Gentlemen: I want to try TWO-FOR-ONE on my own flock and am therefore taking advantage of your introductory offer. Please send me Parcel Post C.O.D. all charges prepaid. (Check the offer you want.)

Large Flock 6-$1.00 packages of TWO-FOR-ONE-C. O. D., $2.00

Small Flock 2-$1.00 packages of TWO-FOR-ONE-C. O. D., $1.00

Street or R.F.D.

Town......State.....

$3.00 VALUE FOR $1.00

By special arrangement with one of the leading Eastern manufacturers, we are able to offer our readers a real bargain in the

"CAPITOL" LEVER SELF-FILLING FOUNTAIN PEN

SOME OF ITS FINE POINTS

GOLD PENS are 14 K. gold, spring tempered with special care, pointed with hard iridium. These pens have been famous for more than half a century.

CLIP is riveted to the cap, and prevents loss of pen from the pocket.

HOLDERS are made of the best quality hard rubber, and are not injured by

Lever or filling device is riveted to the barrel; when raised for filling the pen, pushes the pressure bar and the sac, filling the pen full, clean and quick.

The retail selling price of the pen is three dollars, but to every reader who sends a new subscriber at the regular subscription price of $2.50 and adds one dollar we will send this pen as a mark of our appreciation.

Please understand that the offer does not apply to renewals. It is made as a special inducement to get new subscribers.

Order early and avoid disappointment.

ADDRESS

GOSPEL ADVOCATE

317-319 Fifth Avenue, North

NASHVILLE, TENN.

FIELD REPORTS

Ocala, Fla., November 7.—Yesterday we had a fine meeting at Lacota. Large audience. They want me regularly on the second Lord's day in each month to preach for them. Prospects are good here for good results in the future.—G. W. Jarrett.

Tuscumbia, Ala., November 6.—The meeting at St. Elmo, Tenn., resulted in six additions. I am now here helping Brother G. A. Dunn. Thirteen confessions to date. The work at St. Elmo has promise of great things in the future—a fine church.—H. M. Phillips.

Smyrna, Tenn., November 9.—Since last report I have assisted in four meetings in Alabama and one in Tennessee, with about forty-eight confessions in all. I am now in a mission meeting near Smyrna, at the Rockdale Schoolhouse. Interest fine. I go home from here—Oakman, Ala,—A. D.

Columbus, Ohio, November 9.—Our meeting is still going on. Two precious souls have confessed their Lord and will be baptized to-night after the services. Brother A. A. Bunner is holding the meeting. He surely does preach the gospel in its purity. Brethren, pray for us and our success in the gospel.—A. M. Fellows.

Livingston, Tenn., Route 1, November 6.—I preached a few days last week at Liberty Hill, in Jackson County. Very good crowds and interest. Rained out a few times. This is just a country schoolhouse, but good can be done there. I have two or three more short meetings promised for this season, then my protracted-meeting work will end for a while.—Willie Hunter.

Dongola, III., November 7.—We are still having a fine meeting in Wetaug. Large crowds at the baptizing yesterday. Still cleaning up the Baptists Several Baptists have been baptized. I will be at Christian Chapel till Friday, then go back to Wetaug to establish a church there. I will then preach some more at Dongola, and then, if the Lord wills, go back to Little Rock, Ark.

—J. C. Mosley.

Cheap Hill, Tenn., Route 2, November 8.—Brother B. W. Davis, of Ashland City, Tenn., has just closed a good meeting at Antioch, in which two young men were baptized and the church built up in the faith. Brother Davis will preach for us monthly next year. Any congregation in need of a sound preacher will not make a mistake in calling Brother Davis for a meeting.—J. M. Glasgow.

Kelso, Tenn., November 8.—On last Lord's day I had the happy privilege of preaching at Lexie, Tenn., in the morning and at Shady Grove in the afternoon. There were large crowds at both services, with very splendid attention. The Lord willing, I shall respond to their cordial invitation and preach for them again the first Lord's day in December. May our prayers

Home-made Remedy Stops Coughs Quickly

The best cough medicine you even used. A family supply easily and quickly made. Saves about $2. *******

You might be surprised to know that the best thing you can use for a severe cough, is a remedy which is easily prepared at home in just a few moments. It's cheap, but for prompt results it beats anything also you ever tried. Usually stop the ordinary cough or chest cold in 24 hours. Tastes pleasant, too—children like it—and it is pure and good.

Pour 2½ ounces of Pinex in a pint bottle; then fill it up with plain granulated sugar syrup. Or use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup, if desired. Thus you make a full pint—a family supply—but costing no more than a small bottle of ready-made cough syrup.

small bottle of ready-made cough syrup.

And as a cough medicine, there is really nothing better to be had at any price. It goes right to the spot and gives quick, lasting relief. It promptly heals the inflamed membranes that line the throat and air passages, stops the annoying throat tickle, loosens the phlegm, and soon your cough stops entirely. Splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway pine extract, famons for healing the membranes.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind. syrup.

TETTERINE for the COMPLEXION

60c at your druggist's or from Shuptrine Co., Savannah, Ga.

Antiseptic Analgosic Antiphlogistic (Prevents Infection) (Relieves Pain) (Allays Inflammation)

Oil Eucalyptus Globulus Oil Peppermint
Oil Pinns Silvestrls
Oil Wintergreen

Thoroughly mixed in proper ratio and sequence and at proper temperature, with refined Petrolatum base.

Eucapine Salve is rapidly becoming a household necessity. It is in constant use as a preventative of diseases of the air as a preventative of diseases of the air passages, and as a dependable curative agent in ordinary inflammatory condi-tions. Try it for nose sores, catarrh, ca-tarrhal headaches, cuts, sores, burns bruises. Splendid for sore feet. Will not blister. Full sized jar free to physicians with quantitative formula if desired. 50c the 2 oz. jar. Ask your druggist; or by mail from and efforts cause the word to have free course.-G. H. O'Neal.

Piedmont Laboratories, Inc., Clinton, S. C.

Belle Plain, Kan., November 7.—I began a meeting here yesterday. The meeting starts off well, with good prospects for a good meeting. I recently held a week's meeting at Cross Roads, near Acorn, Mo. There were four additions and an unusual interest. I do not think I have ever seen people more anxious to hear the truth. A Baptist preacher asked me to go over and hold a meeting for his church. I promised to return and hold another meeting for them some time. Brother J. G. Colley, related to Brother A. O. Colley, of Dallas, Texas, lives near Acorn, and is responsible for the meeting being held .- James E. Laird.

Livingston, Tenn., Route 1, November 7.—I preached eight nights at Mount Pleasant. One baptism, I went from there to Pleasant Grove, near Celina, and preached twelve nights. One man and his wife made the good con-fession and were baptized "the same hour of the night." I am now in Andrews Cove, where I have held two meetings this year. I go from here to Deck Cove for a mission meeting. There is not a Christian after the New Testament example in the Cove, and but one man that has ever heard a Christian preacher. I have calls for more meetings than I can hold this year .- J. C. Pendergrass.

Swifton, Ark., November 8.—I closed meeting at East Hopewell, four miles from Minturn, Ark., last night, with a full house and fine interest. I preached here nineteen years ago, and many of the old citizens are still living here that knew me then as a young preacher. There was a congregation then, but there has been none The members meet at Clover Bend and Strangers' Home. tized one lady who had made the confession at Brother Curry's meeting at Strangers' Home, which closed week ago yesterday, and I met Brotli-er Curry for the first time in twenty I begin to-night, with the vears. Sneed congregation, near Swifton, and will be here a week. I will not get back to Beaumont, Texas, until De-cember. I will be in Oklahoma the cember. I will be in Oklahoma the last of this month, the Lord willing-W. F. Lemmons.

Judsonia, Ark., November 8.—The meeting which began at Hot Springs on Saturday evening before the third Lord's day in October continued over three Lord's days. The faithful few were strengthened and encouraged through the preaching of Brother Barber and will continue to meet in the courthouse. There are now between fifteen and twenty members who will meet on the first day of the week to worship, where there were only five or six before the meeting. We had quite a number of visiting brethren from several States, who were in Hot Springs taking the baths. These brethren rendered great service in the meet-

RECOMMENDED NO SOLD BY DRUGGISTS NO OPTICIANS WRITE FOR FREE EYE BOOK, MURINE CO. CHICAGO

There is a great need for a strong church in Hot Springs, as there is a great deal of vice there; then, too, there are brethren visiting there continually who need a place to worship. Let any brethren who should visit the city be sure and meet with the church there Take a South Hot Springs car, which will take you direct to the courthouse.-J. O. Yingling.

Taft, Fla., November 6.—This was a day of rejoicing with the faithful few who have been meeting here. Four weeks ago we found the door of the house closed, and we had services in the yard. Then we agreed to build a place that we could call "home;" so we moved back to Pinecastle, and last Monday morning began work on our tabernacle. We framed it, sided and covered and partly seated it, and to-day had two services in it, and we were happy. Quite a number of friends came in to rejoice with us. We have no window lights, no lamps, and have only half seats enough, and it needs painting. Brethren, please help us finish this home for the people of God. This is the only church of Christ in this county, and I am the only gospel preacher in this county, so far as we know. I organized this church two years ago, and I have lived with them, and this year I am laboring for them. While we are few in number and poor in this world's goods, we are trying to sound out the word. Brethren, send us one Lord's day's offering. We have not asked any one to help, but now we need your help. Send all donations to my address.—Taft, Fla., Box 53.—G. B. Lambright,

ASTHMA CURED BY SIMPLE REMEDY

Famous Druggist Discovers Simple Remedy For Asthma and Makes Generous FREE TRIAL Offer to Renders.

Thirty years ago Mr. C. Leavengood, a widely known Kansas druggist, discovered a simple, easy-to-take prescription for Asthma. simple, easy-to-take prescription for Asthma. He gave it to people who had suffered for years, and, to their amazement, they say they were easily cured. These people told their friends, and in this way thousands have found the sure way to cure Asthma. Mr. Leavengood feels so confident that his prescription will cure in all cases that he generously offers to send a big bottle on ten days' Free Trial to any reader of this paper who will write for it. If it cures, pay $1.25; otherwise you owe nothing. Send no money just write to C. LEAVENGOOD, 1648 S. W. Blyd., Rosedale, Kansas, and the big bottle will be mailed immediately.

Used for more than 42 years. The benefit de-rived from it is unquestionable.

Established 1879

For more than a generation we have been receiving grateful testimony to the virtues of this thoroughly tested and proren treatment. It stops violent coughing, and difficult breathing, assuring restful sleep because the antiseptic vapor carriers healing with every breath. Booklet 43 tells why the diseases for which Cresolene is recommended yield to this simple and dependable treatment.

Vapo-Cresolene is sold by druggists VAPO-CRESOLENE CO., 62 Cortlandt St., New York

Send for this rich looking gold filled Combination Watch-Bracelet teday. You will find it to be a $10.00 value. Has adhested 7-leweled movement, the case being gold-filled and warranted to wear 10 years. It is a stem-wind and stem-set model and it looks like a very expensive watch. The picture shows you what a handsome model it is and the gold dial adds to its attractiveness. The bracelet is flexible and will fit any wrist, so you need not hesitate to order on account of size. It is sent direct you, as pictured, in a relevating ellicities box. Each watch is examined before leaving the factory and you will find them periest time-pieces.

Don't Hesitate! Our Money-Back Guarantee Protects You

So positive are we that you will be delighted with your watch that we ABSOLUTELY GUAR. ANTEE to refund your money if you are not satisfied after examination; therefore, do not hesitate to order. Send no money. Just rush your name and address. Your watch will be sent by return prepaid mail and delivered right by your door by the postman our advertised price of $4.95 on arrival and remember, if you are not entirely pleased after examination, roturn your watch and we will refund your money, every cent of it.

EMPIRE CITY MFG. CO. Dept. 168, 138 5th Ave., New York

TETTERINE

Makes low necks and short sleeves possible. It clears the skin

60c at your druggist's or from the SHUP-TRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

SUFFER PAIN?

Heed This Woman's Advice

Springdale, Ky. — "I was in a rundown condition and every month suffered pain. I had taken treatments for feminine trouble, but seemed to get no results from the treatments. It was through my daughter-in-law that I heard of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and decided I would try it. I took a few doses when at her home in Illinois, and when I came home I took it regularly. It surely helped me very much. I can say that 'Favorite Prescription' is a very good remedy for women in a run-down condition or if troubled with feminine trouble."—Mrs. Henry Soward, Route 1.

lition or it troubled with feminine trouble."—Mrs. Henry Soward, Route 1.

If you have the above-mentioned symptoms, you should profit by Mrs. Soward's advice, and get the "Prescription" from your druggist at once. To be had in tablets or liquid; or write Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y. for free medical advice.

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

More Help for Washington.

BY W. S. LONG.

While away from Washington, D. C., for a few weeks, making a visit to a few churches, it was my good pleasure to visit the home of our beloved M. C. Kurfees and preach at Campbell Street Church. This is one of the best congregations in the United States, and I attribute its success largely to the untiring work of Brother Kurfees. He is one of the hardest-working men I ever saw. It was a great pleasure for me to be with this grand soldier of the cross. He was like a father to me.

The Campbell Street Church is going to help us freely to meet the debt on the church in Washington, so that we may do mission work further east, There are nine million people in the three principal cities, Baltimore (forty miles of Washington), Philadelphia, and New York, and only two congregations. Just think of this! We owe fifteen thousand dollars on our property in Washington, and should have the hearty cooperation of all brethren, and at once, so we could help millions near us. Suppose every congregation set November 20 and send that Lord'sday's contribution to this work Let this be the day to do the task. Address all donations to E. L. Mills, treasurer, Box 204, Washington, D. C. If you desire to meet with us to worship in Washington, please write me. Address: W. S. Long, 1319 Howard Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

The Mississippi Field.

BY M. C. CAYCE.

On the same night 1 closed the meeting at Duck Hill, Miss., I took the midnight train for Nashville, where I spent a little over two weeks at home. While there my time was full with breaking up housekeeping and seeing relatives and friends. I kept busy. I preached once each at Waverly-Belmont and Russell Street, attended two prayer meetings at Lawrence Avenue. and had the pleasure of hearing Brother S. M. Jones, who was then in a meeting at Twelfth Avenue, North, preach one time. I had been away in protracted-meeting work in this State for five months, and it was to me a great pleasure to meet and talk with so many brethren and friends. Besides our home preachers, I met while there Brethren S. H. Hall, Charley Nichol, S. M. Jones, and E. A. Elam.

On the second Lord's day in October I began a meeting at Charleston, Miss., which continued two weeks, resulting in fifteen additions and seven restorations.

Last Sunday morning and night I preached here in our own meeting-house which we bought last April from the Presbyterians, and the need of

Sold Everywhere Tablets or Liquid and Sickheadaches are often caused by Constipa-are easy to take and cause a normal and easy action of the bowels.

AT ALL DRUGGISTS

MPLES MEDICAL CO., Elkhart, Ind.

more workers in Mississippi is, if possible, more deeply impressed upon my heart than ever. When I see how richly we are blessed in Nashville with so many good meetinghouses and such a large number of good, honest, earnest, consecrated Christians, then return here where we are so few and there are so many towns and counties where we are not represented at all, my prayer is: "Pray ye the Lord of the harvest, that he will send more laborers into his vineyard." Since the middle of September I have received seven letters from Natchez, containing a loud Macedonian cry, "Come over and help us," which I hope to do soon. My wife, her mother, and our daughter are here with me now, and we are doing light housekeeping at 143 Wacaster Street. My return here has greatly encouraged the faithful few. who have never failed to meet for Lord's-day worship since we began. Besides regular meetings on Sunday, morning and night, and midweek prayer meeting, by personal and private teaching and cottage prayer meetings I hope to increase our number and working strength. It is slow work, but, persisted in, cannot fail. Please note that my address is now changed to 143 Wacaster Street, Jackson, Miss. Any one knowing of persons here whom I might interest by visiting will please send me their names and addresses.

The Church at Albany, Ala.

BY H. L. KIRBY.

On Sunday, November 13, the Lord willing, Brother J. Pettey Ezell will preach his last sermon for a while with the East Jackson Street church of Christ at Albany, Ala. After seven years' hard labor in this field, he is leaving with the good feeling of the membership. There is not one, so far as I know, that has anything against Brother Ezell. On the other hand, all regret to give him up. But all that love the Lord and rely upon his word are consoling themselves with Rom. 8: 28: "And we know that all things work together for good to them that love God, to them who are the called according to his purpose." There are few preachers that are better posted and more able to deliver lessons with force and interest than Brother Ezell. We pray God's blessings on him and his family and the cause in the new field in which he is to go.

But while we are regretting the loss of Brother Ezell, we are rejoicing to know that Brother Claude Woodruff will be with us for a year. Brother Woodruff is a young man, full of life and energy, and we do not think we could have got any one to fill the place better than he. With the good backing he will have, we look for a successful year. The Albany church has close to two hundred and forty members, among whom are a good many strong workers who are able to labor in word and doctrine. In fact, the most of the brotherhood are strong in the faith and are not drifted about by every wind of doctrine.

Through Brother Ezell's leadership and loyal backing, other places also have the word in its purity and simplicity. Hartselle, Athens, Trinity, and Tanner all have a fair start. And we are expecting to go into the highways and byways, the Lord willing.

Unimpeachable—If you were to see the unequaled volume of unimpeachable testimony in favor of Hood's Sarsaparilla, you would upbraid yourself for so long delaying to take this effective medicine for that blood disease from which you are suffering.

Headaches Vanish

Sick or nervous headaches, backaches, women's aches almost instantly respond to the liquid remedy Capudine. It stops the pain by removing the cause. Every home should keep a bottle handy. Sold by druggists, 10c, 30c, 60c. CAPUDINE Insist upon getting

Now Is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots.

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freckles, as Othine—double sirength—
Is guaranteed to remove these homely spots.

Simply get an ounce of Othine—double strength—from your druggist, and apply a little of it night—and morning and you should soon see that even the worst freckles have began to disappear, while the lighter mes have vanished entirely. It is seidem that more than one onnee is needed to completely clear the skin hd gain a beautiful clear complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength Othine as his is sold under guarantee of money back if it falls to remove freekles.

MEQUIDDY PRINTING CO.

	ENGRAVED VISITING CARDS	PLATE AND 100 CARDS
	2.2	One	Extra Lines
	Mrs. Morris E. Barr		$1.50
Ţ.	-10	D. S.	ottossa
2	Miss Virginia Haloy	5.25	2.75
3	Miss Pluth Heath	3.25	1,50
4	Miss Emma R. Seathers	3.25	1.50
5	Miss Almyra Reams	3.75	2.00
6	Mrs. Carey N. Posegate	5.25	2.75
7	275. Edward Glonn Walker	3.75	2.00
8	Mrs. Helen Simpson Cooper	5,25	2.75
9	Miss Flizabeth Barthell	3.75	2.00
10	Miss Kuthleen Vaughan	5.25	2.75
П	Mrs. Justin Potter	5,25	2,75
12	MR. JOHN T. CAMPBELL	4.25	2,25
13	MR. FRANK B. EMMERLING	5.50	3.00
14	Miss Hester E. Bratten	5.50	3.00
15	MR. JACK SWANEY	3.75	2.00
16	MR.WILLIAM A. HUDSON	4.25	2,25
200			. $1.50
50 C	ards reprinted from plateards reprinted from plate
100 T	late-Marked Cards, extra		25
30 3	lourning Cards from plate	CHEST	2.50
100 3	fourning Cards from plate	KARAPAN.	3.00
Erasi	orders of 100 Cards, with 50 name only and 50	with a	1.25 ddress.
chare	re $1.25 for each lot of 50.
Ch	arge 25 per cept extra line rate for adding Mr., Mr.	s. Mis	s. erc.,

Charge 25 per cent extra line rate for adding Mr., Mrs., Miss, to old plates.

Bank Guarantee

State Bank of Philadelphia

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

Mr. E. J. Reefer has deposited $10,000.00 with this bank as a guarantee that he will pay all the prizes awarded by the judges to the winners of this puzzle contest. This bank guarantees Mr. Reefer will do as he agrees.

STATE BANK OF PHILADELPHIA

3. L. Mouson

How many objects beginning with "L" can you find in this picture?

Open to Everybody

A GREAT big bona-fide chance to win $2,000 and 14 other Cash Prizes. Think of what you could do with $2,000 this very minute. Some one will win it! You have the same chance! How simple! Try your skill NOW!

Mail at once the names of all the objects you can find in the picture beginning with "L". It costs nothing to try. To the one sending in the largest and nearest correct list of names the first prize will be awarded. To the one sending in the second prize will be awarded, etc. In case of the for any prize offered, the full amount of such prize will be awarded to each tying contestant.

Costs Nothing to Try

Read the great simplicity of this offer. All you need to do is to look over the objects in the puzzle picture. Get everyone to help you. Get the whole family around. Write out every object beginning with "L", such as Limousine, Lock, etc. Nothing hidden – no need to turn the picture upside down. If the judges decide that your list is nearest correct list – the first prize of $40.00 will be awarded to you even though you do not send an order for "MORE EGGS". But we are giving you a chance to win far more than $40.

Win $2,000

Will you win $40 cr $2,000? If you are awarded first prize and have ordered no "MORE EGGS" you win $40. If you purchased $5.00 worth of "MORE EGGS," the same list wins $2,000. Which prize do you want?

Get Busy NOW!

Send in your list at once. Send your "MORE EGGS" order at the same time. Qualify for Big Cash Prizes.

.J. Reefer 25 9th and Spruce Streets, Philadelphia, Pa.

(Additional pictures sent free on request)

THE PRIZES

Winning Answers will receive Prizes as Follows:

If No "More Eggs" is ordered	If $1 Worth of "More Eggs" is Ordered	If $2 Worth of "More Eggs" is Ordered	If $5 Worth of "More Eggs" i · Ordered
1st Prize$40.00	$300.00	$600.00	$2,000.00
2nd Prize 20.00	150.00	300.00	1,000.00
3rd Prize 10.00	75.00	150.00	500.00
4th Prize 10.00	50.00	100.00	250.00
5th Prize 10.00	30.00	60.00	150.00
6th Prize 6.00	20.00	40.00	100.00
7th Prize 6.00	15.00	30.00	80.00
8th Prize 6.00	10.00	20.00	60.00
9th Prize 4.00	10.00	20.00	40.00
10th to 15th 4.00	10.00	20.00	40.00

(In the event of ties, duplicate prizes will be given.)

Observe These Rules :

- Any man, woman, girl, or boy living in America but re-siding outside of Philadelphia, who is not an employe or relative of an employe of E. J. Reefer may submit an answer. It costs nothing to try.
- All answers must be mailed by post office closing time, Dec. 10, 1921.
- 3. All lists of names should be written on one side of the paper only and numbered numerically, such as 1, 2, 3. Write your full name and address on each page in the upper right hand corner. If you desire to write anything else, use a separate sheet.
- else, use a separate sheet.

 4. Only such words as appear in the English dictionary will be counted. Do not use obsolete words. Where the plural is used the singular cannot be counted and vice-versa.

 5. Words of the same spelling can be used only once, even though used to designate different objects or articles, or parts of objects or articles, or parts of objects or articles, an object or article can be maned only once.

 5. Do not use compound words.
- 6 Do not use compound words, nor any words formed by the combination of two or more com-plete English words, where each word in itself is an object.

- 7. The answer having the largest and hearest correct list of names of visible objects and articles shown in the picture that begin with the letter "L." will be awarded first prize etc. Neatness, style, or handwriting haven obearing upon deciding the winner.
- 8. Candidates may co-operate in answering the puzzle, but only one prize will be swarded to any one household; nor will prizes be swarded to more than one of any group outside of the family where two or more have been working together.
- 9. There will be three independent judges, having no connection with E. J. Reefer, who will judge the answers submitted and award the prizes at the end of the contest, and participants agree to accept the decision of the judges as final and conclusive.
- 10. All answers will receive the same consideration regardless of whether or not an order for Recfer's "More Eggs" is sent.
- 11. The announcement of the prize winners and the list of words will be printed at the close of the contest and a copy malled to every person sending an order for "More Eggs".

Special Offer on "More Eggs" During This Puzzle Contest One Dollar Packages for $1.00.
5 One Dollar Packages for $2.00.
Economy Size Package for $5.00.

for $5.00.

The Economy Size package contains 20 times as much as the $1.00 size package. No goods bought during this purzie contest we subject to exchange, retund or approvat.

Volume LXIII. No. 47.

at night.

NASHVILLE, TENN., NOVEMBER 24, 1921.

$2.50 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

A Father's Prayer

Edgar A. Guest

0 0 0

Dear Lord, I do not ask for wealth or fame or place of pomp,
But let me keep my spirit young and with my children romp;
Let me with dignity and strength meet every morning task,
But let me be a boy at night. No more than this I ask.
A boy at night! O Father of us all, grant this to me!
Let Time not take away the lad that once I used to be;
By day a man's work I will do, obeying each command,
But make of me a child at night that children understand.
I would not grow too old for them, too old to race and shout;
I want my eyes to glow with mirth whenever they're about.
By day I'll face the heat and strife and battle for the right;
But, O dear Lord, I pray to be a little boy at night.
Dear Lord, I ask no lofty place or jeweled diadem;
I pray to keep my spirit young and fit to play with them
Though Time may wrinkle deep my face and turn my hair to white,
Let me come home to those I love, a little boy

Printed by permission of Mr. Guest's publishers, The Reilly & Lee Co.

Contents

CURRENT COMMENT 1138
OUR CONTRIBUTORS 1139 Spiritual Fires for Spiritual Cold —The Sacredness of Marriage and the Divorce Evil—Abra- ham: Why He Is Called—The Japan Work—Coming Home— Commendatory—Georgia and the Far Southern Field—Is the Ladder an Apt Illustration?
HOME READING
TEXAS - OKLAHOMA DEPART- MENT
Horton-Brewer Debate—Evangelis- tic Work in Florida 1153 FIELD REPORTS 1154-1158
Work in the Florida Field 1156 Mission Work in a Tent 1157

CURRENT COMMENT

= By A. B. L. :

Our attitude toward the Bible reveals our attitude toward God and his Son. If we read and study this wonderful book daily, it is a good sign that we know and love its Author. If we read it only occasionally, it suggests that we are merely reading to keep up appearances. There are friends and relatives from whom we would rejoice to receive a letter every day, and reading that letter would be one of the distinct pleasures of the day. Do we feel that way toward God's message? Can we exclaim with David: "O how I love thy law! It is my meditation all the day?" It was no mere figure of speech with the Psalmist when he declared that God's word was "sweeter also than honey and the droppings of the honeycomb." He loved God so much that he found it difficult to express the intensity of his cravings for communion with him. It has been said that a young lady once laid down a book which she had just finished with the remark that it was the dullest story she had ever read. In the course of time she became engaged to a young man, and one night she said to him: "I have a book in my library whose author's name, and even initials, are precisely the same as yours. Isn't that a singular coincidence?" "I do not think so," he replied. "Why not?" she asked. "For the simple reason that I wrote the book." That night the young lady sat up until two o'clock reading the book again, and this time it seemed the most interesting and fascinating book in the world. It is hard to believe that the young man in the story would have waited so long to tell the young lady he had written a book. But there is a fine point in the story. If we love God and his Son as we should, we will never find a dull line in the Bible,

It is a sad commentary that the average nominal Christian does not read the Bible at all. He keeps it in the house because he thinks it is the respectable thing to do, and views it as an ornament. We are reminded of what Bishop Hoss said at a Nashville picnic:

"The religious knowledge of too many adults resembles, I am afraid, the religious knowledge of little Eva.

""So you attend Sunday school regularly?" the minister said to little Eva.

"'O, yes, sir.'

"'And you know your Bible?'

"'O, yes, sir.'

 $^{\prime\prime}$. Could you perhaps tell me something that is in it?'

"'I could tell you everything that is in it."

"' Indeed,' and the minister smiled. 'Do tell me, then.'

"Sister's beau's photo is in it,' said little Eva, promptly, and ma's recipe for vanishing cream is in it, and a lock of my hair cut off when I was a baby is in it, and the ticker for pa's watch is in it."

0 0 0

Nearly every preacher and editor will tell you that congregational singing, when entered into heartily, is one of the most edifying items of worship that was ever enjoyed by any people. We can almost determine the status of a church by the way its members sing. Writing on the importance of cultivating this feature of the service, the editor of the Christian-Evangelist says:

Congregational singing has always been a power in the churches of Christ. A singing church is generally well filled, and it is always a happy church. No pastor could do a better thing for his people than to teach them to love and sing the hymns of the church.

Every paster is robbed of a degree of power and inspiration when the people do not sing, and everybody loses spiritual joy and growth by the omission. The rhythm and cooperation necessary to congregational singing wears down the rough places in church life and fosters real heartfelt fellowship. In hymns we admonish one another, proclaim our faith, and give glory to God.

Unfortunately congregational singing has become a farce in many quarters for the simple reason that the congregation does not sing. Many complaints to this effect have been received. For example, Edgar Salkeld, pastor of the First Christian Church at Oklahoma City, said to his flock recently: "In the singing of the hymns we note that not more than one-fifth of the congregation ever opens a hymn book. Our members are missing much by not making the most of the opportunity of joining in the singing. It will enlarge your hearts if you will sing the praises of God."

The people are not always to blame for the failure to sing in the hearty old-fashioned way. The introduction of the organ and other instruments has drowned out their voices. When high-priced vocalists are paid to sing, the average member reaches the conclusion that congregational singing is of secondary importance. It often happens that the efforts of the choir and their very appearance in an elevated position dampens the ardor of those in the congregation who can sing if they would. God's plan is not only the safe plan, but the most efficient. Take away the obstacles which human pride and invention have raised against the simple New Testament plan of worship, and we will hear fewer complaints to the effect that congregational singing is passé.

0 0 0

Recently the editor of this page commented upon the good things that are often found in the daily papers. They are not altogether filled with accounts of murders and movie scandals and politics. Not infrequently we run across a prose paragraph or a poem that would grace the columns of the cleanest journal among us. Here is an illustration of what I mean, for which credit is due to the Baltimore Sun:

If I were asked what I believe, I could not help but say: The gentle and the simple creeds of boyhood's vesterday: The tender faith in Bible things, the truth, the way, the right;

The Golden Rule to live one's life according to the light; And everywhere the thought of God, that we are everywhere The children of one Father's love and of his heavenly care.

If I were asked what I believe, I know my thoughts would go Back to the little child at prayer in the soft evenglew;

And I can think of nothing else so beautiful, so sweet, As prayer beside my mother's knee, who tried to lead our feet

In paths of righteousness and truth where none could go astray

From that dear life of simple trust in childhood's yesterday.

If I were asked what I believe, I'd have to say, as then: A simpler faith in God's command, a manlier trust 'mong men.

men, A clear and more abiding course t'ward that which men might call

The straight-out-from-the-shoulder faith of Peter and of Paul:

The teachings most of all that came to us in Sunday school.

Way back in little childhood's land, the land of Golden Rule.

0 0 0

Abraham Lincoln's Bible.

The Bible which fed the soul of Abraham Lincoln in the Kentucky log cabin of his boyhood was one of the cheap little Bibles imported from England by vote of the American Congress in 1777. Lincoln loved the Bible above all books, and once paid the following tribute to it: "I am profitably engaged in reading the Bible. Take all of this book upon reason that you can, and the balance by faith, and you will live and die a better man. In regard to the great Book, I have only to say that it is the best book which God has given to men."—Selected.

Spiritual Fires for Spiritual Cold.

BY R. P. CUFF.

After Paul's appeal to Cæsar, it was the obligation of the Roman government to see that Paul reached Rome and that his case be tried by the emperor. When on his way to the Italian capital, Paul and his company passed through a dangerous voyage, among other difficulties encountering shipwreck near the island of Melita. Some cast themselves overboard and swam to the shore. Others used planks and spars in order to reach the island. It was probably the month of October. In making their escape, every garment they were was soaked in the waters of the stormy sea. The rain was falling. They must have been cold. They certainly needed kindness. And the barbarians, who inhabited the island, accorded the escaped crew and passengers of the stranded ship "no common kindness." the barbarians showed us no common kindness: for they kindled a fire, and received us all, because of the present rain, and because of the cold." (Acts 28: 2.) There was no display of savagery in the treatment Paul and his companions received. These barbarians did not take the life of the escaped persons in order to appropriate to themselves the wreckage of the ship, which was aground not far from the beach, but they showed a courtesy and civility not to be frowned upon-a kindness to be kept in memory. rendered a genuine service in time of physical damp and cold. Our respects go cut to those barbarians for that "no common kindness." But there is a cold far more benumbing and desperate than any caused by tempestuous seas, downpouring terrents, or the wintry weather of the October season. Spiritual cold unchecked is unmistakably deadly.

All too often winter seasons come in the spiritual life of many individuals. They drift. They lose their grasp of things sacred. They have stifled conscience till its plaintive ery comes feebly from the Far-away, as though it were a paltry voice from the confines of a bunged barrel. Their mental habits have become so established from thinking of sin and wickedness and craftiness and deceit and treachery that they find it hard to break away and to heed the faint whisperings of that almost dead conscience as it calls to truth and right and duty. Perchance they have left their "first love." The warmth and glow of early service have disappeared. There are some persons who have not departed so far but that they are merely lukewarm. Others have gone so far away from their "first love" that the pallor and coldness of death overspread their spiritual selves. It is probable that they will never become truly penitent. It is probable that doom awaits them at last in God's awarding day. Penitence there must be, or the doom is certain. The cold must be dispelled or the warmth cannot reanimate the life with a sparkling vitality and vigor.

Many influences are at work in the world to bring chill and cold and frost and gloom to spiritual life. Speculative theories and allurements to worldliness are workers of ill to real service. They gnaw at the throat of the spiritual man. The present widespread depression in industry and finance is as though it were numerous icicles hanging in the doorway to sound religious attitudes. Cold has power. It travels by stages. It brings (1) discomfort, (2) inaction, (3) death.

But thanks to the Author of influences that countercheck the forces that have chilling power. Our God has given his word that penetrates to the cold corners of the heart and fires it with truth eternal. Would a man be all afire in service for God? Let him study God's word; let him have Jesus talk with him ("Was not our heart burning within us, while he spake to us in the way?"—Luke 24: 32); let him not neglect to pray; and let him seek his "first love" again—participate actively in the Lord's work. The word of God, association with Jesus, prayer, and spiritual activity are the fires to which a man must go, if he would ward away spiritual cold.

It must not be assumed that man is perfectly passive, and therefore irresponsible, while either cold or warmth is coming upon him. Both chilling and warming influences are in the world. The man who permits himself to yield to the chilling influences and to deny the means that would bring warmth to the soul is responsible for the discomfort, inaction, and death which spiritual cold entails.

Nor is the church dismantled of responsibility. It must circulate the truth; it must bring the kindling and the fuel for the spiritual fires. Barbarians cannot kindle the fires needed to dispel spiritual cold. The damp atmosphere of sin can be made livable and healthy only by the fires which the Almighty has kindled in revealing his truth and which must be fanned by the breath of our prayers and replenished by the service of our lives. In the presence of such fire, sin recedes. Not until every shivering soul has felt the reviving rays of such fire should a Christian dare to consider himself free from the blood of the souls that will perish unless they are reached by the fires of truth.

The Sacredness of Marriage and the Divorce Evil.

BY M. JANE FLOYD.

What is marriage, anyway? Had you really stopped to consider marriage thoughtfully and study the subject from a Bible viewpoint and with a religious attitude of mind?

First, the definition. Gathering together the facts of the holy Book on the subject, we would define it as "the closest hcly union of the two sexes that exists, instituted by our God in the beginning of time for the propagation of human life on earth, and for the assistance and companionship that each member of the holy union renders the other." This seems to be the definition that most nearly tallies with the Bible's teaching.

Second, when was marriage instituted, and where is it written of first in "The Book?" In Gen. 2: 18-25 God said: "It is not good that the man should be alone; I will make him a help meet for him. And out of the ground Jehovah God formed , , , every living creature, , , . But for man there was not found a help meet for him. And Jehovah God caused a deep sleep to fall upon the man, and he slept; and he took one of his ribs, and closed up the flesh instead thereof: and the rib, which Jehovah God had taken from the man, made he a woman, and brought her unto the man. And the man said, This is now bone of my bones, and flesh of my flesh: she shall be called Woman. because she was taken out of Man. Therefore [or, for this reason) shall a man leave his father and his mother, and shall cleave unto his wife: and they shall be one flesh. And they were both naked, the man and his wife, and were not ashamed." In those seven beautiful verses God instituted marriage, the sacred union and relation of the sexes, from which has flowed the world-wide stream of different types of humanity.

How wonderful it is when you give it a little serious thought—"and they were not ashamed" of their nudity! Why? For the simple reason that sin, the great horned monster, had not as yet entered their bodies and minds. They were as pure as babes in mind. Did you ever watch a little child toddle across the floor arrayed with nothing but a heavenly smile? In that you have a good example of the purity that existed before Satan entered Eden in the guise of a serpent.

Before Satan entered into the realm of humanity, marriage was a pure and holy relationship, instituted by God, our wonderful Creator, for the purpose of propagation of human life, in order that the world might be peopled and the world's business be carried on decently and in order until such a time as God should see fit and proper to terminate its existence. But marriage now-what is it now? Compare it thoughtfully with the sacred unions of the early Bible times. Isn't it astonishing, shocking, and shameful, the manner in which that God-created institution has been, and is now being, abused by not only the worldly sinners, but by professed Christians? A sin, a shame, that people are ashamed to mention, much less discuss. Marriage is one of the most abused and the least discussed vital Bible topics we find, I believe; and it is a law of God which not only sinners of the world violate, but many supposed Christians are disobeying right to-day. Why? Simply because they are taught less on that subject than on others seemingly more vital. Our ministers of the gospel touch very lightly on the subject of marriage and divorce, because they have grown to feel, through years of wrong teaching and training, that it is not so vital to the Christian's life as the teaching on the plan of salvation and all the other laws, commandments, and virtues that go along together and constitute a Christian's life. There are so many who attend church services now, too, who are mismated in marriage, divorced or seeking separation or divorce-fornicators or adulterers—that the minister would refrain from discussing such a subject from fear of getting too personal with the churchgoers or afraid (if you will excuse the slang) of "fitting the shoe too tightly" on the majority of the members. He is fearful of being ousted from the ministry of that particular church for which he is preaching, through the offense of telling his flock the truth whether it hurts or wounds their feelings or not.

The relation of true marriage is coming fast to be a relic of history and not a question of the modern century. It is abused now just as it was during Solomon's reign and as it was before and after the reign of kings.

When you give your body and a part of your soul to a man or woman in the sacred bonds of marriage, it is more than a human tie, and a tie which is not as easily broken as the world of to-day seems to think. Earthly laws and forces may seem to break it, but the all-wise and loving God who rules over both heaven and earth, whose decree is far above the little divorce courts, still binds the two together just the same. If God joins two hearts and lives together, they, as a rule, live in perfect union until death parts them, and even then the mate who is left behind longs for the time when God shall see fit to permit both spirits to dwell together in the great beyond.

There are about two reasons for which Ged allows separation and remarriage; those reasons are death and the sin of adultery, together with all the evil forces connected with and of like nature with adultery, which are lust, lasciviousness, sensuality, and fornication.

The above are only a small part of the truths which are set forth in the teaching of the Bible on this important life relationship. The writer hopes to continue the same subject at another time.

Abraham-Why He Is Called.

BY H. LEO BOLES.

We are not disposed to inquire into the motives of Jehovah and ask a reason for his doing anything, neither do we wish to enter the field of speculation and there indulge in imaginations. It is our desire to write about the things which are revealed. There is much revealed in God's description of man and delineation of character which we have not yet learned. No one should think that his own circumference of knowledge incloses all that God has revealed, neither should he accuse one of speculation if one has gone beyond the boundary of the other's knowledge.

Jehovah's selection of Abraham to be the father of a nation expresses Jehovah's wisdom and sovereignty. Abraham is not selected and called merely for Abraham's own sake, but he is selected that Jehovah may express to him and to his posterity the right of Jehovah to choose whom he may. The divine purpose is unfolded in the history of Israel as a nation and the coming of the Messiah. The election is national, rather than individual, and Abraham is selected as the starting point of this nation. "Yet now hear, O Jacob my servant, and Israel, whom I have chosen." (Isa. 44: 1.) This shows that Israel was chosen. Israel was chosen when Abraham was selected. Jehovah guarded and guided his chosen in giving Isaac unto Abraham and in choosing Jacob instead of Esau. We would not discount nor depreciate the character of Abraham in emphasizing that Israel was the chosen nation. Abraham was well worthy of the honor of being made the father of many peoples. "Abraham shall surely become a great and mighty nation, and all the nations of the earth shall be blessed in him. For I have known him, to the end that he may command his children and his household after him, that they may keep the way of Jehovah, to do righteousness and justice; to the end that Jehovah may bring upon Abraham that which he hath spoken of him." (Gen. 18: 18, 19.) This shows that Jehovah's purpose in calling Abraham was to make a great nation of his seed; it also shows that Abraham was well fitted for the honor conferred upon him.

The great principle in election is service; there is no election simply for honor and happiness. Divine election according to the Old Testament teaching is national and for service. This is a larger and nobler conception of election than many have who think that Jehovah has selected a few to be his special pets or favorites. No one is called or chosen for his own personal enjoyment, but he is selected or called to become a member of a holy society or as a citizen of the great commonwealth of Israel. So the selection of Abraham is for the sake of the many; he is the father of the faithful. A people has been chosen in the call of Abraham and by special methods and peculiar laws have been trained as the vehicle of God's purpose, that in this people "all the nations of the earth may be blessed." Israel was not allowed, by the prophets, to think that they were an end or that Jehovah has selected them for their own sake. Their nation becomes an expression of the divine purpose when they are faithful to his law. Israel belonged to Jehovah, and not that Jehovah belonged to Israel; Jehovah's purpose stretched far beyond Israel's conception.

Why did God call Abraham? Why did he not call his father, Terah, or some other of the patriarchs that lived at that time? Jehovah could see and did see in Abraham the making of a man of faith, who should in every sense be worthy of such a position in the history of redemption. While his faith at that time was not so strong as it afterwards became, yet he saw what Abraham would do. He saw in him a father who would command his children after him to obey Jehovah. He did not choose him so much for what he was at the time, but for what he saw he would develop into. A man in middle life once said, when he chose a girl in her teens for his wife, that he did not choose her for what she was at that time, but for the kind of wife he could make out of her; so Jehovah saw in Abraham the possibilities of a great man of faith. He saw that he could lead and guide him in his service until he should become strong and stand out as a mighty power of strength and a monument of faith to all generations. Jehovah saw that he could trust Abraham; he could depend upon him; that he could depend upon him as the earthen vessel into which he could pour the precious promises, which should afterwards be developed, enlarged, fulfilled, and become a blessing to all nations; he could trust Abraham that this clay would not mar in the potter's hand. The history of Abraham shows that the wisdom of God was verified in the election and call of Abraham.

Another thought is suggested by the election and call of Abraham. Here is a combination of the divine power and human freedom. This call sets apart a family in which starts, at first with imperceptible steps, the journey of humanity on the path of free salvation. From the first we see that God does nothing without man and that man can do nothing without God. If Jehovah had not called Abraham, his posterity would have shared the common fate of the other races of man at that time and would have been swallowed up in the polytheism of universal idolatry. On the other hand, if the free experience of Abraham had not been exercised in accepting the call, God could not have used him. God would not and could not infringe on human liberty without destroying man's responsibility. Although Jehovah has a far-reaching and divine purpose to be expressed and unfolded in the redemption of man, yet he does not curtail in the least Abraham's free agency in accepting the call. Jehovah, as has always been his principle, will cooperate with man in his redemption; man must cooperate with Jehovah if he is saved. Jehovah submits plans, reveals his will, states his terms, and persuades by his goodness; yet man must desire to know, must will to obey, and yield to the entreaties of love in order to be

The Japan Work. BY 1, B. BRADLEY.

The end of the year draws nigh, and the record of its deeds—good and bad—will seen be made complete. Will it be to our credit when the balance sheet is made? Have we done the best we could? As "stewards of God," can it be said that we have been faithful? Have we been diligent in the Master's service? Have we supported the Master's work as we should? Having begun in "the grace of giving," have we completed it to this time, or have we overlooked the obligation?

I know that times are harder than they were for two or three years past, and that we have had to economize and make sacrifices to keep things going; but have these economies and sacrifices been made at the expense of the Lord's work, or have they touched our own pleasures and needs? How many of us are like a young brother who had been a regular contributor to the Japan work, and who wrote me semetime ago, saying: "Times are hard, money matters are close, and I find I will have to economize some this year. So I will not send you another donation until times get better?" Are you like this man, making the Lord's work bear the economy? Certainly we are not going to keep back the Lord's part and ask him to make all the sacrifice. We ought not to rob him and consume all on ourselves.

The Japan work has not been put before the brotherhood for some time—that is, the mission started by Sister Sarah Andrews. A year ago I made an appeal for sufficient funds for her passage home for a much-needed rest. The response was very gratifying, and after sending her five hundred dollars for her expenses I had a nice sum left, which, with the few regular donations that have come in this year, has met the demands of the mission. But this fund is getting low and needs replenishing, and I am bringing it to your attention once more.

Miss Andrews is in David Lipscomb College studying and preparing for better work, expecting to go back to Okitsu, Japan, next year. She keeps in touch with the work, and sends a regular amount to her helper for her support and the necessary expenses of the work. But few of the many who contributed to this work for the past five years are sending anything this year, seeming to think that, as Miss Andrews is here, there is no need for anything. But if the work is not looked after during her absence, it will die.

Olki San, who was trained by Sister Andrews, is devoting all her time to this work and has to be supported. She is in every way capable and worthy of confidence, Sister Andrews says, and will do her best for the work. It will not do to let this work die for lack of support. So let us take it to heart and keep it up. Send me a contribution for this work, and do it now.

Coming Home. BY NELLIE STRAITON.

Five years in Japan! That is Miss Lillie Cypert's record. At first there was school and concentrated effort to learn as much as possible of the Japanese language during that first term, for there was urgent work waiting to be done—work that the other missionaries were too busy to touch. But even while studying how to talk, to read, and to write the Japanese language, she assisted Brother McCaleb and Sister Sarah Andrews in their work. She could not personally tell the message of Jesus, but she could, and did, give out tracts, especially on the feast days, when thousands were assembled in the parks or were wending their way to the heathen temples.

There was a Sunday school which needed a leader, Japanese teachers who needed training, young men and young women anxious to learn English, and students who, like the eunuch of old, were at a loss without some one to guide them in their study of the Scriptures. There were Christians sick in body who should be visited, and some ill and weak spiritually to whom encouragement would bring renewed hope and energy. There were young people to be sought out and brought in touch with the love of Jesus. And one by one Sister Cypert took up these various departments of the work and accomplished much in the Master's name.

Five years' faithful service in Japan is her record! And now she wishes to visit her home, her mother, and her other loved ones. There were many who generously helped to send Sister Cypert to Japan, there are others who have loyally and faithfully assisted in her support while "over there," and I feel confident that there are those who will generously respond to this appeal for five hundred dollars to enable her to come home. She wants to come in the spring. I do not yet know how soon. She is now making the necessary preparations and reservations. I would like, if possible, to send the entire five hundred dollars to Sister Cypert before the first day of January. I am positive we can do it if we only will. Dear brother and sister, what will be your part?

Address Miss Nellie Straiton, 1030 South Lake Street, Fort Worth, Texas.

Commendatory.

A copy of the Advanced Gospel Quarterly for the first quarter of 1922, prepared by Brother F. W. Smith and published by the McQuiddy Printing Company, Nashville, Tenn., has been placed in my hands for examination. To say that I am delighted with it is to state the case mildly. Brother Smith's known fidelity to the word of God is a strong recommendation of his work in this line in advance. The arrangement of the verses of each lesson under subordinate headings according to the thought of the passage is admirable, and the comments, not rendered tedious by the introduction of too much matter, are clear, forcible, and to the point. If Brother Smith's work on the lessons of this quarter is a sample of what it is to be on those to come, the quarterlies will be a great help in studying and teaching the lesson, and I bespeak for them an enthusiastic reception by the churches. Wherever churches are using the International Series of Lessons, they will find it greatly to their advantage to supply their teachers and students with M. C. Kurfees. this quarterly.

Louisville, Ky., November 14, 1921.

Georgia and the Far Southern Field By B. O. GOODPASTURE

Between the Extremes.

Man is prone to move from one extreme to the other. It seems that Paul had this fact in mind when he wrote: " Despise not prophesyings; prove all things; hold fast that which is good." (1 Thess. 5: 20, 21.) While "prophesyings" are not to be "despised," neither are they to be accepted wholesale and merely because of their pretensions. But the safe and sensible golden mean is: "Prove all things; hold fast that which is good." Although the apostle claims respect for the teacher, he does not assert his infallibility. If there were not some bad things mixed with the good, it would not be necessary to "prove all things" and "hold fast that which is good." Of course, men who spoke as they were moved by the Holy Spirit spoke infallibly, but not every man who claimed to speak by inspiration really did. Many false teachers had gone out into the world. For the Thessalonians Paul's advice was safe.

But what is the significance of the word "prove?" this connection it cannot mean that the genuineness of "all things" is to be established—for the simple reason that the "all things" to be proved are not genuine. It rather signifies a trial or putting to the test. The word is employed elsewhere in the New Testament (Luke 14: 19) in this sense. It means that we should examine everything we hear before we receive it or reject it, as the case may be. At this point Adam Clarke said: "Whatever ye hear in these 'prophesyings' or preachings, examine by the words of Christ, and by the doctrines which, from time to time, we have delivered unto you in our preaching and writings. Try the spirits-the different teachers-by the word of God." In the words of the prophet: "To the law and to the testimony! if they speak not according to this word, surely there is no morning for them." (Isa. 8: 20.) The conduct of the Bereans was in keeping with the spirit of the command under consideration; for we read: "Now these were more noble than those in Thessalonica, in that they received the word with all readiness of mind, examining the scriptures daily, whether these things were so." (Acts 17: 11.) The people of Berea put what they heard to the test, using the Scriptures as their standard of examination. They acted rightly and wisely. Why will people not do the same to-day? It is common for the message of a modern preacher to be received without thought, questioning, testing, or investigation by those who are his friends religiously, and just as common for the same message to be rejected in the same manner by his prejudiced religious enemies. These unreasonable extremes are two of the most unmitigated curses of Christendom.

Finally, let it be observed that this passage which allows the right, also enjoins the duty, of proving, testing, or investigating what is heard. It does not permit one to be a passive listener. This many people seem to prefer. They go to church, not to be taught, not to bring into use any faculty of discernment or testing, but to be impressed, and that without effort on their part. "Beloved, believe not every spirit, but prove the spirits, whether they are of God; because many false prophets are gone out into the world."

(1 John 4: 1.) All professed Christians should endeavor to become "full-grown men, even those who by reason of use have their senses exercised to discern good and evil."

(Heb. 5: 14.)

A Visit to David Lipscomb College.

BY FLAVIL HALL.

On my way from Ohio State back to Georgia, on October 27, I visited David Lipscomb College at Nashville, Tenn., and found my scn, Gardner Sewell, and my youngest sister's son, Myers Willbanks, happy, contented, giving satisfaction to the faculty and saying only good things about the college. And what I say of them I can say of the students in general, so far as I could learn. I thought they were a fine body of young men and young ladies, and the faculty is true to the Bible and to the present and eternal interests of the students.

I attended the regular Thursday-evening services conducted by the young men and heard them make some of the best talks I ever heard. Almost every one gets inspiration from those talks, and some are thus caused to resolve to become preachers who had not so intended before.

I do not believe in Bible schools as church institutions any mere than I believe in Bible farms, Bible clothing houses, or Bible publishing houses as church institutions. But I believe in schools, farms, clothing houses, and publishing houses as individual enterprises, where all connected therewith teach and are taught the Bible daily; for Paul told Titus to teach Christians to "profess honest trades" (Tit. 3: 14—margin), and all Christians were to be taught to teach the word of truth (Matt. 28: 19, 20); and all the foregoing relations in education and business are legitimate, as well as mining, railroading, and other "good works for necessary uses." And he who opposes the teaching of the Bible in any of these relations is one of the devil's most effective agents, though he may be under a delusive influence that causes him not to realize it.

O O O Hugh E. Garrett Enters the Field.

Brother Hugh E. Garrett, who labored with the church in East Point, Ga., for some time, has been selected and sent out into the field by the West End Avenue congregation of this city. There are so many mission points in Georgia that the entire services of one man all the time will scarcely suffice to meet the present demands. It is hoped that Brother Garrett will be able to establish many churches in destitute places. He is a good man and a fine preacher. He is eminently qualified for the work which he is doing. Although the brethren at West End Avenue took the lead in securing the services of Brother Garrett, a number of congregations in Georgia will have fellowship in this good work. In fact, the churches seem glad to have an opportunity to do their part. This is commendable. If the church in Antioch did send out Paul, the congregation in Philippi had "fellowship with him in the matter of giving and receiving." (Phil. 4: 15.) Brother Garrett is visiting the churches in Georgia in the interest of the field work. Those who desire to share in this work should send contributions to R. L. Harwell, treasurer of the West End Avenue congregation, 153 Oglethorpe Avenue, Atlanta, Ga. Calls for meetings should be sent to Brother Hugh E. Garrett, East Point, Ga., or to me. * * *

News Notes. .

There was one baptism at West End Avenue on Sunday night, November 13.

Flavil Hall spent a few days in this city recently. He was on his way to Gordon, Ga., where he began a meeting on the second Lord's day in this month.

Christmas Stories and Legends.

The above is the title of a new book for children, which was compiled by Phebe A. Curtiss, author of "White Gifts for the King." No greater teaching force has ever been discovered than the story, and no one has ever lived who used that force so skillfully as did our Great Teacher. It is not strange, then, that among all the stories that have ever been written or told, none are so dear to us as those which center around his birth. Young and old alike delight in them and never tire of hearing them. Each story in the new book has its own sweet lesson. It makes an exceptionally pleasing gift for the children. The price is $1.25, postpaid. Order from the McQuiddy Printing Company, Nashville, Tenn.

Is the Ladder an Apt Illustration?

BY JAMES E, CHESSOR.

Perhaps you have heard the cardinal Christian attributes likened to a ladder reaching from earth to heaven, each rung representing a Christian trait and the whole corresponding to a well-developed Christian character. It is probable, I think, that this ladder illustration was suggested to the image-seeking mind by the vision of Jacob at Bethel, in which he beheld "a ladder set up on the earth," the top of which reached to heaven. It is thought by some that Christ is this ladder (Gen. 28: 12; John 1: 51), and that the Christian graces or virtues are its rungs.

The apostle Peter (2 Pet. 1: 5-7), after mentioning faith as the foundation, enumerates seven traits of Christian character-virtue, knowledge, self-control, patience, godliness, brotherly-kindness, love; and hence the Christian ladder is said to consist of seven essential steps. Very likely you have seen the illustration charted on canvas as a staircase, the seven silver steps and the golden portal, with gate ajar, displaying taste on the part of the artist. The first step is labeled "virtue;" the second, "knowledge;" the third, "self-control;" and so on until the last step, "love," bears the feet of the saint quite within the welcoming gate. The ladder rests upon a solid base labeled "faith." The preacher stands beside the chart and talks about the "Seven Steps to Heaven." The ladder, perchance, is the most striking thing in his sermon, which means the artist deserves the major portion of praise.

Let us not despise his effort to instruct, but let us not be misled by his illustration. Perhaps he has not thought seriously whether his illustration is apt. Shall the Christian pilgrim, climbing the heavenly hill, find, when he has reached its summit, that he has taken seven prescribed steps; or, what is more to the point, is the ladder an apt illustration of practical Christianity? I think not, and for simple reasons. For one thing, I have never been able to see how the saint can place his feet upon the first step and upon six other steps simultaneously, or upon "virtue," the first rung, and upon "love," the last rung, at the same instant, when these steps are five paces apart. How can his feet rest upon all the virtues at once? In ascending a literal ladder, this act would be a physical impossibility. But does not the obvious meaning of Peter indicate that the Christian, upon entering the new life, shall step out upon the virtues of Christianity? Are we to prefer or possess one before another? I understand that the divine life dewands that the child of God, who has been inducted into his service by the obedience of faith, shall cherish these traits and permit them to abound simultaneously and immediately. Certainly no "steps" are to be deferred while others are being taken. The figure is in error. If it means anything at all, it signifies that there can be no "knowledge "before "virtue," no "love" before the first six graces, notwithstanding the fact that love must characterize the Christian character in its very inception and permeate it throughout. Again, the ladder illustration indicates to the eye that a step, whether it be "virtue," "self-control," "love," or any other one of the seven, when it has been passed over, is of no further service. Preachers using this chart, seeing this difficulty, are quick to explain that the rungs of this ladder, unlike those of the ordinary ladder, are to be carried up to the top. Then it is not our common sort of ladder and should be discarded as an illustration. In the Christian life we never pass over and discard virtues-we should not, at least. The preacher needs an illustration that impresses this truth, not one that must be explained that it may not mislead.

I do not think that Peter gives any particular virtue the preëminence by his order of naming them; if so, his scale is at variance with that of the apostle Paul. "But now abideth faith, hope, love, these three; and the greatest of these is love." (1 Cor. 13: 13.) I conclude that Peter means the very opposite of what the ladder illustration sets forth. He mentions all the excellences without designating any certain one as most important or higher than the others. These graces are inseparable and supplementary. They are fruits borne by the tree of Christianity. They make up the sum total of the divine nature of which Christians, by virtue of the new birth, become partakers. They grow out of faith, and this growth, under favorable conditions, is spontaneous. Certainly they are not "added" to our character structure one by one and at intervals, as a child builds blocks into his castle.

I understand that the condition of heart responsible for our conversion predisposes us to all the excellences in Christ. In our eagerness to become Christlike, to approximate his stature, we lay hold upon them without preferring one before the other. They spring up in our hearts forthwith and abound as we cultivate them. They are ready for development when we enter the divine service. The King James Version, with its instruction, "Add to your faith virtue; and to virtue knowledge," is evidently wrong and misleading, and the Revised Version, which reads thus, "In your faith supply virtue; and in your virtue knowledge," is correct. You do not add the graces to faith; they are the fruits of faith.

The Christian character in the forming is more like chemistry than a ladder. This will readily occur to the chemist. The excellences are so many elements, thoroughly compounded, and the result is a useful composite character. All the elements enter into the making, and simultaneously. To show the aptness of this illustration, let me remind you that chemistry is an exact science; mathematics is not more exact. To get a desired result, you must have the proper elements in correct proportion and under the right temperature. So with Christian character. The traits must all exist and must all be cultivated. In chemistry, two elements, perfectly harmless within themselves, if compounded in incorrect proportion, may produce a deadly poison. So with Christian character. Even the virtues must not be "compounded" in incorrect proportion. Take zeal and knowledge. They must both exist, and in correct proportion. Zeal without knowledge imparts such a twist to character that the result not infrequently is a religious fanatic or crank. There are many such. They are as deadly poison in the religious world. Knowledge without zeal also produces an anomaly-an inert, indifferent Christian properly designated by Jesus as "salt which has lost its savor." But knowledge with zeal gives tone to the character and intelligent design to action. The result is a faithful servant of the Master-an intelligent, buoyant Christian worker. This type of Christian is not so common. Every Christian and every congregation should have knowledge and zeal.

Every Christian "chemist" should see to it that all the "ingredients" mentioned by Peter enter into the make-up of his character and that they are "compounded" in proper proportion. This must be done if he is to possess vigor, tone, and efficiency. The reward is ample pay for expenditure of time and effort—an "entrance into the eternal kingdom of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ." He will have need of such an equipment as Peter recommends throughout eternity.

Giving and Getting.

Give, and it shall be given unto you; good measure, pressed down, and shaken together, and running over, shall men give into your bosom. For with the same measure that ye mete withal it shall be measured to you again.—Luke 6: 38.

HOME READING

Old Ways Are Best.

As Madam Pig was having lunch Of bread and milk at noon, She was astonished in her trough To find a silver spoon.

"O, ho!" she said, "the house folks now Have sent this out to-day. They'd like to have me be polite And learn to eat their way.

"Perhaps to-morrow they will send A knife and fork and plate— A table also, and a chair, So I may dine in state.

"Then, if I learned new eating ways,
They'd think it would be well
For me to go to school and learn
To read, and write, and spell

"No spoons for me!" said Madam Pig.
She laughed, and shook her head,
And in her own old-fashioned way
She ate her milk and bread.
—Elizabeth Nelson, in Christian Register.

* * *

A Slab From a Sawmill Town.

'I am writing to tell you the glad tidings. On last Sunday I became engaged to the sweetest and dearest little girl in all the world. I just want you to know of my happiness, and I should like for you to write her a little note."

I have known this young man for years, and he is true blue. I have seen the little country town where he came from, with its two or three stores, about the same number of churches, its blacksmith shop, an undertaker, and perhaps also a sawmill. By a kind of irony it bears one of the great historic names of the world.

Once when addressing a farmer's institute in that county I told the story of this boy, whom many knew personally, to illustrate the human product of country life. It was a surprise and a delight to see their appreciation. They were more enthusiastic about him than any exhibit at the institute. Such good will he has carried all the way.

I have often watched him catching on the college baseball team. He would keep up a constant chatter, encouraging his teammates to greater effort. I have seen him on the football team, where he could always be depended on, held his temper, and never showed yellow. Everybody liked him. Of course there is plenty of politics about a college athletic team, with intense rivalry over the question of preeminence. Yet I never heard a mean word about him.

I knew his mother quite well. She was a widow and had also a younger son who was very proud of his big brother. Having little of this world's goods, she had moved to the college town that she might keep a home for the boys and give them the advantage of higher education. Her health was not good, yet devotion gave her strength, and by means of her chickens, a garden, and work outside the home she managed to get along.

The older son was trying to go through college and found it a hard struggle. His studies did not come easy, for his early school training was not the best, and, in addition, he had to do work of all kinds in order to earn something. For a time he ran a laundry route, then he developed a good deal of skill as a barber and helped in a shop on busy afternoons and evenings.

He came to me one day utterly discouraged and said he was ready to quit. It was wrong, he felt, to try to get an education when his mother was so poor and had to work so hard. He could not endure to let her continue in such privations and had made up his mind to leave school, go to work, and make a home for her and his brother.

listened to his story and urged him to try just a little longer. He did; the skies brightened after a time; he completed his college course with honor, and for years now he has been making a home for his mother.

I shall never forget his words to a fraternity brother, a fellow not quite up to standard, who was nominated to represent the college in some place of athletic honor; and if he were not elected, the honor would go to another fraternity, "I am a friend of yours and should like to support you," he is reported to have said; "but I cannot vote to put you into this position, for I don't believe you are worthy of it. I am loyal to my fraternity; but I am loyal, first of all, to my college, and I am going to vote for another man because I believe he deserves it."

And now he occupies a responsible position in the educational work of a great city. It was a long, hard fight, but he won; and his experience is not unusual. I have known many such men and women, who, "while their companions slept, were toiling upward in the night,"—A College President.

The Book Immortal.

"There are no songs comparable to the songs of Zion," said Milton. Dr. Dana, in his lectures on "Journalism," said: "There is no book like the Bible." Andrew Jackson said: "It is the rock on which our republic rests." "The Book widens and deepens with our years," said Spurgeon. "The Bible is a window in this prison world through which we may lock into eternity," said Timothy Dwight,

St. Luke's Gospel is pronounced the most beautiful book in all the world. St. Matthew's Gospel is the greatest book in any language. St. John's Gospel is the most spiritual. St. Paul's letter to the Ephesians is the most profound book in human speech. Gladstone said: "All the wonders of Greek civilization heaped together are less wonderful than the simple book of the Psalms." Carlyle pronounced the book of Job to be the noblest poem ever written. Charles Dickens, the master of the pathetic, said the most touching story in literature is the prodigal son. Goethe declared that in all the range of epic and idylic literature there is nothing so lovely as the little book of Ruth. Coleridge, who took all literature for his province, said that the Beatitudes are the finest gems in the speech of man. Edmund Kean, the consummate actor, said: "There is one sentence that no one can properly read: 'Come unto me, all ye that labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest."

The forty different authors of the Bible are from different ranks, occupations, and ages. The sixty-six different books they wrote cover a period of sixteen hundred years. By the same divine impulse by which the animals came to Noah's ark in a short time these sixty-six books came together through the long period of sixteen hundred years to form one book, the Bible. It was written in different tongues, by men of different ages and qualifications, over a long period of time that changes maps and races and languages, by men who knew nothing of each other; yet when they came together from different parts of the earth, through a prolonged period, they formed one book, the Bible. The "crimson thread of salvation" runs through the Bible from the fall, in Genesis, to the pæans of victory, in the Apocalypse.

It is more than probable that Jesus read the Old Testament in two great languages—the version in Hebrew and the Septuagint in Greek. In Christ's day Aramaic was the spoken language in Palestine. The Hebrew, in which the Old Testament was written, was not the then spoken language. So the youthful Christ must have learned a dead language to read the word of God. The Book immortal has now been translated into six hundred languages and dialects. The dominant languages of men now hold the eternal truths of God. The master minds of the world are students of the Book.—Christian Advocate.

AT HOME AND ABROAD

W

Your stumbles may have great consequences.-John Kelman.

Change of address: J. Pettey Ezell, from Albany, Ala., to Cookeville, Tenn.

Charles F. Hardin's address is now 843 West Madison Street, Springfield, Mo.

J. W. Atkisson writes us that the cause in St. Louis, Mo., is prospering under the ministry of Brother Sevedge.

The sets of Matthew Henry's Commentary mentioned in the Gospel Advocate for the past few weeks have arrived. Orders can now be promptly filled.

The note of Christian worship is joy. The man who thinks it is fear has been taught in a bad school.—The Way to Personality.

G. A. Dunn closed a good meeting at Tuscumbia, Ala. There were twenty-four additions, including twenty baptisms. Brother Dunn is now in a meeting at Hamburg, Texas.

Among our recent visitors were N. B. Hardeman, Honderson, Tenn.; J. Pettey Ezell, Cookeville, Tenn.; W. S. Long, Washington, D. C.; G. A. Dunn, Houston, Texas; A. D. Dies, Oakman, Ala.

From Charles F. Hardin, Springfield, Mo., November 7: "My meeting near Dexter, Mo., closed when only about half over, because I was stricken with the 'flu.' No additions. I am about able to be at work again."

J. O. Barnes reports: "J. M. Cole, of Lake City, Fla., preached at Ozark Schoolhouse, near Lake City, last Lord's day, and two souls were rescued from the meshes of sectarianism and garnered into the church of Christ."

A good start was made in the meeting at Eighth Avenue, North, this city, now being conducted by A. D. Dies, of Oakman, Ala. There were nine baptisms on the first day. A home-coming of old members is planned for December 4.

John B. Peden, of Avon Park, Fla., recently held a meeting at Sweet Water, Fla. One was baptized and one came from the Baptists, both old men. Brother Peden has preached for this congregation ten years, and interest is still growing.

We want to belong to the Church of the Adventurous Spirit—the church that makes mistakes, but is going somewhere; the church that is on the march and never wastes its energies in the weariness of marking time.—The Congregationalist.

Frank Morrow, a humble preacher of the church of Christ, who lives at Lake City, Fla., went to the Burlington church of Christ, near Hildreth, on the fifth Lord's day in October and preached several times for the church at that place to attentive and interested audiences.

The church that lasts must have a foundation of substantial and thoughtful men and women. As a rule, the preacher who gets the ear of the public by sensational methods, making his pulpit notorious rather than famous, does not develop such lasting congregations.—Exchange

From T. H. Matheson, Guymon, Okla, November 14: "I am just home from my first meeting in Kansas, at Elkhart. There were twenty-one additions, with fourteen baptized. Notwithstanding the opposition there by the anti-college brethren, the church has a bright future. I will begin a meeting at Perryton, Texas, to-morrow."

From Mrs. T. J. McRae, San Francisco, Cal., November 6:
"This was a day of rejoicing for the church. The hall was well filled. Brother Trice preached an excellent sermon, and two were baptized. Please remember us in your prayers, that many souls may be brought into the household of faith. We meet in Richmond Hall, corner of Fourth Avenue and Clement Street."

Cards have been received announcing the marriage of Mr. William D. Hunter and Miss Dana Cayce, which took place on November 18, at Jackson, Miss. Mr. Hunter is one of the traveling representatives of the McQuiddy Printing Company, and is a young business man of fine promise. The bride is the daughter of M. C. Cayce, who has been doing splendid missionary work in Mississippi. The Gospel Advocate extends heartiest congratulations.

From H. H. Adamson, Lewisburg, Tenn., November 18: "The church here is making some much-needed repairs in our spacious basement that we may take better care of our Sunday-morning Bible classes. We will also use it for our mid-week prayer service. We are installing a good pipeless furnace to thaw out an occasional cold member. The church has recently presented 'ye minister' with a Ford coupé. You do not hear from Lewisburg every day, but you can just count on it that we are 'sawing wood' all the time. It is fine to work with a working church."

From George W. Graves, West Nashville, Tenn., Route 12, November 16: "On the second Lord's day in October I began a meeting at Bull Run, in Davidson County, which continued eight days. Four were baptized. On the fourth Lord's day in October I began a meeting with the Woods congregation, in Cannon County, which continued eight days. Two were baptized. One of these was a man of sixty years. On the first Lord's day in November I preached at Lipscomb Chapel, in Bell's Bend. One was baptized. At present I am engaged in a meeting at Parsons, Tenn. This is the last meeting I have promised for this year."

From E. C. Fuqua, Fort Coilins, Col., November 15: "I recently closed the best meeting ever held at Boulder, though there were only two baptisms. The good done consisted more in cementing the 'forces' there and engendering a hearty love for and desire to work with one another. I now look for the first real work Boulder has ever done. We have many excellent brethren there, led by James H. Bailey, who is fully consecrated and qualified to do splendid work. I am now in a good meeting at Bellvue, eight miles west of Fort Collins, where I have done considerable work in past years. It is a great pleasure to work with the zealous Bellvue brethren. While the whole town of Bellvue has heard the word, I am making another effort to interest them in their souls by discussing with them the things they already know."

Will W. Slater writes from Braman, Okla., November 18: "I closed a meeting at Grove Spring, Mo., on Sunday night, with five baptisms and much good done otherwise. It was a great meeting in some ways, with the brethren aroused to the missionary spirit. S. C. Garner has done a wonderful work there, having held about five meetings for them. S. P. Fields, Charles F. Hardin, and others are held in high esteem by this church. C. L. Wilkerson is to hold their meeting next year. This leaves me in a meeting at Braman, Okla., where I hope to do some good. It is my last meeting for the season. I will teach a seventeen-days normal singing school at Blakemore Church, five miles southeast of England, Ark., beginning on December 19. Joe H. Blue will meet a Christadelphian in a four-days' debate there, beginning on December 13. Write to L. L. Bell, Route 2, Englard, Ark., and he will meet you at the train."

Those acquainted with the conditions at Natchez, Miss.. will rejoice to learn of the good meeting which M. C. Cayce conducted there. From time to time efforts have been made to establish a loyal congregation, but there have been many obstacles, and the little handful of disciples making the effort have had many trials of their faith. Now the prospect seems brighter than ever, as indicated by Brother Cayce's report which follows: "Our meeting in Natchez continued eight days, with good attendance and attention. Twelve were baptized and the discouraged few were renewed in faith and determination and from now on are determined to meet regularly for worship, which they have not done for more than three years. For the immediate present they will rent a place to meet, but are going to purchase a lot and build in the near future. I hope to be able to visit and encourage them occasionally. Truly this State needs more gospel preachers. My address is 143 Wacaster Street, Jackson, Miss.

Commendatory.

Dear Brother McQuiddy: I have examined the first quarter of the Sunday-school quarterlies for 1922, published by the McQuiddy Printing Company. I take pleasure in saying that the writers have done excellently and are holding them up to the high standard to which they have already attained. In some respects they are an improvement. The churches will make no mistake in their use. They are worthy of consideration and patronage. I am still looking for more improvement. Fraternally,

R. W. JERNIGAN, Bridgeport, Ala.

Conducted for a half century by D. Lipscomb and E. G. Sewell.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

$2.50 a year, in advance; to Canada and foreign countries; $3.00, advance.

$2.50 a year, in advance; to Canada and foreign countries; $3.60, in advance.

Hemittances will be at our risk when sent by express or post-office money order, in registered letter, or by draft payable to our order.

When changing your post-office address, tell us your old as well as your new address; otherwise two papers might be charged to you. The date on your tab shows the time to which your subscription is paid. When money is received, the date will be changed, which will answer for a receipt. Two weeks' time must ordinarily occur from the time your remittance is sent before the tab on your paper is changed; if not changed by that time, notify us at once.

This paper is mailed regularly to all subscribers until definite orders in writing are received and all arrearages paid in full. If you wish us to stop your paper, write us to that effect; but do not ask it unless you have paid all arrears, if there are any. Do not ask your postmaster to attend to it for you, but do it yourself.

Subscribers, after paying for their papers, will favor us by noting whether the date on the address label is changed, and, if it is not changed within a month, by writing to us. We are careful, but mistakes may occur or letters may be lost. Our rule is to change thate on the day payment is received; but the mechanical work of correcting and printing the list takes time, and payments even from near-by places may not appear the first week. Credits for payments from a distance may be even more delayed. Mistakes are easily rectified if prompt notice is given

All communications should be addressed to Gospel Advocate, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

Guarantee of Advertising.

Guarantee of Advertising.

All the advertisements in this paper are, we believe, signed by trustworthy persons. To prove our faith by works, we will make good to actual subscribers any loss sustained in trusting advertisers who prove to be deliberate swindlers. We shall not attempt to adjust trifling disputes between subscribers and honorable business men who advertise, nor pay the debts of honest bankrupts. To make this guarantee effective, in all cases say in writing advertisers, "I saw your advertisement in the Gospel Advocate;" and if anything goes wrong, notify us immediately in writing.

JACOBS & CO., ADVERTISING MANAGERS, Clinton, S. C.

Entered at post office at Nashville, Tenn., as second-class matter.

Published weekly at Nashville, Tenn.

Review of O. E. Payne's Book on "Psallo." BY M. C. K.

CHAPTER II.

THE CONCLUSION NECESSITATED BY THE TITLE-PAGE.

Although, as already announced, I am not to make a detailed review of this book, it is, nevertheless, deemed advisable to make a complete exposure of the irrational, absurd, and fatal conclusion to which some of its testimonies, with the construction it places upon them, and particularly its title-page display, necessarily and inevitably lead. Sometimes to point out what the logicians call the reductio ad absurdum is the best of all ways to show the unreasonableness and untenableness of a position; and I propose to show that, if Paul, Chrysostom, and Lucian, who are linked together and conspicuously displayed on the title-page of this book, are to be jointly construed as this book construes them, then just such an impracticable and fatal conclusion is the inevitable result of the position advocated in this book. Of the correctness of this statement, our readers may judge for themselves when the facts are stated.

Now, on the hypothesis that the book here under review is right in its position on psallo as used by Lucian, and its assumption that it necessitates the same position on psallo in the New Testament, then it is just as indispensable to have and to use a musical instrument made by human hands when we attempt to psallein in the worship of God as it is to have immersion when we attempt to baptize. If not, why not? It is my profound conviction that the advocate of instrumental music in the worship of God does not live who can successfully attack this position. In further elucidation of it, I here quote a paragraph from my reply to one of the recent inquiries about the Payne book, as follows:

"If O. E. Payne's position on psallo is true, then we are commanded to play instrumental music when we engage in divine worship; and when we do not play it there, we are in rebellion against God. Of course whatever is in psallo God commands to be done, just as whatever is in baptizo he commands to be done; and we have no alternative in either case except either to do what is in the word or be in rebellion against God. There is no escape here. The conclusion is simply inevitable. God commands us to 'psallo,' and no matter what it means, that is what we are commanded to do; and if the position advocated by this man is correct, then every church that does not play instrumental music in its worship is in rebellion against God, precisely as those are who refuse to be baptized.'

That is the position to which the author of this book has inescapably committed himself and those who stand with him. In accepting that position, it is folly to talk about having instrumental music in the worship when it is convenient and not having it when it is not convenient. If instrumental music is in the word psallo as immersion is in the word baptize, which is the exact thing for which this book contends, then of course we have not obeyed the command expressed by the word psallo till we play instrumental music any more than we have obeyed the command expressed by the word baptize till we immerse. With all becoming modesty, on the hypothesis assumed by this book. I respectfully challenge any philologist or translator to call this statement in question. Hence, according to this doctrine, no church is obeying God's command to psallo until it uses a lyre, harp, piano, organ, or some other instrument made by human hands, and every church failing to have and to use such an instrument in its worship is in open rebellion against God. No matter when nor where Christians undertake to have that part of the worship expressed by psallo, they do not have it until they use such an instrument. In fact, the author of this book has been driven pell-mell into the absurd and self-defeating position which it was clearly seen twenty-five years ago the advocates of instrumental music would be compelled to assume if they followed their own logic on psallo to its only consistent and legitimate end. The title-page itself, by its combined use of Paul, Chrysostom, and Lucian, makes the use of an Instrument made by human hands so inseparable from psallo that, although by its use of Chrysostom it concedes that "it is possible to psallein without the voice"-that is, one can psallein merely with an instrument made by human hands without the voice-yet by its use of Lucian it contends that "it is impossible to psattein" merely with the voice without an instrument made by human hands. That is, according to this book, we can psallo completely without the voice, but we cannot psallo at all without an instrument made by human bands.

Hence, it follows from the inexorable force of facts and logic that mere singing does not meet the demand in psallo; for, according to this Payne book, "It is impossible to psallein without a musical instrument" made by human hands, and to psallein is the thing which God tells us to do. According to this doctrine, any attempt to have this part of the worship by mere singing is disobeying God in precisely the same way that men disobey him when they attempt to obey the command to baptize by merely sprinkling water on a person. It is impossible to baptize without immersion, and when we merely sprinkle, we are not obeying the command to baptize; but the Payne book says "it is impossible to psallein without a musical instrument" made by human hands, and when we merely sing, we are not using a musical instrument made by human hands, and therefore, according to the Payne book, we are not, in any such case, obeying God's command. This is as clear and conclusive as it is that two and two are four. Hence, there is simply no escape here, and the advocates of instrumental music must either do this way or discard the Payne book doctrine, one or the other.

Moreover, this position on psallo is not only contrary to the word of Gcd, but it is contrary to every dictate of both reason and righteousness. As clearly revealed in the Scriptures, our Heavenly Father not only has the most sympathetic consideration for the humblest and poorest of his children, but it is distinctly declared that "righteousness and justice are the foundation of his throne" (Ps. 97: 2): and hence it is a matter for the profoundest gratitude that the humblest band of his children, no matter how poor, may still provide the leaf and fruit of the vine, pray, exhort, and sing his praises acceptably without the expense of an organ, piano, lyre, violin, or some such instrument; and yet the book here under review says, and displays it on its title-page, with repeated emphasis in the body of the book, that "it is impossible" for them to do it! I meet this unjust reflection upon the Author of the worship, which is for the poor as well as the rich, by saying that to stipulate such a condition in a system of worship which is designed for all classes, all places, all circumstances, and all conditions of the people universally, is contrary to every principle of justice, reason, and righteousness. If the ancient children of God, regardless of poverty conditions and other circumstances, had been required to duplicate in different places and under all circumstances, after the manner of New Testament local churches, the ponderous system of the Jewish tabernacle and temple worship with the latter's instruments of music, it would not only have been wholly impractical, but a serious reflection upon the justice and wisdom of its Author; but the tabernacle was portable and the temple worship was restricted to one place, and the expenses in both cases were borne by the whole nation. But the law regulating worship under the Christian system requires Christians, in any and all localities wherever they may live, to assemble themselves together for the worship of God; and yet the book here under review conspicuously proclaims on its title-page and repeatedly emphasizes the doctrine in the body of the volume that "it is impossible" for a band of Christians to conduct this worship acceptably, so far as the command in psallo is concerned, until they procure an organ, piano, lyre, violin, or some such instrument of music!! The position is utterly preposterous and absurd in the extreme, and if psallo meant any such thing, its employment in a passage stipulating the duty of Christians under all circumstances and regardless of property conditions would be strong presumptive evidence that the passage never came from Ged.

The next chapter will begin the argument from Greek lexicons.

The Test of Humility.

The test of humility is the capability of bearing a reproof or an affront without either anger or worry of mind. If I can bear a slight reproof or an affront in this spirit, I am slightly humble; if I can bear a great reproof or insult, I am very humble; if I can bear no reproof, no slight of any kind, I have no humility at all.—The Seminary.

Unity In Sentiment and Action.

BY J. C. M'Q.

As we must love not only in word, but in deed and in truth, so we must be united not only in sentiment, but also in action. "Now I beseech you, brethren, through the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, that ye all speak the same thing, and that there be no divisions among you; but that ye be perfected together in the same mind and in the same judgment." (1 Cor. 1: 10.) Unity of purpose will lead to unity of action. If we are moved by different aspirations and purposes, we are sure to have diversity of action.

The controlling ambition of every one should be to advance the kingdom of God on earth and to glorify God in both body and spirit. No man who seeks the highest places and who exalts his personal interests above the cause of Christ can be a servant of Christ. The true servant of God is great in humility and self-denial. God never exalts the self-seeker, but the lowly and humble. Men filled with selfishness and conceit will overestimate their importance and will create factions and divisions among the people of God. As it was in the days of the judges when Gideon ruled, so it is now. God would not permit the brave and valiant Gideon to take a great host with him against the Midianites. "And Jehovah said unto Gideon, The people that are with thee are too many for me to give the Midianites into their hand, lest Israel vaunt themselves against me, saying. Mine own hand hath saved me." (Judg. 7: 2.) The man inflated with pride and egotism will boast of his attainments and imagine himself better than his superiors. His self-exaltation is sure to work his downfall. I am reminded here of the frog that suggested a way by which he was carried by two flying geese. He had each take the end of a stick in its mouth, while he held on to the middle of the stick. As the people beheld the novel scene they spoke of the smartness of the originator of the plan. The conceited frog opened his mouth and said, "I did it," when he fell to the earth. "Pride goeth before destruction, and a haughty spirit before a fall." (Prov. 16: 18.) God did not choose the wise to confound the mighty, neither is he dependent on great numbers to execute his plans. A multitude of unconverted people are a hindrance to his work. The people with Gideon-thirty-two thousand-were too many. God would not use the cowardly. He wanted only brave and courageous men. So he had Gideon "proclaim in the ears of the people, saying, Whosoever is fearful and trembling, let him return and depart from mount Gilead." Twenty-two thousand of the thirty-two thousand returneda little over two to one. Is it discouraging to think of how many turned back? No more so than the teaching of Christ when he says: "Enter ye in by the narrow gate: for wide is the gate, and broad is the way, that leadeth to destruction, and many are they that enter in thereby. For narrow is the gate, and straitened the way, that leadeth unto life, and few are they that find it." (Matt. 7: 13, 14.) number-ten thousand-was still too many. God had Gideon bring the people unto the water to test who should go and who should not. In this course we can see no wisdom, and cannot see why it should have been used. Those who lapped of the water with their tongues as a dog lappeth were put in a crowd together, and those who bowed down on their knees to drink were put together. Three bundred men lapped of the water with their tongues. By these three hundred valiant men God delivered the Midianites into the hands of Gideon. These were men with singleness of purpose. They were brave, determined men, not easily turned away from duty. The world is sadly in need of such men. Whenever God finds such men, he uses them.

Gideon divided the three hundred men into three companies of one hundred men each. All were equipped alike with trumpets and empty pitchers, with torches within the pitchers. Now note the unity of action: "And he said unto them, Look on me, and do likewise: and, behold, when 1 come to the outermost part of the camp, it shall be that, as I do, so shall ye do. When I blow the trumpet, I and all that are with me, then blow ye the trumpets also on every side of all the camp, and say, For Jehovah and for Gideon.' (Judg. 7: 17, 18.) They were to do the same thing and shout the same thing. They were not to say one thing and then each do a different thing. Gideon did what he required each of the men to do. How often do we see men posing as leaders do things which they will not consent for others to do! Not so with Gideon. The faithful leader of God's hosts leads more by example than by command. "Look on me, and do likewise." Where is the leader who would feel justified in saying, "Do as I do?" Paul said: "Follow me, as I follow Christ." The success of the three hundred depended on each one's doing and saying the same thing. No one should say and do not. "And why call ye me, Lord, Lord, and do not the things which I say?" (Luke 6: 46.) Some teachers are magnificent teachers, but awfully poor doers. Each one of that three hundred was as faithful a doer as he was an efficient proclaimer.

Unity of speech and unity of action gave them a wonderful victory! "And the three companies blew the trumpets, and broke the pitchers, and held the torches in their left hands, and the trumpets in their right hands wherewith to blow; and they cried, The sword of Jehovah and of Gideon." (Judg. 7: 20.) The hosts of Midian fled. The combined powers of the devil and the world cannot stand before such fidelity to God in both unity of speech and action.

R. H. Boll's Kingdom Theory.

BY F. W. SMITH,

It will be remembered that in his first "Special King, dom Number," page 296, the editor made the following admission: "For the stone was to smite and to crush the fect of the image; and the feet, concededly, were the Roman world power." Now, this admission that the Roman world power answered to the feet of the image, and the further fact that Daniel says, "And in the days of those kings [kings represented by the feet of the image] shall the God of heaven set up a kingdom," presented an insurmountable difficulty in the face of R. H. Boll's denial that Daniel's prophecy had been fulfilled. For, mark you, Daniel said the God of heaven would set up a kingdom "in the days of those kings," and not in the days of some other king or kings living thousands of years later in the world's history. Having further said, "Since Rome has vanished, how can the prophecy be at all fulfilled?" he assumed the burden of proof to either show that God's word had failed or else the prophecy is yet to be fulfilled. What does he do? He has fatty and positively denied a plain declaration of God's word, which any one who can read plain English can see, and now how does he seek to escape from the attitude in which his literalistic views and his wild speculation place him? He takes a desperate chance at closing the chasm between his theory and Daniel's prophecy, as follows: "The Roman world power, then, though now it does not exist, is to return"!! Has he given, or can he give, if his very life depended on it, one single clear declaration of Holy Writ for such a statement? No, a thousand times no, but he tries to close this chasm he has created between his theory and Daniel's prophecy by fishing out of a sea of symbolism something represented by a beast having ten horns and seven heads (Rev. 13: 1), by which neither he nor any other mortal knows what is meant, and labels it the "Roman world power" of which Daniel prophesied!! And yet, in the face of such teaching, there are those who claim that R. H. Bell is not a speculator.

In his second "Special Kingdom Number" he deals with the kingdom as set forth by Matthew, Luke, and John; and with reference to John the Baptist's announcement, "The kingdom of heaven is at hand," the editor says: To the Jews the announcement meant but one thing. The promise of the Messianic kingdom, with all it involved—the appearance of the great King of David's line; the destruction of the Gentile world power; the deliverance and national restoration of Israel, and her exaltation to earthly sovereignty; the promises God made to the fathers, and the prophet's visions of the future glory of the people, the land, the city, and the kingdom "in that day"—had imbedded itself in the hearts of the people. (Page 324.)

This is what the editor terms "Israel's national hope," and on page 325 he says of this announcement by John the Baptist (Matt. 3: 2):

If it be felt a difficulty that that kingdom, though announced as "at hand," has never yet appeared, we shall find an explanation, unforced and natural, and one which will cast no reflection on the truth and goodness of God.

Thus we are told by R. H. Boll that the kingdom announced by John the Baptist, Christ, and the seventy he sent out to preach as "at hand" has never been established, and, furthermore, that this kingdom would be the " national restoration of Israel, and her exaltation to earthly sovereignty," and that it would bring about "the destruction of the Gentile world power." I can now begin to see and understand what David L. Cooper, one of R. H. Boll's pupils and ardent admirers, meant by the following: "Brother D. L. Cooper told me that he believed that the Savior would return to this earth to sit on David's literal throne in the city of Jerusalem, and as Ruler over the Jews would lead the hosts of Israel into carnal, bloody warfare, and interpreted some passages of scripture to mean that while engaged in carnal warfare, as the Leader of the Jews, his (the Savier's) garments would be stained with the blood of his enemies. I do not propose to give his exact words, but this is in substance what he said." (C. A. Taylor, Louisville, Ky.) The author of the foregoing note is a man whom I have known for more than twenty years, and whose word is unimpeachable. Did Cooper get his idea of Christ leading "the hosts of Israel into a carnal, bloody warfare" in which "the Savior's garments would be stained with the blood of his enemies" from R. H. Boll's interpretation of the parable of the pounds? (Page 333.) Read Luke 19: 11-27. Regarding this parable, Boll says: "At his [Christ's] coming he will exercise the governmental authority of the kingdom [Not the one we now have.-Smith], appointing his faithful servants to rulership and executing vengeance upon the adversaries." Is this the great "catastrophe" he has told us will take place at the setting up of the kingdom Daniel prophesied? The following settles this point beyond doubt; "The Nobleman goes into the 'far country' to receive his kingdom and to return. This is the Stone 'cut out without hands'-that is, not by human agency, who will in His day come from above and smite down and destroy the world power of the earth." (Word and Work, page 345.) How does what R. H. Bell and his pupil, D. L. Cooper, say comport with the character of the "Prince of Peace" we read about in both the Old and the New Testaments?

Let the reader bear in mind that R. H. Boll has told as in his first "Special Kingdom Number," "that those who are in the church of Jesus Christ have been translated into the kingdom of God's dear Son. (Col. 1: 13)." But now he tells us that the kingdom preceded by John the Baptist, Christ, and the seventy has not yet appeared, which, of course, will, when it does appear, make two distinct hingdoms of God on this earth at one and the same time, or else a fusion of the spiritual and the carnal.

In dealing with the Sermon on the Mount (Matt. 5: 10—"Blessed are they that have been persecuted for righteousness' sake: for theirs is the kingdom of heaven"), he says: "The kingdom thus promised is evidently not the church." What reason do you suppose he gives for making this statement? Hear him: "It would not be possible to say 'theirs is the church.'" Now, is not this logic? Why could it not be as possible to say "theirs is the church" as well as to say "theirs is the kingdom?" Was Jesus talking about the ownership of the kingdom or the blessings of the kingdom? The kingdom belongs to Christ, the King, just as the church belongs to Christ, who bought it; but the blessings of the spiritual institution called both "church" and "kingdom' belong unto the saints, and in this and no other sense did "the time come that the saints possessed the kingdom."

Regarding the kingdom mentioned in Matt. 7: 21-23, the editor says: "Again, it must be evident that the kingdom spoken of here cannot be the church." He then gives us a reason: "For into the church any man may freely obtain entrance, not after a testing period of righteous living, but at once upon his confession of faith in the Lord Jesus, and by repentance and baptism." Of course the kingdom here "cannot be the church," and neither can it be a kingdom of "Israel's national glory restored," for which R. H. Boll is contending, but it is the eternal kingdom into which the saints will go after death. The same is true of the kingdom mentioned in Matt. 8: 11, but Matt. 11: 11 does refer to the kingdom that is here now.

On pages 329 and 330 the editor speaks of "this church age" and "the church dispensation"—terms so common in the writings of Charles T. Russell that one is led to wonder what the editor means by them. They are not Bible expressions, and they carry a meaning not found in the Bible. It smacks of Russell's theory that Christ gathered a "little flock" as the result of his ministry, and that this is only the "church age"—the kingdom is yet to come.

That R. H. Boll is teaching the cstablishment of a political world power by Jesus Christ at his return admits of no sort of doubt. Witness what he says on pages 332-333, second "Special Kingdom Number" of Word and Work, relative to the "ambitious request of the sons of Zebedee" (Matt. 20: 20-23):

In regard to the latter, it should be pointed out that these men had in no wise relinquished the Old Testament hope of the Messianic kingdom; and the Lord, far from denying their view of it, confirms them in their idea that just such and like honors as they were aspiring to would in due time be bestowed of the Father.

If this is not a political world power, then it would be difficult to describe one: and this, according to R. H. Boll, is the kingdom Daniel said God would set up and which "should never be destroyed." So we are to baye a political world power through all eternity!! But it seems that ten of the twelve disciples did not have "the Old Testament hope of the Messianic kingdom" that the editor describes; for when the ten heard of this "ambitious request of the sons of Zebedee," "they were moved with indignation concerning the two brethren," (Matt. 20: 24.) It also seems that Christ did not share in the editor's view of the matter; for Christ, instead of "confirming them in their idea," as Boll affirms, actually rebuked them for their idea. (Matt. 20: 2, 26.)

Under the heading, "Four Features of the 'Triumphal Entry," and commenting on Luke 19: 41-44, the editor says:

If thou hadst known! But now-! Jerusalem had issed her chance. What would have happened had she missed her chance. understood and seized her opportunity? Who could doubt To be sure, a host of questions would arise in view If Jerusalem had received her King of such a possibility. and humbly bowed to his righteous will, how could be have died? How, then, could the church have come into exist-ence? How could the Scriptures have been fulfilled that thus it must be? A thousand such hypothetical questions could be asked along any line; and it would be idle to guess what would have been the result if this or that had been different. God would have known in any case what to do. But it is sufficient for us to know that Jerusalem did reject her King and failed of her opportunity; and though the offer was made to her in good faith, her rejection of the invitation was foreseen, and made a factor in God's larger plan. Undoubtedly she might have realized her ancient promises then; but God, knowing that she would in no wise hear, had laid his plans accordingly from of old; yet not presuming upon his foreknowledge, but all along and earnestly, lovingly giving them the full opportunity to make their own choice and to decide their own destiny.

Here we are given to understand that Christ, while on earth, offered this political world power, which was of "Old Testament promise and the cherished hope of Israel," to the Jews; but they rejected their proffered King and this political world power, which delayed its fulfillment until a future date. The editor saw the difficulties in which his theory had involved him, and tried to brush them aside by saying: "A thousand such hypothetical questions could be asked along any line; and it would be idle to guess what would have been the result if this or that had been different." Ah! this is no idle "hypothetical" question, but a legitimate and inevitable question growing out of the premises involved in R. H. Boll's doctrine. If what he teaches is true and Israel had "seized upon her opportunity"-acknowledged Christ as her King-Christ would now be seated on David's throne in Jerusalem ruling a political world power, while the world would be without an adequate sucrificial offering for sins and without hope!! Is this the superior wisdom of which so much has been said?

I am writing this review by permission of the Gospel Advocate managers simply as a contributor, and neither the Advocate nor any other being save myself is responsible for what I have written.

As nature lifts her gates from week to week,
New beauties rise, His wondrovs power to speak,
And now, clad in her glory as of old,
The goldenrod uplifts her crowns of gold.

—J. W. Waite.

MATTHEW HENRY'S COMMENTARY.

Best Premium Offer to Preachers.

The greatest preachers of the past two centuries attribute much of their inspiration and usefulness to Matthew Henry's Commentary on the whole Bible. Born in the seventeenth century, his name and his work still live and are household words. Thousands of homes treasure this commentary second only to the Bible, and many a man traces his right start to the loving advice and homely counsel of Matthew Henry.

Charles H. Spurgeon said: "Every minister ought to read Matthew Henry entirely and carefully through once at least. He will acquire a vast store of sermons; and as for thoughts, they will swarm around him like twittering sparrows around an old gable toward the close of autumn." Dr. Philip Schaff, compiler of Schaff's Bible Dictionary, pronounces it "the best practical and devotional commentary for English readers." Here you will find a mine of expository knowledge and a complete preachers' commentary.

The management of the Gospel Advocate is fortunate in securing twenty-five sets of this unrivaled commentary, which will be sent as a premium to every preacher who will send twenty-five new subscribers at the regular subscription price of $2.50 per year. This is undoubtedly the most attractive premium offer ever made to preachers. You will receive six portable volumes of twelve hundred pages each, large, clear, unbroken type, with substantial Roxborough binding, and will have the satisfaction of knowing that the work of the prince of commentators is in your library. If you wish to pay cash, the price for the six volumes is $17.50, not prepaid. When sent as a premium, we pay all charges.

PUBLISHERS GOSPEL ADVOCATE.

TEXAS-OKLAHOMA DEPARTMENT

BY C. R. NICHOL

All articles, reports, orders for Gospel Advocate, and books, from Texas and Okiahoma, should be sent to C. R. Nichol, Clifton, Texas.

Societies.

BY C. W. SEWELL.

The word "organize" means: "To arrange or dispose systematically the parts of an aggregate or body for work or action; to get into proper working order." The word does not occur in the New Testament; yet I think it is proper to say that the apostles "organized" churches. But I feel sure that no man can show that they ever organized anything else. And the only church they organized was the church of God, the body of Christ, for this is the only church we read about in the New Testament. If these things are true, then every other church, society, or organization has been organized by men. God, in his word, has given men authority to organize only churches of Christ in the local sense. This being true, all other churches, societies, and organizations exist solely on the authority of men, being conceived and brought into being by men. One saying of the Savior is sufficient to show us their destiny: "Every plant, which my heavenly Father hath not planted, shall be rooted up." (Matt. 15: 13.)

But it is my purpose to let you see what the apostle Paul has to say as to how we shall treat such things: "Wherefore if ye be dead with Christ from the rudiments of the world, why, as though living in the world, are ye subject to ordinances, (touch not; taste not; handle not; which all are to perish with the using;) after the commandments and doctrines of men?" (Col. 2: 20-22.) Now read the passage just quoted, leaving out the parenthesis. Thus Paul asks: "Why are ye subject to ordinances, after the commandment and doctrines of men?" Every one can see from the way he asks the question that he did not approve of their being subject to such ordinancesthat is, to those after the commandments and doctrines of men. But restore the parenthesis and see how he wants us to treat such things: "Why are ye subject to ordinances (touch not; taste not; handle not)?" Touch not what? Ordinances. What ordinances? Those "after the commandments and doctrines of men." What are they? Every ordinance, organization, or society, church or what not, except the church of the New Testament, that exists in the world to-day, is by the commandments and doctrines of men. This embraces everything from the "cradle roll" to the Catholic Church. They are all of men, and the apostle says touch them not, taste them not, handle them not. Could anything be stronger? Thus the apostle commands us to have absolutely nothing to do with them.

The apostle gives us a reason for this in the remaining part of the parenthetical clause, thus: "Which things are all unto corruption in the using." This is a quotation from the Interlinear Literal Translation, which I think gives the idea of the original better than the Common Version. Does not the use of these societies tend "unto corruption?" moral corruption, but the corruption of the church. Not a great while ago the editor of the Christian Standard gave out an editorial on the Christian Endeavor Society in which he showed clearly that it had corrupted their churches. The Christian Endeavor will teach any disciple who goes into it with earnestness and sincerity to regard one church to be as good as another, to esteem lightly the Lord's Supper, and to think less of baptism and of membership in the church. A correspondent in the Christian Standard also showed how the women's societies control their churches and that the pastors could not help themselves. Thus we see that these societies corrupt the church just as the apostic said they would.

Again, this passage shows conclusively that instrumental music in the worship of the church is wrong. What authority have we for its use? Do any of its advocates claim that it is commanded in the New Testament? They claim neither command for it nor example of its use. Then it depends solely on the "commandments and doctrines of men." Of all such the apostle says: "Touch not; taste not; handle not." Thus we have a positive prohibition against the use of instruments of music in the church.

But I do not remember ever to have seen this passage used by any of our brethren in their opposition of either the societies or the crgan. Why is this? Have I misapplied this passage? Is it as conclusive against these things as I have made it? If I am right in my application of this passage, it would in the hands of a good debater be invulnerable and crushing. Yet I have debated both the societies and the music question and never used the passage. Why? Simply because I had not at that time grasped the meaning of the passage. Now, if I am wrong in my application of the passage, I want some of my brethren to show me my mistake. If I am not mistaken, let all the brethren, especially our debaters, take notice and use it to the best advantage for the truth. I hold no patent or copyright.

0 0 0

Teaching All the Children the Bible.

Dear Brother Nichol: I am sending you the following bit of news, a part of which I think is one of the most hopeful signs I have seen in these unsettled times, bespeaking a better day for our country. First I will tell about a good meeting at Temple, Texas, in which I did the preaching. There were thirty-nine additions. Every service was a good one. The church is harmonious, the members had a mind to work, and a good spirit pervaded the whole body. The Temple church has one of the best Sunday Bible schools I have ever seen. This school is directed by one of the efficient elders, W. B. Newby. The church is fortunate in having Brother Randolph Smith, another of the elders who is worthy of double honor, laboring in word and doctrine, and who is worthy of his hire. Also Brother Cled E. Wallace, an excellent evangelist, is a member of this church. Brother Wallace is loved and held in the highest esteem by the whole church. I have never met two more lovable men and better workers than Brethren Wallace and Smith. The Temple church is held in high esteem by the whole community. I confidently look forward to see a great growth of the cause of our blessed Redeemer in Temple. My labors with the church will always be a bright spot in my memory.

The other good news I wish to give you for your department is about the movement set on foot in Waxahachie by the superintendent of our city schools, Professor Winn. You know there is a wave of public sentiment being created in the United States to have Bible education given the children of the rising generation as the only means of checking the downward tendency of the great American republic from ruin and downfall. Many of the ablest and most farsighted statesmen of our day see in the signs of the times this republic headed in the same direction of the nations of the past-downfall and ruin. A wise sage has said: "The wicked shall be turned into hell, and all the nations that forget God." Another said: "Righteousness exalteth a nation: but sin is a reproach to any people." I noticed recently that Field Marshal Haig and Generals Pershing and Bliss, three of the world's greatest generals, made in substance this statement; "War settles nothing. If peace ever comes to this war-stricken world, it will have to come through the religion of Jesus Christ, the Prince of Peace. Nothing but the influence of the word of God can ever heal the wounds and bind up the broken hearts of the millions who have been cursed by war. The whole world is in chaos, and overhead all is black and muttering. Faith catches a gleam of light and hope inspires courage. God's word can redeem us from the awful thralldom we are in."

Professor Winn, just before the opening of our city schools in September, called all the ministers and leading religious teachers of the city together and said to us that he had developed a plan by which all the school children could be given Bible instruction. He proposed to send every child of the city schools (somewhere between fifteen hundred and two thousand) to the churches the first hour one day in every week if we would teach them the Bible. He said he could not dictate what we taught, but he suggested that we teach the naked Bible and not something about the Bible. So far we have made a fine beginning.

It certainly looks good on Friday mornings to see hundreds of our children marching into the churches for Bible instruction. The Bible is now a textbook for our school children. It is a part of their course of study. They are given credit for work done in the Bible toward graduation. In our church we have more than one hundred in attendance. We have five teachers and must get more. I have thirty-four high-school students in my class. They are doing fine work. We are studying the gospel of Christ as recorded by Matthew. Besides this work, I have two other Bible classes and in a few days will start two more. I am preaching from two to three times on Sundays, and frequently at night through the week.

I have been teaching the Bible in churches and schools for more than thirty years. Nothing else pleases me so well as to be preaching or teaching a Bible class. I have what I consider a fine program of work outlined. I have, I think a fortunate work as a member of the Waxahachie church. I labor in word and in doctrine. I can go in and out in the name of the church, and not in my own name, and hold meetings wherever and whenever we deem it best.

Yours in hope of a better day for the spread of Bible knowledge and the salvation of souls, John E. Dunn.

***** * *

Located Evangelists.

BY W. D. BLACK.

In the Apostolic Way, sometime ago, W. A. McMillan, of Lometa, Texas, had this to say: "The church here at Lometa, Texas, have a preacher located with them that preaches every Lord's day." Then he asks the question: "What is the difference between him and the regular pastor as practiced by our sectarian friends and 'digressive' brethren?"

In the same paper, under the heading, "Items of Interest," I note the following: "Brother R. L. Ludlam, Jr., is moving to Fort Smith, Ark., to take up evangelistic work under the direction of the Dodson Avenue Church. Under date of February 28 Brother Ludlam writes: "The Dodson Avenue work is growing. The audience on Lord's day (27th) lacked only a little of filling the building. A young father and mother who had moved to the city were introduced as members of the one body. They came from one of the churches in Tennessee."

Now, what is the difference in these two men as to the character of the work they are doing and the name it should be called? Is one a pastor and the other a located evangelist? According to the reasoning of these brethren, we have in Fort Smith two churches of Christ. One has a pastor and the other has the located evangelist, both doing the same character of work.

Brethren, what was Paul at Ephesus? (See Acts 20: 28-31.) He says: "Therefore watch, and remember, that by the space of three years I ceased not to warn every one night and day with tears." Was Paul a pastor at Ephesus, or was he just a located evangelist—just doing evangelistic work under the direction of the church at Ephesus? What was he at Corinth? (See Acts 18: 1-11.) He continued one year and six months teaching the word of God among them. Was he the pastor of the church at Corinth, or was he just a located evangelist? "Verily the legs of the lame are unequal."

0 0 0

Personal Notes.

- C. D. Crouch reports the outlook bright for the work in Port Arthur, Texas.
- W. L. Swinney, laboring with the church in Canadian, Texas, reports three baptisms.
- J. T. Bentley closed at Garrett Springs, Texas. One was baptized and a congregation now at work.
- J. S. Dunn baptized eight in a meeting in San Benito, Texas, and stimulated the congregation to greater activity.
- E. L. Cochran is working with the church in Wichita Falls, Texas. Two were added to the membership recently.

John M. Rice will begin a debate with G. W. Crawford, in Dill, Okla., on December 10. Mr. Crawford is a Missionary Baptist.

J. G. Allen reports the work in Muskogee, Okla. Recently there have been five additions to the congregation worshiping on C Street.

Charles Stetson is now located at Byng, Okla. He reports that he has been busy throughout the year in meetings, with successes attending.

Thomas E. Milholland, who labors with the church in Clarendon and Lelia Lake, Texas, reports the outlook continuing bright, with frequent additions.

- W. P. Skaggs, Itasca, Texas, writes: "It is said there is a dearth of preachers. I am persuaded there is a greater dearth of using the preachers we have."
- O. M. Reynolds, who is laboring with the church in Plainview, Texas, has just closed a meeting in Abernathy, Texas, which resulted in a new congregation. A lot was bought and a house will be erected.
- C. J. Roberson has been employed to do evangelistic work in Hill County, Texas. His work will not be with the strong churches, but in destitute sections of the county, and the churches coöperate in supporting him.

The meeting with the church in Shelbyville, Tenn., C. R. Nichol doing the preaching, was interesting, with four baptisms. The outlook for the congregation is bright, if they continue to work. J. H. McBroom, their preacher, is doing good work.

Foy E. Wallace, Jr., closed with the Grove Avenue Church, in San Antonio, Texas, with twenty-seven baptisms and twenty other additions to the congregation. Tedlie was chorus conductor; and W. D. Bills, minister for the Grove Avenue congregation, and Foy E. Wallace, Sr., minister of the Denver Heights congregation, San Antonio, assisted in the meeting.

Chalk Talks for Teachers.

There has been a long-felt need of a book which would enable any person who can speak to a class or an audience to give a helpful, inspiring, illustrated talk. We are glad to announce that we have secured such a work. It is entitled "Crayon and Character," and is the work of B. J. Griswold. With this book in their hands, parents can teach the children a simple, fascinating method of drawing, and at the same time make the great truths of life a part of their everyday learning. It is especially adapted to speakers who earnestly want to give illustrated talks, but who feel that they "can't draw a straight line." Practically all subjects are covered, and full instructions are given as to how to make the talks effective. The price of the book is $1.25, postpaid. Order from the McQuiddy Printing Company, Nashville, Tenn.

Catarrh Means Impure Blood

It is a Constitutional Disease.

When it affects the nose and throat and becomes chronic it weakens the delicate lung tissues, deranges the digestive organs, and may lead to consumption. It impairs the taste, smell and hearing. Take Hood's Sarsaparilla, which by purifying the blood removes the cause of the disease, so troublesome at this time of year, and gives permanent relief.

at this time of year, and gives permanent rolled.

"I had catarrh of the head and stomach, and dreadful ringing noises in my ears. I decided to try Hood's Sarsaparilla; my health improved wonderfully, and I adopted Hood's Sarsaparilla as my family medicine." Mrs. M. Jenney Shaw, St. Johns, O.

Evangelistic Labors in Three States.

BY WILLIAM REFEEL.

After making a little crop this year. I began my summer's work in a meeting at Mountain Springs, Ala., in which ten were added. I then began a meeting near New Market, Ala., but was forced to discontinue it on account of being unwell. No additions. This is truly a mission point. I hope to go there in 1922 for another meeting. I next held a short meeting at Pea Ridge, Tenn., with no confessions: then a few days at Crewstown, Tenn., with a few additions. On August 20 Brother W. G. Harrison began a meeting for me at Hopewell Schoolhouse, in Alabama. I reached there on Monday after and did the preaching. Several were added and restored there. I spent most of the time while there in Brother Harrison's home. I baptized the girl he married years ago, and it was a joy to be in this home. Brother Harrison did the baptizing, led the song service, and did much in other ways for the success of the meeting. At the request of Brother and Sister Mills, I went to Mississippi and held a week's meeting. One baptism and one restoration. Years ago there was a congregation at this place (New Bethel), but they had left their "first love" and become "lukewarm." A few zealous brethren have lately moved into that country and succeeded in getting a few to assemble to break bread. They want to put a new roof on their house of worship this fall. As they are few and poor in this world's goods, the near-by congregations could do a good work by assisting them in that work. Contributions should be sent to O. L. Mills, Paden, Miss., Route 2. Mississippi is truly a mission field. A man who can in part support himself and "endure hardships" could do a great work in Tishomingo, Prentiss, and Itawamba counties. Several earnest requests were made that I hold meetings at different points. They urged me to come there again in August, 1922, which I hope to do. Returning to Tennessee, I held a meeting at Summitt's Chapel, in Dyer County, the last of September. Only one was added. Sufficient interest, however, was aroused to get our Baptist friends to talk debate. If everything turns just right, we will have a debate. Our man is anxious. I was at Brace, Tenn., a few days recently, and think I paved the way for a good meeting there later. At the request of the elders, I preached a few nights at North Carolina, in Lauderdale County, Ala, Bad weather hindered, but one was restored. My field of labor this year, for the major part, has been but little more than selfsustaining. After traveling expenses are deducted. I find that, financially, 1 am loser, due largely, I presume, to the fact that my work was scattered over a large territory and mostly at mission points. I am thankful to God for these opportunities for doing good.

RECIPE FOR GRAY HAIR

To half pint of water add 1 ounce Bay To half pint of water add 1 ounce Bay Rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and ¼ ounce of Glycerine. Any druggist can put this up, or you can mix it at home at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. It will gradually darken streaked, faded, or gray hair and make it soft and glosssy. It will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy, and does not rub off.

For the HAIR

ro make it soft, fluffy, and free from dandruff, use

60c at your druggist's or from the SHUP-TRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

Antiseptic Analgesic Antiphlogistic (Prevents Infection) (Relieves Pain) (Allays Inflammation)

A dependable preventative of diseases of the air passages and an excellent curative agent for inflammatory conditions of the skin and mucous membranes. Does not injure delicate skin. Fine for baby. There's a wonderful amount of comfort, health and protection in a 2 oz. jar. 50c at your druggist's or by mail from

Piedmont Laboratories, Inc.. Clinton, S. C.

Renew your subscription to the Gospel Advocate.

TREATED ONE WEEK FREE

Short breathing relieved in a few hours; swelling reduced in a few days; regulates the liver, kidneys, stomach, and heart; purifies the blood; strengthens the entire system.
Write for Free Trial Treatment.
COLLUM DROPSY REMEDY CO.,
Dept. E-43.
Atlanta, Ga.

Keep Your Skin-Pores Active and Healthy With Cuticura Soap

Soap, Ointment, Talcum, Mc, everywhere, For sample of disease Gutterra Laboratories, Dept. V. Malden, Mar

THE TALE OF THE TAYLORS

DELONG RICE

"ALF and BOB TAYLOR, with their

"ALF and BOB TAYLOR, with their eloquence, their fiddles, and their fox hounds, have wrought for themselves a niche of eternal melody in the hearts of their country."

So states the author of this little book, which we present as the best product of the pen of DeLong Rice. Into one hour of reading he has gathered the strange and romantic story of the two most wonderful political campaigns of Tennessee—the thrilling tale of the bappy comradeship and the lifetong rivalry of the two famous brothera—a disclosure of the remarkable and heretofore unpublished incidents that attended the political division of the Taylor family—the wonder of "The War of the Roses" that attracted the attention of the world—and the truth about "OLD LIMBER," the peerless and now immortal fox hound that played the leading role of sentiment in the political campaign of last fall, from the Mississippi River to the Unska Mountains.

the Mississippi River to the Unaka Mountains.
With a "Cast of Characters extending from a Fresident of the United States to a fox hound," the story touches a wide range of human sentment; and through it all is the aroma of crackling camp fires and the music of the chase. THE BOOK is beautifully printed and bound, appropriately illustrated, and packed in a neat gift box, ready for mailing.

PRICE, $1.00 THE COPY, POSTPAID TO ANY ADDRESS.

Correspondence with Bookstores and News Agencies is invited. Special club rates to Fox Hunters' Associations, if ordered in sufficient numbers.

Where we have no Bookstore cus-tomer, we will offer an attractive prop-osition to any energetic woman or man who may desire to handle the book.

