apart from him. Paul was ever aware of his dependence upon God. Hear him: "By the grace of God I am what I am: and his grace which was bestowed upon me was not found vain; but I labored more abundantly than they all: yet not I, but the grace of God which was with me." Cor. 15: 10.) "I can do all things in him that strengtheneth me." (Phil. 4: 13.) "But thanks be unto God, who always leadeth us in triumph in Christ, and maketh manifest through us the savor of his knowledge in every place." (2 Cor. 2: 14.) In the closing scenes of his last imprisonment the great apostle to the Gentiles ascribes everlasting glory to the eternal Father in acknowledging his overshadowing love and protecting might. "At my first defense no one took my part, but all forsook me. . . . But the Lord stood by me, and strengthened me: . . . and I was delivered out of the mouth of the lion. The Lord will deliver me from every evil work, and will save me unto his heavenly kingdom: to whom be the glory forever and ever, Amen." (2 Tim. 4: 16-18.) It is no wonder that Paul accomplished so much for the kingdom of Christ and the salvation of men; he was "God's fellow worker" (1 Cor. 3: 9), and, as the Psalmist expressed it, he could say: "I will lift up mine eyes unto the mountains: from whence shall my help come? My help cometh from Jehovah." (Ps. 121: 1, 2.) He lived so close to God that he could not relate what he had done without "rehearsing what God had done."

It is a great mistake not to take God into consideration in the making and the executing of our plans. No course in life can be successful without him. To go without him is to go against him. "Come now, ye that say, To-day or to-morrow we will go into this city, and spend a year there, and trade, and get gain. . . . For that ye ought to say, If the Lord will, we shall both live, and do this or that." (James 4: 13-15.) "In him we live, and move, and have our being." (Acts 17: 28.) "Every good gift and every perfect gift is from above, coming down from the Father of lights, with whom can be no variation, neither shadow that is cast by turning." (James 1: 17.) A failure to recognize these facts sent Nebuchadnezzar out from his palace to eat grass with the beasts of the field. In his pride he boasted: "Is not this great Babylon, which I have built for the royal dwelling place, by the might of my power and for the glory of my majesty? While the word was in the king's mouth, there fell a voice from heaven, saying, O king Nebuchadnezzar, to thee it is spoken: The kingdom is departed from thee; and thou shalt be driven from men; and thy dwelling shall be with the beasts of the field; thou shalt be made to eat grass as oxen; and seven times shall pass over thee; until thou know that the Most High ruleth in the kingdom of men, and giveth it to whomsoever he will." (Dan. 4: 30-32,) The king, while rehearsing, as he thought, his own achievements, was interrupted by the Lord and given to understand that he was not the maker and dispenser of kingdoms and the king who ruled over the destinies of empires and of men. If all who fail to see the hand of God in the affairs and blessings of this life were dealt with after the fashion of the Lord's treatment of Nebuchadnezzar, there would scarcely be sufficient grazing left to sustain the beasts of the field. We must recognize God in all the good we receive and do, before we can recount what he has done.

Finally, "O that men would praise Jehovah for his loving-kindness, and for his wonderful works to the children of men!" (Ps. 107: 8.) Let us always entertain the attitude that will enable us to say: "Jehovah hath done great things for us, whereof we are glad." (Ps. 126: 3.)

$ $ $

The Church at South Pryor Street.

Although the congregation meeting at South Pryor and Vassar Streets, in Atlanta, is the smallest, numerically, in the city, having slightly over one hundred members, it is by no means lukewarm or inactive. During the last year and a half, in addition to securing and supporting a regular preacher, this church has done more charitable and missionary work than ever before within the same time, and has also doubled its attendance at the Lord's-day services. Recently the brethren bought and installed a nice furnace in their meetinghouse, and decided voluntarily to increase Brother Rogers' salary. All these things indicate a living determination to grow and abound in every good word and work. This congregation has an encouraging past and a promising future. Brother R. H. Rogers, the regular preacher, with the cooperation of his faithful fellow workers, has done a great work at South Pryor. He has some of as true and godly people with whom to live and labor as can be found. We expect and predict another successful year for these good brethren.

Savannah An Open Door.

Two weeks ago I mentioned the work in Savannah. Since then I have received a letter from Brother Beck, in which he gives a fine report of the growing prospects there. Among other things he says: "We had two good services last Lord's day, and one made the confession and was baptized. There is one to unite with us to-night (October 27) at our prayer-meeting services. He has already stated his intention of doing so. This one comes from the Baptists, I think we shall have such reports coming quite often now, as our work is no longer in the background, as it has been. I have just been over to see the man about the trade we were speaking of for the house we went to see while you were here. I am quite sure we shall be able to get it for something like eight thousand dollars, or possibly nine thousand." The foregoing is self-explanatory. The brethren are meeting in a rented hall. The opportunities to reach the people of Savannah demand a meetinghouse. The lack of a house greatly restrains and limits the progress of the little church there. The membership of the congregation in Savannah, though rich in faith and good works, is not able either to buy or build a house of worship without a liberal support from the brethren elsewhere. Brethren, act at once; send a liberal contribution. "The King's business requireth haste." Send all donations to J. B. Beck, P. O. Box 1530, Savannah, Ga.

♥ ♥ ♥ The Love of God.

I ike a cradle rocking, rocking
Silent, peaceful, to and fro;
Like a mother's sweet look dropping
On the little face below.
Hangs the green earth swinging, turning
Jarless, noiseless, safe and slow;
Falls the light of God's face bending
Down, and watching us below.

And as feeble babes that suffer,
Toss and cry, and will not rest.

Are the ones the tender mother
Holds the closest, loves the best;
So when we are weak and wretched,
By our sins weighed down, distressed,
Then it is that God's great patience
Holds us closest, loves us best.

—Saxe Holme.

LOS ANGELES NOTES

By S. H. HALL, 2669 North Sichel Street.

House of worship, corner Altura and North Sichel Streets. Take North Broad Street car to Sichel, then one block to left.

A Work That Deserves Commendation.

I read with pleasure Brother E. C. Fuqua's excellent article under the heading, "A Missionary Measure," that appeared in the Gospel Advocate of October 28. We should have more presses running for the sole purpose of putting out free literature that teaches "the whole counsel of God" on every subject, and I am sure we have no man who is more capable of doing such work than Brother Fuqua. May the Lord bless him in this great work.

It is good to know that our brother has E. E. Shoulders with him as a colaborer. He is a great and good man. He was with us long enough in the Georgia work for us to learn that he has that sterling character that makes him a real helper.

God's Name Blasphemed "Because of You."

In Rom. 2: 24 Paul says to the Jews: "For the name of God is blasphemed among the Gentiles because of you." If you will read carefully the context, I think you can easily see that the Jews, claiming to be God's representatives, lived in such a way that the Gentiles wanted nothing to do with the God they represented. The Gentiles thought very little of the Jews or their religion; hence, very little of the God who they claimed gave them the law they seemed to be so exceedingly zealous to keep. The Gentiles very likely would have thought well of the God of the Jews, if those Jews had lived exactly as their God taught them to live.

This leads me to say a few things to those who claim to be members of the church of Christ, exponents of the pure doctrine he left with us. Is it not possible for the church of Christ to be thought little of and the doctrine it has espoused hated by people who know practically nothing of either, just because we so terribly misrepresent to those people both the church and its teaching? The elders of every local congregation should remember that it is their duty to see that the congregation over which they have been placed as elders stand only for those things that really represent Christ and his teaching. They should realize that it is their duty to make the local church they serve the greatest possible monument to the cause of Christ, to the church which they claim to be, and to the doctrine by which they claim to be governed. Too often preachers and churches take a stand dogmatically behind a mere whim or cranky idea, and live, move, and have their being in constant defense of this whim, as though it were indeed the doctrine of Christ, when it misses the doctrine of Christ a million miles. Strangers will come along and look and listen. They hear a preacher declaring he is a minister of the doctrine of Christ, or they find the church claiming to be the church of Christ, and they observe the laborious efforts made by tongue and pen to defend this cranky idea. The idea is magnified and made to appear as being the heart and soul of the doctrine, the bed rock upon which the church rests; and they turn from it in disgust, and become so fixed in their hatred and prejudice against the church that you can never get their ears again. And thus the name "church of Christ" is blasphemed by many, because of the way its pretended friends misrepresent it to the people.

It is well for every preacher and every local church to let this question burn its way to the very depth of our hearts: Upon what are we building? Paul built upon Christ, and said another foundation can no man lay. (See 1 Cor. 3: 10, 11.) There is but one way to build upon him, and that is to teach fully his own doctrine, his own thoughts, without addition or subtraction. (See 2 John 9-11.) The conditions on which sinners are saved are plainly laid down, and we can easily learn them and teach them to the people. We cannot afford to add to these conditions by asking people to do more than they require, or take from these conditions and teach the people to do less than they require, and build a church upon these additions and subtractions. Neither can we afford to have in our work and worship something he has not placed there, or eliminate from the worship something he put in it, and then build a church upon these changes, or establish churches to promulgate and represent these changes. This is an awful sin. It is being done, however, in many places. See that you build on Christ, not on your own ideas and notions.

But just as certainly as the above is true, it is also true that what is sometimes called "common sense" has a place in our religion. May I ask every reader to give this question serious thought—namely: Has God given us common sense (and you know he has), and has he given us a religion that makes it rebellion in his sight to use common sense? God is as much the author of common sense as he is the author of the Bible.

But some one raises the question: Where does common sense come in? Well, God has told us many things to do, and has said nothing about the how to do them. In all such cases he expects us to use common sense in going about it. For instance, he has commanded us to go "into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature," but did not say how to go; hence, we can walk, ride, or fly. It is left with us to choose that way of going that is cheapest and that puts us in the place where the work is to be done the quickest. Another case in point is the Lord's Supper. Christ took bread, gave thanks, brake it, and gave to the disciples. He also took the cup, gave thanks, and said: "Take this, and divide it among yourselves." The how to divide it among ourselves is not specified, and the how to give the bread to the different disciples is not specified. I once met a brother who objected to the bread's being placed on a plate and handed to the audience. He said the Book says nothing about a plate, hence we can have nothing but the loaf; and he insisted that it must be handed around from the hand of the one who waited on the audience. He stubbornly insisted that it must be done in this way, and caused considerable trouble in the congregation. Now, this is a fact; and while it seems extreme, there is just as much sense in this brother's contention as in very many other cranky ideas that some would put forward as the doctrine of Christ. I doubt seriously that any one with such ideas could possibly establish a church of Christ. He would build upon the idea that you must pass the loaf in your bare hands, and not on the Christ. Had you ever noticed that people who fail to let common sense reign where Christ meant for it to govern make their cranky ideas the most outstanding part of their teaching? It would be safe to say that whenever God commands us to do a thing without telling us how, it is equivalent to his commanding us to do it the best way possible that common sense suggests. If it were very evident that I should do a certain work in New York City, I think it would be a sin for me to try to get there by walking, when I could go there so much quicker some other way. I could get to New York and be saving souls by going on the train before I could get out of this State by walking. There would be too much time wasted by trying to go by walking; hence it would be a sin to try it that way, when it is possible for me to go otherwise.

May those everywhere who claim to represent Christ see that they do not misrepresent him.

No soul is desolate as long as there is a human being for whom it can feel trust and reverence.—George Eliot.

Home Reading

William and Billy Run Away.

BY RENA M'GAUGHEY,

Five mornings William hitched Billy to the wagon all by himself. Five mornings he climbed into the wagon, waved good-by to mother, forever sewing at the upstairs window, and drove out of the yard and down the long, long drive to the big front gate. Five mornings William sat in his little wagon looking wistfully at the beautiful, forbidden pike which lay like a great tawny satin ribbon between bands of velvet green grass just beyond the big white gate. Each morning the pike seemed more alluring, the barrier more hateful, the prohibition less reasonable. Each morning rebellion grew and seethed in his little heart as he slowly turned Billy around and drove back to the house.

This was the sixth morning, and everything was different. Perhaps it was springtime that was awakening things all over the world. William whistled merrily as he buckled the harness on Billy, testing every strap and fastening just as Uncle James had taught him to do. Anyway, he was not growing careless or negligent about small matters.

He climbed into the wagon and waved his hand gayly at the upper window, knowing well that mother was not there. If she had been, I am not sure there would be any story for me to write. Mothers have such a way of noticing and guessing and investigating—O, well, you know how they are. This sixth morning Granny was ailing and old Ailsie down in the kitchen was sure enough sick; so mother's sewing lay untouched, and no one observed William's exuberance.

William and Billy passed out of the yard and down the long drive to the big front gate, and there they halted. They halted, but not to stare sourly through the bars at the tawny ribbon of pike just outside. All that belonged to the era of indecision, to the five yesterdays—the five dreary, doubtful yesterdays that William was going to forget along with the cringing soul that belonged to them. To-day he was free. One fleeting backward glance assured him that the tender green leaves of early spring quite blotted out the house—and mother. He did not hesitate. He just stepped down out of his little wagon and led Billy out—out on the beautiful, forbidden pike that ran like a great tawny satin ribbon between borders of velvet green grass.

Billy stood perfectly still while William closed and fastened the gate. William sighed as he settled himself once more in the wagon, and the sigh sounded exactly like the one old Unc' Danny always gives when he says: "No use to argue with a woman." But William said, "Good old Bill!" and off they clattered.

O, but this was something like living! The pike slipped smoothly beneath the wheels; Billy's hoofs clicked musically on the hard macadam; and William drew deep breaths of fresh air, self-satisfaction and—freedom!

Mothers were the limit! How perfectly absurd to say that Billy wasn't safe, that goats are never fully tamed! Why, Billy had never even tried to do anything. He was as steady as Gran's old buggy horse. And s'pose he did try to cut up sometimes, couldn't William manage a little old goat? Wasn't William considered big and strong for his six years? William began to wish that sometime Billy would show a little untamed spirit so he could just show mother what a six-year-old boy could do. Maybe then she would see that he was no baby.

Just then they met little Jimmy Moffatt and the cloud on William's face grew blacker. He looked enviously at Jimmy's thin, bare legs and scowled at his own good shoes and substantial hose. This was another grievance. They never let you go barefooted until pretty near July, and then they made you put them all on again by August. Couldn't anybody tell when air or water was cold? Mothers were the limit! Little Jimmy Moffatt had no mother.

"Hello, William!"

"'Lo, Jimmy!"

"Where you goin'?"

"O, just driving down to the culvert."

"'By William!"

"'By, Jimmie!"

"O, well," grumbled William to himself as if dismissing an unpleasant topic, "if I live to be a million years old, she'll still try to treat me just like I was a weeny, teeny baby. I've just got to show her something. I'll just drive down to the culvert and turn round and drive back to the house and go right into the house and tell her about it. And I'm going to do the same thing to-morrow, and the next day, and the next day, and—"

Just then Billy did something William had never seen him do in harness before. Billy jumped—a gay, goatish little jump, so deft, so surprising that it almost plumped William out of the wagon.

"Steady, Bill!" commanded William, quietly—0, quite like Uncle James talking to his prancing Frisky. But Billy jumped again, and again, and again.

"Whoa, Billy!" cried William, for Billy's pace had become a series of leaps and jumps.

"Billy!" yelled William.

You would have yelled, too, for Billy had left the smooth beaten road and was covering the grassy border in a most amazing fashion. It is surprising how bumpy the old earth can be under grass that looks like velvet, especially when your steed persists in taking it with a hop, skip, and a jump. I do not see how William stayed in the wagon, even if he did let go the reins and hold to the sides with all his might. I'm sure I would have tumbled out on my poor old head before Billy had taken three jumps; but William held in somehow, screaming at Billy all the time, Billy heeded not at all. Perhaps Billy sensed the springtime, the joy of living, and—freedom!

"Bil—ly!"

There was genuine alarm in William's voice now, for Billy was not going over the culvert as a sane goat should, but was skipping, leaping, jumping down to the water below. The little stream, now swollen by the early spring rains, gurgled coldly.

"Stop, Billy!" shricked William.

"Ugh—oo—oo!" he gasped, as they went into the water with a splash that spared nothing. There was no doubt about the temperature of this water.

Then Billy turned. You see he had no intention of crossing the brook. He turned and waded down stream to the culvert.

"Stop, I tell you!" squawked William through chattering teeth, as Billy started under the culvert. I really think the opening was wide enough for the wagon to pass through; but Billy was in a wanton mood that day, and he made a little side movement and stopped, the wagon wedged cornerwise in the opening.

William gathered up the lines and tried to back Billy out; but Billy, who had been all action a few minutes before, refused to budge.

I am sorry to have to tell it, but by this time William was mad—0, very, very mad—so mad that he seized the whip that he had heretofore scorned to use and tried to punish poor Billy. Billy was safe under the culvert, his horns rubbing the roof, the cold water swirling around his legs, and the wagon wedged protectingly in behind him. William's blows fell harmlessly on inanimate things. Billy chewed nothing contentedly, which was fuel for William's rage.

I do not like this part of my story—it is distinctly unpleasant—so I shall not try to tell you all the ways and means William used trying to get Billy out from under the culvert. Billy was still standing there two hours later when Ailsie's boy, Joe, came for him. Joe got him out. Ailsie's Joe was a big, grown man, and he brought Billy back as quietly as if he were Gran's old buggy horse.

But William, in the midst of his impotent rage, thought of mother—mother's dear arms, the comforting hollow of her shoulder where there was sure healing for bruised spirits and broken hearts, peace after stress and storm, sweetness after bitter disappointment, and love over all, in all, and through all. Better far were mother's punishments than all the fruits of rebellion and disobedience. He climbed stiffly up to the pike, and the moisture that trickled down his cheeks was not splashed from the brook. He paused to throw his whip far on the other side of the culvert, then trudged sturdily homeward.

The Death of a Busy Preacher.

BY A. B. L.

I write these lines in memory of Brother G. Dallas Smith without having read any of the details concerning his death further than a brief news special from Fort Worth to the effect that he had died suddenly on Monday, November 8, at Cleburne, Texas, where he had lived since the family moved from Tennessee. The details do not matter so far as this notice is concerned. It is sorrow enough to know that he is dead. As I estimate this loss, the church of Jesus Christ on earth has yielded up to God one of its most energetic workers, and that, too, at a time when we stood greatly in need of his services. I shall always remember our beloved brother in connection with his zeal for pushing the Bible to the fore and giving to Bible study the place of supreme importance. I think I am correct in stating that he was the author of only two volumes, the one being "Outlines of Bible Study" and the other his "Lectures on the Bible;" but had he lived a thousand years, he could not have hit upon more useful themes. He did his literary work in a painstaking way, and popular appreciation is attested by the fact that hundreds of copies are now in circulation. Brother Smith himself states in one of the prefaces: "They have not been prepared for the benefit of scholars, but for the good of learners. They are intended for the masses, and not for the favored classes." It has been my observation that those who have striven to help the common people have done the most good in the world, and what they have written along this line survives long after more pretentious and scholarly volumes have passed into oblivion. Martin Luther's "Catechism" and "Table Talk" are preëminent examples. Jesus prayed: "I thank thee, O Father, Lord of heaven and earth, because thou hast hid these things from the wise and prudent and hast revealed them unto babes. Even so, Father: for so it seemeth good in thy sight." No man can teach the Bible so devotedly and encourage others to teach it so seriously as did Brother Smith and be soon forgotten. It is such a mighty Book and filled with such immortal themes that for a man to lay hold upon those treasures means that, whether consciously or unconsciously, he will immortalize his own devotion on account of the things he has handled.

Another pronounced element that I discovered in our brother's life was his friendliness; and this he manifested, so far as I have noted, to every man alike. Even in a heated argument, where the average man so easily loses his temper, this brother never forgot the fine art of Christian courtesy mixed with kindness and brotherly love. Furthermore, he was cheerful and obliging and ever zealous for the preaching of the gospel. In selecting writers for the special numbers of the Gospel Advocate, I called on Brother Smith many times. I always felt that he would send something good, and send it promptly. He never failed in a single instance. During the only visit I ever paid to his home I was deeply impressed with the fact that he was kind and good to his wife and children and that they loved him with rare devotion. In words of exquisite tenderness one of his volumes is dedicated "to my precious wife and children," and "to my dear old father, now on the brink of the river, who, with my devoted mother, already passed over, taught me in youth the lessons of faith, hope, and love," and "to my four brothers and sisters whose love has remained constant throughout the years." As a humble fellow worker in the Master's service, who knows how to appreciate his many virtues and to bury every thought of any imperfection, I ask the privilege of joining with hundreds of others from Fayetteville, Murfreesboro, Cleburne, and all other points to which his usefulness has extended, in laying a wreath of sweet forget-me-nots upon his grave. It is true that he died in the very prime of life. But we comfort our hearts with the precious thought that he made every year count for something worth while. I cannot conceive of the grim specter of a wasted life standing near when he passed away. It must have been the angel whom God in his inscrutable wisdom has sent ever and anon to lift his busiest workers to higher ground.

"Man's wisdom is to seek
His strength in God alone;
And even an angel would be weak
Who trusted in his own."

The highest rate of interest we pay is on borrowed trouble.—H. W. Shaw.

WANTED-NEW SUBSCRIBERS.

We are very glad to be able to tell our readers that the Gospel Advocate has passed through the season of high prices so far and is still on gaining ground. Our readers seem to be appreciating the paper more than ever, and we are continually receiving new subscribers, though not as many as we should like. There is one thing that is discouraging to us in the conduct of the paper. We have so many widows and poor brethren and sisters to write us that they are very greatly benefited by reading the paper, but that their financial condition is such that it is impossible for them to renew for another year. We have never asked our readers to make up a fund to take care of such cases, but we believe it would be a good idea. There are a number of brethren throughout the country who could easily contribute one hundred dollars for supplying the paper to those who wish to read it and are not able. We hope every reader of this paper will make it a point to send us a number of new subscribers during the next sixty days. There was never a better time than now to ask your friends, your neighbors or acquaintances, to subscribe to the Gospel Advocate. While the price is now $2.50 per year, in advance, it is not so high and has not advanced so much as have other articles. We are anxious that our readers help us to improve the contents of the paper. Don't wait, but go to work at once and make up a club of new subscribers to the Gospel Advocate. We are counting on every one of you, and know that you can double and thrible the circulation of the paper with a little effort.

Current Thought

Are Churches "Too Hard to Please?"

Some of them are too hard to please in regard to the preacher's attainments and brilliancy and too easy to please with his personal character and devotion. Are not churches looking for "the eloquence of an orator, the organizing capacity of the director of a great business concern, the spiritual detachment of the ideal monk, the social urbanity of a successful doctor, and, a few would add, the knowledge of the expert scholar?"

Perhaps that's why there is a "dearth of preachers" and "the problem of the vacant pulpit." The church will have to get over looking "for ideal men" and the preacher nust stop hunting "for ideal conditions." One can see at a glance that there is no spirituality in such a state of mind. A church need not expect a Paul for its minister, and the minister must not expect a call to the New Jerusalem. The New Jerusalem does not need pastors. It is a great thing to take an unpromising field and make it rival paradise. If pastors endeavored to make the most of their churches and churches resolutely worked to make the most of their pastors, one of our most vexatious problems would be solved.—Christian-Evangelist.

If churches would measure preachers by the right standard, they would not be so hard to please. As a Greek scholar is measured by his ability to translate and read the Greek language, so a preacher of the gospel should be measured by his ability to preach and practice the word of God. The man who can plainly and earnestly declare the conditions of salvation, tell people how to live a Christian life, and be one of the number to practice as he preaches, should be able to satisfy any church. Churches should not look to preachers for entertainment and development. Every Christian is under obligation to teach the word of God by his daily life. All Christians cannot be public proclaimers, but all should so live as to win sinners to the gospel of Jesus Christ. An earnest, consistent, Christian life is irresistible; its power and influence over the consciences of men are very great. * * *

The Religious Melting Pot.

Poets are looked upon by some as seers, and their keen. deep insight justifies the appraisement; but when Kipling said, "O, East is East and West is West,

And never the twain shall meet he seems not to have foreseen what would come to pass. People of the West are going to the East to mingle with the Indian, the Chinese, and the Japanese, while in turn the East is coming West and is attempting to assimilate the people to the standards of the yellow, brown, and black peoples. These movements are through trade and religion. There are said to be seventy-six Buddhist temples in California, and we have been informed that the Mohammedans are getting ready to plant missions in this country. They will make converts, but we have no fear that they will make very many. America can never be converted to the Buddhist view that the highest life is Nirvana. America is awake. Nor will the United States ever allow Mohammedanism to place the sword in its hand. Of course there are those in our midst who want to take up the sword, but the overwhelming majority of our people believe in peace and will follow the Prince of Peace wherever he leads. But this will not be true unless the churches are faithful.

There is danger of a new corruption of Christianity—deeper and more dangerous than that which occurred when the attempts were made in Rome to amalgamate it with the so-called religion of the pagans. If Christ is to become supreme, his people must know his word and urge his ethics in fullness and purity.—Christian-Evangelist.

A Christian should be a light bearer wherever he dwells. He should bear the precious news of salvation to every people and to every race with whom he may live. Christians should be active in sowing the seed of the kingdom of God. Because we have the truth, so much the greater the reason for our vigilance and activity in the work of teaching the truth. If we sit idly by and do nothing, there is no reason why Mohammedanism and Buddhism, or any other "ism," may not flourish in this country. The man who is not busy doing the will of the Lord will be busy doing the will of Satan. Christians are the light of the world, the salt of the earth; but the salt must be brought in contact with the lost, and their light must not be put under a bushel. Activity in presenting the word of God against war and in teaching people to live peaceably with all men and in teaching them not to do evil for evil will be helpful in preventing wars in the future. In peace we should educate against war.

O O O Commonplace Things.

Our lives are filled with what are known as the "commonplace things." Our appreciation is dulled by our haste in keeping up certain standards that we have erected, but especially by an inevitable tendency to forget the old in seeking the new. In our sermonizing we do not make enough of what are considered the commonplace truths of the gospel. The commonplace is eschewed in our literature. The only place that we have left for it is conversation in which heart comes face to face with heart. The following lines from Blanche Goodwin, in the Watchman-Examiner, finely illustrates our point:

"God bless the commonplace! We strain and fret
Through wearisome and unproductive days
Striving to carve new destinies and blaze
A trail through unaccustomed lands. We let
The feverish years possess us and forget,
In our tense seeking for untrodden ways,
The common heritage. Nor care to raise Altars to dear familiar things—and yet
When shadows lengthen and the busy hum
Of life falls faintly on half-hearing ears,
With vision dimmed and feeble step we come Back to the homely joys of bygone years—
Love and a hearthstone and a dear, worn face,
And through our tears we bless the commonplace."
—Christian Advocate.

As Christians, we should ever be ready and anxious to do whatever we do well. The little duties that make up the day, if well done each day, will qualify us for a noble and useful life. The boy who prepares the kindling for his mother should do so cheerfully and well. The girl who sweeps the floor and makes the beds should do her best. No boy, no girl, nor any one else, should be satisfied with a failure to do the best that can be done in every little act of life. "Behold, how great a matter a little fire kindleth." A word or an act, considered alone, appears to be a very little thing; a letter by itself attracts very little attention. It takes letters to make words, words to make sentences, sentences to make paragraphs, paragraphs to make pages, and pages to make books. No matter how small the task we are called upon to perform, no matter how often it has to be done, we should never be contented to do it in an indifferent way. Doing the very best in all the commonplace things of life will fit us for a life of usefulness and bring us at last to a peaceful and serene old age.

O O O The World a Workshop.

Our estimate of the world must largely depend upon whether we regard it as a home to live in or a shop to work in. I do not wonder at any one quarreling with nature and abusing the world if he seeks to find here a home. The world will not supply the thing that he demands; nature has no provision to meet and gratify his expectation. For us men at least, "This is not your rest!" seems the legend graven upon all the features and conditions—nay, even upon the circumstances of human life. But a place may be a very bad home and yet a very good workshop; and, if it be this, a sensible workman will not find fault with it because it is so far from eligible as a permanent dwelling place.—W. Hay Aitken.

Conducted for a half century by D. Lipscomb and E. G. Sewell.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

$2.50 a year, in advance; to Canada and foreign countries, $3.00, in advance.

Remittances will be at our risk when sent by express or post-office money order, in registered letter, or by draft payable to our erder.

The date on your tab shows the time to which your subscription is paid. When money is received, the date will be changed, which will answer for a receipt. Two weeks' time must ordinarily occur from the time your remittance is sent before the tab on your paper is changed; if not changed by that time, notify us at once.

is changed; if not changed by that time, notify us at once. This paper is mailed regularly to all subscribers until definite orders in writing are received and all arrearages paid in full. If you wish us to stop your paper, write us to that effect; but do not ask it unless you have paid all arrears, if there are any. Do not ask your postmaster to attend to it for you, but do it yourself.

When changing your post-office address, tell us your old as well as your new address; otherwise two papers might be charged to you. Subscribers, after paying for their papers, will favor us by noting

When changing your post-office address, tell us your old as well as your new address; otherwise two papers might be charged to you. Subscribers, after paying for their papers, will favor us by noting whether the date on the address label is changed, and, if it is not changed within a month, by writing to us. We are careful, but mistakes may occur or letters may be lost. Our rule is to change the date on the day payment is received; but the mechanical work of correcting and printing the list takes time, and payments even from near-by places may not appear the first week. Credits for payments from a distance may be even more delayed. Mistakes are easily rectified if prompt notice is given.

All communications should be addressed to Gospel Advocate, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

Guarantee of Advertising.

All the advertisements in this paper are, we believe, signed by trustworthy persons. To prove our faith by works, we will make good to actual subscribers any loss sustained in trusting advertisers who prove to be deliberate swindlers. We shall not attempt to adjust trifling disputes between subscribers and honorable business men who advertise, nor pay the debts of honest bankrupts. To make this guarantee effective, in all cases say in writing advertisers, "I saw your advertisement in the Gospel Advocate;" and if anything goes wrong, notify us immediately in writing.

JACOBS & CO., ADVERTISING MANAGERS, Clinten, S. C.

Entered at post office at Nashville, Tenn., as second-class matter.

Published weekly at Nashville, Tenn.

"The Gospel of Love and Forgiveness."

BY J. C. M'Q,

Pessimism is abroad in the land. Frequently one hears that the church failed during the war and that it is a failure now. It is evident that a spirit of faultfinding and seeking something to criticize is very prevalent. Instead of thinking no evil, men appear to be looking for the shortcomings of others and not taking an inventory of their own spiritual condition.

William C. Allen, in The Herald of Gospel Liberty, writes of spiritual death after the war. In a tour of New Zealand, Australia, England, and South Africa, he states he came in contact with church leaders, many of whom he heard refer to the "spiritual death" about them. In Capetown, General Smuts, premier of South Africa, who was the one living statesman at the Paris Peace Conference, said to him: "I met in Paris many Americans at the Peace Conference. They were fine men. I know how they feel. Never has there been so much hatred in the world; never have people everywhere hated one another so much; never has hatred been so great and so deep. I know all about it. If the ministers of the gospel would cease preaching so much about personal salvation and think of the salvation of the world, they would help deliver the world from the mess it is in, and not only save others, but save themselves. The preachers should stop preaching theology and with a broad view preach the gospel of love and forgiveness. That is the need of the world to-day."

While I do not believe that preachers should cease to point out the way of salvation to sinners, neither do I believe that the church of the Lord Jesus Christ is a failure. Men may fail, individuals may fall, but the church of Godnever! Christ says: "Upon this rock I will build my church, and the gates of Hades shall not prevail against it." Elijah under the juniper tree felt that his whole life work was a failure and that every one but himself had gone wrong. The Lord assured him that he had seven thousand who had not bowed the knee to Baal. While the multitudes may walk in the broad way, I firmly believe that there will always be a number of godly, righteous people on the earth. It is often true that a man himself has not the spirit of Christ, so he concludes that the whole world has gone wrong, he thinks that everybody is drunk but himself. It is the duty of every one to preach and practice the truth of Jesus Christ, and, when he has done this, leave God to manage the world instead of undertaking to manage it himself. If all Christians would get the beam out of their own eyes, then they would see more clearly how to get the mote out of their brothers' eyes. The Bible nowhere tells us to advertise to the world the sins of our brother against us before going to him and seeking to get him to rectify the wrong.

Christians may greatly benefit the world and bring themselves nearer heaven by cultivating a spirit of love and forgiveness. Without this spirit of forgiveness, no one will be forgiven by Christ. Christ says: "For if ye forgive men their trespasses, your heavenly Father will also forgive you. But if ye forgive not men their trespasses, neither will your Father forgive your trespasses." (Matt. 6: 14, 15.) It matters not how many times our brother has sinned against us, God requires us to forgive him an indefinite number of times. "Then came Peter, and said to him, Lord, how oft shall my brother sin against me, and I forgive him? until seven times? Jesus saith unto him, I say not unto thee, Until seven times; but, Until seventy times seven." (Matt. 18: 21, 22.) Again, the Holy Spirit tells us: "And if thy brother sin against thee, go, show him his fault between thee and him alone: if he hear thee, thou hast gained thy brother." (Matt. 18: 15.) It should be emphasized that Christ did not say, "If thy brother sin against thee, go, and publish his fault in the papers," "go, and write to or tell others about it;" but he said "go, show him his fault between thee and him alone." Are we pursuing this course to-day? Are we proving to the world that we believe that there is a reality in the religion of Jesus Christ by practicing this command, as well as the other commands of the Lord Jesus Christ? Are we demonstrating to the world that we follow the truth and that we love the Lord Jesus Christ more than we do our own selfish interests? It takes all of this, and even more, for Christians to fill full the following passage: "Even so let your light shine before men; that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father who is in heaven." (Matt. 5: 16.) A great hindrance to our practicing as God requires at this point is that we think more highly of ourselves than we should. We place our own interests above the kingdom of God; we overestimate our own importance; we forget that we must die and pass off the stage of action, and that the world will move on and never miss us. No man has ever been so great and so important that another cannot rise up and do the work that he has done. Our humility should be manifest in our daily practices and in our conversation. Humility is manifest when one controls his own spirit and puts down all wicked aspirations and ambitions. Solomon says: "He that is slow to anger is better than the mighty; and he that ruleth his spirit, than he that taketh a city." (Prov. 16: 32.) We talk about humility and we write about it as being the most admired virtue of all, and yet it is the least practiced. God loves a humble, contrite spirit. Without humility and contrition of spirit, God will never own us as his own; without a contrite spirit, he will never be near us or approve us. "Jehovah is nigh unto them that are of a broken heart, and saveth such as are of a contrite spirit." (Ps. 34: 18.) When we know that our brother has violated the law of God, and there can be no doubt about it, then we should go to him in a spirit of meekness and seek to restore him. "Brethren, even if a man be overtaken in any trespass, ye who are spiritual, restore such a one in a spirit of gentleness; looking to thyself, lest thou also be tempted." (Gal. 6: 1.) The Bible nowhere tells us to whisper his trespasses in the ears of others, while we tell them to keep it a secret. God's way, and the righteous way, is to go to the man, remembering that he is our brother, and in a spirit of humility and meekness, realizing our own weakness, seek to restore him to the truth.

The Holy Spirit admonishes us to love as brethren. "There should be a tie that binds all Christians together that is not known to the world." When our brethren do err from the truth, we should not forget that the great apostle Peter sinned a most grievous sin, that he even cursed and denied the Lord. "In many things we all stumble." The Holy Spirit is clear in his admonition as to the manner in which we should treat our brethren. "Finally, be ye all like-minded, compassionate, loving as brethren, tender-hearted, humble-minded: not rendering evil for evil, or reviling for reviling; but contrariwise blessing; for hereunto were ye called, that ye should inherit a blessing. For, He that would love life, and see good days, let him refrain his tongue from evil, and his lips that they speak no guile: and let him turn away from evil, and do good; let him seek peace, and pursue it, for the eyes of the Lord are upon the righteous, and his ears unto their supplication; but the face of the Lord is upon them that do evil. And who is he that will harm you, if ye be zealous of that which is good? But even if ye should suffer for righteousness' sake, blessed are ye: and fear not their fear, neither be troubled; but sanctify in your hearts Christ as Lord: being ready always to give answer to every man that asketh you a reason concerning the hope that is in you, yet with meekness and fear." (1 Pet. 3: 8-15.) I should like to encourage our readers to look after the virtues and not the faults of our brethren. I should like to encourage them to be kind and gentle, loving one another, while standing firm for truth and righteousness. Instead of magnifying the failings and faults of brethren, how much better would it be to minify their faults and magnify their virtues! As Christ said of the woman who was taken in the act of adultery, so I would say of the critics and faultfinders of the day: "Let him that is guiltless cast the first stone." The world stands so in need of salvation, there is so much good that needs to be done, that every one of us should seek to be a helper and not a "knocker." If we will only combine kindness with firmness for the truth and lead the life of self-denial that God desires us to lead, and will keep our hearts pure, we will be useful and happy here and glorified in the world to come.

It seems to me there is no maxim for a noble life like this: Count always your highest moments your truest moments. Believe that in the time when you were the greatest and most spiritual man, then you were your truest self.—Phillips Brooks,

SELECTIONS BY THE EDITOR

Religion must be as big and free as life or it cannot occupy a position of leadership in this time in which men are seeking the way of life.—Harry Foster Burns.

I am not concerned that I have no place,
I am concerned how I may fit myself for one;
I am not concerned that I am not known,
I seek to be worthy to be known. —Confucius.

Blessed be the man whose work drives him. Something must drive men; and if it is wholesome industry, they have no time for a thousand torments and temptations.—Beecher.

If a man can write a better book, preach a better sermon, or make a better mouse trap than his neighbor, though he build his house in the woods, the world will make a beaten path to his door.—Emerson.

Build a little fence of trust around to-day,
Fill the space with loving deeds and therein stay;
Look not through the sheltering bars upon to-morrow,
God will help thee bear what comes of joy or sorrow.

—Mary Frances Butts.

Men give me credit for genius, but all the genius I have lies in this: When I have a subject on hand, I study it profoundly. The effect I make, they call the fruit of genius; it is, however, the fruit of labor and thought.—Alexander Hamilton.

We may perish from all memory of mankind, but our work will not perish, for he that doeth the will of God abideth forever; and if we are engaged in his work, we link ourselves to his permanency and his almightiness, and our work will go down to help the men who are to come after.

—J. A. Broadus.

The birth of a little child reveals God; the helplessness of a little child proves providence; the innocence of a little child illustrates heaven; the death of a little child implies immortality. Surely no little one sent into an earthly home, even for a day, and bequeathing these beautiful and sublime lessons, can be thought to have come and gone in vain.—W. R. Alger.

A little work, a little play
To keep us going—and so, good day!
A little warmth, a little light
Of love's bestowing—and so, good night!
A little fun to match the sorrow
Of each day's growing—and so, good morrow!
A little trust that when we die
We reap our sowing! And so—good-by!
—George Du Maurier.

There are more opportunities than there are young men to take advantage of them. You say the country has grown larger, that life is more complex, and that as a result the personal incentive has vanished in proportion. Everything in that is perfectly correct except the conclusion. The country is bigger and life is more complex; but who will gainsay that if the country has grown bigger, and the opportunities have with it, and that if life is more complex, it at least results in a greater variety of opportunities?—James J. Hill.

One of the most important discoveries of all time in medical science was made recently, if later tests verify the claims. The greater credence is to be given to the announcement because it comes from the United States public health service in the Hawaiian Islands. It is said that already forty-eight cases of leprosy have been cured by the new specific. The patients were under treatment for about a year and paroled as cured. Though nearly eight months have elapsed, no trace of the disease has reappeared. Credit for the discovery is given to Prof. L. E. Dean, head of the chemical department of the college of Hawaii.—Exchange.

₩ AT HOME AND ABROAD

- F. W. Smith is engaged in a meeting at Lafayette, Tenn.
- C. E. W. Dorris preached at Trinity Lane, this city, on last Lord's day.
- F. B. Srygley preached at Lawrence Avenue, this city, last Lord's day and the night following.
- J. T. Harris, of Lawrenceburg, Tenn., closed a meeting at Mount Hebron, near Charlotte, Tenn., with three baptisms.
- W. E. Morgan has changed his address from Childress to Quanah, Texas. He begins full-time work at the latter place this week.
- Dr. J. S. Ward preached at Franklin, Ky., last Lord's day and night, and will preach at the Fanning Orphan School every night this week.
- R. L. Hays paid us a visit last Thursday. He is making strenuous efforts to get the new house of worship at Spring Hill seated for winter use.
- From T. B. Clark, Childress, Texas, November 18: "Interest was fine in the work here yesterday morning. We were rained out at night."
- H. E. Winkler called to see us Monday morning. He is just in from meeting work and is looking well. We are always glad to have him call.
- W. Clarence Cooke has changed his address from Lewisburg, Tenn., to Tracy City, Tenn., Box 87. He reports the work as progressing nicely at that place.
- J. M. Gainer, of Fayetteville, Tenn., reports the congregation there as being very much in earnest and as progressing nicely in the great work of saving souls.
- H. T. King, of McMinnville, Tenn., came in to see us a few minutes last week. He reports things going on nicely in the church there since Brother Martin's fine meeting.
- E. A. Elam is in Fort Worth, Texas, this week, conducting a meeting for the Southside-Central Church. He was to begin last Lord's day, and may be in that State several weeks.

From Leslie G. Thomas, Flint, Mich., November 7: "I preached twice to-day to the church here. I hope the brethren will soon realize that we must work if we expect to win a crown."

The meeting conducted by S. M. Jones at Reid Avenue, this city, closed last week with three additions. Brother Jones preached last Lord's day and night following at Gallatin, Tenn.

From J. C. Mosley, Ravenscroft, Tenn., November 10: "I have been here with James Dennis in a meeting. I go tonight to Neverfail, and then to Eastland. I am still preaching continually."

From Charles F, Hardin, Springfield, Mo., November 14: "The meeting at Belle Plaine, Kan., conducted by M. S. Mason and myself, resulted in seventeen added to the church, fifteen by baptism,"

- G. W. Riggs preached at Berea, in Williamson County, Tenn., on the first Lord's day in this month, and one was baptized. He preached at Franklin at night. Last Lord's day he preached at Schochoh, Ky.
- W. P. Freeman, of Gallatin, Tenn., called to see us last Saturday. He reports the church at Gallatin moving on about as usual. The protracted meeting there closed on Wednesday of last week with twelve additions.
- N. W. Deacon, of Henderson, Tenn., has just returned from a trip to Fairfield, Wartrace, and Bellbuckle, Tenn., where he has been looking over some farm lands. He paid us a very pleasant call on his way through Nashville.

From W. Curtis Porter, Monette, Ark., November 7: "1 filled my appointment at Black Oak to-day. We had a large crowd, good attention, and two restorations. We also had two restorations at my appointment there last month."

From W. D. Bills, San Antonio, Texas, November 11: "Excellent services at Denver Heights, this city, Sunday. Large crowds at both services, with eight additions. We plan a new congregation for the city in the near future."

Recently we enjoyed a visit from O. W. Rawlings, of Savannah, Ga. He reports the church growing in interest in that place, and seems very much devoted to the work. He is laboring to build up a strong church in Savannah.

- J. S. Trotter preached at Liberty, Tenn., last Lord's day, where he baptized one and officiated in the marriage of a couple. The interest was fine, He expects to preach at Cayce's Chapel, in Williamson County, Tenn., next Lord's day.
- From T. M. Carney, San Angelo, Texas, November 9: "My second year's labor with San Angelo church of Christ starts off encouragingly. Two accessions last Lord's day—one by identification and one by confession and baptism. We are hopeful. Pray for us."

From R. L. Colley, Millville, Ark., November 8: "I spent a very pleasant day yesterday with the people at Waldo. We had three excellent services. Three were buried with their Lord in baptism and one was restored. Waldo is wide-awake to their duty. They are going on unto perfection with the Lord's work."

Sister R. L. Crowell writes from Brunswick, Ga., November 9: "We have eight members meeting every Lord's day, and we have six children and must open a class for them. Brother Claus and our small band want to have a meeting here this month, and we are trying to secure a house, but so far have not secured one."

C. E. Wooldridge has been very busy since going to Texas. He has been forced to build a new house. He has labored with his own hands at putting up the house until he was almost worn out, and then has taken a rest by holding a protracted meeting for eight or ten days. He has held three protracted meetings since going to Texas.

From Ben West, Fort Worth, Texas, November 8: "Large crowds at the Northside Church yesterday, and three additions. The mission meeting we held in Rosen Heights Addition resulted in seventy-three additions—several baptized and restored to fellowship and others identified. Lots purchased and a temporary house built soon is planned."

Changes of address: Mrs. A. B. Collins, from Pelvidere, to Lexie, Tenn.; Clarence Scott, from Murray, Ky., Route 2, to Paris, Tenn., Route 3; R. F. Anthony, from Conway to Enola, Ark.; Mrs. J. L. Nollins, from 1624 Russell Street, to 1108 Sixth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.; Mrs. R. H. Summers, from Manchester, Tenn., to 504 Russell Street, Nashville, Tenn.

We have the following interesting note from J. H. Womack, of Sulphur, Okla.: "Please find inclosed two dollars and fifty cents, the price of one year's subscription to the Gospel Advocate for J. T. Greenwood, Route 1, Box 25, Sulphur, Okla. This is one of our Indian converts. I gave him two copies to-day to read, and he gave me the money to pay for it for one year."

From William P. Walker, Dinuba, Cal., November 8: "Yesterday was my second Sunday with the church here. Our audiences were larger than they were the preceding Sunday. The congregation, though small in numbers, is strong in faith and good works. I am devoting my time exclusively to the work in Dinuba. We expect to issue interesting reports in the future."

- J. M. Gainer, of Fayetteville, Tenn., writes under date of November 13: "I wish to say that we are all pleased with the editorial stand taken by the Gospel Advocate against speculative and destructive opinions which are being advanced in many quarters. The cause of Christ is well represented here by a zealous, faithful congregation, great in well doing as well as numbers."
- J. A. Cullum writes from Willow, Okla., November 10: "Please announce in the Gospel Advocate that, beginning on December 1, my permanent address will be Elk City, Okla., where I will be engaged in regular work with one of the best congregations in Oklahoma. Their singing is fine, and they have a mind to work. J. W. Dunn will hold our meeting in April. Correspondents will please note change in address."

Some one sends us five questions for answer in the "Query Department," but fails to give his name; so we will not answer the questions, as we must have the name of the querist before answering. If the querist does not wish his name given to the public, it will be withheld. We are holding the queries; so if the brother who sent them sees this and will give his name, they will be promptly answered.

The meeting at Russell Street church of Christ, this city, closed on the night of November 9. There were five confessions on the last day. Twelve were baptized and two took membership during the meeting. Brother Martin did some very fine preaching. The church was very much edified and strengthened. Churches wanting a good evangelist to hold a meeting for them will not make a mistake in writing to T. Q. Martin, St. Marys, W. Va.

From J. S. Newman, Clifton, Texas, November 10: "I want to say a few words to the faithful in regard to the call that has been made by W. J. Johnson and other brethren at Amite, La. This is a neglected field, and this call should have the consideration of all the faithful. From my knowledge of that country, I believe it is a worthy call, and I trust that the brethren will liberally help those who are making such a great sacrifice to establish the cause there."

From M. S. Mason, Springfield, Mo., November 8: "I closed at Cox's Chapel, near Zalmo, Mo., on October 10. No additions, but much good seed sown. I spent a pleasant week at home, and began at Belle Plaine, Kan., on October 17, closing there on November 7 with seventeen additions. I began at Milan, Kan., yesterday for a three-weeks' effort. Good interest, considering bad weather. I was ably assisted at Belle Plaine by Charles F. Hardin. He is a fine singer and a very promising preacher. I have May, 1921, yet open for protracted-meeting work."

My articles on woman suffrage are bearing fruit—not exactly in the way that I had expected, but still it appears that my labors are not in vain. Jeff Morris, of Franklin, Tenn., Route 4, says: "I wish to join Sister Howard in commending your articles on woman suffrage, and wish to say further that if any good, kind-hearted, Christian woman that has a desire to become the wife of a man who believes in being a Christian and who does not believe in woman suffrage sees this letter and will send me her name and address, I shall be glad to correspond with her with a view to matrimony."

Frank L. Cox, of Hollis, Okla., writing to Brother McQuiddy under date of November 8, says: "I received my first copy of the Gospel Advocate yesterday. I pronounce it a splendid paper. May God bless and direct you in the part you play. I am willing and anxious to assist you and the paper all that I possibly can. I am working with the church of Christ at this place. We have a church of near two hundred members. I came here in September last two hundred members. I came here in September last work with the brethren for a year at least. I am a young man, twenty-five years of age, and have been in the ministry for six years."

U. G. Wilkinson writes from Comanche, Okla., November 1: "I was at Marlow yesterday, and tried to preach for the brethren. We had an interesting service, although the weather was rainy. The church at Marlow seems to be doing well. Since returning home from Hot Springs, Ark., I am unable to tell that I am much improved yet in health, though I hope to be able to return to Arkansas again this winter and take further treatment. I certainly appreciate the kindness of the brethren, and my prayers are that God will bless his faithful children everywhere. I rejoice to see so many good reports from the field. Brethren, remember me in your prayers."

K. C. Moser, of Longview, Texas, writes to J. C. McQuiddy as follows: "I can no longer refrain from expressing my appreciation of your great paper. I mean nothing to the disparagement of other good papers of the brotherhood when I say that the Gospel Advocate is among the best, if not the best. Your writers must be godly men. To say the least, their writings certainly reflect the spirit of Christ. I am not personally acquainted with you or your staff of writers; but if on personal acquaintance I should be forced to change my opinion, I would be greatly disappointed. As long as you continue to teach the truth in the spirit of Christ, backed by your godly lives, I am anxious to cast in my mite toward holding up your hands while you fight the Lord's battles."

Tice Elkins writes from Fort Worth, Texas, November 8: "We had fine services at Southside-Central Church yesterday. Two more precious souls obeyed the Lord in baptism at the night service. A good, healthy, steady growth going on, with members happy and working. We are looking forward with joy to Brother Elam's meeting here. Brethren who expect to attend the debate here between Elder Brogdon (Methodist) and myself will please note that the date is changed to November 30, 7:30 P.M., in order not to conflict with Brother Elam's meeting. I hope a goodly number of preachers will attend, for I may need them. My daughter, who was operated upon at St. Joseph's Infirmary a week ago, is better, and will recover, I am sure. These are hard blows my family are enduring, but 'our God liveth.'"

On November 8 we received from L. Meyer, of Atlanta, Ga., the following telegram: "If G. Dallas Smith will be buried in Tennessee, wire when and where at my expense." This was the first intimation we had received that G. Dallas Smith was dead. Later L. F. Mason and wife passed through Nashville on their way to Morrison, Tenn., to bury their baby, which was only six weeks old. Brother Mason informed us that Brother Smith had died suddenly in Cleburne, Texas. The intention was first to bring his body to Tennessee for burial, but it was afterwards decided to bury him in Texas. The Gospel Advocate deeply deplores his loss. He was an able preacher and was doing a good work for the Master. His "Outlines of Bible Study" has been used extensively by the churches with great profit. We shall expect some one to prepare a more extended notice of his life and death for our columns.

From Vina Hooper, McGregor, Ga.: "I am glad to tell our brethren that when I returned from Tennessee this fall I found the members of the McGregor church of Christ still meeting each Lord's day and doing what they could for our Master. Last June, before I left McGregor, we made a call for help to lift some of our debts. At that time we needed about five hundred and fifty dollars to pay debtedness. We have received about half that amount. winter is coming on, we must purchase windows and a stove, besides ceiling, etc. I feel personally responsible for bills already made, and shall do what I can to help pay them off. Will each person who feels an interest in this great work please send us a liberal contribution at once? Raising money here among our nine members is quite different to what it is in our large congregations at other Please send all donations to me at McGregor, Ga., places. or to S. B. Swann, McGregor, Ga.

From D. S. Ligon, Denton, Texas, November 11: "I am still at home on account of the cancerous sore on my left cheek, but am glad to say that it is getting along nicely now. I think it will be well soon. I wish to say to the brethren near Denton that I am going to be at home this winter, and if any churches close or even one hundred miles away need preaching, I shall be glad to assist in the Lord's work. I want to be kept busy doing all I can to advance the Master's cause. I heard a good sermon last Lord's day here at home, delivered by R. L. Whiteside. He said many timely things on the subject, "Things We Need to Notice These Days." Brother Smith was away Sunday; but he is still preaching for the church here, and seems to be doing his best. I was very much grieved at the very sad news of the death of our good brother, G. Dallas Smith; but, thanks be to the good Lord, we should not grieve for him as for one who had no hope."

W. D. Black writes from Holdenville, Okla., November 8: "Yesterday was a good day with us at the church of Christ, this city. D. F. Draper, of Fort Worth, Texas, was with us, and preached on Saturday night, Sunday, and Sunday night, and at Spaulding in the afternoon. We had an excellent audience at each service, and especially at the eleven-o'clock service we had a crowded house. One very devoted Christian lady placed her membership with the congregation, having recently moved here. Brother Draper, in that splendid style of teaching peculiar to himself, gave us some good lessons, which were enjoyed by all present, I am sure. Judging from the crowded house at the eleven-o'clock service, we are sure that the interest at this place is holding up. It may be possible that I can now give all my time, or at least the greater part of it, to the work at this place through the winter months. Let us press the fight, and work now; for 'the night cometh, when no man can work.'"

M. B. Delk writes from Santa Rosa, Cal., November 6: "At present our school enrollment is more We have new pupils every few days. This is very encouraging, and we feel that our efforts are not all in vain. At our last Wednesday-night Bible study two were baptized. Both are students in our school. We are to start a mission at Sebastopol, if we can get a hall. It is a good place for Christian workers, as there is no church of Christ there. We feel that we can spend our Sunday afternoons more profitably this way than otherwise. On Friday afternoon, November 5, our high-school students had a debate. The subject was: 'Resolved, that education is of more benefit to humanity than money.' The debaters showed they had studied their subjects quite a bit. There seems a little prospect of two of our boys debating with two Mormon boys. There are two Brighamite preachers in town. They are only boys and have been preaching about eleven months. It seems that Salt Lake City is sending out boys only."

W. A. Totty, of Denver, Tenn., asks an explanation of Heb. 6: 17, 18. The particular point on which he wishes information is what the "two immutable things" spoken of in verse 18 are. This passage reads: "Wherein God, being minded to show more abundantly unto the heirs of the promise the immutability of his counsel, interposed with an oath; that by two immutable things, in which it is impossible for God to lie, we may have a strong encouragement, who have fled for refuge to lay hold of the hope set before us."

"Immutable" means something that does not change; it is unalterable, fixed and permanent. The "two immutable things" are the word of his promise and his oath referred to in verse 17.

Tim Walker, of Fort Henry, Tenn., sends the following query: "We understand in John 3: 5, when Jesus made reference to the kingdom of God, that he was speaking of the church of Christ. If we have a correct understanding of this passage, what is the kingdom that Peter speaks of in 2 Pet. 1: 11? Is it a fact that 'everlasting' means without beginning or ending?"

John 3: 5 reads: "Verily, verily, I say unto thee, Except one be born of water and the Spirit, he cannot enter into the kingdom of God." The man who believes and is baptized is saved, is born of water and the Spirit, and hence is in the church of Christ, or the kingdom of God. 2 Pet. 1: 11 says: "For thus shall be richly supplied unto you the entrance into the eternal kingdom of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ." The word here rendered "everlasting" means "without end, everlasting." Men who are faithful unto death, who through life endure trials and tribulations until death, will be saved eternally, and thus enter the everlasting kingdom, never to be lost.

0 0 0

John M. Rice, of Merkel, Texas, says: "I am sending three questions, and beg for a consideration of them: (1) If every citizen in the United States was a member of the church of Jesus Christ, would there be a need of civil government? (2) If there should be a need of civil government, if all were Christians, and some wicked nation should invade this civil government composed of Christians, should this civil government, composed of Christians, use the sword of the civil government to put down the evildoer? (3) If this government should use the sword and kill, would it be the individual or the government killing?"

No man can ever know that the hypothetical conditions presented by the querist will ever arise. As Christians, we should keepe our hearts free from envy, jealousy, and hatred. Christ teaches us not to be angry with our brother, as anger may develop into murder. "Whosoever hateth his brother is a murderer; and ye know that no murderer hath eternal life abiding in him." (1 John 3: 15.) There is so much bitterness manifested among brethren and against each other that there is great danger of many being lost. This is an actual condition that should be cured. Each and every one is due himself a careful introspection.

1. As the Bible is intended for all time and people, it appears from the thirteenth chapter of Romans that there will always be "civil government."

2. If the Bible teaches that any human government will ever be composed of all Christians, I have never discovered it. It is not my province to deal with untaught questions. (Deut. 29: 29.)

3. Because the government uses the sword to kill is no reason why the individual Christian should kill in war or anywhere else. The Christian should uphold his government and support it in any proper and scriptural way, but should not violate his own conscience or do anything which is not warranted by the word of God. It is always humane and Christian to dress the wounds of the wounded, to feed the hungry and starving, and to relieve the affliction of the suffering. It is antichristian to hate, kill, and murder.

Sisters Russ and Mattie Hill send the following to the "Query Department:" "Please tell us, one or all of you, what to do. The men are urging us to vote—say this is necessary to save the boys from war. We have a great horror of war, and the thought of the boys' having to go is terrible. But when the last war came up we took the advice of the Gospel Advocate and studied Brother Lipscomb's 'Civil Government,' trying to learn what to do. We cannot think it right for a Christian to vote or hold office, and cannot believe all the good women in the world can do any good going to the polls. But the men cannot see it that way. What say you? What shall we do?"

I have written two articles recently and two at an earlier date on the question of woman suffrage and woman's entering politics and holding office. If our sisters will read these, they will see what I think about women's voting and holding office. I am sure that they will lose more than they gain by going into politics. The men who have been active in voting, who have been active in holding office and active in politics, did not prevent by their votes the last awful and cruel war. In time of peace, when people are disposed to listen and to receive the truth, Christians should teach against carnal warfare. Now is a good time to show that war is antichristian and to urge Christians to lead peaceable, quiet, and godly lives. I do not see, neither have I ever understood, how a Christian could delight in shooting or killing any man. Christians, as such, cannot engage, by active participation in shooting and killing men, in carnal warfare. They should obey the civil government and stand by it in noncombatant service, in feeding the hungry and caring for the wounded, and go just as far with the government, without any violation of the law of God, as is possible. As women are to be keepers at home, it seems to me that they should not be encouraged, and that men should not urge them, to enter politics, to hold office, and to make campaign speeches, or to do anything else that leads them to violate the law of God.

0 0 0

G. C. Mayo, of Milan, Tenn., seeks for an explanation of Heb. 12: 6-8: 1 Cor. 5: 11.

The first passage reads: "For whom the Lord loveth he chasteneth, and scourgeth every son whom he receiveth. It is for chastening that ye endure; God dealeth with you as with sons; for what son is there whom his father chasteneth not? But if ye are without chastening, whereof all have been made partakers, then are ye bastards, and not sons." This scripture is very simple. The Lord chastens those whom he loves and scourges every son whom he receives. God chastens his children for their good, just as a father corrects his child for its good. If we are not chastened, it is clear evidence that we are bastards, and not sons. Every one whom God loves and whom he receives, he chastens. Chastisement is a sure proof of God's love.

The other passage reads: "But as it is, I wrote unto you not to keep company, if any man that is named a brother-be a fornicator, or covetous, or an idolater, or a reviler, or a drunkard, or an extortioner; with such a one no, not to eat." This may mean either an ordinary meal or the Lord's Supper. Certainly Christians are not to eat with fornicators, the covetous, idolaters, drunkards, extortioners, or revilers at the Lord's table or even in an ordinary meal. "With such a one no, not to eat" means not to eat any meal. Eating with such men would imply a brotherly recognition. In the days of the New Testament, eating with a man meant really more than it does now.

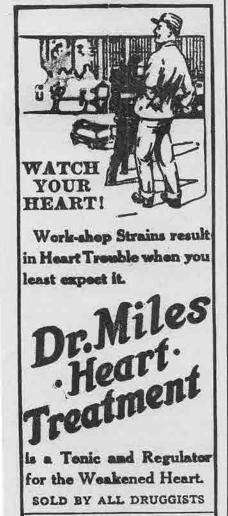

WHY HAVE CATARRH?

So Disagreeable to Yourself and All About You.

Catarrh is generally conceded to be a constitutional disease. Therefore it requires a constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla which reaches every part of the system by thoroughly purifying and enriching the blood. This medicine removes the cause of the trouble, which if not checked may lead to more serious disease.

In 46 years of use and test Hood's Sarsaparilla has relieved many cases as told by voluntary letters of commendation. not get a bottle today and give it a trial? It combines economy and efficiency. Keep Hood's Pills on hand as a family cathartic.

MILES MEDICAL CO., Elkhart, Ind.

The Kingdom Question.

BY T. W. PHILLIPS

The question of the kingdom of this article shall be the "kingdom of God's dear Son," "the kingdom of God," and "the church of the first-born." In Dan, 2: 44 we read about a kingdom that God said he would "set up." He said he would set it up "in the days of these kings"-that is, the days of the kings of the Babylonians. Persians, Grecians, and Romans. He said, too, that the kingdom that he would set up would "break in pieces and consume all these kingdoms," and that it should "stand forever." God did this very thing by Jesus Christ, through whom and by whom he did all things: "For by him [Christ] were all things created, that are in heaven, and that are in earth, visible and invisible, whether they be thrones, or dominions, or principalities, or powers; all things, were created by him, and for him: and he is before all things, and by him all things consist." (Col. 1: 16, 17.) Hence, Jesus said: "Upon this rock I will build my church; and the gates of hell shall not prevail against it. And I will give unto thee the keys of the kingdom of heaven; and whatsoever thou shalt bind on earth shall be bound in heaven; and whatsoever thou shalt loose on earth shall be loosed in heaven." (Matt. 16: 17, 18.) He proceeded to prepare material before his death for this great institution; and after his resurrection from the dead he taught his disciples for a period of forty days concerning the kingdom of God (Acts 1: 3), but commanded them not to depart from Jerusalem until they were inspired to be his witnesses first in Jerusalem, then Judea, then Samaria, and then to all the world, or the uttermost parts of the earth. They obeyed him; and when the day of Pentecost was come, the Holy Spirit came and the work of the new institution started. (Acts 2.) This is in accord with Zechariah, the prophet, who said: "Behold the man whose name is The BRANCH; and he shall grow up out of his place, and he shall build the temple of the Lord; even he shall build the temple of the Lord; and he shall bear the glory, and shall sit and rule upon his throne; and he shall be a priest upon his throne; and the counsel of peace shall be between them both." (Zech. 6: 12, 13.) That "the Branch" is Christ, I presume no Bible reader will question; and "them both," between whom the counsel of peace should be, is none else than Christ as both King and Priest upon the throne of David, as the key-keeper understood it after the Holy Spirit came to inspire him, and as he preached it in his sermon on Pentecost in Jerusalem when he said:

s young man who practiced medicine in a rural district became famous and was called in consultation in many towns and cities because of his suc-cess in the treatment of disease. This cess in the treatment of disease. This was Dr. Pierce who afterward moved to Buffalo, N. Y. He made up his mind to place some of his medicines before the public, and he put up what he called his "Favorite Prescription," and placed it with the druggists in every state in the Union. For fitty years Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has sold more largely throughout the United States than any other medicine of like character. It's the testimony of thousands of cess in the treatment of disease.

It's the testimony of thousands of women that it has benefited or en-tirely eradicated such distressing ail-ments as women are prone to. It is ments as women are prone to. It is now sold by druggists in tablet form as well as liquid.

NEWBERRY, S. C.—"After using Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription I feel like a new woman. My friends all tell me I look so much better. I am more than pleased with the result. I know that I can't praise any one of Dr. Pierce's remedies too highly. I always keep them on hand in order to keep well."—Mrs. LELIA SUFER, Route 1—Box 63.

"Men and brethren, let me freely speak unto you of the patriarch David, that he is both dead and buried, and his sepulcher is with us unto this day. Therefore being a prophet, and knowing that God had sworn with an oath to him, that of the fruit of his loins, according to the flesh, he would raise up Christ to sit on his throne." (Acts 2: 29, 30.) The Lord had prepared the throne in heaven. (Ps. 103: 19.) "Therefore being by the right hand of God exalted, . . . he hath shed forth this, which ye now see and hear." (Acts 2: 33.) Peter then preached that God had raised up Jesus and made him "both Lord and Christ," (Verse 36.) Both Lord and Christ, exalted now at God's right hand, seated on David's throne, he reigns as meditorial King, and will reign until the last enemy is destroyed, which is death. (1 Cor. 15: 25, 26.) But his kingdom "is not meat and drink: but righteousness, and peace, and joy in the Holy Ghost." (Rom. 14: 17.) A fountain has been "opened to the house of David and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem for sin

A REMARKABLE HOME TREAT-MENT GIVEN BY ONE WHO HAD, IT

MENT GIVEN BY ONE

WHO HAD IT

In the spring of 1893 I was attacked by Muscular and Sub-Acute Rheumatism. I suffered as only those who have it know, for over three years. I tried remedy after remedy and doctor after doctor, but such relief as I received was only temporary. Finally I found a remedy that cured me completely, and it has never returned. I have given it to a number who were terribly afflicted and even bedridden with Rheumatism, some of them from seventy to eighty years old, and results were the same as in my own case.

I want every sufferer from such forms of rheumatic trouble to try this marvelous healing power. Don't send a cent; simply mail your name and address, and I will send it free to try. After you have used it and it has roven itself to be that long-looked-for means of getting rid of your Rheumatism, you may send the price of it, one dollar; but, understand, I do not want your money unless you are perfectly satisfied to send it. Isn't that fair? Why suffer any longer, when relief is thus offered you tree? Don't delay. Write to-day.

MARK H. JACKSON,
No. 827G Durston Bidg., Syraeuse, N. Y.
Mr. Jackson is responsible. Above statement true.

To Reduce Fever Relieve Headaches and Neuralgic Pains

Use

Aspitone is very efficient and absolutely safe to use as it does not depress the heart even in extreme cases of debaity or weak heart, neurasthenia or anaemia. Manufactur-ed by a formula in use by leading physicians generally, 19 parts pure Aspirin, 1 part pure Caffeine, 4 parts excipient, in convenient tablet form. 35c per package at your drug-gists or by mail from the manufacturers, Pledmont Laboratories. Inc., Clinton. S. C.

Stop Itching

Skins with Tetterine

60c. at your druggist's or from

SHUPTRINE CO., Savannah, Ga

and uncleanness." (Zech. 13: 1.) "And the Lord shall be king over all the earth: in that day shall there be one Lord, and his name one," (Zech. 14: 9.) Jesus said that "repentance and remission of sins should be preached in his name among all nations, beginning at Jerusalem" (Luke 24: 47)-right where the prophets said it should begin. (Isa. 2: 1-3: Mich. 4: 1-8.) "The kingdom shall come to the daughter of Jerusalem," "even the first dominion." "And they shall beat their swords into plowshares, and their spears into pruning hooks: nation shall not lift up a sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more." Love, joy, and peace, with the word of truth, the gospel of our salvation, is the only weapon now that a child of God should use.

"I was in the Spirit on the Lord's day;" "I John, who also am your brother, and companion in tribulation, and in the kingdom and patience of Jesus Christ." (Rev. 1: 9, 10.) The Father "hath translated us into the kingdom of his dear Son." (Col. 1: 13.) Then let us "walk worthy of God, who hath called us unto his kingdom and glory." (1 Thess. 2: 12.) On the Lord's day let us gather around the Lord's table in his kingdom (Luke 22: 29, 30), and let us never forget that we are citizens of the kingdom of heaven, and that we are to "shine as lights in the world, holding forth the word of life" (Phil. 2: 15, 16). Then when our Lord comes he will find us as "wise virgins," not walking in darkness, and will not, therefore, come upon us as a thief in the night." (1 Thess. 5: 4, 5.) When the trumpet shall sound, the Lord will descend from heaven, and we shall all be caught up in the clouds to meet the Lord in the air. The dead will rise first, and the living will be changed, "in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye," and we will all, both good and bad, be caught up in the air, and the final separation will take place; and when our Lord has gathered out of his kingdom "all things that offend and them which do iniquity," he will then deliver up the kingdom to God, even the Father, and Christ will be our Elder Brother, and we will be heirs of God and joint heirs with the Lord Jesus Christ. John, the forerunner, came preaching the near approach of the kingdom, and Jesus commissioned the twelve and the seventy to go and preach the near approach of the coming kingdom. Jesus taught his disciples to pray for the kingdom to come, and he taught the disciples to "seek first the kingdom of God," promising that all necessary things should be added.

This old diabolical rot, that the kingdom has not yet come, and that Jesus will come and reign literally a thousand years on this old earth and then set up his kingdom, is of sinful man and not of God.

You Do More Work,

You are more ambitious and you get more enjoyment out of everything when your blood is in good condition. Impurities in the blood have a very depressing effect on the system, causing weakness, laziness, nervousness and sickness.

GROVE'S TASTELESS CHILI TONIC restores Energy and Vitality by Purifying and Enriching the Blood. When you feel its strengthening, invigorating effect, see how it brings color to the cheeks and how it improves the appetite, you will then appreciate its true tonic value.

GROVE'S TASTELESS CHIII TONIC is not a patent medicine, it is simply IRON and QUININE suspended in Syrup. So pleasant even children like it. The blood needs Quinine to Purify it and IRON to Enrich it. These reliable tonic properties never fail to drive out impurities in the blood.

The Strength-Creating Power of GROVE'S TASTELESS Chill TONIC has made it the favorite tonic in thousands of homes. More than thirty-five years ago, folks would ride a long distance to get GROVE'S TASTELESS Chill TONIC when a member of their family had Malaria or needed a body-building, strength-giving tonic, 'The formula is just the same today, and you can get it from any drug store, file per hottle. store. 60c per bottle.

Say You Want "Diamond Dyes"

Don't Spoil or Streak your Material in a Poor Dye

Each package of "Diamond Dyes" contains directions so simple that any womtains directions so simple that any wom-an can diamond-dye a new rich, fadeless color into worn, shabby garments, draperies, coverings, whether wool, silk, linen, cotton or mixed goods. Buy "Diamond Dyes"—no other kind— then perfect results are guaranteed even if you have never dyed before. Druggist has color eard.

PARKER'S

HAIR BALSAM
RemovesDangruff-StopsHairFalling
Restores Color and
Beauty to Gray and Faded Hair
60c. and St.00 at Druggists,
Hiscox Chem. Wks. Patchogue, N. Y.

HINDERCORNS Removes Corns, Callouses, etc., stops all pain, ensures comfort to the feet, makes walking easy. He. by mail or at Druggists, Hiscor Chemical Works, Patchogue, N. Y.

PILES DON'T BE CUT Until You Try This Wonderful Treatment.

If you have piles in any form, write for a FREE sample of Page's Pile Tablets, and you will bless the day that you read this. Write to-day. E. R. Page, 430-D Page Building, Marshall, Mich.

FOOT COMFORT ASSURED Brooklyn Man Solves the Problem

It is no longer necessary to suffer agonies that are caused by misfit shoes; for Mr. Simon, of Brooklyn, has proven that he can fit perfectly by mail. Simon's EzWear Shoes are built to give every possible foot comfort; they are soft and stylish, and do not need breaking in. They fit like the proverbial pair, the minute you wear them. Every pair is guaranteed to give satisfaction and to fit perfectly.

Mr. J. R. Simon will gladly send a free catalogue of over 500 styles of E2Wear Shoes to all who write him, along with his scientific, self-measuring blank. Write for your copy to-day, and give your feet their much-needed happiness. Address all communications to Mr. J. R. Simon, 1589 Broadway, Brooklyn, N. Y., and you will receive personal attention.

TREMENDOUS VALUE FOR 10c.

Washington, D. C. (Special).—An unusual offer is being made by the editor of the Pathfinder to send the paper to new readers sight weeks for ten cents. This well-known national weekly magazine contains all the worth-while news of the world, illustrated and presented in a most entertaining manner. It is clean, sincere, nonpartisan, reliable, well printed in large type. It puts everything clearly, fairly, and briefly.

Washington, the home of the Pathfinder, is the nerve center of civilization. History is being made at this world capital. The Pathfinder's illustrated weekly review gives you a clear, impartial, and correct diagnosis of public affairs during these strenuous, epoch-making days. It is the only big weekly magazine at the seat of government. Send ten cents for eight weeks' trial subscription to the Pathfinder, 118 Douglas Street, Washington, D. C. The ten cents does not repay the editor, but he is glad to invest in new friends.

Use (Meanning (Mallore

Antiseptic Analgesic Antiphiogistic

(Prevents Infection) (ReMeres Pain) (Allays In Zammation)

For coughs, colds, influenza, croup and threatened pneumonia, wounds, abrasions, burns, bruises and sunburn. Will not blister delicate membranes.

Eucapine Salve reduces inflammation of the skin and mucous membrane and whether applied directly to the inflamed surface, for external injury or its volatile oil inhaled for pulmonary troubles it is dependable and efficacious. 50c per 2 oz. jar. At your druggist's or by mail from the manufacturers.

Piedmont Laboratories, Inc.,

An Important Question.

BY THOMAS H. BURTON.

Is it possible that the first house of worship for the church of Christ in this State is going to have to be mortgaged, and that to a sectarian, before we get the money to finish it? Will this be an odor of sweet smell, a sacrifice well pleasing unto God? Is this letting the light of almost two million souls shine as it should? Shall we at this very critical moment in this State be compelled to let the news go out to the world that we are not able to build one little house that will cost about six thousand dollars, or shall we pay all bills and announce to the public that we owe no man anything on the house? Brother, don't you think the latter will be the better plan? To be able to make this announcement will be the best advertisement for the cause that we can put out at this time. It will do more good than any preacher can for twelve months. Several brethren and congregations have been very liberal in their giving, and we have on hand about three thousand dollars, but we have only a few more weeks to raise the remainder in order to have it by the time the house is finished. Brethren, come on with your part and make it possible for us to have one house in this State, out of debt, by the first time we meet in it. Is it possible for us to be well pleasing in the sight of God unless we do all the good we can in this world as we pass along? Is it possible for you to study the lesson for November 7 and not be made to feel more keenly the necessity of laying up treasures in heaven? Is it possible for us to lay up treasures in heaven without contributing of our means? Is it possible to lay them up otherwise? If not, how does our bank account in heaven compare with the one on earth? Brethren, send in your contributions at once, and as soon as we get what we need to finish the house I will notify you through the papers. Send all communications and contributions to the writer; or, if it suits you better, just send to the editor of this paper, and he will forward to me.

A negro Christian once said: "Faith is lying down flat on the promises, and looking up." Senator Spencer says: "Faith is taking God at his word." There is no disagreement between the two definitions.—Exchange.

To rise with Christ—it is awaking Into the brightness of God's face; It is to see his splendor breaking Through every form, in every place, And all along the heavenly way Unfolds the dawn of his great day.

-Selected.

160 Hens 1500 Eggs

Mrs. H. M. Patton, Waverly, Mo., writes me: "I have fed two boxes of 'More Eggs' to my hens and I think they have broken the egg record. I have 160 white Leghorns and in exactly 21 days I got 125 dozen eggs." Any poultry raiser can easily make big profits this fall and winter by increasing the egg production of his hens. A scientific tonic has been discovered that revitalizes the flock and makes hens work all the time. The tonic is called "More Eggs." Give your hens a few cents' worth of "More Eggs" and you will be amazed and delighted with the results.

Now is the time to give "More Eggs" to your hens while prices are high and profits big.

$1.00 FREE

Send the coupon below. Don't send any money Mr. Reefer will send you two $1.00 packages of "More Eggs." You pay the postman upon delivery only $1.00, the price of just one package, the other package being free. The Million Dollar Merchants Bank of Kansas City, Mo. guarantees if you are not absolutely satisfied, your dollar will be returned at any time within 30 days—on request. No risks to you. 400,000 users praise Reefer's "More Eggs."

Results!—Read These Letters!

First Time Hens Laid During Moult

I have used your "More Eggs" Tonic since last fall and can surely say it has amply paid me. I have had chickens for 7 years and this is the first time they have ever laid through their moulting season. MRS. C. LUGINBUHL, Norwood. Ohio.

Loafers Before, Layers Now

My hens have laid through moulting this year. It is the first time since I had chickens. They have always been loafers until I used "More Eggs". Now they are good layers.

MRS. IL J. SCHULZE, Pittsburgh, Kans.

24 Eggs a Day During Moulting

Tour "More Eggs" Tonic certainly puts hens in good condition for laying. I had 175 hens that were moulting and I began feeding them your Tonic and got nearly 2 doz. eggs a day.

S. J. FRANKENBERGER, Loganton, Penn.

Send No Money!

Don't send any money; just fill in and mail coupon. You will be sent, at once, two $1.00 packages of "MORE EGGS." Pay the postman upon delivery only $1.00, the extra package being FREE. Don't walt—take advantage of this free offer TODAY! Reap the BIG profits "MORE EGGS" will make BIG profits profits of the profits of th

E.J.Reefer, Poultry Expert, 7258 Reefer Bldg., Kansas City, Mo. Dear Mr. Reefer:—I accept your offer. Send me two $1.00 packages of Reefer's "More Eggs" for which I agree to pay the postman $1.00 when he brings me the two packages. You agree to refund me $1.00 at any time within 30 days, if both of these packages do not prove satisfactory in every way.

Name	,
Wilres	8

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate. To abort a cold and prevent complications take

The purified and refined calomel tablets that are nausealess, safe and sure.

Medicinal virtues retained and improved. Sold only in sealed packages. Price 35c.

ASPIRIN

Name "Bayer" on Genuine

"Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" is genuine "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" is genuine Aspirin proved safe by millions and prescribed by physicians for over twenty years. Accept only an unbroken "Bayer package" which contains proper directions to relieve Headache, Toothache, Earache, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Colds and Pain. Handy tin boxes of 12 tablets cost few cents. Druggists also sell larger "Bayer packages." Aspirin is trade mark Bayer Manufacture Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid.

The Double Nature of Man. No. 9. BY TICE ELKINS.

We will now examine the evidence of inspiration on the subject of immortality. Let us commune for a moment with the spirits of the illustrious dead-illustrious, not for feats of valor, nor for conquests achieved on the blood-stained fields of carnage and death, but illustrious for moral excellence, for exalted piety, for ardent and undying faith. Let us inquire: What was their faith, and what were their hopes? Hear the response in the triumphant language of the godly, yet afflicted, man of Uz: "I know that my redeemer liveth, and that he shall stand at the latter day upon the earth: and though after my skin worms destroy this body, yet in my flesh shall I see God: whom I shall see for myself, and mine eyes shall behold, and not another; though my reins be consumed within me." (Job 19: 25.) Hear it also in the words of the monarch minstrel: "My flesh and my heart faileth: but God is the strength of my heart, and my portion forever." (Ps. 73: 26.)

The same faith and the same expectations characterized the language of the great apostle to the Gentiles: "I am now ready to be offered, and the time of my departure is at hand. I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith: henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous judge, shall give me at that day: and not to me only, but unto all them also that love his appearing." (2 Tim. 4: 6-8.) Can this be the language of dying men? Yes, it is even so. It is the language of men whose bosoms swelled with the expectation of immortal life. In them the fruits of faith in the blessed Redeemer had ripened into full and glorious maturity. Whatever may be the change that takes place in death, it is evidently one that does not destroy the identity of the individual. The rich man who lifted up his eyes in hell, being in torments, had not only the remembrance of his luxurious and godless life, but also remembered his connection with five brethren, who had most probably been his companions in pleasure and sin. personal identity we carry with us into the future life. But how is it done?

In this life there seems to be a bodily identity, as well as a mental identity. In what this bodily identity consists is not so easy to determine. An unceasing process of change is ever going on in our physical system. To-day we are not what we were yesterday, and to-morrow we shall not be what we are to-day. Yet, somehow, we think and speak of ourselves as the

A LETTER FOR WOMEN

From a Woman Whose Serious Illness Was Overcome by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Garnett, Kas.—"I first took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for a complete nervous breakdown following the birth of my oldest child. I got up too soon which caused serious female trouble. I was so weak that I was not able to be on my feet but very little and could not do my housework at all.

housework at all. I had a bad pain in my left side and it would pain terribly if I stepped off a urb-stone. One day one of your booklets was thrown in the yard and I read every word in it. There were so many who had been helped by your medicine that I wanted to try it and my husband went to town and got me a bottle. It seemed as though I felt relief after the second dose, so I kept on until I had taken five bottles and by that time I was as well as I could wish. About a year later I gave birth to a ten pound boy, and have had two more children since and my health has been fine. If I ever have trouble of any kind I am going to take your medicine for I give it all the praise for my good health. I always recommend your medicine whenever I can."—Mrs. Eva E. Shay, Garnett, Kansas.

same. This flux and efflux of the system may go on for a half a century, till every particle of it has been changed many times, and yet we are the same persons-our identity remains the same. Think of the bodily changes of half a century! Rising from infancy to mature life, and even beyond the desrepitude of old age, and yet the bodily identity is unchanged. But at death this body is dropped in the dust. The identity carried forward into another life then is not that of the body. It must be identity of soul. And all along in the unfolding of the future life, prior to the resurrection, this identity of the soul, as the very soul that once inhabited the earthly body, is either roundly asserted or distinctly implied.

How clearly is this expressed in that inimitable prayer of our blessed Redeemer for his followers: "Father, I will that they also, whom thou hast given me, be with me where I am!" (John 17: 24.) Not spirits newly created, however exalted and glorious, but these identical followers and companions of his earthly life. This same identity was proclaimed from the cross of Calvary and amid the thrilling scenes of the crucifixion: "To-day shalt thou "-not some other newly created spirit, but "thou," crucified, penitent, dying companion in suffering-"be with me in paradise." Our dust returns to the earth, but our spirits return to God who gave them. When the days of our years shall "be cut off," we shall not become extinct, but "fly away." The assassin may kill the body, but is "not able to kill the soul;" and as touching those called dead, "God is not the God of the dead, but of the living." And "we know that if our earthly house of this tabernacle [this body] were dissolved," we do not cease to be, but are simply "absent from the body." And then that magnificent apocalyptic vision: "I saw under the altar the souls of them that were slain for the word of God, and for the testimony which they held: and they cried with a loud voice, saying, How long, O Lord?" A more explicit recognition of the conscious existence of the soul after the death of the body it would be difficult to embody in any form of words. The bodies of these martyrs were slain, those bodies were still disunited from the soul; and yet there was not only conscious being, but conscious identity of themselves as the sufferers of wrong from wicked men.

It is useless to raise any quibble about the form or speech of disembodied spirits. Such objectors only place their ignorance in opposition to the boundless possibilities of the spiritual realm. We might have given many more proof texts, but these are sufficient wherever the Bible is au-

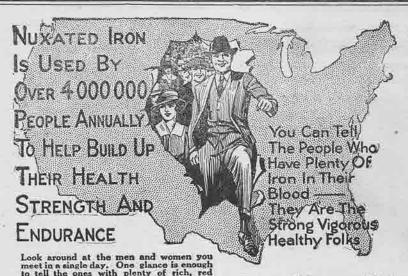

The Lowrey-Clark Debate.

BY JAMES E. LAIRD.

This debate was held at Paragould, Ark., beginning on October 19 and continuing four days. The following propositions were discussed: "The church of which I am a member, known as the Missionary Baptist Church, is scriptural in origin, doctrine, name, and practice." John R. Clark affirmed; J. P. Lowrey denied. "The church of which I am a member, known as the church of Christ, is scriptural in origin, doctrine, name, and practice." J. P. Lowrey affirmed; John R. Clark denied.

Clark is not a strong debater. He spends most of his time in abusing his opponent, mud-slinging, and misrepresentations. I was told that some of his own brethren from Cardwell, Mo., who attended the debate, were not satisfied with his defense of their doctrine, and said they would have another man to meet Brother Lowrey.

Brother Lowrey did his work well in defending the truth, and did it in a Christian spirit. Some brethren think there is nothing to be gained in meeting such a man as Clark is, I Look around at the men and women you meet in a single day. One glance is enough to tell the ones with plenty of rich, red blood, strength and physical energy to back up their mental power and make them a success in whatever they undertake. Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly physician of Bellevue Hospital (Outdoor Dept.), New York, and the Westchester County Hospital, says that to help make strong, keen, red-blooded Americans there is nothing so valuable as organic iron-Nuxated Iron. It often increases the strength and endurance of weak, nervous, run-down people in two weeks' time. It is conservatively estimated that Nuxated Iron is now being used by over four million people annually, and it has been used and endorsed by such men as Ignace Jan Paderewski, Ex-Premier of Poland and Master Pianist; United States Judge G. W. Alkinson, of the Court of Claims of Washington; also former Health Commissioner Wm. R. Kerr, of Chicago, and others. Nuxated Iron Is dispensed by all good druggists everywhere.

NO YOU KNOW that indigestion can be cured, permanently cured, so that you can eat any kind of food that you crave? It has been done not only once, but in almost every case when Chamberlain's Tablets are used. An instance: Mr. J. Pominville, Stillwater, Minn., who had spent over $2,000.00 for medicine and treatment was permanently cured by these tablets.

nberlain's Tablets think that depends on the kind of man you meet him with. If he is met by a Christian gentleman, as Brother Lowrey is, it will exalt the cause of Christ, and the better element of the Baptists will become disgusted, as they did on this occasion.

This debate did good, as was shown in the few nights Brother Lowrey preached after the debate, when three came from the Baptists and took their stand with the cause of Christ.

Convalescence after pneumonia, typhoid fever, and the grip is sometimes merely apparent, not real. To make it real and rapid, there is no other tonic so highly to be recommended as Hood's Sarsaparilla. Thousands so testify. Take Hood's.

in answering advertisements, please mention this paper.

2889 Nood St

Where Did We Get the Bible?

TALKS ON THE BIBLE. NO. 3.

L. How many books are in the Bible?
2. Who wrote the books of the Bible?
3. In what form was the Bible first produced?
4. In what languagewas the Old Testament first written?
5. In what languagewas the New Testament first written? written?

All these questions, and dozens more of interest to you, are answered in The Wonderful Story. Write to-day for it to

THOMAS NELSON & SONS, Authorized Publishers American Standard Bible,

385-U Fourth Avenue, New York City.

The American Standard Bible text is used in 75 per cent of all Sunday-school periodicals, because it is recognized as the most accurate version that has ever been produced.

The American Standard Bible text is used by over 13,000,000 Sunday-school scholars to study their lessons from. They realize that they cannot procure a more reliable version of the Scriptures.

TETTERINE

Makes low necks and short sleeves possible. It clears the skin

50c at your druggist's or from the SHUP-TRINE CO., Savanuah, Ga.

NOT WORKING, BUT TIRED OUT

When one feels always tired without working, or suffers from backache, lumbago, rheumatic pains, sore muscles, or stiff joints, it is not always easy to locate the source of trouble, but very frequently it can be traced to overworked, weakened, or diseased kidneys. Mrs. L. Gibson, Twelfth and Edison Streets, La Junta, Colo., writes: "My kidneys were giving me a great deal of trouble for some time. I took Foley Kidney Pills, and they helped me right away."

LEMON JUICE FOR FRECKLES

Girls! Make beauty lotion for a few cents-Try It!

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of orchard white, shake well, and you have a quarter pint of the best freekle and tan lotion, and complexion beautifler, at very, very small cost.

Your grocer has the lemons and any drug store or toilet counter will supply three ounces of orehard white for a few cents. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face, neck, arms and hands each day and see how freckles and blemishes disappear and how clear, soft and rosy-white the skin becomes. Yes! It is harmless and never irritates.

CHURCH NEWS

Alahama.

Montgomery, November 8.-Yesterday was a big day for the church of Christ worshiping on Highland Av-enue. We had a good hearing at both services. Three were added by relationship. All have a mind to work. Never have I met with a more gener-ous people than these. They are not satisfied unless they are doing something for others, something to pro-mote the cause of Christ. Their last act of kindness toward me was in the form of a nice Ford sedan. With this car I shall be able to reach more people. May the Lord ever bless them in their work of faith and labor of love .- J. H. Hines.

Bridgeport, November 9 .- The meeting at Athens, Tenn., continued from the first to the fifth Sunday in October. Attendance, attention, and interest were fine from the first to the last service. Bight were baptized; about twenty-five converted from the errors of the "progressives;" fifty-four enrolled; a fine, well-located lot, one hundred feet by one hundred and fifty feet, bought and paid for, with the restrictive clause in the deed, and a good subscription started to build a house of worship. The disciples are working faithfully, and prospects for the building of a house of worship soon are fine. Pray for this work. Brethren Walter Davis, of Trenton, Ga., and Joe Casteel, of Cleveland, Tenn., Route 7, were with me in the meeting, leading the song service and helping in other ways. They are fine brethren. other ways. They are fine brethren. Brother W. C. Phillips, of Cleveland, has done good work at Athens, and Brother Vernon Rozar has also labored faithfully there the past few months. May the Lord bless all who in any way contributed to the success of the Lord's cause at Athens. The disciples at Athens will need help to build. Send them a contribution. Send to James Dve. 315 Ohio Street, Athens, Tenn.— Charles Holder.

Arkansas.

Millville, November 3.-I have recently closed a meeting at Camden, Ark., the county seat of Ouchita County. There has never been a loyal congregation in the town. We set in order a small band of loyal brethren. They have bought the Catholic meetinghouse for two thousand dollars. The first payment of seven hundred dollars is to be made on November 18. These brethren are not able to make this payment alone, and we are asking those who are interested in the spread of the gospel of Christ in destitute places to help us as liberally as possible, that we may be able to meet this payment and hold the property. It is splendidly located and excellent building. Any amount will be appreciated. Send all contributions to S. T. Garner, Camden, Ark. R. L. Colley.

Kentucky.

Louisville, November 9.—The work here is moving along with fine inter-est. Reports from Campbell Street Church say that Brother Kurfees has stirred the church with strong doc-

Lungs Weak?

Generous Offer to Tuberculosis Sufferers of Trial of SANOSIN SANOLEUM, Embracing Europe's Remarkable Expectorant, SANOSIN.

Trial of SANOSIN SANOLEUM, Embracing Europe's Remarkable Expectorant, SANOSIN. Noted medical scientists—Drs. Danelius, Summerfield, Wolff, Noel, Gauther, Essers-declare SANOSIN most valuable treatment for pulmonary aliments. Felix Wolff, Court Physician, Directory of the Sanitarium for Consumptives in Reiboldsgrun, Germany, highly recommends it. SANOSIN has been officially recommended to the Berlin Medical Association. Dr. C. W. A. Essers, Amsterdam, Holland, declares it a "moral obligation to make SANOSIN known to the whole human race." American sufferers, rich or poor, can use this remarkable home treatment that has met with such success in Europe. SANOSIN SANOLEUM is designed to produce calm, restful sleep without morphine or similar deadening drugs, and to bring almost immediate relief from coughing, blood spitting, and night sweats. SANOSIN SANOLEUM is an inexpensive home treatment of genuine merit, and is proving a blessing to all suffering from Tuberculosis, Bronchitis, Asthma, Catarrh, Whooping Cough, etc. Send for FREE BOOKLET (with testimonials) explaining this treatment and how a trial can be made in your own home at our risk, Address SANOSIN SANOLEUM, 222 N. Wabash Ave., Chicago, Hl. Dept. 260.

Show this to some unfortunate.

MORE PAY FOR TEACHERS

We have hundreds of demands for teachers at greatly increased salaries. Send in your name to-day for enrollment. South Atlantic Teachers' Agency, 306 Walton Building, Atlanta, Ga.

Everything About Cuticura Soap Suggests Efficiency

Soap, Dintment, Talcum, 25c. everywhere, For samples address: Cuticura Laboratories, Dept. V. Malden, Mass.

TO RELIEVE CATARRHAL DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES

If you have Catarrhal Deafness or head noises go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of parmint (double strength), and add to it ½ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the disressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy, and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has Catarrhal Deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial. For sale by all d-uggists or sent on receipt of price 90c by Chas. A. Smith Drug Co.. Atlanta, Ga.

It's successful treatment without use of the knife. Hundreds of satisfied patients testify to this method. Write for free book. Tells how to care for patients suffering from cancer. Address DR. W. O. BYE, Kansas City, Mo.

trinal sermons, just the thing we need to-day. The work at F Street is making progress. One wanderer returned last Sunday. We feel that Brother Smithson is teaching the plain truth. The King's Hall brethren have broken ground for their new building. You can't beat them; they are made of the right sort of material. Brother Jarratt Smith preaches regularly for the Parkland Church. Brother Pendergrass, of Denton, Texas, has moved in to give us a lift. Brother McCasland was at King's Hall last Sunday. I have been out in the highways and the byways. -R. A. Craig.

Mississippi.

Jackson, November 5.—Our work in Jackson is progressing surely, but slowly. The cottage prayer meetings are interesting and profitable. Personally, people are becoming more acquainted with us and New Testament quainted with us and New Testament truths. We meet regularly on Sunday in the W. O. W. Hall—at 10 A.M. for Bible study and at 11 A.M. for worship. Those who come enjoy and are benefited by these services; but it seems exceedingly difficult to get others. ers but members to attend. Our growth will be much faster when we can have a house of our own in which to meet, which I hope will not be long off, for we can only get use of the hall on Sundays; and being up-town and on the third floor, only those really interested and personally invited find vs. There are none who just drop in. I have located two members who have been here for some time without attending service anywhere, not having learned of our meeting. They have promised to be with us in the future. Several have promised to attend next Sunday and hear the preaching who have as yet never done so. I preached In a meeting in Charleston, Miss., which resulted in eighteen baptisms and a spiritual awakening that I believe will long be felt for good. People in Mississippi are slower to accept the unadulterated gospel than they are in Tennessee. It is so new to them that it is hard for them to see that one can become, be, live, die, and be saved as a Christian only, and that denominations are not only unnecessary, but a hindrance. I trust and prov that I shall be snared to continue the effort until many here shall fall in love with plain, simple, New Testament Christianity, and we shall yet see an active congregation in this city as a radiating center from which the entire State shall be turned to Christ. All readers of the Gospel Advocate are requested to notify me of any one here in whom they are interested, that I may visit them.-Matthew C. Cayce.

Texas.

Ponta, October 30 .- We are engaged in a fine meeting at this place. Brother John T. Ramsey, of Beaumont, is doing the preaching. Ten have been baptized to date—one Methodist.— Dr. J. H. Herd.

Dallas, November 2.-I came in today from Corpus Christi, where spent eight days preaching. Wh there were no additions, the meeting was not a failure, by any means. This is the place where the brotherhood was called upon last year to help rebuild the church house that was destroyed by the awful hurricane that

STANDS OFF A LOT OF DOCTOR BILLS

Recommends Pe-ru-na for Catarrh of the Stemach, Colds and Grip

"I have used Pe-ru-na for several years and can heartily re-commend for catarrh of the stomach or entire system. I al-ways get benefit from it for colds and grip. It stands off lots of doctor bills and makes one feel like a new person." R. F. SUTTLES.

R. F. D. No. 3, Box 51, Waynesburg, Rentucky.

It is wise to keep a bottle of Pe-ru-na in the house for emergencies. Coughs and colds may usually be relieved by few doses of Pe-ru-na taken in time. Nasal catarrh, indi-estion, constipation, diarrhoea, rheumatism or other troubles due to a catarrhal condition of the mucous membranes all call for Pe-ru-na as the successful treatment. The health building, strength restoring qualities of this well known remedy are especially marked after a protracted sickness, the grip or Spanish Fin? PE-RU-NA is justly proud of its record of fifty years as health protector for the whole family.

TABLETS OR LIQUID

SOLD EVERYWHERE $

Read This! Do Not Fail to Read This!

MAKE YOUR HOME HAPPY WITH A HOME MUSIC BOX. The most wonderful and cheapest musical instrument ever invented. Thousands sold. A child can play it and be amused and entertained for hours.

You can sing with it, and so teach the children to sing. Everybody surprised and pleased. Our list of 1,000 tunes includes hymns and songs. Make grandpa and grandma smile as you play the old songs they love so well. All kinds of music to choose from—marches, popular songs, hymns, Sunday-school songs, etc. A fine gift for the holidays or other occasions. Just the thing to entertain a party.

Only 88.00 for this wonderful instrument, with four tunes, your choice, free. Extra tunes, 25c each.

Does not wind up, else it would cost $25.00 and play no better music. You can repeat a piece or change to another in an instant. Best to send full price with order, but $2.00 will he accepted, the rest payable on receipt by express, C. O. D., with charges. Lasts for years. Send 2c for catalogue.

A. Box 1179, City Hall Sta., New York, N. Y.

STANDARD MFG. CO., Dept. G. A., Box 1179, City Hall Sta., New York, N. Y.

THERSMITH'S CHILL TONIC

Sold for 50 years for Malaria and as a General Tonic. Helps build you up.

If Not Sold by Your Druggist, Write ARTHUR PETER & CO., Louisville, Ky.

destroyed about one-third of the city of ten thousand people and took the lives of several hundred. The wrecks and ruins are still visible. The brotherhood responded nobly to the call for help and enabled the brethren, with what they themselves were able to do, to erect a beautiful, modern, stucco building. One of the purest and best preachers of the brotherhood lives at Corpus Christi—C. W. Sewell, a son of the lamented Jesse L. Sewell. Brother Sewell is not as strong and active as he once was, but is yet able to do lots of good teaching, and does He preached a number of years for the church at a great sacrifice, and passed with the church through many fires of persecution by false brethren, but he and the church survived it all. Brother Sewell begged the church to let him give up the work, and after much insistence they consented; but they have him to take thirty-five dollars each month. He served as a most faithful elder, and is, indeed, a scriptural one. Brother Sewell's fa-ther baptized my father in Tennessee years ago. Both have passed to the great beyond. Brother Berry is the preacher at Corpus Christi now, and is doing a good work. He is both a good preacher and a good singer. I found several Tennesseeans there, and alternated my preaching with bay fishing and duck hunting, and made good at both.—J. B. Nelson.

CUT THIS OUT-IT IS WORTH MONEY

Cut out this slip, inclose with 5c, and mall it to Foley & Co., 2835 Sheffield Ave., Chicago, Ill., writing your name and address clearly. You will receive in return a trial package containing Foley's Honey and Tar Compound, for coughs, colds, and croup; Foley Kidney Pills, for pain in sides and back, rheumatism, backache, kidney and bladder allments; and Foley Cathartic Tablets, a wholesome and thoroughly cleansing cathartic for constipation, biliousness, headaches, and sluggish bowels.

TETTERINE for the COMPLEXION

Mc at year druggist's or from Shuptrine Co., Savannab, Ga.

Home-made Remedy Stops Coughs Quickly

The best cough medicine you ever used. A family supply easily and quickly made. Saves about $2. ፟፝፞፞፟፞፞ዿዿዿዿዿዿዿዿዿዿዿዿዿዿዿዿዿዿዿዿዿዿዿዿዿ

You might be surprised to know that You might be surprised to know that the best thing you can use for a severe cough, is a remedy which is easily prepared at home in just a few moment. It's cheap, but for prompt results it beats anything else you ever tried. Usually stops the ordinary cough or chest cold in 24 hours. Tastes pleasant, too-children like it—and it is pure and good.

Pour 2½ ounces of Pinex in a pint bottle; then fill it up with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup, if desired. Thus you make a full pint—a family supply—but costing no more than a small bottle of ready-made sough syrup. ready-made cough syrup.

And as a cough medicine, there is And as a cough medicine, there is really nothing better to be had at any price. It goes right to the spot and gives quick, lasting relief. It promptly heals the inflamed membranes that line the throat and air passages, stops the annoying throat tickle, loosens the phlegm, and soon your cough stops entirely. Splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma.

Piney is a highly concentrated com-

Pinex is a highly concentrated com-pound of Norway pine extract, famous for its healing effect on the membranes.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

NOTICE!

We want to get in touch with all the brethren who are interested in Christian education and who want to locate where there is a good Christian college. For further information, write to

S. L. BRADLEY. Morrillton, Ark.

DODSON TELLS THE HORROR OF CALOMEI

You Don't Need to Sicken, Gripe or Salivate Yourself to Start Liver.

You're bilious, sluggish, constipated You feel headachy, your stomach may be sour, your breath bad, your skin sallow and you believe you need vile, dangerous calomel to start liver and bowels.

Here's my guarantee! Ask your drug-gist for a bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone and take a spoonful tonight. If it doesn't start your liver and straighten you right up better than calomel and without griping or making you sick I want you to go back to the store and want you to go back to the store and get your money.

Take calomel today and tomorrow you will feel weak and sick and nauseated. Don't lose a day. Take a spoonful of harmless, vegetable Dodson's Liver Tone tonigh(and wake up feeling splendid. It is perfectly harmless, so give it to your children any time. It can't salivate.

Why Not Have a Share In It? BY O. G. VINCENT.

One of the most prosperous and promising mission stations we have in Japan is the Kamitomizaka work. The late William J. Bishop, whose very life was sacrificed for the cause of Christ in that country, did much to make this work a success. If he invested his life in this mission, surely we can invest money. After Brother Bishop went to his reward, the responsibility of seeing to this mission fell upon me. Apart from the support of Brother Hiratsuka, the consecrated and loyal evangelist, this native church is self-supporting. In addition to defraying the current expenses of its regular needs, these brethren are "laying by in store" about forty yen a month on the lot fund. It is not possible for them to pay for the lot they contracted for without our assistance. The lot purchased cost about thirteen thousand yen (six thousand five hundred dollars). Since our return I have raised something like two thousand dollars, one brother giving one thousand for this purpose. Other interested brethren, especially Brother W. W. Freeman, of Abilene, Texas, who has been appointed treasurer of this fund by the church there, have helped. I do not know just now exactly the amount in hand, but I am sure that there is much yet to be secured. I have on hands twenty-two dollars which will be forwarded to Brother Freeman soon. Almost every letter from Brother Hiratsuka reports one or more baptisms. This is not all: for his reports show that the new converts, as well as the older members, are growing in grace and in the knowledge of the Lord Jesus. Brethren, if you could personally visit this work and see the devotion, faith, and loyalty of the Kamitomizaka brethren, you would not hesitate one mement to help and to ask others to have a share in their plans for the Lord's cause. Will you help? How much will you give monthly or quarterly until the lot is paid for? I am willing to receive and forward your gift; but it is preferable to send it to Brother Freeman, whose address is given above, and who is doing this service under the direction of the Abilene church. Every dollar you give will reach Japan without any cost to you. The plan is in perfect harmony with the New Testament, and the call is worthy and the need is urgent. In the name of the Lord Jesus, and for his sake, let me request you to respond liberally and promptly. My address is 2813 Linden Avenue, Knoxville, Tenn.

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

Cured His RUPTURE

I was badly ruptured while lifting a trunk several years ago. Doctors said my only hope of cure was an operation. Trusses did me no good. Finally I got hold of something that quickly and completely cured me. Years have passed and the rupture has never returned, although I am doing hard work as returned, although I am doing hard work as a carpenter. There was no operation, no lost time, no trouble. I have nothing to sell; but will give full information about how you may find a complete cure without operation, if you write to me, Eugene M. Pullen, Carpenter, 354 G Marcellus Avenue, Manasquan, N. J. Better cut out this notice and show it to any others who are ruptured—you may save a life, or at least stop the misery of rupture and the worry and danger of an operation.

TREMENDOUS VALUE FOR 10c.

The Pathfinder, Leading Weekly Magazine of Nation's Capital, Makes Remarkably Attractive Offer.

Washington, D. C. (Special.)—Peo-ple in every section of the country are hurrying to take advantage of the Pathfinder's wonderful offer to send that splendid illustrated review of the whole world eight weeks for ten cents. It costs the editor a lot of money to do this, but he says it pays to invest in new friends, and that he will keep the offer open until the Pathfinder passes the 300,000 circulation mark, which will be in a few weeks. Ten cents mailed at once with your application to Pathfinder, 120 Douglas Street, Washington, D. C., will keep the whole family informed, entertained, helped, and inspired for the next three months.

CANCERS CURED AT KELLAM HOSPITAL,

1617 West Main Street, Richmond, Va.

It is known beyond a doubt and admitted by most of the leading physicians and sur-geons that cancer cannot be cured with the knife, X-Ray, radium, or acids, Cancers are permanently cured at The Kellam Hos-pital, without the use of either. Physicians and surgeons treated free at the hospital.

Opportunity at Oakland, Miss.

BY W. A. BURFORD.

The little congregation of loyal Christians at Oakland, Miss., now meeting every Lord's day for worship in the chapel of the High School building, are making an effort to build for themselves a house of worship. A good lot in the heart of town, with the restrictive clause in the deed, has been secured and paid for. They have already raised about one thousand dollars with which to buy material, and their estimate is that it will take about two thousand dollars to buy the material. After the building material is secured, carpenters who are members of the congregation will build the house. All members of the congregation have subscribed and paid in to the full amount of their ability; but they are determined to succeed, and will continue to make sacrifices in order to have a house of their own. Oakland is a splendid center in which to expend money as a missionary venture. The citizens of the town are kindly disposed toward our plea, and prospects are bright here for the future of the cause of Christ. Therefore it is in the fullest assurance of confidence that we are asking our brethren and friends everywhere to help us in this work. "It is more blessed to give than to receive." Send donations to W. A. Burford, secretary and treasurer, or to the Oakland Bank, Oakland, Miss.

Select Thoughts.

The standard of practical holy living has been so low among Christians that the least degree of real devotedness of life and walk is looked upon with surprise and often with disapprobation by a large portion of the church; and, for the most part, the followers of the Lord Jesus Christ are satisfied with a life so conformed to the world, and so like it in almost every respect, that to a casual observer no difference is discernible.—Selected.

For the sake of the child in our midst, we must talk of Thee in unspoken words of small things, done in love; for the sake of the aged, we must translate Thee in terms of consideration and patience; for the sake of the poor, in his pride, we must speak in simplicity; for the sake of the rich, in his pride, we must speak in power. For the sake of the work we have chosen to do, we must give up freedom of action, and wear at every moment bonds.—Selected.

Christian testimony is far too frequently limited to the ordained ministry, or to a few Christian workers, as distinct from the large body of Christian people. It ought to be true of every genuine follower of Christ that he is able to admonish, able to express spiritual experiences, able to bear witness to his Master's grace, able to lead a soul to Christ, able to help fellow Christians in spiritual difficulty, able to work for the Master, either at home or abroad.—W. H. Griffith Thomas.

One of the most convincing arguments for immortality is the undying appetite of the soul for knowledge, love, progress. As we approach the turn of life it never occurs to us that it is time to fold our arms, close our eyes, and bid farewell to nature, poetry, art, friendship, business. . . . We build houses, begin books, undertake operations, just as if we were to live forever, which shows, I think, that the sense of immortality destroys all sense of death as we grow old.—J. F. Clarke.

The Remartic Story of Southland's Favorite Shoe, EzWear

Some five years ago, a prominent citizen of South Carolina, visiting New York on important business, chanced to meet the maker of a shoe built on new and unusual lines; an enthusiastic admirer of its most distinctive features, ease and comfort, had suggested the name "EzWear;" it was promptly adopted. The business man from the South, knowing how welcome such a shoe would be in his part of the country. urged that its remarkable qualities, including not only comfort, but style, durability, and economy, be made known there. That this has been done effectively is proven by the enormous demand that has sprung up in the South for EzWear Shees. It is said that its sale there during the last twelve months has increased fully three hundred per cent. The distributor, Mr. J. R. Simon, of 1589 Broadway, Brooklyn, N. Y., says that all who wish to know about a shoe that combines all worth-while shoe qualities may have a copy of his money-saving shoe book for the asking.

HOW TO GET RID OF CATARRH

A SIMPLE, SAFE, INEXPENSIVE METHOD THAT CLEARS OUT THE HEAD, NOSE, AND THROAT.

There is no disease more offensive or disagreeable or no disease that will lead to as much serious trouble as catarrh. now get rid of it by a simple, safe, pleasant home remedy discovered by Dr. Blosser, a catarrh specialist.

Dr. Blosser's Remedy is composed of medicinal herbs, flowers, and berries, which you smoke in a dainty pipe or cigarette The smoke-vapor is inhaled into all the air passages of the head, nose, throat, and lungs. It contains no cubebs or tobacco, and may be used by women and children as well as men.

This medicated smoke carries medicine where sprays, douches, and ointments cannot possibly reach. Its effect is soothing and healing and is entirely harmless. If you are a sufferer from catarrh, asthma, catarrhal deafness, or subject to frequent colds, you should try this Remedy without delay.

Any well-stocked drug store can supply Dr. Blosser's Remedy in cigarettes or powder for smoking in a pipe, or will order it for you. Satisfactory results guaranteed by a genuine, money-back offer,

A trial package will be mailed postpaid to any sufferer for ten cents (coin or stamps) by The Blosser Co., 44DD. Atlanta. Ga., to prove its delightful and remarkable effectiveness .- Advt.

Funerals.

BY J. J. VANHOUTIN.

About as far back as we can trace funerals it was the custom to bury the dead out of sight. Tombs and graves were usually considered sacred places, and funeral orations were customary many years ago. Gregory Nanzianzin gave the oration at Constantine's burial, also a memorial oration to his honor the next year. Abraham buried his dead. Shem, the great type of Christ in twenty-one similarities, was buried. The Lord buried the great man Moses; he did not cremate him; and Mrs. Alexander said of his burial:

The angel of God upturned the sod. And laid the dead man there. That was the grandest funeral That ever passed on earth; Yet no man heard the tramping, Or saw the train go forth.

I wish I had space to give the entire poem. What near relation there must have been between God and Moses before his death! The Lord of life and glory condescend to bury the dead body of a man! What a wonderful thought! Shall we follow the example and bury our dead out of sight, like God and Abraham did?

David was buried with all the honors of a king and prophet, and his tomb was kept and protected until after the resurrection of Christ, because he prophesied of Christ's resurrection and was the only one that personated him in the grave. On the day of Pentecost, Peter said: "His sepulcher is with us unto this day." (Acts 2: 29.) Dr. Randel, who many years ago visited the place, said: "They could have opened the tomb of the embalmed singer of Israel and viewed the remains." King Alexander, who drank nine pints of poisoned wine and died from the effects, was taken to his grave by the greatest military guard ever known since Joseph was given the pride of the Egyptian army to bury his father. It took about two years to prepare for it. The hearse and harness were made; sixtyfour mules-sixteen abreast-were hitched to the hearse, then six hundred horses, and each horse was led by a soldier. But when Jesus was buried, we only find about seven men assisting. How unlike the burial of Alexander! No gold-burnished hearse drawn by sixty-four of the largest mules that could be found, with six hundred horses hitched in the lead. Yet the burial given to the "Jesus of Nazareth," the Savior of the world, was far the greatest and most honorable. Funerals now are very expensive; and while the high cost of living is great, it is cheaper to live than to die. When Jesus was buried, they did not have a casket; they use to be called "coffins." As long as a man lives he does not have to pay for one. Funeral sermons are in great demand, but the price is not usually on an average with the casket. When Lazarus died, Jesus was sent for; when Sister Dorcas died, the apostle Peter was sent for; but nothing is said about preaching a funeral, yet each one restored the dead person to life. Such as that is beyond the power of man. But now, if a true Christian dies and a true gospel preacher is sent for, he ought to be able to give some words of comfort to the bereaved ones.

This is a good time to cling to the "things that cannot be shaken." No harm can come to the devout Christian if he can say: "Have Thine own way." -Exchange

The heart of the Christian will not fail when he sees the shaking of the nations or the powers of heaven. He will not be troubled or disquieted by fears, as though evil were about to gain victory over good. Our Lord's promise is that from amid the clouds and the storm, the sign of the Son of man shall come forth with power and great glory .- J. C. Hare.

Don't Wear a Truss

BROOKS' APPLIANCE, the modern scientific invention, the wonderful new discovery that re-lieves rupture will be sent on frial. No ob-moxious springs or pads. Has automatic Air cushion. Binds and draws the broken parts together as you would a broken limb. No saives. No lies. Durable, cheap. Sent on trial to prove it. Protected by U. S. pat-ents, Catalogue and mar-ure blanks malled fee. Smal-name mid attress to lay. that re-will be No obnew discovery

C. E. BROOKS, 443G State St., Marshall, Mich.

THE SANITARY." Communion CUPS

List of thousands of churches using our caps and PREE CATALOG with quotations sent upon request. Sanitary Communion Outfit Co., 71st St., Rochester, N. Y.

Used for more than forty years. The benefit de-rived from it is unquestionable.

Established 1879 FOR more than a generation we have been ro-ceiving grateful testimony to the virtues of this thoroughly tested and proven treatment. It stops violent coughing, and difficult breathing, gasuring restful sleep, because the antisoptic vapor carries healing with every breath. Booklet 43 tells why the diseases for which Cresolene is recommended yield to this simple and dependable

Vapo-Cresolene is sold by druggists VAPO-CRESCLENE CO., 62 Cortlandt St., New York

FOOT TROUBLES

No Need of Them, Says Brooklyn Man, Who Has Evidently Solved a Big Problem

According to the testimony of hundreds of people living in the Southland and elsewhere, J. R. Simon, of 1589 Broadway, Brooklyn, N. Y., has successfully developed system of shoe building having for its prime object the conquering of foot and It appears that Mr. Simon's shoe troubles. establishment has become national head-quarters for people whose feet require his remarkable comfort shoe, known as the EzWear, but obtainable only of the inventor. Mr. Simon's new catalogue shows several hundred shoes that combine comfort with style at amazingly low prices and is now ready for free distribution.

FRECKIE

Now Is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots.

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freekles, as Othine—double strength—is guaranteed to remove these homely spots.

Simply get an ounce of Othine—double strongth—from your druggist, and apply a little of it night and morning and you should soon see that even the worst freekles have begon to disappear, while the lighter mes have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than one ounce is needed to completely clear the skin and gain as beautiful clear complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength Othine ashis is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freekles.

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advecate.

Volume LXII. No. 48.

NASHVILLE, TENN., NOVEMBER 25, 1920.

$2.50 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

CONTENTS. EDIFYING AS THE NEED MAY BE. 1127 OUR CONTRIBUTORS 1138 The Rich Man and Lazerus—Georgia and the Far Southern Field—That Apology—Los Angeles Notes—Sketch of G. Dallas Smith. EDITORIAL 1142 "Wrangling in the Papers"—The Divine Preventive—God's Love for the World. HOME READING 1145 CURRENT THOUGHT 1146 QUERY DEPARTMENT 1147 AT HOME AND ABROAD 1148 THE Colorado Springs Meeting 1150 An Appeal to the Disciples of Christ Everywhere 1151 The Double Nature of Man (No. 14) 1152 An Interesting Trip 1164 OBITUARIES 1156 Tanabata—An Inheritance Incorruptible 1158 Progress in Jackson, Miss. 1169

Edifying as the Need May Be

Progress of David Lipscomb College.

I am asked almost daily, "How are things moving along at David Lipscomb College?" Some of these come from honest inquirers who have the interests of the school at heart; others are prompted chiefly by curiosity; while a few, perhaps, are seenting trouble. It often appears to me that there is an unfortunate craving in the make-up of some people to have things go wrong, if for no other reason than that they may sit back with an air of superior wisdom and say, "I told you so." They lack that love which Paul says "thinketh no evil." Just now there is no occasion for alarm, but there are reasons for rejoicing. I sincerely believe that we are moving forward along lines of greater usefulness, and yet there is the feeling that we have just started in our effort to make things better. There is certainly always room for improvement. The sure-enough Christian is contented, but he is never satisfied. Satiety leads to indifference, and indifference is just another name for sin. In the conduct of the affairs of the college we are holding on to some good methods and rules left by our predecessors, and we are trying at the same time to profit by known mistakes. We all make mistakes. The only people who do not make mistakes are in the cemetery. The teachers oldest in service tell me that the scholarship of students has never been quite so good as it is at present. This is encouraging, and we attribute it to the fact that we have stressed the point that if any student willfully and persistently neglects to study he cannot remain. Idleness is just as much a breach of the rules as profanity. As Washington Gadden said: "I have received no man's money for which I did not render a just return." We do not care to take money from hard-working and self-sacrificing parents in order to harbor their children in a state of idleness. Better to have a smaller number of bona fide students than to boast of a larger number in which some are exerting a corrupting influence. Managing a school in which both sexes and all ages and grades are represented is not an easy task. It is not smooth sailing even for a single day. Many little vexing problems come up for solution, and there is great need of patience, forbearance, firmness, and kindness. It is our daily prayer that God may guide us in the work. If we did not feel that it was for his glory, we would quit and go to Florida for fishing and recreation or else to Reelfoot Lake and shoot ducks. But there are too many and two wonderful possibilities wrapped up in the students committed to our care to think of such a thing. Some of these may be classified as raw material upon which we chisel day after day; but there are diamonds in that material, and, with the help of God, we shall bring them out Controlling the Boys.