Write to us to-day.

McQUIDDY PRINTING CO., NASHVILLE, TENN.

FREE TO

Pile Sufferers

Don't Be Cut—Until You Try This New Home Cure that Any One Can Use without Discomfort or Loss of Time. Simply Chew Up a Pleasant-Tasting Tablet Occasionally and Rid Yourself of Piles.

Let Me Prove This Free.

My internal method for the treatment and permanent relief of piles is the correct one. Thousands upon thousands of grateful letters testify to this, and I want you to try this method at my expense.

No matter whether your case is of long standing or recent development, whether it is chronic or acute, whether it is cocasional or permanent, you should send for this free trial treatment.

No matter where you live, no matter what your age or occupation, if you are troubled with piles, my method will relieve you promptly.

I especially want to send it to those apparently hopeless cases where all forms of ointments, salves, and other local applications have faied.

I want you to realize that my method of treating piles is the one most dependable treatment.

This liberal offer of free treatment is too important for you to neglect a single day. Write now. Send no money. Simply mail the coupon, but do this now, TO-DAY.

Free Pile Remedy.

E. R. Page

430-H Page Bldg., Marshall, Mich. Please send free trial of your method to

TETTERINE

Ends Complexion Worries

Healing, Antiseptic, Soothing, Fragrant 60c at your druggist's or from the SHUP-TRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

FRECKLE

Now Is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots.

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling eshamed of your freekles, as Othine—double arrengthis guaranteed to remove these homely spots.
Simply set an ounce of Othine—double strengthfrom your drugsist, and apply a little of it night and morning and you should soon see that even the worst freekles have begun to disappear, while the lighter mes have vanished entirely. It is selden that more than one owner is needed to completely clear the skin hd gain as beautiful clear completion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength Othine as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it falls to remove freekles.

Don't Wear a Truss

BROOKS' APPLIANCE, the modern scientific invention, the wonderful pew discovery that re-fleves rupture will be sent on trial. No obnoxious springs or pads. Has automatic Air cushion. Binds and draws the broken parts together as you would a broken limb. No saives, No lies. Durable, cheap Sent on trial to prove it. Protected by U. S. patents. Catalogue and measure blanks mailed free Send name and address today.

C. E. BROOKS, 443G State St., Marshall, Mich.

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

Horton-Brewer Debate.

BY H. C. WYLIE.

Beginning on November 3 and continuing three days, at White House, in Marion County, Ala., a debate was held between J. H. Horton, of Haleyville, Ala., representing the church of Christ, and J. W. Brewer, representing the Missionary Baptist Church. The general church question, baptism for remission of sins, and the possibility of apostasy were the subjects discussed. Brother Horton has had very little experience in debating and rather reluctantly took this one, it being forced upon him without an hour's warning; yet, with his knowledge of the Bible and his power to present its wonderful truths, it is sufficient to say the Baptist cause went down before him in utter defeat, and the brethren in the White House community are well pleased with the results.

Evangelistic Work in Florida.

BY D. A. MARTIN.

The churches of Christ of Marion and Sumpter counties met at Moss Bluff on October 29 and 20 for the purpose of getting closer together in the Master's work, that we may do more for the saving of souls. The following preaching brethren were present: S. W. Colson and M. L. Humphries, of Ocala; J. O. Barnes, of Lake City; G. W. Jarrett, of Tennessee; and the writer. Besides, there was a good attendance from several congregations. The time was taken up in singing, prayer, and short talks. The spirit of enthusiasm ran high, and all present enjoyed the meeting. I preached on Saturday night, and a man and his wife confessed their Lord, being baptized on Sunday morning. Brother Barnes preached a good discourse on Sunday, and four others united by letter. The breaking of bread was conducted by Brother T. W. Barnett, After the services dinner was spread under the trees, and after a prayer by Brother T. J. Fort all ate to their satisfaction of the bountiful supply of good things prepared by the good sisters. In the afternoon the brethren gathered in a business meeting. It was decided to discontinue the services of Brother S. W. Colson in the evangelistic work under the supervision of the churches of Marion County. Brother J. O. Barnes was chosen for the place. We then listened to a good discourse by Brother Jarrett. Brother Humphries preached at night, which closed this meeting. Brother Colson preceded this meeting with a series of meetings, beginning on October 23, and running into and embracing this meeting, in which one was baptized, making seven additions during the meeting-three by baptism and four by letter. We now launch out on another three months of mission work, arousing the stronger congregations to greater activities, strengthening the weak congregations, and building up the waste places. Any isolated breturen who are wanting help should write to J. O. Barnes, evangelist, Lake City.

Try Renwar for Rheumatism.

Try Renwar for Rheumatism.

It is not necessary any longer for you to suffer those intense pains and aches of rheumatism. Renwar is a salts combination scientifically prepared to neutralize the unit acid in the blood and thereby cure rheumatism. Don't wait until those rheumatic pains return. Buy a bottle of Renwar and forget about that rheumatism. Renwar is an old, well-established remedy. It is prescribed by the best of physicians and has thousands of friends. President L. A. Bauman, of Varley & Bauman Company, Nashville, says: "Renwar entirely relieved me of my rheumatism." For sale by druggists; price, 50 cents. Positively guaranteed by money-back offer. If your druggist doesn't carry Renwar in stock, tell him to order it for you from WARNER DRUG COMPANY, NASHVILLE, TENN.

HINDERCORNS Removes Corns, Callouses, etc., stops all pain, ensures comfort to the feet, makes walking easy. 15c, by mail or at Druggists. Hiscox Chemical Works, Patchogue, N. Y

Driving the Brain often Affects the Nerves, causing Nervous Irritation and Nervous Headaches.

When Nervous, try using

The Standard Remedy for many years for disorders of the Nerves.

AT ALL DRUGGISTS

MILES MEDICAL CO., Elkhart, Ind.

Sloan's for every muscle in the Human Body"

Relief for all external pains and aches: rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica, lumbago, sprains and strains, overworked and sore muscles. Sioan's is good for all of them? Don't rub—it penetrates,

Sold by dealers you know and can trust, 35c, 70c, $1.40.

S10an's Liniment (Pain's enemy)

TETTERINE Drives Away Pimples

and leaves your skin soft and spotless. 60c at your druggist's or from the SHUPTRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

Send for this rich looking gold filled Combination Watch-Bracelet today. You will find it to be a $10,00 value. Has adjusted 7-jeweled movement, the case being gold-filled and warranted to wear 10 years. It is a siem-wind and stem-set model and it looks like a very expensive watch. The picture shows you what a handsome model it is and the gold dial adds to its attractiveness. The bracelet is flexible and will fit any wrist, so you need not hesitate to order on account of size. It is sent direct to you, as pictured, in a yelvet and silk-lined box. Each watch is examined before leaving the factory and you will find them perfect time-pieces.

Don't Hesitate! Our Money-Back Guarantee Protects You

So positive are we that you will be delighted with your watch that we ABSOLUTELY GUAR-ANTEE to refund your money if you are not satisfied after examination; therefore, do not lucifate to order. Send no money. Just rush your name and address. Your watch will be sent by return prepaid mail and delivered right to your door by the postman. Pay the postman our advertised price of $4.95 on arrival and remember, if you are not entirely pleased after examination, return your watch and we will refund your money, every cent of it.

EMPIRE CITY MFG. CO. Dept. 168, 138 5th Ave., New York

FIELD REPORTS

Gainesville, Fla., November 15.—I have just closed a mission meeting in Newberry, leaving a church of twelve members there. The churches at Gainesville, Cherry Sink, and Trenton bountifully supported me in this work.

—J. P. Prevatt.

Flint, Mich., November 14.—Yesterday was a good day for the church here. At the morning service Brethren Clifton and Fleming, of the Cameron Avenue Church, in Detroit, were with us. Brother Clifton preached, and Brother Fleming gave us a splendid talk at the table.—Leslie G. Thomas.

Graysville, Tenn., November 14.— We had a glorious meeting at Soddy, Tenn. Five were added to the one body. I am to return the first Lord's day in December. Household goods arrived, and wife and children arrived safe at her father's home, Bridgeport, Ala. They will join me in our new home soon, the Lord willing.—A. B. Blazer.

Athens, Ala., November 14.—Last Lord's day I worshiped with the brethren in my old home church at Reunion. Brother J. Clifford Murphy, of Pulaski, Tenn., did the preaching. He will preach next year for the brethren at Reunion. Brother Murphy is an able minister. I will begin a meeting here in Athens to-night. The second Lord's day in December I will preach in Albany, Ala. I will be here in Northern Alabama a month or two longer.—William W. Still.

Link, Tenn., November 14.—The tent meeting at Link, supported by the New Zion congregation, continued fifteen days and resulted in eight baptisms. I was with the Industry Church, Georgiana, Ala., last Lord's day, and was delighted to find them still full of the Spirit, zealously working in the midweek prayer meeting and Lord's-day services and "growing in grace and the knowledge of the Lord." Our colony church at Wetunpka, Ala., is still batling, hoping for a better day.—L. L. Jones.

Madison, Ala., November 14.—Brother Homer N. Rutherford, of Lynnville, Tenn., and his fellow worker, Brother W. G. Klingman, of Nashville, Tenn., who conducted the song service, closed a good and successful meeting at this place on November 8, with eight acquisitions by primary obedience. It is more than probable that others were almost persuaded. The church has been revived, more interest is manifested by the brethren, and we hope to be instrumental in accomplishing more for the cause of Christ in the future than we have in the past. May we all remain faithful unto death.—Thomas Gewin.

Decherd, Tenn., November 15.—I have just closed a meeting in Montgomery, Ala., with the Highland Park Avenue church of Christ, with one baptized. I feel like much good was done in other ways. The church was strengthened. There is a splendid congregation that worships there, and to know them is to love them. All seem to be of one mind. Brother J. H. Hines is preaching for them. He is doing a good work there. Several of the preaching brethren were

Are You Frail? How's Your Appetite?

This Advice i Vital to You

Covington, Ky.—"I was run-down in health, suffered with backache, headache, poor appetite, etc., and Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical I iscovery cured me sound and well. I had not finished taking all of the first bo'tle when I be ran to feel much better. Now I keep a little of the 'Golden Medica' Discovery' on hand all the time."—Mrs. S. E. Hughes, 113 Court Place.

Start on the road to health at once by obtaining this "Discovery" of Dr. Pierce's from your neighbor od druggist in tablets or liquid, or sen 10c to Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y., for trial pkg., and write for free advice.

lo Reduce Fever Relieve Headaches and Neuralgic Pains

Use

Aspitone is very efficient and absolutely safe to use as it does not depress the heart even in extreme cases of debility or weak heart, neurasthenia or anaemia. Manufactured by a formula in use by leading physicians generally, 19 parts pure Aspirin, 1 part pure Caffeine, 4 parts exceptent, in convenient tablet form. 35c per package at your druggists or by mall from the manufacturers, Piedmont Laboratories, Inc., Clinton, S. C.

with me. Brother Fred M. Little was with me much of the time. He is doing a good work with the Catoma Street church of Christ.—R. E. L. Taylor.

Magness, Ark., November 1.—I have just closed a meeting at Sneed Schoolhouse, near Swifton, Ark., with large crowds and good attention, but no additions. Brother Porterfield conducted the song service. He held a meeting in the summer, with about fifty additions. He is a good singer, as well as a loyal preacher of the gospel. I stopped off at Magness to spend a few days with the brethren, as I have held several meetings here, and they put me to work. I shall go to Little Rock on Thursday, and will be there until over Lord's day, and then go to Henryetta, Okla., the last of next week. I expect to be back in Texas in December. —W. F. Lemmons.

Lebanon, Tenn., November 17.—On the first Lord's day in October I began a meeting at "Sweet Home," in Dickson County, and continued it till the second Sunday night, with splendid interest and increasing crowds to the close. One was baptized. I am sure there is a good prospect for establishing a good congregation there next year. We have about ten members there. It was said that old people attended this meeting who had never heard one of our brethren preach before. After this meeting it was my pleasure to lead the singing in a meeting at White Bluff for Brother Srygley. Splendid audiences at night and on Lord's days. Seven baptisms and one reclamation. On the second Sunday night it was said to be the largest crowd ever seen in the house. I will be glad to assist in a meeting or singing class between this and Christmas.—W. Derryberry, Kirkmansville, Ky., November 15.— On the second Lord's day in July I began a meeting with the Kedron church of Christ, in Logan County, Ky., continuing there over the third Lord's day. This meeting resulted in nine baptisms. I went from there to Cedar Grove, where I began on Monday night and continued over the fourth Lord's day, with six baptisms. On the second Lord's day in August I began a meeting at Marcella Falls, in Giles County, Tenn. I was there one week. No visible results. I went from there to Pleasant Valley, in Lawrence County. No additions. I began a meeting at Union Hill, Trigg County, Ky., on the first Sunday in September. I was there to days, with four additions. I went from there to Fruit's Chapel, Ky. One restoration. I began my next meeting at Mount Vernon, Ky., on the first Sunday in October, which resulted in seven baptisms and four restorations. I then went to Palmyra, Tenn., and held a meeting, beginning on the third Lord's day in October. There were three baptisms, and one from the General Baptists who claimed to have been scripturally baptized took membership. I went next to Sharon Grove and preached four discourses. On account of rain and bad weather, we closed the meeting. I am now at home for the winter to fill my monthly appointments.—C. H. Baker.

$3.00 VALUE FOR $1.00

By special arrangement with one of the leading Eastern manufacturers, we are able to offer our readers a real bargain in the

"CAPITOL" LEVER SELF-FILLING FOUNTAIN PEN

SOME OF ITS FINE POINTS

GOLD PENS are 14.K. gold, spring tempered with special care, pointed with hard iridium. These pens have been famous for more than half a century.

CLIP is riveted to the cap, and prevents loss of pen from the pocket.

HOLDERS are made of the best quality hard rubber, and are not injured by the ink.

Lever or filling device is riveted to the barrel; when raised for filling the pen, pushes the pressure bar and the sac, filling the pen full, clean and quick.

The retail selling price of the pen is three dollars, but to every reader who sends a new subscriber at the regular subscription price of $2.50 and adds one dollar we will send this pen as a mark of our appreciation.

Please understand that the offer does not apply to renewals. It is made as a special inducement to get new subscribers.

Order early and avoid disappointment.

ADDRESS

GOSPEL ADVOCATE

317-319 Fifth Avenue, North

NASHVILLE, TENN.

ANOTHER WOMAN ESCAPES

Mrs. McCumber Avoided a Serious Operation by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in Time

Georgetown, Ill.—"After my first baby was born I suffered so with my not walk across the floor unless I was all humped over, hold-ing to my side. I doc-tored with several doctors but found no relief and they said I would have to have operation. an operation. My mother insisted on my taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I soon found relief. Now I can do all my own work and it is the Vegetable Compound that has saved me from an opera-pound that has saved me from an operation. I cannot praise your medicine too highly and I tell all of my friends and neighbors what the Compound did for me." — Mrs. MARGARET MCCUMBER, 27 S. Frazier St., Georgetown, Illinois. Mrs. McCumber is one of the unnumbered thousands of housewives who struggle to keep about their daily tasks, while suffering from ailments peculiar to women with backache, sideaches, headaches, bearing-down pains and nervousness,—and if every such woman should profit by her experience and give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial they would get well.

MAKE LOAFING HENS LAY

While the price of eggs is high. Get three times the number of eggs you have been getting by using CaroVet Egg Producer, a wonderful poultry tonic. Satisfactory results guaranteed by money-back offer. 214-pound packages, with full directions, for only 80c, delivered at your door. Send money order, stamps, or check.

> CAROLINA REMEDIES CO., No. 1 CaroVet Building, Union, S. C.

IS CURABLE. Write me to-day and I will send you a free trial of my mild, soothing, guaranteed treatment that will prove it. Stops the itching and heals permanently. DR. CANNADAY, 1225 Park Sq., Sedalia, Mo.

Work in the Florida Field.

BY J. O. BARNES.

I began a meeting with the Capulet church of Christ, near Ocala, Fla., the fifth Lord's-day night in October and continued it until November 10, preaching each night and on Lord's day. The attendance and interest were good through the entire meeting. Lord's day we had dinner on the ground. A large crowd gathered from different congregations and a good day was enjoyed by all. In the afternoon we gathered for special prayer and short talks from the brethren in behalf of the success of the effort on November 12, as suggested by President Harding, looking toward disarmament of the nations and permanent peace among them. Those taking part, besides myself, were: Old Brother Tom Folks, one of God's old soldiers of the cross; Brother Richard Green, also one of God's old heroes; Brother W. J. Dinkins, who is one of the most wideawake and useful members of the church at this place. Other faithful servants of God were present and indorsed the service, but were too timid to speak out. During our effort here we were encouraged by the presence and prayers of the following preaching brethren from time to time as they could find opportunity to leave their own work: D. A. Martin, of Oxford. one of God's volunteers who has stood the test of a long, unending warfare in the army of Christ; Brother S. W. Colson, one of Florida's best preachers, who stands at his post with the whole uniform of God on, ready to carry the message of salvation to all the world; Brother G. W. Jarrett, of Alabama, a battle-scared veteran and active worker, now in Florida; Brother M. L. Humphries, one of Florida's most promising young preachers and one who is full of zeal for the salvation of lost souls and the glory of God; and that gallant, fearless, yet meek and lovable man of God, M. H. Northcross, from Franklin, Tenn., who was the crown of our joy, having known him many years, and whom to know is to love. Peace and harmony reigned supremely among us, and we were all encouraged to press on more resolutely in the great conflict for the salvation of souls and the glory of God. As results of the meeting, the church was edified. One soul came out from sectarianism. I go to Mango, Fla., from here, and will visit an old brother in the flesh and worship with the church there a few times, then return to Charter Oak (near this point) for a meeting, and then to Lake City to see "the little folks at home."

The Inward Effects of humors are worse than the outward. They endanger the whole system. Hood's Sarsaparilla eradicates all humors, cures all their inward and outward effects. It is the great alterative and tonic, whose merit has been everywhere established.

Set Your Standard High.

Paul has set a standard which every boy and girl should aspire to reach. He says: "Whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report, . . think on these things." Is this standard too high? Not if your character is to become as strong and pure as you can make it. Not if you would live in favor with God and man and would achieve in life the highest possible good.-Exchange.

Acquaint now thyself with him, and be at peace: thereby good shall come unto thee .- Job 22: 21.

CHARACTER

THE MAKING OF THE MAN

SUPREMELY ELOQUENT

DELIGHTFULLY INSTRUCTIVE

ACENTS WANTED SHOULD BE READ BY EVERYBODY

The verdict of the thousands who have read the book is: "No lecture extant is more interesting, charming, and philosophical. It is a classic and easily ranks with the best productions of modern authors. A million copies should be sold." Thousands of copies have been sold in a few days. It is beautifully bound in sheep ooze, or library binding. Write at once to the publishers.

PRICE, $1.50 THE COPY

ADDRESS

McQUIDDY PRINTING CO.

Department

NASHVILLE

TENN

Mission Work With a Tent.

BY B. B. GOODMAN.

I here give a report of mission work done by congregations in Southeast Missouri and Northeast Arkansas.

J. S. Jones, of Senath, Mo., and James E. Laird, of Piggott, Ark., and others, seeing the need of mission work in this section, asked the congregations interested to donate enough money to buy a tent to be used in protracted-meeting work, the tent was bought, and meetings were held as follows, with results as given:

Bragg City, Mo., May 1-15. Preaching by J. P. Lowrey. Five confessions and baptisms. A congregation of twenty set in order.

Caruthersville, Mo., May 16-29, Preaching by F. L. Paisley. One confession and baptism. A congregation of fifteen began keeping house.

Hayti, Mo., June 5-18. Preaching by James E. Laird. One from the Christian Church.

Yarbro, Ark., June 18 to July 1. Preaching by O. C. Dobs. A congregation of ten set in order.

Hornersville, Mo., July 3-17. Preaching by J. S. Jones. Sixteen confessions and baptisms. Congregation left under the elders of the Hollywood (Mo.) congregation.

Silverdale, Mo., July 17-31. Preaching by J. S. Jones. Seventeen confessions and baptisms. Congregation left under the elders of the Hollywood congregation.

Wardell, Mo., August 1-14. Preaching by R. C. White. Six confessions and baptisms.

Arbyrd, Mo., August 14-29. Preaching by A. B. Baxley. Eleven confessions and baptisms.

Mission out from Kennett, Mo., August 29 to September 10. Preaching by J. S. Jones. Five confessions and baptisms.

Blytheville, Ark., September 11-25. Preaching by L. S. White. Four additions by statement. Congregation employed A. B. Baxley for half time.

Steele, Mo., September 26 to October 2. Preaching by J. S. Jones. No additions. Meeting closed on account of sickness of J. S. Jones.

In addition to the above work with the tent, the following meetings were held in this territory independent of the tent work:

Marmaduke, Ark., August 7-17. Preaching by I. H. Douthit. Eleven confessions and baptisms.

Greenway, Ark., August 30 to September 11. Preaching by M. S. Mason. Results not known.

Rector, Ark., August 14-28. Preaching by M. S. Mason. Four confessions and baptisms.

Bernie, Mo., May 1-15. Preaching by M. S. Mason, Two confessions and baptisms.

Antioch, Mo., July 17-31. Preaching by Joe Ratcliffe. Three confessions and baptisms.

Glass, Ark., July 17-31. Preaching by James E. Laird. Ten confessions and baptisms.

Senath, Mo., June — Preaching by J. P. Lowrey. Fifteen confessions and baptisms.

Huffman, Ark., July 10-25. Preaching by A. B. Baxley. Eight confessions and baptisms.

Kennett, Mo., July 10-31. Preaching by M. S. Mason. Forty-seven confessions and baptisms.

Campbell, Mo., July 3-11. Preaching by J. P. Lowrey. Four confessions and baptisms.

Other meetings in progress at the time of making report that cannot be included in this report. Plans are being perfected for more work for next year by using two tents and more preachers.

No one can clearly see his rights who is blind to his duties.—Omm,

BOILS

Old Sores, Cuts and Burns have been healed since 1820 with

Gray's Ointment

Sold by all druggists. Write for sample to W. F. Gray & Co., 716 Gray Bldg., Nashville, Tenn.

CANCERS CURED AT THE KELLAN HOSPITAL

The Kellam Hospital cures Cancers, Sores without the use Burns, and Chronic Tumors, Ulcers, X-Ray of the knife, X-Ray, Radium, Acids, or Serum, and we have cured over 90 per cent of the many hundreds of sufferers treated during the past lwenty-three years.

KELLAM HOSPITAL, Inc.

1617 West Main St.

Richmond, Va.

Whatsoever a Man Soweth.

Be not deceived; God is not mocked: for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap. For he that soweth to his flesh shall of the flesh reap corruption; but he that soweth to the Spirit shall of the Spirit reap life everlasting. And let us not be weary in well-doing: for in due season we shall reap, if we faint not.—Gal. 6: 7-9.

A Strength and Refuge.

O Lord, thou art my God; I will exalt thee, I will praise thy name; for thou hast done wonderful things.

. . Thou hast been a strength to the poor, a strength to the needy in his distress, a refuge from the storm, a shadow from the heat.—Isa, 25: 1, 4.

BEATS GAS OR ELECTRICITY

New Lamp Has No Wick. No Chimney. No Odor. Most Brilliant Light Known

A new lamp which experts agree gives the most powerful home light in the world is the latest achievement of W. H. Hoffstot, 967 Factory Building, Kansas City, Mo. This remarkable new lamp beats gas or electricity; gives more light than three hundred candles, eighteen ordinary lamps, or ten brilliant electric lights, and costs only one cent a night—a blessing to every home on farm or in small town. It is absolutely safe and gives universal satisfaction. A child can carry it. It is the ambition of Mr. Hoffstot to have every home, store, hall, or church enjoy the increased comfort of this powerful, pleasing, brilliant, white light; and he will send one of his new lamps on free trial to any reader of the Gospel Advocate who writes him. He wants one person in each locality to whom he can refer new customers. Take advantage of his free offer. Agents wanted. Write him to-day.— Adv

STORY BOOKS FOR GIFTS AND REWARDS

This little series of books will fill a long-felt need for an inexpensive book for little ones. They are beautifully printed on heavy enameled stock, and each book, in addition to the illuminated cover, contains four full-page illustrations in colors. The titles are carefully selected, and the stories are clean and wholesome and well written. Each book contains twelve pages. Size, $4x5\frac{1}{2}$.

The series contains such titles as Mother Goose, Little Red Riding Hood, Cinderella, Our Country Playmates, Happy Days, etc.—all equally good bedtime stories or animal stories for children. There are twenty titles in the series. Sold assorted only; 50c per dozen, $4.00 per hundred, postpaid. Send all orders to the

McQUIDDY PRINTING COMPANY 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North NASHVILLE, TENN.

Plenty of Potash

After all the years of Potash Hunger
the opportunity has come to buy
Potash at very low prices

IN order to take advantage of these low prices no time should be lost in telling your dealer what you will require so that there will be plenty of time to import the Potash.

The right kind and amount of fertilizer is a great help in reducing the cost of crop production.

A fertilizer high in Potash, 4 to 10 per cent, improves both the quantity and quality of all crops.

Great quantities of Potash have been removed from the soil in the past six years. Now is the time to restore it at small cost.

SOIL & CROP SERVICE, POTASH SYNDICATE
H. A. HUSTON, Manager
42 Broadway New York

POTASH PAYS

FIELD REPORTS

Denton, Texas, November 14.—Our services yesterday were well attended at all hours. The Bible classes were unusually well attended, and the people came early and showed great entusiasm in the work. It is estimated that the attendance was about the best we have had in the Sunday-school work. At the morring hour for preaching the building was crowded, though our building in use yesterday was not quite so large as the one used on other days; nevertheless, the attendance was better than common. In the afternoon I preached at Center Point, out of Denton about one mile. The house was filled at this meeting.—R. D. Smith.

Monticello, Ky., November 11.—The Monticello meeting began on October 2 and closed on October 16. Brother C. R. Nichol did the preaching, and did it well. The church was built up, but there were no additions. I held a ten-days' meeting at Rankin, in this county, in which three were baptized, one of which was from the Baptists. On October 27 I began in Elk Spring Valley, in our new church house there, and continued till November 9. One came from the Christian Church and one from the Baptists. Several have been added to the church there this year. I am to begin a mission meeting at Higginsport, Ohio, on November 17. This will continue about two weeks. I have been invited to preach some at the Christian Church on Columbia Avenue, Cincinnati. They have consented to set the organ aside. I have many relatives in this church; hence the invitation to preach there.—J. L. Hines.

Montgomery, Ala., November 14 .-All the reports of yesterday's services in and around Montgomery are to the effect that it was a day well spent. Brother Comer spoke at West End at the morning worship; R. E. L. Taylor was at Oak Park morning and evenwas at Oak Park morning and evening; I was at Catoma Street at the usual services; John Churchwell, Jr., preached at Strata on Sunday morning; and Brother J. M. Miller was heard by an appreciative audience at Dublin. I have received letters from each of the Senators from Alabama and from the Representative from the Second Congressional District of this Second Congressional District of this State, acknowledging receipt of the resolutions adopted by the Catoma Street Church, urging them to exert their influence in favor of disarmament. All these officials express themselves as being willing to do all they can to have a reduction of armament. Let us pray and work, brethren, that war may be prevented. God's people are opposed to war. Get the world convinced that we are opposed to war, that we may not have to be called in question as to our position after war is an actual fact.—Fred M. Little.

Columbus, Ohio, November 13.—
The church of Christ in Columbus—or "congregation of the Lord," as printed on their billboard—meets every Lord's day at ten o'clock for Bible study and at eleven o'clock for public worship, on the corner of Seventh Avenue and North High Street. While we have had some very inclement weather to contend with, our meeting here continues with increasing interest. Two noble souls have so far responded to the call of the gospel. We have a noble band of disciples of Christ in Columbus, and it is a great pleasure to mingle with them and labor with them in the gos-pel. One of their great needs is a neat and commodious house of worship in which to meet and accommodate the public. This they expect to soon supply themselves with, and then they can hope to accomplish much good in this great city. Breth-ren John R. Hunt, H. M. Fogle, and Harry Lyons are the bishops of this congregation, and they are good men for the place, too. We bespeak for the church here a useful future.— A. A. Bunner.

Union, S. C., November 15.—Our eeting in Greenville closed last meeting night without any visible results. Brother Gibbs and I did the preaching. It seems hard to get an audience there that will continue to come long enough to get interested. The crowd ranged from about one hundred and fifty to four or five. One reason for this variation was the cool weather. This is the home of Brother and Sister Finnell, who are working hard to establish the work there. The work is moving along nicely in this place. Our endinger average this place. Our audiences average about sixty each Lord's day. One baptism last Lord's day. We are having some cottage meetings, which we have found to be very successful. Many have been converted in this way. We will continue them all the winter. The work on the building is progressing nicely; but what money we have will soon be gone, and, as I cannot borrow any, I do not know what we will do to finish. We lack about one thousand dollars having the needed amount; but when we have done what we can, and it is the Lord's will that it be finished, we believe he will open the way. Brethren, pray for us, and remember that a liberal contribution will be gratefully re-ceived for the building fund. ceived for the Thomas H. Burton. building fund .-

The many prove the wisdom of Hesiod, who says that the road to wickedness is smooth and very short. and there is no need of perspiring; but before virtue the immortal gods have placed the sweat of labor, and long and steep is the way thither, and rugged at first; but when you have reached the top, then, however difficult, it becomes easy.-Plato.

If we find but one to whom we can speak our hearts freely, with whom we can walk in love and simplicity without dissimulation, we have no ground for quarrels with the world or with God .- Stevenson.

Night and Morning. Have Strong, Healthy Eyes. If they Tire, Itch, Smart or Burn, if Sore, YOUR EYES Irritated, Inflamed or Granulated, use Murine often. Soothes, Refreshes. Safe for Infant or Adult. At all Druggists. Write for Free Eye Book. Murine Eye Remedy Co., Chicago

MEQUIDDY PRINTING CO.

		NIT	r Aun
	ENGRAVED VISITING CARDS		E AND CARDS
		One	Extra Lines
1	Mrs. Morris E. Barr		$1.50
2	Miss Virginia Haloy	5.25	2.75
3	Miss Pluth Heath	3.25	1,50
4	Miss Emma R. Leathers	3.25	1.50
5	Miss Almyra Reams	3.75	2.00
6	Mrs. Carey T. Posegate	5.25	2.75
7	Mrs. Edward Glonn Walloor	3.75	2.00
8	Mrs. Felen Simpson Cooper	5.25	2.75
9	Miss Kliznbeth Bruthell	3.75	2.00
10	Miss Kuthleen Vaughan	5.25	2.75
11	Mrs. Justin Potter	5,25	2.75
12	MR. JOHN T. CAMPBELL	4.25	2.25
13	MR. FRANK B. EMMERLING	5.50	3.00
14	Miss Hester E. Bratten	5.50	3.00
15	MR. JACK SWANEY	3.75	2.00
16	MR.WILLIAM A. HUDSON	4.25	2,25
	ards reprinted from plate		$1.50
100 C	ards reprinted from plate	and the same of	. 1.75
100 T	late-Marked Cards, extra		25
20 7	lourning Cards from plate		. 2,50
100 3	Tourning Cards from plate		. 1,25
On	orders of 100 Cards, with 50 name only and 50	with ad	dress.
chare	e $1.25 for each lot of 50.
Chi	arge 25 per cent extra line rate for adding Mr., M. I. plates.	rs., Miss	, etc.,

STANDARD FOR 50 YEARS

Not Only For Chills and Fever But a Fine General Tonic

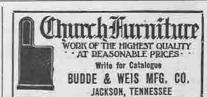

Wards Off Malaria and Restores Strength.

If not sold by your druggist, write Arthur Peter & Co., Louisville, Ky

School Besks Opera Chairs. Folding Chairs. School Supplies, Blackboards.

Kindergarten Chairs, SOUTHERN DESK CO., Hickory, N. C.

Renew your subscription.

Bank Guarantee

State Bank of Philadelphia

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

Mr. E. J. Reefer has deposited $10,000.00 with this bank as a guarantee that he will pay all the prizes awarded by the judges to the winners of this puzzle contest. This bank guarantees Mr. Reefer will do as he agrees.

STATE BANT OF PHILADELPHIA

How many objects beginning with "L" can you find in this picture?

Open to Everybody

A GREAT big bona-fide chance to win $2,000 and 14 other Cash Prizes. Think of what you could do with $2,000 this very minute. Some one will win it! You have the same chance! How simple! Try your skill NOW!

Mail at once the names of all the objects you can find in the picture beginning with "L". It costs nothing to try. To the one sending in the largest and nearest correct list of names the first prize will be awarded. To the one sending in the second largest and nearest correct list of the second prize will be awarded, etc. In case of tie for any prize offered, the full amount of such prize will be awarded to each tying contestant.

Read the great simplicity of this offer. All you need to do is to look over the objects in the puzzle picture. Get everyone to help you. Get the whole family around. Write out every object beginning with "L", such as Limousine, Lock, etc. Nothing hidden—no need to turn the picture upside down. If the judges decide that your list is nearest correct list—the first prize of $40.00 will be awarded to you even though you do not send an order for "MORE EGGS". But we are giving you a chance to win far more than $40.

Win $2,000

Will you win $40 or $2,000? If you are awarded first prize and have ordered no "MORE EGGS" you win of 'You purchased $5.00 worth of "MORE EGGS," the same list wins $2,000. Which prize do you want?

Get Busy NOW!

Send in your list at once. Send your "MORE EGGS" order at the same time. Qualify for Big Cash Prizes.

Dept. E.J. Reefer 25 9th and Spruce Streets, Philadelphia, Pa.

(Additional pictures sent free on request)

THE PRIZES-

Winning Answers will receive Prizes as Follows:

	If Ne lore Eggs" s ordered	If SI Worth of "More Egga" is Ordered	If $2 Worth of "More Eggs" is Ordered	If $5 Worth of "More Eggs" i "Ordered
1st Prize$	40.00	$300.00	$600.00	$2,000.00
2nd Prize	20.00	150.00	300.00	1,000.00
3rd Prize	10.00	75.00	150.00	500.00
4th Prize	10.00	50.00	100.00	250.00
5th Prize	10.00	30.00	60.00	150.00
6th Prize	6.00	20.00	40.00	100.00
7th Prize	6.00	15.00	30.00	80.00
8th Prize	6.00	10.00	20.00	60.00
9th Prize	4.00	10.00	20.00	40.00
10th to 15th	4.00	10.00	20.00	40.00

(In the event of ties, duplicate prizes will be given.)

Observe These Rules:

- 1. Any man, woman, girl, or boy living in America but re-siding outside of Philadelphis, who is not an employe or relative of an employe of E. J. Reefer may submit an answer. It costs nothing to try.
- All answers must be mailed by post office closing time, Dec. 10, 1921.
- 10, 1921.

 3. All lists of names should be written on one side of the paper only and numbered numerically, such as 1, 2, 3. Write your full name and address on each page in the upper right hand corner, If you desire to write anything else, use a separate sheet.
- 4. Only such words as appear in the English dictionary will be counted. Do not use obsolete words. Where the plural is used the singular cannot be counted and vice-versa,
- 5. Words of the same spelling can be used only once, even though used to designate differ-rent objects or articles, or parts of objects or articles. An object or article can be named only once.
- 6 Do not use compound words, nor any words formed by the combination of two or more com-plete English words, where each word in itself is an object.

- 7. The answer having the largest and nearest correct list of names of visible objects and articles shown in the picture that begin with the letter "L" will be awarded first prize, etc. Neatness, style, or handwriting haven bearing upon deciding the winner.
- S. Candidates may co-operate in answering the puzzle, but only one prize will be awarded to any one household; nor will prizes be awarded to more than one of any group outside of the family where two or more have been working together.
- 9. There will be three independent judges, having no connection with E. J. Reefer, who will judge the answers submitted and award the prises at the end of the contest, and participants agree to accept the decision of the judges as final and conclusive.
- 10. All answers will receive the same consideration regardless of whether or not an order for Reefer's "More Eggs" is sent.
- 11. The announcement of the prize winners and the list of words will be printed at the close of the contest and a copy mailed to every person sending an order for "More Eggs".

Special Offer on "More Eggs" During This Puzzle Contest
2 One Dollar Packages
for $1.00.
5 One Dollar Packages
for $2.00.
Economy Size Package
for $5.00.
(The Economy Size Package
for $5.00.
The Economy Size Package
for $5.00.
Ne Boods beught during this puzzle contest are subject to exchange, refund or approval.

Volume LXIII. No. 48.

NASHVILLE, TENN., DECEMBER 1, 1921.

$2.50 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

The Curtain Falls

0 0 0

Over the sorrow, and over the bliss,
Over the teardrop, over the kiss;
Over the crimes that blotted and blurred,
Over the wound of an angry word;
Over the deeds in weakness done,
Over the battles lost and won—
Now at the end of the flying year,
Year that to-morrow will not be here,
Over our freedom, over our thralls,
In the dark and midnight, the curtain falls.

Over our gain, and over our loss,
Over our crown, and over our cross;
Over the fret of our discontent,
Over the ill that was never meant;
Over the scars of our self-denial,
Over the strength that conquered trial—
Now in the end of the flying year,
Year that to-morrow will not be here,
Quietly final the prompter calls;
Over it swiftly the curtain falls.

Over the crowds and the solitudes,
Over our shifting, hurrying moods;
Over the hearts where bright flames leap,
Over the cribs where the babies sleep;
Over the clamor, over the strife,
Over the pageantry of life—
Now in the end of the flying year,
Year that to-morrow will not be here,
Swiftly and surely from starry walls,
Silently downward the curtain falls.

-Harper's Weekly.

Contents

CURRENT COMMENT 1162
OUR CONTRIBUTORS 1163
Waiting by the Sea—True Friendship—The Gospel's Power (Rom.
1:16)—The New Woman—Georgia and the Far Southern Field—
Los Angeles Notes—Authorship of the Pentateuch.
AT HOME AND ABROAD 1169
EDITORIAL 1170
The Qualifications of an Elder—
The "Restoration Movement"— Words of Commendation.
The second second second
QUERY DEPARTMENT 1173
TEXAS-OKLAHOMA DEPART-MENT 1174
HOME READING 1176
AMONG THE COLORED FOLKS, 1177
First and Second Adam (No. 1)-
Meeting at David Lipscomb College 1178
Looking Backward 1179
A Letter from the Honolulu Church 1180
In the Realm of Song 1182
Reformers
FIELD REPORTS 1184

CURRENT COMMENT

By A. B. L. =

There is nothing more deplorable than misguided zeal unless it be knowledge without zeal. History and our own observation teach us to fear the consequences of misguided zeal. Such a policy has brought direful results. In addition to the loss of time and money, it often entails ruin, suffering, heartache, division, disaster. That is really how the persecution of Christians first began. It was not because their enemies were wicked or bloodthirsty by nature, but because they were zealous without knowledge. One of the darkest chapters in the early history of America is that known as the period of "The Salem Witchcraft," a time when the good people of Massachusetts were threatened, not by the Indians or any outside enemy, but by the delusions of their own hearts.

The apostle Paul encourages us to sympathize with those who are the victims of misguided zeal. In behalf of the Jews he wrote: "Brethren, my heart's desire and my supplication to God is for them, that they may be saved. For I bear them witness that they have a zeal for God, but not according to knowledge." He knew their zeal and lack of knowledge, because he had shared largely in both. Before his conversion he had been "instructed according to the strict manner of the law of our fathers, being zealous for God, even as ye all are this day." In his persecution of the saints he had done "many things contrary to the name of Jesus of Nazareth," but in this course he "had lived before God in all good conscience." Surely such a man will know how to sympathize with blind zealots. His heart's desire for his brethren according to the flesh is expressed in a special petition. From what Paul knew of the scope of Old Testament prophecy and the obstinacy of the Jews, he must have felt that the majority of them would be lost. But not even Paul knew all the resources of the infinite God. It matters not how obstinate sinners may become, we should never cease to pray and work for their salvation through the gospel.

Paul is glad to mention that which is praiseworthy in the lives of rebellious Jews. He can commend their zeal in the abstract without commending their errors. He could see the bright side of a very dark situation. Some preachers see only the dark side; or if they do see any bright spot, they keep it cleverly concealed. We are told that a Northern writer of some note once came South to make a character study of the antebellum negro. While driving along a country road he saw an old colored man in a cotton field sitting in a rocking-chair and patiently wielding a hoe within the circumference of the chair. The visitor from the North at first sight was about to utter a loud laugh, thinking that he had discovered the laziest man in the world. But upon close inspection he noticed a pair of crutches lying beside the chair. Then he did not laugh; he took off his hat in respect for a brave and honest workman. Our fellow men often fail to note the handicaps and obstacles in our lives, but our God always sees the crutches.

If you will separate the term "zeal" from the thought of its consequences, you will find a luminous word. It has in it always the suggestion of energetic pursuit, passionate ardor, and fervent earnestness. When properly directed, nothing is more commendable than to be zealous. In Isaiah's description of God, he has been wearing the mantle of zeal. (See Isa, 59: 17.) When Jesus was upon this earth, he was so busy that his disciples were reminded of the prophecy in Ps. 69: 9: "For the zeal of thy house hath eaten me up." To be zealous for the right thing and the right way is to be both Godlike and Christlike. The pity of it is that the lives of most men are records of misspent zeal. I once heard a speaker at an international convention of advertising clubs say that he had found a large sign-board in the heart of darkest Africa, and on it were these words: "Drink Old Charter. Sold all over the world." Zeal had taken a whisky advertisement where the gospel was unknown. Only this afternoon I drove by a football field where ten thousand spectators were sitting in a drizzling rain watching the game. Zeal had assembled a cheering multitude where a prayer meeting would have utterly failed. Without seeking to be hypercritical, one can but wish for such zeal as a mighty factor in the spread of the truth of the gospel.

0 0 0

But why should Paul be so anxious and greatly concerned for his Jewish brethren? Were they not honestly mistaken? Are we not often told that "whatever a man believes to be right, that is right to him?" His Jewish brethren, ignorant of God's righteousness, were "seeking to establish their own." That is exactly what many religious parties are doing to-day, and they think they are right. So did the Jews, They thought they were doing right in rejecting Christ. Peter had said to them: "But ye denied the Holy and Righteous One, and asked for a murderer to be granted unto you, and killed the Prince of life," But they had done these terrible deeds in ignorance, as Peter explains in the next verse. (See Acts 3: 14-17.) The point for us to see is that neither their ignorance nor their zeal excused them. The command is very explicit; "Repent ye therefore, and turn again, that your sins may be blotted out." We hear much in these modern times about "expanding the gospel," and some preachers of an obliging turn of mind have expanded it until they include all the errors of the denominational world. Certainly if any man ever had the right or the inclination to expand the gospel so as to include all "honestly mistaken" people, that man was Paul; for no one ever had a more profound sympathy for this class than this apostle. Not only did he pray for them; he loved them so intensely that he would have damned his soul in hell to save them were such a thing possible. Hear his testimony on this point: "I say the truth in Christ, I lie not, my conscience bearing witness with me in the Holy Spirit, that I have great sorrow and unceasing pain in my heart. For I could wish that I myself were anathema from Christ for my brethren's sake, my kinsmen according to the flesh." But Paul says nothing about expanding the gospel so as to meet the needs of the masses. He understands full well that they must give up their plan and submit themselves to the righteousness of God. They must be saved by obedience to Christ or not at

We are frequently reminded of the fact that practically all the religious denominations in this country accept the Bible as the infallible standard of right. Nearly every man claims that his party teaches what is in the Bible, and believes that we, the disciples, who place so much emphasis upon Bible authority, are wrong. We may concede that this is the way he thinks of the matter, but we can never concede that the many denominational doctrines and practices are in the Bible. What is to be done in such a situation? What is our imperative duty before God toward our religious neighbors? Satan will suggest the line of shortest resistance as the best course to pursue. He will say: "Save yourself unnecessary embarrassment; join in the big union meeting-you are all bound for the same place, anyway; urge each man to go to the church of his choice." Such a course will never heal the breaches in a divided religious world. God has never been and will never become the author of division and confusion in the ranks of his own children. No one will ever be removed from an unsaved condition by our saying to him: "You are right; stay in your place."

Waiting by the Sea.

BY A. ELLMORE.

I'm waiting close beside the sea,
My work will soon be o'er,
And what of harm befalleth me,
So near the golden shore.
I feel the soothing evening breeze
From off the balmy deep;
I hear the rustling 'mong the trees,
Of songsters going to sleep.

Behind my back the sun sinks low,
And paints in gold the hills,
While shadows round me longer grow,
And float o'er murm'ring rills.
I wige the dust from off my brow,
Which clave my tollsome day;
I'm sitting in the shadows now,
A fitting hour to pray.

This morn when looking from afar,
The sea seemed rough and wild;
But—lo!—when 'peared the evening star,
The elements were mild.
I'm fearing less to make the tour,
The stream appears less wide;
But—hark!—they're calling from that shore—Calling me o'er the tide.

True Friendship.

BY S. R. DRAKE.

The title standing at the head of this paper was suggested by a recent paragraph by Brother A. B. Lipscomb in the Gospel Advocate. These editorials are very helpful and suggestive to all Christians in the development of the Christ life and the solution of the problem of being able to become true friends to all who are in need of this priceless boon of serving others.

A friend is one who is attached to another by affection; one who entertains for another sentiments of esteem, respect, which leads one to desire his company and companionship, and seek to promote his happiness and prosperity. Abraham was called "the friend of God" because he ever sought his companionship, walked and talked with him, and God entered into a perpetual covenant with him and his seed. (Gen. 12: 1-4; 2 Chron. 20: 7.) It was Abraham's faith coöperating with his actions that moved God to pronounce him righteous and gave Abraham the name "friend of God." (James 2: 21-23.)

To be a true friend of God is to be a true friend to all the children of God. The quotation from Emerson on the subject of friendship struck me at once as being a quotation from Prov. 18: 24: "A man that bath friends must show himself friendly: and there is a friend that sticketh closer than a brother." The American Revisers have rendered this text thus: "He that maketh many friends doeth it to his own destruction; but there is a friend that sticketh closer than a brother."

Another inspired writer declares that whoever is bent on being friendly with the world makes himself an enemy to God. (James 4: 4.) This, perhaps, is the reason why it is rather difficult to make good, true friends—because there are so many people (in the church) who are too friendly with the world. Joseph Parker ence said that "many altars and churches built in this day are built to the glory of some man or denomination." An English writer is quoted as saying that he had found boys enough who loved God; he wanted to find one who hated the devil. It is difficult to find enough people of any class who love

God with all their heart, mind, soul, and strength; if we could, the devil would have more boys and girls who loved the world less and hated the devil with a more righteous indignation.

Another prominent man once said: "A true friend is hard to find." The wise man said: "A friend loveth at all times, and a brother is born for adversity"—"is born as a brother for adversity" (marginal note). Is it not true that real friendship runs in the blood? A true friend will not suffer your good name to be tarnished and trailed in the dust. Again, the wise man said: "Ointment and perfume rejoice the heart: so doth the sweetness of a man's friend from the counsel of the soul."

Jesus has said some things about true friendship that should be pendered by all who profess to love our Lord and Savior. "Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends. Ye are my friends, if ye do the things which I command you. No longer do I call you servants [bond servants]: for the servant [bond servant] knoweth not what his lord doeth; but I have called you friends; for all things that I have heard from the Father I have made known anto you." Jesus kept nothing back that was for their good. He delivered all the Father's message, that they might become fruitful and receive from the Father's hand all they needed to make them happy and useful. (See John 15: 12-16.)

What a comfort and satisfaction it is for one to be surrounded with true friends! We should crave the friendship of true friends. It is not safe for a man to live in a community where he has not a true friend to whom he may go for counsel. The real problem is to find true friends and to be a real friend of God.

"Any spirit which exalts love and forbearnace out of their relation to justice and hatred of sin is not the spirit of Christ." Real Christian men and women are the true defense of any nation. It is not in armies and navies, but in the prevalence of the Christian religion is found the safeguard of any people. Any man would tire of living in a church or community where he had no true friend. The man who seeks your friendship in order to enrich himself at your expense is neither a true friend to you nor to God. I crave the friendship of every true friend—I need it—and I crave to be a true friend of God.

The Gospel's Power. (Rom. 1: 16.) BY H. C. FLEMING.

Is it true that "a chain is no stronger than its weakest link." Let us suppose a chain made with each link of the same strength. In such a chain, when put to the test, each link would break at the same time. If one link should be made stronger than all the others by remodeling it, all the others would break and leave only the one. On the other hand, if one link should be weakened, it would break and leave all the others. In either case the chain would become useless.

The gospel is a chain of facts composed of many links, from the seed of the woman to the resurrection of the Lord Jesus Christ. Its strength is such that it can never be rendered useless, but it may be injured in its influence by tampering with any link, either by attempting to strengthen or weaken it. The consequences of such action is the retarding of its power to save a lost and ruined world. The responsibility, then, must rest upon any who commit such actions.

Some of the links of the gospel, after the chain had been formed, are the death, the burial, and the resurrection of Christ. Take these out of the chain and it would be ruined.

Faith in these facts is another link. Eliminating or modifying it by requiring more than the simple belief of it, or emphasizing of it so as to make it alone the strength of the whole chain, is to weaken the strength of the other links. Faith is a very important link, for without it no man can please God, but it requires action to complete it. The same may be said in reference to the confession, repentance, and baptism, which are links in the gospel chain.

By the written word is the knowledge of the links of this chain. Going beyond this is to weaken its influence; adding to it has the same effect.

But since the beginning of the gospel, in fact, men have been doing as indicated in the above statement—adding to and taking from and going beyond the written word. But the power of the gospel still stands and will stand while time lasts. However, the weakness of such influence is clearly seen in the various parties, strife, divisions, heresies, atheism, deism, etc. Therefore, all should cling to all the links of the gospel chain, so that its power will not be hindered unto the salvation of all who will believe and obey.

The New Woman.

BY EARNEST C. LOVE.

In the Nashville Banner of November 4, page 17, was an article by Ethel Thurston concerning a "New World History," compiled by Elizabeth Murray Shepherd. This history is to show up woman in her true greatness, and show how man has always endeavored to hinder real womanly progress.

There are few indeed who have not noticed that history has been unfair to woman. But solid thinkers have long since spoken of "the self-made man that his mother made;" and, "The hand that rocks the cradle is the hand that rules the world." Just now the "new woman" seems to be dissatisfied with that kind of praise and that kind of ruling. She wants to do the ruling in person, not via the cradle, etc.

Also, I will concede one other point. Many men are conceited and do not allow woman credit for the influence she has had in the development and progress of the race, Also, men have in many cases ignored and even abused their wives. However, admitting that an evil exists is one thing, and finding a remedy for it is another. The greatest weakness in the arguments for the "new woman" is that its advocates must lead us back to the "cave men." Why lead us back through all that revolting "matriarchate" stuff? The "new woman" speaks of the "matriarchate" as if it would be an improvement over the present "patriarchate." Why, my dear ladies, the "matriarchate" grew out of conditions so shameful as to be almost unprintable. The reason the child took its name from its mother among certain wild tribes in the European forests was because no one-not even the mother-knew who the father of the child was. The advocates of the "new woman" leave the impression that they are a bit sorry that through the tyranny of man the "matriarchate" had to give place to "patriarchate." The writer prophesies glibly of a "bisexual age," now said to be approaching. But this can never come. When society can dissolve all human governments and safely trust itself to anarchy, then the home may be ruled "bisexually." As long as the peace and happiness of nations depend upon a government with a chief executive at its head, just so long will there be need for a "head of the house," The "bisexual" idea is to make man and woman both heads. No well-ordered body every had any use for two heads, nor will the time ever come that a home can be preserved under such conditions.

Either the man or the woman must be the head of the house. If the man is ousted as head of the family, the woman will be sure to usurp the place. Then who will rock the cradle? These "new woman" advocates seem to have lost sight of the fact that children must be borne and reared. They seem to regard children as funny little things—entirely useless—for which men are wholly responsible. Now there is simply no way for woman to escape being the nourisher of children and the mother of the race. There can never be a change—at least, no improvement upon conditions in the Christian home of to-day.

Why do the "new woman" advocates always treat us to a dose of the "matriarchate" and the "cave man?" Why do they not go to the Bible, the oldest history in existence, and prove their case by it? Because what they find there evidently does not suit them. The story of creation establishes the "patriarchate" right from the beginning. The "matriarchate" came in later, and then only where men forgot God and his laws. As soon as a nation learned of God again they discarded the shameful "matriarchate," and returned to God's order—"the husband is the head of the wife."

The "new woman" seems to find the Bible in her way, so she tries to destroy it. "That man-concocted tale about the rib must be broken down." History records the death of many a struggle to break down the Bible, or some part of it. Nothing of the kind has ever succeeded. Pharaoh withstood Moscs, and found a grave in the Red Sea; the people of Jericho shut their gates against the people of Israel, but their walls fell down to the tune of trumpet blasts. Goliath defiled the armies of Israel, and fell before one of Israel's ruddy lads who trusted the God whose armies he had defied.

Herod raised his hand against the Babe in the manger, but the Bable cuddled close in Mary's arms on the sunny banks of the Nile while he breathed his last in Jericho, tortured by bodily pain and mental anguish, "unwept, unhonored, and unsung."

The Jews crucified Christ and said: "Let his blood be upon us and our children." But Christ rose from the dead; and thirty-six years later Jewish blood ran like water in the streets of Jerusalem, and the Roman Army destroyed the city and scattered the nation.

The Roman emperors planted themselves directly in the path of the gospel chariot and said, "Thus far shalt thou come, and no farther;" but the gospel is still preached by a million tongues, while the ancient palaces of those well-nigh forgotten emperors are inhabited by owls and bats and snakes and scorpions.

Even after the "Dark Ages" the French people banished God, expelled the Bible, abolished religion, and wrote over the cemetery gate: "Death is an eternal sleep." Then Frenchmen died at the rate of one a minute for twelve hours a day from September 1, 1792, to December 31, 1795. Then God and the Bible were invited back, and religion was once more admitted.

Coming closer still to our own times, take a look at the Germans. Led by their infidel college professors, they defied the humane laws of the Bible and reached out after the world; and now they are laboring under an almost hopeless burden of debt, and German money is scarcely worth the paper it is printed on. Also, a little glimpse at Russia may do us good. They really "broke down the rib story," as they think, and produced the "new woman," free and unhampered by the "rib story." And now we oldstyle folks have to send food over there to keep those "new women" from starving to death along with their "new men."

There is no use, ladies and gentlemen. If we can't have the "new woman" without "breaking down" some part of the Bible, then there will be no "new woman." But why worry? "The old is better."

To guard against repeating a story to the same person is a point worth noting. The inclination to interrupt or correct others for inaccuracies must be controlled. Not only must we try to say the right thing in the right place, but leave unsaid the wrong thing at the tempting moment.— Exchange.

Georgia and the Far Southern Field By B. C. GOODPASTURE

The Prominence of God in the Book of Ruth.

The book of Ruth possesses many qualities that charm. It is one of the finest literary productions in the world. Never has so great a variety of human experience been recorded in a volume so readable and so small. But the guiding hand and protecting might of the Lord made the Book, as well as the life, of Ruth worth while.

It is quite interesting to observe how the chief characters of the book recognized the Lord in the affairs of their lives.

Elimelech, Naomi's husband and Ruth's father-in-law, while leaving us no utterance of his with reference to the Lord, has left us, perhaps, in his name, evidence of the Lord's place in his life. "Elimelech" means "my God is King." According to custom, Jewish names were expressive of the leading characteristics of those who were them.

It is in the checkered life of Naomi that the Lord is seen in the greatest variety of circumstances. After the death of her husband and two sons, after her lonely sojourn of ten years in Moab's land, she hears that "Jehovah had visited his people in giving them bread." (Ruth 1: 6.) When, as it seemed, she was about to leave her daughtersin-law at the borders of Moab, she pronounces a beautiful benediction upon them: "Jehovah deal kindly with you, as ye have dealt with the dead, and with me. Jehovah grant you that ye may find rest, each of you in the house of her husband." (Verses 8, 9.) Dissuading her daughters-in-law from going with her to Bethlehem, she inquires: "Why will ye go with me? . . . For the hand of Jehovah is gone forth against me." (Verses 11-13.) So prominent had Jehovah been in Naomi's life that Ruth had learned of him, and in her exquisite appeal to Naomi she promises, "Thy people shall be my people, and thy God my God. . Jehovah do so to me, and more also, if aught but death part thee and me." (Verses 16-18.) When Ruth and Naomi reach Bethlehem, Naomi's old acquaintances wonderingly ask: "Is this Naomi?" Naomi replies: "Call me not Naomi, call me Mara; for the Almighty hath dealt very bitterly with me. I went out full, and Jehovah hath brought me home again empty; why call ye me Naomi, seeing Jehovah hath testified against me, and the Almighty hath afflicted me?" (Verses 20, 21.) God in prosperity! God in benediction! God in the bitterest affliction! "Blessed be the name of Jehovah."

If Naomi is prompt to recognize God as visiting Israel in giving them bread, she is equally prompt to recognize him as visiting her in her afflictions. She sees that the hand that pours out blessings to Israel's joy is the one that wields the chastening rod to her grief. It seems that she could say with Job: "Though he slay me, yet will I trust in him." She does not doubt in the dark; she watches for the dawn. "All chastening seemeth for the present to be not joyous but grievous; yet afterwards it yieldeth peaceable fruit unto them that have been exercised thereby." (Heb. 12: 11.) In this great little book of Ruth, Naomi is seen as a trusting child, always and in everything making mention of her loving Father. She has the secret of profound peace. She possesses the most sublime philosophy of life. She has her hand in her Father's, and can believe where she cannot understand and see.

* * *

News Notes.

O. D. Bearden preached at Halls, Ga., yesterday (November 20).

Don Hockaday, the faithful minister at South Pryor Street, reports fine services last Sunday.

Hugh E. Garrett preached at Hall's Valley, Pleasant

Grove, and Trion last Sunday. Brother Garrett is among the churches in the interest of mission work in Georgia, It will be remembered that he is our field man. A more detailed statement of his work will appear later.

Everything goes well at West End Avenue. Yesterday was one of our best days so far.

Faith.

Faith is the power to see God. It is the vision of the unseen. It is the eye that is able to penetrate below the material surface and see the underlying Spirit of God. It is the faith that gives a man the right sense of proportion, the new perspective, which results in the new life. It was faith which Jesus possessed in the supreme degree, and which was his chief gift to men.

To begin with, fear is impossible to the man who has faith, who has understood the reality of the love of God.

A man cannot fear physical danger if he really has faith, for God is the source of all good life and the Lord of death.

When the disciples of Jesus were in danger of shipwreck and awoke him up in alarm for their safety, he said: "What, have ye not yet faith?" If they had had faith, they would not have worried. They would have done all they could caimly and bravely, knowing that if after that they perished it was a sign that their work in the world was finished, and that God was calling them to work elsewhere. Fear and worry are useless and senseless, if only we could realize it. They accomplish nothing, and rather hinder.

Similarly, it is unthinkable that the man who has faith should fear men. At the worst, men can only kill the body, and what does the death of the body matter if one believes in the God of the spirit? If God matters, men do not matter. What they say and think and threaten does not count. The man of faith is free to make right decisions without fear or favor.

Nor must the man of faith be a prey to worldly anxieties. If God clothes the flowers and feeds the sparrows, he will feed his human children. To do one's best in faith is better than any amount of worry. After all, most worry comes from unwillingness to accept a conventionally lower standard of life than what we are accustomed to. Yet the man who has faith and love can be as happy in a workhouse as anywhere else. He has treasure that no one can take from him—the kingdom of God within. Jesus was often hungry and homeless, but it did not worry him, for his meat was to do his Father's will.

The man who has faith is also free from the tyranny of passion and inherent weakness. It is true that men are normally slaves of their hereditary tendencies as modified by the circumstances of their education and surroundings. A man is the meeting place of forces over which he has little control, and they will mold his life unless some stronger force is introduced to counteract them. But if a man has been born again and has the eye of faith, a new factor, a dominating factor, has entered the environment of which he is conscious, and it is the thought of God which will override and nullify all contrary influences, even those of heredity and habit.

Finally, the man who has faith will not be subject to false ambitions. Having once seen the true good, he will see at a glarce the spuriousness of the imitation.—Selected.

We have only a few copies of "The New Testament Church," which are being closed out at the price of $1.50 per copy. This book contains the cream of the lamented F. D. Srygley's writings on the first page of the Gospel Advocate. Order your copy at once if you would avoid disappointment.

LOS ANGELES NOTES

By S. H. HALL 2669 North Sichel Street

House of worship, corner Altura and North Sichel Streets. Take North Broadway car to Sichel, then one block to left.

The Sin Easily Committed.

Due to the words of commendation for what has been said on laying aside "the sin which doth so easily beset us," I have decided to submit one more article on it. If the effort has resulted in helping just one soul, it has been worth while; but I am thankful that assurance has come that more than this has been done.

Whatever "the sin which doth so easily beset" means in Heb. 12: 1, the writer of that letter felt the ease that come would have in committing it. I would have you observe that he includes himself in the admonition. With this writer it was, "Therefore let us also, seeing we are compassed about with so great a cloud of witnesses"—"let us run with patience the race that is set before us." The writer of this epistle certainly had a conscious experience of a sin that "easily besets" the runners in the race for immortal glory.

Now, it is generally believed that Paul wrote Hebrews. If this be true, it might be difficult for some to see how Paul could ever have thought of the tendency of the flesh to pull us back from the road that leads through sacrifices and great persecutions as "the sin that so easily besets us." But there is no difficulty here. It is true that Paul said: "Wherefore I take pleasure in weaknesses, in injuries, in necessities, in persecutions, in distresses, for Christ's sake." It is true that joy ever reigned in his soul, and in the bitterest persecution he could look heavenward with his face radiant with joy and endure it. But when he speaks of the "thorn in the flesh . . . to buffet" him, he says he besought the Lord three times to take it from him. (See 2 Cor. 12: 7-10.) Whatever was unpleasant to Paul's flesh, he, like all other men, would have been glad to have got rid of. Paul's flesh was about as ours. Even the "Spotless One," He who never one time had been weakened by sin, found a terrible struggle in the garden of Gethsemane, which struggle was due to the flesh's unwillingness to go to the cross.

With all these facts before us, may I not ask that we look to the flesh for the whole secret as to why some sins "easily beset us?" You will find this sin, whatever it may be in your case, the sin that most appeals to every want and wish of the flesh. Adam Clarke, in commenting on this sin, says: "The well-circumstanced sin; that which has everything in its favor, time, and place, and opportunity; the heart and the object." You take the heart that thinks continually along certain lines-that heart, when the object, time, and opportunity present themselves together, will yield with ease to the most deadly sin. Solomon knew whereof he spoke when he said: "For as he thinketh in his heart, so is he." (Prov. 23: 7.) But the object, time, and opportunity, the three together, cannot of themselves make a sin "a well-circumstanced sin," or "the sin that lies conveniently around us," unless the heart has had some preparation for such an occasion. Take, for instance, the case of Joseph. Read it in Gen. 39: 7-12. Here is a man importuned by a woman to commit fornication, and he ran from her, leaving his garment to which she was clinging in her hand. Most certainly the object, the time, and opportunity were before him; but he had a heart steeled against such, hence had the power to take the way of escape the Lord had provided for him. Let me call special attention to the following statement of Paul: "Wherefore let him that thinketh he standeth take heed lest he fall. There hath no temptation taken you but such as man can bear: but God is faithful, who will not suffer you to be tempted above that ye are able; but will with the temptation make also the way of escape, that ye may be able to endure it." (1 Cor. 10: 12, 13.) Hence, I think it well, always, to leave off alibis when one sins. But look it squarely in the face and say: "I have sinned." For certain it is, he could have escaped; but, due to weakness of the heart, he either did not see the way of escape or was not looking for it.

With all of this before us, I wish now to call attention to some sins too common among us.

1. Our unwillingness to be corrected. "Correction" is one of the things the Scriptures thoroughly furnish us unto. We are taught to be not weary of the Lord's correction. (Prov. 3: 11.) It is declared: "There is grievous correction for him that forsaketh the way; and he that hateth reproof shall die." (Prov. 15: 10.) This makes me think of two letters I wrote not a century ago. One was to a man who stands in the very lead from the standpoint of intellectual strength, and not a babe by any means either in age or experience. He did a thing that I thought deserved criticism; hence, I kindly, yet frankly, so wrote him. He promptly replied, thanking me for the criticism; and if he ever thought less of me for it, I have been unable to see To another, a young preacher who was a student of this brother, I offered a criticism; and if the grave speaks, he also has spoken since. Not another word have I heard from him by word or pen, yet it was a criticism that demanded a reply. Numbers of other cases, some encouraging and some discouraging, have I met along the way. But let it be here stated that there is something about the flesh that resents criticism. It is fearful, it seems to me, when we let the flesh have its way and resent criticism. Solomon put it right when he said those who do so have forsaken "the way." Solomon also says: "He that refuseth correction despiseth his own soul." Now, when we are corrected, the time, the opportunity, and the object are before us. Whether the correction will be the occasion of our sinning depends on how our hearts have been exercised. If we have become so much in love with that immense thing you call "self," the correction will be resented and perhaps the one who gave the correction be terribly mistreated. I have long since decided that there is not a man on earth fit to give correction except that man who is willing to take correction. Here we need sorely to watch ourselves. I know I can take correction. But I want it distinctly understood that I have never yet been corrected that I did not have to grab the flesh and keep it under in order to rightly receive and use correction.

2. The wrong use of the tongue. The Book says: "Speak evil of no man." Now, most certainly this does not mean that if a brother does evil and I am called upon to speak of what he did, that I must not tell the truth about itviz., say it was evil he did, and he should not have done it. To speak evil of men here means to speak for the purpose of harming them, of injuring them. The motive in that heart of yours will fully determine when you are violating this scripture. Does this ever become "a sin that lies conveniently around us?" Most certainly. But when? It is when the time, the opportunity, the object, and the heart that has been exercised in malice and hatred are combined. Some one approaches you and begins to talk about some brother. What he says is not very favorable to that brother. Here is the time and opportunity. This brother who is being criticized is the object, and your heart is such that you could not speak well of him; it is the pleasure of that heart of yours in which Satan lives, not God; to hurt and harm this brother all you can. And you sin. This is the sin that lies conveniently around you; it is the sin easily committed. Do you know a thing that would help us much? It is this: Study your heart, watch its emotions, watch its desires when your enemies are being talked about and criticized. For the flesh has never loved an enemy. You have not made much effort to live the Christian's life if you have not discovered that it is easier to love those who love you than it is to love those who hate you. And if you have not found out that the flesh you have to fight, every inch of the way, when it comes to treating exactly just and right those who mistreat you, it is proof positive that you have never loved your enemies, have never tried to treat them right; hence, you have not disturbed the flesh here.

Well, to close, if you want to be certain to "lay aside the sin which doth so easily beset" us, I would suggest that you lay aside self. Christ put it right when he said: "If any man would come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow me." If any one thinks he can follow Christ without any self-denial, I would like for that one to show how he does it. In every church fuss, or fuss between brethren, that goes unsettled—mark what I tell you—that thing you call "self" is wholly responsible for it.

* * *

Good News.

The services at Sichel and Altura reached the "highwater mark" last Lord's day (November 13), with almost a packed house Sunday morning and six names added by letter and statement, and the largest night crowd we have ever had. The prayer-meeting crowds have tripled.

Brother Riggs spoke at Pomona, both morning and evening, to a full house, Authorship of the Pentateuch.

BY FRANK L. COX.

There are two positions as to the authorship of the Pentateuch: (1) The composite authorship, meaning that the fivefold book is the work of several—about four, I believe—different writers; and (2) the Mosaic authorship, meaning that the hand of Moses can be traced throughout the whole of the work. This is the position commonly accepted.

Those who hold to the former position use the following arguments, with a few minor points, in support of their position: (1) Beginning with Genesis and reading the whole of the Pentateuch, there is a decided change of style seen here and there which cannot be accounted for in any way other than that the Pentateuch is a compilation of four or five different documents written by different men. (2) There are different statements in the work which cannot be accounted for with the Mosaic authorship in mind. For example, it is impossible to conceive of Moses recording his own death as it appears in the latter part of Deuteronomy.

No matter what position is occupied, difficulties will arise, some of which may never be explained in a satisfactory manner. In a paper of this length it will be impossible to notice all apparent difficulties confronting the position I take; and even if ample time and space were allowed, many things the writer would be unable to explain to the satisfaction of others.

Practically all of the information that I am about to use is found within the Bible itself. I am trying to let that guide me. I have always believed the testimonies of the Bible to be final and paramount to anything man, however learned, may have to say; that men are right when they agree with the Bible and wrong when they disagree with it. With what information I have found in that Book, I find it easier for me to accept the Mosaic authorship. The following are some reasons why I take this position:

1. It is generally believed that this fivefold book in question once constituted a continuous work or an unbroken roll. Just when the division was made is not known, but it is thought to have been made at or before the Septuagint translation. This may not be considered conclusive, but it does seem to indicate that one man had to do with, at least most of the writing.

2. It is highly evident that Moses wrote something. The Scriptures are plain on this. Let us notice some of these: (a) "Write this for a memorial in a book, and rehearse it in the ears of Joshua." (Ex. 17: 14.) Thus Jehovah commanded Moses to record the battle he had with Amalek at Rephidim. This, of course, implies a written language and Moses' ability to write. (b) "Moses wrote all the words of Jehovah. And he took the book of the covenant, and read in the audience of the people." (Ex. 24: 4-7.) "Jehovah said unto Moses, Write thou these words: for after the tenor of these words I have made a covenant with thee and with Israel." (Ex. 34: 27.) These two quotations seem sufficient to prove that Moses wrote the "book of the covenant" according to God's commandment. (c) "And Moses wrote their goings out according to their journeys by the commandment of Jehovah." (Num. 33: 2.) This means that Moses wrote the history of their journey through the wilderness. Then, the above quotations tell us that Moses recorded the battle at Rephidim, wrote the "book of the covenant" and their journeys through the wilderness. All this is evident if we give any credit to the quotations.

3. Later historical books of the Bible bear testimony to the existence of the Pentateuch and indicate Mosaic authorship. The following are statements worthy of notice: (a) "Observe to do according to all the law, which Moses my servant commanded thee. . . This book of the law shall not depart out of thy mouth," etc. (Josh. 1: 8.) "Therefore be ye very courageous to keep and to do all that is written in the book of the law of Moses." (Josh. 23: 6.) Thus when the book of Joshua was written it was understood that Moses was the author of the "book of the law." (b) "According to that which is written in the law of Moses." (1 Kings 2: 3.) We see that the writer of this book thought that Moses wrote the Pentateuch. But it may be objected that the "law of Moses" and the Pentateuch are not the same, and that Moses could have written the law without writing the Pentateuch. Answering this, I would say that it seems to have been the general understanding by all of Bible times, who expressed themselves, that the Pentateuch and the law were identical. For example, see Luke 24: 27, the language of Luke. It seems unreasonable that Luke, one who listened to the greatest Teacher, could have been mistaken. Besides, we must remember that the name "Pentateuch" was applied to the unbroken roll after the division was made. (c) "The book of the law of Moses." (Neh. 8: 1.) Thus we see that when these later records were made it was the common idea that Moses was the author of the Pentateuch; and I take it that those people, who lived so much nearer the time of Moses, had a much better chance to know the truth of the matter than a man of the nineteenth or twentieth century.

4. The language of Christ and that of the disciples indicate Mosaic authorship. (a) "Why then did Moses command to give a bill of divorcement?" (Matt. 19: 7.) This was the language of a Pharisee, which shows the idea of the authorship of the Pentateuch in Jesus' day. Jesus had the same idea, as seen in his answer to the Pharisee. Had the Pharisee been in error on this point, it seems reasonable that Jesus would have corrected him. (b) "Abraham said: "They have Moses and the prophets." (Luke 16: 29.) This was the voice of God speaking to the rich man in torment. If the "Moses" in this case does not mean the Pentateuch, what does it mean? (c) "For the law was given through Moses." (John 1: 17.) Thus John, who was with Jesus during the personal ministry, credits Moses with the authorship of the Pentateuch. (d) "Did not Moses give you the law?" This is Jesus' language. It seems to me that as sure as the law of Moses, or the book of Moses, and the Pentateuch. If the Pentateuch is the work of several men, and no one man in particular, why are not some of them mentioned in connection with the work? (e) "Moses indeed said, A prophet shall the Lord God raise up unto you from among my brethren." (Acts 3: 22.) In this case the apostle Peter was quoting from Deut. 18: 15. Does this not indicate that Moses was the author of that book? (f) "For Moses writeth that the man that doeth the righteousness which is of the law shall live thereby." (Rom. 10: 5.) This is the voice of the apostle Paul, quoting from Lev. 18: 5. Does this not indicate that Moses wrote that book? And are we not to rely upon the thought that the unerring Spirit guided these men in these statements?

Summary: (1) The former unbroken condition of the work indicates the hand of one man, and not many men. (2) It is certain that Moses wrote something. (3) The historical books following the Pentateuch indicate the Mosaic authorship. (4) Such was the common understanding in the time of Jesus, and (5) Christ and his apostles indicate the Mosaic authorship.

In conclusion, it is well that I notice some objections to my position. (1) It is objected that the Pentateuch lacks unity of style; therefore, more than one man must have written it. But, in answer, it is well to remark that not all critics agree on this point, or at least many cannot see the difference that warrants such an authorship. But grant that the style is not a unit, does not the condition of a man's mind, the nature of the material to be written, and the environments of life have something to do with the style of a man's writing? Don't we find a vast difference in the style found in John's Gospel and that of the Revelation letter? Yet one man wrote both books. It is probable that Ezra, in the revision of the Pentateuch, modified certain portions of that book, retaining the thought embedded in the narrative. (2) Assuming the Mosaic authorship, it is hard to understand many statements in that For example, how Moses recorded his own death as given in the latter part of Deuteronomy. Answering this, It is likely that Ezra, in the revision, inserted the narrative of Moses' death and other minor details which cannot be understood any other way. But the body-work of the Pentateuch, evidently, has come down to us from the hand of Moses. With the Scriptures above quoted, it is impossible to see any other way.

Reverence for God's Word.

Not as a critic dare I approach this Book as if it were an ordinary book which I may hope to master and fathom,

It is above me, and I cannot exhaust its fullness; it knows me, even the hidden things of the heart, and judges me, bringing me into contact with the all-seeing God. I enter with reverence into the Temple of Scripture, which from the height of God's eternal counsel, and out of the depth of God's infinite love, beholds and comprehends all ages, and is sufficient for the guidance and perfecting of souls in all generations—praying with trustful hope that out of Christ's fullness the Spirit will minister unto me also grace upon grace.

But while I thus stand in awe, beholding the grandeur and infinite depth of the Scripture as One Organic Spirit-built Temple, and the beauty and perfection, and exquisite skill which characterize the most minute portion of this structure, I feel at home, and as in a peaceful and fragrant garden.—Adolph Saphir.

I am glad to think
I am not bound to make the wrong go right,
But only to discover and to do
With cheerful heart the work that God appoints.

—Jean Ingelow.

Good Books for Sale by McQuiddy Printing Company.
McGarvey's Sermons$1.50
Sceking the Old Paths (Moffett) 1.00
Reason and Revelation (Milligan) 2.00
Querist's Drawer (Isaac Errett) 1.50
Pushing the World Along (Rutledge) 1.00 Poems of Pep and Point for Public Speakers (Will H. Brown)
The Way of Salvation (B. B. Tyler)
True Origin of Mormon Polygamy (Shook) 1.00
The Spirit and the Word (Z. T. Sweeney) 1.25
New Testament Commentary—Luke (Lamar) 1.50 Stories of the Great War for Public Speakers (Will H.
Brown) 1.50
Character; or, The Making of the Man (E. W. Car-mack)
The New Testament Commentary—Hebrews (Milligan) 1.50
Commentary on Acts of Apostles (Lipscomb) 1.25
Soul-Saving Bible Sermons (Brandt) 1.25
Updike's Sermons 1.25
Sermons for the People (Will H. Brown) 1.25
Sermon Notes from the Ministry of Jesus (Boteler) . 1.65 Walks About Jerusalem (Isaac Errett) 1.25 Twentieth Century Sermons and Addresses (L. C.
Wilson) 1.50
Topical Illustrations (Denton) 1.50
Wit and Humor for Public Speakers (Will H. Brown) 1.75 Standard Bible Commentary—Thessalonians, Corin- thians, Galatians, and Romans (McGarvey-Pendleton) 2.25
Form of Baptism (J. B. Briney)
The Christian Confederacy (Herbert Booth) 1.00
The Glorious Gospel (Adcock)
How It Was Done in Harmony (John T. Faris) 1.00
Illustrative Incidents for Public Speakers (Will H. Brown)
Immersion (Christian)
Center Shots at Sin (Abernethy) 1.50
The Christ of the Church—Sermons, Lectures, and Illustrations (J. V. Coombs)
Christmas Legends and Stories (Phebe A. Curtiss) 1.25
Columbus Tabernacle Sermons (W. H. Book); two volumes; per volume
The Divine Demonstration (Everest)
Dectrines and Dogmas of Mormonism (Bays)2.00
Evangelistic Sermons (Matthews) 1.00
From Darkness to Light (by eminent ministers of the church of Christ)
Bible Truths Illustrated (J. C. Ferdinand Pittman) 1.50
Piblical Criticism (McGarvey)
Bible Readings (Errett); two volumes; per volume 1.50
On the Lord's Day (Lord) 1.50 Lights on Scripture Truths (Boteler) 1.00
The Mastery of Love (James E. McCullough) 1.50
Moral and Spiritual Aspects of Baptism (Aylsworth), 1.50
The Mother Heart (Standard Publishing Company) 50
On the Rock (Dungan)
Brown)
In Days of Old (Jones) 1.00
The Indiana Pulpit (Book)
Jesus Christ in Human Experience (Dutt) 1.25 Lands of the Bible (McGarvey) 2.50
Lands of the Bible (McGarvey)
Commentary on Romans (Lard) 2.00
Flunice Loyd (Moody)
Evenings with the Bible (Errett); three volumes; per volume 1.00

Difference in Minds.

To the living and affirmative mind difficulties and unintelligibilities are as dross, which successively rises to the surface and dims the splendor of ascertained and perceived truth, but which is cast away, time after time, until the molten silver remains unsullied; but the negative mind is lead, and, when all its formations of dross are skimmed away, nothing remains.—Coventry Patmore.

W

AT HOME AND ABROAD

W

"Tis human to err, 'tis divine to forgive."

"Man's inhumanity to man makes countless millions mourn."

Change of address: E. L. Whitaker, from Corinth, Miss., to Mallory Station, Memphis, Tenn.

- J. W. Grant preached two weeks at Osteen, Fla., a mission point. The little band was highly pleased with his preaching.
- M. C. Cayce has started another meeting at Jackson, Miss. Send him the names and addresses of prospective members in that city.
- R. V. Cawthon is in a good meeting with the Fifth Street congregation, in East Nashville. There have been three additions to date.

A group of white brethren are supporting Will J. Cullum in a meeting for the colored folks at the Jackson Street Church, in Nashville. The interest has been good.

Henry Ward Beecher once said that when God measures a man he puts the tape line about his heart, and not about his head. Real greatness does depend upon the heart.

- C. D. Crouch, who for the past year has been with the church in Port Arthur, Texas, will be available on January 1 for some congregation to use in work for all his time.
- J. C. Mosley is conducting a meeting in a picture-show house at Dongola, III. The attendance and interest are good. There is a good prospect for a new congregation.

A nice church building for the congregation which meets on Twenty-second Avenue, North, this city, is now in progress of construction and will soon be ready for occupancy.

If you should hear an evil report of another, it would be a good place to pass it through the "three sieves," or "tests," before making a decision. Ask yourself the questions: Is it true? Is it kind? Is it necessary?

This office is very much grieved to learn of the death of W. I. Sowell, who passed away Sunday morning at his home in Columbia, Tenn. Brother Sowell's wife preceded him by only a few days. Both were noble Christian characters and will be sorely missed.

One of the best meetings ever conducted at Eighth Avenue, North, this city, is now in progress, with A. D. Dies, of Oakman, Ala., doing the preaching. There have been overflowing crowds. Thirty-three persons have been baptized and four have been restored. Brother Crump is leading the singing.

From Willis G. Jernigan, Dolores, Col., November 21: "1 preached at Dolores yesterday at 11 A.M., at Beulah at 2 P.M., and at Shiloh at 4 P.M. Beulah is eight miles southwest of Dolores, and Shiloh is eighteen miles west. The mission work here is taking on new life. Largest audience at Dolores we have had since starting this work. My address is Box 536, Dolores, Col."

From N. W. Proffitt, Lafayette, Tenn., November 24: "The meeting at Flippin, Ky., closed with a good interest, one restored, and an invitation to visit them next year. I am now at White Oak in a meeting, but the rainy weather is greatly hindering. I will close here next Sunday. I am to begin a meeting at Mountain View, Mo., on Saturday night before the first Sunday in December."

J. H. McBroom writes: "C. R. Nichol closed a fifteen-days' meeting with the Main Street Church, at Shelbyville, Tenn. Considering conditions, the audiences and interest were good. There were six additions to the church. Brother Nichol did his work well, hitting the hard points and helping the church solve the knotty problems. The church now has a greater vision of her work and greater ambition to render service to humanity to the glory of God in the church."

From W. F. Lemmons, Van Buren, Ark., November 23: "I preached for the Twelfth Street church of Christ on Lord's day, and the crowds at both services were large and attentive. The work in Little Rock is advancing. Brethren Barber and Harding both preach for the Twelfth Street Church; and G. W. Toland preaches for the North Little Rock congregation, which meets in Vogle Hall, on Main Street. I em on my way to Henryetta, Okla., Route 2, to preach a few days."

Tithing Literature at Less than Cost of Printing.—Until March 1, 1922, we offer to furnish, postpaid, all the tithing literature we publish at fifty per cent discount from list prices. This is less than the cost of printing. Send twenty cents for a package of twenty-two pamphlets comprising over two hundred closely printed pages containing articles by fifteen or more different authors. Please mention the Gospel Advocate when you send your order.—The Layman Company, 35 North Dearborn Street, Chicago, Ill.

W. P. Walker writes: "The Beasley-Nunnery discussion at New Liberty, near Huntingdon, Tenn., was one of the best-conducted debates that I have ever had the pleasure of attending and moderating. W. T. Beasley represented the church of Christ, and Elder A. V. Nunnery represented the Missionary Baptists. I am now arranging to return to the 'Golden State' and resume my work with the Dinuba church. On my way back I will stop in several Texas cities. Brethren should address mail to me at Dinuba, Cal."

From Allen Phy, Algood, Tenn., November 22: "I recently held a meeting at Walnut Grove, in Overton County, Tenn., but without any additions. This was my third meeting there. I began a meeting at Newton, in Cumberland County, on Saturday before the second Sunday in November and closed it on the third Sunday night. Rain hindered some. Two were baptized into Christ. I am to begin another meeting there on the first Sunday in July, 1922. There are many places in this county needing the gospel, and the time is ripe for a harvest."

From J. T. Harris, Lawrenceburg, Tenn., November 22: "On last Friday night I closed a mission meeting at the Dunn Schoolhouse, five miles out from Lawrenceburg. Right were baptized, three who claimed that they had been scripturally baptized united from the Baptists, and one came from the Methodists. They will continue to meet and keep house for the Lord. This is two new congregations I have been instrumental in starting this year. The other one is at Loretto, Tenn. This closes my protracted-meeting work for the year, which has been the best in my life."

The articles of F. W. Smith which have recently appeared in the Gospel Advocate in review of R. H. Boll's kingdom theory are being put in tract form. This is done at the request of several brethren who read the articles carefully and feel that their distribution in tract form would be helpful. They will be sent free upon request. J. C. McQuiddy has volunteered to bear the expense of getting out the tract, but we believe that there are others who would like to help in this matter. Send your contribution for this purpose to the Gospel Advocate and it will be properly accredited.

R. A. Craig writes from Shelbyville, Ky.: "We are striving hard to build up the congregation at Shelbyville, and we need the assistance of the brethren badly. The denominations are growing in this community, and they are spending money everywhere to make their work a success. There is no reason why the churches of Christ should not come to our rescue and help us build our new house. We will not give up, but will wait patiently for assistance as we labor. We have on hand over one hundred dollars in the building fund, with nearly three hundred dollars promised. Send funds to R. A. Craig, Shelbyville, Ky."

Announcing Preachers' Meeting at Haleyville, Ala.— Teachers of literary subjects assemble each year for "teacher growth." They study "methods in teaching" that they may be of the greatest possible benefit to the children whom they must teach. Why not ask our preachers to grow some, too? I take this method of asking our preachers, who live near enough to do so, to meet with us at Haleyville, Ala., on January 24, 1922, for no other purpose than to study the Scriptures that we may grow. We do not propose a discussion of "devices," "plans," and "methods;" but we propose a study of the Scriptures of the New Testament that we may better understand and teach them. want a round-table discussion of such books as Romans, Carinthians, Galatians, Ephesians, etc. We shall have a two-hours' session in the forenoon, two-hours' session in the afternoon, and preaching by some one at night. We shall discuss scriptural subjects at night as follows: "The Old Paths," "The Jerusalem Church," "Scriptural Elders and Their Work," "Service Required of Christians," "The Promises of God to Christians," and "Christian Encouragement." Please let all preachers and elders who expect to attend write me, and I shall then be able to let you know if you are to be asked to discourse on any of the above subjects. All together now, brethren, and let us "row in the grace nad knowledge of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ."—J. H. Horton.

Conducted for a half century by D. Lipscomb and E. G. Sewell.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

$2.50 a year, in advance; to Canada and foreign countries; $3.00, advance.

$2.50 a year, in advance; to Canada and foreign countries; $3.00, in advance.

Remittances will be at our risk when sent by express or post-office money order, in registered letter, or by draft payable to our order. When changing your post-office address, tell us your old as well as your new address; otherwise two papers might be charged to you. The date on your tab shows the time to which your subscription is paid. When money is received, the date will be charged, which will answer for a receipt. Two weeks' time must ordinarily occur from the time your remittance is sent before the tab on your paper is changed; if not changed by that time, notify us at once.

This paper is malied regularly to all subscribers until definite orders in writing are received and all arrearges paid in full. If you wish us to stop your paper, write us to that effect; but do not ask it unless you have paid all arrears, if there are any. Do not ask your postmaster to attend to it for you, but do it yourself.

Subscribers, after paying for their papers, will favor us by noting whether the date on the address label is changed, and, if it is not changed within a month, by writing to us. We are careful, but mistakes may occur or letters may be lost. Our rule is to change the date on the day payment is received; but the mechanical work of correcting and printing the list takes time, and payments even from near-by places may not appear the first week. Credits for payments from a distance may be even more delayed. Mistakes are easily rectified if prompt notice is given.

All communications should be addressed to Gospel Advocate, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

Guarantee of Advertising.

Guarantee of Advertising.

All the advertisements in this paper are, we believe, signed by trustworthy persons. To prove our faith by works, we will make good to actual subscribers any loss sustained in trusting advertisers who prove to be deliberate swindlers. We shall not attempt to adjust trifling disputes between subscribers and honorable business men who advertise, nor pay the debts of honest bankrupts. To make this guarantee effective, in all cases say in writing advertisers, "I saw your advertisement in the Gospel Advocate;" and if anything goes wrong, notify us immediately in writing.

JACOBS & CO., ADVERTISING MANAGERS, Clinton, S. C.

Entered at post office at Nashville, Tenn., as second-class matter. Published weekly at Nashville, Tenn.

The Qualifications of an Elder.

BY J. C. M'Q.

The queries published below require more space than is usually allotted to them, so I have decided to give an article to their consideration.

615 West Fifth Street, Flint, Mich., November 10, 1921.— Brother McQuiddy: I have read and re-read the statement and query of Mrs. W. W. Laster, of Flint, Mich., and your answer to her, in the "Query Department" of the Gospel Advocate of November 3. I regret that things have been misstated in regard to the congregation here. I have already sent to the office of the Gospel Advocate a correction of what Sister Laster had to say, and now, if you will permit me, I want to inquire of you concerning a few mattersviz:

1. What are the scriptural qualifications of elders?

2. Which of these may be lacking in the person appointed and meet with the approval of God?

3. How does God make overseers of a congregation?4. If by saying, "The pharisaism that demands perfection of men or perfection of elders cannot be too severely condemned," you mean to say that we should not teach the whole of what God teaches in regard to the qualifications of elders and the importance of Christians living up to the instruction that God has given relative to their conduct, are you not an unsafe teacher in this respect? The Holy Spirit, after having enumerated the "Christian graces," says: "For if these things are yours and abound, they make you to be not idle nor unfruitful unto the knowledge of our Lord Jesus Christ. For he that lacketh these things is blind, seeing only what is near, having forgotten the cleansing from his old sins. Wherefore, brethren, give the more diligence to make your calling and election sure: for if ye do these things, ye shall never stumble." You may call me "pharaisaical" if you wish, for I do not believe it right for us to ignore almost every qualification of elders given by the Holy Spirit and put in men to serve as elders just to satisfy the demands of a few who disregard everything God has said on the subject. Neither do I believe it right for us to be slack in our efforts to get men to walk as God directs because they sin and fail to live perfect lives. If men can be relatively perfect, then why should we not teach that men selected as elders should possess the New Testament qualifications for bishops in the same way relatively so? LESLIE G. THOMAS.

1. There are different words in the New Testament that designate an elder. They are "bishop," "presbyter," "elder," "pastor," and "overseer." The Holy Spirit has stated the qualifications of an elder, and in doing so has given qualifications which if any man possessed wholly and completely would make him an absolutely perfect elder. God gives perfect patterns for a Christian and a Christian bishop. In following perfect models, we will more nearly attain to absolute perfection than we would in imitating an imperfect pattern. "Ye therefore shall be perfect, as your heavenly Father is perfect." (Matt. 5: 48.) For the qualifications of elders, read 1 Tim. 3; Tit. 1; 1 Pet. 5; Acts 20: 28. G. C. Brewer, in "The Model Church," tabulates the qualifications:

TIMOTHY.

- 1. Without reproach.
- 2. Husband of one wife.
- 3. Temperate.
- 4. Sober-minded.
- 5. Orderly.
- 6. Given to hospitality.
- Apt to teach.
- 8. No brawler.
- 9. No striker.
- 10. Gentle.
- Not contentious.
- 12. No lover of money.
- 13. Rules well his own house, 13. Holy,
- 14. Not a novice. 15. Good testimony from
- without.

TITUS.

- 1. Blameless.
- 2. Husband of one wife.
- 3. Having children that believe.
- 4. Not self-willed.
- 5. Not soon angry.
- 6. No brawler.
- 7. No striker.
- 8. Not greedy of filthy lucre,
- 9. Given to hospitality.
- 10. Lover of good.
- 11. Sober-minded.
- 12. Just
- 14. Self-controlled.
- 15. Sound in the faith.

I make the following tabulation:

Acts.

- 1. Take heed to self.
- 2. Take heed to the flock.
- 3. Feed the church.
- PETER.
- 1. Tend the flock.
- 2. Exercise the oversight. 3. Not as lording it over
- God's people, 4. Must be ensamples.

The church should look out men who possess these qualifications as fully as human beings possess them. A man who is ignorant of the Bible, who is a novice, should not be selected. The same is true of the other qualifications. If, the Bible is followed, the very best men will be selectedmen who are apt to teach, who are without reproach, who are just, and who come the nearest to filling completely the divine pattern. The appointment of men to do the work of elders does not give them the qualifications, but they should be fitted for the work before any appointment is made. Those who possess the qualifications will take the lead in guiding and directing the affairs of the church, They should be recognized as God-appointed elders of the church because they have proved their fitness for the work and should be designated by the church to do the work of the elders. Appointing men without the qualifications for elders will not fit them for the work, neither will it lead or capacitate them to do it. Any one who does this work of an elder is, in fact, an elder, whether he is appointed to it or not. The appointment gives him confidence and assurance in the work and makes him feel it especially his duty to do the work. But our brother thinks they have none fitted for the work of elders. If so, there are no Christians there. It is as difficult to live the Christian life as it is to do the work of an elder. A number cannot live the Christian life and not develop the character needed to do Christian work. It is frequently said that nobody fills this bill, when it is not true. Occasionally we hear a wicked man say there is no Christian; and it is just about as hard to find a Christian, according to the fault finder's standard, as it is to find one fitted for an elder. If one is an unsafe teacher because he teaches that men are not absolutely perfect, that men are not perfect as the angels are perfect, then is the Bible an unsafe teacher; for it says: "If we say we have no sin, we deceive ourselves, and the truth is not in us." (1 John 1: 8.) God does not expect perfection among men, and the man who does is an impractical visionary. Men must be blamcless as weak human beings.

2. Men must be Christians as weak human beings. As Christians they grow into and develop all the qualifications of elders. They possess them as human beings and not as angels. It is not healthy to be overmuch righteous, nor to demand perfection of frail human beings. What right has an old, hypocritical sinner to demand of Christians more than God demands of them?

3. God makes overseers of the congregation by developing in men the qualifications that fit them for such work. By developing their God-given talents they become more and more fit to take the oversight of the congregation. When men are elected that have no fitness for the work, they are man-made elders. When others do the work who have a natural fitness for it, but are not elected, they are God-made elders. A church in this condition has two sets of elders. The man-made elders are always a curse to the church. Better not select any if you will not select the God-made ones. These will do something of the work without appointment from men; and when the work is done, the office is filled.

4. I had no thought of not teaching all the Bible teaches on the qualifications of elders when I said: "The pharisaism that demands perfection of man or elders cannot be too severely condemned." To teach that God demands perfection is to open the floodgates to sin and to people hell to overflowing. God, in the Bible, reveals to us the weaknesses of his servants to encourage us to strive to rise to the mountain top of a perfected life, and not to give up in despair when through human weakness we fall. God encourages us to get up with our eyes on the cross.

The "Restoration Movement." BY F. W. SMITH.

I am sorry that the following from Brother C. D. Crouch has been delayed:

Port Arthur, Texas, September 21, 1921.—F. W. Smith, Nashville, Tenn.—Dear Brother Smith: In the Gospel Advocate of the 8th inst., on page 867, you say: "This way brethren have of debating the proposition, The church with which I stand identified is scriptural in origin, doctrine, and practice,' never appealed to me. To what do they refer by the word 'church'—some local congregation, or those composing the Restoration Movement? Will any one be so bold as to claim that God has no children on this earth save those identified with the Restoration Movement? not, then the church of God is a bigger thing than the 'Restoration Movement.'" All of which put me to wondering if you can give me some information that I have been wanting for years. But I find in your article on the next page, in the last paragraph, the statement that you are a member of no institution larger than a local congregation and smaller than the church of Christ, which includes all Christians. It has been my conviction for years that any institution of a religious nature that is larger than a local assembly and at the same time smaller than the ecumenical church has no divine right to exist. This, I take it, is your conviction. But what is that "Restoration Movement" than which you say the "church of God is a bigger thing?" It is not a local congregation, is it? But you say it is smaller than the church of God? What are its earmarks? What is its age? Is it an organization? If so, what are its functions? Who are its officers? Are you a member of it? Is it identical with the "us" and "we as a people" that so much is said about in the papers and in some pulpits? Can one be a Christian and not be identified with that "Movement," and be free from all denominational connections at the same time? In fact, is it an entity? I do not know exactly what it is, and yet I may be a member of it; but I do not think I want to be, if one can be a Christian without; and as we find nothing in the Bible about it, I rather think we can.

If we can root the thing out, whatever it is, perhaps we can at the same time get rid of a great deal more of the language of Ashdod now used. Is "our plea" a part of this "Movement?" Faithfully yours, C. D. CROUCH.

In answer to the question, "But what is that 'Restoration Movement' than which you say the 'church of God is a bigger thing?" I reply: It was a movement inaugurated by Thomas and Alexander Campbell, in conjunction with others, to "restore" the worship and work of the New Testament church in its congregational form by going back to the original pattern delivered by the apostles. It was in no sense intended to be a religious body composed of smaller organizations, had no terms or law of induction, but simply a call to Christendom to lay aside all human creeds, parties, and party names, and be Christians only, formed into congregations of like faith and order according to New Testament teaching. It was simply the plea of earnest souls for the unity of faith required by the word of God, with the Bible alone as the only common ground of this unity. This plea recognized the fact that there were Christians, children of God, scattered among the religious denominations, and it was a call to come out of these denominations and to know nothing in the way of a religious crganization other than a local congregation. The apostle Paul made substantially the same plea to the religious parties forming at Corinth. (1 Cor. 1; 10-13.)

Unfortunately, the simple call and work for unity by the restoration of congregations of worshipers according to the New Testament pattern, in process of time, crystallized into a denomination with a million or more communicants, and calling itself "the Christian Church" or "the church of Christ," and there are many, it seems, who regard these million religious communicants as composing the body of Christ on the earth. This is what I understand to be the present status of "the Restoration Movement" of which I refuse to be a member, because it is larger than a local congregation and smaller than the entire body of Christ. If there should be found even one child of God who is not identified with this religious body of a million, that would make it too small to include all the children of God on earth; hence, it cannot be the body of Christ in its entirety.

One of its most pronounced "earmarks" is its size—a million strong; and as for its "age," I cannot speak definitely further than to say it was not born at the time the Campbells and their colaborers began pleading for the unity of God's people. Its "officers" are the managers of its general society by which its congregations are federated, and who manage its evangelistic and missionary enterprises. No, I am not a member of it, and I regard it as "identical" with all who belong to "us" or "we as a people" in the sense that the church of Christ is composed only of a million or so of souls.

To be a member of this "Movement" as it now stands is to be a member of a denomination; hence, one can be a Christian and not be identified with that "Movement." The very fact that we find Christians in New Testament times who were not identified with something called "the church of Christ" that did not include all the children of God argues that one can be a Christian now without being identified with any such thing. To be sure, one can be a Christian without being a member of any religious denomination, but that does not prove that there are no children of God identified with religious denominations. Whenever one is baptized into Christ, that soul becomes then and there a member of the body of Christ. (See 1 Cor. 12: 13.) Many who have done this have taken another step that made them members of religious denominations, and, hence, are members both of the body of Christ and these denominations. The plea for union on the Bible is a call to all such to sever their connection with the denominations and be simply members of the body of Christ.

The plea for Christian union is as old as the prayer of Christ (John 17: 20, 21), and anything called "our plea" that is not in perfect harmony with Christ's plea is not worthy of serious consideration.

Words of Commendation.

BY F. W. SMITH.

I herewith give one of the many commendations I am receiving, both oral and written, regarding my review of R. H. Boll's "kingdom theory:"

I have been reading with much interest your articles in the Gospel Advocate reviewing R. H. Boll's kingdom theory. I was of the opinion for a while that possibly Boll was being too severely criticized, but have changed my mind. I want to suggest that it would be, in my opinion, the best—that is, it could accomplish more good—to have these articles put in tract form. Boll has some influence with a small number in this country, and but for the exposition that you have given his theory, aided by others, his influence would have been more considerable. A very feeble effort was made to have him hold us a meeting here this fall, but the matter was soon abandoned. The bold way in which you are going after this theory, which I am now convinced is dangerous, is just what is needed, and is having the desired effect.

The foregoing is the sober judgment of a brother well versed in holy writ, and who at one time wrote me a personal criticism of my objections to R. H. Boll's speculative teachings. In justice to this brother, as well as to many others, it is proper to say that he and they were not in a position to see and know, as I and others were, the teachings of Boll; but since he has fully committed himself in writing on these disputed questions, this brother and others see clearly Boll's dangerous doctrine. The suggestion has come from several readers of the Gospel Advocate that this review be put in tract form, which in all probability will be done.

Tiny Tapers.

If all the world were narrowed to one-half acre, and if there were on it just one house of one small room in which to be sheltered and be sick and to die, and if there were only one utensil in which to prepare your simple food and only one hearth at which to be warmed and one spring from which to drink; and if that small, mean, contemptible, cross and sour and surly soul whom you now despise were your only comrade—how would you and that one get along together? What would be your thought, your feeling, your speech, and your conduct in respect of that one?

The great world is not large enough for man and animosities, for man and bickerings, for man and rivalries, for man and jealousies, for man and any form of selfish strivings. There is room—room a plenty—for work, for worthy ambitions, for finest self-culture and self-development, but not an inch of room for any of the practices, habits, or qualities which are to any one hurtful or which tend to shut one off from rendering needed and possible service. Aye, there is neither room nor time for anger, hatred, contempt, or any unloving act or word or thought.

Environment spells opportunity. Conditions plus personality are the factors with which we work out the problem of life. My bitterest enemy, my bleak and barren disappointment, my business, and my burdens may be means of grace to me, occasions and instruments of self-improvement. The range of affections, the reach of aspiration, the wisdom of choices, the power of purpose—these are the elements of chief importance. The nagging annoyances that worry, the roughness and ruggedness of the pathway, the strength of the storm winds that smite—these all should mean more of sweetness and might.—E. W. Winfrey.

Positive Christianity.

There are many good Christian people, whose piety is above question, who, nevertheless, are not living the positive Christian life. There is that indictment against them that "all men speak well of them." If all men were righteous, such a reputation would be consistent with the highest type of loyalty to Christ; but they are not; many daily dishonor him. When one is always and unflinchingly uncompromising with sin, he will soon or late get the ill will of somebody who advocates it in one form or another. The torch and the fagot may be no longer applied in persecution, but the sneer, the scornful remark, and the tongue of slander are still available. Paul included Christians of all ages when he said to Timothy: "All who will live godly in Christ Jesus shall suffer persecution."—Selected.

Rules for Right Living.

Let all bitterness, and wrath, and anger, and clamor, and evil speaking, be put away from you, with all malice; and be ye kind one to another, tender-hearted, forgiving one another, even as God for Christ's sake hath forgiven you.— Eph. 4: 31, 32

MATTHEW HENRY'S COMMENTARY. Best Premium Offer to Preachers.

The greatest preachers of the past two centuries attribute much of their inspiration and usefulness to Matthew Henry's Commentary on the whole Bible. Born in the seventeenth century, his name and his work still live and are household words. Thousands of homes treasure this commentary second only to the Bible, and many a man traces his right start to the loving advice and homely counsel of Matthew Henry.

Charles H. Spurgeon said: "Every minister ought to read Matthew Henry entirely and carefully through once at least. He will acquire a vast store of sermons; and as for thoughts, they will swarm around him like twittering sparrows around an old gable toward the close of autumn." Dr. Philip Schaff, compiler of Schaff's Bible Dictionary, pronounces it "the best practical and devotional commentary for English readers." Here you will find a mine of expository knowledge and a complete preachers' commentary.

The management of the Gospel Advocate is fortunate in securing twenty-five sets of this unrivaled commentary, which will be sent as a premium to every preacher who will send twenty-five new subscribers at the regular subscription price of $2.50 per year. This is undoubtedly the most attractive premium offer ever made to preachers. You will receive six portable volumes of twelve hundred pages each, large, clear, unbroken type, with substantial Roxborough binding, and will have the satisfaction of knowing that the work of the prince of commentators is in your library. If you wish to pay cash, the price for the six volumes is $17.50, not prepaid. When sent as a premium, we pay all charges.

PUBLISHERS GOSPEL ADVOCATE.

QUERY DEPARTMENT

W

A reader from St. Louis asks this question: "Is it right for elders to become clannish and be respecters of persons? For example, a man and his family request that letters be given them, and said request is ignored entirely without any reason being given for such conduct. In a short while another man asks for a letter, and it is granted without a word."

There is no authority in the Bible for such procedure. Christians are not to be respecters of persons. As God respects character, so should they. Any man who is living a Christian life should be given a letter of commendation when leaving a congregation to go into a strange community. If both parties asking for letters were in good standing, there certainly can be no excuse for the different treatment. If the man and his family who asked for letters were not in good standing, then the elders should have told him so and thus given him to understand why they declined to give the letters.

***** * * *

A sister, of Guin, Ala., sends the following inquiry: "Please explain the meaning of the word 'debate' in Rom. 1: 29, which reads: 'Being filled with all unrighteousness, fornication, wickedness, covetousness, maliciousness; full of envy, murder, debate, deceit, malignity; whisperers.' Please answer through the Gospel Advocate, giving the meaning of the original word from which 'debate' was translated, as some here think the word means debate or discussions between ministers."

Rom. 1: 29 reads in the American Standard Edition: "Being filled with all unrighteousness, wickedness, covetousness, maliciousness; full of envy, murder, strife, deceit, malignity; whisperers." Our sister will please note that the word "debate" does not occur in the American Standard Version of the Bible. The word translated "debate" in the Authorized Version is here rendered "strife." Strife is a work of the flesh, and should be condemned. The Greek word "eris," which is rendered "strife" by the American Version and "debate" in the King James Version, means, according to Thayer, "contention, strife, wrangling, all of which are condemned." Christians must not be given to contention, strife, or wrangling. We find some teaching against strife, wranglings, and contention in Rom. 13: 13: "Let us walk becomingly, as in the day; not in reveling and drunkenness, not in chambering and wantonness, not in strife and jealousy." Also in the following scriptures: "For it hath been signified unto me concerning you, my brethren, by them that are of the household of Chloe, that there are contentions among you." (1 Cor. 1: 11.) "For I fear, lest by any means, when I come, I should find you not such as I would, and should myself be found of you such as ye would not; lest by any means there should be strife, jealousy, wraths, factions, backbitings, whisperings, swellings, tumults" (2 Cor. 12: 20.) "Now the works of the flesh are manifest, which are these: fornication, uncleanness, lasciviousness, idolatry, sorcery, enmities, strife, jealousies, wraths, factions, divisions, parties." (Gal. 5: 19, 20.) "Some indeed preach Christ even of envy and strife; and some also of good will." (Phil. 1: 15.) "He is puffed up, knowing nothing, but doting about questionings and disputes of words, whereof cometh envy, strife, railings, evil surmisings." (1 Tim. 6: 4.) "But shun foolish questionings, and genealogies, and strifes, and fightings about the law; for they are unprofitable and vain." (Tit. 3; 9.) These scriptures show very clearly the meaning of the word. The word has no reference to a religious debate conducted in a Christian spirit for the purpose of finding out the truth.

One who is interested inquires to know if it is right to employ a man who is a Presbyterian preacher to conduct a ten-days' singing school for a loyal congregation, when that congregation has within it a preacher who is well qualified to teach vocal music and who really would be glad to be called on to teach a class. If the Presbyterian preacher is fully qualified to teach music, there is no real wrong in a congregation's employing him to do so, just as there is no sin in employing one to teach our children arithmetic who is not a member of the church of Christ. In both cases, however, if such work could be given to Christians, it would be better to give it to them. We are exhorted in the Scriptures to do good unto all men, especially unto them who are of the household of faith. If Christians could have Christians make their clothes, make their shoes, and shoe their horses, they should do so. Christians should be honest and upright, and, when they are living as God requires them to live, they should be encouraged in so doing. Preference should be given to Christians over men of the world or over those who are denominationalists whenever it is possible to do so. In such cases, however, it is always proper and right to consider the service that is rendered. Christians in deed and in truth should be well equipped in all of their undertakings. On the other hand, Christians who are seeking work and who are employed by their brethren should not demand special privileges and favors just because they are working for the brethren. A Christian will give a good day's work regardless of the employer. Oftentimes those who wear the name "Christian" claim from their employers special rights because of their relationship and thus abuse the courtesy shown them.

* * *

B. E. M., writing from Warwood, W. Va., says he loves to read every column in the Gospel Advocate, especially the 'Query Department." This same person inquires to know the meaning of Heb. 3: 8, which reads: "Harden not your hearts, as in the provocation, like as in the day of the trial in the wilderness." The querist then says: "I have committed a sin against God. If I send you a self-addressed envelope, will you try to explain to me where I am wrong? I want to be forgiven, but do not wish to make my sin public unless it is actually necessary." To harden the heart is to reach such a state that God's voice does not make any impression upon us. The provocation referred to is the sin committed at Meribah. The Hebrew of the Psalm says, "like Meribah." The meaning is, "Harden not your hearts, as our fathers did at Meribah." Read the full account of this in Ex. 17: 1-7. It would be well to read also Num. 27: 14 where Meribah of Kadesh is mentioned. Both should be read. I will be glad to give the querist any help that I can if self-addressed envelope is furnished for reply.

0 0 0

A querist who wishes name withheld, writing from Dawson Springs, Ky., asks: "Having no place to meet, would it be wrong to meet or take the Lord's Supper with the 'Christian Church?'" Christians should endeavor to build up the church of Christ in the community where they live. However, it seems that a sufficient number could be converted to the Christian religion to make at least a small assembly of the saints. As it is the Lord's table and as Christians are to commune with the Lord, it would be better to commune with him, even if the Christian Church does set the table, rather than not commune at all. In such cases, however, I always advise isolated Christians to get together and have communion in private houses. It is not necessary to have a large number in order to worship God. Christ assures us that where two or three have met together in his name for worship, he will be in their midst to bless. The main fault is with Christians because they have not been sufficiently active to convert a number of their neighbors.

TEXAS-OKLAHOMA DEPARTMENT

BY C. R. NICHOL

All articles, reports, orders for Gospel Advocate, and books, from Texas and Oklahoma, should be sent to C. R. Nichol, Clifton, Texas.

Little Things.

BY T. W. PHILLIPS.

Christ is King, and the church is his kingdom on earth. First, let us observe that he gave the keys of the kingdom to Peter and the other apostles. (Matt. 16: 18: John 20: 22, 23.)

Peter used the keys on the day of Pentecost and let three thousand Jews into this church or kingdom.

We have the "seed of the kingdom"—the word of God; and the "law of procreation" has never failed in producing after its kind, whether it be vegetable, animal, or spiritual.

We have "children of the kingdom," as well as "seed of the kingdom." (See Luke 11: 8; Matt. 13: 38.)

Christ has the scepter, and he wears the crown. (Heb. 1: 8; Heb. 2: 7.) A scepter of righteousness is the scepter of his kingdom; and his kingdom is not meat and drink, as some suppose, but is made up of subjects of love, joy, and peace in the Holy Ghost.

We are a royal priesthood, a holy nation, a peculiar people. (1 Pet. 2; 9.)

Then we have "citizenship in heaven." (Phil. 3: 20.)

And we have a King—one Jesus (Acts 17: 6, 7); and he is the first begotten from the dead, and is the prince of kings (Rev. 1: 5).

Jesus is our high priest and King, seated upon the throne of God—on David's throne. (Acts 2: 29, 30.) He bears the glory and rules upon his throne, and is Priest and King, the counsel of peace comes from between them both. "Them both "—both kingly and priestly authority! (Zech. 6: 12, 13.)

He will rule until the last enemy is destroyed, or put under his feet, and then he will deliver up the kingdom to God, the Father. (1 Cor. 15: 24.) "For he must reign until all enemies are put under his feet." (1 Cor. 15: 25.)

The heavens must retain Jesus until the restitution of all things (Acts 3: 21); and then, after he has sent his angels to gather out of his kingdom all things that offend, and them that do iniquity, and has cast them into outer darkness, where there will be weeping and gnashing of teeth (Matt. 13: 41), he will then be seated at the Father's right hand, as our Elder Brother, and we will live with him forever as heirs of God and joint heirs with Christ.

I am glad that I am a child of the King, a citizen of the kingdom of God's dear Son (Col. 1: 13), and that I do not believe one word of the theory taught by Charles T. Russell or by any one else of the Adventist theory. Christ is coming again, but he will not tarry. (Heb. 10: 37.) Like the lightning, that lighteneth out of the one part under heaven, and shineth unto the other part under heaven, so shall also the Son of man be in his day. (Luke 17: 24.) Every eye shall see him when he comes (Rev. 1: 7), not just the little flock. He will then judge the quick and the dead (2 Tim. 4: 1), and the saints will then get their reward (2 Tim. 4; 6-8). When he comes, the earth will be burned up and the elements shall burn with fervent heat. (2 Pet. 3: 10.) He will come in flaming fire, and those who obey not the gospel will be punished with everlasting destruction. (2 Thess. 1: 7-10.) He will come with ten thousand of his saints to execute judgment upon all the ungodly. (Jude 14, 15.) The general resurrection will have then occurred, and all the faithful will go home to glory.

Build on the Rock.

BY CLED E. WALLACE.

Imagine a man of means building a home at the cost of thousands of dollars "upon the earth without a foundation." He has adjusted his affairs with care so that funds are available; he and his wife have talked it for weeks and planned it to the last detail. Then he goes and builds it on the sand without laying any foundation. Your judgment is correct. He is a fool. Our Lord calls him "a foolish man." The house might be of durable material, lovely design, and perfectly constructed. But think of setting it out on the ground without any foundation!

Foolish people build characters in this absurd way. "But he that heareth, and doeth not, is like a man that built a house upon the earth without a foundation." (Luke 6: 49.) "It fell in." "The ruin of that house was great." The foolish man says; "I'm not a Christian; I don't hold membership in the church, etc. But I'm honest; my character is above reproach morally; I hear the cry of the poor; my life is cleaner than that of many whose standing in the church is good, and I'm considered by all a substantial citizen." Brother, that's too good a house to be building on the ground without any foundation. That kind of a character ought to be built on the rock. "For other foundation can no man lay than that which is laid, which is Jesus Christ," (1 Cor. 3: 11.) Build on it. "Every one therefore that heareth these words of mine, and doeth them, shall be likened unto a wise man, who built his house upon the rock." (Matt. 7: 24.) Hear him and obey his commandments. "I am the way, and the truth, and the life: no one cometh unto the Father, but by me." (John 14: 6.) Don't try to climb up some other way. "And whatsoever ye do, in word or in deed, do all in the name of the Lord Jesus, giving thanks to God the Father through him." (Col. 3: 17.) No credit is given to any on the books of heaven for any good work not done "in the name of the Lord Jesus" as his servant and follower. Be a Christian.

Any institution or organization in religion built on any other foundation than the authority of Christ is destined to fall. It can't stand. "Every plant which my heavenly Father planted not, shall be rooted up." (Matt. 15: 13.) The organization may function admirably as the world sees it; it may do a vast amount of good work; it may boast of numerous expensive temples, eloquent representatives, and gifted choirs. It doesn't count if it is not built on a scriptural foundation with God's O. K. marked on it in the blood of Christ.

If a man belongs to anything in religion not named and described in the New Testament, he should get out of it at once and get into the institution which the Lord built on the Rock and calls by his name. Any organization that a man can be a Christian and not belong to is not the church of the New Testament.

Let us be "wise" by being and doing just what the Lord would have us be and do. Full instructions are found in the New Testament

0 0 0

Out of Death, into Life.

BY T. B. CLARK.

"He that heareth my word, and believeth him that sent me, hath eternal life, and cometh not into judgment, but hath passed out of death into life." (John 5: 24.)

There is a common life enjoyed by all upon entering this world at birth. "If in this life only we have hope." "He himself giveth to all life, and breath, and all things." "Come now, ye that say, To-day or to-morrow we will go into this city, and spend a year there, and trade, and get gain; whereas ye know not what shall be on the morrow, What is your life? For ye are a vapor that appeareth for a little time, and then vanisheth away. For that ye ought to say, If the Lord will, we shall both live, and do this or that." "She that giveth herself to pleasure is dead while she liveth." All possess this earthly life. In this sense all men live and move and have their being in God.

Though possessing such life, yet, because we are involved in sin, we are dead while we live. God pronounces all men sinners, and, therefore, as dead through trespasses and sins. (Eph. 2: 1.) The end of sin is death, and the wages of sin is death. (Rom. 6: 16, 21, 23.) Let us not deceive ourselves with the vain thought that because we are alive to-day we are secure. The very house in which we live may be a burning mass of flames and we may not know it. It is the constitutional law of our being that "if ye live after the flesh, ye must die," (Rom. 8: 13.)

To this state of death Jesus refers when he speaks of passing "out of death into life." What a calamitous thing this seemingly paradoxical condition of living and yet being dead would be if God had not provided for us "life from the dead!"

The source of this true life into which we must enter is God our Father and his Son Jesus Christ. "As the Father hath life in himself, even so gave he to the Son also to have life in himself." (John 5: 26.) "As the living Father sent me, and I live because of the Father; so he that eateth me, he also shall live because of me." (John 6: 57.) Therefore, Jesus says: "I am the way, and the truth, and the life." (John 14: 6.)

Because of sin man is separated from this divine source of life; hence, he is spoken of as "having no hope and without God in the world." (Eph. 2: 12.) "Alienated from the life of God, because of the ignorance that is in them." (Eph. 4: 18.) "Alienated and enemies in your mind in your evil works." (Col. 1: 21.)

The mission of Christ was that we might live through him. "God hath sent his only begotten Son into the world that we might live through him." (1 John 4: 9.) "I came that they may have life, and may have it abundantly." (John 10: 10.) "The bread which I will give is my flesh, for the life of the world." (John 6: 51.)

To make this truth more emphatic, the Scriptures present it negatively—that is, without Christ, we have no life in us. "He that hath the Son hath the life; he that hath not the Son of God hath not the life," (1 John 5: 12.) "Except ye eat the flesh of the Son of man and drink his blood, ye have not life in yourselves." (John 6: 53.)

The process of passing out of death into life is a present experience, the reality of which may be known; for John declares of himself and brethren; "We know that we have passed out of death into life." (1 John 3: 14.) By way of contrast he speaks of others as yet "abiding in death."

The fact that some still abide in death cannot be construed as meaning that the life which is in the Son of God is not intended for all men or that it is unattainable by all, for Jesus gave himself "for the life of the world."

While life is freely provided for all, yet all must partake of it in order to enjoy it. Those who had entered into life are spoken of as having become partakers of Christ. (Heb. 3: 4.) Under the figure of the bread that came down from heaven, Christ teaches that we must eat of it in order to live. "So he that eateth me, he also shall live because of me." (John 6: 57.) The converse of this is also true: "Except ye eat the flesh of the Son of man and drink his blood, ye have not life in yourselves." (John 6: 53.) Therefore, all blame for a continuance in the death state is laid at the door of man by the Lord. "Ye will not come to me, that ye may have life." (John 5: 46.)

We become partakers of the true source of life, Christ, through faith. Only of believers does Christ affirm that they "passed out of death into life." "These are written, that ye may believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God; and that believing ye may have life in his name." (John 20: 31.) "He that believeth on the Son hath eternal life; but he that obeyeth not the Son shall not see life, but the wrath of God abideth on him."

The life in God through faith in our Lord involves death unto sin. The Christian believers, in order to reckon themselves as alive unto God, had to first reckon themselves to be dead unto sin. They must have experienced the crucifixion of the old man. (Rom. 6: 2, 11.) Paul speaks of himself as having been crucified with Christ in order that Christ might live in him. (Gal. 2: 20.) The true idea of repentance is thus set forth as the hating of iniquity and the loving of righteousness; the forsaking of the old and the adoption of the new life.

Death demands a burial, and the burial becomes the absolute proof of the death. Therefore, all who had died are said to have been "buried with Christ through baptism into death." (Rom. 6: 4; Col. 2: 12.)

Burial must be followed by a resurrection. Hence, like as Christ was raised up from the dead through the glory of the Father, all who were buried with him through baptism into death are raised with him through faith in the working of God, who raised him from the dead, so that we might walk in newness of life. This is not a mere physical transaction. The formal rising out of the water must stand for and express genuine resurrection of the new man into the new life and fellowship of his Lord. It is a vital spiritual union with the Lord in the likeness of his death and of his resurrection. This whole process is called a making alive together with Christ. (Eph. 2: 5.) Have you passed out of death into life? Are you alive together with Christ?

0 0

Personal Notes.

Horace W. Busby was with the church in Ozona, Texas, ten days. Three baptized, one by relation.

W. D. Black, who labors with the church in Ozona, Texas, and the regions around that place, recently baptized four ir Ozona, three in Rankin, one in Sonora, and nine in Barnhart.

D. S. Ligon was with the church in Ardmore, Okla., the third Sunday in November. One was baptized. The brethren in Ardmore have a splendid house, and the outlook is tright for the work.

Tice Elkins reports another addition to the Southside congregation, Fort Worth, Texas, with increased interest on the part of the membership. The effort is to make the church a positive factor for good in the city.

K. C. Moser, who labors with the church in Wewoka and Stuart, Okla., reports two (from the Baptists) baptized in Stuart. In the two months he has been laboring with the engregation in Stuart there have been seven baptisms. They are discussing enlarging their house—with a new one.

The C Street congregation, Muskogee, Okla., has been as sisted as follows for their building fund: J. H. Hale, Tennessee, $14: L. W. McAlister, Tennessee, $6; O. F. Young, Tennessee, $10: Green Street Church, Nashvilie, Tenn., $50; F. A. Wright, California, $27.50. Learn to measure your life by thoughts and actions, not by hours and minutes.

From U. G. Wilkinson, Comanche, Okla., November 21: "The work at Comanche is in excellent condition. A. Leroy Elkins delivered a series of lectures on the Bible the past week, which was much appreciated and enjoyed by all. I am sure that much good was done. B. U. Baldwin preached two excellent sermons yesterday, and all the services were good. One was baptized at the evening service. I am still confined at home, but slowly recovering from la grippe, but do not expect to be able to do any work this I certainly appreciate the kindess of those brethren who have helped me in my time of need. What a joy to be one with those people whose love and fellowship does not forget the poor preacher in his time of greatest need! At this time of year taxes and winter fuel bills make expenses run up, while high cost of living has not yet succumbed to after-war conditions. But conditions in this world are transitory, and the children of God are only travelers to a better home. I think the least that we can do is to help one another in every needful way and suffer and rejoice together. May the Lord bless all his faithful ones. Pray for me."

The Fussing Place.

I have to go to the Fussing Place
When I am very bad;
And mother has such a sorry face,
And her eyes look sad.
But she says in just the firmest tone,
"The boy that fusses must stay alone,"
When I have been bad.

At first I pretend I do not care;
And I hum a tune
And walk off with my head in the air;
But pretty soon
I begin to hate the Fussing Place,
And to be there seems a great disgrace,
So I stop my tune.

And then I think of mother's eyes
With that sorry look;
And soon I think it is time to surprise
Her over her book.
So I hunt up a smile and put it on
(For I can't come out till the frowns are gone),
How happy she'll look!

The Fussing Place? O, it's where you're sent
When you are naughty and mean.
And there you must stay till you're good again
And fit to be seen.
It's up in the attic or under the stairs
Or seated on one of the kitchen chairs,
And O, you feel mean!

But it doesn't matter much where it is—
This old Fussing Place—
For the very spot that seems so bad
When you're in disgrace,
It's nice enough when you're loving and true.
So it's not where you are, but how you do,
That makes it a Fussing Place.
—Annie Willis McCullough, in Exchange.

0 0 0

The New Leaves.

"Wake up!" said a clear little voice. Tommy woke and sat up in bed. At the foot of the bed stood a boy about his own age, all dressed in white, like fresh snow. He had very bright eyes, and he looked straight at Tommy.

"Who are you?" asked Tommy.

"I am the New Year!" said the boy. "This is my day, and I have brought you your leaves."

"What leaves?" asked Tommy.

"The new ones, to be sure," said the New Year. "I hear bad accounts of you from my daddy—"

"Who is your daddy?" asked Tommy.

"The Old Year, of course!" said the boy. "He said you asked too many needless questions, and I see he was right. He says you are greedy, too, and that you sometimes pinch your little sister, and that one day you threw your reader into the fire. Now, all this must stop."

"O, must it?" said Tommy. He felt frightened, and did not know just what to say.

The boy nodded. "If it doesn't stop," he said, "you will grow worse and worse every year, till you grow up into a horrid man. Do you want to be a horrid man?"

" N-no!" said Tommy.

"Then you must stop being a horrid boy!" said the New Year. "Take your leaves!" And he held out a packet of what looked like copybook leaves, all sparkling white, like his own clothes.

"Turn over one of these leaves every day," he said, "and soon you will be a good boy instead of a horrid one,"

Tommy took the leaves and looked at them. On each leaf a few words were written. On one it said: "Help your mother!" On another: "Don't pull the cat's tail!" On another: "Don't eat so much!" And on still another: "Don't fight Billy Jenkins!"

"O!" cried Tommy. "I have to fight Billy Jenkins: He said--"

"Good-by!" said the New Year. "I shall come again when I am old to see whether you have been a good boy or a horrid one. Remember

"Horrid boy makes horrid man; You alone can change the plan."

He turned away and opened the window. A cold wind blew in and swept the leaves out of Tommy's hand. "Stop! stop!" he cried. "Tell me—" But the New Year was gone, and Tommy, staring after him, saw only his mother coming into the room. "Dear child," she said. "Why, the wind is blowing everything about."

"My leaves! My leaves!" cried Tommy; and jumping out of bed, he looked all over the room, but he could not find one.

"Never mind," said Tommy. "I can turn them just the same, and I mean to. I will not grow into a horrid man." And he didn't!—Selected.

* * *

The Reckless Risk.

They were two innocent girls, perhaps sixteen or seventeen years of age, on their way to church. The road was muddy, and they were afoot. A man passed in an automobile. "Let us ride," called one of the girls. The man did not stop. He never will know the half-spiteful, half-scornful things the girls said about him to one another after he passed. But there were a few things that he did know. He knew they were taking a reckless risk; for he was a stranger, and the people should be careful with strangers of the opposite sex.

He knew, too, that two old mothers would not like to see their girls ride up to church with an utter stranger, though the girls might be ever so elated at the short triumph of riding up to the church door in an automobile, while their envying friends had to walk. The stranger knew that it would not be very acceptable to most people for a strange preacher at his first appointment to drive up with two young girls in his car picked up at random on the public road. He knew that this "chance acquaintance" business could very well lead to bad talk and hurt the girls as well as himself.

There were a few things that the girls, too, did not know. They did not know just how this looked to a strange man, even if his mind were pure, much less so if he were of the questionable sort. They did not know that this "Let me ride" call is so common that even this preacher has to adopt some private road rules something like these: (1) Do not take up every man you pass. (2) Take up very few boys or children. (3) Let women and girls go afoot unless you know them.

Automobilists are sometimes imposed upon even by grown men as mere loafers or those who want to "beat their way." It is even more unadvisable to pick up children who call for a "lift." How does he know the prank behind the call? Is the child out for a lark or for mere adventure? How can he tell? But as for women and girls, can they ever be too careful? Have they lost the old-time modesty in our modern craze for excitement, joy-riding, and other escapades? Why not return to common sense and be as careful as our mothers were? Let women and girls remember that it is possible to walk down the street or public road and hail a man in a car who might be anything but the company a good woman or girl would want. Let them avoid these reckless risks.—Selected.

Most Ailments Due To One Thing

That Is, Impure, Impoverished, Devitalized Blood.

Probably 75 per cent, of the ailments of the human race are due to an abnormal condition of the blood,—thin, poor, anemic.

This fact and the further fact that

This fact and the further fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla purifies, enriches and revitalizes the blood, by creating a healthy appetite, aiding digestion, promoting assimilation and thereby securing in full all the benefits of complete nutrition, must impress the thoughtful with the wisdom of giving this great medicine a good fair trial.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is greatest merit plus greatest economy, the most for the money. Get it today.

Among the Colored Folks

Report of Meetings.

BY M. KEEBLE.

During the last two weeks in October I was in a meeting at Utica, Miss. The colored people there had never heard the pure gospel. Brother R. L. Sweeny (white) became interested in having the truth taught to my people, but felt that he was not able to support the meeting; so he wrote Brother A. M. Burton and explained the condition to him, and asked him to send some colored preacher into this section. Brother Burton asked me to go, saying he would give me fifty dollars; so I consented to go. In many respects my faith in Christ was tested as never before, but I am glad to say that all of this made me stronger and more determined to hold up Christ to the world. Brother Sweeny secured the meetinghouse of the people called the "Sanctified Church" for me to teach the word of God in, and also got one of the deacons to care for me while there; and I must say that I have never been better cared for, because this brother and his wife did all they could to make my stay a pleasant one. After the second night these good people began to see that something was wrong; so they sent to Jackson, Miss., for their pastor, and he came. He heard my lesson that night, but never said one word against it, and left the next morning. However, he came back the following Lord's day and suggested that I be stopped, that the doors be shut, and his people obeyed him and advised me to stop. This preacher saw what effect the truth was having on his people. A good many of the people, seeing how they treated me, said openly that they never intended going to hear these people any more. I am glad that the sentiment of the people was in favor of the truth. The man whom I was stopping with was so anxious for me to continue preaching that he went to the principal of the Utica Institute (colored) and asked him to let me preach in the school chapel, and he gladly consented. I preached each night to several hundred students, and many others who lived in the community came and were well pleased. Although there were no additions, I consider it a victory for the truth. The principal of the school invited me back at any time I would go. A good many disabled soldiers are stationed here by "Uncle Sam," and they were favorably impressed. Brother and Sister Sweeny were very nice to me, and I pray that they may live long.

After arriving home, I went up to Brother Burton's office and talked to him about my trials and hardships at Utica, and he said to me: "I am going to increase my contribution twelve dollars and a half more." Brother Burton also suggested that I go back there next year.

I am now (November 11) at Sugar Grove, Ky., in a meeting that starts off with a bright outlook. Brother S. W. Womack established this church. and the last meeting that he was ever in was here with me. He did a great work here, and both white and colored yet speak in highest terms of him and his work.

Brother McQuiddy's article on encouraging young preachers, in the Gospel Advocate of October 27, was uplifting and encouraging to me. I wonder how Brother A. B. Lipscomb can find so many good and needful things to say in "Current Comment." God bless all of these writers who are using their pen to the glory of God!

Renew your subscription to the Gospel Advocate.

Our remedy has stood the test for fortyseven years. Our testimonials date from 1875 to the present time. Read what these grateful people say. Send to-day for our FREE booklet on EPILEPSY. Address

TOWNS REMEDY CO., Milwaukee, Wis.

STORY BOOKS FOR GIFTS AND REWARDS

This little series of books will fill a long-felt need for an inexpensive book for little ones. They are beautifully printed on heavy enameled stock, and each book, in addition to the illuminated cover, contains four full-page illustrations in colors. The titles are carefully selected, and the stories are clean and wholesome and well written. Each book contains twelve pages. Size, 4x51/2.

The series contains such titles as Mother Goose, Little Red Riding Hood, Cinderella, Our Country Playmates, Happy Days, etc.-all equally good bedtime stories or animal stories for children. There are twenty titles in the series. Sold assorted only; 50c per dozen, $4.00 per hundred, postpaid. Send all orders to the

> McQUIDDY PRINTING COMPANY 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North NASHVILLE, TENN.

Girls and Women Who Are Ailing

What This Woman Says is of Vital Importance to You

Ludlow, Ky.—"I had suffered every month for a long time with headache and backache, until recently I began taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and am astonished at the way it has helped me. I have no more headache or backache, and I have taken only a half dozen bottles. My daughter also has had about this same experience with the Favorite Prescription'."—Mrs. Herman Blackar, 19 Ash St.

A beautiful woman is always a well oman. Get this Prescription of Dr. woman. Get this Prescription of Dr. Pierce's in liquid or tablets from your druggist and see how quickly you will have sparkling eyes, a clear skin and vim, vigor, vitality; or send 10c to Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y. for a trial pkg. of tablets and write for free confidential medical advice.

TETTERINE

Makes hair beautiful, free from dandruff, and keeps the scalp healthy.

60c at your drugglst's or from the SHUP-TRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

Antiseptic Analgesic Antiphlogistic

(Prevents Infection) (ReMeres Pain) (Allays Inflammation)

For coughs, colds, influenza, croup and threatened pneumonia, wounds, abrasions, burns, bruises and sunburn. Will not blister delicate membranes.

Eucapine Salve reduces inflammation of the skin and mucous membrane and whether applied directly to the inflamed surface, for external injury or its volatile oil inhaled for pulmonary troubles it is dependable and efficacious. 50c per 2 oz. jar. At your druggist's or by mail from the manufacturers.

Piedmont Laboratories, Inc., Clinton, S. C.

Renew your subscription to the Gospel Advocate.

First and Second Adam. (No. 1.)

BY J. J. VANHOUTIN.

Adam, the first man, was created and formed "of the dust of the ground;" and being of the earth, Paul says: "The first man is of the earth, earthy; the second man is the Lord from heaven." Both were created independent of any law of propagation. The first was earthly, the second was spiritual. Josephus said (page 493): "The bodies of all men are indeed mortal, and are created out of corruptible matter; but the soul is ever immortal, and is a portion of the divinity that inhabits our bodies." Aristotle said: "Whatsoever that be within us that feels, thinks, desires, and animates is something celestial, divine, and consequently imperishable." Locke said: "My soul-in it is the silent recognition of a Deity." Words spring from intelligence. There can be no intelligence without personality, and personality is an entity. Intelligence is not of a material nature. Cicero said: "As this unceasing activity of the soul derives its energy from its own intrinsic and essential power without receiving it from any foreign or external impulse, it follows that this activity must continue forever."

The body part of Jesus, the second Adam, was created independent and apart from the dust of the earth, and was not of an earthly nature. He was only related to the human race on his mother's side. Jesus did not take upon him an angel nature or appearance, but was in the likeness of sinful flesh-that is, his body looked like sinful flesh, but was not of earthly origin. God empowered Elizabeth, wife of the great "high priest," who was the nearest to him of all others, to speak the word which brought about the miraculous creation and conception of Jesus, the second Adam, who was spiritual and divine. Satan became the author of death when he became a "murderer" and sought the life of Adam and all of his posterity. Then it was that God (leaving man out) made threat to Satan that the seed of the woman should bruise his head, or destroy his power. Jesus was made lower than the angels so he could die and go into the headquarters of Satan and overpower him, for angels cannot die.

The whole, entire race of mankind is represented as the workmanship of God. That being true and Satan being the author of death, unless death is finally destroyed and the race resurrected, Satan will forever reign over the workmanship of God. Hence, the second Adam will bring about a resurrection as unconditional as they die, and I am still able to preach redemption from sin and death through Christ's death and resurrection.

Meeting at David Lipscomb College. BY S. P. PITTMAN.

The David Lipscomb College usually has two protracted meetings during the session-one in the fall and one in the spring. While the former is considered the school's meeting and the latter the congregation's, both school and neighborhood cooperate in all the protracted efforts at the college auditorium, and all alike enjoy the lectures and discourses and reap the benefits.

Beginning on the first Lord's day in November, Brother A. B. Barret, of Murfreesboro, Tenn., delivered a series of sermons and heart-to-heart talks in Harding Hall. The morning talks were especially adapted to the students. There were more members of the congregation and more visitors present at the evening services. The meeting was appreciated by all who gave thoughtful attention, and that means practically all who were pres-

Brother Barret stressed simple faith in God and loyal devotion to the Book—a thing greatly needed in this age of general progress, but spiritual apathy, if not degeneracy. Simplicity and dignity characterized his discourses; and in this way our young men who preach the gospel were shown that to be learned in the Scriptures, one does not need to be egotistic or sensational or "flashy." The plain presentation of the truth, unmixed with levity and coarseness and excitement, is what the world needsand the church, too.

While Brother Barret is well and favorably known in the West, he has been in Tennessee only a short time, and hence is not known personally so well as his ability and character deserve. As he gives his time now to general evangelistic work, the brotherhood will have opportunity to know him better.

The meeting at the David Lipscomb College resulted in the addition of seven young ladies and girls to the one body. It is gratifying to see the young people of the school respond to the teachings of the great Teacher.

Don't think because you have taken many remedies in vain that your case is incurable. Hood's Sarsaparilla has cured many seem-ingly hopeless cases of scrofula, catarrh, rheumatism, kidney complaint, dyspepsia, and general debility. Take Hood's.

Now Is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots.

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freedles; as Othine—double strength—is guaranteed to remore these homely spots.

Simply get an ounce of Othine—double strength—from your druggist, and apply a little of it night and morning and you should soon see that even the worst freedles have begun to disappear, while the lighter anes have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than one ounce is needed to completely clear the skin Md gain a beautiful clear complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength othine as his is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freekles.

Looking Backward.

BY J. W. ATKISSON.

There's a church in the valley by the wildwood.

No lovelier place in the dale; No spot is so dear to my childhood As the little brown church in the morning To list to the clear-ringing bell! It's tones so sweetly are calling-O come to the church in the vale!

How sweet on a bright Lord's-day

In my boyhood days I had a chum by the name of T. M. Smith. He is now one of the successful business men in a small town in South Central Missonri.

Smith and I spent some of the happiest days of our youth, perhaps, courting two sweet little girls over on the Big Piney River. Brother E. B. Huff was the preacher for that part of the Ozarks at that time. He had no education scarcely, but he knew the New Testament almost by heart, and he was an excellent preacher of the old Jerusalem gospel, and held many fine revival meetings in several counties in South Missouri. He baptized both of our sweethearts, and also many others, in the vicinity of Cantrell and Ellsworth (which are near to the Big Piney River), and established a congregation of worshipers at Cantrell, and also in many other parts of the country. We dubbed him "the walking circuit rider;" for when he first began to preach at Cantrell, he had no horse, and consequently he walked to all his appointments. Finally, Ely Wilson, a wellto-do farmer, became interested in him and bought him a horse and buggy, then gave him a cow and a calf, and otherwise assisted him to fare about as well as the common run of preachers. Professional songsters taught singing schools in every rural community after crops were laid by, and the congregational singing of the young people in trained classes during protracted meetings was uplifting and enlivening. Smith and I, also our sweethearts, always took a lively interest in the singing. We were always glad when the "circuit rider" came, and I sometimes even now find myself musing somewhat as follows:

In the backwoods of Missouri, in the sweet long ago,

When religion was religion-not a dressy fashion show;

When the Spirit of the Master fell as flames of living fire,

And the people did the singing-not a trained artistic choir-

There was scarcely seen a ripple in life's gently flowing tide, No event to draw the people from their daily toil aside;

Naught to set the pious spirit of the old pioneers aflame,

Save upon the glad occasion when the circuit rider came.

"I have used Pe-ru-na for several years and can heartly re-commend for catarrh of the atomach or entire system. I al-ways get benefit from it for colds and grip. It stands off lots of doctor bills and makes one feel like a new person." R. F. SUTTLES.

R. F. D. No. S. Box 51, Waynesburg, Kentucky.

It is wise to keep a bottle of Pe-ru-na in the house for emergencies. Coughs and colds may usually be relieved by few doses of Pe-ru-na taken in time. Nasal catarrh, indiestion, constipation, diarrhoea, rheumatism or other troubles due to a catarrhal condition of the mucous membranes all call for Pe-ru-na as the successful treatment. The bealth building, strength restoring qualities of this well known remedy are especially marked after a protracted sickness, the grip or Spanish Flur

PE-RU-NA is justly proud of its record of fifty years as health protector for the whole family.

TABLETS OR LIQUID

SOLD EVERYWHERE

STANDARD FOR 50 YEARS Not Only For Chills, Fever and Malaria BUT A FINE GENERAL TONIC

He was usually mounted on the sorriest of nags,

All his outfit for the journey packed in leather saddlebags; And he'd travel with his Bible or hymn book in his hand, Reading sacred word or singing, "am bound for the promised land."

How the toiling wives would glory in the dinners they would spread, And how many a hapless chicken and turkey lost its head

By the gleaming chopper wielded by the hand of sturdy dame,

To help make a dainty dinner when the circuit rider came!

All the settlement around us would be ringing with the news

ringing with the news
That there'd be a meeting Sunday, and we'd "taller" up our shoes,
And we'd brush our homespun dress suits, pride of every country youth,
And we'd grease our hair with marrow till it shone like golden truth;
And the frocks of linsey-woolsey would be donned by all the girls,
And with heated old fire poker they'd

And with heated old fire poker they'd make their cockscrew curls.

They were scarcely queens of fashion, but were lovely just the same,

And they always looked their sweetest when the circuit rider came.

We have sat in grand cathedrals, triumphs of the builder's skill,

And in great palatial churches 'neath the organ's mellow thrill; But they never roused within us such a reverential flame As would burn in that old schoolhouse when the circuit rider came.

But I must not forget to say that Brother G. W. Cypert, of Merkel, Texas, and his efficient helper, Brother Matheney, also did missionary work at Cantrell and other points in Southern Missouri, and they will certainly have many stars in their crowns in the final wind-up of affairs. May the Lord abundantly bless them both, and also all other missionaries.

THIS GIRL IS A WONDER

Do you want more money than you ever possessed? If so, learn to make nut and fruit bonbons. The business will net you $90.00 to $300.00 per month. You can work from your own home. All who sample your bonbons be-come regular customers. Mary Elizabeth started her candy kitchen with $5.00, and has made a fortune. Cannot you do likewise? I will tell you all about the business and help you start, so you can become independent. Now is the psychological time to make big money, as sugar is cheaper and fine bonbons command phenomenal prices. Write to-day. ISABELLE INEZ, 58 Morewood Building, Pittsburgh, Pa.

TETTERINE

Clears Baby's Skin

and drives off the rash and pimples. Harm-less, Soothing, Fragrant.

60c at your druggist's or from the SHUP-TRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

Famous Old Recipe for Cough Syrup

Easily and cheaply made at home, but it beats them all for quick results. Famous Old Recipe for Cough Syrup

Thousands of housewives found that they can save two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough found that they can save two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, by using this well-known old recipe for making cough syrup. It is simple and cheap but it has no equal for prompt results. It takes right hold of a cough and gives immediate relief, usually stopping an ordinary cough in 24 hours or less.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, pour it into a pint bottle, and add plain granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, it tastes good, keeps perfectly, and lasts a family a long time.

It's truly astonishing how quickly it acts, penetrating through every air passage of the throat and lungs—loosens and raises the phlegm soothes and heals the membranes, and gradually but surely the annoying throat takle and draded eaver his.

gradually but surely the annoying throat tickle and dreaded cough dis-appear entirely. Nothing better for bronchitis, spasmodic croup, hoarse-bronchitis, spasmodic croup, hoarseness or bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract known the world over for its healing effect on membranes.

Avoid disappointment by asking your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co. Ft. Wayne, Ind.

NEW MOTHER SONG

Just out-one that reaches the heart of all motherless and wandering boys and girls. For sale by the publisher, M. Jane Floyd, 646 South Sixth Street, Louisville, Ky., on receipt of 25 cents in stamps, per copy.

Don't Wear a Truss

BROOKS' APPLIANCE, the modern scientific invention, the wonderful new discovery that relieves rupture will be sent on trial. No obnoxious springs or pads, Has automatic Air cushion. Binds and draws the broken parts together as you would a broken limb. No salves, No lies. Durable, cheap Sent on trial to prove it. Protected by U. S. patents, Catalogue and measure Ganks malled free. Send pame and address today.

C. E. BROOKS, 443G State St., Marshall, Mich.

Used for more than 42 years. The benefit de-rived from it is unquestionable.

Established 1879

For more than a generation we have been receiving grateful testimony to the virtues of this thoroughly tested and proven treatment. It stops violent coughing, and difficult breathing, assuring restful sleep because the antiseptic wapor carriers healing with every breath. Booklet 43 tells why the diseases for which Cresolene is recommended yield to this simple and dependable treatment.

Vapa-Cresolene is sold by druggists VAPO-CRESOLENE CO., 62 Cortlandt St., New York

A Letter from the Honolulu Church. BY MAX LANGPAAP.

Brethren, it is our aim to keep the work of the Honolulu Church ever before you. We want you to know of our progress, our ambitions, our needs, our experiences, and many of those varied incidents that go to make the missionary's life one full of almost ceaseless activity.

Yesterday (October 30) the spirit of our meeting was very hopeful of brighter and better things for Honolulu. We had with us for the last time Brother J. B. Cain, son of the late Joseph E. Cain, who was editor of the Christian Leader for many years, and also an eminent evangelist of the church of Christ. Brother Cain came here as a delegate to the Press Congress of the World. He should have an excellent idea of the situation confronting the brethren here. He will go back to the United States and tell you as near as he can what a great fight we have ahead of us, and we hope he will urge all he meets to stick to us in carrying this fight to a glorious victory for Jesus Christ. We had a small but attentive audience, and the spirit of optimism seemed to permeate all the speeches that were made. The past history of the work in Honolulu was briefly reviewed, and the present conditions and future prospects considered in the light of experiences of churches in America. The keynote of the meeting was the absolute necessity of preaching the grand central truth of Christianity and the grandest fact in all human history-Jesus, the Christ, the Son of the living God, the Savior of man, and the last and only hope of the human race. In order to succeed in our mission here, we must preach Christ, and him crucified. The gospel in its fullness and in its purity must be preached. No one else is doing this here. We, therefore, must do it with God's help.

We have good material on which to build a permanent work. Our present membership is small, but strong for the old paths. Our financial standing is of no great weight in the community. We have no meeting place that we can call our own. We meet in a rented hall, and we can use this hall but once in the week. Prayer meeting is held in our home. Personally, I am very ambitious about a meetinghouse. I am very anxious to see steps taken to acquire property for our future work as soon as we possibly can. Most people do not care to look very far ahead. They are content to live in the present alone. "Let the future take care of itself." But I cannot be satisfied with this idea. Past experience has taught me some valuable lessons. I would profit by these experiences. Right now is the time to act.

MAKE LOAFING HENS LAY

While the price of eggs is high. Get three times the number of eggs you have been getting by using CaroVet Egg Producer, a wonderful poultry tonic. Satisfactory results guaranteed by money-back offer. 24-pound packages, with full directions, for only 80c, delivered at your door. Send money order, stamps, or check.

CAROLINA REMEDIES CO., No. 1 CaroVet Building, Union, S. C.

Send for this rich looking gold filled Combination Watch-Bracelet today. You will find it to be a $10.00 value. Has adjusted 7-jeweled movement, the case being gold-filled and warranted to wear 10 years. It is a stem-wind and stem-set model and it looks like a very expensive watch. The picture shows you what a handsome model it is and the gold dial adds to its attractiveness. The bracelet is flexible and will fit any wrist, so you need not hesitate to order on account of size. It is sent direct to you, as pictured, in a yelvet and silk-lined box. Each watch is examined before leaving the factory and you will find them perfect time-pieces.

Don't Hesitate! Our Money-Back Guarantee Protects You

So positive are we that you will be delighted with your watch that we ABSOLUTELY GUAR-ANTEE to refund your money if you are not satisfied after examination; therefore, do not heattate to order. Send no money. Just rashyour name and address. Your watch will be sent by return prepaid mall and delivered right by your door by the postman our advertised price of $4.95 on arrival and remember, if you are not entirely pleased after examination, return your watch and we will refund your money, every cent of it.

EMPIRE CITY MFG. CO. Dept. 168, 138 5th Ave., New York

"The King's business requires haste." The longer we wait to do this, the harder will it be to get this desired property. We really need to begin a move right new toward acquiring a lot on which to build a modest meetinghouse. These will be found more and more to be almost absolute essentials to the permanent advancement of the church here.

To those who have a fair idea of the religious and financial forces powerfully arrayed, hand in hand, against the truth, it must be manifest very clearly that we will have to intrench ourselves for a long, hard siege. We are settling down to just such a task. It is not hard to believe that these same powerful forces would not scruple to block any serious move we might undertake, if they thought we were moving a little too fast, or happened to encroach upon territory where they felt like we had no business or right to preach the gospel. It is very plain to us that they do not preach the pure gospel of Jesus Christ. It is our greatest ambition to preach this pure gospel to the same people to whom they are preaching another gospel. There is bound to be a sharp clash. Error is being openly, boldly, and even joyfully proclaimed from the great pulpits of the city. We would like to reply to this pernicious doctrine that is really sapping the spiritual life of many excellent people and making sad wrecks of promising characters. Our great problem is to meet this error. A meetinghouse where we can meet any time we desire is a pressing need. Paul admonishes Timothy: "Preach the word: be urgent in season, out of season; reprove, rebuke, exhort, with all long-suffering and teaching. For the time will come when they will not endure the sound doctrine; but, having itching ears, will heap to themselves teachers after their own lusts; and will turn away their ears from the truth, and turn aside unto fables," That time has come. It has been here a long time. There are just such people and just such preachers as Paul prophesied of. It is our duty and our responsibility to combat error in just the same way as Paul taught Timothy to. We welcome this responsibility. We do not ask too much when we ask all loyal Christians to back us strongly in our fight to check in some measure a form of doctrine that is positively deadly in its influence on many good people who seem not to know the difference between what is called the teaching of Christ and that which in reality is the truth. This is only one phase of the task set before us. The Oriental races may be considered in a class by themselves. We will have something to write of them in future letters, God willing. In the meanwhile we look forward prayerfully and hopefully for the time to soon come when we can be independent of rented halls-a time when we can meet not only once in the week in a public place, but as many times as we desire. God speed the day, for we can undoubtedly have more influence with the public.

SORES

BOILS, CUTS and BURNS have been healed since 1820 with

Gray's Ointment

Sold by all druggists. Write for sample to W. F. Gray & Co., 716 Gray Bldg., Nashville, Tenn.

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

Real Helpfulness.

We cannot change the fundamental nature and the instinct of man or woman, nor is this desirable; but, with such preserved, there is room for untold improvement in our attitude toward those who err. If we think no farther than the good of the human race, we shall have abundant reason for personal help when our brother or our sister is in trouble. If we look no farther than our own character cultivation, we will discover a demand for the exercise of the spirit which uplifts. But if we have concern for the one committing wrong, even as did Jesus Christ when he wrote in the sand, we will not be guilty of the harsh word, the icicle glance, or the cynical smile. Human clay is pretty much alike, after all, and it is unbecoming in any one to exalt himself unduly above an erring companion. The world is starving for lack of real sympathy. Sometimes we fail to show the Christ spirit just when it will return the most profit. An erring woman needs help more than any other person, and receives the least. All are inclined to forsake or desert, if nothing more detrimental. Our Lord would do otherwise. His followers should observe his example.-Selected.

Plain and Fancy BOX STATIONERY

and

Correspondence Cards

also

Engraved and Printed Wedding Invitations

and

Calling Cards

Samples and Prices of Cards and Invitations on request

McQuiddy Printing Company

NASHVILLE, TENN.

BEFORE AND AFTER CHILDBIRTH

Mrs. Williams Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Kept Her in Health

Overpeck, O.—" Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helped me both before and after my before and after my baby was born. I suffered with back-ache, headache, was generally run down and weak. I saw Lydiz E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised in the newspapers and decided to try it. Now I feel fine, take care of my two boys and do my own work.

I recommend your medicine to anyone who is ailing. You may publish my testimonial if you think it will help others."—Mrs. Carrie Williams, Overpeck, Ohio.

For more than forty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been restoring women to health who suffered from irregularities, displacements, backaches, headaches, bearing down pains, nervousness or "the blues." Today there is hardly a town or hamlet in the United States wherein some woman does not reside who has been made well by it. That is why Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is now recognized as the standard remedy for such ailments.

DANDRUFF

QUICKLY DISAPPEARS WHEN

Tetterine

Is Applied. Fragrant and Soothing. 60c at your druggist's or from the SHUP-TRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

To Reduce Fever Relieve Headaches and Neuralgic Pains

Use

Aspitone is very efficient and absolutely safe to use as it does not depress the heart even in extreme cases of debility or weak heart, neurasthenia or anaemia. Manufactured by a formula in use by leading physicians generally. 19 parts pure Aspirin, 1 part pure Caffeine. 4 parts excipient, in convenient tablet form. 35c per package at your druggists or by mail from the manufacturers, Piedmont Laboratories, Inc., Clinton, S. C.

In the Realm of Gospel Song-A Report.

BY A. J. VETETO.

Beginning on June 2, I was with Brother John E. Dunn at Corinth, Miss., in a series of meetings, which I very much enjoyed. Brother Dunn is a good preacher, and I am sure he really wants to save a "soul from death;" and that is a fine impression to leave on the minds of all, which I believe he does. To the young preachers let me suggest that you say, as did the lamented Knowles Shaw, "It is a grand thing to rally folks to the cross of Christ," and thus become not merely a great preacher mechanically, but as one who loves the truth and "would" that all men come to a knowledge of it and be saved. The "Corinthian" brethren are at work. They supported me to the amount of one hundred dollars for my labors.

Beginning on June 23, I was with Brother N. B. Hardeman two weeks at Florence, Ala. My work was appreciated, I am sure, by the congregation there, because they showed a willingness to be led by the one in charge of the song service; and, as a result, the singing was splendid. I am never uneasy about the singing when such is characteristic of the singers, and especially with Ben Harding to see to it that the bass is not "put under a bushel," but that it gives life to all that are in the house. I received one hundred dollars for my labors there. Brother Hardeman did some splendid work there.

My next visit and field of labor was at Water Valley, Ky., with that beloved and delightful brother, Emery L. Whitaker. Sectarian prejudice stands at about "ninety" in the shade in that splendid little town; yet some of the "strangers" came out, and, all in all, it was a right good meeting. We had some splendid singing there. The brethren did not "swell up" and "stick out their lips" if I happened to correct them in their singing, but allowed the correction to strike them squarely in their better judgment and not on their "corns." They paid me fifty dollars, and with but four or five in the main to pay it, and they were looking to cheap tobacco to clothe and feed them.

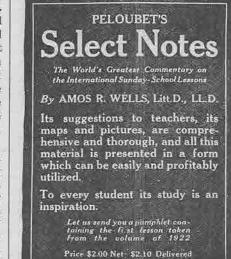

My next work was at Zion's Hill, in Weakley County, Tenn., with Brother Whitaker again as a yokefellow—and a "true" one, too. The preaching was good. It came from an anxious heart for the salvation of the souls of the denizens of earth. This was my first visit to Zion's Hill and Brother Whitaker's second. He is to be there again next year. I was invited, but must go to another place at the particular time of their meeting. They began to do some bad singing; but on a threat on my part to leave them if they did not do better, they went to work, and pretty soon the singing was going well. They paid me forty-six dollars.

From Zion's Hill I went to Ænon, near Fulton, Ky., and labored in sermon and song with J. L. Netherland. Joe seems to enjoy preaching the word and to have the Scriptures pretty well filed away. The brethren paid me sixty dollars. Ænon has about twenty-five members, most of whom are victims on the tobacco "front." Some of them are "true blue."

Cuba was my next place, with Brother R. A. Craig, of Shelbyville, Ky. Bob is not afraid to touch on vital points; in other words, he is always ready to "preach the word." The Cuba meeting was a success. The singing was fine, but the folks had to have a "shake-up" before it "went" much. Brother Craig and I are to be with the brethren there again next July. I received seventy-one dollars for my labors there.

My last meeting was with Brother N. B. Hardeman and the congregation at Pulaski, Tenn. I met some fine people at Pulaski, especially Sister Mitchell, Sister Knight, and Brother J. T. Clark and his family. Sister Mitchell keeps boarders for a living, as her husband is too old and feeble to work; yet she gave me five dollars in cash and asked me to take as many meals with her as I would. Sister Knight and her husband (who is not a member) furnished a nice room and board for Charles Albert and me without charge either to me or to the congregation, and Brother Clark gave me five dollars in cash. All the other few hundred members, composing one of the largest and wealthiest congre-

W. A. WILDE COMPANY

FOR SALE AT ALL BOOKSTORES

HOYLSTON STREET, BOSTON, MASS Madison Terminal Building, Chicago gations anywhere, paid me fifty dollars. The two women and the preacher mentioned "gave more than they all."

The brethren have set their "clock," it seems, at met. =4 = 80, and sing to that, whether it is "The Lone Pilgrim" or "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name." That is the "much" and the "little" of the knowledge people in general have of how the different types of songs should be sung. Be it understood, now, that wherever I go for the purpose of leading the song service in the summer of 1922, I am going to get a "move" on the singing situation or leave them within a very short time. So please do not call for me unless you mean business.

There are some fine points in connection with the singing of gospel songs that our people ought to know. No use to be purely negative in our arguments with reference to "church music." Some of our "home folks" criticize our brethren in Texas for the type of songs and the way they are rendered, and some of such criticism may be, in a measure, just; but whereas many congregations back in some of our old States are singing in a way to bring the organ into use in the churches, the Texas disciples are singing the thing out of existence in the "Lone Star" State.

Reformers.

BY ALFRED ELLMORE.

In speaking of the true Christian reformer, we set forth the man who is grounded and settled in the Bible. who believes, lives, and advocates the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth.

Every true reformer becomes in part a martyr. Perhaps some may ask why this is so. Please note the following:

- 1. It will be conceded by thoughtful people that the tendency of the masses is to retrograde. This has been true of man from the beginning. Principles have been disregarded, the people become corrupted, and the masses oppose reforms, and the work of restoration falls upon a few.
- 2. The qualifications and abilities necessary to make a man a genuine reformer place him in an unpleasant position. He must be a man of native talents, of acquired abilities, and of wonderful courage. Short of these, he cannot become a successful reformer.
- 3. The doctrine and principles are necessarily so stringent that the advocates can have no hope of the support of the populace in general; hence, from the enforcing of such principles as are required to bring about the needed reform, the advocates must be sacrificed upon the altar of intolerance. "You think you are smarter than other people."

- 4. The true reformer must have the keen forecast to point out the signs of the times and the false avenues leading into danger; and, of course, it is not pleasant to the unthinking to be often told of their misgivings and of their sins. "You are a chronic grumbler; and if you don't prophesy for us smooth things, we will turn from and oppose you."
- 5. The true reformer must be a man of courage. To stand in the flowing tide requires strength, to breast the waves and pull upstream requires fortitude, but to pull upstream against the serf when the multitudes are going downstream and are pressing against him requires faith, fortitude, and determination.

The leaders in every revolution must be sacrificed. It was so in the establishing of Christianity. Its Leader, though perfect in every sense of the word, must be murdered. And by whom? Give ear and listen, all ye ends of the earth. It was perpetrated by God's own people! The apostles had to suffer martyrdom; for opposing the Roman priesthood and giving back the Bible to the common people Martin Luther came near losing his life; for making an effort to reform the Church of England the Wesleys were persecuted almost unto death; and Alexander Campbell, for maintaining the Bible alone and giving it to the populace, has had more persecution than any reformer of modern times. John Brown, Abraham Lincoln, James A. Garfield, and William McKinley suffered martyrdom for the advancing of the principles of true American citizenship. For their bold fight against intemperance several ministers have lost their lives.

And, my friend, has it ever occurred to you that there never has appeared in this world a system so thoroughly unpopular as that of Christianity? Because of its purity and perfection and because of the sinfulness of man there must be a continual warfare between those who want the pure system of Christianity and those who are satisfied with only a popular religion.

"Know ye not that the friendship of the world is enmity with God? Whosoever therefore would be a friend of the world maketh himself an enemy of God." (James 4: 4.) Notice. "maketh himself an enemy of God." See a great convention of denominational Christians, with their preachers in charge, and let Paul, unknown, open out in an address and request them to lay down their peculiarities and unite upon the teaching of the New Testament alone. Would they hear him? They would reject him. I have no hope of such glorious result. Nothing short of a physical miracle would effect this, and even in the face of the grandest miracles ever performed the people blasphemed and opposed the Master and put him to death.

RECOMMENDED Nº SOLD BY DRUGGISTS Nº OPTICIANS WRITE FOR FREE EYE BOOK, MURINE CO. CHICAGO

ASTHMA GURED BY SIMPLE REMEDY

Famous Druggist Discovers Simple Remedy For Asthma and Makes Generous FREE TRIAL Offer to Readers.

Thirty years ago Mr. C. Leavengood, a widely known Kansas druggist, discovered a simple, easy-to-take prescription for Asthma. He gave it to people who had suffered for years, and, to their amazement, they say they were easily cured. These people fold their friends, and in this way thousands their friends, and in this way thousands have found the sure way to cure Asthma. Mr. Leavengood feels so confident that his prescription will cure in all cases that he generously offers to send a big bottle on ten days' Free Trial to any reader of this paper who will write for it. If it cures, pay $1.25; otherwise you owe nothing, Send no money—inst write to C. LEAVENGOOD, 1648 S. W. Blyd., Rosedale, Kansas, and the big bottle will be mailed immediately. will be malled immediately.

TREATED ONE WEEK FREE

Short breathing relieved in a few hours; swelling reduced in a few days; regulates the liver, kidneys, stomach, and heart; purifies the blood; strengthens the entire system.

Write for Free Trial Treatment.

COLLUM DROPSY REMEDY CO.,
Dept. E-43.

Atlanta, Ga.

FIELD REPORTS

Mentone, Ind., November 16.—Our meeting at Farmington, W. Va., closed on November 7 after continuing for three weeks. During this meeting twelve were baptized, two were restored, and one placed her membership with the congregation. We began a meeting at Mentone last Sunday. A. J. Bachman.

Mount Pleasant, Texas, November 21.—I am now giving a little more than one-fourth of my time to the brethren here in Mount Pleasant and shall, of course, continue to preach the gospel to the lost, as they seem to be anxious to hear. The church here is beginning to reach the solid ground of a better understanding among thenselves, and seem to appreciate the preacher very much. Pray for us.--Ed. S. Duncan.

Athens, Ala., November 21.-I am now here in my old home town in a two-weeks' meeting. Last Saturday I baptized a married lady. Others are almost persuaded to obey their Lord in baptism. I will bring this meeting to a close next Friday night. Last Lord's day I preached near Holland's Gin. On the second Lord's day in December I will preach in New Decatur, Ala. On the third Lord's day in December I will preach in the Hayes Mill Schoolhouse. I have more calls for meetings than I can fill.—W. W. Still.

Ramer, Tenn., November 19.—We closed yesterday, at Hurley's School-house, a four-days' debate between F. O. Howell, of Jackson, Tenn., and Ben M. Bogard, representing the Mis-sionary Baptists. Everything was car-ried on in good style and with the best of feeling until Bogard, on the last day, got to bringing in some personal things, which to a small extent marred the good feeling existing among the people. On the first two days Bogard affirmed that the church with which he stands identified is apostolic in origin, doctrine, name, and practice; Brother Howell denied. On the third and fourth days Brother Howell affirmed, and Bogard denied. Brother Howell ably took care of him in every discussion, and we feel sure have been much benefited .-Thomas M. McLaughlin.

Hanceville, Ala., November 19.-I here give a short report of my work from November 1, 1920, to November 1, 1921. I have preached one hundred and seventy-eight discourses. This does not include funerals and baptismal talks. Fifty-eight persons have been added to the church-fifty-four by baptism, two from the Missionary Baptists, and two from the Methodists. I have received by way of support $669.65. Besides this, I have made a erop of corn, hay, and potatoes. In January of this year I asked the congregations of this county (Cullman) to help me to buy a tent to be used at mission points. We succeeded in getting the tent, and have held five meet ings, with twenty-three additions. Brother B. F. Moody held one of the meetings and had thirteen additions. Brother Pride E. Hinton and I held the other four meetings. This is a little real mission work we have done in this part of Alabama. We hope to do more in the future.—M. A. Creel.

The Prayers of the People.

The greatest preacher of all ages, Paul, depended much on the prayers of his fellow Christians. More than once he begged those to whom he wrote to pray for him. To the Christians of Thessalonica he wrote: "Brethren, pray for us, that the word of the Lord may have free course and be glorified." On another occasion he reminded the Christians that they were also helpers together by prayer for him. One of the most needed duties and one of the most blessed privileges is to pray for those who preach the gospel. When Mr. Spurgeon once was asked how it was that he obtained such great blessings in his church, he replied: "My people pray for me." One of the greatest joys and the chief source of power and encouragement in a minister's life is to know that he is supported by a praying people. As he stands in the pulpit before the sermon his heart is cheered if he knows that loving hearts in the congregation are praying for the message that he is about to deliver. Under the blessings of such prayer the message goes forth with greater power.—Exchange.

Deliverance Amid Trials.

When thou passest through the waters, I will be with thee; and through the rivers, they shall not overflow thee; when thou walkest through the fire, thou shalt not be burned; neither shall the flame kindle upon thee.-Isa, 43; 2.

	ENGRAVED VISITING CARDS	PLATI 100 (E AND CARDS
	11 11 00	One	Extra Lines
í	Mrs.Morris E.Barr		$1.50
2	Miss Virginia Haloy	5.25	2.75
3	Miss Ruth Heath	3.25	1,50
4	Miss Emma R. Seathers	3.25	1.50
Б	Miss Almyra Reams	8.75	2.00
6	Mrs. Carey T. Posegale	5.25	2.75
7	Mrs. Edward Glonn Wallow	3.75	2.00
8	217rs. Telen Simpson Cooper	5,25	2.75
9	Miss Klizabeth Burthell	3.75	2.00
10	Miss Kuthleen Vanghan	5.25	2.75
н	Wrs. Justin Potter	5.25	2.75
12	MR. JOHN T. CAMPBELL	4,25	2.25
13	MR. FRANK B. EMMERLING	5.50	3.00
14	Miss Hester E.Bratten	5.50	8.00
15	MR. JACK SWANEY	3.75	2.00
16	MR.WILLIAM A. HUBBON	4.25	2.25
50 (ards reprinted from plate		$1.50
100 T	Plate-Marked Cards, extra. Hourning Cards from plate		2,50
Eras On	ures on Copper Plate, per line		1.25
Ch	arge 25 per cent extra line rate for adding Mr., M.	e. Mis	s, etc.,

to old plates.

Volume LXIII. No. 49.

NASHVILLE, TENN., DECEMBER 8, 1921.

$2.50 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

"My Peace Give I Unto Thee"

I knew a woman who was noted for her beautiful smile. As a good angel she moved among those who were often bitter and melancholy; and people, watching her, said one to another:

"How easy it is for her to do things!"

"I wonder why her path is always so smooth."

"I only wish circumstances were as kind to me."

"She is just one of fortune's favorites."

On a certain day, one who was stooping beneath a heavy burden said to this woman of smiles: "I wonder why it is that you always have your way about things. Your plans never miscarry."

"You would never say that if you really knew," was the answer. "And, because I know something of the hard things that have crossed your pathway, I am going to give you a little glimpse of my chamber of sorrow. I have had three beautiful dreams, cherished three fond hopes, and each, in turn, has crumbled to ashes in my fingers. My first great desire was to be a missionary. This wish was defeated by a protracted illness, which made it physically impossible for me to do this work which was so dear to my soul. My second dream was to be a great singer of the gospel message; but my voice suddenly failed, even when my hopes were the brightest. My third fond ambition was to be the mother of children. I used to pray that I might have the sweet joy of feeling the soft pressure of my own child's hand and of hearing baby lips address me by the magic name of 'mother.' I do not pray that prayer now. These three hopes now rest in as many sacred graves."

"How, then, can you smile so sweetly?" questioned the other.

"It is because I am content to let His way be my way." And she pointed upward with a gesture of perfect trust. "The Golden Text of my life is this: 'My grace is sufficient for thee.' I have learned to 'glory in tribulations.' I am wearing the Master's yoke, and I find that it is 'easy.' I want to go into his presence with a smile."

How wonderfully precious is the peace which Jesus gives! What a great thing it is to be able to change cloud and tempest into a rainbow! What a glorious alchemy is this that transforms the weary night into dawn and cloudless sunrise!—E. C. Baird.

Contents

CURRENT COMMENT	1186	TEXAS-OKLAHOMA DEPARTMENT	1200
OUR CONTRIBUTORS	1187	HOME READING	1201
Concerning Longevity—Los Angeles Notes— "In Christ Jesus"—"Must Jesus Bear the Cross Alone?"—Knowledge of God, Past and Present—Georgia and the Far Southern Field.		The Power of Education	$1203 \\ 1204$
AT HOME AND ABROAD		OBITUARIES
Review of O. E. Payne's Book on "Psallo"— The Church—The "Regional Congress."		Report from Carman, Manitoba, Canada
QUERY DEPARTMENT	1199	Ontario, Canada	1211

CURRENT COMMENT

By A. B. L.

We often meet the brother who tells us he is holding his own. The idea is that some while ago he acquired a spiritual status and he has never fallen below it. This is dangerous self-complacency. There are no level paths to success in God's plan of things. One must keep climbing or slide back. The apostle Paul is continually "reaching forth unto those things which are before." That was the great sign of his faith. One thing above all others you must have if you would conquer mountain peaks—Faith! No mountain climber may expect to gain the heights without faith—faith in himself, faith in his fellows, and faith in the worth-whileness of the effort. But, above all, there must be faith in God. It is not how high you climb that counts; it is how long you keep climbing. Cultivate faith. While you have faith you will keep climbing.

Faith performs miracles. It transforms weaklings into giants, cowards into heroes, sinners into saints. Ten spies saw the Anakim in the land of Canaan and came back trembling and afraid. They were ten cravens. Two spies saw the same Anakim and came back with a prediction of victory. They were two of God's noblemen. It was faith that made them noble.

Captains of industry tell us that faith necessitates a creed. Something is needed, they say, to help you keep climbing. Something like the following has been suggested for the industrial "up and coming:"

I believe in myself and in my job. I will swing this job better than any other man would swing it.

I believe in my fellow workers. I pledge them a square deal and a helping hand.

I believe in my firm and its product. Their good name is my good name.

Virile men like Theodore Roosevelt and Henry Drummond and Henry Ford have believed in the immortality of work well done; that—

"Each hammer blow, each problem solved, each task performed with care Becomes at once immortal—adds a step upon the stair On which the future ages must climb toward the sun, Just as this generation builds on what the past has done."

Christians need no creed but the Bible. It is the only creed that has stood the test of the ages. It contains the finest and truest examples of faith ever given to man. For a Christian to keep climbing means to continue in allegiance to God's word. It was faith in God's word that brought Joshua and Caleb to the land of Canaan. It is faith in God's word that must take us to the heavenly Canaan. Keep climbing.

0 0 0

When Hezekiah became dangerously sick, the prophet Isaiah said: "Set thine house in order; for thou shalt die." Death is a fact with which every one of us must deal. It is the inevitable experience; it may not be shunned. The Russellites are now featuring the slogan: "Millions now living may never die." While there is the probability of Jesus coming in our day, it is by no means a certainty. But it is certain that "Death rides on every passing breeze And lurks on every flower; Each season hath its own disease, Its peril every hour."

If, then, death is the inevitable fact of every human history, how should one bear himself toward it?

There is an unwise forgetfulness of death. It chills us with a frenzied helplessness against which we rebel by putting from us the thought that terrifies. An ancient monarch would not allow the word "death" to be spoken in his presence. We plunge into this life seeking madly to sip all of its sweets and all its fragrance and fascination. But it is a hopeless effort—"the earth rings hollow from below and warns us of her dead." That to which we cleave soon will cloy and our present delight will ere long fill us with disgust.

There is an unwise remembrance of death. Repeatedly to recall this dread fact so that hope droops, faith falters, love languishes, and labor has no inspiration, is, indeed, an evil folly. He alone who, facing the fact of death, prepares for it, has wisely remembered it and may wisely forget it.

We should prepare for it by providing a heritage for ourselves in a better world, by providing for our immediate families both creature comforts and a godly example, and by providing for all men everywhere the memory of a righteous life. Such men, whether high or low, whether poor or rich, are the salt of the earth. On them are builded all the institutions that endure.

I do not think that the responsibility for teaching the great lesson of how to face and prepare for death should be left exclusively to the publicity men of the insurance companies. They do their work well, but what they write invariably portrays the commercial note. Their story is never complete without some reference to "our policy." Every Christian is an agent of God's life insurance company, which is the church, the pillar and ground of the truth.

0 0 0

The editor of The Kiwanian is responsible for the following pointed observation:

You have asked for it, perhaps—invited suggestions, comments, advice, regarding yourself, your job, your game of golf, your choice of wall paper, or your proposed big-business deal.

What did you get?

You got what we all give under such circumstances—as much of what we believe as we dare to say, and no more. You nor I never tell the whole truth when thus invited, because we are afraid.

Thoreau says: "You do not get a man's most effective criticism unless you provoke him. Severe truth is expressed with some bitterness."

Undoubtedly true. Provoke me, and I will "tell you where to get off" in no uncertain words. Get me good and peeved, and I will tell you exactly what I really think of you, your methods, your ideas. But leave me unprovoked, and what I say is necessarily tempered by my regard for the pleasant relations between us, my fear of offending you, my desire to continue to have your kind thoughts.

It is a great pity that men cannot be honest and straightforward in their speech without becoming peeved. But provocation and anger often reveal traits of character in our friends that we did not think existed. For example, we have known a man whose general bearing suggested almost abject humility; but when stirred with anger, his self-conceit and arrogance come to the light. Some of his devotees learned then for the first time that their idol was of clay. Is it not true that some of those who teach the best lessons on peace are sometimes found sadly lacking in those qualities which they have insisted others should possess? We did not think anything of rancor or ill feeling or unkindness could possibly be found in the hearts of such teachers until they became peeved. Then the truth came out, Neither regard for pleasant relations nor fear of offense should keep us from telling the truth if it needs to be told. "Lie not one to another" is plain talk, but the admonition is needed. There is never an excuse for speaking the truth in bitterness and anger. God's plan is always best, and it is effectually covered in the apostle's language: "Speaking the truth in love."

Concerning Longevity.

BY A. A. BUNNER.

"The days of our years are threescore years and ten; and if by reason of strength they be fourscore years, yet is their strength labor and sorrow; for it is soon cut off, and we fly away." (Ps. 90: 10.)

I have been thinking a long time of writing upon this important subject for the benefit of mankind, and I hope in this effort that my pen may be guided aright, and I implore divine aid so far as this aid is now given to uninspired writers. Now, the only source from which to obtain the needed knowledge is God's holy book, the Bible, and to its pages I shall turn, and shall diligently and prayerfully study the same.

I often ask myself the question, "What am I?" and with the Bible before me, the answer comes back, "A man." But what is a man? David's advice to his son, Solomon, was: "I go the way of all the earth: be thou strong, therefore, and show thyself a man." (1 Kings 2: 2.) Then, to cap the climax, he adds: "And keep the charge of the Lord thy God, to walk in his ways, to keep his statutes, and his commandments, and his judgments, and his testimonies, as it is written in the law of Moses, that thou mayest prosper in all that thou doest, and whithersoever thou turnest thyself." (Verse 3.) To "show thyself a man" means much more than just simply existing on this earth and going around in the form of a human being, and David's advice to Solomon in verse 3 is in full keeping with Solomon's final conclusion as recorded in Eccles. 12: 13. Christians sometimes sing: "I want to be an angel, and with the angels stand." I never expect to be an angel, and don't want to be one. I only want to be a man-a redeemed, saved, immortalized and glorified man throughout all eternity. This is all I seek for, and there is no being but God himself that will be higher than this. "For thou hast made him a little lower than the angels [Hebrew, a little lower than God]." (Ps. 8: 5.) Heb. 2: 7 says "a little while inferior to" (marginal reading), and this was after he became a sinner.

Webster, in his Modern Dictionary, defines the noun thus: "Man, a human being." The adjective "human" he defines thus: "Belonging to man or mankind; having the qualities of a man." But some eminent writer whose name I am not now able to call to mind defines "man," "a rational animal." But when I look around over the world and see the direction in which humankind are running pell-mell and wholesale in the ways of sin and folly after every conceivable thing except the right, and even Christians doing much that they do, not as service to God, but through strife and vainglory, I have come to the conclusion that the majority of mankind are, to say the least, very irrational beings, spending their "money for that which is not bread" and their "labor for that which satisfieth not." (Isa. 55: 2.) With the Psalmist, I am led to exclaim: "Surely every man walketh in a vain show." (Ps. 39: 6.)

Had our federal head not have sinned, had he not have eaten of the interdicted fruit, he would have lived forever; but even with his sin and in his fallen state, he lived to the ripe old age of nine hundred and thirty years, and many of the antediluvian patriarchs lived as follows: Seth, nine hundred and twelve years; Enos, nine hundred and five years; Cainan, nine hundred and ten years; Mahalaleel, eight hundred and ninety-five years; Methuselah, nine hundred and sixty-nine years. These are only a few of the names.

We now come down to the postdiluvian age for a few names. Abraham lived one hundred and seventy-five years; Isaac lived one hundred and eighty years; Jacob lived one hundred and forty-seven years; and Moses, with all of his hard study, labor, and vexation with which the rebellious children of Israel vexed his patient and righteous soul, lived to the good old age of one hundred and twenty years, and it is said that "his eye was not dim, nor his natural force abated." (Deut. 34: 7.) But his work being finished, and well finished, Jehovah, his God, called him from labor to reward, as he did all whom he directly called to a special service.

But when the children of Israel had crossed the Red Sca. they came to the threescore and ten palm trees (Num. 33: 9), which were significant of the fact that human existence or life on this earth was now cut down to threescore years and ten. (Ps. 90: 10.) While it is true that some among them, by reason of strength, lived to be fourscore years old, still the general rule was threescore and ten years, as the Psalmist says. But from my study of the word of God, I think this rule was only applicable to the people of God under the Jewish dispensation, and not to his people, strictly speaking, under the gospel dispensation. God, for wise reasons best known to himself, shortened the days of human existence under the Jewish economy to threescore years and ten, but not necessarily so under the Christian age. I remember quite well when the average of human life was said to be thirty-three years, but now, if I have the proper data, it is somewhere up in fifty years; so that men now, with all of their sins and covetousness, are living longer than they formerly did, and I have seen quite a number of persons in my time who have lived to be considerably over one hundred years, which convinces me that man's stay on earth could be much longer than what it is. Hence, the question comes, "Why don't we live longer on this earth than what we do?" instead of, "Why don't we live better lives than we now live?" The answer to the first question is right at hand, and the second question you will have to answer for yourselves. "I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly." (John 10: 10.) "Godliness is profitable unto all things, having promise of the life that now is, and of that which is to come," (1 Tim. 4: 8.) "Honor thy father and thy mother: that thy days may be long upon the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee." (Ex. 20: 12; see, also, Deut 5: 16; Matt. 15: 4; 19: 19; Mark 7: 10; 10: 19: Luke 18: 20; Eph. 6: 2, 3.) "The meek shall inherit the earth; and shall delight themselves in the abundance (Ps. 37: 11.) "Depart from evil, and do good; of peace." and dwell forevermore." (Verse 27.) Hence I cannot think that Ps. 90: 10 applies to the children of men under the gospel dispensation, for under it the people of God are promised long life. See this prediction: "There shall be no more thence an infant of days, nor an old man that hath not filled his days: for the child shall die a hundred years old; but the sinner being a hundred years old shall be accursed. And they shall build houses, and inhabit them: and they shall plant vineyards, and eat the fruit of them. They shall not build, and another inhabit; they shall not plant, and another eat: for as the days of a tree are the days of my people, and mine elect shall long enjoy the work of their hands. They shall not labor in vain, nor bring forth for trouble; for they are the seed of the blessed of the Lord, and their offspring with them." (Isa. 65: 20-23.) Whether or not the above prophecy is literal or figurative, I am not really able to say certainly, but I am inclined to the literal view of it. Be this as it may, we know that people generally are now living longer than they used to live, and there are, as I see, good reasons for this, and there are the promises and influences of the word of God, We know that the people of Bible lands, even the wicked, are healthier and live to much greater age than those do who have not known of God and his word.

David Lipscomb was once asked by an unbeliever: "What good has your Bible and religion done for the world?" His reply was: "They have made better milk and butter, better farms, and better sheep, bogs, and cattle." Astonished at Brother Lipscomb's answer, the unbeliever, said: "I did not knew they had anything to do with such things as these." Then Brother Lipscomb went on: "All of these has man to do with, and the Bible and Christianity have taken hold of wan, even the enemies of the Lord, and lifted them up and improved them and made them better, and everything with which man has to do has been correspondingly lifted up and made better." What an answer, full of wisdom and good common sense! This silenced the unbeliever just as Jesus silenced the scribes and Pharisees. All that I am I attribute to my knowledge of the Bible and the religion of Christ and their influence upon me, which I know is very limited-too much so. But I feel that I am a man of one talent.

Do you want to live long? Then live well. Live for God and unto God. What the world needs to-day is better men and women, better fathers and mothers-fathers and mothers who are Bible fathers and mothers; fathers and mothers who, like Jesus loved little children, love their own children and love each other, and who strive to study and obey the laws-physical, social, moral, and spiritual-under which God has placed them, and bring forth and train up immortal beings for citizenship in God's everlasting kingdom. This is the object of our mission here in this world. While boarding a street car a few days ago, I saw a woman making for the same car. She had with her a sweet little tot that could scarcely toddle along, and she also had a little dog. The child she was leading and jerking along by the arm, but she had the dog up under one arm carefully carrying it aboard the car. I cannot help but look with pity and contempt upon such creatures in human form. Do you want to be a scriptural wife and mother? Read, study, and practice Tit. 2: 4, 5; 1 Tim. 5: 14. Do you want to be a scriptural husband and father? Read, study, and practice Eph. 5: 22-31: 6: 4; Prov. 31: 28. Some-yea, too many-just read the Scriptures to have it to say. "I read the Book," but few read it to learn their duty to God and to each other-how they should treat each other. Do you want to study and practice the laws of hygiene? Then, above all, study the hygiene of the Bible. It is the best of all. Its laws governing your conduct in the social circle are the best and only pure laws; its law-the gospel-is the only law to govern the Christian or children of God. Read, study, and obey all of these laws to the best of your ability, and they will make you what God would have you to be in time and also in vast eternity. Then, and not until then, will the world be blessed with a set of diamond-cut men, women, and children that will be robust and heafthy in body, soul, and spirit, and will live long, or as long as they will be needed to bless the world of mankind. Such will die a normal death. "Thou shalt know also that thy seed shall be great, and thine offspring as the grass of the earth. Thou shalt come to thy grave in a full age, like as a shock of corn cometh in its season. Lo this, we have searched it, so it is; hear it, and know thou it for thy good." (Job 5: 25-27.)

Valuable People.

The value of a single man or woman of open mind, independent judgment, and moral courage, who requires to be convinced and refuses to be cajoled, is only concerned to be right and not afraid to be singular, deferring to reason but not to rank, true to his or her own self, and, therefore, not false to any man—the value of such a man or woman, I say, is priceless; a nation of such would leaven and regenerate the world.—Prof. James Ward.

LOS ANGELES NOTES

By S. H. HALL 2669 North Sichel Street

House of worship, corner Altura and North Sichel Streets. Take North Broadway car to Sichel, then one block to left.

Are You a Wise or Foolish Virgin?

There are some questions that can be unmistakably answered; in fact, every question that is vital to my soul's welfare can be so answered.

Some of these days we will be told exactly what we are; and when this is declared to us, we will be powerless to change, it matters not how much we may so desire.

The wise and foolish virgins are spoken of in Matt. 25: 1-13. We call this scripture "the parable of the wise and foolish virgins;" and correctly so, for it certainly is a parable. And this parable is applicable to church members only. Hence, in the church we have two classes—one represented by the wise virgins and the other by the foolish virgins. The burning question now is: Which correctly represents me, and which correctly represents you?

You will observe that the parable begins with "then." We must find the time to which this adverb refers, for "then shall the kingdom of heaven be likened unto ten virgins, who took their lamps, and went forth to meet the bridegroom."

Let us drop back in chapter 24 and begin reading at verse 44 and read to the close, where we connect with the "then" of chapter 25. Here is what we find: "Therefore be ye also ready; for in an hour that ye think not the Son of man cometh. Who then is the faithful and wise servant, whom his lord nath set over his household, to give them their food in due season? Blessed is that servant, whom his lord when he cometh shall find so doing. Verily I say unto you, that he shall set him over all that he bath. But if that evil servant shall say in his heart, My lord tarrieth; and shall begin to beat his fellow servants, and shall eat and drink with the drunken; the lord of that servant shall come in a day when he expecteth not, and in an hour when he knoweth not, and shall cut him asunder, and appoint his portion with the hypocrites: there shall be the weeping and the gnashing of teeth."

Please to note that the very next word our Lord spoke is the "then" of chapter 25, and it refers to his coming again. It is at the time of his coming that the kingdom is likened unto the five wise and the five foolish virgins.

Now let us read the parable slowly and note how it closes; "Then shall the kingdom of heaven be likened unto ten virgirs, who took their lamps, and went forth to meet the bridegroom. And five of them were foolish, and five were wise. For the foolish, when they took their lamps, took no oil with them; but the wise took oil in their vessels with their lamps. Now while the bridegroom tarried, they all slumbered and slept. But at midnight there is a cry, Behold, the bridegroom! Come ye forth to meet him. Then all those virgins arose, and trimmed their lamps. And the foolish said unto the wise, Give us of your oil; for our lamps are going out. But the wise answered, saying, Peradventure there will not be enough for us and your go ye rather to them that sell, and buy for yourselves. And while they went away to buy, the bridegroom came; and they that were ready went in with him to the marriage feast: and the door was shut. Afterwards came also the other virgins, saying, Lord, Lord, open to us. But he answered and said, Verily I say unto you, I know you not. Watch therefore, for ye know not the day nor the hour.'

It is easy to be seen that the one central thought in all our Lord has said in the above is to emphasize the importance of our being continually ready. But the point before me now is to find a landing for this terrific blow of our Lord; and by this I simply mean the proper application of this scripture to people of to-day.

1. Church Hebos. I think we know what we mean when we use the word "hobo" in everyday speech. Do we now have in the church people who sustain the same relation to the church that "hobos" do to society? I think we have, And the five foolish virgins represent such: for please notice their disposition to beg. So soon as they are awakened from their sleep they begin to beg for the oil of another. This had been their habit through life, and we should wonder not that in the resurrection they manifest the same disposition. But you ask: "Who in the church represents this class?" They are those who are continually allowing others to foot all bills. It takes money to do the work the Lord has left in our hands. Church houses must be built, provisions must be made for widows and orphans and the aged and the infirm, preachers must be supported, and song books and other literature must be paid for. Put who pays these bills? Those who give, of course. But I want to know if we do not have in our churches members who do practically nothing along this line? All their days in the church they were protected by houses they built not, used song books they gave not one cent for, seemingly rejoiced with a church that was helping the poor and they gave not a dime to such funds, and enjoyed preaching and others sustained the minister. What shall be said of such church members? They are the "foolish virgins," and will certainly suffer such a fate as declared in the parable if we succeed not in converting them. There can be no doubt about this. I sometimes allow myself to become an az d beyond measure at some members of the church. They seem to be interested in the work. They speak favorably of the work. But it is a stubborn fact that if all church members acted as do they, our church houses would be closed two-thirds of the time during the year and all lills would go unpaid. Why? Just because they attend church occasionally, seldom give, and are people upon whom the church cannot possibly depend. They are simply uncertain quantities in the church. Such need conversion that they may be saved from the sad end of the foolish virgins. Certainly our Lord's teaching lands on such in the church.

2. The Overseers in the Church. Paul called the elders of the church "bishops," or "overseers." (Read Acts 20: 28.) Now read what Christ says in the language already quoted from him: "Who then is the faithful and wise servant, whom his lord hath set over his bousehold, to give them their food in due season? Blessed is that servant, whom his lord when he cometh shall find so doing." There can be no doubt that this language is especially applicable to the overseers of the local church. How many elders today would stand condemned if called before God to give an account of their stewardship? Are they seeing after the members of the flock? Are there not dozens, and in some congregations hundreds, who are not doing their duty, and the elders say not one word to them about it? Po we not have in congregations the "hobo" members mentioned above, and not one time have they been approached by the elders for the purpose of being saved from their awful doom? Is it not possible that God will require the blood of these lost souls at the hands of negligent elders? The following scripture seems to so teach: "Again, when a righteous man doth turn from his righteousness, and commit briouity, and I lay a stumblingblock before him, he shall die: because thou hast not given him warning, he shall die in his sin, and his righteous deeds which he hath done shall not be remembered; but his blood will I require at thy hand" (Ezek. 3: 20.) Certainly this duty to save those who turn from God rests upon us all, but most especially upon those to whom Christ looks to oversee and feed his church. But, in many cases, instead of elders doing their God-ordained duty, they leave it undone and take another job-viz., they say, "My Lord tarrieth," and begin to mistreat their fellow servants and do things and say things that they would not, for the world, let the Lord catch them doing. But the Lord will "catch" them; rest assured of this fact. Our churches need elders filled with the Spirit of our Lord and Savior, men free from envy and jealousy, men who ever tremble at the teaching of our Lord. But in too many cases you will find that, instead of overseeing and feeding the church, the elders do not, half the time. know who are are members nor how they are living, but keep themselves quite busy doing things that respectable politicians would not do. Will such be classed as wise servants? I trow not.

May God help every member of the church to be struck with the terribleness of our being called away not ready. Get ready and stay ready—this is the only sane life we can possibly live. If every member of the church would do this, can you imagine the change in this old world? If every preacher and elder would do this, can you imagine the change?

In closing, I say with Paul: "Be not deceived; God is not mocked; for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall be also reap." (Gal. 6: 7.)

Pleased With Literature.

We are receiving a great many expressions commendatory of the Bible Lesson Helps for the first quarter in 1922. Orders are now being rapidly filled, and we urge all our patrons and friends to be prompt in order to avoid any delay in filling orders. Following are some expressions which we appreciate:

I have received and examined thoroughly the Advanced, Intermediate, and Primary Quarterlies. The comments on each lesson are arranged most readably. Each lesson is treated in a way unique and fills a long-standing need and demand. I regard the 1600 quarterlies the best I have ever seen, and I have had access to the quarterlies published by several churches. Brother McQuiddy, you have done the cause of Christ a great service in your 1922 quarterlies. May God's blessings he on this work. (T. B. Clark, Gallatin, Tenn.)

Nam in receipt of the Sunday-school literature for the first quarter of 1922, published by the McQuiddy Printing Company. I have always regarded this literature as a great help in the study of the lessons. Heretofore it has been ably edited, and highly appreciated wherever used, so far as I am informed. The lessons for the next quarter show much care in their preparation, and I have no doubt that they will give good satisfaction to all who use them; and every school and the churches should avail themselves of the help that can be derived from their use. I notice some improvements which were desirable. I never saw the real need of publishing both the King James Version and the Revised Version side by side. (James E. Scobey, Nashville, Tenn.)

I have just received the sample Quarterlies sent me for examination. After carefully examining them, I cheerfully say that they are good and complete in both the workmanship and explanatory notes, and I feel that the editors, Brother F. W. Smith and Brother F. B. Srygley, deserve much credit for this splendid work, and I heartly commend these quarterlies to the churches of Christ everywhere as a great aid in studying and teaching the Bible. (J. O. Barnes, Lake City, Fla.)

I have received copies of the Advanced, Intermediate, and Primary Quarterlies for the first quarter of 1922. I observe that the lessons are well arranged and graded, and ally edited. They are well suited for helps to Bible study in classes composed of various ages of students. The ability of the commentators is unquestioned. (Fred M. Little, Montgomery, Ala.)

I have very carefully examined the Advanced Quarterly, the Primary and Intermediate Quarterlies, prevared by Brethren F. W. Smith and F. B. Srygley. I am delighted with the work of these most excellent Bible expositors. The Advanced Quarterly, by Brother Smith, is superb. It is a genuine pleasure to study it. Brother Smith is scholarly, logical, and versatile. He puts life and vigor into the work. His arrangement of the lessons is fine. Brother Srygley has done his part very efficiently. I have never seen anything better. I predict for these Bible helps a warm reception by the churches of Christ throughout the entire brotherhood. (C. E. Holt, Florence, Ala.)

"In Christ Jesus "

BY LEE JACKSON.

In closing the eighth chapter of his epistle to the Christians in Rome, Paul says: "Nay, in all these things we are more than conquerors through him that loved us. For I am persuaded, that neither death, nor life, nor angels, nor principalities, nor things present, nor things to come, nor powers, nor height, nor depth, nor any other creature, shall be able to separate us from the love of God, which is in Christ Jesus our Lord." It is thus that he negatives any claim that may be put forth to the effect that God's promises of blessings and protection will fail of accomplishment to those who loyally put on Christ through obedience to his authority. In foretelling the coming of the Christ, the prophet said that he should "be as a hiding place from the wind, and a covert from the tempest; as rivers of water in a dry place, as the shadow of a great rock in a weary land." (Isa. 32: 2.) In writing to the Christians of Corinth, Paul says: "Of him [God] are ye in Christ Jesus. who was made unto us wisdom from God, and righteousness, and sanctification, and redemption: that, according as it is written. He that glorieth, let him glory in the Lord," (1 Cor. 1: 30, 31.)

A collation and comparative study of the many New Testament passages in which believers are spoken of as being "in Christ" and "in Christ Jesus" is both interesting and profitably instructive. If we do this as we find these passages throughout the Epistles and the book of Revelation, and then turn to the records of Matthew, Mark, Luke, and John and search for similar forms of expression regarding the disciples of Christ prior to his death, burial, and resurrection, we will at once become impressed by the absence of statements to the effect that the followers of Jesus were in him, or that they had been brought into him during his earthly ministry. Such forms of expression as being in "Christ Jesus" are always used with reference to the resurrected, coronated, and glorified Christ, and never with reference to the relationship of the disciples to Jesus as he lived in the flesh on earth. For instance, the preaching and baptisms administered by John did not bring men and women into Christ; and neither is the expression "in Christ Jesus" anywhere used prior to the day of Pentecost. It is true that in his discourse on the metaphor of the vine and its branches (John 15: 1-12) and in his prayer for his disciples (John 17), Jesus dwells upon the possibility and necessity for such intimate spiritual union with himself, but this teaching is all in prospective view of this union and communion being made possible through the death of the cross. When, just before his ascension, Jesus gave the commission, he said: "All authority hath been given unto me in heaven and on earth. Go ye therefore, and make disciples of all the nations, baptizing them into the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit: teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I have commanded you: and lo, I am with you always, even unto the end of the world." For a purpose I have underscored the "into" as used by our Savior in his statement of this commission. It is to be noted that not only does the Christ emphasize the fact of his being clothed with all authority, and that the gospel of salvation is to be proclaimed to the nations by virtue of that authority, but he also places especial emphasis upon the fact that under his reign men are to be brought into a state of relation to the divine government that had hitherto been unknown to those under the reign of sin. This state of relationship for man had been made possible through the obedience of Jesus unto death; and now that he is resurrected and coronated-"made both Lord and Christ" (Acts 2: 36)—the proclamation is to go forth to the world, and men and women have opened to them through the gospel a door of entrance into this glorious fellowship. This is expressed when the Redeemer says, "baptizing them into the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit." In highly exaiting him, the Father hath given to the Son a name that is above every name (Phil. 2: 9), and in him all fullness dwells (Col. 1: 19); so that, in being brought into relationship to his divine name, sinners are brought into a fellowship that means for them the enjoyment of all gospel privileges, blessings, and promises. This is the meaning of being baptized into Christ and of putting on Christ. (Gal. 3: 27.)

In thinking of the partisan rivalries, contentions, and sectarian discussions which have so long prevailed and which are now prevailing among the professed followers of Christ, this line of study suggested by the passages which treat of being "in Christ Jesus" as the aim and end of being baptized into him becomes all the more interesting and profitable. Sectarian partisans have discussed and rediscussed questions relative to baptism as a door into what has been called the "church," and have contended about being baptized into the wrong "church" and about the necessity for a rebaptism in order to put them into the right "church," whereas in the light of the passages referred to it is seen that scriptural baptism as the active expression of belief in Christ puts penitent sinners into a saved relationship in "Christ Jesus"-into the ever-living, glerified and exalted Christ. In the apostolic age "churches "-as congregations of worshiping men and women who belonged to Christ-existed as the result of persons being baptized into Christ under the apostolic ministry. "churches" or congregations, spoken of in the plural, are mentioned as existing in Judea, Macedonia, Asia Minor, Galatia, and as scattered throughout other provinces of the Roman Empire. The primary idea in the meaning of their baptism is that the persons composing these "churches" or congregations were brought into union and communion with Christ, and then their association together as worshiping assemblies was the necessary result of a loyal observance of the "all things" commanded in the commission. Jesus said, "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved:" and as the faith of the commission is faith in the Christ as man's Savior, and as it is not faith in a system of doctrine which may be made void through lack of understanding, I am persuaded that the believing sinner who loyally obeys his Savior will not miss the pardon or remission of his sins which is in "Christ Jesus," All merit is in Christ, and not in the sinner himself; therefore, as the Savior has vouchsafed his promise of salvation to the believing sinner who is baptized, it is not to be taken for granted that a lack of understanding on the part of the believer will make void the Savior's promise.

It is sometimes said that Alexander Campbell restored the apostolic church, and that we as a people are that one "church of Christ" which Campbell restored. When I hear a brother make a statement like that, I at once know that he does not understand the meaning of the restoration movement of Campbell, and I also know that he is using an unscriptural form of speech through lack of a proper understanding of the New Testament use of the term "church" as simply meaning congregation. Testament writers never speak of the one "church of Christ" as covering the broad territory of any State or province; it is always an expression in the plural form, as "churches" or "churches of Christ," meaning congregations of men and women who belong to Christ by virtue of the fact that they had been "baptized into Christ." If, then, we say that the work of Alexander Campbell has restored to the world "churches of Christ," as patterned after the apostolic order, we will at least avoid an unscriptural form of expression. Whether this can be stated as in all respects true of the results of Campbell's labors is another question. As the gospel of the apostolic age spread abroad throughout the various parts of the then known world, men and women were made believers in the Christ as their Savior-they were baptized into Christ—and the churches of Christ spoken of in the New Testament were simply the scattered congregations of persons who had been thus brought into a saved relationship to Christ. And this being baptized into "Christ Jesus" is equivalent to being translated by baptism into the kingdom, as Paul says to the Colossians. (Col. 1: 13.) A deliverance from the power of darkness into a state of liberty unknown to man from the time of expulsion from Eden until Christ made it possible.

"Must Jesus Bear the Cross Alone?"

BY R. P. CUFF.

"And he called unto him the multitude with his disciples, and said unto them, If any man would come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow me." (Mark 8: 34.) Any man who desires to be a disciple of Christ, to live the Christian life—who wishes to "come after" Jesus—must renounce his selfish aims, his prejudices and narrow conceptions that center in himself, and must take up his cross and follow Jesus. To follow him, he must accept Jesus as a pattern, an example for imitation, and he must see that his self-denial and cross-bearing are continuous. The person who essays to be a Christian had as well know that when the emoluments of earth do not come to him and worldly honors flee, that is part of the cross he has to bear. He need not expect to find life in the kingdom of Christ the same as out in the world.

Do you think that no man to-day would sell Jesus for thirty pieces of silver if he had the chance? Do you think there is none who would betray him to his enemies? Do you think no one would deny him in a time of impending danger? When a Christian is in the association of Christians, surrounded by the waving banners of those who are loyal to their King, and in the midst of happy hosannas, it would seem rather strange if he did not uphold the cause of Christ. But when he is in the company of people unfaithful to the King, who delight in sneering at anything called religion, who discourage the doing of good, and who laugh at the fear of God-ah!-will he be true to Jesus then, or will he be ashamed of his King, his Master, and his Redeemer? Will he bear the cross or surrender in shame to the sneering upstarts who have more red blood than common sense or godliness?

Crosses are not made of velvet, plush, or satin; nor of emery, carborundum, or diamond; but they are of a hardness that lies between these two extremes. The cross on which Jesus died was wooden. Every Christian has his own God-given cross to bear. Though the taking up of the cross may call for labor, sorrow, and humiliation, yet it is by no means so difficult as to be impossible. Let a man approach his cross with boldness and patience and perseverance. Let him remember that he can carry it, like a man, with greater ease than he can permit it to drag the ground. Let him remember that Jesus has blazed the way and borne a cross of ignominy and cruelty, and that, no matter how rough the road nor how heavy the cross, Jesus has walked that way before, and borne a cross far surpassing his in heaviness. He is only "coming after" the great Sufferer of Calvary's hill.

No need to shirk. No need to murmur. No need to whine and complain. The cross must be borne. There's no other way to the crown. "They way of the cross leads home." Only those "who once went sorrowing here" will have the privilege at last to "taste unmingled love, and joy without a tear." Sorrows must be met, sufferings and persecutions endured, reproaches and bitter thrusts faced valiantly. Man's heart, energy, power, talent, time—everything with which God has endowed him—must be consecrated to the service of the Master. These are but other ways of saying that a man must take up his cross.

Suppose one should say to himself: "That picture of taking up the cross seems—O!--so dark. Cross-bearing is too taxing and severe. It would mean a galling burden. I do not feel equal to the weight of it. I prefer to continue to exalt self. I prefer not to face any persecution for Jesus' sake. I shall bear no cross?" Ah! but he mistakes. It is not galling. There is blessedness in walking the way the Master has gone. It is fatal to dash blindly in a direction where he has left no footprints. There will be no crown of rich beauty and eternal glory, save for those who have "come after" Jesus in taking up the cross.

"Must Jesus bear the cross alone, And all the world go free? No, there's a cross for ev'ry one, And there's a cross for me."

Knowledge of God, Past and Present.

BY H. C. FLEMING.

"The times of ignorance therefore God overlooked; but now, he commandeth men that they should all everywhere repent." (Acts 17: 30.) These people whom Paul was addressing were the most intelligent of any of their time. but the sight of their idols and their gross superstitions aroused Paul to teach them the knowledge of the only true God and his requirements of them. They once had the knowledge of God, but had drifted away from it into the follies and wickedness of worshiping idols. Not only these, but all the ancient peoples of whom we have any history, had done the same. See the history of Egypt, Assyria, Babylon, the Medes and Persians, Romans, etc. All these committed horrible crimes in their idolatrous worship, and even the Israelites often followed their example. They made their children pass through the fire, and cast their infants into extremely heated fiery furnaces.

It seems strange to us that, after they had once had the knowledge of God and the understanding of their origin, they should drift away into such abominable practices. For the cause of this let Paul answer: "And even as they refused to have God in their knowledge, God gave them up unto a reprobate mind, to do those things which are not fitting." (Rom. 1: 28.) For the crimes he charges them with, see verses 29-32.

But only a few, comparatively speaking, of the people of Athens turned from their evil ways. He who reads history finds that thus it has been with the majority of people in the past and on to the present. The same results have followed the not retaining God in mind from then until now. Call to mind the persecutions of Christians by pagan Rome and that of papal Rome in the Dark Ages, coming to a climax in the Inquisition.

Do we want these things repeated? Surely not; but if the world keeps onward in its downward course in substituting for the law of God the commandments and doctrines of men, the result will be the same. Men will grow worse and worse, deceiving and being deceived. (2 Tim. 3: 13.)

Christ said to his disciples: "Ye are the sait of the earth: but if the salt have lost its savor, wherewith shall it be salted? It is thenceforth good for nothing, but to be cast out and trodden under foot of men." (Matt. 5: 13.) The Lord would have spared the cities of Sodom and Gomorrah if there could have been found ten righteous persons therein. (Gen. 18: 32.) It is for the sake of the righteous now on the earth that God is delaying its destruction by fire. (2 Pet. 3: 10.) Therefore, what manner of persons should Christians be? (See verses 11, 12.)

But some will say: "What can poor, weak mortals do?" Much every way. We can pray to God always; watch ourselves, lest we be carried away on the overflowing tide of evil; oppose all innovations, contend earnestly for the faith, suffer hardships as good soldiers of Jesus Christ; as far as we can, relieve the suffering of those in distress, and in many other things that seem insignificant bring to ourselves a degree of boldness in the service of our Lord; continue faithful to the end, thus securing for ourselves and all that we can influence the crown of righteousness which the Lord will give to us and to all we have been instrumental in teaching the knowledge of God. (2 Tim. 4: 7.8.)

There is no end to doing as long as we live and are able to do any kind of work, no matter how small it may be. Little things grow to large ones and in the end constitute great affairs. The promise is to those who have been faithful over a few things that they shall be rulers over many. This requires a knowledge of those few things in which we are to be faithful, and the continual keeping that knowledge in mind, lest we become forgetful hearers and not doers of the work; to give the more earnest heed to the things we have known, lest at any time we should let them slip away from us and become like the nations of old.

Georgia and the Far Southern Field By B. C. GOODPASTURE

God in the Choice of Ruth.

In a former article attention was called to the prominent recognition of God in the book of Ruth. There are times when it is specially commendable to be true to God. Such were the times during which the events mentioned in Ruth took place.

It would not be so difficult to serve God if everybody else Even the covetous Ananias and Sapphira could give a "certain part" of the price of their possession when "as many as were possessors of lands or houses sold them, and brought the prices of the things that were sold, and laid them at the apostles' feet," that distribution might be made "according as any one had need." But such was not the case with Naomi and Ruth. The days were evil. "And it came to pass in the days when the judges judged, that there was a famine in the land." (Ruth 1: 1.) At this point the last verse of the book of Judges is very significant: "In those days there was no king in Israel; every man did that which was right in his own eyes." "Those days" refers to the last years of the rule of the judges. While they may not be wholly contemporaneous with the times of Ruth, yet they give a pretty good index to the prevailing condition of affairs at the time she lived. When every man does that which is right in his own eyes, every man does much which is not right in the Lord's eyes. This wholesale devotion of every man to his own ways indicates a serious lack of reverence for God. But Ruth was a Moabitess, and Naomi sojourned in the land of Moab -facts which were by no means conducive to faith in the living God. The religion of the Moabites was exceedingly degrading. They worshiped, with unmentionable rites, Chemosh. The condition of affairs in Israel and Moab presents a dark background against which the faith in God as presented in the book and life of Ruth stands forth in bold relief. It is little wonder that the name of Ruth is loved wherever the Bible has gone.

The Lord is not mentioned so frequently in connection with the life of Ruth as in connection with that of Naomi; but when he is mentioned, it is at a crucial moment. When it comes to deciding between the Moabites and the Israelites, between the family of Elimelech and her father's, between the site of her birth and childhood residence and Bethlehem, between the god she had known from her mother's knee and Naomi's God, Ruth chooses Jehovah. The selection of the god of one's life is the most important choice in the world. It is the one choice upon which is suspended the destiny of man here and hereafter. It costs Ruth her all to select and serve Jehovah, but in him she finds more than her all. In Israel she finds more than she left behind among the purple hills of Moab; in Jehovah she receives infinitely more than she lost in Chemosh.

Ruth is to be greatly praised for this choice. She casts her lot with the forces of truth, when she might more easily have enisted in the armies of error. She stems the tide of idolatry in Moab and the flood of indifference and self-sufficiency in Israel. Who is it that cannot admire her independence and decision of character? Who is it that will not imitate her fidelity to God in the midst of overwhelming odds?

There are those who feel that the circumstances under which they live are so unfavorable that all effort toward right living must necessarily be fruitless. Sometimes a man will say: "You preachers can live right easy enough; but if you had my job, you could not. It cannot be done." A man never speaks in this manner except when there is something wrong with him or his occupation, or both. If a man's occupation is wrong within itself, he should give it up at once. If the trouble is the opposition or persecution to be expected from the evil one, let a man nerve himself for his day of battle; for he can overcome through the assisting might of the Lord. (1 Cor. 10: 13.) Godly lives in the midst of an unfriendly and evil world shine forth like the stars of the firmament. The darker the night, the more the stars are needed. To all who might become discouraged under the pressure of surrounding evils and difficulties we would say: "Remember Boaz' wife," (Ruth 4: 13.) 0 0

Fallen Asleep.

Brother J. A. Perdue, aged seventy-three, of Athens, Ga., died at the home of his sister, Mrs. J. H. Johnson, of this city, on Thursday evening, November 24. While Brother Perdue's health had not been good for some time, yet his death was sudden and unexpected. In his death the church loses a noble servant. He was a pioneer preacher of the gospel in this State, having devoted almost fifty years of his life to the ministry of the word. He preached much in destitute fields, desiring, like Paul, to "preach the gospel, not where Christ was already named," lest he should "build upon another man's foundation." Through his self-denial, sacrifices, and godly life, "he being dead yet speaketh." "Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord." The funeral services were conducted at the residence of J. H. Johnson, a brother-in-law of the deceased, on Friday afternoon. The writer officiated, being assisted by Hugh E. Garrett and Don Hockaday. The body was taken to Athens, Ga., for interment. ***** *

The Work at Rome, Ga.

The church at Rome has grown recently, rapidly, and remarkably. Two years ago, when Brother C. C. McCampbell came to Rome, the congregation had a membership of sixteen. The first year there were twenty-five additions; besides, a number of brethren from other congregations came to Rome and cast their lot with the congregation there. During last winter and the following summer ninetyfour more were added. Eighty-four of these were added during four tent meetings conducted by Brother McCampbell last summer. The membership of the congregation is now not far from the two-hundred mark. The unusual progress of this church appears still more remarkable when we consider the fact that Brother McCampbell is a regular barber as well as a preacher. We can but wonder what he would accomplish if he should give all his time to preaching the gospel. This very thing the church in Rome intends for him to do in the near future. The congregation is to be commended for this. It will mean much to the cause of Christ. Without any human societies or organizations, Brother McCampbell and the Rome congregation have preached the gospel with results that remind us of apostolic times. When the church, God's all-sufficient and alone-sufficient missionary society, preaches the word, good results are sure to follow.

Q

AT HOME AND ABROAD

"O, why should the spirit of mortal be proud?"

W. A. Cameron is in a good meeting at Palatka, Fla.

"The injured may forgive, the injurer seldom does."

Brother and Sister Larimore have returned to California.

A. A. Bunner is engaged in evangelistic work in South-eastern Ohio and West Virginia.

"Errors like straws upon the surface float; those who search for pearls must dive below."

Lee Sanders is now located with the church at Wellington, Texas. He reports two additions at a recent service.

H. D. Jeffcoat, of Ackerman, Miss., is anxious to get in touch with J. M. Dennis, He does not know his address.

Brother McQuiddy has been absent from the office for several days on account of illness. We are glad to report that he is some better.

W. M. Mann has changed his address from Lockhart to Holland, Texas. Prother Mann will preach at Holland two Sundays in the month.

The elders of the church at Washington, D. C., have en gaged Brother Larimore for a meeting in 1922. The exact date will be announced later.

Fred M. Little, of Montgomery. Ala., writes to tell us that the churches in Scuthern Alabama are planning a vigorous evangelistic campaign for destitute places.

In a recent list of the elders of the church at Columbus, Ohio, the name of C. H. Benjamin was omitted. This was an unintentional oversight on the part of Brother Bunner, which we are glad to correct at his request.

The brethren at Oldfort, Tenn., would like to correspond with disciples relative to locating among them. There is a good business opportunity along several lines. Address W. M. Wilson.

Changes of address: Leslie G. Thomas, from 615 West Fifth Street to 619 Fox Street, Flint, Mich.; J. H. Monk, from 213 South Alfred Street, Alexandria, Va., to 1488 Meridian Place, Washington, D. C.

From J. G. Malphurs, Clarksville, Tenn., November 28; "I was at Rose Hill last week in a Bible class with the church. Splendid interest; two baptisms. The work at Legate is very prosperous. They hope to have their house ready by Christmas."

The members of the Highland Park congregation, in Montgomery, Ala., gave Brother and Sister J. L. Hines a happy surprise party recently. About seventy-five persons came to his home, bringing good things to nourish the body and cheer the heart.

Ira C. Moore, one of the editors of the Christian Leader, writes to F. W. Smith: "I think your review and exposure of R. H. Boll's foolish and speculative theories about the kingdom of Christ and his reign on earth are deserving of special mention."

Our readers will find in this issue an elaborate list of books that are suitable for gifts at attractive prices. We know of nothing more appropriate or more beautiful to give a relative or friend than a well-bound Bible. Send us your order early, and we will give it prompt attention.

Sister Lula Causey is anxious for a gospel preacher to be sent to Concord, N. C., in order that a congregation be established after the New Testament order. There are only two or three members there. Here is a fine opportunity for some strong congregation to do some fine mission work. Her address is 23 Houston Street.

Nothing short of "glorious" describes the meeting that was concluded at Eighth Avenue, North, this city, on Tuesday evening As we went to press there was a report of fifty-five additions, including forty-two baptisms. A. D. Dies has done some splendid preaching, and God has richly rewarded his effort. He is now in a meeting at Twenty-second Avenue, North.

From T. B. Clark, Gallatin, Tenn., November 28: "The work here is very encouraging in every particular. We have good crowds and fine interest at nearly all services.

I am following H. L. Olmstead, who lived and preached here for eight years. He left of his own accord. He has many warm friends here, both in and cut of the church. It is very pleasant to follow a man like Brother Olmstead."

From M. C. Cayce, Jackson, Miss.: "Our meeting here began Sunday. The attendance is not large. It is an inopportune time. A Baptist meeting is in progress close by and the Methodist Conference is here this week. I did not know of either until the meeting had been announced. Any one knowing persons in or near Jackson that I might interest will please send names and addresses to me at 143 Wacaster Street."

From James E. Chessor, Spencer, Tenn., November 30: "R. E. L. Taylor, of Decherd, Tenn., closed an eight-days' meeting here on Monday night, with twenty-one baptisms and seven restorations. Large crowds were in attendance and interest grew from the first service. A four-inch snowfall Monday did not prevent a crowd assembling at a baptismal service. There was one reclamation at the last service. Several of those baptized were pupils in Burritt College. Brother Taylor is a tireless worker and endeared himself with the brethren. They have called him for another meeting."

From T. B. Thompson, Huntsville, Ala., December 3: "I have resumed work in Huntsville after a two-weeks' trip to Avon Park, Fla., being called there on business. I preached four times while there to appreciative audiences, and at their earnest solicitation I am under promise to return to them for a season before many months. The work here in Huntsville moves along fairly well; nevertheless, there are many things in which we may and expect to Improve. There are some noble souls here, and, with their cooperation, I have reason to believe much good can be done. The other three churches are moving along in the usual way."

From H. D. Jeffcoat, Ackerman, Miss., November 30: "The work at all the places where I go moves gloriously onward. I was at Hamilton on the third Lord's day, and found the faithful few greatly encouraged. Oscar Arms having decided to stay in Mississippi another year is one reason, and another was that the Twelfth Avenue church of Christ, Nashville, Tenn., had sent Sister Joe E. Johnson a very encouraging letter, with a check for twenty-five dollars. I was at Kitchener last Lord's day. They are young, but are developing fast. The work at Nile goes on under the They are young, but are developing fast. leadership of J. M. Sanders. He writes me that they have moved a sawmill near and are working in the timber, getting ready to build. So far they have received seven dollars and fifty cents from three contributors. May God bless all who have helped. Pray for the work in Mississippi."

Mrs. James E. Scobey writes: "In Columbia, Tenn., two brothers and the wife of the oldest brother died in the short space of three and one-half months. In the last week of August. 1921. T. Wallace Sowell was the first to be called by death. Mrs. Josie Darnell Sowell crossed over the dark river on November 14, and on November 26 ber husband, William T. Sowell, was suddenly called to join the dear ones gone before to the spirit land. If she had lived until November 19, they would have been married forty-eight years. Three faithful Christian soldiers have fallen in life's battle with faces turned heavenward. They leave many sad and aching hearts, who, with the cause of Christ, suffer great loss."

Sister Scobey and all the relatives have the sympathy of all the editors of the Gospel Advocate in their unusual bereavement.

J. H. Hines writes: "The three churches of Christ in Montgomery, Ala., came together last night at the Catoma Street church house for the purpose of getting closer to-More than four gether in the great work of our Savior. hundred Christians were present, and every soul was caused to rejoice over the meeting. I can truly say that I have never enjoyed a meeting more than this one. Fred M. Little opened the meeting and, after prayer, spoke on 'Co-operation.' He was followed by the writer. Brother Comer spoke on 'Unity.' Charles Landiers, of Pensacola, Fla., cn 'Gratitude;' Brother Barnes, of Pitt, Ala., on 'Plans;' Brother Watson, on 'Our Duty,' The spirit of enthusiasm ran The work in and around Montgomery is progressing high. The work in and around Montgomery is progressing nicely, but we are not satisfied with the present conditions. Catoma Street Church is going to support an evangelist next year. Highland Park Church is going to erect a new church house. The stronger churches in South Alabama are going to support two evangelists next year to evangelize South Alabama. Our Lord worked; so must we work."

Conducted for a half century by D. Lipscomb and E. G. Sewell,

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

$2.50 a year, in advance; to Canada and foreign countries; $3.00, m advance

$2.50 a year, in advance; to Canada and foreign countries; $3.00, in advance.

Bemittances will be at our risk when sent by express or post-office money order, in registered letter, or by draft payable to our order.

When changing your post-office address, tell us your old as well as your new address; otherwise two papers might be charged to you. The date on your tab shows the time to which your subscription is paid. When money is received, the date will be changed, which will answer for a receipt. Two weeks time must ordinarily occur from the time your remittance is sent before the tab on your paper is changed; if not changed by that time, notify us at once.

This paper is mailed regularly to all subscribers until definite orders in writing are received and all arrearages paid in full. If you wish us to stop your paper, write us to that effect; but do not ask it unless you have paid all arrears, if there are any. Do not ask your postmaster to attend to it for you, but do it yourself.

Subscribers, after paying for their papers, will favor us by noting whether the date on the address label is changed, and, if it is not changed within a month, by writing to us. We are careful, but mistakes may occur or letters may be lost. Our rule is to change the date on the day payment is received; but the mechanical work of correcting and printing the list takes time, and payments even from near-by places may not appear the first week. Credits for payments from a distance may be even more delayed. Mistakes are easily rectified if prompt notice is given. from a distance may be even more delayed. Mistakes are easily rectified if prompt notice is given.

All communications should be addressed to Gospel Advocate, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

Guarantee of Advertising.

Guarantee of Advertising.

All the advertisements in this paper are, we believe, signed by trustworthy persons. To prove our faith by works, we will make good to actual subscribers any loss sustained in trusting advertisers who prove to be deliberate swindlers. We shall not attempt to adjust trifling disputes between subscribers and honorable business men who advertise, nor pay the debts of honest bankrupts. To make this guarantee effective, in all cases say in writing advertisers, "I saw your advertisement in the Gospel Advocate;" and if anything goes wrong, notify us immediately in writing.

JACOBS & CO., ADVERTISING MANAGERS, Clinton, S. C.

Entered at post office at Nashville, Tenn., as second-class matter. Published weekly at Nashville, Tenn.

Review of O. E. Payne's Book on "Psallo." BY M. C. K.

CHAPTER III.

THE FUNCTION AND AUTHORITY OF LEXICONS.

In this chapter and the one immediately following, with possibly a third, in addition to settling the meaning of the special word psallo if the highest lexical authority can settle it, it is the purpose to present the proper place of the lexicon and its authority in the settlement of disputed questions in general. With all right-thinking persons who carefully read the book here under review and who understand the legitimate function and limits of a lexicon, its uncouth and arbitrary handling of this class of witnesses, and especially its handling of Thayer and Sophocles, will be a heavy discount on its reliability; but, without leaving the matter to rest upon a mere assertion, I shall present the facts and let them speak for themselves in verification of the statement.

To simplify the argument from the lexicons and make it the more intelligible to the reader, I think it proper to present the matter in the way of an answer to the two following questions; (1) What was the original or primary meaning of psallo? (2) What were its applied meanings in classic Greek and in the New Testament? On both of these questions the facts of history are clear and explicit, and it is the purpose to summon enough of them to put the matter beyond all reasonable doubt or dispute.

To the average student, nothing is more interesting in the study of philology than the process of change and modification in the history of words. This, however, does not necessarily mean, as some have hastily and incorrectly concluded, that the original idea in a word is necessarily lost because the word has undergone various and even radical changes. There are instances in which it is completely lest and no longer appears in any current use of the term. The word "book" is a vivid example in point. In current usage, as is generally understood even by the common people, it means, as Webster says, "a collection of sheets of paper bound together, printed or not. A composition; a treatise." But not only is this not the original idea, which is now completely lost in all usages of the term, but I doubt if one person in a thousand ever heard of the original idea. It traces back to the Anglo-Saxon word bece, meaning "beech," and a literary composition was called "book" because the ancient Saxons of the third and fourth centuries "wrote on beechen board."

The word "soldier" is another vivid example in point. In current usage, it always and everywhere means "one engaged in military service," and even in the figurative uses of the term, some of which occur in the New Testament, the same idea is preserved. But this is the width of the poles from the original idea in the word, which is now completely lost in all uses of the term, and I doubt, precisely as in the case of the term "book," if one person in a thousand ever even heard of the original idea. The term traces back to the Latin word solidus, meaning a piece of money which was the pay of one engaged in military service, and hence one so engaged came to be called a "soldier."

But there are other instances of radical change in the meaning of words in which the original idea persists through all the various mutations of a word and may be plainly seen in every usage it ever had whether literal or figurative. Both the words baptizo and psallo, as we shall see, are examples in point. We are now ready to consider facts on the two proposed lines of investigation.

1. What was the original or primary meaning of psallo? It is purely a waste of time, in such a case, to quote a large number of lexicons of inferior rank, and I shall therefore confine myself, in the present case, to the very highest authority in both classic and New Testament Greek. Speaking for the former, the eminent lexicon of Liddell & Scott says: "Psallo, to touch sharply, to pluck, pull, twitch." There, in clear and explicit terms, we have the original meaning of the word. Let the reader carefully note that, in this original meaning, nothing is said about any particular object that one might "touch sharply," "pluck," "pull," or "twitch." In other words, the term merely meant "to touch sharply, to pluck, pull, twitch," regardless of the object that might be touched, plucked, pulled, or twitched.

Speaking for New Testament Greek, Joseph Henry Thayer's world-renowned lexicon says; "Psallo, to pluck off, pull out: to cause to vibrate by touching, to twang." Again let it be noted that no particular object inheres in the original meaning of the term to the exclusion of other objects, the word merely meaning "to pluck off, pull out, to cause to vibrate by touching, to twang," regardless of the object that one might pluck off, pull out, cause to vibrate by touching, or twang. According to these same high authorities, several Greek words, of which psallo is one, all trace back to the original root psao, which Liddell & Scott define as meaning "to touch lightly, rub, wipe, rub smooth," and Thayer, "to rub, wipe; to handle, touch," and that, too, without reference to any particular object to the exclusion of others; and in this respect, as we have seen, it is like its derivative psallo.

Hence, if we are to respect the highest authority in the world to-day in both classic and New Testament Greek, the original and primary meaning of psallo was to touch or strike, not the strings of a musical instrument necessarily, nor any other particular object necessarily, but merely to touch or strike whatever the object might be. And hence, we are face to face with the irresistible conclusion that neither playing nor singing, neither instrumental music nor vocal music, inheres in the original meaning of the word psallo, but that it merely meant to touch or strike, and the object touched or struck might be one thing or another according to the circumstances of the case. And this opens the way for our second question.

- 2. What were the applied meanings of psallo in classic Greek and in the New Testament? In other words, to extend the question so as to cover the entire field of Greek literature, how was the word used by those who spoke and wrote the Greek language both in the classic period and in the New Testament and cotemporaneous literature? Turning again to Liddell & Scott, we find the following applied meanings:
- (1) Back to the remote period of the Greek tragic poet, Æschylus, four hundred years before Christ, it meant "to pluck the hair."
- (2) At the time of the Athenian poet, Euripides, who was partly cotemporaneous with Æschylus, it meant "to twang the bowstring."
- (3) In the Anthologia Palatina, made up of selections of various dates from Greek literature, but all before Christ, this example appears: "Schoinos miltophures psallomene, a carpenter's red line, which is twitched and then suddenly let go, so as to leave a mark."
- (4) "Mostly of the string of musical instruments, to play a stringed instrument with the fingers, and not with the plectron."
- (5) "Later, to sing to a harp, Septuagint Ps. 7: 17; 9:11; Eph. 5: 19; psallo to pneumati, 1 Cor. 14: 15."
- (6) Agreeing with and confirming this for the classic period, Thayer says: "Septuagint for niggen and much oftener for zimmer; to sing to the music of the harp."
- (7) Thayer then adds: "In the New Testament to sing a hymn, to celebrate the praises of God in song."

Now, from all the premises thus supplied by these, the world's most eminent lexicographers who define Greek in English, the word psallo, extending over a period of about five hundred years, passed through the following modifications or applied meanings-namely, it meant to pluck the hair, to twang a bowstring, to twitch a carpenter's line, to play a stringed musical instrument, to sing to a musical instrument, and finally to sing. And let the reader never forget that from the very earliest usage of the word, while it retained and carried through all its subsequent mutations its original meaning to touch or strike some object, yet no particular object inhered in the word to the exclusion of other objects. Neither the hair, a bowstring, a carpenter's line, the strings of a musical instrument, nor the human heart inhered in the word, but through five hundred years of its history it came to be applied to all of them. Hence, to Anglicize the verb psallo, one, at different periods of its history, could psallo with the hair, psallo with a bowstring, psallo with a carpenter's line, psallo with the strings of a musical instrument, and psallo with the human heart. Thus it is clearly seen that the word carried its original meaning to touch or strike through all its changes even in its last sense "to sing," though here, as we shall presently see, its use is figurative, precisely as the word baptizo carries its original meaning to immerse in its figurative use in the New Testament. Thus, persons completely possessed by or overwhelmed with the Holy Spirit were figuratively said to be baptized in it. The same figurative use of baptizo is found in Greek Ilterature outside of the New Testament. In The Educator, Clement of Alexandria says: "For drowsy is every one who is not watchful for wisdom, but is baptized (baptizomenos) by drunkenness into sleep." (Book II., chapter 2.) Of course "plunge," or some equivalent term, would be a correct translation of this Greek participle into English, and "sprinkle" or "pour" would be out of the question.

Isidorus, a writer of the fifth century of the Christian era, says: "Most men, therefore, baptized (bebaptismenoi) in ignorance, have their minds incapacitated for consolation with reference to afflictions; but those, on the contrary, who are governed by sound reason, repel them all." (Book II., Epistle 76.) Here again, to translate the term into English, we must say "immersed in ignorance," or use some equivalent expression. Numerous similar examples could be given.