Thanks to the indefatigable efforts of the Christian woman whom we selected for matron of the girls' new dormitory, the conduct of the young ladies has evoked many expressions of praise. She not only makes rules for their good behavior, but sees to it that they are observed. The control of the boys' dormitory has always been regarded as a more difficult task. We refer especially to the younger boys. Our young men are as fine a group of Christians as may be found anywhere in the land. It requires no special effort to keep them within proper bounds. But controlling the younger element is another matter. president of the college has assigned this task to a "control committee " consisting of the dean and two other members of the faculty. Here again we are encouraged by some of the older teachers who tell us that the order maintained is the best in years. Whatever success has been attained is largely due to a system of supervised study which was altogether experimental in this college. All of the boys and young men who stay in this dormitory assemble each evening in a large, well-appointed study hall and prepare the next day's work under the eyes of teachers. The experiment thus far has brought forth good results. Quiet has prevailed where otherwise pandemonium might have broken loose. True enough, a few of the boys have chafed under this ruling. But we have tried to make it clear that the arrangement is a privilege and not a punitive measure.

Emphasis Upon Bible Study.

We have not forgotten the main purpose of the two greathearted men who founded this school and gave the best of their lives for its advancement. More care and thought have been taken in the selection and arrangement of the Bible classes than in any other division. Every student, young and old, is drilled daily in the study of this wonderful Book. Brother Pittman through years of experience has become an adept in this field. He teaches the beginners, who are not included in the primary and grammar departments, and, in addition, has a class for advanced students. Brother Srygley is teaching a class in Genesis and, in addition, has a class in Genesis and, in addition, has a class in "Bible Topics," which is a new and very interesting feature of our Bible study. boy or girl who leaves that class, having finished the course, will certainly go out well grounded in the principles of the Christian religion and will be ready to give an answer to their faith. The writer teaches a class in Mark, and will also cover Romans before this term is ended. Every teacher in every department keeps a careful record of every student's progress, and where a student is delinquent it is promptly reported to the faculty, that remedial measures may be taken. Monthly reports are mailed to parents and a careful record of every student is kept in the office files for future reference. Wholesome exercise is required of all the students and teachers, and this part of our training has become one of the most interesting and pleasant features of the daily routine. The literary programs provided by the four literary societies thus far have been of an unusually high standard. The launching of a college monthly is another new and interesting feature. It is intended through this medium to tell the news of the college to its hundreds of friends scattered over the country. The best bit of news so far is that at a recent prayer-meeting service where the talks were made by some of the older boys six students came forward to confess their blessed Savior and put him on in baptism during the same hour. This, we believe, is a good index to the spiritual atmosphere which all of us working together have sought to create. I have endeavored in this hastily written screed to answer the question, "How are things moving along at David Lipscomb College?" As for the other items which I may have failed to mention, let me say in brief but sincere utterance, "Come and see," The doors are not kept open on cold winter days, but there is always a warm welcome awaiting you. Meanwhile do not overlook the important fact that the second term begins just after the Christmas holidays, and we would be pleased to send you a catalogue.

OUR CONTRIBUTORS

The Rich Man and Lazarus.

BY JAMES E. CHESSOR,

In the parable—if it be a parable—of the rich man and Lazarus it is the character of the rich man that our Savior presents for our more extended consideration. The beggar figures prominently, yet secondarily, in the drama; more is said about Dives. Accordingly, in this study I shall confine myself almost solely to a brief analysis of the latter's character as portrayed in the tragedy of his earth-life, not forgetting to allow proper emphasis to rest upon the denouement couched in the solemn words of Abraham.

The case of the rich man may be outlined by pointing out his mistaken course in time—"in thy lifetime"—and the result that followed in eternity. There are, indeed, two distinct acts in the drama—one staged in "this present world;" the other, in "the world to come." The fundamental weakness of Dives' character is embraced in his mistaken course in life, and the reward reaped finally is the manifest destiny of such a course.

The rich man was not a miser. This is evident from the definition of the word: "A covetous, grasping, mean person; especially, one having wealth who lives miserably for the sake of saving and increasing his hoard." (Webster.) In other words, a miser is a person of great or it may be small means, who spends every available moment of his time and devotes every ounce of his energy to the hearding up of anything of supposed or real value; who by hook or crook gets all he can and, I may say, "cans" all he gets; whose treasure is laid up "where moth and rust doth consume, and where thieves break through and steal." In his blind and miserable cupidity he denies himself all the luxuries and many of the common comforts of life, clothes himself in "vile raiment," endures the pangs of hunger and cold, and invites many of the diseases that prey upon the human family.

If Dives had been a miser, he would not have "clothed himself in purple [symbol of royalty and affluence] and fine linen;" no miser ever did that. Silas Marner, a typical miser of literature, went about the village of Raveloe clad in tatters, "selling linen to great ladies for gold." If the rich man had been a miser, he would not have "fared sumptuously every day;" no miser ever did that. But Dives was a luxurious, high liver. He banqueted his friends. Moreover, his lavish expenditures were made without grudge. The symptoms of the disease that ate its way into his heart, poisoned his life and proved his undoing, are not the symptoms of the malady that preyed upon the life of Silas Marner, of Scrooge, or of Shylock.

But the cardinal mistake of Dives' life and career lay in his false attitude toward life-toward humanity. It was the attitude of utter indifference toward the massesselfish indifference. "The wretch concentered all in self!" He spent his wealth with lavish hand, but upon self and the pampered objects of his selfishness. He was interested never so much as in the man Dives, and to him he paid the tribute of his idolatry. His world, his horizon, his life, were circumscribed within the same narrow limits of this idolatry. He bought clothing-rich, glittering apparelbut not to clothe the poor; it was to array the man Dives. He provided food-extravagant banquets-but not to feed the starving; it was for the man Dives and his circle of friends. He "received good things," but gave nothing to suffering humanity begging crumbs at his gate. His careless indifference, settling upon him like a stealthy, slow disease, had blunted his sentiments of benevolence. A state of spiritual coma had seared his soul. His conscience was dead.

The rich man possessed sufficient intelligence to have been a great blessing in his environment. It was not a lack of wisdom that deprived him of spiritual vision. It is probable that he possessed a high order of intelligence. Whether he had amassed his fortune or inherited it matters little; the fact that he controlled it so well as to keep it in his own coffers, shut away from the demands of charity and available only to his own lusts and vanity, is proof that he possessed the qualities of the shrewd financier. I do not think that a clear conception of one's responsibility in the sight of God requires extraordinary Intelligence. It depends not so much upon the structure of the brain as upon the qualities of the heart, the hidden motives that impel action. The rich man was the more blameworthy because he possessed talent that yielded no returns and light that did not shine.

The rich man may have prided himself upon his liberality as money kings are accustomed to do nowadays. In all probability Dives pitied Lazarus as one of the unfortunates of earth who stood in need of nothing so much as death—relief from his sufferings. It is likely that he commented casually upon the sorrowful plight of the beggar. "Poor fellow! Sore all over! Greatly afflicted! He will be better off dead!" If the rich man did not so express himself, he was less a hypocrite than many who otherwise play his rôle perfectly to-day.

But Dives was blinded by the glare and glitter of gold. Its canker had eaten into the core of his heart. His distorted life consisted in the abundance of the things he possessed. He was blind in the light of day. Utter indifference had wrought his ruin. Hence, Lazarus lay in the shadow of Dives' gilded mansion at the gate of luxury, unknown in life and unwept in death. It was the sin of neglect—the sin of the ages—the sin peculiarly of the present time. Christians, beware! This sin of indifference is not confined to the rich alone. It is widespread. The judgment alone will declare the extent of the evil. The multitudes who in the great day shall ask in their utter surprise, "Lord, when saw we thee hungry, or athirst, or a stranger, or naked, or sick, or in prison, and did not minister unto thee?" whom the Master shall answer, "Inasmuch as ye did it not unto one of these least, ye did it not unto me," are the many who for like cause shall share Dives' anguish.

The rich man and Lazarus make their exit and the scene shifts from time to eternity. "And it came to pass that the beggar died, and that he was carried away by the angels into Abraham's bosom; and the rich man also died, and was buried." Each had taken his place "in the silent halls of death," had become "brother to the insensible clod." death they reach a common level. The body clothed in purple and fine linen and the body full of sores must be resolved to the original elements. Death was no respecter of persons. The imperious summons came alike to rich and poor and the grave claimed them for his own. What does it matter whether Lazarus was buried, or whether Dives was accorded a funeral comporting with his station and splendor in life? The "dust had returned to the earth as it was." The cold hand of death had written "finis" upon the tabernacle of clay.

But death had not ended all. The curtain rises suddenly, and beyond the grave stretches eternity—vast, incomprehensible. Lazarus rests in Abraham's bosom. Dives lifts up his eyes in Hades, being in torments. Lazarus is comforted; Dives is in anguish. The beggar has become rich; the rich man has become poor. They have exchanged planes.

Now let us first note briefly the state of the beggar, and then we shall bid him farewell. Poor and miserable on earth, Lazarus has become immensely rich and happy beyend power of words to describe. He was carried by the angels to Abraham's bosom. "By the angels." There is a beauty in that phrase that lingers in the heart of the disciple of Christ. He has not read about those messengers of God without associating them with holiness, immortality, the society of heaven. He has not read unmoved how they rejoice when sinners repent. He remembers the ministrations accorded the Savior by the heavenly host and the part performed by them in bringing to earth the plan of salvation. Death indeed loses its terror to that disciple whose faith assures him that the angels "shall bear his weary spirit to that sinless, summer land." He yields to the inevitable as one who "wraps the drapery of his couch about him and lies down to pleasant dreams."

The angels bore Lazarus to the bosom of "Father Abraham," the adored progenitor of the children of Israel. Evidently Lazarus was a Jew, and he was comforted on the bosom of the father of his nation. Gentiles cannot appreciate this picture of supernal happiness as can Jews. We know what a blissful joy of childhood it is to be pillowed upon mother's breast and rocked in sleep within her tender encircling arms. If ever we get a glimpse of heaven in this life, it is while thus nestling close to her throbbing heart of love and sympathy, cares unknown, mother-confidence perfect, safe in her care. It is the child's dream of paradise. But the Hebrew abides on the bosom of "faithful Abraham" through eternity. In few words Jesus thus drew a graphic portrait satisfying the Hebrew conception of paradise. It was all that Jewish heart could wish.

But the rich man had become wretchedly poor. His abject plight beggars description. He had come to worse than crumbs. Dives had not a drop of water to cool his tongue! "And he cried and said, Father Abraham, have mercy on me, and send Lazarus, that he may dip the tip of his finger in water, and cool my tongue; for I am in anguish in this flame." What abject poverty! What wretched misery! Lazarus was never so poor and wretched and miserable on earth as Dives in eternity. In eternity, if afforded a choice, I would rather lie in squalid rags, with dogs to lick my sores, crying with outstretched hand, "Crumbs, crumbs!" than to writhe in a flame, making the arches of hell resound with the fruitless plea, "Water, water!" Jesus drew an adequate portrait of eternal punishment, and all that run may read and understand.

The rich man had experienced utter surprise. "How hath the mighty fallen!" When he lifts up his eyes, an untoward and unexpected environment greets his vision. His plane is far below Lazarus. A man of affluence and station on earth, it is unthinkable that he should come to such a lot. Precipitated into a place of torments and anguish with the suddenness of the death summons, how utterly unprepared is he for his doom! A light breaks upon him. Gathering his wits, he recalls his earth-life. He had not thought seriously whither his course was tending. He had not deliberately purposed to be lost. He knew that his five brothers, thoughtless and profligate like himself, were drifting the downward way. Without warning, they, too, inevitably would come into that place of woe and share his surprise and anguish.

Dives alone was responsible for his destiny. He had sown the wind of prodigality and wantonness and reaped the whirlwind of destruction. He was not sent to the place of endless woe—he went to that place. His five brothers were coming there of their own volition. "Lest they come into this place of torment" was Dives' piteous plea. Dives had eaten of the fruit of his own way, and his brothers were walking in his steps. The lost go to their doom by following their own counsel and despite the vicarious suffering of Christ to save them.

There is an awful finis to this tragic drama. It ends in unalterable doom. Not a glimmer of hope is held forth for Dives. The gulf is fixed for all eternity. The idea of the second chance is refuted with awful solemnity. That vagary did not originate at that time in the mind of Abraham in paradise—he refuted it; it did not originate in Dives' mind in Hades—he did not entertain it. It sprang from the fertile imagination of man on earth since that time, and it was inspired by the devil.

The doctrine of annihilation also is refuted with equal solemnity. No doubt the incorrigible would welcome annihilation. But no such hope is held forth for them. The rich man was a conscious soul. His faculties were intact. He was told to remember, and he employed this power. He had not gone out as a candle dipped in water. "Son, remember," said Abraham, "that thou in thy lifetime receivedst thy good things, and Lazarus in like manner evil things: but now here he is comforted, and thou art in anguish." He was Dives in eternity who had been Dives in time—the same character. Act I. had ended with death: Act II. begins with doom. The footlights of hell glimmer in the awful abyss. The curtain of eternity falls. The lesson is for us who linger on time's stage of activity. May we profit by Dives' mistake.

This is what our Lord bids Christian men and women to do: to take up this hard and painful cross and follow him up this hard and painful path; and when we look again, we see a long train of men, women, and even children winding up that path, each bearing a heavy cross also. But as He who went first carried not that cross alone, but Simon the Cyrenian helped him; so, too, to all that train is One ever present, ever lending a hand to bear the heavy cross through the difficult places of that steep and stony road.—Dean Butler.

Georgia and the Far Southern Field

By B. C. GOODPASTURE

Remembering the Poor.

God has ever been mindful of the poor. His tender consideration of the needy is distinctly outstanding. He who feeds the ravens and keeps watch at the sparrow's fall could not fail to hear the widow's mean, the orphan's cry, and the poor man's sigh. He gave the children of Israel very definite instructions relative to the treatment of their poverty-stricken countrymen. "When ye reap the harvest of your land, thou shalt not wholly reap the corners of thy field, neither shalt thou gather the gleaning of thy harvest. And thou shalt not glean thy vineyard, neither shalt thou gather the fallen fruit of thy vineyard; thou shalt leave them for the poor and for the sojourner." (Lev. 19: 9, 10.) Even in the matter of offering sacrifices Jehovah made provisions for those of severely limited means. "If his means suffice not for a lamb, then he shall bring his trespass offering for that wherein he hath sinned, two turtledoves, or two young pigeons, unto Jehovah; one for a sin offering, and the other for a burnt offering. . . . But if his means suffice not for two turtledoyes, or two young pigeons, then he shall bring his oblation for that wherein he hath sinned, the tenth part of an ephah of fine flour for a sin offering," (Lev. 5: 7-11.) On account of their poverty, Joseph and Mary availed themselves of a similar sacrificial provision in behalf of the needy. (Luke 2: 24; Lev. 12: 8.)

Christ was distinctly considerate of the poor. He could well sympathize with them, for he was reared by parents who lived in humble circumstances. Paul recognized this fact when he wrote to the Corinthians: "Though he [Christ] was rich, yet for your sakes he became poor, that ye through his poverty might become rich." (2 Cor. 8: 9.) From the humbler walks of life he selected the twelve, his future apostles and ambassadors. In the busy days of his heaven-born ministry the imprisoned Baptist sent disciples to inquire of Jesus: "Art thou he that cometh, or look we for another? And Jesus answered and said unto them, Go and tell John the things which ye bear and see: the blind receive their sight, and the lame walk, the lepers are cleansed, and the deaf hear, and the dead are raised up, and the poor have good tidings preached to them." (Matt. 11: 3-5.) It will be observed that in his reply Jesus puts the preaching of the gospel to the poor last as the climax of his argument and the crowning evidence of his Messiahship. He loved the needy and destitute, and brought to them a message of hope and inspiration. By the example of the rich man and Lazarus he showed them how, in death, the worldly rich lost their property and the poor their poverty. He made it possible for every Lazarus, who desires, to become an "heir of God, and joint heir with Christ." Even after he had returned to the Father he continued to speak through the apostles in behalf of the poor, for we read: "James and Cephas and John, they who were reputed to be pillars, . . . would that we [Paul and Barnabas] should remember the poor; which very thing I was also zealous to do." (Gal. 2: 9, 10.)

Those who are following Christ to-day will not neglect the poor. "Whose mocketh the poor repreacheth his Maker" (Prov. 17: 5); but "he that hath pity upon the poor lendeth unto Jehovah" (Prov. 19: 17). The early church cared for the poor, and that care has long been proverbial. Of the generous-hearted Dorcas it was said after she was dead: "All the widows stood by him [Peter] weeping, and showing the coats and garments which Dorcas made, while she was with them." (Acts 9: 39.) There are good sisters living to-day whose passing will cause great weeping among the poor widows and orphans. Recently a sister in Atlanta whose husband is practically an invalid tell into severe circumstances on account of the sickness of two of her children and herself, and immediately three congregations—Wesi End Avenue, East Point, and South Pryor Street—in different ways responded to her needs. These congregations regularly look after the wants of widows and orphans. Brethren elsewhere do the same. This is to be commended, for it is pure religion. (James 1: 27.) The lack of employment and the approaching hardships of the inevitable winter render it necessary for us all to be more attentive to the wants of the destitute and needy. "Whose stoppeth his ears at the cry of the poor, he also shall cry, but shall not be heard." (Prov. 21: 13.) Thus, in this respect, as well as in all others, "whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap." (Gal. 6: 7.)

That Apology.

Brother J. C. McQuiddy: I am glad to note in the Gospel Advocate of October 7 you consider one J. D. Tant worthy of an apology from you on account of certain treatment given him by the Advocate in the long ago. While said treatment caused some of my friends and myself to lose respect for the Advocate, for we felt like I did not have fair treatment, yet I assure you with all love that I accept your apology in full, and we will rub out and be brethren, as we were in the long ago.

It is also true that my language is blunt and plain; but having been reared in the West, where we all use plain speech, and being an Irishman also (for I'd be ashamed to be anything else), we all use language out there that can be understood; and when I heard many of my brethren, especially among the pure-hearted preachers, claiming that my language was offensive because I said "bull" in the pulpit, I hardly knew what to do. After all, a preacher must try to please the Lord instead of man in preaching the gospel.

David could not wear Saul's armor to fight Goliath, yet he won the victory. Paul's brethren said his speech was contemptible, yet he fought a good fight. Also, Paul said: "To the pure all things are pure, but to the defiled is nothing pure." Many of my brethren who are shocked at my speech, I believe cannot show up a better moral life than I can.

In Arkansas, where I live now, when hunters begin to boast of their great hunting ability by telling about how sorry a hunter their brother is, his hand is always called by showing the coon skins and his hunting is judged by the coons he has killed. For thirty years I have been on the firing line preaching it straight and trying to please the Lord. While I do not have the education that Brother Ledlow, of Texas, says now preachers must have in order to preach the gospel to the Texas churches, yet when I think of more than three thousand people I have baptized and more than fifty boys I have started out to preaching, I am willing to count coon skins with any of these college fellows. I shall not quit preaching to go to college now to learn smooth language that will please my brethren, but shall continue to preach the gospel straight and keep in touch with the Lord, and keep myself unspotted from the world, and work and pray for the salvation of all men I may influence, for I am more anxious to fill heaven than I am to get a college education so I can use language that will please my brethren; for I well know I must soon give an account of my stewardship to God, and I think if I have preached the gospel and lived right that God will give me one hundred per cent on language, and Freed and Hardeman will give me one hundred per cent on penmanship, and then I will be on the safe side. In love,

J. D. TANT, Rogers, Ark.

Every human being is intended to have a character of his own, to be what no other is, to do what no other can do. —Selected.

LOS ANGELES NOTES

2669 North Sichel Street.

House of worship, corner Altura and North Sichel Streets. Take North Broadway car to Sichel, then one block to left.

A Correction.

In giving the names of our elders, in the issue of November 4, I failed to include the name of W. Edgar Miller; hence, I now give his name that the readers may know we have seven elders, not just six. And I am making this correction, not because Brother Miller is sensitive and would feel, in the least, hurt at me for not giving his name, but for the truth's sake. He is one of the best and most lovable men I have ever seen. We should love the truth-not simply the truth the Bible teaches, but love to speak the truth fully about everything of which we write or speak.

0 0 0

H. Ishiguro.

On Lord's-day evening, November 7, and on Wednesday night following, we were favored with visits by Brother H. Ishiguro, of Japan. He was on his way to Abilene, Texas, where he is to enter college and better prepare himself for work. The good people at the head of Abilene Christian College agree to take him and help him all they can at their own expense. Every one of our schools and colleges should do this much, at least, toward preparing missionaries for the foreign field and for work among foreigners in the home land. He needed money to get there. A check from Brother W. W. Freeman, of Abilene, for thirty dollars, with twenty-five dollars added to it by Brother L. D. Perkins, of Armona, Cal., with the forty dollars the church here gave him, enabled him to go on his way Ozaki, who is now doing missionary work among his people in this city under the direction of a church not known in the Scriptures, came with Brother Ishiguro and acted as his interpreter, as Brother Ishiguro cannot speak English. By catechizing Ishiguro through Ozaki, the latter was brought into consideration of why and when we eat the Lord's Supper, what sinners are taught to do to be saved, and how people are baptized. Ozaki admitted that his church did not eat the Lord's Supper so often and that he had never been baptized. At the close he asked to make a statement of his own. In this statement we were very much impressed with the expression of a strong desire for the truth, without addition or subtraction. He criticized the Congregationalists, with whom he had formerly labored, for taking only that part of the Bible that suited them and, as he stated, "throwing the other away." It is my desire and determination to stay in touch with this man and do all within my power to get him to see the fullness of the gospel of Christ. If I succeed, we will have won a very much-needed addition to our local forces, as he can then go to those of his own nation here and teach them fully of Christ and his church. May the Lord grant this.

***** * * *

An Ugly Picture.

From a letter recently received I submit the following:

It is my prayer that we can keep down petty differences that are now dividing the brotherhood in all parts of the When will our brethren learn to dismount hobbies and don the whole armor of God and present a solid phalanx to the enemy? We are such sticklers for "tithing mint and anise and cummin," and yet sadly neglect the weightier matters. It is bad enough to ride questions that are plainly taught, to the exclusion of other lessons just as essential; but when we seize our speculative lariat and rope in some wild theory or dream, tame it to our bidding, and proceed to gallop up and down the country, and, with a whoop and yell, frighten the more timid and less informed till they either surrender or fall in line to help us arouse a greater commotion, this I say is calamitous and ought not to be tolerated.

Since arriving on the coast, I learn that within a radius of something like two hundred miles of me the churches have been disturbed by such untaught questions as "the right hand of fellowship" to induct members into the local congregation, taking the Lord's Supper after sundown, laying the contribution on the table, opposing the division the members into classes for Bible study on Lord's day, and opposition to the establishing of schools in which one or more Bible lessons may be taught each day, and one of the most hurtful hobbies now on the coast is that of trying to force the congregations to use only one cup in the communion.

Well, how does that sound? Bad, you say? It is bad, and I quoted it for the purpose of saying that we not only have heathens in Japan that need to be Christianized, but that we have a few in the church that need to put their heads in the pure water of God's truth and let them soak about six months before they ever again try to play the rôle of preacher or teacher. As stated in last week's issue, certainly common sense has a place in our lives as Christians. A real good supply of common sense—a thing God holds us duty bound to use where he has not legislatedwould settle all the trouble that has ever arisen over any of the things mentioned by our brother. The church in her beauty and glory is too often never seen by some simply because of the way the cause of our Lord is misrepresented by some who claim to represent it. Let the elders of every local church remember that God holds them accountable when they allow "crankification," instead of sanctification and devotion to the truth as it is in Christ Jesus, to be the outstanding characteristic of the church they oversee and Sketch of G. Dallas Smith.

BY A. O. COLLEY.

On November 7, 1920, G. Dallas Smith breathed his last and passed away. He was born in Obion County, Tenn., in March, 1870, being a little more than fifty years old at the time of his death. He was a very useful man, active in the Lord's work almost to the last. He was taken suddenly Ill on Saturday night and passed away on Sunday, at 11:15 A.M. He was a systematic writer and a forcible speaker, having the gift to say what he cared to say on any subject in a very clear way. He was always firm and very positive, but respectful to those who differed from him. He lived a consistent life, and was respected by his neighbors and loved by the church. Dr. E. V. Wood, now of Dallas, Texas, and the writer had charge of the funeral services. We were assisted by all the preaching brethren that were Brother Smith has labored in a number of States, but his principal labors were in Tennessee, Kentucky, Arkansas, and Texas. He was preaching for the church at Cleburne, Texas, when he died. His father was a gospel preacher, and he has two brothers who are able preachers-R. D. Smith, who is preaching for the church at Denton, Texas, and John T. Smith, who is now preaching for the church at Lubbock, Texas.

Brother Smith leaves a wife and four children. They range in age from three to sixteen years. I pray that the Lord in his own good way may abundantly bless Sister Smith and these children in their sorrow.

He that has a pure heart will never cease to pray, and he who will be constant in prayer shall know what it is to have a pure heart.-La Combe.

It is the genius of Christianity to have transfigured sacrifice by displaying it to us as the reverse of the medal called "Love."-H. R. Haweis.

Conducted for a half century by D. Lipsoomb and E. G. Sewell.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

$2.50 a year, in advance; to Canada and foreign countries, $2.00, in

Remittances will be at our risk when sent by express or post-office money order, in registered letter, or by draft payable to our order.

The date on your tab shows the time to which your subscription is paid. When money is received, the date will be changed, which will answer for a receipt. Two weeks' time must ordinarily eccur from the time your remittance is sent before the tab en your paper is changed; if net changed by that time, notify us at once.

This paper is mailed regularly to all subscribers until definite orders in writing are received and all arrearages paid in full. If you wish us to step your paper, write us to the effect; but do not sale it wish in writing are received and all arrearages paid in full. If you wish us to step your paper, write us to that effect; but do not ask it unless you have paid all arrears, if there are any. Do not ask your postmaster to attend to it for you, but do it yourself.

When changing your post-office address, tell us your old as well as your new address; otherwise two papers might be charged to you. Subscribers, after paying for their papers, will favor us by activation.

Subscribers, after paying for their papers, will favor us by noting whether the date on the address label is changed, and, if it is not changed within a month, by writing to us. We are careful, but mis-takes may occur or letters may be lost. Our rule is to change the date on the day payment is received; but the mechanical work of correcting and printing the list takes time, and payments even from near-by places may not appear the first week. Credits for payments from a distance may be even more delayed. Mistakes are easily rectified if prompt notice is given.

All communications should be addressed to Gospel Advocate, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

Guarantee of Advertising.

All the advertisements in this paper are, we believe signed by trustworthy persons. To preve our faith by works, we will make good to actual subscribers any loss sustained in trusting advertisers who prove to be deliberate swindlers. We shall not attempt to adjust trifling disputes between subscribers and honorable business mon who advertise, nor pay the debts of honest bankrupts. To make this guarantee effective, in all cases say in writing advectis-ers, "I saw your advertisement in the Gospel Advocate;" and if anything goes wrong, notify us immediately in writing.

> JACOBS & CO., ADVERTISING MANAGERS. Clinton, S. C.

Entered at post office at Nashville, Tenn., as second-class matter.

Published weekly at Nashville, Tenn.

"Wrangling in the Papers"-The Divine Preventive. BY M. C. K.

Occasionally the complaint comes to our office that there is "too much wrangling in the papers." It is proper to say, first of all, and it is here freely admitted, that, to the full extent that there is any "wrangling" in the papers at all, to that extent there is too much of it. To wrangle is "to dispute angrily, to brawl," and of course there should be none of this at all, either in the papers or anywhere else; but this does not mean that there should not be dignified discussion, honorable controversy or debate in search for the truth. There are times when the proper defense of truth and opposition to error demand it; yet even when this is the case and discussion is projected upon the high plane worthy of Christians, if there is overmuch of it, as has apparently been the case in the recent past, people become tired of it, and some of them are apt to refer to it as "wrangling." While it is not proper to characterize such discussions as "wrangling," yet it is further freely admitted here that it would be pleasanter and better in every way if even such controversy among brethren, though entirely legitimate in itself, could be avoided; but there is no honorable way for Christians to avoid it even among themselves, except when all of them faithfully apply the divine remedy for such a situation.

The purpose of the present article is to point out that remedy; and I assure the reader in advance that whenever and wherever that remedy is faithfully applied it will not only stop all controversy, but it will simultaneously bring about that glorious and happy consummation among Christians when, in the language of inspiration, they will "all speak the same thing" and, with "no divisions among" them, will all "be perfected together in the same mind and in the same judgment." (1 Cor. 1: 10.) But it is also true that when the divine prescription against differences and disputations is ignored, then faithful Christians cannot honorably avoid controversy, and they are distinctly commanded "to contend earnestly for the faith which was once for all delivered unto the saints" (Jude 3) and to "fight the good fight of the faith" (1 Tim. 6: 12).

Let it be noted here that, in harmony with these inspired injunctions, our Lord himself was not only one of the greatest controversialists of his age, but one of the greatest that has ever appeared in the history of his church. How can it be accounted for in his case? No one can justly charge that he was reckless and delighted to "dispute" with his brethren, and yet he engaged in controversy. There is only one way to account for it, and that is, he encountered men who joined issue with him, calling in question the truth which he taught, and then the battle began. Can any one fail to see that, if those thus joining issue with him had cordially accepted the truth he taught, there would have been no controversy?

Then, what is the remedy? Among those who love the Bible and want nothing except what is taught therein, two things will be found to constitute an infallible remedy against all wrangling, and even against hurtful differences and discussions over doctrine at all. The first essential thing is that, in all our preaching and in all our newspaper articles, we teach nothing except what we can read in the Bible either in so many words or in words that are equivalent. If a thing is taught in the Bible, it can be read in the Bible; and it can be read even by the humblest person who knows nothing at all about the hairsplitting differences which are bandied by theological gladiators in the arena of religious debate. If it be something which we merely think is taught in the Bible, then let us not preach it in our pulpits nor write it in our papers. If we do, it will be certain to cause controversy, and possibly wrangling.

But would this course be a sure remedy against wrangling and controversy? Most assuredly it would. For example, imagine a company of believers in the Bible disputing or controverting with each other over the question where Jesus the Christ was born. There is but one passage in the New Testament on the subject, which says: "Now when Jesus was born in Bethlehem of Judea." (Matt. 2: 1.) Is there any room for dispute there, or for different and conflicting positions? Not with those who are willing to take what the New Testament says. The only possible way for controversy would be for somebody to contradict or call in question what the New Testament says. Then, in precisely the same way, could not every step which sinners are commanded to take for remission of sins and every step which Christians are commanded to take in living the Christian life be taught by simply giving what the New Testament says?

But some one says: "All the things required of Christians are not expressed in terms quite so terse and clear as are those which state where Jesus was born." It is pertinent to ask, in reply, if such things are not taught with at least sufficient clearness and terseness to be beyond doubt and dispute, then how can men ever certainly know that they are doing what is taught in the New Testament? For example, with all who without prejudice are willing to abide by a plain "Thus saith the Lord," no more and no less, where is the room for difference and dispute over the action, subject, and design of Christian baptism? Where is the room for difference and dispute over meeting upon the first day of the week to worship God? Where is the room for difference and dispute over what may be done in that worship? Where is the room for difference and dispute over the local churches sending and communicating with faithful missionaries to sustain them in preaching the gospel to the lost at home and abroad? Where is the room for difference and dispute over the kingdom of God, the second coming of Christ, or prophecy whether fulfilled or unfulfilled? In fine, where is the room for difference and dispute over anything whatever in the way of an essential duty of Christians to either God or man? To all of these questions the answer is, there is no room at all until somebody advances and begins to teach an opinion about these things, which is merely what he thinks, and which is not taught in the New Testament. This will inevitably result in differences and will gender strife and controversy. Hence, we are positively commanded to avoid or refuse just such untaught questions. "But foolish and ignorant questionings refuse, knowing that they gender strife." (2 Tim, 2: 23.) "If any man teacheth a different doctrine, and consenteth not to sound words, . . . he is puffed up, knowing nothing, but deting about questionings and disputes of words, whereof cometh envy, strife, railings, evil surmisings, wranglings of men," etc. (1 Tim. 6: 3-5.) In short and in fine, as long as we say what God says on any subject whatever, no more and no less, there is no room for controversy, and there will be no controversy until somebody says something else. In the passage just quoted, Paul distinctly refers to those teaching their opinions as "knowing nothing"-that is, they cannot know what they are teaching is true, but are merely teaching what they think is taught in the Bible, but which is not what God says, and thus they are "doting about questionings and disputes of words." In proportion, therefore, as those who preach and those who write for the papers strive to follow this divine rule, not only "wrangling," but even controversy itself, will cease, and Christians will "all speak the same thing."

This will be followed, the Lord willing, with another study on the same question.

God's Love for the World. BY J. C. M'Q.

I am requested to write an article on the love of God. I judge that the one who makes the request wishes an article on God's boundless love for the children of men. This subject is so broad, so wide, so high, and so deep that I must confess my inability to grasp it or to write on it as I would like. God showed his love for man by placing him in the garden of Eden and giving him the privilege of eating of every tree of the garden, save the tree of the knowledge of good and evil. In order that man might be happy in his Edenic home, God created for him a helpmeet. In contentment and joy they lived in the garden of Eden until "the woman saw that the tree was good for food, and that it was a delight to the eyes, and that the tree was to be desired to make one wise." Then "she took of the fruit thereof, and did eat; and she gave also unto her husband with her, and he did eat." This was a positive transgression and violation of Gen. 2: 16, 17: "And Jehovah God commanded the man, saying, Of every tree of the garden thou mayest freely eat: but of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil, thou shalt not eat of it: for in the day that thou eatest thereof thou shalt surely die." In Abraham and his seed God promised to bless all the nations of the earth. God's love for the world is manifest in deed rather than in word. The beloved disciple, John, says: "Behold what manner of love the Father hath bestowed upon us, that we should be called the children of God; and such we are." (1 John 3: 1.) God's every act toward man indicates love on his part. Again, we read: "Again we know and have believed the love which God hath in us. God is love; and he that abideth in love abideth in God, and God abideth in him." (1 John 4: 16.) The highest demonstration that God has made of his love is the gift of his own dearly beloved Son to the world. "For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth on him should not perish, but have eternal life." (John 3: 16.) In this God gives us an example of his love that we would do well to imitate. It is said that he "gave his only begotten Son." To what did he give him? He did not give him to a life of ease, pleasure, and luxury, but he gave him to a life of comparative obscurity, poverty, and ceaseless toil. As in the beginning, before his birth of a woman, Christ was called "the Word" and was God manifest in the flesh, the very thought of taking upon his divine nature a fleshly nature must have been a sacrifice to him. The thought of giving up heaven with all of its glories and the companionship of his Heavenly Father certainly was not a pleasing one. And then his birth was a lowly one. Being born in a manger where the cattle fed and among the poor and lowly was not a birth calculated to please the royal. He was brought up in comparative obscurity. He did not have the advantages of a college or university education. It was considered that no good could come out of Nazareth, where he was brought up. Just think of giving up heaven to dwell in such a home as Nazareth! Think of laying aside his princely robes and giving up the companionship of his Father to dwell with Joseph and Mary in such a despised home as Nazareth! Not only this, but we are told that he had no home of his own. While he often visited Mary and Martha at Bethany, yet, when tired of the unceasing strife and tribulation of life, he had no place to call his homeno place where he could rest free from the disturbances of the outside world. "And Jesus saith unto him, The foxes have holes, and the birds of the heaven have nests; but the Son of man hath not where to lay his head." (Matt. 8: 20.)

Is there a murmuring, complaining disciple or preacher lamenting his hard lot in this world? Is there one who thinks he does not have enough of the good things of this life? If so, I would suggest to that one that, before murmuring at the hard lot that is his in doing the Master's work, he reflect that "a disciple is not above his teacher, nor the servant above his lord. It is enough for the disciple that he be as his teacher, and the servant as his lord." (Matt. 10: 24.) Christ's whole life was one filled with words of kindness and deeds of love. He never lost an opportunity to comfort the despondent, to lift up the fallen, and to point the erring to the Lamb of God who taketh away the sins of the world. He healed the sick, opened the eyes of the blind, and raised the dead. He totled ceaselessly for the salvation of the lost and ruined race. He worked while it was day, knowing that "the night of death cometh, when no man can work."

Will you behold him in the garden of Gethsemane? See him there bowed beneath the sins of the whole world! Like needles they are goading and pressing him at every pore. How awful, how terrible is his agony in the very shadow of the cross! Realizing how awful the pangs of such a death would be, sweating until the sweat became as great drops of blood, in his anguish he cried out and prayed, saying: "My Father, if it be possible, let this cup pass away from me: nevertheless, not as I will, but as thou wilt." (Matt. 26: 39.) Think of the wondrous love of God that gave his Son to such suffering as this! Any one who imagines that the Father did not love the world, after reading the scene in the garden of Gethsemane, must indeed be lacking in gratitude and appreciation. If it had been possible for God to save the world without giving his Son to the terrible death of the cross, he certainly would have done so. How loving, how compassionate, and how merciful of our Heavenly Father to give his only Son to such terrible agony and suffering in the shadow of the cruel cross!

After this, follow him as he is tried by the wicked rabble; see them as they bow the knee in derision, as they mock him, as they spit upon him, and as they crown him with a crown of thorns. Hear Pilate in his judgment hall say: "I find in him no evil at all." The decision of the judge is, "He is innocent;" but the harder Pilate tries to liberate him, the greater the tumult. They cry: "Away with him! Away with him! Crucify him! Give us Barabbas, the robber, in his stead, and crucify Jesus!" They take him and nail him to the rugged Roman cross; they drive the cruel spikes through his hands and through his feet; they pierce his side until the water and blood flow out! While thus dying on the cross he prays: "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do." Again. as his suffering becomes more severe and unbearable, he cries out: "My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?" God so loved the world that he put his only begotten Son to the most severe test; he left him to that terrible, awful feeling of loneliness and despair that crushes the soul. Christ is taken down from the cross and buried in Joseph's On the third and appointed morn he comes forth a conqueror over death, hell, and the grave. In his resurrection he "brought life and immortality to light."

From this brief sketch of the life and death of Christ we gain but a faint conception of the wonderful love of our Heavenly Father. No wonder the Holy Spirit says, "God is love." All the writers in the world, with all the angels in heaven, I imagine, will never be able to fully portray the boundless, wonderful love of our God. And "If God so loved us, we also ought to love one another." God loved us in order that we might love him. If we love God, we love our brother also.

"Had I the voice of Greeks and Jews,
And nobler speech than angels use;
Were I inspired to preach and tell
All that is done in heaven and hell;
Or were I to distribute all my store
To feed the hungry, clothe the poor,
And give my body to the flame
To gain a martyr's glorious name—
If love be absent, still I'm found
A clanging brass and an empty sound."

Cheering Reports.

While some people are complaining about business, the Gospel Advocate is still doing well, and many of its subscribers are doing what they can to increase the circulation of the paper. A good brother from one of our neighboring cities was in to see us to-day. He said that he was deeply interested in the Advocate and that he meant to get some one in his city to give a thorough canvass in order to increase the circulation of the paper in that city. friends could greatly help us in this way. If some one in every city would work in behalf of the paper and see his friends and acquaintances, the circulation of the paper could soon be doubled. Just at this time such help and cooperation would be greatly appreciated. Our readers should not lose sight of the fact that the paper on which the Advocate is published is costing us over three times what it formerly did. This, with the high cost of labor, makes it very hard on publishers of religious papers. While we are not on the pessimistic list and have no fears about the Advocate's continuing its work, yet our burden would be the lighter if we had an increased list of subscribers. It requires just as much to set the type for one paper as it does for one hundred thousand.

We are now approaching the end of the year, which is the time when many people subscribe for a paper. Any one may subscribe for the paper now at the regular subscription price of $2.50 per year and receive it until January 1, 1922. We are effering it for one month and nearly a half without charge as an inducement to new readers. Every old subscriber who appreciates the Advocate should promptly go to work and send us a number of new subscribers.

It is our earnest desire to greatly improve the paper. Every reader can help us do this, not only by sending us new subscribers, but also by furnishing us items of interest from his community. Reports of meetings, additions to the churches, and the general interest manifested by the churches are all read with much interest. should be especially active in view of the fact that religious interest is at a low ebb and people seem to be in a faultfinding mood. Nothing but Christianity will overcome the religious indifference and moral laxity that are now existing. We ask some one in every congregation to go to work at once to make up a club of subscribers to the Gospel Advocate. By a little effort many can be induced to become readers of the paper. Those who have read the paper in the past and have lapsed can easily be reënlisted. If you need any sample copies for the work, write us. We will cheerfully furnish you renewal blanks and any information that you may desire.

An Appeal.

Sometime ago attention was called to the fact that the brethren in Colorado were endeavoring to secure the services of E. E. Shoulders to assist Brother E. C. Fugua in his evangelistic work. An appeal was made for one hundred dollars per month, suggesting that four different churches each give twenty-five dollars per month. So far, it seems, no church has responded to this appeal. Some church in Georgia has offered Brother Shoulders a good support to undertake the work there. They are pressing him for a "yes" or "no" answer. Brother Shoulders desires to stay in Colorado; but he says if the churches do not take this matter of support up until the first of the year, he hardly sees how he can get through to the first of the year with no more support than the Denver church can give and is giving. Brother John D. Evans says: "The outlook is discouraging just at a time which seems the most propitious. If we lose Brother Shoulders from the field, we would feel woefully discouraged. The report from Colorado Springs as to interest is excellent. Pueblo and the Springs both are excellent fields. Of course Brother Shoulders cannot live on twenty-five dollars per month-about the amount the Denver church is contributing." Brother Evans is contributing personally to the work. I have stated these facts again in order that the churches may see them and in order that at least four churches will respond by writing John D. Evans, 12 Broadway, Denver, Col., assuring him that each will contribute twenty-five dollars per month. As the necessity seems to be urgent, it would be better for four churches to send at once fifty dollars each, the fifty dollars to apply on the three hundred to be contributed by each during the year. I feel confident that this sum will be raised.

The Sum of Happiness.

BY CLARA CON EPPERSON.

It is learning through all things to sing; It's finding joy in everything; It's doing one's duty every day, And learning "Thy will be done" to say: It's striving all other lives to bless; And this is the sum of happiness.

Home Reading

Trust.

I will not doubt, though all my ships at sea Come drifting home with broken masts and sails; I shall believe the hand which never fails From seeming evil worketh good for me;

And though I weep because those sails are battered, Still will I cry, while my best hopes lie shattered, "I trust in Thee."

I will not doubt, though sorrows fall like rain
And troubles swarm like bees about a hive;
I shall believe the heights for which I strive
Are only reached by anguish and by pain.
And though I groan and tremble with my crosses,
I yet shall see through my severest losses
The greater gain.—Selected.

0 0 0

"Go Cheerfully."

Little Go Cheerfully worked away patiently at the pair of moccasins she was making. They were her first pair, and she sewed the beads on with pride. She was sure that her mother would praise her, and perhaps even her father would say that she had done well. Every stitch was just as perfect as she could make it. It was so much more of an accomplishment to make moccasins than to string beads or guills.

When she had finished them she took some red paint and painted right down in each little heel her name—Go Cheerfully—so that every one would be sure to know who had made them; then she laid them proudly on top of the basket of moccasins her mother was going to sell in the village that afternoon. Surely some one would want them; they were so pretty.

Now it happened that Annie Bell Lee's mother went to the village that afternoon also to buy her little girl a pair of moccasins. Annie Bell had about everything that it was possible to buy for a little girl, and her mother had thought a long time before she had thought of the dear little Indian meccasins as a gift for her daughter.

The pair that Go Cheerfally had made were so cunning it was no wonder that Annie Bell's mother selected them in preference to any others, and she felt sure that her little girl would be pleased with them, too. She was sorry to remember how hard it was to please Annie Bell.

Nowhere in all the country was there a prettier little girl than she. Her long golden hair was marveled over by all who saw it, and her blue eyes and rosy cheeks called forth admiration; but no one had ever said that she was a willing and dutiful child.

When her mother gave her the moccasins, she straightway took off her little patent-leather pumps to try them on. They were a perfect fit. She put on one, then she held up the other and inspected it carefully. The crudely fashioned letters in the heel attracted her attention: "Go Cheerfully." She looked at her mother, but her mother did not even know of the letters and was busily sewing.

She took off the moccasin on her foot, and there was "Go Cheerfully" again: then she put them both on and sat by the fire thinking. In a moment her mamma looked up from her work: "I wish you would bring me the scissors, dear" she said.

Now Annie Bell's first inclination was to grumble. She did not like to run errands; but the words "Go Cheerfully" in the bottom of her little shoes seemed to prick her. She found herself saying, "All right, mamma," and in a flash she was away for them.

"Go cheerfully: Go Cheerfully!" They were such pretty moccasins. The dainty bead work on the toes fascinated her. They seemed made especially for her. Never before had she realized how unwilling she was; but now when she was inclined to lag there were the words to remind her. Sometimes it seemed that they almost burned her little heels, and in the end she always obeyed them.

"I wonder what has come over my little girl lately? She is so kind to her mother."

Annie Bell Lee was sitting at her mother's feet winding yarn, and her mother reached over and laid a hand upon her beautiful hair.

"I just have to mind my moccasins, that's all," Annie Bell admitted; and then she slipped them off and let her mother read the words, and neither of them guessed that, after all, it was only a little girl's name.—Maud M. Huey.

* * *

How a Good Man Was Saved.

One night John Paton was very tired and went to bed early; he fell into a sound sleep. His little dog, Clutha, lay by his bedside.

It was a dark night when Clutha jumped up and began to pull at the bedclothes. "Bow, wow! Bow, wow, wow, wow!" she barked, frantically.

John Paton woke up—quickly he aroused his two friends. They saw that dark shadows were passing to and fro outside the window. He and his friends kneeled down and asked God to take care of them.

Just then a glare of light flashed into the room. Men passed with flaming torches. They set fire to the reed fence. In a few minutes the house would catch. The wicked savages were outside, with knives and clubs to kill him.

The brave man stepped outside his door. He cut the burning reed fence and threw it away from his house. Seven or eight savages jumped out and surrounded him; their clubs were raised.

"Kill him! kill him!" some one yelled.

John Paton said a quick prayer to God.

"Dare to strike me, and my God will punish you!" he cried. "He takes care of us. He will punish you for burning his church, and for hating his people, and for all your badness! We have been doing you good, and you want to kill us! But our God is right here. He is here; he will take care of us. He will punish you!"

They howled in rage. They called some one to strike the first blow, yet no one flared.

Now comes the wonderful part of the story. A rushing, roaring sound came up from the south; it was like the noise of some great engine. Every savage stopped to

It was a tornado! One of the most dreadful kind of storms was coming!

Then the wind blew. The rain poured in torrents and put out the fire.

"That is Jehovah's rain! Truly their God is fighting for them, and helping them. Run! Run away!"

Then the savages threw down their torches: and in a few minutes every cannibal, with face drawn with fright, was minutes every cannibal, with face drawn with fright, was running for his life! John Paton and his friends were not harmed and their home was spared.—Selected.

0 0 0

Faith is a thing that presupposes a searching after till it finds the God in whom man lives and moves and has his being; the half-unconscious consciousness that there is a glory which God, the alone great and good and glorious, destines for and can alone bestow upon man.—Selected.

* * *

Nothing soothes the sorrowing like prayer and service for others.—Selected.

Current Thought

Walking With God.

In the story of the long ago Enoch stands as in some respects the most wonderful character of all—he "walked with God." This does not just imply that Enoch had physical comradeship with God. It means that Enoch, in mind and affection, kept close to God.

The Christian, whatever his calling or temptations, commences his daily walk with God in prayer. Before his head leaves the pillow the plans and duties of the day are laid before God. In essence he petitions: "My Father, be with me as I associate with others; give me courage, pa-tience, skill. Help me to bear my burdens. Watch over my business affairs to thy honor and for my good. Lord, send me light. My pathway is so often very, very dark that I need thy light to guide me more than I can understand. Above all, thy will be done!"

And God answers him. God drives into his inmost soul some richly sacred thoughts that abide with him throughout the day: "My son, I am thy light in the darkness, Keep close to me; be obedient to the simple teachings of my holy Christ; steady thy life with frequent thoughts of Do not run before me, for then thou shalt lose me; do not lag behind, else darkness overtake thee. me beyond the eventide until thine eyes are closed in sleep. More tenderly than the stars I will watch over thee; and through thee shall my perfect will be done." So each of us, like Enoch in the old, old story, can walk with God.-William C. Allen, in Christian Standard.

Every one who walks with God will be useful and happy. There is no higher occupation than walking with God. No wonder that God reached down and took Enoch home without his suffering the pangs of death. How blessed and how sweet is companionship and comradeship with God! Every child of God should delight to begin each day by devoting some time to prayer. In prayer we commune with our God; in earnest prayer we shut the world out and lock ourselves in with God. Christian soldier, let the highest ambition of your life be to walk with God.

* * *

Digging at Duty.

Many a man now eminent in his trade or profession has begun in a humble way, as an apprentice or novitiate, and by sheer resourcefulness and downright hard work has beaten his way to success. A former superintendent of mobeaten his way to success. A former superintendent of mo-tive power on the Pennsylvania lines thus described his rise to his important position: "I got in there [on the sys-tem] and was given a change to dig, and I dug!" Another official of the same road once sized up the human-power situation in this fashion: "The fellows learn that the longest poles knock the most plums." When a young man is given a chance to do even the humblest work, the only way given a chance to do even the humblest work, the only way to begin is to begin. If he is afforded an opportunity to dig, let him dig in! There is a man in Scripture who weakly declared: "I cannot dig," That was pretty bad, although he had grace enough to add: "To beg I am ashamed." Not every man, indeed, can work as a day There are still those, plenty of them, who even in these days of steam shovels and electric motors sell their muscles or bend their backs literally in aging toil. most people to-day, while engaged many of them in manual employments, must use their wits to spare their backs and strive to attain a skill which will relieve toil of its most tiresome forms of drudgery. Yet, however we may arrange it, there will nevertheless remain a certain amount of downright demand which can be met and countered only by digging in. The practice that makes perfect is often a Eborious calculation, an intense application of brain power, an unsparing devotion, or an emotional strain which leaves the subject of the process the worst-tired man at the end of the day that there is to be found anywhere in town. Especially when the feelings and sympathies, as well as the mind and muscles, are strained is the tire intense and persistent. Nevertheless, it is only by toll and sacrifice and perseverance that life's highest prizes are won. It rests with us to determine, when confronted with any unfamiliar, yet promising situation, whether we shall "give it up" before we try, or try with a vehemence of zeal, a resoluteness of purpose, and a persistence of activity which simply wring prosperity out of poverty, and conquer circumstance by sheer force of character. "I cannot dig!" "I dug!" Here are two types of men, one a failure and the other a Which type are you?-Zion's Herald.

Men are sometimes sorry for the wrongs they have committed, but no one has ever repented of having done his duty. The sweetest moments of life are those that one spends in doing his duty. It is always pleasant to take a backward glance reviewing the things that we have done that we know to be right and for the honor and glory of God; it is with deep regret that we reflect on the sins of our youth and the mistakes that we have made. When we realize these things, how strange it is that we will not always be faithful in doing our duty!

0 0 0

The Blessedness of Being in Want.

The Laodicean curse rests upon the church which is fully satisfied with itself; which says, "I have need of nothing." To be contented in the light of a religion which calls for eternal enlargement, to be complacent in the face of a world so full of need, this is a great sin. Christ seeks to keep his people fired with a holy discontent, the pursuit of perfection, and a passion for the extension of the kingdom

This is the burden of the Savior's prayers and preaching.

This is the burden of the savior's prayers and preaching. He saw to it that they who wrote his message to the churches should teach the doctrine of "greater things," of life abundant, of a pressing on, of "more and more."

The church is blessed that hungers and thirsts after righteousness. The secret of a great life is to know how to be filled and to be hungry, both to abound and to be in want. The mark of the successful church is to do well the work in hand with eye and heart to the larger task and work in hand, with eye and heart to the larger task and the fuller day.—Christian Standard.

No church or Christian should ever be fully satisfied with work done. The man who is doing the best that he can and who is striving to grow in grace and in the knowledge of the truth is always looking out for something better than he has known. He does not act as though he had fully attained all that is good and as if there were nothing more to be acquired. Like Paul, he presses forward to the goal for the mark of the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus. The most faithful, earnest Christians are not satisfied with what they have accomplished. The great Ellijah felt that his life-work had been a failure. However, a faithful Christian does not murmur and complain when called upon to endure hardships. When he has done his best, like Paul, he learns in whatever state he is to be content; he knows how to abound and how to be in want; he knows how to be filled and how to be hungry. He can even rejoice when he looks back upon the tribulations through which he has passed, realizing that such trials have worked out for his good and for the furtherance of the gospel of Christ.

0 0 0

Sanctuary.

See how they throng, the angry multitude. And press on Him, with blows and curses; now Inclose Him fast, to thrust Him to the brow Of the steep rock; but swift He will clude Their hatred, who the stormy winds subdued. As startled waves fall backward from the prow Of a swift boat, He goes, they know not how, To pray within some mountain solitude. So, Lord, when cares and sorrows roughly crowd, And madly push me to some steep despair; When sins, and earth's dull pleasures, cry aloud And snatch to hold me in their subtle snare; Filled with Thy strength, may I pass through their grasp, And find my mountain fastness in Thy clasp! —Mary Alethea Woodward, in Exchange.

E. L. Billops, Milan, Tenn., inquires to know the meaning of James 5: 13, 14, wishing to know if it is scriptural for the elders of the church to go to a brother's home upon request and pray for the recovery of the sick.

James 5: 13, 14 reads: "Is any among you suffering? let him pray. Is any cheerful? let him sing praise. Is any among you sick? let him call for the elders of the church; and let them pray over him, anointing him with oil in the name of the Lord." It is very probable that anointing with oil to heal the sick belonged to the miraculous age of the church. Oil was used for healing in the days of Christ. The Samaritan bound up the wounds of the man who fell among robbers, "pouring on them oil and wine." (Luke 10: 34.) "And they cast out many demons, and anointed with oil many that were sick, and healed them." (Mark 6: 13.) It is certainly right for the elders to pray for the recovery of the sick. "The prayer of faith shall save him that is sick." The prayer for the sick should be according to God's will and in faith.

* * *

D. S. Black wishes to know if a Christian can fall away and be forever lost. Some one has taken the position that when a man is once a son, he is always a son. This may be true, but many a father has disowned or disinherited his son. The Bible is clear in the teaching that the Christian can apostatize and finally be lost. "Wherefore let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall." (1 Cor. 10: 12.) The Holy Spirit says: "Ye are severed from Christ, ye who would be justified by the law; ye are fallen away from grace." (Gal. 5: 4.) Again, we read: "For if, after they have escaped the defilements of the world through the knowledge of the Lord and Savior Jesus Christ, they are again entangled therein and overcome, the last state is become worse with them than the first. For it were better for them not to have known the way of righteousness, than, after knowing it, to turn back from the holy commandment delivered unto them. It has happened unto them according to the true proverb. The dog turning to his own vomit again, and the sow that had washed to wallowing in the mire." (2 Pet. 2: 20-22.) This should certainly settle the question with those who accept the Bible.

0 0 0

Tim Walker sends the following questions, to which he requests an answer through the "Query Department:" "(1) Can an alien sinner sin against the Holy Ghost? (2) Does Heb. 10: 26-29 prove an example of the sin against the Holy Ghost? (3) Those Christians that went back under the Mosaic law, could they have been restored to covenant relationship with God if they had repented and prayed to God for the forgiveness of their sins, as did Simon in Acts 8: 19-22?

1. An allen sinner can sin against the Holy Spirit the same as a Christian. Any sin persisted in until one holds the truth in unrighteousness and is given over to reprobacy of heart is a sin against the Holy Spirit. Men could reject the teaching of John the Baptist and the teaching of Christ during his personal ministry, and later accept the teaching of the Spirit and be saved; but the man who rejects and refuses to accept the teaching of the Spirit will never have another way offered and so cannot be saved. Jesus is the last sacrifice for sin, and the way of salvation offered through him by the Spirit is the only way.

2. "For if we sin willfully after that we have received the knowledge of the truth, there remaineth no more sacrifice for sins, but a certain fearful expectation of judgment, and a flereeness of fire which shall devour the adversaries. A man that hath set at naught Moses' law dieth without compassion on the word of two or three witnesses: of how much sorer punishment, think ye, shall he be judged worthy, who hath trodden under foot the Son of God, and hath counted the blood of the covenant wherewith he was sanctified an unholy thing, and hath done despite unto the Spirit of grace?" (Heb. 10: 26-29.) No other way will be offered the man who does this. If he does not repent of such action, it will become the sin against the Holy Spirit.

3. Christians who went back to the law of Moses by repentance and prayer would be forgiven as any other erring Christian.

* * *

H. L. Meeks, Blytheville, Ark., sounds a note of warning to me to be cautious, and asks three questions in order to nullify any evil my answer to a querist might do. He says: "In the Gospel Advocate of October 1 I find this statement in your reply to a correspondent of Lindale, Texas: 'There is no positive command that requires one to be present upon each first day of the week.' It is not my aim to defend or condemn the church at Lindale; but, believing as I do that the above statement from your pen might easily prove to be a dangerous stumblingblock in the path of a weak brother, I desire to ask the following questions in the hope that they -with the answers following-may serve to remove the stumblingblock; (1) Wherein does the exhortation in Heb. 10: 25 lack the force of a positive command? (2) Is the first part of Heb. 10: 25, 'not forsaking the assembling of ourselves together,' any less a command then the last part of Matt. 28: 19, 'baptizing them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost?' (3) In Heb. 10, if we willfully forsake the assembly of verse 25, do we not commit the sin of verse 26, and, unless we repent and pray for forgiveness, may we not expect the punishment of verse 27?"

1. The exhortation of Heb. 10: 25 is an admonition and not a positive command. The passage reads: "Not forsaking our own assembling together, as the custom of some is, but exhorting one another; and so much the more, as ye see the day drawing nigh." If any one is sick, he is not expected to heed this exhortation. If one has a valid reason, he is not expected to meet to break bread. If a wife or a loved one is dying, one would not meet to break bread. One who truly loves the Lord will not make excuses for not meeting to worship God; he really delights to be present at the worship. There is much diversity of opinion as to what day "the day" refers. Macknight, Stuart, Milligan, Myer, and many others refer "day" to the destruction of the Jewish nation.

In answering the first question, I have answered the second. One is an exhortation, the other is a command.

3. Those who willfully reject Christ will never be forgiven so long as they reject him, hence should not meet at all. There will be no other sacrifice for sin, as Christ is the last sacrifice.

An example should be as forceful with a Christian as a command. If we really love Jesus, we will find pleasure in meeting to break bread on the first day of the week. If without a valid reason we prefer to be somewhere else on the first day of the week than at the worship, there is something radically wrong with our hearts. "By their fruits ye shall know them."

What God requires is an undivided will—a yielding will, desiring only what he desires, rejecting only what he rejects, and both unreservedly. Where such a mind is, everything turns to good, and its very amusements become good works. Happy indeed is such a one.—Fénelon.

W

AT HOME AND ABROAD

- S. I. Jones preached at Laguardo, Tenn., last Sunday.
- J. W. Dickson preached at Flat Rock last Lord's day at both services.
- F. B. Srygley preached at Belmont Avenue Church, this city, last Sunday.

The Bellbuckle congregation enjoyed two sermons from Mitchell Pullias last Lord's day.

Charles R. Brewer preached at Tullahoma, Tenn., last Lord's day and the evening following.

The Charlotte Pike congregation, this city, enjoyed a sermon from J. A. Allen last Lord's day.

Andy T. Ritchie preached two sermons at Foster Street church of Christ, this city, last Lord's day.

W. W. Bates preached at the Twelfth Avenue church of Christ, this city, last Lord's day and evening.

Leonard Jackson preached at both services of the Lindsey Avenue Church, this city, last Lord's day.

- H. E. Winkler began a meeting at Springfield, Mo., on November 21, to continue ten days or two weeks.
- C. E. W. Dorris conducted both services at the Rothchild Avenue Church, this city, on last Lord's day.
- W. S. Long was unexpectedly called home from Texas. His present address is Box 1423, Washington, D. C.

The services at the David Lipscomb College last Sunday were conducted by H. S. Lipscomb, dean of the institution.

John Beasley conducted the morning services at Joseph Avenue Church, this city, last Sunday, and one was added to the church.

- R. V. Cawthon preached at Donelson, Tenn., on Lord's-day-morning, and began a protracted meeting that night at Pleasant Hill (Jericho).
- G. W. Riggs preached at Hill's Chapel on Lord's day, but they had no service at night. He will preach at Riggs Cross Roads next Lord's day.
- Louis J. Tackett, of Fort Worth, Texas, called to see us a few minutes last Saturday. He is an elder in the Lynnwood congregation of that city.
- D. W. Nay is in a protracted meeting at Fresno, Cal., with the Orchard Avenue congregation, with large crowds and fine interest. The meeting will continue indefinitely.
- H. W. Wrye continues the meeting at Fifth Street, this city, with good interest. Up to this writing there have been eleven additions. The meeting will continue throughout this week.
- C. R. Nichol, of Clifton, Texas, recently closed an interesting meeting at Hartsville, Tenn.; also one at Dickson Springs, Tenn. At this writing he is in a meeting at Groveton, Texas.

The contribution at the Charlotte Avenue church of Christ on Lord's day, November 14, was $397.63, as follows: Special for building fund, $290.40; for a "home mission," $60; regular contribution, $47.25.

- F. W. Smith expresses deep regret over the death of G. Dallas Smith, and says that in him a very efficient, able, and consecrated worker has been lost. The writer of this joins Brother Smith in this sentiment.
- J. V. A. Traylor writes from Smyrna, Tenn., November 18: "I preached to a large audience at Oakland Church, near Clarksville, Tenn., last Sunday (November 14). The church there is in a good working condition."
- Dr. J. S. Ward held a meeting at the Fanning Orphan School last week, which closed on Saturday night. At last report there had been fourteen baptisms. He preached at Owen's Chapel last Sunday and night following.
- F. W. Smith has returned from an interesting meeting at Lafayette, Tenn. This is the home congregation of W. H. Carter, who frequently contributes to our columns and is so well and favorably known by our readers.

From Leslie G. Thomas, Flint, Mich., November 15: "Yesterday I was with the church in Akron and preached twice. Our work in this State is still growing. A snow is on the ground, but we do not expect to go into winter quarters before spring,"

J. W. Grant preached at both services of the Reid Avenue Church, this city, on Lord's day. There was a fair attendance, with fine attention and interest, at both services. This church sets the Lord's table at night for those unable to attend in the morning.

John W. Fry, treasurer of the Tennessee Orphans' Home, was among our callers last Friday. He reports the Home as in good condition, and is as enthusiastic in the work as usual. He promises to do what he can to extend the circulation of the Gospel Advocate in the church at Columbia.

From L. F. Mason, Manchester, Tenn., November 15: "I preached to large crowds both morning and night at Manchester yesterday. The church here is alive and active, and has some of the best people in its membership. I shall return to Texas this week. I will preach at Wylie, Texas, next Lord's day."

Mrs. W. J. Hogan writes to encourage us in the work of editing the Gospel Advocate. She says she enjoys the paper very much, and enjoyed especially Brother Dunn's recent letter. She would be glad to see more church news from Alabama, and would like to see some good man such as S. H. Hall at work in that State.

James E. Scobey preached on last Lord's day at Leiper's Fork, Tenn., to a very large and attentive audience. Last Tuesday night a week ago he preached the funeral of Joseph L. Sweeney, who had been a member of the church of Christ for sixty years. Brother Scobey is expected to preach at Donelson, Tenn., next Lord's day.

- H. Leo Boles was in to see us a few minutes last week. He had just closed a meeting at Childersburg, Ala. There were no additions, but good attendance, attention, and interest. Brother Boles began a meeting at Hilles Chapel, Hopkinsville, Ky., on last Lord's day. He continues his articles with us on Old Testament characters.
- R. C. White came in last week from a short meeting with Bethany Church, near Franklin, Ky. The weather was bad, the attendance poor, and no visible results; but he hopes some good was done by his efforts there. He will probably hold a meeting at Yokeley's Grove, near the same place, before closing his meeting work for the winter.
- I. B. Bradley, of Dickson, Tenn., called to see us last Friday. He reports having received the full amount asked for to bring Sister Sarah Andrews home from Japan, and the funds now on the way to her. Brother Bradley and wife will leave next week for Avon Park, Fla., for the winter. He has some interests there, and may locate there permanently.

From Sister Jennie Clarke, Luling, Texas, November 16: "The children of the Belle Haven Orphans' Home are all well and doing good work in school. Several of the girls sent samples of their handiwork to the county fair at Lockhart last week and received premiums. Do not forget to send Thanksgiving offerings for the benefit of the Home. Start your Christmas boxes early."

P. R. Slater, of Shelbyville, Ky., who has been very active in the Master's service, has now reached an age that he cannot mix and mingle very much with the brethren. He feels this deprivation keenly. He is afflicted with deafness, besides the infirmities of old age. Brethren in his community would do well to visit him and cheer him as much as possible in his declining years.

From R. A. Craig, Louisville, Ky., November 15: "Last Sunday I was at Harrisonville. We had fine attendance at both services. There were three additions at the morning service and one at the night service. The Harrisonville work is something to be proud of. There is as good material there for church work as one could wish to find. With the help of the Lord, we will reach a still higher plane of usefulness."

O. C. Lambreth, who is now residing in the city and attending Peabody College and also preaching once a month for the Belmont Avenue church of Christ, was in to see us last Saturday. He is out of the college for a while on account of his health, and while out he is devoting his time to soliciting subscribers to the Gospel Advocate. Any courtesies shown him will be greatly appreciated by the management.

From R. E. L. Taylor, Decherd, Tenn., November 17: "I am at home with my wife. She is down sick, this being the third week. I cannot fill my appointments until she gets better. Brethren, I ask an interest in your prayers for me and mine, that we may all soon be up and out again. My daughter has been very bad off, but she is very much improved now. My address will be Lecanto, Fla., after December 10, if all get well so that we can leave."

Changes of address: J. P. Wright, from Farmersville, Texas, to Anna, Texas; Foy E. Wallace, Sr., from Longview, Texas, to San Benito, Texas, Route 2; Lem Martin, from 3101 South Grant Street to 437 Downing Street, Denver, Col.; J. T. Harrison, from 135 Tift Street to 8 Shelton Avenue, Atlanta, Ga.; Mrs. W. Murray, from 1538 West Thirty-first Street to 610 East Tenth Street, Oklahoma City, Okla.; H. F. Pendergrass, from 823 West Texas Street, Denison, Texas, to 100 East Breckinridge Street, Louisville, Ky.; J. H. Monk, from 161 Kentucky Avenue, S. E., to 1740 Euclid Street, N. W., Apartment 50, Washington, D. C.

From Mrs, J. A. Yancey, Jennie Ark., November 17: "I have organized a Sunday school at this place, to begin next Sunday. The Baptists were running the Sunday school when I came here in August. They have disbanded: so I am going to try to plant the church of Christ here. I have permission to use the school building. I am the only member of the church here; but I hope to get others interested, and then get a preacher to come and preach for us. I would be glad to know if any of our preachers are located anywhere in this part of the country. People here are very indifferent about the Lofd's work. They do not seem to know one day from the other. "The harvest is plenteous, but the laborers are few."

We have the following note from W. M. Oakley: "We began a meeting at Riddleton, Tenn., November 8 and closed on the following Sunday night. The rain and sudden change in the weather hindered the meeting much, but it was well attended and some interest was shown. Riddleton has been neglected and the church has suffered for the lack of some one to lead. Only a few sisters are keeping house for the Lord; but they are in earnest and are determined to hold together until the good Lord sends them help. While we had no additions to the church, all seemed to think much good was done. One young lady who made confession the last night of C. R. Nichol's meeting was baptized. We promised to return sometime in the near future and finish the meeting under more favorable circumstances. They were all good to the preacher."

E. E. Shoulders writes encouragingly of the work at Colorado Springs, Col.: "I will make Colorado Springs my headquarters this winter and coming spring until protracted-meeting season. We have a splendid congregation here; and while it is going good, we think best to spend a little time with it this winter. We have close to thirty members now. There are others whom we think can be interested to take part in the work and be more active in their Christian duties. It is probable that by late spring at least fifty members can be rounded up. The church at present is meeting in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium, and will continue to meet in this hall until other arrangements can be made. We had two good services yesterday. Last evening the audience was larger than any time during our meeting. Yesterday's contribution went to fourteen dollars and forty cents. We are all very much pleased with the start and hope to keep on growing. We want any one coming to Colorado Springs to live to let it be known at once. Any one who has a friend here will please write me at once, and I shall be glad to call on him."

J. Y. McQuigg writes from Abilene, Texas, November 10: "The school is fine; the enrollment up to to-day reached four hundred and seventy. We have two hundred and fifty-one in eight mission classes that recite each Wednesday night after prayer meeting. Four hundred and fifty meet on Lord's-day morning at ten o'clock for an hour's Bible study; the worship is at eleven o'clock. All students that are Christians are urged to identify themselves with the congregation, thus placing themselves under the watch care of the elders, which they have nearly all done. Fifty-two names were added a week ago last Lord's day. We are having a great deal of rain, which is damaging the cotton very much, for it is nearly all open. W. S. Long was with us last night and made a most excellent talk; but the audience was small, made up almost entirely of students. A very nice little offering was made for paying for the church house in Washington. The congregation had given one hundred dollars previous to this. The congregation has Brother Cypert employed as an evangelist for his whole time. He has held one meeting at Cisco, and organized a congregation of forty-six. He is now in a similar work at Seymour. He is to go mainly to destitute places for quite a while, as there are so many of them,"

Alonzo Jones (colored), of Nashville, Tenn., makes the following report: "On the fourth Lord's day in July I began my first meeting with the congregation at Santa Fé. Three precious souls made the good confession. August 1 I began a meeting with the little band at Center Star, near Shady Grove, Tenn. Five were baptized and two reclaimed. On August 8 I began with the Pleasant Union congregation. It rained nearly every day, but the interest was fine. The neeting closed on August 13 with twelve additions. On August 15 I began in Fort Cooper. Three On August 15 I began in Fort Cooper. precious souls obeyed the gospel and the church was greatly edified On August 22 I began at mount for March, Tenn. Two obeyed the gospel. On August 29 On August 22 I began at Mount Levana, near began with the New River congregation, near Fayette, Ala. The meeting closed on September 3 with ten additions. September 12 I began in Widener, Ark., a destitute field. Five accepted the gospel of Christ. On the third Lord's day in September I began a meeting near Smithville, Miss. Interest was fine and the church was greatly edified. meeting was well supported by the white people. On October 17 I preached near Fosterville, Tenn., and one young man from the Methodists obeyed the gospel. I am glad to report that A. M. Burton remembered me with the value of sixty dollars as a contribution to me in my work for the Master. J. C. Shepherd, of Berry, Ala., expressed his willingness to help me in my hard struggle. This noble white brother has stood by me for three years. I hope to always prove worthy."

From A. A. Bunner, Cleveland, Ohio, November 10: "My meeting at Daybrook, in Monongalia County, thirteen days' duration, in October, resulted in two confessions and baptisms and the brethren greatly encouraged and built up in the faith of the gospel of Christ. All loyal preachers of the church of Christ who may feel able to do so are asked to send one dollar each to Noah Brothers, Route 1, Box 31, Willow, W. Va., to help pay off the indebtedness on the church house at Naish Springs, W. Va. 1 will be one of five hundred preachers who will agree to do this, and I feel sure that many will join me in this good and much-needed work. Send at once, and help those good and loyal brethren in their time of need. The church of Christ in Cleveland meets every Lord's day at 9:30 A.M. for Bible study and at 10:30 A.M. for preaching and ship, at 10601 Virginia Block, Superior Avenue. Bret who may be in the city over Lord's day should take a Superior Avenue car at the Public Square and get off at East One Hundred and Fifth Street and walk a half square to Virginia Block. They have a good and lively congregation, and strangers are always welcome. We expect, God willing, to soon build a house of worship we can call our own. one having friends or relatives in this city who are members of the church of Christ and who have not been able to locate our place of meeting are requested to drop us a letter giving their street and number, and we will look My address is 1800 West Fifty-fourth Street. them up.

Will W. Slater, of Fort Smith, Ark., writes, November 15; "This leaves me in a meeting at Estancia, New Mexico. I will continue over next Sunday. We are having a very good meeting, all things considered. I find that the church here has been torn asunder two or three times in the past by hobbies of different kinds. The 'college question,' the 'Sunday-school question,' the 'women's work question.' and many other questions have hindered the work here. After viewing the situation, I put on my 'skinning clothes,' and think I shall keep them on all this week. I do hope to accomplish something worth while in the Master's name. There are some mighty fine folks here, folks who would do things for God if they had half a show. There is a fine opportunity for building up the church is this country if the brethren will quit fighting and go to work. I closed the meeting at Harveyville, Kan., on Sunday night, November 7. We had a very good meeting, all things considered. The meeting closed without visible results, but the brethren seemed to think that much good was accomplished They engaged me for another meeting in 1921. It was my first trip to Kansas, and I enjoyed it very much. There are some fine brethren at Harveyville. I find that the spirit of 'Sommerism' or 'collegism' has invaded that country and several churches have been divided over the 'college' question. Sad, sad indeed, is the thought! When will the children of God lay down all 'isms,' hobbies, contentions, and all discord among themselves, and marshal their forces together and center their every effort against sin, ungodliness, and unrighteousness? May God speed the day when this shall be done. Then, and not before, will we see the cause prosper on the earth as it has never done before. May God bless the faithful.

BAD BLOOD

Impure, Thin, Weak, Afflicts the Great Majority of People

Whether in scrofula, sores, boils, and eruptions; or as rheumatism with agonizing pains and aches in limbs, joints or muscles; as catarrh with its disagreeable inlimbs, flammation and discharge; in disturbed digestion, or debility and tired feeling,—it is corrected by

Hood's Sarsaparilla, that most economical and reliable blood remedy and building-up tonic. Thousands use this medicine and praise it for wonderful relief. Made from the most valuable remedies that physicians know, and unparalleled in character, quality, taste and curative power. For a eathartic use Hood's Pills.

GIRLSI USE LEMONS FOR SUNBURN, TAN

Try It! Make this lemon lotion to whiten your tanned or freckled akin.

Squeeze the juice of two Iemons into bottle containing three ounces of Orchard White, shake well, and you have a quarter pint of the best freckle, sunburn and tan lotion, and complexion whitener, at very, very small cost.

Your grocer has the lemons and any drug store or toilet counter will supply three ounces of Orchard White for a few Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face, neck, arms and hands and see how quickly the freekles, sunburn, windburn and tan disappear and how clear, soft and white the skin becomes. Yes! It is harmless.

The Colorado Springs Meeting. BY E. C. FUQUA.

The meeting at Colorado Springs, Col., after continuing over three Lord's days, closed a few days ago. Brother E. E. Shoulders assisted me in this meeting. We worked hard to get a hearing, doing the widest advertising we have yet done in any meeting. We had a fair hearing, and we feel that our efforts were not in vain. "It pays to advertise."

To those not familiar with conditions at Colorado Springs I wish to say: For a few years-a year or two at least-there has been what is now known as a "Sommerite" faction there, holding the house that was built before such a faction existed in that city. I say "built," though perhaps I should say built with considerable money contributed to that purpose before there was such a faction there, for through my own influence, and the work of Brethren B. A. Mc-Collum and C. E. Coleman, considerable money was raised to build that house; and I think Brother John D. Evans also was instrumental in assisting in these funds. Now not one of us can preach in the house, notwithstanding we have not changed in falth, doctrine, or practice since our labors there years ago, when the house money was being raised. Others have control of the house, and will, I suppose, keep it.

By a system of elimination the faction there has concentrated into a onehundred-per-cent Review "family," and holds the Review policies and dogmas intact. Those who were not in sympathy with these Sommerisms, though in perfect accord with the "faith which was once for all delivered unto the saints," were, in some instances, withdrawn from; and in other instances, knowing this would be the outcome of their continued association sooner or later, they found it unpleasant to continue in the face of the inevitable and withdrew themselves from the factionistic spirit. Thus the peculiar tenets of Sommerism were made a test of fellowship to the destroying of the best material in the congregation.

The principal tenet was the farfamed "college question," which by the Sommer people had been injected into the church there as a test of fellowship; and all who would not renounce the "colleges" were regarded as "new digressives," and were made the object of unrelenting hatred by those who had received this new article of faith from the Review.

My acquaintance with conditions at Colorado Springs goes back fourteen years, and in this time I am certain that no person there has held to or taught any "collegism" as it is in-

HOW DOCTORS TREAT COLD

First Step in Treatment Is a Brisk Purgative With Calotabs, the Purified and Refined Calomel Tablets that are Nausea-less, Safe and Sure.

Doctors have found by experience that no medicine for colds and influ-enza can be depended upon for full effectiveness until the liver is made thoroughly active. That is why the first oughly active. That is why the first step in the treatment is the new, nausealess colomel tablets called Calotabs, which are free from the sickening and weakening effects of the old style calomel. Doctors also point out the fact that an active liver may go a long way towards preventing influenza and is one of the most important factors in enabling the patient to successfully withstand an attack and ward off menan attack and ward off pneustand monia.

One Calotab on the tongue at bed time with a swallow of water—that's all. No salts, no nausea nor the slightest interference with your eating, pleasure or work. Next morning your cold has vanished, your liver is active, your system is purified, and you are feeling fine, with a hearty appetite for break-fast. Druggists sell Calotabs only in original scaled packages, price thirty-five cents. Your money will be cheer-fully refunded if you do not find them delightful.—(Adv.)

women's aches, Sick and Nervous Headaches, Back aches—relieved quickly by the Reliable Remedy D terpreted by the Sommerite faction. It was never mentioned there except by the Review and its sympathizers; hence, the division that has been caused over this alleged "question" has been caused in toto by the Review and its sympathizers. Such a "question" has never been raised in Colorado at all, except by these Review parties.

IT'S LIQUID-QUICK EFFECT.

My effort in the meeting was to ignore this matter as a cause sufficient to divide a congregation and try to get those who had urged it as such a cause to drop it for the sake of the fellowship of their unoffending brethren in Christ, who, while not participating in any manner with any "college," were nevertheless not willing to have this "question" made into a test of fellowship.

In this determination I went to see certain parties of the faction, whom 1 had known and so pleasantly worked with in the years gone by, and invited them to hear me now as they heard me in the past, assuring them that I had not changed in anything since then; but up till the close of the meeting not one had the courage to defy the ruling spirit of Sommerism and pay me the courtesy of a hearing. Indeed, "Ephraim is wedded to his

I then placed handbills in each home, and I further mailed to each one a nice card, setting forth the situation as I understood it, and earnestly asking each one, in the interest of the unity of the faith in that city, to let us "reason together," if peradventure a reconciliation might be effected. But till now no reply has been received, and not a face was seen at our meet-We were, therefore, led to the conclusion that these erring brethren have exactly what they want-a division which leaves a congregation of one-hundred-per-cent Review readers. The Review is more to them than the loving fellowship of their brethren in Christ, and they seem not to hesitate to advertise this fact to the whole world.

Having exhausted every means of cementing the two into one again, finding the Review laid as a barrier to their fellowship or a stumblingblock before their feet, I gathered together those who were willing to have Christ alone rule over them-some twenty-five souls-and put them to work for him. They are now meeting in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium, I think, and steps are being taken to provide themselves with a permanent place in which to conduct the Lord's worship and work. We fully believe that others now linked up with the faction will come to see the error of their way and take their stand with those who love the Lord more than a weekly newspaper; and in this hope I instructed the brethren in the teaching of Christ regarding receiving one another, "but not for decision of scruples." (Rom. 14: 1.) I taught them that love will abolish all differences between them where these are not matters of divine law; and that if any desired to fellowship them, and preferred to read the Gospel Advocate, the Leader, the Firm Foundation, or the Review, or all of these, or none of them, that was to cut no figure in their fellowship of that party, provided he loved the Lord and wanted to do his will. In this way they are to help one another in love. I believe the church at Colorado Springs will grow in influence, as it consists of most excellent people, who have the Lord's will at heart and who are zealous for his cause. In this he will bless them.

Hard Colds.-People whose blood is pure are not nearly so likely to take hard colds as are others. Hood's Sarsaparilla makes the blood pure, and this great medicine recovers the system after a cold as no other medicine does. Take Hood's.

An Appeal to the Disciples of Christ Everywhere.

02.000

BY S. R. CASSIUS.

Brethren, I am sending you a personal letter that I may interest you in one of the greatest educational projects ever undertaken by the colored disciples of Christ in the United States. I fear that there have been far too many half-hearted attempts made toward the evangelization of my race, and that, because of the real position that the American negro holds in the body of this great nation, no great good has been done.

It has been the spirit of our great missionary workers to class us with the uncivilized peoples of heathen lands. They have failed to note the fact that we as a race use the same Bible, worship the same God, and hope for the same immortality as they themselves. They fail to realize that we have emerged from that state of ignorance that the emancipation from slavery found us in fifty-seven years ago. Then we were a body of three and a half millions of ignorant exslaves, without home, clothes, or very many real friends, and no form of religion that we could give an intelligent reason for. Now we are a body of people numbering more than thirteen millions, forming about one-eighth of the population of the United States.

The educational system of this country has set before us many doors of opportunity that we must in some way enter if we would keep pace with the upward trend of civilization and human progress. We have located a school in Nashville, Tenn., that great "Athens" of negro education, about four blocks from Fisk University. The place has seven and one-half acres of land and a large, twelve-room brick house, and is an ideal location. It cost seven thousand dollars. We paid one thousand dollars down, and have another thousand ready to meet the next payment. We need five thousand dollars to clear the debt and five thousand more to build a dormitory and a workshop. We have changed the name of the school to the "Nashville Christian Institute," and have chosen the following men as trustees: J. R. Holmes, president, Capersville, Tenn.; P. H. Black, treasurer, 1027 Twentyfirst Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.; Dr. J. D. Fowler, secretary, 1720 Jefferson Street, Nashville, Tenn.; Elder S. R. Cassius, financial representative, 1019 Harrison Avenue, Guthrie, Okla. Money sent to any of the above persons will be thankfully received and honestly used.

Ousts Rheumatism.

Here it is. Those awful pains of rheumatism so common during the celd, rainy weather are completely forgotten, and the rheumatism is expelled from your system, by the very simple treatment of taking Renwar Satis, which neutralizes the urle acid in the bloed, and Renwar attacks the very cause of this malady and expels the urle acid from the system. Renwar is entirely dependable. It does not in any way injure the stomach or affect the heart. It is prescribed by the best physicians, and your money is refunded if Renwar fails to relieve you of rheumatism. Give Renwar a trial, and you will never regret it. Mr. Benagh, of the Nashville Railway and Light Company, says: "Within two or three days after using Renwar my rheumatism disappeared." Price, 50 cents. Ask your druggist for it, or write WARNER DRUG COMPANY, NASHVILLE, TENN.

THE SANITARY." Communical CUPS List of thousands of churches using our cops and FRSE CATADOG with quotations sent mon request.

Sanitary Communica Outfit Co., 71tt St., Rechester, N. Y.

Mr. Church Treasurer!

If the Loose-Leaf Plan is best for the Business Man, it must be best for the CHURCH TREASURER.

Up-to-date Economical Efficient

Why not use the Unified Loose Leaf instead of Bound Books? Adapted to any envelope system and size member-Supplied by your dealer, or Arthur H. Strouse Pub. Co. Dept. K. 431 So. Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill.

FOOT TROUBLES

No Need of Them, Says Brooklyn Man, Who Has Evidently Solved a Big Problem

According to the testimony of hundreds of people living in the Southland and elsewhere, J. R. Simon, of 1589 Broadway, Brooklyn, N. Y., has successfully developed a system of shoe building having for Its prime object the conquering of foot and shoe troubles. It appears that Mr. Simon's establishment has become national head-quarters for people whose feet require his remarkable comfort shoe, known as the EzWear, but obtainable only of the in-ventor. Mr. Simon's new catalogue shows ventor. Mr. Simon's new catalogue shows several hundred shoes that combine comfort with style at amazingly low prices and is now ready for free distribution.

"WHITKNIT HOSIERY"

At Sacrifice Prices

At Sacrince Frices

Silk and Lusterized Liske—Fashioned
At less than fifty per cent of retail prices.

"WHITKNIT HOSIERY" Meets the Call To advertise our "WHITKNIT" Hosiery, we offer beautiful Silk Hosiery at greatly reduced prices. Direct to consumer at factory prices.

Style 555—10-thread silk hose, 3 pair,
$2.75, delivered.
Style 550—12-thread silk hose, 3 pair,
$3.25 delivered.
Style 560—12-thread silk half hose, 6 pair,
$4.50.

$4.50. Colors: Black, navy, dark brown, and Colors: Black, navy, dark brown, and white.

Ladies' sizes: 8, 8½, 9, 9½, 10.

Men's sizes: 9½, 10, 10½, 11.

Ladies' silk lise hose, Style 500, hox of 6 pair, for $2,75. (Black, brown, white.)

No inferior goods shipped under our Trade "WHITKNIT" Name Goods ready for delivery November 15 to December 15.

Satisfaction guaranteed, or money refunded.

nded. In ordering, state quality, size, style, and slor. Remit; P. O. money order or cash-color. Remit; P. O. money order or ler's check. WANTED—Dealers to handle "I KNIT." Write for agency in your "WHIT-WHITKNIT HOSIERY COMPANY, Hendersonville, N. C.

The Double Nature of Man. No. 10.

BY TICE ELKINS.

The objection to immortality of mind is sometimes made that the mind comes into life with the body, waxes into maturity with it, grows old with it, and dies with it. The inference the skeptic draws from this is that the mind also dies with the body. There is something striking in this objection. It appeals to the common observation of life, and at first view seems to be sustained by the facts of human history; but on closer observation we shall find the facts of history fall to confirm it. The full vigor of body is often, perhaps generally, attained by the age of twenty-five or thirty, while the full vigor of intellect is rarely attained before the age of forty or fifty. Instances almost without number are coming to our observation in which there is a most vigorous growth of intellect when the body has already begun to decline with age. A single instance of gray hairs, a debilitated body incasing a soul vigorons in all its mental and moral powers, is sufficient to demonstrate that this position and assumption is utterly untenable. And who has not seen such instances again and again?

Besides all this, we have already shown, from incontrovertible facts, that the most vigorous intellects are not unfrequently incumbered with weak and sickly bodies; nay, that even amidst the torpor of approaching death the mind often retains its full vigor up to the last moment of its earthly existence. This analogy of the materialist, by which he would reason from the death of the body to the death of the mind, utterly fails in its essential links, and, therefore, however attractive and imposing its enunciation, it is, when subjected to the rigid scrutiny of science and fact, found to be without conclusiveness and force.

Again, it is objected that those punitive words, "perish," "destruction," and "death," in the Bible, indicate the utter annihilation of every living principle, and, therefore, contradict the doctrine that the mind is immortal. The objector claims that when it is sald, "Except ye repent, ye shall all likewise perish" (Luke 13: 3) and that the wicked "shall be punished with everlasting destruction" (2 Thess. 1: 1-9), and that "the soul that sinneth it shall die" (Ezek. 18: 3), that these and kindred passages imply that the souls thus condemned will be utterly annihilated and absolutely cease to exist. This would indeed upset our doctrine of the soul's essential immortality by the will of God. But do the passages teach such a doctrine? Do the words contain such a breadth of meaning?

No one will contend that such a

Mrs. D. Martin, of New York, writes that her fits were stopped with a medicine sent to her by a Milwaukee resident, and suggests that every one suffering from fits write R. P. Lepso, 198 Island Arenue, Milwaukee, Wis., who will send them a bottle of the same kind of medicine she used—free.

AGAINST CALOMEL

Mr. Dodson, the "Liver Tone" Man, Responsible for Change for the Better.

Every druggist in town has noticed a great falling off in the sale of calomel. They all give the same reason. Dodson's Liver Tone is taking its place.

"Calomel is dangerous and people know it." Dodson's Liver Tone is personally guaranteed by every druggist who sells it. A large bottle doesn't cost very much but if it fails to give easy relief in every case of liver sluggishness and constipation just eak for your moray back case of liver sluggishness and constipa-tion, just ask for your money back. Dodson's Liver Tone is a pleasant-tasting, purely vegetable remedy, harm-less to both children and adults. Take spoonful at night and wake up feeling ine; no biliousness, sick headache, acid stomach or constipated bowels. It doesn't gripe or cause inconvenience all the next day like violent calomel. Take a dose of calomel today and tomorrow you will feel weak, sick and nauseated. Don't lose a day. Don't lose a day.

Complexion Worries

don't last long if you use TETTERINE. It insures a soft, velvety skin, free from pimples and other skin sores. Pleasant, antiseptic, healing. Fine for baby's rash, prickly heat, hives, and eczema, 60c at all druggists' or from Shupfrine Co., Savanuah, Ga.

Try This For Sore Throat

On retiring fill your nostrils with Eucapine Salve. Sniff the salve back into the air passages of the head and throat until it reaches the ionsils and uvula and you taste the salve. This is best done lying down, pallow under back, head thrown back that the melting salve may reach the head cavities. Also turn the head down and forward and to right and left; to flow the salve over the inflamed surfaces in the cavities of the head. In the morning the pain and aoraness will be gone. To make sure place Eucapine Salve on the back of the tongue with your finger. Same treatment for colds, nose sores, catarrital headaches, catarrit of the head, mose and throat. If you swallow a little it won't hurt you. You'll soon learn to think that one of your very best friends is

Antiseptic Analgesic Antiphlogistic (Prevents Infection) (Relieves Pain) (Aliays Infiammation) 50c the jar at your druggist's or by mall from

Piedmont Laboratories, Inc., Clinton, S. C.

Warming relief for theumatic aches.

HE'S just used Sloam's Liniment and the quick comfort had brought a smile of pleasure to his face. Good for aches resulting from weather exposure, sprains, strains, lame back, overworked muscles. Pene-trates without rubbing. All druggists have it.

Stop Pimples

Put an end to skin troubles and clear the complexion with TETTERINE. A pleasant and particularly effective salve used for years for all skin troubles. Soothing, pleasant, antiseptic, healing, 60c at all druggists' or from Shuptrine Co., Savannah, Ga.

Three Best Grade Pencils tassorted colors in holly box), with your name stamped in gold, sent Postpaid for 50 cents. A most pleasing gift for boys and girls. Send check, money order, or U. S. Postage. Orders filled within 48 hours.

F. O. BALLARD, The "Pencil Man,"

10 Spruce St., N. Y. City.

MORE PAY FOR TEACHERS

We have hundreds of demands for teachers at greatly increased salaries. Send in your name to-day for enrollment. South Atlantic Teachers' Agency, 306 Walton Building, Atlanta, Ga.

For Fever Headaches and Neuralaic Pains

An improved Aspirin tablet which is abso-An improved Aspirin tablet which is absolutely safe to use even in cases of extreme debility and weak heart. Relieves headaches, neuralgia and rheumatic pains and reduces fever. No depressing effects. Made by a formula which is in general use by leading physicians. 35c per package at your druggists or by mall from the manufacturers, Piedmont Laboratories, Inc., Clinton, S. G. meaning is necessarily deduced from any philological analysis of them. We have a short method, then, to take with the objector, and which will show how mistaken are his interpretations and how groundless his assumptions. "Lord, save us, we perish" (Matt. 8: 25), said his disciples, when trembling in apprehension, not of annihilation, but of drowning. "It cannot be that a prophet perish out of Jerusalem" (Luke 13: 33) means nothing more certainly than being put to death. The prodigal exclaims, "I perish with hunger" (Luke 15: 17), when he fears no more than starving. Annihilation evidently did not enter into his thoughts. So with suffering destruction: it is not to be annihilated, but to be banished "from the presence of the Lord, and from the glory of his power." (2 Thess. 1: 9.) When God makes complaint against his people, "O Israel, thou hast destroyed thyself; but in me is thine help" (Hos. 13: 9), he cannot mean that they had annihilated themselves; for what avail would be his promises of help to beings that had become utterly annihilated? What mockery to assume even to address them!

Still less reason to suppose that the punishment of death implies the annihilation of the condemned; for, "Wherefore, as by one man sin entered into the world, and death by sin; and so death passed upon all men, for that all have sinned." (Rom. 5: 12.) If the objector takes this in its full force, I do not see how he is to escape the utter annihilation of the whole race; but if he assumes that there is a second death, not necessarily included in this, and which does imply annihilation, then let us see what light the Bible sheds upon the nature of this second death. We are here told that "the fearful, and unbelieving, and the abominable, and murderers, and whoremongers, and sorcerers, and idolaters, and all liars, shall have their part in the lake which burneth with fire and brimstone; which is the second death." (Rev. 21: 8.) This certainly cannot be annihilation; for into this lake are to be cast, as partakers of this second death, the devil, and the beast, and the false prophet, and death and hell, and they shall be tormented day and night forever and ever. "The same shall drink of the wine of the wrath of God, which is poured out without mixture into the cup of his indignation; and he shall be tormented with fire and brimstone in the presence of the holy angels, and in the presence of the Lamb: and the smoke of their torment ascendeth up forever and ever; and they have no rest day nor night."

Trials do not weaken us; they only show us that we are weak.

Mrs. H. M. Patton, Waverly, Mo., writes me: "I have fed two boxes of 'More Eggs' to my hens and I think they have broken the egg record. I have 160 white Leghorns and in exactly 21 days I got 125 dozen eggs." Any poultry raiser can easily make big profits this fall and winter by increasing the egg production of his hens. A scientific tonic has been discovered that revitalizes the flock and makes hens work all the time. The tonic is called "More Eggs." Give your hens a few cents! worth of "More Eggs" and you will be amazed and delighted with the results. Now is the time to give "More Eggs" to your hens while prices are high and profits big.

$1.00 Package 🏲

Send the coupon below. Don't send any money Mr. Reefer will send you two $1.00 packages of "More Eggs." You pay the postman unor delivery only $1.09, the price of just one package, the other package being free. The Million Bollar Merchants Bank of Kansas City. Moguarantees if you are not absolutely satisfied your dollar will be returned at any time within 30 days—on request. No risks to you. 400,000 users praise Reefer's "More Eggs."

Results!—Read These Letters!

First Time Hens Laid During Moult

I have used your "More Eggs" Tunic since last fall and can strely say it has amply paid me. I have had chickens for 7 years and this is the first time they have over laid through thoir moulting season. MRS. C. LUGINIBELL, Norwood, Ohio.

Loafers Before, Layers Now

My hous have fuld through moulting this year. It is the first time since I had chickens. They have always been loafers until I used "More Eggs". Now they are good layers.

MRS. H. J. SCHULZE, Pittsburgh, Kans.

24 Eggs a Day During Moulting

Your "More Eggs" Tonic certainly puts hens in good condition for faying. I had 175 bens that were morifing and I began feeding them your Tonic and got nearly 2 doz. eggs 3 day. S. J. FRANKENBERGER, Loganton, Penn.

Send No Money!

Don't send any money; just fill in and mail coupon. You will be sent, at once, two $1.00 packages of "MORE EGGS." Pay the postman upon delivery only $1.00, the extra package being FREE. Don't wait—take advantage of this free offer TODAY! Reap the BIG profits "MORE EGGS" will make for you. Have plenty of eggs to sell when the price is highest. Send TODAY—NOW!

E.J. Reefer, Poultry Expert, 7258 Reefer Bidg., Kansas City, Mo. Donr Mr. Reefer — I accept your offer. Send me two $1.00 packages of Reefer's "More Eggs" for which I agree to pay the postman $1.00 when he brings me the two packages. You agree to return me $1.00 at any time within 20 days, if both of these packages do not prove satisfactory in every way.

Name	100	* * *	 ****	• • • • • • • • • • • • • • • • • • • •	 ******	********
ddres	8.8

DON'T BE CUT Until You Try This Wonderful Treatment.

If you have plies in any form, write for a FREE sample of Page's Pile Tablets, and you will bless the day that you read this. Write to-day, E. R. Page, 430-D Page Building, Marshall, Mich.

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

ALL WRONG WAS HER LIVER

Before Taking Black - Draught, Missouri Lady Was Troubled With Constipation, Headache, and Bad Taste In Mouth.

Grandin, Mo.-Mrs. Susa Brooks, of this place, writes:

"Sometime ago I was in a bad fix, with stomach and liver trouble. I did not feel good at any time. I was very constipated and had headaches from this condition, and had a continual hurting in my stomach and bad taste in the mouth. Could tell my liver was all wrong.

"I had known of Black-Draught, so decided to try it myself. I began with a large dose or doses, gradually getting to smaller doses. It regulated my bowels, relieved me of the hurting in my stomach, cleaned off my liver, and made me feel like a new person."

If you get up in the morning feeling as tired as you did when you went to bed-achy, coated tongue, bad taste in mouth, sallow complexion-then your liver has not done its full duty, and your system has absorbed the poisons which your liver should have taken awav.

An occasional dose of Thedford's Black-Draught will help this important organ to function properly.

Get a package of Thedford's Black-Draught liver medicine to-day.

Druggists sell it, or can get it for you.

ASPIRIN

Name "Bayer" on Genuine

"Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" is genuine Aspirin proved safe by millions and pre-scribed by physicians for over twenty years. Accept only an unbroken "Bayer package" which contains proper directions to relieve Headache, Toothache, Earache, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Colds and Pain. Handy tin hoxes of 12 tab-lets cost few cents. Druggists also sell larger "Bayer packages." Aspirin is trade mark Bayer Manufacture Mono-aceticacidester of Salicylicacid.

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

An Interesting Trip.

BY ANDY T. BITCHIE.

On Saturday morning, October 30, I left Nashville over the Nashville, Chattancoga and St. Louis Rallway for Clifty, Tenn., for a few-days' meeting with the faithful few who for the time being are domiciled here.

The first place out from Nashville of any special commercial importance is Murfreesbore, the thriving capital of Rutherford County. Besides being the seat of the county courts and a town of considerable business interests, it has its name placed in history as the scene of some of the bloody battles of the Civil War. On July 13, 1862, the Union and Confederate armies met in battle there. Union lost 33 killed, 62 wounded, and 800 prisoners and missing. Again, on December 31, 1863, on Stones River, near this city, the Northern armies lost 1,533 killed, 7,245 wounded, and 2,800 prisoners and missing, while the Confederate ranks were depleted by a loss of 1,456 killed.

In the beautiful cemetery at Murfreesboro is the mortal dust of 5,602 of the nation's dead who gave their lives in what is known as "the lost cause." Strange it is that men will volunteer to suffer, bleed, and die for a human cause the success of which is uncertain, and still refuse to lend their aid to a cause whose mission is divine and whose success is assured.

Bellbuckle was our next town of note. It has been placed on the map of the educational world by being the home of the noted Webb School. It is doubtful if any private school of modern times has added more intellectual strength to the literature of the South than has this institution. Bellbuckle is also known to many of our brethren as the home of our unassuming, but godly and efficient, preacher, C. M. Gleaves. Brother Gleaves, being a broom maker by trade, knows how to sweep out sin in high places, and is doing untold good in the Master's cause.

Wartrace possibly would have received no mention in these notes had it not been that at Clifty I met a Thoroughgood, whose home Sister was there. She spent a few days with us in the Clifty meeting, and impressed me as being so faithful and so "thoroughly good," as the name implies, I was compelled to remember and mention that place. I was glad to hear from her that the cause of Christ in that town was In a thriving condition and that peace, harmony, and brotherly love abide.

At Tullahoma, the capital of Coffee County, I left the main line of the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis Railway and took a train on the Sparta Branch, and erelong stopped

PAINS NEARLY DOUBLED ME UP

Nothing Helped Me Until I Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Wyandotte, Mich.—"For the last four years I have doctored off and on without help. have had pai every month so bad that I would nearly double up. Some-times I could not sweep a room without stopping to rest, and everything I ate upset my stomach.

and suffered so badly that I was out of my head at times. My bowels did not move for days and I could not eat without suffering. The destroyments and a suffered so badly that I was out of my head at times. My bowels did not move for days and I could not eat not move for days and I could not ear-without suffering. The doctor could not help me and one day I told my husband that I could not stand the pain any longer and sent him to the drug-store to get me a bottle of Lydia E. Pink-ham's Vegetable Compound and threw the doctor's medicine away. After taking three bottles of Vegetable Comtaking three bottles of Vegetable Compound and using two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash I could do my own housework. If it had not been for your medicine I don't know where I would be today and I am never without a bottle of it in the house. You may publish tins if you like that it may help some other woman."—Mrs. Mary Stender, 120 Orange St., Wyandotte, Mich. Mich.

The Romantic Story of Southland's Favorite Shoe, EzWear

Some five years age, a prominent citizen of South Carolina, visiting New York on important business, chanced to meet the maker of a shoe built on new and unusual lines; an enthusiastic admirer of its most distinctive features, ease and comfort, had suggested the name "EzWear;" it promptly adopted. The business man from the South, knowing how welcome such a shoe would be in his part of the country, urged that its remarkable qualities, including not only comfort, but style, durability, and economy, be made known there. That this has been done effectively is proven by the enormous demand that has sprung up in the South for EzWear Shees. It is said that its sale there during the last twelve months has increased fully three hundred per cent. The distributor, Mr. J. R. Simon, of 1589 Broadway, Brooklyn, N. Y., says that all who wish to know about a shoe that combines all worth-while shoe qualities may have a copy of his money-saving shoe book for the asking.

Lungs Weak?

Generous Offer to Tuberculosis Sufferers of Trial of SANOSIN SANOLEUM, Embracing Europe's Remarkable Expectorant, SANOSIN.

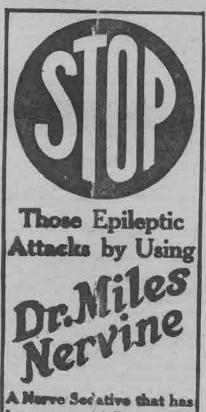

Trial of SANOSIN SANOLEUM, Embraching Europe's Remarkable Expectorant, SANOSIN.

Noted medical scientists—Drs. Danelius, Summerfield, Wolff, Noel, Gauther, Esseradeciare SANOSIN most valuable treatment for pulmonary aliments. Felix Wolff, Court Physician, Directory of the Sanitarium for Consumptives in Reiboldsgrum, Germany, highly recommends it. SANOSIN has been officially recommended to the Berlin Medical Association. Dr. C. W. A. Essers, Amsterdam, Holland, declares it a "moral obligation to make SANOSIN known to the whole human race." American sufferers, rich or poor, can use this remarkable home treatment that has met with such success in Europe, SANOSIN SANOLEUM is designed to produce calm, restful sleep without morphine or similar deadening drugs, and to bring almost immediate reilef from coughing, blood spitting, and night sweats. SANOSIN SANOLEUM is an inexpensive home treatment of genuine merit, and is proving a blessing to all suffering from Tuberculosis, Bronchitis, Asthma, Catarrh, Whooping Cough, etc. Send for FREE BOOKLET (with testimonials) explaining this treatment and how a trial can be made in your own home at our risk. Address SANOSIN SANOLEUM, 222 N. Wabash Ave., Chicago, III. Dept. 250.

Show this to some unfortunate.

AN ENEMY TO GOOD HEALTH

Good health has no greater enemy than constipation. You cannot "keep fit" for work or play if the bowels are irregular or clogged with a decomposed mass of undigested food from which the blood picks up disease-causing impurities and carries them throughout the entire system. Foley Cathartic Tablets are mild, but sure in action. They banish billousness, sick headache, sour stomach, and other file caused by indigestion. Take one to-night and you will feel better in the morning.

been successfully used in the treatment of Epilepsy. Hysteria, and other Nervous Disorders for the past thirty years.

SOLD BY ALL DEUGGISTS

MILES MEDICAL CO., ERWART, Md.

for a few minutes at the quiet little city of McMinnville, which has the distinction of housing the well-known and able brother, Price Billingsley, editor of the Gospel Advance, a splendid religious paper that adds material strength to the literature of the church of Christ and that should be read and studied by every Christian.

After passing several smaller places en route, we crossed the noted little Caney Fork River just above the big dam that supplies the city of Nashville, as well as several smaller cities, with electric light and power.

Sparta was the next town of note, and is remembered as the scene of a "civil" war battle. Brother Dan Gunn lives here, and many Tennessee brethren regard him as being true to name and of no small caliber.

Leaving Sparta, we began to slowly climb the steep incline of the Cumberland Mountains. After a steady climb of six miles we reached Bon Air station, on the topmost peak of the Cumberlands, two thousand feet above the sea level.

The sunset view that one beholds as the train wends its way along the steep side of these noted mountains is beautiful beyond description.

I have stood on the top of the Pyramid of Cheops, near Cairo, Egypt, and viewed the wandering of the Nile till its trail was lost in the haze fifty miles away; I have been pulled to the summit of the Lebanon Mountains in Syria, by a cog railway engine, and scanned the valleys below; I have stood on Nebo's lofty height and viewed the "promised land;" I have been aboard an ocean steamer as she lay at anchor in the beautiful Bay of Naples, and in awe I stood on her deck and gazed with wonder upon the angry Mount Vesuvius as she was in the act of sending forth a destructive eruption; I have crossed the famous Alps and looked both above and below at her beds of perpetual snow; but none of these scenes revealed a more liberal work of art nor a more lavish opening of Nature's hand than the awe-inspiring view of the Cumberland Mountains.

Bon Air is the summer home of the manager of the Bon Air Coal Company, and its land and mine holdings throughout this section are immense.

But finally we reached Clifty. This is the end of the matter. This is the terminus of the Sparta Branch of the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis Railway; and when one sees Clifty, he does not see how a wagon, much less a railroad, could go farther. But the Ransom-Benedict Company, of Nashville, has accomplished the impossible and built a standard-gauge road of their own six miles into the virgin forest and are hauling material for the construction of a big band mill here. They have the timber grant for forty thousand acres of this mountain timber and are negotiating for twelve thousand more.

This is strictly a coal-mining and lumber camp. There are a few fine brethren and sisters here, but the masses are nonchurchgoing people.

I am making my home with Brother J. B. Sanders, one of the lumber company's foremen. His wife is the daughter of old Brother Harper Eskridge, who has for many years been a pillar in the congregation at Philippi, in Davidson County. Brother and Sister Sanders are doing all in their power to make me comfortable and the meeting a success. They are succeeding admirably as to the first, but the meeting is not what I should like. However, we are preaching to growing crowds with increasing interest, and we hope to do some good in the name of Christ

You Do More Work.

You are more ambitious and you get more enjoyment out of everything when your blood is in good condition. Impurities in the blood have a very depressing effect on the system, causing weakness, laziness, nervousness and sickness

GROVE'S TASTELESS Chill TONIC restores Energy and Vitality by Purifying and Enriching the Blood. When you feel its strengthening, invigorating effect, see how it brings color to the cheeks and how it improves the appetite, you will then appreciate its true tonic value.

GROVE'S TASTELESS CHIII TONIC is not a patent medicine, it is simply IRON and QUININE suspended in Syrup. So pleasant even children like it. The blood needs Quinine to Purify it and IRON to Enrich it. These reliable tonic prop-erties never fail to drive out impurities in the blood.

The Strength-Creating Power of GROVE'S TASTELESS Chill TONIC has made it the favorite tonic in thousands of homes. More than thirty-five years ago, folks would ride a long distance to get GROVE'S TASTELESS Chill TONIC when a member of their family had Malaria or needed a body-building, strength-giving tonic The formula is just the same today, and you can get it from any drug store. 60c per bottle.

THOUSANDS OF WOMEN suffer miserably from periodic attacks of headache, never dreaming that a permanent cure may be had. Headache nearly always results from some disorder of the stomach, liver or bowels. Take Chamberlain's Tablets. They will correct these disorders and there will be no more headache. Many have been permanently cured by Chamberlain's Tablets.

hamberlain's Tablets

Read This! Do Not Fail to Read This!

MAKE YOUR HOME HAPPY WITH A HOME MUSIC BOX. The most wonderful and cheapest musical instrument eyer invented. Thousands sold. A child can play it and be amused and entertained for hours.

A child can play it and be amused and entertained for hours.

You can sing with it, and so teach the children to sing. Everybody surprised and pleased. Our list of 1,000 tunes includes hymns and songs. Make grandpa and grandma smile as you play the old songs they love so well. All kinds of music to choose frommarches, popular songs, hymns, Sunday-school songs, etc. A fine-gift for the holidays or other occasions just the thing to entertain a party.

Only $8.00 for this wonderful instrument, with four tunes, your choice, free. Extra tunes, 25c each.

Does not wind up, else it would cost $35.00 and play no better music. You can repeat a plece or change to another in an instant. Best to send full price with order, but $2.00 will be accepted, the rest payable on receipt by express, C. O. D., with charges, Lasts for years. Send 2c for catalogue.

STANDARD MFG. CO., Dept. G. A., Box 1179, City Hall Sta., New York, N. Y.

OBITUARIES

On account of the large number of obituary notices coming to the Gospel Advocate, the following rules must be observed: Obituaries that do not exceed two hundred words are published free of charge. When they exceed that limit, two cents will be charged for every additional word. Payment must accompany notice, or it will be reduced to twe hundred words. Foetry will not be printed.

Davis.

Lester Davis was born on February 15, 1902. He obeyed the gospel in October, 1915, and on October 28, 1920, the white-winged messenger called him away from the sorrows and trials of time to that home where sorrows never come. I have known Lester from childhood, and a better, purer boy I have never known. The church at Bethlehem has lost a faithful member. He leaves a host of relatives and friends to mourn his departure. would say to the sorrowing ones: Sorrow not as those who are hopeless. HIS SUNDAY-SCHOOL TEACHER.

Wall.

On October 21, 1920, the death angel visited the home of Ona Wall and wife, of Ada, Okla,, and claimed our sweet baby, Leona, aged nineteen months. Besides her parents, she leaves a grandmother, with many relasweet baby, tives and friends, to mourn her death. After all that loving hands could do, she passed away, and her little spirit went to be with Jesus. We grieve not as those who have no hope, for we know that our dear, sweet little Leona is in the arms of Jesus; and our desire is to so live that when we are called we will be permitted to meet our darling in glory, where we will never say good-by and where all will be happiness with Jesus and loved

PAPA, MAMMA, AND GRANDMOTHER.

Cummings.

Mrs. Louisa Cummings, wife of W. L. Cummings, on October 29, 1920, left her husband, three daughters, and one son, and went to the home where changes never come. She was the youngest daughter of "Aunt Betsey Biggers, of blessed memory, and obeyed the gospel about the time she was grown; and not long after her obedience she was married to Brother Cummings. She was a home-keeper, for she was always at home. loved her home. She was a good wife, a good mother, a good neighbor, and a good friend. But she has finished her work on earth, her toll is ended, and thus comes rest to the weary. While she never lived near so that she could attend church often, her faith abode in her Savior to the end. But all is over now, and we will see her no more here, and can only say farewell till in the sweet by and by we can meet C. PETTY. again.

Collins.

John Ogden Collins was born near East Liverpool, Ohio, on April 14, 1843, and moved to Indiana in 1853 with his parents, Stephen Aquinas

Collins and Mary Alpha Collins. the age of sixteen years he enlisted in the Federal Army, through which he served his country faithfully. In 1867 he was married to Sarah Ann Dormer, near Morristown, Ind., to which union near Morristown, ind., to which union six children were born, two of which died in infancy. Losing his wife, he married Mrs. Mary A. Raleigh, who lived only five years. He then married Mrs. Susan Agnes Lazenby, to which union two daughters were born, both of whom are living. On February 19, 1899, the death angel took his companion to a better land, and on October 31, 1920, the dear Savior called him to come up higher. He passed so peacefully over we can safely say he is asleep in Jesus. He obeyed the gospel fifty-five years ago and ever lived true to the cause of Christ. He lived to see his six children become members of the one body. He was a true and loving husband and father and a kind friend to all. He feared neither death nor the grave. Four of his daughters were at his bedside when the summons came.

G. B. LAMBRICHT.

The Author of the "Glory Song."

The man who set the world to singing the "Glory Song" has himself been called to the land of glory. Charles M. Alexander, who taught multitudes to sing,

"When all my labors and trials are o'er, And I am safe on that beautiful shore, Yet just a smile from my Savior, I know,

Will through the ages be glory for has finished his earthly labors and is now on "that beautiful shore" enjoying the bliss of the Savior's face.

As an organizer and director of chorus choirs, Mr. Alexander was probably unsurpassed in the world's history; but it was his winsome and radiant personality and his love for souls and for the word of God that made him loved and admired by multitudes the world around. It is not surprising that millions of copies of his hymn book were sold and that millions of Testaments were distributed through the Pocket Testament League, of which he was the director and president.-Selected.

The world demands that we shall be just; religion calls upon us to be generous. Public sentiment demands that you hold up your corner; Christianity calls upon you to remember the poor fellow who has fallen down while trying to hold up his corner.

Night and Morning. Have Strong, Healthy Eyes, If they Tire, Itch, Smart or Burn, if Sore, Irritated, Inflamed or R EVES Granulated, use Murine often. Soothes, Refreshes. Safe for Infant or Adult. At all Druggists. Write for Free Eye Book. Murine Eye Remedy Co., Chicago

AFTER five years of Potash famine there is now plenty of Potash to be had at prices that will permit it to be used at a good profit.

When Potash in mixed fertil-izers was sold at five dollars per unit, everybody exclaimed that the price was "prohibitive." This was a state of mind. As a matter of fact, when the records of long continued experiences, east, south, and west, were carefully gone over it was found that there were plenty of cases where the crop increase from the use of Potash on corn, wheat, oats, cotton, tobacco, potatoes, vegetables and fruit returned over five dollars per unit, even valuing the crops at prices current before 1914.

Now prices of Potash are less than one-half of these "prohibi-tive prices," and prices of farm products are still high enough to make the purchase of the five to ten per cent Potash fertilizers a very profitable investment when yields alone are considered.

But this is not all. The shipping and keeping quality of many of our truck, fruit and special crops has suffered from lack of Potash.

Plant diseases have increased for the same reason.

Our best lands have been overworked to the limit and need restoration.

The fertilizer manufacturer who really has the foresight to understand that he serves his own and his customers' interest best by furnishing what his com-munity really needs will return to the formulas that were found most profitable for his community before the Potash famine upset things. Indeed this is putting the case mildly, for provision should be made not only to re-store the old high Potash formu-las, but to use additional Potash to restore the drain on the soil during the past five years. We never advised the use of Potash on soils where we had reason to believe it would not prove profitable, and never shall do so. There is not a single crop on which Potash has not been found profitable on many types of soil,

In the readjustment period when farmers must use every means to assure success it is of utmost importance that they should not be turned aside in their efforts to buy fertilizers with a reasonable (five to ten) per cent. of Potash.

Potash Pays

and after five years of Potash famine it will pay better than ever. It takes time to produce and ship Potash and large stocks are not carried at Potash works.

Therefore it is imperative that you notify your dealer at once what brands of fertilizer you will require and that you should not be induced to change your order on any claim that the right kind of goods cannot be secured. Stick to it and you can get what you know you want.

SOIL AND CROP SERVICE POTASH SYNDICATE

H. A. HUSTON, Manager New York 42 Broadway

TIME WILL TELL

Regardless of circumstances no statements concerning the merits of an article can be so adequately proven as by time itself. An article without merit will die. An article with merit will be certastingly on demand. Just so with GRALY'S INTMENT for ninety-nine years a family word in every household. Almost a century ago the same claims were made of its merits as today; that it is liceling and antiseptic, the very best add in cases of boils, burns, scales, britise, cuts and scores of all kinds. Ninety-nine years have proven its merits. If your druggist hasn't it witle W. F. GRAY & CO., 818 Gray Bldg., Nashyille, Tenn., for a free sample.

"YOUR MEDICINE IS O. K."

Mrs. Charles Rule, New Diggins, Wis., writes: "Your medicine is O. K. I think Foley's Honey and Tar is the best for coughs. I think your medicine is all you say it is. I know I would never be without out. You may use my name." Foley's Honey and Tar acts quickly, checks coughs, colds, and croup, cuts the phiegm, opens air passages, and allays irritation. It stops sleep-disturbing coughing at night. Children like it. Contains no opiates.

For a Smooth Skin

Nothing is more softening, southing, and effective than TETTERINE. For years recommended as the skin's very best friend. Puts an end to pimples. Healing, antisep-tic. Excellent for babies. 60c at all druggists' or from Shuptrine Co., Savannah, Ga.

Rosy Cheeks

Because of her rosy cheeks and satin skin a woman attracts the admiration of all men. When the to the drug store for paint, powders and beauty creams, when she should go there for a blood medicine and stomach alterative known as "Golden Medical Discovery." This vegetable tonic and blood alterative clears the skin, beautifies it, increases the blood supply and the circulation, while pimples, boils and eruptions vanish quickly. Ask your nearest druggist for Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in tablet or liquid form or send 10c. for trial package of tablets to Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y.