Now, on precisely the same principle, when psallo came to mean to sing, it was a figurative use of the term-that is, singing was figuratively striking the vocal chords or chords of the human heart just as one of its classical meanings was literally to strike the chords of a musical instrument. The author of the book here under review, pages 86 and 122, attempts to ridicule the idea of "striking," "touching," or "plucking the chords of the human heart" as a figurative use of psallo, and even says that I "deduced" the idea from Robert Milligan. But, independent of anything in the Bible on such a point, the merest novice in the use of metaphorical language knows that this is a correct characterization of this use of the term, and I shall now present facts which show that not only I, but the learned Robert Milligan and all others who properly read and respect the New Testament have "deduced" a complete confirmation of the idea from Paul the apostle. In my book on music, referring to Thayer's definition of psallo as used in the New Testament and his omission therefrom of all its classic meanings, I state the fact that "when this prince of New Testament lexicographers comes to the New Testament period, he omits all of these meanings, and limits it to touching the chords of the human heart." On page 86 of his book, this man Payne, referring to the words "touching the chords of the human heart," says they "are totally untrue." Now, this rash and groundless statement, as we shall see, is another illustration of the utter unreliability of this book. Its author seems to be of the opinion that his bare assertion, when he has nothing else to offer, is sufficient to carry his point. Let the reader now note the facts. I said that Thayer, in defining psallo in the New Testament, limited it to "touching the chords of the human heart." All that is necessary to prove that my statement is totally true instead of "totally untrue" is to appeal to Thayer's own words. Here they are: "In the New Testament to sing a hymn, to celebrate the praises of God in song." Thus, he does not give even the remotest hint that psallo means anything else in the New Testament but to sing; but if this is not limiting it to "touching the chords of the human heart," then what other "chords" are touched or what else is done when persons sing? Moreover, as to the absurd position that Thayer does not say it does not mean something else in the New Testament, anybody, capable of judging such matters, knows that if psallo had some other meaning in the New Testament and he failed to give it, he would be a wholly unreliable New Testament lexicographer.

Let us here raise the very pertinent question, what is the function of a lexicon? It is to define words. But, in such a connection, what does "define" mean? Webster says: "To fix the bounds of," "to mark the limits of," A lexicon, then, is "to fix the bounds" or "to mark the limits of" words. Of course this means that it must fix such "bounds" or such "limits" as include all that belongs to the meaning of the word, and everything not so included is excluded. Hence, the correct definition of words is both inclusive and exclusive. It includes all that the word means, and whatever it does not include is excluded from the meaning of the word; otherwise it is no correct definition at all. This is the meaning and scope of a lexicon. But, according to the author of this book, since persons dance as well as play the piano as an accompaniment of singing, therefore to sing means to dance! If not, why not? Yet in his book, page 101, he makes the lame statement: "If a newspaper were reporting the public appearance of a Jenny Lind" and should state "that she 'sang,'" though it did not mention an instrument, "every intelligent reader would suppose, as a matter of course, that there was a piano accompaniment." But "every intelligent reader would" know that neither the piano nor any other instrument made by human hands was in the word sing any more than dance is in it. Of course singing can be accompanied by the piano or by any other instrument just as it can be accompanied by the dance, but neither the piano nor any other such instrument nor the dance is in the word sing; and we have seen that the eminent New Testament lexicographer, Thayer, marks the limits of psallo in the New Testament by the word "sing."

Now, it so happens that Paul, in one passage, confirms this use of psallo in the New Testament as figurative, thus: "Speaking one to another in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing and making melody with your heart to the Lord." (Eph. 5; 19.) The words "making meledy" in this passage represent the word psallo in its participial form; and whether we take the word "heart" as the instrument with which or the object on which the psalloing is done, in either case it is a figurative use of psallo, for it is impossible either to strike or touch the heart or to strike or touch something else with the heart literally: but in singing, there is, speaking figuratively, a striking or touching the vocal chords, or "chords of the human heart," just as in the ancient classical meaning of the word there was a literal striking of the chords of a musical instrument. As the scholarly Robert Milligan expressed it: "The antithesis here," in such a use of psallo, "is certainly very marked and seems to be intentional and significant." (Scheme of Redemption, page 386.)

Finally, for profound learning and wide research in the whole field of Biblical lore, Robert Milligan, at the time of his death in 1875, was perhaps unsurpassed by any of his cotemporaries, and he was particularly versed in the meaning of Greek and Hebrew words. I close this chapter with the following comment on psallo by this pious and learned man:

"The word psalm is from the Greek noun psalmos and this again from the verb psallo, to touch, to feel, to play on a stringed instrument with the fingers, and, finally, to make music or melody in the heart as in Eph. 5: 19. The meaning of the noun corresponds with that of the verb and denotes a touching, a playing on a stringed instrument, any song or ode. And hence it is evident that the word psalm may or may not refer to instrumental music. Its proper meaning, in any and every case, must be determined by the context. And, according to this fundamental law of interpretation, it is pretty evident that, in Ephesians and Colossians, the term psalmos has no reference to instrumental music; for, in both cases, it is the strings or chords of the heart, and not of an instrument, that are to be touched." ("Scheme of Redemption," page 380.)

The Church.

BY J. C. M'Q.

A well-informed and worthy brother requests me to write an article on "The Church." He himself gives some good ideas, which I publish for the benefit of our readers:

Editor Gospel Advocate: Knowing you to be expert in answering all, or almost all, Bible questions, I come to you with a few as I think important ones that I would like to see as thoroughly ventilated through the columns of the Gospel Advocate as you can do. We are a people who lay claim to speaking where the Bible speaks and to calling Bible things by Bible names. I have the "Emphatic Dia-glott," by Wilson, and before me the "Living Oracles," by Macknight, Doddridge, and Campbell, and I have not been able to find the word "church" in either translation, but they invariably give us the word "congregation." Which of the two words is the better rendering of the Greek ckkleesia, or is it not an unfortunate thing that we have the word "church" at all in our Bibles? See Smith's "Dic-tionary of the Bible" on the word "church." From all that I can gather by the study of the word "church," it is of very doubtful origin Smith says: "(1) The derivation of the word is generally said to be from the Greek kuriakon, belonging to the Lord.' But the derivation has been too hastily assumed. It is probably connected with kirk, the Latin circus, circulus, the Greek kuklos, because the congregations were gathered in circles. (2) Ekkleesia, the Greek word for church, originally meant an assembly called out by the magistrate, or by legitimate authority." We have a good and well informed brother—and he is a good and useful man, too-who will not use the word "church" at all, but invariably uses the word "congregation." Is he right or wrong in this? Is "congregation" the only correct translation of ekkleesia?" If it is, let us get back on this to apostolic speech, as well as on other matters. Please give this some scriptural attention. you have access to Smith's Bible Dictionary, Adam Clarke's and Matthew Henry's commentaries, give us what they have to say. I now have Clarke and Smith before me. Clarke uses "congregation" and "assembly" more than he uses "church." While the word "church" is not a Roman Catholic word if it has really come from the word kuriakon, it is a good Roman Catholic word. Their motto is, "Hear the Church," and with them the church means the clergy. Hence, with them, the church is Lord. "Hear the church" as Lord. We have too much churchanity to-day and not enough Christianity I think that it is unfortunate that we have the word "church" in our Bibles or translations of the New Testament. Please give this your best atten-A DISCIPLE OF CHRIST.

The first reference we have to the word "church" in the New Testament is found in Matt. 16: 13-19. "Now when Jesus came into the parts of Cæsarea Philippi, he asked his disciples, saying, Who do men say that the Son of man is? And they said, Some say John the Baptist; some, Elijah; and others, Jeremiah, or one of the prophets. He saith unto them, But who say ye that I am? And Simon Peter answered and said, Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God. And Jesus answered and said unto them, Blessed art thou, Simon Bar-jonah: for flesh and blood hath not revealed it unto thee, but my Father who is in heaven. And I also say unto thee, that thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my church; and the gates of Hades shall not prevail against it. I will give unto thee the keys of the kingdom of heaven: and whatsoever thou shalt bind on earth shall be bound in heaven; and whatsoever thou shalt loose on earth shall be loosed in heaven."

The Greek word for "church," ekkleesia, is correctly rendered "assembly," "congregation," the "called out." What Christ calls the church in this passage is not always so designated in the New Testament. It is variously called "the church of God," "the kingdom of God," "the kingdom of heaven," "the house of God," "the temple of God," "one body," "the body of Christ," God's "vineyard," or "husbandry," God's "building." These all describe the church, each one some particular feature of it. All considered together, they give us a clear conception of the church.

The word from which we have "church" primarily means "called out" and, by consequence, "called together." The word has in it necessarily no religious significance, but on the contrary, it could be applied to any body of people assembled, irrespective of the purpose for which they were called together. The uproarious assembly in Ephesus of which we read in Acts 19: 32 is from the same Greek word (ekkleesia) from which we have "church," and is rendered "assembly." "Some therefore cried one thing, and some another: for the assembly was in confusion; and the more part knew not wherefore they were come together." Twice more the same word from which we have "church," but translated "assembly" (verses 39, 41), is applied to the same uproarious assembly called together by Demetrius to consider the interests of the silversmiths endangered by the preaching of Paul. Again, Stephen refers to the children of Israel who had been called out of Egypt as "the church in the wilderness." (Acts 7: 38.) So, in order to get a clear conception of the word "church," we must briefly look to the descriptive terms defining the church.

"Church of God" means an assembly of people "called of God." The church that Christ built and the "church of God" in the New Testament mean the same thing. It means the body of people called of God, called of Christ, and, as Paul says, called "by our gospel."

It is not a body of people called out literally and physically, as was the crowd at Ephesus, or as were the children of Israel in the wilderness, called "the church in the wilderness." It is a spiritual body, and its members are called out or separated from the world in a spiritual sense, and are associated together upon a spiritual basis and by spiritual bonds. Those who believe in and obey Christ, who are a peculiar people, zealous of good works, and who are not conformed to this world, but are transformed by the renewing of their mind, are associated together spiritually and are separated from unbelievers and the disobedient. The word "church" in the New Testament only describes this spiritually called-out feature of the body of Christ.

"Kingdom" means "dominion, authority, government." The kingdom of God means the government of God. "Kingdom of heaven" is only another way of expressing the same thought. Both these designations of the body of Christ are meant to give the government feature. The people called of God through Jesus Christ are to be governed, but the government is divine and not human; it is "not of this world," but of heaven. "The church of God" means the people called out spiritually and associated together of God: and "the kingdom of God" means the divine rule of the same people.

Another feature—the family feature—of the same thing is described by the phrase, "house of God." The church of God is a family. God dwells in it and is the Father; Christ dwells in it and is the Elder Brother. All the mem bers are brethren and sisters. The tie that binds them together should be lasting and strong. Thoughtful is the consideration of brotherly love, and in honor it prefers one another.

"The temple of God" defines the worship element of the same thing. God dwells in his holy temple and is worshiped there. It is a spiritual temple, and not one made with men's hands, nor with literal stones. It is not like that at Jerusalem, as great and grand as that was. The Spirit, through Peter, writes of the stones composing this temple: "Ye also, as living stones, are built up a spiritual house, to be a holy priesthood, to offer up spiritual sacrifices, acceptable to God through Jesus Christ." (1 Pet. 2: 5.) God by his Spirit dwells in this holy temple.

The work feature of the body of Christ is defined by several names—viz., "vineyard," farm or "husbandry," building." The church is not simply meant for the saved to live in and be lazy. Those who enter the "vineyard" (which is but another name for "church") must not always expect to be happy. Christ said to his disciples: "In the world ye have tribulation: but be of good cheer; I have overcome the world." (John 16: 33.) Whom the Lord calls, he puts to work on his building, in his vineyard, on his farm. There is no place for a loafer in the church of Christ. The Lord never yet called any one to seek the shade and to sit down in ease and comfort in his vineyard. Since the Father and Son worked, should not we also work? How sweet the reward if we will hold out faithful to the end!

What is frequently depicted as the church is also called the "body," "the body of Christ," "one body." This gives emphasis to the fellowship idea. It is not a physical or material body, but a spiritual one. True, the church is defined as "one new man," but it is a spiritual man. know something of the intimacy of the relation of all the members of the body of a man. There are many members. but one bedy-one man, one church. Every member of the body lives by virtue of its union with the body. Union is the organic law of all life-mineral, vegetable, animal, intellectual, and spiritual. We may as correctly say that "in union there is life," and, "United, we live; divided, we die," as say that "in union there is strength," or, "United, we stand; divided, we fall." We can see how true this is of the human body. It is equally as true of the "body of Christ." The whole body suffers with one member of the body. If we wound or bruise one member of our bodies, how quickly, gently, and tenderly do we bring the other members of the body to its help, rescue, and salvation! Is it always so in the "one body?" In the "body of Christ" "there is one body, and one Spirit." From Eph. 4: 3-6 we learn what, in the mind of the apostle Paul, constitutes the unity of the church. The passages read: "Giving diligence to keep the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace. There is one body, and one Spirit, even as also ye were called in one hope of your calling; one Lord, one faith, one baptism, one God and Father of all, who is over all, and through all, and in all." Here is (1) unity of Headship-"one Lord;" (2) unity of faith-"one faith;" (3) unity of action-"one baptism;" (4) unity of hope of eternal life-" one hope of your calling;" (5) unity of love-"unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace." (6) unity of organization-" one body." If we enjoyed unity in these six features, what a relief it would be to the afflicted hosts of denominationalists suffering from disunion and factionalism!

The church of Christ is composed of responsible subjects who, upon a confession of their faith in Christ, have been, in obedience to Christ, baptized into the name of the Father, Son, and Holy Spirit, and raised up to walk in newness of life, who are one in the body of Christ, having the same faith, hope, love, and the same obedience to the same great spiritual Head.

The "Regional Congress." BY F. W. SMITH.

Another congress has been called to meet in Louisville, Ky., December 6-8, by the Christian Standard, which is the chief organ of the more conservative element of the society brethren. There is a lamentable mix-up with the missionary society folk, and it seems to be a tangled skein that with all the wisdom of the leaders cannot be unraveled within the society.

This present appeal for the assembling of all who protest against what is called the "radical" element, which seems to be in power and have complete control of the society machinery, appears to be a last cry for help to save the sinking ship.

The ends to which the society folk have come are but the inevitable result of the first departure from the New Testament order which Campbell in the very prime and vigor of his life warned against, and which such great men as Fanning, Lipscomb, Sewell, and hosts of others took up with their mighty pens and voices. David Lipscomb, of blessed memory, said: "I cannot go with you, because I see no stopping place. It will be like turning a stone loose from a mountain top, which will not stop until it reaches the bottom of the mountain." How true was this comparison to the first step of departure by those who organized the society!

There are some brave and courageous souls who are trying to stay the tide that has almost swept the original "Restoration Movement" far out into the sea of denominationalism, but their efforts to save the cause, in my judgment, will prove futile.

I do not know what the present congress will propose as a remedy for the very grave and serious situation confronting it, but, according to my way of thinking, the best thing for them to do is to cut loose and let that old denominational ship, mannd by "destructive higher critics" and "open membership" advocates, float away to her destined port. If the congress undertakes to construct a "lifeboat" out of another or even a modified form of the present society, it will in process of time land upon the same reefs and rocks where they now find themselves. Why not, brethren, make a complete return to the New Testament order and be satisfied with God's wisdom?

In my last article I made the statement that the "Restoration Movement" had "crystallized into a denomination," and now from the Christian Standard I submit the proof of my statement:

A good illustration of our present perilous situation is found in the address of the president of the Kentucky State Convention, E. S. Jouett, which was recently printed by the Christian-Evangelist without one single word of editorial comment. It evidently expresses the sentiments of that paper. Mr. Jouett opens up with the attack upon the position we have held for a century that is characteristic of the radical among us. We wonder if the editor of the Christian-Evangelist read this address before printing it. Evangelist read this address before printing it. were the paragraph headings supplied by the editor? One reads: "A denomination, but not a sect." Pray, what does that heading try to say? Now, in this paragraph, Mr. Jonett says: "We have wisely recognized that, measured by all known standards, we are merely one more religious denomination." And also: "That we, ourselves, have become one of the sects of Protestantism is still an unwelcome truth to Were the of the sects of Protestantism is still an unwelcome truth to some, but it is none the less a truth, and not necessarily a hurtful one." Furthermore, he says: "Then, again, we have wisely chosen for our name 'Disciples of Christ.' There need be no regret, save perhaps from unholy pride, at the passing of the name 'Christian' as an appellation peculiar to us in contradistinction to the numerous other bedies of Christians. . . Our appropriation of it for our church body as such was honestly made under our original literalism, but it smacked of conceit."

The foregoing is from the pen of one of the best writers on the Standard, R. C. Foster, and in justice to him it is but fair to state that he repudiates E. S. Jouett's contention. However, the facts are in Jouett's favor and against Brother Foster.

The article from which I quote in the Standard begins as follows:

A new line of demarcation has appeared in the Christian world. In China the Protestant missionaries have lined up in two opposing groups. On the one side is the Bible Union, which enrolls the missionaries of all denominations who still believe in the Bible as the word of God, and who are determined to defend it. On the other is the proposed union movement among various denominations which our missionaries are clamoring to enter, a movement which is fostered by radical leaders.

It is not merely in China nor in Protestantism that this red line of radicalism is noted. A Roman Catholic priest recently remarked, when in a confidential mood, that their own colleges in North America are torn all to pieces "by the teaching that is based on the theory of evolution." He said the younger set of priests are lining up almost solidly against the older ones. The growth of "Modernism" in the Roman Catholic Church has long been noted, but it had largely been limited to their great scholars and scholastic institutions. Now, however, it is filtering through to the masses just as it is among us. Harvard University, the original college of the Pilgrim Fathers, recently called a Roman Catholic scholar (Professor De Wolf) to occupy a new chair of scholastic philosophy. The Menace stormed at this tragic surrender of Harvard to the Roman Catholic hierarchy. But I am convinced that the Menace has the wrong cue. Harvard, you may be sure, has discovered that De Wolf is more of a destructive critic or a Unitarian than a Roman Catholic, and so they will tolerate whatever peculiar dogmas he may still retain, in the hope that he will attract a large number of Catholic students to Harvard, and enable them to split the Catholic Church wide open.

The antisociety brethren have been repeatedly chided for not having more missionaries on what are called "foreign fields;" but it seems that if the society folk had fewer it would be better for the poor heathen, for those they have seem to be infidels, and the churches which oppose such missionaries are helpless to recall them because the radical denominationalists are in control of all their machinery. I am glad that the antisociety brethen have no missionaries in the "foreign field" or any other field who, like the society's missionaries in China, "are clamoring to enter a movement which is fostered by radical leaders." With all of our faults, we are, thank God, free from radical, infidel leaders, teachers, and preachers.

Regarding Jouett's speech at the Kentucky Convention, which precipitated a discussion on the floor of the convention, Brother Foster says: "The general discussion on the convention floor revealed the fact that the large majority of these present agreed with Mr. Jouett's views." A Mr. Garrett was bold enough, says Brother Foster, "to attempt to offer 'scriptural arguments' for open membership." Well, when people have a denomination, have they not a perfect right to have any or no terms of membership if they so choose?

As further proof of this denominational Restoration Movement, I note the following from another minister high up in the counsels of the "inner clique:"

A question was asked Mr. Garrett at Louisville, by E. L. Powell, which suggests several interesting reflections. Erother Powell urged that the missionaries in China ought to be permitted to preach and do just as they please. It is undermocratic for us to undertake to exercise any sort of control over them. (Brother Powell certainly has some very queer ideas about democracy. He even objected to our protest against Mr. Jouett's speech. It was undemocratic for us to state that we did not agree with Mr. Jouett's views!) Mr. Garrett said in response that a number of missionaries in China are in that very mood of breaking over and doing just as they please (that is, practicing open membership, no matter what those who pay their salaries think about it). Mr. Baird boldly declares this same principle in a letter to C. C. Morrison. Discussing their appeal to the Executive Committee to be permitted to practice open membership, he says: "We do not commit ourselves either to await their decision or to accept it when it may finally be made." (C. S., November 6, 1920, page 16, column 1, paragraph 4.)

There you have it! Churches selecting missionaries through society agents, sending them and supporting them ostensibly to preach the gospel of Jesus Christ, and then when they betray this sacred trust to be coldly told by a leader in such a movement that those missionaries are not to be interfered with—they should be at liberty to preach what they please!

"Undemocratic!" Churches must have no voice in the control of missionaries, just shell down the coin and keep their mouths shut. We shall see whether or not the churches represented at the congress will longer wear this yoke.

Arguing or Convincing,

We dishonor the truth rather than serve it when we wound feelings in our zeal to show the truth to others. Such wounding of feelings is a not uncommon result of argument or discussion. One person sets out to prove a certain truth to another, who does not see it; and oftentimes the only result is bitterness, heart burnings, and estrangement. To say that this was caused by zeal for the truth is a travesty on the truth. A person who really has such zeal will care more about living the truth than arguing it; and such living not only never wounds, but is the most convincing of all arguments. When we find that in our efforts to show truth to others we have only done harm, let us ask ourselves wherein we were untrue to some truth that we profess to believe.—Sunday School Times.

QUERY DEPARTMENT

BY J. C. MeQUIDDY

G. T. Mustain, of Horse Cave, Ky., sends a courteous correction of an answer to a query that I made in our issue of November 17. Here is what he says: "I think you are certainly wrong in your answer to Jane Thomas on Matt. 24: 41, in the Gospel Advocate of November 17. The Savior was answering a question with reference to the destruction of Jerusalem. When he comes again, there will be no safety in fleeing to the mountains, no need to pray that your flight be not in winter or on the Sabbath. They would have to suffer in winter and the gates would be closed on the Sabbath. Jesus had not come then, as in Matt. 16: 27, 28. The question of Matt. 24: 3 was not in reference to his last or second coming, but to the destruction of Jerusalem. See verses 34 and 36. A semblance of these things may be in his second coming, but not so in this."

I wish to thank our brother for calling my attention to this, and on reinvestigation I have decided that he is probably right and that I was mistaken. I find that there is diversity of opinion on the subject. Perhaps all the things referred to in Matt. 24, from the thirtieth verse to the forty-second verse, refer to the destruction of Jerusalem, but in a sense typify or foreshadow the second coming of Christ. I am glad for our readers to have the advantage of what Brother Mustain says.

Ø Ø Ø

E. A. Conger, of Smithville, Tenn., asks me to give him my view of the following questions: "(1) Do you think that Isa. 62: 1, 2 and Isa. 65: 15 were fulfilled in Acts 11: 26? (2) Do you think that Acts 9: 15 as we find in this verse is the one applied to this name, or was it given, as some say, in a slurring or sarcastic way by the Antiochians? (3) Had the children of God been called every name that we hear them called (read of), such as 'disciples,' 'saints,' etc., before they were called 'Christians' at Antioch? (4) Have they been called any other name since then that they had not been called before they were called 'Christians?'"

1. Isa. 62: 1, 2 reads: "For Zion's sake will I not hold my peace, and for Jerusalem's sake I will not rest, until her righteousness go forth as brightness, and her salvation as a lamp that burneth. And the nations shall see thy righteousness, and all kings thy glory; and thou shalt be called by a new name, which the mouth of Jehovah shall name." Isa. 65: 15 reads: "And ye shall leave your name for a curse unto my chosen; and the Lord Jehovah will slay thee; and he will call his servants by another name." doubtedly these scriptures refer to the name "Christian" by which the disciples were first called at Antioch. Adam Clarke comments on "Thou shalt be called by a new name" as follows: "Namely, 'Christian,' or as in the fourth verse, chephtsi bah, 'my delight is in her,' because she has now received that command, 'This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased; hear him." The Greek word which occurs in the passage, "The disciples were first called Christians at Antioch" (Acts 11: 26), is "chreematizoo," which means, in the passive voice, "to be divinely commanded, admonished, instructed." Thayer defines the word universally, "to receive a name or title, be called," and gives Acts 11: 26 as an example.

2. Acts 9: 15 reads: "But the Lord said unto him, Go thy way: for he is a chosen vessel unto me, to bear my name before the Gentiles and kings, and the children of Israel." This passage has no reference to this new name. It simply refers to the apostle Paul's being sent to preach the gospel among the Gentiles. He was specially chosen for this work. While I have already said that the name "Christian" is "divinely commanded," I know that some take a different position, saying that it was given in derision or sarcasm. While I think the latter position incorrect, yet inspiration indorses the name "Christian" even if it were given in derision; so it is the new name by which God's people are called with the approval of divinely inspired men.

3. The children of God were called "disciples," "saints," brethren," etc., before they were called "Christians" at Antioch.

4. I know of Lo additional name by which they have been called since they were given the new name "Christian." This name was given by the approval of the Lord, is divinely given, and every Christian should strive to walk worthily of the name by which he is called. Christians should never forget the name by which they are called, as this name is derived from Christ, and Christ was the purest and most guileless being this world has ever known.

0 0 0

Mrs. L. W. Shive, of Webb, Miss., inquires as follows: "How do Bible scholars explain, 'The sins of the fathers are visited upon the children even to the third and fourth generations?" Does this mean that the innocent have to suffer for the guilty? Is this considered justice in the sight of God? And if so, how do the Scriptures justify it? There is another question I wish explained. This is, does a man pay for his sins in death? Remember, this penalty was placed on man for his first sin, and Paul tells us in his Roman letter that 'the wages of sin is death."

It is a fact that natural or physical weaknesses are visited upon the children of dissolute parents even unto the third and fourth generations. We see every day that we live examples of this. Especially is this true of venereal diseases. Physicians have told us for years that tuberculosis is inherited. The knowledge of this fact should make parents very careful as to the manner of life that they live. No parent should be willing to live a life that will cause his posterity to suffer innumerable agonies. As our physical weaknesses are visited upon our posterity even unto the fourth generation, we should live clean, sober lives as parents in order to prevent this. It is doubtless true, in the nature of things, that children must suffer weaknesses inherited from vicious parents. There are many things that we are not able to explain. No man can explain satisfactorily why the just should die for the unjust. doctrine of vicarious suffering is unexplainable. mother gives up her life for the child. All life comes out of death. The seed must die before there is new life. The grain must be ground and mashed and cooked before we can enjoy it. Some one has to sweat over it before it is fit to sustain our lives. Just so it was necessary for Christ, the just, to die for the unjust, but just why it is so I am not able to explain. But it should be noted that natural weaknesses are inherited, and not spiritual weaknesses. Every man suffers for his own sins, and not for the sins of others. The prophet Ezekiel declares: "Behold, all souls are mine; as the soul of the father, so also the soul of the son is mine: the soul that sinneth, it shall die." (Ezek. 18: 4.) Every individual is responsible for his own guilt and is so held accountable by Jehovah. No one pays for his sin in death. If so, there would be no punishment after death. "The wages of sin is death;" but "the soul that sinneth, it shall die:" "It is appointed unto men once to die, and after this comcth judgment," (Heb. 9: 27.) Those who live wickedly and disown and disobey God will not only be called upon to die, but they will be punished after death "Who shall suffer punishment, even eternal destruction from the face of the Lord and from the glory of his might." (2 Thess, 1: 9.)

TEXAS-OKLAHOMA DEPARTMENT

BY C. R. NICHOL

All articles, reports, orders for Gospel Advocate, and books, from Texas and Oklahoma, should be sent to C. R. Nichol, Clifton, Texas.

The Relation of Faith and Obedience.

BY K. C. MOSER,

In a preceding article it was shown from the Greek that the words translated to obey and to believe are allied in meaning and derivation. I shall now attempt to verify this fact by examples from the Scriptures.

Paul says that Israel failed to enter Canaan "because of unbelief." (Heb. 3: 19.) Again, he says their failure was "because of disobedience." (Heb. 4: 6.) With Pavl, unbelief was disobedience, for unbelief led inevitably to disobedience. One could not be considered apart from the other. If this principle is true of these negative terms, it is also true of the positive terms, "believe" and "obey;" therefore, to believe is to obey, for Bible faith (Gal. 5: 6) leads inevitably to obedience. Some might argue that to believe is the obedience contenplated when it is affirmed that obedience saves. This view of obedience is too narrow. Obedience that saves gives a right to the tree of life. But this "right" is to those who do the "commandments" (plural). To believe, abstractly considered, is only one command. Paul, in 1 Cor. 10, tells of what the "unbelief" or "disobedience" of Israel consisted-namely, idolatry, fornication, making trial of the Lord, and murmuring, all of which are comprehended in the terms "unbelief" and "disobedience," If unbelief includes all these acts of disobedience, why not faith include as many acts of obedience? When, therefore, salvation is conditioned on faith, as in John 3: 16, "faith" is certainly used in this inclusive sense, or else those Pharisees who believed, but refused to confess Christ, were saved; and, strangely enough, some are forced into this absurd position by contending that faith alone saves

In Acts 11: 17 and 19: 2 the Holy Spirit is said to be given to the believer, while in Acts 5: 32 the Holy Spirit is said to be given to those who obey. Here, again, faith is made to include obedience. In Acts 2: 38 Feter made repentance and baptism the conditions of receiving the Holy Spirit. But since the Holy Spirit is given to the believer, belief, therefore, includes repentance and baptism. Again, in Acts 5: 14, "believers were the more added to the Lord." But the three thousand on Pentecost were added on the conditions of repentance and baptism, and yet by faith. So, again, faith includes repentance and baptism. Other such examples could be given, but these are enough.

I want new to prove that any virtue upon which a blessing is conditioned is never to be considered alone. I go for proof to the Sermon on the Mount, which is often called the "Magna Charta" of the Christian religion. If the above principle is to be found here, then we will certainly meet it throughout the New Testament. "Blessed are the poor in spirit: for theirs is the kingdom of heaven." But what is it to be "poor in spirit?" I shall let McGarvey tell: "By 'the poor in spirit' is meant those who are sensible of spiritual destitution and who long for a better spiritual state." Now, is to be poor in spirit the only condition of possessing the kingdom? Does one not also have to be meek, merciful, and pure in heart? Peacemakers are said to be sons of God. But this good trait only will not constitute him a child of God. Many are zealous advocates of peace who do not believe in Christ.

We are saved by the death of Christ, but not apart from his resurrection. "Every one that loveth is born of God." (1 John 4: 7.) But, "If ye love me, ye will keep my commandments." (John 14: 15.) God's love saves the world, but such a love as is manifested in the gift of Christ.

My proposition, that faith and obedience—faith manifested—are inseparably connected, being true, the doctrine of salvation by faith alone is untrue. I have shown that faith includes repentance and baptism. Faith and obedience, therefore, have been joined by Jehovah. "What therefore God hath joined together, let not man put sunder."

The Sin of Fretting.

BY J. S. DUNN.

The expression, "Fret not," is found three times in Ps. 37. People often sin by fretting, and perhaps many have never had their attention called to this great sin committed, against soul, mind, and body. It is said that "worry kills more people than tuberculosis." We have sanitariums for the afflicted tulercular, and perhaps it would be no bad idea to erect a sanitarium to treat the many who are afflicted with the great sin of fretting.

God intends his church be the sanitarium and Christianity the remedy for all who fret, worry, become lowspirited, down hearted, and depressed. Christianity will make men bappy. People should "rejoice" when they become Christians. The eunuch and jailer both "rejoiced" after they were baptized; and in after days they could have sung, had they known it, "Happy day, when Jesus washed my sins away." Paul wrote almost all the letters to the churches, and he admonishes people to "rejoice." Take time to look into your concordance at the words "happy." "joy," "gladness," and "rejoice," and you will, no doubt, be surprised to find these words found so many times in the Bible. And then read the admonitions of Paul in which he says: "Rejoicing in hope;" "Rejoice with them that do rejoice;" "Rejoice in the Lord always: again I say, Rejoice;" and, "Rejoice evermore." Jesus said "rejoice" when men "revile you, and persecute you, and say all manner of evil against you;" and James said, "Count it all joy when ye fall into divers temptations."

This wholesale worry about "short crops and low-priced cotton" has unfitted many from getting a good night's rest, digesting their food, and enjoying the sermon and worship on the Lord's day. We should remember that "worry" does not make bad matters better, but bad matters worse. We are best when we are happy, and our lives are not much when we are best; therefore, we should be happy all the time. We should not want anything or do anything that will not bring joy, happiness, and goodness to our homes and lives.

There are two kinds of happiness or pleasure. One is in sin and the other in godliness. Worldly pleasure will prevent a man from becoming a Christian. (Luke 8: 14.) But godly pleasure, jey, and happiness will fill the soul of a true Christian, and he can ever sing: "I am happy in Jesus, my Savior and King." May the good Lord help us to cease committing the great sin of fretting.

$ $ $

Personal Notes.

From J. W. Mathews, Maysville, Okla., Box 304, November 24: "I filled my regular appointment at Paul's Valley last Sunday. They are getting along fine. I baptized two after the services on Sunday night. One was a man about sixty years of age, and the other was a middle-aged man. I go to Alex next Sunday, to Elmore City the first Sunday in December, and to Paoli the second Sunday. These congregations are all doing fairly well."

From W. D. Black, Ozona, Texas, November 29: "The work in this part of the State is progressing nicely. Good interest at all places. We have had additions all along. One was baptized last Wednesday night, from Barnhart. The members here are taking great interest in our Wednesday-night Bible study. We are using 'Sound Doctrine,' Volume I., as a help, and like it fine. Foy E. Wallace, Jr., and Tillett S. Teddlie will be with us in a meeting the last half of February, and we are hoping, praying, and working for a great meeting."

How the Great Guest Came.

It happened one day at the year's white end.
Two neighbors called on their old-time friend:
And they found the shop, so meager and mean.
Made gay with a hundred boughs of green.
Conrad was stitching with face ashine,
But suddenly stopped as he twitched a twine:
"Old friends, good news! At dawn to-day.
As the cocks were scaring the night away,
The Lord appeared in a dream to me,
And said, 'I am coming, your Guest to be!'
So I've been busy with feet astir,
Strewing the floor with branches of fir.
The wall is washed and the shelf is shined,
And over the rafter the holly twined.
He comes to-day, and the table is spread
With milk and honey and wheaten bread."

HIs friends went home; and his face grew still As he watched for the shadow across the sill. He lived all the moments o'er and o'er. When the Lord should enter the lowly door—The knock, the call, the latch pulled up, The lighted face, the offered cup. He would wash the feet where the spikes had been; He would kiss the hands where the nails went in; And then at the last would sit with him And break the bread as the day grew dim.

While the cobbler mused, there passed his pane A beggar drenched by the driving rain. He called him in from the stony street And gave him shoes for his bruised feet. The beggar went; and there came a crone. Her face with wrinkles of sorrow sown. A burdle of fagots bowed her back, And she was spent with the wrench and rack. He gave her his loaf and steadied her load As she took her way on the weary road. Then to his door came a little child. Lost and afraid in the world so wild—In the big, dark world. Catching it up, He gave it the milk in the waiting cup, And led it home to its mother's arms, Out of the reach of the world's alarms.

The day went down in the crimson west,
And with it the hope of the blessed Guest,
And Conrad sizhed as the world turned gray:
"Why is it, Lord, that your feet delay?
Did you forget that this was the day?"
Then soft in the silence a Voice he heard:
"Lift up your heart, for I kept my word,
Three times I came to your friendly door;
Three times my shadow was on your floor,
I was the beggar with bruised feet;
I was the woman you gave to eat:
I was the child on the homeless street!"
—Edwin Markham,

0 0 0

Annette's Golden Hours.

Annette sat out on the broad veranda of the Penton home. She swayed back and forth in the porch swing, her eyes far away and dreamy.

Summertime had slipped around again, and with it vacation and plans. "I mean to have a plorious summer," Annette had said to her lest friend as they parted at the railway station, each taking their different ways after the closing exercises of Miss Norton's school.

"I mean to, too," Mary French replied, and then they had said good-by until the fall. Two weeks had passed then, but Annette was recalling their conversation as she sat idly swaying back and forth.

She had been having a lovely time—automobiling to distant places, visiting the seashore, etc.—and there were many other delightful trips ahead. 'The summer months are always made golden for Annette—always; but Mary French, her best friend, made the time golden for others—so some one who lived near her had told Annette—told her of the lives made happier back in that little village home because of the sweet unselfishness of the young girl. It was of this that Annette was thinking as she sat with a far-away look in her deep-blue eyes.

"Why, I—I—hardly know the people that live around me!" she exclaimed. "I wouldn't know what to do for them."

Across the cool veranda just then came a figure in white. It was Mrs. Denton, Annette's mother.

"The cream is frozen, dear," she said, "and Celia is making the chocolate dressing for the cake now. I told your father to stop by and bring Helen and Julia out for the week-end."

"Why, how lovely, mother!" Annette cried. "You are always thinking up nice things for me."

Mrs. Denton smiled, but for the moment her thoughts seemed to be far down the troad, white road. "I wish old Mrs. Seaborn had some of the cream. If she only lived nearer, it wouldn't be so hard to get things to her." She was speaking as if to herself.

"Why," began Annette, a sudden inspiration seizing her -- "why, let me take it, mother-right this minute."

"But-" arswered Mrs. Denton; then Annetic softly covered her lips with her hand.

"I'll have the pony hitched in the buggy, mother, dear, and we'll be there before the cream even begins to melt." Annette was gone, and Mrs. Denton, with a smile on her face, packed the cream carefully.

"She is so fond of it, Celia, and to-day has been so warm— Miss Annette is going to take it over herself to Mrs. Seaborn"

An hour later Annette drove slowly homeward. Mrs. Seaborn had seemed so glad to see her that she had stayed longer than she had intended.

"Come again, dear," she said, as Annette arose to go; "it has done me good to see a sweet young face. In the years gone by I dreamed beautiful dreams, too, even as you do now. It has made my heart lighter, seeing you in the glow of your early summertime."

Annette's eyes were misty as she drove away, and yet her lips were smiling. The wistful face that she had left behind was brighter. She would go to see her again, and yet many times during the summer.

There were others, too—yes, quite a good many more "shut-ins"—she could easily recall them now, since she had begun to think of such things. Those people that she scarcely knew that were around her—yes, she meant to know them now, and love them, too.

"I'm going to have a glorious time. I have so many plans, mother, for the old people, and—and—for all those who need it around us. We'll share our good things and times with them, won't we?"

Mrs. Denton nodded a glad acquiescence as the eager, flushed face looked into hers.

"I think I begin to understand why Mary French is so happy all of the time." Annette's voice dropped suddenly. "She makes the days brighter for those around her."

And the summer months and the days and the years were golden indeed for Annette after that.—Kathleen Hay, in Exchange.

0 0 0

Children, obey your parents in the Lord: for this is right. Honor thy father and mother; which is the first commandment with promise; that it may be well with thee, and thou mayest live long on the earth. And, ye fathers, provoke not your children to wrath: but bring them up in the nurture and admonition of the Lord.—Eph. 6: 1-4.

Aches and Pains Of Rheumatism

Sometimes They Are Unbearable.

There are weather conditions that There are weather conditions that make rheumatism worse. They are not the same in the cases of all persons. Some rheumatics suffer more in dry, warm weather than in moist cold weather, but all suffer more or less all the time.

The cause of rheumatism is an analysis of the cause of the caus excess of urio acid in the blood, af-fecting the muscles and joints, caus-ing aches and pains. Hence the blood must have attention for per-manent results in the treatment of this disease.

Hood's Sarsaparilla has given en-tire satisfaction in thousands of cases. Do not fall to try it. For a laxative take Hood's Pills.

TETTERINE tor the COMPLEXION

60c at your druggist's or from Shuptrine Co., Savannah, Ga.

Time is Money

Divide your spare time representing us in your community. You cannot find a more dignified business than helping place a memorial at the resting place of a deceased loved one.

Hundreds are boosting COG-GINS' MEMORIALS, and re-port it an ensy matter to sell them made from either ELBERTON B LU E GBAN-ITE, "The Stone Eternal," or the GEORGIA MARBLE. Liberal commissions, Housety, Integrity, nubition and law-ful age essential qualifica-tions, Write immediately for full particulars and contract.

Coggins Marble Co. 31 Main Street CANTON, GEORGIA

IS CURABLE. Write me to-day and I will send you a free trial of my mild, soothing, guaranteed treatment that will prove it. Stops the Rching and heats permanently. DR. CANNADAY, 1225 Park Sq., Sedalia, Mo.

Headaches Vanish

Sick or nervous headaches, backaches, women's aches almost instantly respond to the liquid remedy Capudine. It stops the pain by removing the cause. Every home should keep a bottle handy. Sold by drug-gists, 10c, 30c, 60c. CAPUDINE

LadiesKeep Your Skin Clear, Sweet, Healthy With Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Talcum

The Power of Education.

In Christian Education, a monthly magazine, published by the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, for January, 1921, some startling statements are made concerning this important matter. And when people who have generally been considered lax and indifferent about many things which we have held to be vital, in life and character, begin to become concerned about some kinds of evils, and begin to bestir themsives for a remedy, we may well take notice and find whether or not we are in the same danger. But among other things it says, speaking of the necessity of Christian schools: "We must educate or die." This is a solemn statement. If that is true of them, is it true of us? It remains, perhaps, to see. Going on, it says: "We are facing moral bankruptcy through spiritual illiteracy. The present neglect of the religious instruction of children will eventually give us a whole nation of people who know nothing about God and have no spiritual foundation of character. We are bending the wrong way. We are being deceived in the direction of the Prussian type. We have been led along until our whole system of training has been under the domination of material-Our schools can teach pagan mythology, heathen religion, Hindu philosophy, and modern fiction; but the Bible is barred from the classroom by the law of the land. We have kicked the Bible and religion from the schools, and some have put in soldiering and military tactics. Some of the leading authorities in American education to-day teach materialistic and naturalistic theories. That is, they teach that persons should be guided by their 'natural' instincts and should not be influenced to observe our moral ideas, to have faith in God, to love Christ, to reverence the church, and serve the kingdom."

Again, the World Call, another journal, directed by the Disciples of Christ, a little nearer home, quoting from one of the chief addresses before the late convention at St. Louis, says: "The trend of a nation's life may be changed in a single generation by the emphasis educational system. Japan moved from a position of pagan darkness to a position of one of the most progressive of modern nations in a single generation, transformed by her educational system, Germany changed from a peaceful to a belligerent folk, from pastoral hillsides to a powder magazine, in a generation by her educational system. Humboldt, Hege, Nietsche, William II., and others, by concerted action through Germany's school system, set the world on fire."

If the above theory is true, it fol-

SUFFERED ALI

Mrs. Meyer Finally Found Relief and Health in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Orange, Cal.-"I always feel very grateful to you, as some twenty years ago three doctors said I had to have a serious operation. had a tumor, and ulcers which would gather and break. I badly that I could hardly sit down at times, and it seemed asif I suffered everytning that a woman could suffer. Then some one advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I took it until I vegeted and saved from the operation. have told women of your wonderful medicine times without number, and I am willing that you should use these facts and my name if you like. I also used your Compound during the Change, and I can do all my own work but the heavy part, and can walk miles every day as I help my husband in the office." -Mrs. J. H. Meyer, 412 South Orange St., Orange, California. It is quite true that such troubles as Mrs. Meyer had may reach a stage where an operation is the only resource. On the other hand, a great many women have been restored to health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

FRECKI

Now Is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots.

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freekles, as Othine—double strength—Is guaranteed to remove these homely spots.

Simply get an ounce of Othine—double strength—from your druggist, and apply a little of it night and morring and you should soon see that even the worst freekles have begun to disappear, while the lighter mes have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than one onnee is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a beautiful clear complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength Othine as his is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freekles.

McShane Bell Foundry Co. BALTIMORE, MD. CHURCH, CHIME and PEAL Memorials a Specialty BELLS

Pile Sufferers

Don't Be Cut—Until You Try This New Home Cure that Any One Can Use without Discomfort or Loss of Time. Simply Chew Up a Pleasant-Tasting Tablet Occasionally and Rid Yourself of Piles,

Let Me Prove This Free.

My internal method for the treatment and permanent relief of piles is the correct one. Thousands upon thousands of grateful letters testify to this, and I want you to try this method at my expense.

No matter whether your case is of long standing or recent development, whether it is chronic or acute, whether it is occasional or permanent, you should send for this free trial treatment.

No matter where you live, no matter what your age or occupation, if you are troubled with piles, my method will relieve you promptly.

I especially want to send it to those apparently hopeless cases where all forms of respecially want to send it to those apparently hopeless cases where all forms of ointments, salves, and other local applications have faied.

I want you to realize that my method of treating piles is the one most dependable treatment.

This (Barri offer of free treatment is too treatment.

This liberal offer of free treatment is too important for you to neglect a single day. Write now. Send no money. Simply mail the coupon, but do this now, TO-DAY

Free Pile Remedy.

E. R. Page,

430-H Page Bldg., Marshall, Mich. Please send free trial of your method to

Teart

Attacks come when least expected. Directly some ill feeling makes you aware that you have a Heart is the time to commence taking some treatment.

Dr.Miles Heart Treatment is a Tonic and Regulator recommended in Functional Heart Disorders.

SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS

MILES MEDICAL CO., Elkhart, Ind.

lows that the future of the world is in the college halls of to-day. The potential leadership of church and State is on the present college campus. If the emphasis on modern education shall be moral and spiritual, the world bas a hopeful to-morrow; but if the emphasis be rationalistic and materialistic, the second state of the world will be worse than the first. The Duke of Wellington said: "To educate a man's head and not his heart is to make a cultured devil." It is more essential that a people be good than that they be brilliant. Goodness will wait on smartness, but smartness walts on neither man nor God. other words, emphasizing the aphorism, "The soul of education is the education of the soul," the dean of one of our great universities said: "If we continue our education in this country as we are going now, starting with the grades and heading up through the high school into the State university. in thirty years we will have reproduced the German civilization."

Tribute to a Good V.Joman.

BY I. B. BRADLEY.

Mrs. Mary Gooch Beasley was born on January 6, 1856, near Farmington, Mo., and was reared in Franklin, Ky. She was a member of the Gooch family of Franklin before her marriage to D. E. Beasley, of Pinewood, Tenn., in August, 1900. She had been engaged in teaching several years before her marriage. When she was married to Brother Beasley, she not only entered upon the duties of a wife, but also those of a mother to his three little motherless girls. She fulfilled these duties as a good stepmother, and lived to see them all reach mature womanhood and married to honorable men. They loved her, and scarcely knew what it was to be denied the training and care of their own mother.

To Brother Beasley she was a true helpmeet and home-keeper. She was a woman who loved her home and took a great pride in neatness and comfort. She stayed at home very closely, and was satisfied to exercise her rights and privileges in her Godgiven sphere-the home-looking well to the comfort and welfare of the family. She was very orderly and systematic in her home-had a place for everything.

She obeyed the gospel in early life, and was steadfast in the faith unto the end. She was a very quiet, modest woman, and never made much demonstration, but was firm, faithful, and constant, and content with the simplicity of the New Testament worship, and was a regular attendant at services so long as she was able to go to the meetinghouse.

Sister Beasley was ill quite a long I

How's Your Stomach? and Your Liver?

Health is Most Vital to You

Durham, N. C.—"As for Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery which I use constantly, I don't believe there is a better liver medicine made. I use it for head-ache, stomach disorders and torpid liver. It is not unpleasant to take and does not leave a constipated condition as so many of the liver pills and medicines do. It does its work and leaves one feeling like a new person."—Howard Holden, 1306 Glenn St.

You can quickly put yourself in A-1 condition by going to your druggist and obtaining this Discovery of Dr. Pierce's in tablets or liquid, or write Dr. Pierce, president Invalids' Hotel, in Buffalo, N. Y., for free medical advice.

ONLY FOR CHILLS AND FEVER BUT A FINE GENERAL TONIC.

Send for this rich looking gold filled Combination Watch-Bracelet today. You will find it to be a $10,00 value. Has adjusted 7-jewcled movement, the case being gold-filled and warranted to wear 10 years. It is a stem-wind and stem-set model and it looks like a very expensive watch. The picture shows you what a handsome model it is and the gold dial adds to its attractiveness. The bracelet is flexible and will fit any wrist, so you need not healtact to order on account of size. It is sent direct to you, as pictured, in a velvet and silk-lined box, Each watch is examined before leaving the factory and you will find them percetime-pieces.

Don't Hesitate! Our Money-Back Guarantee Protects You

So positive are we that you will be delighted with your watch that we ABSOLUTELY GUAR-ANTEE to refund your money if you are not satisfied after examination; therefore, do not hesitate to order. Send no money. Just rush, your name and address. Your watch will be sent by return prepaid mail and delivered right to your door by the postman. Pay the postman our advertised price of $4.95 on arrival and remember, if you are not entirely pleased after examination, return your watch and we will refund your money, every cent of it.

EMPIRE CITY MFG. CO. Dept. 168, 138 5th Ave., New York

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

time before her death, and had tried many doctors and many remedies, but failed to find any permanent relief. God in his goodness spared her to care for Brother Beasley through his critical illness following a very serious accident last winter. Since that time she seemed to not be able to resist the encroachment of her old trouble, and in the home she loved so well, attended by her loved ones, she passed peacefully "over the river" on the morning of October 11, 1921.

Funeral services in the Dickson church of Christ, conducted by Brother E. P. Watson and the writer. Burial in Union Cemetery.

She died "in the faith" and in hope of the resurrection of the dead. "She is not dead," but "asleep in Jesus;" and at "the coming of the Lord," she confidently believed, she will hear him say, "Awake thou that sleepest, and arise from the dead," and on the clouds ascend with him and the glorified hosts to that "land that is fairer than day." "Precious in the sight of the Lord is the death of his saints," for they are "had in everlasting remembrance."

Notes from West Tennessee.

BY JOHN R. WILLIAMS.

One more month and the year 1921 will be history of the past. You and I have made that history. The year 1921 has been very eventful in many respects. In some places it seems that the word of God no longer appeals to the people, while in other places it seems that the people are more willing to hear and accept God's word than ever before. Why this difference? Who is responsible for this difference? In the way of visible results, I have done less good this year than any one of the thirty-six and a half years that I have been preaching. I have not lost faith in God, neither have I lost faith in the gospel as God's power to save, but I must confess that my faith has been weakened in some who claim to be followers of Christ. The church is the only servant for good that the world has; and when the church fails to serve the world for its good, then the church fails in its duty. In Obion County there have not been as many additions to the church this year as there has been in the years gone by. The church does not "have favor with all the people" as it once did. Somebody is responsible for these conditions. The thing that worries me most Night and Morning.

Have Strong, Healthy
Eyes. If they Tire, Itch,
Smart or Burn, if Sore,
Irritated, Inflamed or Often. Soothes, Refreshes. Safe for Infant or Adult. At all Druggists. Write for Free Eye Book. Movine Eye Remedy Co., Chicago

is, to what extent am I responsible for these conditions? As we grow older in the service of God, there is an increase of our devotion to God and for the salvation of sinful men. Younger people do not think of these things as older ones do; and sometimes the older ones are severely criticized by the younger when the older try to teach them their duty and the dangers lurking along their pathway. This I know to be true.

I am to continue work at the same places I have worked for several years, except Cloverdale. Brother Joe Ratcliffe will preach once a month for them and Brother Brigance will hold their meeting. Both are good men and good preachers. Not one word detrimental to the character of either have I ever heard. This cannot, I am sorry to say, be said of all preachers.

On the thirtieth day of this month (December) I will be seventy years old, and as our regular preaching day at Hornbeak is the fourth Lord's day in each month, I shall move up my birthday service to the fourth Lord's day, it being Christmas Day, and preach my seventieth birthday sermon at Hornbeak that day. I hereby extend an invitation to all the congregations in Lake and Obion counties to send some of the members from each congregation on that day. Of course all cannot attend; but if the weather and roads are not too bad, a few from each congregation can attend. I hereby invite all of my preaching brethren everywhere to be with us, especially the young preachers, as I feel sure I can say some things that will be helpful to those who are just starting in the work of the ministry. I can tell you of many discouraging things you will have to encounter, and also I can tell you how to overcome them and to never despair or give up the fight. My experience for thirty-six and a half years as a preacher is checkered with many incidents, some of which will be of great benefit to the young preachers. So come and be with us

Rheumatism Relieved

Renwar is guaranteed to relieve rheumatism by money-back offer. This remedy will positively neutralize the uric acid in the blood, which causes rheumatism. The amount of Renwar required to effect relief depends on the case which is being treated. Very often one bottle will produce the desired result. If you suffer with rheumatism, you should by all means try Renwar. It is harmless, even to the most delicate constitutions, and thousands will testify to its effectiveness in relieving rheumatism. Sold by druggists (price, 50 cents) or by mall from Warner Drug Company, Nashville, Tenn.

Renew your subscription to the Gospel Advocate.

Sloan's Liniment is recommended as an external application in the treatment of rheumatism, neuralgia, sciatica, lumbago, lame back, sprains and strains, sore muscles and a host of other external aches and pains.

Don't rub Sloan's, if penetrates. At all druggists, 35c, 70c, $1.40.

$10ans Liniment

FIELD REPORTS

Rogersville, Mo., November 28.—I closed at Belle Plaine, Kan., last Friday night, after continuing over three Lord's days. There were five additions—four by baptism and one by membership. The brethren treated me well in every way. I began here at Rogersville yesterday. The meeting starts off well.—James E. Laird.

Oxford, Fla., November 25 .- On last Lord's day the church here came together to break bread. Brother M. L. Humphries, of Ocala, preached to us on "Preparation," and pressed upon us the importance of making preparation to meet our God. He also preached a good sermon on Saturday night before. At 6:30 P.M., Sunday, we met again to pray, sing, and read scripture to pray, sing, and read scripture verses. In this the old and the young In these meetings we are took part. trying to develop our boys and girls into workers in the Master's vineyard. Brother Humphries preached again at night.-J. O. Barnes.

Decherd, Tenn., December 1.-I have just closed a nine-days' meeting at Spencer, Tenn. Twenty-one were bantized and six confessed their wrongs. interest was good throughout. The The house was full at each service. made my home with Brother and Sister Brady, and they and all others were very kind to me. I found one of the best literary schools in the South Prof. there--Burritt College, HE Scott is the president and principal. I shall leave for Florida on December Any one wanting to correspond with me should address me at Lecanto, Fla.-R. E. L. Taylor.

Bromhead. Saskatchewan. Canada. November 27.—I have been here one week. No results. The temperature is down to thirty degrees below zero, and some hearts seem colder. I leave tomorrow for home, and expect to stay in Montana for some time. We cannot expect to convert many during this winter. However, we have had a good harvest of souls this summer. spend most of the winter cultivating the seed sown. Have you read about our work among the Indians? One Indian wants to go to school that he may teach his people. I am praying that Louie may be taught the Bible that he may teach his race. Shall we send him, or will we let those people remain in ignorance? Any information will be given by the writer concerning the Northwest. Address me at Elmdale, Mont.-J. O. Golphenee.

Convalescence after pneumonia, typhoid fever, and the grip is sometimes merely apparent, not real. To make it real and rapid, there is no other tonic so highly to be recommended as Hood's Sarsaparilla. Thousands so testify, Take Hood's.

Lake City, Fla., November 28.—I began a series of meetings near Summerfield, with the Charter Oak Church, on November 15 and continued it ten days, with good attendance a part of the time; but this is a Baptist community, with only a few members of the church of Christ, and prejudice ran high, thus causing the attendance to fall away toward the end of the meeting, but we were strengthened. Some of the faithful ones from Oxford, Capulet, and Ocala aided the work by their zeal, earnest prayers, and help in the song service. We closed on the night of Thanksgiving Day, with a We closed on the splendid service suitable to the occasion, and we were greatly encouraged to go forward unto greater things. There were three additions. This is the home of Brother T. W. Barnett, a pillar of this church, in whose hands the cause of Christ is safe .- J. O. Barnes

Denton, Texas, November 28.-All meetings yesterday were especially well attended and everything showed the liveliest interest in the work. The Sunday school was larger than common and showed great interest on the The people came early part of all and entered into their work with zest. The crowd at the morning service taxed the building in use yesterday. and it is thought that we may be compelled to provide larger quarters for the days when we cannot be at the church building. The individual communion service now in use showed an unusually large number of communicants present in the morning service. At the morning hour there was one to take membership with the congregation, and there was one confession at evening meeting. The baptism will be attended to to-night. We ask the prayers of the brethren everywhere on behalf of the Lord's work in Denton,-R. D. Smith.

TREMENDOUS VALUE FOR 15c.

The Pathfinder, Leading Weekly Magazine of Nation's Capital, Makes Remarkably Attractive Offer.

Washington, D. C., Special.-People in every section of the country are hurrying to take advantage of the Pathunder's wonderful offer to send that splendid illustrated review of the whole world thirteen weeks for 15 cents. It costs the editor a lot of money to do this; but he says it pays to invest in new friends, and, in spite of the high cost of his enlarged and greatly improved paper, he makes this rare offer to bring his circulation up to 400,000 a week. You will like this paper. It is twenty-nine years old and now better than ever. Splendid stories and rare miscellany. Question Box answers all your questions. Only 15 cents, mailed at once to Pathfinder, 93 Langdon Sta., Washington, D. C., will keep your whole family informed, entertained, helped, and inspired.

In Appreciation of Brother Ezell.

The church of Christ at Albany, Ala., realize they have given up a great, efficient, and effectual gospel minister, who has labored seven years for the good and upbuilding of the church at Jackson Street, Albany, and other surrounding congregationsnamely, Athens, Tanner, and Hartsell when J. Pettey Ezell finished his stay with two sermons, Sunday, November 13, which were very instructive to the church, as they were not sermons of parting sympathy or hearttouching farewells, but two splendid sermons on "Hindering Causes," reading Gal, 5: 1-9 as a basis for his subject at 11 A.M. and Heb. 2 at 7:30 P.M. The minister dwelt pointedly on several hindering causes that are so apt to hamper the growth and progress of God's children, not valuing the liberty of Christ by not obeying the truth, which is lack of love, lack of faith, the pride of life, lust after things that canker, the parable of the sower, the falling away after receiving the word, and ignorance of neglecting salvation, concluding with a strong admonition to parents to influence their children to study the Bible, and commending the church to God. The church regrets very much to see him go, since the seven years' work together in harmony has created a great friendship of love, not only in the church, but with the public in general. The elders of the church spoke the sentiment of the church, that perfect good will and great love for Brother Ezell and his kind and affectionate wife and children, who were loved by all who knew them, would continue to exist, and asked that Brother Ezell's counsel might be secured when advice was needed, which was granted by Brother Ezell, who also expressed regrets at leaving so many friends in Albany. May God ever bless, guard, guide, and protect Brother Ezell and his family while he faithfully declares the whole counsel of God is our prayer.

JACKSON STREET CHURCH OF CHRIST.

Not Bad Cook, But Bad Stomach.

The word "dyspepsia" means literally bad cook, but it will not be fair for many people to lay the blame on the cook if they begin the Christmas dinner with little appetite and end it with distress or nausea.

It may not be fair for any to do that; let us hope so for the sake of the

The disease, dyspepsia, indicates a bad stomach-that is, a weak stomach, rather than a bad cook-and for a weak stomach we know of nothing else equal to Hood's Sarsaparilla. This digestive and tonic medicine helps the stomach, gives it vigor and tone, relieves dyspepsia, creates an appetite. and makes eating the pleasure it should be.

The biliousness and constipation found in so many cases of dyspepsia are gently and thoroughly relieved by Hood's Pills, which act in perfect harmony with Hood's Sarsaparilla.

FEATHER BED OUTFIT

NOW ONLY $12.50 Send us $12.50 and express office and we will and we will and you One 40-th. New Feather Bed, One Pair G-lb. New Feather Pillows, and One Pair full size Bed Blankets or Bed Spread, All new, clean, sanitary feathers, best bargains you ever saw. About half store price. Money-back guarantee Mai Moncy Order today Catalogue free Southern Feather & Pillow Co., Dept. P, Greenshore, N. C.

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

STORY BOOKS FOR GIFTS AND REWARDS

This little series of books will fill a long-felt need for an inexpensive book for little ones. They are beautifully printed on heavy enameled stock, and each book, in addition to the illuminated cover, contains four full-page illustrations in colors. The titles are carefully selected, and the stories are clean and wholesome and well written. Each book contains twelve pages. Size, 4x51/2.

The series contains such titles as Mother Goose, Little Red Riding Hood, Cinderella, Our Country Playmates, Happy Days, etc.-all equally good bedtime stories or animal stories for children. There are twenty titles in the series. Sold assorted only; 50c per dozen, $4.00 per hundred, postpaid. Send all orders to the

McQUIDDY PRINTING COMPANY

317-319 Fifth Avenue, North NASHVILLE, TENN.

For Fever Headaches and Neuralgic Pains

An improved Aspirin tablet which is absoiutely safe to use even in cases of extreme debility and weak heart. Relieves headaches, neuralgia and rheumatic pains, and reduces fever. No depressing effects. Made by a formula which is in general use by teading physicians. 35c per package at your druggist's or by mall from the manufacturers. Pledmont Laboratories, Inc., Clinton, S. C.

Stop Itching

Skins with Tetterine

60c. at your druggist's or from SHUPTRINECCO., Savannah, Ga.

TREATED ONE WEEK FREE

Short breathing relieved in a few days; regulates the liver, kidneys, stomach, and heart; purifies the blood; strengthens the entire system.

Write for Free Trial Treatment,
COLLUM DROPSY REMEDY CO.,
Bept. E-43,
Atlanta, Ga.

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

OBITUARIES

Lamb.

On the morning of November 3, 1921, the angel of death visited the home of our beloved brother, Otis Lamb, of Murfreesboro, Tenn., and claimed his dear wife. Dessie had been a member of the church of Christ several years. She and Otis had been married about She leaves her husband, nine years. two sweet children, two sisters, and a mother, besides near relatives and friends, to mourn her death. Services were conducted at the home by Brother L. B. Jones and at the grave by Brother J. S. Westbrooks, after which the body was laid to rest in the family burying ground at Link, Tenn.

MARKE BURRIS

Riley.

Annie Holt was born on June 28, 1856. She was married to J. E. Riley on December 29, 1874. She was bap-tized on August 24, 1893, by Brother R. T. Sisco, and from that time till death claimed her, October 11, 1921, she lived a true, devoted, Christian life, hence was willing and ready to She leaves Brother Riley and some children and grandchildren and a host of friends to mourn her death; but they weep not as those that have no hope, but expect to meet her in the sweet by and by. After words of comfort by the writer, her body was laid to rest near Hendrix Chapel to wait C. N. HUDSON. till Jesus comes.

Baker.

Brother Willie Baker was born on September 10, 1861, and died on October 12, 1921. He was married to Miss Ada Cathey on November 5, 1884, and to this union two children were born. One of them passed over the river some years ago. Brother Baker lived the greater part of his life at Shady Grove, Hickman County, Tenn., but the latter part he spent in Texas, and died at Irvin, Texas, near Dallas. obeyed the gospel early in life, and was an earnest, faithful, and devout member of the church of Christ. He was a kind and tender-hearted man, a true husband, a kind father, and a splendid neighbor, and was a brave soldier of the cross. Brother Baker leaves a most excellent wife and a lovely daughter, to whom his death is a life loss. But they can look up with a strong hope, with the great and exceeding precious promises in the Lord. May the Lord bless them and heal their hearts and at last give them a happy reunion "over there

F. C. SOWELL,

Sowell.

August 12, 1921, Wallace T. Sowell bade farewell to this world and went into the great beyond. He was born on November 21, 1863, and, therefore, lived upon this earth fifty-seven years, eight months, and thirteen days. He was first married to Miss Virginia Wright, and to this union were born four children-three daughters, Vera, Ruth, and Virginia, and one son, Wallace Wright Sowell. These are all members of the church of Christ.

CHARACTER

THE MAKING OF THE MAN

SUPREMELY ELOQUENT

DELIGHTFULLY INSTRUCTIVE

AGENTS WANTED SHOULD BE READ BY EVERYBODY

The verdict of the thousands who have read the book is: "No lecture extant is more interesting, charming, and philosophical. It is a classic and easily ranks with the best productions of modern authors. A million copies should be sold." Thousands of copies have been sold in a few days. It is beautifully bound in sheep ooze, or library binding. Write at once to the publishers.

PRICE, $1.50 THE COPY

ADDRESS

McQUIDDY PRINTING CO.

Department

NASHVILLE

TENN

MAKE LOAFING HENS

While the price of eggs is high. Get three times the number of eggs you have been getting by using CaroVet Egg Producer, a wonderful poultry tonic. Satisfactory results guaranteed by money-back offer, 2%-pound packages, with full directions, for only 80c, delivered at your door. Send money order, stamps, or check

CAROLINA REMEDIES CO., No. 3 CaroVet Building, Union, S. C.

SOUTHERN DEST CO., Hickory, N. C.

Renew your subscription.

Eight years after the death of his first wife he was married to Miss Frances Farrar, who survives him. Wallace T. Sowell was the youngest surviving son of the late Col. William James and Emily Jane Sowell, and is survived by the following brothers and sisters: William I., T. Wilburn, and Felix C. Sowell, and Mrs. Fannie Scobey and Mrs. Emma Hammond. He became a member of the body of Christ early in life, and was a faithful and true servant of the Lord to the end of his life. He had a general information of the word of God, and his delight was in conversing on Bible topics. He was always ready and willing to have a He was part in church work, and although not a public speaker, he would read a lead in prayer, or give thanks at the Lord's table.

F. C. SOWELL.

Harlan.

The death of Mrs. Sarah Jane Harlan, at Columbia, Tenn.. occasioned great sorrow among her relatives and friends. My first acquaintance with this good woman was made during my boyhood days, when I was entertained in her hospitable home, and it has always been a pleasant memory. She was uniformly kind and gentle in her bearing and easily won the confidence of the young people. She was loved by old and young alike. Before her marriage she was Miss Sarah Mitchner, being connected with one of the finest families in Middle Tennessee. She was married to Mr. Harlan on May 23, 1873. Her husband died several years ago. There were seven children, six of whom survive their mother. They are as follows: Mrs. A. Armstrong, Mrs. B. F. Wise, Mrs. B. K. Bowers, Nashville; Mrs. M. S. May, Miami, Fla.; Mrs. Henry Dobbins and A. M. Harlan, Cross Bridges. Harlan's devotion to the church was marked. Within later years she has visited much among her children and other relatives; and wherever her presence was known, there radiated the influence of a cultured Christian woman. She died suddenly on a Sunday morning while attending a Lord'sday service at Columbia, Tenn. Life was extinct before kind friends who bore her body could reach the door. Viewed from this angle, this appears to be a tragic end; but when we stop to consider her devotion to the Master, it was, after all, appropriate and beautiful that he should call her to higher ground while in attendance upon his table. Brother J. Paul Slayden conducted the funeral service at Cross Bridges, near the old home. May God bless and sustain the children and show them how the Christian religion "shines the brightest in the dark."

A. B. LIPSCOMB.

RECIPE FOR GRAY HAIR

To half pint of water add 1 ounce Bay Rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and 4 ounce of Glycerine. Any druggist can put this up, or you can mix it at home at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. It will gradually darken streaked, faded, or gray hair and make it soft and glosssy. It will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy, and does not rub off.

$3.00 VALUE FOR $1.00

By special arrangement with one of the leading Eastern manufacturers, we are able to offer our readers a real bargain in the

"CAPITOL" LEVER SELF-FILLING FOUNTAIN PEN

SOME OF ITS FINE POINTS

GOLD PENS are 14 K. gold, spring tempered with special care, pointed with hard iridium. These pens have been famous for more than half a century.

CLIP is riveted to the cap, and prevents loss of pen from the pocket.

HOLDERS are made of the best quality hard rubber, and are not injured by the ink.

Lever or filling device is riveted to the barrel; when raised for filling the pen, pushes the pressure bar and the sac, filling the pen full, clean and quick.

The retail selling price of the pen is three dollars, but to every reader who sends a new subscriber at the regular subscription price of $2.50 and adds one dollar we will send this pen as a mark of our appreciation.

Please understand that the offer does not apply to renewals. It is made as a special inducement to get new subscribers.

Order early and avoid disappointment.

ADDRESS

GOSPEL ADVOCATE

317-319 Fifth Avenue, North

NASHVILLE, TENN.

IEY SAVED IS MON

Renewand Send New Subscribers to Gospel Advocate

KING JAMES VERSION (Edited and Revised in 1611).

THE TEACHERS' BIBLE is the complete Bible, containing the Old and New Testaments, with full references, and the latest and best helps for Sunday-school Teachers, as described below.

THE CONCISE BIBLE DICTIONARY

Is a marked advance in Teachers' Helps. It is arranged in alphabetical order, being based on the Illustrated Bible Treasury, written by leading scholars in America and Great Britain, each one a recognized authority on the subject on which he writes. The Concise Bible Dictionary supplies in the most condensed and convenient form all the latest information about the Bible-its writers, its language, the various Versions, complete Chronology, Life of Christ with Harmony of the Gospelf, Life and Travels of St. Paul, etc.

THE ILLUSTRATIONS

Were specially made for this work, being reproduced from recent photographs truly illustrating the articles where they appear.

THE COMBINED CONCORDANCE OR WORD FINDER

Combines Complete Concordance, Subject Index, Scripture Proper Names, Obsolete and Ambiguous Words in one A-B-C list.

THE TWELVE MAPS

Have been carefully revised and are beautifully colored, notably the reproduction of the Relief Map of Palestine, lately published by the Palestine Exploration Society. also a complete index to every place noted on the maps.

BREVIER TYPE, SELF-PRONOUNCING EDITION. Size 8vo, 51 x 81 inches and 11 inches thick.

Specimen of Type.

dwell in, whether it be good or bad; and what cities they be that they dwell in, whether in tents, or in strong holds;

20 And what the land is, whether it be 'fat or lean, whether there be wood therein, or not. And "be ye of good courage, and bring of the fruit of the land. Now the time was the time of the firstripe grapes.

searched unto the children of Isrá-el, saying, The land, through which we have gone to search it, is a land that eateth up the inhabitants thereof; and "all the people that we saw in it are "men of a great stature.

33 And there we saw the giants, "the sons of A'nak, which come of the giants; and we were in our own the giants: and we were in our own

7750. Keratol Leather, divinity circuit, round corners, red edges, with twenty-three full-page illustrations in Sepia, with Advocate $5.00

7750-I. Same as 7750, with thumb index cut in edge, with Advocate -

7752. Genuine Leather, Levant grain, divinity circuit, round corners, red under gold edges, twenty-three full-page illustrations in Sepia, without Advocate 5.25

- (0)0) --- (

7752-I. Same as 7752, with thumb index cut in edge, without Advocate 5.60

MCOUIDDY PRINTING CO.

317-319 FIFTH AVENUE, NORTH NASHVILLE. -TENNESSEE

UITABLE HOLIDAY GIFTS

Below we have grouped a number of the most popular and best values of Bibles and taments. If our readers will order at once, it will be helpful to us and keep out mistakes which are so likely to occur in the holiday rush. All orders should be mailed to McQUIDDY PRINT-ING COMPANY, and not to any individual. Order by number.

HOLMAN'S SELF-PRONOUNCING BIBLE.

For Adults, Teachers, Preachers, and all who would study the word of God intelligently, this edition is unsurpassed. The type is large, clear Bourgeois, self-pronouncing, with liberal space between the words and lines, which makes it easy to read. Size, 8x5½ inches.

Specimen of Type.

¶ mFrom that time Je'ı to preach, and to say, " E the kingdom of heaver

Containing New Copyrighted Helps by F. N. PELOUBET, D.D.; a treasury of biblical information, practical comparative concordance; Oriental light on the Bible; four thousand questions and answers; new colored maps.

ONFORD SELF-PRONOUNCING BIBLE.

All proper names and difficult words divided into syllables and cented so they may be correctly pronounced. Size, 8x5 4 abomination: how much more, when he bringeth it 1 with a wicked mind? 28 2A false witness shall perish: but the man that heareth speaketh constantly.

(Specimen of Type.)

B.C. 1000.

1 Rels. in wicked wines?

1 Rels. in with the learnest speaketh constantly.

No. 04421. Keratol; divinity circuit; round corners; red under gold edges. Our Price, delivered. $3.75

No. 81. RL. Red-Letter Teachers' Bible. The words of Christ in the New Testament. Old Testament passages alluded to by Christ, various prophecies relating to Christ in the Old Testament, etc.—all printed in red. Binding same as described above, and same large self-pronouncing type. Publisher's Price, 86.95; Our Price, postpaid

OXFORD SELF-PRONOUNCING PICTORIAL BIBLE.

With thirty-two photo views of scenes in Bible lands; carefully selected helps; four thousand questions and answers; six colored maps and presentation page. Nonparcil, 12mo. Size, 74x5 inches,

(Specimen of Type.)

16 But if the sacrifice of his offering be a vow, or a voluntary offering, it shall be eaten the same day that he offereth his sacrifice; and on the morrow also the remainder of it shall be eaten:

No. 4181. French Morocco; divinity circuit; round or red under gold edges. Publisher's Price, $3.65; Our Price, ered round: corners

NELSON AMERICAN STANDARD BIBLE.

Large-type. home-reading Bible; authorized and edited by the American Revision Committee, with topical headings prepared by them. Printed on fine white Bible paper from large, bold Pira type Easy to read and convenient in size. An ideal Bible for all whose eyesight is defective because of old age or weakness of the eyes; also a fine Bible for the pulpit, prayer-meeting, or Sunday-school desk. Contains presentation page, frontispiece by Dore, family record, and twelve colored maps Size, 5 %x8% inches and 1% inches thick.

(Specimen of Type.)

The making of woman.

0.33A

THE PARTY

man, and put him into the garden of Eden to dress it and to keep it. 16 And the Lord God com-

The names of the books of the Bible are printed in large type in upper outside corner of each page, enabling the reader to locate place wanted in-

No. 181. Genuine Leather: morocco grain: flexible round corners; red under gold edges, title stamped on back in pure gold. Price, postpaid..... $5.00

TEACHERS' EDITION AMERICAN STANDARD BIBLE.

This Bourgeois type Bible, with references, contains the Concise Bible Dictionary and a New Combined Concordance to the American Standard Version, making it easy to find any word in the Bible; twelve maps, with an index to each place on the maps. Size, 54x8 inches and 1% inches thick.

(Specimen of Type.)

21.13

II. SAMUJ

The Bones of Saul and Jonathan brought to Zela. Wars w

Jabesh-gilead, who had stolen them from the 'street of a Beth-shan, b'where the Philistines had hanged them, in the day that 'the Philistines slew Saul in Gilboa; 13 and 'Josh 15, 28, 31, 44, 45, 43, 25; 1, 36, 7, 28

KING JAMES (1611) VERSION.

Self-Pronouncing Edition.

Containing the Bible, with full references, the Concise Bible Dictionary, Combined Concordance, and twelve indexed maps.

(Specimen of Type.)

Discipleship exacting. The Tempest stille

18 Now when Jesus saw great multitudes about him, he gave com-mandment to depart unto the other side. 19 And there came 'a scribe,

NEW TESTAMENT WITH PSALMS

Especially suitable for a present. A very handsome Testament. (Specimen of Type.)

The making of woman.

GENE

man, and put him into the garden of Eden to dress it and to keep it. 16 And the LORD God commanded the man, saying, Of every

TESTAMENT WITH PSALMS.

n, 0500. Cloth; silk pattern; red edges. Pica type; same type as No. 054P and suitable for old people. Price, post-

TESTAMENT WITHOUT PSALMS.

io. 0255. Cloth; silk pattern; red edges. Price, post-

POCKET TESTAMENTS.

Emphasized American Standard Edition-Self-Pronouncing

No. 336X. Genuine Leather; morocco grain; limp; leather-lined to edge; silk sewed; round corners; red under gold edges litle stamped on side in pure gold. Price, postpaid... $2.10

RED-LETTER HOLMAN POCKET TESTAMENT.

ADDRESS ALL ORDERS TO 317-319 Fifth Ave., N.

McQUIDDY PRINTING CO.

NASHVILLE, TENN.

TETTERINE

Makes low necks and short sleeves possible. It clears the skin

60c at your druggist's or from the SHUP-TRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

CANCERS CURED AT THE KELLAM HOSPITAL

The Kellam Hospital cures Cancers, Sores without the use Burns, and Chronic Tumors, Ulcers, X-Ray of the knife, X-Ray, Radium, Acids, or Serum, and we have cured over 90 per cent of the many hundreds of sufferers treated during the past twenty-three years.

KELLAM HOSPITAL, Inc. 1617 West Main St. Richmond, Va.

Don't Wear a Truss

BROOKS' APPLIANCE, the modern scientific invention, the wonderful new discovery that relieves rupture will be sent on trial. No obnoxious springs or pads. Has automatic Aircustion, Binds and draws the broken parts together as you would a broken limb. No salves, No lies, Durable, chean Sent on trial to prove it Protected by U. S. patents. Catalogue and measure blanks mailed free. Send name and address today.

C. E. BROOKS, 443G State St., Marshall, Mich.

Report from Carman, Manitoba, Canada.

BY H. A. ROGERS.

I feel that it is my duty to inform the brethren in regard to existing conditions concerning my work in Saskatchewan. I am very grateful to all who have helped in the work of spreading the gospel, holding up my hands with money and very helpful words of encouragement. Great good has been done, and God will reward all for their sacrifices.

During the last two years, with the high prices and obligations of home, etc., I have been unable to finance matters and meet the obligations before me without using money belonging to others-that is, by borrowing. I have had to borrow so much that I find myself unable to see any other than but one of two ways out. The one way is to appeal to the brotherhood, making known the circumstances; and if the brethren deem it imperative that the work be continued, they will make an effort to encourage it. The other and only way left is to take up some other occupation for a year or so until I can recruit and get in a position to enter the field again.

Most brethren, it seems to me, are quite well aware of the work that I have, by God's grace and the cooperation of the brethren, together with the sacrifices of my family, accomplished. I have worked hard and incessantly, and practiced economy in every way I could. No one can accuse me of being in the field for remuneration. In the last four years I have had about twenty dollars per month more than the expenses of the work. I have worked and prayed for the salvation of souls, and I am still praying that God will open the way for me to continue to lead dying humanity to the Lamb of God.

There have been many prayers offered up to God that he might send many more laborers into the Western country to assist in winning souls to the Savior. I verily believe that God, in his goodness, is bringing about an answer to our prayers. There are hoys in the Carman Bible Training School, of which Brother H. L. Richardson is principal, who are promising for assistance in the evangelistic field in the near future; some could be made use of next summer.

Could we go ahead and continue to preach the good word, I feel that, in the light of the prospects before us, we are entering into the springtime of a glorious spreading of the word of God in this country.

I feel sure that Manitoba, Saskatchewan, and Alberta are the best provinces in Canada for evangelistic success. Will we put forth an extra effort at this time and do more for our Savior's cause and the glory of God, or will we stand still and see men sink into ruin?

At a business meeting of the Carman church, November 9, it was decided that, on account of the poor crops this year, the church could not assure any financial assistance outside of caring for the home work. This means twenty-five dollars a month less for the Saskatchewan work—three hundred dollars per year.

Brethren, I desire to see this work go ahead. A few years, with good crops and additional members and churches, should see the Saskatchewan work quite self-supporting. I ask the brethren to consider with prayerfulness the question before us. What am I to do under these circumstances? My home must be provided for. I am willing to sacrifice and do all I can to see the work go ahead. The brethren in Saskatchewan, to my mind, under the conditions which have existed in the way of poor crops, have given liberally. In my judgment, the extra help must come from the United States, Ontario, and the eastern provinces. Any church wishing any further information may have the same freely by asking. May God overrule that what is best shall be done.

BOILS

Old Sores, Cuts and Burns have been healed since 1820 with

Gray's Dintment

Sold by all druggists. Write for sample to W. F. Gray & Co., 716 Gray Bldg., Nashville, Tenn.

Try This For Sore Throat

On retiring fill your nostrils with Eucapine Salve. Sniff the salve back into the air passages of the head and throat until it reaches the tonsils and uvula and you taste the salve. This is test done 1/10g down, alow under back, head thrown back that the melting salve may rach the head cavifies. Also turn the head down and forward and to right and left; to flow the salve over the inflamed surfaces in the cavifies of the head. In the morning the pain and soreness will be gone. To make sure plucked and the salve on the back of the tongue with your finger. Same treatment for colds, nos sores, catarrhol headaches, catarrh of the head, nose and throat. If you swallow a little it won't hurt you. You'll soon learn to think that one of your very best friends is

Antiseptic Analgesic Antiphlogistic (Prevents Infection) (Relieves Pain) (Allays Inflammation) 50c the jar at your druggist's or by mall from

Piedmont Laboratories, Inc.,

Renew your subscription to the Gospel Advocate.

Resolutions of Respect.

Whereas, the Lord in his wisdom has seen fit to call into eternity our very highly esteemed and much loved brother, J. B. Cummings; and

Whereas, Brother Cummings has been our teacher in the Bible class for a number of years; therefore,

Be it resolved, That we deeply feel our great and irreparable loss in the very sad and unexpected death of this excellent man.

Be it further resolved, That the life of Brother Cummings and his teaching have been a great inspiration and material assistance to us in preparing for a life of greater usefulness here and for the blessings that await us over there.

Be it further resolved, That the church of Christ, the city of Trenton, Tenn., and Gibson County have lost one of the best and most highly esteemed citizens that has lived in this generation.

Be it further resolved, That we express sympathy for the bereaved family who sustain the loss of their loving and worthy husband and father.

Be it further resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be spread on the records of the Bible class, a copy be given to the family, and a copy be sent the Gospel Advocate and each of the county papers for publication.

[Signed] J. W. Travis, M. A. Williams H. J. McCaul.

Our Move to Selkirk, Ontario. BY H. M. EVANS.

In response to a call from the church at Selkirk, Ontario, Canada, we arrived here on the night of September 30, and began our work with the church on the following Lord's day. We were met at the station by Brother John Cooper and were soon comfortably housed with his father, Thomas Cooper, for a few days until we could get settled in our own home. This took only a few days, as the sisters had the house cleaned and in readiness before we came. Several of them were on hand to assist us in unpacking and getting settled and we are now ready for the Master's work, whatever he has for us to do. Circumstances during the past eight months have fully convinced us that our move here is certainly providential. For months we almost turned a deaf ear to the pressing invitation to "come over" to this little "Macedonia" to help these brethren, but the calls became so pressing and the help seemed so much needed that we threw the matter entirely into the Lord's hands, requesting him to control the matter and lead us at his will, and his marvelous working in this case, in removing every obstruction that seemed to hinder our taking this step, relieved us of all other responsibilities and left us free for the Lord's work here. "Casting all our care upon Him," we shall now endeavor to do his will in this humble field.

We regret that the Selkirk congregation has had such a checkered career as it has experienced; but the Lord has said that offenses will come, "but woe to that man by whom the offense cometh!" All the "Diotrephes" are not dead yet. Even among preachers, who above all others, ought to know better, there are those who persist in that rule-or-ruin spirit to divide congregations and create factions. If the reader has not read Brother McQuiddy's editorial in the Gespel Advocate of November 3, it will pay him to look up that number and read it.

Notwithstanding all difficulties, we are having splendid meetings and good audiences of attentive listeners both morning and evening. Making allowance for all human failings and shortcomings, we have a fine lot of brethren. The friends of both my better half and myself are too numerous to mention, and we pray that the Lord in his kind providence may open the way for the glorification of his word which is forever settled in heaven;" that the spirit of unity may animate every soul; that the lesson of Paul (1 Cor. 1: 10) may be heeded, the heart-searching prayer of our Savior (John 17: 20-23) be answered, and the name of Jehovah magnified. We earnestly request the prayers of the churches for ourselves, and especially for the cause of Christ in this field.

	ENGRAVED VISITING CARDS	100 (E AND CARDS
	11 11 00	One	Extra Lines
C	Mrs. Morris E. Barr		$1.50
2	Miss Virginia Haloy	5,25	2.75
3	Miss Puth Heath	3.25	1.50
4	Miss Emma R. Leathers	3.25	1,50
Б	Miss Almyra Reams	3.75	2.00
6	Mrs. Carey It. Posegate	5.25	2.75
7	Mrs. Edward Glonn Walker	3.75	2.00
8	Mrs. Helen Simpson Cooper	5.25	2.75
9	Miss Elizabeth Barthell	3.75	2.00
10	Miss Kathleen Vaughan	5.25	2.75
н	Wrs. Justin Potter	5.25	2.75
12	MR.JOHN T. CAMPBELL	4.25	2.25
13	MR. FRANK B. EMMERLING	5.50	3.00
14	Miss Hester E. Bratten	5.50	3.00
15	MR. JACK SWANEY	3.75	2.00
16	MR.WILLIAM A. HUDSON	4.25	2,25
100 C	Cards reprinted from plate. Cards reprinted from plate. Plate-Marked Cards, extra Mourning Cards from plate. Mourning Cards from plate.		25
Eras	ures on Copper Plate, per line	100.000	1,29

On orders of 100 Cards, with 50 name only and 50 with address,

Charge 25 per cent extra line rate for adding Mr., Mrs., Miss, etc., charge $1.25 for each lot of 50.

to old plates.

CENTER SHOTS AT SIN.

Abernethy, Arthur Talmage,

An arsenal of religious ammunition as-sembled by a strategist experienced in fight-ing uphill. A book penned with a plume of experience, dipped in the heart's blood of a preacher who has met sin who has accepted its challenge to combat on the field of ac-tion. The author is a strong and virile thinker; his style, clear and forceful. Each sermon will prove an eve opener.

THE GLORIOUS GOSPEL.

Adcock, Adam K.

"No one except a thorough and devous stu-dent of the Scriptures could have written. The Glorious Gospel.' The author shows excellent analytic and synthetic power and knowledge in the selection and organization of the biblical teaching on the various sub-jects treated."—Christian Journal.

SERMONS FOR THE PROPER.

Buck, W. H.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid $1.40

Few books of sermons combine the qualities of interest, instruction, and inspiration to the degree in which they are united in this volume. The author is a master in the field of popular sermonizing, and some of his best work is to be found in this collection. There is not a dull page in the book. The text fairly sparkles with original and apt narratives.

COLUMBUS TABERNACLE SERMONS, VOLUME I.

Book, W. H.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid.$1.40

The gospel is always attractive when presented by W. H. Book. It is a message that never fails to quicken into action the reader's mind and heart. This author's well-known powers of oratory, his profound grasp of the teachings of Jesus and his aposties his fearlessness in condemning wrong and error, his virile, forceful wive, and his unique personality, are well preserved in every kne. These sermons were not written in a study, but were stemographically reported as the burning words were uttered by this master preacher, under the inspiration of the great audience which flocks to hear him every week.

COLUMBUS TABERNACLE SERMONS, VOLUME II.

Book, W. H.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid $1,40

A companion volume to the author's first book of sermons. Reported in the same way and published because of the unusual de-mand the first volume created.

THE INDIANA PULPIT.

Edited by W. H. Book.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid......$1,40

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid. $1.40.

This series of twenty-two practical sermons, each discourse being the best one preached by as many leading Indiana preachers, presents vital Christianity in a most attractive way. The author has condensed with unusual discrimination and tiste, the message of such widely-known preachers as Z. T. Sweeney James Small T. J. Legg, etc. A photograph and brief biography of each contributor precede every chapter.

"The Indiana Pulpit will be especially helpful to young preachers. The topics are varied and the discourses are from men of learning and experience. It will make each who teads it better, and it will strengthen the faith of all who carefully peruse its pages."—George A. Miller.

LIGHTS ON SCRIPTURE TRUTHS.

(Former title "Side Windows")

Boteler, Mattie M.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid$1.00

A valuable ready-relevance compendium of original forceful and api lilustrations for the busy preacher, Sunday-school teacher, and religious worker. The striking originality and practical usefulness of each ilustration puls this volume in a class all by itself. A carefully prepared topical index and alphabetically arranged table of contents add greatly to its usefulness. Its distinct value is that the author has followed the example of the great Teacher in litustrating protound truths by examples familiar to all. "I found one illustration that was well worth the price of the book."—S. M. Bernard.

SERMON NOTES FROM THE MINISTRY OF JESUS.

Boteler, Mattle M.

In this new collection of decidedly fresh and suggestive material on the life of Christ we have a forcettil and significant book, which will prove invaluable to young ministers teachers and church workers in general. Miss Boteler, a graceful and original writer, his presented a study of the life of Christ from an entirely new point of view, so arrunged as to make it a complete worker's companion and encyclopedia on the teachings of the Master. Her work is always eagerly awaited by ministers and Christian workers.

SOUL-SAVING REVIVAL SERMONS.

Brandt, John L

A series of mineteen thought-provoking, evangelistic sermons by one of the most eminent preachers of the day. These sermons relate the principles of Christianity to the everyday life with a keen insight and sympathetic understanding. They are educational in plan, evangelistic in tone, virile in thought, and vigorous in expression. Just the book for the minister who wishes to foster and develop the revival spirit in himself and his congregation.

THE GOSPEL PLAN OF SALVATION.

Brents, Dr. T. W.

Cloth, 8vo. Price, postpaid$2.00

Eight editions have been sold. This book is too well known to need commendation from us. It embraces in its compass the following all-important themes: Predestination, Election, and Reprobation; Calvinistic Proofs Examined; The Foreknowledge of Ged: Hereditary Depravity; Establishment of the Church; Identity of the Church; The New Birth; Falth; Repentance, The Confession; Baptism—What Is It? Who Should Be Baptized? The Design of Baptism; The Holy Spiril

GOSPEL SERMONS.

Brents, Dr. T. W.

Cloth, 440 large pages. Price, postpald, $2:00

Cloth, 440 large pages. Price, postpaid, $2.00. These sermons are written in the author's well-known strong, clear, and convincing style. The subjects discussed are: The Mission of John the Baptist; The Sonship of Christ; The Commission; The Conversion of the Jailer; Types and Antitypes; Shadows and Substances; Salvation of the Hebrews from Bondage; The Tubernacle; Freedom from Sin; Justification; Regeneration; The Transfiguration; Paul's Charge to Timothy; A Reason for the Christian's Hope; Zeal Without Knowledge; Paul's Natural Man; The Divine Nature in the Christian; Excuses; The Origin, Mission, and Destiny of Angels, The Millennium; Church Organization; Conditional Salvation.

HAUSTRATIVE INCIDENTS FOR PUBLIC SPEAKERS.

Brown, Will H.

Cloth, 12mo, Hlust'd, Price, postpaid, $1.75

This voluminous collection of entirely new illustrations will be an invaluable aid to all public speakers, and especially to those who are contemplating entering upon the public forum. It is a guide to public oratory, as well as a rollection of apt and original literations. The author's marked success as a speaker, as well as a writer, is quite sufficient guarantee of the superior value of this book.

One authority says: "The book is very rich is classified illustrations of the sort that can really be used."

WIT AND HUMOR FOR PUBLIC SPEAK-ERS.

Brown, WIII H.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid......$1.75

A collection of bright, breezy, brief, nu-morous anecdotes and stories alphabetically classified under subjects, with a careful in-dex. As original, fresh, and usable as its companion volume, "Illustrative Incidents for Public Speakers,"

The tinest collection of pointed stories and witticisms I have ever seen,"—H. H. Peters.

POEMS OF PEP AND POINT FOR PUB-LIC SPEAKERS.

Brown, Will H.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid. $1.75

The great demand to-day is for the practical, pointed, peppy presentation of whatever idea the speaker may wish to emphasize. This book has been prepared with the up-to-daie public speaker in mind, although any one who likes poetry will enjoy it as well. It contains about six hundred carefully selected poems, including many by Edgar A. Guest, Amos R. Wells, Edmund Vance Cook, Wilbur D. Nesbit, etc. Arranged in alphabetical order, ninety-six subjects are treated—from Achievement and Activity to Worry and Zeal. Most of the selections are from the pens of poets who have caught the spirit of present world conditions, making the book one of the most timely and usable of the day.

PATRIOTIC ILLUSTRATIONS FOR PUB-LIC SPEAKERS.

Brown, Will H.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid......$1.75

In harmony with the new spirit in the world, this volume has been prepared covering every possible phase of the new patriotism. In addition to the Index, with a classification of about eighty subjects, will be found cross-references giving a still wider use of the many illustrations here assembled.

STORIES OF THE GREAT WAR FOR PUBLIC SPEAKERS.

Brown, Will H.

Cloth, 12mo, Price, postpaid $1.75

This volume is alive and overflowing with wonderfully thrilling stories and incidents of the world war, carefully classified and indexed according to subjects.

POPULAR LECTURES AND ADDRESSES.

Campbell, Alexander,

A series of twenty-seven notable lectures on patriotic, religious social, and educational themes. Here one tinds, as perhaps nowhere else, an exhibition of the wonderful range of Mr. Campbell's knowledge.

THE CHRISTIAN SYSTEM.

Campbell, Alexander.

Cloth, 12mo. 383 pages. Price, postpaid, $1.50

Cloth, 12mo. 383 pages. Price postpaid, $1.50

A work in reference to the union of Christians and a restoration of primitive Christianity as pleaded in the current reformation. This is the work so often cited by our denominational friends as the "creed" of the disciples of Christ. It is in no true sense of the word a creed, but it is a treatise on the Christian system by one of the ablest scholars and boldest and most original thinkers which the eighteenth century produced. One should thoroughly master the contents of this volume before claiming to understand the position and teaching of Mr. Campbell' as a religious reformer. Its right to a place, therefore, in the library of our ministers and Bible students is apparent The more Mr. Campbell's writings have been studied in the light of God's word, the more they will be appreciated. While the very suggestion that he is in any sense the head of the church with which Christians stand identified is repugnant to all right-thinking people, it is quite true that he character as a great reformer in religious history is milisputable. Certainly the writings of he uninspired man are more worthy of careful study.

CHRISTIAN BAPTISM.

Campbell, Alexander.

L. B. Bradiey, the well-known debater, says of this volume: "Christian Baptism, by Alexander Campbell, is a very valuable work, in my estimation. I have used it to a very great advantage in my discussions with various sectarian debaters. Like all of the author's works, it goes to the buttom of the matter. Since he had so many controversies on the question of baptism, he left no stone unturned to get at the truth. It should have a wide circulation among the brethren, and especially should be in the study of every preacher of the church of Christ."

THE RELATIONS OF GOD TO THE WORLD. Christopher, Hiram, A.M., M.D.

Cloth, 192 pages. Price, postpaid...... $1 00

There are too few people, comparatively, who appreciate the beauty and strength of those evidences found in what men are pleased to term "natural theology". Strike out the Bible, destroy every line that has been written about God from time immemorial and still he walks unchallenged upon the face of the earth and forces his way into the hearts of men. God's witness is everywhere. Christopher's book on the "Reintlens of God to the World" helps us wenderfully to appreciate this sublime fact.

THE CHRIST OF THE CHURCH.

Coombs, J. V.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid......$1.00

"The sermons all have a good gospel ring," and the lectures deal with practical life problems in a very helpful sort of way. There is much of philosophy and sound doctrine and common sense and striking illustrations in the book. It is good."—The Lookout.

TOPICAL ILLUSTRATIONS.

Denton, J. E.

The busy worker will find in this thesaurus of religious object lessons a wealth of material to enliven and adorn his sermon or speech and press home upon his audience the truths of his discourse. The careful alphabetical arrangement makes this a model collection of illustrations for quick and easy reference. Each illustration, has been curfully tested out in the author's own public experience. There is no waste material to be found. It is the seasoned product of a master platform orator tested in the fire of actual experience.

JESUS CHRIST IN HUMAN EXPERIENCE. Dutt, Meade E.

A volume of rare spiritual insight and litterary charm. In an "Introductory Note," admirable for its brevity and clearness, the author says: "I have taken a few New Testament characters and striven to point on where Josus Christ touched their experiences, believing that human nature remains constant throughout the centuries, and that what was helpful to mankind two thousand years ago should be helpful today."
"A book of doctrines and devotions of

"A book of doctrines and devotions, of ethics and cleans, which will at once satisfy the weaver of dreams and the doer of deeds."—B. A. Albott.

BIBLE READINGS.

tin two volumes.)

Errett, Isnac.

Cioth, 12mo. Price, each, postpani. . . $1.50

THE QUERISTS' DRAWER.

Errett, Isaac.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid. $1.50

A compliation of over three hundred ques-tions and answers on Christian beliefs, doc-trines, pointy, life, and conduct, with an at-platedically arranged list of subjects and a chronologically stranged list of texts.

EVENINGS WITH THE BIBLE.

Errett, Isaac.

(In three volumes.)

Cloth 8vo. Price, per volume, postpaid, $1.00

This notable work is a consecutive series of historical, devotional, and doctrinal stud ies of the entire Bible. Beginning with Genesis, the gifted writer gradually unfolds to the reader, in his fucid, graceful, persuasive, and inimitable style, the dealings and purposes of God with man as recorded in the Bible. Under the guidance of this master hand, the Bible becomes a united and carefully planned and executed book, although written in different ages and by different men. For deep spiritual insight, sympathetic understanding, and practical application, this series of biblical studies has few equals

THE WORD OF RECONCILIATION.

Cloth, 231 pages, Price, postpaid $1.00

This book is well adapted to the masses. It presents the story of salvation in a simple yet attractive manner. The way of salvation is presented to simmer and saint alike, in a way that is neither too profound nor too voluminous for the masses. Its simplicity, clearnoss, and thoroughness charm the scholarly.

EVIDENCES OF PARDON.

Holt, C. E.

Paper cover. 105 pages. Price..... 25 cts.—Per Dozen $2.50

An interesting dialogue. The author has done most splendid work in this little book. It rivets the attention from beginning to end. It has been read with great interest by many.

INSTRUMENTAL MUSIC IN THE WORSHIP. Kurfees, M. C.

Cloth 300 pages. Price, postpaid $1.50

Cloth 300 pages. Price, postpaid....$1.50

This is the most comprehensive book on this important subject now before the public. In it the Greek vorb 'psallo' is philologically and historically examined, together with a full discussion of kindred matters relating to music in Christian worship.' The book is the result of a lifetime of critical study and research, and has become the standard of information on the music quostion. It has been highly recommended by scholarly brethren in the church of Christ and in the religious world.

CHRISTIAN TREASURES.

Lipscomb, A. B.

Two volumes: Price, per volume $1.25

Each volume contains about 300 pages, and deals with vital themes that were covered in special numbers of the Gespei Advocate. Each contains not only the best thoughts of the editors, but a host of careful writers, to whom were assigned various phases of the following subjects for Volume I Studying the Bible: Teaching the Bible: Applying the Bible: History of the Bible: Teaching the Bible: History of the Bible: Teaching the Bible: History of the Bible: History

CIVIL GOVERNMENT.

Lipscomb, David.

Cloth. 158 pages. Price, postpaid$1.00

This book gives the origin, mission, destiny, and the Christian's relation to civil government. It will be better appreciated by future generations as the light of Bible knowledge becomes more general.

COMMENTARY ON ACTS.

Lipscomb, David.

Cloth. 250 pages. Price, postpaid ... $1.50

A commentary on the Acts of the Apos-ties, with questions suited for the use of families and schools. This commentary is especially adapted to the comprehension of the masses of the people. It also contains a chronology of the Acts, map showing Faul's missionary journeys, brief biographies of the and an introductory chapter on the Holy Spirit.

SALVATION FROM SIN.

Linscomb, David.

Cloth, 440 large pages. Price, postpaid, $1.50

This book is composed of the editorials of David Lipscomb, collated by J. W. Shepherd, and contains many of the best and most profound thoughts of the author. It contains an index to subjects and index to scriptures. Contains 440 large pages, which are well printed in large, clear type.

ON THE LORD'S DAY.

Lord, J. A.

EUNICE LOYD.

Moody, R. N.

Cloth. 300 pages. Price. postpaid $1.25

This book is written in fiction style, and presents the plan of salvation and worship in a most entertaining way. Many who rould not be induced to read other books relating to this subject have been easily captivated by the simple, pleasing style of Eunice Loyd. It has deservedly received a wide circulation.

A NEW COMMENTARY ON ACTS OF APOSTLES.

McGarvey, J. W.

Cloth, 8vo. Price, postpaid.....$2.00

A commentary on this great book of the Bible that is original in form, broad in scholarship, and truly conservative. The author's versatility, profound knowledge of the Bible, his skill in arraying evidence, and his sympathy with the divine record combine to make a work of surpassing value and originality. and originality.

THE FOURFOLD GOSPEL.

McGarvey, J. W., and Pendleton, P. Y.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid $2.25

A harmony of the four Gospels, so arranged as to form a complete chronological life of Christ, divided into titled sections and subdivisions, with comments interjected in subdivisions, with comments interjected in the text. The American Standard Version has been used.

STANDARD BIBLE COMMENTARY ON THESSALONIANS, CORINTHIANS, GA-LATIANS, AND ROMANS.

(A companion volume to "The Fourfold Gospel.")

McGarvey, J. W., and Pendleton, P. V.

Cloth, 8vo Price, postpaid$2.25

The original method of (reatment in that standard harmony has been employed in pro-paring this volume. The commentators have produced in this work a most practical and helpful exposition for the use of all readers of God's word.

BIBLICAL CRITICISM.

McGarvey, J. W.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid.....$1,25

LANDS OF THE BIBLE.

McGarvey, J. W.

Cloth, 8vo. Price, postpaid$2.50

An exhaustive guidebook to the geography, topography, and social customs of Palestine President McGarvey went to Palestine as on a holy pligrimage. To him every rock and tree, every running brook and sloping hilliside was fraught with sacred memories and traditions. He has classified and arranged and presented all this in that graphic, clear-cut, and forceful style for which he was famous. This great work can be used in preparation of every Sunday-school lesson.

JESUS AND JONAH.

McGarvey, J. W.

A vigorous defense of the book of Jonah Belief in this Bible miracle involves the belief in the divinity of Jesus Christ. The author exposes the cavis of the higher critics in a way that leaves them no ground to stand upon Those who have not full confidence in the story of Jonah should not fail to read this able defense of its authenticity.

SERMONS.

McGarvey, J. W.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid $1,50

The great sermons of a great preacher. They are models of homlletic effort, strong, able, and instructive. They deal with practical, vital themes which cannot fall to interest every Bible reader. President McGarvey's profound sympathy with their messages, his childlike faith, and his keenly analytic mind made him one of the foremost preachers of his day. This volume happily preserves all these qualities for the use of future generations. Every preacher will gain invaluable inspiration from this master of pulpit oratory.

EVANGELISTIC SERMONS.

Matthews, Robert T.

Cloth, 12mo, Price, postpaid$1.00

In this volume of sermons the gospel is preached in a most inspiring and forceful way. Every discourse, dealing with some important phase of salvation, is a model of clearness, simplicity, and directness. As a pulpit orator, Mr. Matthews had few equals.

TRAINING TO TEACH.

Meacham, E. J.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid $1.25

A topical handbook for Christian workers, made up of forceful, practical, and stimu-lating thoughts on the vital things of the Christian life and service.

COMMENTARY ON HEBREWS.

Milligan, Robert.

Cloth, Svo. 395 pages. Price, postpaid, $1.50

President Milligan was for many years a diligent student of the Epistle to the Hebrews, having made use of it as a texthook in English and Greek exceesis for tenyears; and he has lavished upon this commentary all the results of his long-continued study. We commend this work as the most satisfactory exposition of the Epistle to the Hebrews that has yet been published. (J. W. McGarvey.)

SEEKING THE OLD PATHS.

Moffett, Robert.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid.....$1.00

These sermons embody the crystallized thought and reflection of a lifetime. They possess a clearness, a breadth, and an accuracy of scriptural knowledge seldom found in the discourses of the day. They were preached at a time that demanded the most careful reasoning, profound biblical knowledge, and accurate information. Each sermon is a model of concise statement, logical arrangement, and accurate presentation of the gospel requirements of salvation.

SOUND DOCTRINE.

(In two volumes.)

Nichol, C. R., and Whiteside, R. L.

Cloth bound. Price, per vol., postpaid, $1.00

These books are designed for class work, prayer meetings, and home study. Highly commended by all who have used them. A special price of $9.60 is made when ordered in dozen lots.

NICHOL'S BOOKLET, IMPROVED.

Nichol, C. R.

A handy compendium on all Bible sub-jects. Thomas E. Mijholland says: "It is the greatest little book to be found, except the Bible." Just fits the vest pocket.

BIBLE TRUTHS ILLUSTRATED

Pittman, J. C. Ferdinand.

ADDRESSES.

Pritchard, H. R.

A book of strong sermons by a clear, fresh, and original thinker, including the famous "Pritchard-Terrell Debate." Proposition 1: "Immersion is Essential to Cheistian Baptism." Mr. Pritchard affirms Proposition 2: "Infant Children Are Proper Subjects of Baptism." Mr. Terrell affirms Proposition 3: "Wherever the Gospel is Preached, Water Baptism is Essential to the Pardon of Past Sins." Mr. Pritchard affirms.

PUSHING THE WORLD ALONG.

Rutledge, George P.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpald..... $1.25

Few men are better fitted to preach the gospel to this indifferent age than the accomplished and successful author of this stirring volume. Every sermon is a shaft of truth winged with apt illustrations which go deep into the heart of the hearer. The preacher who wishes a fresh stimulus (o more forceful and original sermonizing should read Mr. Rutledge's discourses.

THE SPIRIT AND THE WORD.

Sweeney, Z. T.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid...........$1.25

A treatise on the Holy Spirit in the light of a rational interpretation of the word of truth.

PULPIT DIAGRAMS.

(New edition.)

Sweeney, Z. T.

A unique and indispensable work for min laters and Bible students. Containing a col-lection of forty-eight of the graphic and original pulpit diagrams. They will prove an invaluable aid in impressing Bible truths.

HANDBOOK ON BAPTISM.

Shepherd, J. W.

(Revised edition.)

Cloth. 486 pages. Price, postpaid.....$1.50

"I thank the publishers for sending me a copy of this very valuable book. As a collection of "authorities" on the subject, it stands without a rival. The author enjoyed very exceptional facilities for making his collection of authorities. With painstaking care and perseverance he has done his work, and the result is a book which leaves nothing to be desired in its chosen field." (J. W. McGarvey.)

THE NEW TESTAMENT CHURCH.

Srygley, F. D.

Cloth. 300 pages. Price, postpaid.....81,00

Under this head have been collated the best of the writings of the lamented F. D. Srygley, who for eleven years was first-page editor of the Gospel Advocate. The editing of this book was a labor of love performed by F. B. Srygley, brother of the deceased. As a deep and, at the same time, versatile writer, F. D. Srygley had few equals. This book is the essence of his best work.

THE JERUSALEM TRAGEDY,

Stout, A. P.

Hlustrated. Price, postpaid$1.50

This book treats of all the points in the trial and crucifixion of our Savior; the minute details of the times, persons, and places most interestingly brought out; the awful scenes and sufferings of the "man of sorrows" almost as pathetic graphic, and impressive as it you were an eyewitness; ree from sectarian bias or denominational interests; a heart-touching, life-modding messenger in every home. Forty-five illustrations from the masterpieces. senger in every home. For

SWEENEYS SERMONS

Sweeney, John S.

Cloth, 12mo. 304 pages. Price, postpaid, $1,50

Cloth 12mc. 304 pages. Price, postpaid, $1.50

"In this book of sermons the reader will find a clear statement of what the author understands the Scriptures to teach on several vital points of the Christian religion.
Mr Sweeney has made the Scriptures a special study for many years, and his recognized ability and reputation as a preacher entitle him to a patient hearing. We bespeak for him the attention which his talent and experience and the importance of his themes should command." (Extract from Preface.)

THE WAY OF SALVATION.

Tyler, B. B.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid $0.50

A volume of sermons by one who was a leader among Christian ministers. He never falls to enlist and hold the close attention of the reader to the end of the discourse. His sermon on "The Unique Character of the Bible" will only inspire the reader to go on to "An Honest Doubter." "The Problem of Union," and others equally as force ful as these.

SERMONS:

Updike, J. V.

Cloth, 12mo. Price. postpaid.......$1.00

A series of plain, pointed, practical sermons, convincing and uplifting. They should have a place in the study of every preacher who is concerned about winning souls to Christ. The younger preachers should place themselves under the influence of this great gospel pleader. His discourses are sermons of the heart as well as the head. Numerous portraits and a blographical sketch of the author included in the volume.

TWENTIETH-CENTURY SERMONS AND ADDRESSES.

Wilson, L. C.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid$1.50

A series of forty-three practical and doctrinal discourses by some of our representative men and women, with Introduction by J. A. Lord. Such names as F. D. Power, A. M. Haggard, C. C. Smith, J. B. Briney, L. C. Wilson, Helen E. Moses, Anna Robinson Atwater, Lura V. Thompson, and others equally as well known, bespeak the excellence and worth of these addresses.

LIFE OF ELDER JOHN SMITH.

Williams, John Augustus.

Cloth. Price, postpaid......$1.50

BACCALAUREATE AND CONVOCATION SERMONS,

Zollars, E. V.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid$2.00

The notable career of President Zoliars in the educational world won for him an enviable reputation as a commencement oract. His thorough scholarship and his boundless enthusiasm for his work fully equipped him for the task of indicating to youth the principles upon which it is possible to build a permanent success. The author gathered in this volume the cream of over thirty years of commencement addresses. It is an indispensable aid to speakers at annual exercises of schools, academies, colleges, seminaries, and universities.

McQUIDDY PRINTING COMPANY, NASHVILLE, TENN

THE COMMISSION EXECUTED.

Zollars, E. V.

Cloth, 12mo. Price, postpaid.......$1.25

A study of New Testament conversions and other evangelistic topics.
"It is one of the best volumes of evangelistic sermons that it has been the writer's privilege to examine. The press has put forth no better volume on first principles than this. I wish it might be in the library of every preacher in America."—E. E. Snoddy.

FROM DARKNESS TO LIGHT.

Zollars, E. V.

Cloth, 296 pages. Price, postpaid.....$1.00

A series of autobiographical sketches re lating to religious experience by eminent ministers of the church of Christ. Twenty six elegant portraits. There are twenty-six independent personal histories of earnest souls who have found their way out of the mists of denominationalism into the full light of the gospel.

BIOGRAPHICAL.

LETTERS AND SERMONS OF T. B. LARI-MORE,

(In three volumes, We have only Volumes II, and III_{ℓ})

Larimore, Mrs. Emma Page.

The first volume was edited by the inmented F. D. Srygley, one of Larimore's "boys." The second and third volumes were edited by Mrs. Emma P. Larimore. Concerning these volumes, D. Lipscomb said: "His private letters and intercourse always inculcate purity and fidelity to truth and right and a constant desire to benefit others. The reading of these sermons and letters will do all good. We especially commend them to the young."

LIFE WORK OF MRS. CHARLOTTE FAN-

Larimore, Mrs. Emma Page.

Cloth, 12mo, 201 pages. Price, postpaid, $1.00

Mrs. Fanning's life was an ideal one. No one can read this book without an uplift, Makes a fine gift for girls.

LIFE AND SERMONS OF JESSE L. SEW-ELL.

Lipscomb, David.

Cloth bound. Price, postpaid$1.50

This is an interesting book. One hundred and twenty-one pages are devoted to a memorial of his life, work, and character, by David Lipscomb: one hundred and nine-ty-seven pages, to sermons by Jesse Sewell. Sixteen of his best sermons are here given, covering all the phases of conversion, and especially on some points upon which disciples and denominations differ. It contains sermons on such themes as: The Conversion of Cornellus, Atonement and Revoncillation, Witness of the Spirit, Form of Doctrine, The Grace of God, The Name of Christ, In Christ, The Son of God, The One Foundation.

GOSPEL LESSONS AND LIFE HISTORY.

Sewell, E. G.

Cloth. 338 pages. Price, postpaid.....$1.25

Cloth 338 pages. Price, postpaid....$1.25
This very interesting book contains twentyfour chapters. Of these, nineteen are plain presentations of Bible themes—the Bible, two chapters; the gospel, and its obedience in becoming Christians, and connecting themes, twelve chapters, including the proper division of the word, sufficiency and power of the word, what baptism is and why administered, how the Spirit enlightens and converts people, with examples of conversion; and five chapters on the Christian life. Thore are three chapters on the Woodland Street Church and its divisions, and two chapters on the early life, education, and religiosu influences of the author, including a wide field of practical Bible study.

LARIMORE AND HIS BOYS.

Srygley, F. D.

Cloth. Price, postpald......$1,25

SEVENTY YEARS IN DIXTE.

Srygley, F. D.

Cloth. 400 pages. Price, postpaid $1.50

Cloth, 400 pages. Price, postpaid.....$1.50

An intensely interesting book, consisting mainly of the recollections, sayings, and doings of the inimitable T. W. Caskey. Compiled, arranged, and written by F. D. Srygley. It gives interesting descriptions of the manners and customs of the country when Indians were here; when people lived in log buts and hunted deer, hear, and other wild animals for a living. It tells how the country was cleared and how houses were furnished. It describes marriages, funerals, revival meetings, political gatherings, logrollings, corn shuckings, singing schools, dances, frolics, quilitings, making soap, carding, spinning, weaving cloth, etc., in the olden times. It tells about slavery, secession, and the war. It is humorous, pathetic, religious, biographical, and full of deeply interesting information. It is a general favorite with the people of all religious denominations. denominations.

RELIGIOUS DISCUSSIONS.

BRENTS-HEROD DEBATE.

Paper bound. Price, postpaid......$9.50

EBATE ON THE ROMAN CATHOLIC RELIGION. DEBATE

Cloth. New edition. 360 pages.

This is a discussion between Alexander Campbell and John B. Purcell, Bishop of Cineinnati, O.

THE EVIDENCES OF CHRISTIANITY,

Cloth. New edition. Price, postpaid....$1.50

Cloth New edition Price, postpaid...$1.50

A debate between Robert Owen, of New Lanark, Scotland, and Alexander Campbell, president of Bethany College, held in Cincinnath, O., in April, 1829. A peculiar interest always attaches to this volume, because it contains the report of a debate of the two most distinguished representatives of the systems they advocated then living. Mr. Owen, a man of acknowledged ability and of high education, was the ablest representative of the "social system" he advocated in the discussion.

NICHOL-BRADLEY DISCUSSION.

Paper binding, 345 pages.

This was an oral discussion, stenographically reported, on the subjects: "Has the Kingdom Been Established?" and "The Immortality of Man." C. R. Nichol's arguments are a deathblow to materialism.

CAYCE-SRYGLEY DISCUSSION.