TREMENDOUS VALUE FOR 10c.

The Pathfinder, Leading Weekly Magazine of Nation's Capital, Makes Remarkably Attractive Offer.

Washington, D. C. (Special.)—Peo-ple in every section of the country are hurrying to take advantage of the Pathfinder's wonderful offer to send that splendid illustrated review of the whole world eight weeks for ten cents. It costs the editor a lot of money to do this, but he says it pays to invest in new friends, and that he will keep the offer open until the Pathfinder passes the 300,000 circulation mark, which will be in a few weeks. Ten cents mailed at once with your application to Pathfinder, 120 Douglas Street, Washington, D. C., will keep the whole family informed, entertained, helped, and inspired for the next three months.

SOLD FOR 50 YEARS FOR MALARIA, CHILLS AND FEVER. Also a Fine General Strengthening Tonic. Arthur Peter & Co., Louisville, Ky. At All Drag Stores.

In answering advertisements, please mention this paper.

How to Prepare for a Happy Day.

Start with a prayer; one smile-As broad as you can make it; Ten breaths of good fresh air-As deep as you can take it.
Water, outside and in,
With cloth, toothbrush and tumbler;
While dressing, happy thoughts; And never be a grumbler. (Decide on kind words you Can speak when others greet you; On ways that you can serve With lips and hands and feet, too). When dressed all clean and sweet, With your "shining morning face," You'll be prepared for happiness At every turn and place, -H. Oxley Stengel.

Tanabata.

BY SARAH ANDREWS.

As previously stated, the town of Okitsu is built in a very narrow strip of country between the sea and the mountains. It being very warm in the valley on August 20, I resorted to the mountain side for a few hours' study, writing, meditation, and prayer. As I went from the house out into the long street, I saw branches of bamboo, with many slips of different colored paper attached, erected at the entrance of many of the houses. This is the day of a Buddhist festival, called the "Tanabata," when it is believed that two stars of the different sex meet as they cross a great river called the "Heavenly River." This meeting is supposed to happen once each year. The Buddhists make a festival for the occasion, and offer vegetables, sake (or whisky made from the rice), etc., as offerings, with a request that they become more skillful in manual work. They write on each slip of paper something as original as possible, hoping to become more clever in writing the difficult Chinese characters. After the festival is over, I am told, they set these bedecked bamboo branches affeat on the bay or river. To what deep delusion and superstition the mind of man can go when he has no knowledge of the true God!

An Inheritance Incorruptible.

BY F. E. EXUM.

A material inheritance of any value is a thing to be desired. We regard a person as fortunate who receives an inheritance in land, money, or houses. An inheritance of this kind, if rightly used, is a blessing to the receiver while it lasts and he lives. All our material possessions in this world are subject to corruption and decay. They endure for a little while and then decay and finally vanish, or we pass on and leave them to others. These temporal possessions are bequeathed to us by our fathers; but our Heavenly Father has eternal possessions to be inherited by all his faithful children. Jesus himself refers to them as mansions; and the apostle Paul says it has

FRECKI

Now Is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots.

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freekles, as Othine—double strength—is guaranteed to remove these homely spota.

Simply get an cunce of Othine—double strength—from your druggist, and apply a little of it night and morning and you should soon see that even the worst freekles have begun to disappear, while the lighter mes have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than one nunce is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a beautiful clear complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength Othine as fine its sold under gnarantee of money back if it falls to remove freekles.

FOOT COMFORT ASSURED Brooklyn Man Solves the Problem

It is no longer necessary to suffer agonies that are caused by misfit shoes; for Mr. Simon, of Brooklyn, has proven that he can fit perfectly by mail. Simon's EzWear Shoes are built to give every possible foot comfort; they are soft and stylish, and do not need breaking in. They fit like the proverbial pair, the minute you wear them. Every pair is guaranteed to give satisfaction and to fit perfectly.

Mr. J. R. Simon will gladly send a free catalogue of over 500 styles of EzWear Shoes to all who write him, along with his scientific, self-measuring blank. Write for your copy to-day, and give your feet their much-needed happiness. Address all com-munications to Mr. J. R. Simon, 1589 Broadway, Brocklyn, N. Y., and you will receive personal attention.

TO RELIEVE CATABRHAL DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES

If you have Catarrhal Deafness or head noises go to your druggist and get I ounce of parmint (double strength), and add to it ½ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take I tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick refief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy, and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to propare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has Catarrhal Deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial. For sale by all druggists or sent on receipt of price 90c by Chas. A. Smith Brug Co., Atlanta, Ga.

not "entered into the heart of man the things which God hath prepared for them that love him." The difference between the average man of the world and a faithful Christian is caused by the object of their affections. The former concentrates his time and attention on accumulating temporal possessions, while the latter seeks after those things that are eternal. The apostle Peter, writing concerning the Christian's inheritance, says: "Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, which according to his abundant mercy bath begotten us again unto a lively hope by the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead, to an inheritance incorruptible, and undefiled, and that fadeth not away." This inheritance is not only incorruptible, but undefiled. Only those who have washed their robes and made them white in the blood of the Lamb will be qualified to receive it. Continuing, the apostle says that this inheritance is "reserved in heaven for you, who are kept by the power of God through faith unto salvation ready to be revealed in the last time." We cannot be impressed too forcibly with the importance of being ready to receive our eternal inheritance. Heaven is a prepared place for a people who have prepared themselves to receive it.

Because suffering is in the world we have no right to say that it is God's will it should remain there.

The Power of Prayer.

The Bible account of the power of prayer is the best we can have. Jacob prays-Esau's revenge is changed to fraternal love. Joseph prays-he is delivered from the prison of Egypt. Moses prays-Amalek is discomfited, Israel triumphs. David prays-Ahithophel goes out and hangs himself. Asa prays-Israel gains a glorious victory. Jehoshaphat prays-God turns away his anger and smiles. Elisha praysa child is restored to life. Isaiah prays one hundred and eighty-four thousand Assyrians are dead. Hezekiah prays-the sundial is turned back. Mordecai prays-Haman is hanged, Israel is delivered. Nehemiah praysthe king's heart is softened in a moment. Ezra prays-the walls of Jerusalem begin to rise. The church prays -the Holy Spirit is poured out. Paul and Silas pray-the prison is shaken, the doors are opened and every one's bands are loosed .- Selected.

Christianity in Industry.

The Christian standpoint in industrial relations, as in all other human relations, was expressed by the Founder of Christianity in a single sentence, "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." The world-wide industrial unrest which exists in the present reconstruction period following the war is at bottom a blind, groping effort to substitute the law of warm-blooded love for the law of celd-blooded justice in the relations between employer and employed.

Love demands not only that you refrain from injuring your fellow men, but that you actively promote their welfare in every way in your power. —Christian Herald.

RECIPE FOR GRAY HAIR.

To % pint of water add I cunce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and % ounce of glycerine. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. It will gradually darken streaked, faded, or gray hair and make it soft and glossy. It will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy, and does not rub off.

TREMENDOUS VALUE FOR 10c.

Washington, D. C. (Special).—An unusual offer is being made by the editor of the Pathfinder to send the paper to new readers eight weeks for ten cents. This well-known national weekly magazine contains all the worth-while news of the world, illustrated and presented in a most entertaining manner. It is clean, sincere, nonpartisan, reliable, well printed in large type. It puts everything clearly, fairly, and briefly.

everything clearly, fairly, and briefly.

Washington, the home of the Pathfinder, is the nerve center of civilization. History is being made at this world capital. The Pathfinder's illustrated weekly review gives you a clear, impartial, and correct diagnosis of public affairs during these strenuous, epoch-making days. It is the only big weekly magazine at the seat of government. Send ten cents for eight weeks trial subscription to the Pathfinder, 118 Douglas Street, Washington, D. C. The ten cents does not repay the editor, but he is glad to invest in new friends.

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

ECZEMA

ALSO CALLED TETTER, SALT RHEUM, PRUBITUS, MILK CRUST, WATER POISON, WEEPING SRIN, ETC.

POISON, WEEPING SRIN, ETC.

I believe eczema can be cured to stay. I mean just what I say—C-U-R-E-D not merely patched up to return again. Bemember. I make this statement after handling nearly a half million cases of eczema and devoting twelve years of my life to its treatment. I don't care what all you have used nor how many doctors have told you that you could not be cured; all I ask is just a chance to prove my claims. If you write me TO-DAT, I will send you a FREE TRIAL of mild, soothing, guaranteed treatment that will surely convince you as it has me. If you are disgusted and discouraged, I dare you to give me a chance to prove my claims. By writing me to-day I believe you will enjoy more real comfort than you really thought this world held for you. Just try it, and I feel sure you will agree with me.

DR. J. E. CANNADY.

1226 Count Block, Sedalia, Mo.

Reference: Third National Bank, Sedalia, Mo. Send this notice to some eczema sufferer.

VACCINATE YOUR HOGS.

BUX SERUM direct from the manufacturers and be assured of a fresh, reliable product. United States Veter-inary License No. 114; long-distance phone, Main 2569, Nashville, Tenn. Write for 80-page Hog Book; it is FREE. WHITE SERUM COMPANY.

"Diamond Dyes" Don't Spot, Run

Don't Risk Material in Poor Dyes that Fade or Streak

Each package of "Diamond Dyes" contains directions so simple that any womtains directions so simple that any wom-an can diamond-dye a new, rich, fadeless color into worn, shabby garments, draperies, coverings, whether wool, silk, linen, cotton or mixed goods.

Buy "Diamond Dyes"—no other kind— then perfect results are guaranteed even if you have never dyed before. Druggist has color card.

has color card.

We want to get in touch with all the brethren who are interested in Christian education and who want to locate where there is a good Christian college. For further information, write to

S. L. BRADLEY, Morrillton, Ark.

Used for more than forty years. The benefit derived from it is unquestionable.

FOR more than a generation we have been receiving grateful testimony to the virtoes of this thoroughly tested and proven treatment. It stops violent coughing, and difficult breathing, assuring restful along because the antiseptle vapor carries healing with every breath. Bookiet 43 fells why the diseases for which Creschene is recommended yield to this simple and dependable treatment.

Vapo-Cresolene is sold by druggists VAPO-CRESOLENE CO., 62 Cortlandt St., New York

Progress in Jackson, Miss.

BY M. C. CAYCE.

At last we have succeeded in arranging for use of the W. O. W. Hall for a series of services, as will be seen from the following announcement, which, by a personal canvass, I am putting into the homes of the people;

You are cordially invited and earnestly requested to attend a series of gospel services to be held in W. O. W. Hall, on President Street, opposite the City Hall, by the church of Christ, with preaching by M. C. Cayce, of Nashville, Tenn., beginning on Sunday, November 14, at 11 A.M., and continuing with services each night.

These services are intended to bring us all closer to God and his truth, and closer together in love, and are held the interest of the salvation of souls. So you can well afford to come, and invite your friends to come, as no theories or private opinions of men shall be presented, but the Bible alone shall be our theme as written, without addition, subtraction, or alteration. "Come now, and let us reason together, saith Jehovah: though your sins be as scarlet, they shall be as white as snow; though they be red like crimson, they shall be as wool." (Isa. 1: 18.)

Let us allow God's word to be our teacher and our guide. Bring the children, understand and enjoy and be benefited by coming, for every sermon is to be preached in simplicity of word and in love to all. Begin with the first service and miss none of them. Be in time to enjoy and assist in the live, spiritual song service that precedes every sermon, which will be led by Joe R. Ridley, of Nashville, Tenn.

(1) "Show us one thing we teach, practice, or advocate, for which we cannot give a 'Thus saith the Lord,' and we will quit it." (2) "Show us one thing the word of God requires us to teach, practice, or advocate, that we are neglecting, and we will begin It at once."

The Woodmen have a hall in addition to their regular meeting room, that we can now use for a while at night. At last Sunday's service, which was profitable and enjoyable, one of the trustees of the hall was present, and he was so well pleased that he publicly expressed to us a hearty welcome to continue use of the hall for our Lord's-day services and also at night for our meeting.

I have also mailed each member a letter, as follows:

Inclosed I hand you an announcement of a meeting that we hope will in great good, with your co-As you operation, work, and prayer. know, we are few in number in this city, and therefore it will require a united effort on our part if much is accomplished. Saving souls is a work greater than which there is no other. You are interested, I know. Individual work on the part of each of us is indispensable.

May I depend on your presence at Your personal activity every service? in inviting and urging others to attend? Your earnest prayers for God to bless our efforts? And we shall see a spiritual awakening, souls con-verted, ourselves revived, and the cause we love so well strengthened and increased. Let us all continue in unceasing consecrated service and prayer until we have in this city a live congregation worshiping in its own house.

Please make a special effort to be with us at the opening service on next Sunday morning, and God will reward your every sacrifice.

We need more workers in this field and more attention called to its needs. We feel encouraged over the work.

We are greatly pleased to publish the above from Mississippi. This editor has done considerable work in the State, and knows something of the difficulties encountered there. He is rejoiced to know that so good a worker as Brother Cayce is devoted to that work, and bids him a hearty "Godspeed" in it.

SIMPLE MIXTURE MAKES HENS LAY

BY W. S. BURGESS.

Any poultry raiser can greatly increase his profits easily and quickly by taking advantage of the thirty-five years' experience of a successful poultryman.

A lifelong study of egg production has resulted in a secret formula of buttermilk and other valuable ingredients that puts pep into lazy hens. Lisers report Increases of two to seven Umes as many eggs.

This secret formula is now put up in tablet form, and is called Combs' Buttermills Compound Tablets. Simply feed in water or mix with feed.

I am so convinced that this wonderful formula is always successful that I say kill the hen that won't lay after using it.

One million new users are wanted; so for a limited time any reader of this paper can get a big double-size box (enough for a season) on free trial by simply writing for it. Send no money. Use the tablets thirty days. If at the end of that time your hens are not laying two or three times as many eggs, If you are not more than satisfied in every way, the tablets are to cost you nothing. If completely satisfied, this big double-size box costs you only $1 on this introductory offer. Simply send name-post card will do-to Milk Products Company, 158 Creamery Building, Kansas City, Mo., and the big box of tablets will be mailed immediately.

Feery Deaf Person Knows That.

I make myself hear, after being deaf for 25 years, with these Artificial Ear Druma I wear them day and night. They are perfectly comfortable. No one sees them. Write me and I will tell you a true story, how I got deaf and how I make Drum. Pat Nov. you hear. Address. 3, 1998.

GEO. P. WAY, Artificial Ear Drum Co. (Inc.) 203 Adelaide St. Detroit, Mich.

Volume LXII. No. 49.

NASHVILLE, TENN., DECEMBER 2, 1920.

$2.50 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

CONTENTS.

EDIFYING AS THE NEED MAY BE. OUR CONTRIBUTORS Facing the Inevitable—The Source of True Happiness— Georgia and the Far Southern Field—Shall We Prepare for Death?—Los Angeles Notes—Fragments—Smiles— Missionary Funds Forwarded—Memories.
CURRENT THOUGHT HOME READING EDITORIAL Brotherly Love
MISCELLANEOUS QUERY DEPARTMENT Another Opportunity Offered—Neglect CHURCH NEWS OBITUARIES Gentry—Elsm—Gregory—Newton—Farmer	1175 1180 1178
Tant-Agee Debate	1181 1182 1184

Edifying as the Need May Be

The Love That Grows Indignant.

The most frequent criticism that I hear concerning the Gospel Advocate is that "there is too much argument and not a little quarreling in its columns." No doubt this criticism is sometimes deserved. But more often it is made by some thoughtless individual who does not distinguish between a journal of plain speech and one that holds to the "please-all" policy. He does not appreciate the fact that there are two opposite sides in the Christian's life. Jesus is called both a Lamb and a Lion. It is right that even love should grow indignant. Some Christians have been known to make a mistake in discerning what is meant by "the Christian spirit," They speak of the loving-kindness and gentleness of Christ as though these virtues made up his whole life. They lose sight of the fact that his heart burned with righteous indignation, not against sinners, but against sin in high places. His antagonism was so great that his disciples remembered the prophecy spoken of him: "Zeal for thy house shall eat me up." There are times when love must be indignant. The spiritual kingdom of Jesus is a kingdom of righteousness as well as of peace. Surely a Christian does not love righteousness as he should, nor is he working hard for that kingdom, who is not indignant at sin. An English writer said he had found boys enough who loved God; he "wanted to find one who hated the devil."

* * *

The Unpleasant But Necessary Task.

It was not a pleasant task for Jesus to cleanse the temple, but it was supremely necessary. Nor is it pleasant to-day for an individual Christian to point out sin or for a church to deal with its disorderly members. We know from experience that it is not pleasant for a religious paper to point out and condemn the peculiar doctrines of some who would belittle the established kingdom of Christ and destroy the unity of God's people, working under the guise of prophetic enlightenment. But if the danger is here (and it appears to be), let no Christian fail to speak out plainly for fear he will not manifest the Christian spirit; for it is the true Christian spirit that compels him to speak out. To do less than this is moral cowardice. Men may be measured by the spirit in which they undertake disagreeable but necessary tasks. Sin in God's spiritual house is just as wicked as sin outside. Gross wickedness in the home congregation ought to be more repellant than the heresy of any denomination. That individual who can sing, "O, how I love Jesus!" and then never be stirred into a holy hatred of sin, has nothing but a maudlin religious sentiment. The religious world is full of it. It crops out ever and anon in men's views of things. The great plainness of speech used by Paul is generally avoided in our day for fear somebody's feelings will be wounded or some schoolboy friendship will be broken. The disposition is to modify, to excuse, or to condone, rather than to rebuke sharply them that are in error. Adam's weakness toward his wife is called "tenderness;" Abraham's lie is called equivocation;" Noah's drunkenness is called "the weakness of old age;" Solomon's idelatry is called "policy." But Jesus did not mince his words. "It is written, My house shall be called a house of prayer; but ye make it a den of robbers."

0 0 0

The Indignation That Is Selfish.

I would not leave the impression that indignation among us is scarce or rarely expressed. There is plenty of it in our lives, but it is usually of the selfish kind. A brilliant woman writer aptly says: "We become indignant over trifles. The street car does not stop, or somebody carelessly knocks off our hat, or a servant disappoints us; and we are all aflame. Our comfort has been molested, our rights have been entrenched upon, our dignity has been affronted, and we are downright mad. Ravelings and shavings can set us blazing. But in the presence of gigantic outrages perpetrated on the helpless and the weak, some of us are as calm as a summer morning." Is this not a true picture of the average man's indignation? Ready enough to become indignant at a little thing that concerns his welfare, but playing neutral and saying nothing when the truth of God is assailed. Let us cultivate and express, whenever and wherever necessary, the honest indignation of our hearts.

Say not, "The days are evil—who's to blame?"
And fold the hands and acquiesce—O, shame!
Stand up, speak out, and bravely, in God's name.

The Ever-Needed Lesson of Reverence.

We should learn from the episode of Jesus' cleansing the temple the much-needed lesson of reverence. It is certainly true that there does not attach to the meetinghouse to-day the importance and sanctity that belonged to the Jewish temple. We all understand that Christians themselves are God's spiritual house and should sanctify their bodies in accord with this solemn truth. And yet, because the meetinghouse is our place of public worship, it should be a house where reverence is at a premium. There is a way in which we may make it a house of merchandise. "Beware of setting up your business in the temple of publie worship," warns a forceful preacher. It is related that the captain of a whaling vessel went ashere one Sunday and attended a church service. The minister spoke to him after the sermon and found that no impression had been made upon his mind. "The fact is, sir," the captain acknowledged, "all the while you were preaching, I was thinking where I should likely find a whale. There is no room in my heart for anything but whales." We are not surprised that a whale should take up a good deal of room in a man's heart. But there are smaller things than whales that engress our thoughts in the hour of worship. Sometimes it is football; sometimes it is a party; sometimes it is a business engagement; sometimes it is a matter of buying or selling; sometimes it is the payment of a debt. But whatever it is or however small a thing it may seem that takes the room in our hearts away from Jesus, it is too big to be there. Let us not desecrate the courts of the Lord with thoughts about business or other cares, with thoughts that are vain and frivolous, or with thoughts that are merely indifferent. Let us, on the other hand, worship God with such sincerity and reverence that, if Jesus should suddenly appear in our midst, we would not behold the Lion of Judah come to disown us and to drive us out, but would be ready to say: "Behold, the Lamb of God, that taketh away the sin of the world!"

Book Notices.

If you are in need of a good abridged Bible dictionary, send us $2.50 for a copy of Smith's Peloubet Edition. This is one of the best dictionaries of the Bible that I have examined.

Have you read "Sunshine; or, Uncle Minor's Stories?" This is a very attractive book for children as well as for old people. Children read it with much interest. It is profusely illustrated, and contains many interesting incidents and stories. Price, $1.50.

Send us $1.25 for a copy of "Sweeney's Sermons." This is a book of sermons by John S. Sweeney—one of the best books of sermons published. Sweeney carries conviction with the statement of his position. He is noted for brevity, clearness, and force of statement. Every young preacher should have a copy of this book of sermons.

Have you seen a copy of "Adventism and the Bible?" This is one of the very best books for you to buy at the present time. Adventism is a live subject. Adventists are active and are propagating their doctrines. If you want to be thoroughly prepared to meet them and to expose the errors of Adventism, you should send us at once $1.25 for a copy of "Adventism and the Bible."

We have on hand a few copies of "Biographies and Sermons," edited by F. D. Srygley. This is a book of sermons by a number of our best-known preachers. It is well worth a careful perusal. A brief history of the life of each preacher accompanies his sermon. A picture of the preacher also is given with each sketch. Price, $1.50. If you want this book, you should order at once, as we have just a few copies that have been left over through mistake.

Facing the Inevitable.

BY R. P. CUFF.

REJECTION OF FATALISM.

One has said: "He alone is great who by a life heroic conquers fate." There are others who propose to believe there is no such thing as fate. It all depends upon a definition of terms. If by fate is meant "the necessity, or compelling principle, of nature," surely we must accept the fact. For compelling forces are recurrent to our lives. How many times have we known the young man who had planned to complete a course in college and then something would happen to upset his plans! Maybe the family's breadwinner died, and that made it impracticable for Jerry to resume his college work. He must stay at home now, for a while at least. That was brought about by fate as already defined. But when the term signifies a predetermined lot or event; when it is used by the fatalist, who says that man is a result of blind chance and that all things are subject to fate-when it denotes a thing fatal to the Christian principles and to the doctrine that Jehovah has created and maintained the universe, it must, of course, be cast aside. Man faces no such inevitable as that of being the product of blind chance.

THE JOYFUL NOTE OF A BLIND MAN'S SPEECH.

But a few days ago the present writer listened to the speech of a blind man. This man spoke constantly in strains of encouragement. His words were vibrant with the joy of life. He said: "I don't know of anything more hurtful to me than for some one to come and say: 'Well, sir, you have come to the worst misfortune that could ever befall any one in life.'" Continuing, he said: "It's nothing of the kind. I still have wondrous blessings." Then he called attention to the happiness prevalent among the blind. He told how the accomplishments of certain blind, as Helen Keller, are held before them in their training courses. Said he: "You never saw a lazy blind man. They keep busy and keep happy." That man, judging from the buoyancy of his tone, knew how to face the inevitable.

MOURN NOT OVER A LOWLY LOT.

Occasional moments of semi discouragement may come to us. We should be made the wiser and the better because of them. But we should never go about showing signs of continued discouragement and despondency. We should never be ready to presage calamity, nor even when some things not wholly to our liking confront us to "give away" and wail for weeks because we have had to face the inevitable, but smile, carry about us a halo of joy, and fill our work with zest and power. Mourning over that which is lost and the supposed lowly state to which one has been brought deflowers his mental, physical, and perhaps even the moral powers, and, to say the least of it, unfits him for the very best immediate activity.

NEVER LOSE FAITH IN MAN.

Though sometimes we may have been disappointed in character—that is, deceived as to a fellow's intentions and general trend of behavior; though a once-held confidant may "right-about face" and break the ties of friendship, our faith in men should still abide. Even if it be a man in whom we have once had the highest confidence as a church member, but who finally comes to disavow his loyalty, our faith should not be shattered into fragments nor our hope destroyed. While I am urging faith in man, that does not indicate that he should be overestimated through failure to recognize human tendencies which crop out as weakness in action, but rather that he should be thought of as having a rational mind to which the teachings of God may appeal. There is something good about him. Divinity is present there. He is God's creature. Not all men are rogues. Not all men are libertines. Not all are prodigal; not all miserly. Though it seems inevitable that we stand face to face with the mistakes of men, yet do not lose faith in man.

LAFE IN AN OCEAN OF THE UNKNOWN.

Nor should faith in God be lost. "We live in a little island of sense and fact in the midst of an ocean of the unknown." We are not able at once to comprehend the great scope of infinitude. But the faculties with which we are endowed enable us to see what we ought. It is as if we were walking in the morning mists, able to see the next step to take, but unable to view the far-away scenes. To use the figure, it is good for us to walk in the mists and be obliged to confess the intelligence and power back of the movements of the universe. Admission of Jehovah's being is inevitable.

MAN'S INITIATIVE HELPS DETERMINE HIS DESTINY.

Though endowed with marvelous faculties and met continually with compelling forces, man has an initiative of his own. His destiny is not wholly determined by what is given to him. Consignment to eternal abiding place is not predetermined. He must decide; he must act. He must use the powers that God gave him. He must be submissive to God's will. "Blessed are they that wash their robes, that they may have the right to come to the tree of life, and may enter in by the gates into the city." (Rev. 22: 14.)

The Source of True Happiness.

BY CLARA CON EPPERSON.

In Brother A. B. Lipscomb's article in the Gospel Advocate of October 21, entitled "Having a Good Time," there is some wonderful philosophy on true living and the simple enjoyments of life. He says that we miss a lot of good times by not seeing the opportunity of a good time when it is right before us, by waiting for something great and unusual to happen to bring happiness, and by seeking new and foreign lands for sight-seeing, when the mountains and valleys of home offer wonders untold. But he goes still further into the actual root of happiness, which is deeply implanted in one's own heart regardless of environment, and says: "The art of happiness is personal; it is self-taught; it is independent of money and place," When one has just been on a journey and realizes that the world is rushing hither and thither, spending money recklessly and uselessly in the mad chase after happiness, it is good to find some real philosophers in the world of to-day, who tell us just where happiness is to be found. The reason the Greeks and Romans of old were so able to meet the trials of the world so wenderfully was the teaching of the philosophers of those times; and in modern times we need more of philosophy and less of doctrines, more of the spirit and less of the letter of the law, more of the beauty of the world and less of bitterness taught to make us live nobly and well.

> "He prayeth best who loveth best All things both great and small; And the dear God who loveth us, He made and loveth all."

Along the line of thought brought out by Brother Lipscomb is a little book by David Grayson that I have just finished reading. It is such a wonderful little book, written by a man who lives close to the soil and very close to God, who paints to us the wonders that he finds in the things around him and the joy and beauty of a simple life spent in just doing the things the hands find to do from day to day and seeking after no new fields of endeavor or pleasure. Below I am giving some quotations from this helpful little book; but it would be well for the restless, the unhappy, the disappointed, the bitter in spirit, to have a copy of this little book on his table, near at hand, for the dark hour, for it radiates pure sunshine.

On fraternity, he says: "Sometimes it has seemed to me that the faculty of reaching out and touching one's neighbor where he really lives is the greatest of all human achievements."

On accumulating the things of this life, he says: "The farther I run, the more I feel like casting aside all such impediments, lest I fail to arrive at the far goal of my endeavor. I like to think of an old Japanese nobleman I once read about, who ornamented his house with a single vase at a time, living with it, absorbing its message of beauty, and, when he tired of it, replacing it with another. I wonder if he had the right way, and we, with so many objects to hang on our walls, place on our shelves, drape on our chairs, and spread on our floors, have mistaken our course and placed our hearts upon the multiplicity rather than the quality of our possessions."

Of people he says: "What a lot of kindness and common human nature—childlike simplicity, if you will—there is in people once you get them down together and persuade them that the things they think serious are not serious at all!"

Of the power within one's self to be happy he says: "I love sometimes to have a day alone—a riotous day. Sometimes I do not care to see even my best friends; but I give myself up to the full enjoyment of the world around me."

On the line of thought brought out by Brother Lipscomb, David Grayson says: "Is it not marvelous how far afield some of us are willing to travel in pursuit of that beauty which we leave behind us at home? We mistake unfamiliarity for beauty; we darken our perceptions with idle foreignness." "For want of that ardent inner curiosity which is the only true foundation for the appreciation of beauty—for beauty is inward, not outward—we find ourselves hastening from land to land, gathering mere curious resemblances which, like unassimilated property, possess no power of fecundation. With what pathetic diligence we collect peaks and passes in Switzerland; how we come laden from England with vain cathedrals! "Things grow old and stale, not because they are old, but because we cease to see them."

Of old age he says: "Objects fall into categories for them and wear little sure channels in the brain. A mountain is a mountain, a tree a tree to them, a field forever a field. Life solidifies itself in words. And finally how everything wearles them! And that is old age!"

Speaking of travel, he says: "I am gnawed by the tooth of unrest—to what end? Often as I travel I ask myself that question, and I have never had a convincing answer."

"And O the joy that is never won, But follows forever the journeying sun!"

"After all, the Open Road must return to the Beaten Path. The Open Road is for adventure; and adventure is not the food of life, but the spice." "Thus I came back this evening from rioting in my fields. As I walked down the lane I heard the soft tinkle of a cowbell; a certain earthy exhalation, as of work, came out of the bare fields; the duties of my daily life crowded upon me, bringing a pleasant calmness of spirit; and I said to myself: 'Lord be praised for that which is common."

On being where one belongs he says: "Joy of life seems to me to arise from a sense of being where one belongs, as I feel right here; of being foursquare with the life we have chosen. All the discontented people I knew are trying sedulously to be something they are not, to do some things they cannot do. We try to grow poetry where plumbing would thrive grandly, not knowing that plumb-ing is as important and honorable and necessary to this earth as poetry. I understood it perfectly; I, too, followed long after false gods. Consuming my days with infinite distractions of travel, I missed, as one who attempts two occupations at once, the sure satisfaction of either. Beholding the exterior of cities and of men, I was deceived with shadows; my life took no hold upon that which is deep and true." "Did it ever occur to you that you are unhappy because your feet are not somewhere firm planted upon the soil of reality?" "It is the feeling of being necessary, of being desired, flowing into a man, that produces the satisfaction of contentment." "Believe that everything belongs somewhere: each thing has its fitting and luminous place within this mosaic of human life." "In such a big and beautiful world there should be no room for the fever of unhappiness and discontent."

Of adventure he says: "It is a strane thing: Adventure. I looked for her high and I looked for her low, and she passed my door in a tattered garment—unheeded. For I had neither the eye of simplicity nor the heart of humility. One day I looked for her anew, and I saw her beckoning from the Open Road; and underneath the tags and tatters I caught a gleam of her celestial garment; and I went with her into a new world."

Speaking of an old man, he says: "What a triumph, then, is every fine old man! To have come out of a long life with a spirit still sunny—is not that an heroic accomplishment?" "He lets the world go by and waits with patience the logic of events"

Of happiness again he says: "I think sometimes that the nearer a man can place himself in the full current of natural things, the happier he is. If he can become a part of the Universal Process and know that he is a part, that is happiness. And there are spiritual values, too; for how can a man know God without yielding himself fully to the processes of God?"

On friendship, he says: "It is not the substance of what we say to one another that makes us friends, nor yet the manner of saying it; nor is it what you do or I do; nor is it what I give you or you give me; nor is it because we entertain the same views or respond to the same emotions. All these things may serve to bring us nearer together, but no one of them can of itself kindle the divine fire of friendship. A friend is one with whom we are fond of being when no business is afoot nor any entertainment contemplated. A man may well be silent with a friend." "It is not short of miraculous how with cultivation one's capacity for friendship increases."

In regard to the greatest and highest development, Grayson nuctes:

"Now I see the secret of the making of the best persons:
It is to grow in the open air and to eat and sleep with the earth."

With gratitude to Brother Lipscomb and David Grayson.

Second Term Begins January 3, 1921.

The second term at David Lipscomb College begins on January 3, 1921. Those who desire to be enrolled as students should make application at once in order that there may be no disappointment in securing room. There will be accommodations for a few young men and young women who are earnestly seeking an education that is worth while, Courses of study have been arranged so that a student will receive full credit for each term of work taken. We have a high standard of scholarship and conduct, and the present student body is securing good results. A system of supervised study has been introduced. Students are kept under the control and influence of Christian teachers during every hour of the day and night. We have the best facilities and equipment in the history of the institution. For catalogue containing full information, address A. B. Lipscomb, President, David Lipscomb College, Nashville, Tenn.

Georgia and the Far Southern Field By B. C. GOODPASTURE

Concerning Preachers and Preaching.

"It was God's good pleasure through the foolishness of the preaching to save them that believe." (1 Cor. 1: 21.)

"I would ask a strange question," said old Latimer: "'Who is the most diligent preacher in all England, and passeth all the rest in doing his office?' I can tell you, for I know who he is; I know him well. And will ye know who he is? I will tell you. It is the devil. He is the most diligent preacher of all others; he is never out of his diocese; ye shall never find him unoccupied; he is ever in his parish; he keepeth residence at all times; ye shall never find him out of the way, call for him when ye will; the most diligent in all the realm, he is ever at the plow; ye shall never find him idle, I warrant you; and his office is to hinder religion, to maintain superstition, to set up idolatry, to devise as many ways as can be to deface and obscure God's glory." So writes Latimer. Whether he answered his own question correctly in every detail or not, there is enough truth in what he says to justify our consideration. The devil is an ever-active, ever-watchful foe. "While men slept, his enemy came and sowed tares." (Matt. 13: 25.) What would be the result, if all preachers were as diligent in preaching the gospel?

* * *

The Preacher With a Definite Message.

God never intended that men should preach doubts. The souls of men are not edified by the preaching of pious uncertainties. At this point Spurgeon has well said: "Preach certainties, for God was one eternal Yea." If he were something that might be this or that, it might be well that they should go to Athens and bow before the unknown god, preach an unknown doctrine, and try to learn an unknown tongue. In Pompeii I saw a god-maker, and was amused at his expertness. He made all parts of the body except the face, and that he left until he knew what the purchaser required. He could thus produce Venus or Minerva, or any of the multitudinous goddesses that might be wanted. This is the case with many theologians. They are definite about everything which does not happen to be in dispute. As to the rest, they are prepared to put on the face according to the company in which they are found." "Preach the word." (2 Tim. 4; 2.) "And It shall be, like people, like priest." (Hos. 4: 9.) "Am I now seeking the favor of men, or of God? or am I striving to please men? If I were still pleasing men, I should not be a servant of Christ." (Gal. 1: 10.)

0 0 0

The Unprepared Preacher.

Spurgeon tells of a preacher who was wont to neglect his studies to hunt the hare, and he went out one day and met an old Quaker, who said: "If I were a hare, I would get into a place where thou wouldest never find me." "Where would that be?" inquired the preacher. "I would get into thy study." A great number of hares and rabbits might shelter themselves in some preachers' studies without any serious probabilities of molestation. Oftentimes the preacher who endeavors to preach a sermon without preparation plays the rôle of the hunter who tries to fire his gun which is not loaded. Paul gave Timothy a timely admonition when he wrote: "Till I come, give heed to reading, to exhortation, to teaching," (1 Tim. 4: 13.) Again: "Take heed to thyself, and to thy teaching. tique in these things; for in doing this thou shalt save both thyself and them that hear thee." (Verse 16.) Finally: "Study to show thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth." (2 Tim. 2: 15.)

Appropriate Preaching.

"And with many such parables spake he the word unto them, as they were able to hear it." (Mark 4: 33.) menting on this passage, Thomas Brooks has very pertinently said: "Not as he was able to have spoken; he could have expressed himself at a higher rate than any mortal can; he could have soared to the clouds; he could have knit such knots that they could never untie, but he would not; he delighted to speak to his hearers' shallow capacities." In agreement with this principle, the great Teacher said: "I have yet many things to say unto you, but ye cannot bear them now." (John 16: 12.) Many a great sermon has failed to produce the desired effect, because the times were out of joint: the message was not adapted to the needs of the hearer. During one of the great wars a good kind of man went into a hospital distributing tracts, and he gave a tract on "The Sin of Dancing" to a man who had lost both his legs in battle. The man's intention was good, but his act was not altogether appropriate. "A word fitly spoken is like apples of gold in network of silver." (Prov. 25: 11.)

Shall We Prepare For Death?

In the Word and Work of February, 1917, page 54, Brother Boll goes after us for teaching men to prepare for death instead of teaching them to prepare for the second coming of Christ. Here are a few of his remarkable remarks: "The Bible nowhere tells us to be prepared for death." "The second coming of the Lord, never death, is the goal of the Christian's life; and he is always to be ready for the Lord's returning, never for dying."

The question is not stated properly. The Bible "teaches" some things that it does not say in so many words. It teaches a great many things by necessary inference and by example that are not couched in the words of a command or precept. He is like Charles T. Russell, who took great delight in asking Christians to find the expression "immortal soul" in the Bible. It is not there, neither are the words "mortal soul" there. But there is teaching in the Bible from which we necessarily infer that the soul is immortal—never to be annihilated.

It is just so with this idea. The Bible in many places teaches that men should be prepared for death. Take this passage: "When the righteous man turneth away from his righteousness, and committeth iniquity, and dieth therein; in his iniquity that he hath done shall he die." (Ezek. 18: 26.) Now, if this does not teach man to be ready for death, what does it teach? Of course this is the Old Testament; but, remember, Brother Boll did not restrict his statement to the New Testament, but included the whole Bible.

Here is another statement worthy of notice because it goes so wide of the mark: "Of course, if he is prepared for the Lord's coming, he will be prepared to die, should death come first; but if his aim is to get ready to die, he may fail to be ready for either event. For death, under normal circumstances, seems a remote contingency, and men may feel reasonably secure in regard to it; but the Lord's return may occur suddenly, at any moment, when we think not."

Now, I do not wish to be understood as discouraging men from getting ready for Christ's coming. I believe in his coming, and think it will indeed be the greatest event since his ascension for the world in general. But that a Bible scholar could be found who would deny that men should be prepared for either event all the time! There is not much practical difference between Brother Boll and the rest of the church of Christ. We all agree that men should be prepared for either event all the time. Then why should all the emphasis be placed on the second coming of Christ, unless it is to magnify the difference and make the breach wider?

Now listen to this: "But if his aim is to get ready to die, he may fail to be ready for either event." This statement is untrue and ridiculous. If a man aims to get ready to die, we all know he might fail unless he puts forth strong effort. But it is just as true the other way. A man might "aim" to get ready for Christ's coming, and yet he might fail to be ready for either event. If not, why not? The truth is, there is nothing to this "preparing" but simply living as God teaches. A man might "aim" to do a thing and never do it; but if a man is really ready to die, it is ridiculous to intimate that he is not ready for Christ's coming.

But hear him again: "Death under normal circumstances seems a remote contingency, and men feel reasonably secure in regard to it; but the Lord's return may occur very suddenly, at any moment." The above statement is not true, either according to Scripture or experience. How can death be called "a remote contingency," when every human being is subject to death? Out of about two hundred generations which have been born upon the earth, only one generation is alive to-day, and it is fast going as the others have gone. Besides, who is so foolish as not to know that death "may come suddenly, at any moment?" There is no truer adage than this: "The old must die, and the young may die." So far as the certainty of one or the other is concerned, let us ask Brother Boll one question: "Brother Boll, do you know positively that Christ will come while you are on earth?" Of course you would say, "No." But here is another question: "Brother Boll, do you know positively that death is going to overtake you sometime?" You are bound to answer, "Yes." Well, then, how can any one claim that the coming of Christ is a less "remote contingency" than death?

Since the beginning of the Christian era about seventyfive generations have been born on the earth without seeing Christ come again, but all of them have died. The coming of Christ was really in that case the "remote contingency," while death proved to be the certainty. Then the lesson is plainly taught that Christ may not come in my time. But not so with death; it is a certainty—it will surely come.

Certainly Brother Boll will not deny that those who die in the Lord will be prepared for him when he comes. But here are some references which seem to me to teach that men should prepare for death: "The night cometh, when no man can work." (John 9: 4.) Unless we call Christ's second coming "night," we will have to let it apply to death. "Soul, thou hast much goods laid up for many years; take thine ease, eat, drink, be merry. But God said unto him, Thou foolish one, this night is thy soul required of thee." (Luke 12: 19, 20.) This picture certainly warns men against being unprepared for death.

Brother Boll emphatically says that death is never held up as the goal of the Christian. Then what does this mean? "Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord from henceforth: yea, saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labors." (Rev. 14: 13.) Once A. T. Jones, the Adventist preacher, with whom I debated for sixty-three nights, challenged me to find in the Bible any passage that said a Christian could gain anything by dying. I just turned and read the following: "For to me to live is Christ, and to die is gain." (Phil. 1: 21.) Then death is gain to any one who is prepared for death. See? Paul further said he had "the desire to depart and be with Christ; for it is very far better." (Phil. 1: 23.) Now, notice this says nothing about Christ's coming to Paul, but Paul was going to Christ. No matter whether the Christian goes to Christ or Christ comes to him, "where Jesus is, 'tis heaven there." Then let all this quibbling cease, and let every child of God be prepared for Christ's coming to us or our going to him, whichever event occurs first.

Let us, as Christians, not look at death as an eternal sleep, nor as an unbearable ordeal; but if we are really Christians, death is gain, for it is only a departing to be with Christ,—Earnest C. Love, in Pacific Christian.

LOS ANGELES NOTES

2669 North Sichel Street.

House of worship, corner Altura and North Sichel Streets. Take North Broadway car to Sichel, then one block to left.

Our First Death.

At nine o'clock, Monday morning, November 8, 1920, the first death came among us since my coming to this congregation; and it took from us one of our best—namely, Sister K. B. Copeland, who was born on November 10, 1858, making her sojourn on earth sixty-one years, eleven months, and twenty-eight days. She became a member of the church of Christ at the early age of fourteen, and was with this congregation more than ten years, these being her last.

I cannot feel as I once did about death. If the Bible teaches anything at all, it teaches that the death of one of God's children is better for that one. Study carefully Ps. 116: 15; Phil. 1: 23: 2 Cor. 5: 6-8; Rev. 14: 13, and you find it plainly stated that such a death is "precious in the sight of the Lord"—that it is "far better" than abiding here—that it means "to be at home with the Lord;" hence, it is "biessed."

Just here a thought has come to my mind, and it seems that the only way I can now dispose of it is to simply tell it and go on. To save me, I have been utterly unable to understand all this twaddle in which some strive so hard to make a difference between being prepared for death and for the second coming of Christ, or that it is more blessed to be living in the flesh when Christ does come than to have gone to him before he comes. I say again, I am wholly unable to see one grain of sense in it. I would like for some one to tell me the difference in going to Christ and his coming to us. I heard a man who makes it his business to lecture on the second coming of Christ, and who strives to teach that we should prepare for the second coming of Christ and not for death, and in his hallucination he exclaimed; "Brethren, I am looking for the Uptaker, not the undertaker!" He certainly had forgotten, for the moment, if not entirely, that the Bible unmistakably teaches that the "Up-taker" certainly comes to his children in death. He takes charge of the soul, and it is my understanding that he takes it up. Of course the undertaker takes charge of our bodies, but the "Up-taker" takes charge of the soul; hence, it is "at home with the Lord," and is "far better" than remaining in the flesh. Pardon me for using the word "Up-taker" in speaking of Christ. It is not my word. But I want some one to tell me why they make Christ an "Up-taker" to his people only at his second coming. I want some one to tell me one single advantage I will have, if I live to see him come while I am in the flesh, over these disciples that get out of the flesh before he comes. Is it not true that those of us in the flesh when he comes must get out of it before we can meet him? What does 1 Cor. 15: 50-53 mean? Has our dear Sister Copeland lost one thing by dying before the second coming of Christ? Teach, and teach again and again, the second coming of Christ, for the blessed Book abounds in such teaching, and the church of our Lord declares it every Lord's day when they commemorate his death: but stop this knocking the idea of being prepared for death, for the Book certainly teaches us to be prepared for it. "Be thou faithful unto death, and I will give thee the crown of life." (Rev. 2: 10.) Christ himself prepared for it: "We must work the works of him that sent me, while it is day: the night cometh, when no man can work." (John 9: 4.)

It gives me so much joy to say that Sister Copeland gave us every reason for believing she was faithful. No member in this congregation has encouraged us more than she. The last three Lord's days she was able to attend services she visited our home on her way to the evening services, for the purpose of saying a word of cheer to Mrs. Hall, who had not been very well. She had one of the most encouraging smiles and the heartiest handshake I believe I have ever seen and felt. That she loved the church and rejoiced to see it grow and prosper was a certainty. When a few of the faithful here saw that I needed a machine to try to halfway do the work that sorely needs to be done, she quickly instructed Brother Lee to put her name down for fifty dollars, and this, too, in the face of the fact that she was not overloaded with this world's goods, but had to work for her living.

We will miss her, but her memory will be cherished, and the thought of her love and devotion to the truth will inspire us to push onward and upward till Christ shall come or calls us unto himself.

000

A Good Day.

It seemed that I just had to say something about last Lord's day, for it was, indeed, great. The largest crowd we have had at both the forenoon and evening services, and the collections, counting the forty-two dollars and twenty-five cents raised on Wednesday night before. amounted to one hundred and thirty-six dollars and ninetytwo cents. Brother Everett White, of Fresno, with his wife and Sister Baldy, were with us. The former was Brother Larimore's daughter and the latter his niece, and we loved them the moment we learned this. I am glad to say we do not feel far away from our Eastern friends, because of the many we meet here related to our old friends or acquainted with them. Here is Sister Ella Elam Miller, the sister of Brother E. A. Elam, and to say we leve her expresses it mildly. But there are many others from Nashville and other Southern cities in Tennessee and adjoining States whom we either knew or with whose close friends or relatives we were acquainted.

As the day draws to a close, here comes Brother and Sister Godfrey, Brother and Sister Edgar Miller, Brother and Sister Lee and his mother and daughter, for a short stay with us before going to the evening services. The day was, indeed, a glorious day. I pray that the Lord may give me grace to meet every demand upon me.

Fragments.

BY H. C. FLEMING.

"Gather up the fragments that remain, that nothing be lost." (John 6: 12.)

Many fragments are around us both in physical and spiritual affairs. If we attempt to gather them all, we will have much more than twelve basketfuls: but this is written with the thought of picking up here and there some of them.

In physical matters this is highly necessary, especially in these times when so many are in need of the substances to sustain life; but much more so in reference to everlasting life, because the Word is so haggled by men.

As physical life is sustained by small and seemingly unimportant things, so with the spiritual. He who rejects what is necessary to either must die. It cannot make any difference if he thinks to the contrary.

Whence come the substances that sustain this life? Why do men search the world over to find seeds that produce different kinds of food? Why do they not make such seeds and thereby save the hunting for them? Yea, why do they not extract from the abundance of elements all around us the food that we need instead of waiting for it to grow? These questions are simple, and the answers are likewise—the lack of power.

By thus reasoning we can understand that all things come from a power far greater than that which man possesses.

When a man eats an apple, does he think how it came to be? Yes, the how. Man has the power to think and reason, but the brute will consume its food and lie down to sleep without any thought of the hows and whys of it. Are there any people who act in this manner? Yes, many. Then what do they lack? The love, reverence, and fear of Him who created all things.

When we are in distress, we are grateful to any who assist us, and many times we are in need of help which man cannot supply. At such times what are our thoughts? Do we then look to our fellow man for help? No, our cry is then: "Save, Lord, or I perish." When death is near us, we make this request because we do not wish to die, and we realize that by man's power there is no help. At such a time how blessed the thought if we can say, like Job: "I know that my redeemer liveth, and that he shall stand at the latter day upon the earth!" (Job 19: 25.)

Why, then, should we not gather up the fragments of God's word, that nothing be lost?

"Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest." (Matt. 11: 28.) O blessed promise to the weary and worn! Shall we wait until death is near to heed this call? No, no, for we know not the day nor the hour when it will come.

We are helpless within ourselves alone to become such as the Lord would have us to be. What, then, shall we do? See Acts 16: 31-33; 3: 19; 2: 38, 39; 8: 12, 34-39; John 12: 48. Then Read Rom. 12: 1; Tit. 2: 11, 12; 2 Cor. 6: 12; 2 Pet. 1: 5-11.

Smiles.

BY W. M. WILSON.

The man who smiles is an inspiration. He drives the dark clouds from our skies. As the sun in heaven gives color to the somber clouds, the man who smiles cheers and brightens the lives with which he has to do.

As we go back in memory we recall the sweet, sunny face of a very dear friend whose smiles cheered and brightened the life of his fellow man. He was such a sunshiny Christian, so sweet in disposition that he was known as "Smiling Dave."

It is just as easy to smile as to have the corners of the mouth drawn down; to be a sunbeam as to cast a shadow; to be a rose (not the last of the summer, but the first of the season) whose petals radiate and scintillate the light and beauty of the flower of which they are a part.

Look at the ugly thorn spiked to puncture you, an emblem of some men whom everybody shuns.

MAKE SOMEBODY SMILE TO-DAY.

Make somebody smile to-day,
Or count when sets the eve'ning sun
The day lost, if you can't say
You've cheered and helped some one.
As sunshine gives tints to the clouds,
Why not you, like the sunshine, be Bright'ning the lives which darkness shrouds
As for eternity?

Make somebody's life more sweet Ere ends another day on earth, Whether on the road or street— Show your intrinsic worth. Give fullest measure o'er and o'er In smiles ere sets another sun, And happiness will bless the door Of some despondent one.

Make somebody smile to-day;

"Twill bring sweet rest and calm repose
To the way worn aged and gray,
When weary eyelids close.

"Good night," and "pleasant dreams," "dear friend,"
If spoken with a sunny smile—

"Well, may the angels thee attend,
And guard thee o'er life's mile."

Missionary Funds Forwarded. BY NELLIE STRAITON.

The following represents the amounts I have received and forwarded during the third quarter of this year:

July—To Miss Lillie Cypert, Japan, $100; I. B. Bradley, for Miss Sarah Andrews, Japan, $6.27; E. S. Jelley, India, $6.27; Mr. and Mrs. Max Langpaap, traveling expenses, South Africa, $10.

August-Miss Lillie Cypert, Japan, $100.

September—Miss Lillie Cypert, Japan, $100; I. B. Bradley, for Miss Sarah Andrews, $10.50; J. M. McCaleb, soon to return to Japan, $25; Z. C. Thompson, for Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Short, traveling expenses, South Africa, $10; A. B. Lipscomb, for E. S. Jelley, India, $30.

One donor who sends regularly each month one dollar from herself and one dollar from another sister asked me in one of her recent letters if it did not give me too much trouble to handle such small amounts. I immediately replied that I was very glad indeed to receive just such regular gifts, and that I wished there were hundreds of others giving as faithfully as she was.

Another contributor sent one hundred dollars a short time ago. She can contribute only in the fall of the year; but because she cannot give more often she does not make that an excuse for not giving at all. She has sent regularly once each year for the past four years, and this year she gave more than twice as much as she did four years ago.

There are many others who are contributing through me to mission work. The amounts vary in size from one dollar to one hundred dollars, and the regularity varies from once a month to once a year. But there should be twice, three times—yea, ten times as many people giving to mission work as there are at present. The most important point is not how much you give or how often you give, but whether you give at all or not, and, if you do give, whether you give cheerfully, liberally, and for Jesus' sake. Do you give in this way?

Memories.

BY JOSIE KITTRELL KIRK,

Yesterday, just as the twilight nestled on the bosom of the land, — Some One came to my darling and took her trusting hand, Whispering O so softly: "Come and go with me;

Whispering, O, so softly: "Come and go with me; Down through the valley of silence I will pilot thee."

I seemed to know the angels were watching and waiting to greet;

And when well on her journey she whispered. "It is so

And when well on her journey she whispered, "It is so sweet."

I followed near to the city, watching her eyes so bright; But alas! she silently hastened on, and left me, and it was night:

I cried aloud in my anguish: "O, please do not leave me alone!"

But He sent back a message of calm rebuke: "She's gone to the love-lit home."

And, amid the pangs of heartache, my soul with peace did thrill;

For something soothed my spirit, and I knew it was His will.

That yesterday, with its twilight, in the past has been buried for years, buried for years, But still the memory of a sister in youth inspires me to sacred tears:

Inspires me to higher living, for I am not left alone.
I must, as she, live for others, that I, too, may some day go home.

Christ's rising is God's victory and our victory in each and every one of these fields of conflict—victory inevitable and indubitable. For Christ's rising is but the complete showing forth of the sort of universe this is in which we live; it is a universe divine to the core, in whose nature it is written from the beginning of creation that truth, love, and holiness must triumph.—Selected.

CURRENT THOUGHT

What Will the President-Elect Do?

It would seem that the matter which is engrossing the attention of our national capital is the question whether Mr. Harding will allow an inaugural ball on his taking the high duties of the presidency. This question is being vigorously discussed and is apparently taking precedence of the mighty problems which this country faces. It is said that Nero fielded and the populace indulged in orgies while Rome burned. The American people will not be much better if in the midst of serious and mighty questions capable of taxing the mental energies of our greatest statesmen they allow themselves to make paramount the question: "Will there be an inaugural ball?" God save us in these days of peril!—Christian Advocate.

It would be encouraging to know that the President would not have an inaugural ball. If the chief executive of the nation would set all religionists a good example by declining such a ball, the effect would be fine on the whole country. Regardless of what people think of the dance, one thing is certain—it does not fit a man for the duties and responsibilities of life. The young man or the young lady who spends the night or the greater part of it in such revelry is wholly incapacitated for business the next day. Let us pray and hope that the President may lead the people by giving us a Christian example.

C C C Firing the Minister.

Some one has said: "They no longer burn ministers at the stake, but they still fire them sometimes."

There is no poetry in the statement, but, unfortunately, it does contain considerable truth. Too many ministers are "sent on," when they should be kept.

Differences will arise in any congregation. David Harum said; "All folks have some human natur, and some have more than tothers." And so long as human nature remains, there will be occasions of disturbance—even in the best-regulated congregations.

Unfortunately, when trouble "brews" in a church, the minister is likely to become involved. StrIve as he may to keep "hands off," something usually occurs to make him somebody's target. And quite too frequently the result is the minister's resignation.

Church trouble should never obtain, of course. However, when it does sweep in, it should be swept out as speedily as possible; and when it is at all possible to miss the minister, the broom should not hit him.

It is our conviction that so long as the preacher is sound in the faith, morally clean, and energetic, he should be retained. The longer he remains in a community, the better he can serve it. Whether there be troubles to adjust or not, and even if the minister has become "an old song," if he is a good man and preaches the gospel faithfully, keep him. Help him in his work—make him powerful by "sticking to him" and "talking him up,"—Christian Standard.

No preacher should preach for a church after he has worn out his usefulness. The church should not depend on the preacher to furnish entertainment for it. A man should be so spiritually inclined and so Spirit-filled that he finds his chief enjoyment in the religion of Jesus Christ. Paul stayed at Ephesus three years. Doubtless he would not have remained there so long if his term of usefulness had been worn out. Just so every preacher should stay in a place so long as he can do as much or more good there as anywhere else. When he finds that he can do more good elsewhere, he should change his location.

0 0 0

The Public Invited to Join!

On the bulletin board of a Cleveland church there recently appeared the following:

> Dr. — Preaches Sunday Evening, Subject:

"All We Like Sheep Have Gone Astray."

The Public Invited to Join Us.

-Western Recorder.

The World's Need of Fools.

"I like books about philosophers and dreamers and anybody who is a little off his dot. I like the people best who are busy about the impracticable and the ideal things in their heart of hearts all the time." (Julian Grenfell.)

There is no higher form of courage than the courage needed to do the things in faith and hope for which the world will call you a fool. It does not hurt nearly so much to be despised as a rogue as it does to be scorned as a fool. Yet every great advance which has been made for God and humanity has been headed by the men who have been the fools of God.

Paul held high rank in the company. Festus was only voicing the popular opinion when he wrote Paul down as a man whose mind had been unhinged by mental strain. Greek and Jew found common ground in deriding the foolishness of his preaching. Nevertheless, the preaching of the Jew of Tarsus has revolutionized the thought of the world. In tragic, grand array the martyrs of the early church pass by—men who went to awful deaths, women who went to experiences infinitely worse, rather than offer a few grains of corn or sprinkle a pinch of incense on a heathen altar. What utter fools they were, when a little compromise would have saved them from it all! The centuries pass. In humble, grave array the early Quakers move across the stage—women who, stripped to the waist, were flogged at the cart tall through the streets of university towns; men who literally rotted in damp, underground prisons; and all for no greater crime than the refusing to forsake the assembling of themselves together. With the perversity of the fool they clung to their principles and endured all things for the sake of the Name What a mighty host John Wesley leads of men and women who were the world's laughingstock because they went not in the world's way.—Christian Standard.

Men who have the courage of their convictions and are strong enough to do things that the world considers foolish are very much needed. God did not choose the wise things of this world, but the foolish, to confound the mighty. The man who does that which God requires him to do and who is led by the Holy Spirit often appears mad and unbalanced to the world. While Festus regarded Paul as mentally unbalanced and believed that he put too high an estimate on the religion of Jesus Christ, yet the influence of Paul lives, while Festus is forgotten and unknown to the world to-day. We should rejoice when we are counted worthy to suffer trials and persecution for the cause of Christ.

O O O How to Use the Bible.

When in sorrow read John 14. When men fail you read Ps 27. Before church service read Ps. 51. When you have sinned read Ps. 84. When you are in danger read Ps 91. When you worry read Matt. 6: 19-24 When you have the blues read Ps. 139, When you are discouraged read Isa, 40, When doubts come to you try John 7: When you are lonely or fearful read Ps. 23. For Jesus' idea of a Christian read Matt. 5 When you forget your blessings read Ps. 103. When your faith needs stirring read Heb. 11, When you grow bitter or critical read 1 Cor. 13. For James' idea of religion read James 1: 19-27. When you feel down and out read 1 Cor. 3: 12-17. When you want courage for your task read Josh. 1 When the world seems bigger than God read Ps. 90. When you want rest and peace read Matt. 11: 22-30. When you leave home for labor or travel read Ps. 121. When your prayers grow narrow or selfish read Ps. 67 When you want Christian assurances read Rom. 7: 1-30. Why not follow Ps 119: 11 and bide some of these in your memory?-Selected.

It would be well to heed the suggestions given above as to the manner in which we should use the Bible. When one wishes to know just what to do to be saved, he should read the Acts of the Apostles. When one is a disbeliever, he should read Matthew, Mark, Luke, and John—the eighty-nine chapters of the gospel. When one would be lighted and guided to the throne of God and when one desires to live a consistent Christian life, he should read the Epistles. We cannot be too thoughtful about reading and studying the word of God.

W

MISCELLANY

From J. D. Tant, Rogers, Ark.: "I have just closed a fine debate with the Baptists at Centralia, Okla. Not an unkind word spoken on either side, not a misrepresentation made. Moderators only acted to call time. All parted the best of friends. It was strictly a Bible investigation for truth, Such debates always do good. Brother Williams preached after the debate, and baptized two. I have been instrumental in the hands of God in building up a congregation at Centralia during the past year, and they have bought a church house, paid for it, and meet each Lord's day to teach their children and worship the Lord."

From J. C. Mosley, Orme, Tenn.: "I have just landed here, and had a fine crowd the first night. I stayed at the home of Charles Holder, in Bridgeport, Ala., Monday night. Brother Holder is doing a good work in mission fields. If all our brethren would stop putting so many dimes into picture shows, circuses, tobacco, cigars, cigarettes, dopes, gasoline for joy riding, toys, and many other things they could do without, and send it to such workers as Brother Holder, they would come a long way nearer going to heaven than they will to continue to support the devil's power. Spend not your money for that which is not bread."

William C. Start writes from Harptree, Saskatchewan, Canada, November 22: "I have great pleasure in announcing the result of a three weeks' mission meeting held at the Harptree Schoolhouse by our esteemed brother, H. A. Rodgers, of Carman, Manitoba. The meeting began on Sunday evening, October 24, and continued till November 14. The residents showed their appreciation by their regular attendance every night, the schoolhouse being filled to its full capacity. The most gratifying result was that thirty-five persons confessed their faith and were baptized; also another person who had previously been baptized was received into the church."

From R. E. L. Taylor, Decherd, Tenn., November 26: "My wife is very sick yet. I am tied at home, and cannot fill any appointments. We cannot tell when she will be so that I can go to my appointments again. Our physician says it will be a month yet, if she does well, before she will be up and able to do anything. Paul says: 'Whether one member suffer, all the members suffer with it.' (1 Cor. 12: 26.) The Lord said: 'I was sick, and ye visited me.' (Matt. 25: 26.) Paul said: 'For our light affliction, which is for the moment, worketh for us more and more exceedingly an eternal weight of glory.' (2 Cor. 4: 17.) I will be on the firing line again as soon as my wife gets up. Brethren, pray for me and mine."

From William P. Walker, Dinuba, Cal., November 22: "Yesterday was my fourth Sunday with the Dinuba congregation. The audiences were larger than any preceding Sunday. Our Sunday school is making remarkable improvement. On Tuesday night we have a class for young men. Our Bible class meets on Wednesday night. The congregation is doing some good work, but we are aiming at 'higher ground.' Since I came to this State L. D. Perkins, of Armona, has been to see me; also Halliday Trice, of Fresno, and D. W. Nay, of Passadena. E. C. Love and S. H. Hall have written to me. All these brethren have given me a warm welcome to the 'Golden State.' Their words of love and encouragement were indeed appreciated."

From U. G. Wilkinson, Comanche, Okla., November 22:

"Last week I attended the special meeting of preachers and others at Shawnee, Okla., but found that I was not yet sufficiently recovered to endure the strain incidental to such services, and so I returned home after one day. I very much enjoyed and appreciated what I had the privilege of participating in, and I am sure the meeting throughout was a good one. A movement was inaugurated and set on foot to build a Christian college in Oklahoma. Jesse P. Sewell, of Abilene Christian College, was with us at Comanche yesterday and gave us a fine lecture on Christian education, which seemed to be so much enjoyed by all. The church at Comanche seems to be in splendid condition John M. Rice will be with us to-night to begin a few-nights' meeting. May the Lord bless all his faithful children."

My articles on woman suffrage are bearing fruit in a way that I had not anticipated. If I can prove a blessing to Brother Morris and some good woman, I shall greatly rejcice. Lena W. Nance, of Good Springs, Tenn., writes: "I wish to join Sister Howard and Brother Jeff Morris in their commendations of the pieces on woman suffrage. We have a large congregation, and there was only one sister who voted, and she was the only Christian in her family. The Gospel Advocate has been a blessing to me in teaching me my Christian duty. We, as Christians, should ask our selves the question, 'Are we walking with God?' not 'Is God walking with us?' God is unchangeable; we depart from him. As long as we walk with him, he blesses us comforts and strengthens us; but when we stray, we lose the blessing. I hope Brother Morris will receive lots of answers to his letter. I would enjoy corresponding with him if we were acquainted, because he is a Christian. I am partial to Christians."

W. S. Long writes as follows concerning the new house of worship in Washington, D. C.: "I have just returned from a long and busy trip among the churches of Christ, where I have been trying to raise the means to pay for and seat our new house of worship. Only half of the means was raised in cash and pledges. We feel that every cent of pledges will come to us, even to one hundred per cent. Our new pews have been ordered, and we need all that has been promised for that part of the work to come as soon as possible. Our new place of worship is at Fourteenth and Meridian Place. Take Fourteenth car, N. W. After December 1 we shall meet in the new house at the following hours: Bible school, Sunday, 9:30 A.M.; preaching and communion, 11 A.M. and 7:30 P.M.; prayer meeting and Bible study, Thursday, 7:30 P.M. Those who wish to reach me by letter may write W. S. Long, P. O. Box 1423, or, on arriving, may call telephone Line. 585 or Line. 1583I, or N. 8452. Let us have an encouraging letter from you. If you have relatives here, send names and addresses."

From L. Meade Williams, Tulare, Cal., November 21: "The church at this place is doing the best work this year of any year in its history. We have good attendance each Lord's day. We have no preacher laboring with us now. The church at this place was started in 1916, and to-day we have a nice little congregation of people, who are striving to worship 'as it is written.' On account of the delay in the work, we will not be able to get into our new house of worship much before the first of the year. Some weeks ago we asked for help from the brethren at large, but so far they have not responded as we expected they might, and especially is it true of the congregations along the Pacific Coast. We have told the brethren that, if any desired to have fellowship in this work we would gladly receive any amount, be it small or great, but we have never asked any person or any church to send any specified amount; and if any one has asked any person or church to give us any certain amont, it has been without the sanction or knowledge of the congregation in Tulare. Now we are making this final appeal to the brethren everywhere. are simply asking that you give this matter your prayerful attention and give as you purpose in your heart, and we will be satisfied. When our house is complete we will have a very desirable place of worship; and if the brethren at large will only come to our relief now, we think we can take care of the situation in the future. Send your donations to either A. J. Phillips or J. W. Dingman or to me."

E. G. Burton writes from Columbia, Tenn., under date of November 22: "In the absence of Brother Slayden from the church of Christ here yesterday, Dr. E. A. Timmons preached, and took as his subject 'Suffrage.' He read as an introductory lesson the third chapter of Isaiah, the first Testament history that the fall of all the great nations of the tenth chapter, all in connection; and showed from Old Testament history that the fall of the great nations of the past was due to disobedient women. Dr. Timmons is like most men. He knows there is nothing like a good womangood wives and good mothers-and warns them as well as men to be careful and satisfied to work in harmony with God's way in all things. The sermon was well delivered and in perfect harmony with Bible teaching; and it is a subject that, to my mind, should be discussed more it has been and is being discussed at this time. Old Old Testament history, showing the fall of the great nations, is not all; but the New Testament teaches as well that woman should not usurp authority over man, and in Eph. 5: 2 we learn that the husband is to be the head of the wife. it is not because of the love we should have for our wives. altogether, that we should furnish the protection; but, first of all, it is God's will, revealed to us by inspiration; and if we want this great nation of ours to be destroyed, the surest thing to bring it about is disobedience to him. It seems that we are a people prone to believe of the Bible just what we want to believe, and that we have but little respect for that part of God's word that is not in harmony with what we want to believe. We must respect God or suffer the consequences, as he is no respecter of persons."

Conducted for a half century by D. Lipscomb and E. G. Sewell.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

$2.50 a year, in advance; to Canada and foreign countries, $3.00, in

Remittances will be at our risk when sent by express or post-office money order, in registered letter, or by draft payable to our order.

The date on your tab shows the time to which your subscription is paid. When money is received, the date will be changed, which will answer for a receipt. Two weeks' time must ordinarily occur from the time your remittance is sent before the tab on your paper from the time your remittance is sent before the tab on your paper is changed; if not changed by that time, notify us at once.

This paper is mailed regularly to all subscribers until definite orders in writing are received and all arrearges paid in full. If you wish us to stop your paper, write us to that effect; but do not ask it unless you have paid all arrears, if there are any. Do not ask your postmaster to attend to it for you, but do it yourself.

When changing your post-office address, tell us your old as well as your new address; otherwise twe papers might be charged to you. Subscribers, after paying for their papers, will favor us by noting whother the date on the address label is changed, and, if it is not changed within a month, by writing to us. We are careful, but mistakes may occur or letters may be lost. Our rule is to change the date on the day payment is received; but the mechanical work of correcting and printing the list takes time, and payments even from near-by places may not appear the first week. Credits for payments from a distance may be even more delayed. Mistakes are easily rectified if prompt notice is given.

from a distance may be even more delayed. Mistakes are easily rectified if prompt notice is given.

All communications should be addressed to Gespel Advocate, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Toun.

Guarantee of Advertising.

All the advertisements in this paper are, we believe, signed by trustworthy persons. To prove our faith by works, we will make good to actual subscribers any loss sustained in trusting advertisers who prove to be deliberate swindlers. We shall not attempt to adjust trifling disputes between subscribers and honorable business men who advertise, nor pay the debts of honest bankrupts. To make this guarantee effective, in all cases say in writing advertisers, "I saw your advertisement in the Gospei Advocate;" and if anything goes wrong, notify us immediately in writing.

JACOBS & CO., ADVERTISING MANAGERS, Clinton, S. C.

Entered at post office at Nashville, Tonn., as second-class matter.

Published weekly at Nashville, Tonn.

Brotherly Love.

BY J. C. M'Q.

It would be difficult to overestimate the value of brotherly love. The Holy Spirit says that "he who loveth God loveth his brother also," (1 John 4: 21.) Again, the Spirit says: "Beloved, let us love one another: for love is of God; and every one that loveth is begotten of God, and knoweth God." (Verse 7.) The apostle Paul, in Heb. 13: 1, admonishes: "Let love of the brethren continue." A man may be a member of the church, may stand high in the estimation of the people, may attend the Lord's-day worship on each first day of the week, may give to the poor and needy, may contribute regularly to the support of missions, and yet he may be a lost man because he does not love his brother.

Many men appear to be liberal and in earnest and appear to be consistent Christians, but these same men harbor malice toward their brethren. The Spirit says: "He that saith he is in the light and hateth his brother, is in the darkness even until now. He that loveth his brother abideth in the light, and there is no occasion of stumbling in him. But he that hateth his brother is in the darkness, and walketh in the darkness, and knoweth not whither he goeth, because the darkness bath blinded his eyes." John 2: 9-11.)

This is not all. There are men who are bitterly opposed to fighting, who write much against war, and yet in their hearts they are murderers. The Holy Spirit declares: "Whosoever hateth his brother is a murderer: and ye know that no murderer hath eternal life abiding in him." (1 John 3: 15.) Such men are lost. If we would be saved from our sins, if we would "shine as lights in the midst of a crooked and perverse generation," we must be free from malice and must not hate any man. Jesus Christ was not an enemy to any man. While men hated him, mocked him, and spit upon him, yet he never hated one single human being, but prayed the Father's forgiveness upon the men who nailed him to the cross. Murderers are not all wearing stripes behind prison bars, but they are mixing and mingling with men, they are in business, they are in the churches, they are in prayer meetings; in fact, they are everywhere. How often do we see two men sitting in the same church, claiming to have the same hope of blissful immortality, and yet they so hate each other that they will not speak to each other. Malice rankles in the heart of each, and each despises the other. Men in such a frame of mind, though making loud profession of Christianity and offering long and seemingly earnest prayers, are murderers at heart, and, without repentance and forgiveness, will never hear the welcome approval, "Well done!"

The purpose and effort of Christ is not simply to stop the outward act of killing, but to expel all malice and hatred from the heart. Men must have pure hearts before they can have pure lives. Men must meditate upon, dwell upon, and think upon that which is pure and holy before they can bring forth the peaceable fruits of righteousness. "Out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh." "A good man out of his good treasure bringeth forth good things; and the evil man out of his evil treasure bringeth forth evil things." A man may accidentally kill a man, and yet not be a murderer at heart; he may not be vicious, and may be innocent in the sight of God.

Christ died to redeem us from hatred, from evil thinking, and from all that is calculated to lead us down to destruction. In the Sermon on the Mount he says: "Ye have heard that it was said to them of old time. Thou shalt not kill; and whosoever shall kill shall be in danger of the judgment: but I say unto you, that every one who is angry with his brother shall be in danger of the judgment; and whosoever shall say to his brother, Raca, shall be in danger of the council; and whosoever shall say, Thou fool, shall be in danger of the hell of fire. If therefore thou art offering thy gift at the altar, and there rememberest that thy brother hath aught against thee, leave there thy gift before the altar, and go thy way, first be reconciled to thy brother. and then come and offer thy gift." (Matt. 5: 21-24.) Anger in the heart may lead to murder in the life. "Behold, how great a matter a little fire kindleth!" Christians who would be free from murder and who would stand approved and accepted by Jehovah must put all wrath and malice out of their hearts; for, if they do not, it is sure to break out in their lives. How hard, how impossible it is to treat with due consideration the man that we hate! The follower of the meek and lowly Nazarene will not permit himself to hate and despise any man.

If we would be accepted by God, we must forgive those who sin against us. In vain do we talk about baptism and about the power of the gospel so long as we refuse to forgive those who sin against us. So long as in this condition we are in darkness, and the condemnation of Jehovah rests upon us. The Savior has spoken so forcefully and pointedly upon this subject that no responsible being can misunderstand him. "For if ye forgive men their trespasses, your heavenly Father will also forgive you. But if ye forgive not men their trespasses, neither will your Father forgive your trespasses." (Matt. 6: 14, 15.) In vain do we offer our gifts upon the altar so long as we remember that our brother hath aught against us and yet refuse to be reconciled toward him. If we are meeting around the Lord's table, or if we are making offerings unto our God, and remember that our brother hath aught against us, we should leave our gift before the altar and be reconciled to our brother, and then come and offer our gift. Until we come in this spirit of humility, forgiveness, and submission, we must know that we stand condemned in the sight of Jehovah.

A man who really forgives puts the sins of his brother forever behind his back. Just as God casts our sins into the heart of the mighty deep, just as he remembers them no more, even so we should forgive and forget the transgressions of those who have sinned against us. There are many who are ready to forgive, as they claim, and yet say they cannot forget. The man who acts thus does not forgive much. He reminds me of the old negro who was the servant of a preacher and physician. The old negro was very, very sick, and the physician thought that he could not get well. He told him that he thought he would die, and, as he loved him, if he had anything against anybody, he should forgive him. The old darky said that there was that negro, Zeke, who had always opposed him in everything, and that he could not forgive him. The doctor told him that he must forgive Zeke if he would be forgiven, and suggested that they pray. They prayed together for a short while, when the old servant said: "Massa, I knows what Ise gwine ter do. If I don't get well, Ise gwine ter forgive him; but if I does get well, dat nigger sho' better git out uf my way!" Whenever we refuse to go to our brother against whom we have sinned and ask him to forgive us, we should remember that the devil has taken charge of us. If we have the spirit of the meek and lowly Nazarene, if we are Spirit-filled and Spirit-guided by him, we will cheerfully go to our brother against whom we have sinned and say, "I have sinned," and ask his forgiveness.

We should determine to be a blessing to all whether or not they like and appreciate us. Few men can resist our appeals if we are really followers of that which is good. "Let brotherly love continue." "And we know and have believed the love which God hath in us. God is love; and he that abideth in love abideth in God, and God abideth in him." (1 John 4: 16.)

PELOUBET'S NOTES FOR 1921 NOW READY.

"Peloubet's Notes" has been issued for forty-seven years with ever-increasing popularity and usefulness, which fact alone is a wonderful argument for its value and helpfulness. It is rich in material, comprehensive in its scope, and practical in its treatment. Every superintendent, teacher, and scholar will find in it his own personal requirements. The editor of The Outlook says: "We give first place to Peloubet's." Marion Lawrance, the noted Sundayschool worker, writes: "How this standard commentary has been able to maintain itself during all these years, growing annually stronger and richer, is a marvel to the Sunday-school world. Personally, I do not see how any Sunday-school teacher can hope to do his best without the rich, full helps found in these Notes."

Send for your copy to-day. Price, $2.10, postpaid. Address the McQuiddy Printing Company, Nashville, Tenn.

Sermons and Sermon Material.
(The titles appear under the authors' names.)
AFERNETHY, ARTHUR TALMAGE. "Center Shots at Sin"	1.50
ADCOCK, ADAM K. "The Glorious Gospel" Воок, W. H. "Columbus Tabernacle Sermons," two volumes; per volume "The Indiana Pulpit" "Sermons for the People"	1.00 1.25 1.25
BOTELER, MATTLE M. "Lights on Scripture Truths" "Sermon Notes from the Ministry of Jesus"	. 85
Branne, John L.
"Soul-Saving Revival Sermons"	1.00
Brown, Will H. "Illustrative Incidents for Public Speakers" "Patriotic Illustrations for Public Speakers" "Stories of the Great War for Public Speakers" "Wit and Humor for Public Speakers"	1.50
COOMBS, J. V. "The Christ of the Church"	1.00
DARSIE, GEORGE. "Before the Throne"	.85
DUTT, MEADE E. "Jesus Christ in Human Experience"
ERRETT, ISAAC.	1,00
"Evenings with the Bible," three volumes; per volume	1.00
"Bible Readings," two volumes; per volume "The Querists' Drawer"	1.50
FARIS, JOHN T. "How It Was Done in Harmony"
LORD, J. A. "On the Lord's Day"
McGarvey, J. W.	1.20
"Biblical Criticism" "Lands of the Bible" "Jesus and Jonah"	1.25 2.00 .50,
"Sermons"	$\frac{1.25}{1.50}$
"Commentary on Matthew and Mark McGarvey-Pendleton.	1.00
"Commentary on Thessalonians, Corinthians, Gala- tians, and Romans
"The Fourfold Gospel"	1.65
MEACHAM, EDGAR JONES. "Training to Teach"	1.00
MOFFETT, ROBERT. "Seeking the Old Paths"	1.00
PITTMAN, J. C. FERDINAND. "Bible Truths Illustrated"
RUTLEDGE, GEORGE F. "Pushing the World Along"
SWEENEY, Z. T.
"The Spirit and the Word" "Pulpit Diagrams"	1.25 1.25
UPDIKE, J. V. "Updike's Sermons"	1.25
Wilson, Louis C. "Twentieth Century Sermons and Addresses"	1.50
ZOLLARS, E. V. "Baccalaureate and Convocation Sermons" "The Commission Executed"	1.75 1.25
Send all orders to the McQuiddy Printing Company 319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

贝

AT HOME AND ABROAD

A. J. Traylor delivered two sermons at Hill's Chapel last Lord's day.

Lytton Alley preached two sermons at Pilcher Avenue, this city, last Sunday.

Mitchell Pullias filled his monthly appointment at Oakland, Tenn., last Lord's day.

Dr. J. S. Ward preached at Adairville, Ky., last Lord's day, both morning and evening.

F. B. Srygley was with the Lindsey Avenue congregation, this city, at both services last Lord's day.

The Belmont Avenue congregation, this city, enjoyed two sermons from James A. Allen last Sunday.

Last Lord's day C. E. W. Dorris preached two sermons at the Joe Johnston Avenue Church, this city.

Porter Sanders preached two excellent sermons last Sunday for the Twelfth Avenue congregation, this city.

On last Lord's day J. Leonard Jackson was with the Lawrence Avenue congregation, Waverly Place, this city.

Last Sunday the morning and evening services at the David Lipscomb College were conducted by Brother Seers.

W. N. Ferguson preached at Clarksville, Tenn., on November 21, and at Eighth Avenue, North, this city, last Lord's day.

On last Sunday the Charlotte Pike congregation, in West Nashville, had with them A. S. Derryberry, who preached two sermons.

Russell King preached for the Chapel Avenue congregation, in East Nashville, last Lord's day. Additions are being made to the house.

Aruna Clark, of East Lake, Tenn., will take new subscribers to the Gospel Advocate. We shall appreciate any encouragement given Brother Clark.

- G. W. Riggs preached at Riggs Cross Roads last Sunday, and at the Belmont Avenue Church, this city, at night. He left for his home in California on Wednesday.
- G. W. Jarrett reports that he is in a fine meeting at New Smyrna, Fla. He desires to spend the winter with some Florida congregation, if wanted. Write him as above.
- J. V. A. Traylor writes: "H. Leo Boles and I are engaged in a good meeting in Hopkinsville, Ky. The interest is fine and there have been two additions up to this time."
- J. E. Acuff preached two sermons last Sunday for the Grandview Heights Church, and in the afternoon conducted the funeral of T. M. Smoot, a member of that congregation.

Our old friend and brother, A. Ellmore, of Gunter, Texas, promises to write for the Gospel Advocate and also to speak a word in behalf of the paper. Will not others do likewise?

We enjoyed a visit from R. H. Young, of Lebanon, Tenn., last Friday. He is working on the farm during the week and preaching as opportunity presents itself on Lord's day.

A. L. McCorkle has left the State Hospital, Blackfoot, Idaho, and left no address. If he will give us his new address and the old one in same notice, we will gladly send him his paper.

From Mrs. Mattie Long, Lawrenceburg, Tenn.: "Long may the Gospel Advocate and its workers live to send out the pure, unadulterated word of God, is the prayer of one that loves the truth."

Otis J. Haynes, of Hermitage, Ark., has been devoting his time to missionary work. He has made great sacrifices in order to spread the gospel. He expects to labor in a new destitute field next year.

Minor Wilson writes from Buckhorn, New Mexico, November 18: "I have baptized thirty-four since I came here. I have read the Gospel Advocate twenty-nine years, and expect to read it as long as I live."

Sister Cornelia Donavan, of Russell Street, this city, is very much gratified with the work of the Gospel Advocate. She is also interested in the Tennessee Orphans' Home, and is planning to help it in the future.

Mrs. Albert H. Bryan writes from West Point, Miss., November 22: "There are only a faithful few in West Point, meeting in the courthouse." Can Brother Cayce help Sister Bryan and the "faithful few" there?

- J. W. Atkisson, of 4518A Brilliant Avenue, St. Louis, Mo., wishes to learn where he can purchase the writings of Judge Jeremiah S. Black. Any one who can furnish him with the information will greafly oblige him.
- E. A. Elam at this writing is in Fort Worth, Texas, preaching twice a day and three times on Sunday. We are not informed as to the number of additions. We are looking for him back in Tennessee before very long.

From J. W. Brents, Dawson, Texas, November 26: "Arrangements have been made whereby I am to labor with the church of Christ in Athens, Ala. I will have more to say of this work when I get lined up. W. Curtis Porter will take my place here."

From W. E. Morgan, Quanah, Texas, November 23: "1 commenced full-time work with the church here on November 14. The outlook is encouraging. One young man from the Methodists made the good confession last Sunday night and will be baptized this week."

From John W. Hedge, Gunter, Texas, November 22: "We had two good services at the Seventh and Beech Street church of Christ in Durant, Okla., yesterday. Robert Swinney was with us and led the singing. We predict greater things for this church in the future."

From D. H. Jackson, Toronto, Canada, November 22: "Dr. L. K. Harding is laboring with the Bathurst Street congregation for two months. Brother Harding has already won the hearts of the people, and we expect much will be accomplished by his stay with us."

Thomas H. Burton, of Union, S. C., recently sent us a list of new subscribers to the Gospel Advocate. A. A. Bunner, of Cleveland, Ohio, also sent us several new subscribers. The brethren are getting active in behalf of the Advocate, so we are looking for good results in a short time.

A sister wishes to know if there is a loyal congregation of disciples in Toledo. Ohio. We are unable to give the information. If any one sees this and knows of a loyal congregation and will furnish the information to this office, it will be greatly appreciated and will be forwarded to the sister.

Sister Clara Noel, 1516 Sweetbrier Avenue, Nashville, Tenn., writes as follows: "I always find the Gospel Advocate so helpful, and especially has it been a great comfort since the long months of my recent illness. May its editors live long to teach the truth 'as it is written,' is my earnest prayer."

J. L. Hines and wife called to see us last Saturday. Brother Hines has been laboring at Meaford, Ontario, Canada, but is now going to Monticello, Ky., to labor there. He spent last Lord's day in Mount Juliet with his wife's people. Brother Hines promises to send reports to the Gospel Advocate.

From Frank L. Cox, Hollis, Okla., November 22: "Yesterday was a bright and joy-filled day for us. Every member seemed to be glad that he lived in sunny Oklahoma. Services were well attended. One young man made the confession we so much like to hear. Prospects are growing brighter and brighter."

After continuing over three Lord's days, H. W. Wrye closed a meeting last Sunday night at Fifth Street Church, East Nashville, with twenty-five baptisms, four restorations, and two memberships—thirty-one in all. Brother Wrye has gone to Pikeville, Tenn., where he expects to labor regularly for a time.

From E. P. Watson, Dickson, Tenn., November 22: "1, B. Bradley preached for us yesterday and last night, and gave us two most excellent discourses. He stays right with the Book, and knows the Book well. Brother Bradley has done a great work with the church here, but is now leaving to spend the winter in Florida."

From W. D. Bills, San Antonio, Texas, November 22: "Two excellent services at Denver Heights, this city, yesterday, with five additions. A fine physician came to us from the 'digressives.' Our work is going fine; thirteen additions so far this month. A new congregation in the city will be started about the first of the year."

From L. D. Perkins, Armona, Cal.: "I had the pleasure of uniting in marriage Mrs. Sallie A. Todd, of Tulare, Cal., and Mr. Samuel C. Gardner, of Corcoran, Cal., Sunday. Both are faithful and devoted members of the church.

Brother Gardner lived at Obion, Tenn., before coming to California. They will make their home in Tulare."

From G. M. Reynolds, Madill, Okla., November 22: "I am having unusual cooperation from the churches at Madill, in my new field of activity. One has been immersed and six added by relation since coming to Madill. I am a strong believer in the same 'old paths' for which the Gospel Advocate has made a victorious fight. Press the battle!"

We recently received the following from Willie Hunter, Livingston, Tenn., Route 1: "I am at home for a while. We have a newcomer in our home—an eleven-pound boy. named 'David Harold.' It seems that the Gospel Advocate is growing better and more interesting all the time. Why doesn't Brother Larimore write more? Success to the cause."

From Horace W. Busby, Bishop, Texas, November 20: "Austin Taylor and I have just begun our meeting with the church here. Prospects good. Our meeting at Sinton was a success. Large crowds, good interest, and nineteen additions. I have been at home in Fort Worth the past week, enjoying E. A. Elam's preaching at the Central Church. He is great!"

Clayton Gall writes from Wichita, Kan, November 22: "We were in a promising meeting at Mulvane, Kan., when the public became alarmed at the diphtheria, as it spread over town, and the meeting closed abruptly. A. J. Rhodes, the preacher there for several years, is a true yokefellow. The church there is prospering. I am now at Peck, with good interest."

From B. W. Davis, Ashland City, Tenn.: "I wish to say that I am interested in every good work. I believe the Gospel Advocate to be, without a doubt, the best paper in the brotherhood, and I am ready to do all I can to increase its circulation and help in every way possible. I hope to have some good reports to send you at an early date, as I will start at once to push the paper."

From J. S. Daugherty, Kirbyville, Texas, November 22: "I was with the faithful and energetic congregation in Port Arthur for two services yesterday. I preached for these brethren once a month for two years and held three meetings for them before the great World War. It was indeed a pleasure and an inspiration to me to be called back to serve them again. I am to preach for them again next month."

William Oakley called in to see us last week. He had preached at Gassaway on Saturday night and on Lord's day and at night. He was much encouraged by the fine attendance at all three services. He will continue to visit them once a month for a while. He also pays the Auburn church monthly visits, and says they are doing well. He will be with the church at Ashland City on the first Lord's day in December.

Rue Porter writes from Bristow, Okla., November 23: "I am now at Neosho, Mo., in the second week of an interesting meeting. Three have been added by membership, and four have made the good confession. Brethren are 'of the same mind and the same judgment,' which makes the work pleasant. I go to Waldo, Ark., for a debate with W. E. Sherrill (Baptist), December 27-31. I can arrange for a meeting or two in Tennessee in May or June."

E. L. Whitaker, of Henderson, Tenn., says: "I want to commend your articles on woman suffrage. They are timely and to the point. I wish they were in pamphlet form. I could use five hundred or more." I have received a number of commendations of my articles on woman suffrage, and should be glad to hear from others who agree with Brother Whitaker that it would be well to publish the four articles in pamphlet form. If the demand is sufficient, I shall be glad to do so.

From T. S. Bain, Muskogee, Okla., November 15: "I preached for the church at Haskell, Okla., Sunday morning, and for the East Okmulgee Avenue Church here at night. Brother Oliphant went to Tulsa, Okla., Sunday, and Brother Irvine preached at Porum. Brother Foster left for New Mexico recently, and will preach for the churches there this winter. The church at Muskogee is in a prosperous condition. We now have a membership of ninety-three. May God bless all the faithful everywhere."

From T. H. Matheson, Bowie, Texas, November 23: "Other arrangements compel me to close my efforts with the Bowie brethren after next Lord's day. Our work together has been pleasant, and I am sad to think that I will soon deliver what may be my last message with them. I will soon be kept busy on the plains of Texas, New Mexico, and Oklahoma. I expect to move to Guymon, Okla., where the brethren are building a residence for us. I shall begin a mission meeting at Cheek, Okla., on December 1."

From Lee Sanders, Miami, Texas, November 22: "Our work here is moving along nicely. I have recently baptized three young people. Two of them are now taking an active part in the work. I think we are now in shape to do some good here. The brethren have just bought a home for the preacher, and I am sure it will add much to our interest in the work. I am asking the prayers of all the brethren that I may continue to prove myself worthy of the confidence of the saints here and succeed in saving many souls."

From John Hayes, Plant City, Fla., November 22: "I am entering the second week of a very interesting meeting in this city of eight thousand souls. Five have been baptized and one restored to the love and fellowship of the church. There is a small band of faithful Christians here. They have a good meetinghouse and are at peace among themselves, there being no hobby riders among them, and they are in earnest about the Master's work. My next meeting will be at Miakka, a few miles from my home, Bradentown."

From Herbert E. Winkler, Springfield, Mo., November 24: "J. W. Brents, who was to conduct the meeting here, having sustained a broken arm by a kicking car, which we all regret, I was wired to come and assist in the meeting in his stead. Reaching here at 9 P.M. last Saturday night on 'the slow train through Arkansas' from Memphis, Tenn., we were able to begin the meeting on Lord's-day morning. It is progressing nicely, with good crowds and interest. M. S. Mason and Charles F. Hardin are away in meetings."

L. F. Mason paid this office a pleasant visit last week. He was passing from Warren County to his home in Whitewright, Texas. He contemplates doing a month's mission work in Niles, Mich., right soon, where he thinks the opportunity very favorable for him to establish a loyal church. He is not able to finance the work himself, and would like the brethren and churches who know him and his work to send to his aid. Will you be one to help? Send to him at Whitewright, Texas, and he will receipt you for the same.

T. R. Allen, of Justin, Texas, writes that he has a daughter, Mrs. U. S. Johnson, living at 1113 Lafayette Street, St. Joseph, Mo., who is a member of the church of Christ and Is anxious to find a loyal congregation with which she can worship. She objects to the use of instrumental music and societies. She has been endeavoring to find a loyal band of disciples in St. Joseph, but, so far, has been unable to do so. If there should be one in St. Joseph or near by who sees this and knows of a loyal church in St. Joseph and will give the information to this sister, a favor will be conferred upon her.

W. L. Oliphant, Muskogee, Okla., writes under date of November 15: "I have just returned home from Tulsa, where I have been visiting J. Will Henley's meeting. Brother Henley is doing some splendid preaching. I was with the home forces—East Okmulgee Avenue—on the first Lord's day in this month. We had large crowds despite the bad weather. Quite a few of our tolks have a mind to work and we are pressing forward in Jesus' name. We have A. M. Foster engaged for a meeting this winter, which will be our third meeting since April. We also have Brother Henley engaged for May, 1921. Press the fight."

Dr. J. J. Horton gives the following report of meetings since August 1: "My first meeting was held at Owen's Cross Roads, Ala., and continued ten days, with twenty-two baptisms and nine from the sects who were satisfied with their baptism. My second meeting was at County Line, in Moore County, and continued eight days, with no visible results. I next held a mission tent meeting at Maysville, Ala., which resulted in eight baptisms. My next meeting was at Christiana, Tenn. Four were baptized and one was restored to fellowship. My meeting at West Huntsville, Ala., continued twelve days. No additions. This church needs a more thorough consecration to God, with more personal work. My next meeting was held at New Zion Church, west of Christiana, Tenn., and five obeyed the gospel. There were four baptisms at monthly meetings at different places. Three meetings were called off because of the bad, rainy weather. I am now preaching regularly every Lord's day to different churches, feeding the sheep and lambs, hoping to inspire them to do greater things for the cause of our Lord. I am highly pleased with the Gospel Advocate, and wish for it a larger circulation, with long life and much joy to its editors."

BY J/ C. MeQUIDDY.

J. W. Dunn, of Irving, Texas, wishes to know what the word "revelation" means, and wishes to know if it carries the idea of making everything perfectly plain. He asks the following questions: (1) Does the word "revelation" carry the idea every time, "made plain to man, that he who will may understand?" (2) Can a matter be said to be a revelation, at the same time beyond man's power to comprehend? (3) Can we say all teachings from God, whether of things past, present, or future, can be correctly called a "revelation?" (4) Did the prophets speak revelations they themselves did not and could not understand? Is the same true of the apostles? (5) In just what way can we correctly use the word "revelation?"

1. The word "revelation" does not carry the idea that everything mentioned is so plain that "the wayfaring man, though a fool, shall not err therein." The way of salvation, or the fundamentals of salvation, are so clearly revealed that all responsible persons may understand them. There is much in the Bible that we cannot fully understand or comprehend. If the last man that lives on the earth had the combined knowledge of every man that had lived between himself and Adam, he would not be able to fully comprehend all that the Bible teaches. No man is able to tell just why the just should die for the unjust.

2. Certainly a matter may be called a revelation of God and yet be beyond man's power to comprehend. One man may understand a revelation, while another may not be able to understand it because of the difference in ability to understand, yet every responsible being has sufficient ability to understand all that is necessary to his salvation.

3. While we may not be able to fully understand or comprehend all that is taught concerning the past, the present, or the future by Jehovah, yet we can understand what God requires us to do; hence, such teaching may be properly called a "revelation" to us. There is the God side and the human side of salvation. We are not able to fully understand or comprehend the God side, and it is not necessary for us to understand it. We are able to fully understand the human side, and thus be faithful in doing all that God requires us to do.

4. Yes, the prophets revealed things that they could not and did not understand. This is certainly true of Isaiah, as well as the other prophets. While the fifty-third chapter of Isaiah is a prophecy concerning the coming Christ, and one of the most tragic in the entire Bible, yet Isaiah could not know its import. Before the prophecy could be understood, it had to be fulfilled. After its fulfillment it is clear. The same is true of the apostles. While Peter said on the day of Pentecost, "For to you is the promise, and to your children, and to all that are afar off, even as many as the Lord our God shall call unto him" (Acts 2: 39), he did not understand that this embraced the Gentiles. It took the vision on the housetop to convince Peter that he should not call the Gentiles "common or unclean."

5. When I speak of the revelation that God has made to men, I use the word in the sense of the things that he has revealed to us that we can do. I view the revelation from the man side, and not from the God side. No man, in this life, will ever be able to fully comprehend the God side. It was not for this purpose that the revelation was given; it was given in order that man might know his duty, in order that he might be guided and directed in the way of life and at last enter heaven, where, when the mists have cleared away, we shall see God and know him as he is. It was never intended that we should fully comprehend God in this life. The inferior cannot comprehend the superior.

Omitting name, place, and date, I give the following to our readers: "Will you kindly give your advice upon a matter in which there is a division of opinion in the church here? A brother, advanced in years, a recognized elder in the church, and counted, within and without the church, as a leader, has been censured by some for taking usury. The laws of this State provide for the forfeiture of all interest in contracts to pay more than eight per cent, and decline to assist a lender in the collection of either principal or interest where more than twenty per cent is contracted for, and provide that persons loaning money for more than twenty per cent shall be civilly liable to the State for two thousand dollars and a penalty of one hundred per cent thereon for the failure to pay such sum promptly when such contracts are made, and that such person shall be subject, criminally, to fine and imprisonment for making such contracts. The brother, before the church, confessed that he was accustomed to contract for the taking of more than twenty per cent, and that he had just paid four thousand dollars to satisfy the liability and penalty fixed by the last-mentioned law, but said to the congregation that he did not think or feel that he had done wrong or violated any divine law, as 'usury' is not so defined in the Scriptures as to show clearly what constitutes it; but, to satisfy the views of the congregation, he desired, publicly, to ask their forgiveness and to promise that the act would not be repeated. Upon this statement of facts, will you please advise what the congregation can lawfully do, and whether or not it is subject to settlement by majority vote, and will you please define 'usury' as you understand the Bible teaching on the subject?"

Any interest charged to a brother was usury under the law of Moses. Deut. 23: 19 reads: "Thou shalt not lend upon interest to thy brother; interest of money, interest of victuals, interest of anything that is lent upon interest." The man who charged twenty per cent and more on his money was certainly covetous and greedy; he leved money more than he loved right, and the love of money is "a root of all evil." He was covetous, of which the Holy Spirit says: "And in covetousness shall they with feigned words make merchandise of you; whose sentence now from of old lingereth not, and their destruction slumbereth not." Pet. 2: 3.) The person or persons to whom he charged so much interest must have been in dire straits. Again, as it was contrary to the law of the land to contract for more than twenty per cent, he violated the law of the land in making such a contract. We are commanded to be subject to "the powers that be." If the brother says he has truly repented and publicly confessed it, there is nothing for the church to do but to forgive him. However, if he has repented of his covetousness, he will not be guilty of it any more. He should prove himself by leading a life of godllness and a life that is above reproach. He should have a good report of all that are without, and so live and so act in the future as to demonstrate beyond all doubt that in deed and in truth he loathes his evil conduct. I do not see any need of a majority vote in the church. Why should the brethren take a vote, when he is now acting in harmony with the word of God and doing all that he can to amend for the wrongs that he has done? It may be added, however, that if his repentance is genuine and he wishes to do what God requires, he will restore, as far as possible, what he has wrongfully obtained. He should restore all he has taken over a reasonable rate of interest. Zaccheus had wronged any one, he restored four fold. As the brother is looking in the right direction, the church should encourage him to continue in well-doing until he has entirely wiped out the wrong that he has done others. It is not becoming a Christian-it is wholly unreasonable and unmerciful, if not vicious-for a man to charge such a rate of interest. The borrower could hardly expect to use the money borrowed in a way that would enable him to pay such a rate of interest.

RHEUMATISM—RELIEF

From Its Dreadful Pains and Aches, Stiffness, Soreness-

Is properly to be sought in a good blood medicine, because authorities say rheumatism is a blood disease; acid has entered the blood, settling in the muscles and joints. That's what makes the sharp, sudden, shot-like pains, causing you to jump and cringe in agony.

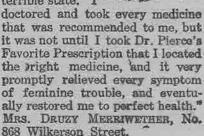

Hood's Sarsaparilla comprises remedies that every physician pre-scribes for rheumatism, combined with other blood-purifying, tonic and strength-building ingredients in a formula vastly superior in make-up and in curative power. It does give positive relief. Thousands say so. So will you. For a fine laxative take Hood's Pills.

Women Who Suffer

Should find relief from their sufferings by taking the woman's temperance Tonic and Nervine, which has helped so many women, some of them right in your neighbor-hood. When the household cares and the worries of everyday life have dragged you down, made you unhappy, and there is noth-ing in life but headache, backache and worry, turn to the right prescription, one gotten up by Dr. Pierce fifty years ago, which has helped many thousands of women in this country. It is called Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and can be had in every drug store in the land, in tablet or liquid form.

FRANKFORT, KY .- "After motherhood I had such miserable health for two, years that I could not get around to do my own housework, most of the time I had to keep to my bed. My back ached and my nerves were in a terrible state. I

CANCERS CURED AT KELLAM HOSPITAL,

1617 West Main Street, Richmond, Va. It is known beyond a doubt and admitted by most of the leading physicians and sur-geons that cancer cannot be cured with the knife. X-Ray, radium, or acids. Cancers are permanently cured at The Kellam Hos-pital, without the use of either. Physicians and surgeons treated free at the hospital.

Another Opportunity Offered.

BY O. E. BILLINGSLEY.

Loyal Christian men and women of Camden, Ark., have quit the digressive Christian Church there and are worshiping and working according to the divine appointments in the gospel of Christ. They have been meeting in the Jewish synagogue since they took a firm stand for Christ. They need a house of their own. They now have an opportunity to buy the Catholic meetinghouse (unused). They have undertaken to raise the money. It is very, very necessary that they succeed. They need considerable help. They are going their length. They are few, but worthy.

This bold stand should be encouraged. It is an important place, the capital of Ouachita County, with five thousand inhabitants. If there has ever been a worthy appeal, this one is worthy. Send money to S. T. Garner, Camden, Ark., and tell him you want to assist in securing a church home for the faithful there. You love the truth; you love the church of Christ; you love the faithful brethren. You want to help the kingdom of God. This is a good opportunity; now is the time. They are honest, true men and women. Help them.

Neglect.

BY FLAVIL HALL.

"How shall we escape, if we neglect so great a salvation?" (Heb. 2: 3.)

If one neglects the pressing duties in the various relationships of life. he makes room therein for thorns of remorse, annoyance, privation, and suffering, and their presence and wounds he cannot escape.

If a youth in school neglects his lessons, his experience in later life bitterly impresses him with his early folly. Parents are brought to inexpressible grief for neglecting the righteous training of their offspring. If a husband and father neglects the duty of providing for his wife and children, or the wife neglects her duties as homekeeper, it is fraught with unhappiness. If the children neglect the duties of respect and care for their parents, it will have its blighting effect. If employer and employee neglect the duties of courtesy, respect, and consideration they owe to one another, it is harmful to both.

But in no other relationship is neglect fraught with such dire consequences as in the things upon which the salvation of the soul directly depends. It is with this that the above Scripture quotation has to do. The connection in which the question is asked shows that to neglect the great salvation is to fail to give earnest heed to the things spoken by Christ and the apostles, and that such neglect results

Cured His RUPTURE

I was badly ruptured while lifting a trunk several years ago. Doctors said my only hope of cure was an operation. Trusses did me no good. Finally I got hold of something that quickly and completely cured me. Years have passed and the rupture has never returned, although I am doing hard work as a carpenter. There was no operation, no tost time, no trouble. I have nothing to sell; but will give full information about how you may find a complete cure without operation, if you write to me, Eugens M Pullen, Carpenter, 364 G Marcellus Avenue, Manasquan, N. J. Better cut out this notice and show il to any others who are ruptured—you may save a life, or at least stop the misery of rupture and the worry and danger of an operation.

TREMENDOUS VALUE FOR 10c.

Washington, D. C. (Special) .- An unusual offer is being made by the editor of the Pathfinder to send the paper to new readers eight weeks for ten cents. This wellknown national weekly magazine contains all the worth-while news of the world, illustrated and presented in a most entertaining manner. It is clean, sincere, nonpartisan, reliable, well printed in large type. everything clearly, fairly, and briefly.

Washington, the home of the Pathfinder, is the nerve center of civilization. History is being made at this world capital. The Pathfinder's Illustrated weekly review gives you a clear, impartial, and correct diagnosis of public affairs during these strenuous, or public arians during these strendous, epoch-making days. It is the only big weekly magazine at the seat of government. Send ten cents for eight weeks' trial subscription to the Pathfinder, 118 Douglas Street, Washington, D. C. The ten cents does not repay the editor, but he is glad to invest in new friends.

GIVES PERMISSION TO USE NAME

Eugene Palmer, Lawrence, Mass., writes:
"Foley's Honey and Tar relleved me of a cough from which I had been suffering for weeks. You have my full permission to use my name any time you wish in any advertising matter." This fine old family remedy is in great demand right now for colds, croup, and bronchial and grip coughs. Foley's Honey and Tar acts almost instantly, cuts the phiegm, soothes the raw and fritated membrane, clears breathing passages.

Sore Feet? Don't Worry. Here's a Remedy!

Hot foot bath. Dry feet carefully. Rub thoroughly with Eucapine Salve. Towel till dry. Then off to bed with a happy heart for your poor, sore feet will be better in the morning.

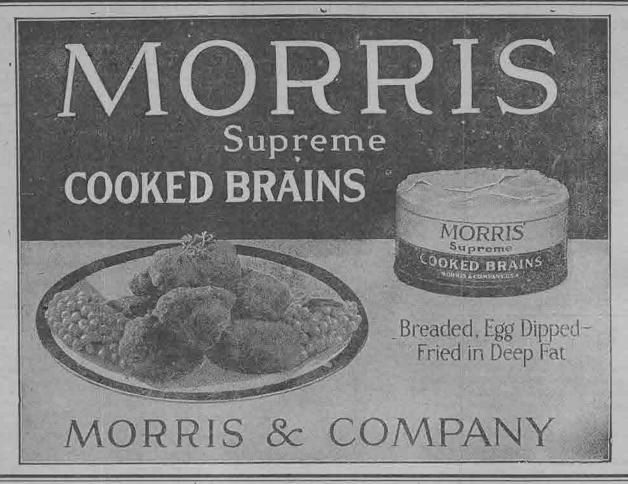

Antiseptic Analgesic Antiphlogistic

(Prevents Infection) (Relieves Pain) (Allays Inflammation)

is a great comfort in cases of inflamed condi-tions of the skin and of the membranes of the air passages. 50c per 2 oz, Jar, at your drug-gist's or by prepaid parcel post from the manu-facturers. Full size jar free to physicians and quantitative formula supplied if desired.

Piedmont Laboratories, Inc., Clinton, S. C.

in drifting away from them. For "drift away," or "let them slip," as the Common Version reads, the margin is "run out as leaking vessels." This indicates the imminent calamity, anguish, and destruction of those who once hear the word and "with joy receive it," but do not continue to give heed to its teaching.

Then cling, my brother, to Jesus and his holy teaching, that your voyage for the haven of rest eternal may be successful. He will never forsake you, but will care for you in the rising waves of all the storms. Be not carried away by the world's empty allurements, lest, as a wrecked and "leaking vessel" in the grim darkness of the wild commotion of the ocean storm, you must sink in hopeless despair.

CHURCH NEWS

Arkansas.

Millville, November 23.—The brethren at Camden met in their new place of worship for the first time last Sunday. I preached to two large audiences. There were twenty-six who took membership there. They are a happy people and full of zeal, working earnestly for the continuation of the cause there. I shall move there next year to work with them.—R. L. Colley.

Kentucky.

Louisville, November 23.—Last Sunday I was at Bohon, in Mercer County, and spoke three times. The church there seems to be in a prosperous condition. The brethren all seem to like Brother Thomas D. Rose, their regular minister. I expect to go to the mountains soon and preach to the mountains soon and preach to the miners. The werk in Louisville is moving along nicely. The King's Hall brethren have their new building nearly ready for occupancy. Brother Pendergrass will probably preach for some churches in the country. We have good reports from F Street. Brother Smithson says the work is very encouraging and that there has been quite an increase in attendance. We need more preachers for Kentucky. If interested in coming, write me at 1740 Chichester Avenue.—R. A. Craig.

Franklin, November 20.—Our meeting at Ravenscroft, Tenn., which began on October 31, closed on November 9. The meeting was well attended, and they told me that the people, and especially the young people, were more orderly than they had ever known them to be at any meeting conducted by our people. Brother Grant was with them in the summer. None were added during Brother Grant's meeting, and none were added during my stay with them; but, judging from the good things the people at Ravenscroft had to say of Brother Grant and his labors among them, and from the kindness shown to me, the good order maintained and the profound attention they gave at each service, I am made to believe that good was accomplished and that some day there will be an ingathering of souls into the fold of Christ at that place.—J. M. Dennis.

Missouri.

Chillicothe, November 22.—The meeting at Redline, Iowa, closed with nine additions. There were five men in the water for baptism at one time. The church is surrounded by Danish people on every side, most of whom, I believe, are Lutherans in belief—a hard place to labor; but there was a good attendance throughout the meeting, and marked interest from the close of the first week. From Redline I went to Harlan, and there was joined by our blind brother, I. D. Ames, and we continued the meeting there for three weeks. The first week a big gun from the Baptists was shelling the town, and the last week rain hindered; nevertheless, the crowds were excellent throughout the meeting. Brethren borrowed chairs from Redline and lined the aisles, and then some were turned away for lack of seating capacity. Three were added to the one body in this meeting. An effort was made at both Redline and Harlan by Review men to bar my coming, but they utterly failed, as did likewise the attempt to place Harlan under evangelistic rule and destroy their congregational independency.—Floyd M. Edwards,

Ohio.

Cleveland, November 10.—My meeting at Daybrook, in Monongalia County, W. Va., of thirteen days' duration, in October, resulted in two confessions and haptisms and the brethren greatly encouraged and built up in the faith of the gospel of Christ. All loyal preachers of the church of Christ who may feel able to do so are asked to send one dollar each to Brother Noah Brothers, Route 1, Box 31, Willow, W. Va., to help pay off the indebtedness on the church house at Naish Springs, W. Va. I will be one of five hundred preachers who will agree to do this, and I feel sure that many will join me in this good and much-needed work. Send at once, and help those good and loyal brethren in their time of need. The church of Christ in Cleveland meets very Lord's day at 9:30 A.M. for Bible study and at 10:30 A.M. for preaching and worship, at 10601 Virginia Block Superior Avenue Brothginia Block, Superior Avenue. Breth-ren who may be in the city over Lord's day should take a Superior Avenue car at the Public Square and get off at East One Hundred and Fifth Street and walk a half square to Virginia They have a good and lively congregation, and strangers are always welcome. We expect, God willing, to soon build a house of worship we can call our own. Any one having friends or relatives in this city who are members of the church of Christ and who have not been able to locate our place of meeting are requested to drop us a letter giving their street and number, and we will look them up. My address is 1800 West Fifty-fourth Street .-A. A. Bunner.

Oklahoma.

Altus, November 17.-I am just home from a preaching trip of almost six weeks in Oklahoma, Arkansas, and Mississippi. I preached in some destitute places, where the pure gospel had never been told in its purity and simplicity, void of sectism. I baptized three at Low's Schoolhouse, in Kiowa County, Okla., and set in order a congregation of ten members. I then gregation of ten members. I then went to Mississippi for two weeks' work in Benton and Tippah counties. Considering much rain and cold weather, we had a good hearing and six confessions. Much division among our so-called "loyal" brethren is now on over the individual cups, called the "second innovation," the organ being the first, with their hired pastors. Mission work is a thing of the past with such brethren and congregations. The great work of Christians is to evangelize, bringing men and a lost world to the true God and Savior of Let us be loyal to the true God and his word, going ourselves and sending out evangelists to the world. Pray for me. I am now nearing my seventy-first birthday.—H. H. Turner.

Pennsylvania.

Philadelphia, November 24.-On Saturday, November 20, I visited Washington, D. C., and was entertained by Brother and Sister J. W. Gibson. On Lord's-day morning it was my happy privilege to worship with the church of Christ meeting at the hall at Eighth and F Streets. By request, I spoke to the brethren, using as a subject, "How to Build Up the Church." I suggested that they pray it up (Acts 2: 42), attend it up (Heb. 10: 25), back it up (1 Cor. 16: 2), talk it up (1 Pet. 3: 15), and work it up (1 Cor. 3: 9). There has been a wonderful increase in attendance since my last visit, over a year ago. At noontime we were looked after by Brother and Sister A. B. Comer, and later in the day by a Sister Jones, all of whom came from the Southland. In the evening Brother W. S. Long delivered one of his char-acteristic discourses on "Following Christ." We visited the new church building, and consider that the brethren have made a wise purchase that will mean very much for the success of the cause of primitive Christianity in the nation's capital. Possession is to be had on the first Lord's day in December, and what a good thing it would be if the churches elsewhere would hasten their contributions so they could start in their new home out of debt!-E. E. Joynes.

Tennessee.

Hornbeak, November 23.-Brother John R. Williams, the West Tennessee evangelist, closed a meeting at Mount Zion, October 24, with five baptized and much good done otherwise. Brother Lannom, of Obion, held a meeting of one week at this place in July, with four baptized. We are hoping for bet-ter work at old Mount Zion in the future. Brother Williams is to preach there at two o'clock in the afternoon on each fourth Lord's day. He preaches at Hornbeak at 11 A.M. the same day.-Mrs. Homer Hogan.

Nashville, November third Sunday in October Brother I. B. Bradley and the writer began a meeting with the church of Christ at Cleveland, Tenn., and continued it fifteen days, the visible results being five additions by primary obedience. We found the little band there faithful and earnest workers in the Master's vineyard. However, several years ago seeds of discord had been sown, with the result that those who wanted to worship God only "as it is written" were forced to get out and build another house of worship; but they were not discouraged, but worked with a will, and now have a nice, commodious house at East Thirty-fifth Street, and they are determined to carry the banner of Christ on to victory. Brother W. C. Phillips, a loyal and true gospel preacher, lives there, and although he works every day, he preaches while he works, and is a power for good in Bradley County. Brother G. W. Farmer, who has been devoting most of his time to the work in East Tennessee, has just recently moved his family to Cleveland, and will devote all of his time to the work in that section of the State. East Tennessee is indeed a mission field, and it has been sadly neglected. Cleveland is headquarters for the "Holiness" people, and the "great head" of the Holiness church lives there. They are just completing a magnificent auditorium, with a seating capacity of about three or four thousand people, with arrangements for cooking, eating, and sleeping in connection. I made my home with Brother and Sister J. M. Carl, both of Williamson County. Sister Carl was the youngest daughter of old Brother Frank Davis, one of the strongest gospel preachers of his day, who died at his home near Hillsboro about thirty years ago. It was indeed a pleasure to be in the home of this godly, Chris-tian family. The establishment of the tian family. The establishment of the cause there is largely due to the faithful efforts of Brother and Sister Carl. I have promised to go back to East Tennessee and teach some singing classes this winter, and also to assist Brother Farmer in some protracted meetings next summer.—J. D. Derry-

DON'T BE CUT Until You Try This Wonderful Treatment. If you have plies in any form, write for a FBEE sample of Page's Plie Tablets, and you will bless the day that you read this. Write to-day. E. R. Page, 436-D Page Building, Marshall, Mich.

Don't Wear a Truss

B ROOKS' AFPLIANCE, the modern scientific hearting, the wonderful new discovery that relieves rupture will be sent on trial. No obnoxious springs or pads, thus automatic Air cushion. Hinds and draws the broken paristogether as you would a broken limb. No salves, No lies. Durable, cheap, Sent on trial to prove it. Protected by U. S. patents, Catalogue and massure blanks mailed free Send name and address today. State St., Marshall, Mich.

C. E. BROOKS, 443G State St., Marshall, Mich.

No Skin Embarrassment

and no worry about your complexion if you use T5TTERINE for all pimples, rash, eczema, and other skin injuries and diseases, Softens the skin, clears the complexion. 60c at all druggists' or from Shuptrine Co., Savannah, Ga.

The Romantic Story of Southland's Favorite Shoe, EzWear

Some five years ago, a prominent citizen of South Carolina, visiting New York on important business, chanced to meet the maker of a shoe built on new and unusual lines; an enthusiastic admirer of its most distinctive features, ease and comfort, had suggested the name "EzWear:" It promptly adopted. The business man from the South, knowing how welcome such a shoe would be in his part of the country, urged that its remarkable qualities, including not only comfort, but style, durability, and economy, be made known there. That this has been done effectively is proven by the enormous demand that has sprung up in the South for EzWear Shees. It is said that its sale there during the last twelve months has increased fully three hundred per cent. The distributor, Mr. J. R. Simon, of 1589 Broadway, Brooklyn, N. Y., says that all who wish to know about a shoe that combines all worth-while shoe qualities may have a copy of his money-saving shoe book for the asking.

TO RELIEVE GATARRHAL DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES

If you have Catarrhal Deafness or head noises go to your druggist and get I ounce of parmint (double strength), and add to it ½ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take I ablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises, Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy, and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has Catarrhal Deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial. For sale by all druggists or sent on receipt of price 90c by Chas, A. Smith Drug Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Where Did We Get the Bible?

TALKS ON THE BIBLE. NO. 3.

I. How many books are in the Bible?
2. Who wrote the books of the Bible?
3. In what form was the Bible first produced?
4. In what languagewas the

4. In what languagewas the Old Testament first written?
5. In what languagewas the lew Testament first written?

All these questions and dozens more of interest to you, are answered in The Wonderful Story. Write to-day for it to

THOMAS NELSON & SONS, authorized Publishers American Standard Bible.

385-U Fourth Avenue, New York City.

The American Standard Bible text is used in 75 per cent of all Sunday-school periodicals, because it is recognized as the most accurate version that has ever been produced.

The American Standard Bible text is used by over 12.000,000 Sunday-school scholars to study their lessons from. They realize that they cannot procure a more reliable version of the Scriptures.

40 Cords a Day

Easily Sawed by One Man with new OFTAWA. Get your own fuel at less than 2c a cord, then supply big demand for fire wood at $20 a cord up. Beat the Coal Shortage?

OTTAWA IOG SAW

Over 4 H-P. 310 strokes a minute. Wheel-mounted. Easy to move, cheep and sasy to ron. Engine runs other machinery when not sawing. New chiefe lever starts and stope saw while engine runs. Cash or Easy Payments. 30 Days' Triol. 10-resr Guarantoo. Sand for Dig FREE BOOK and Special Low Smith Story Price Smith Now. Write to Strictly NOW, Write to Outfit Outfit 1990 2689 Wood St. Oranwa, Kansas.

MORE PAY FOR TEACHERS

We have hundreds of demands for teachers at greatly increased salaries. Send in your name to-day for enrollment. South Atlantic Teachers' Agency, 306 Walton Building, Atlanta, Ga.

OBITUARIES

On account of the large number of obituary notices coming to the Gospel Advocate, the following rules must be observed: Obituaries that do not exceed two hundred words are published free of charge. When they exceed that limit, two cents will be charged for every additional word. Payment must accompany notice, or it will be reduced to two hundred words. Poetry will not be printed.

Gentry.

With sadness I record the death of Sister Elizabeth Gentry, who departed this life on the morning of October 28, 1920, at her home in Nocona,, Texas. She was the wife of our beloved brother, R. W. Gentry, who is now left with-out her help. Sister Gentry was born on October 21, 1855. She was a mem-ber of the church of Christ about fortyfive years. She was the mother of nine children. Three of her daugh-ters crossed the river of death in advance of her. Her husband, six chil-dren, two sisters and four brothers, together with the members of the church of Christ and her many friends of the town, are left in sadness and grief over her departure. Funeral services were conducted by the writer, after which she was buried in the Nocona cemetery. In her death the family has lost a loving wife and mother; the church of Christ, a faithful, good sister; and the town, a pre-F. S. VANCE. cious, good woman.

Elam.

After days of intense suffering, the close of life brought relief to Brother L. Elam. I knew him first in Alabama, where he was constant in his attendance at all meetings of the congregation. Brother Elam was a Bible student, and in our association his conversation would always be on sacred themes. He made his home with his daughter, Mrs. T. C. Martin, and his suffering was tempered always by the ministrations of her love and constant care. She and Brother Martin dld all that humanity could do to make the declining years pleasant and easy. I will personally miss Brother Elam, because he seemed to be tender in his regard for me; and I was glad to be able to speak a few words of consolation and faith as we attended to his burial in the Shelbyville cemetery, his old home town. We join all those to whom he was dear because of fleshly ties in their time of sadness, and extend our sympathy to them.

J. M. GAINER,

Gregory.

On September 30, 1920, Brother J. H. Gregory, of Scottsboro, Ala., after a month's illness, passed out of this life. Brother Gregory came to Scottsboro many years ago, and for the greater part of his life there he was the chief factor in the life of the congregation; and the efforts of Sister and Brother Gregory were responsible for the maintenance of the Lord's work there when discouragement seemed ready to stifle it. It was my pleasure to be associated with Brother Gregory in business, as well as in the church, and I was wonderfully impressed with the fact that he handled all his legal duties

Rheumatism

A REMARKABLE HOME TREAT-MENT GIVEN BY ONE WHO HAD IT

MENT GIVEN BY ONE
WHO HAD IT

In the spring of 1893 I was attacked by Muscular and Sub-Acute Rhoumatism. I suffered as only those who have it know, for over three years. I tried remedy after remedy and doctor after doctor, but such relief as I received was only temporary. Finally I found a remedy that cured me completely, and it has never returned. I have given it to a number who were terribly afflicted and even bedridden with Rhoumatism, some of them from seventy to eighty years old, and results were the same as in my own case.

I want every sufferer from such forms of rhoumatic trouble to try this marvelous healing power. Don't send a cent; simply mall your name and address, and I will send it free to try. After you have used it and it has proven liself to be that long-looked-for means of getting rid of your Rhoumatism, you may send the price of it, one dollar; but, understand, I do not want your money unless you are perfectly satisfied to send it. Isn't that fair? Why suffer any longer, when relief is thus offered you free? Don't deiay Write to-day.

MARK H. JACKSON,
No. 827G Durston Bidg., Syracuse, N.Y.

Mr. Jackson is responsible. Above statement true.

women's aches, Sick and Nervous Headaches, Back aches—relieved quickly by the Reliable Remedy

BUD IT'S LIQUID-QUICK EFFECT.

Those Nervous Headaches which are the lot of so many Housewives and Mothers.

Seldom Fail to Relieve Any Ache or Pain.

For Sale by All Druggists.

MILES MEDICAL CO., Elkhart, Ind.

Lungs Weak?

Generous Offer to Tuberculosis Sufferers of Trial of SANOSIN BANOLEUM, Embracing Europe's Remarkable Expectorant, SANOSIN.

Frial of SANOSIN SANOLEUM, Embraeling Europe's Remarkable Expectorant, SANOSIN.

Noted medical scientists—Drs. Danelins, Summerfield, Wolff, Noel, Gauther, Essers—declare SANOSIN most valuable treatment for pulmonary aliments. Felix Wolff, Court Physician, Directory of the Sanitarium for Consumptives in Reiboldsgrun, Germany, highly recommends it. SANOSIN has been officially recommended to the Berlin Medical Association. Dr. C. W. A. Essers, Amsterdam, Holland, declares it a "moral obligation to make SANOSIN known to the whole human race." American sufferers, rich or poor, can use this remarkable home treatment that has met with such success in Europe. SANOSIN SANOLEUM is designed to produce calm, restful sleep without morphine or similar deadening drugs, and to bring almost immediate relief from coughing, blood spitting, and night sweats. SANOSIN SANOLEUM is an inexpensive home treatment of genuine merit, and is proving a blessing to all suffering from Tuberculosis, Bronchitis, Aathma, Catarrh, Whooping Cough, etc. Send for FREE BOOKLET (with testimonials) explaining this treatment and how a trial can be made in your own home at our risk, Address SANOSIN SANOLEUM, 222 N. Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ili. Dept. 260.

Show this to some unfortunate.

NOTICE!

We want to get in touch with all the brethren who are interested in Christian education and who want to locate where there is a good Christian college. For further information, write to

S. L. BRADLEY, Morrillton, Ark.

CARCE T care for patients suffering from cancer. Address DR. W. O. BYE, - Kansas City, Mo.

MR. DODSON WARNS USERS OF CALOMEL

Says Drug Acts Like Dynamite on Liver and You Lose a Day's Work.

There's no reason why a person should take nickening, salivating calomel when a few cents buys a large bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone—a perfect substitute for calomel.

It is a pleasant, vegetable liquid which will start your liver just as surely as calomel, but it doesn't make you sick and can not salivate.

Children and grown folks can take Dodson's Liver Tone, because it is perfeetly harmless.

fectly harmless.

Calomel is a dangerous drug. It is mercury and attacks your bones. Take a dose of nasty calomel today and you will feel weak, sick and nauscated tomorrow. Don't lose a day's work. Take a spoonful of Dodson's Liver Tone instead and you will wake up feeling great. No more biliousness, constipation, sluggishness, headache, coated tongue or sour stomach. Your druggist says if you don't find Dodson's Liver Tone acts better than horrible calomel your money is ter than horrible calomel your money is waiting for you.

In a way that attested to his Christian principles rather than worldly success. He regretted that he had not prepared himself to give his life to the proclamation of the gospel. He was exceedingly liberal, but in a quiet way. The funeral services were conducted by the writer at Fayetteville, Tenn., in the presence of many friends and relatives. Our tender and heartfelt love goes out to Sister Gregory in her bereavement. J. M. GAINER:

Newton.

On November 4, 1920, at 2:30 A.M., Sister Margaret Newton passed from this to the other realm without sickness, suffering, or a sigh-simply fell asleep. By obedience to the Lord she was favored with a long life on earth, having lived seventy-one years. She was the mother of ten children, though only two survive her-Sisters Corner and Lindenblatt, who have been Christians since fourteen and sixteen years of age. Their mother herself obeyed the Lord at an early age. She had been a widow for twenty years. She was buried at Irving, Texas, sur-rounded by many friends and her brethren in Christ. It is said of her that "she had not an enemy on earth." I feel safe in saying she was among the best of mothers to be found. She was modest and unassuming, and lived a life of usefulness to her community and in honor to God. Such mothers are the salt of the earth, a blessing to any community. We symblessing to any community. We sympathize with the church and her flesh in their great loss. Surely she was ready to go, and it is far better with her. May all be admonished and live an acceptable life with the Lord.

J. W. DUNN.

Farmer.

On November 11, 1920, Sister Mary Thomas Farmer passed away. She obeyed the gospel at a tender age, and until her departure at the age of fiftytwo she wrought that which is good in the home and in the church with "a meek and quiet spirit, which is in the sight of God of great price," adorning the doctrine of God, our Savior, in all things. The memory of her gentleness and patience, her purity, chas-tity, and unfaltering faith and fidelity. is a rich heritage of hope for the husband, mother, sister, and brothers. She will be greatly missed by the Rothchilds Avenue congregation, where she worshiped since the beginning of the work there. It was fitting that the last sad rites be paid her memory in the place she loved so much and where she labored so long. In accordance with a request previously made by Sister Farmer, the three Derryberry brothers, Ridley, Oscar, and L. C., conducted the song service, and short talks were made by Brother S. P. Pitt-man and the writer. The body then was laid to rest beneath a wilderness of flowers, beautiful emblems of the resurrection, each conveying a silent yet eloquent message of love and sym-J. E. ACUEF. nathy.

Aches and Pains of rheumatism are not permanently, but only temporarily, relieved by external remedies. Why not use an internal remedy-Hood's Sarsaparilla, which corrects the acidity of the blood; on which rheumatism depends, and cures the disease?

KIDNEY

Is a decentive disease-TROUBLE thousands have it and don't know it, it you make no mistake by using Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney medicine. At drugglets in large and medium size bottles. Sample size by Parcel Post, also pamphiet telling you about it. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and enclose ten cents, also mention this paper.

FOOT TROUBLES

No Need of Them, Says Brooklyn Man, Who Has Evidently Solved a Big Problem

According to the testimony of hundreds of people living in the Southland and elsewhere, J. R. Simon, of 1539 Broadway, Brooklyn, N. Y., has successfully developed a system of shoe building having for its prime object the conquering of foot and shoe troubles. It appears that Mr. Simon's establishment has become national head-quarters for people whose feet require his quarters for people whose reet require an remarkable comfort shoe, known as the EzWear, but obtainable only of the in-yentor. Mr. Simon's new catalogue shows several hundred shoes that combine comfort with style at amazingly low prices and is now ready for free distribution.

TREMENDOUS VALUE FOR 10c.

The Pathfinder, Leading Weekly Magazine of Nation's Capital, Makes Remarkably Attractive Offer.

Washington, D. C. (Special.)—People in every section of the country are hurrying to take advantage of the Pathfinder's wonderful offer to send that splendid illustrated review of the whole world eight weeks for ten cents. It costs the editor a lot of money to do this, but he says it pays to invest in new friends, and that he will keep the offer open until the Pathfinder passes the 300,000 circulation mark, which will be in a few weeks. Ten cents mailed at once with your application to Pathfinder, 120 Douglas Street, Washington, D. C., will keep the whole family informed, enter-tained, helped, and inspired for the next three months.

To Reduce Fever Relieve Headaches and Neuralgic Pains

Use

Asplione is very efficient and absolutely safe to use as it does not depress the heart even in extreme cases of delatity or weak heart, neurasthenia or anaemia. Manufactur-ed by a formula in use by leading physicians ed by a forming in use by feating paysicing, penerally, 10 parts pure Aspirin, I part pure Caffeine, 4 parts excludent, in convenient tablet form. See per package at your druggists or by mail from the manufacturers, Piedmont Laboratories, Inc., Clinton, S. C.

THIS WOMAN FOUND RELIEF

Men and women suffering from backache, rheumatic pains, stiff and swollen joints, lameness and soreness, will be glad to read how one woman found relief from kidney and bladder trouble. Mrs. G. Hyde, Homestead, Mich., writes: "I have been troubled with weak kidneys, and several times in the last ten years I had that terrible backache and tired-out teeling, scarcely able to do my work. Foley Kidney Phis made me feel like a new person."

"Diamond Dyes" No Risk Then!

Don't Spoil or Streak Material in Dyes that Fade or Run

Each package of "Diamond Dyes" contains directions so simple that any woman can diamond-dye a new rich, fadeless color into worn, shabby garments, drape es, coverings, whether wool, silk, hien, cotton or mixed goods.

Buy 'Diamond Dyes'—no other kind—then perfect results are guaranteed even if you have never dyed before. Druggist has color card.

FRECKIES

Now Is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots.

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashumed of your freekles, as Othine—double strength—is guaranteed to remove these homely spots.

Simply set an ounce of Othine—double strength—from your drugsist, and apply a little of it night and morning and you should soon see that even the worst freekles have began to disappear, while the lighter ones have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than one ounce is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a beauliful clear complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength Othine as his is soid under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freekles.

CHURCH NEWS

Tennessee.

November 18.-Dickson. fourth Lord's day in October closed our work with the good people at Browning, Mo. The last two weeks of our stay there we spent in a most excellent meeting in many ways. Many of the brethren pronounced it one of the best meetings in the history of the church. There were only three additions, but the best interest I ever saw in a meeting, taking everything into consideration. The church has some most excellent people in it, and we learned to esteem them highly for their work's sake. The last day was a sad day for us and the church, because of the ties of friendship and love that had grown up between us, realizing that to a great extent these were in a measure broken because of separation. In token of the appreciation the church had for us the brethren presented us with many gifts. God's blessings ever attend the faithful ones there. We are now very pleasantly located with the brethren here, and we believe that this is one here, and we believe that this is one of the best, most loyal, and most liberal congregations to be found anywhere. They have shown us every kindness possible; even after paying moving expenses, they gave us a most liberal shower. We are well prepared with the necessities of life for some time. I have been trying to preach the distribution veges and have been well. for eighteen years, and have been well cared for in all that time. I feel un-worthy of the many acts of kindness and love the brethren have shown me from time to time. Brethren, pray for me, that I may always remain humble and accomplish the greatest good for the cause.-E. P. Watson.

Cleveland, November 22 .- On September 22 I began a meeting with the church at Boon's Hill, Tenn., and continued it till October 2, with services twice each day through the meeting. Brother Pack led the singing, and did it well. If a song leader is needed, no mistake would be made in getting Brother Pack. While there were no additions to the church, yet we feel that much good was done for the cause The attendance was good of Christ. throughout, the church was strengthened, the outsiders said they had not heard such preaching before, much prejudice was removed and the way paved for a greater work in the fu-ture. On the first Lord's day in October I began a meeting with the church at Cyruston, Tenn., and continued it over the second Lord's day, with services twice each day throughout the meeting. It seemed to be right in the busiest season of the year for these people, and our day crowds were small, but the evening services were well attended and considerable interest was manifested. Three persons were baptized Into Christ. There are some good brethren and sisters in this con-gregation, and it is to be hoped that more interest and zeal will be manifested at this place. Much good work remains in store for this congregation, if they will only get up and go to it. On the third Lord's day in October I began a short meeting with the church at Riceville, Tenn., which continued over the fourth Lord's day. We had small attendance at the day services, but good at the evening savvices but good at the evening services.

Three fine young people were baptized, and considerable interest was devel-I learned to love the people of Riceville and to become very much interested in the cause there. Our home while there was with Brother and Sister Robert Ericson; and a real home it was, too-just such as a preacher en-The cause at Riceville is weak, but we hope and pray that it will grow stronger. There are some there who could be very useful, if they would only be interested to do so, but they seem to have lost all interest in the Lord's It is so sad that the brethren will allow the world, the flesh, and the devil to so completely kill their every desire to serve the Lord. Let us hope and pray that they may do better, and let us all gather new courage and strength, and quicken our pace and fire our souls for "greater things for God."—George W. Farmer.

Texas.

Ranger, November 22.—I am now with the brethren at Ranger. I came here under a two-months' contract, and they have decided to use me permanently in the evangelization of Ranger. Most things look very encouraging for the cause here now. The orgy of ex-citement over the big discoveries of oil has subsided. Ranger is assuming the aspect of a real city. The local telephone company plans to equip to care for a city of forty thousand inhabit-ants. The Texas Pacific Railroad plans to build a depot to accommodate a city of forty thousand. We consider it an honor to work for the Master in a place such as this, that has just passed through two years of typical frontier life.-J. W. McKinney.

Eastland, November 22.—Eastland is the capital of Eastland County, Texas, and one of the fastest-growing cities in the "midcontinent oil fields." My son, O. E. Phillips, is the preacher for the church here. This church, unfor the church here. This church, un-der his leadership, has just completed the building of one of the best-equipped and most substantial church houses to be found in the Southwest, owned by our people. The meeting began on Wednesday night, November 17, and the writer is doing the preaching. The prospects are fine for a grand, good meeting. I have the good pleasure of making my home with my son and his splendid family. Pearl, his wife, is a grand little woman, and Paul and Miriam, their two children, are the joy and pride of the home. I feel that it is good for me to be here, and that my life in the world has not been in vain. When I left my home in Fort Worth, Brother E. A. Elam was "preaching the word" with ease and with great power. I learned to love him even more. He is indeed a great man of God. I am to be at Wellington. Texas, on December 1, for a twelve-days' meeting, and from there to B num. Texas, to close up the old year 1920, which in many respects has been one of the best years of my life iam, their two children, are the joy been one of the best years of my life of twenty-five years in evangelistic work. I mean to begin the new year 1921 in a gospel campaign at Gladewater, Texas. On to victory with the work of the Lord! Best wishes for the Gospel Advocate and all of her faithful readers!—T. W. Phillips.

West Virginia.

Buffalo, November 18.—In my last report I stated that I had received personal support to the amount of sixtyone dollars and twenty-five cents. was mistaken. It was ninety-four dollars and twenty-five cents; and this, with our own contributions, went into our house of worship. I did not use one penny of it for our own support. My work was gratis. Since October 6 I have received personal help to the amount of seventy-seven dollars and fifty-seven cents; and most of this has gone into the meetinghouse, because I was forced to put it in. I have also received, since October 6, one hundred and twenty-seven dollars to help finish the house of worship. By this means and the utmost self-denial upon our part, we have reduced our lumber bills to three hundred and twenty-four dollars, and three of us are responsible for that-and we are all poor men. This will ruin us, if the brethren do We also need not help us out soon. about one hundred dollars more to So you see we help finish the house. still need about four hundred dollars. We have done all we can here; and I am asking my brethren to help us out by the new year, or earlier if possible. Please do send your offering now, stat-ing what it is for. We are using the house now, but we cannot use it when It gets colder unless we can raise some more money. We are doing a vast amount of teaching in this section, and we will hold a protracted meeting in the new house when it is finished. We preach up here in the winter time. Box 81, Buffalo, W. Va., is my address. -F. P. Fonner.

Tant-Agee Debate.

BY W. L. OLIPHANT.

The above discussion was held at Centralia, Okla., beginning on November 9. Three days were spent in discussion. The disputants were Brother J. D. Tant, of Rogers, Ark., the old "war horse" of the church of Christ, and Elder C. C. Agee, the noted Primitive Baptist debater, of Missouri. The question under consideration was: "Is salvation conditional or unconditional?" During the first day and a balf Brother Tant affirmed that the eternal salvation of a sinner depended upon his hearing, believing, repenting, confessing, being baptized, and remaining faithful till death. Then Elder Agee affirmed that salvation is unconditional. Brother Tant successfully denied this during the last day and a half.

I shall not give a report of the discussion, further than to state that Agee admitted that, according to Primitive Baptist doctrine, a man can go to heaven without believing the Bible. He also admitted, when under the fire of Brother Tant's arguments, that "for" in Acts 2: 38 means "in order to."

I moderated for Brother Tant; Elder John Taylor, of Garfield, Ark., moderated for Agee.

I believe good will be the result of Brother Tant's defense of the truth.

They who seek the sad always find the Savior.

The "Matter With" America.

What's the matter with America these days?

Too many diamonds and not enough alarm clocks.

Too many silk skirts and not enough of blue flannel.

Too many pointed-toe shoes and not enough square-toed.

Too many serge suits and not enough overalls.

Too much decollete and not enough aprons.

Too many satin upholstered limousines and not enough cows.

Too many consumers and not enough producers.

Too much oil stock and not enough savings accounts.

Too much envy of the results of hard work and too little desire to emulate it.—Selected.

AGENTS $6 a Day

HOTHERS—Here are some little books you need. By Prof. Shannon, World-ramed Authority on questions of Social and Personal Purity. Two million in use. Three titles: "How to Tell the Story of Life," "Perfect Boyhood," "Perfect Girlhood". Cloth-binding 75c each: Paper 40c. Satisfaction or your money back. Order right now as you may never see this ad again. Address Dept. O. THE S. A. MULLIKIN CO., Official Publishers. Methodist Book Concern Bldg., Cincinnati, O. Agents wanted.

Beautiful Thoughts Compiled.

Meditate on your mercies and you minimize your miseries.

In simple trust like theirs who heard Beside the Syrian Sea The gracious calling of the Lord, Let us, like them, without a word, Rise up and follow Thee.

You Do More Work,

You are more ambitious and you get more enjoyment out of everything when your blood is in good condition. Impurities in the blood have a very depressing effect on the system, causing weakness, laziness, nervousness and sickness.

GROVE'S TASTELESS Chill TONIC restores Energy and Vitality by Purifying and Enriching the Blood. When you feel its strengthening, invigorating effect, see how it brings color to the cheeks and how it improves the appetite, you will then appreciate its true tonic value.

GROVE'S TASTELESS Chill TONIC is not a patent medicine, it is simply IRON and QUININE suspended in Syrup. So pleasant even children like it. The blood needs Quinine to Purify it and IRON to Enrich it. These reliable tonic properties never fail to drive out impurities in the blood.

The Strength-Creating Power of GROVE'S TASTELESS Chill TONIC has made it the favorite tonic in thousands of homes. More than thirty-five years ago, folks would ride a long distance to get GROVE'S TASTELESS Chill TONIC when a member of their family had Malaria or needed a body-building, strength-giving tonic The formula is just the same today, and you can get it from any drug store. 60c per bottle.

Keeps the Skin Clear

When troubled with pumples, sores, eczema, rash, and other skin troubles, apply TETTERINE. It is soothing, healing; softens the skin and clears the complexion. Excellent for bables. 60c at all druggists' or from Shuptrine Co., Savannah, Ga.

WHEN you have a bilious attack your liver fails to perform its functions. You become constipated. The food you eat ferments in your stomach instead of digesting. This inflames the stomach and causes nausea, vomiting and a terrible headache. Take Chamberlain's Tablets. They will tone up your liver, clean out your stomach and you will soon be as well as ever There is nothing better.

Chamberlain's Tablets

000000000000000000000000000

Famous Old Recipe for Cough Syrup Thousands of housewives have found that they can save two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, by using the well-known old recipe for making cough syrup at home. It is simple and cheap but it has no equal for prompt results. It takes right hold of a cough and gives immediate relief, usually stopping an ordinary cough in 24 hours or less of a cough and gives immediate relief, usually stopping an ordinary cough in 24 hours or less.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, pour it into a pint bottle and add plain granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, keeps perfectly, and lasts a family a long time.

It's truly astonishing how quickly it acts, penetrating through every air passage of the throat and lungs—loosens and raises the phlegm, soothes and heals the membranes, and gradually but surely the annoying throat tickle and dreaded cough disappear entirely. Nothing better for bronchitis, spasmodic croup, hoarseness or bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genine Norway pine extract, known the world over for its healing effect on the membranes.

Avoid disapointment by asking your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

LEMON JUICE FOR FRECKLES

Girls! Make beauty lotion for a few cents-Try It!

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of orehard white, shake well, and you have a quarter pint of the best freckle and tan lotion, and complexion beautifler, at very, very small cost.

Your grocer has the lemons and any drug store or toilet counter will supply three ounces of orehard white for a few cents. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face, neck, arms and hands each day and see how freckles and blemishes disappear and how clear, soft and rosy-white the skin becomes. Yes1 It is harmless and never irritates.

Sacrifice.

BY M. JANE FLOYD.

What a wonderful word-" sacrifice" and how often we hear it spoken, and yet how little we really know of it in this modern day!

Sacrifice is the giving up of something for another. That is merely the definition; but we never know what the term "sacrifice" means until we ourselves have really given up something and felt the dull heartache that follows such an action.

How does our Heavenly Father teach his children to really and truly sacrifice? We must first be taught how to do a thing before we can do it; and it is in God's law the same. God teaches us real sacrifice by taking our dearest and most cherished possessions away from us, perhaps for only a short while; and then, if we prove faithful through the acid test, he rewards us with something far better than that which was taken from us. In olden times the best and choicest animals were selected for sacrifice; so our dearest and most cherished possessions are often sacrificed in order that we may have our powers of faith and patience developed and strengthened thereby. We are thus taught how to really sacrifice by repeatedly giving up that which we hold dear and by exercising our faith in trusting the Lord to replace it with something better as a reward for loyalty and service. Our Father never takes away our treasures that he does not replace them with better ones; it has always been true in God's law since time began. We should bow in submission to God's holy will when he denies us anything, or when he takes some joy away, and patiently and faithfully watch and wait for that with which he replaces the loss.

We often are called upon to sacrifice the dearest, sweetest associations of those we love dearly at home and go out into the world among strangers, where our hearts are often caused to ache through the unkindness and coldness of those we meet; and we begin to wonder over it all, why is it so? Then it suddenly begins to dawn that God did it all for a purpose, and that we are better fitted to serve those around us by having suffered and sacrificed ourselves. We can now really and sympathetically minister to those whose lives are on the verge of a wreck, whose hearts are full of sorrow and whose bodies are torn with disease. We grow into selfish beings if we are never made to sacrifice. We lose the power to feel a heartache when others around us are suffering and giving up their treasured possessions.

With each sacrifice we make we gain strength to make a greater one the next time; and after repeated ef-

NERVOUS PROSTRATION

Mrs. J. Christman Proved That Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a Remedy for this Trouble.

Binghamton, N. Y.—"I was in a very nervous condition for over a year, my mind was gloomy, could see no light on anything, could not work and could not have anyone to see me. Doctor's medicine did not help me and Lydia E. Pink-h a m s Vegetable h a m's Vegetable Compound was recommended, I took it and am now well. I recommend it to all afflicted with nervous prostration."—Mrs. J.

Christman, 193 Oak Street, Binghamton, New York.
The success of Ladi

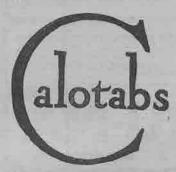

The success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, is unparalleled. It may be and herbs, is inparalleled. It may be used with perfect confidence by women who suffer from nervous prostration, displacements, inflammation, ulceration, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion and dizzness. Lydia E. indigestion and dizziness. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the standard remedy for female ills.

If there are any complications about which you need advice write in confidence to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

To abort a cold and prevent complications take

The purified and refined caloniel tablets that are nausealess, safe and sure.

Medicinal virtues retained and improved. Sold only in sealed packages.

FOOT COMFORT ASSURED Brooklyn Man Solves the Problem

It is no longer necessary to suffer agonies that are caused by misfit shoes; for Mr. Simon, of Brooklyn, has proven that he can fit perfectly by mail. Simon's Exwear Shoes are built to give every possible foot comfort; they are soft and stylish, and do not need breaking in. They fit like the proverbial pair, the minute you wear them. Every pair is guaranteed to give satisfaction and to fit perfectly.

Mr. J. R. Simon will gladly send a free catalogue of over 500 styles of EzWear Shoes to all who write him, along with his scientific, self-measuring blank. Write for your copy to-day, and give your feet their much-needed happiness. Address all communications to Mr. J. R. Simon, 1529 Broadway, Brooklyn, N. Y., and you will receive personal attention.

ASPIRIN

Name "Bayer" on Genuine

"Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" is genuine Aspirin proved safe by millions and prescribed by physicians for over twenty years. Accept only an unbroken "Bayer package" which contains proper directions to relieve Headache, Toothache, Earache, Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Colds and Pain. Handy tin boxes of 12 tablets cost few cents. Druggists also sell larger "Bayer packages." -Aspirin is trade mark Bayer Manufacture Monoaccticacidester of Salicylicacid.

forts along this line we grow into the habit, so that we find a joy in giving up things instead of a sorrow.

The most striking picture of sacrifice is that of Abraham offering Isaac on the altar as a sacrifice to God. Abraham had such a faithful, loyal spirit of sacrifice toward God that he was willingly laying his cherished son, through whose seed he was promised the nations should be biessed, on the altar, and had proceeded so far as to raise the dagger ready to take his life, when the God of heaven through his angel stayed his hand, that he should not kill him; and thus he was rewarded for his faith in God and his loyalty in serving him.

In every instance God faithfully rewards him who unselfishly makes a sacrifice. When God calls on us to sacrifice, we should give up willingly that which he takes away, and ask him to give us faith and teach us to understand the reason; and then without swerving we should perform each and every duty placed upon us, awaiting with patience and faithfulness for the reward our Creator so lovingly bestows.

Selections.

As the corn ripens, it bends.

We live in so far as we sacrifice.

Little faith can pray, if it can do no

He is the freeman whom the truth makes free.

A lie never stops running when truth is on its track.

The world needs your witness as well as your work.

All great work accomplished is an outlook for larger work.

The best preparation for the future is the present well seen to.

Unless you bear with the faults of a friend, you betray your own.

Of the unspoken word thou art master; the spoken word is master of thee.

You will find it harder to uproot faults than to choke them by gaining virtues.

To get alone—to dare to be alone with God—is, I am persuaded, one of the best ways of doing anything in this world.

Benjamin Franklin gave the following good advice: "Do not anticipate trouble or worry about what may never happen."

Your first duty in life is toward your after-self. So live that your after-self—the man you ought to become—may in his time be actual and possible.

Any trouble or anxiety that leads you out of self to the Infinite One, that makes you feel helpless and lonely and in need of a human Helper and a human Comforter, thank God for it.

The essence of unbelief is not denial of the truth, but refusal to treat the truth as true; that is all. We are not measured by the truths that we deny, but by the truths that, recognizing, we still practically ignore.

160 Hens 1500 Eggs

Mrs. H. M. Patton, Waverly, Mo., writes me: "I have fed two boxes of 'More Eggs' to my hens and I think they have broken the egg record. I have 160 white Leghorns and in exactly 21 days I got 125 dozen eggs." Any poultry raiser can easily make big profits this fall and winter by increasing the egg production of his hens. A scientific tonic has been discovered that revitalizes the flock and makes hens work all the time oflive your hens a few cents' worth of 'More Eggs' and you will be amazed and delighted with the results.

$1.00 FREE Package FREE

Send the coupon below, Don't send any money.

Mr. Reefer will send you two $1.00 packages of "More Eggs." You pay the postman upon delivery only $1.00, the price of inst one package, the other package being free. The Million Dollar Merchanta Bank of Kansai City Mo., marantives II you are not absolutely satisfied, your dollar will be returned at any time within $20 days—son request. No risk to you, 400,000 users praise Reefer's "More Eggs".

Poultry Raisers Everywhere Tell Wonderful Results of "More Eggs"

1200 Eggs from 29 Hens

The "More Eggs" Tonic did wonders for me. I had 29 hens when I got the tonic and was getting five or fix eggs a day. April 1st I had over 1200 eggs. I never saw the equal.

"More Eggs" Paid the Paster

I can't express in words how much I have been benefited by 'More Eggs'. I have oald my dobts, clothed the children in new dresses, and that is not all.—I part my paster his dues. I sold 42½ dozen eggs last week, set 4 dezen, ate some, sud had 1½ dozen left. MRS LENA MERROON, Woodbury, Teun.

Send No Money!

Don't send any money; just fill in and mail corpon. You will be sent, at once, two $1.00 packages of "MORE EGGS." Pay the postman upon delivery only $1.00, the extra package being FREE. Don't wait—take advantage of this free offer TODAY! Reap the BIG profits "MORE EGGS" will make for you. Have plenty of eggs to sell when the price is highest. Send TODAY—NOW!

E.J. Reafer, Poultry Expert, 1258 Reefer Bldg., Kansas City, Mo. Dear Mr. Reefer: I accept wint offer. Send me two $1.00 packages of Reefer's "More Exper for which I agree to pay the postman $1.00 when he brings me the two packages. You agree to refund me $1.00 at any time within 30 days. If both of these packages do not prove satisfactory in every way.

Name	 		ł

Address

If you prefer, enclose $1.00, each or money order, with this coupon. This brings your order a little society. C. O. D. bigs, sometimes take longer to handle in the Post Office.

Among the Colored Folks

Report of Meetings.

My meeting at Corinth, Miss., closed on November 5, with six additions and one restored. I have agreed to begin a meeting there early in the spring.

On the first Lord's day in November I visited the little band at Tishomingo, Miss. I do not believe I ever met a more devoted and earnest set of brethren and sisters in my life, and they certainly knew how to care for strangers. I am arranging to hold a meeting for them in the spring. Brother J. Hannon began this work about five years ago, and he is loved by them for his work's sake.

On November 9, 10, I visited the faithful few at Neshoba, Tenn.; and although it rained, they came out just the same. One was restored and there was much rejoicing.

On November 11, 12, I visited the church at Belen, Miss. This is a working congregation, doing a great work in sowing the seed of the kingdom all around them. This is a section where they farm for a living, and, as usual, they move a good deal; but wherever they go they tell the story of the cross, and by this means the gospel is carried into new fields, I learned while among them that four new mission points have been opened up recently by members who have moved from Belen. But when you go to the old church you cannot miss those that have moved, because the old church continues to convert others. To my mind, this is the old-time missionary way. This congregation is cared for by Brother James Hamilton. If we had more such men as he is located among the churches, many souls would be brought out of darkness into light. I have been asked to labor with them in their protractedmeeting work next year; and if I can arrange so that I can, I will gladly do so. I have labored with them two years before, and I yet remember how kind they were to wife and me.

On the second Lord's day in November I visited the congregation at Blackton, Ark. I have always enjoyed meeting with these brethren and sisters. They are planning to do a deal of mission work next year.

On November 15, 16, I met the little band at Cotton Plant, Ark. These are good and faithful people. One young lady made the good confession and was baptized. I have agreed to hold a meeting there next April. This is a fine mission field, and the future looks bright for the church.

I am now (November 17) at Newbern, Tenn., and will be here two

KEEPING WELL MEANS A CONSTANT FIGHT AGAINST CATARRH Many diseases may be described as a catarrhal condition. Coughs, colds, masal catarrh, stomach and bowel disorders are just a few of the very common ills due to catarrh. Fight, it! Fight catarrh with a remedy of assured merit, a remedy which has a reputation for usefulness extending over half a century—

DR. HARTMAN'S

Tablets or Liquid

Read This! Do Not Fail to Read This!

MAKE YOUR HOME HAPPY WITH A HOME MUSIC BOX. The most wonderful and cheapest musical instrument ever invented. Thousands sold. A child can play it and be amused and entertained

A child can play it and be amused and entertained for hours.

You can sing with it, and so teach the children to sing. Everybody surprised and pleased. Our list of 1,000 tunes includes hymns and songs. Make grandpa and grandma smile as you play the old songs they love so well. All kinds of music to cheose frommarches, popular songs, hymns, Sunday-school songs, etc. A fine gift for the holidays or other occasions. Just the thing to entertain a party.

Only $8.00 for this wonderful instrument, with four tunes, your choice, free. Extra tunes, 25c each.

Does not wind up, else it would cost $35.00 and play no better nusic. You can repeat a plece or change to another in an instant. Best to send full price with order, but $2.00 will be accepted, the rest payable on receipt by express, C. O. D., with charges. Lasts for years. Send 2c for catalogue.

A Roy 1176 City Hall Sta. New York N. Y.

STANDARD MFG. CO., Dept. G. A., Box 1179, City Hall Sta., New York, N. Y.

When You Feel Shaky

For Malarial Fevers and a General Tonic II not sold by your druggist, write ARTHUR PETER & CO., LOUISVILLE, KY.

nights. I expect to be in Obion, Tenn., next Lord's day, and on Monday 1 shall leave for home. I have been in this section seven weeks, and during this time fourteen precious souls have obeyed the gospel and two have been M. KEEBLE. restored.

Our children are not listening for our doctrines; they are looking for our deeds.

THIS GIRL IS A WONDER.

Do you want more money than you ever possessed? If so, learn to make nut and fruit bonbons. The business will not you $90.00 to $300.00 per month. You can work from your own home. All who sample your bonbons become regular customers. start by investing less than $10.00 for supplies. Mary Elizabeth started her candy kitchen with $5,00, and has made a fortune. Cannot you do likewise? I will tell you all about the business and help you start, so you can become independent. Now in the psychological time to make big money, as sugar is cheaper and fine bonbons command phenomenal prices. Write to-day. inez, 356 Morewood Building, Pittsburgh, Pa.

THE SANITARY" Communion GUPS List of thousands of churches using our caps and FREE CATALOG with quotations sent upon request.

Sanitary Communion Dutfit Co., 71st St., Rochester, N. W

PARKER'S HAIR BALSAM Removes Dangrud Stops Hair Falling Restores Color and Beauty to Gray and Faded Hair Ge, and Stoo at Druggists. Hiscox Chem. Was Patchoone, N. Y.

HINDERCORNS Removes Corns, Callouses, etc., stops all pain, ensures comfort to the feet, makes walking seev. He by mail or at Druggists. Hisoox Chemitast Works, Fatchingue, N. X.

For Baby's Rash

prickly heat, hives, and other skin cruptions or injuries, nothing is better than TETTERINE. Thousands of mothers swear by it. Puts an end to all minor skin troubles. Mild, but healing, 60c at all druggists' or from Shuptrine Co., Savannah, Ga.

Used for more than forty years. The benefit derived from it is unquestionable.

For more than a generation we have been recelving grateful testimony to the virtues of this thoroughly tested and proven treatment. It stops violent coughing, and difficult breathing, assuring restful sleep because the antisepte vapor carries healing with every breath. Booklet 43 tells why the diseases for which Cresolens is recommended yield to this simple and dependable treatment.

Vapo-Cresolene is sold by druggists VAPO-CRESOLENE CO., 62 Cortlandt St., New York

Volume LXII. No. 50.

NASHVILLE, TENN., DECEMBER 9, 1920.

$2.50 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

The Climax at Caesarea Philippi.

Those who have written thoughtfully concerning the life and teachings of Jesus often refer to Peter's confession of his Sonship at Cæsarea Philippi, related in Mark 8 and Matt. 16, as a notable climax in his earthly ministry. It is such a crucial point in the progress of his labors that they speak of certain things as happening either before or after Cæsarea Philippi. I desire in this article to point out the argument which has led to this justifiable conclusion.

Edifying as the Need May Be

BY A. B. LIPSCOMB

In the first place, we should bear in mind the aim which Jesus had in all his training of the twelve chosen disciples. Jesus was never an aimless teacher. He did not shoot the arrows of his wisdom and prophetic utterance into the air. Unless we clearly recognize this point, we are apt to become confused in our study of some of his sayings and to wonder what he is driving at. A remarkable example of the Savior's aim in teaching is found in the account of his conversation with the Syrophenician woman, who besought him that he would cast forth the devil out of her daughter. Jesus surprised the woman and everybody else within hearing distance, perhaps, when he said: "Let the children first be filled: for it is not meet to take the children's bread and cast it to the dogs." (Mark 7: 27.) Our first impulse is to believe that this is an unkind speech. They appear to be words which ill become the gentle Nazarene. We wonder at the Savior's apparent indifference to the tearful plea of a troubled woman. It is because we do not think beneath the surface of things. We forget the purpose that lies behind the saying, the fixed goal of the Master's teaching. The purpose on this occasion was to draw out from the woman an expression of great faith. It is only when we finish the story of the miracle that we realize that Jesus made no mistake, after all. He looked into the bottom of the woman's heart at the very beginning and commended that which was the source of all her humility and perseverance.

0 0 0

A Definite Training Course.

In like manner let us consider Jesus' aim in teaching the twelve, and note how that aim is accomplished at Casarea Philippi. We have read in the papers that General Foch in command of the allied forces worked out a strategic plan for their success many months before the victory was gained, and that every movement under his direction was in accord with that plan. Just so, observes J. M. Stiller in "The Fighting Saint," "no general ever knew more clearly what he meant to accomplish by a season's campaign than did Jesus in the short time of his ministry. He had a definite plan for the education of his disciples which they did not understand until after his ascension, but which is as plain to us as a carven statue when we look at his life with the object of finding it out." Let us see how he did it.

First he called the disciples. Some of them came away from their fishing nets and one gave up his political office. Before the call he attracted them, won their confidence. Whatever powers a preacher may possess, if he does not have an attractive personality, he will not accomplish much. By this I do not mean he must necessarily be goodlooking or well dressed or even amiable in speech and manner. There is something more attractive than these superficial things. It is the force of a clean life, the call of an unquestioned character. John the Baptist grew up in the wilderness and preached in the wilderness, clothed in camel's hair, bound with a leathern girdle, but his character was an irresistible force. He was uncouth in dress and stern in his speech, but there was in him the charm of righteousness that cannot be denied. Savonarola, one of the heroes of the mediæval church, was a man of unprepossessing appearance, but there was such a power of real manhood as to stir the great city of Florence to the core. He spoke plainly, and the people heard him because of what he was. A queen trembled at his words, and the little street gamins bound themselves in solemn pact to help free the city from its notorious vices.

0 0 0

An Ideal Translated Into Life.

As a second step in his education of the twelve, Jesus put before them an ideal—the Sermon on the Mount. This he followed up with the demonstration of his own life and powers. As we sometimes express the thought, "he practiced what he preached." He translated his own teachings into everyday experiences. Here again we may observe that the preacher who cannot back up his preaching with a consistent life is doomed to failure in the final analysis. We are reminded of Emerson's oft-quoted words: "What you are speaks so loud I cannot hear what you say." It has always seemed irrelevant and a bit disgusting to me when men write long articles in the papers in an effort to convince the public that they have pursued the right course in regard to certain matters and that their cotemporaries have not. If they are, indeed, what they claim to be, the sensible public knows it, anyway; and their enemies will continue to misrepresent, it matters not what they write. I rather admire the answer of the man who said: "Let them say what they say." It is very much akin to the common-sense statement of Paul: "But with me it is a very small thing that I should be judged of you, or of man's judgment. . . . But he that judgeth me is the Lord." (1 Cor. 4: 3, 4.)

Jesus' next move was to send his disciples out to preach, to try it for themselves—the principle of learning by doing. This reminds us of the saying, "The best way to preach is to preach." The most successful evangelists that we have in the field are not those who have spent several years studying in some theological seminary, but those who by dint of hard work and unremitting sacrifice have learned how to preach. A certain amount of preparation is necessary, but there is enough of it included in Paul's advice: "Study to show thyself approved unto God." The best and safest course in homiletics is a careful study of God's word. It is the only course that we offer at David Lipscomb College. Any young man who heeds this divine admonition is ready at least to begin. He will find that, after all, experience is the best teacher,

We now approach the climax of Jesus' training course with his disciples. He has called them, attracted them, won their confidence; he has given them a great ideal and has translated his ideal into living deeds; he has sent them out on the principle of learning by doing. Last of all, he calls them aside and asks this pointed question:

"Who am I?"

Jesus' Patience in Teaching.

We should not fail to note the wonderful patience and forbearance that Jesus exercised in this training. We preachers need that lesson, too. We count too much upon the logic of our arguments and our persuasive gifts. We too easily grow discouraged. Oftentimes during a protracted meeting we are ready to shake the dust from our feet as a testimony against a congregation and to move on to a more favorable appointment. If we preach a week or two weeks and no one responds to the gospel invitation, save, perhaps, a child or two, we begin to sulk and to get down in the mouth. Let us remember that the great Teacher and the model Preacher labored nearly three years with his disciples before he asked for a confession. During that time they were slow to learn, so dull and stupid that their Teacher was constrained to exclaim: "O ye of little faith!" But Jesus never gave up. He went on with his teaching and preaching, ever hoping and praying that the lesson would be learned. When the examination day arrived at Cæsarea Philippi, his love and patience were rewarded. Simon Peter meets the test and speaks for them all in his immortal answer: "Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God." True enough, the Father revealed and inspired his utterance, but Simon Peter believed it with all his heart. And that belief was the result of education. 0 0 0

The Verdiet Stands.

Peter never had occasion to change his verdict. He was never disappointed in Jesus' character. At the time when all Europe was after with enthusiasm for Napoleon and his wonderful exploits, Beethoven dedicated his Symphony No. 3 to him. Months passed, and Napoleon stepped down in disgrace from the pedestal on which the people had enthroned him, and then Beethoven destroyed his dedication, exclaiming: "So this one, too, is nothing more than any ordinary man!" Peter and James and John and the rest began to follow Jesus in the belief that he was no ordinary man. They lived with him, shared his daily life and some of his daily thoughts, and the wonder of that life grew upon them. Never did they exclaim: "So this One, too, is nothing more than an ordinary man!" On the other hand, his life among them from day to day only deepened and strengthened their early convictions. And finally they came to that point where they were ready to tell the world that he was more than the greatest man and to declare that he was the Son of God. From that time forward they gave their lives to him in service, and one by one they counted it an honor to die in his name.

***** * * *

When We Come to Our Caesarea Philippi.

For each one of us there is this crucial point in our lives. We come to our Cæsarea Philippi. We face the question of Jesus Christ: "Who am I, and what will you do with me?" How much does one need to learn and know before he can answer the question? What training or education must he have? How long must he be in school? Not so long as Simon Peter and the rest of the disciples; because he has the record of all that Jesus taught them, and it does not require three years to learn, if one is diligent and earnest in his quest. Let us be impressed with the fact that Jesus was not teaching those disciples for themselves alone. Through them he was teaching us. Nor was he praying for them alone. "Neither for these only do I pray, but for them also that believe on me through their word." (John 17: 20.) Nor was he working miracles for them alone. "Many other signs therefore did Jesus in the presence of the disciples, which are not written in this book: but these are written, that ye may believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God; and that believing ye may have life in his name," (John 20: 30, 31.)

A little girl once asked her mother: "How old must I be, mother, before I can be a Christian?" Her mother in turn asked: "How old will you have to be before you love me?" "Why, mother," she replied, "I have always loved you." "How old must you be before you can trust yourself wholly to me and my care?" continued the mother. "I always did; but tell me now what I wish to know." "How old will you have to be before you do what I wish you to do?" her mother asked. And the little girl, seeing clearly what her mother meant, whispered: "I can now without waiting to grow older."

Are you old enough to love Jesus, to trust yourself to him, to do what he wants you to do, and have you learned what he asks you to do? If so, the conclusion is plain enough; you are old enough to become a Christian.

A Brotherly Suggestion. BY J. Y. M'QUIGG.

Brethren I want to beg of you all, especially of you would-be critics, to look up your Gospel Advocate of October 28 and re-read what Brother Whiteside says on your war record. It is so timely, so pointed, and so much in little that I want to thank him for saying it. I trust that this will put to shame those who have been guilty of engaging in this unpleasant and uncalled-for criticism instead of telling the 'old, old story of Jesus and his love.' To you who are so ready to criticize, let me beg of you that you, like the ancient Arab, quickly fold your tent and as silently steal away. Go and preach the gospel to a dying and sincursed world, humbly and lovingly, and do as he says—"let us have peace."

It is easy to see the good points of the man on a pedestal.—Exchange.

Our Contributors

The Lukewarm Child of God.

BY K. C. MOSER.

There are three stages to any completed work—the beginning, continuation, and finishing. Omit either, and the work is a failure. It is well to begin, better to continue, and best of all to finish.

"I glorified thee on the earth, having accomplished the work which thou hast given me to do." (John 17: 4.) Christ then prayed that the Father should glorify him. He claimed glory because he had completed his work. "He that endureth to the end, the same shall be saved." "I have fought the good fight, I have finished the course, I have kept the faith." (2 Tim. 4: 7.) Paul then lays claim to the crown on the ground that he had finished his work. Brother, can you claim the crown for the same reason? If not, you have no claim at all.

A proper understanding of your obligation as a child of God should stimulate all the Christian graces. (2 Pet. 1: 5-12.) It is unpardonable to close your eyes to facts. Facts meet us here, and they will meet us in the judgment. "They refused to have God in their knowledge." (Rom. 1: 28.) Their forgetting God did not cause him to cease to be, nor did it lessen their obligations. It only served to increase their condemnation. Forgetting obligations does not fulfill them. Have you forgot that "God is not mocked," and that "whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap?" Then do not attempt the like by failure to do your duty. "See, I have set before thee this day life and good, and death and evil." (Deut. 30: 15.) No one in eternity can complain of his destiny. Excuses will not lessen agony.

Man's obligation to God is measured (1) by his relationship to him, (2) by God's love for man, (3) by man's ability, (4) by man's opportunities.

"God is the Creator; man, the creature. It is the right of the Creator to command and the duty of the creature to obey. "Speak, Lord; for thy servant heareth." "Furthermore, we had the fathers of our flesh to chasten us, and we gave them reverence; shall we not much rather be in subjection unto the Father of spirits, and live?" (Heb. 12: 9.) Man can obey and live, disobey and die."

"For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son." (John 3: 16.) "Behold what manner of love the Father hath bestowed upon us, that we should be called children of God." (1 John 3: 1.) "We love him, because he first loved us." (1 John 4: 19.) "The verse might be rendered: 'Let us therefore love him, because he first loved us.' Thus the Syriac and Vulgate." (Adam Clarke.)

God loved us, hence our obligation to love him. Our obligation is greater because he first loved us. But what is it to love God? "If ye love me, ye will keep my commandments." (John 14: 15.) This statement from Christ himself is the "conclusion of the whole matter." I will obey if I love Christ. If I do not obey, I do not love him.

Brother, weigh yourself on the divine balances. Will it be said of you as it was of Belshazzar: "Thou art weighed in the balances, and art found wanting?" Neither forgetfulness, neglect, nor excuses will even the balances; only duty performed will.

God demands that we worship him. (John 4: 20-25.) From Acts 20: 7 it is learned that the early disciples were accustomed to "break bread" on the Lord's day. History also testifies to this fact. The test is easy. "If ye love me, ye will keep my commandments." Neither business, social, nor any other obligation will excuse. God has graciously given man six days during which to work. The Lord's day belongs to him.

Two boys were walking along the road. Across the fence was an apple tree with seven apples on it. The good owner gave the boys six of the apples. He kept only one for himself. When the owner had gone, the boys stole the seventh apple.

Be careful! David once pronounced judgment against himself. Read about it in 2 Sam. 12. Careless child of God, "thou art the man." Having worked six days for self, will you steal the Lord's day? Yes, I say "steal," for it is the Lord's day. You are appropriating for your own benefit that which is not your own. But why do men do such things? "If ye love me, ye will keep my commandments." What has been said of worship on Lord's day can be said of all other obligations to God.

Ability is the basis of responsibility. God requires no impossibilities. It is, therefore, possible for every one to do his duty. If one cannot sing, then to sing is not his duty. But if he can worship on Lord's day and does not, he is guilty. Even of those who attend worship, many excuse themselves for their refusal to take some public part by saying, "I can't." Remember that man's obligation to God requires growth. Learn to be able to do. The new baby is not expected to walk. But it is expected to grow and to learn to walk. Are you determined to remain a "babe" forever? Peter tells the "newborn babes" to grow. (1 Pet. 2: 2.)

Greater opportunities mean greater responsibility. "And to whomsoever much is given, of him shall much be required: and to whom they commit much, of him will they ask the more." (Luke 12: 48.)

Lukewarm child of God, read it again, then again. Memorize it, and repeat it to yourself daily—yea, hourly. Meditate upon it. Then tremble. You may have many opportunities; hence, the Lord will require much of you. Read verse 47: "And that servant, who knew his lord's will, and made not ready, nor did according to his will, shall be beaten with many stripes." Did you read your doom?

Hear this parable: "Now will I sing to my well beloved a song of my beloved touching his vineyard. My well beloved hath a vineyard in a very fruitful hill: and he fenced it, and gathered out the stones thereof, and planted it with the choicest vine, and built a tower in the midst of it, and also made a wine press therein: and he looked that it should bring forth grapes, and it brought forth wild grapes. . . . What could have been done more to my vineyard, that I have not done in it? wherefore, when I looked that it should bring forth grapes, brought it forth wild grapes? And now go to; I will tell you what I will do to my vineyard: I will take away the hedge thereof, and it shall be eaten up; and break down the wall thereof, and it shall be trodden down: and I will lay it waste: it shall not be pruned, nor digged; but there shall come up briers and thorns: I will also command the clouds that they rain no rain upon it." (Isa. 5: 1-6.)

Note carefully the opportunities of the vineyard, and at the same time think of your own. It was planted on a fruitful hill, not in sterile soil. It was fenced, cleared of stones, and planted with the choicest vine. Expecting fruit, the owner built a tower and wine press. Then he asked: "What could have been done more to my vineyard, that I have not done in it?"

What was the result? "And he looked that it should bring forth grapes, and it brought forth wild grapes." What a lesson! It should make us all tremble. Count your blessings, and find them as numberless as the sands by the sea. Number, if you can, your opportunities. Then imagine such ingratitude as will disappoint God. Are some determined to be lost? It does seem that it is so.

But what will be done? "I will tell you what I will do to my vineyard: I will take away the hedge thereof, and it shall be eafen up; and break down the wall thereof, and it shall be trodden down; and I will lay it waste: it shall not be pruned, nor digged; but there shall come up briers and thorns: I will also command the clouds that they rain no rain upon It." The curse is fearful. If I could, I would not care to make it appear worse. I fear that only too many will here read their doom, unless they repent.

Many will not go to worship unless it is convenient. Let such ask themselves: "Was it convenient for the Lord to leave heaven and die for me? Did the crown of thornsfeel comfortable; the nails that pierced his hands and feet, soothing?" Surely, unless all sense of gratitude is gone, repentance will follow. Had you lived when Christ was on earth, would you not have added a thorn to his crown, a nail to his hands, and a wound to his side? Would you have macked him as he died for you? Then why mack him now? Why crucify him afresh? (Heb. 6: 4-7.)

The men of Nineveh shall stand up in the judgment with this generation, and shall condemn it: for they repented at the preaching of Jonah; and behold, a greater than Jonah is here." (Luke 11: 32.) "Then began he to upbraid the cities wherein most of his mighty works were done [note the opportunities], because they repented not. Woe unto thee, Chorazin! woe unto thee, Bethsaida! for if the mighty works had been done in Tyre and Sidon which were done in you, they would have repented long ago in sackcloth and ashes. But I say unto you, it shall be more tolerable for Tyre and Sidon in the day of judgment, than for you!" (Matt. 11: 20-22.) Read a little further in Matthew. Why will it be more tolerable for Tyre and Sidon than for those to whom Christ was talking? Here is the answer: Chorazin had greater opportunities than Tyre and Sidon. But what of man's present opportunities? How awful must be the destruction waiting so many!

The sheep have turned against their shepherd. He that once led through green pastures and by still waters has been driven out, and the sheep are wandering on bleak mountains of waste or making their beds on the burning sands of deserts. He that knew no want is now eating the husks from the devil's swine pen. The soul once restored is now famished and walking in paths of sin. The once anointed of the Lord is now afflicted by the enemy of souls. He that once feasted at the table prepared by the Lord is now gloating himself on the devil's dainties. He that once drank from the cup running over is sipping the bitter dregs from the hand of Satan. He that one time followed the good Shepherd, while goodness and mercy followed him, is now pursued by an evil conscience and followed by a train of evil consequences. He whose privilege it was to dwell in the house of the Lord forever has chosen demons for his companions, and for a home the house that was empty, swept, and garnished. And, finally, he that could once have walked through the valley and shadow of death, fearing no evil, now approaches the dark valley terrified, having not even a broken reed upon which to lean.

Of course some will offer excuses. But who will accept them? God will not, and man cannot. Throw your chaft away and offer the Lord only wheat. Before offering another excuse, turn and read Luke 14: 16-25. Here excuses were offered and as often refused. Just remember that whatever your excuse might be, it is worthless. Every excuse carries with it the germ of its own destruction. Every excuse offered only manifests a lack of love for the Lord. (John 14: 15.) Christ could have offered a thousand excuses for not dying for you, to your one for your not living for him.

Lukewarm brother, you need to repent in sackcloth and ashes. The Master said: "Repent" or "perish." "Awake, thou that sleepest, and arise from the dead." (Eph. 5: 14.)

"No man, having put his hands to the plow, and looking back, is fit for the kingdom of God." (Luke 9: 62.) There is an end to God's patience.

"There is a line, by us unseen, That crosses every path, The hidden boundary between God's patience and his wrath,"

O careless one, turn or you will soon cross that line! "Why will you die?" May God help you to repent.

Can An Unmarried Man Be a Scriptural Elder?

BY H. LEO BOLES.

In answer to the above question, Brother J. C. McQuiddy has the following to say in the Gospel Advocate of October 14, 1920, in the "Query Department:"

C. S. Hawkins, of Auburntown, Tenn., wishes to know if it would be according to the Scriptures to appoint as elder a man not married, but who possesses the other qualifications as laid down in the New Testament for an elder. The Bible nowhere save that an elder must be a married man. It does say that he must be "the husband of one wife," which means that, if married, he must not be the husband of two wives or of three wives, and that he must not be divorced from a number of wives. Unfortunately, in the days of the New Testament polygamy was practiced by the people and divorces were freely given without the scriptural cause. Some women had many husbands and some men had many wives. Men who were divorced from wives or had more than one living wife were not qualified for elders.

In the above quotation, Brother McQuiddy states: "The Bible nowhere says that an elder must be a married man, It does say that he must be the husband of one wife, which means that, if married, he must not be the husband of two wives or of three wives, and that he must not be divorced from a number of wives." The statement expresses that it is not necessary for an elder to be a married man. I think that Brother McQuiddy is clearly in the wrong. Such teaching, I believe, is contrary to the will of God as revealed to us through the New Testament. The elder is spoken of in the New Testament under the names of "bishop," "presbyter," "shepherd," "overseer." These titles give a clearer view of the character, function, and relation of the elder. The name "elder" shows that he is to be selected from among the older class of men. This implies that he has arrived at the age to be classed among the married men. "The bishop therefore must be without reproach, the husband of one wife; . . one that ruleth well his own house, baving his children in subjection with all gravity; (but if a man knoweth not how to rule his own house, how shall be take care of the church of God?) not a novice, lest being puffed up he fall into the condemnation of the devil." (1 Tim. 3: 2-6.) Again, Paul, in giving instruction to Titus about appointing elders, says: "If any man is blameless, the husband of one wife, having children that believe, who are not accused of riot or unruly." (Tit. 1: 6.) This shows that the elder is not only to be selected from the aged, but that he is to be the head of a family, "the husband of one wife," who has children which are old enough to be Christians and who have been trained by the father and have become Christians. The experience and responsibility of a Christian father have developed him so that he is prepared to take charge of the house of God. I do not say that his wife must be living at the time that he is selected, but the Scriptures do clearly teach that he must be a father and not a polygamist.

The expression "the husband of one wife" is as emphatic as that he must be without repreach, not self-willed, not soon angry, no brawler, no striker, etc. One of these qualifications is as definite as the other. This interpretation of the expression "the husband of one wife" is given and sanctioned by Biblical scholars. I submit quotations from scholars and commentaries as proof of the proposition that the elder must be a married man. The Greek word used here for "husband" is "andros." which comes from the Greek word "aneer," and, as used in 1 Tim. 3: 2, 12; Tit. 1: 6, means "husband" as given by Thayer's Greek-English Lexicon of the New Testament. Adam Clarke says that this expression means: "He should be a married man, but he should be no polygamist; and have only one wife-that is, one at a time. It does not mean that, if he has been married, and his wife die, he should never marry another. . . . The apostle's meaning appears to be this: that he should not be a man who has divorced his wife and married another, nor one that has two wives at a time." (Clarke's Commentary on 1 Tim.) A commentary prepared by Jamieson, Fausset & Brown has the following to say on this point: "It is implied here also that he who has a wife and virtues is to be preferred to a bachelor; for who is himself bound to discharge the domestic duties mentioned here is likely to be more attractive to those who have similar ties, for he teaches them not only by precept, but also by example. The Jews teach, a priest should be neither unmarried nor childless, lest he be unmerciful." (Commentary on 1 Tim.) Conybeare and Howson, in the "Life, Time, and Travels of St. Paul," comment as follows on this expression; "In the corrupt facility of divorce allowed both by the Greek and Roman law, it was very common for a man and wife to separate, and marry other parties, during the life of one another. Thus a man might have two or three living wives; or, rather, women who had all successively been his wives. . . . We believe that it is this kind of successive polygamy, rather than simultaneous polygamy, which is here spoken of as disqualifying for the presbyterate."

I find only one authority that dissents from the above interpretation, and that is Macknight, a Scotch Presbyterian. who tries to uphold the Presbyterian Church, which is based on the presbytery. He seems to be confused in his attempt to explain away a clear statement of the apostle Paul. Macknight first says: "Therefore a bishop ought to be free from blame; the husband of one wife at a time." etc. Again, in his notes, he says: "The apostle's meaning, therefore, in these canons is, that such persons only are to be intrusted with sacred offices, who, in their married state, have contented themselves with one wife and with one husband at a time; because thereby they have showed themselves temperate in the use of sensual pleasures." After stating the above, he then says: "The direction I have been considering does not make it necessary. to one's being a bishop, that he be a married person. . . . The apostle's meaning is, that if such a person be married, he must, as was observed above, have only one wife at a time . . . Now, although it be not necessary to one's being a bishop that he be married, yet if a young unmarried man be made a bishop, it may be proper, for avoiding temptations, that he marry, if he have not the gift of continency." Again, Macknight, commenting on 1 Tim. 5: 16, says: "As it was required in a bishop that he should be a husband that he might have some experience in the affairs of life, so the female teacher was to be a widow; . . . and as it was required that a bishop should be the husband but of one wife at a time, so it was ordered that a widow should have been the wife but of one husband at a time." This shows that when Macknight lets his scholarship guide him in his interpretation, he says that a bishop is required to be a husband; but when his theology guides him, he says it is not necessary for the bishop to be a married man. It appears to me that the New Testament is clear enough in stating that the bishop must be the husband of one wife. You will note that Macknight also states that a young unmarried man may be an elder. This, to my mind, is a contradiction of the term "elder."

I have submitted the above in love for the truth and for the instruction of all who may be interested in coming to a full knowledge and clear understanding of what the will of the Lord is.

"Another Speculator."

BY EARNEST C. LOVE.

A few nights ago I was invited by a member of the Christian Church (digressive) to go hear their evangelist, who was holding a meeting for them. I went; and before I had listened ten minutes I recognized him as one of the new school of prophetic speculators.

After the meeting I asked him where he learned it. He promptly replied that he had learned it all out of the New Testament; but under cross-examination he admitted having read "Jesus is Ceming," by Blackstone, and "Seiss on Revelation." It will be remembered that the former book was indersed and recommended by Brother Boll, and was reviewed adversely by Brother McQuiddy.

This man is named Deeming, and is from Michigan, and has doubtless been under the same teachers that side-tracked Brother Boll. He showed a "spirit" very similar to that of the Highland congregation in Louisville in their dealings with Brethren Taylor and Rubel. I told him I did not believe he found Scripture to justify his speculations. He told me to come back next night and he would convince me.

The next night I was late getting there, and he referred to me in a very unpleasant way, so I was told by my daughter and others. He called me a "critic," and said he guessed I had "cold feet," or was only wanting to make trouble, or was a sneak, etc.; but when I came in, he said no more about it.

He invited all to come up and examine his chart and ask him questions; but he said if any one tried to start an argument, he would send him back to his seat. I went up and asked him a few questions, and he gave rough and discourteous answers, which showed he was afraid of his grounds.

If there is anything in our argument that Bible things should be called by Bible names, and I think there is, then these speculators are surely off on many things. Here are several expressions common in their speech, but not found in the Bible: "The imminency of Christ's coming," "the rapture," "the tribulation Christians," "the third coming of Christ," "the millennial kingdom," "the third, fourth, fifth, etc., resurrections," and such like.

He had a chart with this legend: "His Coming, 1933." That is very close to setting the date of his coming, is it not? He denied emphatically that the "man of sin" in 2 Thess, 2, and the "little horn" of Dan. 7 had ever come. Just like Brother Boll, he puts the fulfillment of Daniel and Revelation all in the future.

Several of our brethren expressed themselves as approving of the course of Brethren McQuiddy and Lipscomb in doing what they could to prevent such speculations from being imposed upon the church of Christ. I noticed many of the older members of the Christian Church took a back seat and looked bewildered, while some Adventists seemed to be enjoying the meeting greatly.

I suggest that we boost the Gospel Advocate and help out Brother McQuiddy in his fight for the "old paths."

Even in what seems life's little things ask the Master to help you to decide aright.—Selected.

Relief Fund.

Church at Lavergne, Tenn. (two offerings)$23.13
"A Sister" and her Bible class, Fountain Creek, Tenn 2.25
Miss Fanita Watkins, Fosterville, Tenn 1.00
L. N. Gray and family, Mayfield, Ky 15.00
Mrs. R. C. Underwood, Rosedale, Miss 2.00
Oakland corgregation, Montgomery County, Tenn 30.40
Miss Maggie Young, Moulton, Ala 5.00
Ralph Ring, Jefferson City, Tenn
A. O. Ring, Jefferson City, Tenn,
Lindsay A. Allen, Russellville, Ala 1.00
Mrs. Alice Medearis, Nashville, Tenn 2.00

"J. C. McQuiddy's Course and F.W. Smith's Complaint."

Our readers will remember the "Daniel Quilp" article, Brother McQuiddy's explanation, and my reply to it all. I was not alone in my conviction that the Daniel Quilp "trick" should be criticized. But along with my criti-cism I gave Brother McQuiddy's explanation complete to the readers of the Herald. Brother Smith raises a lamentation over my "misrepresentation" of Brother McQuiddy, and being moved by his sense of justice, writes a defense of Brother McQuiddy. He even heads that defense, "As a Matter of Simple Justice," But somehow in his desire to see that justice be done to Brother McQuiddy, he forgets to be just to others, and especially to me, whose "Travesty on Justice" he was criticizing. Though he said my article was a "violent," "unjust," and "untrue" attack on J. C. McQuiddy, the readers of the Gospel Advocate are forced to take Brother Smith's "ipse dixit" for the charge. For he gave them two hundred words of my article, "covering quite and these two hundred words were given in scraps through his article, covering two whole pages. No doubt he had good reasons for withholding my article from the readers of the Advocate. No doubt "there are those who will have their own judgment in the matter," But we must give Prother Smith credit for being skillful enough to keep up the Advocate's lately established practice of giving to its readers only one side of a question.

We are giving Brother Smith's entire criticism of the article which he failed to give to his readers, and are asking a careful reading of what he has to say,

It is plain that Brother Smith makes little or no effort to defend the Daniel Quilp deception. For the sake of right and wrong influence, I believe that wrong should be acknowledged and scripturally cleared up. But this is between Brother McQuiddy and his God. I leave it there,

I had far rather discuss Brother McQuiddy's war record with him. He is able, I take it, to take care of himself. It is his responsibility to defend his course, as a Christian, through the bloodiest war through which the world ever passed. And so far as I can see the responsibility cannot be shifted to another.

Brother Smith closes his defense saying: "I did hone and pray that the war question among preachers and church members generally would be left to rest; but since these attacks are coming from so many different quarters, I am in favor of threshing it out, so come on with your proof." I remind Brother Smith of the significant fact that but for Brother McQuiddy the question might have been "left to rest." For some reason, best known to himself, he has kept up a kind of one-sided discussion of the question in the Advocate, all the time encouraging others to let it rest. To the rest of us his continued effort was an attempt at justification of his own record. In the effort, too, his was the only wise, prudent, and proper course. No one else knew how to conduct himself in the war; no one else "with prudence and entire Christian propriety" knew how to refrain from indiscriminately preaching against war, at a time when such preaching would have done no good; no one else "with equal prudence and Christian propriety" stood by the government and did everything "he" could conscientiously do to help it and its soldiers." Brother McQuiddy himself is responsible for "these attacks" "coming from so many different quarters." If Prother Smith could have got Brother McQuiddy to let the question rest, perhaps the storm would not have arisen. Brother Smith explained why Daniel Quilp was drafted for the service. He says it was because of my "prejudice" against the Advocate and Brother McQuiddy, caused by the criticism of R. H. Boll. But are all "these attacks" from so many "different quarters" brought by brethren "prejudiced," against Prethren McQuiddy, because he criticized. " against Brother McQuiddy because he criticized There must be some other cause for "these at-"these "constant misrepresentations," and this avatacks," these lanche of criticism against Brother McQuiddy There is a cause. I venture Brother Smith himself has been one of these critics. Of course the collating of an article is allowable any time one might need to do it. But why was it needed in this case? Why does Brother McQuiddy, now that the war is over, need to make this effort to get himself right before the public on the war question?

He has been inclined to boast of his wisdom and pru dence, manifested in his war record. How does it happen that so many brethren from "so many different quarters" have so misunderstood him that they are now bringing "attacks" and making "constant misrepresentations" of him and his war record? If Brother McQuiddy did not "wobble;" if he were clear in his writings, unequivocal why was he misunderstood, and why the need of collating? Why didn't he reprint some of those clear, strong articles teaching it is wrong for Christians to take up arms? I ask again, what was the matter with the parts in those writings that Brother Lipscomb didn't use? Did they make his position doubtful? Were they put in to satisfy the government that he was "patriotic" and was "standing by the government?" As I said before, other men who occupied Brother McQuiddy's position, at least the position of "Daniel Quilp," would not have to scrap their writings through a period of four years to get one short article to make clear their position. They were understood during the war, and since the war their position is not questioned Why this difference between Brother McQuiddy and other brethren who indorse the "Daniel Quilp" article? Surely he was not as wise as he has been thinking he was. Since Brother McQuiddy had in the beginning of the war refused to publish a request for the names of all brethren who taught that Christians should not engage in carnal war; since he had also refused to publish a statement signed by E. G. Sewell, Srygley, F. W. Smith, A. B. Lipscomb, Boles, Karnes, and Elam of what brethren had taught on the subject; since he had refused to publish an article from Brother Elam that had not a word in it but naked quotations from God's word; and since he had published a strong article from the Literary Digest in favor of war, and in contrast, a weak article from a Quaker, claiming that the two were as strong as could be written from each viewpoint-since I knew these facts and others, and since I had roticed throughout the war his dubious course, I supposed he had done nothing to help conscientious boys to get noncombatant work. I am very glad to know that he did make some effort for such boys in the beginning of the war. I have no desire to take from Brother McQuiddy any merit, or credit, that is due him. I only wish there was more to his credit. If there were, maybe the brethren in "so many quarters" would not have misunderstood him, and he in turn would not have needed "Daniel Quilp, of Gainesboro, to help him out of trouble. I am glad Brother Mc-Quiddy wrote the article that caused him to be called before Mr. Douglas, the District Attorney. But that article, we must remember, was written before he was threatened with arrest.

But do you remember what Brother McQuiddy said about his critics, about their "loud," "indiscriminate" and "un-wise antiwar talk at the beginning?" Did you read in our issue of August 19, 1920, where he said that they suddenly hushed their "antiwar" talk and were in meek and con-stant subjection to "the powers that he" when the government warned them with its yawning prisons ready to receive all violators of the espionage act? Was it Mr. Douglas' warning and the "yawning prisons" ready to receive Brother McQuiddy that caused him to hush up his antiwar talk and to shut up Elam also? If he "suddenly hushed up" because of Mr. Douglas' "yawning prisons, why does he find fault with his critics for doing, as he says, the same thing, and rather in a taunting spirit refer According to Mr. Douglas' testimony. Brother Mc-Quiddy's own witness in the case, Brother McQuiddy made a change. "From that time on," Mr. Douglas says, Broth-McQuiddy was satisfactory to the federal authority; that he came to respect him as a man for his sincere religious convictions and his "fine patriotism;" that so far as he could observe in the Advocate, and in his conversations with Brother McQuiddy, he found McQuiddy true to his convictions as a loyal Christian.

McQuiddy himself says: "My course differed from that of my critics in that I adopted with them the same sensible negative line of procedure so far as indiscriminate preaching against war was concerned, but I dld all on the positive side that I could conscientiously do to stand by the government." Verily, here is the difference, and this difference is the cause of Brother McQuiddy's being attacked by breth-ren in various "quarters." "From that time on" Douglas saw McQuiddy's "fine patriotism" and observed him to be a "patriotic citizen." "From that time on" he straddled " patriotic citizen."

Here is Brother McQuiddy's mistake. He beca "patriotic citizen," showed his "fine patriotism," claims that he stood as he always stood and as the Advocate stood. Pressed out of measures he drafts "Daniel Quilp" and through Brother Lipscomb collates an article to show that he agrees with the rest of us. But Brother Lipscomb goes back to Brother McQuiddy's writings before this country was in war with Germany to get forty-eight lines out of the one hundred and sixteen lines composing From an article in the Advocate of May 17, 1917, that article. Brother Lipscomb takes forty-three other lines. It is believed this article was the article on account of which Mr. Douglas called Brother McQuiddy before him. If this be true, this leaves but twenty-flye lines of "Daniel Quilp's" article written by Brother McQuiddy after his visit to the attorney's office. Anyhow, all the "Daniel Quilp" article save twenty-five lines was written early in the war, within forty days after war was declared.

These twenty-five were taken from an article which appeared in the Advocate on July 26, 1917. Exactly following those twenty-five lines used by Brother Lipscomb are the following words: "Again, it should be apparent that those who take part in making the laws are logically bound to maintain and uphold those laws. The man who holds office, who votes, and who is an active member of the political government, when his nation is involved in war, is logically called upon to shoot, if necessary, in order to maintain the principles of his government. Men who have been voting and running for office and who have been active in war should not now plead exemption from military service, unless they are really converted and have decided not to vote and not to take any part in politics. For men who have always been active in politics to plead conscientious convictions against fighting is very inconsistent and makes a very bad impression upon those who are called upon to defend the country." How would these lines jingle with "Daniel Quilp's" article? I suspect ninety per cent of all the Christians in America regularly vote. In this article, therefore, Brother McQuiddy encouraged ninety per cent of the Christians in this country to go to war with their guns. It is true that men who vote obligate themselves to go to war, if the country needs them. But thousands of Christians, faithful to the Lord, have not seen this truth, or It is much easier to show men that it is wrong to go to war than it is to show them that voting obligates to Even Alexander Campbell saw the former, but falled to accept the latter. What about a man who sees he should not kill in war, but has been voting all his life? Shall he respect his conscience and apply for exemption? Is he inconsistent with right? Should a man respect his conscience as for as his light goes? God says, to him that thinketh a thing to be wrong, to him it is wrong. I should like very much to see brethren in Christ consistent and logical, and I am teaching them on the subject of voting as I have opportunity; but I rejoice that they do see, thousands of them, that war is not only unchristian, but stoutly antichristian. I rejoice that they are not waiting to be "consistent" and "logical," but are ready to go to prison for their convictions that Christians cannot go to war. As I have said, the very article from which Brother Lipscomb took the twenty-five lines of the "Daniel Quilp" article encouraged every Christian in this country that had been voting and did not see he ought to quit, to "shoot" in war in defense of the government. It dis-couraged him from asking for exemption. Had Brother couraged him from asking for exemption. Smith ever read this encouragement to voting Christians to "shoot" in war? The same article closed with quotations from other papers that held the "conscientious objector" up for contemptuous gaze. These quotations are a true likeness to that ugly, vile, and antichristian talk that filled the country, and that created an indescribable hatred and bitterness against an advanced guard of the Lord's army, against those men in this country that dared to tell the geniuses of war that they owed obedience to the Lord Jesus Christ first, and, therefore, could not fight. It was this kind of teaching that prepared men. boys, and even women, in all parts of a "Christian country" to sneer at, kick, paint yellow, and imprison as brave hearts as ever met an army. It was this kind of teaching that brought upon President Wilson some most unjust criticism and that stigmatized Secretary Baker as "C. O. Baker." Near the time that Brother McQuiddy was preparing this article for publication, twelve or more of Brother McQuiddy's own brethren were sentenced for twenty years' imprisonment because their consciences could do no military service, and when the readers saw the article these brethren were sleeping in prison cells. At the close of the war, when the expert examining board of the Federal government put these men to the best tests known to the government, all these men were adjudged genuine. While the article was being prepared, other boys were meeting boards, pleading with military giants, and suffering all kinds of prosecution in all parts of this country, fighting for their consciences. Yet Brother McQuiddy prepared an article and published it to many thousands of readers that could only increase the already inflamed passions of bitterness against every man in this country who dared to say he had religious convictions against going to war. It was in articles like this, even articles in which Brother McQuiddy discouraged every Christian voter from asking for exemption, but encouraged him to get in the trenches with his gun and to "shoot" in defense of his country, that Attorney Douglas saw his "fine patriotism" and observed that he was a "patriotic citizen." It is from this article that shames every Christian voter in this country that would ask for exemption from fighting, and that encourages him to "shoet" for his country, that Brother Lipscomb takes his final lines with which to finish 'Daniel Quilp's" article.

Mind you, that very article puts Brother McQuiddy himself (and F. W. Smith, too) into the trenches. voted along through these years: and, I think, he has never had any scruples against it. Am I right, Brother McQuiddy?

No wonder a storm of criticism has come; no wonder he has been assailed from "many quarters." There is a real

I regret Brother McQuiddy's predicament before the brotherhood. I have no desire to convict him or to press the matter further. But there is but one way for him to get right with the brethren, and that lies in frankness. he has been voting himself and purposes to continue to do so, and believes that he and all such Christians should be ready to go to war with their guns at their country's call, let him say so. I am ready, in brotherly love, to bear with brethren who have not seen the truth that it is wrong for Christians to go to war, while we labor to teach them. They are our brethren, though in serious and hurtful error. I said in my other article that Brother McQuiddy has been in a hard place. I believe he in his own convictions has never accepted the antiwar position for Christians, but he knew the Advocate had so taught and that the two, men who had given their lives to build up the Advocate had so led the readers to believe-many of them. So he tried to keep in line with the life long policy of the paper, while all the time his own convictions were contrary. I think he has been voting through these years, when he has had sufficient interest. But he knows the meaning of a vote, that it obligates one to "shoot" for the government when it is needed, and that to be "consistent" and logical one who votes should not ask for exemption from fighting, but should go with his gun at the call of his country. He was not wise enough to play the part. Hence his trouble and his "Quilp trick."

I hope if Brother Smith replies to this he will give my article to his readers. Remember, I gave all Brother Mc-Quiddy said when I criticized him, and I am now giving all Brother Smith said in criticism of me. I hope he knows how to be fair .- J. N. Armstrong, in the Gospel Herald.

News Items From Okitsu, Japan.

BY SARAH ANDREWS.

Brother Sato, our oldest member, being near seventy, made a splendid talk at the worship last Sunday on John 12: 32: "I, if I be lifted up from the earth, will draw all men unto me." Brother Sato is indeed a man of God. His talks are always inspiring, as is his life. He is quite feeble, but seldom misses the services on Lord's day, and says he prays morning and evening for the work.

Brother Takeyama, who expected to leave Japan the first of next year to spend three years in America, part of which time he expected to study in David Lipscomb College, has been detained on account of the decline in his father's health. He says he still hopes to go, the Lord willing, as soon as circumstances will permit. He also finds it difficult just at the present to obtain a passport.

The work among the children continues interesting. There are one hundred and fifty children under our influence, including those of the Sunday school, kindergarten, and Bible class on Monday evenings. We can but hold fond hopes of a strong congregation here within the next few years. Prospects for the work at large are great, if facilities can be bettered. We are having vacation from kindergarten to-day and to-morrow, because the town has asked for the building to prepare for a Buddhist festival. We could do nothing but submit, since it is town property. It is not pleasant to use public property in a heathen land, but temporarily there seems to be no alternative. A building for the work, where we can live upstairs, and the Sunday school, kindergarten, proposed night school, Bible classes, and all church meetings be held downstairs, seems Imperative to the future success of the work already begun

Brother Aoki, the former naval officer who was baptized in July, and who has since gone to Osaka to teach, was with us on Lord's day, October 10. He is very anxious for a church of Christ to be established in Osaka, but feels himself too much a babe in Christ to undertake the work alone. He wants a wide-awake missionary to coöperate with him. Brother Aoki is a tactful, untiring worker, and it will be regrettable if a work cannot be established in Osaka, the second largest city in Japan, while he is there. The question is, will some one go to help? Brother Aoki expects to come back to Okitsu after a year and a half to help in the work here. He is especially enthusiastic over the prospects of a night school, and believes many young people will become Christians.

Murata San, the very earnest young Christian who worked such long hours in a wooden sandal factory here, has gone to Tokyo as an apprentice. His father would not allow him to come to worship on Lord's day, and hence the change to Tokyo. He has for sometime been persecuted rather severely on account of his faith and earnestness. His father attempted to burn the Bible I gave him when he was baptized, but he found it and took it with him. His father can neither read nor write. Murata San wishes to become a self-supporting worker for Christ.

A tortoise measuring more than five feet in circumference was caught in a net here a few days ago. A man paid quite a sum for its release, having a superstitious belief that he himself by this act would see good days. If every Christian without the selfish motive would pay the price of loving service and even sacrifice in order to carry out the commission, how many of earth's millions now caught in the net of sin and darkness could be brought into the glorious light and liberty of the children of God!

The Lord willing, I plan to spend next year in the homeland with the hopes that I may gain strength and a more thorough knowledge of God's word, that I may do more efficient work for the Master on returning to Japan. I have passage on the Steamship Columbia, sailing on January 7. This means that I will reach my home in Avon Park, Fla., about the same time in February, if all goes well. I am sorry to leave the work here, but believe the Japanese Christians can carry it forward temporarily. I hope to come back as soon as expedient. I can think of no better plan than to leave Oiki San and her mother here in charge of this Japanese house, where the Sunday meetings, etc., will be held as heretofore. The work among the children will continue to be carried on in the public hall. The expense of the work during my absence will be about forty dollars per month. There will be the house rent, Oiki San's expenses, the literature, and several small items. Beginning with January, if it is your desire to assist in meeting the above expenses, or if you prefer contributing toward the proposed building for the work, both of which are important, please send to my address, Avon Park, Fla., or to I. B. Bradley, Avon Park, Fla.

The School of Christ.

BY FRANK L. COX.

Life is a great school. Every person is a student. We are continually learning from birth until death. We learn through what we experience and by what others tell us. Many lessons we learn to our sorrow, others to our joy.

God has built three great schools for man—namely: (1) The patriarchial, or we shall call it the primary school; (2) the Jewish, or the grammar school; (3) and the church of Christ, or let us call it the high school.

(1) The Primary School. In this Abraham was the chief instructor. Its purposes was to prepare men for the law of Moses, or the grammar school; and when this purpose was fulfilled, this school passed into the background, and the next school in order was inaugurated at Mount Sinai.

(2) The Grammar School. Moses, by heavenly direction, was the teacher. Its purpose was to prepare people for the high school, or church of Christ. (Gal. 3: 24.) When this purpose was accomplished, the law of Moses passed away (Col. 2: 14), and the next shool in order was ushered in at Mount Zion (Isa. 2: 2, 3).

(3) The High School. God was its architect. The plan of this school long existed in his matchless mind. In the fullness of time and expectancy, Christ, coming with the design and clothed with full authority, hewed out the timber, placed it on the ground, and, after his departure from earth, set it in order. The house is the church of God. (1 Tim. 3: 15.) But for it to be a school, there must of necessity be a teacher. Christ, through the Spirit, is the teacher. (John 16: 13.) The apostles are the media through which he teaches. But there must be a textbook. The Bible is that great textbook, whose truths may with safety be relied upon for all time to come. Now the purpose of this school is to prepare men for heaven. This is the only institution upon earth that proposes to effect such a purpose. We do not expect this purpose to be accomplised until the end of the world, and at that time this school will give way to something grander.

Some of the things taught in this school are as follows: (1) Arithmetic. Here is addition: "Add to your faith virtue; and to virtue knowledge; and to knowledge temperance; and to temperance patience; and to patience godliness; and to godliness brotherly kindness; and to brotherly kindness love." Here is subtraction: Put off all these; anger, wrath, malice, blasphemy, filthy communication out of your mouth." And here is division: "Study to show thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth." (2) Language. We are taught to make the proper use of our tongues. Many Christians need a great deal of drilling in the use of words. "A word fitly spoken is like apples of gold in pictures of silver." "If any man speak, let him speak as the oracles of God." (3) Astronomy. heavens deciare the glory of God, and the firmament showeth his handiwork." The heavenly host tell us that God exists, and that he is a Being of infinite wisdom, power, and benevolence. (4) Geography. Christ talked about a kingdom. He tells us that the first thing we are to do in life is to get the map and find ft. "Seek ye first the kingdom of God." But what is the kingdom of God? "The kingdom of God is not meat and drink; but righteousness, and peace, and joy in the Holy Ghost."

After the schoolboy finishes his course, he faces an examination; and when the disciple of Christ completes his earthly course, there is an examination for him also. "It is appointed unto men once to die, but after this the judgment."

If the schoolboy passes his examination, he is permitted to enter a higher grade. This fills and thrills his heart with joy. And if the disciples of Christ stand the test in the day of judgment, our Master will promote us. "Come, ye blessed of my Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world." The amount of joy these words will bring to the faithful disciple of Christ, not one on earth is yet able to understand. But as it was spoken by the prophet concerning the gospel age, even so it may be said of the future world: "Eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of men, the things which God has prepared for them that love him."

You do not feel in the spirit of prayer; you have no spiritual uplift; you are simply indifferent. Give that unhappy mood no heed. You know very well what you ought to do. You ought to present yourself before God; you ought to offer your prayers. Do that and the devout attitude, the bended knees, the folded hands, the quiet and the silence, the lips busied with holy words, will induce the consciousness of the divine presence and help you to pray in spirit and in truth, which becomes acceptable to God, which we should always strive for—to be acceptable in any things to Him.—Selected.

LOS ANGELES NOTES

By S. H. HALL, 2669 North Sichel Street,

House of worship, corner Altura and North Sichel Streets. Take North Broadway car to Sichel, then one block to left,

Another Good Letter.

If the readers will pardon me for letting appear the few flowers it contains for me, I will let the following letter from Brother J. A. Perdue, of Athens. Ga., written on November 16, appear in full, for the sake of reëmphasizing what he says should be emphasized more, and that our readers may see what he has to say of Brother Goodpasture's work in Atlanta:

Brother Hall: Your work in Atlanta, and in other parts of this State, was remarkably successful; but Los Angeles, where the interests are more varied and intricate, I am sure, affords you a wider field, and I am gratified to note how splendidly you are measuring up to these larger opportunities. With faith and earnestness you have entered into this difficult situation, and your disposition to be eternally at it, coupled with your unbounded enthusiasm, will certainly intensify the zeal of the brothren there; and if they do not grow "weary in well-doing," I shall confidently expect your work to grow like the proverbial "green bay tree." "Go to it;" you are "a workman that needeth not to be ashamed." Do, but do not overdo. Work, but do not overwork. Preach, but remember, there is a limit to human endurance. "Begin low, go slow, rise higher, catch fire, and sit down in a storm." May the Lord use you abundantly to accomplish great things in California.

You never said truer words, nor words that need more emphasis, than the following, taken from your Notes in the Gospel Advoate of October 21: "Second, without saying one word to encourage the idea of joining some human institution in order to get through the world, let me, in all frankness and seriousness, say that if all congregations were like some I have seen, you would have to join something to get along in the world; for some congregations make no effort whatever to keep up with their members, nor any effort to make it easy for newcomers to find them."

Do not worry about the Atlanta work. It is in good and capable hands. I have had the pleasure of only one visit to West End Avenue Church since Brother Goodpasture has been in Atlanta; but from what I then saw and heard, he is certainly "on the job." He faces forward, and his aim is for "bigger and better things."

I feel constrained to submit the following comments:

1. Again I must say, of all people under the sun, no people have a greater responsibility resting upon them than that resting upon us. The invulnerability of the plea we make stands unscathed by all the attacks of the centuries. That sectarianism, with all its contradictory doctrines, is wrong, is attested by the fact that the man has never yet lived that can defend it. That Christ established his church, and that it is the best that can be found, goes without controversy. That the doctrine and teaching of our Lord is beyond the possibility of being improved upon by man must be admitted. That to become identified with this blood-bought institution, and live whole-heartedly as its blood-sealed doctrine directs, is the best that man can possibly do for himself and makes him infallibly safe from every point of view, is axiomatic. These things cannot be doubted. David says, "The fool hath said in his heart, There is no God;" and only such could possibly call in question the statements above. He who takes a stand on these propositions is safe and can smile at every attack of the enemy and defy the combined powers of the evil one. All of this being true. I must say again, the logic of the situation demands the best there is in us, sacrifices that no other people make, and a joy that we curselves do not understand. Just such lives did the apostles and early Christians live. Who ever made more sacrifices than the apostles? Study their history carefully. Who ever worked more untiringly? Indeed, one of them could exclaim: "Wherefore watch ye, remembering that by the space of three years I ceased not to admonish every one night and day with tears." (Acts 20: 31.) When ever, in the history of the world, was a movement more talked of and better known than the church of our Lord in the days of the apostles? These men did things—not by getting away off in a back alley and meeting in an old rickety, dilapidated building, seemingly afraid to let people know they were in town, and killing time by sitting on a broken-down fence with their fingers in their mouths and whining through their nose: "We can't do anything. The doctrine is unpopular. The people just won't attend our services." Such a picture some of us have seen, but never was such seen in the days of the apostles.

Heads up, brethren! Let your faces be radiant with a smile of hope and undoubting confidence! We have the greatest message in the world. Do some of us really believe it? We say well; but is it not possible that we do not believe what we say? What we do shows what we believe; and the little that many of us do forces the conclusion that in us is but little faith. We have a message that lifts up, the greatest that can be had, and we should never be satisfied without advertising it, talking it, proclaiming it. Better look up that word "proclaim," for some of us have never learned it, in spite of the fact that it is in the commission about which we have so much to say. Strike at the very heart of every town, city, and country. Get there as quick as you can. Let the people know of that institution that is to last through the ceaseless ages, and in which God blesses us beyond our thoughts. Have you read it? Well, turn now to Eph. 3: 20, 21, and read it thoughtfully.

2. It is so good to know that Goodpasture is "on the job," "faces forward," and his aim is for "bigger and better things." I pray that the Lord may bless him and increase his strength continually. No sadder news could possibly come than that West End Avenue is slipping back. I have never expected her to do so. Those people have tasted and know that Jehovah is good.

3. I can truthfully say, Brother Perdue, that I began here in "low," am going "slow," am determined to "rise higher," with the hope that what is meant by "catch fire and sit down in a storm" may be fully realized before my work shall end. I thank you, my good brother, for this good letter and the kind admonition. And whether you have helped others or not, I want you to know you have helped me; and when I appear at the gates of pearl, I shall expect to meet you there, with others you have helped and that I have tried to help. How good is the thought of our meeting there some day! The Lord bless you!

PELOUBET'S NOTES FOR 1921 NOW READY.

"Peloubet's Notes" has been issued for forty-seven years with ever-increasing popularity and usefulness, which fact alone is a wonderful argument for its value and helpfulness. It is rich in material, comprehensive in its scope, and practical in its treatment. Every superintendent, teacher, and scholar will find in it his own personal requirements. The editor of The Outlook says: "We give first place to Peloubet's." Marion Lawrance, the noted Sunday-school worker, writes: "How this standard commentary has been able to maintain itself during all these years, growing annually stronger and richer, is a marvel to the Sunday-school world. Personally, I do not see how any Sunday-school teacher can hope to do his best without the rich, full helps found in these 'Notes.'"

Send for your copy to-day. Price, $2.10, postpaid. Address the McQuiddy Printing Company, Nashville, Tenn.

GOSPEL ADVOCATE

Conducted for a half century by D. Lipscomb and E. G. Sewell.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

$2.50 a year, in advance; to Canada and foreign countries, $8.00, in

$2.50 a year, in advance; to Canada and foreign countries, $3.06, in advance.

Remittances will be at our risk when sent by express or post-office money order, in registered letter, or by draft payable to our erder.

The date on your tab shows the time to which your subscription is paid. When money in received, the date will be changed, which will answer for a receipt. Twe weeks time must ordinarily occur from the time your remittance is sent before the tab on your paper is changed; if not changed by that time, notify us at once.

This paper is mailed regularly to all subscribers until definite orders in writing are received and all arrearages paid in full. If you wish us to step your paper, write us to that effect; but do not ask it unless you have paid all arrears, if there are any. Do not ask your postmaster to attend to it for you, but do it your old as well as your new address; otherwise twe papers might be charged to you. Subscribers, after paying for their papers, will favor us by noting whether the date on the address label is changed, and, if it is not changed within a month, by writing to us. We are careful, but mistakes may occur or letters may be lost. Our rule is to change the date on the day payment is received; but the mechanical work of correcting and printing the list takes time, and payments even from near-by places may not appear the first week. Credits for payments from a distance may be even more delayed. Mistakes are easily rectified if prompt notice is given.

All communications should be addressed to Gospol Advocate, 217-115 Fifth Avanue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

Entered at post office at Nashville, Tenn., as second-class matter, Published weekly at Nashville, Tenn.

EDITORIAL

That "Group of Questions."

BY M. C. K.

In our issue of November 11, 1920, Brother John T. Lewis submitted a list of questions which, though making specific and numerous quotations from my articles the basis of them, nevertheless addressed them to Brother McQuiddy. The latter first made them the occasion of an excellent and Instructive editorial on "The New Testament Church;" but, with the courtesy due between Christians and with no reason apparent for ignoring it in this case, he very properly declined to answer them himself and turned them over to me for reply. It is truly gratifying to note how the series of articles on "Bible Things by Bible Names" has, in the main, been received by the reading public. A well-informed Texas preacher has just written me: "Your 'Bible Things by Bible Names' have interested They are timely and I feel sure will receive the thoughtful consideration they so richly deserve wherever there are hearts that really seek truth and would rather be right than popular. That you have received but three letters of criticism is rather remarkable considering the sectarianism existing among 'us' as a religious people. . . . Give lots more along this line."

But there have been three exceptions, and it is only on the hypothesis that possibly, in view of "the sectarianism existing among 'us,'" others besides the present querist, who is one of the three, may have drawn some of his erroneous conclusions, that I consent to answer his list of questions publicly at all. I here reproduce and answer them in the order in which they have already been printed in the Gospel Advocate.

1. Did the "Paulites," "Cephasites," "Apollosites," and those "who were simply Christians" at Corinth constitute different denominations as Baptists, Presbyterians, Methodists, and the Christian Church folks of our day?

No. Neither do my articles say such a thing, nor anything from which it is a proper inference. My articles taught, in substance, that there were divisions among Christians then, and that there are divisions among Christians now. If I had been writing on the differences, instead of the one point of identity, between the state of things then and now, I could have pointed out many of them. For example, all in each of the divisions in Corinth were Christians and hence were in, and a part of, the body of Christ, because they had all done what God has appointed for that purpose; but all in the "different denominations" are not Christians and hence are not in, and a part of, the body of Christ, because they have not all done what God has appointed for that purpose. There are many more differences between the divisions in the two cases. I meant to teach that all Christians then, though divided into different parties, were, nevertheless, in, and a part of, the church of Christ, and that all Christians now, though divided into different parties, are, nevertheless, in, and a part of, the church of Christ; and that, therefore, if we would use Bible names as the Bible uses them, the term "church of Christ," or any other designation of God's church, must include all Christians in the territory to which it is applied; and on this point I now take pleasure in adding, if any reader of the Gospel Advocate will cite a single passage in the New Testament with any name or designation of God's church which did not include all Christians in the territory to which it was applied, I will promptly publish and magnify it in capital letters in these columns. Will some one cite the passage? Never mind, at present, about any other differences. As this point is vital and is called in question, we will now settle it before giving attention to any others, and I now respectfully call on any reader for such a passage.

2. If those factions in the church at Corinth had different places of worship, and each faction constituted "only a part of the church," to which part did that fornicator, of whom Paul speaks in 1 Cor. 5, belong?

There is no intimation in the New Testament, known to me, and certainly none in my articles, that "those factions in the church at Corinth had different places of worship." The "fornicator of whom Paul spoke in 1 Cor. 5," was in one of them, for Paul says he was "among" the members of the church there, but neither he nor any other New Testament writer says "to which part" he belonged, and therefore I cannot say.

3. In 1 Cor. 14: 23 Paul says: "If therefore the whole church be assembled together," etc. Does this mean that the "Paulites," "Cephasites," "Apollosites," and those "who were simply Christians" had union meetings, such as the denominations have to-day?

4. In 1 Cor. 11: 18 Paul says: "First of all, when ye come together in the church I hear that divisions exist among you; and I partly believe it." Does this not show that the "Paulites," "Cephasites," "Apollosites," and those "who were simply Christians," met together and were "the church of God which is at Corinth?"

5. Does not 1 Cor. 1: 12-15 show that all the "Paulites," "Cephasites," "Apollosites," and those "who were simply Christians," at Corinth, had been baptized into the name of Christ?

6. Is there any such expression in the New Testament as a "denominational congregation?

7. If not, what are we doing when we use it?

That depends on how "we use it" and to what we apply it. If we call a congregation, which is no part of a denomination, a "denominational congregation," we speak an untruth, and it is contrary to the Scriptures to thus speak; but if we call a congregation, which is a part of a denomination, a "denominational congregation," we are neither 'adding to what the Bible says" nor "taking from what the Bible says," but are telling the truth, and this is "speaking as the Bible speaks" on all matters.

8. Is the expression "a church of God," "a church of Christ," used anywhere in the Bible?

Yes, the exact thought is there by necessary implication. Paul says: "The churches of Christ salute you." (Rom. 16: 16.) This referred to churches at different places, as the church at Corinth, the church at Philippi, the church at Thessalonica, etc.; and since these were "churches of Christ" at the different places, it necessarily implies that each one of them was "a church of Christ." "The church of Christ" at any one place now is "a church of Christ" when contemplated as one church among others, and hence it is scriptural to so speak of it.

9. Would it be just as scriptural to say "a Gospel," "a Gospel of God," "a Gospel of Christ," as it would be to say "a church," "a church of God," and "a church of Christ?"

Yes, if God and Christ had a multiplicity of Gospels at different places just as they have a multiplicity of churches at different places.

10. If we meet people who say they belong to "the Baptist Church," "the Methodist Church," "the Christian Church," and "the church of Christ," wouldn't common courtesy demand that we speak of them as such?

No matter what "people" may "say they belong to," whether one of the churches named in the query or a Brahmin tribe, we should have sufficient "common courtesy" to accept it as the truth, unless we know to the contrary.

11. In "taking advantage of the advertising space offered in some of the city papers for announcement of religious services," would it be necessary for us to show our great Biblical knowledge by saying "the church of God," "the church of the Lord," "the church of the First Born," the church of the living God," "the house of God," "the saints," "the elect," "the faithful in Christ Jesus?"

The querist is badly confused here. He seems to want to ask whether it would be necessary to use all the foregoing designations in making our announcements, though he clearly does not ask this, but does ask whether it would "be necessary for us to show our great Biblical knowledge by" using them, and I would have to know the purpose to be served by such an exhibit of knowledge before I could tell whether it would "be necessary" or not.

12. If "the church of Christ" is precisely the same thing, and means all that is implied in all the above terms, would it be scriptural for us, in our announcements, to use the term "the church of Christ?"

Yes, entirely so, provided we do not adopt it and exclude all other scriptural designations of the church. In this case, the wrong would not be in using the term, "the church of Christ," but in excluding the other terms which the New Testament uses and which God put there to be used.

13. Do you not think that we should at least dignify our announcements by using one of the scriptural terms to designate our place of worship?

There are no "scriptural terms to designate our place of worship," but there are numerous "scriptural terms to designate" God's church no matter where may be its "place of worship;" and it is perfectly proper to "dignify our announcements by using" any "one of the scriptural terms to designate" it, but it is not proper to adopt any one of them and exclude all the rest from usage.

14. If we want to show that we are Biblical surgeons, capable of dissecting the Scriptures and detecting every term that is applied to Christ, will it be necessary for us to accuse those who speak of him as "Jesus Christ the Son of God" of trying to fasten one name or term to him to the exclusion of all other terms?

No, no, not unless they "speak of him as 'Jesus Christ the Son of God'" and reject "all other terms" that are applied to him in the Bible. Of course if they do not do this, it would be wrong "for us to accuse" them of it.

15. Would it be best for us in taking the confession to ask: "Do you believe that Jesus Christ is 'the root of Jesse,' 'the root and the offspring of David,' 'the bright, 'the morning star,' 'the Lion that is of the tribe of Judah,' the 'Prince of Peace,' 'the Son of God?'."

It would "be best for us in taking the confession" to conform to the usage given in the New Testament just as it would "be best for us" to conform to New Testament usage in applying names to the church. In fact, it would "be best for us" to follow the New Testament in all things wheresoever and in whatsoever it may lead us.

16. Do "the Evangelical Church," "the Episcopal Church," "the Lutheran Church," "the Congregational Church," "the Presbyterian Church" immerse?

Yes

17. What kind of circumlocution is it that makes them "a part of the church of God?"

No "kind of circumlocution" at all and nothing else can make them or any other denomination, as such, any "part of the church of God," but any "circumlocution" by which they lead men to do what God has appointed to put persons into, and make them a part of, his church, makes the latter "a part of the church of God." The New Testament teaches that when men comply with the conditions of membership in God's church, they are then in it and "a part of" it.

18. This "circumlocution" that we have to use to describe or designate "the church of Christ," if we would be understood, does it belong to the revealed or the unrevealed things?

All the "circumlocution" used in the New Testament "to describe or designate 'the church of Christ,'" or for any other purpose, like everything else in that volume, belongs to the things that are "revealed."

J. N. Armstrong's Effort at Proof.

BY F. W. SMITH.

Sometime during the month of August of this year Brother Armstrong came out in his paper, The Gospel Herald, in a very lengthy article attacking what he termed J. C. McQuiddy's "war record." Now, his long dissertation contained not one word of proof to sustain his charges, but, on the other hand, was made up of ridicule, insinuation, and a bold, unqualified threat of what he intended to do-viz .: "I will collate an article from his [McQuiddy's] writings which will be as strong for war as the 'Daniel Quilp' article is against war." I had my serious doubts regarding the ability of our brother to fulfill what he so confidently declared he would do, and forthwith called on him to make good his promise. Now, after not only weeks, but also months, with the assistance of another, he comes forward with the article appearing on page 1190 of this issue, entitled "J. C. McQuiddy's Course and F. W. Smith's Complaint."

Unfortunately for Brother Armstrong, he did not know how to use the ammunition he got from a brother well known to me, and the thing has proven a boomerang to the man who tried to shoot it. He complains that McQuiddy's writings against war were chiefly done before this country was in war with Germany, and that only twenty-five lines against war were written by McQuiddy during the war with Germany. Well, let us look at his complaint for a moment. Suppose every line that McQuiddy wrote against war had been written thirty years ago; would not Armstrong have to find where McQuiddy has reversed himself and written in favor of war in order to make out his case? Again, suppose McQuiddy had written only one line against war during the war, and Armstrong fails to find one line that McQuiddy wrote in favor of war; will he not be found a "false accuser" of his brother? Once more, suppose Mc-Quiddy had never written a line against war in all his life; would that fact furnish Armstrong the proof he so badly needs, unless he can find where McQuiddy wrote something in favor of war? But our brother says the twenty-five lines written against war are immediately followed by an advocacy of war from the pen of McQuiddy, and after submitting what he regarded grounds for conviction triumphantly asks: "How would these lines jingle with 'Daniel Quilp's' article?" We will place the twenty-five lines written "during the war" beside our brother's proof and let the reader see how things jingle:

CONSCIENTIOUS OBJECTORS.

That some people are conscientiously opposed to war will The scriptures that teach us not to fight not be doubted. are as forceful against fighting a war of defense as fighting a war of offense. As Christians, we must rely on God for protection and not man, as "no man can serve two mas-The Christian is to serve Christ rather than men. As Christ teaches his people not to resist evil, in no case can he fight, but must put his trust in Christ for protection, appreciating the promise that Christ has assured him: "I will be with you always, even to the end of the world." The man who would fight against a foreigner invading our country is not conscientiously opposed to fight-It goes without saying that a man may love his country, may be patriotic and ready to uphold the laws of his country in so far as he can conscientiously do so, without violation of any law of God. It is also clearly evident that the truly conscientious man is ready to help in any way that he can to alleviate the terrible sufferings brought on the people by heartless and cruel war. He is ready to give his time, to give of his means, and to use his energies in helping to relieve the suffering. As he is in no way responsible for the war, he is ready to do all within his power to help feed the millions of people who are threatened with starvation on account of the war, and also to relieve the suffering of those wounded in the war.

Again, it should be apparent that those who take part in making the laws are logically bound to maintain and up-hold those laws. The man who holds office, who votes, and who is an active member of the political government, when his nation is involved in war, is logically called upon to shoot, if necessary, in order to maintain the principles of his government. Men who have been voting and running for office and who have been active in politics should not now plead for exemption from military service unless they are really converted and have decided to cease to vote and to take any part in politics. For men who have always been active in politics to plead conscientious convictions against fighting is very inconsistent and makes a very bad im-pression upon those who are called upon to defend the country. David Lipscomb says: "The man who votes to put another in a place or position is in honor bound to maintain him in that position, and is responsible for all the actions, courses, or results that logically and necessarily flow from the occupancy and maintenance of that position. A man who votes to bring about a war, or that votes for that which logically and necessarily brings about war, is responsible for that war and for all the necessary and usual attendants and results of war.

Does any fair-minded person believe for one moment that J. C. McQuiddy or any other sensible man, woman, or child, after having written so clearly and emphatically against war as he did in those twenty-five lines, would, in the very next breath, advocate war, as Brother Armstrong claims he has? Let me state here that the brother who furnished Brother Armstrong the very material he uses says: "I never thought nor said McQuiddy advocated or favored war, but he advocated Christians' going to war." The reader will be curious to understand how McQuiddy could favor or advocate Christians' going to war and not be in favor of war, unless he disclaimed to be a Christian. He should not, then, have placed in Armstrong's hands such an empty shell with which to shoot at McQuiddy. It is true that McQuiddy says, "Those who take part in making laws are logically bound to maintain and uphold those laws;" and it is equally as true that he qualifies that by saying, "The man who holds office, who votes, and is an active member of the political government," etc. Mc-Quiddy himself is not the man he here describes, has voted but few times in life, and only twice for President. But Brother Armstrong goes beyond McQuiddy, and thus shows that he did not know how to use the material put in his hand by another. McQuiddy only says such men as he described are logically bound to go to war, while Armstrong says all who vote are "obligated" to go to war. He indulges in a wholesale indictment against "ninety !

per cent of all the Christians in America;" for, says he, "I suspect ninety per cent of all the Christians in America regularly vote." The logic of a man's teaching or practice may bind him to a thing which he repudiates in his very soul, and to which he cannot justly be held; but if he "obligates" himself to do a thing, he can and should be held to it. As for myself, I do not believe the position held by either McQuiddy or Armstrong, unless the issue is war or no war, and the man votes for war. But I am at a loss to know how all those Christians who "obligate" themselves to go to war because they vote are "faithful to the Lord," as Brother Armstrong declares they are, and J. C. McQuiddy is so "unfaithful" to the Lord because he says men who vote, hold office, and are actively engaged in politics are logically bound to go to war. Can Brother Armstrong get a few brethren to help him out of this difficulty in which his bad logic has placed him? Now comes what may be called "capping the climax." If McQuiddy, by saying that those who vote, hold office, and are actively engaged in politics are "logically" bound to go to war, is encouraging war, then pray tell me what is Armstrong doing when he says "ninety per cent of all the Christians in America," by voting, "obligate themselves to go to war?" If one is encouraging war, what is the other doing? Our brother had better let this matter rest, for, with all the help he can gather, he makes his case worse.

There is but one other thing that demands notice—viz., our brother's reference to some articles the Advocate refused to publish—one, he says, with a number of names to it. This article was published in these columns. As to the other, regarding what brethren had taught on the subject of war, I am informed by the management that no such article was refused.

I advised Brother Elam to write the article, "Bible Readings on Peace," and did not agree with Brother McQuiddy in his refusal to publish it. I thought then, and think now, that he made a mistake in not publishing it; but in fairness to all concerned it is but just to submit the following.

Brother McQuiddy says soon after the "Bible Readings on Peace" had been rejected by him, he said to Brother Elam that he would be glad to publish the letter declining the publication of "Bible Readings on Peace" without comment. Brother Elam said: "No, let's not publish the letter, for its publication will do harm," Also in a conference Brother McQuiddy had with Elam, Smith, and Lipscomb, we understood Brother Elam to agree that the discussion of the war question should cease, for a time at least.

Under the title, "No Explanation Necessary," on the subject of the difference in regard to not publishing the discussion of the war and concerning his collation of scriptures on "Bible Readings on Peace," Brother Elam says: "After all, it is a matter of judgment, and not of the teaching of the New Testament, for no one dares deny the teaching of the gospel of peace."

In a letter under date of September 6, 1917, in which Brother McQuiddy declined to publish the "Bible Readings on Peace," he said: "We believe every scripture you have quoted, and, as such, we have no objection to its appearance in the Advocate at any time." He also said in the same letter: "In view of these well-known facts, you now force a new and different issue, whether, not in a matter of Biblical teaching or doctrine, but one of mere expediency or propriety, your judgment or that of the paper's management shall control."

This closes what I shall have to say on the subject; and if Brother Armstrong will let his readers see it, I will thank him. The public are tired of such matters being thrust upon them.

The man who is fighting sin is too busy to carry a chip on his shoulder.—Exchange, Must An Elder Be a Married Man? BY J. C. M'Q.

I am glad to publish an article by H. Leo Boles, entitled "Can an Unmarried Man Be a Scriptural Elder?" which appears on page 1188.

If I am mistaken, Brother Boles has used the wrong passage to prove it. The Bible nowhere says an elder must be a married man, and the expression that "a man must be the husband of one wife" is entirely different and means an entirely different thing. I have often known churches in employing a preacher to impose the condition that he "must be a married man," but I have never yet heard of a church that said he "must be the husband of one wife," for the very reason that preachers are not expected to be bigamists, polygamists, or have more than one wife at a time. If you were employing a preacher and it was imperative that he be a married man, would you say that he "must be the husband of one wife," or would you say that he "must be a married man?" I certainly think the Holy Spirit would express himself in the most direct way. Again, if preachers were guilty of having more than one wife or of having many wives at the same time, and the condition were to be imposed that he was to have but one wife, you would certainly say that he must be the husband of one wife. Of course this is as emphatic as that "he must be without reproach, not self-willed, not soon angry, no brawler, no striker," etc. This is just the case as it appears in the New Testament when Paul wrote to Timothy and Titus. The Greek which means "one" is defined as follows by Thayer: "(1) universally, (a) in opposition to many." This means that one is opposed to many rather than none.

Not a single commentator quoted by Brother Boles sustains his position. Adam Clarke comes more nearly doing so than any other; but he only says that an elder should be a married man, which is far from saying that he must be a married man. One carries only the idea of a moral obligation, while the other carries the idea of compulsion. The Holy Spirit very clearly says that the man must be the husband of one wife, which means that he must not be the husband of more than one wife, which is shown by the Greek as used by Thayer. The Holy Spirit taught just what he should teach, considering the fact that in that time polygamy was prevalent, divorces easy, and that some men had many wives. Doubtless men obeyed the gospel who had a plurality of wives. We have no evidence that these were required to put away their wives, but such were not permitted to be elders in the church. Most of the commentaries that I have examined support this position.

Matthew Henry, in his "Commentary," says on this passage; "Not that ministers must be married; this is not meant; but the husband of one wife may be either not having divorced his wife and married another (as was too common among those of the circumcision, even for slight causes) or the husband of one wife-that is, at one and the same time, no bigamist; not that he might not be married to more than one wife successively, but, being married, he must have but one wife at once, not two or more according to the too common, sinful practice of those times, by a perverse imitation of the patriarchs, from which evil custom our Lord brought a reformation. Polygamy is scandalous in any, as also having a harlot or concubine with his lawful wife: such sin, or any wanton libidinous demeanor, must be very remote from such as would enter into so sacred a function." As the patriarchs practiced polygamy and as it was prevalent among the Jews and in Rome, it is very probable that the early churches did not at first expel the polygamists from the church. When they found such people in the church, they bore with them and tolerated the practice for a time until they could finally lead them out of their sin. God has never approved and indorsed polygamy. He permitted it on account of the hardness of their hearts. The same is true of war and slavery.

Macknight says of this verse: "The apostle's meaning, therefore, in these canons is, that such persons only are to be intrusted with sacred offices, who in their married state have contented themselves with one wife, and with one husband, at a time; because thereby they have showed themselves temperate in the use of sensual pleasures. As the Asiatic nations universally practiced polygamy, from an immoderate love of the pleasures of the flesh, the apostle, to bring mankind back to use marriage according to the primitive institution, which enjoined one man to be united to one woman only, at a time, ordered by inspiration that none should be made bishops but those who, by avoiding polygamy, had showed themselves temperate in the use of sensual pleasures."

Conybeare & Howson thus give the meaning of this passage: "The true interpretation seems to us to be as follows: In the corrupt facility of divorce allowed both by the Greek and Roman law, it was very common for man and wife to separate, and marry other parties, during the life Thus a man might have three or four of one another. living wives, or, rather, women who had all successively been his wives. An example of the operation of a similar code is unhappily to be found in our own colony, Mauritius: there the French Revolutionary law of divorce has been suffered by the English government to remain unrepealed; and it is not uncommon to meet in society three or four women who have all been the wives of the same man, and three or four men who have all been the husbands of the same woman. We believe it is this kind of successive polygamy, rather than simultaneous polygamy, which is here spoken of."

Ellicott thus gives the meaning of this passage after holding that polygamy was prevalent and after stating that women reckoned their years by their husbands rather than by the consuls, and after impressing the thought that the Christ was requiring chastity and purity in his followers: "This direction, which requires that those to be selected to fill holy offices should be known for their purity in their family relations, of course does not exclude—should any such offer themselves—those men who, while contracting no marriage ties, still were known to lead upright moral lives."

Jamieson, Fausset & Brown, as quoted by our brother, support the position I have taken when they say: "It is implied here also that he who has a wife and virtues is to be preferred to a bachelor." This certainly implies that a bachelor may be an elder, while insisting that a married man is preferable.

Brother Boles also admits that it is not absolutely necessary for an elder to be a married man when he says: "I do not say that his wife must be living at the time that he is selected, but the Scriptures do clearly teach that he must be a father and not a polygamist." I am satisfied that the Bible nowhere demands that a man must be married in order to be an elder or to perform the duties resting on him as such. Paul could be an apostle and not be a married man. Certainly the apostleship is as important as the eldership. Furthermore, if it be necessary for a man to be a married man in order to be an elder or a bishop, then it is also necessary for him to be the father of children, and children who are faithful and obedient. Oftentimes a man who has the qualifications for taking the oversight and of being a good executive may be childless through no fault of his own. Does God deny him the privilege of exercising his God-given gifts simply because he is the victim of circumstances? I cannot believe it. If a virtuous celibacy is inconsistent with the duties of the eldership, why should Paul advise men to abide in cellbacy? That the office of an elder is a good work cannot be doubted; and if one must be married in order to engage in this good work, Paul certainly would have advised all such to marry. Brethren who believe in "speaking as it were the oracles of God" should not pervert "must be the husband of one wife" into the language that "an elder must be a married man," for the two are as far apart as truth and error.

A Good Suggestion.

[1 am glad to publish the following letter from John W. Fry, treasurer and vice president of the Tennessee Orphans' Home. The suggestion is a good one. I think every writer should stand for principle and conviction, but should keep his personal feelings and animosities out of what he writes. When a man is out of humor, he should not write at all. When one ceases to think kindly of the one he is criticizing, it would be better for him not to write. Every one should be accorded sincerity of conviction and purpose, and no one should seek to control the conscience of another. I carnestly request all of our contributing editors and contributors, while standing firm for the truth, not to deal in personalities and not to accuse another of unfairness and misrepresentation. Simply state the facts and let them stand for themselves.—Eptroa.]

Columbia, Tenn., November 27, 1920.-Mr. J. C. McQuiddy, Editor Gospel Advocate: It occurs to me, a reader of the Gospel Advocate, that the brethren, in discussing subjects, should refrain from accusing each other of unfairness and misrepresentation. Discussions would be more profitable if left to the readers to discover who was fair in his contentions, by comparing with the teachings of Christ and the apostles. We should all realize that man is fallible, and should be taught to accept no teaching on any subject until after comparing and found in be in harmony with the Scriptures. I cannot now recall that William J. Bryan ever indelged in accusing those differing with him of misrepresenting him. He simply restated his propositions and let the people judge. In the case of politics, the people have the principles of democracy as a standard; but Christians have the teachings of Christ and the aposties, an infallible standard, and should be urged to rely, not on man's teachings, but on what God says. The language of the Bible is simpler than that of our newspapers. Outside of proper names, there are no big words in the Bible.

Fraternally, John W. Fry.

We Solicit Your Co-Operation.