Cloth, 352 pages. Price, postpaid $1.50 Is Salvation Conditional or Unconditional? A discussion between C. H. Cayee, Primitive Baptist, and F. B. Srygley, Christian. C. H. Cayce affirmed: "God gives eternal life to an alien sinner without a condition upon his (the sinner's) part, and the Scriptures so teach." F. B. Srygley affirmed: "Faith, re-pentance, and water haptism are the con-ditions of pardon to an alien sinner." The book contains 352 pages, with an index to the speeches and scriptures introduced in the discussion. the speeches : the discussion.

FOLK-McQUIDDY DISCUSSION ON THE PLAN OF SALVATION.

Cloth. 350 pages. Price, postpaid $1.25

This discussion between E. E. Folk and J. C. McQuiddy was first published in the Gospei Advocate and the Baptist and Reflector. The demand for the discussion to be printed in book form was so great that it was finally decided to yield to the demand.

WHY THE BAPTIST NAME,

Cloth, 320 pages. Price......$1.50

Cloth. 320 pages. Price........$1.50

A written discussion between F. W. Smith, the well-known evangelist and writer, and the late Dr. George A. Lofton, who was a distinguished Missionary Baptist leader. In this book Dr. Lofton presents the strongest arguments that can be made in defense of the Baptist position. Brother Smith's arguments are clear, strong, and to the point. The discussion is not marred by a single unpleasant line. Each disputant treats his opponent with marked courtesy, and yet there is no lack of vigor and aggressiveness of style anywhere. As a written discussion, this book is a model of a clean, clear-cut, religious discussion.

STARK-WARLICK DEBATE.

Paper, 186 pages. Price ...

SPECIAL GIFT BOOKS.

CHARACTER; OR, THE MAKING OF THE MAN.

Carmack, Edward W.

Leather coze. In box. Price, postpaid, $1.50

The lamented Senator's most notable lec-

OLD LIMBER; OR, THE TALE OF THE TAYLORS.

Rice, DeLong.

Price, postpaid......$1.00

Reminiscent of "The War of the Roses."

CHRISTMAS STORIES AND LEGENDS.

SUNSHINE; OR, UNCLE MINOR'S STORIES. Metcalfe, V. M.

Pleasing to the children. Handsomely

ALLENROC'S BOOK.

(Poems and stories.)

Alexander, Mrs. Sarah Cornelia.

205 pages. Bound in cloth. Postpaid. $1.25

This book is very attractive for young and old. The matter is choice, elevating, and helpful.

FOR TEACHERS AND SCHOLARS.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED.

Lipscomb, D., and Sewell, E. G.

(Edited by M. C. Kurfees.)

Cloth. 700 pages. Price, postpaid $3.00

Cloth. 700 pages. Price, postpaid. ... $3.00

Questions bearing on the Bible, the church, the Christian life, and kindred subjects, are constantly coming up. You need some good book to help you along this line. The new book, "Questions Answered" by David Lipscomb and E. G. Sewell, will be of great assistance to you. Those who have seen and examined it closely are highly pleased. W. A. Schultz, a very useful evangelist residing at El Paso, Texas, writes. "I have Questions Answered, by Lipscomb and Sewell, compiled by Kurfees, and it contains more Bible information than any book I ever saw. I have all the works of Campbell, Milligan, Franklin, Errett, McGarvey, Rotherham, B. W. Johnson, and others of our noted preachers and educators, but none was the peer of David Lipscomb."

PELOUBET'S NOTES FOR 1922.

Price.	postpaid	20200000	 	$2,16
P. Contract Contract			 CALL ALL COLORS	Control of the last of Rich in material, comprehensive in scope, and practical in treatment. The standard for forty-eight years.

CRUDEN'S CONCORDANCE.

	Price,	postpaid.	1.51	1::::::::::		. $2.25
--	--------	-----------	------	-------------	--------	----------

This is absolutely indispensable to the teacher;

CROSS-REFERENCE DIGEST OF THE BIBLE,

Monser, H. E.

Price, postpaid......82.50

Brings the topical analyses found in the Cross-Reference Bible within the reach of the masses.

ROTHERHAM'S EMPHASIZED BIBLE.

Designed to set forth the exact meaning, proper terminology, and graphic style of the sacred originals.

FIRST LESSONS IN CHILD TRAINING.

Walters, Zelia M.

A handbook for mothers.

OUTLINES OF BIBLE STUDY.

Smith, G. Dallas.

+ 41001	smale copy,	postpaid
Price.	one dezen,	postpaid
20,000	and the second of the second o	Description of the second seco

For use in Bible drills, prayer meetings, and home study.

SMITH-PELOUBET DICTIONARY OF THE BIBLE.

Price, postpaid......$2.50

The old, reliable Bible dictionary, com-prising 800 pages, with maps and illustra-tions:

THE PEOPLE'S NEW TESTAMENT, WITH NOTES.

(Two volumes.)

Johnson, B. W.

Price, per volume, postpaid $2.50

A splendid commentary, comprising the entire New Testament. Volume L. four Gospels and Acts; Volume II., Epistles and Revelation.

FOR ELDERS AND DEACONS.

THE MODEL CHURCH.

Brewer, G. C. Price, postpaid.....

Presents the scriptural teaching bearing upon the organization of the local congregation. Shows how a more systematic and effective work can be accomplished.

AROUND THE LORD'S TABLE

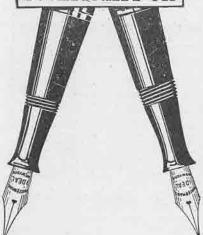

Lipscomb, A. B.

Price......80,25 Answers the needs of those who preside at the Lord's Table.

SEND ALL ORDERS TO McQUIDDY PRINTING COMPANY Nashville, Tenn.

We have them in pretty Christmas boxes

PRICED FROM $2.50 UP

Add 5% extra for War Tax

IF CLIP-CAP IS WANTED, ADD 25 CENTS EXTRA

McQuiddy Printing Company

NASHVILLE. TENNESSEE

SPECIAL GIFT BOOK

CRAYON AND CHARACTER.

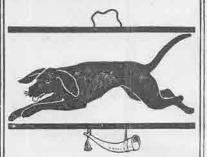

Griswold, B. J.

208 pages. Bound in cloth.

Price, postpaid.....$1.25

SEND ALL ORDERS TO McQUIDDY PRINTING COMPANY Nashville, Tenn.

THE TALE OF THE TAYLORS

DELONG RICE

"ALF and BOB TAYLOR, with their

"ALF and BOB TAYLOB, with their eloquence, their fiddles, and their for hounds, have wrought for themselves a niche of eternal melody in the hearts of their country."

So states the author of this little book, which we present as the best product of the pen of DeLong Rice. Into one hour of reading he has gathered the strange and romantic story of the two most wonderful political campaigns of Tennessee—the thrilling tale of the happy comradeship and the lifelong rivairy of the two famous brothers—a disclosure of the remarkable and heretofore unpublished incidents that attended the political division of the Taylor family—the wonder of "The War of the Roses" that attracted the stiention of the World—and the truth about "OLD LIMBER," the peerless and now immortal fox hound that played the leading role of sentiment in the political campaign of last fall, from the Mississippl River to the Unaks Mountains.

the Mississippi River to the Unaka Mountains.
With a "Cast of Characters extending from a President of the United States to a fox bound," the story touches a wide range of human sentiment; and through it all is the aroms of crackling camp fires and the music of the chase. THE BOOK is beautifully printed and bound, appropriately libustrated, and packed in a neat gift box, ready for mailing.

PRICE. $1.60 THE POSTPAID TO ANY ADDRESS.

Correspondence with Bookstores and ews Agencies is invited. Special club rates to Fox Hunters' secciations, if ordered in sufficient

Associations with the control of the

Write to us to-day.

McQUIDDY PRINTING CO., NASHVILLE, TENN.

Volume LXIII, No. 50.

NASHVILLE, TENN., DECEMBER 15, 1921.

$2.50 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

The Other Fellow's Side

0 0 0

When you're forming your opinions,
Do it carefully—go slow;
Hasty judgments oft are followed
By regretting—that I know;
And in argument be careful
Not too quickly to deride—
Try to look upon the subject
From the other fellow's side.

Ah, if we would use but caution,
And a little less of self;
Think a little more of kindness,
And a little less of pelf;
Try to help the other fellow,
Not to hurt him—don't you see
How much fairer, brighter, better,
This old world of ours would be?

O'er and often I've discovered
That the other fellow knew
Lots of things about some subjects
Which I didn't think were true;
And I'd still be groping vainly,
In my flick'ring light and dim,
If I hadn't hesitated
And hearkened unto him.

Keep the path your mind would trave!.

Broad and open all the way;

Walk with Wisdom's comrade, Caution,

Heeding all he has to say;

And no matter what arises,

Ere against it you have cried,

Try to look upon the subject

From the other fellow's side.

Contents

CURRENT COMMENT	1218
OUR CONTRIBUTORS	1219
Commending the Lesson Helps	1224
	907.000
AT HOME AND ABROAD
EDITORIAL Asia Watching Christianity at the Conference — Questions Answered — An Unkind Thrust—The Price of the Gospel Advocate Reduced.	1226
TEXAS-OKLAHOMA DEPARTMENT.	1229
HOME READING	1230
QUERY DEPARTMENT	1231
OBITUARIES	1232
FIELD REPORTS 1233, 1234,	1235
From East Tennessee—Ing-Bogard De- bate	1236
Cookeville, Tenn
Southern Alabama

CURRENT COMMENT

____ By A. B. L.

The holidays are approaching, and we are reminded daily to do our Christmas shopping early and avoid the rush. Thousands of dollars will be spent for gifts of one kind and another. A great deal of money will be spent foolishly. With some it will be an effort to make a worldly show; with some it will mean a bid for more business favors; with some it will mean a mere exchange of compliments. The bright side is found in the thought that there will be many sensible gifts. Good will and happiness will be felt in many homes. Little children will revel in the delights of the full stocking. I believe that those will get the most out of this season and out of life itself who seek to help others. If one is a bit dubious about the Master's declaration, "It is more blessed to give than to receive," let him test it out, and he will be fully convinced. Jesus is always right, but there are some of his teachings that we are apt to discount. Many things that he said we regard as pure sentiment that should not be taken at their face value. One of these is found in Luke 6: 38: "Give, and it shall be given unto you; good measure, pressed down, and shaken together, and running over, shall men give into your bosom. For with the same measure that ye mete withal it shall be measured to you again." Have you been sorely disappointed in what you have been receiving? Does that expression about pouring things into your bosom seem like a vain metaphor? It is more than likely that the fault is with yourself. You neglected to give. You did not take the Savior at his word. That is why blessings are being withheld.

I call attention to another teaching which should be emphasized at this time. It has reference to the Christmas spread." You have arranged yours already, perhaps, and have invited the guests. But who were included? In most cases the guests are members of the family and close friends. Family gatherings, of course, are necessary and are not to be condemned. But why not have a "spread" arranged in accord with the Master's instructions? Here is what he has to say on the subject: "When thou makest a dinner or a supper, call not thy friends, nor thy brethren, neither thy kinsmen, nor thy rich neighbors: lest they also bid thee again, and a recompense be made thee. But when thou makest a feast, call the poor, the maimed, the lame, the blind: and thou shalt be blessed; for they cannot recompense thee: for thou shalt be recompensed at the resurrection of the just." (Luke 14: 12-14.)

There are very few Christians, if any, who give a literal interpretation to this language. During all the years of my life I do not recall ever being present at a dinner or supper arranged exactly after the Savior's instructions. The nearest approach is when we occasionally invite a poor man home with us for dinner or the Christmas tree gotten up for the delight of all the children in the Sunday school where rich and poor receive the same present. enough, there are the "Big Brothers" and the "Good Fellows," who adopt the slogan, "Let there be no empty stocking," and work assiduously to that end. The Elks give a big "charity ball" in our city once in each year for the benefit of poor children. But what has this to do with the duty of those who should do their deeds in the name of Jesus Christ, giving him the glory and the praise? certainly cannot claim that in patronizing such movements we are giving a dinner to the poor and the maimed and the blind. Jesus undoubtedly had reference to gatherings in our own homes, where not only food, but hospitality and brotherly love, could be dispensed without stint. It is hard to find a social affair given in the home nowadays where the earthly recompense is not a motive. It is tacitly understood that if you are invited to a dinner and accept the invitation, that some time later you will have the host in your home. This is the spirit of the times, and it is the very thing that the Savior condemned. He tells us plainly to invite those who are unable to invite us in return, with the promise that there shall be a glorieus recompense at the resurrection of the just. I wonder why it is that so few Christians covet this reward. Brethren, let us take Jesus at his word, and we will become more useful and happier in this world and will receive the Master's "Well done" when he shall appear.

* * *

While we are on the subject of sensible gifts, what could be more sensible than to give something that a struggling brother needs and which would help him in preaching the gospel of the Prince of Peace? Surely that would be a blessed gift, and one that would not fail to bring returns. There are really more of such opportunities than one would imagine. And just to make the lesson plain and practical, I present the following letter which came to-day:

Bradentown, Fla., December 1, 1921.—Dear Brother Lipscomb: I need a horse and buggy bad. The support here in this section has not been enough to meet my expenses. Another year I want to get on a small tract of land I have traded for, make part of my living there, and have a way to visit the country places.

Knowing me as you do, and the sacrifices I have made to preach in the waste places, I wish you would write a short appeal to the brethren to help me buy a good horse and buggy, that I may still labor with my hands and preach the word in destitute places.

The church at Bradentown pays my house rent, and they are not very strong financially, but have done their part toward me; but that does not provide me a living. I have just finished a job of painting, and after a visit to Istachatta I will have to get back on my paint clothes to meet my next month's expenses.

If you will make mention of this through the Gospel Advocate, it may be that those who are interested will re spond to this appeal. Your brother in Christ,

JOHN HAYES.

It seems a bit odd for a brother to state that he needs "a horse and buggy." In most cases the request would be for a Ford or a Dodge, because they "cover so much territory." But it appears that a modest horse and buggy suits the needs of Brother John Hayes far better than high-powered transportation. Certainly our hearts should well in responsive sympathy to a preacher who is not ashamed of putting on his "paint clothes" when necessary to make a living. Let us all pitch in and get that horse and buggy. Send your contribution to Brother Hayes, whose address is Box 111, Bradentown, Fla.

0 0 0

There comes a letter from Alexander Kh.B. Yohannan, in far-away Persia, telling of the destitute condition of his family and fellow countrymen. He tells me that in the face of many obstacles he has been doing his "Christian duty in preaching the gospel of Christ," and quaintly adds that, like "the dove of Noah when she did not find rest, we are moving from one place to another." But the most striking sentence in his pitiful appeal is where he exclaims: "We have lost all our hopes but God and you!" Is it not a serious and solemn thought that humble Christians are linked with their Creator, the Almighty God, in their responsibility for the relief of the poor? God himself will be sorely disappointed if we fail to do our part. Our readers will recall the interest shown by Brother J. W. Grant in soliciting support for Brother Yohannan and forwarding the funds. Through this instrumentality our Persian brother became widely known to the churches. While his course has been disappointing along some lines, still there is no question in my mind but what he has done much good, and a gift sent to him in this time of dire distress would be worthily bestowed. I suggest that contributions be sent to Brother Grant as heretofore. His address is Bridgeport, Ala.

What Are We Going to Do About It? BY CLARA WARNER.

Thirty or more years ago there came into our midst a gospel preacher, G. W. Neely. He was a Southerner, of an aristocratic family, who had lost his property, and at this time was trying to go a warfare at his own charges, as every true gospel preacher in North Carolina had to do. His wife was a cultured Northern lady of noble ideals and Christian attainments—a great teacher.

If father, who passed on into the great beyond two and a half years ago, were here, he, doubtless, could tell me what induced Brother and Sister Neely to locate in this poor section of North Carolina. But, after all, it may have been the hand of God directing them to a negro lad—a jetblack one, at that—who lived with his parents in a cabin on the hill beyond their humble home.

In this little home Sister Neely taught as many of the white children of the community as she could gather around her, while this negro boy served as maid and man of all work and played the part of student at the same time. I doubt if any of us more brilliant (?) white children could have made much progress under such circumstances, but "Charlie" worked and studied at the same time and grew rapidly in knowledge and in spiritual understanding.

Brother and Sister Neely were in our home much in those days. The things that impressed me most then were the picture books, candy, and other delights they would bring us children; but I do remember hearing them tell father that in all their experience with children and young people they had never known a more promising youth than Charlie. And the years have proven that they did not overestimate him.

As time passed, this boy, all the time working to support himself and to help his parents, developed into a preacher of the gospel—one that filled his hearers with wonder and admiration. And his life as a Christian has been no less wonderful or admirable than his sermons and the manner in which he delivers them. As a negro preacher and teacher, he is little less than a prodigy—unobtrusive, graceful, and kindly in manner, and yet optimistic, courageous, and faithful under the most trying ordeals. His people love him, but few of them are capable of appreciating what he is trying to do for them. Neither does he appreciate himself in the way that is characteristic of the race. He is just humbly trying to use the talent the Master has given him in his service.

After a while his teacher and her husband went to dwell with the innumerable hosts in the great city of the dead. Then Charlie purchased the little home where he had lived with them so long and accomplished the seemingly impossible task of establishing there a school for the education and retaining of colored youths. This is the Nelson Preparatory, Industrial, and Orphan School, nar Clemmons, N. C. He has already trained and sent out a few preachers. I doubt if any one has been able to accomplish more as a teacher and preacher under as discouraging circumstances.

While his people were perishing for the lack of gospel teaching, which he was so able to give them, he had to devote much of his time to manual labor in order to support himself, pay for his little place, and erect a cheap school building. A few weeks ago this building, which served as class rooms and also as a dormitory for boys, was consumed by fire.

In the Firm Foundation of October 25 he has made an appeal for help. Brethren, what are you going to do about it? Is not the American negro in need of the influence of the gospel of Christ? There is certainly no Christian worker anywhere more worthy of your prayers and financial cooperation or who can do more good with a dollar than C. C. Nelson. True, he has no school board to advise him or to help him expend his money wisely (!). There are no brethren here capable of acting as such, neither has a board been needed for this purpose. His appeal in behalf of his school some years ago resulted in donations to the amount of forty dollars. One hundred times as much was urgently needed and could have been intrusted into his care for the Lord's work. It would have been used wisely and frugally.

Will not each preacher who reads this advise each congregation he visits to take a collection now, and then at least one each year, for this work? Our colored brother will be glad to keep donors informed in regard to the amount of money he receives and the disposition made of same. Many a brother could give one hundred dollars and never miss this amount, and many others could give as much and make no sacrifice in comparison to that our colored brother is making each year. With his industry, intelligence, frugality, and pleasing personality, he could have, by placing himself in the proper environment and by directing his energies along that line, amassed a snug little fortune and could now be living at ease, had he chosen this course.

Shall we continue to let him bear his burdens alone? No one in the world can do it more cheerfully than he. But what about us? Will we be excusable for not cooperating with him and thus limiting his influence for good?

No doubt some one is saying, "Why do not the people in North Carolina who know of Nelson's work and his needs help him?" Had he chosen to have affiliated with the "Christian Church," he would have received their co-cperation; but the few more conservative brethren here are too poor, too stingy, or too ignorant and prejudiced against the negro to give much help even though the matter could be brought before them.

Should our preachers like to inform themselves further before soliciting donations for this purpose, I would suggest that they write the following: W. L. Reeves, Winston-Salem, N. C.; W. E. Blackburn, Clemmons, N. C.; A. W. Lawrence, Clemmons, N. C. Send contributions to C. C. Nelson, colored, Clemmons, N. C.

May our Father put it into the hearts of his people to lend our colored brother a helping hand in his noble undertaking.

A Righteous Deed. BY W. H. CARTER.

A few weeks back I received a letter containing a check for five dollars from a brother who owed me over four dollars back subscription on the Highland Preacher when I suspended its publication about ten years ago. This caused me to think of that brother: "You are an honest man." This caused me to look over my list of delinquents to give him credit, and I was reminded that there are several hundred dollars yet due me, which would be a great help to me now if I had it. So I write this, hoping that it will remind you, if you owe me, and that you, too, will show me that you are an honest man. If you do not know the amount and wish to pay, write me, and I will send statement.

Brethren, I am getting old and feeble, not able to go out as when young. The remuneration I receive is very little. Through the winter I am likely to receive nothing, only by freewill offerings on the part of individuals and churches. Now, if you will give heed to the above, you will help a brother in need. My address is Lafayette, Tenn.

A Jewel and a Pearl.

BY FLAVIL HALL.

[I am (November 21) in a meeting at Hardie's Chapel, near Gordon, Ga., with good attendance and ten accessions. Among them is a Jewel and a Pearl by name.]

A Jewel and a Pearl, pure as the rose of May, Near Hardie's Chapel are to be baptized to-day, Down in the sacred vale where nature's beauties shine And golden memories around my heart entwine.

There many times in Jesus' holy name we've met Baptism to observe—such scenes we can't forget; They symbolize his burial and his resurrection, too, And bring his triumph over death unto our view.

The Jewel and the Pearl shall now to Christ belong, And shine more brightly marching in his blood-washed throng:

I've called them by their names, but all who Christ obey Are pearls and jewels in the bright and shining way.

And when the King of kings and Lord of lords shall come, He'll take them to the mansions of the heavenly home, Where sin and death shall nevermore their glory blight, And where Jehovah shall forever be the light.

Facts Concerning Cornelius.

BY GEORGE H. M'CAIN.

Recently I have heard some fallacious reasoning among the denominations concerning Cornelius' case. But the scriptural facts are as follows:

The Spirit did not fall on Cornelius to save him. "Send men to Joppa, and call for Simon, whose surname is Peter; who shall tell thee words, whereby thou and all thy house shall be saved." (Acts 11: 13, 14.) Therefore, saved by Peter's words.

The Spirit did not fall on him to give him faith. "And when there had been much disputing, Peter rose up, and said unto them, Men and brethren, ye know how that a good while ago God made choice among us, that the Gentiles by my mouth should hear the word of the gospel, and believe." (Acts 15: 7.) "Belief cometh of hearing, and hearing by the word of Christ." (Rom. 10: 17.) Hence, his faith came by hearing Peter's sermon.

Neither did the Spirit fall on Cornelius to purify his heart, for it is said: "And put no difference between us and them, purifying their hearts by faith." (Acts 15: 19.)

Some argue that since Cornelius received the baptism of the Holy Spirit before water baptism, he was saved before it. Then he was saved without faith; for his faith was to come by the words of Peter's mouth (Acts 15: 7), and the Holy Spirit fell on him before Peter had spoken these words. "And as I began to speak, the Holy Ghost fell on them, as on us at the beginning." (Acts 11: 15.) And if this faith was to purify their hearts (Acts 15: 9), he was saved without a pure heart. Neither does the miraculous demonstration of the Holy Spirit at the house of Cornelius prove that he was saved before baptism, for Balaam's ass received the Spirit and spoke with man's voice. (See Num. 22: 28-30.) Also, the wicked high prist, Caiaphas, received the Spirit and prophesied. (John 11: 49-51.) Hence, the mere fact of one's being miraculously endowed was not within itself proof that he was acceptable to God.

To have Cornelius and his family saved before baptism, you have an arrangement altogether out of harmony with Peter's sermon on Pentecost (Acts 2: 38) and Christ's commission to his apostles (Mark 16: 16). Among the words spoken by Peter, we find: "He commanded them to be baptized in the name of Jesus Christ." (Acts 10: 48.) This is the same Peter who said, "Repent, and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the remission of sins" (Acts 2: 38); who said, "Ye have purified your souls in obeying the truth" (1 Pet. 1: 22); who said, "Baptism doth also now save us" (1 Pet. 3: 21).

The purpose of Cornelius' baptism in the Holy Spirit is distinctly declared to be for a witness. "And God, which knoweth the hearts, bare them witness, giving them the Holy Ghost, even as he did unto us." (Acts 15: 8.) The witness was to the Jews that the Gentiles had a right to the gospel. The expression, "bare them witness," can have no reference to their salvation farther than being an evidence to the Jews that those Gentiles had a right to the gospel. To say the least, there is no trouble about understanding the conversion of Cornelius, except to those who desire to establish a theory contrary to what is taught in the divine record.

Okitsu Japan Mission.

BY SARAH ANDREWS.

The work at Okitsu, Japan, is being carried forward by the native Christians during my absence, and the reports for the most part are encouraging. There have been several baptisms this year. Brother Fujimori goes down occasionally to help evangelize, and his visits always mean strength and encouragement to the Christians there. None of them, except Oiki San, my native helper, have been Christians longer than two years, and need to be taught and encouraged. The work among the children is fine. Including all in kindergarten. Sunday school, and private classes, two hundred children are being taught the Bible. You would be surprised, no doubt, if it were possible to know just how much of the Bible these little folks know. Suffice it to say we can but hope for a strong congregation in that town. Oiki San and her mother live in the Japanese house where I lived, and the church meets there for worship each Lord's day,

The Japanese seem anxious for my return, and I am hungry to go back to the work. This longing desire to return may seem strange to some. Of course, no work save the King's business could impel me to leave loved ones and native land and choose Japan, and especially a town of nine thousand people where I am the only American, as a place to live. I love the work of being a handmaid of the Lord, and the joy that fills the soul in seeing people turn from idolatry to serve the living God far more than compensates for any inconvenience, privation, separation, or even sacrifice. No matter what the cost, Christians should bear the good news to every land, and rejoice, if necessary, to endure hardness that the kingdom of Christ might be advanced among men and the commission obeyed to the Paul, on his second missionary journey, having been forbidden to go into Bithynia, had traveled as far as Troas. And a vision appeared unto him in the night: "There stood a man of Macedonia, and prayed him, saying. Come over into Macedonia, and help us." Indeed, it is a vision of mankind being helped, uplifted-yea, savedthat the true missionary goes forth, directed by the word of God. Let us, as Christians, not be blind, nor yet nearsighted, to our responsibilities.

Total receipts for the work at Okitsu this year, including some gifts from friends to me, have been $670.85. Of this, $540.40 has been sent to Japan, including cost of money orders. The expenses to be met there are house rent, incidentals connected with housekeeping, and food for Oiki San and her mother, together with the needs of the work in general. Fifty dollars per month is needed until I can return to the field, which I hope to do, the Lord willing, sometime near the middle of next year. Address Sarah Andrews, care of David Lipscomb College, Nashville, Tenn.

Be absorbed in trying to do something for the world really worth while, and be sublimely careless as to what others think about you.—William Porkess.

Search the scriptures; for in them ye think ye have eternal life: and they are they which testify of me.—John 5: 39.

"The Sin Which Doth So Easily Beset Us."

BY LEE JACKSON.

A number of the brethren have recently written some good articles on "the sin which doth so easily beset us," which I have enjoyed reading; and so I am now asking space for just a few words.

The sin which was so easily besetting the Christians of the apostolic age, and which so easily besets Christians of every age, was, and is, the sin of unbelief. In the third chapter of his epistle to the Hebrew Christians, in the very beginning of his admonitions and warnings to them, Paul says: "Take heed, brethren, lest haply there shall be in any one of you an evil heart of unbelief, in falling away from the living God." (Heb. 3; 12.) Throughout the epistle lessons of instruction, admonitions and warnings, are intermingled, and all of these are all designed as a means of making those in danger of falling more steadfast in their confidence. The apostle says: "For we are become partakers of Christ, if we hold fast the beginning of our confidence firm unto the end." In the eleventh chapter of this epistle the apostle gives a long list of believers in God, and who confidently relied upon his promises, and who were victorious over temptations and the powers of the world by the power of faith. By the strength of their faith they gained their victories: their confidence in God and his promises was unwavering. "These all, having had witness borne to them through their faith, received not the promise, God having provided some better thing concerning us, that apart from us they should not be made perfect." (Heb. 11: 39, 40.) As the Authorized Version reads, these worthies "obtained a good report through faith." In the recorded example of their lives these men of faith stood out before the Hebrew Christians as witnesses both to the power of faith and to the faithfulness of God in keeping his promises. They are the great cloud of witnesses immediately mentioned in the beginning of the twelfth chapter-witnesses, not as spectators watching our trials and triumphs, but witnesses who bear testimony by their example. The recorded example of such characters-men of such unwavering confidence in God-serves as a stimulus for Christians for all time. As Mr. Rotherham has aptly said: "It is better for a man to have faith than for him to be able to define what faith is." Belief may be so weak that it only doubts and hesitates; but if it is strong enough to be called faith, like that of the Scripture worthies, it relies upon God, obeys his commands, goes forward in battle for his cause, and wins victories. As we are encompassed by such witnesses, let us lay aside the sin of unbelief and run with patience the race that is set before us. This is all I wish to say.

Rehabilitation Training for Discharged Civilians in Tennessee.

Much has been written and spoken concerning the heroic struggle of the disabled soldier in his effort to restore himself to his former industrial independence. His efforts have been aided by the Federal government, which provides without expense to the disabled soldier suitable courses of rehabilitation training.

But the civilian who has been injured in a factory, a young woman who is crippled from infantile paralysis, the coal miner who is lifted from the mine with a broken limb and shattered nerves—these, too, are making a fight worthy of notice. Tennessee, through the State Department of Industrial Rehabilitation, is assisting its disabled civilians to be retrained for occupations that can be followed despite the physical disability. There is available for the present fiscal year forty-four thousand dollars, which can be used to cover the cost of tuition, books, tools, and institutional supplies for disabled persons undergoing rehabilitation training; no part of this fund can be used for the payment of board and lodging, which must be provided by the trainee or some interested person or agency. Rehabilitation training is now being given in schools, shops, factories, and corporations, the type and place of training depending upon the disabled person's age, education, experience, and disability.

At the present time forty-one disabled persons are in rehabilitation training, of whom twenty-four are men and seventeen are women. The courses of training range from pedagogy, law, stenography, business administration, and mechanical drafting to sewing, weaving, broom-making, and shoe-repair work.

To be eligible to rehabilitation training, disabled persons must be sixteen years of age or over, residents of Tennessee during the past year, and must have sustained disabilities, either by accident or disease, that handicap them. Persons with congenital disabilities are also eligible, and there is no restriction in the law as to sex, color, or creed. People who read this article are requested to send the names and addresses of disabled persons who appear to be in need of rehabilitation training to the Director of Industrial Rehabilitation, Robert H. White, Capitol Annex, Nashville, Tenn., who will immediately get in touch with the disabled. It should be borne in mind that this work is not a form of charity, but a sane effort on the part of the State and Federal governments to give social justice to the injured and handicapped, God's Blessings in Disguise.

BY J. G. ALLEN.

This is Thanksgiving Day, and I have been thinking of different things for which we should be thankful to God; but I feel overwhelmed in trying to name them all, so have decided to call attention to one especially that we overlook. It is so easy for us all to ascribe praise to God for health and temporal prosperity of every kind that we overlook some of God's greater blessings to us. In reading the Bible for the past thirty years, I know of nothing that is designed to produce more happiness to a child of God than trouble of different kinds, especially to have some one say bad things about you. We hear an evil report about some brother, and we jump at the conclusion that it is true without an investigation, and we peddle it around as true. New, it requires a strong faith for a brother under such circumstances to rejoice, still he should. When I reflect on my life since I came to Oklahoma five years ago, I truly rejoice in the belief that our Father in heaven has counted me worthy to suffer for his name's sake. When I was younger, it troubled me to hear that some one had criticized me; but not so now, for I rejoice to think that God permits me to suffer for his name's sake. The only concern I have when I hear of such reports is, is it true? If it is, I strive to correct it immediately; but if false, I rejoice exceedingly. (See Matt. 5: 11, 12; Heb. 12: 1-11.) God has been so gracious to me since I came to this place and has crowned my efforts with such great success that now we have a splendid house to worship in, and as faithful a band to worship with as can be found anywhere.

The Way Love Leads.

Thorns or flowers in life may be, But the way Love leads is the way for me.

Never a question, never a fear Under God's heaven, if Love be near.

Bitter the burdens of life, but still I bear them meekly at Love's sweet will.

Knowing that Love of Life is Lord, Not a rewarder, but a Reward!

-Frank L. Stanton.

LOS ANGELES NOTES By S. H. HALL 2669 North Stichel Street

House of worship, corner Altura and North Sichel Streets. Take North Broadway car to Sichel, then one block to left.

"First Disarm Our Hearts."

On Sunday, November 27, General Armando Diaz, the great Italian warrior and hero of the Piave, visited Los Angeles. While here he said some very fine things.

"Disarm Our Hearts." Note how exceedingly sound was his advice when he referred to the "Disarmament Conference" in session at Washington, D. C. Here are his words:

First disarm the hearts of mankind, then armies.

Take from human hearts the hatred, the lust for power, the greed-then take from the soldiers their weapons.

Now is being held in Washington the The war is over. great world discussion so that the world may talk of peace. I am convinced that much good will come from that conference, that some understanding will be reached.

But, remember that first we must disarm our hearts and spirits, so that we may present ourselves to the problems of peace with our consciences clear, our hearts open, our minds harboring no malice toward our neighbors.

While he was speaking of nations, may we not make the application to all troubles now existing between disciples of Christ. Those who have differences that should not exist what do they most need? Is it not to "disarm their hearts" toward each other? You may settle the trouble apparently, but until the hearts of all concerned are disarmed, the trouble cannot be really settled. Timely words. indeed, are the following from the pen of the apostle Paul: "But through love be servants one to another. For the whole law is fulfilled in one word, even in this: Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself. But if ye bite and devour one another, take heed that ye be not consumed one of another." (Gal. 5: 13-15.)

It is encouraging to see the rulers of the earth imbibing the spirit and the teaching of the Prince of Peace. But shall we let those who have trained themselves in carnal warfare "show us the way?" I simply mean this: Shall we let those who hold positions in earthly governments show us how to put into practice the teaching of our Lord? Should we not show the nations the way of peace? And is there any better place to begin than among ourselves? Those of you who have been carrying around in your hearts feelings and thoughts about your brethren that you should not, step out and show how we "disarm our hearts." Does not the teaching of our Lord make the heart the fundamental thing? Is it not in the heart where we should begin in righting all wrongs? Our Italian warrior has it right, and well would we do to follow his advice. Doubtless there are many who have sent petitions to their congressmen begging them to use their influence in behalf of the nations disarming, when down in their own hearts they should look and do a bit of disarming. When your heart is disarmed, you can love "thy neighbor as thyself," hence be relieved of carrying around "envy, strife, evil speaking, and unjust suspicions."

0 0 0

"Unwittingly Hurting Others."

Brother F. L. Rowe, in a recent issue of the Christian Leader, speaks of "how easy it is for one to unwittingly injure the work and influence or the future of some good brother." Here are his words, and they are worth reading several times:

How easy it is for one to unwittingly injure the work and influence or the future of some good brother! All of the talking and gossiping is not done by the women. There are a few men to-day whose mouths should be stopped, the same as in the days of Paul.

I recently received a letter from an aged brother and elder, saying that a certain evangelist, well known to the brethren, was accused of being a digressive? The elder wrote to the Leader office to find out if the report was true. I reported to the elder that the charge was outrageously and maliciously false, and urged the elder to run down the report, force the man, if a member, to acknowledge his sin and ask the forgiveness of the brother whose character he had tried to damage. This was subsequently done, and the man, who claimed to be a member, admitted that he had never seen the preacher, never heard him, but had formed the conclusion from his own private judgment,

Such conduct on the part of any one is most reprehensible and should be dealt with in a vigorous manner. It is the easiest thing in the world to try to besmirch a character by taking up with some gossip that is so easily circulated, but seldom investigated. If our spiritual tongues were trained to be "slow to speak," as James commands, and if we could learn to "judge not," as the Savior commands. I believe many a strong spirit would remain unbroken and many an aggressive soldier of the cross would keep up the You all know that it is the evil reports that spread farthest and fastest, and Christians, of all people, should be the last ones to give circulation to anything that has not been investigated and proven. Brethren, let us think twice before we speak, and better not speak at all than to speak evil. Let us not be individually charged with injuring the character and good work of some one who is guiltless of wrong. On the other hand, let us run down the scandalmongers, expose them to the church, force them to their knees in penitence, and perhaps, after a while, we can clean up unsightly alleys that are full of deadly spiritual typhoid. The poet has well said: "Who steals my purse steals trash, but he who steals my good name robs me of that which makes him no richer, but leaves me poorer."

Those are fine words, Brother Rowe. Paul's advice will help us to steer clear of such mistakes: "Let your speech be always with grace, seasoned with salt." (Col. 4: 6.) If we will establish the habit of ever looking for something good in the other fellow and talk quite a good deal about the good we do see, it will put us in a condition to, with ease, speak justly and kindly of others, even of their faults. James (3: 2) said a thing that should make us forever be careful about what we say: "If any stumbleth not in word, the same is a perfect man, able to bridle the whole body also."

And if any should contend that it is not, as Brother Rowe says, easy to make a mistake here, I would have but one answer for that man or woman-viz., you simply have not tried hard enough to let your every word be "with grace, seasoned with salt," else you would have discovered just what Brother Rowe has discovered.

0 0 0

Bits of News.

The work at Sichel and Altura last Lord's day (November 27) was glorious. The house was full for the forenoon service, with one confession and one erring Christian reclaimed. Collections went above ninety dollars. largest crowd we have yet had for the evening service.

Some Suggestions for Thoughtful Readers.

BY JOHN H. ARMS,

In the study of Nebuchadnezzar's dream and the interpretation of it, shall we confine Daniel's explanation to the four universal empires and stop there? Surely the dream image and the stone that smote it and scattered it as the wind scatters chaff speak, through Daniel's interpretation. of a period of time very far exceeding the end of the four universal world powers. In fact, if the dream image and its being smitten by the stone include only the Babylonian, Medo-Persian, Grecian, and Roman empires, then the smiting has already taken place. Who can accept this conclusion? No one, you say. Well, then, let us seek a solution in harmony with Daniel's interpretations and all subsequent events as proven by both sacred and profane Nebuchadnezzar's dream image and its total destruction by the little stone foreshadow all human governments and their total destruction by the kingdom of God ruled over by his Son. Human government had reached its climax under Nebuchadnezzar, as shown by his kingdom being the head, and its being gold—the purest metal. Their gradual decline is shown by the other inferior metals, even to clay mixed with iron. Before these four universal kingdoms, as represented by the head, the breast and arms, the belly and thighs, and the legs, should come to an end, "in the days of these kings [these world powers] shall the God of heaven set up a kingdom, which shall never be destroyed; . . . it shall break in pieces and consume all these kingdoms, and it shall stand forever." (Dan. 2: 44.) There could be no clearer history of the final destiny of human governments portrayed by any kind of a figure or illustration than the dream image and its interpretation by Daniel.

It appears from the sacred history of man and God's dealing with him that exceedingly few have ever been satisfied with God's government. In the beginning God gave man the choice of obedience or disobedience. He gave a simple law that any intelligent being could understand and obey. (Gen. 2: 16, 17.) The devil persuaded man that it was better not to submit to God's way, and thus rebellion was instigated. (Gen. 3: 1-6.) All of man's efforts to work out his own destiny have ended in utter failure. Examples: The tower of Babel, Egypt, Babylon, Greece, and Rome. Yea, and all the selfish, furious, factious, fighting, and blood-stained human governments that exist to-day, or ever have existed. All attest the fact that "it is not in man that walketh to direct his steps." (Jer. 10: 23.)

What has man accomplished by all his efforts to govern himself? Let the blood of the millions who have given their lives in vain dreams of human supremacy answer. But God's government is, and always has been, all-sufficient for those who would faithfully submit to it. The trouble has all arisen through man's not being satisfied with God's way.

The government of God, according to Daniel's interpretation, is to utterly destroy all human governments. A serious thought just here: If the kingdom of Christ is to so utterly destroy all human governments, what right have the citizens of Christ's government to be partakers with that which Christ's government is to destroy?

Christians cannot be citizens of human governments, partaking of all the rights and privileges of the same, without being partakers of the evils and corruptions known to be abundant in them. If Christians are building that which God is to destroy and are a part of that which is destroyed, by what means are they to be saved? "How can two walk together, except they be agreed?" (Amos 3: 3.) Who is ready to say that there is any agreement between the pure, holy government of our blessed Lord and the governments of this world? Who can see any harmony in a government that is not of this world; whose citizens "walk in the flesh, but do not war after the flesh; (for the weapons of our warfare are not carnal, but mighty through God to the pulling down of strongholds;) casting down imaginations, and every high thing that exalteth itself against the knowledge of God, and bringing into captivity every thought to the obedience of Christ" (2 Cor. 10: 3-5)-I say, who can see any agreement in such a government and any government that was established by, and is perpetuated with, carnal weapons, and that exalteth itself against the knowledge of Christ by the abominable divorce laws and all corrupt political methods so prevalent in all human governments known to the writer? "Be ye not unequally yoked together with unbelievers: for what fellowship hath righteousness with unrighteousness? and what communion hath light with darkness? And what concord hath Christ with Belial? or what part hath he that believeth with an infidel? And what agreement hath the temple of God with idols? for ye are the temple of the living God; as God hath said, I will dwell in them, and walk in them; and I will be their God, and they shall be my people. Wherefore come out from among them, and be ye separate, saith the Lord, and touch not the unclean thing; and I will receive you, and will be a Father unto you, and ye shall be my sons and daughters, saith the Lord Almighty." (2 Cor. 6: 14-18.) Jesus said to Pilate: "My kingdom is not of this world: if my kingdom were of this world, then would my servants fight, that I should not be delivered to the Jews: but now is my kingdom not from hence." (John 18: 36.) Jesus says to his disciples: "If ye were of the world, the world would love his own: but because ye are not of the world, but I have chosen you out of the world, therefore the world hateth you." (John 15: 19.) Also, in John 17: 15: "I pray not that thou shouldest take them out of the world, but that thou shouldest keep them from the evil." Thus the citizens of Christ's kingdom are indeed "pilgrims and strangers on the earth." (Heb. 11: 13.)

If a citizen of England were to be in the United States, he is a stranger, not a citizen. Yet he must be subject to the laws of the United States so long as he sojourns in the United States; yet his sojourning in, or pilgrimage through, the United States does not make him accountable for any act of the government of the United States. Just so, a citizen of Christ's kingdom is a sojourner, a stranger and pilgrim on earth. In whatever human government he may be sojourning, he is subject to its laws and ordinances, and not in any sense to be a lawbreaker, but must honor and submit to the authority. (Rom. 13: 1-8.) But this submission must be for "the Lord's sake." (1 Pet. 2: 13.) "Whatsoever ye do in word or deed, do all in the name of the Lord Jesus, giving thanks to God and the Father by him." (Col. 3: 17.) But how few are willing to risk the Lord's way? Has man ever been able to improve it?

MATTHEW HENRY'S COMMENTARY.

Best Premium Offer to Preachers.

The greatest preachers of the past two centuries attribute much of their inspiration and usefulness to Matthew Henry's Commentary on the whole Bible. Born in the seventeenth century, his name and his work still live and are household words. Thousands of homes treasure this commentary second only to the Bible, and many a man traces his right start to the loving advice and homely counsel of Matthew Henry.

Charles H. Spurgeon said: "Every minister ought to read Matthew Henry entirely and carefully through once at least. He will acquire a vast store of sermons; and as for thoughts, they will swarm around him like twittering sparrows around an old gable toward the close of autumn." Dr. Philip Schaff, compiler of Schaff's Bible Dictionary, pronounces it "the best practical and devotional commentary for English readers." Here you will find a mine of expository knowledge and a complete preachers' commentary.

The management of the Gospel Advocate is fortunate in securing twenty-five sets of this unrivaled commentary, which will be sent as a premium to every preacher who will send twenty-five new subscribers at the regular subscription price of $2.50 per year. This is undoubtedly the most attractive premium offer ever made to preachers. You will receive six portable volumes of twelve hundred pages each, large, clear, unbroken type, with substantial Roxborough binding, and will have the satisfaction of knowing that the work of the prince of commentators is in your library. If you wish to pay cash, the price for the six volumes is $17.50, not prepaid. When sent as a premium, we pay all charges.

PUBLISHERS GOSPEL ADVOCATE.

Commending the Lesson Helps.

Commendations of the Lesson Quarterlies are coming in every mail. Brethren from various parts of the country who have given them a careful examination are enthusiastic in their praise of the work of F. W. Smith and F. B. Srygley, who edit the 1922 series. These words of encouragement are very much appreciated. We shall strive for constant improvement, and will welcome suggestions from all who are interested. Following are some expressions:

Samples of the Quarterlies for 1922 came to me a few days ago. I think they are fine, and it will be helpful to young and old to study them carefully. I wish the congregations everywhere would use them, for I notice in my travels that the congregations that use good literature take more interest in the work and grow faster than where they do not use it. And besides that, no one need be uneasy about the Quarterlies not being clear and strong and also scriptural, with such a team as Brethren Smith and Srygley to do the work on them. With strong minds and great faith pillowed on the commands and promises of the Bible. they will show us great things in the Book of heaven. And the topical divisions of the Advanced Quarterly are the best arranged I have ever seen, and the comments are rich, too. But Brother Smith saved the best for the last, and that is the comments on the Golden Text. They are like a strong and warm exhortation after a good sermon, and lead a fellow almost in sight of the far-away home. I pray the Lord's richest blessing on Brethren Smith and Srygley in their great work. (C. Petty, Pincapple, Ala.)

We have pretty thoroughly examined the new Quarterlies for another year and pronounce them fine. The Pearl and Bryan Streets Church will continue the use of these Quarterlies. Our order has already gone forth, (A. O. Colley, Dallas, Texas.)

After receiving the Quarterlies which have been prepared by Brethren Smith and Srygley and examining the same, I will say that I find them to be plain, simple, very edifying, and as near perfection as is possible with fallible beings. I heartily recommend said Bible studies to all congregations that have been using them. (W. T. Beasley, Belleview, Tenn.)

We subscribe for religious periodicals; we buy religious pamphlets, books, and debates for the valuable information which they contain; but nowhere, I am sure, will we find more wholesome and practical instruction and pointed lessons, on the subjects considered, than is to be found in the Advanced Gospel Quarterlies, now compiled by Brethren F. W. Smith and F. B. Srygley, While I have examined only the Advanced Quarterly, yet I feel sure that the same high-grade work is maintained in both the Intermediate and the Primary Quarterlies that is found in the Advanced Quarterly, I suggest that they be secured by all, not simply as Sunday-school literature, but for the home, the shop Quarterly, -everywhere. Read them as you would read other valuable literature; you will be greatly benefited. All know, who know anything of the writings of these brethren, that they are eminently qualified for this work. If these first Quarterlies are a sample of what is to follow, and I doubt not that they are even we have reasons to believe these brethren will become more proficient as they advance in their work. We are now assured of some very fine things. (S. M. Jones, Beamsville, Ontario, Canada:)

I received copies of the literature for the first quarter of 1922. I have shown them to some of our Sunday-school teachers here, and we are all pleased with them. Personally, I am very much impressed with the system of the outlines. (T. M. Carney, San Angelo, Texas.)

I have received and examined both the Quarterlies you sent me. In my judgment, they cannot be surpassed in clearness, correctness, and strict adherence to the word of God. But nothing else could be expected from such men as Brethren F. W. Smith and F. B. Srygley. They should have a wide circulation among the congregations for the reason they are so helpful to any one in the study of God's word. (John R. Williams, Hornbeak, Tenn.)

Sample copies of the Advanced, Intermediate, and Prinary Quarterlies have been received. I am gratified much beyond what I had anticipated. I gave special attention to the Advanced Quarterly, it being the one I use in my Bible class. Brother F. W. Smith has done some splendid work on it. The prominent treatment of the Golden Text in each lesson is an admirable feature among many others. Brethren Smith and Srygley deserve high commendation. Congregations throughout the country will do well to use the Quarterlies which these men have so diligently and carefully prepared. (R. P. Cuff, Macon, Ga.)

I have examined somewhat carefully and critically the Primary. Intermediate, and Advanced Quarterlies for the first quarter of 1922. The Advanced Quarterly, by F. W. Smith, is a most splendid production. The heading for each division of every lesson is suggestive, pointed, and helpful. The comments are plain, comprehensive, and inspiring. The questions are simple and direct. In a word, it's hard to beat. I can truthfully say as much for the Intermediate and Primary booklets, by F. B. Srygley. I feel that these two master minds are giving us their best thoughts. I congratulate the McQuiddy firm. (H. H. Adamson, Lewisburg, Tenn.)

Replying to your circular letter, I beg to advise that I received the Quarterlies and have examined them with some care. They are good and scriptural, and I have no fault to find in the teaching. I think the Primary is better than either of the others. It tells the story in a simple way, and, to my mind, is as well adapted to others as to children. The same instruction that is necessary for children in Old Testament study is applicable for adults. One good Quarterly adapted for the whole school would be as serviceable as three different ones. Our Sunday-school instruction has been graded to death. I see nothing in the Advanced or Intermediate Quarterlies that improves on your Primary. (Z. T. Sweeney, Columbus, Ind.)

I am pleased with the Advanced, Intermediate, and Primary Quarterlies. There is plenty of meat in them. (John W. Fry, Columbia, Tenn.)

I have received your letter and the sample copies of the Quarterlies. While I have not had time to read all the Quarterlies through, yet, in the light of the examinations I have made, I must say that I am delighted with the efforts of Brethren Smith and Srygley. In my judgment, they have done their work in a commendable manner. I see no reason why their work should not be received with the same cordial appreciation that characterized the reception of Brother Elam's splendid work. The mechanical features of the Quarterlies measure up to the high McQuiddy standard. (B. C. Goodpasture, Δtlanta, Ga.)

I received copies of the Primary, Intermediate, and Advanced Quarterlies. In the Primary lessons the subjects are presented in story form. This is thoroughly pedagogical, and, in my judgment, the only way to teach the Bible to children successfully. I am pleased with the outline features in the Intermediate and Advanced lessons. Another feature that appeals favorably to me is the exegesis and application of the Golden Text in each lesson. I am not sure but that the plan should be in the Intermediate lessons as well. I am delighted with them and can cheerfully commend them to the brotherhood. (Eph. P. Smith, Martin, Tenn.)

Through the courtesy of your office, I am in receipt of sample copies of the Quarterlies for the first quarter of 1922. I am glad to note the decided improvement in the arrange-The topical headings of each thought ment of the work. suggested in the lesson proper, with the pointed discussion of each thought separately, will enable the student to more readily grasp the lesson, for much has been done in the preparation of the helps to simplify the same. The best help to Bible study is a simple analysis of the thought. may impress some with the greatness and profundity of the teacher when he spreads out his information so extensively, but the student is vastly more benefited when a thought or idea is simply analyzed for him. I feel sure that users of the Quarterlies generally will appreciate the improvement, and their use will be increased by reason of the same. (C. D. Crouch, Port Arthur, Texas.)

Hold Thou My Hand.

Hold thou my hand, O Lord; no light o'erhead Shows me the path my faltering feet must tread; To what far depths of darkness and of woe Might I not fall if thou shouldst let me go? Lord, hold my hand!

Hold thou my hand; that tireless clasp means strength, Patience, and peace, and blessing, till at length My storm-tossed soul can calmly take its way, And need no longer in such anguish pray:

"Lord, hold my hand!"

-Annie Johnson Flint.

AT HOME AND ABROAD

I gave them Christ.—John Wesley.

"There is no charity equal to the charity toward the uncharitable.

"Only as the church fulfills her missionary obligation . does she justify her existence."

M. C. Cayce reports three baptisms in the meeting at Jackson, Miss. The interest increases.

The brethren at Grant, Smith County, Tenn., wish it made known that they have the restrictive clause in the deed given for the lot.

C. R. Nichol has been at the bedside of his sick mother, who is in the Baptist Sanitarium at Memphis, Tenn. Let us remember them both in our prayers.

Married, on December 1, at 4 P.M., on West Duval Street, Lake City, Fla., Miss Grace Barnes to Mr. George E. Hamilton, of Miami, Fla., J. M. Cole officiating.

W. A. Schultz writes: "Our work in El Paso, Texas, continues to grow. Four took membership with us lately. We have some of the real 'salt of the earth' here.'

Mr. and Mrs. William Blasdell Houston have issued invitations to the marriage of their daughter, Jane Althea, to Mr. Morgan Higdon Carter, which will take place on December 28, at Portland, Maine.

Kennedy, a well-known preacher of McKinney, Texas, is desirous of holding some meetings in Tennessee and any of the adjacent States. He is now making out his schedule for 1922. Address Box 286, McKinney, Texas.

After a very pleasant and useful year spent at Athens, Ala., J. W. Brents will take up the work with the church at Phillips and Evans Streets, Springfield, Mo. Brother Brents is grateful for kindnesses shown him at Athens.

A. A. Bunner, of Cleveland, Ohio, has arranged a meeting for a systematic study of the Old and New Testaments. class meets each evening at 7808 Hope Avenue and West Seventy-ninth Street. The class is free and open to all.

The many friends of S. M. Jones, of Beamsville, Ontario, Canada, will be shocked and grieved to learn of the death of his devoted wife. Brother Jones recently conducted meetings in Nashville and endeared himself to many of the Nashville churches.

F. B. Shepherd, 1409-A Jackson, Amarillo, Texas, sends this report of the Forest Vale Mission work: Balance from October, 11 cents; additional contributions, $35,23. Total, $35,34. Forwarded to Brother Sherriff on November 21, Carried over, 34 cents.

W. J. Cullum will labor with the churches at Rockwood and Dayton, Tenn., dividing his time between them, beginning on January 1. Brother Cullum's evangelistic work in this section has been unusually successful, and we believe that his location there will prove to be a blessing.

The final report of the meeting at Eighth Avenue, North, this city, shows that there were sixty additions to the congregation—forty-six by confession and baptism. A. D. Dies is now in a meeting at Twenty-second Avenue, North, with fine crowds at each service. Three confessions to date.

The orders for literature are smaller for the first quarter of the year than in any other quarter of the year, yet we have received so far this quarter larger and more orders than ever before. We are endeavoring to double the amount of literature used in the year 1922, and will appreciate very much the hearty cooperation of our subscribers.

From J. G. Malphurs, Clarksville, Tenn., December 8: "The Lord's work in Stewart County is needing another The field does not demand a 'big gun,' but one who is humble and willing to work. I suspect that a single man would be preferable. We are willing to consider any loyal gospel preacher who is not too big for the work. If interested, write to me."

From Mrs. S. A. Billingsley, Chicago, Ill.: "I want you to know our congregation has increased every Lord's day since we started. This is a big field, and we hope to some day have many big congregations here. We expect to have a preacher next year and a house of worship sometime. am enjoying the good old Gospel Advocate my father (W. H. Sutton) used to tell me about."

Joe L. Netherland, who labors with the church at Miami, Fla., writes that the church there is worshiping in their new building; also, that he closed a series of meetings at Homestead, Fla., thirty miles away, a few days ago, which resulted in four being added and a congregation of nineteen members meeting regularly in the school auditorium for

From T. B. Clark, Gallatin, Tenn., December 5; "The first Sunday in December was a cold, rainy day in Gallatin, but in spite of the bad weather we had the largest attendance in Sunday school we have had. The audiences were enthusi-astic for both preaching hours. E. E. Shoulders will preach for us next Wednesday night. C. R. Nichol was with us and preached an excellent sermon last week. We are always glad to have visitors."

W. A. Schultz writes: "Our brother, T. J. Gillihan, is in need. His wife is in the hospital for a dangerous operation. Brother Gillihan is a faithful, earnest preacher and a humble, godly man. I have known him from his infancy, and I know him to be worthy in every respect. I have never called on my brethren that know me for anything but what they have responded at once. Brethren, don't fail this time. Address T. J. Gillihan, Somerset, Ky.'

Letters from W. A. Cameron, of Palatka, Fla., and J. W. Newman, of Taft, Fla., ask that we make correction of a statement appearing in our issue of November 17 wherein G. B. Lambright said: "I organized this church two years ago." Brother Company Brother Cameron insists that the church at Pinecastle was organized through his aid more than four years The Gospel Advocate readers are not interested in the ago. details of this controversy, and the editors express the hope that it may be settled at home without malice or ill feeling of any kind

From A. J. Bachman, Mentone, Ind., December 10: "The meeting at Mentone, which began on November 13, continued twenty-four days. During this meeting nine were added to the fellowship of the congregation. In spite of bad weather and the Methodist meeting, the attendance and interest were the best we have ever had at this place. It will soon be five years since I began working with the brethren They are fine workfellows. The congregation at Mentone has been at peace and growing during the five years I have labored with them. Brethren, pray that the good work may continue."

From J. C. Estes, Denver, Col., December 7: "Through the invitation of E. C. Fuqua, of Fort Collins, I spent Saturday night, November 19, with him and his good family in his home. He was then conducting a good meeting at Bellvue, a village nestling in the foothills of the Rockies, about nine miles out from his home town. I spoke for him and this little congregation on Sunday and for the little congregation at Fort Collins that evening, according to Brother Fuoua's arrangements. The following Sunday, according to John D. Evans' arrangements, I was with the faithful few at Pueblo and spoke two times.

From E. E. Shoulders, Franklin, Ky., December 8: "The fourth Sunday in this month will end my work with the church in Franklin for the present time. The Lord willing, according to agreement and arrangements, I shall begin work with the church in New York City on the second Sunday in January of next year. In undertaking the responsibility of this work, I feel keenly the need of the prayers of all God's people who are interested in seeing the cause of Christ built up in that great field. Also, I shall be glad to have communications from all who have friends or relatives in that city who are Christians. I shall be very glad to call on them and try to get them interested in the work. Until I am permanently located, you may write me in the care of George M. McKee, Box 61, Station N, New York, N. Y.

A Holiday Greeting.—Very recently the small congregation of Christians or members of the body of Christ at Oscar, Ky., agreed that to send the Gospel Advocate into the homes of several members who are deprived, by various causes, of the regular associations and Christian fellowship of the assembly from time to time, might prove beneficial and helpful. Therefore, it is hoped that those receiving the Advocate free for six months may appreciate the privilege of perusing its columns. It is also hoped that each recipient of the paper may gratefully receive it, carefully study its pages, accept all the truth contained therein, and should an error occur, reject that, but throw the mantle of charity around the writer, knowing that "to err is human." A Member.

The Gospel Advocate appreciates the thoughtful action of this congregation and hopes that others will follow their example.

Conducted for a half century by D. Lipscomb and E. G. Sewell.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

$2.50 a year, in advance; ;o Canada and foreign countries, $3.00,

$2.50 a year, in advance; jo Canada and foreign countries, $3.00, in advance.

Remittances will be at our risk when sent by express or post-office money order, in registered letter, or by draft payable to our order.

When changing your post-office address, tell us your old as well as your new address; otherwise two papers might be charged to you. This paper is mailed regularly to all subscribers until definite orders in writing are received and all arrearages paid in full. If you wish us to stop your paper, write us to that effect; but do not ask it unless you have paid all arrears, if there are any. Do not ask your postmaster to attend to it for you, but do it yourself.

The date on your tab shows the time to which your subscription is paid. When money is received, the date will be changed, which will answer for a receipt. Two weeks' time must ordinarily cour from the time your remittance is sent before the tab on your paper is changed; if no cthanged by that time, notify us at once.

Subscribers, after paying for their papers, will favor us by noting whether the date on the address label is changed, and, if it is not changed within a month, by writing to us. We are careful, but misseakes may occur or letters may be lost. Our rule is to change the date on the day payment is received; but the mechanical work of correcting and printing the list takes time, and payments even from near-by places may uot appear the first week. Credits for payments from a distance may be even more delayed. Mistakes are easily restified if prompt notice is given.

All communications should be addressed to Gospel Advocate, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

Entered at post office at Nasville, Tenn.

Entered at post office at Nasville, Tenn.

Entered at post office at Nasville, Tenn.

Guarantee of Advertising.

All the advertisements in this paper are, we believe, signed by trustworthy persons. To prove our faith by works, we will make good to actual subscribers any loss sustained in trusting advertisers who prove to be deliberate swindlers. We shall not attempt to adjust trifling disputes between subscribers and honorable business men who advertise, nor pay the debts of honest bankrupts. To make this guarantee effective, in all cases say in writing advertisers, "I saw your advertisement in the Gospel Advocate;" and if anything goes wrong, notify us immediately in writing.

JACOBS & CO., ADVERTISING MANAGERS, Clinton, S. C.

Entered at post office at Nashville, Tenn., as second-class matter.

Published weekly at Nashville, Tenn.

Asia Watching Christianity at the Conference. BY J. C. M'Q.

The following article from the Literary Digest doubtless will be read with interest by our readers. One cannot but reflect how much greater the results would have been had the misionaries all been one, even as Christ prayed they should be. "Neither for these only do I pray, but for them also that believe on me through their word; that they may all be one; even as thou, Father, art in me, and I in thee, that they also may be in us: that the world may believe that thou didst send me. And the glory which thou hast given me I have given unto them; that they may be one, even as we are one; I in them, and thou in me, that they may be perfected into one; that the world may know that thou didst send me, and lovedst them, even as thou lovedst me." (John 17: 20-23.) May God speed the day when his will shall be done on earth as in heaven. While Christians should pray that they may "lead a tranquil and quiet life in all godliness and gravity," they should also work to bring about the reign of peace on earth, of which the angelic host sang when Christ was born. As Paul appealed unto Cæsar, so they should appeal unto the constituted government to so reign that Christians may be permitted to lead peaceable lives. Is it not better to bring every scriptural influence to bear in order to bring about a reign of peace on the earth than to do nothing till the world is plunged into war? Our efforts now will be more availing after we are already engaged in bloody strife,

Let us be Christians in all things. The eyes of the world are upon us. We never know what will be the result of an individual Christian deed. "Cast thy bread upon the waters; for thou shalt find it after many days." (Eccles. 11:1.)

Here is what the Literary Digest says:

Western nations cannot go on forever preaching Christ as individuals and acting the devil as States, plainly says Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick as he returns from a tour of the Orient convinced that if the Washington Conference should have a constructive result it would be the greatest piece of Christian propaganda that ever stirred the heart of the Far East. Forty millions of people in the United States "call themselves by the name of the Prince of Peace," and the Chinese and Japanese are said to be watching, with mingled suspicion and hope, to see how closely these millions live up to the ideals they profess, to see whether Christian America is really in earnest in its move to bring peace to the world. "Deep in the heart of the Far East when she thinks of the West is an ancient word that was our Master's, too. 'Do men gather grapes of thorns, or figs of thistles? Therefore by their fruits ye shall know figs of thistles? them.'"

And Asia is ready, too, for the message if the Conference makes good, Dr. Fosdick believes. China's greatest need to-day is "intelligently directed moral power," reports this observer, and his constructive criticism of a country torn by internecine strife and preyed upon by "foreign devils" comes appropriately at the hour when China is trying to elbow herself to a secure position among the sovereign nations of the world. Her political sickness and her economic distress are bad enough, but, beneath them all, said David Yiu, head of the Chinese Y. M. C. A., to the Western preacher, is "something deeper still—our moral and religious lack." The old religions are fallen props; official corruption, "squeeze," or graft, as we term it in this country, are so common as to be recognized institutions, and the country appears to be otherwise morally decrepit. Yet the labors of the missionaries and their converts afford such hopeful contrast where they have touched upon the fringes of the great Asiatic morass that the New York Presbyterian minister is convinced that all missionary efforts are fully worth while and will be evidenced one day in a stronger and happier people.

"There is no race on earth potentially greater," he says in a sermon published in The Christian Century denominational); "nor is there any hope of a settled Orient or a peaceful world except in a strong and self-controlled China." Her cry to-day "is for rising tides of moral and spiritual life. No hope awaits China apart from an access of intelligent, public-spirited character." How acutely this is necessary Dr. Fosdick shows when he recites that it is still the custom to bind women's feet, that ignorance is so wide spread that only five per cent of the people can read and write, and that lack of communication makes famines more terrible and the growth of national public spirit al-Inhabitants of villages within seventy most impossible. miles of Peking actually had not heard of the founding of the republic. As for the ancient faiths, "they are not savthe republic. As for the ancient faiths, "they are not saving China. They are not offering any hope of saving China." Buddhism has degenerated until it is "hopelessly corrupt." The plain fact is, we are told, that the great mass of popular religion in China is a religion of feardemon, and-

"Everywhere in China, from pathetic little joss houses down side streets, where the vehement beating of witchdoctors' drums can be heard all day, to Chinese supposed to be touched by Western influences, but who in times of crisis go back to the fear of demons, you find the center of the religion of China in the dread of the spiritual world.

"Now, from these old religions-Taoism with its magic and necromancy, Buddhism with its reincarnations, endless heavens and hells, and its utter lack of a social gospel, Conheavens and hens, and its utter lack of a social gospel, confucianism, for all its nobility, associated with a bygone social order—the best of young China is turning away; and the future belongs to young China. Up from the schools, out of homes often uninfluential and obscure, filled with the ferment of new ideas, passionate for a great nation, comes young China; and young China does need the moral power, the social passion, the undiscourageable faith in God, the transforming spirit of Jesus Christ." The great believers in China, we are told, are those foreigners who know her best—the missionaries. They have already witnessed changes "so immense and salutary; they believe so deeply in the elemental greatness of the Chinese people; they have seen such luminous examples of transformed persons and transformed communities, that, like Paul of Ephesus, they feel the very obstacles are hopeful." Similar evidences of fulfillment are to be seen in Japan, though, we are told,

"At first one is tempted to claim that there has not been time to prove whether Christian missions are worth while. It was 1859 when the first Protestant missionaries landed in Japan. As late as 1872 all the prominent crossroads of the Empire still bore the old edict boards, proclaiming death to every one accepting the Christian faith, It was not until 1880 that the Japanese New Testament first was published. It was 1889 before the constitution was promulgated that gave religious liberty to the Japanese. We have had only a few years in which we could prove whether Christian missions were worth while. To-day twenty-two members of the imperial Japanese Parliament are Christians. Of the six men who were closest to the Crown Prince on his trip around the world, three were Christians. was a Christian, I am told, who wrote those fine, forward-From 1859 to 1872 only ten the whole Empire. Now, just looking speeches for him. From 1859 to 18' Japanese were baptized in the whole Empire. fifty years later, we have a Protestant Christian Church of one hundred and thirty-five thousand members and a million adherents.

"One of the most encouraging facts in the Christian movement in the Far East is this: that the native churches there with increasing self-consciousness and power are looking toward the day when they can throw over the necessity of foreign missionaries. . . So foreign missionaries are making themselves useless as soon as possible by building up a self-controlled and self-supporting native church. All the native Presbyterian and Congregational churches in Japan are entirely self-supporting now. Methodist native churches in Japan are raising two-thirds of their own maintenance. There are three hundred and fifty-eight Christian congregations in Japan now that are entirely self-supporting; four hundred and sixty-six more that are partly so. Still we must support the foreign missionaries, must help finance the forward movements of the church into unoccupied areas; but sooner or later the day will come when the Christian church in Japan and the Christian church in China will take their stand beside us, not dependent, but independent, brothers in the tasks of the kingdom."

Questions Answered.

BY F. W. SMITH.

I am always willing to render any assistance I can to any one who may apply to me for help, but realize my inability at times to render needed help. Answering questions is not a very good way to maintain the good will of all; for while the answer may please some, it is almost certain to displease others who especially are involved in the matter. However, at the risk of displeasing somebody, I am going to answer the best I can the following questions without giving name:

1. If there are two or three in a congregation who insist on the elders excluding all helps, such as charts, outlines, maps, and quarterlies written by Srygley and Smith, do the elders have the power (just to suit the hobbies of a few) to say to the teachers, "You cannot use that method of study?" By such an act, would not the elders go beyond their power laid down in 1 Pet. 5: 3?

2. Many congregations use individual communion cups. Is any scripture violated by preparing the communion be-

- fore services begin and filling the cups?"
- 3. Because the Bible speaks of the elders feeding the flock, there are brethren who object to any church securing the services of a gospel preacher, like Campbell Street, in Louisville, has Brother Kurfees, or Birmingham has Brethren Lewis and Pullias. In the days of the apostles, did not James give almost all of his life in Jerusalem? Did not other gospel preachers spend several years in one place? Is it not a matter of judgment and expediency?
- 1. The obligation is laid upon the church to teach the word of God to all who will be taught. If the Bible limits the church as to time, place, or method, when such time, place, or method does not conflict with some other appointment of God, I am profoundly ignorant of the passage or passages which so limit the church. When the church assembles for the worship appointed of the Lord-viz., observing the Supper and the other items appointed in connection with it-we must not let anything interfere with that order. But when members of the church of their own appointment assemble at the meetinghouse or elsewhere, it is not the assembly of the saints God has appointed, and they have a perfect right to teach the word of God in classes, using any helps in the way of charts, blackboards, lesson helps, quarterlies or anything else that will convey the truth to the mind of those being taught. He who objects to any or all such methods in teaching the word of God assumes the obligation to give scriptural proof for his opposition; and if he cannot, he has constituted himself a lawmaker in the kingdom of God and seeks to bind his man-made law on God's children where God has left them free. No, neither the elder nor any one else has the power -authority-to say to the members of the church that they shall not do what God has given them the right to do. Might as well ask: "If some one objects to a person's being baptized, have the elders the authority to forbid it?" Elders "lord it over God's heritage" when they require the church to do something God forbids, or forbid the church doing something God requires. What, then, should be done with a member who is thus trying to hinder and impede the work of the church? Give him or her time to find the scripture that forbids what the church is doing or the way in which it is doing it; and if such scripture cannot be produced, go right on with the work. But you say, "He or she will become offended." O, no, you mean he or she will get mad: for that is exactly what such people do. In such a case, to offend is to lead one to sin against his conscience (1 Cor. 8: 1-13); and unless such a person is engaged in such method of teaching against his or her conscience, he or she has not been made to offend. Of course, if there should be one who objects to such methods of teaching, he or she should be true to his or her conscience and not engage in it, and I would advise all such to teach the word of God in that way that he or she thinks is scriptural.

- 2. If the New Testament anywhere says one word as to when—that is, whether before the services begin or during any intermission of the services—the table must be prepared, I have never seen it. We are told to have the fruit of the vine and unleavened bread, assemble ourselves on the first day of the week to observe the memorials; but as to by whom or when these emblems must be placed before the congregation, not one word is said.
- 3. As to how long a teacher of the word of God may remain in one place teaching that word, I do not know, because God has not told me. Of course elders are to feed the flock, but that does not mean that elders are to do all the work of feeding. When a church has in its membership one who has studied the Bible until he or she is able to teach the word of God, what are those recognized as the elders or overseers of the church going to do with such a member-put him or her to work teaching the word, or let him or her "die on the vine?" If the elders would visit from house to house among the flock and find out the kind of food suited to and needed by the sheep and then feed them, they would be tending the flock. O, but you say: "We have not the time to do such work, for we must make a living for our families." Very well, then, add a teacher to your number who will be the elder that "labors in the word and in teaching" (1 Tim. 5: 17, 18), and support him just as they did in New Testament times. Never mind now about being accused of having a "pastor," for that is exactly what you need—a scriptural pastor who will not be the pastor, but one of the pastors of the church, and one that will do a work that must be done, or the result will be a dead church.

An Unkind Thrust.

BY M. C. K.

I am perfectly willing to assist the author of the following unkind thrust in giving it as wide circulation as possible:

"THE POLITICAL POWERS.

" In Queries and Answers, by David Lipscomb, compiled by J. W. Shepherd, on pages 330-337, there is a lengthy discussion of Rom. 13: 1-3, from which I copy the following extract: 'The powers referred to here are civil or political They are ordained of God as instruments of wrath powers. for the children of wrath, to be conducted and operated by the ministers of wrath, and their destiny will be a destruction of fierce wrath; that God's children must submit to them as such, not strive by violence to destroy them, When, in the providence of God, they are no longer needed, he will destroy them-cause them to destroy and eat up one another (though they may have peace gatherings and love feasts). No Christian, then, can become a partaker or participator or .partisan of them, lest he partake of their Quiet, passive submission that involves no violation of the laws of the spiritual kingdom is the measure and limit of their connection with them. God's kingdom of mercy-his church-is his institution in which his children of mercy must operate, and in it receive the rewards of

"I do not think Brother Shepherd could have done thorough justice to Brother Lipscomb's answers to questions had he ignored this subject, and it is strangely significant that any one would compile a book of hundreds of pages purporting to be David Lipscomb's answers to questions and not give one word from him in regard to the Christian's relation to war and government, since his writings were featured with the teaching of the Bible on this subject, and he many times answered questions pertaining thereto. I write this in all kindness and good will to everybody, and only because I do not think David Lipscomb's invulnerable teaching on this subject should be in the least suppressed or passed over as unimportant."

That statement was written by Brother Flavil Hall and printed in the Christian Leader of November 29, 1921. It is not the first time this brother has made a thrust at me without having the courage to give my name, but I want the public to know that he meant me. Although I edited "Queries and Answers by Lipscomb and Sewell," yet without one word to me or any effort to find out from me the facts in the case, he charges me with having deliberately "suppressed" from my book the writings of David Lipscomb "in regard to the Christian's relation to war and government." The statement is totally untrue and a misrepresentation of me. He could easily have saved himself from such a predicament if he had been sufficiently charitable to inquire of me about the matter before rushing into print with it.

My book of 767 pages, requiring two years of arduous, painstaking and tedious work at such times as 1 could devote to it with numerous other things on my hands, is at least 200 pages larger than I first thought it would be, and even as it is, I had to omit much matter, or otherwise it would have been entirely too large; but from the very first to the very last of the hundreds of clippings that went into the volume, I am not conscious of having rejected a solitary paragraph from its pages on any subject because of the subject. In fact, I thought it proper and that it would be a merit in my book, except where further discussion of a query or some other such reason required doing otherwise, to avoid, as a rule, putting things in it from either Brother Lipscomb or Brother Sewell on any subject that was amply treated in the excellent volume that had already been collated from Brother Lipscomb's writings by Brother J. W. Shepherd, and especially where there had been "a lengthy discussion of" a matter in that volume; for, throughout its preparation, I fondly cherished the hope, as stated in my Preface, that the two books would be welcomed by the public and especially by the preachers, and that they would be acceptable as companion volumes in many libraries; and the ugly insinuation in the statement that, "It Is strangely significant" that I would bring out a book "purporting to be David Lipscomb's answers to questions," is unbrotherly in the extreme, and the implied charge that I "suppressed" anything from him because it was on "the Christian's relation to war and government" is totally untrue.

Moreover, even if my book did "not give one word" on the subject in question from either Lipscomb or Sewell, that would not change the groundlessness of his insinuation; but, as a matter of fact, if this brother, so utterly thoughtless and lacking in brotherly love as to make a derogatory charge against a brother which, the facts being as they are, he could not possibly know was true, had read my book with sufficient care, he would not only have found on pages 493 and 494 two questions on the identically same subject, "the powers that be," and on the identically same scripture, Rom, 13: 1-4, which he can so heartily commend when he finds it in Brother Shepherd's book, but he would also have found one of the questions addressed to Brother Linscomb by name though answered by Brother Sewell, but the answer to the other, though not signed, bearing evident marks that it was written by Brother Lipscomb, and both answers going forth, of course, with the indorsement of both men.

I have nothing to coneeal as either editor or preacher and am conscious of nothing in either capacity that would reflect upon my honor, and if it is his policy and the policy of his publisher to make underhand thrusts at brethren, I am willing to help them circulate them to the full extent that I am made their target.

The Price of the Gospel Advocate Reduced.

BY J. C. M'Q.

The past three years have been exceedingly trying on religious journals, and the present does not show much improvement. In 1919 the receipts on the Gospel Advocate were about five hundred dollars above the cost of manufacture. The expenses of manufacturing the paper during 1920 and 1921 will be something over ten thousand dollars more than the receipts on the paper in the same period of time. In addition to this, I have charged nothing for managing and writing for the paper for many years. I have cheerfully donated this amount and labor to the paper and charged it to the profit and loss account of the McQuiddy Printing Company.

The exceedingly high price of paper and labor are responsible for this deficit, as well as the fact that many of our subscribers are in arrears. With blank paper costing fourteen and one-half cents per pound and postage costing over two cents per pound, it can be readily understood that the cost of blank paper and postage would run into many thousand dollars annually on a subscription list of ten thousand or more. The United States government and the paper manufacturer must be paid even if the subscriber fails to pay his subscription. In addition to this, the cost of manufacturing the paper has been and is about double what it was under normal conditions. Few, if any, publishers of religious papers have been able to increase their receipts in the same ratio that their expenses have increased. Under normal conditions, I believe the Gospel Advocate will receive sufficient funds to meet expenses. The paper more than did this twenty-five years ago. The expense of publishing then was less than half what it is now, not considering the fact that printing paper in 1920 and 1921 cost the Gospel Advocate over four times what it did then. While labor in the printing business has not declined, printing paper is lower than in 1920, but it has not yet reached prewar prices, and I seriously doubt if it is ever so low again.

Our desire is to do the very best we can for the readers of the Gospel Advocate; so, despite the fact that wages are still high and paper is double what it was before the war, we have decided to reduce the subscription price of the Gospel Advocate to $2 per year, in advance, effective on January 1, 1922. The price to Canada and foreign countries will be $2.50, in advance. These prices will be uniform to all alike. Those who are in arrears will be expected to pay up to January 1, 1922, at the rate of $2.50 per year. They can then renew at $2 per year, which we earnestly request all to do.

We appreciate the support and hearty good will which our readers have accorded us, and shall continue to endeavor to publish a paper that is loyal to the truth and which will arouse Christians to great zeal and effort in the Master's vineyard.

Will not our readers help us double the circulation of the paper? If each one would send one or more new subscribers, it would be done. We have made the reduction in price, believing our readers would be encouraged to pay up and send new subscribers. Shall we be disappointed? The Master's work demands our best,

TEXAS-OKLAHOMA DEPARTMENT

BY C R NICHOL

All articles, reports, orders for Gospel Advocate, and books, from Texas and Oklahoma, should be sent to C. R. Nichol, Clifton, Texas.

Public Discussion.

On December 29, 30, in Clarendon, Texas, there will be a discussion of the subject of instrumental music in the worship of the church of Christ, between A. O. Colley, minister of Pearl and Bryan Streets church of Christ, Dallas, Texas, and John W. Tyndall, of Atlanta, Ga. Those favoring the use of instrumental music in the worship insist that in selecting Brother Tyndall they have the ablest exponent to be found of their views. I trust it is true. Brother Colley not only knows the truth, but knows how to present it, as well as expose the sophistry of any one he may meet. Those who wish to attend from a distance should write to Thomas E. Milholland, Clarendon, Texas.

* * *

Personal Notes.

Cled E. Wallace baptized three in a short meeting in LaRue, Texas.

Elvin Bost closed a meeting near Fort Gibson, Okla., with seven baptisms.

Foy E. Wallace, Jr., closed a meeting in Dublin, Texas, with twenty-two baptisms and seven restored.

- A. E. Walker reports work with the church in Sabinal, Texas, as progressing nicely. Recently he was with the church in Idabel, Okla.
- J. B. Nelson closed a meeting with the church in Bertram, Texas, with thirteen baptisms and two restorations. J. W. Acuff was the song director.

Foy E. Wallace, Jr., closed a meeting in Coleman, Texas, with thirteen baptisms and seven restored. W. A. Kercheville is the local minister, and is doing good work.

From G. A. Dunn, Hamlin, Texas, December 5: "Revival in progress at the Christian Church. Twenty additions here to date. Song service directed by J. H. Antwine, of Mineral Wells."

From T. H. Matheson, Guymon, Okla., December 1: "The meeting at Perryton, Texas, closed on Lord's-day night, with two baptized and one restored. A few days' rest at home, and then at Texhoma over next Lord's day."

J. A. Hudson, Oklahoma City, Okla., December 7: "Two fine services at the Tenth and Francis Streets church last Sunday. One became identified with us and one made the good confession at the morning service. O. E. Billingsley, of Conway, Ark., preached at night. His sermon was fine."

Ira Wommack writes from Sulphur, Okla., December 5: "I preached at Paul's Valley last Sunday to a fine crowd

This finished another year's work with the church at that place. They asked me to continue to visit them once a month, and I shall endeavor to do it. I preached at Sulphur (my home) on Sunday night."

Charles F. Hardin, Davis City, Iowa, writes: "I will assist in a meeting at Clar∈more, Okla., beginning on January 8. The cause is weak there and needs all the help we can give it. So if any one knows of persons living there, or near there, who are or have been members, please notify me at Davis City until January 1, or J. A. Wagner, Claremore, Okla., Route 4."

From G. M. Pullias, Dallas, Texas, November 28: "George A. Klingman, of Abilene Christian College, preached at the service conducted by the Oak Cliff church of Christ on Thanksgiving Day. The other congregations of the city joined us in this service. Ten preachers were in attendance. Brother Klingman delivered a masterful address, of which he is very capable, and every one seemed to feel that it was 'good to be there.'"

From W. T. Hines, Braman, Okla., December 8: "One among the best meetings in the history of the church of Christ at Braman, of two weeks' duration, was conducted by W. W. Slater, of Fort Smith, Ark. He is the best I ever heard to instruct the church in its duty. I think every gap was laid up as he entered, and at the close the church loved him better than at first. 'Three were baptized into the body, two came from the Christian Church, and two took membership."

T. H. Etheridge says: "I preached at Denton on the third Lord's day. The church of Christ, under the efficient eldership of Brethren Simmons, Darnall, and Shaw, is getting along very well, it seemed to me. One was restored at the evening service. I was with the Gunter brethren last Lord's day (November 27) and preached at the morning service. Another was restored to duty at this service. I rejoice that the cause seems on the upward trend everywhere that the brethren will only try to do their duty, despite the carnality of many who refuse to 'deal justly, live rightly, and walk humbly before God.' All my time for next year is arranged for, at least tentatively, except time for two meetings. This time I am willing to donate to mission work in Texas, Oklahoma, or Arkansas. Let weak places write me at Gunter, Texas, if they should be interested."

John T. Smith writes from Lubbock, Texas, November 23: "The church in Lubbock is not making very much fuss, but we are 'shelling corn' all the time. We now have a membership of about three hundred and twenty-five, and still growing. This of itself bespeaks the unity which exists among us, which is as nearly perfect as any congregation of its size I have ever known. Moreover, the church has 'a mind to work,' as is evidenced by the fact that we are going forward with our new church building at a time when it is so difficult to raise money. The building will be seventy-four by sixty-six feet, on a lot of one-fourth block for which five thousand dollars was paid. We plan to finish only the basement now, where we will worship for a while Later we hope to complete it and have a well-equipped house in which to work and worship. When it is finished, there will be separate rooms for the classes to be taught on Lord's day, thus removing confusion, and removing one of the objections to the 'Sunday school.' We hope to get into our new basement auditorium by Christmas or soon thereafter."

Watch and Wait.

While it is true that we never know what trouble or disaster may befall us, we likewise never know what great opportunity is going to come into our lives from an unexpected quarter. If we read the lives of the men of our country who have risen from poverty and obscurity to the greatest heights of success, we find that there were certain times in their lives when great opportunities presented themselves, that much of the success of these men was due to the fact that they were able to take advantage of such opportunities when they came.

How often have we witnessed the unhappy spectacle of some man failing to rise to the complete possibilities of opportunity as a result of thriftlessness!

Thriftless habits will undermine any character and eventually lead to ruin.—Selected.

I Will Not Doubt.

I will not doubt, though all my ships at sea Come drifting home, with broken masts and sails; I will believe the Hand which never fails, From seeming evil, worketh good for me; And though I weep because those sails are tattered, Still will I cry, while my best hopes lie shattered: "I trust in thee."

I will not doubt, though all my prayers return
Unanswered from the still white realm above;
I will believe it is an all-wise love
Which has refused these things for which I yearn;
And though at times I cannot keep from grieving,
Yet the pure ardor of my fixed believing
Undimmed shall burn.

I will not doubt. Well anchored in this faith,
Like some stanch ship, my soul braves every gale,
So strong its courage will not quail
To breast the mighty unknown sea of death,
O may I cry, though body parts with spirit,
"I do not doubt," so listening world may hear it,
With my last breath!

—W. Robertson Nicoll.

0 0 0

Seedtime and Harvest.

In the fall, when the ground has been plowed and harrowed until it is soft and loose and smooth, the farmer sows his wheat. Back and forth across the big field he goes day after day until he has finished. He works long, and the labor is hard. How glad he is when he has made the last round and turns the horses toward home!

That is the seedtime. Long months of waiting must pass before he sees the field of waving grain, and rides the binder as it makes its rounds of that same field, hears the roar of the thresher, and hauls away the wheat. All through the long winter he waited; but the harvest came at last, as he knew it would, for God has promised both seedtime and harvest. Because he expected the harvest he sowed his seed and waited through the long months of growing and ripening.

An acorn falls to the ground. It is very small and does not appear to hold much promise; but the warm, damp earth covers it, and it is lost from sight. That is the law of its life, without which there would be no hope, for that is the seedtime of the acorn. Now the harvest will come, for seedtime and harvest is the order that God has made.

How long it is in coming! A little shoot appears through the ground, to be sure, but no one would call that an oak tree. You could snip it off with two fingers. Another year passes, and you look at it again. It is a little larger than before, but still not an oak tree. An oak tree should be two or three feet in diameter and strong, like a pillar of marble. This is no larger than a man's thumb.

A generation has passed away. The small boy who saw the acorn fall and who watched it grow year after year is an old, white-haired man now, sitting on the porch of his home. Out in the yard children are playing. They are his grandchildren. They have a swing hung from the limb of a great oak tree, and in the shade of its wide-stretching foliage they have their playground.

How happy they are! How many jolly times they have had under that tree! About it have gathered all the joys of childhood. The oak tree has a place in their lives with father and mother and home. It has always been there, to them; but the old man, in his reverie on the porch, remembers the fall of the acorn and the years of a long life that have passed while the harvest of that seedtime was coming to perfection.

There is seedtime and there is harvest in every life. There is home training. There are schooldays. There are hardships and disappointments. There are joys and sorrows. There are successes and failures. There are temptations met and overcome.

If we sow the wind, we reap the whirlwind; if we sow wild oats, we reap tares. But—O!—what rejoicing there is in the harvest time of a life that has sown its good grain in the seedtime and carries home the full sheaves in the evening!—Youth's Companion.

* * *

Elizabeth Fry.

They were new boots-purple leather laced with scarletand Elizabeth was so proud of them that she cast conscious glances at her feet as she followed her father and sisters up the aisle of the hall where many hundreds of people had gathered to hear the American preacher, William Savery. In fact, Elizabeth was at first more interested in the new boots than in what he was saying. Not until he began to tell of long missionary journeys over Indian trails, of prayer meetings in pioneer cabins, of visits to towns newborn in the wilderness, did the thought of the purple boots fade from her mind. Then she gave her whole attention to the story he had to tell-and this so completely that when the meeting was over she followed her sisters like one moving in a dream. For the first time she saw that a life spent for others is not dull or dreary, but full of romance and adventure.

So it was that a great resolve was born—a resolve which has made the name of Elizabeth Fry honored throughout the whole world. Soon after Mr. Savery's visit to Norwich, and before the purple boots were worn out, Elizabeth opened a school for poor children—for in those days there were no free public schools—and here she taught until her marriage.

But it is in connection with a far greater work that Elizabeth Fry is best known. One winter business took her husband to London, and while they were there Mrs. Fry was a constant visitor to the almshouses and city jails, especially the Newgate prison. Some day you will read Dickens' story of "Little Dorrit," and understand just what that prison was like; how the inmates lived in unclean quarters, without light or air, or proper food; how often whole families were imprisoned, and the children sat about the prison yard hungry and cold. It was this that made Elizabeth Fry resolve to devote her life to bringing better things to pass.

In that gloomy prison she started a school for the children, and classes in sewing and weaving for the women prisoners, teaching them to make things which could be sold for their benefit. While they worked, she read to them from the Bible. But her work did not end there. A great part of her time was spent in trying to bring about more merciful laws and more humane treatment of prisoners everywhere. Princes and cabinet ministers listened with respect to this quiet woman in her dress of Quaker gray. At the request of the empress, the Russian government consulted her about the care of the insane, and several years of her life were spent in visits of inspection to the prisons of France and Belgium and Denmark, starting reforms which were the basis of all that we are trying to do to-day. -Dorothy H. Giles. $ $ $

Irritability of the stomach, loss of appetite, dyspeptic symptoms after partaking of food, dizziness, nausea, and vomiting are often caused by eyestrain. After the eyes are examined and glasses are worn, the symptoms disappear. Children during the period of school life who frequently suffer from headache, loss of appetite, and dizziness, and are behind in their work, should have their eyes examined and the eyestrain relieved by prescribed glasses.—Selected.

QUERY DEPARTMENT

The following was sent to the "Query Department" by one who desires that the name be not printed: "Please explain Matt. 12: 31; Heb. 10: 26. I desire special information on that part about 'blasphemy against the Holy Ghost."

The scriptures to which attention is desired declare: "Therefore I say unto you, Every sin and blasphemy shall be forgiven unto men; but the blasphemy against the Spirit shall not be forgiven." (Matt. 12: 31.) "For if we sin willfully after that we have received the knowledge of the truth, there remaineth no more a sacrifice for sins" (Heb. 10: 26.) To blaspheme the Holy Spirit is to speak reproachfully against the Spirit. To sin against the Holy Spirit is to refuse to do what he commands, just as to sin against God is to refuse to do what he commands. The Holy Spirit came last and gave the final sanction to the laws of God. To set them aside then was to leave nothing more to move the man. To sin against the Holy Spirit, 1 believe, is to persistently and finally reject his teaching, to refuse his testimony; to revile the teaching of the Spirit is blasphemy against the Holy Spirit, and will never be forgiven so long as continued. The letter to the Hebrews warned the Israelites of the danger of rejecting Christ and going back to the law of Moses. All sins are not willful sins. If they were, no one would be saved. Every one knowingly commits sin. The willful sin is one in which the sinner presumes to be wiser than God, assumes to change God's laws, and substitutes his own inventions for the appointments of God. King Saul did this. (1 Sam. 15: 1-9.) To intentionally displace God's law with an invention of man is the willful sin. If, after having received the truth, we willfully turn from it to our own inventions. God will not offer another sacrifice to save us. The last sacrifice has been made. This is especially true since the truth is sealed by the blood of his Son, our Lord Jesus Christ. To reject this sacrifice persistently and finally is to be lost.

* * *

W. E. Brison, Humboldt, Tenn., asks: "By what authority was the Sabbath day abolished and the first day of the week made a day of worship?"

The law given by Moses, written on the tables of stone, is the only authority found in the book of God for the Sabbath. There is no account of its having been given to any other people save the Jewish people. When Christ came, he asserted his superiority to the Sabbath. The Sabbath was for man. Jesus said, "The Son of man is lord even of the Sabbath," declaring his power to control or abrogate the Sabbath law. He healed the sick on the Sabbath and justified the lifting of the ox out of the pit on the Sabbath. The law as explained by Moses was: "Six days shall work be done; but on the seventh day there shall be to you a holy day, a Sabbath of solemn rest to Jehovah: whosoever doeth any work therein shall be put to death. Ye shall kindle no fire throughout your habitations upon the Sabbath day." (Ex. 35: 2, 3.) The man who gathered sticks to kindle a fire to prepare a meal on the Sabbath was stricken dead. No manna could be gathered on the Sabbath. Christ did not so keep the Sabbath; for he justified going into the cornfields, gathering, rubbing out, and eating the corn or the wheat. He was asserting his authority over the Sabbath and his right to annul it. He did take it out of the way, nailing it to his cross. (Col. 2: 14.) He rested in the grave on the Sabbath and arose on the first day of the week. He met with his disciples on the first day of the week. Seven days intervened, and on the next first day he met with them again. The Holy Spirit descended on the first day of the week on Pentecost, and the disciples met on the first day of the week to break bread. The Encyclopædia Britannica, Volume XXII., page 653, writing on Sunday, or the Lord's day, says: "Thus Acts 20: 7 shows that the disciples in Troas met weekly on the first day of the week for exhortation and the breaking of bread; 1 Cor. 16: 2 implies at least some observance of the day; and the solemn commemorative character it had very early acquired is strikingly indicated by an incidental expression of the writer of the Apocalypse (1: 10), who for the first time gives it that name ('the Lord's day') by which it is almost invariably referred to by all writers of the century immediately succeeding apostolic times. Among the indications of the nature and universality of its observance during this period may be mentioned the precept in the (recently discovered) Teaching of the Apostles (c. 14): 'And on the Lord's day of the Lord (kata kuriakeen kurion) come together and break bread and give thanks after confessing your transgressions, that your sacrifice may be pure."

0 0 0

J. H. Hyde, Fayette, Ala., wishes an answer to the following questions: "(1) How many were qualified to baptize the three thousand on the day of Pentecost? (2) What must a man do to be born of water and of the Spirit?"

1. Any man who is a Christian is qualified to baptize. We know that there were at least one hundred and twenty disciples at Jerusalem on the day of Pentecost who were qualified to baptize the three thousand. William Smith says in his "Dictionary of the Bible:" "They numbered in all some one hundred and forty persons—namely, the eleven, the faithful women, the Lord's mother, his brethren, and one hundred and twenty disciples." The twelve apostles could have easily immersed the three thousand. There was then and is now an abundance of time in which to baptize people. The difficulty is not in baptizing people, but is in leading them to want to be baptized.

2. In order to enter the kingdom of God, one must "be born of water and the Spirit." (John 3: 5.) The saved are in the kingdom of God, so must be born of water and the Spirit. "He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved." (Mark 16: 16.) Hence, "he that believeth and is baptized "is "born of water and the Spirit." In Acts of Apostles we find believers being baptized in order to the remission of sins and in order to entrance into Christ. Those who hear the gospel and who believe and obey it are born of water and the Spirit, enter into the kingdom of God, and, hence, are saved. After entering the kingdom of God, one must continue faithful unto the end in order to the enjoyment of eternal life.

Mental House Cleaning.

The majority of people need a mental house cleaning. Mental filth and scum never contribute to clean living. Learn to tackle big problems and contribute your mite to the world's progress. When the mind sees things in the right perspective, you can build noble structures on the concept; and as you build the ideals will expand in scope, taking breadth and altitude as the mind dwells on "the worth while," There has never been a greater challenge for men of giant mind than now. Yet so often what glows in promise is little more than the effervescence of fetid ideals. Men need the clean life. It offers nothing it cannot fulfill. The progress of it may be slow, but it rises to heights never reached by men of degraded mentality. You can reform the past if you think and do right. Step into the forefront and lead men out of the present unrest into clean, noble living that will exalt the nation .- Selected.

If Your Trouble Is Scrofula

As Often Acquired as Inherited,

You have eruptions and sores, and perhaps enlarged glands of the neck. This blood disease affects the internal organs, especially the lungs, and if neglected may develop into consumption.

It causes many troubles, and is aggravated by impure air, unwhole-some food, bad water, too much heat or cold, and want of proper exercise.

Hood's Sarsaparilla, the bloodpurifying medicine that has been used with so much satisfaction by three generations, is wonderfully successful in the treatment of scrofula. Give it a trial.

If a cathartic or laxative is needed, take Hood's Pills.

HAIR For the

To make it soft, fluffy, and free from dandruff, use

60c at your druggist's or from the SHUP-TRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

lo Reduce Fever Relieve Headaches and Neuralgic Pains

Aspitone is very efficient and absolutely safe to use as it does not depress the heart in extreme cases of debility or weak heart, nevrasthenia or anaemia. Manufactur-ed by a formula in use by leading physicians generally, 19 parts pure Aspirin, I part pure Caffeine 4 parts excipient, in convenient tablet form. 35c per package at your druggists or by mail from the manufacturers. Piedmont Laboratories, Inc., Clinton, S. C

MAKE LOAFING HENS LAY

While the price of eggs is high. Get three times the number of eggs you have been getting by using CaroVet Egg Producer, a wonderful poultry tonic. Satisfactory results guaranteed by money-back offer. 21/2-pound packages, with full directions, for only 80c. delivered at your door. Send money order, stamps, or check.

CAROLINA REMEDIES CO., No. 3 CaroVet Building, Union, S. C.

FEATHER BED OUTFIT NOW ONLY $12,50

Send us $12.50 and express office and we will send you one 46-lb. New Feather Bed, One Pair Mew Feather Bed, One Pair Mew Feather Bed, One Pair Send One Pair Pair Mew Feather Pillows, and One Pair full size Bed Blankets or Bed Spread, All Mew Clean, sandlary feathers, best 8-0z. A.C.A. featherproof technig, Biggest bargains you ever saw. About half store price. Moneyback guarantes, Mail Money Order today. Catalogue frea Southern Feather & Pillow Co., Dept. P., Greensbore, N. C.

OBITUARIES

GOSPEL ADVOCATE.

Clifford.

A. Clifford was born on October 8, 1839, and died on November 5, 1921. His illness was of short duration. He was taken sick at 1 A.M. and passed away at 5 A.M. He was a member of the church of Christ for more than years, and for many years he was an active, teaching elder in the Cross Roads Church, of Bedford County, Tenn. His influence for good was widespread in his community. In his death the church loses an active and godly member and the community a just and upright citizen. On Sunday, November 6, the writer conducted the funeral services in the presence of a and sympathetic audience. "Blessed are the dead which die in Lord: . they rest from their labors; and their works do follow W. B. McQuiddy. them.

Bunch.

David T. Bunch was born on December 15, 1848; obeyed the gospel in 1896, being baptized by Brother C. E. Holt, at Horner, Perry County, Tenn., and departed this life on October 22, 1921, after a three-weeks' sickness, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. J. A. Wiley, Kenton, Tenn. He bore his suf-He said he was fering with patience. like Paul: he had fought a hard fight, and had kept the faith, and was ready to meet his Savior. He was married to Miss Lavenia Harder in 1871. this union nine children were bornfour sons and five daughters, aged companion, two sons, and two daughters survive him. The children are: A. H. Bunch, Nashville, Ark.; J. A. Bunch, Chicago, Ill.; Mrs. J. A. Wiley, Kenton, Tenn.; Mrs. L. J. Hinson, Newbern, Tenn.—all members of the church, except one. Besides these, many relatives and friends mourn his loss, but we hope to meet him where parting is no more

A GRANDDAUGHTER.

Hare.

William Huston Hare was born on August 1, 1888, and died on August 28, 1921. He obeyed the gospel in October, 1905. He was married to Miss Margarette Smith on December 30, 1918. Huston was a good child, a good boy, a good and obedient son, a good man, a true husband, and a faithful and devout Christian. He leaves a wife, one child, one brother, one sister, and his father, to grieve over his death. Huston and his father, Dave Hare, were devoted to each other. They were as Jonathan and David. He loved Huston as his own soul. The large number of sympathizing friends, acquaintances, and loved ones present, who came to pay the last respect to him whom they all held in high esteem, the many beautiful flowers contributed by his friends, the pure life of the deceased-all these served to bear away the gloom of the occasion. The funeral services were conducted by me, at the Cook Cemetery, near Milton, Tenn., where the remains were laid to rest by the side of his mother to await the resurrection

L. B. Jones.

Carman.

My uncle, S. A. Carman, died on October 4, 1921. He was ninety-three years and twenty-three days old. He was born on September 11, 1828, and was left an orphan at ten years of age. He became a seeker of religion at the age of seventeen years and kept it up till he was thirty, but realized the change he was taught to expect could not be had that way. He became disgusted with the religion commonly taught then and drifted into infidelity; but he was not satisfied, and he decided to search the Scriptures for light, which led him into the faith, and he rode twelve miles to the town of Hartsville, Tenn., made the confession at Lord's-day meeting, and was immersed by the much-beloved W. C. Huffman, in August, 1858. He was married to Mary F. Tooley on February 23, 1853, and to this union six children were born. He had great love for the Gospel Advocate, which he had read nearly ever since its beginning. He was a faithful Christian, and would take his stick in his hand and walk for miles to be at the Lord's-day service. His exhortation to us was to always be faithful. ARILDA CARMAN.

Hoye.

Sister Mary E. Hoye, of the Little River congregation, near Hopkinsville, Ky., has gone to her reward. Sister Hoye had grown old in the service of Christ. She was eighty-three years old when she died, and had been a member of the church of Christ for many years. Sister Hoye was sick for a long time, but she was patient and sweet throughout the whole time. Her sickness, and all other troubles, for that matter, seemed to draw her closer to Christ. She was kind and gentle and rather of a sunshiny disposition, notwithstanding she had had much sorrow throughout life. Her home was an open home, and every one was made to feel perfectly at ease and at home when in the home of our sister. When talking with her, one would be impressed with the fact that she was a woman of God, one who had walked with him and lived for him. She was faithful to the church for which Jesus gave his life. She loved good songs. She told me that when nervous she often sang herself to sleep. She said she sang in her heart, and the song usually sung was "Safe in the Arms of Jesus." She fell asleep on October 1, 1921, without a struggle. May God bless and keep Sister Laura Burris, her only daughter, and may he also love and bless and comfort Sister Hoye's grandchildren and her many friends.

W. L. Karnes.

They have hope of victory who endure.—Exchange.

The church educates through its architecture, and every building is a confession of faith.-W. H. P. Faunce.

TETTERINE Drives Away Pimples

and leaves your skin soft and spotless. 60c at your druggist's or from the SHUPTRINE CO., Sayannah, Ga.

PSYTREATED ONE WEEK FREE Short breasts.

Short breathing re-lieved in a few hours; swelling reduced in a the liver, kidneys, stomlieved in a few hours; swelling reduced in a few days; regulates the liver, kidneys, stom-ach, and heart; purifies the blood; strength-ens the entire system. Write for Free Trial Treatment. COLLUM DROPSY REMEDY CO., Dept. E-43.

FRECKI

Now Is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots.

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling schamed of your freckles, as Othine—double strength—is guaranteed to remove these homely spots.

Simply get an ounce of Othine—double strength—from your druggist, and apply a little of it night and morning and you should soon see that even the worst freckles have begun to disappear, while the lighter mes have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than one ounce is needed to completely clear the skin nd gain a beautiful clear complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength Othine as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.

Renew your subscription to the Gospel Advocate.

FIELD REPORTS

Berry, Ala., November 29.-I am at home from Kentucky and Tennessee, where I spent four months in the work of the Lord. I enjoyed my work in this new field in great measure. found many true and faithful children of the Lord, some of God's noble workmen as public proclaimers of the word. men as public proclaimers of the Manager Among these were J. D. Smith, F. H. Woodward, Emmett G. Creacy, W. D. Smith and Brother Friend. I will be at home for some weeks, and could give some time to North Alabama and Mississippi. I am under promise to visit Columbus, Miss., the second Lord's day in December. I have some old-time friends at that place. Brethren, why can't we have more meetings in the winter time? In the North the people have their meetings in the winter time, especially in towns and cities. It seems to me that we could be busy all the while and accomplish much more good for the cause. There is too much going into winter quarters with us.-Frank Baker.

Washington, D. C., December 8,-Thanksgiving Day was a happy one to the church here. Notwithstanding the bad weather, we had a good attendance at the evening services, and one very useful man came into the church, leaving human teaching and human names to be a Christian only. I recently returned from a thirty-days' visit among the churches. Out of thirty-one churches visited, all but one either gave a donation or promised to send help soon. Please do not forget to make this promise good before the end of the year, as we should meet the notes and get out of debt. A big debt and the interest holds us back from doing mission work. Our desire is to "sound out" the word as soon as possible to those in fields near here, where there are millions who know not the way of life eternal. Brother Thompson, of Murray, Ky., has well remarked that this debt would be paid in a single day if every congregation in the land would set one Lord's day and give freely the offering of that day. This is very true. Let us do it. December 18 would be a fine day to prove what could be done. How many will give the offering of that day? Send all donations to E. L. Mills, treasurer, P. O. Box 204, Washington, D. C. Those desiring to write about members here, or those who may be coming here, will please address me at 1319 Harvard Street, N. W., Washington, D. C .- W. S. Long.

Dinuba, Cal., November 28 -On the afternoon of November 10 I left my home at Burns, Tenn., for the pic-turesque city of Dinuba. Brother D. F. Draper, my esteemed friend, had arranged for me to spend the second Sunday in Fort Worth, Texas. While the guest of that metropolis I had the pleasure of making the acquaintance of some of God's noble workmen. In the forenoon I preached at Northside Brother Ben West has done and is doing a great work in that section of the At night I spoke to a very atenty. At fight I specified, where tentive audience at Southside, where The Elkins labors. Those brethren were appreciative and cordial. On Monday evening I drove over to Denton with Brethren Draper and Stewart to hear Brother Elkins. He preached a thoughtful sermon on "The Character of Abraham," After the service I met Brethren R. D. Smith, L. Whiteside, D. S. Ligon, and my schoolmate, William Etheridge. old schoolmate, From Fort Worth I went down to Georgetown, the home of Brother Draper. While there I was his guest. My visit to Georgetown was a most pleasant one. Leaving there on Thanksday morning, I traveled west toward Golden State. I passed through El Paso, Yuma, and Los Angeles, and arrived in Dinuba on Sunday morning. The brethren met me at the station and gave me a warm reception. The work here has an encouraging future.-William P. Walker.

Fresno, Cal., November 30 .- In compliance with an urgent request from the brethren in San Francisco, i preached in that city on the first Sunday in November, and baptized a young man and his wife. The work is moving along nicely there; but the brethren are anxiously awaiting Brother Larimore's return. They ex-Brother Larimore's return. They expect him very soon. As Graton is only about sixty miles north of San Francisco, and as I had promised Brother Gardner I would visit his school this fall, I went on from the city to Graton. I spoke two evenings and two mornings to the teachers, students, and friends of the school. The Pacific Christian Academy is a fine school, and Brother Gardner and his colaborers are surely doing a grand work. Eighty-two pupils have been enrolled already and the school spirit is excel-The Sonoma County brethren lent. are rallying to the school work, and Graton community appreciates what is being done. The Academy now owns five acres of land and a substantial two-story school building, free from debt; and it has an endowment fund of fifty-three thousand and five hundred dollars. No one should think or say that Brother Gardner and the other teachers have received fifty-three thousand dollars. The interest of this fund is used to pay teachers and other expenses of the school; but it is by no means a gift to any one teacher or teachers. As the brethren gave me such a cordial welcome, attentive hearing, and urgent invitation to return at Thanksgiving, I agreed to do so. When I reached Graton on Thanksgiving morning, the rain was pouring, but the house was full of eager listeners. I spoke in the forenoon, and after the adjournment the crowd of about three hundred repaired to the first floor of the building and ate lunch. My! What Venison, turkey, chicken, a lunch! salads, pies, and cakes of numerous varieties, and other good things too numerous to mention. The afternoon session was given to a round-table talk on Christian education, and was extremely interesting. At night the school gave an entertainment, which was very fine. The orations, recitawas very fine. tions, songs, and plays were all high class, and each one taught a good lesson. Even though the rain continued, the house was filled at the night session, and the order and attention were the very best. We surely "had gladness and joy, a feast and a good day. -W. Halliday Trice.

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

Are You a Weak and Ailing Woman? Beauty and Health Go Hand in Hand

Fort Thomas, Ky. — "Several years ago I had become so poor and weak from trouble of a feminine character that I could not walk around in my room without holding to the furniture or having some one to assist me. I was so nervous at times I could hardly endure any one walking across the foor. Finally I began taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and in three months' time I gained 20 pounds. I continued taking the medicine Favorite Prescription certainly saved my life."—Mrs. Laura Klepfer, 15 Oak St. Health is most important to you. Do not neglect it. Obtain this Prescription Dr. Pierce's of Dr. Pierce's now, in liquid or tablets, from your druggist, or send 10c for trial pkg. of tablets to Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y., or write for free medical advice.

medical advice.

Rheumatic Pains Aches

quickly relieved by CAPUDINE. It's liquid. Easy on the stomach and produces satisfactory results. Good for headaches and grip also. 10c, 30c, 60c at medicine stores. Try it.

Send for this rich looking gold filled Combination Watch-Bracelet today. You will find it to be a $10.00 value. Has adjusted 7-jeweled movement, the case being gold-filled and warranted to wear 10 years. It is a stem-wind and stem-set model and it looks like a very expensive watch. The picture shows you what a handsone model it is and the gold dial adds to its attractiveness. The bracelet is flexible and will fit any wrist, so you need not heetiate to you, as pictured, in a relyet and silk-lined box. Each watch is examined before leaving the factory and you will find them perfect time-pieces.

Don't Hesitate! Our Money-Back Guarantee Protects You

So positive are we that you will be delighted with your watch that we ABSOLUTELLY GUAR-ANTEE to refund your money if you are not satisfied after examination; therefore, do not hesitate to order. Send no money. Just rush your name and address. Your watch will be sent by return prepaid mail and delivered right to your door by the postman. Pay the postman our advertised price of $4.95 on arrival and remember, if you are not entirely pleased after examination, return your watch and we will refund your money, every cent of t.

EMPIRE CITY MFG. CO. Dept. 168, 138 5th Ave., New York

FIELD REPORTS

Dyersburg, Tenn., December 6.have been here one month. Our audiences are growing very perceptibly. Fine crowds Sunday past, with three additions. Our mid week Bible class is very enthusiastic. I find not nearly so many preachers in West Tennessee as there were eight years back when l left this field. Too many have gone away .- J. W. Dunn.

Menlo, Ga., December 4.—The Bible school taught by Brother R. N. Moody is now a thing of history. He came here (Berea) on November 5 and taught at night until December 2, closing with the largest crowd in attendance that we had during the month. Brother Moody did his part well, the attention was fine, and we trust much good was accomplished. The lessons were in Acts of Apostles. The ladies The lessons of the church here and a few others who are not members of the church have agreed to meet with me one afternoon in each week to continue the study of the lessons just gone over for the purpose of getting it more firmly fixed in our minds.-Mrs. W. J. Hogg.

Tulare, Cal., November 22.—Brother W. Ballard, of Helena, Okla., was with the church in Tulare for two weeks, beginning on November 6. There were no baptisms, but one restoration. While there were no visible results in the way of baptisms, yet we feel that the church was strengthened and edified. Brother Ballard is a man who is familiar with the teachings of Bible, and he is also one who makes no compromise with error. Brother George W. Dickson, of Dinuba, will preach for the church in Tulare next Sunday. If it be the Lord's will, I will speak for the brethren in Bak-There is a splenersfield on Sunday. did chance to build up a strong congregation in that city.-L. Meade Williams.

Fort Smith, Ark., December 7 .- I closed the meeting at Braman, Okla., last Friday night. All things considered, it was a good meeting. We had eight additions in all-four by baptism, two placed their membership with us, and two came from the "Christian Church." There are some fine brethren at Braman, and they are doing a fine work. Brother W. T. Hines, who is one among our best preachers, lives He was a great help and an inspiration to me in the meeting. It was my last meeting for the season. I will preach at home next Sunday, which will close my work in Fort Smith. My next work will be the seventeendays' singing normal at England, Ark., which will begin on December 19 .-Will W. Slater.

Hanceville, Ala., December 6.-I now give a brief report of my work during the past year. My first and greatest effort has been to strengthen the breth-I believe that preachers and elders have been far too slack along this line of teaching, especially on giving and necessity of meeting on the Lord's day. I held five protracted meetings and assisted Brother M. A. Creel in three meetings at mission points. baptized twenty-four persons, succeeded in starting two congregations to work, and have the promise of one new house of worship. This is my second year's work, and I now have more calls for meetings than I can answer. We need more young men to preach the word. Let us encourage all to sow the precious seed .- Pride E. Hinton.

Bradentown, Fla., December 1.-On the third Lord's-day night in November I preached here for my home congregation, and we had one restored to the fellowship. On Wednesday night, at prayer meeting, we had two confessions, one of them a Baptist. The church, under a splendid eldership, has grown, and through their teaching and the writer's they have learned that meeting upon the first day of the week does not depend upon a preacher's being present to preach for them, and the house is well filled every Lord's day. I am at this writing in a meeting at Istachatta. The church at Lakeland is doing well. Brother Hoover, from Tampa, and I visit them. and they, too, are learning that worship to God is not just to go when a preacher is present.-John Hayes.

Hopkinsville, Ky., December 8 .- I am at this place on my way to my home at Wynne, Ark. I spent nine months in Jackson, Clay, and Overton counties, Tenn. I held fourteen meetings of from one to three weeks' dura-Of these, eight were mission tion. I have promised to work in meetings. Overton County again next year. work will be mostly at mission points. There are six loyal congregations in the county, and five of them have expressed a willingness to assist in the There are a number of places work. where the gospel in its purity has never been preached. At all points which I visited the people seemed anxious to hear. I have calls for more meetings next year than I can hold. There is plenty of work in Overton County to keep two or three preachers busy.-J. C. Pendergrass.

Athens, Ala., December 1.holding a two-weeks' meeting in Oakland Church, eight miles west of Athens, and having large crowds. am drilling the little children every night before I preach. The children They occupy the front are anxious. seats and quote verses from the New Testament by memory. I will be here until December 9. Last Friday night I closed a fine meeting in my old home town, with one baptism. I will preach for the brethren on East Jackson Street, in Albany, on the second Lord's day in this month. On Lord's-day night and a few nights following I shall preach at Tanner. From Tanner I go to Hayes Mill Schoolhouse to preach a few nights, and then to Pleasane Valley Church. The Pleasant Valley meeting will be my last meeting a while in Northern Alabama. After that I shall return to school at Spencer, Tenn.-William W. Still.