Now is the time of year to extend the circulation of religious newspapers. It is a fact that people are not reading religious papers as they did formerly. It is next to impossible for a publisher to publish a religious journal without a heavy loss. Paper and labor have both been so exceedingly high and it costs so much to produce a religious paper that, without the hearty cooperation and support of its constituents, the publisher must suffer a great loss. We are not complaining, and feel that the Gospel Advocate has fared better than most religious journals. However, we carnestly request just now the hearty cooperation of every reader of this paper in extending its circulation. An active worker in every congregation could easily double and thribble the circulation of the paper in that congregation. A number of brethren have promised to make an active canvass to secure subscribers. We should be glad to correspond with a wide-awake young preacher who can devote his whole time to traveling among the churches and securing subscribers to the Gospel Advocate and also to selling good books. We are receiving a number of new subscribers daily, but not so many as we can handle. We have room for more.

The Light of the Gospel. BY C. V. EVANS.

The pathway to heaven is brighter than day; The gospel of Jesus is light all the way. How brightly it shineth, O beautiful glow! It beckoneth onward and upward to go.

Then following Jesus, this beautiful light Will becken us onward and guide us aright; And in its rich glory will shine all the way. And make all the pathway far brighter than day.

How sweet then to follow the footsteps, so fair, Of Jesus to mansions he's gone to prepare For pilgrims who faithfully follow him on, And stray not away from the path he has gone!

Now may we be careful to keep in the light And follow the footsteps of Jesus aright Until we have finished life's journey, and then The portals of heaven will welcome us in.

The Narrow and the Broad Way.

BY H. C. PLEMING.

It is extremely hard to travel even a broad way in total darkness, but much more so a narrow way. Some light is necessary to keep in any kind of road; the more light, the easier to follow the road. All roads lead to some place.

The Israelites had the cloud by day and the pillar of fire by night to guide them in their journey through the wilderness. In the road to eternal rest we have the light of God's word to guide us in the narrow way, therefore the great importance of walking in that light, lest we stumble and fall into the broad way that leads to destruction.

"Narrow is the way which leadeth unto life;" but it is plain and easy to follow, if we keep in view the guiding light.

"The wayfaring men, though fools, shall not err therein." But the trouble is, we do not look carefully enough for the way, nor try hard enough to stay in it after we have found it. Some seem to be on and off this way because they forget the danger signals. They become double-minded, and are thus unstable in all their ways." The fault is not in the way nor in the light thereof, but in the carelessness of those trying to follow it in forgetting the authority and power that directs their steps along the journey to the heavenly home. Turning to some deception by the cunning craftiness of the enemy of all righteousness, they are led little by little away from the narrow way into the broad way of sin and everlasting shame and disgrace. Therefore, how important to watch every sign and signal given by Him who made the way and traveled over it himself!

"By much slothfulness the building decayeth; and through idleness of the hands the house droppeth through." (Eccles. 10: 18.)

The cry is often heard: "This way; here is pleasure and enjoyment; taste a little of the sweets of life. No need of always denying yourselves of them; for old age will soon come, when you will have no relish for them," "But know thou, that for all these things God will bring thee unto judgment." (Eccles, 11: 9.)

"There is therefore now no condemnation to them which are in Christ Jesus, who walk not after the flesh, but after the Spirit." (Rom. 8: 1.) We must walk after the Spirit if we are ever permitted to enter into the heavenly mansions which Christ has gone to prepare. (See Gal. 5: 22, 23.)

A bit of poetry or a verse of Scripture learned while dressing in the morning; a few foreign words or phrases conned on the way to work or between tasks; a great book read in snatches while waiting for meals; a dlp into noble literature at bedtime; a studious effort to secure contact with some nobler person than one's self every day—by such simple plans as these life is enriched.—Selected.

MISCELLANY

Oury Harris, one of the elders of the church at Dickson, Tenn., was in to see us last Thursday. He reports that congregation doing and planning "great things" for the Lord. They have a new evangelist, E. P. Watson, and both preacher and people are well pleased with their association together in the work. Brother Watson will preach at home every Lord's day for a while, but will later do evangelistic work "abroad" for the congregation. This church is also helping liberally to sustain William M. Robins in the work in their county, and is planning to help more liberally the work in Washington, D. C.

J. Y. McQuigg addresses the following appreciated note to J. C. McQuiddy and A. B. Lipscomb: "What T. W. Phillips said of you in the Gospel Advocate a few weeks past in regard to the management of the Advocate and in praise of the great work you are doing in meeting courageously the attacks that have been made against you and against the truth are timely and well said. I heartily agree with him and indorse all he said and the way he said it I, too, believe, as he does, that it is best to scatter the flowers along the way and not wait till you are gone to say the good things about you. I, too, as he does, heartily approve of the way you have managed the Advocate and the manly and Christlike spirit with which you have met these questions I do not believe it could have been bettered by any one. May a loving, just, and merciful Father help you and spare you and all that are helping to make the Advocate what it is as long as he deemeth best. He knoweth best; he loveth best."

From Ira L. Winterrowd, Norman, Okla., November 20: "Last night one of the best gatherings of preachers yet known, possibly, came to a close at Shawnee, Okla. I had the pleasure of attending it the last two days. Brotherly love, unselfishness, and a desire to labor together in the Master's vineyard could hardly have been better manifested at any time than it was at Shawnee. The church there was greatly benefited by the meeting, because of the stirring speeches and sermons which were delivered during the week. Among the important things done were the launching of a campaign to build a Christian college in Oklahoma, to utilize the buildings of former Cordell Christian College as a home for the orphans, and to inaugurate a paper for the express purpose of getting before the churches of Oklahoma these important enterprises and keeping it before them for the desired success. seems to be a great impulse among us in this State to have a school like those of Texas, Tennessee, Kansas, and elsewhere. I am giving my time to the church at Norman during the present school year. The work is promising during the present school year. The work is promising greater yields for the future. More is being done than formerly, for which we rejoice and press on toward a still harder task and higher mark." O

George H. Long, of Weatherford, Texas, sends for publication in the Gospel Advocate the resolutions adopted by the Christian Chapel congregation, of that city, on the death of G. Dallas Smith. He writes: "At the close of the morning services on Sunday, November 14, Tom Walker announced the death of G. Dallas Smith, after which there were a few short talks on the life and work of Brother Smith, and suitable resolutions were adopted." The resolutions are here given:

"Whereas it has pleased our Heavenly Father to call from the walks of men our dearly beloved brother and fellow laborer, G. Dallas Smith, on November 7, 1920; and "Whereas in the death of Brother Smith the church of

"Whereas in the death of Brother Smith the church of Christ has lost one of its most faithful and efficient evangelists; and

"Whereas we had learned to love Brother Smith because of our associations with him in the past, he having been at one time located in our midst and having labored with us for several years; and

"Whereas, while our hearts are filled with sorrow because of the death of Brother Smith, yet we know that he fought a good fight, he has finished his course, he has kept the faith, and henceforth there is laid up for him a crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous judge, shall give him at that day: therefore,

"Be it resolved, That the Christian Chapel congregation of the church of Christ at Weatherford, Texas, do hereby extend to Sister G. Dallas Smith and children our heartfelt sympathy in the loss of their dear husband and father, and we pray God's blessings to rest upon them in their bereavement; and may they say, as did that prophet of old: 'The Lord gave, and the Lord hath taken away; blessed be the name of the Lord,"

-0 From Warren E. Starnes, Dallas, Texas, November 27: "For some time the Oak Cliff church of Christ has had a service on Thanksgiving Day for the purpose of mingling their sentiments of praise and thanksgiving. This strengthens the ties of Christian fellowship and helps to maintain good will and mutual efforts in advancing the Master's cause among men. It is not in response to an arbitrary decree that the church assembles, but out of voluntary respect for a provision made and an opportunity afforded the people of these United States. This provision and this opportunity accord us a wise expedient, which expedient is not unlawful, but lawful in every way; and it gives us an opportunity not only to praise the Lord for what he has done for us, but to pray for the rulers of our country and of the nations of the world, that we may lead 'a peaceable and quiet life in godliness and in hon-esty,' We also thus show our respect for the We also thus show our respect for the powers that provide for us such wholesome refuge for our safety, politically, socially, and spiritually. Last Thursday a large audience assembled in keeping with these sentiments; and through an invitation which had been given to E. A. Elam just a few days before, he came from Fort Worth, where he is engaged with the Central church of Christ in a meeting, and delivered one of his favorite sermons on 'Praise and Thanksgiving to Jehovah.' It was filled with good things from first to last; and the saints of Oak Cliff Church, together with many friends and visitors from the churches at Pearl and Bryan Streets, Peak and Main Streets, and Garrett Avenue, were delighted with Brother Elam's masterful way of developing such a theme. There were present friends and acquaintances, both young and old, Christians, from several States, especially from Tennessee, Kentucky, and Texas, and possibly some from Arkansas. A. O. Colley read Ps. 107; E. V. Wood led the prayer; J. B. Nelson introduced the speaker by saying he needed no introduction; and then Brother Elam addressed himself to the audience in his own inimitable way, so familiar to so many hundreds of people—yea, thousands of people-throughout the States where he has labored.

We are glad for our readers and contributors to express themselves, and are glad to publish their adverse or favorable criticisms. J. A. Perdue, of Eastman, Ga., writes as follows:

"The editorial on 'The Blood of Christ,' on the first page

"The editorial on 'The Blood of Christ,' on the first page of the Gospel Advocate of October 7, is very fine and timely. Every one believes we are saved by the blood of Christ; but there are few, comparatively speaking, that have a clear conception of just how the blood is appropriated. This editorial makes it very clear and aptly enforces the argument that faith, repentance, confession, and baptism are in order to the remission of sins, not so much for what we do in the premises, but these terms are made essential to salvation because they are sealed by the blood of Christ. And whoever alters them, or tries to change their relation to each other, plays with 'fire and brimstone.'

"But really, I do not see the wisdom of the McQuiddy-Sommer controversy. It seems like answering the folly of a foolish man to argue you can teach the Bible in school. The apostle Paul, writing to Timothy (1 Tim. 2: 8), says, 'I will therefore that men pray everywhere —that is, in school and out of school; and he exhorts that these prayers be made 'for all men.' Is teaching the Bible more important or sacred than prayer? I have heard it said that

"'Praver is the Christian's vital breath,
The Christian's native air;
His watchword at the gate of death,
He enters heaven with prayer."

"Jesus says: 'Go, . . . teach!' Whom? 'Every creature' in 'all the world.' Where? Why, where they are. But they are everywhere, on land and sea. Then we must teach them where they are, for we cannot teach them where they are not. But we must teach them 'in the church.' Very good. If a man is in the church anywhere, he is in the church where he is; therefore, if he teaches the Bible where he is, he teaches it 'in the church.' A Christian is in the church, and wherever he teaches the Bible, whether on the farm, in the shop, in the school or college, he teaches in the church, unless he goes out of the church when he goes on the farm or enters into the school. Now this must be true, unless by 'church' is meant the meetinghouse, and, in that event, very little time is allotted to teaching the Bible, because every Sunday the average congregation bids the meetinghouse a fond farewell until the next Lord's day."

W

AT HOME AND ABROAD

- Dr. J. S. Ward visited the congregation at Schochoh, Ky., last Sunday.
- J. L. Hill preached for the Rothchild Avenue congregation last Sunday.
- E. G. Cullum filled his regular appointment at Trinity Lane on Sunday.
- Fred K. Jones, the real estate preacher, was at Green Street last Sunday.
- Lytton Alley occupied the pulpit twice at Highland Avenue last Sunday.
- Mitchell Pullias occupied the pulpit twice at Hartsville, Tenn., last Lord's day.
- Last Sunday F. B. Srygley preached to the congregation at South Harpeth, Tenn.
- Jarratt L. Smith is now preaching for the Parkland congregation, Louisville, Ky.
- W. O. Norton conducted the services at the David Lipscomb College last Lord's day.
- J. G. Malphurs preached two sermons at the Eleventh
- Street Church last Lord's day.

 S. P. Pittman preached two sermons for the Lawrence
- Avenue Church last Lord's day.

 J. W. Grant preached two sermons at the Charlotte
- Avenue Church last Lord's day.

 The Joseph Avenue congregation enjoyed two sermons
- from C. E. W. Dorris last Lord's day.

 Last Sunday O. C. Lambeth conducted the services at
- the Belment Avenue Church, this city.

 F. W. Smith preached two sermons at Franklin, Tenn., last Sunday, to large and interested audiences.
- J. R. Tubb, of Sparta, Tenn., called to see us last week. He reports the church in Sparta as moving on nicely.
- The morning and evening services at the Twelfth Avenue Church were conducted by V. E. Gregory last Sunday.
- The Foster Street church of Christ had W. W. Bates with them at the morning and evening services last Sunday.
- John Beasley, our mall-carrier preacher, delivered a good discourse at Neely's Bend at eleven o'clock last Sunday.
- C. M. Stubblefield preached twice at Gallatin, Teun., last Sunday, and made this office a pleasant call on Monday.
- W. F. Lemmons has moved to Somerville, Texas, where he expects to devote his time to the work of preaching the gospel.
- A. S. Derryberry conducted the morning and evening services at the church of Christ on Eighth Avenue, North, last Surday.
- J. W. Dickson kept himself busy by preaching twice at Pilcher Avenue and once for the New Shops congregation last Lord's day.
- W. O. Norton is an authorized agent of the Gospel Advocate. Any courtesies shown him by our readers will be very greatly appreciated.
- William M. Lance was in to see us last week and renewed his subscription to the Gospel Advocate. He is still interested in advancing the cause of the Master.
- From L. D. Perkins, Armona, Cal., November 26: "The meeting at Fresno, with D. W. Nay doing the preaching, continues with good attendance. One addition to date."
- A. C. Traylor, who has been working with the Life and Casualty Company, this city, has moved to Pikeville, Tenn., where he expects to devote his time to evangelistic work.
- W. P. Skaggs, Itasca, Texas, writes: "Our work is doing very well in Itasca. All seem determined to accomplish greater things for God. May God bless all the faithful."
- W. N. Ferguson preached twice at Grandview Heights last Sunday. This congregation is moving along nicely, having finished the church building and installed a furnace.
- L. L. Yeagley conducted the services at the Reid Avenue church of Christ last Lord's day, the Lord's Supper being observed at both services in order that all might participate.

- The Joe Johnston Avenue congregation had the pleasure of listening to Silas Moody twice last Lord's day. He changes his address from Maxey Lane to 501 Woodland Street.
- Dr. Gay Cullum, of Watkins, this county, was in to see us Wednesday. He reports the little congregation at Watkins very much in need of a song leader to worship with them regularly.
- The Fifth Street church of Christ had Russell S. King with them at both services last Sunday. A neighborhood Bible-study class is being conducted there every Thursday by E. G. Cullum.
- James A. Allen, the bachelor preacher, was at Charlotte, Tenn., at the eleven-o'clock service on Lord's day. At three o'clock he enjoyed listening to a good sermon delivered by Brother Watson at Vanleer.
- James E. Scobey conducted the morning and evening services at the Russell Street church of Christ last Lord's day. He will preach next Sunday at eleven o'clock, at the Fairview Church, on the Hillsboro road.
- J. H. Horton, Kimberly, Ala., says: "I shall be glad to help you in the circulation of your valuable paper. I have not reported my work for several years, because of school work, but hope to give you some reports soon."
- From W. A. Schultz, El Paso, Texas, November 29: "I am preaching for the church here. There have been two baptized lately. I shall begin a mission meeting soon. We are planning to do a great work in El Paso."
- From W. D. Bills, San Antonio, Texas, November 29: "Excellent services at Denver Heights, this city, yesterday. Three were baptized and one added by membership. This makes seventeen additions for the month of November."
- From Mrs. Nettie Robinson, Lebanon, Tenn., November 29:
 "I have read the Gospel Advocate the greater part of my life, and will ever make an effort, even as in the past I have done at a sacrifice, to have this inspiring, uplifting, and instructing weekly visitor."
- W. J. Copeland writes from New Boston, Texas: "I am at work for the Lord out here in this part of God's vine-yard. Interest in the cause of Christ is increasing. I am preaching every Lord's day. I shall be glad to help increase the circulation of the Gospel Advocate."
- W. J. Johns, of Morrillton, Ark., sends the following note with request that we publish: "Will some one please give me the name and address of a doctor who lives somewhere in Alabama? I learn that he treats and cures pellagra. If any one knows of such a doctor, please write me at olde."
- From Sister Ozie Headrick, Wayne, Okla., November 27: "The little band at this place built them a house this summer, but it is not all paid for. We are trying hard to get it paid out. We have no seats yet, but we have preaching once a month, and Sunday school and worship every Lord's day."
- From Thomas E. Milholland, Denison, Texas, December 1: "After this date my address will be Clarendon, Texas. We are moving there this week. My time will be divided between Lelia Lake and Clarendon. Sixty-seven of our dear, good members were in our home to-night. We regret to leave Denison."
- There are fifty-three Thursdays in 1920. We get out only fifty-two numbers in the year, so there will be no issue of the Gospel Advocate for the last week of 1920. We are calling the attention of our readers to this so that they may understand when they do not receive the paper for the last week in 1920.
- B. W. Davis writes from Ashland City, Tenn., November 27: "Since September 1 I have held four meetings. Eleven were baptized and four restored to fellowship. On December 5 I will preach at Dekoven, Ky., and on December 12 I will be with the church on Cowart Street, Chattanooga, Tenn., if the Lord wills."
- Mrs. S. N. Summers, 1063 Greenwood, Memphis, Tenn.: D. P. Rawlings, of Clyde, Texas; and H. E. Bradley, of Riddleton, Tenn.—these persons have moved and have failed to give present post-office address. If each will furnish us with present address in connection with the former one, we will gladly forward the Gospel Advocate to them.
- From Harvey Scott, Floresville, Texas, November 30: "I succeeded last week in getting two Mormon elders into a public discussion. It was to have continued four nights.

but after the second night they left for San Antonio, saying they thought they ought to get busy. I thought the same It was a little too hot for them. Interest here is increasing."

From Leslie G. Thomas, Flint, Mich., November 28: "At the morning service to-day one man, who had been an influential man in this congregation, but had wandered away, was restored to his 'first love.' The interest here seems to be growing. The work in other parts of the State where I labor is moving along. In Flint we are spending two rights each week studying the Bible."

From J. C. Pendergrass, Wynne, Ark., November 30: "After spending a pleasant and profitable summer in Tennessee, amid the scenes of my boyhood days, I came back home on November 18. I preached at my home congregation the third Sunday in this month and at Union last Sunday. I aim to spend the winter in this country, then go back to Tennessee for another summer's work."

W. E. Williams writes from Huntsville, Ark., December 1: "I closed my meeting last Thursday night at the Lillaetta Schoolhouse, near Wagoner, Okla. No confessions, but I believe that some good was done. I preached at Tulsa last Sunday and Sunday night. I am booked to meet C. A. Waymire, at Bixby, Okla., in a six-days' debate, beginning on January 24. I can hold a meeting or two in January. Write me."

Under date of December 6 we have the following report from J. Leonard Jackson: "We had two splendid audiences at the Lindsley Avenue Church, in Nashville, yesterday. We had an increase in attendance at Sunday school of thirty-five, which was due to personal work on the part of certain sisters of the congregation. F. B. Srygley was present at the evening service and favored us with a splendid discourse on 'Love.' The writer preached at the morning service."

H. M. Phillips, of Tuscumbia, Ala., called to see us last Friday. He reports the church as doing well in Tuscumbia, and says the work is also progressing nicely in Sheffield and Florence. Ben Harding continues with the church at Florence, and John C. Graham is with the church at Sheffield. Brother Phillips preached last Friday night at the Charlotte Pike Church, in West Nashville. He was expected to preach last Sunday at Russellville, Ala., in the new church house.

From J. A. Hudson, Oklahoma City, Okla., November 29: "There was one addition at the morning service yesterday. Will M. Thompson, of Roff, Okla., was with me through the day. I preached in the morning and he preached in the evening. In the afternoon we conducted two home services and, by request, went to the University Hospital with a quartet and spent an enjoyable time with the sick. We tried by Scripture reading and song and prayer to gladden an otherwise sad day for the afflicted."

C. E. Holt, Florence, Ala., appreciates the work the Gospel Advocate is doing. He says: "The Gospel Advocate Is the greatest asset we have in the propagation of truth, 'pure and undefiled.' No human nor human production can be perfect, except in a relative sense. In this sense the Advocate Is perfect, It contends for a perfect gospel, a perfect obedience thereto so far as relates to 'conditions.' a perfect faith, a perfect repentance, a perfect baptism, and, following this, a 'perfect adherence to the divine rule.'"

From R. A. Craig, Louisville, Ky., November 30: "Last Sunday I preached at the Forks of Elkhorn. We had an excellent attendance. Our Bible classes are not a month old, and yet a great interest is being manifested. We hope to do much good. Brother Pendergrass was at Shiloh. Brother Smithson gave a good report of his work at F Street. I would like for our brethren in Kentucky and Tennessee to know each other better, our preachers especially. Something scriptural should be done to bring us closer together."

From Tice Elkins, Fort Worth, Texas, November 22: "The meeting held by John M. Rice and me at the Brooklyn Heishts church of Christ, this city, closed last night, with three additions—one from the Christian Church and two by baptism. It was a good meeting. Brother Rice is a noble yokefellow. The Southside-Central work is good, with one addition to-day from the Christian Church. Brogdon and I will begin the debate on baptism at 7:30 P.M., Tuesday night, November 30. It will continue four nights. Brother Elam is doing a fine work at the Central Church. The Lord's work in Fort Worth was never better. Especially do I desire to praise the work being done at Glenwood by Brother McClung, and at Northside by Brother West. May we all press forward."

Alonzo Jones (colored), who lives in the city, was in to see us last week. He was just back from Cotton Plant, Ark., where he went to hold a meeting. Before the meeting got well started he had to leave and come home on account of serious illness of two of his children. They are better now. Brother Jones held a meeting of six nights at Widener, Ark., in September, resulting in five confessions and baptisms. His meeting there was interrupted by bad, rainy weather. He intends holding meetings at both places again next year. They are both destitute, new fields. He plans to do much work in such fields in the near future, if he can make financial arrangements to be sustained while he does the work. He is not able financially to do the work without help from those who would be glad to help him by "holding up his hands" while he preaches the good news.

A. A. Bunner, of Cleveland, Ohio, writes appreciatingly of the Gospel Advocate, as follows: "The Gospel Advocate of November 4 is before me, and I am delighted with it, partly on account of the good, rich articles found in it, but mostly because its front page carries the photograph or likeness of our venerable brother, E. G. Sewell, who has recently passed the ninetieth milestone of his good and useful life. I do not now remember of ever having seen his picture before this, but I have long since learned to love him dearly for his great work's sake in the kingdom and patience of God's dear Son. For many long years I had hoped to see both Brother Sewell and his coworker, David Lipscomb, in the flesh; but this hope can never be realized, hence has vanished. But my prayer is that Brother Sewell's life may be spared to the church and the world for several more years to come."

From L. W. Hinson, Dyersburg, Tenn., November 29: "I am now working with the church of Christ, five miles north of Dyersburg, at old Salem. I have held seven mission meetings this fall, and without support. I have never placed a call for help in any paper, though wife and I feel the effect of our sacrifice this fall. We trust all with Him who said: 'I will never leave thee, nor forsake thee.' The brethren here have not met regularly for six years. A few meet every first day and worship as the Lord has commanded. I read with pleasure the many letters of preachers, and I often shed tears and pray for them, knowing myself how to sympathize with them. May we all do more for the cause of Christ in 1921 than we have the present year. I would like to have a copy of the 'List of Preachers.' Remember me in your prayers." [The "preachers' list" can be had of Fred L. Rowe, Cincinnati, Ohlo.]

We have received a program and a cordial invitation to be present at a preachers' meeting at the Park Hill church of Christ, South S Street and Jenny Lind Avenue, Fort Smith, Ark., December 28-31. A cordial invitation and a hearty welcome are extended to all loyal preachers, elders, and church workers. The promoters say: "We want this meeting to be the greatest ever held in the South, and four days of real enjoyment for all. Homes will be provided for all preachers and visitors who advise us of their coming. No pains will be spared in caring for every one who attends, whether we are notified of your coming or not. Are you coming? The meeting will be held at the courthouse, Rogers Avenue and Sixth Street. On arriving in the city, telephone Fort Smith 2520 or 3441, and some one will call for you." This announcement is signed by Will W Slater, minister of the Park Hill church of Christ, and the elders of the church.

From C. D. Crouch, Wellington, Texas, November 30: "I preached at Carl, Okla., last Sunday. Small crowd. Unfavorable weather and sickness in the community. I have preached at Okmulgee, Lacy Chapel, and Metcalfe, Okla., and Dodsonville, Texas, recently. Interest is good at some of the places, and at others it is not so good. I have been at manual labor all this year, and have not devoted as much time to preaching as in former years. When I state that I have received less than five hundred dollars for preaching this year, brethren will understand why I have engaged in other work. I would be glad to hear from some congregation that desires the services of a preacher full time. I have been preaching fourteen years and am yet a young man. I would prefer to go back East. I want to get out of the sand-storm area, and intend to do so. I would rather put in my time in gospel work than to do anything else. If I should receive enough calls for protracted meetings to keep me busy, I would just as soon engage in that kind of work as any other. Brethren, if you need me, let me hear from you."

Hood's Sarsaparilla Makes Food Taste Cood

Creates an appetite, aids digestion, purifies the blood, and thus relieves scrofula, catarrh, the pains and aches of rheumatism and gives strength to the whole system.

Nearly 50 years' phenomenal sales tell the story of the great merit and success of Hood's Sarsaparilla, It is just the medicine you need now. Hood's Pills help-fine cathartic.

Mrs. D. Martin, of New York, writes that her fits were stopped with a medicine sent to her by a Milwaukee resident, and suggests that every one suffering from fits write R. P. Lepso, 193 Island Avenue, Milwaukee, Wis., who will send them a bottle of the same kind of medicine she used—free.

TREMENDOUS VALUE FOR 10c.

The Pathfinder, Leading Weekly Magazine of Nation's Capital, Makes Remarkably Attractive Offer.

Washington, D. C. (Special.)—People in every section of the country are hurrying to take advantage of the Pathfinder's wonderful offer to send that splendid illustrated review of the whole world alph. whole world eight weeks for ten cents. It costs the editor a lot of money to do this, but he says it pays to invest in new friends, and that he will keep the offer open until the Pathfinder passes the 300,000 circulation mark, which will be in a few weeks. Ten cents mailed at once with your application to Pathfinder, 120 Douglas Street, Washington, D. C., will keep the whole family informed, entertained, helped, and inspired for the next three months.

A Safe Investment.

The persistence and plausibility of fraudulent promoters is set forth in the story told by Dr. James DeWolf Perry, pastor emeritus of the Calvary Episcopal Church, of Germantown, Pa., in an effort to recover some part of his fortune of which he had been defrauded.

Dr. Perry declares that he was swindled out of eighteen thousand dollars. the savings of a lifetime, through the rosy promises of the promoters. The brokers who sold him stock in a certain investment company would not take "no" for an answer, Dr. Perry said. He declared he told them he was a minister, with other things to think of than making money, but that they called him on the telephone repeatedly.

"Finally they visited me at my home," he continued, "and pressed me so hard and so many times that I ultimately yielded. I protested to the last, however, on the ground that I am no business man."

"'But it does not take a business man for this investment,' they said, 'This is such a good-paying proposition that a small investment now will net you a good income, and that income can be invested in other stock of the company.' "

Finally, he said, he invested four hundred dollars. They kept insisting that he had gained a foothold on a fortune, he asserted, and finally he was persuaded to put in eighteen thousand dollars, which represented nearly the entire savings of a lifetime.

Thousands of similar examples of the methods by which fraudulent promoters are swindling the investors of the country by fake stocks are coming to light daily. Oftentimes they are so plausible that it is difficult to differentiate between the wildcat schemes and legitimate investments. One method, however, will enable the investor to protect himself absolutely. That is to invest his money in the securities of the United States-Liberty Bonds, Treasury Savings Certificates, and Saving Stamps. They are applicable for every purse and are backed by the whole strength and riches of the nation. They are absolutely safe and wield certain and profitable interest .- Furnished by the United States Treasury Department.

If you are a live lighthouse, you do not need a whistle.

RECIPE FOR GRAY HAIR.

To 1/2 pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and 4 ounce of glycerine. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it at home at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. It will gradually darken streaked, faded, or gray hair and make it soft and glossy. It will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy. and does not rub off.

Holman New Testament

FOR OLD FOLKS

EXTRA LARGE PRINT

Our famous large type, 16mo Pica, self-pronouncing edition. This type is particularly well suited to such readers as have defective or impaired eyesight, or by reason of age feel the need of a good, clear print.

PICA, 16mo. Size, 51/2 x 7 % x % inches.

Specimenos Type. of Je'sus

No. 290. Morocco Grained Cloth, imp. gold back and side titles, round corners, red burnished edges. Publisher's 51.00 Price, S1.20. Our Price—postpaid No. 290P. With Book of Psalms included, cloth binding, etc. Same as No. 290 above. Publisher's Price, S1.40. Our $1.15 Price—Postpaid

No. 291P. French Morocco, limp, gold back and side titles, round corners, red under gold edges, with the Book of Psalms included. Publisher's Price, $3.95 $3.35 Gur Price—Postpaid

ADDRESS ORDERS TO

McQUIDDY PRINTING CO. NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE

THE SANITARY" Individual CUPS List of thousands of churches using our caps and FREE CATALOG with quotations sent upon request. Sanitary Communion Outfit Co., 71st St., Rochester, N. V

Dizzy Spells and Sielchendaches are often enused by Constina-are easy to take and cause a normal and easy action of the bowels.

AT ALL DRUGGISTS

MILES MEDICAL CO., Elkhart, Ind.

Good Books Make the Best Gifts

Below we offer a list of books on vital topics that should be of interest to every preacher, Sunday-school teacher, and Bible lover. Have you a friend out of the church whom you are trying hard to reach and save? Send him one of these books. If he is "almost persuaded," it may clinch the argument for you. If he is lukewarm, it may stir him to action. In any event, it will be appreciated.

The list includes most excellent books, printed and bound in first-class style. Postpaid prices are quoted. We have recently printed an edition of "Life of Elder John Smith," "Christian System," and "The Evidences of Christianity." We believe that a book worth publishing deserves to be accurately printed and neatly and substantially bound.

LIST OF BOOKS

The Model Church (cloth), G. C. Brewer $1 00	Cayce-Srygley Debate$1 25
Gospel Plan of Salvation, Dr. T. W. Brents 2 00	Life of Elder ("Raccoon") John Smith, J. A. Williams 1 50
Gospel Sermons, Dr. T. W. Brents 2 00	Christian System, A. Campbell 1 50
Brents-Herod Debate 50	The Evidences of Christianity (Campbell- Owen Debate) 1 50
Character; or, The Making of the Man, Edward W. Carmack1 50	Why the Baptist Name, Lofton-Smith
The Relations of God to the World, Hiram Christopher 1 00	The Word of Reconciliation, J. D. Floyd 1 00
Folk-McQuiddy Discussion on the Plan of Salvation1 25	Debate on the Roman Catholic Religion, Alexander Campbell and J. B. Purcell 1 50
Evidence of Pardon, C. E. Holt25	Ailenroc's Book 1 00
Civil Government, David Lipscomb 1 00	Instrumental Music in the Worship, M. C. Kurfees 1 50
Commentary on Acts of Apostles, David	Seventy Years in Dixie, F. D. Srygley 1 50
Lipscomb 1 50 Salvation from Sin, David Lipscomb.	Campbell on Baptism 1 50
Compiled and edited by J. W. Shepherd 1 50	Christian Treasures. Compiled and edited
The Life and Sermons of Jesse L. Sewell,	by A. B. Lipscomb. In 2 volumes, each 1 00
David Lipscomb1 50	Sweeney's Sermons 1 50
Sunshine; or, Uncle Minor's Stories, V. M. Metcalfe 1 50	Outlines of Bible Study, G. Dallas Smith 75 Prices: 1 dozen copies, prepaid, $8.25; 25 cop-
On the Rock (cloth), D. R. Dungan 1 50	ies, not prepaid, $15.00.
Letters and Sermons of T. B. Larimore,	Around the Lord's Table 25
in three volumes, each 1 50	Peloubet's Select Notes for 1921 2 10 A fine help for teachers of the International
The three volumes ordered at one time_ 4 00	Sunday-school lessons.
Life Work of Mrs. Charlotte Fanning,	New Commentary on Acts of Apostles,
Mrs. Emma Page Larimore 1 00	New Commentary on Acts of Apostles, J. W. McGarvey 2 00
Gospel Lessons and Life History, E. G. Sewell 1 25	Dictionary of the Bible, Smith-Peloubet 2 50 Stark-Warlick Debate 50
Handbook on Baptism (revised edition), J. W. Shepherd1 50	Orthodoxy in the Civil Courts, J. H. Edwards 75
The Jerusalem Tragedy, A. P. Stout 1 50 The People's New Testament (with	Evenings with the Bible, Isaac Errett. Three volumes. Price per volume 1 00
notes), in two volumes, B. W. Johnson Prices: Per Volume, $2.50; Per Set, $5.00.	The Divine Demonstration, H. W. Ever-
A good commentary on the New Testament.	est 1 50
Eunice Loyd, R. N. Moody 1 25	Adventism and the Bible, J. Henry Monk 1 25

Address all orders to

McQUIDDY PRINTING COMPANY

317-319 Fifth Avenue, North NASHVILLE, TENN.

Holman Self-Pronouncing

4%x2%x% inches AND the third day there was a marriage in Man of Gall-lee; and he mother of Je'sus was

2133K. Bound in durable Morocco Grain Semble Leather, flexible limp, gilt _60

2113. French Morocco, genuine leather, flexible limp, gold titles, rounded cor-.70 ners, gold edges.

2115P. French Morocco, divinity circuit, overlapping covers, round corbers, red under gold edges, with the Book of $1.10 Psalms included

ILLUSTRATED VEST-POCKET TESTAMENT

With Pictures of Holy-Land Scenes

2814. French Morocco, limp, gold side tle, round corners, red under gold .85 iges

RED-LETTER VEST-POCKET TESTAMENT

With all the words of our Lord printed in red.

INDIA-PAPER VEST-POCKET TESTAMENT

Thin as a Wafer

2136XP. Fine Grain Morocco, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, with $2.25

ADDRESS ORDERS TO

MCQUIDDY PRINTING CO. NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE

DON'T BE CUT Until You Try This Wonderful Treatment.

if you have piles in any form, write for a FREE sample of Page's Pile Tablets, and you will bless the day that you read this. Write to-day. E. B. Page, 430-D Page Building, Marshall, Mich.

TO RELIEVE CATARRHAL DEAFNESS AND HEAD MOISES

If you have Catarrhal Deafness or head noises go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of parmint (double strength), and add to it ½ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy, and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has Catarrhal Deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial. For sale by all druggists or sent on receipt of price 90c by Chas. A. Smith Drug Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Opportunity for Preachers.

BY W. A. RECORD.

I desire to hear from two gospel preachers who would locate and labor in Southern Illinois. This is a neglected field, and some one should be working it. The churches, as a rule, are weak; some of them have entirely disbanded, but the houses are still there. Now, almost any preacher would jump at a call from a welldeveloped, wealthy church, where a big lot of his time would be consumed in enjoying the hospitality of his people. But where are the Isaiahs who will say, "' Here am I; send me' into this great field to hold up the bloodstained banner of Prince Emmanuel and point people to 'the Lamb of God, which taketh away the sin of the world?'" Now, if you can preach the gospel, and want to preach the gospel, and will preach the gospel, and work seven days in the week, write to me at once and state your experience, the amount of support you will expect, and when you can begin work. I will endeavor to secure the funds for the support of the work. Who will do the work? Address all communications to W. A. Record, Route 4, Paducah, Ky.

The Gospel Advocate Call.

BY E. V. MILLS.

In the Gospel Advocate of November 18 is a good suggestion from the editors. I have just received a letter from the publishers asking my personal aid in extending the paper into larger fields. For several years I labored extensively in several States in this work, and received a commission to aid me in the work. I am not now in position to do this character of work, but there is a character of work in which we all can and should engage. While traveling and closely observing, I found hundreds of worthy, interested, and intelligent readers who were not able to pay for the paper. They had little or no source of income, and they have none to-day, and yet the paper is further beyond their reach.

The work of furnishing this reading matter belongs largely to individuals and churches. It is the most economical, therefore the most fruitful source of instruction and encouragement in our reach.

Aged mothers (widows) and cripples and many such like are dependent on others, and would become a blessing to the world if properly taught. We can reach them in this helpful way.

You would be glad to have any of the editors with you in a protracted meeting, and would invite the rich and poor alike to hear the preaching at the expense of the church. They are engaged in a longer and more effectual protracted meeting, with an audience that no house could seat. For two dollars and fifty cents you can furnish a seat in this audience for twelve months. Individuals and elders can look about them and pick out the worthy poor. There are unbelieving people who are conscientious and could be brought to the light in this way better than in any other. I am sure the Advocate will give some reduction on clubs sent in the above way. Now let's get busy, and take several thousand yearly subscriptions, and make them as Christmas presents, and it will return to us in the form of a blessing.

West Florida Mission. BY L. L. APPLEGATE.

Brother A. T. Hamiter is laboring for the establishment of churches of Christ in this field, which has been sadly neglected by the brotherhood and should now engage our attention. Since Brother Hamiter has agreed to preach the word through this section. I suggest that the churches and individuals help him in the way of contributions and thus help build up neglected churches and save souls. Contributions may be sent to him at Mulat, Fla.; or any information desired may be obtained from the writer, at Cottondale, Fla.

You Do More Work,

You are more ambitious and you get more enjoyment out of everything when your blood is in good condition. Impurities in the blood have a very depressing effect on the system, causing weakness, laziness, nervousness and sickness.

GROVE'S TASTELESS Chili TONIC restores Energy and Vitality by Purifying and Enriching the Blood. When you feel its strengthening, invigorating effect, see how it brings color to the cheeks and how it improves the appetite, you will then appreciate its true tonic value.

GROVE'S TASTELESS CHIII TONIC is not a patent medicine, it is simply iRON and QUININE suspended in Syrup. So pleasant even children like it. The blood needs Quinine to Purify it and IRON to Enrich it. These reliable tonic properties never fail to drive out impurities in the blood.

The Strength-Creating Power of GROVE'S TASTELESS Chill TONIC has made it the favorite tonic in thousands of homes. the favorite tonic in thousands of homes. More than thirty-five years ago, folks would ride a long distance to get GROVE'S TASTELESS Chill TONIC when a member of their family had Malaria or needed a body-building, strength-giving tonic The formula is just the same today, and you can get it from any drug store. 60c per bottle.

Comfort Your Skin With Cuticura Soap and Fragrant Talcum Soap, Ointment, Talcom, 25c. everywhere, Samples free of Outloura Laboratories, Dept. V. Maldan, Mana.

IDEAL FOR BIBLE-SCHOOL TEACHERS

No. 2172. This is a large-type, convenient-size Bible. It contains references, concise Bible dictionary and combined concordance prepared especially for the American Standard Version, twelve colored maps, and has a very attractive binding. The American Version is produced from the most authentic manuscripts, and is regarded as the best Bible published. Price, delivered, $4.75.

No. 2172X, which is the same Bible, only printed on India paper, which is thin and the very best made, is $6.65

In ordering, be sure to specify number of Bibles wanted.

ADDRESS ALL ORDERS TO McQUIDDY PRINTING CO., NASHVILLE, TENN.

VACCINATE YOUR HOGS.

BUY SERUM direct from the manufacturers and be assured of a fresh, reliable product. United States Veterinary License No. 114; long-distance phons. Main 2589. Nashville, Tenn. Write for 90-page Hog Book; it is FREE. WHITE SERUM COMPANY.

CATARRH

FREE

Best advice ever written on catarrh and head colds—their causes and how to treat them in your own home. The booklet the world is looking for. Send for it now while it lasts. Address E. J. WORST, Box 10, Ashland, Ohio.

BOOKLET

Mr. Church Treasurer!

If the Loose-Leaf Plan is best for the Business Man, it must be best for the CHURCH TREASURER.

7

Up-to-date Economical Efficient

Why not use the Unified Loose Leaf instead of Bound Books? Adapted to any envelope system and size membership. Supplied by your dealer, or

Arthur H. Strouse Pub. Co. Dide. K, 431 So. Dearborn St., Chicago, III.

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

Notes From California.

BY L. D. PERKINS.

I am glad to report that the new house of worship at Tulare is almost completed. It is ready for the plaster. A nice baptistery has been placed at the rear of the building. As you enter the building there are two nice classrooms, and I presume two will be built in at the rear. Large cement steps in front with side and front entrances are completed. When finished it will have a seating capacity of five hundred, and more could be seated. The property will be worth about seven thousand five hundred dollars, or it would take that much to build a new edifice as good. It will be one of the best buildings in the State. There is a debt of about two thousand dollars against the property. I made an effort to raise eight hundred dollars, and wrote several churches for trivial sums, but failed to get a penny. If I had asked for money to advance the work in Japan, the brethren would have responded freely; but California is almost as destitute a field as Japan. Fewer preachers and workers in Japan are baptizing two to our one in California. Any one of the churches I asked for a small sum could have raised the entire amount I asked, if the proper effort had been put forth.

Brother W. P. Walker has entered the work in California, locating with the Dinuba brethren. I had the pleasure of meeting him last Sunday. My judgment is he will be able to accomplish a great work at that place and be of assistance to others. We welcome him and his wife to the work in California, and pray God's richest blessings upon them and their work.

Brother George W. Dickson, of Texas, is here, and will give his time practically to the work at Hanford. He is one of the very best young preachers in the brotherhood, and will be a great help to the work here. Brother John Plummer is giving his time to Fresno (Second Church), Exeter, and Hanford, and is doing a splendid work.

People in the East get an idea that California is filled with large congregations. Brother Walker expected that there were a number of large congregations in San Francisco, but after reaching there he found only one small, faithful church meeting in a rented hall. When I came to Callfornia twenty years ago, there were not three congregations in the State that amounted to anything; and for ten years there were no preachers here but Brother Love, Brother Riggs, and myself. Now we have a number of growing congregations, with more good and faithful men locating every year. We have two schools in which the Bible is taught daily, with efficient teachers, and a great work will be done. There have been a number of baptisms out of them already. Our greatest hindrance has been the trouble and strife that have been caused by the Apostolic Review and preachers that are in sympathy with its divisive work among churches.

Got 117 Eggs Instead of 3

One of our readers says, "'More Eggs' increased my supply from 3 to 117 eggs." You, too, can reap bigger profits than ever, by making sure of a big egg yield this winter. A scientific tonic has been discovered that revitalizes the flock and makes hens work all the time. The tonic is called "More Eggs". Give your hens a few cents' worth of "More Eggs" and you will be amazed and delighted with results.

$1.00 FREE

Send the coupon below. Don't send any money.

Mr. Reefer will send you two $1.00 packages of "More Eggs." You pay the postmen upon delivery only $1.00, the price of just one package, the other package being free. The Million Dollar Merchants Bank of Kansas City, Mo., guarantees if you are not absolutely satisfied, your dollar will be returned at any time within 20 days—on request. No risk to you. 400,000 users praise Reefer's "More Eggs."

Poultry Raisers Everywhere Tell Wenderful Results of "More Eggs"

"More Eggs" Paid the Pastor
I can't express in words how much I have been benefited by "More Eggs." I have paid my debts, slothled the children in new dresses, and that is not all—I paid my pastor his dues. I sold 42½ dozen eggs last week, set 4 dozen, are some, and had 134 dozen left.

MRS. LENA McHROON, Woodbury, Tenn,

1200 Eggs from 29 Hens

The "More Eggs" Tonic did wonders for me. I had 29 hens when I got the tonic and was getting five or etcage a "ry. April ist I had over 1200 eggs. I never saw the equal.

EDW. MEKKER, Pontiac, Mich.

Send No Money!

Don't send any money; just fill in and mail coupon. You will be sent, at once, two $1.00 packages of "MORE EGGS." Pay the postman upon delivery only $1.00, the extra package being FREE. Don't wait—take advantage of this free offer TODAY! Reap the BIG profits "MORE EGGS" will ranke for you. Have plenty of ergs to s!! when the price is highest. Send TODAY—NOW!

E.J.Reefer, Poultry Expert, 7259 Reefer Bldg., Kansas City, Mo. Dear Mr. Reefer — I necept your offer. Send me two $1.00 packages of Reefer's "More Eggs" for which I street to pay the postman $1.00 when he beings me the two packages. You agree to refund me $1.00 at any flow within $0 days, if both of those packages do not prove satisfactory in every way.

Name	**********	*************
		-202000

Address

SUITABLE HOLIDAY GIFT

Below we have grouped a number of the most popular and best values of Bibles and Testaments. If our readers will order at once, it will be helpful to us and keep out mistakes which are so likely to occur in the holiday rush. All orders should be mailed to McQUIDDY PRINT-ING COMPANY, and not to any individual. Order by number.

HOLMAN'S SELF-PRONOUNCING BIBLE.

For Adults, Teachers, Preachers, and all who would study the word of God Intelligently, this edition is unsurpassed. The type is large, clear Bourgeois, self-pronouncing, with liberal space between the words and lines, which makes it easy to read. Size, 8x5½ inches.

¶ "From that time Je's to preach, and to say, " F the kingdom of heaver Containing New Copyrighted Helps by F. N. PELOUBET, D.D.; a treasury of hiblical information; practical comparative concordance; Oriental light on the Bible; four thousand questions and answers; new colored maps.

OXFORD SELF-PRONOUNCING BIBLE.

All proper names and difficult words divided into syllables and accented so they may be correctly pronounced. Size, 8x5%

(Specimen of Type.)

abomination: how much more, when he bringeth it with a wicked mind? 28 2A false witness shall perish: but the man that heareth speaketh constantly.

No. 04421. Keratol; divinity circuit; reund corners; red under gold edges. Our Price, delivered. $3.75

No. 81. RL. Red-Letter Teachers' Bible. The words of Christ in the New Testament, Old Testament passages alluded to by Christ, various prophecies relating to Christ in the Old Testament, etc.—all printed in red. Binding same as described above, and same large self-pronouncing type. Publisher's Price, 86.95; Our Price, postpaid

OXFORD SELF-PRONOUNCING PICTORIAL BIBLE.

With thirty-two photo views of scenes in Bible lands; carefully selected helps; four thousand questions and answers; six colored maps and presentation page. Nonparell, 12mo. Size. 7 ½ x5 inches.

(Specimen of Type.)

16 But if the sacrifice of his offering be a vow, or a voluntary offering, it shall be eaten the same day that he offereth his sacrifice; and on the morrow also the remainder of it shall be eaten:

$3.15

NELSON AMERICAN STANDARD BIBLE.

Large-type, home-reading Bible; authorized and edited by the American Revision Committee, with topical headings prepared by them. Frinted on fine While Bible paper from large, bold Pica type. Easy to read and convenient in size. An ideal Bible for all whose eyesight is defective because of old age or weakness of the eyes; also a fine Bible for the pulpit, prayer-meeting, or Sunday-school desk. Contains presentation page, frontispiece by Dore, family record, and twelve colored maps. Size, 5 %x8 % inches and 1½ inches thick.

(Specimen of Type,)

The making of woman.

GENE

man, and put him into the garden of Eden to dress it and to keep it. 16 And the LORD God com-

The names of the books of the Bible are printed in large type in upper outside corner of each page, enabling the reader to locate place wanted in-

TEACHERS' EDITION AMERICAN STANDARD BIBLE.

This Bourgeois type Bible, with references, contains the Concise Bible Dictionary and a New Combined Concordance to the American Standard Version, making it easy to find any word in the Bible; twelve maps, with an index to each place on the maps. Size, 54x8 inches and 1% inches thick.

(Specimen of Type)

21.13

II. SAMUI

The Bones of Saul and Jonathan brought to Zela. Wars w

Jabesh-gilead, who had stolen them from the 1-street of Beth-shan, where the Philistines had hanged them, in the day that the Philistines slew Saul in Gilboa; 13 and Josh 7, 26

KING JAMES (1611) VERSION.

Self-Pronouncing Edition.

Containing the Bible, with full references, the Concise Bible Dictionary, Combined Concordance, and twelve indexed maps.

(Specimen of Type.)

Discipleship exacting. The Tempest stille

18 Now when Jesus saw great multitudes about him, he gave com-mandment to depart unto the other side. 19 And there came 'a scribe,

NEW TESTAMENT WITH PSALMS

Expenially suitable for a present. A very handsome Testament, Pica type. (Specimen of Type.)

The making of woman.

GENE

man, and put him into the garden of Eden to dress it and to keep it. 16 And the Lord God commanded the man, saying, Of every

No. 054P. American Revised Version; Persian Morocco; divinity circuit; leather lined to edge; silk sewed; Pica type. Price, postpaid $3.00

TESTAMENT WITH PSALMS.

0500. Cloth; slik pattern; red edges. Pica type; same type as No. 054P and suitable for old people. Price, postpaid

TESTAMENT WITHOUT PSALMS.

POCKET TESTAMENTS.

Emphasized American Standard Edition-Self-Pronouncing

No. 334X. Genuine Leather; morocco grain, divinity circuit; silk sewed; round corners; red under gold edges; title stamped on side in pure gold. Price, postpaid. $1.85

No. 336X. Gennine Leather: morocco grain; limp; leather-lined to edge; silk sewed; round corners; red under gold edges; title stamped on side in pure gold. Price, postpaid ... $2.10

RED-LETTER HOLMAN POCKET TESTAMENT.

With all the words of our Lord printed in red. For ready reference there is no other edition so serviceable as the Red-Letter Testament, owing to the emphasis it gives to Christ's own words and the facility with which favorite passages may be found. Self-pronouncing.

No. 13. RL. French Morocco: limp; gold side title; round corners; red under gold edges. Price, postpaid.

ADDRESS ALL ORDERS TO

McQUIDDY PRINTING CO.

NASHVILLE, TENN.

317-319 Fifth Ave., N.

IN YE OLDEN TIME

Hoop skirts were worn by those who first asked the druggist for, and insisted on having, the Golden Medical Discovery

Dr. Pierce over fifty years ago. Dress has changed very much since then! But Dr. Pierce's medicines contain the same dependable ingredients. They are standard today just as they were fifty years ago.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery for the stomach and blood cannot be surpassed by any remedy today.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for weak women has never been equalled for the distressing complaints incident to womanhood. What others say:

COVINGTON, KY .- "I have taken five bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and am proud of my good health, Every winter I would have three or four spells of La Grippe and I used to get such weak spells, but I am stronger now than I ever was in my life." - MRS. IDA HILES, 1532 Banklick Street,

MORE PAY FOR TEACHERS
We have hundreds of demands for teachers at greatly increased salaries. Send in your name to-day for enrollment. South Atlantic Teachers' Agency, 306 Walton Building,
Atlanta, Ga.

For Fever Headaches and Neuralgic Pains

An improved Aspirin tablet which is absointely safe to use even in cases of extreme debility and weak heart. Relieves head-aches, neuralgia and rheumatic pains and reduces fever. No depressing effects. Made by a formula which is in general use by leading physicians. 35e per package at your druggists or by mail from the manufacturers, Piedmont Laboratories, Inc., Clinton, S. C.

CHURCH NEWS

Tennessee.

Algood, November 30 .- On the third Lord's day in November I began a meeting at New Home, in Cumberland County, Tenn., and continued it till the fourth Sunday night. I found a congregation of good people there. We had no additions, but the attendance and attention were good throughout the meeting. Cumberland County embraces a large territory, and I could hear of only two churches in the county worshiping "as it is written." There are a few "digressive" churches in the towns in the county. The brethren have labored in these places, only to see them put in the organ and other innovations. In the surround-ing counties the churches are very few. I could hear of no congregation few. I could hear of no congregation in Morgan County. Brother R. R. Smith, an old man who lives there, preaches once a month for the New Home Church. He is a good man. East Tennessee is an open and unworked field. The church should see that faithful preachers are sent into this section to build up the cause of Christ. Brother George W. Farmer, who lives at Cleveland, was reared in that community, and his father is still living there. It was a pleasure to me to know him. The harvest truly is great, but the laborers are few. We are commanded to go into all the world and preach the gospel. What are we going to do about it?—Allen Phy.

Texas.

Denton, November 29 .- At the morning service, November 21, I preached at McKinney, Texas, to an apprecia-tive band of brethren. They have no house of their own in which to wor-ship, but rent the Presbyterians' old house, which is well located, and now they are doing much better than when worshiping in a hall. Yesterday I preached at Leonard, Texas, where our brethren have just moved from out in the country to town. They have built them a nice house in which to I have held several meetworship. ings for this church a few miles out from town, and I know them to be a fine lot of brethren. For the last three Sunday nights I have requested the brethren to let me off at night, so I could be in Dallas, in order that I might "look after" a Seventh-Day Adventist preacher who is "doing big things" in that city. Brethren, we should take lessons from those who do things to get their doctrine before the people. While the Seventh-Day Adventists have a large brick building in the city, they go to the expense of renting the City Hall three nights out of each week (and will, they told me, for six months), paying fifteen dollars each night. One of the nights is Sunday night, too, when they can get many to hear their man lecture, get many to hear their man lecture, though they would not perhaps go to any church building to hear preaching. They have their books, pamphlets, and leaflets to sell, and some to give away, to all who will buy or take one free.—D. S. Ligon.

Catarrh is an excessive secretion, accompanied with chronic inflammation, from the mucous membrane. Hood's Sarsaparilla acts on the mucous membrane through the blood, reduces inflammation, establishes healthy action, and radically cures all cases of catarrh.

THOUSANDS AGREE AS TO THIS

That Black-Draught Is Excellent for Stomach and Liver Disorders, Hence Its Great Popularity. Mississippi Planter's Indorsement.

Houston, Miss .- Mr. J. A. Trenor, a well-known planter, of this place, recently related his experience in using Thedford's Black-Draught:

'I don't believe there is a better liver medicine made," said Mr. Trenor. "I use it for headache, stomach disorders, and torpid liver.

'It is not bad to take, does not leave a constipated condition, as so many of the liver pills and medicines do. It does its work and leaves you feeling like a new person."

Thousands of others have found Black-Draught as helpful as Mr. Trenor describes, and a valuable remedy for derangements of the liver, stomach, and bowels. It is purely vegetable, having an active effect upon the bowels, gently stimulating the liver, and helping to increase the flow of bile.

Black-Draught has been found to assist in the digestion of food, and relieves constipation in a prompt and normal way.

On account of Black-Draught's longproved merit and immense popularity, many imitations are being offered for For your own satisfaction it will pay you to insist upon the genuine, and be sure the package bears the name, "Thedford's Black-Draught."

At your druggist's; ready for instant use. Full directions in package.

MINISTER WANTS TO HELP

It is only natural that one who has been relieved from suffering should feel grateful and want to help others. Rev. W. F. M. Swyndole, 818 Elm St. Macon, Ge., writes; "My kidneys gave me much trouble before I took Foley Kidney Fills. My sleep is not disturbed now, and my back seems to have gotten completely well. I am ready at any time to speak a word for Foley Kidney Pills." Why suffer from aches and pains, sore muscles, stiff joints, or sleep-disturbing bladder trouble, when you can procure such a good remedy?

Stop Pimples

Put an end to skin troubles and clear the complexion with TETTERINE. A pleasant and particularly effective salve used for years for all skin troubles. Soothing, pleasant, antiseptic, healing. 60c at all druggiats' or from Shuptrine Co., Savannah, Ga.

NO JOKE TO BE DEAF

-Every Deaf Person Knows That.

I make myself hear, after being deaf for 25 years, with these Artificial Ear Drums. I wear them day and night. They are perfectly comfortable. No one sees them. Write me and I will tell you a true story, how I got deaf and how I make Drum, Pat. Nov. you hear Address. 3, 1998.

SEO. P. WAY. Artificial Ear Drum Co. (inc.) 203 Adelaide St., Detroit, Mich.

SERMONS, SERMON MATERIAL AND COMMENTARIES

Abernethy, Arthur Talmage.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid$1.50

An arsenal of religious ammunition, assembled by a strategist experienced in fighting ophili. A book penned with a plume of experience, dipped in the heart's blood of a preacher who has met sin, who has accepted its challenge to combat on the field of action. The author is a strong and virile thinker; his style, clear and forceful. Each sermon will prove an eye opener.

THE GLORIOUS GOSPEL.

Adcock, Adam K.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid$1.00

"No one except a thorough and devout stu-dent of the Scriptures could have written 'The Glorious Gospel.' The author shows excellent analytic and synthetic power and knowledge in the selection and organization of the biblical teaching on the various sub-jects treated."—Christian Journal.

SERMONS FOR THE PEOPLE.

Book, W. H.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid......$1.25

Few books of sermons combine the quali-ties of interest, instruction, and inspiration to the degree in which they are united in this volume. The author is a master in the field of popular sermonizing, and some of his best work is to be found in this collec-tion. There is not a dull page in the book. The text fairly sparkles with original and apt narratives.

COLUMBUS TABERNACLE SERMONS, VOLUME I.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid$1.00

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid......$1.00

The gospel is always attractive when presented by W. H. Book. It is a message that never fails to quicken into action the reader's mind and heart. This author's well-known powers of oratory, his profound grasp of the teachings of Jesus and his spostes his fearlessness in condemning wrong and error, his virile, forceful style, and his unique personality, are well preserved in every line. These sermons were not written in a study, but were stenographically reported as the burning words were ultered by this master preacher, under the inspiration of the great audience which flocks to hear him every week.

COLUMBUS TABERNACLE SERMONS, VOLUME II.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpald...........$1,00

A companion volume to the author's first book of sermons. Reported in the same way and published because of the unusual de-mand the first volume created

THE INDIANA PULPIT.

Edited by W. H. Book.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid w $1.25

LIGHTS ON SCRIPTURE TRUTHS.

(Fermer title, "Side Windows.")

Boreler, Mattie M.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid.....$1.00

A valuable ready-reference compendium of original, forceful, and apt Illustrations for the busy preacher, Sunday-school teacher, and religious worker. The striking originality and practical usefulness of each liestration puts this volume in a class all by itself. A carefully prepared topical index and alphabotically arranged table of contents add greatly to its usefulness. Its distincl value is that the author has followed the example of the great Teacher in illus-trating profound truths by examples famil-iar to all. "I found one illustration that was well worth the price of the book."—S. Bernard

SERMON NOTES FROM THE MINISTRY OF JESUS.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid $1.50

In this new collection of decidedly fresh and suggestive material on the life of Christ we have a forceful and significant book, which will prove invaluable to young ministers, teachers, and church workers in general. Miss Boteler, a graceful and original writer, has presented a study of the life of Christ from an entirely new point of view, so arranged as to make it a complete worker's companion and encyclopedia on the teachings of the Master. Her work is always eagerly awaited by pastors and Christian workers.

SOUL-SAVING REVIVAL SERMONS.

Brandt, John L.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpuid......$1,25

A series of nineteen thought-provoking, evangelistic sermons by one of the most eminent preachers of the day. These sermons relate the principles of Christianity to the everyday life with a keen insight and sympathetic understanding. They are educational in plan, evangelistic in tone, virile in thought, and vigorous in expression. Just the book for the pastor who wishes to foster and develop the revival spirit in himself and his congregation.

HALUSTRATIVE INCIDENTS FOR PUBLIC SPEAKERS.

Brown, Will H.

Cloth, 12mo, illustrated: Price, postpaid, $1.50

This voluminous collection of entirely new illustrations will be an invaluable aid to all public speakers, and especially to those who are contemplating entering upon the public forum. It is a guide to public oratory, as well as a collection of apt and original liustrations. The author's marked success as a speaker, as well as a writer, is quite sufficient guarantee of the superior value of this book.

One authority says: "The book is very rich in classified illustrations of the sort that can really be used,"

WIT AND HUMOR FOR PUBLIC SPEAK-ERS.

Cioth, 12mo. Price, postpaid......$1.50

A collection of bright, breezy, brief, humorous anecdotes and stories alphabetically classified under subjects, with a careful index, As original, fresh, and usable as its companion volume, "Illustrative Incidents for Public Speakers."

"The finest collection of pointed stories and wittickens I have ever seen."—H. H. Perers.

POEMS OF PEP AND POINT FOR PUB-LIC SPEAKERS.

PATRIOTIC ILLUSTRATIONS FOR PUB-LIC SPEAKERS.

Cloth, 12mo, Price, postpaid.........$1.50

In harmony with the new spirit in the world, this volume has been prepared, covering every possible phase of the new patriotism. In addition to the index, with a classification of about eighty subjects, will be found cross-references giving a still wider use of many of the illustrations here assembled.

STORIES OF THE GREAT WAR FOR PUBLIC SPEAKERS.

This volume is alive and overflowing with wonderfully finilling stories and incidents of the world war, carefully classified and indexed according to subjects.

POPULAR LECTURES AND ADDRESSES. Campbell, A.

Cloth. Price, postpaid$2.25 A series of twenty-seven notable lectures on patriotic, religious, social, and educational themes. Here one finds, as perhaps nowhere else, an exhibition of the wonderful range of Mr. Campbell's knowledge.

THE CHRIST OF THE CHURCH.

Coumbs, J. V.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid...........$1.00

"The sermons all have a 'good gospel ring,' and the lectures deal with practical life problems in a very helpful sort of way. There is much of philosophy and sound doctrine and common sense and striking lilustrations in the book. It is good."—The Lookout. Lookout.

TOPICAL ILLUSTRATIONS.

Denton, J. E.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid.......$1,25

The busy worker will find in this thesaurus of religious object lessons a wealth of material to enliven and adorn his sermon or speech, and press home upon his audience the truths of his discourse. The careful alphabetical arrangement makes this a model collection of illustrations for quick and easy reference. Each illustration has been carefully tested out in the author's own public experience. There is no waste material to be found. It is the seasoned product of a master platform orator tested in the fire of actual experience.

JESUS CHRIST IN HUMAN EXPERIENCE. Dutt, Meade E.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid......$1.25

A volume of rare spiritual insight and itterary charm. In an "introductory Note." admirable for its brevily and clearness, the author says: "I have taken a few New Testament characters and striven to point out where Jesus Christ touched their experiences, believing that human nature remains constant throughout the centuries, and that what was helpful to mankind two thousand years ago should be helpful to-day."

"A book of doctrines and devotions, of "A book of doctrines and devotious, of ethics and finals, which will at once satisfy the weaver of dreams and the doer of deeds." —B. A. Abbott.

BIBLE READINGS.

(In two volumes.)

Errett, Isaac.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, each, postpaid ... $1.50

Scriptural selections grouped about questions that present themselves to every thinking person. There is no comment whatever. This great writer had a firm conviction that the Bible, when properly studied, was its lown best interpreter. This work proves the wisdom and correctness of that conviction. In grouping the Scriptures in this way, Mr. Errett has rendered a most valuable service to all who wish to study the toachings of the Scriptures on topics of vital interest to Christian growth and world conquest.

THE QUERISTS' DRAWER.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid$1.50

A compliation of over three hundred ques-tions and answers on Christian beliefs, doc-trines, polity, life, and conduct, with an al-phabetically arranged list of subjects and a chronologically arranged list of texts.

EVENINGS WITH THE BIBLE.

(In three volumes.)

Cloth, svo. Price, per volume, postpaid $1.00

This notable work is a consecutive series of historical devotional and doctrinal stud-ies of the entire Bible. Beginning with

McQUIDDY PRINTING COMPANY, NASHVILLE, TENN.

SERMONS, SERMON MATERIAL AND COMMENTARIES

Genesis, the gifted writer gradually unfolds to the reader, in his lucid, graceful, persuasive, and inimitable style, the dealings and purposes of God with man as recorded in the Bible. Under the guidance of this master hand, the Bible becomes a united and carefully planned and executed book, although written in different ages and by different men. For deep spiritual insight, sympathetic understanding, and practical application, this series of biblical studies has few equals.

ON THE LORD'S DAY.

Lord, J. A.

Cloth, 8vo. Price, postpaid$1.25

A manual for the regular observance of the New Tetament ordinances. A series of fifty-two eloquent sermons, twenty-six masterly outlines, fifty-two studies on "Thoughts for the Lord's Supper," haptismal formula, social hints, orders of exercises, forms of benediction, etc., which, altogether, make this work an indispensable handbook for elders, deacons, and active Christian workers. One of the great problems of rural Christianity is the question of keeping the interest in the work alive among members who are isolated. This manual solves that problem.

A NEW COMMENTARY ON ACTS OF APOSTLES.

McGarvey, J. W.

Cloth, 8vo. Price postpaid $2.00

A commentary on this great book of the Bible that is original in form, broad in scholarship, and truly conservative. The author's versatility, profound knowledge of the Bible, his skill in arraying evidence, and his sympathy with the divine record combine to make a work of surpassing value and originality.

THE FOURFOLD GOSPEL.

McGarvey, J. W., and Pendleton, P. Y.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid...........$1.65

A harmony of the four Gospels, so arranged as to form a complete chronological life of Christ, divided into titled sections and subdivisions, with comments interjected in the text. The American Standard Version has been used,

STANDARD BIBLE COMMENTARY ON THESSALONIANS, CORINTHIANS, GA-LATIANS, AND ROMANS.

(A companion volume to "The Fourfold Gospel,")

The original method of treatment in that standard harmony has been employed in pre-paring this volume. The commentators have produced in this work a most practical and helpful exposition for the use of all readers of God's word.

BIBLICAL CRITICISM.

McGarvey, J. W.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid.....$1.25

In this series of short essays on modern criticism this eminent biblical scholar has prepared a remarkable defense of the Bible. The clear thinking and keen analysis that are so characteristic of all President McCarvey's writings are here found in their highest form. His inexorable logic tears off the mask of learning from the utterances of the enemies of the Bible, reveals their southistres, and upholds the integrity of the Scriptures in a most able way. Nowhere has this noted author employed his wit, sarcasm, and biblical knowledge so effectively as in this book. It should be in the household of every believer for constant reference.

LANDS OF THE BIBLE,

An exhaustive guidebook to the geography, topography, and social customs of Palestine. President McGarvey went to Palestine as on a hoty pligrimage. To him every rock and tree, every running brook and sloping filliside was fraught with sacred nemoties and traditions. He has classified and arranged and presented all this in that graphic, clear-cut, and forceful style for which he was famous. This great work can be used in preparation of every Sunday-school Jesson.

JESUS AND JONAH.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid......50e

A vigorous defense of the book of Jonah, Belief in this Bible miracle involves the belief in the divinity of Jesus Christ. The author exposes the cavils of the higher critics in a way that leaves them no ground to stand upon. Those who have not full confidence in the story of Jonah should not fall to read this able defense of its authenticity.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid......$1.25

The great sermons of a great preacher. They are models of homiletic effort, strong, able, and instructive. They deal with practical, wital themes which cannot fall to interest every Bible reader. President McGarvey's profound sympathy with their messages, his childlike faith, and his keenly anylatic mind made him one of the foremost preachers of his day. This volume happily preserves all these qualities for the use of future generations. Every preacher will gain invaluable inspiration from this master of pulpit oratory.

EVANGELISTIC SERMONS.

Matthews, Robert T.

Price, postpaid

In this volume of sermons the gospel is preached in a most inspiring and forceful way. Every discourse, dealing with some important phase of salvation, is a model of clearness, simplicity, and directness. As a pulpit orator, Mr. Matthews had few equals.

TRAINING TO TEACH.

Meacham, E. J.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid.......$1,00

A topical handbook for Christian workers, made up of forceful, practical, and stimu-lating thoughts on the vital things of the Christian life and service,

SEEKING THE OLD PATHS.

Moffett, Robert.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid$1.00

These sermons embody the crystallized thought and reflection of a lifetime. They possess a clearness, a breadth, and an accuracy of scriptural knowledge seldom found in the discourses of the day. They were preached at a time that demanded the most careful reasoning, profound biblical knowledge, and accurate information. Each sermon is a model of concise statement, logical arrangement, and accurate presentation of the gospel requirements of salvation.

BIBLE TRUTHS ILLUSTRATED.

Pittman, J. C. Ferdinand.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid........$1.50

This voluminous collection of illustrated material represents an entirely new idea in works of this kind. The author has gathered his great array of anecdotes with the constant purpose in mind of definitely enforcing Scripture truths. The material has been arranged by numbers under subject headings placed in the book in alphabetical order. This simple plan enables the reader to get at just the Illustration he needs in the easiest and quickest way. A cross-refrence index completes a very usable and original illustrated aid.

ADDRESSES._

Pritchard, H. R.

Cloth, 8vo. Price, postpald$1,25

A book of strong sermous by a clear, fresh, and original thinker, including the famous "Pritchard-Terrell Debate." Proposition 1: "Immersion is Essential to Christian Baptism." Mr. Pritchard affirms. Proposition 2: "Intant Children Are Proper Subjects of Baptism." Mr. Terrell affirms. Proposition 3: "Wherever the Gospel is Preached, Water Baptism is Essential to the Pardon of Past Sins." Mr. Pritchard affirms.

PUSHING THE WORLD ALONG.

Rutledge, George P.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid$1.00

Few men are better fitted to preach the gospel to this indifferent age than the accomplished and successful author of this stirring volume. Every sermon is a shaft of truth winged with apt filustrations which go deep into the heart of the hearer. The preacher who wishes a fresh stimulus to more forceful and original sermonizing should read Mr. Rutledge's discourses.

THE SPIRIT AND THE WORD.

Sweeney, Z. T.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid......$1.25

A treatise on the Holy Spirit in the light of a rational interpretation of the word of truth.

PULPIT DIAGRAMS.

(New edition.)

Cloth, 8vo. Price, postpaid$1.25

A unique and indispensable work for ministers and Bible students. Containing a collection of forty-eight of the graphic and original pulpit diagrams. They will prove an invaluable aid in impressing Bible truths.

THE WAY OF SALVATION.

Tyler, B. B.

SERMONS.

Updike, J. V.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid.....$1.00

A series of plain, pointed, practical sermons, convincing and uplifting. They should have a place in the study of every preacher who is concerned about winning souls to Christ. The younger preachers should place themselves under the influence of this great gospel pleader. His discourses are sermons of the heart as well as the head. Numerous portraits and a biographical sketch of the author included in the volume.

TWENTIETH-CENTURY SERMONS AND ADDRESSES.

Wilson, L. C.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid$1.50

A series of forty three practical and doctrinal discourses by some of our representative men and women, with Introduction By A. Lord. Such names as F. L. Pewer, A. M. Haggard, C. C. Smith, J. B. Briney, L. C. Wilson, Helen E. Moses, Anna Robinson Atwater, Lura V. Thompson, and others equally as well known, bespeak the excellence and worth of these addresses.

BACCALAUREATE AND CONVOCATION SERMONS.

Zollars, E. V.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid.....$1.75

THE COMMISSION EXECUTED.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid......$1.25

A study of New Testament conversions and other evangelistic topics.

"It is one of the best volumes of evangelistic sermons that it has been the writer's privilege to examine. The press has put forth no better volume on first principus than this. I wish it might be in the library of every preacher in America."—E. E. Snoddy.

FROM DARKNESS TO LIGHT.

Cloth, 296 pages. Price, postpaid$1.00

A series of antobiographical sketches re-lating to religious experience by eminent ministers of the church of Christ. Twenty-six elegant portraits. There are twenty-six independent personal histories of earnest souls who have found their way out of the mists of denominationalism into the full light of the gospel.

HYOMET

From Famous Eucalyptus Tree of Australia Comes Mr. Booth's Wonderful Discovery.

Some years ago, the noted Richard T. Booth, founder of the blue ribbon movement, temperance orator and leader of international fame who induced over a million men to sign the pledge, developed a very serious catarrhal while lecturing in London. Seeking to regain health, he went to inland Australia where he breathed day and night the antiseptic balsams as given off by the forests—especially the Eucalyptus trees.

This experience led Mr. Booth to the discovery of the most wonderful catarrhal treatment known to the medical science-Hyomei, which is formed from the purest oil of Eucalyptus combined with other healing and antiseptic in-gredients. Hyomei is a germ killing vaporized air, absolutely harmless but wonderfully effective in the treatment of catarrh in all of its forms, cold in the head, spasmodic croup, hay fever, clergyman's sore throat and similar complaints.

The treatment is simple but most scirentific. You breathe Hyomei. It is pronounced the only method of treatment that sends by direct inhalation to the most remote part of the air passages, a balsamic air that destroys all germs and bacilli of catarrh in the breathing organs, sooths and allays all irritation and enriches and purifies the blood with additional ozone.

A complete Hyomei outfit, including an inhaler, dropper and sufficient Hyomei for several weeks treatment, $1.35, extra bottle inhalant 75c. Sold by druggists on a positive guarantee of satisfactory results or money refunded. If your druggist can not supply it,

Booth's Hyomei Company, 12 W. Green Strreet, Ithaca, N. Y.

The Romantic Story of Southland's Favorite Shoe, EzWear

Some five years ago, a prominent citizen of South Carolina, visiting New York on important business, chanced to meet the maker of a shoe built on new and unusual lines; an enthusiastic admirer of its most distinctive features, ease and comfort, had suggested the name "EzWear;" It was promptly adopted. The business man from the South, knowing how welcome such a shoe would be in his part of the country. urged that its remarkable qualities, includ-ing not only comfort, but style, durability, and economy, be made known there. That this has been done effectively is proven by the enormous demand that has sprung up in the South for EzWear Shees. It is said that its sale there during the last twelve months has increased fully three hundred per cent. The distributor, Mr. J. R. Simon, of 1589 Broadway, Brooklyn, N. Y., says that all who wish to know about a shoe that combines all worth-while shoe qualities may have a copy of his money-saving shoe book for the asking.

Here are some little hooks you need. By Prof. Shannon, World-Famed Authority on questions of Social and Porsonal Purity. Two million in use. Three titles: "How to Tell the Story of Life," "Perfect Buy-hood," "Perfect Girlhood". Cloth-binding 75c neach: Paper 40c. Satisfaction or your money back. Order right now as you may never see this ad again. Address Dept. O. THE S. A. MULLIKIN CO., Official Publishers. Methodist Book Concern Bidg., Cincinnati, O. Agents wanted

OBITUARIES

On account of the large number of obliu-ary notices coming to the Gospel Advocate, the following rules must be observed: Obit-uaries that do not exceed two hundred words are published free of charge. When they exceed that limit, two cents will be charged for every additional word. Pay-ment must accompany notice, or it will be reduced to two hundred words. Poetry will not be printed. not be printed.

Reams.

Dr. Thales B. Reams, who was born on February 9, 1861, in Tennessee, passed away on November 17, 1920, at the home of his brother, S. E. Reams, near Gainesville, Texas, He Reams, near Gainesville, Texas,. He was a member of the First Christian Church, Birmingham, Ala. He is survived by two children—Mrs. Ora Reams Scott, of Lake Charles, La., and Paul E. Reams, of Washington, D. C.; and by two sisters and three Mustage March 1988. brothers—Misses Mary and Agnes Reams, S. E. Reams, J. W. Reams, and H. B. Reams. The deceased was an active business man, being a successful manufacturing chemist. He was in falling health for several years, but never entirely gave up business until death closed his career. He loved to read the Bible and the Gospel Advocate.

Liggett.

Frank Liggett was born on July 26, 1902; obeyed the gospel in July, 1918, under the preaching of Brother H. W. Wrye; and died on August 22, 1920. Funeral services were conducted by Brother J. S. Batey at the Verona church of Christ. Brother Liggett suffered intensely for several months before his death. He leaves a father and mother, two sisters, and many relatives and friends to mourn his death. He was always in his place at Sunday school and the Lord's-day services as long as he was able. He will be missed by the church and his Sunday-school class. To the bereaved parents and sisters and sorrowing relatives and friends I would say: Sorrow not as those who have no hope, but remember the words of John: "Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord." AUSTIN HARDISON.

Lankford.

On January 4, 1920, Pearl, the invalid daughter of Mrs. Mattie Lankford, was released from that pro-longed and dreadful disease, tuberculosis of the bone, and called to that great beyond where she had longed and prayed to go to meet her sister, Faria, her childhood companion, who preceded her, July 8, 1913. "Little Pearl," as she was frequently spoken of, was twenty-one years old, October 17, 1919. She had been an invalid from early childhood, due to curvature of the spine. She was confined to her bed seven months. Words cannot express the agony of pain and suffering of that little, frail body. As to her little, frail body. As salvation, I have not one She obeyed the gospel at Chapel, in August, 1913, beeternal Brown's Chapel, in August. ing baptized by Brother Will Hassell. She was ready to "pass over the

THE MISERY OF BACKACHE

Removed by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Muskegon, Mich.—"For six years I was so weak in my back at times that I could hardly walk. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recom-mended to me and it made me good and it made me good and strong again so that I am able to do all my work. I highly recommend your medicine and tell everyone I meet what it did for me."

Mes. C. SCHOON. -Mrs. G. Schoon-

FIELD, 240 Wood Ave, Muskegon, Mich.

Woman's Precious Gift

The one which she should most zealously guard is her health, but she often ously guard is her health, but she often neglects to do so in season until some ailment peculiar to her sex has fastened itself upon her. When so affected women may rely upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a remedy that has been wonderfully successful in restoring health to suffering women.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

Complexion Worries

don't last long if you use TETTERINE. It insures a soft, velvety skin, free from pimples and other skin sores. Pleasant, antiseptic, healing. Fine for baby's rash, prickly heat, hives, and eczema. 60c at all druggists' or from Shuptrine Co., Savannah, Ga.

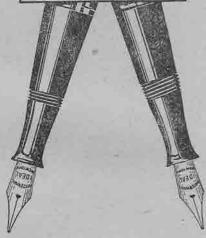

up colds When you feel a cold coming on, put plenty of Sloan's Liniment on your throat, chest and back just before going to bed. It starts warm, tingling circulation that keeps the cold from "settling" and helps break it up, while its healthy vapors soothe and clear the lungs and throat. Don't rub—don't bandage—just let it penetrate. All druggists—35c, 70c, $1.40.

We have them in pretty Christmas boxes

PRICED FROM $2.50 UP Add 5% extra for War Tax

IF CLIP-CAP IS WANTED, ADD 25 CENTS EXTRA

McQuiddy Printing Company

NASHVILLE, -

TENNESSEE

river" and rest from her life of suffering. She is mourned by two married sisters, one married brother, and her mother. HER AUNT.

Gwinn.

The death angel visited the home of Brother W. H. Gwinn and took his wife, Nancy J. Gwinn, on November 13, 1920. She was born on July 5, 1862; was married to W. H. Gwinn on January 15, 1884. They came to Texas from West Virginia thirty-four years ago. She obeyed the gospel under the preaching of W. F. Barcus, in Dallas County, thirty-three years ago, and has lived a true Christian till death. She was the mother of ten children, three of whom had gone on before. She lived to see all of her children members of the church. May they be true and faithful, as their mother was. She leaves her husband and children to follow in her footsteps; but their loss is heaven's gain. We sorrow not as those that have no hope, for we know she did what she could for the cause of Christ and in rearing her children in the faith. May they all ever try to live a true Christian life, so they will meet where parting is no more.

MRS. R. A. CROWELL.

Thomason.

Mrs. Ella Thomason, wife of the late R. B. (Ruf) Thomason, died at her home in Lawrenceburg, Tenn., on Thursday, November 11, after a long illness which she endured with true Christian fortitude. She leaves three brothers, two sisters, and many good friends to mourn her death. In her immediate family she leaves five children, two sons, and three daugh-ters, besides two little granddaugh-ters, left in her home by the death of their mother, Mrs. Willie Green, about five years ago. Truly it can be said that she loved her children and her children loved her. In her last sickness of about five months her daughters with tender bands and loving hearts waited by her bedside as only loving hearts can. This mother was She obeyed the gospel a Christian. fourteen years ago at West Point, Tenn., and "died in the faith," The funeral was held in the home by the writer of this notice. Her body was laid to rest at Mount Ararat Cemetery, May the Lord bless the bereaved.

T. C. King. reaved.

Ellett.

Mrs. Henryetta Ellett died at her home in Ashland City, Tenn., on September 30, 1920. She was the voungest of eleven children. She is survived by her husband, five sisters. and three brothers. She was a loving daughter, a true sister, a kind and ing daughter, a true sister, a kind and loving wife. A dark cloud hangs over our homes, though how bright the sun shines with glory beyond the cloud! She was a true Christian woman. She gave her soul and bedy into Jesus' keeping thirty years ago. The sweet expression that was on her face when she was baptized will ever be before my eyes. She was ready when the angel came for her. She and her husband both lived most devoted lives, true to God, true to their

IF YOU NEED A MEDICINE YOU SHOULD HAVE THE BEST

Although there are hundreds of preparations advertised, there is only one that really stands out pre-eminent as a medicine for diseases of the kidneys, liver and bladder.

Dr. Klimer's Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything.

A sworn certificate of purity is with every holds. You have receive a sample size bottle of Swamp-Root by parcel post. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co. Binghamton, N. Y., and enclose ten cents.

For sale at all drug stores in large and medium size bottles, also mention this paper.

For a Smooth Skin

Nothing is more softening, soothing, and effective than TETTERINE. For years recommended as the skin's very best friend. Puts an end to pimples. Healing, antiseptic. Excellent for bables. 60c at all druggists' or from Shuptrine Co., Savannah, Ga.

FOOT COMFORT ASSURED Brooklyn Man Solves the Problem

It is no longer necessary to auffer agonies that are caused by misfit shoes; for Mr. Simon, of Brooklyn, has proven that he can fit perfectly by mail Simon's EzWear Shoes are built to give every possible foot com fort; they are soft and stylish, and do not need breaking in. They fit like the proverbial pair, the minute you wear them. Every pair is guaranteed to give satisfaction and to fit perfectly.

Mr. J. R. Simon will gladly send a free catalogue of over 500 styles of EzWear Shoes to all who write him, along with his scientific, self-measuring blank. Write for your copy to-day, and give your feet their much-needed happiness. Address all com-munications to Mr. J. R. Simon, 1583 Broadway, Brooklyn, N. Y., and you will receive personal attention.

Antiseptic Analgesic Antiphlogistic

(Prevents Infection) (Relieves Pain) (Allays Inflammation)

Oil Eucalyptus Globulus Oil Peppermint Oil Pinus Silvestris Oil Wintergreen Menthol Gum Camphor

Thoroughly mixed in proper ratio and sequence and at proper temperature, with refined Petrolatum base.

with refined Petrolatum base.

Eucapine Salve is rapidly becoming a household necessity. It is in constant use as a preventative of discusses of the air passages, and as a dependable curative agent in ordinary inflammatory conditions. Try it for nose sores, catarrh, catarrhal headaches, cuts, sores, burns, bruises. Splendid for sore feet. Will not blister. Full sized jar free to physicians with quantitative formula if desired. 50c the 2 oz. jar. Ask your druggist; or by mail from the 2 oz. jar. Ask your druggist; or by mail from friends, and true to each other. May the Heavenly Father help her husband to bear his sad life in his lonely home, and may be keep on the heavenly way. Her life was an example for us all; so let us fight the good fight she fought, and meet her where neither pain nor sorrow is known.

Piedmont Laboratories, Inc., Clinton, S. C.

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

CORNELIA DONAVAN.

Wallace.

Madison M. Wallace was born on March 28, 1841, at Cedar Plains, in Morgan County, Ala. He obeyed the gospel at about twenty years of age. He obeyed the served three years in the Civil He was married to Lenora Catherine Harrell on December 20, 1866, and departed this life on September 27, 1920. He leaves a widow, two sons, and three daughters. We should heed Paul when he says: "Sorrow not, even as others which have no hope." Brother Wallace was one of the most faithful Christians I have ever seen. He was almost left alone for the truth at Cullman in 1912 when the church split over untaught questions. He and his family, with only a few others, met regularly and faithfully, till they saw the church stronger before his death than it was before the split. His dally life was a strong defense of the truth. When asked to go with those who practice the untaught, he said: "I prefer to worship in the way that I know is right and that is not questioned by any, even though I worship alone. Then I shall have nothing to fear. Truly he died, as he lived, in the faith. J. H. HOBTON.

Notes from West Tennessee.

BY JOHN B. WILLIAMS.

A few more days and 1920 will pass into history. Each one of us should realize that to some extent we have assisted in making the history.

During the year there have been ninety-two additions under my preaching-seventy-one by baptism. Since the closing of protracted-meeting work have visited each congregation where I held a meeting, and found all, except one, doing splendidly.

Jones Chapel, in Lake County, called Brother Joe Ratcliffe, of Bardwell, Ky., for a mission meeting at Bessie. Some good old gospel preaching was done, two or three were baptized, and much good done otherwise. At the end of the first week the rain set in, which made it necessary to close the meeting sooner than was intended. I hope the congregation will not let up until a congregation is established at Bessie and a meetinghouse built. Brethren, you can do this, and should do it.

Money, preachers, and workers are needed for the Lord's work. A few are willing to give and work, but many will do neither. These conditions have to be met and overcome.

The Gospel Advocate is a great and badly needed medium for spreading the gospel. To its readers in West Tennessee I will say that I am authorized to solicit and receipt for subscriptions to the Advocate, and I hope all who can will send in their names and two dollars and fifty cents, which will bring a number of preachers into your home once a week for a whole year. Such men as Kurfees, Elam, Smith, Srygley, Scobey, Lipscomb, Mc-Quiddy, and many other good preachers to come into your home once a week and talk to you of Ged, the Bible, heaven, the hope of meeting loved ones in the sweet beyond, will certainly be considered great when compared to the small amount given. You can send to me at Hornbeak, or send directly to the Gospel Advocate, Nashville, Tenn.

Let us all get busy; for there is a great work to do, and but little time in which to do it.

Lift up your hearts; look forward and not backward.

Give thanks to God, remembering these to-day:

There is no spiritual separation. These are not dead, and heaven not far away!

SIMPLE MIXTURE MAKES HENS LAY

BY W. S. BURGESS.

Any poultry raiser can greatly increase his profits easily and quickly by taking advantage of the thirty-five years' experience of a successful poultryman.

A lifelong study of egg production has resulted in a secret formula of buttermilk and other valuable ingredients that puts pep into lazy hens. Users report increases of two to seven times as many eggs.

This secret formula is now put up in tablet form, and is called Combs' Buttermilk Compound Tablets. Simply feed in water or mix with feed.

I am so convinced that this wonderful formula is always successful that I say kill the hen that won't lay after using it,

One million new users are wanted; so for a limited time any reader of this paper can get a big double-size box (enough for a season) on free trial by simply writing for it. Send no money. Use the tablets thirty days. If at the end of that time your hens are not laying two or three times as many eggs. if you are not more than satisfied in every way, the tablets are to cost you nothing. If completely satisfied, this big double-size box costs you only $1 on this introductory offer. Simply send name-post card will do-to Milk Products Company, 158 Creamery Building, Kansas City, Mo., and the big box of tablets will be mailed immediately, postpaid.

women's aches, Sick and Nervous Headaches, Back aches—relieved quickly by the Reliable Remedy IT'S LIQUID-QUICK EFFECT.

In answering advertisements, please mention this paper.

Again and again Jesus urged upon those who listened to him to "follow" him. This was to be a sure mark of true discipleship; and it is so still. The men who follow Christ have a right to the name "Christian," and they alone.

We never become truly spiritual by sitting down and wishing to become so. You must undertake something for your fellow men-something so great that you cannot accomplish it unaided; you need God, and you go to

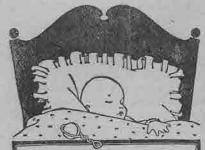

Not Bad Cook, Eut Bad Stomach.

The word "dyspepsia" means literally bad cook, but it will not be fair for many people to lay the blame on the cook, if they begin the Christmas dinner with little appetite and end it with distress or nausea.

It may not be fair for any to do that. Let us hope so for the sake of the cook.

The disease, "dyspepsia," indicates a bad stomach—that is, a weak stomach, rather than a bad cook-and for a weak stomach we know of nothing else equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla. This digestive and tonic medicine helps the stomach, gives it vigor and tone, relieves dyspepsia, creates an appetite, and makes eating the pleasure it should be.

The biliousness and constipation found in so many cases of dyspepsia are gently and thoroughly relieved by Hood's Pills, which act in perfect harmony with Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Comfortable, Healthful Nights for Baby follow the use of the safe, pleasant, purely vegetable, guaran-teednon-alcoholic, non-narcotic preparation

MRS.WINSLOW'S

The Infants' and Children's Regulator

Medical skill has never devised a safer or more satisfactory remedy for over-coming colic, diarrhoea, flatulency, constipation and similar disorders. Thousands of parents owe baby abounding health to Mrs. Winslow's Syrup. They find it never fails to bring quick and gratifying results. Pleasant to take, pleasant to give. Open published formula appears on every label.

At All Druggists

Conditions in Colorado.

BY W. F. LEMMONS

For twenty years I have been traveling and preaching-answering every call when possible-without asking any questions in regard to the conditions or expenses. Recently I was called to Loveland, Col., to hold a meeting, by a sister who wrote that there were some fifteen or twenty members there, and that they were anxious to do something. I went. They had failed to secure a house, and I went to work to that end; but after putting in a week in a city of five thousand people and twenty-three church houses and three halls. I made a signal failure, except to get the City Hall for two services on Lord's day. I got them to agree to meet in that place on every first day of the week and departed. The trip cost me one hundred dollars clean cash. I received only a little over two dollarsthe contribution. I did everything that could have been done under the conditions. If preachers do not get a reward in the next world for such sacrifices, they will be in a bad fix.

In the Northwest prejudice runs so high that it is almost out of the question to do mission work except from May to October, and it is not safe except from June to the middle of September. During these months there ought to be a sufficient fund on hand somewhere to keep men in the field every day. Prejudice runs so high that it is next to impossible to secure the use of a church house in which to preach. However, in that climate, from June to September meetings can easily be held outdoors in the open air. Hence my reasons for believing that there ought to be a fund raised to do this work at that time.

I visited Brother Fuqua, of Fort Collins, one afternoon, and talked conditions over with him; and he says that for one to do work in that country he must pay his own expenses, secure a place for the meeting, board himself, and see after other details. Brother Fuqua has been in that section for some thirteen years and is well acquainted with the needs, and he knows the needs and sacrifices that one must encounter while doing the work of an evangelist in Colorado. I found Brother Fugua to be a very congenial preacher, and judge him to be in possession of excellent talent. He has a printing office; and gets out free literature and does much to advance the cause through the press. He has a good plant, suited to the character of the work he is doing. Being a printer myself, I feel that I can speak from knowledge. He is a practical printer, and puts in all his surplus time getting out his literature. The few hours I spent in his home were very pleasant.

HOLMAN BIBLIOS

The Best Editions of the World's Best Book. Durable Flexible Lindings. Will Not Break in the Back.

FOR CHILDREN PICTORIAL BIBLES WITH HELPS

The text is self-pro-nouncing, by the aid of which children can learn to pronounce the diffi-cult Scripture proper names.

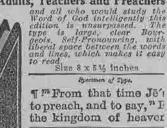

Specimes of Type.

AND the third day there was a marriage in Cayna of Gall-lee; and the mother of Je'gus was

With beautiful photo views of seenes in Bible lands of is fributed throughout the text. Also new Practical Helps to Bible Study, especially designed for instructing children in scriptural Information.

No. 91. French Seal Leather, overlapping covers, round corners, gold edges, gold titles. Publisher's Price, $2.90. $2.40

For Adults, Teachers and Preachers

to preach, and to say, "I the kingdom of heaver

the kingdom of heaver

Containing New Copyrished Helps by the most reliable Authorities, a Treasury of Biblical Information, Practical Comparative Concordance, Oriental Light on the Bible, Four Thousand Questions and Answers, New Colored Maps.

No. 47, Divinity Circuit Tenchery Bible, French Seni Leather, red under gold detes Silk Head bonds and Silk Marker, Publisher's Frice, S6.15. Our $5.15

Frice—Post Paid.

To Christ in the New Testament, Old Testament Fassages Alluded to by Christ, Various Prophecies Relating to Christ in the Cid Testament, etc., all PRINTED IN RED. Binding same as described above and same large Scif-Pronouncing type Publisher's Price, $5.80

No. 73X. Holman India Paper, Genuine Morocco, Leather Lined, Silk Sewed, Divinity Circuit, round corners, carmine under gold edges, silk head bands and silk marker, same type and Helps as above. Publisher's Price, $12.75. Our $10.655

Price—Post Paid.

ADDRESS OF

For Intermediate S. S. Scholars

Large Clear Black Type, Self-Pronouncing, containing Helps to Bible Study, 4000 Questions and Answers, Maps in Colors, and Presentation Page. A Beautiful Gift

Specimen of Type. 22 And the prophet Is'ra-el, and said unto thyself, and mark, and for at the return of t

Size 7 x 5 Inches. No. 21. Divinity Circuit Style, Bound in French Seal Leather, round corners, red under gold edges, with silk head bands and purple silk marker, gold titles, etc. Publisher's Price, $3.75. Our $3.15 Price—Post Paid

For OLD FOLKS and The HOME

Printed from large Clear Pica Type, with Marginal References, Family Record and Maps. This HOME BIBLE is new and very desirable for every day use, containing all the advantages of a Family Bible in a comment size that can be easily handled, with Record for Births, Marriages and Deaths. The best Bible obtainable for old folks who need extra large clear print and a light-weight book. No. 2914, Durubly Bound in French Seal Leather, full flexible covers, round corners, red under gold edges, sik head bands and silk marker, gold titles. Publisher's Price, $6.50. Our Price $5.40

ADDRESS ORDERS TO

McQUIDDY PRINTING COMPANY, NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE.

I stopped off at Boulder, Col., and spent one night in the home of Brother J. E. Bailey, who delivers the mail six days in the week for "Uncle Sam" and preaches on the side on Lord's days for the church at Boulder. I spent the time very pleasantly in his home. I also spent several days with Brother J. C. Schmidt, of Elbert, where I held a meeting in 1919. While he lives fifty miles from Denver. he takes his family to church in his Ford, when he can get there; and when the roads are too bad or it is too cold, they take the Lord's Supper in their own home, as I found them doing in 1919. There are no better Christians, in my opinion, than the Schmidt family, Brother Schmidt is changing locations, but had not decided where he would go when I was Correspondents will take notice that my address is changed from Howe, Okla., to Somerville, Texas, I go to work with the faithful there, and to try to build up the cause in that section.

Cuts and Bruises,

burns, stings, sores, bolls, and the numerous other mishaps, amount to little. If left alone, however, and if aided by the careless touch of a dirty hand, an ugly sore will result, and frequently blood polson. It is dangerous. Don't trifle. Apply Graz's Cint-ment immediately. It will instantly soothe the wound, cleanse the sore, kill the germs, and put it on a steady read to recovery. Keep it on your shelf for every emergency. Its constant use for a hundred years has made it a family word in every household. Ask your druggist. If he can't supply you, send his name to W. F. Gray & Co., 818 Gray Bullding, Nashville, Tenn., and you will receive a liberal sample free.

CHURCH NEWS

Arkansas.

Fort Smith, November 29.-The meeting at Estancia, N. M., closed without visible results; but I am sure some good was accomplished, as I feel that the brethren are more of a united mind than they were before. I have promised to return for another meeting, provided I can arrange for two or three meetings on the trip. It is too far to go for just one meeting. Is too far to go for just one meeting. I preached at home yesterday, and we had good services. I will be here now for the winter. Pray for me,—Will W. Slater.

Kentucky.

November 29.—On the Paducah, night of November 7 I began a meet-Bluff Springs, which con-one week. The weather was ing at ing at Bluff Springs, which continued one week. The weather was cold and rough, but the attendance was good from the first, and eight persons obeyed their Lord in baptism. Brother Charley Baker and Brother R. L. Ludlam assisted much with their presence, prayers, and songs, and Brother Baker also did a court of the haptizing. These men are part of the baptizing. These men are able preachers, sound, and clear of hobbies. Brother Baker lives at Kirk-mansville and preaches for churches around there, and Brother Ludlam is with the church at Hopkinsville. Also a number of good brethren from neighboring congregations attended, who added much strength and pleasure to the meeting. All this, with the kindness of the good people there, made it a pleasure indeed for me.—W. A. Record.

Missouri.

Sedalia, November 27.—I filled my regular appointment at Berea, in Saline County, last Sunday. The crowds are never large; and the weather being ursettled, we did not have large crowds last Sunday. But if the churches all over the country were as liberal and anxious about the Lord's work as many of these good people are, the work of the Lord would spread much more rapidly. I have visited many churches in the South that were by no means so faithful and liberal as these people. May God help our un-belief and aid us in doing more good. -S. W. Bell.

Chillicothe, November 26 .- It is almost one year ago since the church here went through her awful trial, threatening her with almost certain ruin. But through the efforts of Brother Floyd M. Edwards and myself, and by the cooperation of most of the members, we were saved from the oppressing element which was led by willful preachers determined either to rule or ruin. Since that time the church here has been mak-ing a sturdy growth. We have gained in membership, fourteen being added to the congregation during the past year; and there is a bright future before us, if we can just keep press-ing upward and onward "toward the mark for the prize of the high call-ing" which is in Christ Jesus our Lord. We had a fine meeting last night, and were rejoiced to have one take membership with us. I am in-tending to attend the preachers' meet-I am ining at Fort Smith, Ark. Let any of the brethren desiring me to visit them while in those parts please notify me, as I am desiring to arrange to preach the better part of this winter. I am getting my secular work in such shape

FOOT TROUBLES

No Need of Them, Says Brooklyn Man, Who Has Evidently Solved a Big Problem

According to the testimony of hundreds of people living in the Southland and elsewhere, J. R. Simon, of 1589 Broadway, Brooklyn, N. Y., has successfully developed a system of shoe building having for its prime object the conquering of foot and shoe troubles. It appears that Mr. Simon's establishment has become national head-quarters for people whose feet require his remarkable comfort shoe, known as the EzWear, but obtainable only of the inventor. Mr. Simon's new catalogue shows several hundred shoes that combine comfort with style at amazingly low prices and is now ready for free distribution.

NOTICE!

We want to get in touch with all the brethren who are interested in Christian education and who want to locate where there is a good Christian college. For further information, write to

S. L. BRADLEY. Morrillton, Ark.

Now Is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots.

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freekles, as Othine—double strength—is guaranteed to remove these homels spots.

Simply get an owner of Othine—double strength—from your druggist, and apply a little of if might and morning and you should soon see that even the worst reckles have begun to disappear, while the lighter mes have vanished entirely. It is seident that more than one curee is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a beautiful clear complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength Othine as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freekles.

that I can leave it, and I wish the brethren to use me in the work of the Lord what time I am able to give to the Master's cause. All preachers of the church of Christ passing through Chillicothe are requested to look us up and preach for us. Meetings are conducted each Lord's day in the meetinghouse on the corner of Commercial and Jackson Streets,-I. D.

Ohio.

November Cleveland, were two confessions and baptisms at our regular services here vesterday. Brother J. H. Curtis did the preaching and baptizing. Cleveland is one of the greatest cities for all purposes in the world, and hence one of the greatest mission fields. It will require plenty of hard work and great sacrifices, and I have taken it upon myself to do what I can here along this line. I also want, as an aid to this work, to put the Gospel Advocate into the homes of all whom I can be able to reach during this and the some able to reach during this and the com-ing year. Let all who read this and who may feel like fellowshiping me in this work send their donations to me, and I will assure them that all fellowship received will be faithfully applied to doing mission work in this great city of more than a million inhabitants. The work is needed here, The Gospel Advocate will prove a great factor in the great work here. If any one having friends or relatives in this city who are members of the church of Christ will send me their names and addresses, I will gladly look them up and show them where we meet. All of the work here requires much street-car travel, and this costs money. With the fellowship of costs money. With the fellowship of the loyal in Christ and the help of the Giver of every good and perfect gift, I am sure that I can accomplish much for New Testament Christianity in this great city.—A. A. Bunner.

Oklahoma.

Lenna, November 25.—I am preaching now only on Sundays, as I am teaching school this winter. Beginning about May, though, I will be in the field full time, I think.—J. C.

Muskogee, November 29.-We had a most enjoyable service at West Okmulgee Church yesterday, with good singing and a splendid Bible lesson, which we all enjoyed very much. Another cause for rejoicing on my part especially was the presence of two Nashville members—Brother J. H. Hale and my daughter, Mary, who are visiting here at present.—J. G. Allen.

Tennessee.

Algood, November 30 .- On October 3 I began a twelve-days' meeting at 3 I began a twelve-days' meeting at Netherland, near here—a mission point. A few brethren live there. There were no additions, but we think some good was done. Since the last of September I have been filling my regular appointments here and at Smyrna and Livingston. The brethren here are doing well raising the balance on the church debt. At Livingston they have put in a baptistery. ingston they have put in a baptistery, also extended the house and repaired it, at a cost of over one thousand dollars. The bill is all paid. We had a very enjoyable Thanksgiving, made so largely by being "pounded." The good sisters here came in and brought theirs. They of Livingston shipped theirs from that point. These are some of the sweets of a preacher's life. We had Thanksgiving services at Smyrna and Algood on Sunday, November 21, and at Livingston on Thursday night .- E. Gaston Collins.

YOU HAVE READ THIS BEFORE

For many years Foley's Honey and Tar has been advertised in the leading newspapers of the United States. You have often read about this fine old reliable family medicine. Do you know that newpapers nowadays are strict in the rules governing advertisements, and that exeggerated statements are not permitted? So when we say Foley's Honey and Tar checks coughs, colds, and croup, allays irritation, cuts the phiegm, soothes and heals, you know it 's true.

TREMENDOUS VALUE FOR 10c.

Washington, D. C. (Special).—An unusual offer is being made by the editor of the Pathfinder to send the paper to new readers eight weeks for ten cents. This wellknown national weekly magazine contains all the worth-while news of the world, lliustrated and presented in a most entertaining manner. It is clean, sincere, nonpartisan. reliable, well printed in large type. It puts everything clearly, fairly, and briefly.

Washington, the home of the Pathfinder, is the nerve center of civilization. History is being made at this world capital. The Pathfinder's illustrated weekly review gives you a clear, impartial, and correct diagnosis of public affairs during these strenuous, epoch-making days. It is the only big weekly magazine at the seat of government.
Send ten cents for eight weeks' trial subscription to the Pathfinder, 118 Douglas Street, Washington, D. C. The ten cents does not repay the editor, but he is glad to invest in new friends.

mome Music Not 19.07

Read This! Do Not Fail to Read This!

MAKE YOUR HOME HAPPY WITH A HOME MUSIC BOX. The most wonderful and cheapest musical instrument ever invented. Thousands sold. A child can play it and be amused and entertained for hours.

You can sing with it, and so teach the children to sing. Everybody surprised and pleased. Our list of 1,000 tunes includes hymns and songs. Make grandpa and grandma smile as you play the old songs they love so well. All kinds of music to choose frommarches, popular songs, hymns, Sunday-school songs, etc. A fine gift for the holidays or other occasions. Just the thing to entertain a party.

Only 88.00 for this wonderful instrument, with four tunes, your choice, free. Extra tunes, 25c each.

Does not wind up, else it would cost $35.00 and play no better music. You can repeat a place or change to another in an instant. Best to send full price with order, but $2.00 will be accepted, the rest payable on receipt by express, C. O. D., with charges. Lasts for years. Send & for catalogue.

A., Box 1179, City Hall Sta., New York, N. Y.

STANDARD MFG. CO., Dept. G. A., Box 1179, City Hall Sta., New York, N. Y.

Sold for 50 years for Malaria and as a General Tonic. Helps build you up.

If Not Sold by Your Druggist, Write ARTHUR PETER & CO., Louisville, Ky.

THERE IS NOTHING equal to Chamberlain's Tablets for constipation. When the proper dose is taken their action is so agreeable and so natural that you do not realize that it is the effect of a medicine. These tablets possess tonic properties that aid in establishing a natural and regular action of the bowels. Chamberlain's Tablets have cured many cases of chronic constipation.

Chamberlain's Tablets

Plain and Fancy

BOX STATIONERY

and

Correspondence Cards

also

Engraved and Printed

Wedding Invitations

and

Calling Cards

Samples and Prices of Cards and Invitations on request

McQuiddy Printing Company

NASHVILLE, TENN.

A Sick World's Need.

Spiritually bankrupt and financially

That about expresses the condition of the world after its emotional debauch. Drunk on the wine of economic fallacies, the new day that was to usher in the glad era of no work wherein all men are brothers brings but a headache. Elijah's ravens have quit the job, and a befooled and befuddled mankind is facing the distressing alternative of starving or going to work. The silk-shirt period has passed, and no longer is the fatted calf being killed for returning prodigals who strut and fume and complain of the service. People who bought "flivvers" and forgot to pay the grocer are lambasting the government, or the capitalists, or what not, but they haven't yet had to walk far enough or go hungry long enough to be brought to a realization that their trouble lies largely within themselves. The wrong viewpoint. Too much listening to the mischief makers who were educated in a lopsided way and who look with disfavor upon the general scheme of things as It was laid out by the Almighty. Too much jazz and too little prayer; a full belly and an empty head.

What a sick world needs just now is an old-fashioned religious revival. A little more regard for the sacredness of contract, and then a lot of selfdenial and intelligent expenditure of both time and money.

Kick out the sociological quacks, read the Sermon on the Mount, and go back to work. All will yet be well—for those who survive.—Business Chronicle.

Selections.

Trust God to weave your little thread into the great web, though the pattern shows not yet.

No man desires anything so eagerly as God desires to bring men to the knowledge of himself.

There are too many people drawing revenue from pestilential alleys and still singing about golden streets.

He stands best who kneels most: He stands strongest who kneels weak-

He stands longest who kneels lowest.

To democratize Christianity and to Christianize democracy, this is the twofold duty facing Christians of today and to-morrow. Of all their duties, none is more imperative and more pressing.

It is a marvelous thing if a man can go through the world, with all its grime and dust and soot, and keep himself unspotted, like those lilles in mining towns in Wales which keep their whiteness unsullied in the midst of the constant accumulation of coal dust falling all about them.

Try Renwar for Rheumatism.

Try Renwar for Rheumatism.

It is not necessary any longer for you to suffer those intense pains and aches of rheumatism. Renwar is a salts combination scientifically prepared to neutralize the urle acid in the blood and thereby cure rheumatism. Don't walt until those rheumatism return. Buy a bottle of Renwar and forget about that rheumatism. Renwar is an old, well-established remedy. It is prescribed by the best of physicians and has thousands of friends. President L. A. Bauman, of Varley & Bauman Company, Nashville, says: "Renwar entirely relieved me of my rheumatism." For sale by druggists; price, 50 cents. Positively guaranteed by money-back offer. If your druggist doesn't carry Renwar in stock, tell him to order it for you from WARNER DRUG COMPANY, NASHVILLE, TENN.

THIS GIRL IS A WONDER.

Do you want more money than you ever possessed? If so, learn to make nut and fruit bonbons. The business will not you $90.00 to $300.00 per month. You can work from your own home. All who sample your honbons become regular customers. start by investing less than $10.00 for sup-Mary Elizabeth started her candy kitchen with $5.00, and has made a fortune. Cannot you do likewise? I will tell you all about the business and help you start, you can become independent. Now is the psychological time to make big money, as sugar is cheaper and fine bonbons command phenomenal prices. Write to-day. Isabelle lnez, 356 Morewood Building, Pittsburgh, Pa.

Volume LXII. No. 51.

NASHVILLE, TENN., DECEMBER 16, 1920.

$2.50 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

	217 218
OUR CONTRIBUTORS	218
the Far Southern Field—Say "No."
CURRENT THOUGHT	224
MISCELLANY 1	225
HOME READING	226
CATALON DE LA COMPANIA DEL COMPANIA DEL COMPANIA DE LA COMPANIA DE	227
EDITORIAL Wealth's Responsibility—The Test of Love for Christ— Commending Others—Interest is Growing.	298
AT HOME AND ABROAD	222
Statement and Appeal 11	224
OBITUARIES 1. Davis—Gann—Mason—Lair—Meeks—Rhea—Womack. CHURCH NEWS 1238, 1	000
CHURCH NEWS	246
Ancient Landmarks	240
Ancient Landmarks 1. "A Magnificent Man"—G. Dallas Smith 1.	241
An Opportunity for Service	244
Bibles in Hotels	945
Bibles in Hotels	0.10
The second secon	610

BY A. B. LIPSCOMB

Paul's Message to Corinth.

He states in his first letter to this church: "For I determined not to know anything among you, save Jesus Christ, and him crucified." To the mind of the ancient the word "cross" meant the same as "gallows" to us. Yet the cross was preached to them as the only means of salvation. This was the theme which became "unto the Jews a stumblingblock, and unto the Greeks foolishness; but unto them which are called, both Jews and Greeks, Christ the power of God, and the wisdom of God." The cross and its Christ are the only theme for profligate Corinth, intellectual Athens, and decadent Rome. A countryman visiting the city was undecided as to which one of two preachers he should like to hear and made inquiry of a city friend. The friend said: "One preacher speaks in such a way that you lose sight of him and think only of Christ; the other is such a brilliant and eloquent man that your attention is on the preacher all the time." "Take me to hear the first one mentioned," said the countryman. Preachers who preach "Christ, and him crucified," and hide themselves behind the cross, are the preachers that bless the world. I have no sympathy nor patience with those who grow tired of simple gospel themes.

* * *

The Cross Is the Climax of Types.

The sacrifice which Abel offered, and by which he being dead yet speaketh, pointed to the cross. The altar at Bethel, where Abram called upon the name of the Lord and offered sacrifices, pointed to the cross. Every bird and beast offered on the sacrificial altars of Hebrew worship pointed to the cross. Every scapegoat which was led away into the wilderness, symbolically bearing the sins of the people, pointed to the cross. Truly the cross of Jesus Christ is the climax of types, "And I, if I be lifted up, will draw all men unto me."

The death of Jesus Christ on Calvary tells, as nothing else can, God's estimate of sin. Some years ago the papers were full of news concerning the coming of a great physician to Chicago to treat the child of a multimillionaire. The prominence of the physician, the distance traveled, the fee paid—all testify to the seriousness of the child's illness. So the cross emphasizes the awfulness of sin and the hopelessness of any other remedy. Surely sin is terrible to require so great a sacrifice.

* * *

Rightful Glorying.

In his essay on "The Teaching of Paul in Terms of the Present Day," Sir William Ramsey says: "There is nothing Paul dreads more in the nature of a man than his tendency to think too much of himself and to put himself in the place of God, instead of giving God the glory—in other words, to make himself the center of the universe, instead of regarding God as at once the center of his being and the goal of his development. The result of this is that he loses his perception of the nature of God and his love of God, whom he misrepresents more and more completely in his imagination."

Asylums are filled with lunatics who got there by thinking too much of themselves. And one case is recorded of a patient who actually thought himself to be God and wrote out his edicts in that character. Let us take warning. "He that glorieth, let him glory in the Lord." Jesus said: "I thank thee, O Father, Lord of heaven and earth, because thou hast hid these things from the wise and prudent, and hast revealed them unto babes. Even so, Father, for so it seemed good in thy sight."

"God forbid that I should glory,
Or make boast of aught beside,
Save the wondrous, heavenly story:
Christ for me was crucified."

0 0 0

Upsetting the World.

One of Wesley's followers had a unique outline for his sermon. It ran like this: "First, the world is wrong way up; second, it has got to be turned upside down; we's the chaps to do it." But who are the "these" that upset the world in the early days of the church? Paul, whose bodily presence was weak; Silas, a lay preacher from Jerusalem; Timothy, a young convert scarcely out of his teens—three men in a city of seventy-five thousand people. But call the police reserves; summon the judges to the benches; make wholesale arrests, for "these men" are on hand. "Art thou the one that troubleth Israel?" inquired Ahab of Elijah. "He is a devil," said the Jews of Christ. "The Christians have done this," said the Roman emperor whenever something had happened. Why these queries? Why these statements? Why this agitation? Because the world is upside down and Christians are to set it right. And the upsetting power is the gospel, nothing more, nothing less.

0 0 0

Songs in the Night.

No man has more religion than he can show in adversity. The wise man said: "If thou faint in the day of adversity, thy strength is small." Nearly one hundred years after Paul and Silas were imprisoned, two great Romans fought a battle in the same vicinity. Cassius, in the bitterness of defeat, hid in his tent and commanded his servants to kill him; while Brutus, in sullen determination, fell upon his sword. How different with Paul and Silas! With them there was no defeat, but a song in the night.

The body may be imprisoned, but the soul can neither be confined within walls nor bound with chains. The feet may be fettered, but the thoughts fly like swift-winged arrows to the angels' home beyond the skies.

David says: "Yet Jehovah will command his lovingkindness in the daytime; and in the night his song shall be with me, even a prayer unto the God of my life." (Ps. 42: 8.)

The Habit of Doing Things.

It was Paul's custom and habit on entering a strange city to begin work at once by preaching in the synagogue, if that city had one. "As his custom was." This tireless missionary puts to shame the time-serving policy of many to-day. No inquiry to see if the people are prejudiced against him; no careful feeling of the situation to see if there will be personal danger; no sounding of the city officials to see if he will be unmolested; no, nothing of the kind. The people are there, and that is enough. All those who follow impressions, who wait for fair weather and favorable indications, should learn a lesson of this man and form the habit of serving Christ at all times.

Our Contributors

Noah, the Recipient of Jehovah's Covenant.
BY H. LEO BOLES.

While the fire glowed upon the altar and the smoke ascended to the top of the mountain, Jehovah showed his approval of Noah's sacrifice by communing with him and making a covenant. Jehovah said: "I establish my covenant with you, and with your seed after you; and with every living creature that is with you, the birds, the cattle, and every beast of the earth with you; of all that go out of the ark, even every beast of the earth. And I will establish my covenant with you; neither shall all flesh be cut off any more by the waters of the flood; neither shall there any more be a flood to destroy the earth. And God said, This is the token of the covenant which I make between me and you and every living creature that is with you, for perpetual generations: I do set my bow in the cloud, and it shall be for a token of a covenant between me and the earth." (Gen. 9: 9-13.)

This covenant included Noah and his seed after him and every living thing that had been with him in the ark. It includes not only the human family, but every living creature is affected by the covenant. Not only is Noah the federal head of the human family; but Noah, the lord of all living creatures, becomes one party of the covenant, and Jehovah becomes the other party. Jehovah covenants that he will never again destroy the earth with a flood. This is an everlasting covenant. So long as the present condition of affairs continues, rain and sunshine, winter and summer, season shall follow season in regular order, this covenant shall stand. There shall no longer be a disturbance, so far as the elements are concerned, but all things shall now continue as they now begin.

Jehovah has included man and all the lower creation of living creatures in this covenant; and these living creatures are included in the new covenant, the covenant of Christianity. Everything was cursed when Adam sinned. Adam being at the head of all things when he sinned or fell, all that were under him fell. Not only the human family was represented by Adam, but every living creature, and possibly the vegetable creation, suffered because of Adam's sin. So when Jehovah makes this covenant, he includes everything that has been affected by the flood in the covenant. I think that the new covenant also includes everything that was affected by Adam's sin, and also everything that was included in the covenant with Noah. The new covenant of Christianity was to include the lower creation, or the lower creation was to be affected by the covenant of Christianity. The great Messianic prophet, looking forward to the coming of Christ, says: "And the wolf shall dwell with the lamb, and the leopard shall lie down with the kid; and the calf and the young lion and the fatling together; and a little child shall lead them. And the cow and the bear shall feed; their young ones shall lie down together; and the lion shall eat straw like the ox. And the sucking child shall play on the hole of the asp, and the weaned child shall put his hand on the adder's den. They shall not hurt nor destroy in all my holy mountain; for the earth shall be full of the knowledge of Jehovah, as the waters cover the sea." (Isa. 11: 6-9.) This indicates a restoration by Christianity of the human family and the lower creation again to a position of peace and union. The enmity now between tribe and tribe, nation and nation, species and species, and members of the same tribe, nation, and species, will be destroyed by the spirit of Christianity when Christianity shall have its full force on the hearts and lives of people. Paul expresses the same benefits to be derived from the new covenant when he says: "For I reckon that the sufferings of this present time are not worthy to be compared with the glory which shall be revealed to usward. For the earnest expectation of the creation waiteth for the revealing of the sons of God. For the creation was subjected to vanity, not of its own will, but by reason of him who subjected it, in hope that the creation itself also shall be delivered from the bondage of corruption into the liberty of the glory of the children of God. For we know that the whole creation groaneth and travaileth in pain together until now." (Rom. 8: 18-22.) Whatever was affected by sin has been included in the new covenant; also, whatever was affected by the flood was included in the covenant with Noah.