Mayfield, Ky., December 4.—This morning at Enon and this afternoon at Water Valley I filled my regular appointments with these congregations. I was greeted by large audiences. These brethren make the services pleasant by the zeal they have for the cause and the hospitality they show those who come and go. The day brought regrets, however, because my work with them closed after laboring pleasantly together for the past two years. To-night I was very much edified by one of the Lord's noble workers, Brother A. L. Wilson, who preached a great sermon to a large and attentive audience. Each Thursday night he conducts a Bible class that has resulted in a number of souls being added. He has had a great misfortune lately in his home, caused by his baby boy getting badly burned. I entered school at the Lipscomb College last September,—Alonzo Williams.

Imboden, Ark., December 2.-Since my last report I have taught two singing schools and sung for Brother W. F. Lemmons in a meeting at Sneed. Brother Lemmons is a loyal gospel preacher, and one that knows his lesson. The full results of this meeting cannot be determined at present. was to go to Birdell last Lord's day for a few discourses, but was rained out; so I just preached here at home. One lady made the good confession and was baptized. We have a zealous little band of disciples here. They are always ready to do their part in every good work. Brother Joe A. Taylor, of Paragould, held a fine meeting here in October. He had very large crowds throughout the meeting and baptized two persons. Both the Methodist and Baptist preachers of the town turned out to hear Brother Taylor. Brother O. E. Billingsley will hold our meeting next year in July. We would be glad to have any loyal gospel preacher stop off and preach for us .- A. H. Porterfield.

Denton, Texas, December 5,-The services at the Pearl Street Church, Denton, Texas, are continuing to show interest. The meetings yesterday were all well attended and the membership worked with enthusiasm. At the evening hour the attendance and interest were especially pleasing, and one man made the good confession and is to be baptized at the hour for the regular prayer meeting on Thursday even-The prayer-meeting service on last Thursday evening was probably the most interesting we have yet had, as more people, perhaps, took part than ever before. A number of the men who have not been much in the habit of taking public part in the services had their parts to play in the meeting of the last prayer-meeting However, our next will still service. be an improvement, as it will be a step in advance. Our boys will read the lesson, several of them taking part and reading installments of the lesson. Brother Elkins, of Fort Worth, and Brother C. D. Record, of Leonard, have each made a visit to Denton and preached during the last week, and those who heard them were especially pleased with the sermons.-R. D. Smith.

Hohenwald, Tenn., November 26.— I have been very busy this fall in protracted meetings. I have held ten of the best meetings I have ever held since I have been preaching, with sixty-two additions. I established two new congregations—one at Quakers, Tenn., with twenty members. I have just closed a two-weeks' meeting twelve miles north of Earl, Ark., with eight added to the one body. This meeting was brought about through Brother M. T. Harden, who moved from Rutherford, Tenn., to Earl. This is the only congregation of disciples in thirty-five miles of that place, and it was the first gospel sermon those people ever had. Brethren, I have gone and preached wherever called. Like Paul, I have labored with my hands to sunport myself and those that were with me. I want my brethren to tell me how to manage. I cannot work and preach all the time, and I have meetings for almost all the winter, and all in destitute fields. My wife and I are making this sacrifice almost alone. I have one on whom I can depend when I have gone my limit, and that is dear old Brother H. N. Mann, of Riverside, Tenn. Pray for me and mine when it goes well with you.—L. W. Hinson.

Buffalo, W. Va., Box 81, November 29.—I have received personal help in my work to the amount of $84.40. I have also received $37.84 to help pay our last lumber note and to help finish the church house. We are very thankful for this help. We still need about $125 for this last purpose; and owing to the precarious condition of my health I must get this off my mind as soon as possible. Surely our friends will help us out on this by the new year. Please let every one send something for this purpose now, stating what it is for. If our brethren knew to old plates.

the real situation here, they would help us out at once. I can use checks or money orders. Send all help to F. P. Fonner, Box 81, Buffalo, W. Va. Personally, I still need some help; and I request all my friends to keep this in mind. At last writing I was some better, but last week I had another acute attack. I am still almost prostrate. I have almost reached a point where an operation may become necessary in order to save life. I should have an emergency fund on hand all the time. So, if any of you have any help for me, please send it to me now. You can perhaps help me back to health by doing so at once. Last Lord's day we were rained out entirely here. This is the only failure we have made since the house was built, thirteen months ago. It was next to an Impossibility for any one to get out; but, sick and weak as I was, I went twice. Let us be true to Christ, for these are "perilous times."—F. P. Fonner.

MEQUIDDY PRINTING CO.

	ENGRAVED VISITING CARDS	PLATE AND 100 CARDS
	11 11 200		Extra Lines
1.	Mrs. Morris E. Barr	$3.25	$1,50
2	Miss Virginia Haloy	5.25	2.75
3	Miss Ruth Heath	3.25	1,50
4	Miss Emma R. Leathers	3.25	1.50
5	Miss Almyra Reams	3.75	2.00
6	Mrs. Carey N. Posegale	5.25	2.75
7	217rs. Edward Glonn Walter	3.75	2.00
8	Mrs. Telen Simpson Cooper	5,25	2.75
9	Miss Klizabeth Barthell	3.75	2.00
10	Miss Kuthleen Vaughan	5.25	2.75
п	Mrs. Justin Potter	5.25	2.75
12	MR. JOHN T. CAMPBELL	4.25	2.25
13	MR. FRANK B. EMMERLING	5.50	3.00
- 14	Miss Hester E. Bratten	5.50	3.00
15	MR. JACK SWANEY	3.75	2.00
16	MR.WILLIAM A. HUDSON	4.25	2.25
100 C 100 I 30 Z 100 Z Eras On	Cards reprinted from plate	with a	1.75 25 2,50 3,00 . 1,25 ldress,

From East Tennessee.

BY GEORGE W. FARMER.

On the third Lord's-day evening in September I began a meeting at Old Fort. This is the only congregation in Polk County, and it is in very poor working condition, chiefly for want of competent leadership and something in the way of regular preaching. As results of the meeting, one was baptized, four were restored to the fellowship, and the congregation was put to meeting regularly. Brother W. M. Wilson lives at this place and teaches school at Conasauga. He is a fine school man and a good preacher, and can be very helpful to the church at this place.

On the first Lord's-day evening in October, with Brother J. D. Derryberry to lead the singing, I began the meeting at Riceville. The meeting continued nine days, and five were baptized. Here we have a small congregation and some good, substantial people, but the congregation is in poor working order. It does not get the preaching it should have. The members need waking up to the proper sense of duty.

On Wednesday evening, October 12, I began a meeting at Liberty Hill. The meeting continued twelve days, and six were baptized and one was restored to the fellowship. Here we have a strong congregation numerically, but they are in very poor working order. There are many fine people here. Among them is our preaching brother, W. A. Daugherty, a good man and a good preacher, who is loved and esteemed very highly by all the people. It is to be hoped that this congregation will step fully into the harness and make itself felt as a power for good in this country. All they need is a better working spirit. So many of them have no "mind to work."

On the evening of the fourth Lord's day in October I began a meeting at Calhoun, and on Monday evening following Brother J. D. Derryberry joined me as song leader. We carried the meeting on eleven days, and during that time we were hindered much by rain. Two were baptized. At this place we have a very small congregation, but some good people; and with them as a small nucleus, we hope to build up very much as time goes on.

Brother C. R. Nichol, with Brother Will Klingman to lead the singing, recently closed a great meeting with the church at Cleveland. Thirteen were baptized, three came into the fellowship of the church to be Christians only, and one was restored to the fellowship. Brethren Nichol and Klingman make a strong gospel team. They won the love and esteem of the brethren and the people in general. We believe much harvest will be reaped yet from the meeting. Two came into the fellowship of the church at last night's prayer-meeting services.

Brother A. B. Blazer will work with congregations at Soddy, Sale Creek, and Graysville. Dayton and Rockwood will cooperate in the support of another man, probably Brother Will J. Cullum. In the country above Chattanooga there have already been twenty-seven protracted meetings held this year, four new congregations have been established, one new church house has been completed and three others are now in process of completion. More work has already been done this year than ever in one year before. We are hoping and praying to be able to keep the good work moving on.

I was in the home of a good brother and sister in Middle Tennessee last fall, and they were talking of the probabilities of moving to another town, and were planning what they were going to do for the church in that town if they moved. What a fine index to the real spirit of the Master's cause and the pressing needs of to-day! Some people move to get out of work, others move to get into more work. The latter is the thing to do. We die a spiritual death if we do not work.

"Ho! reapers of life's harvest, Why stand with rusted blades, Until the night draws round you And day begins to fade?"

TREMENDOUS VALUE FOR 15c.

The Pathfinder, Leading Weekly Magazine of Nation's Capital, Makes Remarkably Attractive Offer.

Washington, D. C., Special,-People in every section of the country are hurrying to take advantage of the Pathfinder's wonderful offer to send that splendld illustrated review of the whole world thirteen weeks for 15 cents. It costs the editor a lot of money to do this; but he says it pays to invest in new friends, and, in spite of the high cost of his enlarged and greatly improved paper, he makes this rare offer to bring his circulation up to 400,000 a week. You will like this paper. It is twenty-nine years old and now better than ever. Splendid stories and rare miscellany. Question Box answers all your questions. Only 15 cents, mailed at your questions. once to Pathfinder, 93 Langdon Sta., Washington, D. C., will keep your whole family informed, entertained, helped, and inspired.

Ing-Bogard Debate.

BY H. J. SUDBURY.

Brother C. W. Ing, of Hillsboro, Texas, and Ben M. Bogard (Baptist), Little Rock, Ark., engaged in a fourdays' debate, beginning on November 21, at the Cypert church of Christ, near Maryel, Ark.

This debate was conducted on a high plane, with a good spirit existing between the disputants throughout the entire discussion. The community was drawn closer together, and both sides feel that good was accomplished. The general church propositions were discussed.

Brother Ing pressed his opponent to show that one member of the New Testament church was ever called a Baptist, even in derision. No effort was made to do this, and this failure was a very eloquent argument for the truth.

On the apostasy question, Mr. Bogard was driven to say that it would be possible for a child of God to steal a horse and die without ever having confessed it, and yet be saved. This admission brought forth considerable comment from those who were not church members. Brother Ing stressed the dangers connected with the doctrine of "impossibility of apostasy," showing that a Christian might take it as a license to sin.

This was Brother Ing's sixty-second debate. He proved himself an efficient soldier, well armored and able to handle the Scriptures with force and power. The church was well pleased with his work.

Sore Feet? Don't Worry. Here's a Remedy!

Hot foot bath. Dry feet carefully. Rub thoroughly with Eucapine Salve. Towel till dry. Then off to bed with a happy heart for your poor, sore feet will be better in the morning.

Antiseptic Analgesic Antiphlogistic (Prevents Infection)(Relieves Pain) (Allays Inflammation)

is a great comfort in cases of inflamed conditions of the skin and of the membranes of the air passages. 50c per 2 oz, jar, at your druggist's or by prepaid parcel post from the manufacturers. Full size jar free to physicians and quantitative formula supplied if desired.

Piedmont Laboratories, Inc.,

Renew your subscription to the Gospel Advocate.

Tribute to a Good Man.

BY B. F. HART.

Dr. E. A. Davidson was born on August 8, 1845, and died on October 19, 1921. He was married on February 18, 1885, to Miss Lizzie Marks, daughter of T. B. Marks. He leaves a wife and two children-Marks Davidson, of Petersburg, Tenn., and Mrs. Nellie Shoffner, of Flat Creek, Tenn. One son died in infancy. Brother Davidson obeyed the gospel early in life. He was baptized by that prince of preachers, T. J. Shaw. He had been before the public as a physician and a church leader at Richmond, Tenn., for more than fifty years. As a physician, the rich, the poor, all had a friend in Dr. Davidson. He will be sadly missed among the poor. All who knew him esteemed him highly as a man of honor and integrity. As a church man, he stood in the front rank. His judgment was good; hence, his advice was good. He was one of the soundest men I have ever known. He had a large practice, yet he was always at church in time for meeting. studied the Bible diligently. His great forte was class teaching. He had convictions, and the courage of his convictions. You could always tell where he stood.

Some men, after leaving us, we soon cease to think of them; others, the longer they are gone, the more you miss them. I feel that it will be that way in this case. As David said of Abner: "Know ye not that there is a prince and a great man fallen this day in Israel?" He was great in administering to the poor and unfortunate of earth. He was a prince in his loyalty and devotion to the word of God.

There is a sadness comes over me when I think that he is gone. I shall cherish his memory while I live, and try to meet him where sad partings are no more. His loved ones have all of the promises of the gospel of Christ.

In Our New Home.

BY J. D. TANT.

I am now located on the farm at Quitman, Ark. Quitman is in a fine farming country at the foot of the Ozarks, sixty miles northwest of Little Rock. There is no church of Christ at Quitman, and, so far. I have not heard of one in Cleburne County.

I shall hold a mission meeting and try to build up a church at Quitman soon. What I can do, any other preacher can do, and any church should be willing to make as much sacrifice as a man. So, if each of our three thousand loyal preachers and each of our twelve thousand loyal congregations will hold a mission meeting next year and build up a church of Christ, we can almost double our membership. How many will try?

Quitman is a fine little inland town of one thousand people, a good school, but sixteen miles from the railroad. We also have a forty-thousand-dollar college building, with only one half in use. Here is one of the finest openings I know of in the State for a business college. The town is anxious for such a school, and will give a man all the school room he needs, and will offer other inducements to get it started. If I can find a Christian who wants to make teaching his life work and who is not crazy over "our Bible college," who is willing to operate a business college and teach a Bible class also, our town will stand behind him. I am confident that we can put from one hundred to two hundred boys and girls in such a school each year. As we are all farmers and raise most that we eat, we can board them for half what they would have to pay in the cities. This would not only be a stepping-stone to better schools, but would put many boys and girls in position to make life a success. While giving them an education for this life, we can also put them under Christian training and teach them the Bible. I would be glad to hear from any brother whose mind inclines along this line. Also, it is my intention to build up a church of Christ with one hundred or more members in the next few years. If brethren who want to live in a healthy farming country near a good school, with their children under Christian influences, will write me, I will help them to find something to suit them.

It is generally known that many animals possess in a greater or less degree the same senses that we ourselves have-sight, hearing, smell, touch, temperature, and so on-and that many of them experience such emotions as fear, anger, grief, and joy; but it is not quite so certain that they have even the elements of reason as we understand that term. Their minds are like ours only in the degree of their intelligence.-Selected.

BOILS, CUTS and BURNS have been healed since 1820

Gray's Ointment

Bold by all druggists. Write for sample to W. F. Gray & Co., 716 Gray Bldg., Nashville, Tenn.

Our remedy has stood the test for fortyour remedy has stood the test for forty-seven years. Our testimonials date from 1875 to the present time. Read what these grateful people say. Send to-day for our FREE booklet on EPHLEPSY. Address

TOWNS REMEDY CO., Milwaukee, Wis.

We have them in pretty Christmas boxes

PRICED FROM $2.50 UP

Add 5% extra for War Tax

IF CLIP-CAP IS WANTED, ADD 25 CENTS EXTRA

McQuiddy Printing Company

TENNESSEE NASHVILLE,

Ends Stubborn Coughs in a Hurry

For real effectiveness, this old home-made remedy has no equal. Easily and cheaply prepared. &----

You'll never know how quickly a bad cough can be conquered, until you try this famous old home-made remedy. Anyone who has coughed all day and all night, will say that the immediate relief given is almost like magic. It is very easily prepared, and there is nothing better for coughs. Into a pint bottle, put 2½ ounces of Pinex; then add plain granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. Or you can use ctarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, the full pint saves about two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, and gives you a more positive, effective remedy. It keeps perfectly, and tastes pleasant—children like it.

You can feel this take hold instantly, soothing and healing the membranes in all the air passages. It promptly lossens a dry, tight cough, and soon you will notice the phlegm thin out and disappear. A day's use will usually break up an ordinary throat or chest cold, and it is also splendid for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness, and bronchial asthma.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, the most reliable remedy for throat and chest ailments. To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions and don't accept anything else. Guranteed to give above thing else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind. refunded.

TETTERINE

Ends Complexion Worries

Healing, Antiseptic, Soothing, Fragrant 50c at your druggist's or from the SHUP-FRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

Howell-Bogard Debate.

BY A. H. LANNOM.

This debate was held at Ramer. Tenn., November 15-18, and was a clean, high-class debate. I admire Mr. Bogard as a man and a debater. He is as fearless and daring as Goliath, yet modest enough in debate to be a real gentleman. It was my first time to hear Brother Howell in debate. I have known him for several years and have thought him to be a great man, but was surprised beyond measure at his ability as a debater. He showed himself equal to the occasion.

The general church question was discussed, and Mr. Bogard led the first two days. In his first speech he laid down eight fundamentals of the Baptist doctrine: (1) Establishment of the church, (2) direct impact of the Holy Spirit, (3) salvation wholly by grace, (4) design of baptism, (5) security of believers, (6) restricted or close communion, (7) name, (8) reception of members.

On the origin of the church, Bogard quoted Acts 1: 21, 22. He defined "church" as a body of baptized believers in the same faith and fellowship. Brother Howell gave him quite a bit of trouble over his definition and showed him that Acts 1: 21, 22 said nothing about a church, and that in order to establish his claim he must resort to forgery. In his second speech he abandoned his "from the baptism of John," saying, "If I cannot go back to the baptism of John, I can back up to Pentecost," and said he believed the church was established in Jerusalem.

On the matter of salvation wholly by grace, he said that grace included faith, love, repentance, and blood. Brother Howell placed baptism in the circle by the same process of reasoning, and asked Mr. Bogard in almost every speech to take it out, but he never tried to do so.

On the design of baptism, Mr. Bogard showed himself unequal to the task. He staked his honor and scholarship on the proposition that the Greek "eis," when pointing out relation or condition, was always "with reference to, or on account of, or because of." Brother Howell challenged his honor and scholarship, but he failed to produce any authority.

On depravity, he quoted Ps. 51: 5 and Job 14: 1. Later on he said that a child was not born a sinner, but was like the duck-not born swimming, but with a disposition to swim.

On direct impact of the Holy Spirit, he illustrated by placing his hand on a man's head, saying: "By direct, immediate impact I mean without means or medium." Brother Howell met every argument, and Bogard abandoned his position and said that the

ASTHMA CURED BY SIMPLE REMENY

Famous Druggist Discovers Simple Remedy For Asthma and Makes Generous FREE TRIAL Offer to Readers.

Thirty years ago Mr. C. Leavengood, a widely known Kansas druggist, discovered a simple, easy-to-take prescription for Asthma. He gave it to people who had suffered for years, and, to their amazement, they say they were easily cured. These people told their friends, and in this way thousands have found the sure way to cure Asthma. Mr. Leavengood feels so confident that his prescription will, cure in all cases that he generously offers to send a big bottle on ten days' Free Trial to any reader of this paper who will write for it. If it cures, pay $1.25; otherwise you owe nothing. Send no money—just write to C. LEAVENGOOD, 1648 S. W. Blvd., Rosedale, Kansas, and the big bottle will be mailed immediately. simple, easy-to-take prescription for Asthma.

Holy Spirit never operates without means, and that the word is the means.

Bogard also made a hard fight on church succession; but Brother Howell clipped his chain at both ends, and Bogard admitted that they were not called "Missionary Baptists" till about 1832

Bogard seemed not to care about any definite position-just the one that would give him the least trouble. He said that Howell was the strongest man he ever met in all of his debates.

Report from Cookeville, Tenn.

BY J. PETTEY EZELL.

This is our second week in our new home. It is quite a diversion to us to be in a new field absolutely in the midst of strangers, as until now I have never lived in a county but that joined my native county-Limestone County, Ala. For thirteen years I have lived and labored in North Alabama, and for the past six years at Albany-Decatur, Ala., where I labored in two meetings the year previious to my moving there. This work, with the work at Athens, Hartselle, and Tanner, speaks for itself, and I am glad that at the end of our seventh year's connection we were permitted to part in peace, having the absolute good will and confidence of every member, and, moreover, to leave such an unprecedented interest in the work. Our attendance at all services was never so large as this fall, and the contributions surpassed all previous records, reaching, for the month of October, $375.34. There were also at our regular services for the last two months twenty-three additions from all sources. To the Father of mercies and the God of all grace be the praise, and may he richly bless and use Brother Claude Woodroof as he comes to continue that work. Among the preachers of the church of Christ, I know of none, either old or young, who is more beloved or who will surpass Brother Claude Woodroof as an indefatigable worker.

This work at Cookeville is a diversion to me from another standpoint, for this is the first time in my life to be successor to any preacher, save I moved to Minor Hill, Tenn., once, where Brother J. T. Harris had lived four years previous. But of recent years Brethren W. L. Karnes and Charles L. Talley, both of whom bear good names, have been connected with the Cookeville church, and both did a good work. Truly this is a great congregation, and we are much pleased with our new home, with all its prospects and surroundings; and with the full cooperation of such a splendid body of people as we find here, I see every reason why we should accomplish the best work of our lives here. and to this end shall we labor and pray, and to this end we ask an interest in the prayers of all. It was my pleasure to hear Brother T. B. Larimore last Saturday night (November 26) and three times Sunday, Though I grew up within a few miles of Mars' Hill and have been under his influence, through his old students and his books and religious papers, from child-hood, this was my first opportunity to hear him preach, for which privilege I thank God and take courage. He has labored extensively here, and no people love him and appreciate him more than the Cookeville people, as a token of which, and for the good they can do, they have extended him an invitation to spend the month of August, 1922, in their midst.

"O give thanks unto Jehovah; for he is good; for his loving-kindness endureth forever."

Hard Colds—People whose blood is pure are not nearly so likely to take hard colds as are others. Hood's Sarsaparilla makes the blood pure, and this great medicine recovers the system after a cold as no other medicine does. Take Hood's.

$3.00 VALUE FOR $1.00

By special arrangement with one of the leading Eastern manufacturers, we are able to offer our readers a real bargain in the

"CAPITOL" LEVER SELF-FILLING FOUNTAIN PEN

SOME OF ITS FINE POINTS

GOLD PENS are 14 K. gold, spring tempered with special care, pointed with hard iridium. These pens have been famous for more than half a century.

CLIP is riveted to the cap, and prevents loss of pen from the pocket.

HOLDERS are made of the best quality hard rubber, and are not injured by the ink.

Lever or filling device is riveted to the barrel; when raised for filling the pen, pushes the pressure bar and the sac, filling the pen full, clean and quick.

The retail selling price of the pen is three dollars, but to every reader who sends a new subscriber at the regular subscription price of $2.50 and adds one dollar we will send this pen as a mark of our appreciation.

Please understand that the offer does not apply to renewals. It is made as a special inducement to get new subscribers.

Order early and avoid disappointment.

ADDRESS

GOSPEL ADVOCATE

317-319 Fifth Avenue, North

NASHVILLE, TENN.

A Religious Discussion.

BY F. L. PAISLEY.

Beginning on November 21 and continuing six days, Mr. E. Z. Newsom and I debated the following propositions near Piggott, Ark .: (1) "The Scriptures teach that the church described in the New Testament should wear the name 'Missionary Baptist Church' and its members be called Missionary Baptists!" (2) "The Scriptures teach that party names, such as 'Baptist,' 'Methodist,' etc., are unscriptural and a sin against God." (3) "Salvation in answer to prayer before baptism," (4) "Baptism a condition of salvation from alien sins." (5) "The people who call themselves. as individuals, 'Christians,' and the church to which they belong 'the church of Christ,' 'church of the Lord,' etc., believe and teach things that had their origin with the Campbells, and should, therefore, be called 'Campbellites." (6) "The Scriptures teach that a child of God can so sin as to be finally lost in hell."

Mr. Newsom affirmed the first, third, and fifth; I affirmed the second, fourth, and sixth. The fifth proposition automatically turned on Newsom, and he was asked if he and his people call themselves "Christians," etc. It was shown that they were either not Christians, did not claim to be, or his own proposition said that they are "Campbellites." We have the general church propositions signed for discussion at some future time. Brother J. P. Lowrey moderated for me, and proved to be first-class in the work.

Work in Southern Alabama.

BY J. H. HINES.

Several of the churches of Christ in South Alabama sent representatives to Greenville (which is the center of the field) last Sunday for the purpose of furthering the cause of Christ in this section. The main purpose of the meeting was to cooperate and send an evangelist into the destitute fields. Ten churches, located in Montgomery, Butler, and Covington counties, were represented. These churches raised eighteen hundred dollars for the work, to be used for the support of the gospel.

Brother W. T. Grider, of Dozier, Ala., was selected by the churches to do this work. He will enter the field in January, and will work in destitute fields only. No congregation need call him: he is to help those who cannot help themselves. "The poor have the gospel preached unto them." We have too many congregations void of the Spirit. South Alabama is a great field of labor. We need more true gospel preachers in this field-men who are

KEEPING WELL MEANS A CONSTANT FIGHT

Many diseases may be described as a catarrhal condition. Coughs, colds, nasal catarrh, stomach and bowel disorders are just a few of the very common ills due to catarrh.

Fight. it! Fight catarrh with a remedy of assured merit, a remedy which has a reputation for usefulness extending over half a century—

DR. HARTMAN'S

Tablets or Liquid

STANDARD FOR SO YEARS CHILLTONIC

Not Only For Chills and Fever But a Fine General Tonic

Wards Off Malaria and Restores Strength. Try It - If not sold by your druggist, write Arthur Peter & Co., Louisville, Ky willing to spend and be spent. Did you ask, "What about the support?" Yes, you will be supported if you preach the whole counsel of God: but if you spend your time preaching faith, repentance, confession, and baptism, and fighting the sects, I am afraid you will not. I believe we have failed to teach the churches to support the gospel. Why not preach on "Giving?" That is a Bible doctrine. No one can withhold his money from God and be saved. Brethren, do not let money stand between you and God. Get a vision of Christ and the lost, ruined, sinful world, and you will not.

FOR TEACHERS AND SCHOLARS.

OUESTIONS ANSWERED.

Lipscomb, D., and Sewell, E. G.

(Edited by M. C. Kurfees.)

Cloth, 700 pages. Price, postpaid.....$3,00

Cloth. 700 pages. Price postpaid....$3.00

Questions bearing on the Bible, the church, the Christian life, and kindred subjects, are constantly coming up. You need some good book to help you along this line. The new book. "Questions Answered," by David Lipscomb and E. G. Sewell, will be of great assistance to you. Those who have seen and examined it closely are highly pleased. W. A. Schultz, a very useful evangelist residing at El Paso, Texas, writes: "I have "Questions Answered," by Lipscomb and Sewell, compiled by Kurfees, and it contains more Bible information than any book I ever saw. I have all the works of Campbell, Milligan, Franklin, Errett, McGarvey, Rotherham, B. W. Johnson, and others of our noted preachers and educators, but none was the peer of David Lipscomb."

PELOUBET'S NOTES FOR 1922.

Rich in material, comprehensive in scope, and practical in treatment. The standard for forty-eight years.

CRUDEN'S CONCORDANCE.

Price, postpaid.......$2.25

This is absolutely indispensable to the teacher.

CROSS-REFERENCE DIGEST OF THE BIBLE.

Monser, H. E.

Price, postpaid......$2.50

Brings the topical analyses found in the Cross-Reference Bible within the reach of the masses.

ROTHERHAM'S EMPHASIZED BIBLE.

Designed to set forth the exact meaning, proper terminology, and graphic style of the sacred originals.

FIRST LESSONS IN CHILD TRAINING.

Walters, Zelia M.

Price, postpaid......$0.85

A handbook for mothers,

OUTLINES OF BIBLE STUDY.

Smith, G. Dallas.

Price, one dozen, postpaid$8.25

For use in Bible drills, prayer meetings, and home study.

THE PEOPLE'S NEW TESTAMENT, WITH

(Two volumes.)

Johnson, B. W.

Price, per volume, postpaid.....$2.50

A splendid commentary, comprising the entire New Testament. Volume I., four Gospels and Acts; Volume II., Epistles and Revelation.

FOR ELDERS AND DEACONS.

THE MODEL CHURCH.

Brewer, G. C.

Price, postpaid......$1.00

Presents the scriptural teaching bearing upon the organization of the local congregaton. Shows how a more systematic and effective work can be accomplished.

AROUND THE LORD'S TABLE.

Lipseomb, A. B.

Price.... Answers the needs of those who preside at the Lord's Table.

SEND ALL ORDERS TO

McQUIDDY PRINTING COMPANY Nashville, Tenn.

Volume LXIII. No. 51.

NASHVILLE, TENN., DECEMBER 22, 1921.

$2.50 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

The Need of Solid Reading

0 0 0

"Can't understand a word of it," said the young fellow blithely; and dropping the volume on the table, he picked up the evening paper. And soon his friend heard him chuckling over the cartoons.

Now the book he had cast aside was not written in a foreign tongue. It was not a technical treatise, abounding in technical phrases. It was one of the books denominated "solid reading." The thought it presented was no hairsplitting philosophy, and its language was clear, yet a high-school graduate felt no shame in declaring that he "could not understand a word of it."

While babies and invalids may live on a liquid diet, healthy people need something to chew on. Indeed, it is universally recognized that civilized people would be better off if their food was coarser and tougher. Our meat is too tender for our good. Our bread is too fine. Most of us would be tremendously benefited by doing more chewing.

Now, what is true of the body is equally true of the mind. Our manufacturers advertise predigested foods, and predigested mental food is offered in such abundance that we can be saved the trouble of thinking. A scientist discovers some important principle and writes a book about it. A few students read the book, and then some clever newspaper man writes a clever article in which the scientist's discovery is reduced to its simplest terms and made readable by a great deal of light and flippant talk. Of course that article is read by a hundred to one who reads the scientific book.

The brains deteriorate if they are called on to do no thinking. The young man who, when confronted with a book of solid reading, declared he "could not understand a word of it," probably spoke the truth; but this did not imply any congenital weakness of the brain, but only that it was unfit for work because it was unexercised.

As every day's bill of fare should include some food that needs grinding, so every day we should do a little hard reading. Keep a book on the living-room table for that purpose. If you do not read any more than ten minutes a day, take at least that. Do not try to read any more than you can read and understand, if it is only a paragraph. Fix your mind absolutely on what you are reading. Grip the thought and reiterate it till there is no danger of your forgetting it. Think it over to-day, so that when you take up to-morrow's reading, you will have a certain momentum to aid you. This continued for a year will bring about a very gratifying change in your ability to think, and when confronted with a book in straightforward English, you will be ashamed to say, "I can't understand it."—Editorial in Acton (Canada) Free Press.

CURRENT COMMENT

___ By A. B. L. __

Eminent statesmen have suggested that the great American public offer earnest prayer for the success of the Disarmament Conference. This we can certainly afford to do. Nay, more, we shall be remiss in our Christian duty if we fail to observe Paul's exhortation that intercessions be made "for kings and for all that are in authority." Perhaps, if Christians could only grasp the thought clearly that the times are upset and wars break out because they have failed to pray as earnestly as they should, they would do better. The apostle states the object of such petitions thus: "That we may lead a quiet and peaceable life, in all godliness and honesty." Now, if the times are troublous so that we are not living quiet and peaceable lives, let us not think that God has failed to answer prayer, but that our prayers have been deficient. It is simply a question of our faith in God. Rather significant it seems that some of the political leaders who asked us to pray for the big conference also suggested that we do not expect too much as a result of its labors. The sort of faith that limits the ability of our God will not please him. Many needed changes in worldrule affairs may seem impossible to us just at this hour, but, remember, they are not impossible with God. He can bring about much more than our most sanguine hopes can expect.

This leads me to remark that lack of confidence is behind most of our failures in the ordinary affairs of life. How can we ask our God to bless and prosper us when we ourselves are uncertain as to the course we are pursuing? There is much truth in the saying: "If you feel that you cannot win, you will not win." Before there can be success, there must be confidence to act as a driving force.

0 0 0

Let me urge every reader to consider carefully the editorial reprinted on the first page of this issue, which deals with "The Need of Solid Reading." It is the finest thing along this line I have read in many moons. It not only points out a serious defect in our methods of reading and study, but suggests the most helpful remedy. Undoubtedly the enormous amount of predigested mental food on the market makes it easy not to think. Almost unconsciously we fall into the habit of letting some one else do our thinking for us. In studying the Sunday-school lesson, we depend too much upon the "helps;" in preparing a sermon, there is the temptation to get some big preacher's "outline;" in writing a letter, we consult "The Model Letter Writer." Without ever intending to do such a thing, we deteriorate into veritable "copy cats." Now, certainly there is a time and place for the various helps, but to use them so constantly that we actually depend upon them and can't do without them is to commit mental suicide. There were two reasons, I believe, why Paul urged Timothy to give attention to reading. One was that he might store his mind with helpful truths; the other was to keep his mind exercised and alert. Personally, I know that there is nothing quite so stimulating as to dig out a sermon for myself. Books are of all shades as to their moral value, and to select the good and reject the bad requires sometimes no little skill. But you may put it down as a certainty that any book that encourages you to think for yourself is worth reading. Just here I give Mr. Edward Bok's definition of "a good book" as printed in The Ladies' Home Journal:

A good book is one that interests you.

One in which the bright rather than the dark side of life is shown.

One that makes you feel how mean are the small vices of life and how despicable are the great sins.

One that glorifies virtue in woman and honor in man.

One in which the good are rewarded and the wicked are made to suffer—suffering, by the by, that may be of the conscience, or in a more material way—a reward given either on earth or promised for the future.

One which convinces you that this world is filled with good men and good women.

One that breathes forth the goodness of a Creator, and respects his all-governing laws.

One that makes you feel that you are meeting real people—people who elevate your thoughts as you associate with them.

The world is filled with books of one kind and another, but few people comparatively are reading the good ones. You will be surprised to learn that this nation's chewing-gum bill is larger than its book bill. We have nothing against the chewing-gum manufacturers; but the people, for their own good, ought either to chew less gum and save the money spent that way to put in books or they ought to get the money for books from some other source. Chewing gum aids digestion, but, as Francis Bacon tersely puts it, "reading maketh a full man."

0 0 0

After considerable agitation of the subject, secret societies have finally been abolished from the public schools of Washington, D. C. This is a bit of news that will be welcomed by those who cherish the thought that neither money nor clothes make the man. We share the sentiment of the Pathfinder, which comments as follows:

Secret fraternities and sororities have at last, after repeated efforts, been ousted from the schools of the national captital. This is a genuine advance, and it should be imitated in all places where such societies exist. There is not a thing that can be said in their defense; they are in way opposed to the interests of the pupils, the schools, and the public, and they should not be tolerated for a moment. They are undemocratic; they introduce social distinctions and ideas of exclusiveness; they exercise a vicious minerity domination over school activities; in short, they represent the worst features of rotten politics brought into the schoolroom, The schools are a public institution, mair tained by public funds. The pupils should have no divided allegiance or secret obligations. Each pupil is entitled to be judged on his individual merits, and should be neither boosted nor held down by any secret organization.

If Greek-letter fraternities and sororities are a menace to the public-school system, then, on the same grounds, they are a menace to the student life of all colleges and universities. But it is a fact that they are not only permitted, but actually encouraged and festered, in most of the modern institutions. The politics bred by these secret organizations affect the professors as well as the students. The average old-fashioned parent who sends the boy to college does not really know what a fraternity is. He thinks it is some kind of a social club whose existence is short-lived. Rather than deprive his boy of a little bit of innocent pleasure, he readily consents for him to join it. He does not know of the vicious influences to which he is being initiated as are admirably outlined in the Pathfinder's article. To his list he might have added gambling, Sometimes the parents do know something of these evil influences, but they are too weak-kneed to object in the face of what all the other parents are doing. Then there is always the thought that home training will make "my son" or "my daughter" immune. I do not believe in anything that encourages selfishness, snobbishness, or exclusiveness, to the hurt of others. Jesus Christ was the most democratic Being who ever trod this earth. He showed that when he said: "Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to the whole creation."

If the influences working for the advancement of Greekletter fraternities were centered upon the betterment of the almost extinct literary society, no complaint could be offered.

Abraham: His Prompt Obedience to the Call.

BY H. LEO BOLES.

The touchstone of true faith is prompt obedience to all of God's commands. Promptness in bringing one's will into harmony with God's will reveals a faith that God honors and blesses. Man's readiness to do God's will and his promptness in submitting to the commands of God place man in an attitude of due respect and holy reverence for God. A yearning desire to know the will of the Lord and a quick response to Jehovah's fiat are the noblest attributes of human character. Abraham is an example of quick, ready, prompt, and punctual obedience to the commands of Jehovah,

The Bible record states clearly and definitely the call of Abraham, and after enumerating the blessings the divine record simply states: "So Abraham went." The writer of the Hebrew letter says: "By faith Abraham, when he was called, obeyed to go out unto a place which he was to receive for an inheritance; and he went out, not knowing whither he went." (Heb. 11: 8.) This record of Abraham's prompt obedience is very clear. It states that "when he was called, [he] obeyed to go out unto a place which he was to receive for an inheritance." He did not hesitate nor murmur nor inquire where he was to go; "he went out, not knowing whither he went;" he simply did promptly what he was told to do. He recognized that it was the prerogative of Jehovah to command and his to obey. Abraham walked by faith. One can walk by faith only when one does promptly what God commands.

At the time of Abraham's call, he was a husband, but not a father-a childless man. He did not need to seek a new country for the increase of his worldly goods. The record seems to be clear in regard to the fact that he had enough property to meet the simple wants of himself and wife. He was not yet a wealthy owner of extensive flocks and needed more pasture land. He had no ambition to see a new country and try his fortune there; he was not a "plunger" in a new enterprise; he was not a restless, discontented citizen in his native land, desiring to be on the go; he was not possessed with a burning lust of conquest which stirred him to great activities; he was not cursed with a greed of gain. So far as we know, he had had no thoughts of ever leaving his native plains. He left his country at the call of Jehovah, and went out, not knowing where he would find a new home. He promptly gives up the comfort and conveniences of his quiet home and becomes a "kithless and kinless nomad" in following the voice of Jehovah.

Jehovah calls and Abraham obeys; God orders, and without hesitancy, without any delay, Abraham moves promptly in the direction that Jehovah indicates. It is always pleasing to Jehovah, when he gives a call to the children of men or a command to them, for man to obey at once. Jehovah has never given a command and at the same time given man a probation of time in beginning to obey that command. He has never given a command and at the same time said to the ones to whom it is given: "Think over this commandment, study it out: and if you think that it is best for you to obey it, then obey it, and I will bless you." Such a course would rob Jehovah of his sovereignty and deprive man of the blessings of faith. Jehovah speaks directly to the hearts of the children of men and issues a fat, demand, or call, and man must promptly obey without doubt or procrastination. Abraham did this, and in his prompt obedience to the call of Jehovah lies the secrecy of his strong faith, which we shall notice at another time. It is fearful to dally or trifle with the commands of our God. We show our wisdom and faith in specifically, faithfully, fully, and promptly obeying Jehovah's commands.

Promptness on the part of Abraham caused him to invest his life in implicit faith and obedience to God. He did not count the cost of giving up his old home nor the expense of the journey. He placed himself in the hands of Jehovah, fully trusting in him that all would be well. He did not know where he would go, neither did it concern him so long as Jehovah directed the journey. As he suddenly began to migrate from Ur of the Chaldees, some one or more may have asked him where he was going. Imagine their surprise and consternation when Abraham told them that he did not know. I do not imagine that Abraham was in the least embarrassed at being in such an awkward situation. He promptly folds his tent, and, "like the Arab, silently steals away," with a bright hope born of a strong faith. He goes because Jehovah directs him. Truly, if he had gone on his own account, "he would have been a fanatic;" if he had refused to go or delayed to go when Jehovah bade him, "he would have been a skeptic." His prompt starting when Jehovah said go and his stopping when Jehovah said to stop constitute the highest act of obedience. What an example of unwavering confidence in God! This was a confidence that has never been disappointed.

What Abraham did in a literal way, we must do morally and spiritually. We are commanded and warned to "love not the world, neither the things that are in the world. It any man love the world, the love of the Father is not in him." (1 John 2: 15.) This demand of Jehovah, so far as the sins of the world are concerned, is an absolute prohibition, and is as binding upon us as was the call of Abraham. Our prompt separation from all the pollution of the world should be as completely and quickly done as was Abraham's. We are again commanded: "Come ye out from among them, and be ye separate, saith the Lord, and touch no unclean thing; and I will receive you, and will be to you a Father, and ye shall be to me sons and daughters, saith the Lord Almighty." (2 Cor. 6: 17, 18.) What Abraham did with a weary foot, we are to do with a confiding and trustful heart. Jehovah purposes the greatest good and happiness for all who respond to the call of service to him, The tasks and trials which we are to endure are made easy and joyous because of the trust and hope that we have in Jehovah. What at first looks very much like the rigor of a hard law may quickly turn out to be the tender mercies of our God. Let us ever pray with the Psalmist: "Give me understanding, and I shall keep thy law; yea, I shall observe it with my whole heart. Make me to go in the path of thy commandments; for therein do I delight." (Ps. 119: 34, 35.)

Lesson Quarterly for 1922.

BY LEE JACKSON.

It has been my privilege to examine an advance copy of the quarterly Bible-school lessons for the first quarter of 1922, and I want to say to the readers of the Gospel Advocate that I am well pleased with both the arrangement of the lessons and the comments upon the lesson texts. An important feature of these Quarterlies for 1922, and one which has not heretofore been made prominent in the preparation of the lessons, is the expository comments upon what is known as the Golden Text for each lesson. This is an especially valuable feature; for it not only gives the student a right conception of the purpose of these texts as standing out prominently at the head of each lesson, but it also gives a proper comprehension of their meaning as related to the subject-matter of the lesson. Too frequently these texts have been passed over as having no direct bearing in connection with the lesson study. The study of these texts in the light of the comments for 1922 is destined to inspire a higher appreciation for the value of our Bible-school literature as a proper means for an intelligent study of the Scriptures.

If the readers of the Advocate will pardon me for saying more than it is perhaps necessary for me to say, I want to call attention to the fact that for nine months of the incoming year our lesson studies will be in the Old Testament history, beginning with the period immediately following the reign of King Solomon, under whose reign the Jerusalem temple was built. Upon the death of Solomon, the reins of government fell into the hands of Rehoboam, the son of Solomon, and against whom ten tribes of the kingdom revolted and formed a separate kingdom under Jereboam, the son of Nebat Thenceforward the kingdom of Israel, as it existed under Saul, David, and Solomon, stands before us in history as a divided kingdom; the one part, consisting of the two tribes of Judah and Benjamin under the Davidic line of kings, being known as the kingdom of Judah, while the ten tribes under a different line of kings is known as the kingdom of Israel. Our studies for the first quarter begin at the time of the division of the kingdom and end in the ninth year of King Hoshea, king of Israel, when the people of the ten tribes were carried into captivity by the Assyrians under Shalmaneser, king of Assyria. This study covers approximately a period of two hundred and fifty-four years, a very important period in Bible history, making us acquainted with things that every Bible reader and student ought to know. Whether Christians are readers and students of Old Testament history or not, they ought to be. Therefore, it is to be hoped that with the beginning of the year our congregations will take up this study as outlined in the Quarterlies and devote their attention to acquiring this important Bible information under the guidance of the men who have so judiciously prepared these lesson comments. In this study we learn of Israel's idolatry; of the rebukes and warnings given by that grand prophet, Elijah, one of the boldest and most unique characters, not only in Israel's history, but also in the world's history; and in this study we learn of Elisha, Jonah, Amos, and others of the great prophets and characters in Old Testament history. I am glad that our next studies are to be in this history and that we are to be guided by these well-prepared Quarterlies.

The Larger Prayer.

At first I prayed for Light: Could I but see the way, How gladly, swiftly, would I walk To everlasting day!

And next I prayed for Strength,
That I might tread the road
With firm, unfaltering feet, and win
The heaven's serene abode.

And then I asked for Faith: Could I but trust my God, I'd live enfolded in his peace, Though foes were all abroad.

But now I pray for Love— Deep love to God and man; A living love that will not fail, However dark his plan.

And Light and Strength and Faith Are opening everywhere; God only waited for me till I prayed the larger prayer,

-Mrs. E. D. Cheney.

"Love never asks, 'How much must I do?' but, 'How much can I do?'"

"A man may give without loving, but he cannot love without giving."

LOS ANGELES NOTES

By S. H. HALL

House of worship, corner Altura and North Sichel Streets. Take North Broadway car to Sichel, then one block to left.

"Glory in the Day of Christ."

In writing to the church at Philippi, Paul says: "Do all things without murmurings and questionings; that ye may become blameless and harmless, children of God without blemish in the midst of a crooked and perverse generation, among whom ye are seen as lights in the world, holding forth the word of life; that I may have whereof to glory in the day of Christ, that I did not run in vain neither labor in vain." (Phil. 2: 14-16.) The same writer, in his letter to the church at Thessalonica, says: "For what is our hope, or joy, or crown of giorying? Are not even ye, before our Lord Jesus Christ at his coming? For ye are our glory and our joy." (1 Thess. 2: 19, 20.) His language in Phil. 4: 1 is as follows: "Wherefore, my brethren beloved and longed for, my joy and crown, so stand fast in the Lord, my beloved." The beloved John had the same intense desire for the spiritual welfare of those whom he led to Christ. To Gaius he said: "Greater joy have I none than this, to hear of my children walking in the truth." (3 John 4.)

It must be true that every soul in whose heart our Lord lives has the same feeling for those whom he leads to Christ. It is as natural for the spiritually alive to so feel as it is for us to take nature's air into our lungs to continue physical life. And who will say Paul is selfish because he states that one of his reasons for being joyful over the growth and faithfulness of those he led to Christ is, "that I may have whereof to glory in the day of Christ, that I did not run in vain neither labor in vain?" While it would be joy to him, the joy comes not just for self's sake; he is glad for their sakes. He loves them, and seeing them saved is his joy. Too, he will be glad for Christ's sake. Christ tasted death for them, and it will be joy to him to know Christ died not in vain. And while all of this is true, don't forget that we will rejoice for self's sake. We will be glad to know our labor was not in vain. We will be glad to know our work resulted in our own safety and eternal bliss.

But the thing that started me on this strain was a letter I have just read from Sister Annie Kelley, of Atlanta, Ga. Her road has not been strewn with flowers. Poor health and other hindering causes would have caused others to have grown cold. But she holds to the truth with the tenacity of steel. After reading one of the recent articles on our "besetting sins," she wrote the following words: "I have just read your article on 'the sin which doth so easily beset us,' bowed a few moments in prayer and thanked God for such good articles in the Gospel Advocate. They always strengthen and help me. Yes, I am willing to be corrected in anything that is wrong, even if it be against me. My prayer is: 'God's will be done, not mine.'"

I must believe, if I believe the Bible, that heaven is a glorious reality and that it is worth our best efforts to go there. I must believe, if I believe the Bible, that the day is coming when I shall actually see the One of whom we read and of whom we preach—viz., the Lord Jesus Christ. Yes, we will "see him as he is" and be like him. (1 John 3: 2.) And if I believe the Bible, I must believe also that in the judgment I am to face men and women, boys and girls, whom I have helped or hindered as the case may be.

With these things before us, may I not suggest that when writing for our papers we give some thought to the needs of our audience—viz., the thousands of homes into which the paper goes. Strive to the utmost to write something that will meet the needs of some who read it. The editors of our papers should never get it into their heads that they constitute the "it," for certain it is the paper could not continue long if the money that is paid in by the subscribers was stopped. If I owned a paper, I would consider my subscribers the big end of the concern and would try to have just a bit of thought, to say the least, of their needs and their wishes.

That we know what should be the controlling desire of our hearts cannot be questioned. It is the very desire our Lord also has—viz., the salvation of souls, the extension of the cause of Christ in the world. Whenever the man who is playing the rôle of a minister of the gospel of Christ loses sight of this aim and it ceases to be his desire, it is a curse to his audience to be addressed by him. The same is true of papers. When the managers of our papers cease to be saturated by this desire, a blessing indeed it is for the paper to die; and the quicker, the better. I cannot speak for other writers; but God knows that I try to say something that will help.

I want to thank Sister Kelley for letting me know that she was helped. Often, in writing articles, I have thought of Georgia alone and tried to say something that would help the many homes into which the Advocate goes weekly. Some of these days I firmly believe it will be my joy to meet hundreds whom I have helped in the dear old State of Georgia, and meet them never to separate again, and the reason I am so very hopeful that they will be there is because they have helped me. There is ever an upward push you consciously feel from the influence of those who are on their way to heaven. If I did not feel this, I would wonder if they were on their way.

In a letter from Brother Goodpasture, he says: "Everything moves along nicely. Our local work is growing in every respect. But the absorbing issue for the time being is the field work. Brother Garrett has begun well. The congregations are responding better than I really expected, considering the financial depression." Brother Goodpasture will never know how much good his letter has done me, and especially his untiring efforts to make the Georgia work go onward and upward. With Garrett in the field and the home forces continuing to work as they have continually done since Brother Goodpasture took that work, we can expect nothing but continued joy in seeing the work grow.

* * *

Bits of News.

We had another full house last Lord's day at Sichel and Altura Streets, with three more names added to our list by statement. I preached at Ontario last night (December 8) to a full house. Brother Witty is doing a great work there. He has one of the best lots in town paid for and above six thousand dollars raised on a ten-thousand-dollar house of worship which they hope to soon begin. I wish I could be associated every day of my life with a man like Samuel E. Witty. There is no backward step in his work; it is ever upward. Brethren Riggs and Elmore are in San Diego County this week, and will be for the next two weeks, preaching the word.

0 0 0

Brother Hall Leaves Los Angeles for Nashville.

Brother Hall has labored with us at Los Angeles, Cal., for the past fifteen months, and we can truly say that we are delighted with the results of his labors. The congregation has greatly increased in numbers and, we believe, in spiritual strength as well, our contributions have increased, and prospects are good for a great work to be done here. We had hoped that Brother Hall would make this his home, but in this we are disappointed, for the time at least, as he has accepted a call to Nashville, Tenn., to a work that he considers of great importance at this time. However, we feel confident that Brother Hall will follow the usual custom of those who come to California from the East, stay a while, and return—that is, come back to California to stay for good after a short stay in the East. We need him and more of his caliber in this great field, as there is a great work to be done here. Brother Hall not only built up our own congregation, but was a source of much encouragement and aid to the churches in the communities surrounding Los Angeles, and we feel that the cause of Christ in Southern California has been greatly benefited by his sojourn among us.

W. Edgar Miller, Clerk.

GREAT OFFERS

The year is rapidly drawing to a close and now is the time for many subscribers to renew their subscriptions. We are asking and urging all in arrears to pay up and renew for one year in advance. This is important, as the cost of publishing a paper is very great. We are glad to accommodate our subscribers, but to carry so many for so long a time works a hardship and forces us to borrow money, as all our bills must be paid promptly.

Many subscribers permit their subscriptions to run far behind without any thought of the hardship it works on us and make amends by promptly paying up and renewing so soon as their attention is called to the matter.

We are writing this to impress on every one who is in arrears the importance of prompt payment and renewal. The date on the yellow slip pasted on your paper shows the time to which your subscription is paid. All dues back of January, 1922, should be paid at the rate of $2.50 per year, and renewal from January 1, 1922, at $2 a year.

We take this occasion to express our appreciation to all our readers who have so actively cooperated with us and to assure all that we are counting on their active support in every good work.

For the encouragement of our readers, we are giving to each one who will send us a new yearly subscriber at the regular subscription price of $2, with $1 additional, a first-class lever self-filling Fountain Pen that is easily worth $3. To any one who will send us two new subscribers, accompanied by $4, we will give the "Capitol" lever self-filling Fountain Pen. This is a great offer.

To any one who will send us twenty-five new subscribers to the Gospel Advocate, accompanied by fifty dollars, we will give a complete set of Matthew Henry's Commentary on the Bible. The set contains six volumes of twelve hundred pages each, large type, substantially bound. Charles H. Spurgeon said: "Every minister ought to read Matthew Henry entirely and carefully through once at least. He will acquire a vast store of sermons; and as for thoughts, they will swarm around him like twittering sparrows around an old gable toward the close of autumn." Dr. Philip Schaff, compiler of Schaff's Bible Dictionary, pronounces it "the best practical and devotional commentary for English readers." Here you will find a mine of expository knowledge and a complete preacher's commentary. This commentary is an invaluable help to any student of the Bible. We have only a limited number of Commentaries, so you should be prompt if you wish one. We are inclosing a renewal blank for the use of subscribers. Please return with your renewal and a list of new subscribers.

PUBLISHERS GOSPEL ADVOCATE.

How to Use the Bible.

When in sorrow, read John 14. When men fail you, read Ps. 27. When you have sinned, read Ps. 51. When you werry, read Matt. 6: 19-34. Before church service, read Ps. 84. When you are in danger, read Ps. 91. "Let Us Alone."

BY JAMES E. CHESSOR.

It is a singular fact that Israel, when most cruelly oppressed in Egypt, did not at first appreciate God's call to deliverance. They admitted, later, that they had met his gracious offer with the stupid request to be let alone. "Is not this the word that we spake unto thee [Moses] in Egypt, saying, Let us alone, that we may serve the Egyptians?" (Ex. 14: 12.) They sighed by reason of the heavy oppression to which they were subjected, yet they recoiled from the momentous issue of freedom. The decisive step that meant the destruction of their economic status and the going forth from Egypt they feared to take. The human soul oftentimes trembles and hesitates when on the eve of making a great decision. The Israelites drew back from the stupendous thing that Moses proposed and hesitated, thinking it better, perhaps, after all, to remain in slavery This is not unlike the sinner's indifferent and ungrateful attitude toward the offer of salvation. Indeed, Israel, typical of the sinner in bondage to sin, shows how lightly a sinner esteems the efforts of God's people to save him, and how the rich provisions of mercy and grace and the invitation of God to accept them at first may be uninteresting and even repugnant to him. The sinner, as Israel in Egypt, when suddenly called upon to radically change his life, would fain be let alone, though he, too, will admit that he is in evil case, and his soul yearns for the very deliverance that he, through fear and cowardice, rejects summarily. His course is quite as foolish as that of Israel.

The request of the Israelites to be left to their misfortunes shows not merely lack of appreciation, but basest ingratitude toward a God who had heard their cries and remembered their serrows and whose providence had attended them unfailingly for four hundred years of vicissitude and sore trial. Moreover, it exhibits paralysis of will, the hopelessness of despair, and degradation. It is interesting to note this servile, craven state of the Hebrew mind brought on by long years of abject bondage. There is no better example of the enslaving power of habit. Slavery, as well as freedom, is a spiritual state, a state of the mind even more than a state of the body, and the Hebrews were enslaved both in mind and in body. They had so long accommodated themselves to serving Pharaoh that they had become actually dependent upon slavery. An inveterate cigarette smoker eventually comes to depend upon the poison of nicotine, his system demanding it. Stupefied and debased by galling slavery, Israel had lost initiative; hence their conservative tendency, their disinclination to enter upon a new enterprise, their mortal fear of change. As physical bodies tend to continue in a straight line once they are set in motion, so Israel felt a disinclination to quit the beaten path of slavery. They were simply obeying a law of the mind and exhibiting the thralldom of habit,

It is well to remark upon the slavery of habit. "An act often repeated hardens into habit, and a habit long continued petrifies into character." (Carmack.) In character the Hebrews were slaves-slaves with the broken spirit and with small capacity for liberty. The incubus of slavery for years lay like a deepening shadow upon the Hebrew mind, and under its sinister influence the race had degenerated almost to impotency. Sinners yield themselves to sin and become its servants; they permit it to reign in their mortal bodies by long-continued indulgence. No man ever became the victim of a vicious habit in a day. The slaves of passion are those who have yielded again and again to subtle temptation. The youth is lured into the primrose way by ephemeral and illusory pleasures; he habituates himself to a profligate life; the result may be a libertine, "having eyes full of adultery, and that cannot cease from sin." The tyranny of habit affects every activity of life. A night watchman, after years of faithful service for a corporation, was discharged with an annuity. He soon returned to the manager and asked for his former post. When the astonished manager asked for some explanation, the old watchman said that he just couldn't sleep at night; he couldn't work in daytime because the sunlight was too bright; and he simply couldn't put up with the noisy crowds. He thought it better for his health and peace of mind that he go back on duty. A convict, set free after many years' imprisonment, came back to prison and begged to be reincarcerated. He was old, he said, and didn't know what to do with himself. The responsibility of freedom, making a living and finding his place among men, was too much for him. He preferred his cell and workbench and prison rations to the free air and the obligations of citizenship. Many other examples could be given, but these will suffice. Since we must be slaves of habit, the important thing is that we cultivate good habits, and not yield to those that are vicious.

"Let us alone." This was the whine of the dispirited nation in Egypt. Aye, let us alone; let us remain the slaves of Egypt. Do not trouble us with such a staggering proposition as deliverance and freedom, for we cannot conceive of it. Have we not been in Egypt these many years? Perhaps we are doing well enough. Let us live in peace and do our daily drudgery and get our daily rations as heretofore. We prefer the troubles we have to those we know not of. "Let us alone, that we may serve the Egyptians." Later they began to count and magnify the benefits of slavery in good earnest, and to minify and belittle the blessings of freedom. "We remember the fish, which we did eat in Egypt for naught; the cucumbers, and the melons, and the leeks, and the onions, and the garlic; but now our soul is dried away; there is nothing at all save this manna to look upon." (Num. 11: 5, 6.) Fish, cucumbers, melons, leeks, onions, garlic, indeed! And all for naught! Surely the best of everything was in Egypt, the house of bondage! Pharaoh had spread a feast before his slaves that caused the table of the Lord to pale into insignificance! What were manna and quails rained down from heaven in comparison with the good things of Egypt? God's gracious gifts thus suffered in the fevered and distorted fancy of discouraged Israel. In the first trials of the wilderness, Canaan, the land of milk and honey, was quite forgotten, and Israel turned back in their hearts to the fleshpots of Egypt. The negro race before the Civil War had rather grown in love with slavery. Proof of this is seen in their refusal to rise in insurrection and their unshaken loyalty to their masters during the war. As a subject race, they would have preferred a century more of servitude rather than engage in uprising and bloodshed.

Neither Israelite nor African was ever more abjectly enslaved than is the sinner. But the sinner, as a rule, is no more interested in his salvation than Israelite and negro were concerned about their emancipation. "Let us alone!" It is the curt reply of the sinner to those interested in his welfare; it is the sinner's stock answer, and it sounds familiar. The slave to sin is full of excuse and specious reasoning, because he really wishes to be left alone. "Let us alone." The new life offered by Christ is a "steep and thorny way to heaven "-a mountain very difficult of ascent. Might not a fellow even try to reach the summit and fail? Who, indeed, can hold out? Do not the majority fall by Particularly, would it not be best for the the wayside? weaker one not to essay the task until he is stronger? What is the use to try and fail? Would not the last state be worse and more hopeless than the first? Really, it requires too much effort and it is too great a chance. Besides, there is no pressing necessity for so momentous a step just now; it may be deferred to some more convenient or propitious time. "Let us alone" at present. Be advised, sinner, that this is the whisper of your archenemy, the devil. As long as Israel asked to be let alone they had not broken off their allegiance to Pharaoh; and as long as a sinner begs to be left unmolested in sin he is the servant of Satan. Neither Pharaoh nor Satan ever wished that his servants be loosed from their tasks. The demons remonstrated with Jesus when they were about to be cast out. "What have we to do with thee, thou Son of God? art thou come hither to torment us before the time?" (Matt. 8: 29.) They suffered great perturbation when in the presence of Jesus; and well they might, for he would not let them alone. Satan does not wish to be hindered. He coined the answer of Israel and the sinner: "Let us alone."

"Let us alone," protests the drunken man in his stupor, unmindful of his danger or his shame. He may be sinking rapidly and death may be near, but, oblivious to it all, he demands vehemently that he be not aroused. "Let me alone," signals the boy whose body has been fished from the swimming hole. He is not aware that death is approaching by a process of slow poisoning; but that he may not suffer, he wishes not to be disturbed. "Let me alone," begs the child that has drunk the contents of a phial labeled "Morphine," when all the family are in anxious distress, seeking to maintain the spark of life. "Let me alone," pleads the mountain traveler when being dragged from a snowdrift. He has no knowledge of the fact that he is sinking into the uncontrollable slumber of the freezing person. He is interested in his present feelings. "Let me alone," begs the sinner under sentence of death, "whose sentence from of old lingereth not" and whose destruction "slumbereth not." Probably the prodigal son, when leaving home over the protest of father and the tears of mother, said, "Let me alone." The sinner would be left in sin as Israel would be left in Egypt. But did God leave Israel in Egypt? If he had heeded their request, they would have been left to perish in the house of bondage. Did be judge Israel as unworthy of deliverance? Did he esteem a people whose wills were paralyzed, whose lives were degraded, as capable of judging what was the better choice for them? How would you treat a drunken man, a drowning boy, a poisoned child. a freezing person? Would you leave them alone because they requested it? You know that you would do all within your power to revive and restore them. That is what God did for Israel. He disregarded their request and he saved them by a mighty deliverance. He would have done even more for them had it not been for their unbelief.

No. Jehovah did not leave Israel alone. He brought them out of Egypt with a mighty hand and an outstretched arm. He would not forsake his people. He heard their groans and sighs. He remembered his promise to Abraham. "Out of Egypt did I call my son," was first spoken with reference to Israel. Neither were we, who are Christians, left alone when we would rather have gone to sleep in our sins. "For while we were yet weak, in due season Christ died for the ungodly." (Rom. 5: 6.) "According to his mercy he saved us." (Tit, 3: 5.) And "we love him because he first loved us." Neither has God let you alone, sinner. He loves you though you be "dead in trespasses and sins." See that you refuse his mercy no longer. Do not sin away your day of grace-your last opportunity. "My spirit shall not strive with man forever." God said that to the antediluvians. He gave them a margin of one hundred and twenty years, and, when they repented not, destroyed them in the flood. May it not come to such a pass that you, sinner, finally, shall be let alone of God, of Christ. Nay, may it not come to this! "I go away," said Jesus to unbelieving Jews, "and where I am ye cannot come!" I know of no words more pathetic, no situation so tragic. "Awake, thou that sleepest." Come to Jesus, ere he goes away, ere death overtakes you. "To-day if thou shalt hear his voice, harden not your heart."

Work is the easiest work in the world. Worrying is the hardest work in the world and the least necessary.—Atchison Globe.

A Colored Industrial School Building Burned.

BY W. L. REEVES.

Does this appeal to you? If not, why not? Brother Charlie C. Nelson, a colored preacher of the church of Christ who runs an industrial school for the benefit of his race, had the misfortune to have his school building burned and has not sufficient means to rebuild. Dear reader, will you help him to rebuild? I know him well, and heartily commend him as a Christian preacher of splendid ability. having a fine education and a character above reproach. Really I consider Brother Nelson one of the best preachers. white or black, that I ever heard. He has been doing a great work for the colored race in North Carolina by devoting his little farm to the support of students while they get an education under true religious influence. He owns the school farm. It is not a church farm or school. He teaches the students to work. He is considered fine in domestic arts. With such abilities and a willingness to use them at a sacrifice, I am sure Brother Nelson should be assisted liberally in his efforts to rebuild his school. Brother M. C. Kurfees, of Louisville, Ky., will gladly commend this man and his work to all, and so those who do not know me may ask him about it; so do not hesitate, but send your help at once. Address all communications to C. C. Nelson (colored), Clemmons, N. C.

I live for those who love me
For those who know me true;
For the heaven that smiles above me
And waits my spirit, too;
For the cause that lacks assistance,
For the wrong that needs resistance,
For the future in the distance,
And the good that I can do.

-Thomas Guthrie.

MATTHEW HENRY'S COMMENTARY FOR OUR READERS

The greatest preachers of the past two centuries attribute much of their inspiration and usefulness to Matthew Henry's Commentary on the whole Bible. Born in the seventeenth century, his name and his work still live and are household words. Thousands of homes treasure this commentary second only to the Bible, and many a man traces his right start to the loving advice and homely counsel of Matthew Henry.

Charles H. Spurgeon said: "Every minister ought to read Matthew Henry entirely and carefully through once at least. He will acquire a vast store of sermons; and as for thoughts, they will swarm around him like twittering sparrows around an old gable toward the close of autumn." Dr. Philip Schaff, compiler of Schaff's Bible Dictionary, pronounces it "the best practical and devotional commentary for English readers." Here you will find a mine of expository knowledge and a complete preachers' commentary.

The management of the Gospel Advocate is fortunate in securing twenty-five sets of this unrivaled commentary, which will be sent as a premium to every reader who will send twenty-five new subscribers at the regular subscription price of $2 per year. This is undoubtedly the most attractive commentary offer ever made. You will receive six portable volumes of twelve hundred pages each, large, clear, unbroken type, with substantial Roxborough binding, and will have the satisfaction of knowing that the work of the prince of commentators is in your library. If you wish to pay cash, the price for the six volumes is $17.50, not prepaid. When sent as a premium, we pay all charges.

PUBLISHERS GOSPEL ADVOCATE.

Georgia and the Far Southern Field By B. C. GOODPASTURE

Two Classes of Workers.

The Lord summons his people to work. The "householder" went cut early in the morning to hire "laborers," not idlers or shirkers, "into his vineyard." (Matt. 20: 1.) The "householder" has his counterpart in the kingdom of heaven; "for the kingdom of heaven is like unto a man that was a householder." The great commission enjoins upon men, in the church, the supreme work of the agesthe evangelization of the world. Jesus formulated no system of idleness, indifference, and ease. His strenuous life on earth was one of intense activity. So busy was he at times that he had no "leisure so much as to eat." (Mark 6: 31.) Paul, writing to one of the best churches of New Testament times, said: "Work out your own salvation with fear and trembling." (Phil. 2: 12.) Men must not only do something to be saved from their past sins, but they must also do semething to keep saved. This fact some professed Christians seem never to realize; "for they toil not, neither do they spin." But there are others who understand that they must work; they know that their eternal salvation is involved and dependent upon their work of faith and labor of love." Among these there are two prominent classes.

The first class is composed of those who want to do all they can for the cause of the Lord. Their labors are limited only by their abilities. They will deny themselves for others and for the Master. They are ready unto every good work-ready to spend and be spent." These are they who give the widow's mite and wish they had more to give; who break the "alabaster cruise of ointment" for the loving Lord, and weep because there is no more that they can do; who leave lands and gold, pomp and power, and friends and relatives, for "the kingdom of God's sake." These are the "salt of the earth" and "the light of the world." They cross seas and traverse continents with the gospel. They are torchbearers of civilization and heralds of salvation even to the distant nooks and remote corners of the earth. These are they who, when dead, will yet speak, and the sweet eloquence of their lives will surpass the words of their lips. These are they who "turn many to righteousness," and, after the world shall have passed away, they shall shine forth "as the stars forever and ever" in the unclouded firmament of God's everlasting glory. (Dan. 12: 3.) It is no marvel that the enrapt and exiled apostle on Patmos heard the voice from heaven, saying: "Write, Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord from henceforth: yea, saith the Spirit, that they may rest from their labors; for their works follow with them." (Rev. 14: 13.)

The second class of workers (if such they may be called) want to do barely enough to be saved. Instead of doing as much as they can, they elect to do as little as possible. If they should act with reference to the affairs of this life as they do with reference to matters of religion, they would be pronounced failures. If they were in school, they would desire nothing more than just to pass examinations. If they were farming, they would not care to raise more grain than was necessary to afford them scanty provisions for the following year. These have the wrong conception of matters. Alexander Campbell well described their case in the following words: "There are a great many people in the world who want just so much religion as will keep them out of hell. They belong to a class who never realize the value of Christianity until they stand face to face with the king of terrors. They studiously watch the boundary of the dominion of him who rules in the kingdoms of this world, walk as near it as is possible with safety (in their judgment), but carefully avoid, as they suppose, coming within his jurisdiction. They want everything of the world that ministers to the pride of panders to the lusts of sensuous man. They want the honors and emoluments which the world bestows upon those who flatter and serve it, and, of course, prefer to live along the borders of that kingdom, whose native products are adapted to their tastes, having recently emigrated from it, without withdrawing their affections or adopting the manners and customs of those with whom they are nominally associated. Now, interpret the actions of such people, and they say as plainly as language can say it: I am very much afraid of hell, and as I know of no other way of avoiding it but by accepting the religion of Jesus Christ, I propose to accept just so much of it as will answer my purpose. If I knew of any other way of reaching the same end, which involved still less self-denial, I would prefer it; but as I do not, I must keep along the borders of Zion until the storms of life blow hard, and then retreat to the interior and claim the security of those who have all their life long dwelt in the very presence of its King, ever ready to do his bidding! Alas for those who reason in this way! They are jeopardizing their souls' salvation every hour of such a life. They are in the blackness of darkness and on the way to eternal perdition."

In the day when God shall judge all men "according to their works" (Rev. 20: 12), to which class had you rather belong?

0 0 0

News Notes.

Brother Ijams is doing a good work with the church at Savannah.

O. D. Bearden preached at Manchester, Ga., on Sunday, November 27.

J. B. Beck closed a meeting at Summit, Ga., a few days ago. He is now in the midst of a meeting with the church at McGregor, Ga.

Flavil Hall recently closed a meeting near Gordon, Ga. Thirteen were baptized and two came from the Baptists. This was a fine meeting in other respects.

Hugh E. Garrett closed an eight-days' meeting at Chickamauga, Ga., last Sunday night (December 4). Much interest was manifested throughout the meeting. Three were baptized. Brother Garrett will go back to Chickamauga for a meeting next summer. He is now preaching in Rome, Ga. All who are interested in keeping Brother Garrett in the field should send their contributions to R. L. Harwell, treasurer, of the West End Avenue Church, 153 Oglethorpe Avenue, Atlanta, Ga.

Hugh E. Garrett, our energetic field man, recently visited the Valdosta, Dasher, Union, Black's Schoolhouse, Glenn's Schoolhouse, Macon, Rockmart, Cedartown, Lyerly, Hall's Valley, Pleasant Grove, Trion, Lafayette, Rossville, and Dalton congregations in the interest of the field work. All these congregations have promised to have fellowship with West End Avenue in supporting Brother Garrett. Some of them have already begun to contribute. Brother Garrett brings fine reports concerning the work being done by all these congregations. He was with the little congregation at Chickamauga, Ga., yesterday.

A Morning Prayer.

I thank thee, Lord, for sleep and rest, For all the things that I love best. Now guide me through another day, And bless my work and bless my play; Lord, make me strong for noble ends, Protect and bless my loving friends. Of all mankind good Christians make, All this I ask for Jesus' sake. Amen.

-Christian Work.

AT HOME AND ABROAD

A nation is no greater than its leaders, - W. H. Major.

The prospects are as bright as the promises of God.-Judson.

Prayer and pains through Jesus Christ will do anything.

—John Eliot.

The address of Thomas D. Rose is 1420 Beech Street, Louisville, Ky.

Prayer is a great school in which God himself is the sole teacher.—Albert Clark Wyckoff.

There is no deeper damnation than to lose the desire for God.—Reformed Church Messenger.

What a wonderful world it would be if all men lived up to their obituaries!—The Christian Sun.

If I had but two loaves of bread, I would sell one of them and buy white hyacinths to feed my soul.—Anonymous.

A rifle range without a target would be quite as useful as a church without a definite program.—The Christian Work.

Every dogma is at best a broken light which serves its own time inadequately, then gutters and goes out.—The Discipline of Liberty.

From W. M. Gammill, Carrollton, Miss., December 1: "I preached at Old Union yesterday. One addition by confession and baptism."

The Christian too often thinks of Jesus Christ as in the past. He is not there. He has risen and gone before us into the future.—Lily Dougall.

Truly, it comes simply to this: a man with no standards in his mind is a boor, and a man with no idealism in his soul is a danger.—Harold Begbie.

The universe is not malign, tempting you with siren songs. Its music does not come and go, but sounds forever, if you will hear it.—A. Clutton-Brock.

There are those who deprive children of their power of amusing themselves by amusing them all the time, which is cruel kindness.—Times Educational Supplement,

From L. Z. Smith, Sullivan, III., December 12: "Just to say this is my first year with the Gospel Advocate, and must say it is a firm defender of the faith. I would not like to have it stop."

Remember the orphans on Christmas Day. The first Lord's day in January is regular contribution day for the Tennessee Orphan Home. A liberal contribution is needed to meet the demands of the Home.

R. A. Craig writes: "Last Sunday I was at the Forks of Elkhorn morning and evening. In the afternoon I was at Shelbyville, We had good attendance at both places. Brethren, do not forget the Shelbyville work. Send all donations to R. A. Craig, Shelbyville, Ky."

From R. L. Whiteside, Denton, Texas, December 12: "On the first Sunday in this month I preached at Ethel. Fine crowd, good interest. Yesterday I preached at home. Five confessed their faith in Jesus Christ and were baptized. I go next Sunday to Godley, Texas."

L. K. Harding writes from Toronto, Canada: "I am glad to report that Bathhurst Street Church is doing well. There have been a number of additions to the congregation, with an increased attendance and interest. My address will be 591 Euclid Avenue until March 27, 1922.

From J. S. Daugherty, Kirbyville, Texas, December 12: "I was with the faithful at Honey Island yesterday and preached three times. I am keeping busy in the Lord's work here. I could not sell my tenant property in Kirbyville, so I have decided to remain here at least another year."

Forthcoming Debate: Between O. C. Dobbs, church of Christ, and J. T. Robinson, Primitive Baptist, beginning on December 27 and lasting four days, at Rock Creek, Ala. Those coming from a distance should get off at Barton or Russellville, Ala. If you desire conveyance, write to M. E. Smelser, Russellville, Ala.

From W. M. Mann, Holland, Texas, December 12: "Yesterday was another good day here. We had a good crowd Saturday night, and yesterday morning our largest crowd yet, and some new faces last night, with one confession. The outlook with us is bright so far. All are at peace and in harmony."

From W. F. Lemmons, Little Rock, Ark., December 13: "I will receive mail for an indefinite period at Little Rock, Ark., General Delivery. Let correspondents please make a note of this. I preached on Lord's day and night for the church at Fourth and Main Streets, North Little Rock, and go to Alicia, Route 1, to preach next Lord's day. Those desiring meetings, debates, etc., will please write me at once at the above address."

M. C. Cayce writes from Jackson, Miss.: "Our meeting here resulted in three baptisms and in finding three (to us) new members who had not learned of the church since their coming here, and also putting new life into some who were indifferent. We will be glad to welcome all visitors to Jackson at any or all of our regular services. Sunday school at 10 A.M.; preaching at 11 A.M. and 7:30 P.M. on Lord's day; prayer meeting on Wednesday at 7:30 P.M."

From D. S. Ligon, Denton, Texas, December 16: "Wednesday night I spoke for the brethren at San Angelo, and they seemed to appreciate my talk. The church there is doing nicely under the direction of the elders. J. D. Shipman, one of the elders, has been there for some eighteen years, and he said that the brethren stood hand and heart together in the Lord's work. Brother Carney preaches for the church there and is beloved by all. He seems to know that his duty is to 'preach the word' and that the elders' duty is to look after the flock. I start in the morning to Fayetteville, Ark., to preach a few days, but hope to return home for Christmas."

Tice Elkins writes from Fort Worth, Texas, December 12: "There were large crowds at Southside Church, this city, at both services yesterday. Two very fine characters were added to the church by letter. There are additions almost every Lord's day. We will hold some special services through the holidays, in the interest of the young people. The sisters meet each Tuesday and sew for the poor. They sell nothing, but help all. They have a delightful Bible lesson on Tuesday afternoons. We have a splendid prayer service and Bible lesson each Wednesday night. The church has many good and industrious workers in it, and a few who are satisfied to sit still and watch the rest of us work."

From the church at Summit, Ga., December 14: "J. Bedford Beck, formerly of Spencer, Tenn., now of Savannah, Ga., established Emanuel County's first church of Christ at Summit on November 20, with nine members. Brother Beck is to spend one week of each month with us, and we are earnestly making every available effort to support the work and build a house of worship. We are meeting now every Lord's day in the Knights of Pythias Hall to take the Supper. Six of the nine members are Tennesseeans, and we trust the churches of Christ in Tennessee especially may heed our call for help. Mrs. R. T. Chance and Mrs. Jesse W. Brown will gladly acknowledge all donations promptly."

A. D. Dies writes: "Our meeting at Twenty-second Avenue, North Nashville, is now history. There were seventeen additions to the congregation—twelve by baptism. We closed this meeting too soon, in order that I might return home, as my wife is sick. I have been in the field since June 1, and many precious souls have responded to the gospel call and one new congregation has been established. I have suffered some hardships, made some mistakes, been persecuted, but bear no malice toward any one. I love everybody, and will them the best that heaven can bestow, and pray that after the conflict is over heaven's gate will open wide to receive them. If the Lord wills, I shall return to Nashville another year and engage in the conflict once more."

Here is the program for the Christmas-week meeting at Dasher Bible School, Valdosta, Ga.: "Unity Among Brethren," Tuesday night, December 27—W. Don Hockaday, Atlanta, Ga.; Flavil Hall, Trion, Ga. "Coöperation Between Congregations," Wednesday morning, December 28—J. L. Netherland, Miami, Fla., B. C. Goodpasture, Atlanta, Ga. "Church Finances," Wednesday night—J. H. Hines, Montgomery, Ala.; J. P. Slayden, Columbia, Tenn. "Missions," Thursday morning, December 29—G. E. Claus, Valdosta, Ga.; J. B. Beck, Savannah, Ga. "Christian Education," Thursday night, December 29—R. P. Cuff, Macon, Ga.; E. H. Ijams, Savannah, Ga. There will be a roundtable discussion on all subjects, so that every one will have an opportunity to be heard. Every one is cordially invited to come.

She Would Never Say "Please."

There was once a small child who would never say "please."

I believe if you even went down on your knees;
But, her arms on the table, would sit at her ease,
And call to her mother in words such as these:
"I want some potatoes!" "Give me some peas!"
"Hand me the butter." "Cut me some cheese!"
So the fairies, this very rude daughter to tease,
Once blew her away in a powerful breeze
Over the mountains, and over the seas,
To a valley, where never a dinner she sees;
But down with the ants, the wasps, and the bees,
In the woods she must live until she learns to say
"please."

-M. S. P., in St. Nicholas.

0 0 0

An Insight.

The engineer had just completed the sign. The parson had hung it up. And there now it was in gaudy red letters over the ranch-house door. They lived on a spur of Cheyenne Mountains—they and the Sick Man and the Kid—and they looked across the Colorado desert a hundred uninterrupted miles as they sat and took the cure. They were brothers of the order of T. B., and the sign they had just put up blazed the deepest feeling of their souls. It read: "No one can truthfully say any good of tuberculosis."

The midday sun beat down upon the plains. Seventy-five miles away a huge ledge of white sandstone, one hundred or more feet high, made a line like a board fence painted white. An insect whirred up in the stillness with the noise of a rattlesnake. A jaybird jeered from the top of a near-by pine tree. The four men lay dozing in their chairs. One of them had a dream; he had a vision of the burden of the world.

Across a vast, wide plain a mighty army toiled; the strangest army man had ever seen since that great host marched round the eastern desert seeking for the Promised Land. There were women no less than men; little children, and old folks bent with years; stalwart youths right ready for all venture and all strife, and they whose faces bore the horrid marks of wasted powers and challenges ignored. As they went, some were far ahead and blazed the course that should be followed; some prepared the road and built the bridges, cleft the rocks and filled the gaps; some scoured all the land and sought for food, and warned of danger or of storm; while others sang, playing on musical instruments, and cheered the march along; and others still bore heavy burdens on their backs, which seemed to be the baggage of the host.

And as the sleeper watched, these last claimed his attention. They held a place unique among the rest. For as he looked he saw that they it were who set the pace for the strange march. Progress could not be swifter than their feet. By reason of the loads they bore, the others walked all free and unencumbered, and yet these could not go more fast than they, than they who staggered and oft stumbled in their steps—for heavy were the weights upon their backs.

As they who carry its great load advance—not they who blaze its path or make its road or cheer its way along—the human race advances, quick or slow.

The sleeper saw, and as he saw he sought to know the nature of these loads, the contents of these packs. He went more close, and on each load he found a word was writ. On one was written "Injustice;" on another, "Bad Inheritance;" on another, "Vicarious Sufferings;" on another, "Grief;" on another, "Disease."

The dreamer slept, and when he awoke he thought upon his dream and what its meaning was, if meaning aught it had. And as he pencered it, he heard; he heard from out the old rebellion and long seeking of his soul for explanation of that fate which had been his—his broken hopes and good ambitions killed, his stricken life, his manhood sheathed in idleness and weakness—a voice:

"You sought to be a leader of the host; you chose to be a maker of the road; you would have been a helper or a singer in the throng. It could not be. Your task was nobler yet. You are a burden bearer of mankind. There is the burden of the race, the burden of its folly and its wrong, its ignorance, its stupid prejudice, its sin, its willful violation of the law, its innocent transgression of the rule. Some one must carry that—must carry that great sadness and great pain, that ineptitude, that care—must carry it that others should go free, that mankind should go forward and go up."

He heard, and as he heard he reached up and took the new-made sign from out its place and brake it in small pieces. His face showed a great content.

O, fellow bearers of the load we did not choose, the load we fain would have some other carry if we could, remember this—the burden bearers help the world along.

I know not how it is. I know not all the law. I am only sure of this: the fight that each man fights behind his chamber door for courage and for patience and for faith, he fights not for himself alone, he fights for all mankind; he fights as one who is a helper of his kind, as a blood brother of that One who in little Galilee, obscure, almost alone, was wounded for our transgressions and bruised for our iniquities, and who upon the cross became the Burden Bearer of the human race.—Alexis Stein.

* * *

Hallowed Memories.

There are hallowed memories in every normal life. They connect us with the past, and bring again voices and faces and scenes that once were to us as the wine of life itself. There are the memories of a mother's face, a father's counsel, a song that once quivered on lips now silent. There are memories of graves and deathbeds and fond farewells. These all are hallowed memories. There are other memories of the struggle of the soul when at last it came to see the light and hear the voice of pardoning love. The memories of the old church with her songs of inspiration; of times when heaven came down to greet the earth, and mercy sat full of joy and glory upon the altars of Zion. Memories of the moments when temptation came upon us, and we cried for the passing away of the cup, but at last lay weary and exhausted upon the bosom of Christ and said to him: "Not my will, but thine, be done." Home memories, soul memories, how hallowed they are! Some of them have been long with us, and some of them are of but yesterday, but among our treasures they hold a high place, and no merchantman with goodliest pearls could buy them from us.

Even the bitterest experiences of life are often in the end transmitted into golden memories. When death came into the home, the thought of the loved one filled us with an agony of grief. The object or the sound that reminded us of them broke down the gates and let pour the flood of tears. But, with the years, the memory has become soft and sweet. The mother tenderly caresses the toy of her departed child, and her memory brings back again the dear form. She hears again its foot upon the stair, and there is a chastened joy in the memory of that which once filled her with inconsolable sorrow. In heaven memory will do that for us, and we shall recall the sorrows of earth only to rejoice in the fact that "earth has no sorrow that heaven cannot heal."—Selected.

Conducted for a half century by D. Lipscomb and E. G. Sewell.

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

$2.50 a year, in advance; ;o Canada and foreign countries, $3.00, in advance.

Remittances will be at our risk when sent by express or post-office money order, in registered letter, or by draft payable to our order.

When changing your post-office address, tell us your old as well as your new address; otherwise two papers might be charged to you. This paper is mailed regularly to all subscribers until definite orders in writing are received and all arrearages paid in full. If you wish us to stop your paper, write us to that effect; but do not ask it unless you have paid all arrears, if there are any. Do not ask your postmaster to attend to it for you, but do it yourself.

The date on your tab shows the time to which your subscription is paid. When money is received, the date will be changed, which will answer for a receipt. Two weeks time must ordinarily cour from the time your remittance is sent before the tab on your paper is changed; if no othanged by that time, notify us at once.

Subscribers, after paying for their papers, will favor us by noting whether the date on the address label is changed, and, if it is not changed within a month, by writing to us. We are careful, but miseakes may occur or letters may be lost. Our rule is to change the date on the day payment is received; but the mechanical work of correcting and printing the list takes time, and payments even from near-by places may uot appear the first week. Credits for payments from a distance may be even more delayed. Mistakes are easily restified if prompt notice is given.

All communications should be addressed to Gospel Advocate, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

Entered at post office at Nasyllle, Tenn.

Guarantee of Advertising.

All the advertisements in this paper are, we believe, signed by trustworthy persons. To prove our faith by works, we will make good to actual subscribers any loss sustained in trusting advertisers who prove to be deliberate swindlers. We shall not attempt to adjust trifling disputes between subscribers and honorable business men who advertise, nor pay the debts of honest bankrupts. To make this guarantee effective, in all cases say in writing advertisers, "I saw your advertisement in the Gospel Advocate;" and if anything goes wrong, notify us immediately in writing.

JACOBS & CO., ADVERTISING MANAGERS, Clinton, S. C.

Entered at post office at Nashville, Tenn., as second-class matter.

Published weekly at Nashville, Tenn.

Review of O. E. Payne's Book on "Psallo."

BY M. C. K.

CHAPTER IV.

THE FUNCTION AND AUTHORITY OF LEXICONS (Continued).

In continuing the argument from the lexicons, it is proper to note, in this connection, and to keep constantly in mind two vital facts established in Chapter III. (1) That the legitimate function of a lexicon in all languages is to define words and that the correct definition of a word includes all that the word means and excludes everything else. Hence, to state exactly what a word means, no more and no less, is to define the word correctly, and the slightest variation from this rule is a violation of the principles of lexicography in all languages. (2) That the very highest lexical authority in the whole English-speaking world on New Testament Greek is Thayer's great work and that it defines psallo to mean "in the New Testament to sing a hymn. to celebrate the praises of God in song." That is, he uses the verb "sing" and the noun "song" to "fix the bounds" or "mark the limits of" the verb psallo in the New Testament. This means that, according to this great lexicon, there is nothing in psallo in the New Testament which is not in "sing" or "seng." Hence, we are here confronted by the significant and weighty fact that, no matter how many lexicons are produced either in the book here under review or anywhere else that say psallo in the New Testament has instrumental music in it, they are all, in the field of New Testament Greek, inferior to Thaver and are therefore placed at the decided disadvantage of arraying themselves against the highest authority in the world. Is any well-informed and thoughtful person prepared to adopt a position that has only such support?

But, for reasons that will appear, I now introduce the testimony of the great lexicon of Sophocles, equally eminent in his particular field, the Roman and Byzantine periods from B.C. 146 to A.D. 1100, which includes the New Testament era. For this entire period covering about twelve hundred years, here is his definition: "Psallo, to chant, sing religious hymns." Thus, this native Greek, this mighty master of his native tongue, who was honored as professor of the Greek language for thirty-eight years in Harvard University, uses the verbs "chant" and "sing" to "fix the bounds" or "mark the limits of" psallo throughout this long period. Is not this significant?

Now, Sophocles is not introduced here because his testimony is needed in determining the meaning of the word psallo, for after the highest authorities in the world in classic Greek and New Testament Greek-the lexicon of Liddell & Scott and that of Thayer-have spoken, the testimony of others is not needed. But since the great work of Thayer, the highest authority in the world on New Testament Greek, uses the English verb "sing" and the noun "song" to "fix the bounds" or "mark the limits of" psallo in the New Testament, thus limiting it to vocal music, and since this position is supported by the eminent lexicon of Sophocles covering the Roman and Byzantine periods and including the New Testament era, these eminent authorities constitute a most serious and insurmountable barrier against the advocates of instrumental music in Christian worship, and hence, from their very first appearance in print, it has been a perplexing and bewildering problem to know how to meet them, and because of the light this circumstance sheds on the situation, I introduce Sophocles. Men noted for their learning, piety, and integrity, and who advocate the use of instrumental music in divine worship, have been annoyed and embarrassed no little with this problem of how to meet Thayer and Sophocles; but the author of the book here under review, while seeming to feel the force of the difficulty, has no trouble in brushing it aside seemingly to his own satisfaction and in his own characteristic way. Where great men and scholars have stood speechless before the problem and have failed to show a way out, he has "cut the Gordian knot" by attempting to cast discredit upon Sophocles and by actually changing and suppressing the language of Thayer! I shall now give, in his own words, his treatment of the case. and shall also give the facts as they are in Thayer's lexicon with the facts also concerning Sophocles, and then leave the reader to decide how far such a book is reliable.

In my book on "Instrumental Music in the Worship," commenting on Thayer's definition of psallo in the New Testament and his omission therefrom of its classic meanings, I said:

"When this prince of New Testament lexicographers comes to the New Testament period, he omits all of these meanings and limits it to touching the chords of the human heart, saying that it means 'in the New Testament to sing a hymn, to celebrate the praises of God in song."

A part of this passage was quoted in Chapter III. to show that Paul himself refutes the author's denial about "the chords of the human heart." I quote it now to show his change and perversion of Thayer's language. On page 86, immediately following this quotation from my book, he

"In exactly the same way this same 'prince of New Testament lexicographers' defines: · Baptizo, to dip repeatedly, to immerse, to submerge. In the New Testament it is used particularly of the rite of sacred ablution. Thayer had stopped there, as many lexicographers did, what would Mr. Kurfees and those who agree with him as to baptism and instruments say if Ditzler, Rice, Morrison and affusionists generally should stoop to pretend that outside the New Testament baptize signified immersion, but that in the New Testament it signified some other act, performed some other way, and as proof, point to such definitions, of which there are a number, that give as much warrant for their doing so, as Thayer and some others do for feigning that outside the New Testament psallo means to play an instrument, or to sing to one, but that in the New Testament it signifies some other act, performed some other way?"

Note how he says, "If Thayer had stopped there;" but Thayer did not "stop there," and the attempt by the author of this book to make the impression by either stopping there in quoting Thayer or by any other way that Thayer treated psallo "in exactly the same way" that he treated baptizo, is a glaring and gross misrepresentation. We shall see that 'Thaver's treatment of the two words is not only different, but radically and vitally different; yet, in order to camouflage or break the force of Thayer's phrase "in the New Testament," which the lexicographer uses in introducing his New Testament definition of psallo, this man not only changes the arrangement of Thayer's words, but he actually suppresses from Thayer's definition the very thing which, if he had given it, would have utterly defeated his point by showing that Thayer does the very reverse of what he represents him as doing. More than fifty pages earlier in his book he very freely gave this suppressed part when discussing the meaning of baptizo apart from psallo and the music question, but he suppressed it here when giving it would have defeated his point on the meaning of psallo. I regret to have to expose such dealing by one author with another, but I cannot properly reply to this book without it. Here is the way this man quotes and suppresses Thayer: "In exactly the same way this same 'prince of New Testament lexicographers' defines: 'Baptizo, to dip repeatedly, to immerse, to submerge. In the New Testament it is used particularly of the rite of sacred ablution." (Page 86.)

Now, I cheerfully concede that in quoting a passage it is not improper sometimes to omit a part of it which is not material to the point in hand, but in all such cases fair and honorable dealing requires the use of some mark indicating the omission; yet between the phrase "to submerge" and the phrase "in the New Testament," Thayer uses twenty-five lines containing over one hundred and fifty words, all of which this man omits with no mark indicating omission. But this is not all nor by any means the worst that he does, for he then suppresses the very part of Thayer's definition of baptizo "in the New Testament" which shows that Thayer, in the case of the latter, did the very reverse of what he did in the case of psallo-namely, in the case of baptizo. Thayer shows, by specific statement, that the classical meaning and the New Testament meaning are identically the same, but in the case of psallo he shows, by specific statement, that the classical meaning and the New Testament are not the same. Here is Thayer's New Testament definition of baptizo with the part given which this man suppressed:

"In the New Testament it is used particularly of the rite of sacred ablution, first instituted by John the Baptist, afterwards by Christ's command received by Christians and adjusted to the contents and nature of their religion (see baptisma 3), viz., an immersion in water, performed as a sign of the removal of sin, and administered to those who, inceptled by a desire for salvation, sought admission to the benefits of the Messiah's kingdom."

Thus, Thayer distinctly says that baptizo "in the New Testament," precisely as he had just defined it in classic Greek, is "an immersion in water." But this man suppresses the fact. And why? Shakespeare's Hamlet, replying to a dark question, is made to say, "Ay, there's the rub," but in the present case the facts are luminous and the answer is ready at hand. By changing the arrangement of Thayer's words at one place and suppressing a part of his definition at another, the author of this book makes it appear to his readers, who know not the facts, that the phrase, "in the New Testament," used by Thayer in the case of both baptize and psallo, is no more proof of a change from the classical meaning to a different meaning in the one case than it is in the other; that there is no more to indicate that the classical meaning and New Testament meaning are the same in the case of baptizo than there is to indicate that they are the same in the case of psallo; and therefore that "Ditzler, Rice, Morrison and affusionists in general" have the same proof that baptizo "in the New Testament" means "some other act" than immersion that "Mr. Kurfees and those who agree with him" have for contending that "outside the New Testament psallo means to play an instrument, or to sing to one, but that in the New Testament it signifies some other act." But, as the reader can now see, he makes this point not only at the expense of making a statement which is not correct, but by perverting and suppressing Thayer's words. He says: "In exactly the same way" Thayer treats baptize and psallo. This statement is a positive misrepresentation. It is true, as he shows, that Thayer introduced the New Testament definition of both baptizo and psallo with the phrase, "in the New Testament," but Thayer not only does not treat baptize and psallo "in exactly the same way," but he distinctly says that the former "in the New Testament," precisely as in classic Greek, is "an immersion in water;" whereas in his treatment of psallo when he comes to the New Testament, he omits all of the classical meanings and limits psallo to singing or vocal music.

Now, in connection with such dealing with Thayer, he tells the reader what he thinks Thayer meant, thus: "The evident meaning of Thayer's entire definition is: 'Outside the New Testament, psallo means to play a stringed instrument,' 'to sing any kind of music—patriotic, secular, pagan or festive—to the harp.' But in the New Testament, 'to sing God's praises, to the harp' of course." (Page 86.) But if Thayer meant that, why did he not say it? He did say it in the case of baptize—that is, when he comes to the New Testament he repeats the classical meaning as being the New Testament meaning. Why did he not do it in the case of psallo? 'The answer is, because in the case of psallo the New Testament meaning is not the classical meaning, but a different meaning, and consequently Thayer gives what that different meaning is.

But let us test this man's logic on this point. According to his contention, it was not necessary for Thayer when he came to the New Testament to repeat the classical meaning of psallo as being the meaning of the word "in the New Testament;" that he meant for it to be taken for granted that the meaning was the same, only it was there applied to "sacred" things. Then, if this be true, why did he do differently in the case of baptizo? Why did he not say: "In the New Testament it is used particularly of the rite of sacred ablution," and stop there? If the meaning of psallo in the New Testament is the same that it was in classic Greek and it was therefore unnecessary to repeat that meaning when he came to the New Testament, then, since the meaning of baptizo in the New Testament is the same that it was in classic Greek, why was it necessary to repeat that meaning when he came to the New Testament? It is a strange lexicographic principle that, in the case of two words with the same meanings in the New Testament that they had in classic Greek, it is necessary for a lexicographer to say so in the one case, but not necessary for him to say so in the other. But that is the lame logic of this book.

The facts of the case are that baptizo in both classic Greek and in the New Testament means "an immersion in water," and Thayer's lexicon says so; and that psallo in classic Greek means "to strike the chords of a stringed instrument" or to make instrumental music, and "in the New Testament" it means "to sing"-that is, strike the chords of the "heart" or make vocal music, and Thayer's lexicon so represents it. In fine, Thayer says that psallo in classic Greek means "to play on a stringed instrument, to play the harp," but that "in the New Testament" it means "to sing a hymn, to celebrate the praises of God in song;" and hence, if Thayer represents the case correctly, then just as certain as it is that playing is not singing and singing is not playing, just that certain it is that, according to the highest authority in the world on New Testament Greek, singing is taught and enjoined in the New Testament and playing is not.

But, in accordance with my promise in Chapter III., I will now show from the facts that this man's handling of Sophocles, though he does not misrepresent what Sophocles says is the meaning of psallo, is, nevertheless, quite as remarkable for other reasons as is his handling of Thayer. In fact, in attempting to break the force of the great scholar's testimony, his treatment of the latter is more presumptuous and reckless than was that of the former. As it will shed a bright light on his manner of judging literary matters and hence form a proper background for a correct judgment of his book, I now give, in his own language, what he sends forth to the world as his estimate of this great Greek scholar and his lexicon.

1. In my book on "Instrumental Music in the Worship," I say of Sophocles that "he sifted every passage in Greek literature, but did not find where psallo means to sing with an instrument." But this man says in reply: "Sophocles does not say, neither does his lexicon, that he sifted little or much on this question." (Page 167.) Sometimes both in books and otherwise men say things by their deeds in a more emphatic way than by their words, and there is a popular adage to the effect that "actions speak louder than words;" and if this man wished to advertise his ignorance of the vast and prodigious work of Sophocles, or his recklessness in handling that author's great lexicon, he could not have hit upon a more fitting statement for that purpose than the one just quoted. For the reader's information, I state the fact in reply that I myself took the pains to make a careful survey and count the long list of Greek authorities consulted and used by Sophocles as the basis of his great work, and was able, as may be seen on page 47 of "Instrumental Music in the Worship," to make the following statement:

"The Greek lexicon of Sophocles, himself a native Greek, and for thirty-eight years professor of the Greek language in Harvard University, covers all of the Roman period and the Byzantine period down to the end of the eleventh century, in all more than twelve hundred years' history of the language from B.C. 146 to A.D. 1100. As the basis of his monumental work, this profound and tireless scholar examined, as we have found by actual count, 146 secular and 77 ecclesiastical authors of the Roman period, and 109 secular and 262 ecclesiastical, modern Greek, and scholastic authors of the Byzantine period, a grand total of 594 authors and covering a period of more than twelve hundred years."

2. Now, notwithstanding such an array of such significant facts indicative of wide and thorough research in Greek literature, through the long period of twelve centuries, this man, in an effort to belittle Sophocles himself and lessen the force of his testimony, says: "He obtained his definition from within the walls of the monastery rather than from without in the world of letters." (Page 65.) Again: "He spent the first half of his life with his uncle and other monks in connection with a Greek monastery, . . which . . . may account for his definitions." (Page 75.) Still again: "It is but natural to inquire:

'How came Sophocles to define psallo to sing?'... Sophocles' connection with a monastery during the impressionable first half of his life adequately accounts for his definition." (Page 77.)

Now, just as if it were a fact, this man says Sophocles "spent the first half of his life" in a monastery; but, turning to the New International Encyclopedia, we get what are the facts that Sophocles was born near Mount Pelion, in Thessaly, Greece, March 8, 1807, and died at Cambridge, Mass., in the United States, December 17, 1883, in the seventy-seventh year of his age; that he received his earlier education at the convent on Mount Sinal, but emigrated to the United States in 1829 and continued his studies in Amherst College. (See the New International Encyclopedia, Volume 21, page 292.) Thus, he was only a boy twenty-two years old when he came to this country, where more than fifty-four years of his life were spent and where he was really educated in Amherst and other institutions of learning. Yet this man says he "spent the first half of his life with his uncle and other monks in connection with a Greek monastery"!! Thus he gives us another sample of the marked inaccuracy of things in the book we are now examining.

3. But the most ludicrous if not indeed the most ridiculous thing in this book is its author's attempt to act in the rôle of critic of Sophocles as a scholar! Shades of Maimonides, Erasmus, Schleiermacher, and all the rest!! He even attempts to belittle the eminent Grecian as a lexicographer and tries to make the impression, no doubt succeeding at least with some who do not know the facts, that this Harvard professor who says psallo from 146 B.C. to A.D. 1100 meant "to chant, sing religious hymns," was not much of a scholar after all. As we have already cited for another purpose, here is what he says of Sophocles: "He obtained his definition from within the walls of a monastery rather than from without in the world of letters"! (Page 65.) He not only speaks of him as "this habitue of the monastery" (page 76), but speaks slightingly of high estimates of Sophocles as "the pretension that, like Simon of Samaria, Sophocles 'himself was some great one'" (page 78); and that some write of him "as if the lexicographer were a prodigy of learning" (page 78).

Well, on the hypothesis that Sophocles was the very small man as a lexicographer that he is here represented to have been, what a provigy he was after all! Logicians tell us it is sometimes best to meet an erroneous position by meeting its advocates on their own ground, and we shall pursue that course in the present case. Harvard University is the oldest and most heavily endowed institution of learning in the United States, being founded early in the seventeenth century, about three hundred years ago, and famous all over the world as a seat of learning. The reader can get a fair idea of its standing by noting the relative endowment of a dozen of the leading institutions of learning in our country. Beginning with the smallest in the list and ending with the largest, here are the facts: Brown University has an endowment of $5,500,000; Rochester University, $6,125,000; Northwestern University, $6,520,000; Oberlin College, $6,-600,000; Princeton University, $9,564,000; Washington University, $10,249,000; Johns Hopkins University, $15,000,000; Cornell University, $16,702,000; Yale University, $24,000,-000; Stanford University, $24,550,000; Chicago University, $30,000,000, and Harvard University, $43,000,000. Not only does the last rise in the list nearly five times more than Princeton, nearly three times more than Cornell, and about a third more than Chicago, but nearly twice the endowment of Yale; and yet, according to the author of this book, this incompetent Thessalian hailing from Mount Pelion, who was hampered by confinement "within the walls of the monastery" and not broadly educated "without in the world of letters;" this unscholarly Evangelinus Apostolides Sophocles, too ignorant to define words in his native tongue, so completely hoodwinked Harvard University and the rest of the world as to keep himself in its department of Greek for thirty-eight years! Was there ever such a prodigy?! But this is not all. According to the American Cyclopedia, this prodigy hailing from the home of Xenophon, Plato, and Demosthenes, so completely hoodwinked Yale University as to get its A.M. degree in 1837, and so hoodwinked Harvard again as to get the same degree from it in 1847, and so hoodwinked the Western Reserve College as to get its LL.D. degree in 1862, and so continued to hoodwink Harvard as to get the same degree from it in 1868, and finally so hoodwinked the makers of the Americana and the New International Encyclopedia as to get himself written down as an "American Greek scholar" and "a Greek American classical scholar"! Then, to cap the climax, the magic spell created by "this habitue of the monastery from whom was shut out the light beaming from "the world of letters," was still so powerful even three years after his death as to lead "the President and Fellows of Harvard College" at a meeting in Boston in 1887 "to authorize the publication" of a "Memorial Edition" of his Greek lexicon "and to entrust the whole matter to Professor Joseph Henry Thayer." There now! Along with the President and Fellows of Harvard College, even Thayer, the great Joseph Henry Thayer, whose New Testament lexicon even the author of the book here under review actually concedes is a "scholarly work" (page 28) and a "truly great New Testament lexicon" (page 86), became a victim of the same magic spell and joined in a scheme to extend the circulation of this unimportant lexicon over the world! Elijah ridiculed Baal's prophets; but, with all due respect for brethren who attempt on honorable grounds to defend, as they have a right to do on such grounds, instrumental music in the worship, those false prophets no more deserved ridicule at the hands of the great prophet of God than does a man now who, in order to break the force of weighty testimony against his sectarian position in religion, will attempt at the expense of contradicting facts to belittle a great scholar and his work of whom all these things can be said.

[Note: After making a public attack upon my honor and veracity in his book, and the Gospel Advocate management declined to open its columns to him for a possible repetition of such discourtesies, this man has shown no higher appreciation of the principle involved than to write the management proposing that he and I submit such a thing to the decision of a private committee chosen by him and me! As a matter of editorial courtesy, our office sent his letter to me, and I promptly wrote the following reply to the management: "For a man to have so little regard for honor among Christians as to publish in a book that I state what I know is false when I make statements and then to have the face to suggest that I 'agree to refer the matter to a private committee for settlement, or to any other kind of a committee, public or private, to decide whether he has done wrong, is simply disgusting as well as ridiculous. He himself selected the public as the audience before which to take the case, and I have gone to that audience."-EDITOR.]

Tennessee Orphan Home.

BY J. C. M'Q.

On December 9 the Board of Directors of the Tennessee Orphan Home had their annual meeting. The meeting was very harmonious and satisfactory. There were some things encouraging and some rather discouraging. It was indeed a pleasure to note the improvements which had been made in the Home. The Advisory Committee of sisters has been very helpful in arranging the furniture of the Home and in suggesting improvements which have added much to the comfort of the Home. The children should indeed be comfortable in the Home. We wish to extend an invitation to all interested persons to visit the Home, note its general appearance and also the appearance of the inmates.

At present there are seventy-seven children in the or-We are continually having calls to take more, but our funds are limited so that we can take only a specified number. It is not the intention and purpose of the management of the Home to keep children indefinitely. but to get them good, Christian homes at the earliest possible moment. No orphan home is as good as the ideal Christian home. We would like to encourage all to take children in their homes, to fit and qualify them for the duties and responsibilities of life. Many husbands and wives would greatly help and benefit themselves by taking an orphan boy or girl into their homes to feed, clothe, and educate. No right-thinking person would take an orphan simply for its services, but would take it for the purpose of fitting it for the real duties of life. I take this occasion to suggest to our readers to inquire of our vice president and treasurer. John W. Fry, Columbia, Tenn., when wishing to adopt an orphan boy or girl. We may not always supply the demand, but often can do so. While we do not expect to keep the children in the Home after they are twelve years of age, we appreciate the fact that we are responsible for them until they reach the age of twenty-one. We know of no better work than to get Christian homes for orphans.

We regret that the contributions for the Home were not so large during the present year as during the preceding year. Receipts were over four thousand dollars less. The fact that we had borrowed one thousand dollars in order to meet current expenses and had only four hundred dollars cash on hand was also a discouraging feature of the meeting. I believe it only necessary to call the attention of contributors to this fact in order to supply the deficit and to greatly increase our contributions for the future. Those who wish to do Christian work could do no better work than make a liberal contribution to the Tennessee Orphan Home during the Christmas holidays. By such gifts one strengthens his own spirituality and greatly increases his interest in the work of building up the kingdom of God. There are many brethren scattered throughout the country who can do no better thing for themselves than to give one hundred dollars, more or less, for the maintenance of orphan children. I am glad to see all united in declaring that it is a good work to take care of and to provide homes for orphans.

It would greatly add to the interest of contributors if they would see many helpless children without fathers and mothers. It is true that we do not have so many suffering, starving children in this country as there are in Russia and China, yet it is not necessary to leave the borders of our own country to find many orphan children who are in need of food, clothing, sympathy, and love. Right here in Davidson County I am told of six orphan children who have neither father nor mother and have not the necessaries of life. The relatives of these children are not rich, and perhaps are not in condition to properly care for and train them. These are bright children-sprightly boys and beautiful girls—and are capable of being developed into a useful manhood and a noble womanhood. There should be hundreds of Christian homes open to these children right here in Davidson County. It is our aim and purpose to stimulate Christians in our own country until they will adopt these children and make them members of their own families instead of sending them to any orphan home. However, we find it necessary to give them a temporary home in an orphanage until we can find Christian homes for them. No man will ever censure himself or feel that his life has been a failure because he has taken an orphan boy or girl and fitted him or her for a useful and noble life. How delightful it will be in the great day of judgment to hear the Master say: "Inasmuch as ye did it unto one of these my brethren, even these least, ye did it unto me!"

I do not feel that it is necessary to beg our readers to contribute to this work. I feel sure that all realize and appreciate its importance and will cheerfully make sacrifices for the sake of the orphans. This work is in its incipiency and should grow to much greater proportions. Every community should feel responsible for its orphans. No community should be willing to send children to different orphan homes without at least helping to support the orphan homes. The responsibility rests upon us all alike, and no man can throw his responsibility on the shoulders of another. In our gifts, in our efforts to do good in all things, we should be Christians.

The first Lord's day in January of 1922 is the day for a regular contribution to the Home. I believe that those who contribute to the Home will be glad to give us a very liberal contribution at this time. The needs of the Home are imperative, so we are depending upon those who coöperate with us to do their very best to make the Home just what it should be in every particular. We intend to improve the institution and make it better as the days come and go. We want the prayers, we want the fellowship, and we want the hearty support of all contributors in helping us to bring about this result. We should all reach out for a nobler and better life. We should never be satisfied with our accomplishments until the Master says to us: "Well done!" Send all contributions to the Tennessee Orphan Home, Columbia, Tenn.

The Tabernacle Meeting.

BY F. W. SMITH.

There is in both prospect and preparation a united effort of all the congregations in the city of Nashville and adjacent territory, known simply as Christians or disciples of Christ, to engage in an evangelistic campaign, beginning on March 28, 1922. This meeting is to be held in the Tabernacle, or Ryman Auditorium, running not less than twenty days.

Brother N. B. Hardeman, of Henderson, Tenn., has been engaged to do the preaching, and Brother C. M. Pullias, of Birmingham, Ala., has been procured to lead the song service. Brother Hardeman is recognized as an able proclaimer of the word, and will, no doubt, do his part well. Brother Pullias is a splendid leader of song, as well as preacher. He possesses a strong, rich, full, and mellow voice, and puts life and vigor into the songs. I know of no one whose voice could so well fill the tabernacle, with a seating capacity of perhaps seven thousand, as that of C. M. Pullias. As a leader, he will be clearly and distinctly heard in the remotest part of the great building.

The song service will be one great feature of these meetings, and will not only demonstrate the fact that no instrument made with human hands can equal the human voice, but that such instruments are entirely unnecessary in the worship of God even if they were permitted by the New Testament.

The Nashville churches have many fine singers, and when all these voices are united in the praises of God, it will be worth traveling many miles to hear and unite with them. There will be no discount on either the preaching or the singing, and it only remains for the churches and scattered saints, if such there be in and around the city, to fill the tabernacle; for the larger the audience, the more inspiration there will be to the speaker and singers and the more good accomplished.

THE PREPARATION FOR THE MEETING.

This has really been in progress for months, the leading spirits in the movement having meetings in all the congregations of the city to stir up an interest and devise the best and most efficient plans to make the meeting a success. Committees have been appointed for different features of the work, and much time and money will be expended in this effort to tell "the old story," the story of the cross. The churches participating in this work want it distinctly understood that it is simply New Testament church co-cperation, with each church retaining its congregational independence, raising and disbursing its own funds without any outside organization to take control of and manage its affairs.

The churches are going about this work with a zeal, push, and enthusiasm that spell success upon its face. The advertising feature is one of the most essential to the success of the meeting, and the churches have very wisely considered this. Plans have been perfected to bring these meetings before the community in a way never before seen in this city. There will be no spasmodic effort along this line, but printer's ink will be made to keep the matter before the people in a way that will be a constant reminder. Plenty of funds will be used for this most important part of the work.

OBJECTS OF THE MEETING.

First of all, to carry out the solemn obligation to preach the word. There are, perhaps, thousands in the city of Nashville who never heard the gospel in its simplicity and who know nothing of the different covenants, dispensations, and laws of the Bible; in fact, who have the Bible in their homes, but do not know how to read and understand it.

Another object of the meeting will be not only the conversion of sinners and the edification of saints, but the bringing together of all the members that they may know each other by face and name, thus cultivating a stronger and deeper fellowship and greater coöperation in the work of the Master. It is thought by some that for a long time there has not been that degree of mutual help and cooperation among the churches for the advancement of the kingdom of Christ that should have been, and it is hoped and believed that this united effort will bring all the forces into this broader and more efficient coöperation and fellowship in the Lord.

Again, one of the prime objects of this meeting will be to quicken the evangelistic pulse of all the churches and bring again the good old times when James A. Harding—bless his name!—stirred this city from center to circumference with his evangelistic spirit of flery zeal and when churches sprang up here and there like they did in the first ages of Christianity.

The writer, in a speech at a gathering of fifty or more brethren a few years past, made a strong plea for the evangelization of the city of Nashville, urging that the churches coöperate and sustain evangelists from year to year and all the year. I cannot say that the present effort is in any way the outgrowth of my humble plea, but I am nevertheless glad to see the effort on foot.

Last, but by no means least, is the desire to get before that element of the city who are anxious for Christian unity, but have no proper conceptions of the only and true grounds of such unity, the opportunity to hear and understand the great plea that was launched more than a century ago by the Campbells and their colaborers. If this meeting should result in nothing more than a candid hearing by our fellow citizens of this grand plea, the basis of unity, and the only basis on which the religious world can ever unite, it will be a grand success. Now for a "strong pull, a long pull, and a pull all together."

Flowers' Use of Color.

Botanists tell us that plants are made warm, are really protected from cold, by their colors. Probably few of us who love to see the beautiful colors of the autumn foliage ever think of it as a protection for the trees themselves against the frost. Yet these colored leaves actually produce heat for the tree and protect it from cold. In the same way the colored petals of flowers help to keep the pollen at their center warm.—Selected.

Commending the Quarterlies.

We are gratified on account of the enthusiastic reception given our Quarterlies. Words of commendation have come from all parts of the country, and the orders are larger than ever before at this season. Please understand that we give every order prompt attention, mailing the Quarterlies the same day the order is received. Read what the brethren have to say:

I received the Quarterlies and have looked over same. They are true to Brother Smith's characteristic way of presenting a matter, and I feel sure that he who studies the same will appreciate the splendid comments made. (N. B. Hardeman, Henderson, Tenn.)

I am glad to express to you my indorsement of the arrangement and presentation of the lessons of the new Qarterlies which you sent me for examination. They are clear, logical, and concise. I feel that the different grades in Sunday-school work who use these Quarterlies will immediately grasp the thought that is meant to be conveyed. I unhesitatingly commend these Bible helps to the brotherhood, and bespeak great progress for those who use them. (E. E. Shoulders, Franklin, Ky.)

I appreciate your sending me the Quarterlies. They have a splendid appearance, and upon rather a hasty investigation I pronounce the matter interesting, new, and well adapted to those who are to use it. (W. C. Hall, Nashville, Tenn.)

The three Quarterlies came duly, and I have looked them through hastily, and my judgment is that the world and the church would be greatly benefited by the reading of them. (A. Ellmore, Gunter, Texas.)

I have just received samples of literature for the first quarter of 1922. I am very much pleased with the arrangement and treatment of the series of lessons in the Old Testament. The comments and explanatory notes are pointed and practical. Such helps, if properly used, will stimulate a greater interest in Bible study wherever they are circulated. To get sound teaching continually before the minds of the rising generations is the greatest work that can engage our attention. (John D. Evans, Denver, Col.)

Many thanks for the three copies of the new Quarterlies (Advanced, Intermediate, and Primary) for the first quarter of 1922. I pronounce them good, safe, and sound. feel that the authors, Brethren F. W. Smith and F. B. Srygley, are fully competent to edit them, and we need have no fears of the results of studyin; their teaching. see some new features in the new ones that I like very much. More work and closer study is going to be demanded of the teacher as well as the pupil. These lessons are so arranged and commented upon that both teacher and pupil can get all there is in them by a little application. There is danger in destroying the pupil's and teacher's individuality and begetting a spirit of indifference and carelessness when a lesson is discussed too much in detail and too many minute interrogations are made. I feel that the purpose of such lesson should be to serve as a guide and help to the teacher and pupil to learn the lesson, and not the author predigest the whole thing minutely. My ideas are only one man's, and I may be wrong. I am not a perfect teach-er. I am glad to serve the cause of Christ in any way that I can. (J. B. Nelson, Dallas, Texas.)

I have had before me for several days the Quarterlies for Bible study, printed by the McQuiddy Printing Company, Nashville, Tenn. As to beauty and mechanical skill, nothing along this line that has ever come under my notice in any way equals them. The Bible maps are also of the finest quality. And so far as the comments on the lessons are concerned, I know of nothing better. They are, indeed, all that is claimed for them—helps to a thorough study of the Bible. As to the ability of the editors both as scholars and men thoroughly qualified in the knowledge of God's word to edit such helps, they need no commendation from my feeble pen. Hence, I can heartily commend their works to all Bible schools in need of such helps. They are issued by the publishers as helps to Bible study, and not as substitutes for the Bible. (A. A. Bunner, Cleveland, Ohio.)

I have perused several lessons in the new gospel Quarterlies for the first quarter of 1922, and while I have never taken a big interest in the International Sunday-school Lessons (it is usually too scattering), I like the short, pointed, direct, and logical way Brethren Smith and Srygley treat the subjects for each Lord's day. Many good and scriptural lessons and warnings are given in a short, pointed way, which cannot but do good to those who take them in the right way. When it comes to human aids on the Sunday-school lessons, I would guess this is about the best we have to-day. (H. W. Jones, Hardin, Ky.)

I have just received the sample copies of the Bible-school 'literature for 1922. I like it. I like the way the lessons are arranged. The best way to show it is to use it. Cur order is on its way. (J. H. Hines, Montgomery, Ala.)

I have examined your new Quarterly and am well pleased with it. I am pleased that it is a Quarterly rather than an annual, as a Quarterly will be used by so many more children. Then I am pleased with the general form of the comments. I am sure that not only the Gospel Advocate, but the writers of the comments, deserve thanks for their efforts to furnish a faithful Sunday-school Quarterly. God bless every effort to teach the word." (W. P. Skaggs, Itasca, Texas.)

The samples of literature for the first quarter of 1922 have been received and examined and the work is found most excellent. You are to be congratulated upon your success in selecting such able men to edit these helps. The improvement in the arrangement and the character of the work in general are sure to meet with the approval of all. It is predicted that the brotherhood generally will receive this action with pleasure. (R. D. Smith, Denton, Texas.)

I have received and examined sample copies of your Quarterlies and am well pleased with them. I hardly see how they could be improved. (C. W. Sewell, Corpus Christi, Texas.)

I have just examined the new literature, and think the arrangement is splendid and the comments are excellent. There is no reason why a great deal cannot be learned by the right use of it. (H. M. Phillips, Chattanooga, Tenn.)

I received the Quarterlies for 1922, and must say the lessons are true to the sacred writings and show that they were prepared by men who have imbibed the inspiration of the prophets and apostles. No truer teaching was ever promulgated than that which the former Quarterlies by Brother Elam bore, and it is clear that the present lessons are up to the high standard of those by him. (Flavil Hall, Trion, Ga.)

I have read with much interest the Quarterlies for the first part of the coming year. Knowing the brethren who wrote them, I expected much. I am not disappointed, but delighted. All the churches should have their supply on hands early, and have enough not only "to go around," but for new members to be enlisted in the classes. The comments upon the lessons are true to the Book. (A. G. Freed, Henderson, Tenn.)

I have examined the new Quarterlies for the first three months of 1922, edited by F. W. Smith and F. B. Srygley, and published by the McQuiddy Printing Company, Nashville, Tenn.; and I like them. They seem to be exceptionally well graded for the three classes—primary, intermediate, and advanced; and I am sure they will be acceptable and profitable to a large number of users. The clear classing of the notes on each lesson under from three to seven distinct heads and the black-faced headlines marking and naming each section are specially attractive to me; also, I am much pleased with the comments on the Golden Texts, each a sermonette in itself. (J. W. Grant, Bridgeport, Ala.)

I have received from the McQuiddy Printing Company copies of the Advanced, Intermediate, and Primary Quarterlies for the first quarter in 1922. I have examined these and pronounce them excellent. Brethren Smith and Srygley, who prepared these Quarterlies, did good work, and it shall praise them. I think that the congregations will continue to use these Bible Lesson Helps, and that they will be pleased with these brethren as editors. (John T. Smithson, Louisville, Ky.)

I received the Advanced, Intermediate, and Primary Quarterlies you recently sent me, and I like them fine. I had so much confidence in the ability and loyalty of F. W. Smith and F. B. Srygley that I had already advised churches where I had been to buy them and had assured them they would be all right. I am an earnest advocate of "helps" in the study of God's word, and I believe your Quarterlies are among the best we have. I shall continue to commend them wherever I go. (Charles Holder, Bridgepert, Ala.)

1 have examined the three Quarterlies, and am glad to say that I find them to be in that high grade that the literature you have formerly sent out has ever maintained, both in the mechanical work and editorial strength. The very fact that F. W. Smith edits the Advanced Quarterly and F. B. Srygley the Primary and Intermediate should be commendation enough as to the soundness and clearness of the doctrine taught in them. I wish them a large circulation. (S. H. Hall, Los Angeles, Cal.)

Others Relieved-Why Not You?

Catarrh Does Harm-Get Rid Of It.

Catarrh of the nose or throat when the total consumption. It impairs the taste, smell and hearing, and affects the voice. It is a constitutional disease and requires a constitutional remedy.

Take Hood's Sarsaparilla, which

Take Hoods Sarsaparina, which by purifying the blood removes the cause of the disease and gives permanent relief. This alterative and tonic medicine has proved entirely satisfactory to thousands of families in the gapperions. in three generations.

If there is billousness or constipa-tion, take Hood's Pills—they are purely vegetable, gentle, thorough.

DANDRUFF

Tetterine

Is Applied. Fragrant and Soothing, 60c at your druggist's or from the SHUP-TRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

For Fever Headaches and Neuralgic Pains

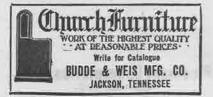

An improved Aspirin tablet which is absoiutely safe to use even in cases of extreme debility and weak heart. Relieves headaches, neuralgia and rheumatic pains, and reduces fever. No depressing effects. Made by a formula which is in general use by leading physicians. 35c per package at your druggist's or by mail from the manufacturers, Piedmont Laboratories, Inc., Clinton, S. C.

MAKE LOAFING HENS LAY

While the price of eggs is high. Get three times the number of eggs you have been getting by using CaroVet Egg Producer, a wonderful poultry tonic. Satisfactory results guaranteed by money-back offer. 21/2-pound packages, with full directions, for only 80c, delivered at your door. Send money order, stamps, or check.

CAROLINA REMEDIES CO., No. 3 CaroVet Building, Union, S. C.

A Letter to My Brethren.

BY U. G. WILKINSON.

For thirty years I have preached the gospel. About twenty years of that time I have done nothing else and had no other income except the contributions of brethren and friends. has been during the prime and flower of my life. At the same time I have written much for publication. This has cost much labor and considerable expense. I have also received many private letters from those seeking instruction on various subjects, all of which I have been very glad to give my careful attention, sparing neither labor nor expense in doing what I could to serve the Lord and his people without money and without price.

I have lived more economically than most men. There are few who could have managed at all on the small income that I have received. But I have not been able to accumulate anything for future use. The best that I was able to do was to provide a humble little home for myself and wife and meet my commercial obligations. This I have done that I might "owe no man anything but love." But my life and work are known to my brethren, and I do not come to them as a stranger.

For more than two years now I have been sick, unable to do anything more than some occasional preaching and writing. This I have done all along and am still doing even beyond my strength. I seem to be slowly recovering my health. I have been advised by physicians and those who know, that if I will not expose or overdo myself this winter, I will, no doubt, by warm weather, be able to actively engage in work again. No doubt this is true, as I am only fifty-eight and in the prime of life, had not overwork and nervous and other chronic troubles broken me down. My troubles have been such as nervous breakdown, chronic indigestion, catarrh, rheumatism, etc., all of which seem to have been fairly well mastered by treatments that I have been forced to undergo at home and abroad. But the past two months and more I suffered with a severe attack of la grippe, from which I seem now to be about recovered.

But all this has left my system weak and exhausted to an extent that will take time to recover. So I cannot hope to be able this winter, at least, to labor and expose myself in such a manner as would be necessary should I take the field as an evangelist. As I have always done general evangelistic and missionary there are no local congregations that 1 can claim as specially obligated to me to supply my needs. I have to depend on the brethren and churches generally for help. But so far I can thank God that my brethren have helped me in such measure that I have not suffered, but only just enough to get along with. Now winter is here, my money all gone, taxes due, and other expenses incidental to this season, without the means to meet them. As I am unable to get out and provide these means, I do not see how I will get through unless the brethren supply my needs. It is very humiliating to me to ask them to do so; but I know that my noble brethren will be able to sympathize with me and help me and no one be injured thereby. It will be a small thing to them, but very much to me, and great fruit for them unto the Lord. Even if I should rapidly recover, which is not possible, what I have lost and still must lose before I am able to make my own way makes it very necessary for me to have the fellowship of my brethren.

Brother A. LeRoy Elkins, of Oklahoma City, who has just held a short meeting at my home, and Brother B. U. Baldwin, who lives and labors with the church here, will cheerfully testify that all I have here said is true, as well as many others of our ablest brethren who personally know of my condition and needs. And my fervent prayer to God is that in His infinite love and mercy who does all things well this may be the last time I will be compelled to come to my brethren with my troubles. But his will, not mine, be done. May he bless all his faithful children. Remember me in your prayers. My address is Comanche, Okla.

Old Sores, Cuts and Burns have been healed since 1820 been with

Grav's Ointment

Sold by all druggists. Write for sample to W. F. Gray & Co., 716 Gray Bldg., Nashville, Tenn.

CANCERS CURED AT THE KELLAM HOSPITAL

The Kellam Hospital cures Cancers, Sores without the use Burns, and Chronic Tumors, Ulcers, X-Ray of the knife, X-Ray, Radium, Acids, or Serum, and we have cured over 90 per cent of the many hundreds of sufferers treated during the past twenty-three years.

KELLAM HOSPITAL, Inc.

1617 West Main St.

Richmond, Va.

"SLOAN'S always fixes me up in a jiffy. A warming clap of Sloan's Liniment and pains and aches soon become a memory."
Good for all exposure aches and pains, rheumatism, neuralgia, backaches, stiff joints, sprains and strains. Sold by all druggists, 35c, 70c, $1.40.

TETTERINE

Makes hair beautiful, free from dandruff, and keeps the scalp healthy.

60c at your druggist's or from the SHUP-TRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

Kindergarten Chairs, School Sunnlies. Blackboards.

SOUTHERN DESK CO., Hickory, N. C.

197

Renew your subscription to the Gospei Advocate.

Special Honolulu Letter.

BY MAX LANGPAAP

This letter is sent as a special plea in the interests of the church of Christ in Honolulu. This work is not selfsupporting. It will be quite a while before it is. We look to the churches of Christ in America to assist us until that time when we can say: "It is enough; we can look after this work ourselves." God hasten that time. We want this church to grow so evenly and permanently that it will eventually graduate into self-support. Is not this Honolulu work just as much yours as ours? The church is the body of Christ. We are all members of that body. Therefore, what concerns any part of this body concerns all of the rest of it, too, whether congregations or individuals. So, under the circumstances, we feel justified in ever keeping before you the urgent needs of the work here, for in doing this we have the very best interests of the cause of Christ at heart. God forbid that any selfish motive should worm its way into this work. Help, because it is the work of Jesus Christ. Give all the glory to him.

We want to make a special plea on this occasion for a special effort to help us reduce the heavy burden of debt on the missionary home. As stated in another letter, we are practically living on borrowed money, as far as the house itself is concerned. We are paying out considerable sums every month in interest to those who have no interest in the work directly. not being members of the church of Christ. For all that, we are very thankful for their splendid help. But it is a logical conclusion that the church of Christ should have all this benefit itself; and this ought to be the case as soon as possible. Here a little. and there a little, will help clear up a source of much expense and worry, We need eleven bundred and twentyfive dollars by the first of February. We are daily offering prayers for God to bless us with freedom from these shackles. May we not look for fellowship from you for this worthy work? May the Lord bless you in helping us bless others.

We have good news to report from Honolulu Church. One precious soul baptized. We believe prospects of others obeying the gospel are good. We hope and pray and work to this end. The meeting on Sunday, November 20, was also an extra good meeting. We had a good class in the Moilili Schoolhouse in the afternoon, and later on in the evening had a splendid opportunity for preaching the gospel in our home. Slowly, but surely, the work advances and the good seed is being sown. It will always be a happy occasion for us to be able to report baptisms in this difficult field. Please do not forget that we ought to begin right now to secure a meetinghouse of our own. Property is increasing in value all the time. Our October expenses amounted to $195.03. Included in this amount is a dental bill and cost of some necessary clothes, amounting in all to $55.65. Our receipts for this same month were $100.12. I have started a garden, with which I hope to cut down our living expenses considerably. We must pay our bills when they come due. Will you be a partner in this good work? November here reminds me of March in California in that it is very windy and blustery, only the wind is not cold. It never gets cold here, but it certainly rains. Help Brother Gibbs to get off to Africa. Pray for us and with us that the cause of Jesus Christ may advance steadily. We need your help, and we are praying to God to move you to help us. Our address is 3557 Kaimuki Avenue, Honolulu, T. H.

Neutralizes Uric Acid.

Rheumatism is caused by uric acid in the blood. In order to be cured of rheumatism, it is necessary to neutralize this acid. RENWAR is a scientific combination of salts prepared to neutralize the uric acid in the blood. There is nothing in Renwar to injure the stomach or affect the heart. It acts solely upon uric acid, completely eliminating it from the blood and thereby relieving your rheumatism. It is harmless, but effective. Positively guaranteed by money-back offer. It is a Godsend to sufferers from rheumatism, renwar also corrects constipation. Mr. J. M. Willis, of the Nashville Railway and Light Company, says: "I must say that Renwar far surpassed my expectations, for it gave me almost immediate relief. Too much cannot be spoken in behalf of Renwar for rheumatism." Sold by druggists (price, 50 cents) or by mail from WARNER DRUG COMPANY, NASHVILLE, TENN.

Antiseptic Analgosic Antiphlogistic

(Prevents Infection) (Relieves Pain) (Allays Inflammation)

Oil Eucalyptus Globulus

Oil Peppermint
Oil Pinus Silvestris
Oil Wintergreen
Menthol Gum Camphor

Thoroughly mixed in proper ratio and sequence and at proper te with refined Petrolatum base. temperature.

with refined Petrolatum base.

Eucapine Salve is rapidly becoming a household necessity. It is in constant use as a preventative of diseases of the air passages, and as a dependable curative agent in ordinary inflammatory conditions. Try it for nose sores, catarrh, catarrhal headaches, cuts, sores, bruises. Splendid for sore feet. Will not blister. Full sized jar free to physicians with quantitative formula if desired. 50c the 2 oz. jar. Ask your druggist: or by mail from mail from

Piedmont Laboratories, Inc., Clinton, S. C.

Among the Colored Folks

M. Keeble's Report.

On November 16 I closed an eightdays' meeting at Sugar Grove, Ky., which resulted in two precious souls obeying the gospel and the church encouraged to be more faithful. These are fine people. The white people attended well. One white brother made some encouraging remarks one night during the meeting, and his words will never be forgotten by us.

On the third Lord's day in November I preached at Henderson, Tenn., to a large crowd; and I remained one week, encouraging them in their work, While here the white brethren told me of one of the young white preachers who is attending the Freed-Hardeman College, who went into the jail and preached to the prisoners, and four made the confession, and he baptized them the same day. All of them were negroes. This shows the influence that this college has on these young men, and I pray that such men as Hardeman and Freed may live long on the earth

On the fourth Lord's day in November I was with the congregation at Capleville, Tenn., and remained there three days. Interest good, These people have done much to encourage me in my work.

On November 30 I was at Newbern, Tenn., and spent three days, with a large crowd each night. I was glad to find them faithfully serving the Lord.

On the first Lord's day in December I was with the church at Obion, Tenn., and preached day and night to an interesting crowd of people. Although they are few in number, they are willing workers for the Lord.

Recently a group of white brethren in Nashville supported Brother Will Cullum in a meeting at the Jackson Street church of Christ (colored). This meeting continued about three weeks, with good interest throughout, In passing through, I was blessed with the privilege of being in the services, and Brother Cullum preached a powerful sermon, and I believe all were benefited. The Jackson Street Church has received several setbacks in the last few years, but we all believe his being with us has strengthened us and made the outlook bright for the future. A good many white brethren and sisters attended and seemed much pleased with our services. Although we are poor in this world's goods, we wanted to show our willingness to help support a man like Brother Cullum, so the church raised a small contribution and gave it to him. Thank God for the brethren that sent Brother Cullum

As this year is very near its close, I have begun to sum up my work. 1 have held fourteen meetings, baptized one hundred and forty, and restored fifty-nine. Of the number that were baptized, eleven were preachers. I have also started three missions. In six meetings I was supported by the white brethren and sisters. At Birmingham and Albany, Ala., and Martin, Tenn., the white churches put the negro mission work on their program for the year, and I would be glad if other churches would remember my race in arranging for 1922 work. All of these churches were pleased with the results and engaged me for another year. The white church at Murray, Ky., was highly pleased and want me there thirty days next year. I am thankful to the brethren, white and colored, who have assisted me in my work, and I pray that I may do a greater work for the Master next year. As the holidays draw near, I would appreciate being remembered by any one who wishes to encourage and assist one who is giving all of his time to preaching the gospel of Jesus Christ, My address is 1013 Jefferson Street, Nashville, Tenn. M. KEERLE.

Pile Sufferers

on't Be Cut—Until You Try This New Home Cure that Any One Can Use without Discomfort or Loss of Time. Simply Chew Up a Pleasant-Tasting Tablet Occasionally and Rid Yourself of Piles. Don't Be Cut-

Let Me Prove This Free.

My internal method for the treatment and permanent relief of piles is the correct one. Thousands upon thousands of grateful letters testify to this, and I want you to try this method at my expense.

No matter whether your case is of long standing or recent development, whether it is chronic or acute, whether it is occasional or permanent, you should send for this free trial treatment.

No matter where you live, no matter what your age or occupation, if you are troubled with piles, my method will relieve you promptly.

I especially want to send it to those apparently hopeless cases where all forms of ointments, salves, and other local applica-

I especially want to send it to those apparently hopeless cases where all forms of ointments, salves, and other local applications have faled.

I want you to realize that my method of treating piles is the one most dependable treatment.

This liberal offer of free treatment is too important for you to neglect a single day. Write now. Send no money. Simply mail the coupon, but do this now, TO-DAY.

Free Pile Remedy.

E. R. Page.

430-H Page Bldg., Marshall, Mich. Please send free trial of your method to are quickly relieved by CAPUDINE. It's liquid—agreeable to the stomach produces satisfactory Standard for Headache and Grip also. 10c, 30, and 60c-TRY IT-LIKE IT.

We have them in pretty Christmas boxes

PRICED FROM $2.50 UP

Add 5% extra for War Tax

IF CLIP-CAP IS WANTED, ADD 25 CENTS EXTRA

McQuiddy Printing Company

NASHVILLE, TENNESSEE

Hot Springs Waters Wonderfully Successful in the Treatment of Rheumatism

The peculiar properties of the waters of the Hot Springs of Arkansas are due to radio activity, found in them to an exceptionally marked degree, and their equal has never been known in the treatment of rheumatism, and all uric-acid troubles. These springs are owned and controlled by the United States Government.

The cost of living at Hot Springs may be regulated to suit any purse, accommodations varying from moderatpriced boarding houses up to the most fashionable hosteiries.

Write for Our Handsomely Illustrated Hot Springs Book

The Way There is via the

Missouri Pacific

Low Rates Year Round

C. L. STONE P. T. M., St. Louis

FIELD REPORTS

Gallatin, Tenn., December 12.—The second Sunday in December was a beautiful day in Gallatin. We had the best attendance yesterday the congregation has had this year. Large crowds at the morning hour and at the evening hour. Fine attendance in the Sunday school.—T. B. Clark.

Ullin, Ill., December 10.—Our meeting here is fine. The "digressives" here are cleaning up and coming right. One Catholic girl from a Chicago Catholic school will be baptized to-morrow. I baptized a Missionary Baptist woman and girl. I will leave here for Mayflower, Ark., the first of January.—J. C. Mosley.

Covington, Ind., December 12.—We are having a good meeting here. Six have been baptized, all of them "the same hour of the night." Brother William Ellmore, whose home is here, spent a few days at home last week. I appreciated his help in the meeting. The church is cooperating nicely.—Earnest C. Love.

Columbus, Miss., December 13.— Last Lord's day we had with us Brother Frank Baker, of Berry, Ala., who preached at noon and at night two plain and instructive sermons to a small but attentive audience. The church seemed edified. We are encouraged to press onward and upward in the Lord's vineyard at this place.

—J. W. Howell.

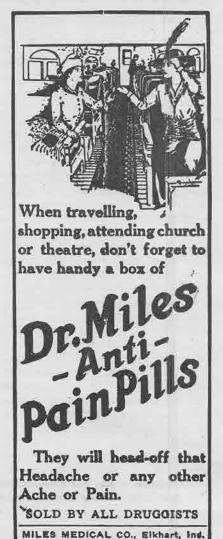

Springfield, Mo., December 7.—1 closed at Hutton Valley on November 13, with seven additions, and left thirty members working. They will construct a new building, and I will be with them in 1922. I closed at Mountain View on November 27, with ten additions and much good done otherwise. I will be with them again in 1922. They have thirty-five working members. I am now at Neosho in a good meeting.—M. S. Mason.

Athens, Ala., December 12.—I am still preaching and holding meetings in Northern Alabama. I am now here in Athens. On Saturday night and Lord's-day night I preached for the brethren, and Brother H. L. Kirby, of Albany, Ala., preached on Lord's-day morning. I will begin another meeting on Tuesday night at New Hope, Ala. I will begin a meeting in the town of Harris, ten miles south of Athens, on December 19. I cannot preach in all the places where the brethren want me.—William W. Still.

Albertville, Ala., December 13.—On last Friday night I preached to an appreciative audience near Big Springs, in Blount County. This was the first preaching ever done there, and the prospect for doing some good there is favorable. On Saturday night and Sunday following I preached in the home of Brother J. R. Ledbetter for a congregation that was started in a tent meeting that I held there last summer. They have met regularly ever since the meeting, and notwithstanding they have been weakened by members moving away, they are pressing faithfully on, and bid fair to develop into a strong congregation. They contemplate building a house as soon as money matters get easier. This place is also in Blount County, near Summit.—R. N. Moody.

Union, S. C., December 12,-Our work is moving along nicely. We had two fine audiences yesterday. Several new ones were present. Our contribu-tion yesterday was for our building fund, and amounted to more than fifty dollars. We thought this was doing very well for a new, poor congregation. I had twenty-six in my adult class. We usually have five services during the week; but when we complete the house so we will be free to give our entire attention to the spiritual side of the work, we will have more. We find cottage work is very effective. I am glad to report that our house is nearing completion. We have the outside about finished, and the plastering is being done on the inside this week. Brother Gibbs and I have been able to save several dollars by working on the job in doing anything that was to be done. We will lack about seven hundred dollars having enough to pay all bills when finished. This does not in-clude the seating.—Thomas H. Burton.

Fort Smith, Ark., December 12.—Yesterday was my last day with the Park Hill church of Christ. We had fine services and large attendance. I have labored with this church for three years. It is too much to say that my services were of universal satisfaction, but I can truthfully state that at least eighty-five per cent of the congregation were entirely satisfied with my feeble efforts, and it was with a degree of sadness that I resigned the work. More than twenty-five dollars was handed to me in addition to my salary the last day, besides a special "shower" and other gifts. May God ever bless and care for the good people of Park Hill Church. I will be with the Southside Church, in Beaumont, Texas, for six months. We are not "moving" to Beaumont, as the brethren there are to furnish us a furnished house; so the wife and children have agreed to go with me and "camp" with them for six months, at the end of which time we hope to be back in "good old Arkansas," for I have my home at Fort Smith, and, so far as I know, will continue to live there. My new address will be 393 Essex Street, Beaumont, Texas,—Will W. Slater.

Cuticura Soap Will Help You Clear Your Skin Soap, Oltment, Talcum, 26c. everywhere, Samples free of Outlears Laboratorise, Dayl, V. Maldon, Mass.

Denton, Texas, December 12.—Our meetings yesterday were interesting and enthusiastic. The attendance at all hours was most excellent. At the morning hour two came forward upon the invitation, one to identify himself with the local body and the other to make the confession and be baptized. We attended to the baptizing in the afternoon. We ask the prayers of all who love the Lord that the work in Denton may continue to grow and the children of God to multiply. We have had more than a hundred added since my coming to Denton, perhaps something like a hundred and fifty, and between seventy-five and one hundred of these were baptized. But there are so many others who might have been saved if all of God's people had worked faithfully together for his cause. May heaven bless the poor bleeding cause of our Master and grant that his people may yet come to themselves. What is needed, it seems to me, is that the workers become busy each in his own field, and keep busy at trying to keep down the weeds that, as it appears to me, are growing head-tall everywhere to-day. There will then be no time to try to manage the affairs of others; but it is just as true to-day as when my father told it to me years agoan idle mind, or brain, is the devil's workshop. May God help us to till each his field, and the church and the world will be a thousand times better. -R. D. Smith.

Report of Work for 1921.

BY R. N. MOODY.

This has been the busiest year of my life, and a very successful one. The first protracted work was in Anniston, where I continued for one week a meeting that Brother Woodroof had carried on for a week. My next meeting was a tent meeting in Boaz, continuing two weeks, with five baptisms and a new congregation started. The next was a mission meeting at Diamond, continuing two weeks, with five baptisms. The next was at Acton. Tenn., beginning on the third Sunday in July and continuing two weeks, with twelve additions. The next was at Ephesus, in Limestone County, Ala., beginning on the fifth Sunday in July and continuing one week, with four baptisms. Next at Bethel, Limestone County, beginning on the first Sunday in August and continuing two weeks, with five additions. Next at Delrose, Tenn., two weeks, with no additions. The next was a mission meeting at Berea, in Cherokee County, Ala., where there was once a strong congregation, but by deaths and removals it has been reduced to a mission point. There were four baptisms, of material that bids fair to revive the congregation. My next meeting was a tent meeting in Blount County. There were nine additions; and adding to these the five at Diamond makes fourteen, besides seven members already in the community. They are keeping up the Lord's-day worship and have the foundation for a good congregation. I next went to Honeycomb Valley and preached a week, with four baptisms. My next work was a four-weeks' Bible school, beginning on November 5, which was more mission work.

It will be seen that I spent about three months in mission work, for which I received about one hundred and thirty-five dollars, less railroad fare; but that seems to be the only solution of the mission question. Let the preacher go at his own initiative and do the work for what he can get, while the congregations in his community call in a transient man to hold their annual meeting (or entertainment) and pay him more for a twoweeks' meeting than they pay the home preacher for a year's work, seems to be the order of the day with many churches.

Such work is not sought by many preachers, and such preachers are not sought by many churches. They seem to prefer the man who travels far and near, and who, always preaching under favorable circumstances, can always make a good report, when often they are not as good preachers as the home man. But so it is.

This year I passed the seventieth milepost on the journey of life, and wife and I passed our golden-wedding day. So the most of the battle of life is behind me, and I will soon cross "over the river" and know just how it will go with me. Notwithstanding the frosts of seventy winters have whitened my few remaining locks, I still feel young and can hardly make myself realize that I am growing old. I am praying and hoping to be spared a few more years to work in the vineyard of the Lord, and that he will not call me hence as long as I can do any good here.

MEQUIDDY PRINTING CO.

	ENGRAVED VISITING CARDS	PLATE AND 100 CARDS
		One	Extra Lines
1	Mrs. Morris E. Barr		$1,50
2	Miss Virginia Haley	5,25	2.75
3	Miss Ruth Heath	3,25	1.50
4	Miss Emma R. Leathers	3.25	1.50
5	Miss Almyra Reams	3.75	2.00
6	Mrs. Carey N. Posegate	5.25	2.75
7	21Jrs. Edward Glonn Walter	3.75	2.00
8	Mrs. Telen Simpson Cooper	5.25	2.75
9	Miss Flizabeth Barthell	3.75	2.00
10	Miss Kathleen Daughan	5,25	2.75
11	Mrs. Justin Potter	5.25	2.75
12	MR. JOHN T. CAMPBELL	4.25	2.25
13	MR. FRANK B. EMMERLING	5.50	3.00
14	Miss Hester E. Bratten	5.50	3.00
15	MR. JACK SWANEY	3.75	2.00
16	MR. WILLIAM A. HUDSON	4.25	2,25
100 C 100 I 30 3 100 3 Erasi On charg	ards reprinted from plate	with ac

CHARACTER

THE MAKING OF THE MAN

SUPREMELY ELOQUENT

DELIGHTFULLY INSTRUCTIVE

By E. W. CARMACK

AGENTS WANTED SHOULD BE READ BY EVERYBODY

The verdict of the thousands who have read the book is: "No lecture extant is more interesting, charming, and philosophical. It is a classic and easily ranks with the best productions of modern authors. A million copies should be sold." Thousands of copies have been sold in a few days. It is beautifully bound in sheep ooze, or library binding. Write at once to the publishers.

PRICE, $1.50 THE COPY

ADDRESS

McQUIDDY PRINTING CO.

Department

NASHVILLE

TENN

TETTERINE

Clears Baby's Skin

and drives off the rash and pimples. Harm-less, Soothing, Fragrant.

60c at your druggist's or from the SHUP-TRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

FRECKLES

Now Is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots.

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling ashamed of your freekles, as Offline—double strength—Is guaranteed to remove these homely spots.

Simply get an ounce of Offline—double strength—from your druggist, and apply a little of it night and morning and you should soon see that even the worst freekles have begun to disappear, while the lighter mes have vanished entirely. It is seldem that more than one ounce is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a beautiful clear complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength Othine as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it falls to remove freekles.

First and Second Adam. No. 2.

BY J. J. VANHOUTIN.

The second Adam will have a divine law by which the righteous will be judged and saved. The word of God is the seed of the kingdom, and the spiritual ideas in the word become the spiritual germ to eternal life. The first sin was brought about through words, and in those words were ideas, and those ideas became the germ of sin, and as they were sown into the heart they grew up into disobedience. The case was about this way: There was a preacher called "Satan," also called "Serpent." He began his evil work by preaching a false theory; so then and there a falsehood was preached, a falsehood was believed, a falsehood was obeyed; this brought sin, which severed the relationship between Adam and his Creator, and the result was death. Now, in order to counteract this sad affair, Ged has ordained that the truth should be preached, the truth should be believed, the truth should be obeyed; then sin will be canceled, or remitted, and life will be the result. When the truth is preached, the seed is being sown; faith produces obedience, which is the growing of the spiritual germ in the word, and that growth is the Christian man or woman, whose obedience severed their relationship from the first earthly Adam and brought them into covenant relationship with the spiritual Adam, and they are partakers of the spiritual life which the second Adam gives; and that spiritual life must have spiritual food; and by that spiritual food, called the "Bread of Life," the soul-spirit part of that Christian is nourished, fed, cultivated, kept, guarded, guided, and protected, and by good works, kind acts, and a Godlike life they work out their own salvation. Before the advent of Jesus (as some say) twenty-five false Christs had arisen. Jesus said of them that they were "thieves and robbers." Christ was the first and only Prophet and Teacher that ever based the blessings of his mission and teaching upon his own death and resurrection; and by demonstration he answered the greatest of all questions, which was: "If a man die, shall he live again?" The last or second Adam went into the dominion of Satan, who is now commonly called the "devil," and overpowered him, and took from him the keys of death and the grave, and will eventually come and unlock the portals of death and set the captives free. What was lost by the first Adam's sin will be restored by the second Adam's righteousness. Then, if men have lost heaven, it will be their own fault, by not receiving the spiritual germ in the word seed; or if they ever did, they failed to cultivate the truth by feasting upon the "Bread of Life." "But if the Spirit of him that raised up Jesus from the dead dwell in you, he that raised up Christ from the dead shall also quicken your mortal bodies by his Spirit that dwelleth in you." (Rom. 8: 11.)

The Passing of a Beautiful Life.

The little town of Hazel, Ky., the church, and the community, all are sad at the passing of this earthly life of Brother David Denson Swor. Brother Swor was one of their brightest and most beloved sons. He became a Christian early in life. He spent his days here in getting ready to live. He was a student several sessions in the Freed-Hardeman College. He loved to tell the old, ever-new story of a Savior's redeeming love. He suffered long, but never complained. His faith grew stronger and hope brighter as he neared the river.

Brother Swor was born on January 13, 1898, being twenty-three years and seven months of age when called hence, He was the eldest son of Brother and Sister Zol Swor

The wife, mother, father, sister, and brother are deprived of his earthly associations, yet they have the memory of a beautiful life to comfort, and the rich heritage of a life of faith in God to emulate. They "sorrow not, even as others which have no hope." "Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord." "For if we believe that Jesus died and rose again, even so them also which sleep in Jesus will God bring with him."

Brother John Taylor and Brother Coleman Overby spoke words of comfort to a large gathering of friends and sorrowing ones at his burial.

A friend, brother, and old teacher,

A. G. FREED.

TREMENDOUS VALUE FOR 15c.

The Pathfinder, Leading Weekly Magazine of Nation's Capital, Makes Remarkably Attractive Offer.

Washington, D. C., Special -- People in every section of the country are hurrying to take advantage of the Pathfinder's wonderful offer to send that splendid illustrated review of the whole world thirteen weeks for 15 cents. It costs the editor a lot of money to do this; but he says it pays to invest in new friends, and, in spite of the high cost of his enlarged and greatly improved paper, he makes this rare offer to bring his circulation up to 400,000 a week. You will like this paper. It is twenty-nine years old and now better than ever. Splendid stories and rare miscellany. Question Box answers all your questions. Only 15 cents, malled at once to Pathfinder, 93 Langdon Sta., Washington, D. C., will keep your whole family informed, entertained, helped, and inspired.

IS CURABLE. Write me to-day and I will send you a free trial of my mild, soothing guaranteed treatment that will prove it. Stops the itching and heals permanently. DR. CANNADAY, 1225 Park Sq., Sedalia, Mo.

Tant-Clark Debate.

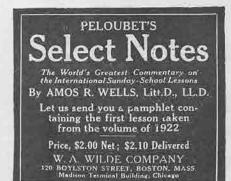

BY J. W. DUNN.

Beginning on December 6 and continuing for four days Brother J. D. Tant and J. R. Clark (Baptist) discussed the differences in origin and practice of the church of Christ and the Missionary Baptist Church, eight miles south of Dyersburg, Tenn. The crowds were larger than the accommodations. Mr. Clark is an experienced debater. He seems, however, to have developed a peculiar bitterness toward the church of Christ. His forte is in sophistry and ridicule. He is one of the bitterest men I have ever heard. This course incurred for him disfavor even among some of the Baptist people. I have never seen a man kinder and more considerate than Brother Tant. I have known Brother Tant since I was a lad, but I had never heard him in a religious discussion, and I seized this opportunity with peculiar pleasure. It is difficult to be and do just what we should under such scurrilous attacks as came from Mr. Clark; but if all of us will pursue Brother Tant's course in this debate, the cause of truth will never suffer, but many friends be won. Brother Tant's brethren were well pleased, but this is more than I can say for Mr. Clark and his people. The men are uneven from every angle. Brother Tant is the only man I ever moderated for that gave me no occasion to speak. not even telling him when his time expired. The crowds were very orderly and well behaved.

Aches and Pains of rheumatism are not permanently, but only temporarily, relieved by external remedies. Why not use an internal remedy—Hood's Sarsaparilla—which corrects the acidity of the blood, on which rheumatism depends, and cures the disease?

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

FEATHER BED OUTFIT

NOW ONLY $12.50 Send us $12.50 and express office and we will send you one 30-3h. New Feather Bed, One Pair 6-3h. New Feather Pillows, and One Pair full size Bed Blankets or Bed Spread. All new, clean, sanitary feathers, best bargains you ever saw. About half store price. Moneyback guarantee. Mail Money Orier today. Catalogue free. Southern Feather & Pillow Co., Dept. P., Greenshore, N. C.

$3 VALUE GIVEN AWAY

By special arrangement with one of the leading Eastern manufacturers, we are able to offer our readers a real bargain in the

"CAPITOL" LEVER SELF-FILLING FOUNTAIN PEN

SOME OF ITS FINE POINTS

GOLD PENS are 14 K. gold, spring tempered with special care, pointed with hard iridium. These pens have been famous for more than half a century.

CLIP is riveted to the cap, and prevents loss of pen from the pocket.

HOLDERS are made of the best quality hard rubber, and are not injured by the ink.

Lever or filling device is riveted to the barrel; when raised for filling the pen, pushes the pressure bar and the sac, filling the pen full, clean and quick.

The retail selling price of the pen is three dollars, but to every reader who sends a new subscriber at the regular subscription price of $2.00 and adds one dollar we will send this pen as a mark of our appreciation. We will send it free to any one who sends us two new subscribers.

Please understand that the offer does not apply to renewals. It is made as a special inducement to get new subscribers.

Order early and avoid disappointment.

ADDRESS

GOSPEL ADVOCATE

317-319 Fifth Avenue, North

NASHVILLE, TENN.

Let Us Rise to Higher Ground.

BY JOHN T. HALL.

The effort to write logically and to the interest of all is no child's play. By the diligent work of the members, the church of Christ at Jackson, Tenn., has been in a good working condition for many years, and no one individual should have all the honor for this prosperity. In the Revolutionary War, Washington was greatly honored as the leader for gaining our independence, while many others were just as diligent and faithful and did their important part in the play. Neither here nor anywhere else can the church prosper without cooperation and harmonious efforts. It is a task upon the part of some folks to avoid self-importance. The minister and other leaders should feel humble, have a Christlike spirit, and fully realize that it takes the means and efforts of each and every one for a church to be just what it could and ought to be. There are two extremes in the church to-day-the lover of money and seeker for popularity and the other fellow who is careless and indifferent and does nothing. The irreligious are not all fools. The one who claims to be a humble follower of the lowly Nazarene is watched day in and day out. By our fruits and daily walk and conversation we are known. There is real Christianity, there is pure and undefiled religion. There is to-day too much neglect of the untaught, the poor, the unfortunate. Listen to the warning in the great Book: "He that knoweth his duty, and doeth it not, shall be beaten with many stripes." The command to one is binding upon all. We are taught that there will be a judgment day, and that the sentence will be passed upon all the self-righteous, deceivers, and hypocrites: "Depart from me, ye workers of iniquity; for I never knew you." Many fine sermons are preached to us and beautiful and consoling admonitions are given us by many who do not live up to what they preach, which causes indifference upon the part of many, and such is an impediment or a stumbling-stone in the way of the church.

To say that we are all imperfect and liable to err is no new thought to you, while there are some who are careless and indifferent. Some good people sometimes unintentionally say and do wrong and cause trouble and confusion and discord among the

IIRINE

Night and Morning. Have Strong, Healthy Eyes. If they Tire, Itch, OUR EYES Smart or Burn, if Sore, Irritated, Inflamed or Granulated, use Murine often. Soothes, Refreshes. Safe for Infant or Adult. At all Druggists. Write for Free Eye Book. Murine Eye Remedy Co., Chicago members. Some willfully and maliciously sin, and those who do ought to do as the apostle Peter-go out and weep bitterly. Remember the adage: "An honest confession is good for the soul." While we all make mistakes and do and say things which should never be said or done, such is our human weakness. While there are many who are faulty and bad, there are some who are good and true. If some in the fold in whom you have had implicit confidence should fall away, go wrong, and prove to be hypocritical wolves in sheep's clothing, do not let such destroy your confidence and zeal for the religion of the Lord Jesus Christ. There is and always has been troubles with which the church has had to contend. It makes it hard upon those who are carrying the burden of the church. Only try the harder to live an upright life, to be faithful, etc., that you may truthfully be said to be the salt of the earth and the light of the world. It is not the common, illiterate only that make mistakes; the educated, the eminent, occupying high positions in life, make them, too. Do not be too ready to believe every rumor you hear against a brother or sister; sometimes they are persecuted wrongfully. The great step to-day for one and all to take is, "Keep yourself unspotted from the world." Listen to the great admonition of the Savior himself: "What I say unto you I say unto all, Watch." The expression could as fitly be spoken and applied at this present time as it was over two thousand years ago, of the sin in high places. In this fast age of the twentieth century, Get money right or wrong, go to every worldly to-do you can, have a good time, is the go. If you obey both the divine and temporal laws, you know you are right and cannot be mistaken. When the eunuch obeyed the admonition of Philip, he went on his way rejoicing. If there ever was a time for common-sense talk and upright living, it is now. Be consoled by the divine admonition: "Be not weary in welldoing: for in due season you will reap, if you faint not."

The World's Best News.

The angel said unto them, Fear not: for, behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people. For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Savior, which is Christ the Lord .- Luke 2: 10, 11.

TREATED ONE WEEK FREE

Short breathing relieved in a few hours; swelling reduced in a few hours; swelling reduced in a few days; regulates the liver, kidneys, stomach, and heart; purifies the blood; strengthens the entire system.

Write for Free Trial Treatment.
COLLUM DROPSY REMEDY CO.,
Dept. E-43.

Atlanta, Ga.

McShane Bell Foundry Co. BALTIMORE, MD.
CHURCH, CHIME and PEAL
Memorials BELLS

STANDARD FOR 50 YEARS INTERSMITH'S CHILL TONIC Not Only For Chills, Fever and Malaria BUT A FINE GENERAL TONIC

A New and Real Help for Sunday-School Teachers and Students ELAM'S NOTES ON 1922 BIBLE LESSONS

Entire Year's Lessons and Comments in One Substantial Volume Handsome Cloth Binding-Over 300 Pages

E. A. Elam has written Quarterlies for Advanced, Intermediate, and Primary Classes for the last twenty-two years. His lessons have been used by schools and teachers in every State in the Union and many parts of Canada.

All who know of his past work need no further introduction to him or to the new book.

The permanent binding keeps the lessons in neat shape all the year, and then can be kept in library for future reference. Order one for each pupil, from the Intermediate Classes up. Count them and order enough.

The first cost is the only cost for the year.

PRICES—In lots of ten or more, 60c each, by express. (If sent by parcel post, add 5c per copy.) Single copies, postpaid, 30c each.

ORDER DIRECT FROM

E. A. ELAM, Editor, DAVID LIPSCOMB COLLEGE, Nashville, Tenn.

Volume LXIII. No. 52.

NASHVILLE, TENN., DECEMBER 29, 1921.

$2.50 PER YEAR, IN ADVANCE.

Best Wishes for Our Readers-1922

May the blessings of thy God wait upon thee, and the sun of glory shine upon thy head;

May the gates of plenty, honor, and happiness be always open to thee and thine.

May no strife disturb thy days, nor any sorrow distress thy nights:

And may the pillow of peace kiss thy cheek, and pleasures of imagination attend thy dreams.

And when length of years make thee tired of all earthly joys,

And the curtain of death gently closes around the scene of thy existence,

May the angels of God attend thee, and take care

That the expiring lamp of life does not receive one rude blast

To hasten its extinction.

And, finally, may the Savior's blood wash thee free from all impurities,

And permit thee to enter into the land of everlasting felicity.

Contents

CURRENT COMMENT 1265	We Are Facing Another New Year, 1275
OUR CONTRIBUTORS 1266	Appreciation of Brother F. W. Smith's Arti-
Is It a Command?—Endurance—Straining	cles-Comment on the Quarterlies-God's
Out Gnats—Give the Young Brethren Some-	People Are Separate
thing to Do-Disappointments Are Step-	QUERY DEPARTMENT 1279
ping Stones-Man's Ideas as to the Meaning	Wheat and Chaff-The Work in St. Louis of the Word "Church"-A Profitable In-	Mo
vestment—Why Not? -Four Definitions of	Gospel Trumpet Blasts 1282
Sin.	Among the Colored Folks 1283
EDITORIAL 1274	Ceasing to Learn Carnot War
Handling Aright the Word of Truth-	What a Picture!
The Condition in Which the Society Breth-	The Only Wey of Salvation
ren Find Themselves (No. 1).	Faith 1288

CURRENT COMMENT

By A. B. L.

Sins may be classified under the threefold division of the world, the flesh, and the devil. Those of the world are sins of society; those of the flesh are sins against the body; those of the devil are sins of the spirit. A man may be innocent of the sins of the world and the flesh and yet be under the influence and dominion of the devil. Paul's warning is not aimed at a bodily malady, but a spiritual one.

A person who sins in spirit is apt to be very religious in his make-up. Those who put Jesus to death were eminently religious. They kept themselves apart from the world. They were not given to licentiousness, drunkenness. theft, or lawlessness. Some of this guild were called the "bleeding Pharisees" because they went about blindfolded in order that they might not even see the world, and they were always bruising themselves in consequence. They were grave and serious churchmen whom nobody ever suggested as being guilty of frivolity. They fasted twice a week; they kept the moral law with almost painful precision. But they sinned nevertheless. Just so a man may be wearing the name of Christ, may be going to church with consistent regularity, may be giving to one good cause and another, may be temperate and entirely free from the lusts of the world, may occupy a high position among the brethren, and yet be sinning in his heart against God and his fellow man.

It is characteristic of such sinners that they are very respectable. The man who commits these sins is never obnoxious to the police. He is in no danger of being arrested. These are sins of motive; so that, while we may seem to be living aright because of conscience and the fear of God, we are really making a show of it because it is the conventional, or convenient, or prudent thing to do. Or they may be sins of thought; so that, while our words and actions are excellent, our hearts behind them are filled with envy, and malice, and uncharitable feeling. Absalom sits at the gate of the city; and when the people come with their troubles seeking for the king to help them, Absalom is heard to say: "O that I were made judge in the land, that every man who hath any suit or cause might come unto me, and I would do him justice!" A nice, pretty speech in itself. Nothing the matter with the action. But behind the honeyed speech there is the black heart of a revolting sen, In the kisses of a boastful man lies the sting of a traitor. So it was with Judas Iscariot, who kissed the Master; so it was with Ananias, who sold the land and brought only a part of the price to the apostles' feet; so it was with Simon the sorcerer, who asked for a miraculous gift of the Holy Spirit. What they did appeared to be all right, but it was all wrong. The evil was not in the action itself, but in the motive and in the thought behind it. Therefore, Peter said to Simon: "Repent therefore of this thy wickedness, and pray the Lord, if perhaps the thought of thy heart shall be forgiven thee."

Because the spirit is greater than the body and because mental culture is of more importance than physical culture, it necessarily follows that the temptation to sin in thought is the hardest and last to be overcome. There is a danger in which every man stands. It is the danger of sinning in his heart. So great a man as Peter succumbed to that when Paul withstood him to the face. And Paul himself stood in watchful fear of this constant danger, lest by any means, after having preached to others, he himself should be rejected.

The New Testament teaches that merely respectable people may be esteemed, respected, admired, and even courted in this world, and yet they will be damned in the other. Dives, who awcke in the other world in torment, was very likely a respectable citizen of this world. He doubtless lived in the handsomest house in town and by his gracious hospitality enriched the circle of his friends. The priest and the Levite who saw a wounded man on the Jericho road and passed by on the other side were on the way to church. The Pharisee who said, "God, I thank thee, that I am not as other men are," told the truth. He was not as many other men are. He was no extortioner, no adulterer. He attended divine services with amazing regularity and made his proper support to the religious institutions of his day. You will find a long, pious procession of such people on the pages of the Bible. They pass by with hands folded, praying and singing as they go; but they are going straight in the direction of the bottomless pit. After a while they will stand before God in the judgment, and harking back to their respectable lives, they will say: "Lord, Lord, we have preached in thy name, and in thy name we have cast out devils; we come before thee bringing our good records with us." But the righteous Judge will frown upon them and say: "I never knew you. I never heard a prayer you said: you did not pray to me. I never heard a sermon you preached: you did not preach to me." No, they preached and prayed and did their works of charity and public service for their own satisfaction and for the impression it would create upon the community. They had no religion. They had respectability in the place of it.

The trouble with respectability is that it is negative, conventional, formal, without a worthy purpose and without warmth of life. It is like a painted post. A crooked tree responds in some measure to the influences of the earth and air; it can grow and, perhaps, can be straightened. But the post stands as it is. The fire in the picture may be admirably laid and may seem to blaze over a hearth that is immaculately swept, but the real fire, for all of its ashes and disorder, is warm; it flashes and it flames; it burns high and low; it is alive. Jesus Christ was quick to recognize the difference. It was the difference between the Pharisee, morally correct, but cold and unresponsive, and the publican, who had an understanding of his shortcomings, knew that he was far from good, but honestly desired to do better. Two sinful characters are presented side by side in a house where Jesus went to dine. The host is a self-righteous man. He watches the woman who washes the feet of the Savior with her tears and wipes them with the hair of her head, and he himself stands ready to criticize and condemn, saying within himself: "This man, if he were a prophet, would have perceived who and what manner of woman" this sinner is. Yes, she was a sinner; no doubt about that. But the host was a sinner, too, and all of his vaunted respectability could not hide the light of his sin from the Master. 0 0 0

The Pharisees as a sect have long since passed from the earth, but Pharisaism is not dead by any means. It has crept into our hearts, and it constantly threatens to overthrow the goodness and efficacy of our religion. It is still a favorite snare of the devil to teach men and women that respectability is equivalent to righteousness.

The spirit of bluff and feigned respectability drag us down to hell. We see it in the man who flatters you to your face and censures you behind your back. We see it in the hatred, and strife, and willingness to believe evil that is common. We see it in the motto of the man who says: "All men are liars except you and me, and I have strong suspicions of you." We see it in the lives of those who go to church because it is the custom of the best people or because a "ge-to-Sunday-school campaign" is on. We see it in the actions of people who are content to "join the church" that is most popular in the town where they live. We see it in the desire of a man to become an elder or a deacon because it will help him in his business. We see it in the contribution of a man who gives only because he is asked to give or because it helps his business.

I have never been to such a function, but I am told by those who have attended a mask ball that for the greater part of the time the dancers wear their masks, and while wearing them they dance and laugh and flirt outrageously. But late in the evening the master of ceremonies cries, " Unmask!" And then they all come off. If Jesus were here to-day, I believe he would say to a great many professing Christians, "Why feignest thou to be another?" Don't wait for death to unmask you. Don't wait until you reach the border line between time and eternity! But un mask! Unmask! Tear away the gauze of self-complacency and respectability that beclouds your eyes and let the world see who you really are. It may embarrass you at first, but it will save you at the last. Are you not sick and tired of pretense and hypocrisy? Don't you long for something truer and nobler and grander than merely makebelieve? Would you not be wholesome and genuine and true? Are you not ready to say, with the great apostle Paul: "By the grace of God I am what I am?" Are you not ready to pray, with David: "Search me, O God, and know my heart; try me, and know my thoughts, and see if there be any wicked way in me, and lead me in the way everlasting?"

A bit of poetry or a verse of Scripture learned while dressing in the morning; a few foreign words or phrases conned on the way to work or between tasks; a great book read in snatches while waiting for meals; a dip into noble literature at bedtime; a studious effort to secure contact with some nobler person than one's self every day—by such simple plans as these life is enriched.—Selected.

MATTHEW HENRY'S COMMENTARY FOR OUR READERS

The greatest preachers of the past two centuries attribute much of their inspiration and usefulness to Matthew Henry's Commentary on the whole Bible. Born in the seventeenth century, his name and his work still live and are household words. Thousands of homes treasure this commentary second only to the Bible, and many a man traces his right start to the loving advice and homely counsel of Matthew Henry.

Charles H. Spurgeon said: "Every minister ought to read Matthew Henry entirely and carefully through once at least. He will acquire a vast store of sermons: and as for thoughts, they will swarm around him like twittering sparrows around an old gable toward the close of autumn." Dr. Philip Schaff, compiler of Schaff's Bible Dictionary, pronounces it "the best practical and devotional commentary for English readers." Here you will find a mine of expository knowledge and a complete preachers' commentary.

The management of the Gospel Advocate is fortunate in securing twenty-five sets of this unrivaled commentary, which will be sent as a premium to every reader who will send twenty-five new subscribers at the regular subscription price of $2 per year. This is undoubtedly the most attractive commentary offer ever made. You will receive six portable volumes of twelve hundred pages each, large, clear, unbroken type, with substantial Roxborough binding, and will have the satisfaction of knowing that the work of the prince of commentators is in your library. If you wish to pay cash, the price for the six volumes is $17.50, not prepaid. When sent as a premium, we pay all charges.

PUBLISHERS GOSPEL ADVOCATE.

Is It a Command?

BY J. D. TANT.

I note with joy that Brother H. E. Garrett is sent out from a Georgia church to do mission work. It means this is an innovation among the churches of Christ and should be stopped at once, if we have no Bible authority for the same. It should be stopped, first, because it is an innovation in the church of Christ. Secondly, because it will put many located ministers out to doing scriptural work. Thirdly, it will put many elders who are at ease in Zion to work feeding the flock as God has ordained they should do. The church of Christ at Cleburne, Texas, is the only other church in all my knowledge that is doing like the Georgia church—putting an evangelist out all the time to do mission work.

Many years ago, in Texas, John T. Poe called for a list of names of all preachers who would hold one mission meeting during the year. More than one hundred answered that they would hold a mission meeting. The next year he called to know how many churches would hold a mission meeting, and only three churches out of our nine thousand congregations agreed to do so much.

All our congregations insist on that part of the commission that says one must be baptized to be saved, yet the same congregations forget that part in the commission that says, "Go ye into all the world." I can easily find five hundred churches "who have reversed the commission and instead of telling their preachers to go, say: "Come and locate with us and be our preacher this year."

I have had occasion to hold two mission meetings and one debate this year at my own charges, and now have another mission meeting at Quitman, Ark., my home, to hold soon at my charges. I know a number of congregations whose wealth runs from fifty thousand to five hundred thousand dollars, yet, to my knowledge, they have not held a mission meeting for ten years. It has been the practice in the West that more than seven-tenths of all the mission meetings are held by the sacrifice of the preachers. I am sure that preachers are partly to blame along this line.

We have fifteen or twenty preachers in Texas, who have become favorites among churches able to support them, and they are called for all the time for meetings, and we often hear them complain that they have more calls than they can fill, and some of them now have booked calls two years ahead; yet we have more than five hundred preachers in Texas, who are grand, godly men and able gospel preachers, who are continually stating that they have time to let and begging for work.

I have eight or ten calls before me now at different places, with only a few struggling members, begging for a gospel meeting in their part; but I am not able to hold these meetings at my charge, and no congregation feels called upon to do mission work to help support any man outside their located minister.

I hope all churches, as well as all preachers, will begin to remember that we are standing between "go" and "woe." Christ says "go," and Paul says "woe" if we do not preach the gospel.

In my travels this year I have found at many places that the "digressives" have gone to seed and are dying on account of their extreme innovations. I am also confident that many good men and women have been driven into the digressive ranks because they wanted to work and found no encouragement to work in the church of Christ.

In Tennessee, Arkansas, and Texas we have at least five bundred churches amply able to do like the church in Georgia and at Cleburne, Texas. Put some strong man out all the time, and five hundred preachers supported in mission work for five years can almost double our congregations and develop the eldership and make our old churches stronger. Preaching brethren, suppose we launch a campaign to do more mission teaching and get more churches in mission work than ever before. The church needs educating along that line.

Endurance.

BY GERTRUDE COCKEREEL,

"Although affliction cometh not forth of the dust, neither doth trouble spring out of the ground; yet man is born unto trouble, as the sparks fly upward." (Job 5: 6, 7.)

How true is this to the experience of life! But some of us remain engulfed in the trough of our troubles; while others are borne in triumph on their crest, and so reach their desired haven.

The problem of trouble has given rise to various cults that propose to dispel it through self-mastery, or through establishing self master of all situations. These have a subjective value, but surely should not be the objective of a child of God. There is too much seeking of salvation, of deliverance from life's ills, apart from Him—the Savior.

To each of us is presented a blank check, as children of God, and the limit imposed upon our drawing is: "If ye shall ask anything in my name, I will do it." (John 14: 14.)

Many a coveted possession is withheld that might be ours. Why? "Ye ask, and receive not, because ye ask amiss, that ye may consume it upon your lusts." (James 4: 3.)

How many of us suffer lack because we "ask not?" How many "have not" because the hands held out to clasp the gift are unclean, the motive impure! And, again, our lack of faith, or actual unbelief, may paralyze the Hand that holds the gift. "Therefore I say unto you, What things soever ye desire, when ye pray, believe that ye receive them, and ye shall have them." (Mark 11: 24.) And, yet again, a plea may be rejected on this ground: "If I regard iniquity in my heart, the Lord will not hear me." (Ps. 66: 18.)

But with all the vast blessings that our Father is ready to bestow upon his suppliant children, there usually remains "a thorn in the flesh," some residue of trouble. Why? "Earth is your school, not home." Here, if true to our "high calling of God in Christ Jesus" (Phil. 3: 14), our place is with him in his now-rejection—" without the camp, bearing his reproach" (Heb. 13: 13): "strangers and pilgrims on the earth" (Heb. 11: 13)—our inheritance yonder.

Can we expect better treatment from the world or professing Christians than that our Master himself received? (Matt. 10: 24.) And surely preparation is necessary for our inheritance on high for place there, all of grace, true, and by grace, "according as his divine power hath given unto us all things that pertain unto life and godliness, through the knowledge of him that hath called us to glory and virtue: whereby are given unto us exceeding great and precious promises: that by these ye might be partakers of the divine nature, having escaped the corruption that is in the world through lust." (2 Pet. 1: 3, 4.)

There is an education in the school of suffering such as we can get in none other: "Tribulation worketh patience; and patience, experience; and experience, hope: and hope maketh not ashamed: because the love of God is shed abroad in our hearts by the Holy Ghost which is given unto us." (Rom. 5: 3-5.) In view, then, of the salutary effects of "tribulations," the apostles could say this: "We . . .

rejoice in hope of the glory of God. And not only so, but we glory in tribulations also." Alas! that we know so little of this "glory."

We are not here to seek out pleasant pastures for ourselves, "soft places." No, the mandate has gone forth: "Endure hardness, as a good soldier of Jesus Christ." And to make sure the position, "no man that warreth entangleth himself with the affairs of this life; that he may please him who hath chosen him to be a soldier." (2 Tim, 2: 4.) And the time of suffering will not be unduly prolonged: "Weeping may endure for a night, but joy cometh in the (Ps. 30: 5.) Instead of the sad refrain, "I morning ' cannot be." "I cannot do," let us rather say in triumphant faith: "I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me." (Phil. 4: 12.) "I can bear this trial so long as my Father wills I should," And what a witness is ours if, in and through our trials, we manifest his saving and his keeping power! And how bright the prospect before the child of God! Surely, then, we can afford to wait patiently his time of deliverance.

And, then, how light our afflictions compared with what Christ endured for us—the "contradiction of sinners against himself;" a crucifixion that only culminated in the crucifixion, when he could declare of his earthly ministry, "It is finished."

And we are let into the secret of his endurance: "Who for the joy that was set before him endured the cross, despising the shame." "Consider him," is now the exhortation to the tried child of God, and what he bore, "lest ye be wearied and faint in your minds." And then we are bidden to consider the love manifested in our "chastening," its proof of sonship, and to "be in subjection unto the Father of spirits, and live." (Heb. 12: 2-9.)

And, beloved sufferer, as you and I are taken up with Him in his sufferings and his joy, in the faith that makes us subject to his will, in what we may be called upon to endure in "the fellowship of his sufferings" (Phil. 3: 10), we shall be strong to endure, "looking unto Jesus the author and finisher of our faith," our now soon-coming Lord.

Straining Out Gnats.

BY W. N. ABERNATHY.

"Ye blind guides, that strain out the gnat, and swallow the camel!" (Matt. 23: 24.) This is the language of our Savior while in the temple during his last visit to Jerusalem. It is one of his bitter denunciations of the scribes and Pharisees for their pertinacious adherence to the law while ignoring its true import. Bear in mind that Jesus instructed his disciples to observe their teaching, but to beware of their works. (Matt. 23: 1-3.)

I believe that some good brethren are unconsciously manifesting this form of Pharisaism to-day as a result of man's proneness to take one extreme while opposing another. As Brother Lipscomb used to say, some in opposing the sects become sectarians themselves. In opposing the humanly devised methods of the sects, they have formed the habit of demanding a "Thus saith the Lord" for every expedient that may be devised for carrying out the commands which God has given. They fail to observe that when God gives a command, all necessary expedients are included. When God said, "Go, teach all nations," everything necessary to do the teaching was included, and any expedient that does not violate some principle or command of the New Testament is lawful; and some things that are lawful may not be expedient. (1 Cor. 6: 12.) It was lawful for Paul to have a wife, but he says that it was not expedient.

Now let me get back to the subject of teaching. When Christ said to go teach all nations, he did not say anything about building ships, constructing railroads, organizing Bible societies, establishing schools, or any of the numerous expedients that have been employed to honor God and save man. I seldom visit a congregation in which there are not one or more members who oppose the use of the literature on the grounds that it is man's work. These same brethren will bring to the assembly Bibles that have been translated by man, contain references arranged by man, and to which have been appended a concordance and a Bible Dictionary, all as much man-made as the Quarterly, and insist on every man, woman, and child, regardless of mental ability or literary attainments, using it and accepting their comments on the same. These brethren do not realize that their comments are as much literature as those in the Quarterly.

I have just been in correspondence with a good, conscientious brother who objects to Bible schools on the ground that they supplant the church in teaching the Bible If this claim is true, his objection is well founded; but, as I see it, the claim is not true. I tried to get him to see that the school sustains the same relation to teaching the gospel that the wine press does to eating the Lord's Supper. In order to obey the command to eat the Lord's Supper. It is necessary that some person or company of persons engage in making the wine. We are nowhere commanded to make wine, but the command to eat the Supper makes it expedient that we do so. If all of our schools were done away, it would be about as difficult to teach the Bible as it would to take the Supper if the wine press were done away. The fact that corruption gets into these schools is no more an argument against them than the adulteration of the wine is an argument against the wine press.

After all, these conservative brethren may serve as brakes to prevent the building up of ecclesiasticisms and the establishment of customs that are not warranted by the Book divine. Let us read, meditate, and pray, before we accept that which is doubtful.

Give the Young Brethren Something to Do.

BY C. R. LAWS.

Why is it that we see so many aged brethren who, if called on to take part in the service of God, look horrified and refuse? Is it that they do not mean to serve God in spirit and in truth, or is it that they have done as the unprofitable servant of the parable-gone and buried their talent instead of using it for the service of their Master? Whose fault is it that they have buried their talent? The greater part of the time it is the fault of the congregation, Many times they fail to encourage as they should. The elders are afraid to trust any work in the hands of the younger brethren; won't even ask a younger brother to make a short talk at prayer meeting. And these young Christians continue to wait for an opportunity until their heads are flaked with the frost of many winters; and if called on then, they are afraid to trust themselves. they had had the privilege and the proper encouragement in their youth, they probably would have been much more faithful servants of God and a greater benefit to their fellow man. Why not insist that they use their talents in the service of God before the rust doth corrupt?

I have known two congregations that impressed me greatly because of the vast difference between them. In the first, on each Lord's day an aged brother carried on the entire service himself, never even calling on one of the elder brethren for anything; and this continued until the interest died and few met there. All the younger brethren went from place to place, and some finally failed to go any where, and thus drifted into worldly things, when, if they had been encouraged as they should have been, they possibly would have made valiant soldiers in the army of the Lord. In the other congregation all took part, from the youngest to the eldest brother; also each Sunday night they had prayer meeting to train the younger in the work of the Lord. Each Lord's day the house was full, and a greater spirit I have never seen than was manifested throughout the whole community. Even the youngest brother took great interest in the work of the Lord both at home and abroad.

Brethren, in youth is the time to train boys even as it is trees. As the bush may be bent, but the tree cannot be; even so the boy may be bent, but the man cannot be. Then why not train the babes in Christ to be useful in the service of God, as they tread his footstool?

I have known boys that were willing and anxious to become stronger and to develop in the service of their Master, but were held back from the opportunity by some brother who was afraid to trust a boy in the work of the Lord. And for the lack of encouragement the boy would begin to drift away, and then this good brother would say: "I told you how it would be. I just felt like he would not hold out faithful." Brethren, that one statement has sent many a man to hell, and before God who is responsible?

Then why not put forth a helping hand and speak some words of encouragement and give them every opportunity to develop their talents? May God bless the prayer meetings carried on to encourage the faint-hearted and the babes in Christ, that they may grow in the knowledge of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ and go forth to do much good while God permits them to walk among men on earth.

Disappointments Are Stepping-Stones.

BY JOSIE KITTRELL KIRK.

Paul says: "Our light affliction, which is but for a moment, worketh for us a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory."

Could this passage possibly support the idea that we should crouch under disappointment when our ambitions are thwarted, and allow it to embitter us or drive us from our aim?

No, let the disappointment be a step toward a better understanding of conditions and a greater yearning and determination to accomplish, mastering the obstacles, many or few, that present themselves.

Let us remember that in one sense we are alone in the world. Each is the master of his own fate, and in the great University of Experience is where the finer texture of our being is woven.

Do not nourish the disappointment long enough to seek sympathy from friends; but crush it, make it the fertile ground to yield a hundredfold of realized ideals.

God, in breathing into man's nostrils the breath of existence, also breathed the breath of understanding, the breath of aim and purpose, the breath of appreciation and longing. But with it all, he knew in the frame of dust the sweet would loose its sweetness were it not in companionship with the bitter, the gaining would grow tiresome unmolested by hindrances, the sunshine of pleasantries would become dull with no intermingling with the shadows of disappointment.

So little time should be spent on the plane with nurtured regret, for the current of discouragement cannot become so strong and the waves of disappointment cannot dash so wide but that if we cling to faith in our possibilities we will reach the accomplishment of our aims. And not only a realization of the things of to-day, but with firm footing we may follow our unerring Guide, who, too, had the bindrances, on to endless glory in the love-lit Somewhere, where our souls will then be prepared and our bodies designed to live free from the bitter, the shadows, and the disappointments.

For the word of God is quick, and powerful, and sharper than any two-edged sword, piercing even to the dividing asunder of soul and spirit, and of the joints and marrow, and is a discerner of the thoughts and intents of the heart.—Heb. 4: 12.

Men's Ideas as to the Meaning of the Word "Church." BY LEE JACKSON.

Questions have been addressed to me calling for a statement of my ideas as to the "church" of Christ as his body really is. While some of these questions embrace more than can be properly considered in a brief article, yet, for the sake of our plea for a unity of understanding in the knowledge of Bible teaching, so far as such unity is practically possible, I will contribute my effort toward settling some of the problems which these questions present. I will preface my statements by saying that I seek no controversy with any one who may differ from me in his understanding of issues involved in this question as to what the word "church" means in its New Testament usage. All that any of us should want to gain by our investigations is a better knowledge of what the Bible teaches, and this in order that, as sincere servants of the Lord, we may attend to our duties of worship and service with as little friction among ourselves as possible. For thirty years or more I have humbly made a specialty of this line of study, being first led into my present understanding of the matter by our own lamented Brother David Lipscomb, who wrote at about the time I refer to: "There is not the shadow of any universal church in the New Testament, nor is there the representation of a tangible church-one that may be reached and associated with-save the local church." Quoting, "Upon this rock I will build my church." Brother Lipscomb further says: "This is regarded as applicable to the universal church, but it can be so only by being the foundation on which every local church is builded; for there is no manifestation of a universal church in the Bible, save in the local." After reading this teaching of Brother Lipscomb, I began anew my study of the subject of the "church," and in doing so I have made use of all sources of information within my reach.

1. The word "church" is in our Authorized Version of the New Testament by virtue of the ruling of King James, of England, under whose direction the version of 1611 was made. The ruling bishop in the church of England at that time was Richard Bancroft, who was strongly prejudiced against the work of giving to the common people any version of the Bible which did not retain the old "ecclesiastical words" that had been in use by the Roman Catholic clergy for long centuries. Of course such "ecclesiastical" words had acquired a fixed meaning through usage by the Roman Catholic hierarchy. Under the influence and direction of Bancroft, King James imposed upon his selected translators fifteen rules by which they were to be governed in preparing the Version which he was to authorize for public reading. The third of these rules reads: "The old ecclesiastical words to be retained, as the word 'church' not to be translated 'congregation,' etc." Among these "ecclesiastical" words to be retained under this rule are such terms as "ordain," in its official application, "bishop," "church," and other technical terms. Wickliffe, in 1380, Tindale in 1534, and Crammer in 1539, had given preference to the word "congregation" as the proper rendering of the word ekkleesia; and all of the Puritan reformers of that time were likewise contending for "congregation" as the correct translation; and so the clergy of the established state church were very much afraid of the influence of this simplicity in translation. They wanted to hold on to the forms of speech that would aid them in sustaining their ecclesiastical polity. And so, as the result of the weight of this ecclesiastical authority over the King James translators, the word "church" instead of the word "congregation" found its way into our English Version of the New

2. The claim of some authorities is that the origin of the word "church" is uncertain. The varied forms in which the word has existed, as well as those in which it now exists in the German and Slavonic languages on the Continent of Europe, could be copied from a work which is before me, but this is unnecessary. From these varied but kindred forms it has been claimed that originally the pagan tribes of Europe had one common term by which they designated their places of heathen assemblies, and that the early missionaries among them simply adopted this word, and that, therefore, this adopted word in process of time became transformed into our word "church." Eishop Trench, a learned philologist of England, traces the origin of the word back to the time when Greek-speaking missionaries from Constantinople first preached to the Gothic tribes on the Lower Danube River. These missionaries used a Greek word which meant "pertaining to the Lord," or "house of the Lord," This was not the word ekkleesia, but a different word; and as these Gothic tribes had gotten this different word from their missionaries, they in time passed it on to the other German tribes, our own Anglo-Saxon forefathers being among this number Eventually this word evolved into our word "church." In support of this claim, Mr. Trench quotes from a work written as early as A.D. 840. This is the origin of the word as traced in our dictionaries.

3. By able and scholarly students of the Bible the word "church" has been adjudged as being of too varied and doubtful meaning to be a correct representative of the simple and definite word used by Christ and his apostles. Of the use of the word "church" a writer in a standard "Cyclopedia of Biblical Literature" aptly says: "It is beset with difficulties because of the failure to always discriminate between the visible and invisible church, and because every denomination, in order to render itself powerful and practical, must assume the form of a church, and is consequently driven to define the church to suit its own position and history." In view of the fact that the range of usage for the word "church" is all the way from that of a world-embracing Catholic hierarchy down to that of a local Baptist church as an official institution, this statement is remarkably significant. The Baptists tell us that each local Baptist church is an official body, vested with authority to do business for the Lord, while Catholics tell us that their ecclesiastical hierarchy, with the pope at its head, is the authoritative church of Christ on earth.

4. When Jesus said, "Upon this rock I will build my ekkleesia." he used a definite term, and one that was easily understood by the common people as meaning a congregation or an assembly of persons. And therefore the preacher or teacher who uses the word "congregation," or who tells his hearers that "church" simply means congregation, is always on safe ground; while, in spite of his best efforts and with the best intentions, if he constantly uses the word "church," he leads uninformed people astray in their thinking. This was recognized by such men as Alexander Campbell, David Lipscomb, and many others among us of an older generation, and so they taught accordingly; but apparently there are many of our present generation who claim to represent the "restoration movement" that have drifted away from our former simplicity and purity of speech. Much has been said about the etymology of the word ekklocsia, the effort being to fix upon it the meaning of "called out," and consequently "called together." But all that is gained by this showing is that by natural consequence when persons are called out and called together they become an assembly or congregation. And also frequent reference has been made to the use of the word in Athens, where it was applied to the official assembly of the city council. But common reason tells us to remember that our Savior and his apostles addressed those who understood words in the meaning established by usage among the common people, simply as understood by those who were neither versed in etymology nor acquainted with technical usages in the far-away city of Athens.

5. More could be said, and needs to be said, but I cannot reasonably ask for more space. One other matter calls for attention, and then I will close. A certain class of men have said, and are now saying, much about the "beginnings" of the church. These men look upon the congregations planted by the apostles as simply the beginnings of a church" as afterwards to be developed. Others tell us about the "church" spreading abroad from Jerusalem. All of this is contrary to the facts of New Testament history. Each congregation planted by the apostles was in itself a unit as a complete institution, and did not exist as any part of an expanded "church." As the congregations were multiplied the inspired writers mention them in the plural form, not singular.

A Profitable Investment.

BY GEORGE W. FARMER.

Here is your opportunity for an investment. People want to invest their money, time, and interests where it will be safe and where it will be yielding a profit; and the safer the investment and the greater the profit, the more eager they are to invest. So we find people to-day venturing and reaching out by way of investing their money in real estate, such as farm lands, houses and lots, ore lands, mining steck, oil stock, bank stock, railroad stock, and so on. Sometimes these investments are profitable and sometimes unprofitable; semetimes they result in total loss and sometimes in a breaking up and bankrupting those who invest.

I have in mind a proposition for people who are able for such an opportunity. There is absolutely no chance to lose in this proposition. Like investments have been made in other places, and their returns have been rich and satisfactory.

Among the thirty-two counties in East Tennessee, there are two to which I call special attention just now. Melgs and Monroe counties, with opportunities golden, are now under our vision.

Meigs County lies along the east bank of the Tennessee River, thirty-five miles from north to south; and is bounded on the south by the Hiwassee River. Decator, a little inland town, is the county seat. The county is thickly populated and the people are sober, moral, and intelligent. By reason of this county's lying along the Tennessee and Hiwassee rivers and these rivers being paralleled by alternate valleys and ridges, it makes it a fine agricultural country; and in addition to its fine productive soil, there are some rich iron-ore beds in this county. There may be other metals and also oil under the surface. I do not know Monroe County lies farther east. Madisonville is the county seat of this county. This is a fine agricultural county. The noted Sweetwater Valley, one of the finest agricultural sections in the State, lies in this county. In addition to these fine farm lands, there are fine marble quarries in this county. It is also densely populated, and the people, as a rule, are intellectual and cultured.

Now, it is not the farm lands nor ore lands, marble ledges nor slate quarries, that I am calling upon people with means to invest in. There is something of far more value than these, in which people with means are called to invest their money, time, and interest; and such investment is safe in the absolute.

We have not a congregation of the church of Christ in either of these counties. In Meigs County, at Big Springs, there was at one time a little congregation, but none there now. All gone down; only a few scattered members. In Monroe County, in and about Sweetwater, there are a few members. The Tennessee Military Institute is located in this town. Some of the members of the faculty and their wives, some of them, are members. At Tellico Plains, in this county. I am told, there are several members, but no congregation. Some preaching has been done there.

Now, many of the people in these counties, no doubt, would accept the gospel if they had a chance to learn it. Think of the value of an immortal soul! Absolutely nothing of more value. And all souls are precious in God's sight. Stocks, bonds, houses, lands, gold, silver, diamonds, and pearls are as filthy rags as compared with human souls.

Now, who is able and willing to invest some means in having the gospel preached and some congregations of Christians planted in these counties? Select your missionary and send him into these fields. Let us put one in each county and put him to work. "They that be wise shall shine as the brightness of the firmament, and they that turn many to righteousness as the stars forever and ever." (Dan. 12: 3.) May God put it into the hearts of those who have means to use to put at least some of it in these sections. The investment is safe. No one ever lost in trying to save a soul.

Why Not? BY H. M. PHILLIPS.

The question of unity has been considered by mortal man since Adam and Eve were driven out of the garden of Eden. It should especially be studied by those who in the kingdom of the Lord have hope for the eternal unity. It is an evidence of wrong somewhere when there is division even in a small way. It is possible for division to exist and there be no evidence of right, but, as a rule, wrong is present. The question comes: Why not get it settled and be at unity?

It is hardly possible to conceive of human beings living without divisions arising, but it is also reasonable to think that such should be settled. Divisions came in the early church, but they were overcome in God's way, or, at least, the way was clearly pointed out for such. It is as clear for us if we vill make use of the revealed way. A gettogether meeting is a good thing when a division arises. When the case of circumcision came up in the early church. a meeting was had and it was settled the right way. (See Acts 15) Why not do so now? Paul did not talk so much nor write about Peter's error, but he blamed him face to face. If one party refuses to meet to settle the difference, then it is but right to let it be known that the error is not believed in by the other: but it is at no time the true spirit to refuse to come together and talk the matter over when a willingness is expressed by either side—that is, the other side should be ready to come and make an earnest effort to agree with the adversary while opportunity presents itself.

We often invite the world to come and let us reason together. Why not ask one another in the body of Christ to do the same? Too many divisions are tried to be settled in public, in the papers, that should be settled in private. If you have aught against your brother, go to him. Most people seem to desire to broaden the difference by a public statement rather than talk the matter over in person, and thereby fail in unity. Much of the division written about in papers could be settled if both parties were only willing to come together in love and work and pray for unity.

There is a spirit of force manifested by some which only serves to widen the breach. Hardly can you drive a person, and not all will be led. Some will only balk and spend the time in kicking or lay down the work. Kindness and love, considering self lest you also be tempted, are essential to reconcillation. The offender should gladly ask pardon, and the offended should freely grant it. We are all taught to forgive one another; but if we continue to stand against our brother, we may be sure that we are not with God There is a vast difference in being firm against that which one advocates and the one who advocates it. When we all learn fully that we are just human beings at best and really sympathize as we should, it will be much easier to settle divisions as God reveals.

God's word clearly tells us how to maintain the unity that God's children should, and we can do it if we will, for God gave it so we could. Now the question is, why not? O, how we will regret some day if we fall in unity! "How good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity!" Why not?

Four Definitions of Sin.

BY W. CLAUDE HALL,

Sin has been a curse to the human family from the beginning. Its stain still blots the characters of men and women who were good and pure and noble before the blighting influence of sin came into their lives. It was the cause of the first pair being expelled from Eden, away from the luscious fruit that gave life eternal. It brought death, suffering, distress; and caused debauchery, murder, and crimes of every description.

The Bible is not a dictionary in any sense; however, fortunately for us, there are four definitions of sin, which, taken together, give a very definite and clear concept of it.

The first one of which we desire to speak is a very inclusive expression. "All unrighteousness is sin." (1 John 5: 17.) This includes every sin of every age and people. "Unrighteousness" is simply not the right way of doing whether in the religious or secular life, anywhere at any time.

The next definition is a little less inclusive. "Sin is lawlessness." (1 John 3: 4.) "Sin is the transgression of the law," as we find in the old version. Here a law must be in existence before any sin can be committed. God has always had law. Some people have found that transgression of this law was followed by punishment of the direct sort. You call to mind, no doubt, when David went to Kiriathjearim to bring the ark to Jerusalem. The law of God was to carry the ark by the staves through the rings at each corner. They made an improvement in God's law by putting the ark on a new cart and hauling it instead of carrying it on the shoulders. When Uzza put forth his hand and stayed the ark when the oxen stumbled, God immediately caused him to fall down dead. God's law, though a simple one, had been transgressed, and Uzza paid the penalty. The law of the Spirit to-day is just as emphatic. We have it in form so we may read it with understanding. Now if we transgress it, we are sinners. How careful we should be to get the law so understood that people will be more careful and considerate with respect to its demands!

Another definition of sin found in Rom. 14: 23 is still more less inclusive in the scope. "Whatsoever is not of faith is sin." "Faith cometh by hearing, and hearing by the word of God." Our operations in the religious field, then, are limited to those ideas contained in the word of God. If, then, we should go beyond this word, or add anything to the worship without its first having emanated from our faith which comes through the word of the Lord, we are sinners.

The last definition is so definite and comes so near to all of us that we might designate it as the "bull's eye." The first definition given may be represented by a large circle; the second, by a smaller one in the first; the third, within the second; and the last one a small circle in the center—the whole figure not unlike a rifle target card. "To him therefore that knoweth to do good, and doeth it not, to him it is sin." (James 4: 17.) Perhaps not many of us would deliberately do unrighteousness, neither would we willfully transgress the law nor do a thing religiously without faith, but how many of us know to do good and refuse to do it! This, too, is sin. "For the wages of sin is death." (Rom. 6: 23.) Not physical death necessarily, but eternal death; separation from God forever. How wonderfully happy we should be to know that though sin is such a menace the blood of Christ will cleanse us from all sin! Glorious thought! We come in contact with his blood in his death. We are baptized into his death. (See Rom. 6: 3.) No one can be scripturally baptized until he has had faith in his God, repented of his sins, and determined to live in accord with the law of Christ.

Growing in Circulation.

We are pleased to be able to bring a cheerful message to our readers. Orders for Bible Lesson Helps are decidedly more than we have ever had before at this season of the year. The first quarter of the year is usually the smallest of the year, but it now appears that the present quarter will be by far the largest. This is especially gratifying and encouraging. We are endeavoring to double the circulation of the literature during 1922. Preparations are now in progress to run an especially large number of the entire series for the second quarter of the present year. All who have cooperated and are now cooperating with us so nobly in the work have our most hearty appreciation.

It is also encouraging to note increased interest in the Gospel Advocate. A decided improvement will be made both in the contents and the paper of the Gospel Advocate for 1922. The paper which has already been ordered is a better quality and heavier. Especial attention will also be given to the character of advertising that appears in its columns. It shall be our endeavor to publish a paper that will be a help and an inspiration to a nobler life in any home. It is important that all pay up back dues to the paper at the rate of $2.50 a year and renew for a year in advance at $2 a year. We are receiving many encouraging letters as to the merits of the paper, and a number are making up a list of twenty-five new yearly subscribers in order to get a complete set of Matthew Henry's Commentary on the Bible. The Fountain Pen that we are giving absolutely free is first-class. This offer is within the reach of every subscriber to the Gospel Advocate, but for a limited time only. Read carefully the offers below:

For the encouragement of our readers, we are giving to each one who will send us a new yearly subscriber at the regular subscription price of $2, with $1 additional, a first-class lever self-filling Fountain Pen that is easily worth $3. To any one who will send us two new subscribers, accompanied by $4, we will give the "Capitol" lever self-filling Fountain Pen.

To any one who will send us twenty-five new subscribers to the Gospel Advocate, accompanied by fifty dollars, we will give a complete set of Matthew Henry's Commentary on the Bible. The set contains six volumes of twelve hundred pages each, large type, substantially bound. Charles H. Spurgeon said: "Every minister ought to read Matthew Henry entirely and carefully through once at least. He will acquire a vast store of sermons; and as for thoughts. they will swarm around him like twittering sparrows around an old gable toward the close of autumn." Dr. Philip Schaff, compiler of Schaff's Bible Dictionary, pronounces it "the best practical and devotional commentary for English readers." Here you will find a mine of expository knowledge and a complete preacher's commentary. This commentary is an invaluable help to any student of the Bible. We have only a limited number of Commentaries, so you should be prompt if you wish one. We are inclosing a renewal blank for the use of subscribers. Please return with your renewal and a list of new subscribers.

PUBLISHERS GOSPEL ADVOCATE.

Work is one of the prayers most promptly answered. God would not spade your garden for you if you prayed a year. But he will make it grow, which is the answer to the prayer you offered when you spaded it.—The Witness.

AT HOME AND ABROAD

T. H. Matheson reports three baptisms in a mission meeting at Optima, Okla.

"The more religion we export, the more we possess. Love grows by exercise."

F. W. Smith baptized two young men at the regular service at Franklin, Tenn.

Claud Woodroof came to see us last week. He closed an interesting meeting at Palmyra, Ind., on December 18.

The brethren at Stratford, Okla., have completed a new house of worship. Ira Wommack will preach for them one Sunday in each month.

William G. Klingman has some time for singing schools or meetings during January, February, and early March, Address him in care of this office.

F. B. Srygley closed a four-days' debate with Mr. Neal, a Baptist, at Jordan Springs, near Clarksville, Tenn., on December 23. Brother Srygley seems entirely satisfied with the result.

S. H. Hall will begin his labors as evangelist for the Russell Street Church, in Nashville, next Sunday. The church is glad to have the help of such an efficient worker and is anticipating a successful year.

From John Hayes, Bradentown, Fla., Box 111, December 19: "The meeting at Istachatta lasted two weeks, with three baptized. I preached at Manatee yesterday morning. I will preach here next Lord's day and night, and leave next month for a mission meeting."

A brief message from C. R. Nichol informs us that his mother died in Memphis, Tenn., on December 21. Our brother has the sincere sympathy of all the editors, and we believe that this announcement will call forth similar expressions from many of our readers.

From H. M. Phillips, 4410 Saint Elmo Avenue, Chattanooga, Tenn., December 19: "Two splendid services here yesterday. One brother restored. The church moves along well in the work of the Lord. Unity prevails in the congregation. Quite a lot of gifts to the poor."

From S. M. Jones, Beamsville, Ontario Canada: "Notwithstanding that last Lord's day (December 18) was the worst day that we have witnessed for a long time, there were two confessions and baptisms, and on the 11th there were four confessions and baptisms. We are hopeful of others."

From E. V. Cowan, Ravenden Springs, Ark., December 15: "I read the Gospel Advocate with increasing interest. I used to think I could not do without it, but I know I could not now. It is the best paper I ever read, and is getting better all the time to me. I think your efforts are well repaid, as great good is being done by your paper."

A. O. Colley, Dallas, Texas, writes: "Fine day at Pearl and Bryan Streets Church, Sunday (December 18). There were five accessions and a very large audience. We are planning for a great work this next month in every line of work. We have accessions almost every Sunday. We will soon have to build more to our house or swarm. We have some good workers who go out into the surrounding places for mission work each Sunday."

At a called meeting of the Board of Regents of Thorp Spring Christian College, at Thorp Spring, Texas, on December 20, Mrs. John T. Overby and J. S. Newman were present as new members of the board. This meeting was called by Dr. T. H. Dabney, chairman, Granbury, Texas. Mrs. Overby is quite interested in school work. Brother Newman is minister for the church of Christ at Clifton, Texas. Reports were read by A. R. Holton and C. H. Hale, copresidents. Plans were discussed relative to general improvement of the school plant.

From D. S. Ligon, Fayetteville, Ark., December 19: "I preached here on Sunday, morning and night. We have a faithful band of disciples here, and I can see an open door leading into a great field of labor. One great trouble here, as in many other places, is that the meetinghouse of our brethren is not well located. It is off to one side, which makes it hard to get the general public out to hear any preacher. The University of Arkansas is located in this city, and, of course, creates a greater responsibility upon the church, and also places before the brethren a greater opportunity of doing good. I go home for Christmas."

From H. M. Phillips, Saint Elmo, Tenn., December 23: "I have just finished reading Brother Kurfees' review of Mr. Payne's book; and as I have read the book, I feel sure that the review ought to be put in tract form and sent out to let the world know the whole truth in the matter. I was anxious that the review be made as soon as I read the book, and I am indeed glad that it is being done, and done so well. Brother Kurfees is well skilled in the work of reviewing the book, and I think that Mr. Payne ought to have a real nice copy or two for his own use to help him to see the many errors and sad misrepresentations, as well as the ugly spirit in which he wrote. I am pleased with the smoothness and pleasing manner in which Brother Kurfees is presenting the matter, and trust that he will go on and give a thorough review of the whole book. May the Lord bless Brother Kurfees with many years yet, so he can let the people see the way of the Lord clearly."

WEDDING BELLS.

Married, at Franklin, Tenn., on Monday, December 26, Miss Josephine Terrill and Mr. William D. Wirt, F. W. Smith officiating, in the presence of many relatives and friends.

Married, at the home of the bride, in Decherd, Tenn., on December 21, Mr. Herman Hallady and Miss Leona Sweeney, H. M. Phillips performing the ceremony. The couple will live at Ensley, Ala.

Mr. William Carroll Bell announces the marriage of his daughter, Jessie Irene, to Mr. Ernest William Broadwell. The ceremony was performed on Thursday, December 22, by J. Leonard Jackson, of Nashville, in his study.

Mr. Walter Ruhland Sloan and Miss Elizabeth Adkisson were married at Ashland City, Tenn., on Monday, December 26. The ceremony was performed by A. B. Lipscomb in the house of worship, and was witnessed by a large gathering of relatives and friends.

ANNOUNCEMENT.

To the Brotherhood: I wish to inform you, if you do not already know, that there is but one religious paper published by our brethren in the whole of the Dominion of Canada. This paper is the Christian Monthly Review, a thirty-two page magazine, published by D. McDougall, West Gore, N. S., Canada. The associate editors are: Dr. H. M. Evans, John M. Bruce, S. Whitfield, Dr. O. H. Tallman, C. W. Petch, H. A. Rogers, and J. L. Hines. At the present time Brother McDougall is reviewing O. E. Payne's book, "Instrumental Music is Scriptural," through the columns of this journal, and he is doing his work well, showing to a demonstration that Payne's arguments on "psallo" are unfounded and therefore fallacious. Every one should have the benefit of these articles; so sit right down, now, and send me one dollar, and I will send you the Christian Monthly Review (and the back articles on the review of Payne's book) for one year. Brethren, don't put this off; for I desire every one, especialy the preachers, to avail themselves of this opportunity.—J. L. Hines, Monticello, Ky.

A REQUEST.

It is now my purpose for the year 1922 to hold as many evangelistic meetings in as many isolated and destitute fields as it becomes possible for me to reach. During the year now gone by it was my privilege to do a great deal of that sort of work in preaching the gospel, and I feel that in a way, at least, my labors have not altogether been in While I am advanced in years, yet I am still young, both in disposition and mental energy. 1 am decidedly in a better state of health than formerly, am physically able to endure hardships, and I am probably better prepared to be of more service to the cause of Christ than ever before. As the Lord has blessed me in giving me health and strength, it is my carnest desire to grow old in his service. doing all the good that I can as opportunity offers; and when the time comes for me to lay my armor down, I want it to be the time for my entrance into my eternal home. My request is that brethren everywhere be of assistance to me by putting me in touch with places that may need my services and where I can do good in preaching the gospel and in teaching the Scriptures. I solicit correspondence and in teaching the Scriptures. I solicit correspondence with brethren who may become interested in my proposed work; and as early in the year as possible or convenient, I want to be able to arrange work that will keep me busy. My permanent address is Oakland, Miss., and I also request that brethren make a note of this. While I may not have grown wiser, yet I have learned both by experience and observation, and am ready to put this into service for the Master.-Lee Jackson.

Conducted for a half century by D. Lipscomb and E. G. Sewell,

TERMS OF SUBSCRIPTION

$2.50 a year, in advance; to Canada and foreign countries, $3.00,

82.50 a year, in advance; to Canada and foreign countries, $3.00, in advance.

Remittances will be at our risk when sent by express or post-office money order, in registered letter, or by draft payable to our order. When changing your post-office address, tell us your old as well as your new address; otherwise two papers might be charged to you. This paper is mailed regularly to all subscribers until definite orders in writing are received and all arrearages paid in full. If you wish us to stop your paper, write us to that effect; but do not ask it unless you have paid all arrears, if there are any. Do not ask your postmaster to attend to it for you, but do it yourself.

The date on your tab shows the time to which your subscription is paid. When money is received, the date will be changed, which will answer for a receipt. Two weeks' time must ordinarily cour from the time your remittance is sent before the tab on your paper is changed; if no cthanged by that time, notify us at once.

Subscribers, after paying for their papers, will favor us by noting whether the date on the address label is changed, and, if it is not changed within a month, by writing to us. We are careful, but misseakes may occur or letters may be lost. Our rule is to change the dote on the day payment is received; but the mechanical work of correcting and printing the list takes time, and payments even from near-by places may uot appear the first week. Credits for payments from a distance may be even more delayed. Mistakes are easily restified if prompt notice is given.

All communications should be addressed to Gospel Advocate, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

Entered at post office at Nasville, Tenn.

Entered at post office at Nasville, Tenn.

Guarantee of Advertising.

All the advertisements in this paper are, we believe signed by trustworthy persons. To prove our faith by works, we will make good to actual subscribers any loss sustained in trusting advertisers who prove to be deliberate swindiers. We shall not attempt to adjust trifling disputes between subscribers and honorable business men who advertise, nor pay the debts of honest bankrupts. To make this guarantee effective, in all cases say in writing advertisers, "I saw your advertisement in the Gospel Advocate;" and if anything goes wrong, notify us immediately in writing.

JACOBS & CO., ADVERTISING MANAGERS, Clinton, S. C.

Entered at post office at Nashville, Tenn., as second-class matter Published weekly at Nashville, Tenn.

Handling Aright the Word of Truth.

BY J. C. M'Q.

Paul admonishes Timothy: "Give diligence to present thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed, handling aright the word of truth." (2 Tim, 2: 15.) He also charges Timothy: "And the things which thou hast heard from me among many witnesses, the same commit thou to faithful men, who shall be able to teach others also." (2 Tim. 2; 2.)

While we believe every inspired word of God, while we accept both the Old and New Testaments, it is necessary for every one to give diligence in handling or dividing the word of truth. We do not read on every page in the Bible the plan of salvation; so it is folly to tell the alien sinner to just let the Bible fall open and there read it. We would not instruct a beginner in English grammar to just let it fall open anywhere and there study it. The same is true of arithmetic. Is it possible that man's books have more order and system than the Bible? Nay, verily,

The Old Testament is not of equal importance and authority with us who live in the Christian dispensation as the New Testament. Let us see: "God, having of old time spoken unto the fathers in the prophets by divers portions and in divers manners, hath at the end of these days spoken unto us in his Son, whom he appointed heir of all things, through whom also he made the worlds." (Heb. 1: 1, 2.) God spoke to the Jews by the prophets, and Moses, no doubt, was included among the prophets. now speaks to both Jew and Gentile through his Son and the apostles. "Therefore we ought to give the more earnest heed to the things that were heard, lest haply we drift away from them. For if the word spoken through angels proved steadfast, and every transgression and disobedience received a just recompense of reward; how shall we escape. If we neglect so great a salvation? which having at the first been spoken through the Lord, was confirmed unto us by them that heard." (Heb. 2: 1-3.) The word spoken by angels was the law. That the angels cooperated with Moses in receiving and giving the law is taught in both the Old and New Testaments. Stephen, in his memorable sermon. for which he died, in speaking to the Jews, said: "Ye who received the law as it was ordained by angels, and kept it not." (Acts 7: 53.)

It is also important for us to understand that the law was given to the Jews and not to the Gentiles. It was meant for Jews only, and not Gentiles. It was the law which separated Jew and Gentile; it was the middle wall of partition between them. Hence, Paul says of Christ-"For he is our peace, who made both one, and brake down the middle wall of partition, having abolished in his fiesh the enmity, even the law of commandments contained in ordinances; that he might create in himself of the two one new man, so making peace." (Eph. 2: 14, 15.) "The law" means the whole law, and not simply the "ceremonial law" as is sometimes assumed. Whenever he says "law." he means law-the whole law. It is an egregious blunder to draw a line between what men call the moral and ceremonial parts of the law to make it appear that only the ceremonial was done away by Christ. Such an assumption is unwarranted in the face of the following scripture: "Who also made us sufficient as ministers of a new covenant; not of the letter, but of the spirit; for the letter killeth, but the spirit giveth life. But if the ministration of death, written, and engraven on stones, came with glory, so that the children of Israel could not look steadfastly upon the face of Moses for the glory of his face; which glory was passing away: how shall not rather the ministration of the spirit be with glory? For if the ministration of condemnation hath glory, much rather doth the ministration of righteousness exceed in glory. For verily that which bath been made glorious bath not been made glorious in this respect, by reason of the glory that surpasseth. For if that which passeth away was with glory. much more that which remaineth is in glory." (2 Cor-3; 6-11.) Here the law of Moses is contrasted with the gospel. The letter, which is the law, killeth; while the spirit. which giveth life, is the gospel. The law, the Decalogue. which was "written, and engraven on stones, was glorious," and was done away; while the gospel, which exceeds in glory, remains. It cannot, in candor, be denied that the apostle teaches that the whole law was done away in Christ. The law was not given to remain, but to lead us to Christ. When it perfectly served this purpose, it vanished away. Paul teaches this plainly. Hear him: "What then is the law? It was added because of transgressions, till the seed should come to whom the promise hath been made; and it was ordained through angels by the hand of a mediator. Now a mediator is not a mediator of one; but God is one. Is the law then against the promises of God? God forbid: for if there had been a law given which could make alive, verily righteeusness would have been of the law. But the scripture shut up all things under sin, that the promise by faith in Jesus Christ might be given to them that believe. But before faith came, we were kept in ward under the law, shut up unto the faith which should afterwards be revealed. So that the law is become our tutor to bring us unto Christ, that we might be justified by faith. But now that faith is come, we are no longer under a tutor," (Gal. 3: 19-25.) Thus, according to Paul, when Christ, the promised seed, came to his authority, the law that was added to the promise, having served its purpose, expired by limitation. Principles, truths, and absolute right will never perish, can never be abolished; so that all of these that were in the law are retained in the gospel. But the law of Moses as such is gone. We "are not under law, but under grace." We are not obligated to do a thing simply because it was in the law of Moses. Christ has blotted out the "bond written in ordinances that was against us." "As therefore ye received Christ Jesus the Lord, so walk in him, rooted and builded up in him, and established in your faith, even as ye were taught, abounding in thanksgiving. Take heed lest there shall be any one that maketh spoil of you through his philosophy and vain deceit, after the tradition of men. after the rudiments of the world, and not after Christ; for in him dwelleth all the fullness of the Godhead bodily, and in him ye are made full, who is the head of all principality and power: in whom ye were also circumcised with a circumcision not made with hands, in the putting off of the body of the flesh, in the circumcision of Christ; having been buried with him in baptism, wherein ye were also raised with him through faith in the working of God, who raised him from the dead. And you, being dead through your trespasses and the uncircumcision of your flesh, you. I say, did he make alive together with him, having forgiven us all our trespasses; having blotted out the bond written in ordinances that was against us, which was contrary to us: and he hath taken it out of the way, nailing it to the cross; having despoiled the principalities and the powers, he made a show of them openly, triumphing over them in it. Let no man therefore judge you in meat, or in drink, or in respect of a feast day or a new moon or a Sabbath day." (Col. 2: 6-16.)

Paul would not have the law fastened on the church at Colosse, neither is it God's will to bind it upon his children to-day. While the Old Testament is important, is true and profitable to us; while it gives us an account of the creation and of God's dealings with men in former times; because it contains many promises and prophecies, some of them fulfilled and some of them being fulfilled in Christ, we should study it. Since it tells us of illustrious examples of victorious faith in God, because it is full of faith and devotion, and because it is full of shadows and types of which Christ is the substance and antitype, it helps us to a better understanding of the New Testament, but still it is no longer authoritative. We may now read it and study it through our lives, and yet never learn from it what we must do to be saved. Christ has "all authority in heaven and on earth." This is the meaning of the transfiguration. Moses and Elijah, representing the law and the prophets, appeared, to disappear. Jesus only was left, and a voice from heaven said: "This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased; hear ye him."

The Condition in Which the Society Brethren Find Themselves. No. 1.

BY F. W. SMITH.

I believe it will serve a good purpose to let the readers of the Gospel Advocate see the conditions, as described by Brother Mark Collis, into which the departure from the simplicity of the New Testament has brought the society brethren. Read carefully this and each installment. The article appeared in the Christian Standard under the heading, "The Crisis in Missions:"

Every missionary organization among us was founded by and received its early support from men and women who were loyal to our plea. These men and women plead for the unity of Christians; they believed that the restoration of New Testament Christianity is the only plan by which a permanent union of God's people can be effected; they adopted the motto announced by Thomas Campbell: "Where the Scriptures speak, we speak; where the Scriptures are silent, we are silent."

Following these principles, they looked upon the Bible as an infallible guide, so inspired of God as to be free from errors and contradictions. They adopted the confession-Jesus is the Christ, the Son of the living God-as a statement of their creed. This statementwas understood to assert the deity of Christ so assuredly that to cease to believe it was to cease to be a Christian; furthermore, it was understood to assert that Jesus is our Prophet to speak for God, our Priest to intercede for sinners, our King to rule in all matters pertaining to the church. Like other Christians, they emphasized as conditions of pardon for the sinner; faith in Christ, a turning away from sin in genuine repentance, and the confession of the name of Christ. They also stressed the importance of a Scriptural baptism, which they insisted is the immersion of a penitent believer into the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit; in baptism they saw a symbol of the death, the burial, and the resurrection of Christ; furthermore, to them. baptism had a deep spiritual significance, setting forth the fact of the sinner's death to sin, his burial with Christ, and his resurrection to walk in newness of life

The observance of the Lord's Supper upon the first day of every week was regarded as a sacred duty; the Supper and the day setting forth the two fundamental facts of the gospel—the death and the resurrection of Christ.

The organization of the church followed the New Testament order: there were evangelists and ministers, the preachers and teachers of the church; elders, the bishops and pastors of the ficek; deacons, who ministered in the temporalities of the congregation. (Of course, in all periods of the Restoration movement, our brethren have regarded prayer, scriptural sanctification, and a godly life as absolutely essential.)

These things were looked upon, not as matters of opinion that could be observed or omitted according to the will of man, but as matters of faith, for each one of which a "Thus saith the Lord" could be given; their observance was regarded as absolutely essential to the restoration of New Testament Christianity.

All this was very simple. Unlettered men could understand it, could preach and teach it. Yet men of great intellects and scholarly attainments saw the beauty of this plea for apostolic Christianity and became its advocates. The plea made a strong appeal to the people, and the cause grew with marvelous rapidity.

The first directors of our missionary organizations were careful to employ only those who were loyal to this plea. Prospective missionaries were questioned very explicitly with regard to their faith. Those in charge were careful to know that the candidate was right on the question of the incarnation and the deity of Christ; that he believed the Bible was of God and an absolutely safe guide; that the ordinances of Christ must be observed, just as the New Testament sets them forth; that the organization of the church was a matter of divine wisdom and could not be improved. No one was sent into a missionary field who was not regarded as true to the faith which was once for all delivered unto the saints.

About thirty years ago men arose among us who had more or less accepted German rationalistic teaching. These men held that the Scriptures were inspired much like the writings of Milton and Shakespeare, only perhaps to a higher degree, and were to be tested by rationalistic standards: they talked about the divinity of Christ rather than his deity, and held that he made mistakes and changed his purposes. With them Christianity was evolved, its teachings and ordinances being derived from Judaism and from various heathen cults. This school of thought to-day is much the same as when it first appeared among us; it has not, in the least, modified its primary conceptions but on the other hand, has intensified them.

The members of this school may vary somewhat in their views, some rejecting both the incarnation and the bodily resurrection of Christ, and some accepting one and rejecting the other; some accepting one miracle and some rejecting another; some rejecting all miracles. Although there is variety among them and different degrees of unbelief, yet they all carry the same mark of rationalism.

Among those holding these views, the authority of God's

Among those holding these views, the authority of God's written word is held lightly. For this reason, we need not be surprised that those of our brethren who have accepted these views, with perhaps few exceptions, stand for open membership What this position leads to is seen in the church of Mr. E. S. Ames, of Chicago, a radical of the radicals; who, without baptism, receives Methodists, Presbyterians, Jews, Catholics, Mormons, Christian Scientists, anybody. Some of these brethren say that they would not receive the unimmersed, but will be ready to do so when the time is propititious for it. With them, baptism is a matter of expediency.

From the first these brethren have been diligent propagandists. Their organization, the Campbell Institute, has worked insidiously and persistently; their purpose evidently being, as far as possible, to place men holding their views in our professors' chairs, in our pulpits, and on our missionary boards. Their organ, The Scroll, has carried its pernicious influence into the studies of many of our ministers. That they have strong grip upon our missionary organizations no one can question.

Brother Collis says: "The first directors of our missionary organizations were careful to employ only those who were loyal to this plea." This "plea" he has told us had as its guiding star the motto: "Where the Scriptures speak, we speak; where the Scriptures are silent, we are silent." But "every missionary organization among us" was a violation of that plea, hence the trouble in which the society brethren find themselves to-day.

Furthermore, these "organizations" about which the Scriptures are as silent as the grave have for their foundation, and every law by which they are governed and controlled, nothing more than human wisdom; and human wisdom can devise no plan or organization that can be kept free from corruption. So long as a church is governed by divine law, it cannot fail of its mission, for that law is perfect and holds the church to its divinely appointed place.

We Are Facing Another New Year.

BY D. S. LIGON.

Friends, we are facing another New Year; Let us all smile and never fear; For God is good and will smile on you. Trust in him; he'll take you through.

Friends, we are facing another New Year; Sing glad hosannas, give one big cheer; Buckle on the whole armor, then we'll win In every hard battle with self and sin.

Friends, we are facing another New Year; Let us all remember that the Lord is near. To help and to bless every trusting soul Everywhere, and from pole to pole.

Friends, we are facing another New Year; Let's not stop to grieve or shed a tear Over the troubles and trials of the past— Buckle on the whole armor and win at last.

Friends, we are facing another New Year; Bringing many blessings to us so dear, To cheer us along in the thickest of strife. Preparing us fully for the duties of life.

Friends, we are facing another New Year; Let's trust in God, him always hear. Truly, we then can all sing, "It is well With my soul," saved from hell, Friends, we are facing another New Year: The past is gone with all its care; Let's buckle on the whole armor of God And this New Year begin to plod.

Friends, we are facing another New Year; God's ears are open and will always hear The righteous of earth who on him may call For help and mercy—he will give to all.

Friends, we are facing another New Year; Keep God's commandments, him always fear; This is man's duty from the first to last, Till these New Years are all in the past.

Friends, then we'll face an eternal New Year When God will wipe away each tear; When the Savior calls in accents of love: "Come up, and rest in heaven above."

Prospectus.

Whereas, the organization is contemplated of a corporation under the laws of the State of Tennessee, to be known as the Gospel Advocate Company, or by such other name as may be selected, with a capital stock of not less than Fifty Thousand ($50,000,000) Dollars, for the purpose of taking over, owning, and publishing a religious paper known as the Gospel Advocate; the taking over, owning, and publishing of all Sunday-school literature now published by the McQuiddy Printing Company, of Nashville, Tenn.; the taking over and owning of the stock of books, song books, Bibles, tracts, pamphlets, together with all copyrights, plates, dies, etc., used in the religious end of the business of McQuiddy Printing Company; and it is desired by the undersigned to become stockholders in said corporation.

Now, therefore, we, the undersigned, do hereby promise and agree to and with each other, in consideration of the mutual promises and agreements herein contained, that we will pay to the Treasurer of said corporation as soon as he shall have been elected to that office, on demand, the sum set opposite our respective names, being the subscription price of shares of the capital stock of said corporation, at One Hundred ($100.00) Dollars per share.

We hereby further agree, in consideration of the aforesaid, that our several subscriptions are made for the use and benefit of said corporation, and that when said corporation is duly formed and organized said subscription may be enforced as and when the Board of Directors of said corporation may hereafter determine.

The stock is made up as follows:

The electrotypes, song-book plates, dies, song books, religious books, Bibles, and tracts, taken at a very low price, amount to $23,753.86. J. O. Hooper has been with the McQuiddy Printing Company from its very beginning, and is fully acquainted with the stock and knows the values as well as any man in the house. He says: "I have estimated these items at a very low price—at perhaps half what it would now cost to manufacture them."

The Gospel Advocate and the Sunday-school literature are estimated at $27,000.00. I have a standing offer of $15,000.00 for half interest in the literature. This offer is from a man who knows the literature, who knows its circulation and just what it is doing. This would make the literature alone worth $30,000.00. By proper effort on the part of the stockholders of the new company, we should easily double the circulation of the Gospel Advocate and also the circulation of the literature. If the business is properly pushed, I believe that in a short time it can be doubled.

We have $18,000.00 or $19,000.00 worth of stock for sale I would be glad to have any Christian brother in good standing take at least ten shares of this stock. Any one who does not desire to take this much can take whatever amount he wishes, provided he takes as much as one share of $100.00.

J. C. McQumpy.

This, the 14th day of December, 1921.

How few, if any of us, ever "give" anything to the Lord! By the term "gift" is meant that upon which the recipient has no direct or personal claim. When we come to think of the Lord's right to all we are and possess, there is no room for bestowing upon him a gratuity. The fact is, he wants us to render to him what is due him, both of our life and our substance. Some suppose that a "gift" is made to the Lord which is over and above the tenth; but the trouble here is that the idea of absolute title to the ninetenths is erroneous. The conception of "paying" is also slavish, although it recognizes the fordship of Jesus and one's own stewardship. The higher principle is that of love, which willingly surrenders the one-tenth or more, and which holds the nine-tenths subject to the Lord's will.—Baptist and Reflector.

Appreciation of Brother F. W. Smith's Articles.

"I wish to say I appreciate your review of Boll. I can't see how Brother Boll's most ardent admirers can accept his teachings on the kingdom. I don't believe they will." (G. C. Brewer, Cleburne, Texas.)

"I have read with great interest your exposure of the fallacy of R. H. Boll's kingdom theory, and I hope you proceed, as suggested, to put your work in tract form." (John E. Hammond, Meaford, Ontario, Canada.)

"Inclosed please find ten dollars—five for the fund to have published in pamphlet form Brother Smith's articles against Boll's theory and five to aid in sending the Gospel Advocate to those who are unable to pay the subscription." (S. M. Jones, Beamsville, Ontario, Canada.)

Brother Smith's articles mentioned in these commendations have been put in tract form and will be sent free upon request. The expense of printing the tract is to be borne by voluntary contributions from those who believe its circulation will do good. Send requests for copies or contributions to the McQuiddy Printing Company, 317-319 Fifth Avenue, North, Nashville, Tenn.

God's People Are Separate.

BY W. T. BEASLEY.

"Wherefore come out from among them, and be ye separate, saith the Lord, and touch not the unclean thing; and I will receive you, and will be a Father unto you, and ye shall be my sons and daughters, saith the Lord Almighty." (2 Cor. 6: 17, 18.)

"The church of God" (1 Cor. 1: 2) which was established by the spostle Paul (Acts 18: 8), as a whole, failed to live up to the divine standard. First, they were divided (1 Cor. 1: 11-13); and Paul says, "For ye are yet carnal" (1 Cor. 3: 13), and "to be carnally minded is death" (Rom. 8, 6), and "the wages of sin is death" (Rom. 6: 23). (1) To be divided is to be carnal. (2) To be carnal means death. (3) The wages of sin is death. Therefore, it is a sin for a church to be divided. Secondly, a young man had taken his father's wife to be his wife (1 Cor. 5: 7); and Paul says: "They which do such things shall not inherit the kingdom of God" (Gal. 5: 21). Thirdly, some were going to law with each other. (1 Cor. 6: 1-8.) The Savior had said: "If any man will sue thee at the law, and take away thy coat, let him have thy cloak also." (Matt. 5: 40.) They failed to be controlled by his words. (John 12: 48.) Fourthly, some were eating meats "offered unto an idol." (1 Cor. 8: 1-13.) The apostles, elders, and brethren at Jerusalem decided by the direction of the Holy Spirit that Christians must "abstain from meats offered to idols" (Acts 15: 1-29); and when we sin against the brethren, we sin against Christ (1 Cor. 8: 12). Fifthly, some were meeting and having a drunken feast. (1 Cor. 11: 18-22.) Paul says: "They which do such things shall not inherit the kingdom of God." (Gal. 5: 21.) Sixthly, some had denied the resurrection of the dead. (1 Cor. 15: (2.) Paul says: "If thou shalt believe in thine heart that God hath raised him [Jesus] from the dead, thou shalt be saved." (Rom. 10: 9.) They were in a lost condition. Paul, speaking to the faithful ones, many or few, says: "Come out from among them [those that were not living the Christian life], and be ye separate, saith the Lord, and touch not the unclean thing; and I will receive you."