God has promised all creation that there shall not be another destruction by water; but this promise, or covenant, does not mean that Jehovah will not punish or destroy the wicked. The implication of the New Testament teaching is that all things shall be destroyed next time with fire. The earth has received its baptism in water by the flood, and the time is coming when it must suffer or endure the baptism of fire. "But the day of the Lord will come as a thief; in the which the heavens shall pass away with a great noise, and the elements shall be dissolved with fervent heat, and the earth and the works that are therein shall be burned up. Seeing that these things are thus all to be dissolved, what manner of persons ought ye to be in all holy living and godliness, looking for and earnestly desiring the coming of the day of God, by reason of which the heavens being on fire shall be dissolved, and the elements shall melt with fervent heat? But, according to his promise, we look for new heavens and a new earth, wherein dwelleth righteousness." (2 Pet. 3: 10-13.)

The token of this covenant between Jehovah and the earth was the rainbow. There has been much discussion as to whether any rain fell on the earth before the flood. Those who study it from a scientific view understand that the rainbow is a reflection of the rays of light, water reflecting these rays. I am not interested in analyzing the physical features of the rainbow, but we may be assured that wherever there has been rain, dew, fog, and sunshine, there is a possibility of a rainbow; so if there was rain, dew, or fog before the flood, there were the conditions and possibilities of a bow. The correct interpretation of the Scriptures is that God appointed, set, or ordained that the bow should be the sign of the covenant. It is possible that the bow existed before the flood, but it did not exist as God's sign until after he made the covenant with Noah. Jehovah says: "I will look upon it, that I may remember the everlasting covenant between God and every living creature of all flesh that is upon the earth." Jehovah says that he "will look upon it" and will "remember." It is a beautiful thought when you see the rainbow and look upon it, that you and Jehovah are looking upon the same thing. This must have been very encouraging to the early descendants of Noah. The rainbow engages the attention of the young and the aged, the learned and the unlearned, the heathen and the philosopher. The unlettered savages on the land and the mariner at sea may look upon it with admiration and hope. To a believer in the Bible the rainbow has great significance. He is not interested so much in the beautiful blending of the seven primary colors with their varied hues, but he looks upon it as a signet of the Almighty sealing his covenant and fulfilling his promise. It is a reflection of the signet of Jehovah as he silently places his hand on the cloud. The rainbow is a token of the promise of Jehovah and the hope of God's mercy to a sinful race.

As the rainbow is Jehovah's token and Jehovah's looking upon it causes him to remember his covenant, so our looking upon it causes us to remember that we are sinners and need his mercy. A worshiper placed his sacrifice upon the altar, and Jehovah looked upon the sacrifice. In the sacrifice Jehovah and the worshiper meet and are reconciled. The same is true in regard to the Lord's Supper. Jehovah looks upon the Supper, and we look upon it. It is our token in which we are to remember his death and suffering. In the Lord's Supper, God's eyes of grace and our eyes of faith meet. Jehovah with grace, memory, and acceptance looks upon the Supper; we with faith, memory, and participation eat of it, and in the Lord's Supper meet Jehovah and are reconciled to him.

Use of Our Tongues. BY ARTHUR B. TENNEY.

We think we are able to use our tongues, and resent any effort to padlock them. But we find some people who are tongue-tied—that is, those whose tongues are tied in the middle and loose at both ends. Others have little good use for their tongues. What is to be done? Let the Bible settle it.

"Death and life are in the power of the tongue." (Prov. 18: 21.) "He that would love life, and see good days, let him refrain his tongue from evil, and his lips that they speak no guile." (1 Pet. 3: 10.) "Whoso keepeth his mouth and his tongue keepeth his soul from troubles." (Prov. 21: 23.) "If any man thinketh himself to be religious, while he bridleth not his tongue, but deceiveth his heart, this man's religion is vain." (James 1: 26.)

Our tongues expose our hearts. "Keep thy heart with all diligence; for out of it are the issues of life," (Prov. 4: 23.) "For from within, out of the heart of men, evil thoughts proceed, fornications, thefts, murders, adulteries, covetings, wickedness, deceit, lasciviousness, an evil eye, railing, pride, foolishness: all these evil things proceed from within, and defile the man." (Mark 7: 21-23; read also Matt. 15: 18-20.) "Ye offspring of vipers, how can ye, being evil, speak good things? for out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh. The good man out of his good treasure bringeth forth good things: and the evil man out of his evil treasure bringeth forth evil things. And I say unto you, that every idle word that men shall speak, they shall give account thereof in the day of judgment. For by thy words thou shalt be justified, and by thy words thou shalt be condemned." (Matt. 12: 34-37.)

We dislike for others to say what we shall say, but we may get some valuable suggestions from what God says about the matter. He created the tongue when he created man, and knew for what purposes he created the tongue. "Yea, my heart will rejoice, when thy lips speak right things." (Prov. 23: 16.) "Hear, for I will speak excellent things; and the opening of my lips shall be right things. For my mouth shall utter truth; and wickedness is an abomination to my lips. All the words of my mouth are in righteousness; there is nothing crooked or perverse in them." (Prov. 8: 6-8.) "My mouth shall speak wisdom; and the meditation of my heart shall be of understanding," (Ps. 49: 3.) "The mouth of the righteous talketh of wisdom, and his tongue speaketh justice." (Ps. 37: 30.) "Speak ye truth each one with his neighbor." (Eph. 4: 25.) "But speaking truth in love." (Verse 15.) "So then let us follow after things which make for peace, and things whereby we may edify one another." (Rom. 14: 19.) "Let no corrupt speech proceed out of your mouth, but such as is good for edifying as the need may be, that it may give grace to them that hear." (Eph. 4: 29). "Let your speech be always with grace, seasoned with salt, that ye may know how ye ought to answer each one." (Col. 4: 6.) "Being ready always to give answer to every man that asketh you a reason concerning the hope that is in you, yet with meekness and fear: having a good conscience." (1 Pet. 3: 15, 16.) Note the "meekness," not boastfulness.

Christians are singers-singers of the best sentiment to be found. Impressions can be made by singing, lessons can be taught by singing, often as effective as they can be made by "preaching." Vulgar songs are catchy and are detrimental to good singing and to Christian spirituality. Do not listen to the vulgar kind. Never sing it. God has spoken on this question. Listen to him, and heed his voice: "Let the word of Christ dwell in you richly; in all wisdom teaching and admonishing one another with psaims and hymns and spiritual songs, singing with grace in your hearts unto God." (Col. 3: 16; Eph. 5: 19.) There is "grace" in God's singing, as there is in other speaking. David said: "O Lord, open thou my lips; and my mouth shall show forth thy praise." (Ps. 51: 15.) And: "I will sing of loving-kindness and justice: unto thee, O Jehovah, will I sing praises." (Ps. 101: 1.) We can feel the same if we are Christian to the core.

It is common for people who want to do certain things to ask what there is against it. Well, here is some of God's teaching against improper speech: "Speak not one against another." (James 4: 11.) "Murmur not, brethren, one against another." (James 5: 9.) "Putting away therefore all wickedness, and all guile, and hypocrisies, and envies, and all evil speakings." (1 Pet. 2: 1.) "Wherefore, putting away falsehood" (Eph. 4: 25), "lie not one to another" (Col. 3: 9). "Every idle word that men shall speak, they shall give account thereof in the day of judgment," (Matt. 12: 36; see 1 Tim. 5: 13; 2 Thess. 3; 11, 12.) "He that would love life, and see good days, let him refrain his tongue from evil, and his lips that they speak no gulle." (1 Pet. 3: 10.) "But fornication, and all uncleanness, or covetousness, let it not even be named among you, as becometh saints; nor filthiness, nor foolish talking, or jesting, which are not befitting: but rather giving of thanks." (Eph. 5: 3, 4.) "And wickedness is an abomination to my lips." (Prov. 8: 7.) "Let no corrupt speech proceed out of your mouth." (Eph. 4: 29.) "But now do ye also put them all away: anger, wrath, malice, railing, shameful speaking out of your mouth." (Col. 3: 8.) "Wherefore putting away all filthiness and overflowing of wickedness, receive with meekness the implanted word, which is able to save your souls." (James 1: 21.)

This closes about seven hours of work on arranging and writing this. What is it all for? That I may help encourage clean speech and singing, so much needed. The air is almost full of cursing, vulgarity, irreligion, etc. Are you helping it to be thus? After reading these scriptures, how can you do it longer? You are setting hell-balt before the children who hear you use it. You blush when your mother slips up on you when you are in this wrong. But God is ever watchful, "greater than our heart, and knoweth all things." (1 John 3: 20.) The average curse sentence is meaningless, except its vileness and condemning sentiment. The heathen have more respect for their gods than to use their names irreverently. How about our respect for the one true God? Even if our associates use bad language, remember, Christians are "the salt of the earth" and "the light of the world" (Matt. 5), and are not to fall to Satan's call. Be clean-speaking Christians,

The Slaughter of the Innocents.

FROM THE LITERARY DIGEST.

When Jesus Christ came upon the earth, nearly two thousand years ago, to save all mankind, his mere coming seemed to interfere with the material interests of a few people of that period, notably King Herod, who promptly decided to dispose of this "interloper," and sent forth his soldiers with orders to slay all the children of two years old and under. Thus was consummated the most atrocious crime against innocent childhood ever committed up to that time. It has come down to us through all the ages in song and story, and master painters have pictured it on marvelous canvasses.

To-day passing in review, as we look out through the windows of our comfortable homes in this great and happy land, are three and a half millions of helpless children, the innocent victims of the greatest war that has ever afflicted humanity. It matters not, as we gaze in the direction of these children, that our eyes must stretch across three thousand miles of ocean, we still can see them and we still can hear them, if we wish to do so; and we cannot help hearing the tragic appeal in their voices and seeing their tiny arms stretched out to us, and their searching eyes looking into our souls, as they say: "Help us, or we And if we fail to listen to this great call of three and a half millions of God's helpless children; if we close our eyes and ears to this great demand of duty, we will be just as guilty of the "slaughter of the innocents" as was Herod, nearly two thousand years ago.

In these lands, swept by death and filled with tragedles too deep for tears, a sum of human suffering is being written greater perhaps than for all ages gone by. The mind grows numb and the heart sick from a constant recital of tales of such tragedy as it is difficult to believe the twentieth century could hold.

And so, when we received the letter from Mr. Hoover telling us that America must not allow hunger and cold to return to this mass of three million five hundred thousand helpless children, our soul was stirred and the hot blood surged up in our heart. We felt it was our imperative duty to use all the power God has given us to aid this noble-hearted American in continuing the work of saving human lives to which he has devoted unsparingly, and at great personal sacrifice, his tremendous energy and administrative genius during the past six years, in which time he and his American colleagues have administered two billions of dollars of relief funds from all parts of the world with a total overhead expense of only three-eighths of one per cent, without any remuneration to the American directors. Now he asks us all to help save the children who are in imminent danger of starvation this coming winter.

There they are, in the midst of wrecked homes, and farms, and factories; in cities crowded with masses of refugees without sustaining food for children, through the destruction of live stock; seeds for planting, raw materials, tools, and machinery gone; great areas with everything burned, or looted, or smashed; vast unemployment for workers; no means of subsistence; a land of economic ruin, of mutilated life, and lingering death; and in the midst of it all—the little children.

In long lines they are waiting at the American food kitchens. Will the food be there for them? Will they be turned away? There are no happy, healthy faces in those long lines—not one. You have seen rags and barefooted children, but never so many little boys and girls literally dressed in tatters. Soon it will be very cold, and for those bare little feet and legs and arms there is nothing at home to put on.

Hollow faces and shrunken bodies are so common that their real condition does not become evident until we inquire more closely, and then we find that most of them are from one to five years back in their growth. Children of eight years old have not reached the normal size of two and a half. They are just learning to stand alone. Others almost as old cannot yet stand on their feet. Their arms, and legs, and spines, and chests are twisted and warped. The flesh and skin are shriveled on their bones. It is surprising that life can still exist there. If they can have food, they will gradually regain their health and strength, but with most of them it is a question of now or never. Starvation and tuberculosis will not wait.

In Poland alone a million five hundred thousand such children must be cared for. In Latvia and Esthonia the people are living mostly on a diet made from potato flour, oat flour, and sawdust. In Czecho-Slovakia, in Hungary, in Austria, and in other countries of central and southeastern Europe, two millions more are in dire need of food; and who stops to ask regarding creed, or race, or nationality when a little child is starving? Children are just children the world over, and the great American heart is big enough to care for them all.

But the appeal now is not for all. The three and a half millions of children in immediate danger of starvation, if this organization fails, who must have food at once, are only a fraction of the total number. The hungry children of those destitute countries have been examined by competent physicians, and only those whose wasted little bodies are reduced to the minimum weight, and whose endurance of hunger has reached the end which merges into actual starvation, are admitted to the American kitchens and given one meal a day. It is hard to turn away thousands of hungry boys and girls—to hear them ask, pleadingly, "Do I weigh too much?" "Am I not thin enough?" "Can't I come any more?" But this restricting of food to the extreme cases is compulsory, because there is not enough for all.

And these needlest ones cannot reach the kitchens through the cold winds and the snow barefooted and in the pitiful rags which form only a partial covering for their bodies. They must have clothes. Each outfit consists of one pair of warm woolen stockings, one pair of boots, and a little overcoat. This one meal a day and these boots, stockings, and little coats can be supplied only if we give them. If we do not, the slaughter of the innocents by cold and starvation will be appalling.

Among the more than two million men and women who read this page there is not one-there cannot be a single one-whose heart will not respond gladly and eagerly to the challenge of this great need. We are asked, you with us, to cooperate with Mr. Hoover in raising twenty-three million dollars to feed and clothe these children and save them from death this winter. It can be done. It shall be done! The Literary Digest knows its readers and the deep earnestness, the quick sympathy, the great-hearted generosity they always show when any real human need calls to them. You have never been called upon in vain. We are counting on you now with a great confidence. We know, also, how truly you represent the American spirit, which beats in the hearts of a hundred and three millions more in this big land of plenty, a spirit which leaps ready at every such call, and is never weary in well-doing. We are not a hermit nation, isolated from the world, when suffering and want cry out to us from anywhere under the sun. A great, a beautiful, and heart-sustaining hope supports these stricken people-America will come to their relief. For in the far places of the earth, where famine stalks, one name, and one alone, is synonymous with rescue and hopeand that name is "America."

The small individual unit of ten dollars will provide the coat and boots and stockings and one meal a day for one child this winter. A hundred dollars will save the lives of ten children. For a thousand dollars you may have the joy of saving a hundred little ones. We urge our readers—we urge every one whose eyes are on these words—to give quickly as many of these units as possible, to buy for themselves that precious and priceless thing, the life of a little child—as many of them as they can, and every one will be a shining star in an eternal crown. It was the Divine Lover of little children, who came to earth as a little child, and who reigns now as the King of Glory, who said: "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these, ye have done it unto me." He does not forget, nor fail to reward.

So deeply do we ourselves feel the urgency of this great need, knowing all the facts, that we should feel a heavy burden of guilt if we did not go beyond anything we have felt possible heretofore in order to save these innocent children from suffering and death. Therefore, the Literary Digest will start this fund with the sum of $25,000 to feed and ciothe twenty-five hundred little boys and girls this winter. What an inspiration it will be to all of us-what an inspiration and example to many thousands who may be uncertain how much to give-if in the very first week there shall be a great shower of checks for $1,000, for $5,000, for $10,000, as well as a deluge of smaller amounts, to send the fund rolling on toward the necessary twenty-three millions! Let us all see again what the father's heart is like in this great, rich land of America. Let us have again a wondrous revelation of the heart of American motherhood. Let us have a great outpouring of love and helpfulness in the name of Him who said: "Feed my lambs!"

Make all checks payable to "The Literary Digest Child-Feeding Fund," and mail them direct to The Literary Digest. Every remittance will be acknowledged and The Literary Digest will be responsible for every dollar contributed, to see that it goes, without one penny deducted, to the purpose for which it is given. Address Child-Feeding, The Literary Digest, 254-360 Fourth Avenue, New York.

That it may please Thee to wean my affections from all things below, and to fill me with ardent desires after heaven, and finally to make me partaker of all thy blessings and promises in Christ Jesus, I beseech thee to hear me, good Lord.—Selected.

Mrs. S. T. Hardison.

BY J. C. M'Q.

Dr. S. T. Hardison and family, of Lewisburg, Tenn., have the sympathy of the entire force of the Gospel Advocate in the recent death of Sister Hardison. I have known and appreciated Sister Hardison for many years. I always felt, and especially when I began preaching and needed encouragement, that I would be welcome in the home of Dr. and Sister Hardison. In years of the long ago Sister Hardison, or "Sister Georgia," as she was familiarly called, gave me good advice which proved very helpful to me in the work of preaching the gospel. Such a life is not and cannot be in vain. Her works will follow after her. God is able to use the influence of such a noble woman through the years to come. While her husband, children, and relatives will greatly feel their loss, yet a sweet, precious memory of the good she has done, of the kind words she has spoken, and of her noble life, will ever be present with them to lift them upward to the throne of God.

We shall expect some one to prepare a more extended notice for the columns of this paper.

One of Thirty-Four Churches.

Editor's Note: Much has been published and many appeals have been made through the columns of the religious newspapers in order to secure sufficient funds to pay for the church house in Washington, D. C. It seems that about seventeen thousand dollars is still owing on the house. The treasurer of the church of Christ at Dickson, Tenn., sends a proposition which is approved by the elders of that church. We cheerfully give this to our readers. If there are thirty-three other churches willing to give five hundred dollars, their prompt action will be appreciated. It does seem that it is not advisable to make so many appeals in order to raise this sum. The proposition of the church at Dickson is as follows:

The church of Christ at Dickson, Tenn., wants to make the following proposition concerning the work at Washington, through your paper. We understand from Brother Long that the present indebtedness on the church there is seventeen thousand dollars, and that if same is paid at an early date the accrued interest will be deducted. Realizing the importance of this debt's being wiped out at an early date, we are willing to be one of thirty-four churches to pay same at once. We will be glad to pay five hundred dollars on the condition that thirty-three other churches will do the same and thus cancel the debt. Now, if you have already given to the work, do not let it deter you from accepting this proposition. We have already paid in about five hundred dollars. We feel that there should be plenty of strong churches throughout Tennessee, Texas, and Kentucky to meet this proposition soon. Who will be the first one to give us a hearing?

Second Term Begins on January 3, 1921.

The second term at David Lipscomb College begins on January 3, 1921. Those who desire to be enrolled as students should make application at once in order that there may be no disappointment in securing room. There will be accommodations for a few young men and young women who are earnestly seeking an education that is worth while. Courses of study have been arranged so that a student will receive full credit for each term of work taken. We have a high standard of scholarship and conduct, and the present student body is securing good results. A system of supervised study has been introduced. Students are kept under the centrol and influence of Christian teachers during every hour of the day and night. We have the best facilities and equipment in the history of the institution. For catalogue containing full information, address A. B Lipscomb, President, David Lipscomb College, Nashville, Tenn.

LOS ANGELES NOTES

By S. H. HALL,

2669 North Sichel Street.

House of worship, corner Altura and North Sichel Streets. Take North Broadway car to Sichel, then one block to left.

Giving and Going.

In using the word "giving" at the head of this article, I have in mind doing what duty demands in the way of giving of our means for the extension of the cause of Christ on earth; in using the word "going," I have in mind what we mean when we talk about "going" to heaven.

About three months before I left Atlanta, Brother J. G. Malphurs, who then lived at Chaplin, Ky., wrote me a letter inquiring how I went about teaching a church on the subject of giving, and asked me to publish it with my answer in the Gospel Advocate. It was my intention to do this at once, hence did not acknowledge his letter with a reply; but work piled up so on me that I never got to it. I want our good brother to know the letter was appreciated and that it is one cause of this article. Without using space to publish his letter, I shall let it direct the course of this article.

1. Above everything else, convert the church. I think it is safe to say that truly converted people give-give freely and gladly. Many of our churches need conversion. Certainly it is true that there is such a thing as being a true convert and not giving just because it has not been impressed upon your mind. Such would have been giving all along, but simply had never been made to realize the importance of it. But just as certain as I am writing this, we have in many of our congregations people that are no more true converts than those who tenaciously, in the face of the plainest of facts to the contrary, teach sprinkling for baptism and many other things evidently as wrong. Don't you tell me that a man will frown, twist, and squirm when he is asked to give, if he is truly converted, if he has in him the spirit of Christ, if the love of God reigns in his soul. Get the heart right with God, and giving will come as a matter of course. So far as getting people to see what the Book says on the subject of giving, it requires but little effort and time, if they are truly God's children, if they are living in the heart of our God and he is dwelling in them. I say again, convert them, fill them with the spirit of the Ones who have given as no others have-viz., God, the Father, and his Son, whom he sent to give his life for us.

2. On the principle that what is good for one congregation is good for all, I here submit an excerpt from "The Friendly Visitor," which is mailed, as a rule, to our members each week:

Please study carefully all of the eighth and ninth chapters of 2 Corinthians. " grace Note what the word means. Is it not applied to giving in this chapter, and is it not called "the unspeakable gift" in the last verse of the ninth chapter? And what does Paul mean by us to what Christ had done, in the ninth verse of the eighth chapter? Have not God and his Son been wonderful givers? Have they given grudgingly or stintingly? What if they had had no more of the giving spirit than some of us? I shudder at the thought! What does Paul mean by Titus' "earnest care" for them in verse 16 of the eighth chapter? Does he not here have in mind Titus' desire that they do their duty in giving? And what does Paul mean in the last verse of the eighth chapter when he says: "Wherefore show ye to them, and before the churches, the proof of your love, and of our boasting on your be-half?" Of what had Paul boasted? Read 2 Cor. 9: 1-4. Had he not boasted of them as being those to be depended on when it comes to giving? And our Brother Andrews did some boasting of you in our business meeting last Sunday night. I was glad to hear and see such confidence expressed by him. He said all bills will be paid next Lord's day, that our collections will meet the demands. And what does Paul mean by that expression, 'in the face of the churches," or "before the churches?" mands. Does he not here let us know that he was to let other churches know what they were doing? Notice what he says about their zeal "provoking" or "stirring up" others to do their duty in verse 2 of the ninth chapter. Will not every child of God that reads this pray daily that the zeal of this church may stir every other church in this State and nation? Am I right when I say "the church of Christ" and its doctrine are the best things in the world—that there is nothing so good, so pure? will we not give to these things the best there is in us?

Study thoughtfully 2 Cor. 9: 6-8; and read in connection with this Mal. 3: 8-10. Pardon me for the expression, but I must ask: Was God just joking when he spoke of opening the windows of heaven and pouring out a blessing that they could not find room to receive? And that he was to do this on the condition that they give as they had Is he the same God under the better been taught? nant under which we now live? Has he said nothing about blessing us beyond all our thoughts or our asking? (See Eph. 3: 20, 21.) I can think "lots," but he is able and does bless those who really love, work, and give be-yond their thoughts. Joy we must have if we really impress others that there is a reality in the religion we have embraced. Have you noticed what David said about this in Ps. 51: 12, 13? He wanted the joy of salvation restored, and plainly states that after this is done he would teach transgressors God's way and sinners would be converted. See what Paul says about the true church in Heb. 3: 6. But joy we can never have, if we do not do our duty, and giving is a big part of it.

3. It will not be amiss, I hope, to say that our contributions here went about three hundred and twenty-eight dollars last Lord's day. It is an easy matter to get people to do when they want to do, and those who are wholly converted to Christ and are filled with his Spirit are ever hungering to do something to extend his cause and kingdom in the world.

In conclusion, let me say that "giving" and "going" to heaven go hand in hand. If we are giving much, we are going much; but those disciples who are not giving, and giving to that degree that they feel it, are not going toward heaven very fast. I love to teach people to give and to see them give, because I want them saved. I teach it for the same reason I teach baptism, repentance, prayer, or anything else God has commanded. We have no nonessential commands from our Lord. Give or die spiritually is just as true as repent or perish.

0 0 0 Help Savannah, Ga.

Good letters from Brethren Claus and Beck tell the good news of Savannah's determination of having a house of worship and of the sore need of it. They have an opportunity of getting a ten-thousand-dollar house for eight thousand dollars. The faithful few at that place state that if their friends at other places will help them to the extent of thirty-five hundred dollars, they will do the rest. We must have this by the first of the year. Will not each one who reads this make up his or her mind to give, or to have a special donation taken at his or her home church next Lord's day, and send at once to J. M. Copeland, 109 East President Street, Savannah, Ga.? Think what it has meant to Georgia for Atlanta, Valdosta, and Macon to be on their feet and now radiating centers for the gospel in neglected Georgia! What can it mean to put Savannah on the list, and that at once! Beck and Copeland are there giving their best, and rest assured of the fact that "failure" has never entered their minds. Put your money where it is a safe investment for the cause of Christ.

For Paul love is the numeral before the ciphers. Given that, every additional gift multiplies a man's talents by ten. And so true to the gospel values is Paul's estimate that if you substitute the name of Jesus for "love" in his greatest chapter, you get a portrait of the character of our Lord which corresponds with that in the gospel records.-Selected.

Georgia and the Far Southern Field By B. C. GOODPASTURE

A Sacred Obligation.

The God who said through his respective servants, "F bands, love your wives, even as Christ also loved fuschurch, and gave himself up for it" (Eph. 5: 25); ', the shalt love thy neighbor as thyself" (Matt. 19: 1 Thou "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with 2" 29); and, and with all thy soul, and with all thy m' al thy heart, 37); also said, "Love the brotherhood and" (Matt. 22: That we should love "the broth" a" (1 Pet. 2: 17). ception. We find those who merhood" is a great connumber of brethren, or to can and do love a select love, perhaps. is all a local, home congregation. Such the control of the c is, it does not go far enough. If Paul had centered his Christian affections upon one congregation exclusively, what would have been the fortunes of all the other churches; and who could have written the matchless Pauline Epistles, which have been the source of a marvelous inspiration through the passing centuries? Had Paul not loved the work of his Lord beyond the limits of the church in Antioch, he would never have given heed to his "Macedonian call," nor would his great missionary tours have been made. See him at Derbe, the last city reached on his first tour before he begins to retrace his steps back to Antioch. He could very easily have passed through the defile of the Taurus mountains into the plains of Cilicia, visited his home in Tarsus, and returned to Antioch-it was the shortest route; but he chose rather to return "to Lystra, and to Iconium, and to Antioch, confirming the souls of the disciples, exhorting them to continue in the faith, and that through many tribulations we must enter into the kingdom of God." (Acts 14: 21, 22.) Surpassing the love of kindred, self, and all else, his love for the church universal stood first in the world-wide program of his intensely strenuous life. In recounting his sufferings and cares he said: "Besides those things that are without, there is that which presseth upon me daily, anxiety for all the churckes." (2 Cor. 11: 28.) The great apostle brings "all the churches" within the circle of his consideration and love. Paul's love for the church was so great that he gave his possessions, his time, and his life for it. The sacrifices a man makes for "the brotherhood" indicate his love for it. When this love as expressed in the apostolic "anxiety for all the churches" prevails generally among the people of God, there will be a mustering of forces and a forward march into new fields for greater victories.

0 0 0

The Church at McGregor.

Sister Vina Hooper, who was instrumental in getting a congregation started at McGregor, Ga., writes concerning the work there; "I found, on returning from vacation, the little band of Christians here still meeting regularly. There is quite a bit of financial help needed, and help from any other congregations will be greatly appreciated. We had Brother Boyd, of Valdosta, with us last Lord's day. He preached two very impressive sermons. Brother J. P. Prevatt is to be with us on next fourth Lord's day. Pray for us that we may hold out faithful. I have just received ten dollars from Brother J. V. Copeland, Lake Park, Ga., to be applied on the building fund." Our readers are not unfamiliar with the work at McGregor. It is not always possible for a congregation to be self-supporting from the beginning. I am sure those who have contributed formerly to the McGregor field will gladly continue their support. Send all contributions to Sister Vina Hooper.

The Appeal From Savannah.

The brethren in Savannah and South Georgia are making things "hum" in their efforts to raise sufficient funds to buy the Christian Scientist meetinghouse for the little congregation in Savannah. Brother Beck sends me the following report: "Brother Claus and the brethren here went around and looked at the house yesterday, and are pleased with it; and they are making preparations to raise the money they have promised. It is up to us to do something now, and we want those who are going to help us to get busy. Brother Claus is going to raise at least five hundred dollars in the Valdosta congregation, and Brother Copeland goes to help him Wednesday, and will stay until Sunday. Dasher has promised about the same as Valdosta. The Savannah brethren are doing their best; but they need help, and need it now. The outlook for the church there is promising, the opportunity is inviting. The appeal is urgent. Brethren, send your contributions at once to J. B. Beck, P. O. Box 1530, Savannah, Ga.

Say "No." BY MRS. HOMES HOGAN.

Dare to say "No" when you're tempted to drink. Pause for a moment, my brave boy, and think; Think of wrecks upon life's ocean tossed,
For answering "Yes" without counting the cost.

Think of the mother who bore you in pain; Think of the tears that will soon fall like rain; Think of the heart and how cruel the blow; Think of her love, and at once answer "No."

Think of the hopes that are drowned in the bowl; Think of the danger to body and soul; Think of sad lives once as pure as the snow; Look at them now, and at once answer "No."

Think, too, of manhood with rum-tainted breath; Think of its end and the terrible death; Think of the homes that, now shadowed with woe, Might have been heaven had the answer been "No."

Think of lone graves both unwept and unknown, Hiding fond hopes that were fair as your own; Think of proud forms, now forever laid low, That still might be here had they learned to say "No."

Think of the demon that lurks in the bowl, Driving to ruin both body and soul.

Think of all this as life's journey you go;

And when you're assailed by the tempter, say "No."

PELOUBET'S NOTES FOR 1921 NOW READY.

"Peloubet's Notes" has been issued for forty-seven years with ever-increasing popularity and usefulness, which fact alone is a wonderful argument for its value and helpfulness. It is rich in material, comprehensive in its scope, and practical in its treatment. Every superintendent, teacher, and scholar will find in it his own personal requirements. The editor of The Outlook says: "We give first place to Peloubet's." Marion Lawrance, the noted Sundayschool worker, writes: "How this standard commentary has been able to maintain itself during all these years, growing annually stronger and richer, is a marvel to the Sunday-school world. Personally, I do not see how any Sunday-school teacher can hope to do his best without the rich, full helps found in these

Send for your copy to-day. Price, $2.10, postpaid. Address the McQuiddy Printing Company, Nashville,

CURRENT THOUGHT

The Fat and the Lean.

The seven fat and the seven lean years of Egypt are the common experience of all men in all lands in all

A cotton farmer said: "I made more money in the last two years than I expected to make in ten years several years ago."

A peach grower said: "If I can get one good crop every three years, I will make very good profits and be quite content."

Don't penalize God in hard times. Be grateful for the fat years of the past. Have faith for the fat years of the future.-Christian Index.

The above from the Christian Index demands the thoughtful consideration of us all. During the years of prosperity we are prone to forget God. Then when seasons of adversity arrive, we are too ready to complain. If we would seriously consider how good God has been to us and how many the blessings that we have enjoyed every day that we have lived, we certainly would be ashamed to murmur or complain as we sometimes do. Having two good eyes, a sound and vigorous body, with an active brain, we should be thoroughly equipped to go forth and accomplish great good in life's battles. It is not best for us to be prosperous all the time. Like the psalmist David, we should say: "Bless Jehovah, O my soul: and all that is within me, bless his holy name. Bless Jehovah, O my soul, and forget not all his benefits: who forgiveth all thine iniquities; who healeth all thy diseases; who redeemeth thy life from destruction; who crowneth thee with lovingkindness and tender mercies; who satisfieth thy desire with good things, so that thy youth is renewed like the eagle." (Ps. 103: 1-5.)

* * *

Americanism.

Various have been the definitions of the great word "Americanism." However, it includes the American way of filling government positions. Our officers are not born to rule over us—we elect them for short terms, and retain or make them private citizens as we wish. The citizenship rules. Ours is a "government of the people, for the people, and by the people."

Every four years we elect our Chief Executive. For two or three months the candidates and other stump speakers and the daily press make things lively, then we go quietly to our precincts and cast our ballots. On the evening of election day we are keyed up to the highest notch of excitement. Then, the next morning, always a morning with a "hush," we forget the past and go calmly about our business. This is the American way, and it is a good way.

"Americanism" likewise includes trust. When the new President, for example, takes the oath of office, we trust him; in other words, we are Americans, and must, therefore, give him a chance to make good. Governor Cox sent President-elect Harding a telegram of congratulation and pledge of personal support. This is also the American way, and it is a good way.

We be Americans, And, as Americans, we must exemplify the American spirit—the spirit which patriotically acknowledges the will of the people and "boosts."

March 4, 1921, Mr. Harding will be sworn in as President of the United States; and more than a hundred million people will, by their Americanism, be pledged to help him guide our good old Ship of State. The success or failure of his administration, none can predict; but all will wish for it success, and the people as a whole will try to make it a success.-Christian Standard.

The man who enjoys the freedom of the American government should not be ashamed of the fact that he is an American citizen. When Paul was in danger of being scourged, he took advantage of the fact that he was a Roman. The man who takes advantage of the fact that he lives in the United States and is an American citizen should support his government in every scriptural way. As the American government stands for freedom of conscience, and is the only government known to me that respects the conscience of its subjects, every law-abiding citizen should uphold the government in every good work. All who are opposed to lawlessness and Bolshevism should live in a way that will encourage all citizens to be law-abiding and live not only in obedience to the law of the land, but in obedience to the law of God. It is rebellion against also for man not to obey the law of the land whenever that ce does not conflict with the law of God. It is, inth to enjoy all the blessings and privileges of the obedien. deed, selfis. vernment and then not be willing to make n order to uphold it in every proper and American go some sacrifices it For rulers are not a terror to the good scriptural way. "I (nd wouldest thou have no fear of work, but to the evil. A. a good, and thou shalt have the power? do that which is minister of God to thee praise from the same; for he is a _ is evil, be afraid; for good. But if thou do that which :: for he beareth not the sword in vain: for he is a minister of God, an avenger for wrath to him that doeth evil." (Rom. 13: 3, 4.) The "Continent," of Chicago, tells of a Russian who had a genuine love for this great Western democracy. He expressed it as follows: "I like to be in America because America keeps me better than my own country. America gives me liberty. America gives my wife liberty. America gives my children liberty. America gives me plenty of work, plenty to eat, and plenty to wear. America gives good schools for my children and for me. America lets the poor man have his horse, his cow, and his farm. I am glad to feel that I am part of this 'Sweet Land of Liberty.'"

#

The Thanksgiving Habit.

"Some men dig while others dream, some men boost while others knock;

Some men think the days are long, other men forget the

Some men hope while other men go complaining day by day.

Have you ever met a man who has made complaining pay?"

Dr. Maltbie Babcock suggested that instead of having one day set apart for thanksgiving it would be better to set apart one day for complaining, and cram into it all our worries, leaving the rest of the year clear for gratitude.

Think of the many misfortunes you have escaped, and stop complaining. Think of the "mysterious and majestic blessings" prayer will bring, and stop complaining.

In a word, "count your blessings," and they will stop your complaining.

At one of Mr. Alexander's meetings in Toronto the singer looked down and saw a paralyzed woman who had been wheeled down the aisle before the platform. He asked her what was her favorite hymn, and instantly she answered, Count Your Blessings!

After Stanley had spent three years in Africa, fighting the jungle and the forest, the fever and the savages, and at last drew near to the sea, and saw in the distance a missionary station, and the cross gleaming above it, he hailed the cross with these words: "O blessed sign of Christian civilization!"

Our whole life has been surrounded by these blessed signs of civilization, yet how strong a blessed thanksgiving habit have they produced in you and me?-Record of Christian Work

Some men murmur if one small cloud appears in their great horizon of blue; other men are thankful if but one ray of light gilds the clouds that obscure their view. Some men complain when they do not have every wish gratified, while others praise God for almost every blessing that they enjoy. People who are in health and prosperity should think how many are deprived of the comforts of life before murmuring and complaining because they do not have everything just as they want it. We should heed the admonition of the apostle, "In everything give

果

MISCELLANY

U

Sister J. D. Tant, writing in behalf of J. H. Murrell, says: "On November 24 Brother and Sister J. H. Murrell became the parents of a pair of fine twin boys. The babes are doing well, but Sister Murrell's condition has been serious from the beginning. It will be months before Brother Murrell can leave home, and congregations who know him should not forget his necessities in the winter now upon us. Brother Murrell's address is Rogers, Ark., Route 2."

Č.

Mrs. Harvey C. Wilhite, Sparta, Tenn., Route 5, says: "Among the first words I learned to spell was 'Gospel Advocate." I lived with my grandmother a great deal in my childhood days, and the Advocate was always in her home; and a good, Christian woman she was. The Advocate has also been in my father's home for years. So, seeing the good that is put forth through It, I am sending you my subscription for a year. I commend the good work that is being put forth in the David Lipscomb College. May God bless every effort that is being put forth for his cause."

*

From T. M. Karnes, Trenton, Tenn.: "I am highly pleased with the Gospel Advocate, which is part of my library; and I would rejoice to know of its being a welcome visitor in every home in the world. Some subscribers, I hear, are not going to renew their subscription because of the price. You may not be able to realize the condition of the country as does the farmer. Not a full crop in many places, with the price in almost everything below cost of production, and surplus stock, unsalable, to be fed and cared for. Let us hope and work for reasonable and fair adjustment of everything and trust in and honor God."

袋

Morgan H. Carter writes: "God is blessing the work in New York City. Several new members have begun work since October 1. The outlook is excellent. The church desires the names and addresses of all members who have moved to New York or suburbs. This is a very urgent need, brethren, and you can render a splendid service to Christ in sending any you know. Your prayers are also requested. The place of worship is 239 West, Sixty-ninth Street, close to Broadway. It has become necessary to change the hour of worship from 11 A.M. to 2 P.M. for a few months at least. All visitors will find a cordial welcome. For further information, address G. M. McKee, 105 West Sixty-fourth Street, New York, N. Y."

ä

From J. G. Allen, of Muskogee, Okla., who for many years was a resident of this city, comes the following testimonial: "I have read the Gospel Advocate for years, and believe it the best paper published by any of the brotherhood. I used to think it was too eager for a controversy with some brother; but since coming West and learning by actual experience how far from New Testament grounds some have departed, I have reversed my opinion, and thank God that we have a paper that will speak out in the language of the New Testament and condemn hobbies regardless of who the rider is. I wish every member of the church in the wide world would read the article by J. C. McQuiddy, entitled 'The Gospel of Love and Forgiveness,' published in the Advocate of November 18. I consider it the most timely article I have read in any paper, and it is well worth preserving."

₩

H. F. Pendergrass, Louisville, Ky., sends the following for publication in the Gospel Advocate: "When the United States declared war on Germany, I was at that time preaching for the church at Wynne, Ark. At first I bitterly opposed Christians' taking any part in war, and used my influence to keep them from it; but later, for some reason which I do not now understand, I changed my mind and felt that it was the duty of every American who could possibly do so to go. On July 22, 1917, I volunteered, and reported for duty at Fayetteville, Ark., on August 5. I served thirteen months here in the United States and twelve months in France. Since I was discharged I have studied the matter seriously in the light of God's word, and I am convinced that I not only made a great mistake when I entered the service, but that my life during that period of time was far from pleasing to the Master, for which I ask the forgiveness and prayers of all my brethren."

From a letter recently received from S. W. Bell, of Sedalia, Mo., we print the following plain words: "I want the Gospel Advocate to continue to come. I may not agree with the authors of many of the articles; I may not agree with the policy of the paper on many things; yet I always want to see what the different ones are saying in the Advocate. I have always given the editors and management credit for feeling that they were doing the things that were for the best. And it seems as though all engines have to have a 'balance wheel.' There is one thing which I have noticed: In almost all cases of the editors and contributors to the Advocate, though seemingly a bit harsh and seemingly trying to 'spute' with almost everybody who disagreed, yet the thing for which they have been contending earnestly has proven to be about as they have shown, as in the 'rebaptism question,' Sunday-school literature, Adventism, Bollism, eldership, pastor, Sommerism (no college), as well as many other things. I do not think that the editors have tried to 'lord it over' the 'brotherhood' as some have claimed. May all of us be more as Brother Dunn recently wrote."

Ü

J. Y. McQuigg, of Abilene, Texas, a lifelong friend of the Gospel Advocate, encourages us with the following note and comment: "As you refer the two extracts from letters recently received by you to the readers of the Gospel Advocate, and as I am one of that number and have been for fifty-three years, I feel free to speak, and believe the extract from the brother's letter much the best; and I admire his taste and judgment as to sound teaching, so much so that, for fear all did not read it carefully. I repeat what he says: 'I send this subscription most cheerfully, not only because of the love I have for those in charge of the Advocate, but because I believe it is the most powerful and most effective single influence of which I know, standing for God's holy word unmixed with human error. to add: And it has done and is doing more to stay the tide of all innovations and all departures from the truth than any other single influence. I heartily bid Godspeed to its influence and usefulness till it is taken and read by all the Christians in our good and greatly blessed land. Of the other extract I will say in all seriousness that I fear the sister is no longer on the main line, but has sidetracked and has lost her taste for good reading. As a fellow soldier in the one grand army, I would beg of her to repent of her perhaps hasty decision and have the Advocate come, as in days gone by, read it carefully and prayerfully, then pass it on to her neighbors and friends, that it may do others good even to the saving of some of them. doing she may get back on the main line, and at last, when the end of the journey is reached, it will be hers to enter the eternal city 'whose maker and builder is God.'"

₽

C. A. Marshall, of Soquel, Cal., addresses the following note to our readers: "In the Gospel Advocate of recent date there was published an account of 'Our Experience With Also, in the issue of November 25 there was Sommerism.' an article from the pen of E. C. Fuqua telling of the conditions at Colorado Springs which dovetails with our experience exactly. Now there are two heads of families here who intend to put forth their strongest efforts to secure a preacher to come here to Santa Cruz and establish a congregation that will 'speak where the Bible speaks,' and will not bind any man-made rule upon its members. We are hoping to secure C. R. Nichol, of Texas, who has been secured for a meeting at a point only twenty-five miles from Now, in order to support a preacher here long enough to do the work needed, we shall need some financial aid. We can put up some money ourselves, but not enough to do the work. We have been meeting ever since our, 'elimination' from the 'Review family'—once with the church at Aromas, but no more on account of the bad roads; the rest of the time in our own home, with help part of the time of some others who are soon to go away. Now, we are known to C. F. Bonner, of Alhambra, Cal., who is well known to the Advocate editors. He can vouch for our integrals. tegrity. Also we refer to the elders of the church at Madera, Cal., G. L. Hawley and Charles Sewell, the latter a Madera, Cal., G. L. Hawley and Charles Bewell, the latter a son of the late L. R. Sewell. We would ask any one wishing to locate in California, and willing to live here and help work out this problem, to write to us concerning property conditions here, and we shall gladly reply to all questions to the best of our ability. If any one wishes to contribute to our finances, we shall promptly acknowledge such through the paper. Pray for us, brethren, that we may do in all things as God would have us to do, and God forbid that any malice or lack of love should actuate us in

Home Reading

Beautiful Costumes.

Watch Miss Earth when it is time for her to dress for fall: Russet red her petticoats, shiny gold her shawl; Scarlet her waist and throat, yellow in her hair. Ever see the like of her, saucy-faced and fair? She's put her springtime duds away-lacy things and

She'll lay her summer drapery by and change from head to Hems and tucks and ruffles new, like an eager elf She'll be kneeling at the streams, looking at herself. Watch Miss Earth a little while. She will change again To dazzling robe of crystal white with a sparkling train, Diamonds on her breast and brow, coronet of pearl; Diamonds on her preast and profit apretty girl.

—Nancy Byrd Turner.

0 0 0

The Fairy Boat.

Once upon a time Love Fairy went to live in the heart of a great, pink Brier Rose; and O, how she enjoyed this beautiful home, with the sweet fragrance of the rose about her! "Here I shall live always; I shall never leave this beautiful home," she said.

All went well for a while. But one morning the little fairy stretched and yawned, and finally she sighed: "O, dear, how thresome it is to stay at home and do nothing! I must find something to do!"

She decided to go out at once. As she climbed down the thorny step of her home, she noticed that it had been raining during the night. The ground was covered in patches with puddles of water, like fairy lakes, and she noticed that right in the center of one a little ant house had been flooded. Quantities of mother ants and father ants and little baby ants were trying their best to swim ashore.

Love Fairy stood watching the ants and wondering what she could do to help them, when she heard a faint voice calling to her. It was Brier Rose! "Take this petal of mine," she said, as she dropped a beautiful great pink one, "and put it on the water, like a little boat, then get into it, and sail out and rescue the ant families." Love Fairy was delighted with the idea, and she soon found herself sailing out on the fairy lake. The weary ants soon forgot their fright and eagerly climbed into the boat.

When they came to shore, all the big ants scrambled out and soon began to build another house. But the baby ants remained in the boat, sailing over the blue water, for the good fairy had spread her rainbow-colored wings for sails; and finally, after Mr. Sun had dried the puddle, so that there was none of it left, the baby ants found their new home all ready for them. Imagine how glad they were to snuggle down in their little beds and sleep that night!

Then Love Fairy carried the beautiful rose petal back to Brier Rose, and, as she fastened it in place with her fairy wax, she said: "What a beautiful home I have come to, and what a happy day I have had!"-Adele F. Woodward.

* * *

The South Side.

"May I come in, dear?" called the girl's bright voice.

"Pull the bobbin and the latch will fly up," was the merry answer.

The girl pushed open the door and ran across the room to the bed. Nobody could have guessed the pain and wearisome plaster cast from the cheery voice; still less could one have guessed that the need to earn made the weeks of pain still harder to bear. These things the woman lying there told to her God, never to her guests.

"The The girl held up a forlorn handful of late asters. very last," she declared. "I hunted and hunted."

"Are you sure?" her friend asked, quickly. "I've always found them later than this every year. Did you go over to the south side of the hill?"

"No," the girl confessed, laughingly. "I believe I looked on every side but that! I'll go straight back and hunt again."

Twenty minutes later she returned laden with autumn bloom.

"You are right," she said. "I had no idea that the south side made such a difference. The slope was half covered with the beautiful blossoms, so big and deep colored! I'm going to put them in this pitcher beside you so that you can reach your hands down deep into the autumn and pretend you're picking them yourself."

"Then," her friend returned, "I should have to give up the memory of somebody who picked them for me."

The girl stopped her pretty work. "Now I understand the difference," she said, slowly. "You will insist, willful woman that you are, on living on the south side of life, and getting every bit of sunshine there is, while most of us deliberately go and sit on the north side and grumble because it's cold! Never mind. I've caught your secret now, and I'm going to sit in the sun. Then maybe I'll blos-

The white face in the bed smiled. "And the best of it all is that there always is a south side," she answered-"the sun's side, and God's."-Presbyterian Review.

0 0 0 Kindness.

It is of real interest to study the subject of kindness in the Bible. A man once put on his wife's tombstone, "She was so kind;" and there is no doubt that kindness is one of the finest proofs that we are genuine followers of our Master. Several people are mentioned in the Scriptures as either speaking kindly or dealing kindly; but the finest example-and the only perfect standard-is God himself, who is mentioned in a number of passages as full of kindness. Thus to be kind is to be like God .- W. H. G. Thomas.

0 0 0

Godliness is profitable; but the final end of God is not our good, but his glory. That man has much to learn whose supreme solicitude is how he may be enriched by the love of God, and not how he may receive its holy impression and fulfill its holy ends. He who is saved must think more of God than of self. But when many receive the truth, it is only that unbelief would be ruinous; they obey the law because obedience has its recompense. The gospel is good news, not only because it blesses us, but because it reveals our Father.-A. J. Morris.

* * * For Her Friend.

A party of a hundred children of the slums had been taken for a visit into the country and were on their way home. The attendant heard a chorus of gibes all aimed at Rosie, one of the little girls, and then she saw that the girl was wearing a pair of shoes of very large size. Then the attendant remembered that Rosie had had a pair of new shoes, and she asked what had become of them.

"Well," said Rosle, "you see these shoes ain't mine, They're Katie's. I know they're awful big; but her mamma ain't had any work lately, so she couldn't buy her a new pair. She just gave her own shoes to Katle. Katle felt awful bad about it, and cried all the way to the station. The girls all laughed at her; so I just lent her my new ones and took hers. You see, teacher," said Rosie, raising her eyes to the attendant's face, "Katie's my friend."-New York Tribune.

Query Department

By J. C. McQUIDDY

W. R. Wilcut, of Bear Creek, Ala., says: "Please give through the Gospel Advocate the design of John's baptism. Was it for the remission of sins?"

If our brother had turned to Mark 1: 4, he would have seen very clearly that John's baptism was for, or unto, the remission of sins. The passage reads: "John came, who baptized in the wilderness and preached the baptism of repentance unto remission of sins."

* * *

T. H. Roberson asks the following question: "In the Senior Quarterly, lesson for October 24, this question is asked: 'Did Christ teach any ordinances?' Please answer this question in the 'Query Department.' If your answer is 'yes,' please mention the ordinances he taught." Any decree or command of Christ is an ordinance. 1 Cor. 11: 2, in the King James Version, reads: "Now I praise you, brethren, that ye remember me in all things, and keep the ordinances as I delivered them to you." The "ordinances," or traditions, as it appears in the Revised Version, must refer to commands that Paul had taught the Corinthians while in Corinth. While the New Testament nowhere calls baptism an ordinance, yet it is an ordinance in the sense that it is a command.

* * *

A sister from Fort Deposit, Ala., who does not wish her name revealed, asks for an explanation of 1 Cor. 3: 15, which reads: "If any man's work shall be burned, he shall suffer loss: but he himself shall be saved; yet so as through fire." She says: "A brother the other day was discussing the subject of eternal saivation. He said if a person was once saved, he was eternally saved, and quoted 1 Cor. 3: 15 for proof. Is there any other passage of scripture in the Bible that throws light on this subject or has reference to it in any way? If so, please state the references through the 'Query Department' of the Gospel Advocate."

This is a hard passage to understand. It is not possible to understand the passage without considering it in its connection. The apostle states in verse 11: "Other foundation can no man lay than that which is laid, which is Jesus Christ." Evangelists or preachers build upon this one foundation-some gold, silver, costly stones, wood, hay, stubble. Each man's work shall be made manifest; each shall be tested and tried as if by fire; and the fire shall prove each man's work, of what sort it is. The work of some shall abide, while the work of others shall be lost. While the work of the evangelist is lost, he himself shall be saved, yet so as through fire. He must pass through tribulations and fiery trials in order to be saved. Another view is that the passage refers to the doctrine a man teaches. Every man will teach some error in spite of his fidelity and loyalty to God; but if the man is honest and makes every effort to know and do the will of God, he himself shall be saved in spite of the fact that he has made some mistakes and taught some error. The passage does not teach that it is impossible for Christians to fall away and be finally lost. A number of scriptures show that such a position is not warranted by the word of God. The Holy Spirit says: "Ye are severed from Christ, ye who would be justified by the law; ye are fallen away from grace." (Gal. 5: 4.) To the church at Ephesus it was said: "But I have this against thee, that thou didst leave thy first love. Remember therefore whence thou art fallen, and repent and do the first works; or else I come to thee, and will move thy candlestick out of its place, except thou repent," (Rev, 2: 4, 5.) Also, 2 Pet. 2: 20-22 shows that it is possible for a man to turn away from his "first love" and be finally lost: "For if, after they have escaped the defilements of the world through the knowledge of the Lord and Savior Jesus Christ, they are again entangled therein and overcome, the last state is become worse with them than the first. For it were better for them not to have known the way of righteousness, than, after knowing it, to turn back from the holy commandment delivered unte them. It has happened unto them according to the true proverb, The dog turning to his own vomit again, and the sow that had washed to wallowing in the mire."

***** * * * *

A sister in this city, who wishes her name not published, asks information as to the advisability of having a Christmas entertainment. She says: "Some in our congregation claim that we should have a Christmas entertainment for the Sunday-school children; others claim that it is not scriptural to do so, and think it would be no more harm to have an organ in the church worship than to have a Christmas entertainment in the Sunday school. Please give your advice upon the matter."

The peace and harmony of the congregation is worth far more to the church than is a Christmas entertainment to the children. As Christians are to bear and forbear with each other, if friction is created by having such an entertainment, no such entertainment should be given. A Christmas entertainment is certainly no part of the worship, and there is no scriptural authority for it any more than there is scriptural authority for any other kind of entertainment. If such an entertainment is given, it should be distinctly understood that It is no part of the worship and is not given as a church entertainment. If such an entertainment is not given as a church entertainment, I can see no more impropriety in having it than in any other entertainment. Christians should have some entertainment and some recreation. Such an entertainment is not a religious service. However, Christians should be prudent and careful to do nothing that is calculated to destroy the fellowship that should exist in a congregation.

* * *

John E. Word, of Dinuba, Cal., is very much interested in the subject of attitude in prayer. I much prefer the kneeling posture, and encourage Christians to kneel in prayer. I think they should always do this in public prayer unless it is inconvenient to do so. I have answered two queries from Brother Word on this subject, so cheerfully give what he has to say in regard to Solomon's standing on his knees in prayer. He says:

"In your reply to my query in the Gospel Advocate of July 29, in regard to the position we should occupy, I admitted we could pray in any position. The case of Hannah in 1 Sam. 1: 26 may mean she was standing on her feet. Reference to Solomon's position in prayer (1 Kings 8: 22; 2 Chron. 6: 12) would lead a casual reader to believe that Solomon was standing on his feet; but when we read all that is said about his position, we see he was kneeling on his knees. I am not writing this for the love I have for a controversy, but because I see so many of our preaching brethren stand on their feet in prayer. If we say we follow the Bible, let's cut off as many as possible of the innovations that have been brought into the worship by uninspired men."

GOSPEL ADVOCATE

Conducted for a half century by D. Lipscomb and E. G. Sewell.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

$2.50 a year, in advance; to Canada and foreign countries, $3.00,

$2.50 a year, in advance; to Canada and foreign countries, $3.00, in advance.

Remittances will be at our risk when sent by express or post-office money order, in registered letter, or by draft payable to our order.

When changing your post-office address, tell us your old as well as your new address; otherwise two papers might be charged to you. This paper is malled regularly to all subscribers until definite orders in writing are received and all arrearges paid in full. If you wish us to stop your paper, write us to that effect; but do not ask it unless you have paid all arrears, if there are any. Do not ask your postmaster to attend to it for you, but do it yourself.

The date on your tab shows the time to which your subscription is paid. When money is received, the date will be changed, which will answer for a receipt. Two weeks' time must ordinarily occur from the time your remittance is sent before the tab on your paper is changed; if not changed by that time, notify us at once.

Subscribers, after paying for their papers, will favor us by noting whether the date on the address label is changed, and, if it is not changed within a month, by writing to us. We are careful, but mistakes may occur or letters may be lost. Our rule is to change the date on the day payment is received; but the mechanical work of correcting and printing the list fakes time, and payments even from near-by places may not appear the first week. Credits for payments from a distance may be even more delayed. Matakes are easily rectified if prompt notice is given.

All communications should be addressed to Gospel Advocate, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

Entered at post office at Nashville, Tenn., as second-class matter. Published weekly at Nashville, Tenn.

EDITORIAL

Wealth's Responsibility.

BY J. C. M'Q.

Socialism seeks to destroy all capital. It takes the position that to be rich is vicious and sinful. It is a fact, however, that all men of worth endeavor to make money. "Rich" is a relative term. The man who would be considered rich in one community would not be considered rich in another. It is commendable for a man to make money, provided he makes it honorably. The sin is not in making money, but the sin is in the use of money. Wealth brings with it a great responsibility. In the Bible you do not find one word of censure against wealth as such. President Roosevelt, in his attack upon "predatory interests" and "malefactors of great wealth," never condemned wealth as such. He merely denounced the abuse of wealth. He had studied the Bible too much to hold that it was a sin for a man to be rich, even for a man to be very rich. The sin came in when the man employed his wealth in oppressing or robbing his fellow creatures.

Dr. Scott Nearing, an extreme socialist, takes an entirely different view. He holds that it is a sin to be rich. One who understands the Bible teaching, however, can read without alarm the following in his "Poverty and Riches:" "Americans have a certain abiding faith in riches. They praise riches in their homes, extol it in their schools, bow to it in the community life. Nine men and women out of every ten who are not rich would jump at the chance of being rich without inquiring seriously into the causes or the effects of being rich. To-day America numbers her millionaires by the thousands, and there are about one hundred and fifty persons whose incomes exceed a million dollars a year."

The Bible tells us of rich persons who were servants of God. If it were a sin to be rich, no rich man could be a servant of God. Christ was buried in the new tomb of a rich man. "And when even was come, there came a rich man from Arimathæa, named Joseph, who also himself was Jesus' disciple." (Matt. 27: 57.) Thus we see that Joseph was a disciple of Christ. Again, we read of Zacchæus: "And behold, a man called by name Zacchæus; and he was a chief publican, and he was rich." (Luke 19: 2.) That he was a good man and that he was approved of Jehovah is evident from verses 8, 9, which read: "And Zacchæus stood, and said unto the Lord, Beheld, Lord, the half of my goods I give to the poor; and if I have wrongfully exacted aught of any man, I restore fourfold. And Jesus said unto him, To-day is salvation come to this house, forasmuch as he also is a son of Abraham." From the fourth chapter of Acts we learn that the early church had a common fund, but in this connection we learn that there were the rich and the poor; there were those who had to give to the needy. The rich man of whom we read, beginning with verse 19 of the sixteenth chapter of Luke, was not lost simply because he was rich, but was lost because he did not make the proper use of his wealth. Referring to this rich man, a socialist quotes Ernest Bilton's satirical lines:

Now Dives daily feasted and was gorgeously arrayed, Not at all because he liked it, but because 'twas good for trade. That the people might have calico, he clothed himself in silk. And surfeited himself on cream that they might get the

He fed five hundred servants that the poor might not lack

And had his vessels made of gold that they might get more

And e'en to show his sympathy with the deserving poor,

He did no useful work himself that they might do the more You'll think this very, very strange; but then, of course, you know

"Twas in a far-off country, and a long while ago.

The sin of this rich man was in using his means in a way to oppress the poor. The man who has the spirit of Christ, instead of using his capital to make the poor poorer, will use his wealth to help the poor. By the use of his riches he will seek to elevate, purify, and ennoble the human family. Wealth, properly used, will prove wings to lift us up to the throne of God; improperly used, it will prove a weight to drag us down to bell. That wealth has its dangers is clearly taught in the Bible. While I do not believe that the effects of being rich are inevitably bad, I know that there are great dangers and that Dr. Nearing speaks much truth when he says: "The rich learn to depend on others. Said one college lad: 'Why should I worry? Why should I work? Nothing is going to happen to me. Father has plenty, and he is going to take care of me.' The rich, particularly in the second generation, are not called upon to achieve anything. They never learn success."

Recently I read in the paper of two young men who luherited a large fortune. One had already declined to accept it, claiming that he wanted to start life on an equality with others. His younger brother stated that when he came to be of age he was going to do as his older brother had done; that he believed that he had done right, and that he also would refuse to accept his inheritance. It more often proves a curse for a young man to be born with a gold spoon in his mouth than it proves a blessing. How many young men have we seen cursed because they relied upon their fathers to take care of them! They learn to spend money that they never made; it comes easy, it goes easy, and soon, like the prodigal, they have wasted all in riotous living.

Fathers should train their children to be independent and self-supporting. I remember a father who had six boys. That father stated that every boy he had had helped him earn all that he had ever made, and that they had been just as valuable to him in the way of acquiring wealth as had his slaves. If every father who has money were so thoughtful and wise as this father, fewer children of wealthy parents would be so worthless. It should be the constant aim of each and every one not to use and employ all the money that he makes for his own selfish gratification, but in order to help others.

John Ruskin, in a book of his called "Unto This Last." dealt with this question in a very convincing way. He says: "If you are a young lady and employ a certain number of seamstresses for a given time in making a given number of dresses-say, seven-of which you wear one yourself and give away six to the poor girls who have none, you are spending your money unselfishly. But if you employ the same number of seamstresses for the same number of days in making four or five or six beautiful flounces for your own ball dress-flounces which will clothe no one but yourself, and which you will yourself be unable to wear at more than one ball-you are employing your money selfishly. Do not cheat yourself into thinking that all the finery you can wear is so much put into the hungry mouths of those beneath you. It is not so. Those fine dresses do not mean that so much has been put into their mouths, but that so much has been taken out of their mouths. As long as there are cold and nakedness in the land around you, so long there can be no question at all but that splendor of dress is a crime. In due time, when we have nothing better to set people to work at, it may be right to let them make lace and cut jewels; but so long as there are any who have no blankets for their beds and no rags for their bodies, so long It is blanket making and tailoring we must set people at work at-not lace." When men are Spirit-filled and Spirit-guided, they will spend their money sparingly on personal enjoyment and lavishly on worthy public objects or put it back into industry that will prove a blessing to humanity. "Such a system would stimulate output to a degree that we can hardly now conceive, and would enable those who lived under it to address themselves to the task of building up a real civilization and producing a world that should be not only rich. but also beautiful and noble, full of wise and beautiful and noble men and women competing and cooperating for the common good."

The Test of Love for Christ, BY F. W. SMITH,

Much—yes, very much—is written and spoken concerning the love of man for the One who died for him; but, in my humble judgment, much of it is merely sentimental instead of practical. Now the Savior of the world has clearly laid down the rule, or test, by which any one can determine without any mistake as to whether he or she really and truly loves Christ or not. That "test" is couched in the following language: "He that loveth me not keepeth not my sayings: and the word which ye hear is not mine, but the Father's which sent me."

In the light of this explicit declaration by the Son of God, we need have no trouble in ascertaining what is meant by the term "love" when affirmed of man toward Christ. The converse of "He that loveth me not keepeth not my sayings" is "He that loveth me keepeth my sayings." Hence, unless one is keeping the sayings of Christ, or earnestly trying to do so, he may know of a surety that he does not love the Son of God. 'The "sayings" of Christ are very comprehensive, relating to and intended to regulate every relation of life. Many things are required of men in the "sayings" of Christ the doing of which have not the slightest touch of sentimentalism about them. For instance, Christ says: "Love your enemies, bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you, and pray for them which despitefully use you, and persecute you." (Matt. 5: 44.) This saying is as binding on those who profess to love Christ as anything he taught, and yet how few of those who claim to love Christ will make even the slightest effort to do what the Master here says! There seems to be more bickering, backbiting, impugning of motives, and downright hatred among professed Christians one toward another than for a generation past. There is a spirit of prejudice, carping criticism, and faultfinding rife among preachers that is a shame and disgrace to decent society, to say nothing of the religion of Christ. I am afraid that we mistake the emotional feeling generated by singing, praying, and preaching to others for that active principle which should lead us to "do good unto all men, especially unto them who are of the household of faith." (Gal. 6: 10.) We get very happy sometimes during the fervor of religious exercises, which is all right in its place; but we should be exceedingly careful not to make it a substitute for one of the greatest and severest tests of love toward Christ-viz., love for our enemies and efforts to do them good for evil. It becomes an easy matter to fall into self-deception, but a difficult thing to escape from Its meshes. We seem prone to lay all the blame on the other party and esteem ourselves as immaculate before the Lord. In other words, we play the rôle of the Pharisee in the temple who informed the Lord how righteous he was and how wicked and bad others were. A little introspection, reading, and analyzing of our own hearts in the fear of God might reveal the fact that in all probability some few people exist on the earth as righteous and holy

Among the sayings of Christ may be found legislation against jealousy, envy, and strife; and yet we sing, pray, and preach, and feel like we are being borne to glory on "snowy wings," while at the same time our hearts are filled with jealousy, envy, and strife. We think a certain preacher lays entirely too much stress on money, and at the same time we dearly love filthy lucre. We condemn in others the very things which we ourselves are guilty of doing, and vainly imagine we love Christ. We envy men their talents, positions, and property while singing, "Amazing grace—how sweet the sound!—that saved a wretch like me!" We are jealous one of another and lament the success attained by another.

When-O when-will all this cease? Unless there is an end to it, whither will it lead, and what is to be the condition of the church bought with the blood of Christ? Shall Christ be crucified afresh in the house of his pretended friends? Let every one sweep around his own door, and perhaps he will discover trash enough to occupy his time, rather than making an effort to clean up the premises of his neighbor. Preachers should sympathize one with another and seek to help and aid each other in the work of the Lord. It is a common cause, and every preacher should rejoice in the good work done by another. We should all endeavor to encourage each other and stimulate each other to greater efforts in saving souls. There should be the extended hand to every one who is preaching and trying to live in his daily life the truth of God. What is needed is a greater fraternal spirit and feeling among all gospel preachers; and if criticism becomes necessary, let it be done face to face and in the proper spirit. We all make mistakes, and need counsel and advice that will help us to correct our blunders. One of Christ's sayings is: "Love one another, as I have loved you." This means, at least, that I should try to save my brother, and he should try to save me. I pray most earnestly to our Heavenly Father that all of the bitterness, jealousy, strife, envy, and hatred may be put away from the hearts of preachers and church members in general.

Commending Others.

BY E. A. E.

It is a Christian's duty and pleasure to commend some, and an unpleasant and even painful duty to warn against others.

There are such things as letters of commendation. Paul declares to the Corinthian church that at the time he wrote Second Corinthians he was not "beginning again to commend" himself; that he did not need epistles of commendation to them or from them. They were his epistle, written in his heart, "known and read of all men," and "an epistle of Christ," "written not with ink, but with the Spirit of the living God." (2 Cor. 3: 1-3.)

Such letters of commendation now are the best, and are now "known and read of all men."

Paul's self-sacrificing and heroic work at Corinth for more than eighteen months, the living church there, and his own life were the highest commendation. This living epistle surpassed by far any letter of commendation written with ink. A commendation written with ink may prove to be untrue, but one's life stands for itself. Paul's teaching and life at Corinth and elsewhere showed to be utterly false all charges brought against him by his critics. In the calm serenity and dignity and strength of his Christian character, towering mountain high above that of his critics, his very life and godly teaching refuted overwhelmingly these charges.

Let me here say that in this way all preachers and all others should meet now all false charges. In this way only can criticisms and false charges be met successfully. Letters of commendation cannot wipe out ugly facts; while to falsely accuse one hurts the accuser, not the one accused. To deny an accusation when it is true is a double sin, and to uphold and to commend the wrongdoer is a threefold wrong, if not more, and does untold harm.

Too many recommendations are a bad sign. They show that the man who bears them needs something besides his intrinsic merit and true worth to get him through.

Paul commended to the church at Rome, Phebe, "a servant of the church at Cenchrea," a sister, who had helped many and himself also, worthy to be worthily received and to be assisted in the good work in which she might have need of them. (Rom. 16: 1, 2.)

Whenever Christians remove from one place to another where they are not known, it is scriptural—that is, it is the duty of the church from which they remove—to write to the church wherever they may go a letter of commendation, which letter they may carry with them, as Phebe did.

It is unscriptural to bury such letters in one's trunk and fail to present them and to become at once identified with the church and to continue to work zealously for the Lord. It is entirely unscriptural to live in one place—one State, for instance—and "hold membership," as it is called, in another. This is an indication that one does not wish to be recognized as a Christian or desires to cease to be one.

By letter Paul commended most highly to the church at Corinth Titus as his "partner and fellow worker," and another brother, whom he had "many times proved earnest in many things" and "whose praise in the gospel" was "spread through all the churches." These two with others were "messengers of the churches," and "the glory of Christ," "appointed by the churches" to travel with Paul in the matter of ministering to the saints to the glory of God. In the midst of this Paul makes a declaration, which is very important because it is inspired of God, and which in no wise can be overlooked without disobedience to God:

Avoiding this, that any man should blame us in the matter of this bounty which is ministered by us: for we take thought for things honorable, not only in the sight of the Lord, but also in the sight of men. (See 2 Cor. 8: 16-24.)

The men whom the church at Corinth should send to carry its contribution to Jerusalem should be approved by letters. (1 Cor. 16: 3.) Again, Paul says: "Take thought for things honorable in the sight of all men." (Rom. 12: 17.)

Every honest man of the world and certainly every Christian will do all this. Paul commended these men who were to deal with the Corinthlans in regard to money matters as not only honest, but many times in many things he had proved them to be worthy.

It is scriptural, therefore, and it is the duty of the church—not some self-constituted "board of missions," consisting of one man or a dozen—to know that brethren whom it chooses to handle money or to send on any mission have been proved to be honest, reliable, capable, and altogether worthy. It is unscriptural, therefore, for any brother to presume and to assume to take up any such work without the approval of the church.

The brother who objects to the teaching of the Bible and to the request of the church to handle its money or the money of any other business concern according to business principles of integrity and uprightness, and, therefore, honorably in the sight of all men as well as in the sight of God, has very poor conceptions of common honesty and less of the teaching of the Bible, if he is not really dishonest.

On the other hand, no preacher or any other man, who is not honest and upright, trustworthy and faithful, moral and clean, righteous and godly, should be commended to any congregation as worthy to do any work. He who does that knowingly sins against God and the church. An honest man of the world will not recommend a dishonest man for anything, One cannot do that and remain honest. Paul ferbade Timothy's being "a partaker of other men's sins." To knowingly commend a dishonest and immoral preacher is to become a partaker of his sins.

To be sure, some preacher or some other man, under the stress of some strong temptation, may yield for the moment and then repent, as did David, and obtain forgiveness; but afterwards, in humility, contrition of heart, and trembling at God's word, he is willing to be a doorkeeper in the house of God and work out his own salvation with fear and trembling. It is doubtful if the man who seeks to become even more prominent after his sins and even because of his sins has ever repented. David's sins were ever before him, and he suffered the sad consequences of them through the remainder of his life-consequences which God said must follow. The man who denies his sins, tries to hide them, yet seeks the indorsement of others, we know has not repented and is not honest. The ones who recommend him are his enemies and enemies of the church.

While Paul commended the worthy, he solemnly warned against the unworthy. He warned Timothy against Alexander, the coppersmith, for instance, and said Demas forsook him, "having loved this present world." (2 Tim. 4: 9, 14.) He warned the church at Rome against some who were "causing the divisions and occasions of stumbling, contrary to the doctrine" which it had learned. He charged the church to turn away from such, for they served "not our Lord Christ, but their own belly [their own vain ambitions, lusts, and passions]; and by their smooth and fair speech they" beguiled "the hearts of the innocent." (Rom. 16: 17, 13.) Again, he says elders with other qualifications must "hold the faithful word, which is according to the teaching," that they May be able both to exhort in the sound doctrine, and to convict the gainsayers. For there are many unruly men, vain talkers and deceivers, specially they of the circumcision, whose mouths must be stopped; men who overthrow whole houses, teaching things which they ought not, for filthy lucre's sake. (Tit. 1: 9-11.)

With all other warnings against false teachers, false brethren, etc., read in 2 Pet. 2 what is said of them.

But these, as creatures without reason, born mere animals to be taken and destroyed, railing in matters whereof they are ignorant, shall in their destroying surely be destroyed, suffering wrong as the hife of wrongdoing; men that count it a pleasure to revel in the daytime, spots and blemishes, reveling in their deceivings while they feast with you; having eyes full of adultery, and that cannot cease from sin; enticing unsteadfast souls; having a heart exercised in covetousness; children of cursing; forsaking the right way, they went astray, having followed the way of Balaam the son of Beor, who loved the hire of wrongdoing; but he was rebuked for his own transgression: a dumb ass spake with man's voice and stayed the madness of the prophet.

Read the whole of 2 Pet. 2 and the whole of Jude.

Who can doubt with all this before him that there may be in any age of the church such characters? While there are many, many self-sacrificing, true, faithful, and heroic preachers to-day, young and old, who are teaching the truth in the love of it and preaching the gospel of good will and in the fear of God; who can doubt that some preach it through envy and strife (Phil. 1: 15, 16), pervert it (Gal. 1: 6-9), corrupt the word of God (2 Cor. 2: 17), handle it deceitfully (2 Cor. 4: 2), wrest the Scriptures (2 Pet. 3: 16), and make merchandise of their preaching (2 Pet. 2)? If half we hear be true, some preachers, who are not mere boys, either, are prostituting the gospel to serve their own mercenary, selfish, and lustful ends.

I have been asked most seriously by thoughtful and Christian men of middle age and old age if there is no way made known in the New Testament to stop such practices and to prevent their preying upon the churches and deceiving the innocent. There is; but neither congregations nor preachers as a whole will observe it. Those who go wrong and about whose guilt there can be no doubt are recommended by other preachers, upheld by not a few congregations, and advertised in religious papers. So long as this is the case, where is the remedy? Preachers, congregations, and papers in doing this do wrong. There can be no playing of politics, merely getting a wrongdoer by, whitewashing sin, bulldozing, or using the road roller in the church. The Bible is the guide and standard and God is the Judge. Some of the people may be fooled for some of the time, but all the people cannot be fooled all the time, as Lincoln once said, and God never. It is God who says, "Be sure your sins will find you out," and, "The way of the transgressor is hard." All have to deal with God. Then let a congregation realize that to attempt to support and uphold a preacher known to be guilty of immoral conduct-that is, who has not repented, confessed his sins, and attempted in modesty, humility, and the fear of God to produce fruit worthy of repentance is to become a partaker of his sins, and is to sin against him, to sin against others, and to sin against God. A congregation is the light of the world, and it must do everything and treat everybody according to the word of God. It cannot manifest and be governed by a partisan spirit and shield and protect a wrongdoer; it must be forbearing; must suffer long and be kind, seek to save the lost, forgive and love; but it can in no wise seek to clear the guilty in his guilt.

Those who do wrong, it seems, are in places the most popular and frequently the most prominent in the papers. One paper is not enough; they must be seen in all the papers. What are religious papers for? If their mission is not to teach the truth-the word of God in its completeness-to edify the church, and to win souls to Christ, they should go out of business. Certainly they should not be used as advertising boards for preachers who are not true, faithful, clean, and pure. Churches have confidence in religious papers. They see a preachers' meetings and success reported in these papers, personal mention of the preacher made by the editor almost every week, and they believe him to be pure gold for this reason, send for him, and discover their mistake when it is too late. It cannot be right for papers to pursue this course. Faithfulness to God and the churches forbid it.

Without attempting to give a directly scriptural answer to the question of what to do with such preachers, let us all study this question in the light of the New Testament and see if we can find the answer ourselves. This question may not yet have been studied by many. Let us see, too, if we can learn our duty in regard to such wrongdoers.

When the thunder is very loud, there is very little rain.

-Exchange.

Interest Is Growing.

We are having many complimentary expressions regardings the merits of the Gospel Advocate. Also, many of our readers are beginning to send in new subscribers. We are not unmindful of our readers, and are doing everything that we can to give them a first-class paper in every particular. We have some new editorial writers promised for next year. A. G. Freed assures us that he will write more frequently in the future than he has done in the past and will take a position among our editorial writers. We are glad to welcome him to our columns, and feel sure that our readers will be much edified by the thoughtful articles that he will give us.

There is no reason why the circulation of the Gospel Advocate should not be doubled, even quadrupled, within the next twelve months. Of course, if our readers make no effort to enroll their friends as subscribers to the Gospel Advocate, their friends will know nothing about the paper and will not become subscribers; but if all will do as many others are now doing-will speak to their friends and acquaintances-they will be surprised to find how readily people are subscribing to the paper. If the Gospel Advocate is standing for the truth and is advocating the things that you love and that you believe are in harmony with the word of God, then you should prove your faith by your works and do what you can by cooperating heartily with the management in extending the circulation of the paper. To encourage people to read the Gospel Advocate, and also to show them our appreciation of their efforts to extend the circulation of the paper, we will give to every old subscriber who sends two new subscriptions to the Gospel Advocate a copy of the Teachers' New Testament with Notes. This is a most excellent book, and has had a very extensive circulation. In doing this we are not only encouraging people to read the Gospel Advocate, but we are encouraging them also to read the New Testament. We are making this offer to all of our old readers in the hope and belief that within the next few weeks many will send us two or more new yearly subscribers.

Doubtless it is true that you do not agree with everything that you see in the Gospel Advocate. This is not only true of the Gospel Advocate, but it is true of any other paper. But you may be sure of one thing-that we are determined to teach the truth as we see it. We are seeking the favor of God rather than the favor of men. We know that the gospel is God's power unto salvation and that it is our duty, without addition or subtraction, to teach the truth as it is in Christ Jesus. We must do this in order to stand approved in the sight of Jehovah. If we were to consult our own feelings, we might pass all error without criticism; but if we were to do this, we would stand condemned in the sight of God. It is certainly not pleasant to disagree with brethren, or even with sectarians, or any one else. It is much more pleasant to agree with every one and seek their approval rather than to boldly and fearlessly contend for the faith once for all delivered to the saints; but, in the midst of our differences, the management of the Gospel Advocate will teach the truth with love toward all and malice toward none.

If you wish a copy of the Teachers' New Testament, you should go to work at once, for this offer holds good only while our present supply lasts. The Testament with Notes, while all notes should be received with a grain of salt, is very helpful indeed to every student of the word of God. So we ask all to go to work to-day—not to wait, but to go to work at once and send us a number of new subscribers.

The world needs—and must have—and forever will have at the front men who live in the future. Men whose eyes are in their faces, who look forward and press onward, and do it eagerly. From such men the world elects its leaders.—Austin Phelps.

贝

AT HOME AND ABROAD

- S. I. Jones was at Trinity Lane twice on Lord's day.
- E. G. Cullum preached twice on Sunday at Fifth Street.
- Dr. J. S. Ward preached twice last Sunday at Franklin, Ky.
- R. C. White preached twice at Grandview Heights on Sunday.
- A. S. Derryberry preached twice at Eleventh Street last Sunday.
- J. Ridley Stroop preached twice at Joy's Flower Garden last Sunday.
- G. R. Bethurum preached morning and evening at the Belmont Church.
- C. E. W. Dorris was at Foster Street Church Lord's day morning and evening.

Russell King preached Lord's-day morning and evening at David Lipscomb College.

Brother Dockery and Brother Hargis, uncle and nephew, were in to see us on Friday.

F. B. Srygley preached twice for the Lawrence Avenue congregation last Lord's day.

Joe Trotter visited the Joseph Avenue Church Sunday and delivered two discourses.

- F. W. Smith reports good audiences and services at Franklin, Tenn., on Lord's day.
- G. L. Cullum was at the Charlotte Avenue Church on Sunday and delivered two sermons.
- A. T. Ritchie preached for the Chapel Avenue congregation at the eleven-o'clock service last Sunday.

Dan Gunn preached at the eleven-o'clock service at Twelfth Avenue, North, Sunday, and J. E. Acuff at night.

- W. O. Norton, of David Lipscomb College, paid us a nice visit last week; also J. L. Jackson, of the Lindsley Avenue
- H. H. Adamson, of Lewisburg, Tenn., paid us a pleasant visit recently. He reports the church at Lewisburg in good condition.
- C. M. Stubblefield, of Paducah, Ky., called to see us last week. He reports the work at Paducah as having grown wonderfully.
- J. L. Jackson preached at both services of the Lindsley Avenue Church last Sunday. He reports good attendance and services.
- A. B. Lipscomb preached to fine audiences morning and night at the Russell Street Church, this city, on Lord's day, One took membership.

Sister Shepherd, wife of J. W. Shepherd, returned to her home in Detroit, Mich., last week, after having spent some time visiting friends in the South.

Sister Gunn, wife of Dan Gunn, is in St. Thomas Hospital, where she underwent an operation last week. She was doing well when last heard from.

J. W. Grant preached for the church at Donelson, Tenn., on Lord's-day morning. There was a good, interested, and appreciative audience. They had no service at night.

Alex Perry preached at Eighth Avenue, North, Sunday morning, and W. J. Kline at night. There were seventy-seven in the Sunday school. This is a good increase.

- E. Gaston Collins made this office a pleasant call last week. He reports the work prosperous in the three congregations for which he preaches in and near Algood, Tenn.
- F. J. Rogers called to see us on Friday, on his way to South Pittsburg, Tenn., where he is thinking of locating as an evangelist. There is much work needed in that section.

For the benefit of any of our readers who may visit Dayton, Ohio, we are glad to inform them that there is a loyal congregation in that city, located at 402 Edgewood Avenue.

From J. S. Jones, Senath, Mo., December 8: "I am now located in Senath. Any church in reach of me and in need of a preacher for regular or protracted-meeting work should write me at once. I have some spare time for 1921."

J. V. A. Traylor, of Smyrna, Tenn., writes: "H. Leo Boles and I recently closed a meeting at Hopkinsville, Ky. The meeting was very successful, resulting in ten baptisms and four restorations. Great interest continued throughout the meeting."

From Leslie G. Thomas, Flint, Mich., December 6: "Yesterday we had two good meetings near Standish. The brethren there are happy in the Lord's work. We hope to plant the seed of the kingdom in many hearts before our labor there comes to a close."

Dr. J. E. Thompson, of Sparta, Tenn., who was for many years a resident of this city, was in our office on Saturday. The Doctor tells us that he is getting out another small book on "Revelation," and that he will distribute five hundred copies gratis to preachers.

Brethren sending questions to the "Query Department" of this paper should be sure to sign their names to the questions, as we make it a rule never to answer unsigned queries. We wish to impress this upon our readers, as we do not care to disappoint them.

Charles F. Hardin writes from Springfield, Mo., December 9: "The meeting at Pepsin, Mo., near Granby, closed on Friday night. It resulted in four additions and much good otherwise. Herbert E. Winkler is here now in one of the best meetings Springfield has ever had."

A. M. George, Albany, Texas, says: "We have been taking the Gospel Advocate for fifty or more years. I differ with the paper in regard to the 'Sunday school,' receiving sectarians without baptism (scriptural baptism, I mean), 'brother'-ing sectarians, etc.; but the paper contains many good things."

From R. H. Johnson, Morrillton, Ark., December 7: "I am now ready to arrange for meetings. I can hold meetings any time. I have promised only two meetings for 1921. I have been in evangelistic work for twenty years. I want to be kept busy. Congregations desiring my services should write me at once."

From Joe Ratcliffe, Bardwell, Ky., December 7: "On the first Lord's day in December I closed my third year's work with the church at Glass, Tenn., with a call to work with them another year. There are some very fine Christian people there. They are at peace with each other and have done good work for the Master."

The following note comes from A. Puryear, J. F. Hyde, and S. H. Dandridge, elders of the church at Thyatira, Miss.: "There are four churches here in Tate County, Miss., that wish to employ a preacher for the year 1921. We want him to give all of his time to work in this county. Would be glad to get in touch with a good man for this work."

From Mrs. J. L. Glasscock, Calahaln, N. C.: "The gospel Advocate surely is a welcome visitor in our home. I read and meditate over its pages no little. I feel that I have been well repaid, and do not see how I could get along without it. I have been helped so much by reading it, and shall continue to read it as long as I can get anything to pay for it."

From Herry T. King, McMinnville, Tenn., December 8: "I have just begun my second year's work here in McMinnville. In the year just passed we have had many encouraging signs of peace and progress in the church work, and we enter this year with confidence and hope. It is our desire to accomplish much more of good this year than we did in the past year."

From B. C. Goodpasture, Atlanta, Ga., December 6:

"There were two excellent services at West End Avenue yesterday. Two took membership with the local congregation at the morning service. The evening attendance was the best thus far. One was restored at the morning service, Sunday, November 23. Brother Rogers reports good services at South Pryor Street yesterday."

Changes of address: Ethel Kennedy, from Bethpage, Tenn., to 1911 Russell Street, Nashville, Tenn.; F. O. Howell, from Obion, Tenn., to 128 West King Street, Jackson, Tenn.; A. C. Williams, from Match to Chapel Hill, Tenn.; M. C. Kinnard, from Orlando, Fla., to 317 Hancock Street, Nashville, Tenn.; J. W. Brents, from Dawson, Texas, to Athens, Ala.; C. A. Marshall, from Santa Cruz to Soquel, Cal.

From J. H. McBroom, Shelbyville, Tenn., December 5: "The Main Street church of Christ is taking on new life. Three persons took membership to-day, and several others are expected to do so soon. Audiences and interest growing. T. C. Little preached for us Friday night. We have a Ladies' Bible Class on Tuesday afternoon and prayer meeting Tuesday night. The church is helping in several good works."

C. B. Harper writes from Waynesboro, Miss., December 9: "Will you please tell me where I can find a church of Christ close to Waynesboro, so I can go to meeting? I am visiting down here for a while, and there is no church here that I can find out about, closer than Mobile, Ala. I am a member at Schochoh, Ky." Will some one answer? Address him at Waynesboro, Miss., Route 5, care of E. G. Ryan.

Mrs. Katherine McClain and Mr. C. W. Spain were married on Monday evening, December 6, 1920, at the home of Dr. and Mrs. J. P. Womack, of this city. Mrs. McClain is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. O. McKennon, of Greenbrier, Tenn., and Mr. Spain is a prominent business man of Robertson County. Morgan H. Carter officiated. Mr. and Mrs. Spain will make their home on his farm near Springfield.

John M. Rice, Comanche, Okla., November 22, says: "I assisted Tice Elkins in a meeting at Brooklyn Heights, Fort Worth, Texas, beginning on November 12 and closing on November 21. Three were added to the congregation—one from the 'progressives' and two by baptism. I greatly enjoyed the splendid sermons of Brother Elkins. He has done a great work with the Southside-Central Church at Fort Worth."

From A. T. Kerr, Brookport, III., December 3: "We have just closed an excellent meeting here, with four added to the church. Charlie Taylor, of Paducah, Ky., did the preaching. While Brother Taylor is only a young man, he handles that grand old Book, the Bible, like an old veteran who has spent practically all his life preaching the gespel. The meeting continued over three Lord's days, and the attendance was good from the start."

J. E. Wainwright writes from Texarkana, Ark., December 8: "The work in the central part of the city is progressing rapidly and is pleasant in every respect. The Bible school has a splendid attendance, and many good lessons are being implanted in young and tender hearts. Our number continues to grow under opposition. We fondly anticipate a nice building within a few months. Traveling brethren should not forget our location—Knights of Pythias Hall on State Street."

R. A. Craig writes from Louisville, Ky., December 7: "Last Sunday I was at Parksville, Ky., and preached both morning and evening. I will return there next Tuesday to begin a Bible drill. We will try to prepare the young minds for greater service. Brother Pendergrass brought good reports from Shiloh and Fairmount. We also expect good news from Van Buren. The Russell Schoolhouse brethren have completed their new building. I will preach the opening sermon next Sunday afternoon."

From C. Gall, Kansas City, Mo., December 11: "In the midst of interest our meeting at Mulvane, Kan., closed because of epidemic of disease. A. J. Rhodes is the untiring, faithful preacher there. At Peck, Kan., we baptized only one during the meeting, but the attendance and interest were the best. Here, at Thirty-third and South Benton, we are having a real meeting. Several faithful preachers attending and assisting. Two have been added so far. Roy Bixler, the wonder preacher, was present last night and assisted."

From W. S. Long, Washington, D. C., December 5: "This was a happy day for the little congregation in this city. We met to worship in our new house at Fourteenth and Meridian Streets, N. W. We had the best audience we have ever had. J. W. Shepherd, of Detroit, Mich., delivered two forcible sermons which greatly encouraged us all. Brother Shepherd has been a great help to us in our struggles, as also has the Vinewood Street Church, of Detroit. We shall strive harder each day to show our gratitude for the help the brotherhood has given.

E. V. Cowan, Ravenden Springs, Ark., writes: "This is the close of my year's work. There have been one hundred and ten additions under my preaching this year. I have preached on an average about one sermon for each day in the year, held five meetings, taught two singing schools, and have taught in the public school eight months of the year. I am at present superintending the Ravenden Springs high school. I am arranging my work for another year. I aim to give my entire time to preaching. Brethren, if you want a meeting, write me."

From D. S. Ligon, Denton, Texas, December 9: "On the fourth Sunday in November I was with the church at Leonard, Texas. I have held several meetings for these brethren. They now have a nice, new house of worship and are in fine condition to do much for the Master in that town and country. Last Lord's day I preached at Iowa Park, Texas. I began on Thursday night before and gave three lectures on the subject, "I'm Looking for a Man," to very appreciative crowds. The church at Iowa Park has improved the house of worship and is ready to do greater things in that town."

From L. D. Perkins, Armona, Cal., December 7: "I was at Tulare on Sunday and heard E. M. West, who preaches twice each month for them, deliver an excellent address on the subject, 'Breaking Down the Middle Wall of Partition.' Brother West is an excellent preacher and a splendid man, in my judgment. The new building is now almost completed. The baptistery is in, the plastering will be on by the time this reaches the readers, and the seats will be in making right away. The house will accommodate four hundred or more. We had a fine audience at Hanford on Sunday. This work has exceeded in growth my expectation."

R. F. Whitaker writes from Tipton, Okla., November 26: "Our new fifteen-thousand-dollar brick church building is now completed, with the exception of seats, which we expect about Christmas. We have a beautiful structure. We have a fine body of Christians at this place. I have been preaching monthly for this church for eleven years, save one, and am called to preach for them another year. I have three other monthly appointments close by. This is my home, and I expect it to be the rest of my time on earth. I do not see why a preacher wants to chase himself to death hunting work when there is so much near home."

Tice Elkins writes from Fort Worth, Texas, December 5: "The work of the Lord in this city is prospering greatly. Everybody seems to have a mind to work. There have been three additions to Southside-Central Church since my last report. The debate between myself and the Methodist Episcopal preacher closed last Friday night. This was the nicest debate I ever witnessed. There was not a nickname called, not a slur thrown out. My opponent is the best fellow I ever met, and I wish I could yoke him up a hundred times more. The largest crowds I ever saw at a debate attended this one. All enjoyed it, and everybody kept sweet."

J. V. A. Traylor, Smyrna, Tenn., writes: "I wish to saw that I have enjoyed reading the Gospel Advocate very much recently, especially Brother McQuiddy's pieces on love. In my travels this year I have been able to get many subscriptions, and have heard many say that this paper is getting better. I desire to mention nine things, and they who will do them will never have any regret for it: (1) Doing good unto all; (2) speaking evil of none; (3) thinking before speaking; (4) holding an angry tongue; (5) being kind to the distressed; (6) asking pardon for all wrongs that you have done; (7) being patient to all; (8) stopping your ears to all talebearers; (9) disbelieving most of all ill reports."

From C. N. Hudson, Beacon, Tenn.: "After eighteen years of labor with the churches in Perry County, I have moved to Beacon, Decatur County, leaving behind many friends and loved ones. While in Perry County I preached more or less for every church in the county and for several in adjoining counties. For some of the congregations I preached as long as eleven years in succession. During this time our relations were pleasant, and the separation was sad. I am now with the church here, and will labor with the congregation here and at other places in and out of the county where I think I can be of most benefit to the cause for which Jesus died. I am well pleased so far. I have been here over two Lord's days, and everything is moving along nicely. I hope to accomplish much in Christ's name."

U. G. Wilkinson writes from Comanche, Okla., December 6: "We had another excellent service at home yesterday. The church here is in good condition, the brethren seem to enjoy the services very much, and love and harmony prevail. As to my health, I do not seem to improve any. I cannot get out to preach any, but will be confined at home, at least, until there is considerable improvement. I want to go back to Hot Springs again for treatment soon. I still believe that if I am able to spend sufficient time there and receive the proper treatment. I can recover; but it will take time and patience. With the help of God and his people, I hope yet to be restored to health and strength. May God bless all his faithful children. Remember, brethren, I need your earnest prayers and other help in my time of trouble and need."

CHRONIC CATARRH

Follows Repeated Colds When Blood Is Impure.

Your body suffering from a cold does not properly attend to diges-tion and elimination. As a result your blood becomes impure, it in-your blood becomes impure, it in-flames the mucous membrane and brings about that condition in which chronic catarrh occurs and on which it depends.

Purify your blood, make it clean, by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and if your bowels are not healthfully active, take Hood's Pills. These medicines have relieved and pre-vented thousands of cases of chron-ic catarrh. Economy is one of the ic catarrh. Economy is one of the strong points of Hood's Sarsaparilla—100 doses in a bottle. Why not get it today?

Statement and Appeal.

The elders of the church at Bethel, whose names appear below, wish to say to the readers of the Gospel Advocate that old Brother Wheeler, of Jasper, Ala., has been preaching for us for the last two years. In fact, he was instrumental in building up our congregation. He is now about seventy years old, and has been preaching over forty years. Through an appeal that was made last winter for him in the Advocate he received enough, with the help he got from the congregations where he was preaching regularly, to do a great deal of preaching this year. He has been very successful in the way of additions and in building up new congregations, having labored about half of his time in destitute places. He is still active, and wants to continue the good work if the brethren will stand by him; so we want to kindly ask congregations and individuals, especially those where he has labored the most, to take up the matter and send him a contribution. He needs no recommendation to the readers; the preaching that he has done for over forty years and the sacrifices that he has made are enough to recommend him. Send your contributions to C. A. Wheeler, Jasper, Ala., and he will acknowledge the W. C. LAMBERT. same.

W. R. Rose, A. F. HOLT.

Selections.

Choose your friend wisely, Test your friend well; True friends, like rarest gems, Prove hard to tell; Winter him, summer him. Know your friend well,

Beginning to see duty from above instead of seeing it from below-surrounding it with God-this is knowing what duty is, the opportunity that he and we have together.

You cannot till a field by tickling it with a hand rake. It is so with the mind; we must get something that will go deep and that will break up the fallow ground if we would have strength of thought.

Reason without revelation is sure fatally to err; and whether in ancient paganisms or in modern rationalisms, which are heathenisms, or in popery, or in nominal, formal Christianity, the error at bottom is identically one and the same.

The Quinine That Does Not Affect The Head Because of its tonic and laxative effect, LAXA-TIVE BROMO QUININE (Tablets) can be taken by anyone without causing nervousness or ringing in the head. E.W. GROVE'S signature on box. 30c.

THE SANITARY." Individual GUPS List of thousands of churches using our cups and FREE CAMALOG with quotations sent upon request.

Sanitary Communion Outfit Ca., 71st St., Rochester, N. V

Ends Stubborn Coughs in a Hurry

$0000000000000000000000

for real effectiveness, this old home-made remedy has no equal, Easily and cheaply prepared, Გ&&&&&&&&&

You'll never know how quickly a had cough can be conquered, until you try this famous old home-made remedy. Anyone who has coughed all day and all night, will say that the immediate relief given is almost like magic. It takes but a moment to prepare, and really there is nothing hetter for coughs. Into a pint bottle, put 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. Or you can use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, the full pint saves about two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, and gives you a more positive, effective remedy. It keeps perfectly, and tastes pleasant—children like it.

You can feel this take hold instantly, positive, effective remedy. It keeps perfectly, and tastes pleasant—children like it.

You can feel this take hold instantly, soothing and healing the membranes in all the air passages, it promptly loosens a dry, tight cough, and soon you will notice the phlegm thin out and then disappear altogether. A day's use will usually break up an ordinary throat or chest cold, and it is also splendid for broughtis, croup, hoarseness, and bronchial asthma.

Pirex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract. The most reliable remedy for throat and chest ailments.

To avoid disappointment, ask your draggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Use

Antiseptic Analgesic Antiphlogistic

(Prevents Infection) (Relieves Pain) (Allays Inflammat)

A dependable preventative of diseases of the air passages and an excellent curative agent for inflammatory conditions of the skin and mucous membranes. Does not in ure delicate skin. Fine for baby. There's a wonderful amount of comfort, health and protection in a 2 oz. jar. 50e at your druggist's or by mail from

Piedmont Laboratories, Inc., Clinton, S. C.

SOLD FOR 50 YEARS FOR MALARIA, CHILLS AND FEVER. Also a Fine General Strengthening Tonic. Arthur Peter & Co., Louisville, Ky. At All Drug Stores.

Good Books Make the Best Gifts

Below we offer a list of books on vital topics that should be of interest to every preacher, Sunday-school teacher, and Bible lover. Have you a friend out of the church whom you are trying hard to reach and save? Send him one of these books. If he is "almost persuaded," it may clinch the argument for you. If he is lukewarm, it may stir him to action. In any event, it will be appreciated.

The list includes most excellent books, printed and bound in first-class style. Postpaid prices are quoted. We have recently printed an edition of "Life of Elder John Smith," "Christian System," and "The Evidences of Christianity." We believe that a book worth publishing deserves to be accurately printed and neatly and substantially bound.

LIST OF BOOKS

The Model Church (cloth), G. C. Brewer	61	00	Cayce-Srygley Debate$1	25
Gospel Plan of Salvation, Dr. T. W. Brents	2	00	Life of Elder ("Raccoon") John Smith, J. A. Williams	50
Gospel Sermons, Dr. T. W. Brents	2	00	J. A. Williams 1 Christian System, A. Campbell 1	50
Brents-Herod Debate		50	The Evidences of Christianity (Campbell- Owen Debate)1
Character; or, The Making of the Man, Edward W. Carmack	1	50	Why the Baptist Name, Lofton-Smith
The Relations of God to the World, Hiram Christopher	1	00	Discussion 1 The Word of Reconciliation, J. D. Floyd 1	00
Folk-McQuiddy Discussion on the Plan of Salvation			Debate on the Roman Catholic Religion, Alexander Campbell and J. B. Purcell 1	50
Evidence of Pardon, C. E. Holt		25	Ailenroc's Book 1
Civil Government, David Lipscomb	1	Section .	Instrumental Music in the Worship, M. C. Kurfees1
Commentary on Acts of Apostles, David Lipscomb	1	50	Seventy Years in Dixie, F. D. Srygley 1	50
Salvation from Sin, David Lipscomb.			Campbell on Baptism1	50
Compiled and edited by J. W. Shepherd The Life and Sermons of Jesse L. Sewell,	1	50	Christian Treasures. Compiled and edited by A. B. Lipscomb. In 2 volumes, each 1	00
	1	50	Sweeney's Sermons1
Sunshine; or, Uncle Minor's Stories, V. M. Metcalfe	1	50	Outlines of Bible Study, G. Dallas Smith Prices: 1 dozen copies, prepaid, $8.25; 25 cop-	75
On the Rock (cloth), D. R. Dungan			ies, not prepaid, $15.00. Around the Lord's Table	25
Letters and Sermons of T. B. Larimore, in three volumes, each The three volumes ordered at one time			Peloubet's Select Notes for 19212 A fine help for teachers of the International Sunday-school lessons.
Life Work of Mrs. Charlotte Fanning, Mrs. Emma Page Larimore		- A2	New Commentary on Acts of Apostles, J. W. McGarvey2	00
Gospel Lessons and Life History, E. G. Sewell	40	25	Dictionary of the Bible, Smith-Peloubet 2	50
Sewell	Ţ	25	Stark-Warlick Debate	50
Handbook on Baptism (revised edition), J. W. Shepherd	1	50	Orthodoxy in the Civil Courts, J. H. Edwards	75
The People's New Testament (with	1	50	Evenings with the Bible, Isaac Errett. Three volumes. Price per volume1 notes), in two volumes, B. W. Johnson Prices: Per Volume, $2.50; Per Set, $5.00. A good commentary on the New Testament.			The Divine Demonstration, H. W. Everest1	50
A good commentary on the New Testament	13	25	Advantion and the Dible I House Monle 1

Address all orders to

McQUIDDY PRINTING COMPANY

317-319 Fifth Avenue, North NASHVILLE, TENN.

Cupid Doctor

That love sometimes cures disease is a fact that has been called to the attention of the public by a prominent physician. Love is not, however, the cure for all women. Many a woman is nervous and irritable, feels dragged down and irritable, feels dragged down and worn out for no reason that she can think of.

Doctor Pierce's Favorite Pre-scription gives new life and new strength to weak, worn-out, run-down women. "Favorite Prescription" makes weak women strong and sick women well. It is now sold by all druggists in the United States in tablets as well as liquid form.

Send 10c to Dr. Pierce, Suffalo N.Y., for trial pkg. of the tablets. NASHVILLE, TENN.—"I have used Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and found it to do what it is recommended to do. It did me more good than the doctors. I had several and none of them did me any good. I Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the only thing for weak, broken-down women. I felt like a new woman after taking it. weighed 155 lbs. and never felt better in my life."-MRS. AGNES TATUM, 175 L. Green St.

TREMENDOUS VALUE FOR 10c.

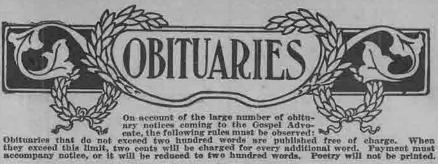

The Pathfinder, Leading Weekly Magazine of Nation's Capital, Makes Remarkably Attractive Offer.

Washington, D. C. (Special.)—People in every section of the country are hurrying to take advantage of the Pathfinder's wonderful offer to send that splends illustrated review of the whole world eight weeks for ten cents. It costs the editor a lot of money to do this, but he says it pays to invest in new friends, and that he will keep the offer open until the Pathfinder passes the 300,000 circulation mark, which will be in a few weeks. Ten cents mailed at once with your application to Pathfinder, 120 Douglas Street, Washington, D. C., will keep the whole family informed, entertained, helped, and inspired for the next three months.

Keeps the Skin Clear

When troubled with pumples, sores, eczema, rash, and other skin troubles, apply TETTERINE. It is soothing, healing; softens the skin and clears the complexion. Excellent for bables. 60c at all druggists' or from Shuptrine Co., Savannah, Ga.

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

Davis.

J. F. Davis was born on March 13, 1840; was married to Minerva Martin on March 26, 1865; obeyed the gospel, on March 26, 1866, obeyed the gospel, together with his wife, on June 1, 1886; and died at Tom Bean, Texas, on December 1, 1920. He was a subscriber to the Gospel Advocate for about thirty years, and greatly enjoyed the paper as long as he was able to read. Mrs. J. M. J. Davis, Jr.

Gann.

Sister Lennie Gann passed from this life into the great beyond on November 24, 1920. She leaves a mother, one brother, five sisters, and a host of friends. Lennie was loved by every one who knew her. She obeyed the gospel at the age of nineteen and did much in her Master's vineyard. While her life was short, only twenty-one years, yet it was a useful one. Almost four weeks of weary pain did her suffering frame endure, yet no fretful, murmuring words came from her patient lips. A LOVING FRIEND.

Mason.

Frances Joy, daughter of Brother and Sister L. F. Mason, was born on September 28, 1920, and died on November 8, 1920, at the home in White-This brief sentence Texas. wright. covers the mortal career of six weeks' sojourn of this precious little flower in this world of sorrow and sunshine. Though she lingered so briefly, she made her impression on the parental heart, and the loss is great and their Her little sorrow profoundly deep. body, encased in a beautiful white casket, was brought from that far-away Texas home to the hills of Tennessee and laid to rest in the burying ground of Sister Mason's family near Morrison, Tenn. Funeral services were attended by many friends of the family, and words of consolation were spoken by the writer. H. T. KING.

Lair.

On June 28, 1920, William Thompson Lair passed away. He was born in Barren County, Ky., on June 21, 1850. He came with his parents to on June 21. Bonham, Texas, in 1852, and had lived here ever since. He joined the Methodist Church in the latter part of the sixties. Sometime in the seventies he joined the Christian Church and was ordained a minister of the same, and he died in the faith. He was a good husband and kind father, a man of many friends, always ready to help those in need. He had been a sub-scriber to the Gospel Advocate for many years. He was not sick very long, but during his last few days on earth he suffered a great deal; but he was as patient as could be. He was the father of seven children, five of whom are living. He leaves a loving Meeks.

Marcus W. Meeks, of Corinth, Miss., was born on July 21, 1850, and died on November 21, 1920. He was "born again" in the summer of 1881. He walked in this new life for nearly forty years. He was married to Zilpah Michie on February 3, 1876. He leaves a widow, six sons, and two daughters—all Christians—to mourn their loss. Brother Meeks was a devoted elder in the church at Corinth. He loved the church, his family, and his friends. He was from one of the best families in all the land. He was loyal to New Testament Christianity. The memory of his sainted life is a rich legacy to his family and friends. "Blessed are the dead who die in the Our hearts go out in sympa-Lord." thy for those who miss husband, fa-ther, friend, from daily life. The writer spoke to the large audience who had gathered at the funeral.

A. G. FREED.

Rhes.

L. A. Rhea was born on August 14, 1853; died at his home, in Nashville, Tenn., on November 26, 1920. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mollie Rhea, and six children—H. C. Rhea, Charles Rhea, Misses Nannie and Jessie Rhea, and Mrs. Percy Carter, of Nashville, and B. L. Rhea, of Fox Bluff, Tenn. Brother Rhea was a consistent member of the church of Christ for more than thirty years, and served as elder of the congregation at Ashland City, Tenn., for a number of years. He was an exemplary citizen and was held in high esteem by all who knew him. The family has lost a devoted and loving husband and father; the church, a valiant soldier and a tireless worker. The remains were brought to Ashland City, where the funeral services were conducted by the writer, after which the interment took place at Forest Hill Cemetery.
"Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord from henceforth: Yea, saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labors; and their works do follow them."

B. W. Davis.

Womack.

On October 18, 1920, Sister Tennes-see Gertrude Womack, wife of Brother L. P. Womack and daughter of Daniel W. and Sarah Webb, died at her home, at Smithville, Tenn., after a lingering Illness. She leaves, besides her husband and many friends, to mourn her death, two sons, Hubern Womack and Lester Womack; one daughter, Mrs.

MORRIS

Supreme Canned Meats

Accept only the Yellow and Black label-it covers everything in meat that's good to eat.

Prepared under skilled supervision and seasoned, ready to serve.

MORRIS SUPREME Canned Meats are sold by most good dealers everywhere.

The housewife who demands the best uses Supreme Meats.

MORRIS & COMPANY

Packers and Provisioners.

George M. Foster; two sisters, Mrs. James B. Moore and Mrs. James Now-lin; and one brother, F. Z. Webb—all of Dekalb County, Tenn., except Mrs. Nowlin, who resides in Salt Lake City, Utah. Sister Womack was born on May 25, 1858; was married to L. P. Womack on October 8, 1882; obeyed the gospel of Christ in 1885, being baptized by Elder P. G. Potter; and lived thereafter an exemplary Christian life. This good woman not only believed that faith, repentance, confession, and baptism made her a Christian, but added to her life of faith in Jesus Christ courage, knowledge, temperance, patience, godliness, brotherly kindness, and love, knowing that if she possessed these attributes an abundant entrance into the everlasting kingdom of Christ was promised her. Funeral services were conducted by Brother R. V. Cawthon, and her body was laid to rest in the town cemetery.

J. E. DRAKE.

Be glad, be glad, ye people, The day at last has come, The day of Christ's redemption, Let not your lips be dumb; Tell to the worn and weary, Tell to the slaves of sin, The church at last has awakened, The church at last will win. -F. W. Neve.

Habitual Constipation Cured in 14 to 21 Days

"LAX-FOS WITH PEPSIN" is a speciallyprepared Syrup Tonic-Laxative for Habitual Constipation. It relieves promptly and should be taken regularly for 14 to 21 days to induce regular action. It Stimulates and Regulates. Very Pleasant to Take. 60c per bottle.

Unheard Prayers.

Some prayers never reach God. It depends upon us, not upon God, whether our prayers reach him, for he has shown us how we may be sure of reaching him. A man was giving a letter to his dictating machine. He had been talking away for a minute or two, when suddenly he noticed that a little lever that must be lifted to start the motor was in the wrong position; the motor was still, the sensitive wax cylinder was motionless, and so all that he had said was unrecorded. The cylinder had not received the vibrations that his voice had made on the sensitive diaphragm. The dictation bad been correctly given; but the cylinder had not "heard" the man. It could not-the connection was not made. So many a prayer, given very earnestly and sincerely, cannot reach God, for the "connection" has not been made. If we want the prayer to "go through," we must work by the laws of prayer that God has explained-simple, but unchanging. We must pray according to God's will, and with faith, and in the name of Jesus, and we must abide in Jesus as we pray. Spiritual laws are as definite and exact as natural laws. Are we as careful to learn them and then to use them?-Sunday School Times.

When money is the only egg in the nest, misery is the only bird in the brood.- Exchange.

Holman New Testament

FOR OLD FOLKS

EXTRA LARGE PRINT

Our famous large type, 16mo Pica, self-pronouncing edition. This type is particularly well suited to such readers as have defective or impaired eyesight, or by reason of age feel the need of a good, clear print.

PICA, 16mo. Size, 51/2 x 7 % x % inches.

Specimenos Type. of Je'sus

No. 290. Morocco Grained Cloth, limp, gold back and side titles, round corners, red burnished edges. Publisher's $1.00 Price, $1.20. Our Price—postpaid

No. 290P. With Book of Psalms included, cloth binding, etc. Same as No. 290 above. Publisher's Price, $1.40. Our $1.15 Price—Postpaid

No. 291P. French Morocco, limp, gold back and side titles, round corners, red under gold edges, with the Book of Psalms included. Publisher's Price, $3.95 $3.35

ADDRESS ORDERS TO

McQUIDDY PRINTING CO. NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE

SAYS IT FIRST AND SAYS IT LAST

SAYS IT FIRST AND SAYS IT LAST
Carrie G. Harrel, 319 Nicholson Street.
Norfolk, Va., writes: "I'll tell anybody that Foley's Honey and Tar is all right. It did me all the good. I said it first and I'll say it last." Thousands of bottles of this rellable remedy were bought last week by careful mothers so as to be prepared to check coughs, colds, and croup at the beginning.
It acts almost instantly, cuts phlegm, soothes raw, irritated membranes, stops tickling in throat.

TOO WEAK TO

A Serious Feminine Illness Remedied By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Casco, Wis. - "After the birth of each of my children I had displacement and was was so weak I couldn't do anything I found a book about Lydia E. Pink-ham's Vegetable Compound so thought I would try it, and after taking it I soon felt better. That was fifteen years ago and I have felt well ever since except that I had a slight attack had a slight attack of the trouble some time ago and took some more of your Compound and was soon all right again. I always recommend your medicine and you may publish my testimonial for the benefit of other women."—Mrs. Jules Bero, Jr., R. 1, Box 99, Casco, Wis.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from nativeroots and herbs, contains no narcotic or harmful drugs.

contains no narcotic or harmful drugs, and today holds the record of being the and today holds the record of being the most successful remedy for female ills in this country, and thousands of voluntary testimonials prove this fact.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you, write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman, and held in strict confidence.

No Skin Embarrassment

and no worry about your complexion if you use TETTERINE for all pimples, rash, eczems, and other skin injuries and diseases. Softens the skin, clears the complexion. Savannah, Ga.

FOOT TROUBLES

No Need of Them, Says Brooklyn Man, Who Has Evidently Solved a Big Problem

According to the testimony of hundreds of people living in the Southland and elsewhere, J. R. Simon, of 1589 Broadway, Brooklyn, N. Y., has successfully developed a system of shoe building having for its prime object the conquering of foot and shoe troubles. It appears that Mr. Simon's establishment has become national head-quarters for people whose feet require his remarkable comfort shee, known as the ExWear, but obtainable only of the in-ventor. Mr. Simon's new catalogue shows hundred shoes that combine comseveral fort with style at amazingly low prices and is now ready for free distribution.

HINDERCORNS Removes Corns, Cal-louses, etc., stops all pain, ensures comfort to the feet, makes walking easy. Ho, by mail or at Drug-gists. Hiscox Chemical Works, Patchogue, N. X.

California.

Fresno, December 1 .- Beginning on Sunday, November 14, and continuing till Sunday night, November 28, Broth-er D. W. Nay, of Pasadena, assisted the Nevada Avenue congregation in a protracted meeting. The crowds and interest were good throughout the meeting, and two persons made "the good confession." Brother Nay is full of zeal and earnestness, and his sermons were very interesting and inspiring. I am sure the meeting did us all good.—W. Halliday Trice.

Florida.

New Smyrna, November 29.-1 have just closed a short meeting with the church at Mims, Fla., which resulted in the restoration to fellowship of the church of two old soldiers of the cross who had been living out of duty about They are both useful four years. men in the work of the church. Others were encouraged to greater usefulness and have brighter hopes of good success in the cause they love. They have asked me to work with them once a month as long as I stay in this part. I am also preaching for the churches at Turnbull Bay and Port Orange, both of which are intercsting congregations and bid fair to do a great work for God. Brother W. A. Cameron recently closed a good meeting with the church at Port Orange, in which the church was edified. Brother G. W. Jarrett, of Coffee-ville, Ala., has just closed a week's meeting with the church at Turnbull Bay, and has won the respect and esteem of all who have been so fortu-nate as to hear him. There is much nate as to hear him. There is much work to be done in this part of the great mission field of Florida. The harvest truly is ripe, and many laborers are needed who are willing to "suffer hardness, as a good soldier of Christ Jesus."—J. O. Barnes.

Mississippi.

Jackson, December 2.—Our meeting here in the W. O. W. Hall continued until last Sunday night. Notwith-standing very unfavorable weather conditions and almost an epidemic of colds, the attendance and interest were much better than last spring when we first attempted a meeting. Our few members were made stronger in faith, renewed in courage, and drawn closer together in determined love and steadfast endeavor. At least three who had been here for a long time without attending any service, heretofore unknown to us, attended our meeting, renewed their interest, and have promised to meet with us in the future. The outside attendance was irregular. Some who had not heard us before were at nearly every service, but none of them attended all the services. Seed was sown that we hope will yet yield We shall continue our regular fruit. Lord's-day meeting in the W. O. W. Hall, at 10 A.M. for Bible study, at 11 A.M. for the regular worship, also prayer meeting in midweek, with personal private teaching daily. People at home can hardly realize the exceeding indifference and great need of New Testament teaching in this State. It is remarkable how very few congregations there are in Mississippi worshiping "as it is written." There are towns and cities and even whole counties where true scriptural teaching is an utter stranger. "The harvest is an utter stranger. "The harvest truly is plenteous, but the laborers are few. Pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest, that he send forth labor-ers into his harvest."—M. C. Cayce.

Missouri.

Springfield, December 3.-I closed a meeting at Belle Plaine, Kan., on November 6, with seventeen additions. I was ably assisted by Brother Charles F. Hardin. I closed at Milan, Kan., on November 28, with eleven additions. I was well tracked in tions, I was well treated in every way by the Kansas brethren. I am tions. now home for five months to do some intensive work in Springfield. I shall preach here every Lord's day during that time and distribute tracts during the week. I will also do much studying, that I may become more effective in the Lord's work. Brother Herbert E. Winkler is now in an interesting meeting at Phillips and Evans Streets, this city .- M. S. Mason.

Goodman, December 1.—I began a meeting last night at Barlow Schoolhouse, near Goodman, Mo. There were but few out, owing to weather conditions, but we hope for more fa-vorable weather. This is the community where I debated with A. N. Dug-ger (Seventh-Day man) last year. This is also my third meeting at this schoolhouse. I spent Sunday and Sunday night at Neosho, Mo., and heard Brother Rue Porter deliver two This was my excellent discourses. first time to meet him, but I hope it will not be my last. I made a short talk at the water's edge Sunday afternoon, and Brother Porter baptized eleven noble souls. At the baptizing I also met my old roommate, Brother Charles F. Hardin, of Springfield, Mo. Indeed glad to meet him after a space of five years. He was conducting a meeting not far away.—W, Curtis Porter.

Tennessee.

Jackson, December 6.- I have had the best year's work of my life this I preached in fifteen protracted year. meetings, having begun in the spring and having closed the last one in November. Except one, these meetings were well attended and a great interest was manifested. This one meetest was manifested. This one meeting was at Christian Chapel, near Kenton, Tenn. The Christian Chapel brethren are among the very best to be found, and it is no fault of theirs that they have never had large congregations at any time. Meetings were held at the following places: Obion, Tenn.; Manila, Ark.; Ridgely, Tenn.; Trimble, Kenton, Rutherford, and Trenton, Tenn.; Knob Creek, near Fulton, Ky.; Lemalsamac, near Newbern, Tenn.; Neboville, near Dyer, Tenn.; Rogers Springs and Jackson, Tenn. I have been preaching for the brethren at Christian Chapel and Kenton for two years, once per month. The Christian Chapel brethren built a new house of worship last year; while the Kenton congregation succeeded in buying the "digressives" house of worship at that place, effecting a working unity between the two divided bodies that have been meeting there for many years. I closed my fourth year of half-time work with the church at Obion, Tenn., the fourth Sunday in November. This congregation is in excellent working condition, and is one of the best in many respects that I have ever known. It was with much reluctance and regret was with much relitciance and regret that I gave up the work at Obion; but I felt that Trenton and Jackson af-forded so much greater field for labor and so much better opportunity for the work to which I am best fitted that I finally consented to move to lackson to give half time to the Jackson, to give half time to the Highland Avenue church of Christ and half time to the church at Trenton. The church at Obion is in need of a preacher, and they will support him for his work.—F. O. Howell.

Wellington, December 6.-I am now in a meeting at Wellington, with splendid crowds and a fine interest. Eastland meeting closed on Sunday night, November 28, and was in many ways one of the best meetings of the year with me. Besides the two baptized, a number cast their lot with the brethren and promised to be active workers. I rejoice to see my son, O. E. Phillips, in the midst of such wonderful opportunities for doing a great work for the cause of New Testament Christianity; and I rejoice more because he is loved and respected by the church and the people generally. This has been a busy year with me, and I am planning to be just as busy in 1921. The churches seem to be un-willing to go into winter quarters, and the people are hearing the gospel gladly. This is as it should be, and I hope and prey that we may unitedly go forward with the Lord's work, on and on "unto that perfect day." And in bidding the old year good-by, let us meet and greet the new one with a smile and with the zeal becoming Christians, and let us make it the ban-ner year for our Master's cause. ner year for T. W. Phillips.

To Stop a Cough Quick take HAYES' HEALING HONEY, a cough medicine which stops the cough by healing the inflamed and irritated tissues.

box of GROVE'S O-PEN-TRATE SALVE for Chest Colds, Head Colds and Croup is enclosed with every bottle of HAYES' HEALING HONEY. The salve should be rubbed on the chest and throat of children suffering from a Cold or Croup.

The healing effect of Hayes' Healing Honey inside the throat combined with the healing effect of Grove's O-Pen-Trate Salve through the pores of the skin soon stops a cough.

Both remedies are packed in one carton and the cost of the combined treatment is 35c.

Just ask your druggist for HAYES' HEALING HONEY.

Plain and Fancy

BOX STATIONERY

and

Correspondence Cards

also

Engraved and Printed

Wedding Invitations

and

Calling Cards

Samples and Prices of Cards and Invitations on request

McQuiddy Printing Company

NASHVILLE, TENN.

Now Is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots.

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling asiamed of your freekles, as Othine—double strength—is guaranteed to remove these homely spots.

Simply get an ounce of Othine—touble strength—from your druggist, and apply a little of it night and morning and you should soon see that even the worst freekles have begun to disappear, while the lighter ones have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than one ounce is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a beautiful clear complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength Othine as fals is sold under guarantee of money back if it falls to remove freekles.

In answering advertisements, please mention this paper.

Luticura Soap The Safety Razor Shaving Soap Cuticura Sonpabaves withoutmug. Everywher

women's aches, Sick and Nervous Headaches, Back aches—relieved quickly by the Reliable Remedy

IT'S LIQUID-QUICK EFFECT.

Cured His RUPTURE

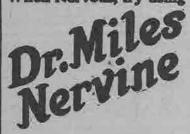

I was badly ruptured while lifting a trunk several years ago. Doctors said my only hope of cure was an operation. Trusses did me no good. Finally I got hold of something that quickly and completely cured me. Years have passed and the rupture has never returned, although I am doing hard work as a carpenter. There was no operation, no lost time, no trouble. I have nothing to sell; but will give full information about how you may find a complete cure without operation, if you write to me, Eugene M. Pullen, Carpenter, 364 G Marcellus Avenue, Manasquan, N. J. Better cut out this notice and thow it to any others who are ruptured—you may save a life, or at least stop the misery of rupture and the worry and danger of an operation.

Driving the Brain often Affects the Nerves, causing Nervous Irritation and Nervous Headaches.

When Nervous, try using

The Standard Remedy for many years for disorders of the Nerves.

AT ALL DRUGGISTS

MILES MEDICAL CO., Elkhart, Ind.

Ancient Landmarks.

BY J. J. VANHOUTIN.

When the children of Israel entered the promised land, there must have been many good surveyors whose lines and corners were infallibly right; for the children of Israel had a law to protect landmarks or corner stones, and the penalty for removing landmarks was severe. Did not that foreshadow the chief corner stone of the church, and the lines out from that chief corner stone represent the gospel line of prophecy? "The land shall be divided by lot." (Num. 26: 55.) Corner stones were the landmarks. "Behold, I lay in Zion for a foundation a stone, a tried stone, a precious corner stone, a sure foundation." (Isa. 28: 16.) Jesus said: "Upon this rock I will build my church." That rock was the truth that Jesus is the Christ; and the church of Christ rests upon that truth. Christ's resurrection. proved it to be true. "And declared to be the Son of God with power, according to the spirit of holiness, by the resurrection from the dead." (Rom. 1: 4.) The apostles first laid that foundation corner stone "in Zion," at Jerusalem, when they preached the death, burial, and resurrection of Christ "according to the Scriptures." In preaching the gospel now, we must follow the old line of prophecy. We must preach Christ, and follow the same line that was first surveyed by the apostles. If we deviate from that and preach another gospel, spiritual death will be the penalty; for Paul said: "If any man preach any other gospel unto you than that ye have received, let him be accursed." (Gal. 1: 9.) The reason for this death is that the future eternal destiny of man is at stake, and God has provided the gospel for his redemption; and a false gospel would not save any man, and the man who preached the false doctrine would be removing the ancient landmarks of the apostles and prophets, and death will be the penalty. "Cursed be he that removeth his neighbor's landmark. And all the people shall say, Amen." (Deut. 27: 17.) So will I. The man who surveys the gospel line, and does not know that he must start from Zion in Jerusalem and follow the ancient prophetic King's highway blazed out and established by the inspired apostles, would better not stand as a guidepost, always pointing and never traveling the Much more could be said; but with this I close my writing for the year 1920. Heretofore my articles were published in due time. The encouraging letters received partly prompted me to write, which I greatly enjoyed. The winter is now before me. With reasonable health, I am able to do much preaching if I get the opportunity. The winter may bring unlooked-for changes. With the close of the year I bid you a kind adieu.

"I received your 'More Eggs' Tonic and started giving it to my hens. I wasn't getting an egg, now I am getting 10 a day." So writes Mrs. Ernest Cambell of Mineral, Va. Give your hens a few cents' worth of "More Eggs". Results will amaze and delight you.

$1.00 FREE

Send the coupon below. Don't send any money. Mr. Revier will send you two $1.00 packages of "More Eggs." You pay the postman upon delivery only $1.00, the price of just one package, the other package being free. The Million Dollar Merchants Bank of Kansas City Mo., guarantees if you are not absolutely satisfied, your dollar will be returned at any time within $0 days—on request. No risk to you. 400,000 users praise Recter's "More Eggs."

Results!—Read These Letters! 1200 Eggs from 29 Hens

The "More Eegs" Tonic did wonders for me. I had 29 hens when I got the todic and was getting five or six eggs a day. April 1st I had ever 1200 eggs. I bever aw the equal.

EDV. MEKKEE, Pontiac, Mich.

160 Hens-1500 Eggs

I have fed two boxes of "More Eggs" to my hens and I think they have broken the eng record. I have 160 White Leghorns and in exactly 21 days I got 125 dayen eggs. MBS, H. M. PATTON, Waverly, Mo.

$200 Worth of Eggs from 44 Hens

I never used "More Eggs" Tonic until last December, then just used one $1.00 package and have sold over $200.00 worth of eggs from forty-four heis. "More Eggs" Tonic did it. A G THOUS.

Sterling, Kaus., B. No. 2, Box 47

Send No Money!

Don't send any money; just fill in and mail coupon. You will be sent at once, two $1.00 packages of "Mone EGGS." Par the postman upon delivery only $1.00, the extra package being FREE, Don't walt—take advantage of this free offer TODAY! Reap the BIG profits "MORE EGGS" will make for you. Have elenty of eggs to sell when the price is highest. Send TODAY—NOW!

E.J. Reefer Pouttry Expert, 8259 Reefer Bldg., Kansas City, Mo. Dear Mr. Reefer—f. accept your offer. Send me two 11.00 packages of Reefer's "More Eggs" for which I gares to par the postmon $1.00 when he brings me the wo packages. You agree to refund me $1.00, at any lms within 30 days, if both of these packages do not now satisfactory in every way.

Tame	······
iddress	***************************************

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

CZEMA

SO CALLED TETTER, SALT RHEUM, PRURITUS, MILK CRUST, WATER POISON, WEEPING SKIN, ETC.

POISON, WEEPING SKIN, ETC.

I believe eczema can be cured to stay. I mean just what I say—C-U-R-E-D, not merely patched up to return again. Remember, I make this statement after handling nearly a half million cases of eczema and devoting twelve years of my life to its treatment. I don't care what all you have used nor how many doctors have told you that you could not be cured; all I ask is just a chance to prove my claims. If you write me TO-DAY, I will send you a FREE TRIAL of mild, southing, guaranteed treatment that will surely convince you as it has me. If you are disgusted and discouraged, I dare you to give me a chance to prove my claims. By writing me to-day I believe you will enjoy more real comfort than you really thought this world held for you. Just try it, and I feel sure you will agree with me.

BK. J. E. CANNADY.

1226 Court Block, Sedalia, Mo. Reference: Third National Bank, Sedalia, Mo. Send this notice to some eczema sufferer.

TREMENDOUS VALUE FOR 10c.

Washington, D. C. (Special).-An unusual offer is being made by the editor of the Pathfinder to send the paper to new readers eight weeks for ten cents. This wellknown national weekly magazine contains all the worth-while news of the world, Illustrated and presented in a most entertaining manner. If is clean, sincere, nonpartisan, reliable, well printed in large type. It puts everything clearly, fairly, and briefly.

Washington, the home of the Pathfinder, is the nerve center of civilization. History is being made at this world capital. The Pathfinder's illustrated weekly review gives you a clear, impartial, and correct diagnosis of public affairs during these strenuous, epoch-making days. It is the only big weekly magazine at the seat of government. Send ten cents for eight weeks' trial sub-scription to the Pathfinder, 118 Douglas Street, Washington, D. C. The ten cents does not repay the editor, but he is glad to invest in new friends.

For Baby's Rash

prickly heat, hives, and other skin eruptions or injuries, nothing is better than TETTERINE. Thousands of mothers swear by it. Puts an end to all minor skin troubles. Mild, but healing. 60c at all druggists' or from Shuptrine Co., Savannah, Ga.

CUT THIS OUT-IT IS WORTH MONEY.

Cut out this slip, inclose with 5c, and mail it to Foley & Co., 2835 Sheffield Avenue, Chicago, Ill., writing your name and address clearly. You will receive in return a trial package containing Foley's Honey and Tar Compound, for coughs, coids, and croup, Foley Ridney Pills, for pains in sides and back, rheumatism, backache, kidney and bladder aliments; and Foley Cathartic Tablets, a wholesome and thoroughly cleansing cathartic for constipation, billousness headache, and sluggish bowels.

DON'T BE CUT Until You Try This Wonderful Treatment. wonderful Treatment.

If you have piles in any form, write for a FREE sample of Page's Pile Tablete, and you will bless the day that you read this. Write to-day. E. R. Page, 430-D
Page Building, Marshall, Mich.

MORE PAY FOR TEACHERS

We have hundreds of demands for teachers at greatly increased salaries. Send in your name to-day for enrollment. South Atlantic Teachers' Agency, 306 Walton Building, Atlanta, Ga.

"A Magnificent Man"-G. Dallas . Smith.

BY W. S. LONG.

While on a short visit in Texas lately, through the kindness of Brother Smith the Cleburne church gave me an invitation to visit them, which I accepted. I spoke to them on the evening of October 29. The singing was fine, the audience attentive, and every courtesy was shown me. I was deeply impressed with the joy, peace, and good will that prevailed and the excellent work they were doing.

Brother Smith and his noble wife entertained me in their home, and I never had a more pleasant visit. He and his little children accompanied me to the train the next morning, and as we were to part he took my hand with a warm grasp and spoke words of encouragement, as a true brother in Christ he could always do. As the train sped away I said: "He is a magnificent man, a prince among men."

It has been my pleasure to know Brother G. Dallas Smith since we were boys. He was often in my father's home, and we were in school together. A few years ago he delivered a series of sermons in Memphis, and made his home with me. I have never known a purer and truer man.

As a teacher of the sacred word, he was among the best; as a preacher of the gospel, he impressed his hearers with a deep reverence for the Book of books and the superiority of the religion of Christ.

Little did I dream when we said good-by that it was the last time, and that an open grave was only nine days away for one of us.

Three lessons I desire to draw from this life for all, and especially my preaching brethren:

1. Brother Smith's life was, and is now, felt for good, not only because he was a preacher of marked ability. but more because he was a clean, pure man. Let us so live that the world about us may have no room to question our daily walk. In the language of Paul to Timothy: "Guard thy life;" "Let no man despise thy youth;" "Keep thyself pure," "unspotted from the world."

2. Brother Smith filled his place so full that the world said, "Come up higher." Do your work so well that you will never have to seek a place, but the place will seek you.

3. Being called in the prime of life naturally raises the question, "Who will be next?" What preacher of our ranks will follow? Will it be you? Will it be me? "Be ye also ready." He was ready, and there was nothing to fix up. Bitter discussions and hard feelings often arise between brethren and are often carried too far in the papers, and much unpleasantness follows. May that cease, and may we pull together, encouraging and helping one another. Then when the summons comes, if it be in the noon of life, we will be ready to go in peace with God and man.

What a comfort to all who loved Brother Smith, especially to his wife and children, that he leaves such a beautiful record! I would epitomize his life in these words: "To live was Christ; to die was again."

Colds Cause Grip and Influenza

LAXATIVE BROMO QUININE Tablets remove the cause. There is only one "Bromo Quinine." E. W. GROVE'S signature on box. 39c.

IDEAL FOR BIBLE-SCHOOL TEACHERS

No. 2172. This is a large-type, convenient-size Bible. It contains references, concise Bible dictionary and combined concordance prepared especially for the American Standard Version, twelve colored maps, and has a very attractive binding. The American Version is produced from the most authentic manuscripts, and is regarded as the best Bible published. Price, delivered, $4.75.

No. 2172X, which is the same Bible, only printed on India paper, which is thin and the very best made, is $6.65.

In ordering, be sure to specify number of Bibles wanted.

ADDRESS ALL ORDERS TO McQUIDDY PRINTING CO., NASHVILLE, TENN.

EPILEPSY

Write me to-day, and I will tell you how you can Marvelous Results in the treatment of fits and epi-lepsy by the SWEEDISH TREATMENT use of a simple Just send me your name and address and full particulars will be sent you FREE. Herman P. Carlson, Box 259, Kansas City, Mo.

CANCERS CURED AT . KELLAM HOSPITAL,

1617 West Main Street, Richmond, Va.

It is known beyond a doubt and admitted by most of the leading physicians and sur-geons that cancer cannot be cured with the knife. N. Ray, radium, or acids. Cancers are permanently cured at The Kellam Hos-pital, without the use of either. Physicians and surgeons treated free at the hospital.

NOTICE!

We want to get in touch with all the brethren who are interested in Christian education and who want to locate where there is a good Christian college. For further information, write to S. L. BRADLEY.

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

SERMONS, SERMON MATERIAL AND COMMENTARIES

CENTER SHOTS AT SIN.

Abernethy, Arthur Talmage.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid..........$1,50

An arsenal of religious ammunition, as-sembled by a strategist experienced in fight-ing uphill. A book penned with a plume of experience, dipped in the heart's blood of a preacher who has met sin, who has accepted its thallenge to combat on the field of ac-tion. The author is a strong and virile thinker; his style, clear and forceful. Each sermon will prove an eye opener.

THE GLORIOUS GOSPEL.

Adcock, Adam K.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid$1.00

"No one except a thorough and devout stu-dent of the Scriptures could have written 'The Glorious Gospel.' The author shows excellent analytic and synthetic power and knowledge in the selection and organization of the biblical teaching on the various sub-jects treated."—Christian Journal.

SERMONS FOR THE PEOPLE.

Book, W. H.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid$1.25

Few books of sermons combine the quali-ties of interest, instruction, and inspiration to the degree in which they are united in this volume. The author is a master in the field of popular sermonizing, and some of his best work is to be found in this collec-tion. There is not a dull page in the book. The text fairly sparkles with original and apt narratives.

COLUMBUS TABERNACLE SERMONS, VOLUME I.

Cloth, 12me. Price, postpaid$1,00

COLUMBUS TABERNACLE SERMONS. VOLUME II.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid.$1.00

A companion volume to the author's first book of sermons. Reported in the same way and published because of the unusual de-mand the first volume created.

THE INDIANA PULPIT.

Edited by W. H. Book.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid......$1.25

This series of twenty-two practical sermons, each discourse being the best one preached by as many leading Indiana preachers, presents vital Christianity in a most attractive way. The author has condensed, with unusual discrimination and taste, the message of such widely-known preachers as Z. T. Sweeney, James Small, T. J. Legg, etc. A photograph and brief biography of each contributor precede every chapter.

J. Legg, etc. A photograph and brief biography of each contributor precede every chapter.

"The Indiana Pulpit." will be especially helpful to young preachers. The topics are varied and the discourses are from men of learning and experience. It will make each who reads it better, and it will strengthen the taith of all who carefully peruse its pages."—George A. Miller.

LIGHTS ON SCRIPTURE TRUTHS. (Former title, "Side Windows.")

Boteler, Mattle M.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid$1.00

A valuable ready-reference compendium of original, forceful, and apt Illustrations for the busy preacher, Sunday-school teacher, and religious worker. The striking originality and practical usefulness of each ilustration puts this volume in a class all by itself. A carefully prepared topical index and alphabetically arranged table of contents add greatly to its usefulness. Its distinct value is that the author has followed the example of the great Teacher in illus-trating profound truths by examples famil-far to all. "I found one illustration that was well worth the price of the book."—S. M. Bernard.

SERMON NOTES FROM THE MINISTRY OF JESUS.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid$1,50

In this new collection of decidedly fresh and suggestive material on the life of Christ we have a forceful and significant book, which will prove invaluable to young ministers, teachers, and church workers in general. Miss Boteler, a graceful and original writer, has presented a study of the life of Christ from an entirely new point of view, on arranged as to make it a complete worker's companion and encyclopedia on the teachings of the Master. Her work is always eagerly awafted by pastors and Christian workers.

SOUL-SAVING REVIVAL SERMONS.

Brandt, John L.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid$1.25

A series of nineteen thought-provoking, evangelistic sermons by one of the most eminent preachers of the day. These sermons relate the principles of Christianity to the everyday life with a keen insight and sympathetic understanding. They are educational in plan, evangelistic in tone, virile in thought, and vigorous in expression. Just the book for the pastor who wishes to foster and develop the revival spirit in himself and his congregation.

ILLUSTRATIVE INCIDENTS FOR PUBLIC SPEAKERS.

Brown, Will H.

Cloth, 12mo, illustrated. Price, postpaid, $1.50

Cloth, 12mo, Illustrated. Price, postpaid, $1.50. This voluminous collection of entirely new illustrations will be an invaluable aid to all public speakers, and especially to those who are contemplating entering upon the public forum. It is a guide to public oratory, as well as a collection of apt and original liustrations. The author's marked success as a speaker, as well as a writer, is quite sufficient guarantee of the superior value of this book.

One authority says: "The book is very rich in classified illustrations of the sort that can really be used."

WIT AND HUMOR FOR PUBLIC SPEAK-ERS.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid$1.50

A collection of bright, breezy, brief, humorous anecdotes and stories alphabetically classified under subjects, with a careful index. As original, fresh, and usable as its companion volume, "Illustrative Incidents for Public Speakers."

"The finest collection of pointed stories and witticlsms I have ever seen."—H. H. Peters.

POEMS OF PEP AND POINT FOR PUB-LIC SPEAKERS.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid.....$1.50

The great demand to-day is for the practical, pointed, peppy presentation of whatever idea the speaker may wish to emphasize. This book has been prepared with the up-to-date public speaker in mind, although any one who likes peetry will enjoy it as well. It contains about six hundred carefully selected poems, including many by Edgar A. Guest, Amos R. Wells. Edmund Vance Cook, Wilbur D. Nesbit, etc. Arranged in alphabetical order, ninety-six subjects are treated—from Achievement and Activity to Worry and Zeal. Most of the selections are from the pens of poets who have caught, the spirit of present world conditions, making the book one of the most timely and usable of the day.

PATRIOTIC ILLUSTRATIONS FOR PUB-LIC SPEAKERS.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid$1.50

In harmony with the new spirit in the world, this volume has been prepared covering every possible phase of the new patriotism. In addition to the Index, with a classification of about sighty subjects, will be found cross-references giving a still wider use of many of the illustrations here assembled.

STORIES OF THE GREAT WAR FOR PUBLIC SPEAKERS.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid......$1.50

This volume is alive and overflowing with wonderfully thrilling stories and incidents of the world war, carefully classified and indexed according to subjects.

POPULAR LECTURES AND ADDRESSES.

Campbell, A.

Cloth. Price, postpaid$2.25

A series of twenty-seven notable lectures on patriotic, religious, social, and educational themes. Here one finds, as perhaps nowhere else, an exhibition of the wonderful range of Mr. Campbell's knowledge.

THE CHRIST OF THE CHURCH.

Coombs, J. V.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid......$1.00

"The sermons all have a 'good gospel ring,' and the lectures deal with practical life problems in a very helpful sort of way. There is much of philosophy and sound doctrine and common sense and striking illustrations in the book. It is good."—The Tooksul. trations Lookout,

TOPICAL ILLUSTRATIONS.

Denton, J. E.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid$1.25

The busy worker will find in this thesaurus of religious object lessons a wealth of material to endiven and adorn his sermon or speech, and press home upon his audience the truths of his discourse. The careful alphabetical arrangement makes this a model collection of illustrations for quick and easy reference. Each illustration has been carefully tested out in the author's own public exparience. There is no waste material to be found. It is the seasoned product of a master platform orator tested in the fire of actual experience.

JESUS CHRIST IN HUMAN EXPERIENCE.

Dutt, Meade E.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid$1.25

A volume of rare spiritual insight and literary charm. In an "Introductory Note," admirable for its brevily and clearness, the author says: "I have taken a few New Testament characters and striven to point out where Jesus Christ touched their experiences, believing that human nature remains constant throughout the centuries, and that what was helpful to mankind two thousand years ago should be helpful to-day."

"A book of doctrines and devotions, of ethics and ideals, which will at once satisfy the weaver of dreams and the doer of deeds."—B. A. Abbett.

BIBLE READINGS.

(In two volumes.)

Errett, Isaac.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, each, postpaid $1.50

Scriptural selections grouped about questions that present themselves to every thinking person. There is no comment whatever. This great writer had a firm conviction that the Bible, when properly studied, was its town best interpreter. This work proves the wisdom and correctness of that conviction. In grouping the Scriptures in this way, Mr. Errett has rendered a most valuable service to all who wish to study the leachings of the Scriptures on topics of vital interest to Christian growth and world conquest.

THE QUERISTS' DRAWER.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid......$1.50

A compilation of over three hundred ques-tions and answers on Christian beliefs, doc-trines, polity, life, and conduct, with an al-phabetically arranged list of subjects and a chronologically arranged list of texts.

EVENINGS WITH THE BIBLE.

(In three volumes.)

Cloth, 8vo. Price, per volume, postpaid $1.00

This notable work is a consecutive series of historical, devotional, and doctrinal studies of the entire Bible. Beginning with

SERMONS, SERMON MATERIAL AND COMMENTARIES

Genesis, the gifted writer gradually unfolds to the reader, in his lucid, graceful, persuasive, and inimitable style, the dealings and purposes of God with man as recorded in the Bible. Under the guidance of this master hand, the Bible becomes a united and carefully planned and executed book, although written in different ages and by different men. For deep spiritual insight, sympathetic understanding, and practical application, this series of biblical studies has few equals.

ON THE LORD'S DAY.

Lord, J. A.

Cloth, 8vo. Price, postpaid$1.25

A NEW COMMENTARY ON ACTS OF APOSTLES,

McGarvey, J. W.

Cloth, 8vo. Price, postpaid$2.00

A commentary on this great book of the Bible that is original in form, broad in scholarship, and truly conservative. The author's versatility, profound knowledge of the Bible, his skill in arraying evidence, and his sympathy with the divine record combine to make a work of surpassing value and originality.

THE FOURFOLD GOSPEL.

McGarvey, J. W., and Pendleton, P. Y.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid.......$1.65

A harmony of the four Gospels, so arranged as to form a complete chronological life of Christ, divided into titled sections and subdivisions, with comments interjected in the text. The American Standard Version has been used.

STANDARD BIBLE COMMENTARY ON THESSALONIANS, CORINTHIANS, GA-LATIANS, AND ROMANS.

(A companion volume to "The Fourfold Gospel.")

Cloth, Svo. Price, postpaid......$1.65

The original method of treatment in that standard harmony has been employed in preparing this volume. The commentators have produced in this work a most practical and helpful exposition for the use of all readers of God's word.

BIBLICAL CRITICISM.

McGarvey, J. W.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid......$1.25

Cloth, 12me. Price, postpaid......$1.26

In this series of short essays on modern riticism this eminent biblical scholar has prepared a remarkable defense of the Bible. The clear thinking and keen analysis that are so characteristic of all President McGarvey's writings are here found in their highest form. His hexorable logic tears off the mask of learning from the utterances of the enemies of the Bible, reveals their sophistries, and upholds the integrity of the Scriptures in a most able way. Nowhere has this noted author employed his wit, sarcasm, and iblical knowledge so effectively as in this book. It should be in the household of every believer for constant reference.

LANDS OF THE BIBLE.

Cloth, 8vo. Price, postpaid.....$2.50

An exhaustive guidebook to the geography, topography, and social customs of Palestine. President McGarvey went to Palestine as on a holy pligrimage. To him every rock and tree, every running brook and sloping hillside was fraught with sacred memories and traditions. He has classified and arranged and presented all this in that graphic, clear-cut, and forceful style for which he was famous. This great work can be used in preparation of every Sunday-school lesson.

JESUS AND JONAH.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid..........50e

A vigorous defense of the book of Jonah. Bellef in this Bible miracle involves the belief in the divinity of Jesus Christ. The author exposes the cavils of the higher critics in a way that leaves them no ground to stand upon. Those who have not full confidence in the story of Jonah should not fail to read this able defense of its authenticity.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid$1.25

The great sermons of a great preacher. They are models of homiletic effort, strong, able, and instructive. They deal with practical, vital themes which cannot fail to interest every Bible reader. Fresident McGarvey's profound sympathy with their messages, his childlike faith, and his keenly anylatic mind made him one of the foremest preachers of his day. This volume happliy preserves all these qualities for the use of future generations. Every preacher will gain invaluable inapiration from this master of pulpit oratory.

EVANGELISTIC SERMONS.

Matthews, Robert T.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid$1.00

In this volume of sermons the gospel is preached in a most inspiring and ferceful way. Every discourse, dealing with some important phase of salvation, is a model of clearness, simplicity, and directness. As a pulpit orator, Mr. Matthews had few equals.

TRAINING TO TEACH.

Meacham, E. J.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid$1.00

A topical handbook for Christian workers, made up of forceful, practical, and stimu-lating thoughts on the vital things of the Christian life and service.

SEEKING THE OLD PATHS.

Moffett, Robert,

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid$1.00

These sermons embody the crystallized thought and reflection of a lifetime. They possess a clearness, a breadth, and an accuracy of scriptural knowledge selfom found in the discourses of the day. They were preached at a time that demanded the most careful reasoning, profound biblical knowledge, and accurate information. Each sermon is a model of concise statement, logical arrangement, and accurate presentation of the gospel requirements of salvation.

RIBLE TRUTHS ILLUSTRATED.

Pittman, J. C. Ferdinand.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid......$1.50

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid.....$1.50

This voluminous collection of illustrated material represents an entirely new idea in works of this kind. The author has gathered his great array of anecdotes with the constant purpose in mind of definitely enforcing Scripture truths. The material has been arranged by numbers under subject headings placed in the book in alphabetical order. This simple plan enables the reader to get at just the illustration he needs in the easiest and quickest way. A crossyref-arence index completes a very usable and original illustrated aid.

Pritchard, H. R.

Cloth, 8vo. Price, postpaid$1.25

A book of strong sermons by a clear, fresh, and original thinker, including the famous "Pritchard-Terrell Debate." Proposition 1: "Immersion is Essential to Christian Baptism." Mr. Pritchard affirms. Proposition 2: "Infant Children Are Proper Subjects of Baptism." Mr. Terrell affirms. Proposition 3: "Wherever the Gospel is Preached, Water Baptism is Essential to the Pardon of Past Sins." Mr. Pritchard affirms.

PUSHING THE WORLD ALONG.

Rutledge, George P.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid$1.00

Few men are better fitted to preach the gospel to this indifferent age than the accomplished and successful author of this stirring volume. Every sermon is a shaft of truth winged with apt illustrations which go deep into the heart of the hearer. The preacher who wishes a fresh stimulus to more forceful and original sermonizing should read Mr. Rutledge's discourses.

THE SPIRIT AND THE WORD,

Sweeney, Z. T.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid......$1,25

A treatise on the Holy Spirit in the light of a rational interpretation of the word of truth.

PULPIT DIAGRAMS.

(New edition.)

Cloth, 8vo. Price, postpaid$1.25

A unique and indispensable work for min-isters and Bible students. Containing a col-lection of forty-sight of the graphic and original pulpit diagrams. They will prove an invaluable aid in impressing Bible truths

THE WAY OF SALVATION.

Tyler, B. B.

SERMONS.

Updike, J. V.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid.....$1.00

A series of plain, pointed, practical sermons, convincing and uplifting. They should have a place in the study of every preacher who is concerned about winning souls to thrist. The younger preachers should place themselves under the influence of this great gospel pleader. His discourses are sermons of the heart as well as the head. Numerous portraits and a biographical sketch of the author included in the volume.

TWENTIETH-CENTURY SERMONS AND ADDRESSES.

Wilson, L. C.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid$1.50

A series of forty-three practical and doctrinal discourses by some of our representative men and women, with Introduction by J. A. Lord. Such names as F. D. Power, A. M. Haggard, C. C. Smith, J. B. Briney, L. C. Wilson, Helen E. Moses, Anna Robinson Atwater, Lura V. Thompson, and others equally as well known, bespeak the excellence and worth of these addresses.

BACCALAUREATE AND CONVOCATION SERMONS.

Zollars, E. V.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpald$1.75

The notable eareer of President Zellars in the educational world won for him an envishle reputation as a commencement orator. His thorough scholarship and his boundless enthusiasm for his work fully equipped him for the task of indicating to youth the principles upon which it is possible to build a permanent success. The author gathered in this volume the cream of over thirty years of commencement addresses. It is an indispensable aid to speakers at annual exercises of schools, academies, colleges, seminaries, and universities.

THE COMMISSION EXECUTED.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid.....$1.25

A study of New Testament conversions and other evangelistic topics.

"It is one of the best volumes of evangelistic sermons that it has been the writer's privilege to examine. The press has put forth no better volume on first principles than this: I wish it might be in the library of every preacher in America."—E. E. Snoedds.

FROM DARKNESS TO LIGHT.

Cloth, 296 pages. Price, postpaid $1.00

A series of autobiographical sketches relating to religious experience by eminent ministers of the church of Christ. Twenty-six elegant portraits. There are twenty-six dependent personal histories of earnest souls who have found their way out of the miste of denominationalism into the full light of the gospel.

OUR FIRST HOUSE IN SOUTH CAROLINA.

The above is a cut of our first house in the State of South Carolina, which is now being built at a cost of approximately $6,000. There has been contributed up to November 15, $3,207.75. Brother, we are asking you to cooperate with us by sending us a contribution by the first of the year, so we will be able to have one house in the State and have no debt on it. Send all contributions to Thomas H. Burton, Union, S. C.

An Opportunity for Service.

BY TURNER H. HOLT.

It has been some time since I wrote from "these parts." To turn the silver lining of the cloud, I will say that prospects for the church in this locality are better than at any other time since the war broke out. While, sorry to say, many of the stronger churches, like a sun-dried barrel, have fallen to pieces, or disbanded, most churches with which I labored during the war are still in fair working condition, and have all had good meetings with additions this fall.

But I must turn to another matter. Overton County is looked upon as a nursery for preachers and statesmen, but there is another side to the matter. While the air in Atlanta vibrates with effect of the sermons of her devoted son, Goodpasture, many of her best people are neglected as to the gospel. While Congress listens to the force and logic of Hull's speeches, many of the mountain children are almost running wild. While the Governor's chair is occupied by an Overton County boy, much of her morals is in some way declining. It is needless to enlarge. What I want to say is that this section is sorely in need of aid in the gospel.

Since I left the Methodists in 1915 and became identified with the church of Christ, I have worked almost without ceasing with the churches in this mountain country, but in many ways the only good I seemed to do was to keep a religious sentiment alive, Last year I was the only Christian preacher working actively between Livingston (Overton County) and Byrdstown (Pickett County), and Boom (Pickett County) and St. John (Clay County). This year Brother G. C. Harvey, of Clay County, has thrown himself into the work, and has done much preaching with good results. We held one meeting together, with fair success. Another young man was with us, who is expected to begin preaching soon. He is a member of the church at Heard, and is helping much with the work there now. He is a deserving young man, and is worthy of the helping hand of the brethren.

Of course we have had some of the greatest preachers of the age with us, but a great many of their works are like the retreating shadows of twilight or the echo playing in the distant hills. Many of the young people are forgetting their mighty words; while only the names of the Sewells, Boleses, "Racoon" John Smith, and others too numerous to mention will be remembered by the people in years to come. To every faithful congregation that wishes to help the cause of Christ I will say, here is a grand opportunity for you to help both with your means and prayers. I am going to move to Pickett Councy before long, and I mean to keep up preaching, even if I have to work six days with my hands in order to preach on Sunday; but if any individual or any congregation wants to help me in any way, either with means or prayers, I will greatly appreciate it. If you can send us a preacher during the coming year, we will be very glad. If you want to know about me, write to J. J. Martain, Route 2, Monroe, Tenn., or John H. Arms, Celina, Tenn.; they can tell you about me and the need of the gospel in this section. The "digressives" and denominations are rapidly developing here. The quicker we get aid, the better for the cause.

You will live in the sunshine if you live before His face; and however wintry the world may be, it will be like a clear, frosty day. There is no frost in the sky; it does not go above the atmosphere; and high above, in serene and wondrous blue, is the blaze of the sunshine.—Maclaren.

You Needn't keep on feeling distressed after eating, nor beiching, nor experiencing naussa between meals. Hood's Sarsaparilla cures dyspepsia. It strengthens the stomach and other digestive organs for the proper performance of their functions. Take Hood's.

LAXATIVE Aged People

THE BANE of old age is constipation. The bowels become weak and unable to perform their functions without aid. For this purpose only the mildest and gentlest laxative should be used. The use of harsh cathartics aggravates the trouble and makes the constipation worse. Chamberlain's Tablets are a favorite with people of middle age and older on account of their gentle action.

Chamberlain's Tablets

Bibles in Hotels.

One branch of the work of the New York Bible Society, a society that is now in its one hundred and eleventh year, is that of supplying Bibles for the guest rooms of New York City hotels. The society has furnished over forty thousand Bibles to the city hotels. Several years ago a complete canvass of the hotels was made, and there are very few hotels that are without them. The Bibles recently sent to the Hotel Pennsylvania are the largest number ever sent to one hotel. At first twenty-two hundred and fifty-three Bibles were sent, and in a few days word came to the society that seventy-four Bibles were needed in order to place one in every guest room, making a total of twentythree hundred and twenty-seven Bibles. This hotel is reported as the largest hotel in the world. Every night there are nearly three thousand guests. In its first year the hotel served more than four million meals. Every day more than seven hundred loaves of bread are used and more than sixteen thousand rolls. An average of over three hundred gallons of ice cream a day are used, and each weeks ten tons of meat and six tons of poultry. The hotel has the largest private telephone exchange in the world, with three thousand telephone stations and seventy operators. It is the only hotel in the world which publishes its own daily newspaper.

Every room in this great hotel now has upon its table a copy of the Bible. The Bibles usually placed in the hotel guest rooms are those attractively bound in cloth and printed in good, clear type. A few hotels have asked for leather-bound Bibles, and have paid for the cost of the leather binding. Occasionally a request is made for a few Bibles in some foreign language, especially in French or Spanish.

Some people are surprised at the idea of Bibles in hotels. Of course, there are those who never want to see a Bible. Now and then a man has boastingly said that he threw a Bible on the floor. But he was not thinking of his mother when he said it, nor of Washington, Webster, Lincoln, Grant, or Roosevelt, all of whom, and others that have helped to make America great, believed in the Bible and read it. Letters frequently come to the office of the New York Bible Society asking that Bibles may be put into one hotel or another, and donations are often made to pay for Bibles in hotels.

Surely there is no more appropriate place for a Bible than in a hotel room. These rooms are usually occupied by strangers. Such a person may be tired, anxious, or lonely. It is im-

HOLMAN BIBLES

The Best Editions of the World's Best Book. le Flexible Bindings. Will Not Break in the Back. Durable Flexible Bindings.

FOR CHILDREN PICTORIAL BIBLES WITH HELPS

The text is self-pro-nouncing, by the aid of which children can learn to pronounce the diffi-cult Scripture proper names.

AND the third day thero was a marriage in Cana of Gell-lee; and the mother of Je'shs was Size 5%x3% With beautiful photo views of scenes in Bible lands of a tr 1 b u t e d throughout the text. Also maps of Bible lands in colors. Also new Practical Helps to Bible Study, especially designed for instructing children in scriptural information.

No. 91. French Seal Lenther, overlapping covers, round corners, gold edges, gold titles. Publisher's Price, $2.90. $2.40

For Adults, Teachers and Preachers

to preach, and to say, " H the kingdom of heaver

the kingdom of heaver

Containing New Copyrighted Helps by the most reliable Authorities, a Treasury of Biblical Information, Practical Comparative Concordance, Oriental Light on the Bible, Four Thousand Questions and Answers, New Colored Maps.

No. 41. Biblich, French Seal Leather, Pdd under gold edges, Silk Head bunded and Silk Marker, Pdd under gold edges, Silk Head bunded and Silk Marker, Pdd under Splick, Price, 86,16, Our $5.15

Price—Post Paid.

No. 81. RL, Red Letter Teachers' Bible, The Words of Christ in the New Testament, Old Testament Passages Alluded to by Christ, Various Prophecies Relating to Christ in the Old Testament, etc., all PRINTED IN RED, Binding same as described above and same large Self-Pronouncing type, Publisher's Price, $5.80

No. 73X. Holman India Paper, Genuine Morocco, Leather Lined, Silk Sewed, Divinity Circuit, round corners, carmine under gold edges, sik head bands and silk marker, same type and Heips as above. Publisher's Price, $12.75. Our $10.655

Price—Post Paid.

For Intermediate S. S. Scholars

Large Clear Black Type, Self-Pronouncing, contain-ing Helps to Bible Study, 4000 Questions and Answers, Maps in Colors, and Presentation Page.
A Beautiful Gift

22 And the prophet Is ra-el, and said unto thyself, and mark, and for at the return of t

Size 7 x 5 inches. No. 21. Divinity Circuit Style, Bound in French Seal Leather, round corners, red under gold edges, with slik head bands and purple slik marker, gold titles, etc. Publisher's Price, $3.75. Our $3.15 Price—Post Paid

For OLD FOLKS and The HOME

Printed from large Clear Pica Type, with Marginal References, Family Record and Maps. This HOME BIBLE is new and very desirable for every day use, containing all the advantages of a Family Bible in a compact size that can be easily handled, with Record for Births, Marriages and Deaths. The best Bible obtainable for old folks who need extra large clear print and a light-weight book. No. 2014. Durably Bound in French Seat Leather, full flexible covers, round corners, red under gold edges, silk head bands and silk marker, gold titles, Publisher's Price, $6.50. Our Price $5.40

ADDRESS ORDERS TO

McQUIDDY PRINTING COMPANY, NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE.

possible to estimate the uplifting effect upon these persons of a Bible found in the guest room. The society's address is 675 Madison Avenue, New York City.

Don't Wear a Truss

BROOKS' APPLIANCE, the modern scientific invention, the wonderful new discovery that relieves rupture will be sent on trial. No obmostous springs or pads. Has automatic Air cushion. Binds and draws the broken parts, together as you would a broken limb. No salves. No lies. Durable, cheaps Sent on trial to prove it, Protected by U. S. patents, Catalogue and measure blanks malled free. Send mane and address today.

C. E. BROOKS, 443G State St., Marshall, Mich.

FOOT COMFORT ASSURED Brooklyn Man Solves the Problem

It is no longer necessary to suffer agonies that are caused by misfit shoes; for Mr. Simon, of Brooklyn, has proven that he can fit perfectly by mail. Simon's EzWear Shoes are built to give every possible foot comfort; they are soft and stylish and do not need breaking in. They fit like the proverbial pair, the minute you wear them. Every pair is guaranteed to give satisfaction and to fit perfectly.

Mr. J. R. Simon will gladly send a free catalogue of over 500 styles of EzWear Shoes to all who write him, along with his scientific, self-measuring blank. Write for your copy to-day, and give your feet their much-needed happiness. Address all com-munications to Mr. J. R. Simon, 1539 Broadway, Brooklyn, N. Y., and you will receive personal attention.

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

Holman Self-Pronouncing

Smallest Size 4%x2%x% inches

AND the third day there was a marriage in Ca'na of Gal'i-lee; and the mother of Je'sus was 2133K. Bound in durable Morocco Grain Semble Leather, flexible limp, gitt .60

2113. French Morocco, genuine leather, flexible limp, gold tifles, rounded corners, gold edges.

2115P. French Morocco, divinity circuit, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, with the Book of $1.10 Psalms included

ILLUSTRATED VEST-POCKET TESTAMENT

With Pictures of Holy-Land Scenes

2814. French Morocco, limp, gold side de, round corners, red under gold 85

RED-LETTER VEST-POCKET TESTAMENT

With all the words of our Lord printed in red.

red.

13RI., French Morocco, flexible limp, gold side title on red panel, gold .85 edges.

15RLP. French Morocco, overlapping covers, flexible, gold side title on red panel, red under gold edges, with Book of $1.20 Psalms included

INDIA-PAPER VEST-POCKET TESTAMENT

Thin as a Wafer

2136XP. Fine Grain Merceco, divinity circuit, leather lined to edge, with $2.25 Psalms included

ADDRESS ORDERS TO

McQUIDDY PRINTING CO. NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE

The Romantic Story of Southland's Favorite Shoe, EzWear

Some five years ago, a prominent citizen of South Carolina, visiting New York on important business, chanced to meet the maker of a shoe built on new and unusual lines; an enthusiastic admirer of its most distinctive features, case and comfort, had suggested the name "ExWear;" it was promptly adopted. The business man from the South, knowing how welcome such a shoe would be in his part of the country, urged that its remarkable qualities, includ-ing not only comfort, but style, durability, and economy, be made known there. That this has been done effectively is proven by the enormous demand that has sprung up in the South for ExWear Shees. It is said that its sale there during the last twelve months has increased fully three hundred per cent. The distributor, Mr. J. R. Simon, of 1589 Broadway, Brooklyn, N. Y., says that all who wish to know about a shoe that combines all worth-while shoe qualities may have a copy of his money-saving shoe book for the asking.

CHURCH NEWS

Tennessee.

Fayetteville, December 7.--I am now Middle Tennessee working in behalf of a church building for Athens, Tenn. Brother Charles Holder has been doing some excellent work there. The lot is paid for, and is so deeded that nothing except the worship "as it is written" can be carried on in the building we are planning. Brethren, times are somewhat hard, but will be still worse if we neglect the Lord's work. The brethren at Athens must have some help in order to build. Now, brethren, if you will share with Athens in your giving, the gift will be appreciated, and you will thus be helping to sound out the gospel from Athens as a central point. Our worldly possessions belong to the Lord; so let us use them for his honor and glory. Send all contributions to James Dye, 315 Ohio Street, Athens, Tenn,-Vernon Rozar.

Texas.

Dallas, November 27.—On November I began a meeting with the Main Street church of Christ, Winchester, Ky. This is a fine congregation of one hundred and eighty members. with a good house of worship, and an excellent meeting it was. Four were baptized and six took membership. The brethren there are in every way capable. Influences for good pre-vailed, and exceptionally large audiences throughout encouraged us to greater things. They took good care of the preachers. Brother Claud Neal, the minister who labors with them, was with me, and constantly lent his aid in every way. Warren E. Starnes.

San Angelo, November 29.—Our services here for the past two Lord's days have been encouraging. On the third Sunday in this month two young ladies were baptized. On yesterday two more came to live and labor with us, and one was restored. Our audience at 11 A.M. yesterday was the largest since my labors began here. I am busy, and then cannot do all the work that should be done in this little town and community. The work is great in magnitude. It is a wonderful field in which to labor, and there is an excellent church here to encourage and assist me in all my efforts for our Master. Success to the Gospel Advocate and its readers. I appreciate the firm, consistent, and scriptural position that the Advocate has taken of late on some very important questions. May our gracious Lord abundantly bless his laborers.— T. M. Carney.

Fort Worth, December 4.-Brother A. Elam, of Lebanon, Tenn., has just closed one of the most enjoyable and successful meetings which it has ever been my privilege to attend. was held in the Central Church, of this was lead in the central church, or this city, and was largely attended by brethren from all the congregations of the city, also by many brethren from over the State. I believe that untold good will come of the meeting because of the fine lessons along lines of practical Christianity which were given, and that the peace and harmony of the church in general here will be greatly Increased. The fine

Christian spirit of the man and his plain and fearless proclamation of the truth on every question discussed cannot fail to bring forth much good fruit. We really had a "preachers' meeting." The following preachers were present one or more times during the meeting: H. W. Busby, N. L. ing the meeting: H. W. Busby, N. L. Clark, C. McClung, J. M. Rice, W. K. Rose, C. J. Robinson, Isaac Tackett, E. M. Tackett, A. R. Holton, D. F. Draper, J. F. Killian, W. T. Kidwill, T. W. Phillips, Noble McKillup, W. D. Bradshaw, C. E. Wooldridge, W. M. Mann, Earl C. Smith, Ben West, Tice Elkins, Ira Brumfield, J. G. Pace, W. D. Black, D. J. Mahon, J. M. Collins, J. H. Walton, D. W. Brummett, D. S. Ligon, J. W. Sanders, Ed Stewart, and Brethren Weems and McElroy (whose iniren Weems and McElroy (whose ini-tials I do not know). The congregations in the city adjourned their midweek services, that all might have an opportunity to attend. Brother Elam preached two days at the Southside Church, because the Central meeting-house, being near the business section of the city, was needed as a meeting place for some of the sections of the Texas State Teachers' Association. which was in session here on Thanksgiving Day and Friday and Saturday following. Brother Elam spent Thanksgiving Day with the Oak Cliff Church, in Dallas, and also preached at the Pearl and Bryan Streets Church, Dallas, on Monday night following the close of the meeting in Fort Worth. We are trying to arrange a union meeting among the nine congregations of the city for next spring, at which we hope to have Brother Elam do the preaching. The prospect for primitive New Testament Christianity seems bright in this city, and may the Lord overrule all to his praise.-M. H. Moore.

SIMPLE MIXTURE MAKES HENS LAY

BY W. S. BURGESS.

Any poultry raiser can greatly increase his profits easily and quickly by taking advantage of the thirty-five years' experience of a successful poultryman.

A lifelong study of egg production has resuited in a secret formula of buttermilk and other valuable ingredients that puts pep into lazy hens. Users report increases of two to seven times as many eggs.

This secret formula is now put up in tablet form, and is called Combs' Buttermilk Compound Tablets. Simply feed in water or mix with feed.

I am so convinced that this wonderful formula is always successful that I say kill the hen that won't lay after using it.

One million new users are wanted; se for a limited time any reader of this paper can get a big double-size box (enough for a season) on free trial by simply writing for it. Send no money. Use the tablets thirty days. If at the end of that time your hens are not laying two or three times as many eggs, if you are not more than satisfied in every way, the tablets are to cost you nothing, If completely satisfied, this big double-size box costs you only $1 on this introductory offer. Simply send name-post card will do-to Milk Products Company, 158 Creamery Building, Kansas City, Mo., and the big box of tablets will be mailed immediately, postpaid.

JITABLE HOLIDAY GIFTS

Below we have grouped a number of the most popular and best values of Bibles and taments. If our readers will order at once, it will be helpful to us and keep out mistakes which are so likely to occur in the holiday rush. All orders should be mailed to McQUIDDY PRINT-ING COMPANY, and not to any individual. Order by number.

HOLMAN'S SELF-PRONOUNCING BIBLE.

For Adults, Teachers, Preachers, and all who would study the word of Ged Intelligently, this edition is unsurpassed. The type is large, clear Bourgeois, self-pronouncing, with liberal space between the words and lines, which makes it easy to read. Size, 8x5 ½ inches.

T" From that time Je's to preach, and to say, " E the kingdom of heaven Containing New Copyrighted Helps by F. N. PELOUBET, D.D.; a treasury of biblical information; practical comparative concordance; Oriental light on the Bible; four thousand questions and answers; new colored maps.

OXFORD SELF-PRONOUNCING BIBLE.

All proper names and difficult words divided into syllables and cented so they may be correctly pronounced. Size, $x5%

(Specimen of Type.)

abomination: how much more, when he bringeth it with a wicked mind? 28 2A false witness shall perish: but the man that heareth speaketh constantly.

OXFORD SELF-PRONOUNCING PICTORIAL BIBLE.

With thirty-two photo views of scenes in Bible lands; carefully selected helps; feur thousand questions and answers; six colored maps and presentation page. Nonparell, 12mo. Size, 74x5 inches.

(Specimen of Type.)

16 But if the sacrifice of his offering be a vow, or a voluntary offering, it shall be eaten the same day that he offereth his sacrifice; and on the morrow also the remainder of it shall be eaten:

NELSON AMERICAN STANDARD BIBLE.

Large-type, home-reading Bible; authorized and edited by the American Revision Committee, with topical headings prepared by them. Printed on fine white Bible paper from large, bold Pica type. Easy to read and convenient in size. An ideal Bible for all whose syesight is defective because of old age or weakness of the eyes; also a fine Bible for the pulpit, prayer-meeting, or Sunday-school desk. Contains presentation page, frontispiece by Dore, family record, and twelve colored maps. Size, 6 % x8 % inches and 1% inches thick.

(Specimen of Type.)

The making of woman.

GENE

Word H

man, and put him into the garden of Eden to dress it and to keep it. 16 And the Lord God com-

The names of the books of the Bible are printed in large type in upper outside corner of each page, enabling the reader to locate place wanted in-

TEACHERS' EDITION AMERICAN STANDARD BIBLE.

This Bourgeois type Bible, with references, contains the Concise Bible Dictionary and a New Combined Concordance to the American Standard Version, making it easy to find any word in the Bible; twelve maps, with an index to each place on the maps. Size, 54x8 inches and 1% inches thick.

(Specimen of Type.)

21, 13

II. SAMUI

The Bones of Saul and Jonathan brought to Zela. Wars w

Jabesh-gilead, who had stolen them from the 'street of a Beth-shan, b' where the Philistines had hanged them, in the day that the Philistines slew Saul in Gilboa; 13 and Josh 17: 10 day that the Philistines slew Saul in Gilboa; 13 and Josh 18: 25 ch. 24. 25: Josh 7: 25

KING JAMES (1611) VERSION.

Self-Pronouncing Edition.

Containing the Bible, with full references, the Concise Bible Dictionary, Combined Concordance, and twelve indexed maps.

(Specimen of Type.)

Discipleship exacting. The Tempest stills

18 Now when Jesus saw great multitudes about him, he gave commandment to depart unto the other side. 19 And there came 'a scribe,

NEW TESTAMENT WITH PSALMS

Especially suitable for a present. A very handsome Testament. (Specimen of Type.)

The making of woman.

GENE

man, and put him into the garden of Eden to dress it and to keep it.

16 And the Lord God commanded the man, saying, Of every TESTAMENT WITH PSALMS.

size paid

TESTAMENT WITHOUT PSALMS.

POCKET TESTAMENTS.

Emphasized American Standard Edition-Self-Pronouncing

No. 336X. Genuine Leather; morocco grain; limp; leather-lined to edge; silk sewed; round corners; red under gold edges; title stamped on side in pure gold. Price, postpaid....$2.10

RED-LETTER HOLMAN POCKET TESTAMENT.

ADDRESS ALL ORDERS TO

McQUIDDY PRINTING CO.

NASHVILLE, TENN.

317-319 Fifth Ave., N.

We have them in pretty Christmas boxes

PRICED FROM $2.50 UP Add 5% extra for War Tax

IF CLIP-CAP IS WANTED, ADD 25 CENTS EXTRA

McQuiddy Printing Company

NASHVILLE. TENNESSEE

An Earnest Appeal.

To the faithful brethren of the church of Christ: We, the trustees of the church of Christ at Lake City, Fla., come to you once more (and we hope it will be the last time) and ask you to help us to raise the balance due on our meetinghouse, which was erected about one year ago. A mortgage was given on all the property for the price of the lot, and this debt has not yet all been paid; and while many of the brethren and sisters have given liberally to this worthy cause and we hoped not to make any more calls, yet it seems necessary for us to do so. Now we are asking one more small favor, that we may be able to raise the balance of the debt by January 1, 1921. We ask each Christian who reads this, also each church, to lay by In store on Christmas Day, December 25, or the day following, a contribution, and send it to us as a Christmas present for the purpose of raising the balance on our debt; and we will ever be grateful to you, and pray God's continued blessings upon you. We are praying that you will do us and the cause of Christ. which we love, this favor; and we do not expect to be disappointed, for God still answers prayer.

J. O. BABNES. J. M. COLE.

A Call to Action.

BY W. S. LONG.

For more than two years we have been appealing to the saints throughout the United States to give us full and hearty fellowship so we might have one nice, comfortable house of worship in Washington, D. C., the nation's capital, as a beginning of great work for unborn generations. We are yet in need of fifteen thousand dollars to clear the debt and seat the house. Why can we not wipe this debt out before the end of the year? We can if we will. Now, if every congregation will send a donation in December, we can wipe the slate clean before January 1. You will spend more or less for Christmas gifts. Do not forget this worthy work. Elders, please bring this matter before the churches and get them to do their best. Many have promised, and some have been promising for a long time. Make this promise good before the year ends. Why should we spend years on a task that should be done in a single day? Let us finish this one at once and then turn all our forces on St. Louis and New York. The New York church is meeting in a hall at 239 West Sixtyninth Street, and there are about twenty-five members who attend. May others find them and do God's will as they should. I shall go to New York for a few days this month and shall preach for them on the third Lord's

SWAMP-

Is not recommended

ROOT.

Is not recommended for everything; but if yon have kidney, liver or bladder trouble it may be found just the medicine you need. At druggists in large and medium size bottles. You may receive a sample size bottle of this reliable medicine by Parcel Post, also pamphlet telling about it.

Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and enclose ten cents, also mention this paper.

FOR more than a generation we have been recefring grateful testimony to the virtues of this thoroughly tested and proven treatment. It stops violent coughly, and difficult breathing, assuring restful sleep because the antiscrite
vapor carries healing with every breath. Booklet 43 tells why the diseases for which Cresolem is recommended yield to this simple and dependable treatment.

Vapo-Cresolene is sold by druggists VAPO-CRESOLENE CO., 62 Cortlandt St., New York

To Reduce Fever Relieve Headaches and Neuralgic Pains

Aspitone is very efficient and absolutely safe to use as it does not depress the heart even in extreme cases of debaity or weak heart, neurasthenia or anaemia. Manufactur-ed by a formula in use by leading physicians carrelly. 19 parts pure Aspirin, I part pure Caffelne, 4 parts excipient. In convenient tablet form. 35c per package at your druggists or by mail from the manufacturers, Piedmont Laboratories Inc., Clinton, S. C.

day. The Washington church is meeting at Fourteenth and Meridian Place, N. W. Cars marked Fourteenth and Colorado Streets and Fourteenth and Decatur, or Takoma Park car, will bring you to the place. Cars stop near the house of worship. A hearty welcome awaits one and all. Make checks payable to E. L. Mills, treasurer, and send to him, P. O. Box 1050, Washington, D. C., or to W. S. Long, P. O. Box 1423, Washington, D. C.

There is absolutely no greatness in life without service. Only those who serve are great. If the spring gave out no sparkling water, it would soon vanish, and even the frogs would hop croakingly away.-Christian Herald.

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

Volume LXII. No. 52.

NASHVILLE, TENN., DECEMBER 23, 1920.

$2.50 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

249
251
25
255
26(
262
26:
26-
261 261 261 261 261

Edifying as the Need May Be

Converts at David Lipscomb College.

We usually associate conversions with protracted meetings and have learned to expect them as the result of the preaching of a series of gospel sermons. But a rather surprising and, at the same time, a most encouraging aspect of our work at David Lipscomb College during the present quarter is indicated by the number of boys and girls who have voluntarily made the good confession and completed their obedience by baptism into Christ, no big meeting being necessary. Just a few minutes ago, before I started to write these lines, the matron of the girls' dormitory called me over the telephone to say that another one of her charges had obeyed the gospel. "But we had no service in the chapel to-night," I suggested; "where did she make the confession?" She explained that the girl had gone with her to the Dean's home and had there made the confession and requested to be baptized. "We are so happy over it!" she exclaimed. Just a short while ago another girl had taken the same course. Other students have responded to the invitation at our simple prayer-meeting services where no long sermons are preached, but where brief and pointed talks are made chiefly by the older boys who are proclaiming God's word in school and away from it. Nearly all the students who were not Christians at the beginning of school have taken this important step. It is our earnest prayer that the few who are still out of Christ may be constrained to come in. Not only at the daily chapel exercises, but in the daily classes the teachers are trying to say such things and to present such examples as will make the students see the glory of Christian living. The best thing that may be said for the school of one Tyrannus mentioned in Acts 19: 9 is that, thanks to the faithful tutelage of the apostle Paul, "all they which dwelt in Asia heard the word of the Lord Jesus." Thus in the providence of God we have been able to employ the academic facilities of our college to the saving of souls.

0 0 0

The Muck Raker.

I do not remember exactly whether it was Rudyard Kipling or Matthew Arnold or Theodore Roosevelt who first coined the term "muck raker," but I do know that it describes precisely a character that we frequently meet or hear about in our daily rounds. We would naturally expect to find him in the political world or in the realm of high society; but we are both surprised and grieved to discover that he often wears a religious garb, and is even called "brother," and fills his regular appointments and writes for the religious papers. He is nice to you when he meets you face to face; he inquires of your health and of your family's health; he seems solicitous for your school or your congregation or for whatever interests you may be connected with. He leaves you with the impression that he has your welfare truly at heart. But, lo and behold, you converse with some friend later, and you learn to your dismay that he has slyly and maliciously misrepresented you or your school or your paper. In your exasperation you seek him out and confront him with what you have heard. He is both suave and apologetic. Usually he seeks to place the blame on some other brother who told him, and adds: "Please don't ask me to give his name. It was told me in confidence." You go away dissatisfied with the conference, but with a feeling that it is best to drop the matter and to try and forget it. But it is not long until you learn that he has been "muckraking" you again.

Another one of his favorite methods is to write to some brother criticizing you or your work instead of writing directly to you. In this letter he questions your loyalty and expresses the fear that somebody is trying to put something over on the brotherhood. In making this move he reveals a lack of generalship, because not infrequently the brother to whom he writes, more frank than he, brings the letter to your attention. It is his method to studiously avoid meeting you and to refrain from frank correspondence with you and at the same time to attack you indirectly. It reminds me of one of Brother Srygley's stories about a boy who got a whipping at school, and in an effort at revenge indited a letter to the teacher to which he surreptitiously signed his father's name. It read like this: "Dear Sir: If you whip Johnny again, I am going to knock the devil out of you, [Signed.] Your brother in Christ, James Adams." The signature was correctly imitated, but the spirit of the letter was foreign to the father. It is painful to note that there are those who subscribe themselves "Yours fraternally" and "Yours in Christ" who have neither the mind of Christ nor the spirit of true brotherhood.

Paul said: "Let love be without dissimulation."

* * *

A New Venture in School Journalism.

The students at David Lipscomb College have issued the first number of Havalind Acts, a monthly magazine which will be devoted to their interests and to the upbuilding of the college. The title was selected with a view of including all of the various phases of school life. "Havalind" is a composite word denoting the activities which center around Harding Hall, Avalon Home, and Lindsay Hall. It is strictly a students' publication, the editors having been selected by the four literary societies. At the same time, it is subject to the supervision of the president and the head of the Department of English. The purpose is to keep the public, and especially the widely scattered alumni, apprised of the progress and growth of an institution in which they should be vitally interested. In addition to the news notes, there are selected articles written by the students, both prose and poetry. The editors do not claim perfection, but they do strive to print the very best they have in shop. The journalistic field among the schools and colleges presents a prolific aspect, but much of the stuff that is printed nowadays is either in the form of vulgar jokes or commonplace inanities. The boys and girls are trying to rise above mediocrity and make their publication a substantial mediary between themselves and the friends of the college. The subscription price is one dollar for the college year; and orders sent to William A. Cuff, business manager, will receive prompt attention.

The second quarter will begin on January 3, 1921, and catalogues are being sent out upon request.

Our Contributors

The Power to Bear Witness.

BY JAMES E. SCOBEY.

The Christian is in the world to bear witness to the spirit of faith and love. The apostle Paul said: "For God hath not given us the spirit of fear; but of power, and of love, and of a sound mind."

The Christian cannot bear witness to the facts upon which Christianity is founded. Every religion in all the world is founded either on fact or fiction. There are many religions in the world. The ones having the greatest number of adherents are the Mohammedan, that of Buddha, and the Christian. Confucianism, the worship of ancestors, has large sway in China, mixed with Buddhism and idolatry. If Mohammed was a prophet of God and the "Koran" was inspired of God, then Mohammedanism is a true religion and all others are false.

The facts upon which Christianity is based are stated by Paul in his first letter to the Corinthians: "Moreover, brethren, I declare unto you the gospel which I preached unto you, which also ye have received, and wherein ye stand; by which also ye are saved, if ye keep in memory what I preached unto you, unless ye have believed in vain. For I delivered unto you first of all that which I also received, how that Christ died for our sins according to the scriptures; and that he was buried, and then he rose again the third day according to the scriptures." (1 Cor. 15: 1-4.)

The apostles were the chosen witnesses to bear to the world testimony of these facts. The death, burial, and resurrection of Jesus are the facts upon which the divinity of Jesus rests. No one then denied, nor does any one now doubt, that Jesus lived, was crucified, and was buried. Many then denied that he rose from the dead. All infidelity now denies he was the Son of God. It is true all things reported of Jesus from his birth to his death might have been true, and still he might have been only a man. and simply a prophet of God, as Nicodemus believed him to be, and, therefore, not the Messiah, the Son of God and the Savior. The prophets before him had delivered wonderful messages to the people and had done wonderful things. But the resurrection of Jesus establishes his divinity, and that by his death on the cross, in shedding his own blood, he made an atonement for the sins of the world. The efficacy of this to blot out sin is offered to every one who believes in him. "For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life."

Is the resurrection a fact? I am free to confess I do not know, nor is there a man or a woman living now that does know. No Christian can bear witness to any single incident connected with Christ's stay on this earth, nor to his place in heaven.

Jesus before his death had said to his disciples, when Peter had confessed him to be the Christ, the Son of God, that he "must go unto Jerusalem, and suffer many things of the elders and chief priests and scribes, and be killed, and be raised again the third day." (Matt. 16: 21.) The Jews had understood that Jesus had predicted his resurrection. They therefore besought Pilate, the governor, to place a guard around the tomb in which the body of Jesus had been laid after his death on the cross. The governor granted the request, and a centurion and his soldiers surrounded the place where the Lord lay. "In the end of the Sabbath, as it began to dawn toward the first day of the . behold, there was a great earthquake: for the angel of the Lord descended from beaven, and came and rolled back the stone from the door, and sat upon it. His countenance was like lightning and his raiment white as snow: and for fear of him the keepers did shake, and became as dead men."

So upon the third morning the tomb of Joseph was found void of the body of Jesus. This soon came to the ears of the Jews. Now, what must they do? They bribed the soldiers by giving them large money to say: "His disciples came by night, and stole him away while we slept." And this report is commonly believed by the Jews to this day. This is the only testimony denying the resurrection, and this by soldiers who said they were asleep when the reported theft of the body is said to have taken place. Such testimony would not be received by any court of justice. No thinking man would be convinced by such witnesses. Such a circumstance has connected with it hardly the tinge of possibility, much less that of probability.

That Jesus actually rose from the dead is vouchsafed by the testimony of his apostles, "to whom he showed himself alive after his passion [or death] by many infallible proofs, being seen of them forty days, and speaking of the things pertaining to the kingdom of God." (Acts 1: 3.) Paul says he was seen first, after he had risen, by Peter, and then by all the apostles, and afterwards by above five hundred brethren at once; afterwards of James, and then of all the apostles, "and last of all he was seen of me also, as of one born out of due time." For bearing witness to the resurrection of Jesus, nearly every one of his apostles suffered martyrdom at the hands of the enemies of the cross.

While the apostles from the summit of Mount Olivet saw their Lord and Master ascend toward heaven until their view was obscured by a cloud, they could not bear witness to the fact that he received glory and honor from God, his Father, who bestowed upon him power to be King of kings and Lord of lords, and seated him at his own right hand on his throne. But Saul of Tarsus, who was, perhaps, the most wicked and determined persecutor of Christians, when converted and made an apostle, could bear witness to the fact that Jesus was in heaven; for he says he saw him and heard his voice. The testimonies are thus complete; and there is no man who reads the Scriptures with the thought that they represent or teach the truth, and who desires to learn the truth, but will receive the witness of the apostles instead of the tale of the bribed Roman soldiers who guarded the tomb. These were frightened out of their wits at the earthquake and appearance of the angel who came and rolled back the stone from the door of the sepulcher.

But I have said Christians were in the world to bear witness. To what, then, must they bear witness? They certainly cannot bear witness to the facts upon which the religion of Christ is founded. They can and should bear witness to the power and efficacy of the gospel to change a sinner to a saint; to translate an alien from the kingdom of darkness into the kingdom of God's dear Son; to make of such the best men and women of which the world may boast. The gospel believed and obeyed causes men to think God's thoughts, speak God's words, and thus to live soberly, righteously, and godly in this present world. And those who thus live are the salt of the earth and the light of the world. Paul said to the Ephesian Christians: "Now are ye light in the Lord; walk as children of light." "Let your light so shine before men, that they may see your good works, and glorify your Father which is in heaven," said Jesus to his disciples.

The Christian Eskimos. BY JAMES A. ALLEN.

The following clipping, under the heading, "Eskimos Regard Life Lightly," is taken from a daily paper: "The Eskimos, who have not yet come under Christian influence, are said to be flithy and treacherous. They practice polygamy and infanticide, and they kill off the aged and infirm when they are unable to hunt. But the Christian Eskimos are clean and self-respecting, and seventy-five per cent of them can read and write in their own language."

In connection with the above, I copy, from the first speech of A. Campbell in reply to the infidel, Robert Owen, the following extract: "Yes, my fellow citizens, not a king nor a priest smiled upon our faith until it won the day. It offered no lure to the ambitious, no reward to the avaricious. It formed no alliance with the lusts of the flesh, the lusts of the eyes, nor the pride of life. It disdained such auxiliaries. It aimed not so low. It called for self-denial, humility, patience, and courage on the part of all its advocates, and promised spiritual joys as an earnest of eternal bliss. By the excellency of its doctrine, the purity of its morals, the rationality of its arguments, the demonstrations of the Holy Spirit, and the good example of its subjects, it triumphed on the ruins of Judaism and idolatry."

Mirabeaud, one of the oldest advocate of athelsm, declares that "athelsm will not make a wicked man good." (Vol. II., page 318.) Mr. Edmund Gibbon, an infidel, who wrote the famous "Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire," tells that morality and right living were so conspicuous among the early Christians that the pagans, piqued at such exemplary conduct, made every endeavor to tempt them to sin. He gives, as an illustration, a case where a Christian young man was chained to a bed of flowers and tempted to sin by a very beautiful but dissolute woman. Though it is too indecent to transcribe here, Mr. Gibbon records that the young man bit off his tongue that the pain might queil the rising of evil thoughts. Such exemplary conduct would put even some preachers to shame in this dissolute day.

It is an undisputed and incontrovertible fact that nothing in the wide world can "make a wicked man good," except the Christian religion. 'The unconverted Eskimos are fifthy and treacherous. The reader may feel perfectly sure that a host of other crimes are associated with filth and treachery. But filth and treachery vanish under the benign influence of the teaching of Christ. The mansion, as well as the cottage, is made clean and sanitary, not to mention that personal cleanliness that Christianity so beautifully inculcates. "From all your filthiness, and from all your idols, will I cleanse you," says the God of the Bible. And a great Christian apostle says to his brethren: "Let us cleanse ourselves from all filthiness of the flesh and spirit, perfecting holiness in the fear of God." And as virtues. as well as vices, always grow in clusters, the same apostle also says: "But fornication, and all uncleanness, or covetousness, let it not be once named among you, as becometh saints: neither filthiness, nor foolish talking, nor jesting, which are not convenient: but rather giving of thanks." He very forcefully adds: "For this ye know, that no whoremonger, nor unclean person, nor covetous man, who is an idolater, hath any inheritance in the kingdom of Christ and of God. Let no man deceive you with vain words: for because of these things cometh the wrath of God upon the children of disobedience."

Most people, in normal circumstances, would be immeasurably shocked if they could see the abject and wretched conditions that exist in many parts of the world. The poverty and want, and the vice and crime that poverty and want produce; the filth and suffering, and the epidemic of disease, and the squalld distress in which thousands of human beings are living can be reached only by the gentle touch of the Man of sorrows and Friend of sinners. Assuredly, their only hope is to be found in the Christian religion. Bob Taylor told of a visit he made to the slums of a great city. He said: "I walked amid the squalid tenements of poverty and sin, unillumined by hope, unhallowed by love, and where even mercy trembles to tread. I saw manhood crushed in the slimy coils of debauchery, and motherhood degraded into the depths of shame; but as there are pearls in the filthiest streams, so God's jewels are sometimes hidden in the reeking cesspools of humanity." Telling of the death of a little girl, he eloquently said: "In one of those tenements of crime a child lay dying on a pallet of rags. Her white hand clenched a flower. The roses had vanished from her cheeks, and there was nothing left but withered lilies. The blessed sunshine crept through the narrow canon of the street and hung enthralled in her golden hair, and the sky above had left its blue and its stare in her innocent eyes. Divine love had set its aureole of glory about her tender life, and the lowest outcast caressed her, and the vilest lips spoke blessings upon her head. All who looked on the solemn scene bowed in silence to this majesty in rags. Did I say 'majesty?' Was not this the royal death chamber of God's elect, and was not this little bed of rags the jeweled couch of an angel? Was it not the coronation scene of an immortal soul? There was a sigh, a gasp, and the storm of life was hushed forever; and as the sinless spirit took its flight, I thought I caught faint swells of music from another world; I thought I heard the rustle of invisible wings."

The newspaper clipping at the head of this article says:
"But the Christian Eskimos are clean and self-respecting, and seventy-five per cent of them can read and write in their own language." We guarantee that in a short time one hundred per cent of them "can read and write in their own language." Ignorance cannot exist with Christianity. It inculcates light. It builds schools and colleges. It civilizes, educates, and refines, to say nothing of the incalculable blessing of the salvation of the soul in time and eter-

Jesus Christ planted a tree nineteen centuries ago. Well did he challenge the world to judge it by its fruit. It makes men honest, upright, and happy. "It makes wicked men good." And on no other tree in this wide world is this manner of fruit produced.

China's Starving Millions.

Europe's starving millions have been enough to give the parliaments of charity pause, but now comes word that China is scourged by the worst famine in forty years and calls to humanity for aid. Reduced by want, tens of millions in the northern provinces face death from hunger because they cannot be reached; and others, even if now assisted, cannot be kept fed until the June harvest. Many instances of cannibalism and wholesale suicide are reported by missionaries, who are sending out a general appeal to relieve what the Peking and Tientsin Times describes as one of the greatest catastrophes that have befallen the world. Even the slow-moving Chinese government is so alarmed by the peril that it is resorting to drastic measures to succor the stricken peoples. Officials found guilty of graft are beheaded out of hand, it is said; railroad tariffs have been raised on condition that the increase go to the relief funds, and twenty per cent of their salaries for three months is deducted from the incomes of all government employees. Reports made to the Methodist and Presbyterian Boards of Foreign Missions and appealing letters received from missionaries in the stricken areas recite that the suffering is so widespread that even oft-smitten Cathay is appalled by the immensity of the tragedy. In some places, it is stated, not a blade of grass is growing-"every leaf has been taken from the trees, and even the bark has been consumed." Everywhere whole families are drowning themselves in the rivers; others are selling their daughters into slavery; and there are some whose hunger drives them to the flesh of their own kind. For nearly two years no rain has fallen over a wide area covering parts of the provinces of Chihli, Shantung, and Honan, the most densely populated section in China, writes Dr. Iuming C. Suez, Chinese Consul, to Columbia University students; and a condition of "unprecedented horror" has resulted. An extract from letters he received from missionaries tells the tale:

Summer has gone and still there is no rain, so there is not the least hope for the autumn harvest. The condition is especially bad around the southern districts of Chihli. Cases of horrible happenings are reported every day of the thousands who are emaciated and finally subdued by startantion, of those who with their whole family commit suicide by poisoning or drowning in order to escape the more horrible necessity of eating human flesh or selling members of their families. Dead bodies are floating down the river to Tientsin in such frequency that the city waterworks are forced to close down their refining tanks because the water is absolutely unsafe for use.

According to press reports, Bishop Wilson Lewis cables from Peking to the Methodist Board of Foreign Missions that in the stricken areas people "are now living on grass, which has sprung up under the influence of the later rains, and on the leaves and bark of trees. Thousands are starving and tens of thousands will have died before relief can possibly come." Dr. Raiph A. Ward, secretary of the Methodist Board, states:

More people face starvation in China this winter than perished on the battle fields of the war. A thousand are dying daily. Fathers and mothers are committing suicide rather than watch their children starve, while others are forced to abandon them to more fortunate people who can care for them as their own. Multitudes of refugees fiee from the foodless districts only to die of exposure and hunger in distant cities where "rice lines" are not sufficient. Able-bodled men, old women, and children scramble over one another in the streets in their rush for a copper flung them by a passer-by. Children are often crushed at the stations of inadequate food distribution.

The work of social rebuilding in the large is a thing to which the Christian church has committed itself, but for the present we have no time to spend on mere hopes and theories. People are starving. They need help now—help to maintain life and keep homes intact.

Measures of relief are being pushed forward as rapidly as possible, and various organizations have lent themselves to the tremendous task. The American Red Cross, it is announced, has appropriated $500,000 for immediate relief; the Chinese are personally giving $12,500,000 (Mexico), and the British-American Tobacco Company has appropriated $100,000. In addition, many of the missionaries are sacrificing themselves in a frantic endeavor to stay the peril. Effort is now being made by an American relief expedition to save certain districts which can be reached before water transportation is blocked by ice, and which will be open to relief until crops replace the want, writes a correspondent of the Chicago Tribune. But other districts must be left to their fate. The correspondent paints a dark picture of conditions in some of the areas where not a green thing survives. In the region of Anping 130,000 men, women, and children, or about seventy per cent of the population, are starving and cannot last until June without aid. Some miles to the east of the region through which the relief cargoes will pass is Hsinhsin, where the entire population is starving. This is reported to be the blackest spot in all China, but, being nearer Tientsin, it may be reached by supplies later. Anping has been selected as the relief center by the Rev. A. J. Griffith, one of the relief workers, and supplies from Manila brought by the American army transport "Warren" are being hurried through before freezing ends water transportation. Here there is sufficient food to sustain 10,000 people until June; for the rest of the population, 120,000, there is no hope. Similar conditions exist elsewhere, and so tremendous is the task that, continues the correspondent:

At conferences at Peking, Tientsin, Shanghai, Hankow, and elsewhere it is agreed that it would be a waste of food to feed any part of the population and later leave them to starve. So it was resolved that no food would be sent to any district where it would be impossible to continue the supply until harvest time. . The decision reached means that from 20,000,000 to 30,000,000 persons must die, for it is possible to save lives only by sending food to districts which could be given continuous supply.

American assistance is going forward from Manila, and the whole work is being undertaken by the United International Famine Relief Committee. In expressing his appreciation for the American donations already given, Chow Tze Chi, Chinese Minister of Finance, added the prayer: "We hope that your great country will realize our need and, with your famous promptitude and generosity, aid our suffering."—Literary Digest.

Second Term Begins on January 8, 1921.

The second term at David Lipscomb College begins on January 3, 1921. Those who desire to be enrolled as students should make application at once in order that there may be no disappointment in securing room. There will be accommodations for a few young men and young women who are earnestly seeking an education that is worth while. Courses of study have been arranged so that a student will receive full credit for each term of work taken. We have a high standard of scholarship and conduct, and the present student body is securing good results. A system of supervised study has been introduced. Students are kept under the centrol and influence of Christian teachers during every hour of the day and night. We have the best facilities and equipment in the history of the institution, For catalogue containing full information, address A. B Lipscomb, President, David Lipscomb College, Nashville, Tenn.

LOS ANGELES NOTES

2669 North Sichel Street.

House of worship, corner Altura and North Sichel Streets. Take North Broadway car to Sichel, then one block to left.

A Kind Criticism.

I think I know enough about myself to say that I appreciate being kindly criticized when any honest-hearted soul thinks I am wrong. Just recently the following criticism came from a good brother, whose name I withhold, and I want to say to him that I very much appreciate all he says:

Dear Brother: On page 1118 of the Gospel Advocate of November 18 I notice the following statement: "He also took the cup, gave thanks, and said: Take this, and divide it among yourselves." Now, my brother, I wish to call your attention to the fact that our Lord did not say any such a thing in regard to the cup of the Lord's Supper, but in regard to the cup of the Passover. (See Luke 22: 7: 17.) Then (verses 19, 20) he instituted the Lord's Supper, and did not say, "Divide it among yourselves." (See Mark 4: 17-25; Matt. 26: 26-29; 1 Cor. 11: 23-26.) I enjoy your articles in the Advocate, but this time you are incorrect.

On the above, I submit the following:

- 1. If you have an Advocate handy and will turn to the article referred to, you will find that I was insisting that "common sense" has a place in our religion; that God did not endow us with common sense, then give us a life in his service to live that forbids the use of common sense, And common sense's place in religion was exemplified. The point was made that when God tells us to do a thing without specifying the how, that common sense must be used in the how we go about the doing of the thing commanded. One example was given in the following words: "Another case in point is the Lord's Supper. Christ took bread, gave thanks, brake it, and gave to the disciples. He also took the cup, gave thanks, and said: 'Take this and divide it among yourselves.' The how to divide it among ourselves is not specified, and the how to give the bread to the different disciples is not specified."
- 2. The point in our brother's criticism is this: The cup in verse 17 of Luke 22 was the Passover cup, but the cup in verse 20 is the cup of the Lord's Supper; Christ said divide the former among yourselves, but did not say for them to divide the latter. To be frank about the matter, I will say that I am not certain that two cups are in the mind of our Lord in the two places. Verses 17 and 18 in Luke 22 are so nearly the exact saying of Christ in Matt. 26: 27-29 that I am inclined to think they refer to the same thing, and the latter we know refers to the Lord's Supper. But let this be as it may, in either event the cup was given to the disciples, and they were not told how to divide it among themselves. And if Luke refers to two cups, first to the Passover cup, then to the Lord's Supper, it is a certainty that they divided the Lord's-Supper cup among themselves, whether told to or not, unless one disciple did all the drinking for the rest, or Christ had the individual cups there and had it divided before he handed it to them; and I know the former was not done, and doubt that the latter was done. The point is simply this: When he instituted the Supper, he left room for common sense to be exercised in dividing the loaf and the fruit of the vine among the disciples.
- 3. In conclusion, it should be stated that our brother, I presume, agrees with me in all I wrote, with the exception of the use I made of the first cup mentioned in Luke 22. I see his point, thank him for the criticism, and could not think of contending that he is mistaken, for he may be correct. His criticism has made me look at the two statements more thoughtfully, and in this he has helped me. I know he is a good man for the kindly way he made the criticism.

More on Giving.

Brother Malphurs' letter, referred to in last issue, contained the following questions:

(1) "After you have taught the brethren to give as they have been prospred and have purposed, and on the first day, and they do not do it, what do you then do?"

This is a good question, and it should be considered by the elders of every local church. What is your answer, brethren? I can give no answer to this, except the facts in the case. He asked, "What do you then do?"-after teaching them and they do not do what they have been taught. I just keep on teaching. I do just like any sensible doctor would do when he gives a dose of medicine and does not get the desired results: I give it again, and then again, until I get results. I know of nothing else to do. But I refer the reader to what was said in the last issue on the necessity of converting the brethren. Sometimes the doctor gives the wrong medicine, or, better said, gives the right medicine at the wrong time. It is no uncommon thing for brethren to ask me to preach on giving, and, as a rule, they want me to dive into it at once. But I always have my own way about when to preach on giving. To preach to some brethren on giving as the first dose would be as great a mistake as Peter would have made if he had preached baptism to the Pentecostians first, instead of the death, burial, resurrection, and coronation of our Lord. Let it be here stated that those elders who are allowing some of their members to feel that they are going to heaven when they are not giving are getting themselves into a dangerous condition; for people who do not give will not be saved. Paul said he was pure from the blood of all men because he declared the whole counsel of God to the people. (See Acts 20: 26, 27.) We have many elders whose salvation is doubtful, because they have allowed those over whom they were appointed overseers to live in a state of deception.

(2) "Do you, or the elders, or any one, canvass the members to see how each is prospering and what he will purpose?"

Remember, our brother is asking about how we went about things at West End in Atlanta. In answer to the above, I will say that we made it a rule, for a number of years, to send a letter on giving to each member; and in this letter each was asked to study the scriptures on giving (these scriptures being embodied in the letter), pray over them, then hand to our treasurer a statement like this: "If the Lord continues to prosper me as I am now being prospered, I will be able to put into the treasury each Lord's day this year (here give the amount)." And the members were taught that it was their duty to increase or decrease according to increased prosperity or adversity that came into their lives. We adopted this method for the purpose of getting each one to think along the line of giving, and to give intelligently, to make giving a part of his very life. I highly recommend this method, as it leaves the amount absolutely with each individual, as each does his own thinking, but thinks in the light of the scriptures before him.

(3) "Do you have any trouble getting the members who purpose to live up to their purpose?"

Well, yes, with some of them. Here it would be well to state that you cannot always tell whether the members are living up to their purpose or not, and I hardly think the Lord requires that elders absolutely know that they are. The one point that should be remembered is that if any do not live up to their purpose, it must not be due to his not having been fully taught the absolute essentiality of giving as one of the conditions of the Christian's justification before God. Let the elders keep their skirts clear by kindly, earnestly, and fully teaching the congregation on the subject of giving, along with all other duties of the Christian.

Georgia and the Far Southern Field By B. C. GOODPASTURE

Brother Claus Enters the Field in the Interest of the Work at Savannah.

Brother G. E. Claus, who labors regularly with the church in Valdosta, Ga., as a preacher of the gospel, has very generously consented to go out among the churches in behalf of the struggling little congregation in Savannah. He will call on a number of the congregations in Nashville and Louisville, and will, doubtless, see others on the way. Brother Claus is a worthy man, as we all know, and is laboring to build up a worthy cause. He has already raised liberal contributions from the South Georgia churches, and the North Georgia churches are preparing their bounty; but, after doing practically all that can be done in this State first, it is absolutely necessary to bring this crying appeal to the ears of the brotherhood. I am writing and Brother Claus is traveling in order that this matter may be presented to the brethren everywhere. It is true that there are many calls for help; but it will be a sad day for the church when it loses its zeal for missions-when there are no new and needy congregations looking to the older ones for assistance. I do not say that every appeal is worthy, but I do say without reservation that the one from Savannah is. Many congregations, like all of us, have to pass through a period of relatively dependent infancy. It took help from outside sources to establish some of the congregations in apostolic times. Hear Paul: "Ye yourselves also know, ye Philippians, that in the beginning of the gospel, when I departed from Macedonia, no church had fellowship with me in the matter of giving and receiving but ye only; for even in Thessalonica ye sent once and again unto my need." (Phil. 4: 15, 16.) You will note that the church at Philippi sent "once and again" unto Paul's need.

* * *

The Urgency of the Appeal.

Let it be remembered (1) that this meetinghouse which the brethren in Savannah are planning to buy will cost nine thousand dollars; (2) that this is a bargain; (3) that four thousand dollars must be raised on or before December 31, when the option closes; (4) that, if the brotherhood will contribute the first payment of four thousand dollars, the congregation in Savannah can get time on the remaining five thousand dollars that will make it possible for the payments to be made when they are due; (5) that "a great door and effectual is opened" (1 Cor. 16: 9) unto us in Savannah, but the opportunity without a meetinghouse will be all but lost. No one can look over this field without being impressed with these facts. We must do something, and do it now; to hesitate is to lose. The gospel is being preached in that great city to those who have never heard it in its original purity; the ensign of our Sovereign, Savior, and Captain is being raised in an advanced position; we cannot afford to surrender now. Brethren, the hour has come; the crisis is on. Do not delay!

A Suggestion.

If every brother who is a subscriber to this paper will see to it that the congregation with which he worships sends a contribution to this work, all will be well. Brethren, consider this matter next Sunday, if possible. It is the Lord's work; and "the King's business requireth haste." Have all checks made payable to J. N. Copeland, treasurer of the building fund, 109 East President Street, Savannah, Ga.

Mrs. S. T. Hardison.

Whereas, on December 2, 1920, according to divine appointment, the companion and noble wife of Brother S. T. Hardison was taken from her earthly home to the better one beyond; and

Whereas, Brother Hardison is a member of the Board of Trustees of the Tennessee Orphan Home, and one of the most active individuals in the work of this institution; and

Whereas, in the death of this beloved woman we recognize that the sons have suffered the loss of an affectionate mother; the husband, a true and faithful companion; and the church, a devoted mother in Israel; and

Whereas, because of the deep and united interest manifested by Dr. Hardison and his good wife in the welfare of the little children of the Tennessee Orphan Home, the relations between this institution and the couple were tender and bound by cords of love, and the intelligence of her death crushed our hearts with grief and burdened them with sorrow; and

Whereas, so keenly do we feel the weight of sorrow and bereavement that we are prompted to help our brother bear the burden in an expression of sympathy and share with him in the promise of a glorified reunion in the eternal state; therefore,

Be it resolved, That we bear witness to the fact that this beloved woman has done a great work in the vineyard of the Lord in her many deeds of charity and unselfishness, giving assurance to the promised reward: "Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord from henceforth: yea, saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labors; for their works follow with them." (Rev. 13: 14.) And be it further

Resolved, That the directors of the Tennessee Orphan Home extend their Christian love and deepest sympathy to the husband and four sons in this the irreparable loss of wife and mother, and that our prayers may invoke the blessings of a loving Heavenly Father upon them.

[Signed] J. PAUL SLAYDEN, F. C. SOWELL, Committee.

The Star of Bethlehem.

BY LOULA MARIE ADRISSON.

'Twas born in the eve—that luminous star,
That mystical light;
'Twas born in the east—and the Wise Men afar
Rejoice in the night.

In rapture they behold its glory,
As the silver rays unfold.
Bethlehem's star holds the greatest story
By man or angel told.

The favored Wise Men wandering far, Their holy mission to fulfill, Glean the story from the star— Read the message of good will.

Silently and prayerfully they journey on Where the strange star leads them, Slowly onward, till they come upon The town of Bethlehem.

Brighter still the bright star gleams As it shines so near them, There upon the babe that dreams 'Neath the star of Bethlehem.

O star of Bethlehem! O radiant, wondrous star!
Fading soon from all sight;
Yet earth's darkness was pierced as thy glad rays fell afar,
By a great Eternal Light.

Meditate daily on the things of eternity; and by the grace of God do something daily, which thou wouldest wish to have done when the day of judgment comes.—Selected.

Conducted for a half century by D. Lipscomb and E. G. Sewell.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION.

$2.50 a year, in advance; to Canada and foreign countries, $3.00,

$2.50 a year, in advance; to Canada and foreign countries, $3.00, in advance.

Remittances will be at our risk when sent by express or post-office money order, in registered letter, or by draft payable to our order. When changing your post-office address, tell us your old as well as your new address; otherwise two papers might be charged to you. This paper is mailed regularly to all subscribers until definite orders in writing are received and all arrearages paid in full. If you wish us to stop your paper, write us to that effect; but do not ask it unless you have paid all arrears, if there are any. Do not ask your postmaster to attend to it for you, but do it yourself.

The date on your tab shows the time to which your subscription is paid. When money is received, the date will be changed, which will answer for a receipt. Two weeks' time must ordinarily occur from the time your remittance is sent before the tab on your paper is changed; if not changed by that time, notify us at once.

Subscribers, after paying for their papers, will favor us by noting whether the date on the address label is changed, and, if it is not changed within a month, by writing to us. We are careful, but mistakes may occur or letters may be lost. Our rule is to change the date on the day payment is received; but the mechanical work of correcting and printing the list takes time, and payments even from near-by places may not appear the first week. Credits for payments from a distance may be even more delayed. Mistakes are easily rectified if prompt notice is given.

All communications should be addressed to Gospel Advocate, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

Guarantee of Advertising.

All the advertisements in this paper are, we believe, signed by trustworthy persons. To prove our faith by works, we will make good to actual subscribers any loss sustained in trusting advertisers who prove to be deliberate swindlers. We shall not attempt to adjust trilling disputes between subscribers and honorable business men who advertise, nor pay the debts of honest bankrupts. To make this guarantee effective, in all cases say in writing advertisers, "I saw your advertisement in the Gospel Advocate;" and if anything goes wrong, notify us immediately in writing.

JACOBS & CO., ADVERTISING MANAGERS,

Clinton, S. C.

Entered at post office at Nashville, Tenn., as second-class matter.
Published weekly at Nashville, Tenn.

The Annual Meeting.

BY J. C. M'O.

The annual meeting of the Tennessee Orphan Home, Columbia, Tenn., was held on December 9. All the directors were present except four. The sisters composing the advisory committee were all present except one. The meeting was considered by far the best in the history of the institution. The directors devoted much thought to the best Interests of the institution, looking to the actual needs of the inmates. There are sixty-six children in the Home or under its management.

Every one should be interested in the rearing and training of orphans. A fatherless and motherless child will appeal to every person who has any love for his fellow creatures. Worthless indeed is the man who will not heed the cries of unfortunate orphans. We may be in health and prosperity to-day: we may be paupers and beggars next week. Not one of us knows just what his condition will be through life. Our children may be well cared for to-day, and may be orphans and in need before another year has come and gone. Before turning a deaf ear to the entreaties of the helpless and innocent orphans, we should ask ourselves the question: "If my child were in that position, how would I wish people to treat it?" When we read the appeals that are now being made through the papers for millions of starving children, we certainly should appreclate the fact that this work of rearing and training orphans belongs to no race or country. Every individual, no matter of what nationality or what his belief, should cheerfully help maintain and train helpless children. Every time we feed, clothe, and train an orphan, our usefulness is thereby intensified and a true manhood or womanhood developed and strengthened.

The directors in this meeting gave thoughtful consideration to the proper training of those intrusted to their care. The thought was stressed that it is not sufficient to train the body while neglecting the soul, neither should the mind be trained while neglecting completely the body. When Solomon said, "Train up a child in the way he should go, and even when he is old he will not depart from it" (Prov. 22: 6), he had in view the development of the body, the mind, and the soul. While the Tennessee Orphan Home is not supposed to keep children after they are twelve years old, yet it is deemed advisable to make children who are ten or eleven years of age self-supporting as far as possible. While there is no thought of placing upon them burdens that they cannot reasonably be expected to bear, yet many eleven-year-old children may be taught to sew and cook, patch, darn, and be useful and helpful in many ways. This is best for the child, and the child who has been brought up without such training has been badly treated. In order that one may have a strong mind, it is necessary to have a sound, healthy body. It is a mistake not to pay attention to the proper training and development of the body. The best minds inhabit healthy. vigorous bodies. However, it is not enough to properly train the body and the mind; the soul should not be neglected. Paul had in mind the proper nurturing of the body, mind, and soul when he admonished: "And, ye fathers, provoke not your children to wrath: but nurture them in the chastening and admonition of the Lord." (Eph. 6: 4.) The training of Timothy began from Hisping infancy: "And that from a babe thou hast known the sacred writings which are able to make thee wise unto salvation through faith which is in Christ Jesus." (2 Tim. 3: 15.) Again, we learn from 2 Tim. 1: 5 that Timothy's training began before he was born: "Having been reminded of the unfeigned faith that is in thee; which dwelt first in thy grandmother Lois, and thy mother Eunice; and, I am persuaded, in thee also." Too much thought and effort cannot be given to the training of children. From the papers it appears that crime is greatly on the increase and that the United States is leading all first-class powers in crime. The year 1919 has more crimes charged to it than any of its predecessors. It is contended by many that crime is alarmingly on the increase. Granting this to be correct, we may find reason for it in our neglect to properly train and care for children. Boys and girls will either grow to a useful manhood and noble womanhood, or they will grow to be worthless or to be criminals.

The directors most earnestly appeal to all to cooperate with them in making the Tennessee Orphan Home a home for orphans indeed, and just what it should be. The very thought of rearing children for usefulness should thrill us all with joy. The man who can find no pleasure in caring for the little ones must indeed be ungrateful for the many blessings that he enjoys from our Father's bountiful hand. The man who has the right view of life and its responsibilities will not be satisfied without having fellowship in such work. Instead of spending all upon himself for his own pleasure and gratification, he will find his greatest joy in making sacrifices in order that he may prove a blessing to those who need his help and protection. God pity the man who turns a deaf ear to the helpiess wail of the homeless orphan!

Those who are working for the promotion of this institution are doing so without monetary compensation. only are they doing this, but they are contributing of their means in order to increase the usefulness of the Home. This is not only true of the directors, but also of the advisory committee. While it is true that the matron and her assistants are paid a small salary, yet they are making sacrifices. In spite of such sacrifices and effort, I have never yet heard one say that he regretted having made the sacrifices and having done what he could for the betterment of the orphans. Those engaged in such a noble work only regret their inability to do more. No one should spend all his means upon himself for luxuries, ease, and self-indulgence, but should study to see just how little he can spend upon himself in order to save to help others. Such sacrifice brings peace and contentment to the soul that is wholly unknown to the selfish. "In all things I gave you an example, that so laboring ye ought to help the weak, and to remember the words of the Lord Jesus, that he himself said, It is more blessed to give than to receive." (Acts 20: 35.)

When this paper reaches our readers it will be almost Christmas. The paper is due to be published on December 23, whereas Christmas will be Saturday, December 25. I should be very glad indeed if I could stir up our readers to remember the orphans in the Tennessee Orphan Home by making a liberal gift to that institution on Christmas Day. Such an act would certainly be honoring the Christ. The first Lord's day in January is the regular day for our quarterly contribution to the Home, Make the Home a New Year's gift by sending to the Tennessee Orphan Home, Columbia, Tenn., the most liberal gift that you have ever made to that institution. How inexpressibly sweet it will be to have the Master say: "Inasmuch as ye did it unto one of these my brethren, even these least, ye did it unto me!"

A Unique Correspondence.

BY M. C. K.

When I began the series of articles on "Bible Things by Bible Names," which recently appeared in these columns, I had no thought that they would stir up the keen interest which has been manifested in different parts of the country. While this interest, in part, has been in the way of unstinted and enthusiastic indorsement of the articles, yet some of it, as our readers know, has been in the way of dissent from, and adverse criticism of, some of the most vital and important positions taught and defended in them; and I am now more than ever convinced of the importance and timeliness of the series.

One of the most interesting and significant instances of adverse criticism that has appeared is the combined effort of two brethren who ventured to make known their dissent from the articles by pinking me with a small shaft of irony. Brethren of sound judgment have suggested that the publication of the correspondence, of which the said criticism is a part, together with the facts relating to the issue, will do good, and I concur in the judgment they have expressed. I take occasion to say here that I myself have a hearty relish for well-placed irony, and, regardless of whether this instance was well or ill placed, I have enjoyed it immensely. Alexander Pope said "satire" was his "weapon," but he quickly added:

I'm too discreet
To run amuck and tilt at all I meet.

In all cases of irony, as well as satire, it is well for its authors to exercise Pope's discretion and to see to it that their ground is well taken, otherwise it may prove to be a hoomerang.

That our readers may understand the situation, it is proper to state that the Christian Standard had published a tract on "The Interchurch World Movement and Mr.

Rockefeller's Conception of the Christian Church," by Thomas W. Phillips, Jr., which, in some respects, is an excellent tract; but, making in part the same mistake pointed out in my series of articles, it proposes to adopt one New Testament name of the church to the exclusion of the others, although it would correctly use the one name so as to include all Christians. My critics in this instance seemed to agree with the Standard tract; and hence, clipping from the Gospel Advocate of October 14, 1920, my concluding article on "Bible Things by Bible Names," they inclosed both it and the Standard tract and sent them to me with passages in the tract marked for my special attention. Our readers have already seen my article, and it is only necessary to reproduce here the marked parts of the Standard tract, which are as follows:

The suggestion or statement that the reborn church "would be called the church of the living God" deserves particular attention. This expression is found once in the Bible, in 1 Tim. 3: 15: "But if I tarry long, that thou mayest know how men ought to behave themselves in the house of God, which is the church of the living God, the pillar and ground of the truth." Names throughout the Bible conform to definite relation and purpose. An expression similar to "thou shalt call his name Ishmael because . . . " is frequently encountered. Abram was called Abraham, Jacob was called Israel, Simon was called Peter. Jesus is Savior to the lost, the great Physician the sick at heart, King to the kingdom of heaven, etc. T church nomenclature of the New Testament seems likewise to be born out of its relation and purpose as it faces various objectives and work. The church ideally and triumphantly is the church of God; in relation to God as Father it is the family, its members being children, sons, brethren; as it faces dead gods of wood and stone it is the church of the living God. In its relation to Christ, he is its head, and it is his body for executing his plans; as a organization, he is its leader and captain; as the bride he is the bridegroom, the great lover, etc.

The church of the future as well as the church of the present should be called the "church of Christ," because Christ is the head of the church; the church is the body of Christ; Christ gave his life for the church; Christ is like unto The true bride the bridegroom and the church to the bride. will wear no other name than that of her bridegroom. To a Christian the name "church" signifies the collective body of Christians who are in spiritual union with Christ, and acknowledge him as their head. Hyphenated Christians are as incongruous in a Christian church as are hyphen-ated Americans in the United States. With the passing of German-Americans, English-Americans, Irish-Americans, and Italian-Americans, let us hope also for the passing of Baptist-Christians, Catholic-Christians, Lutheran-Christians, and Methodist-Christians. A body of worshipers can, if they choose, organize themselves into the John Smith Church, and consistently establish ordinances, government and regulations to their own liking, the name having no significance whatever; the nature of the church would be determined by its creed, its laws, its policy. Another body, that wishes to emphasize the ordinance of baptism, may organize into a Baptist church. A third body, that wishes to emphasize a particular form of church government, may organize into a church and call it the Presbyterian church. A fourth body, wishing to emphasize the idea of local autonomy, may organize into a Congregational church, etc. The adoption of the name "church of Christ" may not prevent the church from falling into many and grievous errors, but would enable it to more readily extricate itself there from, for it would be constantly exalting "the name which is above every name." It would have a tendency to preis above every name." It would have a tendency to prevent the undue exalting of any man or group of men, as well as the nonobservance of the ordinances, and eventually would completely eliminate the precepts of men. "In vain do they worship me, teaching as their doctrines the precepts of men." Just what an Episcopalian church is, or should be, is a question involving an extensive research of more or less disputed history, but just what the church of Christ is or should be is easily and definitely determined by reference to the Acts of the Apostles and the Epistles.

The Standard tract with the foregoing passages marked and my editorial were neatly inclosed in a large envelope and sent to me with also the following personal letter:

Belle Plaine, Kan., October 21, 1920.—Dear Brother Kurfees: While associated at this place in a meeting we read your inclosed article and also at the same time a tract printed by the Christian Standard of which we send a portion in linetype copy which covers the phase of discussion in your article. Knowing the position of the Standard as an official organ of the "broad way" and that of the Gospel Advocate performing the same function for the "narrow way," we decided by the respective contents of the articles that they had been missent in the mails and that yours should have been printed in the Standard and the other tract published by the McQuiddy Publishing Company. Is this poor mail service, or have we, the undersigned, been mistaken as to the people with whom we have been associated? Yours in Christ, M. S. MASON.

CHARLES F. HARDIN.

After a careful perusal of that interesting epistle, I decided at once to take the beloved brethren seriously and to teach the truth by having a little innocent fun at their expense. Hence, I promptly dispatched to them the following reply:

Louisville, Ky., October 27, 1920.—Messrs. M. S. Mason and Charles F. Hardin, Belle Plaine, Kan.—Dear Brethren: Your inquiry of the 21st instant concerning the Christian Standard tract by Thomas W. Phillips, Jr., and my article in the Gospel Advocate of October 14, 1920, is just received. I am glad to hear from you, and thank you for the documents inclosed.

Replying to your question, I answer no, the manuscript of the respective documents was not "missent in the mails;" but I agree with you that it would have been well if mine "should have been printed in the Standard and the other tract published by the McQuiddy Publishing Company," as this exchange would have placed the truth on the different inspired designations of the church before Standard readers, and the McQuiddy Company could have corrected the errors in the tract before it was published.

From one remark in your letter, I infer that, like a number of persons in my own region, you have most likely been reading some of the same works on the church question that have been circulated here recently and that do I take not treat the subject with fullness and accuracy. occasion, therefore, to recommend to you a little work which has been circulated here to some extent and at a few other places, and which I myself have read with a great deal of pleasure and profit. In fact, so far as works known to me are concerned, it not only ranks well in point of scholarship, but is regarded by strong and well-informed men as of the very highest authority. It treats of a few other subjects in a very interesting way, but it treats fully and accurately of the church, and is entitled the New Testament. It completely exposes the error of applying to the church only one of God's designations of that institution to the exclusion of the others which God himself applies to it. I would send a copy along with this answer, but I feel sure that you can find one in some near-by store, and even in these high-price times you can get one at small cost. In the meantime I shall be glad to answer any other questions concerning which I may be able to help you. Yours most fraternally, M. C. Kurffees.

I call attention to the fact that the mistake made by the author of the Standard tract concerning the name of the church is not as grievous and sectarian as that made by many other brethren on the same subject. He is right in saying "the church of the future as well as the church of the present should be called the 'church of Christ,' " and equally right in so using the term as to include all Christians in the territory to which it is applied, but he is wrong in excluding other names which the New Testament applies to the church; whereas many other brethren are making the twofold mistake of not only adopting that name exclusively, but using it so as not to include all Christians in the territory to which it is applied. Unquestionably there is widespread confusion over New Testament nomenclature, and the only possible way to clear it up is to continue to point out and to magnify New Testament usage itself. It is distinctly and positively contrary to the New Testament to use any name or designation of the church so as not to include all Christians in the territory to which it is applied; and to emphasize this fact in the present controversy, a call was issued in the Gospel Advocate of December 9, 1920, for "a single passage in the New Testament with any name or designation of God's church which did not include all Christians in the territory to which it was applied." If anybody can produce such a passage, I shall be glad to publish it.

Finally, the fact should be constantly emphasized that to apply the designation, "church of Christ," so as to include only some Christians in a given territory and to exclude all others, is purely sectarian. If we are ever to speak as the New Testament speaks, we must not be content with merely using a New Testament name, but we must apply it to the New Testament thing. It ought to be self-evident to any thoughtful person that to use any New Testament term to include either more or less than is included by it in New Testament usage is not speaking as the New Testament speaks; and yet this is constantly done in the current use of the term "church of Christ," which fact may be seen in numerous newspaper articles, reports of meetings, and in common conversation among Christians. Let us cease to speak "half in the speech of Ashdod" (Neh. 13: 24), and speak the pure speech of Israel.

A Kindly Criticism.

BY F. W. SMITH.

There was a disturbance in a Baptist Church in Arkansas sometime since in which the pastor was requested to resign because he "ate the Lord's Supper with Christians of another communion." The whole matter was published in the secular papers, which were sent to me for review. I gave notice of the affair under the heading, "He Sat at the Wrong Table," in which some general criticisms were offered on the inconsistencies of the Baptist brethren. Brother L. R. Burress, of Jonesboro, Ark., proposes to set me right regarding Baptist teaching and practice. He writes as follows:

A copy of the Gospel Advocate of June 24, 1920, was sent to me by my friend and an esteemed teacher in my youth, Col. H. R. Moore, of Huntland, Tenn. I being a former pupil of his, the paper was sent me to see "Reminiscences" enjoyed by former classmates of himself and Mrs. Moore in their frugal and bounteous home at Huntland. I was present on their nuptial day, and still regard the privilege as an honor conferred by my very excellent teacher. Peace and honors belong to the "wedded pair" and their family. What is said of these "two made one," say unto all: "Go, and do likewise." I now live in Arkansas.

My attention was attracted to the article, "He Sat at the Wrong Table," by F. W. Smith. This may be an eleventh hour to call attention to the article, but the reading shows some things not understood concerning Baptists. "The Baptist Church in Arkansas," as in the New Testament we read, "the churches of Galatia," "the churches of Asia." Baptists claim no State or national or cosmopolitan church. When reference is made to the Baptist Church, a local Baptist church is meant, as the church at Corinth, the church at Philippi. There is fellowship and cooperation between churches of "like faith and order." There is no centralized church revealed in the Scriptures this side of heaven. Our Lord did not give to any one church, nor to all of the churches, the right to make control over each other. New Testament churches fraternize, but do not centralize. They do not legislate, but "meditate upon the things" taught by the holy Book. A man is not crowned, except he strive lawfully. "Now I beseech you, brethren, mark them which cause divisions and offenses contrary to the doctrine which ye have learned; and avoid them." (Rom. 16: 17.) Where there are factions, there can be no unity in faith: and where this is wanting, there can be no eating of the Lord's Supper. Majority rule was given to the churches. That incestuous person was excluded and afterwards restored by the "many," which was by "the majority." (2 Cor. 2: 5, 6.)

Baptists make much of water. They teach that none but new creatures in Christ Jesus can be buried with him in baptism. Without water there can be no baptism. Without a subject there can be no baptism. Without an administrator there can be no baptism. Hence the carefulness of Baptists concerning baptism.

"And if a man also strive for masteries, yet is he not crowned, except he strive lawfully. . . . Consider what I say: and the Lord give thee understanding in all things."

If I know myself, I am always willing to be set right on any matter when convinced that I have been wrong; but the one who does the setting, if it be on a religious matter, must do his work with a plain "Thus saith the Lord." While thanking Brother Burress for his kindly endeavor to set me right, I am compelled to have a little conversation with him before accepting his conclusions.

He says: "'The Baptist Church in Arkansas' should have been 'the Baptist churches in Arkansas,' as in the New Testament we read, 'the churches of Galatia,' 'the churches of Asia." Our brother has appealed to the wrong book for proof concerning "Baptist churches" or even Baptists, for that book is as silent as the grave on the subject of either. But what about "the Baptist Church?" Is there no such thing as a separate and distinct religious body in this country known as Baptists, and to which Baptist papers themselves refer? My information on the subject is gleaned from the practice and literature of the Baptists. For instance, I read in the Baptist Flag of November 4, 1920, the following from J. T. Prior, Mountain View, Cal.: "I ask leave to submit some of those Scriptures which I think declare in terms that are unmistakable that the church which Christ built was his kingdom (Matt, 16: 18), and that all true Baptist churches in the world now compose it." Note the fact that he says "the church which Christ built"—singular, if you please—is made up of "all true Baptist churches." Now, if a church (singular) is made up of Baptist churches, what is the thing, if not the Baptist Church? But again. In the Flag of November 25, 1920, I read a quotation from Francis Wayland, late president of Brown University, as follows: "Jesus Christ left his church [singular] without any general organization, assembly, conference, convention, council, or board to direct either its [singular] government or its work." These are clear and emphatic statements from prominent Baptists that there is such a thing as "the Baptist Church," or a general church, Brother Burress to the contrary notwithstanding. He should set his own brethren right before attending to my case. Paul says: "I persecuted the church of God." (1 Cor. 15: 9.) Now, if he did not refer by the term "church" to a general body, to what did he refer? Was his persecution confined to one congregation? Such would have to be true to fit the theory of my critic; but it is not true. Brother Burress' theory is, the word "church" is used in the New Testament only in a local or congregational sense, and that people were baptized into a local church. Now, Paul says the church of Christ and the body of Christ are one and the same. (See Col. 1: 18-24.) He also says, "There is one body" (Eph. 4: 4); and if this "one body," which is the church, is not a general body, how can our brother account for this statement from Paul, "For in one Spirit were we all baptized into one body," etc. (1 Cor. 12: 13)? Note, will you, that Paul includes himself with the Corinthians by the use of the plural form of the personal pronoun "we," saying "we were all baptized into one body." Will Brother Burress explain how this could be possible without a "general" body, in the light of the fact that Paul was baptized in the city of Damascus, while those to whom he wrote were baptized at Corinth? They were not baptized into the same local church, but were baptized into the same body, which shows most clearly that the "one body" is larger than a

Once more. If "the general assembly and church of the first-born" (Heb. 12: 23) does not refer to a general body, to what does it refer? The author was not writing to a local church, but a general epistle to Christian Jews everywhere and telling them to what they had come-viz., "to the general assembly and church of the first-born."

One or two other things in our brother's communication will be noticed later.

Have You Sent Us a New Subscriber?

We are pleased to be able to report that a goodly number of new subscribers are now being received. While this is true, however, many of our readers have not yet sent us a new subscriber. Our preachers will not overlook the fact. that we are now offering to give to every preacher who will send us new subscribers to the Gospel Advocate twenty per cent discount from our regular subscription rates. This gives forty cents on each widow and preacher and fifty cents on other subscribers. We are also giving a copy of the Teachers' New Testament with notes and helps suitable for Bible-school workers to every old subscriber who will send us two new subscribers to the Gospel Advocate. This is a very valuable book and has been very highly commended by our readers. Of course the notes and comments on the Scriptures should be received with a grain of salt. No human commentator is perfect. There is much valuable information contained in the introduction to each book in the Bible in addition to the comments.

The first paragraph in the introduction to the Gospel according to Matthew is:

The apostle Matthew, also called "Levi the son of Alaeus" (Mark 2: 14: Luke 5: 27-29), was, when called, a publican, or taxgatherer, probably a collector of tolls and custom duties in the traffic across the Sea of Galilee. His office was odious to the Jews, yet the list of the twelve in this Gospel (10: 3) designates him "Matthew the publican." The name Matthew, which was probably adopted in consequence of his new relation to our Lord, is akin to Matthias—that is, "gift of God." His call is narrated in the three Gospels; but while he refers to the feast which Mark and Luke distinctly place at his house, he makes no allusion to that fact. Tradition says he was murdered in Ethiopia, while at prayer; but according to an earlier statement by Cleanat of Alexandric he did a state of the consequence. by Clement of Alexandria, he died a natural death.

A summary of the book of Matthew is as follows:

While the contents of this Gospel may be analyzed as a succession of historical proofs that Jesus is the Messiah promised in the Old Testament, it will facilitate a comparison with the other narratives to divide it into periods.

1. The genealogy, birth, and infancy of Jesus (1, 2). Most of these incidents are peculiar to this Gospel

2. The ministry of John the Baptist; the baptism and temptation of Jesus (3 to 4: 11).

3. The Galilean ministry, until the death of John the Baptist (4: 12 to 13: 53). As already indicated, three important discourses are reported (5-7, 10, 13), the other events being grouped without reference to chronological order.

4. The later Galilean ministry, largely a period of conflict, including several journeys (14-18).

5. The close of the Perean ministry, and the final journey to Jerusalem (19, 20). A period of several months, spent by our Lord in Perea and Jerusalem, is passed over in silence by Matthew and Mark.

6. The final conflicts at Jerusalem (21-25).

7. The Passover, the agony in Gethsemane, the betrayal, the trials before the Jewish rulers and before Pilate, the crucifixion and burial (26, 27).

8. The resurrection, the appearance of the risen Lord, the great commission to preach the gospel. Closing promise (28).

As now is the time to secure new subscribers, let me urge upon each reader to go to work at once to make up a list of subscribers to the paper. Wherever the Advocate is read, its influence is good. It encourages people to stand by the Bible and to be guided in their work and worship by "It is written." While the editors realize that they are weak and fallible, yet they do love the truth and have no desire to teach error, nor to lead the people away from the word of God.

Any one who wishes to take up the work of soliciting subscribers to the paper should write at once to the editor of the Gospel Advocate for a sample copy. If you have already sent us in a number of subscribers, will you not make an effort to send others? If you are among the number who have not sent in a single new subscriber, will you not make an effort to send us at least two new subscribers within the next week?

Query Department

By J. C. McQUIDDY

A brother sends the following inquiries: (1) "What does the Bible mean when it says, 'Owe no man anything?'" (2) "If one steals, does God require him to confess the deed until he gets the money to restore it?"

1. Rom. 13: 8 reads: "Owe no man anything, save to love one another: for he that loveth his neighbor hath fulfilled the law." This means that Christians should discharge their obligations to every man. The church member who makes debts and does not meet them violates this command. Bengel says: "Pay every debt; let nothing remain to any man, save that immortal debt of mutual love which, though fully paid, is still forever due." The meaning of the passage is that we should not involve ourselves beyond our ability to pay.

2. The Bible says: "Let him that stole steal no more." A man should not steal at all; but if he has stolen, he should restore whatever has been stolen and confess his wrongdoing. The confession does not change the fact that he has stolen something; it is still a fact that he stole; but it wipes out the sin that he committed. It places the transgressor in a safe and approved state before God.

* * *

J. P. Brackeen, of Athens, Ala., requests that we explain John 6: 51-57. This passage reads: "I am the living bread which came down out of heaven: if any man eat of this bread, he shall live forever: yea and the bread which I will give is my flesh, for the life of the world. The Jews therefore strove one with another, saying, How can this man give us his flesh to eat? Jesus therefore said unto them, Verily, verily, I say unto you, Except ye eat the fiesh of the Son of man and drink his blood, ye have not life in yourselves. He that eateth my flesh and drinketh my blood hath eternal life; and I will raise him up at the last day. For my flesh is meat indeed, and my blood is drink indeed. He that eateth my flesh and drinketh my blood abideth in me, and I in him. As the living Father sent me, and I live because of the Father; so he that eateth me, he also shall live because of me"

Of course we do not literally eat the body of Christ. When we partake of the Lord's Supper, we eat the bread that represents the body of Christ and we drink the fruit of the vine which represents the shed blood of Christ. Whosoever has faith and trust in the death of Christ and is baptized into the death of Christ spiritually partakes of the body and blood of Christ. So does he also who takes in loving remembrance of Christ the emblems, the bread and the wine, which represent his body and blood.

* * *

W. R. Cox, of Remmel, Ark., wishes an explanation of Rom. 2: 14, 15. He says: "Do you think it teaches that the moral man who has never had an opportunity to hear the gospel will be saved, or does it refer to the Gentiles' keeping the Mosaic law before the Christian era?" The passage reads: "For when Gentiles that have not the law do by nature the things of the law, these, not having the law, are the law unto themselves; in that they show the work of the law written in their hearts, their conscience bearing witness therewith, and their thoughts one with another accusing or else excusing them."

The Gentiles had no revelation such as had the Jews. They had a law of nature, as is evident from Rom. 1: 18-32. Paul shows how the general principle that God will render to every man according to his works applies to the Jews.

The Jews will be judged by the Mosaic law, and only those who obey the law will be justified. He then shows that the same principle applies to the Gentiles. While they did not have the law of Moses like the Jews, yet if, without having the law and knowing the law, they should keep the things contained in it, the moral principles of the law of Moses, they are a law unto themselves. The apostle does not teach that this was the rule among the Gentiles, but applies the principle to the very rare instances of Gentiles of pure character. This shows that such Gentiles, not having the law of Moses, are a law unto themselves, for they show forth in their lives that they had the law written in their hearts.

0 0 0

G. C. Mayo, of Milan, Tenn., (1) writes for information on the parable of the tares. He says: "Some take the position that if the church and the kingdom mean the same thing, the tares were in the church, and quote Matt. 13: 41 to prove-it." (2) He also asks: "Are these words found in the Bible together: 'Blessed are the peacemakers, cursed are the peacebreakers?'"