For the last thirty-five hundred years God's purpose and idea was that his people should be separate from all other people. They were not allowed to marry people of another nation. (See Deut, 7: 2-4; Josh, 23: 11-13; 1 Kings 11: 1-6; Ez. 10: 9-12.) Nor does God to-day teach his people to marry people of the world or of some other faith (1 Cor. 6: 14); and when they do, they are sinning against heaven. Our Example was separate (Heb. 7: 26), and we must be separate (Isa. 52; 11), "and cleanse ourselves from all filthiness of the flesh and spirit, perfecting holiness in the fear of God" (2 Cor, 7: 1). Christians are in the world, but not of the world. (John 17: 14.) Again, Jesus says: "My kingdom is not of this world." (John 18: 36.) The church of God, or the kingdom, composed of Christians. is not of this world.

Some of our brethren seem to act as if they thought the world could not get along without them. Brethren, where are you lending your influence when you are going, acting, and doing as the world? How can you let your light shine when you are doing just like the world? Don't be a friend of this world. They can elect their officers, wage their wars, and run their moving-picture shows, public bathing places, card games, dancing halls, theaters, and such like. without your presence or influence. We can let our light shine by refusing to touch the unclean thing. Remember, if you are a friend to this world, you are an "enemy of God." (James 4: 4.) I was told last summer that a certain brother made a half dozen trips carrying other men's wives and daughters to the polls to vote. I have wondered how many trips he has ever made in a single day to carry such people to worship the great God of heaven. Don't love "the things of this world." (1 John 2: 15-17.) world will pass away, but he that doeth the will of God will abide forever." (1 John 2: 17.) Unless we come out and be separate, and touch not the unclean thing, God is not our Father, and we are not his sons and daughters. (See 2 Cor. 6: 17, 18.)

Comment on the Quarterlies.

"I have examined with some care the Advanced, Intermediate, and Primary Quarterlies for the first quarter of 1922, published by the McQuiddy Printing Company, of Nashville, Tenn In my humble judgment, all are of a high order and will prove very helpful to Bible students. In the Advanced and the Intermediate Quarterlies each lesson is divided into its principal parts, the divisions indicated in large type, thus enabling the student to mentally grasp and hold these divisions, an important thing in the study of any subject. The comments are terse and clear, using Scripture to throw light upon other scriptures. The Primary Quarterly is the author's masterpiece. The lesson story is told in such a straightforward and interesting way as to almost compel attention. The large print makes it readable, with ease, to young folks. I can and do conscientiously commend these Quarterlies." (T. Q. Martin, St. Marys, W. Va.)

"I have examined quite a number of the lessons in the Advanced Quarterly for the first quarter of 1922, prepared by F. W. Smith, and am very highly pleased with the work. It is a decided improvement over any other Quarterly I have ever seen in two particulars, at least. First, avoids burdening the lesson with a redundancy of Scripture references impossible for the student to look up; secondly, in its original and unique method of dealing with the Golden Text, which in all other Quarterlies stands as a sort of ornamental filler, rather than as a practical part of the lesson. One or two scripture references directly on the point are as good as a hundred, and do not 'pad the lessons,' so to speak." (D. E. McCorkle.)

"Through the kindness and courtesy of the McQuiddy Printing Company, I have received sample copies of the Advanced, Intermediate, and Primary Quarterlies for the first quarter of 1922. I have examined them with much interest and some care. Their teaching is 'sound doctrine.' The fact that Brethren F. W. Smith and F. B. Srygley are the editors is a guarantee of safety and faithfulness in I cannot say that this literature is better or will teaching. be better than it has been heretofore when edited by that scholarly, painstaking, and Bible-loving man of God, Brother E. A. Elam, but feel sure there will be no deterioration nor lowering of the high standard to which he held the Quarterlies. These are fine for private study; and for those Bible schools who want literature, there is nothing equal to them. I have never been in favor of the use of such literature, but in the hands of an efficient and tactful teacher, who will have his pupils to also have the Bible in hand in the class, much more good can be accomplished than by the desultory reading of a chapter under a teacher who generally has not studied his lesson. For those who wish the literature and who think they can accomplish more good with it than without it, I would recommend that they order from the McQuiddy Printing Company, Nashville, Tenn." (Ira C. Moore, Charleston, W. Va.)

Opportunity.

They do me wrong who say I come no more When once I knock and fail to find you in: For every day I stand outside your door, And bid you wake and rise to fight and win.

Wail not for precious chances passed away.
Weep not for golden ages on the wane;
Each night I burn the records of the day;
At sunrise every soul is born again.

Laugh like a boy at splendors that have sped; To vanish joys be blind and deaf and dumb. My judgments seal the dead past with its dead, But never bind a moment yet to come.

Though deep in mire, wring not your hands and weep; I lend my aid to all who say, "I can." No shamefaced outcast ever sank so deep But he might rise and be again a man.

-Walter Malone.

0 0 0

The Love of Country.

It is a common saying that every man of the city expects to own a farm and live in the country. There is a deep lenging for the association with nature.

We are getting to be a nation of cities. It is not a good sign for the moral uplift of the world. Thomas Jefferson spoke of the city as "the sore spot of the body politic." City life is more or less enervating. It tends to soften the moral tissues—It has many advantages, but many dangers also. The father and mother whose boy, and especially whose girl, has gone to the city to live and labor, cannot help feeling that they have gone into a place of danger.

When we come to our Southland, we find the large proportion of its population in the country. Some have estimated it as high as seventy-five per cent. And at the same time we find a people conservative and moral, cultivating the finer side of life, and not altogether swallowed up in money-making.

The love of the country is one of the primal instincts of Edenic birth. God set the first man to farming and taught him agriculture.

When God wanted to instruct a man in all the deep things of law, statesmanship, and religion, he put him on the backside of an uninhabited land. There Moses thought over and thought out all those great facts he had acquired in his course at the University of On.

When Job was bowed down in despair, his foolish wife failing him, his friends joining in the chorus of condemnation, and his own heart confused within him, God took him out and showed him the wonders of nature in the wide expanses of the country. We have a higher example of the divine use of country life. Jesus gathered about him the troubled, and led them out to the open air and the flowery field of the countryside, and showed them lilies blossoming in their unequaled beauty, the sparrows as they reared their young, the very grass that to-day is and to-morrow is fired under the oven, and taught men the minute and unceasing providence of God. The church is concerned with people. The kingdom of God includes all parts of man's naturehis social, aesthetic, material, and intellectual, as well as religious side. In fact, we cannot divide man up into water-tight and soul-tight apartments and say we have something to do with this and nothing with that.

What can increase the love of the country, render more satisfied the growing generation, and keep on the farms the best of our youth?

The most compelling purpose in driving men to the city is love of associating with our fellow man. Then anything that satisfies this craying in our country will help.

What an opportunity here has the church to develop and encourage anything that will bring the people together. Good roads central buildings for social purposes in connection with the church, bright acetylene lights, telephones, consolidated schools with children carried miles to a really fine building and good school.

As we ride through the country and see the barnlike churches sitting back in the woods, cold and lonesome and dark and unpainted, can we wonder that the young people seek the bright light and cheerful surroundings of the city?

Why are the ministers leaving the country? It is extremely difficult to secure young ministers for country churches. It is a pitiful fact that the church is running away from its largest population and neglecting its best source of supply. No greater mission can be given to a young minister than to take a whole county, it may be, and make it attractive and uplifted and happy in the development of a new country life and spirit.—Selected.

0 0 0

Voicing Our Gratitude.

A neighbor found his recreation during a hot summer in refurnishing his home to delight his loved ones on their return from vacation. The parlor gleamed with new pictures, and every chamber had its souvenir of thoughtfulness. He said: "It paid to see their enjoyment. But one thing broke me all up. My little Dot climbed into my lap and kissed me and said: 'Papa, you was weal good, wasn't you?' She was the only one that said so. Eless ber heart!"

The least thing you or I can do to show that we are thankful is to say so. If you are a Christian, that means a confession of your faith in the goodness of God. If you are not a Christian, and only a deist, then emulate, if you do not imitate, the boy Goethe, who made a tiny altar, put on it some combustibles, and placed it in the window, where the sun's rays would make them flash.

Try also to feel grateful. A class of deaf-mutes was asked to define gratitude. One wrote: "Gratitude is the memory of the heart." Noah Webster could not beat that. To kindle a sense of thankfulness, we have only to think Rubbing will set dry sticks on fire: heart fibers will do as much under the friction of purposeful remembrance. An old man could not come to church, so he spent the morning in recollecting the events of his life. It was his last worship on earth. Two days later he was gone. Some of as are going out of life like boorish guests who depart without thanking their host.

Do something to show your gratitude. Has the year been Help somebody who is in need. Has your prosperous? faith comforted you? Tell it to somebody who is staggering under his load without the assurance of the divine love. Edwin Booth, after a terrible bereavement, wrote to a friend: "O, that I could give you the full companionship of the love of God as I have felt it since Mary's death, the peace that has filled my soul, and the strength that has flowed steadily into it since that terrible day!" Did he give the companionship of God? Nay, that is for God himself to give; but he led the way into the house of comfort, where God always lives and waits to bless all who will become guests of his affection. Are you grateful for 1921? Try to lift son ebody else into the sunshine. Sir John Lubbock tells us that ants will drop the load of sweetness they are carrying to the nest and carry in any wounded or sick ant. "Go to the ant, thou sluggard; consider her ways and be wise."—James M. Ludlow.

0 0 0

It is only persons of firmness that can have real gentleness.—Rochefou,

By J. C. McOUIDDY.

J. T. Daniel, 1903 Park Avenue, Chicago, Ill., says: "Please to answer in the Gospel Advocate (1) what part of Matt. 27: 51-54 occurred before Christ was buried and rose again. Please explain verse 53. (2) Do Isa. 26: 19 and Hos. 13: 14 refer to the resurrection of Christ?"

1. The passages are: "And behold, the veil of the temple was rent in two from the top to the bottom; and the earth did quake; and the tocks were rent; and the tombs were opened; and many bodies of the saints that had fallen asleep were raised; and coming forth out of the tombs after his resurrection they entered into the holy city and appeared unto many." It is clear that the veil of the temple (sanctuary) was rent in two from the top to the bottom when Christ yielded up his spirit. Here is what Mark and Luke mention as occurring at the crucifixion. Mark (15: 38) says: "And the veil of the temple was rent in two from the top to the bottom," Luke (23: 44-46) says: "And it was now about the sixth hour, and a darkness came over the whole land until the ninth hour, the sun's light failing: and the veil of the temple was rent in the midst. And Jesus, crying with a loud voice, said, Father, into thy hands I commend my spirit: and having said this, he gave up the ghost." Taking the three evangelists together, it appears that the darkness over the land, the failing of the sun's light, and the rending in two the veil of the sanctuary from top to bottom took place at the crucifixion. Matthew gives information which neither Mark nor Luke gives when he says: "And the earth did quake; and the rocks were rent: and the tombs were opened; and many bodies of the saints that had fallen asleep were raised; and coming forth out of the tombs after his resurrection they entered into the holy city and appeared unto many." The earthquake was at the crucifixion, but the resurrection of the bodies of the saints was after Christ's death, burial, and resurrection, for Christ became "the first fruits of them that slept." (1 Cor. 15: 20.) Then all mentioned by Matthew, save that connected with the resurrection of the saints, happened at the crucifixion.

2. The passages read: "Thy dead shall live; my dead hodies shall arise. Awake and sing, ye that dwell in the dust: for thy dew is as the dew of herbs, and the earth shall cast forth the dead," (Isa. 26: 19.) "I will ransom them from the power of Sheol; I will redeem them from death; O death, where are thy plagues? O Sheol, where is thy destruction? repentance shall be hid from mine eyes." (Hos. 13: 14.) The passage in Isaiah expressly refers to Christ's resurrection and the saints that should rise with him. The passage in Hosea refers to the Israelites as dead and buried in their Babylonish captivity. They should be ransomed from this, which looks forward to Christ's power over death by rising from the grave.

0 0 0

J. E. Gorsuch, Crockett Mills, Tenn., is interested in missionary work and inquires as follows concerning the plan of doing missionary work, the number of missionaries in foreign fields, etc.: "I am interested in the missionary cause and doing the Lord's work as within my power. There is some discussion through here regarding missionary work and the plan or how of it. Will you direct me to the book, chapter, and verse giving the Lord's plan for the church to carry out the last commission of the risen Lord'. Again, can you give me some information as to the number of missionaries and native workers on the foreign field, the number of stations occupied, the number of converts made, and the amount of money spent last year in foreign work? How many schools, orphanages, and teachers are there on the foreign field? Are there any records on the home field work?"

I know of no specific plan of doing mission work. When all authority in heaven and on earth had been given unto Christ, he said to his disciples: "Go ye therefore, and make disciples of all the nations, baptizing them into the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit: teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I commanded you: and lo I am with you always, even unto the end of the world." (Matt. 28: 19, 20.) It is the duty of Christians to obey the command of Christ. The specific method of going is not revealed. The Holy Spirit does not tell us whether to go on foot, on horseback, on an express train, or on an airplane. The method of going is left to our convenience and common sense. When the Holy Spirit separated Barnabas and Saul for the work whereunto the Lord called them, being sent forth by the church, they sailed to Cyprus at Salamis, where they proclaimed the word of God in the synagogues. After they had completed this journey, they returned to Antioch; but "when they were come, and had gathered the church together, they rehearsed all things that God had done with them, and that he had opened a door of faith unto the Gentiles." (Acts 14: 27.) Thus we see that, being sent forth by the church, when their work was complete, they reported to the church and not some central board. There was no general board backing them. but they felt duty bound to report their work to the church that had sent them forth. The churches of Christ, under the direction of the Lord Jesus Christ, should send out missionaries and support them in his work. As to the number of missionaries in the foreign field, I do not know El. S. Jelley is at work in India. Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Rhodes. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fox, Miss Lillie Cypert, Miss Sarah Andrews (who is now on a furlough attending the David Lipscomb College), O. Fujimori, Y. Hiratsuka, H. Ishiguro (now in Abilene Christian College), the three last named natives of Japan, and J. M. McCaleb, are working in Japan. In South Africa there is one American couple who is beginning the work-Brother and Sister W. N. Short. It is estimated that something over ten thousand dollars annually is contributed to the support of these missionaries. As to the correctness of this estimate, I cannot vouch. am sure there is great room for improvement in mission work. With God, no one is a foreigner; every soul is important in his sight. The command to us is to "preach the gospel to every creature," to "the whole creation," and no one can be a Christian without having a missionary spirit. The man who is a true convert desires to make known to others the way of life. The great hindrance to missionary work is a lack of zeal and enthusiasm. We should give our very best to the service of God.

0 0 0

J. S. Holland, Hanlin, Ga., is interested about Christ's-sheep. He says: "Please give me an explanation of John-10: 27-29. I understand that the followers of Christ are sometimes called 'sheep.' Will all the sheep do what the three verses that I have referred to says? I will thank you very much if you will give me a clear answer."

"My sheep hear my voice, and I know them, and they follow me: and I give unto them eternal life; and they shall never perish, and no one shall snatch them out of my hand. My Father, who hath given them unto me, is greater than all; and no one is able to snatch them out of the Father's band." Verse 27 very clearly declares that Christ's sheep follow him. All who obey and follow Christ are his sheep, and Christ will give unto them eternal life; no one shall take them from him, and they shall never perish. Centainly all who do the will of God are Christ's sheep, and. If faithful unto the end, will at last inherit eternal life.

You Would Fly Out Of Your Skin

Eczema Makes You Wish You Could

Your disease, which is sometimes Your disease, which is sometimes called salt rheum, not only itches, but also burns, oozes, dries and scales over and over again. Sometimes it covers the whole body and causes intense suffering.

You have found that local applications have no lasting effect, and you want permanent relief.

You must thoroughly purify your blood or the eruption will continue to annoy, perhaps agonize you. Take Hood's Sarsaparilla. This blood-murifying medicine has been sucto annoy, perhaps agonize you. Take Hood's Sarsaparilla. This blood-purifying medicine has been successfully used in thousands of cases. To make and keep the bowels normally active, take Hood's Pills. They are gentle and thorough.

Makes a Family Supply of Cough Remedy Really better than ready-made cough syrups, and saves about $2. Easily and quickly prepared.

Really better than ready-made cough syrups, and saves about $2.
Easily and quickly prepared. 22222222222222222

If you combined the curative properties of every known "ready-made" cough remedy, you probably could not get as much real curative power as there is in this simple home-made cough syrup, which is easily prepared in a few minutes.

Get from any druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with syrup, using either plain granulated sugar syrup, clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, as desired. The result is a full pint of really better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for three times the money. Tastes pleasant and never spoils.

ant and never spoils.

This Pinex and Syrup preparation gets right at the cause of a cough and gives almost immediate relief. It loosens the phlegm, stops the nasty throat tickle and heals the sore, irritated members, so gently said.

tated membranes so gently and easily that it is really astonishing.

A day's use will usually overcome the ordinary cough and for bronchitis.

the ordinary cough and for bronchitis, croup, hoarseness and bronchial asthma, there is nothing better.

Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, and has been used for generations to break severe coughs.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind

MAKE LOAFING HENS LAY

While the price of eggs is high. Get three times the number of eggs you have been getting by using CaroVet Egg Producer, a wonderful poultry tonic. Satisfactory results guaranteed by money-back offer. 2%-pound packages, with full directions, for only 89c, delivered at your door. Send money order, stamps, or check.

CAROLINA REMEDIES CO., No. 3 CaroVet Building, Union, S. C.

Girls!! Girls!! Save Your Hair With Cuticura osp and Ointment to clear Dandruff and itching, 25c.

FIELD REPORTS

Cookeville, Tenn., Dec. 20.-I am pleased to report increased interest in all lines of work. The attendance on Lord's days is very satisfactory, especially at the morning service. Splendid interest in all Bible classes, of which we have five distributed through the work as conditions permit. The Lord's-day contributions have many times multiplied in the last month till on the second Sunday in this month it reached $111.01 and yesterday $91.61. We have had two baptisms also during the last month. All seem anxious to make this a good year in the history of the church. To this end, we shall seek to enlist the labors and prayers of each one.

J. Pettey Ezell.

Ravenden Springs, Ark., Dec. 15. I am now near the end of my year's work in the Master's vineyard, and think perhaps many might be interested in the work in this part of the vineyard. I have worked for the most part in Randolph County, Ark., and can report some real good results. There have been about one hundred souls added to the one body and many others restored. We had some fine meetings. I held eight meetings, taught about four months in a public school, taught three singing schools, and preached at my appointment work some. We have a plan to keep some one busy in our county all the time if we can. We really need two preachers for mission points.-E.

Alabama City, Ala., Dec. 18.-Our work is progressing nicely here. Today was our second Lord's-day-morning service, and there were twentyfive present, a gain of nine from last Lord's day. Brother T. S. Williams, from Attalla, Ala., preached an interesting sermon. Within a radius of three miles there are twenty-four thousand people, and not a preacher of the gospel in Alabama City. is one of the largest mission fields in North Alabama. We have full access to a large auditorium that will seat several hundred people. A Birming-ham church is going to help us support a good preacher and build up a large congregation here. We will be glad to hear from some one who is willing to come and take up the work in Alabama City, and the congrega-tion will give such a one hearty support.-Jake Hamilton.

Brunswick, Ga., Dec. 15.—The work at this place is progressing nicely. We have been able to secure Brother J. B. Beck, who is well known to all the readers of the Gospel Advocate. He is spending one week each month and preaches on Lord's day and night. We are having cottage prayer meetings in the homes of some of the people. The support coming from people. The support coming from some individuals and the congregation at Lexington, Ky., has been greatly appreciated. Brother M. F. Chenault, of West Columbia, Texas, has come to help in the work here. I regret it very much, but duty is taking us away from this work. We taking us away from the work. We are leaving here for Detroit, Mich. I want to urge those who can and are helping in the support here to continue it promptly. I have never worked with a more earnest band of disciples than the few here. I want the prayers of the people for the work here. Send all donations to work here. Send all donations to Mrs. E. A. Stuckey, Brunswick, Ga., Box 282.—Mrs. R. L. Crowell.

Shelbyville, Ky., Dec. 16.—Last Sunday I was at the Forks of Elkhorn and Shelbyville. The work at the Forks is moving along with fine interest. We have fine attendance there every Sunday. The Shelbyville work is holding its own well. Last Wednesday I was at the prayer meeting of the Campbell Street Church, in Louisville. It is a real treat to visit these brethren. They are up and doing. Brother Kurfees is giving special in-struction in the Sunday-school lessons every Wednesday night after the prayer meeting. It is gratifying to see all the brethren remain after the prayer service to prepare their lesson for the following Sunday. Brethren, we are needing help badly at Shelbyville. Only one dollar has been sent in answer to our written appeals. How brethren with means can shelve this most important appeal is more than I can understand. I appeal again to the churches to kindly send us a liberal donation at once. We want to begin our building next Apri' R. A. Craig.

England, Ark., Route 2, Dec. 17 .-A religious discussion was held at Blakemore Church between Brother Joe H. Blue, of Morriston, Ark., and Elder R. S. Burnett, of England, Ark. Four propositions were discussed, as follows: The future establishment of the kingdom, the immortality of the soul, the resurrection of the dead, and the final punishment of the wicked. The debate embraced four days, and was well attended. Elder Burnett made a strong fight for the Christadelphian faith, but his cause went down in defeat. I consider Brother Blue the strongest defender of the truth that I have ever heard. He has held seventy debates. Brother Bar-ber, of Morrilton; Brother Arrington, of Stephens; and Brother Burnett, of Hazen, were the preaching brethren who attended. Some three or four Christadelphian preachers were present. The brethren were more than pleased with Brother Blue's defense of the truth. I acted as Brother Blue's moderator. All correspondents will please address me at 393 Essex Street, Beaumont, Texas. -Will W. Slater.

Ontario, Cal., Dec. 12.-Brother S. H. Hall delivered an interesting discourse here on December 8. This will probably be Brother Hall's last visit here before he begins work in his new field of labor, at Nashville, Tenn., January I. Brother Hall's work in Southern California has been very fruitful and is highly appreciated by the brethren. In addition to his intensive labors in Los Angeles, he held profitable meetings in Ontario, Riverside, Pomona, and Downey, with a large number of conversions at each place. The Los Angeles work went forward by leaps and bounds. His soundness in the faith, exalted con-ception of the church, deep consecration, tireless energy, good judgment, passion for lost souls, knowledge of the Scriptures, together with his clear, kind, forcible way of presenting the truth, make him one of the greatest preachers of the gospel now living. I am sure I speak the sentiment of practically the entire brotherhood of Southern California when I say that we are sorry that he is going away, but we are glad he came. He has helped us and the cause we love. Our very best wishes and prayers accompany him to his new field of labor. I hope that some time, in the providence of God, he may return to the Golden West and resume his labor in the Master's vineyard. "God be with you till we meet again."—Samuel E. Witty.

Wheat and Chaff.

BY A. ELLMORE.

Suffering in a good cause is better than rejoicing in a bad cause.

If there were no authority for the church, then I would have no use for any society but the family.

When the sheep has matured his suit, without charge, he gives it away, and begins immediately to provide for himself another.

The following requisites will cause almost any devout man to pray: great faith, great need, and great trouble.

Our mistakes of yesterday ought to help us improve upon our efforts today. A teamster will hardly drive twice over the same broken bridge.

No man is capacitated for everything, and he could not use all the talents if he had them. Then, let us first find out what we can do the best, and do that with all our might, and thank God for all our gifts.

To do good for evil is of God; to do good for good is of man; but doing evil for good is of the evil one. Let us do good and forget it.

It would be well for every one who sings in worship to pause and ask himself: "Am I singing to praise God, or just to please the people?"

It is not enough that we confess our sins. The drunkard confesses his sins as soon as he sobers. We should confess our sins and forsake them.

A weary traveler may need the gospel; but if he be worn and hungry, in order to gain his confidence and his attention, it might be best to give him first a good supper, then preach to him.

I have no doubt but if many of us could spare the time and would go into private where we could have no visitors and no literature but the Bible and be held in that prison thirty days, it would be a great benefit to us.

Many people become anxious at times to know the future. Little children can hardly wait until they become grown; some adults consult the old gypsy wife and have her explain and reveal the future; while some ignorant ones consult the spirit medium to learn the condition of their dead friends. Foolish people!

Suppose God would take us up and

THANKFUL PE-RU-NA DID HER FOR GOOD PE-RU-NA YEARS AGO.

Keeps the Medicine with Her for Safety

Mrs. Carl Linder, R. F. D. No. 2, Box 44, Dassel, Minnesota, writes: "I want to thank you for your kindness and the good your remedy did me years ago. I am perfectly well and visiting in Spokane, Wash. Were it not for Pe-ru-na I would not have been able to make this trip. I always take your medicine with me for safety should I take cold. Praise to Pe-ru-na."

As an emergency remedy for everyday ills, Pe-ru-na has been in use fifty years.

TABLETS OR LIQUID

SOLD EVERYWHERE

open the future, reveal all the good and all the evils, all our losses and all our gains, all our happiness and all our sorrows for twenty years, what would be the influence upon our lives? Would not such information destroy our trust in God's attending providence? But we need not ask God to reveal the future, and it is useless for us to ask witches or familiar spirits to do so.

We are not running by sight, but we are walking by faith. Then, let us abide strictly by "what is written," ask nothing more and be satisfied with nothing less, and let us be faithful and thankful.

The Work in St. Louis, Mo.

BY W. W. MOODY.

The work in St. Louis continues very encouraging. Good attendance and good interest at all services—Sundays, morning and evening, and midweek meetings. The congregation now numbers about seventy compared with something like thirty-five members the first of last June, an increase of one hundred per cent.

Brother W. A. Sevedge, who has been with us as an evangelist for the past four months, is doing fine work, and is very much appreciated by all for his untiring efforts, zeal, and enthusiasm.

We expect, by the grace of God, to have another tent meeting on our lot in the spring, and several other tent meetings in various parts of the city during the coming summer season; and, as soon as possible, to build a suitable house of worship on our lot.

There is now only one thing to hinder the onward progress of the church here—the lack of sufficient funds—not to build a meetinghouse (we are trying to take care of this part of the work among ourselves), but to support Brother Sevedge while he labors with us to spread the precious truth of God and to save lost souls.

Just think of it! A city of one million souls with so few who claim to be simply Christians and Christians only. We are sure all will agree that here is an opportunity to do some real missionary work

The Bible the Magna Charta.

The Bible has been the Magna Charta of the poor and of the oppressed.

"Down to modern times, no State has had a constitution in which the interest of the people are so largely taken into account, in which the duties so much more than the privileges of rulers are insisted upon, as that drawn up for Israel in Deuteronomy and Leviticus. Nowhere is the fundamental truth that the welfare of the State, in the long run, depends upon the righteousness of the citizen, so strongly laid down.

"The Bible is the most democratic book in the world."—Theodore Roose-

The Bible the Best Guide.

More and more it is realized that the Bible is the only book in the world which can be applied to all classes, all conditions, and all times.

"Written and compiled thousands of years ago, when the world was in its infancy, and when humanity was groping its way out of the darkness into the light, its wonderful images, its inspiring stories, and its uplifting spirituality make it as valuable an agent of civilization and as powerful a factor in the uplift of humanity as ever it was.

"In fact, the Bible is found to be the best-known guide for social progress, for political construction, and for industrial peace."—The New York Herald.

Renew your subscription to the Gospel Advocate.

Hot Springs Waters Wonderfully Successful in the Treatment of Rheumatism

The peculiar properties of the waters of the Hot Springs of Arkansas are due to radio activity, found in them to an exceptionally marked degree, and their equal has never been known in the treatment of rheumatism, and all uric-acid troubles.
These springs are owned and controlled by the United States Government.

The cost of living at Hot Springs may be regulated to suit any purse, accommodations varying from moderatepriced boarding houses up to the most fashionable hosteiries

Write for Our Handsomely Illustrated Hot Springs Book

The Way There is via the

Missouri Pacific

Low Rates Year Round

C. L. STONE P. T. M., St. Louis

Use

Antiseptic Analgesic Antiphlogistic (Prevents Infection) (Relieves Paln) (Allays Inflammation)

A dependable preventative of liseases of the air passages and an excellent curative agent for inflammatory conditions of the skin and mucous membranes. Does not injure delicate skin. Fine for baby. There's a wonderful amount of comfort, health and protection in a 2 oz. jar. 50c at your druggist's or by mail from

Piedmont Laboratories, Inc.,

Renew your subscription.

Gospel Trumpet Blasts.

BY A. A. BUNNER.

"Whereby are given unto us exceeding great and precious promises: that by these ye might be partakers of the divine nature, having escaped the corruption that is in the world through lust." (2 Pet. 1: 4.) Us! Yes, us. Well, who are the "us" spoken of in the above, to whom are given the "exceeding great and precious promises?" This is a question that we must either settle definitely and scripturally in our minds in order that we may know to a certainty that the promises are ours, or else live and die in doubt. If the "us" includes you and me, then we can go on our way rejoicing. Well, let us see if we can settle the question scripturally. "Know ye not that so many of us [no more, no less] as were baptized into Jesus Christ were baptized into his death?" (Rom. 6: 3.) "The like figure whereunto even baptism doth also now save us." (1 Pet. 3: 21.) "But," says one, "I was saved without baptism." Well, then, you were not saved like "us," and this "us" includes the apostle Peter and all those to whom he wrote his first letter. Hence, you are not of "us;" and if saved at all, your salvation makes God a respecter of persons, which thing I do not for one moment believe. Hence, you had better make sure of your salvation before you go too far.

But as we have found out to a certainty who all belong to the "us," a few words of kindly warning and admonition are due them. These "exceeding great and precious promises" are given "that by these ye might be partakers of the divine nature." Not that you were partakers of that divine nature as soon as you became the heirs to these promises-no, nobut that by these you might be partakers, continually and day by day appropriating to yourself the divine nature. When we are sure that we are heirs to all of the promises of God in Christ Jesus our Lord, this surety gives us the hope that is the sure "anchor to the soul" (Heb. 6: 19); and John (1 John 3: 3) says: "Every man that hath this hope in him purifieth himself, even as he is pure." To men or women who have not the most implicit faith and confidence in these promises, they are of no use; but if they have implicit faith in them, they will show it to the world by "giving all diligence" and adding to their faith virtue, knowledge, temperance, patience, godliness, brotherly kindness, and love. (2 Pet. 1: 5-7.) Such will just simply take God at his word, believe all that he has said, even to such things as recorded in 2 Cor. 8: 11-24; 9: 6-13; 1 John 4: 11-21; 1 Cor. 16: 1, 2; Rom. 16: 17, 18; Heb. 10: 23-25. Yea, the congregations will be imitators of the Philippian church. (Phil. 4: 8-16.)

We now come to the proper nature. There are two natures of which Christians have to decide for themselves which one they will be controlled bythe divine and human natures. God never intended that his creature. man, should be led and governed by the impulses of his human nature. Cain's posterity were led by it, and the results were such that the whole race of man became so corrupt that even the sons of God contaminated themselves with the daughters of men, so much so that Jehovah said unto Noah that "all flesh had corrupted his way upon the earth." (See Gen. 6: 11, 12.) Paul, in Rom. 1: 21-31, gives us a dark picture, showing the condition of the world when led by the impulses of human nature. In fact, the Bible gives us plenty of testimony along these lines. Saul of Tarsus, when under the influence of his human nature, could say of the Christians, "I was exceedingly mad against them, and persecuted them even unto strange cities;" and when Stephen was slain, he stood by, consenting unto his death. But when under the influence of the divine nature, he could admonish his brethren: "Brethren, avenge not yourselves. If thine enemy hunger, feed him,' etc. Stephen, under this divine influence, when dying, could pray for his enemies thus: "Lay not this sin to their charge." Should the time come when all Christians will come wholly under the happy influence of the divine nature, then, and not until then, will we have no more jealousies, liars, talebearers, slanderers, thieves, drunkards, adulterers and adulteresses, fornicators, false brethren, and hobby riders, and selfishness will wholly cease, and we will be the people that God wants us to be. Brethren, "be not deceived; God is not mocked." Let us all strive, then, to come under the entire control of the divine nature. "If we live in the Spirit, let us walk in the Spirit, and make no provision for the flesh, to fulfill the lusts thereof." One great reason why the gospel is not being preached to every creature to-day is that Christians are walking after the flesh. O for more imitators of the Christ along all lines of Christian duty and living! "Whereby are given unto us exceeding great and precious promises." Brother, sister, does this include you?

Among the Colored Folks

Alonzo Jones' Report.

During the first six months of this year I preached once a month for the Mount Lavana congregation. Four were reclaimed, one baptized. the third Sunday in April I preached in Lebanon, Tenn. One confession. On the second Sunday in May I began a meeting in Murfreesboro, Tenn., which resulted in one confession and baptism. On the first Sunday in July I began a meeting in Tullahoma, Tenn. Two were baptized. On July 10 I preached at Lynchburg, Tenn., with one confession and baptism. On July 17 I began a meeting in Widener, Ark. All doors were closed against me. I began preaching under an oak tree and continued ten days. Five precious souls were baptized. On the fifth Sunday in July I began a meeting under a brush arbor near Water Valley, Tenn. Two obeyed the truth. On the first Sunday in August I began a meeting at Hillsboro, Tenn., and had good crowds, but no additions. On the second Sunday in August I began a meeting sixteen miles above Fayette, Ala., and closed with nine additions. On the fourth Sunday in August I began a meeting near Match, Tenn. I found the church in bad condition. There were no additions, but the church was edified. On the first Sunday in September I began my eighth meeting with the Duck River congregation, near Shady Grove, Tenn. The meeting closed at the water's edge with nineteen additions. On the second Sunday in September I began a meeting in Viola, Tenn., and closed at the water's edge with nine additions. On September 19 I joined Brother J. H. Hall in a meeting six miles from Columbia, Tenn. One confession and baptism. On the second Sunday in October I began a meeting in Louisville, Ky., with the Burnett Avenue congregation. No additions. On the fourth Sunday in October I began a meeting in McMinnville, Tenn., and closed at the water's edge with eight additions. From November 8 to November 17 I was in Widener, Ark., again. All doors were again closed against me. At last I got the schoolhouse to preach three sermons in. One precious soul obeyed the gospel. On November 20 I began a meeting six miles from Fayette, Ala., in a destitute field. Four (Methodists) obeyed the gospel. My fourteenth meeting for this season began on December 4 with the congregation in Centerville. Tenn.

In some particulars this has been one of the hardest years I ever witnessed; yet I am willing to suffer for the Master's cause. I am glad to say that a few white brethren have been mindful of me. I have received some liberal contributions of money and clothing. I cannot express my gratitude to the ones that have ministered to my necessity. The Jefferson Street congregation has been very mindful of me this year. ALONZO JONES.

Alexander Campbell's Report for 1921.

I began a meeting on the second Lord's day in June on the Bellbuckle and Shelbyville Pike, near Brother W. G. White's farm. Four were baptized and two were restored.

The meeting at Dickson, Tenn., began on the third Lord's day in July. One was baptized.

On the fifth Lord's day in July I began a meeting at Farmington, Tenn. Four were baptized.

The meeting at Wetumpka, Ala., began on the second Lord's day in August. I thank Brother Selley, of Nashville, Tenn., for the contribution. Fifty souls were baptized in this meeting. The white Christians supported the meeting. They are doing a great work for the Lord. preachers of Nashville, both white and colored, should go to Alabama and see the great fields of work awaiting them. People by the thousands are starving for the gospel of Christ.

The meeting at Fosterville, Tenn., began on the fourth Lord's day in August. None were baptized.

The meeting at Scotch Chapel began on the first Lord's day in September and closed without any baptized.

The meeting at Chattanooga, Tenn., began on the second Lord's day in October. Two were baptized and three restored. This meeting was supported by the white Christians of Chattanooga. I am truly thankful to The white them for their help. church at Chattanooga and Wetumpka, Ala., are the strongest workers I have seen.

The meeting at Charleston, Miss., continued two weeks, but there were no baptisms.

The meeting at Oakland, Miss., continued one week. No baptisms.

Preaching at Jackson Street church of Christ, at Nashville, Sunday night. One confession was made.

BOILS, CUTS and BURNS have been healed since 1820 with

Gray's Ointment

Sold by all druggists. Write for sample to W. F. Gray & Co., 716 Gray Bldg., Nashville, Tenn.

In answering advertisements, please mention the Gospel Advocate.

"ALF and BOB TAYLOR, with their eloquence, their fiddles, and their for hounds, have wrought for themselves a niche of eternal melody in the hearts hounds, have wrought for themselves a niche of eternal melody in the hearts of their country."

So states the author of this little book, which we present as the best product of the pen of Delong Rice. Into one hour of reading he has gathered the strange and romantic story of the two most wonderful political campaigns of Teanessee—the thrilling tale of the happy comradeship and the lifelong rivalry of the two famous brothere—a disclosure of the remarkable and heretofore unpublished incidents that attended the political division of the Taylor family—the wonder of "The War of the Roses" that attracted the attention of the world—and the truth about "OLD LIMBER," the peerless and now immortal fox hound that played the leading role of sentiment in the political campaign of last fall, from the Mississippi River to the Unaka Mountains.

With a "Cast of Characters extending from a President of the United States to a fox hound," the story touches a wide range of human sentiment; and through it all is the aroma of crackling camp fires and the music of the chase.

THE BOOK is beautifully printed and bound, appropriately illustrated, and packed in a neat gift box, ready for mailing.

and bound, appropriately illustrated, and packed in a neat gift box, ready for mailing.

PRICE, $1.00 THE COPY, POSTPAID TO ANY ADDRESS.

Correspondence with Bookstores and News Agencies is invited. Special club rates to Fox Hunters' Associations, if ordered in sufficient where we have no Bookstore cus-tomer, we will offer an attractive propo-cetion to any energetic woman or man who may desire to handle the book.

Write to us to-day.

McQUIDDY PRINTING CO. MASHVILLE, TENN.

Stop Itching

Skins with Tetterine

60c. at your druggist's or from SHUPTRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

Rheumatic Pains Aches

are quickly relieved by CAPUDINE. It's liquid-agreeable to the stomach produces satisfactory and Standard for Headache and Grip also. 10c. 30, and 60c-TRY IT-LIKE IT.

Impurities from your body as you would dirt from your home.

Constinution is the cause of much disease.

Keep your system clean by using

Safe-Mild-Sure

Highly recommended for Torpid Liver, Biliousness, Constipation and Indigestion.

SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS

MILES MEDICAL CO., Elkhart, Ind.

TREATED ONE WEEK FREE

Short breathing relieved in a few hours; swelling reduced in a few hours; swelling reduced in a few days; regulates the liver, kidneys, stomach, and heart; purifies the blood; strengthens the entire system.

Write for Free Trial Treatment, COLLUM DROPSY REMEDY CO., Dept. E-43.

Atlanta, Gs.

lo Reduce Fever Relieve Headaches and Neuralyic Pains

Use

Aspitone is very efficient and absolutely safe to use as it does not depress the heart even in extreme cases of debility or weak heart, neurasthenia or anaemia. Manufactur-ed by a formula in use by leading physicians generally. 19 parts pure Aspirin, I part pure Caffeins. 4 parts excipient, in convenient tablet form. 35c per package at your druggists or 0) mall from the manufacturers, P.edmont Laboratories, Inc., Clinton S. C.

OBITUARIES

Sims.

Mrs. Gertrude Sims was born on September 14, 1848, and died on Octo-ber 17, 1921. She obeyed the gospel when she was about seventeen years old. She was good to the sick, and always helped the poor and needy. Sister Sims was faithful unto death. The funeral services were conducted by the writer at the home of Dr. D. C. Huff, the brother of the deceased, in the presence of a large audience of friends and sorrowing loved ones, after which the body was laid to rest in the family burying ground, to await the resurrection at the last day.
L. B. Jones.

Sellars.

Mrs. Avie Council Sellars, aged fifty-six years and five days, wife of S. T. Sellars, died on Thursday morning at eight o'clock, at her home at Fernvale, Tenn, Surviving her are her husband and seven children: Sam Sellars, of Nashville, Tenn.; Allen Sellars, of Fernvale; Mrs. Willie Carter, Mrs. Herman Hamilton, and Mrs. Martin Smith, of Franklin, Tenn.; Mrs. John Martin and Mrs. Grover Garner, of Nashville. Services were held at the residence on Friday afternoon by Elder W. T. Beasley. Interment was in the family burying ground. She was a good woman and a member of the Christian Church. It seems so sad to have to give up our mother, but the Lord knows best. She was a kind and tender-hearted woman, a true wife and mother. But we should not weep as those that have no hope, but hope to meet her in heaven when life is over.

HER DAUGHTER, ANNIE.

Hearn.

In the death of Brother L. Y. (Dock) Hearn, which occurred on October 14, 1921, the church of Christ at Paris, Texas, lost one of its great-est men. Brother Hearn was born on October 27, 1857. At the age of twenty-three he was married to Mattie L. Page, who was a faithful life companion, and who is now left, with the seven children who were born into the family, all of whom are now married. Brother Lee Garrett spoke words of comfort to the loved ones. The writer also had a short message for the friends and loved ones, selecting for a reading Heb. 12. Brother Hearn had spent all of his life in Paris. For forty years he had been employed by the city of Paris in different departments, and for the past seventeen years he had been Street Commissioner. He served the public; he did his best. The funeral services were held at the church building. The house was filled with people of all classes, including the mayor and other city officials and employees of the city, and they were all his friends. Just outside the door stood three or four of the colored men who had been with "Uncle Dock" for years as street men; and they loved him. He was at peace with all men, and we fully believe he is at peace with God.
ROBERT G. COOK.

Judgment.

It usually takes a very little superficial thinking to erect a personal judgment seat in one's own mind. To it we seldom summon the person to be judged, but often entertain some very untrustworthy witnesses. Sitting in judgment with an absent defendant is hypocrisy. So many lives have been ruined by the circulation of stories, partly true, but which fail in telling the other side. Our hope of pardon before God is that he will hear and understand the "other side of our plea."

Some one has said that we have two ears and one mouth, to hear twice as much as we say. "All her listening was tempered with the sweetest judgment," said a friend about one who had gone: "She was so gracious in letting what would hurt another slip by. She could not recall a single unpleasant thing about a neighbor." It was regulated by a full measure of God's love. That should determine our judgments. Selected.

A proven Remedy for Catarrh, Asthma, Tuberculosis. and similar troubles. For terms and testimonials write to

J. L. WEST REMEDY CO. Mt. Sterling, Ky.

Ceasing to Learn Carnal War. BY WILLIAM J. MILLER.

According to the teaching of the sacred Scriptures, there were to be people who would cease to learn carnal war. According to prophecies by Isaiah and Micali, a time was to come when people would beat swords into plowshares and learn war no more.

The time spoken of was to be "in the latter days" (Mic. 4: 1), and the people were to be of "many nations" (verse 2). In verse 3 Micali said: "And they shall beat their swords into plowshares, and their spears into pruning hooks; nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war any more." (See Isa, 2:1-5.)

Micah and Isaiah speak of this occurrence, explaining that it was to occur at Jerusalem. It was on the first Pentecost after the death and resurrection of Christ that the law went forth from Jerusalem, while the Jews of the nations were assembled there, and Peter preached to them. "Now there were dwelling at Jerusalem Jews, devout men, from every nation under heaven. And when this sound was heard, the multitude came together, and were confounded, because that every man heard them speaking in his own language." (Acts 2; 5, 6.) The "devout Jews" of the "nations," that were dwelling at Jerusalem, were the people that Isaiah and Micah were prophesying of. Therefore, it was not people that were not devout people that were spoken of in the prophecies.

A record of the last war that will have ever been is in the last prophecies. (See Rev. 20: 7-14.)

While people were under the law of Moses, people, by the approval of God, at times, fought in the wars, by directions which God gave. the law of Christ, there are no directions given for Christians to engage in world wars. Christians are to fight with "the sword of the Spirit, which is the word of God." (Eph. 6: 17.) Paul told Timothy to "fight the good fight of faith." (1 Tim. 6; 12.)

A Benediction for the New Year.

The Lord bless thee, and keep thee: the Lord make his face shine upon thee, and be gracious unto thee: the Lord lift up his countenance upon thee, and give thee peace. (Num. 6: 24-26.)

FEATHER BED OUTFIT

NOW ONLY $12.50 new, clean, santiary feathers, best bargains you ever saw. About half store price. Money-hack grarantee. Mult Money Order today, Catalogue free, Southern Feather & Pillow Co., Dent. P., Grzenshoro, N. C.

$3 VALUE GIVEN AWAY

By special arrangement with one of the leading Eastern manufacturers, we are able to offer our readers a real bargain in the

"CAPITOL" LEVER SELF-FILLING FOUNTAIN PEN

SOME OF ITS FINE POINTS

GOLD PENS are 14 K. gold, spring tempered with special care, pointed with hard iridium. These pens have been famous for more than half a century.

CLIP is riveted to the cap, and prevents loss of pen from the pocket.

HOLDERS are made of the best quality hard rubber, and are not injured by the ink.

Lever or filling device is riveted to the barrel; when raised for filling the pen, pushes the pressure bar and the sac, filling the pen full, clean and quick.

The retail selling price of the pen is three dollars, but to every reader who sends a new subscriber at the regular subscription price of $2.00 and adds one dollar we will send this pen as a mark of our appreciation. We will send it free to any one who sends us two new subscribers.

Please understand that the offer does not apply to renewals. It is made as a special inducement to get new subscribers.

Order early and avoid disappointment.

ADDRESS

GOSPEL ADVOCATE

317-319 Fifth Avenue, North

NASHVILLE, TENN.

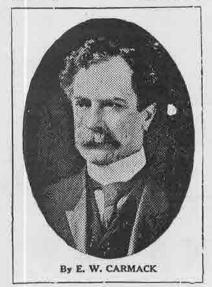

CHARACTER

OR

THE MAKING OF THE MAN

SUPREMELY ELOQUENT

DELIGHTFULLY INSTRUCTIVE

AGENTS WANTED SHOULD BE READ BY EVERYBODY

The verdict of the thousands who have read the book is: "No lecture extant is more interesting, charming, and philosophical. It is a classic and easily ranks with the best productions of modern authors. A million copies should be sold." Thousands of copies have been sold in a few days. It is beautifully bound in sheep coze, or library binding. Write at once to the publishers.

PRICE, $1.50 THE COPY

ADDRESS

McQUIDDY PRINTING CO.

Department

NASHVILLE

TENN

TETTERINE tor the COMPLEXION

60c at your druggist's or from Shuptrine Co., Savannah, Ga.

For Whooping Cough, Asthma, Spasmodic Croup, Nasal Catarrb, Bronchitis and Sore Throat

The Vapor Treatment for Coughs and Colds

The time to use Cresolene is at night. This fact appeals to every one, for the healing, mulseptic vapor is breathed all hight and is constainty in contact with the seat of the disease, relieving the cough and difficult breathing. Cresolene has been recommended and used for forty years. The benefit derived from it is unquestionable.

years. The benefit derived from it is inquestionable. Send For Descriptive Bookiet 43. For Sale By Druggists VAPO-CRESOLENE CO., 62 Cortlandt St., New York

What a Picture!

BY H. L. KIRBY.

Just think of a beat or county grown up in weeds or sedge grass, and my children and your children and our neighbors' children in that place, and we know it is to be set on fire real soon! If they are not rescued, they will burn alive. Our friends say to us: "Help me save my children." We say in reply: "I am not as good on the hunt as some one else. I had rather you would get them." Still, we are looking for this place to be set on fire any day. At the same time there is a set of people telling them: "O, it will not be fire; that is only a parable; it doesn't mean real fire." Others are saying: "If they are lost in this condition, you will have a thousand years' trial in which to be saved." We must not forget that there is but one way to come out of this place. We know this is true. Other people are telling our friends: "O, it does not make any difference which way you go; if you are just honest and sincere, it will be all right." While "all Authority" says, "One way;" and the time is coming nearer and nearer each day, hour, and minute.

The scene looks frightful to me. Then, again, we offer our help in this search, and the people that are interested will say: "You cannot search as good as some one I have seen hunting. I'll just wait and see if I can get some one like that fellow to help me; maybe it will work out all right." What would you think of such a condition? Would you not think them all acting very unwise? Yes, every one would be looked on as not giving the matter proper thought. We are sure it would be true in such a case.

In this world we would rise up and say: "Come on, and let us get them out of the danger." It doesn't make any difference if it does hurt somebody's feelings, I am going to do my best to save these poor people, whether they be rich or poor." You would ask any and all to fall into the hunt. If a man was on crutches, you would not say, "You cannot do any good;" but, "Come on and do the best you can." Doubtless it would be right.

We could not stand and look on such a picture. Still, in a religious sense, this picture is as true as can be. We all know there is but one Christ, and he said: "I am the way." (John 14: 6.) Again, he said: "I am the door." (John 10: 7.) "He that entereth not by the door into the sheepfold, but climbeth up some other way, the same is a thief and a robber." (Verse 1.) What shall happen to this class of wicked? They shall be cast into hell, with all nations that forget God. (Ps. 9: 17.) Will Christ save them when he comes back? Let us see. He shall be revealed from heaven with his mighty angels, in flaming fire taking vengeance on them that know not God, and that obey not the gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ." (2 Thess. 1: 7, 8.) Then, what is the condition of hell? Flames. (See Luke 16: 24.) They were hot, for the rich man wanted water to cool his tongue.

We cannot tell when this time is coming. "But of that day and hour knoweth no man, no, not the angels of heaven, but my Father only." (Matt. 24: 36.) Still, we hear from every street corner words like these: "It doesn't make any difference; if you are honest and sincere, you will be all right."

God will let you be misled. Yes, if you love not the truth, God will send you a strong delusion, that you may be damned who believe not the truth. (2 Thess. 2: 11, 12.)

What kind of fire is this? It can never be quenched. (Mark 9: 34.) How about this punishment? How long will it last? It is everlasting. (Matt. 25: 46.) Will I be tormented always? "And shall be tormented forever and ever." (Rev. 20: 12.)

Is not this picture enough to cause people to lay aside any excuse and go to work with all their might for the salvation of this world? I confess I have stood back and have not offered my service to the cause as I should. I shall not do it any more. We do not wait until we are the best at anything else. Why wait in this great work? May the Lord help us all to say: "Here am I; send me, send me.

TREMENDOUS VALUE FOR 15c.

The Pathfinder, Leading Weekly Magazine of Nation's Capital, Makes Remarkably Attractive Offer.

Washington, D. C., Special.—People is every section of the country are hurrying to take advantage of the Pathfinder's wonder ful offer to send that splendid illustrates review of the whole world thirteen weeks for 15 cents. It costs the editor a lot of mone, to do this; but he says it pays to invest is new friends, and, in spite of the high cos of his enlarged and greatly improved paper he makes this rare offer to bring his circulation up to 400,000 a week. You will like this paper. It is twenty-nine years old an now better than ever. Splendid stories an arre miscellany, Question Box answers allyour questions. Only 15 cents, mailed a once to Pathfinder, 93 Langdon Sta., Washington, D. C., will keep your whole family informed, entertained, helped, and inspired.

School Besks

Opera Chairs. Folding Chairs,

Kindergarten Chairs, School Supplies, Blackboards.

SOUTHERN DESK CO., Hickory, N. C.

The Only Way of Salvation.

BY C. W. DE ARMOND.

It is a strange thing to me that preachers will get up in the pulpit, claiming to be preaching the word of God, and say that one can be saved by faith alone, or without being baptized. I never have read any such thing as that in the New Testament: and if it is in there, I would like some one to tell me where I can find it. I think I read the Bible correctly, but, without adding to it, I can't find where faith alone will save any one; but I do find where faith is necessary to salvation. (Acts 10: 43; Rom. 5: 1; Rom. 1: 16; Acts 16: 30, 31; and other passages.) Now, then, the question is: "Will faith only save?"

In James 2: 17 we find that faith alone is dead; in James 2: 20, that faith without works is dead; and in James 2: 24, that we are not justified by faith only. In 1 Cor. 13: 2 we find that faith without love will not profit or amount to anything. In Gal. 5: 6 we read: "For in Jesus Christ neither circumcision availeth anything, nor uncircumcision; but faith which worketh by love." Now, then, it seems to me that since faith must work by love before it avails, then faith cannot save the moment that one has faith; for there certainly must be some time in which faith works before it saves.

By taking the New Testament and reading it, we can soon find out that we are not saved, or justified, by faith only. I will agree, however, that the Bible teaches that we are justified by faith, saved by faith. But as it is, faith is not the Savior. Christ is the Savior, and not faith. Man is saved by repentance, though repentance is not the Savior; but it is a means to the end-salvation in Christ. Man is also saved by confession and by baptism, and yet all of these cannot be Saviors. Our Savior is a Person, a And so faith, repentance, confession, and baptism are acts necessary to be performed to reach salvation in Christ, the Savior. And that is the only way of salvation, the only way to reach Christ, as I find it.

It does not make any difference how men may change this around and say this and that, the only way of salvation will always be just like it is now. For in Matt. 24: 35 we read: "Heaven and earth shall pass away, but my words shall not pass away.'

There are just lots of people being confused and misled by the teachings of men to-day by not reading and studying the Bible as they should on this subject. Now, then, let us all study the Bible more and teach other people the only way of salvation, as we know that there is only one way, and not any other; and if there is another way, it is by men and not by Christ. "And being made perfect, he became the author of eternal salvation unto all them that obey him." (Heb. 5: 9.)

Catarrh is an excessive secretion, accompanied with chronic inflammation, from the muceus membrane. Hood's Sarsaparilla acts on the muceus membrane through the blood, reduces inflammation, establishes healthy action, and radically cures all cases of catarrh.

STANDARD FOR 50 YEARS

NOT ONLY FOR CHILLS AND FEVER BUT A FINE GENERAL TONIC.

TETTERINE

Makes low necks and short sleeves possible. It clears the skin

60c at your druggist's or from the SHUP-TRINE CO., Savannah, Ga.

FRECKI

Now Is the Time to Get Rid of These Ugly Spots.

There's no longer the slightest need of feeling tshamed of your freekles, as Othine—double strength-is guaranteed to remore these homely speins.

Simply get an ounce of Othine—double strength-from your druggist, and apply a little of it night and morning and you should soon see that even the worst reckles have begun to disappear, while the lighter ones have vanished entirely. It is seldom that more than one ounce is needed to completely clear the skin nd gain a beautiful clear completion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength Othine as his is sold under guarantee of money back if it falls in remove freekles.

MEQUIDDY PRINTING CO.

	ENGRAVED VISITING CARDS		PLATE AND 100 CARDS
	11 11 00	Line	Extra Lines
ï	Mrs. Morris E. Barr		$1,50
2	Miss Virginia Haloy	5,25	2.75
3	Miss Puth Heath	3.25	1.50
4	Miss Emma R. Seathors	3.25	1.59
5	Miss Almyra Reams	3.75	2.00
6	Mrs. Carey Tt. Posegate	5.25	2.75
7	2755. Edward Glonn Walker	3.75	2.00
8	Mrs. Helen Simpson Cooper	5.25	2.75
9	Miss Elizabeth Burthell	3.75	2.00
10	Miss Kathleen Vaughan	5,25	2.75
11	Mrs. Justin Potter	5.25	2.75
12	MR. JOHN T. CAMPBELL	4.25	2.25
13	MR. FRANK B. EMMERLING	5.50	3.00
14	Miss Hester E. Bratten	5.50	3.00
15	MR. JACK SWANEY	3.75	2.00
16	MR.WILLIAM A. HUDSON	4,25	2,25
100 C 100 T 50 A 100 A	ards reprinted from plate		2,50 3,00 1,25
rhar	re $1.25 for each lot of 50.

Charge 25 per cent extra line rate for adding Mr., Mrs., Miss, etc., to old plates.

Faith.

BY P. T. PRYOR.

"Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved." (Acts 16: 31.) This was given by Paul and Silas in answer to the inquiry of the jailer: "What must I do to be saved?" I shall try to give a few reasons why they told him to believe on the Lord.

If for no other reason, it would doubtless save a long argument on baptism or works of any kind, for faith works. In speaking of Abraham offering Isaac upon the altar, James (2: 22) says: "Seest thou how faith wrought with his works?" Faith wrought or influenced Abraham to offer Isaac, Notice carefully, faith wrought. "By faith Noah, . moved with fear, prepared an ark." (Heb. 11: 7.) Noah built the ark; but what moved Noah? That's what we want to get at. If faith could move or influence Abraham to offer his only son upon the altar and move Noah to build the ark, Paul and Silas knew it would influence the jailer to be baptized.

"Faith without works is dead." A faith that will not move or influence any one to obey God is a dead faith. If we have a living faith, it will move us up to the house of God on the first day of the week. It will influence us in doing all the will of God. A faith that has no influence over us is a dead faith; and we will never grow any with a dead faith. Paul commended the Thessalonians "because your faith groweth." For anything to grow, it must have life. "The letter killeth, but the spirit giveth life." (2 Cor. 3: 6.) The "letter" here is the law of Moses. I believe a repetition of cold commands will kill any church. Why not preach more on faith? It will influence us to obey the commands. Paul and Silas preached faith to the jailer, and it moved him to be baptized. To be baptized without faith would not please God. So he "rejoiced, having believed in God." Notice, the rejoicing was ascribed to faith and not baptism, for his faith was the cause of his being baptized. So he was justified, or saved, by faith.

"But they have not all obeyed the gospel. For Esaias saith, Lord, who hath believed our report?" (Rom. 10: 16.) Is it not a fact that the proof of their disobedience was in their unbelief? They did not believe the preaching, therefore did not obey. How do we get faith? "But these are written, that ye might believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God: and that believing ye might have life through his name." (John 20: 31.) "So then faith cometh by hearing, and hearing by the word of God." (Rom. 10: 17.) We are not only saved by faith, but it keeps us safe.

Save Your Body Conserve Your Health and Efficiency First "I Would Not Part With It For $10,000" So writes an enthusiastic, grateful customer "Worth more than a farm" says another In like manner testify over 100,000 people who have worn it. The Natural Body Brace Overcomes WEAKNESS and ORGANIC ALIMENTS of MEN and WOMEN. Develops erect, graceful figure. Brings restful relief, comfort, ability to do things, health and strength.

Wear it 30 Days Free at Our Expense. Does away with pain of standing and walking; replaces and supports misplaced internal organs; reduces enlarged abdomen; straightens and strengthens the back; corrects stooping shoulders; develops lungs, chest and hust; relieves backache, curvatures, nervaness. replaces and fully the first of the straightens and strengthens the back; corrects stooping shoulders; develops lungs, chest and hust; relieves backache, curvatures, nervaness. replaces conscioution. tures, nervousness, ruptures, constipation, after effects of Fin. Comfortable and easy to wear. Keep Yourself Fit. Write today for illustrated booklet, measurement blank, etc., and read our liberal proposition. HOWARD C. RASH, Press. Natural Body Brace Co. 137 Rash Bidg., Salina, Kas.

A New and Real Help for Sunday-School Teachers and Students ELAM'S NOTES ON 1922 BIBLE LESSONS

Entire Year's Lessons and Comments in One Substantial Volume Handsome Cloth Binding-Over 300 Pages

E. A. Elam has written Quarterlies for Advanced, Intermediate, and Primary Classes for the last twenty-two years. His lessons have been used by schools and teachers in every State in the Union and many parts of Canada.

All who know of his past work need no further introduction to him or to the new book.

The permanent binding keeps the lessons in neat shape all the year, and then can be kept in library for future reference. Order one for each pupil, from the Intermediate Classes up. Count them and order enough.

The first cost is the only cost for the year.
PRICES—In lots of ten or more, 60c each, by express. (If sent by parcel post, add 5e per copy.) Single copies, postpaid, 80c each.

ORDER DIRECT FROM

E. A. ELAM, Editor, DAVID LIPSCOMB COLLEGE, Nashville, Tenn.

Brother A. B. Lipscomb published a poem in "Current Comment" from an unknown author a few weeks ago that I will never forget. In describing faith, this author truly said:

"Tis the anchor that holds when the Drives the soul through a furious sea."

When the ship is on the sea and the tempest begins to drive it, the sailor weighs anchor, and the ship is safe just so long as the anchor holds. Just so with our soul. When the tempest of trials and persecutions begins to drive us, faith is the anchor that holds us to God, our only hope. So if the anchor holds, we will stand the tempest; and when it is over we will sail into the haven, to the joy of the "cloud of witnesses," all the more honored from having stood the test.

"Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved."

What is Fame?

"Fame is the perfume of heroic deeds." (Socrates.)

"Fame-a flower upon a dead man's heart." (Matherwell.)

"Fame is the thirst of youth." (Byron.)

"Fame, the sovereign deity of proud ambition." (Sheridan.)

"In fame's temple is always a niche to be found for the rich dunce, im-portunate scoundrels, or successful butchers of the human race." (Zimmermann.)

"The aspiring youth that fired the Ephesian dome outlives in fame the pious fool that raised it." (Colley Cibber.)

Hastening Evolution.

Put a boy born of gentle white parents among Indians, and he will grow up like an Indian.

Let the child born of criminal parents have a setting of morality, integrity, and love, and the chances are that he will not grow up a criminal, but into an upright man. ..

If a child with a vicious temper be placed in an environment of peace and quiet, the temper will change.

I am as certain of those great truths as I am of the great truths in the plant world. Put a plant into close quarters, without sunshine and room to grow normally, and vou'll get a hoodlum plant.

The only place hoodlums grow is in dark, dry, cramped surroundings. Change these surroundings, put a little love and care and sunshine into their lives, and you get opposite results.-Luther Burbank,

Renew your subscription to the Gospel Advocate.

INDEX TO VOLUME LXIII OF THE

COMPILED BY C. E. W. DORRIS

AT HOME AND ABROAD.

Page 20, 44, 64, 88, 112, 136, 161, 188, 208, 232, 256, 284, 304, 328, 352, 376, 400, 424, 448, 476, 496, 520, 544, 568, 592, 620, 640, 672, 696, 716, 744, 768, 788, 812, 840, 868, 896, 924, 960, 980, 1004, 1028, 1052, 1076, 1097, 1121, 1145, 1169, 1193, 1225, 1249, 1273.

AUTHOR UNKNOWN.

Near east relief campaign, 421.

CHURCH NEWS.

Page 24, 52, 72, 76, 100, 145, 172, 176, 195, 215, 268, 362, 461, 482.

CURRENT THOUGHT.

BY A. B. LIPSCOMB.

Sympathy with error, 43. What religion has done, 43. Blocking the war game, 100. Losing college boys and girls, 100. Making pictures, 100. Pastoral helpers, 143. The proper Lord's day, 143. Let them come down, 143. Influence, 331. The world's Bible, 231. Battleships or bread, 331. Religious transition in Spain, 331. Prayer, 360. Counter attraction, 360. Supporting the preacher, 360. My guide, 384, An editor's confidence, 384, The price of power, 384. Railroads critically sick, 408. Protestant invaders, 408 Suffering and anxiety, 408. The goal and the victory of life, 432. Teaching religion to children, 432. The need for preachers, 456. With Him, 456. Why this condition, 480, Quality, 480. Boycotting the minister, 504. Hurtfulness of Retaliation, 504. Buddhists oppose Salvation Army, 527. Church councils for disarmament, 527. Zeal without knowledge, 538. Memorial day and disarmament, 538. Respect for art, 562. Ennobling the sexual instincts, 562. Just like one of us, 562. All things to all men, 586. The bondage of fear, 586. Doing good for evil, 586. The Wells' new Bible, 610. The right to strike, 610.

The ascension, 610. New Bible for the blind, 634. The composed mind, 634, Reclaiming weeds and folks, 658. A programless church, 658. Peril of popularity, 658. Question-asking fad, 682. What resistence does, 682. Set on fire of hell, 682. The human wreck, 682. First failures not fatal, 682. How readest thou? 706. Attention, suffragettes, 706. Women required to dress modestly, Robbing the living to bury the dead, 706. The preacher and announcement, 730. Psycho-analysis and hell-fire preaching, 730. Sergeant York decides, 730. Exact and yet lax, 754. Reaching the masses, 754. Plows and autos, 754. But you don't, 778.
I am the immigrant, 778.
Ten reasons for going to church, 778.
Tell Him so, 802. You never can tell who's looking, 801. Price paid for position, 802. A truthful heart, 802. Something for your scrapbook, 858. Let us brighten our main street, 858. Why go to college? 858, 970, 994, 1018, 1042, 1066, 1090, 1114, 1138, 1162, 1186, 1218, 1242, 1266.

CONTRIBUTORS.

Abernathy, W. N. making laws where God made none, 104; straining out gnats, 1268.

Andrews, Sarah, home again, 443; re-port of funds, 458; Japan mission, 1220.

A Sister, God's forgiveness and ours,

639; forgiveness, 665.

Allen, J. G., vainglory, 725; echoes from the peace and unity number, 1002; God's blessings in disguise, 1221.

Allen, O. W., giving God glory in the church, 760.

Arms, John H., bless the Lord, 834; suggestions for thoughtful people, Adkinson, J. W., conversion, 989; looking backward, 1179. Adkisson, Loula, kindness, 1119.

Boles, H. Leo, Noah, a lonely vigi-lant, 58; the wrongdoer, 131; the bishop must be the husband of one wife, 155; a good confession, 262; the flood, 472, 635, 686; David's sin, 711; examples of sin, etc., 778; from glory to glory, 830; among the tombs of the great, 898; unfeigned love of the brethren, 915; Abraham in Ur of the Chaldees, 1095; Abraham in Ur of the Chaldee ham-his call, 1115; Abraham-why he is called, 1140; Abraham-his prompt obedience, 1243.

Borden, E. M., loyalty to Christ, 178; the image and the beast, 301; the kingly rights of Jesus, 467; the kingdom in Matthew, 616, 731.

Baxter, Batsell, Abilene Bible lecture week, 266; home coming, 511; second coming of Christ, 617; the greatest of all kingdoms, 645; Abilene's greatest year, 724; increase of skepticism, 80-word, 895, 804: reverence for God's Brigance, L. L., tribute to T. W. Thompson, 295; an unusual meeting, 460; broader conception, 826.

Bills, J. S., looking backward, 390. Berry, F. J., berries from my bush, 388, 412, 531, 675, 1000; shadow of Christianity, 972.

Bills, W. J., notes from San Antonio, 339.

Bunner, A. A., meeting at Jerry City, Ohio, 315; mission work in Cleveland, Ohio, 819; apostolic organization, 890; yearly meeting, 929; gospel trumpet blasts, 1033, 1282; concerning longevity, 1187.

Brents, J. W., two good women, 240; John B. Cowden's new book, 563.

John B. Cowden's new book, 200, 758; where history speaks, 888. Burton, Thomas H., what shall we do? 175; news from the Palmetto State, 434. Brown, John, thoughts, 152. Burton, E. G., G. Dallas Smith, 59. Brooks, Phillips, the great moment, 9; the temple of God. 296.

the temple of God, 296. Boyd, Mrs. B. W., the efficient Bible school, 529.

Bradley, J. R., Paul's attitude toward the sects, 604; who are sectarians? 733; communing with the sects, 916.

Barnett, J. N., Columbus, Miss., 630. Burt, T. Park, how will it read? 650. Benton, W. U., a mission meeting.

Burton, A. M., activities of Nashville churches, 709.

Bradley, I. B., the Japanese work, 803. 1141: tribute to a good woman, 1203. Bradley, Van A., preach the word, 838. Buchanan, C. A., avoid the first step of departure, 886. Barnes, J. O., Israel's fate, 890; work in Florida, 1136.

Broadus, D. T., the old paths, 894.
Borah, W. E., disarmament, 954.
Beasley, W. T., love for the truth 992; God's people are separate, 1277. Bentley, J. K., permanent work, 1025. Boyd, W., Fanning orphan school trustees meet, 1029. Behel, William, evangelistic labors, 1152.

Cuff, R. P., Jesus as a well-doer, 8; Gethsemane, 254; no night in the holy city, 420; the garden of Eden, 614; salvation on conditions, 948; work at Macon, Ga., 986; the gospel not in chains, 1029; our duty to encourage others, 1119; spiritual fires, 1139; must Jesus bear the cross alone? 1191, Clarke, Mrs. Jennie, Bell Haven or-phan home, 74, 220, 435; two or three orphan homes in Texas, 574.

Carter, W. H., between the extremes, 3; work this year, 128; do they understand? 227; be afraid and be not afraid, 322; who shall say about it? 539, 615; what they said, 660; return ye, 884; a righteous deed, 1219. Clements, J. D., and Sommer, A. D., an interesting correspondence, 86. Chessor, James E., "to whom shall we go?" 83; Christians as "lights in the world," 228; is it wrong to judge? 370; year at Burritt College, 518; the late love theory 500, the 518: the let-alone theory, 590: the sober, righteous, godly life, 659; churches, 842; the dead file, 918; heaven, 999; the growth of sin, 1070; the ladder, 1143; "let us alone," 1246.

Cutts, Charles A., more of the apostolic review work, 71.

Cayce, M. C., the work in Mississippi, 55; a journey, 75; the missionary Ford, 122; Mississippi notes, 150, 293, 344; making progress in Mississippi, 557; evangelistic work in Mississippi, 651; report from Mississippi, 725; gospel work in Mississippi, 771; Mississippi field, 1134.

Cameron, Ruth, the kitchen beautiful, 19.

Campbell, W. J., look on the fields, 102.

Campbell, R. J., not pain, but sin, was the soul's menace, 8. Cullum, W. J., another hobby brought in, 288; action of baptism, 626; witness of the Spirit, 818; walking with God. 895.

Cox. Frank L., what the cross reveals, 323; parents of Oklahoma and elsewhere, 904; authorship of the Pentateuch, 1167.

Cypert, Lillie, reasons for doing mis-sion work, 318, Craig, D. P., the spirit of the ancient order, 386.

Cowden, John B., letter to J. W. Brents, 755.

Craig, R. A., lodges and the church, 823.

Cuff, Noel B., seeing things, 829. Crouch, B. C., not in man to direct his steps, 886.

Cawthon, R. V., six thousand years old, 887

Chism, J. W., old paths, 919. Colley, A. O., the peace we need, 951. Crouch, C. D., commendation, 1120. Cockerell, Gertrude, endurance, 1268.

Drake, S. R., handicapped, 414; bap-tism of Jesus, 606; the word "church" defined, 687.

Derryberry, W., work with churches in Tennessee, 28.

Durst, John S., a restoration, 894. Deveny, J. M., giving, 815; the way of holiness, 1056.

Dunn, John E., a unique meeting, 8; the unfolding vision, 832.

Duncan, W. F., progress of work at Rome, Ga., 880.

Draper, D. F., angelic melody, 950.

Drake, S. R., true friendship, 1163. DeArmond, C. W., the only way of salvation, 1287.

Ellmore. llmore, A., wheat and chaff, 146, 197, 317, 411, 1281; old Baptist, 438, 508, 770, 886; paying the last debt. 1111; walking to the sea, 1163.

Evans, John D., Denver notes, 242, 270, 663, 702, 757, 836, 878; regeneration, etc., 889, 892, 952; echoes from the peace and unity number, 1002; the true and living God, 1022, 1067.

Ezell, J. P., passing of Mr. Edith Potter Allen, 313; meeting at Albany, Ala., 749; report from Cookeville, Tenn., 1238.

Exum, F. E., patience, 76; contend earnestly for the faith, 84; why Felix trembled, 179; companionship of Christ, 243; woman who learned, etc., 959.

Elmore, Alfred, a stirring incident, 517; the king's country, 611; bless-ing or curse of wealth, 707; providence, 973; reformers, 1183.

Elders of Williams Chapel, stirring up the members, 585.

Estes, J. C., the judgment, 835. Elders of Washington, D. C., from the elders of the church, 875. Evans, H. M., our move, 1211.

Fleming H. C., troubles, 2; the joy of forgiveness, 87; the archenemy, 203; the approach of death, 254; "understandest thou what thou readest? 373; pride, 396; warning quotations. 552; periods of life, 603; how do you think? 638; age limit, 663; the gospel power, 1163; knowledge of God. 1191.

Fry, John W., Tennessee Orphan Home, 142, 204.

Francis, J. A., salvation, 125. Freeman, W. W., Kamitomizaka progress, 54; intercongregational activities, 833.

Freed, A. G., ingratitude, 48; passing of a beautiful life, 1262.

Farmer, G. W., echoes from East Tennessee, 194, 223, 314, 438, 722, 878, 1236; report from Texas, 721; spirit of the reign of Christ, 945; a profitable investment, 1271.

Fuqua, E. C., Colorado not lagging, 221; a call to arms, 180; constancy. 491; tent meeting and the flood in Colorado, 565; their inspiration and complacency. 882; • tent ended, 936.

Flynn, T. S., is Idaho a part of the world? 560.

Fonner, F. P., notes from West Virginia, 822, 912.

Floyd, M. Jane, stop, look, and listen, 829; marriage and divorce, 1139. Farrar, L. T., a pleasant trip, 848.

ardner, O. W., Pacific Christian Academy, 60, 437, 795. Gardner, O.

George, A. M., teaching the Bible, 29; letter from Brother A. M. George, 58; an explanation, 347.

Glenn, E. N., a new missionary, 11. Gleaves, C. M., better vision of home, 832. Garrett, Lee, in unity there is strength, 947,

Holt, C. E., Christians, 251; wheat and tares, 397; flesh and spirit, 444; looking forward, 827; pleased with

Hall, John T., facts and musings, 196; paragraphs, 554; let us rise to higher ground, 1264. Hamilton, A. T., West Florida Mission, 147.

Hall, Flavil, notes from Florida. 31: the decalogue, 290; bring the good old Bible, 322; work at Tyner, Tenn., 553; don't becloud the Christian's faith, 564; the church, 636; building Jerusalem, 797; fishing, 863; how peace must come, 942; Ingersoll's "sillygisms," 972; a jewel and a pearl, 1220.

Hodges, Harry, the number seven. 30. Hammons, R. C., Cincinnati Mission.

Hinds, John T., some practical questions, 131; what shall we do about it? 732; vitals and incidentals, 943.

Hines, J. L., the eldership, 36. Hayes, John, things worth consider-ing, 98.

Howse, Mrs, P. M., woman's work in the church, 99.

Henley, J. Will, practices that should be abandoned, 289.

Holloway, S. W., the gospel needed,

Hull, Robert R., a call to repentance.

Hodson, Earl M., from the Book, 836. Hardeman, N. B., a visit to Colorado, 861; Freed-Hardeman College opening, 925.

Horton, Dr. J. J., the text, 944. Hoskins, Mrs. I. C., our Savior knew.

Harrel, J. M., duty, 1057. Hunter, Willie, preachers and preaching, 1063. Hart, B. F., tribute to a good man, 1237. Hines, J. H., work in Southern Alabama, 1240. Hall, W. Claude, four definitions of sin, 1272.

Jelley, E. S., everyday life in India, 279; correspondence, 344; the high castes in India, 533.

Jowett, J. H., crusaders, 219.
Jackson, Lee, "Babylon," 36; "preachers' meering," 541; the congregation as the body of Christ, 664; bond of unity, 942; Bible schools and other things, 1043; "in Christ Jesus," 1190; "the sin which so easily beset us," 1221; lesson quarterly for 1922, 1243; meaning of the word "church," 1270.

Jones, J. R., the church at Kennett, Mo., 71. Jones, H. W., between extremes, etc., 374; "first things first," 584; religious cranks, 734; greater vision of the word, 838.

Jackson, Leonard, a vision of youth,

Joynes, E. E., born in the objective case, 955.

Jeffcott, H. D., opportunity at Ackerman, Miss., 991.

Karnes, W. L., a happy time, 7. King, H. T., men's Bible class at Mc-Minnville, 469.

Kirk, Josie, disappointments are stepping-stones, 1269.

Kirby, H. L., church at Albany, Ala., 1135; what a picture, 1286.

Little, Fred M., an incident, 343; a Christion colony, 748; disarmament conference, 1116, Literary Digest, three preachers from pulpit to plow, 6; making the movies safe for the child, 183.

Lewis, John T., does the conclusion follow? 158; what does it mean? 443; all Christians are in the house of God, 490; the one-idea fellow, 863.

Love, E. C., the Pacific Christian Academy, 60, 415; home and school proposition, 462; observation on the way, 1091; the new woman, 1164.

Long, W. S., the cause in New York
City, 103; church in New Jersey,
128; more help for Washington, 1134. Lemmons, W. F., greatest evil, 274; the Montana mission, 488, 797, 1106.

Lawson, J. H., shall we lose the prop-erty? 296.

Lipscomb, H. S., commencement at David Lipscomb College, 600; David Lipscomb College, 670; Christian education, 860. Larimore, T. B., mountaineers, 742; criticism, 809; a great and a greater vision, 846; simply take God at his word, 901; some sad, sweet day, 1081. mission work in Langpaap, Max, mission we Honolulu, 880, 975, 1180, 1258. Lipscomb, David, Jr., a plea for peace,

Laws, C. B., give the young brethren something to do. 1269.

McDavid, Ella, gospel needed in Alabama, 199. McCain, George H., M.D., White's reply to Russell, 229; facts concerning Cornelius, 1220.

McCorkle, John E., Lemalsamac church, 879. McKee, G. W., work in New York City, 991. Marshall, C. A., more on the Santa Cruz matter, 170. Mozley, J. B., subject one to another, 430.

Miller, H., "faith is the eye," etc., 32.
Matthews, C. S., selections, 27.
Mills, E. V., giving alms, 389.
Moody, D. D., making a success, 495.
Miller, C. L., return to the Golden

Rule, 611. Miller, William J., can a bachelor be a scriptural elder? 724; ceasing to learn carnal war, 1285.

Malphurs, J. G., the let-alone theory, 728; a new congregation, 798. Martin, T. Q., Brother Sewell's Exegesis, 733,

Merritt, C. C., the Yanktonai Indians,

Mansfield, Lee P., the outlook in Texas, 904. Murphey, Dr. G. N., "white mule,"

Martin, D. A., evangelistic work, 1153.

Moody, R. N., report of work for 1921. 1261.

Moore, Ira C., comment on the quarterlies, 1277. Moody, W., work in St. Louis, Mo., 1281.

Maclaren, A., consider the conscious, etc., 18.

North, Lucas, a note, etc., 252. Nicks, Tommie, South Carolina work, Norred, C. A., unity of the Spirit, 955. Nelson, J. B., "crimson," 272; preachers vs. bandits, 436.

Neal, R. B., the Mormon-Christian war, 995, 1046; Sidney Rigdon and Mormonism, 1019.

Owen, Felix G., notes, 795, Oliphant, W. L., the Oilton meeting, 824; consistency, 997. O'Neal, G. H., the way of escape, 966; "hear ye him," 1061. Phillips, T. W., a word of warning, 341; notes, 342; the church at We-woka, Okla., 511; hobby riders, 940. Perry, Andrew, sunbeams, 199.

erdue, A. J., thanking Brother George, 198; notes from Holland, Ga., 607

Perkins, L. D., the California raisin, 32; California news, 127; work of an evangelist, 684; giving, 990.

Pryor, L. E., the old and the new, 29:

purpose, 126.

Phillips, H. M., reasons for obeying God, 26: how the blood is reached, 248; papers, preachers, and pickers, 392; how much shall I give? 674; God's plan for unity, 1107; why not? 1271

Paisley, J. O., "new digressives," 346; what two Baptist preachers said, 397

Proffitt, N. W., preparation, 577. Pennington, D., how many were baptized on Pentecost? 605.

Pittman, S. P., "from house to house," 635; silence is golden, 941; David Lipscomb College, 1021; meeting at David Lipscomb College, 1178.

Perry, J. A., sunbeams, 880.
Pearson, E. L., New York City, 1011.
Phillips, W. C., a cry from Athens,
Tenn., 1012.
Petry, C., how do men speak of you?

Phoebe, pleasing ourselves, 1071, Pryor, Paul I., the adoption, 1010;

faith, 1288.

Rice, John M., Holy Spirit and blood of Christ, 903.
Reaves, W. L., salvation by faith, 276, 324, 420, 566, 614, 707, 862.

Rightsell, L. T., anxiety for the end,

Rogers, R. A., evangelizing Saskatchewan, 23. Rains, W. R., which road will you take? 627.

Rogers, H. A., report from Canada,

Smith, F. W., L. R. Burress, again, 14: words of commendation, 47; book reviews, 63: shading and shaving the truth, 92: a new book, 108; a center shot, 118; "is baptism necessary to salvation?" 165, 192; a defense of Baptist doctrine, 211, 261, fense of Baptist doctrine, 211, 201, 453, 502; a visit to Abilene, Texas, 283; book reviews, 306; contending for the faith, 310; book reviews, 327; who or what is responsible? 335; the devil's church, 356, 381; the death of His saints, 405; a defense of the Baptist doctrine, 427, 475; has the day for religious discussion passed? 524; "a convincing argu-ment," 548; the young man's problem of higher education, 573; it all depends, 598; a word of commendation, 612; book reviews, 613; personal responsibility, 624; why seek to disguise a well-known fact? 644; first duty of life, 669: N. A. Riggins on baptism, 694; a good letter, 715; ignorance or meanness—which? 742; apostasy in China, 764; questions and answers, 786, 808, 867; a greater vision, 846; an Old Testament text explained, 883; better begin at home, 939; remarkable sermon, 979; R. H. Boll's kingdom theory, 1031, 1050, 1079, 1100, 1123, 1148; the "restoration movement," 1171; the "regional congress," 1197; questions answered, 1227; the tabernacle answered, 1227; the tabernacle meeting, 1254; the condition in which the society brethren find themselves, 1275.

cobey, James E., ambassadors, 39; "preach the word," 106; conscien-tious convictions, 205; power of God's word, 253; observants of Scobev. days, 446; more about the first day, 514; the perfect heart, 755; the thing uppermost, 831; the old paths, 884; some pleasant visits, 912; the perfect heart, 920; harmony, 946; peace and unity number, 1002; work accomplished, 1131.

Straiton, Nellie, about our mission-aries, 7: Ogawa San and another girl, 182; missionary work in Japan, 472; a stranger in a strange land, 532; coming home, 1141.

Sowell, F. C., beginning the work in 1921, 49; stand, walk, run, 203; think, speak, and live, 326; preachers and elders, 898

School-Teacher, a observations, 997. Smith, R. D., winter Bible class, 1062. Smith, Oscar, the soldier of the cross, Scott, Harvey, one loaf, 1001. Sterling, W. T., is there room for compromise? 995.

Smith, E. H., the menace of skepti-cism, 953.

Slayden, J. P., the cause at Savannah, Ga., 911.

Stafford, H. J., Gospel Advocate and the gospel of Christ, 874.

Smith, Earl C., Dasher Bible School, Sewell, C. W., 1 Cor. 3: 9-15, 661. Smith, Jarratt L., "vanity of vanities," Sewell, J. P., church in Washington,

D. C., 558. Smith, H. W., spare not yourself, 59.

Sims, W. P., a trip to Alabama, 841. Sewell, E. E., are the tares in the church? 107; where are the fares?

Schultz, W. A., E. N. Glenn and his Mexican mission, 166.

Shepherd, T. B., the gospel, 86; shall they go? 752. Srygley, F. B., the banner of the Baptist persuasion, 111.

Tant, J. D., among the churches, 123; danger ahead, 825; a visit to Nashville, 445; gospel in North Carolina, 530, 479; meeting in North Carolina, 631; does God allow an honest man to be lost? 666; more about North Carolina, 735; at home again, 803; explanation and apology, 971; in our new home, 1267; is it a command? 1267.

Thompson, T. B., money-hunting preachers, 509; work at Albany and Huntsville, Ala., 625; commenda-tory, 735; the cause at Palatka, 772; Calloway County work, 856.

Traylor, J. V. A., human responsi-bility, 35; thanksgiving, 218; "what is home without a Bible?" 275; the tongue, 683; love, 1086,

Tackett, Isaac E., old people's home,

267, 515; persecution, 515.

Taylor, John, "judge ye not what I say," 4, 298.

Thomas, W. H., the true test, 152.

Temple, Frederick, God's instruments,

Trumbull, H. C., patience, 245. Thompson, David, fruit bearing, 366. Taylor, A. A., China famine day, 396. Tallman, O. E., St. Catherine's June meeting, 637.

Taylor, Mrs. J. D., dreading death, 494.

Veteto, A. J., a report, 1182. Vanhoutin, J. J., first and second Adam, 1178, 1262.

Vaughan, C. J., the power of meek-ness, 322. Vandiver, J. W. "the sin of substitu-tion," 74. Vincent, C. G., a greater vision of missions, 859.

Whitfield, S., whom should we worship? 222: where I record my name, 433; life comes through obedience, 552; who should assemble? 654; darkness, 721; light, 968; things that should not be taught, 1034.

Whiteside, R. L. settling doctrinal questions by popular vote, 132; a point overlooked, 555; a good mixer, 587; an auditor's plea, 600. Wilkinson, U. G., did Jesus ever live? 10; notes on modern science, 1117; a letter to my brethren, 1237

Warner, Clara, what are we going to do about it? 1219.

Watson, J. T. J., parable of the ten virgins, 1005.
Watson, E. P., the work in Sedalia, Mo., 905.

Ward, L. M., help needed at Poplar Bluff, Mo., 749. Westbrooks, J. S., the sin of tattling, 484

White, R. C., elders, 458.
Williams, L. M., the situation in Tulare, Cal., 343.

Williams, John R., notes from West Tennessee, 51, 291, 316, 415, 484, 605, 771, 849, 905, 950, 985, 1204.

Wallace, Foy E., Jr., the task ahead, 51.

Wooldridge, C. E., Western Department, 94, 121, 169, 263, 306, 349.
Wylie, H. C., elders and bachelors,

X, shall we hold our schools to the original grounds? 971.

DEBATES.

Cullum-Hickman, 193. Rogers-Long, 216. Rogers-Long, 216. Curtis-Arceneaux, 338. Pippin-Thurman, 367. Porter-Wright, 757. Laslie-Willis, 988. Taylor-Scott, 1015. Nichol-Cayce, 1056. Joyner-Winkler, 1110. Horton-Brewer, 1153. Ing-Bogard, 1236. Howell-Bogard, 1238. Howell-Bogard, 1238. Tant-Clark, 1263. Phillips-Sadler, 27.

EDITORIAL. BY E. A. ELAM.

The great question to all, 16, Unity in Christ, 91. A more excellent way, 116. More about unity and peace, 139. Teaching the word of God diligently, 191.
A worthy cause needing help, 212.
Tother Srygley's most logical sermon, 235.
Work, 206, 282.
Why did Paul work with his own hands? 334.
Hugh H. Miller's work, 337.
"Always with grace," 355, 404.
Christian's relationship to civil governments, 378.
"Why callest thou me good?" 500.
Riches enter into the kingdom of Riches enter into the kingdom of God, 523. Regard for the word of God, 572. No regard for the word of God, 597. Fanning Orphan School, 623.

Compromise between truth and error, 668. How the Bible is lost to-day, 714. The sin in asking for a king, 740. Who are one's friends and enemies? Corrupting the word of God, 785. Handling the word of God deceitfully,

No greater vision, etc., 844. Perverting the gospel, 868. Statement, 1080.

BY M. C. KURFEES.

Are there no Christians in the de-nominations? 14. Where are the people of God? 67. Christians in the denominations, 114, Yes, certainly, "the conclusion follows," 162, James Knox Polk South, 210. Explanation from Brother George 347.
"Prove all things," 403.
"Mark them," etc., 451.
Changing the point of dispute, 499. David Lipscomb on Christians in the denominations, 546. Biblical interpretation, etc., 594 Flavil Hall's communication, 643. Cause of Christ at Gainsville, Ga., Power and influence of united action, 739. Marriage and divorce, 784. Man's vision, etc., 845. How to remain in the old paths, 901. Appeal from Shelbyville, Ky., 921. Peace and unity preserved, 959. Making compromise, etc., 1007. Catholicism, 1049. Review of O. E. Payne's book, 1097, 1146, 1194, 1251. An unkind thrust, 1228.

BY A. B. LIPSCOMB.

A visit to Louisville, Ky., 1. Good prospects at New York City, 1. What one congregation can do, 1. Why we can and why we can't, 33. The "if" that spoils and saves, 57. The witness of the Spirit, 57. Spiritual exercise, 81.
"See that ye hasten the matter," 105. The age of machinery, 105. When speed becomes a curse, 105, Don't crowd out the best, 105. The song religion, 129.
"I will sing of my Redeemer," 129.
The use of sacred song, 129. As the oracles of God direct, 130. A natural expression of joy, 130. The prevalence of sphinxes, 130. Sing it on any page, 130. Worse than the "Pilsener" shell, 153. Keep the tongue, 153, 154. A useful Roman proverb, 154. God writes and we write, 154. Remembrance, 174. Song of the three children, 201. A royal decree set to music, 201. Three young men "up against it," 201. The answer sublime, 201. The triumph of "if-not" faith, 202. Giving up faith on a pretext, 202. The fourth man, 202, How we need Him now, 202, The light of the world, 225. Healing the impotent man, 249. Going after them, 249. "Sin no more," 250. Our conception of God, 273. A fatally limited view, 273. His lowness easy to find, 274. How do you think of him? 274. The captivity of thought, 297. Mental carelessness, 297 The ideas that cling, 297.

Why the Bible is the greatest book. 298 Leaving out the conditions, 321. Ingratitude's deadening influence, 321. Gratitude unrestrained, 321. Need of patience, 345. Lesson on the leopard, 345. The ant, 345. Selling the birthright, 369. Two brothers compared, 369. A thing despised, 369. The appetite that ruins, 369. Catching condors and men, 370. Modern Esaus, 393. What is your birthright? 393. A profane person, 393. Our dependence upon God, 417. His witness is everywhere, 418. How we need each other, 418. How we need God, 418. I never knew his name, 418. Nature's revelations incomplete, 418. Nature's revelations incomplete, 418. My birthday, 441.
Turning points, 441.
Looking backward, 441.
"If you let go, I will," 442.
Redemption not a commercial commodity, 365.
Relation of works to faith, 365.
Evidence of faith, 365.
Getting acquainted with God, 466.
How to develop the soul, 466.
Good works, 466. Good works, 466, The hidden life, 489. Through bitterness and tears, 513. Heart cleaning, 537. A personal statement, 561. Perishing for lack of knowledge, 893. The he gossip, 938,

BY J. C. McQUIDDY. The duty of churches and preachers, Will not publish my article, 18. God's care for his children, 46. Must an elder be a married man? 47. Wisdom is justified of all her children. 66. The gospel should be preached, 90. "The field is the world," 115. Truth between the extremes, 138. A new book, 144.

Must a bishop be a married man? 163.

Sinking fund for the Gospel Advocate, 168. Patronizing picture shows, 190.
A vital faith in Christ, 234.
"Blessed are the pure in spirit," 258.
"Queries and Answers," by Lipscomb and Sewell, 281. The last words of Jesus, 307. Picture shows, 311. Humility, 333. Corpus Christi, Texas, 349. Take heed to thyself, 357. Christ died to redeem us, 380. For fair dealing, 402. The parable of the tares, 406. Peace, 426. Forgiveness, 450. Statement of position, 474.
Worship and praise, 498.
Work to restore normal conditions. Sin and disobedience, 547.
The annual meeting, 571.
Chenault's gift to David Lipscomb College, 574. God sees not as man sees, 595. Church pillar of truth, 622. Confession and forgiveness, 642. Buy the truth and sell it not, 667. Effect of sin, 693. Divine forgiveness and punishment. Texas-Oklahoma Department, 717.

The divorce evil, 738.

Reflections on sin, etc., 783.

Why young men shun the pulpit, 762.

MISCELLANY.

Page 12, 41, 69, 96, 120, 144, 160, 185, 213, 237, 264, 280, 311, 336, 361, 385, 409, 429, 457, 481, 505, 528, 549, 576, 601.

OBITUARIES,

Payne, L. H., 79. Lamb, John, 79. Batey, Kitty M., 79. Evans, Eva, 79. Lasley, Mrs. Sallie R., 79. Sweeny, Joseph 1, 79. Sweeny, Joseph L., 79. McRee, Mrs. F. J., 79. Cox, Mrs. Julia, 80. Hughes, Mrs. Tennie, 93. Hammons, Rosa B., 148. Bastin, Willie May, 148. Gregory, T. F., 148, Reagor, Mrs. Sidney, 149. Reagor, Margaret, 200. Jones, John A., 200. Anderson, Margaret, 200. O'Donniley, Lizzie, 200. Coffey, Marie Elizabeth, 200. Joyner, Ellen, 200. King, Henry, 217. Stivers, Thomas D., 217. Caldwell, Angie V., 217. Hare, Mrs. A. M., 217. Stark, J. B., 244. Cunningham, J. A., 244. Summers, Thelma, 244. Summers, Thelma, 244. Lifsey, Mattie, 244. Gomer, W. G., 244. Williamson, Maud, 244. Morrow, Sallie, 245. Thomas, Fordie, 245. Scott, A. T., 265. Billingsley, Lucy A., 265. Eby, J. C., 265. McCann, J. P., 265. Adams, Isaiah, 294. Southall, Mrs., 294. Adams, Isaian, 294.
Southall, Mrs., 294.
Wray, B. B., 294.
Criswell, T. A., 294.
King, Lucy, 294.
Richardson, Lenice, 294.
Wortham, Lexie, 295.
Reed, Martha C., 295. Tenpenny, Martha T., 340. Crews, Felicia, 340. McAdams, Mrs., 340.
McAdams, Mrs., 340.
Hodges, Nora, 340.
Allbritten, G. W., 340.
Davis, California Whig, 340.
Boyd, Mary E., 364.
Smith, Zea, 364. Smith, Zea, 364.
Compton, Bessie, 364.
Pierce, J. C., 364.
Brock, E. J., 364.
Duvall, J. A., 365.
Riley, Mary Ruth, 410.
Sherro, Joe, 410.
Ross, Mary L., 410.
Matthews, R. S., 410.
Taylor, J. F., 410.
George, E. N., 419.
Elam, Rachel Francis, 469.
Tindall, Lula, 486.
Agee, Dossie, 486. Agee, Dossie, 486. Agee, Dossie, 480. Dugger, Hessie, 486. Bates, W. E., 486. Cobb, Melissa, 486. Wilson, R. A., 487. Jackson, Barclay, 487. Harris, Rucker, 536. Nutt, H. E., 536. Florence, Laura, 536. Davis, Mrs. Georgia, 5 Florence, Laura, 536.
Davis, Mrs. Georgia, 536.
Askew, T. N., 536.
Worly, Monroe, 580.
Goins, Mrs. Anna, 580.
Allen, Mrs. Lucinda, 580.
Canter, Charles E., 580.
Scott, Susan P., 581.
Dodd, Emma, 581.
Nicodemus, J. H., 649.

Jones, Mrs. Ollie, 649. Setliff, Mrs. Nancy, 649. Meador, Mrs. A. R., 649. Glasscock, Ella, 698. Harris, Susie, 698. Harris, Susie, 698.
Coplin, Lonnie, 698.
Smith, Virgina, 698.
Grigg, Mattie, 699.
Scott, Thomas, 699.
Aldrich, Mrs. Myrtle, 773.
Lipscomb, Mrs. H. Z., 773.
Caldwell, Jeannette, 773.
Cunningham, J. S., 796.
Matthews, Martha A., 796.
Gates, B. F., 796.
Hammonds, infant, 796. Hammonds, infant, 796. Brooks, Louise, 796. Sweat, Edna, 797. Wright, Annie, 854. Horne, Virginia, 858. Sutton, Sarah, 854. Romine, Martha, 853. Scalf, Ruth, 853. Gowen, Mollie, 853. Hollins, T. A., 853. Parker, W. M., 930. Thompson, Florence, 930. Tarker, W. M., 930.
Thompson, Florence, 930.
Butler, Libbie, 930.
Walker, Mrs. W. P., 930.
Young, Mrs. W. P., 967.
Brummitt, Jennie, 967.
Swor, D. D., 967.
Smith, H. D., 967.
Jones, J. H., 967.
Jones, J. M., 1011.
Ring, Maggie, 1038.
Smith, Wilma, 1038.
Smith, Wilma, 1038.
Smith, Mrs. Lizzie, 1038.
Martin, Amanda, 1038.
Boyles, Mrs. J. A., 1039.
Kirkpatrick, William J., 1045.
Draper, E. P., 1060.
Robinson, Elsia, 1060.
Phillips, Mrs. Maud, 1060. Phillips, Mrs. Maud, 1060. Reagan, B. B., 1060. Puckett, Barbara, 1082. Fathera, J. R., 1082, Johnson, C. G., 1082. Lamb, Lessie, 1128. Horton, L. F., 1128. Blitch, Ernestine, 1128. Barron, Susan, 1128. Williams, Charles N., Allbritten, Ethel, 1128. Young, J. A., 1129. Lamb, Dessie, 1206. Riley, Annie, 1206. Baker, Willie, 1206. Sowell, W. T., 1206. Harlan, Mrs. Sarah, 1207. Clifford, M. A., 1232. Bunch, David, 1232. Hare, William Huston, 1232. Carman, S. A., 1232. Hoye, Mary E., 1232. Sims, Mrs. Gertrude, 1284. Sellars, Mrs. Avie, 1284. Hearn, L. Y., 1284.

PERSONAL NOTES.

Page 790, 815, 904, 928, 957, 1001, 1025, 1057, 1073, 1096, 1125, 1175.

POETRY

Bryant, Emily J., a prayer, 347. Carey, Alice, doing as we would be done by, 17. pperson, Clara Cox, behind the clouds, 166; smiles, 250; bits of verse, Epperson, 445; mistakes are stepping-stones, 828; autumn poems, 1075. Evans, C. V., the Christian pilgrimage, 10; take heed, 1058. Gillilan, Strickland, my father, 330. Gunn, J. D., the penalty, 118. Ligon, D. S., we are facing another new year, 1276.

Martin, Adelia, get right with God, 130; resurrection day, 277; the heavenly theme, 695. Maxwell, Kate A., the woman, 421. Monsell, J. B., the resolve, 553. New, Frederick W., the promised land, 358. Vaughan, R. G., the home of the soul, Sours, B. F., praise, 262. Poarch, Mrs. T. L., a glad new year, 9; inscribed to Brother E. G. Sewell, 202. Singleton, Mrs. Nellie Elnora, the pen and the sword, 2; a fellow's mother, 19; to-morrow, 84; the ship of life, 227; friends of long ago, 276. Stowe, H. B., abide in me, 337. Shook, Herbert L., repentance, 324. Wilkerson, Sallie, the stranger and the song, 1115. Webb, Margaret Ely, the shepherds, 488. Wells, Amos R., the Bible thought, 485. Yates, J. H., out of the East, 525.

QUERY DEPARTMENT. BY J. C. McQUIDDY.

Angel reapers, etc., 22. Knowing our loved ones in heaven, 22. Bodies prepared for us in heaven, 22. Can a man live a true Christian and be a Mason? 97.

Can an elder moving from one congregation to another be an elder in the congregation to which he moves? 97.

Can one be an elder after a second marriage? 97.

Is it possible for a man to be the husband of one wife and not be married? 97.

What did Christ mean when he said to leave all, etc.? 97.
Would it be wrong to accept any-body's money, etc.? 119.
Secret orders, etc., 119.

Should one not a member of the church be permitted to teach in Bible schools? 119.

Is it right to worship with Methodists? 119.

Does the word "selah" mean God? 167.

Did Christ partake of the wine, etc.?

Did Christ give thanks for both bread and wine, etc.? 167.

What is meant by the word "supped?" 167

Wicked spirit led Christ into the wilderness, 167.

Should a Russellite be called on to dismiss a congregation, etc.? 187.

Can an elder confess the sin of another to the church for him? 187. How do you "confess your faults one to another?" 187.

How should the loaf be made? 207 Withdrawing fellowship, 207.

Can one offend without speaking? 207. Is it wrong for Christians to labor for profit on the Lord's day? 207.

Should the Lord's day be kept as sacred as the Jewish sabbath? 207.
What was the tribute money for? 238.
Harmonize Acts 9: 7 with Acts 9: 22,

Human creeds, 238. Sin against the Holy Spirit, 238. Duty of Christians where there is no congregation, 238. Criticisms, 332. Foot washing, 332. "Drink ye all of it," 332.

Living without sin, 399,

Reading the Bible, 806, Correct vision of the church, 843. Infant baptism, 866.
Some of God's oldest institutions, 900. Caring for orphans, 926. Righteous peace, 958. Elders, 978. Statement of position, 980. Change of editors, 980, Preach the word, 1006. Love, 1030. An explanation, 1039. Encouragement, 1048. Opposed to war, 1051. Another editor, 1053. Rending the body of Christ, 1078. The literature situation, 1080. Cancellation of Elam's notes, 1092. Reading the Bible, 1100. Partyism, 1122. Unity in sentiment and action, 1147. Qualifications of an elder, 1170. The church, 1196. Asia watching Christianity, etc., 1226. Price of Gospel Advocate reduced, 1228. Tennessee Orphan Home, 1254. Best wishes for our readers, 1265. Growing in circulation, 1272. Handling aright the word of truth, Prospectus, 1276.

EXTRACTS.

The courage of faith, 8. Diotrephes, 287 Gems of thought, 287. Why Billy was a favorite, 455. The blessing of a good home, 857. So much to do, etc., 914. We shall be like Him, 969. The eternal goodness, 993. Shrinking from exposure, 1018. Personal evangelism, 1032. The supremacy of love, 1041. We can't afford it, 1044. Faith, 1045. Worldliness, 1060. Worth remembering, 1062. Try, try again, 1065. Gen, John J. Pershing's message, 1089. Why we need and must have Christian schools, 1093, Church notices in daily papers, 1103. "The sin of suppose," 1113. A father's prayer, 1137. The curtain falls, 1161. Reverence for God's word, 1168. Tiny tapers, 1172.
Positive Christianity, 1172.
Real helpfulness, 1181.
"My peace give I unto Thee," 1186. A benediction for the new year, 1285. What is fame? 1288. Hastening evolution, 1288, "Ye shall find rest," 5.

EXCHANGES.

Wasted time, 255.
Walking with God, 276.
Movie abuses a "national calamity," 299.
Loneliness, 445,
"An ounce of prevention," etc., 463.
The law of a king, 557.
Living the true life, 604.
The unexplored remainder, 609.
Fear not, 631.
Christian standard of success, 633.
Immortality of goodness, 657.
Bryan on the Bible, 681.
The majesty of the law, 705.
The problem of educating our children, 708.
The tongue, 729.
How about your eyes? 753.
Make plain meaning of Christianity, 765.

Prayer, 777.

If you were busy, 801.

Persuasion, 823.

Just common humanity, 824.

Only cure for war, 941.

Foreigners, 1124.

FIELD REPORTS.

Page 506, 510, 534, 556, 583, 602, 608, 628, 652, 656, 677, 680, 700, 703, 726, 728, 746, 750, 752, 774, 792, 817, 820, 850, 854, 876, 906, 931, 962, 984, 1009, 1012, 1014, 1036, 1059, 1084, 1104, 1108, 1129, 1132, 1154, 1158, 1184, 1204, 1233, 1234, 1260, 1280.

GEORGIA AND THE FAR SOUTH-ERN FIELD.

BY B. C. GOODPASTURE.

Page 40, 63, 87, 108, 135, 156, 180, 206, 231, 277, 326, 348, 398, 423, 471, 494, 517, 542, 589, 664, 687, 712, 760, 833, 834, 885, 917, 949, 1092, 1142, 1157, 1165, 1192, 1248.

HOME READING. A little boy who was a missionary, 42.

Taking care of them herself, 42.

Antiquity, 42. But once, 70. The acorn brothers, 70. Dream ships, 95. The rainy-day visitor, 95. A boy in fact, 95. Forces of evil, 95. Return, 159. Safety at last, 159. Laughter that hurts, 159. Learn to listen, 159. Little sparrow's bedtime, 186. Phoebe, 186.
The bridges, 186.
A good motto, 186. A good motto, 186.
Little brother of all, 214.
"I'll try again," 214.
Popularity, 214.
Getting along with folks, 214.
The tie that binds, 239.
A contrast, 339.
How a little Eskimo knows her age, 239. The red-headed boy, 286. A tired little worm, 359. A friend for the princess, 359. An old lane, 383. Junior's revolt, 383. Little crosses of Brittany, 383. A man's duty, 383. Gems of truth, 383. The city, 407. How a town was saved by a clock, 407. The great elm, 407 What to learn, 407. The turkey's nest, 431. A woman, a garden, and a little boy, 431. My nest, 479. I never thought of mother, 479. Bed of marbles, 479. The race, 503. Vincent's neighbor, 503. I "can't" and I "will," 503. The mothers of men, 526. Polly's day of fun, 526. Old mothers, 551. Would you have answered? 551. Which would be worse? 551. Where was mother? 551. Ask yourselves, 551, An overdose of school, 551. The never old, 567. The church pig, 567.
The house with the golden windows, 567 A parable of a prodigal father, 567. A boy's best rule, 618. Bringing in the bucket, 618.

Let down the net, 618. The burden bearer, 647. Enthusiasm, 647. Diamonds of truth, 647. Real religion, 647. Somebody's birthday, 671. Parent as teacher, 671. How animals bear pain, 671. The child Jesus, 671. A bird song, 690. The easy way, 690. Studying native timber, 690. Secret of success, 719. Secret of success, 719.
Studying our atmosphere, 719.
Bearing defeat gracefully, 719.
Social responsibility, 719.
In the garden of the Lord. 743.
Finding the thief, 743.
The moral risk, 743. Color of the nuts, 766. When Jerry filled the church, 766. The magic word, 766. Get a transfer, 782. Get a transfer, 782.

Mrs. White goes shopping, 782.

Laughing birds, 782.

A joyful jingle, 811.

Making friends with the birds, 811.

Up in the attic, 811.

Mother's hour, 871.

The twilight story hour, 871.

A riddle that solved itself, 871.

The land of storybooks, 922. The land of storybooks, 922. Impersonation, 922. Friendship, 922. A child, 982. How big is a house? 982. A substitute for worry, 982. The divine exchange, 982. Mother, 1003.
Gray kitten that lived in a tree, 1003.
Cheats himself, 1003. Why can you blow out a candle? 1003, Carrying things to Carrie, 1027. A real man, 1054. The little soldier, 1054. The common fault, 1054. The rainy day, 1074. A present for Ann, 1074. Playing the game, 1074.
The smallest soldier, 1102.
Cleanliness of animals, 1102.
Which was the wiser? 1102.
Talking in their sleep, 1126. Fishing with a short line, 1126. An ant funeral, 1126. Wonderful beavers, 1126. Old ways are best, 1144. A shot, etc., 1144. The book immortal, 1144. The fussing place, 1176. The new leaves, 1176. The reckless risk, 1176. How the great guest came, 1201. Annette's golden hours, 1201. I will not doubt, 1230. Seed time and harvest, 1230. Elizabeth Fry, 1230. She would never say "please," 1250. An insight, 1250. Hallowed memories, 1250. Opportunity, 1278. The love of country, 1278. Voicing our gratitude, 1278.

LOS ANGELES NOTES. BY S. H. HALL,

Page 5, 38, 61, 85, 110, 134, 157, 184, 205, 230, 278, 300, 325, 350, 372, 395, 422, 446, 470, 493, 518, 540, 588, 612, 638, 662, 686, 710, 759, 805, 830, 938, 974, 1020, 1068, 1094, 1118, 1166, 1188, 1222, 1224.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The new dress, 19. A carload of presents, 18. The Master's vineyard, 446. Did Jesus and his disciples take the passover supper? 399. Is feast of passover and unleavened bread same? 399. What does feast of unleavened bread celebrate? 399. Did Judas partake of the Lord's Supper? 399. What were the fruits the Pharisees were to bring? 430. Was Christ the Word, etc.? 430. Was Christ crucified on Friday? 430. What was Paul's thorn in the flesh? Who were those in the dispersion of 1 Pet. 1: 1? 430. Withdraw from those joining secret orders, 454. Was Judas at the table? 454. Harmonize Gen. 15: 13-16; Ex. 12: 40; Gal. 3: 17, 454. The Greek preposition "eis," 474. Is the Bible account of creation the oldest? 478. Storm cellar, 478, Expressing thanks for the loaf and cup at once, 478. Deacons, 550. Lord's day contributions and preachers, 550. Knowing each other in heaven, 570 Woman's position in the church, 570. Husband and wife giving jointly, 619. Creeds and confessions of faith, 619. Mixing the sacred with the worldly. 646. Baptism and the confession, 646. Division in the church, 646. Withdrew from the church, 646. Translators of the American Version. etc., 718. What is the rock? 718. Elders settling questions, 718. Difference between soul and spirit, 718. What to do to become a Christian, 870. Where was the church when Campbell was born? 870. Last days, 870. Punishment, 870, What sins are to be confessed? 923. Ice-cream suppers, 923, Confessing sins, 923. Dancing, 983. Joining miners' union, 983.
The publican's prayer, 983.
Contradictions in the Bible, 1026.
Collections before or after the supper, 1026. Recognizing brethren, 1055. Instrumental music, 1055. Revelation explained, 1055. Carrying emblems to the sick, 1055. Single immersion, 1055.

Valid baptism, 1055.

Selecting elders, 1077. Christians and State Fair, 1077. Playing tennis, 1077. Debating on Sunday, 1127. State Fair, etc., 1127. Difference between faith and belief. 1127 Clanish elders, 1173. What does "debate" in Rom. 1: 29 mean? 1173. Presbyterian preacher conducting singing school, 1173, Taking the Lord's Supper with the "Christian church," 1173. Answered query corrected, 1199. Sins of the father, etc., 1199. Sabbath day abolished, etc., 1231. How many authorized to haptize on Pentecost? 1231. Born of water and of the Spirit? 1231. Plan for doing mission work, 1279. Christ's sheep, 1279. Job 1: 6-119 Job 10: 9-167. Prov. 26: 4, 5—119, Isa. 65: 20, 25—332, Isa. 28: 14, 15, 18—474, Isa. 28: 16—478, Isa. 65: 23, 24—923 Isa. 62: 1, 2—1199. Isa. 65: 15—1199. Isa. 26: 19—1279. Hos. 13: 14—1279. Matt. 25: 41-46—22, Matt. 1: 16—167. Matt. 17: 14-21—167. Matt. 27: 3-5—187. Matt. 9: 16—375. Matt. 9: 10—573. Matt. 24: 41—1127. Matt. 12: 31—1231. Matt. 27: 51-54—1279. Mark 16: 17, 18—167. Mark 16: 17, 18—167 Mark 9: 42-48—923. Mark 1: 15—1026. Luke 16: 8, 9—570. Luke 18: 34-36—718. John 20: 22—22. John 13: 1-7—478. John 14: 12—619. Acts 1: 18—478. Acts 2: 4—478. Acts 2: 4—478. Acts 3: 19—550. Acts 2: 21—1026. Acts 9: 15—1199. Rom. 6: 23—22. Rom. 9: 17-23—923. Rom. 8: 26—1026. 1 Cor. 3: 10-16—375. 1 Cor. 7: 10-16—938. 1 Cor. 14: 34—938.

Cor. 14: 34—938. Cor. 15: 29—938.

Eph. 2: 8, 9—22. Col. 3: 3—570. 1 Tim. 5: 9—239.

2 Tim. 3: 15-17—3 Heb. 10: 25—1127. Heb. 6: 6-1077 Heb. 10: 26—1231. 1 Pet. 3: 19—375. Jas. 2: 1-10. John 1: 8—351. John 5: 18—351. John 9; 31—375. John 1: 7—570. John 3: 6-1127. Rev. 14: 10-923. Rev. 16: 3—351, Rev. 21: 27—870.

RELIEF FUND.

BY A. B. LIPSCOMB.

Page 9, 40, 61, 108, 168, 204, 253, 309, 337, 423, 471, 517, 545.

SELECTIONS.

Christ's presence within, 4. As a man thinketh," 77 They that are Christ's, 78, Righteousness, peace, and joy, 78. He that wavereth, 93. Paying the price, 152. Study the Bible, 156. Thoughts, 172, 192. A call to the Christian patriots of America, 182. An incident, 229 God's surprise, 236. Put the blame where it belongs, 761. Those who succeed, 236. Humility, 11. About prayer, 49. Seven Chinese proverbs, 49. President Wilson's gift, 248. Pleasant people, 271. "A builder of good foundations," 330. The secret girding of God, 367. Why I go to church on rainy Sundays, 416. Selections, 416. Happiness, 437. Thoughts compiled, 485. Selected, 488. Paragraphs, 553. The courage of faith that wins, 761.

TEXAS-OKLAHOMA DEPARTMENT.

BY C. R. NICHOL.

Page 720, 734, 767, 790, 814, 848, 872, 902, 927, 956, 976, 1000, 1024, 1072, 1096, 1125, 1150, 1174, 1200, 1229.

AMONG THE COLORED FOLKS.

Page 78, 125, 199, 828, 319, 411, 678, 748, 828, 911, 987, 1040, 1083, 1130, 1177, 1259, 1283.