(1) In the interpretation of a parable, we should be careful not to stress figures. Christ has given the interpretation of the parable of the tares, and with that interpretation we should be content. He tells us very plainly that the field in which the tares were sown is the world. Then this settles the question beyond a doubt that the tares are not in the church, but in the world. All the unsaved or unregenerate are the children of the devil and are in the world; all the saved, or Christians, are in the church. This is the Savior's own teaching, and by our theories and philosophizing we must not get away from it. No matter what we think or what may appear to be so, it is nevertheless true that the tares are in the field, or the world, not in the church. But the querist tells us that Matt. 13: 41is quoted to prove that the tares are in the church because the church and the kingdom are the same. If this conclusion be correct, then the Savior was mistaken. The passage reads: "The Son of man shall send forth his angels, and they shall gather out of his kingdom all things that cause stumbling, and them that do iniquity." The Savior has already told us that the tares are in the world, and not in the church. He has also told us that the tares shall be burned with fire. This shall be in the end of the world, or the age. After Christ's death and resurrection he had all authority both in heaven and on earth. "And Jesus came to them and spake unto them, saying, All authority hath been given unto me in heaven and on earth," (Matt. 28: 18.) In a sense, God ruleth over all. "Jehovah hath established his throne in the heavens; and his kingdom ruleth over all." (Ps. 103: 19.) The church, or kingdom of heaven, which Christ came to establish, embraces all the saved, and not the tares, or the wicked, which were to be gathered out of his kingdom. (2) The words, "Blessed are the peacemakers, cursed are the peacebreakers," are not found in the Bible.

We must approach the fundamental problems of life, which are always the spiritual ones, first on our knees and to the spirit of complete surrender; then, and only then, shall we be secure and safe against offering the choice fruit of our life on the altar of gain; then, and only then, shall we be strong enough to resist the temptation to bow down to gold as our hope, and to silver as our confidence.—Henry Lowndes Drew.

II AT HOME AND ABROAD

- E. A. Elam preached at Union last Lord's day.
- T. C. Fox preached at Cedar Dell at eleven o'clock last Sunday,
- J. W. Dickson preached twice at Grandview Heights last Sunday.
- L. L. Yeagley preached at both services Sunday at Eleventh Street.
- A. S. Derryberry occupied the pulpit at Pilcher Avenue twice last Lord's day.
- F. B. Srygley preached twice at the Belmont Avenue Church last Lord's day.
- J. Leonard Jackson occupied the pulpit twice on Sunday at Lindsley Avenue Church.
- S. I. Jones was at Green Hill last Sunday and preached at the eleven-o'clock service.

Russell King preached at the eleven-o'clock service Sunday at Chapel Avenue Church.

Mitchell Pullias preached at the eleven-o'clock service at Bellbuckle, Tenn., last Sunday.

- H. S. Lipscomb preached morning and evening last Sunday at David Lipscomb College.
- J. W. Beasley preached at the eleven-o'clock service last Lord's day at Joseph Avenue Church.

James E. Scobey preached morning and evening at the Lawrence Avenue Church last Sunday.

On last Lord's day C. E. W. Dorris visited the Rothchild Avenue congregation and preached twice.

Last Lord's day E. G. Cullum instructed the congregation worshiping on Fifth Street by preaching twice.

J. J. Reynolds, of David Lipscomb College, preached morning and evening at Eighth Avenue, North, last Lord's day.

Brother and Sister Holland, of Dickson, Tenn., paid us a brief visit on Monday. We are always glad to have friends of past days come to see us.

- E. L. Pearson preached at Philippi, Maury County, Tenn., last Lord's day. He reports that he is doing well at Cedar Hill, where he is now residing.
- J. W. Grant was at Reid Avenue Church for his monthly appointment last Lord's day. The attendance was hardly up to the normal, and rather tardy.
- A. B. Lipscomb preached twice last Lord's day at the Russell Street Church. One made the confession, one came from the Methodists, and one took membership.

Mr. George Haynes and Miss Myrtle Richardson, of Ashland City, Tenn., were united in matrimony on Wednesday, December 15, C. E. W. Dorris performing the ceremony.

We are offering a Teachers' New Testament to every one of our old subscribers who sends us two new subscribers to the Gospel Advocate. Don't overlook this opportunity.

James E. Scobey is expected to preach at Donelson on the fourth Lord's day in this month, and is announced to preach at the David Lipseomb College on the first Lord's day next year.

W. A. Austen, of Scott's Hill, Tenn., has our sincere sympathy in the illness of his daughter, Maida, who is at present in a local infirmary. We trust that her recovery will be speedy.

We enjoyed a visit last Saturday from Brother and Sister Oury Harris, of Dickson, Tenn. They reported the church as very much pleased with E. P. Watson, who is preaching for the church at that place.

Change of address: C. A. Buchanan, from Handley, Texas, to 405 Wilson Avenue, Cleburne, Texas; Charles F. Swain, from Parsons to Burlington, Kan., M. K. T. Depot; Foy E. Wallace, Jr., from Temple, to Vernon, Texas.

The management of the Gospel Advocate extends the sincere hope that this will indeed be a happy Christmas for you. At this glad season may the spirit of "Peace on earth, good will toward men," fill your heart, and may you enter the New Year with a prayer of thanksgiving!

Several years ago Will J. Cullum, who is an able preacher, took secular work on the road and gave up preaching. He is now doing secular work here in the city, and is open for preaching work, both for Lord's days and for meetings. His address is Arcade Station, Nashville, Tenn.

J. H. Murrell and wife, of Rogers, Ark., have our most sincere sympathy in their affliction. Under date of December 14, he says: "Since the twins came, November 24, Mrs. Murrell's condition has been critical. Prospects are a little more hopeful, but none too bright yet. Pray for us."

Our readers will please remember that this is the last issue of the Gospel Advocate for 1920. This completes the volume of fifty-two issues. As there are fifty-three Thursdays in this year, there will be no paper next week, but the paper will appear as usual on the first week in January.

Herbert E. Winkler, who has just returned home from Springfield, Mo., where he held a meeting including four Lord's days, which resulted in two baptisms, one taking membership from the Christian Church, and six others taking membership, paid us a call recently. Interest throughout the meeting was good.

From Leslie G. Thomas, Flint, Mich., December 13: "We enjoyed two good meetings here yesterday. There is no better time than now to live the Christian life and preach the gospel to those who know it not. We are having two meetings on Lord's days and two during the week. The more the brethren know, the more they will do."

- C. M. Pullias, of Birmingham, Ala., called to see us on his return home from Hartsville, Tenn., where he had been to attend the funeral of his brother, which was conducted by F. W. Smith. We were glad to see Brother Pullias, and want him to know that he has the deep sympathy of the cutire force of the Gospel Advocate in the death of his brother.
- F. J. Rogers, of Jackson, Tenn., called to see us on his return from South Pittsburg, Tenn., where he preached on Lord's day, morning and night. Arrangements have practically been completed for him to begin work with the South Pittsburg church on the first of January. We shall expect good work from him in that territory. Correspondents are requested to note change of address.

From W. S. Long, Washington, D. C., December 12: "Our services were well attended to-day and the interest good. One young man made the good confession and was baptized into the one body, and one sister took membership. The new house stands at Fourteenth and Meridian Place, N. W. Take Fourteenth and Decatur, Fourteenth and Colorado, or Takoma Park car. Fifteeen minutes from the heart of the city. Welcome to all."

- B. W. Davis, of Ashland City, Tenn., paid us a pleasant call on Monday. On the first and second Lord's days in this month he preached at the Cowart Street Church, in Chattanooga, Tenn., later spending a week in Cleveland, Tenn., where he preached three nights. While in Cleveland he visited George W. Farmer, who is doing an excellent work in the church there. Brother Davis reports the work at Ashland City doing well.
- G. E. Claus, of Savannah, Ga., spent several days in the city last week visiting the churches in the interest of the work at Savannah. The brethren there are trying to raise funds to purchase a house that will cost them nine thousand dollars. There are about forty brethren, as I now recall, in Savannah. They think they can raise four thousand of the nine thousand dollars, and are calling on the churches elsewhere to raise the remaining five thousand dollars.
- R. J. Hastings, of New Market. Ala., reports four hundred and eleven dollars and ten cents contributed by brethren, sisters, congregations, and friends for helping to build a meetinghouse four miles west of New Market. He says: "I gladly and gratefully acknowledge the liberal contributions received from our brethren, sisters, and friends. We still need about three hundred and fifty dollars on our building. We would appreciate a contribution from any of the brethren and sisters."
- A. McLean is dead. For thirty-five years he was president of the Foreign Christian Missionary Society; later he was vice president of the United Christian Missionary Society. While the Gospel Advocate has never been an advocate of society work, yet it does advocate missions, and rejoices in all that he has done. Those who love the truth should take courage and press forward with renewed determination, realizing that others must rise up to take the place of those who are passing over.

From W. F. Lemmons, Somerville, Texas, December 13: "I have just begun the work at this place, and find the cause weak. I will preach all this week, and after that time I can begin to estimate our needs and plan for the future work. I hope to be able to build up the cause. We are using the Presbyterian church house, and they are very nice to us, all of which we appreciate. I would like to correspond with other places near here. I expect to be here until time to begin my protracted-meeting work next spring."

S. B. Talley, of Lebanon, Tenn., died last Monday morning at four o'clock. He was seventy-nine years old, and had been an active, faithful Christian for many years. His family and relatives have our heartfelt sympathy in his death. However, when men who are ripe in years and who have been faithful in the service of the Lord depart from the body to be present with Christ, we should not mourn as those who have no hope. In reality, they simply pass from the trials of this life into the glories and bliss of heaven.

W. W. Bates preached his last sermon of the year's engagement to the Twelfth Avenue congregation, this city, last Sunday morning. During the past two years, once a month, he has preached some very helpful sermons, and it is believed much good has been done; and while the congregation regrets that he will not be with them next year, the prayers of the church go with him in his new field of labor. J. Porter Sanders will preach there next Lord's day. The Bible-school work at that place continues to be interesting, with a steadily increasing attendance. There were three hundred and four present last Sunday.

From Foy E. Wallace, Jr., Vernon, Texas: "My meeting at Abilene Christian College, Abilene, Texas, was a great thing. More than four hundred students attended day and night, and many from town and country. Forty-one were baptized. Many others, including some of our fine boys that went astray during the war, came back home to God. The number from all sources totals seventy-five or more, G. A. Klingman was a great help and inspiration to me in the meeting. He is a great man, and Abilene has a great church and a great school led by great men. I am a better man and a more devout Christian by having been with them in this meeting."

From W. D. Black, Holdenville, Okla., December 14: "Last Sunday was a good day with us here. Excellent attendance at both morning and evening services. Good interest manifested in Bible study. One restored to the felewship on Sunday night. We had services again last night, and a splendid crowd greeted us for Monday night. As we will have some visiting preachers with us this week, we decided to run the meeting on till next Sunday night. We are encouraged to think that this little meeting with home forces will do some good. Let us hope and pray and work to that end. Brethren, pray for us that we may be enabled by diligent work to build up the cause of our Redeemer in Holdenville."

T. S. Bain writes from Muskogee, Okla., December 13; "The services at East Okmulgee Avenue Church yesterday were well attended. W. M. Thompson, of Roff, Okla., was to be with us, but on account of ill health was not able to be here. J. H. Gawf preached at the morning service and the writer preached at night. Two more placed membership at night. We are now planning for a series of ten special sermons to be delivered by A. M. Foster, now of New Mexico, beginning on January 23. We expect several preachers here to hear these sermons. The subjects will be announced later. I will go Haskell, Okla., for the third Sunday. I am getting out a small booklet, 'What the Devil Wants a Christian to Do.'"

In this issue of the Gospel Advocate we are inclosing renewal blanks to all our subscribers. We are sending them in the hope that each subscriber will send us not only his renewal, but also at least one new subscriber, if not more. We are asking our readers to remember that the blank paper on which the Gospel Advocate is now printed is costing about four times as much as it did in normal times; besides, wages are almost double. The subscription price of the paper has been advanced only one dollar, which is nothing like the ratio of advance in labor and cost of paper. We earnestly request every old subscriber to remain with us in the present crisis and to do all that he can to extend the circulation of the paper. Help now will be doubly appreciated.

The truth has lost an able exponent in the death of D. R. Dungan, who passed to his reward on the night of December 10 while at the supper table visiting friends. He had been unusually well the past three months. He was a well-known educator, having been president of Cotner University, Christian University, and Drake University. As a debater, he held thirty-seven discussions, delivering nine hundred and sixty-three speeches. As author, he sent forth a number of books. "On the Rock" is possibly his ablest book, and has had the widest circulation of any of his books. Many editions of this book have been sold, and it is still having a good sale. We who are left behind should be concerned about our ability to continue the work which has been so ably propagated by the pioneers who are passing to their reward.

From Will W. Slater, Fort Smith, Ark., December 14: "It was my pleasure to attend the preachers' meeting at Madill, Okla., last week. To say that it was a success is only a mild way of expressing it. Time and space forbid going into details, but I must say that all who attended expressed themselves as being greatly benefited, and all seemed to be of the same mind—that is, that if all preachers and elders throughout the country could and would attend such meetings the workings of the church would be revolutionized and we could soon convert the world and take the country for Christ and his church. We are still working and planning for the greatest meeting of the kind ever held in the South, which is to begin at Fort Smith on December 28 and continue four days. It has been next to impossible for me to write each preacher brother personally, but I have invited one and all through the papers to come and be with us. This will be the last notice. Brethren, you will miss a great treat if you fail to attend. It means something to you and to the church at large. Homes will be prepared for all. Come."

J. F. Neece writes from Fort Smith, Ark., December 12: "The church of Christ at South Seventeenth Street and Dodson Avenue enjoyed two good services last Lord's day (December 5). W. G. Tucker, of Green Forest, Ark., preached for us both morning and night, and gave us two excellent lessons. We had appreciative audiences at both services, and all enjoyed having Brother Tucker with us again. He was on his way to Judsonia, Ark, to meet Ben. M. Bogard in a few-days' debate. Our minister, John Q. Russell, who has been with us the last six and a half years, has moved to Western Colorado to do mission work. He is a faithful and fearless defender of the Book just as 'it is written,' without the additions and organizations of men to do the work of the Lord; and knowing his loyalty as we do, we are planning to fellowship him in his work in Colo-We are always glad to have visiting brethren and sisters worship with us, and strangers in the city will find a glad welcome at our services. Take the Park Hill car, get off at South Seventeenth Street, walk south three Take the Park Hill car, blocks to Dodson Avenue; or take the South Fort Smith car, get off at Dodson Avenue, and walk east four blocks to Seventeenth Street.'

George A. Klingman submits the following report of "a glorious meeting" held in Abliene, Texas: "Foy E. Wallace, Jr., has just closed an eight-days' meeting with the congregation worshiping in the chapel of Abilene Christian College. It was an unusual meeting. Forty-one persons confessed their faith in Jesus as the Christ and put him on Forty-one persons in baptism; many of the very best young men and women in the congregation reconsecrated their lives and asked for the prayers of the church; quite a number confessed their sins and asked to be restored, among them several young men who had been 'overseas;' and others who have recently moved to Abilene were introduced as members of the body of Christ-in all, about seventy-five souls. Brother Wallace preached every evening and every morning (except Monday). Five of the morning meetings were while the students of the college were assembled for chapel Many of the confessions were made at these services. morning meetings; and each day we were taken up on the mount of transfiguration, and longed, like Peter, to remain there. Brother Wallace is still a young man, though he has been preaching for nine years. He held his first meeting when only fourteen. The Lord has blessed him abundantly with rare gifts for public speaking; he has studied the Bible carefully, and presents the simple gospel message in a very attractive and pleasing manner, not shunning to declare 'the whole counsel of God;' he has a distinct message, based on a strong conviction in God and his holy word; his appeals to the unconverted are irre-sistible. The song service was conducted by W. H. Free, H. Free, he 'sweet and those who heard the large audiences sing the sengs of Zion can never forget them. The Lord is wonderfully blessing the church at this place. More than one hundred and fifty have been added since September, making a membership of nearly five hundred."

Home Reading

In Charlie's Pocket.

"What's in your pocket, Charlie?" I asked.
"O, nothing much," he stated.
That night I sewed a button on,
And just investigated.

I turned the pocket inside out—
It scarcely took a minute—
You'll think I'm joking, I've no doubt,
But this is what was in it:

A top, a handkerchief in rags, Some marbles and a whistle, A pencil and two paper bags, Some chalk and a toy pistol;

Five nails, a screw, a hammer head, Two candles stuck together, Some cigar bands, a bit of lead, Some scraps of soiled leather;

A cookie—stale, no longer round— A knife, an old brass locket— This is the "nothing much" I found In Charlie Porges' pocket.

-Veni McDonald Porges.

0 0 0

The Aftermath.

BY CLARA COX EPPERSON.

A little cedar tree grew up by the side of the mother tree, sheltered by her protecting branches from the cold winds, the sleet and the snow of winter; and the scorching heat of summer could not reach and shrivel its crisp, green leaves.

Protected thus by its mother's sheltering branches, the little tree was untouched by blight or evil, and it grew in strength and perfect beauty until it was considered the lovellest tree in all the forest of beautiful trees.

When the Christmas time drew near, men came with cruel axes on their shoulders, and of all the beautiful trees in the forest the perfect little tree was chosen to be cut down, and the mother tree was left lonely and sad.

Later the little tree stood in a church all lighted and decorated, and toys and dolls were hung upon its branches and piled beneath its lovely limbs. Around it the children sang, and the glad music reverberated through the building and was carried by the breezes to the birds of the forest, who also took up the song as one thrilling echo of "Peace on earth, good will to men," and glorious joy to the world.

Still later the little tree stood alone in the darkened church. The sound of the music had died away; the happy children had gone to their homes ladened with toys and dolls and beautiful gifts; the lights had been one by one turned out; and only the little, lonely tree was left to shiver and shake in the dark and long to be back with its comrades in the forest, beneath its mother's sheltering branches. And in the morning the little tree was cast out to wither and die.

A little child grew up by his mother's side, protected from the hurts and sorrows and evils of the world. Taught of all things good and true and beautiful, growing in strength, knowledge, and perfection day by day, until when his mother took him to the temple of the wise men he confounded them with his wisdom, though but still a little boy.

Later we see him at the marriage in Cana of Galllee, turning the water into wine for the wedding feast, while the admiring crowd applauded and wondered; and his mother remained without—alone,

Still later on the cross was his beautiful body suspended, a Savior crucified for the salvation of the world that knew him not, while his mother and John, the beloved disciple, wept beneath its shadow.

And then the body, removed from the cruel cross, was cast into the darkness and chill of the tomb, alone, forgotten by the gay world passing by, to whom he had come to bring good gifts.

But the morning of the third day the sun of heaven shone upon his arisen spirit, and peace and joy and good will was proclaimed upon the earth forever; for the spirit of the Savior of the world, redeemed from death and the grave, ascended into the heavens to plead forever for the redemption of mankind.

0 0 0

Jesus Only-An Indian Chief's Story.

There once came a preacher who wished to show us that there is a God. We answered: "Do you think we don't know that? Go back where you came from,"

Another came and said: "You must not steal, you must not get drunk, you must not lie." We answered: "You fool! Do you think we don't know that? Teach that first to the people you belong to. For who drink and lie and steal more than your own nation?"

After that came Christian Henry Ranch to my hut and said: "The Lord in heaven bids me say he will make you blessed and deliver you from your misery; for this purpose he became man and shed his own blood." As soon as he had done speaking he lay down quietly by my bow and tomahawk and slept as sweetly as a child. "Ah," I thought, "what a man that is! I could strike him dead, but he has no fear." I could not forget his words. I dreamed in my sleep of the blood of Christ shed for me. Thus through God's grace the awakening among us began. Therefore, I say: "Brethren, preach Christ our Savior and his sufferings, if you would find an entrance among the heathen."

The above incident occurred in 1740. The story is told by Tschoop, a great red Indian chief,—Selected.

o o o Hypoerisy.

Somewhere I have read of a civic celebration held in Paris in the days before the Pan-European conflict rendered such festivities inadvisable. It was in early winter, so there were naturally no leaves or blossoms on the trees, but the ingenuity of man came to the rescue and imitation leaves and foliage were attached to every tree. Everywhere throughout the city, and along the Champs Elysees, one could see hundreds of bushes and trees seemingly in full bloom.

Here is a vivid picture of the hypocrite. With him it is always winter, but he pretends to possess the warmth of religious life and masquerade in flowers not his own. An external view would show the foliage of a well-ordered Christian life; while God, who sees and knows our innermost thoughts, knows it is but sham.—Alan Pressley Wilson.

The religion of Christ is, after all, shown to be a divinely natural religion. It is the love of God and the love of man—a love not conditioned by chances of time or place, but universal, good for the Gentile as well as for the Jew—nay, more, specially good for the Gentile, because he appeared more ready to absorb and to distribute it.—Haweis.

0 0 0

He watches for Christ who is awake, alive, quick-sighted; zealous in seeking and knowing him; who would not be surprised, would not be overwhelmed, if he found that he was coming at once.—Dr. Newman.

MISCELLANY

From J. P. White, Florence, Ala., December 6: "Please allow me to say that I heartily indorse the stand you have taken on woman suffrage and all the other matters that have been discussed since I have been a reader of your paper. Neither do I consider all the discussions 'wrangling,' as some seem to do. If we all would study the Word diligently, the second coming of Christ need not disturb us in the least. Long live the Gospel Advocate to 'earnestly contend for the faith which was once for all delivered unto the saints!"

10

Many brethren and sisters will read with interest the following note from R. E. L. Taylor, of Decherd, Tenn., sent under date of December 13: "My wife is improving very fast, and, if she continues to improve, will soon be up and about again. She has been down more than six weeks. I have been here with her all the time until yesterday, when I went down and preached for the Wartrace congregation. I found some good, loyal brethren and sisters there. This was my first visit to them, and I certainly enjoyed it. This is the home of George Thoroughgood. Brother and Sister Thoroughgood are wide-awake Christians, always ready to do something for the Master's cause. If the Lord wills, we will soon be on our way to the sunny South for the winter months. The amount contributed to me since my wife has been sick is eighty-five dollars. We feel very thankful to all who have thus remembered us during wife's long spell of sickness."

30

J. W. Vandivier, Bolivar, Pa., says: "I have been reading the Gospel Advocate with much interest. Through its columns I have been made acquainted with the divisive work that is being carried on in the West. The same men have crippled the work of the Master in the Eastern States, making their opinions tests of fellowship. Shame on such men! When will the disciples learn the difference between truth and error and cease to be carried about with every wind of doctrine? How long will it take the disciples of Christ to discern what the unity of the Spirit is, so that we may all strive together for the things that make for peace? However, we may always be troubled with wicked and unreasonable men; men who love the preëminence; men who will regard no law, whether human or divine; men who have grown up in insubordination from childhood, who despise government; men who will not recognize discipline; men who will rule or ruin. We still have them here and there."

ø

A. O. Colley, Dallas, Texas, writes as follows: "On December 6 I was called to Thorp Spring to assist the local forces in a series of meetings which was announced to continue only seven days. The church there is composed of the teachers and students of Thorp Spring Christian College and the citizens who are there, as a rule, for the benefit of the school. There had been no previous announcement or elaborate preparation, but all things were ready. President A. R. Holton and his able body of teachers were pretty well organized for the meeting. They seem to stay organized for the great work of molding character. It was a great pleasure to be among those fine boys and girls. I not only enjoyed preaching to them, but had the pleasure of many pleasant talks with them. I ate with them—that is, in the same dining hall. I enjoyed this very much, they were all so orderly, and all seemed to enjoy the good things that were daily prepared for them. Some fine young men who are anxious to preach the gospel go out in the surrounding country each Sunday. One young man walked fourteen miles to get to preach at a schoolhouse the Sunday I was there. There were many good men, boys, and girls who had been 'in the faith,' but had become discouraged and had left their 'first love,' who were induced to come back to duty. Many of them had moved there from different parts of the country. There were thirteen restorations and sixteen baptisms."

2

C. D. Crouch, Wellington, Texas, reports a good meeting held by a good preacher and makes some interesting comment in connection therewith. He writes: "T. W. Phillips, of Fort Worth, Texas, began a series of meetings with the church at Wellington on December 1 and closed it on December 12. Five persons were baptized. However, it is not this that I wish to speak of especially, but I desire to mention some things that have more than a local significance. After the meeting had been planned and announced, there was a very strong sentiment in favor of calling it off. The depressed conditions of this country have hit the Panhandle country of Texas as hard as, if not harder than, any other part of the country, and, in view of such a situation, it was thought by some entirely out of the question to have a meeting now; but better judgment prevailed and the meeting was conducted as scheduled. The church was vastly benefited, and the real success of the meeting lies not in the fact that five persons were baptized, but that the church was prepared spiritually to assimilate the new members and maintain its spirituality through the present crisis. Churches should never call off a meeting because of such crises. In fact, it is more necessary to have the meeting. I have known T. W. Phillips for several years, but I learned to appreciate him more than ever during his sojourn with us. He is a splendid preacher and a clean character. He has a happy faculty of reaching the hearts of the people with the gospel message."

X

From M. C. Cayce, Jackson, Miss., December 11: "Our work in Jackson is encouraging. Eight men and three ladies attended our prayer meeting last Thursday night, and all seemed interested. A young brother, Roy Vaughn, preached for us last Sunday. The attendance and interest preached for us last Sunday. The attendance and interest were good both morning and night, and two new pupils entered the ten-o'clock Bible study. Having received sev-eral requests to come to Vicksburg and encourage the faithful few, I went there last Saturday and preached for them Sunday, morning and night. My growing conviction was deepened that more workers are needed in this State. I was informed that they have a membership there of about twenty-five, who meet in the Odd Fellows' Hall for worship on Sunday mornings, and have been having services Sunday night in a small vacant store in the suburbs. The cause was planted there about thirty years ago. Something like twenty years ago J. W. Shepherd held a meeting for them, after which Gus Dunn held two or three tent meetings, the last one about ten years ago. Since that time no protracted meeting had been held there until last month Brother Shanks preached for a week at night in the vacant store, with a small attendance. The material is there to build up the congregation, if aroused to the work. The few brethren can all lead in the services. J. Lee Black, John H. Thompson, and Henry Osborne preach. J. W. Short and Fred Havner also take a leading part. Brother Black attended the Nashville Bible School in 1897 and 1898. and taught school a long time. I enjoyed the hospitality I am to go there with our tent of his home while there. when spring weather comes, and join them in a united effort to do something for strengthening and building up the body. The hall they meet in is on the third floor in the business district, and outsiders do not find them. the morning service about thirty were present (including children), eighteen of whom communed. The attendance in children). eighteen of whom communed. the storehouse at night was considerably better. It is easily seen that what is needed is a spiritual awakening and enthusiasm created and a zealous work undertaken by them to teach and to save. Let us help them to that end. I endeavored to impress upon them the importance of activity, and that to be saved we must help save, and to go to heaven we must take others with us; also, that we can be lost for not doing, and that we cannot afford to sleep on our opportunities. Twenty miles northeast of Vicksburg In the country, six miles from a little station on the Yazoo Twenty miles northeast of Vicksburg and Mississippi Valley Railroad, we have another congregation that began about twenty or twenty-five years ago. called 'Oak Ridge,' which I am told is about like Vicksburg—at a standstill—only a few who meet, and scarcely ever have any preaching. These two are all there are in Warren County. Let me repeat, the harvest is indeed plenteous and the laborers are few. My humble prayer is that our faith may be stronger, our sacrifice greater, our patience and perseverance strengthened until spiritual conditions are changed. Why not? Pray for me and for this

CURRENT THOUGHT

Adoration.

I will extol thee, my God, O King; And I will bless thy name forever and ever. Every day will I bless thee; And I will praise thy name forever and ever. Great is Jehovah, and greatly to be praised; And his greatness is unsearchable. One generation shall laud thy works to another, And shall declare thy mighty acts. Of the glorious majesty of thine honor, And of thy wondrous works, will I meditate. And men shall speak of the might of thy acts; And I will declare thy greatness. They shall utter the memory of thy great goodness, And shall sing of thy righteousness. Jehovah is gracious, and merciful; Slow to anger, and of great loving-kindness. Jehovah is good to all; And his tender mercies are over all his works. Christian Index. 145: 1-10.)

We should always adore the Lord for his goodness to us. As this is the last issue for the year and as the year's work is so rapidly drawing to a close, we should reflect seriously on the work of the past. Of course all the tears that we may shed and all the resolutions we may make will not alter the work that is already done. There is no earthly power that can now relieve the suffering of the damned. If we never make resolutions, however, to do better and more efficient work for the Master, we certainly will not do it. As we take an introspection and review the past, we should determine to improve by correcting the mistakes and by laboring more earnestly and efficiently in the church than in the past.

The management of this paper does not claim to have made no mistakes, but it has been honest in any mistakes that may have been made. In all our efforts we have sought above everything else to be true to God and to his word. It has been our effort to oppose all error, regardless of the censure or praise of our fellow creatures. We have believed that our first duty was to God and not to men. As the writer has been laboring at the same work and has been publishing the Gospel Advocate for thirty-six years, he realizes that soon he must give up the active work to some younger and more vigorous man. As the years have come and gone he has realized more and more that this world is not our permanent home and that we cannot have here the bliss for which we all sigh. He has realized more and more that the applause of the world is worthless and that the only approval that is worth seeking is the approval of Jehovah. He fully realizes how little has been accomplished. He lacks much of having attained the goal that he had set for himself to reach; but, with the realization of all his failures, his determination to be true to God and to what he believes God would have him do, regardless of the criticisms of men, has grown stronger and stronger.

The maragement earnestly requests the hearty cooperation of the readers of the Gospel Advocate during the year 1921. As we say good-by to our readers for the year 1920, we do so with love for the truth and with malice toward none. We are afraid to harbor malice in our hearts, knowing that hatred in the heart will likely break out in some vicious act. May God help us all, as the years come and go, to grow purer and nobler until the Master sees fit to call us from this world of toil to that home of joy and happiness where the eternal years will be spent with the purest and best of all the ages!

0 0 0

Dangers of Overcooking.

Scurvy may be contracted by eating overcooked vegetables, as well as by omitting vegetables altogether from the diet. In April, 1919, there was an outbreak of scurvy in the children's clinic of Vienna University, forty out of sixty-four inmates being affected. Harriette Clieck and Elsie

J. Dalyell, in a report to the Medical Research Council, London, state that the diet of the children was correct both in quantity and in quality; and they attribute the outbreak entirely to the overcooking of the vegetables. They say in their report, as printed in the British Medical Journal:

"The explanation seems to lie in the method of cooking; this process destroys the antiscorbutic vitamin in propor tion to the time and temperature of heating. The time of cooking is in general more important than the temperature, and it has been shown that quick heating at 100° C. entails less destruction than prolonged simmering at 70° to 90° C. Outbreaks of scurvy in which excessive cooking of the vegetable ration has been considered an important contributory cause have been already placed on record. By the kindness of Prof. V. Pirquet, and with the help of the sister in charge of the kitchen, we were enabled to study the methods of cooking employed in the kitchen of the Kinderklinik. In cooking for institutions, where large numbers of people are concerned and large quantities of food have to be manipulated, the time taken in cooking must of necessity be much longer than is the case in small In Vienna, moreover, the usual method of preparing vegetables involves two separate cooking processes: they are first boiled till soft, and afterwards cooked again before serving, in an Einbrenn made from flour and fat. This double cooking involves a twofold destruction of antiscorbutic vitamin. Similar methods of cooking vegeta-bles have been employed in the kitchen of the Kinderklinik. Even potatoes are frequently cooked twice—first boiled or cooked in steam at 100° C., then sliced and cooked again with fried fat and onions. In the making of soups the root vegetables, tomatoes, green vegetables, etc., are subjected to a temperature of 90° to 100° C. for as long as three to four hours as a general rule. Following such methods of cooking, the loss of antiscorbutic value must be very extensive, if not almost complete. It is probable, therefore, that during the period (September, 1918, to February, 1919) when an adequate amount of fresh vegetables was provided, the diet, nevertheless, was a scurvy-producing one, due to loss of antiscorbutic vitamin during the cooking. The conditions as regards scurvy were apparently less satisfactory in hospital than among the general population. Among the Among the latter there was certainly no general outbreak of scurvy. and the children who had been but a short time in hospital were less disposed to develop the disease when the acute shortage of antiscorbutic came than those who had been in longer. The presumption is that during the six months or so preceding the outbreak the general population were getting more antiscorbutic than these hospital patients."

The above from the Literary Digest we cheerfully give to our readers. Good cooks are essential to the health and happiness of the human family. If we can get our cooks to realize that bad cooks are responsible for diseases, it may be that they will take more interest in their cooking.

0 0 0

Lawlessness.

The worst of all dangers in any nation is lawlessness among those appointed to see that the laws are enforced. It is a condition that no nation can endure very long without going onto the rocks. At present Philadelphia is in the public eye on account of its attitude toward the law. There was a fight over the question of Sunday baseball. It was carried to court by the contending parties, and the court rendered a decision forbidding Sunday baseball in Central Park; but the sheriff and other officers refused to interfere with the game there, and so one was played notwithstanding the court's order. Those officers should be dealt with as traitors, for such they are. If the spirit of lawlessness is not eradicated in this country, serious times are ahead for us all.—Christian-Evangelist.

Lawlessness of all kinds should be discouraged. Disobedience to the government is bad; disobedience to God is worse. So long as our citizens are law-abiding, the nation will prosper. If the law of the land discourages Sunday baseball and gambling, the law should be obeyed. Simply because some people have no respect for law and order and are bent on having their own way is no reason why the law should not be executed. Any sheriff who fails to execute the law is not fit for his position. If every one must agree with the fitness of a law before obeying it, then very few laws will be obeyed. If a spirit of lawlessness prevails, our country is headed in the wrong direction. Obedience should be inculcated in the home, in the church, and in the State.

YOUR RHEUMATISM

Remove Its Cause by Purifying Your Blood.

One of the most important duties of your system is to burn up certain substances no longer of use in your body. One is uric acid, now generally held to be the cause of rheumatism. It inflames the joints, stiffens the muscles, causes pains, aches, and lameness.

The system is believed to dispace aches, and lameness.

The system is helped to dispose of this troublesome substance, and rhoumatism is permanently relieved, by Hood's Sarsaparilla, the one true blood purifier. It is aided in many cases by Hood's Pills, which in small doses are a gentile laxative, in larger doses an active cathartic, A grand course of treatment, economical and effective.

The Romantic Story of Southland's Favorite Shoe, EzWear

Some five years ago, a prominent citizen of South Carolina, visiting New York on important business, chanced to meet the maker of a shoe built on new and unusual lines; an enthusiastic admirer of its most distinctive features, ease and comfort, had suggested the name "EzWear;" it was promptly adopted. The business man from the South, knowing how welcome such a shoe would be in his part of the country, orged that its remarkable qualities, includ ing not only comfort, but style, durability, and economy, be made known there. That this has been done effectively is proven by the enormous demand that has sprung up in the South for EzWear Shees. that its sale there during the last twelve months has increased fully three hundred The distributor, Mr. J. R. Simon, per cent. of 1589 Broadway, Brooklyn, N. Y., says that all who wish to know about a shoe that combines all worth-while shoe qualities may have a copy of his money-saving shoe book for the asking.

MORE PAY FOR TEACHERS

We have hundreds of demands for teachers at greatly increased salaries. Send in your name to-day for enrollment. South Atlantic Teachers' Agency, 306 Walton Building, Atlanta, Ga.

"I keep it handy for rheumatic pains'

EVENkiddiesknowwhat's good for Dad's aching knees. Sloan's Liniment knees. means quick relief, new energy, back on the job without loss of time. Is good for other aches and pains, sprains and strains, lame back, stiff joints, overworked muscles, All druggist have it.

Faith, the Door Through Which We Must Enter.

BY H. C. CHESTER

"For by grace are ye saved through faith; and that not of yourselves: it is the gift of God." (Eph. 2: 8.) "For the grace of God that bringeth salvation hath appeared to all men." (Tit. 2: 11.)

The above quotations, taken from divine revelation, most certainly teach me that grace must be accepted by the receiver. Grace, the unmerited, undeserved favor (eternal life to believers) sent from God unto all men, enters the heart through the door of faith. Christ, that most precious corner stone, that foundation upon which the church is built, is grace. doors of this church are opened with the keys of the kingdom, which Christ has sent unto all nations, into all the world, to every creature, to all men, saying: "If any man hear my voice, and open the door, I will come in to him, and will sup with him, and he with me." (Rev. 3: 20.)

"The grace of God that bringeth, salvation hath appeared." That grace (Christ) is the light "which lighteth every man that cometh into the world." (John 1: 9.) "He came unto his own [Jews], and his own [Jews] received him not. But as many as received him, to them gave he power to become the sons of God, even to them that believe on his name." (John 1: 11, 12.)

It is most usually admitted by all that the name of Christ, in the form of the Bible, has appeared unto all civilized people. By some it is claimed that all men are not permitted to partake of its volume of truth, but only a few to whom God has granted it, in the form of predestination; but this is not in harmony with the Scriptures. "For God is no respecter of persons." But in order to show clearly whether or not Christ's name is manifest at this age of the world, I invite your attention to two or three passages of scripture found in God's word. To whom manifest? "Neither pray I for these alone, but for them also which shall believe on me through their word." (John 17: 20.) In this place Christ had finished his ministry upon earth, and was praying for sinners who are converted by the apostles' gospel or word. The question might be asked by some: "What shall we depend upon now that the apostles are passed away?" So let us see again. "Many other signs truly did Jesus in the presence of his disciples, which are not written in this book: but these are written, that ye might believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God; and that believing ye might have life through his name." (John 20: 30, 31.) We understand from this quotation that Christ's testimony is handed to us in the form of a book. "Lo, I come (in the volume of the book it is written of me), to do thy will, O God." (Heb. 10: 7.)

I conclude that the name of Christ has appeared and does appear unto all men through the gospel or New Testament; and knowing that "without faith it is impossible to please" God, I am convinced that grace is extended unto men only as they believe the gospel; and so "faith without works is dead." It must be the working faith through which we obtain grace.

Mother's Ally.

There is always one good remedy on the family medicine shelf that mother can use in all accidents and mishaps to the members of the family. Burns, bruises, cuts, stings, boils, sores, and various forms of skin eruption are quickly soothed and steadlly healed with Gray's Ointment. Its constant use for a hundred years has made if a family word in every household. You should keep a box of it on your shelf for emergencies. If your druggist cannot sypply you, send his name to W. F. Gray & Co., 818 Gray Building, Nashville, Tenn., and a liberal sample will be immediately sent you

Holman Self-Pronouncing

VEST POCKET

Clearest Print in Smallest Size 4%x24x3 inches

AND the third day there was a marriage in Ca'na of Gallilee; and the mother of Je'sus was 2113. French Morocco, genuine leather, flaxible limp, gold titles, rounded corners, gold edges.

2115P. French Morocco, divinity circuit, overlapping covers, round corners, red under gold edges, with the Book of $1.10 Psalms included

ILLUSTRATED VEST-POCKET

With Pictures of Holy-Land Scenes

2814. French Morocco, limp, gold side title, round corners, red under gold 35 edges

RED-LETTER VEST-POCKET

With all the words of our Lord printed in red.

red.

13. L. French Morocco, flexible limp, gold side title on red panel, gold .85 edges.

15RLP. French Morocco, overlapping covers, flexible, gold side title on red panel, red under gold edges, with Book of $1.20 Psalms included

INDIA-PAPER VEST-POCKET TESTAMENT

Thin as a Wafer

ADDRESS ORDERS TO

McQUIDDY PRINTING CO. NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

GURED HER FITS

Mrs. D. Martin, of New York, writes that her fits were stopped with a medicine sent to her by a Milwaukee resident, and suggests that every one suffering from fits write R. P. Lepso, 198 Island Avenue, Milwaukee, Wis., who will send them a bottle of the same kind of medicine she used—free.

FOOT TROUBLES

No Need of Them, Says Brooklyn Man, Who Has Evidently Solved a Big Problem

According to the testimony of hundreds of people living in the Southland and elsewhere, J. R. Simon, of 1588 Broadway, Brooklyn, N. Y., has successfully developed a system of shoe building having for its prime object the conquering of foot and shoe troubles. It appears that Mr. Simon's establishment has become national headquarters for people whose feet require his remarkable comfort shoe, known as the EzWear, but obtainable only of the inventor. Mr. Simon's new catalogue shows several hundred shoes that combine comfort with style at amazingly low prices and is now ready for free distribution.

TREMENDOUS VALUE FOR 10c.

Washington, D. C. (Special).—An unusual offer is being made by the editor of the Pathfinder to send the paper to new readers eight weeks for ten cents. This well-known national weekly magazine contains all the worth-while news of the world, illustrated and presented in a most entertaining manner. It is clean, sincere, nonpartisan, reliable, well printed in large type. It puts everything clearly, fairly, and briefly.

Washington, the home of the Pathfinder, is the nerve center of civilization. History is being made at this world capital. The Pathfinder's lliustrated weekly review gives you a clear, impartial, and correct diagnosis of public affairs during these strenuous, epoch-making days. It is the only big weekly magazine at the seat of government. Send ten cents for eight weeks' trial subscription to the Pathfinder, 118 Douglas Street, Washington, D. C. The ten cents does not repay the editor, but he is giad to invest in new friends.

Wheat and Chaff.

BY A. ELLMORE.

The wheat will never grow and produce in the granary.

Yes, a poor man might know a few things about the law, but the best thing for him to know about the law is to know how to keep out of it.

The good which other people do will not take us to heaven, and we should not let the evils which other men do keep us out of heaven. Each one will be responsible for his own works.

"Some people seem to have a good deal of persecution, but I am never persecuted for my religion." "Well, John, the reason thieves do not break into my house to steal my money is, they know I have none."

A good book is a safe counselor and a perpetual feast, but a bad book is a dangerous guide. The best thing to do with a bad book is to burn it, so others will not get to read it.

To do an enemy an evil is to put curselves upon an equality with him; but do him a favor, and we exalt ourselves in the estimation of the good and put our enemy to shame.

"Do you regard marriage a failure?" Not as often as is the after life. However, I think there are two characters who so regard it—the old maid and the woman who has been married six times and has four living husbands, and still she is not being well supported.

There is more in the man than there is in the country. Put some men into the poorest country, and they will become rich. Put others into the best country and give them a good start, and they become paupers. Why is this? They do not understand business principles. Take a dozen stalwart Christians of average means, and they will support the gospel, build their own chapel, and care for their sick.

"They send forth their little ones like a flock, and their children dance. They take the timbrel and harp, and rejoice at the sound of the organ. They spend their days in wealth, and in a moment go down to their grave. Therefore they say unto God, Depart from us; for we desire not the knowledge of thy ways." (Job 21: 11-14.)

I have known Brother Greatheart to break away into a destitute field where there was no church and no salary provided, and do a great work, and be well supported. And there is Brother Dulittel, who has been promising for a long time to preach a week or two on Smoky Hill, and, strange to say, the brethren have not "paid" him one dollar for those good intentions. Strange indeed!

After the close of long and serious church troubles the members are usually found in three classes—(1) those who have gone through the fire and have proved faithful; (2) those who were too weak to endure the devouring flames and have fallen by the way; (3) those who were inclined toward unbelief, and made the difficulties the bugaboo to justify them in their unbelief, and have gone hopelessly into infidelity. "It must needs be that offenses come; but woe to that man by whom the offense cometh!" It is a frightful, a most fearful thought, that all things not settled in this life will be fairly and fully adjusted in the great judgment. Alas!

Rheumatism Relieved

Renwar is guaranteed to relieve rheumatism by money-back offer. This remedy will positively neutralize the uric acid in the blood, which causes rheumatism. The amount of Renwar required to effect relief depends on the case which is being treated. Very often one bottle will produce the desired result. If you suffer with rheumatism, you should by all means try Renwar. It is harmless, even to the most delicate constitutions, and thousands will testify to its effectiveness in relieving rheumatism. Sold by druggists (price, 50 cents) or by mail from Warner Drug Company, Nashville, Tenn.

VACCINATE YOUR HOGS.

BUY SEBUM direct from the manufacturers and be assured of a fresh, reliable product. United States Veterinary License No. 114; long-distance phone, Main 2589, Nashville, Tenn. Write for 90-page Hog Book; it is FREE. WHITE SERUM COMPANY.

Hore are some little books you need. By Prof. Shannon, World-Famed Authority on questions of Social and Personal Purity. Two million in use. Three titles: "How to Tell the Story of Life," "Perfect Boyhood," "Perfect Girlhood". Cloth-binding 75c each; Paper 40c. Satisfaction or your money back. Order right now as you may never see this ad again. Address Deat. O, THE S. A. MULLIKIN CO., Official Publishers, Methodist Book Concern Bidg., Cincinnati, O. Agents wanted

Complexion Worries

don't last long if you use TETTERINE. It insures a soft, velvety skin, free from pimples and other skin sores. Pleasant, antiseptic, healing. Fine for baby's rash, prickly heat, hives, and eczema. 60c at all druggists' or from Shuptrine Co., Savannah, Ga.

Echoes From East Tennessee.

BY GEORGE W. FARMER

Church conditions are slowly but steadily improving here in this section. We believe East Tennessee to be one of the greatest gospel fields in the State to-day, and we who know the field better than others know it believe it should receive more attention and recognition than it has been receiving. A few more good congregations in this section will have more to do in pushing the cause through Eastern Kentucky, the Virginias, North and South Carolina, and Northern Georgia than anything else that could be done.

The attendance and interest with the church at Cleveland are increasing with each succeeding Lord's day. Three valuable members have recently come into the fellowship of the church here. We have some as faithful members here as can be found anywhere; while there are several that are worth nothing to the cause whatever, and never will be, nor ever can be, till they are genuinely converted.

On last Lord's day at 2:30 P.M. I preached to a large and interested audience at Calhoun. The cause is looking up there.

Brother W. C. Phillips has recently engaged a Mr. Sadler, Methodist, in a four-days' debate. I did not get to be in attendance, but reports from those that did attend say that it was a very one-sided affair, being altogether in Brother Phillips' favor. How could it have been otherwise? Truth alwave wins out.

Brother Rozar is now on a vacation at his father's home. We expect him to return to his field of operation after Christmas.

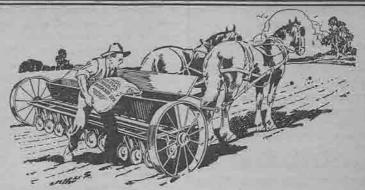

I was over at Dayton a few days recently. I found a faithful little band there with a neat and well-furnished house. And I shall say more for these brethren: so far as seen by me, they are free from hobbies and cranky notions. This means so much in building up the cause at any place.

We all rejoice and praise the Lord that, through the help of God and good brethren and congregations, we have had it made possible to do as much for the cause as we have this year. We are looking forward to greater things for the coming year.

No Worms in a Healthy Child

All children troubled with Worms have an un-healthy color, which indicates poor blood, and as a rule, there is more or less stomach disturbance. GROVE'S TASTELESS CHILL TONIC given regularly for two or three weeks will enrich the blood, improve the digestion, and act as a general Strengthening Tonic to the whole system. Nature will then throw off or dispet the worms, and the Child will be in perfect health. Pleasant to take. 75c per bottle.

THE SANITARY" Individual CUPS List of thousands of churches using our caps and FREE CATALOG with quotations sent upon request.
Sanitary Communion Outst Co., 71st St., Rochester, N. W.

estore the Potash

During the past few years farmers have been urged to bend every effort to produce maximum crops without giving much consideration to the effect on their soils, Established rotations were broken up and the very best parts of the farm put into the most needed crops, while the poorer parts were neglected.

In a way it was a return to the pioneer's method of mining the soil.

Today is the period of readjustment for the farmer as well as for the merchant and the manufacturer.

The farm labor situation and the uncertainty of future prices are such that prudence demands that the cost of producing a unit of crop be reduced as much as possible. This requires more crop units per acre and a return to the rotations known to be best for a given locality.

The great factor in reducing the cost of crop production is the right method of feeding the crops.

The composition of commercial plant foods has been profoundly changed during the period of Potash famine. Phosphoric Acid has replaced all or a part of the Potash in American fertilizer formulas, while just the opposite has taken place in Europe, where there was a shortage of phosphates. Now is the time to get back to normal again and to return to the fertilizer formulas that were so profitable and satisfactory in the past. But this cannot be done without effort on the part of the farmer and without sufficient notice to the manufacturer to prepare for the change.

Therefore think the matter over carefully, and if your previous experience has shown you that notify your dealer that you wish to use fertilizers with 5 to 10 per cent. of Potash and a little more to make up for the day on the soil during the Potash famine.

Potash Pays

And do it right away, for it takes time for the manufacturer to import it and it is only fair that he should know what your demands will be.

The price of Potash has fallen much faster than the prices of farm products so you may feel assured that you can again get a profit from its use. The main point is to insist that the right kind of fertilizer shall be ready for you when needed. In order to insure this, prompt action on your part is essential.

Take up the matter with your dealer at once. If we can help you write to us.

SOIL AND CROP SERVICE, POTASH SYNDICATE H. A. HUSTON, Manager

42 Broadway

New York

When You Feel Shaky

For Malarial Fevers and a General Tonic If not sold by your druggist, write ARTHUR PETER & CO., LOUISVILLE, KY.

Stop Pimples

Put an end to skin troubles and clear the complexion with TETTERINE. A pleasant compexion with TETTERINE. A pleasant and particularly effective salve used for years for all skin troubles. Soothing, pleas-ant, antiseptic, healing, 600 at all drug-gists' or from Shuptrine Co., Savannah, Ga

Girls! · Girls!! Clear Your Skin Sample each (Soup, Ointment, Talcum) of Onticura Laboratories, Dept. V. Maldan, Mass. Sold everywhere, Items of Interest About the Japan Work.

BY C. G. VINCENT.

Brother H. Ishiguro, who has built up the Otsuka work in Tokyo, is now taking some special work in the Abilene Christian College, I understand that certain brethren in the college made it possible for Brother Ishiguro to visit our land and to better fit himself for his life work in his own country. I am very glad that this arrangement has been made and that he has this excellent opportunity to improve his talents. A card just received from him expresses the desire that he might be able to see me while he is here. I am anxious to see him, and hope and pray that Providence may bring us together. In our association in work in Japan, I learned to love Brother Ishiguro. The David Lipscomb College Church, Nashville, Tenn., has been sending seventeen dollars and fifty cents each month to the Otsuka work for several years. I would like to have Brother Ishiguro to meet these brethren before he returns.

I have a very interesting letter from Brother Hiratsuka, who is the faithful and devoted worker of the Kamitomizaka Church, Tokyo. reports five recent baptisms. One is the young wife of the son of Brother Yokoo, one of the elders. When asked if she was ready to obey the gospel, she said: "If I am worthy to be baptized, I am so thankful to God and so happy." Another baptized was Brother Yokoo's nephew. He is sixteen years old, and Hiratsuka writes of him: "He is a good boy, and comes to worship every Sunday." Another of the five baptized was Masunori, Brother Hiratsuka's second son. He is fifteen years of age, and is in his first year at high school. Masunori is a bright and energetic boy. Mrs. Vincent and I used to call him our "orator," for he showed such talent for speaking. Brother Hiratsuka has five children living-four boys and a girl. As his children reach the age of accountability they confess their faith and render obedience to the Savior. His is a happy home in which Christ delights to dwell. When Brother Mc-Caleb more than twenty years ago baptized a young soldier attached to the Imperial Bodyguard, little did he realize that he was leading to the Lord a man who would prove such an able and loyal preacher as Hiratsuka has proven to be. The other two recently added to the church are Y. Inoue and G. Kobayashi, both students in Tokyo schools. So the good work goes on and forward under the blessing of God. These brethren of the Kamitomizaka mission station are asking you and me to help them to finish paying off the balance due on the lot. They are giving heroically. They have great faith in God and confidence in our liberality. The Knoxville church, after a sermon on the subject of missions, made an offering of fifty-five dollars, and the same has started on its journey to Dal Nippon, as all Japanese delight to call their country, W. W. Freeman, Abilene, Texas, will be glad to forward your offerings.

To Cure a Cold in One Day

Take LAXATIVE BROMO QUININE (Tablets.) It stops the Cough and Headache and works off the Cold. E. W. GROVE'S signature on each box. 30c.

N IRRITABLE, fault finding disposition is often due to a disordered stomach. A man with good digestion is nearly always good natured. great many have been permanently cured of stomach troubles by Chamberlain's Tablets after years of suffering. These tablets strengthen the stomach and enable it to perform its functions naturally. They only cost a quarter. Try them.

hamberlain's Tablets

I Will Follow Him.

Jesus Christ, my Lord and Master, Him I'll follow fast and faster, Mindful of his word to-day. In my heart of hearts be liveth. Light and life and joy he giveth All along my pilgrim way. -John Dempster Hammond.

Laid Eggs Every Day

Mrs. F. Bock, Albany, N. Y., writes: "Out of six heas I got six eggs daily. I have found your 'More Eggs' Tonic a "Out of six hens I got six eggs daily. I have found your 'More Eggs' Tonin a great success." Of course, no one could reasonably expect Reefer's "More Eggs" to make such a wonderful record with every flock, but letters from thousands of users tell how this wonderful egg producer brought them big egg yields all fall and winter blugger agg profits than ever and winter—bigger egg profits than ever. Give your hens a few cents' worth of "More Eggs", the wonderful egg producer, and you will be amazed and delighted with results.

$1.00Package.

Send the coupon below. Bon't send any money. Mr. Reefer will send you two $1.00 backages of "More Eggs." You pay the postuman upon delivery only $1.00, the price of fust one package, the other package being free. The Million Dollar Merchants Bank of Kansas City. Mo., guarantees if you are not absolutely satisfied, your dollar will be returned at any time within $20 days—on request. No risk to you. 490,000 users praise Reefer's "More Eggs."

Poultry Raisers Everywhere Tell Wonderful Results of "More Eggs"

126 Eggs in 5 Days
I wouldn't try to raise chickens without "More Eggs."
which means more money. I use it right along I have 33 hens and in 5 days have gotter 10½ dozen eggs or 125
hens and in 5 days have gotter 10½ dozen eggs or 126
hRS. J. 6, OARSES, Salina, Okla

"More Eggs" Paid the Pastor

I can't express in words how much I have been benefited by "More Eggs". I have paid my debts, clothed the children in new dresses, and that is not all—I paid my pastor his dues. I sold 42½ dozen eggs last week, set 4 dozen, are some and had 1½ dozen left.

MRS LENA MCBROON, Woodbury, Tenn.

Send No Money

Don't send any money; just fill in and mill coupon. You will be sent, at once, two $1.00 packages of "MORE EGGS." Pay the postman upon delivery only $1.80, the extra package heing FREE Don't walt—take advantage of this free offer TODAY! Reap the BIG profits "MORE EGGS" will make for you Have plenty of eggs to sell when the price is highest. Send TODAY—NOW!

E.J. Reefer, Poultry Expert, 9259 Reefer Bldg., Kansas City, Mo. Town Mr. Reefer:—I accord your offer. Send me two $1.00 packages of Reefer's "More Eggs" for which I agree to pay the postman $1.00 when he brings me the two packages. You agree to refund me $1.00 at any time within 30 days, if both of these packages do not prove satisfactory in every way.

Name

Address

Among the Colored Folks

Report From the Field.

I am glad to report a part of my work for 1920. I have been busy each Lord's day this year. I preached at Tishomingo, Miss., every first Lord's day; at Henderson, Tenn., every second Lord's day; at Corinth, Miss., the third Lord's day; at Tuscumbia, Ala., the fourth Lord's day.

On the fourth Lord's day in August I began a meeting in Alabama, at Christlan Home Church, which continued eight nights. At the request of the brethren I preached at the Fourteen were baptized. went from there to Tishomingo, Miss., and preached two or three nights. On account of rain we had to close. I baptized one, I went from there to Spring Hill, Tenn., where i spent one week, and baptized six persons. I went from there to Middleton Tenn., and held a short meeting. Large crowds. That is a fine mission point, and the gospel is badly needed there. I went from there back to Tuscumbia. Ala., the first Lord's day in October, and was joined by Brother M. Keeble, of Nashville, Tenn. After spending one week there, I test Brother Keeble to carry the meeting on I went to Newbern, Tenn., and held a live nights' meeting, closing with good interest. I then went to Oblon, Tenn., and preached on Lord's day and at night, I found the disciples there keeping house for the Lord each Lord's day. We have just closed a two-weeks' meeting in Corinth, Miss. The preaching was done by Brother Keeble. Six obeyed the gospel. Brother Keeble is an able preacher, and knows how to handle the word of the Lord. The call is great, but the laborers are few unto this day. Let us pray that the Lord will send more laborers luto the J. HANNON. vineyard.

What a blessed thing it would be if this world could one day come into the fellowship of the bonds of Christ! We would little need to worry then about the stress of war.—Selected.

A TONIC

Grove's Tasteless chill Tonic restores. Energy and Vitality by Purifying and Enriching the Blood. When you feel its strengthening, invigorating effect, see how it brings color to the cheeks and how it improves the appetite, you will then appreciate its true tonic value.

Grove's Tasteless chill Tonic is simply iron and Quinine suspended in eyrup. So pleasant even children like it. The blood needs QUININE to Purify it and IRON to Enrich it. Destroys Malarial germs and Grip germs by its Strengthening, Invigorating Effect. 75c.

Plain and Fancy

BOX STATIONERY

and

Correspondence Cards

also

Engraved and Printed

Wedding Invitations

and

Calling Cards

Samples and Prices of Cards and Invitations on request

McQuiddy Printing Company

NASHVILLE, TENN.

Selections.

In my youth I thought of writing a satire on mankind, but now in my age I think I shall write an apology for them.—Horace Walpole.

He prayeth best who loveth best
All things both great and small;
For the dear God who loveth us,
He made and loveth all.
—Coloridge.

What is true of the individual is also true of the church. "Whenever the church is aroused and the world's wickedness arrested, somebody has been praying." Prayer brings as close to God and leads us to depend upon him for grace and strength for every service.—Selected.

What are we building? A nation? And what are the builders putting into it? Armaments and soldlers, ships and guns? Tariff detenses and walls of retaliation? Are we emphasizing more skill and push and eleverness? Is this all? Then we are rejecting the essential. If we mean the national structure to be sound and strong and permanent, we must build Christ into our national ideals and policies and ambitions.—Selected.

DOM'T BE CUT Until You Try This Wonderful Treatment. if you have plies in any form, write for a FHEE sample of Page's File Tablets, and you will bless the day that you and this Write to-day. E. E. Page, 430-D age Building, Marshall, Mich.

For Fever Headaches and Neuralgic Pains

An improved Aspirin tablet which is abso-An improved asparin (abide, which is also-biticity and to use even in cases of extreme debility and weak heart. Kolleyes head-actus, neuralgla and rheumatte pains and reduces lever. No depressing effects. Made by a formula which is in general tase by leading physiciam. See per unchage at your drugglass or by mall from the manufacturers. Pledment Laboratories. Inc., Chaton, S. C.

Stop That Headache! It's Stopping For Assy Author or Patra BORN DE ALL DEVOCISTS the Rate Co. Elkhart, Ind.

The Precious Promises of God. BY F. P. FONNEE.

In God's word are very many "exceeding great and preclous promises." (2 Pet, I; t.) Peter says that these are given to us that we "might be partakers of the divine nature." Then most surely "the divine nature" is imparted to us by means of the divine word; and in this process of transformation the promises of God bear a prominent part. It is absolutely certain that the Holy Spirit does dwell within us by reason of his word, given to us by prophets and apostles. Whether he dwells within as an entity is not included in the scope of this short article, but he does rule within by impressing his words upon the niinds of the obedient ones. He addresses himself to the mind, because mind rules the inner, spiritual man; and thus the whole man, body, soul, and spirit, becomes "obedient to the faith" of Christ. He then by means of the word enables the Christian to weed out evil thoughts and evil practices; and in this way he becomes holy in a relative sense, for no man in the flesh is absolutely holy. This must be the renewing of the mind spoken of by the apostle: "And be not conformed to this world; but be yetransformed by the renewing of your mind," (Rom. 12: 2.) Persons renewed in this way are of one mind until they go wrong, and then trouble begins. This passage of scripture should be firmly fixed in the mind, for by this means the Holy Spirit rules. He dwells within if the word dwells there. If the word does not dwell there, then we are destitute of the Smirit.

But the "precious promises" of God hold out inducements to us to cause us to continue in well-doing, Very often in the New Testament "precious promises" are found in connection with important commands; and where this is the case, no one can enjoy the promise without obeying the command. A well-known example is found in Acts 2: 38. Peter said: "Repent, and be baotized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sine, and we shall receive the gift of the Holy Spirit." "Repent, and be baptized," is the command. "And ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Spirit" is the promise. We cannot reach the promise without obeying the command. Too many persons are claiming the promise who have not obeyed the command; and, in fact, many preachers spend most of their time in trying to explain away this command. Some of these preachers are continually "kicking up a dust" in order to hide the truth. They claim all the promises, and at the same time they set aside many

FRECKLES

Now Is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots.

There's no lower the stichtest and of feeling assumed or year freedles as Othing Jovies are again to guaranteed to remove these homoly spore. Simply set me cames of Othing-bouble strengtheres your strangels, and apply a little of it airlin and morning and you should som see first over the worst resident on soly. It is seldon that more than any of simplest, with the Entire mes have tempted on soly. It is seldon that more than once of mandel to completely clear the skin and guila a beautiful richer complexion.

The care to said for the distinguishment Othine as this fee and under guarantees or many back it is fally to completely clear the skin and said under guarantees or many back it is fally to complete the state of the said under guarantees or many back it is fally to complete the said under guarantees.

Holman New Testament

FOR OLD FOLKS

EXTRA LARGE PRINT

Our famous large type limo Pica, self-pronouncing edition. This type is particu-larly well suited to such readers as have defective or impaired eyesight, or by reason of age feel the need of a good, clear print.

PIOA, 16mo. Size, 5% x7% x % inches.

No. 290. Morocce Grained Civila, limp, gold back and side littles round corners, red burn is bed calges. Publisher's $1.00 price, $1.20. On Price—postpaid

No. 290P. With Book of Pasima included, citch blading, std. Same as No. 290 above, Publisher's Frice, $1.40. Our $1.15

Price—Postpaid

No. 291P. French Marocce, limp, gold back and side titles, round corners, red under gold adges, with the Book of Pasima included. Publisher's Frice, $3.95

Our Frice—Postpaid

ADDRESS ORDERS TO

MCQUIDDY PRINTING CO. NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE

NOTICE

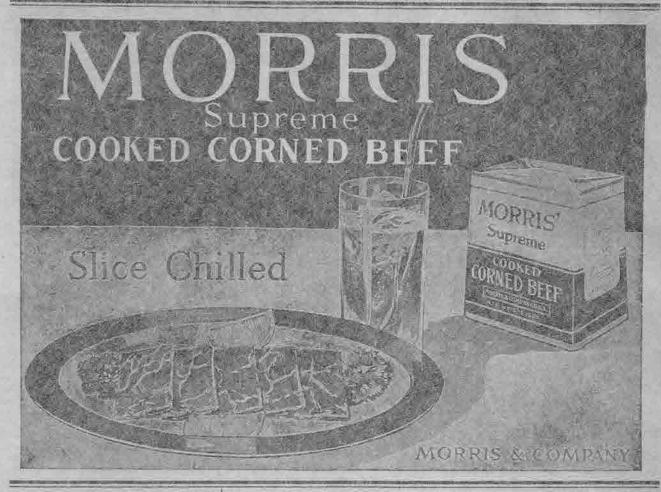

We want to get in touch with all the brothron who are interested in Christian education and who want to locate where there is a good Christian college. For forther intermation, write to

S. L. BRADLEY,

TREMENDOUS VALUE FOR 10c.

The Pathander, Leading Weekly Magazine of Nation's Capital, Makes Remarkably Attractive Offer.

Washington, D. C. (Special.)-People in every section of the country are hurrying to take advantage of the Pathfinder's wonderful offer to send that splendid illustrated review of the whole world eight weeks for ten cents. It costs the editor a lot of money to de this, but he says it pays to lovest in new friends, and that he will keep the offer open until the Pathfinder passes the 300,000 circulation mark, which will be in a few weeks. Ten cents matied at once with your application to Pathinder, 120 Douglas Street, Washington D. C., will keep the whole family informed, ontertained, helped, and inspired for the next three months.

New Testament commands. Search and look, for there are many such examples in the word. The promises can only be enjoyed by the obedient "Precious promises" are often given to those who develop and maintain certain qualities of the human soul. This may be seen by reference to the beatitudes. (Matt. 5: 1-11.) In verse 7 Jesus said: "Blessed are the merciful: for they shall obtain mercy." By the help of God a mercitul disposition can be cultivated and maintained by any disciple of Christ. and then to such persons mercy will be shown. "For they shall obtain mercy" is one of God's "exceeding great and precious promises." Men should not claim this promise unless they are merciful themselves. In verse 2 the Master said: "Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shall see God." If purity of heart (mind) is cultivated through life, then we will enjoy God forever, for some sweet day his tabernacle will be with men. We will be kings and priests unto him forever and forever. Then our measure of happiness will be full, for God's "precious promises" so indicate.

Every command of God to which a promise is attached should be carefully examined with the idea of satisfying the expressed conditions therein. This should be done by every one at once, because life is so very short and eternity is so long. Dwelling upon the promises is a source of comfort. to every true Christian. God will never disappoint us, if we trust and The beloved Polycarp sald: "Eighty and six years have I served him; and he hath done me nothing but good. I will not deny him now."

Toleration as a mere sentiment and fad is very feeble. It must study that which is good in what it tolerates .-Phillips Brooks.

Make a rule and pray to God to help you keep it, never, if possible, to lie down at night without being able to say: "I have made one human being at least a little wiser, a little happier, or a little better this day. You will find it easier than you think, and pleasanter - Selected.

Piles Cured in 6 to 14 Days

Druggists refund money if PAZO GINTMENT falls to care fushing, Blind Bleeding or Protruding Piles, fustantly relieves tiching Piles, and you can get restful sleep after first application. Sec.

RECOMMENDED TO SCHOOL CREEDERN.

EFCOMMENDED TO SORBOL CHREDRIN.
This is the senson when children are sublect to croup, colds, and coughs. Rens C.
Marchard, 36 Lawrence Street, Salem. Mass, writes: "I used Folor's Honey and Tar with good results. I had a very bad cold, and it gave me relief at once; so I recommend it to every child that gues to school." This standard low-prical medicine loosans and cleans mucus and phlegm, checks stranging coughlag, makes easy breathing, soothes and heels raw, lottemed membranes and stops
tickling in throat.

Antiseptic Analgesis Antiphlogistic

(Proximits Infection) (Religies Paint) (Albaya Inflammation)

For coughs, colds, influenza, croup and threatened pneumonia, wounds, airanot blister delicare membranes.

Encapine Salve reduces inflammation of the skin and mucous membrane and whether applied directly to the inflamed surface, for external injury or its volutile oil inhaled for pulmonary troubles it is dependable and efficacious 50c per 2 oz. jar. At your druggist's or by mail from the manufacturers.

Piedmont Laboratories, Inc., Clinton, S. C.

The Little Missionary.

I campet go to Africa. To China or Japan; To work for Jeans here at home, I'll do the best I can.

I'll tell of his great love for me, And show I love him, too; And better far, I'll show my love in all that I may do.

The Hille water drops come down To make the flowers grow; The little rivulets flow on To bless where'er they go,

The little seeds make mighty trees, To cool us with their shade. If little things like these do good, To try, I'm not afraid.

171 be a missionary now, And work the heat I may For it I want to work with God, There surely is a way.

I'll pray for those who cross the sea; My offering, too, I'll send; And do all that is in my power This great, sad world to mend

The Lord's Way.

The most critical cannot dispute the fact that Christ personified life's best. There was absolutely no discrepancy between his teaching and his life. Uppermost and always in the Master's mind were effects. He sought to cause men to make more of the future than the mere present. This is where for some time the first disciples failed to catch his great vision. As an illustration of this, you will remember how Simon, when in obedience to his command he let down the nets, was so overcome with the unusual harvest of fish that he saw nothing but fiesh. Our Lord beheld far more, and so made the promise to make him a fisher of men. The anccessful fishing in the Lake of Galliee was but a suggestion of a greater and more permament success. Our Lord's ultimatum for Peter was to win men. Christ lived in finalities and not in beginnings. With him it was not what a man was, but rather what he would he.-William Porkess.

His Purpose.

God has a definite life plan set for every man-one that, being accepted and followed, will conduct him to the best and noblest end possible; and so, as you pass on, stage by stage, in your course of experience, it is made clear to you that whatever you have taid upon you to do or to suffer, whatever to want, whatever to surrender or to conquer, is exactly best for you. Your life is a school, exactly adapted to your lesson, and that to the best, last and of your existence. No room for a discouraged or depressed feeling. therefore, is left you. Enough that you exist for a purpose high enough to give meaning to life and to support a cenuine inspiration. It your sphere is outwardly homble, God understands it better than you do, and it is a part of his wisdom to bring out great sentiments in humble conditions, great Diagnoters under great adversibles and heavy loads of incumbrance. Horace Bushnell,

The knowledge of God grows in every generation, and with larger knowledge there will be larger laws, God said of old: "Thou shalt do no murder." God says now: " Make common what is best." Give by sharing. -- Exchange.

Enimpeschable.—If you were to see the unequaled volume of unimpeachable testimony in favor of Hood's Sarsaparilla, you would upbraid yourself for ad long delaying to take this affective medicine for that blood disease from which you are suffering,

HOW HE ENDED HIDNEY TROUBLE.

"I had a severe stack of kidney trouble, and for three weeks could not get out of doors at a arceiv out of bon," writes C. E. Brewer, Village Springe, Aia. "Could not bend over at all without the mast excruditing pains. I parchesed a bottle of Folor Kidney Pills; was relieved after first few doess and continued their use until completely cured. I consider Foley Kidney Pills the heat kidney ramedy in the world. No recurrence of my trouble."

Write me to-day, and I will tell you how you can Marvelous Results in the treatment of fits and op! SWEEDISH TREATMENT use of a simple Tune of a simple Tune of a simple Tune of a simple Tune and address and full particulars will be end your FREE. Herman P. Carlson, Box 239, Kansas City, Ma.

For a Smooth Skin

Nothing is more softening, seething, and effective than PERCENTINE For years recommended at the skin's very best friend. Pure an end to pimples. Healing, antisep-tic. Excellent for babies. 50c at all druggists' or from Shupicise Co., Savannah, Ga.

FOOT COMFORT ASSURED Brooklyn Man Solves the Problem

It is no longer necommery to suffer agonies that are caused by missit strees; for Mr. Simon, of Brooklyn, has proven that he can nt pertently by mail. Himon's EleWear Shoes are built to give every possible foot comfort; they are soll and stylish, and do not need breaking in. They at like the proverbial patr, the minute you wear them. Every pair is guaranteed to give sutlefaction and to ill perfectly,

Mr. J. H. Simon will gladly sond a free natalogue of over 500 styles of ExWear Shoes to all who write bim, along with his eclantific, self-measuring blank. Write for your copy to-day, and give your feet their much-needed happiness. Address all com-munications to Mr. J. R. Simon, 1655 Broadway, Brocklyn, N. Y., and you will receive personal attention.

In answering advertisements, please mention the Cospel Advocate.

Committee of the same THE BREATH Of the FOREST

While lecturing in London, the noted Richard T Booth, founder of the blue ribbon movement, temperance orator and leader of international fame, who induced over a million men to sign the piedge, developed a very serious catarrhal trouble.

He went to inland Anatralia, where he breadled day and night the craisepple balsants as given off by the forcest, especially the Eurappins trees. This experience led Mr. Booth to the discovery of the most wonderful external treatment.—Hydnet.

Hyomet is a green Milling superised air rotuned from the purest oil of Eucalyptus combined with other healthst and unlistently ingredients. This medicated air is especially affective in treating cold in the head, spannedir crome, degreens sore throat, hay fever and all forms of bromehial cathern. If destroys the catarrhal germs and catered health.

Sold on a positive guarantee of satisfactory results or money refunded. Conplace counts $1.35; extra bottle tehalani 75c. At druggista or by mail, if your druggist cannot sapply it.

BOOTH'S HYOMEI CO., 12 W. Green St., Ithaca, N. Y.

Volume LXII, 1920

Gospel Advocate

Editors

E. G. SEWELL M. C. KURFEES A. B. LIPSCOMB E. A. ELAM T. B. LARIMORE J. C. McQUIDDY

Index Compiled by C. E. W. DORRIS

Address: 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North NASHVILLE, TENN.

INDEX TO VOLUME LXII OF THE CONTRIBUTORS.

Austin, C. S., preachers' meeting, 172, Affen, J. G., church letters, 361; hob-bies and hobby riders, 1056; Oklahoma tetter, 38

Arkins, G. G., Jernsalom, 381. Airken, W. H., God, the Creator, 161. Anderson, S. T., another viewpoint, Armstrong, J. N., J. C. McQuiddy's course and F. W. Smith's com-plaint, 1190.

Armor, M. H., instrumental music, 276, Atkisson, J. W., evidence of pardon, 848; fishing, 210; life is what we make it, 416.

Allen, J. A., paragraphs, 318, 358, 375, 399, 695; simplicity of the gospel, 588; Sir Walter Scott, 612; the Christian Eskimos, 1251.

Andrews, Sarah, imaneial report, 494; for your consideration, 1082; grad-uating exercise in Japan, 1105; Okitsu, Japan, 1191; Tanahata, 1158; work in Okitsu, 1046.

Hall, K. C., appeal abused, 227. Brooks, Phillips, cariching years, 672. Blunt, J. H., what is grace? 253. Brower, W. W., help Clarendon, Texas. 62. Blanchard, F. C., neglected field, 312. Bradnum, H. P., notes from England,

W. T., life sketch of a pia-Buffaloe, W

Burford, W. A., opportunity at Oak-land, Miss., 1125. Bousteel, R. L., the upper chamber, Briney. J. B., authorship of Hebrews,

Burton, A. M., Jesus' rimely sayings, 49 Southern Practical Institute, 28.

Burrell, D. L. gateway of life, 233; loving, 428 Brown, C. C., acknowledgment 392. Brown, G. W., Acts 20: 21, 281; justi-fication by faith, 634.

heation by faith, 698.
Bunner, A. A., gospel trumpet, 124, 291, 516.
Brigance, L. L., Freed-Hardeman College, 728; song service, 483.
Billingsley, O. E., another opportunity, 1175; college, 27.
Bradley, I. B., church news, 872; destitute field, 709; Sarah Andrews' mission, 756.

sion, 756. Borden, E. M., a frank admission, 1072; evangefistic assumption, 1070; man blessed, but not satisfied, 1021. Brumit, W. M., Bradentown, Fla., 287; B. W. Young advertised, 125. Burton, T. H., important question, 1129; South Carolina news, 823; what shall we do? 938; what others say, 841

Barnes, E. R., gambling, 1045.

Barnes, J. O., an earnest appeal, 1248; acknowledgment, 185; al. work, 1081; church at Lake City, Fla., 390.

Boles, H. Leo, clerical monopoly, 905; can an immarried man be an elder? 1188; library in every church, 782; Old Testament characters Noah, 804, 829, 860, 924, 971, 1067, 1115, 1218.

Carney, T. M., preachers, 118. Cassins, S. R., an appeal, 1151.

Craig, R. A., report, 195. Clark, C. C., wisdom, knowledge, understanding, 852.

Croon, A. S., many hands make light work, 675;

work, 675.
Creacy, F. G., Kentucky notes, 187.
Colley, A. O., Corpus Christi and
Galveston, 529.
Corder, W. F., an appeal, 1103.
Cox, F. L., school of Christ, 1192.
Claxton, P. P., adequate pay for teachers, 1067.
Chester, E. C., faith the door, 1265.
Cypert, Lillic, language story, 239;
missionary report, 799.
Clark, femme, Bell Haven Orphans'

Clark, Jennie, Be Flome, 665, 940. Bell Haven Orphans'

Cayce, M. C., mission work in Mississippi, 559; progress in Jackson, Miss., 1160.

Clifford, J., reinpitation, 47; time of special peril, 361; what makes a man? 303.

Coff. R. P., excuse of the absence, 734; tracing the mevitable, 1162; new life, 75; path of toil, 995; picturesque, 926.

Chessor, J. E., rich man and Lazarus, 1138; service of remembrances, 613; salvation from sin, 802; tried by fire, 829.

Carter, W. H., Christ in industry, doing mission work, 943; elders, 851, 874, 898, 923, 946; liberty in Christ, 351; state the facts, 588; to-day, 741.

Carter, Morgan H., church organized in New York City, 709.

Dennis, J. M., Christmas gifts, 15. Derryberry, W., a recent trip, 679. Deens, C. F., evils of processing-Deems, C. tion, 735

Dods, Marcus, the Spirit's life in men,

Doughty, W. E., releasing power, 710. Duncan, U. S., few things, 362. Dunn, J. E., a message to my friends, 683: better ministry, 346: letter, 1092; preachers and preaching, 567.

Ezell, J. P., work, 506, Estes, J. C., mission work, 100, Elknah, J. E. Dunn's war service, 610 Elmore, A., wheat and chaff, 1266, Epperson, Clara Cox, source of true happiness, 1163. Edwards, F. M., Apostolic Review re-fuses to correct its false statenents, 960.

Exum, F. E., an interesting correspondence, 1158; he that built all things is God, 1055; the choice of Moses, 853. Evans, C. W., Naish Springs, W. Va. 484; old-fashioned meeting, 654, 848. 489; old-tashtoned meeting, 684, 848. Evans, John D., commendatory of articles, 782; Denver, (cd., 220; last call, 1072; report, 504; spirit of Sommerism, 707, 730 Elkins, T., double nature of man, 585, 627, 892, 986, 1057, 1130, 1152; man in trouble, 120; nature of man, 91, 166; preacher recommended, 30 preacher recommended, 39

Fry, I. W., a good suggestion, 1198. Floyd, M. J., sacrifice, 1182 Fleisham, J. P., golden windows, 703. Franklin, H., notice to the churches.

Foster, W. P., church at Duncan, Ariz., 462, 631, 721, 915. Fonner, F. P., getting ready to build.

Fonner, F. P., getting ready to build, 577; precious promises of God, 1270; what a pity, 253; work at Buffalo, W. Va., 336.

Freeman, W. W., Bishop-Vincent mission, 232, 432; lecture week, 174; quarterly report, 432.

Farmer, G. W., call for a preacher, 998; East Tennessee work, 479, 699, 1267; famine, 368; friendly suggestion, 219; gospel work needed, 279.

Floming, H. C., contentment, 516; community church, 923; conscious identity, 1046, frigments, 1166; manner of building, 952; narrow and Iroad way, 1538; offenses, 359; the light of life, 900.

Fuqua, E. C., a mission measure, 1043; Colorado work, 747, 895; Colorado Springs meeting, 1150; Denver (Col.) all-day meeting, 781; finan-

Springs meeting, 1150; Denver (Col.) all-day meeting, 781; finan-cial report, 436; missionaries, 218; stalement and correction, 998.

Gaines, J. W., Andrew Jackson, 318. Gardner, O. W., Pacific Christian Academy, 1058 Garrett, J. O., Thorp Spring College,

Gibson, Frank L., I stand at the door and knock, 159, Gillen, J. W., history of Christendom, Grubbs, L. B., impire | exegesis, 26. Grou, L., seek rest in God, 1048. Glann, E. N., church house needed,

Grammer, Frank, music in the church,

Grace, E. L., blessed prodigals, 884. Goodpasture, B. C., Gespel Advocate, Geodpasture, B. C., Grespel Advocate, relation to, $1; studies in the life of Christ, 1045; George, A. M., a wonderful haptism, 683; A. B. L. and M. C. K. teaching, 218; church and kingdom, 345; great avmy of God. 733; light wanted, 1044; obey from the h-avr, 1106.

tiall, Flavil, was Uncle David mis-taken? 1019; neglected, 1175; three heroes, 189.

heroes, 189. Hankey, D., humility before God, 1105. Hardison, D. B., harps of God, 564. Harris, H. C., church and kingdom, Henton, P. E., ambition, 94. Hyder, D. M., F can'r, 454. Holton, A. R., Thorp Spring College, 721.

Hines, J. T. religious efficiency, 826.

Hines, J. Et., responsibility, 53 Harding, J. A., church in South Caro-lina, 1012; gospel in South Carolina,

Howell, F. O., Freed-Hardeman College, 209; observer, 568; scaroity of preachers, 334

Holt. C. E., dearth of preachers, 171; field notes, 854, 1063; preachers and preaching, 243, 541; preaching the gospet, 347.

Holl, T. H., opportunity for service,

Isenberg, U., parable of tares, 280,

Jackson, J. L., new building for College Street, 1001.
Jernigan, W. G., God robbed, 67
Jeliev, E. S., the India work, 1022,
Johnson, H. D., the smetchess of sin,

Jones, H. W., farmer preacher, 301; odds and ends, 285, 391; preachers, 114; the two evils, 795; turned out, Johnson, W. J., acknowledgment, 137, 363; Amute (i.a.) work, 431 Johnson, Mrs. Lettie, visit to Nash-ville, 828; work in St. Louis, 487.

Jackson, Lee, congregation and its worship, 234; law of the spirit #1 life, 1020; Nebueliadnezzar's dream, 780; Srygley on church and le don, 267; trip to Alabama, 822. ichig-

Kirk, Josic, memories, 1167. Knight, H. L., gospel through litera-Knight, ture, 458

Klingman, G. A., meeting at Fort Worth, 654; spiritualism, 778

Lamar, J. W., apposite remarks, 260. Lewis, John T., a group of questions, 1091.

Lipscomb, Mrs. Granville, Tennessee Orphans' Home, 273. Little, F. M., a plea for unity, 528. Liddon, H. P., short sermons, 792. Lowery, J. P., Oakland, Miss., 663. Lemmons, W. F., conditions in Colorado, 1213; Okiahoma report, 158. La Grone, C. W., church work, 286; church at Marshall, Texas, 675.

Love, E. C., another speculator, 1189; impressions of Tennessee churches, 949; Gospel Advocate's course commended, 805; McQuiddy's course com-mended, 805; McQuiddy's course in regard to the war, 934; Pacific Christian Academy, 942; second coming of Christ, 992; shall we pre-pare for death? 1165; Sunny South to the Golden Gate, 918.

to the Golden Gate, 918.
Long, W. S., a call to action, 1248; are we able to do it? 942; church, 62; church building, Washington, D. C. 551; deeds commended, 492; work in Weshington, D. C. 263.
Larimore, T. B., Cousin Julia, 228; money matters, 249, 619; memorial of McDonough, 324; prosy, but important, 500; seventy-seven, 635; S. H. Hall, 839; what does the Book say? 384.

Magness, C. A., cause at Atoka, Okla., 435

Marshall, C. A., Sommerism, 1993. Maiphurs, J. G., why don't people go to church? 967.

Mann, H. N., layman can do ii, 125. Mander, W., letter from an evangelist to a brother thinking of entering the field, 686.

Moser, K. C. lukewarm Christians, 1187

Mills, E. V., Gospel Advocate call, 1204.

Mills, G. F., scarcity of preachers, 306. Moore, Ira C., church and kingdom, Miller, J. R., gems of thought, 288. Morrow, S. F., better ministry, 197. Murphey, G. N., lying, 198. Meeks, H. L., conscientious objectors, Montgomery, Nettie, in memory of my loved ones, 954 Miller, O. R., traveling carnival curse, Miller, W. J., blood of Christ, 1080: first or seventh day, 680, 702; were they part of the law? 655.

Monk, J. H., adventism, 733; applying the commission, 950.

Mason, M. F., Baptists vs. Camobellites, 18, 282, 482, 674, 896, 914, 1032, 1088.

Moody, R. N., Billy Sunear, church and kingdom, 102; denominated oneachers leading, etc., preschers, and preschers. mational preachers leading, etc., 724; inconsistency, 803; preachers, 423

MacDonald, C., selected thoughts. 848:

MacLend, M. J., our work, our play, 504

McPhec, C. G., evangelistic notes, 652. McBroom, J. H., dearth of preachers, 330:

McCaleb, J. M., the more, 466; take heed lest ye be consumed, 317 McQuigg, J. Y., a brothery sugges-tion, 1186; thoughts, 112, 163.

Nichols, C. R., observations, 497. Nelson, J. B., new clothes on old ser-mons, 517; speculation condemned, Next, R. B., mormonism, 605, 615, 636. New York Bible Society, Bibles in horels, 1245.

Oliphant, W. L., Muskogee meeting, 631

Oliver, W. B., advice, 1107. Owen, F. G., Pacific Christian Acad-emy, 259.

Observer, preachers and preaching, 396, 419, 442.

Paget, Stephen fortitude, 455, Porkess, William, the Lord's way, Pructi, J. W., work in St. Louis, 983. Phelps, T. G., thoughts, 362. Pittman, S. P., Mississippi field, 138; foreign missions help work at home. 805 ther strong, 888.

Petry, C., Jewish Sabbath, 412: weak, then strong, 888.

Paistey, J. O., appeal, 159; acknowledgment, 581.
Paistey, F. L., Memphis churches, 234; rejection of literature, 566.
Paistey, J. P., college question, 678; spirit birth, 987; type and antitype, Perry, A., sunbeams, 531, 603. Phillips, T. W., flowers in the path, 1022; help Marshall church, 700; kingdom, 1126; the Marshall meer-1080.

Perkins, L. D., a statement, 948; hob-bies, 491; Joaquin Valley, 162, 749a notes from California, 1205; the Salbath, 587; W. P. Ready, 687; where will the end be? 1969.

Rainey, J. L. appeal from Louisville;

Raiston, C. F., a good motto, 429.
Record, W. A., opportunity for preachers, 1204.
Riggs G. W., admission by Brother

Ball, 1005. Ritchie, A. T., interesting trip, 1154. Rose, W. R., statement and appeal; Rose 1234

Rogers, H. A., report from Canada.

1016. Rubel, R. O., Louisville appeal, 194, Russell, J. E., when is a man old?

Reeves, W. L., kingdom of God. 292; unity or discord, 875. Raines, W. R., an explanation, 702; light of the world, 553; sin against the Holy Spirit, 673; sift out the bran, 808.

Senex, an open letter, 828. Scott, W. W., letter from Canada, 2851

Shelton, C. M., constant emphasis, 1540

Shook, H., passing, 77.
Sikes, W. W., Abriene Christian College, 1913.

Shoulders, H. C. Potter Orphan Çar, 41, 80, 163, 212, 263. Sewell, E. E., sermon special, 101. Sommer, P., the refused Christ, 659. Sisco, W. A., dearth of preachers, 302. Shopherd, F. B., work and worker, Smith, L. T., explanation, 85. Smith, E. P., Brother Hoskins' sad condition, 881.

Smith, J. L., balm in Gilead, 1059, Smith, H. W., a cross Christian, 432, to will, 889.

to wiff, 889.
Sears, L. C., Harper College, 630, 677.
Sewell, J. P., Abilene College, 660; bright prospects, 516.
Sowell, F. C., trip to Texas, 962; things that do the most good, 348.
Stabblefield, C. M., evangelism, 74, 99.
Sewell, C. W., building fund, 168, 823;
rhe coming of the Lord, 1115.
Sommer, D. A., comments, 570; McQuiddy's reply, 538, McQuiddy's dust, etc., 374; spirit and principles of the new digressives, 515.
Slater, W. W., church news, 568; infidelity, 173; singing in worship,
186; whom it may concern, 462.

186; whom it may concern, 462. Smith G. Dallas, church activities, 77: kingdom, 50, 196; Pittman not going, 238.

Smithson John T., a pleasure-leving age, 685; conforming to the world, 364; present conditions and wby, 682; picture shows, 827; regret, 195

Srygley, F. B., adventism and Bible, 228; church and kingdom, 242, 342; church organization, 659; kingdom, 102; question asked R. H. Boll, 123; reply to Smith, 197; what nailed to reply to Smith, 197; what nailed to the cross? 244.

Scobey, J. E., a reminiscent sketch, oil, 683; Bethlehem church, 830, 974; church and kingdom, 171, 341; God's provision for man, 1092; the power to bear witness, 1250; reply, 51.

Straiton, Nellie, do you know? 841; Japan news, 868 funds forwarded, 167; funds for Lillie Cypert, 219; inissionary, 521.

Smith, R. D., church and kingdom, 338.

338. 338.

Smith, F. W., adventism, 174; ancient order of things, 314; as a matter of simple justice, 930; a kindly criticism, 1257; Baptist Flag's objections, 395; Christian unity, 386; church, 635; challenge for discussion, 692; destructive vs. constructive, 350; do we need enlightenment? 739; differences settled, 934; distinguishing between things, 418; distinguishing between things, 418; gainsayers, 658; is it a dead letter? 716; interchurch world movement, 716; interchurch world movement, 444, 469, J. N. Armstrong's effort at proof, 1195; letters of commendations, 514; mission work, 98; money madness, 539; meeting at Franklin, Tenn., 1090; paying the bills of a wayward child, 899; questions and answers, 760, 787; spirit and word, 75; sat at wrong table, 610; three kingdoms, 266; two main branches, 293; the test of love, 1229; wise sayings, 52; Winchester, Ky., 571.

Talley, C. L., questions answered, 90. Taylor, John, Eible things by Bible names, 1090. Taylor, C. A., King's Hall congrega-tion, 463.

Tenney, A. B., use of our tongues,

Thomas, W. H. G., secret of wicked-ness, 1947.

Trice, A. N. Fanning Orphan School, F14

Treasurer of Dickson, Tenn., one of hirty-four churches, 1221.
Twitchell, J. N., seeking truth, 21.
Thompson, T. B., how many interested, 184.

Trice, W. H., is division always bad? 754; division and separation, 372. Tant. J. D., work in Cuba, 773; that apology, 1140.

Vaughu, C. J., love, 60. Vickrey, W. S., a few things, 606; earnest protest, 353.

Vincent, C. G., financial statement of Japan fund, 386; Japan work, 1268; lot fund, 45; meeting at Dayton, Ohio, 630; truth ascertained, 315; report and notes, 550; why not have a share in it? 1134.

report and notes, 550; why not have a share in it? 1134.

Vanhontin, J. J., a tesson on worlds, 844; antithesis, 530; ancient landmark, 1240; beware of the leaven, 1060; double-tongued, 652; drink or taste, 966; fenerals, 1136; padlock argument, 602; revelation, 119, 211, 223, 257; Sabbath day, 794; spirit itself, 407; who is to blame? 698.

Warren, A. S., home missions, 925. Waters, J. D., dance of death, 300. Walker, W. P., tithe, 76. Walker, F. E., Jr., cooperative work, Watson. Isaiah, the beauties of nature, 858. Wallace, Nannie, a great day, 507.

Williams, L. M., church in Tulare, Cal., 845.

Wood, J. H., unpardonable sin, 463.
Weathers, J. R., Christianity, 49.
West, Bea, boosting myself, 220.
Winkler, H. E., destitute field, 822.
Wilson, W. M., smiles, 1167.
Whitaker, E. L., opportunity, 889.
White, J. C., four questions, 44.
White, L. S., good meeting, 710.
White, R. C., "upon this rock," 42:
reunion at David Lipscomb College,
428, 452.

Wilkerson, U. G., speculation, 563; harps of God, 420.

harps of God, 420.
Wooldridge, C. E., announcement, 741; protracted meetings 684.
Wright, J. M., McHenry and Martin, 332, 370, 422, 569, 589, 614.
Whitfield, S., by faith, 284; church, 46, 214; serve the Lord, 411.
Whiteside, R. L., college question, 565; Hugh Miller, 445; war record, 1948.
Williams, John R., Wast Tannassee.

Villiams, John R., West Tennessee notes, 188, 446, 893, 977, 1212. Williams, Yarbrough, Mrs. J. U., a line of cheer, 592, 663.

EDITORIAL

BY M. C. KURFEES.

A unique correspondence, 1256.

Breaking bread, 759. Bible things by Bible names, 811, 862, 908, 958, 1004, 1008.

Different things which God's people are called, 354, Divine healing, 477

Harps of God, 126.

Instrumental music, 269

J. N. Armstrong's challenge, 176.

League of nations, 30. Let there be light, 1050.

Misrepresentation, 523. More speculation, 575.

Nothing in them, 321.

Orphans' homes, etc., 129

Reverence for God, etc., 617. Religious controversies, 666.

Schools, 79, 225.

Trip to Abilene College, 272. Wrangling in the papers, 714, 1142.

BY A. B. LIPSCOMB.

An age of deception, 922. Abolition of war, 313. Advance in subscription, 501 A call from Linden, Ala., 553 Acknowledgment not enough, 873 A stable and certain quantity, 874. A troubled sister's question, 898. A definite training course, 1185. An ideal translated into life, 1185.

Bolshevism, 194, 217, 24 Bible and prosperity, 897 Be truthful, etc., 922,

Church history, 7, 25, 50, 74, 97, 121. Christ, etc., 145. Climbing the hill, 290. Christian evidence, 417, 442. Change at David Lipscomb College, Christian's good time, 1018. Converts at David Lipscomb College,

David Lipscomb College notes, 741, 757, 792, 860.
Daily tasks, 1017.
Deterrent influence of the Bible, 553.

Unpleasant but necessary, 1161.
Upsetting the world, 1217.

Value of an intimate glimpse, 849.

Ever-needed lesson, 1162.

Founder of the Jesuits, 369, 393. F. B. Srygley, teacher, etc., 634. Faith and hope compared, 873.

God's testament of evil, 313. Give Bible study its rightful place, 897. Gilbert Hubbaro's artvice to workers, Gather up the tragment, 993.

High cost of living, 169. How do you think of Mexico? 289. How faith justifies, 586. How Paul can'e to Rome, 825. Having a good time, 1017.

Imitative faculty, 265. Idols and ourselves, 2 Is your life dear? 289. Instrumental music, 237 "I serve," etc., 850. Indignation pat is selfish, 1161.

Jesus' patience, etc., 1186. John Wesle, a method, etc., 945.

King's Hall congregation, 205.

Luther's faith, 561 Lightening the ship, 825. Love that grows indignant, 1161.

Must not compromise the gospel, 873 Modern Socialism and the apostolic kind, 921. Mysteries, 1017. Mary the mother of Jesus, 1941, 1966.

New administration, 513. New Testament ideal, 266 Names with a meaning, 921. Napoleon's idea of greatness, 945. New venture in school journalism. 1250.

Opening at David Lipscomb College, 977. Our duty toward strangers, 1089.

Progress of David Linscomb College, 11.38 Paul's message to Corinth, 1217.

Science and the Bible, 609, 681 Sectionent of controversy, 317 Socielogy and the Bible, 633. Suggestive value of the Bible 730. Spiritualism, 777

Sadi est waste, 994. Second term begins January 3, 1164, 1221, 1252. Songs in the night, 1218.

The man who went, 289 Trade-unionism, 405, 489. The lion of Judah, 237. Trip to Canada, 621. The social stomach, 658. Trade's treatment of crime 175: Trackers and dancing, 802.
The answer of a good conscience, 825.
The happiest days, 849. The New Festament deacon, 849. The blessed pushers, 850. The living, hope, etc., 874. The lie that kills, 922. The promises in me fulfil," 922. The blood of Christ, 970. The highest call, 1113. The climax, 1185. The verdict stands, 1186.

1217

The cross is the climax, etc., 12 The habit of doing things, 1218. The rightful glorying, 1217. The muck raker, 1249.

Where love leads, 265. Where love leads, 265.
Why evil was permitted, 313,
Waster a destroyer, 993.
Wasted power, 993.
Waste is abuse, 994.
Waste Heaven approves, 994.
Worldly happiness, 1018.
When we come to, etc., 1186.

BY E. A. ELAM.

Be not many of you teachers, 271.

brist coming, etc., 12. hurch model: 31. hurch and kingdom, 355. commending others, 1229.

David Lipscomb College, 427.

Enlightenment wanted, 403,

Sod's peace league, 155. Sod's children of equal rank, 547. Grief and the remedy, 520. Sod cares for his own, 1074.

important things, 106.

cague of nations, 179, 204, et something good be said, 1025.

Merting at Henderson, 474. Military spirit in church, 451.

Our boy, 80. Observer identified, 497. Obey God, 499.

arable of tares, 298, 322.

Rochester (N. Y.) mission, 157, 379, 597. SW/ Rearing children, 226, 250, Reply to J. E. Dunn, 567, Reply to F. O. Howell, 568.

Juity of the spirit, 909. Juity, peace, and love, 1006.

Who is the sinner? 526.

BY J. C. M'QUIDBY.

An explanation, 398. Appointment for Erphans' Home, 645. Action of baptism, 958. An appeal, 1144.

Bible in schools, 378. Baptism, 932. Brotherly love, 1170.

Conscientious objectors, 11.

Thurch, report to, 105.

Thurches, know the truth, 202.

Institutions the light, 427.

Contributions received by E. C.

Fugua, 227. Thange in price, 549. Thristian's relation to cernal warfare, an a Christian be perfect? 838, omplaint of the Apostolic Review, 933, heering reports, 1144, ross denying, take up, 55

Difference between Samaritans and Jews, 108. Disciple all nations, 450. Directors Orphans' Home meet, 594. Do it now, not to-morrow, 1075.

Earnest missionary, 133,
"Evangelistic authority" responsible for division, 960.

Faith, 861, 885,

Gospel Advocate's relation to, 33, God's commands vs. man's doctrine, 618.

God's love, 1143.

Humility, 32.

Interchurch movement, 270. Is division always bad? 641. Interest is growing, 1231.

Justification-faith alone, 154.

Kingdom of God 297.

More light, 127.
McCaleb locates himself, 319.
Mind to work, 402.
Mismanagement work in Japan, 473.
More blessed to give, 574.
Mrs. Catt and suffrage leaders repudiare Bible, 788.

Must an elder be a married man?

1197.

Ninefieth anniversary of E. G. Sewell, 1065 New dermitory, 836. New Testament church, 1097.

Profit by our mistakes, 10. Preach the gospel 498.

New subscribers, 1258

Reply to W. H. Trice, 75%, Repentance, 907.

Speculative teaching, 78.
Should have published the article, 177.
Sommer's creed, 524.
Sommer changes issue, 546.
Sommer concedes the issue, 978.
Send forth laborers, 667.
Slackers, 810.
Should women enter politics, etc.:

Tennessee Orphans' Home, 250, Teaching prophecy, 493. The creed again, 786. Things to think about, 786. The name Christian, 1003. The Macedonian call, 1024. The gospel of love and torgiveness, 1122. That group of questions, 1194. The annual meeting, 1255.

Whose testimony received? 205. W. H. Carter's article, 617. Woman suffrage, 718, 1049. Wealth's responsibility, 1228.

BY E. C. SEWELL

Things pure and honorable, 5%. Who are certain of eternal life? 252.

BY D. LIPSCOMB.

Seeing things as God sees them, 595.

QUERY DEPARTMENT. BY J. C. M'QUIDDY,

Acts 4: 4-35, Acts 2: 25-27-382, Acts 7: 38-975, Acts 10-503, Acts 13: 48-999, Acts 16: 3-400.

I Cor. 1: 17—382 I Cor. 2: 14—400. I Cor. 3: 12-15—999. I Cor. 3: 15—227. I Cor. 5: 4-7—999. I Cor. 5: 11—382, 1126. I Gor. 6: 9, 10—858. Cor. 7: 5—222.

Cor 7: 13, 14-503. 1 Cor. 7 : 59-352. 1 Cor. 9 : 20-22-400. 1 Cor. 14 : 34-814. 1 Cor. 15 : 29-400. 1 Cor. 15 : 29-31-671.

2 Cor. 6: 14-352.

Eph. 1: 4, 5-999, Eph. 2: 8, 9-35, Eph. 5: 4-671.

Heb. 2: 42—975, Heb. 6: 47, 18—1426. Heb. 10: 25—503. Heb. 12: 6-8—1126.

James 5: 14, 15—975, James 15: 13, 14—1147, John 2: 20—720, John 5: 5—1126, John 6: 51-57-1259.

1 John 3: 9-639. 1 John 5: 16, 17-858.

Luke 12: 49-54.

Matt, 5; 19-975 Matt, 5; 23-391, Matt, 6; 6-22. Matt. 6: 6-22. Matt. 6: 28-34-882. Matt. 7: 6-882. Matt. 8: 21, 22-882. Matt. 8: 22-882. Matt. 10: 42-503. Matt. 10: 42-503. Matt. 18: 2, 6, 8, 9-522. Matt. 10: 9-35. Matt. 24: 15: 10-671. Matt. 24: 15, 19-671. Mart. 25: 31-5. Matt 26: 27-591. 1 Pet. 4: 1, 2—247. 1 Pet. 1: 23—763.

2 Pet 1: 11-1126.

Rom. 2: 14, 15—1225, Rom. 9: 15—975.

Rev. 5: 6—430. Rev. 12: 14, 15—35. Rev. 20: 4—35. Rev. 20: 12—82. Rev. 21: 24-27—58.

1 Tim. 2: 11, 42-814. 1 Tim. 5: 24, 25-906.

Zech. 2: 15-975.

Apostacy, 1147, Attitude in prayer, 430, 1227. Are all who are pronounced husband and wife married, etc.? 591. Authorized to work after worship, 67 L Absence on Lord's day, confess the sin, etc., 975. Are wise men in Matt. 2 the same as in Luke 27 1027.

Baptism validity, 82. "Baptize," accept word, 247. Born spiritless, 999.

Cooperation of church, 200. Christ's own sheep, snatch our, 200. Church should be socialistic, 222. "Christian" a nickname, 247. Children of kingdom, 430. Christadelphian church teaching, 503. Campbellite Bible, 720. Communion set over protest of, etc., 733. Confession by month, 522. Can alien sin against Holy Spirit? Could those who went back under the law be restored as Simon? 1147. Christmas entertainment, 1227.

Deacons, more than seven, 82. Difference between spirit and gift of spirit, 400.

Death Adam died, 430.

Distinction between Hebrews, Israel-ites, and Jews, 591.
Duty of elders toward preacher preaching error, 743.
Does the word "psalm" in Col. 3; 16 refer to instruments of music? 814. Do not ask, sine forgiven, 1027 Design of John's baptism, 1227

Did Christ teach any ordinances, etc.? 1227

Elders resigning, 58. Elders, do to disquality, 222: "Enroll with us," 430. Elder, unmarried, 999. Elder, married man, 1078.

Grape juice in worship, 503.

Hard of hearing excused, 35.
Holy Spirit, 200.
How long did Adam live? 430.
How destroy world? 671.
Husband deceived, what course purвией 906.

How does one know he has truly believed and repented; and if he de-cides he did not truly believe and repent, must he be baptized against 1078.

Is private confession of a public wrong scriptural? 720.

is it the duty of the church to support a preacher preaching error?

every person saved who is bap-tized? 1078.

Individual cups used by what authority? 814.

It makes no difference what church you belong to, you can be a Chrisrian, 1078.

If one thinks he is already saved and is baptized because God commands is baptized because God commands him, is he saved? 1078. Is a child of thirteen years too young to be baptized? 1078. If the government use the sword and kill, would it be the government or the individual Christian killing? 1126

1s Heb. 10: 26-29 an example of sin against the Holy Spirit? 1147

Keeping church book, 430.

Lord's supper, charge of, 35. Lord's table, lay members waiting on, 82

Literature, 200. Life insurance policies, 743.

Methodist, charge of class, 522, Musical instruments in the home, 522, Nonelreistian teaching Bible school, 906.

No positive command that one should be present on each first day of week, 1147.

Ordaining, leaders in, 58.
Ordaining, how and by whom? 82.
Owe no man, and how long does God require confession for stealing?

Prayer, calling on sectariaus, 82. Policeman teaching in Sunday school, Praying without uttering words, 400. Promise of two brethren broken, 720. Posture in prayer, 743. Parable of tares, 1259.

Policentan using club, 382, Partaking of the Lord's supper more than once a day, 639.

Roman time, 58.

Supporting Y. M. C. A. preachers, 58: Singers on front seal, 522: Singing with others when the instru-ment is used, 591.

Should a wayward brother or sister make their own confession? 639.

Should one person confess to another and that one to the church? 639. Since God draws all men to him, is it possible that a person would obey God in baptism who is an unbeliver and unrepentant? 1078. Should a Christian nation use the sword, etc.? 1126.

The word "revelation," its meaning and use, 1174, Tithing, 247. Take membership, 430. Taking the loaf to church, 522. Taking up arms, 814.

Universal question, 591.

Women teaching, 200. West! "twain." 200 Worship with organ, 272. What church Premier of England belong, 247

Warning through dreams, 400 Women young, 1126 What course to pursue with an elder who charged usury and paid a penalty for this violation of law? 1174. What law from death of Christ to Pentecost? 720.

Willful sin, 503. Women leading prayer, etc., 522. Will men be saved without punishment? 671

Worship acceptable between death of Christ and Pentecost, 720.

Was the James with Jesus when Jaires' daughter was raised the one that wrote the book of James? 814. Women preaching publicly, 814. Who are scripturally baptized? 882. Women preachers, 1027.

Were any except the apostles bap-tized with the Holy Spirit? 1078. Would there be any need of civil government is all were Christians? 1126

GEORGIA AND FAR SOUTHERN FIELD.

BY S. H. HALL

13, 59, 109, 133, 152, 181, 206, 246, 274, 295, 304, 324, 375, 406, 446, 471, 495, 519, 543, 572, 598, 622, 645, 662, 696, 767, 791, 815, 831, 859, 883.

BY B. C. GOODPASTURE.

902, 935, 947, 923, 1019, 1071, 1117, 1140, 1164, 1223, 1254

LOS ANGELES NOTES

BY S. H. HALL

900, 947, 972, 998, 1023, 1047, 1070, 1095, 1118, 1141, 1166, 1193, 1222, 1253.

WESTERN DEPARTMENT

BY E. C. WOOLDRIDGE

Activities at Forth Worth, Texas, 792, Church purity, 840, Oklahoma notes, 813, 792, 840, Texas notes, 792, 813.

JOURNEYINGS OFTEN.

BY B. C. GOODPASTURE, 126, 150, 199, 223, 248, 275, 448, CURRENT THOUGHT.

BY J. C. M'QUIDDY.

A uneful baby, 887. A false prophecy, 1026. A propaganda of fies, 1054 Are c 1121 churches too hard to please?

Americanism, 1224, Adoration, 1264

Baptism and salvation, 669, Bishop Candler on interchurch movement, 812 Blessedness of being in want, 1146.

Can we have more preachers? 669. Children of light, 790. Churches as candidates for ministers. 387 Christ every day, 911. Commonplace things, 1121.

Digging at duty, 1146. Dangers of overcooking, 1264.

Every Christian an evangelist, 911 Employing the minister's wife, 1102

Fower pulpit "freaks and takes," 936. Firing the minister, 1168. Fat and lean, 1224.

Good citizenship, 718. Give heed to making preachers, 1054. Getting a crowd, 1079.

How to use the Bible, 1168.

Is preaching necessary, 863, Individual precious, 1026.

Land of golden rule, 718. Lawlessness, 1264.

More gospel and less sensation, 762. Mexican people, 1102. Ministry of music, 1102.

New call to arms, 838.

Origin of hymns, 955.

Premillennialism vs. postmillenialism, Preaching, 694. Perilous times, 887 Parents and preachers, 1102. Public invited to join, 1168. Pussyfoot's religion, 981

Remedy for moral breakdown, 790. Reasons for optimism, 911.

Summer best time for meeting, 718, Shadow of a thought, 955, Salvation Army, 1002, Sanctuary, 1146, Symptoms of moral laxity, 738.

The will to serve, 740. The problem of victory, 9. The efficient church, 1079. The religious melting pot, The world a workshop, 1121. The world's need of tools, 1168. The thanksgiving habit, 1224

Victory, 740.

Winning souls, etc., 838. Why is the house of the Lord for-saken? 863. Saken, 800.
When an idol steps down, 981.
With Him is no variableness, 1026.
Working girls' creed, 1054.
What kind of preaching? 1079.
What will the President-elect do?
1168. Walking with God, 1145.

Young people neglect church, 812.

HOME READING.

A brave boy, 742. Abide in Him, 807. A little pink rose, 855. A collie's heroism, 1030. A good Korean plan, 1030. Are you a brick? 1096.

Bob's silver dollar, 903, Beautiful costumes, 1226,

Conditions to avoid, 742.

Disappointment, 927.

Early art training, 807.

For mothers, 742, For her friend, 1226.

Getting ready for winter, 903. Grandfather's Indian story, 1076. "Go cheerfully," 1145.

How a good man was saved, 1145. Hypocrisy, 1262.

It can talk in any language, 982.

Jesus only, 1262.

Kindness, 1226.

Lee's kindness, 807.

My voice in the morning, 742. Mabel's new verse, 807.

Outwardness and inwardness of windows, 927.

Planting a tea set, 839. Prayer, 1030.

Spoiling a child, 742. Short sermons, 839. Select thoughts, 927.

The aftermath, 1262.

Teaching children to love plants and animals, 855...
Three things, 855.
The tardy aster, 903.
The magic word, 982.
The gist of life, 982.
The memory book, 1030.
The quest of youth, 1076.
The lost kite, 1096.
The fairy boat, 1226.
The south side, 1226.

Who is my neighbor? 839. Whitie and her sky chickens, 879. Would you have answered? 982. William and Billy run away, 1119.

TRAINING LITTLE CHILDREN.

34, 54, 83, 103, 151, 157, 221, 294, 376, 429, 447, 502, 518, 545, 599, 623, 640, 670, 690, 719.

DEBATES.

Lowrey-Clark, 1131.

Rogers-Sloan, 85, Record-Neal, 182.

Thompson-Bogard, 142. Tant-Agee, 1181.

Winkler-Malphurs, 188.

Yandell-Elkins, 1009.

UNKNOWN AUTHORS. A model of the past, 279.

Best wisdom, 161.

Difference in cost, 161.

Gems of thought, 365.

Jewels, 368.

New Bible for the blind, 383.

Prayer and verses, 221.

The true light, 156.

What we need, 311.

EXCHANGES.

A place for you, 1064. A safe investment, 1202. A sick world's need, 1216.

Best of life, 459.

Christianity in industry, 1159. China's starving millions, 1252.

Hope, 1088.

Introducing Christ, 421.

Men count, 81.

Newspaper habit, 824.

Restoration congress, 1044.

Slaughter of the innocent, 1220.

The lone way, 853. True riches, 1107. The power of prayer, 1159.

Unheard prayers, 1237.

Wanted, a lead, 424.

RELIEF FUND.

12, 29, 56, 81, 108, 125, 157, 173, 205, 228, 252, 273, 300, 324, 357, 381, 405, 428, 453, 501, 549, 565, 621, 637, 661, 713, 765, 838, 877, 925, 1189.

COLORED FOLKS.

Campbell, A., 183.

Hannon, J., 1269.

Jones, Alonzo, 262. Johnson, G. A., 845.

Keeble, M., 235, 532, 678, 845, 920, 1039, 1081, 1185.

McLean, T. G., 389.

Ramsey, J. T., 332, 532.

Womack, S. W., 23, 263, 532, 744.

OBITUARIES.

Allen, J. D., 14.
Allison, W. H., 64.
Adkisson, Samuel, 117.
Austin, Cora, 165.
Allen, Simmie, 310.
Archer, Logan, 534, 604.
Abernathy, Myrtle, 916.
Acuff, H. A., 941.

Baker, Mrs. S. G., 650.
Baird, Virda, 53, 64.
Bowers, George, 87.
Brown, Emily, 117.
Bean, J. M., 254.
Billingsley, Armelia, 558.
Barclay, Decima, 571.
Burford, Lou, 578.
Burns, Alice, 604.
Brown, Ida B., 800.
Bruce, Zelda, 820.
Burns, Elizabeth, 916.
Boyd, E. H., 1035.

Cullum, Louise, 64. Carter, Annie, 255. Crowder, W. O., 287. Carlisle, Cassie, 310. Carlisle, E. D., 360. Carter, R. L., 408.
Carter, Emma, 461.
Carr, G. W., 510.
Cutchin, M. V., 511.
Cunningham, Leslie, 534.
Cagle, Thomas, 558.
Caneer, A. L., 579.
Carpenter, S. E., 628.
Cooke, Elizabeth, 1034.
Collins, Lynn and Glenn, 1035.
Cason, Nell, 1061.
Couch, Veatrell, 1110.
Crnickshank, Hugh, 1110.
Cummings, Louise, 1156.
Collins, John, 1156.

Dawson, Oscar, 66. Daniel, W. T., 650. Dedmon, Johnnie, 866. Davis, Lester, 1156. Davis, J. F., 1236.

Elam, T. L., 1178. Elam, Sam Webb, 101. Edwards, C. A., 310. Ellett, J. E., 820. Ellett, Henrietta, 1211.

Floyd, J. D., 33. Foster, Sam, 165. Felix, L. G., 230. Floyd, Mary Jane, 409. Fussell, S. J., 749. Fuqua, E. N., 775. Faught, Aubrey, 916. Farmer, Thomas, 1179. Fussell, Mary, 310.

Green, Annie, 87.
Gresham, Maggie E., 107.
Grimes, Eunicc, 117.
Garrett, D. B., 165.
Grayson, C. A., 254.
Garner, Ella, 226.
Gillentine, R. L., 310, 535.
Grayson, H. C., 385.
Gallaher, Adelyne, 1034.
Gregory, J. H., 1178.
Gwinn, Nancy, 1211.
Gann, Lennie, 1236.
Gentry, Elizabeth, 1178.
Griswold, D. F., 701.

Herndon, Jane, 87.
Hall, E. G., 136.
Hubbard, J. H., 384.
Haley, Telitha, 461.
Humphries, Mabel, 628.
Hoskins, I. C., 1001.
Hilliard, Emily, 1035.
Hardison, Mrs. S. T., 1221, 1254.

Jackson, Elmer, 845. Jones, Harvey, 820.

Killebrew, Eva, 95 King, E. M., 1034.

Lane, Phronie, 64.
Leigh, "Grandma," 485.
Lee, Martha, 629.
Lyle, J. O., 774.
Lucas, C. F., 866.
Lair, W. T., 916.
Loftis, William, 1110.
Liggett, Frank, 1210.
Lankford, Pearl, 1210.
Lair, William, 1236.

Moody, W. A., 41.
Miller, Joe, 287.
Minor, Bettie, 310.
Miller, Mary, 327.
Millwee, Ed., 434.
McNees, H. C., 409.
Mulliniks, Josephine, 510.
McClendon, Mary, 558.
McCampbell, Amauda, 604.
Moore, Permelia, 604.
Moody S. C., 650.
Massie, W. L., 651.

McBroom, Clark, 651.
McGlasson, Belle, 676.
Mathis, Mattie, 701.
McClellan, Watt, 701.
Morrison, Mrs. J. A., 746.
March, Emily, 800.
Miller, J. D., 866.
Murphy, Etheleene, 866.
Murshall, Nannie, 941.
McFeek, Mrs. A. T., 941.
McAlister, J. R., 1034.
Moore, Glenn, 1061.
Mceks, M. W., 1236.
Mason, Frances, 1236.
McCord, P. G., 254.
Niv. R. N. and D. W. 385.

Nix, R. N. and D. W., 385. Nesbit, "Ted," 558. Nix, Mary, 774. Nix, Ann, 1111. Newton, Margaret, 1179.

Petty, D. A., 916. Parham, Mary, 139. Pope, J. D., 139. Petty, Mary, 230. Phifer, Mary D., 384. Phillips, W. A., 485. Paisley, Jessie, 510, 533. Perry, Mrs. Alex., 665. Primm, Narcissus, 676. Phelps, Sarah, 746. Pomeroy, Dovie, 774. Phelps, J. B., 800. Powell, Florence, 820. Pyle, Arkly, 800.

Richardson, Myrtle, 360. Riley, Lias, 535. Rash, W. A., 536. Redding, J. T., 629. Robinson, G. H., 676. Robbins, J. T., 676. Robert, Mary, 701. Riley, John, 775. Reams, T. B., 1210. Rhea, L. A., 1236.

Stephens, Maggie, 310. Summitt, J. E., 327. Speegle, Oscar, 510. Swinny, J. W., 628. Sanders, Willie, 650. Sisco, J. A., 774. Smith. Roy, 809. Shugart, J. T., 916. Sparks, Albert, 941. Speight. Ruth, 1111. Smith, G. Dallas, 1241.

Thweatt, A. P., 1061. Thomas, J. W., 254. Thigpen, G. C., 536. Timmerman, Jessie, 676. Timmerman, C. E. O., 820. Tenpenny, Hurrin L., 866. Thomason, Ella, 1211. Todd, R. E., 746.

Vandiver, Rosa, 310, Vickrey, William, 732,

Wilkerson, Alice, 135, Wainright, Allen J., 230. Watson, W. S., 360. Wright, Daniel, 360. Whirfield, Opal, 384. Williams, Edd, 408. Woodlee, Lena, 408. Walker, J. C., 534. Warren, Johnnie, 578, 938. Willis, Marion, 578. Whitehurst, Hiram, 746. Warren, A. W., 800. Winkler, Alice, 800. Wall, Leona, 1156. Wallace, M. M., 1212. Womack, Gertrude, 1236.

York, Frederick, 384. Young, Nancy, 408. Yates, Callie, 774.